Aid cutoff to Marcos okayed by panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — With strong bipartisan support, a House panel voted unanimously to cut off aid to the government of Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos and await a legitimate government that has the backing of the Philippine people.

Filipinos still would receive humanitarian and economic aid under Thursday's House action, but it would be channeled through the Catholic church and other non-government organizations.

Most military aid would go into an escrow account to await "a legitimate government ... which commands the support of the people of the Philippines," the bill said.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the United States would be represented — at the most — by only a third-level embassy official at Marcos' inauguration, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 25. Such a move would be a diplomatic slap in the face to Marcos.

Vice President George Bush attended Marcos' 1981 inaugural and praised the Philippine leader for his "adherence to democratic principles."

In its 9-0 vote Thursday for an aid cut-off, the House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs overrode objections of the Reagan administration, which wanted it to wait until special presidential emissary Philip C. Habib returns from Manila to report on his talks there.

But subcommitee chairman Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., said quick action was needed to make clear to Marcos that the United States "will not countenance a stolen election."

He said it would "send a message to the Philippine people that the United States has withdrawn its support for the Marcos regime while continuing its support and assistance for the Philippine people."

The bill now goes to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which is expected to take it up soon. Solarz said the full committee would have time to hear Habib — who is not expected back before Monday — before it acts.

Solarz said he had been assured by an intermediary earlier in the day that the legislation has the support of presidential opposition candidate Corazon Aquino, who has charged that fraud by Marcos and his supporters deprived her of an election victory.

"Mrs. Aquino supports the legislation ... and feels it reflects her own view about how the United States can contribute to the restoration of democracy in the Philippines," Solarz said.

SRIFA, Lebanon (AP) — The Israeli tanks that pounded Srifa during a four-hour fight with Moslem guerrillas, reportedly returned to action today around this southern Lebanese village that Israel says is a stronghold of radical Shiite Moslems.

The village became the focal point of the Israeli military sweep on Thursday, when Shiite guerrillas staged a ambush.

'Buggy' play set at WTC

"The Backyard Story" — a musical children's theatre production aimed at adults as well — will open a four-day run Friday in the Fine Arts Theatre on the campus of Western Texas College.

Stars of the show will be "bugs" — each with their own personality traits, beliefs, prejudices and, through a combination of accents, nationalities.

When these bugs feel like breaking into song, they will be accompanied by "toe-stepping" piano music created for the show.

Jim Rambo, WTC director, says children will enjoy the play because of the costumes, which will suggest such characters as Panama Fly and Flora Flea; and the set design, sized to the perspective of a bug with mushrooms 6 ft. tall.

Adults will enjoy the puns and satire of the play's dialogue, he said, as well as the characterizations of the individual "bugs."

The play was originally produced and written by Charles Pascoe, professor of creative dramatics at Southwest Texas State University.

For the local production, WTC received permission for its use.

The local run will include three evening shows and an afternoon matinee at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. The nighttime shows Friday, Saturday and Monday will begin at 8 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $2 for children and reservations may be made by calling the box office at 573-8511, ext. 234.

Appearing in the "Backyard Story" as Panama Fly and Errol Fly — one from the Midwest and the other Great Britain — will be Terry Hunter of Kermit.

Ramona Murphy of Snyder is Octavia, a spider from the Midwest; and Ollie Carrol of Snyder is April May Junebug, a soft southern belle.

Ken Livingston of Seminole is Spider Sivak, who speaks with a Yiddish accent; and Dalila Carrasco of Big Lake offers a

Sentenced to 40 years...

Jail escapee pleas, transported to TDC

Domingo Zapata Martinez — who escaped from the Scurry County Jail Jan. 29 to be recaptured 14 days later — was given two 40-year prison terms Thursday in exchange for guilty pleas to charges stemming from the escape.

The 31-year-old Martinez pleaded guilty to one count of felony escape from custody and one count of aggravated robbery in 132nd District Court.

He had been indicted for those offenses on Feb. 3 while still at large.

Martinez was recaptured in Lubbock by authorities there based upon information provided by Scurry County sheriff's department investigators.

The additional robbery charge against him was filed in connection with his taking a sheriff's office walkie-talkie during the escape.

At the time, Martinez was awaiting transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections to serve a 35-year term assessed after he was found guilty of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle on Jan. 22.

Both Martinez's original 35-year term and the 40-year terms given Thursday will be served concurrently.

He was removed from the Scurry County Jail and taken to the the state prison Thursday evening by deputies.

Realty firm new in city

The Carriage Co. Realtors is now open for business in Snyder. Specializing in residential real state, the realty company is operated by Sue Birdsall at 3100 Beaumont.

Birdsall has been in real estate for the past five years. She became associated with Carriage Co. Realty in March of 1981. While with the firm, a branch of the Carriage Co. in Midland, she has been listed with the million dollar club.

The local operation opened its door two weeks ago and Birdsall said she plans to move into an office in the future.

She is married to Richard Birdsall, manager for Chevron's north gas plant located on the Clairemont Hwy. They have three grown children.

The couple lived in Snyder before, moving away in 1978 and returning this year.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Men rarely reform. As they grow older, they just become more selective in their devices."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

When Congressman Charles Stenholm visited Snyder a couple of weeks ago, he said a new buzz word in Washington is "NIMBY."

NIMBY is an acronym for "Not In My Back Yard." It seems that every one wants to get the federal budget and deficit in line, but at someone else's expense–thus the term NIMBY.

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, says if you're concerned that all the budget cut talks might miss the fat and get into the muscle, you might consider the following:

"The government's 1986 budget is almost $1 trillion or about $4,200 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

"If you think there's no place left to cut, consider:

"1. Procurement regulations in a single government agency now total more than 30,000 pages. This over-regulation goes a long way toward explaining purchases of $435 hammers, $659 ashtrys, $640 toilet seats, and $7,400 coffee makers.

"2. Most federally funded mass-transit systems cost between $50 million and $100 million per mile to build. This compares to the San Diego transit system–constructed without federal assistance–which cost only $6 million per mile.

"3.The government requires up to four years to order and install automated data processing equipment. The private sector takes less than half that time.

"4.The government spends an average of $3.5 million a day on inland waterways. Businesses that use these waterways pay only $100,000 a day--the taxpayers recover 3 cents on each dollar the government spends.

"5. In 1984, the government paid $177 million to wool producers, while the total value of the wool produced was only $62 million.

"6. Between the ages of 30 and 50, federal civilian employees are 50 percent more likely to retire with disability than are private sector employees.

"7. Federal specifications for a "rodent elimination device"–a mousetrap to you and us–ran 102,000 words or about 200 single-spaced pages.

"It's easier to live with the mouse than to comply with the government specifications."

School week plans begin

An expanded range of activities are now in the planning stages at each Snyder school campus to mark Texas Public Schools Week in Snyder March 3-7.

In conjunction with the Texas Sesquicentennial, school districts will be utilizing the theme "Celebrate Texas Education."

Other local features will include special invitations to both parents, grandparents and friends to visit the youngsters on specified days during the lunch period.

The various campus spelling bees — used as the preliminaries for the county spelling bee — will also be conducted during the week.

Snyder school teachers are also expected to receive special praise as part of the activities. These plan are under the direction of local campus parent-teacher organizations as well as the district itself.

Analysts: ruling good for Texaco

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal appeals court decision has strengthened the bargaining position of Texaco Inc. in its multibillion-dollar legal battle with Pennzoil Co. over the acquisition of Getty Oil Co., industry analysts said.

But the chairman of Pennzoil said he disagrees with that assessment, suggesting that he is willing to either negotiate or go back to court and let the chips fall where they may.

A three-judge panel of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit ruled Thursday that Texaco would not have to post a $12 billion bond while appealing a Texas court verdict that Texaco improperly interfered with a merger agreement between Pennzoil and Getty.

In upholding an earlier ruling by a federal judge, the panel said the $1 billion bond ordered by the judge in White Plains, N.Y., was sufficient, and that Pennzoil could not attach liens to Texaco property while Texaco goes through the appeals process.

At its White Plains heaquarters, Texaco issued a statement saying it was pleased by the appeals court decision.

It "confirms Texaco's ability to appeal the judgment of the Texas State District Court through the Texas appelate courts without the burden of an oppressive bond and liens." said John K. McKinley, the company's chairman and chief executive officer.

In Houston, Pennzoil Chairman J. Hugh Liedtke told The Associated Press that he joined McKinley in being delighted that the case would move forward through the Texas courts.

On Wall Street, Texaco closed up ¼ at 29¼. Pennzoil closed up 1⅛ at 57⅞.

American housewife sharing hardships

HARIS, Lebanon (AP) — The 27-year-old American woman wept as her husband described how Israeli troops rounded most of the men in this southern Lebanese village and "some never came back."

"I'm still scared," she said, hugging her 18-month-old daughter as two Israeli warplanes crashed the sound barrier overhead, causing sonic booms that rattled the windows of her neat home.

The woman, from Meadville, Pa., and her husband, a young Lebanese businessman she met in Sierra Leone, West Africa, agreed to talk to reporters on condition their names not be used.

He was working in Sierra Leone to save money and open a shop in his native Shiite Moslem village. She was with the Peace Corps. They came to Lebanon three years ago.

They and their baby are now among hundreds of families living in fear in the picturesque hilltop village overlooking terraced olive groves, orchards and vegetable fields.

Israeli soldiers launched a large-scale raid into southern Lebanon on Monday to hunt for two captured comrades. They were helped by scores of militiamen of the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, who U.N. sources and local people accused of going on a looting rampage after the Israelis stormed Haris on Wednesday.

Dear Abby

Country's Cold Stereotype Heats Up Canadian's Anger

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you in the hope that this might appear in your column and educate some of your readers about Canada. I live in New Liskeard, Ontario, and every time I go to the United States, I get fed up with some of the people who think there is snow falling up here 365 days a year—that Canadians live in igloos, travel by dogsled and dress like lumberjacks. I met a girl in Alabama who thought Canada was one of the states in the United States!

We have beautiful summer weather when the snow disappears and is replaced by temperatures in the 80s or 90s. I don't know anybody up here who has ever traveled by dogsled. We dress like most Americans, and live in houses just like you do.

Why are you people so ignorant of us? The farther south I travel, the more ignorant the people are. Canadian schoolchildren learn about your country in school. Why don't your schools teach your children about us?

ROBERT S.,
ANNOYED CANADIAN

DEAR ROBERT: Obviously the ignoramuses you've met in the United States are confusing Alaska with Canada. We do teach our children about Canada—but apparently we're not doing a very good job of it. I hope this inspires some of our schoolteachers to familiarize their students with our good neighbors to the north. They have long been our best friends.

DEAR ABBY: You told "The Woman He Pushed Aside" that unless he was hypnotized or kidnapped, he was a free agent, thus perpetuating the common myth that a person in a hypnotic trance can be made to do things against his basic nature. This is not true. If it were, a criminal could be "made" not to break the law, lazy people could be "made" to be productive, and I would be a lot richer.

HYPNOTHERAPIST

DEAR HYPNOTHERAPIST: Men and women are not by nature monogamous, they are polygamous, so a man who has vowed to be forever faithful to one woman can conceivably stray while under a hypnotic trance since it is human nature to do so.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who has baby-sat since I was 14 to earn money for college. I am reliable and really like children. Some places where I baby-sit I am expected to clean up the kitchen, do the laundry and even the ironing. I am never told that I have to do these extras—the lady just says, "After the kids are asleep, maybe you could do this or that?"

I never get paid extra for doing these things, but I always end up doing them anyway. I rarely watch television; I either do my homework or read because I want to be able to hear the kids if they wake up and need me.

If you print this, maybe it will help other sitters who have the same problem. Thank you for a whole lot of sitters.

ANYTOWN, U.S.A.

DEAR ANYTOWN: Cleaning up the kitchen and doing the laundry are domestic duties that no sitter should be expected to perform without extra pay. Sitters, stand up for your rights! When you accept a job, it should be clearly spelled out what your duties will be.

City could have avoided damage fee

BORGER, Texas (AP) — City councilmen met in emergency session to discuss a letter that indicated the city could have avoided almost a million dollars in damage awards by accepting a settlement offer in a wrongful death suit.

The suit filed in the death of 6666 Ranch foreman James Grandstaff is still being appealed by the city. Only a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court would prevent a $1.4 million judgment.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld the award to the wife and two sons of Grandstaff.

Tough sentence is handed down

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Tarrant County jury has sentenced a Fort Worth woman to nine years in prison, the maximum sentence, for alcohol-related manslaughter.

The jury of six men and six women set the punishment Thursday for Theresa Ann Adams, 41, after deliberating about 2½ hours.

The sentence was then approved by District Judge Charles Dickens.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today the sentence was a departure from the punishment given in the seven DWI-related involuntary manslaughter cases handled last year in Tarrant County court.

The Star-Telegram recently finished a series of new stories about county court handling of DWI convictions.

In each of the cases handled last year, the newspaper reported, judges and juries assessed probation for each of defendants. Two defendants spent several weekends in jail, but none was sent to jail for the 120 days prescribed by law.

Adams pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and causing the death of Eva Paulette Whitener, 22, March 29, 1985, in an automoible accident in nearby Arlington.

Under Texas law, alcohol-related involuntary carries a prison sntence of two to 10 years and a mandatory jail term of 120 days if probation is granted.

Prosecutors asked jurors not to grant the probation Adams had requested.

"Today, you are going to set a standard that will be used in the future in determining what is appropriate punishment," Assistant District Attorney Greg Pipes told jurors in his closing argument.

Several jurors stopped to comfort Sandra Colburn, Whitener's mother, as they left the courtroom.

"I'm sorry somebody had to get this stiff a sentence, but I hope this will get the point across," Colburn said. "I would be very dissappointed" by a lighter sentence, she said.

Saying the verdict did not surprise him, Judge Dickens told the jurors their decision "proves something to me, that the citizens of this county are very concerned about justice."

Defense lawyer Sharon E. Giraud called the sentence "a little harsh."

Reagan says U. S. has no plans to use force

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, warmly received in his first visit to Grenada since sending invading troops there to block a communist takeover, says he has no thought of similar action in Nicaragua.

"I think it's an entirely different situation," Reagan told reporters Thursday as he posed for photographs with Sir Paul Scoon, governor general of Grenada, during a four-hour visit to the island nation.

"So you're ruling out use of U.S. force in Nicaragua?" Reagan was asked.

"We never had any plans for such a thing," he answered.

Addressing an estimated crowd of 20,000 or more Grenadians at a playing field that was a command post during the 1983 invasion, Reagan indicated, however, that he plans to keep up the pressure on Nicaragua's leftist government.

"Today, in Nicaragua, we see a chain of events similar to what happened here," he told the Grenadians, who chose a democratic government after Marxist Prime Minister Maurice Bishop was murdered by fellow leftists, paving the way for the U.S. invasion.

"I will never be sorry that I made the decision to help you," said Reagan.

The president laid a green wreath, wrapped in lavender ribbon, at an oblong-shaped granite memorial to the 19 U.S. servicemen killed in the invasion.

The audience that jammed Queen's Park in St. George's, the Grenadian capital, interrupted Reagan's speech with applause more than two dozen times.

Society hears lyric poetry

The Scurry County Poetry Society met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Byrant at Ira for their February meeting. President Garnet Quiett presided and Janelle Burk gave the invocation.

Presenting the program on lyrics were Sherry Byrant and Christine Killgo.

Byrant told the history of lyric poetry, telling those attending that lyric poetry has been used by men of all the ages. Lyrics was one of three general catagories of poetry---the others being narrative and dramatic. Most complete writing evidence of early lyric activity were by the Egyptians who sang elegies and odes to their kings. The Hebrews sang lyrical songs in their religion along with the timbrel and dance. Byrant read, "The Bluebirds" by Thoreau, and her poem "Bloom Where You Are," as examples of lyric poetry.

Killgo read David's, "Elegy Over Saul and Jonathan" from I Samuel 1: 19-27, as an example of lyric poetry in the Old Testament. Another example being Miriam's song after the crossing of the Red Sea by the Israelites; it was a tradition for women of Old Testament times to sing, play music and dance when the Israelites won battles. An example is I Samuel 18: 6-7.

In the poetry reading session, Dorothy Cox read her poems, "I Believe," "My Surroundings," "Walking on Holy Ground," "A Cozy Fireside Evening" by Byrant, "Success and Flight" by Burk, "Return to Planet Earth, Phantom City" and "The Dollhouse House" for little visitor, Natosha Swaim.

Visitors of the society were Genie Grizzle, Betty Swaim and daughter, Natosha and Grace Byrant.

Members enjoyed a buffet dinner at the close of the meeting.

Marketing tests

NEW YORK (AP) — Test markets are cities that represent smaller versions of the United States in terms of average age, income, number and size of ethnic populations, and other demographic features.

An advertising agency here maintains a list of 42 of the best test markets. They are used to try out new products. If a product does well in one or two test markets, marketers figure it will be a hit nationwide.

Club plans for bake sale

Members of Patchwork Squares Extension Club learned many ways to use an overlock sewing machine when they met Tuesday for their February meeting in the home of Kathy Roberts. Mrs Roberts, extension agent, demonstrated using the machine and showed the women various items she had made. They also viewed a very informative video tape.

During the business meeting conducted by Ruby Clark, president, the group decided to disburse money they had made at the 1984 Fall Bazaar with donations to the Scurry County 4-H program, the Noah Project and the Texas State Extension Homemakers Adult Scholarship Fund.

Anita Matthews, council delegate, reported to the group on the council meeting held on Jan. 29. She informed the group of a bake sale planned for March 22.

Joyce McCoy was selected as the club's nominee for voting delegate to the district meeting in Floydada in April.

The club selected programs for the remainder of 1986. Eight members and one guest, Peggy Remington, attended.

Israelis spare no efforts in search for missing troops

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — To Israelis, it is only natural that their army is conducting door-to-door searches through dozens of southern Lebanese villages to look for just two captured soldiers.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres told a conference of lawyers here Thursday there was probably no other army in the world that would go to such lengths for only two missing men.

"I'm not sure that any normal army would do the same," he said. "I regard this effort to check out every place, every scrap of information in the hope of discovering the whereabouts of two young men, as....one which expresses our attitude towards the value of human life and dignity."

The massive search operation the Israelis have carried out this week in southern Lebanon, backed by helicopter gunships and tanks, also demonstrates the power they can muster against any real or perceived threats from the territory they vacated last year after a three-year occupation.

Last June, when Israel withdrew the bulk of its forces from southern Lebanon, Peres, Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other senior leaders warned that they would not hesitate to return in force if the guerrillas attacked Israelis.

The two Israelis captured Monday were ambushed about four miles north of the border in what Israel calls its "security zone." As many as 1,000 Israeli soldiers remained in this narrow buffer strip after the withdrawal.

An anonymous telephone caller told a Beirut newspaper that the fundamentalist Shiite Moslems who seized the soldiers had killed one of them Wednesday night because the Israelis ignored a demand to withdraw.

He said a photograph of the victim would be released Thursday, but it had not turned up by nightfall, and there was no other proof of the claim.

Israeli newspapers reflected the consensus in this nation of 4.2 million for an all-out effort to find the soldiers. But such a public display of sensitivity is an Achilles heel on which Israel's enemies can play.

"Every beginning terrorist in the Mideast today knows how sensitive Israel is to the fate of the captives, and what pressure families of captives can put on the government," military affairs writer Ron Ben-Ishai said in the daily Yediot Ahronot.

Lebanese guerrillas have used acts of terror to try and influence Israel's policy in southern Lebanon since last June 14, when Shiite extremists hijacked an American TWA airliner and demanded the release of Shiites imprisoned in Israel.

On Sept. 10, 1985, Israel freed the last of the more than 1,100 mostly Shiite inmates from the Atlit prison in northern Israel. Although their release had been demanded by the hijackers, Israel denied any concession had been made to the terrorists' demands.

McLarty, McFarland to get DAR awards

Kima McLarty and Brent McFarland will be honored Saturday with the Good Citizen Award presented by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Martin Preuitt Chapter of the DAR makes the award to a senior girl and a senior boy at Snyder High School each year in recognition of "the demonstration of the qualities of dependability, leadership, service and patriotism."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn McLarty, Kima has been involved in numerous activities during her high school career.

A choir member for four years, she served as choir secretary during her junior year and currently serves as president. She is also a member of "Swingers" — a group chorus.

Kima has also been a student council representative for the past four years, serving this year as the group's secretary.

During her freshman year, she was named class reporter. She became class president as a sophomore and served as vice president while a junior.

A volleyball player the past four years, Kima served as team captain this year. Also as a senior, she participated in girl's track.

In her senior year, she was named president of the Lucky 13 Club and secretary of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She has also been a member of the National Honor Society for two years.

She plans to major in business while in college.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McFarland, Brent participated primarily in sports and agriculture during his high school career.

A member of the Future Farmers of America, he served as the local chapter's vice president and is a recipient of the Lone Star Farmer degree.

He garnered the Winston Award and a $100 scholarship to Western Texas College during the Scurry County Stock Show.

A member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Brent received honorable mention as an all district offensive tackle. He is also a member of the National Honor Society.

DAR members plan to present the awards during their George Washington Tea set Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in the Ray Courtney home, 2312 31st St.

Agriculture may be recovery key for Vietnamese

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the decade since unification of its war-torn North and South, Vietnam "is still a nation searching for recovery," an Agriculture Department report says.

A key to recovery may be agriculture, and in recent years Vietnam has made some progress, boosting food production an average 8 percent a year from 1976 to 1984. But the report added that heavy foreign debt, lack of investment capital, raw material shortages and Vietnam's continuing occupation of Cambodia are major obstacles.

"There has been some progress in increasing rice production and replanting rubber, but the rebuilding of basic industries has been an uphill fight," according to Leslie Ross, an economist in the department's Economic Research Service's international economics division.

Ross supplied the information for the report, which was published this week by her agency in Farmline magazine.

Hampering Vietnam's agricultural and industrial growth is a continuing dependence on imports, a slowdown in export growth and low foreign exchange reserves, she said. The Soviet Union and other Eastern European nations are Vietnam's main trading partners.

"Even though Vietnam will receive about $2 billion worth of Soviet aid this year, the aid will not offset Vietnam's deteriorating financial position," Ross said. "Export volume rose 29 percent in 1982, but only 9 percent in 1984."

Ross said that some of Vietnam's political actions, including its occupation of neighboring Cambodia, have resulted in the cancellation of foreign aid from China and Western Europe. With a population of around 60 million, Vietnam maintains the world's fourth largest army.

The farm sector is Vietnam's major export earner and a major supplier of the country's processing industry. Other than rice, crops include corn, peanuts, tea, rubber, coffee and sugar.

But Vietnam agriculture is still largely unmechanized. Better water control is needed, and an acute fertilizer shortage threatens productivity gains. Also, a streamlined bureacracy and better economic planning are needed, the report said.

Some decentralization of government authority may take place, Ross said. Meanwhile, consumer subsidies are being reduced. Those are the largest single government expenditure, amounting to 7 percent of the 1984 total gross domestic product.

"In the last 10 years, Vietnam has started the process of rebuilding the economy and has had modest success," she said. "But more foreign trade, technical assistance and economic reform are needed if that growth is to continue."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat packers and processors, represented by the American Meat Institute, are launching a series of regional meetings to help head off the Reagan administration's bid to charge user fees for federal meat inspection.

The meetings, announced this week by AMI officials, also will include discussions of price reporting and industry initiatives for boosting consumer demand for red meat.

Briefings for packers and processors will be held in April in Cincinnati, Chicago, Omaha, Denver and Philidelphia.

Meanwhile, AMI President C. Manly Molpus, has informed Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., by letter of the industry's opposition to user fees, which it calls a meat tax.

Weight loss and diuretics

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am taking Hydrodiuril for my blood pressure. I have taken it for nine months so far and I can't seem to lose any weight. Is it doing any good?

DEAR READER — The initial weight loss most people experience when taking a diuretic (kidney stimulant) like hydrocholorthiazide is due to excretion of excess body water. The weight loss will not continue after your fluid balance reaches a steady state. Nonetheless, the medicine will usually continue to reduce your blood pressure. Therefore, you will know the drug is effective only if your hypertension is controlled; the weight loss is largely immaterial. I should add that not all people will lose weight when they take diuretics.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have "attacks" that start out as a tingle in the inside corner of my right eye, and my eye starts to water. I get severe pain there, the eye becomes swollen, and eventually my whole head starts to pound. My upper teeth ache, my ear aches, there's a loud humming in my whole head and the pain is excruciating. I've had four episodes in the five years. They last three days. My doctor says it is an accumulation of pain sensation from all over my body that has localized in my eye. Do you have any idea what could cause this? I'm not a hypochondriac, nor have I ever had mental problems. I do live with stress, since I have two teenagers and we farm for a living.

DEAR READER — Your symptoms suggest the possiblity of a vascular headache of the migraine type. Ask your doctor to refer you to a neurologist. If you are having vascular headaches, the specialist will be able to diagnose them and recommend appropriate treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I hope you will tell your readers about the dangers of chewing tobacco. Besides being a filthy, addictive habit, it's harmful.

DEAR READER — Chewing tobacco is a harmful habit. Unfortunately, it is gaining popularity among adolescents who want to be "macho." Smokeless tobacco is a recognized cause of mouth and throat cancer, aside from its very social disadvantages. Your concerns are well-founded.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband and I can no longer have sexual relations because it's too painful for him. He won't discuss it with me and won't go to a doctor. I notice that he has blood in his urine and I feel that this is something to be concerned about, but he doesn't. What condition could cause these symptoms?

DEAR READER — Your husband may have an infection or a tumor. He definitely requires medical evaluation. Perhaps he is afraid of what the doctor may find. If so, he can be reassured that no matter what the condition is, modern treatment is usually very effective either in curing ailments like his or in reducing their symptoms.

Mergers receiving scrutiny

NEW YORK (AP) — Unless the government says otherwise, Coca-Cola Co. and Pepsico Inc. alone will control more than 80 percent of the U.S. soft-drink market, which totals $30 billion a year.

The two companies, already the industry's dominant players, are poised to reach that level via proposed acquisitions of their closest rivals.

Coke announced Thursday it had agreed to buy fourth-ranked Dr Pepper Co. for $470 million, and Pepsico agreed last month to buy No. 3 Seven-Up Co. for $380 million.

The Reagan administration has been relatively lenient in allowing much larger mergers to go through. But because the proposed Coca-Cola and Pepsico acquisitions would give them overwhelming joint command of their market, some industry and legal observers predicted the deals would receive close scrutiny from antitrust officials.

"They really ought to take a look at this," said Charles Brown, attorney general of West Virginia who is vice chairman of the antitrust committee of the National Association of Attorneys General and a former Federal Trade Commission lawyer.

Other analysts, however, said the government might ignore market share if it believes the mergers would not reduce competition.

Fontenot calls charges farce

LIVINGSTON, Texas (AP) — After three days on the witness stand, school principal Hurley Fontenot remained unshaken in his contention that he is innocent of killing a football coach.

Prosecutors on Thursday attempted to shake Fontenot's alibi by showing he failed to take investigators to a pond where he said pine bark chips collected under his truck.

Similar bark pieces were found in the area where the body of Billy Mac Fleming was discovered 10 days after he was last seen April 12, 1985 with Fontenot at Hull-Daisetta Woodson Junior High School, where both men worked.

Fontenot, 48, is accused of killing Fleming, 36, because both men were rivals for the affections of school secretary Laura Nugent. Fleming died of two .22-caliber bullet wounds to the head.

Prosecutors contend Fontenot carried Fleming's body in the back of his pickup truck and dumped it in a wooded area. Fontenot insists he was en route to a Houston airport to pick up his daughter at the time the coach disappeared.

His daughter, who Fontenot said was coming home to get some furniture for her Austin apartment, never arrived.

In his third day of testimony Thursday and first time under cross-examination by District Attorney Peter Speers, Fontenot said he did not show officers the fishing hole after authorities asked him where he might run over pine samplings with his truck.

"I did not see the significance of this," Fontenot said.

Speers also asked Fontenot how traces of human blood showed up in the camper shell of his pickup truck.

"I have no idea where that blood came from," Fontenot said. Later in the day, however, Fontenot explained that the blood came from garbage containers that included his wife's sanitary napkins and his own vomit that contained blood. Fontenot's health problems, including a heart attack and bypass surgery, have been cited as reasons why he could not have frequent sex with Mrs. Nugent, whom he had dated occasionally for about two years.

Speers also noted that the furniture Fontenot says was intended for his daughter remained at Fontenot's house. Asked why it was not yet moved, Fontenot replied, "I've been busy trying to prove this farce. It's been nothing but a farce. I'm trying to defend myself according to the laws of the United States of America."

The defense rested its case Thursday after calling seven character witnesses who testified Fontenot had an excellent reputation within the community. The witnesses, who included former Fontenot students and coworkers, said they were aware of a previous drunken driving charge against him. Despite the objections of defense attorney Dick DeGuerin, prosecutors also questioned each witness whether they heard Fontenot carried a pistol in his truck, but each denied such knowledge.

Haynes offering to aid residents

PHILLIPS, Texas (AP) — More than 500 residents cheered when Houston lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes told them he is willing to represent them at no charge in an eviction battle against Phillips Petroleum.

Residents in this town of 1,500 have been given eviction notices by Phillips, the town's largest employer and landlord to most.

The oil company operates a large refinery near here and leases the land on which hundreds of homes are located.

Hermleigh students score well on computer tests

Four Hermleigh Junior High students participated in the third annual Computer Literacy Contest recently. Results received this week from the December contest are as follows:

Sixth grade: Rebecca Ramey, 13th place.

Seventh grade: April Blair, 21st place; Andrea Smith, 30th place.

Eighth grade: Crystal Church, 16th place.

Over 3,000 students from 232 participating school took part in the state-wide contest.

Battered home satellite industry begins offensive

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The once-booming home satellite TV industry, whose sales skidded with the advent of scrambling by Home Box Office and similar plans by other cable networks, is regrouping to fight off the threat.

About 1.5 million Americans own dish antennas to receive satellite signals, with 600,000 of those sales made last year before the boom went bust.

Sales reportedly have plummeted more than 50 percent since Home Box Office began scrambling its signals last month, although industry officials refuse to be specific. HBO's move was followed by announcements from nearly two dozen other cable TV services that they also plan to scramble their signals.

The scrambling, begun under pressure by local cable companies disturbed at the growth in the number of people buying satellite dishes to receive cable TV programming free over the air, has thrown the market into chaos, industry spokesman Taylor Howard said Thursday.

"We've been beaten very hard," said Howard, chairman of SPACE, the industry's trade group, who likened the campaign to "crisis control."

"The marketplace is very confused," he said. "People who might have bought before are now waiting."

More than 10,000 delegates attending the SPACE-Satellite Television Technology Inc. convention here decided Thursday to hire a public relations firm to brush up the industry's image, Howard said.

"We've never been against paying for these channels," he said. "We just want it done right, with free competition in the marketplace so the rates will not be out of line with what people now pay for cable."

Howard said SPACE plans to air a "very positive campaign to educate the public" to the advantages of satellite television.

"The market has been turned sour by essentially bad press," he said. "We want to show the public that there are still many advantages to satellite television."

Dish marketers like to point out that up to 100 unscrambled channels are still available, despite the planned scrambling of so-called premium channels and such advertiser-supported channels as the sports-oriented ESPN and Cable News Network.

Town is split over decision

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — Victoria Independent School District trustees have voted to oust a sex education consultant in a feud some say concerns religion and other maintain is about course curriculum.

The controvery began after complaints were aired that sex education consultant Joan Robinowich advocates abortion and masturbation as a form of accepted birth control. But supporters and friends say the complaints came because Mrs. Robinowich is Jewish and not because of her teachings.

Following a public hearing in January, the Victoria school board suspended Mrs. Robinowich's classes.

Only Board President Jay Lack came to Mrs. Robinowich's defense Thursday night, voting to keep the current program operating.

School board member Steve Bennett, who led the crusade to oust Mrs. Robinowich, denies her religion is involved.

"The issue is clearly one of parent involvement in what their children learn in school," he said. "We didn't know what she was teaching. Her being Jewish has nothing to do with it."

Mrs. Robinowich will not discuss the interest in her religion.

"Whatever else happens, I hope we can keep the issue on the level of educational curriculum — what's being taught in the class," she said.

Mrs. Robinowich is employed by Health Education Services Inc., a part of South Texas Family Planning Education Services, a federally funded non-profit corporation in Corpus Christi that offers sex education consultation free of charge to schools in seven counties surrounding Victoria.

The schools may voluntarily use her as a teacher consultant to augment the state-mandated sex education classes in grades seven through 12. Student participation also is optional, with parental permission required for a student to take the class.

On another vote Thursday night, the board voted 4-3, to have a committee of teachers only to review and decide sex education curriculum.

Bills could set standards for removal of asbestos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key members of Congress are trying to force the Reagan administration into a two-pronged attack on deadly asbestos — first in public schools, then in hundreds of thousands of other buildings.

Headed by Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., and Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., the bipartisan group on Thursday introduced legislation that would require the Environmental Protection Agency to set standards for the safe removal of the cancer-causing substance.

The first target is some 31,000 public schools, where the EPA says asbestos could be threatening as many as 15 million children and 1.5 million school employees.

Identical bills introduced in the House and Senate would require EPA to prescribe methods for identifying, removing and disposing of asbestos that is crumbling and releasing life-threatening fibers into the air.

The legislation, taking aim at reports of shoddy removal work that increases the dangers of asbestos exposure, also would require EPA to establish minimum performance standards for abatement contractors.

But the proposal goes far beyond the well-publicized problem of asbestos in schools.

It also would require EPA to assess the extent of asbestos hazards in an estimated 700,000 commercial and public buildings and to demonstrate to Congress why the requirements for schools should not be applied to these structures.

Florio and Stafford told a news conference that the schools program is especially needed because EPA has done little beyond adopting a regulation requiring schools to inspect for asbestos and to alert people to its presence.

"No one concerned other than EPA thinks this EPA regulation is sufficient," said Florio, chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee that will work on the measure.

Stafford is chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee that will oversee the Senate bill.

Under the plan, EPA would have six months after enactment to set a variety of standards, such as how school officials should inspect for asbestos and just when its presence is considered a health hazard.

If the agency failed to act, the proposal would define hazardous asbestos as any visibly damaged asbestos that has a potential for human exposure and would require its removal from a school.

"EPA estimates that as much as a stunning 75 percent of all school cleanup work is being done improperly by 'rip and skip' firms," Florio said. "Improper abatement work is worse than no abatement work at all because more asbestos fibers are released into the air ... than if the asbestos was not touched."

Ask The Preacher

"...about the Christian Sabbath"

By Randall Gray

The Hebrew word, "sabbath" means, literally, "rest," and it refers to the Jewish holy day of rest, established in the Law of Moses (Ex. 20:8-11). This day was clearly set forward as the Seventh day of the week which we, of course, call Saturday.

The holy day for Christians, however, is seen in the New Testament to be the First day of the week, Sunday (Acts 20:7). There is nothing taught in the New Testament about Christians being made to take Sunday for a day of rest, however. The idea that all labor, of any kind, is wrong on Sunday–is simply false.

Thus, there really is no such thing as the "Christian Sabbath." Sunday (called "the Lord's day" in the New Testament) is a special day in the week for Christians, set aside for a memorial service (communion) and formal worship together with other Christians.

WTC Dusters blast Frank Phillips with first-half scoring spree, 94-66

Western Texas' Dusters held Frank Phillips to a single point for a four-minute period of the first half here Thursday night, then went on to dump the Lady Plainsmen 94-66 in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference ballgame.

The Dusters led by nine, 26-17 when freshman post Brenda Welch scored with about eight minutes left in the half. Frank Phillips' Gloria Thomas gave the Lady Plainsmen a free throw at the 8:37 mark, but the visitors didn't score again until four minutes were left in the half.

By then Welch had added eight points, Pam Cox 3 and Wendy Milner 1 as Western outscored the Plainsmen 11-1 over the four minutes.

After enjoying a 20-point halftime advantage of 48-28, Western didn't let up. Coach Kelly Chadwick's crew scored 13 straight points to go in front by 31, 73-42 in the second half.

Welch, despite her 5-10 size, scored 21 of her game-high 29 points in the first half. Four of her second-half points came during WTC's 13-point spurt.

"I thought we did a pretty good job offensively tonight," said Coach Chadwick, whose Dusters improved to 22-7 with the victory. "Defensively we got a lot of pressure on the ball and I thought our half-court defense and our presses bothered them."

As a result of the 30-plus point lead, Chadwick was able to interject all available players into the game. Only Shelly Hayes, who is suffering from a leg injury, didn't see action. Nine of the girls scored.

True to form, Welch's 29 was backed by solid scoring from sophomores Pam Cox and Angela Jeans. Cox notched 19 while Jeans popped for 15.

The Dusters also got 11 points from Diana Quincy.

"I thought Diana had her best ballgame of the season," said Chadwick. "That's important because this is the time of year when you want to be playing your best."

Sandra Boyd, a 5-11 sophomore, led the Lady Plainsmen with 25 points. Gloria Thomas notched 10 while Cathy Bartels and Holli Welborn added 9 apiece.

Chadwick praised the Lady Plainsmen, who drop to 9-14 on the season and 2-8 in conference play.

"They were pretty hard to guard. They have big kids and some quickness and they do a good job with their man-to-man offense," he said.

The Dusters, who vault to 8-2 in conference play, entertain Clarendon at 6 p.m. Saturday. They can wrap up second place in the conference with another victory.

"Clarendon is really playing well," said Chadwick. "I'm expecting a tough ballgame from them. They have as good a point guard in Aretha Brown as there is in the league."

Guard play powers Westerner triumph

Western Texas College used its advantage in quickness to zip past Frank Phillips midway through the first half here Thursday night and cruise on to a 94-62 victory.

The win, Western's fifth straight, leaves Coach Phil Spradling's bunch at third place in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference with a 9-4 record. Western Texas can clinch a berth into the upcoming Region V Tournament with a win over Clarendon here Saturday.

Coach Spradling cautioned that the Westerners will have to play well against the Bulldogs, however.

"This was a big win for us but we've got to get ready to play Clarendon now. It's going to be a tough game. We'll have to come out and be able to break the press because I think they are going to press the entire ballgame. That's what they did up there (at Clarendon)," said the coach. "We went to overtime with them in that one and I'm sure they feel they can come to our place and steal one away from us. From everything I've heard, they are a stronger ballclub than when we played them before."

Western nipped the 'Dogs 89-83 in the game at Clarendon.

Tipoff Saturday is scheduled for 8 in Scurry County Coliseum.

Here Thursday, Frank Phillips sagged its defense inside early and dared Western to score with its guards. It was a dare that the Westerners were glad to accept, though.

"Sometimes you get more points from your people inside and sometimes it's the outside people. You take what they give you," said Spradling. "They were packing it in inside so our guards made the difference outside."

The game belonged to Western all the way, though FPC stayed close for the first seven minutes or so. WTC led 14-10 when John Lewis picked the pocket of Plainsmen guard Rob McAlmont and put up an easy two points. Moments later the 6-1 freshman from Lubbock was rolling another shot through the nets on the fast break. He was fouled on the play and hit his free throw shot to give Western a 19-10 advantage with 12:13 left in the half.

Western scored the next six points to push to a 15-point lead. George Moore entered the act moments later and got a pair of buckets and Ed Teal cashed in from four-foot to add another.

The result was a 23-6 swing for the Westerners, who celebrated a 21-point lead with 6 minutes still to go in the half.

Spradling substituted early and frequently in the ballgame. Eleven players saw action and 10 of them put points on the scoreboard - led by freshman guard Alvin Lee, who cashed in for 20.

"In a game like that players tend to lose their concentration and that's when you get somebody hurt. I wanted to get everybody some playing time, plus we sure don't want to get anybody hurt at this time of the season," the coach said.

Western continued to dominate in the second half and went ahead by 30, 71-41, when Kevin Scroggins hit a free throw with 8:45 left in the game.

James Dawn put in 15 points for Western, now 18-8 for the season, while Lewis scored 13. Scroggins came off the bench for 10 points and Alvin Hicks scored 9.

The Westerners were an unofficial 37 of 74 from the field and hit 20 of 25 free throws - paced by Dawn's 7-of-7 display.

Frank Phillips, which fell to 6-20 overall and 1-12 in WJCAC play, got 16 points apiece from Glenn Hayes and Ted Hammond. McAlmont added 13.

The Plainsmen were 29 of 72 from the field.

Cougars slam dunk Bears; face tougher test Saturday

HOUSTON (AP) - Rickie Winslow says it's fun to dunk the basketball and he had a good time in Houston's Southwest Conference basketball victory over Baylor.

Winslow had four dunks in the 77-70 victory over Baylor Thursday night.

"Anytime you are having fun in a game you play better. I always have fun dunking," Winslow said.

But he was quick to add that the "fun" will end quickly as the Cougars face Louisville in a nationally televised non-conference game Saturday, but he thought Thursday's victory will help.

"This (the victory over Baylor) will be good for our confidence," Winslow said.

Winslow will have to confine his action Saturday to the bench as he will be out because of a one-game suspension for unsportsmanlike conduct in a game against Texas Tech at Lubbock earlier this season. Starter Renaldo Thomas sat out the Baylor game and will miss Saturday's game because he got a two-game suspension from the SWC.

"I will be on the bench, but I will also be our biggest cheerleader," Winslow said.

Alvin Franklin, who scored 22 against Baylor, said "everything worked" against the Bears. But he predicted a tough game against Louisville.

"Saturday will be a big test for us. Louisville is going to press us and try to get into a running game," Franklin said. "We're going to have to play a ball control game and slow it down."

In addition to getting 22 from Franklin and 16 from Winslow, the Cougars got 15 from Greg Anderson.

Daryl Middleton scored 18 for the Bears. Cougars, while the Bears were led by forward Daryl Middleton with 18 points.

The Cougars improved their overall record 13-10 and 7-6 in SWC games. Bayulor fell to 9-16

Jaybirds put an end to Ira playoff hopes

GAIL – Jayton outpointed the Ira Bulldogs in the second half to win a Class 1A bi-district playoff game here Thursday, 53-50.

Ira, 15-10, had taken a 10-6 lead in the first quarter and was in front 29-23 at halftime. Jayton put on a press that humbled the Bulldogs somewhat in the second half, however.

The Jaybirds rallied to take the third quarter 14-11 and the fourth 16-10.

Stacy Forbes led Ira with 17 points. Jay Clark scored 10.

Ricky Martinez's 22 points paced Jayton which also got 13 from Trey Richey and 10 from Pat Hamilton.

Jayton, 18-4, will advance to meet Loop, a 56-54 winner over Wilson, in an area playoff round.

In another game played here Thursday, Roscoe punched Spur 54-50 and will advance to meet heralded Southland. Southland slapped Dawson 61-42.

Maryland shocks top-ranked 'Heels

by The Associated Press

After beating top-ranked North Carolina, Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell was in a reflective mood.

The Terrapins, down 72-71 in overtime, used Len Bias' jump hook with 1:51 left and Keith Gatlin's four points in the final seven seconds for a 77-72 ACC victory over the Tar Heels Thursday night.

Now in his 17th year at Maryland, Driesell's teams have been invited to the NCAA playoffs or NIT 15 times. Those teams included the likes of Tom McMillen, Len Elmore, John Lucas, Buck Williams and Albert King.

But Driesell's success against North Carolina and Coach Dean Smith has been limited.

"Thirty-five points more and we'd be 20-19 against North Carolina," Driesell pondered in the Maryland locker room after the victory. "That's since I've been coaching."

As Maryland coach, Driesell was 7-26 against Smith (prior to Thursday), while the remaining losses came while Driesell was at Davidson.

"Not too many teams beat the No. 1 team on their home court," said Driesell. "As a matter of fact, we've beaten a lot of number one teams in the country, but I don't believe we've ever beaten one on the road."

Elsewhere among Top 20 teams, No. 19 Michigan State upended seventh-ranked Michigan 74-59; No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas routed New Mexico State 92-75; No. 12 Bradley outlasted Drake 88-79; and No. 15 Indiana nipped Illinois 61-60.

With 2:58 left, Brad Daugherty scored on a dunk and the Tar Heels held their biggest lead of the second half at 68-59.

"We got behind ... and came back and went up," Driesell said. "The whole ball club played with poise."

Bias, who finished with 35 points, then went to work.

He canned a perimeter jumper, then stole the inbounds pass and jammed it in to get Maryland within 68-63 with 2:45 left. Jeff Baxter added a layup and the deficit was three.

Joe Wolf scored all of North Carolina's points in overtime.

Bubka, Olson battle again

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Sergei Bubka and Billy Olson, having engaged in a duel of words, tangle in the pole vault tonight at the Los Angeles Times-GTE Indoor Games.

"He's never won the Olympics or the world championships and hasn't even made his national Olympic team," Bubka, from the Soviet Union, said of Olson. "The competitions where he's set his (indoor) records are minor competitions."

"If Billy Olson were ever in a major championship competition, he wouldn't even know which direction to go on the runway," Bubka said.

"I guess I didn't know where the pit was at the Millrose Games, either," Olson said later, referring to his recent victory over Bubka in the controversy-marred pole vault in New York.

"I guess maybe I don't have any talent. I've always thought Sergei was a nice guy," said Olson. "Maybe he realizes now that I'm not so easy to beat."

Olson, Bubka and Joe Dial, who's also entered in the meet, have taken turns elevating the bar to world indoor bests this winter. Bubka has upped the standard twice, Olson has bettered the mark four times, and Dial held the honor briefly.

Olson currently owns the world indoor best of 19 feet, 5½ inches, set two weeks ago.

Although the three vaulters have had spectacular 1986 indoor campaigns, they've faced each other just once - in the Millrose Games in New York - with controversial results.

A dispute arose when officials allowed Olson and Dial additional jumps after ruling that photographers had interferred with their approaches. Bubka complained heatedly and also was given an extra jump, but he failed to clear a height on any of his four attempts.

Olson won with a vault of 19-0.

Then in Chicago, where the three were scheduled to meet again last Sunday, Olson said he was tired and didn't compete. Dial pulled out because his poles didn't arrive.

Bubka won with a vault of 19-0¾.

Also in the first-rate field for the pole vault at the Forum meet are 1984 Olympic champion Pierre Quinon of France and Vasily Bubka of the Soviet Union, Sergei's older brother.

The Forum meet also features the men's mile, with a strong field headed by four Irishmen - Eamonn Coghlan, Ray Flynn, Marcus O'Sullivan and Frank O'Mara.

In the women's high jump, Tamara Bykova of the Soviet Union, who owns the world indoor best of 6-8, will face a field that includes Louise Ritter and Debbie Brill.

Franklin hit six of nine field goal attempts to start the game and Houston raced to a 26-17 lead with 7:50 to play in the first half. But the Bears, led by Middleton, with six of his 15 first half points, outscored the Cougars 22-11 to gain a half time tie of 37-37.

Midway through the second half, the Cougars pulled to a 10-point lead at 71-61 with four minutes left on a Winslow slam dunk.

$1.85 million may be Boggs'

NEW YORK (AP) - American League batting champion Wade Boggs bids for a record award of $1,850,000 today in baseball's final arbitration hearing this winter, with a half-million dollars riding on the arguments presented.

The Red Sox have offered Boggs $1,350,000 and General Manager Lou Gorman says the team will continue to try for settlement without having one imposed by a third party. Boggs won $1 million in arbitration last year and then batted .368 to win his second batting title.

"We're going to keep talking and probably will keep talking until the moment we walk into the arbitration room," Gorman said.

Agreement is even possible after the hearing, as long as it comes before the arbitrator's decision is rendered. The Los Angeles Dodgers reached terms with catcher Mike Scioscia that way following his hearing earlier this week.

Two mothers face charges in deaths of seven children

WHARTON, Texas (AP) — Wharton County District Attorney Daniel Shindler says two mothers whose seven unattended children died when fire swept through a small wood-frame house owed their children "a duty of care."

The mothers, Jackie Williams, 24, of El Campo, and Marsha Owens, were charged in a seven-count indictment Thursday, alleging injury to a child, said Daniel Shindler, the district attorney.

The indictment contends the mothers acted recklessly by leaving the children unattended in the three-room house.

"These two women, Jackie Willliams and Marsha Owens, as parents, owed a duty of care to those children and on this occasion, they acted recklessly in leaving the children unattended," Shindler said.

The prosecutor said he was anxious to try the case and hoped to have the two women before a jury within two months.

The third-degree felony carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine, he said.

Ms. Williams, whose five children died in the blaze, and Ms. Owens, who lost two children, reportedly were in a town 25 miles away when fire destroyed the Williams home in El Campo on Feb. 13.

Ms. Owens was the last of nine witnesses to testify before the grand jury. Her bond was set at $5,000 before State District Judge Daniel R. Sklar. Authorities were searching for Ms. Williams.

Lillie Mae Hamilton, 69, Ms. Owens' neighbor, said she often cared for the the children.

"When she didn't have time to take care of her babies and didn't have time to do the cooking, I did the cooking," Ms. Hamilton said. "I sat with her children night and day."

Fire officials said the children — who ranged in age from two months to 8 years — had little chance to escape because the fire started near the front door and the windows and back door had been nailed shut.

A rag or paper stuffed into a kerosene heater may have caused the fire, which broke out shortly after midnight, the officials said.

El Campo is about 75 miles southwest of Houston.

Ms. Williams had been referred to state welfare officials on four occasions concerning her children, records show.

Agenda told for CRMWD

A request by the City of Coleman for 2,000 ac. ft. of water in the Stacy reservoir will be considered by directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in their Feb. 27 meeting in Big Spring.

Other agenda items include a report from O. H. Ivie, general manager, on the district's application of a 404 (environmental impact) permit from the U. S. Corps of Engineers, also possible authorization to execute agreements if and when reached; consideration of land, mineral rights and rights-of-way agreements; appropriation of up to $4,000 for a new waterflow meter on the Snyder pipeline; a resolution to replace a lost or misplaced bond Series 1966, No. 504); and reports from the general manager and legal counsel.

If the Coleman request is granted and an agreement executed, this will make the fourth city with an interest in Stacy water apart from the district. Abilene (through the West Central Texas Municipal Water District), Midland and San Angelo each previously contracted for 15,001 ac. ft. yield annually.

Windshield wiper business announces move to border

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Trico Products Corp., a leading manufacturer of windshield wipers, has decided to move its operations south to save money while boosting the area's depressed economy with more than 1,000 jobs, company officials announced.

The Buffalo, N.Y.-based company will have to lay off about half of its 2,500 workforce to make the move.

But it will employ about 1,250 people in twin plants in Brownsville, Texas, and Matamoros, Mexico and area officials are elated.

The border area has been struggling after recent devaluations and fluctuations of the Mexican peso.

Company officials said the twin-plant concept, in which production and assembly of materials are divided between two facilities, would save the company money and make it more competitive.

"It's going to mean an awful lot for our company and I'm sure it's going to mean an awful lot for our communities," company president Richard L. Wolf said.

About 400 people will be hired in Texas and another 850 in Matamoros, company officials said.

The relocation and twin-plant concept would lower labor and building maintenance costs while boosting the depressed economy of the area, said Richard William Wolfe, a former General Motors executive, named to head operations for the twin plants.

"These kinds of costs allow us to be productive and compete in a world market," Wolfe said. "I think this is one of the last great frontiers of the United States, this area that we're at down here."

Wolf said there has been discussion with unions in Buffalo, but the decision to move the company is final.

About 1,100 manufacturing, engineering and administrative personnel will stay in Buffalo, officials said.

"There will be some selective skills and management abilities that we would want to bring down here," Wolf said. "But a good number of them unfortunately will lose their jobs."

But business and civic leaders from Brownsville and Matamoros praised Trico's decision to move to the area.

"We're here as a big community. We have a river between us, but it doesn't divide us. It unites us," said Brownsville Mayor Emilio Hernandez.

Trico was founded in 1917 in Buffalo, N.Y., and also has manufacturing facilities in England and Australia.

In 1985, the company boasted U.S. sales of $145 million and foreign sales of $28 million.

NASA looking at possible leak in main shuttle tank

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — NASA propulsion experts, attempting to explain extraordinarily low temperature readings on Challenger's suspect rocket booster, are trying to determine if a small, undetected leak in the shuttle's external fuel tank may have triggered last month's disaster.

If a leak in the tank allowed super-cold hydrogen to escape and hit the shuttle's nearby right rocket booster, it could have created temperatures low enough to affect the performance of the large O-ring seals that join sections of the booster, according to this theory.

The tank sits just two feet from the solid-fuel rocket boosters.

Harold Hallisey, deputy manager of the rocket propellant tank project at the Marshall Space Flight Center, said Thursday the possibility of a leak in the tank, which carries 500,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen, "is being looked at."

James W. Thomas Jr., who heads the solid rocket motor team at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, suggeted that only a leak of hydrogen could have caused temperature readings of 7 and 9 degrees Fahrenheit on the surface of the booster.

NASA officals acknowledge such readings were recorded several hours before the Challenger was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Jan. 28, but they have said the readings might have been false because the hand-held infrared measuring device has an error margin of as much as 10 degrees.

Nevertheless, even a 19 degree reading should have raised concerns, officials said, but the reading never was forwarded up the chain of command to those who made the launch decision. Challenger exploded 73 seconds after launch, killing the shuttle's seven-member crew.

It had been thought that a leak in the external fuel tank would be detected by sensors that gauge pressure levels inside the tank, but Hallisey said he didn't know how sensitive those instruments were.

Another engineer, speaking only on condition of anonymity, said a very small leak could escape detection, and yet be large enough to impinge low temperatures on the side of the solid rocket booster.

Thomas said in an interview that extremely cold temperatures on the right booster could have caused the synthetic rubber O-ring seals to shrink and fail under the internal pressures of the launch.

"We had no reason to believe that we had a cold temperature problem" with an air temperature of 38 degrees at the time of the launch, Thomas said. He added that the rocket boosters were designed to work properly between the temperatures of 31 and 99 degrees.

Although temperatures dipped into the mid-20s the night before, he said, the rocket engine seals would have warmed up well into the 30s by launch time. He said it takes only about two hours for the seals to warm or to cool to the temperature of the outside air.

But Thomas said even with a possible margin of error of 10 degrees because of the instrument that was used, he would have been concerned about readings in the 7 to 9 degree range.

"I certainly would have questioned the effects of temperatures that low," he said.

Teachers organize against HB 72

AUSTIN (AP) — A new organization of Texas teachers has been formed to oppose the re-election of Gov. Mark White because of his backing of the 1984 school reforms bill, Doug Ward, an English teacher in Monahans, told a news conference.

Ward said Thursday a protest rally will be held Saturday on the Capitol steps.

A statement from the Texas Teachers for Respect and Responsibility, read by Ward, said House Bill 72 stripped local school boards and administrators of authority centralizing control of education in Austin.

PUC delays Bell rate case

AUSTIN (AP) — Final arguments in the Southwestern Bell rate hike case, previously scheduled for today, have been postponed for four months so the Public Utility Commission can read 17,267 pages of testimony.

The commission decided Thursday to ignore its examiners' report calling for a $14.4 million rate hike, including a 15-cent monthly increase in the cost of basic residential service.

The postponement was ordered because commission staff internal memos wound up in Bell's hands. The company agreed to the postponement.

Bell wants a residential service increase of $1.50 to $2 a month. The rate request was filed last March as a $323 million package, but later pared by the company to $277 million.

The commissioners had planned to rule next Tuesday. That schedule changed after Public Utility Counsel Jim Boyle complained Bell had improperly obtained internal commission documents about the case.

The commission ordered an investigation, and Thursday got Bell officials to agree to the delay and to throw out the examiners' report.

"They want the extra time to personally read all the transcripts of the case," said Royce Caldwell, Bell vice president for revenues and public affairs in Texas.

Under the agreement, any rate hike eventually awarded to Bell would be retroactive to March 17.

Caldwell said his company did not want to postpone the decision, but felt the commissioners' proposal "was the safest thing for them to do to make sure" there would be no "cloud" over the case.

He also said it is "obvious" there was no improper contact between the company and the commission staff. The internal communications that wound up in Bell's hands were nothing more than "a computer printout of some numbers."

But Boyle, the state lawyer representing residential and small business customers, said the calculations included in the material are "not inconsequential."

"And how valuable that material is is not as important as the process, the feeling that private conversations could take place without notifying other parties," he said.

"I think the commission acted responsibly in trying to remove any cloud that may hang over the Southwestern Bell rate case as far as private communication between the staff and the company," he said.

Boyle wants the commission to cut Bell rates by $150 million.

Prince visits city

AUSTIN (AP) — Prince Charles, a special guest at Texas' 150th birthday party, was treated like a king — for a day.

In turn, he stole Texans' hearts.

The prince came to the capital city Thursday bearing a gift to the state's year-long celebration of its independence from Mexico.

It was Prince Charles' third stop on a Texas trip that already had taken him to Dallas and Houston and wound up today in San Antonio.

In a ceremony on the Capitol steps, which shows the workmanship of Scottish stonemasons, Prince Charles presented Gov. Mark White a picture of the old Texas Legation on St. James Street in London

"I do wish you a very, very happy birthday, indeed. And hope that most of you live to see the next 150 years," Prince Charles told a crowd of more than 3,000, some of whom had waited for six hours to see the heir to the British throne.

But considering the gifts the 37-year-old prince received, one would think it was his birthday.

On arrival at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Prince Charles was presented three Western-style hats. One, a size too large, dropped to his ears. Two were for his young sons.

At the pink-granite Capitol, the prince received a 1½-foot wooden gavel, which he jokingly said could be put to good use "for maintaining discipline in the home."

Police return missing bicycle

Police cleared a stolen bicycle incident Thursday evening — returning a previously "found" bicycle to its owner.

Wedge Turner of 2608 28th St. called police at 6:26 p.m. Thursday to report the theft of a 20-inch BMX type bike.

That bike was thought to have been taken from outside the Turner residence sometime between last Friday and Thursday afternoon.

The bicycle had, however, already been found and turned into police.

In other action Thursday, city officers jailed one man for driving while intoxicated and two for public intoxication.
