Texas Jury Deals Death Sentences To Three Negroes In Fatal Robbery

BORAH URGES PARTY FOR 'OTHER 96 PER CENT'

Holdup Victims Tossed From Moving Freight Train

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT

Spectators Weep at Story Of Brother's Suffering From Gang

GROESBECK, Texas, March 11. (AP)—A jury today returned a verdict of death in the electric chair for Sonny Miller, Tom Henry Armstrong, and Cal English, negroes, charged with robbery with firearms for the death of Charles Hunter, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., near Kosse Feb. 12. Hunter and a brother, Rufus, were robbed and thrown from a moving freight train. Charles Hunter's neck was broken.

The case was given to the jury in the middle of the afternoon. The three negroes were calm as the verdict was read. Armstrong was convalescing from a bullet wound received when he was shot by J. B. Piper, Southern Pacific Railway officer, near Denny about three weeks ago.

About 1,500 spectators were in the courtroom. Numerous handkerchiefs had been in evidence as District Attorney Same McCorkle described to the jury the robbery which resulted in Hunter's death. Lester W. Shephard and Carl Cannon, both former Limestone county attorneys, assisted in the prosecution, all three prosecutors vigorously demanding the death penalty.

Owen F. Watkins and H. L. Kid, defense attorneys, said they would file a motion for a new trial.

Large numbers of spectators had come here from Thornton and Kosse, near the scene of the killing.

Rufus Hunter appeared as the main state's witness at the trial. He identified the negroes as three of a group of six who robbed him and his brother and threw them from the train. The defendants attempted to prove an alibi. They were already under heavy sentences for burglary and theft.

Fort Worth Asks Ruling On Gas Company Status

AUSTIN, March 11. (UP)—Representative J. C. Duvall of Fort Worth this afternoon addressed a letter to Attorney General James V. Allred asking for a ruling whether the relations between the Lone Star Gas company and the Fort Worth Gas company violate the state anti-trust laws.

His letter was accompanied by a resolution of the last legislature calling on former Gov. Dan Moody to have such an investigation initiated.

Duvall asserted that "due to the fact that the Fort Worth Gas company has been and is controlled by the Lone Star Gas company, the Fort Worth Gas company cannot go upon the open market and procure gas at a reasonable market price" and that because of "flagrant disregard for the anti-trust laws of this state and this combination the people of Fort Worth and 150 other communities are charged a higher rate."

Marlow And Harris Bare Tricks Of Bond Opponents In Talk

Half of Money Will Go to Local Labor and Help Revive Business; Opposition Gave Bacteria Tests of Bottled Water as That in City Mains

Passage of the $1,000,000 water improvements bond issue in next Saturday's election was urged before more than 100 persons at the Travis school Wednesday night by J. B. Marlow and Harvey Harris as a labor relief measure imposed upon the city by sheer necessity.

Admitting and declaring that the condition of Wichita Falls' water supply as revealed by the recent state health department report demands correction, both speakers declared that from the standpoint of the working man, and economic welfare generally, voting of the proposed bonds is even more important.

Wichita Falls alone, among cities of similar population throughout the Southwest, has been without any extensive public works program during the past two or three years, the speakers declared. With every such city closing the gates definitely against labor from outside its own citizenship, it has devolved upon each other municipality to launch projects of its own for the benefit of its own laboring forces, according to Judge Harris.

Petty Politics Scored

Introduction of other issues such as that of the gas rates, city managership, aldermanic elections, etc., into the campaign on the water bonds was denounced as being unfair to the voters, unethical toward the supporters of the project, and as a deliberate effort to make political stock of an important public issue. The water bond election should be allowed to stand on its own merits irrespective of what form of government the city may use, it was said, and irrespective of what action may be taken when the present gas franchise expires on Sept. 4, 1933.

"While some of us may be opposed to the city-manager plan of city government," said Mr. Marlow, "that has absolutely nothing to do with this bond issue.

"Four years ago the health department asked the city council to employ engineers to recommend improvements in our water system. They looked all over the country, and finally selected Black and Veatch of Kansas City to make the survey. The city paid that firm $10,500, and still owes $7,800 whether we ever make these improvements or not. But all that is nothing at all in this water bond campaign, except that we shall carry on our work along the lines they recommended after the bonds are voted."

Not only the business and professional men of the city, but members of the city and county official families, have given themselves unreservedly during the past few months to provide for the many unemployed men in this community.

Marlow Goes After 'Em

"Several weeks ago," Mr. Marlow said, "about 90 business and professional men got together to discuss this situation. We asked the city council to meet with us, and we asked them to plan to spend at least $50,000 within the ensuing few months on improvements in order to afford work for local unemployed. Then we went to the county commissioners, and asked them to spend $150,000 in the county for a similar purpose. Both of these bodies have responded; you have heard no protest from anyone; I tell you, members of the city council and of the commissioners court have gone down into their pockets willingly just like the rest of us to afford that work. It was done for the benefit of our working men who were idle.

"Anyone that stands up now and accuses these men of recommending this bond issue only that they may 'cut a $1,000,000 melon' not only is betraying his fellow-citizen, but is showing himself a disciple of absurd folly."

Mr. Marlow also answered charges that have been brought by opponents to the bond issue to the effect that very little local labor will be used in the project if the bonds are voted.

"You people should know that I, who have worked here all my life, and have been a working man until just the last few years, can see

HOUSE PASSES OIL TITLE BILL

State Land Mineral Rights Revert to Buyers

AUSTIN, March 11. (UP)—To the accompaniment of shill cowboy yells from the gallery, the house of the Texas legislature late today passed finally the bill giving West Texas land owners the full bonus on lands leased for oil development.

Approximately 2,000,000 acres of land are affected, proponents of the bill said. Speakers estimated money value all the way from $300,000 to $20,000,000.

The bill already has passed the senate. In the house, amendments were only minor so senate concurrence in the changes is expected without delay. The bill has passed the senate by 22 votes to 3 and the house by 108 to 21 and will go into effect immediately if signed by the governor.

Small in Gallery

Senator Clint Small, author, was in the gallery when the bill won after an all-day fight. He is also author of the bill validating West Texas claims to stream bed land which former Gov. Dan Moody vetoed and which the 41st legislature passed over the Moody veto.

Unusual interest attaches to Governor Sterling's action on this bill which he is said to favor.

Today's bill makes ineffective a decision of the state supreme court that although the state in 1919 relinquished all but one-sixteenth of mineral rights to land purchasers,

MURRAY URGES LEGISLATURE TO PASS OIL LAW

Governor Approves Curb As Best Plan to Meet Big Problem

U. S. BOARD REPORTS

Huge Over-Production Figures Revealed By Commission

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11. (AP)—Curtailment of oil production today was given the approval of Gov. W. H. Murray.

The Oklahoma executive told the legislature in a message submitting the report of his oil relief conference at Texarkana, Ark., Monday that he was "in full accord" with the recommendations of the meeting. These included clauses urging retention of oil proration in Oklahoma and Texas and adoption of oil curb statutes by other states.

It also was indicated that the Cham Jones measure to abolish proration would not be reported out of the house oil and gas committee. Members of the committee intimated no drastic changes in state conservation laws could be expected at this time except to vest more power in the state.

Earlier in the day Cicero Murray, the governor's special representative at the Texarkana conference, named chairman of a seven state contact group said a national oil conference likely would be held in Washington March 23.

The Texarkana report, as given to the legislature, recommended control of price and production of crude oil in the United States with allotment of the total flow among producing states.

CONSERVATION BOARD FINDS TOO MUCH OIL

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—The federal oil conservation board in its efforts to assist the hard pressed oil industry has encountered a problem of over-production heretofore unknown in the history of the petroleum business.

Figures gathered by the board show approximately 3,000,000 barrels of oil are produced daily in the United States and approximately 300,000 barrels are being imported from foreign fields controlled directly or indirectly by American companies.

Storage Filled

The board has found that such production is far in excess of need in this country and that storage facilities have been strained to the breaking point for more than a year.

The result is the government has been called upon to help distressed

Price War Blamed In Bombing

DALLAS, March 11 (UP)—Bombing of cleaning shop, a reported attempt to assassinate two shop operators and a complaint that a cleaner had been kidnaped and forced to sign an agreement on price schedules at the point of a gun, opened an investigation of a possible racketeering war in Dallas today.

Detectives investigating the cases reported that the name of C. J. Crampton, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, was listed on the contracts as counselor for the Cleaners and Dyers' association, with power to set prices and determine credits.

Crampton denied that the chamber of commerce was participating in any attempts to intimidate cleaners who have refused to sign the contracts.

Detectives Fritz and Jones said they discovered the contracts while investigating the bombing last night of the ABC Cleaning company, of which A. F. Tufaner is proprietor. The explosion blew a hole in the rear of the building, shattering windows in nearby houses and awakened residents for blocks.

BANDIT SLAIN BY VIGILANTE

Bank Robber With $3,000 Shot to Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11. (AP)—Death came quickly today to a bank robber, shot down as he emerged with pockets stuffed with currency from the First National bank of Harrah, 20 miles east of here, while his companion, carrying $250 in silver, escaped.

Walter Folwell, Harrah vigilante, shot down the robber, who was not identified immediately.

The men aroused Folwell's suspicions when they entered the bank. Seizing his shotgun at his filling station across the street from the bank, Folwell hid at the corner of the building and waited.

As the first robber came out and made for an automobile, Folwell shouted at him and raised his gun to shoot, but held his fire because a number of persons were in the line of fire across the street. The robber started the car and sped away.

The second robber backed out the door and, seeing his companion had gone, attempted a dash for liberty. Folwell, shouting to George Miller, a barber to "duck," fired, and the robber fell. He had turned with pistol in hand. The robber died while Folwell held him in his arms.

Officers took $3,000 from the slain man.

State bank association officials and John Bramble, Hastings, Neb., officer, sought today to connect this robbery and one Monday at Earlsboro, about 30 miles from Harrah, with the recent $27,000 robbery of the First National bank of Hastings. Jimmie Creighton, who has eluded officers since the Hastings robbery, is believed to be in Oklahoma.

LEGISLATOR ACTS

Information Designated As 'Confidential' In Measure

AUSTIN, March 11. (UP)—Information and facts gathered by newspaper editors and reporters are made confidential under a bill offered to the Texas legislature late today by Representative Jack Keeler of Dallas. The bill declares that they shall not be compelled to testify to such facts before any court, tribunal, grand jury or legislative committee.

Keeler said the bill was the result of a Dallas reporter being committed to jail for contempt today for refusing to reveal to the grand jury the source of information upon which he wrote a story saying two Communists were brutally beaten after release from the Dallas city jail.

The bill declares that reservation of the freedom of the press is so endangered that the bill should be made effective as emergency legislation.

He converted the office into a reception room all afternoon and evening as scores of friends and newspapermen called to express condolences and pay tribute to Eddie's "faithfulness to the profession."

Keeps Secret

The reporter was jailed today when he refused to tell a grand jury where he got information for an exclusive story on the kidnaping and flogging of two Communists, C. J. Coder and Lewis Hurst here last week.

Lewis Bailey, editor of the Dallas Dispatch, said tonight he had hopes of securing Barr's release tomorrow but attorneys were of the opinion that he might be held throughout the entire two months' session of the grand jury unless he agrees to answer the jurors' questions.

PROGRESSIVES APPLAUD IDAHO LEADER'S TALK

Four Per Cent of People Control 80 Per Cent Of Wealth, He Says

CAPITALISTS BLAMED

Insurgent Senator Burdens Small Group of Rich Men With Slump

WASHINGTON, March 11. (UP)—Progressive conference here broke into prolonged applause today when Senator William E. Borah Republican, Idaho, called for political realignment to insure representation of 96 per cent of the population which, he said, owns only 20 per cent of the wealth.

Borah's declaration was the nearest approach to a third party hint in a day of heated denunciation of capitalistic influence in the management of both major parties.

The Idaho senator blamed the present depression upon "a coterie of capitalists who inaugurated the most vicious era of speculation and inflation on which the world gives any record."

Thousands Trapped

Borah asserted the capitalists "drew into their meshes of speculation and inflation hundreds of thousands of people, stripped them, not to say robbed them of their life's earnings, threw them back upon society to wander, hopeless and helpless in life, or to seek an ending in a suicide's grave—as thousands did."

Borah said 4 per cent of the population controls 80 per cent of the nation's wealth.

"I would not take it from them," he said. "But I do think there should be a political party in this country—if not a political party then a political voice—which shall worry more about the 96 per cent than about the 4 per cent."

Score of Speakers

Leaders of both major parties were castigated by the progressive orators, more than a score of whom talked in the three sessions of the opening day.

Senator George W. Norris, Republican, Neb., paid his respects to Senator James E. Watson, Indiana, Republican senate leader, as a man who "used to be a lobbyist seeking favors for great corporations at the hands of congress."

Senator John J. Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, evoked applause and laughter when he referred to President Hoover as "the great engineer of disaster," while Borah, in addition to accusing both major parties of repudiating their 1928 campaign promises for farm relief also attacked Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee for his recent suggestion that capitalists and wealthy corporations should not be harrassed.

PROGRESSIVES CHEER BORAH

Voice for Capital Ridden Majority Pleaded

As to remedies for the agricultural depression, Borah advocated the export debenture plan which, he said, is the same kind of a bounty as the protective tariff on manufactured products.

Earnings Limitation

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, also endorsed the export debenture plan and advocated limitation of corporate earnings, and government ownership of railroads similar to the Canadian system.

Norris, in his opening address, denied any attempt to form a third party or to further any individual's presidential aspirations, and accused the power interests of trying to control the Democratic and Republican presidential nominations next year.

"Enormous combinations of wealth are rapidly gaining control of all of our business institutions and, through the power of money, are dangerously near to the control of our political parties and, through them, of the government itself," Norris declared.

Dr. Charles A. Beard, the historian, in an address tonight, answered Watson's questions on behalf of "progressive opinion," and among his replies said "progressive opinion is against any blanket repeal of the 18th amendment which does not substitute a rational system of public control over the manufacture and sale of alcohol." Beard also asserted the federal government should not take over the enforcement responsibility of the states. Norris said he approved most of Beard's answers, but doubted progressive opinion was unanimous on the answers to these two prohibition questions.

Senator Bronson Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, presiding over the session devoted to "return to representative government" tonight called for resistance by congress to encroachments upon its powers by the executive and the judiciary.

Commissions Flayed

Cutting advocated public appropriations to finance political campaigns in order to remove the influence of wealthy special interests. As to the dangers of "government by commissions," Cutting said President Hoover has minimized them "by rejecting the principal ideas of the commissions he has appointed."

Dr. Charles A. Beard, the historian, suggested a reform of legislative machinery by delegating petty matters to administrative agencies subject to final approval by congress, a congressional joint committee to sit continuously to check up on administrative officers, and greater coordination between executive departments and congress.

Present antagonism between the executive and congress, he said, results in "squirt-gun" government. Congress squirts ink at the executive officers and they squirt ink at congress. When they are not employed in this cuttle fish game, they are engaged in back stairs negotiations.

Senator Edward P. Costigan Democrat, Colorado, former tariff commissioner, led the discussion on the tariff. He advocated legislation to return control of flexible tariff revisions to congress, and for a general lowering of tariff duties on the ground that existing rates are economically unsound and provacative of ill will abroad.

Tomorrow's sessions will be given over to a discussion of unemployment and industrial stabilization, public utilities, and a general session for the reception of reports and adoption of resolutions tomorrow night.

Substitute Offered

As a substitute Representative Harry Graves of Williamson county offered a bill declaring the state should keep all the bonus. This received but 23 affirmative votes. Another proposal by Representative Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg that the owners might keep all bonus on leases made prior to the supreme court ruling in 1928 but that the state should get half the bonuses after that was also defeated, receiving 44 affirmative votes to 85 negative, an amendment to prevent possible conflict with vested rights was accepted by Representative R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene, who sponsored the bill in the house.

Galleries were filled with landowners during the long debate over the bill. There was much tenseness when Representative G. E. Lockhart, representing 10 West Texas counties where some of the land lies and himself owner of land that is affected, declared against the bill.

Plea for Schools

"Though it will bring great amounts of money to my part of the state, and though it will benefit me I cannot vote for it, believing as I do that the school children of the state are rightfully entitled to the bonus," he said.

The land is part of that set apart as an endowment for public schools.

Supporting the contention that those who purchased the land from the state should get all the bonus, the notices were read under which it was placed on the market. In these notices the land commissioner said all the bonus would go to the purchasers.

It was not until suit was brought subsequently that the state was held entitled to half the bonus. Since the court decision approximately $180,000 bonus has been paid the state and an equal amount has been put in escrow. Part of the land is in the Pecos oil field.

Arkansas Man Pays 15-Cent Debt With Interest After 40 Years

FORT WORTH, March 11. (AP)—The place has been discovered, according to J. W. Stitt, attorney, where Diogenes may blow out his lantern. It is Beirne, Ark.

The three Stitt brothers, J. W. and J. R. now of Fort Worth, and S. D., now of Temple, lived 40 years ago at a cross road in Arkansas called Dobyville.

One of the problems of rural life that had to be solved was obtaining a haircut, and the young fellows of the cross road solved it by performing tonsorial functions for each other.

One hot Saturday, a group gathered at the general store, and in the general exchange of barber's activities, S. D. Stitt gave one George Clark a haircut.

The temperature was not conducive to bodily activity, and the group fell to speculating as to the future. It was agreed 40 years from that day they should report to each other regarding their experiences and situations during the intervening years.

The group broke up and upon Clark's discovering that he did not have upon his person the 15 cents which had been agreed upon as the just compensation for haircuts he promised that when he made his 40 year report he would remit for services rendered with interest at 10 per cent compounded annually.

A few days ago Stitt received from George Clark, a millionaire lumberman of Beirne, Ark., a check for $5.35 in settlement of the old account.

Boys Put Negro 'on Spot' With Volley of Stones, Says Chief

Following a complaint that a group of high school boys had attacked a negro here Wednesday without apparent reason, Frank Burns, chief of police, issued a warning Wednesday night that such occurrences will not be tolerated. A number of similar complaints have been received recently, he said.

Almost without variation, Chief Burns said, the youths drive an automobile alongside a curb where a negro is waiting for a street car and bombard him with heavy stones and then speed away. The number of boys participating in this type of "fun" range from two to half a dozen, it was said.

The practice is likely to lead to serious injury to a negro or some of the youths, Chief Burns said, and stated that a clue to the identities of the boys had been obtained.

ALEX PANTAGES MAKES BOND

Showman Surrenders On New Vice Complaint

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 11. (UP)—For the second time in less than two years, Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire showman, surrendered today on complaints charging an offense against a minor girl.

Pale and white his coat collar drawn up for concealment, he entered the courtroom of Judge Arthur Munro, heard the complaint against him read, and made a well-planned disappearance after posting $15,000 bond.

He was accused of improper relations with Lydia Nitto, 16, also known as Alice Blake. At present, the state is attempting to obtain a review of an appellate court decision giving Pantages a new trial on conviction involving another girl—Eunice Pringle, 17.

The new charge brought Pantages into the prosecution of the alleged operations of William Jobelmann, his former publicity agent, and Mrs. Olive Clark Day. They are accused of encouraging the friendship of minor girls and of having introduced them to wealthy men as companions for pay.

Miss Nitto and Helen Livingston, also 16, were brought here by Jobelmann and Mrs. Day for a party at the request of Pantages, it was charged.

Two other men named in the complaints were granted freedom on bond, pending preliminary hearing on April 13.

Opinions Conflict In War Policies Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—A sharp conflict of opinion among men who were at the nation's helm during the world war developed today before the war policies commission over plans to eliminate profiteering in the conduct of future hostilities.

Newton D. Baker, who, as secretary of war, was in charge of America's military establishment during the world war, opposed the plan for freezing all prices by presidential proclamation at the outset of another conflict.

This plan was proposed by Bernard M. Baruch, who, as chairman of the war industries board, mobolized American industry.

MURRAY URGES OIL CURB LAW

Governor Lends Support To Conservation

independent producers in the so-called "stripper" fields, and larger companies are faced with handling oil at prices so low there is no margin for profit.

Into the welter of un-wanted and un-welcome petroleum the oil board has plunged in an effort to obtain an agreement limiting imports at least 100,000 barrels daily. If this is reached the oil producing states are expected to tighten the proration laws now in effect.

Companies Agree

All but one of the importing companies have indicated their willingness to enter into such an agreement. The remaining company is faced with unfavorable action by a foreign government in the event it agrees, and negotiations are in progress to remove limitations imposed when it secured its concessions.

The oil conservation board has no authority to do anything but advise. Many times in the past, members of the board said today, advice has been given only to be rejected by the oil industry.

The present chaos however, has brought about a tendency on the part of producers, independent and otherwise, to listen gladly when the board speaks.

Secretary Lamont has been the principal factor in bringing about the import limitation agreement. He is holding conferences almost daily with producers and importers and is expected to announce the agreement of all the large importers sometime this week.

Storms Paralyze European Traffic

LONDON, March 11. (AP)—Snow, high winds and bitter cold weather impeded traffic on land and sea tonight as the worst late winter storm of recent years continued to rage in many sections of Europe.

Ships were delayed, automobiles were stalled in drifts and many trains were far behind schedule. Unemployed in various sections were recruited to open streets and tracks. The blanket of snow covered much of England, France, Germany, Austria and other countries.

Numerous accidents were blamed on the storm. The icy streets in Berlin alone caused more than 30 injuries and sent a dozen persons to the hospital with broken bones.

Paris faced the menace of flood, since the snow was causing the River Seiene to reach a high stage. Additional low-lying suburbs of the capital and the adjacent territory were flooded, causing many houses to be evacuated.

In Munich and Berlin scores of snow plows made little progress against the drifts. The street cleaning personnel was augmented by hundreds of unemployed.

In Portugal high winds, hailstorms and lightning did much damage.

Livestock Marketers Attempt Stabilization

CHICAGO, March 11. (AP)—Plans to equalize livestock prices by controlling distribution to all markets went forward today at the first annual meeting of the National Livestock Marketing association.

Officers of the organization told of plans to telegraph its 20 member agencies in all sections of the country as the markets open in order to avoid price fluctuations due to lack of information on supply and demand.

"An extremely high price is not desirable," C. G. Randell, member of the federal farm board in charge of livestock and wool marketing, told the association's stockholders. "A fair price, stable over a certain period, is wanted."

DENISON LIQUOR TRIAL OPENS

Former Congressman Denies Trunk Ownership

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—The story of the seizure more than two years ago of 24 bottles labeled whisky and gin in the office of Edward E. Denison, then a representative from Illinois, was related to a jury of eight men and four women in District of Columbia supreme court today at the opening of Denison's trial on liquor possession charges.

Seven prosecution witnesses, most of them prohibition officers, had testified when Justice Peyton adjourned court until tomorrow.

The defense will contend the liquor-laden trunk seized in Denison's rooms at the house office building shortly after he had returned from a trip to Panama with his nephew, Charles Lane of St. Louis, did not belong to the defendant.

Basil N. Quin and John J. Quinn, two dry agents, testified they visited Denison's office on Jan. 19, 1929, on information furnished by a local express company in whose office a leaky suitcase also addressed to the former congressman was found.

The agents said Denison expressed surprise when informed of their mission. They quoted him as saying he had shipped some dishes to Washington from Panama, but no liquor. They said Denison told them he did not have the key to the trunk at the time and as the house was about to convene he suggested they return that night.

The agents said they returned with a third officer, Thomas Fleming, and obtained the key. It would not fit the trunk, they added, whereupon Denison told them to take the trunk away as it did not belong to him.

The agents testified they noticed the name "B. B. Dawson" written on the trunk which they had not seen on their first visit. They said they forced open the trunk in the presence of Denison and found 18 bottles of labeled whisky and six marked gin.

Three bottles were exhibited to the court. Although the agents testified they were reasonably sure the bottles were taken from the trunk, on cross examination by William E. Leahy, chief defense counsel, they said they were not positive.

Reporter Jailed For Contempt

Schmeling. Eddie was forced to listen to the bout over the jail radio.

He received hundreds of telegrams and telephone calls, including one early tonight from State Representative Jack Keeler, at Austin, who informed Barr that he was introducing a bill in the legislature to secure his freedom.

A steak dinner, half a dozen cartons of cigarets, cigars and magazines were included in contributions from admirers, designed to comfort Eddie during his imprisonment.

Tonight he borrowed a pair of pajamas from the jailer and prepared to retire in the latter's bungalow apartment adjoining the cells. Eddie was not confined in the cell block.

Rangers Testify

Barr was the sixth witness called before the grand jury today during an investigation of the attack on the two Communists. Two Texas rangers, who have been assigned to investigate the case by the governor, were among the witnesses.

The reporter refused to divulge the source of his information for the first news story of the flogging, saying it would "betray a confidence." Police have been hampered in their investigation because the two flogged men never have been located and no witnesses have been found.

CANCER CLINIC SEEKS PERMIT

New York Medical Society Opposes Treatment

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, March 11.—Application to use the Coffey-Humber cancer treatment in experimental research on human beings in New York was made today before the state board of social welfare.

The New York Academy of Medicine opposed the request, stating it would add uselessly to human suffering and proposing a different method of bringing this treatment from the Pacific coast, where it originated.

In the absence of Doctors Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber, sponsors for the plan, the board continued the hearing until they can personally present their views.

Laboratory Proposed

Their counsel, Herbert L. Satterlee, said that Coffey and Humber wished to establish a research laboratory on Huntington, Long Island, property donated by the widow of the late W. J. Conners of Buffalo. Unofficially it was said the gift is worth about $750,000.

A clinic to experiment on human cancer patients was emphasized by Mr. Satterlee as important. He said publicity in the West had brought such a jam of cancer sufferers that Doctors Coffey and Humber needed to get at "least 1,000 miles from the coast" to do research.

He said they are not ready to give their remedy to the medical profesison because they have not yet standardized it sufficiently to be sure each one would get the same strength.

Glandular Extract

The treatment is an abstract of the cortex of the adrenal glands of sheep. Satterlee said Coffey and Humber do not claim they have a cure.

Representing the New York Academy of medicine Dr. John A. Hartwell, its president, presented a resolution adopted by the academy.

"Some thousands of patients were treated in California during the past two years," the resolution stated, "but no claims have been made by Doctors Coffey and Humber that any of these patients were really cured. . . .

"The announcement in California that they would treat cancer led to much suffering. Many hopelessly sick persons spent much of all their money to get to the clinic of Doctors Coffey and Humber and yet were not much benefited by the treatment. In fact many died in a short time. . . .

"The New York Academy of Medicine deprecates very strongly any general agitation which would lead to creation in New York City of an unfortunate situation similar to that which developed in California.

"The academy further recommends that Doctors Coffey and Humber follow the plan which was used by Banting and Best in establishing the value of insulin. This would place the Coffey-Humber extract in the hands of competent scientists and physicians who would, under the best facilities, conduct scientific studies of the effects of the extract both experimentally and clinically."

Old Order of Politics in Dangerous Mixup Over Prohibition, Says White

Emporia, Kan., Editor Thinks "We Are a Nation Playing With Fire" and Forecasts Unusual Happenings

Editor's Note—After the Democratic national committee's stormy session in Washington over the prohibition issue, the United Press asked William Allen White, publisher of the Emporia Gazette and veteran editorial writer of many campaigns, to outline his views on the part prohibition will play in the coming campaign. His article, written exclusively for the United Press, follows.

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE
Editor, the Emporia Gazette

EMPORIA, Kan., March 11.—When one part of a country gets into an emotional state where it cannot understand the attitude of another part of the country the danger flag should go up.

And when the emotional condition of both regions rises to a point, where people cannot admit the honesty of the other side nor its intelligence, the danger flag should be—gin to wave a real warning.

America is approaching such a danger now as the land has not faced for 70 years. Prohibition is making a serious rift in the politics of this country.

The people of the Atlantic seaboard north of Baltimore without much consideration for party, will vote wet in the coming election. The people in the South and in the West outside of the larger cities will vote dry.

Feeling Supplants Thought

Republicans and Democrats ordinarily do not let their emotions affect their judgments of one another. But prohibition has emotionalized politics, and people have ceased to think and have begun to feel and they feel bitterly.

An example of the bitterness which may come in our partisan politics during the next two years is seen in the explosion within the Democratic national committee in its last meeting when Chairman Raskob attempted on behalf of the wets to commit the party to a wet program.

The same thing might easily have happened in the Republican national committee if the New York and New England members had made the attempt which Raskob made in the Democratic committee.

Prohibition is bound to be an issue in the coming presidential campaign, perhaps the only issue, certainly a devastating issue, one which may for a time at least, and possibly finally, split both of the major parties.

It is not impossible that a majority of the Democratic convention may favor a wet or a moist plank in the Democratic national platform. But with the two-thirds rule prevailing, the drys can prevent a wet Democratic presidential nomination.

With the adoption, or a serious threat of adoption of a wet platform, it is more than likely that the South and West might withdraw from the convention and name a dry Democratic candidate who would have as good party status in the South as the wet Democratic candidate, who might be nominated a few hours later or earlier, according to the luck of the game.

Dry to Control

Similarly, the drys certainly will be able to control the Republican convention; their control might easily be frittered away and a wet or moist platform might be made for Mr. Hoover, a dry.

But there is in the Republican party a strong minority group of progressives for the most part from dry states. These dry progressive Republicans might take a notion to name Pinchot, one of their own kind, on a bolting ticket, thus leaving Hoover euchred into a wet position with the regular nomination. Such a forecast is not impossible.

The South would vote for the dry candidate and in the Republican party probably the dish would break on the old crack. Many of the middle states and the Missouri valley would go dry and radical under the pressure of hard times. New York and the seaboard New England states might easily go wet Republican.

It is a mess and a mixup. The Eastern wets cannot realize how permanently and finally dry the West is. They are blind to the fact that year after year for a dozen years the drys have held and still hold in the next congress a working majority.

Grasp at Straws

They grasp at straws. Because Ohio elected a liberal senator, the Eastern wets forget that Ohio on the one vital matter pertaining to prohibition elected a dry legislator.

Because J. Ham Lewis came back to the senate the wets forget that he was a liberal running against a conservative Republican candidate who attempted to straddle the prohibition issue by falling back upon a referendum and lost both wets and drys.

The wets see what they want to see in the politics of the West, but the drys make no mistake about the intense feeling of the East on prohibition. The situation is acute. It is full of danger. It is an issue which might easily lead to a disruption in this country which would be serious and terrible.

We are as a nation playing with fire.

LAWTON VOTE HEAT GROWS

44 Names on Ballot in City Election

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., March 11.—With 44 names on the ballots as candidates for city offices, the campaign in Lawton was warmed up to sizzling proportions with primary day less than one week away. Interest is especially keen in the races for mayor, city marshal and councilmen seats.

There are four candidates for mayor in the Democratic primary: Present Mayor Fred C. Larrance, former Councilman Raymond Fields, former Councilman C. R. Simpson and former Chairman of the State Highway Commission Henry Lininger. Two are contesting as Republican candidates, Dr. Jackson Broshears, former candidate for congressman from this district, and Hamp Steel, representative of an oil corporation.

There are three candidates for city clerk, Todd Sanders, who has served two terms in that office; Jim Thomas, insurance man, and John Ledgerwood, present councilman from the third ward. Republicans have but one candidate, E. C. Hanks, accountant.

Eight candidates are contesting in the Democratic primary for street commissioner with one Republican candidate waiting to take on the winner.

All administration candidates for councilmen are opposed by members of their own party and the Republicans have a candidate out in every ward.

A determined effort is being made to defeat present Mayor Fred C. Larrance and the daily Democratic paper is vigorously opposing his nomination. If he is nominated Republicans feel confident of electing their candidate. Republicans also feel confident of electing councilmen in every ward where administration candidates are nominated.

ARRESTS HALT MONEY RING

Counterfeiting Gang Broken at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (AP)—A large counterfeiting ring was believed to have been smashed here with the arrest by Edward Tyrrell, secret service agent, of a Mexican who was the last of a gang of five "higher ups" who have been the object of a several months' hunt by agents in the Southwest.

Three bases of operations in widely separated Texas cities have been uncovered by agents during the week, Tyrrell revealed. The largest of the three was in Elm Mott, a suburb of Waco, where 4,400 Mexican gold pesos, counterfeit, and several hundred counterfeit American gold coins were seized.

Counterfeiting equipment worth several thousand dollars was seized in the Elm Mott raid, which was executed by Secret Service Agent Sarles of San Antonio under orders of Tyrrell.

Acting on information secured here, Tyrrell and several agents then went to Karnes City where a farm house 14 miles from the town netted them more than 300 counterfeit Mexican 50 peso pieces. American nickels and dimes which had been counterfeited in the house also were seized.

Headquarters of the counterfeiting ring, which has been flooding Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico and other southwestern states with bogus money for several months, is believed by officers to have been maintained in San Antonio with agents working out of the city on a commission basis.

Bonds of $5,000 each were set for the four men arrested in Waco and they are being held there in default of their bonds, while the man here is being held in the county jail, no hearing of his case having been held.

Fathers Complimented At High School Celebration

Musical selections by the boys' glee club, talks by representative students, a splendid comedy by the Blue Curtain club and an address by R. O. Jonas were features of the "Father's Night" annual program held Tuesday evening at Junior college and high school under the auspices of the P.-T. A. Mrs. W. D. Cline was in charge of the program and at the close of the meeting interesting displays from the biology and manual training department represented in the work of Morris Fisch, Joe Butler, Earl Perkins, Ruth Pruitt, Thomas McGinty, Joe Witherspoon, Alline Newton and Ed Peterson Jr.

Several hundred members of the P.-T. A. and patrons of the school were present when Dean Rider opened the meeting with prayer and the high school orchestra, with Durwood Parks leader, played a group of musical numbers. Dr. J. W. Cantwell gave the invocation.

In a short business meeting preceding the program, Mrs. Paul Barnett, president, appointed Mesdames P. B. Cox, Ed Napier and S. A. Covington a committee to select new officers.

The Boys' Glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Hermione Vaughn, opened the program and R. O. Jonas made an interesting talk on "Extra Curricular Activities." Coach Barry Holton made an interesting talk on "Field Sports."

Led by Patrick Henry, senior class president, representative students gave brief talks on school activities as follows: Girl Reserves, Irma Cline and Margaret Bone; Hi-Y club, James Lee; speakers' club, Marvin Pierce; school publications, Katherine Stewart.

"Bringing Up Father," a Blue Curtain play that recently proved such a success when presented at Junior college, was the closing feature of the evening. The cast included Henry Will Barton, Mary Clare Burton, Charlotte Joiner, Homer Donahoo, and Bryant Creighton, with Miss Juanita Kinsey, director.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

That part of the feminine world born with naturally curly hair or with locks that remain in classic repose are more fortunate than they realize. We thought of this Wednesday morning as we had the almost expired permanent wave set in our crown of "glory."

◇ ◇ ◇

Our memory went back to the days of our girlhood when we visited in our grandparents' home and watched our maiden aunts arrange their love locks. They boiled quince seed in water and used the gluey substance to make round little circles across their foreheads.

◇ ◇ ◇

Little pictures like the "quince seed" curls are very definite in our memory. There's a time when we stood with our small brother quite unawed as lightning flashed and thunder roared and a great tree came crashing to the ground before our eyes. Back of us in grandmother's great bedroom, one aunt was on her knees feverishly saying her prayers and another was as feverishly changing her underwear so that she'd be properly prepared for blowing away.

◇ ◇ ◇

Those were the days! And how! (We can see our grandmother look reprovingly over the glasses which she spent half the time hunting as they rested on top of her head).

◇ ◇ ◇

People who are now "readers" were elocutionists then and how they did elocute. They swayed to the earnest lines of "The lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine," and "Curfew shall not ring tonight." No young orator spoke without fervent gesture to add to his oration.

◇ ◇ ◇

Shows? Well, we saw "Ten Nights in a Barroom," "East Lynne," and "Faust," and once on a visit in the North we saw "Maryland" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the latter of which we left filled with indignation.

◇ ◇ ◇

"Ladies" bit their lips to make them red and sometimes slyly used "prepared chalk." "Ladies" swept the dust with their wide skirts and multitudinous petticoats, wore leg o' mutton sleeves and measured 18 inches round their waists.

◇ ◇ ◇

Those days seem almost as miraculous as many of the movies of this day. We read with approval the column of the theater critic in Wednesday morning's paper. We had remained awake Tuesday evening rebelling at the orchestration in "One Heavenly Night."

◇ ◇ ◇

Somehow an old verse had come into our mind, "Where did you come from baby dear? Out of the everywhere, into the here," and that's the only way we could account for the orchestra.

◇ ◇ ◇

Well, East Lynne is in the movies now and we have heard that "Ten Nights in a Barroom" is to be a talkie. We remember the melodrama, drawing many tears in the mauve decade, of "East Lynne"; we imagined "Ten Nights in a Barroom" would be put on as a burlesque, but understand it is to be as serious as it was once intended. Will the public be able to stand it?

◇ ◇ ◇

East Lynne and "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will show that villains were villains in the mauve decade and women didn't just fool along with wickedness. When she started out, she threw her hat over the windmill with a vengeance. That's what dipping snuff on the sly led to.

Display of Firearms Would Be Prohibited

AUSTIN, March 11. (AP)—Display of pistols and revolvers for sale would be prohibited under a bill introduced today by Representative Sparkman of Italy. The bill would ban sale display of "brass knucks" and dirks.

"Don't ask me why!"

Excuses a man seems never to understand; explanations that are embarrassing. Women who have learned of Midol avoid these unpleasant experiences!

Midol is not a narcotic, but it does banish the suffering which too often attends the monthly period. It acts quite harmlessly, but effectively, on the organs affected. Safe, but swift; complete comfort comes in five to seven minutes. You will get this relief regardless of how hard a time you've always had. These wonderful tablets do nothing to hinder the normal, natural periodic process, so it's only common sense to use them.

If you would spare yourself all suffering at this time, get Midol in a trim little metal case for purse or pocket. Fifty cents at any drug store. Many have found Midol the quickest relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis and other pain.—Adv.

Mrs. Dobie Lists Best Vines For Texas Gardens

By BERTHA M'KEE DOBIE

The merits of vines are many and all their own. They cover with beauty what is ugly, and so make a virtue of concealment; shade porches, windows and garden walks from summer's heat; bring the domestic life of birds close to human observers; furnish a quantity of bloom out of all proportion to the ground space they occupy; and, clambering into trees, overtop the garden as the forest. Vines are most commonly trained up trellises of wood, string, or wire, and grown over pergolas and arbors; but they are given many other supports. In some of the Southern states ivied tree trunks give a look of age to yards; magnolia gardens, the most celebrated in America, have an especial grace, sprays of wisteria and Lady Banksia roses hanging from the trees; trumpet vine, reddening the gray-draped liveoaks, is a prime beauty of our woods. But a vine that twines closely must never be allowed to run up a tree, as it will cause constrictions and bulges of the trunk and perhaps even the death of the tree. I once saw a tree near Fredericksburg that had gathered strength to break its strangler. The trunk of a dead tree is often left to become a support for vines, clematis being particularly pretty when it climbs over a tall stump. A wall that bare says, "Keep out," when partly covered with vines says instead, "It is pleasant within." One charm of the celebrated walled gardens in Charleston is smilax and queen's crown dropping down to the passersby. Many people in Austin drive a certain way to see bigonia flowering over a low stone wall. Vines may be trained to good advantage over uninteresting shrubs, and allowed to wander at will over stream banks, which they help hold from erosion.

Vines Ask Little

Vines ask so little that that little should be generously given. Since their roots strike downward, the soil should be deeply dug. It should be compounded of loam and manure, with perhaps an addition of leaf mold. Fertilizer should be given once a year to perennial vines. Supports should be provided before they are needed; it is pitiful to see a vine sprawling over the ground in search of something that will lift it up.

Fashions in vines change as in other plants. Thirty years ago every southern home, were it ever so humble, was fragrant with Madeira vine; and the succulent leaves when pounded were as good a poultice for a bruised knee as bread and milk. Now Madeira vine is seldom seen, and one looks through catalogs for it in vain. Gourds, with fruits useful for dippers and canteens, belonged to the frontier, and now that the frontier has passed are grown only occasionally by some one with a taste for curiosities. Even honeysuckle, which has both evergreen foliage and fragrance to commend it, is no longer certain to be chosen. A few vines, chief among them English ivy and wisteria, are for all time.

Some vines are grown for their foliage alone. English ivy (Hedera helix); a variegated form of the same species; Boston ivy(Supelopsis veitchi), which turns crimson in fall; and American ivy, or Virginia creeper (Ampelopsis quinquefolia), also deciduous, are all used chiefly to cover the walls of stone buildings. English ivy is further used as a ground cover and, severely clipped, as a borded to flower beds. If it runs up trees, it should not be allowed to reach the smaller branches. The specific name of Virginia creeper, quinquefolia, should be remembered by those who are vague about the difference between this vine and poison ivy; for "quainquefolia" means five-leaved, and poison ivy has but three leaflets. Two handsome, low-growing foliage vines, good for covering walls are euonymus radicans, which looks much like the shrub euonymus commonly grown, and fiscus repens, or creeping fig, evergreen and small-leaved.

Flowering Vines

The number of vines grown chiefly for their flowers is large. They fall into two classes, annual, which are raised from seed and last but a year, and perennial, which are usually bought as root or bulb and which increase in strength from year to year. The advantages of perennial vines are apparent; the advantage of annual vines lies in their quick growth.

Among perennial and woody climbers grown for their flowers, roses come first. A silver moon wandering over a tree, a Paul's scarlet climber trained above a window, a Dorothy Perkins climbing over a pergola, an American pillar twining up a trellis—these give a garden beauty that only wistaria can surpass. But because they are in a group apart, climbing roses will not be discussed here.

The flowering of wistaria seems almost miraculous; one week the gnaried stems are bare; the next they are almost hidden by long lilac racemes. Wistaria should be planted in soil composed of one part of well-rotted manure and two parts of garden loam. Mr. Anderson McCully advises that if planted to run up a tree, wistaria should be set in a good-sized barrel out of which the bottom has been knocked and which has been filled with good soil and sunk into the ground. By this means the vine can get a start before tree roots crowd it out. Wistaria requires sunshine and much moisture. One species grows natively in swamps of East Texas and along Caddo lake. Since it flowers later than garden wistarias, leaves and flowers come together. But of wistaria, as of so many other plants, species from the orient surpass our own. Chinese wistaria (W. sinensis) and Japanese wistaria (W. multijuga) are the species usually grown in gardens. A variant of the latter, W. multijuga rosea, has light pink flowers, but the lilac and purple being so good, could pink be better?

Wistaria must remain caviar to the general. It waits too many years before flowering and then blooms too brief a time each year to suit most people. The vine for everyone —that is, for everyone fortunate enough to live in the South—is Antigonon leptopus. The reader who does not know it by the scientific name will know it by some other of the many names that attest its exceeding popularity—queen's crown, queen's wreath, queen's necklace, rosa de montana, mountain rose, coral vine, Mexican vine, and Mexican rose. The last two names refer to the fact that it, like zinnia, dahlia, and poinsettia, came from Mexico. Occasionally a white-flowered form of queen's crown is seen, but is interesting only as a novelty.

A white-blossomed vine, beautiful when planted with queen's crown is lace vine, still rare in Texas. Its scientific name is Polygonum auberti. The vine flowers in great masses that suggest foam quite as much as lace.

There are gardeners who would not exchange the scent of the jasmine flower for all the new vines in the world. Three jasmines may be mentioned here—Carolina, or yellow, jessamine (Gelseminum sempervirens), Confederate jasmine (Trachelospermum jasminoides), and star jasmine (Rhynchospermum jasminoides). Carolina jessamine is native to our eastern woods.

Passion Flower

Another perennial vine, several species of which are native to Texas, is passion flower. The flowers are as curiously formed as any in the garden, and this formation has given them their name and inspired a fantastic legend, according to which the story of Christ's crucifixion is told by the floral parts. The five stamens are said to represent the five wounds; the three lobes of the pistil, three nails, one through each hand and another through both feet; the "crown" of fringed filaments, the crown of thorns; and the ten sepals and petals, the ten faithful apostles. But children who pluck off the parts to leave head and arms of a tiny doll and fashion a skirt of the fringe, and who think the fruit, called maypop, quite as good as wild cranberries and pepper-grass, know nothing of this fanciful resemblance. The vine is a low climber and is chiefly useful to run over hedges. Nurserymen list four good species, Passiflora alba (white), P. caerula (blue), P. molissima (pink), and P. princeps (red).

Of the 230 known species of clematis, only one, clematis paniculata, which came to America from Russia, is grown in Texas gardens. The fragrance of its blossoms makes it a favorite, but the flowers of some other species are larger and finely colored. Unfortunately it seems to be difficult to grow them, and they are here recommended only for those who like to try out new things. Named sorts obtainable from American nurserymen are C. Henryi, with white flowers eight inches broad; Duchess of Edinburgh, with large double white flowers; Ramona, with light blue flowers; C. montana undulata, with pink single flowers; and Mme. Edouard Andre, with dark crimson flowers. The advice of Mr. E. H. Wilson, who was for many years in charge of the Arnold Arboretum, at Harvard, may solve the difficulty in growing clematis. "Clematis," he says, "are lime-loving plants. When this mineral is not naturally present in the soil, it should be added. Some of the sorts grow well in ordinary garden soils but all are benefitted by a dressing of lime." He adds that they should be heavily fed, and particularly recommends bone meal, since in addition to flower-producing phosphorus it contains lime.

In "More Aristocrats of the Garden" Mr. Wilson says this of our own species: "Native of Texas is the lovely C. texensis, a slender vine with urn-shaped, thick, fleshy flowers, carmine to scarlet in color. It is better known in gardens as C. coccinea, and there is no more brilliant bit of color among the entire clematis tribe than the bright scarelt flower of the form major of this Texan species." This species and a similar one with violet-colored flowers are native to the limestone regions of the state. Well known to all is the species that in late summer and fall is conspicuous along roadsides by reason of its feathered fruits. Virgin's Bower, Old Man's Beard, Traveler's Joy and Barba de Chivato—goat's beard —are common names descriptive of flower and fruit.

Another native vine, good for large places, is the trumpet vine, which humming-birds adore. It belongs to the Bignonia family, several species of which, not native to Texas, are found in gardens. These are in varying shades of red, yellow, and orange, very large-flowered, and a delicate violet.

Annual Vines

The showiest of all vines for the coastal part of the state is bougainvillea, both purple and crimson. Another vine good for the bougainvillea range is Solandra guttata, or cup-of-gold, which has trumpet-shaped flowers six inches across.

Left to the last of perennial vines are kudzu vine, too rampant for most situations, and honeysuckle, too well known for comment. The red-flowered honeysuckle called woodbine (Lonicera sempervirens), a native of East Texas, is not so often seen in gardens as it should be.

Nearly all the popular annual vines belong to one genus, the Ipomoea, which comprises the morning glory, the moonflower (Ipomoea grandiflora), and the blue dawn-flower, Ipomoea leari. The best strains of the morning-glory are the Mexican, with gigantic blue flowers, the Imperial Japanese, with a range of colors from snow-white to purple, and Brazilian, with rose flowers. The cypress vine with finely dissected foliage and red flowers, belongs to a related genius. The pea family furnishes two annual vines frequently seen: Jack, or hyacinth, bean, and the scarlet bean.

Legislature Adds $60,000 To Funds for State Hospital Here

Increased numbers of patients in the various wards of the Wichita Falls state hospital has been recognized by the state legislature in the form of an additional $60,000 appropriation for the support and maintenance of patients admitted during the past two years, according to information received Wednesday from Senator Ben G. Oneal.

When the legislature made its appropriation for the local hospital two years ago, it was estimated that there would be an increase of about 350 in the total number of patients during the ensuing two years. According to Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent, the increase proved to be more than 500.

The appropriation reported Wednesday, Dr. Castner said, is to provide for the added patients during the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends Aug. 31.

DON'T DISSOLVE YOUR DOLLARS

YOU might as well throw money away as wash your lingerie and delicate colored print goods in the hot water that common soaps require. Perhaps you wonder how to get them clean any other way. Here's the answer:

White King Granulated Soap, made from the same sort of fine vegetable and nut oils used in salad dressing and other food products, will yield quick, rich suds, thorough cleansing, and swift rinsing in the lukewarm water that delicate fabrics demand. And White King's purity protects anything that lukewarm water won't harm.

Texas Girl is Made Happy

MANY times a child has everything to make her happy and still is dissatisfied. This may not be the youngster's fault. Often it is due to a condition easily corrected.

Take the experience of Mrs. J. W. Nolen, 113 Ceanter St., Dallas, who says: "Nothing seemed to please Betty Jean. She was fretful, feverish, suffered a lot from colds. She was constipated.

"Our doctor advised California Fig Syrup so I got some for Betty Jean. It relieved her trouble promptly; made her bright and happy again. We have used it for three years."

Mothers by thousands praise this pure vegetable product. Children love it. Doctors recommend it to relieve constipation, feverishness, restfulness, headaches; to open the bowels in colds or children's ailments.

Appetite is increased by the use of California Fig Syrup; breath is sweetened; coated tongue is cleared; digestion and assimilation are aided; weak bowels and stomach are strengthened.

For your protection, the genuine always bears the name California.

Fight Fat In Your Doctor's Way He Knows What's Right

Physicians the world over now employ a new method of treating obesity. It is based on modern science, and aims to correct the cause. No starvation, no over-exercise, no harmful drugs.

The reason is this: Medical research has found a great cause of obesity in a weakened thyroid gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. Its secretion helps turn food into fuel and energy. When that secretion is scant, too much food turns to fat.

So physicians now feed the factor that is lacking. That is one great reason why excess fat is so much less common than it used to be.

Used in Marmola

Marmola prescription tablets supply this needed factor in ideal combination. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. A book in each box gives the formula complete and explains the results. The purpose is to supply this new method, at a modest price, to all who are over-fat.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and the use has spread. It has for two decades held top place in this field.

Now you see the results wherever you look. Your own friends can tell you of them. Excess fat has been disappearing at a rapid rate in late years.

Avoid the Fraud

During all this time, many false treatments have been offered for obesity. Some were harmful, some absurd. One by one they have dropped out as users found them false. But others have come under new names.

But Marmola has stood the test of time, because it offers the right way to reduce. The use has grown and grown as users proved it out. Let these facts guide you. Don't be misled. You cannot grow slender without harm and much effort, unless you correct the real cause of obesity.

Do what modern doctors do.

Fat is Abnormal

Excess fat is a blight to beauty, health and vim. To those who know it suggests an abnormal condition. It over-taxes hearts, shortens lives, it quells vitality and vim. Half life's joys are missing to the fat.

Be moderate in all things, but don't starve, don't over-exercise. Such methods often bring injury. Combat the cause in an easy way, as multitudes are doing. Simply take a Marmola tablet four times daily, until weight comes down to normal.

Watch the New Vim

As weight comes down, watch the new vitality, new vim. Not only because you lose the burden of fat, but for other reasons. Other ductless glands depend on the thyroid for activity. So this simple help may bring many amazing results.

Go try Marmola. A nine-day treatment costs $1 at drug stores. Read the book in the box. When Marmola does for you what it has done for so many, tell others about it. Go start today.

BANK'S CHARGE BRINGS SUIT

Farmer Claims Malicious Prosecution

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., March 11.—Two suits for damages were filed in the district court here Monday and Tuesday.

Suit for $4,550 damages for alleged malicious prosecution was filed by A. C. Cox, through his attorney Charles G. Ozman, against the Farmers and Merchants bank of Sterling, and E. C. Bryan, bank president.

The petition alleges that Bryan on Feb. 28 swore out an affidavit and information that Cox sold his crop, including 40 acres of cotton, while it was mortgaged to the Sterling bank. As a result of this action Cox was arrested and charged with disposing of mortgaged property without the consent of the mortgage holder.

When the case came up for hearing in the justice court Cox was acquitted and discharged.

Cox alleges that he was damaged to the amount of $500 from loss of time and detention from business and $500 for humiliation, embarrassment and grief. He alleges that he was grieviously and permanently injured in his business, character and reputation to the amount of $3,000. He asks for $500 exemplary damages and court costs.

Suit for $750 damages for the death of her husband, F. L. Lawson, who was killed July 30, 1930, at a gravel pit near Sterling while attempting to load his truck with gravel, was filed Tuesday by Mrs. Lucy Lawson, through her attorneys, Stevens & Cline, against the board of county commissioners.

Mrs. Lawson alleges that her husband was killed when an overhanging ledge of rock and dirt fell on him and alleges further that death could have been prevented had the persons in charge of the gravel pit exercised proper precaution.

The petition further sets forth that Lawson was employed by the county commissioners to haul gravel from this pit to road construction work on project seven.

March 30 was named as date for answering the petition.

Burk Lions Hear Insurance History

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, March 11.—The Burkburnett Lions club met in regular weekly luncheon Tuesday night in the annex of the Central Christian church. Paul Backus and K. C. Spell of Wichita Falls were guests at the luncheon.

After the introduction of the guests Rex Kent introduced Roy Magers, local insurance man, who made a classification talk on "Life Insurance." Mr. Magers stated that the origin of life insurance seems to be lost in antiquity. Historians are not of one accord and authentic records are unobtainable. A careful study of all available insurance data indicates that life insurance is older than civilization.

The principal of insurance was first applied to the protection of human life in the 16th century, the speaker said. About the end of the 17th century the old Amicable society, of London, was organized. Each member contributed the same amount to a general fund. At the end of a year this fund was divided among the families of the deceased members. In 1734 this society changed its plans and began issuing contracts that guaranteed 100 pounds to each beneficiary.

Mr. Magers further stated that there were 128 billion dollars worth of insurance in force at the present time.

*Tillman Referred to Excise Board In Fight for Reduction of Taxes

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., March 11.—Representative citizens from various parts of the county were in attendance at a meeting held at the courtroom Tuesday afternoon when an attempt was made to reduce taxes. Rev. Edwin Brown was elected chairman and Carl McFall, secretary.

Rev. Mr. Brown said about half the taxes are now spent for schools, teachers being paid about the same salaries they were drawing during the high prices of the war. Since much of what the teachers now buy has been reduced in price from one-third to one-half, Brown contended the teachers should have their salaries cut. Farmers have no income and simply can no longer pay the heavy taxes they have been paying, Brown pointed out.

C. I. Kent, another well known Tillman county farm-owner, made a vigorous plea for lower salaries for teachers, officials and deputies.

"Ninety per cent of the farmers have not made enough the past two years to pay taxes," he said.

He claimed District Judge Frank Mathews has voluntarily cut his own salary $1,000 a year.

Agents Supported

Alex Schritter, farmer from east of Manitou, suggested the abolition of county agents. This brought a vigorous reply from Mrs. Chas. E. Caldwell, prominent farm woman's club member of Union school district, who pointed out some of the valuable work Mrs. Susan B. Gray, home demonstration agent, is doing for the farm women and 4-H club girls, while Louis H. Beaty, county agent, is doing as important a work for the farmers who avail themselves of his services and the 4-H club boys.

A vote was called on the proposition of retaining the county agents when W. H. Rice, from southeast of Frederick, said anyone who attended the meeting held in Frederick Saturday will realize the importance of retaining the agents. He said he received enough benefit from that one meeting to pay his expenses for a county agent for a long time.

Commissioner Speaks

A suggestion from a farmer that he would rather have some free seed than free advice brought considerable applause.

Ed Cason, county commissioner from the "Big Pasture," explained that the county commissioners do not have a thing to do about school taxes. After the school district members and officers fix their levy the excise board approves the action, added Cason, because the members of the excise board believe the people know what they want.

"There will have to be a reduction in taxes," added Cason, "because there will be fully $3,000,000 reduced personal and real estate valuation this year compared with last year. Last year it was $21,000,000, this year there will not be more than $18,000,000.

"Last year the county spent $12,000 for the poor. Some people got help who did not need it and some who needed it did not get any help. This year we must raise about $78,000 taxes in the county for all purposes. The time to see about equalizing your taxes is when the excise board meets for that purpose early in June. After the levy is made July 1, it is too late."

Plea for Teachers

This statement of Cason's was in reply to T. A. Baxley who spoke of the inequality of his taxes compared with other property. Continuing Cason added, "very few ever meet with the excise board to see about having their assessment changed."

Cason explained the county agent question as follows: "About 1924 it seemed the opinion of the board of county commissioners that the taxpayers no longer wanted county agents and for a few months we got along without them. Then the green bugs created such a scare that a mass meeting was held in this room, about as largely attended as this, when it was decided we needed some county agents. We had no funds with which to pay them but the Frederick Chamber of Commerce agreed to pay the expenses until July 1 when the county could make an appropriation. Half the salary of the county agents is paid by the federal government. It costs the county about $4,000 a year."

W. S. Drumm, from south of Frederick, made a plea for the teachers and county agents.

"Seventy-one of Oklahoma's 77 counties have agents. Do we want to belong to that small minority? he asked. "The expense of the county agents is about 15 cents for each 160-acre farm."

T.-P. NORTHERN BRIEFS FILED

Arguments For and Against Extension Presented

WASHINGTON, March 11. (UP)—Arguments for and against the proposal of the Texas and Pacific Northern railroad to extend its lines from Big Spring, Texas, to Amarillo, were filed with the Interstate Commerce commission today in briefs of two intervenors.

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and board of city development asserted the proposed lines, with branches to Lubbock and Vega, Texas, would extend the trade area of the southwest and develop commerce in the whole Panhandle and South Plains area.

The Fort Worth and Denver City railway and the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railway opposed the Texas and Pacific Northern application, asserting the proposed lines were not needed and would result in a $200,000 annual loss to Burlington roads.

Smoke a FRESH Cigarette!

Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory Chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the prime freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unfailing guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

The Humidor Pack is moisture proof and sealed air-tight at every point. It protects the rich, flavorful aroma of the choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

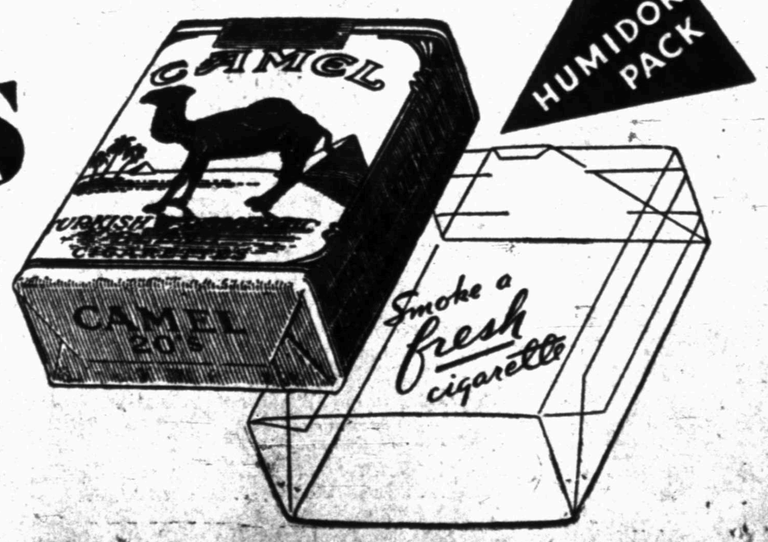

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS

● Artificial heat in houses and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

Don't Forget the Bonus
The Mayflower's List
Communist Courts
Talk of Peace

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Eighteen thousand veterans in New York, 15,000 in Washington, thousands elsewhere, get in line at the regional offices of the veterans' bureau to make their applications for a 50 per cent loan on their service certificates. This will give you some idea of how urgent was the need, and how wise the legislation that administers to that need. Three millions of dollars in checks are mailed out in one day.

Within the week loans to the amount of twenty millions will be made. A vast amount of money which lay frozen is going to be put back in circulation. It is like taking off the tourniquets from a man's arm or leg where the blood has coagulated and allowing the blood to flow again. This veterans' loan may prove the master key that will unlock other doors now shut tight on business through some form of fear or ignorance.

The passenger list of the famous Mayflower, which is supposed to have brought over the first families of America, has never stopped increasing. That boat was the most overloaded that ever crossed the ocean. But now it appears that the Mayflower not only was crowded to the hatches, but bore a group of thieves, according to Congressman Samuel Dickstein, who so declares in a Cleveland address. The occasion is a meeting of the B'Nai Brith, and the provocation is the alien exclusion bill, now before congress.

Mr. Dickstein claims he got his facts from a perusal of history. Most of us have read history also, but haven't come upon this tit-bit. However, Mr. Dickstein may be right. The early settlers of this country were, in some respects, not such paragons of virtue that pride in claiming ancestry, may not appear a bit absurd. To boast of a noble ancestry is excusable. But to boast of a dubious one is inane.

The general resentment which the bigotry of such an organization as the Ku Klux Klan roused in the free citizens of this country caused finally the disintegration and collapse of the invisible empire. The same fate is threatening the Communist party, which has inaugurated an independent court of justice and tried a Finnish janitor on the charge that he had shown discrimination against a negro.

The janitor was found guilty by a jury of 14, and he was punished with expulsion from the party. Expiation is also part of the sentence. If the janitor should perform four tasks imposed upon him, aimed to prove his communistic worthiness, he may be readmitted.

The trial was a fair one, the sentence of "guilty" just. The "crime" warranted judgment. Discrimination against negroes is to be deplored and discouraged. But if a man is to be publicly tried and sentence is to be pronounced, it should be done in courts of justice established by law for this purpose.

We want no invisible empires and no independent courts of justice. Our own may be corrupt, but they are there by the will of the voters, who, when they wake up, have the privilege of mending them.

The new agreement on navies reached by France and Italy seems to insure peace until 1936 among the big powers. But one should not overlook the fact that this new agreement is contingent only, requiring the approval of the United States senate, as well as the parliaments of Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

There's many a slip between the cup and lip. Our approval of the London naval pact came only after the most strenuous objections and prolonged delays. Now we are to decide again. What pleases France and Italy may not please us or Japan. However, if annual debate on such a question is one way of averting war, let there be palaver without end.

Political Realignment

THE conference of progressives in Washington may turn out to be one of the most important political developments of the decade. Certainly it is one of the most interesting.

It is interesting, not as an exposition of the power of the progressive group in congress, nor as the formulation of a platform by these groups, but because it may help materially to bring about the long-awaited realignment of the major political parties.

The major parties have become very similar during the past decade or so. Unless the prohibition issue provides a sharp line of demarcation between them during the next presidential campaign, they will presumably offer programs that do not differ very greatly, and the American voter will have simply a choice between two candidates and not between two widely divergent schools of thought.

This is hardly healthful. It does not provide earnest debates on the important issues of the day. It tends, in fact, to reduce all campaigns simply to a struggle for power by two rival groups.

How far the progressive conference will go in bringing such a realignment nearer is, of course, an open question. The important thing about it is that it is a bipartisan conference. If its members can agree on a definite program for the next session of congress—regardless of whether such a program be good, bad or indifferent—the consequences should be salutary.

The absurdity of the present biparty lineup is apparent at a glance. Senator Norris of Nebraska and Senator Moses of New Hampshire are both Republicans—and are as far apart as the poles on almost every public issue. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is a Republican; so is Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the house of representatives. President Hoover is a Republican—and so is Senator Borah of Idaho.

It is the same on the other side. John J. Raskob is a Democrat, and so is Senator Robinson of Arkansas. Senator Wagner of New York and Senator Harrison of Mississippi are both Democrats. The dry Carter Glass of Virginia and the wet Robert Bulkley of Ohio belong to the same party.

The party label, thus, means little. If a bipartisan movement, whether progressive or constructive, can serve to draw like-minded men into separate groups we shall be a great deal better off.

Women Drivers

WOMEN are responsible for less than their proportionate share of automobile accidents, according to a survey made recently by a popular magazine. This is interesting in view of the fact that public opinion is inclined to give men credit for more skill in motoring. When a woman driver makes a bad move in the traffic jam, other motorists usually comment: "It's a woman driving. What could you expect?"

The melody to which these words are sung will have to be changed, according to the census. Women are safer drivers than men. This does not necessarily mean that they are more skillful drivers. It means that they are more careful.

Men are used to taking chances. They are used to risking their stakes in one toss. Women have been forced to learn caution through the ages. They have never had men's opportunities for new beginnings. They have looked more closely to detail than to generalities. The nature of their work has made them do so.

And combined factors have taught them to beat their husbands and brothers in the automobile-driving game.

When Men Compete With Boys

BOYS in White Plains, N. Y., who used to spend their summers pleasantly and profitably caddying on the golf courses, are probably the glummest lot of juveniles to be found in the earth's four corners. It's all because the unemployment bureau there has decided to give all caddying jobs to unemployed men.

However cruel this may seem to youngsters denied of their job, the scheme is undoubtedly an ingenious one, and one which deserves universal applause.

In times past men have competed with boys in selling newspapers, blacking boots and carrying telegraph messages. Now exigencies have caused them to encroach on their domain on the links.

It may not be a permanent arrangement but it is certainly more important for men to earn a living than it is for boys to earn pocket money, and the latter should unselfishly view it in this light.

I am a silly, contemptible lass,
Rightly condemned (I admit it)—
Such a conclusively ignorant ass
Feels she is smitten: I smit it.
Moons that I sang to are treacherous things,
So are the stars, and I knew he
Reverted to pleasure that sophistry brings—
Found it was nothing but hooey.

Love, in your eyes, is a glorious thrill.
Transient, but thoroughly pleasant,
All of the femmes who are willing and will
Exclusively think of the present.
Such are the loves that are deep in your heart,
But I've done better than these do,
So may I suggest a conventional start,
With someone who pleases you?
Please do!

What a Mindreader!

That self-styled "mindreader" written up here a lot lately (who is going nuts, and I don't mean hazel!) because he can't get his name published, again telegraphs in response to a statement about a mentalist here, Wednesday. His wire reads: "When I return from the Carnera fight I will give answer to your attempted defamation alluding to trouble with the police, etc." In fewer words he would have us believe that he experienced no trouble with the New York police.

On Feb. 25, the court records show that 20 girls, led by Ruth Cohen, of No. 1491 Lincoln Place, Bronx, came to Jefferson Market court before Magistrate Earl Smith and obtained a summons against for a man's suit and a dollar cut him for violation of penal code 421. (This deals with inserting false and misleading ads in newspapers.) The ad appeared on Feb. 25, in the late N. Y. World and read: "Wanted: 3 Stenographers, apply at —— theater 2 p. m., and ask for (name deleted to burn the 'mindreader' up)."

About 11 a. m. the girls started collecting. By 2 p. m. there were about 500 of them. During that time photographers made several flashlight photos of the "big crowds in front of the theater" (get the idea?). Shortly after 2 o'clock a representative of the "mindreader" told the girls that the three stenogs had been hired and no more were wanted. Several of the gals said it was nothing but a publicity stunt to get pictures of crowds in front of the man's theater and they sizzled.

The "mindreader" appeared in court of Feb. 27 and asked for adjournment to March 2, saying he had a radio engagement. On March 2 he again appeared before Magistrate Charles Brandt Jr. His honor listened to several of the girls. On the stand the "mindreader" pleaded that he had already hired three of them. The court adjourned the case until March 12, to give the "mindreader" a chance to produce the three girl stenographers he claims to have hired.

The judge, one presumes, is trying to make a magician out of him, too.

Big Business Girl . . By One of Them

Claire MacIntyre, known as "Mac," determines upon a business career while she is still attending State University. She is to graduate, while Johnny Goodman, with whom she is in love, has a year to go. Johnny is handsome, lovable, but not inclined to take a serious view of life. At a sorority picnic, when Mac tells him of her intention to take up business, he tries to talk her out of it. But Mac tells him she is determined to go to Chicago and seek a career. At the picnic, one of the girls tells of a secret marriage of a university couple. Johnny seems somewhat disturbed at the news and wonders if the young people will be "kicked out" of the university. Johnny, who leads a college orchestra, has a summer date with his jazz "gang" in Paris. He makes a last call on Mac before her graduation and puts her aboard the train for Chicago and her career.

INSTALLMENT IV

Bright pools lay in the streets. In them apricot spots from the sky found themselves drifting. Claire MacIntyre's taxicab splashed its way slowly up North State Parkway. A rainy afternoon had drifted gently to dusk. Smothered scents were in the air. The sunset fire which was slowly dying in the West gave a strange pastoral appearance to city things; it was a theatrical afterglow flooding a scene upon which Mac was to make her entrance.

Could this city in which she had chosen to play her little drama really be as wicked as they said? All she knew of Chicago had been through occasional visits to Uncle Jerry's dignified old house, which now suddenly popped into view as her cab slid softly against the curb. The house, like Uncle Jerry, had undoubtedly seen better days. Like him, it was a bit of a roue.

The two wide windows on the second floor twinkled brightly, and the shade of the left one, pulled half way down, gave the impression that the house was winking at somebody. Its gray stone was washed out to white spots on either side, under the eaves, which gave the effect of white hair at the temples. The whole place was as neat as a pin. Instead of being amused by the profusion of iron work which writhed its way up the steps and around the porch, or by the elaborate design of its upper masonry, the casual pedestrian would set it all down as being quaint. And around on the south side of the house, almost hidden from the street by vines, was an old fashioned garden trumpeting with colors.

There had been a time when this house had been one of the very fashionable ones on lower State Parkway, just where it swept away northward from Davidson Street. That was when Uncle Jerry, always a bachelor and always loving happiness as Mac's father had, kept open house continually for his friends. The two brothers were often together there; life for both meant only a taste, a color and a song. If Frank MacIntyre was not there to fill the house with his full throated laughter, Jerry would usually drive his perfectly matched pair of high stepping roans out to some beer garden in the northwest suburbs; and coming back, with a high bloom on his cheeks and his soul, and perhaps the sweet blur of a woman beside him, the horses would join the carnival by throwing their heads up in excitement and their heels out in delight. Then, when their hoofs struck smartly upon the wooden cobblestones and the yellow blobs of gaslight from the street lights on each corner soaked softly into the night, Uncle Jerry had known the sting of being young and successful.

Uncle Jerry was still young, he assured Mac after dinner had been served them by Old Minnie, the Negro housekeeper, and they had gone into the library to talk about her future plans.

"It was sweet of you to offer to pay up my student loan," she said, kissing him on the very top of his shining bald head, "but I simply can't let you do it. That's something I want to do myself." She cleared a chair of its evening papers and settled her slim young body down into it comfortably. How nice it was here!

"I know, but I wanted to give you something substantial for a graduation present. Something your father would have given you." His little eyes danced beneath the bushy brows which were, surprisingly, not white at all but iron gray. "If I can afford it, why shouldn't I give presents to young women? I'm not so old."

Mac leaned forward suddenly from her chair. "Look, if you really want to do something for me, let me live here with you this summer while I'm finding a job and getting settled."

"Certainly!" Uncle Jerry was pleased. "But won't it be too lonesome?"

"It will not be lonesome. I'd love it. Besides, it will save me a lot of money and I'm going in for saving for awhile."

"How much do you need?"

There was a little silence. The polished rosewood around him reflected so strongly the lusters of the wall lights.

"All I need is to come home every night and put my feet up on the mantel and tell you how I'm getting by as a big business girl."

Uncle Jerry sighed and tested the crease in his striped gray trousers with fingers that had perfectly manicured nails. "Of course, I think you are a crazy young kid. You have no business in business."

"You're crazy."

"You should be married to some nice young fellow. Sitting at home, sewing buttons on his socks."

They laughed. "You don't believe that, and neither do I. I don't think I ever will believe it," said Mac.

"Where are you going to look for a job?"

"I spent most of the day registering at employment agencies. I had thought of seeing some of the large dry cleaning plants. I ran the student agency at school for the Springfield Cleaners. I had to find out something in the two years I had it."

Uncle Jerry's face was stern. It was the face he often used at his office, when he advised a widow to go slowly with her estate money. "You couldn't have picked a worse town for that kind of business. Chicago is overrun with rackets. They are in the cleaning plants—perhaps more there than any place. The papers say there are even racketeers who prey on other racketeers."

"I know," said Mac quietly, "I could have gone to work for the Springfield outfit, but I turned it down because I felt there was more opportunity here. They wanted me to go around to all the colleges in the Middle West and organize agencies to handle work for them. I'm sick of colleges. I've spent all the time in them, and around them, that I ever intend to. I could hardly wait to get out—you know that."

But he persisted. "They go around killing and slugging the little fellows. When you send your clothes to be cleaned, you never know if they will be returned." The line of his mouth was hard now. "Just a week ago the little German tailor who has done my work for years closed up because the racket made him get his cleaning done by a firm which was very slipshod. And yesterday Old Minnie said the new shop she sent my suits to had called up to say the trousers had been lost and some sort of an adjustment would be made. But it won't cover it . . . and a good suit, a hundred and twenty-five dollars."

"I suppose things are bad," said Mac, "but with this new city administration things shouldn't be any worse."

"They couldn't be. Prices for cleaning have never been higher. When I pay a dollar and seventy-five cents, fifty of that is going to some fake association."

"But, Uncle Jerry, I saw big ads in the Chicago papers saying that prices were cut now. One dollar on dresses."

"I suppose they found out that the public wouldn't stand for it. I've never read of so much trouble as they've been having this month."

"Well, I don't want to get mixed up in any trouble, but I do want a job. And up here the jobs grow big!" She arose and stretched. "I'll hear all about it tomorrow, I guess. Right now I'm going to rest the old body. 'Night."

"Good night, Claire. You're in the south room. I'm so glad you are going to be here."

And as she went up the wide old walnut stairs, she was glad, too. Her room was orderly and coolly inviting. There was a great mirror which held the light like a topaz in water. There was a four-poster bed and tufted red-rose brocaded chairs.

After she snapped out the lights, ready for bed, and threw the windows open wide, she leaned far out into the soft darkness. The city was more alive than it had been before dinner. Automobile horns buzzed angrily and cried plaintively; somewhere in the distance surface cars hurtled along noisily; there were heels on sidewalks and voices in the air—even the faint clang of a gong. There was a night bloom in the sky. Everything was mysterious and inviting.

She had kissed her last kiss. She really couldn't stand the strain of falling in love again—ever. There were so many songs about love, thought Mac, but so few songs about business. Yet business consumed almost all of an individual's time. Chicago was built for that one thing alone, just as a campus was built for romance.

This was her place! It thrilled her so much that it was rather a long while before she could get to sleep.

CITY FACES CONSTANT DANGER OF EPIDEMIC, SAYS PHYSICIAN

HOLLAND GIVES MEDICAL VIEW

Two Unfavorable Reports Made on Wichita

Wichita Falls will face the constant danger of an epidemic condition originating from its water supply until the water system is improved, according to the assertion of Dr. L. B. Holland, local physician, during a discussion at the Barwise school Wednesday night of the water bond election to be held here Saturday.

He is convinced after inquiry, he added, that the bond issue is a necessity unless the remedying of a menace to public health is to be dangerously delayed.

Two Unfavorable Reports

"The purity of our water supply has been passed upon unfavorably both by the U. S. department of health and later by the state department of health. The report of the U. S. department caused a call for a report by the state department, and both reports were unfavorable.

"Tests show that the bacteria count of water between the five miles it leaves the spillway at Lake Wichita and reaches the reservoir for filtration, a distance of five miles, increases in the ratio of more more than 12 to 1, from 200 to 2,500. During the peak demand of summer, the call for water is so heavy that it is beyond the capacity of the filtration plant and part of the supply must be by-passed. The only method of purifying that water is by chlorination, which means hard water of bad color and poor taste.

"There is the further danger that a case of typhoid or other contagion may develop adjacent to the open ditch which health authorities might not immediately discover. The result of such a contingency would face Wichita Falls with the danger of an epidemic. Just how serious such an epidemic would be is impossible to foretell.

City Fortunate

"We have been fortunate the last few years in that the few minor epidemics which have occurred have been in sections of the city distant from the open ditch.

"Thus far we have splendid churches, splendid schools, an excellent city in almost every respect. But we can't expect to be an attractive home to many until our water system is improved."

36 Negro Children Examined in Clinic

In the examination of 36 negro children in a chest clinic conducted at the Washington school Wednesday, one boy was found with active tuberculosis and several were recommended for X-ray and close follow up.

The Wichita County Tuberculosis association, Miss Mary Quinn executive secretary, held at this time the second annual clinic conducted this year. These clinics are primarily for children in their teens in keeping with the 1931 early diagnosis campaign conducted in Texas by the Texas Auberculosis association, according to F. Rivers Barnwell, director of negro health service, who is assisting in the work here. It has been found that tuberculosis is very prevalent among negro boys and girls of the high school age.

Physicians serving in the clinic Wednesday were Drs. H. P. Ledford, A. W. West, C. E. Mangum, J. A. Little, A. D. Pattillo and F. R. Collard. Mrs. C. Barbur and Miss B. Snell were nurses assisting and Mesdames H. P. Ledford, W. P. Lowry, J. L. Duffy and E. J. Reasoner assisted in registration.

The clinic will be continued Thursday.

Alice Hanley Reported Improving of Burns

FORT WORTH, March 11. (UP)—Alice Hanley, 9, burned Saturday when clothing she was wearing at play caught fire, worried today because she could not return to school.

The child was burned on the back while wearing her mother's dress and "playing lady." She was improved today and begged nurses at the hospital to allow her to return to school.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hanley.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hanley, whose daughter Alice is recovering in a Fort Worth hospital from burns, formerly lived in Wichita Falls, where Mr. Hanley was in the employ of an oil company. They moved from here last year. His daughter was a student in a fine arts institution here and appeared in a number of recitals. Last week friends here learned of the accident and reports were then that the child was in danger of death from the burns.

District Three to Make Grid Schedule Saturday

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, March 11.—Coaches and school officials of the new Oil Belt grid district, now No. 3, will meet at Eastland Saturday to schedule football games for the 1931 season, according to Superintendent N. S. Holland.

Only four official league games will be on the cards of the five schools left in the Oil Belt district, now composed of Eastland, Cisco, Ranger, Abilene and Breckenridge.

Somewhat of a fight is expected to take place between the coaches when they start arranging their schedules. It is understood that Eastland will demand a holiday game with either Cisco, Ranger, Abilene or Breckenridge and it is likely that these four schools will desire to schedule the same teams they have always met heretofore on Armistice day and Thanksgiving.

In the past, Cisco and Ranger have always played on Armistice day; Ranger and Breckenridge on Turkey day and Cisco and Abilene on Thanksgiving.

With only four teams with which to schedule official games, the Oil Belt clubs will likely go out of this section to fill out their playing card. It is understood that San Angelo has already asked for a game with the Buckaroos and this may be scheduled.

Wolford Tells Value of Pure, Soft Water to City's Industrial Growth

Physician Also Warns Against Disregard of Survey Made By State Health Department

Pointing out the importance of the consideration of public health and the attraction that good, pure, soft water will hold for other industries that might come to Wichita Falls, Dr. R. B. Wolford, local physician spoke on the benefits of the proposed million dollar water bond issue at the Sam Houston school Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

"Regarding this issue from the health standpoint," Dr. Wolford said, every city owes to its citizenship, the best water that it can get and should protect its citizens from any emergency that might arise.

"A representative of the state health department of Austin has told us that our water is not only unhealthful but dangerous to use. That is enough for me. I never drink this water in the summer time and do not allow members of my family to use it would boiling it.

"Now engineers that know what they are talking about have assured us that this water can be made soft and pure and it seems to me that the only practical and sensible thing to do is to vote these bonds and provide our city with desirable water and at the same time throw out an inducement to other industries to come into Wichita Falls with their business and employ some of our unemployed men."

Shields Heyser in his talk concerning the issue said, "If we could eliminate from this question the propaganda that is being circulated by several persons for purely personal reasons, we might work this issue out to the best advantage of the city and its citizens.

"They are bringing in the question of lowering the gas rates and making an attack on the public utilities. Now the gas rate can't be lowered until 1932 by any one without going into the higher courts and you can't possibly beat a gas corporation. This present gas franchise was put into effect long before the present city council went into office and they can't do a thing about it and neither can any city council which you might elect. When we got gas in this city we were so poor that we had to invite outside capital to finance it and we have got to pay for what we asked for.

"Now the opposition will agree that something has to be done. They advocate the improving of the water system but would extend the process over a period of several years. We say do it now and give employment to several hundred unemployed men while they need work."

A round table discussion was held in which Dr. A. H. Douglass, head of the water department, discussed the means of 'doctoring' the water and told how the money received from the water supply is spent. The meeting was presided over by Ira L. Cain.

Marlow Tells on Salary That Pleased George

this thing from your viewpoint. My sympathies are with your needs. I know that you people want work," Mr. Marlow declared, "rather than charity. That is one of the biggest reasons why I am now making this fight for the bond issue.

Money Spent at Home

"You have been told with much oratory but little reason that only a few, if any, of our own men will find employment on this water improvement project. I want to tell you that if we build this conduit from Lake Wichita to the filtration plant, it will mean that 90 per cent of the cost of that unit will go directly into the pay envelopes of working men in this city. The city council already has agreed to this plan. The federal government has approved it. Engineers have assured us it is feasible. I talked with Mr. Kell about it, and he agreed with the rest of us that the way to build it is the way that will give the most work to the most men, so long as we get a satisfactory result. The brick will be made here, the mortar will be mixed and carried by local men, and the brick will be handled by local labor as the conduit is built.

"On the canal, also, there will be a preponderance of hard labor. Building of forms and gates and running of concrete is the major part of this project, and it will employ a large number of men. I tell you, at least $500,000 of this proposed $1,000,000 will be spent right here through the hands of working people."

The poor washerwoman "about whom Mr. Cox has been talking so pleadingly of late" is not going to pay for the bond issue, Mr. Marlow said. Industrial concerns, the railroads, and residents "on the hill" will pay by far the largest portion of the amount which will be required annually to retire the water bonds, he said.

A Man Who Believes

"You may vote this issue down," declared the speaker. "Some of us may be able to stay here. I don't know how long. But you can let all of us walk out of town, barefooted and empty-handed: Wichita Falls would still make a city within 15 years. With the trunk lines and highways which we have converging here: the agricultural resources surrounding us; and the oil reserves which will not always remain below par, this city can not have anything but a bright future. But we never before have seen such a condition as we have upon us now, and it is now that we must do something to provide you men a chance to earn a pay check.

"I think the sunshine is coming over the hill soon. But better conditions next fall or next year don't fill your dinner pail now. The reason I'm fighting and voting for this bond issue is to provide work now for the men here who need it so desperately."

Denouncing the "dragging in" of other matters to cloud the issue on the water bonds, Mr. Marlow again quoted an opposition leader as excusing such a policy by remarking that "it is darned good politics."

Mr. George's Salary

"You have heard a lot of howling about the city manager and city salaries," the speaker continued. "Now I think there are some salaries that ought to be reduced—some of them, especially with conditions the way they are now. But that has nothing to do with this water bond election, Mr. George, who is leading the fight against these bonds, compels me to give you a few facts about him.

"When Mr. George sought the position of city attorney, I was asked by one of his friends to help him get it. I called the alderman who would cast the deciding vote between two candidates, and Mr. George got the job. Now while he was city attorney, he got a monthly salary from the various school boards here to bring his pay up to $525 a month—$250 from one source, $200 from another, $50 from another, and $25 from another, I think it was: $525 a month, more than any city official is getting here now except the city manager. And you don't recall hearing any loud complaint from Mr. George then about exorbitant salaries, do you?"

Referring to charges that supporters of the bond issue are motivated only by the vision of a "rich melon" which is to be cut if the issue carries, Mr. Harris said:

"You know, I'm just foolish and old-fashioned enough to believe that most folks are honest. I have confidence in our city officials. When they lined up with the rest of us to spend $50,000 of the city's money this winter to make work for our unemployed, I was convinced of their sincerity. Any man who would bring in laborers from outside this city, considering the situation which exists here and our dependence upon one another, would be just a plain fool. These men who are being charged with harboring such designs are not that kind."

Why Water was "Pure"

Appealing to his hearers to be guided by established facts rather than by prejudice, and to insist upon complete fairness in the presentation of claims in this campaign, Mr. Harris said mentioned the present condition of the city water supply as shown by recent tests. Referring to a statement published Wednesday showing that on March 2, the Glover laboratories showed a very low bacterial count in our four specimens of water, it was shown that the specimens on which those readings were made were taken from two shipments of Ozarka water, one bottle of Perfection water, and one bottle of Crystal Pure water. None of the four was taken from the city mains, it was shown.

"All the professional and business men and lawyers stacked together won't make a city," declared Mr. Harris. "Without working men, there is no city building. The business man today is in the same condition as the laboring man. He is hanging on by his teeth, and wondering how much longer he can hang on. Like you also, he has implicit confidence in this city. So have I. I have a little property here—it is all I have. You must know that I could not sell my three places right now for enough to get out of town on. That's why I am interested in this bond issue—I want to live here. And we can't live here unless we provide work for the working men of the town.

"What shall we do? I said to a man wanted to know why I am voting for these bonds: 'If I came to you tomorrow morning and told you that if you would give me a $10 bill, I could put 50 local men to work for 30 days, what would you do—would you give me the $10?' He replied that he would, of course. Now that's why I am for the bond issue, and why you must be. You are not asking the Red Cross nor the community chest to feed and clothe you. You are asking only for a chance to work so that you may provide your wives and children the food and clothing to which they are entitled."

Austin Voted 4 Million

Mr. Harris described a recent visit to Austin on which a former schoolmate, Lonnie McKain, made him acquainted with bond issues utilized there in recent years to check the business depression. Anticipating a general depression, he said, young business men of Austin got out in 1928 and secured the passage of bond issues totaling $4,250,000. Up to the first of January, 1931, he continued, about $3,000,000 of that amount had been spent, almost entirely within the city of Austin. Only one vacant building could be found on the main business street, there were practically no unemployed, and Austin leads the cities of Texas in building activities, Mr. Harris said.

In response to a request from the floor, the speaker quoted figures showing the relative bonded indebtedness per capita in leading cities of Texas. The average among about 20 of the largest cities in the state was announced as $128.99, while that of Wichita Falls is $81.50. Only two cities in the entire group showed smaller per capita indebtedness than this city, and in each case the difference was but a few dollars.

O. B. Kelly acted as chairman of the meeting.

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many deaths have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen, and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint overcomes such affections as sore, tired, aching, purfied or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it.—Adv.

MAYOR WALKER FACES INQUIRY

New York Leaders Seek Complete Investigation

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Out of a boiling plot of corruption charges and denials shot two new demands today for a sweeping investigation of the administration headed by Mayor James J. Walker. None of the charges reflected on the mayor's personal integrity.

One hundred and fifty men and women attending a meeting of the New York board of trade applauded loudly as they approved a motion for a complete and immediate legislative inquiry into the city's affairs.

The Society for the Prevention of Crime announced it would send letters to all legislators demanding a city-wide inquiry to be headed by Samuel Seabury, present investigator of magistrates' courts and of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain.

Samuel Marcus, general counsel for the society, denied the society's demands were directed at Mayor Walker alone.

"We are asking for a city-wide inquiry and, of course, the mayor's office is included," he said.

President W. J. L. Banham of the board of trade announced forthcoming appointment of a "business men's committee," described as an institution of super-government to represent the people directly and awaken a new sense of public duty.

Dr. H. Parker Willis, editor of the Journal of Commerce, who proposed the committee, said it should try to "curtail the terrible burden of taxation in this city, the corruption in public life, the debauched condition of our courts, the unsatisfactory commercial situation and above all the uncertainties and hazards to human life involved in the present state of things."

Meanwhile Mr. Seabury received from Governor Roosevelt a formal commission authorizing him to investigate charges of incompetency, inefficiency and futility made by the City club against District Attorney Crain.

Appeals Court Reverses Sentence Given Dan Ellis and Blackie Wilson

Status of Other Cases Undecided Here After Opinion Upsets Grand Jury Procedure

Court decisions upon which C. P. (Blackie) Wilson and Dan Ellis were convicted on charges of bribery here about a year ago were reversed by the criminal court of appeals Wednesday morning, according to a special dispatch from Austin.

According to the information received, the higher court held that the trial judge erred in charging the jury. Wilson and Ellis were sentenced to two years' imprisonment each, and have been at liberty on bond pending action upon their appeal.

Further effects of Wednesday morning's action of the appealiate court were seen in its holding that reconvening of the grand jury of the 30th district court by the judge of the 78th district court for a succeeding term is illegal. This practice, it was said, has been followed here for many years.

District Attorney Sam B. Spence declared that the status of the Wilson-Ellis case could not be determined definitely until the complete opinion of the criminal court of appeals is available for his study. At the office of R. E. and Cedric Taylor, who represented Wilson and Ellis at the trial, it was said that no plans for further action in the case would be made until a copy of the higher court's opinion is received. Other attorneys expressed the opinion that if the appellate court's findings prove to be as extensive as Wednesday's dispatch indicated, it might have the effect of invalidating indictments returned by reassembled juries during a period of nearly 10 years.

Wilson and Ellis were accused of accepting $95 from J. J. Crow of Lubbock for releasing a shipment of liquor which Crow testified he was running to Lubbock. The officers denied the charge, declaring the case a "frame-up" against them as the result of their activity against law violators.

The commission would be composed of five members, appointed by the governor.

The commission would be charged with investigating the costs of county, municipal, township and school district governments, with studying their organization and methods and recommending legislation to promote efficiency and economy.

Rare Coffees from Central America

Twice the Richness . . . Twice the Flavor

(EVENS GALLOWAY)

From Lofty Mountain Plantations Mules Carry These Coffees to Town.

(FOLGER PHOTO)

Coffees That Experts Concede Are Not Duplicated Anywhere Else in the World

HAVE you tasted it yet? This rare flavor in coffee that people everywhere are talking about.

It comes from tiny mountain districts along the West Coast of Central America. A region where Nature produces coffees that, experts concede, are not duplicated anywhere else in the world. Coffees with a rare tang and mellow, rich body that spoils your taste for ordinary kinds. Coffees that are never "flat," or thin, or bitter. Coffees from which Nature leaves out the "rough" offensive oils.

Introduced by Folger

Years ago this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco where it was introduced by Folger. Travelers tasting it there were captivated by its unusual flavor. Flavor produced by a peculiar combination of rich volcanic soil, altitude, sun's rays and tropic rainfall—that is found nowhere else in the world.

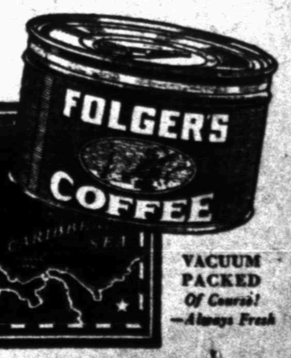

The Folger Test

Would you like to see for yourself just how different these coffees are—in richness and in flavor? Here's a test that is as simple as it is fair.

Tomorrow morning drink Folger's. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. In a morning or two you will decidedly favor one or the other; the best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it? 105

MILLIONS MADE IN DEPRESSION

Despite Hugs Losses, Profits Pile Up

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Although 1930 stands out on the American calendar as a year of almost unprecedented depression with widespread unemployment, crop failures and general distress, nevertheless it was the greatest year in our history for profit-taking.

Millions of people lost money but money does not disappear in quicksands or fire; it remains in existence and somebody gets it. Inflated paper values were exploded and no actual money was lost thereby. The losses were losses of expectations rather than of realities. But, in addition, hundreds of millions in real money actually did change hands to the loss of the many and the profit of some few.

The 1930 year of hard times was a year of immense profit to those who were in the way of taking fortune at the flood.

Slough of Despond

The stock market crash came in October of 1929. Factories closed, stores were forced out of business, capitalists committed suicide, and thousands of persons who had been spending their days staring at brokers' quotation boards and at ticker tape went back to work disconsolately. By Christmas the nation was in a slough of despond.

Yet in January, 1930, when the bread lines were forming in the large cities, the greatest distribution of cash in the form of interest and dividends in the entire history of the nation was made. It exceeded $1,000,000,000.

In September of 1929, the last month of the long bull market and the trade boom, cash distributions had amounted to $480,000,000. From that time onward through the year the monthly payments of profits did not once fall as low as they had in the last boom month, until the very end of the twelvemonth. In August of 1930 such payments dropped down to $430,000,000, but in September, the anniversary of the end of the bull market and the industrial boom which had been building on itself since recovery from the 1920-21 depression, they sprang back to above half a billion.

Collect Rent on Money

In July of 1930, a record for that half-year mark had been made. Although the country was sizzling under the drouth and millions were out of work, prices falling and business concerns going under, banks failing and bankruptcies showing up on every hand, approximately $930,000,000 was distributed in interest and dividends to the fortunate possessors of the evidences of indebtedness which called for payments. The January payments, just over a billion, and the July payments, just under a billion, were the largest ever made. The other months were good, too. There were distributions of $500,000,000, of $600,000,000, of $700,000,000, and $800,000,000.

The monthly average of interest and dividend payments in the boom year of 1929 was under $300,000,000. In the depressed year of 1930 this average mounted to above half a billion. No previous monthly average in the financial history of the nation has ever been so great as that shown in the despairing year of 1930.

It must be borne in mind that every cent of these billions came to the recipients not as the result of immediate labor but as profit on investments, as the rent of money. The classification "dividends and interest" tells the story.

Money Piles Up

This money has been backing up in the banks all through the year. There is so much of it lying idle that it has become an actual embarrassment to the banking institutions to which it has been handed for safe keeping. Banks pay interest to depositors. Rates as high as four per cent are paid on savings accounts. What are known as time deposits draw large rates of interest and some banks allow a lower rate on open checking accounts provided a balance is maintained above a fixed minimum.

All of these deposits have become so huge that the banks find they are paying out more money in interest to depositors than they are collecting in interest on loans made to customers. The great Corn Exchange bank of New York already has cut its rate of interest paid to depositors and lesser banks all over the country are following that example.

A great deal of money has passed into investments but of a fixed-capital nature. Money is not easy in the sense that the merchant, the promoter, the real estate operator, and the speculator can readily obtain loans. The banks are extremely cautious and the possessors of great fortunes are slow to put their money in anything which has not been favored with the gilt edging of many years' trial.

Where Money Is Invested

Government bonds and the obligations of great and firmly established private corporations both here and abroad are favored. Timid capital, although suffering from obesity as the result of the tremendous distributions of 1930, will not take a chance.

During 1930 more than a billion dollars—$1,085,613,214 to be precise—was invested in the securities of foreign governments and corporations. This was 30 per cent more than was invested in this type of securities in the prosperous year of 1929. This billion was new money and was invested in addition to unusually heavy refunding operations. Refunding consists of the repurchase of fresh issues of bonds to take the place of those which have matured.

Less of this money than usual went to Europe and more was kept on the American continent. The Canadian provinces borrowed to the extent of $91,052,000 in the United States in 1930 and Canadian corporations to the extent of $31,540,000. Latin American loans offered in the United States aggregated $237,112,000.

The private corporations which issue bonds purchased by citizens of the United States are nearly always public utilities, some having government guarantee back of them. Subject to governmental regulation and exploiting rich natural resources or enjoying monopolies such companies offer firm security which attracts the most timid investor.

So it is that the United States presents the most amazing economic contrasts. On the curbstone outside the bank which is troubled because it cannot find enough safe investments is a coatless and hungry man out of a job and attempting to support a hapless existence by selling apples.

AGED MEDICO SLEEPS LITTLE

Four Hours in 24 Enough Slumber, He Says

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 11. (US)—Just four hours sleep in 24 is sufficient for any man, especially one engaged in a business or professional pursuit, in the opinion of Dr. Wilson A. Allen, Rochester, believed to be the oldest practicing physician in the United States.

Dr. Allen, who just celebrated his 97th birthday, sleeps but four hours in 24 and finds it adequate.

"The average man sleeps too much for his own good health, even though he confines his period of rest between retirement and arising to a mere eight hours," Dr. Allen contends.

The veteran physician has not slept more than four hours any night or in any day the past 58 years. He has found such a rest period ample for a man of his vitality, good health, longevity and profession all the while.

He Feels Good

"I have not felt so good in 25 years as I do now," Dr. Allen emphasized.

"I gained 16 pounds this winter. I work every day."

Dr. Allen admitted he works from 14 to 16 hours a day among patients, his sole ambition in life being to help suffering humanity.

"I am looking forward in all sincerity to celebrating my 100th birthday anniversary at which 350 physicians from all over the United States have invited themselves already, to attend."

Dr. Allen commenced the study of medicine 80 years ago. He was born in Pendleton, Medicine county, Indiana, March 6, 1834. Throughout his lifetime, Dr. Allen has been most concerned about living right.

Teetotaler

"So long as I live right," he philosophized, "I know that I will die right."

Living right to him means never touching liquor or tobacco. As a physician, he never has prescribed liquor to a patient, he declared. He warned against worry, saying "worry is worse than work. Don't worry—tomorrow takes care of itself, everything will be all right."

Between-meal fatigue is a signal to eat something sweet

Thousands of workers and shoppers overcome fatigue in mid-afternoon by eating a food or drinking a beverage with sugar in it.

IT IS UNWISE to endure fatigue. For fatigue may develop into exhaustion, and when the system is in that state, it has virtually no resistance. Colds and other common ills are inevitable.

It is a good idea when you feel fatigued, to stop a moment and eat or drink something sweet. Such foods or beverages are quickly digested — the body is nourished, and the energy in the sugar is ready at once to renew vigor.

Appropriate sweet snacks can be had in soda fountain beverages, ice cream, candy and small cakes. For children coming home from school, sweetened and flavored milk shakes, also bread and butter sprinkled with sugar are recommended. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. 'JAKE' VICTIMS ARE INCURABLE

Scientists Despair of Aiding Jamaica Drinkers

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11. (AP)—Three Oklahoma City scientists announced today that 13 months of concentrated study of "ginger paralysis" has resulted in discovery of no cure and only slight hope for beneficial treatment.

A report signed by Dr. L. A. Turley and Dr. H. A. Shoemaker of the Oklahoma university school of medicine, and Dr. D. T. Bowden, former director of the state laboratories, described the disease as virtually incurable.

The doctors said they had isolated tricresyl phosphate as the drug which overnight last year crippled hundreds in the South and Southwest, and that the chemical "destroys nuclei of nerve cells permanently."

The disease, affecting numb hand and feet of victims, struck here in February, 1930. Those affected were drinkers of jamaica ginger extract.

Eggplant a Good Vegetable

Many people have a prejudice against eggplant because they have only eaten it fried. One of the most indigestible dishes on the modern table is fried eggplant, which is literally soaked in grease and thus rendered unfit for food.

Eggplant is really a very wholesome vegetable if it is properly prepared. It is very highly prized in the South but it is not as popular elsewhere as it deserves to be.

Eggplant does not get its name because it is usually dipped in egg or has the taste or food value of the egg, but solely on account of its egg shape. Another name for the eggplant is the Guinea squash. It grows on a small bush which is botanically related to the potato family.

Although the eggplant looks very solid it contains more water than milk, for it is 93% water. It is rich in organic salts, its principal value being the large amount of potassium.

The eggplant should be prepared by either boiling in plain water, steaming, or baking in the oven. Probably the simplest way of cooking eggplant is to first peel it and cut it into small pieces, cooking in just enough water to cover. It may then be served seasoned with butter and cream. If it is cut in two it can be baked readily in the oven or small ones may be baked whole and the fleshy part removed afterwards with a spoon. Here are a few recipes which you may find interesting:

Stuffed Eggplant

Cook the eggplant for about 15 minutes in enough boiling salted water to cover. Cut slice from the top, and with a spoon remove the pulp, leaving about a half inch of the flesh close to the skin. Chop the pulp finely, add chopped ham, a small amount of Melba toast crumbs and a small amount of tomato pulp. Mix well, add a little chopped parsley and butter on top. Place in the shells and bake for 25 minutes.

Corn and Eggplant

To the contents of one can of corn add a small chopped eggplant and one well beaten egg. Place in a covered stew pan, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, cook over a low fire for 20 minutes, stirring frequently.

Eggplant Patties

Chop an eggplant into small pieces. Add equal amounts of ground round steak and run mixture through food chopper. Mold into patties, place a slice of tomato on top and bake in the oven until brown.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hyper-tension

Question—M. H. writes: "I would like to know the difference between arterial hardening and arterial tension. One doctor told me I hardening of the arteries, another, hypertension of the arteries. Going through a clinic, they told me I had slight hyper-tension, but most of my trouble was caused from nervousness. They could find no other cause for high blood pressure. My worst trouble at present seems an awful blue, depressed feeling, with sensations of numbness and tightness in the head."

Answer—High blood pressure may be caused by the arteries hardening, with a deposit of calcium, or they remain too contracted simply because of a tonix state of the blood, where the calcium does not form. In either case, the cure depends upon living on a diet excluding all starches and sugars for a long period of time.

Desserts

Question—F. D. asks: "What desserts would combine with a meal of one starch and several green vegetables, cooked and raw?"

Answer—There are practically no desserts which combine well with starchy foods. Use gelatin and fruit desserts only with a protein meal, where no starch is used.

Measles

Question—S. A. V. asks: "How long should a child just recovering from measles be kept in a dark room to prevent injury to the eyes?"

Answer—The child should be under the care of a physician and his judgment depended upon about the darkened room. It is generally a good plan not to keep the room completely dark all day, but to let a moderate amount of light in every few hours so that if the eyes are affected the change of light will exercise them enough to prevent adhesions forming.

ASH HILLIN, BRYANT AND TERHUNE ARRIVE AT SPUDDER CAMP

The RAMBLER'S CORNER

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Reagan Junior High gave Zundelowitz a good licking Tuesday night to square the championship series and make the fifth title game necessary. Kenneth Stingel, ace of the Reagan team, who throughout the season has been the quintet's high scorer and around whom Coach A. D. Beck's great offensive had been built, was suddenly recalled from a state of suspension and played in the Tuesday night game. Stingel had been cast off the team for what Coach Beck called disciplinary reasons, but apparently his breach of discipline was not so serious that Coach Beck couldn't recall him at a time when a victory meant very much.

Stingel didn't score but five points Tuesday night, while J. Creecy scored 11, enough to win the game by himself, for Zundy looped only 10. But he was there, and no doubt played a vital part in the game.

If the coaches don't watch out, they'll come to be totally ignored when they oust a player for some breach. If we remember aright, Coach Barry Holton kicked three or four men off his Coyote team last year, but they were all reinstated, and usually at a critical time. In some cases reinstatement is entirely justified, and it may have been in Stingel's case. But as a general rule, reinstatement after a coach has majestically heaved a player off the squad makes for anything but team spirit.

Joy for the Darkies

Assuming that the Spudders will play night baseball here this year, League President Gardner had a lot of fun down at the lot yesterday when he walked amongst a gathering of colored folk watching training camp activities from their perch and announced that "Folks, Mr. Huff is going to let you all in free this year, because they can't see you in the dark anyway."

The announcement was greeted with cheer and not a few of the crowd wished Mr. Gardner had spoken the truth.

Looking for Work

Homer Blankenship, pitcher with Dallas last year who now is a free agent, petitioned Prexy Huff for a job yesterday but was refused, the Spudders having on hand at present more pitchers than they know what to do with.

Looks Like Chappie

Railbirds down at the lot yesterday frequently mistook Scott Pullen, Georgia shortstop, for Chappie Geygan. The two look remarkably alike, but Chappie is a bit taller than the Golden Tornado flash.

Sport Finance

It is well known, of course, that our ranking athletes are as yet unacquainted with the fact that the country had a stock market crash in 1929 and is still in the midst of depression. An interesting article giving a few sidelights on sport finance was written by W. O. McGeehan in the New York Herald-Tribune as follows:

The ballyhoo for professional tennis is beginning to sound like the ballyhoo in the prizefight racket. Young Mr. Vincent Richards, who might be called the logical contender since Mr. William T. Tilden II, is recognized as the professional champion, is holding out for a $50,000 cash guaranty to meet Mr. Tilden in nine matches for the professional championship. It seems entirely reasonable, calculating comparatively.

Let me see. Mr. Tom Heeney, the softened up hard rock, was paid a cash guaranty of $100,000 to meet the heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, only once. Mr. Heeney, by some process of figuring invented by the promoter, was picked as the logical contender at the time. Probably he was quite as logical as any of them. At any rate, he got the $100,000.

When you consider that minor gladiators who are neither logical nor contenders are demanding something like $50,000 for one round or so of mingling in the manly art of modified murder, Mr. Richard's request for the fifty grand for the season does not seem so high after all.

Of course, it is a great deal when you consider that young Mr. Richards will make only a limited number of appearances, while Babe Ruth, the greatest sustained box-office attraction of all professional sport, gets a mere eighty grand for a season which lasts 154 days. By any calculating of relative values in sport financing, Babe Ruth is shamefully underpaid.

Any of the magnates will be willing to admit that the Babe is worth at least half a million a year to organized baseball. But it hardly would be fair to ask the New York Yankees to pay all that the Babe is worth. Every club that the Yankees meet draws in gate receipts 20 per cent more with Ruth playing than they would if Ruth were not with the Yankees. At any rate, it has been that way for a number of years, ever since the Babe began to break home-run records.

Some time back it was suggested that since the other clubs of the American league profited to such an extent by the presence of the Babe in the Yankee lineup, they should pay part of his salary. I believe that this proposition was considered seriously, but when the great brains of the business began to think it over it appeared incongruous even to the magnates to have clubs supposed to be bitter rivals paying installments on the salary of Babe Ruth. That would make organized baseball look too much like the big business which it is.

FIRST BATTING PRACTICE HELD

'Dark Horse' Hitter Found In Swatting Drill

By FRED THOMPSON

Ash Hillin, strong-armed right-hander of last year's staff, Herbert Bryant, catcher, and L. S. Terhune, right-hander with Springfield of the Western association last year, arrived in Wichita Falls Wednesday to give the atmosphere at Spudder park a more veteran touch.

Hillin was no sooner in camp than he donned a uniform and started to work. The youngster, whose pitching wavered last year due to an illness which set in about mid-season, is another man now, determined that the past shall be forgotten and the future a rosy one. More than that, Hillin has convinced the Spudder powers of his determination, and they, in turn, have become convinced that the former star of the Texas Aggies will come through.

Others Start Today

Bryant and Terhune, the latter of whom is also counted on for a great season, did not get into uniform. Bryant, regarded as a possible first string catcher, arrived late, just in time to watch the rookies go through the latter stages of their paces. Bryant is a seasoned catcher with nothing of the rookie about him. He spent a full season behind the plate with Wilkes-Barre of the New York-Penn last year. He is of medium height, dark of eye and complexion, and is built sturdily. He will get in his first workout Thursday.

Another arrival Wednesday was Alex Lucy, rookie outfielder of Dundee, Texas, who was among the few hitters who could knock out something other than fly balls as Skipper Williams sent his charges through the first batting practice of the training camp period.

But the real swatter of the day was a dark horse whom the club officials gave permission to join the workout only Tuesday night, when he sauntered into Guy Airey's office and asked if they'd let him go out and show them what he could do. "And if I can't do anything, you can just kick me out," he added.

Takes Good Swing

His name is Red Elrod, who looks exactly what he is—a rookie—but he was hitting two for two down at the lot Wednesday. He's an outfielder and his home is in Cleburne, Texas. His form at bat, and the lutsy cracks he took at the ball drew favorable comment from some of veterans on hand.

Among whom was none other than "Bad News" Jim Galloway, Spudder manager back in the days of 1928, who donned uniform Wednesday just for the fun of it, and went through the workout with much pep and vigor.

In fact, Jim and Carl Williams were the youngest players in the bunch, despite their age. Carl not only took his turn on the mound during batting practice, but went to bat himself, and played everywhere. So did Jim.

These "youngsters" and a rookie who early acquired the nickname of "Too Easy" Babb, showed about the only life in camp. The rookies are as yet frightfully timid, a state of mind that should soon disappear. They go through the motions apparently with a will, but there is missing the "talking-it-up" and the hustle and bustle that usually sets in when the gang gets better acquainted.

Babb Speaks Up

Howard Babb, in fact, was the only rookie to do any "talking" to speak of. This lanky youngster, a pitcher, roved around in the infield and attempted to stop a few hot grounders bounced off Skipper Williams' bat. Babb was generally conceded to rank about eight flights below Lin Storti when it came to fielding, but he was not discouraged. When those hot ones zipped through, over and around him, he yelled "too easy!" and Carl gave him another. Which he generally missed also.

Babb was much better on the mound, where he belongs.

A number of other pitchers took their turn, including Ash Hillin, Doyle Taylor, Dick Davis, and Marvin Robertson of Wichita Falls. The latter, a left-hander, played two years under Billy Disch at the University of Texas, and looks promising. Doyle Taylor also looked in tip-top shape. In fact he is in good shape, having pitched most of the winter baseball season in California, where none other than Art Bradbury was his battery mate.

Cooney In Uniform

Bob Cooney, right-handed pitcher who arrived Tuesday, was in uniform with the rest of the bunch, including Lester White and Dick Florrid. Cooney is another pillar upon which Spudder pitching hopes will lean this summer.

He got his start in organized baseball through a showing he made against the St. Louis Browns in batting practice in 1928. Cooney at that time was attending Fordham university where he had pitched for four years on the University baseball team.

When school was out, his coach took him to New York where the Browns were playing a series against the Yanks. He showed the Browns enough stuff during batting practice to earn him a contract. He was sent to Tulsa, then a Browns' farm. He warmed the bench most of the season, occasionally getting an opportunity to finish a game that was already lost.

He played the entire season with Tulsa in 1929. In the first few weeks of the season, he did not have an opportunity to start a game. But, before the season was half over, he became a regular and proved one of the best winners on the team. He won 11 and lost 5 games that season.

Joins Topeka Club

He came to Topeka in 1930 when The Tulsa franchise was moved but was handicapped in playing with a weak hitting club that was in the second division throughout the season. Despite the fact that the team lost about 30 more games than it won, Cooney finished the season within two games of the .500 mark.

Cooney's home is in Glen Falls, N. Y. He is 23 years old, five feet 10 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds.

LITTLE ROVERS WIN

The Little Rovers won a 23 to 20 decision over the Travelers Thursday night in a nip and tuck basketball game played on the Floral Heights Presbyterian court.

One-Point Victory Over Reagan Gives Zundy Third Straight Title

Zundelowitz Junior High school captured its third successive city junior high school championship by upsetting the Reagan Junior high cagers 15 to 14 in the final game of the five-game series on the Zundy court Wednesday night. The game was thrilling from beginning to end, and result was more or less an upset as Reagan was favored to win after a decisive victory in the fourth game of the series Tuesday night.

All of the victories for the Zundy quintet were accomplished after a mighty battle. In the initial game the red and gray clad basketeers eked out a 22 to 18 win in the last minute of play. After dropping the second game by a 19 to 16 count the Zundyites returned to form with another four-point victory, winning the third game, 19 to 15. Reagan evened the count Tuesday night with an easy 21 to 10 coup. Although the Zundy cagers captured the title Coach A. D. Beck's charges led in the total score for five games, 87 to 79. The winners averaged 16 points per game.

Zundy Wins on Spirit

Fast play and brilliant basket ball dominated the five games. Both quintets clicked at top speed and letups were few and far between. The Reagan five held the advantage in height and experience, but the Zundites made up for the handicap with a grim determination and an unconquerable spirit.

Several minutes elapsed after the opening whistle ere the sharpshooters rustled the basket. Stingel opened the marking with a free toss and Woodard followed with another to give Reagan a lead. No more scoring by either team occurred in the first stanza, and the quarter ended, 2 to 0, for Reagan. Coach Roy Golden's proteges passed up a good chance to get the jump by missing five free tosses in this quarter.

In the first part of the second period the Reagan dribblers took the initiative once more and piled up a 5 to 0 advantage. At this stage the Zundy team found the basket when Hunn sank a gratis shot. More goals followed and the Zundy score was the big end of an 8 to 6 count at the end of the first half. Tarkenton, scrappy Zundy guard, and Phillip, stellar Reagan forward, were disqualified because of four personal fouls in this quarter.

Winners Come Back Strong

With a determined style of play the winners came back strong in the quarter after the interlude and piled up a 15 to 10 advantage at the end of the next to last period. Kenneth Stingel, ace scorer and fighting guard, was stopped cold by the Zundy zone defense as was J. Creecy, high point man in most of the games for Reagan.

In the final quarter the play rocked along for several minutes with no score. J. L. Creecy finally took a long pass and sank a close shot to bring the losers within striking distance. With only two minutes to go Creecy again eluded the Zundy guards and slipped in another short shot to give the Zundyites the scare of their lives.

Continuing his stellar work that has marked every game, Jack Randolph, mainstay of the Zundy crew, led the scoring with a half dozen points, two of the counters coming via the free throw route. Cyr, fighting little Frenchman, slipped in two field goals to help the Zundy score. Hunn, Tarkenton, Morrow, and Wineinger, the other players who saw service in the fray, played heroic games and were important factors in the victory.

J. Creecy, lanky center of the Reagan crew, captured scoring honors for the night with seven points. He snared three of the four field goals that the Zundy defense allowed. Woodward and Stingel also played stellar roles.

Reaganites Erratic

Erratic passing proved the main downfall of the Reaganites. Their long passing game failed to bring results, and they switched to a shorter game, too late. Zundy used a deceptive style of short pass that carried the ball deep into the Reagan territory. Fouls were numerous and fumbling by both teams marked the pastime.

Training Camp Chatter

Browns Get Breaks

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 11. (AP)—The Browns went through a five inning practice game this afternoon in the most satisfactory training day they have had since coming to Florida. The sun was shining and it did the lame arms good.

Jim Levey, who was hit on the right arm Monday afternoon played short for one of the teams and showed dash and pepper, although favoring his arm a bit.

Yanks Beat Braves

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11. (AP)—The New York Yankees went on a late scoring spree to defeat the Boston Braves, 17 to 9, today. The victory gave the Yanks the lead of two games to one in the spring series between the two clubs.

Robins Nose Out Reds

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11. (AP)—The Brooklyn Robins won a 6 to 5 decision over the Cincinnati Reds in the second exhibition game of their spring series today.

For five innings Owen Carroll and Frey held the Robins at bay with only one run, but in the eighth John Ogden went to the mound. He failed to survive the inning, being replaced by Johnson. Before the latter could retire the side, the Robins had bunched three hits, including a home run by Boone, and four bases on balls to score five runs.

Reynolds Signs

SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (AP)—Today was a big day for Manager Donie Bush and the Chicago White Sox. The biggest item was the signing of Carl Reynolds, the club's leading batsman and outfielder, who came to terms after holding out for three weeks.

As usual, club officials declined to say what Reynolds will receive, but is was believed to have been between $10,000 and $20,000.

Phillies Play Today

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Exhibition games for the Phillies begin tomorrow with Brooklyn and Manager Shotton is trying to figure out his pitching program. Few of the hurlers are ready because of chilly weather and difficulty of getting into shape. Jim Elliott, Ace Elliott and Lil Stoner are the most advanced and probably will start against the Dodgers. Infielders and outfielders are in only fair condition.

Crowell Player Joins Cats

FORT WORTH, March 11.—(AP)—The Fort Worth Panthers, in spring training, lost one player and gained another today. Joe Jones, rookie catcher, was released, and Jim Rasberry, semi-pro pitcher from Crowell, started work.

Manager Phelan plans to trim half a dozen or so of his rawest rookies Thursday. He wants to reduce the squad to about 20 players by next Monday, when the infielders and outfielders will report.

Bobby's Not Worried

SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (AP)—One holdout is listed among the San Antonio Indians. He is Cy Cottey, pitcher, the only absentee among the hurlers. President Homer Hammond, however, is not worried over Cottey's failure to report, for Manager Robertson is well supplied with pitchers and pleased with what he has, especially over the early season form of Ted Blankenship and Cyrus Smith.

Shippers Clout Homers

ORANGE, Texas, March 11. (AP)—Despite lusty homers by Easterling and Greenberg which scored five runs, Haskell Billings' team defeated the Easterlings 16-6 this afternoon in the second intra-squad game of the training season. Pitching for both sides was supplied by graduates of the recent Exporter school. Joyner White bagged three hits while Easterling, Greenberg, Pierce, Shelley and Rushing contributed two each.

Buffs Release Pair

HOUSTON, March 11. (AP)—Two more rookies, Keisler of Richards and Sanders of Mason, both right-hand pitchers, were released today by the Houston Texas league Buffs.

The Buffs, meanwhile, worked out in preparation for their games here Friday and Saturday against the Rice institute nine.

Few Pink Slips

BRADENTON, Fla., March 11. (AP)—With only 28 men on his roster and the rules calling for clubs to get within the player limit of June 1, it appears the task of cutting his squad to the proper size is going to be easy for Manager Gabby Street of the Cardinals.

The champions' manager already has said he wants to keep 10 of the 11 pitchers on the squad, which means probably that two of the eight outfielders will be sent away.

Shifts 'Em Around

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, likes to shift his young players around. "Some of my best men were discovered by accident or a shift in the lineup," Mack said today. "It's always best to try a fellow out in a few spots, before letting him settle in one position.

"Shifting is an old trick of mine. Rube Oldring was a good third baseman, but I made him an outfielder. Eddie Collins was supposed to be a shortstop, but he made good at second. So I keep on shifting and maybe I'll discover another star."

Estrada En Route

SHREVEPORT, La., March 11. (AP)—Oscar Estrada, Cuban southpaw, the only regular member of the sports mound staff missing from training camp, today was reported en route from Havana. Twenty pitchers and catchers today went through a stiff drill, although the pitchers were allowed to do little tossing from the hill. Infielders and outfielders will report next week.

Indians Beat Pelicans

NEW ORLEANS, March 11. (AP)—The Cleveland Americans continued to show their batting punch in winning their third straight training game from New Orleans Southern association team today, 16 to 5. Joe Vosmik, sand lot aspirant for left field, made his eighth hit in 10 times at bat, a mighty triple.

To Get Tryout

BILOXI, Miss., March 11. (AP)—Cliff Colton, heavy hitting recruit from High Point, N. C., is to get the first of a number of searching tests of his catching ability when Washington opens its exhibition schedule against the Baltimore Orioles here tomorrow.

Because of the youngster's hitting ability every effort will be made to bolster his work behind the bat sufficiently to justify making him a regular member of the catching staff.

French Joins Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 11. (AP)—The appearance in the Pittsburgh Pirates camp today of Larry French, holdout pitcher, after a trip from Dallas, Ore., gave rise to the belief that salary differences between the club and the hurler soon will be adjusted.

After a forenoon conference with Manager Jewel Ens, it was made known no agreement had been reached but that the conferences would continue.

CITY BASEBALL LOOP PLANNED

Junior C.-C. Outlines 1931 Athletic Program

• Efforts toward the organization of a city baseball league among business houses here will be made by the Junior chamber of commerce, it was announced Wednesday following a meeting of the athletics committee at the Holt hotel. Other moves to be undertaken by the committee will be an attempt to secure for Wichita Falls the 1932 state municipal golf tournament, to stimulate interest in the 1931 tournament to be held in September at Dallas, and to sponsor boat races, tennis tournaments and other contests during the Fourth of July celebration to be held here.

R. L. Mathis was named to take charge of efforts to organize a city baseball league and to work with business houses in the formation of the league. Charles Cook will be in charge of arrangements for contests during the Fourth of July celebration. Girard Boone and Morris Norton will conduct plans to secure a large entry of Wichitans in the state municipal golf tournaments at Dallas with the view to bidding for the 1932 meet.

Plans are to be made to entertain out-of-town people coming here for the opening game of the Texas league season, it was said, and will attempt to stimulate visitors to remain over for the second game.

The committee considered a plan to promote a city golf tournament to be sponsored yearly by the Junior chamber of commerce. Further discussion of the plan will be heard later by the committee.

St. Louis Basketeers Upset Third Round Favorites in A. A. U. Meet

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP)—The Lowe & Campbell cagers of St. Louis registered an upset in the A. A. U. national basket ball tournament here today by eliminating the Ascension club team from Minneapolis in a third round game, 23 to 22.

Teams which advanced with the St. Louisians to the quarter-finals in the first half of the third round program today are Bethany college, Kansas conference champions the last two seasons, the Big 4 A. A. of Cincinnati and the Young Men's institute of San Francisco.

Four more third round games tonight complete the list of quarter-finalists who play tomorrow night for the right to compete in the semi-finals.

Young Men's Institute rallied late to send the Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers of Alva to defeat, 21 to 19. Y. M. I. was ahead at the half 11 to 9.

In the fourth round tomorrow night Y. M. I. will meet the Big 4 aggregation from Cincinnati, which whipped the Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers from Weatherford, in the third round, 28 to 11.

Bethany college also figured in an upset by victimizing the Phillips "66" team from Bartlesville, Okla., 23 to 19, making its first appearance in the tournament by virtue of a first round bye and a second round forfeit by Theta Sigma of Philadelphia.

House Pages Excused To Attend Ball Game

AUSTIN, March 11. (UP)—Pages of the Texas house of representatives were excused from duty this afternoon because the New York Giants were playing the University of Texas baseball team.

The house voted unanimously to let the boys go to the game.

Basketeers Defeat Allendale Team, 28-23

The Basketeers added their 17th victory in 23 starts Wednesday night when they trounced the Allendale Independents, 28 to 23, in a hotly contested match on the Floral Heights Presbyterian church court here.

The local independents led all the way except at the very start of the contest, and successfully withstood an Allendale rally in the last period.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—There was a further decline in cotton today under selling promoted by relatively easy cables, reports of less active demand for cotton goods, and continued uncertainty as to the coming acreage. May sold off to 10.85, and, after a rally of 6 to 7 points on covering or trade buying, closed at 10.68, or within a point of the lowest. The general market closed steady at net declines of 9 to 13 points.

Uncertainty as to a sufficient reduction in acreage to insure higher prices for the coming crop was quite generally mentioned as one of the chief factors on the decline, while there also was talk of an easier technical position following recent reductions in the trade short interest.

Liverpool cables said the market there was lower under Bombay selling but reported an increased cloth inquiry from India. Exports today were 16,305 making 5,244,977 so far this season. Port receipts 11,168. U. S. port stocks 3,941,887.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 11. (AP)—Cotton was active at the start today, but quieted down later. While prices started lower, owing to easier cables than due and a general disposition to liquidate, declining to levels 13 to 15 points below the previous close at the end of the first hour, there was a tendency to rally later. After the early offerings had been absorbed, there was support of the market by trade buying and prices gradually improved until by early afternoon values had recovered 7 to 9 points from the lows. Recent declines appeared to have strengthened the technical position of the market. The market eased off in late trading, almost to the early lows, but was steadier at the end. It closed steady with the general market showing net declines for the day of 10 points on all active months. Port receipts 11,618; for week 58,948; for season 8,199,651; last season, 7,899,818. Exports 16,287; for week 94,929; for season 5,092,761; last season 5,467,053. Port stocks 4,053,957; last year 2,101,906. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 96,947; last year 108,660. Spot sales at southern markets 8,396; last year 4,755.

Rail Dividend Cut Aids Bears In Forcing Price Level Lower

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 11. (US)—The stock market today was subjected to persistent pressure.

Bearish endeavors to unsettle the entire list were greatly helped by the news of the day, which was almost solidly unfavorable. Outstanding in this connection was a reduction in the New York Central dividend rate from an $8 to $6 annual basis. Railroad stocks immediately responded to this development and some of the standard rails were off rather sharply.

Aggressive bulls in various special issues attempted to offset the selling and succeeded in many instances, but the averages for all three major groups were lower for the day, with railroad shares suffering most severely. One almost certain outcome of today's market, however, was an appreciable increase in the short account, since a good deal of the selling was traceable to bear quarters. Volume, however, was sharply curtailed when prices declined, total trading being almost a million shares less than the preceding day.

New York Central's dividend cut was particularly disturbing to sentiment, since for the last few days there had been a renewal of confidence that the payment would be continued for another quarter at least. Presumably, however, with the necessary financing successfully completed, the directors felt warranted in recognizing as a dividend factor only the question of earnings, which last year fell below the $8 rate and this year his been close to interest requirements on the funded debt. The Central's action in reverting back to the dividend level of 1923 undoubtedly will be an important influence in deliberations of other directorates who have been considering the advisability of dividend curtailments; that is its most important relationship to the general economic picture.

Central stock broke several points on the news, but there is almost certain to be renewal of investment buying on any sizeable further reaction. Atchison and Union Pacific, among the higher-priced rails, suffered the most severe reactions. Union Pacific is directly affected by the Central action through its ownership of close to a quarter million shares of Central, with the resultant decrease of $500,000 in the U. P. annual income.

Among the public utility shares, the bull sponsors for the leading issues continued highly aggressive and in American and Foreign Power and International Telephone and Telegraph succeeded in closing their favorites higher for the day. There is no question but that enormous short interest exists in both these issues. Although estimate of short account in any stock is at best a guess, it was said that the bear interest in foreign power is close to 200,000 shares.

Further advance in silver strengthened the argument of the foreign-issue bulls that the price of the metal is tending definitely higher. International Telephone's earnings, despite the world-wide depression, were reported to be close to the 50-cent dividend requirements for the first quarter of the current year.

United corporation retained leadership of the entire market, from standpoint of activity, but the stock closed fractionally lower.

Warner Brothers recovered more than a point on reports that internal friction among dominant interests in the company had terminated with a satisfactory compromise. Fox Film was under pressure of professional attack, but the stock resisted firmly. The bears spread reports of a hitch in the refinancing arrangements, but this was definitely denied by a director, who stated that the entire program would shortly be announced by the bankers. There is a possibility that new stock may be offered and, startling as it may appear, there was talk of this new stock being offered at a price above the current market. General Theaters Equipment, as the largest stockholder of Fox Film, would play a prominent role in any such undertaking.

Among specialties, American Machine and Foundry continued to advance. It achieved a new high on concentrated buying for powerful interests who proclaim great faith in new developments within the company with respect to new machines for the cigaret trade. This company has enjoyed a steady upward trend in earnings for several years. Julius Kayser was another specialty which was strongly absorbed. The stock has a sizeable short interest, which is placing its faith entirely on current low rate of operations, whereas the buyers are placing their faith in the strong current asset position of the company and the prospects for revival of business.

Allied Chemical and Dye dropped to a new low, but the stock closed unchanged despite renewed efforts of the bears. The performance of the stock seemed to reflect large-scale short covering, encouraged by the sharp decline of the previous day. There was also a report that the company would issue a reassuring statement to stockholders but this was denied by an official, who stated that the annual report for 1930 will be issued the 19th or 20th of this month. The technical position of Allied is such that a sharp recovery might develop with any period of strength in the general market.

The leading stocks were generally lower, Steel common selling off almost two points net on disclosure its operations the past week were down slightly while independents increased operations. Copper stocks were also lower on renewed decline in price of the metal, with some producers selling at 10 cents. Radio Corporation's 1930 report, showing two cents a share net for the common, was hardly cheering news.

A. M. Byers, a pool pet of the last few weeks, declined sharply. Auburn held within a narrow range. Westinghouse earned in 1930 $4.45 a share, compared with the $5 dividend. Electric Auto-Lite closed off fractionally, but it was strongly bought on the reaction by interests who have been exceedingly successful recently in other active stocks.

Proper procedure for the bull forces in the market would appear to attempt aggressive activity in order to offset the possible effects of the New York Central dividend action. The action of the Rails as a group will have an important bearing on the action of the entire market.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 11. (AP)—Grains scored avances late today, but not until after wheat had equaled the season's low price record. Late rallies accompanied announcements that the domestic wheat price basis paid by farm board allies had been lifted ½ cent per bushel at Kansas City and a full cent at Minneapolis. There were simultaneous indications that the basis on wheat for export by way of the Gulf of Mexico had been cut 1⅝ cents.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to 3c higher; corn unchanged to ⅝c up; oats ⅛@⅜c advance, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents down.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat, declining early and advancing late. Receipts of corn were small, primary terminals having only 436,000 bushels against 1,278,000 a week ago.

Provisions reflected downturns of hog values.

Closing indemnities—Wheat: July 64⅛@65⅝c; September 64@65¼c. Corn—May 64¼@64¾c, 65⅛@65⅜c; July 66⅝c, 67⅛@67⅝c; September 66½@67¾c.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Fed steers around the 11-market circuit were slow at prices unevenly steady to 25c lower. There was a fairly stable demand for well finished light weights, but good to choice heavy steers were under pressure. Although most killing steers are lower for the week, the most decline has been registered on the better grades. Other killing classes of cattle today held around steady. Chicago had a top of $11 on choice yearling steers and secured $10.60 for best heavy steers. Choice 766 pound mixed steers and heifers in Kansas City realized $9.75. Stockers and feeders were scarce with prices holding steady. Aggregate receipts estimated at 33,000 were 4,000 heavier than a week ago.

Hogs were tendered an uneven price decline of 10@35c with weight averages above 240 pounds generally showing the most loss. The day's extreme top of $8.35 was paid at St. Louis for a load of fine 180-pound weights. Total offerings were around 79,500 as compared with 70,430 last Wednesday.

Sheep numbering around 54,400 were 5,500 more than a week ago. Some strength developed in Chicago on choice light weight lambs, but the general market at most points ruled steady to 25c lower. Outsiders in Chicago brought a few loads of 80 to 85 pound lambs at $9.30@9.50. Shippers at Omaha paid up to $8.75 for fed wooled lambs.

Lesson No. 33

THIRD HAND BIDDING IN AUCTION

THIRD hand faces a more complicated bidding problem, as different situations arise. When dealer and second hand both have passed, third hand should have more than the original requirements for any bid. When dealer passes and second hand bids, then third hand should observe original requirements for his bid, with the exception that a slight leeway is recommended as in the case of a second hand bid over dealer's bid.

Square Dance Adds To Red Cross Quota

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., March 11.—Tillman county has almost trebled its $1,000 Red Cross quota, $57.55 being realized at the square dance at the dining hall of the Hotel Frederick Monday night, making a total of $2,757.77, according to Jerome Zumwalt, treasurer. Frederick's quota was placed at $500, but $1,102.50 was contributed, not counting the dance.

No quota was fixed for the outlying districts which subscribed $532.94.

Following is the quota and contributions from the other towns:

Town—	Quota	Subscrip'n
Grandfield	$100	$334.24
Tipton	180	316.40
Davidson	100	308.00
Hollister	50	101.50
Manitou	24	35.00

The dining hall was crowded with couples going through the stately square dances of the past to the music of old time fiddlers. In the lobby Herbert Taylor and his orchestra, from northeast of Frederick, furnished music for those who preferred the various modern steps.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Holcomb were awarded a prize, given by J. R. Scarden, proprietor of the Hotel Frederick, for being the most graceful couple. This couple, with the others in their set, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Holcomb, will be guests of the Hotel Frederick coffee shop at dinner at some future date.

The hotel dining hall and lobby were crowded with people from the town and country, many men coming in overalls.

Neck-Twisting Ghost Dominates Homes of New Guinea, Woman Finds

NEW YORK, March 11. (US)—Dr. Margaret Mead, curator of anthropology at the museum of natural history, lived in a haunted house for months.

Somehow she survived to tell the tale, and she has added her ghost findings to the knowledge of primitive races which she is collecting in connection with her anthropological work. She told of her ghostly experiences at a recent meeting of the Women Geographers' society. She said:

"Our house was built on piles over the water just off the mainland of New Guinea, and it was one of the most thoroughly haunted houses in the vicinity. Our patron ghost was always present, watching us, criticizing us, protecting us, punishing us. It was quite a strain living under his cantankerous supervision.

"Our ghost, whose name was Petri, has in his lifetime been the grandfather of the man who was chief of the servants' staff for my husband and me.

"Petri had been a good man, except that he was fond of twisting the necks of people who went against his will.

"If I had a sore throat, I was solemnly informed that Petri had twisted my neck during the night, because I had offended him.

"There were so many religious rules among the natives of New Guinea that Petri believed in. He believed, among other things, that husbands and wives should never talk to each other. If a wife did talk to her husband, it was the husband's duty to give her a good beating.

"I found that household ghosts dominated every home in our district. People feared them and respected them."

Dr. Mead said that although cannibalism once existed among New Guinea natives, it has practically died out by now. She said:

"You see it is bad form to eat your friends. Only the body of an enemy could be eaten."

OPTIMIST CLUB PLANS PARTY

New Officers to Assume Duties April 1

Dr. George T. Singleton will become president of the Optimist club at an installation party to be held Wednesday evening, April 1, following his election at the weekly meeting of the club held Wednesday noon at the First Christian church.

Plans for the installation party are to be made by Sydney Waghorne, Solon R. Featherston, Ira D. Brown, Floyd Randel, and Wilburn Page.

Other officers elected were W. Ralph Hyer, first vice president; L. E. Stone, second vice president; Clifford E. Deaton, third vice president; Jesse McLarry, fourth vice president; Dr. Claude M. Simpson, chaplain; Ira D. Brown, secretary; Jimmie L. Randel, treasurer; N. Manoushagian, sergeant at arms; B. D. Sartin, song leader; and John E. Butts, E. L. Buelow and Henry Hamilton, new directors.

Discussing "Aids to Memory," E. M. Avery, public speaking instructor, declared that good memory is the result of two forces—outside stimulus and inside mental pictures. He told of memory habits used by Lincoln and Roosevelt, and stated that in the University of Cairo, where 21,000 students are registered, the applicant must repeat the Koran from memory in order to be accepted. Repetition and association are the greatest aids to memory, he said.

"The mind is an associating machine," said the speaker. "It is important that we give our minds an opportunity to associate new facts with known ones. Most of us have difficulty in remembering the names of acquaintances. The eye is 20 times more reliable than the ear. Look at the eyes, the ears, the nose, the chin. Pay no attention to the teeth or the hair: they may be gone the next time you see that person."

Miss Juanita Prince entertained with several vocal solos, playing her own accompaniment. Ralph Hyer was in charge of the program.

Katy and T. P. Offer Fast East Texas Service

Effective Wednesday the Texas and Pacific railway has set back its schedule for train No. 4, at Dallas so as to make connection with the Katy train leaving Wichita Falls afternoons at 4 o'clock, this being done to give passengers quick schedules into the East Texas oil fields.

A passenger can leave Wichita Falls at 4 o'clock in the afternoon over the Katy, arrive in Dallas at 10:10 that evening and leave on the Texas and Pacific at 10:20, or just 10 minutes later. The Texas and Pacific arrives in Longview at 2 o'clock in the morning.

The train out of Dallas carries a set-out Pullman, which permits the passenger to stay in the Pullman the entire night, thus eliminating a hotel bill. Reservations for the Pullmans can be made by calling the office of W. A. Little, district freight and passenger agent in Wichita Falls.

Low railroad fares prevail into East Texas. A fare of one and one-third rate is given for round-trips, good for 30 days, with stop over privileges allowed. A week-end roundtrip ticket can be purchased for the one-way fare plus 25 cents. This ticket permits leaving Wichita Falls on Friday afternoons and returning to arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday morning Pullman privileges are permitted.

Wreckers Start Work On Old First Methodist Building

Dismantling of the old First Methodist church building at Tenth street and Lamar avenue was started Wednesday morning by R. H. Gregg, who has charge of the wrecking of the building. The remainder of the week will be spent in tearing down the interior decorations of the edifice, Mr. Gregg said.

The job is expected to be completed within the next 30 days. The materials from the building will be used in erecting the administration building of the new church just behind the new building at Travis and Eleventh streets.

The site where the old building now stands will be used for the erection of the new federal building and postoffice.

Dobie's Legends Bring Visions Of Riches to Woman

County Judge John P. Marrs is convinced that one woman in Mississippi has been reading J. Frank Dobie's now famous book, "Coronado's Children," treating of the centuries-old search for hidden treasures in Texas.

For Judge Marrs received a letter Wednesday from the woman, who lives in Coker, Miss. She requests immediate and full information relative to one Dr. Josiah Boswell, "who departed this life about 100 years ago in 'Wichitan' county, Texas." According to the letter, the doctor left an estate of $100,000 in the hands of his widow, Mrs. Harriett Boswell. Since that time, the writer asserted, "nothing more has been done." She states that there were four or five children, whose exact names can not be obtained, but that she is one of the heirs of the original doctor.

According to Judge Marrs, neither he nor Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, could find any trace whatever of any such persons having lived in this locality. This was not considered strange, since Wichita county was organized in 1882.

Youth Cleared Of Gas Theft Charge

Otis Parton, charged with theft of gasoline and oil from a Wichita county truck on the Iowa Park highway last Nov. 13, was acquitted by a jury which returned its verdict Wednesday afternoon before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law. Parton was the third youth brought to trial for the alleged offense. Two have been acquitted, and the other case resulted in a hung jury.

FILLING STATION ROBBED

Burglars obtained $40 Tuesday night after entering the American filling station at 2300 Brook, according to a report to police Wednesday. Entrance was gained by forcing the front door, it was said.

"Dance, Fools, Dance!" and "One Heavenly Night" will both have their last day at the Strand and Majestic Thursday, and those who haven't seen either and who can't find anything else to do will have a difficult time choosing for the evening's entertainment.

Both have their good spots, provided, by Cliff Edwards in the Strand picture and by Leon Errol at the Majestic. The only way left to decide is by which would have the worst bad spots. If it is more irritating to watch Joan Crawford emote in her sepulchral style than to hear John Boles singing in the rain with a concealed orchestra, let the Strand go. If vice versa, don't go to the Majestic. It will only puzzle you to find out which night was the heavenly one, anyhow.

◇ ◇ ◇

Both these pictures are good examples of the brilliant talent being exhibited by young title writers in Hollywood. It makes one wonder what titles were rejected, if these were accepted. Judging by these, the officers get together, run over a list of names, pick out the sexiest, and then see the picture. If the picture happens to refer to anything in the play, the name is changed.

◇ ◇ ◇

Their naming talent is comparable only to the intelligence of the censors who decided that "The Queen's Husband" was too risque for a name for a picture and ruled that it should be called "The Royal Bed" instead. It sounds as if the censors were stockholders.

Last Rites Held For Jerry Penix

Funeral services for Jerry Penix, 78, a resident of Texas for more than half a century, were held Wednesday afternoon from the First Christian church, with Dr. H. T. Wood, pastor, in charge. Burial was in Riverside. Pallbearers were C. E. Stephens, J. H. Davis, J. W. Hopper, W. P. Killingsworth, W. P. Holmes and O. H. Karr. Arrangements were in charge of the Hines mortuary.

Mr. Penix, who had resided in Wichita Falls since 1926, died Monday night at his home, 1502 Monroe street, after ill health of several months. He removed here from Palo Pinto county, where he had resided for 48 years.

Surviving are the widow, five sons, W. H. Penix of Wichita Falls, S. A. Penix of Graham, S. D. Penix of Chillicothe, H. T. Penix of Fort Worth and B. C. Penix of Denver; four daughters, Mrs. A. G. Newberry, Mrs. W. C. Nicholson and Mrs. C. B. Edmonson, all of Mineral Wells, and Mrs. Orilla Autrey of Wichita Falls; a brother, Edward Penix of Palo Pinto county, Texas, and 26 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Lions Club Hears Talk by Pastor

Clean and successful living calls for the application of the principles of good sportsmanship, which is "shot through with the principles of Christianity," Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor of the First Southern Presbyterian church, told members of the Lions club at the Highland Heights Christian church Wednesday noon.

Parallels were drawn by Dr. Hall between the tests imposed upon individuals by athletic contests and by life in its entirety.

"A clean fight into which we put our best brings its rewards in satisfaction, despite setbacks we may suffer," he said. "If life were smooth, there would be no thrill to it. The uphill pull makes it worth living. Preparedness is one of the first rules. Be ready for the next job when you are called upon to take an upward step."

Freedom from moral, mental and physical handicaps should be considered a valued objective, Dr. Hall said. He extolled teamwork as the factor which makes possible broadguage success, and charity for the faults of others as the element which makes teamwork possible.

A musical program was given by Mrs. Joe Crouch, piano and violin; Mrs. Martha Brasfield, whistling solos, and Misses Ruth Lucile Synder and Ruth Lucile Crouch, violin numbers.

Copy of State Ruling on Voters' Qualifications Is Received Here

Ownership of Any Property Whatever, Whether or Not on Tax Rolls, Entitles Voter to Cast Ballot in Bond Elections

A copy of the ruling of the attorney general's department in 1928 which defines the qualifications of voters in bond elections was received in Wichita Falls Wednesday.

An opinion as to the qualifications of voters here was requested Monday in a joint telegram to Attorney General James V. Allred by Ed Howard, member of the executive committee favoring the water bonds, and D. M. Perkins, one of the leaders of the opposition. Although the department pointed out that it was barred by law from giving opinions to private citizens, Mr. Howard and Mr. Perkins were mailed a copy of an opinion of the department in 1928.

Who Can Vote

This opinion declares that if a person is otherwise qualified, and owns any property whatever subject to taxation, he is entitled to vote even though he pays no taxes on the property and even though the property may not be assessed. The opinion was written April 30, 1928, by H. Grady Chandler, then assistant attorney general, and was delivered to Sterling C. Holloway, assistant county attorney, at Eastland. The question was raised at that time in connection with a water bond election at Carbon, Texas, and the same conditions apply to the Wichita Falls election. The opinion follows:

"Your letter of the 28th instant addressed to Attorney General Pollard has been referred to the writer for attention. You state that the city of Carbon, which is an incorporated city, has ordered an election for the issuance of bonds for a water supply system, and ask to be advised who is entitled to vote in this election, whether only real property owners or all tax paying property owners of real or personal property.

"In reply I beg to advise that the law does not make any distinction between a realty property owner and a personal property owner, the only question is whether they are qualified tax payers. Article 6, section 3 of the constitution provides that in city elections to determine expenditures of money, only those shall be qualified to vote who pay taxes on property in said city. Article 701, Revised Civil Statutes, provides that the qualified voters in bond elections are property tax payers.

Authorities Quoted

"One who pays taxes has been construed to mean a tax payer, and it has been determined that a tax payer, in the meaning of the constitutional provision above mentioned, is one who owns property in the city subject to taxes. See Kempin v. Bruns, 195 S. W. 643; Hillman v. Faison, 57 S. W. 920. It is not necessary that the property tax be actually paid, and there is no law making the tax records exclusive evidence that the voter is a tax payer. See Kempin v. Bruns, supra. In an election held in an independent school ditsrict a tax paying voter is defined as one who owns property and liable for the payment of taxes thereon. Winters v. School District, 208 S. W. 574.

"You see from the above authorities, that if a person owns any property whatever that is subject to taxation, whether a large or small amount, he is entitled to vote if otherwise qualified, even though no taxes have been paid on the property or not even assessed.

"Very truly yours,
"H. GRADY CHANDLER,
"Assistant Attorney General."

Two men were arrested and 47 chickens and an automobile were seized by Grandfield, Okla., officers Wednesday, according to information received here by Frank Burns, chief of police. The chickens are believed to have been stolen in Montague county.

Peace Officers Plan For Amarillo Meeting

E. T. Smith of Hollis, Okla., president of the North Texas-Southern Oklahoma Peace Officers association, conferred with other officers of the organization here Wednesday regarding plans for the annual convention which is to be held in Amarillo in April.

Mr. Smith is a former sheriff of Harmon county, Oklahoma, and is well known as one of the most efficient officers of Oklahoma and Texas.

While here Mr. Smith was a visitor in the offices of Sheriff Perry Browning and District Attorney Sam Spence.

Several officers of the association including F. L. Burns, first vice president; J. K. Ford of Altus, second vice president; and H. G. Ellis, secretary-treasurer, will meet in Amarillo next week to complete plans for the meeting.

Bond Opponents To Meet Tonight

Attendance that will set a record for the present campaign and an array of speakers will "insure the defeat of the water bond issue in Saturday's election" were promised Wednesday by W. E. George, chairman of the anti-bond organization, for the meeting to be held Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Memorial auditorium.

Mr. George declined to list the speakers who will appear Thursday night to close the fight against voting bonds for providing improvements in the city's water system. He said that three persons will speak, and that the meeting will last about an hour and a half.

OPTIMIST CLUB PLANS PARTY

New Officers to Assume Duties April 1

Dr. George T. Singleton will become president of the Optimist club at an installation party to be held Wednesday evening, April 1, following his election at the weekly meeting of the club held Wednesday noon at the First Christian church.

Plans for the installation party are to be made by Sydney Waghorne, Solon R. Featherston, Ira D. Brown, Floyd Randel, and Wilburn Page.

Other officers elected were W. Ralph Hyer, first vice president; L. E. Stone, second vice president; Clifford E. Deaton, third vice president; Jesse McLarry, fourth vice president; Dr. Claude M. Simpson, chaplain; Ira D. Brown, secretary; Jimmie L. Randel, treasurer; N. Manoushagian, sergeant at arms; B. D. Sartin, song leader; and John E. Butts, E. L. Buelow and Henry Hamilton, new directors.

Discussing "Aids to Memory," E. M. Avery, public speaking instructor, declared that good memory is the result of two forces—outside stimulus and inside mental pictures. He told of memory habits used by Lincoln and Roosevelt, and stated that in the University of Cairo, where 21,000 students are registered, the applicant must repeat the Koran from memory in order to be accepted. Repetition and association are the greatest aids to memory, he said.

"The mind is an associating machine," said the speaker. "It is important that we give our minds an opportunity to associate new facts with known ones. Most of us have difficulty in remembering the names of acquaintances. The eye is 20 times more reliable than the ear. Look at the eyes, the ears, the nose, the chin. Pay no attention to the teeth or the hair: they may be gone the next time you see that person."

Miss Juanita Prince entertained with several vocal solos, playing her own accompaniment. Ralph Hyer was in charge of the program.

Katy and T. P. Offer Fast East Texas Service

Effective Wednesday the Texas and Pacific railway has set back its schedule for train No. 4, at Dallas so as to make connection with the Katy train leaving Wichita Falls afternoons at 4 o'clock, this being done to give passengers quick schedules into the East Texas oil fields.

A passenger can leave Wichita Falls at 4 o'clock in the afternoon over the Katy, arrive in Dallas at 10:10 that evening and leave on the Texas and Pacific at 10:20, or just 10 minutes later. The Texas and Pacific arrives in Longview at 2 o'clock in the morning.

The train out of Dallas carries a set-out Pullman, which permits the passenger to stay in the Pullman the entire night, thus eliminating a hotel bill. Reservations for the Pullmans can be made by calling the office of W. A. Little, district freight and passenger agent in Wichita Falls.

Low railroad fares prevail into East Texas. A fare of one and one-third rate is given for round-trips, good for 30 days, with stop-over privileges allowed. A week-end roundtrip ticket can be purchased for the one-way fare plus 25 cents. This ticket permits leaving Wichita Falls on Friday afternoons and returning to arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday morning Pullman privileges are permitted.

Wreckers Start Work On Old First Methodist Building

Dismantling of the old First Methodist church building at Tenth street and Lamar avenue was started Wednesday morning by R. H. Gregg, who has charge of the wrecking of the building. The remainder of the week will be spent in tearing down the interior decorations of the edifice, Mr. Gregg said.

The job is expected to be completed within the next 30 days. The materials from the building will be used in erecting the administration building of the new church just behind the new building at Travis and Eleventh streets.

The site where the old building now stands will be used for the erection of the new federal building and postoffice.

Dobie's Legends Bring Visions Of Riches to Woman

County Judge John P. Marrs is convinced that one woman in Mississippi has been reading J. Frank Dobie's now famous book, "Coronado's Children," treating of the centuries-old search for hidden treasures in Texas.

For Judge Marrs received a letter Wednesday from the woman, who lives in Coker, Miss. She requests immediate and full information relative to one Dr. Josiah Boswell, "who departed this life about 100 years ago in 'Wichitan' county, Texas." According to the letter, the doctor left an estate of $100,000 in the hands of his widow, Mrs. Harriett Boswell. Since that time, the writer asserted, "nothing more has been done." She states that there were four or five children, whose exact names can not be obtained, but that she is one of the heirs of the original doctor.

According to Judge Marrs, neither he nor Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, could find any trace whatever of any such persons having lived in this locality. This was not considered strange, since Wichita county was organized in 1882.

Youth Cleared Of Gas Theft Charge

Otis Parton, charged with theft of gasoline and oil from a Wichita county truck on the Iowa Park highway last Nov. 13, was acquitted by a jury which returned its verdict Wednesday afternoon before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law. Parton was the third youth brought to trial for the alleged offense. Two have been acquitted, and the other case resulted in a hung jury.

FILLING STATION ROBBED

Burglars obtained $40 Tuesday night after entering the American filling station at 2300 Brook, according to a report to police Wednesday. Entrance was gained by forcing the front door, it was said.

"Dance, Fools, Dance!" and "One Heavenly Night" will both have their last day at the Strand and Majestic Thursday, and those who haven't seen either and who can't find anything else to do will have a difficult time choosing for the evening's entertainment.

Both have their good spots, provided by Cliff Edwards in the Strand picture and by Leon Errol at the Majestic. The only way left to decide is by which would have the worst bad spots. If it is more irritating to watch Joan Crawford emote in her sepulchral style than to hear John Boles singing in the rain with a concealed orchestra, let the Strand go. If vice versa, don't go to the Majestic. It will only puzzle you to find out which night was the heavenly one, anyhow.

◇ ◇ ◇

Both these pictures are good examples of the brilliant talent being exhibited by young title writers in Hollywood. It makes one wonder what titles were rejected, if these were accepted. Judging by these, the officers get together, run over a list of names, pick out the sexiest, and then see the picture. If the picture happens to refer to anything in the play, the name is changed.

◇ ◇ ◇

Their naming talent is comparable only to the intelligence of the censors who decided that "The Queen's Husband" was too risque for a name for a picture and ruled that it should be called "The Royal Bed" instead. It sounds as if the censors were stockholders.

Last Rites Held For Jerry Penix

Funeral services for Jerry Penix, 78, a resident of Texas for more than half a century, were held Wednesday afternoon from the First Christian church, with Dr. H. T. Wood, pastor, in charge. Burial was in Riverside. Pallbearers were C. E. Stephens, J. H. Davis, J. W. Hopper, W. P. Killingsworth, W. P. Holmes and O. H. Karr. Arrangements were in charge of the Hines mortuary.

Mr. Penix, who had resided in Wichita Falls since 1926, died Monday night at his home, 1502 Monroe street, after ill health of several months. He removed here from Palo Pinto county, where he had resided for 48 years.

Surviving are the widow, five sons, W. H. Penix of Wichita Falls, S. A. Penix of Graham, S. D. Penix of Chillicothe, H. T. Penix of Fort Werth and B. C. Penix of Denver; four daughters, Mrs. A. G. Newberry, Mrs. W. C. Nicholson and Mrs. C. B. Edmonson, all of Mineral Wells, and Mrs. Orilla Autrey of Wichita Falls; a brother, Edward Penix of Palo Pinto county, Texas, and 26 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

The local post, the largest in Texas, has a membership of 1,200.

Lions Club Hears Talk by Pastor

Clean and successful living calls for the application of the principles of good sportsmanship, which is "shot through with the principles of Christianity," Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor of the First Southern Presbyterian church, told members of the Lions club at the Highland Heights Christian church Wednesday noon.

Parallels were drawn by Dr. Hall between the tests imposed upon individuals by athletic contests and by life in its entirety.

"A clean fight into which we put our best brings its rewards in satisfaction, despite setbacks we may suffer," he said. "If life were smooth, there would be no thrill to it. The uphill pull makes it worth living. Preparedness is one of the first rules. Be ready for the next job when you are called upon to take an upward step."

Freedom from moral, mental and physical handicaps should be considered a valued objective, Dr. Hall said. He extolled teamwork as the factor which makes possible broad-gauge success, and charity for the faults of others as the element which makes teamwork possible.

A musical program was given by Mrs. Joe Crouch, piano and violin; Mrs. Martha Brasfield, whistling solos, and Misses Ruth Lucile Synder and Ruth Lucile Crouch, violin numbers.

Abilene Pastor To Preach Here Tonight

Rev. Jacob Rosenthal, pastor of the First Baptist church of Abilene, is expected to arrive in Wichita Falls Thursday afternoon to be the principal speaker at the Fundamentalist Baptist church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced by Rev. T. H. Mayfield, pastor. Services will be opened at 7:30 by the pastor after which Reverend Rosenthal will preach.

Drug Store Blaze Does Little Damage

Slight damage was caused by fire Wednesday afternoon to the Brook and Eighth Street Drug store, 716 Brook avenue, according to the report of fire officials. A rear screen door caught fire from burning trash at the rear of the store.

A second alarm of the afternoon was answered when a grass fire got out of control on Polk street.

Copy of State Ruling on Voters' Qualifications Is Received Here

Ownership of Any Property Whatever, Whether or Not on Tax Rolls, Entitles Voter to Cast Ballot in Bond Elections

A copy of the ruling of the attorney general's department in 1928 which defines the qualifications of voters in bond elections was received in Wichita Falls Wednesday.

An opinion as to the qualifications of voters here was requested Monday in a joint telegram to Attorney General James V. Allred by Ed Howard, member of the executive committee favoring the water bonds, and D. M. Perkins, one of the leaders of the opposition. Although the department pointed out that it was barred by law from giving opinions to private citizens, Mr. Howard and Mr. Perkins were mailed a copy of an opinion of the department in 1928.

Who Can Vote

This opinion declares that if a person is otherwise qualified, and owns any property whatever subject to taxation, he is entitled to vote even though he pays no taxes on the property and even though the property may not be assessed. The opinion was written April 30, 1928, by H. Grady Chandler, then assistant attorney general, and was delivered to Sterling C. Holloway, assistant county attorney, at Eastland. The question was raised at that time in connection with a water bond election at Carbon, Texas, and the same conditions apply to the Wichita Falls election. The opinion follows:

"Your letter of the 28th instant addressed to Attorney General Pollard has been referred to the writer for attention. You state that the city of Carbon, which is an incorporated city, has ordered an election for the issuance of bonds for a water supply system, and ask to be advised who is entitled to vote in this election, whether only real property owners or all tax paying property owners of real or personal property.

"In reply I beg to advise that the law does not make any distinction between a realty property owner and a personal property owner, the only question is whether they are qualified tax payers. Article 6, section 3 of the constitution provides that in city elections to determine expenditures of money, only those shall be qualified to vote who pay taxes on property in said city. Article 701, Revised Civil Statutes, provides that the qualified voters in bond elections are property tax payers.

Authorities Quoted

"One who pays taxes has been construed to mean a tax payer, and it has been determined that a tax payer, in the meaning of the constitutional provision above mentioned, is one who owns property in the city subject to taxes. See Kempin v. Bruns, 195 S. W. 643; Hillman v. Falson, 57 S. W. 920. It is not necessary that the property tax be actually paid; and there is no law making the tax records exclusive evidence that the voter is a tax payer. See Kempin v. Bruns, supra. In an election held in an independent school ditsrict a tax paying voter is defined as one who owns property and liable for the payment of taxes thereon. Winters v. School District, 208 S. W. 574.

"You see from the above authorities, that if a person owns any property whatever that is subject to taxation, whether a large or small amount, he is entitled to vote if otherwise qualified, even though no taxes have been paid on the property or not even assessed.

"Very truly yours,
"H. GRADY CHANDLER,
"Assistant Attorney General."

Two Held for Theft Of Montague Chickens

Two men were arrested and 47 chickens and an automobile were seized by Grandfield, Okla., officers Wednesday, according to information received here by Frank Burns, chief of police. The chickens are believed to have been stolen in Montague county.

Members of the Montague county sheriff's department came through Wichita Falls Wednesday afternoon on their way to Grandfield. They said that raids on chicken houses in Montague county Tuesday night resulted in the loss of about 100 fowls.

Bond Opponents To Meet Tonight

Attendance that will set a record for the present campaign and an array of speakers will "insure the defeat of the water bond issue in Saturday's election" were promised Wednesday by W. E. George, chairman of the anti-bond organization, for the meeting to be held Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Memorial auditorium.

Mr. George declined to list the speakers who will appear Thursday night to close the fight against voting bonds for providing improvements in the city's water system. He said that three persons will speak, and that the meeting will last about an hour and a half.
