Festivities mark July 4th holiday

Texans celebrated the Fourth of July with backyard outings, fireworks, parades, the country tones of Willie Nelson and the beat of the Beach Boys.

The traditional Fourth of July Willie Nelson picnic bash drew crowds estimated at between 20,000 and 30,000 at a truck-stop city on Interstate 35 called Carl's Corner.

Carl Cornelius, who is mayor and judge of the town he helped create, said the picnic was a total success.

"I think it's a total success (because) everybody's happy," he said. "It didn't cost me anything — except $1,071,000."

Speaking at an impromptu press conference midway through the picnic, Nelson said the crowd was big enough for a repeat performance next year at Carl's Corner.

"I really feel at home here," he said, noting that his hometown of Abbott was only a short drive down I-35.

Nelson also announced plans for Farm Aid III, which will be held Sept. 19 in Lincoln, Neb.

Iran-Contra affair...

North to tell story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Col. Oliver North will step forward this week, take an oath to tell the truth and reveal to the nation for the first time his version of the Iran-Contra scheme he masterminded and then allegedly tried to cover up.

In what is likely to be the most riveting testimony to date in the congressional investigative hearings, North will be asked what President Reagan and the late CIA Director William Casey knew about the Iran-Contra venture.

Investigators also will ask how private and government operatives armed the Iranians and the Nicaraguan Contra rebels; whether North himself profited from the activity; and how attempts ultimately were made to destroy the evidence.

Equally fascinating as North takes the stand Tuesday will undoubtedly be revelations about the philosophy that drove the 43-year-old Marine who has been described alternately as charismatic, patriotic, conniving, zealous and deceitful.

White House Chief of Staff Howard H. Baker on Sunday denied a report in Washingtonian magazine that North had unlogged, private access to Reagan.

"I do not believe Oliver North ever saw the president by himself, one-on-one, ever," Baker said on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley."

"I don't know what he's going to say, but I can tell you this: I look forward to his testimony on Tuesday, and I know the president does as well," Baker said.

In other developments related to North's appearance:

—U.S. News & World Report, reporting on a Roper Organization poll taken June 29-30, says 59 percent of the respondents believe North will not tell the truth. Fifty-seven percent also said they believe Reagan was lying when he denied knowing.

County budget totaled

First look shows 9.1 percent drop

Scurry County commissioners heard a preliminary report on 1988 county budget expenses from auditor Bernhard Bartels Monday morning.

According to figures Bartels called "very preliminary," the 1988 county budget can be reduced some 9.1 percent from the 1987 budget without curtailing county services.

Those figures have been generated from budget hearings conducted by the court with county department heads over the past two weeks.

Budget cuts totaling $305,360 are planned in three of the four majors divisions of the county operations including Cogdell Memorial Hospital, the county general fund and the Board of County Development.

The largest reduction will be $202,484 trimmed from the general fund which encompasses most of the county operations.

An additional $100,000 is slated to be cut from the annual ad valorem tax contribution to the hospital operating fund.

The BCD budget has been trimmed from $45,000 to $40,361 while precinct road and bridge budgets show a slight increase from $383,077 to $384,840.

Altogether, the preliminary budget figure offered Monday totals $3,041,004.

According to Bartels, that represents a 22 percent reduction in actual county spending over the past two years.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin noted that even with that reduction in the budget, an increase in the tax rate for the county would likely be required in light of the loss in county tax values.

Bartels said the tax rate can't be figured until the full impact of a recent adjustment to the county's appraised values is figured. The current rate is 23 cents per $100 valuation.

Also Monday, the court approved minutes and payment of bills.

Happy Fourth...

INDEPENDENCE DAY — Several thousand were on hand in Towle Park for the fireworks display (upper right) which capped the day-long Snyder 4th of July celebration. The queens contest (below) concluded just after 8 p.m. with Jackie Greene crowning Sarah Pierce (second from right) as the winner based on donations in her name. Other queen candidates pictured include (from left) Anita Fuentez, Robin Rodgers, Penny Cochran, Lexi Lynn Lambert, Pierce and Yolanda Chaidez. Volleyball tournament action is shown also. The winners in it were teams listed as "7-L," first, "Corona," second and "Ramos," third. (SDN Staff Photos)

Roping winners

Cody Newton, Kim Billingsley and Jeff Gilbert were top winners Saturday in the Scurry County Rodeo Association Stockholder's Roping, held in conjunction with the 52nd annual Scurry County Rodeo here.

Newton won the calf roping while Billingsley and Gilbert were winner in the team roping.

Gilbert, who picked up a buckle for his efforts in the event, was also awarded as saddle as high money winner. Billingsley and Newton won buckles also.

Second place in the team roping went to Weldon Beck and Mark Mueller.

Third place was won by Gilbert and Steve Yorks.

Water plant work on council agenda

Planned improvements at the city water treatment plant will be profiled for city council members Monday during the regular July meeting of the board.

It will begin at 6:30 p.m. at city hall.

Scheduled to meet with the council is Terry Bilderback with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, a Lubbock-based engineering firm.

The city has authorized the firm to draw design plans for the treatment plant update. Bids for this work are expected to be considered later this summer.

Basically, the city plans to add a rapid mix basin where treatment chemicals can be mixed into the raw water. Part of this basin will include the addition of an ammoniazation process to address too high levels of trihalamethanes in the city drinking water.

Also included in the plan is a new line feed and line feed building at the treatment plant.

Other agenda items faced by council members Monday include:

—The first reading of an ordinance which would rezone a 1.4 acre area located in the 100 Block of east 37th St. from R-1 (residential) to C-1 (commercial). The request has been brought by Jim Petrie, owner of Kids Kampus.

—The appointment of an election judge for the Aug. 8 special election called by the city to decide the issue of civil service for paid firemen and police.

—A request from the Snyder Noon Kiwanis Club to place on city-owned billboards the emblems and meeting times for the various civic clubs in the city.

—A request from the business development committee of the chamber of commerce to block off the east and south sides of the courthouse square on Aug. 1 for a trades day-farmer's market.

—A request from the AJRA committee for motel tax funds to go towards the annual AJRA National Finals Rodeo due here in August.

Ask Us

Q. — Is it legal for anyone to charge tax on labor?

A. — It is legal for some types of labor and illegal for other types, according to the state comptroller's office. They noted there is no general guideline for which services are and which are not taxed. A list of areas taxed may be obtained by contacting the state comptroller in Austin. The telephone number is (512) 463-4600.

In Brief

Rig count up

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of working oil and gas rigs in the United States this week rose to 872, an increase of 59 from the previous week, Baker Hughes Inc. officials said.

Last week, the nationwide count was 813, the Houston-based oil toolmaker announced Monday. A year ago, the rig count totaled 672.

Among energy-producing states, the greatest change was recorded in Texas, where 23 new rigs were running. Louisiana had an increase of 17 while Oklahoma had 11 new rigs.

The rig count reached a peak in December 1981, the height of the oil boom, when 4,500 oil rigs were active.

Local

Shock victim

An oil field worker was undergoing treatment at noon Monday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after reportedly suffering an electrical shock at a site in southwest Scurry County around 10:30 a.m.

The victim, described as a white male, was transported to Cogdell by Scurry County EMS. He was brought from the site by a private vehicle which the ambulance service met on U.S. Highway 84.

New group

A new organization for women interested in supporting Snyder and Scurry County activities will hold its second organizational meeting Tuesday at noon at The Shack. Lunch will be available from the salad bar.

The new group will work with the chamber of commerce in boosting area events and presenting a positive image of Snyder as a friendly city.

For more information, call 573-0654 or 573-8611.

NAACP meets

The Snyder chapter of he NAACP will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Mount Olive Baptist Church fellowship hall. All members are urged to attend.

Clerk who followed thieves is fired

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 7-Eleven clerk who followed two men who had stolen three cartons of beer and was surprised and beaten outside the store by companions of the thieves has been fired, the clerk says.

Kays Kamalmaz, 26, said he was stocking shelves at a 7-Eleven store last month when the men grabbed the beer and ran outside without paying. He said he ran into the parking lot, intending to get the license number of their car.

But he was surprised by four more men who jumped from a car and beat him severely, breaking his jaw and nose.

After spending four days in the hospital, Kamalmaz got another surprise. He had lost his job.

The former clerk said he was fired by the Southland Corp., 7-Eleven's parent company, for what it considered to be a violation of a rule that forbids employees from doing anything to stop criminals.

Southland officials said the rule is for the employees' own protection.

After the beating, Kamalmaz said he lost consciousiness. When he awaoke in Harris Hospital two hours later, he found his nose had been broken in four places, and his jaw had to be wired shut. Several of his teeth had to be pulled to install the wires, he said.

Four days later, he was released from the hospital and told he had been fired.

"I had to get some evidence," Kamalmaz said. "Whenever someone takes beer or gas and drives off, they (management) ask us for the license number."

"I'm not Superman. I can't stop them from driving off."

Aircraft misuse revealed in audit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has misused its emergency aircraft to fly officials at high cost to meetings and ceremonies around the world, sometimes improperly accompanied by their wives, an Army audit says.

"Virtually all of the flights were for routine matters and could have been accomplished with commercial aircraft," the Army Audit Agency said in a report released by Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla.

"The average cost of using corps-owned aircraft was significantly higher than commercial flights ... to the same locations," the auditors said. "The corps should sell their aircraft and use commercial transportation."

The report said taxpayers could gain $6.4 million from the sale and eliminate $1 million a year in corps travel expenses.

The report, which is being disputed by the corps, focused on the three aircraft owned by the corps' civil division, which builds water development projects in this country and provides advice to other nations.

The auditors said the corps' brass told Congress that the aircraft, including a Washington-based, 14-passenger executive jet, are necessary for rapid response to emergencies and natural disasters and for visits to remote projects.

But in 1984, all but one of 254 flights "were for routine meetings, staff visits and inspections, training and ceremonies," according to the report. It said the corps could have cut its travel bills 71 percent by using commercial and charter flights.

Swimming classes set for children

Beginning Swimming classes for children are to begin July 13 at Western Texas College.

Children must be at least 48 inches tall to enroll in these classes, instructor John Gibson said. "This rule is for the safety of the students since children under 48 inches cannot stand in the shallow end of the pool and keep their nose out of the water," he added.

The classes will be divided into two sections. Section I will meet from 9:30-10:30 a.m. with Section II meeting from 12:30-1:30 p.m.

All classes will meet Monday through Thursday from July 13-23, a total of eight hours of instructin. Maximum enrollment will be 15 with fees set at $35 per student.

Persons wishing to reserve space in the classes are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240, in advance of the starting date.

Swimming classes slated at college

Advanced Beginning Swimming classes will be offered at Western Texas College from July 13-23.

Classes will meet from 12:30-1:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, a total of eight hours of instruction. WTC physical education instructor Mike Harrison will lead the sessions.

Fees are $35 per person with enrollment limited to 15 students.

To enroll, students must be able to swim the crawl stroke and to float on their back. They will work on improving the crawl and learn the elementary back stroke as well as learn to swim under water and build endurance.

To reserve space in the class, students are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

Harrison will teach diving

Springboard Diving classes wll begin July 13 at Western Texas College with Mike Harrison, WTC physical education instructor, leading the eight-hour course.

Finding help for the elderly

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 80-year-old friend fell and broke her leg several years ago. Since then she's had a dread of falling and just sits in her chair looking out the window. A neighbor feeds her twice a day, but she hasn't had a real bath in a year. She has no family. She's considering a nursing home but asks my advice. What should I tell her?

DEAR READER — Our society is seeking solutions to an increasingly severe problem: infirm old people with no one to take care of them. To date, the solutions are elusive. Elderly, partially handicapped citizens live in one-room apartments on meager incomes, sometimes — according to news reports — resorting to eating pet food for nourishment. Similar patients, with no family, live in virtual isolation in the country, trying — with the help of friends like you — to keep going.

Most nursing homes have long waiting lists. Young people, for various valid reasons, often are not in a position to help their shut-in relatives. As people live longer, they need more help and support; yet we seem increasingly unable or unwilling to provide these services.

There are several resources you might investigate. To begin with, your friend's doctor may be of tremendous help. Ask him or her to become involved. A nursing home sounds like a logical choice for your friend, and the doctor should be able to evaluate the situation and take charge of her medical care and probable placement in a facility where she can be taken care of.

Ask your town or municipal Social Service Department for assistance. Social workers are often invaluable in resolving situations like this, as well as obtaining state or federal funds if your friend needs financial assistance.

Finally, check with the Visiting Nurse Association in your community. Visiting nurses are close to being saints, in my opinion, because they can coordinate a multitude of home services for the elderly. These include regular medical check-ins, bathing, supervision of medicine, ordering of meals and general supportive care that can, in many cases, literally make a difference between life and death. Visiting nurses are unsung heroes whose ministrations give real meaning to the term "health care."

I think that the combination of doctor/social worker/visiting nurse is the logical way to proceed. Tell your friend that help is on the way.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a copy of my Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING HOMES, which offers a step-by-step guide to rating facilities and finding the best care available. Others who want a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

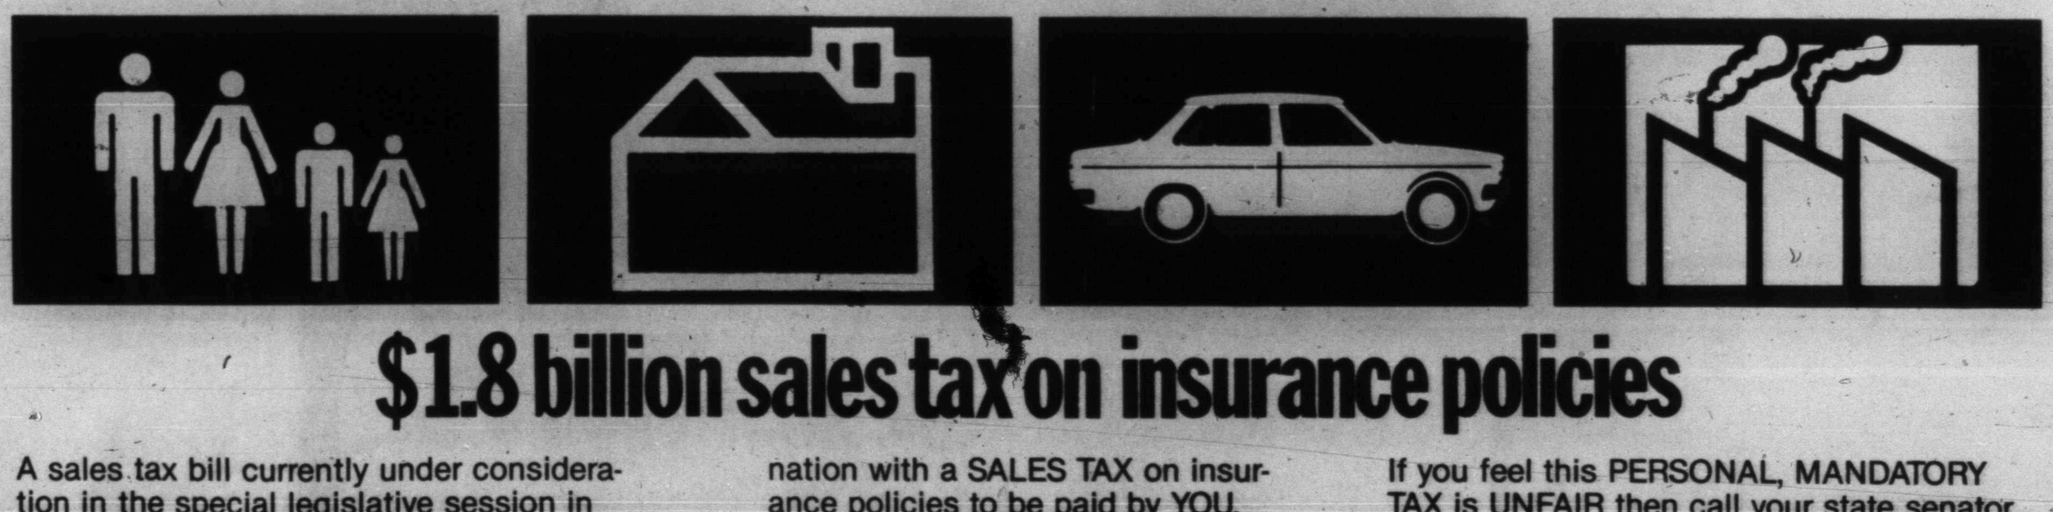
IS IT FAIR TO TAX YOUR INSURANCE POLICIES?

The Texas Legislature is now debating a 6% sales tax on your personal and business insurance. An attempt is being made to pass this law overnight before you can act.



$1.8 billion sales tax on insurance policies

A sales tax bill currently under consideration in the special legislative session in Austin would raise your insurance costs by 6%. This would include insurance policies on your home, your car, your property, your business, your life and health insurance and more.

HERE ARE THE FACTS:

1. Texas would be the only state in the nation with a SALES TAX on insurance policies to be paid by YOU.
2. Insurance premiums are already taxed and a sales tax would be DOUBLE TAXATION.
3. This will be a MANDATORY TAX (most of us have to pay car insurance, liability, homeowner insurance, health and workers compensation insurance).

If you feel this PERSONAL, MANDATORY TAX is UNFAIR then call your state senator, then call Governor Clements. Do it now. They are debating this very minute in Austin!

It is not too late. You can stop this DOUBLE TAXATION. You can stop state government from unfairly taxing you for protecting your family and property.

Can you afford not to call?

CALL YOUR STATE SENATOR TODAY!

Chinese restaurants are dominant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans hungering for the startling spice of Szechuan, the garlic of Hunan and the variety of Mandarin cuisine have boosted Chinese restaurants to first place among ethnic eateries, a new study reports.

A three-year study of ethnic and regional restaurants across the nation identified more than 26,500 such specialty eating places — with Chinese, Italian and Mexican food accounting for nearly 70 percent.

"Ethnic restaurants offer an effortless journey to a distant land where the waiter recites a menu of alien delights," says the report's author, Pennsylvania State University geography professor Wilbur Zelinsky.

Ethnic restaurants also have become one of the hottest segments of the food service industry, Zelinsky reports in the July edition of American Demographics, a magazine specializing in population issues.

While restaurant traffic in general increased about 10 percent between 1982 and 1986, Zelinsky said, Italian restaurants boosted their business by 26 percent.

Places serving Mexican food had a 43 percent jump in business.

Agreement eludes regulators

CHICAGO (AP) — State insurance regulators around the country say they are caught between insurers who want to test for exposure to AIDS before writing policies and high-risk groups that fear testing could lead to discrimination.

A Rand Corp. study last month said medical care for AIDS patients in the United States probably will cost more than $37 billion from mid-1986 through mid-1991, and might hit $113 billion under the worst conditions.

Possible solutions include forcing companies to insure AIDS victims and establishing statewide "pools" to insure high-risk groups, including male homosexuals, intravenous drug users and users of blood products.

Those plans could result in higher premiums for everyone or insolvency for some insurers, authorities said.

"It's really a problem of trying to find the proper balance between the legitimate interests of the insurance companies and the concerns of the public and community involved," said Connecticut Insurance Commissioner Peter W. Gillies, vice chairman of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners' committee on health and accident insurance.

Gay rights activists say efforts to control the disease may suffer if people are denied health and life insurance based on a test that indicates the presence of antibodies to acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The test means that the person has been exposed to the AIDS virus, but does not necessarily mean the person has AIDS or will ever develop it.

The insurance industry "uses the test as a weapon instead of a tool and thereby encourages fear about the test," said Benjamin Schatz, a lawyer with the San Francisco-based National Gay Rights Advocates.

The National Academy of Sciences' Institute of Medicine estimated last year that the insurance industry already has paid a significant portion of the health-care costs associated with AIDS, from 13 percent to 65 percent in some hospitals.

The U.S. Public Health Service last year estimated the hospital-care costs per AIDS case at $46,000 to $92,000.

As of June 29, AIDS had struck 37,867 Americans, killing 21,776 of them, according to the national Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. The CDC estimates that the disease will strike 270,000 people by the end of 1991.

The NAIC, which met last week in Chicago, has issued guidelines for prohibiting insurers from questioning applicants about their sexual preference. Drafted by an advisory group representing both insurers and gay rights groups, the guidelines address some of the privacy and health-status issues raised by both sides.

But the association left each state to decide whether to allow insurance testing for AIDS exposure. Wisconsin has the only law allowing insurance testing. It spells out how tests should be verified.

Ambulance repairs have been delayed

AUSTIN (AP) - Ford Motor Co. has delayed making repairs on eight Austin Emergency Medical Service ambulances with gas tanks that have been found to spew gasoline when the engine is running because the automaker does not have enough trained personnel to handle the repairs, a Ford spokesman says.

The gas tanks on the Ford Econoline vans were to be repaired more than two weeks ago, but corrections were canceled by Ford at the last minute, Bobby Gutierrez, a supervisor at the EMS, says.

"We were all ready to send in some of our units to be repaired, but then they said, 'No . . . there's been a delay,' so now it looks like it could be a couple more weeks before anything gets done," Gutierrez told the Austin American-Statesman.

Chuck Snearly, public affairs manager for the Ford Parts and Services Division, said repairs were postponed by Ford until personnel could be trained to handle the estimated 15,000 repairs nationwide.

Repairs to Austin ambulances are now scheduled to begin July 14, Bill Coll, manager of operations for the EMS, said.

The faulty tanks on the ambulances have not caused any accidents in Austin, but officials say there have been about 20 reports of ambulance fires thoughout the nation. Gutierrez said eight of the 18 ambulances used by the EMS are Econoline vans.

The problem was identified in Virginia about a year ago after about five ambulances caught on fire and Ford officials "began to look into the problem and coordinate our efforts to correct the problem," Snearly said.

Gutierrez said that after the problem was identified, ambulance services "had a hard time getting Ford to admit there was a problem."

"One of the main topics at a vehicle maintenance seminar I went to was the fuel-system problems with the Ford vans," he said. "But the people who were there from Ford said the problem was not with the vehicles but with the way they were maintained."

Ford offered some "ludicrous" maintenance tips that either did nothing to solve the problem or were "impossible for us to follow," Gutierrez said.

Down one for a top score

By James Jacoby

The new rules for scoring at tournament bridge may change the cavalier attitude that has existed for many years with respect to weak jump overcalls and opening pre-emptive bids when the opponents are vulnerable. The penalties have now changed for non-vulnerable doubled undertricks. The fourth and each subsequent doubled undertrick, non-vulnerable, now exacts a penalty of 300 points. So the sequence for such doubled undertricks has changed from 1-3-5-7-9 etc. to 1-3-5-8-11 etc. Rest easy, you rubber bridge fans; the scoring table for rubber bridge has not changed.

The new rules had not gone into effect last March when Judy Cody boldly made her weak jump overcall, trading on favorable vulnerability. When the takeout double by opener was left in, Judy knew she had to hold her penalty to one trick to do better than the certain part-score available to East-West. When three rounds of hearts were led, she discarded a club rather than subject herself to an overruff. The defenders now played clubs. She ruffed the second club, went to the ace of diamonds (no point in taking a losing finesse) and ruffed another club low. Now she got off lead with a diamond. East won the king and returned a diamond to give West a ruff. West led another club. The seven of spades took the trick in dummy, as declarer discarded her last diamond. Judy ruffed the diamond remaining in dummy with her spade king (West underruffing) and finessed the jack of spades to go down only one trick for an excellent score.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Tennis tourney concludes; Wiggins among champions

Larry Wiggins, perennial contender at the annual Fourth of July Tennis Tournament, edged Gary Bingham for the men's 35-over singles title here Saturday.

Finals were held in four events as the three-day tournament came to a conclusion.

Wiggins, who hails from San Antonio, defeated his local challenger 6-3, 6-3. Bingham had reached the finals by defeating Curtis Thompson of Denver City 6-2, 7-5 and Alvin Lockhart of Tomball 6-1, 6-0.

The men's singles championship went to Gary Naddbaum of Levelland, who stopped Snyder's Margin Lechuga in the championship match, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Naddbaum came up through the bracket by defeating Wiggins in three sets and Abilene's Russell Burnam in two after receiving a first-round bye.

Lechuga also got a bye, then topped Heath Forbis and Odessa's Bill Payton.

Lechuga did not go home empty-handed, however. He teamed with Ronnie Schneider of San Angelo to win men's doubles. Schneider is the Lake View High School tennis coach.

The duo topped Bill Payton and Marty Jordan of Odessa 7-5, 6-2 in the finals.

Wiggins and Snyder's Howard Sterling advanced to the semifinals of the bracket before falling to Payton and Jordan 6-4, 7-6.

Mixed doubles winners were Russell Burnam and Shanda Wiman of Abilene, who topped Schneider and LaNell Morton of San Angelo 6-2, 6-2.

Snyder's Kevin and Jennifer Winter reached the semis of the division before falling to Schneider and Morton 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Local players Shawna Chrane and Mark Thompson won consolation in mixed doubles - the only division to have a loser's bracket.

They whipped Timmy Chunn and Paula Long of Jayton, 6-2, 6-1 after having a tougher time, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0, with Mark Wausan and Christy Brown.

Hood, Beaver team to win local tourney

Duane Hood and Margaret Beaver took top honors in the annual July 4th Racquetball Tournament, held at Western Texas College on Saturday.

They defeated defending champions Val Chavez and Debbie Landa, 11-9 in a tie breaker.

Third place went to Mark Duke and Margaret Sherrod, who clipped Dalton Walton and Marilyn Lancaster 11-9 in a tie breaker.

Twenty-four contestants entered the two-day tournament.

Maynard honored at Colorado City

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) - If Don Maynard didn't receive the football recognition he deserved in high school, it may have been because his family moved around so much.

"I was never eligible to play football (because of University Interscholastic League residency requirements), but I probably earned more B-team letters in basketball than any other kid in Texas," said Maynard, now a financial consultant in El Paso.

The former NFL star receiver attended high school in Three Way, Lamesa and San Angelo - in addition to Portales, N.M. - before landing in Colorado City where he earned letters in basketball and track.

Maynard, whose career ended in 1973 and included a championship with the Jets in Super Bowl III, was recognized at special ceremonies Saturday in honor of his election into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

Maynard will be inducted Aug. 8 along with running backs Larry Csonka and John Henry Johnson, quarterback Len Dawson, defensive tackle Joe Greene and offensive linemen Jim Langer and Gene Upshaw.

His ex-classmates presented him with autographed footballs and a plaque during the ceremonies here.

"We're just happy to have had the opportunity to do this," reunion spokesman Leena Marcum said. "Don's done so much and brought so much recognition to our community and our state, it was the least we could do."

Maynard won both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 180-yard low hurdles at the 1953 Texas high school track and field meet for Class 1A - setting a record in the high hurdles and tying the record in the low hurdles.

"This (recognition) is just what small towns are all about," Maynard said. "They're small in size, but they have the biggest hearts in the world."

Maynard said he was more excited about the prospects of seeing old friends during the reunion than being honored by his friends and former classmates.

After Colorado City, Maynard headed to Rice University before ending up as part of the varsity football team at Texas Western (now the University of Texas at El Paso).

Maynard went on to become the No. 7 draft choice of the New York Giants.

"You know, I hadn't thought much about pro ball," he said.

Wins by three strokes...

Canadian Open crown goes to Curtis Strange

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) - There was more, much more, than meets the eye in Curtis Strange's front-running victory in the Canadian Open.

"It's a lot more rewarding that what you see," Strange said after his front-running, three-shot victory Sunday.

"It's more than the check ($108,000) and the trophy and all that," he said.

"It's the Ryder Cup.

"That's the first thing I thought about. The Ryder Cup is very much on my mind. This damn well gets me in there. I still have to play well a couple of more times, but this gets me right there," Strange said.

But his immediate calculations were conservative.

The victory jumped him from 13th to fifth on the point list from which the 12-man American team will be chosen to play the best from Europe in the biennial team matches, to be held in September in Dublin, Ohio.

"Fifth? That high? Will that clinch it?" Strange asked. Then he answered his own question.

"I still need to play good a couple of times to be sure.

"You don't know how I feel about the Ryder Cup. I was on the losing team last time (in 1985) and I really - REALLY. - want to make it again," Strange said.

He all but secured a position on that team with the 10th victory of his 11-year PGA Tour career and his second in this tournament.

He won it with a solid, no-bogey, 3-under-par 69 over the final 18 holes at the Glen Abbey Golf Club in suburban Toronto.

His 12-under-par 276 total broke the record at this course, now the permanent site of the Canadian Open. The old record of 277 was set in 1982 by Bruce Lietzke.

Strange started the final round in a three-way tie for the lead. When Mike McCullough and Richard Zokol bogeyed the first hole, Strange was the leader alone, and he stayed in front the rest of the way.

The biggest threat came from South African David Frost. But his challenge was blunted by three-putt pars on two of the back-nine par-5 holes, and a couple of other missed opportunities.

Frost and Nick Price, another South African, shared second with Jodie Mudd at 279. Mudd had a final-round 68, Frost 69 and Price 70.

McCullough, 42, not yet a winner in 16 years on the tour, got tangled up in the deep rough on the 14th, took 6 to reach the green and scored a fat 8 on the hole. He finished with a 74 and tied for fifth with Mark McCumber at 281. McCumber had the day's best round, a 67.

Zokol, seeking to become the first Canadian in 33 years to win this tournament, did not make a birdie in a round of 75 that dropped him from a share of the lead to a six-way tie for seventh at 282.

Allison claims Firecracker 400

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Bobby Allison is a race car driver, not a mathematician. That's why he felt he could win the NASCAR Firecracker 400 despite trailing 11 cars with only five laps to go.

With a crowd of 75,000 focusing on what was believed to be a last-lap duel for first place between Ken Schrader and Dave Marcis, Allison crossed the finish line 1.5 seconds ahead of Buddy Baker to win the 400-mile stock car race Saturday at Daytona International Speedway.

Geddes captures Farr-Toldeo win

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - A glance at the scoreboard might have been the difference for Jane Geddes in the Jamie Farr Toledo Classic.

Nancy Taylor and Jill Briles, two LPGA Tour rookies, were afraid of looking at the leaderboard for fear they might increase the pressure of the final round.

But Geddes used a quick glimpse to spur herself on to a final-round 5-under-par 67 and a two-stroke victory at Glengarry Country Club. After making the turn at four under, she took a glimpse at the leaderboard.

"I thought they might come back to me," Geddes, who finished the 72 holes at 280, said after her fourth victory of the year. "I made the turn at seven under and I thought I was probably leading the tournament by five shots. But I saw Nancy at nine under. I was really surprised."

Taylor shot a final-round 72 and finished tied with Briles at 282.

The victory, worth $33,750, marked Geddes' third straight victory in LPGA tournaments in Ohio. Geddes, the tour's second-leading money-winner with $292,547, won the U.S. Women's Open last summer in Dayton, then took another major, the LPGA Championship, in May.

Laurie Rinker, 70, and Julie Cole, 71, tied for fourth at 283, with Marci Bozarth alone at 284 after a final-round 69.

Sherri Turner, 67, finished at 285 along with Ok-Hee Ku, 70. Tammie Green, who matched Geddes at 67 for the best round of the day, Cindy Hill, 74, and Heather Drew, 70, were grouped at 286.

Cash shocks Ivan Lendl...

Australian wins Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - When Pat Cash whispered, "We showed them," into the ear of his coach, it said everything about the Australian's crushing title victory at Wimbledon.

Written off as a youngster and injured for most of 1985 and part of last year, Cash's 7-6, 6-2, 7-5 victory over Ivan Lendl Sunday was a triumph of will over adversity.

"I've been told that whatever happened, I would never make a tennis player out of Pat Cash," Ian Barclay said after his pupil had dispatched Lendl, the world's No. 1 player, with ease on a broiling Centre Court.

"People said his temperament would never allow it. But he's proved them all wrong. We've both proved them wrong," Barclay said.

Barclay has been guiding Cash since the brash Australian was 11 years old.

Once ranked as high as seventh in the world, Cash plummeted on the computer when a back injury kept him off the tour. Then he underwent an emergency appendectomy 17 days before last year's Wimbledon.

"It's extremely disappointing because I worked really hard," said Lendl, who lost to West Germany's Boris Becker in last year's final, also in straight sets. "But I will be back for many years to come. I still have my chance."

In the women's championship Saturday, Martina Navratilova won her record sixth consecutive Wimbledon singles crown, and her eighth overall, by beating Steffi Graf 7-5, 6-3.

It was Navratilova's first tournament title of the year and snapped a 45-match winning streak for Graf, the 18-year-old West German playing in her first Wimbledon final.

Cash gave the strong Czechoslovak a lesson in grass-court play.

Lendl went into the championship match a firm favorite. He had a 4-1 record against Cash, who was appearing in his first Wimbledon final and had never won a Grand Slam event.

But Lendl struggled from the start, saving five break points in the second game of the match.

Cash served brilliantly, returned just as well, volleyed like a demon - even down by his ankles - and exploited Lendl's unpolished grass-court game.

"Obviously, another year is gone," Lendl said. "If I'm running out of time to win here, I don't know. I think I'm still improving and I will be back for many years to come. I still have my chances."

Cash, who was seeded 11th, automatically will move into the top 10 in the world after his victory, which netted him $220,100. He came into the tournament ranked 13th.

He said his feelings about being champion were mixed.

"I am thrilled to pieces obviously but I am just mentally exhausted," Cash said. "But I'm also a little scared. I don't want my life to change too much."

The men's doubles title was won by Americans Ken Flach and Robert Seguso, while Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia and West Germany's Claudia Kohde-Kilsch took the women's doubles.

Britain scored a rare success at Wimbledon when Jeremy Bates and Jo Durie won the mixed doubles, the first all-British success since Virginia Wade's singles title 10 years ago.

Parrish leads strong attack as Texas downs Yanks, 10-4

NEW YORK (AP) - When Larry Parrish visits New York City, he comes out swinging.

Despite a 4-for-30 slump, Parrish has "felt good since Friday," which happens to be when the Texas Rangers and New York Yankees began a four-game series.

Although he began the season with a career .318 batting average against the Yankees, Parrish has only seven hits in 29 at-bats against them this year. However, three are home runs - including Sunday's game-tying two-run shot, which triggered a six-run fourth inning that powered the Rangers to a 10-4 victory. His 17 career homers against New York and Oakland are the most he has hit against any team.

"We can throw some impressive people out there. There's no doubt we can put a knockout punch on people," Parrish said after the Rangers batted around for the 14th time this season.

"I hit the ball hard even when I didn't get some hits. I figured out what I was doing wrong; now, I just have to wait and get a strike."

Parrish declined to explain what adjustment he made in his swing.

"When I tell you, that's when I get in trouble," he said. "Paralysis by analysis."

Despite the setback, the Yankees maintained a five-game lead in the American League East, although Detroit sneaked past Toronto into second place by one-percentage point. Texas remained sixth in the West, 6½ games behind Kansas City and Minnesota, which are in a virtual tie for first.

Parrish's homer made him the first Texas player to hit 20 home runs in four seasons. It also marked the earliest date any Ranger has reached that figure.

"Larry's a happy player now," Manager Bobby Valentine said. "I don't know exactly what it is, but he's finally at ease with himself this year. Whether it's the maturity factor or the big contract he got, I don't know (during the winter, Parrish was given a option year for 1989 at $950,000)."

Texas collected seven consecutive hits, including Mike Stanley's tie-breaking homer, off Rich Bordi and Cecilio Guante in erasing a 3-1 deficit with one out in the fourth.

What is in Senate trade bill for farmers?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1,013-page trade bill the Senate is trying to put in shape this week is packed with provisions dealing with farm exports.

While leaders have wrestled with issues including plant closings and protection for U.S. companies threatened by imports, lawmakers on the floor have been peppering the bill with some little-noticed farm provisions.

Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., won approval last week of an amendment to combat Canadian hog subsidies.

In figuring "countervailing duties" to offset the subsidies, the government has been taking into account only hogs the Canadians export to the United States. Under the Baucus provision, processed pork would be brought under the tariff.

Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., managed to attach a "sense of Congress" provision to prod U.S. negotiators to push for elimination of excessive tariffs on wheat gluten.

He said the U.S. tariff on wheat gluten is 8.3 percent while tariffs of 50 percent are imposed by the European Community, 25 percent by Japan and 35 percent by Argentina.

Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., inserted a provision that would require the Food and Drug Administration to set rules "to the extent practicable" requiring labeling of food coming into the United States to show country of origin.

And Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., won approval of language deploring Japanese quotas on an array of U.S. agricultural exports ranging from peanuts to fruit preserves.

None of those equal in scope the provisions placed in the bill by the Senate Agriculture Committee when it drew up its portion of the measure.

The legislation would boost funding for the Foreign Agricultural Service to beat the drum of publicity for U.S. farm exports.

It would authorize another $1 billion through 1990 for the Export Enhancement Program, which subsidizes grain companies and other shippers for sending U.S. farm products into overseas markets. The original level as established in 1985 was $2.5 billion.

There has been some controversy concerning the Export Enhancement Program. The General Accounting Office, which has made a fairly thorough study of it, has underlined its expense while finding that it really does nothing to change the market conditions making it tough to export U.S. wheat and feedgrains.

But there is no dispute that it has boosted U.S. wheat exports and lawmakers from wheat growing states are backing it.

An amendment attached by the Agriculture Committee would refocus it on what was stated as its original purpose in 1985: Fighting subsidized exports of trade competitors.

The legislation also steps up Targeted Export Assistance, a related subsidy program designed to boost farm exports.

The Agriculture Committee also built in safeguards for producers of sunflower and cotton seeds in case the administration reverses policy and puts in place a market loan program for soybean growers. Marketing loans are special subsidies designed to boost exports.

Thus far, the administration has resisted a marketing loan for soybeans, although one was authorized under the 1985 farm law.

Sunflower seed and cotton seed producers would get equal benefits, under the Senate bill, if the soybean loan went into effect.

And there would be a marketing loan for soybeans, as well as wheat and feed grains under the Senate's bill if talks aimed at streamlining the 92-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade had not produced an agricultural agreement by the start of the 1990 wheat marketing year.

The measure also contains an array of miscellaneous provisions ranging from stepped up monitoring of egg imports to pushing the department to find new ways to market U.S. wood.

On the diplomatic front, the New York Times reports that the Reagan administration will formally seek agreements from other countries to end farm export subsidies and trade barriers to agricultural products. Reagan had called earlier for elimination of such subsidies.

The program, to be presented today to 90 countries at Geneva trade talks, would not mean reductions in farmers' income for 10 years or more, officials said.

"We're looking at removal of subsidies, removal of trade barriers and such things as normalization of sanitary health standards," said Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng. "We're hoping the negotiations can be done in a year and a half — by the end of '88. That's our target for obvious reasons."

That's when President Reagan's term ends.

Alexander's can help you fight termites

As a homeowner you can't ignore the threat of termite damage. The cost of the termite problem in the United States is approaching one billion dollars a year with about one in every 50 homes being damaged.

Craig Alexander, owner of Alexander's Pest Control, tells us that this time of the year is the most active for termites and that termites will do more damage to homes this year than all fires, hurricanes, and tornadoes combined.

When termites swarm in the spring, they are often mistaken for flying ants, because both have wings. Swarming termites quickly shed their wings, though, and burrow into the ground to start new colonies.

Chemical treatment is the only method of termite prevention and control ever proven to be totally effective. Alexander's Pest Control surrounds your house with a chemical barrier, so termites can't get in. This also kills any termites which may already be inside.

Instead of hoping termites don't attack, make sure they can't. Instead of being worried, be protected. All it takes is a call to Alexander's Pest Control at 573-7133.

Your home is the largest investment you have, so you don't want to take any chances with it. Call the professional - Craig Alexander.

Joe's Radiator offers dependable work

Whenever you are in need of radiator repair, you automatically think of Joe's Radiator Repair and Automotive Service located at 2013 College Avenue, but Joe Rhodes is also equipped to handle all of your other automotive repairs.

The automotive repair service offered by Rhodes includes brake work, transmissions, general engine and tune up work. He can fix your carburetor, your heating and air conditioning systems, or do a complete overhaul. Whatever your repair problem may be, you can depend on the service you'll receive at Joe's Radiator Repair and Automotive Service. You'll also find rebuilt radiators for sale.

Joe Rhodes, owner of Joe's Radiator Repair and Automotive Service, has been in the automotive repair business for 48 years, and has established a reputation for dependable automotive and radiator repair. Over the years Rhodes has shown that whether the job is general auto repair or exacting radiator work, he can do it right.

Everyone at Joe's Radiator realizes the hassle you have to deal with when your car is broken down, so they put forth every effort to finish a repair job just as soon as possible. The service is top-of-the-line and dependable whenever you need it. Rhodes has always specialized in good honest, personal service and still does.

The shop is open Monday thru Friday, so go by 2013 College Avenue and get the best in automotive and radiator repair and service.

GOOD, HONEST, personal service is what you get when you take your automotive or radiator problems to Joe Rhodes at Joe's Radiator Repair and Automotive Service, 2013 College Avenue.

Merchants to help rebuild burned school

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — A grocery chain and an automobile dealership are setting aside some of their receipts to help in rebuilding a high school that burned in April.

The two companies, Randall's Food Markets Inc. and Baytown Nissan Inc., will contribute part of their revenues to the Robert E. Lee High School. The school was gutted by a fire that caused an estimated $10 million in damages.

"We have never done this in any of our stores before," said Karen Mullikin, a spokeswoman for Randall's.

Ms. Mullikin said customer participation would determine the amount of money raised in the program, which was announced Wednesday.

You and each of you are hereby commanded to appear and answer before the 132nd District Court in Courthouse in Snyder, Scurry County, Texas, at or before 10:00 a.m. on the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two (42) days from the date of issuance hereof, being at or before 10:00 a.m. on Monday, the 27th day of July, 1987, then and there to answer the First Amended Counterclaim of Counterplaintiff and Defendant TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY In Cause No. 16,094 in which Helen Joyce Hatter is Plaintiff and Counterdefendant, and SAM B. CASEY and JOHN W. JOYCE are Counterdefendants, and TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY is Defendant and Counterplaintiff.
The First Amended Counterclaim of TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY, filed on June 5, 1987, discloses that the nature of said Counterclaim is as follows:
TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY seeks to condemn a right-of-way and easement for an electric transmission line and its attendant facilities along and upon the following described property located in Scurry County, Texas:
Being all those certain lots, tracts or parcels of land, being the South 480 acres of Section 183, Block 3, H. & G. N. Ry. Co. Survey and Tracts 69, 70, 71, 72 and 73, Grimes Ranch Land Subdivision, Section 11, Block 1, J. P. Smith Survey and the Kirkland and Fields Survey, Scurry County, Texas, as described by deeds recorded in Volume 67, Page 147; Volume 67, Page 185; and Volume 72, Page 146, Deed Records of Scurry County, Texas, the centerline of said easement being more particularly described as follows:
BEGINNING at a point in the North line of said 480 acre tract, said point being East, along said North line, 1795.01 feet from the Northwest corner of said 480 acre tract;
THENCE South 52 degrees 38 minutes 05 seconds West, 75.0 feet Northwest of and parallel with the centerline of an existing Texas Electric Service Company transmission line, 749.39 feet to an angle point in said centerline, said angle point being hereinafter referred to as Angle Point "A";
THENCE South 59 degrees 24 minutes 05 seconds West, 75.0 feet Northwest of and parallel with the centerline of said existing transmission line, 5215.4 feet to an angle point in said centerline, said angle point being hereinafter referred to as Angle Point "B";
THENCE South 59 degrees 23 minutes 05 seconds West, 75.0 feet Northwest of and parallel with the centerline of said existing transmission line, 3645.14 feet to an angle point in said centerline, said angle point being hereinafter referred to as Angle Point "C";
THENCE South 58 degrees 31 minutes 55 seconds West, at 891.96 feet cross the centerline of an existing Texas Electric Service Company transmission line, in all, 991.96 feet to a point.
Being a strip of land 87.5 feet wide, being 37.5 feet Northwest of and 50.0 feet Southeast of the above described centerline and comprising 21.30 acres of land.
Together with an easement being 25.0 feet wide, being 12.5 feet on either side of the following described centerline:
BEGINNING at the above described Angle Point "A";
THENCE South 33 degrees 58 minutes 55 seconds East 90.0 feet to a point.
The two easements described above contain a total of 21.32 acres of land.
If this citation is not served within ninety (90) days after date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.
ISSUED AND GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE SEAL OF SAID COURT ON THIS THE 10TH DAY OF JUNE, 1987, AT SNYDER, SCURRY COUNTY, TEXAS.

Survivors include his wife, Hattie Mae Hale of Loraine; a son, Clovis Hale of Austin; another sister, Pearl Hale of Brownwood; a brother, Floyd Hale of Westbrook; and two grandsons.

New tax battle looms

DALLAS (AP) — The insurance industry has launched a statewide advertising campaign in its battle against a House-approved plan to raise $1.8 billion over the next biennium by extending the state sales tax to insurance.

Thirty-second radio spots urging Texans to contact their state senators and Gov. Bill Clements began running over the weekend, and half-page ads denouncing the tax appeared in daily newspapers across the state Sunday.

The new insurance tax is part of a record $5.7 billion revenue package approved by the House Thursday to help finance a new two-year, $38.4 billion budget proposal that representatives had approved earlier.

Under the House plan, the state sales tax would be raised from 5.25 cents to 6 cents on the dollar and levied for the first time on insurance sold in Texas.

The House also voted to make permanent the 5-cents-a-gallon temporary state gasoline tax. The package now goes to the Senate, where the insurance industry is focusing its campaign to defeat the insurance portion.

Directed by the Insurance League, a coalition of insurance companies and agents, the media campaign will cost about $100,000, according to Wayne Stratton, a lobbyist for the American Alliance of Insurers.

The industry claims the measure would put an unfair burden on consumers and businesses that must carry insurance and also would place Texas insurance companies at a competitive disadvantage.

The tax would add more than $200 a year to the cost of insurance for the typical Texas family, according to calculations by the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas.

"Texas consumers already are paying state taxes in their insurance premiums," said Ernest Stromberger, executive director of independent agents. "The addition of a sales tax to these premiums would make Texas insurance the most heavily taxed insurance policies anywhere in the United States."

Rick Gentry, who represents the Association of Fire and Casualty Companies in Texas, agreed.

"If this bill becomes law, we will have the highest-priced insurance products of any state in the nation," he said. "It is going to put Texas companies at a competitive disadvantage."

Jerry Johns, president of Southwestern Insurance Information Services Inc., said the ads are aimed at educating consumers about just who will be paying the new tax.

"The problem we are facing is that most consumers think this is a tax that the insurance companies will pay," he said.

Government frees political prisoners

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The government freed 177 jailed political prisoners today in the first large-scale release of detainees since President Chun Doo-hwan agreed to major reforms to halt nationwide protests.

Relatives hugged and kissed the freed prisoners as they walked through gates at prisons in Seoul and eight other cities. Supporters lifted the former prisoners on their shoulders and carried them through the streets.

"Long live democracy," hundreds of people shouted.

About 1,000 students clashed with police today outside Yonsei University in Seoul during a memorial for a student who died Sunday of injuries he sustained in a demonstration last month. Police hurled scores of tear gas grenades to stop a student protest march and students threw rocks in running clashes.

The fighting followed battles Sunday between about 2,000 Yonsei students and riot police, in the first large anti-government protest in the capital since Chun announced concessions last week. The major opposition party, the Reunification Democratic Party, lamented the death of student Lee Han-yul but said it should not stand in the way of negotiations on instituting democratic changes.

The prisoners freed today had all been arrested in huge anti-government protests that broke out June 10 and rocked South Korea for 18 days. The demonstrators demanded direct presidential elections and other reforms, which Chun eventually agreed to implement. A few dozen suspects were released last week.

Released prisoners told cheering supporters that people were no longer willing to accept authoritarian rule.

Ministry of Justice officials, who spoke on condition they were not identified, said 310 other prisoners would be released by mid-week as the government moved to meet its promise to free all political detainees.

A list of some 2,100 people eligible for amnesty and restored rights was being drawn up, they said.

Among those released Monday were Yang Soon-jik, a vice president of the Reunification Democratic Party, and 11 leaders of the National Coalition for a Democratic Constitution, the opposition alliance that started the protests.

Yang was greeted by top opposition leaders Kim Young-sam and Kim Dae-jung, who shook hands and congratulated their beaming colleague.

The government says there are about 1,100 political prisoners, but the opposition says there are some 3,000.

There still was no indication when action might be taken on restoring civil rights to dissident leader Kim Dae-jung, who is under a suspended 20-year prison sentence on a 1980 sedition conviction.

The opposition has long demanded that Kim be allowed to legally resume political activity. Roh Tae-woo, the head of Chun's Democratic Justice Party and a presidential candidate, also made such a demand on June 29, when he threw his support behind political reforms.

Chun, who seized power with military backing in 1980, has promised to step down in February when his seven-year term expires. Before last week, he had insisted on conducting elections this fall through the electoral college, which the opposition said favored a government victory. Chun chose Roh, a fellow former general, to succeed him.

Vehicle glass said broken

Police are investigating a misdemeanor criminal mischief complaint filed over the weekend involving a broken windshield.

Brenda Blackwell of Snyder reported the incident at 6:50 p.m. with the damage said caused to her 1972 Chevrolet.

She said it ocurred while she was driving in the 2700 Block of Ave. U.

In other weekend action, officers logged 10 misdemeanor arrests including two suspects jailed for driving while intoxicated and three picked up for public intoxication.

One of the DWI suspects was additionally charged with possession of prohibited drug paraphernalia.

One man was arrested for possession of alcoholic beverages in Towle Park Saturday and three were jailed on misdemeanor warrants for failure to pay previously assessed fines.

One suspect was arrested for driving with a suspended license.

Minor blaze at restaurant

Units of the Snyder Fire Department was dispatched to a minor fire Sunday at Texas Taco in the 4200 Block of College Ave.

According to reports, a deep fryer in the restaurant ignited around 3:25 p.m.

Damage from the blaze was said confined to the fryer and its surrounding area.

Democrats: still time to block Reagan's plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Navy warships prepare to carry out President Reagan's policy of protecting Kuwaiti oil tankers in the Persian Gulf, congressional Democrats are trying to muster a consensus on how to block or delay the plan.

"I really don't think it's too late yet, but we don't have a lot of time," said Rep. Mike Lowry, D-Wash., as he tried to round up votes for his measure calling for a delay in the plan to protect the 11 tankers.

Lowry's proposal is scheduled for a vote Wednesday as the Democratic-controlled House considers a bill authorizing the Coast Guard budget. Meanwhile, the Democratic-run Senate is set to consider a resolution Tuesday asking Reagan to put his plan "in abeyance" for an indefinite period.

Congressional critics fear the president's plan will embroil the United States in the long-running Iran-Iraq war because Kuwait has aided Iraq. The worries increased after the May 17 attack by Iraq on the Navy frigate Stark that killed 37 U.S. sailors. Iraq says the attack was an accident.

On Sunday, White House Chief of Staff Howard H. Baker said the administration might reconsider its plan if the Soviet Union also leaves the Persian Gulf region.

"If the Soviets will remove theirs, perhaps we'll take a fresh look," Baker said on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley." The Soviets have proposed removal of all foreign war ships from the gulf.

Persian Gulf policy will likely dominate an agenda that will also see a third week of Senate debate over a far-reaching trade bill.

Although no starting date has been set for the gulf plan, administration officials have said it is likely to begin around July 15.

Reagan met with leaders of both parties last week and refused to delay the plan, leading Democrats to admit their chances were dim.

Missing couple faces charges

HOUSTON (AP) — A shipping company has hired a private investigator to locate a former employee who allegedly ordered wire transfers of more than $180,000 into accounts belonging to two newly registered firms formed by her boyfriend.

The alleged action the first week of June by Donna Dordon, 29, caught her employer by surprise because she was known as a capable, efficient executive secretary who had worked for Rohde Liesfeld Projects Inc. for three years.

Even more surprising was when Ms. Dordon, a churchgoing woman and a single mother, dropped off her 7-year-old daughter with a trusted family friend and announced she and her new boyfriend, Phillip Marqez, were off on a long vacation.

The two haven't been seen since.

Both have been charged with second-degree felony theft, said Casey O'Brien of the Harris County District Attorney's office.

Dear Abby

Man Wants a Good Spanking But Needs a Good Therapist

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My problem is so personal that I have not been able to tell anyone about it. I am a 29-year-old unmarried man in the military. While growing up, my mother seldom spanked me — even when I deserved it. The children I grew up with received more spankings than I did — and I always thought I should have been spanked more than I was. Now that I'm a grown man, this desire to be spanked is still on my mind.

On one occasion, I thought of asking a young woman I was dating to spank me, but I didn't have the nerve. I've heard that there are places where a guy can go to get a spanking, but I can't find any where I'm stationed. Part of me says that although I would not enjoy the pain, I would feel a lot better if I were on the receiving end of a good spanking. Another part of me says the whole thing is off the wall, and I should forget it.

Abby, are there other men who want to be spanked by women? And what do you recommend for this problem?

WANTS TO BE SPANKED

DEAR WANTS: My psychiatric expert tells me that the desire to be spanked is a form of masochism that is often linked with feelings of severe guilt — usually about sexuality. You say you always thought you should have been punished more than you were, strongly suggesting unconscious guilt. A professional therapist can help you understand the source of your guilt, and hopefully resolve it so you will no longer feel the need to be spanked. (You are attacking your problem from the wrong end.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Count me among those who prefer to give cash gifts. I have 14 grandchildren scattered around the country, and I have trouble remembering their names, much less their sizes and ages, so I just send them all checks for their birthdays, Christmas, graduation, etc.

A few always write to tell me what they purchased with my check. I've even received Polaroid pictures of "my" gifts. Now, isn't that thoughtful? Some write to say, "Gram, I put your money in the bank for college."

DULUTH GRANDMA

DEAR GRAM: It's a lovely gesture, and a small gift to the giver to know how one's gift of cash was used.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Thank you, Abby, for defending gifts of cash. I am on Social Security, and when I get through the monthly bills, and the holiday, birthday, graduation, shower and wedding gifts, I have nothing left.

When Mother's Day, Christmas or my birthday comes along, a gift of cash looks good to me. Abby, I want to cry when I answer a knock on my door and see a florist messenger with one of those floral arrangements. It will be dead in a week. I can't eat it, wear it, or even find room for it in my tiny apartment.

We senior citizens have plenty of time to shop, we adore bargains, and we don't need any necklaces, sexy nightgowns, perfumes or even magazine subscriptions.

I'd rather have a dollar bill than a useless gift worth 10 times that amount. Please put this in your column. I know I speak for many.

HARD UP AT 72

DEAR HARD UP: You conveyed two important messages. One: Many seniors prefer cash, so adding to their worldly goods may be more a burden than a blessing. Two: Younger readers, start saving now for your golden years. People are living longer, but not necessarily better, unless they have wisely provided for their old age.

Hunt now in power position

DALLAS (AP) — Ray Lee Hunt is uncomfortable with praise.

The 44-year-old son of the late oilman H.L. Hunt shepherded Southern Methodist University's search for a new president and the reshaping of its trustee board, and he has emerged as one of Dallas' most influential younger generation leaders.

But the 44-year-old Hunt, son of the late oilman H.L. Hunt, is uncomfortable with plaudits.

"His stock answer is to look down and kind of shake his head and look a little bit embarrassed and say, 'Well, an awful lot of good people were involved in that effort,' and then he'll quickly change the subject," said Bill Solomon, president and chief executive officer of Austin Industries and Hunt's friend since their college days in the early 1960s.

"He has an absolute tenacity in moving forward," said John Johnson, managing partner of the Johnson & Swanson law firm and another friend of Hunt's since their SMU days.

It would be difficult to convince Hunt, chairman of Hunt Oil Co., to make similar statements.

"I tend to feel that any individual is probably the least qualified person to comment on himself," Hunt said in an interview with the Dallas Times Herald. "If I could wave a magic wand, my name would never appear in the newspaper."

A successful entrepreneur, Hunt developed the Hyatt Regency Dallas at Reunion on a relatively out-of-the-way lot on the downtown's western fringe.

His company raised some eyebrows in 1980 when it spent millions prospecting for oil in the supposedly dry Middle Eastern country of Yemen. The skeptics were wrong; the Alif field in Yemen is among the world's largest oil projects, with an estimated 400 billion barrels of recoverable oil reserves.

Ray Hunt has no business connections with his more well known half-brothers — Nelson Bunker Hunt, William Herbert Hunt and Lamar Hunt — who have made headlines recently with bankruptcy filings and a major federal lawsuit against 23 banks that declined to renegotiate the terms of $1.5 billion in loans to their companies.

Ray Hunt is part of the "second family" of his late billionaire father. H.L. Hunt and his first wife, the former Lyda Bunker, had seven children in the "first family," which includes the well-known Hunt brothers. The "second family" includes Ray Hunt, three sisters, and their mother, Ruth Ray Hunt, who married H.L. Hunt in 1957.

Hunt's basic outlook on life, in his business and family and civic involvements, was shaped largely by his father, he said.

"My father only went through the sixth-grade in terms of formal education, but he was a brilliant, brilliant man," Hunt said. "I learned a long time ago, in fact, this was one of his sayings, 'You never learn anything while you're talking.' To sit there with your mouth shut and your ears open and listen to people like him and his contemporaries talk about things they had done or were doing was something you would never get out of a textbook or out of a business school."

Hunt took his father's advice to gamble cautiously.

He said his father once told him, "Ray, I've never made a decision that if everything went against me I couldn't keep right on going."

Friends and associates say those lessons have been augmented by Hunt's personal sense of the need to tailor age-old lessons to modern situations, and that skill is perhaps his greatest strength.

Theology professor Schubert Ogden, vice chairman of SMU's presidential search committee, said Hunt exhibited a similar sensitivity in his approach there. Faculty and students did not have much of a role in past presidential searches, but Hunt made it clear from the outset that they would be as involved in the selection as any university official.

"When he called me in the end of December to ask me if I would consider being the vice chairman of the committee, he committed himself at that time to me that's the way it would be," Ogden said. "It would be no Mickey Mouse, no end runs, there would be no second-class citizenship on the committee. All of that, as far as he was concerned, was an inappropriate way of doing business."

WTC sets classes for intermediates

Swimming for Intermediate Students will be offered at Western Texas College in classes running from July 13-23.

Mike Harrison will be instructor for the class, which will meet from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Students must know the crawl, elementary back and back crawl. Instruction will include improving the strokes, learning the breaststroke and side stroke and building endurance.

Fees are set at $35 per person.

To enroll, students are to preregister by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240. Enrollment will be limited to 15 students.

Aerobic exercises will be offered

Free Style Aerobics for men and women will be taught in classes starting July 13 at Western Texas College.

Loraine Hall is instructor for the class. Fees are set at $30 per person. Individuals wishing to enroll are to pre-register by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240.

Classes are scheduled on Mondays from 7-8 p.m., and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-7 p.m. through Aug. 20.

This session is a continuation of a class started earlier. Instruction includes 30 minutes of stretching and floor exercises and 30 minutes of aerobics. It is designed for beginning and intermediate level students.

Tax options to cut deficit would cost states billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raising federal gasoline, cigarette and liquor taxes could help trim the budget deficit, but state officials say the actions would cost their treasuries billions of dollars and would be unfair to the poor.

The proposals are among more than 200 options cited recently by the House Ways and Means Committee as possible sources of $18 billion in new tax money for fiscal 1988.

States are concerned that federal excise tax increases will preempt possible state tax hikes and reduce revenue from the taxes they already impose by reducing sales.

"It's not so much a question of overtaxation as it is a perception," says Illinois Revenue Director Robert Mandeville. "The feds raise it. Then you hear, 'Hey, the tax just went up a nickel and, governor, you want to raise it another nickel?'

Congress has not accepted any of the alternatives yet, but excise tax proposals already are drawing protests from the National Governors' Association and the National Conference of State Legislatures.

"It seems to me the way to cut deficits is to cut spending," Mandeville said. "It's not to take money that has, traditionally, been a source of revenue for the states."

The Ways and Means Committee said a 10-cent per gallon increase in the federal gasoline tax, now nine cents, would generate $9.3 billion in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, about half the amount needed in fiscal 1988 to comply with the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction act.

McDonald's has Welding Machines and Supplies

McDonald Welding Supply has gained a reputation for service, and for good reason. The staff at McDonald Welding Supply comes early and stays late. This is especially important to the area's busy oil fields, and this is why so many companies have depended on McDonald Welding Supply for their supply needs.

The firm serves an area bounded by Sweetwater to Loraine to Colorado City and Big Spring and back to Snyder. The Company has three 18 foot bobtail trucks for delivery to farms, businesses and well locations.

In stock at McDonald Welding Supply is the Miller and Lincolin Welding equipment line, which includes small engine drives and electric machine for farm and home use. They also have a large stock of smaller welders. They vary in size and can fit in the rear of a foreign truck as well as a two-ton truck. In addition, they carry Victor and Uniweld welding and cutting equipment and Walton vises.

If you need steel for oilfield fabrication, you can find exactly what you need at McDonald Welding Supply. The firm has a complete line of Milwaukee heavy duty electric drills and grinders. They have Williams hammer wrenches and heavy tools.

Safety equipment of all types is stocked including goggles, first aid kits and refills, hard hats, liners and fire extinguishers. This popular business also stocks chains, cable, tubing and chain hoists. They have recently added a complete line of Grade "8" Hard Bolts and Nuts in sizes from 5/16 to 1 ¼. Blocks as well as all types of pulleys may be added to the list.

The available list of supplies is almost endless, just ask for it. Stop by and see Gayle or Jack McDonald and the staff at McDonald Welding Supply, 1110 College Ave.
