Japs Block Amoy As British Plan Action

TIENTSIN, June 15 (AP)—A tense episode in Japan's blockade of Tientsin foreign areas in which British troops with machine guns and Japanese troops with tanks faced each other across barricades for several hours was ended tonight when both forces marched away.

A strong British note to Japanese authorities insisted on "immediate steps" to end the stopping and searching of British subjects by Japanese soldiers blocking and the British and French concessions.

The opposing troops, patrolling opposite sides of the barricaded concession boundary, were separated by only a few feet until the British suddenly withdrew and the Japanese then quickly removed their forces.

TIENTSIN, June 15 (AP)—While British and Japanese troops faced each other across barricades tonight a strong British note to the Japanese authorities insisted on "immediate steps" to end the stopping and searching of British subjects by Japanese soldiers blockading the British and French concessions.

Edgar F. Jamieson, British consul-general, in a vigorous protest to Japanese diplomatic authorities against the blockade, also charged British shipping on the Hai river, Tientsin's outlet to the sea, was being stopped and searched by the Japanese and demanded this cease.

Jamieson declared the Japanese manning the barricades at the concessions' exits were "discriminating against the British from among the foreign community of Tientsin." Britons have declared Japanese guards compelled them to strip to the waist and submit to search when crossing concession boundaries.

During the day British infantrymen with fixed bayonets were stationed at one entrance to their concession while tension increased in LONDON, June 15. (AP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain today indicated possibility of seeking joint action by Britain, France and the United States if Japan used the Tientsin incident for more far reaching demands against foreign interests in China.

He told the House of Commons a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin had indicated the object of Japan's blockade of the British and French concessions was to obtain "a much wider form of cooperation from British authorities in China."

"It is clear," the prime minister continued, "that if this statement represents the views of authorities in Tokyo the Japanese are using the incident to make demands wider and more far-reaching than the handing over of the four men."

Chamberlain referred to Japan's earlier demand for delivery to Japanese authorities of four Chinese accused of killing a Tientsin official and now detained in the British concession there. British rejection of this demand led to imposition of the blockade early Wednesday.

"Such demands," Chamberlain continued, "would raise important questions of policy in which other great powers are concerned no less than this country and the closest touch is being maintained with the French and United States governments.

"In the meantime, the British government are considering the situation created by refusal of Japanese to accept a proposal for a committee of inquiry and by continuance of the blockade of the settlement."

Chamberlain said the situation was "obviously a grave one" but added "I am not prepared at this moment to say what action we shall decide to take."

Foes Of Levy Foil Another Test Ballot

Thornton To Make Final Attempt Next Week

AUSTIN, June 15 (AP)—Foes of the sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment championed by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel scored another important triumph today in the House of Representatives.

The vote on a motion to suspend the rules so the taxation measure could be brought up for a fourth test was 91 ayes and 55 nces. A two-thirds majority would have been required.

The amendment, containing a 2 per cent general sales tax and a 25 per cent increase in natural resource levies, still was not definitely dead. Rep. E. H. Thornton of Galveston announced he would make a final attempt next Monday or Tuesday to obtain the needed two-thirds margin.

Supporters of the proposal were disappointed because they showed no gains from a week ago. Opponents cheered when the vote was announced because they had feared they might lose a little strength.

While it was the fourth test of this particular constitutional amendment, which was a House substitute for another resolution which the Senate had adopted, it was the sixth time the plan of a constitutional amendment to finance social security had lost in the House.

As the representatives gathered for the important session—it had been announced yesterday the constitutional amendment would be brought up—they were obviously very keen for the new decision.

The galleries contained a large crowd.

There was a stir in the big hall, right after the day's session began, when the front doors were thrown wide and a man on a stretcher was wheeled in.

It was Rep. Pat Dwyer of San Antonio, stricken yesterday by a heart attack. A proponent of the constitutional amendment, he was brought from a hospital because advocates of the measure were attempting to bring every possible vote to bear.

Dwyer was slowly borne down the side aisle, accompanied by a nurse in white uniform, to the quarters of Emmett Morse at the rear of the House chamber.

Evidencing the strain and desire of the House to get down to the real business of the day, Rep. M. J. Galbreath of Wharton, the blacksmith who has bitterly criticized the amendment and Governor O'Daniel from the start of the session, strode

J. S. Wynne Elected Head Of '89ers Club

J. S. Wynne, Pampa pioneer, was elected president of the Top O' Texas 89er club organized yesterday by men and women who came to the Panhandle prior to 1890. Two hundred members signed the rolls during the Fiesta and they were honored by being admitted to every attraction of the celebration free.

Jack Mead of Miami was elected vice-president of the club with Dick Hughes of Pampa being named executive secretary. A constitution and by-laws committee composed of Mitch Bell, Clarendon; J. E. Southwood, Panhandle; Newton P. Willis, Pampa, and Mr. Mead was appointed.

In all, 1,115 old timers registered during the Fiesta, which set a new record. They particularly enjoyed the old time dances, fiddling contests, dance contests and barbecues. There was a barbecue for the 89ers in the high school cafeteria and one for the other old timers in central park. Coffee, cups and plates for the barbecue were furnished through courtesy of the Admiration Coffee company.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Mathis of Skellytown won the grand prize for dancers over 50 at last night's old time dance in the high school gymnasium. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bingham of Spur was a close second.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathis won the rye waltz, pop-goes-the-weasel, heel and tie polka and danced in the winning

Indian Relics Win First In Fiesta Contest

Announcement of the winners in the exhibit contest of the Top O' Texas Fiesta was made today by Al Gilliland, chairman of the exhibits committee, following judging of the displays by C. H. Walker and C. P. Buckler Wednesday afternoon. There were 12 exhibits entered.

First prize of $25 will go to Jack Termin of Phillips camp for his collection of Indian arrowheads, bowl, grinder, and hatchets, displayed at Levine's.

The McLean community exhibit of antique clocks, guns, and other articles, shown at Murfee's, won the second prize of $15, while the display of the Gray County Council of Home Demonstration took third place and a $10 prize.

The council exhibit included a quilt, silver dish, chair, English rocking chair, and a set of century old Bavarian chinaware.

Exhibits were judged on a basis of historical value, authenticity, and arrangement.

Honorable mention went to the motorized cable tool drilling assembly erected by the Rogers Rig & Equipment company on a lot at Atchison and Cuyler. This display, with its 67-foot mast, was the largest exhibit entered, drew great attention, but was not eligible under the rules to be considered in the prize-judging, not being of a historical nature.

73-Year-Old Grandma Knocks Circuit Clout

BRISTOL, Conn., June 15 (AP)—Grandma Martha Steele, 73, of East Hartford, stepped to the plate, swung at a low, inside curve and slammed the ball for a 150-foot home run in a woman's soft-ball game at a church picnic.

"They didn't think I could do it," she said at her home today between telephone calls from friends who had just head of her Babe Ruthian wallop. "They didn't know that I used to play baseball as a girl and was better than lots of boys. Too bad the bases were empty!"

I Heard---

That George "Windy" Hayes, Hollywood motion picture star who attended the Top O' Texas Fiesta here, gave one of the men helping sponsor the Soap Box Derby $40 and told him to give it to four deserving boys who could not afford to build a car or who could not secure a sponsor.

PWA Works In Texas Worth $224,551,492

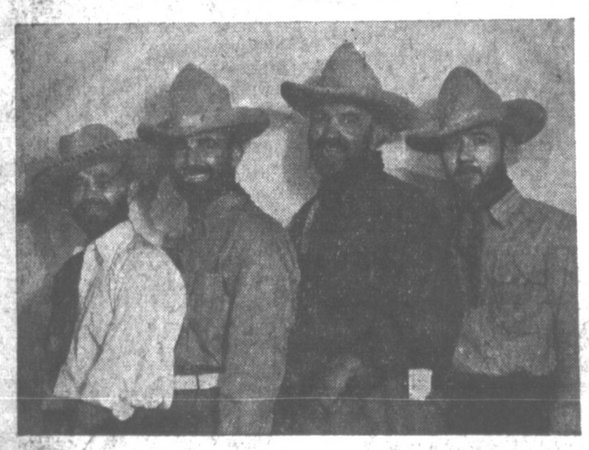

FORT WORTH, June 15 (AP)—George M. Bull, regional director of the PWA, announced today the value of Public Works Administration projects in Texas, either completed or now under construction, has reached $224,551,492.

All of the state's 254 counties but one, Kennedy, have shared in the funds, Bull said. In total estimated cost of projects, Burnet county ranks second with $22,693,818, and Harris county first with $23,148,023. Construction of Buchanan dam in Burnet county boosted the total there.

In the past six years 1,205 Texas projects have received allotments. Of these, 906 have been non-federal projects built by the state, counties, cities, or school districts, and 299 others, federal projects, have been constructed by departments or agencies of the federal government.

The estimated total cost of the non-federal projects in the state is $161,255,034 and of the federal projects, $63,296,458. The Public Works Administration has made grants of $59,810,146 and loans of $49,614,259 to make the building of the non-federal projects possible. PWA has borne 100 per cent of the cost of the federal projects.

WINNERS IN BEARD-GROWING CONTEST

Germany Found Guilty Of Munitions Blasts

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP)—The Mixed Claims commission today held Germany responsible for the Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J., munitions disasters prior to the entry of the United States into the World War.

The international tribunal of which Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts is umpire reversed its Hamburg decision of 1930 which accepted the "industrial accident" theory of the fires and explosions which rocked the New York metropolitan area in 1916 and 1917.

American claimants who sought damages of $50,000,000 from the reich, have contended throughout 12 years of litigation that the destruction of the Lehigh Valley railroad terminal at Black Tom in 1916 and the Kingsland assembly plant early in 1917 was the work of saboteurs in the pay of the Imperial German government.

Germany was equally persistent in her denials, advancing the theory that the vast quantities of munitions which had been destined for allied nations were destroyed by accident, not design.

The commission's decision was on an American motion to reopen the case and reverse the Hamburg decision on the basis of evidence that German witnesses had mapped out a dishonest defense and were guilty of "fraud, perjury and suppression of evidence." These witnesses included Count Von Bernstorff, wartime German ambassador to the United States and Franz Von Papen, former German chancellor and present ambassador to Turkey.

Germany countered with accusations of perjury on the part of American witnesses.

Christopher B. Garnett, the American commissioner, told the commission today the German commission today the German commissioner had quit and returned to Germany. He said he had been notified that neither the German commissioner nor his nation, would participate in any further proceedings of the tribunal.

Justice Roberts then announced that since the Germans and the Americans had disagreed it was up to him as umpire to decide the case.

"I concur," Justice Roberts said,

America Sets Peace Example States George

By FRANK H. KING.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, June 15 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth today bade farwell by radio to Canada and the United States, which the departing monarch termed "a large part of the earth where there is no possibility of war between neighbors."

"By God's grace yours may yet be the example which all the world will follow," the king said in a broadcast to the British Empire and the United States in which the queen joined, making her first formal radio address.

The broadcast speeches were part of a busy "hail and farewell" visit to Halifax before embarking tonight for a brief stop in Newfoundland on their way home to England.

"I return to England with a new sense of the resources and of the responsibilities of our British Empire," said the king, expressing pleasure that "we have had the opportunity, also, of crossing our border and paying an all too brief visit to Canada's great and friendly neighbors to the south.

"I go home with another thought which is a comfort and an inspiration.

"From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the tropics to the Arctic, lies a large part of the earth where there is no possibility of war between neighbors, whose people are wholly dedicated to the pursuits of peace, a pattern to all men of how civilized nations should live togther.

"It is good to know that such a region exists, for what man can do once he can do again."

Mercury Skyrides To Seasonal High; 106 At 2 p. m. Today

Pampa and the Top O' Texas was in its third day of sizzling—and we DO mean sizzling—weather this afternoon when the mercury was on another upward rampage that appeared headed even higher than the season's record of 108 degrees reached at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

On today's weather calendar, fluid in the official tube at the U. S. government weather reporting station at the airport, moved up into the 100-mark column at high noon, and by 1 p. m. it had reached 103 degrees. On Wednesday it was only 99 at 1 p. m. and 103 at 2 o'clock.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon official reading was 106 degrees.

Despite high winds, Wednesday night was one of the uncomfortably warm nights of the year in the Pampa area. The mercury hovered in the 80s all through the night with the 24-hour low of 76 degrees coming at 7 o'clock this morning.

The weatherman predicts slightly cooler in the Panhandle tonight and continued warm for Friday.

Anti-Sales Tax Bloc Makes Desperate Fight

AUSTIN, June 15 (AP)—Outnumbered almost two to one but changing their battle cry "It Shall Not Pass," a determined band of representatives took their posts in the House today to fight desperately the sixth move to put across S. J. R. 12 the sales tax constitutional amendment.

Leaders of both sides announced "ready" for what probably will be the final effort to adopt the amendment.

Already approved by the Senate, the resolution had the endorsement of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel as the means of financing Texas' social security program.

Officials Oppose WPA Restrictions

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Two high administration officials spoke out today against restrictions in federal relief spending proposed in the $1,716,000,000 House bill to finance 1940 relief operations.

Secretary Ickes said a prohibition against using future public works administration funds to build industrial plants in competition with existing private enterprise "dictates to municipalities what they should and should not apply for and in that it distinctly traverses the Democratic principles of government."

Col. C. Harrington, Works Progress Administration chief, said after a conference with President Roosevelt that "some of the things in the bill are going to be awfully tough to try to administer."

While declining to discuss details he declared that as presently written the measure imposed certain time limits on the administrator.

'Fair Trade' Act Pushed To Approval

AUSTIN, June 15 (AP)—Senate proponents rolled up comfortable majorities today, pushing the house approved "fair trade" act to final approval. However, the measure must be returned to the lower chamber for concurrence in amendments.

The measure received 20 affirmative and 10 negative votes after friends had invoked a rule shutting off debate by a vote of 18 to 11.

The bill permits producers and merchants to sign contracts setting minimum retail prices for trademarked articles and commodities. Its broad provisions make liable to legal action any merchant selling an item below the minimum price level stipulated in a contract.

Opponents succeeded yesterday in attaching an amendment limiting price agreements to a term of two years. Otherwise contracts would have run without limitation and could not have been voided by legislation, opponents said.

GAY 90's HATS RINGERS FOR PRESENT DAY MODELS

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP)—Clerks dug through old stocks of a pioneer clothing store recently to fill an order for raiment suitable for a gay 90's" celebration. Cutaways tight pants, fancy vests, derby hats, box-toed and button shoes, bustles, frilly gowns, lace petticoats, flower festooned hats and poke bonnets finally were found, vintage of 65 years ago. Why they had remained in stock that long nobody knew but the clerks said they could have sold some of the ladies' hats for 1939 models with hardly a soul being able to detect the difference.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART,
NEA Service Staff Writer.

Many a beauty-minded woman has cured insomnia simply by doing relaxing exercises each night before even trying to go to sleep. Just as stretching exercises are fine things with which to begin a day, relaxing routines help to end it on a note of peace and quiet which is sleep-producing.

Begin relaxing exercises which will lull you off to sleep rather quickly the same way you start eye-opening, morning exercises—with a couple of good stretches. Then lie flat on your back with arms at sides. You are now ready to begin to try to relax every muscle in your body.

First, raise one leg up and away from the bed, tensing the muscles of it as you do so. Hold it up, meanwhile keeping muscles tense, for five or six seconds, then relax it completely and let it fall back on the bed again. Raise the other leg and repeat the routine, tensing the muscles, holding the leg up for a few seconds, relaxing it and letting it fall.

Repeat with arms. Then with hand. Lift your head off the pillow, tensing neck and shoulder muscles, hold the position several seconds, relax muscles and let head fall. Lift center of backbone up and away from the bed, then lower slowly. As you lower backbone, make believe that you are going to sink down into the mattress.

Afterward, get into comfortable sleeping position and think of huge waves rolling in toward shore. Or of yards of soft, silky rippling velvet hanging on a line, rippling in a gentle breeze.

Anyway, think of something pleasant or at least restful—not of tomorrow's duties or troubles. You'll be better able to face them if you get a good night's sleep beforehand.

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Service Staff Writer.

The hotter the weather, the hotter the food. That's a Mexican recipe for keeping cool.

Tamale Pie.
(Serves 4 to 6.)

One quart boiling water, 1 cup cornmeal, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ pound salt pork, 1½ pounds ground round steak, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons chili powder, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ¼ cup cracker crumbs.

To boiling salted water, slowly add cornmeal. Stir until mixture begins to thicken. Simmer over hot water while preparing the meat.

Have salt pork and round steak ground together. Combine with salt, onion and chili powder. (Any good grocery carries chili powder.)

Grease a baking dish. Smooth half of the cornmeal mush over the bottom. Then add the meat mixture, and cover with remaining mush. Over the top sprinkle the cracker crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 1 hour. Be sure the mush is cooked but not too stiff. The pie should be reasonably moist.

Barbecued Hamburgers.
(Makes about 12.)

Two pounds hamburgers, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon minced garlic, ¾ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper.

Combine all the ingredients. Shape into flat patties about 5 inches wide and ¼-inch thick. Fry slowly in a little fat until well browned on both sides, turning frequently. Just before done, cover with half a bun. This process steams the bun. Toast the other half of the bun and butter it, then add cooked hamburger. Everyone likes this kind of hot food in summer.

$300 In Prizes To Be Given Winners In 10 Boat Races

Pampa is expected to send a delegation to join those of Canyon and Amarillo at the official opening of Lake Marvin, near Canadian, Sunday.

Garnet Reeves, secretary of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, has asked Pampans attending the lake dedication program to call at the chamber of commerce office and obtain hatbands to wear on the trip to the lake.

3 Amarillo Units

Three caravans will leave Amarillo Sunday morning at 8, 8:45, and 9:30 o'clock. Captain Jim Line of the Texas Highway patrol will provide patrolmen for such caravan. A motorcade will leave Canyon at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning to join one of the Amarillo caravans.

The Commodore's ball, given by the Canadian Boat club, Saturday night, a public ball Sunday night, dedication ceremony Sunday afternoon, and boat races and a bathing revue, are on the program of the celebration, of which Delbert Gibson is general chairman.

Ex-Pampan Named Judge

Judging the boat races will be C. W. Allen, Orin Cross, H. E. Hoover, all of Canadian, Jeff Bentley, Dick Martin, Carter Matthews, and Howard Arnberg, all of Amarillo. Arnberg formerly lived in Pampa.

County Judge Sherman White of Pampa will be one of the five judges who will select Miss Lake Marvin, Queen of the Canadian. The other judges will be John McCarty and Alan Furman, both of Amarillo, Judge Dave Shanks of Perryton, and John R. Caylor, mayor of Canadian. Bill Wilson of Amarillo will be master of ceremonies at the bathing revue.

Final Plans Friday

Final plans for the celebration will be completed at Canadian Friday night at a called meeting of the Canadian Boat club and the newly formed auxiliary.

Ladies of Canadian who are interested in boating met Tuesday night to organize the Canadian Boat club auxiliary and with smoothness of veterans made plans for the entertainment of thousands of visitors that will attend the opening jamboree.

Mrs. Jack Lawrence, the first woman in this city to drive a speed boat on Lake Marvin, was appropriately elected Commodoress of the club. Miss Elizabeth Schoot, home demonstration agent of Hemphill county, was elected vice-commodoress, Mrs. Calvin Isaacs, secretary, and Mrs. Norman Magill, treasurer. Other board of directors members elected were Mrs. Carl Studer, Mrs. Jim Poindexter, Mrs. A. B. Dameron, Mrs. J. M. Johnson and Mrs. Frank Phillips.

Ball To Honor SCS Official

Acceptance of invitations to the Commodore's ball that is being given in honor of C. Lukcr of the Soil Conservation service Saturday night are pouring into headquarters this week promising one of the largest turnouts of the entire celebration plans. The ball, given by the boat club is an invitational affair enabling accommodatichs at the Recreational building.

The same orchestra will play again Sunday night when the ball will be open to the public, without charge, to enable everyone to enjoy dancing. Club members stated they did not wish to slight anyone that wanted to dance but due to the size of the building the ball would have to be given two nights to accommodate everyone wishing to attend.

Free Celebration

Cities throughout the Panhandle continue promising large delegations to arrive here Sunday morning for the all-day free celebration that will witness the official dedication of Lake Marvin by H. H. Finnell, regional coordinator of the Soil Conservation service and an address by John McCarty, Gene Howe and other dignitaries. Following the opening ceremonies, 10 major boat races will determine winners for $300 in cash awards then the beauty queens of the Panhandle will vie for the title, Miss Lake Marvin. Queen of the Canadian, and $50 in prizes. Passenger rides and other water sports will complete the days entertainment before the second Commodore's ball that evening brings to a close the debut of the Riviera of the Panhandle.

Death Takes Texan Who Gave Food To Bandit Jesse James

KIRBYVILLE, June 15 (AP)— Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Mary Smith, 79, native lifelong resident of Newton county who reared a family of 13 children, none of them her own.

She had often related her keen recollection of the day Jesse James stopped at her father's home where he was given food for himself and his horse by her father, John M. Powell, pioneer East Texan.

In the house where she died stood a century-old spinning wheel which she used expertly.

16-Year-Old Flier On Last Leg Of Trip

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 15 (AP) —Richard James, 16-year-old solo flier, took off here today on the last leg of his projected trip from Denver to Chicago to visit his grandmother, Mrs. S. H. James.

Richard landed his small blue monoplane at the Des Moines airport yesterday to await better visibility after low-hanging clouds over the state looked uninviting to him.

The young pilot left Denver at dawn yesterday.

James' parents, who gave him his lane on his sixteenth birthday, have approved the flight. He received his student flying permit on May 15.

LONDON

on the issue at Tientsin as Britain was believed ready to take direct economic action against Japan.

Experts of the board of trade met at the same time and reviewed British-Japanese economic relations.

What type of economic retaliation Britain might adopt was unknown but weapons at her disposal included discriminatory tariffs, exclusion of Japanese ships from British-controlled ports in the Far East and embargoes against raw materials shipped to Japan.

In addition it was said she could increase financial assistance to China's leader, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

(The British government announced March 8 creation of a Chinese-British stabilization fund of £10,000,000 (about $46,800,000) to protect China's currency. Half of the fund was contributed by two British institutions, the Hongkong and Shanghai bank and the Chartered bank, which the government announced it would guarantee against loss.)

Prime Minister Chamberlain went out for his usual morning stroll to study the bird life around the lake in St. James's park and had the opportunity to learn the latest news from Tientsin when he chanced upon his foreign secretary, Lord Halifax.

The foreign office yesterday construed the Japanese blockade of the British concession as a challenge to British "rights and interests" in China.

California is segregating its tubucular insane in two hospitals for more effective treatment.

JAPS

the crisis which brought on the Japanese blockade yesterday.

Foreign advices from Amoy said three Japanese warships had isolated the island of Kulangsu, which is the Amoy settlement, halting all traffic and preventing landing of vegetables and other supplies.

A Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying the purpose was to "bring the (Kulangsu) municipal council to its senses" with regard to Japanese demands for a greater hand in control of the settlement.

Before negotiations were halted last week by departure of the Japanese consul general from Amoy for Tokyo the council announced its willingness to accept two of five Japanese demands, holding complete acceptance would give Japan control of the Kulangsu government.

Last month, about the time the United States, Britain, and France matched a Japanese landing party three-to-one with their own marines and blue-jackets at Kulangsu, the Japanese halted shipping between Kulangsu and the mainland. However, a few days ago a Shanghai spokesman said the Japanese blockade had been lifted.

The issue at Tientsin was drawn along similar lines with Japanese officers declaring the cordon around the British and French concessions would not be lifted until "the British reverse their policy and afford us complete cooperation."

British shipping companies announced they were discontinuing cargo service to Tientsin and it was understood passengers bound for Tientsin would be landed at Tangku, 25 miles from Tientsin.

Back of both blockades was the Japanese effort, through the conquest of China started July 7, 1937, to establish a "new order in Eastern Asia."

Food Pinch Acute.

Both were based on Japanese demands for suppression of 'anti-Japanism." The original Japanese landing at Kulangsu was predicated on a shooting scrape in which Japanese said one of their naval officers was endangered. The original demand at Tientsin was for delivery by the British of four Chinese accused of killing a local Chinese official.

There was no further word of the food situation among Kulangsu's 250 foreigners and 40,000 Chinese but at Tientsin, more than 1,000 miles north of Amoy, the pinch was rapidly becoming acute. The Tientsin blockade was started only yesterday.

Hotels reported they had supplies for about one week.

Shipments of vegetables, milk and other foods were virtually cut off for the 120,000 combined population of the two Tientsin concessions.

by a microphone of the loud-speaker and shouted:

"Let's knock it down!"

Promptly at 10:45 a. m. Speaker Morse permitted Rep. E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston to bring up the matter.

Before making a motion to suspend the rules, Thornton asked Morse to have the sergeant-at-arms bring Rep. Dywer to the floor.

Someone spotted Senator Joe Hill of Henderson, who has waged war on the amendment over the air and in the Senate, on the House floor, and moved that the speaker instruct him not to do any lobbying for the proposal.

Morse did so.

A point of order was raised by Rep. John E. Roach of Forney that the amendment properly could not be considered again because the House had rejected previously a constitutional resolution on the same subject.

The point was overruled by the speaker.

Came the vote on the motion to suspend the rules, and when the result was announced first as 93 ayes to 55 noes and Morse announced the motion had failed to carry, there was a mighty roar from floor and galleries.

Photo Club Brings Educational Film To Pampa Tonight

After about six months of effort the Pampa Photo club has succeeded in bringing to Pampa a one-hour sound moving picture depicting the romance of the photographic industry. The show, beginning at 8 o'clock tonight at the City Hall, portrays the gathering of raw materials from all corners of the earth that go into the manufacture of sensitized film and paper, and shows the actual manufacture of film.

The construction of cameras, grinding of lenses and the elaborate optical system used to check the accuracy of fine lenses is also shown.

The camera club tried to book this educational film to be shown during school so that students might derive some benefit from it, but the show was booked up so far ahead that it is just now getting around to that organization.

Camera enthusiasts of Pampa extend a cordial invitation to the general public to attend the showing, for tonight only.

There is to be no charge whatever to see the film, which is furnished through the Eastman Kodak company of Rochester, N. Y.

Atlantic Flying Begins After 20 Years' Trials

SYMBOL of a gallant, daring era is the new U. S. special Trans-Atlantic airmail stamp shown above, blue, slightly reduced. Twenty years after the first heavier-than-air flights across the Atlantic it is being used for official postage to inaugurate regular crossings between America and the old world. Thereby tags an epic story.

It is a story that begins in the twilight of a May evening in 1919, May 16 to be exact, when three powerful ships of the U. S. Navy rose from American waters to begin the first heavier-than-air flying of the Atlantic. They were headed for the Azores, 1200 miles distant, the same route followed by the pilots of Pan American Airways today. But fog and storm and disaster set in soon after the takeoff and only one ship, the NC-4, successfully completed the first leg. The others were forced down without loss of lives.

From the Azores the NC-4 took off again after a week's layover and flew successfully to Lisbon, and from there later on to Plymouth, where the first flight officially ended amid high celebration May 31, 1919.

So began Trans-Atlantic aviation, in an open cockpit, with comparatively crude instruments, but with great daring. And eight years later came unknown Charles Lindbergh to dramatize the possibilities of oceanic flying for all time. And after him came others, equally intrepid. Meantime, the great research laboratories of the nation were trained on the problem of aircraft development, safer flying, commercial operation. Now, 20 years after the first flight, regularly scheduled crossings from New York to Marseille, by way of the Azores and Lisbon, Portugal and return are underway. Aviation has soared to another conquest!

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Stocks generally sang a losing refrain in today's market and most buyers walked out on the concert.

Losses ran to a point or so for leaders after an indifferent start. One or two isolated set-backs of around 4 were observed. At that, a handful of issues managed to finish on the upside.

Brokers were disposed to put the blame for the downward slant partly on renewed apprehension over foreign affairs, principally that far eastern British-Japanese crisis which, some feared, might conceivably involve the United States if not adjusted soon. In addition, though was given the latest German-Slovak developments with the idea these had the makings of a new European explosion.

On the home front hopes persisted for constructive congressional action on tax revision, railway relief legislation and other measures advocated as stimulants for industry. Business news, on the whole, was still fairly promising.

Bonds trailed stocks on the backstretch. Commodities were uneven.

Sporadic efforts to revive share prices met with scant success and closing quotations were at or near the lows.

Prominent on the extension of the recent recessionary move were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Allis-Chalmers, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Safeway Stores, Sperry, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Cluett Peabody and Santa Fe.

Aged Solon Advises Young Men To Vote Against Sales Tax

AUSTIN, June 15 (AP)—W. W. Bridgers, 70-year-old representative from El Paso, appealed today to the young men in the House to stand firm against the sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment urged by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel.

Bridgers spoke after Rep. E. H. Thornton of Galveston announced a sixth attempt to push the sales-natural resource tax program through the lower chamber would be made tomorrow. Fifty-six representatives voted against the amendment last Thursday whereas 51 can prevent its adoption.

The El Paso veteran charged the taxation amendment was prepared for the Legislature before it assembled.

"It came out of the mysterious offing of contrivance by men whose brains are paid for by interests that intend by hook or crook," he said, "to control the destinies of this state. You know it and I know it, and if we do their bidding we will be little short of traitors to our sworn duty in this House."

Bridgers attempted to refute arguments that legislators who vote against the governor's program will be defeated next summer.

"You young men who are afraid you won't be re-elected—are you afraid because you fear the future of your country," he inquired, "or because you fear for yourself?

"What are you here for except to serve the interests of your state? If it takes your political life to do what is right, you still will not be in as bad shape as the young man who proclaimed before he was hanged by the British that his only regret was that he had but one life to give his country.

"Let me tell you as a matter of in errant observation that the man who is most anxious to stay in the Legislature, and who will cut corners in order to stay is the man who inevitably will fail. You can't play politics and stay in the Legislature.

"Playing politics may save you for a time but there is no future to it because sooner or later it will catch up with you. There is an intuition of the public mind that in the end, is well nigh infallible. But if you are on the square with yourself, if you are at all times ready to stand or fall upon what you know is the truth it may defeat you once, but it will not continue to defeat you, assuming of course that you are not a natural born idiot."

"in the views expressed by the American commissioner to the effect that the withdrawal of the German commissioner . . . did not oust the jurisdiction of the commission. I hold that the commission as now constituted has jurisdiction to decide the motion.

"I find that, for the reason alleged by the United States in its petition for rehearing — material fraud in the proofs presented by Germany—and for the further reason that on the record as it now stands the claimant's cases are made out, the pending motions should be and are granted."

Hollywood Actors Leave Footprints In Concrete Here

Three half-sections of sidewalk blocks in front of the LaNora theater today were souvenirs of the motion picture premiere held at the theater last night, a part of the program of the Tep O' Texas Fiesta.

In the concrete has been pressed the bootmarks and hand of George (Windy) Hayes, shoeprints of Nellie Parker, movie stunt girl, the marks of the footwear and hand of Walter Mattex, who also wrote, "best wishes, Gene Autry and Smiley Burnette."

Names of each of the three Hollywood visitors were also traced in the concrete. The premiere was held in typical Hollywood fashion, with blocked off streets, a battery of spotlights, band music, autographs, and introduction of the three guests from Hollywood, Sheriff Cal Rose, L. C. Griffith of Oklahoma City, president of the Griffith Amusement company, A. C. Cox, band director, and the showing of the picture, "Man of Conquest."

Steinbeck Turns His Wrath On 'Grapes Of Wrath' Publicity

TO READERS: Brightest literary light of the moment is John Steinbeck, whose best-selling novel, "Grapes of Wrath," is hailed as outstanding book of year. Here's an exclusive, informal interview with Author Steinbeck.

Gave Up Boxing To Spar With Literature

By JOHN C. RICE.
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—Big, solid, blue-eyed John Ernest Steinbeck today is one of America's foremost authors by grave of a 15-year-old decision to give up a promising boxing career in favor of writing.

It was a hard choice to make. Steinbeck was just out of college.

"I would have been a good boxer," he says. "I have the build and the speed, but my uncle talked me out of it. He kept reminding me how it would feel to be pinched and pulled at by sports writers and trainers, to be on the platform before a bunch of yelling fans, and to have to sacrifice my personal privacy."

That cinched it. Steinbeck has always been jealous of his own freedom and privacy and he gave up any idea of chasing a professional crown. Now, however, he is not so sure he can keep away from the publicity—which he says he detests.

Fan-Fare Falls to Please Him.

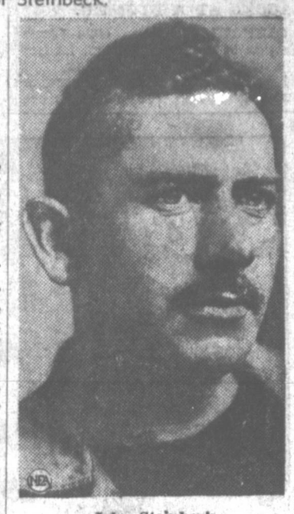

His most recent novel, "Grapes of Wrath," is in its fifth printing a little more than a month after publication. This popularity has already had its effect on Steinbeck's life, and he isn't liking it at all.

"I have always wondered why no author has survived a best-seller," he grumbles. "Now I know. The publicity and fan-fare are just as bad as they would be for a boxer. One gets self-conscious and that's the end of one's writing."

The former California farmboy has always disliked limelight. He avoids speeches and banquets. He lives on a secluded ranch in the mountains south of San Francisco with his wife and dog, Bruga.

"But they get to me anyway. I get 30 or 40 letters a day from all sorts of people. They all want to make some sort of a freak of me. They want to give me an individual importance which would destroy everything that I want to do with my work."

Steinbeck is neither aloof nor mysterious. He is friendly, hospitable and always glad of a chance to make a new friend. He loves to talk with people—all sorts of people.

That's the key to his character. hand at everything from newspaper work to acting as nurse-maid in a fish hatchery. He has been a chemist in a sugar analysis laboratory, a watchman, a straw boss. He has carried bricks, run a cultivator, bucked grain bags—and he always comes back for more.

Lives In Spanish Ranch Retreat.

The Steinbeck ranch, atop a beautifully forested hill, commands a sweeping view of Santa Clara county farm lands and wooded knolls.

The house itself was designed and decorated by Mrs. Steinbeck, the former Carol Henning of San Jose, Calif. It is of Spanish-type architecture with large windows and big airy rooms. The furniture is comfortable and colorful. The walls are hung with bright Mexican tapestries and handsome prints.

Center of the Steinbecks' life is their combination swimming pool

and reservoir. When friends come for a swim, the hospitable author provides ample supplies of beer which he deposits on the bottom of the pool to "to keep cool."

Steinbeck is 37, but admits that He is interested in everything. Nothing bores him, nothing pleases him so much as a good laugh.

Since childhood he has tried his mechanical toys are his favorite amusement. That's why he likes the San Francisco exposition—"It's all one big toy." Another favorite hobby is fishing, ocean fishing.

Steinbeck at work is another picture. It took him six months to write the 200,000 word "Grapes of Wrath." "I put in a good working day," he says, "and usually get out about 2,000 words." His chief cause of envy is his close friend, William Scroyan, who, he claims, never gets up from work from the time he starts a story until it is finished.

Wife Is Severest Critic—of Copy.

One of Steinbeck's big difficulties has always been spelling and punctuation.

"I used to have a terrible time," he says, "but since I have been married my wife copyreads all my work. She's wonderful—never misses a thing."

Steinbeck's major interest, it really amounts to a passion, is the problem of the migratory laborers in California. He writes about them, works for them, and gives them a major part of his income.

"They are getting some relief, now," he says almost fiercely, "but there must be more. Nothing permanent can be done for them now because we are in a period of transition much like the British industrial revolution.

"Imagine a situation in which employers think 20 cents an hour is over-pay and try to get the standard lower. One thing that would help a lot would be an information service with a weekly bulletin telling how many men are needed and where."

Spectator Injured in Golf Play-off

Unconscious and bleeding after being struck in the temple by a golf ball, Robert Mossman, spectator at the National Open golf championship triangular playoff at Philadelphia, is pictured being carried off the links. He was hit by a screaming brassie shot which Craig Wood hooked off the fairway approaching the 18th hole.

The national consumption of beer is decreasing in England, while the consumption of coffee, tea and wine is increasing.

Kidnaped Babe Suffocated Savs Coroner

CLYDE, Ohio, June 15 (AP)—Evidence indicated today the cold-blooded killer of 10-week-old Haldon Fink "deliberately and immediately" suffocated the baby, whose body was found floating in a creek seven miles away 12 hours after being snatched from his cradle.

Sheriff H. L. Myers and Coroner D. W. Philo concurred in the suffocation theory after an autopsy showed death was not due to drowning.

Philo said "the lungs were not due to drowning. Death probably was due to suffocation from the blanket taken with the baby. Preliminary examination disclosed no trace of poison."

Sheriff Myers ordered deputies to the creek with hooks to search for the blanket in which the baby was wrapped when stolen from the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Baker.

A "mysterious stranger," seen in this northern Ohio town of 3,100 seemed to furnish the best lead in the case.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Irvin Baker Fink, 22, divorced from the father, 23, had told Sheriff Myers about a stranger who approached her near her home Tuesday night and inquired directions to a neighbor's.

Today a woman residing five blocks from the Baker home said she heard a car stop near her home between 9 and 11 p. m. Tuesday. (The baby was stolen between 10 and 11 p. m.). She said she heard a baby cry and two or more persons talking in the auto.

A few minutes later the car drove a short distance past her house, stopped again and a stranger got out and put "a bundle or something" into the rear compartment, she declared.

The woman told Sheriff Myers she flashed a light toward the auto and the man hurriedly got in and drove away.

Theft of the Willamette meteorite was discovered after it had been transported with great effort through the rough and timbered Oregon hills. Owners of the land on which it originally fell sold it for $20,600 to Mrs. Dodge, New York philanthropist, who gave it to the American Museum of Natural History, where it is on display.

Here's Note To People Who Bury Leaden Boxes

CINCINNATI, June 15 (AP)—As a note to people who bury things to be dug up for the edification of generations to come, a monument to the fallibility of the memory of man was returned formally today to the Cincinnati art museum.

A sealed lead box turned up this week in the yard of a firm which buys old metals for refining and reselling. Ordinarily it would have gone straight to the furnaces, but such things sometimes explode in the heat.

Fred Westheimer, company president, had it opened and discovered a pile of documents, including Cincinnati newspapers of Oct. 15, 1885, cards of various individuals and firms, an almanac, and other flora and fauna of a growing city.

Preliminary examination failed to disclose why they should have been preserved for posterity.

Finally, at the bottom, was one sheet of museum stationery with a note reading: "This document was sealed and deposited beneath Grand Staircase on Thursday the 15th day of October, 1885, together with Cincinnati daily papers of same date."

Walter H. Siple, museum director, was informed triumphantly that a missing and prized museum possession had been found. He replied blankly that he never knew there was such a box—much less that it was missing.

Research showed only that the Grand Staircase was renovated in 1907 and that the box might have been removed then. No work had been done near it at any other time.

Westheimer handed the box back to the museum today, with all contents intact, including the card saying William Donahue, plumber, was "maker of this box."

King And Queen To Embark For England

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, June 15 (AP)—(Canadian Press)—King George and Queen Elizabeth ended an historic 9,401-mile journey through Canada and the United States as they arrived today at this old Nova Scotia port where they will embark tonight for Newfoundland on their way back to England.

Thousands of subjects drawn from all parts of the maritime provinces gave them a welcome such as has greeted their majesties at every step on their 30-day trip across the continent and back.

Long before the royal blue-and-silver train arrived at 9:05 a. m. (CST) Halifax was packed with crowds who had gathered throughout the night to roar a welcome and later say farewell to the king and queen.

Their majesties' last night in Canada—and last night aboard the train on which they have slept 22 nights since landing at Quebec May 17—was spent on a siding a few miles east of Truro. Only nights of the royal tour have been spent off the train when their majesties were guests at the citadel in Quebec, Rideau Hall in Ottawa, Banff, Victoria, Jasper National park, the White House and President Roosevelt's home in Hyde Park.

An unscheduled stop was made at Truro where 15,000 spectators cheered when the king and queen made a ten-minute platform appearance

Labor Peace 'Impossible' Claims Lewis

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP)—Labor peace negotiations appeared to be at an end today after John L. Lewis, CIO president, declared further dealings with AFL representatives were impossible.

Calling the AFL leadership "reactionary" and working to "crystallize anti-New Deal sentiment," Lewis told reporters CIO executives were agreed "they should go forward with renewed vigor."

His pronouncement brought no immediate comment from administration officials, who had been watching the negotiations ever since President Roosevelt urgently requested their inauguration last winter.

It brought a quick response, however, from AFL President William Green, who characterized Lewis' remarks as "intemperate."

"The leader of the CIO has again blocked labor peace," Green said.

Lewis' statement followed a long session with the CIO executive board yesterday. The board, he said, accepted without recommendations the report of the CIO-AFL peace negotiations last March and expressed a unanimous view peace was "a secondary consideration" to CIO's prime objective of enrolling unorganized workers into industrial unions.

Of the rival federations, he said the board's opinion was:

"That the AFL is still under the control of a small group firmly entrenched and reactionary in their attitude on public questions and who are tolerant of many evil conditions existing inside the AFL."

The report on the negotiations, he explained, was placed before the board to show "how impossible it was" to negotiate peace.

Green's reply was that the Federation had done its utmost "to effect a reasonable peace in the interest of labor and the country."

Ralph Pulitzer Dies In New York

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Ralph Pulitzer, 60, former publisher of the New York World and eldest heir to the newspaper fortune founded by his father, Joseph Pulitzer, died last night.

He had been in failing health since 1930 and underwent an abdominal operation at Presbyterian hospital May 1.

Born in St. Louis, where Joseph Pulitzer established the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Pulitzer began newspaper work on his father's other newspaper, the World, in New York in 1900. He was vice president of the Press Publishing company from 1906 to 1908, and president from 1911 to 1930, when he retired.

Closed Hearing Held For Youths In Branding Case

BALTIMORE, June 15 (AP)—David E. Weglein, superintendent of schools, held a closed inquiry today for 18 high school students suspended after Melvin Bridge, 14, a Jewish youth, complained he had been branded with a letter "H" scratched into his neck.

Weglein said he would not make public results of the inquiry, which he emphasized was not a "hearing." However, Murray McNabb, attorney for three of the youths, said he would have a statement after the meeting. Weglein said he would report results direct to the school board.

McNabb said he had been excluded from the hearing. He said the students were segregated and were being called, one by one, before Weglein.

McNabb said he would refuse to permit his clients to go before Weglein unless he was allowed to accompany them.

Complaining about what he called "star chamber" proceedings, McNabb said "even a criminal is entitled to a public hearing."

Mayor Howard W. Jackson said he was "not in sympathy" with the method of conducting the inquiry but that he did not want to tell school authorities how to handle the case. Jackson had ordered the investigation yesterday.

The school board was summoned to meet later in the day for its probe of the incident which precipitated an announcement by Rep. Martin J. Dies his House committee on un-American activities would make a "routine investigation."

Tropical Storm Puzzles Experts

NEW ORLEANS, June 15 (AP)—The first tropical storm of the season today puzzled weather bureau officials as it rambled around in the Gulf of Mexico within a hundred miles radius of Pensacola and Mobile.

After traveling almost due north from the Yucatan channel during the past three days, the disturbance early today became nearly stationary with its center at 6 a. m., central standard time, about 120 miles almost south of Pensacola, Fla., the weather bureau reported in its 8:30 a. m. advisory.

The bureau described it as of slight to moderate intensity and attended by strong shifting winds to squalls.

Preparations were made for the Coast Guard to protect Gulf craft and exposed dwellers from the storm along the entire Gulf coast from Grand Isle, La., into Florida because of uncertainty of direction.

The weather bureau ordered storm warnings displayed from Carrabelle, Fla., to Bay St. Louis, Miss., and small craft warnings at Grand Isle, La., and the mouth of the Mississippi river.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A charm dangling from Circuit Judge Churchill Humphrey's watch chain is a constant reminder of the jurist's close brush with death.

Lamesa And Pampa To Open Series Tonight

Oilers Plan To Overtake Lobo Hitters

Jodie Tate and his Lamesa Loboes, the team that is just one and a half games head of the Pampa Oilers in the West Texas-New Mexico League, will arrive in Pampa tonight for the first of three games with the Pampa Oilers. Game tonight and tomorrow night will be 8:30 o'clock. The Saturday night game, to which women will be admitted free, will begin at 9:15 o'clock.

While Lamesa is holding down second place, Lubbock is in first place only three games ahead of the Oilers, in third place. By winning the Lamesa series the Oilers can jump into second place and threaten the Hubbers for first place before the end of the first half of the season, which is June 28.

In an effort to win the opening game tonight, Manager Grover Seitz will send Frank Grabek, one of the league's leading chunkers, to the mound. Grabek was to have started against Abilene yesterday but Seitz started Tirey and relieved with Verrengia when the lefthander weakened. Tirey was released after the game and Lefty Rex Dilbeck, who worked with the Pampa Oilers in 1937, will be given a look over. Dilbeck arrived in Pampa yesterday and will get in shape for a trial.

Three In A Row

The Oilers made it three in a row from the Abilene Apaches yesterday afternoon, 8 to 4. It was the Oilers' 13th win in their last 15 starts and their fifth in a row.

Tirey started for the Oilers but couldn't find the plate. He walked five before being relieved in the third by Verrengia who went the rest of the way, allowing one run.

Reinold, a 6 foot 5 inch righthander, was the choice of Manager Withers but he was nicked for 13 hits before being jerked in the seventh. One of Reinold's heaves found a mark but it was on Girdon Nell's bat and the ball went over the fence for home run number 24.

Bailey Makes Double Play

A snappy double play by Bailey in the opening inning pulled Tirey out of a hole after two runs had crossed. With Morris on first by virtue of a single, Evans hit a bullet drive past first but Bailey stuck out his big glove and snagged the ball stepping on the bag before Morris could return.

The Oilers scored three runs in the opening stanza when Reeves walked and Nell, Summers and Beavers singled after two were out.

Tirey walked three in the third before Verrengia relieved. Evans flied out to Seitz, Hillin scoring, Morris, on second, tried to make third after the catch but Seitz made a sensational throw from deep center which Nell caught in time to tag Morris.

The Oilers put the game in the bag in the fourth when Pietras, Cross and Verrengia doubled to open proceedings. With two away, Seitz beat out an infield hit and Nell clouted one over the leftfield fence. Summers and Beavers singled before the inning ended.

Gil And Jap To Wrestle One Fall With Jackets

Roughhouse Gil LaCross, rough and tough French-Canadian, was talking when he should have been listening yesterday and now he's in trouble. The wildman got popping off about the Japanese Jackets and Japanese type of wrestling being a lot of hooey so Promoter Cliff Chambers immediately signed him to a match with Sugi Hayamaka, flashy Japanese.

The two maulers will flip a coin to decide whether the first or second fall will be with the Jackets, the other being catch-as-catch-can. If one mauler doesn't win two straight, the third fall will be in the style of the quickest win of the first two. Should the Jap throw LaCross quicker with the Jackets than LaCross can throw Hayamaka American style the deciding fall will be Japanese.

After being hooked into signing a contract, LaCross started bluffing. He declared he is an expert in Japanese wrestling and that he'll beat Hayamaka at his own game. LaCross must have forgotten that he told friends here Monday night that he had never even seen Japanese wrestling until he came to Pampa and saw Hayamaka and Peterson in action.

The semi-final is going to be a rugged affair unless something unusual happens. Dale Haddock, commonly called "Gentleman Dale," will meet Petro Belcastro, champion of the woodsmen of Oregon and Washington. Haddock is fast trying to overcome the LaCross, McShane reputation as a rough and tough mauler.

Sailor Jack Adams, one of the wildest gobs ever sent out of the navy, will battle Otto Ludwig in the opener, at 8:30 o'clock sharp, in an open air match. Regardless of how hot the weather, the arena will be cool for the big card.

Houston Wins Doubleheader From Beaumont

(By The Associated Press.)

Houston's league-leading Buffaloes whipped Beaumont's Exporters 8-3 and 3-1 in a doubleheader yesterday and moved a game and one-half ahead of the second place Dallas Rebels in the bitterly fought Texas league race.

The Rebels survived a last inning Oklahoma City rally to win 7-6 and maintain second place by the slim margin of three percentage points over San Antonio's Missions who beat the Shreveport Sports 6-1.

Tulsa's Oilers ganged up on Pitcher Ed Greer for four hits and three runs in the first three innings, including a homer by Stan Schino, and downed Fort Worth's Cats 3-2.

Lefty Brecheen subdued Beaumont 8-3 in the opener, but Houston was harder pressed in the second game, winning it by counting two runs in the ninth inning, which was two innings for nightcaps.

Wooderson Wants To Beat Glenn, Not Set Record

PRINCETON, N. J., June 15 (AP)—That long-awaited duel between the world's two fastest milers—Englishman Sydney Wooderson and Kansan Glen Cunningham—may turn out to be a blooming bust as far as a new world's record goes.

"It's possible, don't you know," Wooderson said today, "that none of the chappies will want to set the pace. I shan't. My main purpose in coming to America is to beat Cunningham. Hang the time."

The British bantam—he stands five feet, six in his four-and-a-half shoes—meets Cunningham, holder of indoor mile record of 4:04.4, and three others in the sixth annual Princeton invitation mile run Saturday.

"A sixty-second first quarter," smiling Sydney said, "would be a but of all right," and might lead to a 4:03 record, but, he added wistfully, "can't say that anyone'll lead the way."

A 24-year-old solicitor, Wooderson looks like a hemty off-shore breeze would blow him right through the Palmer stadium gates.

However, his outdoor record of 4:06.4 for the mile gives plenty of evidence that somewhere in his tiny frame he has enough stuff to carry on, chin up, eyes front and all that sort of thing.

After the race he plans to carry on right through New York's world fair, Niagara Falls, Philadelphia, maybe Washington, and maybe Ontario.

McCasland High In Officers Shooting

DALLAS, June 15. (AP) — The City Marshals' and Police Chief's Union of Texas held a final business meeting here today and planned to close the annual convention of the organization with a banquet tonight.

Entrants in pistol competition shot out championships yesterday with highway patrol team No. 2 winning the title by scoring 3,428 out of a possible 3,600.

A member of the team, L. P. McCasland of Big Spring, took the individual high point trophy with 868 and the rapid-fire aggregate contest with 287. Don Lawrence, a teammate, shot a perfect 300 to take the slow fire aggregate.

D. O. Gallagher of the Laredo police force shot a 281 to win a match between high point men of pistol teams and individual winners not attached to a team.

Delegates heard Captain Alfredo Peirce of Mexico City describe duties of Mexican police, particularly those of the tourist division of the federal district police in Mexico City, which Peirce heads.

Cady Built Jail Bed But Cannot Sleep Well In It

KANSAS CITY, June 15 (AP)—Jack Cady built his own bed in the Kansas City jail but couldn't sleep in it.

Arrested for speeding and unable to furnish bond he was locked up overnight. When escorted to court he rubbed his eyes.

"Did you sleep well?" Judge Thos. V. Holland asked.

"No," replied Cady.

"What's the matter?"

"I'm an iron worker and I helped build the beds in the jail. I didn't like my bed."

"Sorry. I guess you have been punished enough," said the judge, ending the case.

Bonura's Two Homers Beat Chicago 2-1

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP)—The lone character in that baseball mystery entitled "The Strange Case of Zeke Bonura" predicted today the drama is ready to fold up for lack of a strong enough plot.

Ever since the New York Giants obtained Zeke to play first base the skit has had a lively, interesting run. Some fans said then he'd never be able to field well enough for the exacting Bill Terry, Giants' manager. Others are saying now that Manager Bill, isn't satisfied.

To the big, likeable Bonura, with a batting average through Wednesday of .341, this is all quite puzzling—but he's not at all uncertain of how it will end. Incidentally his two home runs yesterday beat the Cubs 2 to 1.

"S'funny thing," he said.

"But I've been hearing them rumors about the Giants getting rid of me all around the league. Hummm. Just a couple weeks ago some friend of mine sent me a clipping from a Chicago paper saying 'the Giants are about ready to give up on Bonura.'

"Now don't you believe a word of it. Bill Terry—as fine a guy and smart a manager as there is—just told me at spring camp that I fielded good enough for his money. I'm out there hustling and doing the best I can. The records show how I've fielded—and they'll show I've had plenty of chances to make errors, too. These guys who say I don't get close enough to a ball to make errors. Huh!"

Here are the figures on Zeke through June 14: 49 games; 179 at bats, 36 runs, 61 hits; 95 total bases; 14 doubles; one triple; six home runs; 36 runs batted in and a hitting average of .341; fielding—464 putouts; 33 assists; four errors; average, .992.

Athletic Grounds Named 'Taxpayers Field' By Board

WILLOWSGN, Calif., June 15. (AP) — John K. Citizen-and-Taxpayer is coming into his own at last in this town.

Chairman James Boyd of the high school board of trustees announced board members had decided to call the new athletic grounds "Taxpayers field."

"Taxpayers have an investment of $13,000 in this field and it's time they got some sort of recognition," he said.

Feller Beats Yanks As Tigers Win 7th Straight

By JUDSON BAILEY,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

There aren't enough great pitchers in the American league to keep the New York Yankees from another championship, perhaps, but their rivals' freshly formed policy of playing their aces from the top of the deck promises some unforeseen interference.

Young Bobby Feller muffled the Bronx Bombers on four hits for eight innings yesterday to enable the Cleveland Indians to triumph, 4-2.

This was a welcome answer to the plea of Detroit's Manager Del Baker that other clubs follow his example of aiming their biggest guns at the Yankees.

Feller engaged Monte Pearson in a pitching duel which in the end was not decided by either although Feller got credit for his tenth victory against two defeats. Both were removed for pinchhitters and the tribe teed off on Johnny Murphy for three tallies and the ball game in the ninth, with Ben Chapman driving in the winning runs on a double.

Meanwhile the Tigers extended to seven straight victories the string they started with the noble experiment against the Yanks. They bested the Boston Red Sox, 9-8 and 6-2, dropping the Sox within a game of Cleveland's climbers.

The Washington Senators moved past the Philadelphia Athletics into sixth place on the four-hit shutout pitching of Knuckle-Baller Dutch Leonard, who strapped the Chicago White Sox, 3-0.

The A's were trounced, 6-0, at night by the St. Louis Browns. Vernon Kennedy gave only three hits.

Cincinnati's rampaging Reds had to come from behind to beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-7. Seven pitchers saw service in the free-for-all batting practice.

The St. Louis Cardinals collected 15 hits, including a home run by Terry Moore with two on base, to blast the Brooklyn Dodgers, 9-2.

This defeat reduced the Dodgers to a virtual tie for third place in the National league with their hated enemies, the New York Giants, who climbed over Chicago into the first division by beating the Cubs, 2-1. Both New York runs were homers by Zeke Bonura.

Jacobs Afraid Louis May Use 'Gimmick' In His Glove

SUMMIT, N. J., June 15 (AP)—The hilarious "gimmick" gag was gone but not forgotten today—and fistic observers were convinced Manager Joe Jacobs' little stunt had added anywhere up to a couple of hundred thousand dollars to the gate for the Joe Louis-Tony Galento fight.

As Tony and his training troupe opened their new base in this hilly country (after moving from Asbury Park's seashore atmosphere at the suggestion of the New York State Athletic commission) those who can add one-and-one in the fight game figured the turbulent proceedings probably would result in some jazzy jingling of the cash register for the tussle, June 28 in Yankee stadium.

In actual timing, the "gimmick" incident didn't last very long. Jacobs, a master at boxing ballyhoo, said he didn't like the way Louis flattened Max Schmeling a year ago, and wanted round-by-round examination of the Brown Bomber's gloves for protection for Galento. Major General John G. Phelan, New York Athletic commission chairman, could not see the joke and forced "Yussel" to withdraw the charges. The penalty for refusing probably would have been revoking of Jacobs' license to second his fighter.

Just for the records, the gimmick is blunt metal instrument, known variously in the fight business as a "persuader" and a "slug." When used, it is camouflaged to resemble a portion of a boxing glove and is carried in the palm of the glove, with just enough protruding to do fearful things.

Jack Blackburn, Louis' trainer, laughed off Jacobs' whole statement at Joe's Pompton Lakes training camp.

Galento, himself didn't pay much attention to the song-and-dance.

Galento Tired.

"Say, if anybody tries to use a gimmick on me," he shouted in a whisper that could be heard two blocks away, "I'll bite him."

Moving Tony's camp from Asbury Park came only as an anti-climax to the gimmick goings-on, but it, too, brought repercussions. For a time, the good folks of Asbury Park didn't like it, but when Joe promised to chip in $1,000 which local merchants had put up to back the training venture, all difficulties were ironed out.

Jacobs explained that Galento had been "lazy and tired" recently, and that Edward Walker, New York commission physician, after examining Tony and finding him in good condition, decided this feeling might be the result of the sea air and excitement of crowds at the shore.

"But it don't make any difference to me where I train," the roly-poly clouter insisted. "I'll lick that Louis bum anywhere I train."

Longview Beats For 6th Straight

(By The Associated Press.)

Longview, an East Texas league team which changed its name to White Sox and apparently changed its habits, beat Tyler 2-1 last night and ran a winning streak to six.

Bailey Timmerman's single with the bases loaded and two down in the tenth gave the White Sox victory, and stopped a Tyler winning string at five.

Elsewhere Kilgore shellacked league-leading Henderson, 10-2; Jacksonville and Palestine each used three pitchers before the Jax won 9-8, and Marshall went on a rampage in late innings to whip Texarkana 11-7.

The Marshall manager, Gabby Lusk, was banished from the game in the sixth inning by Umpire Stormy Davis after he protested a decision on an outfield fly ball.

Six hours after "definitely" deciding to compete in the Princeton invitational, long John changed his mind—again—caught a plane and came west, trailed by the blessings of officials of the rival eastern meet.

Newly arrived for the two-day battle was flying Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute, who faces a busy week-end defending his two hurdle titles.

John Henry Lewis Will Be Examined

PITTSBURGH, June 15 (AP) — Manager Gus Greenlee said he would have Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis ready to submit to a physical examination here tomorrow to determine whether the 26-year-old Negro is able to defend his title.

The National Boxing Association is desirous of an early report on the champion's condition as it soon will announce quarterly championship ratings. It has indicated the championship will be declared vacant if Lewis is found physically unable to defend his title.

The examination is required because the retina in one of Lewis' eyes has become detached.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15 (AP)—Four St. Louis home runs off Lynn Nelson gave the Browns a 6 to 0 victory over the Athletics last night. George McQuinn made the circuit in the first inning, Myrl Hoag in the third and fifth, and Harland Clift in the ninth with two on.

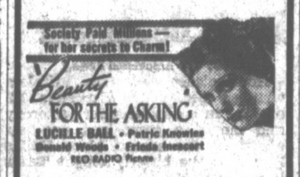

Suspect Arrested In Bank Robbery

HALLETTSVILLE, June 15 (AP)—Three hours after a gunman robbed the People's State Bank here of $895 yesterday Chief Deputy Sheriff Buck Flournoy arrested a 20-year-old suspect in the post office at Wharton, 50 miles away.

Flournoy said his captive admitted he robbed the bank, and that the money was found in a pocket of the youth's automobile. The suspect was brought here and questioned by officials last night.

A jittery gunman pointed a shaking pistol at Cashier M. R. Bozka about 10:30 a. m. yesterday, demanded contents of the cash drawer of the cashier's cage, stuffed the money in his pockets and fled in a coupe.

Flournoy checked license numbers when the alarm was flashed and learned he knew the suspect. He waited on the main street at Wharton figuring the man would come there to see relatives.

Negro Tells Truth At The Wrong Time

SPARTANBURG, S. C., June 15 (AP)—The veteran lawyer questioned his client charged with highway robbery and larceny.

"Moses, you've always been a pretty good Negro, haven't you?"

"Yassuh."

"You've never been in court before?"

"Jest once, boss."

"What was that for?" asked the lawyer, surprised.

"Murder."

A Conqueror Assumes A Conqueror's Woes

Conquest is, on its face, a dramatic and impressive spectacle. It naturally tends to inspire a warm glow in the people at home who have sent their sons to bring it about, even in those whose sons did not come back.

But conquest is a coin with two sides. The bright face, the one polished by the clash of arms, is readily visible. But the other face is often dark and scaly. It is the business of consolidating the "gains," of making the conquest actually worth the cost.

Italy knows about that. Nobody can draw an accurate balance-sheet on the Ethiopian adventure, but it is a fairly easy guess that outgo far exceeds income up to this time. There is the good Italian blood spilled in the desert sands, there is the cost of the expeditionary force, and the continuing cost of supporting a big army. There are the development costs which must precede any great return in raw materials.

Germany is beginning to find out about the other side of the coin, too. In Kladno, near Prague, a German policeman is shot. Just what were the circumstances is not yet clear, but it would appear that he got into one of those jams which are inevitable when a foreign armed force is placed over native civilian populations.

Older Germans will remember the Zabern affair, when a young and arrogant Prussian officer cut down an Alsatian townsman with his sword. The Alsatians, after many years of German occupation, still hated the garrisons, and iron rule was necessary.

So, too, we find now at Kladno: meetings prohibited, theaters closed, schools closed, doors and windows of houses must be closed at night on pain of being fired into, civil officials are removed and local police disarmed.

These things have all happened before. They happened in Belgium when the German troops occupied Liman, and Ypres, and a score of Belgian cities. The Belgian population was ruthlessly repressed by the military. But they remained Belgian.

It makes no particular difference who is immediately at fault in the Kladno affair. Such things happen, they must happen, and will happen, as long as a foreign military remains in charge of a freedom-loving people.

To cope with such situations, to polish the dirty side of the coin of conquest—that is a task for which Germany asked when it seized Czechoslovakia. Leaving the moral side out of it for the moment, was it worth it?

LOANS TO SMALL BUSINESS

(New York Times)

In the last few weeks various schemes have been coming out of Washington for a new spending-lending program. These latest proposals, sponsored by Assistant Secretary of State Berle, Senator Mead, Chairman Frank of the Securities and Exchange Commission and Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, center around the idea of the Government making or guaranteeing loans to "small business." Foremost among these proposals is the Mead bill, endorsed by all these spokesmen. This bill would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to insure up to 90 per cent individual loans up to sums of $1,000,000 which would run for periods of one to ten years.

In determining the need for or the effect of such a measure, there are several questions that ought not to be confused. One is the need of small business for ordinary bank credit compared with capital or "intermediate" loans. The length of time set for the loans indicates that it is clearly the capital type of loans that the sponsors of the Mead bill have in view. No one could argue at the moment that there is either a shortage of ordinary bank funds—there is, in fact, an unparalleled surplus—or a shortage of capital for investment. If idle private capital is not being invested it is not because it does not exist but because the opportunities for profit do no seem sufficiently inviting compared with the risks of loss. The Federal Government could do much to change this situation by removing obstacles to private business expansion. Nothing is to be gained by having the taxpayers, through a Government agency, make loans too unsound for private capital to want to make.

There are perhaps some changes in machinery that could make it easier for small businesses to get new capital. Capital-credit corporations have been suggested, for example, that would purchase small capital issues and sell their own obligations in the investment market. But private corporations could undertake this function adequately. Meanwhile the gains to be expected from the Mead bill hardly seem likely to compensate for its unsound elements. If private banks are still to take the first 10 per cent of risk on the loans they make, the volume of increased loans because of the bill is likely to be disappointingly small. There may then be an agitation for Government agencies to take over the business altogether. But to get a large volume of new loans of this sort the prudent standards by which bankers usually weigh risks may have to be thrown overboard. In that case we should find the Government gambling the taxpayers' money in unsound business ventures.

It is true that many Government agencies are already making or guaranteeing, in whole or in part, loans to private persons or corporations. But it is time that the Government began to extricate itself from this sort of business—entered into on the plea of "emergency"—rather than get into it deeper. All these plans are merely more schemes for pump-priming, for larger deficits, for an increase in the direct or contingent Government interference which the federal government may not undertake. Men are free to the extent that their government is restrained, but thanks to New Deal influences our federal government is no longer the government of limited powers it formerly was. In theory it can operate only in the fields assigned to it in the constitution, but the fences have been broken down and it is now free to roam almost at will. Formerly the government was fenced in and the citizen was free; now the citizen is penned up and the government is on the loose.

Just as the federal government is no longer restrained by the limitations set forth in Article 2, so the states, if we may judge from the decisions of May 29, are no longer to be restrained as they have been by the fourteenth amendment. This will please the politicians, the jobholders, the tax gatherers, and all the rest of the pay rollers. It is in line with the totalitarian tendency now so evident in Europe under the leadership of Russia, Germany and Italy. Mr. Roosevelt boasted that, though his court packing proposal was defeated, he had achieved his goal of obtaining a compliant court. It looks as if his boast was merited.

INVESTMENT AND ENTERPRISE

(Chicago Daily News)

Organized society cannot exist without law. If the law is good, the people will prosper; if not, they will suffer and languish.

The economic life of society, no less than its moral and political life, must be regulated by law. If the law is rightly made, there will be prosperity; if it is not, there will be depression.

Economic law is rightly made when, while curbing excess and abuse, it encourages investment, enterprise and the free exchange of goods at prices freely balanced in competitive markets.

Instead of this, what do we see today? A vast bureaucratic system of artificially fixed prices, group subsidies, swollen public debt, swollen private debt, high taxes, fixed wages, fixed charges of all sorts, which discourage investment and enterprise and hamper the free exchange of goods.

Is it any wonder that the depression lingers on, with as many million unemployed today as there were seven years ago? Is it not time we began to repeal such laws as may be holding back recovery, and to pass such laws as may encourage investment and enterprise once more? Investment and enterprise have never failed us in the past. They will not fail us now, if we will only give them a chance.

PROMOTING PEACE CONTEST

The purpose of the contest on "What National Policy Will Best Promote Peace" was intended to encourage people to think about and discuss the best way of promoting peace. The sponsor of the contest has no illusions that there is such a thing as absolute peace, nor is he a believer in peace-at-any-price, but he does believe that certain fundamental principles have a strong tendency to promote peace.

In this issue, the first prize-winning article is published. There is one statement in this essay which we think should not be permitted to go without comment, lest it be regarded as having the sanction of the sponsor of the contest. The writer of the article says, "we must give up all foreign trade in time of war, and, in so doing, suffer the loss of temporary war profits and a temporary lowering of the standard of living."

Possibly the writer of the article and the judges failed to consider the fact that if other nations were not able to buy the necessities of life during war they bought during peacetimes, they would make every effort to be self-sustaining, or make an alliance with some other nation that would protect them in their supply, in case of war. In other words, if every time a nation is attacked and has to defend itself, it finds its supply of necessities withheld, this policy would certainly cripple, if not completely eliminate, a more complete division of labor and free exchanges. This would lead to every nation trying to acquire control of natural resources having their necessities. It would practically make it impossible for any small nation to exist, other than at the mercy of larger empires. In fact, it would make empires necessary and would, thus, greatly reduce the freedom that comes by smaller governmental units.

For this reason, it would seem logical that giving up foreign trade in time of war, instead of promoting peace, would make nations fight for natural resources and create war, rather than peace.

Certainly a friend is a friend in need and if the United States wants to sell people in times of peace and refuses to sell them in times of war, then those nations that do not have the natural resources cannot have goodwill towards the United States. Then these nations, from a purely self-preservation standpoint, would be willing to fight to get control of the government that wanted to have the right to say when they could have and when they could not have the natural resources located in the United States. Instead of a policy of isolation promoting peace, it certainly, in the long run, would tend to promote war.

The more one studies the question of peace, the more one is convinced how complicated and far-reaching different economic policies are.

Peace, undoubtedly, will only be approached by spreading goodwill between men. Peace comes, undoubtedly, from the spiritual beliefs of people.

"FROM THE WRONG END INDEED"

Walter Lippmann points out that it is Roosevelt who is looking at the wrong end of the purchasing power problem; that creating purchasing power is not as simple as Roosevelt seems to think—that is, of giving those who desire to purchase, money. As Lippmann points out, if that were all there was to the problem, all we would need would be printing presses.

Lippmann very clearly points out, as I have been repeatedly trying to do, that purchasing power comes from producing something useful.

Roosevelt's Demoralizing Influence

Lippmann explains the danger of emphasing spending rather than working and producing in the closing paragraph of this article, as follows:

"But this everlasting emphasis on spending rather than on producing, this demagoguery which flatters "the customer" and ignores the producer, this rather contemptuous attitude toward the elementary economic virtues, toward industry, thrift and initiative—all of that is demoralizing, and the rebelion against the New Deal is at bottom a reaction against this demoralization. The people feel that in putting his whole emphasis on the customer who goes into a shop, in withholding his sympathy and real concern from the problem of producing wealth by hard work and courageous investment, Mr. Roosevelt is indeed looking not only at our economic problems, but at human life as a whole, from the wrong end."

GOVERNMENT'S SHARE

A report of 13 of the leading oil companies for the year 1938, shows that the government got more from these 13 oil companies than all the workers and all the stockholders received. The tax amounted to $1277 per worker.

Of course, money paid out to the government cannot be paid out as wages.

NOW THAT STARTS AGAIN!

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 15. — The Brothers Marx are at work again. If you want to call it work.

When a Marx picture is shooting, the work is almost done and the boys are beginning to relax and enjoy themselves. For months they have huddled and argued and tried out gags, all for 80 minutes of screwball comedy fleetingly titled "A Day at the Circus."

One thing sure—a Marx picture is work for everybody else. A Marx director is an object of great pity in Hollywood, and there is talk of wheeling a portable booby-hatch right onto the set. For months Metro kept a fair degree of discipline among its directors by threatening to put the most unruly one on the Eddie Cantor picture. But they were completely cowed when their bosses began to say, "Now you be good or we'll throw you to the Marx Brothers!"

I am unable to discover what Eddie Buzzell did to incur such an assignment, but he is the director of "A Day at the Circus." When I went on the set the other day he was trying to coax the three comics into the washroom of a circus train for a rehearsal.

They paid no attention to his wheedling or his commands, but went right on talking with Buster Keaton. Mr. Keaton is one of their gag men, and he fascinates the Marxes because he never laughs at them—not even when they pull one of his gags. Pretty soon Mr. Buzzell turned his ire on Keaton. "Stop talking to the actors!" he roared. "If they try to talk to you, don't pay any attention to them."

The Marxes then stalked into the tiny washroom and began a whispered conference. "Now what?" asked the director, who was a peculiar shade of purple by this time. "Didn't I—"

"You keep out of this!" snapped Chico Marx. "It's a family secret."

Hold Your Hats

He and Groucho and Harpo then decided to do some acting, so the scene got under way. Harpo stretched out on the long seat and slumbered angelically. Groucho and Chico charged into the room. Groucho slammed down a briefcase and reached for a handkerchief to mop his brow. A string of silk flags came out.

Harpo, awake now and seeing the flags in review, jumped up, saluted and produced a popgun with which he executed the manual of arms. Groucho began gathering up his belongings, which were strewn all over the place. A lawyer who had just joined the circus, he had hung his shingle on the washroom curtain. The sign read: "J. Cheever Loophole—Legal Eagle."

"You ain't quittin'?" asked Chico in alarm.

"As of now!" said Groucho.

"Don't be afraid of the gorilla—he's muscle-bound."

"And I'm homeward - bound," snarled Groucho, going on with his packing.

"But how're we gonta get back Jeff's ten thousand dollars?" pleaded Chico.

"That's easy—offer a reward of fifteen thousand!"

The Marxes charged through the curtain as Buzzell cut the scene. "That was pretty good," he said.

"Which means," interrupted Groucho, "that we'll do it 10 more times. Why didn't you say it stinks?"

Some progress has been made in tracing down a mystery which has been baffling Hollywood for year. The colony long has been convinced that sabotage is being committed on films made here, and it now is believed that it is done en route between Hollywood and New York.

Stories are being whispered about a little old man who rides the trains. He stands about a foot high, wears black whiskers, has a demoniac laugh and carries a huge pair of shears. Either he is amazingly agile or else he is sometimes invisible, because he manages to get into the packages of finished film and cuts out the best scenes.

That sounds fantastic, but it is the only way anybody can explain why so many of the pictures which draw glowing reviews from local critics are found to be such poor entertainment when the films reach other parts of the country.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Jottings from the little black book . . .

All of us will miss John Mullen, just as we missed Gaston Foote and Bro. Lancaster. John, as sincere as they come, is no weasler, and neither does he compromise with beliefs and conditions which his reason tells him are now and always will be enemies of his democratic convictions. In other words, he won't take down his own flag if it spoils the color scheme of the next fellow's. You know how John stands even if he's standing on your toes, but he doesn't dish out a bit more than he can take in return. John also teaches that one hundred per cent American ideal that one should try to live at peace, and should try to get along with his neighbor, and should try to follow and uphold the moral and religious precepts of the Revolutionaty fathers . . . Of course, John is bound to succeed in Ardmore . . . County Commissioner John Haggard's grandson, John Myatt who is about three, saw a bearded man in town the other day, and talked about him the rest of the day. "I thought he was going to carry me off," said Johnny.

Irene and Spec Bonds have sold their place in Hot Springs, N. M., to their partner, and are back in Pampa. They have sold their home on North Frost street.

The Pampa husband who last week was knocked cold with a wrench in the post office lobby, by his wife, former Pampa woman, is recovering satisfactorily.

Book A Day

H. J. Haskell, editor, Kansas City Star, has written a startling comparison of governmental reform measures in modern America and Ancient Rome. Typical of the interesting analogies Mr. Haskell draws is the following from "The New Deal in Old Rome" (Knopf: $2.50).

This essential policy of prudent spending by Tiberius . . . brought on hard times which culminated in the panic of A. D. 33 . . . Distressed debtors, perhaps stirred by the shysters, began to prosecute their creditors for usury. There were so many cases that the government allowed a period of 18 months in which the offenders might adjust their affairs in accordance with the law. This precipitated a crisis because loans were called and land values collapsed. To bolster the market the Caesarian law was revived and lenders were ordered to invest two-thirds of their capital in Italian land.

The effect of the edict was the direct opposite of what was intended. With a falling market, reinvestment in land was postponed for lower prices, and the collapse continued. Thereupon the government set up a Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the modern HOLC . . . It was authorized to lend distressed landowners five million dollars from the treasury, without interest for a period up to three years.

Two more New Deal experiments come within this period. An Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the familiar AAA, was set up under Domitian, A. D. 91, and a Farm Credit Administration, the FCA, a few years later under Nerva and Trajan. Italian farmers, especially the big landowners, had found wine and oil more profitable than wheat. When vineyard cultivation was an infant industry the Italian farm bloc had been able to induce the government at various times to restrict the planting of vineyards in the provinces. Nevertheless provincial competition had continued. In the year 91 there was a bad wheat harvest and an overproduction of wine. To stimulate the production of wheat and at the same time to protect the vineyard interests, the Department of Agriculture provided an AAA. It decreed that no more vineyards be planted in Italy and that half the vineyards in the provinces be destroyed.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

The amount of fat eaten by various people differs according to their tastes and desires. It is commonly believed that the Eskimos eat large quantities of oils and fats. Those who know say, however, that they eat a great deal of protein, not very much fat, and hardly any carbohydrate.

It is commonly said that people who do a great deal of work in the open air can consume great quantities of fat without trouble. It should be pointed out, however, that hard workers who spend much time in the open air eat a great deal of food altogether. For instance, in Maine lumbermen whose diets were investigated took more than 8,000 calories of food a day, obtaining 49 per cent from carbohydrate and only 44 per cent from fat.

In a general study of diets it has been found that men consume from 29 to 50 per cent of the total calorie intake in the form of fat and that women take from 32 to 54 per cent—the average being 39 for men and 42 for women.

Fat is expensive. Poor people tend to eat less fat than others who have plenty of money to spend for food. Everyone is familiar with the fact that there is said to be a shortage of fats in central Europe. Indeed, whenever a nation as a whole begins to economize, reduction in fats in the diet is one of the earliest steps. Poor people are likely to eat more carbohyddrates and sugars than fat proportionately because the sugars are generally chaap as compared with the proteins and the fats.

In selecting fats in the diet certain ones are preferable to others because of their digestibility and the other factors which they provide. Fats are digested in the small bowel by the material which comes from the pancreas into the bowel. The bile aids by emulsifying the fats.

Butter, which has a low melting point, is easily digested. Lard also has a low melting point, but beef fat and mutton have high melting points and are not, therefore, easily digested.

Fats are digested most slowly of all foods. The long time required for their digestion is responsible for the fact that hunger does not follow soon after a meal containing a good deal of fat. It is not wise, therefore, to have too much fat in a meal. The presence of a lot of fat will delay the digestion of the proteins through decreasing the gastric juice which may come in contact with the proteins.

For this reason fat meats, such as those from pork and from the goose, are not considered easily digestible. The eating of a certain amount of carbohydrate food with the fats helps their digestion. This is probably the reason for the placing of apple sauce with roast pork as a regular relationship in the diet.

ONCE MORE, PAMPA'S Top O' Texas Fiesta is history. . . . Suffice it to say that the 1939 show goes down in the records of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the celebration, as best of them all. . . . If the time spent on plans for the big show by members of the Jaycees could be added up, it would be found that the cost to individuals and organizations probably would aggregate in the neighborhood of $25,000.

They do it willingly, however, and it is their annual sacrifice to the cause of goodwill and the making of friends for Pampa. . . . And, that is a debt that Pampa owes to these men who have given of their time and efforts to make Pampa's fiesta the outstanding annual celebration in the Top O' Texas territory. . . . They did a swell job of it in 1939.

BACK IN THE East today, promotion men and engravers are building a broadside of publicity which will be circulated nationally in behalf of the Top O' Texas Fiesta. . . . The syndicate which distributes Jim Williams' nationally famous cartoon, "Out Our Way," is preparing to send out the photographs, in mat form, of the "Out Our Way" float which was one of the hits of Tuesday's fiesta parade. . . . To Kenneth Carmen, Pampa High school dramatics teacher, goes the credit for making up the six characters in such startling resemblance to Mr. Williams cartoon originals.

Among the busiest men in town during the fiesta was Fletcher, the photographer, who tried to be four places at one time in an effort to shoot all the angles. . . . Dale Robinson, the Borger voice of KPDN, is ill. . . . Taking his place in Borger is the personable Bob Morris, of the main studios. Too many persons are asking when the "blow-up is coming? . . . How should I know?

REPETITION: PAMPA HAS more good-looking girls to the city block than any other town in the U. S. . . . Proof: Those cowgirls in the parade. . . . More proof: That pic on Page One of Wednesday's News. . . . Still more proof: The theater box-offices. . . . Ultra proof: The city swimming pool. . . . Ultra, ultra proof: Behind the soda fountain bars.

The Pampa man who held the rain insurance on this year's fiesta won on a pat hand. . . . Last year they "took" him, and he doesn't even get well on this year's pot. . . . However, the rainmaker had him plenty nervous Tuesday morning and again in the hours before dawn on Wednesday, but the day dawned clear and sunny and he didn't even have to put a watchman on the rain gauge. . . . You can call that the "breaks" of the game.

CLAUDE MOTLEY, FORMERLY of the LaNora theater and now district manager for Griffiths Amusement company, came in from California to make the fiesta, bringing along his family en route to their home in Oklahoma City after a long stay on the West Coast where he hobnobbed with many movie biggies when in Hollywood. . . . All the Motleys are looking fit as a fiddle.

SEVENTH PLACE
By J. H. FLETCHER
607A Pine Street, Santa Ana.

1. Before this country can make any peace plan function, she must cease attempting to sit in judgment on other nations. This means that we must refrain from naming another nation an aggressor and erecting trade barriers accordingly. No nation can hope to maintain peace by "taking sides" in the dispute of others.

2. When two or more nations are at war, our citizens should be removed from those countries, not later than sixty days after hostilities begin. Those choosing to remain should do so at their own risk and without the protection of our government.

3. If American individuals or corporations have invested in business or holdings in foreign countries, let them protect them as best they can. Such investments are not ours to fight for.

4. No American vessel should be allowed within the waters of any nation at war. This would inconvenience a few big shipping interests, but why should their financial welfare be considered before the peace of a great nation?

5. Any nation should be permitted to purchase anything we have to sell, be it food and raiment or arms and munitions. They will procure the means to blow each other to Hell anyway, so why force our arms and munitions manufacturers to resort to the well known subterfuge of re-routing their merchandise through a so-called neutral country?

6. Trade with any warring nation should be conducted on the cash-and-carry basis.

7. Foreign ships engaged in trade with this country should be protected within one hundred miles of our coast only.

8. Any armed warship or plane belonging to a nation at war and found within one hundred miles of our coast should be fired on. Any nation entering the state of war should be warned immediately to this effect.

9. Our government should make no loans to any nation engaged in war and should take no steps to protect such private loans made.

10. The President of the United States should be empowered to appoint a commission to see that these rules are not evaded and in case American ships in foreign waters should threaten the peace of this nation, said commission should have the authority to call them home and confine them to domestic trade.

11. We should have a navy adequate to rigidly enforce rules seven and eight. If inadequate for this, it would indeed be a poor weapon for war.

21 Senators To Fight Repeal Of Neutrality Act

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP) — Twenty-one senators have signed a challenge to the administration declaring there can be no compromise on neutrality legislation which would repeal the automatic arms embargo.

Circulated in the form of a round-robin, the statement was disclosed authoritatively to assert an open alliance with Great Britain, France, Russia or Japan would be "more honest" than sale of munitions in wartime to nations which control the sea.

Repeal of the arms embargo, which now is mandatory whenever the neutrality law is invoked, was recommended by Secretary Hull and is embodied in the Bloom bill approved by the house foreign affairs committee. The bill would permit sale of munitions, as well as other articles, to warring countries which obtained title to them in the United States.

Signers of the round-robin were reported to include virtually all the senates "mandatory neutrality" bloc.

"The United States can ill afford," the statement said, "to place itself in the unbecoming light of a nation persisting in its talk about detesting war while at the same time scheming to get profit from the wars of other nations, or, while urging peace upon other nations, furnish the instrumentalities and munitions by which they may carry forward war.

"The United States can well afford to get along without such profit as might be available from other people's wars.

Danzig Crisis Not Due Till September

GENEVA, June 14. (AP)—Doctor Karl Burckhardt, league of Nations high commissioner for Danzig, was reported in league circles today to have decided to return to his post at once as a result of German assurance no serious tension over the free city could be expected before September.

Burckhardt was reported to have received the Nazi assurances during a recent visit to Germany where he conferred with the reich undersecretary of state for foreign affairs.

In a frank discussion of the Danzig problem, Burckhardt was told and passed on to French and British officials the word that Chancellor Hitler had decided to mark time as far as Danzig was concerned until the Nuernberg Nazi congress next September.

The high commissioners had been on an extended "vacation" as a mark of league dislike of Nazification of the free city.

Burckhardt, however, was awaiting German Propaganda Minister Goebbels' speech at Danzig this weekend before leaving Switzerland.

NEBRASKA RADIO 'HAMS' ALL SET FOR TROUBLE.

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Western Nebraska radio amateurs are set for trouble they hope will never come.

Twenty-eight "hams" known as the North Platte Valley Radio Amateurs club have had two-way communication with virtually every part of the world. Furthermore they have arranged for special emergency equipment to be placed in each town, operating independently of the regular city current for normal radio operation.

"One of us may sometime have to contact outside stations and summon aid in the case of emergency or disaster," said Gene West, veteran club member. He pointed out the club will register its portable equipment with the Red Cross and American Legion, adding, "a flood or tornado could easily disrupt communication and transportation into a dozen or more panhandle towns.

SADDLES STILL SELL.

SPRINGTOWN, Texas (AP)—There's hardly been an up or a down in the saddle making business in 56 years for S. L. Roberson, 80. He's never been idle and his saddles are bought as fast as he can make them, even in this machine age. All of his 56 years of saddle making have been spent in the same store on the public square.

Rodeo Crowds Small Second Day Of Fiesta

A small crowd of rodeo enthusiasts saw two mighty performances of man contesting beast yesterday at Recreation park when champions were crowned in the four divisions, calf roping, bulldogging, bronc riding and bull riding.

There were spills and chills galore as the stock bucked riders off and tried to trample or gore them. Several shirts were torn and bruises and cuts were numerous. Luckily no one received serious injury. Most fortunate of all was Eddie Curtis who was bucked high and far by Amos, tough bronc. Curtis landed under the horse whose feet just scraped his back, tearing his shirt and causing a slight laceration.

The stock supplied by Buetler Brothers of Elk City was without a doubt the wildest and toughest ever used in a Pampa rodeo. The riders were also of the highest caliber ever to appear in a local arena. It was not unusual to hear Carl Studer genial announcer, reveal that the rider or roper had won in Cheyenne, Madison Square Garden, Fort Worth, Houston or other big events.

Clown Hank Keenan and wife Dot Keenan were top entertainers while Cecil Cornish and his Brahma bull, Palomino horses and educated horse, W. J. Adams and his trained cow pony, and other entertainers were tops.

Brother acts were numerous, ranging from two to four brothers in an event. Leading the brother acts were Gene, Herschel, Roy, Bruce Ross, all of Sayre, Okla., Jiggs, Dee and Clyde Burke of Comanche, Okla., Lynn, Elra and Jake Buetler of Elk City, Okla., Alfred and Robert Meeks of Logan, N. M., Jess and Jack Goodspeed of Okemah, Okla., and Eddie and Andy Curtis of El Reno, Okla.

Champions in each event, average time, follow:

Calf Roping

First, Jack Skipworth, Clovis, N. M., 30 seconds; second, Bill Keller, Earth, Texas; third, Jack Shaw, Hobbs, N. M., and Eddie Smith, Wellington, tied.

Bulldogging

First, Herschel Ross, Sayre, Okla., 12 4-5 seconds; second, Tex Doyle, Pampa; third, Buck Jones, Wichita Falls; fourth, Jimmie Olsen, Pampa.

Bronc Riding

First, George Yardley, Roswell, N. M., second, Milt Moe, Comanche, Okla.; third, Vic Schwartz, Wichita Falls; fourth, Bill Hancock, Roswell, N. M.

Bull Riding

First, Ken Roberts, Strong City, Kans.; second, Hoyt Heffner, Wichita Falls; third, Ken Hargis, Utleyville, Colo.; and Hughie Long, Cresson.

HOMING PIGEONS HURRY WHEN FAMILY'S WAITING

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—The family worries of a homing pigeon help it to win races.

The bigger the problem the faster Pop or Mom will fly, say members of the Oklahoma City Pigeon Racing Society.

The female has an instinctive hankering to see her offspring the moment they are hatched. The male sits on the eggs while she is away but she doesn't trust him 100 per cent and so she hurries back with all the speed possible to finish the job.

The males supervise the feeding of the young. If poppa's away when there are tiny ones at home, he's never quite satisfied that momma is not cut galavantin' with the girls, so he hurries, too.

Sinclair Appeal Denied

MEXICO CITY, June 15 (AP)—The Mexican Supreme Court has denied an appeal by the Sinclair Prairie Oil company, one of the 17 taken over by the government last year, from a 500,000 peso ($100,0000) fine assessed by a lower court for alleged tax defaults.

Grinning happily after a European vacation in the course of which they hob-nobbed with the socially-elect in Britain, the Fred Astaires have returned to the United States. Here they are on landing from the Queen Mary.

Nazi Consul Asked To Leave England

BERLIN, June 15 (AP)—An official announcement said today that the German government reserved the right to take retaliatory measures in the case of its consul-general at Liverpool, who was asked to leave England because of alleged complicity in a spying case.

The German statement denied the consul-general, Walter Reinhardt, was implicated in the case.

(British Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday told the house of commons he had asked the German government to withdraw Reinhardt from Liverpool. He said after studying court records he had to accept the conclusion the German consulate-general at Liverpool was involved in the case of Joseph Kelley, 30-year-old armaments worker, who was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment May 19 for selling Germany vital secrets of the factory where he was employed.)

"The charge that the German consulate-general in Liverpool had had relations with Kelley or had made connections for Kelley with espionage or intelligence organizations is false," the German statement declared.

Tropical Storm Stalled In Gulf

PENSACOLA, Fla., June 15 (AP)—A mild tropical storm—first of this section's hurricane season—apparently was stalled in the Gulf of Mexico some 100 miles south of here early today.

Although storm warnings were displayed from Bay St. Louis, Miss., to Carabelle, Fla., and smaller vessels remained alert, the tension in Gulf resorts relaxed with a weather bureau announcement the storm was expected to move inland with slight force late today.

Chief Meteorologist R. A. Dyke of the New Orleans weather bureau said he believed the wind would dissipate over the Mobile-Pensacola area.

House Seeks To Pass New Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Efforts to forestall sweeping restrictions on the federal relief program were being made by WPA supporters in the house today, in the face of indications committee-approved police changes would be adopted.

Leaders sought to pass the $1,716,000,000 relief bill by tomorrow night, giving the senate ample time to consider it before WPA funds run out June 30.

"Cliff" Woodrum, Virginia democrat in charge of the measure, said at least four major amendments were being drafted by various members.

"It looks as if we will pass the bill in about the same form the committee recommended," Woodrum said after his explanation of the measure yesterday drew bi-partisan applause.

Rep. Bradley, democrat, Pa., called a group meeting to frame an amendment increasing the $1,477,000,000 recommended by the house appropriations committee and the President for WPA in the year starting July 1.

Other amendments to be offered would:

1. Seek to restore $42,000,000 cut by the committee from budget recommendations for the National Youth administration, for which the bill provides $81,000,000.

2. Propose elimination of the $25,000 limit placed on WPA construction projects.

3. Provide for turning over relief administration to the states. Republicans are formulating this amendment.)

While the house was continuing its three-day debate, word passed around the cloakrooms that the appropriations committee would seek another $200,000 for carrying on its WPA investigation during the summer.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Iris buys another gown, pretends it is an old one, and convinces the proud Bart. But the gown means more trouble for it stirs in Iris a hatred for Bart's budgeting.

CHAPTER VII

THAT week of the Fourth of July, Iris tried to make Bart buy a summer suit.

"Can't afford it, honey. Got some summer merchandise coming in and it will take everything I've got to swing the deal."

"Then get one and pay for it a little each week, Bart."

"Never!" he exploded, and stopped at her frightened expression. "Oh what's the use, Iris? You know how I am about debts and charge accounts and time payments. We're getting along all right the way we are, and we don't go out enough to warrant laying a lot of money on clothes right now."

"We'd go if you cared enough to dress decent the way other men do, Bart!"

He glanced at her curiously, and his mouth tightened but he didn't say anything. If he thought they couldn't afford the movies, dances and parties they went to now, let alone any further gadding, Iris couldn't tell from his guarded expression.

"If you don't begin to dress like other business men do, Bart, everyone's going to think you're not successful or smart. All the men I know count their appearance 50 per cent of the battle."

"I'm not buying a suit on time payments, Iris, and I can't afford to get one now. I'm sorry. You know I told you long before we married, that a financial handicap was no fun."

"It needn't be a handicap, Bart, if you wouldn't be so stubborn," Iris flared, "John Kent buys his suits and clothing on a budget plan."

"And the Kents do not even own their furniture. They live in a rented flat, pay for last year's car out of this year's budgeting, and if anything ever happened to either of them where would they be?"

"Nothing ever does, Bart! I wish you wouldn't torture yourself all the time conjuring up catastrophes that never happen. They make a lame excuse for the way you choose to dress."

The sultry thunder-showery air outside became a sissy imitation to the brittle, crackling temper Iris exuded from then on.

SO Bart capitulated. He bought a pair of gray flannel slacks at Nothrum's, the poor working man's department store, off Railroad Square, out of the high rent district. He bought a shirt to go with the trousers and had the jacket to his blue suit cleaned. It made a fairly passable outfit except for the fact that wearing the garments every time they went anywhere annoyed Iris even more than the no-new-suit crisis had.

"Everyone thinks it is all you own, Bart," she said irritably.

"Who wants them to think anything different? What's wrong with having only one dress outfit, Iris? At least I own this."

"That gray suit would have given you four ensembles, Bart! Changing coats and trousers with your blue suit."

"Look, honey, I'm not buying that suit. Now forget it, will you? You don't know anything about business, and I do. So let me manage this."

Iris did. She decided it was too hot to eat. Too hot to cook or prepare meals, either. And of course it was. The July heat was the breath of a blast furnace and the girls staying on in the dean's office that summer were all glad his wife had held out for the cruise. Things were bad enough, with the heat wilting everyone, without the dean fussing over everything, scolding, questioning, protesting through each day.

"I could die," Iris murmured, lying flat across her small maple twin bed with only a filmy printed dimity negligee over her lingerie, "I never want to think of food again."

"I'll see if I can collect the makings of a salad, Iris. You rest." She grinned, when he left the room. There wasn't so much as enough to feed a chickadee in the refrigerator. She had looked, putting away the breakfast things. There were no crackers, and only the skimmed remainder of the quart of milk. Nor was there any bread.

BART came back into the bedroom a while later, and sat down in the chintz chair. His lean dark face glistened with perspiration, and his tie hung over the dresser, his collar open at the throat.

"Look, honey, this working and keeping house is too much for you," he began diffidently, "I didn't count on you working all summer long. I thought when you said the dean was going away on the trip, that you'd be able to rest through the hot months."

"I'll get your supper, Bart. I thought you weren't hungry, either. I don't see how anyone can want to eat much in heat like this." And as she yanked out a printed linen dress and matching sandals, 'Believe me, if I had the money, I'd go out somewhere to eat in weather like this. No food to smell cooking, no dishes to wash, no cleaning up."

"O. K. We'll eat out.'

"No!" Iris insisted stubbornly, "I know what that means. You'll hate every mouthful I eat. You . . . you hate taking me to dinner. You never do any more. Because you'd rather save the money."

"Iris, don't say such things. Honey—what's come over you, these days? What's happened to our—romance?"

"You did it, Bart! You were so crazy to save money. You didn't care what happened to me, you didn't care what you did to me. Just so you could save that money each week."

"Iris, it's because I do care what happens to you, because I want to make sure my wife doesn't have to work, if anything should happen to me, make sure you've a home over you, and an income when we're old, in case I can't work, or something happens to me, that I try to do this."

"If you care so much about the future it seems to me you could care a little about the present, Bart."

HE stared at her perplexedly. Her pretty, petulant face was angry and hurt and the heat had blurred her powder, rouge and make-up to unlovely streaks. Yet—she believed this. She believed it so much she was making herself miserable over it.

Sighing, he turned to the closet and took down his coat. She didn't understand. She was too young to understand, too inexperienced with life to know.

That was why she couldn't realize that people like they must prepare for their distant old age and incompetence, by setting aside some of their savings all through their years of competence and strength. To her, old age, and the future took care of themselves. To him, they were created by careful planning, by thrift, and saving and self-denial. By extra work and extra care.

"It's all right, honey. We'll eat out until its cooler. Then we'll make it all up. Don't worry."

"Bart, Bart, you're not pretending? You really mean it? Oh, Bart, I've dreamed of the heavenly luxury of coming home here and having just my bath and changing into fresh things, after a hard day's work, then off to dine somewhere and dance. We had such fun. It was almost like a honeymoon, Bart."

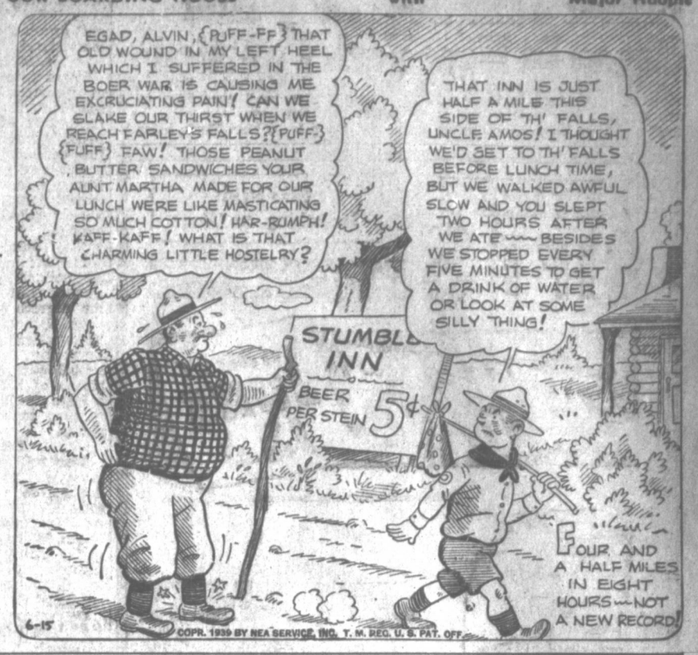

"I know, honey. Get your duds on." And the words were tinder burning a bridge behind the Bart Whittakers.

State Police Break Up Massing At Flint

FLINT, Mich., June 15. (AP)—Peace prevailed in Flint today following a dramatic early morning appearance of Michigan state police to disperse a milling mass of men still agitated over the brief and now settled General Motors strike.

Followers of Homer Martin in the United Auto Workers union (AFL), which called the strike, returned to work at 7 a. m., joining members of the UAW-CIO who refused to recognize the strike and never left their jobs. Martin claimed a settlement agreement with General Motors.

As the day shifts began at the many General Motors plants here pickets were absent for the first time in a week and tension was lessened. Flint police and Genesee county deputies were present but the state troopers, who put in a swift and psychologically effective appearance at 2 a. m. were out of sight.

The state police, 100 strong, cleared the streets in the vicinity of Fisher Body plant No. 1 and emptied the halls of both unions when it became apparent to Flint officials a riotous situation was in the making. Windows in the CIO hall were smashed Wednesday and retaliation was feared.

Approximately 800 men wearing CIO armbands, had assembled, singing union songs and shouting.

The crowd was broken up swiftly and without argument when the state police rushed to the scene in automobiles.

BED-RIDDEN GIRL SCOUTS DO DANCES—WITH PUPPET.

SEATTLE (AP)—Up at the Children's Orthopedic hospital, a Girl Scout troop of 30 youngsters courageously learns Scouting.

Some are unable to walk more than a few steps, some are bedridden or confined to wheel chairs, but they learn folk dances just the same. They use puppets, manipulating them with childish hands.

Practicing swathing dolls with bandages, they learn first aid. Hospital heads offer facilities for them to learn to cook and sew. Mrs. J. W. Lee is troop leader, in the group's fourth year.

Ernest Cabe Sees King And Queen In New York Function

E. W. Cabe, newly-elected supervisor of instruction in Pampa High school, has been "meeting and greeting" so many celebrities during the past week, that "it just doesn't mean a thing anymore," according to a letter received here.

Mr. Cabe is in New York, attending Columbia university this summer. During the past week he witnessed the visit of the British king and queen and the annual Columbia commencement.

5,000 Degrees Awarded

There were 5,000 degrees conferred at the exercises, that began at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and lasted until 7:30 o'clock that night, and 20,000 jammed South Field to see the ceremony. Sands and folding chairs were placed all over the area. People who sat at the rear of the crowd were a block away from the library steps, where the program occurred.

Bands, Bells, Clocks

The Columbia band played, clocks and bells in the neighborhood chimed and clattered, as the candidates for degrees came on the library steps. Nicholas M. Butler delivered a short address, after which diplomas were presented. The dean of each school and division presented the names of his graduating group on a huge scroll to the president, who in turn conferred the diplomas en masse.

Benes Honored

Most brilliant feature of the ceremony was the granting of honorary degrees to notables. Among these were Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United States, Evangeline Booth, international head of the Salvation Army, Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, and Eduard Benes, president of the former republic of Czechoslovkia.

Concerning Benes, Mr. Cabe writes: "I thought it was a splendid tribute to the man who represents such a glorious lost cause."

British "Take" New York

"One would think," Mr. Cabe said, "that New York was the most loyal of British colonies," as British flags were everywhere on the occasion of the visit of the British king and queen, who arrived by boat at the northern tip of Manhattan.

From the time of their arrival, at 11 a. m., until they left for Hyde Park at 5,o'clock that afternoon, sophisticated New York went sentimental. Along the 51 miles of city and World Fair streets, New Yorkers stood on the curb, leaned out of windows, shouted and waved the Union Jack.

200,000 See Arrival

The royal couple arrived at Columbia university campus late in the afternoon. Crowds had started forming at 11 o'clock that morning on the campus, a crowd estimated as 200,000, on the campus and adjoining streets. Only students and faculty members were allowed on the campus.

"We probably had a better view than any other group in the city," Mr. Cabe writes. "I had a place on the library steps no more than 50 feet from where the royal car stopped."

500 Police Stand Guard

There were 500 policemen stationed on the campus in all the buildings, on all roofs, in doorways, and at gates, and lining all streets. Cavalry was everywhile, while overhead a U. S. bomber circled. Signs posted on all university buildings gave notice that for the entire day the university was under the control of the U. S. Department of State.

Queen Steals Show

"Long before the royal party arrived you could hear the approach by the roar of the crowds down Amsterdam Avenue. The car turned into the campus and then we saw the king and queen. I'll admit it sort of got me.

"They stepped out smiling and waving. The king looked as if he was worn out but the queen looked as fresh and charming as she possibly could. She definitely stole the show. In fact, I didn't see much of the king for looking at her.

"I have never seen a more charming and gracious woman in my life."

"On this very hill where Columbia sands, the British fought the American rebels during the revolution in the battle of Harlem Heights, and now a modern queen comes back and captures the whole territory, lock, stock and barrel."

New York Returns to U. S.!

The king and qoeen were met by Mr. Butler and a group of university officials and escorted up the long steps over a 900-foit long red carpet into the library. There a ceremony occurred not seen by the crowd, after which the royal couple re-appeared, walked slowly down the steps, and entered their car, in the company of the British ambassador, the governor of New York and Mayor LaGuardia.

The royal car was driven away: "the briefest and most decisive battle and how the victims loved it," Mr. Cabe comments. "A policeman near me sighed and exclaimed: 'Thank God, now we can give New York back to the Americans'."

Wallace Urges Funds To Stem Flow Of Southwest Migrants

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The House receved testimony from Secretary Wallace today that appropriation of funds for loans would help stem the flow of thousands of agricultural families into the ranks of migratory farm labor and onto the relief rolls.

Construction of more farm-family labor camps along the Pacific coast and other areas of greatest need would help somewhat, he said, but "a much more effective and satisfactory" method of solving the migrant problem would be to give uprooted families "a new start in their home localities" through rehabilitation loans.

The secretary was testifying before a House appropriations subcommittee considering a request for funds to carry on 1940 activities of the Farm Security Administration.

Wallace, advocating appropriations for both labor camps and rehabilitation loans, told the committee that although drought conditions in the Great Plains area had abated somewhat "other powerful forces" were "aggravating the migratory-labor problem very rapidly."

The chief of these, he said, was the "swiftly growing mechanization of agriculture," a factor which has increased the number of "unneeded laborers" to a point where they now constituted "15 per cent of the total working farm population."

"In the face of this declining demand for farm labor," said Wallace, "the farm population still is growing faster than any other group. The annual increase in the working farm population is now about $450,000.

"In the past, most of these people would have sought work in the cities, or would have opened up new lands on the frontier. Today the majority has no alternative but to join the army of migratory farm laborers, already swollen far beyond normal needs by the families forced off the land by drought and mechanization."

Wallace estimated 350,000 families already had become migrants—"without homes, security, or hope of a decent living."

He said perhaps half of these had drifted to Pacific coast states and the rest were in Texas, Florida, the Mississippi delta and eastern truck-farming areas.

The secretary said that by building camps along the Pacific coast, the FSA has been able to provide part-time accommodations for about 34,000 families annually, and estimated an additional $5,000,000 would be enough to furnish camp facilities for another 20,000 families in the Far West, Texas and Florida.
