Rateable Taking Provision Of Texas Pipe Line Law Held Unconstitutional

THREE-JUDGE COURT RULES ACT INVALID

Federal Jurists Declare Act Is Confiscatory In Houston Case

PRIVATE LINES FREE

Measure Burdens Interstate Commerce, Says Jurists' Report

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP)—The Texas common purchaser act regulating oil and gas pipe lines, insofar as it applies to the ratable taking of gas, was held invalid by a three-judge United States district court today.

The court held that the legislature was without power to impose authority with the Texas Railroad commission to regulate pipe lines, holding that for the commission to have authority to impose penalties on pipe lines not complying with its rules amounts to taking property without due process of law.

Affects Only Gas

Although the law provided for ratable taking of both oil and gas by pipe lines, today's decision affected only provisions applying to gas.

Plaintiffs in the case, which was tried before the three judges at Houston, were the Texoma Natural Gas company, the Cities Service Gas company, the North American Oil and Gas company, and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company.

The court held that these were "private pipe line carriers, who have not devoted their property to the public use for hire or compensation." And that "penalties imposed for violating terms of the act are so extreme as to make the remedies at law inadequate."

The law proposed the regulation of both common and private carriers of gas by pipe lines.

The court held that the legislature was without power to do this.

Act Confiscatory

"It is taking private property for public use without just compensation, inconsistent with the due process of law clause of the 14th amendment to the constitution," said the opinion, written by Judge Duval West of San Antonio and concurred in by J. C. Hutcheson, United States circuit judge and Randolph Bryant, United States district judge.

"The state cannot burden interstate commerce under the guise of police regulation.

"The act requires pipe line carriers of gas to assume the obligations not only of common carriers but common purchasers."

The court pointed out that it was the purpose of the act "to compel pipe line producers to share their markets with producers in the same field who are without markets by requiring them to purchase" gas of those producers without pipe line outlets.

"The equitable principle of correlative rights or ratable takings of

Couple Asks Damages From Highway Commission

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP)—A suit for $184,325 alleged damages was filed in Travis county district court today by W. F. Hale and wife, Mary, of Freestone county against the state of Texas and the highway commission.

The plaintiffs alleged that the highway department, in the construction of highway 43 near a 1,400-acre tract owned by the Hales caused the land to be flooded and damaged by waters from a creek that was caused to overflow by obstructions to its channels.

Petition of the suit stated that the Texas legislature passed a law giving the plaintiffs permission to sue in order to settle their claims against the state.

Sterling Declines to Take Prohibition Before The Voters

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP)—Gov. R. S. Sterling said he did not intend to ask the state Democratic executive committee to submit the question of repeal of the 18th amendment to the voters in the July primaries.

"I am running for governor and intend to do everything I can to further my own campaign," Governor Sterling said. "I have friends on both sides of the prohibition question. Prohibition does not have anything to do with the gubernatorial race and I certainly would not have any right to request the committee to submit the question of repeal."

VETS ASKED TO QUIT CAPITAL

But Bonus Crusaders To Stay on 'Job'

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—The ragged veterans army demanding bonus payment calmly grinned tonight in reply to police persuasion that it pack up and go home.

Walter W. Waters, Portland, Ore., elected the fourth commander-in-chief in 48 hours, after a stormy committee session said his 8,000 charges had decided to "disregard" a police invitation to evacuate tomorrow.

"Whenever the bonus is voted, we will be very glad to accept the police offer of free truckage out of the city," Waters said.

He was the originator of the marchers' movement and resigned once as commander-in-chief.

Having received charge of their commissary, the veterans laid plans to accept profers of rations from outside. Two trucks will leave tomorrow for an unknown destination in Baltimore, Md., for donated supplies.

A "national headquarters" was established in a vacant apartment building loaned by the owner. The Anacostia river encampment—largest of the camps—was reorganized on a military basis, and its nearly 6,000 inhabitants sought stray lumber to build more shelters. From tonight on the army will be its own boss, with police on the sidelines to keep order.

An order of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford offered the accommodation of free rides of 50 miles or

Farm Board Wheat Ordered Sold for Taxes

SALINA, Kan., June 8. (AP)—An auction of 100,000 bushels of wheat, remainder of the farm board holdings in Saline county, was ordered this morning by county authorities to satisfy $13,140.38 in delinquent taxes.

The National Grain Stabilization corporation refused to pay the taxes on the ground that the wheat, federal property, was exempt. A recent order of the farm board to ship the wheat holdings from the county precipitated the action.

The wheat which remained here was attached.

M'ADOO COMES OUT FOR VOTE ON DRY LAWS

Veteran Dry Leader Urges Final Settlement By Popular Ballot

HERB FOR SUBMISSION

Roosevelt Wants Demos To Indicate Method Of Changing Law

LOS ANGELES, June 8. (AP)—William G. McAdoo tonight declared for a vote of the people in a special national election to settle the question of prohibition.

The former secretary of the treasury suggested a national referendum by which a direct vote of the people can be had upon the question as to whether the 18th amendment should be repealed or as to whether or not it should be amended to give congress the power to regulate or to prohibit the liquor traffic.

"The people themselves," he said, "should be given the opportunity to vote through a national referendum, authorized by act of congress.

"Suppose that a special session were called by the new president shortly after his inauguration March 4, 1933, and that the president was empowered to proclaim a national advisory referendum, after 90 days notice, upon such question as the following:

"Shall the 18th amendment be repealed? Vote 'yes' or 'no.'

"Or:

"Shall the 18th amendment be amended to empower congress to regulate or prohibit the liquor traffic? Vote 'yes' or 'no.'"

He suggested any other means such as resubmission, repeal or modification would take three years to accomplish.

HOOVER REPORTED FOR RESUBMISSION

WASHINGTON, June 8. (UP)—Republican leaders were informed today on apparently unquestioned authority that President Hoover had approved a prohibition re-submission plank in the Republican platform.

The United Press was informed that the text was agreed upon and Postmaster General Walter Brown and James R. Garfield Jr., will arrive in Chicago tomorrow with the Hoover prohibition plank in their pockets.

White House Parley

Borwn and Garfield—the latter will be chairman of the Republican convention resolutions committee—conferred at the White House last night with Mr. Hoover and several cabinet officers. The Republican national committee is to meet in Chicago tomorrow.

Presiding when Garfield and Brown present the president's proposal, if it is revealed to the committee at all, will be one of the foremost of Republican prohibition leaders, Senator Simeon D. Fess, representative, Ohio, who is chairman of the national committee.

Brown Urges Plank

Brown has been the most forceful of Mr. Hoover's cabinet advisers in urging re-submission as the minimum concession to the anti-prohibition bloc in the Republican party. To dry objectors, Brown has replied

July 5 is the date for the regular primary election.

SEABURY CALLS WALKER 'UNFIT'

Investigator Sends Report To Roosevelt

NEW YORK, June 8. (AP)—Mayor Walker was termed "unfit" to continue in office by Samuel Seabury, who dispatched tonight to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt an analysis of testimony by the mayor for such action as the governor "may deem just and proper."

Seabury said he had "no request or petition to make in reference to this matter," but he made it clear he was satisfied the evidence would warrant removal of the mayor.

The record was sent to Albany in the care of a personal representative of Seabury, who said he was acting as a citizen and not as counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee before which the mayor appeared.

Transcript of Testimony

The matter consisted of a transcript of the mayor's testimony, an analysis of the testimony and a letter by Seabury containing 15 conclusions which he said he had drawn from the testimony.

"This record," said Seabury, "is presented to you by me in my individual capacity as a citizen of the state of New York and not as the representative of, or as counsel to, the joint legislative committee. My duty as counsel to this committee has been to adduce the facts that could be ascertained. That duty I have performed. I submit the record to you, as I did the record in the Farley case, not as formal charges, but for your information so that you may determine what shall be done."

Roosevelt's Position

Seabury announced his intention of submitting an analysis after Governor Roosevelt in a statement last Friday said "If the evidence in any case now before the legislative committee in their judgment or that of their counsel warrants it is time for the legislative committee and their counsels to stop talking and do something."

The governor also said "I act in each case definitely, positively and with due promptness."

Whether the governor would consider the matter from Seabury to be tantamount to formal charges and appropriate for action as such was not known.

Apparently Seabury was of the opinion the governor would follow the procedure that led to a hearing for and the subsequent removal of Sheriff Thomas Farley, Tammany leader.

Of the large cities, New York leads in the rate of suicides. In Manhattan and the Bronx the rate is 28.3 per 100,000 population. In Los Angeles it is 26.2.

SENATE PASSES 'WRECKAGE' OF ECONOMY BILL

Republicans Cut Out Large Part of Savings In Party Vote

PRESIDENT RAPPED

Robinson Deplores Action Of Upper House On Important Bill

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—Amid Democratic charges that President Hoover had "wrecked" the national economy bill, the senate approved the measure tonight after cutting its total savings by about $100,000,000.

Instead of the $238,000,000 reduction in governmental expenditures recommended by the senate's bipartisan economy committee, the bill in its final form variously was estimated to save from $120,000,000 to $159,000,000.

Hoover Assailed

Accusing the president of "butting in" to put over his "furlough plan" in place of a flat cut in government salaries, Democratic senators called upon the chief executive to take the responsibility for recommending new taxes to make up the difference.

The bill was passed after the senate had reversed its action of yesterday and substituted the Hoover plan of furloughing federal employes without pay for the flat 10 per cent salary cut recommended by the committee.

Opponents of the furlough plan contended this reduced the saving by many millions of dollars.

Estimates Differ

Estimates differed widely, some opponents of the furlough plan asserting it would not come within $70,000,000 of saving as much money as the straight salary slash, while its proponents placed the difference at about $27,000,000.

Yesterday the senate threw out of the bill more than $48,000,000 in savings represented in the committee's recommendations for tightening the restrictions on allowances and hospitalization of veterans.

By a vote of 38 to 35 the senate adopted the administration's furlough plan after a sharp fight led by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, and a Republican independent, La Follette of Wisconsin.

It provides in brief that civilian federal employes working on a yearly basis be furloughed for a month without pay and those employed by the day be placed on a five-day week.

President Given Power

The president is given authority to exempt from the furlough those employes whose services are considered indispensable.

The development brought from Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, a member of the economy committee, the assertion that President Hoover last Friday had begun efforts to force upon the senate his furlough plan after previously endorsing the efforts of the committee.

He was joined in his criticism of

Slayer of Ted Nodurft Scheduled To Hear Death Sentence Saturday

Appeals Court Refuses Rehearing of Case and Spence Asks Immediate Punishment for Negro

Sentence probably will be passed on Richard Johnson, convicted negro slayer, before Judge Allan Montgomery in 30th district court here Saturday, District Attorney Sam Spence said Wednesday night. The death sentence against Johnson for the slaying of A. N. (Ted) Nodurft was reaffirmed by the court of criminal appeals at Austin Wednesday. Motion for a rehearing by the defendant was denied by the action.

Johnson is in the Dallas county jail and Mr. Spence expects to have him returned here to be sentenced at once. The law requires a 30-day period between passing of sentence and execution, Mr. Spence said. The higher court has not acted on a motion for a rehearing filed for Richard Brown, also convicted with Johnson. The death penalty given Brown was affirmed shortly after that of Johnson.

Johnson and Brown held up Nodurft and his fiancee while the couple was sitting in an automobile parked between Harrison and Brook avenues. Nodurft was fatally wounded and the girl assaulted by the two slayers.

TWO INJURED WHEN STORM STRIKES CITY

Port Gauge Records Wind At 80 Miles; Damage Totals $12,000

RAIN FOLLOWS GALE

High Winds and Widespread Damage Reported Over Wichita Area

A wind of cyclonic force ripped through Wichita Falls and surrounding territory early Wednesday night, causing extensive damage. Torrential rain started falling a few minutes after the storm broke.

Although the entire territory for miles around Wichita Falls was hit heavily, the Wichita Falls airport seemed to be the center of the storm and received the greatest damage. Two employes of the port were painfully hurt by timber and debris hurled by the wind.

Houses Unroofed

Many houses were unroofed, awnings were ripped away and hurled into the streets, and limbs were ripped away from tree trunks.

The raging wind, clutching at small homes, forced many residents to flee to places of security from the storm.

Surrounding towns reported damage, although considerably less than that at Wichita Falls.

Fulcher Armstrong, manager of the airport, said by a gauge the wind blew at 80 miles per hour. With terrific force the gale struck buildings at the port, ripping parts from the roofs of two hangars, tore away the rear section of one hangar, and caused heavy damage to four airplanes.

Four Planes Damaged

E. O. Derryberry, mechanic, and Jack Bryant, helper, were cut severely about the body as timber and parts of the wrecked hangars were hurled by the gale at high speed over the airport grounds. The two men received first aid at the port, but later were carried to a hospital for further attention.

Mr. Armstrong said he placed the loss to hangars and planes at $12,000.

The four damaged planes belonged to John Moran, William Nichols, Roy Riner and James E. McKanna. All are cabin ships with the exception of Mr. Nichols', which is an open cockpit plane. The falling roof crushed in the wings, causing heavy but not irreparable damage.

Family Escapes

D. P. Taylor, operator of the Old Mill tourist park, and his family possibly escaped death by the fact that they were out of the camp office when the storm struck.

A twist of wind struck the office of the camp, a solidly built structure of stone, wrenched the heavy roof, mounted on huge beams, from the building and hurled it 75 feet, where it landed against a filling station.

The interior of the uncovered office was literally wrecked by wind which dipped inside. Mr. Taylor said that most of the furnishings of the office were blown out, including several valuable pictures. Most of the equipment was blown so far, he said, that they could not be recovered.

The wind also did considerable other damage to property along the Henrietta road near Holliday creek. A dozen or more small houses, chiefly occupied by negroes were unroofed. Signboards were scattered around and the windows of the Pilgrim's Rest Baptist church (colored) were blown out.

A portion of the roof of the garage and dairy barn on W. A. Bandy's farm on the Henrietta road was demolished. Members of the family said there also probably was considerable damage to the fruit crop.

Streets Flooded

On Seventh street, opposite the Memorial auditorium, about 100 feet of sign board of the Wichita Falls Poster Advertising company was torn down. A stream of water several inches deep poured down McGregor and Pearl streets during the heaviest rain and the Brook avenue crossing at the Wichita Valley railroad was blocked by high water for

Robert M. Guggenheim To Testify Against Gaston Means In Trial

WASHINGTON, June 8. (US)—Gaston B. Means, who went to trial today on a charge of swindling Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean out of $104,000 she gave him to ransom the Lindbergh baby, attempted to interest Lieut. Col. Robert M. Guggenheim in the baby's return three days after the kidnaping, District Attorney Rover declared.

Guggenheim, brother of the ambassador to Cuba, and friend of the Lindberghs, will be a "surprise witness" at the trial, Rover made known.

A jury of 11 men and one woman was selected to try Means on charges of larceny after trust.

Means is said to have dropped his plan of dealing with Colonel Guggenheim after Mrs. McLean called him into consultation and gave him $100,000 to ransom the baby and $100 a day for expenses.

Mrs. McLean charges that Means kept the money, though he claims he gave it to a stranger he presumed to be her agent after she demanded its return.

The Guggenheim phase of the case, which is said to have been uncovered by special agents of the United States bureau of investigation, is as bizarre as Means' dealings with Mrs. McLean.

At one stage of the negotiations, Means is said to have insisted on the use of a "neutral" automobile. With this Guggenheim induced Ambassador Prochnik, of Austria, to loan his diplomatic car for the purpose.

At another time a strange man with a baby in his arms was seen sitting on the front steps of the

Old Plainsmen To Pay Belated Honor To Memory Of 'Billy the Kid' Sunday

MESCALERO, N. M., June 8. (UP)—Old settlers in New Mexico and West Texas will gather here Sunday to mark some of the spots where "Billy the Kid" gunman, and his doughty rival, Buckshot Rogers, made history during the swashbuckling '70s. All residents of the section have been invited to help and to listen to the old timers' reminiscences.

The principal spot for marking is the Blazer's mill battleground, where factions of the Kid and of Rogers met in 1878 in a fight which opened the so-called Lincoln county war. Other spots included the graves of Rogers and Dick Brewer, a captain of the Kid's men.

Two who participated in and saw the historic gunplay will make speeches. One is George Coe, "side partner" of the Kid and only living survivor of his forces in the war. The other is A. N. Blazer, who was an eyewitness to the fight at the mill.

Coe lost a trigger finger in the mill battle, but had better luck in the long run than did his erstwhile chief. The Kid, hero of more than one cowboy ballad now sung over radio, was killed later by one Pat Garrett, a West Texas sheriff.

Sunday's observances will extend to Alamagordo, where the old millstones from Blazer's mill will be mounted on the courthouse lawn. History of the stones runs back further than that of the Kid and his war.

They were brought from France during the 1830's and were used first in a mill in Central Mexico near Chihuahua. Later they were used in a mill at Mesilla before being brought to this section in 1853.

STORM WHIPS WICHITA AREA

Widespread Damage From Winds Reported

a short time. The water drained away fairly rapidly, however, and cars were able to negotiate the dip at the tracks shortly after the storm had ceased.

The two-story frame residence owned by H. J. Prine, 1904 Arthur, and located at 1303 Bluff was unroofed by he wind, allowing rain to pour into the structure. The house is furnished but is not occupied.

Operation of the Continental Oil company refinery on the Burkburnett road was delayed when electric power failed. Operation will be resumed Thursday.

Power and light service was disrupted by the electrical display that accompanied the storm. Wind pushed over a small number of telephone and light poles in several sections of the city. Lights in some parts of the business section and residential area were interrupted for a total period of about an hour.

Telephone wires were down at Eighth and Burnett and police received calls to guard traffic at this place as well as at Fourth and Burnett and on Third street where highlines had fallen.

Units of the fire department answered alarms while the storm was at its height for trash fires at 2700 Kemp and 2115 Taft. A grass fire alarm was turned in from 1602 Taylor and a freight car blaze was extinguished at 1101 Ohio.

Windows Smashed

Plate glass windows in two stores at 803 and 805 Indiana were smashed when the awning supports gave way under the high wind. The awning fell to the sidewalk at the two vacant buildings and at the Kruger Jewelry company and a canvas awning at the jewelry store was ripped to pieces. A rope blockade was established around the three stores by police Wednesday night.

A plate glass window at the Brown & Prosser Drug company, 1500 Holliday, was smashed.

Hard rain and hail in Foard county were accompanied by a gale which caused considerable damage. The storm struck at 5 o'clock, the force of the wind knocking out numerous plate glass windows both in Crowell and Thalia. A number of homes at both places were partially unroofed by the blow.

At Thalia the small home of Lee Simms was completely turned around by the force of the gale. Fortunately for members of the family none were at home at the time. A negro shack at Thalia was wrecked by the wind. A community tabernacle was completely unroofed. Several persons at Thalia received minor injuries from flying glass.

Hail levelled hundreds of acres of grain, causing material damage to wheat crops.

A humorous event coincident with the storm was the arrival in Crowell of Cyclone Davis, congressional candidate, about five minutes before the gale swept down on the city.

At Iowa Park a part of the roof of the C. E. Birk warehouse was blown away, striking an adjoining home occupied by Mrs. A. Lancaster, and heavily damaging that structure. Many trees of the city were torn by the wind.

Damage at Henrietta

Henrietta reported many awnings blown down. The roof of the Ohlsen Hardware store was heavily damaged when the roof gave way before the wind. As the roof was blown away, the rear part of the store caved in.

Streets of the downtown section were strewn with debris of lumber awnings, signs, and other objects hurled into the air by the wind.

At Vernon, Electra, Olney, Graham, Archer City, Nocona and Frederick and Altus, Okla., windstorms and heavy rain occurred, but with practically no damage except to trees and small outhouses. Good rains, although with little wind, fell at Quanah and Childress.

At Saint Jo, where the storm struck at 7 o'clock, some damage was caused to homes.

Hail at Burkburnett was fairly heavy, but was light at Olney and Henrietta, and at points in Oklahoma.

Damage to fruits and other crops was believed to be heavy, not only from hail, but from the beating rain and gale-like wind, which flattened grain and wrenched growing fruit from trees.

Sandstorms at all points preceded downpours.

Clouds Herald Storm

Late in the afternoon clouds appeared to the northwest of Wichita Falls. They gained rapidly in size and darkness. Shortly before 6 o'clock the north sky was entirely overcast by angry looking clouds. Scores of people stood in the streets watching the clouds shortly before the first gust of wind heralded the storm.

The clouds were swirling and changing as they rapidly pushed south and took on a dingy color as sand whirled into the air.

W. C. Taylor, Texas Electric Service company weather statistician, estimated that wind reached a maximum of 45 miles per hour. The precipitation was recorded at .67 of an inch at 9 o'clock, after the peak of the downpour had passed.

Wind Changes Direction

The difference of Mr. Taylor's estimate of wind velocity with that reported at the airport was attributed to the different locality. The airport seemed to be the center of the storm. Two distinct masses of clouds seemed to merge over this spot, it was said. A phenomena of wind also occurred here. The wind first blew out of the east. Suddenly, however, the wind indicator at the port reversed as a blast came from the west.

A similar freak was reported at Henrietta.

The storm came with the establishment of a season's peak in summer temperature and probably had direct connection with the heat. More than 30 minutes before the storm struck, the Texas Electric Service company weather bureau reported to The Record News that its barometer was falling rapidly and that a storm was indicated within a short time.

At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon the thermometer had recorded 97 degrees, the highest point since last summer. The new high replaced a record set Tuesday when 95 degrees were recorded at 5 p. m. The early season high was 93 degrees on April 23.

Slight precipitation was recorded Wednesday morning following a brilliant and rapid-fire electrical display, with the total placed at .08 of an inch by the Texas Electric Service company bureau. Overcast skies and a low barometer reading at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon indicated further atmospheric disturbances might be expected.

SUNDAY STORM DAMAGES FURNITURE STORE $1,500

Stock of the Bell Furniture and Mattress company, 307-11 Michigan, was damaged to the extent of $1,500 in the windstorm and rain of Sunday night, June 5, Manager L. C. Robertson said Wednesday after a preliminary check of the stock. A portion of the roof 15 by 8 feet was dislodged by the wind allowing the heavy rain to pour into the store.

GALE TRAVELS AT 50 MILES AN HOUR

FORT WORTH, June 8. (AP)—A 50-mile-an-hour gale swept into Texas through Wichita Falls and southwest across Tarrant county early tonight, uprooting trees, unroofing sheds and small buildings and bringing a heavy rain in its wake.

The windstorm struck Wichita Falls at 5:30 p. m. and reached Fort Worth at 7:30 p. m.

Experiencing some of the difficulty of a ground crew mooring a dirigible, a dozen men at the Municipal airport tonight kept a tight grip for 45 minutes on a trimotored plane that almost left the ground in the sudden gale that blew up a moment after the ship landed.

The big plane, American Airways ship from Brownsville to Dallas, seemed to bring the windstorm on its wings. The storm broke just as the passengers climbed out and the pilot turned to get their luggage.

W. G. Fuller, airport manager called to every available man when he saw the plane pigeon-hop in the wind. They held it, moored it at every point possible to stakes in the ground, attached ropes and began the tedious task of holding on to them until the storm passed. It was not for 45 minutes that they could relax their hold and safely trust the ship to stay on the ground.

Modern Robinson Crusoe May Be Glenn Brophy, Long Missing Flier

MANILA, June 8. (UP)—Stories of a Robinson Crusoe of the air, castaway on a tiny, northernmost island in the Philippines when his plane crashed on an attempted Maco to Manila flight last year, were checked by authorities today.

The Robinson Crusoe of the adventure, according to Aleko Lilus, an adventure writer and associate editor of the English section of the Manila Fookien Times, may be Glenn Brophy, given up as lost March 23, 1931.

Brophy, announcing plans for establishment of a Shanghai to Manila air mail service, set out for Manila from the Portuguese island of Maco, and was never heard from again.

Lilius, who recently returned from a trip to a number of small islands north of Luzon, declared that natives of the region told him of rumors that a stranger, accompanied by a black dog, had been seen among the natives of Yami island. Yami is a small, wild, and totally savage island, inhabited by pagans with whom other islanders never associate.

SENATE PASSES ECONOMY BILL

the president by Senators Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader; Harrison of Mississippi; Barkley of Kentucky and other Democrats.

The administration senators—Jones of Washington, who voted against the furlough and Smoot of Utah who voted for it—replied the president had not talked to them on the subject.

Robinson, in moving to recommit the bill to the committee to recommend new economies, said "It must be apparent to all of us that the so-called economy program has broken down."

Savings Removed

He said the senate had cut from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 from the bill, leaving $140,000,000 to $150,000,000 but Byrnes said the figure was really $120,000,000.

Robinson characterized the senate's action as a "signal and disgusting failure in view of all the talk that has occurred on this subject."

"It not only appears that we have done little," he added, "but it is also apparent that we do not know what we have done.

"It's a deplorable failure and one that will reflect itself in disappointment throughout the country."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, asked Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee how much remained in the bill. Jones estimated the economies still in the measure at "about $150,000,000."

The economy bill as passed by the house carried savings of $42,000,000 after that body had turned down most of the recommendations of its economy committee.

Senator Jones expressed doubt as to whether the house would accept the furlough plan when it goes to conference to reconcile differences in two versions in which case it might have to be brought up for another vote in the senate.

VETS ASKED TO QUIT CAPITAL

But Bonus Crusaders To Stay on 'Job'

so in every direction. The thousands here are from every state.

A few had left today, but the vast majority was determined to stay and see the outcome of the vote Monday when the bonus-payment proposal comes before the house.

A considerable section of the tattered army is still firm in its determination to "stay until 1945" unless the bonus is paid.

A move to reduce the interest rate of bonus loans, which is rapidly consuming many of the certificates, was made today in the house.

The ways and means committee approved the Bacharach bill which would make the interest rate on the certificates four per cent. The veterans administration estimated this would cost the government $140,000,000 before the certificates mature in 1945.

Food which the veterans receive at their encampments today was the last to be purchased with funds administered by the police and the leaders were preparing to solicit donations to supply their self-administered commissary.

Rough handling by the veterans themselves caused Communist agitators to change their tactics in working among the veterans. The Communists today attempted to distribute a mimeographed sheet called Daily Notes. A small negro boy was taken in hand and given trial by the veterans as he sought to pass the sheets about the Anacostia camp. Because of his size, he was allowed to leave unmolested after a warning not to come back.

The Daily Notes were couched in careful language and devoted much space to race discrimination. Many of the veterans in the encampments are negroes.

Original plans of the veterans' leaders had called for a "monster" demonstration today, but failure to secure proper permits changed that plan. Next it was decided to attempt to present a petition to Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner at the capitol Friday, but late in the day this plan was changed and a decision made to try again for a parade permit.

Guggenheim home. He left before he could be accosted and ran to a taxi in which a woman was waiting. They disappeared in the car.

Guggenheim is reported to have told investigators that Means repeatedly stated he was in communication with the kidnapers and could recover the baby "shortly."

Guggenheim never knew Means was also dealing with Mrs. McLean until he read of Means' arrest, though he heard no more of Means after the latter became involved in Mrs. McLean's hopes of ransoming the child.

Colonel Lindbergh was never informed of Means' proposals as Guggenheim waited for some convincing development.

Stevenson Heads Hospital Board

Dr. C. W. Stevenson, newly appointed member of the Wichita General hospital board of managers, was elected chairman of the group Wednesday night at a regular meeting of the directors at the hospital. Dr. Stevenson was named to the board Monday night by the city council to succeed Dr. C. R. Hartsook, who resigned last week to devote additional time to his professional duties. Dr. Stevenson is head of the Wichita County Medical society. Other board members are Harvey Harris, and Jack Barnard of this city, Mrs. Mamie Dale of Iowa Park and Dr. Ruel Slaughter of Burkburnett.

INJURED IN FALL

J. R. Parker, Iowa Park road, was reported resting well Wednesday night at the Hargrave-Walker hospital after suffering a painful sprain to his back at noon Wednesday when he fell while carrying a large bag of salt at the Wichita Ice company where he is employed.

The hitching rail again is popular in Dardanelle, Ark. Farmers leave their cars home and drive the horses to town.

INSULL FACES BLEAK FUTURE

Abdicated Power King In 'Last Interview'

CHICAGO, June 8. (US)—Samuel Insull, who watched a fortune of $100,000,000 utterly collapse during the last year and a half, gave his last interview today. Or what he described as his last interview.

"I no longer am newspaper copy" he said with a faint smile to a group of newspaper men. This in spite of the fact that he had just abdicated from the vastest utility empire in the world, an empire which his vision and ability had built.

"Better put that away," he said to a reporter who brought out a note pad. "You're not going to need it."

Whole Story Told

"My statement upon my resignation told the whole story. I saw you today only as a courtesy, for I always have had very pleasant relations with the newspaper men, although I am not given to interviews as you know."

Mr. Insull was asked when he was leaving for Europe, the report being that he would spend the remainder of his life at his cottage at Reading on the Thames above London.

"I didn't know," he said, "that I was selling for Europe until I saw the papers today. I tell you that I have to read the papers every day to find out what I am going to do."

Mr. Insull has only a tiny cottage at Reading and it is in his wife's name. He has retained this for sentimental reasons. It is furnished simply and severely, according to those who have seen it.

British Holdings Light

Insull holdings in Great Britain are believed to be negligible. Such as they were, it is believed that Mr. Insull probably sold them a year ago for the purpose of bolstering his Chicago holdings.

The three great utility companies from which he resigned each will pay the 73-year-old magnate a pension of $6,000 a year—$18,000 a year for the man who has been accustomed to handling millions.

A man associated with him in his far-flung enterprises said today that Mr. Insull's personal debts would be in excess of $15,000,000 and that Mrs. Insull's fortune also had been wiped out as she had invested heavily in the utility securities.

"He's too broke to be bankrupt," was the graphic description of the Insull finances.

It was reported that when Mr. Insull turned in his resignations before the utility companies, he paused on his way out and said:

"Well, gentlemen, here I go after 50 years of work, a man without a job!"

Loses Estate

Another report today was that the huge 4,800-acre Insull estate at Libertyville, Ill., valued at $3,400,000 above its encumbrances, had been placed in the hands of a trustee for the benefit of his creditors.

"I don't say what may happen in the future," said Mr. Insull resignedly, "but it isn't correct now that the estate has been placed in trust."

There in his office Mr. Insull still sat, an emperor surveying the empire he has abdicated.

PASS DIVIDEND

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 8. (INS)—For the first time in 30 years, directors of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company today voted to omit the quarterly dividend of $1.37½ cents a share of preferred stock of the company. Officials of the concern said the action was taken to conserve cash.

CHILE FACING NEW REVOLT

Junta Fails to Command Loyalty

BUENOS AIRES, June 8. (US)—Carlos G. Davila, head of the revolutionary junta which usurped the Chilean government Saturday, today issued another promise to respect foreign property and to postpone nationalization of the Cosach nitrate combine until a new congress is elected, Santiago dispatches stated.

Informed quarters here doubt the ability of Davila, former Chilean ambassador to Washington, to curb the more radical members of the junta who are pressing for immediate expropriation of Cosach in which $400,000,000 of American capital is invested.

Passive resistance to the junta is reported growing throughout the republic although there were no overt acts of opposition today. The loyalty of the army and navy to the junta and its announced radical-Socialist program is seriously questioned and it is predicted the provisional government will be toppled by counter-revolution within a week.

Last night's reported dissolution of the supreme court has served to consolidate the nation's conservative element against the new regime, advices stated.

Some reports stated that Davila is merely being used as a "front" by the junta. They add that he is a virtual prisoner in the presidential palace and will be forced out by his colleagues when they believe the time ripe for actualization of their radical program.

DO YOU INHALE?

Silence may be golden

... but is that why other cigarette advertising is generally silent on this question?

WHEN the truth hurts—it's only natural to avoid the subject! Inhaling has long been an "untouchable" topic in cigarette advertising. And no wonder! In every tobacco leaf—even the finest, the mildest—nature hides certain impurities which, when not removed, are unkind to delicate membranes!

And since, knowingly or unknowingly, every smoker inhales some part of the smoke from his or her cigarette, Lucky Strike developed that great scientific process which removes certain impurities. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Stanley Miles Raub Will Present Violin Pupils

Among the outstanding musical events of the spring season are numbered the violin recitals given by classes of Stanley Miles Raub in the Junior college auditorium. The first program is to be given by junior pupils of Mr. Raub Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Older members of his class will be presented in recital Saturday evening at the same hour.

The Friday evening program will open with two numbers by the Raub junior violin choir, in which 16 violins, with piano accompaniment, will play two sharply contrasting compositions.

Exceptionally fine progress has been made, it has been announced, by several of the youngest pupils, who have studied only a few months. Among these are Charlie Mae Tinsley of Petrolia, a student during the last four and one-half months; Wren White of Wichita Falls, who has made splendid progress for a first year pupil; Chester Ludlam Jr., one of the second-year pupils, who has progressed rapidly and Howard Swalm, who in closing the program, will give a brilliant presentation of a difficult Hungarian number, well in advance of his years.

Both recital programs have been reduced in length to avoid taxing the patience of the audience and the public is reminded that this special provision has been worked out to make these student programs additionally attractive from the listener's standpoint.

All those who enjoy violin music and are interested in young musicians, are invited to attend the recitals.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Will Durant, in a recent Redbook article, quoted answers from a number of headline notables to his question, "What meaning has life for you?" Their replies reflect various views of this decade. Times indeed have changed.

Mr. Durant says, "God, who was once the consolation of our brief life, and our refuge in bereavement and suffering, has apparently vanished from the scene."

The eminent philosopher speaks perhaps for some scientists, geologists and biologists. But in millions of families not yet destroyed despite the statement suggested by Mr. Durant that family life is being destroyed by birth control, one still finds God the supreme being who can give comfort in sorrow. If you, yourself, saw your nearest and dearest confronted with intense suffering, almost unconsciously you would breathe a prayer to God.

Mr. Durant says "the greatest question of our time is not communism vs. individuality, not Europe vs. America, not even the East vs. the West; it is whether men can bear to live without God.

Sinclair Lewis thinks that religion is a consolation only to those who have been reared in it and might in adult years, miss it. "Satisfaction," he says, "comes from functioning healthily—a 74-year-old agnostic like Clarence Darrow is more cheerful and excited about life's adventures than an aged bishop whose bright hopes of heaven are often overbalanced by his fears of hell."

Without pretense or fear, and whether he likes it or not, we pity Sinclair Lewis. We have known men and women far beyond 74 whose faith was a shining light in a happy old age. And they had lovable qualities that roused tenderness in those about them. We cannot imagine Mr. Lewis at that age. Though, probably, he will be able to employ a trained nurse to bear with him.

Religion and morality are, for Mahatma Gandhi, synonymous terms. "Life to me is real," he says, "as I believe it to be a spark of the Divine." Service is the keynote of Gandhi's life. If we remember correctly, service was the tender keynote of the life of the Nazarene whom we call Savior.

Mr. H. L. Mencken scorns religion. He states plainly, "The act of worship, as carried on by Christians, seems to me to be debasing, rather than ennobling. We will not quote all Mr. Mencken says. Life is very amusing to him, "while it lasts." He scorns God as he scorns all the ridiculous Americans he reprints in the American Mercury.

There was a day when Christians would have expected to see fire rained upon the blasphemer's head. (That's the way it would have been said). Mr. Mencken, it seems to us, like Shaw, glories in defying and startling the world. He has vivid theories that he expresses with violent originality.

But in spite of all of them, we feel that no nation would survive that did not acknowledge a supreme being. There is a penalty to be paid at times for a too-brilliant brain. We are even glad that we are simple enough to still get comfort from saying, "Our Father which art in heaven."

Our Children

New Associations

When a child fails in a given situation; examinations in school, associations with playmates, living with grownups, you must set about helping him overcome his difficulties, the surest method of helping is by way of forming new associations.

When a child has failed under a teacher's instructions, if it is at all possible, give him a new teacher next term. The teacher may mean well. Her intentions are of the best. But the child's associations with her will tend to call up the old behavior pattern. He will respond in the same way because his nerve cells have stored away those memories. We tend to do what we did once before. And the longer we continue the association the harder it is to get away from the behavior it caused.

When a child gets a bad name in the neighborhood, change the neighborhood. The associations that brought out the poor behavior must be broken off. The child must begin on a new plan. He must have new companions, new places of work, a new scheme. A fresh start.

This is especially true when the child has made a mistake that aroused the neighborhood. Of course people should not repeat stories about children, but they do. And the stories lose nothing as they are passed along from dinner table to tea table, and onward. A mistake that is not understood by the child who made it is built into a crime by the gossip that attends the circumstance, and the only thing to do is to transplant the child and begin again.

This is why we send children to visit their grandmothers or their aunts. This is why we send them away to boarding schools, or take them on long trips. We know that we must help them form new associations to strengthen the new ideas we hope to set. If the child has to fight the old reactions as the old associations renew their stimulus, he has an uphill struggle. Few children can make it alone.

In forming the usual routine habits of health and conduct this truth holds. If a child gets into trouble about cleaning his teeth, give him a new toothbrush or a fresh tube of paste and cheer for a fresh start. If he dislikes his dinner surprise him with a new menu served in a new way. If he fails in one seat in school give him a new one and impress him with the idea that it is the right kind of seat for him. The place where he can do best. Always the idea of a new start will help.

There is little use in scolding a child for doing things that are wrong and then placing him in the same situation once more. He is more than likely to repeat his ill behavior promptly. Break the association first. Then build for the new idea. Direct the child's thought away from the old way and toward the new one and always make some specific suggestion as to what he is to do and how it is to be done.

"You stop that, young man," may help you but it is only so many sounds to the young man.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Composition Of Local Musician To Be Presented

A series of special rehearsals for women of the First Methodist church choir, assisted by other local women's voices, will begin Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis in preparation for the singing of Mrs. Charlene B. Underwood's "Exultation of the Cherubim" as part of a sacred concert to be given Sunday night, June 25.

The composition is to be given its first public performance by a double female chorus of about 50 voices, with Mrs. J. W. Akin as organ accompanist and Mrs. W. L. Olmstead at the piano. The Women's Choral club, directed by Mrs. Davis, will form one choir. Women of the First Methodist choir, with assisting artists, will form the other.

Rehearsals on the next three Thursday nights will be limited to the half hour from 7:30 to 8 p. m., Mrs. Davis announced, permitting visiting singers to attend choir rehearsals at other churches if they desire. Practice will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock, she said, and members of the first choir are urged to be on hand by that time.

The "Exultation of the Cherubim" uses a revised text of the "Gloria" used in every mass, and is arranged for two choirs of three parts each. In its earlier passages, the number presents the two choirs singing antiphonally, while the two groups sing as a six-part ensemble in the closing passages. Mrs. Underwood, head of the department of vocal music in Howard Payne college, Brownwood, has returned to the city and will be present for the presentation of this composition.

First Requisite of Ballroom Success Is Good Dancing

By EMILY POST

Author of "The Blue Book of Social Usage"

Dear Mrs. Post—Can you give me the recipe for popularity at a dance? In other words, what and why and wherefore is ballroom success? If I knew these answers I would not be so scared to go to my first "prom."

Answer—The first and foremost requirement for ballroom success is the ability to dance well. Let a daughter of Venus or the heiress of Midas dance badly, and she might better stay at home. To dance divinely is an immortal gift, but to dance well can (except in obstinate cases, as the advertisements say) be taught. Let us suppose, therefore, that you dance well, that you have a certain degree of looks, that you have a becoming frock. The next most important thing is to be unafraid, and not to cling mentally, if not actually, to any partner as though you were in danger of drowning. Try to look happy and unself-conscious. You wouldn't feel frightened on the club house veranda. Then why be frightened in a ballroom, unless you dance badly or only half-way well.

A second angle of much the same subject comes from Washington.

Dear Mrs. Post—My husband and I took dancing lessons all last year because we felt conspicuous at the dances which, because of my husband's official position, we are obliged to attend. It seems to me that the wife is at a great disadvantage at a dance, since she won't be sought after as a partner in preference to the younger and unmarried women, so she has a good chance to be a "wall-flower" most of the evening. I almost never have a good time and I wish you would help me?

Answer—My answer to today's first letter also answers this one. Dance divinely and you will have plenty of partners—unless (which I have no way of knowing) most of the dancing men are your juniors. The ballroom is not a happy field for a woman no longer young.

World's Cracking But Don't Worry, Says Fannie Hurst

By MARGARET LANE

NEW YORK, June 8. (INS)—"Never a doubt of it—this world is cracking. We shall never come out of the present crisis the same as we were before. Why should we? The world must always change. We just happen to be in the throes of a transformation like the fall of the Roman empire. It is painful, but not regrettable."

Fannie Hurst is not one of those optimists who see a tidal wave of prosperity rising from every trough of the depression. She is the kind of optimist who thinks that in the long run the depression may turn out to be all for the best.

"It's hard to detach yourself and look at it from a dispassionate angle, as if it were just 'something in history,'" she said, "but that's the only way to look at a tottering world like ours and keep your sanity. Monarchy is outworn. Democracy as we know it has proved a failure. We are lucky enough to be alive at the moment which will show just what comes next."

As for New York, according to this fiery, black eyed woman, its noise, its machine life, its unnatural pace will destroy the more sensitive of us unless each of us develops his own antidote. Hers is the apartment she lives in, furnished in sombre fantasy like a medieval church, cool, silent, theatrical, a bizarre setting for a hard-working woman and one who confesses to no creed.

Unidentified Man's Body Found on Jersey Highway

CAMDEN, N. J., June 8. (INS)—With the neck encircled in a length of sashcord and the back shattered by a dum-dum bullet, the body of an unidentified man, about 30 years old, was found today on the highway at Ancora, a suburb, by three small boys.

Fresh car tracks were found in the road. The man apparently had been strangled, shot and his body hurled from an automobile.

The victim was dressed in quiet, conservative clothing. A hat, found nearby, more the trademark of a Philadelphia haberdashery. His belt buckle was engraved with the letter "F."

Bandit Shot Down in Beaumont Hijacking

BEAUMONT, June 8. (INS)—A gun battle foiled an attempted holdup and landed a would-be bandit in the hospital under police guard today.

Felix Johnson, employe of a roadside eating place in the city suburbs, confronted by a masked intruder who commanded him to "stick 'em up," did nothing of the kind but whipped a pistol from his pocket and fired, wounding the bandit in the knee.

The masked man meantime opened fire with a revolver, ran a few steps, then fell. He was captured and taken to a hospital by police who said he was Guinn Inman already under two indictments for robbery.

Quanah Hotel Clerk Slashed With Knife

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, June 8.—Asked to leave the Crawford hotel where he had become boisterous and profane in the public telephone booth Sunday night, a man became incensed at J. Robert Jones, clerk, who escorted him to the door, and when Jones turned to re-enter the hotel slashed him in the back of the neck. The wound was about three inches long, and physicians stated it was a miracle that it was not a fatal wound. Jones was able to be at the desk Monday night.

Rodgers was apprehended shortly afterward by City Marshal Ed Hagood and Night Watchman Glen Davis, and is held in Hardeman county jail under charge of aggravated assault.

JIM COLEMAN UNDER ARREST

Earl Quinn's Attorney Asks Murder Charge

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 8. (UP)—Bruce Potter, Kay county attorney, declared today he would not file a murder charge against Jim Coleman in the slaying of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, Blackwell school teachers slain on the Tonkawa highway Dec. 28, 1930.

A demand that such a charge be filed was made today by James Mathers, attorney for Earl Quinn, condemned to death in the brutal murder.

"There is no possible way the Quinn case can be reopened," Potter said.

Quinn, former Missouri convict, has been given an indefinite stay of execution pending determination of his appeal by the criminal court of appeals.

Potter said that the only way that Coleman has "even remotely been brought into the case was by the insinuation and suspicion of shortly after Mathers notified po-Mathers." He said Coleman was wanted in Kay county on no charge.

Coleman Arrested

Coleman was arrested here today lice a man he believed to be Coleman "made an attempt on his life early today."

The attorney had failed during the trial of Quinn to introduce evidence which he asserted would implicate Coleman as the real murderer.

Coleman was questioned by deputies and state bureau operatives. He denied he heard of the Griffith sisters murders until he arrived here yesterday.

At first Coleman said he was in Nebraska the date of the slaying, then he said he was in Mississippi. His final story was that he was in Stockville, Neb., "shucking corn" early in December, that he came south through Blackwell and saw Milt Harris, whose daughter had been involved in an auto accident fatal to Coleman's stepson. He went through Oklahoma City en route to Louisiana. He said he returned to Nebraska this year and "had been roaming around since."

Quizzed in Assault

R. E. Maxey, state operative, questioned Coleman about an assault in Shawnee.

He admitted leaving some clothes in Shawnee.

"Where did they get that blood on them," Maxey asked.

"They didn't have any blood on them," Coleman replied excitedly.

"Did you attack a woman there?"

"No, I didn't even insult her. They said I did, but I didn't. The father-in-law did that."

Coleman said he did not know the Griffith sisters and did not know whether he could recognize the Harris sisters if he saw them. He denied he ever threatened the Harris sisters.

Senate Passes Bill to Give Road Aid to States

WASHINGTON, June 8. (US)—A $250,000,000 federal road aid bill, for help to the states in road construction program during the coming fiscal year and the year 1933-1934, was passed by the senate today.

The measure authorizes the appropriations of $125,000,000 each year, but from this amount will be deducted $16,000,000, or one-fifth of the $80,000,000 emergency appropriation turned over to the states recently.

The $80,000,000 was given with the understanding that it would be returned by deduction of one-fifth of the amount each year from the normal $125,000,000 road aid funds.

WOCC MEETING TALKS TAXES

Governmental Economy Theme of Convention

WEATHERFORD, Okla., June 8. (UP)—The Western Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce began a "tax-mined" two day convention here this afternoon after half a day's delay and with an attendanee somewhat smaller than was expected. G. B. Townsend, Mangum, president, presided.

Committees submitted recommendations for legislative action on a three-cents a gallon gasoline tax with no exemptions, for handling of automobile license plates by sheriffs without fees, cutting down inefficient schools and classes, and checking of state salaries.

Urge Economy

Speakers stressed the need for making the people tax-minded and for stopping waste of public funds. Some suggested luxury taxes in addition to economy measures.

W. J. Milburn, manager, announced the chamber had been recognized by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Gov. W. H. Murray and state city chamber heads. He said 50 Oklahoma City business men had given $10,000 to the chamber.

Principal features of the shortened program today were constructive speeches by H. B. Rutledge, secretary of the Oklahoma State Press association; E. H. Poe, Tulsa, natural gas industries representative, and Dr. W. B. Bizzell, Norman, president of the University of Oklahoma.

Strenuous work remains for tomorrow, with a larger attendance and crowded time for business. A number of other speakers are on the program, among them being Wilbur C. Hawk, Amarillo, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; Dr. H. G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. & M. college, and Moss Patterson, president of the State Motor Carriers association.

Bank Posts Sign Warning Bandits Of Empty Vaults

STONEWALL, Okla., June 8. (AP)—The First State bank of Stonewall, which officers said was marked for robbery today by Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, has placed a sign in its front window reading:

"Notice to bank robbers: There is not enough cash in this bank to be worth the risk of robbing it."

After four robberies, P. S. Case, president of the bank, determined upon a plan of defense, approved by depositors. The bank now keeps all except a small amount of its cash in Ada bank vaults. Only enough money is on hand to care for an ordinary day's business, and if a customer presents a large draft, an employe takes him to Ada, 10 miles away, to cash it.

Case remarked that if robbers had raided the bank today, "they'd have had to borrow money to get out of town."

Taxi Driver Who Married Rich Woman Explains Giving Nightgown to Maid

LOS ANGELES, June 8. (UP)—Charles J. Challette's "strange story" about an ill-fitting nightgown bought for his 300-pound wife but given instead to a maid, failed to win a motion directed against a default divorce suit awarded Mrs. Elizabeth M. Challette, Oklahoma oil heiress.

Challette, a taxi driver who obtained $280,000 in property from his wife in 58 days of married life, was denied his motion to set aside the decree so he could file an answer to Mrs. Challette's original charges.

Explains Gown

Superior Judge Isaac Pacht accused Challette of attempting to reopen the case merely for further profit, and described the husband's testimony as "a very strange story." Pacht added he was confident Challette understood stipulations which led to the recent default divorce suit, although the husband said he "could get only the little word."

Called to refute testimony of Anita Goodwin, the maid, that he made advances toward her, Challette explained about the nightgown.

"A guy owed me a rebate on some purchases of my wife," the ex-taximan said. "He offered to give a nightgown instead of cash. He didn't have my wife's size—she weighs 300 pounds—so I thought it would be nice to give it to the maid."

Willing to Go Back

"Then why did you go to your wife's father, F. A. McAllister, and demand $200,000 worth of property?" the judge asked.

"I only wanted what I thought was mine," he answered.

It developed Challette knew his wife only 13 days before he married her. Other testimony was that she now is an expectant mother.

"Would you go back to her now because of the baby?" the judge asked.

"Okay with me, judge," replied Challette. "I don't want the divorce. Everything was jake until I went on a trip to see my sick mother. When I got back she had guards around the place and I couldn't get in."

McAdoo Advocates Prohi Referendum

in vigorous, unqualified language that unless Republicans are willing to contemplate the certainty of a floor fight over prohibition with a possibility of the repeal element stampeding the convention, the drys in the party would be best advised to accept a re-submission plank.

ROOSEVELT FAVORS STATING METHOD

(Copy't, 1932, by The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Confidence that a method of repealing the 18th amendment would be clearly indicated in the Democratic platform was expressed today by Governor Roosevelt in an interview with the Associated Press.

Speaking by telephone from Albany, the governor also said he was confident "that in the next congress practical machinery will be put into actual effect."

He iterated that his stand on prohibition had not changed since two years ago, when he came out for "elimination" of the "force and effect of the 18th amendment" by a new constitutional amendment.

"The most important thing," he said today, "is that there must be action on this matter. We have delayed and debated it too long."

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Loses Contest to 'Wet'

MIAMI, Fla., June 8. (US)—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, member of the house of representatives from Florida's fourth congressional district, had tonight apparently lost her primary bid for denomination to Mark Wilcox.

With 180 of the 419 precincts returned, Wilcox stood nearly 2,900 votes ahead of the late William Jennings Bryan's daughter and appeared to be slowly increasing his lead. The count at that time gave Mrs. Owen 14,422 votes and Wilcox 17,292.

The reason for Mrs. Owen's apparent defeat was ascribed to the lateness of her announcement that she favors a national referendum on prohibition repeal. Previously she was regarded as a militant dry.

Wilcox, on the other hand, had an established reputation as an anti-prohibitionist. He has long been known as a wet.

KILGORE, Texas, June 8. (AP)—The number of completed wells in the East Texas field today was 6,033. Production of the entire field amounted to 319,374 barrels. Daily average production per well was 54.8 barrels. Pipe line runs totaled 256,009 barrels.

American Tells Of Being Held Captive By Chinese Rebels

SHANGHAI, June 8. (AP)—Charles Baker, American steamboat captain who was abducted by Chinese brigands last winter, arrived in Shanghai today and told his story of five months of terror in which he was threatened with death 50 times.

The captain, 30 pounds underweight as a result of exposure and filthy food—all he had to eat was half cooked rice and fish—will remain in Shanghai to get back his strength and then he will join his family in Oakland, Calif.

Although his captors frequently threatened to kill him unless a ransom of 50,000 Mexican dollars was paid, he finally was released without any money changing hands. American missionaries arranged it.

His captors showed a rough discipline. They were dressed in black uniforms bearing the Soviet sickle and hammer insignia, he said.

'Cocksure' Bandits Rob Kilgore Office

KILGORE, Texas, June 8. (AP)—A pair of cocksure robbers who took $1,500 from the safe in the Southwestern Gas and Electric company office here early today after kidnaping several company employes boasted that they had been planning the "job" for six months.

They aroused Dutch Womack, an employe they found sleeping in the office, and at the point of a pistol marched him to the homes of the bookkeeper and three other employes, who were rounded up and herded back to the office.

By means of threats the robbers forced the employes to open the safe. They took all of the cash in sight, but ignored several hundred checks.

After obtaining the money the robbers took their prisoners back to their homes and released them unharmed, then sped away in an automobile belonging to the utilities company. This car was later found abandoned near Kilgore.

PIPE LINE LAW HELD INVALID

Three-Judge Court Rules Act Confiscatory

gas from a common pool is sought to be applied through compulsory purchase, the court held. "The act requires a private carrier engaged in interstate commerce to assume the responsibilities of a common carrier and those of a common purchaser. This invades the field of federal cognizance, interferes with and burdens the commerce between the state contrary to article one, section eight of the federal constitution."

Decision of the court was on plaintiff's application for interlocutory injunction and it will be necessary for the court to assemble again to pass on plaintiff's application for a permanent injunction and for a hearing on its merits.

The opinion held that plaintiffs, to avoid forfeiture of their gas leases are required to drill and develop the same; that if they are compelled to comply with the provisions of this act the obligations of the contracts evidenced by these leases will be unconstitutionally impaired.

The court pointed out that since "the subject matter at issue is gas" the holding would not affect the law's provisions with reference to regulation of pipe lines taking oil.

Maurice Cheek, assistant attorney general, said that he believed the status with reference to pipe lines handling oil would be different, since they were engaged in intrastate commerce, while the gas pipe lines were in interstate commerce.

West Texas Golf Meet Starts Today

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 8. (AP)—The cream of West Texas golf talent swings under way Thursday morning in the qualifying round of the eighth annual championship tournament of the West Texas Golf association. The meet is to be staged on the Country club course.

Charles Quail, of Post, is the defending champion.

Among the leading contenders are two San Angelo golfers, Nalle Gregory, city champion, and John Marston, ex-city champ. Neither has competed in a West Texas association tournament before, but both are veteran campaigners and naturally are familiar with the home course.

A heavy contingent of Fort Worth golfers is on hand, but the 19th hole dopesters do not figure any of these entries as very potent except possibly in the Calcutta pool outlay.

Young Woman Killed At Start of Vacation

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, June 8. (AP)—A highway accident at the outset of a summer vacation trip caused the death today of Miss Elizabeth Blount, 22, of Nacogdoches, daughter of Guy H. Blount banker and former president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The automobile in which she and three other young women left Nacogdoches this morning en route to Washington, D. C., collided with a truck near Tenaha. Miss Blount died at a Nacogdoches hospital of her injuries.

The other women in the car escaped injury. They were Miss Dorothy Quinn, daughter of Bishop Quinn of Houston; Miss Becky Stover of Houston; and Miss Louise Blount, a cousin of the deceased.

Sunday movies were approved for Tallahassee, Fla., by a vote of 351 to 319 in a city referendum.

Any question of fact you may ask will be answered promptly in a personal letter to you. Be careful to write clearly, give your full name and address, and enclose two cents for reply postage. Q.—Are marines eligible to the purple heart decoration?—O. M. S.

A—This decoration was revived by the department of war. Marines who served with the army in France and meet other necessary requirements are entitled to this decoration.

Q.—Why do some shrubs have a sweet odor while others have not? —A. M. A.

A.—There are three or four species of the genus Calycanthus, but only one—Calycanthus floridus—has any pronounced fragrance. The blossoms are similar in appearance.

Q.—When the rudder of a ship is turned to steer a ship, which end of the ship responds first?—W. A. B.

A.—Theoretically and in case of an absolutely rigid ship, the whole vessel, including both ends, would respond simultaneously. Actually, because even in steel ships there is a little play, the stern moves first, giving way before the blow of the water on the rudder.

Q.—Did George Wilbur Peck, author of "Peck's Bad Boy," excel in any other than the writing field?—B. L.

A.—He was mayor of Milwaukee and governor of Wisconsin. In the latter post he attained distinction by enthusiastically opposing laws to compel boys to go to school.

Q.—Who was the Indian chief with whom Gen. Sam Houston lived at one time?—A. A.

A.—John Jolly was the English name of the Cherokee chief who was the adopted father of General Houston. His native name was Ahuludegi, which means, "He who throws away the drum." His early life was spent in Tennessee, and it was there that Houston spent three years, acquiring a life-long friendship for his adopted people.

Q.—How do ductless glands discharge their secretions?—M. E.

A.—They are discharged directly into the circulating blood. The endocrine or ductless glands are now believed to control the characteristics which make one person differ from another mentally and physically.

Q.—What chemical will destroy grass on a tennis court?—K. M.

A.—An effective chemical has been found to be calcium chloride. If this is applied at the beginning of the tennis season, it may be mixed with the top soil at the rate of at least two pounds to a square yard of surface.

Q.—What are dramas called which are written to be read and not acted?—P. B.

A.—The term, closet drama, is used. Much of Brbwning's dramatic writing is of this character.

Q.—Are there as many members in the house of lords as there are in the house of commons in the British parliament?—J. J.

A.—There are about 750 members in the house of lords. These consist of hereditary and appointive members and some church dignitaries. The commons has 615 members.

Q.—What is the meaning of ibid? —K. G. G.

A.—It is an abbreviation for the Latin ibidem, which means in the same place.

Q.—Where is the original of a picture called the Bambino?—W. S.

A.—This picture is a copy of one of the medallions of foundlings on the Foundlings hospital, at Florence, tIaly, made by the famous sculptor, Andrea Della Robbia.

Q.—Who was the first to own and operate a flying school in the United States?—H. P.

A.—Miss Catherine Stinson. She opened a flying school in San Antonio, Texas, soon after the world war started in 1914.

Gigli says the people want a lighter and more popular form of opera. That might go for opera stars, too.

Where Economy Is Needed

THE federal government has balanced its budget. But before you start to cheer, you might remember that the country contains 48 state governments and several thousand city and county governments, each of which has a budget of its own; and all but a very few of them could do with a whole lot more in the way of economy than they have ever had yet.

Furthermore, it is the money spent by these governments that bears most heavily on the average citizen.

If federal taxes go up, the citizens of modest means may have to pay out $25 in taxes annually instead of $10; but his city, state and county governments will take from him—if he is a property owner—anywhere from $100 to $300 a year, and if he wants relief from the "burden of taxation" that we hear so much about he ought to remember just what part of the burden it is that is the heaviest.

In the main, city and state indebtedness has gone skyrocketing in the past decade. In 1930 the states alone owed nearly two and one-half billions. City debts in most cases have shot up even faster.

And there is a lot more lost motion in city and state governments than there is at Washington. Inefficiency and graft amount to more. A bigger percentage of the taxpayer's dollar is drained off to take care of "the boys."

There is, though, one comfort. It has been proved that honest and determined executives can cut down state and city budgets—if they want to.

Virginia, for instance, had a deficit of $1,358,000 two years ago. Today it has a surplus of more than $2,500,000. Georgia recently cut down its state departments from 102 to 17—with vast savings. Maine made one agency do the work of 45. North Carolina followed a similar path and saved its taxpayers $12,000,000.

In addition, Wichita Falls and many other cities have shown how municipal expenses can be slashed if the men at the top really try.

Those things are worth remembering. Balancing the federal budget is not enough. The states and cities have got to start economizing too.

Von Papen; 1918 and 1932

NOTHING shows more clearly how the passions of war-time have died down than the way in which the American public has received the news that Colonel Franz Von Papen has been called to the helm of the German republic.

In 1917 and 1918 this Von Papen was one of the nation's favorite hates. As military attache at the German embassy in Washington, prior to America's entrance into the war, he had been a little bit more active for the fatherland than a diplomat in a neutral land is supposed to be, and President Wilson demanded, and got, his recall. And for a long time after that no good American could speak of him without denouncing him.

But things have changed, somehow. Called to help save Germany from Hitlerism, he enjoys the good will of all Americans. Which indicates, perhaps, that war-time hatreds are artificial things which die rapidly as soon as their artificial stimulus is removed.

Japanese Lanterns

THE people of Japan have made about as thorough-going a use of modern inventions, in the past generation, as any one has. Recent events in Manchuria and Shanghai have shown that their army and navy are as up-to-date as any on earth; and the Japanese cities have about as much to show in the way of modern equipment as any cities in Europe and America.

Just the same, some of the old customs evidently die hard.

A news photograph appeared the other day showing Japanese police on guard outside the residence of the late Premier Inukai just after his recent assassination. They looked precisely like any policemen—except that each one carried, along with his weapons, a typical, lawn-festival Japanese lantern!

To most of us, Japanese lanterns are just things you hang up at garden parties. But apparently they're still regulation equipment for the ultra modern and efficient Tokio police force.

A New Angle on An Old Joke

ONE of the oldest jokes in America is the one that tells how the poor candidate for congress has to go about his district kissing the babies of his prospective constituents. And it has always been taken for granted that this was very hard on the candidate.

But the other side of the picture came to light the other day, in a little dispatch from a North Carolina town. There, it seems, several babies have come down with such afflictions as chicken pox and plain, old-fashioned itch—and their parents blame it on the politicians, saying that the children were all right until they got kissed by campaigning candidates.

All of which gives one pause. The baby-kissing custom is a bit hard on the candidates, undoubtedly; but did you ever stop to think what a tough break it is for the babies?

SO THEY SAY!

The idea that we ought to Americanize ourselves has not done us any good.—Dr. Adam Stegerwald, German labor minister.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: You'll probably hear things about my holidaying in Bermuda but the fact is that I had no idea that he was going on the same boat or that he was going!...At any rate I didn't see him after we docked, so dismiss any parlor talk you may hear and oblige a girl whose reputation has always been spotless...Well, nearly always, anyhow...Of course I'm glad you are back for now there are headaches to have again, and things to do and hours to keep. It was maddening doing nothing all that time, so thanks for youknowhat...I see by the gazettes that Mr. Schlidkraut and that Mary McKay lass were telescoped in the old country, after all...You owe numerous bills... Your car will arrive Satdee...Please toss an orchid at J. Wallingford, who served E. Cantor on the air, and now is announcing for H. Richman...He is trying to be different He says it this way: 'With the consent of the owners of the copyright"...And a posey to P. Crosby for observing that what the country needs most to stifle the depression is a 4 per cent tax and 40 per cent beer!

Look out for Eddie Foy, Jr., who is having himself a time giving friends golf balls...When you hit them a wallop with a driver they break into bits...A new gag imported from Yurrup and made of soap...Mrs. J. Osterman, whose husband is also doing a column for "V" has never been so thin—which gives you an idea how much salary he is getting...I overheard a couple of chaps discussing the Seabury Walker investigation and one of them mercilessly observed: "Norman Thomas, the Socialist star, must be getting a mess of ammunition"...Mary McCall, Junior's mother doesn't think Mary should play with the Warner Brothers any more "because they're anticipating a 'Blessed Event' without benefit of Cagney"...Before I forget: Here's the Smart Alec Cocktail—one part cognac, one part chartreuse, one part cointreau, dashes of bitters to dull the burn. Don't waste ice on it!

Since you've been absent Doris Duke, Who Has All That Money, has been taken up by the Broadway Brethren...A democratic, quiet and unpretentious person—in fact one of the dandier, you might say, unmarried catches...Anna Sten she was imported from the Russian peasantry by Mr. Goldwyn, has already conquered enough of the American tongue to pass, now that Hollywood has beckoned...They tell me that while Miss Garbo and Miss Dietrich and the other seductive sereen sirens have to drape their torsos in enchanting silks and satins to wilt the male patronage —that this Miss Sten can promote as much "stimulation value" (It to you) without going to all that trouble...Anna, they would have you believe, is just as much of an Ohmygoddess draped merely in calico...We shall see.

Helen Meaney, Olympic champ, posed 8 times for Jose Camarero de Mariborro, famous Argentine painter...The painting nearing completion has been thefted from the dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Rainey, 151 E. 83...Bluecoats from the E. 67th St. Station are investigating...Zelma O'Neil's sister, Bernice, will tell it to a Chicago judge today...There's a heart throb in the fix of Charlotte Fixel of the Erlanger case, who lost that decision as well as one with her landlord at 37 W. 72 the other day... Of the letters I liked P. Sweinhart's in which he offered Walter Kingsley's phrase: "What are friends for—if not to be used?"

I see that the quip which Arthur Caesar first pulled in a Palace Theater box in 1924, bobbed up again in the Nyauker, I mean the one about the conceited lad who when asked if he had an Encyclopedia at his home replied: "No but what is it you wish to know?"

Why not repeat this nifties of that time yourself or are you sensitive about people whose memories are too good?...You might inquire in the caustic delivery, that is, why Boris Petroff, who staged two shows in a week for the Paramount houses, didn't even rate a mention in the billing or the adverts...Seems a shame...The sour breaks come in bunches for some guys but there ought to be a statute prohibiting them from happening to the capables...His clever wife, by the way, may be found in the chorus of these shows under the name of Dorothea Berke...Oh, I almost forgot...Master Jessel, who complained so long and lustily about your poking remarks at him, lost no time in reprisal. He said: "He can't be so sick. The flags aren't out!"

Among other things one hears in a day is that they have perfected a treatment for ciggies—so that the butt goes out the moment it is thrown away. No smouldering or anything, fancy that. D. Murray's smile is good, to-wit: Difficult as finding a U. S. mail truck driver with an inferiority complex. If the Russian bug bites many more, newsoffices will be empty this summer. No fewer than 16 gentlemen of the press are getting passports, the dopes...In case any one tries to stump you about the exact address of the New York Public Library at 42nd St. and 5th Ave., tell them it is 476 Fifth...Ain't I the one, though?...Here's something I'm certain will make you titter—Frances Bowden, the little gel "discovered" by Borrah Minevitch as a radio find because of her contagious hick drawl, and who always says she lives in a Mid-West town "five miles by dust" (meaning a dirt road) is not a rube at all..., She's a clever actress and a big city gal from Burmingham, Alabamy...She fooled all of you, at any rate, by heck.

La Livingstone, now on the Pacific shores, is in the throes of another sensational piot—This time she intends parenting an extravagantly appointed yacht—to accommodate about a dozen men (who spend) and their ladies...The big idea is keep the boat going back and forth across the big Pond until the fares are fed up—her slogan being "Anything Goes"...G. Pihodna called to say that the colleges will add a little class to the breadlines this summer and Fred Allen observes that many of the Park Avenue apartment hotels, sensing a moratorium on business, are putting small tables in front so that the doormen may play solitaire...

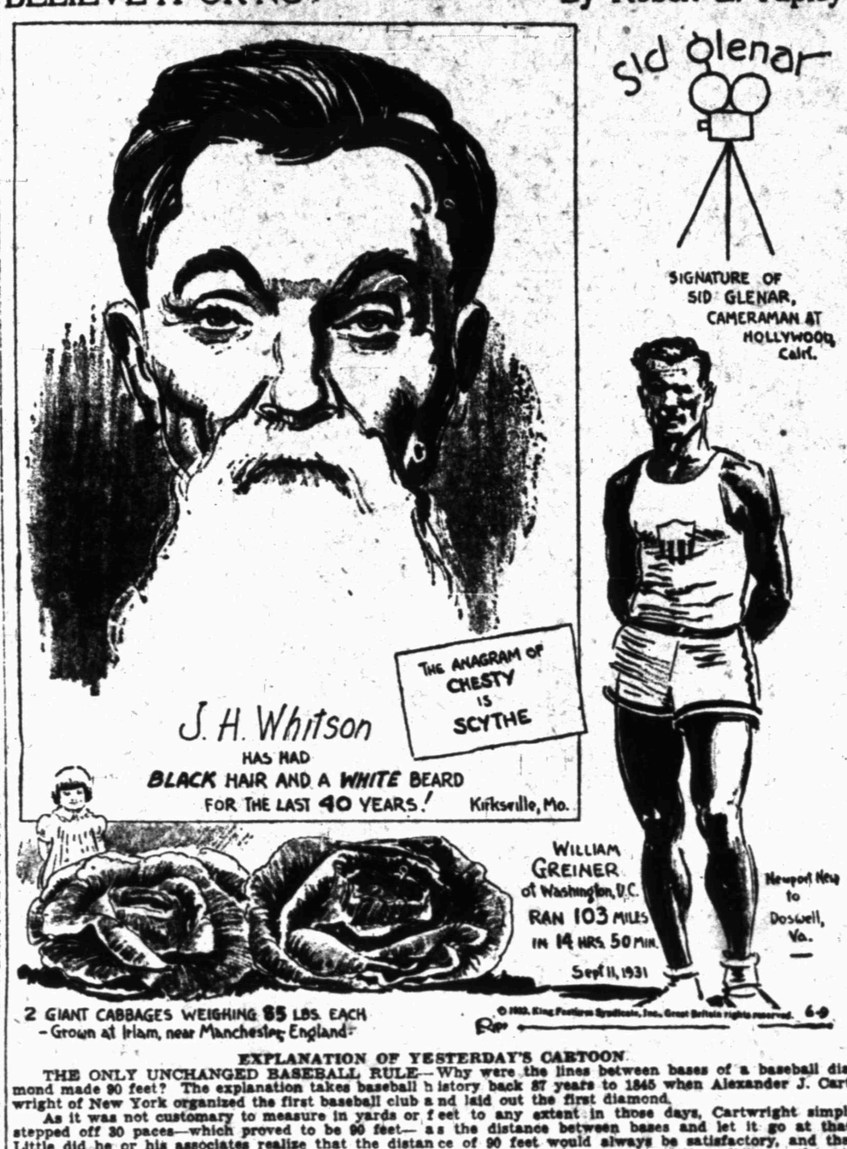

...You may even matters by remarking as did J. Chapman, that the Royale, like all Chanin Theaters, is most difficult to get out of—the only thing that appears to get out quickly is a play...Robert Reud, better known about town as Garbo's Man Friday, departs for the old country about the 5th of June. Could there be any connection with his trip and Greta's?... A better tip is that the recently melted Bror Dahlberg, the celotex magnate, is the "mysterious Chicagoan" so often mentioned by La Negri.—Your Girl Friday.

Incidentally

On the way to the Pacific shores Mr. and Mrs. Barthelmess swapped chatter with us and Mr. B. said among other things that he could not for the life of him understand why two people couldn't "stay married."

Mr. Barthelmess' ex-wife was Mary Hay.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ONLY UNCHANGED BASEBALL RULE—Why were the lines between bases of a baseball diamond made 90 feet? The explanation takes baseball history back 87 years to 1845 when Alexander J. Cartwright of New York organized the first baseball club and laid out the first diamond.

As it was not customary to measure in yards or feet to any extent in those days, Cartwright simply stepped off 30 paces—which proved to be 90 feet— as the distance between bases and let it go at that. Little did he or his associates realize that the distance of 90 feet would always be satisfactory, and that the distance so carelessly stepped off would remain unchanged for 87 years. Any other distance than 90 feet would have ruined the game and baseball would be unheard of today.

THE BILLION-YEAR-OLD TREE—In 1869 a disastrous flood raged in the vicinity of Gilboa, N. Y. The waters carried away some of the upper rock strata near the village, exposing what seemed like the realization of a paleobotanist's most extravagant dream.

Deep in the bed rock was found imbedded an entire petrified forest. The forest had flourished in the Upper Devonian era lying back approximately 1,000,000,000 years. When these trees sank out of sight, the greater part of what is now the state of New York was still the bottom of a vast inland sea. The tree fossils were very ingeniously restored. The giant Lepidodendron stands today in the New York State Museum exactly as it had stood in the primeval forest approximately 9,995,000 centuries before Adam.

Murder Defendant Admits Robbery

TEXARKANA, Texas, June 8. (AP)—John G. Harris, on trial for the alleged murder of Ed Royal, was recalled to the witness stand today by District Attorney E. L. Lincoln and was questioned concerning a pocketbook in the slain traveler's pocket.

Harris admitted taking the pocketbook from Royal's coat pocket. Earlier in the trial state witnesses had told of finding $19.31 in this pocket, the only one that had not been turned out. The state was trying to establish a robbery motive.

Yesterday Harris, who had ridden from California to Texas with Royal, confessed in court he had beaten the elderly man to death with a tire pump and jack the night of March 12.

Harris said he was "hysterically afraid" when he awoke in a car parked on the highway near Bassett and found Royal near him.

Three Texarkana physicians who examined the defendant in connection with a sanity hearing in April, testified today they had found him to be sane.

Pontiff and Mussolini To Receive Flier

ROME, June 8. (US)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, American transatlantic flier, came as a plane passenger to Rome today and tomorrow she will be granted an audience by Pope Pius XI and received by Premier Mussolini.

Gen. Italo Balbo, minister for air, American Ambassador John Work Garrett and Mrs. Garrett were waiting at the airport when the tri-motored plane that brought Mrs. Putnam from Milan landed at 3:05 p. m. Cheering hundreds ran after her automobile as she drove to a hotel.

Mrs. Putnam arrived at Milan on the Paris express. There she was picked up by the plane piloted by Liberati Mencarelli, one of Italy's aces.

Tonight the airwoman was guest of honor at a banquet given by General Balbo. Sixty prominent persons attended.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, June 8.—It is not often that Senator Ellison Smith of South Carolina holds out the transcript of his remarks for revision before publication in the Congressional Record.

ELLISON D. SMITH

Yet when he first took issue with the tax-tariff bloc's moves in the revenue bill debate, the veteran lawmaker resorted to that process for giving second thoughts a chance.

But if the speech as finally published weakened in any way the groans of anguish he uttered in its original delivery, it was not discernible. If anything, he must have pepped it up.

For Senator Smith claims for himself a special record of anti-tariff regularity.

"Thank God, I have one thing to my credit," the senator said. "I voted against every schedule of that miserable thing (the Smoot-Hawley tariff act) and then voted against the whole bill.

"I had the unique distinction of being the one genuine, simon-pure, unreconstructed and unterrified Democrat in this building."

Real Unanimity

For folk who have the notion that senators and house members are having any easy time of it deciding how to vote on tax proposals, here is a sample contributed by Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York.

"One flood of letters came to my office last week," he said. "They were all from Yonkers, N. Y.; the envelopes were all typewritten on the same machine, and the letter itself was a stereotyped letter, each letter signed by an employe of that particular concern.

"There were about 1,200 letters, all demanding balancing of the budget. They made, too, certain suggestions which would seem to me to be a strong intimation that a sales tax would permit that particular concern to be released from the burdens of an increased corporation tax or any other 'legislation that will overtax the corporation.' Following up those letters came personal letters from various of those employes disclaiming any voluntary act on their part in the signing of the letters."

Senator Smith was much impressed with the Copeland sample, sniffing a definite balance-the-budget propaganda in the making.

He Senses "Camouflage"

"I have been in the senate 23 years and I never heard before about balancing a budget," he said. "I sometimes think it is a camouflage for something else.

"It would be interesting to get up a list of proposed excise taxes, then take the letters urging a balanced budget but voicing opposition to any tax on articles in which the writers were interested.

"If the taxes complained of were eliminated we would get no revenue at all from the bill."

Electric Lamp Therapy

Within recent years we have become familiar with the value of sunlight for preventing rickets and improving the calcium metabolism in the body. Many people, however, do not know that it is possible to artificially produce by means of electricity all of the various rays found in sunlight. In many respects the artificial rays in the hands of a good physiotherapist are superior to the rays of the sun. Not only may the intensity of the power of the rays be regulated, but it is possible to leave out some of the rays, normally found in the sun, and which might be undesirable in some conditions. Man's ingenuity has also made it possible to manufacture a number of therapeutic rays which are not to be found in natural sunlight.

High Candle Power Lamps

The simplest form of artificial therapeutic lamp is really an enlargement of the ordinary electric light bulb so that as much as from three to five thousand candle power may be produced from one globe. This lamp is used mainly to produce a relaxation in the muscles under the skin and to bring a larger supply of blood to the part treated. A variation of the same type of light is where many small bulbs are used in place of one or two large ones. We frequently find two dozen or more small lamps employed in this way in electric light cabinets where they are very effective for producing a copious perspiration with less feeling of exhaustion than occurs in other methods.

Ultra-Violet

Other types of lamps produce the actinic or ultra violet light which is similar to the chemical rays in sunshine. These rays will not pass through glass and, therefore, the ultra violet light generators have to be specially constructed without glass so that the rays will either pass directly to the patient without a filter or pass through a filter made of fused quarts. The ultra violet light generators are of two kinds: one makes use of an electric arc formed between two carbons of special composition, and the other forms the ray by passing a current of electricity through a mercury vapor contained in a fused quarts bulb. This ultra violet or actinic light is the one which is used to manufacture vitamin D in foods and it will have a similar action in the body if the light reaches enough of the skin surface. This ray may also be concentrated and used locally to burn off skin blemishes or to treat infected regions. One action of the ray is to tan the skin, and, if used too long at one time or in too concentrated an amount, it will burn the part of the body treated. This ray curiously enough does not feel warm when applied and a half an hour or more may pass before the skin reddens and the burn is noticed. Some of the oxygen in the air through which ultra violet rays pass is changed to ozone so that it smells something like the air following an electric storm.

Infra-Red

Another type of lamp commonly employed is designed to produce a large amount of infra-red ray which is a heat ray and in its purest state quite invisible. This heat ray has a greater penetrating power in the body than do most of the common rays and is used for relieving pain and congestion deep in the body. Ordinary electric heaters produce this ray to some extent but there are special lamps for the doctor's office which will produce this ray with other rays strained out so that it can be more effectively controlled.

These are only some of the ways in which electricity may be used to produce rays for therapeutic purposes. Electricity has many other and even more complicated uses which I will tell about in some future articles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Uses Special Diet, But for What?

Question—I. Q. asks: "Do you know what kind of a disease one has who cannot eat anything sweet, anything sour, anything fried or cucumbers, radishes, or fruit of any kind? Yet, I am supposed to eat often, about every two hours, and drink two or more quarts of water a day besides two or three quarts of milk."

Answer: It is hard to make head or tail of the diet you are on, and, of course, impossible for me to determine what disease it was intended for. If you will get the name of your disease from your doctor and write me again, I may be able to send you some helpful dietetic suggestions.

Pneumonia

Question—D. S. writes: "I have recently had my second attack of pneumonia, and I would be very grateful for a list of precautions to prevent another. Do you advise a flannel pad on the chest? I am taking one teaspoonful of olive oil every morning. Do you think I will receive any benefit from it?"

Answer: An attack of pneumonia often leaves on especially susceptible to a future attack. I can only suggest that you endeavor to build your general health by proper dieting and exercising. Diathermy treatments often prove beneficial. I do not believe the olive oil is of any special benefit. Keeping the chest warm is undoubtedly beneficial. A good plan is to protect the upper back by sewing a layer of wool flannel to the underclothes.

Walker Is Champ

In a golf match recently in Fort Worth, a player removed some object from in front of the ball, and his opponent protested the hole.

Amos Melton, golf writer of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, remembered that a similar incident had occurred in last year's Greenbelt Golf association tournament at Clarendon, when Ira Merchant of Clarendon lost a hole to City Walker after the latter's protest.

Melton wanted to get the thing cleared up, so he announced in his column that he had asked the rules committee of the U. S. G. A. for a decision.

This caught the eye of Sam Braswell, Clarendon sports editor, who, it happened, had himself asked the U. S. G. A. for a ruling on the same question last July. The ruling stated a golfer should not be penalized for removing a pasteboard carton (the impediment Merchant heaved away) from in front of his ball. The ruling said "the carton is not a loose impediment of the character contemplated by rule 12 but more in the nature of an obstruction which under rule 11 may be removed whether or not within a club's length of the ball."

Well, Sam sent this decision to Amos in Fort Worth, who gave it wide publicity. Then a week later Amos received his answer from the rules committee. It was written by John G. Jackson, chairman of the U. S. G. A. rules committee, and said substantially the same thing the other ruling did, i. e., that such a pasteboard box is not a "loose impediment" and may be removed without penalty.

All of which is very confusing. But this much is certain. City Walker of Quanah is the present title-holder in the Greenbelt Golf association, and will defend that title in the 1932 tournament starting next Monday at Electra.

Rufus S. Greene of Memphis, president of the association, said in a recent letter that immediately after last year's tournament "the directors of the Greenbelt association passed upon the matter and the decision was final. We took the stand that the professional that we had employed to handle the tournament was the final court of appeals, and even though some of the directors did not agree with this decision, possibly, that we would be governed by same, and the trophy was awarded to L. S. Walker, and the matter closed."

As we see it, the Clarendon protest, the ruling of the professional, who happened to be Dick Grout of Fort Worth, and the fact that his ruling was later contradicted by the U. S. G. A., all constitute an unfortunate chapter in the history of Northwest Texas golf, for which no one person is responsible.

You could say that Grout should have known his rules better. But on the other hand, the rules of golf are about as poorly phrased as the baseball rules—capable of a thousand and one interpretations, and how in thunder can one expect to get perfect decisions from one mere man, when a high and mighty committee of the national association may with one stroke reverse his decisions.

There was only one thing for the Greenbelt officers to do—that was to give their professional the assignment of being the last court of appeals. Nine times out of 10 a good professional will settle matters to the satisfaction of every one, including the national rules committee. It so happened Grout skipped the first nine times and landed in the lap of a contradiction.

To me personally all this stuff about "loose impediments" and "obstructions" is about as clear as so much mud. The committee held, for instance, that a pasteboard carton is not a "loose impediment." How anything can be as loose as a cigaret carton blowing in the wind, and still be an impediment, is beyond my powers of diagnosis. More comical than ever, however, is the ruling that while it is not a "loose impediment" it is an "obstruction!"

Such stuff is about as intelligent as the whereases and hereinbefores of an act of congress. What this country needs is more good clean sport and less rules, and no rules committee whatever. And until such a condition obtains, which it probably won't, we need the wise direction of men such as the directors of the Greenbelt association. We must have men able to lead us out of the wilderness of rules.

Incidentally, the Greenbelt association is going to stage a hot tournament this year, as it always has. Officials predict a starting field of 125 or more. There will be team play competition this year, an added feature. Golfers from Clarendon, Shamrock, Memphis, Childress, Quanah, Vernon, Electra, Crowell, and Frederick, Okla., will participate.

Yes and No Dept.

Jack Haddock of Hastings, Okla., writes:

"In Sunday's game a fly ball knocked to a fielder hit in his glove and bounced into his arms but did not touch the ground. Was the batter out or safe?

The batter should have been called out.

Pack Seeks Games With Amarillo

Negotiations are under way with the Amarillo High school for football games in 1932 and 1933 with the Wichita Falls Coyotes, Supt. H. D. Fillers said Wednesday. A contract has been forwarded to Amarillo officials and a reply is expected daily.

The contract provides for the first game to be played in Wichita Falls on Armistice day, Friday, Nov. 11, this year, with the return game to be played at Amarillo in October, 1933. Terms of the contract were not made public.

The Golden Sandies of Amarillo and the Coyotes fought numerous gridiron battles in the days of the old interscholastic league district No. 1, which was discontinued in 1931, placing the schools in different divisions.

PRO WIELDS MEAN PUTTER

American Entrant Cards 70 In First Round

SANDWICH, England, June 8. (US)—Gene Sarazen, taking his courage and his putter in two strong hands, laid down a line of breath-taking putts today on the Prince's championship course to snatch the lead in the first round of the British open golf tourney with a par-shattering 70.

Gene, who gives lessons at Fresh Meadow, New York, was golf instructor to a field of 109 professionals and amateurs who survived the stiff qualifying rounds. He brushed aside the par-breaking scores that were hung up before he went out, and came back four strokes under regulation figures with 35-35—70.

His brilliantly shot round deserved to lead, and was the most colorful item in an otherwise featureless day. Percy Alliss, veteran British professional, had a chance to get under Gene with a 69, but he went limp on the final two holes and ended with a 71.

Bracketted with Alliss and two other Britons is MacDonald Smith, another of the four American pros who got under the wire yesterday. Mac shot a sound 71, the same figures turned in by W. H. Davies and Charles A. Whitcombe, who for a time were in a knot for the lead.

It was the stand-out golfers who asserted their prowess today, for most of the field hangs around 74 and 75. Sixty-eight players shot 77s, which means that probably most of those who shot 154 for the first 36 holes in the 72-hole championship will survive the cut which narrows the field for the final 36.

Down in the field are Tommy Armour, defending titlist from Detroit, and Walter Pursey, of Seattle. Armour carded 38-37—75 while Pursey was a stroke behind with 38-38—76. The two American amateurs who got away today may have trouble remaining in the running tomorrow. They are Robert Sweeney and Douglas Grant, who live in England. Sweeney shot a 78, and Grant an 82.

Armour and Pursey both found putting difficulties today, but despite their present arrears they will still be threats after tomorrow if their touch on the carpet returns.

Sarazen provided the day's sensation. He attracted the largest gallery, and their four-mile tramp around Sandwich's historic layout was amply rewarded. Going out, Gene's one blemish was a three-putted green on the eighth.

CARDS 15, BRAVES 8

BOSTON, June 8. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today came out of their batting slump and captured the series opener by pounding four Boston pitchers for 20 hits and a 15-8 victory in a weird game that lasted almost three hours.

The defeat pushed the Braves into second place in the league standing, the Cubs regaining the lead with a 14-inning victory over Brooklyn.

The world champions tied the score in the third and in the weird fifth session blasted four Boston pitchers for seven more tallies. They added to their lead in each of the last three frames.

The Cardinals used three hurlers, Jim Lindsey getting credit for the victory. Al Stout, however, was the most effective of the trio. Score:

114 OF 'EM

IN EVERY 6½ OZ. BOTTLE OF SPARKLING DR. PEPPER

Food is "fuel" for the human machine. It produces energy. Energy is measured in units called C-A-L-O-R-I-E-S. Every bottle of Dr. Pepper contains 114 of these calories. We call them "Jack Sprites" because they're such happy, snappy little helpers to hungry human beings. Quick! like a flash, they rush right into the blood: rebuild wasted cells; renew tired muscles; refresh fagged nerves and brains.

Scientists say we N-E-E-D such emergency rations and advise sweet, fruit-juice drinks. Dr. Pepper is just such a neat, sweet "snack"; ideal at 10, 2 and 4. Sugar for energy. Fruit juice for tart, acid taste. Herbs and extracts for tonic tang. Charged-water for zest and zip. At the first, faint feeling of fatigue, go drink a bite to eat, No harm in it. Just nourishment, happiness . . . and health.

ACKNOWLEDGING THE TRUTH

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

THE Gillette Safety Razor Company feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

Soon after this was done, we found that, although the great majority was pleased, some users complained quality was not up to standard.

We learned why. Our equipment had not been equal to the task of producing millions of blades at high speed without a certain variation in quality that affected a small portion of our output. As a result some blades that left the factory were not as good as you had a right to expect. Immediately we directed our principal effort toward the achievement of uniformity. Everything within our power was done to end variation. More than this—impossible as it seemed of accomplishment at the time—we set out to develop or find a better production process, having as a major requirement the elimination of varying quality.

We discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality.

We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment.

Now we announce today's Gillette blades, made by the new management. The usual superlatives have no place in this sincere statement of ours, so we will let the quality of the blades speak for itself. The green Gillette package remains unchanged, but the blades are new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

You can try today's Gillette blades without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are superior, return the package and your dealer will refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of these Gillette blades, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package. Cellophane wrapped.

GEHRIG, RUTH SWAT HOMERS

Lefty Gomez Allows Only Five Hits

DETROIT, June 8. (AP)—The Yankees' big three, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Vernon Gomez, got together today to take a close game from the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4.

Gomez was in trouble only through wildness. He allowed five hits and fanned 13 but gave nine walks. Billy Rogell hit a homer in the fifth after two men had walked to keep Detroit in the running. The Indians' hopes of defeating Grove after eight straight setbacks in the last two years rose in the seventh when Porter hit a home run but Grove tied the score at 1-1 when he caught Harder's first pitch for a hard clout over the right field screen in the eighth.

DON JUAN TO FIGHT BADMAN

Fast Mat Bout Promised This Week

By MACK TURNER

Don Juan Humberto, the popular Mexican sheik, will be back in Wichita Falls Friday night with his suave, winning ways, to take on Dude Chick, the Toledo Badman in the main event of Whitey Govro's weekly necking entertainment. The return of the popular Mexican will mark his first appearance here since his hectic battle with Billy Edwards in which he won the match from the famous Kaysee headlocker on a foul.

Dude Chick is still unsatisfied with his return battle last week with Cyclone Fox, but hopes to add much glory to himself this week by stopping Humberto. The meeting of the two most successful wrestlers to ever appear here has been very much in demand by the fans and a large turnout is expected.

Until stopped by Cyclone Fox, Chick had been meeting and beating the best that could be brought into the local arena while Humberto was following the same habit. The meeting to decide the best man of the two was signed for this week at the first chance Promotor Govro had to sign such a battle.

An Arkansas automobile owner bought his city license tag at Little Rock with 500 pennies.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 8. (AP)—An early decline in cotton was followed by partial recoveries but prices eased again in the later trading under a renewal of liquidation and scattered selling promoted by the favorable average of weather and crop advices and the easy ruling of the stock market.

After selling off to 5.31 at the start, October rallied to 5.37 but broke to 5.27 in the last hour and closed at the lowest, with the general market barely steady at net declines of 11 to 13 points.

Just before the close, selling became more active, as if influenced by the continued weakness of the stock market. July broke to 5.02 or within 3 points of last week's low record, while December sold off to 5.41 and closing quotations were within a point of the lowest.

The weekly report of the weather bureau said the week in general was favorable for cotton except for dryness in some localities of the northeastern belt while warmer nights would have been helpful in a few sections especially in the southeast.

Liverpool cables reported Bombay buying and trade calling in that market. Exports today 17,488 making 8,127,798 so far this season. Port Stocks 3,731,475.

Futures closed barely steady 11-13 lower. Spot quiet; middling, 5.10.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 8. (AP)—Cotton was rather sluggish and erratic today with prices showing a downward tendency, and closing at net declines for the day of 10 to 11 points.

The market eased off on a very favorable weekly weather and crop summary and on a decline in wheat and stocks and made new lows for the day at 5.04 for July, 5.26 for October and 5.41 for December or 9 to 10 points under the highs.

Close was at the bottom with the three active months showing net declines for the day of 10 to 11 points.

Spot middling at New Orleans was quoted at 5.04 a new low for the season and the lowest price in 35 years.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 4 to 5 penny points down.

Port receipts 4,482, for week 19,722, for season 9,745,530, last season 8,856,240. Exports 16,114, for week 83,116, for season 7,961,449, last season 3,180,370. CHICAGO, June 8. (AP)—Cotton was under pressure and sold at the bottom for the day. Final prices on the board of trade being 9 to 15 points net lower. Opening prices were 1 to 8 points down while cables were better than due and sterling slightly stronger. Early prices were made and near the low record since 1898. Scattered showers fell at various points, but the belt was mostly clear and warm. The government weekly weather report was generally favorable. Stocks and wheat were lower and helped to depress cotton.

Stocks Continue To Slump With Bonds Following In Light Dips

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 8. (US)—Stocks continued to slump today and their weakness finally reached into the bond list. Losses in bonds, however, were moderate on the average.

Again it was evident that sentiment had received a shock by the failure of the stock list to celebrate passage of the tax bill.

Apparently, a good many speculators were looking to a brisk advance to follow the budget-balancing attempt. Sober realization that the tax bill in its present form may fall short of the actual needs of the budget has done much to offset its good results. The more thoughtful people right along have realized that the initial benefits of budget-balancing would accrue mainly to bonds and in this respect their anticipations are being realized.

Formation of the bankers' group in bonds, even if it represents mainly an attempt to overcome distress situations as they may develop, represented genuine expression of the bankers' appreciation of the Washington determination toward a sane financial program.

The "march on Washington" by veterans undoubtedly has contributed to some nervousness in financial quarters, and the attempts to put through large-scale governmental expenditures also is looked upon unfavorably by the financial interests.

In the face of all such developments, coupled with the routine industrial news of the day, the bond list continues to perform reasonably encouragingly. The heavy price slash announced by the Auburn Automobile company confirmed previous opinion concerning vicious competition in this industry. Further price-cutting is likely.

Wheat broke under 50 cents, adding to the disappointment. Powerful interests had honestly believed that this commodity might furnish leadership and its recent setback is decidedly discouraging. However, there are some well-informed people who believe that wheat is reflecting mainly a technical position within the market. Then, too, considerable significance is attached to the fact that corn prices have become virtually adjusted to world levels.

In stocks, it was quite obvious that liquidation still was in process. With issues such as American Telephone breaking to new low prices, it was difficult to stir up bullish sentiment. The decline was general, although Auburn, in keeping with its frequent experience, moved against the trend, but this seemingly reflected a revival of group activity.

Executive switches in the Insull companies was not at all to the liking of the market, which fears that far-reaching changes in dividend policies among those companies still in the dividend list may result.

The most disturbing individual situation, however, was the continued severe weakness in the Brooklyn-Manhattan-Transit common and preferred stocks. The common closed at 11¾, off 3¾ points net, while the preferred closed at 32, down 9⅝.

Although it is virtually a certainty that this company's August financing will be taken care of, the continued silence on the part of the bankers with respect to these arrangements has induced a most deplorable state of mind. There has been encouraged, by reason of the tremendous depreciation in the B. M. T. stocks, a veritable flood of rumors, many of ugly character. This in turn has led to a revival of distrust not only in the B. M. T. official earnings figures and balance sheet, but has spread into other securities as well. Just at a time when investors' faith was being restored, this new doubt threatens to undo much of the constructive work recently accomplished.

Perhaps no other single incident of the entire bear market—that is, concerning an individual company—has so unsettled investors' nerves as the B. M. T. affair. This company has been reporting earnings equal to more than three times the $6 preferred dividend, and well over $6 a share earnings on the common stock.

Yet, the bankers and the company executives thus far have refused absolutely to make any official statement with respect to the renewal of the $13,500,000 loan maturing this August.

It was reported that a stockholders' protective committee may be organized in the B. M. T. matter, but marketwise the whole affair is to be greatly deplored. It breeds suspicion anew and incites many disturbing rumors. All because of the reticence of a group of bankers and company managers.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 8. (AP)—Smashing downward below 50 cents a bushel for the new 1932 crop, wheat today went under any prices ever reached here excepting only last October.

Purchase power dwindled to almost the vanishing point, especially demand that usually comes from speculators.

Wheat in Chicago closed nervous, ⅞@1⅛c under yesterday's finish, corn ¼@½c down, oats at ⅛c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions varying from 12 cents setback to a rise of two cents.

July delivery of wheat here sold as low as 49⅝ cents, whereas Canadian wheat, allowing for difference of currency, was about 47 cents. On the downward sweep of the Chicago market, prices went to more than 10 cents under last week's top, and many holders were forced to quit as a result of automatic execution of stop loss orders to sell. Bearish trade developments as Washington were apparently a pronounced factor among the many that deterred new buyers.

Advices were current telling of good prospects for the United States spring crop. Domestic winter wheat too was officially reported as showing improvement, western Kansas in particular. Houses usually identified with farm board interests were conspicuous on the selling side.

Corn and oats showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, despite weakness of wheat.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 48¾, 48⅞c, 51@51⅛c; Sept. 51@51⅛c, 53⅜@53⅛c; Dec. 53⅞@54⅛c. Corn July 28⅞@28⅛c, 29c; Sept. 30⅝c, 31⅛c; Dec. 31⅞c, 32⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, June 8. (US)—Canadian wheat prices are now on a level where other exporting countries offer little competition and it is expected that country will secure the bulk of the business. Broomhall says the quality of Mantobas is good and English millers are expected to continue using it in large quantities until the new European crops become available in August.

During the month of May Canada exported 17,698,000 bushels of wheat and clearances during the present month are expected to be larger. The season's total, however, is still considerably under that of a year ago.

New crop conditions in Europe are generally favorable, with the exception of the large wheat producing section of the Ukraine in Russia, cables report.

With Chicago prices around two cents under Buenos Aires quotations, there are intimations of export demand for corn. Sales for shipment have shown some increase, presumably on purchases by exporters.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

G. H.—Besides $500 for emergencies, I have $4,000 which I should like to invest. I am middle-aged, in poor health, have one dependent, and am out of employment. Therefore, I need the best return possible.

Answer—Because of the unfortunate position in which you find yourself, and the fact that you may not be able to obtain employment readily because of unsettled economic conditions, the writer thinks the best place for your money, for the time being, is in the savings bank. Do not consider buying securities until you face more favorable circumstances.

C. O. N.—Do you consider Underwood Elliott Fisher common stock attractive at present prices?

Answer—Earnings of Underwood Elliott Fisher have been sharply curtailed; net earnings for the first quarter of 1932 equaled less than one cent per share common, against 94 cents in like 1931 period. This period is normally the most profitable in the company's year. About 33 per cent of total business is represented by foreign sales; profits from which will probably continue to be limited by the new British tariff and exchange conditions. Cash position was strong at close of 1931, although less impressive than a year earlier. Four successive dividend reductions have been made from the $5 rate prevailing in the first half of last year to the present $1 rate. Maintenance of the $1 rate is not assured and the stock is considered unattractive.

C. S. E.—What is your opinion of Sears Roebuck continuing the present $2.50 dividend the balance of this year?

Answer—Sears Roebuck has been selling to yield around 14 per cent which is probably due to uncertainty over dividend action to be taken early in July. If conditions affecting general business, especially farm purchasing power, are not more favorably defined than at present, a downward revision of the established $2.50 rate should be expected, despite the company's strong financial condition. Thus far, sales reports have indicated no interruption of the declining trend of mail order and retail store business. Sales of $78,801,700 in the 16 weeks ended April 23, last, were 20.2 per cent less than in the same period last year. As an exception to the low rate of the company's total business, as well as to the experience of machinery companies generally, orders received by the farm implement division for light planting and tilling tools are at record levels. Further development of this type of business affords interesting possibilities, but immediate earnings will be limited by the low prices and modest profit margins on the items now offered. Important additions to the retail store organization are expected.

Broadcast Station Being Constructed On Mexican Border

EAGLE PASS, Texas, June 8. (AP)—Construction work was begun today on a 75,000 watt radio station in Mexico nine miles northwest of Rio Grande from the recently completed hydro-electric plant in Maverick county. Its call letters will be XEPN.

C. M. Bres of Piedras Negras, and W. E. Branch, radio engineer, are chief stockholders in the company in back of the project.

Plans call for completion of the station by Sept. 15.

Fifty workmen were busy today clearing a 10-acre tract for the plant. It will be necessary to build a private road to the station from Piedras Negras.

The station will have two studios, one in the casino at Piedras Negras and the other at the Yolanda hotel in Eagle Pass.

A permit has been granted for the station to operate on a frequency of 885 kilocycles.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

By FRANK BUCK with EDWARD ANTHONY

Dead animals mean nothing to Frank Buck—he brings 'em back alive! He hunts them barehanded; with snare and coil; in jungle, and mountainfastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but always he brings 'em back alive. Many of his living trophies can be seen today in the New York Zoological park, in the Lincoln park zoo in Chicago, in municipal collections all over America, in circuses throughout the world. He has crossed the Pacific 40 times, encircled the world five times, knocked out an orang-utan in fair fight, walked the width of Borneo, and delivered to the city of Dallas one complete zoo.

Buck has just obtained, in Singapore, the largest orang-utan ever captured. He asks the natives how they accomplished the capture. Buck has just witnessed a battle between a tiger and a buffalo. Buck's friend, Wendell, who works for a rich Indian maharajah, invites him to witness a cruel performance staged for the potentate's amusement. A tiger's claws have been pulled out.

For 18 exciting years, Frank Buck has been gathering live animals, reptiles and birds for American zoos, circuses, and dealers. He hunts them barehanded in jungle and mountain-fastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but he always brings 'em back alive.

He now tells about a 16,000-mile journey into the interior of Nepal to capture, at the order of Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park, a great armor-plated, single-horned Indian rhino—rare as the unicorn of fable. He obtains help from General Shum Share, a nephew of the Maharajah of Nepal. Buck's plans are frustrated by the Ganges river which is on a rampage. He starts back for Singapore. Later he returns to collect the rare rhinos the Maharajah has captured for him. The most difficult part is transporting them to the rail head in India.

CHAPTER XII

It was a great sight to see our odd caravan coming down through the jungle. The two huge crates were loaded on big bullock carts drawn by four water buffaloes each. Alongside marched 40 or 50 Gurkha soldiers to steady the load and help push the carts out of mud holes, ruts, etc., while directly back of the carts came three elephants, each carrying a huge load of fodder for the animals. This consisted of green leaves of the jack fruit trees which were cut before we left the rhino camp and piled about eight feet high on top of each elephant. Following the elephants were a couple of bullock carts carrying our supplies, and one of the little Nepalese gharries in which Lal and Johereim were riding. The major and I were mounted on ponies and we acted as grand marshals for the parade, riding up and down the line, keeping everything in order.

By now the major was pretty friendly. I told him he looked every inch a general on his pony. God help any of Nepal's enemies that dared tamper with so fine a figure of a man, I added. The major loved it. In point of fact he had less figure than the rhinos we were transporting; but flattery was his weakness and I played to it. It was all in the game.

After three days of hard going we reached Bilgange and a temporary camp was made. I went on into Raxaul with Lal, had a good rest at the railroad bungalow and was back shortly after daylight the second morning, when the caravan again got under way. Owing to the almost impassable roads, it was a two-day trip to Raxaul. On arriving here I expected to get the animals immediately loaded onto cars so that we could take them out on the late evening train, but when we pulled up before the railway station, the station master informed us that the two flat cars which he had ordered sent up from Muzefferpur, the next divisional point, had not yet arrived. We therefore had to make camp here and wait until the next afternoon.

The major was beginning to grow impatient. In my anxiety over my precious cargo—those three or more tons of rhino that had made so much trouble for me—I had forgotten for almost a whole day to compliment the biggest ass in Nepal and he was becoming low in spirits.

I chesred him up considerably when I told him that next to General Shum Shere he was the finest man I had met in Asia, but even then he wasn't any too cheerful. He hinted that he was growing tired and would like to be on his way home.

Before he had a chance to ask me for the money again, I told him I would write Shum Shere and tell how nobly the major had seen his task through to the end—how uncomplainingly he had aided me until the rhinos were on the cars and on their way to Calcutta. He grinned foolishly and accepted the situation.

The following afternoon the cars arrived from Muzufferpur. It is needless for me to say how tickled I was. The Gurkha soldiers were again called into service (the major barking out far more commands than were necessary and with a vehemence that the situation didn't call for), and the two rhinos, none the worse for their rough trip on the bullock carts, were set onto the cars.

This time, the major and I (with the decrepit old babu who acted as station master and Lal as witnesses) entered the railway office where I opened my clothing, got out the silken sash that served as my wallet and counted out the 35,000 rupees I owed the maharajah—tossing in an extra hundred rupees for the major to buy himself a sword against that day when he should become field marshal of Nepal.

The old babu's eyes almost popped out of his head as I counted out the money—more rupees than he had ever seen in all his life. The major wasn't any too calm either. His hand trembled with excitement as he signed the receipt.

And soon we were off. Lal and I rigged up shelters of boughs and leaves over the crates to keep out the burning rays of the sun, and the balance of the fodder which had been brought down by the elephants was loaded on the flat cars with the animals. These frontier trains are made up of both passenger and freight cars, so a first class compartment was available for me. One of the Nepalese boys who had been attending the rhinos ever since their capture agreed to accompany me to Calcutta to assist Lal in watching and caring for the animals en route, so when we left Raxaul I placed him on one of the cars and Lal on the other to guard the rhinos, Johereim tending my needs in my compartment.

I had got my prizes to the rail head. It might have seemed that the worst of my troubles was over. But that would have been reckoning without a new danger that promptly developed—the eastern lust for an aphrodisiac that was reputed to be borne on the heads of my rhinos.

To all Asiatics the horn of the rhinoceros has great restorative powers, especially in matters sexual. A book could be written around the superstitions and myths that abound in Asia about the miraculous rejuvenating properties of this substance.

To many Asiatics, the worst of all ailments is sexual impotence, and when this is coming on there is only one remedy: rhino horn. The Chinese will cross the Himalayas to the Nepalese border for the rhino horn, paying thousands of rupees for a small bag of the cureall. In China this is disposed of at fancy prices to the wealthy.

One of the bloodiest murders that ever took place in China had for its motive a shipment of rhino horn, among the biggest ever gathered together. The shipment changed hands three times, two dealers perishing in the struggle for possession. The rich Chinaman who financed the original expedition to the edge of Nepal for this big consignment of the wonder-working restorative eventually received the goods that, theoretically, made him the richest man in China; but he was made to pay through the nose by the bandits that eventually made delivery—the price that he paid amounting to a small fortune in the Orient.

The Chinese method of using rhino horn is to dry it thoroughly and grind it into a powder, which is then mixed with a liquid and taken internally.

The Malays look upon rhino horn more as a charm as a medicine and no Malay will ever overlook an opportunity to rub his hands over a rhino horn, and if he is so fortunate as to have a small piece to carry in his pocket, the god of luck will never forsake him.

The Hindu view is much like the Chinese. Only in the method of using it does he differ. Instead of powdering and drinking it, the Hindu sucks on a small piece of the magic restorative.

The horns of my young rhinos were just beginning to grow out and it behooved me to keep a close watch on them, especially when our train stopped at stations along the way; so it was with some reluctance and much cautioning that I left Lal and the Nepalese boy in charge of the two cars and went to my compartment to wash and rest.

I got out at almost every station along the way and assisted the two boys, standing guard over the animals with a good heavy walking stick, which I found it necessary to use on several occasions. Wherever there is a railroad station in India there are many native idlers and loiters—shiftless Hindus whose chief emotion seems to be curiousity about the next train. These idlers would crowd around at every stop we made, some of the bolder ones making daring efforts to snip off pieces of the soft horn of my calves, I wielded my cane, bringing a lump to more than one thieving Hindu head, and Lal and the Nepalese boy whaled away with long sticks, yet we had our hands full; and in spite of all our precautions, on the second morning out of Raxaul we found a hole at least an inch square and almost two inches deep gouged out of the tender young horn of one of the rhinos. Some Hindu, avid for requvenation, had carved himself a piece of horn big enough to make a few dozen of the little buttons.

The incident seems unimportant at this writing but I don't mind saying that I was furious when I discovered what had happened to the horn of one of my rhinos. I immediately questioned Lal and the Nepalese boy but my investigation yielded nothing. Some Hindu had been too quick for them.

At Athmal Gola on the north bank of the Ganges river, the Bengal and Northwestern Railway terminates. On arriving here I had to charter a boat. I sent Lal and Johereim scouting about for coolies while I entered into negotiations with several Hindu owners of the big clumsy sail boats that ply about this busy section of the Ganges. I succeeded in getting these piratical navigators wrought up against one another to such can extent in their competitive bidding for my cargo that I managed to get the rhinos carried to Mokamaghat at a reasonable figure.

I had telegraphed from Muzufferpur to the station master at Mokamaghat, requesting that two cars be ready on my arrival there, but we had been so long in arranging for the boat and getting across the Ganges that the cars which had been held for me were used for some other purpose and it was late that night before I was able to get the animals loaded again and headed for Calcutta.

I needn't tell you how happy I was when we finally arrived in Calcutta. I tried to store the animals in a friend's garage in Ballygunge, a suburb of Calcutta, but the building proved too small. He then suggested that I deposit the cages on his front lawn, which I did. The comparative seclusion of the place minimized the problem of driving off natives. Only a few of the bolder ones invaded the privacy of that lawn and they were easily chased away.

OFFICER NEVER USES GUN

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Fred Hendrix not only doesn't own a revolver—he doesn't use one. Guns, Hendrix opines, are a nuisance to carry—they get in the way. He has two good fists to use if necessary, he says.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sude F. Featherston, 44, wife of Charles H. Featherston of this city, were held at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the First Baptist church with the pastor, Dr. O. L. Powers, officiating. The Merkle Undertaking company directed interment at Rosemont.

Mrs. Featherston died at 11 o'clock Tuesday night at a local hospital after an extended illness. She came to this city in 1917 from Floydada, Texas, and was active in many civic interests, including the First Baptist church, Woman's Forum, charity work and in sporting circles.

She was a native of Comanche county and had resided at Orisana, Texas, and Jayton, Texas, prior to a five-year residence in Floydada.

Survivors are the husband; a daughter, Mrs. G. C. Bradford of Wichita Falls; a brother, Henry Gilman of Dublin, Texas; and four sisters, Mrs. John Hughes and Mrs. J. T. Mayes of Proctor, Texas, Mrs. John McCarty of Purvis, Texas, and Mrs. Homer Johnson of Pecos, Texas.

Honorary pallbearers not included in the list announced Wednesday were W. T. Knight, Roy I Carter, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, James M. Williams and Joseph A. Kell.

Burglary Charge Filed Against Two Negroes

Charges of burglary were filed in state courts here Wednesday afternoon against Henry Newton, colored, and Bill Allen in connection with the robbery of a room in a local hotel on May 30, according to George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

Complaints against the pair were signed by City Detectives O. A. Roberson and Luke Hart, who made the arrests. Clothing and other personal possessions of a local barber were stolen from the room, it was charged.

G. C. Chetford, now under arrest at Greenville, was charged in a third complaint with forgery.

Anglin and Allen Bring Prisoner From Arkansas

Deputy Sheriff Pat Allen and Assistant District Attorney Mike Anglin are expected to return from Hot Springs, Ark., Thursday night or Friday morning with R. B. Nichols, indicted here Tuesday for robbery with firearms, according to Sheriff Perry Browning.

Nichols has waived extradition, according to advices from Hot Springs. The taxicab stolen from a yellow cab driver here May 30 was recovered by officers at Hot Springs when Nichols was arrested.

Nichols was paroled from the state penitentiary last Christmas day after serving part of a five-year term for robbery of a Spoonts Drug store here on Christmas day, 1928.

Allred Invites Public Review Of His Record In Asking Second Term

Wichitan to Leave Major Portion of Campaign to Friends; Attorney General's Record Outstanding

Formal announcement of his candidacy for attorney general was made Wednesday by James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, attorney general of Texas.

Mr. Allred's statement invited public inspection of his record and public consideration of the faith he has shown to his pledges made in the previous campaign. He told briefly, and with modesty, of some of the outstanding victories his department has achieved in the state courts and invited the public to inspect his record before these courts.

"I made my race for attorney general upon a platform of rigid enforcement of all the laws of this state, especially the antitrust laws. I meant what I said. The people evidently approved of that platform for they honored me with one of the biggest majorities ever accorded a candidate," Mr. Allred said.

Pointing out that his duties will prevent him making as extended a campaign as in the past, he declared that much of his campaign would be left in the hands of his friends. His statement follows:

"I submit my record during the past 18 months as my platform for re-election.

"Voters will select their officials, not on the basis of fabricated villifications and distortions so easily mouthed by the unprincipled, but on each candidate's personal record. Mine, be it good or bad, is open for all who will read.

"I took office at a time when the legislature, holding the longest session in history, sought a way out of our common difficulties. In this search they ventured into unexplored legislative fields. Acts of that legislature established new precedents, and were followed by an inevitable wave of litigation. The attorney general's department was called upon to defend these laws in dozens of courts, both state and federal. On one law alone, that regulating the use of highways by trucks, more than 500 separate suits have been successfully defended by this department. More than 150 suits were filed affecting various phases of the oil and gas conservation laws.

Many Lawsuits

"It would be an imposition on the press for me to ask them to enumerate as a part of this announcement the flood of lawsuits in which we have participated, and the hundreds of opinions rendered to state and county officers. It has been a source of pride to us to have our efforts commended generally over the state by members of the bar and by the courts in which we have practiced. Without hesitation, I refer any one who may have kept up with the work of the department to the members of the local bar in their communities or to the judges, trial or appellate, of the courts in which we have appeared.

Likewise, space will only permit a passing reference to the innumerable investigations we have made all over Texas into alleged combinations and law violations; to our cooperation with the state comptroller in a drive against the unfair competition of the gasoline bootlegger, resulting in the collection of more than two hundred thousand dollars in delinquent gasoline and gross production taxes; to the construction by this department of corporation tax laws (a construction subsequently approved by the supreme court), which will shortly release into the public treasury more than one hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars held in escrow under protest; to our opinion holding invalid a contract of the highway department with the Red River Toll Bridge company by which one hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars was paid to the state; to our successful defense of a number of injunction suits seeking to restrain the opening of other free bridges between Texas and Oklahoma; to our victory in the Whitesides case, involving the boundaries and oil rights of hundreds of citizens, as well as the school children of Texas, in the Yates oil field—the biggest land suit in the history of the state—in which approximately fifty million dollars in cash has been held up awaiting its disposition; to our resistance of attacks upon state's rights in hearings before the Interstate Commerce commission; to our cooperation with the state insurance commission in ridding Texas of money grabbing, unsound insurance organizations; to our suit to recover half a million dollars for the University of Texas permanent fund and A. & M. college; to my personal appearance before the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington to solicit and obtain aid for needy Texas banks; and to how, in cooperation with State Treasurer Charley Lockhart, we closed out 40 old law suits involving the distribution of the bank guaranty fund, thereby placing in circulation over two million dollars withheld from depositors and member banks for over five years.

JAMES V. ALLRED

Fight on Fee Grabbers

I personally and actively worked in conjunction with the senate investigating committee, comptroller and state auditor in the initial investigation of raids upon the treasury by unscrupulous, fee grabbing officers. It has been estimated that, as a result of these cooperative investigations and prosecutions, leaks have been stopped resulting, in a saving of approximately one million dollars per year to the taxpayers of this state.

I made my race for attorney general upon a platform of rigid enforcement of all the laws of this state, especially the antitrust laws. I meant what I said. The people evidently approved that platform for they honored me with one of the biggest majorities ever accorded a candidate.

During the first called session of the legislature last summer, when the price of oil had been driven down to ten cents per barrel by companies who are importing foreign oil into this country, scores of independent citizens of Texas appeared before the legislature and publicly charged that they were being driven into a condition of slavery as the result of combinations and conspiracies on the part of major oil companies. The legislature, after hearing those complaints, as well as explanations by heads of the Humble and Texas oil companies, passed first a resolution and then a bill, reciting the probable existence of trusts and monopolies in this state and instructing the attorney general to investigate and to prosecute suits for violations of the antitrust laws. These measures passed by an overwhelming vote in both houses.

While this bill was pending, the governor of this state sent a message to the legislature, urging its passage, which will be found at page 574 of the Senate Journal, and reading in part as follows:

"In this day of combinations of capital and mergers of industries, the antitrust laws of Texas have become of multiplied importance. Their enforcement must be looked after more scrupulously than at any time before in the history of our state. I compliment any effort of the attorney general in reference to this question. The house of representatives is worthy of the congratulations of the people of Texas for passing the $30,000 appropriation for the attorney general's department. I hope that the senate will pass the bill at their earliest convenience. And I pledge to the attorney general the full cooperation of the entire executive department in relation to all activities pertaining to the enforcement of the antitrust laws."

Campaign in Friends' Hands

Pursuant to my campaign promises, my oath of office and this special mandate of the legislature, I conducted these investigations and thereafter filed suit against certain major oil companies for penalties which the law says may be imposed upon them. It would be improper to discuss the merits of these pending prosecutions, but I have no apologies to make and will continue to give my very best, to the end that they be determined by the court and jury as the law provides.

TAXI DRIVERS SEEK FREEDOM

County Court Hears Plea For Habeas Corpus

Hearings before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law on an application for writs of habeas corpus for G. C. Williams, J. W. McCutchen and O. T. Robinson, convicted 10-cent taxi operators, was continued late Wednesday afternoon to Saturday morning, and each of the three applicants was liberated until that time on $50 bond by agreement of counsel.

Surrender to Police

Williams, McCutchen and Robinson voluntarily surrendered to the city police Wednesday morning to begin serving jail sentences in lieu of paying fines imposed in corporation court recently for alleged violation of the city's taxi-fare ordinance. McCutchen was fined $100, Williams $10, and Robinson $1, all plus costs, for alleged transportation of passengers at less than 25 cents each. McCutchen also, it was stated, had been convicted on a charge of operating a taxi without a license.

Wednesday's hearing occupied more than two hours, and with several additional witnesses to be presented by Willie Ballard, counsel for the three applicants, continuance to Saturday morning at 9 o'clock was agreed upon by counsel. City Attorney Thelbert Martin opposed granting of the writs.

Mr. Ballard attacked the constitutionality of the city's 25-cent minimum taxi fare ordinance, and asked the court to so declare it. Chief of Police Dick Morris was put on the stand to tell of the three applicants having been brought to the police station Wednesday morning by their attorney to begin serving jail sentences.

R. O. Harvey, city alderman, was quizzed at length by counsel for the three applicants in an effort to show that the ordinance was passed solely for the purpose of aiding the Wichita Falls Traction company in its effort to maintain adequate transportation service for the local public.

Mr. Harvey reiterated repeatedly that after a month's study, he was convinced that the council's action was consistent with the best interest of the public, and that he believed the council was motivated by sincere intentions to protect the public welfare.

Officials Testify

City Clerk W. E. McBroom, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., L. L. Allbritton, manager of the Wichita Falls Traction company, R. M. Hurst, desk sergeant at police headquarters and Judge Edgar Scurry of the corporation court followed Mr. Harvey on the witness stand. Mr. Ballard's questioning throughout sought to show that the traction company has not for several months provided "adequate" service, and is not doing so now; and to show that the fare ordinance was passed only to aid the traction concern.

Mr. Williams, one of the three applicants, also took the stand. He testified that upon procuring his taxi license from the city on March 29, he declared his purpose of operating a 10-cent service.

Mr. Martin will represent the city at Lubbock at 10 a. m. Friday when Judge William H. Atwell, federal district court, will hold a hearing on an application for injunction against the city's enforcement. Mr. Ballard is to be in court at Aspermont Friday. Both attorneys plan to resume the hearing before Judge Vogel Saturday morning.

THREE CASES SET IN CORPORATION COURT

Trial of dime taxi operators in corporation court will be resumed Thursday morning with three cases set for hearings before Judge Edgar Scurry. No venire lists have been summoned to provide jury service in the trials.
