Humble Attacks New Oil Proration Order

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 5 (AP)—The new oil proration order for the big East Texas field is under fire in federal court here from the Humble company, the field's largest producer.
The Humble has filed a suit asking that the Texas Railroad commission be enjoined from enforcing the order against it. The case was set for trial before a three-judge federal court here Oct. 13.
Attorneys for the Humble said their petition attacked the latest proration order on the same grounds stated in their successful attack on the old order—that is, that the proration formula "takes the company's oil and gives it to someone else."
The company contended that under the existing order it was permitted to produce only 11 per cent of the field's allowable whereas 14 per cent of the recoverable oil in the pool underlies its properties.

J. L. Southern, chairman of the advance gifts committee, spoke enthusiastically of the work being done by the men who this week are engaged in contacting firms and individuals who contribute the big gifts portion of the Pampa quota.
The Salvation Army is seeking $3,000 to care of Pampa's direct relief needs during the coming year.

Hitler Will Make 'Peace' Offer Friday

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Germans planned their peace hopes today on the possibility that Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech tomorrow would outline a basis on which hostilities might be ended.
The Fuehrer was scheduled to speak at noon (5 a. m. EST) to the members of his legislature.
But what Hitler intended to say remained a profound official secret and in official circles it was emphasized that speculation on his speech was "hazardous and a disservice to everyone."

Hitler left for Warsaw this morning to review a triumphal parade by Nazi troops, according to informed sources.
His standard continued to fly from the chancellery—usually a sign of his presence in Berlin—but these sources said that merely he meant he planned to be back before the day was over.
Tomorrow the Fuehrer is scheduled to speak for one and three-fourths hours.

Observers seeking a hint of what German policy may be knew there was dissatisfaction with the attitude of British Prime Minister Chamberlain and Lord Halifax, his foreign secretary.
They knew also that from inspired sources have come repeated statements that "Germany is ready for either peace or war" and that the choice is up to Great Britain.
Newspapers prominently displayed an alleged order of the British admiralty to British merchant ships to "turn every submarine."

That Germany is not in a hurry to start operations in the west was indicated by this morning's high army command communiqué which told yesterday's war story in two sentences.
In the west, it said, "there was only minor artillery and scouting plane activity."

In the East, it reported continuation of the cleansing which began yesterday in the region of the Vistula of scattered remnants of Polish troops.

There were 28 petit jurors when court convened at 9 o'clock this morning. All were excused for the term, with the exception of those chosen for the present jury, and those who may be listed on the special venire in the P. M. Meador case, set for Oct. 16.

Sen. Overton Asks Embargo Be Retained

Repeal Would Be Step Toward War, Says Louisianan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Senator Overton (D-La.), urging retention of the existing arms embargo, told the senate today the sale of armaments to European belligerents would constitute "armed intervention on the part of America."

Carrying on the opposition argument to the administration's neutrality bill, the Louisiana senator asserted:
"Let us not entertain the fond delusion that raising the embargo is not a step toward war. Soon the American dollar will be following American arms and the American flag and the American soldier will be following both to the battlefields of Europe."

"For my part," he declared, "I am unwilling to take a step that may, and probably will, lead us into a foreign war that will make widows of our wives, orphans of our children, corpses of our young men and bankrupts of us all."

Overton said that "neutrality and national defense are the twin sisters of peace for America."
"I fear no successful invasion of the United States by any foreign nation or combination of nations," he added. "I do not apprehend that we shall be subjected to foreign domination, but I do entertain the apprehension that in the event of our becoming engaged in another war we shall be saddled with a home-made dictatorship."

No inconsistency
Overton, usually an administration supporter, argued that President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull had favored the arms embargo in the past.

Polish Jewish Women Seek Aid For Male Relatives

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Demonstrations by Polish women have occurred several times during the last week in Berlin synagogues where they demanded that something be done about male relatives held in concentration camps.
German rabbis were placed in an embarrassing position, since intervention on behalf of the Polish Jews might be construed as an attempt to give aid and comfort to the enemy.

Fire Prevention To Be Observed Here

The week in which the date Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lantern that started the fire that destroyed a large part of the city of Chicago with the loss of 200 lives is always designated as Fire Prevention week. That will be next week and Pampa will join other cities in the nation in its observance.
Fire Chief Ben White and his Fire Prevention committee have plans outlined for a week of instruction and clean-up work in Pampa. Not until Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Q. Public are awakened to the seriousness of fire hazards will property and person be safe and that is the main object of fire prevention week.

New Bonds Not Necessary For $245,000 Plant

In a special session at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the Pampa school board and administration conferred with Townes and Funk, architects from Amarillo, employed to present possible plans for a new high school building since the hoped-for government grant did not materialize.

The architects presented the plan for a building which can be built with funds that are now available. They estimate that a new building containing 27 class rooms, 5 laboratories, gymnasium, auditorium, library, cafeteria, and band room and a shop and agriculture building, can be built for approximately $245,000, exclusive of equipment. The voting of additional bonds will not be necessary.

Class rooms, laboratories and library facilities under the present plan are about the same as those planned last year.

A 20% saving can be effected in the construction of the building by financing it through the school district rather than depending in part on a government grant. Additional savings would be gained by reducing the proposed auditorium from a seating capacity of 1,250 to a seating capacity of 850, and by making the gymnasium primarily a practice floor for basketball and physical education.

Most contests and tournaments would have to be held in the present gymnasium.
The building planned would take care of approximately 950 students. We have an overflow at present of 778 students in the system as a whole. If the city remains at its present population, the senior high school enrollment will reach 950 in 1942, when the present small sophomore class graduates and we have 12 full classes. Under this plan approximately 800 students would be moved next year from the central campus to the new building. The sixth grade will be moved to the central campus thereby relieving crowded conditions in the elementary schools. There will still be approximately 1,100 students on the central campus. All buildings in the system will be in use up to the capacity for which they were originally planned.

After considering these plans, the board postponed any action until its regular meeting next Monday in order that all angles may be considered.

Pictures Topic Of Program Given At Kingsmill HD Club

"Good subject matter in pictures as a part of the living room accessories adds much to the home life," Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, home demonstration agent, told members of Kingsmill Home Demonstration club when it met recently in the home of Mrs. A. R. Walberg.

Mrs. Kelley further stated that pictures may be good influence on the child's life to lead it to some worthy profession. As a picture of "Old Iron Sides" has caused many a child to think of becoming a sailor. Good art and beautiful coloring as well as choice subject matter should be a part in every wall hanging.

"Care in hanging a picture should be observed. Every picture should be hung on the level with the eye and over some piece of furniture to help form a unit with the other furniture and not be hung on the wall alone," she concluded.

During the business session, Mrs. C. E. Bastion was appointed to lead a discussion on music in the home and she then led several songs which the group joined in singing.

Present were three visitors, Mrs. Bill Walker of White Deer, Norman Walberg of San Antonio, and Fred Kendrick of Pampa, 15 members, and Mrs. Kelley.

Texas Brothers Win Renown As Correspondents

LLANO, Oct. 5 (AP)—Eugene and Hugo Speck, natives of Llano and sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Speck, a farming couple of this county, have won recognition as foreign newspaper correspondents. Both are in their early thirties. Hugo, after eight years of news service in London and Paris, was transferred this summer to the Rome office of a news agency, and Eugene for the past year has been in the news department of NBC at Radio City, New York, where he does much of the broadcasting of European events. Previously he was correspondent for the Chicago Tribune at Paris and London.

Hugo Speck visited his parents here in May, then going to the Pacific Coast where he married Miss Jane Maggard of Rose, Calif., on June 9.

The Speck brothers were born in the rural community of Lone Grove, Llano county, where they lived until 1912. Their parents, deciding they were not getting anywhere with farming, sold their small place and moved to Huntsville where they and their young sons entered Sam Houston Normal Institute. Mr. and Mrs. Speck obtained teacher's certificates after two years and began teaching in the winter and attending school in the summer.

Subsequently the family moved to Chicago where the boys finished high school. Eugene had a job as copy boy at the Chicago Tribune and Hugo worked in a theater, later obtaining employment at the Tribune.

By that time, Eugene had decided definitely on a newspaper career, but Hugo did not plan to follow the business. Eugene went to London in 1929 with enough money from his savings for three months of sight-seeing in Europe. He worked first for the Chicago Tribune in Paris, then was sent in 1930 to London to cover sports events. This led to regular employment on the London staff of the Tribune.

With the assurance of his brother that he could obtain a position for him in London, Hugo quit

Northwestern University and his job on the Tribune and joined his brother in London in the fall of 1931. Soon afterward he began working for a news agency and in 1934 was transferred to Paris.

Normally about 1,500,000 persons are employed by the railroads in the United States.

Coming Decision

Everybody who is interested in freedom of speech and of the press—and that ought to be everybody—will watch the considerable interest the outcome of a test case which the U. S. Supreme Court is expected to decide next month.

The test involves three state laws restricting distribution of leaflets in Wisconsin, California, and Massachusetts. All are based on the prevention of street-littering, and have been upheld in state courts. Two clear rights seem to clash here. States would seem to have the right to prevent the littering of city streets. And people have the right to hand out leaflets. As in all cases where two theoretical rights conflict, one must yield.

Much as any orderly person hates to see streets littered with discarded leaflets, it is hard to see how any such consideration outweighs the right of people to hand out printed appeals to their fellow citizens. Any undue restriction of this simple, elemental right strikes a heavy blow at one of our traditional freedoms. And this is no time to be restricting freedom, but to be enlarging and vindicating it.

War Byproducts

It is strange to think of good coming out of the war, but in certain indirect ways it seems to happen sometimes.

A great period of industrial research in the United States is seen by President Charles E. Sparks of the Fisk Rubber Co. If the European war is prolonged, The World War, he pointed out, made America self-sufficient in production of optical glass and dyes. Similar progress in American self-sufficiency will accompany any long war in Europe, he believes, and the resulting new industries and enterprises will help cushion the shock of the collapse which must follow any war boom.

Similarly William H. Cameron of the National Safety Council points out that organized safety methods in factories received a great impetus from the government during the World War.

Yet it is hard to see why such developments cannot be brought about for their own sake without the cruel stimulus of war.

TRANSMISSION BELTS FOR COMMUNISM
(Los Angeles Examiner)
BY E. F. TOMPKINS

Last year through the expert testimony of Dr. J. B. Matthews and others, the Dies Committee made the public familiar with the Communist term "fellow traveler."

A "fellow traveler," it was explained, is one who "travels" with the Communists mentally. Many "fellow travelers" have distinguished names as educators, writers, actors, lecturers, lawyers, doctors, preachers and so on—names that have appeared profusely and repeatedly in all kinds of "liberal" or "united front" groups in which Communists participate.

These names are used in this way to impress the public and obtain financial and moral support. Examples of such groups are the North American Medical Bureau and Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, and the National Committee for People's Rights.

Not a few of these "fellow travelers" have made the pilgrimage to Moscow and, presumably, paid homage at Lenin's Tomb in the Red Square.

But the "fellow travelers" do not PROFESS to be Communists. On the contrary, they profess NOT TO BE. Inasmuch as they are "TRAVELERS," however, it is obvious that they have a GOAL toward which they are "traveling" and, since they "travel" in company with the Communists, THE GOAL is obvious.

In the frankly written words of one of them, Roger N. Baldwin, National Director of the American Civil Liberties Union:

"COMMUNISM IS THE GOAL."

Just recently, the Dies Committee has exposed to public light another Communist phrase—one that derives directly from the writings of Lenin and Stalin and that has to do with Communist technique.

This other phrase is "TRANSMISSION BELT." With Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party, as its witness, the committee brought out that, whereas a "fellow traveler" is AN INDIVIDUAL, a "transmission belt" is AN ORGANIZATION.

As reported in the New York Times: "Browder . . . agreed that 'A dozen mass organizations' were known as 'transmission belts' through which Communists attempted to put across their philosophy."

Or, according to the New York Herald-Tribune: "Browder told the committee . . . that the party undertook to spread its 'enlightenment' through 'transmission belts.'"

He defined these as routes through which Communists could contact the masses."

Then, under further questioning, the general secretary of the Communist party identified by name some of the leading "transmission belts" which, he said, The Communists are using to impose communism upon "the masses."

And here they are:

division of labor is an organization that cannot benefit mankind.

They interfere with the free division of labor in combining to prevent other workers from having a right to participate, or learning to participate, in work they are well qualified to do. Any custom which prevents men from being able to find and participate in the work they are best qualified to do, greatly reduces the total production. There is less then to be divided among the workers as a whole. Besides interfering with this natural division, it greatly discourages and disheartens men to become efficient, because they see men protected by collective bargaining contracts receive unfair return for the energy expended.

This retarding of the minute division of labor greatly curtails the efficiency of many workers by requiring them to attempt to learn to do things they do not have the natural talent to do instead of permitting the worker to concentrate on a limited line and thus by repetition become efficient.

As a concrete example of this, the Printer's Union insists that workers have no right to learn to operate a linotype until they have first had several years of experience in hand composition. Of course, nowadays there is, relatively speaking, very little hand composition. To require a man to work 3 or 4 years by hand, when there is no work, if he desires to become an operator of a linotype, is simply a scheme to prevent the natural division of labor. This scheme prevents hundreds of efficient men and women from participating in work that they could learn to do rather efficiently in six months or a year's time.

It is, of course, an economic waste and, thus undemocratic and out of harmony with the teaching of Jesus, to have men who have spent years in learning to do complicated trades put their time in doing work that is relatively simple and millions of people are capable of doing. Big wages, if arrived at fairly and in a Christian manner, are a reward for doing difficult work which takes a long time to learn to do or is so difficult that only a few are able to learn and not a result of preventing their brethren from having the right to learn.

It would be just as reasonable for the printers to require an apprentice to learn press work, stereotyping, editorial work as to require them to do hand composition in order to operate a straight matter machine.

It is this interference with free exchanges that checks the benefits, resulting from accumulation of capital and knowledge, from being passed on to the working man as a whole.

Undoubtedly, for every extra dollar union members get as a result of interfering with the natural division of labor, much more than a dollar is subtracted from the wages of the customers who are obliged to buy the product at the artificially high wage.

It is this interference with the free division of labor that has put the farmers in such a precarious plight. The public has recognized this and now the government is attempting to give them an artificial reward to balance up for the inefficiency of the government in protecting a man's right to work at any job he sees fit, without paying tribute to labor racketeers whose principal business is interfering with the free and natural division of labor.

If we completely eliminated the free division of labor and every individual had to produce his own wants, mankind would go back to barbarism; and, to the degree that collective bargaining interferes with the free division of labor, do they themselves push their fellowman back into barbarism.

WAS LORD MACAULAY A FOOL OR A WISE MAN?

Here is what Lord Macaulay wrote 100 years ago. If the New Dealers are correct, then Macaulay was a fool. If they are not correct, he was a wise man. He wrote:

"Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the nation by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties, by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment, by maintaining peace, by defending property and by observing strict economy in every department of the state. Let the Government do this—the people will assuredly do the rest."

And history shows that every nation that followed this course prospered and every nation that did not follow this course declined.

Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON—Events, not words, will largely determine whether and when the President will get Congress to repeal the arms embargo.

Weeks before the special session began, the barrage of words had swelled to World War proportions. Yet no one could say that more than a vote or two had been switched one way or another among the closely-divided ranks for and against revision of the Neutrality act.

But in the month or two months the special session likely will last, events in Europe can materially shape public—and congressional—opinion. An outbreak of German "frightfulness" in the air or at sea would be an important factor.

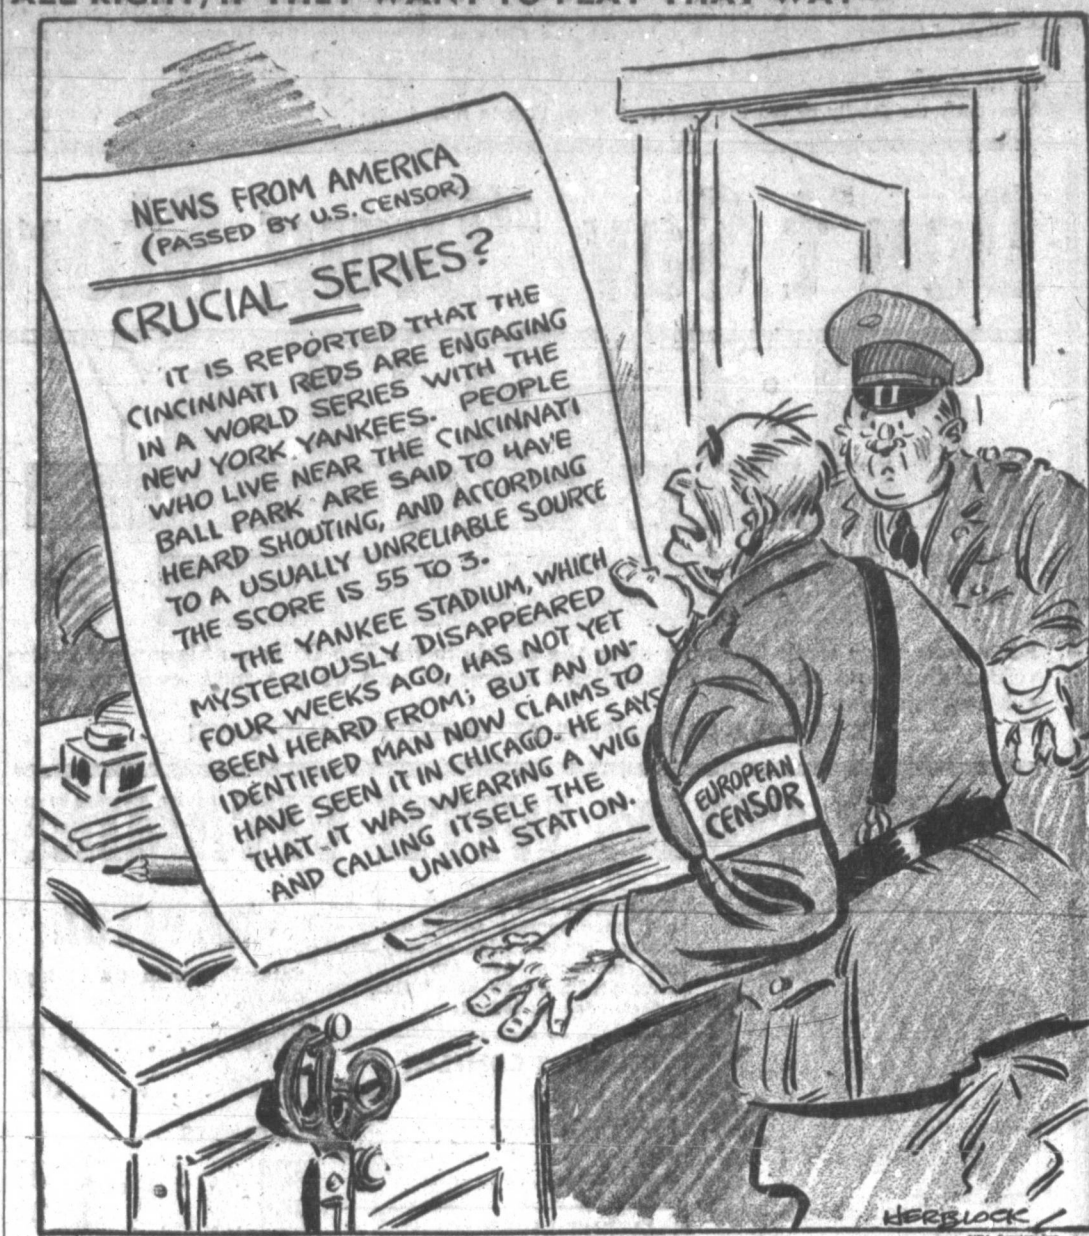

It is a fair bet that corresponding "frightfulness" in the form of "retaliation" on the part of Britain or France would not stir corresponding sentiments in America. Public opinion already seems attuned to expect German "atrocities." And it would probably attempt to excuse or minimize "retaliation."

'NEUTRAL PARTIALITY'
Sinking of the Athenia undoubtedly influenced much public opinion to a more friendly attitude toward England. A similar affair about October 10 might work wonders in Congress.

The attitude of partiality toward our old allies is so evident publicly and so widely held in the Administration that advocates of embargo repeal now are seeking to point out that a nation can still be neutral and yet be partial.

Our attitude toward Canada is cited as a sample of partiality as distinguished from neutrality. The President has stated that no foreign power will be permitted to conquer Canada. Certainly that is being very partial to an enemy of Germany. But is it neutral to recognize something that is as well established as the movement of the tides? Defense of HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 — Short takes: On the set of "The Gay Days of Victor Herbert" in dancing girls are assembled for a backstage scene. They wear hoop skirts from the period of one of the Herbert operettas. The girls are just supposed to stand around as decorative background while Allan Jones and Mary Martin rehearse a number. But then Director Andrew Stone has an idea. "I want you girls to whirl for a few steps," he says. So the girls are adopted until they grow up. Consequently, she has told they're adopted, but she has done it discreetly. Whenever you ask Ronnie whose son he is, he replies, "I'm mother's darling adopted son."

George Burman and Gracie Allen have an adopted daughter, Sandra, and an adopted son, Ronnie. It is Miss Allen's belief that one of the greatest tragedies of adopting children is not telling them they are adopted until they grow up. Consequently, she has told they're adopted, but she has done it discreetly. Whenever you ask Ronnie whose son he is, he replies, "I'm mother's darling adopted son."

OLD GOWN
PRODS MEMORY
Two extras met on the set of "The Roaring Twenties." Why dearie," said one, "I haven't seen you for five years. I almost didn't recognize you, you look so much older. And you're older, aren't you? I would have recognized you if it weren't for the gown."

H. Hollywood it is almost impossible to buy a meal in a restaurant without receiving a shattering potato. It seems symbolic of the way people live out there.

A quickie producer came on the set. "Where is our leading lady?" he asked. The director replied, "Oh, she went out to powder her nose." "Well, all right," the producer ordered. "Shoot around here."

Arthur Q. Bryan, the baby-talker who says "Haw Gwatches" on the radio, has been doing quite a bit of picture work lately. After his last moving picture, a Warner Brothers short, he was returning the four suits he wore to the wardrobe.

Deciding that he liked the suits he asked the wardrobe man what would be done with the suits. "You're so big around the middle that the suits are too large for anyone here," the man replied, "so we will probably hang them up for the moths." The outcome of the matter was that Bryan bought the four suits for $9 a piece, solving his fall wardrobe problem for $36.

Canada is as much a part of our scheme of national protection as defense of North Dakota.

WHAT'S OVERLOOKED
What is very much overlooked in the neutrality fight, moreover, is that the Administration is seeking revision of the Neutrality act, not repeal. The Administration is seeking to repeal only the section imposing the arms embargo. The measure drafted by the Administration last session—and still officially supported—retains much of the old act and proposes, in addition, sharp increases of certain powers in the hands of the President.

One important increase would be to authorize the President to designate certain sections of the sea as "combat zones" from which American ships would be excluded. He has no such power now. It would

Gray County's Bank Balances Show Decline

Gray county's bank balances for the quarter period ending September 30 showed a decline of $35,894.69 as compared with the balances for the corresponding period ending July 1, according to the quarterly report signed today by R. C. Wilson, county auditor. The July 1 balance was $129,402; September 30, $93,507.34.

Of the 15 funds listed on the report, seven showed an increased balance over that of the preceding period, six a decline, and two remained even.

Largest balance increase was in the bond interest and sinking fund, the balance for the quarter ending July 1 being $2,382.38, for September 30, $2,413.57. This increase was attributed by the county auditor to the aid Gray county is now receiving from the state. Receipts of this fund totaled $29,231.04, disbursements, $8,199.85.

Balance of the special tax fund and of the court house and jail fund remained even at $328.18 and $7,852.08 respectively.

Largest decline was in the balance of the special fund, which dropped from $38,990.59 to $1,422.22. County Judge Sherman White explained this by stating that it was from this fund that sums were distributed to other funds. Slowness of tax payments at the present time was the reason given for the decrease in the balance of all funds listed on the report as compared with the balances on the report for the quarter period ending July 1.

Comparative balances of the funds, July 1 and September 30: general, $27,107.33—$22,411.00; jury, $6,032.31—$5,544.48; road and bridge, $845.09—$3,127.44; road and bridge 1, $10,701.28—$5,420.70; road and bridge 2, $10,094.41—$14,609.51; road and bridge 3, $4,137.43—$751.06; road and bridge 4, $5,709.47—$276.41.

Court house and jail interest and sinking, $5,121.62—$5,218.16; road and bridge interest and sinking, $677.77—$2,645.10; salary, $300.23—$1,714.92; permanent school, $374.50—$1,009.

Guerillas Will Play Kelson Under Lights

Wheeler Grid Team To Play Here Friday

Coach Oscar Hinger's Guerillas will be the home team tomorrow night when they entertain Kelson, strong Wheeler county independent team. Kelson is in no conference but plays interscholastic league rules.

Game time will be at 8 o'clock at Harvester field with no admission charged.

No hope is available on the Kelson team but several boys who played last year are eligible again this season. The Guerillas and Kelson played home games last season with each winning a game.

Coach Hinger has been working his charges long and hard this week, especially on pass defense which cracked wide open against Canadian Friday night.

One or two changes are scheduled to be noticed in the Guerilla lineup tomorrow night. Coach Hinger has not definitely made up his mind on his starters even after a long, hard workout yesterday afternoon which ended with a bruising scrimmage.

Several members of the team played on the Junior High Reapers last season while others are making their first appearance in uniform. The team is being strengthened by three or four boys who started out with the Harvesters but who need more experience which they cannot get on the senior squad this year.

LeFors Pirates Name Joyce Bowman Queen

LEFORS, Oct. 5.—Joyce Bowman was elected football queen Tuesday at a special meeting of the football boys, called by the captain, Elmer Lee.

Miss Bowman won over four other nominees who were: Georgia Nell Browning, Mandy Sue Cheek, Patsy Nell, and Opal King. The run-off was between Mandy Sue Cheek and Joyce Bowman. Miss Bowman won by a large majority.

She is a sophomore, and a member of the pep squad.

The queen will be crowned at the last conference game between the LeFors Pirates and Follett at Shaw park. The captain of the team, Elmer Lee, will crown her between the halves.

Buddy Baer To Box Sandy McDonald

LUBBOCK, Oct. 5.—Reduced in size to a mere 245 pounds, Buddy Baer hopes to hit the comeback trail in a 10-round bout here tonight.

After an idleness of almost a year, Baer will swap gloves with Sandy McDonald, 215 pounds of Dallas.

Baer's weight represents a drop of 38 pounds.

Wally Berger's Throw-In Loses Game For Reds

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—One thing is certain—the rest of the series won't produce a better pitched game than Derringer and Ruffing turned in yesterday. What's this about Clippie Smith, whose Villanova team hasn't been trimmed in two years, getting out of there after this season? . . . Give Sammy Sneed credit for one swell golf comeback. . . Lou Gehrig, who'll be honorably released by the Yanks soon after the series, has definitely made up his mind to go into radio. . . Three clubs will try to get Morris Aronovich from the Phils this winter.

Today's guest star.
John P. Carmichael, Chicago Daily News: "On Wednesday the American league's annual lesson on how to play baseball will be under way in two cities. . . The Yankees will tutor the Reds in New York while the White Sox give the Cubs some helpful hints for winter reflection."

Bert Bell says Davey O'Brien will clean up around $40,000 this year in salary, testimonials, endorsements, etc. . . Joe Louis, ardent Tiger fan, is betting on the Reds. . . Lefty O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco ball club, opened a cocktail lounge in Frisco the day after the coast league season ended.

Diet note.
Dunking has been introduced at the training table of the Long Island university football team.

Trainer Sam Picarello says it relaxes the gladiators. . . He should know.

White Deer To Play Spearman On Friday

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.
WHITE DEER, Oct. 5.—The Bucks' first conference game of the season will be played here Friday night at 8 o'clock against the Spearman Lynx.

The boys showed up well in their contest with the McLean Tigers last week and are expected to give the Lynx a tough battle.

Probable starting line-up will be Potter and Green at ends; McCrory and Gores at tackles; Tomlin and Quarry at guards; Bryant and Stalls at halves; Russell at full; and Hawkins at quarter.

Harvesters Work Out At Vernon Today

Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejan with 30 Harvesters left early this afternoon for Vernon where they will work out this evening and spend the night before going to Olney where they play tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. It will be the second District 2-AA team the Harvesters have met this season, Vernon having handed them a 13 to 7 loss in the opening game of the season, in Vernon.

Many fans plan to leave tomorrow morning to see the Harvesters in action. For the benefit of those left at home, Radio Station KPON will bring them a play-by-play description of the game direct from the field. KPON will go on the air at 7:45 with starting lineups and pregame color.

Preparation for the Olney game closed yesterday with a scrimmage in which plays appeared smoother and defense better, especially in the pass department which has been receiving a great deal of attention since the Central game last Friday.

Little is known about the Olney team excepting that they are favorites to cope the title this year even though Wichita Falls and Vernon are in the district. Word comes to Pampa that the team is real air-minded and that is the main reason why coaches have been working on pass defense so long and hard.

Every member of the squad was in tip-top shape except Ed Terrell, whose knee has just been taken out of a plaster cast where it has been encased since the opening game in Vernon, and R. C. Candler, big tackle, who has a broken finger. He, however, will be in the line-up.

Coaches planned to start the same team that beat Central of Oklahoma City here 7 to 6 last Friday night.

Max Schmeling Not Drafted For Army

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight boxing champion, arriving in Berlin today, disclosed he had been "living the life of a country squire" since the war began and had not been called for military service.

He said he expected his bout with Walter Neusel, which was "put off on account of the war," would be staged next May "if peace comes soon."

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Those Yankees, possibly the greatest set of opportunists baseball has yet seen, are off and running again. Victorious over the scrapping Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1, in yesterday's opening battle of the world series, they go into the second contest at Yankee stadium today almost prohibitive favorites to wrap up their fourth straight world championship.

That was the game the Reds needed. Paul Derringer nearly pitched his heart out, and his National League teammates fought to the last gasp before a friendly crowd of over 50,000. But in the end the great pitching of Red Ruffing and the timely swatting of the Yanks proved a little too much.

Even if Bucky Walters, their second line pitcher, scores for the Reds today over the Yankees' Monte Pearson and squares the series, the Yankees still will have a big psychological edge. They have beaten Derringer, the man Bill McKechnie regarded as his ace, and they again have proved that they can't be overcome by fine pitching alone.

Probing further into the opening thriller, though it was won by Bill Dickey's line single to center with

Additional Sports On Page 8

Charley Keller on third base in the ninth, it was lost to the Reds when Wally Berger made the wrong throw-in from left field in the fifth frame, enabling Joe Gordon to score from first on Babe Dahlgren's zipper.

That was an uncertain throw under the splendid six-hit seven-inning hurling of Derringer and put the big right-hander in a spot where, when the Yankees finally struck again in the ninth, he was trying to fight off the winning run instead of the tying one.

Berger's arm is acknowledged to be the weakest link on the whole Cincinnati chain, but perhaps he only did as he was signaled. Here's what happened:

The Reds were ahead, 1 to 0, the result of a walk to Ival Goodman, his steal of second and Frank McCormick's hit through the infield.

Derringer was wheeling them through in great style.

So, with one play to left, Dahlgren then cracked one over the third bag that Bill Werber just failed to spear. It went on to the boards and Berger fielded it smartly.

As Gordon tore between second and third, then Berger lazily winged the pellet toward second.

Art Fletcher, coaching for the Yanks, saw instantly that the Reds hadn't arranged for a cut-off play, and he saw just as he heard the fleet Gordon on home: Linus Frey took Berger's heavy, and made a high peg to Ernie Lombardi at the plate as the Yankee slid into the pan.

As it was, Paul went into the ninth looking fairly secure. In the three previous frames he had sent the Yankees down in order.

After Rolfe went out on a ground-er, Keller, the rookie from Newark, caught hold of one that went a mile high toward the 407-foot sign in the right-center.

Goodman went after it and so did Harry Craft. Both, playing in an unfamiliar park, appeared to be bothered by the possibility of crashing into the wall.

Ball Bounces Off Glove
Goodman just reached it. The ball hit his glove and bounced off, and Keller easily reached third. It was scored a triple, though a lot of Yankee partisans felt that Joe DiMaggio would have had it in his pocket.

Derringer then purposely passed DiMaggio to set up a possible double play. Why he didn't also pass Dickey while he was about it, thus setting up a force play at home, had not been explained at this hour. For Dickey pumped a clean single into center that Craft fumbled and didn't even bother to recover, because Keller long since was across the plate and the crowd was leaving.

Much has been made here of Derringer's hard luck, but Ruffing pitched the better game.

The Reds got four hits off him. In the last five innings the National leaguers went down in order.

Canyon Will Play At McLean Friday

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
McLEAN, Oct. 5.—In their last non-conference game of the season, the McLean Tigers meet Canyon Eagles at McLean Friday night, at 8 o'clock.

This is the first home game of the year for the Tigers, as they are away from Pampa for the first time in their two previous starts. Panhandle and McLean tied, 7 to 7, while White Deer was beaten 12 to 6. Canyon was defeated by White Deer 20 to 0, so on paper McLean figures to have an easy evening of it. However, Canyon has shown increasing strength in the last two weeks, and unless a weakness of McLean tactics can be improved, the Tigers may have an unexpectedly rough evening.

The first string, averaging 153 pounds, will probably be Doolen and Windom, ends; Steadman and Combs, tackles; Jones and Glenn, guards; Dwight at center; Man-tooth, quarterback; Bond, full; Bonner and Buck as half backs.

Substitutes are: ends, Lee, Bailey, Andrews; tackles, Harris, Montgomery; guards, Kinard, Dorsey, Clark, Montgomery; center, Braxton.

Memphis Will Battle Irish At Shamrock

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

SHAMROCK, Oct. 5.—Headlining the district two-A football schedule this week will be the game between the Shamrock Irishmen and the Memphis Cyclones at Shamrock at Friday night.

Coach's Forrest Kline and Scott McCall have been putting the Irishmen through stiff workouts for the past ten days, having had an open air last Friday. Bruises and minor injuries received in the Children's game have slowed down Captain Charlie Allen, ace Irish back, and Roy Holmes, senior three letterman center, but these boys have shown great improvement and should be in line for the game by Friday.

Coach Abe Murphy's Cyclones are reported in fine shape and will be ready, says a report from Memphis.

There is no basis on which to rate the strength of the two teams this season as yet. However, the Cyclone will be the heavier team by 11 pounds per man. The Memphis starters average 161 pounds.

The Shamrock starting lineup: 150 pounds, Shamrock has won from Canadian 26-0, lost to Berger 26-25 and to Childress 18-0. Memphis beat Mockett 13-0 and last Friday dropped a close decision to Paduani 7-6.

The game will be called at 8 o'clock under the flood lights of Denver Field.

Cincinnati Its First Game But Still Has Hope

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 5.—Today's letter from "the bend of the river is as full of it's as the weatherman in flood time.

For while the New Yorkers, calm as any cows in our pastures, digest their victory, the people down in Vine street are in the grip of the game of the World Series for a fare-you-well looking-down and the second game looking up.

"If Berger had thrown to third instead of . . ." fades into sobs as the next man tries. "If they get Bucky Walters some runs." "If they hadn't hit into all those double-plays" becomes "if Lombardi can get hold of one today."

But all the if's in the world won't restore the first game to what is firmly regarded here as the right side of the books. As much as Vine street wanted the opener, since 24 of the 25 World Series have gone to the team getting the jump, the folks are echoing their spokesman.

"It's winning four of them that counts," said Manager Bill McKechnie in New York. After all, the Reds lost the first game of the season, too.

A few reckless people who knew all the time that the Yankees would win in four straight came out of their holes to risk lynching with a tentative "I told you so." They were merely slapped down.

Panhandle Will Play At Borger

PANHANDLE, Oct. 5.—The Panhandle Panthers will meet the Borger Bull Dogs on the Borger gridiron Friday afternoon.

According to Coach Jack Atkins, the Panthers are showing much improvement and have gained some valuable experience from the game with Wink last week, even though the team came out victorious by a 42-0 score. The Panthers feel it was worth their time to have met the heavier and more experienced team.

Borger tied Plainview 13-13 last week, so the Panthers know they are facing a strong foe. However, they have been working out a strong defensive, and are facing the Bull Dogs with confidence.

George Dennis, end, will be out of the game due to illness. He will be replaced by Sterling. The probable line-up will be:

Sterling and Dowling, ends; C. Cox and J. E. Hayden, tackles; Howe and Yow, guards; Lewis, center; Coffee and B. Pruitt, half backs; Robinson, full back; M. Pruitt, quarterback.

Perryton Duck Pin Alleys Are Opened

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
PERRYTON, October 5.—Ranger Bowling alleys were officially opened here Monday evening with a hot contest between State Rep. Max W. Boyer of Perryton and County Judge E. C. Fisher of Canadian. Rep. Boyer won two out of three after dropping the first game to Judge Fisher.

A large crowd attended the opening of the new Duck Pin alleys and some real good scores were turned in. Rep. Boyer started the high scoring with 242. Then Ed Le Monnier of Perryton shot a 267. Hornback of Canadian took high for the evening with 277. June Phelps, a local miss, took high honors for the ladies.

A loud speaker system was installed for the occasion with W. H. Lance doing the announcing. The loud speaker system will be used throughout the week for the world baseball series, Manager T. D. Moss announced.

Ranger alleys are located in Donley building and the new recreation center is creating a lot of comment.

Favorites Stand Out In Texas Schoolboy Race

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Oct. 5. (AP)—Favorites stood out like hand-drawn thumbs today as the Texas schoolboy football field moved into its second month of play.

From Panhandle to Gulf the critics had selected the teams most likely to succeed in this hurly-burly marathon of the gridiron where upsets are the rule and not the exception.

On that basis of the first month's grind they picked them like this in the district races:

1—Amarillo, 2—Wichita Falls, 3—Odessa, Sweetwater, San Angelo, 4—Austin (El Paso), El Paso High, 5—Gainesville, 6—McKinney, Sulphur Springs, 7—Mason Home (Fort Worth), Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), 9—Breckenridge, 10—Corsicana, 11—Tyler, 12—Lufkin, 13—Austin (Houston), 14—Port Arthur, Beaumont, 15—Austin, Brackenridge (San Antonio), Kerrville, 16—Corpus Christi, McAllen.

More than 20 conference games this week will go a long way toward determining if the selections have substantial basis, and in addition there will be almost as many inter-district struggles that will accentuate the sectional picture.

Thirty teams reached the October grind with perfect records but ten of the district favorites were not included in that list, notably Corpus Christi, defending state champion; Lufkin and Port Arthur. However, on the basis of material, district opposition and potential improvement these teams must still include when one talks about contenders in the state race.

Rideout Back From European Trip

DENTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Blaine Rideout, a ranking mile runner of the nation, was back in classes of North Texas State Teachers college today, a European tour interrupted by the war.

Rideout and nine other AAU athletes sailed for Europe July 26 for competition in England, France, Switzerland, Estonia and Greece but were caught in France after they filled an engagement at Monte Carlo Aug. 27.

The athletes reached New York last Saturday.

Rideout said the French expected the United States come in the war as their ally in the immediate future.

He said they told the American athletes: "No need for you to go back to America; you'll all be over here fighting in a few months."

Reapers Will Play Strong Buchanan Team Here Today

Can the Pampa Junior High Reapers make it two in a row over Amarillo teams? That question will be answered at Harvester field this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock when the Reapers meet the strong Buchanan Junior High team. The game was originally set for Friday but was changed yesterday afternoon when Amarillo couldn't get transportation Friday.

Last Friday in Amarillo the Reapers slipped up on the Sam Houston Junior High team and beat them 34 to 6. It was not only the first time a Pampa Junior High team had defeated an Amarillo eleven since the Panhandle Junior High league was organized but it was the first time a touchdown had been scored against them.

Elated over their win, the Reapers have been working like Trojans this week preparing for the invasion of Buchanan. The youngsters aren't cocky or over-confident. They are just determined to play their best and see if they can't upset the old dope bucket by winning the league this year.

The Reapers are light, averaging about 140 pounds, while it is rumored that Buchanan can field a team averaging more than 165 pounds. The weight handicap won't be new because Sam Houston outweighed the Reapers about 15 pounds per player last week.

A few of the Reapers are veterans from last year with the rest of the squad up from the Pee-wees of last season or from grade school teams.

"Sure, we lost the game! But we outplayed them in every department except scoring," Meyer points out.

"The boys carried out their assignments well, the blocking was good, the passing was all that we could ask for and we gained as much ground as the Bruins did."

"Of course, there is a little matter of goal line punch that must be developed. But we're going to do something about that!"

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Marian admits to Mr. Fellows that she has hated to see Sally take over more and more of the office work. She tells him Dan has left her, and that she is going to have a baby. Fellows promises her a bonus, offers to help, "You helped me ruin my life," Marian says, "I'll build it up alone."

CHAPTER XXVII

THERE was no friction in the office after that. There was no hate in Marian's heart. She taught Sally Blake every smallest detail of her work.

She said, "I'm leaving the first of February, Sally. I'm quitting for good. My husband is in the west. He wants me to join him." Saying it helped keep up her courage, gave her hope.

For Dan did not want her to join him. On the first of each month a letter arrived at the office. A single sheet with a check enclosed.

"Dear Marian," the letter might say. "It's a swell day. Oregon sparkles for some reason or other. Enclosed find 'heck.' Or, 'I'm a day late with your check. Sorry. Have you seen 'Dark Victory'? It's very good." Never did he say, "I miss you" or "I wish you could have seen 'Dark Victory' with me."

Marian tried not to care. She was depositing the checks and hoarding the money against expensive things like linettes and medicines and special milk. She knew Dan must think her utterly callous to accept them when her salary was so much greater than his. Some day he would know. She clung to the same day as if it were a living thing.

One day Florence Avery came to her in regard to changing her desk to a less drafty position. Before leaving, she said, "Ted, my husband, has a job. A good job, steady. He wants me to quit working, but I think that's silly, don't you, Mrs. Huxford?"

Marian asked her to sit down. She talked to Florence Avery for half an hour. The next Saturday Florence quit her job. Marian felt as elated as if she had brought a million-dollar account into the office. If she could save another young couple it might help. Always she was building, building, working to make herself worthy of the big job which was to be hers.

Randy and Dolly did not return. Randy felt that he deserved a vacation, so Dolly wrote. They were going around the world. It might be March or April before they returned. Never had there been so beautiful a honeymoon.

Marian missed Dolly more each day. But, on the other hand, she wanted to do her proud job alone. For her own satisfaction, she wanted to lay each stone herself. She knew now why Dan had wanted to provide for her financially. Often she wept into her pillow with the stark realization of what she had done to Dan.

MARIAN spent Christmas Day with the Sands. It was a little hard to be joyful that day. She had expected to hear from Dan, just a card, just a line. There had been nothing. She had to keep pushing at a worried thought. Suppose Dan had found someone else. What then?

Suppose she was too late. She couldn't think of it—she wouldn't. Of course, there was a way to forestall any such occurrence. If she wrote to Dan, told him about the baby. The temptation was strong upon her, day and night.

Dan, being himself, would return at once. Or he would send for her. He would be gentle, kind, agreeable. She didn't want that, she wouldn't have it. No, love was her goal. She was through with half measures. Perhaps not the love of 12 years ago. Perhaps Dan's heart went too deep for that.

But pride in his wife, she must give him that. Pride, that she had fought her battle alone and come out victorious. Pride, that she had done it for him. No whimpering now—not ever again.

January passed on even tread. On the last day of the month Marian gathered up the accumulated belongings of 10 years. She said goodbye to the switchboard girl, to the stenographers and the office boy. She kissed Sally.

"Take good care of G. F.," she said.

She went away with two checks, her salary check and a bonus of $500. No one except Mr. Fellows knew why she was leaving. They hoped she'd like the west, they said they'd miss her.

She had expected the days to be lonely, the waiting hard. Instead, the days were full and happy. She met her neighbors, gossiped with them in the hall, talked about cooking and slip covers and babies.

The brittle hardness went out of her face, her hair curled in soft ringlets, some days she forgot make-up entirely. She was young again, sweet, simple, glowing with a secret joy. In those waiting days she worked harder at being a homemaker than she had ever worked in the office. She read books on child care and feeding, she toiled over her budget, finding excitement in making two rather precarious ends meet. Dan would be proud and happy that she had loved on his checks while waiting for the baby.

Often her lips moved in silent prayer. "Help me to be a good wife and mother, God. Watch over Dan and keep him for me. Don't let me be too late."

It was the last of April that a letter from Dolly was forwarded from the office. Although Marian had written frequently, addressing her letters to strange, romantic ports, she had said nothing of her new mode of life. Dolly might correspond with Dan, they had been the best of friends, and Dan must not know. Dolly's letter was postmarked "New York" and, all at once, Marian wanted to see Dolly, all at once she needed her.

She tore open the envelope. Dolly had written, "We're back, darling. Be prepared to listen to every detail of the world's most perfect honeymoon. Will call you at the office on May 1."

WITH the knowledge that Dolly was near, Marian realized how greatly she had dreaded the coming ordeal, how she had braced herself to go into it gallantly alone. Dolly. The very thought of her was like the pressure of a kind hand. Dolly would see her through.

She went to the market that morning, taking the long way 'round, walking slowly, breathing deeply of the warm air. She passed children and smiled at them, women who trundled baby carriages and stopped to talk. She felt a common bond with the world of women and babies.

In the market, standing before a counter piled high with wet, fresh vegetables, she heard a voice and turned quickly. Angie Doran, thinner, gray, a bit shabby, stood beside her.

Marian hesitated for an instant. She and Angie Doran had not parted on the best of terms. Then she said warmly, "Angie Doran—I'm glad to see you."

Angie turned, surprised, instinctively drawing back. "Hello, Marian," she said coolly.

Marian would not be repulsed. "I've wondered so often about you, Angie. Do you live near here?"

"Yes," politely. "And you?" She seemed slightly confused by Marian's appearance.

"I'm over on Claremont." And, impulsively, "Come home with me, Angie. I think you and I have a great deal in common."

"You're not working for Mr. Fellows any more?"

"No. I'm very busy having a baby."

"You're smart, Marian—smart to stop before they shoved her voice."

"I was shoved out—by a young girl. That's what I want to talk to you about. Will you come home with me?"

Part Of Montana Ranch Giving Way

TERRY, Mont., Oct. 5 (P)—The underpinning of part of Ed Bright's Eastern Montana ranch is giving away and the curious gathered in scores today to watch and speculate about the phenomenon.

About 15 acres of the ranch seven miles east of Terry have dropped 45 feet, at the rate of a foot or two a day. Like an earthquake in slow motion, the land movement has opened fissures 10 feet wide and 20 feet deep.

So far, Bright has not followed the example of the Buhl, Idaho, farmer who fenced off his sinking area in August, 1937, and charged admission. About 20 acres near Buhl sank 150 feet.

Highest Texas Court Begins 99th Session

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, Oct. 5 (AP) — The 99-year-old Supreme Court of Texas, final arbiter in Texas of civil litigation yesterday began a new term.

From now until next July this tribunal will meet, with a few exceptions, on each Wednesday, handing down hundreds of judgments affecting multiple phases of life in Texas not criminal.

Its last regular meeting was on July 26 after which the judges took personal vacations. Unlike the Court of Criminal Appeals, court of highest resort in criminal cases, the Supreme Court legally is in session throughout the year. However, during August and September it met only twice, on Sept. 9 and Sept. 26, to act in mandamus proceedings.

The court starts a new year with its docket in excellent condition. On July 26 a total of 212 causes were still pending, compared with 257 on the same date in 1938 and 298 as of July, 1937. In other words, the "back log" of litigation, accumulated over the years, is declining. A few years ago it numbered more than 400 causes.

Members of the court are Chief Justice C. M. Cretton and Associate Justices John H. Sharp and Richard M. Citta. In addition, there are six members of a commission which assists the court. Section A of the Commission of Appeals is composed of Judges J. D. Harvey, S. H. German and J. E. Hickman; Section B, C. B. Seidley, W. M. Taylor and A. B. Martin.

S. A. Philquist is clerk of the court.

Criminal Appeals Also Meets
Much younger in years but the equal of the Supreme Court in legal position, the Court of Criminal Appeals, likewise begins functioning in earnest today although its formal opening of a new term was last Monday.

Its constitutionally authorized summer recess began in June and from that time until the first Monday in October no business was transacted in the court.

Like the Supreme Court, the Court of Criminal Appeals will meet regularly each Wednesday until next June, and on the decisions of its three members will hang the fate of hundreds of criminal cases, including the lives of a number of persons under death sentence.

Members of this court are W. C. Morrow, presiding judge, and F. L. Hawkins and H. N. Graves, associates.

The commission of the Court of Criminal Appeals, which functions similarly to the commission of the Supreme Court, is made up of Judge George E. Christian and C. G. Krueger.

Clerk of the court is Olin Fisher. Supreme Court Organized 1840.

Although created by the Constitution of the Republic in 1836, the Supreme Court was not organized until January 13, 1840.

These and other facts about the court are pointed out by Philquist in a brief history.

At its first session, there were present Chief Justice Thomas J. Rusk and Associate Justices A. B. Shelby, William J. Jones, John T. Mills, James W. Robertson and E. T. Branch.

The first opinion, written by Judge Jones, was styled Hunter & Hyde versus Bernard Oelrich, had been appealed from Brazoria county where it was tried in 1837. Oelrich had sued to recover the value of a horse which he claimed was worth $350.

Prior to 1892 the court was itinerant. During the Republic it met at Austin and Washington, and one session was at Nacogdoches. From 1846 to 1851, sessions were in Austin only, but from 1851 to 1892 the court met once each year at Austin, Galveston and Tyler.

Before 1876 the Supreme Court had jurisdiction of both civil and criminal cases and determined questions of fact as well as of law. The present constitution, adopted in 1876, created two appellate courts, the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, giving them, respectively, jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases.

In 1892 the name of the Court of Appeals was changed to the Court of Criminal Appeals, and the constitutional amendment which authorized that change also authorized the Legislature to create courts of civil appeals as intermediate courts of appeals in civil cases.

Eye Specialist Gives Lecture At Panhandle

Special To The NEWS
PANHANDLE, Oct. 5—Highlighting the meeting of the County Children's Council Monday, was the lecture on "Care of the Eyes," by Dr. W. O. Murphy, eye specialist of Amarillo. Dr. Murphy urged parents to begin visual education, even before the child is born, by studying the eye history of both parents, and continue with periodical eye examinations throughout childhood and adolescence.

"Every child should have an eye examination preceding entrance to school, as cataracts and cross eyes need immediate attention, and contrary to common belief, cataracts do sometimes appear in early childhood," stated Dr. Murphy.

The stages of eye care were summarized by Dr. Murphy as prenatal, birth, childhood, adolescence, maturity, the degenerative stage, at about 40 or 45, and senile age, when senile cataracts appear. Dr. Murphy stressed the urgent need of immediate medical care for cross eyes, as they can be corrected with glasses if attention is given before six years of age, after that time it is generally an operative case," continued Dr. Murphy.

"A child will not out grow cross eyes, and it is a serious thing for a child to go through school with crossed eyes, for he can be saved needless mental anguish, concluded Dr. Murphy.

High school students and teachers were permitted to hear the lecture. The program was continued with a summary of health work being done by the various clubs in the county, which included assistance in sending crippled children to a clinic fitting glasses for indigent children, providing hot school lunches and milk for underprivileged children, giving cheer baskets sponsoring sanitary projects, providing student air for needy college and high school students, a clothing supply room, providing linens for the Red Cross loan closet, placing dependent children in homes, and the summer roundup by the various Parent-Teacher associations of the county.

Mrs. E. H. Grimes, president, outlined the meaning of the County Children's Council as "The tie that binds all of those organizations and individuals, who are interested in a healthy, happy, more efficient childhood."

"The most important thing to any community is its childhood, and the County Children's Council is vitally interested in the health and happiness of the children of our community," concluded Mrs. Grimes. Mrs. Grimes was re-elected president for another year, to be assisted by Mrs. J. P. Callahan, as co-chairman and Mrs. J. B. Howe secretary-treasurer.

The meeting was concluded with a covered dish luncheon at noon in the Methodist church basement.
