Latest Move Hints of Soviet Break With Herr Hitler

(By The Associated Press)

BELGRADE, April 1 — Government circles said today Yugoslavia's new government was seriously considering joining Soviet Russia and Turkey in a neutrality declaration.

Such a declaration was said to have been proposed by the Soviet union but ignored by Regent Prince Paul, who was ousted last week with the Cvetkovic government that signed the Axis three-power treaty.

Might Affect Germany

(Russia and Turkey issued identical statements March 25 pledging each other "full and comprehensive neutrality" in the event that either was obliged to fight to defend her territory).

Belief was expressed in informed quarters here that such a declaration could have an important psychological effect on the critical relations between Germany and Yugoslavia.

Milan Gabrilovic, former Yugoslav minister to Moscow and now minister without portfolio in the Yugoslav cabinet, was said to have been sent to Ankara as a special envoy to discuss the question, and then headed to Moscow.

British Leaders Expected

Premier General Dusan Simovic, gradually reorganizing the country, appointed four men friendly to his regime as district governors.

The government also delivered its offer to the demands of the Croat minority. Terms were not disclosed. Croat leaders, with Dr. Vladimir Macek presiding, studied them at Zagreb.

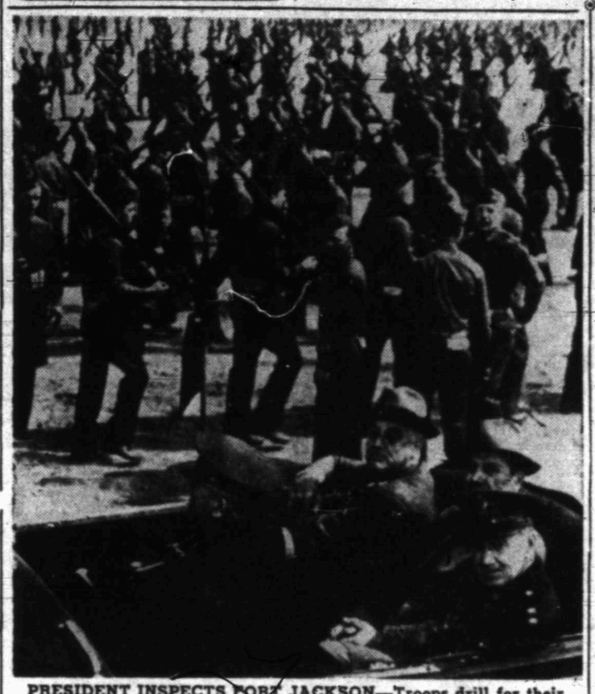

Rumors which could not be confirmed said that British foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and General Sir John J. Dill, chief of Britain's imperial general staff, would come here soon.

Despite German-Yugoslav tension, both countries continued to maintain relations and the opinion was expressed in some quarters that the situation might not be clarified for another 10 days.

Under circumstances suggestive of approaching armed conflict, Germany completed formal evacuation of her nationals from this country, which only a week ago she triumphantly welcomed into the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance.

English Using New Bomb To Blast Bases

Nazi Port, Ships Suffer Damaging Overnight Blows

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, April 1 — A new type of high explosive bomb produced results which "appeared to be devastating" in a British overnight raid on the German port and industrial city of Emden, the air ministry said today.

Bremen also was reported heavily hit, with ship-building yards the principal targets, but the ministry mentioned the new bombs—their nature not announced — only in the raid on Emden.

Debris Litters Area

"Masses of debris flying through the air were outlined against the glow of the fires," a communique said in describing the effects, "and the results appeared to be devastating."

The ministry of information quoted a pilot as saying he saw "houses take to the air" when the bombs burst.

Smaller-scale raids also were made on Bremerhaven and Oldenberg and the Nazi-held Netherlands harbor of Rotterdam.

Although London was bomb-free for the eleventh successive night, German bombers caused "considerable damage" in sharp stabs at a northeast town.

Nazi Destroyer Bombed

Striking at German seapower, British air units scored two bomb hits on a Nazi destroyer yesterday off the Frisian islands, causing her to halt with a heavy list, the air ministry said, and raided German supply ships.

The German destroyer reported damaged was said by the air ministry news service to have been escorting a small convoy. When last seen it was listing heavily and "black smoke was pouring from the stern," the news service said.

Later yesterday afternoon another German convoy was sighted and a direct hit clouded one of the ships in quantities of black smoke, according to the service.

Island Base Attacked

Gun emplacements and camouflaged buildings among the sand dunes on one of the Dutch Frisian islands also were attacked.

Man Keeps Promise To Escape Alimony

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 1. (U.P.)—Ross Sharp thought the nation's alimony laws were all wrong.

When a friend of his wife, Elizabeth, got a $12.50-a-week support order, Sharp's anger boiled over, Mrs. Sharp testified.

"He told me, 'you don't need to think you'll ever get a court order on me—I'll go so far you'll never see me again'."

That was 25 years ago, when Sharp was 35. He made good his threat.

"I've never seen or heard of him since," Mrs. Sharp said.

The court granted her petition for divorce.

Price Boosted For Crude Oil

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, April 1 — Crude oil prices in Kansas and Oklahoma were increased five cents to $1.15 a barrel today by three companies.

Standard Oil company (Ind) was the first to post the higher prices

HIGHER IN TEXAS

WICHITA FALLS, April 1 (AP) — Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company today posted a five cent per barrel increase on crude purchased in North Texas fields. The new schedule begins with a two cent differential on oil below 21 gravity, going to a top of $1.08 per barrel on 40 gravity and above. The former top was $1.03.

for the two states. Increases by other concerns already had been posted in New Mexico, Texas, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

Skelly Oil company quickly followed Standard's lead in Kansas. Skelly buys 30,000 barrels daily in Kansas, none in Oklahoma. Barco Oil Co., which buys 9,000 in Kansas and Oklanoma, also immediately met the Standard increase. Higher prices were effective at 7 a. m. today.

Follow Upward Movement

One Standard official said the company was following an upward movement started Saturday by Humble Oil and Refining company in Texas.

A Skelly official said "fundamental improvement in the refined oil market and a higher rate of demand" contributed to the price rise.

First In Two Years

In most of the oil producing areas it was the first increase in more than two years. It was the first basic change in the Kansas and Oklahoma price structure since Oct. 17, 1938.

While Standard officials declined to say how many barrels the company purchased daily in the two states, they admitted it was the largest individual buyer.

Oil men here expected other purchasers to follow Standard's lead.

The company's new schedule for Kansas and Oklahoma ranges from 75 cents for 21 gravity and

Protests Made To U. S. Over Seizure Act

French Craft Are Under Watch As FBI Enters Case

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1 —Germany and Italy have demanded that the United States release Axis ships taken into protective custody during the week end and also members of the crews, it was learned reliably today.

The demands were made in notes of protest lodged with the state department by the Axis embassies late yesterday.

Contents Kept Secret

The state department and the embassies alike declined to make public the contents of the notes.

It was learned from informed sources, however, that both notes demanded release of the ships and the crews.

Germany and Italy were said to have challenged the right of the United States to take possession of the ships or to take members of the crews into custody.

May Be Ignored

Secretary of State Hull indicated that the protests were receiving scant consideration and would have no effect on the government's policy.

(In Berlin today, a German government spokesman charged that "the law has been solemnly suspended" in the United States' ship action. However, he said he was not yet authorized to make a strictly official declaration).

Gaston Henry Haye, the French ambassador, told reporters after a visit to the state department that it was his "understanding" that no United States action was contemplated against French merchant vessels in American ports.

Disposition Unknown

He said he was given to understand that French and other foreign ships in American harbors might, however, be subjected to surveillance.

Speaker Rayburn, returning to the capitol from a conference of legislative leaders with the president, said Mr. Roosevelt "made it quite plain" that no plans had been worked out for disposition of the foreign ships now in federal custody.

Secretary Hull indicated at his press conference that efforts were in progress to formulate a common hemisphere policy in connection with Axis and other foreign ships

U. S. Urged To 'Take' Plants

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1. — Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House naval committee introduced today legislation to permit the government to take over the Allis-Chalmers and other struck defense plants upon determination merely that such stoppages are interfering with the defense program.

Authoritative sources have hinted that such a measure might be offered with administration backing. Vinson said, however, that "I am doing this on my own hook."

Could Take Over Plants

In a statement to newsmen he added that the legislation was designed to apply to strikers what the conscription act now applies to plant owners.

"Under existing law," he said, "the president is empowered to take over and operate manufacturing plants only in the event that the 'individual, firm, association, company, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry or the responsible head or heads thereof owning or operating' such plant refuses to give the United States preference in the execution of orders, refuses to manufacture the materials ordered, or refuses to furnish them at a reasonable price.

Armored Fortress Used By Police At Milwaukee

(By The Associated Press)

Two men were shot and wounded at Harlan county, Ky., today as picketing of bituminous mines started while negotiators worked at New York on a new agreement for the 330,000 miners of the eight-state Appalachian region. The old contract expired last night.

President Roosevelt last night urged a speedy coal agreement.

New violence also flared at the gates of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company at Milwaukee and police again used an armored fortress to break picket ranks which were trying to halt a back-to-work movement. Yesterday police shot hissing tear gas from the car.

Miner Is Arrested

Earl Jones, about 52, was shot at the Mary Ellen Coal corporation mine six miles from Harlan as picket lines formed. Sheriff Herbert Cawood said he had arrested Bill Gibbs, a miner, and that he had admitted shooting Jones. The sheriff said he took three pistols and a rifle from Gibbs, and that one of the pistols belonged to Jones. Frank Joyner, picket at Totz, also was shot.

Police and deputies battled a crowd at Milwaukee which stretched for two blocks along the Allis-Chalmers main office. One officer was smeared with yellow paint from a thrown bottle. Several fist fights broke out, after pickets cut trolley ropes on three street cars hauling workers.

Operations Important

The president's telegram to the joint Appalachian conference said: "Uninterrupted operation of bituminous coal industries extremely important. Suggest if necessary you continue negotiations during Tuesday looking to satisfactory arrangement."

A further conference already

Mexico Will Seize 12 Axis Vessels

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, April 1—A responsible source at the Mexican navy ministry said that orders had been issued to marines and customs guards at Vera Cruz and Tampico to place 12 German and Italian ships in "protective custody."

The Mexican gunboat Queretaro, which has been patrolling the Gulf of Mexico was reported steaming toward Tampico with 100 marines to board the nine Italian ships an done German there. The Queretaro will remain there as a precaution against any dash by the ships to the open seas.

Two Are Seized

The 4,174-ton German passenger ship Hameln and the Italian tanker Giorgio Fassio, 6,735 tons, were taken into custody by about 40 Mexican marines and sailors at Vera Cruz. They encountered no resistance.

One officer and a squad of 10 or 15 men will be stationed on each ship to prevent the ships from being sabotaged, set afire, blown up or sailing, the navy ministry informant said.

Four Axis Craft Set Afire In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 1 (AP)—Fires broke out simultaneously early today on three Italian and one German ship in Puerto Cabello and hours later the conflagrations were still uncontrolled.

The ships are the Joli Fascio, Teresa Odero and Prottera, Italian tankers, and the Sesostris, a German freighter.

The fires caused great alarm in the city and crowds gathered at the docks. Crewmen threw themselves into the sea to escape and were picked up by launches. The fires were discovered about 1 a.

Germany Declares Break Very Near

(By The United Press)

BERLIN, April 1 — Nazi quarters said today that relations with Yugoslavia have reached a "grave crisis" and the German press broke out the scare headlines last seen before the Czech and Polish campaigns to charge that "Yugoslav Terror Increases!"

German sources said flatly that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and the British Imperial Chief of Staff, Gen. Sir John G. Dill, have arrived in Belgrade.

Of Great Importance

They said this visit was "obviously of great importance at the present juncture and it undoubtedly will be Eden's aim not to calm down the situation but to aggravate it further."

It was assumed here that Eden and Dill already have begun conferences with the Yugoslav high command.

The situation in Yugoslavia was said to be worsening steadily and a responsible German source said he saw little likelihood that a peaceful settlement could be brought about.

Bad In Provinces

"The anti-German tendency is constantly increasing," one spokesman said. "Matters are not so bad in Belgrade but in the provinces the situation is taking on catastrophic proportions, particularly in those areas where there are minority Germans."

Evacuation of German nationals was said to be almost completed and there are no plans at present for the evacuation of the 500,000 or so German minority members in Yugoslavia. However, according to reports published here, many of them already have crossed the frontiers into Germany, Hungary and Rumania.

Yugoslav denials of persecution of Germans were rejected by Nazi spokesmen.

Denials Only Theoretical

"Their denials are only theoretical," he said. "They are trying to escape the consequences. What

Auto And Clock Are Reported As Stolen

If someone had not stolen W. W. Gammill's heavy sedan Monday night police could have told reporters this morning that the sum of law infractions reported over the night could have been nothing but a clock taken from a residence at 2412 Eighth street.

But the Gammill car, a 1940 Mercury, green and bearing license number 873-994, was taken from Gammill's 707 Avenue W residence.

At noon there was no report of its having been seen anywhere.

Mrs. Dora McCarty of 2318 Fifteenth street reported theft of the clock.

Land Bank In Texas Sought

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, April 1.—A constitutional amendment, to establish a state land bank was approved today by the Texas House of Representatives.

The vote was 105 to 24 and if the resolution gets the approval of 21 members in the Senate it can be submitted to a vote of the people.

To Buy Homesteads

Rep. Dan Dove of Groesbeck and 55 others introduced the resolution, which provides that the legislature—if the people approve—can supply "adequate appropriation" for an agency to loan money for the purchase of farm homesteads. A similar proposition was approved in a 1918 Democratic party referendum, but never was acted upon by the legislature.

Rep. W. C. Montgomery of Houston said that the federal land bank makes funds available to the larger-scale farmers, but that tenant farmers and others who "would like to buy and work 75 to 200 acres" need a state loan agency. Rep. Earl Huddleston of Oglesby added that the Farm Se-

Balkan Crisis Felt Even In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, April 1 (U.P.) — The Balkan crisis created by Yugoslavia's break with the Axis reverberated even in Fort Worth.

Jack Ray, an attorney, wanted to send $1,000 to Mrs. Lenka Naidoff, of Prilepe, Markovgrad, Yugoslavia. The money was left her by her late husband, Stoian Naidoff. He was reluctant to send the amount, however, for fear the money would fall into the hands of Axis powers.

But now it's different.

"I'm going to write her tomorrow," Ray said today.

One Man Is Killed In Naval Explosion

KEARNY, N. J., April 1 (AP)—One workman was killed and two were seriously injured today in an acetylene gas explosion in the hull of a U. S. navy destroyer under construction on the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company yard.

The injured were Henry A. Boutot, 38, of Elizabeth, and Benjamin F. Houth, 41, of Jersey City. The name of the dead man was not immediately available.

Britain's War Cost Tops 15 Billions

LONDON, April 1 (AP)—Britain spent a record total of 3,867,245,670 pounds (about $15,546,000,000) in the fiscal year ended last night.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood said this compared with 3,317,972,855 pounds (about $13,338,000,000) in the year before.

Total ordinary revenue was 1,408,867,097 pounds (about $5,663,000,000) leaving a deficit of 2,458,378,573 pounds (about $9,862,000,000).

Turkish Press Claims Germany Will Lose Because Of Balkans

(By The Associated Press)

ISTANBUL, Apr. 1.—Turkish newspapers expressed belief today that Germany would lose the war because of the Balkan situation.

The newspaper Vatan declared in an editorial:

"Germany will lose the second World war sooner than expected, not by reason of American aid and the British navy but chiefly because of her great error in miscalculating the will to independence of some small Balkan nations."

The newspaper, Yeni Sabah, said:

"Hitler promised that by early spring he would conquer the British. The air attack on England failed. The attempt to conquer the Balkans has failed. . . . It begins to look as if England this spring will destroy Germany, not Germany who will destroy England."

Ikdam said:

"The Germans will not fight in the Balkans until they have exhausted every diplomatic means to gain their end."

Bill To "Freeze" Cotton Is Favored

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP) — Chairman Smith (D-SC) said today that the Senate agriculture committee had unanimously approved his bill to "freeze" stocks of cotton on which government loans have been made.

The measure directs the secretary of agriculture to take title to all cotton now under government loan and hold it until Congress orders otherwise.

Smith said that the government had title to about 6,010,000 bales and loans on another 4,800,000 bales. He said growers would be "paid any equity they have in the loan cotton."

Nineteen Past Presidents Honored By Federation

A regular fifth Monday meeting of the Church Federation at the First Christian church yesterday afternoon was attended by more than 200 women. The occasion honored all past presidents of the federation and St. John's Methodist Society of Christian Service and the First Christian Woman's council were co-hostesses.

The doxology was sung and a prayer given. Committee reports were presented and two girls from the Community Center, Willene Anderson and Lucy Bull, sang a duet, "Open Mine Eyes" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. P. H. Laverty.

Mrs. Dorothy Hail Pitman of Amarillo and Lubbock gave the devotion on "The New Search For God." Mrs. Elliott Taylor was program chairman.

Memorial Held

Mrs. R. A. Mills, president of the federation, gave a tribute to the past presidents who attended and mentioned those who have moved to other cities. She also conducted a service to the memory of the late Mrs. H. T. Kimbro and the late Mrs. Joe Penney.

Past presidents at the service Monday afternoon were Mrs. C. J. Wagner of the First Presbyterian church; Mrs. W. C. Rylander of the First Methodist; Mrs. J. A. Pressley of the First Presbyterian; Mrs. A. T. Biggers of Monroe and of the First Christian; Mrs. J. H. Hankins of the First Baptist; Mrs. J. H. Cox of the First Baptist, Mrs. G. W. McCleary of the First Presbyterian; Mrs. A. W. Evans of the First Methodist; Mrs. Mark Allen of the St. Paul's Episcopal; Mrs. E. L. Robertson of the First Presbyterian.

Utah Co-Eds To Be Here

PROVO, Utah, April 1 (Special) — Among the delegates from all parts of the nation who will go to Lubbock for the national convention of Associated Women Students April 2 to 4, none will bring with them any greater anticipation than a pair of coeds from Brigham Young university.

Thelma Farnsworth and Lucy Cannon, the delegates from Brigham Young, are eager to see Texas Technological college where the Cougars played such a thrilling contest last fall that fans are still talking about it. Members of the colorful "Y" squad have told the delegates of their high respect for the Red Raiders, and have praised the hospitality of the Lubbock townspeople who entertained them in typical Texas fashion.

To Conduct Panel

Miss Farnsworth, president of A. W. S., will conduct a panel discussion on "The Organization of Student Government" at the convention in Lubbock. Miss Cannon, 1941-2 president-elect of the B. Y. U. women's organization, is a granddaughter of Heber J. Grant, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon). This church sponsors the 65 year-old institution which bears the name of Brigham Young, its famous early leader who led the colonization of the intermountain empire.

Traveling by way of southern California, Arizona, Mexico, and West Texas, the Utah coeds expect to arrive in Lubbock Wednesday night.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

With the army taking thousands of young men away from their girls, and parking them in camps, thousands of sweet young things are going to have to learn how to write letters that have what it takes to keep a young man interested.

Most schools don't teach such courses. And what with the telephone, ready-made greeting telegrams at twenty-five cents per, and greeting cards at a nickel, the art of letter writing isn't a subject the young know much about.

But the girls had better learn something about it — and in a hurry, too — if they want to keep themselves in the minds of the young men who are house guests of Uncle Sam.

Here are a few pointers for the girl who sits down to write a letter she hopes will be saved by a young man in uniform:

If he is the romantic type—don't write on the typewriter. If you're not sure about this point, assume that he is. Most unmarried men are.

DON'T TELL HIM ABOUT YOUR GOOD TIMES

Don't start out with too much enthusiasm. "Dearest Bill" is better than a lot of goo — because your letter may catch your young man in anything but a romantic mood.

Start out talking about Bill. Confine your talk about yourself to the middle of the letter, and end up by talking about Bill.

Treat Bill's new occupation as one you're proud of. Secretly he'll think he deserves some respect and admiration for what he's going through. So give it to him.

Don't tell Bill how well Tom, with bad eyes, is doing in his work. If you have to mention Tom (and why do you?), hint that you think it must be kind of tough on a man's ego to be turned down by the army.

Don't tell him all about last night's party, and what a wonderful time you had—even though you think you can make it all right by saying, "I wish you could have been here. Then it would have been perfect." He couldn't — so skip it.

Encourage him to write about the funny things that happen in camp — and about his new "pals." If you can do that, you'll hear from him more often.

Girl Scout Troops Are Organized In Lubbock

Two Girl Scout troops are being organized in Lubbock this week. Monday afternoon 24 girls met after school at Dupre to organize a troop with Mrs. H. H. Van Aken as leader. Mrs. Guy L. Trow, principal, assisted.

A troop is to be organized at the First Baptist church with Miss Doris Hopping as leader and Miss Ruth Hereford as assistant.

Musical Selections, Talks And Quiz Program Given

At a covered dish supper given by the American Legion post and auxiliary Monday night and attended by 100 persons a novel program was presented which included musical selections, dance numbers, talks and a "doctor quiz" test.

Charles Whitacre, nineteenth district commander, was master of ceremonies. The program included talks by J. Louis Murfee, post commander, and Mrs. J. H. Hackfield; auxiliary president; Hawaiian guitar solo, Norma Lee Schudel; accordion solo, Travis Holley; violin solo, Mary Holley. They are pupils of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hall. Pupils of Miss Mary Ruth Diltz gave dance numbers.

George S. Berry introduced every one present and he and J. A. Raley, Lloyd Johnson, O. A. Terry, Murfee and Durwood Bradley and Mesdames Ray F. Hinchey, R. J. Watson, H. D. Stanley, W. H. Waln and Miss Mae Murfee participated in the quiz contest. The women were questioned about the World war and the men on etiquette and the former were voted winners.

The committee in charge of the supper was made up of Mesdames Fred Higbee, Stanley and Raley.

News Briefs

Critically Ill—Foy Bourn, owner of White Way grocery, at 1822 Texas avenue, is critically ill in Hillcrest hospital at Waco, friends said. He underwent major surgery last week. Mrs. Bourn, Mrs. Isaac Harcrow of Portales, N. M., his mother, and Mrs. Bob Echols of Matador, Mrs. Bourn's sister, are at his side.

Meeting Is Announced — A luncheon and business meeting of T. E. L. Sunday school class of First Baptist church will be held in the activities' center at the church Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Carl Roberds is teacher and Mrs. J. H. Agee is president of the class.

Purchases Service Station—Robert S. Rodgers, jr., has purchased the service station formerly operated by C. J. (Skinny) Bell at Broadway and Avenue Q. Rodgers, assistant secretary-treasurer of the Lubbock National Farm Loan association, is to continue in that capacity and operate the station with the same personnel. Bell has moved to Crosbyton where he purchased an automobile agency.

County H-D Clubs Have Paid Educational Fee

Three hundred and forty-three members of Lubbock County Home Demonstration clubs have paid their five cent educational fee, which makes the county 100 per cent again this year, it was announced at a council meeting Saturday. Sixteen of the 17 clubs were represented at the meeting held at the courthouse. Monroe, Slaton and Hurlwood clubs were 100 per cent in attendance.

Scout Cub Kite Meet Set Here Saturday

Annual Boy Scout cub kite contest for cubs in Lubbock will be staged in Mackenzie state park near Meadowbrook clubhouse Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to announcement this morning by Dr. C. C. Schmidt, council cub commissioner.

The fees for a week-end cubdad encampment at Camp Post will be awarded to the cubs with the highest flying, the prettiest and the best of the tail-less kites.

Approximately 200 cubs are expected to compete, Dr. Schmidt said.

Miss Beatrice Schilling has become one of Britain's greatest experts on internal combustion engines.

A study of performances discloses homing pigeons can fly 600 miles a day.

Britain's Sea Losses Reveal Drop

Prison Terms Given Monday

LEVELLAND, April 1 (Special)—The jury panel for the present term of 72nd district court here is to return Wednesday when remaining cases on the criminal docket are scheduled for call, according to Burton S. Burks, district attorney and Victor H. Lindsey, his assistant.

Monday's proceedings in the court resulted in the imposition of three penitentiary sentences, three jail terms and two suspended sentences.

Judge Daniel A. Blair also revoked suspension of a five-year penalty against Adolfo Lopez Farias, alias Adolfo Lopez for the murder of Jesus Ramiro in 1937. The term will be cumulative with a sentence of three years assessed in Wilson county for assault to murder.

Farias, a Mexican, was brought here for pronouncement of sentence after Judge Blair had issued a bench warrant to obtain his release from the penitentiary. He had been tried here early in 1938.

Frank Dice and Jess Spence each pleaded guilty of burglary and received two-year penitentiary sentences. Dice will be allowed credit for time service in jail since last Dec. 23.

More Action Wednesday

A two-year sentence was given Glen Teal for forgery. He previously had received a suspended sentence in Jones county, court officials said.

Joe J. Turner was allowed suspension of a two-year sentence for passing a forged instrument after he entered a guilty plea before a jury, with J. D. Thomason as foreman.

Arvel Hill was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for passing a forged instrument. He pleaded guilty.

On guilty pleas to drunk driving charges, Jake Jones, Ernest Belcher and William Bilbray each was fined $50 and given five-day jail terms. Their drivers licenses were suspended for six months.

Farm Bureau Unit To Be Organized

Organization of a unit of the Texas Farm Bureau federation in Southwest Ward community was begun at a meeting in the school Monday night.

Approximately 30 farmers attended and seven joined the county farm organization, W. M. Ross was chairman. The farmers took no immediate action on organization of the federation branch but indications were the group would organize soon, a spokesman said.

Speakers were Walter Y. Wells, AAA administrator, Henry Elder, Lubbock High school vocational agriculture teacher, and R. L. Hooten.

A similar meeting will be conducted at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Idalou High school. A county meeting will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in 72nd district courtroom, and another local meeting at Cooper school Wednesday night. Other meetings for the week are Slaton Thursday afternoon, New Deal Thursday night and Shallowater Friday night.

Woman Hasn't Drunk Water In 20 Years

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif., April 1 (AP)—Celebrating her 90th birthday anniversary today, Miss E. LONDON, April 1.—British, Allied and neutral merchant shipping losses for the week ended March 23 were 17 ships totaling 59,141 tons, the admiralty announced today.

The total was 10 ships and 35,261 tons under revised figures for the preceding week.

The losses for the week ended March 23 were given as 10 British merchantmen of 24,940 tons, six Allied of 27,528 tons and one neutral ship of 6,673 tons.

The amended total losses for the previous week were 27 ships totaling 94,402 tons.

Optimism Withheld

Pointing out that the losses in the latest week were less than the previous three weeks, an authoritative source nevertheless said: "It would be unwise to deduce that our troubles are nearly over or that we have mastered this great menace to our ultimate victory.

"We must still be prepared for losses, sometimes exceptionally high and sometimes lower than this week's figures. It is too early to jump to any conclusion but there is no need for alarm or despondency."

The average weekly loss since the war began is given by the British as 65,000 tons, excluding ships sunk in the army evacuation from Dunkerque.

The economy of the Philippines is largely dependent on four major crops sold in the United States—sugar, copra and cocoanut oil, manila hemp and tobacco.

CALIFORNIA OIL WORTH $10,000 PER BARREL

FAMOUS FOR MEDICINAL VALUES

Radium is of course noted for being worth a fortune per ounce but a strange oil from the hills in Colusa County, California, takes the prize for Petroleum values.

Although it is drilled for like ordinary oil wells, this oil comes in a sulphonated solution and only one gallon of oil is recovered from each 2500 to 5000 gallons of fluid pumped from the wells, which yield one to five gallons of oil per day.

It has been famous for generations in Colusa and adjoining counties in California, where people are known to have driven 150 miles and labor half a day to gather half an ounce of it where it seeped from the ground, in order to treat their ailments.

Containing no gasoline, kerosene, naptha, asphaltum or paraffine, which are common to ordinary crude oil, this Colusa product carries about 4% of Iodine, 3% "Ichthyol", .07% Sulphur, a trace of camphor and turpentine, nitrogen gas and radium emanations—but no radium. Science papers by eminent physicians state that, "Radium emanation is accepted as harmoniously in the body as is sunlight by the withering plant". "The emanation is taken up in the blood and as quick as lightning, goes to all parts of the body where it kills or checks the disease germs." This remarkable oil is now sold by

A few weeds grow in every garden

Among the thousands of decent law-abiding beer retail establishments in America there may be a few disreputable "joints."

While it is the brewers' responsibility to brew good beer and the retailers' responsibility to sell beer under wholesome conditions, nevertheless the brewing industry is concerned about these undesirable places and wants them cleaned up.

We want them cleaned up because they endanger your right to enjoy good beer . . . and our right to make it.

We want them cleaned up because they endanger the 31,165 jobs and $22,076,182 payroll created by beer in Texas since re-legalization. Beer contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in taxes in this state.

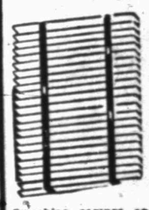

These benefits are worth preserving. You can help us, if you will, by (1) patronizing only the reputable, legal places that sell beer and by (2) reporting any law violations to the duly constituted law enforcement authorities.

Little, Who Thinks "It's All In The Books," Shooting For Masters' Crown

Another Veteran Of Diamond World— Root--With 193 Triumphs--Aims Big Guns At 200 In 21st Year Of Play In Organized Baseball

BY ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES, April 1—Charles Henry Root goes into his twenty-first year in organized baseball and his fifteenth with the Chicago Cubs this season aiming to reach and pass the 200-mark goal of major league victories.

The likeable veteran needs but seven wins to reach 200, a feat achieved by few pitchers. He will be given every opportunity to garner those victories.

"I plan to use Root as a starting pitcher this year, and it'll be up to him," said Manager Jimmy Wilson during the Cubs' training period at Santa Catalina island.

Charlie Root—the islanders call him "Mr. Root"—is ready for the test. He's been headed for the shelf several times, but he's still in there chunking that ball.

$1 A Year—Plus

Charlie had a little salary argument with the Cubs this spring. It was said they offered him a contract for $1 — with a promise, of course, of real money if he had a good year. That was what they did in 1935, and the old boy came through with 15 wins and only 8 defeats—a great year for a man they figured was ready to retire.

History may repeat itself this year. Root hopes it will. He wants to prove that he's not through, that he can still pitch winning ball. Wilson has his own ideas of handling hurlers. Some of them he works often, others less frequently. It will be interesting to see how he works Root, and how Root works.

Root, 42 years old, was born in Middletown, O., played sandlot ball there and attracted the attention of the St. Louis Browns. They farmed him out to Terre Haute in 1921, and in a year or so he was released to Los Angeles. In 1924 he won 21 games and lost 16; the next year he won 25 and dropped 13.

He went to the Cubs in 1926, and he's been there ever since. Once a blazing fast ball pitcher, he now relies on control and craft. He and Gabby Hartnett formed the oldest battery combination in the game until Hartnett left the Cubs this season.

The old timers are pulling for Root — and so are a lot of young fans, who recall his spectacular come-back and feat of pitching the Cubs to the pennant in 1935.

Hale Center Primes For District Meet

HALE CENTER, April 1 (Special) — Hale Center's Owls, winners of the Hale county track and field meet Monday, are preparing for the District Three meet at Texas Tech Friday and Saturday, and they believe they have more than one performer capable of placing in district competition.

Heading the Owl team is Gayle Lemmons, who scored 18 1-4 points as the Hale Center crew piled up 69 3-4 points. Lemmons paced the century dash in 10.3 seconds, won the shot put with a toss of 36 feet 8 inches, and the broad jump with a 19 4 1-2 inch leap, was second in the 220-yard dash and ran on the winning 440-relay team.

His teammate, Hammitt, was second in point-scoring with 11 1-4. Hammitt won the 220 and 440 yard dashes and was on the winning mile relay team.

Hale Center won or tied for first in all but four events and outstripped by far the nearest competitor, Abernathy. The Antelopes had 41 points.

Abernathy won the junior high and junior grade championships with 31 1-4 and 40 1-2 points, respectively.

McCARTHY'S BOYS CLICKING

FORT WWORTH, April 1 (AP) — Joe McCarthy's "experiments" with the New York Yankees' infield this spring seem to have been more than a little successful. When Joe Gordon, former second sacker, dropped a throw in the eighth inning yesterday it was his first error in more than 200 chances as a first baseman. And Phil Rizzuto, rookie shortstop, hit safely in his 15th consecutive game.

Red Raiders Looking Good In Grid Drills

Texas Tech's football Red Raiders this afternoon will drill for the fourth time since spring training began last week, and are expected to continue light conditioning drills and work on fundamentals.

It will be several days before the boys are turned loose to bump heads in real, honest to goodness scrimmage, Coaches Dell Morgan and Berl Huffman said after Monday's session.

"We're going to be physically ready before we stage any kind of a scrimmage," Morgan said. "But I don't mind saying that the boys certainly do look good in their first three workouts. They have the spirit from which winning ball clubs are made. They are eager to learn and it certainly is a pleasure to instruct such a fine bunch of boys."

Some of the sophomore backs who are "catching on" and looking exceptionally good in the workouts are J. R. Callahan, J. L. "Muley" Bates, Maxey McKnight, Howard Alford and Marvin McKown.

Scribes Given Taste Of What Faces Pros

FORT WGRTH, April 1 (UP) — Sportswriters from the Southwest took home today a full picture of the hazards and beauty of Colonial club golf course where the National open will be played next June.

The sportswriters were guests of club owner Marvin Leonard and home-pro Bob Byrnes at a pro-amateur affair yesterday. A dinner was given after the golfing event.

Jimmy Gauntt of Longview and Dudley Taylor of Oklahoma City won the pro-amateur with a best ball 65. Two teams tied for second. Francis Scheider of Oklahoma City Country club and Bus Ham, Oklahoma sports editor; and Art Colver, Dallas, and Willis Stamper, of Jacksboro, scored 68's.

King Charles II enjoyed pleasure boating in the Channel Isles in 1646, when he was but a boy.

Augusta Scene Of Event For Pro Brigade

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1 —With five years as a professional golfer behind him, Lawson Little will go into the Augusta Masters' tournament Thursday bidding for victory as the proper way to celebrate his fifth anniversary as a pro.

It was in the 1936 Masters that Little switched from the pay-for-play to the play-for-pay ranks, a step which caused considerable fuss. Great things were predicted for the husky California, who had swept the U. S. and British amateur ranks clean for two years, and he was expected to do well particularly because he was such a fine putter.

Tops As Amateur

There have been few better amateur putters at anytime but it didn't take Little long to discover the word "amateur" made a big difference, and that knocking the ball into the cup on a perfectly-tended surface was a far cry, not to say shout, from trying to guide it home through some of the rice fields the touring pros encounter.

Little, in fact, suddenly discovered that his putting stroke was the one big flaw in his game. On the smooth greens of championship courses he could chop at his putts and cut them and they'd still roll through.

Practice Makes . . .

"But on the bumpy greens we often run into," Lawson explains, "I'd start the ball off with a bounce and it never did stop jumping.

So Little, who had considered himself a graduate student in putting, had to go back to grade school. With "Professor", Byron Nelson, the P. G. A. champion and Cam Puget, a California pro, as his tutors, he worked for a year and a half before he was satisfied.

The results are right on the record books. Last year, of course, he won the National open at Cleveland; this winter he threw in a 62, equal to the P. G. A. tournament record, in taking the Texas open, and he also has scored major victories in the Canadian and San Francisco match play opens.

Record Does Talking

Here at Augusta, where he set the amateur record of 288 in 1935, the best he has done is tie for third two years ago, but he has reason to feel that this time "things are gonna be different."

In other winters he has come down here when he wasn't hitting the ball well. This time that doesn't hold true. His last three times out he tied Nelson for fifth in the North-South, tied Ben Hogan for fifth at Greensboro, and lost to Hogan by two shots at Asheville. Even Little, by the way, cannot explain how he went from a third-round 66 to a final 76 in that tournament.

"I didn't tighten up or choke in the clutch, just because I thought I had a chance to win one" says Lawson, who is built like a blocking quarterback. "All I can give you is my own philosophy—that it simply was written in the books beforehand for me to finish second and Ben to win."

Which may be a good philosophy, particularly if the books should show Lawson Little winning at Augusta this year.

Hostak Meets Brown In Middleweight Go

SEATTLE, April 1 (AP) — A former champion and an uncrowned champion-beater were confident of victory by a knockout as they awaited the weigh-in for their middleweight fight here tonight.

The jaunty opponents were Al Hostak, Seattle's one-time "Savage Slav" who won and lost the National Boxing association middleweight title twice, and Ben Brown of Atlanta, Ga. Brown has a victory and a loss to his credit against Ken Overlin, the present California-New York-recognized champion.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Some of the Cubs are a bit piqued because the midnight curfew doesn't apply to Dizzy Dean—Atlanta has come through for Coach Bill Alexander by shifting from Central to Eastern time, which gives Georgia Tech another hour of football practice . . . Note to Van Mungo: One of the more reliable Broadway gossip columns says you'll be back with the Brooks, if you don't hoist another stein during the rest of the training season . . . Old Ty Cobb is in Augusta for the Masters' tournament . . . Billy Conn turned down a $10,000 flicker offer from M-G-M because it would interfere with his tune-ups for Joe Louis.

BUSY MAN'S NEWSPAPER

A wire brought bad news. Doctors have ordered C. L. (Poss) Parsons, sports editor of the Denver Post and one of the best in the west, to a sea level location for an indefinite stay. (Keep on punching like you've been doing on the Post for 18 years, Poss) . . . About all the southern brethren can find out about Bill Huie, who authored that Alabama football piece in Collier's, is that he looks a little like Charlie Chaplin and wears spats—yep, spats—in Cullman, Ala. Nobody else would dare do that . . . Looks like the fight writers muffed one when they said Joe Louis was the first man to put Abe Simon on the deck. Big Jim Thompson did it in Pittsburgh . . . Mike Jacobs has issued his annual blast on betting in the Garden . . . Just skip it.—It's April Fool day.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

Babe Dahlgren won a membership in a Boston golf club for socking the first homer for the Bees . . . Dixie writers who have been watching Jim Braddock's comeback try say the old boy is gone for good . . . Fat and soft from good living . . . Billy Herman is cold shouldering that talk about trading him to the Dodgers . . . Will someone kindly tell us how Rollins college manages to wind up with all those tennis stars from the coast? . . . The Derby colony is growing at Churchill Downs, and more than 400 horses are training at Belmont park for the Jamaica opening . . . "Sporting News" says Nick Altrock, Washington coach and comedian who fell out of a tree this winter, may never walk again.

Chisox Resume Rivalry With Wilson Clan

(By The United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 1—The Chicago White Sox and their cross-city rivals, the Cubs, resume their exhibition series today. To date the Cubs have won three out of five encounters. If the weekend rains abate, Claude Passeau and Vern Olsen will pitch for the Cubs, Eddie Smith and Thornton Lee for the Sox.

INDIANS PLAY GIANTS

DECATUR, Ala., April 1 (UP)—Mel Harder pitches for the Cleveland Indians against the New York Giants today. He will be opposed by Hal Schumacher. Oscar Grimes's double, a sacrifice and a long fly enabled the Indians to beat the Giants, 5-4 yesterday. The win tied their all-time exhibition record at 44 victories each.

DI MAGGIO IN FORM

FORT WORTH, April 1 (UP)—The New York Yankees play the Dallas Rebels of the Texas league here today because the Rebels' ballyard was destroyed by fire. Joe DiMaggio's three doubles and a homer featured the Yankees' 16-4 rout of the San Antonio Missions of the Texas league yesterday.

MOSES DEFINITELY OUT

LOS ANGELES, April 1 (UP) — Wally Moses, the Philadelphia Athletics' right fielder, definitely was lost to the A's today for the start of the season. He injured his left shoulder in a car accident near Lubbock, Tex., prior to the start of spring training and it has not responded to treatment. Eddie Collins, jr., or Dee Miles were expected to get the outfield call until Moses returns to the lineup. The A's tilt with Hollywood was rained out yesterday and the team meets Pittsburgh here today.

PHILS MEET COLUMBUS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 1 (UP)—Bill Nagel, infielder purchased from the Philadelphia Athletics, was given only light workouts at the Philadelphia Phillies' camp today. Manager Doc Prothro said yesterday, after the Phils dropped a 6-4 game to Cincinnati, that he did not plan to use Nagel for at least 10 days. The Phils play Columbus today.

SHAKING UP PIRATES

LOS ANGELES, April 1 (UP) — Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates will shake up his batting order today as the Pirates meet the Philadelphia Athletics in an exhibition. Frank Gustine will lead off, followed by Debs Garms, with Arky Vaughan third and Maurice Van Robays in the cleanup position. The scheduled game with the Chicago Cubs yesterday was rained out.

LOMBARDI SLAMS 'EM

DOTHAN, Ala., April 1 (UP)—The Cincinnati Reds meet the Boston Red Sox here today in the seventh of a 16-game exhibition series as the two teams start their journeys north. Ernie Lombardi led the Reds to a 6 to 4 win over the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday at Miami Beach, driving in three runs with a home run and a single.

CARDS, SENATORS CLASH

ORLANDO, Fla., April 1 (UP)—Two veteran pitchers, Clyde Shoun and Morton Cooper, will do mound duty today for the St. Louis Cardinals against the Washington Senators. The Cards yesterday nosed out their Columbus farm hands, 8 to 7, although they were outhit 14 to 10.

BROWNS OPTION PLAYERS

SAN ANTONIO, April 1 (UP)—The St. Louis Browns had only a light workout scheduled for today before leaving for Houston to resume their series with the Boston Bees. The Browns optioned Johnny Whitehead, big right-handed pitcher, to Toledo. Loy Hunning, also a right-handed hurler, was optioned to San Antonio. The options on both players, the first Browns to be released, contained a five-day recall clause.

DUCATS ON SALE

If you've got $1.10 to spare, it might be a good idea to invest it in a ticket for the Chicago White Sox-Chicago Cubs exhibition game to be played at Hubber Field next Tuesday—that is, if you intend to see the game.

Tickets went on sale Monday, and indications are the game will be a sellout. Agencies for the ducats are Jarrett-West Drug, Nineteenth Street Pharmacy, Hotel Lubbock, Hotel Hilton, Hub Clothiers and Mark Halsey No. 2.

Landmark Of Race Track Is Doomed

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 1.—They're going to tear down a little white shack out at the Aqueduct race track this week to make room for a new parking ground; and, to racing men, it's just like burning a volume from a great sport's history.

The shack is Jim Fitzsimmons' "kitchen"—a little one-story building, furnished with battered, leather-upholstered chairs, and its walls plastered with pictures. Photographs on the dining room walls tell the story of racing as "Mr. Fitz," one of the most successful of all trainers, has seen it from the old Gravesend track in 1891 to Saratoga in 1940. And if there are any gaps left to be filled, Fitzsimmons and his cronies can do it.

Was Everybody's Home

It's the place where the turf's great men—wealthy owners and breeders, jockeys and trainers—gathered; where newspaper men came to learn the "inside" of racing; where would-be jockeys came for advice and received just as courteous attention as the wealthy visitors, and where peddlers or down-and-out followers of the races would get an invitation to come in out of the weather and perhaps have "a little something to eat"—usually the size of a big dinner.

In the "kitchen," races of the distant past were run over again while horsemen argued why one horse had won or another had lost. It was where visitors learned why one equine hero is regarded as a "real good hoss" and another rather grudgingly is called "great," and how many little factors there are to influence a race's outcome.

Some of the visitors who crossed the threshold of the shack were the late Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury; Breckinridge Long, former ambassador to Italy; William Woodward, jockey club chairman; Harry Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Phipps and their son Ogden, A. B. Hancock and many others famous in the turf world. Such jockeys as Earl Sande, Hank Mills, Jimmy Stout, Danny McAuliffe and Pete Walls received riding instructions there.

It was Fitzsimmons' headquarters from the time he had to leave the old Gravesend track some 25 years ago, and Aqueduct won't be quite the same place without it.

There's a picture of the "kitchen," hanging in the Carnegie museum in Pittsburgh. Vaughn Flannery, who painted the interior of the shack more than once, gave it the title, "Studio of the Old Master."

Illinois Grid, Track Regimes Under Fire

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP) — Victory-conscious alumni in Southwestern Illinois and Missouri have informed the board of trustees that the University of Illinois' recent low ranking in football and track should be investigated.

The trustees meet in Chicago today, but Board President James M. Cleary said that he thought the institution's athletic officials could handle the situation.

The alumni group circulated a petition several weeks ago and then adopted a resolution asking that the 1941-42 contracts of university coaches be held up pending a study of the track and football situation.

Tech Net Team Turns Eyes On SWC Contests

Coach James G. Allen's Texas Tech tennis team today turns its attention to getting ready for next week's invasion of Abilene and the Southwest conference.

The Raider netmen lost their first match of the spring season at Canyon Monday, dropping a hairbreadth decision to the West Texas State Teachers college team, 4 to 3.

Close Until Finish

Outcome of the match was in the balance until the final set of the final match, the No. 2 doubles contest. The first six matches were divided evenly, 3-all, and the seventh was decisive.

Bobby Skeen and Clark Jones of the Teachers won the first set, 6-4, but Loyd Brunson and David Storey rallied to cop the second, 6-3. Storey and Brunson ran up a 4-1 lead in the final set, but the Buff pair came back strong to win the next five games and take the set, 6-4, and the match and meet.

Play H-SU Saturday

The Techsans leave Saturday for Abilene, where they play Hardin-Simmons that day. Monday they move to Fort Worth to battle Texas Christian, then swing on through the conference, playing a match every day. They wind up the tour the following Saturday, playing Abilene Christian in Abilene.

Other scores Monday, Tech players named first:

Francis Hightower lost to Frank Kelley, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

Jack Lovelace defeated Glenn Milner, 6-2, 6-4.

Trevor Wolfe went down before Clark Jones, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Loyd Brunson lost to Bobbie Skeen, 6-3, 6-3.

David Storey whipped Bill Imke, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Hightower and Lovelace won from Kelley and Milner, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

DODGERS IRE RAISED

SHREVEPORT, La., April 1 (AP) —Although Larry MacPhail, Dodgers' president, is in California while part of the Brooklyn squad is here and the rest in Florida, the boss still can get action. After Sunday's defeat, MacPhail wired Manager Leo Durocher and asked him to poll the press "whether we should open the season with Dressen's Tiger Tamers or Durocher's Powder Puffs." The Powder Puffs responded by powdering the offerings of three Dallas pitchers for a dozen hits and an 8 to 3 victory.

Germany's Strict, Machine-Like Rationing One Of War's Marvels

Item Small As House Key Said All Important To Nazi Effort

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of stories appearing in The Evening Journal by Lyle C. Wilson, Washington manager of the United Press and his findings "inside" Germany, and Joe Alex Morris, United Press foreign news editor, who gives the latest first hand account from Britain. Follow their informative, up-to-the-minute articles, to be run alternately, in the Evening Journal).

BY LYLE C. WILSON
(Copyright 1941, By United Press)

Gordon Knox is connected with the American embassy in Berlin. One day he lost his house key, and what happened thereafter tells the story of one phase of war time rationing in Germany.

Knox's Berlin apartment door opened with an old-fashioned iron key which weighed more than an ounce. The loss, therefore, had been intimate, official and rigidly enforced relationship to the German war effort.

If everyone had to replace his key and every key contained an ounce or so of iron, the makings of whole submarines would be jingling in German pockets instead of challenging the enemy at sea.

So the locksmith would not replace Gordon Knox's house key. First, Knox must obtain a permit to purchase that bit of iron. And if he were a German, Knox would have to prove conclusively that the replacement was necessary—that he actually had possessed the key, that it was lost and could not be found, that he did not have another. But in this instance his connection with the United States embassy made his task less difficult.

WILSON

For such permits as will authorize a merchant to sell a pair of overshoes, an overcoat, metal articles or any of the numberless things so precious that they are not even regularly rationed, diplomats and foreigners in general may appeal directly to the foreign office. And it was through the intervention of the foreign office of the German Reich that Gordon Knox obtained the permit which enabled him again to lock and unlock his own front door.

Norwegian Ore Previous

The incident is typical of Germany's uncommonly efficient and rigid control over her available resources. That unfaltering official interest in an ounce of iron—not only is a tribute to German method and a cameo of routine war time inconvenience but a hit, as well, of the value to Germany of that Norwegian victory of a year ago.

Germans are eating Norwegian fish. They are wearing clothes made partly from processed Norwegian wood pulp. But, vitally important, they smelted thousands of tons of iron ore this winter—iron ore that came from Sweden to the sea through the Norwegian port of Narvik and thence down the Norwegian Atlantic coast to Dutch or German ports where it was trans-shipped into barges for the inland waterway journey to the Ruhr. Winter ice would bar every other means of transporting that ore to Germany. A barge load of Narvik ore would make some millions of iron keys for Gordon Knox's apartment door.

I got to thinking about that and decided to go shopping on my own. My shopping expedition demonstrated that somewhat above the weight of a house key, the purchase of metal objects can become an extremely difficult or impossible transaction.

Do you want a typewriter? Then, demonstrate to the authorities that you really need one. Be prepared, if asked, to trade in the machine's weight in old iron in addition to paying the purchase price. Then, if all goes well, you will get your typewriter—in about four months.

Do you want an electric iron? That is just too bad because my tradesman had no electric irons and did not expect to get any. You might buy a bicycle in Berlin and probably for immediate delivery. But, first, your employer would have to certify that you needed it in your work, that it would be impossible for you to cover your territory by any other means of transportation — including afoot. Satisfy the authorities on those points and the bike is yours.

Must Have Old Iron

But if you wanted a kitchen stove you still might wait 18 months for delivery. You would not be able to obtain an electric refrigerator at all in the shops where I inquired except a large one for commercial use. Gas refrigerators are not on the market at all.

Before we could buy another teletype machine for the United Press office in Berlin, it was necessary to get together 160 pounds of old iron to be traded in along with the purchase price for the new equipment. Delivery was set months away at first but was reduced to a few weeks through government intervention. A few weeks was the best that could be done although the great Siemens electrical works is right in Berlin and there would have been no transportation difficulty at all.

I know a woman who repeatedly tried last winter to obtain a permit to buy overshoes. She was told finally that the permit would be ready the following day. She sent her maid to pick up the document instead of going herself.

Maid Considered Luxury

"Tell your mistress," snapped the permit officer, "that she does not need overshoes if she is so fortunate as to have a maid."

The explanation advanced by the matron was that she must stand long hours lined up in the cold at meat and vegetable stores in order to purchase the foodstuffs to which her food tickets entitled her.

The permit officer argued that if there was a maid in the house the matron probably passed off the marketing to the maid. He was mistaken, but, nevertheless, the mistress did not get her overshoes last winter nor this winter, either, until long after cold weather set in and she had spent a vacation in the shopper's happy hunting ground in Switzerland.

Allowance Cards Issued

Clothes are as strictly rationed as food or even scrap iron and coal. Rationing is by a point system which not only tells Germans what they may buy but, in general, when they may buy it. A man or woman draws a clothing allowance card annually and thereafter submits the card for snipping as the points into which it is divided gradually are exchanged—along with the purchase price—for articles of clothing.

The annual allowance is 150 points for an adult. To purchase a three-piece suit made of wool, cotton and wood fibre, a man must sacrifice 80 of his 150 points. Another 28 points would go for an extra pair of pants, 21 for a pullover sweater with sleeves, 18 for a pull-over without sleeves. Shorts are 10 points, shirts 20, ties 1. Clothes points for men and women become available in blocks to prevent everyone in Germany attempting to restock his wardrobe in a single buying splurge the day after the cards are issued.

Many Fabrics Synthetic

Women ante up 40 points for an ersatz wool dress, 18 for a nightgown, 25 for pajamas, 4 for girdle. The government has decided that four pairs of stockings for women and three pairs of socks for men are sufficient for a year. But it makes allowances for those who want just a little more. So a woman may purchase her first four pairs of stockings this year at a sacrifice of 4 points each. But if she wants to buy the additional two pairs to which she is entitled, she must give up 6 points for each. The first three pairs of men's socks may be had for 5 points, but the next two pairs come at 10 points each.

Fabrics usually are synthetic so that many Germans this year are wearing cloth that not so long ago grew in Norwegian forests. These fibre clothes lose their shape quickly and do not wear well. The matron's overshoes, shoes, and leather goods, overcoats and such articles are not included in the point system. For them one must obtain a beguschein, or permit, to buy and the permit officer must be satisfied that real need exists for the desired goods. Leather must be very scarce. Ersatz rubber, called buna, is being substituted now for shoe soles.

Women seem most to regret the shortage of silk hose. I learned, strictly by hearsay, that the chorus girls in night clubs were more susceptible to silk hose than to lobster or champagne or in some instances gifts of money or jewels. And German stockings are beginning to show some wear. I saw darning jobs on the streets of Berlin that were hardly less than spectacular, although I saw many a silk clad calf as well.

BEST of the year's Knife and Fork club programs to date, in The Plainsman's opinion, at least, was that of last week featuring Mrs. Borge Rhode, known professionally as Ruth Bryan Owen.

Daughter of the late, great "Commoner," William Jennings Bryan, Mrs. Owen gave an interesting word picture of Denmark, in which country she served four years as minister from the United States. Handsome, statuesque Mrs. Rhode spiced her description of life in Denmark with slyly refreshing humor and while she isn't her father's equal as an orator—and no living American is, for that matter—she was very, very good.

A great deal of Mrs. Rhode's speech was given over to a description of life in Denmark under the government-enforced co-operative system.

According to the former minister, everything in Denmark is organized, hard and fast, and as a result life in all lines is sharply regimented.

Without a doubt, Mrs. Rhode grew to love Denmark during her official residence there, so her description was a glowing tribute to life in that small but industrious Scandanavian country. Yet despite her very evident approval of the regimented life—and her good presentation—she failed to convince at least one of her listeners that Denmark is a Utopia.

That listener was The Plainsman.

THIS writer would just as soon be a blind mule on a treadmill as a citizen of any nation where he could not do any thinking, or acting, for himself.

In Denmark, for instance, the dairy farmer culls his herd just as the co-operative tells him to cull it; he markets his products only when and where a board of directors instructs. The same is true of the man who raises hogs.

In Denmark, the doctor works as the government tells him; is paid what the government permits him to be paid.

As we understood Mrs. Rhode, all lines of endeavor are operated in this matter, the workers, the business men and the professional men being, to all practical intents and purposes, just so many mechanical men taking orders from elected boards or from the government, itself.

Although Mrs. Rhode didn't get around to newspaper editors, we assume that since everything else in Denmark is regimented, the editors there make up their papers according to a chart prepared in advance by a board of directors of the newspaper co-op.

That would be a very easy way to edit a paper, no doubt. But such a condition would certainly produce nothing but stereotyped editors and papers too dull even to contemplate!

THE Plainsman is in favor of co-operatives for those Americans who wish to be in co-operatives.

But being an American citizen with a belief in the right of the individual to exercise his own judgment as long as he injures no one, he's not in favor of enforced co-operatives for everyone—at least, not in this country. The Danes may like that sort of thing and if they do, all right. But the United States will cease to be the United States in everything but name whenever the law holds all our people on the same level and permits none to rise above the crowd by virtue of his own efforts, talents and attainments.

Mrs. Rhode told of how the happy, regimented Danes sang folksongs at morning and evening; how they eschewed automobiles for bicycles and weighed their eggs, all at the direction of a super-paternalistic government.

She indicated that everyone in Denmark was very delighted, indeed, to get up when a board of directors pushed a button and to sit down when another board pushed another button.

And maybe she's right, because she's been in Denmark and The Plainsman hasn't.

But as far as the United States is concerned, it is great because most of its people want to do their own thinking; improve their own status by their own good works—and not be herded through life like a lot of automatons.

You take life in Denmark, if you want to.

The Plainsman'll take spinach!

DESPITE what you hear about Mr. Roosevelt grooming either Henry Wallace or Bob Jackson as his successor in 1944, don't sell short the chances of handsome, politically-minded Paul McNutt who could have, if he had but chosen, taken the 1940 Vice Presidential nomination away from Mr. Wallace.

Almost unnoticed the other day was the announcement of FDR's appointment of Watson B. Miller as assistant administrator of the Federal Security administration, bossed by McNutt. The President's New Deal coterie, who don't like McNutt, didn't want Miller appointed, because McNutt did—and because Miller is a great and good friend of the personable Paul. But McNutt won out—and the radical political fringe lost.

Miller has a very strong following in the American Legion, which once was headed by McNutt.

When nominating time rolls around in 1944, Miller is expected to throw to McNutt a lot of ex-service strength from that branch of the Legion not too ambitious for the future of the former governor of Indiana.

VERY few people with calm judgment are "kicking" about the cost of our country's preparedness drive.

Whatever it costs to guarantee to ourselves, our children and their children's children the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness will be money well spent. Because freedom and democracy are more valuable than all the silver and gold in the land or under the soil.

Yet as we go along, it is interesting to contemplate the amount of money that is being spent. Also it is necessary that even a rich nation like ours keep tab on the total and be sure we're getting somewhere in the neighborhood of what we're paying for.

Perhaps you never stopped to think about it, but within a week the Congress—undoubtedly with the overwhelming support of the people—authorized appropriations totaling nearly 11 billions ($11,000,000,000) of dollars for defense purposes.

The frail human mind is incapable of absorbing the full significance of such a sum, but it may help a little to put it this way:

Suppose someone had started at the birth of Christ paying $1 every minute of every hour, of every day of every week of every month of every century until the present time. By now, as a result, he would have piled up about one billion dollars—or one-eleventh of the total appropriated in that one recent week!

Of course, if Adolf Hitler can spend between 17 and 20 billions of dollars a year to build a war machine in a country with half the population of our own and in a territory about as big as the state of Texas, the United States should be able to exceed that record without too much sacrifice upon anybody's part.

But just the same, 11 billion bucks ain't hay, as the boys say!

SOS: Is there any drug, grocery or confectionary store in Lubbock handling the old-fashioned black, hard and almost bitter licorice? If so, The Plainsman and many another "lickrish fan" in town would like to know about it.

The writer and his "lickrish-loving" chums aren't after the licorice whips, plugs and cigarets sold school kids at a penny apiece. They're good, but they're diluted with sugar to a too great degree. What we're looking for are those bitter, hard sticks, about three times as big around as a lead pencil and about six inches long; or those small pieces, each about twice the size of a grain of rice and in the same shape.

Any Lubbock store offering this kind of "lickrish" can sell some to The Plainsman—and to numerous other addicts of that delectable confection.

CHAPTER 2

YESTERDAY: Beatrice Huntington Davenport, rich, bored, heiress to the Huntington department store millions, is furious because her guardian, old Mr. Weeming, refuses to honor her check paying for a string of polo ponies. The polo ponies are for Clarence, suave continental nobleman, frankly a fortune hunter, to whom Beatrice has recently become engaged. As a friend and associate of her grandfather, who started Huntington's, Mr. Weeming warns Beatrice that her money may soon disappear if she continues this mad spending. She demands action on the check, leaves. At the door, however, she hears a young, masculine voice addressing Mr. Weeming: "That girl's the world's most useless object. She should be quietly chloroformed."

As she stood there, trembling on her tall lucite heels, the mink coat suddenly too warm around her, Beatrice Huntington Davenport knew a swift and devastating fury. She wanted to go in there and tear that unknown young man's eyes out! She wanted to slap him, hard, across his hateful, smug face.

She wanted to scream, "Who do you think you are, saying that I should be chloroformed? What do you know about me? Is it my fault my grandfather left me millions? Is it my fault that the money breeds envy everywhere I go? I didn't earn it, no. Perhaps I don't deserve it. But just having it doesn't make me bad, black and inhuman!

"I have to do something, don't I? I can't take a job, I can't do anything useful, anything to occupy my mind and my time because if I did, they'd say I was taking bread out of someone else's mouth. Someone who needs the job!

"You think I'm stupid and arrogant and conceited. I'm not. I'd like to work with my mind, my brain. You don't know how I've tried, sometimes, to do something — find something — worthwhile. They laugh at me! Even Mr. Weeming laughs!

"I'm a prisoner, that's what I am. Grandfather's millions — the life he brought me up to live — keep me locked up in a little world I hate. I'm bored, do you hear? I've known that a long time but I never knew, until I heard you, how bitter it is.

"You're not bored! No, you sound too complacent for that! You're doing things you care about — I've never done anything I really cared about. Never enjoyed anything the way a human being should. Parties, dances, clothes, theaters, trips, what are they to me? I can have all I want — endlessly, forever, without effort. There's no fun in that! No fun in filling in time, living from one day to the next just to be amused!

"And the men, how do I know they really like me? Either they're as rich as I am, and as bored — or else they're after the money. I can't trust anyone. At least, Clarence is honest! I know with him it's the money, but I know, too, Mimi Frothingham has as much money as I have and he preferred me!"

The hot, savage words beat through her brain in a rushing flood. A tide of protest that she had only half sensed before was throbbing inside her. In this raw and painful moment, here in the corridor of an office building, Beatrice felt suddenly as if a dark abyss had opened at her feet. She had never faced it before — the thick fog of dissatisfaction, the tightening bands that closed in on her, the tasteless emptiness and this quick, stabbing fear.

"What else would there ever be? What else will I have? What am I living for? Where are the thrills, the satisfactions, the contentment they talk about and write about in books? Where's the love — the ecstatic, passionate, soul-lifting love — I see in movies, read of, dream of?"

Her hands, that life had crammed so full, were reaching out and all at once there was nothing in them. Nothing to touch and feel and get hold of. Nothing solid. Just emptiness.

The impulse to rush in there and confront the owner of that scornful voice died inside her. Her anger went with it, and now there was only the fear. She felt lost and helpless and suddenly she thought, "I hate him for making me look at my life! I hate him for tearing away the little pieces of camouflage I've managed to hide in . . ."

She turned, and peered through the narrow crack of the opened door. "I hate him!" It was as if she had to see him — had to transfer this hatred to some concrete image.

All she could see was a broad, gray back, sitting in the chair she had vacated. A brown hand rested on the arm of the chair — a big hand, with strong, blunt fingers. And above the wide gray shoulders she saw a tanned neck and a well-shaped head with dark hair.

He moved. Beatrice drew back, conscious suddenly of how ridiculous and undignified she would look if they caught her.

Fiercely her gloved hands curled into fists. "I'll see you again, you you — chloroformer, you!" she promised him silently. "I'll see you again and I'll make you eat that chloroform!"

But she was almost herself again when she walked into the lobby of the Afrique. Clarence moved toward her from the discreetly lighted lounge. He was terribly handsome, his tall body graceful as a cat's in the superbly tailored dark suit.

"Cara!" he whispered, "You are weary, no? Come, we shall have a drink." His black eyes were ten-

LET'S TAKE NO CHANCES

We don't believe that anyone in authority in the city government will take any avoidable chance of becoming involved during the approaching summer in a matter pertaining to low water pressure such as that experienced two years ago. While the situation then largely was the result of extraordinary circumstances difficult to foresee, that fact did not save officials from a lot of criticism by patrons who justifiably were incensed when they could obtain little or no water at inconvenient periods during several days.

Therefore it is to be hoped sincerely that no chances will be taken that there will be any lack of abundant water for the entire city during the approaching summer. If there is even the possibility that more wells might be needed, they should be drilled without delay on the theory that it will be better to have idle wells and too much water than to need water which cannot be supplied. In planning the program, the fact must not be overlooked that the worst of the pressure problem two years ago occurred during the latter part of May and early in June—periods when the city's water requirements ordinarily are far from the year's peak.

This is a matter in which it will be infinitely better to be safe than sorry—and the time to make sure of being absolutely safe is right now when there is time to drill all the additional wells which possibly might be needed.

THE DETENTION by the Gestapo in Berlin of the young United Press reporter, Richard Hottelet, is only the newest in a long series of indignities to which American newspapermen have been subjected by the Axis powers within the past two years. . . . John Whitaker of Chicago was booted out of Rome—not because he wrote anything the censors didn't approve—but because Mussolini's propaganda bureau wished to cripple his Chicago paper in any way it could. . . . In Whitaker's case, booting him out of Rome not only hurt his paper's coverage, but it helped American papers that meet the requirements of the Nazi and Fascist party line. . . . Eventually they will permit only those newspapermen they like and who "play ball."

Why don't the associations of American reporters act? Such groups as the White House Correspondents' association, the boys who cover the State department, and the Senate and House press groups could retaliate by easing out from membership some Nazi or Fascist representative in Washington — every time an American reporter is tossed out of Rome or Berlin. . . . That would discourage Goebbels and Gaydz—since it is a known fact that German and Italian news agencies need representation over here—more than we need it there. . . . Most of them are wire-spy services, anyhow. . . . Incidentally, Manfred Zapp, although indicted as a proven unregistered propagandist from a foreign government, is still a member of the Senate and House press galleries, in good standing. . . . The boys covering Washington some time ago considered kicking him out, but were discouraged by the State department. . . . Kick him one for me.

"What Else Can a Small Nation Do?"

Why And What Is A Lobby? Washington Now Has 400 Of Them!

Let's Have A Look At Those Pressure Groups

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 1—There are more people with queer jobs in Washington than perhaps any other city in the country — not government scientists making a study of the love life of the frog nor experts keeping tab on the rice consumption in Puerto Rico, but non-official people. They operate on the fringes of the government in quasi-official capacities, keeping track of what the government may be doing in any particular field of endeavor from aviation to birth control to coal exporting.

EDSON

All these activities they report fully to someone who is interested and there are apparently plenty of people about the country who are interested, or their representatives wouldn't be here.

There are, therefore, more Washington listening posts and lighthouses than traffic lights, and you find these missionaries in all kinds of places. Some own their own homes, and pretentious they are, too, like the U. S. Chamber of Commerce building just across from the White House, daring visitors to speculate on which runs the country. Others operate more or less from under the hat, one man with a telephone and an expense account in a hotel room.

Between those two extremes are hundreds of organizations with Washington "representatives," the rich ones in modernistic suites, the not so affluent ones crowded three and four in a one room office.

Smile When You Say That

Any place but Washington, a lot of these outfits might be called plain rackets, but here you have to be careful of your language for each and every representative is convinced of the holiness of his cause. You even have to smile, stranger, when you call him lobbyist, but lobbyists they all are, for though some may not know more than a congressman apiece, the technique of lobbying now is not by direct pressure, but by stirring up someone back in the country.

Some of the work, however, is strictly on the up and up. Government is big as it is, departmental, commission and bureau regulations have to be followed closely from day to day, then interpreted and reported back to trade papers, industries or associations.

Donald C. Blaisdell, a Department of Agriculture economist loaned to the Temporary National Economic committee, recently brought up to date a list of the major organizations with lobbying inclinations or potentialities, and he ran the count up to 400, a number as fearful in its implications as the old 400 of the social register. Blaisdell calls them "pressure groups," a polite name which might be adopted with profit by almost any outfit having shake-down or hold-up ambitions, but which doesn't begin to tell the story of their activities in Washington.

Big Spenders On The Loose

More than half of the 400 have the word American or National or United States as part of their official names, thus indicating the broadness of their purposes and operations. All, too, are intensely patriotic in justifying their existence, from the American Bankers' Association "What's best for the nation is best for banking," to the American Federation of Labor's ceaseless campaign to "maintain the American standard of living."

All organizations are defensible to the extent that they protect the interests of their own members. It is only when these interests run counter to the best interests of the majority of the people that their activities demand scrutiny. Too many laws are made by the few and for the few, and the inarticulate majority doesn't hear of them and might not understand them if it did.

The millions of dollars spent by these organizations are beyond computation. Only some of the most forthright have dared open their books, but on the records are expenditures of $1,400,000 by the National Association of Manufacturers in 1937 and $100 million by the Association of American Railroads in the 20 years from 1918 to 1938. Those are the top spenders, but taking any common denominator you choose and multiplying it by 400 gives you an alarming total.

To it must be added the fees for individual lawyers, fixers, real and phony, unregistered special representatives, defeated politicians with a pull and the knowledge that the most important work done by Congress is not on the floor, but

U. S., Mexico To Permit Use Of Each Other's Air Fields

Safeguard For Canal Assured

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP) — The United States and Mexico today signed a convention providing for reciprocal use of air fields which will permit American military planes to speed to Panama in the shortest possible time.

The convention was signed at 12:15 p. m. by Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, and Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador, in the presence of Mexican and American military experts who formed the committee to draft plans for mutual defense measures for defense of the western hemisphere.

Must Be Ratified

The convention will now be sent to the Senate for ratification and to the Mexican Congress for appropriate action.

The agreement, qualified authorities stated, would greatly strengthen the aerial defenses of the Panama canal by making it possible for the United States to shift air force reinforcements rapidly southward from this side of the Rio Grande if danger threatened the Canal zone.

Under its terms, army and navy planes would be permitted to fly the length of Mexico, utilizing Mexican air fields en route for refueling and repairs, and thus would be able to reach Panama in the shortest possible time.

Puts Teeth In Pact

The air fields understanding, negotiated by Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, and Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador, was considered of major importance since it puts "teeth" in the recently signed U. S.-Mexican general mutual defense pact.

The terms of the convention, it was learned, provide that:

The United States may utilize the Mexican route by giving the Mexican government due notice of the flight and the route to be taken;

American military planes may stop-over at any of the Mexican fields for 24 hours for refueling or repairs.

To Provide Protection

The Mexican government will provide any protection necessary against enemy attacks at the air fields in event of any emergency.

Mexican planes may utilize United States air fields and bases under the same conditions and guarantees.

Since a successful bombing attack on the Panama canal would block the "big ditch" and stop or seriously delay warships' movements between the Atlantic and Pacific, strengthening of Panama's defenses has been a major concern for American military authorities.

The Mexican-American agreement, in the opinion of military experts, has the effect of adding several squadrons of fighter planes to canal defenses, for it means that aircraft from the continental United States can be thrown into the breach in a fraction of the time it would take to get them into the action area by plane carriers.

Two More Nazi Ships Are Burned In Peru

(By The Associated Press)

CALLAO, Peru, April 1.—Two German merchantmen were set afire and their seacocks opened by their crews early today in Callao harbor after their attempt to leave the port had been thwarted by a Peruvian cruiser.

The two vessels, the 5,898-ton Leipzig and the 5,578-ton Monserrate, tried to leave the harbor shortly before last midnight some hours after two other Nazi merchantmen sailed without papers.

Two Speed Away

The Peruvian cruiser Coronel Bolognesi, however, stopped them by firing five warning shots, and they returned to port, where they were set afire.

Both vessels still were burning two hours later.

The ships which sped away from the harbor after nightfall last night with lights doused were the 5,619-ton Muenchen and the 4,833-ton Hermonthis.

With the Leipzig and the Monserrate, they had been here since the outbreak of the war.

Others Dare Blockade

The Leipzig and the Monserrate only recently were loaded with 2,000 tons and 1,300 tons, respectively, of cotton bought by a Japanese commercial mission.

(Other Axis vessels to sail from South America were two Italian and one German ships which left their Brazilian anchorages four days ago apparently in a concerted attempt to run the British blockade.

(Since then, the United States has taken into "protective custody" 69 Italian, German and Danish vessels. Costa Rica became the first Latin American republic to follow the North American example, but fire destroyed the one German and one Italian ship taken over by her. One hundred and twenty seamen and officers of the two ships are being held on arson charges in San Jose).

ITALIANS LEAVING

ROME, April 1 (AP) — The Rome radio announced today that 100 Italians, including members of the legation staff and newspaper correspondents, had left Belgrade by train today for Italy.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP) — Wheat futures rose and fell nervously throughout the session today, largely reflecting the action of other commodities. Extreme losses amounted to about a cent a bushel, and despite fair rallying tendencies at times under the impetus of short covering, a sharp break near the close carried prices in most cases to the day's lowest levels. Corn also finished lower.

Wheat closed 1-1⅞ cents under yesterday's final levels, May 89½-⅝, corn 88⅝-¾, corn was ¾-1 cent lower, May 66⅛-¼, July 66⅞-67, and oats were ⅜-½ lower.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, April 1 (AP) — Fair demand for grain was reported today.

Wheat No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing 96½-98½.
Barley No. 2—nom 57-58.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs. nom 1.16-18.
Corn shelled No. 2 yellow 79½-80½.
Oats No. 2 red 44½-45½.

LEADING STOCKS UP

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP)—Leading stocks were bid up in today's market without the benefit of much comforting news.

While a few specialties, notably Canadian mining issues, backed on 1 to 4 points, gains of minor amounts were the rule at the close. Small losses were well distributed and numerous shares were unchanged.

Dealings were active occasionally but slow intervals were plentiful. Transfers approximated 450,000 shares.

Favored most of the day were Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Hiram Walker, General Steel Castings preferred, American Car & Foundry common, Chicago Great Western preferred, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, American Can, Dupont, U. S. Rubber, Cerro de Pasco, United Aircraft and American Telephone.

The bounding utilities of the day before rested. On the offside now and then were Consolidated Edison, North American, Sears Roebuck and Kennecott.

Rail loans again were the best in the bond department.

Markets At A Glance

Axis Demands Made To U. S.

taken into custody.

Despite Axis protests over the "protective" seizure of German and Italian shipping, the United States — with an eye to criminal prosecution — put federal agents to work investigating the sabotage found on most of the vessels.

At the same time, administration officials indicated that they were ordering a close surveillance of French and other foreign merchantmen in American ports, although there were no immediate plans to take them over.

In the hemisphere, meanwhile, developments showed the effect of this government's weekend seizure of the 69 Axis and Danish vessels.

Cuba Seizes Vessel

Two German merchant steamers were ablaze early today in the harbor of Callao, Peru, their seacocks opened by their crews, after the vessels had sought to leave the port but had been turned back by a Peruvian cruiser which fired warning shots in their direction.

Cuba, in what was interpreted as an expression of solidarity with the United States, took over an Italian freighter which was anchored in Havana harbor.

Mexico, responsible sources reported, was planning to take custody of a dozen Axis freighters now tied up in her ports.

Crew In Prison

Costa Rica took summary action against the officers and crews of the German and Italian ships which were fired at San Jose yesterday to thwart seizure. The men were clapped into prison incommunicado, charged with arson.

Argentine, Brazil, Uruguay and Chile followed closely the reports of "protective" seizures elsewhere, but did not indicate what future courses they would adopt. All have expressed the need for acquiring more shipping, and Chile already has taken over three Danish vessels.

Maritime circles estimate that there are at least 60 German, Italian, French and Danish ships in Latin American ports.

Penalties Severe

The decision of the United States government to open a criminal investigation of this sabotage was taken as further evidence that the administration did not intend to relinquish possession of the ships, and that the protests of Rome and Berlin accordingly would be dismissed.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was instructed last night to proceed under a World war statute which makes it a criminal offense to damage a domestic or foreign ship wilfully in the territorial waters of the United States. Anyone convicted is liable to a maximum prison sentence of two years and a $10,000 fine.

Danish Temporarily Exempt

The investigation was directed only against German and Italian ships. For the present, at least, the seized Danish ships were not included.

Judging by actions and comment, officials seemed to consider the Danish vessels in "a somewhat different category" from those of the two Axis partners.

For example, the 875 Germans and Italians who formed the crews of the Axis vessels were formally charged with violation of the immigration laws and held pending deportation proceedings. No such action, however, was taken against Danish officers and crews Germans and Italians were classified as "belligerents," but the Danes were recorded as "stranded seaman."

Land Bank

curity administration, a federal agency, is hampered by lack of funds.

No Estimate Of Amount

There was no estimate of the amount that might be needed to establish the state land bank, which caused Rep. Lon E. Alsup of Carthage to oppose the resolution.

"Right today we are wondering where to get the money to pay for the social security amendments we adopted," said Alsup. "You are fixing to make a mistake. It's easy to pass a constitutional amendment but hard to get the money to pay for it.

"If you don't know what the cost is going to be; and can't pay for what you have; it is dangerous to pass something like this."

Ten Years Too Late

Rep. Sam Hanna of Dallas said that the state land bank idea is "ten years too late—the federal government has already preempted the field."

Sponsors pointed out, however, that the state land bank would be an investment concern, with the money to be repaid and that it could not be compared to social security where money is given away outright.

No effort was made to bring up the constitutional amendment to add two years to the terms of state and county offices.

The Senate received a bill to appropriate $65,000 for the purpose of equipping the defense guard. Of the total $32,000 would be for munitions.

Strike Legislation

not refused to do any of those things.

"On the contrary, they are eager to cooperate with the government in every way, but because of the strike of their employes they are powerless to do so.

"Obviously, interference with the national defense is just as serious if occasioned by employes as it would be if it were occasioned by the employer and it follows that existing law is deficient in providing no authority whereby the cause of the interference can be removed, regardless of its source."

News Briefs

Two Men Enlist—Two men enlisted this morning in the U. S. army and were sent to Brooks field for air corps work, Major Walter Jessee, district recruiting officer, said. Alex A. Webb and James L. Landrum were the men.

Investigating Report—Vernor D. Yelton, federal game management agent here, went to Dawson county this afternoon to investigate a report of damage by sand cranes between Lamesa and Seminole. Yelton said farmers of that section claimed considerable damage was being done by the birds.

Meet At Littlefield — Lamb county tenant purchase farmers were meeting today in Littlefield with Marvin C. Wilson, Farm Security administration supervisor and others. Mrs. Juanita Butler, home management supervisor, attended and they met with county supervisors. Wednesday a meeting will be held in Plainview for Hale farmers and Thursday in Floydada for Floyd farmers.

Marries 96th Pair—J. T. Inmon, justice of peace, read a civil wedding ceremony today for Sam Lawson and Miss Clara Fields. The pair was the 96th he has wedded.

Bond Posted—The sheriff's department said this afternoon that Herschel Cunningham, charged with rape, had posted bail after it had been reduced from $2,500 to $1,000. Cunningham is 22, jail records showed.

Undergoes Surgery—Mrs. Lloyd Mayhew of Hart, sister of Mrs. Cap Moore of 804 Avenue R, underwent major surgery this morning in Lubbock sanitarium. She received a blood transfusion. Her husband was the blood donor. Mrs. Mayhew's condition was "fair," an authority at the sanitarium said early this afternoon.

Enters Hospital—Mrs. Nancy Latham of Post entered West Texas hospital Monday night for major surgery. The surgery had not been performed early this afternoon.

Lions Hear Music — Capt. and Mrs. Harold Harllee of the Salvation Army and Lieut. Otis Street, who are here holding a mission at the Army hall, gave a musical program at a Lions club luncheon in Hilton hotel today. Street spoke. J. W. Jackson was program chairman and Capt. Herman Lambrecht introduced the speakers.

Man Makes Bond — J. W. McDonald, arrested in Abilene on a federal mail fraud charge and brought to Lubbock by C. E. Luce, deputy U. S. marshal, made $1,500 bond and was released, Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. commissioner, said this morning. Joe Bailey Stewart, indicted with him, was also free on $1,500 bond made last week, but a third man, Lester B. Lewis, has not been able to furnish bond.

To Austin—Capt. W. W. Legge of the state police here and Fletcher Crockett, Hockley county tax assessor-collector, have gone to Austin for a brief business visit.

Metcalfe Returns — Charles B. Metcalfe of 1411 Tenth street, who was seriously injured several weeks ago between Weatherford and Fort Worth in an automobile mishap, has returned to his residence to continue recuperation. He arrived Monday by train and was met by Sanders ambulance. His body and legs are encased in casts and it will be required that he stay in bed several months, friends said. He suffered a broken leg, broken ribs and serious concussion in the mishap. He can receive visitors. Metcalfe formerly was district clerk of Lubbock county.

Crude Prices

below up to $1.15 for 40 gravity and above on a two-cent differential.

The Stanolind Oil Purchasing company also announced it was meeting new higher prices posted by the Humble Oil and Refining company in Texas.

Stanolind's postings were increased five cents a barrel in North and East Texas, two cents in Fairbanks, North Houston and Roslyn, and ten cents in Clinton.

The first boost in the crude price structure came last Saturday as Humble, biggest producer and buyer in Texas, hiked prices two to 11 cents.

Military Exhibit Is Scheduled At Show

Models of various military devices may be seen in the military science and tactics department of Texas Technological college Friday and Saturday during the 13th annual Engineers show.

Models, built to scale, to be seen will include barbed wire entanglements, mine field, concertina, cheval-de-frise, tank obstacles, mine craters, machine gun emplacement, military roads, trenches, rigging, bomb shelter, trestle bent bridge, pontoon bridge, colors and guidons.

On the outside near the military science building will be a full-size machine gun and emplacement, barbed wire entanglements, rigging and a model inspection tent.

In the rifle range, visitors will be allowed to fire without charge.

Weapons to be on display will include the United States rifle, .30 caliber, 1903 model, Garand M1 rifle, Browning automatic rifle, .45 caliber service pistol, hand grenade of the fragmentary type, and hectograph.

Sketching and demolition equipment also will be shown.

Berry Brazile of Lubbock is military science and tactics departmental manager.

Space Problem Faces Schools

(By The Associated Press)

ORANGE, April 1 — J. W. Edgar, superintendent of Orange schools and chairman of the state committee of schools in the national defense areas of Texas, predicted today a number of cities would have to adopt emergency measures to care for expanded scholastic enrollments.

Edgar said the Orange schools planned to go on half-day sessions at the beginning of the 1941-42 term in September because of an increased enrollment due to national defense activities in three local shipyards.

Conditions Similar Elsewhere

"In Orange we are faced with the prospect of almost doubling our enrollment by September and although federal aid is anticipated under terms of a bill now being considered by a sub-committee of the House of Representatives it cannot possibly reach us in time to avert an enrollment disaster in September," he said.

Edgar said schools at Mineral Wells, Abilene, Fort Worth, Garland, Brownwood, Grand Prairie, Corpus Christi, Palacios and Galena Park faced similar conditions.

High Dokey Official Will Visit In City

Not less than 50 Dokeys are expected to gather at 6:55 o'clock Wednesday morning at Lubbock hotel and go to Slaton to meet Dr. Thomas E. Payne of Roanoke, Va., imperial prince of the Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, it was announced this morning.

The imperial prince will visit three Texas cities in connection with a visit to all states of the union, Lubbock, Fort Worth and El Paso. A ceremonial to be presented at 9 o'clock Wednesday night will be the only one planned by Texas temples.

Dr. Payne will be taken from a Santa Fe train at Slaton, presented with a western hat and shirt, brought to Lubbock for luncheon at Lubbock hotel, be a guest at a 6:30 o'clock dinner program, and guest at the ceremonial at night.

Emmett Kerr is royal vizier of the Dokey temple here.

Strike Battles

had been scheduled for today between major operators in the eight-state area and representatives of the CIO-United Mine Workers.

President Roosevelt's intervention in the negotiations was a measure of the seriousness with which circles regarded a coal mining stoppage. Steel mills would be affected vitally in short order. Some Washington officials estimated that bituminous consumers over the nation had an average supply to last 32 days.

The three-weeks strike of AFL workers at the Condenser Corp., South Plainfield, N. J., was on again, although the national defense mediation board had thought the dispute settled last Saturday. What caused the hitch was not immediately made clear. The 2,200 workers seek a new contract.

Still other strikes were threatened.

The 2,500 members of a New York tugboat union (AFL) prepared to strike by midnight Wednesday unless their demands for increased wages were met. The 115 vessels they man comprise the New York harbor tug fleet, with the exception of tugs owned by railroads.

At Chicago, a federal conciliator was trying to avert an authorized strike of CIO packinghouse workers, who demand higher wages, a 40-hour week and a closed shop.

Wage increases likewise were demanded by 100,000 cement mill workers in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Maryland, who empowered their AFL union officer to call a strike but instructed them to exhaust all peaceful means of settlement before setting the strike date.

mately 75,000 men—were reported massed on the Hungarian-Yugoslav frontier within a few hours after German Minister Viktor von Heeren left Belgrade for Berlin.

Ultimatum Hinted

Reports were current that an ultimatum from Adolf Hitler might be expected at any moment, demanding that Yugoslavia demobilize and fulfill the treaty of alliance with the Axis which the since-deposed regency government signed last Tuesday in Vienna.

Premier General Dusan Simovic, meanwhile, held the Yugoslav army of 1,200,000 men ready for instant action, and there were indications his government had strengthened its position by reaching an agreement with discontented Croat elements.

Reports from Zagreb said Vladimir Macek, the Croat leader who has been seeking assurances that the new government would respect the interests of the big minority he represents, had reached an understanding with Simovic and would remain in the cabinet as vice premier.

Terror Charged

is really important is the Yugoslav government's actual intentions. Of these we have no definite information."

For the first time since start of the crisis the newspapers used scare headlines that preceded the German marches into Czecho-Slovakia and Poland.

The newspaper stories told of terrorization of Germans, burning of villages, arrests and attacks upon minority groups.

Victor von Heeren, German minister to Yugoslavia who left Belgrade last night, is expected here today to "report," it was said.

Indication Of Gravity

Linking the departure of Heeren with that of the Yugoslav minister to Germany from Berlin last weekend, a spokesman said:

"The fact of the departure of the German minister from Belgrade and the Yugoslav minister from Berlin can only be regarded as an indication of the gravity of the German-Yugoslav crisis."

An official news agency dispatch reported that the last members of the German colony had left Serb districts of Yugoslavia last night by special train, and that the last Italians left at the same time.

"They ran for cover but our aircraft came back again to see many of the troops lying on the ground and the others immediately scattered. An army cook in white scuttled into some bushes near at hand."

New Fiscal Year Is Starting For City

This is New Year's day for the city of Lubbock, but be careful how you wish a happy new year to city employes.

For a considerable number of them, this is the beginning of the most exacting and most dreaded job of the year.

The beginning of the new fiscal year means that annual reports for the previous 12 months must be prepared in all departments. That is a job of great detail in which complete accuracy is essential, because all will be checked when the annual independent audit of city records is made within the next few weeks.

Also to be prepared as speedily as possible are the budgets for all departments which will be the basis of expenditures authorized by the city commission during the fiscal year which will end March 31, 1942. The budget, which must be approved by the city commission, is one of the factors determining the tax rate for the year now started. The other factors will be the total of assessed valuations and estimated revenues from such sources as the water and electric departments, license fees and the like.

During the first 11 months of the past year, water plant revenues have been $26,401.24 larger than during the same period the previous year, electric plant profits have been $1,376.70 larger and revenue from miscellaneous sources $9,323.91 larger. Failure of the electric plant to produce an increase in proportion to that of the water department is attributed by city officials to a reductioon in rates put into effect during the past year.

A poorly balanced ration fed to growing pullets reduces the number of eggs as well as the weight per egg. Purina Chick Growena, an especially prepared ration, is built to help give you full, well-developed pullets, ready to lay lots of eggs in the shortest possible time. What's more, Growena is economical to feed. Actually it takes but 16 lbs. to carry a bird through the growing period. No matter how you look at it, it doesn't cost to feed pullets right—IT PAYS!
Come in to see us about your growing feed needs today.

O'Daniel Flays "Labor Agitators" Who Attempt To Halt Industry

Foolishness Is To Be Banned

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, April 1—Cotton picking on Texas' 75,000 acres of state prison farms was the prospect held out by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today to "wild-eyed labor-leader agitators."

A warning that they would find themselves working there if they attempted to "take charge of Texas" was part of a radio broadcast delivered by the governor last night.

Predictions Carried Out

He read his proposed anti-strike bill and said predictions in Hitler's "Mein Kampf" and Communist instructions to take charge of industries were being carried out.

The anti-strike law, he said, protects the individual's right to work and to quit when he wants to do so.

"We have plenty of idle hands in Texas anxious for jobs," O'Daniel said. "Enough of those idle hands to keep all the wheels of industry turning 24 hours per day and seven days per week, if necessary, and we intend to keep the wheels turning, and if any of these wild-eyed labor-leader agitators drifting into Texas from other places think they are going to take charge of Texas and stop our industries from running, they have another guess coming.

Stand For No Foolishness

"They had better conduct their activities in some other state because we are not going to stand for their foolishness here in Texas.

"We have 75,000 acres of state prison farms, and that will take care of a lot of that kind of racketeers, and that is where they will find themselves — picking cotton if they come down here and violate our laws."

O'Daniel read a soldier's letter praising the bill. It said: "All of us in the regular army reserve had jobs better than those men (strikers) have and we took an awful cut in pay, and if we were even to mention quitting or going on a strike we would be called traitors and be thrown in the guard house. There is no reason why those men should not be treated the same as us. In fact every man who strikes should be made to join the army at $21 per month with no chance of advancement and made to stay there until it is all over."

House Is Praised

O'Daniel praised the House for its passage of the bill last week and predicted that the Senate will pass it today "with an overwhelming majority."

Senator John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, sponsoring anti-strike legislation in the Senate said he expected to report a substitute bill to the Senate committee on state affairs today.

GROUP IS FORMING—The Spanish civil war has been over two years, but loyalists are still fighting totalitarian "intolerance and bigotry" according to Isabel de Palencia, above, who announced coming formation of "Free Spanish" force similar to de Gaulle's Free French. The former Spanish minister to Sweden and Finland, now a loyalist refugee, recently arrived in New York from Mexico City.

American Embassy In Rome Guarded

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, April 1—Steel-helmeted troops were stationed around the United States embassy today, presumably as protection against possible demonstrations.

Similar action was taken at the Yugoslav legation where, in addition, some streets were blocked off.

While there was a considerable number of troops in the vicinity of the U. S. embassy, they were less conspicuous than at the Yugoslav legation, being drawn up mostly along side streets.

Schoolboys In Parade

Shortly before noon, scores of schoolboys paraded through streets with big Japanese, German and Italian flags. They eventually dispersed without undue incident resulting from the display of Axis friendship for Japan, whose foreign minister, Yosuke Matsuoka, arrived here yesterday from Berlin.

The Japanese foreign minister talked with King Vittorio Emanuele for more than half an hour, then was the king's guest at luncheon.

Despite reports of tension from Belgrade, Axis and Yugoslav circles here said they believed Yugoslavia, Germany and Italy would come to an agreement peacefully.

SPIRIT OF AIR INDUSTRY—Edith Bell, 19, of San Diego has been chosen to typify the spirit of the aircraft industry. She is displaying an exhaust manifold made at San Diego. Miss Bell won 34 beauty and dramatic contests in Kansas where she was educated.

Lutheran Choir Is To Sing At Slaton

SLATON, April 1. (Special) — The A Cappella choir of Texas Lutheran college of Seguin is to be presented in concert in Slaton High school auditorium Wednesday night at 8 o'clock under sponsorship of Lutheran churches in Wilson, Southland and Posey.

Rev. E. Herber is pastor of the Wilson and Southland churches, and F. T. Sager is pastor at Posey.

The choral group, from Seguin, is now touring parts of Texas and New Mexico. It began giving concerts 12 years ago. It has received favorable comment from critics as far away as Chicago.

The choir has appeared in all the principal Texas cities and on state-wide radio hook-ups. H. E. Gibson is director.

No admission charge will be made, but a silver offering will be received to defray the choir's travel expense, said Rev. Herber.

Mrs. Staton To Be Buried Here Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Etta Staton, 80, who died at her home at Whitharral at 8:40 o'clock Monday night, will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Calvary Baptist church. Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Guy Self of Whitharral.

Plains Funeral home will direct burial in a Lubbock cemetery.

She was born in Georgia, March 29, 1861. The family moved to Lubbock in 1917 and removed to Whitharral four years ago.

Surviving are three sons, W. B., T. D. and D. R. of Whitharral; three daughters, Mrs. J. C. Roberts and Mrs. J. C. Oldham of Lubbock and Mrs. J. D. Parrish of Seymour; a sister, Mrs. W. C. Norwood of Friona, 14 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Mexico has lifted its ban on the shipment of mules to other countries.

Deadline Near For Licenses

A deposit of $27,798.86 made after Monday's automobile licensing rush broke all records for an individual day's business of the tax assessor-collector's office.

So announced H. B. Bryan, assessor-collector, this morning.

Several days had bettered $20,000.

Currency alone added to $12,296, the rest accounted for by checks.

Issues Check Warning

Regarding the checks, Bryan asked that persons be sure of their bank accounts, recalling that more than $2,000 in bad checks were returned to him last year by last-minute purchasers of car tags.

"Vehicles technically are not registered when tags have been paid for by worthless checks," he said, explaining that he is empowered to ask state police to pick up such improperly acquired tags and file charges of improper operation of such vehicles.

Commercial Deadline Delayed

Bryan's incomplete records give an estimate of 9,000 to 10,000 passenger vehicles registered to date, about 1,000 commercial vehicles.

"If the Senate had not concurred in a House resolution to postpone registration of commercial vehicles pending the legislature's redrafting of registration schedules as necessitated by newly-enacted maximum gross weight limits, we would have handled not less than $15,000 more in business Monday.

"As it was, our Monday business included only the light commercial vehicles, like delivery panel jobs, which are not expected to show much, if any, change in registration costs."

Violators Risk Arrest

One deputy collector alone issued 350 licenses on one typewriter. There were five such machines devoted Monday to issuance of passenger licenses, two of commercial licenses and two to transfer of titles to motor vehicles.

In addition, licenses were being issued at Slaton and Idalou city halls.

Another note that has been sounded repeatedly in recent days was re-stressed this morning:

"Be sure and remember that the new licenses are due on operated vehicles after midnight. Persons violating that provision will be arrested and fined. And persons who decide not to drive their cars pending registration of the vehicles at a latter date will have to make affidavit at that later date that they have not operated their cars since tonight midnight, else they will have to pay a 20 per cent penalty," Bryan said he had been informed.

STIRS UP STORM — The views of Marjorie Myers, 19, on sex and marriage stirred a storm at Oberlin College, Ohio, where she is a coed. A priest asked postal authorities to scrutinize the Oberlin Review, which printed a column in which the New York girl urged marriage as "a kind of business arrangement . . . not necessarily" demanding sexual fidelity.

Oil Meeting Policy, Program Unit Named

Members of the program and policy committee of the second annual convention of the Permian Basin association to be held here April 14 were announced at convention headquarters this morning.

Spencer A. Wells of Lubbock was named chairman of the group and Bill Collyns of Midland secretary.

Wells announced that a meeting of the committee will be held the afternoon of April 13 in advance of the opening of the convention.

Members of the committee are George Abell, Harry Adams, V. E. Cottingham, W. C. Davis, R. K. DeFord, Fred Fuhrman, John W. House, Jack Kelley, and B. F. Nysewander, jr., all of Midland; C. M. Armstrong and R. E. Rapp, Seagraves; L. P. Bloodworth, El Paso; N. J. Brice, Snyder; A. L. Duff, Seminole; George W. Dupree, Chas. A. Guy and W. S. Posey, Lubbock; Jim Durnal, Pecos; Harry Ratliff, Neal Pritchard and C. C. Thompson, Colorado City; R. L. Tollett and Ben L. LeFever, Big Spring; C. W. Meadows, San Angelo; John Mitchell and Luther A. Neal, Odessa; Deen Nowlin, Tahoka; Col. John Perkins, San Antonio; and Carl Rountree, Lamesa.

News Briefs

Judgment Filed — Judge G. V. Pardue of county court signed a judgment awarding Richard V. Crow, plaintiff, and Pat Crow, intervenor, $492.78 in a suit on written contract against Frank D. Wilson, court officials said.

Former President Speaks— President of the club in 1939-40, Garth Thomas, student of the Southern Methodist university law school, spoke to the Texas Technological college Pre-Law club Monday night.

Visitors Here — Lieut.-Col. H. H. Griffith left Monday night after spending the weekend in Lubbock following funeral services for his brother, Melvin Griffith, Saturday afternoon in Big Spring. Several relatives visited Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. Griffith at their home at 2123 Twenty-ninth street Monday. Those here were the officer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Griffith of Big Spring; a brother, Roy, of New Holland, Ohio; sister, Mrs. Helen Cross of San Antonio, and a niece, Miss Mary Griffith of El Paso.

Remains In Hospital — Margie Squires of Shallowater route 1 is the only Texas Technological college student remaining in West Texas hospital for treatment of pneumonia, an authority at the hospital said this morning. Her condition was considered satisfactory. Mancil McCoy, student of Lubbock, was dismissed this morning. Jane Hess, also of Lubbock, returned home several days ago.

Suit Is Filed—James L. Barnes of Mississippi, an oil field worker, has brought suit in U. S. district court against Osage Drilling Co. for overtime alleged due under the federal fair labor standards act of 1938. He asks $262 which he claims is for overtime.

Building Totals Are Under 1940 Figures

Lubbock building permit totals for 1941 continue to trail those of 1940 by less than the margin of the $400,000 Lubbock National company office building for which the permit was issued Jan. 1, 1940, records in the office of Building Inspector Jim Reid revealed this morning.

Permit total for the first three months of 1941 was $806,519, comparing with $1,172,508 during the first quarter of 1940, a difference of $365,989.

Total for March, 1941, was $226,383, comparing with $264,409 in March, 1940, a difference of $38,024.

Three permits set the new month of April off to a $5,050 start this morning. They included one for $3,000 to Lubbock Hog and Cattle company, owner, and Joe Telford, contractor, for building and fence repairs at 1515 Avenue A, and another for repairs of fire damage costing $1,250 to the building at 2312 Thirtieth street, issued to M. E. Pickel, owner, and Telford, contractor.

Telephone At Zoo To Be "Out" Today

DALLAS, April 1 (AP)—The old April 1 gag of telling you to call a certain number and ask for Mr. Fox or Mr. Camel won't work at Marsalis park zoo today.

Walton Carlton, zoo superintendent, said the telephone at the zoo would not be answered.

New York Bus Boy Will Receive First Glimpse Of Play Tonight

(By The United Press)

FORT WORTH, April 1.—George Batson, who made $15.89 a week as a New York restaurant bus boy until he wrote "Treat Her Gently," tonight sees his play for the first time.

The 25-year-old New Yorker was reported flying from New York to Amarillo to see the premiere of the comedy last Saturday night. Actually, he hitch-hiked his way to Lynchburg, Va., where his money ran out.

He wired Producer Harold J. Kennedy, collect:

"Hitchhiking to Amarillo. It's quite far, isn't it?"

Kennedy wired money, and Batson agreed to take a train to Fort Worth. Members of the cast reported that he reached Dallas today. He was expected here late today.

The "Cinderella playwright" won't have to thumb his way back to New York. He started drawing a percentage of the boxoffice take last Saturday night. Two film companies already have made tentative offers for the comedy.

30,000 GET PAROLES

MADRID, April 1 (U.P.) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco last night paroled 30,000 men imprisoned for their part in the civil war.

Axis Losses Major Blow To Pushing Japs Into War

Nazis Holding Italy Up Now

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

There is bound to be running through the quick mind of Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuoka, as he settles down in Rome for his visit with Mussolini, the disquieting question of whether the Axis reverses of the past few days haven't just about ruined the chances of Japan cooperating actively with the other two musketeers in the triple alliance.

There's a certain amount of grim humor in the quirk which fortune has given to the circumstances surrounding Matsuoka's mission to Europe. Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini had plans to display the fruits of might so attractively that he would go back home and advise his government to support the Axis by attacking Britain in the Far East.

Fascists Face Knockout

Instead there came the Yugoslav revolt against Hitler, just as the Japanese envoy arrived in Berlin. And now, when Il Duce is supposed to stage a Roman triumph for the benefit of his guest, there is the terrible Fascist naval defeat and the continued reverses in Italy's rapidly crumbling African empire.

It will indeed be strange if Matsuoka doesn't debate seriously in his mind whether Italy can hang on in the war much longer. He likely will come to the same conclusion as a lot of the rest of us, namely, that the Fascists can keep from being knocked out only so long as Hitler chooses to hold them on their feet.

Spring Is Here—Isn't It?

Having reached that point, the minister will come up against the query of what effect the collapse of Italy would have on Germany's chances in the war. I had that question asked me at the weekend during a war-talk down at Georgia State college for women, in historic Milledgeville.

By the way, it's real springtime down in Georgia. Great waves of pink peach buds and blossoms sweep across the rolling countryside, and the white pear blossoms and early flowers are out. And the trees are alive with the strange assortment of birds which make that section a stopping-off place in their migration to the north.

Still, I reckon this is no time or place to talk of spring and flowers and birds. Such things haven't much place in the thoughts of men these days. Pardon my digression from the discussion of war and killing.

Well, anyway, I was asked if Italy's downfall would mean disaster to Hitler, and the answer as I see it is in the negative, although such a collapse would weaken Hitler's position greatly.

The mighty Nazi war-machine would still continue to roll on, even if the fascists were knocked out. As a matter of cold fact, the Italians have been about finished for months as a fighting force, both on land and on sea. Economically, too, they are in a bad way and have little to contribute to the Axis in the way of supplies. In other words, Italy is pretty much of a casualty.

Mussolini Playing Stooge

However, it's quite in the cards that Hitler wouldn't allow the Fascists to surrender if they wanted to, but would occupy the country with Nazi troops and thus maintain the Axis. Actually there are many German soldiers in Italy right now, along with warplanes.

Indications increase daily that Hitler is wielding vast influence in Fascist affairs. Indeed Admiral Cunningham, commander of the British fleet which administered the great defeat on the Italians, says there's no doubt the Nazis exerted pressure on Mussolini to send his ships out to sea.

The fuehrer wouldn't want to lose Italy as a Mediterranean base. He wouldn't want, either, to see the rest of the Italian navy, air fleet and military supplies fall into the hands of his enemy.

DONALD DUCK — TAKEN FOR A RIDE! — BY WALT DISNEY

Dollars To Doughnuts

derly solicitous, his hand on her arm gentle.

She thought, "How shrewd Clarence is! How well he understands me. He knows so much about women . . . "

Over her glass she asked him, "Do you understand everything about me, Clarence? Just everything? Or only when I'm tired or not tired?"

He made a little gesture. "Who can understand a woman, Beatrice? I try. I study you. I love you so, and want always to please you—"

"You mean, you want always to be able to read to me. So that you won't ask me for something at the wrong moment. So that, at the right moments, you can wind me around your finger?" She was thinking out loud. There was no resentment in her tone, it was merely an appraisal.

Clarence leaned toward her. "Darling," he said carressingly, "Something has happened to you. Someone has been unkind, is it not? Tell me, sweet. Was it the old Weeming?"

"Of course not! It's nothing." She sipped her drink.

Clarence was in love with her. He had to be, to have given up Mimi Frothingham who had just as much money and would have been easier to manage. In a way, Clarence was amazingly perceptive. She twirled the slim glass in her fingers. "Clarence," she said softly, "Clarence, suppose I told you I'm unhappy, bored, restless. What would you say?"

"Say?" The black eyes glowed, and his hands reached for hers. "I would say my little bird needs relaxation, happiness, new scenes, love, tenderness. In short, Beatrice, I would say that it is time for the honeymoon!"

She drew her hands away. "But I don't want to get married just yet, Clarence. I — I can't really see that it's going to be any different after we're married. Except for the house at Westbury, of course. But that —" Her voice trailed off. She looked down into her glass intently. Perhaps, after all, Clarence might understand.

"My life is so pointless, Clarence. I've been thinking, this afternon. It's like a pink cotton candy lollypop I wanted once at the circus. Grandfather said it wouldn't be good for me, but I wanted it so! And then I had it. The lovely pink stuff was just — just sawdust in my mouth." She looked up at him appealingly. "It had no taste, Clarence. It just melted, without anything to it. I guess it really was sawdust. And well — that's my life, too. Taking a cruise and thinking it'll be wonderful. It's not. One thing after another like that, turning into sawdust."

"Ashes, carissima," said Clarence. "That is the classical expression, I believe. But this is not serious, really. It will pass. After we are married."

She dropped her eyes. A sharp little ache of disappointment stung her. Almost, she had hoped that beneath Clarence's flattery and lovemaking—beneath the polished manners, the amusing litle tricks — she would find some depth to comfort her—some sympathy that would warm her, something real and strong to evoke response.

"Clarence," she said lightly at last. "It's the same old trouble. Tired business men have it with their wives, darling, and rich girls like me have it with their fiances. You don't understand me!"

"Ah! A moment ago, you thought I understood all too well."

"Let's leave it," she said.

But somehow, it could not be left. Even while they sat together in her car, and Jenkins drove to the club where Clarence lived, it nagged at her. At last she burst out, "Clarence, I think I'll go in for good works. Those social workers have always taken my checks but never let me do anything. I'm going to fix that! I want to do something! It's the people who work who always seem to be so happy."

"Work to do in the world?" he scoffed. "Ah, love, it's not the people who work who seem so happy. It is only the people who are not happy who, looking at other people, think they are happy. You must know, to a girl in a five-and-ten-cent store, you appear to be the happiest creature in the world."

"I wish I were a girl in a five-and-ten-cent store!" she cried. "I'd live. I'd worry. I'd fall in love — I'd have some real feelings, some real emotions!"

"You are having some real emotions now," said Clarence, very softly. "Of course, you want to live!" His arms reached for her, and he held her tight. "With me, you shall live. I shall teach you what life is, Beatrice. I love you. I love these little hands and your bright hair and your bad little temper."

He put a finger under her chin and lifted her face until her eyes met his. There was a fire in his eyes, a dark and burning look that could not be false. Yes, he loved her. That much was true.

"Kiss me, little Beatrice. Kiss me and then dare to say you cannot have a real emotion!"

Afterward, he did not let her go. His lips against her hair, his voice husky with feeling, he said, "No more running away, Beatrice. Next week, we shall be married."

Contracts Awarded For Lamesa Water

LAMESA, April 1. (Special)—Contracts aggregating $49,258 for improvements to Lamesa waterworks system were awarded by the city commission Monday afternoon, according to Mayor W. L. Marr.

Construction of the new addition to the present system will get under way in about 10 days, Harry N. Roberts of Lubbock, consulting engineer for the city, said.

Improvements, the commission pointed out, are necessary in the face of rapid population growth of Lamesa since installation of present equipment, which was made to meet the demand of only 3,500 persons. Population now is approximately 6,000.

Contract for a 200,000-gallon elevated steel tank was let to Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. of Dallas on a bid of $16,100.

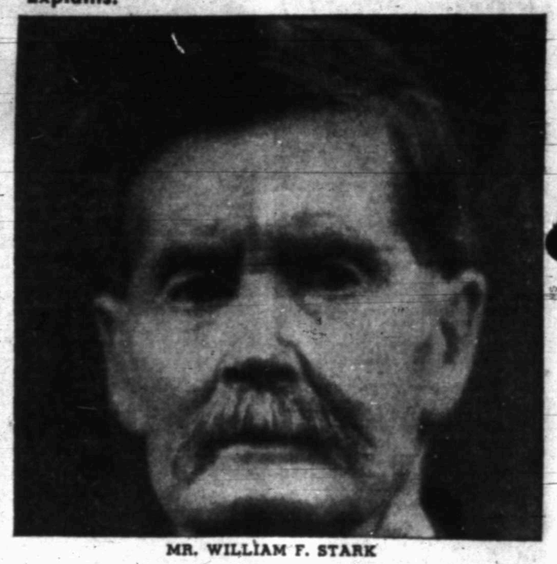

Clowe & Cowan, Inc., of Lubbock was awarded the contract for machinery. Bid was $5,635. Contract for construction of a 200,000-gallon surface reservoir and other structures, including distributing mains and a pump house, was let to Gayle Bros. of Houston on a bid of $27,523.

Construction of the ground reservoir and installation of equipment will be concluded in 60 days. Steel work will require four months.

United States exports of iron and steel, excluding scrap, amounted to 2,799,000 net tons in 1939.

FITS MY CASE PERFECTLY FORMER POSTMASTER SAYS ABOUT HOYT'S COMPOUND

My Trouble With Constipation, Sour Stomach, Gas Bloating, Dyspepsia, And Stiff, Sore Joints Was Banished by Hoyt's, Mr. Stark, Aged Lubbock Man Explains.

MR. WILLIAM F. STARK

If you are a victim of indigestion, gas, belching and bloating, sourness and acidity, kidney and bowel misery, headaches, nervous fatigue, you have perhaps concluded that even temporary relief is out of the question. Yet there are thousands like you, who claim today that they have discovered complete relief from such ills in the modern herbal extract, Hoyt's Compound. One more local resident to praise Hoyt's is 78-year-old Mr. William F. Stark of 1924 Sixth St., Lubbock, who states: "I am a former postmaster and a retired merchant of Yeso, New Mexico, and have lived in Lubbock for the past eleven years. I was afflicted with constipation, sour stomach, gas bloating, dyspepsia. The suffering became almost unbearable. My bowels were very irregular, causing my system to be filled with poison. My whole body was one pain after another. My joints became stiff and sore, and even my neck was stiff all the time. Due to weak kidneys I had to get up four or five times a night. My nerves were shattered, and I couldn't get a night's rest. The food I ate wouldn't digest. I had no appetite. I became very run-down, and lost a lot of weight.

"I began taking Hoyt's Compound and now feel like a new man. I can eat anything without pain in my stomach. My food digests, and the sourness and bloating have gone. My bowels are regular, my sleep unbroken. Stiffness and soreness in my joints are gone. Hoyt's is the greatest medicine I have ever taken; it fits my case perfectly. I take this opportunity to publicly endorse this great medicine!"

Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Mark Halsey Drug Store and by all leading druggists in this area. Mail orders promptly filled. Adv.
