Farm Leaders To Tackle Agricultural Problem

King Bobby Jones Steps From His Golf Throne To Fill Movie Contract

Georgian Withdraws From Championship Competition

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—With a gesture of sportsmanship as dramatic as anything he ever achieved on the links, Robert T. Jones, Jr., today walked from the throne room of golf.

BOBBY JONES

King of all he surveys in his royal realm at the age of only 28, the one and only world conqueror of golf had decided to retire from all championship competition, renouncing his amateur standing, at the same time, to fulfill a contract to make twelve one-reel motion pictures on educational golfing subjects.

Signs Movie Contract
Jones signed a contract four days ago, Nov. 13, with Warner Brothers Pictures, after considerable negotiation, and in a statement of sweeping frankness today made known his intention to retire from all "golfing competition of a serious nature," after fourteen years of intense tournament play in this country and abroad.

In short, business has taken the place of pleasure and recreation, so far as the Jones golf is concerned. King Bobby, after a year in which he made a record-breaking clean sweep of all the championships of Great Britain and the United States, has decided the opportunity to repair the family fortunes is not to be overlooked.

He intended to retire from title tournaments, anyway, he revealed, but had intended to "drop out quietly by neglecting to contract for the open championship next spring." Now, however, and in view of the business venture he has undertaken, he felt it necessary that a "clear understanding" be had by the golfing public that he made the great Georgian his idol since, as a youth of 14, he first crashed the barriers of national championship competition in 1916 at Philadelphia.

W.C.T.U. Will Ask Political Parties for Pro Law Stands

Two Groups Preparing Resolutions Asking Democrats and Republicans for Firm Position on Liquor Question

(By The Associated Press)
CONVENTION HALL, HOUSTON, Nov. 17.—Two groups of delegates to the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention here set about today preparing resolutions which probably will call upon the Democrats and Republicans, their respective political parties, to take firm positions on prohibition, it was learned authoritatively.

The political activity got under way while the women still were thinking of a speech by Mrs. Mamie White Colvin of New York, who had held up the possibility of a third party in 1931.

The delegates who were Republicans held informal conferences to draft their demands which will be placed before the convention, as did the Democrats.

Letter From Woodcock
One of today's outstanding events was the letter of Federal Prohibition Director James W. W. Woodcock to the body in which Mr. Woodcock said he "had no great hope" for the "direct success" of federal prohibition forces against private violations.

"The private violation," the director's letter added, "is the peculiar field for education and for all other influences which tend to mould opinion toward an obedience of the law. It is your opportunity to energize these forces for obedience. It is obvious also that by using your influence to stop private violations you remove the motive and basic cause for commercial violations."

"My thinking on this great problem always brings me back therefore to this one proposal—the courts for commercial violations; education non-commercial violators."

The convention turned first this afternoon to consideration of its organization as it affects the negro. Violent Hill Whyte, field worker among negroes in Maryland, told of what he described as the "growing sentiment for prohibition among my people."

Meanwhile, there had been no evidence that any fight would be made on the present national officers when they come up tomorrow.

Sherman Riot Cases Are Transferred

Venue Change Is Allowed by Dallas Judge

Cases Transferred to Austin Because of Impossibility of Finding Jury in Dallas County without Bias

Veniremen Scored
Judge Criticizes Opinions of Prospective Jurors in Favor of Defendants Charged with Mob Murder

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Nov. 17.—District Judge Charles A. Phippen today transferred the Sherman riot cases because of the asserted impossibility of finding a jury in Dallas county without bias in favor of the defendants.

Judge Phippen transferred the cases to Austin, some 275 miles from Sherman, where a mob burned the courthouse May 9 in an effort to deal summarily with George Hughes, a negro who attacked a white woman. The judge said because of the wide publicity given the affair, in which negro property was destroyed and martial law declared, he did not believe an impartial jury could be had any closer to Sherman than Austin. The negro died in the burning courthouse.

Fourteen Face Trial
The change of venue was granted after an effort had been made to begin the selection of a jury to try Jeff "Slim" Jones, alleged leader of the mob, on a charge of rioting to commit arson by explosion. Each of 14 men had been indicted for that offense as well as for rioting, with intent to commit murder and two cases of arson.

Judge Phippen said three-fourths of the 77 takersmen examined stated they would not send Jones to the penitentiary even though he should be proved guilty and many of the others stated they would do so.

Two Men and Two Women Held by Local Officers; Thought Connected with "Jobs" in Texas, Oklahoma

Arrested by police as a result of telegrams from an anxious father, two men and two women were in the county jail Monday night, facing charges of illegal possession of liquor manufacturing equipment, while officers awaited developments which they believed would show the two men, suspects responsible for several "jobs" in Oklahoma and Texas.

The four were arrested early Sunday afternoon by police who had received five telegrams from Willie Rogers, husband of one of the women, believed would show the two men, suspects responsible for several "jobs" in Oklahoma and Texas.

Last Minute Stay Is Granted Maple

Moody Gives Reprieve To Confessed Slayer, Scheduled To Be Executed Today

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Nov. 17.—Governor Dan Moody Monday night granted Jesse Maple, Houston killer, a reprieve until November 28.

Maple was to be executed after midnight. The governor announced his decision following a conference with Justice W. C. Morrow, presiding judge of the court of criminal appeals. The decision was announced at 10:35 p. m.

An hour earlier Governor Moody announced he would not interfere with the scheduled execution unless the court of criminal appeals requested him to do so. His office then telephoned Judge Morrow to notify him of the governor's decision and the governor waited at his office until the judge arrived there. They were in conference in Governor Moody's office only a few minutes before the decision was announced.

Pending before the court of criminal appeals is a motion for a rehearing on a petition for mandamus which was denied Maple's attorney several days ago. The petition sought to require the district judge before whom Maple was tried to certify to the appeals court a copy of the testimony and proceedings. This judge refused to do because Maple accepted the verdict of the jury and was sentenced at the time he was tried.

District Judge Whit Boyd at Houston today refused to issue a writ of injunction to stop the electrocution on an insanity affidavit filed in Maple's behalf by F. O. Fuller, a court appointed attorney, signed by Charles H. Mayer, commander of Thomas Dismuke post of the American Legion and attested by William A. Urban, national liaison officer of the disabled veterans of the World war.

Maple killed Motorcycle Officer W. B. Phares and Edward Fitzgerald at Houston the night of September 20, after participating in the robbery of the Touchy Furniture company, and was convicted of the Fitzgerald murder. The officers were slain when they sought to arrest the paperhanger.

E. F. Grimes, who helped Maple in the holdup, denied connection with the shooting. He is sentenced to life imprisonment and 90 years, one assessed in connection with the Touchy holdup and one in connection with the robbery of a restaurant.

Government Is Holding Own in Grain Campaign

Federal Farm Board Enters Chicago Market, Purchases Wheat in Effort to Stabilize Present Low Prices

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The federal government today was openly holding the line it secretly had maneuvered against sagging wheat prices last week in a brand new stabilization campaign.

Chairman Legge of the Farm Board and George S. Milnor, general manager of the Grain Stabilization board, joined in the public announcement of this second effort to dam the flood of wheat prices depression with government resources.

A year ago, at a cost estimated at around $75,000,000 the corporation penned up 60,000 bushels of grain which it still has on its hands.

Grain Absorbed
The new stabilization move, which became evident in Chicago last Saturday when enormous quantities of December wheat disappeared regularly at 73 cents a bushel, was unofficially reported late today to have absorbed another 20,000,000 bushels.

Chairman Legge said the total holdings of the stabilization corporation now could be "conservatively" estimated at 70,000,000 bushels, but other estimates at the capitol approached 104,000,000 bushels.

Railroad Men Organize to Fight Busses

Group Formed at Abilene by Employees of Two Railways Expected to Become State-wide in Its Scope

Tyranny Charged
Memorial for Submission to State Legislature Adopted by Workers; Score Taxing "to Subsidize Competitor"

(By Associated Press)
ABILENE, Nov. 17.—Perfecting an organization that is to be permanent until "something is done about present conditions," 68 employees here of the Texas & Pacific and Abilene & Southern railways formed an association yesterday that is, they announce, destined to be statewide in scope.

Reviewing the motor bus railroad situation, the employees adopted a memorial for submission to the state legislature declaring that "taxing one industry to subsidize its competitors is tyranny."

Forces Reduced
T. R. Dodson, elected president, and C. F. Brown, secretary, said organization of the railroad employees was deemed necessary "since railroad forces in this city have been reduced by more than 50 men whose annual pay is estimated in the sum of $75,000, and this situation is an accurate picture of conditions throughout the country."

The memorial protests are "unfair competition of passenger and freight bus lines and asserts that taxation is behind the situation."

"The government, state and city," it says, "have subsidized every transportation agency that has been set up in competition with the railroads which use employment."

Through benefits received in subsidies, exemption from ad valorem taxes and the starvation wages paid to their employees, our competitors, by cutting rates, have depleted the traffic of the railroads that our employment is in jeopardy."

Flier Dies as Plane Crashes

Another Airman Injured When Ship Falls While Aviators Practice for Mason Patrick Trophy Race Saturday

(By The Associated Press)
GALVESTON, Nov. 17.—Lieut. Al N. Booth, third attack group flier, was killed here this afternoon when his plane crashed to the ground as he was practicing for the Mason Patrick trophy race to be held here Saturday.

Lieutenant Booth, 28, died thirty minutes after the crash, while Private Ed Lewis, riding with him, was severely shocked.

Crash Kelly Pilot
Lieutenant Booth is a native of Abilene, La. He was graduated from Kelly field in 1928 and came here in March, 1929. Last year the officer, one of the group crack pilots, participated in the Patrick trophy race at Cleveland, Ohio.

The A-3 attack plane in which the two men were riding crashed from a height of about 30 feet into the waters of the bay as it was rounding one of the pylons marking the course of the race to be held Saturday. Two planes were making the turn at a speed of about 110 miles an hour at the time, Lieut. Joseph A. Anderson, piloting the second plane, landed immediately on a nearby field and he and Sergeant William Verick, his passenger, waded into the shallow water and extricated Booth's body. Both were rushed to the Fort Crockett hospital.

Revolution Is Hinted During Spanish Riots

Serious Disorders Flare in Connection with Strike as at Least One Killed and Probably 200 Wounded

(By The Associated Press)
BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 17.—Serious disorders flared tonight in connection with a general strike, with at least one man killed and probably 200 wounded.

Police and strikers fought bitterly in a half dozen clashes, with the mob applying the torch to certain places which had not closed in compliance with the strike order.

Revolutionary Tinge
The disorder also took on a revolutionary tinge, for countless speakers mounted improvised rostrums and shouted for a republic. Others voiced fiery demands for a communist regime and still others called for the separation of Catalonia from Spain—an old question.

Police were kept busy breaking up such meetings and scattering hundreds of individuals who shouted "long live communism" and "long live the soviets."

Cavalry troops were ordered into action and heavy guards and soldiers patrolled the entire city.

One Known Dead
The one known death resulted when a thousand demonstrators began breaking street lights in the ronda San Antonio early tonight and then engaged in a pitched battle with police and troops. More than 100 shots were exchanged.

Near the plaza Cataluna strikers broke open and burned a saloon, which had not closed under the strike edict. Police attempted to prevent the disorder, firing many shots and wounding some of the manifestants.

A little later a great mob swarmed into the same plaza, which is the brightly lighted heart of the city, and piled up park and cafe furniture, setting a huge bonfire. The police charged, firing shots, but the mob fired in return and also stoned the constabulary.

McNary Calls Confab to Be In Washington

Senate Agricultural Committee To Weigh Merits of New Farm Marketing Act; Will Take Up New Legislation

To Trade Opinions
Movement Under Way in Senate to Revive Debuture Principle of Farm Relief; Decisive Action Expected

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The senate agriculture committee is to weigh the merits of the newly established Farm Marketing act next week and determine with agricultural leaders whether new legislation shall be sought at the approaching session of congress.

Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, today called on Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge of the Farm Board to meet with the committee next Monday to state their views and program.

Invite Farm Leaders
He invited also the presidents of the three national farm organizations: L. J. Taber, of the National Grange; C. E. Huff, of the Farmers' Union; and S. H. Thompson, of the American farm bureau federation.

The Oregon senator said he was calling the conference to get a complete picture of the agriculture situation before congress meets. He said last fall the new act should be given a thorough test before it is abandoned or modified, to get a full exchange of opinions.

Would Revive Plan
Already there is a movement in the senate to revive the export debuture principle of farm relief as a supplement to the Farm Marketing Act. This was passed a year ago by the senate over the objection of President Hoover, but was defeated in the house.

Whatever the results of the farm meeting next week, it is expected to lead to decisive action in the senate at the short session—either for additional legislation or for a further test of the present act.

Technological college placed fifth in team scores, being outstripped by Nebraska university, Iowa state college, Kansas State Agricultural college and Oklahoma A. and M. college, in the order named.

Other members of the Technological college team were Leon Harris and Bristol Cheever. An alternate, Lonnie Starr, accompanied the team, as did Prof. H. A. Bower, coach.

Champs of Dogdom Pose at London's Crystal Palace Show

Champions all are these widely varied types of prominent citizens of Dogland. They attended a convention-dog show, to you—at the Crystal Palace, London, the other day to show those Brits just what was what in canine realms. Reading down, at the left, are a pair of first prize pointers, Nancoloth Beryl and Nancoloth Markable; a winner of five first prizes and champion of the Skye Terriers, Nan of Meerend; and Quendon Jix, a Dandy Dimont, who looks somewhat drawn out, but is a prize-winner still. Upper center is Diomed, champion bulldog with the sourest mug and the sweetest temper at the show. Below him is the winning chow, Chooman Po To. (Try to call a pooch with a name like that.) Pictured at the right, from top to bottom, are Champion Tom, the best poodle who had just come from a strenuous session at the barbers; Eastfield Cooter Boy, Sealyham winner of five first and two special prizes; and Kempthurst Creole, admirer the cup he won in the terror class.

British Plan For Limiting Arms Adopted

Preparatory Disarmament Commission
Limitation by Budget System; U. S. Opposed

GENEVA, Nov. 17. (AP)—The preparatory disarmament commission after three days of debate, has adopted the British proposal which sets forth that a majority of the commission associated itself with the principle of land war limitation by the budgetary method.

The vote was 16 to 3, with six abstentions including the United States, which through its representative Hugh S. Gibson, previously had declared the plan unacceptable.

Abstentions From Voting. Ambassador Gibson today explained he was obliged to abstain from voting as he would have preferred the commission to have placed itself on record as to whether there really was a majority in favor of budget limitation.

The British resolution, as presented by Viscount Cecil, reads: "A majority of the commission associates itself with the principle of limitation by budgetary methods of land war material, while recognizing that certain members would prefer the direct method by enumeration and that certain members would desire to see some combination of the two methods."

Purpose Explained. Viscount Cecil explained its purpose was to put an end to the long debate by summarizing the sentiment of the commission.

Germany, Italy and Russia voted against the resolution. The abstentions, in addition to the United States, were Sweden, Turkey, Venezuela, Bulgaria and China.

The next matter before the commission is consideration of the French proposal that the budgetary method be placed in the hands of a group of experts for study.

The results of this study would be reported to the various governments some time before the convening of the general disarmament conference.

The day's session again was enlivened by an exchange of remarks between Rene Massigli, the French delegate, and Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian representative, who yesterday had a verbal tilt with Viscount Cecil.

Before adoption of the British proposal, the commission voted down resolutions offered by Italy and Russia and polled a tie vote on a German proposal.

The German proposal, submitted by Count Von Bernstorff, was for direct limitation by enumeration of war materials.

The commission took note of the attempt on the life of Premier Hamaguchi of Japan, and expressed his profound regret. N. Sato, the Japanese delegate, thanked his colleagues for their consideration.

Loaded Gun Safe With Children

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. (AP)—All day long yesterday the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tracy played with an automatic pistol they found in a closet.

"Why," he said, "I think it's loaded," and he picked it up.

It was Mrs. Tracy it was said at the hospital, would recover, she wound was not serious.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCH E. BEAN
Avantage Woman's Editor

"This 'mum' season is here again and Lubbock probably has more beautiful chrysanthemums than we have ever had before. Colors run the gamut of the rainbow; yards are filled with more brilliance than they were during the summer.

Party decorations are easy now and pretty, too. For every affair there are blossoms in any desired hue and autumn leaves for those who will hunt them.

These are the melancholy days of the year but, paradoxically enough, I like them better than the balmy days of spring or the splendid days of summer. A sandstorm, even, doesn't particularly fill me with gloom if it comes on Sunday when I have an opportunity to snuggle down in an armchair before the fire and read. The wind can howl outside; I'm comfortable indoors.

I'M LIKE THE REST
After over-looking the novel for several years, I'm reading "Babbalanza" now that Sinclair Lewis has been awarded the nobel prize, in literature. It gives me an opportunity to find in George Babbalanza counterparts of a lot of men I know and I wonder what name may be applied to the feminine Babbalanzas of the country. We're all considerably standardized, you know, and the individualized are apt to be considered queer. Yet, in our oral code we place a premium on individuality. Illogical, are we not?

I'm no different from the rest: when dresses are long, I let out all my hems and ridicule those who wear their skirts too short; when styles change, I cut off my frocks. I play auction bridge or forty-two when the whole town plays and then when another game comes into fashion, I learn that, too. For all these things I have the not unreasonable excuse that they are instruments of sociability.

Did you ever try to entertain anyone for any considerable time who didn't play bridge or dance or read or golf?

Everyone should at least have a hobby. Then when you run out of material for conversation, you can bring up the subject and start talking and occasionally throw in a few questions or affirmations and save the day. This is an example of standardization. I'm complaining about it, appears, but in reality it is offered as a panacea for lack of individuality. I was mentioning further up in the column.

If I go against the established order, I'm an eccentric or an idiosyncratic, unless I happen to crash the gates of greatness. Then I'm a heroine and my conduct becomes popularized and my actions are commonplace and acceptable. A letter came to my desk the other day which exemplifies this condition. Here it is:

"My Dear Miss Bean: Having worried for some time over a certain stage in mental development at which I find myself to have arrived, and being far from a settlement I am writing to you to see what you think of the matter.

The thought of writing to you would probably not have entered my mind had I not read a letter which you received from a lovely girl not very long ago in your column, 'The Woman's Angle,' and while my case is anything but that, still I would like to see what you might have to say regarding my case.

"This is it, Miss Bean. In my early twenties, instead of desiring a husband, home and children, in short all of those things which are related to in books and magazines and told by friends as being necessary to perfect happiness, I wish for anything but that.

"All of my life I have lived in moderate circumstances and I know that no Prince Charming is going to come riding by and ask me to share his life and fortune. That leaves the possibility of a mate to come from that great majority who will succeed in ten years and for ten years merely 'get along.' While it's true I know of no one who is looking for me, I, on the other hand, am looking for no one. Is there anything wrong in that?

"There are many girls of my acquaintance who are of a similar frame of mind from what I am able to derive. We have friends who marry and live together for a few months, sometimes until a child is born, afterwards separating and going their own ways once more. The peace and understanding that is present in such instances, I want to avoid such a tragedy in my own life.

"Twice today I saw young mothers of about my own age carrying small babies, while a child lagged behind. Their faces were anything but youthful and I wondered if they had the step to take again whether they wouldn't choose to work or go to school rather than accept marriage and all of its responsibilities.

"I like my work, Miss Bean, and that is another reason I do not want to think of marriage and accept the marketing and housekeeping, a thing I have disliked from childhood.

"Do you think this is a natural state for a modern girl to be in, or am I selfish and perhaps rather silly?

What is more, the letter was not anonymous. However, I neither saw the young woman, nor did I put her name put to it.

To Hold Elections Monday

Church Units Cast Ballots In Meetings

Mrs. R. A. Mills Is Head of First Christian Ladies Aid; Mrs. J. B. McCauley Heads Mary Helm

The election of officers for another year were items of principal interest Monday afternoon at meetings of two church women's societies here. These were the First Methodist Mary Helm auxiliary and the General Aid society of the First Christian church.

Mrs. J. B. McCauley, who has been completing an unexpired term as president of the Mary Helm society following the resignation recently of Mrs. Charles Smith, was re-elected president of that society.

Other officers who were elected were the following: vice-president, Mrs. A. N. Gamble; secretary, Mrs. Gerald Wren; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles Smith; publicity chairman, Mrs. R. S. Williams; connectional treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Dykes; local treasurer, Mrs. Lex Reese; study leader, Mrs. C. A. Bickley; superintendent, Gibson auxiliary, Mrs. R. E. Needles; superintendent of young people's work, Mrs. H. W. Wylie; superintendent of children's work, Mrs. David S. Martin; superintendent social service, Mrs. K. L. Riggs; superintendent of supplies, Mrs. Campbell.

Mrs. Will Morgan was received as a new member in the society at this meeting, which was devoted to business.

In preparing to join with the First Methodist Women's Missionary society in giving a reception on Friday evening for the new pastor of the church and his wife, a committee composed of Mesdames Smith, P. M. Maddox and W. J. Spain, was appointed.

The society members voted to combine a "Harvest" and "Vocal" program on the second Monday in December and to have an annual Christmas party on the Monday following that. There is to be an all-day meeting of the society next Monday at the church. New members in the Methodist congregation are being given a particular invitation to attend. Each woman is to bring a dish for the lunch.

Mrs. Mills Is President
Mrs. R. A. Mills was elected president of the General Aid society of the First Christian church in a meeting held at the church yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. D. N. Leaverton was named first vice-president; Mrs. Joe Coursey, second vice-president; Mrs. Townsend Waddill, secretary, and Mrs. N. L. Benson, treasurer.

Mrs. Arthur Broderick, retiring president, presided at the business session and the circles were redistributed for the year 1931.

Circle two of the aid had charge of the program, and a devotional was given by Mrs. R. L. Howell and Mrs. W. R. Bickley. Mrs. Townsend Waddill sang a vocal selection, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. D. W. Robertson.

The origin and history of the Christian church was given by Mrs. A. T. Biggers.

Added Fullness of New Mode Has Slenderizing Effect

These new models, from Jean Patou, illustrate the principle by which fullness is used to accentuate the slenderness of the figure. Amaranth red velvet is used to fashion the sumptuous evening gown at the left, which is trimmed with sable fur. The complicated cut-out effect of the coat, as well as the train, enhance its formal look. The elaborate lines of the afternoon dress, center, are executed in black cloth, and the broadtail and ermine "pelerine" scarf and muff are made to harmonize with the general slenderizing effect. At the right is a black chiffon evening gown featuring the oblique lines which emphasize the flowing silhouette.

BY JEAN PATOU

Written for NEA Service
PARIS, Nov. 17.—The fullness introduced in the present styles need cause no alarm to women who fear that any suggestion of width will destroy their highly-prized slenderness.
The latest creations prove, on the contrary, that fullness is almost always introduced in a model to slen-derize the figure. Any artist knows that a group of vertical folds or pleats invariably will create an optical illusion of greater length, and thus you have the slender silhouette faithfully preserved.

This combining of lines—a symmetrical, horizontal, vertical—is doubtless the most important factor in the streamline silhouette.
Current styles are frequently expressed in dresses that are broken up in several tiers. The underlying design in this mode is that is could easily foreshorten the line.

This danger is never likely to present itself with anyone who has mastered the technique of cut.
When a skirt is divided into two or more tiers, a conjurer will be careful to introduce a combination of oblique lines, and these are cal-

ed upon to play an important role.
Take, for example, the new tunic effects. Here horizontal lines are almost a necessity, but the under-garment will invariably be narrower than the tunic and thus achieve the proper balance.

When a horizontal line is used some distance below the waistbelt
the vertical line must immediately be introduced as a compensation.
This is usually taken care of in the form of a group of pleats or folds.

There are a great many means whereby the slim silhouette is preserved in this tiered mode. Volants cut on the bias are made to end in soft, vertical folds, or again they may be applied in a circular movement which is sufficient to produce the desired vertical effect.

"Nice Going, Mr. Sterling!"

THE Morning Avalanche was not one of the newspapers supporting Ross B. Sterling in his first primary campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

In the second primary this newspaper did support Mr. Sterling but was frank in the announcement of its support. Mr. Sterling, we said at that time, was our choice over Mr. Ferguson, not over the starting field in the pre-July drive. We made no bones about saying that he was our second primary choice, largely because The Morning Avalanche considered support of the Ferguson campaign detrimental to Texas.

Now, as Mr. Sterling clears his desk and prepares to take his official seat as Governor of the State of Texas, and of all Texans, to Mr. Sterling we are prepared to give whole-hearted, generous support as long as his official acts are deemed in our opinion to be beneficial to the great state in which it is a privilege to live and serve.

Mr. Sterling's first official, or perhaps we should say semi-official act is certainly one which will make respect for him. Says the Houstonian, to the hundreds who are clamoring for state jobs: "No one who applies for a job, no one who attempts to bring political pressure to bear to get an appointment, will receive a thing!"

His decision, as we see it, merits the West Texas pat on the back and its own expressive "Nice going, Mr. Sterling!"

There is nothing quite so revolting to the average American as the splitting of the "political pie." Handing out public posts to men whose only claim to them is "I supported you," is certainly no way to attempt business operation in government—something which Texas sorely needs.

When Mr. Sterling stamped the broad acres of Texas last summer he told his hearers everywhere that, if elected, he would place into state operation the same, sane business policies which have made him one of Texas' financial giants. In showing the pie-seekers into a back seat he has made a good start toward the fulfillment of his promise—a start which causes The Morning Avalanche to reiterate: "Nice going, Mr. Sterling!"

HAPPINESS
It is the habit of man's nature to work in the expectation of reward, and it is a law of nature that every deed brings some reward in its train. This reward, to be sure, is not always the one sought; but since no thought or act can be wholly isolated, it brings consequences which repay it for good or ill. The final reward sought by all men is happiness. This aim is obscured and confused too often because men set up a lesser object which they believe to be the last key to the happiness they seek. This may be the reward of financial success, or fame, or freedom from responsibility or obligation, but these are no more than formulas out of which they hope to derive happiness.

He who has the wit to place happiness somewhere within his reach is most likely to attain it. Fortunately, it is never far away from any human life, unless the individual chooses a long and devious path to it. It is the universal reward offered to mankind and given according to comprehensive laws. The wise man will first see it clearly as his object and then, from human wisdom and experience learn the laws of achieving it.

Practical Health Problems

This is one of a series of articles by Dr. Fishbein on nutrition of the child.
By Dr. Morris Fishbein, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The second main type of food constituent is the carbohydrate or sugar. It has been estimated, as cited by Dr. W. M. Marriott, that the minimum amount of carbohydrate on which a young infant will live for any length of time is about one-twentieth of an ounce for each pound of its weight.

The best amount of carbohydrate is about from one-tenth to one-fifth of an ounce for each pound of the child's weight, or approximately one-hundredth of its total weight. A child that is fed on its mother's milk needs about one-fifth of an ounce for each pound of its weight each day.

If a grown person is given too much carbohydrate, he promptly develops the appearance of sugar in his excretions. Because the needs of the child are so much greater, it can be fed proportionately a larger amount of carbohydrate than can an adult.

Sugars are not all the same as ordinary cane sugar. They vary in their forms so that it becomes important to know which of the sugars is best used by the body for energy purposes.

The human body has a very exact regulating system for handling sugar. Whatever is needed for energy is burned in the tissues. The remainder is stored in the liver and in the muscles or else changed into fat. During starvation the material stored up in the liver and in the muscles is reconverted into the form which can be used for energy, taken up by the blood, and used as food.

If starvation continues, some of the proteins will be converted into sugar to keep the level of the sugar in the blood from falling too low. If the level of the sugar falls too low, the child becomes unconscious and may show the symptoms of intoxication. When insulin is given, sugar is converted rapidly into fat, and a system has been developed for increasing the weight of the body rapidly by giving sugar and insulin at the same time.

If the person needs energy, sugar may be given. Thus it was suggested that marasmus and other conditions are due to the loss of sugar to help them overcome the loss that takes place during excess activity.

However, sugars cannot replace proteins in the diet. A certain amount of sugar can be derived from proteins in times of stress, but the complex proteins cannot be created in any way from sugars.

If a child is fed a diet that has too much sugar and which is deficient in proteins, fats and minerals, it will increase in weight rapidly due to the fact that a lot of water is retained in the body. An infant that is fed an excess amount of sugar is pale and flabby, actually waterlogged, and is not capable of activity, nor of resisting infection.

Infants that have been overfed on sweetened condensed milk or on malted milk and which have not received a proper amount of the other necessary food substances may appear fat and chubby, but will at the same time undergo the vicissitudes of infection nor the activities of life.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore to live in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandmother, MARGARET ROGERS. Celia's mother, is now a widow, having divorced Mitchell and remarried later. BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and before leaving Baltimore Celia promised to be loyal to his love.

Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections though she is jealous and at once begins scheming to get rid of the girl. She introduces Celia to TOD JORDAN, fascinating but of dubious character, and does all she can to encourage this match.

LISI DUNCAN, socially prominent, becomes Celia's loyal friend. Mitchell learns Jordan is paying his daughter attention and forbids her to see him. Celia offends her grandmother and the elderly Mrs. Mitchell feels illness and departs for a rest. The girl goes to Mrs. Parsons' Long Island home for a lengthy visit. Jordan calls there frequently.

Mrs. Parsons lunches with Mitchell and he tells her he has investigated Jordan's past and that the young man is a gambler, she does not see this news on to Celia. Next day Celia, Lisi and Jordan attend the races and there Celia encounters Barney Shields. Shields tells her he is working for a New York picture service and she agrees to telephone him next day.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVIII
When Celia Mitchell opened her eyes next morning she saw at once that her plans for the day were ruined. Two little wrinkles appeared in her forehead as she turned on her pillow and gazed out the open window.

Rain! It was falling in gentle monotony, not a downpouring summer torrent that would end as abruptly as it had begun. This rain was sure to last throughout the day.

She sat up in bed and considered the dripping outdoors mournfully. Why, of all times, did it have to rain today? Her strategy, carefully studied out the night before, was useless now. She had planned, as an excuse to meet Barney, to stage an impromptu shopping trip. She would tell Evelyn she must have tennis shoes. They would have to be fitted and could not be sent out. Besides, Lisi had told her of a small store which carried the best equipment. It all sounded plausible enough, but who would be so ridiculous as to go shopping in the rain?

No, that story would never do today.

Celia dressed slowly. She still was reluctant about confiding in Evelyn. By the time she went down to breakfast no solution of her problem had come to mind.

"Your breakfast is ready, Miss Celia," Lisi greeted her. "Mrs. Parsons had a tray sent to her room."

This was unusual. "Isn't she feeling well?" the girl asked.

"I don't know, Rose said she wasn't to be disturbed."

Celia ate her lonely meal. It added to the general gloominess of the situation that there was no one across the table to chat with. Lili moved quietly from kitchen to dining room. The whole house was silent.

When Celia had finished she went out on the porch and watched the rain. Larchwood without its sunshine seemed a different place. No tennis. No gardening. And Barney was expecting her to telephone. She spent most of the morning on the porch. Mrs. Parsons appeared a little before noon and said that she had slept and was feeling much refreshed.

Then a marvelous thing occurred. Evelyn noticed it first. "I believe the rain is stopping," she said. "Look—it's much lighter than it was."

"Oh, if it only would," Evelyn said. "I'm glad, too," Evelyn said. "There's a bridge tournament at Fannie Marlow's club and I promised to play with her, but I wouldn't think of going if the shower keeps up. I don't know whether you'd enjoy it or not, Celia, unless of course you care to watch. Every one will be playing."

The girl shook her head quickly. "No, that wouldn't be much fun for me. What I want to do this afternoon was to go in town to get some tennis shoes. Lisi told me the place to buy them."

"I'm sorry, dear but I'll need the car."

"Oh, that's all right! I can taxi to the station and take the interurban. They say it saves lots of time."

"I'll be waiting for you," Evelyn said.

"Thank you very much," Celia said. She waited five minutes. She saw the motor car move off down the driveway, then dashed downstairs to the nearest telephone.

"I want to speak to Mr. Barney Shields," she told the voice which answered after she had given the number of the Apex Picture Service.

"Just a minute, I'll see if he's here."

Celia waited with tightening throat. It seemed so queer that Barney was actually near enough to hear her.

"Hello, Celia," he said. "I'm in the car. I'll be there in a minute. I'll see if he's here."

"Thank you very much," Celia said. She waited five minutes. She saw the motor car move off down the driveway, then dashed downstairs to the nearest telephone.

Celia waited with tightening throat. It seemed so queer that Barney was actually near enough to hear her.

"Well, of course, if you don't mind the smoke and crowd."

"I like crowds. That was the thrilling thing about the races yesterday."

The day had brightened miraculously. Within 15 minutes the steady tap-tap of the rain had become a sprinkle. Ten minutes more and the sky was clear.

Evelyn had a long telephone conversation after luncheon. At 2:30 she tapped on the door of Celia's room.

"Come in," the girl called.

Mrs. Parsons appeared in the doorway. She wore an afternoon gown and wrap and her becoming Reboux hat.

"I'm going now," she said. "Fannie insists that I must stay to dinner with her. She has some friends coming I met abroad. I'll try to be home by eight or nine, though. I hope you won't be homesick, dear."

"Never mind about me. I hope you will!"

"Thanks, Goodbye."

Celia waited five minutes. She saw the motor car move off down the driveway, then dashed downstairs to the nearest telephone.

"I want to speak to Mr. Barney Shields," she told the voice which answered after she had given the number of the Apex Picture Service.

"Just a minute, I'll see if he's here."

Teachers To Gather Soon In Convention

Houston Is Host In Session This Year; Interesting Program Arranged In Which Prominent Men Take Part

(By The Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Nov. 17. —The 1,700 public school teachers of Houston will throw their classrooms open to visiting teachers when the annual convention of the Texas State Teachers' association opens here Nov. 24 to continue through Nov. 29.

The freedom of the schools will be granted teachers anxious to compare methods or to get ideas and practical demonstrations. Automobiles will take the delegates where they want to go, and there will be guides to show them about.

Arranges Lectures
The board of education has arranged for a series of lectures by Dr. George D. Strayer of Teachers' College, Columbia University, and Dr. Charles H. Judd, director of the school of education of the University of Chicago. There may be other special lectures.

The activities the visitors may see are almost as varied as life itself. They may see kindergarten pupils working with diminutive oil derricks and really "work" turnips planted and cultivated by the same pupils, boy stonecutters and blacksmiths, girl metal workers fashioning metal lamps and book ends, coming typists, telegraphers, radio operators, musicians and the like. Sixty one trade and industrial groups and 17 vocational home economics groups are offered in the schools.

The public school health system will be open for inspection. There are 13 part-time physicians and 34 full-time nurses and all sorts of equipment, including the auditorium employed to test the hearing of three to five children at the same time. "Visiting teachers" and a psychologist take care of unadjusted and subnormal children by seeking to help the home to understand the school and vice versa. Child development classes for parents may be seen, too.

ERECTING MODERN HOME
LOVINGTON, N. M., Nov. 17. —(Special)—J. P. Roberts, an old timer in the Lovington community, has begun erection of a modern home here. The building will have five rooms and will cost in excess of $3,000. It is to be completed early in December.

NEGROES JOIN REDS

Communists Given Support by Blacks, Fish States

ATLANTA, Nov. 17. (AP) — The statement that communists have made more progress in enlisting the support of negroes than he had anticipated was made today by Representative Fish of New York, as the house committee of which he is chairman completed hearings in three southern industrial centers.

Mr. Fish said he was somewhat surprised but not alarmed at the negro situation. He gave close attention to R. C. Miller, Atlanta negro, who said he was a former communist organizer operating from Charlotte, N. C.

"Our condition," said Miller, "is miserable and the negro will put religion aside and join anything to better himself."

Co-Ops Given As Only Hope Of Farm Board

Alexander Legge, Head of Federal Farm Organization, in Statement Considering Aid to Farmers in Distress

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Morning Avalanche recently asked Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, what means could be used by the board in aiding farmers in distress as a result of drought in this particular section.

Cooperative farm organizations are the only means by which the federal farm board can aid residents of the South Plains, and of the southwest and nation generally, in regaining stability lost by drought and crop failures during the last year, according to Alexander Legge, chairman of federal farm board.

Former president of the International Harvester company, Mr. Legge is the stormy petrel of the farm board and center of attack from both within and without congress and the administration generally.

Statement Given
Asked for a statement as to what, if anything, the farm board could do to relieve the present distress among farmers of a group of counties on the South Plains, who are in need of assistance and who the banks under present arrangements can not assist, Mr. Legge outlined briefly the range of activities of the organization he heads.

Mr. Legge declared that purported statements, credited to him, to the effect that 40 counties in Texas had asked the Federal Farm Loan board for aid, was incorrect. The impression had gone out, he said, "because we have had requests from quite a number of sources, but in each case the territory has been described as nineteen or twenty counties. I have understood all along that different people were talking about the same territory."

Limited By Act
"As a matter of fact, the board cannot directly handle any of this, as we are limited by the agricultural marketing act to dealing with co-operatives, but in some cases have been able to assist a little by extending aid to a co-operative organization, which in turn was able to be of some assistance. I think Mr. Manley (John Manley general manager of the Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Growers association) has handled one or two propositions in that territory."

"Our activities should properly be confined to marketing. The procedure of getting loans for seeds and such purposes, is the establishment of an agricultural credit corporation, permitting the people to

Spur Meets Slaton Here Thursday In Titular Contest

Matadors Off To Brownwood; Picadors Meet Simmons Fish Here Friday

Strong Class B Teams Meet On Tech Grid

Both Teams Represent Power of District Two in Clash for Bi-District Honors; Slaton Has Improved

Spur and Slaton will be represented in Lubbock on a large scale Thursday when their high school football teams, followed by a large delegation of fans from both cities, clash in deadly warfare on the Texas Tech gridiron here for bi-district honors in District 2 of Class B football. The teams will be playing the semi-finals for the championship of the district, the winner to meet Littlefield or Paducah for the title that declares it to be the best Class B team in this great section.

Arrangements for the game to be played here were made yesterday when Coach Gene Taylor of Spur and Coach Paul Wright of Slaton met with Tech officials and local high school officials. Attempts were made to have the game played on Friday, but this conflicted with the Tech freshman game of the same day. Saturday could not be employed for the Class B game because of an earlier schedule calling for the Lubbock-Vernon game here then.

In Semi-Final Clash
The teams represent the southern half of the district, Spur having been declared champion of sub-district number 3 and Slaton winning the sufficient number of games to clinch the championship of sub-district 4. Both are strong clubs, and a most interesting game is promised the hundreds of fans from either of the cities represented, hundreds from towns in the section, and hundreds of local fans who will attend the game.

Spur's record this season bids fair to bring out a large number of local fans, as well as many from outlying districts. The team has passed an undefeated and untied season in its own class, losing only two games during the course of the season and these to Class A teams of the first wave, Pampa of District 1 and Cisco of District 2. More than 400 points have been run up by the Spur Bulldogs this season, the tally running well over 300 in three games. One time they won a game by a score of 136 to 0, setting a new high scoring record.

Slaton Has Good Record
Slaton has also passed a successful season, winning all but one game in its division and trying that, later to play the tied game. Once before, early in the season, Slaton and Spur met on the Spur field and the Tigers of Coach Paul Wright went down to a 40 to 0 defeat. Since that time however, the Tigers have shown vast improvement, and since then five star players have recovered from injuries which kept them out of early games and will be in the condition for the game here Thursday.

The game will start at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Tech field. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. Texas Tech and Lubbock High students will be charged 50 cents. There will be no reserved seat section, the tickets all calling for general admission which will entitle bearers to any seat in the grandstand or bleachers.

Slaton Juniors Beat Ralls, 7-6

RALLS, Nov. 17. (Special)—The Ralls High School Juniors lost to the Slaton Junior high school team, 7 to 6, in a hotly contested game here this afternoon. J. S. Edwards intercepted a Ralls pass and raced 90 yards for the Slaton touchdown and then kicked goal. J. Jackson for Ralls returned a punt 50 yards for the Ralls touchdown, out the try for point failed.

The Ralls High Jackrabbits meet the Florida High Whirlwind at Floydada Friday afternoon.

SCOUTS ACTIVE WORKERS

Nearly Every Member Of Boy Scouts In Slaton Working

SLATON, Nov. 17. (Special)—R. D. Griffin, Boy Scout leader here, says a survey of boys' activities in Slaton public schools reveals the fact that all boys occupying places of responsibility in the schools, such as being officers of classes or holding other places of leadership, are now members of Boy Scout troops here or have been members in the past, with one exception.

Slaton has two troops of Scouts. Griffin is one of the Scoutmasters, L. B. Hagerman is the other. About 60 boys are enrolled in the troops. It is hoped by Scout leaders that other troops may be formed soon. The two troops will have a court of honor program here next Thursday night.

Matrimony Tackles Joe Savoldi; Takes Penalty

Gets The Boot

JOE SAVOLDI

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17. (AP) Matrimony has accomplished what a score of good football teams attempted and failed to do. It has forever halted "Galloping Joe" Savoldi from ripping off touchdowns for Notre Dame.

The big Italian from Three Oaks, Mich., hailed as one of the greatest of Knute Rockne's football great, today was forced to withdraw from Notre Dame because he married and then started divorce proceedings. The withdrawal ended his college football career, which had but three more games ahead of it, and removed him from the great Ramblers backfield.

Savoldi secretly married Miss Audrey Koehler of South Bend in May, 1929, before he had gained the football fame that now goes with his game.

Cawthonmen to Battle Jacket Team Tomorrow

Six Regulars Become Eligible for Play in Freshman Game After Suspension; Simmons Frosh to Offer Test

Coaches Pete Cawthon and Del Morgan sent their Texas Tech Matadors through a "medium done" workout yesterday afternoon as the final preparations for the game tomorrow with the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets at Brownwood. The team leaves here today at noon for Brownwood, and the game will be played tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2:30. Although the Jackets have a well-lighted gridiron, and have been playing most of their home games at night, the lateness of the season makes inconvenient for further night games. So that the home fires may be kept burning, Coach Dutcher Smith will pit his freshmen Picadors against the Simmons university fish here Friday.

It will be the third and last road trip of the season for the Matadors, who have been fortunate in playing most of their games at home. By taking the Yellow Jacket game and their homecoming event with Simmons university, the Matadors will have done even better than was expected by many fans at the first of the season. They have already won three, which is two more than went down in their win column last season, and their prospects are good for another pair of victories.

Twenty Make Trip.
Coach Cawthon will take about 20 men to Brownwood and plans to start his strongest lineup against the Jackets tomorrow. Just who he means by his strongest lineup is a point to be debated, and it is a probability that the coaches debate this matter among themselves. Capt. Jack Durham is due to start at center, though it was Flowers who started the A. C. C. game last Tuesday. Darr and Allen probably will start at guard, though Allen has been playing at end quite a bit and Ayres and Maltby are just about as effective, if not more so, at guard. George Langford will start at tackle, and Simmons, McWilliams or Osborne at the other. All are due to get in the game. Rip Vinzant and Bill Teal are almost sure starters at ends, though Whitesides, Allen and Howell likely will get in the game.

Two Strong Backfields.
There is the same question arising in the backfield as to which combination is the most powerful. Floyd Woodridge is the most level headed quarterback, but Lawrence Franz is just about as good at carrying the ball, and is a better safety man. Buddy Brothers and Red Waller started against A. C. C. at halves, and they may start again tomorrow, with Speed Moffitt and Clarence Hodges ready to go in at any time. C. A. Doose has been on the stock list for nearly two weeks but it is thought that he will be able to start at fullback tomorrow. Westner, however, may get the call and is certain to be used somewhat.

With six of his regulars reported as eligible for further competition, having passed the necessary amount of school work in the last few days to make up for earlier deficiencies, Coach Smith will be able to place a capable team on the Tech field Friday afternoon against the Simmons university frosh. It will be the fifth game of the season for the local frosh and the first time that they have met a team in their own class.

Southwestern Is Winner Over ACC
ABILENE, Nov. 17. (AP)—Unable to make their plays go consistently against the subversive line of Abilene Christian college, the Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers took up a passing game here this afternoon to defeat the Wildcats, 13-0.

Stewart was the big gun in the overhauled barrage for the Bulldogs. In the second quarter, he pegged the ball over the goal line to Ross for a touchdown, following a long completion from Wiggin to Barnes. The second touchdown came midway in the fourth period, Stewart skidding through the line after Barnes had carried one of his passes from midfield to the Christians six-yard stripe. Kaiser added a place kick for point after the second tally.

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 17. (Special)—The Texas Almanac for 1931, published by the Dallas Morning News, will devote some space to a description of the irrigation around Plainview in the Shallow Water Belt. Seats to Be Sold for Bids; Reserved Ticket Prices Range from $50 Down; to Divide with Unemployed

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. (AP)—Pat Wallers will be pitted against Army-Navy football game at Yankee Stadium, December 13.

If the citizens committee of the Salvation Army, which will disburse the proceeds of the contest to the needy, can make it so, the game will be the highest priced sporting event in history.

Tickets will sell at $50 down to $5, and hundreds will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. A "gate" of a million dollars, with another $250,000 in revenue from concessions, is the goal of the committee.

The sale of prices parallels that for the Dempsey-Carpenter fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, in 1921. For that event no seats were held out for auction, although speculators bid up the prices above the $50 mark.

The citizens committee will be responsible for tickets other than those retained by the Athletic association of the two services. About 30,000 of the 78,000 stadium seats will be purchased by the service organizations at $5 instead of the $3 they used to pay for tickets before Army and Navy football relations were disrupted.

Press tickets will cost $50 each and news photographers will pay the same price. There will be no free seats.

The game will start at 1 p. m. (EST).

that she could speak to him.

"Hello!"

It was Barney himself who answered.

"This is Celia," she told him.

"I'm sorry I couldn't call this morning, but I'm coming in town right away. Where can I meet you?"

Barney's voice was a series of delighted, somewhat incoherent sounds. He said he could meet her at four o'clock at the station. Yes, he knew all about the train service. He even got a time table and informed Celia when she could get her train. Barney, though new in the city, seemed to be persisting in his habits of knowing how to do just about everything.

There was ample time, but after Celia had put down the telephone she hurried to her room, pillaged dresser drawers and ransacked her clothes closet in frenzied haste.

There were so many things she wanted to ask Barney that yesterday, in the suddenness of their encounter, she had forgotten. She wondered when he had last seen her mother. Surely he would have some message from her.

Celia flew into her clothes, thinking little about how she looked. Then she telephoned the suburban station for a taxi. When she reached the urban depot there was a wait of 20 minutes, which seemed an hour.

At least she was on the train, speeding toward the city. Along with the excitement of meeting Barney there was the novelty of setting off by herself on this journey. She was amazed when she realized the train was traveling under ground.

There was a tense 15 minutes and then she heard the conductor's raucous shout: "Last stop! All out!"

Celia stepped timidly out into the vast railway station. She looked up and down in bewilderment. Someone touched her arm.

"Barney! How did you get here?"

He was cringing at her from beneath the rakish brim of his straw hat.

"Meet my child feet. And a little good luck, too! I got off early."

They smiled at each other, neither speaking. Then Barney asked: "Well, whither from here? You're going to have dinner with me, of course, but we have a couple of hours before that."

"I came in town to buy some tennis shoes."

"Oh, was that the reason? I thought possibly you came to see me."

"I mean—that was what I told Mrs. Parsons."

They laughed like school children sharing a joke. Celia produced the address of the store. List had recommended. Barney immediately went into deep thought, plotting a route to reach it.

"It's not far," he told her. "Would it be beneath your dignity to walk, mademoiselle?"

Celia said she would much rather walk than ride. She could never quite get enough of the excitement.

Ill 15 Years; Konjola Gave Quick Relief

San Antonio Lady Eager To Tell Wonderful Experience With New And Different Medicine

MRS. PAULINE WELLS

"I suffered with stomach trouble for fifteen years," said Mrs. Pauline Wells, 113 Dillworth street, San Antonio. "I bloated terribly after meals and suffered for a long time with constipation. Heart palpitations and shortness of breath were common. I had a dull ache across my back all the time and frequently had sharp pains in my side. I was forced to take laxatives frequently."

"A friend suggested that I try Konjola and the first bottle brought about a change in my condition. The bloating began to disappear. I could eat what I wished and my appetite improved marvelously. Constipation left me and the pains across my back grew less and less. I gained in weight and I feel better than I have in a long time. I am telling all my friends about Konjola."

Given a real trial—in most cases over a six to eight week period, Konjola is doing for thousands daily, all that it did for Mrs. Wells. Try Konjola today.

Konjola is sold in Lubbock, Texas, at Bowen's Drug Store, and at all the best drug stores in all towns throughout this entire section.

Lea County Is Profiting By Its Irrigation

Thirty-Five Plants Are Now In Operation Near Lovington And Tatum; Pumping Is Gaining Headway

LOVINGTON, Nov. 17. (Special) Irrigation development is meeting with great success in Lea county, and it is expected that within a few years such colonization plans as are under way will bring hundreds of farmers into the county.

There are at present 35 irrigation plants operating in the county, most of them being located near Lovington and Tatum. Before 1930 Lea county had never improved highways nor railroads, which have been an important factor in the development of irrigation farming. Water in the district can be reached at a depth of 30 to 40 feet over most of the good land area. A portion of the 1,000 acre potential irrigation area water is from 40 to 60 feet in depth, but a greater part of the area has an abundant supply of water 40 feet below the surface.

Pumping Is Rapid
Many of the irrigation pumps in the district, now in use, average 1200 to 1600 gallons of water per minute and some as high as 2000 gallons per minute. The Lovington chamber of commerce is at present taking preliminary steps on a proposal to establish a 3,000-acre irrigation district, which will be handled through a large syndicate.

Lea county has one of outstanding irrigation districts in the United States. The pumping type of water supply from shallow wells is considered by experts as the safest and most profitable method of obtaining water supply for irrigation. There are no questions of water rights, no troubles with distribution, no fights with governmental authorities such as exist when water is diverted from streams or surface reservoirs for irrigation. With transportation facilities coming into Lea county business men, stockmen and investors look for rapid development along this line.

Case Is Baffling Electra Woman Has 63rd Operation

ELECTRA, Nov. 17. (P)—Mrs. John E. Houser, wife of the city secretary of Electra recently underwent here sixty-third blood transfusion. For a period of six years her case has baffled physicians all over the United States in that from some unknown cause her body does not manufacture blood cells.

She is active in church and social work and does not have the appearance of the usual anemic patient, but she has rarely gone more than two months in six years without receiving into her veins by transfusion from one to three pints of blood. The blood was at first provided by members of the family or close friends but for the past two years it has been bought by arrangements through physicians.

SHIPS FIRST SPINACH

White company of Crystal City has shipped the spinach each year. The first cars this season were shipped November 4, while in 1929 the first car was shipped September 28.

Terry's Corn Crop Begins Moving

By Staff Correspondent

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 17. —Terry county's record corn crop will not begin to move out for about 30 days, J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce, reports. "We do not begin to gather corn until early in December," he said. "It will be thirty days before it moves out in any amount."

"I do not know what the price will be, except what one buyer told me. He said that corn this year would be 'better than last year' in price. I hope he is right."

Brownfield has the record of shipping out around 600,000 bushels of corn to the Fort Worth markets last winter. It was the largest single shipping point sending corn to Fort Worth. There are two or three buyers from Fort Worth stationed here during the season.

LOOKING OVER AREA

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 17. (Special) W. A. Robinson, President of the Charter Engine Company of Sterling, Ill., was in Plainview last week looking over the irrigation section. There are thirty engines in operation on the properties of the Texas Land and Development Company that have been in operation running irrigation pumps over a long period of years that were manufactured by Robinson's company. The Charter Engine Company manufactured the first gasoline engine in America.

"I'm A Producer And A Shareholder In The Swift Family"

"You can't blame me if I take more than an ordinary interest in the affairs of Swift & Company. I'm interested in two ways. First—as a producer. Second—as one of 45,000 shareholders."

"I'm glad to belong to this big family. And if you'd ask me to sum up why, I think I'd say—"

1—Swift & Company is one of the most efficient organizations in America. Only an exceptionally well run concern could possibly thrive on an average margin of less than 2 cents on every dollar of sales.

2—As a producer I receive the going market price for the best butterfat, eggs and poultry I can deliver. Swift's nation-wide distribution, because of their 600 car routes and 400 branch houses, assures me of an ever ready market. I am not subject to local glut or shortages.

3—Swift & Company employs 58,000 people who receive just wages. These employees live in the communities where they work. Many of them are our own neighbors. They spend their money with our merchants, build their homes here, pay taxes like you and me. They contribute to the well being of this town.

4—As one of 45,000 shareholders, I receive a return on my investment.

"You can see that there are many benefits in having contact with Swift & Company. I'll keep on taking my butterfat, eggs and poultry to the nearest produce plant. The more I raise, the more I make. No wonder I'm glad to be in the Swift family."

Much Land In Lynn Terraced

More Than 40,000 Acres Are Improved By Contour Work; Four Machines Are Purchased By County

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOA, Nov. 17. — More than 40,000 acres of land in Lynn county has been terraced the past year by farmers of the county cooperating with the county agent, Ray Shaver. It is probable that more than that amount will be terraced this winter as the county commissioners have purchased four machines and Mr. Shaver will conduct a series of terracing schools over the county.

Mr. Shaver plans to conduct schools in each community over the county, beginning right away. He will spend about half a day with each school. There will be six, nine or twelve men to each school and they will receive instructions in how to run the lines and to operate the machines.

The schools are expected to last through December and into January. C. C. Williams, secretary of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, will assist Mr. Shaver in the work.

PAVING IS BEGUN
PLAINVIEW, Nov. 17. (Special) Construction on four blocks of paving on Baltimore street was begun by the Jordan-Hall Construction company under the supervision of P. M. Joiner, city engineer.

RANGES IMPROVING

Rainy Weather Has Been Of Aid To Lea County

LOVINGTON, Nov. 17. (Special)

—Range conditions are improving in Lea county as damp weather and precipitation continues and favorable weather prevails for a late growth of grass. More than 100 car loads of calves were shipped out last week and several car loads of cotton seed cake are unloaded each week. It is reported that a number of sheepmen have sold their lamb crops at 5 cents. An upward trend in business stockmen feel that there will be considerable livestock movement during the month of November.
