Rain to Four Inches Boosts County Crops

Rain which measured from one-half to more than four inches fell over the county from Sunday night, June 11, through the early hours Wednesday, June 13, boosting young crops that in some communities are considered the best in several years.

There will be a little replanting, but it will be in spots only.

Wellington measured 1.50 for the period, according to Dwane Scott, Weather Bureau observer.

The heaviest amounts were received in the Salt Fork area, where Elmer Feemster reported 4.1 inches from Sunday until Wednesday; around Lutie and to the north and east of there.

Ernest Rountree said the rain guage at Lutie Mercantile measured 3.8 inches for the period, with several hard showers Tuesday and about an inch that night.

To the east, John Simpson reported over 4 inches, and 9 miles east, at Needwood, Bill Hill had only .60 through Tuesday afternoon.

He said he could use more rain, although crops were holding up right now.

Marvin Knoll, two miles east of Lutie, reported two inches for the period, and his father, Willie Knoll, several miles north of Lutie, had three inches up to Tuesday night. Bill Janes had .90 north of Salt Fork.

Worth Shields said he measured between three and four inches from Monday through Wednesday morning at Samnorwood.

The Dozier area had received 3.2 inches up until Tuesday night, he added. There will be some spot planting, he said.

Quail had received .9 inches Mrs. Loyd Langley said, and farther west, Delbert White reported 1.4 inches since Mon-

The county is among 190 Texas counties with oil and gas production value topping $100, 000, although 211 counties produce oil and gas.

"Collingsworth County oil and gas wells made a significant contribution to Texas' share of the nation's energy needs last year, but growing demand is sapping reserves in Texas fast-

C-C Nominates Candidates for Director Posts

The Chamber of Commerce nominating committee Monday night presented a slate of 6 nominees for the three places of director to be filled June 1.

They are Bill Hatch, Jimmie Kelso and Charles Darter, incumbents, and Bill Spillman, Garner Altom and Tommy Thomas.

Ballots will be mailed out in the next few days, according to Mrs. Margaret Vines, secretary.

The directors also approved use of the C-C owned red, white and blue bunting by the Ex Students Association during its reunion in early August.

Mrs. Neeley Critically Ill

Mrs. Jack Neeley remains critically ill in a Groom hospital after undergoing surgery about two weeks ago.

Her condition Tuesday appeared to be a little improved, although members of her family remain with her, according to Mrs. Esta Glenn, a co-worker of Mr. Neeley at Wellington State Bank.

County Historical Drama Slated for Second Year

"Man & Land & Love" the musical saga of Collingsworth County, will be presented for the County Historical Survey Committee, that body voted Thursday, June 8.

The date will be some time in October, according to Mrs. Clyde Drake, survey committee chairman.

In its Thursday meeting, members also began plans for a full day of activities to be presented along with the musical pageant, and these will be announced as the plans mature, she said.

A major summer project of the Historical Survey Committee will be the collection of old photographs, either on loan or as gifts, as well as other suitable material, Mrs. Drake said.

An attempt will be made to secure a photograph of each of the county's schools. This includes not only the more than 30 rural schools that served the county at one time, but the number of others which in the earlier years of the county's history existed for a few years, then for one reason or another was disbanded.

Mrs. Barbara Williamson, deputy county school superintendent, has been named to receive the pictures, and it is pointed out these are needed as soon as possible, so that they and material related to them may be organized.

Pictures may be given or loaned. Reproductions will be made of those loaned and this in no way harms the original, Mrs. Drake pointed out. They will be kept only long enough to get the minimum number required for reproduction.

"We will also be glad to receive old pictures as gifts to the Historical Survey committee to cherish and preserve," the chairman said.

"We would also like to have suitable letters, either those which are old or new letters about early days, as well as cards, old school programs and related material," she continued.

Four County Girls At 1972 Girls State

The 28th Session of the American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State began registration Tuesday at Texas Lutheran College of 513 young high school girls from all sections of Texas, the highest enrollment in the history of the program.

Representing Collingsworth County are Joy Jesse and Connie Bearden of Wellington, Connie Knoll and Lyna Coleman of Samnorwood.

The 1972 Session of Bluebonnet Girls State has grown from an experimental conference of 94 girls, held at Baylor University in 1941, to become the largest single extracurricular educational program for high school girls in Texas. More than 9,725 girls in Texas have participated in this top-level citizenship program.

The girls, just having completed their junior year of high school arrived in Sequin by air, train, commercial and chartered buses and private cars. Two girls from Mexico are accepted at Girls State each year sent by the American Legion Auxiliary of Mexico. The first few days of the session will be devoted to organization of cities and political parties and the study of city, county and state government.

The political parties are purely mythical and are for the sole purpose of enabling the girls to form their own governments using existing Texas Constitution and laws as guides. Operating under a "learn by doing" philosophy, Citizens of Girls State participate in legislative processes, elective and appointive politics. The program is free from propoganda. Non-partisan thep the purpose is to provide citizenship training, affording the

Center Plans Film, Educational Session

A team from the Amarillo State Center for Human Development will explain the scope of its operations at a meeting here Friday, June 23, at 2:00 p.m. It will be in the Heritage Room.

Mrs. Dan Hiett, teacher of the Wellington Satellite Training and Work Center, a unit of the Amarillo center, said this is open to the public to acquaint them with the work which is done, both in Amarillo and here.

She urged that all those interested in training of the retarded or those who for other reasons cannot fulfill their potential, are urged to attend.

The team will show a 45-minute film of the many areas in which the Amarillo State Center works, including new programs developed as a result of full-scale evaluation since September of its operation in the 26-county Panhandle region.

These will include:

- The infant readiness program to teach youngsters under three years in self help and motor skills.
- Continued development of these skills in children three to six years under a program supported by Senate Bill 230 monies.
- A primary program for those ages 6 to 15 an ineligible public school special education. This covers pre-vocational training and skills for daily living.
- Primary graduates and others too old or not eligible for special education.
- The sheltered workshop, which emphasizes vocational training.
- The vocational evaluation and training center.
- Day care services for those with physical or behavorial problems that render them ineligible for any other program.
- Satellite programs in 12 Panhandle cities, including Wellington, which offer some of the same services initally provided at the State center in Amarillo.
- The new respite bed program for short-term, round-the-clock care of mentally retarded persons in the Panhandle area, which will open by July at the Amarillo Center. This service parallels the last link in the community level chain of services "from the cradle to the grave" for mentally retarded.

It is an extension of the Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation's de-emphasis on institutionalizing those not severely retarded.

The Wellington meeting is one of a series being held in 12 Panhandle towns.

VA Reduces SGLI Rates

The Veterans Administration today announced a 15 percent reduction in premium rates on Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) which means savings of $12 million annually for servicemen.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said nearly 2.9 million servicemen, who are insured for $42.5 billion, will participate in the savings, effective July 1.

Johnson noted the reduction, the first since the SGLI program was established in 1965, became feasible because of continuing favorable mortality experience. Servicemen need not contact VA to take advantage of the reduced rates.

Before the reduction, servicemen paid one dollar a month for each $5,000 of coverage. Thus, the maximum coverage of $15,000 costs $3.00 per month under the present rate. Effective July 1, the new rate for the full $15,000 coverage will be $2.55, for $10,000, $1.70, and for $5,000, $0.85 monthly.

All members of the Armed Forces are automatically insured under SGLI, and premiums are deducted from their pay unless they decline in writing to be insured. The maximum amount was raised from $10,000 to $15,000 in June 1970.

Members on full duty have protection for 120 days after separation. The group coverage can be replaced, regardless of health, by individual policies issued by 600 participating commercial companies if application is made within 120 days of separation.

Rates for reservists, who are insured only during active duty training periods and associated travel, will be reduced from $1.80 to $1.50 annually for $15,000 coverage.

Satellite Center Volunteers at Teen Workshop

Wellington girls who will donate their time to the Satellite Training and Work Center this summer attended a teen-agers volunteer workshop in Amarillo Thursday, June 8.

At the same time, Mrs. Dan Hiett, teacher at the center, and Mrs. Bill Lindsey, teacher aide, attended a teachers meeting.

Girls going were Jeanette Barber, Janee Taylor, Ranee Taylor, Pam Shumate, Penny Morgan, and Lisa Hiett. They were accompanied by Mrs. Kenyard Poteet, Mrs. Zook Thomas and Mrs. Travis McGuire.

Both meetings were at the Amarillo Center for Human Development.

During the orientation session, the girls learned what teenagers can do to help those who are mentally retarded or have other problems that prevent them from fulfilling their potentialities.

Children from the Amarillo Human Development Center held their regular class at the workshop with the teachers demonstrating to the young visitors how they, too, can help. Included was a class in music and singing.

At lunch, the entire group went to Camp Don Harrington, where the workshop members were taught how they can direct center students in exercises and games.

VA Eases Proof Of Marriage

A lost birth certificate or marriage license no longer poses the problem it once did for veterans seeking veterans benefits, Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Office Director, said.

Less formal proof of marriage and birth are now acceptable, under a regulation initiated last October, when this information is needed to establish claims for higher benefit payments.

A veteran's or a widow's certified statement of marriage is now sufficient for applications for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphan children, provided neither he or his wife has been married before, and VA has no contradictory information on file.

Coker said prior to the change in regulations, VA required all statements of marriages and births to be supported by formalized documentary evidence.

A certified statement is acceptable also regarding the birth of a child of a veteran's marriage, and as proof of age and relationship, he added.

"We especially urge everyone who is interested in membership to let us know, so we will know how many to prepare papers for," said Mrs. Bowen, pointing out, it is not too late to start on these papers, which must be passed on by the lineage committee at the DAR headquarters in Washington, D.C.

These papers, upon arrival, show eligibility for membership in DAR.

At least 12 prospective members must have this approval before a DAR chapter can be chartered, it was explained. Eight women have submitted these applications and eight others are preparing them, Mrs. Bowen reported. Others are considering membership.

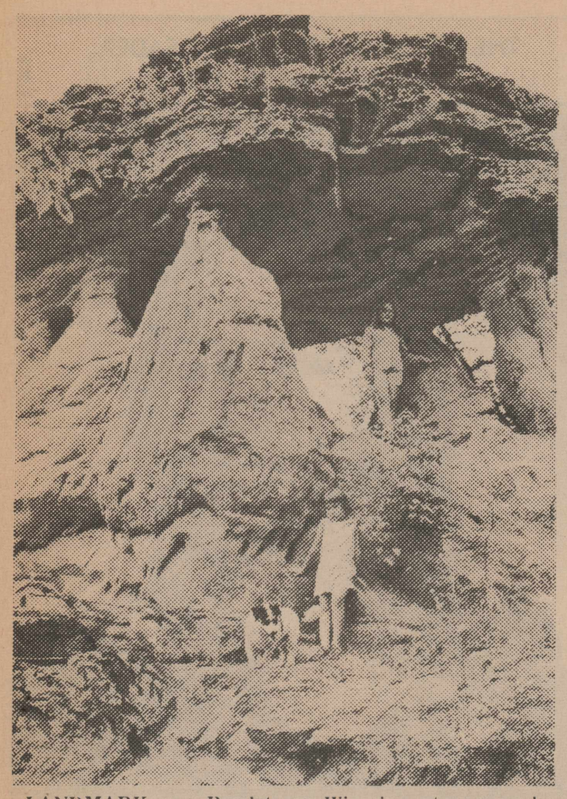

The meeting Friday will include a discussion of a name for the proposed chapter.

LANDMARK near Readstown, Wis., is a strange rock formation of particular interest to geologists. It is cited as proof that the last great glacier to grind south —30,000 years ago—bypassed this area. Otherwise, the lime and sandstone formation would have been pulverized. Patty Stilwell, 11, and Nicki Maurer, 5, are the sightseers.

New Weapons Fired by Guard Unit at Camp

Two weeks of field training introduced Wellington National Guardsmen to the Army's weaponry and experience in using equipment not available here. Twenty-eight men, commanded by 1st. Lt. Frank H. Worsham, attended.

One of these new weapons is the Red Eye, a missile mounted on a fast little tracked vehicle, Platoon Sergeant Robert E Valliant said.

There was the TOW, an anti tank weapon that is entirely new, with the advantage of a better sight, more power, and more easily moved.

Other new equipment with which the Wellington men came in contact were new track vehicles.

Some of the men of Detachment 1 were assigned to an armored group, others to the infantry.

"They had a lot of radio work they haven't had before," Sgt. Valliant said.

The Wellington Detachment, a part of the Support Company of the 2nd Battalion, 142nd Infantry, joined with the 112th Armored Training Battalion for this field training exercise. Poised against them was a Louisiana Armored Cavalry that had been brought in to work with the 3rd Battalion, 144th Infantry, an East Texas unit.

The 112th was the "winner" during the first week of exercise, the loser in the second week.

There was only one casualty, Specialist Four Epifanio Castillo, Jr., of Dodson was hospitalized for a foot injury.

The Wellington unit is Detachment 1, Support Company, 2nd Battalion of the 142nd Infantry.

Attending summer camp, in addition to Lt. Worsham, were Platoon Sergeants Donald R. Settle and Robert E. Valliant; Staff Sergeants Jerry E. Settle and Marvin R. Souder; Sergeants Kenneth W. Brown, Lynn A. Derryberry, Dan Hatch, James L. Hooten, and James M. Rudy, also Specialists E-5 Dwight H. Bowen and Joe D. Holt; Specialists E-4 William E. Anders, Ricky G. Brown, Epifanio Castillo, Jr., Alvin C. Harper, John R. Henard, III, Dallas L. Holland, James N. Hughs, Lanny C. McGill, George W. Porter, Luis M. Trevino, and Nicky L. Watts; Privates First Class John W. Dabney, Robin M. Green, James H. Jones, Larry A. Kane, Rick A. Motsenbocker and Billy G. Teakell.

Specialist E-4 Bill Spillman has been selected for National Guard Officer training and will attend that camp later in the summer.

Seventy Attend Catholic School Of Religion

Father Pat Burke, of Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church here, reports a successful Summer School of Religion was concluded last weekend.

Almost 70 children were taught here, and over 50 in Shamrock. The two Franciscan Sisters who conducted the school, Sisters Edith and Rita, have now returned to Amarillo. They were assisted during the week by Tipton Miller, Choir-Director, and by Mrs. Allen J. Peters, Jr., organist.

Some of the older girls functioned as class-room monitors, and the recesses and refreshments were handled by members of the Altar Society.

Sister Rita, an accomplished guitarist, taught the children some new songs with a floksy flavour, while Sister Edith concentrated on preparing the younger children to receive their First Holy Communion.

Sunday, June 11, was First Communion Day, and the following children received the Blessed Sacrament for the first time at the 9 a.m. Mass from the hands of Father Pat; Pat Guajardo, Joe Soldana, Greg Cortez, Susan Cantu, Mary Helen Cantu, Gloria Cantu, Irma Cantu, Kathy Cantu, Mary Jane Gonzales, Gloria Gonzalez, Maria Bueno, Marie Cantu, Elida Castor, Alex Castor, David Castor, Sara Lee Cortez, Maria Lea Cortez, Modesta Gonzalez. The boys were dressed in their Sunday best, while the girls wore white frocks and lace veils.

Questions People Ask About the Catholic Church

Q. What do you think of Protestant services?

A. I haven't been to very many. I do enjoy your singing, which you do beautifully. Like ourselves, you have good and bad speakers. But I do miss the colourful beauty of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, and I'm always happy to get back to it again. I am grateful for all the dear Protestant people who have invited me to their services, and I appreciate their courtesy, and return it wholeheartedly.

Q. At what age does the Catholic Church admit children to their First Holy Communion?

A. Usually around seven. This is taken by most child-experts to be the age when a child can tell right from wrong. We have to be sure the child can recognise the difference between ordinary bread and the Body of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament.

New Pastors Add Religious Leadership in Community

This month Wellington welcomes three clergymen, and within a short time the fourth will come. They join others here who are active in the leadership of the congregations.

Already at work or due in a few days are Rev. James Boswell of First United Methodist Church; Terry Neidens, minister of First Christian Church; and Rev. Davis of Fundamental Baptist Church. Shortly the congregation of First Baptist Church will call a new pastor.

Wellington may be called a moral and god-fearing town, yet the congregations here must face and evaluate the changes in religious thinking of recent years. A pastorate today is a challenge to any clergyman.

Our clergymen are a youthful group. Even the older of them are young as ministers go. Although we regret to see the former pastors go and have enjoyed their friendship, we look forward to the leadership these new pastors will have in the community.

A Great Day—A Sad Day

Saturday was a great day for Miss Barbara Jordan of Houston. As president pro tempore of the Texas Senate, and with both the governor and lieutenant governor away from the state, she was sworn in as governor for a day, becoming the first black woman in U.S. history to serve as chief executive of a state.

But it was a sorrowful day for Miss Jordan, too. Her father, the Rev. B.M. Jordan, suffered a stroke during the day's ceremonies honoring his daughter. He was taken to an Austin hospital. Twenty-four hours later, the 69-year-old retired Baptist minister was dead, of congestive heart failure.

We join all Texans in extending deepest sympathy to Barbara Jordan and the others of her family at this time of loss. Yet we are glad that the Rev. Mr. Jordan lived long enough to witness, in the Texas Senate chamber, the honoring of his daughter, and to hear the applause that shook the crowded room when she was sworn in.

It was a day that certified Texas is rising above old and sorry prejudices — against blacks and against putting women in high posts of authority — and it plants hopes for a better time ahead.

So that Saturday was a great day for Texas, too.

STATE Capital NEWS

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex. -- "Leadership is hell."

That quote from a political leader came to mind during the 64th annual National Governor's Conference in Houston last week.

It's darned tough to serve as a public official these days.

Not just presidents, vice-presidents and candidates for presidents have their lives threatened -- but governors and candidates for governor face physical threats these hectic days in America's political history.

This fact was brought to mind by the extremely tight security measures at the host hotel for the National Conference for state chief executives.

Security police, Texas Rangers, and state patrolman almost outnumbered the governors, aides, newsmen and guests who were allowed to observe the proceedings at the important annual function of state heads of government.

Mrs. George Wallace, wife of the Alabama Governor, had six security men surrounding her when she moved around the corridors of the hotel.

When Vice President Spiro Agnew arrived, Secret Servicemen were all over the place. Even the hotel employees wore photo ident badges -- reminiscent of defense plant and Navy installation days of World War II. We heard no complaints -- except from one elderly hotel janitor who kept picking up walky-talky conversations between the security police on his hearing aid.

The three-day program of the state's chief executives was an "economic war" of sorts.

Principal topics of the conference revealed that financial problems are their top concern -- as they reviewed revenue sharing with the Federal government, financing of elementary and secondary education and funding the "war" against crime and drugs.

Host Governor Preston Smith and his staff and a hospitable Houston made the serious problems easier to study with a well-rounded entertainment program for the Governors, their families and staffs. An outdoor pool-side Texas western party, (appropriately by the world's largest swimming pool, according to the hotel staff), an excellent transportation organization delivering guests to all Houston entertainment and tourist facilities -- and a formal ball with Duke Ellington's Orchestra completed the lighter side of the serious meet.

Other important topics of interest to Texans covered at the Conference were: diversification of industry to rural areas, a resolution requesting the appointment of a farmer as next Secretary of Agricluture of the United States; a NASA economic impact report for the states and the role of the states in national growth patterns.

National political intrigue made the Conference more interesting with visits from Sen. George McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey -- and the appearance of Mrs. Wallace.

SPECIAL SESSION MEETS -- The Legislature convened in special session at midweek under lame duck leadership in both houses and the governor's office.

Gov. Preston Smith, defeated in his bid for re-election, pledged to offer a 1973 budget which would require no new taxes, and indeed, to allow no consideration of taxation.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, also defeated for governor, said Smith should show lawmakers how he proposes to trim appropriations.

House Speaker Rayford Price was defeated in his home district, as was Rep. Bill Finck on San Antonio, chairman of the budget-writing House appropriations committee.

Legislative Budget Board -- which includes Barnes, Price and Finck among its members -- calculated that even a "tight" 1973 budget would require $89.2 million in new revenue.

After a day-long session, the Board concluded its staff would just have to get together with Smith and see what he had on his mind.

The LBB staff-drawn budget called for $828.2 million in spending during the next fiscal year -- or $98.2 million less than the revenue forecast.

Virtually certain to land on the special session agenda is new state officials' code of ethics legislation. Barnes said he will press for such a bill, and the House committee prepared its own versions.

LEGISLATURE ALTERED -- Primary elections assured a drastic shakeup among rank and file members of the legislature as well as the top leadership.

There will be at least 76 new members in the House of Representatives -- a majority. The turnover rate is the highest since 1953 when 88 freshmen representatives took office. The November general elections may remove a few more of the incumbents, and no more than 74 present House members are assured of returning.

The Senate turnover rate is almost as high. At lease fifteen of 31 senators will be freshmen next year, and Repbulicans conceivably could gain another place.

Former House Speaker Gus Mutcher was among the veteran incumbents defeated.

PRIMARY CHANGES URGED -- Primary election costs topped estimates by nearly $400,000, and a better, cheaper system has to be found, according to Secretary of State Bob Bullock.

Bullock advocated future primary elections be held and financed through county clerks' offices, with single polling places serving both major parties.

Such a system, said Bullock, would reduce primary costs by at least a third and increase efficiency. Bullock said he distributed $1.6 million to Democratic committees and $396,709 to Republican groups to pay the bulk of local primary costs.

AG OPINIONS -- A person can serve as a State Parks and Wildlife Commissioner and school district trustee at the same time but can't draw any type of compensation, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

* Texas Water Quality Board may distribute "clean water" bumper stickers.

* Texas Tourist Development Agency may draw vouchers favoring the Confederate Air Force, Lower Rio Grande Valley and McAllen Chambers of Commerces for advertising and promotion.

* Shell redeposited on bay floors as pads for drilling barges can be removed only on permit.

* County employees cannot buy with county funds goods from a store owned by a county commissioner.

* Real property foreclosed by tax judgment can be purchased by the owner at a Sheriff's sale at its adjudged value although this is for an amount less than the full judgment. The judgment may be enforced for the balance against the tax debtor.

* A county operating under the optional county road law may continue to employ services of a qualified road administrator rather than a licensed professional engineer.

SHORT SNORTS

More than $8.9 million in bonds for construction at state universities in San Marcos, Huntsville, San Angelo and Alpine were sold to Texas Commerce Bank of Houston and another $5 million will be sold later this summer.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

An eminent or something professor of experimental embryology in a big University says marriage is changing and he notes some informal polygamy going on in the circles where his informers rotate.

And it may come. Up to recently a man could support a household if his wife had a job, but after taxes are reformed again it may take two or three wives.

It remains to be seen how a man who can't handle even one wife is going to manage with a covey of them. And how several Ms.'s will get along with a partnership husband.

The fact disclosed by a survey of the past that majorities have been wrong must not blind us to the complementary fact that majorities have usually not been entirely wrong.
— Herbert Spencer.

I think, ofttimes, that lives of men maybe
Likened to wandering winds that come and go
Not knowing whence they rise, whither they blow
O'er the vast globe, voiceful of grief or glee.

he can not pass.
— John James Ingalls.

The man who seeks one thing in life and but one
May hope to achieve it before life is done;
But he who seeks all things, wherever he goes
Only reaps from the hopes which around him he sows
A harvest of barren regrets.

Alas! how easily things go wrong!
A sigh too deep or a kiss too long,
And then comes a mist and a weeping rain,
And life is never the same again.
— George Macdonald.

I keep some portion of my early gleam;
Brokenly bright, like moonbeams on a river,
It lights my life, a far illusive dream,
Moves as I move, and leads me on forever.
— John Townsend Trowbridge.

The flag of our stately battles, not struggles of wrath and greed,
Its stripes were a holy lesson, its spangles
a deathless creed:
'T was red with the blood of freemen and white with the fear of the foe;
And the stars that fight in their courses
'gainst tyrants its symbols know.
— Julia Ward Howe.

I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effectual as their strict construction.
— Ulysses S. Grant.

Crowds of bees are giddy with clover
Crowds of grasshoppers skip at our feet,
Crowds of larks at their matins hang over.
Thanking the Lord for a life so sweet.
— Jean Ingelow.

There is no better motto, which it
(culture) can have than these words of Bishop Wilson, "to make reason and the will of God prevail."
— Matthew Arnold.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Old Man's Will

Harvey was dismayed to learn, when his father's will was read, that he had been left out altogether. In short order, he challenged the will in court.

"My father was past 90 when he signed this document," Harvey pointed out. "He was slovenly in his personal habits. He was getting forgetful. And he was totally blind. In such a condition he was certainly not competent to make a will."

However, the court held the will valid. The judge said advanced age, even though accompanied by assorted frailties, does not automatically mean a person is incompetent to make a will.

On the contrary, the law has shown a special tenderness for wills made by the elderly. One judge's explanation has often been quoted:

"It is one of the painful consequences of extreme old age that it ceases to excite interest, and is apt to be left solitary and neglected. The control which the law still gives to a man over the disposal of his property is one of the most efficient means which he has, in protracted life, to command attention."

Of course, old age may indeed be accompanied by real incompetence. In another case, the will of an 86-year-old woman was thrown out because in her declining years she had been unable even to recognize friends and relatives. The court said a will she signed while so disabled did not truly reflect her "will" at all.

But in a close case, the law gives a will the benefit of the doubt. This is not only a matter of concern for the elderly but of preference for wills as the best way to transfer property at time of death.

For if there is no will, all sorts of unpleasant things may befall the heirs. The most money may go to the least deserving. Taxes may be needlessly high. Costs of administration may be exorbitant. Family heirlooms may spark family feuds.

Accordingly, to the person who has grown old without having made a will, the law's advice is plain:

Better late than never.

ERA MAE ROLAND TRIGG

Denver Firm Honors Former City Girl

A former Wellington girl, Era Mae Roland Trigg, was featured in the June issue of WE, the newspaper of Wilscam Enterprises in Denver.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Roland.

The company operates restaurants in Denver and Colorado Springs and the Montfort Packing Company.

Mrs. Trigg has been with the Hungry Farmer Restaurant since it opened. She helped train company Tom Wilscam in his early restaurant days, and a majority of the WE managers, including two who are now vice presidents. She also helped to open another restaurant and is currently working on recipes for still another.

"Inside the Denver Farmer, Era's responsibilities include purchasing of foods; making all the dressings, butter sauces, and soups, cooking the duck; roasting the prime rib; preparing daily specials; and creating the oatmeal muffin recipe," said the newsletter. "Outside the restaurant Era isn't practically fond of cooking, but she does like to read, sew and operate the family's citizen band radio, along with her husband, Elmo, and son, Deita, 5. Her sewing talents came in handy when she decorated a bedroom in her home. She especially enjoys teaching her son reading, math, and interesting facts about the planets."

Mrs. Trigg graduated from Wellington High School, then attended college in Denver two years before joining the Wilscam Enterprises.

Farm Bureau Film to Bare Chavez Tactics

The workers side of the issue of farm labor unionization will be depicted in a special showing of the film "Road to Delano"on local television soon, according to J.D. Coleman, president of the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau.

The film will be shown on all three Amarillo television stations It will be aired on KFDA and KGNC on Friday, June 23 at 9%30 p.m. KVII will show the program on Sunday, June 25 at 4:00 p.m. County Farm Bureaus in the viewing area are purchasing the time for the showing.

The film, produced by the merican Farm Bureau Federation is built around interviews with so some grape vineyard workers in the Delano, California, area who were forced to join the farm workers union led by Cesar Chavez without the privilege of the secret ballot elections to determine which union, if any, they wanted to represent them.

The tactic used by the Chavez was the secondary boycott which effectively closed markets for grapes. Unable to sell their produce, the growers had no alternative but to sign their workers over to the Chavez organization. The secondary boycott is outlawed for industrial unions, Mr. Coleman pointed out. Farm Bureau is backing legislation to guarantee workers secret ballot elections and to outlaw the secondary boycott, prevent strikes at harvest time, and create an Agriculture Relations Board.

This action led to the Chavez forces launching an all-out campaign recently to discredit the Farm Bureau, Mr. Coleman said He added that Farm Bureau would not be intimidated and is continuing to support legislation that would benefit the grower and worker alike.

Life With the Rimples

Deck's DIDACTICS

—by Deskins Wells

AMERICANS like to travel, especially those who live in the United States. Texans love to journey to distant places as much or more than the people of any other state. They save their money and make plans for trips in this interesting state which has mountains, plains, and the second longest seacoast in the nation. They also save and make their plans for other trips on the North American Continent and most of these trips are on the highways by automobile or camper.

SUCH PLANNED trips can be exhilarating experiences and storehouses of fond memories. Unfortunately too many of these turn out to be disappointment and frustration with the carefully hoarded money turning out to be inadequate. Some of the results from the treatment the travelers receive in hotels, motels and camping grounds. Far more result from their treatment at the filing stations.

TEXAS has a good record for the treatment of travelers. Arizona, California and Florida have an unsatisfactory record of the treatment of tourists at the filling stations, according to the National Observer. All states record cases of bitter and blighted hope when people stopped in a strange place to have their car checked or fill up with gas.

THE AMERICAN Automobile Association (AAA) has these suggestions for motorists: —

* Have your car safety checked before taking a trip. Never leave it unattended at a station. Watch what the attendant is doing at all times.

* If you're told you need expensive repair work or equipment, get confirmation if possible from a local dealer who sells your make of car, or from a reputable garage.

* Don't let your credit card out of your sight. Stand beside the attendant while he imprints the invoice. Save all invoices and match them with copies you receive with your bill.

THERE ARE other precautions to be taken before you start on the trip. Stop your newspaper and ask a neighbor to pick up circulars and throw aways. Notify the local police and they will keep an eye on your property. If you can't remember the number which will be in the new directories, here is a memory crutch. Think of the SIXTY FOUR dollar question -- put a 2 in front and a 2 behind and you have the number of the police -- 2642.

EARL HUNTER invited me to inspect his vegetable garden and as a result we had two tasty meals of garden fresh vegetables. Earl has red potatoes that are making from 14 to 18 potatoes per vine and the size ranges from medium to large with very few small ones. He also has beets, radishes, lettuce, beans, tomatoes etc. and the whole garden is as neat and symetrical as an apple pie baked for The Fair.

ACROSS the fence is the garden of Ed Lockhart. Equally as productive, Ed's garden looks as neat as an unmade bed. It is a mass of growing things. Earl says that Ed can raise more vegetables on less ground than anyone. Besides his vegetables, Lockhart also has a patch of highly productive strawberries. It makes your mouth water to see what is being grown here this spring. Summer does not start until June 21 when the days start growing shorter and hotter.

Lewis Green Breaks Hip

Lewis Green received a broken right hip when he was thrown from his horse at his ranch northeast of town late Monday, June 12.

He was treated overnight in Collingsworth General Hospital, then transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo, Tuesday afternoon.

His daughter, Mrs. M.W. Paschall, said Mr. Green was chasing a calf, which ran into a fence. Something caused the horse to shy, although he is a gentle animal.

Mr. Green's grandson, Frankie Green, was with him when the accident occurred.

Members of the family are with him in Amarillo.

WTU Improves Power Lines To Shamrock

Improvement of the West Texas Utilities Company power transmission lines should be completed this week, according to Don Welch, WTU local manager.

Lines are being replaced from the sub station in Wellington to the sub-station in Shamrock, Mr. Welch said. This will provide for future conversion from 69 KV to 138 KV and should provide for better service, he added.

day night. Nearer the Donley County line, rainfall was light until Tuesday evening, and Donald Langley was still running irrigation equipment.

Tuesday evening, Roy Canada reported 1.85 inches to that point, most of it falling in showers. West of there, however, the rain was lighter, but farther east, Gary Wischkaemper reported more than three inches on one of the Carl Wischkaemper places at Salt Fork, before the Tuesday night moisture.

Farther north, N.E. Childers measured 1.9 at Marella, although hard wind Tuesday night may have blown some out.

South of Wellington, Fred Cox said he received an inch of rain Tuesday night, and only .1 prior to that. Little wheat remains to be cut in the Loco area, he said, although there is some rye. He added the community has the best looking crops for several years.

East of Wellington, Charley Caldwell measured 1.5 inch Tuesday night and .8 Tuesday morning.

Since the dry spell broke about 5 weeks ago, he has received 9.5 inches, Mr. Caldwell added.

Mrs. Tom Birchfield said they showed 1.5 inches northwest of Dodson.

Dodson itself received a total of 1.9 inches, which fell intermitently over a two-day period.

West of Wellington, Wren Hartman said 1.2 inches fell at his place, but a mile west on the Albert Fulcher and C.E. Pitts places at Red Bluff, the fall was heavier.

Southwest of town, in the Rolla area, Mrs. Ronnie O'Rear said 1.5 inches had fallen since early Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cook and Kelly of Albuquerque, N.M. are spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. L.M. Bartlett, and her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Patterson and Bart. The Cooks and Mrs. Bartlett went to McAlester, Oklahoma, during the week end for fishing.
