FARMERS TO FORM CO-OP AT VERNON TODAY

Ruth Hanna McCormick's Offices Guarded After Country Home Is Ransacked

G. O. P. NOMINEE ALARMED OVER MYSTERY RAID

Woman Politician Places Detectives Around Her Chicago Suite

RECORDS EXAMINED

Private Papers Ransacked By Prowlers as Fund Probe Progresses

CHICAGO, July 17. (UP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee whose campaign expenditures are under senate investigation here, ordered guards placed around her Chicago office this afternoon after she received news that her correspondence files at her Byron, Ill., estate had been ransacked by mysterious prowlers last night.

Mrs. McCormick said she did not know whether any valuable records had been taken, the raiders "contenting themselves with an examination of my correspondence."

"The outrage recalls the experiences of several senators," Mrs. McCormick said, "who recently have complained that their private offices in Washington have been broken into."

Makes Statement

Mrs. McCormick made the following statement in regard to the burglary at her farm:

"My private offices at Rock River farms, near Byron, Ill., were raided last night by men who broke in and made a thorough search of my correspondence files. Entrance was gained by cutting a screen and then forcing a window catch. In order to enter the men had to step on a window box in which geraniums are growing. The earth in the box was very moist and the raiders tracked mud over the floor of my private office in their search of my files. The raiders also broke a window pane in the office of my farm superintendent, H. W. Allyn, and unlocked the window. They made a less thorough search of Mr. Allyn's papers and correspondence.

Detectives Employed

"I have no clue to the perpetrators, but have employed detectives. The building in which my office is located is not far from the foot of the hill upon which my home is located. Two of my children now are at the farm awaiting the time when I can take them West on a long-deferred vacation. Naturally the raid last night has alarmed the household."

The youthful looking Senator Nye, only member present of the committee appointed to investigate Mrs. McCormick's reported expenditure of $319,000 to win the primary election, took no cognizance of her charges.

Instead he continued until after dark the hearing of minor witnesses subpoenaed for today in order to suspend the session while he locates Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, another of the West's well known feminine figures in public life.

Mrs. Reinecke, former collector of internal revenue, is a member of the Chicago board of election commissioners and served in that capacity during Mrs. McCormick's campaign.

Heavily Armed Squadron Takes Negro To Wheeler For Murder Arraignment

Special to The Record News

WHEELER, Texas, July 17.—Escorted by five county officers and four Texas rangers, armed with portable machine guns, rifles and tear gas bombs, Jesse Lee Washington, negro indicted for the murder of Mrs. Henry Vaughan near Shamrock last week, was slipped into the Wheeler county courthouse about 6 o'clock Thursday evening to face arraignment on the charge.

Few residents of Wheeler knew that the negro had been taken from the jail at Pampa where he has been held for safe-keeping and the formality was completed without disturbance, although a small crowd gathered about the courthouse during the 15-minute proceedings.

Trial at Miami

The prisoner, shackeled to the wrist of State Ranger Gause, was rushed out of town as soon as the court routine was over. The escort was directed by Ranger Sergeant Manual T. (Lone Wolf) Gonzaullas.

Washington, represented by E. F. Ritchey, attorney at Miami, was released from his bonds within the court room long enough to enter a plea of not guilty to the charge, Judge W. R. Ewing upon his own motion immediately transferred the case for trial at Miami on July 28.

A specially convened grand jury today returned an indictment charging murder against Washington.

Mrs. Vaughan died soon after she was beaten about the head with a lead pipe. The attack occurred at the Vaughan farm house near Shamrock, while her husband was away in the fields at work.

Negro Saved

Sheriff Claude McKinney of Collingsworth county rushed the negro to the Oklahoma state reformatory at Granite for safe keeping and he was only returned to Texas yesterday, when the rangers and Sheriff McKinney executed a ruse which outwitted two bands of men following the rangers, thinking they had the prisoner. Sheriff McKinney had gone ahead disguised as an oil field worker, with the negro chained in a closed car. He already had the negro in the Gray county jail at Pampa when the rangers arrived and set up machine guns to guard the jail against possible attempts at violence.

U. S. INVESTIGATES ERICK DISORDERS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 17. (UP)—A federal investigation into recent intimidation of negroes in southwestern Oklahoma following threats of mob violence there, was started today.

More than 20 negroes were forced to leave their homes in Beckham county after a colored farm hand had attacked and murdered Mrs. Henry Vaughan, 25, a white woman, just across the Texas border at Shamrock.

"We will make an immediate investigation and protect the negro citizens and others suffering from this oppression," Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney, said. He said the federal investigation had been requested by Beckham county citizens.

STOREY FLAYS BOBBITT HERE

Vernon Man Also Assails Dan Moody

Describing Dan Moody as a "miserable failure in his office and a man who has made the most disgusting statements that ever fell from the lips of a governor," and charging that Robert Lee Bobbitt has not investigated illegal elections in Hidalgo county because he is a "member of the crooked political ring which elected him to offices there," Cecil Storey of Vernon, candidate for attorney general, Thursday night unleashed a vitriolic attack on the policies of Moody and Bobbitt in an address before a crowd of about 100 persons in the 78th district courtroom.

Mr. Storey, who has been joint representative in the state legislature from Wichita and Wilbarger counties for the past eight years, was introduced by John Davenport, Wichita Falls attorney.

Powerful Office

"There is more power to do right or wrong in the attorney general's office than in any other state office, even than in the governor's office. The attorney general is the lawyer for the more than 5,000,000 citizens of Texas. If you put in a man who has courage and backbone enough to enforce the anti-trust laws, he can do a great deal of good for the state and save its citizens large amounts of money. And if the attorney general uses his office for political purposes, he is doing the people of the state a great injustice.

"When Dan Moody appointed Lee Bobbitt as attorney general, he wanted a man who could be re-elected and who would carry out his own policies. I say to you he has not put in 10 days of hard work since his appointment, but has gone about the state making speeches before this, that and the other kind of club and organization. It has been brought to his attention that the anti-trust laws of the state are being violated, but he has done nothing.

Webb County "Ring"

"Lee Bobbitt belongs to a ring in Webb county called the 'Club Independente.' He has been a member for a long time. In Webb

DAVIDSONS AIR FORECASTS IN TEXAS RACES

'Ma', Small and Young Seen As Three Primary Leaders

VOTE QUEST HOT

Ballot System Branded As Uneffective in Marlin Address

(By The Associated Press)

The two Davidsons, T. W. and Lynch, both former lieutenant governors, broke into print Thursday with their latest views on the political situation as the numerous candidates for state office continued their earnest quest for votes.

Lynch Davidson issued a prediction on the outcome of the governor's race from his home at Houston while T. Whit Davidson, addressing old settlers, re-union at Marlin spoke of the ills of the primary system and of the Democratic party.

Whit Davidson mentioned the current governor's race only as an illustration of the asserted ineffectiveness of the present primary system. "I am going to vote against my friend for the sake of expediency," he said. "Fifty per cent of the Democrats are against the two extremes as represented by certain of the candidates but the present system makes it virtually certain that both extremes will be represented in the runoff.

Party 'Helpless'

Davidson suggested that the voter be permitted to make a second choice or that the nominees for office be chosen by a group of delegates from the various counties to be named at the primaries in their respective counties.

The speaker said that the Democratic party should have as much right to control its affairs as a church has, but that the statute had been interpreted to mean that "a party cannot set up qualifications for its members."

Lynch Davidson predicted that unless conditions changed, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Clint Small and Jim Young would finish in that order. Davidson is supporting Small and Young.

Lieut.-Gov. Barry Miller said at Bryan Thursday "the people of

Murphy was sentenced to death for the murder of a St. Louis druggist during a holdup.

Missing Mooney Case Witness Found After Long Search

On his way to right a wrong of 12 years' standing, John MacDonald, the long-missing key witness in the fight to free Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings of guilt in the San Francisco Preparedness day bombing of 1918, is pictured at the right as he arrived in the custody of police at a Baltimore, Md., court for a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus. The aging night telephone operator, who has admitted that he testified falsely at the trials of Mooney and Billings, is shown below, right, in a close-up view after he had been discovered in Baltimore by means of a photo that had been given nationwide distribution by NEA service, of which The Record News is a client newspaper. The picture, appearing in the Baltimore Post, was recognized by John C. Talbar (below, center), MacDonald's former landlord, who notified police. Though a previous repudiation of his testimony which MacDonald made in 1921 to E. N. Nichels (below, left), secretary of the Chicago branch of the American Federation of Labor, was rejected by Gov. C. C. Young on the grounds that it lacked substantiation, the California chief executive now has expressed a willingness to confer with MacDonald. Worn and haggard, MacDonald left New York Thursday for California to confer with officials there in the bombing case. He had been released in Baltimore to attorneys interested in the efforts to free Mooney and Billings.

Brazos River Claims Life Of Lumber Dealer

Special to The Record News.

NEWCASTLE, Texas, July 17.—E. V. Mullins, 36, manager of the W. C. Bowman Lumber company, was drowned in the Brazos river 2½ miles west of Newcastle Thursday afternoon. J. M. Pearson, who had accompanied Mullins on a fishing trip which ended in a swim, almost lost his life in a vain effort to save his companion.

Mullins swam into deep water apart from Pearson and was apparently seized with a cramp attack. Efforts at resuscitation through the use of a pulmotor were unavailing.

Mr. Mullins has been a resident of Newcastle for several years. He was a member of the Baptist church and of the local Masonic lodge. His widow and one child survive. Funeral arrangements were incomplete Thursday night.

Earl Carroll's 'Vanities' Called 'Lewd' When Court Orders Trial

NEW YORK, July 17. (UP)—Certain scenes in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" today were termed "lewd beyond question" by a magistrate who ordered the theatrical producer and three of his cast held for trial on a charge of presenting an indecent performance.

Carroll, Jimmy Savo, comedian, Faith Bacon, fan dancer, and Kay Carroll, none too waxen gown model, now must appear at date not yet set before the three justices of special sessions. The case probably will be transferred to general sessions on the plea that the defendants are entitled to a jury trial.

Magistrate Gotlieb's decision freed six of what Carroll modestly calls the most beautiful girls in the world. Although they participated in the celebrated window-dressing scene that brought blushes to the cheeks of robust policemen they did not contribute to the same of the occasion. Accordingly Irene Ahlberg, Constance Trevor, Eileen Wensel, Frances Joyce, Naomi Ray

"FIRST POOL" IN TEXAS STARTED

DALLAS, July 17. (UP)—The first day of actual operation of the cotton cooperative marketing program in Texas was ended tonight and reports received at the association headquarters in Dallas from Harlingen, where the first branch was opened today, said the association was handling practically all cotton brought to that point.

Sixty bales were received the first morning, and association officials expressed their pleasure not only over the practically unanimous deliveries, but also over the fact that all this cotton was placed in the "seasonal" pool.

The membership agreement gives the grower the privilege of putting his cotton in an "optional" pool, reserving the right to order it sold at any time. The "seasonal" pool, on the other hand, is sold at the judgment of the association, from time to time during the season.

Through the seasonal pool, the association expects to be able to feed the cotton to the market in such a manner as to stabilize the market, and the greater the volume handled in this manner, the greater the amount of influence which can be exerted.

NOW, WHAT ARE THEY

Optimist: Cheer up, old boy. Things are not as bad as they seem to be.

Pessimist: No; but they seem to be.—Answers.

Hoover to Talk To Farm Chiefs

Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member of the board, said:

"Anyone who thinks the farm board is idle and not doing all it can under the law to help the farmers is sadly mistaken."

The board has thrown its weight behind the Farmers' National Grain corporation in its efforts to finance and control the flow of wheat into market, it was said.

This corporation, which is woking with the farmers' cooperative organizations, is now lending credit up to 85 per cent of the market price of wheat, so that the farmers may obtain cash and the commodity be held for orderly marketing.

Efforts of the farm board now were said to be directed chiefly toward preventing a glut of wheat in the markets and thereby prevent the price from crashing still further.

Candidates Continue To Pursue Votes

Tours Mapped Out

At Miller headquarters at Dallas it was said that Cavin Muse of Dallas would speak for the gubernatorial candidate at the Leonard picnic Friday night and that J. D. Buster of Sherman would talk for him at Clarksville Saturday afternoon.

Dallas, which heard Ross S. Sterling Wednesday night, was preparing to welcome Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, Friday night. J. K. Morris, Mrs. Ferguson's North Texas campaign manager, said arrangements were being made to take care of a tremendous crowd. Ferguson was at Abilene Thursday night.

Sterling, who was fast concluding his North Texas campaign, was at Commerce, Greenville and Leonard Thursday. He said he expected the largest Grayson county rally of the season at Sherman Friday night. A group of Sulphur Springs supporters will meet him at Cumby Friday and accompany him to their town where he will speak Friday afternoon. Elmer L. Lincoln of Texarkana will speak for Sterling at Jefferson Friday afternoon.

Mayfield Hopeful

Earle B. Mayfield spoke at Tyler Thursday afternoon and at Athens Thursday night. His Dallas headquarters said his swing through Northeast Texas had convinced him he was still leading in that section.

Clint Small spoke at Rock Springs Thursday and San Antonio Thursday night. At Pampa everything was in readiness for a huge all-Panhandle celebration for him Friday night, at which his parents will be present and he will be the chief speaker. John Erhard, at his Dallas headquarters, admitted that Small would lose a few votes in West Texas but he said those would not be as numerous as the other candidates would lose to him in the remaining sections of the state.

Workers at Young's headquarters at Dallas seemed to be even more optimistic than usual. Steve Pinckney of Houston, member of the state Democratic executive committee, said Young was picking up on Sterling in South Texas. "Port Arthur is very much against Sterling," Pinckney said.

Frank Putnam of Houston, prohibition repeal candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, made his only speech of the campaign in the city hall at Houston Thursday night.

He said no man could be both a Democrat and a prohibitionist. "Democracy liberates; prohibition enslaves," he went on. "The two words, the two ideas, the two political theories, cannot be reconciled."

Love at Waco

Bob Higgins of Marlin reported to the headquarters that Young would carry Falls, Robertson and Limestone counties, with Mrs. Ferguson runner-up.

Thomas B. Love had no speaking engagement during the day Thursday, but he talked twice at Waco at night, once at the courthouse and the other over radio station WACO.

From Pampa, Cecil Storey, candidate for attorney general, issued a reply to Governor Moody's second statement accusing him of being the Ferguson candidate for attorney general.

"If Governor Moody so extravagantly condemns me for supporting the amnesty bill, what explanation has he to make for his leader in the senate, Walter Woodward, being the author of it and his leader in the house, Alfred Petsch, supporting it?" Storey inquired.

and Betty Veronica were discharged.

The nudity charge referred particularly to a dance performed by Miss Bacon in a field of synthetic daisies. The authorities complained that the girl was completely unattired save for two fans she waved between herself and the audience except for such times as she grew lazy or careless and permitted them to drop.

Savo, who appeared in another torrid scene as a window undresser, was accused by the gendarmes of undue realism along with Miss May Carroll.

That both of these scenes will be re-enacted on the witness stand at the trial is considered probable. Assistant District Attorney James Wallace, who specializes in conducting prosecutions of show people who won't be good boys and girls, is on his vacation and hence authorities were not willing to discuss the specific charges under which Carroll and his help will be tried. It was said, however, that a maximum sentence of three years could be imposed with conviction on the indecency count.

Broadwayites who were convinced at first that the raid on the "Vanities" was just a publicity stunt were beginning to hedge their bets. Meanwhile the revue continues to pack 'em in at the New Amsterdam theater.

CO-OP LOANS STEADY GRAIN

Wheat Farmers Enabled To Hold Crop

WASHINGTON, July 17. (AP) — Samuel R. McKelvie, who represents wheat on the farm board, said today the farmer had been enabled to withhold huge quantities of the 1930 grain crop from the market by the board's action in making it possible for cooperatives to loan their members 85 per cent of the value of their wheat.

The farm board lends money to cooperatives whose organizations if approves and this in turn it made available to individual farmers on grain delivered.

"Those who say nothing is being done to help the wheat farmer are in error," he declared, adding that the cooperatives were highly pleased with arrangements the Farmers' National Grain corporation had made for the sale of wheat.

Many of the loans, he said, were being made in states where the law permits the advance of money on wheat in farm storage, the result being cheaper storage for grain and the damming up of burdensome market supplies.

BOTH NORRISES HELD ELIGIBLE

Nebraska Senator May Run As Independent

LINCOLN, Neb. July 17. (AP)—Two Nebraskans named George W. Norris, one of them the senator from this state, are entitled to places on the Republican primary ballot for U. S. senator, Secretary of State Frank Marsh ruled today. Protest had been made by friends of Senator Morris against listing his competitor.

Marsh said the certified list of candidates which he will send to county clerks will carry the post office address of each candidate so that voters can distinguish between them.

The competing George W. Norris is a Broken Bow grocer who entered the race against Senator Norris of McCook. Followers of the senator said the filing of the Broken Bow Norris was made too late.

Marsh ruled that the filing was in the mails before the time limit expired and was good.

Attorney General C. A. Sorensen, a close friend of the senator, had announced that regardless of the decision Senator Norris would withdraw from the Republican race and campaign for re-election as an independent to avoid confusion.

Hostility Charge Dropped by Court

NEWARK, N. J., July 17. (AP)—Harry Gold was commended for his kindness, and freed in federal court today of a charge of inciting hostility against the government.

He was praised by the court for giving an automobile ride and a sum of money to Max Schwartz, soldier from Camp Dix, who later brought the charges against him.

"I want to say very frankly," said Judge Runyon, "as I regard what actually happened, you did two kind acts. You gave a man a lift and you gave him a little money. That may be communism, but if it is I think it is very admirable.

"I hope you can look with the same kindness on government in general. I don't sympathize with Communist ideas, but so far as your acts are concerned, they certainly were not communistic.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy and called his prescription Hem-Roid. He prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get Hem-Roid from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Allison's Drug store invites every Pile sufferer to try Hem-Roid and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

GOLDSBOROUGH TO BE HONORED

New York to Pay Tribute to Boy Aviator

NEW YORK, July 17. (AP)—New York will pay tribute at a public funeral tomorrow to Frank Goldsborough, boy flier, who died yesterday on his 20th birthday in Bennington, Vt., after his plane had come down in a fog-bound forest.

The body of the boy, holder of junior transcontinental flight records and son of a transatlantic flight victim, was brought to New York today from Vermont. It was accompanied by Mrs. Brice Goldsborough, his mother, and Donald Mockler, the youth's flying companion who tramped for hours through the woods to summon help after the crash.

Young Mockler showed the strain of the tragedy more than the flier's mother, to whom it was the second such blow in less than three years. Her husband was lost with Mrs. Frances Grayson's plane The Dawn in 1927.

The dragon fly, contrary to popular belief, has no sting.

How Are Your Tires?

HOT WEATHER brings new hazards to automobiling.

More cars are on the road. Persons stay out later at night. Drivers make longer trips. The general speed average goes higher than during the winter months.

We are fussy about brakes and lights. Too many of us overlook one source of grave danger—worn-out tires. All of us are inclined to boast how far we have gone on a set. We do travel amazing distances, so amazing that many of us forget entirely about tires until something happens.

The worst danger from old tires is from blowouts while we are traveling at high rates of speed. Old tires blow more quickly in hot weather than in winter. Given certain conditions, a blown tire will turn a car over — and cause serious injury and possibly death to occupants.

Then there is the danger of ... are worn down. On a wet road ... are badly worn is seldom under ... ding is not the only danger. Slid... is a common accident.

MOTORIST INJURED AS TIRE BLOWS OUT

LOS ANGELES (United Press)—Two men received ...

Actual clippings from the newspapers daily tell why thousands of safety-seeking car owners are equipping with the new General Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon.

Modern speed and traffic conditions demanded it. Announced only a few weeks ago, and already the sensation of motordom. Hailed everywhere as the greatest safety advancement in modern motoring, commented upon in newspaper editorials.

Automobile clubs are urging their members to consider tire-safety first. National magazines, Collier's, Liberty, Outlook and others have featured articles on the appalling increase of accidents—over 400,000 of such casualties yearly due to tire blowouts, punctures and skidding.

And no wonder! Blowouts didn't mean much in the day of slow speeds and small tires. But with tires bigger today, speeds faster, highways narrow and crowded—the percentage of serious and fatal accidents due to tire failure is ten times greater than it was a few years ago.

A blowout today is almost never a minor accident—it is a sure crash with only a split second of warning. At 60 you are going 88 feet a second. Even at half that speed there's less than a twentieth of a second between your wheels and the ditch, or oncoming traffic. Don't risk it!

Spectacular tests of the new Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon have proved its absolute safety against the sudden impact of road holes and bumps that shatter the carcass of ordinary tires. Safe, too, against the hidden, unseen blowout hazard of internal heat.

Only the patented new Blowout-Proof principle of the Dual-Balloon can give you this safety. It eliminates the common causes of blowouts that develop in tires which still look good and blow when you least expect it. You can trust your life to the Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon. It reduces every tire hazard regardless of road, speed or weather. It guards your car as well as your life. It smothers road shocks, keeps your car quiet and new thousands of miles longer.

Yet with all its unmatched safety and easy riding comfort that challenges any comparison, the new Dual-Balloon is the most economical of tires. Its safe, sure service lasts months and years longer. It actually costs less per mile than you pay now. Come in today or tomorrow for facts and a demonstration.

Mrs. Dawson Honors Sister With Lovely Morning Party

In the foyer of the Woman's Forum clubhouse, where summer flowers of all colors made a beautiful background, Mrs. Arch Dawson entertained Thursday morning with a bridge luncheon honoring her sister and house guest, Miss Alice Murrey of Wills Point.

A pink and green color scheme was followed in the card tables, the dainty tallies and score cards and in the daintily wrapped prizes.

In the games, Mrs. Walter Robbins won high and was presented with a lovely boudoir pillow. Mrs. Guy Rogers was second and her gift was an Italian pottery flower basket. Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth received the cut prize, beautifully embroidered towels, and Mrs. Horrace Robbins was presented with a handsome deck of cards for low favor. The honoree's gift was matched costume jewelry.

The long table in the dining room was a beautiful picture with almost every blossoming summer flower used in bowls down its length. With the pink doilies and green glasses and the dainty tinted place cards, the chosen motif made an ideal summer luncheon table.

A two-course luncheon, stressing the same colors, was served to Miss Murrey, the honoree, and to Mesdames Horrace Robbins, Walter Robbins, Guy Rogers, C. E. Summerlin, W. P. Killingsworth, Q. B. Lee, Henry C. Fulcher, C. F. Cavanagh, Van Lesley, Ben G. Oneal, E. B. Lehrack, John M. Martin, R. O. Kenley Jr., S. D. Johnson, George A. Patterson, R. L. Brumbalow, Norman Downing, W. H. Baker, G. L. Shapard, E. L. Kirksey, Miss Iva Willis and the hostess.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Professor William Lyons Phelps is undoubtedly right in his statement that the happiest people are those who think the most interesting thoughts. Those who love good books and good music and good plays and good conversation.

We love them all and when we have leisure, we enjoy them. But we have an awful failing that is beginning to rob us of such happiness. We lose a handkerchief a day.

We used to have nice handkerchiefs. People gave us a number for Christmas. We lost them all and bought cheaper ones. We lost all of those and purchased nice little hemmed ones for $1 per dozen. And still they disappeared.

As a child we can remember having our hanky pinned carefully to us before we went to Sunday school or any festal gathering.

Thinking of the last few months, that seems to us the only safe way to keep handkerchiefs. When we have pockets, they disappear from the pockets and when we haven't pockets, they disappear anyway. And, as we can think of no possible reason for friends giving us a handkerchief shower, the manner in which handkerchiefs tear at our bank account keeps us from thinking all the happy thoughts we should.

Webster defined "initiative" as the power of commencing. We had thought we had some initiative, but we have not yet "commenced" holding to our handkerchiefs.

When our vacation comes, we will concentrate on that one thing and believe that we will return with the small morsels gripped in our hands or pinned at our waists.

Unless we do find some method of keeping scraps of linen and lace, we fear that we may become morose.

However one should not laugh. Plato says that persons of worth are never overcome by laughter—or in exact words, "must never be represented as overcome by laughter."

Might as well be solemn, or say it with a smile. Lord Chesterton, (and we have heard his letters to his son spoken of as models) says "A man of fashion or parts is—only seen to smile, but never heard to laugh."

In all the years of our life we have never known intimately what Lord Chesterton would cal la "man of parts."

Whining Wife's Tongue Blights Own Happiness

Why Doesn't the Whining Wife Realize That She Defeats Her Own Best Interests With Her Tongue? Adopted Boy of 14 Who Is Forced to Wear Curls.

Dear Miss Dix—I married a whiner. Somebody is always doing something to her. When she can't pick on me she picks on my family or some member of her own family, but I am the goat. Before we were married I didn't have an enemy in the world. Now I cannot number them and my wife has made them for me. When I pass people on the street I think I can hear them saying: "There he goes, the brute." Pleasant for me, isn't it? I have stood this for 10 years because I stood before God and promised to stick until death does us part.

—UNJUSTLY ACCUSED.

Well, brother, I am not going to lay any wreaths at your feet, because I think that there is no virtue in unnecessary martyrdom and that any man who lets a neurotic, whining, complaining woman spoil his life with her nagging has only himself to blame for his misery. If he had the strength and courage to stand up and have one good fight with her he could probably make her afraid ever to utter another moan. And if that didn't work there must be at least 40 trains a day that leaves his city, any one of which would bear him forth to peace and freedom.

The kind of women who are always picking on their husbands and saying little, mean things to them and criticizing them to others are invariably cowards who are taking advantage of the fact that their husbands are tied to them and have to stand any sort of treatment. Or so they think. And a coward can always be bluffed and all that the husband would have to do to secure decent treatment would be to stage a rebellion with plenty of fireworks. They would become as mum as clams if they thought their good living was going to be taken away from them.

"Treat 'em rough" is the sure cure for that sort of mean-souled women. Nothing but brute force appeals to them and the more a man bangs them around and the louder he swears at them the more she adores him. They are the women who stick to husbands who are wife-beaters and who lie to the neighbors about the way they got their black eyes.

But, alas, they are also the type of woman with whom no gentleman is fitted to deal and the more high-minded, the more tender and chivalrous he is the more helpless a victim he becomes to such a wife, and so she amuses herself by torturing him to death with her tongue.

But inasmuch as selfishness is the predominant characteristic of this type of woman, it is curious that her greed and egotism do not make her "lay off" her husband, as the phrase goes, because by her perpetual fault-finding with him she literally kills the goose that lays the golden egg.

To begin with, she slows him down. She paralyzes his energies and atrophies his ambition for what man could think it worth while to work himself to death for a wife who was never satisfied with anything he did anyway? What man could keep up his morale in the face of a wife's complaints that she couldn't have as fine things as rich women have or her reproaches to her husband that he wasn't a go-getter like some other man?

For a man to succeed it is essential for him to have not only a compelling motive, but a belief in his own abilities, and these the whining wife slays by her reproaches. The men who achieve have wives who back them up by their faith in them, wives who cheer them on and back them up and put fresh heart and courage into them and who are always like a flag of victory waving just before them.

Then a wife writes her husband's price tag. Unconsciously we take our opinion of a man from his wife and if she is always singing his praises and telling how wonderful he is, we think he is great and wonderful, too, and if she is always finding fault with him and telling about his little tempers and how she has to make him get up of a morning and that, somehow, he doesn't seem to know how to get along, why, we set him down as brutal or lazy or no-account.

Many a woman who wonders why her husband doesn't succeed could find the answer in the prejudice she has built up against him by her criticisms of him. And often enough these complaints have no justification in fact.

The wife has a morbid craving for sympathy and so she exaggerates every fault into a crime, every foible into a fatal defect of character. It is Mrs. A.'s harping on the time Mr. A. went to the lodge and didn't get home until 2 o'clock that gets him the reputation in the neighborhood of being a rounder. It is Mrs. B.'s complaints over some money Mr. B. lost that makes people afraid to trust his judgment in business.

And it is the enemies or friends that a man's wife makes for him that are a big factor in his success or failure. Half of the business of the world is done on personal liking and a man can have no more valuable press agent than a wife nor any more fatal handicap. And these are things that the wining wife might well consider, because whether she loves her husband or not she certainly loves the money he brings in.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a boy of 14, in the eighth grade in school and I am an adopted child. At the time my mother took me she wanted a girl, but she couldn't get one, so she took me because I had golden curls. She has never let my hair be cut and I have long, golden curls to my waist and I always have to wear ribbons in it and she makes me wear dresses after school and on Sundays and I help with the housework like a girl. My mother says if I ever cut one curl she will send me back to the orphan asylum. She tells everybody that an adopted boy always turns out badly, so she has brought me up as a girl. Otherwise she is good and kind to me, but I feel that I cannot stand these curls. Can she send me back to the orphan school if I cut off my curls?—FRANKIE.

Answer—If I were you, Frankie, I would cut off those curls, even though the penalty for doing so was being sent back to the orphan asylum. Even that would be far better for you than being brought up in the unnatural way in which you are. The orphan asylum would, at least, give you the chance of growing up into a man instead of a sissy.

Your adopted mother surely cannot realize what a cruel thing she is doing in forcing a boy of 14 to wear long, golden curls down to his waist. It is a cruel and inhuman punishment, for it makes you a laughing stock among all the boys and that you have endured it this long shows that you are the stuff of which heroes are made. Also, that you have a most extraordinary appreciative and grateful disposition or else you would have rebelled long ago.

As for your adopted mother's theory that adopted boys always turn out badly, that is utter and sheer nonsense. They turn out quite as well as any other boys if they are given the right sort of environment and intelligent rearing.

But anyway, how does she expect to circumvent nature by putting you in girls' clothes and letting your hair grow? That doesn't change your sex nor your character. All that it can do is to make you a poor little misfit in the world.

Perhaps you can make your mother realize the injustice she is doing by trying to make you an imitation girl. Anyway, beat it to a barber. Even the girls have short hair in these days.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man of 24, well educated, popular and making good money. I play around a lot and save nothing. In fact, I can't. There are two girls I am simply crazy about and I believe either one of them would be a nice little wife for me. One is a business girl, always too busy when I call. The other is just the opposite and I believe I prefer her to the business girl. I would like to get steady and go into business, but at the present rate I am living I will never be anything but a regular guy. What is your advice?

—N. O. V.

Answer—My advice is for you to settle down and make something of wourself before you ask either girl to marry you. It doesn't seem to me that you are a very attractive proposition as you stand. If you can't save money when you have only yourself to support, how do you expect to save any when you have a family to provide for?

It always seems to me that a man has a lot of nerve who asks a woman to make a man of him when he hasn't been able to do the job himself.

Simple Frock With Great Chic

Pattern 1984

By ANNE ADAMS

An extremely easy frock to make has a gracefully flared, deep collar, with most becoming lines, and a flared skirt that joins its bodice in harmonizing lines. The narrow belt ties in a bow . . . at the side or in back, whichever pleases the individual taste. There are sleeves with the pattern, if you prefer them.

Pattern 1984 makes up beautifully in voile, flat crepe, dimity, lawn, georgette or batiste. Dark shades of blue, brown, green or black are quite smart when dotted with white, beige, yellow or pink. If you wish, an organdy collar may be worn with this model.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our book of patterns for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

Greathouse Work Praised Highly In Hollywood

In a letter received from Mrs. Alvin Gardner interesting news is conveyed concerning Dorothy Greathouse as a teacher.

Quite a numbe of the Greathouse Conservatory pupils went to California this summer to continue their studies with Miss Greathouse. The class includes Thelma Adams, Ed Reeder, Charline Kinder, of Archer City, Roberta Shaw and Nell Gardner.

Miss Greathouse presented her pupils in recital Tuesday evening, July 8, and the performance was so creditable that one of Hollywood's best known producers requested that she bring her class for film and voice test.

He praised the Greathouse method of teaching and said he would give an audition to any of her pupils at any time.

Fairfax Captain Held Responsible for Crash

WASHINGTON, July 17. (UP)—Blame for the collision between the steamship Fairfax and the oil tanker Pinthis, June 10, off the coast of Scituate, Mass., in which 49 lives were lost, has been laid upon Capt. Archie H. Brooks, master of the Fairfax, it was announced today by Dickerson N. Hoover, supervising inspector general of the federal steamboat inspection service.

Morning Bridge-Luncheon Honors Pretty Bride-Elect

Miss Katherine Weldon, who is being feted with one of the most complete series of prenuptial parties ever offered a Wichita bride-elect, was honoree again Thursday morning when Mrs. A. R. Dillard entertained with a beautifully arranged morning bridge and luncheon.

Mrs. Dillard's home on Garfield was filled with summer flowers in every color, and covers on card tables, tallies and scorecards were in dainty pastel shades.

In the bridge game, Miss Mildred Miller was winner of high score and was presented with an embroidered linen towel with Italian filet inset which she in turn gave to the honoree. Mrs. Dillard presented the bride-elect with an exquisite Dresden nut set.

A delicious luncheon that emphasized pastel colors was served to Miss Katherine Weldon, the honoree, and to Misses Dell Hatchitt, Mildred Sherrod, Mildred Miller, Elizabeth Weldon, Elizabeth Langford, Catherine Kay, Margaret Hines, Corinne Tucker, Camille Avis, Adelle Jarrell, Willette Jarrell, Zaidee McKinney, Elizabeth Smith, Martha Ellen Hines and Mesdames Louis Hodges and the ohstess, Mrs. A. R. Dillard.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Could Write a Book About It

"Nine years ago after my little girl was born dead, I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11 pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. Four months ago I was nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—Mrs. W. Overmann, 918 Regina Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Growing to Order

The public asks for more A&P

The tales Americans are the proudest of are those of poor boys who rose to greatness, and of modest business ventures that became great industries.

Like many early American businesses, A & P was once small but hopeful—a single little store. About all A & P could call its own in 1859 was its red painted front and the belief that women like good food at low prices.

The first A & P store was a busy store—so busy that a second store was added, then a third; and . . . the little business grew up. It became a leader among food merchants, slowly and naturally, unaided by vast capital or mergers.

Ask yourself why A & P grew . . . It grew because the public accepted and encouraged A & P's methods of doing business. The A & P store in your neighborhood is there because great numbers of women want it there.

A & P is a little store that made good.

Mr. Carroll's Troubles
A Bit Too "Parisian"
Why Fakers Exist
Art and the Poor

By EMILE CAUVREAU

The arrests in Mr. Carroll's "Vanities" are based on a charge which makes it a misdemeanor of "producing or participating in an indecent or vile show, which tends to corrupt public morals." Does anybody believe that anything could corrupt the morals of the average playgoer in New York? For a nominal sum he can see, and probably has seen, exhibits against which "Vanities" would look like a mild tableau.

Apparently, Mr. Carroll's production was an attempt to make the beautiful and artistic shocking with the sort of revue commonly called "Parisian." Everybody will agree that he succeeded. But what price vulgarity! Nudity is not obscene. Vulgarity is. Mr. Carroll needs the artist's fine discrimination to know where beauty leaves off and grossness begins. He is learning by experience, whatever that is.

A "Siamese twin," getting into an argument with her other half, walks out on her in an Atlantic City side-show. To accomplish this separation all she had to do was to uncouple the spring which mechanically attaches her to her "sister." Every pleasure city with a freak show produces similar hoaxes. Natural curiosity is insatiable. If you know that the gypsy in the store window is a fake fortune teller, her outlandish clothes and foreign jabbering will almost convince you that she is gifted with supernatural powers. And yet most of us complain when we are taken in by these charlatans. Fakers exist because we want them to exist.

The news that a $6,000,000 art treasure is coming to the United States will interest the average man only because of the money involved. He will be the last person in the world to go to see the famous Dreyfus collection, should it be on display. He has no time for art. He is too busy making—or trying to make—money. Art, he knows, is for the rich.

How to get the average man "culture-conscious" is a problem that educators have had to contend with for years. One solution is: Give the average man more leisure. But leisure presupposes wealth. And that automatically exempts the average man. So there is apparently no solution. A wise old man once said: Art is long, but life is fleeting.

Rejuvenation Expert Changes Study Field

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17. (INS)—Dr. Serge Varonoff, world famous exponent of rejuvenation, revealed today that he had practically abandoned his experiments on humans, and was now devoting his attention to glandular operations on sheep and cattle.

Arriving from the Orient after spending six months in research work among livestock herds in India and Indo-China, Dr. Varonoff said that he believed his animal experiments would have an important effect on two important industries, meat and wool.

Shoe Heel Used In Treating Wound, Is Claim

TOPEKA, Kan., July 17. (AP)—A witness before the state medical board testified today that Dr. John R. Brinkley, Milford, Kan., "goat gland" specialist and radio prescriber, used a rubber shoe heel in an effort to keep a wound from bleeding after an operation.

Brinkley is facing probable loss of his right to practice in Kansas if the board finds the charges of "gross immorality and unprofessional conduct" are well founded.

The witness, Charles Ziengernhart, 60, a former Brinkley patient, said the rubber heel could not be kept in place.

Lieut. Byrd says that down where he's been one could hear his breath freeze an' crack. I've heard 'em sizzle. Very often a vacation is a fine thing for everybuddy concerned.

A British magazine reports that every cell of a woman's prison in England has a mirror in it. The prisoners, you see, are locked up and left to their own reflections.

A Pittsburgh couple had a fancy plane wedding 3,000 feet in the air—and like all other couples, right after the ceremony they "came down to earth."

A Break for All of Us

JOHN M'DONALD, missing witness in the Mooney case, has been found at last; and in that fact lies a bit of great good luck, not only for Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, but for the nation as a whole.

His sudden appearance makes it probable that Mooney and Billings will at last be released from prison. That will not only be a good thing for them. It will be wholesome for all of us, whether we like it or not.

San Francisco held a preparedness parade in 1916. A bomb, left in a suitcase at the corner of Stuart and Market streets, exploded, killing a number of people.

Mooney and Billings, labor agitators, were arrested and charged with the crime. McDonald was the star witness. He swore he had seen Billings leave the suitcase on the corner, join Mooney and talk with him and then walk away. Chiefly on the strength of his testimony, the two men were convicted and imprisoned.

Five years later McDonald appeared in New York and swore that he had lied. He had never seen Mooney and Billings at all, he said; he would not have been able to identify them if the police had not pointed them out to him in jail. He prepared to go back and tell his story; but when he learned that he would be prosecuted for perjury he vanished.

Now he has turned up again, and it is hard to see, how Mooney and Billings can be kept in prison any longer. F. C. Oxman, the only other important witness against them, has been proved to be a liar. The judge who tried Mooney and nine of the ten surviving jurors who convicted him have asked that the men be freed, saying that they are now convinced of their innocence. McDonald's final appearance ought to settle things.

This, we repeat, is good luck for the whole country.

California's supreme court refused to free the two men—offering the perfectly amazing reason that even if they weren't guilty they at least probably knew something about it, and so ought to stay in prison.

That is a perfect sample of the way the whole country has reacted. It had been demonstrated, before McDonald's reappearance, that the case against Mooney and Billings had utterly collapsed; but we all said, in effect—"Well, they're bad actors anyhow; why worry about them?"

Because of this prejudiced attitude the California supreme court was able to make its absurd remark—forgetting, apparently, that Mooney and Billings weren't accused of having knowledge of the bombing, or of being bad actors generally, but solely of having planted the bomb.

If, at this late date, we are compelled to admit that we have made a terrible mistake; if we are compelled to admit that our prejudices have made us commit a tragic injustice; if all of us, from the California supreme court on down, are compelled to realize that this "well-anyhow-they-knew-something-about-it" reasoning is utter nonsense—then, as a nation, we shall be much better off. We shall have purged ourselves of something that has been very bad for us. We shall have ended a dishonest, wilfully blind mental attitude.

It is our good luck, as well as Mooney's and Billings', that McDonald has turned up.

The City Man's Plight

THERE is one season of the year, above all others, when the man who lives in a large city deserves humanity's deep sympathy.

That season is midsummer. Not because cities are hot, sticky and dirty in summer—though they are; not because the open country is more healthful and enjoyable when hot weather comes around—though it is; but simply because the city man is debarred from knowing the enjoyment of corn on the cob and watermelon in the way that these two summer delicacies should be enjoyed.

Of course, green corn and watermelons can be bought in the city. You can get them at any grocery store, and you can have them served to you at any restaurant. But the stuff you get isn't the stuff that the country dweller gets.

To begin with, there is the matter of corn.

In the city grocery you find it lying in a bin—two days old, as like as not, and inevitably picked over by the hands of a dozen housewives before you. Corn wasn't meant for rough handling. Something vital goes out of it. You bear it home and boil it; but the result, when you come to eat it, as a disappointment. If you have never eaten green corn in the country you may not notice the difference; but if you have you will discover that the corn's sweetness, its freshness, its milky juciness, have somehow left it.

To eat corn on the cob it is necessary to go to the cornfield and pick it yourself. Pick it, take it to the kitchen, strip it of its husks and put it at once in the hot water. Then, when it is done, you have something fit for the gods to eat. Garnished with butter and salt, it is a meal in itself.

And watermelon—

The city man's watermelon has generally been off of the vine for many days. He takes it on trust, not knowing how to tell the sound from the unsound by the finger-tapping trick. At best, it may be passable; at worst, it is a flat mess of damp pulp, tasteless and uninspiring.

In the country, however, it is possible to go directly to the vine and pick out your own. If you like, you squat there in the dust and open it forthwith; otherwise you take it to some spring and let it lie in the water for an hour. In either case, when you eat it you are eating one of the finest delicacies nature provides.

These are two foods that the city man almost never discovers as they ought to be discovered. The lucky country dweller can only sympathize with him.

The Tragedy of Love

Spring is gone already—
And I must school my heart
To bear another Summer
With us—apart.

I must put by my dreaming,
And think of you no more,
Oh, I will be heart-weary
And lonely as the shore.

When all the gulls have left it,
And Summer sands are bright,
And the tides rejoin the ocean,
Day and night.

Will there ever be fulfillment
Of the barren sands and me?
Or must my heart grow bitter
And salty as the sea?

Hehehch

From Sid Silvers, who used to heckle Phil Baker from a box seat, comes this classic on the Yes-Man in Hollywood.

After a preview the magnate collected his crew of yessers about him.

"So what do you think?" he asked the first.

"Boss," was the reply, "it's stupendous!"

"And what do you think?" he asked the second.

"Terrific, superb, gigantic!" was the answer.

"And you?" he asked a frightened little fellow.

"Please chief, don't be cross with me," was the reply, "but to me it is merely great!"

Squelch

One of those bores was stifling Don Marquis at a party the other night. Finally, when the pest had finished an unsavory and pointless story, Marquis droned: "No matter how often you change your mind, sir, it is never spotless."

Novelette

Even the good girls on Broadway (you have to be good) are showered with gifts by newly-found admirers. Take the pretty Mildred Randall of the Club Abbey frinstance. Mildred, a Chicagorgeous thing, has been in New York for three months and wasn't very lucky with newspaper men. That is, she would corner some of us and say: "What must a girl do to get her name in the paper?"

She was told that the Big Idea was to keep her name out of the paper, but here it is and for a reason. She hopes a certain person will see it—a person who is old enough to be her grandpappy, but who only met her the other night, and on the next day sent her a check for $2,500, which she has cashed, and a diamond pendant watch valued at plenty.

Then when she telephoned his hotel to thank him, she was told he had taken the boat that morning to return to his home in India!

Wotta Man!

Swifty

Take it from George Beatty, one of the better flip-quippers. Beatty hastens to report that he understands Lindy is plotting another flight to Paris and will take his son. The plane, it appears, will be constructed to carry 450 gallons of gas and a can af talcum powder.

Imagine!

Al Jolson, just returned from Alcohollywood, paused during the intermission of the new "Who Cares?" revusical to moan about the gossip columnists. "You guys are driving me crazy!" pouted Mr. J., "always putting in the papers lies about me and my Ruby."

"I haven't mentioned you in three days!" bellowed a paragrapher.

"Not you!" explained Jolson. "I mean out there in California." Then Jolson told how a reporter cornered him one night at a theater out there. The newspaper man amazed Al with: "Is your wife going to have a baby?"

"No!" cried Jolson. "It isn't true!"

"Gwan!" bellowed the colyuming fiend, "don't tell me!!!"

Oop!

I never dare to close my eyes,
For every time I do,
Things start to happen, and I see
Just you, and you and you!

I cannot bear to see the back
That you have turned my way,
But I have charted one grand kick
That will be yours some day!

—ELIZABETH C. LOWREY.

Pardon the Sacksam

The New York Evepost, one of the better rags, congratulates the devoutly religious Calvin Coolidge for not working on Sundays, Cal's column not appearing on the Sabbath.

What amuses some of us is that the Post doesn't practice what it preaches, considering that the Post's Monday editions are prepared on the day and evening before.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

"But you got something up your sleeve, haven't you?"

Kay Smith cannot remember anything about her past—not even her real name. She accepts a job in the office of Dane Talbot, whom she loves, and who is engaged to Julie Drew. Kay is anxious to learn her true identity, and on the way home one night, she is accosted by a flashily dressed stranger who addresses her as "Kitty."

CHAPTER VIII

"You've changed, though," the man was saying. "Gotten prettier. Look more rested. What have you been doing?"

Kay put her nickle back into her purse. A chance but she was going to take it. If she didn't she might never know. "We can't talk here," she said shortly.

"Have a drink with me? There's a place across the street."

"No—I saw a hotel upstairs. Suppose we go into the lobby." She led the way up the stairs, and into the hotel lobby. Off in a corner she sat down on a ragged leather chair. The man drew up another, facing her. Pushing his hat on the back of his head, he took a cigar from his pocket and chewed off the end.

"You've Changed"

"I'll say you've changed, Kitty. Trying the ritzy game now? You've got the looks. As sure as my name is Jim Whalen, you're getting better looking all the time. Let's see, when was it I seen you last? Two years ago? Just a kid you were, then, but going strong."

Kay was glad he had told her his name without her asking it. At least she knew that much. Jim Whalen. It meant nothing to her. She thought of Doctor Raleigh's advice. That some one might lead to this past she so desperately wanted to know about. By some phrase, some innuendo. For all she knew, she might have known Jim Whalen in the past. Might have known him well! Why couldn't she remember him, then?

The puzzle was too much for her, so finally she gave it up and just listened to him talk. For he was doing plenty of that.

She noticed that several lower front teeth were gold, and they flashed when he laughed. Also that stuck into his green tie was a small horseshoe of diamonds. On his left hand an emerald ring.

"I always said you was a clever girl, Kitty, and that you'd get some place in this world with your looks. Playin' a quiet game now, I suppose?"

Kay nodded, because she didn't know what else to do. She had no idea what Whalen was alluding to. All she could do was to play safe until she got more information from him.

A Pile of Money

"You and I should have been partners, that's what I always said. We'd make a pile of money. Makin' much money now?"

Kay was alarmed. She murmured that she wasn't.

"But you got something up your sleeve, haven't you?" Again she agreed because she didn't know what he meant.

"That a girl! I won't ask you because I know how funny you've always been. Kinda quiet, the I-won't-tell-a-word kind. But bright. You was always bright as a dollar. Two years since I seen you. You was fussing around Chi, then, somethin' up your sleeve, and you wouldn't tell me. 'Member, we had lunch at some joint on State street? Meant to look you up the next day, but the old town got kinda hot for me. Two years ago. A lot has happened to me since then. A lot. You heard, o' course?"

"Careful Now"

He didn't wait for her to answer, but went on quickly. "A year in the big house. I was lucky, an' I'm being careful now. Careful as they make 'em."

Kay rose in alarm. She was frightened, but didn't know why. The way the man was talking. The gleam in his eyes. They had grown hard. Green eyes, and now the pupils were dilated. His nostrils were quivering.

"Say, you ain't going? No, stay awhile. There's lots I got to say yet. How's your folks? Ever see 'em?"

Kay pricked up her ears and sat down, willingly. "No."

"Give 'em the go-by, huh? 'Member that time I came to see Micky at your mother's in Langly. Rum town, don't blame you for leaving. But that was before you left. You were just a kid then. Mother still there I suppose?"

Langly? Where was that? She would look it up on a map as soon as she got away. Langly, Langly, she mustn't forget.

Again, Whalen wasn't waiting for her answers. He was wound up and nothing could stop him.

Information

"Your mother wasn't a bad sort, Kitty. You shouldn't feel like that about her. After all we only got one mother. 'Course I ain't tellin' you what to do, but why not run out to see her? Only a little ride. Won't take you half a day."

If she could only find out the surname. She hated to ask. Couldn't.

Then almost as if she had spoken her thoughts aloud he answered her. "Yeh, ole lady Banning was sure good to me that little trip I made to see Mickey. Never forget it."

Banning, evidently it was. Kitty Banning, Kitty Banning. Kay shook her head despairingly. It meant nothing. Yet Whalen had accused her of forgetting her mother, neglecting her. Was that true?

She prayed it might not be true. Dr. Raleigh came again to her mind. The conversation of last night. She might possibly have had an unhappy childhood . . . But her mother, it couldn't be true, what Jim Whalen had said.

Suddenly he began to get curious. "Come now, Kitty. Tell me what you're doing. If I can help in any way you know me well enough to count on me."

She shook her head. "Nothing you can do."

"Well, it's a big job, isn't it?"

"I—" she was about to tell him where she was working, when she caught herself in time. She instinctively didn't like the man, she only had come here because she thought he could tell her something, show her something about the past.

"Been up the river yet?" he was asking.

"No," she murmured, puzzled.

"Well, you've got a fairy at your elbow always, Kitty. A good fairy to keep you out of trouble. Now, if you're at loose ends, and would like a job, I got one all outlined—"

"Don't Be High Hat—"

"No!" Kay's voice rose.

"Well, all right, but you needn't be so high hat. Remember, I've known you for a long time, and you can't afford to be ritzy with me. You may be a great little confidence woman, but some day you're going to get a mean jab. Pulled off some good jobs in your day, with that baby face of yours. Faces count a lot, and you know it. I can't tell you a thing about faces, but when a gal turns down her old friends—." Whalen was getting vindictive. His eyes threatened her.

"Twenty-two years old, and you don't know yet that the only thing that matters is old friends—." Kay didn't hear the rest of his sentence. She was astonished at the age he had given her. Twenty-two. Well, maybe she was. At the hospital, Dr. Raleigh had said 18 or 19. Even then he wasn't sure, and had admitted he wasn't.

Whalen thought she was 22.

"Confidence woman," she found herself muttering aloud.

Whalen heard her. "I suppose you got a new racket now. But remember, I knew you when you were a plain pickpocket—"

Kay rose in dismay. Pickpocket! She couldn't have been that! That was stealing . . .

She remembered the evening at Mrs. Talbot's when she had heard Julie and Dane's aunt discussing her. Mrs. Talbot had said she was being very careful, having her room searched every day, for fear she would steal something.

I'm not a thief! she indignantly denied to herself. But am I? God, if I only knew . . .

Whalen was inquiring now where she lived. She didn't want him to know, couldn't let him know now. The past held a horrible terror for her since she had met him. She might, as Mrs. Talbot had said, be anything—even a thief.

Given False Address

So she put him off with a false address, which he scribbled down hastily in a little notebook. "Code you know, so if ever I'm picked up nobody'll pick any of my friends. Clever, isn't it?" He showed her the item he had made on the page, then other pages, filled with the same strange figures. "Oh, I'm a clever boy," he boasted. "And I ain't got nothing on just now, so if you're willing to trust me, we might try something together. I got a couple of things in mind."

He insisted on shaking hands with her, and she had all she could

The Record News Makes a Special Offer of Handy Letter Writer

In this age of cheap rapid communication by telegraph and telephone it is frequently said that letter writing has become a lost art. However that may be, it is certain that the ability to write a good letter is either a natural gift or is acquired only at a cost of no little study and practice, and it is equally true that almost every individual often finds himself at a loss to know how to compose a communication that is called for by some special exigency. It may a particular type of business letter or any one of the almost innumerable forms of correspondence that enter into social relations—invitations, acceptances or regrets, formal or informal, messages of congratulation, sympathy, condolence or what not.

The Handy Letter Writer, the new booklet now offered readers of the Record News, includes examples of practically every kind of communication that anyone is ever called upon to indite. Indeed, about the only form that is not given is the letter a person would leave when he was shuffling off this mortal coil in a hurry.

It is an invaluable reference book and has a place on every desk. In ordering a copy, write name and address carefully, enclose ten cents in stamps or coin, and address the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Sub to Use Queer 'Eyes' To Study Ice of North Pole

Here are shown the first detailed drawings of Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine, depicting novel devices to be employed in exploring ice of Arctic regions.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, July 17. (AP)—Science will give strange, new eyes to the submarine in which Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to sail under the north pole ice pack next summer.

Down in the cold, mile-deep waters that stretch for more than 1,000 miles over the top of the world, underneath a sheet of ice so thick that light barely penetrates, the submarine crew will be able to "see" the thickness of ice above by a device novel even to this age of scientific marvels.

Part of this "eye" is the trolley, a wheel over the conning tower, placed much like a dorsal fin. The submarine's buoyancy is expected to hold this trolley wheel up against the under surface of the ice by a stocky trolley arm, that springs up and down like the trolley pole of a street car.

The angle between this arm and the perpendicular shifts back and forth and gives one of the bases for computation of the thickness of ice.

Another part of this strange "seeing" comes from the readings of the usual depth instruments. True, the new "eye" is mathematical, but it is accurate and more desirable than sticking out a head in 29-degree water for a "look."

This and other new devices are described by Lieut.-Com. Sloan Danenhower, who, with Simon Lake, the submarine inventor, will remodel the United States navy submarine O-12 and sail her for Wilkins.

Where the pack ice is no more than 10 feet, the summertime average thickness of this polar sea, the O-12 can thrust upward a special telescoping conning tower. It will be made to rise about 15 feet above the sub's back and to push up through the ice pack into daylight.

This tower will take the place of the present forward disappearing gun. Danenhower says the gun housing fits this purpose "beautifully."

Two forward torpedo tubes on either side will be turned into searchlight ports, while the two tubes below them become observation stations.

Forward, in the bottom, will be a trap door, with a special chamber above it, enabling divers to step out, climb around beneath and up the side of the sub to prowl under the ice carrying portable underwater search lights. They will be equipped also to set dynamite charges.

Finally, this huge Arctic fish will have a collapsible steel antenna, 50 feet tall, to thrust up from one of its two periscopic openings.

This antenna is to be a cored, boring instrument capable of drilling 50 feet of ice. Breaking through the pack, it will become a tube for renewing the air in the entire submarine.

For warmth the crew will rely on electric stoves. All in all Commander Danenhower considers the prospects good for one of the most comfortable and most efficient scientific voyages ever undertaken in polar regions.

"Danger?" he says. "There is no comparison so far as hazards go, compared with those of the flight Wilkens made from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen.

"At first thought nearly everyone regards this expedition as extra hazardous. The explorers who have seen this calm, Arctic summertime sea are always exceptions. It is remarkable how quickly a study of the known facts and probabilities causes a change in the first unfavorable opinion.

"We have an expression of confidence from the American Geophysical union, and the American Geographical society has studied the plans and believe the voyage to be feasible.

"Further, this society considers that the scientific results secured by the new methods of polar exploration will be of a kind not attainable by the methods hitherto employed."

She didn't know what to think. Whalen evidently knew her, had known her for years. She hated to believe what he had suggested. That she was a crook, a thief, a confidence woman. A thief. He, too, was a crook. Neglecting her mother.

Kay strode on fiercely. She was numb with the pain of what she had heard. A ray of hope entered her mind. Perhaps, perhaps, Jim Whalen had been mistaken. Had confused her with someone else.

The hope died. He had been so sure. So horribly sure.

Her past was assuming gigantic proportions. It leered at her, taunted her all the way home on the subway . . .

Runaway Wife Gets Homesick After Four Days Spent in Foreign Jail

NEW YORK, July 17. (AP)—Prescription for treatment of wives who quarrel with their husbands.

Take one sea voyage, add four days in prison, and mix well with repentance. One dose effects complete cure.

Young Mrs. Donald Patten got into an argument with the railroad switchman husband she married last May. She was so angry she walked right out of the house and right onto the liner Ile De France.

"I'm a stowaway," she told the purser—but she didn't tell him until the ship was well out to sea.

She was put to work in the ship's hospital and at Havre she was sent to jail. Four days of that and Mrs. Patten couldn't remember what the argument with her husband had been about. All she was sure of was that she had been wrong.

Then money arrived from the husband and back she sailed. Today they were reunited, with promises on both sides not to quarrel any more.

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

the day's grind demands men of unusual Vitality

"Oh! fine"

you want to feel the same way

BUSINESS today requires that the successful man be physically fit and mentally alert.

Men, especially, forget themselves physically. Their work demands practically all their time. They do not exercise enough. They get little or no sunshine. They are robbed of a good appetite . . . and when their red-blood-cells fall below normal their flesh becomes flabby, their nerves unsteady. Their strength must be reinforced.

Soundness of body and peace of mind depend upon the proper number of red-cells in the blood—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red-cell count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.

Suit Over Death Of Dog on Trial Here

The $1,000 damage suit brought against the Southern Bus company in behalf of C. W. Frensley, growing out of a claim that one of the company's buses ran over and killed a valuable German police dog belonging to Frensley, was brought to trial Thursday afternoon in the 78th district court with Cedric Taylor, local attorney, acting as special judge.

Frensley's petition states the dog's name was Bub V. Hohenzollern and attorneys for the plaintiff Thursday afternoon introduced testimony to prove the dog was a descendant of Strongheart, the famous motion picture dog, and was valued at $1,200. The local law firm of Mathis & Caldwell is representing Frensley while W. P. Smith is attorney for the bus company. Mr. Talyor occupied the bench by agreement of attorneys because Judge W. W. Cook was occupied with matters pertaining to another case.

Storey Assails Moody's Record

county this year 500 poll tax receipts were issued. The law requires that the word 'alien' be stamped on these receipts if they are issued to a foreigner. Two-thirds of the voters in Webb county are Mexicans, yet only one tax receipt in that county bore the word 'alien' and that was for a Jew. Bobbitt has never been elected to office in Texas except by a ring."

At this point Mr. Storey read from a Spanish ballot from Webb county, used for the Mexicans there, which gave instructions as to what candidates to vote for, the speaker charging that instruction booths are maintained there to mark the ballots for Mexicans. The ballot from which he read, the speaker charged gives the name of Bobbitt as the club's candidate, with written instructions on the ballot to leave his name clear and scratch the name of his opponent. Mr. Storey also charged that Bobbitt disregarded the plea of the Hildalgo county good government league for an investigation of illegal balloting there because Bobbitt is a member of and supported by the political ring there, the ring charged with illegal practices.

"The mineral wealth underneath the penitentiary lands," the speaker went on, "should belong to the state and should be used to make the prison system self-supporting. Yet the mineral rights belong to various oil companies. On one penitentiary tract, the Humble Oil company produced 4,000,000 barrels of oil and the president of the prison commission owned 200 shares in the Humble company while another prominent politician owned 800 shares."

Attacks Moody

Mr. Storey attacked Moody for his proposed state income tax, his short ballot proposal, by which the governor could appoint several of the most important officials in the state government; his proposed civil service bill and his veto of the Small land bill.

"I am glad to say, however, that the Small bill passed the legislature over Dan Moody's veto. The bill would remove the antiquated question of 'navigable streams' in Texas, which was never meant to apply to the sand-bed streams of South, East and West Texas, yet Lee Bobbitt filed an application for a writ of error after the repassage of the bill and it is now pending before the supreme court. Then Bobbitt soft-soaps the people of the Panhandle by telling them he will not bring land suits on technicalities.

"Dan Moody wants to promote his dynasty in Texas even though he has been a miserable failure in the governor's office. He has not passed an important bill in two years. To show you some of his disgusting statements, he told the legislature he did not blame prisoners for escaping from the kind of prison we have and did not blame jurors for refusing to convict men who would have to go to our penitentiary.

"When Dan Moody says 'if I and the Fergusons are elected, the attorney general's office will be run by the Fergusons,' he knows he is telling a pure falsehood with no basis on truth. Dan Moody's ambition is as unbounded as his ability is limited. They pulled him when he was too green.

"Instead of having about 12 school boy assistants down there, if I am elected I will provide a group of experienced and efficient lawyers who will endeavor to enforce all the laws which the people of Texas should have enforced. If I cannot enforce the anti-trust laws, I'll ask the legislature to pass new ones that can be enforced."

BOYS CONFESS TRAIN WRECK

Youngsters Place Spike On Railroad

BALTIMORE, July 17. (AP)—Clarence Preston, 14, and his 12-year-old cousin, Howard Bloom, today admitted to police they placed a spike on the rails of the Pennsylvania railroad track, resulting in the derailing of the locomotive, baggage car and two passenger coaches of a crack express as it entered Baltimore yesterday. No one was injured.

The two youths said they had been in the habit of placing pennies and other objects on the rails for trains to flatten out. Yesterday track spikes were their playthings and tired of waiting for a train after placing them, they left the scene to go swimming.

The two lads will be given a hearing in juvenile court tomorrow on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Britain Disfavors Plan of Uniting

PARIS, July 17. (AP)—Great Britain's response to Foreign Minister Briand's memorandum on a proposed federation of European states was received by the foreign office today. It accepts the principle of closer collaboration of European states but takes issue with the methods suggested.

Several objections to the French scheme were advanced in the British reply.

The communication stated the British government intended its present reply to be of a preliminary and tentative character, "as M. Briand's program demands careful and prolonged consideration and the British government feels it is to be its duty to undertake that consideration in consultation with its dominions."

The British reply says that the feeling that the creation of any new political institutions at the present time might "create confusion and engender rivalry," which might diminish the authority of the league of nations, causes the present reply to be designated as "preliminary and provisional."

Gas Explosion Traps Twelve Workmen in California Tunnel

CAMP MITCHELL, Calif., July 17. (UP)—Another fatal blast in one of the tunnels of the vast Hetch-Hetchy water project, in process of completion to furnish San Francisco its water supply, killed 12 men today. Ten others stumbled out alive.

A similar blast in a nearby tunnel killed seven last month.

Natural gas, which bubbles in the hills through which the water project runs, was given as the cause of both explosions. Today's, officials said, probably was caused when one of the workers picked into a natural gas pocket which was ignited, probably by a spark.

When workers outside heard the rumble some 300 feet below ground and then saw smoke rolling from the end of the tunnel, they immediately rushed in to rescue the workers near the center of the mile-long tube.

So dense was the smoke and gas, however, that they were driven back after coming upon only two bodies. It was hours before they could reach the others.

The 10 who escaped were working near the other end of the tunnel when they heard the explosion. They started running pell-mell before the onrushing gas to escape into the outer air in the nick of time.

The scene of the blast was 16 miles north of Livermore. The construction work is being done under supervision of the San Francisco water department, which has been building the Hetch-Hetchy dams, reservoirs and tunnels to bring water to San Francisco from the mountains for the last several years.

Hardeman County Feels Need of Rain

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, July 17.—Rain is badly needed in Hardeman county, and unless the continued dry weather is soon broken with good rains crops will be seriously damaged. Cotton is standing up well thus far, but feed crops are already showing signs of lack of moisture.

Stock water ponds and lakes are rapidly evaporating throughout the county. Water in the Country Club lake is at the lowest point it has reached at any time since the construction of this lake. Lake Pauline is also low.

Officials of the West Texas Utilities company say that there is no danger of the quantity becoming so limited as to affect the operation of their super-power plant located at this lake.

BANK ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD

Man Attempting to Make Deposit Arrested

ST. LOUIS, July 17. (AP)—An attempt to make $2,500 bank deposit, including an assortment of $1,080 in gold coins, led to the arrest of Henry Bostleman, 35, former convict, for investigation in the $1,000,000 looting of the safe deposit value of the Grand National bank here May 25.

Police revealed Bostleman was free under $20,000, pending a further investigation. One $2.50 gold piece, police say, bears the same date as a piece of that denomination taken from one of the teller's deposit boxes at the Grand National.

Swollen Neck Glands

Whenever you have a cold or acute tonsillitis, you probably have noticed a number of hard small lumps on both sides of the neck or under the jaw. These are swollen lymph glands of which there are six or seven hundred in various parts of the body. The largest groups of these glands are in the neck, upper chest, in the axillas under the arms, and in the groins. These glands act as filter and storage stations of the lymphatic vessels and they are frequently a battleground, where the white blood corpuscles fight disease germs and toxins.

The lymphatic circulation really is a drainage or sewage system which takes care of a large part of the fluid coming from the cells which must be purified before returning to the general blood stream.

Whenever one suffers from an infection, the lymphatic system must work overtime to get rid of the toxins and offending bacteria. This is the reason the lymph glands so often become inflamed and swollen during an acute crisis of a disease of the head and throat or other parts drained by the lymphatics. The glands in the neck enlarge rapidly during acute disorders and more slowly with chronic disorders, such as catarrh and tuberculosis.

Children especially are susceptible to enlarged lymph glands because they more often are affected by acute infectious disorders. The lymph glands become enlarged in the performance of their normal functions of filtering out toxins and bacteria and preventing them from entering the blood stream. These cases of enlarged lymph glands often are diagnosed as tubercular glands and liable to be operated on and the worst of the enlarged glands removed.

I do not believe these glands ever should be removed except as a last resort. To take out only a single lymph gland throws an additional burden on the remainder of the lymphatic system which must result in further trouble in the future. When the glands are removed and examined they seldom are found to contain tubercular baccilli.

It does not matter whether these glands are tubercular or not, it is merely a quarrel over names, and places too much attention on a dreaded disease, when the fact is there must be a definte cause of some infection in an adjacent region which is forcing the glands to enlarge. The cause must be searched for and removed, and the swollen glands then will subside as soon as they have completed their work of elimination.

After the infection has been cleared up the glands always can be made to disgorge their contents by such sensible treatment as fasting and dieting and the use of hot applications to the affected parts. An operation on the glands is not necessary to do this.

By far the greatest number of cases of swollen glands in the neck automatically would become well just by curing the acute and chronic nasal and throat catarrh which is usually present. The dieting program which I have so often outlined for catarrh, will be found to be beneficial in practically every case of swollen neck glands.

If the glands are enlarged because of tubercular infection, then the regimen I have outlined for tuberculosis should be used. But always, in treating swollen glands, treat the real cause of the trouble and not the effects.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Baby's Care

Question—G. F. P. writes: "My baby took ultra-violet ray treatments all last winter for rickets and appears to be cured, but her abdomen extends unnaturally. Should a support be worn to correct this, and if so, what kind? She is also flat-footed. How can that be taken care of? She is 18 months old."

Answer: Your child should have a diet of pure Holstein milk, each feeding to be preceded by a plentiful amount of orange juice. In six months of so some non-starchy vegetables, such as spinach and carrots should be added to the diet. Keep up the ultra-violet treatments occasionally, but you must depend on correct dieting for permanent relief. An abdominal support will not help, but the abdominal distension can be corrected when your child is old enough to take the proper exercises. This also is true about the flat feet. Send your full name and address on a large stamped envelope, and I will send you special articles on developing a flat abdomen, and also for overcoming fallen arches.

Twitching of Eyelids

Question—C. A. S. writes: "Be kind enough to advise what you would recommend for spasm of the eyelids. Have had this for over a year, but the last few months it has shown a marked improvement, in fact disappeared almost entirely, but now seems to be about as bad as when it started."

Answer: First, go to an optometrist and wear glasses if he advises you to do so. If the fault is not from eyestrain, it is caused by nervousness and enervation which can be overcome through strict adherence to the hygenic rules for healthful living which I recommend in this column each day.

Crickets Cause of Evacuation of Homes

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 17.(AP)—Some of the residents of East Greenville section had evacuated their homes and taken refuge with relatives today as the city park department moved on a horde of crickets with a spraying machine.

So far the insects had the upper hand, infesting shrubbery, devouring clothing and making sleep impossible, neighbors said, with their strident nightly chirping.

30 BEAUTIES TO CROSS STAGE IN BATHING REVUE TONIGHT

STREET MARCH LATE FRIDAY

Substantial Prizes Posted For Winners

More than 30 local firms had made final selection Thursday of their representatives in the bathing beauty revue to be staged at Lakeside park Friday night under the auspices of the Junior chamber of commerce, according to those in charge.

Registration of business concerns for representation in the parade of local young ladies attired in the latest beech costumes continued throughout Thursday, and was expected to add a number of additional sponsors Friday.

Four Judges Selected

Four of the five judges who will select Miss Wichita Falls from the bevy of chosen beauties were announced Thursday evening. Emil Hermann, local artist; Walter Nelson Jr., mayor of this city; Miss Jessie P. Street, director of the Pageant of Pulchritude to be held at Fort Worth next Sunday; and Alphonso Johnson, director of the trade extension department of the Dallas Wholesale Merchants association will be among the adjudicators. The fifth judge had been selected Thursday evening but her acceptance of the appointment had not been received by the committee in charge.

All plans for the revue were declared to be in readiness. Contestants are to meet at the Memorial auditorium at 6:30 o'clock promptly Friday evening, attired in street dresses or beach pajamas. Each will be afforded the use of a private car for the parade through the city, and will be taken directly to Lakeside park. Theater dressing rooms there will be provided for the contestants.

With Ralph Britt's orchestra furnishing music for the promenade and P. Reid Freeman as master of ceremonies, the boardwalk mermaids will saunter forth, one at a time, at 8:30 p. m. Numbers will be drawn just before that hour to determine the order of appearance. Each contestant will parade down the boardwalk, back across the stage of the open-air theater, and those who have ranked highest with the judges will be called back for a second stroll. Elimination will continue to the selection of first, second and third. The winner of first place who will be designated as Miss Wichita Falls, will receive $25 in cash, and will represent this community at Fort Worth in the Pageant of Pulchritude on July 20. Second place will pay $15 and third place $10 in the local event.

List of Contestants

Enrollment of girls and sponsors for the revue has been obtained largely through the personal efforts of Will McKenzie, Jr., Fay Hooker, and Jim Durnal, according to officials of the Junior chamber of commerce.

The registration of entrants and their sponsors as announced Thursday night was as follows:

Co.; Miss Lura Mims, Dr. C. E. Graves; (to be announced), Bailey-Moline Hardware company.

Girls whose photographs have been made, but whose names do not appear in the above list, possibly will be placed with local firms during Friday, it was announced. Should their names not be published as assigned to sponsors before the hour of the contest, they are invited by the Junior chamber of commerce to be present at Lakeside park and participate in the revue as representatives of that organization, it was stated.

Oneal Greets Friends Near Boyhood Home

Ben G. Oneal, candidate for the 23rd senatorial district nomination, returned home Thursday after a trip which carried him into Young county and the southwestern part of the district. Mr. Oneal spoke to crowds at Scotland, Eliasville and South Bend.

At South Bend and Eliasville Mr. Oneal exchanged greetings with many of his old acquaintances of Stephens county which borders Young county.

In Stephens county Mr. Oneal spent his boyhood, his parents having been pioneers in that section. In Stephens county and the adjoining Young county section, Mr. Oneal has seen remarkable changes and growth. He has seen the ranches and adjoining lands where he spent his boyhood give way to the rapid development of oil and its accompanying industries. Mr. Oneal reported that the oil business is still good in this section and thriving communities now exist where were the ranch and farming lands of this boyhood years.

COUNTY DEBT TOTAL DROPS

Treasurer's Report Shows $97,000 Cut

The net bonded debt of Wichita county on June 30, the end of the fiscal year, was $1,738,000, indicating a reduction of $97,000 during the year, according to the annual report of Tom McHam, county treasurer, forwarded to the state comptroller Thursday. Less than one-fifth of the net bonded debt represents the cost of building the courthouse and other smaller projects while the remainder is for construction of the county's highway system.

The actual amount of outstanding bonds is $2,010,000 but the county has $282,148.77 available in sinking funds for payment on bonds as they fall due, owns $28,150 in securities purchased with sinking fund money and also owns $11,000 worth of its own bonds, Mr. McHam explained.

Of the bonds of road district No. 2, issued in the sum of $1,500,000 in 1921 for road construction, a total of $1,050,000 are outstanding, while of the remaining outstanding bonds $480,000 are for special road district No. 2, refunding; $105,000 are courthouse bonds; and $134,000 are road district "B" bonds, the report shows.

The report also shows the following details: cash on hand in sinking funds, June 30, 1929, $280,495.14; collected for funds, $158,978.38; interest payment to funds by county depository, $7,617.24; and interest on outstanding bonds, $117,119.28.

4,000 Attend Free Vaudeville Bill

The weekly free vaudeville program Thursday night played to a crowd of more than 4,000 persons on the grounds of the Memorial auditorium, with many of the acts drawing such prolonged applause that the bill was drawn out considerably over the usual time taken for presentations, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent in charge of the programs.

The program as scheduled was presented with the exception of the Hawaiian 'serenaders' act and in its place two special numbers were entered. The first was Jack Pitman in comedy songs, accompanied by Mrs. Eleanor Doty at the piano. Another special number added was Max L. Ramey on the accordion, both numbers having received such applause that arrangements will probably be made to include them in another program in the near future, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

Junior C.-C. to Honor Bathing Revue Sponsors

Sponsors of the entrants in Friday night's bathing beauty revue at Lakeside park will be guests of the Junior chamber of commerce luncheon to be held in their honor at the Kemp hotel Friday noon.

Alphonso Johnson, one of the judges in the revue, and a representative of the Wholesale Merchants' association of Dallas, will speak briefly during the hour. The usual attendance prizes will be awarded, it was announced.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Greetings this happy morn, mates. I have a great message to deliver. Last night I talked with the sperrit of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Not that talking with old Sherlock's sperrit is anything unusual. Everybody seems to be doin' it, but there is some risk involved when you get to foolin' around sperrits.

It happened this way. The night's work was over when out of the gloom a ghostly spectre crawled and perched on the side of my desk.

"Good evening, sir, and may I take your news item?" says I, being a hard working soul, and thinking this person was just one more guy wanting to get his name in the papers.

"No, Mr. Bettencourt," says he. "I came to talk to you about a quite different matter. A very personal matter. In fact, a personal insult . . . ."

"Now hold up here, old timer," sez I. "How do you get that 'Mr. Bettencourt' stuff? That's not my name."

"Oh, well, pardon me, Mr. Kloza. I didn't recognize you. But you are just as guilty as Mr. Bettencourt and so I'll take it out on you and let you tell Mr. Bettencourt what I said. Since I entered this plane of life I have had not one day of rest. Every time I get settled on a cloud either you or Mr. Bettencourt knocks a leg off my chair with a home run, and it is for that reason I am here. Wait. Don't say a word until I'm through. This has reached the breaking point. In fact, you derned near broke my neck the other day. . . ."

"Well, but hold up a minute, won't you? Say I'm neither Bettencourt nor Kloza. You missed your goal by about half a mile, old timer. You're at a newspaper office, and the club house is right on down this street. But who are you anyway, and how do you rate sitting on a cloud?"

"Har-umpf!" he growls. "Why, sir, I am Sir Arthur Conan Doyle or rather his spiritual manifestation."

"You are! Great ghosts!" sez I.

"Indeed, young man, I am a great ghost," sez he. "Even now there are thousands of people all over the world trying frantically to reach me through mediums. I have come to you of my own volition, without having you bother with holding a girl's hand and going through the tedium of a transition. It was a mere accident that I reached you instead of Mr. Bettencourt or Mr. Kloza. This afternoon I was reclining on my favorite couch near Mars when a baseball nicked me in the neck, and forthwith I started for earth to get revenge. It was a far journey here and I see that I am late. In the darkness I missed my destination. But who are you?"

"Oh, great sperrit," sez I, because I was getting pretty scared by this time, and figured I ought to be polite, "my name is of no importance, for I am a sports writer. But we all like sperrits, you know."

"Ah, indeed, sew you ah a sports writah," he said, his English accent coming to the front for the first time. "Righto, then you will do. Newspapermen always have a great influence in the happenings of this world, and. . . ."

"Why, Arthur," I interrupted. "I see now that you are just an ordinary sperrit after all. If I ever had any influence on this earth I never heard of it."

"Ah, but my son," says he, getting human again with his accent. "You influence the spirit of the crowd. For instance, if you could persuade the people that home runs are not things to be applauded, you would cause a general rejoicing in the spiritual world. Never again would we be jostled out of our seats by baseballs. We would reward you by making you the earthly home of the spirits. The greatest spirits of the age would make your brain a calling point, and we would visit you nightly with messages of comfort."

"Great Jupiter!" I shouts. "Say I think my head's swimmin' now from too much sperrits. Talk the people out of home runs? Say do I see you, or don't I? Are you a real sperrit or am I groggy? If Larry Bettencourt and Jack Kloza ever hear of me talking to such a guy as you they'll run me outa town. No, Art, I mean Sir Arthur, you'd better go on back to Mars and hope the boys have a batting slump."

"Ah, well," he sighed. "Such is earth. We in the spiritual world, I see, are doomed to discomfort. With Bettencourts and Klozas on earth we at our siestas might as well be bat boys. The heavenly china is being smashed with batted balls. Even in the night we cannot sleep, for in our dreams we hear the zooming of clouted pellets. But I will try once more to stop this. You refuse to aid me. Then tomorrow night I will come to the club house and see Mr. Bettencourt and Mr. Kloza. Until then, you insect, goodbye."

Full details of Sir Arthur's conversation with Larry and Jack will be printed in this column tomorrow morning if some girl will volunteer to hold my hand so I can tune in on the talk. You've got to have a medium, you know. All girls destring the job may call me just any old time.

BETTENCOURT HITS HIS 31ST

Cy Smith Twirls Grand Game for Tribe

By FRED D. THOMPSON

One rusty cog in the Spudder shortfield went far towards losing a ball game for the Spudders Thursday afternoon.

One little rusty cog, that robbed the pitchers of support they must have if the team is going to win.

The winners were the San Antonio Indians. The score was 5 to 1. And the rusty section of the shortfield was Chappie Geygan, utility infielder playing third base for Walter Euller.

Cyrus on the Job

Of course there were other elements that entered into the Spudders' downfall. One of the greatest of those elements was the pitching of one Cyrus Smith, the former Spudder. For the first six innings, old fast-baller Cyrus allowed the Spudders only three hits, all three of them singles. In the seventh inning Bettencourt clouted his 31st home run of the season to score the only Spudder tally and Crouch got a double. And in the eighth Kloza and Burns got singles.

Earl Caldwell was not up to his old standards Thursday, and allowed five hits and three runs in the first two innings. In the first Ballew scored on his double and Flippen's single. In the second Sullivan scored on a triple and Laveque's sacrifice. Geygan bobbled Kott's clout to allow the runner to reach first. Kott then stole second and was driven in by Ballew's single.

Their fourth run was scored in the seventh. Geygan threw short to first to allow Kott for the second time in the game to reach the introductory sack on an error. Then Smith beat out a roller down the third base line that should have been handled, Kott going to second on the hit. Then while Ballew was at bat Kott stole third, when he could have been thrown out had Geygan been at his base to receive a throw from Crouch. Ballew walked. Flippen hit to Levey, who threw Kott out at the plate, Ballew taking second on the play. Schinkel forced Flippen at second, Storti to Levey, Smith scoring and Ballew going to third. Leslie grounded out to first unassisted for the third out.

They Score in Ninth

In the ninth the Tribe's last score was made. Ballew singled to third, and continued to third when Geygan threw it wildly to Burns. Flippen grounded out, second to first. Schinkel sacrificed to Fitzgerald, scoring Ballew. Leslie walked. Dondero singled to left and Kloza threw Leslie out at third for the third out.

Dick Florrid finished the game for the Spudders, Caldwell having been relieved after the seventh. The two teams meet today in the second game of the series.

'NEVER AGAIN' SAYS VETERAN

Grover Promises to Be In Shape for Spudders

DALLAS, July 19. (AP)—Thoroughly repentant and anxious to prove that he still can hurl winning ball in the Texas league, despite the loss of his fast ball, "Old Pete" Alexander applied to the Dallas Steers for reinstatement today and was taken back in the fold.

"All I want is another chance," the veteran told Bob Tarleton, vice president of the Dallas club. "I know I've made a fool of myself, but I promise it won't happen again. I'll get in there and pitch winning baseball for you."

Thus the breach that had threatened to terminate the 23-year career of the colorful star was bridged at least temporarily. Two days ago he was suspended by the Steers for failure to keep in serviceable condition. Waivers were asked and received from seven other league teams, none of which cared to take over the $1,800 a month salary Dallas is said to be paying him.

Yesterday Alec was bitter of the treatment accorded him and declared he was ready to quit the game. But the lure was too strong, and today he humbled himself to visit Tarleton at the latter's office.

Immediately after patching things up with Tarleton, Alexander took a workout and said he would be ready to pitch the first game of a double-header at Wichita Falls Sunday. He also will work at Houston on the following Thursday.

Texan in Semi-Finals Of Clay Court Tourney

KANSAS CITY, July 17. (AP)—Bruce Barnes, youthful Austin, Texas, player who has been burning up the courts this season, advanced to the semi-finals of the national clay courts tennis tournament today, defeating Wray Brown, St. Louis, 9-7, 6-0, 6-4.

Brown, who unseated the highly touted Frank Shields of New York yesterday, in five gruelling sets, was no match for Barnes after the first set. The strain of 96 games, singles and doubles, yesterday, seemed too much for the 30-year-old St. Louis veteran. Barnes, who played in only 45 games yesterday in singles and doubles, appeared fresh and seldom failed to cover the court.

The St. Louisan had match point in the first set, leading 5 games to 4 with 40-30 on the game, but lost it.

Four sections of the nation will be represented tomorrow in the semi-finals singles of the twenty-first annual national clay courts tennis tournament because a 100-pound Georgian would not be beaten.

Doubles Teams Go Into Semi-Finals

All favorites came through in the men's singles and doubles Thursday as the first round in these divisions was completed to finish the second day's play in the North Texas Tennis tournament here.

When the last net had been folded, eight contestants in the men's singles, Charles Cook, Jack Smith, Hugh Frasier, Wilbur Hess, B. B. Toone, Edd Bebb, Raymond McPhail and Tom McCarty were ready to enter the quarter final round which starts today; and four doubles teams, McCarty and McPhail, Hess and Smith, Toone and Cheek, and Cook and Frasier, were planning ahead for the semi-finals in men's doubles.

Feature Matches Today

The feature matches of today's play will be in the men's doubles. Each team is considered among the best in the state, and it is to the doubles matches that enthusiasts look for the stiffest battles of the tournament.

Five matches in men's singles were completed Thursday. Jack Smith defeat J. P. Tarry, 6-0, 6-0; Hugh Frasier defeated Olin Harvey, 6-2, 6-1; Wilbur Hess defeated S. Morris, 6-1, 6-2; Edd Bebb defeated George Shanor, 6-0, 6-4; and Tom McCarty disposed of A. McLearty, 6-[illegible] 6-4. Charles Cook and B. B. Toone won out in their first round matches Wednesday, and Raymond McPhail drew a bye in this division.

Three matches in the men's doubles were played, the fourth match, between McCarty and McPhail and the two Vaughters having been played Wednesday. Wilbur Hess and Jack Smith defeated Edd Bebb and Mike Ellis, 6-2, 6-1; B. B. Toone and Maurice Cheek defeated Wright and Morris, 8-6, 6-0; and Charles Cook and Hugh Frasier defeated McLearty and Shanor, 6-0, 6-3.

First round matches in junior singles also were completed. Wilbur Hess advanced to the semi-finals in this division through his victory over Jack Kruger, and will play the winner of the Graham-Lutz match to determine the finalist in the upper bracket. Rufus King defeated J. Cummings of Byers to advance to the semi-finals, but was defeated by Jack Smith of Fort Worth, who now is in the finals.

Boys' Singles Winners

In the boys' singles, Rufus King defeated Sam Jones, 6-2, 6-2, and Ted Norwood defeated Charles King, 6-4, 7-5. King and Norwood meet today in the finals. Norwood and John Benton advanced to the finals in boys' doubles by defeating Joyce Ford and Bill Adams, 6-2, 6-4, in the semi-finals.

In the woman's singles, Irma Cline defeated Marjorie Bright, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0, while the winner's sister, Dorothy Cline, defeated Mary Katherine Gould in the other semi-finals match. The two Cline sisters thus will meet in the finals for the title.

Marshall Field III To Wed in August

LONDON, July 17. (US)—It was reported by the Daily Sketch today that Marshall Field III, grandson of the famous Chicago merchant, will marry Mrs. Dudley Coats here in August.

Mrs. Coats, who is a close friend of the Prince of Wales, was formerly Miss Aubrey James, daughter of Mrs. William James, a widely known London hostess.

It had previously been reported that Field and Mrs. Coats would marry in New York, since Field was not sure that a Reno divorce would be recognized in England.

To instruct its younger employes in the details of shipping as well as geography, a Chicago department store has installed a miniature railroad representing a large area on its roof.

Singer Wins Lightweight Title From Mandell With Kayo

END COMES IN FIRST ROUND

25,000 Watch Battle In Yankee Stadium

YANKEE STADIUM, July 17. (AP)—Al Singer won the lightweight championship by knocking out Sammy Mandell, defending champion in the first round of a 15-round match before 25,000 people in the big ball park.

Mandell was floored four times, the last time for the knockout.

After a few seconds of sparring Singer climbed over the champion, beat him to the floor the first time with a right to the chin from which Mandell never recovered.

The young challenger stormed all over Mandell, as the champion climbed to his feet, beat him down for the count of seven, with a volley to the head nailed him with a left hook as he rose and sank him again for four before putting over the finishing punch, a straight right to the chin.

Mandell dropped as if knifed.

Mandell weighed 134½. Singer 133½.

Singer came into the ring a 3 to 1 favorite to win the title despite his youth and lack of experience as compared to Mandell's craft and ability.

While the introductions were going on a flock of gladiators ranging from Kid Chocolate, featherweight, up to Victor Campolo, heavyweight, were introduced. Tony Cansoneri, Tommy Grogan and Maxie Rosenbloom were in the group.

The referee was Arthur Donovan, the judges, Ray Farrell and George Kelly.

Singer, dark, sleek and extremely nervous beat the champion into the ring a few seconds. Mandell, composed and quiet followed him. Both were cheered wildly.

The fight by rounds:

Round one—Singer, tanned deep brown, was so eager he could hardly wait to get to the champion while to Mandell this was an old story. Singer bounced sideways from his corner, flicked out a left at the champion, apparently unhampered by the weight and in splendid condition, easily parried after a left hook dropped Mandell for a count of two. A right floored him for seven. Druggily he reeled under Singer's smashing attack and fell to the ropes. He came up at three. Singer nailed him again.

Cleveland Defeats Washington, 4 to 3

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 17. (AP)—Willis Hudlin and the veteran Sam Jones staged a sharp pitching duel today as the Cleveland Indians defeated Washington, 4 to 3, in the third game of their series. The biggest kick of the game was Eddie Morgan who drove three of the four runs, the two first in the opening inning with his 17th homer of the season just after Porter had doubled. Score:

Losing Hoss Writes Bitterly Of 'Fox' in Epistle to Scribe Damon

By DAMON RUNYON

NEW YORK, July 17.—Crack Brigade has written me a letter. Crack Brigade is "Doc" Cassidy's good colt that finished second to Gallant Fox in the Wood, and also in the Preakness, Crack Brigade ran in the Kentucky Derby, but wound up deep down in the blue grass behind "the Fox."

Crack Brigade's letter, hastily scratched on a piece of wrapping paper off a package of horse liniment, is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Runyon: I have seen your picture in the paper, and you seem to have a kind face, though rather plain, and I judge you are a feller who would be nice to dumb animals, such as horses. I therefore write you to do me a favor. I want you to get word somehow to Gallant Knight, and tell him as a tip from one who knows enough to lay off that Gallant Fox from now on, and forever.

"Please notify G. K. that he is having truck with one of the most cruel and designing characters in the world, and that he is sure to have his heart busted if he continues to hang out with Foxy. If he doesn't believe it, tell him to look at my heart.

"I see by the papers that Foxy has permitted G. K. to finish second to him for a second time. This is just the come-on. Old Foxy wants to take him out a third time, and that will be the time when G. K. will wind up with a busted heart. It is all part of Foxy's game. He is a natural born heart buster.

"I do not know Gallant Knight's address, or I would drop him a line myself. I met him down in Louisville when were there attending the derby, and we had a pleasant chat over a tub of bran. He struck me as a horse of very good character, even if he hasn't much family behind him.

"You know his father was really a nobody. G. K. comes from some wide place in the road down in Virginia, and is very countrified and innocent, but he has many sterling qualities.

"In fact, it was his simplicity that endeared him to me, Mr. Runyon, and I write you in the hope that we may preserve this nice country boy from the city slicker, Foxy. I have personally hung up my uniform, and will have nothing to do with Foxy again, but it is plain to me that he is trying to use G. K. as he used me.

"His scheme is as follows:

"He gets some unsuspecting young fellow, such as I was in the beginning, to go out with him on various pretexts, well knowing that the fast life he leads is bound to ruin his companion. He lures his victims on with the promise of fat rewards in the way of purses, and then he steps in and nabs the dough himself. He is really a mean old thing, Mr. Runyon.

"Take my own case for example. I was an upstanding, sprightly lad, and the pride of honest old Doctor Cassidy's heart when I first met with Foxy in the Wood Memorial, and I would have won that heat hoofs down if Foxy hadn't whispered in my ear: 'You let me take this little one, and you can have the next big one.'

"Well, I was a fool, and I listened, Mr. Runyon, and the Wood Memorial stake went to Foxy. I knew the Preakness was coming up, and the Preakness is worth real sugar compared to the Wood. If you recall that race at Pimlico, you will remember that I hopped right out on top like breaking sticks, and had settled down to a light jog while Foxy was still back there arguing with the starter.

"Suddenly, to my great surprise, I found him alongside looking me in the eye. I know now, of course, that he had an outboard motor concealed on his person, and with a fair wind at his stern, he couldn't help making good speed. But I thought nothing of his presence, recalling his promise in the Wood, and we trotted along side by side, chatting pleasantly of this and that.

"Near the finish line, I was startled to hear him suddenly remark: "'Ah! I see a man I wish to see down there.'

"And without further ado, he turned on his outboard motor to its highest pitch and left me back there with only a silly looking dame named Snowflake for company. He took me completely by surprise, Mr. Runyon, and I consider it a dirty trick.

"But I bided my time. We light brigade people are long suffering, but we never forget. I knew him now for a detestable enemy, so when we went down into Kentucky I felt I was prepared against his most insidious plots.

"But here again he deceived me. Instead of taking off quietly, and in a respectable manner, old Foxy tore out from the lift of the barrier, and kept on running as fast as he could to the backside. There he seemed to ease up slightly, though I will always believe it was because his outboard motor was missing, and I heard him call to me:

"'Come on there, Crack Brigade, old pay, and keep me company.'

"I figured he had repented his past sins of deception, and hastened up to him, but he immediately began running so fast that I felt a slight pressure on my eyeballs trying to keep up. However, he deliberately kicked a chunk of dirt in my face, thus adding injury to insult.

"It was then I said to myself, Mr. Runyon, 'No more.' Never again, I said to myself, would I be the victim of this egg, because never again would I go out with him. I resigned. I folded. Life is too short to be made a sucker of all the time. Furthermore, my heart was busted.

"P. S.—I think they ought to take Foxy's outboard motor away from him."

According to the current number of Judge, The Pathfinder, one of the more amusing jokebooks of Washington, D. C., is credited with: "The reason floorwalkers wear flowers in their buttonholes is that they won't stay in their hair!"

Some of us on Broadway can remember all the way back when it was told about chorus boys.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 17. (AP)—Early advances on complaints of continued dry weather in western and central belt sections combined with fairly steady Liverpool cables were followed by partial reactions in cotton here today.

Offerings were comparatively light, however, and after selling off from 12.94, to 12.79, the new October contract closed at 12.87 compared with 12.77 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 12 points.

July was relatively weak selling off to 12.80 under liquidation accompanied by reports that notices representing about 2,400 bales of cotton had been issued. Old October sold off from 13.20 to 13.06 while the new December declined to 12.98 which carried the market about 13 points net lower on July and within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations on the new crop months.

Reports of further showers in the eastern belt were commented upon by some traders as likely to promote boll weevil activity, but others considered the eastern belt weather favorable for plant development. Dry weather in central and western sections was more generally emphasized by local brokers as the factor on the advance, although some traders thought they saw indications for some showers in the West within the next day or two.

Liverpool cables reported covering and trade buying in that market and said there was an improved inquiry for cotton cloths from China. Exports today 11,179 making 6,762,975 so far this season. Port receipts 1,367. U. S. port stocks 1,593,205.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 17. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today except for a spurt of activity right at the start, despite indifferent cables. Prices opened 3 points up, and continued to gain in early trading on reports from New York of more activity in the goods trade and mills buying, gaining 15 to 16 points on active new crop months. The market later lost most of the gain owing to a forecast for showers in West Texas. December made a new low 14 points below the highs but gradually recovered about half of the loss. After midsession, the market continued to rule quiet with prices keeping within the previous range but nearer the highs than the lows. The general market closed steady at net gains for the day of 7 to 9 points.

Liverpool came in 1 point better to 2 worse than due and first trades here showed gains of 3 points and continued to gain in the early trading. October traded up to 12.95 and December to 13.15, up 15 to 16 points.

The market then became quiet and gradually lost all of the gain. December made a new low at 13.01, down 14 points from the high. The market recovered 8 points after midsession but ruled very quiet.

Late trading was quiet and prices kept within the earlier range. October closed at 12.89 and December at 13.06 or 7 to 9 points net higher.

Port receipts 1,125, for week 12,959, for season 8,603,117, last season 9,487,432. Exports 11,179, for week 29,161, for season 6,585,893, last season 7,857,395. Spurts in Stock Leaders Spread Sudden Nervousness in Bear Camp

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 17. (US)—The stock market continued today to confound its critics and cause additional nervousness in the bear camp. While lacking the broad enthusiasm apparent earlier in the week, the market nevertheless maintained a satisfactory undertone which encouraged renewed onslaughts against the bear crowd in numerous stocks. The short interest contributed considerably to the display of strength and its extensive proportions surprise even the most aggressive friends of the market. In various stocks it was apparent that short covering more than any other single factor was responsible for the advance, which in numerous issues exceeded five points for the day. In certain leading stocks there was an appearance of heaviness, although prices were marked up to continue the demonstration of strength throughout the list. A sudden spurt in several leading railroad stocks did much to offset the feeling that the market was entitled to a rest after its very satisfactory performance recently. Transactions for the day approximated two and a half million shares. The grain markets showed softer tendencies, but held fairly well considering the overnight news the government was disinclined to accumulate additional amounts of wheat. Money was available at 2 per cent throughout the day.

Sharp advances in speculative issues was best proof that the shorts were being squeezed. National Cash Register, dormant for a long time, suddenly rushed upwards to close over 11 points higher. There was no news to account for this spectacular action. Vanadium again was turned over in enormous volume and attained a new high as many exaggerated estimates of earnings were broadcast. The immense volume of trading in the stock, which in the last few days has exceeded the total capitalization, itself answers the talk that long-pull accumulation was taking place.

A very large short interest had contested the advance in Vanadium, which 30 or 40 points lower was bought by long-pull semi-investors. Now, however, the pool in the stock is anxious to disseminate various bullish stories which when run down prove to be mere hopes. The first six months of 1930, according to one story, resulted in the $3 dividend being almost twice earned, whereas it is understood that net actually ran close to the $3.13 reported for the first half of 1929. The more interesting question in connection with the Vanadium six-months report is whether non-recurring income swelled the earnings to be disclosed.

While shorts were being badly trimmed in such issues as Auburn, Johns-Manville and others which had been heavily sold by the bears, the leading stocks generally were holding close to the previous day's prices. Steel common attained a new high and closed at 165½, up ⅝. American Telephone recovered the previous day's decline of 3¼ points, but Union Carbide, General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors showed less than a point net change. Worthington Pump, in which a strong group recently resumed activities, was up an additional few points, the pool being helped along by some high-grade buying for the account of interests attracted more by its long-pull possibilities than by its near-future prospects. Although Consolidated Gas improved over a point, most of the utilities were inclined to lower levels, United Corporation showing continued sluggishness. National Power & Light, however, continued in large-scale demand and closed up a fraction, but the buying was attributed to the best-informed interests.

Constructionists, in their obvious endeavor to maintain a friendly sentiment toward the market, turned from one leader to another to generate enthusiasm. When other recent leaders turned irregular or dull, American Can was taken in hand. The stock is the particular favorite of one of the most powerful groups now operating in the market on the bull side.

American Can, they argue, is a natural leader. The stock closed up over four points to a new high on the present recovery. It is now up over 20 points from the low. The motion picture stocks were the strongest single group, Fox being in particular demand and advancing over two points additional as buying continued for the account of people closest to its situation, who declare that its prospects make the high yield appear out of line with other leading stocks. General Theatres moved up in sympathy with Fox, while Paramount, Loews and Warner also achieved gains of about a point or more.

Standard of New Jersey scored a slight net advance as its sponsors continued large-scale activity in the issue. Sinclair reacted upon announcement of its deal with Standard of Indiana whereby the latter secures full interest in Sinclair Pipe Line company and Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, for a consideration to Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation of $72,500,000, in cash. New York Central spurted over three points, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania and other leading rails about a point each. Simmons company, which harbors an extensive short interest, reflected considerable covering by advancing over three points. The market as a whole, however, seemed inclined to rest after its vigorous recovery.

Maintenance of the rediscount rate by the local federal reserve bank and the $40,000,000 increase in brokers' loans was in line with expectation. The reserve rate is low enough if general business needs the stimulus of easy credit, and the increased loans reflect the higher level of prices since the last report was issued

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 17. (AP)—Premiums for high protein wheat slumped badly on the Fort Worth cash grain market Thursday on the announcement that Mexico's needs were temporarily supplied. The trade in this high protein grain was irregular during the day and values were largely guess work with most bids showing little advance over the ordinary wheat. Good demand was reported for milling wheat on the basis of 92½@93c for ordinary number 1 hard delivered Texas points while exporters were bidding 92@92½c for ordinary wheat delivered Texas gulf ports.

Demand for sorghums was strong but offerings very ligh while corn, oats and barley were fairly easy to sell.

Estimated receipts—Wheat, 174 cars; corn, 5; oats, 3; barley, 6, and sorghums, 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 96½@97½c; No. 2 white $1.04@1.04½; No. 2 yellow 98½@99c.

Oats—No. 2 red 43@44c.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 56@57c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.70@1.80; No. 2 kaffir nominally $1.68@1.70.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group one points No. 2 mixed corn 95@96c. No. 2 white corn $1.02½@1.03; No. 2 yellow corn 97@97½c. No. 3 white oats 45@45½c, to which add 1c for delivery Texas group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 17. (AP)—Enlarging receipts of wheat here and at other primary centers, together with greater skepticism shown as to crop damage reports, finally over-burdened wheat prices today.

After an unusually numerous succession of advances and setbacks in quotations, the market ruled lower in the late dealings despite an authoritative, unofficial summary suggesting that the spring wheat harvest in the four principal states would be 19,000,00 bushels less than the government's July 1, forecast. Primary receipts of wheat in the United States today, including 309 cars at Chicago, totaled 3,886,000 bushels, against 2,386,000 bushels a week ago.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady, ¼@⅜c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ⅝c down, oats ¼c off to ⅛c up, and provisions varying from 42c decline to 15c advance.

One of the handicaps to friends of higher prices was a Washington report that the administration has determined upon practically abandonment of the stabilization feature of the agricultural marketing act except in an emergency, and then only when the farm board is convinced that the emergency will be transient. Word that black rust has spread into Canada and in some cases is attacking the stems of wheat was received as the day drew to an end, but was without any pronounced market effect.

Corn weakened after a forecast was out pointing to likelihood of showers and cooler weather for much of the corn belt.

Announcement that the Iowa crop prospect has been reduced 20,000,000 bushels since July 1 was a stimulus to early buying, but for at least the time being seemed to lose effect in the face of expected better weather and as a result of late downturns in wheat values. Oats were higher early, but reacted with other grains.

For the most part, provisions were firmer, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September 88⅛@88⅜c, 91⅛@91⅝c; December, 94⅛@95c, 97⅛@97⅜c. Corn—July, 69⅝c, 83c; September, 75⅛@75⅜c, 78⅜c; December, 69⅛c, 71⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, July 17. (US)—Buyers were discouraged by the late reaction in wheat and sold out stuff they had purchased in the early trading. However, the friendlier sentiment continued, with many traders feeling that unless heavy rains are received Northwest at once the market must make some better response to the bullish news from there and from Europe.

Winthrop, Mitchell & company say: "Sentiment has apparently reached a stage where only bearish developments are given attention. We must not forget that when prices were 60 cents higher the reverse was the case. We feel that speculative sentiment is just as wrong now as it was a year ago and will be proven so eventually."

Siebel C. Harris, of Scott, Burrows & Christie, says: "Last year's prices were bulled out of all reason on crop damage reports. The result was a falling off in foreign demand and a decline in prices during the latter half of the season. This year we have just the reverse. Prices are at an extremely low level which should stimulate increased consumption abroad and we have no doubt that wheat will go into consumptive channels at a very great rate."

Following reports of rust in wheat in Manitoba, it was reported the Manitoba Agricultural college have men in the field inspecting for rust. A report to the trade and press is scheduled for Saturday, Winnipeg wires said.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, July 17. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by steady to 25c higher prices on hogs. Shipping demand was fairly broad but packers at several points bought sparingly. The day's extreme top of $9.80 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis. Offerings were around 64,800.

Curtailed receipts had a stimulating influence on the trade to beef steers and yearlings at several points with some strength reported on the better grades of native grain feds.

A general rain would do much to stimulate the buying of stocker and feeder steers. Three loads of medium to good 840-pound white faced Texas feeders sold at $6.25 in Kansas City. Receipts were estimated at 21,500.

Fat lambs moved slowly at values unevenly steady to 25c lower than Wednesday's late trade. Mature classes of sheep were little changed. Washington lambs in Chicago cleared at $10.50 to $10.75, while at Omaha and Kansas City best range lambs cashed at $10.40. The supply approximated 37,800.

Seven loads of good to choice fed steers found a coastal outlet, a 5-car string of well conditioned 1,419 pound beeves bringing $8.25 and a two-car shipment of good medium weights selling at $7.75. Packers brought less desirable grades of slaughter steers sold at $7.25, $6.25 and less. Butcher cows changed hands mostly from $3.75 to $4.50 and low cutter sorts moved around $2.25 to $3.00.

Slaughter calves and bulk of the crop sold at further declines of around 25 cents. Good heavy fat calves were reported from $7.00 to $7.50 and other weighty averages ranged downward from around $6.75.

OPERATORS TO MEET HERE

Oil Men to Study State Proration Plan

The North Texas Oil and Gas association has issued an invitation to all producers in the North and West Texas districts to attend a meeting to be held at the Wichita club in Wichita Falls at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, July 19.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the various phases of the crude situation and the proposed proration for the different fields throughout the state as was recommended by a general committee of the Mid-continent Oil and Gas association in conjunction with other independent associations in Texas.

The report was recently submitted by an experienced geologist and engineer who was engaged by this committee, the report to be presented sometime Thursday to the railroad commission at Austin for its consideration.

At a meeting of the North Texas Oil & Gas association held Wednesday the report was reviewed and a committee composed of P. B. Flynn and E. H. Eddleman was appointed to call on the railroad commission and present their views and to learn from the commission what is the plan in regard to the North and West Texas districts.

PRORATE PLAN HEARING SET

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, July 17.—The Texas railroad commission today set July 30 as the date for a hearing on state-wide oil proration based on the purchasers' requirements to apply the new common purchaser and pipe line law, under which priority will be given to settled pumper production over flush fields. In the opinion of the officials of the land and gas conservation bureau the plan will discourage new drilling except in response to the buyers' demands.

Blaine Asks U. S. To Intercede in Dispute

WASHINGTON, July 17. (AP)—A resolution calling upon the state department to use its influence in the dispute between India and the British government was introduced today by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, but no effort was made for immediate action.

The resolution cited charges of "atrocities" by Great Britain in her rule over India. It proposed that the senate "deplore such acts of violence, infamy and inhumanity committed by one signatory of the Kellogg pact against another signatory of the peace pact; and that as India is an original signatory of the Kellogg-Briand peace act, the United States instructs the state department to use its best offices to insure peaceful settlement of the Indian struggle with no abridgement of the just rights of the people of India who are seeking to emulate our own national independence."

TWO MARINES DIE IN CRASH

Members of Nicaragua Force Meet Death

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 17. (UP)—Two United States marines were killed when their airplane crashed near here yesterday.

The pilot, Walter Pounders of Colt, Ark., was killed instantly, and his companion, Sergeant Chambers Martin of Barlow, Ohio, died shortly after the crash.

POUNDERS CALLED "MIGHTY NICE BOY"

WYNNE, Ark., July 17. (AP)—Recollections of a "mighty nice boy" who joined the marine corps to seek a change from the life of this rural section were told here today by Lee Fitzpatrick, Wynne storekeeper, when he learned that his friend, Walter Lee Pounders, had been killed in the Nicaraguan service.

Pounders lived at Colt, a town of less than 300 inhabitants in the adjoining county of St. Francis. His brother, James S. Pounders is known there as "Jim," a farmer.

"Walter was a mighty nice boy," Fitzpatrick said. "He was well thought of here, and everybody liked him."

The owner of the only telephone at Clot said he would send word to "Jim" of his brother's death.

Rajah Yogi to Wake Girl At Lakeside Sunday

Rajah Yogi, Indian magician who has been appearing at Lakeside park since Tuesday evening, will be retained as a feature attraction on the entertainment at the park until Sunday evening, it was announced by L. L. Albritton, general manager of the park.

The Rajah will appear at the bathing revue being sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce Friday and will also be presented at each free vaudeville at the lake at which time he will answer any quesiton asked by a member of the congregation, Mr. Albritton said.

Miss Josephine Smith who was hypnotized and buried alive Tuesday evening will be brought out of her coma Sunday evening at the free vaudeville performance, instead of on Thursday evening as was originally planned. Miss Smith, who is receiving air through a pipe leading into the case in which she is lying, was reported to be in good condition by local health officials.

Rotarians Hear Talk By Oklahoma Pastor

Members of the Rotary club were exhorted Thursday noon by Rev. R. Frank Mitchell of Sapulpa, Okla., to personify in their daily lives the principles upon which the Rotary code of ethics is founded.

Speaking on "Serving the World Through Service Clubs," Reverend Mitchell stated that the ideals which dominate the declared principles of Rotary originated with Christ. Urging that character-building is the chiefest aim of Rotary, the speaker declared that "a man can have nothing finer said of him than that he is in life what Rotary teaches."

Walter K. Campbell was in charge of the program. J. C. Hunt introduced the speaker. Musical numbers by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd completed the program.

Italy imported more automobiles in 1929 than the previous year, principally from the United States, while exports of Italian cars suffered a further drop.

MAJESTIC: "The Cuckoos," with Bert Wheeler and Robt. Woolsey keeping the audience howling. A record breaker. Talking news and a special feature for Friday night's last show.

STRAND: Clara Bow in "Love Among the Millionaires," with little Mitzi Green, "Skeets" Gallagher and Stuart Erwin in the cast. Talkie news. Screen song and comedy.

STATE: Hoot Gibson in "Trailing Trouble," with talking news and novelty acts.

GEM: "Beyond the Rio Grande," all talking. Comedy.

"The Cuckoos" is the success of the day at the Majestic. We are left one against the crowd. Things we just see do not rest and amuse us. It takes something we feel.

Good news for the folk who attend the 9:35 performance at the Majestic Friday night. George Bancroft in "The Wolf of Wall Street" will be an added attraction.

Wonder how many theater goers know that each Friday night, the play for which the greatest number of requests is made, is brought back as a special added feature. Write for what you want.

Did you know that "The Bad One" in which Dolores Del Rio appears with Edmund Lowe at the Majestic Saturday is her first all-talking picture and is reported to be her best?

It is interesting to think that the beautiful little brunet, just a few inches over five feet, is one of the largest property owners in Mexico, that her hobby is gardening and that she has one of the finest exhibits of desert flora in existence.

Over at the State we have just seen Hoot Gibson. A row of small boys waited in front to get their tickets, so we found in the beginning where his popularity lies.

The audience must have been 90 per cent juvenile. Hoot can ride.

ELECTRA HEARS TALKS TONIGHT

Candidates to Appear In Third Gathering

Wichita county candidates will hold their third political rally and speaking engagement Friday evening at Electra, when candidates for district, county and Electra precinct offices will address the voters of that section in the open air at a place not yet selected, according to an announcement Thursday from the arrangements committee.

The addresses will probably be delivered from a speaking stand on some main street, it was said. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock. An Electra man will be selected to preside and each talk will be limited to five minutes, as at the previous speakings in the county. The county candidates will hold only two more scheduled rallies, one at Iowa Park Tuesday night and the last at the Memorial auditorium here Wednesday night before the primary Saturday, July 26.

A number of the candidates Thursday evening accepted invitations to attend an ice cream supper and entertainment at the Cashion school on the Burkburnett road, where they delivered brief talks to the voters of that community.

There we have complimented him all we can. But youth's thirst for adventure finds some sating in all the hairbreadth escapes through which he goes. He laughed, but we still wonder if he can laugh.
