Aransas: What's In a Name?

Being A Short Recounting of the History and Legend of A Section of the Texas Gulf Coast

By Rev. Thomas L. Meany
Pastor of St. Mary Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Aransas Pass. Formerly assistant pastor of Sacred Heart Church in Rockport.

Aransas has always been an intriguing word to all who meet it. Post office workers and residents alike have been plagued with all types of misspellings and wrong pronunciations of the name. Aransas is a name that is carried by no less than two cities, a major bay of Texas and the United States coastline, a county in Texas, a major river in Texas, as well as numerous government and private organizations. The rare whooping crane puts the spotlight of world-wide attention on the species' winter home, the Aransas Wildlife Refuge.

Names of places are opening door to past events. "What's in a name?" was asked long ago. The curious have looked into the name Aransas and came up with different answers. The answers we propose are not meant to be final. They are given to carry along the traditions of a place crossed by some of the most colorful actors on the stage of American history.

Aransas, like most names in the New World, is traced to the Indian language or the language of the first European explorers. Some say that the word Aransas belonged to the Karankawa Indian language. If it did, most likely some word the Indians were saying resembled the sound of a word already familiar to Europeans. In this case, Europeans of the Iberian Peninsula. The name of Texas is one of these instances.

The word chosen by explorers of the Texas Gulf Coast was the well known (to them) name of Aranzazu. The Texas Almanac says that Aransas County was named for the Rio Nuestra Senora de Aranzazu, or the River of Our Lady of Aranzazu. For us today it is the Aransas River draining into Copano Bay at Bayside and Aransas Bay at Live Oak Point above Rockport and Fulton, Texas.

A monument along side of Highway 35 in Rockport, placed by the Texas State Highway Department gives the Rio Nuestra Senora de Aranzazu as the origin of the many place names in the Aransas area.

The interesting question which still remains unanswered is exactly who put this title upon the map of Texas and Why? The Aransas Bay Reporter published in Rockport, Texas says that our Lady of Aranzazu was the name given to a stream, now (believed to be the San Jacinto River, by Joaquin de Orobio Basterra, who made the first exploration of the lower Trinity River. He is credited by some to be one of the discoverers of Corpus Christi Bay. More about that later.

What we do know about Orobio y Basterra is that he was a captain of the army of New Spain. He was under the command of the Governor Jose de Escandon. Escandon had the task of colonizing the entire Texas Gulf Coast with the purpose of keeping out the French colonist from nearby Louisiana. The mission-fortress which today is La Bahia of Goliad was located on the Guadalupe River near Meyersville. It was ordered that the fortress and mission of La Bahia be moved to safer ground. Orobio y Basterra picked out the site of the present Bahia of Goliad. With the men under his command, he moved all the equipment and families of the Bahia Mission and Presidio from the site on the Guadalupe River, to the site near Goliad in the year 1749. By February 1, 1750 the Presidio of La Bahia was built and Orobio turned over his command to a new officer, Captain Manuel Ramirez de la Pizina. This information is given to place Orobio y Basterra in history during the 1700's. He could not have been one of the discoverers of Corpus Christi Bay since that work was done by Alonzo de Pineda who mapped the entire Texas coast in 1519. There can be a connection with Orobio y Basterra which we will look at after seeing the name Aranzazu in area history.

It may help to recall some places more familiar, before we go any further. The settlers of the New World, both North and South America, had the habit of naming places after the homes they had left behind. So we come upon New Amsterdam among the Dutch, New York, and New Jersey, among the English, and New Spain among the Iberian colonies of the New World. Even towns got their names from favorite places in the Old World, e.g., Boston, Rochester, Newark, New Orleans, etc.

The Spanish in governing their new empire divided Mexico into districts named after old Spain. The north of Spain itself, contains the Basque territory, a fiercely independent people who pride themselves on their own language and culture. Surrounded by the mountains of the Pyrenees and washed by the water of the Bay of Biscay or Viscaya, they honor as national patroness the Virgin of Aranzazu.

Going over Horan's "History of the American West" we noticed a map printed in Holland in the 1780's which shows the northern colonies of Mexico as New Biscaya or the new Basque land. Among the political subdivisions of the area was the Colony of New Santander. All of the area of the state of Texas belonged to this section of the Intendencia of San Luis Potosi, Mexico. San Luis Potosi was therefore the capital city of Northern New Spain or New Biscaya, of which Texas was no small part. Perhaps a visit to San Luis Potosi would help bring us more knowledge of Aransas. The first teaching of the Indians at Potosi took place in 1583. The Franciscan Convent was established there in 1590-91. The Franciscan Church still stands in San Luis Potosi, and the Convent or Monastery remains, though part has been destroyed to make way for a through street.

The remaining part contains the Chapel of Aranzazu, the Regional Museum of Potosi, and the Manuel Muro Library, all under the auspices of the civil government. The chapel of Aranzazu was completed as seen today in 1690. Parts of the altar date back to the foundation of the monastery in 1590. Even today the Aranzazu Chapel is shown as the crown jewel in the art work of the colonial period of San Luis Potosi. It was also the religious and cultural center of the entire province in the days when early Texas was explored and names were given. We believe the name Aranzazu came to our area as an act of piety and civic devotion on the part of those who sought to organize their New World along the lines of places in the Old: New Spain, New Biscaya, Aranzazu, Aransas.

Another connection, that so far is only conjecture on our part, for lack of knowledge about Orobio y Basterra, but would require more study to have any weight. If Orobio y Basterra really placed the name Aranzazu on the Aransas River, perhaps he was from the Basque Territory and devoted to the Virgin of Aranzazu. We know he was in the area at Goliad, as an official of the government which had its headquarters in San Luis Potosi. The Basque section of France neighboring the Basque territory of Spain is called Basse-Pyrenees. The similarity in names or root origin of names makes us wonder.

Setting aside for the moment the search for the exact person or date that brought the name Aranzazu to the Texas Area, we can establish how the name arrived in the New World. Knowledge of the devotion to Our Lady of Aranzazu.

Rockport Fire Dept. Meets

The Rockport Volunteer Fire Department met July 2 for its regular business meeting, with president Benny Bloomer presiding. Twenty-five men answered roll call.

Reading of minutes of previous meeting was approved. Maintenance chairman John Ray, Jr., was instructed to have pump on No. 9 truck fixed. No. 7 brush wagon, repaired, put log books in No. 4 water truck and to have No. 8 emergency truck and Model T truck stored at Vernon Hinze's garage.

The Rockport department is planning on attending the third quarterly 6th district South Central Firemen's meeting at Fulton July 12.

Fire Marshall Elva Mullinax, Benny Bloomer and Vernon Hinze will leave July 19 for firemen's training school at A&M, each taking a course in fire fighting.

Cakes for refreshments were furnished by Mrs. J. C. Gurley and Mrs. Mona McNutt.

Kleypas Attends Battleship Reunion

Vernon J. Kleypas, operations manager of Aransas Natural Gas Company, has returned from Sioux Falls, S. D., from one of the most memorable experiences of his life.

On July 3, 4 and 5, he attended a reunion of officers and crew members who served aboard the USS South Dakota B.B. 57 Battleship for 42 months during World War II. The ship was involved in 14 major engagements in both the Pacific and the Atlantic.

The get-together was more than a reunion of 187 men; it also was the occasion of the dedication of memorial to the battleship by the State of South Dakota.

Kleypas, who was chief petty officer on the South Dakota, has not seen any of his buddies for 25 years. Some of the 187 men who showed up brought their families, increasing the total to 400 persons from 44 states.

The memorial to the USS South Dakota Battleship established by the State of South Dakota cost approximately $225,000. The memorial includes a new park and a new building in which various parts of the original ship, all renovated, are displayed. On display outside the building is one of the original 27,000-pound anchors.

County Warns: Move Junk

The Aransas County Commissioners passed an order in March stating that "all old cars and other junk in the Aransas County right-of-way must be removed at the owners expense."

It was pointed out by the Commissioners that abandoned cars and other pieces of junk interfere with week cutting and maintenance of road shoulders and ditches in the right-of-way.

Those having junk on right-of-ways should move it immediately.

C of C Happenings

The Chamber of Commerce welcomes its newest member: Gale Carpets, located on Highway 35 North at the yellow fence, and owned by Angi Bass.

For the second time in recent weeks, Buck Armintrout who owns and operates the charter boat Balboa has given the C of C a check to take care of refreshments for the week. All visitors coming to the Chamber building are offered a cup of coffee or fruit juice and cookies. Thank you, Buck.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce held its monthly luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at Duck Inn. Present were president Juanita Wagley, Vernon Kleypas, Bill Janecsek, Johnny Mitchell, Jack McDavid, Roy Rogers, Bill Kelsay, Loyce Landrum, Louise Brisbin and John Kinsey.

Among subjects discussed were the following:

—The Board wants to find out if C of C members are interested in having a special "Better Business Bureau" type of committee set up to help protect local people and firms against unscrupulous individuals who come to town and prey on unsuspecting individuals who are talked into having unneeded "services" performed. Recently an elderly lady paid out a sizable amount of money to some out-of-town phonies for some roof repair work she didn't need. The Chamber soon will send special news bulletin to all C of C members on this subject, but meanwhile all Chamber members interested in establishing a protective service are urged to contact the Chamber of Commerce.

—The Chamber Directors expressed appreciation for the "splendid job," as president Juanita Wagley put it, performed by Mrs. Paul Harris and about 15 other ladies who served as hostesses at the "dressed up" Chamber of Commerce Hospitality Center during the Centennial. Wearing graceful southern belle gowns, the hostesses greeted out-of-town guests who came here to attend the Centennial and sold Centennial plates and books. Mrs. Landrum, C of C secretary, reported that more than 200 out-of-town people were welcomed.

—Mrs. Wagley received the following letter addressed to the Chamber of Commerce by Bob Stroot, general chairman of the Centennial:

Navigation District Holds Meeting

The Board of Navigation and Canal Commissioners met in the District's office July 1, with Chairman Matthew W. Scott presiding. Present were Commissioner Richard J. Fox and Harbormaster B. C. DeForest. Attorney Ellis Clark was absent on vacation. Frank Dunham was a visitor.

Minutes of the June 3 regular meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was reviewed and placed on file. Bills payable were approved and checks signed. Report from harbormaster was heard.

Dunham appeared before the board to protest the operation of Aqua Skiff rental concession in the south end of the ski basin. The board explained that when approval was given for the concession, it was for the current summer season only in the designated area; also that permit be secured from Rockport City Council. This explanation was satisfactory to Dunham.

"Involvement Now" will be the primary theme during Dr. McCullough's 1970-1971 Presidential Year. The importance of taking an active interest in the welfare of the community and the necessity for increased international understanding will both be emphasized.

The Rockport Conservation Association, Inc., has charged that the Texas Railroad Commission has failed to enforce the prohibition of brine waste depositing and draining into Chiltipin Creek and Copano Bay in San Patricio County.

In a letter to Gov. Preston Smith, the group said the creek has been turned into a "waste sewer dumping grounds" by the oil companies who operate in its watershed.

The letter also said that since the creek empties into Copano Bay, the "once highly productive nursery areas of Copano Bay (for seafood) around the creek have been destroyed."

The group said the railroad commission "has never held the prime contractor responsible for disposition of waste... nor do they cooperate with other agencies trying to save these resources from being damaged by pollutants they should control."

"We urge that you (Smith) act to halt this destruction of valuable natural resources," the letter reads. It is signed by M. W. Cochran, secretary-treasurer of the group.—Calder-Times.

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

OK FOR GIRLS

On a girl, a few hundredths of a millimeter makes no difference. So it is accurate enough to say that Miss Metric, the poster girl being used to familiarize British construction workers with the metric system, has measurements of 914-610-914 millimeters. In inches is a gorgeous 36-24-36.

But when the British adopt the metric system in 1971 and apply it to clearances in machinery, etc., they'll have to come closer than that. According to our calculations, which may or may not be right, 914 millimeters equal 35.96418 inches. To call it 35 inches would not be workmanlike in jobs involving accuracy.

The poster girl demonstrates the complicated task the British face in changing their ancient measuring system to the one used by most people of the world. The United States someday will have to swing over to metric measurements, too, and we'll be almost as confused as the British, but not quite. We, for instance, don't use the stone as a measure of weight.

Miss Metric is 5 feet 7½ inches tall and with her measurements she must weigh about nine stone. Since the British stone equals 14 pounds, Miss Metric would weigh 126 pounds or 57.1532 kilograms. Doesn't sound very sexy, does it? — The Oregonian.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

In the battle against the flu bug, some folks are taking prematurely a health official's advice that flu victims should "take a couple of snorts and go to bed." A New York business has chosen a daily dose of cognac and orange juice as preventative medicine for its employees. Absenteeism, reports the company official, is at a low. The newspaper account omits the type of work the employees do, but we'll bet whatever it is, they enjoy it.—Atlanta Journal.

SAVE THE WORLD

Among the governors of the great rich powers who have the capacity to destroy the world, there is luckily a strong consensus of opinion in favor of not destroying it.

JUSTICE FOR MACHINES

Someone once wrote about "the perversity of inanimate objects." Machines, and things, have a way of fighting back. Sometimes they win; sometimes they lose, because people are smart too.

Everyone knows the coin-operated dispenser of goodies which robs people whenever it can; the parking meter which hates motorists; the car which fights its owner.

Recently, an Ohio motorist made news by fighting back. He became so enraged over the bad conduct of his automobile that he pulled out a rifle and shot it. "I guess I just got mad," he said as he was arrested for shooting a firearm on a highway. This should be a lesson to recalcitrant inanimate objects and their victims everywhere.—Richmond News Leader.

Art Guild Gatherings

By

JAN WENDELL

The regular meeting of the Art Association will be held Monday night, July 13 at 7:30 at the Gallery.

The children's art program started off with a bang this week. Monday 30 students registered and on Tuesday, the enrollment had swelled to 43. Next week the class will have to be divided into morning and afternoon sessions because of the size of the class. The age limits are 7 to 13 years. Most of the children are now working in charcoal, but a few of the older students are painting in acrylics. By the end of the summer, every student will be introduced to painting and we hope that each student will have a painting completed to show.

The instructor is Miss Claudia Nelson and she is assisted by Estelle Stair and Jan Wendell. Any Art Assn. member who would like to assist would be greatly appreciated.

The classes are meeting Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday morning from 9:30-12:00 and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon from 1:00 to 4:00. The classes are $1.00 per session and if a student cannot pay, the Assn. will sponsor him. In the future the students are asked to bring an additional 10c to help defray cost of refreshments.

Those students who are enrolled are: Michael Meeker, Helana Bloomer, John and Martha Eiband, Jerry and Jolly Lewis, Kerry, Susan and Barbie Mosier, Kevin Morgan, Tommy Tumlinson, Kathe Heffernan, Steven Radke, Johnnie Washburn, LuCinda Hamon, Francis Ramirez, Karen Rowland, Lisa Rowland, Linda Rinche, Julie Ann Mercer, Susan Stafford, Lynne Griffin, Stacy, Ross, Scott and David Spence; Donny Setterbo, Scott Hiller, Cindy and Barbara Rasco, Clay and Bryan Kilgore, LuAnne Little, Donnie Meeker, Susan Woody, Carolyn Prophet, Maxie Roesch, Rose Marie Heasley, Jay Crawford, Reagan Little, Greta Adams, Tray Whithurst and Lisa Johnson.

Each day, student's works are displayed in the Gallery, so if you care to see some of our budding Rembrandts and Van Goghs, drop by the Gallery and see what the children are doing. You might be surprised!

Committee, I would like to thank your group for its unselfish efforts in helping make our celebration such an outstanding success. Such devotion toward civic goals is indeed commendable.

"Also, please let me add my personal thanks for a job well done."

—Jack McDavid reported that some years ago the Chamber of Commerce adopted and recommended a proposed list of holiday closing dates for local business establishments.

He then made a motion, and it passed unanimously, that as a guideline for local firms the C of C directors adopt the following holiday closings as a public service:

New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

—John Kinsey, manager, reported on his recent trip to Houston during which he conferred with officials of the Houston Chamber of Commerce. He left a supply of Rockport area brochures which the Houston C of C will distribute to people interested in visiting Rockport, Fulton or Larar. In addition, Parker Ledbetter, public relations director of the Houston Chamber, agreed to check with all major Houston motels, determine which have literature display racks, and send this information to the Rockport C of C which will send booklets, plus a friendly letter.

—The final topic discussed by the Board was a plan for the local C of C to maintain a list of coming events planned by all local organizations. Such groups are urged to contact the Chamber, and supply information about their planned events. The information will be published in The Rockport Pilot and also sent to members of the Chamber, including motels, restaurants, tackle shops, all types of business establishments and all members of the Chamber.

"Beauty is in the eye that beholds it."
—Gwen Frostic

Now that July is here we can see more species of sunflowers than in almost any other state. The sunflower is properly named; they do follow the sun; they face east in the morning, and west in the afternoon. Look, you will see.

It's too bad our beach can't look nice and neat and green and still have a wild garden on each side of the nearby paving, but no such luck. The lazy daisy, fleabane daisy, gaillardia and yellow evening primroses have been lovely down there, but the mower has cut them down.

Black-eyed Susans are still numerous and fields of yellow evening primroses repay the eye as you travel west. Early in the morning go to your yard and see the heavenly blue widows tears and small grass-creeping indigo peas. Never a moment to stop looking. June was fine for the "man-o-war" bird. Nearly every day several could be seen floating in the air over us. A strong south breeze brings them in, hence the common name.

Soon small shore birds will bring in young, and remember we will see Laughing Gulls in three plumages: brown the first year, light blue-gray the second year, and black head plumage the third year—but it's one species.

The wood stork, also called wood ibis, has been by 881 causeway, 12 in one group, with two roseate spoonbills, a delight any time to a birder.

The tourists are enjoying a good beach at St. Joe and Padre for shells lately. Come to the coast of Texas.

Now let's take another drive. go out 881 to 1781, turn right, drive until you come to the Modesett Ranch and enjoy the wonderfully beautiful display of sacred lotus.

Our other two ponds did not have blossoms this year as they did last year, but the pond at the Modesett Ranch is a repaying look, look, look.

Most of the earth's land is in the Northern Hemisphere.

Farewell For Father Gregory

On the evening of June 30th a large group of members of the Sacred Heart Parish and friends gathered at the Parish Hall to bid farewell to the Rev. Father Gregory Kania, Father Greg, as he was familiarly called by all his friends. He had been assistant pastor here less than a year but has endeared himself to all and it is with regret the parish people bid him farewell. He had been active with all the youth groups as well as the various study groups.

He left July 2 for Milwaukee, Wis. for a visit with home folks, after which he will go to Mexico City to take a refresher course in Spanish. His future plans are to work in the Brownsville Diocese with the Spanish speaking people.

Father Greg gave a short talk, after being introduced by the President of the Parish Council Jerre Ledbetter. Father Greg had adopted Texas as his home state.

Father Robert Ullrich, parish priest told of the growth that has come to Sacred Heart Church in the past year. He especially stressed the importance of working with all other churches of Rockport as well as cooperating in wider fields.

A warm farewell was extended to Father Greg plus good wishes for happiness in the new field of work. During the social hour, punch and cookies were served by the ladies of the parish.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my appreciation for the cards, visits, flowers, prayers, and other kind deeds during my stay in the hospital and at home. May God bless all of you.

ARANSAS: WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Zazu came with the earliest Franciscan missionaries of New Spain. No less a personage than the great organizer of the church in the New World, the saintly Juan de Zumarraga and his companion Sons of St. Francis who were in charge of the Monastery at Aranzazu in Spain.

Almost every Franciscan monastery in old Mexico had its chapel to Our Lady of Aranzazu. Even great churches were constructed under this title. For instance the Aranzazu church in the city of Guadalajara, Jalisco. It is of ancient age. Its ornate altar is a masterpiece of churrigueresque art work.

More than being a member of the Franciscan Order, ties Juan de Zumarraga to the title of Aranzazu. A short summary of his life gives an encomium to be envied by any man: Juan de Zumarraga-humanist-admirer or Erasmus, amateur printer, Protector of the Indians, teacher, economist, agriculturist and librarian, was born in the Province of Vizcaya (Biscay) in 1499. He probably took the Franciscan habit at the monastery of Abrojo near Valladolid (although some scholars have claimed the privilege for the monastery of Aranzazu)—a noted center of humanism and learning at the time.

It was at Valladolid that Zumarraga was enlisted to head the organization of the church in New Spain. Indeed he was to become the civilizing agent in the cultural explosion of the New World—an explosion that still bears the stamp of his hand. The tie to Aranzazu in the life of Zumarraga comes from more than the claim that he made his religious profession at Aranzazu in the fervor of youth. He was born in the Basque Country. Devotion to Aranzazu and its wondrous history would be natural to any Basque child of the day. Moreover one of the earliest references for the life of Zumarraga and his work in Mexico is the Spanish Franciscan Juan de Luzuriaga and his book: "The Heavenly Paranymp, the History of the Branch, the Miraculous Image, and the Prodigious Sanctuary of Aranzazu," published in Madrid in 1690.

Paranymp means a bridegroom or companion of the bride, a harbinger or carrier of felicity (Cassell's Spanish Dictionary). Thus Zumarraga is considered part of the good news coming from Aranzazu. Indeed Juan de Zumarraga was the bearer of the Good News of Christ to the New World, whose work remains today in the churches of Texas, California, New Mexico and Arizona, as well as nearly all of Mexico and Central America.

What of the name Aranzazu itself? If picked by a Basque to echo an Indian sound, it could have been to pin-point the Arames, a tribe that inhabited the mission territory under Orobio y Basterra at the original La Bahia on the Guadalupe River to know more than the echo of an aboriginal sound, we have to go to the mountains of Biscay or the Basque lands of Europe. We have to know that this proud and ancient people has antedated the Iberian tribes of Spain, their language is related to no other known in present use.

We also have to know about an incident in the religious history of the Basque Country, in the mountain fastness of the Province of Guipuzcoa. The earliest records of Aranzazu were lost in a fire at the shrine in 1553. The oldest historical document about the happening in the thorny fields of the Basque mountains is that of Esteban de Garibay in his "Compendio Historial" published in Barcelona in 1628. In the year 1479 a shepherd named Rodrigo was guarding his flock of sheep on the mountainside de Alona, on a Saturday, which is dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Wandering with his flocks a heavenly manifestation. In that wilderness he saw upon a thorny branch of a tree, a pious image of the Virgin Mary, with the figure of her Son in her arms, and a large cowbell attached to the side of the treebranch.

Garibay adds as a true historian: "In this I do not place any doubt, for I have as such a certain and truthful account from one so old who not only knew Rodrigo, but even remembered the good offices and esteem which the monks were accustomed to show towards him." Like all things which begin among men, time is the only test of value. In the 15th and 16th centuries the Basque Country was torn apart in civil wars involving loyalties to home, family, religion, and culture. Out of all this strife the hope of peace among brothers shone from the shrine of Our Lady of Aranzazu. So it came about that Aranzazu and its little Heavenly Queen with her Divine Son, who died to make peace between God and Man was the inspiration for warring factions to unite in Christ-like fraternity. The Shrine and devotion to Our Lady of Aranzazu has remained such even to this day. Civil war, Socialism, Communism and the other waves of fratricidal war that have burned the countryside of Spain and all Europe did not spare Aranzazu. The monastery and church itself, have been burned to the ground at least three times in history, but always have arisen from the ashes to gather the followers of Christ around the altar of peace.

Fortunately, the statue, and its poor throne of a thorn branch and the old weather beaten cowbell remain to this day. There are some lessons to be learned from the name Aranzazu. Students of the Basque tongue say that Aranzazu is the word thorn. 'Zu' is similar to the Latin 'Tu' or English 'You'. So Aranzazu echoes the cry of surprise of the humble shepherd Rodrigo on first seeing the sight of the Queen of Heaven with a thorn bush for her throne. "Arantzazu?" "You, seated upon a thorn bush?"

Whether we give credence to heavenly visits or not, the statue and thorn bush and bell remain as tangible evidence of the continuing devotion to the Virgin Mary and Christ at this place. What evidence of a scientific nature does the image of Aranzazu hold? More than one will grant, but to only summarize here. The Iberian Peninsula is one of those sections of the earth where the rivers of history flow like flood tides in spring. Crossing over the Pyrenees and arriving by ship from Mediterranean shore, armies and tribes have gone by like figures flashing in the backdrop of a psychedelic light show. Prehistoric Cro-mangons, Celts, Iberians, Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans, Goths, Africans first under Carthage, and then later in the Moorish invasions—all left their trace in the history of Spain and its people. On external examination the Aranzazu image is of Gothic style from the 6th to 8th century. The Moors arrived in the 8th Century to cause Christian Spain to go underground.

Many famous holy places in Spain, and other parts of Europe, have a history of objects of devotion being hidden away to save them from desecration. Our own National Archives in Washington, D.C. keeps the Declaration of Independence in bomb proof and atmosphere-proof isolation. The venerated image of Aranzazu dates from the Gothic times, hidden away from spoiling hands, but decorated with the little bell to call passing faithful to its presence. So well hidden was it that it did not burst upon the scene until discovery in 1479.

Catholic rules of art ask the artist to be faithful to the teachings of the Church. Weathering centuries of conflict from the iconoclast times of Byzantium to the destruction of Islam, and the challenge of the Reformation, the church teaches with all the audio-visual aids. The plastic arts are chief among her teaching tools. The figure of Our Lady of Aranzazu does this. Mary is seated upon a throne, her head is crowned after the manner of Gothic queens. She holds in her hand the Orb or Globe of the World, as did Elizabeth II of England on her coronation day in 1953. Note the Orb is topped by a cross; it is Christ's world, saved by His Cross.

As the Mother of Jesus, she presents to the world the infant King, as she did to the shepherd and Magi of Bethlehem. He also holds a small globe in his infant hand as Saviour-King of Israel and the World. In his right hand he holds the staff or scepter of justice, spoken of by David the King in the Psalms. This traditional representation of Christ and his mother emphasize the central mystery of Christianity, the God-man, Redeemer and King, born of a woman to become one of human kind, and sacrificed on the Cross to make peace between God and man.

Another connection with our own area of Aransas County and Aransas Pass can flow right from the artistic manner of showing Christ and his mother in the statue of our Lady of Aranzazu. We are a coastal people, our life and commerce depends upon the sea. The first recorded church buildings in the area, Stella Maris, Star of the Sea, was constructed of oyster shell cement at Lamar in 1860-62. It still stands at Lamar, Texas and ranks along with the mission building of Texas as one of the few remaining religious landmarks of the area. Not only is it due religious veneration, but historical pride demands its preservation. From Lamar the church spread to surrounding communities such as Rockport, where Sacred Heart Parish was founded in 1892-93. With development of Aransas Pass as the terminal of the railroads, and the opening to the Gulf for cotton and grain ships, St. Mary Star of the Sea Parish was organized. Since the Stella Maris Chapel at Lamar has lost its parishioners due to the Civil War and the movement of commerce to other areas, St. Mary Star of the Sea Parish in Aransas Pass keeps alive the religious dedication of the area to Christ and his Mother under the traditional title placed upon this section in the days of discovery and exploration.

Another bond rests in the representation of Our Lady of Aranzazu or Our Lady of Aransas for us, and Mary, Star of the Sea. In both traditional pictures Mary is seated upon a throne in royal robes, and holds upon her lap the infant Christ whose hand is raised in blessing.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Mimics, Unlimited?

Mimicking the famous is, and always has been, a favorite mode of humor. Prince or president, magnate or movie star, anyone in the public eye can expect to see his idiosyncrasies turned into fodder for laughs.

Some are pleased, perhaps on the theory that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. But suppose the person mimicked is not pleased. Does he have a legal kick coming?

As a rule, the answer is no. Whatever anguish he feels is considered one of the penalties of fame. The law gives a kind of poetic license to the mimic to practice what it calls "a distinct variety of the histrionic art."

However, there are limits. Even the famous are entitled to be shielded against the imitator who goes too far.

For one thing, mimicry must not be used as a device for defamation of character.

"A person shall not be allowed," said a judge, "to murder another's reputation in jest."

For another thing, the mimic — even though telling no lies — must not violate the right of privacy. He must not expose those areas of the person's life that are not "fair game" for public dissection. Thus, revelation of a tycoon's personal peccadilloes, if totally unrelated to his business career, might well be an invasion of his privacy.

What if the mimic uses imitation not for humor at all, but rather to pass himself off as the real thing? In one case, an actor assumed a name and mannerisms similar to those of a famous entertainer, so as to trick audiences into coming to see him.

But a court finally halted him with an injunction, partly to protect the original entertainer, partly to protect the public. As one judge put it:

"First, a man who has a reputation for excellence is entitled to be protected in the reputation thus established; and second, the public should be protected against whomsoever places a counterfeit article on the market in the likeness of the genuine."

Lady 104 On July 4

Two Rockport ladies looked forward with more than the usual excitement to the Fourth of July for that day was their grandmother's 104th birthday.

The lady honored was Mrs. Refugia M. Dominguez who lives at 425 Mohawk Street, Corpus Christi. She was honored with a birthday party at her home attended by relatives and friends.

Attending from Rockport were Mr. and Mrs. Severo Martinez and their two sons, Johnny and Oscar. (Mrs. Martinez is a granddaughter), and Mrs. and Mrs. Ciprian Martinez (this Mrs. Martinez also is a granddaughter) and three sons, Rudy, Joe David and Thomas.

Also attending from Rockport were Mr. and Mrs. Facundo Torres and family.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. Ninth Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—I'm an alien who has been admitted to the U.S., but not for permanent residence. I've been in this country more than a year. I understand this makes me liable for armed forces service under the draft law. Is that right?

A—It is.

Q—Is there some way I can apply to be relieved from this liability?

A—There is, provided you take action before your induction into the armed services.

Q—How?

A—You can file with your draft board a form called "Application by Alien for Relief from Training and Service in the Armed Forces."

Q—Is this a right, or can the application be denied?

A—It is a right, provided you have not been admitted for permanent residence. An alien admitted for permanent residence is not eligible to file this application.

Q—I'm thinking of applying for citizenship. Would signing the application have any effect on this?

A—It would. If you are relieved from liability for training and service on these grounds, you will become permanently ineligible to become a citizen of the United States, ineligible to receive an immigrant visa, and will be excluded from entry into the U.S. for permanent residence, which includes Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Mr. Kinsey:

Now that I have almost caught up with everything that I neglected during the grand week that my wife and I spent down at the Centennial, I must drop you this note to tell you how much we enjoyed it. We took in everything from the Mexican street dance to the art show and all were great.

Your newspaper coverage was most helpful in that we knew exactly when, where, and why. While on the subject of newspapers may I compliment you on your most interesting column, The Kinsey Report? After first reading your column, I go to the front page of the Pilot.

Once again let me thank the good folk of Rockport for a good time. My wife and I enjoyed meeting you and your family and we were happy to meet your Dad. He is a grand gentleman. I wonder if you and I will be able to eat fried catfish and Mexican food at 92. I doubt it.

I trust that our paths will cross again.

Sincerely,
Q. T. McAlister, Jr.
Editors note: Thank you Mr. McAlister.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beyer of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Hailey Marble and family of Odessa spent the weekend here and visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore H. Smith and Mrs. Cleo Smith.

The Kinsey Report

The Rockport area is fortunate in many ways, one being that most of our youths are normal, clean-cut, patriotic individuals who look and act like they will do a good job of being the type of Americans that we all will be proud of from now on.

Not every community is as fortunate as we are in that respect. As a result, good newspapers in big and little cities often publish informative articles warning young people to beware of certain movements and activities presumably initiated by the Communists and cleverly designed to appear as simply "something to do with the NOW generation."

We are indebted to the Kingsville Record for the following information which we sincerely hope is read thoroughly by every young man and woman in Rockport, Fulton and Lamar:

"There is a symbol worn by many of today's young people and known as the 'Peace Symbol.' We wonder how many of these young people, or YOU for that matter, know the real meaning of this symbol.

"The Peace Symbol is not something that is the product of today's restless youth. It was well known back in the Middle Ages and was known either as the 'Crow's Foot' or the 'Witch's Foot.'

"Now are you ready for the real shock? This was the sign of those who were opposed to Christianity. It was (and is) the Anti-Christ symbol. Look at one closely. What do you see. It is what is sometimes called a Broken Cross, turned upside down, and with a ring around it. Now do you see why it is a subtle sign of those who are opposed to Christianity?

"It is used today as a central part of the national symbolism of Communist Russia. It appears that Communists are winning their battle for the minds of some of our youth. They are making special efforts to capture the attention of today's youth in America. Many young people are familiar with the Peace Symbol and wear it as jewelry and even print it on their cars.

"There are those in the sons.

garment industry who have the Broken Cross embroidered on jackets and other garments sold to young people. The Broken Cross also is manufactured as a metal trinket and some youths wear it as a fad gadget, not realizing they are supporting the emblem of the Anti-Christ, the Broken Cross.

"Be sure of this: every person who knowingly or unknowingly wears this emblem is bringing joy to the hearts of those dedicated to the destruction of everything we hold dear. The Communists are gleeful when they see this symbol worn by Americans. It is the mark of atheism."

Miss Pat Bohn and Brett Bohn of New Orleans, La., are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Littleton. Mike Bohn who drove them down spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rouquette and sons.
