LIGHT RAINS COVER SECTION

Cotton Gathering Halted By Precipitation

Gathering of cotton was delayed by a general rain over Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma Wednesday, but nowhere in the region was damage to the staple reported.

Precipitation averaged about one half inch over the territory affected with the exception of the Wichita Falls area, which reported in one instance, at Burkburnett, a total of about one inch. The South Plains area, according to the Wichita Valley railroad dispatcher, received light showers and mists throughout the day.

Further north, however, according to Denver and Katy dispatchers, the precipitatoin being reported throughout the day as far north as Childress on the Fort Worth and Denver, and as far north, in Oklahoma, as Elk City on the Katy lines.

Precipitation in Wichita Falls Wednesday, according to the Texas Electric Service company weather bureau, totaled .31 inch. In Iowa Park about one-half inch fell. Henrietta received about the same amount. One-fourth of an inch was reported at Archer City. Electra received about one-half inch.

Vernon, it was reported, received .31 inch, and Altus, Okla., reported a total precipitation of one-fourth inch, with decidedly lowering temperatures which drove cotton pickers from the fields.

The bulk of the rain fell in the morning, but in some sections, including Burkburnett and other portions of Wichita county, showers fell throughout the day. Skies were still cloudy Wednesday night.

DIXIE TARIFF GROUP ACTIVE IN ELECTIONS

Probe Uncovers Work Of Lobbyists Organization For G. O. P. Entry

TWO FOES NAMED

Senators Harrison and Simmons Mentioned as Bitterest Enemies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (AP)—Campaign plans of the Southern Tariff association to obtain a high sugar duty in the pending bill were uncovered today by the senate lobby committee.

Questioning J. A. Arnold, vice president and general manager of the Southern Tariff association, for the fourth day, the committee produced a letter from Arnold to J. A. Barry of Lafayette, La., which said the Republican party probably would follow President Hoover's wishes regarding the sugar duty.

Target "Wrong Word"

"My thought is that the president is the target," the letter added.

Arnold explained that what he had in mind was to "develop sentiment" in favor of the high sugar duty and that the word "target" was ill-advised.

"I never saw a president who was not amenable to public sentiment," he asserted.

Senator Harrison, Democrat, and Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, were characterized in the letter as the leading opponents of a high sugar duty.

"Mention of a sugar schedule drives Senator Harrison insane," the letter said. "He would put you on the free list."

Another reference to Senator Harrison was contained in a letter from Arnold to E. A. Burguieres, New Orleans sugar man, which suggested that Harry D. Wilson, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, spend 30 to 60 days in protective tariff work in the South.

Harrison Worst Enemy

"I think he should spend a few days in Mississippi," the letter said. "Pat Harrison is the bitterest enemy you have on sugar."

Arnold testified some money was raised in Mississippi for the general work of the tariff association, but that no effort was made to "build a fire under Senator Harrison."

In another letter to Barry last July, Arnold said "our friends here" were interested in sending a Republican to congress from the third congressional district.

The letter added that a Democrat favoring the protective tariff "would help some," but that a Republican would be more influential in the councils of the Republican party, "who must give you the tariff," than a Democrat.

"That was just personal," Arnold explained.

The committee directed Arnold to appear again tomorrow for further examination.

BOY'S AGE USED AS MAIN PLEA

Eastland Case Depends On Date of Birth

EASTLAND, Texas, Nov. 6. (AP)—A fight today between state and defense attorneys indicated the defense will seek to save Clyde Thompson, alleged murderer of Lucian and Leon Shook, from the electric chair by pleading his youth when the crime was committed.

Thompson was once sentenced to be executed but saved by a reversal.

After several hours wrangling, the court excluded what purported to be a certified copy of a birth certificate showing Thompson was born in Guymon, Okla., Oct. 5, 1910. Later, the state succeeded in getting into the record scholastic census records from Graham, signed by Thompson's father, showing the defendant was born in 1910.

This birth date would have made him 18 years old at the time of the alleged crime. The defense previously indicated it would advance his age as 17 in an attempt to save the boy from the death sentence.

According to yesterday's testimony, Thompson induced the brothers to leave their cabin to go hunting with him, and shot them down as they walked single file along a path.

"Temporary" Burial Given Carmichael

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 6. (AP)—The bodies of Col. Robert G. Lowry, traffic manager, and John Carmichael, pilot for the Corporacion Aeronautica de Transportes line, will not be moved from Toluca, Mexico, where they were killed in an airplane accident, back to Texas, it was indicated here today when C. A. T. officials said their bodies had been interred, at least temporarily.

Delay in obtaining a release from Mexico for the body of John Carmichael, former Wichitan who was killed in an airplane crash near Villa Carbon Monday morning, was caused Wednesday by the same fog which sent Pilot Carmichael and three others to their death.

A message to Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Backus, 2114 Jones street, brother-in-law and sister of the flier, was received about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening from Maj. Horace H. Carmichael, John's brother, who with Maj. B. A. Law of the Corporacion Aeronautica de Transportes was flying to Mexico City to obtain a release for the bodies from the Mexican capital. The telegram stated that Major Carmichael and his companion had been forced down near Torreon, state of Coahuila, late Wednesday on account of the fog and thick weather.

Jouette Shouse Points Out Significance of Party Triumph at Polls

MANY CITY UPSETS

Municipal Vote in Indiana Brings Defeat For Republicans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (UP)—Democrats were jubilant today over a series of widespread victories in state and municipal elections.

While they pointed, in their enthusiasm, even to minor successes as indicating a general Democratic trend, their most significant victory was election of a regular Democrat, John G. Pollard as governor of Virginia by a large majority over the anti-Smith, Republican candidate, Dr. William Mosely Brown.

First Southern Test

Party leaders pointed to this victory as bearing out their predictions that President Hoover's successful invasion of the "solid south" last year was but temporary. The Virginia election was the first test in any of the five southern states carried by Mr. Hoover.

Because of the signal victory there, by a majority far beyond predictions of seasoned political observers, Democratic leaders expressed belief it would have a psychological effect. The victory was a set-back for Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Richmond, anti-Smith Democrat, prominent dry and leader in the Hoover southern campaign, who left before the election and now is in South America.

Victory in Kentucky

Democratic leaders regarded return of Democratic majorities in the Kentucky legislature as their most significant victory after the Virginia success, which Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee's executive committee, pointed out "insures Democratic control of the redistribution of the congressional districts which is compelled by reapportionment of the new census, as well as the redistricting of the state for legislative offices."

Shouse explained that President Hoover's landslide in Kentucky last year "had filled the Republicans

Country Storekeeper Beats Former Ranger to Draw in Mortal Duel

John Northcutt Shot to Death at Wink in Meeting With Clarence Bracheen Over Old Difference

WINK, Texas, Nov. 6. (UP)—In much the same manner that fictionists have "dead shots" killed by amateurs, so did former Texas Ranger John Northcutt die with his boots on here late yesterday, outdone at last, and decidedly so.

Northcutt was reputed to have killed an even dozen men during his long service as a peace officer. His dexterity with either hand in a gun fight made him feared throughout the Southwest; but it remained for a country store proprietor with an old-fashioned shotgun to beat him to the draw. The other man was Clarence ("Heavy") Bracheen, 36.

It was a typical western duel to the death when Northcutt went down in front of the postoffice on Wink's main street, here in the new Goiconda of West Texas where many men have died trying to live by their strength and trigger fingers.

Their differences arose a year ago when Northcutt entered Bracheen's store and beat up one of his clerks. Bracheen interfered at the time, and both of them were said to be "gunning" for each other.

Since then, Northcutt had gone to Oklahoma City, killed a Chinese waiter there, and had just been acquitted of the charge that resulted. He returned to Wink only a day before he met his death.

About dark, Bracheen was returning from a hunting trip, walking down Main street. Both men saw each other. Bracheen raised his shotgun to his shoulder and fired. Grasping the .45 caliber pistol he had withdrawn from his hip in his right hand, Northcutt staggered under the charge. Four more

Any citizen of the city who is not a member of the committees named will be eligible to receive the award, it was stated. Slogans which effectively argue partonage of local business establishments in the fewest words will be favored for the prize, it was said. The slogan contest is being conducted preparatory to the "Buy It in Wichita Falls" week which opens on Nov. 18 under the auspices of the Junior chamber of commerce.

Stricken Woman Withstands First Plane Ride in Flying Ambulance

STRATFORD, Texas, Nov. 6. (UP)—Taking the air from Albuquerque, N. M., to reach a lower altitude, Mrs. Mary Craft, 69, arrived here safely late today on her improvised cot in the Southwest's first flying ambulance.

Mrs. Craft, suffering from a stroke of paralysis, was ordered by physicians to go immediately to a lower altitude as the last hope of saving her life.

Members of her family decided to bring her to the home of a son here. It was her first airplane ride.

To reach Stratford by rail would have necessitated a ride of 120 miles by ambulance to Vaugn, N. M., to catch the train. An airplane was hastily ordered and transformed into an ambulance, a stretcher being installed in the cabin.

The plane took off from Albuquerque shortly before 9 a. m. today with Mrs. Craft, her daughter, Mary, Bert Blackmore, and the pilot, William P. Cutter, and arrived here shortly after noon, 12 hours before the rail journey could have been completed.

Mrs. Craft was unaffected by the trip.

THIRD BALLOT DECIDES CASE OF ATTORNEY

One Hour and 46 Minutes Required to Determine Verdict

HAMILTON AT HOTEL

Brother Reports Defendant 'Asleep' When Judge Calls Name

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 6. (AP)—R. H. Hamilton tonight was acquitted of murder for slaying his 21-year-old son-in-law, Tom Walton Jr., in Hamilton's Amarillo law office last May 4.

The jury returned to the court room one hour and 49 minutes after leaving and the verdict was read one hour and 46 minutes after consideration of the case was begun.

The verdict was reached on the third ballot, the first being eight to four for acquittal, the second 11 to one, J. E. Whitsett, the only juror not a farmer was the foreman.

Hamilton Absent

Hamilton was not in the court room when the verdict was read, District Judge J. E. Carter did not demand his presence since the verdict was one of acquittal.

After Judge Carter read the verdict, Robert H. Hamilton Jr., a student in the University of Minnesota, walked to the jury box and said to the foreman: "I really don't know how to thank you." And then shook Whitsett's hand.

Dexter Hamilton, the accused man's brother, did the same. The jury then disbanded, Robert and Dexter rushing to the hotel where Hamilton awaited the decision.

Few in Courtroom

Less than two score persons were in the courtroom when the verdict was returned. Newspaper men were in Judge Carter's office awaiting a report from the bailiff as to whether the jury intended to report tonight.

Hamilton's brother, Dexter, when the judge asked for the defendant so he could hear the verdict, replied: "Judge Hamilton is in his room asleep."

Just as the verdict was read the village clock on top of the courthouse began tolling the hour of 10.

Fifteen minutes after the jury rendered its verdict, the courtroom was empty save for a janitor, cleaning up.

At the hotel, Hamilton dressed and came down into the hotel lobby

Virginia and City Victories Hailed With Joy

with the hope of making Kentucky permanently Republican."

"For years," he said, "it has been a barometer state whose shifts from one political party to the other had been a fairly reliable index of the national trend."

Kentucky Republicans, he said, sought to gain control of the legislature "in order to Gerrymander the state in such a way as to insure the election of Republicans to congress," and hammered at this point, "always with the rider that congressmen must be returned who would support the Hoover administration."

National Issues Involved

"The Virginia fight was likewise on national issues," Shouse said. "The frank purpose was to retain Virginia in the Hoover column—and a Democratic governor was elected in the face of the coalition of Republicans and Hoovercrats by a majority greater than that by which any previous election in Virginia's history was won, presidential, senatorial or state."

Shouse refrained from mention of Alfred E. Smith, whom Cannon designated as the real issue in the election.

Both Virginia senators pointed to the regular Democratic victory as indicating return of southern states to the Democratic fold. Senator Carter Glass, who fought Cannon bitterly, predicted his own re-election next year.

South Again "Solid"

"This election indicates that the entire South will return to the Democratic party by large majorities, especially if the wise and liberal policy adopted by Virginia is pursued in other southern states, and all Democrats are invited to return and again affiliate with the party, irrespective of the differences of last year."

The New York mayoralty Democratic victory has no significance from a national standpoint. It generally was expected. The election was fought on local issues and the opposition was divided. The most significant thing about it was the large vote cast for Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate.

Other Victories

Shouse saw considerable significance in the numerous victories in municipal elections, principally in New York state and Indiana. He pointed out Democrats carried cities that had been Republican for years, naming Springfield, Mass.; Bridgeport, Conn., and Ithaca, N. Y., the latter going Democratic for the first time in 15 years.

"In no section where the Democrats were accorded anything like an equal chance did they fail of success," he said.

"Ordinarily municipal elections might not have a great deal of bearing on the national situation, but in yesterday's elections in nearly every case national issues were brought in and the appeal was made on behalf of the Republicans that the support of Republican national policies and endorsement of the Hoover administration was involved in the contest."

He said this was notably so in Indiana, and that Republican congressmen had left here to campaign for local candidates. He pointed to Democratic victories in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne, South Bend, Evansville, and to the first one in history in Muncie. He cited, likewise, various Democratic municipal elections in New York state outside of New York City.

Panic Follows Revival of 'Dead' Boa Constrictor

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 6. (US)—A "dead" boaconstrictor caused a panic in a local taxidermy shop when it came to life as the operators were starting to skin it.

The 20-foot snake had been kept in the private zoo of Spencer Penrose, on the summit of Cheyenne mountain, where the temperature at this season hovers around zero.

The keeper found the big snake frozen stiff and the body was taken to the taxidermists for mounting. The heat of the shop revived the constrictor and when the operator touched the hide with his knife, the snake "came alive," and all hands fled in panic.

When the men had recovered from their shock, the constrictor was killed, permanently, and stuffed.

CHILD WELFARE SURVEY READY

Committee Ready to Start Extensive Study

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (AP)—Secretary Wilbur, as chairman of the White House conference on child health and protection, announced today its various committees were ready for the most sweeping study of child welfare "ever made in all the world."

H. E. Barnard, director of the planning committee, and other members of the committee, who were drawn from all types of organizations engaged in welfare work, finished three months' work recently by recommending the most complete study possible of all work being done for the advancement of the child, from which suggestions will be drawn for future action.

The work of the conference has been divided into four major sections: Medical service, headed by Dr. Samuel Mcc. Hamill, of Philadelphia; public health service and administration, Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, chairman; education and training, headed by Dr. F. J. Kelly, president of the university of Idaho; and study of the handicapped child, to be directed by C. C. Carstens, director of the child welfare league of America.

Under each of the major sections have been placed certain particular phases of child study, each with a chairman recognized as an authority on the subject. Under the medical service division will come pre-natal and maternal care, medical care of children and study of child growth and development.

The public health division will study public health organization, communicable disease control, and milk production and control. The division on education and training will have separate groups studying family and parent education, the infant and pre-school child, the school child, vocational guidance and child labor, recreation and physical education and special classes.

The group studying the handicapped child will devote especial attention to state and local organizations for the handicapped child, the study of physical and mental handicaps and delinquency.

Secretary Wilbur said about 500 men and women, have been asked to help in the widespread study of conditions.

'Automatic Pilot' Introduced by Army

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (INS)—The "arrival of an automatic pilot" was announced by the war department today when Lieut. Albert Hegenberger, transpacific flier, swooped down on Bolling field in a Ford army transport whose direct controls he had not touched since leaving Cleveland.

The plane was kept on its course and at a proper altitude by an intricate mechanism whose principle revolves around the sperry gyroscope. The device will hold a plane indefinitely on its course more accurately than even the most experienced pilot, the war department said.

Hegenberger and Lieut. Lester Maitland were the first pilots to make a non-stop flight to Hawaii.

Mary Garden Plans To Enter 'Talkies'

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Mary Garden, famed star of the Chicago Civic Opera company, is going to enter the "talkies."

This was definitely established today when Hamilton Forrest, who has written "Camille" for Miss Garden, declared that "everything is arranged and I'm working on it."

TEX GUINAN IN ADVISORY ROLE

Hostess Tells How to Hold Husbands

CHICAGO, Nov. 6. (UP)—Some 500 members of the Illinois Women's Athletic club decided today they ought to have some expert advice on how to hold their husbands so they called Tex Guinan, an expert.

Miss Guinan, most famous of night club hostesses, qualified as an expert husband holder, she said, because so far she has had three and she "loves 'em all." From her experience with husbands, she said she had evolved three cardinal principles concerning the art of keeping husbands at home. The principles follow:

"Tease 'em.

"Pet 'em.

"Love 'em."

"Husbands are just children," she said, "and you have to let 'em play boss. But it's just a game. You women always know you've got the edge."

Texas rushed in breathless an hour late for her appointment as an expert husband holder to lecture before the club. She didn't apologize for that, but she did apologize for her hoarseness, thus:

"I've lost my voice saying 'no' to Chicago husbands."

He was a pioneer and prominent citizen of Chatfield, having lived there since the early days of Central Texas. He was an extensive landowner, a farmer, a banker and a business man. He had many friends in all parts of the state.

SOUR STOMACHS MADE SWEET

Antiseptic Remedy Corrects Fermented Condition

If you cannot eat what you like, if you have to avoid certain foods because they disagree with you, your trouble is no doubt due to fermentation (souring of food)—a condition that can be quickly corrected if proper methods are used.

The use of soda, magnesia, dyspepsia tablets, laxatives and common patent medicines, require continual dosing and, at best, can furnish only temporary relief.

GORDON'S, a stomach and bowel antiseptic, gives lasting benefit. It stops fermentation promptly, sweetens the stomach, drives out the acids and poisons, soothes and heals the membrane lining. The very first dose will relieve sour stomach, indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, dissolve the excess acid.

If you have stomach trouble now, or when food disagrees, don't take chances with temporary measures. Get GORDON'S from druggist at once. It costs no more than ordinary remedies—a large 8-ounce bottle for $1.50—less than three cents a dose.—Adv.

THE NEW ORDER

Women in City Jail Out-Number Men by Two To One

The criminal pendulum had swung from Adam to Eve Wednesday night when six out of nine prisoners in the city jail were women. Five of the women were white and one was negro. Out of the nine jailed, eight were held for alleged drunkenness and strangely, the lone negro woman was held on a charge of vagrancy while the five white women were held for intoxication. The three men prisoners were all booked for drunkenness or for drunk and driving.

The three white men and the negro woman submitted peaceably to imprisonment but all of the white women protested vigorously, except one who was carried to her cell.

Although it was first believed that Barnwell had killed Mrs. Hare and then shot himself because of financial difficulties over a diamond ring, those investigating the case now are satisfied that there is a third person in the matter who is still at large.

Better Than Whiskey For Bad Colds

HOLIDAY BOOZE FLOW STARTS

Smugglers Preparing to Reap Profits

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (US)—Smugglers are making extensive preparations for the holiday liquor trade, it was shown in government reports today.

"A renewal of activity in liquor running" out of the port of Halifax, Nova Scotia, was noted in information received by the department of justice. A number of vessels intended for liquor running are being built there, this report said.

Liquor operations earlier in the season have proved exceedingly profitable, it added, and only three of the smuggling craft have been captured by American authorities.

Several rum smuggling vessels have been detected off the Atlantic coast near New York. A dozen patrol boats of the customs harbor squad are standing guard some distance out to prevent their coming within the 12-mile limit or landing their cargoes, according to reports received here.

Issuance of a Mexican government edict outlawing re-exportation or trans-shipment of liquor was announced by the department of justice.

"This order is regarded as helpful in connection with the effort to stamp out the sending of liquor from Mexico into the United States," the department said.

Much liquor has been shipped from other countries into Mexico, and thence smuggled into the United States, officials said. Treasury officials declared the Mexican ban was of great importance to United States enforcement, but described it as voluntary on Mexico's part.

There has been no correspondence on the subject, the state department said. An anti-smuggling agreement was made several years ago and later terminated.

Boy Sliding on Bannister Picks Up Big Splinter

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 6. (UP)—Piercing screams issuing from a house here struck terror to the heart of a passerby.

Fearing conflagration or wholesale slaughter within, he sprinted to a telephone and called police and firemen.

A few minutes later the riot squad charged up the steps of the house in mass formation. At its heels were the hook and ladder boys, eager for rear guard action or a flanking movement.

Quickly the combined forces accomplished the grim task that awaited them. From the anatomy of Ray Williams, 4, they extricated a splinter he had struck full astern while sliding down the stairway bannister.

The mother, returning just as the operation was successfully completed, will be forced, for a few days at least, to forego the spanking she yearned to give Ray.

The pilgrims will visit Madeira, Gibraltar, Tunis, Algiers, Constantinople and Athens before continuing to the Holy Land.

Tulsa Divorcee Collects Salve to Heal Her Cracked Heart

CHICAGO, Nov. 6. (US)—Paid in full.

This is what Ann Livingston, pretty Tulsa divorcee, today wrote for Franklin S. Hardinge, wealthy oil-burner manufacturer, when he gave her a certified check for $20,000.

Thus a romance, which was dragged through the courts, was ended.

Ann won a $25,000 judgment against the aged millionaire last spring in a $250,000 breach of promise action.

"Let's see you get it," challenged Hardinge.

"Try and keep it from me," retorted Ann.

Today counsel for both sides advised against further airing of the "hot and sultry" love affair and a compromise was reached.

M'CLOSKEY HAS COURT WRIT

Clerks Enjoined From Destroying Ballots

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 6. (AP)—A temporary injunction against all county clerks in the 14th congressional district, restraining them from destroying ballots cast in the general election one year ago, was granted Representative Augustus McCloskey, Democrat, today in 57th district court. The law requires that ballots be preserved one year, and the injunction was sought to prevent the clerks from disposing of the ballots now that the time set by law has expired.

In this election McCloskey received a 319 majority in the entire district, according to the vote count by the canvassing board, and was given the certificate of election by the state election board. The election has been contested in bitter fights during the past year, and several months ago the defeated candidate, former Representative Harry M. Wursbach, Republican, filed notice of contest in the house of representatives.

McCloskey alleged in his answer to the notice that the only way to get a just decision was by an actual count of the ballots. Therefore, he has asked that they be preserved.

During the past year charges and counter charges have been thrown back and forth between the two men, alleging irregularities and fraud.

'Spook School' Is Revealed Through Court Testimony

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 6. (AP)—Milwaukee has a "spook school."

For from 10 cents to $1 a lesson, according to civil court testimony today one could take courses in "trumpetry," "materialization," and soon graduate as a "trans medium" capable of communicating with the spirit world. Three of the 15 students enrolled were dissatisfied and wanted their "tuition" back.

Fred Ingersoll, 47, a millwright, said he paid Mrs. Katherine Meander $75.50 to teach him to become a medium. After a year of lessons he could not produce spirits and he believed the thing was a fake.

He became suspicious of the school, he said, when one night at class he saw a "spirit" that didn't look filmy enough to be genuine. He pounced on the "spirit form" and retrieved its dress—cheese cloth.

Mrs. Meander said Ingersoll and two others whom the court ruled deserved their "tuition" returned were "framing" her.

U. S. URGED TO ANNEX CUBA

Both Countries Would Benefit, He Claims

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (US)—Annexation of Cuba, to insure an adequate supply of sugar in the event of war, was suggested by Rudolph Spreckels, independent refiner of New York, in a statement issued here today.

Pointing out that the United States is self-sustaining in every necessary food product except sugar, Spreckels said that annexation would "bring prosperity and contentment to the people of the island and at the same time permanently solve the problem of Uncle Sam's sugar supply."

The United States cannot hope to raise an adequate supply on its mainland because of unfavorable climatic and labor conditions, while our insular possessions have about reached the limit of their production, said Spreckels.

Youth Has Found The Way!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cultivated the fertile field of opportunity and invites everyone to roam in search of desired pursuits. Nothing remains of that ancient prejudice which bound the apprentice, without choice, to his career.*

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan. "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Approaching Nuptials Of Society Girl Announced

Sunshine after storm added to the brilliance of the event when Mrs. J. A. Fisher and her daughter, Miss Thelma Fisher entertained Wednesday in honor of Miss Fay Fisher, whose engagement and approaching marriage to J. Warner Zimmer is announced as an event of Nov. 20.

Probably no home in the city is more beautifully adapted to entertainment than that in which the lovely tea took place. Entering the hall and in the long drawing room, the reception line included Mesdames J. A. Fisher, T. T. T. Reese, A. H. Carrigan, C. N. Cameron, C. W. Gilliland, Ray C. Arnhold, Anderson Kemp, J. C. Straus Jr., Norman Stovall, W. J. Grisham, J. W. Stringer, John W. Thomas, O. B. Kiel, W. E. Priddy, Darrold Kahn, Jouette Bonner, George Collum, King Smith, and Misses Anabel Couper, Mary Jo Kell, Adelle Jarrell and Marguerite McDonald.

In the dining room, where giant plume bronze chrysanthemums and triple green tapers made an exquisite motif on the handsome Maderia cloth, Misses Gene Nelson, Camille Avis, Dorothy Nolen and P. P. Langford Jr. acted as hostesses.

In the sunroom, where the bridal party stood, the baskets of white chrysanthemums, the lovely ferns, green draperies and even the soft mottled colors of the tiles were adapted to the bride-elect's colors of green and white. The lovely honoree, with her sister, Miss Thelma Fisher, who is to be maid of honor and Misses Helen Grisham, Alice Graham of Graham, and Elizabeth Carrigan, received the guests in this room.

Guests filled the lovely drawing room with its rich furnishings; the handsome oriental rugs, in jewel tinted patterns and heavy draperies made a perfect setting for the bronze chrysanthemums and autumn leaves used there. Up the steps and through the lovely arches, guests filled the music room, where delicate colors were used and a hint of the green and white of the wedding colors predominated. Guests even thronged the gracefully arching stairs with their delicate wrought iron rail.

About 200 friends attended the tea and received the announcement when the plates in green and white were served with a white scroll tied in a green ribbon, on each containing the news, "Fay and Zim," Nov. 20, 1929.

Every day until the date of the wedding, some function is to take place in honor of the bride-elect. Among those entertaining are Mrs. P. King Smith and Miss Gene Nelson, Mrs. George Collum and Miss Marguerite McDonald, Mrs. T. T. T. Reese, Mrs. John Thomas, Misses Mary Jo Kell, Adelle Jarrell, Elizabeth Carrigan, Helen Grisham, Anabel Couper and Mrs. Ray Arnhold.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We saw her poised on slender, white shod feet, head lifted on a milky throat with a grace and a feeling far beyond that love of the bird's music shown in "The Lark." A lifting of the spirit! That was what was expressed.

She wore a rose petaled dress of ruffled chiffon and a silver lace scarf lay round her shoulders. She had expected all the wonderful program Bomar Cramer had given, but the encore numbers brought her new delight. Lovely, lissome, graceful—she seemed the spirit of music as she leaned lightly against the folding doors of the dining room at the forum clubhouse. How many caught the picture we saw?

And another little woman we saw first also on the night of Bomar Cramer's program. The black bangs lying across her forehead and her graceful little foreign mannerisms made us think of "The Little French Girl."

We met her again soon after, this quaintly charming little figure. She talked with such winsome naivette of customs and habits in a foreign country, she was just "six years from," that we would like to have listened indefinitely. One who doesn't know her, misses something.

Still another woman we wish to mention. There are people who are said to have diplomacy. She has it, but real sympathy hides the diplomacy. Sympathy is a thing of the heart, and she has it. She never becomes entangled in a dispute. She is Eve, with Eve's subtlety, but she has the superb qualities of justice and loyalty. Because of these, we know of no enemy she has.

The last statement is one that cannot often be made of women in club work, for club work has a way of snarling webs around the worker's feet.

The woman is kind to every person, courteous to every person, lovely to look upon, wise as they are made, an executive out of the ordinary and loved by everyone, even those whom she asks to do things. And everyone knows her.

Lovely women make us think of lovely flowers; we are hoping the deep border of russet and orchid chrysanthemums at the forum will live through the storms and cold until the day of the flower show.

And we are still wondering how the purple ageratum that spreads in beauty before the J. A. Fisher home has managed to hold its glory when ageratum in other spots is faded and gone. Close beside it, in hidden beauty, lantana is still abloom.

On the boulevard along Harrison street in Country Club Estates, there's a shrub that is mottled with red berries. We have not yet learned just what it is, but it is worth the planting in any yard where a resident wants autumn beauty.

Love-Making In Fun Dangerous Sport, Says Dix

How Can a Young Bachelor Avoid the Threat of Matrimony When He Makes Love?—Why the Modern Girl Gives More Trouble Than Her Brother.

Dear Miss Dix—Why does every woman I make love to expect me to marry her? It is perfectly dreadful. I never feel safe any more. I hardly even am able to make love to a girl two weeks at a stretch without her starting to talk about a bungalow with white curtains. I am much too young to be married. A wife would be a dreadful handicap to me now, but must I become a monk until I am ready for the handcuffs? Is there not any pleasant feminine companionship to be had without the threat of matrimony hanging constantly over my head?—TRIFLER.

Answer—Oh, yes, there is plenty of pleasant feminine companionship to be had dallying along paths that do not lead to the altar, for there is a constantly increasing number of intelligent, good-looking, agreeable, up-and-coming young women who do not desire to marry, but who like to play around with men.

These are business and professional women who have fitted themselves for some special work in which they are interested, and who make fine salaries. They feel that they do not care to give up good jobs for mediocre husbands, and that it is easier and pleasanter to work in an office than it is in a kitchen, so matrimony has no allure for them, especially as they see it illustrated in the cases of their sisters and their cousins and their aunts.

But because a girl doesn't want to marry doesn't keep her from wanting masculine society. She gets fed up on women talk and there is small pep in running around to exclusive hen parties or going to the theater with another girl, and any self-respecting girl would never dance another step if she had to have one of her own sex for a partner. So these young women who would say "no" promptly and emphatically if you asked one of them to marry you, will say "yes" gladly enough if you will ask her to the theater, or to go to a restaurant or a ball with you.

Hence, if you yearn for feminine companionship which is absolutely safe, hunt up a successful business girl and make her your little playmate. She will have no designs upon you.

The trouble with you has been that your approach was wrong. You didn't pitch your attentions on the right plane. You should have labeled your attentions as without intention and so have avoided having them misconstrued.

Of course, if you begin by making love to a girl and giving her the usual applesauce about her being the only woman in the world, and you never having loved before, and that the hours are weeks long that you do not see her, you cannot blame her if she believes you and begins to try to decide on whether she will have a church wedding or be married at home, and how she will dress the bridesmaids.

A woman's vanity makes her credulous and she seldom has enough common sense to analyze the sweet nothings that men say to her and find out whether they mean anything, or are just merely hot air. She longs to be loved. She yearns to believe that some man has enshrined her in his heart, and so she falls for any kind of blarney. She doesn't realize that the love-making that isn't accompanied by a genuine bona fide proposal of marriage is merely a man's way of amusing himself and making things pleasant for the girl.

It is because women practically always misunderstand love-making that makes it a dangerous sport for men who do not want to marry. Therefore, I advise you to cut it out and to confine yourself to platonic friendships with girls who likewise do not wish to marry, but who are not averse to discussing the theory of love in all of its various phases and manifestations. And, believe me, son, that's playing with fire, but it is not quite so hazardous as sticking your hand into the flame.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why do so many people say that they are glad they have not young girls to raise in this generation? You don't hear as much said about the boys as you do about the girls, but I think that boys give their parents as much trouble as the girls and sometimes a little bit more.—ROSE.

Answer—There have always been wild boys and boys who sowed their wild oats, and heaven knows they have been anxiety and sorrow enough to their parents and caused their parents to shed enough tears. But this is the first time in the history of the world when there have been wild and unmanageable girls in respectable families, who have defied their parents' authority and made their parents lie awake at night wondering what they were doing and praying for their safety.

In former times father and mother may not have known where John was, nor what he was up to, but they knew where Mary was, and that she was blamelessly amusing herself. But nowadays Mary slams the door behind her, and is off with a gay crowd in an automobile and she rolls home with the milkman. Furthermore, parents didn't used to have to worry about what a nice girl would do. Nice girls didn't smoke or drink or even pet, unless they were engaged to a young man, but what with hip flasks and hooch parties and roadhouses there are plenty of things to give the parents of girls gray hair and wrinkles before their time nowadays.

And it is because parents cannot keep their own daughters from doing the things that other peoples' daughters do and because girls have broken away from one set of standards and a new set of standards has not yet been formulated, and because the fathers and mothers know that these little ignorant girls, who think themselves so wise, are in such danger that it makes all who have daughters feel that they are tackling a great and unsolvable problem.

Of course, bringing up boys is likewise a job that is full of anxiety and heartaches, but the worst that can befall a boy is not so tragically bad as what can befall a girl. For a boy to be talked about does not blast his reputation as it does a girl's. For a boy to get drunk is not the shame it is for a girl to get drunk. For a boy to lead a loose life does not put him beyond the pale as it does a girl. A boy cannot disgrace his parents as a girl can.

For the world judges a woman harder than it does a man because it expects her to be better and purer. And God help us all when we cease to expect this.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Artistic Home Awaits Little Theater Opening

Where a week ago, an empty store room stood, there stands today a model home for a Little Theater.

Walls tinted in the softest shade of mauve, heavy purple velvet curtains draped over a stage with perfect lighting, seats stained in shades lending to the artistic effect, are some of the changes.

On the stage, where the walls are of the same lovely shades as in the theater proper, a gracefully arched door at the back, shows a balcony outside, a lovely landscape and in the far distance, an East Indian city.

This is the stage setting that will be shown when the cast presents to the audience, "The Drums of Oude."

Bearth-taking in its interest, this tale is one where the audience gasps with relief when they see through the wide archway, a regiment of British soldiers. Mrs. J. W. Aiken Jr., cast in the part of the heroine, plays savior to the whole audience so keenly will the play be felt in a thrilling manner.

One of the features of this play is the drumming off stage which will be done by splendid drummers on gold drumheads. The lighting will be entirely different from that shown in "The Unseen," which is presented on the same night and will be given first. White lights will be used in this semi-spiritualistic play, where an uneducated, illiterate servant maid will hold the strings of Jeffrey Baldwin's fate in her hands in a manner only known by unseen spirits.

On the nights of Nov. 11, 12, 13, and 14, the two plays will be presented and with the number of members of the organization and the crowds expressing their interest, it is expected the two casts will play each night to a full house.

MEMBERS URGED TO MAKE RESERVATIONS

Members of the Wichfta Falls Little Theater are requested to make their reservations at once for The Little Theater's forthcoming productions, "Drums of Oude" and "Unseen," to be presented at the Little Theater home, 1715 Polk street, for four nights starting next Monday.

According to Mrs. L. H. Gould, chairman of the ticket committee, all members are obliged to take two tickets and are given first preference on seats. Mrs. Gould and her committee are at the Radiola store, 812 Scott street, daily and are anxious for Little Theater members to make their reservations at once in order to care for the demand of non-members ordering seats. Members may select one of the four nights in which they wish to attend the productions and seats will be reserved for them. The limited seating capacity of the Little Theater makes it imperative that reservations be made at once, Mrs. Gould stated.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. (AP)—F. W. Woolworth company's October sales totaled $27,678,096, a gain of 2.9 per cent.

Sorosis Members Are Entertained At Country Club

The meeting was held in the drawing room before a blazing log fire, where masses of crysanthemums added to the beauty of the surroundings.

Mrs. A. W. Burnside was leader in the study of the topic, "Armistice Day," and the roll call was answered with the names of the great peace makers of the day.

Mrs. Burnside ably reviewed Willa Cather's "One of Ours," one of the splendid stories of the late war. She quoted other critics then gave her own criticism on the book and an interesting sketch of the author's life.

TELL FOLKS how easy it is to LOSE FAT

Everybody knows how excess fat has disappeared in late years. Men and women in every circle prove that figures need not stay abnormal. Youth and beauty, health and vitality can come back.

All must realize that, in late years, some new factor is employed. Fewer people now rely on abnormal exercise or diet. Modern science has proved that most fat people suffer from an under-active gland. Physicians now, in treating obesity, seek to correct that deficiency.

The chief factors are embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, prepared by a famous laboratory. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in every circle there are slender people who can tell you what they do.

The method is scientific and well known. Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for the good results. No starvation, though moderation helps. The purpose is to help out an under-active gland, which should turn food into fuel and energy.

Go test this well-tried method. In a little while results will tell you what Marmola means to you. If you see the excess fat go and new vitality return, go on until the change is completed. Then, in fairness to your friends, tell them, as users have done for so long. Start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

More and More COLDS treated externally

A GENERATION ago when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, more and more colds are treated this modern way, and the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting delicate little stomachs. Of course it is equally good for adults. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

To keep pace with the ever-increasing demand for this better method of treating colds, the famous Vick slogan has again been changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

32nd Producer in O. C. Field Is Real Gusher

Special to The Record News.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6.—The 32nd producer in the new Oklahoma City field is a real gusher.

Blowing in at 10 a. m. Tuesday, after bailing for more than 24 hours at 6542 feet in a lime, the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and Foster Petroleum corporation's No. 1 Thomas-Fuzzell, in the southwest corner of the southeast of 13-11-3w, put 620 barrels of 39.8 gravity oil in the tanks in 15 minutes and around 400 barrels was flown on the ground.

The gusher was then shut in, as the gas risers and separators were unable to handle its tremendous flow. It is estimated that 85,000,000 feet of gas was flowing with the oil.

The owners were rushing new storage and seeking new pipeline connections to take care of the increased production.

The Oklahoma City field produced but 26,503 barrels of oil Tuesday morning with but eight of the "A" wells producing. These wells also made 9,245 barrels of water. To the total was added the Nicoma Park well, which is not on proration, and thus making nine producing wells for the Oklahoma City area.

Stephens County, Okla., Field Adds Producer

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 6.—The Shell Petroleum corporation has brought in No. 1 Pierce, in the southwest of the southeast of the southeast of 2-1s-4w, in the County Line pool of Stephens county. Casing was cemeted at 3265 feet and after encountering a series of sands that showed oil from 3267 to 3687 feet, with total depth at 3802 feet.

The new well swabbed 60 barrels the first 15 hours, and is expected to improve.

The Palacine field of eastern Stephens county, opened by the Wirt Franklin Petroleum corporation may have another well soon. The Franklin company is running a tester at 3652 feet, after getting a showing at No. 1 Bonner, in the northwest corner of the southeast of 9-2s-6w.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Andrea, in the northeast of the southeast of the northeast of 8-2s-6w, drilled through a sandy lime, showing oil at 2986 to 2995 feet, and cored a sand showing oil from 3001 to 3007 feet. The hole is being washed prior to testing.

Only a doctor knows what a laxative should be

YOU don't want to use a laxative every day. Nor once a week. This should not be necessary. And it never would be required if all of us would learn the danger that lies in a careless selection of laxatives.

By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, poor appetite, or lack of energy warns us that our bowels are sluggish, we risk forming the laxative habit.

Rely on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach trouble. Its originator tried it in many thousands of cases. He found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. There were so many calls for this prescription and its fame spread so rapidly that druggists began to fill it in quantities; kept it ready for calls. Now Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is prepared from the freshest herbs and other pure ingredients under ideal conditions. You can get the generous bottles of it from drug stores in any part of the world.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a real corrective of constipation. Millions have proved this. That's why it is today the world's most popular laxative!

PROSPERITY CHECK BOOKS

Daily Editorial

LET'S TAKE inventory.

America is shy several billion dollars' worth of bubble stuffing—but not a single greenback is missing from the till.

The emerald, chinchilla wrap and imported-car trades are in for a dull period. Night clubs begin to note a dearth of "suckers," and "now is the winter" of the ticket scalper's discontent.

Numerous gentlemen, whose ambitions were fondling the prospect of additional Old Masters and a Bayeux tapestry or so, have suddenly decided to postpone their further adventures in high art.

Royal suites on palatial liners no longer require advance booking. And high-pressure insurance salesmen find million dollar policy prospects scarcer than Gutenberg Bibles. Shipyards have concluded that the moment is inopportune to launch a campaign for "bigger and better yachts." And the erectors of uncompleted haut ton hotels and snify apartment houses strongly suspect that they picked a lemon for their investments

Interior decorators won't be surprised if Mrs. Psmith and the Van Jones regret to cancel expensive and extensive refurbishments, and the saturation point in peachblow beakers and Elizabethan panelling seems to be with us.

But business, generally, is moving as usual. There's no noticeable sag in employment figures; wages are sure of their gains, and the absorption of customary comforts and common necessities has not abated a jot.

AGRICULTURE is immeasurably better off than a year ago and federally protected against temporary inequalities of supply and demand.

The country's appetite is as voracious as ever. Mail order profits, railroad earnings and corporation surpluses are still full of melon seeds—state and federal budgets proceeding with highway and construction programs, and export shipments haven't even heard that the bull movement is checked.

The machinery that makes all the money which foolhardy speculation diverts from useful occupation, to engage in sterile tasks and increase the operating costs of industry and retailing, is still intact and enriching, with usual promptness, shoemakers who stick to their lasts.

The guerilla billions which so long confounded federal reserve attempts to provide merchant, manufacturer and contractor with cheap working funds, are largely back under bank control and engaged once more in the promotion of prosperity.

Enterprises may hereafter borrow requirements without depositing a right eye and the family burial plot for security.

It took a powerful emetic to purge our economic system, but the remedy will eventually justify its appalling cost.

The victims of the ticker are individuals, not institutions. Nothing has happened to decrease confidence in the stability of the United States or its ability to carry on at full pitch.

Delusions of grandeur have had an awful wallop, but no important balance sheet shows a black eye.

Take up your mental picks and shovels and go dig away at the job which yielded the savings you so recklessly stewarded.

There's plenty of money left where the last lot came from—for everybody but a quitter.

Change sometimes helps us to a better view of life—if we get enough change and spend it wisely.

One way to gain popularity is to be unlucky at cards—except when you're playing with partners.

The "Backward" States

JOSEPH R. GRUNDY should not be criticized too sharply for declaring that the agricultural western and southwestern states are "backward" and do not deserve much representation in the United States senate.

He was only saying what a great many men have been thinking. He at least had the virtue of frankness. He stated his theory publicly, instead of concealing it and operating under false pretenses. And utter frankness, in Washington, is not too common a virtue.

Nevertheless, this proposition of Grundy's deserves some discussion. It represents the culmination of a growing American theory; the theory that nothing counts except industry, that all values can be measured in terms of a manufacturer's ledgers, that the supreme pinnacle of human endeavor is represented in such a phenomenon as the Pittsburgh steel district or the Detroit automobile region.

Now if this theory be correct, Grundy's view about our "backward states" is correct also. In that case a Pennsylvania mining town, with its unpainted hovels that do for homes, its dreary streets and its company police, with their long record of brutality and repression, is a jewel in our crown, and a peaceful Dakota farming community is a villainous disgrace.

It might be, however, that Grundy is mistaken.

Perhaps, in other words, we do not live for our industries. Perhaps there are in this world things that are more important than dividends. Perhaps Grundy and Vare are not the immeasurable superiors of Borah and Norris.

Grundy's argument, after all, boils down to this: The manufacturers have a right to fix the laws to suit themselves. If there are in the country people who do not happen to be manufacturers, and who do not like to live under laws that were devised by and for the manufacturers, they are just out of luck. Their only salvation is to become manufacturers themselves.

There aren't many who will go that far with this Santa Claus of the Pennsylvania industrialists. Yet that is what his whole theory leads to. If the industrialist is the only one to be considered when a matter like the tariff comes up for discussion, then the "backward" states do not deserve to have senators and representatives in Washington.

We owe Grundy a debt, in a way. He has brought this attitude out into the open. It is an attitude that is pretty well represented at the capital just now, and it exercises a lot of power. Grundy has helped us to see that it is there.

Expensive Hospitals

DR. WILL MAYO'S criticism of modern hospitals is something to which the hospitals ought to give a good deal of serious thought. For many millions of people, he said, hospital facilities and care are simply too expensive. To many, the fear of possible death is not so bothersome as the fear of debt which they know confinement in a hospital will bring them.

A modern hospital is necessarily a costly institution. But, as Dr. Mayo points out, it is possible to go in a little too strongly for non-essential luxuries. Too many hospitals are perfect for the wealthy patient, but sadly inadequate for the man of average or under-average financial means.

Stick to the Short Skirt

THE FASHION DESIGNERS' struggle to encase American women in ankle-length skirts once more is proceeding right merrily. Judging from our own observations, we would say that it isn't meeting with a whole world of success—and somehow we're rather glad.

Whatever can be said about immodesty—and to our notion there isn't a great deal that needs to be said in that connection—the plain fact remains that women took to short skirts primarily because they were infinitely more comfortable and convenient than the old styles. Now, simply to force women to buy more clothes, the dress manufacturers are trying to bring the long skirt back on a flood of propaganda.

A Threat to the Dirigibles?

THE MAKERS of the giant dirigibles might give a thought or two to the amazing new Dornier seaplane, which took 152 people into the air in Germany the other day on a trial flight which seemed to prove the complete practicality of constructing heavier-than-air machines on large-scale plans.

The chief advantage of the dirigible has been that it can carry a much greater load than the airplane. But this seaplane took aloft more people than any dirigible ever carried. It has yet to be tested on long distance flights, to be sure; but its early performances indicate that it may be a serious threat to the newly begun reign of the monster dirigible.

Who Was Getting It?

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES investigating the gigantic liquor ring which was recently broken up by a raid on its fortified headquarters in New Jersey say that the organization's account books show that $30,000 a week was paid to bribe law-enforcement officials.

That sum is so large that it almost passes belief. And we submit that nothing the investigators can do be half as important as finding out just what officials were collecting that money.

Bribery is the life blood of the illicit liquor trade. If it cannot be stamped out prohibition cannot be enforced. By all odds, let's see these crooked officials tripped up permanently.

Nocturne

Your house re-echoed laughter as I went by last night,
It rose to roof and rafter and shook
them with delight;
From violin and cello
Came music that was mellow
To stir a foolish fellow,
As is their wanton right.

I pictured all your clique there—
each maiden and each lad.
Was Dot and Grace and Nick there
—and did you harbor Tad?
Was all your evening merry?
Did you have port or sherry?
And were the youngsters wary?
Or were the youngsters glad?

The lad who quite effaced me when
Summer swung to fall—
The lad who has replaced me—was he at beck and call?
And when an old waltz haunting
Stirred memories so taunting—
Oh, was there something wanting—
Did I creep in at all?

Oop!

Eddie Cantor, the "Whoopee" star, frequented Dave's Boo-hoo Room again early yesterday morning, presumably to take his mind off his huge losses in the stock market. Bill Demarest, one of the bright spots of "Sketch Book," was at the next table. He leaned over to Cantor and started chop-talking.

"How's business at 'Whoopee' considering what happened in Wall street?"

"Oh," replied Eddie, "fair."

"Fair?" snapped Demarest, "or pheh!"

Hehehah

Cantor threw the place into hysterics when he told the crowd that if they wanted to recoup their losses they should buy National Casket.

Merciless Truth

The age of the stock market crash comments, if you asked us, was Heywood Broun's who said: "I only wish that those people who said they wouldn't vote for Smith because business would suffer, were up to their necks in Montgomery Ward!"

The Comeback Nifty

At a recent dinner Rabbi Nathan Krass, a grand orator, followed two of our foremost after-dinner comedians, Jessel and Cantor. He clowned: "It is practically suicide for a preacher like me to attempt to divert you after listening to such funny persons. But frankly, I think I would do better if, instead of trying to entertain you, I said a prayer over their jokes!"

Cantor retaliated: "The good reverend accuses us of telling you old stuff, when he has to depend on the Bible."

Anniversary

Since you were afraid of many things,
My dear,
Then meet
The fleeting vision of
A hollowed pillow where my head
lay.
Knowing love,
With less confusion than you would
A dream.
It never was—
Only to seem so,
Last year;
Cheerio.

Sam H. Harris, who once managed the better prize fighters (before he began his show producing career), tried the fight manager's usual stunt on his new "find," Harry Rosenthal, just before the premiere asbestos lifted on his hit, "June Moon." He visited the newcomer's dressing room and talked to Harry about everything except the show, in an attempt to keep Rosenthal's mind off the ordeal of making a first appearance before a particular New York audience.

"Oh, don't be ridiculous!" comforted Rosenthal. "I'm wise. You came here to keep me from getting nervous. I'll be all right."

And he was all right, too, the critics unanimously voicing him the outstanding member of the cast.

In relating the story to us Harry, who is primarily a fine pianist, added: "But what do you think? I went through my part without a mistake and without trembling once—except when I had to do my solo at the piano."

A Form of Criticism

A paragrapher on an obscure publication, desperate for recognition of any sort from the Park Row commentators, has been poking them furiously and frequently. After singling out one columnist for a wrist-spanking he waited for a retort, hasty or otherwise. After several days had passed without rating a reply, he dispatched a mutual friend to learn if the Park Rowgue intended answering the rap.

"Ain'tcha gonna come back at him?" finally queried the go-between.

"No," was the indifferent retort. "I never hit a competitor who isn't my size."

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXII

If he had slapped her across the face Ann Marie couldn't have been more stunned and hurt.

"You mean you're through with me?" she asked, feeling as though her heart would burst. "You don't care about me—any more?"

He picked up his glass of orange juice, drained it and set it down again.

"Well, to tell the truth, I'm not very crazy about you in your present mood," he said bluntly. "I've always been a free agent and it gets my goat to have you keep tabs on me!"

He drank the coffee she had made for him and picked up the morning paper.

"And you'd like to be a free agent again?" Ann Marie asked in a strangled voice. "You're tired of being engaged to me, aren't you?"

He did not answer.

Ann Marie stood, looking down at him for a moment more, and then went slowly out of the room.

She closed the door of it behind her, feeling exactly as if she were closing the door on all of her happiness.

Oh, what a fool she had been to think she could hold him just by coming here and taking care of him! What a fool she had been to think of marrying a man like him! A man so good looking that no woman would ever let him alone. So wild about women, himself, that he never would tie himself down to one.

"I knew what he was like, right from the start," she told herself, thinking it all out in the quiet of her own little apartment, "and I should have put him out of my mind then."

She was shaking all over as she started to dress for her engagement with Jim Goodwin and his sister.

At 1 o'clock a knock came on her door.

"There's Jim now," she thought, and picked up her gloves and handbag.

But when she opened the door Neal stood outside in the dim little hallway. He was laughing and he held a pair of his trousers in his hands.

"Sore at me?" he asked.

For an instant Ann Marie was too amazed to answer him.

"It was you — You were angry with me!" she said finally.

She could hardly believe that he was not angry with her still. Why, not an hour ago he had told her, by his silence that he was through with her. That he wanted to be what he called "a free agent" again. . . . And now here he was, behaving as if nothing very much had happened!

She couldn't begin to understand him, unless perhaps this was his way of patching up their quarrel.

"Well, if we're friends, I was going to ask you to do me a favor," he said to her, still in that half-laughing way. "I was going to ask you if you would press this pair of trousers for me."

Now, Ann Marie had never pressed a pair of trousers in her life. But she had seen Mrs. Leesy press trousers for her father and Howdy many a time. And she had a small electric iron in her little make-believe kitchen.

"All right. Give them to me," she said. She took them.

But as she did it, a bell rang in the room behind her, and she knew that the Goodwins had come for her.

"That must be Jim ringing the bell in the vestibule," she said, wondering what to do now. "I — I ought to go to lunch with him and his sister, Neal. He's trying to be nice to me. He's going to take me to some people who may give me a job. And you know it was you who asked Jim to help me out."

He surprised her by nodding his head. "Sure. It's all right for you to go," he said. "I've been thinking it over. It's all right."

He took the trousers out of her hand.

"You won't have time to do these," he added. "I'd have the tailor down the street press them, but I owe him so much now that I'm steering clear of him . . . Goodbye, have a good time."

He drew her close to him and kissed her.

"Hurry back," he said.

She was half-way down the stairs when he called back to her.

He was still holding the trousers in his hands, and he was looking first at them and then at her with odd little twisted smile on his face.

"Sweetheart, I've got to have these pressed," he said, "and I'm flatter than linoleum. My mother usually sends me a check about this time of the month but it's late this month . . . Could you let me take a fiver?"

The words were not out of his mouth before Ann Marie had a ten dollar bill out of her shabby little bag and into his outstretched hand.

"Good lord, I never thought I'd come to this!" he groaned in a comical sort of way as he took it. "Borrowing money from my girl!"

. . . . "My girl," Ann Marie repeated his words to herself as she ran down the stairs to meet the Goodwins. He said 'my girl'!"

That meant that he had forgiven her and taken her back — and she was gloriously happy once again!

Jim was waiting in the vestibule for her, and through the lace door-curtains Ann Marie could see his car standing at the curb.

There was a girl in the back seat. She leaned eagerly when Jim and Ann Marie came out into the sunny street.

"My sister, Janet," Jim said, introducing her, "Janet, this is Ann Marie Macy. I have to call her 'Miss Macy' but she'll probably not mind if you call her 'Ann Marie'."

"I would love it!" declared Ann Marie, settling herself on the soft velvet covered cushions of the great closed car with its shining windows and silver and crystal fittings.

Jim got in beside her.

"We're going to the Plaza," he said in his quiet pleasant way as the car slid away from the curb.

The Plaza! . . . Ann Marie looked down at her shabby gloves, her shabbier handbag and her old blue dress that had been steamed and pressed times without number.

She looked at Janet Goodwin's black velvet suit that looked as if it were brand new. At the bunch of creamy fresh gardenias pinned upon her young flat breast. At her immaculate cream colored gloves. At the string of tiny seed-pearls around her neck.

"She makes me look like something out of a second-hand store," thought Ann Marie bitterly. "And I'll look worse than ever in a place like the Plaza!"

She began to wish that she had never said she would come with them today—and then all at once she forgot her discomfort and her shyness. For Janet had begun to talk to her in the easiest friendliest way, and she laid one of her beautifully gloved hands over Ann Marie's as she talked.

"Jim says you've come up here all alone!" she said, "and I do think that's the bravest thing I ever heard of!—To leave your home and your family and everything just to come up here to study art!—I think you're positively wonderful!"

She talked on and on in her young excited breathless voice, with her dark eyes snapping and her face aglow with 19-year-old interest and enthusiasm.

Ann Marie only half-listened to her. She leaned back in her seat enjoying the sight of the crowds of Fifth avenue, the sunlight, the stir of spring in the air and the warm comfort of being with two people who liked her and din't mind showing it. Two people who had gone out of their way to be kind to her for no reason at all—except that they did like her.

The Plaza was too wonderful for words.

It took Ann Marie's breath away . . . . The big dining room with its deep-piled carpet. The music playing softly. The velvety roses on every table. The beautifully dressed women and men, smoking and eating. The silver-covered dishes full of rich unfamiliar food. Janet smiling and nodding at people here and there . . . . Jim on the other side of their own table, with eyes only for Ann Marie.

"And now to business!" he said in a big-brotherly voice when lunch was over.

They got back into the car, dropped Janet at Forty-second street, and went on downtown to the advertising agency.

Up, up, up in a crowded elevator to the very top of a tall building they went. Then down a long hall to an office where many men and women were at work at flat-topped desks. . . . Then into a smaller office where a generously-built handsome woman of middle age got up from a big shining mahogany desk to greet them.

"Miss Hogan, this is the young lady I've been telling you about," Jim said, and laid Ann Marie's package of her own pictures on the big shining desk. "I know you'll be able to find something for her to do. Something that she'll like to do—and something that will pay her well."

Miss Hogan flashed a smile at him from her bright gray eyes. She had a lovely smile and big square white teeth.

"And now I've got to be going," Jim said, turning to Ann Marie. "The car will be waiting downstairs for you."

A hard hand-grip, and he was gone.

At 4 o'clock Ann Marie came walking out of the building as if she were walking on stars.

She had a job and the promise of $30 a week salary to start with! Moreover, Miss Hogan had told her that she was good! . . . Her little pictures of flappers in smart dresses were "adorable," she had said.

"They're different. They're not the same old style pictures we've been seeing in fashion-sheets for the past five years," she had told Ann Marie. "You be here tomorrow morning at half past eight, and I'll be here to start you off right!"

The sound of her business-like rich voice still sounded in Ann Marie's ears. . . . It seemed to her like the very voice of success!

"And pretty soon I'll have enough money to get into a night class at some good art school," she thought as the great smooth-riding car bore her back to Susquehanna hall. "God bless Jim Goodwin for all of it?"

She unlocked the door of her flat and walked into it.

The windows were open to the soft spring dusk. . . . Had she left them open, she wondered.

Then she saw that someone was in the room.

A slender plume of blue cigaret smoke rose above one end of the day-bed which had been dragged out of the dressing closet. From the other end swung a foot, and from the tip of that foot dangled a Turkish slipper! . . . She knew that slipper! She knew whose slipper that was.

Alice had come to town!

Ear Noises

Tinnitus aurium, or ear noises, are described by some as ringing, buzzing or whirring. These annoyances may occur in one ear or both for a short time or at all times. The continual noise in the ear is very annoying and causes the patient much anxiety and has even been known to cause suicide.

As a general rule, if the noise comes and goes the patient feels better in the morning when the nerves are rested than in the evening when the nerves are fatigued.

Roaring in the ears may be present from a number of causes. Sometimes it is due to a pressure on the drum of the ear from ear wax that has formed a plug. It is frequently noticed in cases of migraine, anemia and neurasthenia. When the patient is anemic, having him take the reclining position will reduce the noise.

An inflammation of the ear will cause ear noises, as will accidents or blows on the ear, an excessive blood supply, high blood pressure or a catarrh of the eustachian tube. It is also noted in many cases of epilepsy and in congestion of the turbinates. Too much coffee, tea, tobacco or alcohol may cause it temporarily. Quinine is known to bring about ringing of the ears. Any derangement of the heart or blood vessels may cause it Telephone tinnitius is due to excessive use of the telephone, and some people are so sensitive to noise that after hearing rivet hammering or explosions for any length of time, even though the noise ceases, they continue to hear it.

In treating ringing of the ears the cause should be removed whenever possible. The nerves should be rested and strengthened. The patient should be encouraged to obtain plenty of sleep and avoid being overtired. It is also a good plan to follow a fasting regime as outlined in my cleansing diet course which was published a short time ago in this newspaper. This will assist in reducing the high blood pressure, if that is the cause, or in clearing out the catarrhal obstructions or inflammation. One should also have the ear examined to see if the trouble is caused by ear wax or some other mechanical pressure.

The only method of overcoming ear noises is to play fair with the ears by adopting those habits of eating, eliminating and exercising which will steady the nerves and give a healthy blood stream free from toxic wastes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sleep Walking

Question: H. D. writes—"For several years I have been afflicted with sleep walking, and although I have been under a doctor's care during that time, I have not found relief. Please advise me."

Answer—Sleep walking is a form of dreaming where the brain is asleep but not the muscular system. It is usually caused by digestive disturbances and can be cured by following the course outlined in my article called "A Cleansing Diet," which I will gladly mail to you. You should be careful never to become over-tired.

Gray Hair

Question: Mrs. L. S. V. asks—"Are there any special foods one could eat that would bring more color to the hair when it is beginning to turn gray?

Answer—The use of plenty of green vegetables unquestionably has some effect on preventing the graying of the hair, but there is no one single food I know of which is a specific to be used in keeping the hair its natural color.

Question: Mrs. J. W. writes—"My little girl's foot was injured during childbirth. The nerve on the inner side of the limb seems to have been stunned. She wears half inch pads or "lifts" in that shoe, and the orthopedist, who is taking care of her, wants to operate before she is three years old. He wants to transplant the tendons, as the muscle on the outside is stronger than that on the inside, and pulls the foot to one side. What is your advice?"

Answer—If the nerve of your little girl's foot has been injured but not entirely destroyed, it could probably be benefited by the use of properly administered sinusoidal electrical treatments. Sometimes manipulative treatments are also helpful. I would advise you to try these methods before resorting to the operation, as the transfer of tissue sometimes results in improper control of the foot. If the electrical treatments do not prove beneficial you could, of course, try the operation.

Annapolis Grid Star Arrested for Burglary

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 6. (INS)—C. J. McReavey, former Annapolis football star, war hero and naval aviator was in the county jail charged with suspicion of burglary following his arrest today in the Hollywood apartment of Naomi Childers Reed, former film star.

McReavey denied intention to rob the home of the one-time famous screen player, declaring that she had been a friend of his of long standing, that they had had a trivial quarrel some days ago and that he simply went to the apartment to "make up" with her.

McReavey had a small screw driver, which officers said had been used to force entrance.

Soldier Buddy Springs Gallows for Criminal

LIVINGSTON, Mont., Nov. 6. (UP)—A soldier buddy of 20 years ago sprung the gallows trap that sent Rollin Davission, 42, to death in the Park county jail today to atone for two murders. A minute and a half afterward Davission was pronounced dead.

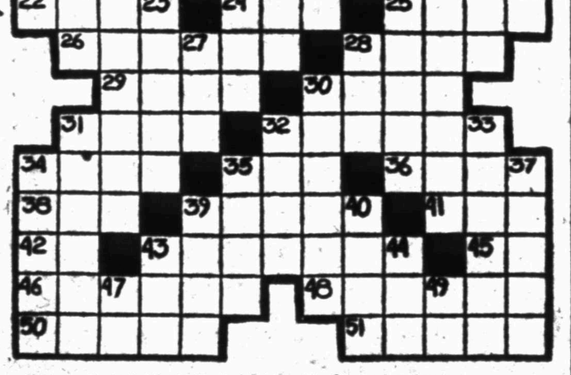

The fact he could never finish a magazine thriller serial was Davission's only regret as he went to death for murdering Chief of Police Peter Holt and Traffic Officer Martin Zollman on Aug. 28, because they refused to collect 50 cents Davission had been unable to get from a debtor.

Sheriff Gilbert, who "soldiered" with Davission in Yellowstone Park, was the hangman.

Pantages Attorneys to Present Jurors' Views

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 6. (INS)—When attorneys for Alexander Pantages, convicted of criminally attacking Miss Eunice Pringle, young amateur dancer, appear in court Saturday to argue for a new trial, they will present affidavits, it is understood, from a number of jurors who will state that they voted for conviction under a misapprehension.

Another Ballad of East and West

"O, East is East, and West is West,"
And they now stand face to face.
Where the Crimson tackles the Maize and Blue
And the Army takes its place
On the plains where Zup and Illinois
Wait for the Army drive
As Cagle darts for an open hole
And Gordon makes his dive.

"O, East is East, and West is West,"
And the twain are meeting still
Where Harvard affms at the Wolverine
And the Army shoots at Ill.
The scrap in old Ann Arbor town
Looks even on the fly,
But the Army has its work cut out
To squash the Illini.

A Pre-Game Speech

It would be interesting to stand or sit on Saturday afternoon within a few feet of Dr. Zuppke as he delivers his pre-game address to the team just before starting the Army game.

Dr. Zuppke is always one of the masters of inspirational eloquence in sending his team to the battle line properly buoyed up and keen or rarin' to go. But when his charges meet an eastern team this eloquence is more than doubled. In the game against Pennsylvania at Franklin field he began warming up some time before the battle, and from that point on he increased his pace to a final burst that sent every man on the team into action with his soul on fire.

The good doctor will overlook nothing along this line on the occasion of the Army game. It takes something of a master now to key the boys up, as many of them greet such impassioned outbursts with a badly stifled yawn.

But there is little yawning in the offing, or in the mouth, when Dr. Zuppke starts in to tell the boys. Some of them still recall his famous address before the Illinois-Minnesota game of 1916—one of the greatest of all upsets—which began:

"I am Louis the Fourteenth, and you are my court. After us the deluge."

This May Interest Harvard

Dear Sir: When Maynard Morrison finished his freshman football at Michigan he was rated the outstanding fullback prospect in Michigan history. This fall Morrison watched three games in civilian clothes from the side lines, and then sat in uniform and watched two more, to the consternation of Michigan rooters. Against Illinois he was placed in the lineup at tackle and became the individual star of the Wolverines by a wide, handsome and undisputed margin. On defense he was taken out of the line and used at defensive fullback. When an Illinois back found a hole in the line Morrison usually picked him up bodily and hurled him back into the breach in the wall. Occasionally he was content with merely smacking the ball carriers against the ground as they had never been smacked before.

After the game Kipke remarked, "That boy will develop into the finest defensive back in Michigan's history. His injured knee isn't entirely well, and when it is he will add more speed to his play."

Memphis Cyclone Will Breeze With Childress Bobcats

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 6.—The Cyclone of the Memphis high school, off to a slow start, have been gaining momentum with every week's play, and now loom as the champions of this section.

The crucial game of the season for Memphis will be played here Friday afternoon when the Cyclone meets the Bobcats of the Childress high school, and this promises to be a hard contested game, and football fever is at its highest in Memphis.

Fast Backfield

The Cyclone have the fastest and best balanced backfield in this section, which quartet consists of Emmett Walker, Bob Phillips, Durward Martindale and James Hammond. In the line Captain Walter Massey has not met his equal at tackle and Clarence Jackson is the best center that has been in this section.

The standing of the teams in this section is as follows: Clarendon, played 5, won 3, lost none, tie 2; Memphis played 5, won 3, lost 1, tie 1; Childress played 4, won 2, lost 1, tie 1; Shamrock played 4, won 2, lost 1, tie 1; Estelline played 6, won 3, lost 2, tie 1; Wellington played 4, won none; Quitaque played 5, won none.

Coach Nolan Walter announces lineup: Left end, J. D. Jackson; left tackle, Walter Massey; left guard, Ezell Champion; center, Clarence Jackson; right guard, Gerald Kunkler; right tackle, Robert Mitcham; right end, J. W. West; quarter, Durward Martindale; left half, Emmett Walker; right half, Robert Phillips; full, James Hammond.

The game will be called promptly at 2:30, and the largest attendance of the season is expected.

Grandfield Bearcats Will Try to Scalp Waurika

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Nov. 6.—The Bearcats will journey to Waurika to meet the Waurika Eagles Friday. Although the Eagles are not 1.000 per cent in conference standing they have a strong defensive team.

This is doped however, to be a Grandfield victory. No practice was held either Monday or Tuesday of this week. Harry Chambers, coach thought the boys were stale and in need of a rest.

Most of the Bearcats are in good physical condition. Although Bruce McLain, center, has a broken finger which is mending nicely, it was broken during the Bearcat-Cowboy fray. Jim Kinzer, right half, has two boils on his neck.

The regular lineup will be sent against Waurika. They are; McLain, c; Dudenhoeffer, R; Pierce, rt; Smart, re; Hasenmyer, le; Caldwell, lg; Sellers, rg; McCullough, f; King, rh; Kinzer, lh; Lawson (captain), q. Substitutes: Creighton, Dudenhoeffer, Jones.

RENEW SPORT SINCE 1907

Purses Totaling $6,000 Are Awarded

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Texas, Nov. 6. (AP)—Renewal of horse racing in Texas after a lapse of 22 years drew 10,000 turf fans to the $3,000,000 plant of the Texas Jockey club here today.

Almost perfect weather attended the running of six races, for which purses totaling $6,000 had been set up by Col. W. T. Waggoner, millionaire Texas cattleman and founder of the Three D stables.

The big turnout of spectators today was in answer to Colonel Waggoner's challenge to the state's sporting instincts and apparently justified his contention that a racing meet could be conducted without benefit or wagering of any kind.

Plainclothes Men Watch

Scores of officers in plain clothes were in the crowd to prevent any manner of bookmaking. Several well known bookmakers from the North and East were warned against practicing their profession. The betting, if there was any, was done on the sly.

Included in the opening day throng were racing enthusiasts from almost every point throughout the country where the sport flourishes. The $90,000 grandstand was packed to capacity before post time for the first race.

Longhorn-Baylor Setto Sure to Be Battle of Greats

AUSTIN, Nov. 6. (AP)—As the home-coming clash with Baylor Saturday becomes more imminent, Longhorn followers aren't making any rash predictions concerning how many points the Steers are going to pile up against the Bruins.

The Bears dedicated memorial stadium here in 1924 with a victory. In 1927 a weak Baylor aggregation forced the Longhorns to extend themselves to the limit to win 13 to 12 and last year the conference champions could gain only a 6 to 0 decision over the Waco boys.

While the freshmen were getting ready for their game with Houston Junior college Friday, the ineligibles and reserves today bore the brunt of the varsity offense and worked Baylor plays in dummy scrimmage. Shelley, Perkins, Craig and Weaver took turns at booting the pigskin in the hope of meeting Jake Wilson on even terms in the punting end of the game.

STRIBLING AGAIN

Young Georgia Boxer Defeats French Heavyweight

PARIS, Nov. 6. (AP)—William L. (Young) Stribling of Atlanta, Ga., defeated Maurice Griselle, French heavyweight, on points in their 10-round bout at the Cirque Paris arena before 6,000 enthusiastic fans tonight.

Griselle, one of the stable of Francois Descamps, who managed Georges Carpentier, took an unmerciful beating through every one of the ten rounds. Stribling won every frame and knocked his opponent down three times in the first round, but was unable to finish him. Griselle took two counts of seven and one of nine. At the finish of the battle he was tottering around the ring with both eyes closed, but still was on his feet.

After the flashy first round showing, the Macon, Ga., fighter slowed up, apparently short on condition, and was unable again to knock the Frenchman off his feet.

Griselle's reputation was based principally on his stopping Knute Hansen in six rounds a few months ago.

Former West Golf Champ Is Out inFront in N. C.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 6. (AP)—David N. Tallman of Minneapolis, former Western golf champion and medalist in the 25th annual autumn tournament of the Pinehurst Country club, today advanced to the semi-finals by defeating William Alexander, of Glencoe, Ill., member of the Skokie Country club, by the score of 3 and 2 in the first round of match play.

Edmond A. Guggenheim of Lido Country club, New York, won his match against W. C. Banta, of Ridgewood, N. J., in a romp, the count being 8 and 7. In the lower bracket E. L. Scofield, of New York, vanquished Merrill M. Lord, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6 and 4, and R. J. Breed, of Danvers, Mass., ousted H. G. Frost, of Cincinnati, 6 and 5.

Donnie Bush Officially Takes Reins of White Sox

CHICAGO, Nov. 6. (AP)—Donnie Bush, a little man with a big job ahead of him, officially picked up the managerial reins of the downtrodden White Sox today.

The former pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates conferred with White Sox officials and began mapping out a winnter buying and trading campaign which he figures should strengthen and lift the once powerful baseball club to a first division berth in 1930.

"We are wide awake and hustling for all the promising talent we can obtain and I think we are going to have a vastly improved club," the little Irishman said. "I have the solid backing of the White Sox officials and while good baseball players are scarce we have lines out for several of them."

Mustang-Texas Aggie Clash Will Be Huge Drawing Card in Southwest

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 6.—Looming as one of the major drawing cards of the week-end in Southwest conference grid circles, the clash on Kyle field here Saturday, Nov. 9, between the Texas Aggies and the Southern Methodist university Mustangs is expected to add, as most Aggie-Mustang frays in recent years have added, another glamorous page to gridiron annals of this section.

Mindful of last year's 19-19 tie with the Mustangs before a frenzied throng in Ownby stadium at Dallas, mindful of their own two defeats by conference teams so far this season, defeats that have virtually removed all hopes of conference laurels this year, mindful of the need of a flashing comeback in their remaining conference tilts in order to retain the prestige as gridiron performers that has long been the heritage of Maroon and White warriors, the Aggies are scheduled to enter Saturday's contest with a fire and aggressiveness that will be difficult to stem.

Much at Stake

On the other hand, the Mustangs, with possibly the conference title at stake, will be under the impelling urge of that coveted goal. The 0-0 tie with the Texas Longhorns behind them, a tie that, from all reports, demonstrated gridiron prowess of stellar brand on the part of both teams, the Ponies are due to invade Aggieland with a determination to ease the smart of last Saturday's failure to drive the Steers to cover.

New Stadium Ready

Added interest is given the coming battle in the announcement by James Sullivan, business manager of athletics at A. & M., that the new A. & M. concrete stadium will be ready for use at the game. This stadium, in the shape of a great U, has a seating capacity for nearly 34,000 spectators and the entire seating space will be available for the game with the Mustangs. Another feature that insures increased interest is found in the fact that, by reason of the new field cover recently put in use at Kyle field, a dry gridiron is assured for the game whether the weather is rainy or not. This cover, of specially treated army duck, was used last week-end and despite the rain that fell the day prior to the game, the gridiron was amply dry and fast to permit of aerial tactics throughout the game.

Reports indicate a host of fans will journey here to see the Aggie-Mustang clash. Special trains are scheduled to bring a great crowd of Mustang supporters from Dallas and other specials, according to announcement, will be operated from Houston. Early ticket sales indicate that a crowd expected to equal that of 1927, when 15,000 enthusiastic followers of the game saw the Aggies and the Mustangs play on Kyle field, will be here for Saturday's battle.

The Mustangs will come to Aggieland with an enviable record behind them in intersectional games this season, including a scoreless tie with Coach Danna Bible's Nebraska Cornhuskers and an overwhelming victory over Ole Miss. With this performance, together with the scoreless tie registered in the game with the highly touted Texas Longhorns in their first conference clash, the Ponies will enter the game here favored to win by the dopesters by several points.

Against this, however, is the circumstance that the Aggies will be playing on their home gridiron, a circumstance that has upset the dope bucket many times. No team has ever defeated an Aggie eleven on Kyle field except by a small margin. The Mustangs, in five attempts, have hung up a victory over the Aggies on Kyle field only once, in 1923 when the Ponies came off with the long end of a 10-0 score.

Mangum Expects Fight In Bout With Elk City Team

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Nov. 6.—A close and hard-fought battle is predicted for the fighting Mangum Tigers when they encounter the strong Elk City aggregation Thursday on the Mangum field. Coach Keller put his proteges through strenuous workouts and scrimmages Tuesday in order to leave no stone unturned. Keller is highly pleased with the showing his team made at Sayre Friday when they set back the powerful Sayre team to the tune of 7 to 0. The Tigers also expect a fast game with Hobart there on Armistice day.

Clarendon and Shamrock Battle to 13-13 Tie Game

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Nov. 6.—Clarendon High school and Shamrock batted each other to a standstill here today in a 13 to 13 tie game. Both elevens scored twice on blocked punts and completed passes.

Beherns, Clarendon tackle, caught a beautiful pass from Dillard which netted the locals 30 yards. It was their first big gain of the contest. The teams were evenly matched and the ensuing fracas was one of the most stubbornly contested seen here in the whole season.

PACK CHANCES GOOD AT TITLE

Holton Figures Coyotes To Have Good Shot

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Since the strange metamorphosis that has come over the Wichita Falls Coyotes football team—and we say this advisedly, for the Coyote most assuredly are a changed and different team from the one that started the season off—the fans hereabouts may be witnessing a team that is not improbably the district runner-ups and potentially the champions of the circuit. As everybody knows, who saw the Saturday game against Vernon, the Pack displayed a brand of football that was easily first rate in caliber. They completely outplayed the much-touted Vernon Lions and won for themselves a new place in the sun of district one.

All of which is by way of saying that the Wichita Falls Coyote stock is "looking up." The whole outlook needed nothing more than a football coach with a sharp pencil and paper and an unending faith in the ability of his team to come through strongly, once they got started, to take on the aspect of a rosy future. Coach Barry Holton is possessed of just the aforegoing requisites. In other words Coach Holton sees a mighty good chance for his team to yet come through and take the district honors.

Amarillo and Lubbock did not look so well against each other last Saturday at Butler field. Some critics say that they looked like teams that had "shot their wad." Neither team played an impressive brand of ball. On the other hand the Coyotes performed like a real championship outfit, and there is no gaingsaying it. Now if the Coyotes can continue their last Saturday form and topple over Lubbock and Amarillo in succession—and this is no journalistic or coaching pipe dream, for the figures don't lie—they will be right in there as heir aparent to the district 1 title. In the event of victories over the two teams just mentioned Wichita Falls will have tied with Amarillo. Then it will be a play-off between the Coyotes and the Golden Sandstorm for the championship.

Thus it is easily apparent that the Wichita Falls football public may be watching the district champions in action when the Coyotes and the Plainview Bulldogs draw up in battle formation Saturday at Athletic park.

Razorback Star Halfback Will Not Play Saturday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 6. (AP)—Joe Chambers, star sophomore end of the University of Arkansas eleven will not get into Saturday's game against the East Central Oklahoma Teachers' college of Ada, Okla. Chambers broke a finger in the game with Louisiana last Saturday and his place in the lineup has been taken by Hays, a six-foot substitute. The game, a non-conference affair, will serve as a preliminary to the game with Centenary the following Saturday.

Waurika Eagles Entertain Grandfield Team Friday

WAURIKA, Okla., Nov. 5.—With their practice cut short by a muddy field, the Waurika Eagles will meet one of the strongest teams in the conference Friday, when the Grandfield team arrives.

Prospects seem brighter as the team seems to be rounding out extremely well for one made up almost entirely of new players.

Walters, considered one of the strongest teams met this year won by a 13-0 victory last Friday.

Texaco's Capital Stock Increase Is Approved

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. (UP)—Stockholders of the Texas corporation today approved the proposed increase in authorized capital stock to $350,000,000, or 14,000,000 shares of $25 par value from $250,000,000.

The additional $100,000,000 stock is to provide for conversion of the recent issue of $100,000,000 of 5 per cent convertible debentures.

Armistice Day Battle Destined To Clarify Texas Conference

AUSTIN, Nov. 6.—Leadership of the Texas conference, at present shared by three teams, will be some what clarified on Armistice day, when two of the leaders, Howard Payne college and St. Edward's university, clash at Brownwood. Simmons, the remaining undefeated team, is doped to keep a clean slate on the same day by taming the much cuffed Trinity university Tigers.

Howard Payne, last year's championship aggregation is theoretically leading the current race by virtue of having won two games, whereas St. Edward's and Simmons have annexed only one each. The Yellow Jackets have defeated Austin college and Trinity, and the Saints and Cowboys have each humbled Southwestern.

Home-Coming Crowd

The game between Howard-Payne and St. Edward's will be of major importance, as they are winner and runner-up, respectively, of last year's race, and are quite likely to finish one-two again this year. A year ago Howard Payne came to Austin on the Saint's home-coming day and ruined the occasion by plastering a 16-to-0 defeat on to them. This year the Saints will be entertaining the Howard Payne home-coming crowd. What they hope to do need not be explained.

Saints Good Fighters, Too

The game should be exceedingly hard-fought. The Saints have gone well against Southwestern conference opponents, defeating the lowly Owls and holding Texas and Baylor to low scores, and on the other hand, the Jackets can boast of a 13 to 13 tie with S. M. U. Both teams have lost some of their stars of other years, with the Saints probably being hardest hit, but both being about as strong as last year.

Coach Al Sarafiny of the Saints was not very highly elated by the performance of his team against the Owls last Saturday, and he will spend this week ironing out several phases of their play which he described as "terrible." The squad is in fair condition, with Fanette, Caplis and Rougeaux being on the doubtful list.

BRECK-ABILENE BOUT CLASSIC

Winner Will Be in State Running

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Nov. 6.—Fully 7,000 fans will flock to Breckenridge Saturday afternoon to see the gridiron classic between the Abilene Eagles, 1928 state high school champions, and the Breck Buckaroos, which is due to be the deciding game in the oil belt championship scramble.

On paper, the P. E. Shotwell Buckaroos are booked to win but past history spells another victory for the Eagles. Since the local eleven has won only one game in the last six played between the two clubs.

The Buckaroos, boasting the sweetest set of "four horsemen" backs in the district, and a powerful line that held the mighty Cisco Loboes stiff in a 21 to 0 Breckenridge victory, will wage the battle with one regular linesman entirely out and another seriously injured and one backfield man hampered with a torn shoulder, all sustained in the Lobo battle.

Boyce Magness and David Graham, running aces of the Buckaroo backfield, are expected to cut loose Saturday with a running and passing attack not seen this year before.

Coach Dewey Mayhew of Abilene has his usual big and powerful line and has one galloping backfield ace in "Smoky" Allen, half.

The winner of this contest is surely to go into the state finals as both teams are undefeated so far while all others in the district have dropped from one to two games.

JURY ACQUITS R. H. HAMILTON

Third Ballot Produces 'Not Guilty' Verdict

to talk with friends. A newspaper man asked: "That gives you a clear conscience?"

"Certainly it does, certainly it does," Hamilton replied. "My conscience was clear."

He added to newspaper men: "I'm going home tomorrow."

Then his friends encircled him and the former member of the Texas supreme court commission of appeals could not be reached for an additional statement.

Theresa Jubilant

Theresa, whose husband her father killed in self-defense, met her father in the hotel lobby.

"Oh, daddy," she cried, throwing her arms around his neck. She did not cry, but blinked her eyes rapidly, and then backed away and watched while friends continued congratulating her father.

The case went to the jury at 8:11 o'clock.

After listening to eight hours of argument and seven days of testimony, the jury immediately retired to consider whether Hamilton, who pleaded self-defense, was justified in having slain Tom Walton Jr., 21, the husband of the accused man's 18-year-old daughter, Theresa, in Hamilton's Amarillo law office last May 4.

The sheriff was compelled to clear a lane through the crowd before the jury could get out of the courtroom. They left at 8:14 p. m.

District Judge J. E. Carter instructed the jury to select a foreman and consider the evidence, ignoring points in arguments taken from facts outside the record.

Friends With Hamilton

As the jury filed out Hamilton's friends surrounded him and he introduced many of them to his 82-year-old mother, who listened to all the arguments. Near Hamilton, as he accepted the good wishes and felicitations of the crowd around him, were Mrs. Hamilton, his elder daughter, Helen, and his younger daughter, Theresa, widow of the slain youth.

A cordon of defense lawyers surrounded the defendant and Dexter Hamilton, the accused man's brother, put his arm about the shoulders of the young widow who had sat, sober faced and apparently unmoved, as defense attorneys attacked the character of her husband.

All but one member of the jury which was to decide Hamilton's guilt is a farmer. That member is an assistant cashier at the First National bank, Weatherford's oldest. All jurors are fathers, most of them having daughters.

The courtroom emptied slowly, country-folk standing about in the hope that the jury would report quickly. Conversation filled the room, quiet for so many hours while the case was being argued.

Underwood Eloquent

Hamilton, surrounded by his family, listened to the arguments, and tears came to his eyes once, when R. E. Underwood, chief of defense counsel, said Hamilton "could go to the electric chair without a whimper if it were the will of an honest jury, and added, "he might look stern, but he has a heart of gold."

The aged mother of the greying defendant, Mrs. N. S. Hamilton of Corsicana, entered the courtroom during the afternoon to be with her son during the closing moments of his trial. Near them sat the defendant's wife and daughter Helen, and a few seats farther back was the widow Theresa with some of her friends from the University of Texas where she married Walton. All were silent and thoughtful as attorneys argued for Hamilton's acquittal or conviction.

Theresa Enters Court

Mrs. Hamilton and her daughter, Theresa, entered the courtroom together at the afternoon session, Mrs. Hamilton going at once to her accustomed seat, but Theresa leaned against the wall for a time, listened to V. P. Craven of the prosecution defend the character of her late husband. Then she walked slowly to her seat, a few feet behind her father.

The crowd in the packed courtroom leaned forward when attorneys clashed during the afternoon arguments.

Craven was belittling one of the two witnesses who had come from Amarillo to testify to Hamilton's good character. Craven had dubbed the witness a "publicity seeker" when Underwood arose and demanded that the statement be withdrawn.

Attorneys Clash

"We've got evidence," Craven retorted, "sit down."

"I'll not sit down until I've finished," Underwood shot back.

Judge Carter rapped for order, and after the tumult subsided warned Craven to "stay inside the record."

A half million words had been taken down by Sam J. Little, court reporter, when testimony ended yesterday. Figured at 250 words to a sheet, the record would fill 2,000 typewritten pages. In case of conviction and appeal, cost of transcription of the record would be about $1,000, at the regular rate of 50 cents a sheet.

The verdict brought to a close one of the most colorful murder cases tried in Texas in the last decade.

The case attained much publicity because of the prominence of the man accused of murder and the facts revealed immediately after the shooting. The man Hamilton slew was his son-in-law who married Hamilton's daughter Theresa, then 17, while they were students in the University of Texas. Theresa's elder sister, Helen, was a sorority girl and a Phi Beta Kappa, holder of one of the highest scholastic honors obtainable at the university. She is working now for a master's degree.

Theresa and Walton were first-year students, the girl was pledged to her sister's sorority Gamma Phi Beta, while Walton was what is called a "Barbarian," or non-fraternity man.

Couple Eloped

When Walton was killed he and Theresa had been married nearly two months. They eloped from Austin, went to Georgetown, a county seat nearby got a marriage license and were married by an Austin justice of the peace on Feb. 10. Immediately after the shooting Hamilton denied he knew they were married. At an habeas corpus hearing he was released on $20,000 bond.

The Amarillo newspapers, where the killing occurred, gave such display to the case that it was transferred to Weatherford when the defense contended it could not get a fair trial in Potter county.

The trial here opened Oct. 28. A jury was selected by the next evening.

There followed a startling story of events before and during the shooting. Two persons, besides the defendant, testified as eye witnesses.

One was J. W. Burks, an Amarillo real estate operator, and the other was Florence Hendricks, secretary in Hamilton's office, and a daughter of his law partner, Harry Hendricks.

Hamilton, a former assistant attorney general of Texas, and one-time member of the Texas supreme court commission of appeals, said he shot Walton because he feared for his own life. He testified that he carried a pistol before the shooting because of threats Walton had made against him and that when he saw Walton he drew his pistol from his belt and there ensued "a mortal battle over that pistol."

"I was the stronger and Tom Walton was shot," Hamilton said.

The threats, most of them, allegedly were made while Theresa was in an Austin hospital during the latter part of April recovering from an appendicitis operation.

Mrs. Hamilton with her daughter, refused to let Walton see the girl and wrote Hamilton of threats the youth had made, the defense claimed. The state attacked authenticity of the letters with a hand writing expert who said the enclosures were not, in some instances, written with the same pen as the envelopes were addressed.

Four Shots Fired

The two eye-witnesses, as did the defendant, said Hamilton and Walton struggled throughout the time five shots were being fired from Hamilton's nickel-plated .44 caliber pistol. Four of the shots struck Walton, one on the left side of the neck, two in the right shoulder, and a fourth in the lower abdomen. The state's contention was that the shot that struck Walton's neck was the first and that the powder blinded him, the youth running about the room attempting to get away from Hamilton.

The state vigorously attempted to impeach the testimony of the eye-witnesses, and a statement Burks made before the grand jury was introduced.

The defense was represented by an imposing array of lawyers, seven in number, while five waged the state's battle. One of the latter was employed with money from a fund raised in Amarillo for a special prosecutor.

Theresa did not take the stand. She was, however, sworn in as a witness the first day of the trial and, compelled to stay outside the courtroom until arguments began. Her sister, Helen, Mrs. Hamilton, the defendant's brothers, Dexter and C. C., of Dallas, did testify. The latter two as to a telephone call a state witness said Hamilton placed to Dallas "three or four days before," the shooting. In that conversation, the state witness said, R. H. Hamilton asked the person on the other end of the line what he should do "about the divorce." The talker in Dallas replied "keep it quiet for a few days," and then added: "If you don't watch your step you'll get into something it won't be so easy to get out of."

At 9:35 a. m. District Judge J. E. Carter, sitting in the witness chair, began reading the charge to the jury. The charge, rewritten last night, was presented to defense attorneys only a few moments before court opened and several objections were made, one leading to elimination of a paragraph.

The judge's charge was completed at 9:50 a. m.

Instructions to Jury

Judge Carter's instructions to the jury included the usual charges in a murder case with a self-defense plea. There were 14 paragraphs, most on real and apparent danger.

The charge told the jury that if it believed Hamilton shot Walton without malice aforethought it could not assess his punishment at more than five years.

Apparent danger, the judge instructed, was to be given as much weight as actual danger, the jury placing itself in the position of the defendant while considering that point. If, the jury was told, it found Hamilton actually believed his life in danger, even though there was no danger, Hamilton should be acquitted.

The charge also instructed the jury to attempt to determine whether threats were communicated to Hamilton as the defense claims before the shooting.

Further, the judge told the jury not to consider the indictment as evidence against Hamilton, adding the burden of proof was on the state, that a man is presumed innocent of a crime until proven guilty and that if there is a reasonable doubt the defendant must be acquitted.

Court Warns Spectators

Before Cooper began his argument, Judge Carter instructed the spectators not to express their reactions to any statements made in the arguments.

The foundation on which the jury must decide the case is that "the law is supreme and no person can violate it with impunity," Cooper said in opening his argument.

"The only way in which this case differs from others is that the defense claim is not that it was a 'hip-pocket play' but a 'coat-pocket play'," Cooper told the jury before he began a description of events on the day when Tom Walton Jr. was shot to death in Hamilton's office.

"There is no dispute but that Walton telephoned Hamilton the morning of the homicide. The only contention is that Hamilton did not recognize Walton's voice. Did he know that was Tom Walton talking over the telephone? If he did, despite the threats Hamilton heard, that makes it different. Miss Florence Hendricks said Hamilton while standing three or four feet from the door had that pistol in his hand. Why would he have it in his hand if he didn't know that was Tom Walton?

"It doesn't seem to me you can deduce anything but that Hamilton knew who the young man was in that outside office."

Then Cooper asked whether Hamilton knew of Walton's marriage to Report Shows Gold Produced in 400 Years Is Very Little

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (US)—All the gold mined in the world since the discovery of America could be cast into a 35-foot cube.

This interesting fact was revealed by Scott Turner, director of the U. S. bureau of mines, in an economic review of gold production today.

From 1493 to 1927, world production has bene 1,003,500,000 ounces, of which 516,278,000, or more than half, was mined in the first 27 years of the present century.

ORATORY ENDS MURDER TRIAL

Hamilton Case To Jury Late Wednesday

Theresa, Hamilton's 17-year-old daughter before the shooting. The first of a series of letters Mrs. Hamilton wrote to her husband said Walton was in Austin and wanted to see Theresa, then recovering from an appendicitis operation.

"Isn't it reasonable to suspect that Mrs. Hamilton knew Walton and Theresa were married when that boy insisted he be allowed to see the girl? In one of that boy's letters to Theresa he said: 'When they know you are Mrs. Goofy (that's me) it'll be all off anyhow.' Couldn't anyone with a reasoning mind have figured by that they were married?

"Why, when Hamilton had interviews with Tommy Walton on March 9 and March 30, did he ask Tommy whether he was married to Theresa? He had a suspicion or a knowledge of the marriage when he asked that.

"There lies the motive; there lies the reason; there lies the act that caused the death of Tom Walton.

"At Christmas of 1928 Tommy Walton was in good standing. Judge Hamilton gave his daughter permission to go out with Walton. But how his estate fell when they found out he had married that daughter! What did the boy do save and except marry that daughter? That's all."

Cooper closed his argument, after an hour and 10 minutes, with the plea that the jury "give this defendant the punishment he deserves." Then there was a recess.

Shadle for Defense

Sam Shadle of Weatherford began the first defense argument. He discussed threats the defense contends were conveyed to Hamilton. He referred to letters in which Mrs. Hamilton and her daughter, Helen, wrote she had heard Walton was a member of a Chicago gang and had "two gunmen shagging" Hamilton.

"Why, you can get a man in Chicago to kill your enemy for $25. They would kill a man just for the thrill of it," Shadle declared.

Shadle repeated to the jury Walton's reputed statement that "a rattlesnake is a gentleman because it rattles before it strikes, but I'll not rattle before I strike."

"If Hamilton had wanted to kill Walton he would not have had to wait until Walton came to his office. He saw Walton on the streets and could have done it before May 4," Shadle declared. "Judge Hamilton did not kill Walton until he had to."

Denies Dallas Conversation

Shadle denied Hamilton ever had discussed Walton and Theresa in a telephone conversation with his brother, Dexter, at Dallas, as a state witness had testified. The witness, Mary Wright, 19, Amarillo long distance operator, said she heard the defendant ask his brother, "What shall we do about that divorce?"

"We know that conversation never occurred because the very records of the telephone office disprove it," Shadle shouted at the jury.

Reading the court's charge on the threats, Shadle declared, "There is no doubt but that the threats were communicated to Hamilton whether they were made or not."

Shadle assailed the reluctance of the prosecution to introduce as evidence a statement an eye-witness to the shooting, J. W. Burks, made to the grand jury. "That statement corroborates Burks' testimony beyond question," the lawyer said.

"Judge Hamilton killed Tom Walton because his life was in danger or because he believed his life was in danger. If you believe that you must acquit the defendant.

"You've got to watch the jelly beans of this age. A young man would kill you sooner than an old one. Why, Hickman could have gotten schoolmates to testify he had a kind and inoffensive disposition; but look what he did."

County Attorney V. P. Craven opened the afternoon session with the second state argument.

Before Craven's argument had gotten well under way, Mrs. N. S. Hamilton, the accused man's 82-year-old mother, walked into the courtroom. It was her first visit to the building.

Craven answered Shadle's references "to that fellow Walton" by recalling to the jury testimony of persons who had said Walton was of a "kind and inoffensive disposition." He discussed Walton's membership in the DeMolay at McAlester, Okla., and said Walton must have been a "good boy" or he would not have been a member of that organization.

During Craven's address he referred to the two witnesses from Amarillo who testified to Hamilton's character. He belittled one of them as a "publicity seeker" who would "make speeches on the courthouse steps" for publicity.

"Now, your honor, in justice to the witness I want to ask that counsel be instructed to withdraw that statement," R. E. Underwood of the defense interrupted.

"We've got evidence," Craven declared; "sit down."

"I'll not sit down until I've finished," Underwood retorted.

Judge Carter finally rapped his gavel for order, told Underwood to sit down and warned Craven to "stay inside the record."

BIG HEARTED

City Officers Give $200 To Chest From Police Relief Fund

W. E. McBroom, city clerk, Wednesday revealed the hearts of Wichita Falls cops as being as big as their fabled feet.

The police department, Mr. McBroom made known, assembled at headquarters Tuesday night without previous public announcement or solicitation for the presence of a press representative, and appropriated $200 to the community chest, equivalent to a donation of $6 from each officer. The money was appropriated from the police relief fund, which until the community chest demand upon it was made, totaled $558, Mr. McBroom said.

Mr. McBroom is secretary-treasurer of the police relief fund.

WARNING SENT CLEM CALHOUN

'Blackhand' Note Demands Release of Prisoners

STINNETT, Texas, Nov. 6. (UP)—District Attorney Clem Calhoun today was threatened with the same fate that befell John A. Holmes, whom he succeeded, unless he released former Policeman Sam Jones and Jim Hodges, garage owner, charged with Holmes' murder.

The blackhand note was mailed late Monday in Amarillo, and at the bottom was a supposed drawing of the slayer of the district attorney, shot down in his back yard on the night of Sept. 13.

Calhoun displayed the same calm demeanor that was characteristic of his predecessor, saying that it was the sixth or seventh threat that he had received, and that he intended to pay no attention to it.

NORTHCUTT FREED BY OKLAHOMA JURY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6. (AP)—John Harrison Northcutt, 61, who was killed at Wink, Texas, yesterday, was acquitted by a jury in district court here last May 28, of a charge of killing Eng Joe, a 45-year-old Chinese in a downtown restaurant.

Eng was shot to death the night of May 5.

He was employed in the restaurant as cashier and was part owner of the place.

Northcutt pleaded self-defense, declaring he became involved in a dispute with Eng over the payment of a bill for food. Eng reached for a gun, he said.

J. T. Webb, patrolman who arrested Northcutt, said the former Texas ranger said Eng was the 13th man he had killed.

Police said other persons who were with Northcutt at the restaurant told them Northcutt drank two pints of whisky before the group reached the cafe.

Northcutt was a deputy sheriff at Ardmore shortly after statehood. An attempt to obtain bond for him pending his trial proved ineffective.

deep oil drilling project, stating that as soon as the necessary fund is raised the company will be formed. Subscriptions to the company are being made on a commercial basis, and the company, when formed, will be run on such a basis he said. He recounted that interested citizens had already subscribed $400,000 to the company, and that more and more funds were being subscribed each day.

Others Speak

Mr. Hines, Mr. Cline, and Mr. Harrell all gave brief addresses, Mr. Hines and Mr. Cline dealing specifically with their experience in the oil business, and dovetailing in their speeches to the deep oil drilling plan, which they heartily recommended. Robert P. Hall, secretary of the Electra Chamber of Commerce also made an address, urging cooperation in the plan on the part of Electra citizens.

The banquet and program was arranged by a committee on arrangements composed of A. T. McDaniel, Edward Schlaffke and Y. J. Shelton.

The welcoming address was given by Mr. Hall, following the invocation delivered by Mr. Hines.

In addition to those Wichitans mentioned, the following from Wichita Falls were present: J. D. Bright, W. T. Knight, and J. C. Mytinger.

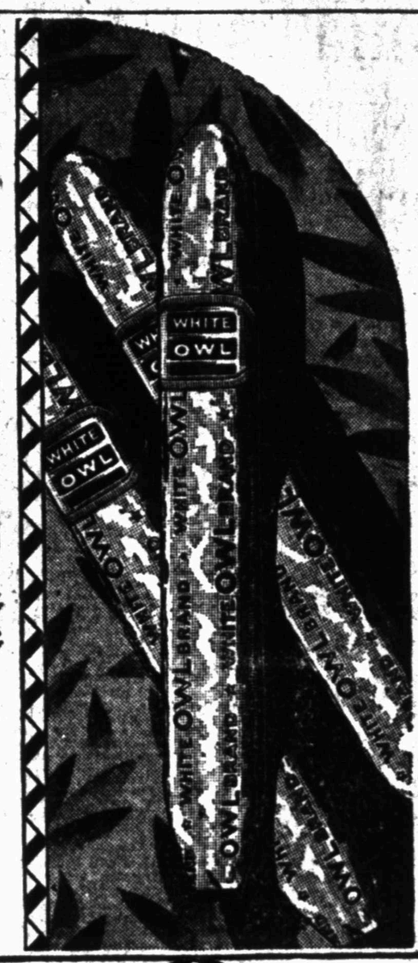

Methodist Conference Opens at Hillsboro

HILLSBORO, Texas, Nov. 6. (AP)—The annual conference of the Central Texas district of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, convened here today with approximately 700 visitors in attendance. The opening sermon was delivered by Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas, who presided. Several reports were read.

This voluntary statement by Mr. C. P. HEBERT, formerly manager of The Brazos Hotel, Houston, Texas, and now catering manager of The New Vaughan Hotel of Port Arthur, Texas, is in line with the opinion of many millions of other WHITE OWL smokers.

"AT last I can enjoy a good cigar and save money at the same time. I smoke WHITE OWL instead of a straight 10 cent cigar and save a dime on every three I buy. WHITE OWL is so mild and smooth and sweet-tasting, it gives me complete smoking satisfaction. I never buy any other kind."

WICHITA FALLS TURKEY MARKET TO OPEN TODAY AT 20 CENTS

SEASON WILL CLOSE NOV. 15

Prices Based on Strict Grade Dealers Say

Movement of turkeys from the farms and ranches in the vicinity of Wichita Falls toward the Atlantic seaboard markets for Thanksgiving day consumption will begin Thursday, according to announcements from poultry dealers here Wednesday.

While no general opening of the turkey market over the state has been announced, preparation of birds for shipment will begin in Wichita Falls. Additional help for handling hundreds of Thanksgiving turkeys was being secured Wednesday. The packing season in this locality will close in reality on Nov. 15, since birds packed after that date could not reach the large markets of the country in time for distribution before Thanksgiving day, Nov. 28, it was said.

In all probability, the market will open here with a price of 20 cents on No. 1 birds, and it has been stressed by leaders of the poultry industry that grading will be unusually strict this year.

Informaiton received Wednesday indicated that the market at Temple, Okla., which opened Tuesday at 25 cents, had dropped to 22 cents Wednesday, and it was predicted that a 20-cent price would prevail throughout that state. Unconfirmed reports received by dealers Wednesday morning stated that most of the Idaho pool, one of the largest in the country, had sold at a figure practically the same as that announced for the opening of the market here.

Cotton ginning in the county was seriously retarded Wednesday by prevailing rains, the total output reported being 147 bales, with Burkburnett leading with 48 bales. The county's total now stands at 16,502.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. (AP)—A decline of approximately $2.50 to $30 per bale ocurred in cotton here today. All present crop positions broke below the 18c level and into new low ground for the season. January contracts sold off to 17.25 under heavy liquidation and southern or local selling and closed at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 34 to 60 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 11 to 19 points under selling apparently influenced by the weakness reported in the New Orleans and Liverpool markets while New York was closed yesterday. Considerable trade buying and covering checked the decline but the demand was supplied on slight bulges, and prices soon showed increasing weakness. Southern selling was in evidence as if there had been some accumulation of hedging over the holiday, and there may have been some selling or liquidation on the trend toward increased estimates of the crop.

A more important factor, however, according to local brokers was the action of the stock market, which evidently disappointed holders of long contracts in cotton. Bearish sentiment was also in evidence also, while the demand from the trade seemed to become less active after the break through 17½c for January.

Several additional private crop reports showed figures on the indicated yield ranging from 14,744,000 up to 15,200,000 bales. Up to the close of business 10 of these private reports had been published, the average of the crop indicationsal being 14,921,000 bales compared with an average of 14,768,000 by the reports of the same authorities a month ago. A canvass of New York cotton exchange members showed an average crop expectation of 15,078,000 bales compared with an average of 15,725,000 bales last month. Exports today 35,265. Making 2,400,567 so far this season. Port receipts 60,962. U. S. port stocks 2,375,706.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6. (AP)—Cotton declined approximately $2 a bale today to new low ground for the season. The depressing influences included fears of a bearish government crop report Friday, prebureau liquidation and weakness in stocks. January contracts after advancing to 17.56 sold off to 17.14 and closed at 17.16 for a net loss of 1 point. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 28 to 31 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively easier but local traders apparently ignored the trend of the English market as initial trades here showed no change on near months to advances of 4 to 5 points on more distant positions. The market reacted slightly after the start on a demand stimulated by a bullish private estimate. December trading to 17.45, and March 17.85, or 9 to 10 points net up.

Buying appeared supplied at the advance and selling pressure became more pronounced due to the weakness in stocks. The offerings developed a decided lack of support and prices were on the downgrade for the remainder of the morning.

The decline ultimately carried December to 17.02, and March 17.43, or 40 to 43 points down from the highs. The close was near the lowest and showed a net loss of 29 to 31 points.

Six private estimates were issued during the day with indicated production ranging from 14,749,000 to 15,200,000 bales.

Receipts, 60,767, for week, 272,216, for year, 4,553,048; last year, 4,534,800. Exports, 36,363; for week, 209,430; for year, 2,346,838; last year, 2,546,813. Stock, 2,387,796; last year, 2,154,364. ELECTRA PLANS CHURCH FETE

New Baptist Church to Give Program

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Nov. 6.—members of the Baptist church celebrated the completion of the church at the services Sunday, conducted by Rev. W. W. Rivers, pastor. The church will hold a reception and "church warming" around Dec. 15, when the public will be invited for the first time to inspect the church that was completed last week.

The tall, magnificent structure of brick, located on West Garrison avenue, stands out prominently in the city and its beautiful color-stained pictured windows are ones of beauty.

The inside of the building is done in blended colors. The pulpit stand and the large choir has as its background the beautiful baptistry that is encircled in blue velvet curtains. To the side stands a grand piano.

Among the new equipment installed recently are the $7,500 pews that seat 900 people, the $2,500 steam radiators, and some $4,000 has been spent the last month in the completion of the basement, which includes a furnace room, a nursery, kitchen and dining room, and some 20 class rooms. The main floor includes the pastor's study, equipped with the latest reference volumes and papers that are of special aid to the pastor. The room is so arranged that it can be used as a special meeting room for director meetings. The auditorium and a number of class rooms are located on the main floor.

The second floor is devoted to class rooms, well arranged to take care of the enrollment in Sunday school.

Joe Hardy Miller is superintendent of the Sunday school, F. N. Fulcher, assistant superintendent; Miss Alice Hull, secretary, and Rev. W. W. Rivers, pastor.

At the reception there will be out of town speakers and plans will be made to have special music and to serve refreshments.

RAMPAGE

Driverless Car Causes Stampede in Lawton

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 6.—A driverless automobile, not radio controlled nor performing for advertising purposes, caused pedestrians to take to their heels on E avenue yesterday.

The car, owned by Roy Evans, cotton man, was parked on the north side of the street. When Evans attempted to crank it while it was in gear, the car ran over him, jumped the sidewalk and struck the side of a building in the 300 block. It then turned west, running down the sidewalk to Fourth street when it turned slight when it ran over the curb, continuing across the street and crashing into a car parked in front of the Parkinson Motor company. Here it wedged and held until the arrival of the owner.

The runaway car was undamaged but the auto which halted its progress was badly dented. Evans sustained painful bruises when knocked down.

J. E. Strong Improving Of Injuries in Crash

The condition of J. E. Strong, 2009 Elizabeth street, who suffered a slight fracture of the right shoulder blade when the automobile in which he was riding overturned near Burkburnett Tuesday night, was reported much improved Wednesday night. Mr. Strong received first aid treatment at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Tuesday night and was taken to his home. He remained in bed all day Wednesday. The accident occurred when a car, driven by E. L. Landis of Devol, Okla., approaching from the rear struck Mr. Strong's car as he was turning into a side road.

"Orgatone Is a Wonderful Medicine and Has Restored My Husband to Strength and Health," Says Amarillo Woman.

"About all that is left of my husband's five years of suffering is the memory of it," said Mrs. J. H. Holston of 305 N. E. Fourth, Amarillo, Texas. Mr. Holston is a butcher.

"My husband would have been a different man today, if he had gotten hold of Orgatone five years ago," she continued, "and it would have saved him a world of suffering. He had a chronic case of stomach trouble, and nothing he took seemed to help him. He would have frequent attacks of acute indigestion, which would leave him weak and worn out for several hours. He could hardly eat anything without a sour gas forming on his stomach and causing the sharpest kind of pains all through his chest. He often had dizzy spells, and he was very restless and hardly ever got a real good night's rest. He always had a very sore, tender spot in the pit of his stomach. He would get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when he went to bed.

"We read so much about Orgatone in the local papers, where it had helped so many people here, he began taking it. We have just taken three bottles, for I have taken it, too, for a general run-down condition, and find it to be very good in my case. My husband eats anything and everything he wants, without the slightest disagreement whatever. He is feeling better and stronger, and has more strength than he has had for the past four years. We both think Orgatone is just a wonderful medicine, and are very thankful that we started using it."

Producers of talking-pictures have something to worry about other than the selection of plays, keeping peace among the actors and construction of ticket-selling titles. They are being severely put to it to retain the lucrative foreign market which during the past few years, with silent films, has grown to represent approximately 40 per cent of their gross receipts.

The problem is twofold. In the first place, England and France and other foreign countries are striving desperately to foster the growth of cinematic industries among their own peoples. The few companies in England which have gone far enough to set up sound-recording production plants frankly confess that thus far it has been a losing game. Protective legislation has not been sufficiently stringent to suppress American films, and even Lillian Gish films have almost expired in King George land.

But in France, and elsewhere, America's film concerns have found many more thorns among the roses. France, for instance, demands nothing more than about a 40 per cent slice of gross returns for the privilege of showing there. Similar handicaps have been met in other European countries, and in South America, where Hollywood's silent films had feasted heavily on foreign patronage.

But that is just half of it. The drama of motion needs no interpretation, and the sub-title easily could be shown in the desired language. Spoken drama, to which modern film-making is devoted, presents new problems. Various methods have been tried in an effort to use English speaking films abroad. In Holland, for instance, explanatory notes in the local tongue were written into the dark corners of the picture to be read by the audience while the American actors went merrily on with jabber which meant nothing to the audience generally. Down in the land of coffee plantations another device was used. The South American theater manager switched off the sound-producing apparatus, and by means of a loud-speaker back stage, endeavored to carry on the narrative in native lingo. But neither of these methods seems to have been so good.

Foreign presentations of the Marx brothers' "Cocoanuts" have utilized similar plans. A local master of ceremonies replaces with his own explanation of what is going on the sound-track which has been removed by a chemical "washing out" process. One company is now perfecting another imperfect solution, the local dramatist's story of the action will be placed on a separate sound-track, which will be grafted on the original film in place of the English dialog track.

And still others are working with the genuine and authentic plan of production for exhibition abroad. "Lummox," which will soon be shown in Hoboken (they try out lots of things in Hoboken) will carry a sound-track in which voices of German actors, synchronized with the lip movements of the American screen performers, will give the dialog verbatim in Deutschen worten. Speakers of the German words which will come from English lip movements will be listed in the main title with the original members of the cast.

Which comes closer than any other device to the plan which is entirely authentic, and which is just in the offing. An acting personnel which can speak acceptable Spanish will succeed the English speaking cast on a given set and make the film for Spanish-speaking audiences, thus minimizing the production expense. Spanish is the only other language than the English, according to the film experts, in which large scale production of talkies would be profitable. German is regarded as a possibility. But the inventive Germans are eagerly purposed to work out their own sound-screen equipment. To such an extent that an injunction granted in Berlin, based on alleged patent infringement, has left Al Jolson agonizing there about his mammy in "The Jazz Singer" with the sound-track of the film switched off.

28 Times as Great as the growth of population

WHEN you own Cities Service Stock and look to the future for prospects of increasing business for your company, consider that in the past 16 years the increasing use of electricity in the United States outstripped the growth of population about 28 to 1. The use of gas, under the same comparison, grew about 8 to 1; the consumption of petroleum about 10 to 1.

These three products, among others, essential to the every day development of industry and domestic welfare, are supplied by Cities Service subsidiaries.

What of the future if this tremendous rate of increase in the demand for these products continues as it gives evidence of doing?

Electric railroads, radio, aviation with its coming network of lighted airports and airways, the development of television, gas furnaces for house heating, 26,000,000 motor cars in the United States which use gasolene and oil, countless tons of factory machinery requiring oil—these are only a few of the present day factors which forecast an ever increasing use of Cities Service products.

Your purchase of Cities Service stock gives you a protected investment in an essential business which is already established and has a future laden with untold possibilities.

Any employee of our company can give you complete information regarding this investment opportunity.
