This Cinderella had a 'goddoctor'

DALLAS (AP) — It was a Cinderella story with the characters slightly changed. The fairy godmother was missing, but a surgeon's skill worked just as much magic for Gay Lynn Latham and her severely deformed face.

The 19-year-old Stephenville woman was born with Crouzon's syndrome, a birth defect in which the skull and middle face don't develop properly. Her eyes, too large for the bony sockets, bulged beyond the lids. Her chin protruded and her teeth were so poorly aligned that even chewing food was a problem.

Her lids would slip behind her eyes, and her mother had to help pull them back out.

"The boys called me 'bug eyes.' I don't know how many times I went home crying," she said.

"I couldn't understand it. I was afraid of strangers. They would stare. I tried to avoid large crowds so I wouldn't have to face the stares."

When she was 13, an internationally known French surgeon selected her for a new radical plastic surgery procedure at Children's Medical Center in Dallas. The surgery sculpted a new life for her as well as a new face.

"The surgery changed my entire life. I wouldn't be where I am today without the surgery. Now I am just as good-looking as the majority of people . . . I am just normal," Gay said.

She is married, has a job and plans a career in nursing — all achievements she says would have been impossible without the surgery.

In March 1974, she was among 20 children brought to Dallas for examination by a team of doctors lead by French surgeon Dr. Paul Tessier, who pioneered the technique. She was one of nine children chosen as teaching cases.

As a child, Gay Latham, right, was handicapped by facial deformities, but after surgery that gave her a "New life," she's ready to share her story with handicapped children.

In the past, such children would undergo dozens of operations with little change. Tessier, however, devised a technique in which an incision is made from one ear over the top of the head to the other ear, separating the facial skin from the skull and pulling it down past the nose.

He cuts the bony structure across the forehead and down the temples, then pulls the structure forward and braces it into a normal position with bone grafts. The bony orbits of the eyes are enlarged. Facial skin then is pulled up and stitched into place behind the hairline.

The operation involves some risk, but few have died from the procedure.

"We knew it was an intense and serious surgery," said Gerry Beaver, Gay's mother. "But we felt at that particular time in her life, she needed it. She was 13. It was an important period for a young girl to look her best."

Her head, except for her mouth, was wrapped in bandages for three weeks. She couldn't talk for a week because of a tube placed in her throat to help her breathe.

"When they removed the bandages, it was indescribable. There was such a difference. We were overwhelmed," Mrs. Beaver said.

Several days passed before Gay could bring herself to look in the mirror — and it was several months before she really believed she looked better.

But five months later, she returned to school and "felt normal for the first time," Gay recalled.

By the time she got to high school, she was playing in the marching band, dating and dragging down Stephenville's main street with her friends.

She had a series of minor operations, wore braces — and her junior year, she met her husband-to-be, Walter Latham. They were married in August 1980.

"For the first time in my life, when I was walking down that aisle, I felt beautiful," she said.

Haig cites evidence of chemical warfare

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The U.S. government has evidence for the first time that lethal chemical weapons have been used in Southeast Asia, says Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Haig in a televised speech in West Berlin Sunday said there have been "continuing reports" that such weapons have been used by the Soviets and their allies in Laos, Cambodia and Afghanistan.

"We now have physical evidence from Southeast Asia which has been analzyed and found to contain abnormally high levels of three potent mycotoxins - poisonous substances not indigenous to the region which are highly toxic to man and animals," he continued.

He said the use of these toxins, which are chemicals produced through biological means, is prohibited by the 1925 Geneva Protocol and that their manufacture is forbidden by the 1975 Biological Weapons Convention.

Although Haig did not say specifically that the Soviet Union was responsible, the Soviet news agency Tass accused him of "unfounded and false assertions . . . to divert the attention of the world public from the real threat, which is brought by the U.S. militarist policy as well as the preparation, started by Washington, for a chemical war."

Other U.S. officials who didn't want to be identified said one of the chemicals is trichothecene toxin, known as T-2, which they said occurs naturally in grain molds common in the Soviet Union.

Time magazine recently reported that people in Afghanistan, Laos and Cambodia have reported a "yellow rain" that caused a burning sensation, convulsions and massive internal bleeding resulting in death. The U.S. government is understood to believe that T-2 may account for this, and Time said evidence of T-2 has been found in soil samples from Cambodia that have been analyzed in the United States.

Haig said more detailed information on the alleged use of chemical weapons in Southeast Asia would be released in Washington today.

Haig during his brief visit to Berlin did not see the anti-American demonstrators.

Solidarity threatening to start television station

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Ten thousand soldiers and recruits have reported for work in Poland's coal mines to help boost sagging coal production, the official news agency said today.

The PAP report followed dire government forecasts of widespread plant closings and possible economic collapse if coal production is not increased by 4 million tons this year.

The agency said Poland needs a minimum of 168 million tons to meet domestic needs and provide coal for export. Coal is the major fuel source here and Poland's most important earner of hard currency.

Polish officials decided Aug. 31 to send several thousand draftees into the mines for a year of work. PAP said some 2,500 soldiers and 7,500 recruits have reported to the mines so far.

In an apparent effort to put new pressure on the independent labor federation Solidarity, PAP quoted a government anti-crisis staff Sunday as saying failure to boost production was due mainly to shorter working hours.

Polish workers won a five-day week during widespread labor unrest last year and the issue of ending the six-day week nearly sparked a national strike.

The struggling economy and growing union challenge of Communist authority sparked scattered warning protests Monday by workers across Poland.

At a Warsaw printing plant, employees displayed signs reading "We shall not work for 16 eggs a day."

The black market price for eggs has risen to about 50 cents apiece, meaning that 16 eggs now cost an average day's wage for most Polish workers.

In the western town of Gorzow Wielkopolski, workers hung banners from factory walls urging more food in the shops.

Workers at an electronics plant in the northwestern town of Pila laid down their tools for an hour Monday and threatened another strike Friday.

Congress may cut defense funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Reagan's request that the defense budget no longer be treated like a "poor relative," there are indications that Congress may want to cut defense spending by more than double the $13 billion, three-year package proposed by the administration.

"I feel that the overall cuts in defense should be more in the neighborhood of $30 billion," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee.

Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston of California said Sunday that the president's proposals for defense spending earlier this year "were excessive and therefore I don't think that the rather modest reductions now proposed are going to be very significant."

Reagan decided Saturday to reduce the defense budget by $2 billion next year, $5 billion in 1983 and $6 billion in 1984.

The size of the Pentagon spending reduction was the key element on which hinged other cuts Reagan will propose as he tries to keep the 1982 budget deficit close to his target of $42.5 billion and keep alive chances of a balanced budget by 1984.

After returning to the White House on Sunday from Camp David, Md., Reagan said that domestic spending in fiscal year 1982 would be cut "something like" $9 billion to $14 billion.

Asked whether he let the Defense Department off the hook, Reagan replied, "No, not really."

"The 2 ($2 billion cut from the 1982 proposal), I think, is all that could be asked when you stop to think that domestically, we're cutting a budget that has been overgrown — just extravagant spending — over the years while over those same years defense has been the poor relative in the act," Reagan said.

"We have not been keeping pace as we should," he said.

Budget director David A. Stockman reportedly sought defense cuts of $30 billion over the three years, while Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger held out for no cuts. Under Reagan's new plan, defense spending over the three years would be $639.3 billion.

"There was complete agreement between the three of us . . . that these outlays could be reduced by this amount without setting us back militarily," Reagan said.

However, Domenici said the Pentagon still has not made its case for large increases, adding that the even proposed reductions would make it difficult to reach Reagan's goal of a balanced budget in 1984.

"I believe the cuts will make it very difficult to get where we have to go," Domencic said. "And I further believe that a majority of my committee and a majority of the Congress are looking for larger cuts than that."

Domenici was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation." Cranston made his comments on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Reagan is tentatively scheduled to meet with his Cabinet on Tuesday or Wednesday to discuss his decisions for additional cuts in domestic programs.

The Congressional Budget Office has said additional savings of $35 billion for 1983 and $50 billion for 1984 will be necessary to achieve a balanced budget by 1984.

Congressional leaders have said it would be next to impossible to enact further domestic spending cuts without large reductions — about $30 billion over three years — in projected defense spending.

House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois said last week that a reduction in defense was needed to sell an overall package of cuts.

"Defense simply could not be sacrosanct," Michel said he told the president during a White House meeting.

One aide, who asked not to be identified, said Michel and Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. urged Reagan at that meeting to recommend a "visible cut" in defense, perhaps postponing work on a weapons system.

Six persons killed in weekend accidents

Six Midland-Odessa residents were killed and seven were injured in two separate automobile accidents this weekend.

One Midland man and four others were killed, and three more injured, in a headon collision about 20 miles south of Odessa Sunday night.

According to Department of Public Safety officials, the occupants of one vehicle, Ray Madrid, 26, of Midland along with Filomeno Madrid, 22, Ofelio Madrid Gutierrez, 35, and Michael M. Sylvester (age unknown), all of Odessa, were pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris of Ector County. The fifth victim has not been identified pending notification to next of kin, according to the DPS.

In the other vehicle that collided with the Madrid vehicle, Roger Dale Smith Jr., 18, and Stanley Dean Ramsey, 25, both of Odessa were treated for minor injuries at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa. Darwin Clarence, 24, also of Odessa was not injured.

According to DPS reports, the two vehicles met headon where Hamett and Industrial Avenue make a curve and meet. Both cars pulled to the right, then left and right again, crashing headon.

Officers reported the Madrid vehicle was westbound on Hamett and the other vehicle, a 1976 pickup, was traveling at a high speed. Further reports noted that one occupant from each vehicle was thrown from the vehicles.

A 32-year-old Midland man was killed outright early Sunday morning when he was thrown from a car after it ran into a water puddle in southwest Midland, went out of control, struck five wooden pylons and rolled over 1½ times.

Killed was Ramiro T. Romero, who was a passenger in the car being driven by Jesus Galindo Suchil, 19, of 1410 S. Fisher St. on the Interstate 20 south service road between Cotton Flat Road and Midland Drive.

Romero's address was on Route 3, Midland.

Investigating the mishap, which was reported at 1:45 a.m. Sunday, was Midland Police Officer Jeff Marugg.

In yet another mishap, four Midlanders were injured when their motorcycles crashed about 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Farm-To-Market Road 868 and Midkiff Road.

Injured were motorcyclist Britt Bridgewater, 20, of 8 Stutz Court and his passenger, Christina St. John, 17, of 2400 Whitmire Blvd., and motorcyclist Joseph Raymond Windsor, 19, of 2401 Dartmouth Drive and his passenger, Angela Stuart, 17, of 2400 Whitmire Blvd.

Bridgewater and Windsor were listed in satisfactory condition this morning in Midland Memorial Hospital. The two women were treated and released.

Midland police said the two motorcycles, both traveling in line, crashed after Windsor slowed his motorcycle as he approached a chuckhole and the trailing Bridgewater cycle ran into the leading cycle.

Plant Protest Planned

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Protesters gathered at the Diablo Canyon nuclear power station say they expect to begin attempting to blockade the plant Tuesday.

The Abalone Alliance, a coalition of some 60 anti-nuclear groups, was holding a meeting today to go over preparations and a final decision on beginning the blockade was to be made, spokesman Steve Leeds said Sunday night.

Police, expecting an effort to blockade the plant, said they were prepared to make as many as 500 arrests a day. Some 2,000 to 3,000 protesters have gathered at San Luis Obispo to take an eight-hour course in nonviolent demonstration.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission in Washington has scheduled a Sept. 21 vote on whether to grant an operating license to Diablo Canyon. Approval is expected.

But Pacific Gas & Electric officials insisted Sunday that even with approval, the loading of the plant's radioactive fuel would still be weeks away. A spokesman for the Abalone Alliance denied the group might be in danger of having its blockade come and go before PG&E makes an attempt to load the fuel.

The purpose of the planned blockade by the demonstrators, now gathered at a campsite 12 miles southeast of San Luis Obispo, is to prevent the fuel loading by invading the plant's outer safety perimeter, a chain link fence ranging from five to seven miles from the coastal facility. Other protesters are expected to try to pierce a four-mile sea safety limit patrolled by the Coast Guard.

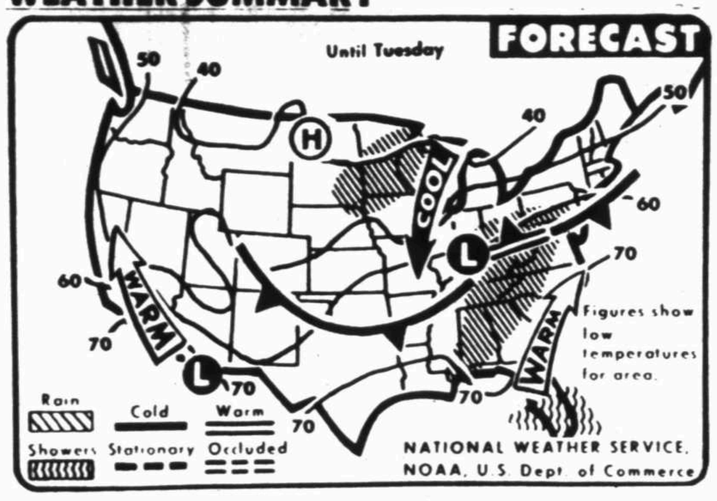

After a final NRC approval, "it would be a few weeks — two to three — before we began loading," said PG&E spokesman Chris Piper, adding that key instruments would have to be calibrated and equipment testing would have to be done.

Mark Evanoff, a spokesman for the alliance, claimed demonstrators had a "30-day commitment."

"We've always planned for the blockade to be an ongoing event. When people at home see it happening, more will join," he said. "Those who leave will be replaced. It's often necessary for someone to take the first step to have others overcome their fears."

Among the protesters receiving training Sunday was Robert Blake, star of the TV show "Baretta." He said he was going to "go in by boat."

WEATHER SUMMARY

The National Weather Service predicts rain from the Central Gulf to Pennsylvania. The Dakotas, Florida and Minnesota; cool weather for the Midwest and warm weather for the rest of the nation.

North Texas — Partly cloudy today through Tuesday with scattered showers and thunderstorms today and tonight. Cooler in the central, west and northern regions Tuesday. Highs today 92 to 98. Lows tonight 68 to 73. Highs Tuesday 90 to 95.

South Texas — Partly cloudy today and tonight with scattered showers and thunderstorms north of the lower Rio Grande Valley. Increasing cloudiness Tuesday with a chance of scattered showers. Highs today and Tuesday in the upper 80s to 90s. Lows tonight in the upper 60s to 70s.

West Texas — Partly cloudy through Tuesday with widely scattered showers and thunderstorms. Not so warm to the north today and cooler in most sections Tuesday. Highs today in the mid 80s across the Panhandle to the mid 90s in the extreme south. Lows tonight in the mid 50s to mid 60s. Highs Tuesday in the low 80s to low 90s.

Texas Coast — A weak high pressure ridge was expected to remain stationary over Texas coastal waters through Tuesday. Southerly winds 10 to 15 knots, with seas 2 to 4 feet, were forecast. Isolated showers and thunderstorms expected today and tonight.

Legislators divided on keeping legal firm alive

CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas congressmen were divided on the amendment by Rep. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis., last week to delete all financing from the embattled Legal Services Corp.

Nine members of the 24-man delegation voted for the legislation that sought to put the agency out of business. Ten Texans voted against the amendment (for keeping LSC alive), and five members did not vote. The amendment was defeated, 272-122, with 39 not voting.

The agency received unfavorable publicity in Texas because its lawyers represented illegal aliens in suits against the government, including a suit by farm workers in West Texas.

Voting for the amendment were Bill Archer, R-Houston; Jim Collins, R-Dallas; Phil Gramm, D-College Station; Sam Hall, D-Marshall; Marvin Leath, D-Marlin; Bill Patman, D-Ganado; Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson; and Charlie Stenholm, D-Stamford.

Against the amendment, and for keeping LSC in business, were Kika de la Garza, D-Mission; Martin Frost, D-Dallas; Henry B. Gonzalez, D-San Antonio; Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall; Jack Hightower, D-Vernon; Chick Kazen, D-Laredo; Mickey Leland, D-Houston; Jim Mattox, D-Dallas; Jake Pickle, D-Austin; and Richard White, D-El Paso.

Not voting were Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont; Jack Fields, R-Humble; Kent Hance, D-Lubbock; Charlie Wilson, D-Lufkin; and Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth. Hance and Fields, though not back in Washington for the first day of Congress after a month-long recess, were announced as for the amendment to scrap the LSC.

The extent that the amendment was beaten back, by more than a 2-to-1 margin, was mentioned by Collins as one of the reasons he withdrew an amendment later Wednesday afternoon.

Collins' amendment, as originally submitted, prohibited Legal Service Corp. lawyers from representing illegal aliens. But a House parliamentarian said an amendment to an appropriations bill couldn't require an agency official to make a determination he hadn't already been making, such as whether someone were an illegal alien.

His final version, after several trips back and forth from his office to the House, simply forbade agency lawyers from representing anyone involved in a dispute with the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"We discovered that 90 percent of our controversies were in that area," he said.

But two representatives — Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, and Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J. — sharply attacked Collins' amendment on the House floor.

Smith, the floor manager of the bill, said the authorizing bill for the LSC already contains a page and a half, specifying in exactly what cases illegal aliens could be represented and that Collins' bill "just confuses what is already in the bill."

Rodino complained that Collins' amendment, in attempting to keep the LSC from representing illegal aliens, also would affect American citizens involved in a controversy with the INS, such as over a passport dispute.

Collins rose shortly later and asked that his amendment be withdrawn.

Two Texas reporters, at that point, had a House page summon Collins to the House Speaker's Lobby, just off the floor — the procedure they go through to talk to congressmen while the House is in session. Reporters aren't allowed on the House floor.

Collins said he withdrew his amendment because he hadn't intended to keep American citizens from getting LSC representation. Another reason, he said, was because Sensenbrenner's amendment failed so badly, and he thought anti-LSC sentiment was greater. It appeared he didn't have the votes anyway, he said.

But another key reason for withdrawing his amendment, Collins said, was because his major interest lay in another amendment still to be offered, one that would prevent any funds in the appropriations bill from being spent for busing students in promotion of desegregation.

"I don't want to do anything to affect that," he said. In other words, he didn't want to raise so much fuss over the Legal Services Corp. amendment that he'd lose votes for his anti-busing amendment, which had carried by a 2-to-1 margin on an authorization bill earlier this year and was expected to carry by a similar vote this time around.

Collins' amendment, with two others, was on the desk in the House, but it appeared the matter wouldn't come up before Thursday, the following day.

At the time Collins withdrew his amendment, Smith had covered the first 16 pages of a 43-page bill. It had taken the House four hours to get through those 16 pages, and it was already after 4 p.m.

But Smith, who opposes Collins' anti-busing amendment, noticed the Dallas Republican leave the floor. Shortly later, he rose to request: "Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered as read through line 17 on page 43."

No one objected, including Collins who, although only a few feet away, just outside a door, was unsuspecting and out of ear range, still talking to the reporters.

"Are there any amendments to the remainder of the bill?" the presiding officer asked. Again, silence.

Smith then rose and asked that be appropriations bill, be voted on.

Collins, after an interview that had lasted no more than 2 to 3 minutes, returned to see the vote taking place without his amendment.

Angry, Collins raced up to the House press gallery to see if reporters Charles Richards of The Associated Press and Mark Nelson of the Dallas Morning News were part of a plot, but they were still down in the House Speaker's Lobby, this time paging Smith.

"I don't know why he (Collins) didn't introduce his amendment. You'll have to ask him," Smith said. He denied he had rushed through the bill purposely to take advantage of Collins' absence.

Collins remains unconvinced.

"He knew I had the amendment and he knew what he was doing," Collins said. "I wouldn't have thought it of him. In eight terms of Congress, I've never been blindsided like this before."

Creating judgeships preferred to redistricting court boundaries

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Now that legislative and congressional districts have been redrawn to fit Texas' fast growing and shifting population, some feel it is time to think about state court boundaries.

However, there is great reluctance to take on the task.

Judges do not like to be moved or disturbed. More than a third of all House and Senate members are lawyers, and lawyers don't like to make judges unhappy.

"Since 1876 there has never been a redistricting of our judicial districts," Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court told the 1981 Legislature in his state-of-the-judiciary speech. "You have put on a patch here and there, but the dockets of our trial judges are greatly disproportionate."

Greenhill went on to say that "whether it is desirable to redistrict or to simply continue to add new trial judges is a matter for you to decide."

Greenhill also suggested the Legislature might want to name an interim committee to study the redistricting problem and report back to the 1983 Legislature.

By legislative action, it was apparent the House and Senate preferred creating new judgeships instead of redistricting.

One bill passed early in the session added 18 new district courts, mostly the ones Gov. Bill Clements vetoed after the 1979 Legislature because he could not appoint all the new judges.

Then, near the June 1 end of the regular session, the Legislature passed another "omnibus" courts bill that created an additional 19 district courts.

Clements got to appoint all the 37 new judges.

The Legislature made no move toward an interim committee on judicial redistricting.

However, according to Rep. Buck Florence, D-Hughes Springs, chairman of the House Committee on Judicial Affairs, there will be a special study on judicial district changes with a report to the new Legislature in January 1983.

"There will be a special committee from the House Judicial Affairs committee to make an extensive study of the work loads of trial judges in Texas," Florence said. "We will say where they are needed and where they are not needed."

Florence said the House committee would attempt to do by administrative measures what also could be done by changing district boundaries. Presiding judges of the nine administrative judicial districts have the power to assign active or retired district judges within that district. The state chief justice may assign judges from one part of the state to another, depending on need.

"We've got to see that judges are placed where they can do the most good," Florence said.

Of the 310 present district courts in Texas, plus the 37 new ones that are being created now through 1983, it is easy to pinpoint the heaviest judicial dockets.

Disarmament poses 'moral problem'

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The new bishop of the Fort Worth Roman Catholic Diocese says nuclear disarmament is a "major moral problem," not merely a political issue.

The Most Rev. Joseph Patrick Delaney, 47, was ordained before an audience of 7,000 people Sunday in a special Mass and ceremony at the Tarrant County Convention Center.

"Many see disarmament as a political issue, but I see it as a serious moral problem," Delaney said at a press conference that preceded the ornate ordination ceremony.

The former chancellor of the Brownsville Roman Catholic Diocese was among several Catholic bishops who last week endorsed the stand of Amarillo Bishop Leroy T. Matthieson, who urged workers at the Pantex nuclear weapons plant near Amarillo to consider quitting their jobs.

Matthieson's statement came after President Reagan authorized the deployment of the neutron bomb. The Pantex plant will serve as a key assembly point for the new weapon, federal Defense Department officials have said.

Delaney told reporters that religious leaders must speak out on moral issues, but he said he wouldn't get involved in partisan politics.

Disarmament, he said, is not a political issue.

Delaney's ordination ceremony was sung and spoken in English and in Spanish and was accompanied by contemporary guitar music and 9th century Gregorian chants.

The climax of the ceremony came as Archbishop Patrick Flores of San Antonio, the ordaining bishop, solemnly laid his hands on the head of the kneeling Delaney.

Bishop John J. Cassata, the first bishop of the Fort Worth Diocese, who announced his retirement last year, then laid his hands on the head of the new bishop. Twenty other Texas bishops joined in the "laying on of hands" rite descended from the early church as a symbol of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

In an emotional moment, Delaney brought an ovation as he walked into the audience after the ceremony and embraced his parents, Joseph and Jane Delaney of Fall River, Mass., and other family members.

Dallas tourists can get a 'true taste of Texas'

DALLAS (AP) — Tenderfoot travelers visiting the Lone Star State can tour Dallas in true Texas tradition thanks to a novel taxi service that caters to would-be cowboys who "like their beer cold and their tops down."

"What we've done is come up with a concept to entertain out-of-towners coming to Dallas expecting to see what they think of as Texas," says Dewitt Ray III, one of three partners who own a trio of white El Dorado Cadillacs complete with Longhorn hood ornaments, Texas flags and cowboy chauffeurs.

"People who come to Dallas are often disappointed. They just see another city, not the true Texas things that Dallas has to offer," he said. "We want people to get a true taste of Texas."

The three convertible limousines, adorned with a set of horns stretching the width of the car, have gained some notoriety since the three men opened for business last May, Ray said.

"We did the Cattle Barons' Ball held at Southfork and picked up the entire crew of the television series 'Dallas,'" Ray said. "Larry Hagman (who plays the villainous J.R. Ewing) loved it. He called us about a month ago and asked for two cars to be brought out and used in the last filming they did here."

But for $50 an hour, the limo service offers more than just a dressed up Cadillac.

"We offer entertainment in transit. The chauffeurs are dressed in boots, jeans, a white cowboy shirt and hat," Ray said. "There's yellow roses for the ladies — you know, like the 'Yellow Rose of Texas' — and there's cigars for the men and Lone Star Longnecks (beer) for everybody."

Commission to study habits of black vs. white students

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Higher Education Commission said Friday it will coordinate a two-year study in seven states on why black students take longer to finish college than white students.

Wayne Brown, executive director of the commission, said 24 colleges and universities will participate in the study, financed with an $80,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

He said 5,000 students, 500 faculty members and 200 employers will be surveyed in Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Texas.

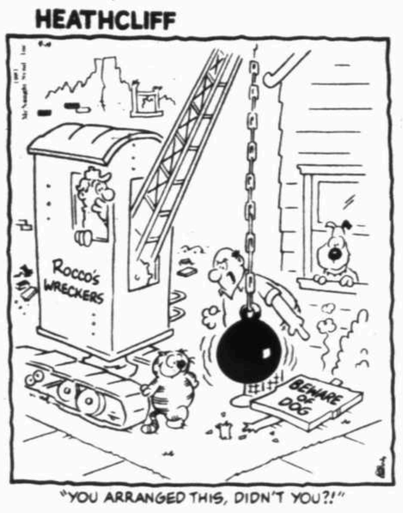

"When we look at all students, 40 percent of those students will begin a college program and finish within four years," Brown said. "But when we look at black students, only 20 percent start and finish within four years."

Brown said employers tend to back away from hiring persons who are slower to finish college and the additional time in school may hurt black students entering the job market.

"It is very important that we discover what is causing this slower progression, so that we can try to correct the problem in the planning stages at various levels," Brown said.

Brown said the study will look at everything from aptitude and grades to finances and health of students, as well as possible problems within colleges and universities themselves.

Internal hemorrhaging blood passes to tissues

Dear Dr. Solomon: I know that an injured person can bleed to death if he does not get medical care. But what happens when a person has an internal hemorrhage? What happens to the blood? — Wayne, Moline, Ill.

Dear Wayne: Unlike an external hemorrhage, during which blood escapes from the body, in an internal hemorrhage the blood passes into the tissues that surround the ruptured blood vessel.

Dear Dr. Solomon: For the past few weeks, my daughter has been taking tetracycline for an acne condition. Lately, she has begun complaining about headaches. Can the two things be connected? — Mrs. D.K., Yonkers, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. K.: Tetracycline has been associated with increased intracranial pressure, according to a report from the Royal Perth Hospital in Australia, and may therefore account for your daughter's headaches. Why not have her check with her doctor? In the first place, the tetracycline may not be responsible for the headaches; but if it is, the doctor may be able to alter the dosage or possibly prescribe a different medication.

Dear Dr. Solomon: After my father had a heart attack at the age of 74, his doctor put him on a blood thinner. That was over a year ago and he is still taking the medicine. Is this a good idea? — Herman, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Herman: There is evidence that long-term oral anticoagulant therapy may be beneficial for older persons who have had a myocardial infarction.

Dr. E.A. Loeliger, of the Oral Anticoagulant Myocardial Infarction Research Group, Amsterdam, has reported on a study in which one group of elderly patients who had had myocardial infarctions was given oral anticoagulants, and another group was given placebos. After two years, it was determined that the probability of another myocardial infarction was significantly less for the patients who received active treatment. There was also a substantial reduction in the number of deaths in the group that was treated.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Can you explain why there is all this fuss abut venereal disease? From reading the papers, it would appear that we're in the midst of an epidemic; yet it seems to me there are a lot more serious health issues that we have to contend with. Wouldn't you agree? — Randy, New York City, N.Y.

Dear Randy: I don't know how you would define "epidemic" but more than 10 million cases a year of sexually transmitted diseases is quite a number, even in time of inflation. In 1980 more than a million cases of gonorrhea alone were reported to the Center for Disease Control, which makes it the leading reported communicable disease in the United States.

Add to this the fact that the Department of Health and Human Services places the total cost for sexually transmitted diseases at more than $1 billion a year, and you have some idea why they deserve public attention and public efforts to control them.

Two bright spots

A couple of bright spots appeared in Midland's housing picture last week: formation of a panel to study means of establishing temporary emergency housing and announcement of a new housing program by a construction firm here that envisions construction of more than 300 moderately priced homes in northeast Midland.

While neither announcement is indictive of a total solution to Midland's housing dilemma each represents acknowledgement that the housing problem here is being addressed. The housing panel and the construction project each will prove beneficial in its own way to different segments of Midland's residents.

Appointment of the emergency housing panel is instrumental to a large segment of those who get caught up in the housing crunch in Midland — the new and needed arrivals who come to Midland without having secured housing in advance and quickly find that locating housing here will not be easy.

It will be the panel's responsibility to come up with suggestions for temporary housing that can be acquired and rented to new arrivals until they can secure more permanent accommodations.

That's where the new housing program comes in. Hail Builders, Inc. is planning a new housing addition in northeast Midland that will feature homes that while not inexpensive in cost are considerably below the average for new single-family residences in Midland. The firm also offers a new financing plan, relatively low down payment and quick construction time.

This program, of course, fills the need of another segment of the Midland population — those who can afford a new "starter" home, but can't find one to buy.

Certainly there are other aspects of the Midland housing picture that need to be addressed, specifically better housing for the low-income and elderly, more housing in general including apartments, townhouses and so forth, and more affordable housing.

The housing picture in this boom city is one that's not going to fade anytime soon. It demands continual attention by officials and the private sector alike. That's the only way to bring about the needed housing relief.

Guernica goes home

New York's loss is Madrid's gain. That is the story of Guernica, the Picasso masterpiece that is going home after 42 years in exile.

Guernica was his anti-war sermon. It was brought to New York's Museum of Modern Art in 1939, with strict orders from Picasso that it never go home again until Spain became a land of the free. As a work of art, its colors and lines influenced artists of the stature of Jackson Pollock and the deKoonings.

Although portraying the horrors of war, it is essentially a political cartoon, a polemic for pacifists. It is fitting and proper that it is now being returned to Madrid's museum, the Prado, for the Prado is the home of many originals of Spain's classic cartoonist, Francisco Goya. He, too, was an anti-war crusader.

The true historical significance of Guernica's home-going lies in the political revolution that is taking place in Spain. Picasso's wish was that the painting he named for the ravaged Basque community would not go back to Madrid until Franco was dead, and there was a "re-establishment of public liberties" in Spain.

Franco is gone. And thanks to the courage and fortitude of King Juan Carlos, "public liberties" have been "re-established" in Spain.

Guernica, in its final resting place at the Prado, thus becomes a monument to the thousands who fought for freedom's sake. It will stand as a classic reminder of the cordial entente between the world of art and the world of public liberty.

CHARLEY REESE

Is there no justice left today?

Michael Belich was an 80-year-old retired oysterman who lived alone in a small cottage near Blackwater Bay in West Florida.

Charley Reese

I never knew the old man. You can easily imagine the broad outlines of his life — which correspond to the broad outlines of this century. He was a youth up until World War I, in his twenties during the Roaring Twenties, approaching middle years during the Great Depresssion and World War II. Surely, he must have lived with a rich store of memories in that little hut. He must have been a self-reliant man to have survived and to have gotten along with himself enough to prefer his own company.

Last January 15, Belich's life ended. Three young hoodlums out roaming in that aimless manner that is mis-named joyriding decided to steal his money. They slashed him with a knife and battered him with a baseball bat.

Now pause and consider this. It is a bad thing to kill another person who had done you no wrong. It is a bad thing to rob another person of what is rightfully his. But the crime is especially despicable, for it is unmanly, cowardly and dishonorable for three young men in their prime to cut and beat a man too old to defend himself. Even the quality of criminals seems to be deteriorating. If ever a crime deserved the designation, "heinous," which is what Florida's squeamish law requires for a death sentence, the murder of old Mike Belich is it.

Yet such is the lousy state of the criminal justice system that Mike Belich's murderers will be out of prison in 5 to 10 years or less. Their punishment amounts to about one-eighth of the life they snuffed.

One of the trio received 30 years for second degree murder and the other two, 15 years each for manslaughter. In Florida, convicts usually serve a third or less of their sentences before they are paroled. Two of these bums had prior criminal records and one of them lived only 50 yards from Belich's hut. Nice neighbor.

That may be judicial mercy or rehabilitation or some other social theory but it is not justice. An old man's life ought to be worth more than 10 years max in a prison, especially the kind of prisons that exist today. You need look no further than this incident, which is typical of thousands nationwide, for the answer to the soaring crime rate. The judges who did the sentencing, the prosecutor who did the plea bargaining, obviously think more of the lies of three hoods than they do of Mike Belich. They showed concern for the lives and welfare of three hoodlums who showed neither concern nor mercy for the life of Mike Belch nor, for that matter, for the laws of man and God.

Mike Belich can't be paroled from the grave — at least not by the state — but one day his killers will walk out of the prison and if they follow the examples of 70 percent of all convicted felons, do more harm to other innocent people. This is the kind of thing that is called revolving door justice, only it's really revolving door injustice.

It makes you want to take the social scientists and do-gooders who dreamed up this ridiculous rehabilitation approach by the scruffs of their necks and rub their faces in the blood of the victims.

If we want to restore domestic tranquility, we must: (1) root out of our institutions the weak men with muddled minds and morals and replace them with people who have the common sense and courage to pursue justice; and (2) demand of our legislators that they abolish parole and probation for violent crimes. The emphasis of the rehabilitators is on the guilty; we should replace them with people who care about the innocent.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Officials skeptical of Taiwanese death story

WASHINGTON — There is no longer any doubt about it. Chen Wencheng was viciously tortured on a recent visit to his native Taiwan. The episode ended in his violent death.

Jack Anderson

The fate of Chen Wencheng has become the subject of secret communications between Washington and Taipei. Underlying the exchange of cables is a quiet outrage over the brutal treatment of this inoffensive professor.

Chen had come to America as a graduate student and was teaching at Carnegie-Mellon University. He was a young man, just 31 years old, with a sense of dignity.

He had gone back to his homeland for a happy visit to show his infant son to his family. He was picked up by the Taiwanese authorities and interrogated for 13 hours. A few hours later, his battered body was found on the pavement beneath the fire escape of a high-rise building.

The official Taiwanese version of Chen's death was that it must have been either suicide or an accident. His friends think he was either pushed off the building or died under torture — his body perhaps dumped from the building in a clumsy attempt to simulate suicide or accident.

Both the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency have been investigating Chen's death. Some of the secret findings tend to corroborate the darkest suspicions of his friends.

In one cable from Taipei, an American diplomat informed the State Department that he had openly expressed his doubts to Taiwanese officials about their account of what happened to Chen. He told the Taiwanese that he was troubled over the relationship of "Chen's 13-hour interrogation by the security police to his death which took place, at the latest, a few hours after that interrogation."

The language is even less diplomatic in a confidential State Department memorandum obtained by my associate Lucette Lagnado. "There is ample reason to be critically skeptical of the prosecutor's report on Professor Chen's death," the memo states.

Noting that one important Taiwanese source "believes Chen may have been murdered," the memo adds: "The generally shaky versions of Chen's interrogation and subsequent release from custody, disseminated by the authorities, together with the substantial inconsistencies in some of the authoritative stories, lead us to share these misgivings."

What were these inconsistencies that have led American officials to suspect foul play? A confidential cable to the State Department from U.S. officials in Taipei lists some of them:

— Nongovernment experts who examined Chen's body found "many injuries, obvious even to laymen, which are not explained by a fall." In particular, the cable says, these outside experts "believe that Chen was tortured by a variety of means, including needles inserted in sensitive areas." They noted such suspicious injuries as small lesions under the fingernails and on the left wrist, and four puncture wounds in the kidneys — none of which, they believe, would be caused by a fall from a building, accidental or otherwise.

— "Once it is established that at some point prior to death Chen was subjected to torture, it is difficult then to argue that he would go to the top of a fire escape, get dizzy and fall off," the cable states. Yet that is the theory offered by the Taiwanese authorities when confronted with the even greater absurdity of their suggestion that the new father committed suicide.

— Chen's interrogators claimed to have shared meals with him during his prolonged questioning. The authorities also say Chen had dinner with a friend after the interrogation. Yet the official autopsy showed Chen's stomach was empty.

These are just a few of the doubts raised by the U.S. investigations. Rep. Steve Solarz, D-N.Y., is doing still a separate investigation of Chen's death. We are also checking into the glaring discrepancies in the official Taiwanese version of the tragedy and will report our findings in a future column.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS: "Democratic Kampuchea" — the highfalutin name adopted by the murderous Cambodian regime of Pol Pot — is asking for help in its public relations campaign. The rump government has already achieved a certain respectability by winning a seat in the United Nations, and it throws elegant parties to impress U.N. delegates in New York.

But it is apparently worried that its press releases are in need of improvement. Its latest propaganda sheet says that "although we have been improving the Press Release's quality — adding some pictures — we still think that is not enough." Enclosed is a questionnaire, asking readers to rate the press releases in various ways, and to make suggestions for improvement — of the press releases, that is, not the government.

WATCH ON WASTE: The CIA can throw taxpayers' money around with the best of them; it's just harder to catch them at it, because their budgets are squirreled away in fiscal crannies known only to a few. But one wasteful project has come to light. The agency's mapmakers and writers labored for 18 months on a major project on Soviet energy, and a similar one on China. But the projects were suddenly called off after an outlay of at least $500,000 in salaries alone. Sources familiar with the CIA budget estimate the total loss to the taxpayers was about $1 million.

— There's gold in them thar hills of trash produced by the Defense Department each day. But the Pentagon won't take the trouble to dig for it. A recent DOD audit estimated that the solid waste generated by the military each year contains the energy equivalent of about 160 million gallons of fuel oil. But the Pentagon doesn't take full advantage of this potential bonanza, preferring instead to shell out over $60 million a year to collect the garbage and haul it away.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1981. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 14, 1613, Turkey invaded Hungary.

On this date:

In 1812, Napoleon Bonaparte entered Moscow, and Russians set fires throughout the city.

In 1829, the Russo-Turkish war ended with the Treaty of Adrianople.

In 1847, United States forces under Gen. Winfield Scott occupied Mexico City.

In 1962, the Soviet government said it would accept, with reservations, a U.S. declaration that no American military intervention in Cuba was planned.

Ten years ago: U.N. Secretary General U Thant accepted Communist China's declaration that it would refuse membership in the world body as long as the Chinese nationalists remained.

Five years ago: With the U.S. ready to cast a veto, the United Nations Security Council postponed consideration of Vietnam's bid for U.N. membership.

One year ago: Turkey's new military leaders said they had arrested 182 terrorists in an eastern province as door-to-door searches continued.

Today's birthdays: former Democratic Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa is 52 years old. Australian actress Zoe Caldwell is 48.

Thought For Today: Men reject their prophets and slay them, but they love their martyrs and honor those whom they have slain. — Feodor Dostoievski, Russian author (1821-1881).

INSIDE REPORT:

Begin anti-AWACS campaign may have missed its target

WASHINGTON — The "sweetness and light" that one presidential adviser perceived between President Reagan and Prime Minister Menahem Begin on their first meeting last Wednesday concealed divisions that were typified by an Israeli request for Vu-Graphs to be brought to the White House to help Begin make his case against the AWACS deal.

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

Begin's decision to carry his fight against radar AWACS planes for Saudi Arabia into the White House, using the Vu-Graph slides to demonstrate Israel's alleged vulnerability to the aircraft, weakened Reagan's hope that he would end his anti-AWACS campaign when he arrived in the heart of Reagan country.

Instead, though keeping a relatively low profile, Begin gave play to his iron will to keep his case against the AWACS alive, backed by an energized and potent pro-Israel congressional bloc intent on vetoing the sale. For his part, Reagan was extraordinarily moving in trying to convince Begin that despite the AWACS sale, he has a dedicated partner in the U.S. One participant described Reagan's effort as "an emotional and effective earnest of the American intention" not to let Israel down — but how effective he did not know.

A continuing struggle on the AWACS issue now before Congress would show that despite Reagan's moving appeal, Begin claims that he, not the American president, will set the terms for the strategic alliance aimed at halting Soviet penetration of the Middle East. Reagan could not accept such a claim.

On the eve of Begin's arrival for his 10-day visit, his agents confidently predicted there would be no retreat by Begin. They did so despite unprecedented evidence headlined in the press that American voters, including some of his foremost Jewish allies, were angered by his freewheeling use of U.S. warplanes, undercutting Reagan's effort to strengthen U.S.-Arab connections.

"Remember," one Begin insider told us, "Mr. Begin does not have high respect for American Jewish leaders. He got kicked around so much in the old days (before becoming prime minister) and he hasn't forgotten."

In the face of Newsweek's poll showing that 69 percent of American Jews believe Israel should "talk to" the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) if it recognizes Israel's right to exist, Israel's powerful defense minister, Arik Sharon, dismayed presidential aides in the White House Wednesday by depicting Israel as "surrounded by the PLO conspiracy."

Reagan steered his talks with Begin away from the PLO and such intractable issues as Begin's intention to greatly multiply the number of Jewish settlers on the West Bank. Nor did the president show any desire to probe the hornet's nest of the future of the Arab-occupied West Bank and East Jerusalem. On those questions, as on expanded Jewish settlements, Reagan's own advisers are divided and Reagan himself has reached few hard decisions.

Begin, however, has no doubt where he stands with Israel. He arrived here armed with intelligence data and forecasts calculated to show Reagan that Arab states are untrustworthy to be true allies of the U.S., with the exception of Egypt. Begin insists that Saudi Arabia will not last out this decade under the monarchy that Reagan regards as America's indispensable Arab ally.

Such warnings by Begin directly undermine the strategic alliance on which Reagan has pinned his entire Middle East defense policy. They are perceived within the administration as a political expedient by Begin to crack the slowly-building U.S.-Arab defense edifice, estrange the U.S. and Saudi Arabia and force the U.S. to put its strategic eggs into Israel's basket.

To embroider that bilateral theme, Begin is talking more openly about a future U.S.-Israeli defense alliance and about American use of Israeli airfields and harbors, in the words of a Begin aide, for "a serious American presence" in the Middle East. Also in Begin's mind is an offer of Israeli technicians for maintenance of U.S. Air Force planes and other equipment; and Israeli hospitals for U.S. servicemen and women. The bottom line: If you want a real ally, Mr. President, we're ready.

Reagan's fervent assurances of Israel's safety in the U.S.-led Mideast defense system fit neatly into these prospects of a closer U.S.-Israel alliance. But Reagan's special feeling for Israel would undergo profound erosion if Begin continues his battle against the AWACS, telling the American people that he, not the president, is the arbiter of American security.

Relocation games

Profitting from reselling homes

By EVELYN De WOLFE
(c) 1981, Los Angeles Times

The game they play with such zest is not unlike Monopoly. Except that it is on a gargantuan scale and far more complex.

The properties they buy, sell, lease or barter for — mostly homes made vacant or occupied through job transfer — are spread out on a giant game board that reaches across the land.

The players, acting as proxies for major corporations, are a new breed — a handful of relocation management firms whose role and profits continue to escalate despite spiraling real estate costs, record-high mortgage rates, tight funds and a decline in transfer activity.

The first requisite for survival as a "third party" in this young, aggressive industry is to have access to giant resources.

Merrill Lynch Relocation Management has its prestigious parent company, Merrill Lynch & Co. Transamerica Equitable Relocation has Equitable Life Insurance. Executrans has Coldwell Banker and the Seraco Group of Sears. Employee Transfer Corp. has Lincoln National Corp. Relocation Realty is 70 percent-owned by Control Data and Homequity is backed by the PH & H Group.

Merrill Lynch Relocation's newest strategy is its "basket of fruit" approach. It goes something like this: The firm acquires an employee's home, resells that home, helps facilitate that move, acts as a broker in the new home purchase, assists in obtaining a mortgage protection insurance, insures the mortgage for other lending institutions, then acquires and packages that mortgage as a marketable investment.

Executrans' "trump card" is its "days-in-inventory" fee incentive. It has to do with how long it takes to dispose of a property. The premise is that a holding period on an employee's house is obviously going to impact the cost factor to the client company.

Executrans starts out with a "reasonable" profit fee for handling a property, but as the holding time increases (beyond 120 days), its profit decreases.

While most relocation management firms are retained by corporations to purchase the homes of transferred employees, counsel them on their new location, help them buy new homes and manage the moving of their household goods, Employee Transfer Corp. has come up with its own property management service angle.

It capitalizes on the knowledge that some transferees, in particular those moving from the East and Midwest to the "Sun Belt areas," may not reap sufficient benefits from a job transfer, or even want to accept the offer because of untenable variances in living costs in different parts of the country.

An Employee Transport study on cost of living differences in major U.S. cities showed it would require a family of four to have a $45,510 annual income in Anaheim and Santa Ana, Calif., to maintain a middle-level standard of living. In Birmingham, Ala., the same standard of living would require only an income of $28,407.

Dee Ruckstuhl, a company spokeswoman in Cleveland, said the firm makes it possible, on behalf of the client corporation, for transferred employees to keep their homes and rent them instead of having to sell.

"Our service attends to leasing or maintaining an unoccupied home as part of the relocation package, and sees that mortgage and real estate taxes are paid, repairs made and home and grounds maintained," she said.

"Corporate bosses still value the mobility of their talent," Executrans president James L. Ervin maintains. "In some industries it is essential to company growth.

"The volatile economic climate has little effect on the relocation business," he added. "It just spurs us on to develop and implement more sophisticated techniques.

"We get the business coming and going. In good times, companies are quick to expand and shift employees to new key positions. In unsettling times, the problems are somewhat different. But we must remember that retrenching also results in reshifting of personnel. We are one of the few businesses willing to buy houses in bad times."

The corporation, not the transferee, is charged the relocation service fee which ranges from 1 percent to 3 percent of the value of the house sold. At one given time, a relocation company may be saddled with ownership of several hundred houses. While not the largest among the relocation firms, Ervin noted that Executrans' current inventory of properties is valued at approximately $165 million.

Ervin reported that his firm, headquartered in Deerfield, Ill., has grown 400 percent in four years. "The reason is simple: for major companies, the lack of a service such as we have to offer has resulted in a big headache. It is more cost-effective to use third parties."

A decade or so ago 19 percent of all major firms used a relocation service. The 1981 annual Survey of Corporate Relocation Policies sponsored by Merrill Lynch Relocation Management reports that 47 percent of more than 600 "Fortune 1000" corporations surveyed employ a relocation firm or bank to offer to purchase employee homes. This figure has risen from 36 percent three years ago.

The number of transferees who must relocate because of their jobs is expected to continue at a high level through most of the '80s. It is estimated that 250,000 corporate transfers a year will involve the sale of a house. The current cost to a company transferring an employee is equivalent to the employee's annual income figures.

"These are not Depression babies we are dealing with, for whom any kind of promotion was welcome and added to their feelings of security," he said.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Hints on keeping garlic fresh for cooking

DEAR HELOISE:

Would you please tell me the best way to keep garlic? I never seem to have any luck doing so and it dries out and spoils before I can use it. Also, a good way to peel those pesky little pods.

I would be ever so grateful! — Mrs. Velma Thomason

+ + +

The best way I have found to easily peel those slippery little cusses is to put them in water, bring it to a boil and then drain. After cooling a bit to allow for easy handling, the skin will slip right off.

Next, pat them dry, place them in a jar and cover them completely with olive or cooking oil, or, white vinegar. Cover with a tight-fitting lid and store in the refrigerator. The garlic will keep indefinitely.

You may use either the garlic pods themselves in a recipe or, the oil or vinegar. But if using the liquid, you will need to replenish what you remove, keeping the garlic always covered with it. Be careful not to use too much either, as the oil or vinegar will become very garlicky. Start out with a few drops (notice I said a few) and go from there.

The garlic will always be ready for immediate use and you won't ever have to waste money replacing those flavorful little bulbs again. — Hugs, Heloise

LIFESTYLE

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise: My wife and I have a very comfortable den we like to share, but the long and loud football season on television, when she likes to read and sew, understandably gets on her nerves sometimes.

So, last Christmas, my wife bought me a gift which she said was really for her — a TV band radio with a set of headphones.

Now, I can watch my favorite team to my heart's content and turn the sound as loud as I want without disturbing her peace and quiet. — Lanny

BELIEVE IT!

Dear Heloise: As to "How do you get the ice cube tray from the sink to the refrigerator without spilling the water?" you won't believe the following hint, but try it anyway... It's a happy thing and it works!

Just hum all the way from the sink to the fridge!

Try this also when carrying soup bowls, coffee cups, plant watering cans — any dumb thing that gets itself filled too full through no fault of yours or mine!

Anyway, I have found one cannot be unhappy while singing. Love and happiness. — Maxine Barridge

+ + +

True! I did try your hint, numerous times, and yes, it does work — or, did for me — but don't ask me to explain why.

Some folks wrote that you had to hum or sing a waltz while doing this, but any tune did the trick for me. Absolutely amazing! — Heloise

BAG IT

Dear Heloise: On a rainy day, when I have several letters to put out for the mailman, I put them in a plastic bag.

Keeps them dry and prevents the addresses from being smeared. — Marian Hirsch

PIE-PAN SAVER

Dear Heloise: When preparing fresh fruit pies for the freezer, add your usual seasonings, then line the pie pans with plastic wrap.

Put the filling in the plastic lined pan, cover with plastic wrap, then place in the freezer until frozen. Lift out of the pie pan and store in plastic bags.

When ready to make pies, use the same size pie pan and line it with a crust. Remove the plastic from the frozen filling, place it in the pan, cover with another crust and bake.

By using this method, I don't tie up my limited supply of pie pans and can be using them for other baking in the meantime. — G.K.

DEAR ABBY

No love lost from this 'proof'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago, you wrote a column telling girls how to answer boys who asked them to prove their love by committing fornication, which is a sin.

Many teen-aged girls cut that column out and carried it in their purses. Today's sex education makes it seem OK for teen-age girls to have sex as long as they "love" the boy. I wish you would reprint that column. It is badly needed now. — WASHINGTON, N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Here it is:

Girls need to "prove their love" through illicit sex relations like a moose needs a hat rack.

Why not prove your love by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leapfrog out in the traffic? It's about as safe.

Clear the cobwebs out of your head: Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving bit is one of the oldest and rottenest lines ever invented!

Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants whatever is best for you. But now figure it out. He wants you to:

— Commit an immoral act.
— Surrender your virtue.
— Throw away your self-respect.
— Risk the loss of your precious reputation.
— And risk getting into trouble.

Does that sound as though he wants what's best for you? This is the laugh of the century. He wants what's best for him ... he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense.

Love? Who's kidding whom! A boy who loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he doesn't love you.

The predictable aftermath of "proofs" of this kind always finds Don Juan tiring of his sport. That's when he drops you, picks up his line and goes casting elsewhere for bigger, and equally silly, fish.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in my last month of pregnancy and my husband and I still can't resolve a serious disagreement. Jeffrey says if it's a girl I can name her anything I want, but if it's a boy, he wants to name him "Jeffrey Jr." Abby, I am very much against that. If we have a son, I want him to have his own name and his own identity.

I don't like nicknames, and I don't want our son going through life being called "Little Jeff" or, worse yet, "Junior."

I favor "Michael" for a boy's name. Jeffrey likes "Michael," but he insists that the only name he wants for our son is "Jeffrey." I suggested we forget both "Jeffrey" and "Michael" and select another name as a compromise. Jeffrey refuses to budge.

What do you think? I need some support. — PRAYING FOR A GIRL

DEAR PRAYING: Would your husband consider "Jeffrey" for the boy's MIDDLE name? If not, hang in there. Wanting your son to have his own name and his own identity is both valid and sensible. If you absolutely cannot agree, a compromise is the only fair solution.

Researchers studying desert plants in Arizona as answer to food shortages

By EDWARD STILES
The Tucson Citizen

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — With the world bound for a food shortage, researchers here are working with largely forgotten arid-lands crops they say could prove vital in a war against hunger.

Richard S. Felger, head of the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum research department and a University of Arizona Arid Lands Department researcher, is one of those working to preserve agricultural knowledge gathered over the centuries by Southwestern Indians.

The world's food resources today are dangerously limited, Felger says. Humanity survives on a few dozen crops, and just seven stand between the majority of the world and starvation: wheat, rice, corn, barley, soybeans, common beans and potatoes. Most of these have temperate or tropical ancestors and require large amounts of water.

By contrast, Sonoran peoples used more than 450 water-conserving desert plants for food, 40 to 50 of them extensively.

Felger says these plants can be domesticated fairly rapidly and can grow in places not now used for agriculture — areas with salty soils, abandoned desert farmland, even the sea.

"Since approximately one-third of the land surface of the world is arid or semi-arid, it behooves us to look for crops specifically adapted to dry lands," Felger said recently. "Our basic premise is the development of agricultural crops and practices to fit the environment, rather than modifying the environment to fit the crop."

Of all the desert plants Felger has investigated, he says mesquite appears to be the most promising.

To the layman, the gnarled mesquite tree growing near washes and on desert hillsides hardly looks like something to nibble on. It doesn't even provide good shade. To ranchers who pull it down to improve their grasslands, it's little more than a weed.

But Felger predicts flatly: "Mesquite will become a major world crop."

Mesquite is a legume, a member of the same family that includes many of the world's most important food plants: alfalfa, beans, peanuts, peas and soybeans.

Legumes were vital to Southwestern Indians.

Plane serves as crib for tiny girl

By JAN HENDERSON
The Oregonian

BEAVERTON, Ore. (AP) — In her short five months of life, Jessica Foote has "logged" more than 40 hours in the air — with a Piper Cherokee plane her cradle and the hum of its engine her lullaby.

Jessica started looking down on the world when she was 6 weeks old and her parents, Ken and Holly Foote, flew her in their own plane to Fresno, Calif., to meet her grandmother.

That was just the beginning of her flying career.

Since the age of 3 months, the infant has accompanied her father each morning to the Hillsboro Airport, where Foote operates the Portland State University Flying Club and conducts private flying lessons.

When the 37-year-old instructor gives a lesson, he and his student sit at the controls, while baby Jessica nestles cozily in a back seat — usually nodding off as soon as the craft is airborne.

When there's maintenance work to be done, the youngster sits in a car seat perched on the wing of the plane and gleefully gurgles instructions to her dad.

Jessica spends afternoons with her mother in their home in Beaverton after Mrs. Foote returns from her 5 a.m. to 1 p.m. job as a clerk at Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co.

Foote said their daughter "is remarkably well-disposed to this unusual schedule. She seems to thrive on it, as she rarely cries."

The new father has figured out that "a baby usually cries only if she needs food, a diaper change or sleep," and he has learned to accommodate these needs while still attending to his job at the airport.

"I heat her bottle in the microwave oven in the control tower or the flight service station," he explained, "and I use the back seat of one of the planes to change her or put her down for a nap."

Recently, the family of three flew to Canada for a fishing holiday. It was a five-hour trip each way and, according to Foote, their baby spent her time either sleeping or gazing intently out the window, fascinated by the panorama below.

"We stayed at a fishing lodge north of Vancouver," he added, "and our daughter was the youngest guest the lodge people had ever had. She gets lots of attention."

Jessica's mother, 28, said she is "all in favor" of the shared baby-sitting arrangement.

"Some fathers don't have the chance to spend time with their children," she said, "but Jessica gets a lot of me and a lot of him this way."

Mrs. Foote enjoys flying, too, and is working toward getting her license.

"It's a slow process because I don't have much time between my job and the baby," she said. "So far, I've only logged five hours."

She and her husband met in 1974 when she attended a ground school course he was conducting at Portland State University.

On the beam

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A man-made mineral has made possible a tunable laser — one whose wavelength can be changed, according to research scientists here.

Two things have been done in this country with solid state lasers that no one else has done — synthesized the mineral alexandrite in production level quantities and discovered that the wavelength of light projected through the mineral could be changed, according to Allied Corp., which holds patents on the technology.

The tunable laser is difficult to detect because of its wavelength agility can thwart most existing anti-laser techniques, company officials say. Until these advancements, all solid state lasers operated at a fixed frequency.

Focus on women's wages

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — The disparity between salaries earned by men and women for similar work may have had its beginnings in biblical times, says a professor of economics at State University of New York at Binghamton.

Robert Melville, acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, begins his class on the economics of female employment by citing Chapter 27 in the Book of Leviticus, which puts the value of a male at 50 shekels and a female at 30 shekels in terms of dedication to the service of the temple.

"The wage differential has not changed much since then," Melville says. "For the past 20 years the median earnings of fully employed women have equaled 60 percent of the median earnings of fully employed men."

He says women's salaries, far from catching up, have been steadily declining, compared with their male counterparts.

"We can expect to see increasing attempts by male-dominated labor organizations to attack — directly or indirectly — affirmative action programs." Melville says, but adds that "something irrevocable has occurred" in the history of labor. His course, which traces the working history of women from World War II to the present, explores the various stages of women's entry into the labor force.

"In the past five years," he says, "the proportionately largest percentage of women entering the labor pool are wives of the highest-paid males — the top 20 percent."

Melville predicts a widening gap between middle- and high-income families which could, he says, become a two-edged sword:

"It could help stimulate the economy by encouraging increased consumer spending, but it may also have serious consequences because it will create a very high-income group who will, nevertheless, continue to think of themselves as middle-class."

Abducted children may be in Texas

AURORA, Colo. (AP) — Authorities in Texas have been notified to be on the lookout for an Arabian geologist believed to have abducted his two children from his estranged American wife here.

The search was focused on Corpus Christi, Texas, after an attorney for the mother received an anonymous tip that the children's father, Mustafa Ukayli, 38, was intending to travel to Corpus Christi.

"We feel they flew out of Stapleton Airport" in Denver and are still in the country, said Sgt. Bill Herman of the Aurora Police Department. "Then again, he could be in Saudi Arabia by now. But it's the only lead we have and we're working on it very hard."

Herman said the State Department has told him it will enter the case if information shows the children have been taken out of the country.

Ben Aisenberg, attorney for the children's 29-year-old mother, who is now using the assumed name of Kristine A. Uhlman, said Sunday night that attempts were being made to get the FBI involved in the case "but we're running into a lot of red tape and we're afraid time is short. He (Ukayli) has certainly had time to get out of the country. If that happens, it's a different ball game, and Mrs. Uhlman will probably never see her kids again."

Mrs. Uhlman said she fled Kuwait with her children on June 23 with the help of the State Department. She said she obtained sole custody of her children last month.

The boy and girl — Hani, 2, and Maisoon, 4 — were abducted Friday night from in front of their mother's apartment in this Denver suburb. Witnesses said the children were kicking and screaming as a man who fit the description of their father and three other men hustled them into a van.

The van was found abandoned three blocks away, and a rental car was returned to the rental agency at the airport about 15 minutes later by a man matching Ukayli's description, police said.

Jeffrey L. Hill, an attorney for the father, telephoned Aurora police about 15 minutes after the children were taken on instructions from his client. "I advised the police that what had happened was that the natural father had taken his children back," said Hill.

Hill said he did not know where Ukayli had gone with the children.

A warrant was issued for Ukayli, who is a geophysics professor at the University of Petroleum and Minerals in Saudi Arabia that has a branch office in Houston, Texas.

Aisenberg said he was contacted by an anonymous caller Sunday morning who said Ukayli had hired a private investigator to stake out the Uhlman home for a week prior to the children's abduction.

"He knew that the plan was for the father to take the children to Corpus Christi. That's all he knew," Aisenberg said. "He sounded realistic, but there's a chance it might have been a crank call. Still, it's the only thing we have to go on."

Mrs. Uhlman said she has had no word from her estranged husband or anyone connected with him since the children were taken.

"The most benefical thing for him to do is to get those kids out of the United States," she said Sunday. "In Arabia as their mother I had no legal hold on those children by being an American citizen. There is no jurisdiction that will ever touch those kids once they're inside Saudi Arabia."

Fingerprinted Sunday after his capture near Goodman, Ms., is John E. Kitchell, 28, of Annapolis, Mo. Kitchell was the last escapee to be captured following the escape of seven prisoners from the Kansas State ZPenitentiary Sept. 6.

Last of escapees captured after a week of freedom

GOODMAN, Mo. (AP) — A week of freedom marked by the most intensive manhunt in Missouri history has ended for two men who had eluded authorities since their escape from the Kansas State Penitentiary.

Everett L. Cameron, 32, of Wichita, Kan., and John E. Kitchell, 28, of Annapolis, Mo., were captured Sunday near Goodman, the last of seven inmates to be apprehended since their escape Sept. 6 from the Lansing, Kan., prison. Both surrendered peacefully, authorities said.

"They were cold, wet and literally starving to death," McDonald County Deputy Sheriff Virgil Hottinger said. "One of them sat there and ate seven sandwiches."

Their capture ended a manhunt involving the FBI, about 150 Missouri National Guardsmen and about 200 law enforcement officers from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Missouri authorities called it the most intensive search in the state's history.

"The whole southwest corner of Missouri is breathing a little bit easier now," said Missouri Highway Patrol Sgt. Vern Reynolds.

Kitchell was serving time for murder while Cameron was serving 225 years for rape, burglary and grand larceny.

Three of the convicts who broke out of the prison were captured the day of the escape. A fourth was caught Tuesday in Aurora, and a fifth was captured Saturday near Noel.

The fugitives swept through northeast Kansas and southwest Missouri following their escape, seriously wounding a policeman, breaking into at least four homes, stealing five cars and robbing and holding six people hostage before releasing them unharmed, authorities said.

McDonald County Sheriff Lou Keeling said Kitchell and Cameron were spotted by a Lanagan, Mo., man Sunday afternoon as they rode in a northbound boxcar. The man notified authorities, who ordered the train to stop at Goodman, about 12 miles north of Lanagan.

The men jumped from the train when it stopped. Cameron was captured minutes later by a highway patrol trooper who jumped from a helicopter as it pursued him in an open field, Reynolds said.

Cody probe centered on loan

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury is looking into whether a $30,000 loan to a St. Louis couple with ties to Cardinal John P. Cody was indirectly made by the Archdiocese of Chicago, a newspaper reported today.

The Chicago Sun Times said in a copyright story authorities are investigating whether the funds were used as a down payment on a home purchased by David Dolan Wilson and his wife, Mary Jo.

Wilson, a 46-year-old insurance executive, is the son of Helen Dolan Wilson, a step-cousin and lifelong friend of the 73-year-old Cody.

Last week, the Sun-Times began a series that said a federal grand jury was investigating whether Cody diverted up to $1 million from two unaudited church accounts to Mrs. Wilson, 74.

Cody and Mrs. Wilson have denied the reports. Cody said the allegations were an attack on the Catholic Church and Mrs. Wilson called the charges "scandalizing" and falsely make her look like a "kept woman."

In today's report, the Sun-Times said Wilson borrowed $30,000 from a St. Louis bank in 1971 and repaid the loan two months later.

The report said the investigation is seeking to determine whether the loan was paid back with $30,000 that Mrs. Wilson reportedly loaned her son two months after the original loan was secured and whether the money came from the archdiocese.

The Sun-Times has reported Mrs. Wilson is beneficiary of a $100,000 insurance policy on Cody's life and has received a "secret salary" from the Chicago Archdiocese but was never seen working there.

Federal law prohibits tax-exempt church funds from being spent to improperly enrich any individual.

Mrs. Wilson said the reports "make me seem like a tramp."

"They're accusing the cardinal of being a thief and they are scandalizing me," Mrs. Wilson told the Chicago Tribune in a copyright story published Sunday.

In a Tribune story published today, she and her lawyer denied a Sun-Times report that estimated her net worth at $1 million.

The report said federal income tax returns suggested her net worth was about $350,000 and that came from investments. However, the lawyer acknowledged the amount was his own estimate.

Cody, archbishop of the nation's largest Catholic archdiocese, said Saturday he was "falsely accused" and would respond once all the charges are published.

$5 million raised in Terry Fox Run

OTTAWA (AP) — More than a million people in Canada and around the world — some on crutches or in wheelchairs — ran, walked and skateboarded in the first Terry Fox Run to raise money for cancer research.

The Marathon of Hope on Sunday was named in honor of Fox, who died of cancer June 28 after attempting a cross-Canada run on an artificial leg, which replaced a limb he lost to the disease.

The progress of the disease forced Fox to stop his run in September 1980, but not before he covered 3,400 miles and raised $24 million for research on the cause of cancer.

Canadian officials estimated that at least 1 million Canadians in more than 700 cities and towns took part in the races and helped raise $5 million. Each participant solicited pledges of a certain amount of money for each kilometer covered.

Dozens of people who jogged through London's Regent Park were among hundreds of people, mostly Canadian expatriates and armed forces personnel, who ran for cancer in Ankara, Tokyo and Peking, organizers said.

"We've been overwhelmed," said Terry's mother, Betty, in Port Coquitlam, a suburb of Vancouver where Fox died at the age of 22.

Fox's family was joined by his wheelchair basketball teammates and hundreds of other people who simply wanted to contribute.

Also taking part was Orissa Peyman, a 19-year-old cerebral palsy victim who struggled painfully through the course and then threw her crutches away and finished the final steps in tears, five hours after she started.

Richard Traum, a one-legged New York native who runs more than 30 miles a week, said Fox inspired him not to ashamed of his artifical leg and run in short pants.

Traum, 40, joined about 6,000 people who completed the courses in Toronto, some on unicycles and roller skates, others on crutches and casts and all with a determination to contribute.

One woman who suffers from two forms of palsy, a heart murmur and blindness that struck only four days ago, rolled her wheelchair across the finish line and broke into tears when told she had made it.

"I don't feel brave about this," she said before she began. "I just want to be helpful."

In Owen Sound, Ontario, 9-year-old Julie Ruff made it only halfway along the route. Bald and lacking strength from her many treatments for cancer, she was carried the rest of the way by her father.

More than 2,000 people turned out in Montreal for a run Saturday on the slopes of Mount Royal. They event was held a day early to avoid conflicting with an international marathon race Sunday.

The first run of the day was in Halifax, where 50 people started at one minute after midnight in a rainstorm. Later in the day the weather cleared and several thousand people, including senior citizens and infants in baby carriages, participated in the run.

Sponsors of the events included the Canadian Cancer Society and the Canadian Track and Field Association.

William Loeb, puyblisher of the Manchester, N.H., Union Leader, died of cancer Sunday. Loeb, 75, was known for his conservative views and often delivered stinging prose that influenced state and national politics for a generation.

Manchester, N.H., publisher dies

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — William Loeb, the acerbic newspaper publisher whose front-page editorials crusaded for a conservative America and helped sink the presidential aspirations of Edmund Muskie, has died of cancer at age 75.

The publisher of the Union Leader and the New Hampshire Sunday News — which were based in Manchester but had a statewide circulation — died Sunday at the Leahy Clinic in Burlington, Mass.

Loeb was eulogized in today's edition of the Union Leader as "loved, hated, respected, feared, (but) never ignored."

In a statement Sunday night, President Reagan called Loeb "a patriot and a man of deep conviction who had the courage to speak frankly and forcefully."

Reagan enjoyed Loeb's support in 1980, as did Richard Nixon in 1968 and 1972. But Loeb called President Eisenhower "dopey Dwight," pilloried President Ford as "a jerk" and called President Kennedy "the No. 1 liar in the United States."

Loeb's opposition to presidential candidates, some of them front-runners when they campaigned in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary, garnered national attention.

Democrats Lyndon Johnson in 1968 and Edmund Muskie in 1972 were targets of Loeb's acid criticism in the Union Leader. Both won their respective New Hampshire primaries, but with poor showings that eventually forced them to withdraw from the race.

In 1972, the Union Leader published the "Canuck" letter, believed to have been authored by a "dirty trickster" among Nixon's supporters. It quoted Muskie as calling people of French-American descent "Canucks" — an uncomplimentary term — damaging his presidential bid. Muskie had been the front-runner.

Loeb also reprinted an uncomplimentary Newsweek article about Muskie's wife, which so upset the Maine senator that he appeared to cry in front of the newspaper's office, further hurting his chances.

When President Jimmy Carter appointed Muskie secretary of state, Loeb wondered what good a "cry baby" would be in that office.

Muskie, reached at his home in Kennebunk Beach, Maine, refused to comment on Loeb's death.

Loeb had stopped writing the front-page editorials in recent months.

DEATHS

SPORTS IN BRIEF

McEnroe No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, reasserting his dominance on his home court, defeated Sweden's Bjorn Borg, capturing his third consecutive U.S. OpenlTennis Championship 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

It was his second straight victory over Borg in a premier tournament. McEnroe beat him in the final at Wimbledon in July.

McEnroe became the first man to win both Wimbledon and the U.S. Open singles in the same year since Jimmy Connors in 1974, and the first to win three straight U.S. championships since Bill Tilden in 1925.

McEnroe defeated Gerulaitis in the Saturday's semis, 5-7, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, while Borg, the second seed, defeated Connors 6-2, 7-5, 6-4. In Saturday's main event, Tracy Austin captured her second U.S. Open title, beating Martina Navratilova 1-6, 7-6, 7-6.

GENERAL

The South African Springbok rugby team left New Zealand for two matches in the United States amid threats that some African nations may boycott the 1984 Summer Games at Los Angeles. The Soviet Union reportedly will seek to have Games relocated if the rugby matches are played in the United States.

In a related move, Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley wrote Secretary of State Alexander Haig and asked that the Springboks visas be revoked. A similiar request was made to President Reagan by 65 political, labor and civil rights leaders.

However, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speaks said the administation did not intend to intervene in the matter, adding "government policy does not extend to sports."

HOCKEY

MONTREAL (AP) — Sergei Shepelev scored three goals and goaltender Vladislav Tretiak recorded 26 saves as the Soviet Union humiliated Team Canada 8-1 to win the Caanada Cup hockey tournament.

Igor Larionov had two goals and Vladimir Krutov, Vladimir Golikov and Aleksandre Skvorstov scored one each for the Soviets.

TRACK

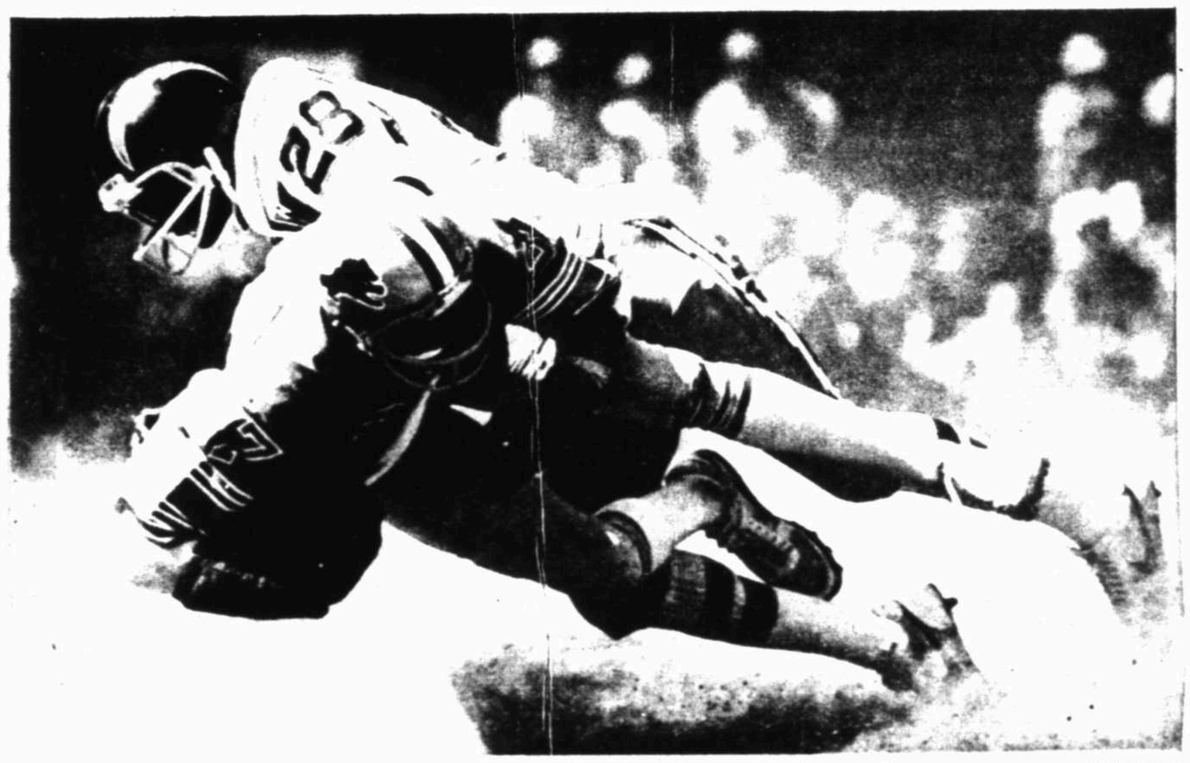

AGEN, France (AP) — Massimo Magnani of Italy, racing through warm, humid weather, captured the first European Marathon Cup in 2 hours, 13 minutes, 29 seconds over the 26-mile 385-yard course.

Waldemar Cierpinski of East Germany finished second in 2:15:44. He was followed by Tommy Persson of Sweden in 2:15:45, Ryszard Marczak of Poland in 2:15:50, and Hugh Jones of Britain in 2:16:18.

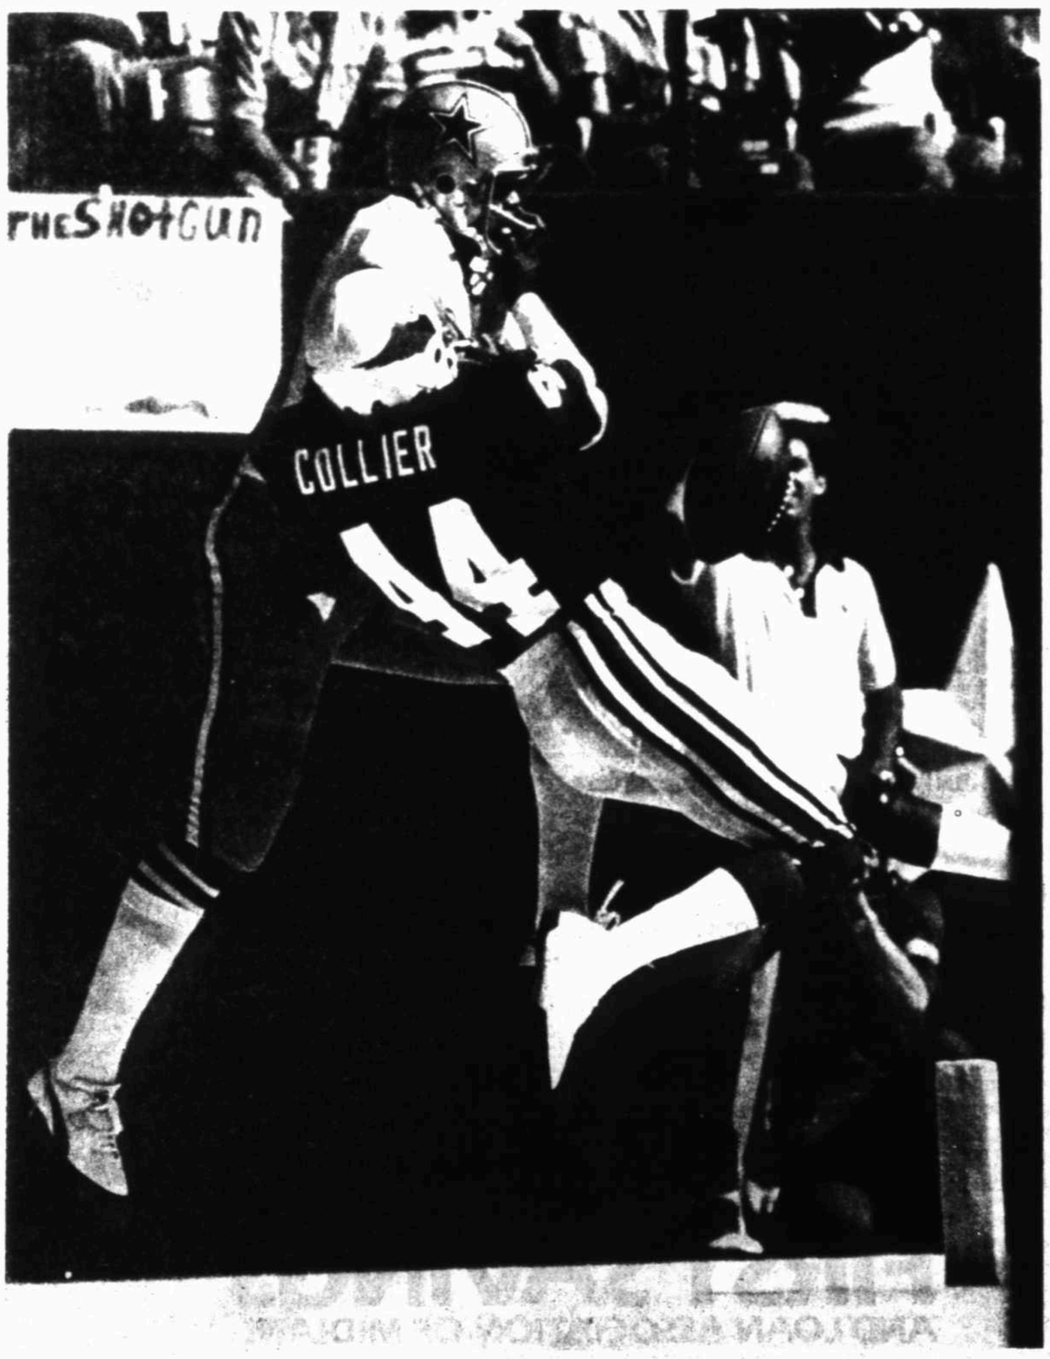

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Kenya's Henry Rono bettered his own men's 5,000-meter world record, while Paula Fudge of Britain set a women's world record for the same distance at an international track and field meet Knarvik, Norwegian Radio reported.

Rono's excellent run was capped with a spectacular last lap of 56

Cowboys beat Cards

Unawed rookie no match for Dallas

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING — The Dallas Cowboys survived 98-degree heat, rookie quarterback Neil Lomax and running back Ottis Anderson, in that order, Sunday to remain unbeaten in the National Football League.

With temperatures reaching 120 degrees on the floor of Texas Stadium, the Cowboys exploded for 27 points in the first half then coasted to a 30-17 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Fullback Ron Springs scored three touchdowns on short runs and Rafael Septien kicked three field goals in Dallas' seventh consecutive victory over the Cardinals to keep pace with Philadelphia in the National Conference East.

Dallas quarterback Danny White said "It was really hot out there and it took its toll on the field. The Cardinals didn't fold like I thought they would. Usually when you get ahead of a team and it's hot they will slack off. . .but the Cardinals just kept coming."

Lomax, making his starting debut because Jim Hart had a bruised knee, threw a 62-yard touchdown pass to running back Willard Harrell and gave the Cowboys fits despite two interceptions.

"Lomax was not intimidated," said Dallas strong safety Charlie Waters. "Once he came up to the line of scrimmage and actually winked at me. I kind of got off on that. It meant to me that he was a competitor."

Dallas "held" Anderson to 80 yards on 16 carries—a good day for most running backs but not for Anderson against the Cowboys. He had averaged 122 yards in four previous outings against them.

Running back Tony Dorsett rushed for 129 yards on 16 carries and White passed for 240 yards on 21 of 29.

Lomax was 14 of 41 for 295 yards.

St. Louis Coach Jim Hanifen said of Lomax, "I'm very high on the young man. . .he got himself out of trouble at times and he showed a lot of poise out there."

St. Louis is now 0-2 while the Cowboys climbed to 2-0.

The Cowboys play at New England Monday night week and Waters said he would be delighted "to see any night game after today."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said of his sweat-soaked coat: "I'm throwing it in the wastepaper basket. . .I've used it up."

Landry praised Lomax, saying "He looked good. . .his receivers just couldn't hold onto the ball. All I know is that we will have to play better against New England."

Lomax said he had no way to judge how well he played against the Cowboys.

"I've no experience yet. . .give me a couple or three years and I'll tell you whether I played well or not," he said. "We made some good plays and had some good drives."

Lomax admitted "I really didn't know what to expect out there.

"Charlie Waters really impressed me with he way he can still run around out there as long as he's been in the NFL. We tried to pick on him quite a bit, but he did a super job of knocking 'em down and picking them off."

St. Louis rolled up 262 yards passing and 142 yards rushing against the Dallas Doomsday Defense while the Cowboys were retaliating with 181 yards overland and 210 yards through the air.

Wide receiver Pat Tilley was highly critical of his team's performance after the game.

"Right now we stink. . .we are 0-2 and we stink. . .that's all you can say," Tilley said. "We really stunk up Busch Stadium last week against Miami and we didn't do well today. Right now we are not playing well as a team."

Tech's Moore still stunned

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference upped its non-conference record to 6-3 Saturday but the game it lost will forever be branded on the mind of Texas Tech Coach Jerry Moore.

The Red Raiders were slaughtered 45-27 by Colorado in his debut and Moore said the experience was "Like being shot."

Moore admitted quite candidly after the game in Boulder that "This wasn't anything like what we expected. . .we didn't play the way I thought we would play. . .and Colorado's not a bad footbal team."

Tech gave up 205 rushing yards and 359 passing yards to the heretofore toothless Buffaloes who had won only five of their last 23 games.

Elsewhere around the SWC things went pretty much as expected as the No. 8 ranked Texas Longhorns rolled over Rice 31-3, Southern Methodist blasted North Texas State 34-7 and Baylor flogged Bowling Green 38-0 with Arkansas coming from behind to beat Tulsa 14-10.

"Rice is a formidable football team and they fight," said Texas Coach Fred Akers. "We just had too much for them. I am pleased with he conference win over a team that we respect."

In games this week, Northwestern is at Arkansas, Baylor is at Louisiana Tech, Houston is at Miami, Rice is at Missouri, Texas hosts North Texas State, Texas A&M is at Boston College, Texas-Arlington is at Texas Christian, New Mexico is at Texas Tech, and Grambling is at SMU.

The Texas rout of Rice started on a 65-yard pass-and-run touchdown play from quarterback Rick McIvor to Donnie Little, who was the starting quarterback last year before he lost his job.

The pass came on 3rd and 34.

"I was glad to see Donnie get the touchdown," said McIvor. "I want him to do well. He works so hard."

McIvor completed another touchdown pass of five yards to tight end Lawrence Sampleton.

Texas' John Walker rushed for 155 yards and scord on an 18-yard run in the Longhorn victory.

Dawson's hot bat leads Montreal by Chicago Cubs

By The Associated Press

Andre Dawson is swinging a hot bat — and it couldn't have come at a better time for the Montreal Expos.

"I believe that I have to swing the bat good for us to stay in contention," Dawson said after his four hits helped the Expos beat the Chicago Cubs 10-6 Sunday.

The victory sent Montreal home for a big five-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals starting Tuesday night. The Expos stayed 2½ games behind St. Louis in the National League East after the Cardinals beat the New York Mets 4-2 Sunday.

"We're swinging the bats and that's a good sign," said Dawson, "and it's good that we won our last two games on the road before going home."

Dawson's four hits, which included two doubles and accounted for three RBI, boosted his batting average to .323.

"It would be nice to win the batting title," Dawson said, "but I'm not thinking about that. All I want is to get this team into the playoffs."

In other NL action, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, the San Diego Padres turned back the Atlanta Braves 6-4 in 10 innings and the Houston Astros whipped the San Francisco Giants 3-0.

Dawson doubled in a run in the Montreal first, singled home another in the fifth and his run-scoring double keyed a five-run sixth. Along with his three RBI, Dawson also scored three runs.

Larry Parrish aided the Montreal cause with three RBI on a single and double, and Tim Wallach hit a home run for the Expos.

For the Cubs, Bill Buckner had four hits, including a run-scoring double in the seventh and a two-run double in the ninth.

Cardinals 4, Mets 2

Relief pitcher Jesse Orosco balked Tito Landrum home from third base in the sixth inning to snap a 2-2 tie and help St. Louis beat New York.

The balk by Orosco came with Gene Tenace at home plate. The New York right-hander was attempting to pick Ken Oberkfell off first base after he had singled. The Cardinals added an insurance run in the eighth on an RBI single by Tommy Herr.

The Cardinals took a 2-0 lead in the first. Gene Roof's double scored one run and the rookie outfielder then came home on a steal of third combined with catcher Alex Trevino's throwing error.

New York tied it in the fifth against Joaquin Andujar, 5-4, on Mike Howard's two-run single.

In the Cardinals' sixth, Dane Iorg led off with St. Louis' sixth walk. Iorg was replaced by Landrum on first before Oberkfell singled off Terry Leach, 1-1.

Dodgers 4, Reds 2

Bob Castillo drove in one run with an infield hit and pitched strong middle-inning relief, pacing Los Angeles over Cincinnati. Castillo, 2-4, took over in the fifth for Dodgers starter Bob Welch, who struggled throughout. Castillo needed late relief help himself, and Dave Stewart finally shut the door on the Reds in the eighth to gain his fifth save.

Frank Pastore, 3-7, was the loser.

"When the star gets in trouble, here I come," said Castillo.

The Dodgers "star," Welch, pitched out of bases-loaded jams in the first three innings, surrendering only one run as the Reds stranded 11 runners in the first four innings.

"Welch was skating on some thin ice," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda, noting that he threw 109 pitches in the four-inning span.

Pirates 3, Phillies 2

Pinch-hitter Jason Thompson rapped a two-run single in the eighth inning off reliever Ron Reed to lift Pittsburgh over Philadelphia.

Phillies starter Mark Davis had checked Pittsburgh on six hits and led 2-1 going into the eighth before the Pirates rallied against Reed. Kent Tekulve pitched the ninth for his third save.

Davis fell behind 1-0 in the fifth on an RBI single by Omar Moreno. The Phillies scored twice in the sixth off Odell Jones, 4-2, on an RBI double by Gary Matthews and run-scoring base hit by Keith Moreland.

"It's a good feeling to contribute. I struggled so much the first half," said Thompson, who also drove in two runs in Pittsburgh's 6-2 victory over the Phillies Saturday night.

Padres 6, Braves 4

Juan Bonilla lined a run-scoring single and Luis Salazar tripled for two more runs in the top of the 10th inning to lead San Diego over Atlanta.

Bonilla's single off loser Rick Camp, 9-3, broke a 3-3 tie and Salazar followed with his triple off reliever Al Hrabosky to score the clinching runs. John Lucas, 6-7, was the winner with relief help in the bottom of the 10th, when the Braves scored on a double-play grounder by Biff Pocoroba.

The Braves tied the game at 3-3 in the ninth on an RBI double by Jerry Royster.

Astros 3, Giants 0

Bob Knepper and Frank LaCorte combined on a nine-hitter, and Craig Reynolds smashed three hits as Houston blanked San Francisco.

Knepper, 8-3, gave up six hits, struck out six and walked three in seven innings before LaCorte came in to earn his fifth save.

The Astros scored a run in the first when Phil Garner came home on a wild pitch by loser Doyle Alexander, 8-7. The Astros added a run in the seventh on a single by Reynolds and Danny Heep's pinch-hit double. Reynolds delivered an RBI single for the Astros in the eighth.

Brewers up Sunday record to 14-1 by whipping Birds

By The Associated Press

If the Milwaukee Brewers continue to win on Sundays, they may have to follow the example of the Chicago Cubs and play only day games at home.

Or, as General Manager Harry Dalton said, "go to a seven-day chapel service schedule."

The Brewers improved their Sunday record to 14-1 with a 5-0 shutout of the Baltimore Orioles.

"I doubt if anyone can come up with an explanation for it," said winning pitcher Pete Vuckovich, who himself has a 4-0 record and a 1.78 earned run average on Sundays. "But I'm glad it's not the other way around. We really needed this game."

Milwaukee Manager Bob Rodgers offered the possibility that the Brewers' strong hitting improves their chances of winning on Sundays.

"Since most Sunday games are afternoon games, our type of hitters seem to see the ball better during the day," Rodgers said. "I think any NFL team would love to have our Sunday record."

In other American League games, Detroit outlasted Cleveland 8-6, New York whipped Boston 10-6, Minnesota rallied to beat Chicago 7-6, California edged Texas 8-7 in 12 innings and Kansas City nipped Oakland 6-5 in 12 innings.

Vuckovich, 12-4, became the AL's third 12-game winner — joining the Tigers' Jack Morris and Dennis Martinez of the Orioles. He gave up only three hits and struck out seven in seven innings, but he failed to become the first Milwaukee hurler this year to pitch a complete-game shutout because of an injured wrist.

Vuckovich was hit on the wrist by Ken Singleton's line drive in the first inning but went seven innings before Rodgers replaced him.

"Skipper took me out as a precautionary measure," said Vuckovich. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Jamie Easterly gave up two hits in the eighth and Bob McClure gave up one in the ninth for a combined six-hitter.

Ben Oglivie got his 10th game-winning RBI of the season with a two-run single in the Brewers' four-run fourth inning.

Baltimore starter Steve Stone, 4-6, allowed only one baserunner through the first three innings, but he walked Paul Molitor to open the fourth. One out later, Cecil Cooper singled, Ted Simmons walked to load the bases and Oglivie lined his two-run single.

Gorman Thomas followed with an RBI single, and Jim Gantner knocked in the fourth run of the inning with another single, off reliever Jeff Schneider. Molitor singled home the final run in the seventh.

Tigers 8, Indians 6

Detroit completed a three-game sweep of Cleveland as outfielder Ricky Peters took advantage of a rare start with three hits, including a go-ahead single during the Tigers' four-run sixth inning.

Peters broke a 4-4 tie with his single off loser Dan Spillner, 2-4, before Kirk Gibson blooped a two-run double and Steve Kemp singled in the fourth run.

Von Hayes knocked in three runs with a double and a triple for Cleveland.

Yankees 10, Red Sox 6

Ron Guidry won his seventh game in a row and sixth straight in the second season, getting plenty of support from Willie Randolph, Dave Winfield and Bob Watson as New York whipped Boston.

Twins 7, White Sox 6

Minnesota scored four runs in the ninth inning to beat Chicago, with rookie Kent Hrbek hitting a two-run, two-out pinch single to climax the rally.

The Twins got two runs in the inning — on a walk, Gary Ward's triple and Dave Engle's single — before White Sox pitching recorded an out. A sacrifice, a walk, a forceout and another walk loaded the bases before Hrbek connected off reliever Lamarr Hoyt.

Royals 6, A's 5

Willie Wilson, 0-for-14 in the series with Oakland when he came to bat in the top of the 12th inning, blooped a single to left field to send home Cesar Geronimo with the winning run, giving Kansas City a two-game lead in the West.

Angels 8, Rangers 7

California snapped an eight-game losing streak, despite blowing a 6-0 lead, as Juan Beniquez beat his former Texas teammates with a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the 12th inning.

Atlanta, New Orleans, Chiefs post victories

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Bobby Scott, the New Orleans Saints' second-string quarterback, had just watched rookie running back George Rogers pound through the Los Angeles Rams' line for 162 yards on 29 carries — and he was duly impressed.

"I think George Rogers showed that he has the potential to be as great as anybody in the National Football (League)," Scott said Sunday after the 1980 Heisman Trophy winner from South Carolina had sparked the Saints to a 23-17 upset victory over the Rams.

Rogers' potential was exactly why the downtrodden Saints had made him the No.1 pick in the NFL draft last spring. New Orleans suffered through a dismal 1980 season, winning only one of 16 games. Their 15 losses were an NFL record.

His potential was in full evidence against the usually powerful but now struggling Rams, who suffered their second loss in two games during the young season. Rogers powered over for a 5-yard touchdown in the second quarter, and after spending much of the second half on the bench with muscle cramps, he returned late in the game. He ran for a crucial first down as the Saints were trying to run out the clock.

"I was very pleased with George Rogers' performance, naturally," said Coach Bum Phillips, who was hired last January to try and rejuvenate the team.

"You hit him (Rogers) into the line and he's going to get something," said Scott, who played in place of injured Archie Manning.

Scott completed only 4 of 15 passes and was intercepted on three straight attempts, but he tossed a 23-yard scoring strike to Wes Chandler. Benny Ricardo kicked field goals of 45, 46 and 34 yards as the Saints matched their victory total of the entire 1980 season.

Pat Haden, the Rams' harried quarterback was under constant pressure from the New Orleans defense and was sacked three times, but managed scoring passes of 9 and 15 yards to Preston Dennard in the second half.

In other NFL games Sunday, it was: San Diego Chargers 28, Detroit Lions 23; Atlanta Falcons 31, Green Bay Packers 17; Houston Oilers 9, Cleveland Browns 3; Buffalo Bills 35, Baltimore Colts 3; Dallas Cowboys 30, St.Louis Cardinals 17; Philadelphia Eagles 13, New England Patriots 3; Seattle Seahawks 13, Denver Broncos 10; Cincinnati Bengals 31, New York Jets 30; San Francisco 49ers 28, Chicago Bears 17; Kansas City Chiefs 19, Tampa Bay Buccaneers 10, and New York Giants 17, Washington Redskins 7.

Chargers 28, Lions 23

Detroit dominated the Chargers unlike few teams in recent years. The Lions kept possession for 38:19 to San Diego's 21:41, but John Cappelletti's 2-yard TD run with 56 seconds left boosted the Chargers to their second straight victory.

"It seemed like they had the ball all the time," said a relieved Don Coryell, San Diego's coach.

The Chargers' Dan Fouts completed 18 of 25 passes for 316 yards and became the 29th player in NFL history to surpass the 20,000-yard mark in passing.

Falcons 31, Packers 17

"We've had come-from-behind victories before, but I can't remember anything like this," Atlanta's Fulton Kuykendall said after the Falcons had rallied from a 17-0 deficit with 31 points in the fourth quarter.

Kuykendall, a linebacker, got the touchdown that broke a 17-17 tie, racing 20 yards with an intercepted pass with 7:53 remaining. Linebacker Joel Williams sealed the victory, dashing 57 yards for a TD with a fumble recovery with 1:34 left.

"We just collapsed in the fourth quarter," lamented Green Bay Coach Bart Starr.

Bills 35, Colts 3

Joe Ferguson connected on 16 of 28 passes for 261 yards and four TDs while Buffalo's smothering defense, best in the NFL last season, limited the Colts to 147 yards.

"Our offense was able to keep the ball, and keep the defense off the field," noted Buffalo Coach Chuck Knox. "It keeps them (the defense) fresh."

Among Ferguson's scoring strikes were a 54-yarder to Jerry Butler and a 33-yarder to Joe Cribbs.

Eagles 13, Patriots 3

Kicker Tony Franklin and fullback Perry Harrington, who had been under criticism from Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil, led the Eagles, 2-0, over winless New England.

Franklin, who had drawn Vermeil's wrath because of his attitude and lifestyle, kicked field goals of 46 and 22 yards. Harrington, criticized by the coach for poor blocking and inconsistent pass receiving, ran 6 yards for the Eagles' only TD.

"At first, the coach's criticism bothered me, but coaches have been yelling at me for years," said Harrington. "I might not be emotional, but I care."

Franklin also said he never let Vermeil's carping interfere with his job.

Seahawks 13, Broncos 10

Seattle's first victory at home since 1979 triggered a celebration by the Kingdome crowd of 58,513. The fans reacted as if the Seahawks had won the Super Bowl.

"You don't think I'm happy?" Seattle Coach Jack Patera asked rhetorically after the Seahawks had ended an overall losing streak of 10 games.

Efren Herrera's 22-yard field goal in the third quarter was the margin of victory.

Bengals 31, Jets 30

Ken Anderson's 3-yard scoring pass to Archie Griffin and Mike St.Claire's 12-yard touchdown run with a recovered fumble within a 31-second span late in the fourth period lifted Cincinnati over the Jets.

The Jets' Richard Todd, who threw three scoring passes — two to Jerome Barkum — lost the critical fumble at the end after being hit by Ross Browner.

"Ross made the play," said St. Claire. "He put the pressure on Todd. He sacked him. He forced the fumble. I just saw the ball and that's all there was to it."

49ers 28, Bears 17

Chicago's Walter Payton rushed for 97 yards against San Francisco, putting him only 33 yards behind former Green Bay star Jim Taylor, the fourth leading rusher in NFL history. But Payton also lost two critical fumbles, one at the 49ers' 2-yard line.

Chiefs 19, Bucs 10

Kansas City's Nick Lowery fought a bad cold all week, but he appeared healthy against Tampa Bay, kicking field goals of 20, 20, 41 and 42 yards. The Chiefs, 2-0, are off to their best start since their Super Bowl championship season of 1969.

Although Lowery appeared to kick his field goals with ease, he said it wasn't easy. "I try not to ook up and see those big gorillas coming at me," he said.

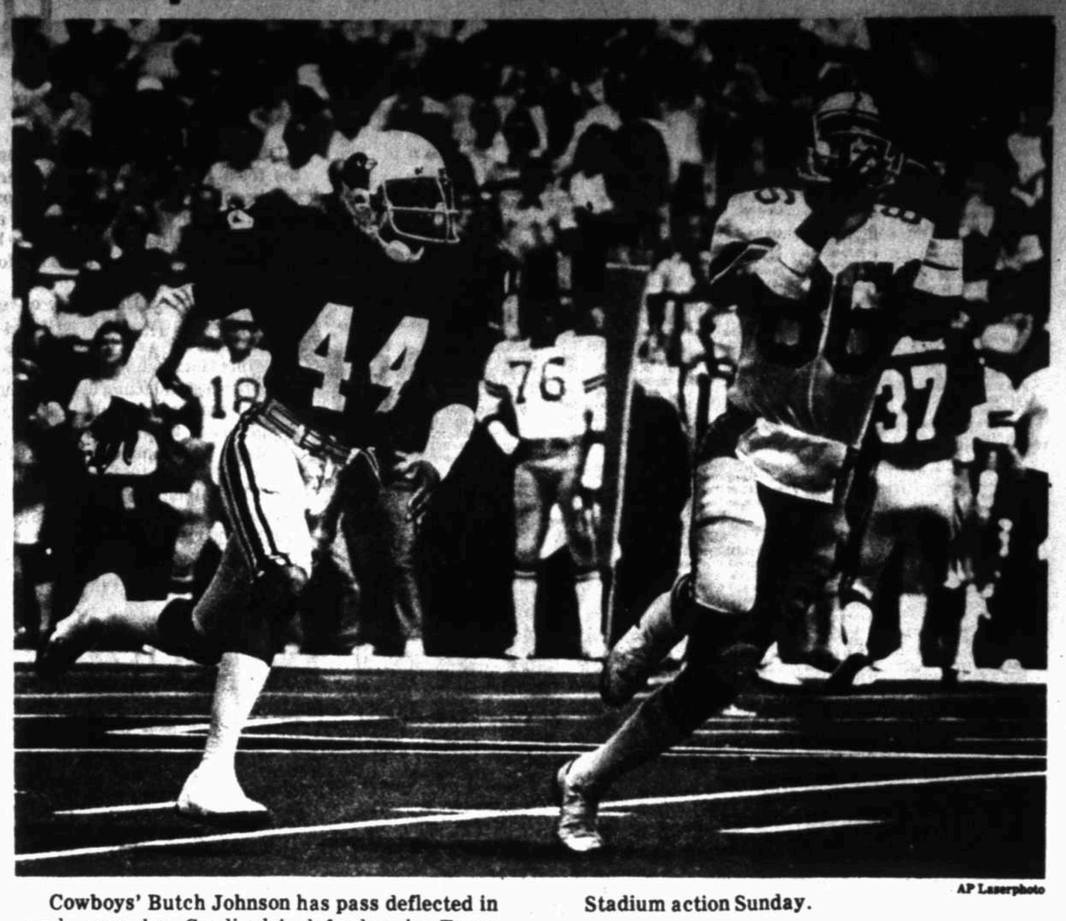

The Chiefs' tough defense limited Tampa Bay to 23 yards rushing.

Giants 17, Redskins 7

Fumble recoveries by linebacker Frank Marion and defensive end George Martin paved the way for New York's victory over winless Washington. Marion's recovery at the Redskins' 13 set up Billy Taylor's 5-yard TD run and Martin raced 8 yards for a score with his recovery.

"The defense won the game for us. It was that simple," said Giants' Coach Ray Perkins.

In defeat, Washington quarterback Joe Theismann set personal highs with 27 pass completions for 318 yards.

seconds, giving him a new mark of 13:06.20. The standard shaved more than two seconds off his previous record of 13:08.4, set in Berkeley, Calif., April 4, 1978.

Fudge was timed for the 5,000 in an impressive 15:14.51.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — John O'Leary of Beacon, N.Y., covered 26 miles and 385 yards in 2:22.37 to capture first place in the 11th Annual Lake Placid Marathon.

Winner for the women was Beth Chadwick, of Derry, N.H., who finished in 3:20.15.

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Benji Durden of Stone Mountain, Ga., pulled away from the field over the last four miles to win the $100,000 Nike Marathon.

AUTO RACING

MONZA, Italy (AP) — French ace Alain Prost drove his turbocharged Renault to victory in the Italian formula-one Grand Prix and became a threat to Carlos Reutemann and Nelson Piquet in the struggle for the world championship title.

The Frenchman piled up 37 points in the world standings through his third Grand Prix victory of the season to move closer to Reutemann.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dick Trickle drove to victory in the Governor's Cup 250-mile United States Auto Club stock car race at State Fair Park.

Trickle averaged 93.288 mph to take the checkered flag in his Pontiac Ventura by a five-second margin over of Sal Tovella of Addison, Ill., in a Plymouth Volare.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Benny Parsons held off Harry Gant in the final lap and pulled out a close victory in the Wrangler 400 Grand National stock car race at Fairgrounds Raceway.

It was the third first-place finish of the year for the Ford driver from Ellerbe, N.C., and he broke the Darrell Waltrip-Bobby Allison monopoly which had won the last four races on the local .542-mile track.

GOLF

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Jack Renner fired a 2-under-par 69 and won the $300,000 Pleasant Valley Jimmy Fund Golf Classic with a 72-hole score of 273.

Renner, who joined the PGA tour five years ago at the age of 20, broke out of a tie with Tommy Valentine on the first hole of the final round and charged to a two-stroke victory before a Pleasant Valley record crowd of 50,000.

INZAI, Japan (AP) — Defending champion Bill Rogers of the United States, who maintained his lead from the second round, shot a final-round 69 for a two-stroke victory and first prize money of $34,800 in the Suntory Open Golf Tournament.

The 30-year-old Texan's four-day total was 18-under-par 270 over the par-72 Narashino Country Club course.

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — Jan Stephenson completed a wire-to-wire victory in the $125,000 LPGA United Virginias Bank Golf Classic with a 5-under-par 68 for a 54-hole total of 205 over the Sleepy Hole course.

The 29-year-old native of Australia finished at 14 under par fr the three rounds and was three strokes up on Sally Little and Janet Alex.

Javelinas bully the big boys

By The Associated Press

Texas A&I, ranked No. 16 in the NAIA, continued to bully the big boys Saturday.

The Lone Star Conference team, which pulled off a 26-3 victory last week against Northern Arizona, knocked off another NCAA major, Texas-El Paso, 37-15.

New quarterback Mark James was the was offensive star for A&I, running for 110 yards and completing 6 of 13 passes for 132 yards and 3 touchdowns. He set up A&I's first touchdown with a 77-yard run. Defensively, the man for the Javelinas was Mark Miller, who had 13 tackles.

Sophomore Kyle Mackey completed 14 of 28 passes for 260 yards and two touchdowns to lead the NAIA's No. 9-ranked East Texas State to a 17-13 upset win over No. 5 Cameron (Okla.). Mackey passed 44 and eight yards to split end Randy Smith, and East Texas State had a 17-0 lead by halftime. East Texas State also had a 113-yard rushing effort from tailback Cary Noiel, and Smith had five receptions for 131 yards.

College grid roundup

Hawkeyes flying high

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Despite its fierce-sounding name, the Iowa Hawkeye, football variety, has been anything but a bird of prey lately. For 19 years, longer than any other major college, the Hawkeye has had its feathers clipped in its bid for a winning season.

The last time a University of Iowa football team came out on the plus side of .500, John F. Kennedy was in the White House and Roger Maris was in the process of hitting 61 home runs.

Since that wonderful year of 1961 produced a 5-4 record, Iowa has managed to break even only three times — 3-3-2 in 1963 and 5-5 in 1968 and 1969. Along the way, there have been such disasters as 1-9 (1965), 1-8-1 (1967), 1-10 (1971) and — horrors! — 0-11 in 1973. No other school can claim 19 years of such unmitigated failure.

There are signs, however, that the times may be a-changin'.

"The worm turned today," Coach Hayden Fry said after the unheralded Hawkeyes pulled one of a trio of stunning upsets Saturday, avenging last year's 57-0 rout at the hands of Nebraska and shocking the seventh-ranked Cornhuskers 10-7.

Along with Nebraska, top-rated Michigan and runnerup Alabama also bit the dust at the hands of overwhelming underdogs. Michigan bowed to Wisconsin 21-14 while Georgia Tech stunned Alabama 24-21.

Eddie Phillips scored on a 2-yard run, Lon Olejniczak kicked a 35-yard field goal and Iowa blanked Nebraska until the final period to gain its revenge. Besides that 57-0 mauling, there was a little flap between Fry and Jerry Moore, head coach at North Texas State last year and a former Nebraska assistant, about a film exchange.

"We've been blown out before, but we've always come back and won," said Fry. "If you stay in this game long enough, the worm will turn. The worm turned today. This is the biggest win since I've been here."

Elsewhere, third-ranked Oklahoma came from behind to beat Wyoming 37-20, No.4 Notre Dame made Gerry Faust's debut as head coach a rousing success by trouncing Louisiana State 27-9, fifth-ranked Southern California buried Tennessee 43-7, sixth-rated Georgia trimmed California 27-13, No.8 Texas whipped Rice 31-3 and Penn State, tied with idle Pitt for ninth place, crushed Cincinnati 52-0.

Wisconsin snapped a 14-all tie against Michigan when John Williams caught a screen pass from Jess Cole and raced 71 yards with 5:13 left in the third period. It was Michigan's first opening-game setback in Bo Schembechler's 13 years as head coach.

Cole's 17-yard pass to Marvin Neal in the second period was the first touchdown against Michigan in 24 quarters. Chucky Davis ran a yard for the Badgers' second TD while safety Matt Vanden Boom's third interception at his 17-yard line with two seconds left preserved the triumph.

"A lot of people didn't think we could beat the No.1 team in the country," said Coach Dave McClain. "But before the game, I told the players that they were the only guys who believed we could win. You've got to believe."

"Our offense wasn't very good, our defense wasn't very good, our kicking game wasn't any good and the coaching was poor," said Schembechler.

Georgia Tech won an opener for the first time in 11 years and delayed Bear Bryant's run at Amos Alonzo Stagg's all-time record of 314 coaching victories. The Bear seemed en route to No.308 when Alabama took a 10-0 lead. The Crimson Tide was still on top 21-14 entering the final period but Tech prevailed on Ron Rice's 28-yard field goal and Robert Lavette's 2-yard run.

"A win in the Super Bowl is no comparison to this win," said Tech's Bill Curry, who played on two pro championship teams. "All the Super Bowls wouldn't compare to this win."

Wyoming led Oklahoma by 10-0, 13-10 and 20-17 before Darrell Shepard, the Sooners' backup quarterback, ran 23 yards for a third-period touchdown and passed 37 yards to Buster Rhymes, who scored the first TD on a 39-yard run, for another.

Notre Dame inaugurated the Faust Era by drubbing LSU as Blair Kiel and Tim Koegel each threw a touchdown pass. Koegel's toss was a 6-yarder to Dave Condeni, a combination that played for Faust at Cincinnati's Moeller High School.

"It was a great day," said Faust, who had never been so much as an assistant coach at the college level. "I had a great time. Any time you win it's fun."

Marcus Allen carried 22 times for 210 yards and four touchdowns in little more than a half as Southern Cal ripped Tennessee. His scoring runs covered 9, 12, 4 and 55 yards.

"I don't know when I have ever taken a football team into two games where we have been as outmanned physically," said Tennessee Coach Johnny Majors, whose Vols lost 44-0 to Georgia a week earlier. "This team is more physical than Georgia and has overall better speed. At this point, I believe they have more overall strength than anybody else in the country."

Georgia extended the nation's longest major college winning streak to 15 games by downing California as Buck Belue scored one touchdown and passed for another while Herschel Walker rushed for 167 yards.

Rick McIvor's 65-yard TD pass to Donnie Little, a wide receiver after three years as Texas' quarterback this season, triggered the Longhorns to their 16th consecutive victory over Rice. McIvor also passed 5 yards to Lawrence Sampleton for another tally.

Curt Warner scored on runs of 1, 5 and 8 yards as Penn State swamped Cincinnati. Tim Spencer raced 82 yards on Ohio State's first play for the first of his three touchdowns as the 11th-ranked Buckeyes flattened Duke 34-13.

Tom Ramsey passed for three touchdowns and Kevin Nelson rushed for 152 as No.12 UCLA got even for last year's upset and beat Arizona 35-18.

Kelvin Bryant gained 211 yards and an Atlantic Coast Conference record six touchhdowns in leading No.13 North Carolina past East Carolina 56-0.

Brigham Young's Jim McMahon saw his NCAA record string of 300-yard passing games snapped at 12 but he connected on 28 of 39 for 226 yards and four touchdowns as the 15th-ranked Cougars defeated Air Force 45-21.

Dennis Brown scored on runs of 9 and 11 yards as No.17 Washington beat Pacific 34-14 and Mike Whiting's 3-yard run enabled No.18 Florida State to hold off Memphis State 10-5.

Purdue withstood a 418-yard passing show by John Elway, who completed 33 of 45, and turned back Stanford 27-19 as Jimmy Smith scored on a 100-yard kickoff return and a pair of 1-yard runs.

Gerald Riggs scored twice, including a 70-yard run, and Mike Pagel threw for two touchdowns as Arizona State blasted Utah 52-10 for Darryl Rogers' 100th coaching victory.

Mississippi State and Miami, Fla., Nos.14 and 16, were idle.

In other noteworthy games:

—Vanderbilt posted its first opening-game triumph since 1975, downing Maryland 23-17 as Whit Taylor passed for two touchdowns and Mike Woodard kicked three field goals.

—Joe McIntosh, a freshman, rushed for 220 yards and two touchdowns to pace North Carolina State over Wake Forest 28-23.

Charlotte Pollard High scores big victory

By JAY JORDEN
Associated Press Writer

With last year's district championship under its belt and a tight-knit offense, Beaumont Hebert dealt that city's Charlton-Pollard a 33-0 loss Saturday night in the second week of schoolboy football action.

The Class 4A victors, ranked ninth in The Associated Press schoolboy football poll, put a crimp in the plans of their 5A rivals to ride to the top of the heap this season.

Hebert limited Charlton-Pollard to 33 total yards in five first downs. Hebert's Gerald Landry returned a punt 63 yards in the fourth quarter and also gained the team's last score on a 3-yard run.

In Class 5A action Friday night, the Sherman Bearcats were victorious over arch-rivals the Highland Park Scots with the aid of an air-tight defense.

Sherman, ranked third in the schoolboy poll, held Highland Park quarterback Bart Bevers to 8 yards rushing on 20 carries and turned a first-half touchdown into a 7-6 victory at Highlander Stadium.

The stalwart Scots had not been defeated on their home turf in two years. A floating pass by Bevers missed Scots wide receiver Cullen Davis at the back of the end zone in the closing minutes of the game, adding the decisive point to a previously-tied score.

In other Class 5A action, the second-ranked Plano Wildcats took a 38-21 drubbing at the hands of always-tough Lewisville. The Farmers scored three rapid-fire touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Lewisville brothers Marvin and Duane Murphy combined for 313 yards rushing to lead the Farmers against the proud Plano defense. The Wildcats' loss was only their fifth regular season defeat in the last six years.

In other 5A action, first-ranked Port Arthur Jefferson routed Baytown Lee, 41-7; No. 4 Dallas South Oak Cliff eliminated Madison, 28-0; fifth-ranked El Paso Bel Air surprised Odessa Ector, 26-12; No. 6 San Antonio Holmes trounced San Antonio Jefferson, 35-0; No. 7 Brazoswood held down Houston Memorial, 21-13; No. 8 Odessa Permian stopped Amarillo, 17-0; ninth-ranked Alice outlasted McAllen, 10-3; and No. 10 Temple surpassed San Antonio Sam Houston, 21-0.

In Class 4A, first-ranked Georgetown squeezed by Round Rock, 9-7; No. 2 Ennis eked out a win against Cleburne, 15-14; No. 3 Huntsville surprised Jasper, 26-12; fourth-ranked Weatherford was handed an upset by Abilene, 14-0; and No. 5 Waco Connally lost to Waco La Vega, 14-3.

In other Class 4A action, No. 6 Gregory-Portland smashed Corpus Christi Carroll, 14-0; No. 7 Rockwall hammered Lakeview Centennial, 29-5; No. 8 Brownwood demolished Breeckenridge, 42-3; and tenth-ranked Gainesville was unseated by Azle, 10-7.

Class 3A action saw first-ranked Marble Falls tying Fredericksburg, 20-20; No. 2 Allen crushing Red Oak, 37-0; No. 3 Alpine besting Fort Stockton, 21-12; No. 4 Refugio freezing out Goliad, 33-0; and fifth-ranked Port Isabel devast

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, September 15, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Former child star Jackie Cooper, who grew up to become a movie director and best-selling author, celebrates his birthday today. Also born on this date: Mystery writer Agatha Christie. Hang on to your usual open and direct style and you will find new and bigger successes in the year ahead. Some personal restrictions may slow you down a bit in the spring, but you will swiftly regain your momentum. Choose your friends with care.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Business matters are in the spotlight. Know who your allies are! Privacy becomes important to your future well-being. Build a nest egg for emergencies. Romance moves in new directions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A mystery that has had an adverse effect on your thinking could be cleared up. You feel blessed! Take care of your current responsibilities before worrying about future needs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Knowledge of a special subject will serve you extremely well in a difficult situation. Business is entering a more productive phase. Friends prove better company than family right now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Business is booming now! New projects require more time and attention. Make a special effort to get along better with your subordinates. Romance will soon take a happy turn.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Today is an opportune time to ask for a raise. Be conservative if picking out a new fall wardrobe. Bargains abound! Look for the practical as well as the ornamental.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your original ideas influence someone in a position of power. Catch up on routine tasks. Some suspicions about a co-worker may be confirmed. Be discreet where romance is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can open new doors now! Push harder for an overdue promotion. Make important phone calls. A special creative project could win you an interesting and helpful admirer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your chances for success are excellent today. Be willing to put in longer hours to beat out the competition! Romance is joyous if you guard against being too pushy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Deadlines require your full attention now. Someone may challenge you to make your dreams come true. Your enthusiasm for a special project could be dampened.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep a tight hold on your temper. Old friends prove to be your most loyal allies in business. Trust them with your future. Romance enters an entirely new phase.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Postpone signing legal document. The fine print may not reflect a previous agreement. The financial outlook will be affected by the decisions you make today. Talk things over with mate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A power struggle at work may tempt you to take sides. Avoid being drawn into the conflict. Concentrate on putting your financial affairs in better order.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQJ98 ♡AKQ952 ◇83
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	2 ◇	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass

What action do you take?
A.—North quite likely has the king of spades on this auction, so slam prospects are bright if you do not have two fast diamond losers. You can get this message across to partner by jumping to five spades. That shows you have at least six hearts and five spades, and that you want to play in at least six of partner's better major if he has a diamond control.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ54 ♡92 ◇A6 ♣Q1098
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Dble	Rdble	2 ♠

What action do you take?
A.—Has Christmas come early this year? It would seem that West was in an experimental frame of mind when he doubled, and you should dismiss all thoughts of getting to game. Larger numbers are in the offing. Double. If they run to a red suit, give partner the chance to double. If partner pulls your double to spades, you will, of course, go on to game.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠7 ♡A98 ◇AQ1092 ♣KQ96
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	1 ♠	2 ♡	Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—You have a very fine hand with adequate support for partner's suit. However, you should delay raising hearts so that you can give a complete picture of your hand. Bid three clubs now and then raise hearts at your next turn. That will highlight your singleton spade and might persuade partner to look for slam.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠6 ♡A109854 ◇93 ♣KJ82
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—North has described a hand with at least six diamonds and five spades. Don't bid no trump—the hand is a misfit and you have no source of tricks. You could bid three clubs in the hope that partner might now make a delayed heart raise (with 5-2-6-0 distribution), but if he does, you cannot be sure that he has two hearts. The prudent way to protect your financial standing is to bail out in a safe spot—take a preference to three diamonds.

Q.5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K5 ♡KQ1054 ◇AJ4 ♣965
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 ◇	Pass
6 ♡	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—North must have a distributional monster. He was prepared to play six hearts on the strength of your two-level response and ace of diamonds, even though he knew nothing of the fine quality of your heart suit or the king of spades. Those cards must solidify his hand, so we would bid seven hearts.

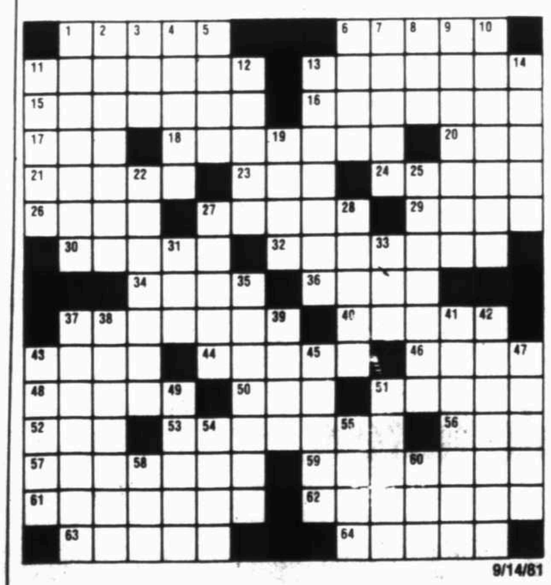

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ5 ♡K652 ◇AK ♣K1092
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?
A.—The question is what is the best way to probe for a grand slam—small slam seems a certainty. Blackwood will not get you enough information because the queen of clubs is all important. Start off by setting the trump suit with a jump to three clubs. Subsequent action will depend on partner's next bid.

Elizabeth Ward of Russellville, Ark., Miss America 1982, runs along an Atlantic City, N.J., beach after being crowned Saturday night (left). Miss Ward poses for photographers Sunday. Atlantic City casino construction is visible in the background.

Miss America down to earth

YVONNE CHILIK
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The woman who whooped out a long and loud Arkansas Razorback cheer after she was crowned the new Miss America says she is just a "very down-to-earth" person.

People often have a "preconceived notion of what a Miss Arkansas or a Miss America is like. They're surprised to find out I'm a real person," 20-year-old Elizabeth Ward said Sunday.

Minutes after she won the title, Miss Ward vented her joy backstage by shouting: "Wooooo-pig-sooiee!"

"I hope I can always do that," she confessed later.

She said her hometown of Russellville, Ark., a community of 13,000 where poultry is the main industry, was staging celebrations in her honor.

But she became quite sophisticated in her refusal to talk about her personal life or stir up controversy.

Gracefully dodging questions on her opinions or habits, she said: "I don't want to say anything controversial that might embarrass someone. I'm not saying I have any opinions that are controversial."

She did say, however, that she supported President Reagan's economic polices and thought the nomination of Sandra Day O'Connor to the U.S. Supreme Court was "great."

She also said she doesn't think the Equal Rights Amendment is needed. "I support equal rights. But I believe the Constitution protects my rights and I don't believe ratification is necessary."

When asked whether she called her boyfriend after she was crowned, she hesitated, smiled and then said: "That's kind of personal. I'm Miss America, and that's what I'm going to do this year."

Miss Ward said she couldn't remember the last time she was angry and said what upsets most her is seeing people being taken advantage of.

Her mother, Patricia Hampe, put it this way: "She's sweet. She's honest. You've got the most interesting, beautiful and talented Miss America you'll ever come across."

Miss Ward said her one-year reign as the "representative of the young women of America" would help her plans to become a corporate lawyer. The $20,000 scholarship she won will fund her studies at Arkansas Tech, where she is a junior in accounting.

She is guaranteed at least $50,000 in bookings as the 55th Miss America. Her predecessor, Susan Powell, 22, of Elk City, Okla., earned about $83,000 in appearance fees last year.

After appearing at the dedication of a shopping center in Atlantic City, Miss Ward headed for her first visit to New York City for an appearance on the "Today" show.

Miss Ward won a swimsuit award in preliminary competition Thursday night and for her talent performance gave a sultry rendition of the 1920s ballad "After You've Gone."

Public will have to draw conclusions in crash tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration will continue to test-crash cars but will no longer tell the public whether they pass or fail, The Washington Post reported today.

The newspaper quoted the agency administrator, Raymond Peck, as saying that the NHTSA will publish the scores from its controversial 35-mph tests and let the public draw its own conclusions.

Seven of 10 new 1981 model designs had scores which would have flunked them under the former pass-fail designations, according to NHTSA test reports obtained by The Post under the Freedom of Information Act.

Peck viewed the test films of one low-scoring model, the Ford EXP, and "almost certainly" will order another test, the newspaper said. He would not specify what led to his concern, but he did say he was worried that the EXP test might damage the credibility of the testing program.

NHTSA engineers, on the other hand, were buoyed by a good showing from the Honda Civic, which did poorly in previous tests. Peck attributed the improvement to publicity of previous results.

Here are the scores of the 10 models as reported by The Post. The number after the name indicates two doors or four. An "A" means automatic seat belts. The first column shows the driver's side score and the second the passenger side score. A score of 1,000 or more is supposed to indicate at least a 50-50 chance of death or serious injury.

AMC Spirit 2	702	652
Audi 5000 4	1,288	1,583
Chry Imperial 2	976	590
Ford EXP 2	745	2,668
Honda Civic 2	607	890
Honda Civic 4	985	1,391
Renault 18i 4	1,150	1,659
Toyota Cressida-A	1,980	771
Toyota Starlet	1,836	1,351
VWJetta-A	1,210	1,272

The score for the 1980 Honda Civic, a different design made only as a two-door model, was reported as 2,626 on the driver's side and 1,506 on the passenger side.

In the test, a car is slammed into a rigid barrier while instrumented dummies in the two front seats record crash forces. The forces are converted into numerical scores, with particular weight given to instances of steering columns piercing dummies or dummy heads striking windshields and dashboards.

The auto industry has strongly criticized the tests.

NBC-TV won most Emmy awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC, languishing in the ratings cellar, won the most awards at the Emmy presentations thanks to its critically acclaimed but struggling police drama "Hill Street Blues," which grabbed a record eight Emmys.

The ABC comedy series "Taxi" was runnerup, picking up six of the golden statuettes Sunday night at the 33rd Television Academy Awards.

The controversial CBS movie "Playing for Time" about life in a Nazi concentration camp received four Emmys, including best actress in a special to Vanessa Redgrave, whose casting as a camp inmate stirred up protest because of her anti-Israeli views.

"Hill Street Blues," which made its debut in January, won as best drama series, and Daniel J. Travanti picked up an award for best actor in a drama series, Barbara Babcock for best lead actress and Michael Conrad for best supporting actor. Its writers, director, sound editor and cinematographer also were honored.

The big Emmy haul could attract new viewers to "Hill Street Blues." The eight awards bested the record for a regular series held by "The Julie Andrews Hour," which won seven in 1972-73.

Producers Michael Kozoll and Steven Bochco, who won an Emmy for writing the first episode of "Hill Street Blues," thanked "the most fabulous bosses we've ever had" for supporting the show. Bochco added, "Thank you, Fred Silverman, wherever you are." Silverman was head of NBC when the show premiered, and was succeeded by Grant Tinker, who guided the show when he was president of MTM Enterprises.

"Taxi," a show about New York cabbies, was named best comedy, Judd Hirsch was named best lead actor in a comedy and Danny De Vito, the dyspeptic dispatcher, was named best supporting actor. It also won for writing, directing and film editing.

"Playing for Time" also was named best drama special, and Emmys also went to Jane Alexander for best supporting actress in a special and to Arthur Miller for his screenplay.

Anthony Hopkins won as best actor in a limited series or special for his portrayal of Adolf Hitler in "The Bunker," a CBS special.

NBC won a total of 20 Emmys. CBS, which broadcast the three-hour ceremony, received 18. ABC got 12, PBS got eight and one Emmy went to a syndicated series, "The Muppet Show," for writing.

Isabel Sanford was named best lead actress in a comedy series for CBS' "The Jeffersons," her first award in the show's eight years. She rushed in from backstage where she was munching a snack to accept her award, saying, "At last!" Still chewing, she said, "I have a piece of cheese in my mouth. I wasn't expecting this. I've been waiting so long all my humility is gone."

The Emmy for the outstanding variety, music or comedy program went to "Lily: Sold Out," a CBS musical comedy starring Lily Tomlin. It was Miss Tomlin's fifth Emmy.

Eileen Brennan was named best supporting actress for her role in the CBS comedy "Private Benjamin" as the strict captain she created in the movie.

The program's hosts were Shirley MacLaine and Edward Asner, the star of "Lou Grant," who was a leader of last year's Emmy boycott by striking actors.

The Emmy telecast, which ran the same length as last year's star-less show, featured a rousing opening number taped on the sets of 16 different series, and stars of various daytime serials sang an "Ode to the Soaps."

NBC's "Shogun," a mini series about an English sailor who becomes a samurai warrior in medieval Japan, was named best limited series. But despite its overwhelming ratings, it won only two other Emmys, for graphic design and title sequence and for best costume design.

pssst! Wanna buy an island?

A resident of the South Bronx fishes in the East River opposite North Brother Island, which New York City is willing to sell or lease to whoever comes up with the best proposal for its use. The 16½ abandoned acres, to which the infamous typhoid Mary was once banished, has no regular means of acess.

If you've got the fantasy, New York's got the island

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't expect to be greeted on arrival by Ricardo Montalban and a dwarf in a white suit. But if you have a fantasy and a way to make it come true, New York City has an island for you.

North Brother Island — 16½ abandoned acres off the coast of the South Bronx to which the infamous "Typhoid Mary" and thousands of disease victims were once banished — is on the market.

The city says it is willing to sell or lease the island to whomever comes forward with the best proposal for its use.

North Brother offers a great view of the rest of New York City and some respite from its turbulence. But the closest thing to regular transportation are the jets which roar overhead en route to LaGuardia Airport; there is no bridge to the mainland and no ferry service.

In recent years the East River island has been important only to the pheasants who live there and the pilots who use it as an approach marker. It is covered with vegetation and dotted with the ruins of several buildings, including a former tuberculosis hospital, a public school and a church.

But last month the city's Board of Estimate invited developers to submit proposals for the island. No price has been set, but when it was put up for auction in the 1970s, the city wanted at least $1.1 million. The sale was later canceled.

In the current offering, the only solid proposal has come from an Albany-based non-profit group, the Institute for Man and Science, which wants to develop a residential village of 100 to 150 low- and middle-income families from the South Bronx.

"The noise from the planes is a problem," admitted Steven Phelps, a spokesman for the institute. "But other neighborhoods have learned to live with it."

There has never been a shortage of suggestions for the island. Past proposals have ranged from a prison to a movie lot, and included an amusement park, an environmental center and a drug rehabilitation hospital.

For years former City Councilman Matthew Troy pushed it as a site for a city-run gambling casino, which he liked to describe as "the Monaco of the West."

The island fell into disuse in the mid-1960s after the city closed Riverside Hospital, a tuberculosis hospital that had been converted into a treatment center for drug addicts.

When the city acquired the island in 1885 it had already been used for 30 years by the Sisters of Charity to isolate and treat cholera, typhoid, smallpox and yellow fever.

The island's most famous resident was "Typhoid" Mary Mallon, who was quarantined there in 1907.

She was consigned to North Brother after several cases of typhoid were traced to families which employed her as a cook. Described in reports of the time as "a veritable peripatetic breeding ground for the bacilli — a human culture tube," she was the first recorded carrier of the disease who was not affected by it.

Several years after she was committed to the island, she was released on the condition that she not prepare food for others. But Mary returned to the city's kitchens, preparing meals which killed three people and infected 51 others.

She was taken back to North Brother Island, where she spent the next 26 years living in a simple frame house the city built for her. She finally died in 1938 of heart failure.

Life in 'Chinese gulag' recalled

PEKING (AP) — Liu Qing huddled in his tiny cell, rigid with cold, his 35-year-old body shriveled and covered with bruises. He closed his eyes against the glaring lights and tried to shut out the ravings of other inmates in solitary confinement.

One thing, he said, kept him from madness: "I want the people to know the truth."

In the West, Liu would be known as a political prisoner. In China, he is called a counter-revolutionary.

With the help of friends, he was able to smuggle an account of his experiences out of a labor reform camp. The Associated Press obtained a copy of it.

The 200-page manuscript, titled "A Dispirited Recollection and Observations — I lodge my complaint before the court of society," provides a rare glimpse into the shadowy world of Chinese prisons and labor camps for dissidents.

It is a report of abusive interrogators who proclaim the law doesn't matter, of torture and of back-breaking labor.

Liu says he wants the story told because "I am just a weak person. I have no way to bring my voice to society and get support and sympathy."

"Within this judicial system there is no way to discuss things reasonably," he writes. "I want the people to know the truth. Thus social forces will be mobilized to stop unlawful acts."

Liu, a mechanic by trade, says he was not imprisoned because he was editor of the mildly critical, unofficial magazine "April 5th Forum," nor for committing a violent crime. His offense was publishing a transcript of a public trial. For that he was sentenced to three years in prison — called a labor reform camp — without a trial and without being officially charged.

Liu in October 1979 arranged the tape recording of the "public" trial of dissident Wei Jingsheng, attended by a hand-picked audience, and then sold transcripts of the tapes.

Several friends selling the transcripts at Peking's now-defunct Democracy Wall were arrested Nov. 11. Liu went to the Public Security Bureau to demand their release. He was arrested and questioned for hours about who made the tapes and why.

When Liu asked what crime he had committed, he was told that selling pamphlets about the dissident Wei was "making counter-revolutionary propaganda."

Liu replied that it was a word-for-word account of a public trial.

"If you think the contents are counter-revolutionary propaganda," he said, "then the trial itself must be a counter-revolutionary activity."

Enraged and red-faced, his interrogator pounded the table.

"You must answer these questions," he declared. "We have all kinds of ways of dealing with an insignificant person like you. This is an organ of dictatorship."

"Legal action is not an inflexible thing," said another interrogator. "There always are exceptions. Anyone can be imprisoned without proceedings."

The next day he protested that detention without legal proceedings was tantamount to kidnapping and went on a hunger strike to demand a public trial.

For the next five months, Liu remained in solitary confinement in a Peking prison, with only a thin cotton blanket to protect him from cold so severe that it made his joints ache.

His movements in the 6-square-yard cell were watched by closed circuit television. The lights were on 24 hours a day and nearly blinded him. His hair began to fall out and his left leg went numb.

"In the beginning, I talked to myself and sometimes I had an intense debate with an imagined opponent," he wrote. "I tried to remember formulas in physics and chemistry. . . . I thought a lot about my mother and the grief I brought her in the last few years. I felt very guilty."

All the while, the interrogations continued. The questioners wanted to know about the tape recording and the democratic movement in China.

Liu was told he had violated a 1949 regulation giving Xinhua, the official news agency, the exclusive right to report news in China. He replied that the story was also reported in the People's Daily, the Chinese Communist Party newspaper.

The interrogators changed tack and accused him of having illegal contacts with foreign journalists.

"You have wide influence," they told him. "If it was just you, we could ignore you and let you go, but this does not involve just one person."

"Legal or illegal is not a question," Liu wrote later. "There is only the question of big or small influence. If one has great influence, then he cannot be released. He must be beaten like a mangy dog with a broken spine so when he comes back to society he will not constitute a threat. When will my motherland reform?"

Attica anniversary day of silent meals

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Nearly 2,000 inmates at Attica state prison ate their meals in stony silence to mark the 10th anniversary of a bloody storming of the prison which ended a four-day riot and takeover.

The quiet pervaded the two mess halls Sunday at the 50-year-old prison to recall the Sept. 9-13, 1971 riot which left 43 inmates and guards dead, 39 of them in a hail of police bullets.

Despite widespread publicity elsewhere about the anniversary of the nation's worst prison uprising, no ceremonies were conducted at Attica this weekend, where authorities tried to maintain a normal routine.

Corrections Department spokesman Louis Ganim said the silent meals began at breakfast Friday, when 375 inmates at one mess hall ate but refrained from talking.

One hour later, 15 inmates in solitary confinement smashed windows and hurled excrement at guards before specially trained teams of officers quelled the disturbance with tear gas.

New economic program has some contradictions

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The question before the public is whether the new economic program that's supposed to thrust America into a new era has within it some inherent contradictions that might make it misfire.

Nobody has offered incontestable evidence of this because, alas, all theories of economics past or present can be and are debated. In fact, economics may have contributed more to debate than to understanding.

Seldom has the debate heated up so quickly as it has in the past month or so, a period in which the president rested on his laurels after an impressive public relations and marketing campaign for his program.

The second thoughts suddenly grew like weeds in an untended garden, and now they mar the public's image of the program. The critics now say the program isn't as unified, as neatly tied together, as was supposed. "Reagan is beating the horse and pulling the reins at the same time," announced Richard Day, a University of Southern California economist. High interest and continued inflation are partly the fault of the president, said Day last Friday, when the debate reached a peak.

What Day means is that the president is seeking to stimulate growth and productivity through tax cuts, but that he hasn't yet compensated for the expected lower revenues through comparable spending cuts.

In some respects, critics are saying, the president seeks both a conservative and a liberal economic stance; that is, he wants to cut and he wants to spend too, especially in regard to the military.

Reagan has now promised further spending cuts, but it is probably a little late to quiet the critics. They've been examining his plan for the past month, convinced that it couldn't be as good as he had led them to believe. Now they have found ground on which to take a stand.

From campuses, businesses, Democratic think tanks and ordinary citizens, the questions are asked:

—Does Reagan frustrate his own goals when he supports the Federal Reserve's tight money policy, which allegedly discourages investment, and still hopes the private sector will commit itself to new plants?

A tight Fed policy might be necessary, but there's no question it is driving many small businesses to insolvency. Small-business surveys confirm the devastation, and rising bankruptcy statistics document it.

—Can the economic recovery begin quickly and positively, or is there one big, difficult and painful economic reality that must first be faced? That is, is a recession still needed to kill off inflation?

The threat is said to exist, partly because an interim period of many months, at least, is thought to be needed before the private sector can pick up whatever slack results from government budget cutting.

—What can be done about the federal debt, the refinancing of which is a major factor in continuance of high interest rates? If there ever was a dilemma that required creative economics the debt problem is it.

Consider: The cost of maintaining that debt is the fastest growing part of the budget. It cannot be excised like a tumor, though it is one. It is immune to cutting, more so than military spending, because no edict of the White House or Congress can erase it without dire results.

Meanwhile, because interest rates are high the cost of maintaining the federal debt is now more costly than ever. By itself it can destroy the president's budget-balance plans.

And finally, the greatest irony of all: Because there is so much debt to finance it is keeping interest rates high. A dilemma: Rates are high because of the debt, and the debt grows higher because of the rates.

Like weeds, these questions and problems have moved into the garden while the president was away. Economics being a great mystery, it could be they will fade back into the ground from whence they rose.

More likely, the president is going to have to rip them up and cut them up, roots and all, and then explain to the public again why the newly cultivated garden is going to grow a healthy crop.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE

Elimination of N1Q would be 'mistake-hider'

BY BILL DOYLE

Q. Some months ago, I read about a proposal to eliminate the "portfolio transaction reports" mutual funds are required to file quarterly with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on "Forms N1Q.

Has that proposal been adopted?

A. Not yet. Hopefully, it never will be. The wheels of bureaucracy grind slowly. The SEC asked for public comments on the proposal early this year. In the feedback, less than a dozen of the 160 comments favored elimination of N1Qs. That's a healthy sign for investors and bad news for some mutual fund management people.

The N1Q is a disclosure document, in which a mutual fund must list the name and amount of every stock or other security it bought and/or sold during the three months covered and, in many ways, is much more revealing than the reports mailed to shareholders.

If you've done any amateur carpentry or wallpaper-hanging, you know that moldings and borders can be used to hide mistakes. Elimination of the N1Q requirement would be a great "mistake-hider" for some mutual funds, which bought or sold the wrong stocks at the wrong times.

The mutual fund industry has long boasted that it "lives in a goldfish bowl." If the N1Q is removed, that goldfish bowl will cloud over.

●

Q. I would like to study the N1Q reports of a number of mutual funds, before I decide in which one to invest. Where can I get copies?

A. First, write to each mutual fund in which you are considering investing and ask for its latest N1Q. You'll find the funds' addresses in reference manuals, such as "Wiesenberger Investment Companies," at many public libraries.

If you draw any blanks, copies of N1Qs are available, at a small fee, from the Public Reference Room, U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20544.

●

Q. Most of the companies in which I own stock have dividend reinvestment plans, through which I acquire additional shares — without having to pay big brokerage charges. One of the companies, however, has no such plan.

I wrote to that company, asking that it start a dividend reinvestment plan. I was refused. I then wrote to the company president, requesting that my suggestion be submitted to stockholders for a vote. Again, I was refused. As a stockholder, don't I have the right to make a formal proposal at the next stockholders' meeting?

A. Yes, you do. But you'll have to go through some corporate and regulatory red tape, as spelled out in Rule 14a-8 for "solicitation of proxies" under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. That rule fills four single-spaced typewritten pages.

You seem determined. Get a copy of Rule 14a-8 from the Securities Exchange Commission. Study it. Follow its procedures carefully. A company's management can make things difficult, when it is against a stockholder's proposal. Corporate democracy remains an imperfect thing.

●

Q. I recently bought 35 shares of stock and received a temporary certificate. I called my broker and asked why a permanent certificate wasn't sent to me. He said there is no difference between a temporary and permanent certificate. If that's true, why didn't they send me a permanent certificate?

A. A spokesman for the Stock Transfer Association, the professional organization of transfer agents that issue stock certificates for companies, says that temporary certificates are issued only when the supply of regular certificates runs out, or when the company is involved in a tender offer or merger negotiations.

He calls the issuance of a temporary certificate "most unusual" and suggests you contact the transfer agent to arrange its exchange for a regular certificate.

No end yet in sight to Persian Gulf war

EARLEEN F. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — When the long-simmering border feud between Iran and Iraq flashed into war last September, each side predicted a speedy victory.

One year later, with no end in sight, the two Moslem oil giants on the northern side of the Persian Gulf still are slugging it out on the mountains, marshes and dusty plains of a 300-mile battlefront that hasn't changed since early in the war.

Other predictions — a worldwide oil shortage and $100-a-barrel prices for crude — also have failed to come true. Today there's an international oil glut, and the few nations still charging $40 a barrel face mounting pressure from customers and competitors to cut prices.

Olof Palme, the United Nations envoy who headed one of four international peacemaking efforts, said last April that both Iran and Iraq conceded the war would not be won on the battlefront. But a diplomatic solution has proved as elusive as a military one.

Iran says it will not negotiate for peace until the last Iraqi soldier is removed from Iranian soil. Iraq has vowed to keep fighting until Iran recognizes Iraqi sovereignty over the 120-mile Shatt al-Arab, the southern boundary between the two nations and Iraq's waterway to the Persian Gulf.

While Iran says the war started Sept. 22, 1980, when Iraqi troops capped several months of skirmishes by pushing across the border into Iran, Iraq recently said the starting date was Sept.4, when several score Iranian troops raided four villages just inside northern Iraq.

Analysts and diplomats who last year predicted the war could last no more than a week now say it will probably continue until there is a change in leadership in one or both countries.

In Iran, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic fundamentalist regime so far has survived an escalating war of assassination and bombing by leftists who have killed a president, a prime minister and other top leaders of the ruling Islamic Republican Party.

In Iraq, where political dissent in recent years has been countered by exile and executions, President Saddam Hussein's Moscow-oriented Baath Socialist Party still seems firmly in control.

"Every family that loses a son in battle is given cash and a new home," reported one Iraqi passing through Beirut. "Saddam is so busy visiting the most wretched villages that housewives joke they have to keep their parlors tidy because you never know when the president will drop in with photographers and television crews."

Another Iraqi said the government "is very careful to make sure there are no shortages." Most of the goods come through Jordanian ports and by truck across the desert to Baghdad.

In Iran, the effects of the war are more pronounced. But they are probably aggravated by the political turmoil and economic dislocation resulting from Khomeini's revolution.

"There are shortages which the government blames on the war," said a young Iranian who recently arrived in Beirut from Tehran. "It's mostly food — chickens and eggs and other raw products.

"Quite apart from the political turmoil in Iran . . . economic problems are apparently becoming unmanageable," said a recent article in Arab Report and Memo, a Beirut economic newsletter. "The only safe statement that can be made at this point is that for the next few months Iran's economy looks set for further deterioration."

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Today I work in a bank.
Tomorrow I work at an advertising agency.
That's how Kelly Services works for me.

Working for Kelly Services, the temporary help people, means having an opportunity few people have...real variety in working experience. On Kelly's temporary assignments, you'll be able to work in more than one kind of business.
That can be valuable experience whether you're making up yuour mind about choosing a career or reentering the job market.

And, of course, working for Kelly means you'll be working for a leader in the industry and making good money. Kelly is not an employment agency, so you sign no contracts and pay no fees. Why not stretch your job experience in one of Kelly's more than 100 job classifications. Let Kelly Services, the temporary help people, work for you.

"ON CALL" EQUIPMENT OPERATORS

"ON CALL" is both a State of Mind and the way most of our service employees live, because that's the way it has to be. When you're the "PACESETTER" in oil field service, you have to be ready to go anywhere at anytime in order to meet our customers needs.

That is why we are looking for hard working, dependable people to hire on as EQUIPMENT OPERATORS. If you're not afraid of tough, dirty, outdoor work, then here's what we offer people WITH OR WITHOUT experience.

- A good job that guarantees $15,000 + to start
- The opportunity to learn a necessary skill
- The chance to grow with a dynamic, growing company
- A full line of Company Paid Benefits including a full Dental Plan
- A relocation assistance package will be offered to Odessa and Rankin, Texas and Hobbs, New Mexico
- And the prospect of being part of an industry that is so important to our Nation's growth, prosperity safety
- We also have a few openings for mechanics

How to Qualify: If you are 21 years of age or older, able to pass our physical examination, have a good driving record and are able to relocate, we'd like to see you.

To find out more about us and to apply for the job, please come by the Holidays Inn in Odessa located at 3001 East Highway 80 on Tuesday, September 15th at 7:00 p.m. and see our representative. An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F.0

Pretty landscaping, and excellent location on Dengar. To see call Birdie Crowder, assoc. of HASHA REALTORS. 682-6264, evenings 683-2379.

COUNTRY HOUSE
2 bedroom total electric, remodled inside and out, new fence, outside storage, 1 acre of land. Greenwood school district. $48,000. 682-9977 or 684-4323.

MARBLE FALL, TEXAS
Towering pecan trees frame a view of Lake Marble Falls from this 5,500-square-foot, split-level ranch home on an acre with 187 feet of water frontage. Four bedrooms, and four and a half baths serve family and guests, and there are two living areas, one with a wet bar. Two fireplaces provide cheerful gathering places, and there's a library for quiet moments. Shaded decks extend along one end of the house, and nearby, the Meadowlakes Country Club has excellent golf, tennis and swimming facilities. Night-Joe Dockery 693-2566.
