Administration Plans Definite Crop Control Program

Tentative Draft Is Made On Six Major Crops

National 'Goal' Or Limit Set For Crops With Each State, County And Farm to Share

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Farm leaders called here to formulate a 1938 program disclosed tonight the administration will make a definite attempt to control acreage of major crops next year.

The leaders were handed a tentative draft of a 1938 program which calls for definite limitation of cotton, corn tobacco, potatoes, peanuts and rice.

Decline Definite Information

Secretary Wallace and AAA officials, who summoned the farm leaders here, declined definite information on the proposals.

The farm delegates explained that a national "goal" or limit on acreage for the six crops was proposed. Each state, county, and individual farm would receive a share or "goal."

These limits, proposed in the confidential memoranda distributed to the farm leaders only, represent considerable reductions from this year's acreage of cotton, and rice, with attempts to maintain the acreage of corn, tobacco, potatoes and peanuts near the present levels.

Funds To Be Inducement

The $500,000,000 authorized by congress annually under the soil conservation act would be used to induce farmers to participate in the acreage limitation. Reductions would be made from the payments if the limits were exceeded.

The national "goals" suggested to the farm delegates were: cotton, 29 000,000 to 31,000,000 acres; corn, 92,000,000 to 96,000,000 acreas; tobacco, 1,585,000 to 1,680,000; potatoes, 3,100,000 to 3,300,000; peanuts, 1,500,000 to 1,600,000; rice, 825,000 to 875,000.

The indicated acreages of these same crops for harvest this year and the five-year (1928-32) average acreage follows:

Cotton, 33,736,000 and 40,541,000;

War Dangers Hold League's Interest

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—League of Nations attention focussed tonight on war dangers on two sides of the world.

League lobbies speculated on what answer would be given to an appeal by Dr. Wellington Koo, China's international diplomat, scheduled from the rostrum of the league assembly tomorrow, against "Japanese aggression" in his country.

The league also was expected to examine the menace to European peace of the Spanish civil war and consider protective measures to augment the naval patrol plan initiated today by the nine signatories to the Nyon anti-piracy accord.

Official Japanese quarters followed developments of the Sino-Japanese situation to learn whether the league is likely to condemn Japan as an aggressor, seek mediation through league auspices in the Orient or even decree sanctions against Japan.

The Japanese onlookers—Japan has withdrawn from the league—reiterated Tokyo's decision to reject any invitation to sit in the council when China's accusation is read.

Italy Refuses To Cooperate In Anti-Piracy Offensive; Difficulties May Arise

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—War fleets of nine nations headed into the Mediterranean tonight in an offensive against submarine piracy, led by more than 100 British and French fighting ships but without the cooperation of Italy.

Italy refused tonight to join the anti-piracy patrol in a secondary role, demanding full parity with Britain and France. The latter two nations were designated by seven cooperating nations — Turkey, Greece, Russia, Egypt, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Rumania—to bear the brunt of the patrol.

Offered Area Off Her Coasts

Italy was offered jurisdiction of sea lanes just off her coasts in the patrol plan drafted Saturday at Nyon, at a conference boycotted both by Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany.

Tonight, with German adherence, Premier Mussolini advised the British and French charge d'affaires that the situation which would result from the patrol plan "seems unacceptable."

The immediate reaction here was that the war against the submarine pirates will be real war nevertheless, but observers were quick to point to the possibility of dangerous embarrassment if Italy remains on the outside. (Germany was not asked to participate, and merely gave to Italy her diplomatic support in the matter).

Difficulties Might Arise

Should Italy, disregarding the patrol, send her submarines into the sea lanes of the Mediterranean disregarding the patrol, a difficult situation might arise. (The Nyon agreement provides that participating powers keep submarines out of the sea lanes, unless convoyed by a surface vessel).

The accord, however, provides for revision of the control zones and it is possible that Great Britain and France will be willing to make this revision in favor of Italy. Russia, however, most certainly would oppose it, having charged Italy with

Warning Issued On Situation In Germany

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 14. (AP) The semi-official Osservatore Romano declared in an editorial today that if the anti-Christian movement in Germany continues "sowing seeds of hatred and vilification" the blood of priests may be shed there "as it was in Spain."

Prelates said the Pope read and approved the editorial, which warned that the Nazi congress in Nurnberg has endangered the possibility of religious peace in Germany.

The editorial condemned the "fatal union of the state with forces hostile to Christianity."

Black And Klan Talk Continues

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. — Two of his former colleagues in the senate today renewed demands that Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black should relieve the country of embarrassment by stating his position with respect to the Ku Klux Klan or by resigning from the bench.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, campaigning for the New York mayoralty nomination, said Black obtained confirmation of his appointment to the nation's highest tribunal last month "by misrepresentation and not without fraud."

No Way Of Forcing Him Out

Asserting there was no legal way of forcing him off the bench, Copeland added:

"The only way I see is by resignation. That should be done. The country should not be embarrassed."

At the same time, Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, declared in an interview at Clinton, Mass., that Justice Black "owes it to the president, the senate and the country to declare publicly whether he is a member of the Klan and if so to indicate in unmistakable language his repudiation of the Ku Klux Klan and its principles."

Justice Black, vacationing in London, remained silent on the sudden flareup which was caused by a revival of statements that the newly appointed justice was a life member of the Klan.

The controversy was described by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Klan, as a piece of political strategy designed to further Senator Copeland's campaign in New York.

The senior senator of Massachusetts, Mr. Walsh, suggested that President Roosevelt name an "impartial agency" to ascertain the truth about a series of articles published by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in which it is averred that Justice Black is a member of the Klan.

"And," he added, "if the president, through such an investigation, found Black to be a member of the Ku Klux Klan, he can ask for his resignation."

DECLINES TO COMMENT

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. (AP)—Early Connelley, a department of justice inspector who was in charge of the investigation into the disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, declined today to comment on a story published by the New York Journal-American which said it had learned Mrs. Parsons is dead.

Japanese Mass Guns And Men For Offensive

Tanks And Artillery Moved Up To Back Up Infantry In New Line Northwest Of Shanghai

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15. (Wednesday) Japanese forces massed guns and men today for a supreme assault on Chinese entrenched to pit "our flesh and blood and valor" against Nippon's military might.

Japan moved tanks and artillery across flooded rice fileds to back up infantry that swept after Chinese forces retreating to new defense positions. The new line stretched from Shanghai's North station 30 miles northwest to the banks of the mighty Yangtze.

Lines Protecting Against Drive

Behind the new Chinese positions were other defense lines protecting against possible assaults driving toward Nanking, the nation's capital.

Chinese, who admitted they lost approximately 35,000 dead and wounded in four weeks of Shanghai warfare, declared they were determined to prevent Japanese invaders from capturing Nanking. Japanese casualties totaled 10,000.

Would Have Ring Of Steel

"If they took Nanking," a Chinese spokesman said, "Japan would ring China with a cordon of steel."

Chinese and Japanese fought doggedly for territory west of Kiangwan, where Japanese occupied the Chinese civic center yesterday.

Elsewhere on the far-flung Chinese fronts, Chinese planes and troops resisted the Japanese advance.

Chinese troops harried Japanese advancing southward from Peiping and Tientsin. They blew up and derailed a Japanese military train. Roads to the south were bogged by rain, holding up the Japanese advance.

Japanese Commander Rensuke Isogai indicated the plan of Japanese forces in the north was to take Tsangchow, south of Tientsin, and advance from there into rich Shantung province.

There were conflicting reports of engagements in the Mongolian province of Chahar, north of China's Great Wall.

Cholera Spreads In Shanghai

Cholera spread in refugee-packed Shanghai. Medical authorities listed a total of 561 cases and 83 deaths since the epidemic began.

The United States destroyer Parrott was scheduled to sail for south China Saturday to evacute Americans if necessary. Two American navy transports were to sail for Manila to carry baggage to American refugees whose trunks were held up by port restrictions.

Teachers' Retirement Fund Is Started In State On Tuesday

AUSTIN, Sept. 14. (AP)—The Texas Teachers' Retirement fund started today on the road to an accumulation of many million dollars—it received a check for $2.40 from L. T. Cook, former school suerintendent at Sherman.

Cook's contract extended into September and the $2.40 was five per cent of his pay for the few days from September 1, when the retirement act became effective, to expiration of his term. No appreciable payments will be made until around October 1.

Teachers desiring to participate in the program are supposed to contribute five per cent of their salaries, with the contributions to be matched by the state. One of the chief problems at the legislative session starting September 27 will be the imposition of taxes for the state's part.

FORMER PARTY LEADER DIES

BEAUMONT, Sept. 14. (AP)—Stuart R. Smith, 70, for many years a state leader in the Democratic party, died tonight in his home here.

As Registration Started Tuesday For Banner Year At Texas Tech

A glimpse above of registration activities Tuesday in the Texas Tech gymnasium shows young men and women students busily engaged in "signing up" for courses and figuring out their class schedules.

Hundreds of students stood in long lines throughout the day as the college experienced a banner first day's registration. Freshmen and sophomores registered yesterday and upperclassmen will go through the mill today.

Tech Enrollment Monday Is Increased 14.02 Per Cent

REGISTRATION machinery turned out 1,580 students at Texas Technological college Tuesday and rung up at 14.02 per cent increase over first day enrollment last year.

First day enrollment for the fall semester last year was 1,383 and enrollment of freshmen for the entire year was only 1,200. Only freshmen and sophomores were registered Tuesday and upperclassmen and stragglers will be enrolled today.

JUST CALL HER "PAT"

Among freshmen who registered at Texas Technological college is one Sara Patricia Victoria Helena Elizabeth Hampton Greene from Pecos. She is a math major who perhaps got an early start in numbers by keeping count of her names. A black-eyed lass of French and Indian descent she is called none of her names, but "Pat." She lives at Doak hall.

Gain Had Been Expected

Increase was attributed by President Bradford Knapp not to facilities for faster matriculation but to the 10 per cent enrollment gain that had been expected over last year's total of 3,010 students. Enrollment the first semester last year was 2,703.

Figures were based upon number of students who obtained permits to register.

Lines of students extended from the gymnasium almost to College avenue and meandered through administration corridors and up stairs and down. Lines had begun forming before 7 o'clock. With opening of gymnasium doors at 8 a. m. faculty members began successive consultations which were halted only during lunch and at 5 o'clock.

Unable to accurately estimate number of rooms remaining for students, the housing committee referred students to various residences where accomodations had been offered in answer to appeals of officials. Anxiety had been felt that housing facilities would be insufficient for the anticipated increase in enrollment.

While registration was underway, workmen hurried to complete refinishing of walls and remodeling of several calssrooms to provide ad-

Partial Embargo Invoked; Action First By U. S.

President Declares No Vessels Owned By Government Allowed To Transport War Supplies

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt invoked tonight a partial embargo on shipments of arms and munitions to the Far Eastern war zone.

After conferring with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Joseph Kennedy, chairman of the Maritime commission, the chief executive issued a formal statement announcing that no merchant vessels owned by this government would be permitted to transport such articles to China or Japan "until further notice."

Applies To 37 Vessels

The order applies to 37 vessels owned by the government and operated privately under management contracts.

Other American merchant ships carrying arms cargoes to either country, the president said, will do so at their own risk.

His statement was issued a short time after Mr. Roosevelt at his regular press conference had reiterated he would do everything possible to keep this country out of war.

Act Not Invoked

The action, however, did not formally invoke the neutrality act, which would automatically forbid all exports of implements of war to belligerents in addition to clapping an embargo on all American financial assistance to the warring nations.

The president emphasized that the government's policy with respect to application of the neutrality act still remains on "a 24-hour basis." He said the question of invoking the act always is under consideration and has been for weeks.

Whether any specific attempt to ship arms on government vessels prompted the president to act today or whether he was motivated only by general apprehension for the future was not made clear.

Speculate On Wichita's Case

There was immediate speculation, however, as to whether the president's edict will apply to the steamship Wichita, now en route from Baltimore for China with 19 large airplanes. The Wichita, government-owned but privately operated, sailed from Baltimore in August. It was scheduled to arrive at San Pedro, Calif., today, according to available information here.

Some observers concidered it likely that the Maritime commission would order the vessel not to proceed with its present cargo to China.

Warning Issued Last Week

Only last week the state and navy departments warned American shipping of the dangers to be encountered off the China coast because of the Japanese blockade and in the Mediterranean sea because of raids by unidentified aircraft, surface vessels and submarines.

Emphasizing the concern with which his administration regards the present turbulent conditions in China, the president told newsmen that they still do not look good and that his constant study of the situation is occupying so much of his time that he has not yet been able to decide whether he can make his projected western trip.

The president's action represented the most drastic yet taken by the United States in connection with the undeclared war between China and Japan.

Maritime commission officials said available information here indicated the Wichita is the only government-owned vessel now en route to the Far East.

They said today's policy on gov-

Bank Robberies Are On Decline

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—A decade ago Texas had three bank robberies a week. This year it has had only two for the year.

Asked "how come?" these officials answered:

Banking Commissioner Zeta Gossett: "I don't know but I'm certainly glad of it."

Col. H. H. Carmichael, chief of the Texas Rangers: "Crime is declining over the nation." He praised the "marvelous work" of J. Edgar Hoover and the G-Men."

Gov. James V. Allred: "Juries have been assessing heavy penalties, including death."

Texas bankers, offering $5,000 for every "dead" robber ten years ago, paid off frequently.

Texas Crops In Good Condition

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—The United States department of agriculture reported today most Texas crops were in excellent condition and, although ranges had declined somewhat, cattle and sheep had held up well.

Cotton production was estimated at 4,622,000 bales, compared with 2,933,000 last year and an average of 4,580,000 from 1928 to 1932 inclusive.

Corn Below 5-Year Average

The department estimated corn production at 76,551,000 bushels, compared with 68,925,000 in 1936 and 81,922,000, the 1928-32 average.

"Pastures showed a seasonal decline in condition while range conditions dropped slightly more than average," it continued. "Local rains were quite general during the latter part of the month, with almost general rains falling over the South Plains and north Central Texas. South Texas still was very dry on September 1 but local rains have been very helpful over the balance of the state.

Increases In Cotton Seen

"Material increases in prospective production were shown for cotton and all diciduous fruits. The forecast on September 1 was the same as that of a month ago for corn, grain sorghums, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes and pecans. All crops are showing substantial increases over last year's relatively short production, and indicated production of the major cash crops is somewhat above the yearly average production for 1928-32."

Surplus Feed Crop Seen

A surplus feed crop has been produced in the South Plains and north central districts, the report said, and feeding operations will be heavy in those areas. Should September rains be received, sheep ranges were expected to supply good winter feed.

Cattle have held up well and there is a good supply of grass fat cattle available for a direct market move-

McDonald Criticizes Cotton Loans Plan

AUSTIN, Sept. 14. (AP)—The federal method of making loans on cotton received sharp criticism from J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, today.

McDonald said the government had so surrounded the loans with red tape that few farmers were taking advantage of them despite the fact their cotton was selling below the cost of production.

"If the agreement made in Washington when the Southern commissioners of agriculture were up there had been carried out by the department of agriculture and the Commodity Credit corporation," he said, "farmers would be assured of 12 cents for their cotton.

"As it is, the terms of the 1937 Commodity Credit cotton loan are such that middling cotton is selling considerably below nine cents, no cotton at all, so far as I can find out, has been borrowed upon. Instead, farmers are selling their cotton at much below the price at which the loan was set and are taking tragic and unnecessary losses.

"Everyone knows the sole purpose of the loan was to hold the decline in cotton so producers might get 12 cents per pound. Taking into consideration the three cent subsidy, the regulations issued by the Commodity Credit corporation have defeated that purpose."

BAKED SQUASH RECIPE

SQUASH, pumpkin's cousin, is a fall delight and a good cook can twist the neck of a squash to her own advantage. We found a recipe for baked crooked neck squash that sounds good. It served 4 to six persons.

Two yellow squashes, 1-2 cup cream, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter. Cut squash in rings about 3-4 inch thick, steam for about six minutes in the top of a double boiler. Lay squash in a baking dish add heavy cream, sprinkle bread crumbs over top, dot with butter bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit.)

Leaguers Buy Each Other's Cast Off Clothes At Charity Rummage Sale

They're buying each other's cast off clothing, these Lubbock Junior Welfare leaguers, at their own rummage sale this week at Avenue H and Eighth street.

One member bought a jacket she had been admiring for a year and another bought its matching skirt. Two other leaguers bought a half dozen little boys suits because they were brand new and "so cute."

The new merchandise—and Tuesday there was a large variety of it—was the surprise gift of at least two department stores. It included ties for men and boys, all types of baby clothes, clothing for older children, overshoes, raincoats and rubbers, sweat shirts, silk hosiery, belts for men and boys and countless other unused items.

Belt Market Booms

Belts. There probably won't be any today because a man driving a long, shiny car Monday stopped long enough to buy a belt, "Just the thing I've been looking for," he explained, then Tuesday seven or eight young men from his place of business came to the sale hunting belts like Mr. Longcar's.

There's more to the sale than the mobs of people and the pretty saleswomen. Perhaps it's the accumulated beauty that causes the result. At any rate, a fortyish gray-clad man spent both Monday and Tuesday with the Junior Leaguers, "just looking around," he said.

Crime Doesn't Pay

A Mexican boy bought a complete school outfit, neat gray trousers, a blue wool sweater, a brown three-piece suit, shoes and a tie, all for a small payment. A woman bought pajamas for all her family, shoes for herself and a two-piece wool suit for her high school-age daughter. A little girl bought some hair ribbons and some underwear.

All day Monday and Tuesday, the customers bought like that.

Homemakers Club Hears How To Preserve Farm Foods

The Homemakers club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. B. Lane, near Lubbock. Mrs. Joe Lane was hostess. The program included three constructive talks on food preservation.

Mrs. J. W. Ross said that since 90 per cent of the farm family's food can be raised on a farm, the ideal pantry must be well planned. It should be so ventilated to keep at all times a medium temperature. Shelves should be built 10 1-2 inches apart and on them food should be arranged systematically.

Meat, for instance, should be stored on the bottom shelf because it will be cooler there than on the top. Vegetables should go on the second shelf, pickles and relishes on the third and preserves and jelly on the fourth shelf.

Mrs. E. B. Shipp explained the necessity of canning foods in order that the family may have a balanced diet regardless of seasons. Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent, told the value of canning for flavor and food value, explaining that tender growing vegetables are richer in vitamins than older vegetables as also are fall vegetables. Vegetables grown in spring and summer, she said, have fewer vitamins because those are dryer seasons.

The club will meet October 5 with Mrs. C. C. Lane. Mrs. Glenn Smith was a guest at the Tuesday meeting.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Eleven-Day Fast Of Penance In Jail At Raton Broken; Man Receives "Orders"

RATON, N. M., Sept. 14 (AP) — Sidney Clayton, whose eleven-day fast of penance in the county jail followed "orders from the Lord," acceded Monday to further "orders" and had a light breakfast — with wine.

After a night of jubilant singing, interspersed with prayer, Clayton told puzzled Sheriff Barney Mitchell the newest "message" had told him he might taste of "some wine and pork."

Clayton's sister, Mrs. E. Lewis of Amber, Pa., arrived here today to make arrangements for care of Clayton, whose behavior had worried sheriff's officers for days.

Clayton's capitulation to his "orders" came on the heels of the exasperated sheriff's declaration he would "force-feed" his prisoner if he didn't stop his "nonsense."

Declaring he had been ordered "by the Lord" to abstain from food and drink, Clayton started his fast September 3 by sitting down on the floor of a neighbor's house. When he didn't get up for a day and a night, Sheriff Mitchell took him to the county jail.

Farm Owner Near Waller Faces Charge In Tenant's Shooting

HEMPSTEAD, Sept. 14, (AP)—H. A. Murrell, 65, farm owner near Waller, was jailed here today on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting late yesterday of a tenant, Ben D. Brumlow, 43, who lived about 300 yards from Murrell.

Murrell surrendered to officers today. Justice C. A. Armer said he went to the scene of the shooting but that the family was so "torn up by the tragedy" he could not learn the motive for the shooting.

He quoted one of the Brumlow boys as saying Murrell had asked when Brumlow was going to move from the place. Armer said the boy told him that he informed Murrell he would ask his father to talk to Murrell.

Mrs. Brumlow and the children heard a scream and then a shot, Justice Armer said he was told. When they reached the scene Brumlow was dead.

Brumlow had lived on the farm about a year.

Mahon Talks At Lions Luncheon

Speaking informally, Congressman George Mahon of Colorado, gave members of the Lions club yesterday noon some of his beliefs on the work of congress, especially the first session of the 75th congress, which just closed. He was the guest and chief speaker at the luncheon in the Hilton hotel at noon.

President W. H. Evans called on several committees for reports including the boy's work committee, public health and the signs committee. C. A. Sanford, chairman of the program committee, made a brief report and asked a meeting of his group following the meeting.

Irvin Introduces Mahon

W. B. Irvin, superintendent of schools as program chairman, introduced Mahon, an old friend.

Contrasting the recent session, with the first congress in 1789, Mahon pointed out there were 127,000,000 people now to two million when Washington was inaugurated. The first session was in New York City and the president-elect was not inaugurated until late in April.

"Congress is always struggling toward a goal; always seeking the light," he said. It never attains its ambition, however, although it seeks to do so.

"The tendency on the part of the press, especially the metropolitan press in opposition to the party in power, is to disparage the majority," Mahon pointed out. "The average congressman is doing his best."

Explains Expenditures

Referring to huge sums spent by congress at this session Mahon explained: "We feel that we have to spend a billion dollars on the army and navy; we feel that the people want us to." Likewise the farm program, the road building program and others, are supported on the ground that they are in response to a public demand. The public works program also cited, Mahon adding, "and it's hard to stop."

"More public school buildings were built in the 19th district through WPA than in any other Texas district," he added.

"We need a greater economy than we have had," he said. "The objectives of congress have been sound."

John L. Lewis, C. I. O. head "and some of his followers have gone too far," Mahon declared.

Roosevelt has been "a great president," said the congressman. "He has made mistakes. I voted against a half billion dollar housing program he wanted."

The average congressman, he declared "is not going to contribute anything, knowingly, to the defeat of the Democratic party in 1940."

Referring to the proposal to have Vice President John Garner of Texas, as a candidate for the 1940 Democratic party nomination, Mahon pointed out that Garner will then be 70 years of age. "I don't think he will be interested," he added.

Congressmen "have in their hearts the best interests of peace," he said, referring to present international problems. This nation, he added, should remain "as nearly neutral as we can."

Static Level Of Texas' Old Age Pension Rolls Still Question

AUSTIN, Sept. 14. (AP)—The static level of Texas' old age pension roll remains an unanswerable question.

Officials estimated it at 60,000 prior to establishment of the administration last summer. The number reached nearly 130,000 last May. It is now approximately 116,000.

Authorities estimate an additional $3,200,000 will be needed over $17,000,000 estimated income to support the system during the current biennium, ending Aug. 31, 1939.

Raising this revenue will be one of the problems of the legislative tax session convening Sept. 27.

The Bees banged their one-time nemesis, Tex Carleton, for eight runs on as many hits in the fifth inning of the first game.

The Bees achieved a triple play to wreck a Chicago scoring opportunity in the third inning of the second game. Phil Cavarretta started the inning with a single an went to second on another hit off Danny MacFayden by Bill Jurges. Clay Bryant, MacFayden's mound foe, drilled a liner to Shortstop Rabbit Warstler who tossed to Tony Cuccinello to double Cavarretta. Cuccinello then relayed the ball to First Baseman Elbie Fletcher to nail Jurges.

Sailor Watkins Is After Lipscomb Again Tonight In Four-Bout Mat Show

TONIGHT'S CARD

Curtain raiser—Sheik Ben Ali Mar Allah vs. Bob Cummings. One fall or 15 minutes.

Special event—Vic Weber vs. Bill Cazzell. One fall or 15 minutes.

Semi-final—Frank Wolff vs. Don Rainier. One fall or 20 minutes.

Main event—Sailor Tex Kirby Watkins of Post vs. Buck Lipscomb of Indianapolis. Two out of three falls to a finish, 2-hour time limit.

There's no way of telling what manner of horrible treatment Buck Lpiscomb has cooked up for Sailor Tex Watkins when they meet tonight for the second time in the local ring in two weeks. Nor is there any way of telling what manner of torture Sailor Watkins has designed in his revenge-seeking spree tonight.

Lipscomb came out on top, after kicking Watkins into near insensibility, when they met in the main tussle two Wednesday nights ago, but it was Watkins who went away with the technical victory, awarded by Referee Clements on a foul after a heavy, sharp pointed piece of iron was found inside Lipscomb's kicking shoe. With the aid of the iron, Lipscomb wa sable to break Watkins' holds and keep the referee at bay merely by kicking them in the shins. Each bore bloody marks of battle on their shins after the show. With the same iron, the flat side of it, Lipscomb stomped Watkins in the region of the right ear with sufficient force to knock him out and claim the fall.

Buck Not Anxious

Lipscomb did not wish to meet Watkins again. "I whipped him once, why should I fool with him again?" was his reply to the promoter's overtures for a re-match. Watkins was just as loud in demanding a new count, however, and the unpopular Lipscomb was forced to sign a contract.

And so they meet tonight.

Patrons at the Auditorium must wait through three preliminary events before jeering and cheering Lipscomb and Watkins, but they shouldn't mind waiting because Promoter Allen has arranged quite a squad of talent for the supporting card.

In the curtain raiser, for instance, Shiek Ben Ali Mar Allah comes back, after a two weeks layoff, to tangle with crouching Bob Cummings, the California cowboy who has improved his style and speed wonderfully within the past year.

Vic Weber And Cazzell

The special event features Vic Weber and Bill Cazzell. Bill will be remembered as the dark-featured referee of four years ago who did a fair job of handling things in the local ring. But he gave up refereeing for grappling, since he had to manhandle the tough guys anyway. He appeared here once or twice as a grappler, looked just so-so. Now, they say, he's a real comer in the middleweight division. We should know tomorrow night.

Frank Wolff, South African terror, ties into the nice young man from Florida, Don Rainier, who made his debut rather auspiciously last Wednesday night. A wriggler, a slick defensive man possessing a lot of power and speed, Rainier should give Wolff something to worry about for 20 minutes or so.

* * *

Looking more like a cowboy or a sheep rancher than a sailor, Tex Kirby Watkins won't look like either when he enters the ring tonight for a return go with Buck Lipscomb. If he's in good health, which he wasn't last time they met, Watkins should stage a typical Sailor Tex show in tonight's main go at the Auditorium.

Teutons Prove Net Triumph Is No Fluke, Repeat Win

CHICAGO, Sept. 14. (AP)—Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Heiner Henkel proved today their victory over Don Budge and Gene Mako for the U. S. doubles championship was no fluke.

The German team crushed the U. S. Davis Cup combination in four sets, 9-7, 2-6, 7-5 and 7-5 in the feature match of an International tennis exhibition series.

Cisco To Battle Former Coach

The school and the town Weldon Chapman made famous for its football team is sending its eleven to Lubbock this week to oppose its former coach and his present array of talent.

Chapman coached the Big Dam Loboes for nine years, with more than average success. District championships were his practically any time he wanted one, and schools of the Oil Belt will never forget the high scoring machines Chapman put forth. They shut the gates of mercy in their opponents' faces and went to town with heavy scores that still stand.

Won Pennant Here

But now Chapman coaches at Lubbock. He put out a district championship club his first year here, the only champion Lubbock ever had. Since then it has been a battle for him and his Westerners to stay in the league, much less win championships. The material he has had did not compare in size and number with that of opponents. But except for missing out on the championship gravy, it has been no exceptionally rocky road. He has friends here, as he did in Cisco, who stay with him during the "depression" years as well as the more prosperous ones.

His 1937 Westerners will receive their first official test of the season Friday night when they meet the Loboes, now coached by Red Petty. The game begins at 8:15 o'clock. The admission prices will be 25 cents for children under 12, 50 cents for sudents, 75 cents for adults. There will be no reserved seats, and fans coming early may take their choices of seats.

Six Texas Conference Clubs Open Grid Season This Week

GEORGETOWN, Sept. 14. (AP)—The Texas conference puts its teams on parade this weekend in six non-conference engagements.

Two of the games will involve loop members prominetnly mentioned as title contenders. The McMurry Indians should find the Oklahoma Teachers tough while Austin college will run into a double handful of trouble at Denton when they tackle the North Texas teachers.

McMurry trimmed the Teachers last year, 7-0, but an injury suffered by Bob Anthony, fulback, may weaken the Indians. The North Texas Teachers and Austin scrapped to a deadlock last year.

Daniel Baker shouldn't be pressed to win from Weatherford and Howard Payne, playing its "B" team, should win easily enough from the Oklahoma Junior college eleven.

Southwestern may find the Lon Morris Junior college team a bit hard to handle while St. Edward's, again the conference "dark horse," will have to hustle to hold the East Texas teachers.

Homer Norton Hasn't A Worry About The Strength Of Highly Favored Farmers

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 14. (AP) Willowy-hipped Dick Todd is ready to deliver the goods down at Texas A. and M.

Weighted down by more publicity than any sophomore ever carried in the Southwest conference, Todd, nevertheless, came through last year. Only a concussion suffered in the Southern Methodist game, which kept him on the sidelines for weeks, slowed him down.

"He's looser, shiftier and headier than ever before," quoth Coach Homer Norton as he watched him wiggle away on a tackle thrust. "Furthermore, he has his passing arm 'in the groove' and will do most of our throwing and kicking."

The timid, 175-pound halfback, who came to college as the high school back who scored nearly 700 points in three years, will be the spark of a giant Aggie machine expected to reach its highest peak in a decade.

No Offensive Worries

Two complete backfields, "most of them just about as good as the next one," relieve Norton of offensive worries.

Slender, dangerous Dick Vitek, quite a runner in his own right, again will pilot the club from quarterback while Todd and Jim Shockey, the southpaw passing expert, will handle the halfbacks. In the fullback position is a comparative newcomer, rugged Karl Steffens, 192-pounder whose spring work and early fall practice has lifted him right on the first string.

Fast and powerful, Steffens, who failed to letter last year, will be the defensive bulwark.

Norton admitted that the first four could be stronger offensively with Bob Nesrsta in Steffens' position and indicated there would be considerable alternating between the two. He named Nesrsta on his "B" squad, however, along with Waleman Price, a tow-headed sophomore who looks best when he is releasing passes; Bill Audish, 200-pound sophomore fullback; and Owen (Slick) Rogers, believed by many to be as tricky as Todd with a ball under his arm.

Has Heavy Line

Big, well-conditioned and rough, the line, which will average slightly above 200 pounds, is one that Coach Norton will stack up against any wall in the conference.

"Just show me two finer guards in the nation than Joe Routt, our all-America of last year, and Virgil Jones, one of the cleverest defensive linemen I've ever watched," chirped Norton. "I don't believe you'll find them."

Routt, a burly 200-pounder "who doesn't love anybody once he gets on that field," and Jones, expert diagnoser of pass plays from his line-backing post, will be flanked at the tackles by Roy Young, all-conference giant of '36 and either Joe Boyd, Bill Minnock or George Branson. It's a three-way scrap between those last named and even Norton isn't sure who will make the grade.

Center May Do Kicking

Three ends are available for the first string, and Norton again isn't certain who they will be. Rankin Britt, 215-pounder, better and faster than he was last year; Bruno Schroeder, one-time first string fullback who laid out last year; and Bill Seago, demon pass snagger, are his best bets.

"There's no cause to worry about center, for there stormy Zed Coston, six-foot, two inch, 220-pound junior who has never been injured, will be stationed. He is also due to do some punting—Norton's major worry.

If Todd, Nesrsta, Steffens and Shockey don't come through in the kicking department, it is likely Cosdon will be pulled out of the line on fourth down kicks, thus causing Young to shift over from a tackle for the snapback. Norton, however, doesn't want to resort to such a switch unless it is imperative.

Air Minded Red Raiders In Heavy Defensive Practice

Registration day at Texas Tech was just another work day for the football Red Raiders, who had registered earlier, as the usual training camp two-a-day routine was followed.

The morning drill was restricted to forward pass practice, and judging from the critical coaching and "try, try again" drill, the Red Raiders will continue to fire aerial bombs at opponents this year. Allen Plummer, Ed Smith, Bob Holmes and Maurice Chernosky were doing most of the passing, and halfbacks and wingmen were doing a fair job of shagging the bullet heaves. Plummer is pleasing the coaches with his double threat offensive—running and passing—and his hearing is about as neat as you please. He throws a fairly feathery ball, straight like an arrow, and receivers have little trouble handling it.

After setting up exercises in the afternoon, the Raiders turned to defense, spending most of two hours anticipating and stopping plays run by the reserves and freshmen that are calculated to compare with the offensive of Arizona State college of Flagstaff and University of Texas.

Axmen Here Thursday

Spirited action on defense as well as offense continued to please onlookers and coaches. The boys were alert, on their guard, and they were rarely "sucked in" by the afternoon's opponents.

The Flagstaff team, coming here to open the Border conference race as well as the playing season next Saturday afternoon, is expected tomorrow afternoon. The Lumberjacks are traveling by bus, and probably will leave the Arizona town this morning, breaking the trip at El Paso.

That the Red Raiders may go airminded in more ways than one was indicated yesterday in an announcement by Head Coach Pete Cawthon that the athletic council had approved plans for the team to fly to Austin for the University of Texas game Sept. 26.

"The council gave its approval, provided the right kind of arrangements can be made," Cawthon said. By "arrangements," he meant that if a transport plane service could be procured at the proper price and that if the planes would come to Lubbock to pick up the Red Raiders, they probably would fly to Austin. This would save at least one day of classes and twelve hours of train riding. The council also has approved, it is believed, a trip by air to Detroit on Oct. 9 when the Red Raiders play Detroit university.

FOUR DAYS REMAIN TO GET SEASON TICKETS

Bo Williams, graduate manager of Texas Tech athletics, advises once more that only four more days remain in which fans may purchase season tickets for Texas Tech's home games. The tickets are on sale at the Hilton Hotel lobby box office. Box seats are priced at $8.50 for the six home games, regular grandstand seats at $7.50, each price representing a saving of about 35 per cent. No season tickets will be sold after noon Saturday, Williams said.

Hunters In Readiness For Opening Of Dove Season

AUSTIN, Sept. 14. (AP)—Hunters in most of Texas headed for the woods today to be ready for the opening of the dove season at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

Dove-shooting has been legal in the Panhandle since September 1. The season begins tomorrow in nearly all the rest of the state although no hunting will be allowed in 17 counties and portions of 17 others because of conflicts between federal and state regulations.

Nimrods in the lower Rio Grande valley must curb their trigger fingers until Thursday. Shooting will be permitted there only on Thursdays, Saturdays, Sundays and Tuesdays.

Hunting will be allowed from 7 a. m. to sunset. Only shotguns of No. 10 gauge or less and of a capacity of three shells or less may be used.

Cats Nab First Play-Off Tilt From Tulsans

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 14. (AP)—Big Ed Selway set the Tulsa Oilers down with three hits here tonight and hurled the Fort Worth Cats over the first hurdle in the opening series of the Shaughnessy playoff for the Texas league championship with a 4 to 1 victory.

More than 6,000 fans, including Oklahoma's Governor E. W. Marland, watched the husky right hander hold the 1936 Texas league and the Dixie Series champions virtually helpless in a game marred by no less than seven errors.

The Cats, who blasted 11 hits off the offerings of Tulsa's southpaw, Max Thomas, knotted the score in the fifth inning after the Oilers had scored their lone tally in the third, and went on to win the game with one run in the eighth and two more in the ninth.

It was the opening game of the Texas League Shaughnessy playoff.

Approximately 150 Freshman Girls At Tech Start New Experience---Life In Dormitory

For approximately 150 freshman girls at Texas Technological college a new experience—dormitory life—has begun.

A little gray book, 3 by 5 inches, is being pored over by them as intently as a larger red one—the college catalogue. The gray book is the handbook of women's hall and in it are explained such things as buzzer signals, operation of laundry chutes, "signing out," date regulations, quiet hours and the like.

Govern Themselves

The young women take formulation of rules and regulations into their own hands. The Women's Self-Governing association is composed of all women living in Doak hall, and is governed by the house senate, assisted by counsellors.

After three "major offences," coeds are brought "onto the carpet" before the senate. Those offenses include: smoking in the halls, baths, lounge, or dining room; failure to sign out for dinner, lateness—15 minutes or over shall constitute three major offences instead of one; standing in hall with escort, failure to sign out for an engagement or a week-end.

Certain Rules Adopted

Certain rules in regard to rooms have been made which include the following: A fee of 25 cents a month for each electrical appliance, pictures must not be pasted or tacked on walls, but must be hung from the moulding; pennants may not be stuck on window shades; quiet must be maintained after 8 o'clock each night; no practice on musical instruments is allowed before 8 a. m. and no tapping or clogging practice is allowed in the rooms or halls at any time.

If a key is lost a girl is charged $1 for replacing it. And if the front door has to be unlocked for her at night, it costs her 25 cents to get in.

Must Be Fully Dressed

A few other regulations: "Care should be taken not to confuse the trash chute with the laundry chute . . . students must be fully dressed for each meal . . . women students living in the dormitory must spend the night in their rooms in order that they may be located in case of emergency."

The last 8 pages of the 20-page booklet deal with etiquette, particularly table manners. Students are admonished not to "smack the lips, gesticulate with the silver, and not to take articles from the dining room to their own rooms."

New Assistant Bacteriologist Is Appointed For Laboratory

Mrs. Mark Scott, former student of Daniel Baker college at Brownwood, has been appointed assistant to Miss Dora Snyder, city bacteriologist, according to announcement Tuesday by Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer.

Increasing demand upon city laboratories made the provision of assistance for Miss Snyder necessary, Dr. Rollo said. Important among the tasks of the bacteriologist, it was explained, is the making of Wasserman tests for food handlers and laboratory tests to safeguard the quality of milk, food and water supplies in the city.

Congressman Mahon Is Busy Discussing Problems In City

Most of his time has been taken up with receiving delegations from various towns and counties who want to discuss their problems with him, said Congressman George Mahon, visiting Lubbock. He is staying at the Hilton hotel, where he is receiving visitors during the day.

"I will be here until Friday," he said. "There have been a number of delegations here to see me and more are coming."

Tuesday night, Mahon went to Abernathy to talk to a farm association meeting.

One of the delegations here was from Lamb county. Among the matters discussed was that of a postoffice for Littlefield. Mahon outlined the situation and said afterwards he "hoped Littlefield would soon get a postoffice building." He was unable to assure the delegation it yould come next year, since he did not know what treasury department plans were. Mahon said he would do all he could, since he thought, based on postal receipts, Littlefield ranked next to Brownfield.

"I was glad to see Brownfield get its building,' he said. "I think there are a number of towns in this district in line for a building. All of them are good towns and I am going to give each one the best help I possibly can. This area is growing and the people are entitled to better accommodations for their postoffices."

'Hot Oil' Ring Is Said Uncovered

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 14. — Jake Strickler, chief investigator for the state public safety commission, said today evidence of a "million-dollar hot oil racket" in the Oklahoma City field would be turned over to an Oklahoma county grand jury convention here in October.

"If this department can complete its investigation within the next two weeks we will give the grand jury something to make it gasp," Strickler said.

The investigator said he had assigned several men to trace "hot oil" shipments.

"Large amounts of stolen oil have been shipped to Texas in recent months," he said.

Strickler said the investigation had revealed that one ring has its headquarters "in a fine downtown office building."

"If we can prove that any one ring has transported as much as $5,000 worth of stolen oil out of the state we will turn the whole case over to the government," he declared.

Doomed Bull Puppy Is Given An Indefinite Reprieve

VICTORY, B. C., Sept. 14. (AP)—A Boston bull terrier puppy, sentenced to death for biting a boy has won an indefnite reprieve.

County Judge H. H. Shandley lifted the death sentence of a magistrate court, after hearing pleas by counsel for Douglas and Paul Ware, school-boy owners of the pup.

The little brown and white dog had been condemned for "unlawfully biting" Arthur Watson, 9. Defense testimony showed Arthur, hiding under a bear rug, grabbed the dog and was bitten when the animal became frightened.

Defense claimed the rug, on a warm day, smelled like a bear and that mayhap the dog thought it was a wild animal.

A Glimpse Of Silver Lining

AT far-away Woods Hole, Mass., roughly speaking more than 2,000 miles from the South Plains of Texas, there has recently been carried on an experiment which may mean much to us—as well as to all the peoples of the civilized world.

At Woods Hole, Dr. John H. Northrop of the Rockefeller Institute isolates from bacteria a protein which is capable of utterly destroying the germs from which it comes. It is thought by the discoverer to be the same bacteriophage, or eater of bacteria, which was found some years ago at Yale and was thought then to be a form of living thing, smaller than germs and preying upon them.

In a centrifuge, an instrument like a cream separator but whirling thousands of times faster, culture of germs from suppurative abscesses was placed by Dr. Northrop. The whirling separated from the germs a colorless, solid protein. When the germs from which it was taken were placed in this substance, they vanished from the sight of the most powerful microscope, its action being in the manner of the digestive agent, pepsin.

The Morning Avalanche has no means of guessing where such a discovery will land, and scientists of the Northrop standing are ever disposed to venture predictions. But any new knowledge of the nature of the foes of the physical man is supremely important. The obvious implications which may be read into the news from Woods Hole make a welcome shaft of light across the world's news pages, darkened today by accounts of man's inhumanity to man in so much of the world.

Britain's Opinion Of Us

IN this particular section of the country there is no widespread interest in the stock market. Yet when the market tumbled recently the average citizen wondered why and, in many instances, tried to find out why.

The war scare was to blame of course, for the New York market's being knocked on its beam. Yet the scare which resulted this nation over had no counterpart in England.

At the height of the excitement a New York broker telephoned frantically to a British connection to get the lowdown on the prospects of immediate war. The Englishman scoffed at such an alarmist idea, and said that no one in London was even mildly agitated about it and expressed surprise that New York stock traders would lose their heads so easily.

The New Yorker wasn't satisfied. "Don't try to kid me along," he begged. "Tell me, on the level, what is the real opinion over there?"

"Well," drawled the Briton, "if you really want to know, the real opinion is that Americans are just as crazy as ever!"

While the Briton's indictment was perhaps just in regard to the recent market slump, his statement of English public opinion was more encompassing than that.

We will do well to remember in our dealings with the Empire—especially in those dealings by which England hopes to use us as a cat's paw in the Chinese-Japanese rookus.

Perhaps John Bull will find we're not as crazy as he thinks!

With Our Contemporaries

"It is unfortunate that legitimate business must suffer along with the highbinders who do business with the people of the country. But to help eradicate the gentry who prey upon the unsuspecting it is a refreshing thing to see how the postoffice department is working on lines that are somewhat original, and certainly effective to keep fakers and racketeers from swindling lonely people in the remote places and out of touch with the world as it moves along," Homer Steen points out in the Floyd County Hesperian.

* * *

"The fact that Littlefield folks know we need a new postoffice building is all well and good, but all 'knowing', and no 'doing' just won't get the job done," John A. Price tells his audience in the County-Wide News.

* * *

"Cotton has dropped $1.50 a bale in face of fact that the government promises to lend nine cents a pound on this year's crop," W. J. Hale says in the Yoakum County Review.

Murder On The Bluff... By Esther Tyler

SYNOPSIS: Our wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts, opens with the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop. A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Then Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand, and the Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears. Sleeping powders nearly finish Aunt Martha. An appalling dinner leads to the discovery that Cook is "doped to the gills."

Chapter 36
TO FOOL THE KILLER

The whole question of M. Farrington's accident was thrown into a hopeless jumble. Higgins' extraordinary behavior with regard to the fingerprints on the revolver might be explained as nervousness. Cook might have used that gun from M. Farrington's doorway, left it in the hall, walked a few paces toward the servants' corridor, and turned, giving the appearance of having rushed out at the sound of the shot.

The fact that both the Skipper and Higgins offered the same alibi rather tended to sustantiate this theory. Could the Skipper, later on, have left M. Farrington alone with Cook, and might Cook have augmented the sleeping powder with a preparation of her own? Had Cook in some mysterious way lured the Skipper to whatever fate she had encountered?

It seemed rather senseless. Cook had been at the Bluff for several years without any such outbreak. What possible motive could she have for embarking on a career of wholesale slaughter? It was doubtful that she had even heard of Jude Blinshop before that weekend. She had certainly not recognized her assailant in the kitchen. To the best of our knowledge, she did not even know of the poor lunatic's presence in the house. How, then, would she have known that there was anyone concealed in Jude's room? And why would she bother to annihilate him, even if she had?

"Has William had any dinner, Annie?" said Michael suddenly.

"No, sir."

"Go tell him to get some now. Would you mind staying with Miss Farrington for a little while until one of us comes up?"

The alacrity with which Annie leapt at the suggestion was amazing. Whatever terror the house held for her was seemingly not increased by being left alone on the upper floor with the sick woman. She rushed up the stairs eagerly.

"It stands to reason," said Mike heavily, "that the house can't be full of homicidal maniacs."

Gay giggled. "If it comes to that, it stands to reason that all this can't have happened in your own house. Try again, Mike."

Michael sat up. "We have enough evidence to hang almost anyone in this house. That shows pretty good planning on someone's part. And offhand, I'd say on the part of the person against whom there's been no evidence."

"But there's been no evidence against me—" began Gay indignantly.

Michael eyed her coolly. "Precisely. And you have been the person who's so hot to have almost anybody confess. Does that suggest anything to anyone's mind?"

"Why—" Gay stared at him in blank amazement. "Why—Are you suggesting that I—"

The upward swing in her voice brought me to my feet.

"Of course he isn't!" I said loudly. "Now, I'm suggesting that we get down to business. William will be down in a minute. Why don't the three of us start now and go inch by inch over every bedroom in this house? We might find something helpful."

The Radio As A Blind

I think we would have been in for a spirited debate, but the sound of William's footsteps on the back stairs brought them to a quick decision.

"Let's," said Gay, simultaneously with Mike's grunted assent.

Silently we herded into the hall taking care that the kitchen door was not left swinging after us. One thing that none of us relished was the idea of William prowling through the deserted house on our trail—William, Higgins, or anyone else. At the foot of the main stairs Michael, finger to lips, beckoned us into the living room. We followed him on tiptoe and he closed the door softly after us.

"The radio," he whispered. "Turn it on for a blind."

I had forgotten that there was a radio at the Bluff. Why the dickens hadn't he thought of it during those unspeakable hours of waiting? Mike is not usually a person for details. I watched him in startled silence as he turned on the radio and most of the lights in the room with it.

"Wait," Gay whispered. "Help me move this davenport, Jim. Now the chair. That's it." Working rapidly she completed the setting of our little stage. The davenport was turned before the fire and a heavy chair drawn up beside it, so that both were turned from the hall and game-room doors. With the aid of a couple of steamer rugs and many pillows, Gay, swiftly constructed an amazing semblance of three people dozing before the fire.

I suppose we had all done that very thing a dozen times, but we watched it now with no anticipatory glee. We were in deadly earnest. I for one was thinking, "She's clever. She keeps her head and thinks of details. And she's the only one above suspicion. The only one!"

"There!" said Gay with finality. "Mike throw some logs on the fire. I think that will do."

Michael moved to obey her. "The only trouble is," he said, "that this will be a pretty obvious gag if anyone happens to look through the windows. And it would sound damned fishy in front of a jury."

I reflected that practically anything we could do in the way of fooling the murderer would be twisted against us later, if his cunning succeeded in involving us.

"We'll have to take some risks," said Gay; but she went back over her handiwork, creating a fair illusion of three people given to sleeping with their heads under blankets.

"Let's get going," said Michael.

At the door an unexpected problem presented itself. We no sooner stepped into the hall than a loud blast of swing music echoed through the entire house. William or anyone else would have to be deaf not to know that a door had been opened. I took a wild shot.

I said very loudly, "All the hall lights are on. Shall I douse them?"

Mike stepped back into the room. "No," he shouted, "leave them on!"

I closed the door after him with a careful bang. There was of course a very good chance that William had been watching us through the keyhole of either the library or the dining room door— or even through the crack of the door to the servants' hall. He could command a good two-thirds of the first floor from the kitchen without once coming into the hall. But there was no help for it, and none of the doors had moved.

Gay's Room First

At the foot of the stairs, we were confronted with another danger. Higgins and Annie, both supposedly upstairs, might have been watching the entire performance from the landing, and even if they had not, we were now apt to be detected. If they were both where they should have been, they were both very near the head of that staircase, Annie in M. Farrington's room, its doors not six feet from us—Higgins in his own room, its wall right beside us. If he were sitting in a chair, separated from us by a few inches of mere plater, the slightest sound would ruin the whole show.

There were a few things in our favor—such as the sturdiness of the old stairs, with never a creak in them, and the thickness of the carpet.

Facing the west end of the house, we were confronted by M. Farrington's room on the left with the Skipper's beyond it. On the right were Gay's room and Jude's. To the east my room and Mike's both faced the door to the servants' corridor. We didn't dare whisper. By some tacit agreement, we seemed to have decided that the person we sought was one of the four servants, and that observation by any one of them must be avoided above all things.

Michael pointed to Gay's door, and without hesitation I unlocked it. We crept in. Gay switched on the small light on the bed-stand. Her face was rather flushed, but for once she went through an ordeal without fireworks. She even waved us toward the suitcase, lying open on a stand.

Aside from clothes and the usual odds and ends, it contained three letters which, at a nod from Gay, I opened. They were from friends and in no way startling. We went through the dressing table, desk and bedstand, removing drawers and turning them upside down. Nothing.

We tore the bed apart and even felt under the mattress. Nothing. We went through her closet. Mike even looking through her shoes. I investigated coat linings and pockets. We lifted the rug. We leafed through all the books in the room. To save me, I couldn't think of anything else.

"Jude's room," I suggested reluctantly, the very thought of my latest experience in there turning me a little sick.

That business of rifling the possessions of a dead friend in sight of her lifeless body still remains one of the most unpleasant jobs of my life. I couldn't seem to shake off the idea that the person who had killed her might be one of the persons now rattling among her things. I couldn't drown the memory of that ghastly sight on the closet shelf and the still, sheeted figure that had not been Jude Blinshop.

I would have given anything to have thrown Gay and Mike bodily out of that room—and myself after them. But I went through with it.

We learn the secret of William's past, tomorrow.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CHAIRMAN John Hamilton will politely ignore Herbert Hoover's suggestion that he convene a mid-term convention of G.O.P. elders to draft a 1940 declaration of war on the New Deal. Almost every practical politician agrees with Mr. Hamilton that it would be a futile proceeding.

The G.O.P. is so hopelessly split, personally and politically, that such a powwow would only open new wounds. Messrs. Hoover and Landon are not on the friendliest of terms, and the Old Guard doesn't like either of them. There would be a battle for control from the fall of the gavel. Though the smartest G.O.P.-ers realize that they must accept and endorse some of Mr. Roosevelt's social and economic doctrines, to do so at this time would leave the party open to the charge that it was an opportunistic copycat. So the wisest policy seems to be sit back and do nothing or a while.

Mr. Hamilton will call a conference of the national committee in November. He will then take the party bull by the horns, and offer to resign in the interest of harmony. But present indications are that 90 per cent of the membership will ask the likable, red-headed boy from Kansas to hang on.

* * *

HELPFUL: Maritime Chairman Kennedy has not completed his preliminary survey of the nation's shipping needs, but you can bet your last landlubber dollar that he will NOT recommend elaborate expenditures for a merchant marine, despite his presidential and Congressional mandate.

Mr. Kennedy is keeping secret the names of his investigators, but it has not been difficult to follow their trails and talks. They have consulted officials of every government department interested in construction of ships for trade of national defense—navy, war, agriculture, commerce—and they have consistently talked down (and out) those departments' maximum requirements. Whereas the Navy needs several hundred vessels for transport, supplies, auxiliaries, tanker, etc., Mr. Kennedy's agents intend to recommend construction of fewer than fifty.

Green-Lewis labor fights on the waterfront will also be highlighted in the final report as an argument against an American merchant marine. The labor troubles discourage investment of private money in new ships, as Mr. Kennedy has discovered. So does the neutrality act, which would intern most American vessels when and if invoked. So it looks as if the United States will "stick close to the shore, boys," again pleasing 10 Downing Street.

* * *

POPULARITY: Several anti-Roosevelt senators in the court and wages-and-hours battle have been quietly slipping into the White House since the adjournment of Congress to find out how they stand with the "big boss."

The anti-New Dealers have discovered what almost every political observer worth his salt could have told them—namely, that the President has lost caste with the professional politicos and the upper middle class, but not with the masses. From all reports, they still look upon him as a President who has done more for—or to—the common man than any Chief Executive since Abraham Lincoln, whose politicos and and philosophy were based on the belief that God loved poor folk because he made so many of them.

Congressmen from nearby states—Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania—made a quick tour of their districts upon adjournment. They asked, in effect, "How is the President doing?" They learned, to their surprise, that he still holds the popular imagination. Which explains their haste to salaam at White House doors—and their frigid reception.

* * *

PUBLISHER: C.I.O. Chieftain John L. Lewis is debating a new scheme for advancing his industrial and political aims. Egged on by Charles Howard of the Typographical Union, he may start a chain of newspapers to headline his ambitious program for 1940.

Mr. Lewis has not concealed his prejudice against the American press; he believes that they have deliberately highlighted episodes damaging to his cause. He senses that he will have comparatively scant newspaper support if he launches a third-party movement in 1940. So he has tentatively framed a program for establishment of newspapers in Washington, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago and Cleveland.

The Lewis press—and this is significant—would be published in four states having almost 100 electoral votes. Union members would be required to buy, and thus he hopes to start with a paying circulation. Advertisers would face a C.I.O. boycott if they didn't come across. Under such circumstances Mr. Lewis would be a more important political personality three years hence than most people realize.

* * *

INCONSISTENCE: Some New Dealers don't practice what they preach politically. Publicly they exalt and enforce Mr. Roosevelt's industrial theories, but privately they behave like the maligned "economic royalists."

The National Labor Relations board, for instance, is charged with the enforcement of laws governing fair hours and decent wages. It has lugged into court scores of employers alleged to have violated federal standards. But one of the board's chief economists pays his maid only $8 a week, whereas the going wage in his section of the capital is from $10 to $12. He also requires her to labor 10 hours a day as against a local standard of 8 hours, including rest and do-nothing periods.

The maid hasn't cited him for breaking down the industrial system he upholds so valiantly as a public official. She simply weeps and works!

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

A SURVEY of the private sentiments of industrial and financial leaders reveals a marked change in their attitude towards the administration.

With surprising unanimity they express what might be called a sort of fatalism. They have become completely convinced of two things. One is that there is no hope whatever of reaching a basis of amicable understanding with President Roosevelt. The other is that there is no use trying to outargue him in the arena of public favor. They feel that any further effort on their part to undermine his established popularity would be futile or worse.

So what? So the prescription is to sit tight, postpone the launching of new enterprises and plans for business expansion, keep a large proportion of assets in liquid form—and await the "inevitable crash." The "crash" is predicted on the basis of the administration's fiscal policies and is looked for in from two to three years. It is figured that nothing short of another economic collapse will turn the people against Roosevelt. The impression is clearly conveyed in some quarters that such a calamity would not be unwelcome as the only way to get rid of "New Dealism" permanently.

* * *

ASPIRES: Informed New Yorkers are keeping an eye on Joe Kennedy. The head of the maritime Commission is up to his ears in labor complications and hasn't yet figured out what course to pursue. But there's a chance that he may make history in the relations between government and labor.

Mr. Kennedy has been urged by some of his New York friends to assert himself and tell the squabbling unionists where to get off. There are signs that his personal inclinations lie in that direction. But whether he does so will probably depend on his obtaining at least tacit consent from the White House.

Sources in a position to know say that Joe still aspires to a cabinet post—in which case it wouldn't be exactly smart to stick out of his neck without presidential approval.

Funeral Rites For Guy C. Raley To Be Held In Wichita Today

Funeral services for Guy C. Raley, 53, former Wichita county tax assessor for eight years who was killed in an automobile accident near Wichita Falls Monday, will be held at First Methodist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock, according to a telegram Tuesday from J. A. Raley, jr., his brother, of 2219 Foutreenth street, Lubbock.

Original plans were to hold the services Tuesday.

The accident occurred, reports said, when the car driven by Raley hit soft dirt on the pavement shoulder and swerved into a culvert, overturning. A hitch-hiker in the car at the time was thrown clear and uninjured.

Reports from Wichita Falls late Tuesday said that Mrs. Raley, who suffered a heart attack when advised of the accident, still was under the care of a physician.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 57

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Until the helmet is found, we're all under suspicion," said Jane; "so we women will search the men's quarters, and vice versa." But Alexis followed Jane. "I don't want to see Kitty now," he pleaded; "I want to remember her as when I last saw her—alive."

So the prince was permitted to join the women in their search. There was really no place to look except under the pile of grasses where the men had slept. Annette was poking under Brown's bed when her hand came in contact with something cold and hard.

With a shudder she withdrew her hand. She thought quickly, then said calmly, "There's nothing here." "I don't find anything either," Jane declared. "Nor I," said Alexis, "but perhaps Annette didn't search Brown's bed carefully. Let me have a look."

STOCKS TAKE JUMP

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. (AP) — Rallying juice was turned on the stock market today and recently slumping leaders vaulted forward 1 to 5 points generally and a few jumped as much as 15c.

It was the best recovery since the start of the downturn and was attributed mainly to the belief of trading forces that the list had been greatly "oversold," that possible business dullness this fall had been more than discounted and that, even if the main stock trend pointed lower, a temporary rebound at least was past due.

There were no particularly inspiring news from either domestic or foreign sectors, although the tenseness of far eastern and Mediterranean affairs was stressed by the president's calling of a special cabinet meeting to discuss these situations.

Prices tilted upward at the start, met sufficient offerings to put the brakes on for a while, then ran into buying power that for a time put the ticker tape 2 minutes behind floor dealings. Afternoon, though, the pace slowed to a crawl and extreme advances were cut down in many instances before the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues retrieved 1.8 points of its previous setback at 59.5. Transfers totalled 1,508,450 shares compared with 2,561,820 yesterday when the move was definitely on the retreat.

U. S. government bonds were given an upward shove and selected rails and industrial loans were in demand at sizable gains.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14. (AP) — After advancing moderately on a fair trading demand cotton prices reacted later today and lost practically all the early gain. The close was steady at net advances of 1 to 5 points.

Trade buying and profit-taking by shorts composed most of the demand and a little buying was attributed to the belief that tomorrow's official weekly weather and crop summary would be more unfavorable than otherwise.

There was considerable talk in trade circles about the recent rains in the eastern and central sections of the growing region. Some traders took the view that the prolonged spell of dry weather may result in the lowering of the grade and staple of the crop in the effected areas.

A rally in stocks aided the advance before mid-session but the subsqunt decline carried prices almost to the lows. October closed at 8.84, Dec. at 8.89@8.90; Jan. 8.93, March 9.00; May 9.10 and July 9.17. October, 1938, made its first appearance of the season on the job or 50-bale board here, selling at 9.32.

Spots were steady and unchanged with middling at 8.88.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. (AP)—The decline in cotton was halted today but moderate rallies on foreign buying were not fully maintained. After December had recovered from 8.76@8.90, it closed at 8.81, with final prices 3 to 7 points net higher.

The market opened 2 points lower to 2 higher in fairly active trading with foreign and domestic trade price-fixing absorbing southern selling. Some commission house buying developed in sympathy with the steadier tone of the stock market and owing to what was regarded as a more attractive price as near months sold close to 8¾ cents. Short covering also added to the demand. Buyers became more cautious on the rally, however, and prices later became responsive to moderate offerings.

The census bureau report on August domestic consumption of 604,380 bales compared with 583,066 in July and 575,614 in August last year. The figures had no apparent immediate market influence.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.76 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 9.61 cents a pound.

Organization Meeting Of FFA Is Conducted Tuesday Night

Organization meeting of the Lubbock chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held Tuesday night in the vocational agricultural rooms of the Junior High school, said R. L. Burdette, chapter advisor and vocational agricultural instructor for the public schools here.

Approximately 65 boys from the junior and senior high schools attended. Arnold Cogburn was selected chapter president. Other officers elected were: Weldon Morgan, vice-president; Glenn Lattimore, secretary; Robert Warden, reporter; Howard Gregory, treasurer; and Keith Black, watchdog.

Tilmon Cobb, president of the organization last year, spoke briefly, summarizing last year's work and pointing out the chapter was one of the outstanding ones of the state. He also predicted an unusually active year for the organization.

Grains..

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 14. (AP)—Sudden right-about-face action of European importers, resulting in huge purchases of north American grain, helped whirl wheat up 3 cents a bushel today.

A total of more than 3,000,000 bushels, of which 2,000,000 bushels was wheat from Canada principally destined for Great Britain, is estimated to have been bought thus for overseas. The 1,000,000 bushels and upwards that was in addition to Canadian wheat consisted of 750,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat, part of it afloat and part to go from the Gulf of Mexico, as well as a quantity of Pacific coast domestic white wheat, 200,000 bushels of United States rye, and 100,000 bushels of Canadian barley.

Heretofore of late, European wheat buying has been chiefly from Russian sources. Unexpected wheat price jumps today in Liverpool, about 5½ cents higher than looked for, were attributed largely to nervousness regarding scantiness of near-by supplies of breadstuffs, a circumstances influenced a good deal by advances of ocean freight rates.

Selling to realize profits caused reactions from the day's top level, and at the close Chicago wheat futures were 1⅞ to 2¼ cents above yesterday's finish, Sept. $1.03½, Dec. $1.04⅞@1.05, May $1.06⅞@1.07⅛, corn ½ to 1⅛ up, Sept. $1.03¾@1.04, Dec. 63½@63⅝, May 64⅞@65, oats ½ to ⅝ advanced, Dec. 30¼@30⅜, and rye showing ¾ to 1¼ bulge, Dec. 77⅜. The outcome in provisions was unchanged to 15 cents dearer.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Sept. 14. (AP)—Demand continued fair on the cash grain market here today. Estimated receipts were: wheat 22 cars, corn 6, and sorghums 1.

Wheat No. 1 soft red winter 1.15@1.16; No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing 1.15½@1.18.

Committees To Set Goals

County and farm AAA committees would be given authority to establish the goals for individual farms.

The farm leaders called into conference here included more than 100 state AAA officers, state agricultural committeemen and others. The men from the states reported that recent declines in crop prices were leading more and more farmers to desire production controls.

Technically, today's conference was called to outline the 1938 farm program under the present soil conservation act however, this act lacks drastic crop controls wanted by the administration, and congress has promised to take up a new farm act early in its next session.

First Fair Goodwill Trip To Be Made Thursday

Westerner Band To Give Music

Enough reservations were made Tuesday to insure the success of each of the three good will trips, the first of which is scheduled Thursday, to be made in advance of the Panhandle-South Plains fair Sept. 27 through Oct. 2, according to information given by Chas. A. Whitacre, chairman of the chamber of commerce Good Neighbor committee.

Members of the good will party are to leave at 7:15 o'clock Thursday morning on their first jaunt which is to take them to points south and southwest of Lubbock. Other trips, which in the aggregate will include most of the Lubbock trade territory, are scheduled Sept. 21 and Sept. 23.

Trips this year, chamber of commerce officials said, with feature "quality rather than quantity." The traveling parties will not be as numerous as some of the trips of the past, but they will be representative of the type of Lubbock citizenship which will be host to visitors during the fair.

Reservations today will determine whether two or three buses will be necessary to take the group on the journey. One bus will be for selected members of Senior High school band. One or two others will be chartered for business men who make the trip.

As the reservation list stood last night, reports said, only a few spaces were left on the first bus for the first trip. The one question remaining was whether today's additions would necessitate a second bus. For the second trip, at least two buses will be required and the same probably will be true for the third.

Indications were that the good willers will find an especially warm welcome waiting them among school pupils, because they are to be recipients of attractive souvenirs. A shipment of 15,000 one-foot rulers in varying colors arrived Tuesday and will be distributed to the children. In addition, the pupils are to receive free tickets and an especial invitation to be at the fair on "School day" on Sept. 29.

Whitacre urged that those planning to be represented call the chamber of commerce without delay for reservations.

Members of the party will leave from the city hall at 7:15 a. m. Thursday and will visit Slaton, Southland, Post, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Seminole, Seagraves, Brownfield, Meadow, and Ropesville before their return at 6 p. m.

Nervousness, Indigestion, and Bloating Eliminated By New Remedy. Kidneys Regulated Too, Gly-Cas Is Truly Dependable

"Gly-Cas has accomplished more for me than all the other remedies I have used put together," said Mr. J. L. Ragsdale, 114 Eddy St., Hot Springs, Arkansas. "Constipation had allowed my system to accumulate poisons which were causing other ailments to develop. My stomach became disordered and gas, bloating and indigestion were only portions of the discomfort I was forced to endure. I became terribly nervous and to add to my discomfort I was annoyed by endless night risings. Everything failed miserably to relieve my condition. I felt tired and worn-out all the time and did not know where to turn next. Then Gly-Cas was recommended and I decided to give it a trial on my stubborn case.

"Gly-Cas' action really amazed me—it was so quick and effective from the very beginning," continued Mr. Ragsdale. "My stomach and bowels were regulated almost at once and my kidneys began to function in the proper manner. I can now eat the foods I wish with no fear of the distressing after effects and my nerves have been wonderfully quieted. Too much cannot be said for a remedy with the proven merit of this wonderful new Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

"Outranked in quantity only by three or four national exhibitions, the livestock show at The Tri-State Fair again this year will feature the Hereford department with the cooperation of the American Hereford association, which posts one dollar for every two dollars put up by the exposition for cash premiums.

"Approxinately $5,000 in cash premiums, all guaranteed for payment in full, will be offered this year to Hereford breeders alone.

"Competition in the Hereford division is open to the world, but all animals to be eligible must be registered, the exhibitor being required to file the name and herd book number of each entry.

"Manager of the Burk Burnett ranch, the 6666, and considered one of the best judges in the United States, John Burns of Fort Worth will officiate at The Tri-State Fair's Hereford show."
