Second kidnap suspect nabbed

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — James Schoenfeld, the second of three suspects sought in the Chowchilla bus kidnap, was captured without a struggle today after he was spotted driving a van on a freeway south of San Francisco.

At the moment he was captured, Schoenfeld's brother, Richard, 22, was being taken from the Alameda County jail at Oakland for a three-hour drive to Chowchilla for arraignment in the bizarre abduction of 26 children and their bus driver.

One suspect in the July 15 kidnaping remains at large. He is Frederick N. Woods IV, 24, whose father owns the quarry in Livermore where the children and the bus driver were imprisoned in a van for 18 hours before they dug their way out.

James Schoenfeld was booked at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City on kidnap and unlawful flight charges, officials said.

Both Schoenfelds and Woods were charged in a warrant issued last week with 27 counts of kidnaping and 16 counts of robbery. The robbery charges stem from the taking of clothes and other items from the kidnap victims.

After a week-long odyssey in which he was reported seen in several areas of the Pacific Northwest, James Schoenfeld, 24, was seen Wednesday night by "someone who knew him" as he drove an Idaho-licensed van through Menlo Park, a San Francisco Peninsula community only a few miles from his home.

An all-points bulletin was issued and the search continued through the night.

According to early reports, James Schoenfeld was spied again by police at Mountain View at about dawn on U.S. 101, a major north-south freeway. Schoenfeld turned off the highway into Menlo Park where he was captured at about 6:55 a.m. just off the freeway by San Mateo County deputies and officers from the Menlo Park and Redwood City police departments.

FBI agents then reportedly took him to the San Mateo County jail in Redwood City. The van, which had been purchased at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, was found to contain camping gear, toilet articles, old clothes and sleeping bags.

There was no immediate word on whether the van contained any weapons.

Authorities, meanwhile, transported Richard Schoenfeld to his arraignment in Chowchilla. He was being driven here from the Alameda County jail in Oakland for a formal reading of the charges before Judge Howard C. Green, who set bail at $1 million when the younger Schoenfeld brother surrendered last Friday.

Immediately after the arraignment, authorities planned to fly Richard Schoenfeld back to Oakland, 175 miles north of here, where he has been held in a hospital cell for observation.

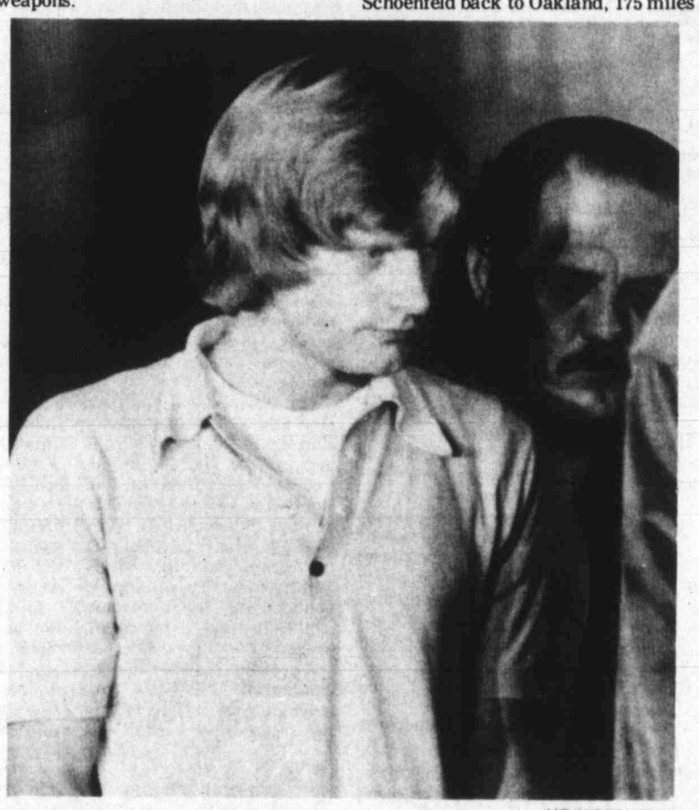

Richard Schoenfeld's lawyer, William Gagen, said his client will plead innocent to the 43 counts pending against him.

His lawyers have said they plan to ask for a reduction of bail and a change of venue to get the trial moved out of the county where the kidnaping occurred.

With emotions running high in the small farming community since the kidnaping, Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said police officers will be stationed on rooftops along the two blocks of Chowchilla's main street during the arraignment.

Burleson votes no on sunshine bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both chambers of Congress now have passed "sunshine" bills that require federal agencies to open their meetings to the public, but differences remain to be ironed out in conference.

The House approved its "sunshine" bill Wednesday by a lopsided vote of 390 to 5. mFour of the negative votes were cast by Texans: Democrats Omar Burleson, W. R. Poage and Olin Teague, and Republican Jim Collins. The fifth was cast by Alabama Republican William Dickinson.

The measure also requires federal agencies to avoid private communications intended to influence decisions.

The Senate passed a similar bill last November.

The House bill applies to about 50 boards and commissions, including the Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Communications Commission, Federal Reserve Board and Federal Power Commission.

The agencies could vote to close their meetings only when certain sensitive types of information were under discussion.

These would include defense and foreign policy matters, internal personnel affairs, private commercial information, criminal and other law enforcement topics, and matters that would amount to invasion of an individual's privacy if aired publicly.

Even when a meeting was closed, minutes would have to be kept so courts, if asked, could review the decision to close the session and possibly order some or all of the information released.

Viking incubates first soil example

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The first sampling of Martian soil is in the Viking lander, nourished by light, water vapor and "chicken soup" as scientists search for life on the Red Planet.

When the robot lander's arm dug the sample and deposited it in three chambers Wednesday, it represented the first time that earthlings began to analyze substances on another planet for life.

The experiments will take weeks, and answers are not expected soon. But scientists displayed immediate joy that the project was underway.

Until a pin that had jammed the robot arm was dislodged last weekend, there had been doubt that Viking could pick up the dirt.

"I'm delighted — ecstatic. I can't tell you how thrilled I am," said Dr. Gerald Soffen, a scientist.

One piece of bad news intruded: An instrument to search for molecular "building blocks" of life signaled it did not get a sample of soil.

Engineers said it may have been a false signal, or Viking's extended digging arm may have come up empty when it tried to collect the soil sample for the instrument.

Called a gas chromatograph mass spectrometer (GCMS), it is designed to search for organic compounds. It could check the results of biology experiments, and it might be able to find signs of life that once existed on Mars even if such life failed to survive.

"I'm not at all happy to hear that word about the GCMS," said Dr. Fred Brown, a biologist.

Officials said they would order Viking to photograph the soil-receiving funnel Friday to see if dirt was placed in it.

Ford grabs delegate edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford grabbed an edge in the fight over Mississippi's uncommitted delegates as he and challenger Ronald Reagan turned their attention today to Pennsylvania, now the other major battleground in the contest for the GOP nomination.

Ford picked up the endorsement of Clarke Reed on Wednesday, robbing Reagan of the influential Mississippi state chairman's backing in the struggle for the state's votes, the largest uncommitted group headed for the Kansas City convention.

With Ford now having 1,097 votes in The Associated Press delegate survey, Mississippi's 30 votes could put him within reach of the 1,130 total needed for the nomination. Reagan now has 1,023 votes, with 139 delegates uncommitted.

Reed said in a statement released in Jackson, Miss., that he defected because Reagan picked Pennsylvania Sen. Richard Schweiker, a liberal, as his running mate.

"I believe having this kind of vice president is too big a price to pay for the nomination," Reed said.

He said Ford promised him he would pick a running mate who would be "philosophically compatible with himself and the mainstream of the Republican party."

Even before Reed's statement, Ford and Reagan backers in Mississippi said the President was picking up strength among the delegates, who had long been considered to heavily favor Reagan.

Although Reed said he was not going to ask other delegates to follow his lead, his defection could give Ford a majority of the delegation's votes, enough to control all 30 ballots under a unit rule.

As the Schweiker choice was cutting into Reagan's Southern backing, Schweiker himself sought to turn his alliance with the former California governor into a plus for Reagan.

He prepared to talk to the 103-member Pennsylvania delegation at a Capitol meeting late today to try to swing votes to Reagan.

After meeting with Schweiker, the delegation was scheduled to go to the White House to meet with Ford, who now holds a 70 to 6 edge in the delegation, with 27 delegates undecided.

Reagan said from his Santa Barbara, Calif., ranch, that Reed earlier had pledged to support him.

"I was disappointed that Clarke won't keep his longtime personal commitment," the former California governor said.

As the GOP nomination fight heated up, Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter received a 5½-hour briefing from CIA Director George Bush on Wednesday. Bush said the briefing went into a "great deal of detail" on top-secret intelligence matters.

Reed said he would vote for Ford in the Mississippi caucus in Kansas City. Traditionally, the state's delegation has gone to the convention uncommitted and then voted as a bloc, following the wishes of the majority of the delegation.

Environmental impact statement date 'Hazy'

The environmental impact statement on the future of Webb Air Force Base will not be ready for release until mid-August at the earliest, a Pentagon spokesman said in Washington Thursday morning.

The spokesman said that there had been no change in the status of the report, and he expected that nothing could be released until at least the middle of next month.

He could give no reason for the delay.

The statement will contain information on what impact the proposed closing of Webb AFB would have on this area and what the alternatives might be. It will be followed 45 days later by a public hearing in Big Spring before a final decision on the future of Webb will be made.

The release of the statement has been postponed three times since the Air Force announced on March 11 that Webb was a candidate to be closed.

FREE AS A BIRD — Vicky Dominquez, 18, and her sister Angie, seven, of 500 Austin St., watch as their "pet" sparrow "Cherpee" flys around the room for the photographer. The Dominquez family acquired the bird when it was very small, and have raised it to maturity. When they first tried to release "Cherpee," he came back. And now, the bird will go outside, mingle with the other birds, and then respond to a whistle by one of the family and come back to sit on the shoulders of his human friends.

China quake losses 'extremely serious'

TOKYO (AP) — The major earthquakes that rocked a heavily populated industrial area of northeast China may have virtually wiped out the big city of Tangshan, according to reports from witnesses today.

The press here carried accounts from Japanese technicians who were injured when their Tangshan hotel collapsed in the first and most severe quake Wednesday. "Most buildings in our sight collapsed," said one of the survivors.

The reports, from Peking, also said a 23-member French friendship delegation that returned to Peking from Tangshan Wednesday night gave the impression that the city of one million people was devastated.

The Chinese Communist party said today there were "great losses" of life and property in the hardest-hit areas east and southeast of Peking. Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, reported "exremely serious damage and losses" in Tangshan, which is about 80 miles southeast of the capital.

Aftershocks were reported continuing.

Hsinhua said the first quake was centered in the Tangshan-Fengnan area and "comparatively strong shocks" were felt in Peking and Tientsin, China's third largest city with a population of 4.3 million.

"Since the quake was not predicted in advance, it is believed that many of the residents of Tangshan did not have time to escape," the Peking office of Kyodo, the Japanese news agency, reported.

Kyodo said damage in Peking "has been held to the minimum" but "damage of considerable scope is reported in Tientsin."

Former Prime Minister Gough Whitlam of Australia, who was in Tientsin when the first quake hit, said most modern structures withstood the shock, but older buildings "collapsed completely." He said the first tremor was followed by "very large explosions on the horizon" and many aftershocks.

House votes to reprimand Rep. Sikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted overwhelmingly today to reprimand a subcommittee chairman, Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, on two counts of financial misconduct.

It was the House's first punishment of a member since 1969 when it fined Harlem Democrat Adam Clayton Powell and stripped him of seniority.

There were only three speakers in the debate before the reprimand against Sikes, a Florida Democrat.

One of the speakers, Rep. Andrew McGuire, D-N.J., said the House ethics committee should have recommended a stiffer punishment than censure. He said members should consider whether to take away Sikes' chairmanship of the House military construction appropriations subcommittee next year.

Q. How can the Howard College board of trustees justify a raise for the college president when three secretary positions were cut out recently?

A. The two incidents were not related, according to a spokesman for the board. Dr. Charles Hays was granted a raise because of his "ability, dedication and prestige that he has gained for the college through work on the campus and at a state and national level through junior college programs." The increase would not have even paid the salary of one secretary. The three secretarial positions were cut out because they were found to be unnecessary in the functions of the administration and various departments because some secretarial duties were overlapping.

Calendar: Junior rodeo

TODAY

The Howard County Junior Rodeo will start at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Rodeo Bowl.

The Howard County Library will screen three free films from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. To be shown are "Solo," depicting the beauty and excitement of mountain climbing, "Chicks and Chickens," life on a chicken farm, and "Ben and Me," the story of Ben Franklin and a mouse.

Downtown Lions board members will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Little Rock at Midland, pro baseball, 7:45 p.m.

FRIDAY

Midland Community Theater presents "Summer Mummers," 8 p.m.

Fourth annual Area Relations breakfast will get under way in Forest Park Community Center at Lamesa at 7 a.m. Friday.

Jean Schumacher associate counselor of Field Services for Texas Women's University will be at Howard College, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. to give information on health careers.

Offbeat: Dog gone dog done it

SAUK CENTRE, Minn. (AP) — When Chuck Anderson's car smashed into a tree here, the only occupant escaped with just a cut over one eye — and no damage at all to its tail.

The Stearns County sheriff's office said Anderson, of Sauk Centre, had left his dog alone in the car for a few minutes with the motor running.

The dog apparently bumped the shift selector, throwing the car into gear. It lurched forward into a tree.

Damage to the car was estimated at $400.

Best bet on TV: White whale, Olympics

The Olympics continue. In an NBC Special at 7:00 o'clock "Magnificent Monsters of The Deep," Orson Welles narrates a nature special featuring a close-up look at the rare southern white whale, and tells the story of zoologist Roger Payne's sojourn to the bleak, windswept coast of the Patagonian Argentine.

MoPac income sets record

ST. LOUIS — Mr. D. R. Jenks, chairman of the board of Missouri Pacific Corporation, has announced that the corporation had achieved record financial results for the first half of 1976. Consolidated net income for the six months ended June 30, 1976, was $28,637,000. Earnings per share were $2.87 primary and $2.53 fully diluted. This represents a 47.3 per cent increase over the first half 1975 earnings of $19,439,000, or $2.09 per share primary and $1.98 fully diluted. Consolidated revenues for the first six months were $619,376,000 compared to $544,784,000 in the first half of 1975.

Second quarter consolidated 1976 results were as follows: net income, $16,219,000; earnings per share, $1.56 primary and $1.39 fully diluted; revenues, $303,232,000. The comparable 1975 figures were: net income, $11,789,000; earnings per share, $1.27 primary and $1.19 fully diluted; revenues, $259,321,000.

The regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents per share was paid in June on the corporation's common stock.

First half net income of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, a 92 per cent owned subsidiary, was $29,921,000, compared to $14,016,000 earned in the first six months of 1975. Operating revenues for the period were $500,070,000 against $427,847,000 for the first half of 1975.

Net income of the natural gas pipeline subsidiary for the first six months was $5,012,000 as compared to $5,304,000 in the 1975 period. Total revenues were $104,499,000 compared to $103,278,000 in the comparable 1975 period.

Net income from cement operations for the first half was $1,762,000, as compared to $1,936,000 for the same period in 1975. Cement sales were $15,091,000 against $14,123,000 in the first half of 1975.

Missouri Pacific is the parent company of Texas and Pacific, which operates through Big Spring.

Big Spring master plan funded

Slack hints tax hike

By MARJ CARPENTER

Education and highways were among the topics that must be considered at the next session of the legislature, according to State Rep. R. C. Slack of Pecos, speaker pro-tem of the House.

Slack spoke at the general membership meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council at noon Wednesday in Fort Stockton. It attended by representatives of county and city governments throughout the area, including 10 persons from Big Spring.

"We changed the method of allocating public state school funds last session, trying to take the burden off the poorer school districts. It did not work out that way, and we must now completely re-evaluate the ad valorum tax structure," Slack told the group that represented 22 different governmental groups in the area.

"Our highway department, which has done a fantastic job of constructing good highways using much less funds than most states spend for poorer results, must have more funds due to inflation. There is the possibility that this may have to come from a gasoline tax one cent increase," Slack added.

The legislator also discussed need for the lawmakers to eye such things as malpractice insurance, and the energy crisis. He pointed out that there needed to be a way found to encourage exploration in the oil industry.

Slack commended the Permian Basin Planning Council and Ernie Crawford, executive director. "There are 280 agencies, just in Austin, and Lord knows how many in Washington. Communities have a better chance if they cooperate within an area. Competition between towns is fine on the football field, but not when seeking governmental grants."

Dr. M. C. Gallaway of Odessa was the second speaker, talking about the Health Systems Agency. He pointed out that their ideal goal would be for "everyone to have sufficient health care, at as low an expense as possible, and live to be 130 years old."

Dr. Gallaway outlined the 10 main goals of a health systems agency and stressed its importance.

Odessa will be the site of the semi-annual membership meeting in January, with the invitation extended by Councilman Willie Hammond.

Judge Darrell Glover of Pecos presided in the absence of Harold Hall of Big Spring, who was in Fort Worth on business.

The board of directors met after the general meeting and approved a request for $10,000 from the state to update the City of Big Spring's master plan, which was made originally in 1959 and has never been updated.

They also approved $3,000 for cost of living increases in the Big Spring Independent School District's Head Start program and a Midland-Odessa regional transportation study.

Charles Tompkins of Big Spring city council, represented Hall at the board meeting and County Judge Bill Tune represented Howard County. Among the area judges present was Judge Jimmy Mathis from Stanton.

Attending the meeting from the City of Big Spring were Ralph McLaughlin, councilman; Jerry Foresyth, assistant city manager; Stanley Bogard, police chief; Alvie Harrison, fire chief; Paul Feazelle, administrative assistant; Tom Ferguson, finance director; J. D. Carter, police detective and Tompkings. Judge Tune and Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, represented the county.

Thefts suspect

Dennis Harold, charged with theft in Lubbock, also is accused of theft here, Bill Whitton, chief deputy sheriff, said.

Harold is accused here of taking a $750 check belonging to Slater James June 1.

Century Club okays budget of $11,000; trip delayed

The executive committee of the Century Club approved a budget of just over $11,000 for the coming year at a Wednesday meeting.

The committee, chaired by Adolph Swartz, okayed an increase in expenditures over the previous year of about $1,000.

The Century Club is comprised of about 100 Big Spring members whose goal is to support Webb Air Force Base.

The two main Century Club committees which will be spending this money are:

—Public Relations and Hospitality, headed by Jimmy Taylor, has the purpose of hospitality-type functions between the community and Webb. This budget was increased $7,650 and will include two additional functions in this year.

—Legislative Affairs Committee, chaired by Mayor Wade Choate, works on political problems important to Webb. The budget for the coming year is $3,500.

Also discussed at the meeting was the possible need for another trip by a Big Spring delegation to Washington, D.C.

The Legislative Affairs Committee had talked about a group going back to the nation's capital next week, but Thursday the planned trip was postponed at least two weeks after committee members talked with Texas' congressmen and senators.

Deaths

Guy Weekes

LAMESA — Last rites for Guy Weekes, 77, one-time mayor of Lamesa, will be said at 2 p.m. Friday in the First Christian Church here with the Rev. Paul Land, pastor, officiating.

Court blocking gas ceiling hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals is blocking a $1.5-billion a year increase in natural gas price ceilings while opponents seek to cancel the new ceilings.

The court issued an order Wednesday to temporarily stop the higher rate ceilings approved on Tuesday by the Federal Power Commission. Opponents said the new rate ceilings are so close to rates charged for unregulated intrastate gas that they amount to an FPC attempt to abandon its legal responsibility to regulate interstate prices.

A coalition of 16 petitioners challenged the FPC rate ceilings Wednesday, asking the appellate court to prevent collection of higher rates until the court hears the case. The order granting a delay did not say if the appeals court would accept the case for review.

Issued by Judges Charles Fahy and Spottswood Robinson III, the order imposed an immediate stay of the increase "until further order."

Opponents of the higher FPCapproved rate ceiling said they also were asking the FPC to reconsider its decision approving the boost.

As approved by the FPC, the new rate ceiling would allow interstate natural gas pipelines tt double and triple the previous price ceiling on new natural gas supplies sold by producers to the pipelines.

The FPC said this would mean the average residential customer would pay about $15.60 more per year for natural gas, an increase of about 6 per cent. The FPC said the actual amount would depend on where in the country the customer lives. For instance, a customer in Florida might face a yearly increase of about $5.20 a year, but one in Ohio, where winters are colder, would see his bill boosted by some $23.14.

The petitioners in the court case said it would take the FPC at least 60 days — probably longer — to review their request. They argued that without a court order blocking the new price ceilings, the higher rates would cost consumers at least $367 million during the appeal.

They said there is virtually no chance consumers could get a refund if the FPC or the courts eventually overturn the price increase.

The petition urging the court to block the new rates claimed the increases eventually will be ruled illegal by the courts.

The FPC has maintained a price ceiling of 52 cents per thousand cubic feet on gas brought into the interstate market since Jan. 1, 1973. At the same time, unregulated gas sold in intrastate markets recently has commanded an average of $1.55 per thousand cubic feet.

To make interstate pipelines more competitive for available gas supplies, the FPC authorized a new national price ceiling of $1.42 per thousand cubic feet in Tuesday's decision, with additional increases of one cent every three months.

Police beat

Two rifles vanish

Margarito Olague Yanez, 506 N. Runnels, told local police that burglars entered his home and stole a semi-automatic 22 caliber rifle valued at $89, a bolt-action 22 caliber rifle, valued at $75, and a scope valued at $15.

Officer Gene Denton investigated the incident. He found no forced entry into the residence.

Luven Flores, of the Pastime Lounge, 511 W. 3rd, notified lawmen that persons unknown broke a hole through the rear door and lifted off the crossbar bracing it, to gain entry to the establishment.

One case of beer valued at $5.50 was taken, and change was taken from the pool table, cigarette machine and juke box. All machines sustained damage.

The Homer Ward residence, 1411 E. 19th, was the scene of a theft by nature loving crime-merchants.

Taken from the back patio of the Ward home was a 10 inch by 8 inch brown ceramic pot with an airplane plant in it, valued at $25, a white trotline macrame hanger with two small potted plants, valued at $17.50, and a bright red yard pot hanger with another airplane plant, valued at $10.

Police arrested a man at the vacant lot of 106 S. Scurry Wednesday, and charged him with indecent exposure and public intoxication.

Big Spring firemen were called to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., 408 Runnels, at 5:25 this morning in response to a blaze that hit the stockrooms in the southwest corner of the building.

A fire official stated that the cause of the fire was unknown at this time, pending investigation by the fire marshall.

"Quite a few parts and supplies were lost," said one spokesman.

Two trucks, one pumper and one booster, were used in the fight, and firemen left the scene at 7:35 a.m.

Officers Jimmy Wallace, Jerry Pruitt, George Quintero, Gene Denton and Frank Costabile were again kept busy over the last 24-hour period, as Big Spring residents insisted on bumping and bending their cars together.

— 1301 Gregg was the scene of a minor accident between cars driven by Emma Tucker Slaughter, 1305 Gregg, and Emily Marshall Wasson, 1202 Yale.

— Cars driven by Jay R. Shaw, Rt. 1, box 6174, and Linda C. Mason, 2211 Lynn, also collided.

— At the corner of 3rd and Young, Nathan Joel Poss, 704 Matthews, was in minor collision with a telephone pole.

— Cars driven by Henry Edward Spradin, 426 Worchester Way, Richardson, and Lowell Troy Powell, Box 311, Paducah, mixed it up at the corner of Gregg and Edwards.

— Jerry Wayne Mason, 1807 State, and Reva Stewart Piper, 17 November Dr., fender-bended at 1008 E. 3rd.

— Vehicles belonging to Kay Thomas Barber, 4403 Connally, and Billie Joe Wittenbach, 3915 Avondale, Midland, also collided on city street.

Clyde paper purchased

CLYDE — The Clyde Journal, a weekly newspaper, has been purchased by an 18-year veteran of the Abilene Reporter-News news staff, Don Tabor.

Tabor, 40, will begin operation of the Journal Monday. He was a 1958 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University.

Tabor purchased the Clyde paper from Steve Lanham of Abilene, who also owns the Merkel Mail.

Ochotorena tried at judge's academy

Judges were "tried" and tested at the week-long Citizen Judges' Academy at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo., Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena Jr. said.

Ochotorena was one of 36 non-attorney judges participating in the course, which included mock trials.

Law students acted as participants in the trials presided over by the "citizen judges." The future attorneys acted disruptive, abusive and inappropriately to test the judge's ability to maintain order during the hearing.

Lawyers and psychologists critiqued the judges after the dramatized trials.

And the judges watched each other's performances on video tape later.

In other sessions, the magistrates studied implications of the Fourth Amendment on "search and seizure" and the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution on "due process."

Charles Moylan, an associate judge on the Maryland Court of Special Appeals, instructed some classes and was described as a leading legal authority.

The training was the first of its kind, Ochotorena said.

Those completing the first week may return for another two-week school this fall and a concluding week later.

RENOIR, RAMIREZ, WYETH AND STEPHENSON — Library staff members Connie Ramirez (left) and Jan Stephenson exhibit prints of Renoir, Andrew Wyeth, Van Gogh and other masters which will be sold at the Howard County Library. Art prints will be sold for 20 per cent less than list price Friday and Saturday librarian Susan Conley said. Proceeds will be used by the Friends of the Library to purchase additional paintings for the circulating collection. The sculptured animal (far right) of papier-mache by an anonymous student is not for sale.

Reverse discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a ruling against "reverse" discrimination, a federal judge says Georgetown University violated the civil rights of a white student by setting aside most of its first-year law school scholarships for minority applicants. "There is no justification for saying that a 'minority' student with a demonstrated financial need of $2,000 requires more scholarship aid than a 'nonminority' student," U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch ruled Wednesday.

Carter picks brains

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is picking the brains and challenging the assumptions of some of Washington's most experienced insiders in briefings on defense, economics, foreign policy and intelligence. His advisers say the sessions are invaluable for the former Georgia governor, who lacks firsthand experience in the inner workings of the national government. In the last of four briefings. Carter meets today with foreign policy experts.

Air slow down set

NEW YORK (AP) — The air traffic controllers' union is predicting its "work by the book" job action will delay scheduled airline flights at airports across the nation today. During the initial hours of the slowdown by the nation's 14,000 air controllers late Wednesday, no substantial effects were reported because of light air traffic. Meanwhile, meetings with a federal mediator were scheduled to resume in Washington in the 14-week-old rubber strike. In California, striking cannery workers prepared to vote Friday on a new contract. And in West Virginia, the wildcat coal miners strike entered its 10th day with more than a third of the nation's 150,000 miners involved.

Auto makers profits soar

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry's bust-to-boom turnaround sent General Motors' profits in the second quarter soaring to a record $909 million, the highest ever by an industrial corporation for a threemonth period. April-June earnings reported Wednesday amount to $10 million a day after taxes. Profits jumped 173 per cent from $333 million in the spring of 1975, toward the end of the industry's worst slump in four decades. Chrysler Corp. has also reported record profits for the period. Ford Motor Co. releases its report today.

Insurance hike requests 'too high'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—State Insurance Board actuaries say the 27.9 per cent auto rate increase proposed by the companies is too high.

We are going to recommend in the neighborhood of 20 per cent, give or take a little—but not over a per cent either way," statistician Gaylon Daniel said Wednesday.

The board's staff will present its recommendations Aug. 4, when the board resumes the statewide car insurance hearing that it recessed July 14.

New rates probably will take effect with policies written or renewed on Oct. 1, Daniel said. Rates normally are in effect for a year.

The three-man board is expected to adopt the recommendation of its staff rather than the industry request.

Daniel said the difference lay in the techniques used to predict how much auto accidents will cost the insurance companies over the period for which the rates will be in effect.

"There is an infinite number of ways to predict what is going to happen in costs and accident frequencies," Daniel said. "We just have a little more optimistic answer than they do."

For one thing, the board's statisticians assumed that inflation in such things as auto crash parts will continue but at a lesser rate than the insurance companies predict.

The board departed this year from its usual procedure of receiving both the industry recommendation and the staff rate proposals on the same day.

It contended that the new administrative procedures act requires the staff to analyze the industry data first, then come up with its own recommendation as a response.

But insurance men say that this is a way they can be cast as the bad guys, getting loads of headlines with their request for greatly increased rates, with the board riding up in white hats to save the day with a smaller increase.

In the past, the headlines usually concentrated on the increases—or less frequent decreases—recommended by the staff, with the industry request getting less attention.

Swine profits can be stabilized in Texas

LUBBOCK — Swine profits can be stabilized in Texas and the Southwest to give producers in this area better competitive position, an agricultural economist at Texas Tech University believes.

An associate professor of agricultural economics in Texas Tech's college of agricultural sciences, Dr. Long Y. Lee, is using computers and econometric techniques to support his claim.

"This region has good resources for hog production. There is an adequate supply of sorghum and soybean, the climate is well-suited and the market is available," he said. Lee, however, will soon have some recommendations for the industry.

The Texas Tech professor is working on a two-year, $28,000 project to determine the exact recommendations.

"There are more than 40 key factors influencing swine production and over a million and a half combinations of these. We are simulating an economic model that will tell us how a swine producer will have to manipulate the influencing factors," he said.

Once the economic model is ready, Lee believes he will be able to predict exactly how changes in one or more key factors will affect the producer's profit-loss situations. "Suppose the price of sorghum or soybean increases. In a matter of minutes I can tell the producer how this will affect his profits. I can also prescribe what changes the producer may make in order to minimize the effects of the price increase on his profits," he said. Lee insists, however, that the producer will have to follow his operational recommendations in order to use the model.

Ration costs, building costs, labor costs, conception rates, weaning age, farrowing interval and market conditions are among more than 40 factors which he is considering.

"Ration costs alone account for about 60 per cent of the total expenditure in swine production, and about 90 per cent of the ration costs go for milo and soybean. So any change in these two ingredients' costs can easily offset the producer's profits," Lee commented.

Officers elected by livestock unit

The Howard County Junior Livestock Association recently reelected new officers.

Aubrey Lankford is president, Gene Perry, vice-president; and M. A. Snell, secretary.

Plans are being made for the Howard County 4-H and FFA Junior Barrow Show set September in connection with the Howard County Fair and the Howard County 4-H and FFA Junior Steer and Lamb Show in January.

Locals attend 4-H Congress

Attending the Texas State 4-H Congress in Austin today through Friday are four youths from Howard County.

They are Dirk Perry, Van Gaskins, Donna Witt and Karen Earls.

They are participating in group sessions in leadership training with emphasis on government. Some of the meetings will be conducted in offices of the State Capital building, Ronnie Wood, County Extension agent, said.

Farm markets

Cattle prices seem to be holding their own in Big Spring this week after a lag last week both locally and nationally.

Governments face difficult task

Big Spring's local governments have drawn up budgets for the coming year which mean no tax increase.

It was not easy for the Howard County Commissioners Court, the Big Spring City Council and the Big Spring School Board to hold the line on new taxes.

THE PRESSURES of inflation which everyone has been feeling haven't skipped local governments.

But the elected officials apparently decided that at this time in our community's history they should do everything possible to hold the line.

For example, the city of Big Spring will reduce the number of its employes by more than a dozen to keep the expenses in line with the revenue.

At the same time that the new budgets were presented happily without a tax increase, a word of caution came with them. It was:

This year may be the last possible without a tax increase of some kind.

This fact of life is apparently true in particular of the Big Spring Public Schools which has been steadily reaching into its surplus for operational dollars.

The surplus was established because of the difficulty and delay often involved in receiving earned or promised federal dollars. Unless the school board was able to keep some cash on hand, it would be constantly in the red while awaiting federal money from various programs.

BUT AFTER THIS year, the surplus will be gone. That's not necessarily bad. A governmental unit operating on taxpayer's money shouldn't have big surpluses, but it should have enough money on hand to be solvent during the year.

With budgets cut and expenses going up and surpluses gone, the three local governments will face a difficult task to keep taxes at the same rate after this year. For the city and the public schools, it may be impossible without cutting deeply into services and programs.

But at least for this year, the taxpayers do not have to cough up more dough to pay their tax bills.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Strange system

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Cabinet hostility against Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi for lone-wolf decisions leading President Ford into dangerous curbs on the intelligence community peaked last month when Treasury Secretary William Simon accused him of impairing the President's protection in Puerto Rico.

THAT ACCUSATION is merely the most dramatic evidence of anti-Levi anger in the National Security Agency, CIA, FBI, Secret Service, Pentagon and Treasury. In the eyes of critics, Levi's most grievous sin was putting Mr. Ford on record in favor of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's bill to require approval from a federal judge to wiretap a foreign embassy. "He has crippled our intelligence effort," one high-ranking official told us.

Dr. Levi, former University of Chicago president and a distinguished legal scholar, obviously is moved more by constitutional safeguards than demands of national security. But instead of his concerns being tempered by opposing views of other officials directly concerned with national security, Levi's undiluted opinions have become administration policy.

That is in keeping with the strange system which has evolved during Gerald R. Ford's two-year presidency. While dismantling the dangerous centralization of the Nixon system (which ignored the cabinet), Mr. Ford nevertheless has not transformed the cabinet into a functioning body for policymaking. Rather, policy is made helter-skelter by individual cabinet members, leading to the wishy-washy tone of the administration.

Backstage squabbling over Mr. Ford's visit to Puerto Rico June 27-28 stems directly from the Attorney General's personal policymaking. Secret Service plans for surveillance of extremist Puerto Rican nationalists were vetoed by Levi on grounds that U.S. citizens cannot be shadowed under the President's intelligence reorganization plan of last February. Surveillance was cancelled.

SIMON, WHO as Secretary of the Treasury has responsibility for the Secret Service, immediately sent off this tough letter to the President: the restrictions imposed by the Attorney General have impaired your protection by the Secret Service. Translated, that clearly meant: if the President gets shot, don't blame the Secret Service.

Actually, Levi gives Simon, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, CIA Director George Bush and other high officials headaches that transcend Secret Service protection. The President's February intelligence plan, drafted by Levi, imposes tight restrictions on the intelligence community — such as requiring a judge's approval for wiretapping a foreign embassy.

EVEN SO, the intelligence community blanched when Levi, on behalf of the administration, endorsed Sen. Kennedy's bill to require the U.S. government to seek court permission for electronic snooping on embassies — an ugly but universally accepted way of diplomatic life. Levi's endorsement of the bill written by the Senate's most famous Democratic critic of the administration transcended mere approval: "I want to say that it is my view that this bill is a significant, even an historic step. I believe it is important to the country, and I hope it will be enacted quickly."

Moreover, another part of the Levi-designed system is blamed by high officials for such wide distribution of sensitive material throughout the bureaucracy that secrets tend to be compromised. Without overt leaks, sensitive security facts so widely handled inevitably seep out.

"WELL, I THINK WE LEFT THE KEYS IN DUSSELDORF...BUT, ASIDE FROM THAT, WE'RE COMBAT READY, SIR."

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can a woman figure out here correct bra size? — Miss R.H.

Use a tape measure and measure the distance around your body with the tape snug under the bust. Add five inches to that measurement. That is your bra size. For the cup size measure around the bust at the nipples. If that measure is the same as the first total your cup size is A. If it is an inch more, than the cup size is B and so forth.

Example:

If the first measurement (under the bust) is 28, then the bra size is 33 (five inches more). If the measurement (at the nipple) is also 33, then the cup size is A, if an inch more, B, etc.

This can vary in some women, but it's a pretty good general rule.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had my blood examined about two years ago and the report said my cholesterol count was 283 and that 220 was normal. I was 47 years old then. I got a list of foods not to eat. They also took my blood pressure — 120-90, 114-86 and 112-86. Since then I have laid off eggs, cheese, fatty meats, butter and have cut down on the other no-nos.

Last month I had my doctor check my blood, and the report came back 350 cholesterol count. My doctor says it's a bit high, but all I have to do is eat a little more fish and skinned chicken instead of meats. I'm concerned, because I get a little dizzy, especially at mid-morning. Please give me your opinion. — Mr. R.P.

It's unwise to compare such readings from different laboratories. Techniques can vary. Too, it is not generally realized that the body makes it own cholesterol independent of what foods we eat. Also, there is a condition that can run in families (called familial hypercholesterolemia). Other blood relatives would have elevated readings.

There is still much about cholesterol that is unclear — whether, for example, it is the great ogre in itself that many say it is. My view is that a good low-cholesterol diet is one low in total calories and also low in the saturated fats (those that melt at room temperature).

I doubt cholesterol is a factor in your dizziness, as, for example, low blood sugar would be. You are nearing 50. If your arteries are in good shape (and they seem so from the BP readings) then your slightly high cholesterol reading is probably insignificant, and you don't have to worry about it.

Cholesterol, as you may have gathered already, is just not a simple black and white proposition. If you are going to worry about it, be sure you have a reason. My booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol," may help you decide whether to worry or not. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I belong to a health spa. The whirlpool bath reeks of chlorine, and the whole club smells from it. It irritates my eyes. Can this do permanent harm? — E.R.

Chlorine is an effective and harmless disinfectant of water supplies. The manager of the spa may be overdoing things a bit, though, and if your eyes become irritated you'd best find some other facility where not quite so much of it is used. Chlorine will irritate the eye membrane, but it is readily washed out by tears. Some folks are more sensitive to it than others.

WASHINGTON — A fellow went in to see the President last week and said he was an uncommitted delegate from Suffolk County, N.Y. The President said he was glad to see him. The fellow said he was glad to see the President, too. The reason was that Suffolk County had a sewer problem and the only one who might be able to solve it was the President of the United States. The President said he was very good at solving sewer problems and if any place got a new sewer next year it would be Suffolk County. The fellow walked out of the President's office and told reporters he was now a committed delegate for President Ford.

AS THE RACE for the Republican presidential nomination gets hotter, more and more uncommitted delegates are being asked to visit the White House and spend time with Gerald Ford. The White House has angrily denied the President is bribing anyone to vote for him.

But can we be sure? By early August the visits may go something like this.

"Mr. President, this is Mr. Gladstone, an uncommitted delegate from Minotree, Me."

"How do you do, Mr. Gladstone. Welcome to the White House. Can I make you some scrambled eggs?"

"No thank you. I'm not hungry, Mr. President."

"I understand you're an uncommitted delegate. Can I ask you why you're uncommitted?"

"Because the train don't stop at Minotree anymore."

"What's that you say?"

"The five-o-five used to stop in Minotree on the way to Boston. But they took it off last year."

"NO ONE TOLD me about this! Get me Secretary of Transportation Coleman on the phone . . . Mr. Secretary. This is the President. Why wasn't I informed that you took the train service off Minotree, Me., last year? . . . I don't care if it was an Amtrak decision. I told you to wake me day or night when you decided on any change in this nation's train schedules. Now I want the five-o-five to Boston to stop at Minotree even if it means rerouting the 'Broadway Limited' from Chicago. This is a matter of national security. Thank you . . . Goodbye . . . There, Mr. Gladstone, that should do it. Is there anything else I can help you with?"

"That will be enough, Mr. President. I want you to know I will be proud to vote for you in Kansas City."

"Thank you, Mr. Gladstone. You should have told me about your train problems sooner."

"Mr. President, this is Mr. Ronald Felder of Sawtooth, Mont. He's an uncommitted delegate."

"You're darn tootin' I am. We was promised a ski lift two years ago and danged if we got so much as a piece of rope."

"That's odd. I specifically remember signing a bill for a ski lift for Sawtooth. Morton, what happened to that bill?"

"You didn't sign it, Mr. President. You vetoed it."

"Then I'll unveto it. Morton, find the bill and and I'll sign it this afternoon. Mr. Felder, I hope I can come to Sawtooth next February and be the first one to ride your ski lift. That is if I'm the President, of course."

"IF IT'S up to me you'll be the President in February."

"Thank you, Mr. Felder. Who's next?"

"Sarah Lockenbocker of Racine, Wis."

"How do you do, Mrs. Lockenbocker. What is your profession?"

"I'm a chambermaid in a Holiday Inn."

"That must be interesting work."

"I hate it."

"What would you like to do?"

"I thought I'd like to be a federal judge."

"Well, I'll speak to Ed Levi, the Attorney General, about that. If you can't be a federal judge, what would be your second preference?"

"I wouldn't turn down being ambassador to the Court of Saint James."

"Now that's easier. Take this note over to Henry Kissinger at the State Department and be sure and tell him I sent you."

"Thanks a lot. I guess this means I have to vote for you in Kansas City."

"Not necessarily. I want you to vote your conscience. But I did hear Ronald Reagan is going to give the post to Frank Sinatra."

"Over my dead body. You just got yourself an uncommitted delegate."

"Thank you, Mrs. Ambassador. Who's next, Morton?"

Making a point

Around the rim

James Werrell

By HIS 27 HOUSE PLANTS
(as told by Danny Reagan)

Well that Yankee is finally gone for two weeks and out of our Digitalis purpurea and Euphorbia splendens for a while. It's a good thing too, because the philadendron was beginning to develop a weird accent. And that's bad for a plant that was raised from a Toyah, Texas cutting.

We tell you one thing, we're not appreciated. All he thinks of us as is a bunch of green things that keeps that hyperactive Vermont-born Yankee wife of his busy.

BUT WE have feelings you know. Forget that garbage you hear on late-night talk shows about electrical impulses and reaction to external stimulus . . . we can experience trauma!

Let us tell you something, you are probably just as bad about this as Werrell, so listen! We need tender loving care and a lot more. For instance:

Did you know that in order to attain normal development, every plant requires 10 or more substances which are called essential elements, because the lack of any one will interfere with growth and development, and in time prove FATAL? No! Of course you didn't know. Well we're telling you, so listen!

Could you even guess one of the elements? No, not cigarette ashes, or unwanted tea. These elements are carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, sulphur, phosphorous, potassium, calcium, iron and magnesium. There, what do you think about that? And what do we get from the Werrels? A little water, that's about it. And don't smirk. The rest of you are just as guilty.

Oh yeah, you can rationalize and say you place a few left-over turnip greens in the bottom of you potted-plant loved-one, but you can't fool us.

We need carbon entering through our leaves, whereby means of photosynthesis, it combines with the scarce water you so mercifully give us, to form the foundation compounds of which starches, sugars, cell tissue and other carbon-containing organic substances are the final or resultant products.

You didn't know that, did you? You and all your Big Macs, pizzas and beer. We need nourishment, too, you know!

AND YOU'RE not the only one who needs oxygen. Oxygen ranks next to carbon in importance for us. It is essential to respiration, to oxidation of materials and thus to the development of energy in our growing little green bodies.

When combined with hydrogen in the form of water, it is both the main solvent and the transporting vehicle for crude and elaborated plant foods dissolved in our sap. Didn't know that either, did you? You probably thought all we needed was carbon dioxide that you so freely expel from your human bodies. Wrong, lettuce breath.

And do you thank us for taking that profusion of carbon dioxide and running it through our little green vessels and eventually giving forth oxygen to the air so you can greedily suck it into your lungs? No, we think not.

And phosphorous, what about that? When was the last time you fed your plant some? It is largely used by plants to make proteins, cell nuclei, to stimulate growth of seedlings, increase root growth, divide cells, ripen the seed and to reduce the content of nitrogen in cereal seeds. Now don't tell us you knew that. The nasturtium over in the corner there just found that out yesterday listening to the radio.

Well, we could go on and on, but we think we made our point. If it weren't for plants where would you be? We tell you where you would be . . . in the hothouse.

High executioner

WASHINGTON — In the cause of saving the taxpayer's money, Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., has traveled to faraway countries and has told their respective potentates which companies they should do business with if they want U.S. aid.

HE HAS also told the U.S. officials, who disburse the aid, when to ship certain commodities and how much to ship. Our sources have been present when Passman has called about an allocation, say, of rice to a needy country. "That's not a good idea," he has said.

On other occasions, he has complained about contracts to companies that he doesn't favor. Their bids, he has declared sternly, are "improper."

Government officials have often found it more expedient to accept his suggestions than to risk losing their appropriations. For the 77-year-old Passman is the Lord High Executioner in charge of cutting foreign aid budgets in the House.

His constant interventions with food shipments has aroused the curiosity of the Agriculture Department, State Department and the FBI. Indeed, the FBI is investigating Passman's relationship with the companies that have been getting foreign aid contracts.

The Agriculture Department is also investigating whether the old curmudgeon has tried to manipulate the commodities market by influencing overseas sales.

These are charges that he has denied, with righteous outrage. He has sworn to us, by all that he holds holy, that he intervened solely to save the taxpayers' money and to help all-American companies.

Otto Passman was born at the turn of the century to tenant farmers and was brought up on unseasoned corn bread and clabbered milk. At age 10, he was hired out to a neighboring farmer for $5 a month.

He decided to make his own way in the world after he turned 14. He dropped out of the fourth grade, worked on a cotton-and-rice farm for a while and eventually got a job in a grocery store.

THE MEMORY of his grim childhood developed in him a fierce attachment for every dollar he ever earned. He managed to hang on to enough money to invest in one business after another. His Passman Wholesale Equipment Company, a commercial refrigeration firm and Passman Investment Company thrived under his tight fist.

While he treated every dollar with tenderness, he was not unmindful of those less blessed. He tithed to the church and became and active Mason. When friends were down on their luck, he was available for a loan and a lecture on economy.

Passman became admired in Monroe, La., whose burghers elected him to Congress in 1946. He made foreign aid his specialty. His knowledge of the intimate details of foreign aid is unparalled. Or as one of his colleagues once said in exasperation: "(Passman) knows the number of coat hangers they have in Khartoum, but not what the AID program is doing in the Sudan."

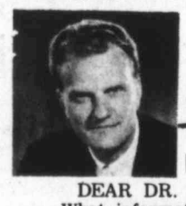

He developed a special interest in rice. This might seem natural enough, since his native Louisiana is the nation's leading rice producer. But the company that usually benefited from Passman's intervention in rice matters was located in New Jersey.

The Connell Rice and Sugar Company of Westfield, N.J., has wound up with export contracts, worth $680 million, during the last seven years. This is roughly half of the $1.3 billion that the Food for Peace Program has exported during this time.

Passman has also been partial to the St. John Maritime Company, which has had equally good fortune in getting freight contracts to ship food to needy nations.

In 1973, for example, Passman flew to Saigon for discussions with then-President Thieu. Sources privy to their conversation said Passman had urged Thieu to utilize St. John ships to haul grain to South Vietnam. The Louisiana legislator explained his power over the foreign aid budget, according to our sources.

This made such an impression on Thieu that he later dispatched his Minister of Economy to Louisiana to relay personally to Passman the good news that St. John had been awarded the shipping contracts.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What information do we have about the life of Jesus from His birth until the time He was baptized by John? — D.M.

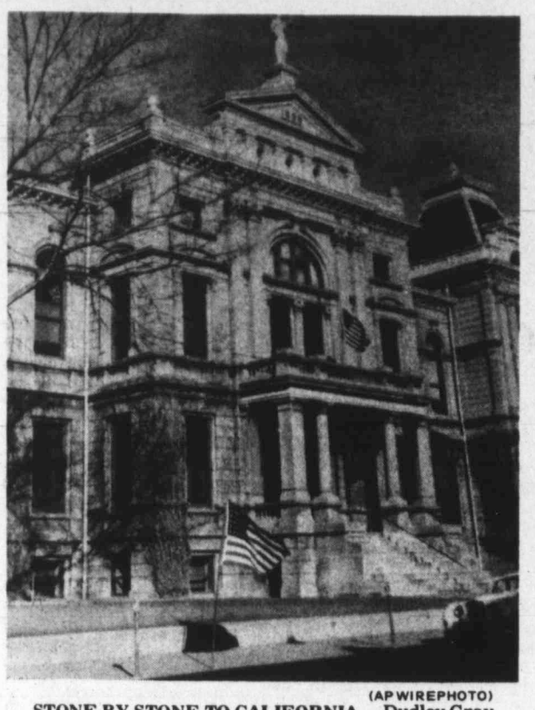

DEAR D.M.: The New Testament tells us very little about these years. Although it is natural to be curious about this period in Jesus' life, the Holy Spirit has not seen fit to give us an account of these years in the Bible.

Matthew's Gospel tells us that Jesus and His parents were forced to flee to Egypt for some period of time because of King Herod. Jesus was approximately two years old at the time. After Herod's death, Jesus' parents returned to Palestine and took up residence in the town of Nazareth (Matthew 2:16-23).

The only other incident mentioned in the Scripture is the visit of Jesus and His parents to Jerusalem when He was twelve. He became separated from His parents and was later found in the temple in deep discussion with the Jewish religious leaders (Luke 2:42-50). Luke simply tells us that "Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man" (Luke 2:52). Jesus was about 30 years old when He began His ministry.

Although the details of Jesus' early years are few, the picture that emerges is of a Man who knew He had a special relationship with His heavenly Father, and who desired above all else to do His father's will.

Incidentally, books that purport to detail the "lost years of Jesus' life" have been published from time to time. However, they are fanciful and have no foundation in historical fact.

STONE BY STONE TO CALIFORNIA — Dudley Gray, a Torrance, Calif., attorney, says he plans to move the Pottawattamie County, Iowa, courthouse stone-by-stone to Torrance to be rebuilt as a plush law office near the San Diego Freeway. The structure is to be torn down beginning next April.

White House shooting merits no charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grand jury will not issue criminal charges against a security guard who fatally shot a man who climbed a fence to get onto the White House grounds.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert Schuelke said the grand jurors heard three days of testimony before deciding Wednesday that the evidence "did not warrant the institution of criminal charges."

A Washington taxi driver, Chester M. Plummer, 30, was killed in the Sunday night incident on the White House lawn. He was shot by Pvt. Charles A. Garland f the Executive Protective Service, a branch of the Secret Service.

Plummer was carrying a three-foot length of metal pipe when he scaled the fence surrounding the White House, officials said. According to a statement from the U.S. attorney's office, Plummer was shot after attempting to hit Garland with the pipe.

Schuelke said a Superior Court grand jury heard 20 witnesses, about half of them civilians not connected with the Executive Protective Service.

Schuelke, who supervised the grand jury investigation, said testimony showed Plummer scaled the fence, walked toward the White House and refused repeated orders from Garland to stop. President Ford was in the White House at the time of the incident but was not aware of the shooting until later.

No motive for Plummer's action has been disclosed.

Lamesa trustees increase tax rate

LAMESA — School trustees set the tax rate for 1976-77 at $1.45 an increase of 10 cents.

Trustees also authorized the use of fund balances and surpluses and allowed for deficit budgeting in meeting the $3.5 million in proposed expenditures.

The action is considered a stalling maneuver in anticipation of new state public school financing legislation which hopefully will benefit the local school district.

Trustees went into the budget meeting looking at the need for a considerably higher tax rate hike. However, after considerable discussion and approval of the proposed $3.3 million school budget for the coming year, trustees set the tax rate which never-the-less requires $33,096 in deficit budgeting.

The trustees set the rate at $1.20 for local maintenance funds and 25 cents for the interest and sinking fund. Last year's tax rate was $1.35, of which 28 cents was allocated to the sinking fund.

In other action, trustees accepted bids on four tennis courts, which had been rebid on an attempt to lower the costs projected at last month's meeting. Trustees accepted Cope's Sand and Gravel's bid of $29,548.80 for the concrete work although it was not the low figure.

Deadline for Miss Texas Fair Rodeo competition set Aug. 16

ABILENE — Deadline for entries in this year's Miss West Texas Fair Rodeo Queen competition is Aug. 16, according to Dorothy Tedford, Fair secretary.

Rules have been changed this year eliminating the 10-entry limit and the princess contest. In the past only the first 10 entries received were accepted into competition.

This year an unlimited number of entrants will be accepted. Ten finalists will be chosen on the basis of horsemanship. The winner will be crowned during the last rodeo performance on Sept. 18.

The queen will receive a $250 cash prize. The queen will also represent the West Texas Fair and Rodeo at the Miss Rodeo Texas Contest in September, 1977. One of the finalists will be awarded a $500 scholarship to the school of her choice.

Bentsen bill takes aim at Social Security flaw

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has urged the Social Security Subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee to approve his bill to stabilize the Social Security system and cut its long-term deficit by half.

The Bentsen bill, introduced in February, has the full support of the Federal Council on the Aging. The White House proposed legislation virtually identical to Bentsen's in the middle of last month.

"I believe my bill offers the best solution to problems caused by a flaw in 1972 amendments to the Social Security Act," Bentsen said in testimony submitted to the House Subcommittee.

"If the flaw is allowed to go uncorrected it could result in serious financial difficulties for our Social Security system over the next 50-75 years."

Under the 1972 amendments the ratio between wage earner's Social Security benefits and earnings change each year as the cost of living changes. The Bentsen bill would establish a stable relationship between earnings and benefits, a move which would reduce the projected long-term Social Security deficit by half. It would not affect the provision for cost of living increases in Social Security benefits to an individual after retirement.

Unless the earnings-to-benefits ratio is stabilized, as Bentsen proposes, an individual's benefits could rise as high as 245-per cent of earnings before retirement.

"As of today, people are contributing to the Social Security system without any idea of what benefits they will get when they retire. They can't even be sure that the system will have enough money to pay them what they're entitled to," Bentsen said.

"By stabilizing the relationship between earnings and benefits, my bill insures that the Social Security system will perform equitably over the long-haul, while improving the financial soundness of the Social Security trust funds," Sen. Bentsen said.

Sooner maintaining hot streak in rodeo

DENVER, Colo. — Tom Ferguson, reigning world champion all around cowboy from Miami, Okla., maintained a phenomenal hot streak in rodeo last week, winning $6,000 at three contests in a five-day span.

The 25-year-old cowboy's 1976 all around winnings in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association increased to $53,940; no other cowboy in the history of the sport has won that much money at this point in the season.

Ferguson bounced off a big win of nearly $4,000 the week before when he emerged the all around winner at Calgary, Alta.; and last week took first in steer wrestling at the Days of '47 rodeo in Salt Lake City, Utah, placed third in calf roping and second in steer wrestling at nearby Ogden, Utah, and finished first in calf roping at Red Deer, Alta.

Ferguson is in Cheyenne, Wyo., this week, among other places, competing for a share of the record $180,000 at stake in the Frontier Days rodeo, which winds up next Sunday.

Other first-place winners at Salt Lake City include Jim Dix of North Collie, West Australia, $1,548 in bareback riding; Doug Brown of Silverton, Ore., $1,576 in saddle bronc riding; Bob Berger of Norman, Okla., $1,799 in bull riding; George Yocham of Bartlesville, Okla., $1,662 in calf roping; Jerold and Reg Camarillo, both of Oakdale, Calif., $784 and $1,061 respectively in team roping.

Ogden winners were Joe Alexander of Cora, Wyo., $1,416 in bareback; Bill Pauley of Miles City, Mont., $1,574 in saddle bronc; Kim Simpson of Kamas, Utah, $1,694 in bull riding; Dean Oliver of Boise, Ida., $1,893 in calf roping; and Phil Sublett of San Augustine, Texas, $2,212 in steer wrestling.

Ogden and Salt Lake City had the richest two rodeos of the week, paying cowboy winners $85,000. Both contests ended Saturday.

Division Leaders:
All Around Champion — Tom Ferguson, Miamia, Okla., $53,940.
Saddle Bronc Riding — Monty Henson, Mesquite, Tex., $18,696.
Bareback Bronc Riding — Joe Alexander, Cora, Wyo., $27,306.
Bull Riding — Don Gay, Mesquite, Tex., $19,473.
Girls Barrel Racing — Connie Combs, Comanche, Okla., $9,513.
Calf Roping — Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., $23,670.
Steer Wrestling — Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., $27,748.
Team Roping — Leo Camarillo, Oakdale, Calif., $23,286.
Steer Roping — Gary Good, Elida, N.M., $2,498.

Firm contributed $221 million plus to Texas' economy in '75

DALLAS — Marvin L. Tanner, regional vice president of J.C. Penney Company, Inc., has announced that the company contributed more than $221.3 million to Texas' economy during 1975.

Purchases from state manufacturers accounted for $146.1 million in merchandise which was distributed throughout the company's 1,947 JC Penney, The Treasury, and Thrift Drug stores in the U.S., he said.

Combined payrolls in Texas amounted to more than $72.1 million, going to approximately 25,469 full and part-time associates. The company employs 186,000 full-time nationally and overseas.

Tanner said the retailer paid about $3.1 million in corporate, property, use and unemployment insurance taxes in Texas.

"Additionally, our retail stores collected many millions of dollars in sales taxes for state and local governments," he said.

"Texas has been very important to our company throughout the years. We opened our first store in the state at Dalhart in 1917 and we've always tried to operate in a manner that best benefits our Texas customers," Tanner added.

At year-end, JC Penney operated 183 retail and support units in the state. Included are 131 JC Penney department stores, three The Treasury family stores, three Thrift Drug stores, eight supermarkets, and 38 other facilities and offices.

Tanner said 3,710 Texans are stockholders in the company, the second largest general retailer in the nation. Last year, J.C. Penney Company achieved $7.67 billion in sales.

Victim trades his Bible for bullets

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Instead of losing all of the money at the motel where he works as a night auditor, John Heird lost only his Bible to a robber.

But Heird got the bullets from the robber's gun in exchange.

Fort Worth police said Heird, a student at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, began to pray out loud Wednesday when a young bandit walked into the motel and demanded all the money.

The startled robber put down his gun and began to push Heird against the wall, police said.

Heird, 31, said he read Scriptures to the man and explained religion as the man pushed the auditor around the room.

"I didn't have time to be frightened," Heird said. "And the guy kept asking me why I wasn't afraid."

Finally the robber tied up Heird in a store room.

When Heird freed himself, he said he found his Bible missing and bullets, apparently from the bandit's gun, on a table.

"I feel like the Bible was a good investment in someone's future," Heird said.

Contacted late Wednesday night at the motel, Heird said he brought another Bible with him.

"I have several Bibles," he said. "Maybe someone else would like to exchange bullets for a Bible and take something that will help his life."

MESSAGE SO FAR UNRECEIVED — Donald Oberlag mowed this plea for rain in a field of wheat stubble on his 320-acre farm about 10 miles west of Mexico in northeast Missouri. Scanty but timely rains have averted heavy crop damage in the area this summer; but a shower on July 15 was the last moisture it has had and Oberlag's prayer hadn't been answered today.

Keeping U.S. weapons in good working order called vital

By LLOYD BENTSEN
U.S. Senator, Tex.

Operation and maintenance of weapons is not the most interesting or compelling aspect of our national defense effort. But it is vital.

With the knowledge that a third of this country's military planes are grounded at any given time by a lack of spare parts and delays in repairs — operation and maintenance become of highest priority.

During the last two decades with the increasing sophistication of weapons, we have needed increasing focus on maintenance and repair. It is far more difficult to calibrate a guided missile than to overhaul a jeep.

But instead of additional emphasis on operations and maintenance, over the past decade the Defense Department has relegated them to a lower priority.

While this nation was engaged in the war in Southeast Asia, the lion's share of each year's expenditures was devoted to procuring the armanments and providing the forces needed for that effort.

In the years following the decision to reduce and finally terminate our involement in that conflict, highest priority has been given to replacing diminished stockpiles and procuring new weapons systems.

Today, nearly a third of the Navy's 7,400 planes reportedly lack parts essential to their operation, and a recent study suggests that they are often forced to remove needed parts from one grounded plane for installation on another so that at least one craft can fly.

In addition the Mayaguez incident of last year dramatically reveals the loss of face that can occur in international incidents because of inattention to problems involving repair and maintenance of ships and weapons.

Former Defense Secretary Schlesinger has reported that the carrier Hancock limped out of Subic Bay with one of its four shafts not working and never did reach the waters off Cambodia. The helicopter carrier Okinawa also never reached the waters. It could move at only 13 to 14 knots because part of its boiler plate was off line. And the escort vessel Holt — the first U.S. ship to reach the area — had power supply problems and its main batteries were down the night of the engagement.

In recent months the Pentagon has shown a renewed interest in the need for a strong program for maintaining and repairing the arsenal of weapons that defend our nation. I have urged Congress to insist on this and to provide the funds needed to carry it out.

Debate in Congress too often focuses on the controversial new weapons systems requested by our military planners — like the B-1 bombers. But we must not overlook the need to keep those systems in good working order.

Furr's sales, earnings hit record levels

Sales and earnings of Furr's Cafeterias Inc. for the first half of 1976 were a record levels althoug' second quarter 1976 earning declined slightly from the second quarter of 1975, reported Don G. Furr, chairman of the board.

Sales during the six months ended July 3, 1976, were $30.5 million, an increase of $5.4 million or 21.4 per cent over sales of $25.1 million in the same period of 1975. Earnings for the first six-months of 1976 were $1.47 million or $.66 per share compared to $1.36 million for $.61 per share, an increase of 8.6 per cent. Earnings per share attributable to investment tax credit were six cents in the first six months of 1976 and 1975. Earnings in the second quarter and first half of 1975 have been restated to conform to the current years method of estimating certain discretionary accruals.

Sales for the quarter ended July 3, 1976, were $15.6 million, up $2.3 million or 17.6 per cent over sales of $13.3 million in the second quarter of 1975. Earnings were $744 thousand or $.33 per share compared to $807 thousand or $.36 per share in the second quarter of 1975, a decrease of 7.8 per cent. Earnings per share attributable to investment tax credit were three cents in the second quarter of 1976, compared to four cents in the second quarter of 1975.

New cafeterias have been opened at Norman and Bartlesville, Okla., bringing to five the number of new cafeterias opened in 1976. One cafeteria located in Houston, was closed, making a net increase of four cafeterias since Jan. 1, 1976. One additional unit, in Paris, Tex., is under construction and is expected to be opened about Oct. 1, 1976.

"The National Labor Relations Board has postponed indefinitely the hearing which had been scheduled for June regarding unfair labor practice charges brought against the company by the Meat Cutters Local P-777. This postponement is a result of a court order obtained by the company requiring the N.L.R.B. to disclose details of the changes against the company. It is likely that the N.L.R.B. will appeal the decision, thus, delaying the unfair labor practice hearing for approximately one year," stated Furr.

Favorites from Keaton's

Seven years ago, Keaton Kolor began as a "little hut" developing rolls of film. Today, it is a full-fledged photographic supply center and processing business.

"We snack around here a lot," said Miss Valdes, one of the employes who offered her recipes. Here are some of their favorite snacks as well as main dishes from their kitchens.

HEAVENLY BROWNIES
By VERA ROBERTSON

1 c. sugar
2 eggs
2 heaping tbsps. cocoa
1 tsp. vanilla
Dash salt
½ c. flour
1 stick oleo, melted
1 c. pecans

Beat sugar and eggs together in electric mixer at high speed for five minutes. Blend cocoa and flour together and mix into egg and sugar mixture. Stir in the melted oleo by hand. Stir in pecans, vanilla and salt. Pour batter into greased and floured 8" x 10" pan. Bake 30 minutes in 350 degrees oven. Spread topping on hot brownies.

TOPPING FOR HEAVENLY BROWNIES

1 box powdered sugar
½ stick oleo, melted
Dash salt
2 heaping tbsps. cocoa
1 tsp. vanilla

Cream or milk to make proper consistency for spreading.

Mix all ingredients together in electric mixer. Spread over brownies. Decorate with pecan halves. Cut into squares. Makes about 30 squares.

PINEAPPLE MILLIONAIRE PIE
By VERA ROBERTSON

1 stick softened butter
2 c. powdered sugar
1 large egg
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. vanilla
1 c. heavy whipping cream
1 c. drained crushed pineapple
½ c. pecans

Cream together the sugar and butter. Add egg, salt and vanilla. Mix until light and fluffy, then spoon mixture evenly into a baked 9" graham cracker pie shell and chill in the refrigerator. Whip cream until stiff and blend into it the pineapple and nuts. Pour on top of pie and chill before serving.

MEXICAN CHEF'S SALAD
By VERA ROBERTSON

Chop 1 onion, 4 tomatoes, 1 head lettuce.

Toss with 4 oz. grated cheese, 8 oz. thousand island dressing. Hot sauce to taste.

Crunch and add 1 small bag Doritos.

Slice and add 1 large avocado.

Brown 1 lb. ground beef, add 1 can drained kidney beans, ¼ tsp. salt, simmer 10 minutes and mix into cold salad. Decorate with Doritos, avocado and tomato slices.

BAR-B-Q SANDWICHES

1 lb. hamburger (cooked and drained)
½ c. ketchup
Garlic salt
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 c. water

Cook until all liquid is gone. Serve on buttered buns.

FAVORITE BEEF LOAF
By ILEANA VALDES

1½ lb. ground beef
½ c. medium cracker crumbs
2 beaten eggs
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
¼ c. finely chopped onion
2 tbsps. chopped green pepper
Dash dried thyme, crushed
Dash dried marjoram, crushed

Combine all ingredients and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix well. Shape mixture into a loaf in a 12x7½ 2 inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees about 1¼ hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SOUR CREAM POUND CAKE
By ZINA WOOD

2 sticks real butter (softened)
3 c. sugar
6 eggs (add one at a time)
3 c. flour
¼ tsp. soda
Vanilla
1 c. sour cream

Bake 1½ hours at 325 degrees in bundt pan.

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS
By ZINA WOOD

6 pork chops, 1-inch thick
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
½ c. catsup
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. onion salt
½ tsp. liquid smoke

In heavy skillet, brown chops in small amount hot shortening. Pour off fat. Season with salt and pepper. For sauce, combine tomato sauce, catsup, Worcestershire, onion salt, and liquid smoke; pour over chops. Cover and simmer until tender, about 1 hour, turning occasionally. Serves 6.

DEEP DISH APPLE PIE
By JAN RIHERD

1 c. sugar
5 to 7 tart apples
2 tbsps. flour
Dash salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
2 tbsps. butter
1 recipe plain pastry

Pare apples and slice thin. Mix sugar, flour, salt and spices; add to apples. Fill pastry lined 6½x10½ inch oblong baking dish. Dot with butter. Adjust and seal top crust. Bake in hot oven 400 degrees for 50 minutes.

PLAIN PASTRY

2 c. sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
2-3rd c. shortening
6-7 tbsps. cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture is coarse. Add water 1 tablespoon at a time until pastry is of right consistency.

RAW VEGETABLE SALAD
By VERA ROBERTSON

1 small head cauliflower
3 carrots, shredded
3 large stalks celery, sliced
½ c. pimento-stuffed olives
1 c. cubed cheese
3 tbsps. pickle relish

Break cauliflower into small flowerets. Add celery, carrots, olives and relish. Toss with mayonnaise and mix well.

RICE PILAF WITH PEAS
By JAN RIHERD

8 bacon slices, diced
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 c. regular long-grain rice
2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen green peas
1 13¾-oz. can chicken broth
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

About 35 min. before serving:

In a 12 in. skillet over medium heat, cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon to paper towels — set aside. Pour off all but ¼ drippings, add onion, cook until tender.

Stir rice, frozen peas, chicken broth, salt and pepper and 2 cups water into mixture; heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low and simmer 20 minutes until rice is tender. Toss bacon with rice until well mixed. Makes 12 servings.

SWISS STEAK
By JAN RIHERD

¼ c. flour
2 lbs. beef round steak (1 in thick)
3 tbsps. shortening
½ c. chopped onion
1 1-lb. can tomatoes
2 tbsps. chopped green pepper

Combine flour, 1 teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper; pound into meat. In large skillet, brown meat on both sides in hot shortening. Top with onion and tomatoes, cut up. Cover; cook over low heat about 1½ hours or till tender. Add green pepper; cook 15 minutes more. Skim off excess fat, thicken juices if desired. Season to taste. Makes 6 servings.

Teen can't adjust to contact lenses

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and have a terrible problem. I nagged my mother to get me contact lenses (I wore glasses), and three months ago she finally got me some.

Now I can't wear the contacts because they are just too hard to get used to. They irritate my eyes and I can't keep them in. (They are the hard kind, not soft. It is just terrible, Abby. Kids shouldn't be allowed to get hard contacts because they hurt too much.)

I don't know how to tell my mother. She will get mad at me because she spent a lot of money on them and she didn't want to get them in the first place, but I begged so hard she gave in.

Please help me, but don't write back because my mother might get the mail first. Thank you.

RED EYES

DEAR RED EYES: Tell your mother. She'll take you back to the place you bought your contacts for a consultation. Others have become accustomed to the hard lenses, and you probably can, too, if you follow instructions. But first see your eye doctor to find out whether your problem is with your eyes or the contact lenses.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a guy for three years off and on. I've tried to break up with him, but every time I make the attempt, he cries, begs and carries on. He's even threatened to commit suicide, so I get soft-hearted and change my mind. If he were to kill himself because of me, I'd never be able to forgive myself.

I have begged him to go with other girls, but he won't. I've even gone out with other guys, hoping he'd date other girls just to get even, but it hasn't worked. He says if he can't have me, he doesn't want anyone.

Now he's pressuring me to marry him. I don't really want to, but I feel so sorry for him, I'm tempted to say yes. He's not a bad guy. In many ways he's really nice, and I'm sure some girl would feel lucky to have him.

I have told him that I am not in love with him. But he says he doesn't care because he loves me, and after we're married I'll learn to love him. He's 26 and I'm 22. What now?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Do yourself (and him) a favor and tell him it's not fair to either of you to continue the relationship. Then break it off, once and for all. If you allow him to play on your sympathy, he may eventually wear you down to the point of marriage. Then YOU will be the one who will need the sympathy.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since my mother died 10 years ago I have been wearing her wedding band on my key chain. It will fit my little finger, but I am wondering if it would be proper for me to wear it.

I'm afraid it might provoke a lot of questions. Then what would I say? I don't want to appear a sentimental fool.

MAMMA'S BOY

DEAR BOY: Go ahead and wear it. And what's wrong with being sentimental? If anyone inquires, tell them the truth. I think it's a beautiful idea.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Today's brides older, more traditional now

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's brides are slightly older than their counterparts five years ago, according to a survey of its readers by Bride's Magazine, which shows women are now marrying at an average age of 21.5 years compared with 20.6 in 1971.

They appear to be more traditional, with 81 per cent saying they used engraved wedding announcements and 61 per cent using the services of a wedding gift registry.

The general desire was for 12 five-piece place settings of fine china, silver and crystal as opposed to only eight settings of casual tableware previously.

Brides also spent a third more on outfitting their first home — $4,808 average compared with $3,460. All expect to have stereo equipment and 80 per cent expect to have color television.

Of those responding to the survey, 95 per cent plan to work for four or five years after marriage. Five years ago the respondents expected to continue working for only three years.

Shower honors Mrs. Miller

A shower was given for Mrs. Michael Miller, formerly Miss Linda Richardson, Tuesday July 27 in the home of Mrs. Dub Bryant.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Bertis Harris, Mrs. Sam Schulze, Mrs. Ray Anderson and Mrs. Charlie Richards. The bride's mother, Mrs. T. C. Richardson also attended.

The table was laid in the bride's colors, red and white, and centered with a bride and roses. Crystal appointments were used.

Out-of-town guest was Mrs. Lela Foster, aunt of the bride, who came from Huntington Beach, California.

Mrs. Harris registered the guests. The hostesses' gift to the bride was a toaster.

Officials hope for funds to aid handicapped children

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana officials are hoping for federal funds to make sure about 250 retarded and handicapped children get the attention a judge ordered when they come home from Texas institutions.

U.S. District Court Judge Alvin B. Rubin, saying too many of the children were being mistreated or neglected, ordered the state to bring them home. Along with 75 abandoned or neglected children, they are being housed in Texas institutions because Louisiana doesn't have facilities to care for them.

Rubin ordered the children brought home, evaluated and placed in better surroundings.

Dr. Robert Casse, Louisiana's director of policy and planning, said Tuesday that the state needs about $200,000 to carry out Rubin's orders. He said he hopes to get about 75 per cent of the money from the federal government.

The work of evaluating and placing the children will be shared by three state agencies, he said — the divisions of mental health, family services and retardation.

"Each division will have the responsbility for plans either to move the children back and house them or replace them, travel arragements and conferences with families," he said. "We hope to begin about Sept. 1 with the program."

He said that where health reasons prevent moving the children back to Louisiana, experts would go to the institutions to make the individual medical and psychological examinations.

Seventeen new clinical social workers will be hired to improve the ratio of one worker for each 300 handicapped children to a ratio of one-to-one hundred, he said.

In addition, he said the state may renovate Greenwell Springs Hospital to provide care for as many as 80 of the children, and build a 125-bed unit at Mandeville State Hospital to care for more.

He said the individual evaluations may show that many of the children can be returned home and sent to public schools where special programs are available.

Figures in May showed Louisiana has 1,395 retarded and emotioally disturbed children in the state and 473 in other states. Of the 325 Louisiana children being cared for in Texas, 75 are abandoned or neglected, rather than retarded or handicapped.

In ordering the children returned to Louisiana, Judge Rubin cited instances of children being handcuffed as punishment, kept under sedation and confined to their beds.

Escargot profitable

HALIFAX, Canada (AP) — Fishermen here in Nova Scotia are renewing their interest in escargots — sea snails they once considered a nuisance.

The delicacy will be caught and processed for marketing in Canada and the United States by the end of this summer.

Michael Drebot, product development officer for Nova Scotia's provincial Department of Fisheries and coordinator of the project, said, "We should be able to sell all the escargots the fishermen can catch."

The province has spent much time and money in the last two years setting up large-scale production of sea snails, which had previously been discarded or destroyed by Nova Scotia fishermen.

Drebot said escargots latch on to lobster traps and have been a nuisance to lobster fishermen.

"Now, Nova Scotia has the opportunity to turn this by-catch into a profitable industry."

The government has been working on the project in conjunction with the Nova Scotia firms of O'Neil Fisheries Ltd. and IMO Foods Ltd.

O'Neil will be responsible for steaming and procssing while IMO will look after canning.

Unlike foreign imports, the snails marketed here will be thoroughly cleaned. Drebot said European snails are canned immediately after they're caught.

Cost will be the same as French and German escargots, between $5 and $6 a package of four and five-ounce containers.

More than 90 per cent of hotel operators and restaurateurs in the Halifax-Dartmouth area, who participated in a government-promoted tasting session about a year ago, agreed the Nova Scotia snails were of premium quality, he said.

Most of the sea snails are being harvested in an area adjacent to Digby in the Bay of Fundy, but researchers have found they can also be fished along the southwestern shore from Digby to Yarmouth and along the Cape Breton shore.

Although the shellfish will be caught now as a byproduct of the lobster fishery, the provincial government has developed a special trap for catching the escargots. It will be distributed to the fishermen later if market demand warrants accelerated catches.

The fisheries department has also sent a new, specialized separator and washer to O'Neil Fisheries. The machine will halve processing time.

Interest in the project was initiated by a visit to a large Japanese processor of land snails about two years ago.

In addition to the sale of escargots as gourmet food, the government is considering the utilization of the smaller snails fully-prepared with spices, butter and other additives.

The government is also looking at the sale of an escargot paste for use as a spread.

Mistakenly reported

Mrs. Ida Smith, who recently celebrated her 80th birthday, was mistakenly reported as having worked for the county treasurer's office. Mrs. Smith was the county treasurer until 1948 and the first woman to hold that position.

It also might be noted that Mrs. Smith took up oil painting after her 72nd birthday.

Newcomers to meet Wednesday

The Newcomers' Handicraft Club will meet 9:30 a.m. Wednesday August 4 in the home of Mrs. Alecia Perez, 2714 Larry.

Mrs. Karen De La Rosa and Mrs. Estella De La Paz will demonstrate chenille curling. Members will arrange curled chenille cherries or grapes on a wooden plague. Future demonstrations will be an assortment of projects including silk flowers, fake fur flowers, decoupage, macrame, a calico cat and sand crafts.

For information regarding the club, contact Mrs. De La Paz or Mrs. Carol Simmons.

'Liberal Establishment' ideas ripen with time

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Old ideas of the "liberal establishment" to change our basic economic system have a way of ripening with time. When first launched, most are expected to be recognized as a radical departure from our free enterprise system. An incubation period may last for years, waiting for circumstances favorable to their appeal.

Such is the case for requiring corporations to be chartered by the Federal Government. After a decade of near-dormacy, the idea has boldly surfaced in a report by the Ralph Nader organization under the title of "Constitutionalizing the Corporation."

Under present practice, each state charters corporations under its State laws. This authority would be taken away from the States and placed under Federal rules which would give the Federal Government more power to control the economy. With this authority the Government would be in the position of directing management, acting as an internal auditor, with veto power over business decisions, including the hiring of people.

The Nader proposal would create a federal board to oversee such matters as employes' welfare, shareholders' rights, and the method of financing the business operation. Business management would be forbidden from having anything to do with selecting members of the governing board. The board would determine and publicize all matters relating to the business conduct affecting the environment, social data, analysis of employes by race, sex and income, advertising data, substantiating claims of products and other management activities.

It is alleged that there is a "crisis in management," involving about 700 corporations in the U.S. The Nader report argues that the time has come for this type of control because of reported pay-offs to foreign trade customers, mismanagement, too high salaries and expense accounts of top executives.

Advantage is taken of publicity of a rash of corporation scandals and what is alleged to be a lack of competition in the market place, to the detriment of consumers. The assumption is that all are related directly to one another and it is used as proof of what they call a "corporate autocracy." To require a Federal charter to do business, the Government would look into all these operations and control them for the benefit of stockholders and the public generally.

Central to this scheme is the power for the Federal bureaucracy to determine if the charter is violated under the conditions and restrictions imposed on it. If violations were determined by the Board, its charter would be revoked and the business dissolved.

The whole concept in this proposal is a step towards nationalization of industry and the destruction of the fundamental institution of free enterprise. The result would be the granting of new Governmental powers at the expense of individual freedoms. It should be axiomatic that economic freedoms cannot be divorced from personal freedoms — the most basic concept of our system from the beginning.

No doubt — all is not perfect in the business community. Questionable practices have been admitted and remedies for correctional action should be available to the thousands of stockholders. But the Federal Government doesn't have the best track record at management either. The answer is not more controls.

April showers

with Marj Carpenter

Rain, rain go away. Rain, rain, come and stay. It almost seems like somebody is always chanting one chant or the other.

However, there is one time that almost everybody in West Texas agrees. Farmers and ranchers alike always seem to admire April showers.

In this area of the state, the cotton farmers walk the tightrope where rain is concerned. When it rains right before planting, everybody gets understandably excited.

That happened this year and everybody was happy about it. The National Production Credit Association magazine even wrote up one of the area farmers on the subject in an article called "Where Every Drop of Rain Counts."

It was about Jim Franklin, who has grown cotton near Stanton since the mid 1940s.

He was quoted as saying, "If we get 18 inches of water during the year, we can get a bale to a bale-and-a-quarter off this ground. With less rain, the chances of getting that kind of crop drops off faster than we like to think about. I have an average proven yield of 600 pounds per acre."

The farmers this year got their April showers and got the cotton in the ground. Then it began to be dry. And drier. And drier.

The early July rains came just in time to save the crop. There wasn't any bad hail this spring in many areas, although some isolated farmers did get some in this part of the state.

Then when it began to rain, it rained a little more than some people wanted. There are now a lot of farmers wanting hot, sunny days.

I couldn't help but be amused with one farm woman who was upset because there was an airplane flying over her farm. She was afraid they were seeding the clouds.

If Colorado River Municipal Water District had the knowledge to simply turn rain on and off when desired, they could probably take over the world. But this just simply isn't the case.

But back to the cotton grower, Franklin believes that timing is one of the most important factors for success in dryland farming.

He claims that you have to be ready with the right equipment and know when to use it. He claims that a young crop can be completely wiped out if the farmer does not have the right equipment ready to use at the right time.

Franklin is one of the farmers now using the cotton module. "It saves a lot of extra trips to town with cotton trailers," Franklin claims.

He also pointed out the importance of fertilizer, not only when a crop has been good the previous year, but also the year after a short crop.

Franklin is just one of many farmers in Martin, Howard, Glasscock, Mitchell, and Dawson Counties that do the best with whatever weather they get, and hope for cotton.

And the cotton's growing, folks, out where I've been ridin' fence.

Dr. Alexander accepts post

Dr. Gerald W. Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Alexander, Gail Route, has recently completed his residency in oral and maxillofacial surgery at the Valley Medical Center in Fresno, Calif., and accepted a position with a group in the practice of oral and maxillofacial surgery in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Dr. Alexander graduated from Big Spring High School in 1962 and completed his B.S. in Pharmacy at the University of Texas in Austin in 1967 and his D.D.S. at the Baylor College of Dentistry in 1971.

From 1971 to 1972, he did research with the U.S. Health and Nutrition Survey for the U.S. Public Health Service and served in the U.S. Public Health Service Indian Hospital, Rosebud, S.D., from 1972 to 1973.

He was Chief Resident at the Valley Medical Center from 1975 to 1976. Dr. Alexander and his wife, Robbi, and two children will move to Vancouver in October this year where he will begin his practice.

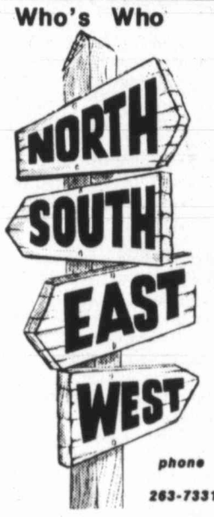

Out patient clinic is now housed in larger quarters

The out patient clinic at Big Spring State Hospital has completed its move to larger quarters and is now housed in what was formerly the staff development building.

"We have much more working and parking space which will enable us to serve the hospital and community more efficiently," said Dr. Ron Cohorn, clinic director. "Our hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and we have people on duty during those hours, waiting to receive calls about problems."

For persons who are not familiar with the hospital area, Dr. Cohorn explained that the clinic is located in the first two-story brick building on the left as one enters the campus. The 14 staff members include two psychiatrists, three psychologists, three case workers and a nurse.

Knights win way to state meet

COLORADO CITY — Knight's Pharmacy of Big Spring breezed into the State Junior Teenage Baseball Tournament by defeating the error-plagued Clyde Bisons, 12-7, in the finals of the District Meet here Wednesday evening.

The Knights, who actually were outhit by the Bisons, return home to await word who they'll play in the first round of the state playoffs scheduled next week in Brownwood.

Clyde, which earlier had sidelined the Big Spring Elks, 21-13, spotted the Knights 11 runs in the first two innings and that proved more than adequate for Bob Knight's club.

Larry Smith and Mark Harris divided time on the hill for Big Spring. Harris took over for Smith after the first inning and easily contained Clyde.

Larry Smith belted a triple and a single to lead Big Spring. Smith's three-baser in the opening innings came with the bases jammed. Clyde center fielder Eddie Chrane lost the ball in the lights and the hit rolled to the wall.

Freddy Martinez and Mark Poss had the other hits for the Knights, both of them one-basers.

Clyde sent three pitchers to the mound in a vain attempt to stop the ambitious Knights. The loss was saddled upon Lindsey Jenkins, who later moved behind the plate for the Bisons.

The Knights scored six runs in round two without the aid of a hit, working Clyde pitchers for three walks and benefitting from six Clyde bobbles.

The Elks simply ran out of pitchers in their game with Clyde. Most of the Elks' hurlers turned up with sore arms.

Knights looking to state tournament

Steve Holcomb and David Brian had doubles for Clyde against the Knights while Rex Walker unloaded a triple.

The victory gave the Knghts an impressive 16-2 won-lost record for the season. They were unbeaten in four games in the district meet.

After the second inning against Clyde, the Knight bats were muffled but it didn't matter by then.

Church league has 4 games

The Church Softball League, which now boasts seven teams, has four games scheduled this evening.

The Salvation Army will be pitted against Evangel Temple at 7 o'clock. First Baptist opposes First Presbyterian at 8 o'clock. The Church of Christ clashes with Church of God at 9 p.m. Church of God returns to play against College Baptist at 10 p.m.

Each team will henceforth play a doubleheader during the course of the season.

Winners of Tuesday games were Salvation Army, Evangel Temple, Church of Christ, and Presybterian.

With the addition of players from the other leagues that have finished their schedule the teams have improved greatly in quality. The public is invited to attend the games. All games are played on the diamond at the corner of FM 700 and 11th Place.

Big Spring MSA All-Stars competition on Friday

The Big Spring Miss Softball America Minor League All-Stars begin Area IV competition this Friday at Roy Anderson Baseball complex north of town.

This is a double elimination tournament, and the winner will advance to the State competition to be held in Sweetwater Aug. 13-15.

The winner of the Midland Gold-Odessa no. 1 game Friday at 1:30 will meet the eventual winner of the Big Spring game that pits the locals against the Midland Blue and Odessa no. 2 winners at 1:30. The local game will be at 6:30 that night.

The winner of that game will go on to meet the eventual winner in the losers bracket, that will take place at 1:30 Sunday. Loser competition will begin at 10 o'clock Saturday, and conclude with the night game at 6:30.

If necessary there will be a playoff game at 6:30 Sunday, which would make a total of nine games played.

The locals are considered a dark horse in the competition and could well be in the fnals.

A small charge will be taken at the gate.

Odessans win over Angelo

ODESSA — Odessa' Downtown Lions defeated Town and Country Stores of San Angelo, 8-5, in the finals of the High Senior Teenage Baseball District Tournament here Wednesday night.

The win moved the Odessans into next week's state tournament at Victoria.

No hitter by tandem is tainted

OAKLAND (AP) — "It was the most tainted no-hitter I've ever seen," said Oakland A's Manager Chuck Tanner. "Or maybe I should call it the funniest."

But to the Chicago White Sox' John "Blue Moon" Odom, who pitched five hitless though walk-filled innings to get credit for the 2-1, no-hit victory, "It was one of the happiest times of my life."

Odom spent 11 seasons with the A's, who gave up on him last year. He was in the minor leagues a month ago before the White Sox gave him a fresh start.

Francisco Barrios, a rookie relief pitcher, took over for Odom in the sixth.

Twins 8-8, Rangers 5-0

LymanBostock laced three singles and drove in two runs, leading Minnesota's first-game victory over Texas. Dan Ford hit a home run and drove in three runs and Steve Luebber won his first major league game in five years to lead the Twins' victory in the second game.

Dodgers dance to Niekro tune

By The Associated Press

Phil Niekro knows what to do with a knuckleball at either end of its dance to the plate.

The veteran flutterballer of the Atlanta Braves knuckled his way to a 7-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday night and also walloped a knuckler from Charlie Hough over the fence park for a three-run homer in the sixth inning that broke the game open.

"I got a bigger kick out of the win than hitting the home run," Niekro said, ruining the theory that pitchers love to talk about their hitting more than their victories.

The Braves snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth when Jerry Royster tripled and scored on Jim Wynn's sacrifice fly.

In the sixth, singles by Tom Paciorek and Ken Henderson chased Tommy John in favor of Hough. After a double play, Hough walked Vic Correll but then served up a knuckler which Niekro belted over the left field fence. Niekro also singled home a run off Elias Sosa in the eighth.

Giants 7, Reds 0

John D'Acquisto and Gary Lavelle combined on a five-hitter and Ken Reitz drove in three runs as the Giants handed the Reds their third shutout in 100 games this season. D'Acquisto allowed four hits before a blister on the thumb of his pitching hand forced him out with one out in the seventh. Rookie Santo Alcala, trying to become the Reds' first 10-game winner, was kayoed in the third.

Cubs 5, Phillies 2

Manny Trillo's three-run homer off Ron Reed in the 11th inning powered the Cubs to victory after Bill Madlock opened with a single, Jerry Morales bounced out and Pete LaCock was intentionally walked. Reed hadn't given up a home run since June 7.

Pirates 1, Mets 0

Richie Hebner's fourth home run in the 13th inning off Ken Sanders produced the only run of the game after Pittsburgh's Doc Medich and New York's Tom Seaver traded 10 innings of shutout pitching. Pirate reliever Dave Giusti won his first game of the season.

Padres 2, Astros 1

Doug Rader's two-run single with two out in the 10th inning backed the seven-hit pitching of Randy Jones, who posted his 18th victory, tops in the majors. John Grubb's one-out single and a two-out double by Mike Ivie preceded Rader's clutch hit off Joaquin Andjujar. Houston scored in the bottom of the 10th on doubles by Leon Roberts and Cliff Johnson.

Expos 3, Cards 0

Woodie Fryman and Dale Murray combined to pitch a 10-hit shutout. The Expos scored in the seventh on Barry Foote's single, a pinch double by Jose Morales and Ellis Valentine's sacrifice fly. They added two runs in the ninth on a walk to Valentine and singles by Wayne Garrett, Larry Parrish and Tim Foli.

Padres' Randy Jones stops Houston, 2-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Consistent is perhaps the best way to describe Randy Jones, and the San Diego lefthander says his team needs a good winning streak.

Jones, baseball's winningest pitcher, notched his 18th victory of the year and just missed his fifth shutout as the Padres edged the Houston Astros 2-1 in 10 innings Wednesday night.

Jones, who has lost only four games, scattered seven Astros hits, including five doubles, as he registered his 11th consecutive triumph over a National League West team this season without a loss.

Doug Rader's two-run single with two outs in the 10th won the game for San Diego.

It was a bitter defeat for Houston righthander Joaquin Andujar, 6-7, who also was going after his fifth shutout of the season, a National League high.

Rader's hit followed a single by John Grubb and Mike Ivie's double as the Padres won for only the seventh time in their last 22 outings.

"There are times when a pitcher has to try to pick up a ball club, and that's what I tried to do tonight," said Jones. "We haven't had a real good streak all year but we sure could use one now."

Jones lost his shutout bid in the bottom half of the 10th on a leadoff double by Leon Roberts and Cliff Johnson's pinch hit double to left.

"This was a typical game for me," Jones said. "We just got one more run than they did and that's all that counts."

Owens is standout for south

HOUSTON (AP) — San Antonio Jefferson's Micah Owens was more concerned about his head swelling than any swelling in his sprained left ankle.

"I think it might swell on me a little too," Owens joked, referring to his head after rallying the South to a 95-90 victory over the North Wednesaay night in the Texas High School Coaches Association (THSCA) all-star basketball game.

Owens, who easily won the game's most valuable player award, scored 33 points, grabbed 13 rebounds and blocked five shots as the Rebels, who blew an 11-point second quarter lead, came back late in the fourth quarter to break a two-year North winning streak.

The 6-foot-6 Owens, who will attend New Mexico State, remained in the game in the third quarter after he crumpled with a sprained ankle.

Owens sprained the ankle as he came down after scoring his 22nd and 23rd points on a jump shot.

"The ankle didn't affect my playing that much," Owens said. "I just came down on it wrong. I don't think I was fouled."

Owens scored 10 more points with his sprained ankle, including four in a winning surge that carried the South from an 83-75 deficit with 4:46 left in the game into an 87-84 advantage with 2:25 to go.

After the North took the eight-point lead on two free throws by El Paso Eastwood's Jim Bowden, the South reeled off eight straight points, including a tip-in by Jeff Kelley of Houston Waltrip at 3:21 that tied it at 83-83.

Thad Sanders of Port Arthur Lincoln put the South ahead for good with a basket at 3:07 and Owens made it 87-84 at 2:25.

As the worm turns
Area fishing news

Clear at last

By Danny Reagan

The skies cleared somewhat over the past week, but the fishing didn't improve proportionally. All lakes showed some luck, but most of them were down from a week ago.

Here's how it went:

LAKE THOMAS

"There were a lot of people, and a bunch of fish caught, but it has slowed down somewhat," said Mr. Tidwell at the Lake Thomas Lodge.

The cats and bass being caught are biting on worms and minnows, and some channel cats in the 1½, 2, and 5-pound range are being brought in on liver.

A 27-pound yellow was brought in on one man's trotline, the general situation is "pretty good," and "they should be really catching them," said Tidwell.

LAKE COLORADO CITY

This lake wasn't blessed with as much sun as most lakes. It rained Saturday, and the fishing has followed the same pattern that was set about a month ago, mostly small ones being caught.

Mrs. Luttrull at the Lodge indicated that the fishermen are still bagging the small bass, crappie and channel cat, and occasionally a few good carp, but mostly everything is small.

"The small bass are doing pretty good," said Mrs. Luttrull, "and they're catching perch and carp at the Fisharma."

One bright note . . . one man bought some minnows from the lodge and journeyed off to the north end of the lake. He brought back five black bass ranging from 3-5 pounds.

One sour note . . . the yellow cat have slowed up considerably.

MOSS CREEK LAKE

"The fishing was fair, but not good," said Ed McCain out at the lake this week.

"For some reason, it fell off," he said.

The cats are biting, and walleye keepers are being landed, but there have been a lot more picnickers than fishermen out, according to McCain.

McCain brought up an error that I made in talking about the six-pound bass being caught out there. Those fish are "blacks" not "whites." Since the state record for whites is a little over five pounds, the mistake was an obvious one that I'm sure most people caught.

He did say that there are some good whites out at the lake, because in a recent netting survey of the lake, some three and four-pound whites were brought in.

LAKE SPENCE

A rumor has surfaced out at the lake, that if the rains remain good, the lake will be full in two to three years. Take that for what it's worth, but if it becomes reality, the lake could be stocked with an incredible amount of more gamefish, such as hybrid Florida bass, musky and walleye.

There were a fair size number of catches reported, and there would have been more if Y.J. at his Marina hadn't lost his record book.

L.R. Bonner, Odessa — 2 stripers to 4½ lbs., 9 channel cat to 4½ lbs.; two Odessa fishermen — 16 channel cat with total weight of 50 lbs.; James Halsey and family — 2 stripers to 9 lbs., 44 channel cat to 6 lbs., 2 blue cat to 6 lbs. 5 oz.; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Spurgeon and party — 7 stripers to 6 lbs. 10 oz.; B.L. Littlejohn and Tommy Anderson, Odessa — 30 channel cat to 3 lbs.

Jeffrey Stevenson, Monohans — 2 stripers to 3½ lbs.; Mrs. Harry London, Winters — 1 striper at 7 lbs.; Mr. and Mrs. David Casey, Hamlin — 2 stripers to 4 lbs.; John Worthen and party, Odessa — 1 yellow cat at 7 lbs.; 15 channel cat to 4 lbs.

And now a word from Kountry Konny Service:

Konny says

"Robert Lee, Texas, has the ability to charm many a 'big city folk.' This quaint little town nestled in the usually dry land of West Texas is somewhat unique.

"It has managed, in the last few years, to build a new high school and gym, a new recreation center, create a beautiful nine-hole golf course, and raise some of the prettiest girls in West Texas. (The last, of course, is an opinion taken from a poll of the young men around the area.)

"Robert Lee has also built two new tennis courts, and a public swimming pool next to the two baseball diamonds.

"Even with all these modern improvements taking place, the old ways haven't moved out of the picture completely. In our new feed store, you still find the farmers gathering next to their cuspidors, talking about old times and wives, in between spits.

"Down the street from our local feed store you'll find the courthouse, complete with horse trough. This trough has been filled in with sod, and is a reminder that the news was built from the old.

"Who is to say that within 20 years, Robert Lee won't have a population of 20,000? (It's around 2,000 now) But, no matter how large this small town grows, there will still be those old relics to remind us new "whipper-snappers" who were there first."

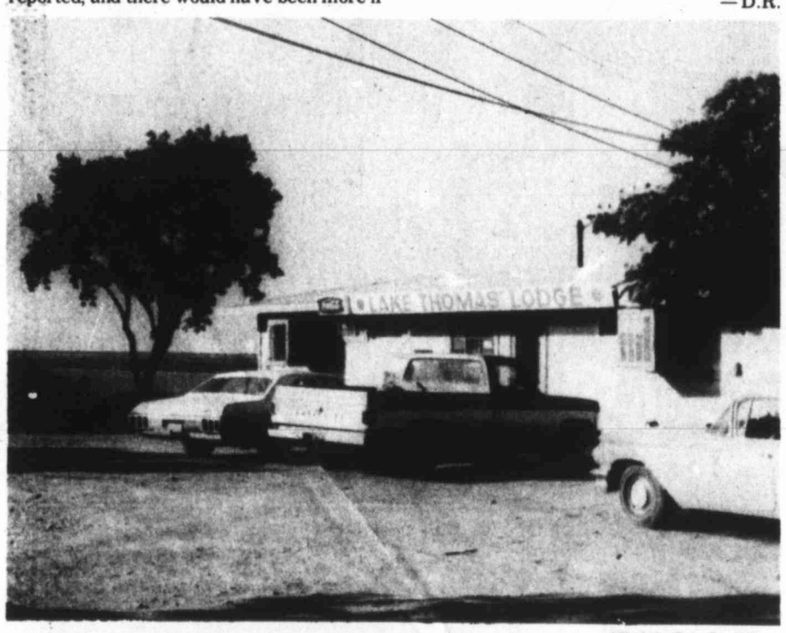

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Your Kountry Girl
Whipper-snapper,
Konny

The rains could come again at any moment, but for now, the lakes are blessed with rays. Thomas is still basking in the run-off that has improved fishing, Colorado City Lake is still to peak, Moss Creek always has the potential for a lunker, and Spence stripers are biting well again. Good luck.

—D.R.

LAKE THOMAS LODGE — This tidy little cafe and tackle and bait shop is located on the widening shores of Lake J.B. Thomas. The Tidwells run the store and rent out cabins to fishermen and vacationers. Fishing at the lake is prospering, due to the nine-foot rise in the level. Catfish are especially biting well now.

SHORT WAY TO GO — Finalists in the Olympic 110-meter hurdles event clear hurdles as they rush to the finish line at the Montreal Olympic stadium Wednesday. Guy Drut of France, in lane 5, was the winner in 13.30 seconds. Runners include, from left: Vvacheslav Kulebyakin of USSR, 7th, Alejandro Casanas of Cuba, 2nd, Charles Foster of the US, 4th, Drut, James Owens of the US, 6th, Willie Davenport of the US, 3rd, Victor Myasnikov of USSR, 8th, and Thomas Munkelt of East Germany, 5th.

U.S. likely to wind up 3rd in medals race

MONTREAL (AP) — The United States now is almost hopelessly out of the medals race in the XXI Olympic Games and, in fact, doesn't even have a very good shot at second place.

The Americans, who once dominated these quadriennial celebrations of sports, suffered a gold medal shutout again Wednesday, their third in five days. They have gained only one gold medal since Sunday night and, in that period, have fallen far back of Russia and East Germany.

Russia, which picked up four golds Wednesday, leads with a gold-silver-bronze count of 33-31-23. East Germany has 30-19-18. The United States is a poor third at 22-26-19.

The trend, however, could be reversed. It's doubtful that America's inspired boxers and somewhat maligned track and field forces can muster enough strength in the closing days of the Games to overtake either of the Communist powers — but they can make it respectable. They could still make it interesting.

The key could come in today's activity. Maxie Parks, Los Angeles; Fred Newhouse, Baton Rouge, La.; and Herman Frazier, Philadelphia, have promised a 1-2-3 American finish and a shutout of Cuba's Alberto Juantoreno in the men's 400 meters.

"We're ready to run him right out of a medal," said Newhouse.

And tonight, big John Tate of Knoxville, Tenn., will take on Cuba's favored Teofilo Stepvenson in a heavyweight boxing semifinal, the feature of the television coverage.

Tate is one of seven Americans who has reached the boxing semifinals. All of them are assured of at least a bronze medal. By comparison, the United States won only three boxing medals in the 1972 Games at Munich.

"We're doing it for Davey," is the boxers' rallying cry. Featherweight Davey Armstrong, Puyallup, Wash., whose mother died only six days before the Games started, was eliminted in the quarter-finals. His teammates say, quite frankly, he was robbed.

Tate, who suffered an eye cut, put together a strong third round for a 3-2 quarter-final decision over West Germany's Peter Hussing, clearing the way for the important bout with the formidable Stevenson, the defending Olympic champion.

Other Americans in tonight's semis are the fighting Spinks brothers, middleweight Mike and light-heavyweight Leon; light-welter Sugar Ray Leonard, Palmer Park, Md.; lightweight Howard Davis, Glen Cove, N.Y.; bantamweight Charles Mooney, an Army sergeant stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and flyweight Leo Randolph, Tacoma, Wash.

The Spinks, like Tate, won quarter-finals Wednesday. The others had advanced earlier. Mike Spinks, from St. Louis, took a 5-0 decision over Ryszard Pasiewicz of Poland.

Leon, a Marine corporal at Camp Lejeune, N.C., had more trouble with the referee than he did Ottomar Sachse of East Germany. Leon scored one knockdown and an easy decision but was warned once for talking to the referee. And when he showed up for the judges' decision wearing a white cap with a red tassle, the referee yanked it off and threw it in a corner.

Americans also have the lead in both men's and women's archery, and, thanks to an excellent ride by Hilda Gurney of Woodland Hills, Calif., moved into second place behind the West Germans in the equestrian dressage team competiton.

The United States, which has won only the basketball gold in the past three days, was limited to two medals Wednesday, a bronze by four-time Olympian Willie Davenport, Baton Rouge, La., in the men's 110-meter hurdles, and a silver by Hawaiians David McFaull and Mike Rothwell in the Tornado class yachts, behind the British boat which already had clinched the gold.

Russia's four golds came in men's and women's team handball, women's team foil fencing and in the men's hammer throw, where Yuriy Syedekh set a Games record with a throw of 254 feet, 4 inches and led a Soviet sweep of the medals. Aleksey Spiridnov was second and Anatoliy Beonjerchuk was third.

Athletes enjoying night life

MONTREAL (AP) — A shadow has fallen across the brotherhood of the Olympics on the playing fields and in the conference rooms. But it is alive and well in the social Olympics in picturesque Old Montreal, especially in a joyous cabaret called the Singing Box.

Each night, visitors from various nations drink, talk and lock arms to sing in the barn-like former garage labeled Boite a Chanson Le St. Vincent, just off Place Jacques Cartier where thousands cavort until dawn.

French-Canadian folk singers, beer, cognac and camaraderie lure Olympic visitors as well as local revelers to the jammed club.

One song goes:

"This is the great show.

"You are going to sing tonight.

"Whether it is friendship or love,

"Who knows? Who cares?"

Olympic-class drinkers from all nations sit around tables, arms on each other's shoulders, and sway to the music. Whether they understand the words or not, some message comes through.

"I like the music, I like the wine, I like the people," said Rae Ross, swimming and judo coach from Northern Ireland. "What else matters? We didn't do so well in the Olympics, but that is not the important thing. It is being here."

Th atmosphere, and perhaps the cognac, inspires some to oratory. West German Gerhard Bauer, son of a Bremen jeweler, was on his soap box.

"I love life, peace, and above all, humanity," he announced in German. "Please, no more war. That is the wish of a German boy."

The room was filled wih 40 per cent foreigners and 60 per cent Quebecois, according to assistant manager Edauardo Pinto, who was amused by the raucous Americans.

"When Americans leave their country and find a place like this, they go berserk. They don't understand the songs or their hidden meanings, but they love it. It's an international crowd, yes, but isn't this the Olympics?"

Outside, in Place Jacques Cartier, there are singing groups, impromptu gymnastics, horse-drawn carriages and artists selling their paintings all night long on the cobbled streets the French built when they settled this lovely area in 1642.

Night fishing for lunkers

Walleyes no easy catch, but . . .

Walleyes are, without a doubt, one of the finest eating and most sought after gamefish in the Midwest. Add the factor of pursuing the lunker members of the species, the occasional huge smallmouth bass and the thrill of after-dark fishing, and you've got all the elements of a thrilling night on your favorite lake.

The majority of fishermen know that walleyes avoid direct sunlight because their eyes aren't accustomed to the glare. But few fishermen use that logic to direct their efforts toward night fishing — that magic time when big walleyes and smallmouths work into shallow water to feed voraciously on minnows and crayfish.

Although dark moonless nights produce good fishing, best fishing for lunker walleyes and smallmouths is on nights with a full moon.

WALLEYES ARE migratory fish that often travel as much as three miles a night in search of minnows, while smallmouths are more sedentary in nature, although found in the same waters as walleyes. Therefore, the first thing to learn about night-fishing for lunker walleyes is that, since they are migratory, a fisherman must also migrate from spot to spot in search of feeding fish.

Move from sandbar to sandbar in search of the fish. Fifteen minutes of casting over any sandbar will tell you whether the fish are in or not. Other likely hot spots are gravel shoals, dropoffs and shipping channels. Points extending out into the lake (if they have a hard bottom) and other hard-bottom areas are good.

Use two pieces of electronic fishing equipment to find the hot spots: a depth finder to keep tabs on the bottom depth and condition and an electronic water thermometer to determine the depth of the 60-degree water walleyes prefer. When you can couple the proper area and bottom conditions with 60-degree water near bottom, you've narrowed down the search.

Find three or four locations like this on any night, and keep working back and forth among them, and you've got half the walleye battle won.

IS THIS unusual fishing? Not especially. Mid-summer fishing for big walleyes is usually the best time, especially for those willing to fish quietly and after dark. Big jumbo smallmouth bass are a bonus fish that luckily are found in the same waters as walleyes.

When the summer's sun bakes the lake's surface, it creates warm surface water which forces the cooler water deep. Daytime fishermen get around this by dredging the bottom with lots of weight when casting lures or by trolling the bottom of the lake with bait. Casting the shallows after dark, when the walleyes and bass move shoreward, is much more productive and a lot more exciting sport.

A good rule to follow, regardless of where you fish, is to use a dark-colored lure on dark nights or in dark-colored water, and use light-colored lures on bright nights or in clear water. Retrieve just fast enough to bring out the built-in wiggle of the lure.

OCCASIONALLY the "clothes pin" or spinner-type lure will work in areas of snag-infested waters where the wiggling plug would get hung up on underwater debris.

Mistakes that beginners often make in this sport are reeling too fast and not keeping their lure near bottom. Lunker walleyes won't come up after a bait. If it's not scraping along bottom at just the right speed, a walleye won't go for it.

A trick that veteran walleye fishermen learn early is to refrain from making any kind of noise. Kill the engine 100 yards from the fishing site and drift or paddle in. Lower anchors without banging on the bottom or sides of the boat.

Small spoons will often take lunker bass and walleyes if presented properly along the bottom. This trick works as well in lakes where plugs and spinner-type baits have been used extensively. Reel just fast enough to bring out the spoon's wobble. Occasionally, a small sliver of fish flesh on the hooks will add extra enticement.

Although nighttime walleyes and bass run to large sizes, the tackle used needn't be too heavy. A seven-foot rod, an open-faced spinning reel stocked with 12-pound-test monofilament and a lure with sharp hooks is suitable. A wire leader isn't necessary; it reduces the lure's effectiveness.

HEAVY LINE isn't needed because, although big walleyes put up a good scrap, they seldom make the long runs or sudden dashes which usually break the line. Keep a tight line and an arched rod and the biggest walleye that swims can be landed with 12-pound mono.

Another trick walleye experts use is the rapid increase in speed when a fish "bumps" the lure. Walleyes often smack a lure and then double back on the imitation minnow to swallow it. If you feel a bump, increase the lure's speed and often you'll hook a lunker fish.

Big walleyes, like trophy fish of any kind, aren't all that easy to catch anywhere in their native habitat. But if a fisherman goes to the trouble to search out his favorite habitat, orient his fishing to the lake bottom, fish after dark and keep quiet, he should rack up respectable catches of fish.

Hooker parade plagues Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — News of an invasion of prostitutes has quickly turned the Cedar Springs-Oak Lawn area of Dallas into a parade of headlights, neon lights, street people and curious sightseers.

One of the scores of hookers who have descended on the area recently stood alongside a stop sign, hailing each motorist as cars stopped before entering what had become a slow caravan of sightseers and prospective "customers" along Cedar Springs.

"Hi baby, want to play?" she asked.

Concerned residents complained to the City Council during its Monday meeting, angrily demanding police action.

"It's a hell of a deal," Mickey Scrima, maitre d'hotel at a night club in the area, said. "Look at all those girls lined up along the street. They're ruining business around here."

Scrima's club is located at the corner of Oak Lawn and Cedar Springs, a foilage-lush area of shops, apartments, bars and coffee shops that has undeniably become the central point for street—walking prostitutes.

"They've just descended like locusts," he said. "They stop motorists, pedestrians, anybody. Thank God they haven't tried coming in here."

Last Sunday morning—at 2 a.m.—Cedar Springs looked like a carnival midway. Prostitutes lined the street for eight blocks or more.

Motorcycle officers were stationed along each block while patrol cars cruised the half-mile square area as "protection" for undercover vice officers trying to bust hookers.

But police are finding it hard to arrest hookers more than once.

"It's hard to bust a horse (prostitute) twice," vice officer Steve Peavy said. "Sometimes they forget you but usually not unless they're stoned or stupid."

City Council is considering drafting tough ordinances the council admits may not be constitutional. "We'll worry about that later," one councilman said. "We've got to get all these girls off the street."

But police have but 15 vice officers to enforce prostitution laws all over the city. "I know one motel where a guy has brought in 35 girls," one area resident told council members Monday. "You've got to do something."

Complained one area businessman: "They're really cheap. They got no class. The whole thing looks bad."

A safety committee of the City Council proposed Wednesday that a municipal licensing system be set up, providing a weapon to close any hotel or motel which knowingly allows prostitution.

This committee recommended also that Police Chief Don Byrd reinstate a "decoy prostitute" program and arrest men who try to pick up streetwalkers.

Members of the group said theh will submit to fellow councilmen Monday a new ordinance that will prohibit adult book stores and nude modeling studios within 1,000 feet of a residential area.

Too many students

PRAGUE (AP) — Only three out of every five applicants, or 12 per cent of the preuniversity student population, will be able to attend Slovak universities this year.

Because of the increasing number of applications, only one out of five will be accepted by the law faculties and one out of three-and-a-half by medical schools. Out of every 12 students who wish to study psychology, only one will be able to do so.

1. LOOK AT ME
I'm a pretty house with 3 bdrms., 2 full baths, formal L.R., kit. with built ins, dining area, big den, utility with a Spanish air — that's not all, I have the room for a garden, horse hot, and a place to cool off in my swimming pool, or tone up on my trampoline. Just 2 miles from town, plus 2 good water wells, and 1 acre.
2. I NEED A BIG FAMILY
to live in me, I have 4,800 sq. ft. that a family can have all the room they want to grow in — You will just have to come see me to get a real good look. Also I'm in the Forsan school district.
3. HERE I AM
just waiting for someone to settle down in, with 2 bdrms, nice bath, lovely kit., carport, 1 acre.

Local teen fails to post $15,000 bail

An 18-year-old Big Spring man remained in city jail today in lieu of $15,000 bond as a result of filing procedures stemming from an incident last weekend.

At the time of his arrest, he was held on charges of carrying a prohibited weapon, aggravated kidnaping, two counts of disorderly conduct, three counts of aggravated assault, and one of burglary.

It was later learned that the 16-year-old girl that was thought to have been abducted, went with the man on her own volition.

The formal charges filed today included one count of assault and one count of carrying a handgun. Detective Tom Belshe said the burglary case file has been sent to the District Attorney's office, but that charge is still pending.

Future focus of volunteerism mulled by experts at Austin

The future focus of volunteerism in state facilities was of prime concern to volunteer coordinators who met in Austin last week. The annual workshop, sponsored by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, was held under the direction of Nancy Barker, Chief of Volunteer Services, TDMHMR, with the aid of assistants Sam Baker and Bebo Keyes.

Participants from Big Spring State Hospital volunteer services office included Margaret Baum, coordinator; Jo Bright, assistant coordinator and Genie Crooks, administrature assistant.

In-service training on interviewing, recruiting, training and supervising volunteers was conducted by Mrs. Keyes and guest consultant, Ms. Norma Selfridge. Using a role-playing method, the women demonstrated how to get good volunteers and keep them active in successful programs. In answer to how to know if a volunteer is losing interest, Mrs. Keyes said, "If they quit coming, that's a pretty good clue."

Ms. Ann Kratz, an attorney for TDMHMR, viewed legal aspects of volunteerism and answered questions concerning rights of patients, employes and volunteers.

Highlighting the workshop was an informal question and answer session featuring Dr. Kenneth Gaver, Commissioner, TDMHMR. Dr. Gaver discussed current legislation concerning the department and touched briefly on proposed guidelines for volunteer services to the Outreach program. He praised the volunteer Public Responsibility Committee which serves to protect patients' rights in state mental health facilities.

Work sessions were held at the Villa Capri Motor Hotel, with the final day convening at the Central Office Building, TDMHMR.
