U. S. WARNING CALMS REBELS

Edict That Retaliation Will Follow Effective

NACO, Ariz., April 9 (AP).—How to effectively attack the federal garrison at Naco, Sonora, without firing into American territory was the problem of the rebel forces of General Fausto Topete south of here today.

The situation held many possibilities for the rebels. If Topete's army should fire into American territory again, it would be almost certain to draw a shower of lead from eighteen American fighting planes and other United States army forces along the border.

THIS SOUNDS REFRESHING

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP).—The modern American collegian is not "collegiate" but "has higher ideals and purposes, does better and more serious scholastic work and lives by a higher standard of moral conduct than the student of any preceding generation."

That is the conclusion Henry Grattan Doyle, dean of men of George Washington university, has drawn from his own observations and from statements by presidents or deans of men of 300 colleges.

He undertook the inquiry, he explained today, with a desire "to contribute something toward the correction of what I believe to be erroneous public opinion concerning the college man and woman today." He will make a detailed report this week at the annual meeting here of the association of deans and advisers of men.

TEXAS BANK IS PILFERED; YOUTH HELD

MAN CAUGHT IN OKLA., IS ACCUSED OF BELLS' RAID

SHERMAN, April 9.—A young man was arrested at Durant, Okla., today in connection with the robbery of a bank at Bells, Texas, yesterday.

He wore blue trousers and a white shirt, but no coat or jacket, and his description was said to tally with that of the robber. Sheriff Arthur Vaughn, at Denison, left for Durant.

Early today a man, dressed as the bank robber was reported to have dressed, went to the home of a farmer near Cherry Mound and at the point of a pistol forced him to change clothing. He left with a pair of blue serge trousers, white shirt and a yellow lumber jacket. He discarded his own clothing. The farmer rode to Denison after the young man had left and informed officers.

ALL NIGHT VIGIL KEPT BY POSSE

DENISON, April 9 (AP)—After an all-night search of the wooded section of Choctaw Creek, near here, officers had failed to find any trace of a man who yesterday robbed a bank at Bells of $700, and fled as a motor bus passenger after wrecking his own automobile. The robber was said to have jumped the bus and disappeared into the Choctaw bottoms as the vehicle approached Denison.

Officers continued today to guard all bridges and roads in the vicinity of the creek, which has been at flood stage after recent heavy rains, in the hope the man may still be hiding in the underbrush.

Only two employes, Paul Wilson, teller, and Joe Hughes, cashier, were in the institution, the State Bank of Bells, when the robber entered. They were forced into the bank's vault, and later were liberated by passerby who heard their cries.

CLARA CHAUNCEY DIES HERE TODAY

Clara Paul Chauncey, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Chauncey, 1624 13th street, died in a local sanitarium at about 12:40 this morning, following an illness of three weeks.

Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church tomorrow afternoon with the Rev. H. L. Munger, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Lubbock Cemetery under the direction of Rix morticians.

Miss Chauncey was a junior in the Lubbock high school and a popular member of the younger set. Other than her parents, she is survived by four sisters: Mrs. M. L. Williams, Childress, and Mrs. Bruce Gentry, Mrs. H. A. Lewis and Lillie Kate Chauncey, all of Lubbock; and two brothers, Arnold and John J. Chauncey, both of this city. A number of other relatives, outside of the immediate family, survive.

Miss Chauncey has lived in Lubbock for the past thirteen years.

Highway Work Is Making Progress

DALLAS, April 9 (AP).—Highway construction has made great progress during the past ten years, but still is 80 per cent behind the needs of the nation, Major Roy Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, said in an address prepared for delivery here today before the convention of the Southern Commercial Secretaries Association.

The present good roads movement has passed the "propaganda stage" in which interest of the people had to be awakened to benefits flowing from hard surfaced roads and has entered the "construction stage," the address said.

JILTED LOVER OF AIMEE'S MOTHER FILES $50,000 SUIT AS HEART BALM

SEATTLE, April 9. (AP)—Charges that Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, made "violent and passionate love" to him and then refused to marry him were on file here today in a $50,000 breach of promise suit by the Rev. H. H. Clark, middle aged minister of the Christian denomination here.

The minister, who filed the suit yesterday, alleged Mrs. Kennedy came into his life under the assumed name of Mary E. Clark last December in Seattle. Mr. Clark averred Mrs. Kennedy rented a hotel apartment here where they could "talk undisturbed."

The suit set forth that while they talked of establishing a tabernacle for Mr. Clark in Seattle and outfitting a "gospel ship" for missionary work in Alaska and along the Pacific Coast, Mrs. Kennedy persuaded him to visit the apartment and another hotel room.

The minister asserted Mrs. Kennedy proposed marriage, promising to finance the tabernacle and "Gospel Ship" after their wedding. Mr. Clark represented himself to be hesitant at first about the marriage proposal but declared he finally consented.

Mr. Clark set forth he first learned "Mary E. Clark" was Mrs. Kennedy when he saw her picture in a newspaper last February. Thereafter, he alleged, Mrs. Kennedy abandoned him. Her refusal to marry him, he declared, left him heartbroken.

FLORIDA WILL MISS MR. SINCLAIR FOR SEASON

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Unless unusual delays are obtained, Harry F. Sinclair will spend most of the summer in one of the capital's oldest public buildings, the Washington asylum and jail, because of his refusal to answer all questions asked him during the senate Teapot Dome investigation.

Although it was built 70 years ago and lacks some of the improvements which more modern structures contain, it is regarded as one of the best, as jails go. In common with other public—and private—buildings in Washington, however, it is not regarded as a summer resort, and jail officials are emphatic in their declaration the wealthy oil man will be granted no special privileges.

Under the rules of the Supreme Court, Sinclair has only 25 days in which to appeal for a rehearing from its decision yesterday upholding his conviction for contempt of the senate, which carried with it the three months jail sentence and a fine of $500. Rehearings are seldom granted, however, and the Supreme Court's mandates usually are sent to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia within ten days. Whenever the mandate in Sinclair's case is received, United States Attorney Rover has explained, he will be notified promptly to appear to begin his sentence.

TERRACING WORK IS DEMONSTRATED

Under the direction of B. M. Whiteker, agricultural director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, demonstrations in terracing are being given at Texas Technological college today.

Due to the high wind and the sand storm the expected crowd did not attend the demonstrations this morning, which were conducted in the big pasture of the college. Students aided in the work and a few visitors interested in the type of machinery attended.

The purpose of the demonstrations was to increase the interest in terracing not only to the farmer, but to the school boy and the general public as well.

Demonstrations will be near the Tech poultry farm this afternoon. An International tractor, a machine of the Brown Terracing company of Breckenridge, and a Lone Star terracer are being used.

YES IT'S SANDY, BUT IT MIGHT BE WORSE—THAT'S WHAT FIGURES TELL

Despite the sandstorm raging outside today and the frequent windy and sandy days of March, it might have been worse.

That, at least, is what the agricultural experiment station here has to say about it. March was slightly less windy than normal for the month, says a weather report released today.

The report showed that the rainfall for the month was 2.03 inches, an increase of 1.10 inches over the normal precipitation of .93 inches for March. The month's wind run was 5,707 as compared to the average of 5,884.

There were sixteen clear days in March, five partly cloudy, and ten cloudy. The temperature ranged from 88 to 21 degrees, striking a mean temperature of 52.13 degrees. Total evaporation was slightly more than five inches.

A SWANKY SUIT

BY MME. LISBETH

Do you remember the time when a girl or woman in knickers was an unfamiliar and somewhat shoking sight? It's not so very far back—no farther than when the present college young people were in the grammar grades.

No one gets a shock at seeing girls in knickers, or even in the still more masculine trousers, now.

Pictured is the pulchritudinous Camilla Horn, of Hollywood, in a swanky and comfortable suit of white trousers and blouse on the porch of her ocean front home.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Kills Boy Rival for School girl." This is a heading in a morning paper and the article goes on to say that a young man shot by a boy he saw walking with his schoolgirl sweetheart. Now there is a young life ended, leaving broken hearted mother and father, a girl whose life will always be shadowed by the tragedy for which she will feel she may have been to blame; and a promising young man headed for the gallows or life imprisonment with his parents more heart broken that the dead boy's, for they will feel that they must have failed in their job of bringing up their son or he would have controlled his emotions instead of yielding and creating all this havoc.

* * *

I am not one who mourns for the "good old days." I believe the present day is better than the present generation, too, but no one can deny that there is a laxity of control in behavior. And the old ones are often worse than the children.

Self-control, a feeling of responsibility, are what we need. Cultivate it, you young people, and try to realize the bigness of life, the fact that your little personal happiness does not mean so much as your integrity. Set an example to your elders—for you are the idealists.

* * *

FRIENDLESS: Maybe by this time the young man has gotten someone to introduce him to you and you are commencing a friendship or romance. If not, there is no reason why you shouldn't some day speak to him and at least have the satisfaction of an occasional conversation. If neither of these things come about, remember, my dear, that your case is not unusual, and as you are young you will get over it and maybe have two or three or more affairs of this kind before you meet Mr. Right Man. Oh, yes, you will.

* * *

LONESOME FOR ONE: Don't be impatient, my dear little girl. Plenty of time for special boy friends and time will solve your problem. Be a happy child while you can.

* * *

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am in love with a fellow who attends college. He writes very seldom. When he was home for his vacation I was was with him once. He treated me wonderfully. He says he 'likes me a lot.' What does he mean by that? How should I treat him? He goes with no other girls, although he is very popular. Here is another problem: Before he came home I had been going with another fellow whom I care for as much. Now since I've been with this college fellow he treats me 'cool.' What should I do, as I'd hate to lose him? Must I apologize for being with the college friend? PATSY."

My guess is that the college friend is not in a position to be very attentive until he finishes school. And the second boy may have been a bit "peeved" to see you with the other, but will get over it and return. He had no "strings on you," so to speak, so no apology is necessary. Just be as friendly as ever to both, and if the second one says anything about the first tell him the other boy is an old friend, and naturally you accepted his invitation when he was home from school.

* * *

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 17 years old and am a senior in high school. I have a girl friend in another town and I have gone to visit her lots, and there was a boy she went with some, and he showed us both a good time. They had a quarrel and he wrote to me for advice. We wrote for about five or six months. Lately he hasn't cared to make up with her. He came several times and I went there and visited my friend. I like him very much and thought he liked me, but he has quit writing and I don't know why. I wrote and asked him and told him I'd like him to write and tell me and then he could quit writing if he wanted to. He hasn't answered my letter and it will be three weeks soon. I know he got it, because my friends saw him reading it at school. My girl friend keeps writing and wants me to come up some week end and I want to, but hate to because of him. I won't know how to act or what to say to him, for I feel kind of funny about writing that last letter. What shall I do? If you can help me I certainly will appreciate it.

"NANCY WELLS."

It was perfectly all right to write and ask the boy friend why he didn't write, dear, so don't worry a bit about it. He's probably interested in another girl by this time and you may not even see him when you visit your girl friend, although I suppose you want to do that and find out what is the matter with him. Let him do all the talking. If you do see him, and you can be quite cool to him if you wish and have a good time without him. The explanations and embarrassments are all up to him.

* * *

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a high school girl and not really homely, although not good looking. Can you tell me why it is that when I meet a new girl friend at first she really likes me, and then, after a month or so I seem to become boresome to her. KITTY."

I can't tell you, dear, unless you really are boresome. Are you? Are you interested in your friends and in their affairs, and do you try to be a good, understanding pal? If so, maybe the girls you choose for friends are the changeable sort and you had better select others that are true.

Capital Hopes To Get Solution For Mrs Gann Upheaval

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Prospects for an early settlement of the capital's social upheaval over the rank of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice-President Curtis, as a guest at official functions, were seen today in the decision of the diplomatic corps to ask Secretary Stimson for a definite ruling.

The diplomats discussed the problem for two hours last night at a meeting called by Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, as dean of the corps. They agreed that, in view of the protest by Vice-President Curtis against the ruling issued by former Secretary Kellogg placing Mrs. Gann's social rank below that of the wives of diplomats—and, incidentally, the wives of cabinet members and senators—Sir Esme should take up the matter with the new secretary.

Because of the large number of social functions planned before the vacation season begins, it was thought a definite ruling was more desirable than efforts to avoid embarrassment by arranging guest lists so they would not include both diplomats and the vice-president. Such a course, it was felt, might have little on no effect except to add one more complication to the already extremely complex problem of social rank in Washington, especially in view of the claims of the chief justice and speaker of the House of Representatives to social rank equal to that of diplomats.

A. A. U. CHANGE BEING PLANNED

FIVE RESULTS SOUGHT BY QUESTIONNAIRE BEING SENT OUT

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 9.—A movement, which may change the complexion of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and its policies toward amateur and professional sports, has been started by Avery Brundage of Chicago, president.

Brundage has addressed a lengthy questionnaire to the 157 governors of the A. A. U., and when their answers are in, he expects to see a change in the constitution.

At least five results are expected from the questionnaire, Brundage said. They are:

Consummation of close harmony between the A. A. U., and the national collegiate association.

Formation of a high judiciary commission of five or more men to be supreme in all matters of amateur eligibility, the commission to function for amateur athletics as Commissioner K. M. Landis does in baseball.

Creation of a better understanding and keener appreciation of the A. A. U., by the public.

Recognition of the A. A. U. kindred organizations as the governing body in all amateur athletics, excepting that which is strictly collegiate.

Revamping of the A. A. U. constitution and rules to fit present day needs and to accomplish fulfillment of the foregoing objectives.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

The rain storm lasted quite a while, and then the sun began to smile, and all the clouds up in the air turned into white from black. The sky was very pretty now. It changed from dull to bright somehow, but far away the Tinies still could hear the thunder crack.

The Goofygoo then looked around. Said he, "I guess it's safe and sound. The storm has moved away from us. I never like the rain. The month of April brings short showers, but they are needed for the flowers, I guess what seems to be my loss, is someone else's gain."

And then he told the Tiny bunch that he had just thought of a hunch that ought to please each one of them and bring a treat quite rare. "Right now," he said, "I will begin to fly up where you've never been. We'll reach the top part of the sky and see who lives up there."

"A great idea," Scouty cried. "That's something we have never tried. I only hope that such a trip won't take our breath away. Go right ahead, do what you please, and we'll all sit right here in ease. I hope you don't get tired out. In the air we want to stay."

Just then an echo of the storm flashed by and made the Tinies warm. It was a streak of lightning. My, you know how lightning flares. At first it scared each Tinymite, and then they saw a funny sight. The streak had stopped beside them and it formed a pair of stairs.

Wee Clowny jumped right up and said, "A great plan just popped through my head. That lightning leads to some place and I'm going to find out where." Before the rest had time to speak, he jumped out on the lightning streak, and much to everyone's surprise, he ran up through the air.

(Clowny finds a new land in the next story.)

Random Scraps Of News Pertaining To Sports World

Bucky Harris says that the Chicago Cubs of 1929 form the greatest ball club he ever saw . . . They murdered his Tigers. . . . Dempsey weighs 210 pounds now. . . . Heinie Sand will be moved from Rochester to St. Louis. . . If young Gelbert won't do at short for the Cards. . . . Glenn Wright is learning to throw with his left arm, . . . His right one is bad. . . And Robby says Barney Dreyfus knew it when he sent him to the Brooklyns. . . Erin Ward was reading clerk in the Arkansas senate. . . During the winter. . . Durocher went up to the Yanks last year with a bag of canes. . . . And the Babe busted every one of them. . . The Cards had 27 pitchers in the training camp. . . And they worked three of them at a time in batting practice. . . In three different cages.

They'll Fight for Him

Bucky Harris has moved himself right into the family with the Detroit players and has a hold on them that only a Bucky Harris could build up in such a short time, according to a story told by Warren Brown.

When the Tigers moved into California for a series of exhibition games against the Cubs a young writer on one of the Los Angeles papers proceeded to put Harris on the pan.

He reprinted the stories about the high hat that Bucky is supposed to wear and held the young Detroit manager up as the Tunney of the diamond.

When the Detroit players read the story, according to Brown, they rallied to the cause of their manager. One group wanted to call upon the editor of the paper and demand a retraction. A second group wanted to dump a letter from every player on the club on the editor's desk telling him what a fine fellow they had found Harris to be. A third group wanted to bust someone in the nose.

It would seem quite obvious from this reliable story, that the Tigers will have harmony if nothing else this year and harmony hasn't been a virtue of the Detroit club for years.

Whassa Matter With Wally?

Wally Pipp, former first baseman for the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds, is in Newark, where he is going to play for Tris Speaker's International League club.

There was considerable curiosity expressed in the southern training camps as to why a number of major league clubs that could have an experienced first baseman permitted him to be waived out of the big leagues.

Cleveland could use him. He is a better ball player than George Burns and the champion Yankees are holding Burns as a relief man for Gehrig.

The Athletics certainly could use him. Ossie Orwoll flopped this year for old Connie and Jimmy Foxx may have to be used as the regular first baseman. He is a nice kid and a great ball player, but he isn't a first baseman for a championship team.

If Mack had grabbed Pipp when the Yankees decided to turn him loose, the Athletics might have won a pennant. It was a fatal weakness at first base last year that robbed Mack of a chance to win the championship. Pipp certainly would have been better than anyone Mack had. But Mack let him go and the Reds grabbed him.

"Not Co," Says Jim

When the experts were speculating about the chance offered to Mickey Walker to win his third major championship in his fight against Tommy Loughran it was mentioned that only one man before him ever had held three championships.

Bob Fitzsimmons was middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight champion, although the light heavyweight class in his time was not as important as it is now.

It was also mentioned in connection with Fitzsimmons that he never weighed more than 165 pounds. Even when he won the heavyweight title.

Mr. James J. Corbett vigorously denies this.

"Fitz weighed 184 pounds when he fought me," Corbett said to the writer recently. "Any of the old-timers know that. And the records can prove it."

Joliet Quint Wins In Bowling Events

CHICAGO, April 9 (AP).—The hub recreation quint of Joliet, Ill., today was crowned champion of the 1929 American bowling congress after the last of 2,523 team entrants had completed its efforts.

Their mark, a 3,063 total, rolled March 20, withstood all attasks although it remains 136 pins shor of the record score made in 1927 by the Oh Henrys at Kansas City. The Klinger Buicks of Watertown, Wis., finished secon dwith a 3,041 count and the Edelweiss combination of Chicago, accumulating 3,030 pins, ended in third place.

It would cost more than $250,000,000 to duplicate the Great Wall of China, engineers estimate.

SPUR SCHOOL TO APPEAR IN PRACTICE GO

TECH LIKELY TO USE ENTIRE SQUAD IN GAME

Coach Grady Higginbotham will look 'em over under fire this afternoon as the Tech baseball nine hustles out for the first practice game of th season with the Spur high school aggregation. The Matador baseballers are beginning to take on the semblance of a baseball outfit and th etilt this afternoon will serve as an appetizer for the two-game series Thursday and Friday with Big Spring.

Spur is bringing a snappy high school aggregation to furnish competition for the locals in their first appearanc e of the season. The Matador mentor will likely give his entire squad an opportunity to show their stuff against the crew from Dickens county.

Coach Higginbotham will give all his hurlers a chance to work in the box today, including new slabmen of the squad. The veterans, Hill and Howell, will likely give way to McCrary, Hobson, Moore or Alexander before the last song is sung.

A sore throwing member may keep Burnett from taking his post behind the plate in the game this afternoon. Hodges will likely do the backstopping. Others in the starting lineup include: Taylor at first; Rigney at second; Waller at shortstop; Peterson at third; DeWitt, Brothers and Marshall in the outfield.

Today's game will start at 4 o'clock.

SPUD SQUAD IS DIVIDED

ABILENE TEAM TO BE MADE UP FROM WICHITA

DALLAS, April 9 (AP).—The Wichita Falls squad was reduced today to 24 men with the departure for Abilene of 23 players from which a team to represent that city in the West Texas league will be chosen. The Abilene aggregation will be managed by Carl Williams. The spudders squad now consists of three catchers, nine pitchers, seven infielders and five outfielders, leaving only a few reductions to be made before May 17.

Gilbert Mulleavy, young infielder from the Toledo club of the American association, will play second base for the San Antonio Indians. He reported today, displacing Tom Connolly, Texas league veteran, released yesterday. Connolly has been troubled with a charley horse and, while he has been hitting hard, his fielding has left something to be desired. Mulleavy, who played in the Piedmont league last Summer, comes highly recommended.

Atz Takes Team to Waco

With his squad cut to 25 by the release of six youngsters, Manager Atz of Fort Worth prepared today to lead a team to Waco for two games with the cubs. Following this afternoon's practice session at Fort Worth, the skipper will name 18 men, who will make the trip to Waco. The other seven players will stay a thome to continue training. They probably will be taken to Wichita Falls for Saturday and Sunday games with the Spudders and seven others left behind. Vincent Devaney and Buzz Phillips have been named by Atz as the probable Fort Worth pitchers in the first contest at Waco.

Batting and fielding practice made up today's training program of the Dallas Steers. The Herd was forced to forego training yesterday due to wet grounds. Manager Stock expected to start cutting his squad today or tomorrow.

Bert Schemanske, pitcher, was released to Quincy. Elwood Blackwell, pitcher, to San Angelo, and Joe Bressler, outfielder, to San Angelo yesterday by the Beaumont Exporters. Most of the Rookies are to be placed in class D leagues subject to recall, officials said. Rain made Stuart stadium unplayable today.

BUNIONERS FACE STRENUOUS DAY

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 9 (AP).—C. C. Pyle's cross-country marathoners today had one of the hardest tasks of the whole trip.

Up over the highest portion of the Appalachian range, the bunioners had 63 miles to the next control point, Uniontown, Pa. Cooling showers were forecast. The last three days the men have plugged under a beaming sun which held the temperature near the 90-degree mark.

Ed Garnder, Seattle negro runner, led the field this morning. The dusky Pacific Coast star yesterday wrested the lead from John Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman, and had a 34-minute advantage in total elapsed time.

A jug of cold water poured over the back of the hea', followed by a rub with a rough towel, is a suggested cure for insomnia.

MACDONALD SMITH STILL AT IT

BY JACK SORDS

Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and Journal

With young Horton Smith, the Joplin, Mo., sensation, monopolizing the golf spotlight by his string of winter victories in the south, the veteran Macdonald Smith slipped quietly to England, still on the trail of the British open title.

It wasn't long ago that in golf the surname Smith immediately suggested the sandy-haired Scotchman. He was "the" Smith. Now it has changed to Horton, the "second Bobby Jones."

But Mac is not going to let the people forget. He can still swing the clubs in his same old characteristic style, as was illustrated in the $10,000 Los Angeles open last year, and it would surprise everyone but him if he finaly bagged the British title.

GOLFERS WILL SEEK LAURELS

RYDER CUP SQUAD TO ENTER EUROPEAN TOURNEYS

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP).—America's 1929 Ryder Cup squad is to seek all the principal European professional golf laurels.

In addition to their most important engagement the British Ryder Cup squad, the American professionals also are to take a shot at the British and German open crowns and compete in a number of other tournaments in England and France.

The ten members of the team sail for England tomorrow night and defend the Ryder Cup at Leeds on April 26 and 27. Then follows the British Open at Muirfield, May 6-11; the Yorkshire Evening News 1,000 guineas tournament at Leeds May 13-18; the French professional championship near Paris May 19-24; the German open of 72 holes, May 25-26; and a match with a picked French team, probably at Biarritz on May 28-29.

Special uniforms have been selected for the team. They are of navy blue flannel with knickers to match and with white trousers for off-links wear. On the coats will be sewed a red, white and blue shield with the letters "R. C. T."

WICHITA, Kan., April 9 (AP).—Duff Stanley, Wichita Falls, Texas welterweight, last night won a decision from Kenny Hill, Wichita, in a boxing contest here.

FROSH TRACK ENTRIES WILL BE SATURDAY

FRESHMAN CONTESTS TO FEATURE DUAL MEET HERE

Tech freshmen will run against Lubbock high school tracksters Saturday in connection with the Tech-Daniel Baker dual track and field meet, it was announced from athletic headquarters yesterday.

Special events have been arranged for the Westerners and Junior Matadors as added attractions to the varsity fracas. Practically all track events, with the exception of the hurdle races, will be included in the high school-freshman affair. No weight events will likely be hel din this division of the meet.

Coach Victor Payne started his Matador track hopefuls off at a fast galt Monday afternoon to begin the fireworks for the dual struggle with the Hill Billies. Considerable shifting was done and when the first events is called Saturday, the Tech entries will likely be quite different from the ones that were sent against Canyon last week.

Reports from Brownwood indicate the Goats have one of the strongest track aggregations in the T. I. A. A. this season. Coach Blair was blessed with a flock of veterans at the beginning of the season, and will doubtless give the Tech crew a much liveller chase than the Buffs of Canyon were able to do.

ELDER WILL TAKE PART IN RELAYS

PHILADELPHIA, April 9 (AP).—Jack Elder, Notre Dame's sensational sprinter, will face the starter's gun in the hundred yard dash, one of the feature events of the 35th annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival, on April 26 and 27.

Elder, a member of Knute Rockne's football teams of the last two years, holds among other achievements, a victory over Percy Williams, Canada's brilliant sprinter and Olympic champion. Time and again during the indoor season Elder equalled or broke existing records for the short sprints.

In the century on Franklin field, he will meet two territorial rivals in Simpson and Kriss, both of Ohio State. Simpson is the conference champion in the 100 and 220 and the Pennsylvania relay champion in the century.

DENVER, April 9 (AP).—Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, downed Joe Bernstein of Denver in two straight falls at the stockyards stadium here last night.

LONDOS DEFEATS HARPER

NEW ORLEANS, April 8 (AP).—Londos, Greek champion, defeated Paul Harper, former University of Texas football player, in two falls out of three at wrestling here tonight. They are heavyweights.

The Hooker Oak, of California, is the largest leafing tree in America. When in leaf it would shade about 8,000 persons.

TECH CAN'T FORGET FOOTBALL

Georgia Tech, Southern football champ, called these Tornado grid lights out to play baseball for her and look what's happened! Forgetting he's supposed to be a first baseman, Warner Mizell, above, backfield flash, hurls a pigskin to second. Below, Tom Jones, left, star end and center fielder, has decided to make a touchdown if he isn't tackled by Halfback-Third Baseman Earl Dunlap.

FIRST MEDAL PLAY FOR COUNTRY CLUB GOLFERS IS SLATED FOR THIS SUNDAY

Members of the Lubbock Country Club tournament committee announced this morning plans for opening of the spring golfing season, with the first medal play scheduled for Sunday, April 14.

Golfers Sunday will shoot with a handicap against a blind par, being somewhere between 72 and 90, inclusive. Before starting, each golfer will turn in his handicap according to his skill. The handicap must be deducted from the gross score so that the net score will lie between 72 and 90.

After finishing his game, each golfer will turn in his net score with his name. Names of the entries are drawn from a hat together with a number between 72 and 90. If the "par" drawn from the hat is the net score of the corresponding entry, this golfer wins the match.

In this sort of tournament, all players, whether good or bad, have an equal chance if care is taken not to go over or under handicap. Suitable prizes will be awarded.

RUTH UNABLE TO CLOUT FOR CIRCUIT TRIP

GIANT STEAMROLLER HALTED BY SENATORS

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Dazzy Vance, star Brooklyn pitcher, troubled with sciatica, has been sent here to receive treatment. The ace's tack is a light one, and Vance expects to be in shape to start the season.

It's a rare New York Yankee game in which eight home runs are hit and none of them to the credit of Babe Ruth's big bat. That's what happened yesterday when the Yankees bowed to the Tulsa Oilers, 12 to 9. Eight circuit drives were made, four by each club, but the Babe got only a pair of singles.

Giant Steamroller Stopped

The New York Giant steamroller, which has been riding roughshod over all opposition has come to a stop. Garland Braxton and Irving Hadley of Washington saw to that yesterday at Birmingham. They held the Giants virtually helpless while the Senators pounded Karl Hubbell for seven hits and five runs in 7 innings and Curly Ogden for three hits and three runs in one frame. The final score was 8 to 3. It was the Giants' third defeat in 17 exhibition games.

Bob Asbjornson of Concord, Mass., young rookie catcher with the Red Sox, came through when given a chance, as Manager Bill Carrigan's rookies have a way of doing. Yesterday against Reading, Virginia, this young man made a good start on the road to fame by smashing out a single, triple and a home run in four times at bat, knocking in four runs and scoring the fifth himself.

The much battered Boston Braves have broken their losing streak, but they came within an ace of not doing so from over-confidence. With runs in the first and two more in the sixth gave them a 10-to-1 lead over the New Haven Eastern League club at Norfolk, Va., yesterday, but they finally won the game, 13 to 12.

Cripples on Parade

The parade of Pirate cripples back to the diamond, neared its end today when Sparky Adams, shortstop, injured a week ago, returned to the lineup. Pie Traynor, nursing an ailing hip, will get a few more days of rest, Adams will be leading man again this season, Manager Bush announced today. The Pirate boys will follow. Then will come Grantham, Traynor, Sheely, Barnhardt and the battery.

Now they are in the market for a shortstop, pending recovery of Tommy Thevenow. President Baker and Manager Shotton of the Phillies find prices for first class shortstops are going up. Baker said today he had made offers for several, but prices had suddenly skyrocketed. A pair of rookies will try to fill the injured Thevenow's shoes for the present, but Barney Friberg, an infielder who developed into a pitcher this year, may be assigned to the job.

The sore pitching finger of Lefty Grove, Athletic hurler, is back to normal and he will be ready for duty next week. It is doubtful, however, if Shortstop Boley's arm will be in shape for the A's opening game against Washington.

Fred Niblo Sued For Income Taxes

LOS ANGELES, April 9 (AP)—Fred Niblo, motion picture director, was sued for $160,000 in superior court here today by Edward H. Hayden, Hollywood income tax adviser, under federal indictment on a charge of defrauding the government in preparing income tax returns for motion picture celebrities.

Hayden charges that in testifying before the federal grand jury Niblo attempted to shift the blame to him for alleged irregularities in Niblo's income tax report.

A plea of not guilty to the income tax charges was made by Hayden in federal court today.

Sues Aimee's Mother, Breach Of Promise

SEATTLE, Wash., April 9 (AP).—Asking for $50,000 heart balm, the Rev. H. H. Clark, middle aged Seattle clergyman of the Christian denomination, filed suit for breach of promise against Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy,mother of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, here today.

In the suit Clark charges that Mrs. Kennedy promised to provide him with a tabernacle in Seattle and a "gospel ship" to be used in missionary work in Alaska and on the Pacific coast. The Seattle minister said he first became acquainted with Mrs. Kennedy in Seattle December 14, 1928, and that during the days that followed, the defendant telephoned the plaintiff many times and arranged with him to take her to luncheon, dinner and to theaters.

COWBOYS LOSE

Range Riders Bet Everything On Desert Race

TUCSON, Ariz., April 9 (AP)—Many cowboys of the C. C. "Bud" Parker Ranch had to ride home "bareback" and without chaps and spurs. Their race horse, Ben Hur, lost to the Howell Manning outfit's entry, Pal O' Mine, on a desert straightaway track here Saturday.

The purse was $4,000 but it was estimated that more than $25,00 was wagered in cash, the rival cowboys betting "everything loose."

Enthusiasts who attempted to time the race placed their estimates at 1:39 3-5, but even Manning admitted this was optimistic. Manning's Pal O' Mine finished four lengths ahead of Ben Hur. Roy Wall, Philadelphia and Tijuana jockey, rode the winner, while a Texas jockey, known only as Locklear, was up on Ben Hur.

Thought For Today

Edit—A THOUGHT

Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law with one another. Why do ye not rather take wrong? Why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?—1 Cor. 6:7.

* * *

To seek the rdress of grievances by going to law is like sheep running for shelter to a bramble bush. —Dilwyn.

"Good Old Days"

In the early days of America the sturdy frontiersman had a way of being wild, rude and lawless upon occasion, simply to prove that the vaunted democracy of his country was an absolute fact.

Restrictions irked him. His local laws were few, and he broke them with a grand gesture. Freedom was the word, and the frontiersman was punctilious about even its pettiest forms.

The modern descendant of the pioneer, in 1929, does things differently. From morning to evening he is swathed with a network of rules and regulations. If he goes riding he mus observe a dizzying multiplicity of laws. If he builds a house it must conform to another set of laws. If sickness comes to his family the local government can say whether or not he can leave the house. He may not even own a gun without a permit. If he has a party in the evening, he must see that the proceedings are relatively restrained; otherwise the neighbors are apt to send the police.

This doesn't bother the modern man very much. He's used to it. But the old frontiersman, if he could see it, would conclude that the world had gone to the dogs.

Indeed, judging from current literature, a good many people feel that way. Magazines and books are full of doleful cries. The freeborn American, it seems, has forfeited his birthright and has accepted slavery. He can not call his soul his own.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary for Great Britain, made a remark the other day that bears on this situation. Discussing the restrictive legislation which he, as home secretary, is obliged to enforce, he said:

"I say quite frankly that you have got to realize that the old days of the right of every man to do as he likes with his own are a relic of the 18th and 19th centuries and will not work in the 20th."

That statement expresses the situation admirably. It presents a condition we must recognize. We may not like it, but we must accept it.

We are the descendants of the frontiersmen, true enough, and we live in the same part of the globe that they lived in; but our world is as different from theirs as ancient Rome. The standards and customs they used simply will not work today. We might as well stop thinking about them.

An utterly new kind of society has been brought forth in the last half century, entirely unlike anything the world ever saw before. Modern machinery, modern methods of transportation, modern forms of communication, have given every man an infinitely greater number of next-door neighbors than his ancestors had. Year by year the necessity for cooperation grows greater; year by year it becomes increasingly evident that no man can live for himself alone.

This may be very fine or it may be too bad; worrying about it won't help much. The main thing is to admit that the change has come, that the old days are gone forever, that the old standards are eternally out of date.

Hoover Follows Up

A number of eastern newspapers have expressed surprise at President Hoover's insistence that his much talked-of prohibition investigating committee shall be instructed to look only for more efficient methods of enforcement and shall not be empowered to recommend modification of the law itself.

Really, though, there is no need for anyone to be surprised about [illegible] the campaign Mr. Hoover expressed his position on prohibition clearly enough for anyone. If some opponents of prohibition who chose to support him because of other issues are astonished now to find that he really meant what he said, it is hard to sympathize [illegible]

THE PLAINSMAN Says

That Girl on Broadway says marriage is like a lottery—either you get a prize or a surprise.

* * *

Well, folks, they came, they saw and were convinced—those members of the State Senate Finance committee and their comrades from the House of Representatives who spent yesterday and last night in Lubbock inspecting Texas Tech, the experiment station and in getting acquainted with the citizens here. The Plainsman spent the whole day with them and discovered that they're just a bunch of regular fellows—not unreasonable, hardboiled or anything like that. Their coming here was a great thing for them and a great thing for us—and was worth the money both ways.

* * *

Those visitors had a good time in Lubbock—all of 'em—and further than that they saw Texas Tech from "a" to "izzard" and why it needs the appropriations for which it has asked.

* * *

To quote Tom Pollard, Tyler, chairman of the finance committee. "This state is too big for a bunch of men to sit down at Austin and decide problems without ever seeing what we're deciding on. The visit out here has made a believer out of me."

* * *

We ought to get some more of these Representatives and Senators out here every chance we get. It's a good investment. You take Edgar Thomason, from Nacogdoches, in the piney woods. He found a dozen people whom he had known or been related to in East Texas, the first hour he was here. He enjoyed his trip and you can bet your life he's going to remember Lubbock with a sweet taste in his mouth.

* * *

The Plainsman poked around and talked a little politics with the boys and the stew is already boiling in some parts of the state. It looks like the next gubernatorial derby will be another one of those "free-for-alls" with a lot of fellows just itchin' to get their feet wet.

* * *

The three principal men being talked are Barry Miller, present lieutenant-governor; Thomas B. Love, Hoovercrat leader and Dallas senator, and Walter Woodward, of Coleman, another Senate power. Ross Sterling, Houston publisher and father of the state-wide highway bond plan, is also regarded as a likely candidate.

Should the field be held to the four men mentioned Texas will likely have an opportunity to rear back a year from next July and August and watch a real, old-fashioned "hoss race." Of course, a lot of water will run under the bridges between now and then and it is likely that there will be many situations which will later bear upon the gubernatorial derby. But from what The Plainsman could learn from the boys who are "in the know" that's the present status.

* * *

One of the outstanding features of the banquet and program honoring the visiting solons was the frequent references made to R. M. Chitwood, one of the "daddies" of the Tech, a man whose very life was wrapped up in the institution and who passed away about two years ago while serving as its first business manager. Men who had sat in Texas' legislative halls with Mr. Chitwood are like the citizens of Lubbock who learned to know and love him while he was here. Instead of forgetting they have all the more imbedded in their minds the service which he rendered. His career in Texas public life and his work in Lubbock are the answers to those immortal lines:

"Live of great me noft remind us
We can make our lives sublime
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints in the sands of time."

Well, well, well. The Supreme court has decided that Harry Sinclair will have to obey the law just like any ordinary citizen. After three or four years of monkeying around it has been duly decided that Mr. Sinclair, like everyone else, must go to jail if he commits and offense punishable thereby. Of course, Mr. Sinclair hasn't gone to jail yet. Just when he'll go is still a matter to be decided and the case, the court rules, must be heheard. But he's going to have to go, says the Supreme court, sometime or other, proving whatever you want to believe about the matter.

Hoover, Apparently Unprejudiced On Prohibition, Is Rather Sour On Extremists On Both Sides Of Question

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Probably one of the rarest specimens outside the National Museum is the person who has no strong prejudice about prohibition.

It continues to appear that President Herbert Hoover is one of those. Not only is he neither fanatically dry nor fanatically wet, but he also seems to be rather sour on both sets of extremists.

There are still those who insist that Hoover is at heart a "wet," if he is anything. And there are many in Washington who would hesitate to place him, from the standpoint of his personal viewpoint, in either camp.

The main reason for the uncertainty is that persons who consider themselves "close to Hoover" have been telling different stories for some time. The drys profess positive assurance that he leans entirely their way and the wets insist that he has an open mind, is far from confident of the ultimate nationwide success of the eighteenth amendment and has inmine some ultimate modification of the Volstead act.

If there is any reconciliation of seemingly conflicting and allegedly inspired interpretations of Hoover's attitude toward prohibition it must boil down to some such logical surmise as this:

The president himself doesn't take a drink. He is primarily concerned with prohibition as it affects America's governmental and economic efficiency and as it presents a challenge to his oath to uphold the constitution. Naturally he must also consider prohibition from the standpoint of a politician, but it does not appear that Hoover as president is letting that consideration predominate.

He will not condone violations of the law nor will he condone violation of the spirit of the law by subordinate officials. A federal official in Washington who produced a flask in his presence would undoubtedly be sternly rebuked. But he did not once frown when members of his good will party in Latin America readily accommodated themselves to the customs of those countries. Each man on the tour was permitted to use his own judgment.

From the standpoint of efficiency Hoover must determine whether the prohibition laws are going to be sufficiently beneficial in the long run to justify themselves and their admittedly harmful effects. He did not call prohibition a "noble experiment;" he called it "an experiment, noble in purpose" and said he didn't favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The president is supposed to feel that prohibition has been an economic benefit and has definitely increased the efficiency of the industry. On the other hand, he admits that it has had a serious effect on the morale of government and the laxity of prohibition enforcement probably strikes him as hideous. If prohibition would enforce itself Hoover probably would be pleased.

But he must decide whether present conditions, which are still the major national scandal, are bound to continue and if so whether prohibition and its present laws are worth the price. There is no evidence that he has come to any decision at all about the ultimate success of the "experiment."

His determination to do his very best to enforce the law is something else again. Whether he has any doubts about success or not, he has given ample indication of his intention to see what can be done—and do it. Perhaps there is no more significance fact than that he has failed to utter the familiar roar that he would soon have the bootleggers on the run and that the law would be enforced at last.

He said that the "experiment" must be "worked out constructively" and when he recently passed the word to the correspondents that there wouldn't be any hysterics or melodrama about his enforcement program that was what he meant.

He still has to face the facts that many citizens want to drink, that bribes come high and that poorly paid cops and prohibition agents are frail. And he is quite cognizant of those facts.

The writer of this story does not seek to hint that it is based on his own secret conversations with Hoover or that it represents anything more than careful observation and inquiry. But it may interest anyone who has been more or less befuddled by the many conflicting "dope stories" that have come out of the capital these last few months the name try to present true pictures; the other kind, that think only of financial profit, present distorted pictures. That is the difference.—Brownwood Bulletin

JONES LAW NEEDS TRIAL

A movement characterized by its proponents as one to modify and clarify the prohibition penalties of the Jones Act has been launched in Washington. It is announced that a proposal formulated by leaders of the movement will be presented at the special session of congress.

It is easy to recognize the movement as one purported to modify the Jones Act, but it will not be accepted by many as a sincere effort to clarify it. As a matter of fact, those back of the movement have as their motive the repeal or modification of the new law.

They are not likely to meet with any great success in this direction so soon after the passage of the law. Friends of prohibition and those who honestly feel that the Volstead Act can not be enforced are not likely to be ready to discard the new experiment without giving it a thorough trial.

It may be that the Jones law will not be satisfactory, but no one can reasonably say that it has proven so already. It apparently has worked a hardship on some bootleggers. If it continues to do so it will be an important instrument of prohibition. Whether it will permit a closer approach to complete prohibition without an unreasonable encroachment upon the rights of individuals has not been established. It should be granted a longer trial.

It is a fact that the man who is credited with starting the movement against the Jones law opposed it when it was under consideration although he has voted for what he calls "all reasonable prohibitions". However, he apparently recognizes as reasonable only the system which has been in effect over a period of years and which has been inadequate.

Some people are willing to have prohibition inscribed in the statutes so long as it does not seriously interfere with the supply of liquor. However, it seems to be a different matter when this supply is actually menaced.—Vernon Record

NEWSPAPERS AS MIRRORS

Arthur Brisbane is a smart man, and a keen observer. Incidentally, he is a good newspaper man with long years of sucessful experience. In his "Today" column he wrote the other day:

"Newspapers, as you notice this morning, give 10 times as much space to Dempsey alive and well, as to the social leader, dead and cold. And that's good journalism.

"Newspapers should tell people about things that interest them. A good newspaper is an accurate mirror, not a preacher."

Perhaps newspapers should be mirrors rather than preachers, but that isn't the reason that they are mirrors, presenting merely the things that interest people. Absolute necessity compels them to do so. The newspaper that preaches instead of mirrors may be the best in the world, but it doesn't last long. It must present the things that interest people in order to live. When offered to the man on the street who buys newspapers, it is an article of merchandise, and it must be salable.

This does not mean, however, that the newspaper must sacrifice character in order to make itself attractive to the purchaser. The experience of Arthur Brisbane and countless other successful journalists has shown that there is a right and a wrong way to mirror the incidents of life in which people are interested. Much Poison Grain Used In 'Dog' Fight

Proof that the farmers of this section have taken an interest in exterminating prairie dogs and other harmful rodents was given yesterday with the announcement of L. C. Whitehead, San Antonio, member of the United States department of agriculture's bureau of biological survey, that 314 tons of poison grain has been used in West Texas during the past five years.

Mr. Whitehead, who was a Lubbock visitor yesterday, said that 30 tons had been used in West Texas this year, about eighteen tons of which has been used on the plains under the direction of R. J. Powell, who with Lubbock County Agent D. F. Eaton staged a prairie dog war in this county.

NEW YORK, April 9.—A few odd sights and scenes, which I recommend to tourists in Manhattan:

The pre-theater crowd fighting for cut-rate seats at Joe Leblangs, 43rd and Broadway, just before the theaters open. This can be observed while trying to get some tickets for yourself. And to me it's a Broadway sight not to be missed.

Broadway from the garden-tower of the Paramount building—The tiny triangular graveyard hidden away at 11th and 6th avenue—The Chanin building at night and the push carts of Grand street about 8:30 in the evening—The new midtown skyline from the public library square—The old Wendell mansion in Fifth avenue, with its perpetual air of mystery projected upon the shopping belt—The old horse market in the east Twenties—The old clothes market just back of Chinatown.—The almost furturistic effect sugested by the Edison building—and the river front in general—from the eastern foot of 49th street.——The sudden and amazing changes in 42nd street once it crosses Eighth avenue and moves westward toward the river—The flea circus—The gypsy band and Mme. Thury's songs at the Gypsy Camp, any night after the theater—Almost any of the balalaika bands in the Russian restaurants in and about Second avenue and Thirteenth street—Meyer's Cellar or the old Hofbrau House in Hoboken—The Roxy Theater ushers—The fast changing skyline around Central Park from a point of vantage at 72nd street, or thereabouts—And particularly at sundown—The dank marsh place just under the steps of Brooklyn Bridge—The market place around lower Christopher street.

All of which will be continued from time to time—Cut them out and paste them in your hat, if you're coming to New York for a visit—For you won't find these places in any of the guide books!

Speaking of odd places in New York—Just off Fifth avenue on Eighteenth street a colorful window suddenly brightens up an otherwise drab and mediocre street. In this window may be observed a great array of warriors' helmets, a picturesque array of costumes of all periods, a sequined snake awaiting a snake charmer and an amazing collection of fascinating odds and ends.

This is Guttenberg's and Guttenberg's as it happens, is a costume establishment which for generations has catered to the Manhattan stage.

Thereby hangs a tale. Just after the Civil War had ended, one Louis Guttenberg arrived from the battlefields with a couple of old uniforms he had taken as souvenirs. And that was about all he possessed in the world. But how was he to turn a couple of uniforms into a meal-ticket? Really it was simpler than it sounds. The war was so close to the inhabitants of America that it became the vogue to wear uniforms to fancy dress parties. So young Guttenberg began to rent out his costumes.

But he soon found that the stage wanted them for dramas based on the Civil War. So he struck up a trade with Tony Pastor, the picturesque theatrical figure of another day. Soon he found himself outfitting the Pastor actors. Soon he was attracting attention among the leading theatrical figures.

The late Nat Goodwin took to going there—And Maurice Barrymore. In more recent days it was a place favored by Rudolph Valentino. Yes, and Mary Pickford. I am told the place today has more than 200,000 costumes, of every imaginable period and style.

AVOID FOOT TROUBLES BY MAKING SURE SHOES ARE YOUR EXACT SIZE

Ingrown Nails

I am in great trouble and need your help, so please give it to me Doctor Lulu. I am 13 years old and wear size 8 shoes, and am very much overweight. But the greatest trouble is that I have ingrown toe nails. I had one taken off, but in about two months it grew back ingrown again, and it is just about as bad as it was before. Please tell me all you can about these nails, because I think I am very young to have such trouble as this. MARGERY."

Indeed you are too young to have ingrowing toe nails Margery. Everyone is too young to have them, for that matter.

Ingrowing toe nails are usually due to shoes that are too short or too narrow. Occasionally the toe nail will grow in abnormally deep after it has gotten started, even though the shoes are all right, and the only thing that can be done is an operation which removes the part of the toe containing the nail, as well as the nail. You would have to see a surgeon for this.

The home treatment is as follows:

Soak the foot in hot, soapy water separate the nail fold as far as possible, and dust with boracic acid powder or apply ichthyol ointment. Better insert a little strip of absorbent cotton or lint. If there is pus formed, it's a good idea to wash out the spot with peroxide of hydrogen before putting in the medication and cotton. Strap the toe with one-half inch adhesive strap in the following manner:

Fasten one end of the strap on the overlapping fold in such a manner that you can pull the adhesive around under the toe and so pull the overlapping fold away from the nail. Carry it way round and over the nail so that it will overlap where you started, and so hold the medication and cotton.

Cutting the toe nails straight across instead of round is thought to prevent the formation of ingrowing toe nails. But it won't if shoes that are too tight are worn. (If you do cut the nails straight across, round off the sharp corners with a nail file.)

You should reduce your weight, Margery. You are losing the good times of girlhood when you are so much overweight, besides losing your resistance to infectious diseases. Children can reduce, and it is just as important for them to do so. If noticeably overweight, as it is for adults. If you will send for the reducing pamphlet, that will get you started. Don't be too ambitious in your reducing, for as you grow taller, that will slim you out considerably.

* * *

"I am very anemic and am very irregular with my periods, sometimes going for five or six months without them. I am normal weight, but am inclined to put weight on around my hips. Some people tell me it is from sitting all day without some support. Is this true? B."

It is not unusual in anemic conditions for the periods to be scanty and irregular, B.

Yes, fat does seem to be deposited around the hips when one sits a good deal, and the thing to combat that is exercise. Will you write for articles on Anemia and the Hygiene of Women, also for the article on the Atonic Abdominal Wall, which gives the exercises?

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters can not diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

INQUIRY WITHIN DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE INSTITUTED BY COLONEL WILLIAM D. MITCHELL

Attorney General

(William DeWitt Mitchell was born at Winona, Minn., Sept. 9, 1874. He studied engineering at Yale university, and was graduated from the University of Minnesota in law. Admitted to the bar in 1896, he began practicing at St. Paul. He was named solicitor general of the United States in 1925. President Hoover recently appointed him attorney general. He has had considerable military experience, and was stationed at Camp Taylor, Ky., in 1918. He is a colonel in the Minnesota National guard.)

A country-wide investigation of conditions in all agencies over which the department of justice has control has been instituted by the department of justice, with a view of ascertaining what has been achieved and what may be accomplished in law enforcement.

The inquiry has been instituted in accord with the program for a general inquiry which already has been announced by President Hoover. Mr. Hoover contemplates the appointment of a commission to examine law enforcement matters through every government agency, while our study will be limited to gathering facts in connection with those offices in his department, whether in Washington or in the various cities of the country.

It is the department's plan to find whether improvement may be made in its own personnel, and likewise to determine whether additional numbers are needed.

The survey thus far has been devoted largely to examination of reports, records and statistics within the department.

The department's study is designed to obtain all information available relating to the status of prosecutions, results obtained in past litigation, the situation regarding pending cases, the effectiveness of enforcement officers, or lack of it, and why, together with personal reports of views of officers who have knowledge, based on experience of the conditions under which they work.

While prohibition enforcement will be included in the inquiry, it is of a general and broader scope. If the study now going on shows that there is a lack of enforcement effort, it is our determination that the reasons be shown. That course may lead to changes in personnel for the good of the service.

STOCKS TURN DOWN TODAY

ADHERE TO PATH OF LEAST RESISTANCE IN EARLY TRADE

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 9 — The line of least resistance was downward at the opening of today's stock market. Belated liquidation of the traction shares as a result of the unfavorable supreme court decision in the 7 cent fare case carried Brooklyn Manhattan, Modified Guaranteed and Third Avenue down a point. Coppers were again in supply on predictions of an early downward re-adjustment in the red metal, AMerican Smelting, Calumet & Hecla, Nevada and Cerro De Pasco, all opening a point or so lower. American Express broke 10 points. U. S. Steel, common, opened with a block of 7,500 shares at 187, up 1 1-4.

Trading continued light with the general public apparently following the advice of leading commission houses to stay on the sidelines until the credit situation showed improvement.

American Hawaiian Steamship jumped 6 1-2 points to a new high at 40 1-4 as contrasted with the year's low of 24 1-8 and a closing price of 39 last Saturday. Mack Trucks was in brisk demand on reports of large current sales, the stock quickly advancing 2 1-2 points. Efforts were again made to push up Chrysler, which showed an early gain of 1 point.

In Copper, Granby extended its loss to nearly 4 points and Anaconda, Miami and Calumet & Arizona dropped 1 to nearly 2 points.

Foreign exchanges opened irregular, with cables down 1-16 of acent to $4.85 7-16.

MIAMI Fla., April 9 (AP)—United States customs officers today held jewelry and uncut diamonds valued at $100,000 and taken from the false bottom of a trunk shipped here on a steamer from Havana in what is believed to have been an attempt to smuggle them into this country. The owner of the trunk, whose identity could not be learned here, was said to be in the custody of Havana police.

Virginia Lady Says She Did Not Begin To Pick Up Until She Had Taken Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I suffered a very severe illness which left me very weak," writes Mrs. Emma Hall, of 824 Maple Street, this city. "My strength did not come back as it should have.
"Someone told me of Cardui, so I began taking it. I began picking up and my strength returned.
"I realized Cardui was a good medicine, so several years later when my health was in a critical condition, I took Cardui again.
"I was nervous and I would suffer with hot flashes often. I would be so weak I would have to go to bed.
"I suffered constantly with a pain in my side. My health was in a terrible condition. I was not able to do my housework at all.
"So I began taking Cardui and took it while this condition lasted, and improved a great deal. It helped me through this critical time, and I have found it to my friends because it did me so much good."
Thousands of other women have reported good results from the use of Cardui after weakening illness. Sold by all druggists.

HARDY STORY WILL BE TOLD

EFFORTS TO RELEASE AIMEE CHARGES IS DUE FOR AIRING

(By Associated Press)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 9 (AP)—Judge Carlos S. Hardy's efforts to clear Aimee Semple McPherson of conspiracy charges which grew out of the famous kidnaping story were due for an airing today before the Senate court of impeachment, where the jurist is on trial for alleged misdemeanors in office.

Wallace Moore and Marshall Selover, newspapermen summoned to testify, were expected to detail the manner in which Judge Hardy warned Moore he would be subject to a libel action if he falsely identified anyone in the kidnaping investigation.

It was Moore, as a reporter for a newspaper, tentatively identified a woman seen with Kenneth Ormiston, radio operator, as Mrs. McPherson during the period she was missing from her Angelus Temple.

Moore declared he was not so certain of the woman's identity after Judge Hardy conferred with him in Santa Barbara. Hardy's prosecutors contend the jurist attempted to intimidate the reporter.

ROBBERS SACK CHICAGO CHURCH

CHICAGO, April 9 (AP)—Five cursing robbers, masked and armed, held up 80 members of the first Rumanian synagogue last night, taking $75,000 in money and jewels. It was the first instance in Chicago police records of a holdup inside a place of worship.

For nearly half an hour, the robbers moved among the congregation which had been lined against a wall. From the arms and hands of the women the robbers snatched bracelets and rings. The men's pockets yielded billfolds and watches.

A special meeting was being held to hear Victor Phillips of Bucharest, representative of the Rumanian government in the anniversary celebration of United Rumania. The meeting was in the church parlors where Queen Marie of Rumania was a guest during her Chicago visit.

From Mr. Phillips the thieves took $60 overlooking $500 in a secret pocket. Among the loot, as reported to police, were a diamond ring valued at $4,000, a pair of earrings worth $2,200 and a bracelet valued at $1,000.

One woman fainted. After the robbers had gone, Rabbi Goldstein offered a prayer of thanks that no lives had been taken.

"It Is The Best Medicine In The World," He Says

"I SUFFERED 12 YEARS BUT ORGATONE HAS GIVEN ME HEALTH." Says LUBBOCK MAN.

"At last I am on the road to perfect health again, after I have spent lots of money trying to get relief from my troubles," said T. J. Teal of Lubbock, Texas, who is in the poultry business here, and has been a resident of this city for a number of years.

"I got to the place where I nearly had to live on nothing, for I couldn't eat anything but what would disagree with me, and cause me to suffer terribly. All of the food I ate, would cause gas to form on my stomach, until at times, I would feel so puffed up, and have such a bloated feeling I thought I would burst. No matter what I tried in the way of medicine nothing helped me a bit and it seemed as if there were no relief for me.

"My kidneys were in a very bad condition, and I would have intense, sharp shooting pains in my back and sides. I had a bad case of constipation and was very nervous and couldn't sleep at night. I was extremely restless at night and would roll and toss and couldn't get enough sleep, always felt tired and wornout.

"When a man has been in the shape I have, it sure seems wonderful to be abble to eat anything he wants and have no trouble from it, that's just what I can do since taking Orgatone. I began to pick up in a hurry after I started using it and have been getting better ever since. I am now a well man and am feeling stronger every day. All of may troubles are gone, and I eat things now I haven't for years. I sleep fine at night and all the pains in my back and sides have disappeared.

"I'm sure glad I got hold of Orgatone when I did, and there's nothing I could say for it that would be too much. I hope my case will be the cause of others who have the same trouble finding the same relief as I have. I sincerely think it is the best medicine in the world."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or or secret remedy but a new scientific remedy containing no alcohol ,or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowers Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily. Also at Plainview by the South Pains Drug Store. Out of town customers are being supplied by mail upon receipt of price $1.25 per one bottle or $5.25 for six bottles.—Ad

ESCOBAR WILL HIDE IN HILLS

REVOLUTIONARY CHIEF TAKES BIG ARMY TO MOUNTAINS

(By Associated Press)

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, April 9—Proclaimed "provisional president" of Mexico by the insurgents, Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel generalissimo, today was on his way to the mountains in Western Chihuahua with 6,000 well equipped troops.

Before his departure from here yesterday on a three section train, the "provisional president" said the revolutionists would make a stand in Chihuahua or Sonora, and then put into force a rigid censorship to protect the movement of rebel forces.

It was believed Escobar plans to concentrate his forces in Sonora, after going through the treacherous Pulpeto Pass in Sierra Madre, or to continue south and attack Chihuahua City from the west.

The provisional president has named Alejo Bey, minister of the treasury of the new government, and is considering the selection of other cabinet members.

ESCOBAR SEEKS TO COORDINATE FORCES

NOGALES, Ariz., April 9 (AP) — The fate of the Mexican revolution appeared to hang today on the ability of the rebel commander-in-chief, General J. Gonzalo Escobar, to coordinate his forces in Sonora in time to meet the advancing federals under General P. Elias Calles, federal generalissimo.

Indications that the opposing commanders were gathering their forces for a supreme effort against each other in Sinaloa and Sonora appeared when it was announced here Escobar was expected to arrive in Nogales, Sonora, today from the state of Chihuahua by airplane, preceding his principal army, racing westward from Juarez and other Chihuahua points.

This, together with word from Mexico City that General Calles was headed for Culiacan, Sinaloa, to take person command of a drive northward into Sonora, the heart of the rebel country, indicated the principal theater of war has been shifted to the west.

At least two important obstacles appeared in Escobar's path. The first was the uncertainty as to whether his main army would be able to enter Sonora before interception by federals. Forces from General Cardenas also were reported to be nearing toward Pulpeto Pass, through which Escobar's rebels were expected to enter Sonora. The second was the federal garrison at Naco, Sonora, on the Arizona border east of here.

Less than 1,200 loyal federals under General Lucas Gonzales have held the Naco fortifications against repeated attacks by the rebel General Fausto Topete. Federal possession of Naco constitutes a foothold which the federals might use as a base to the rear of the rebel army in the event the revolutionaries meet Calles forces in southern Sonora.

BOSTON, April 9 (AP).—Sixty-four amateur boxers from 16 cities remained in the national boxing tournament when the first night's program came to an end early today.

After eight hours of boxing, first honors went to the New York team, which placed eight of its members in seven of the eight classes. Boston and San Francisco each had seven survivors.

Steve Maliako of Buffalo, the only champion who returned to defend his 1928 title, loomed as the star of the tournament by gaining an easy victory over a rugged opponent in the 147 pound class.

GERMANS SECURE REPARATION EDGE

PARIS, April 9 (AP)—Germans have secured a tactical advantage in maneuvers attending the Conference of Experts on reparations which delegates of the Allied nations today were trying to overcome.

The advantage was an outgrowth of questioning by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank recently of the Allied delegates as to expected size and total reparations disbursements sought by their countries.

There figures, once obtained, staggered the Germans, who found them not only far in excess of what they were willing to offere—albeit they had never made any definite offer—but considerably in excess of the 2,500,000,000 marks ($625,000,000,) annuities specified in the Dawes plan. It was because of allied recognition of the burdensomeness of the Dawes plan annuities—or a purported willingness to be shown—that the conference was called.

RALLS, April 9.—The annual election officers for the Ralls golf club was held Thursday, resulting in the selection of the following officers; Dr. H. F. Schwab, president; I. D. Moore, vice president, and A. L. Winfrey, secretary and treasurer.

On June 5, 6 and 7 the annual Ralls golf tournament will be played. Several valuable and useful prizes will be offered. Since the increase in membership and added interest shown in the club, it is expected that the tournament this year will be the best that has been staged in Ralls since its organization.
