State legislators ask tuition hike

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Mark White's state-of-the-state speech played to generally favorable reviews, but some lawmakers said White did not go far enough in his call for college tuition hikes.

White wants to raise $28.7 million by raising tuition for non-Texans and for some graduate programs. Legislative leaders favor an increase for all students, including Texans.

"You can't have the best colleges and the best research in the country and have the lowest tuition any more than you can have the lowest gasoline tax and have the best highways," Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said Tuesday. "It would be nice, but it just doesn't compute."

A Texas Research League report issued this week said Texas ranks 49th in the nation in non-resident tuition. A Texan who goes to a California state university pays $3,274 in annual fees and tuition, according to the report.

Donovan's request is denied

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge today denied Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan's bid to have his trial for alleged larceny and filing false business reports moved from a Bronx court to the federal level.

U.S. District Judge Lloyd F. MacMahon denied Donovan's request, saying the doctrines of federalism "mandate that federal courts act with restraint with respect to ongoing state criminal prosecutions and interfere with such prosecutions only when necessary to protect overriding federal interests."

Donovan's lawyers argued that he should be tried in federal court to prevent state interference in federal affairs. They noted that his indictment, handed up Sept. 24, forced him to take an unpaid leave from the cabinet.

Bronx Assistant District Attorney Stephen R. Bookin opposed the move during a four-day hearing in December, saying the charges against Donovan had nothing to do with his federal job. He also denied that the indictment was intended to embarrass President Reagan during his re-election campaign.

Donovan, former executive vice president of Schiavone Construction Co., is charged in an alleged conspiracy to padd reported payments to a subcontractor, Jopel Contracting and Trucking Corp., on a Schiavone-run subway project.

Bookin charged that Jopel used Schiavone equipment for free, then reported a would-be rental cost of $7.4 million. Schiavone counted that sum as payment to a minority firm, circumventing a rule that 10 percent of the actual work go to minority companies, he said.

Defendants have said the rental arrangement, conducted in 1979 and 1980, was proper. Donovan became labor secretary in February 1981.

The hearing turned into a mini-trial of the case after Bookin took the witness stand to explain the charges — one count of grand larceny and 136 counts of preparing and filing false business records.

Under cross-examination, Bookin conceded that he had no "contemporaneous statement" of Donovan's linking him to the case. His key link appeared to be Donovan's signature on a $200,000 check to Jopel.

Donovan testified that he co-signed the check.

Q. — The official county rain total for 1984 was reported at 18.2 inches (down from an average of from 19 to 20 inches), but rain gauges always seem to show more rain than the "official" amount. Any idea what the "unofficial" rain total for the year was here?

A. — Longtime county farmer Walter Stirl provided this information from his gauge, located southeast of Snyder. He estimated 21.8 inches during 1984, noting that 2.4 inches fell for the first six months and 19.4 inches for the year's second half. He said the 30-year average is about 22.8 inches at his farm.

WTSB to observe 35 banking years

Thirty-five years of service to Snyder and Scurry County will be observed Thursday with the 35th anniversary of West Texas State Bank.

Martin Brooks, current bank president who began his career with the bank in 1950, invites the public to an open house during regular banking hours (9 a.m. to 3 p.m.).

West Texas State Bank dates back to the oil boom launched in 1949 here. It was in April of that year that an application was made for the state bank–the second such facility to be located in Snyder.

After the application was approved, WTSB opened its doors for business on Jan. 14, 1950 with initial capital of $100,000 and reserves of $75,000.

On opening day, more than 2,000 persons visited the bank and deposits kept coming in until past 10 p.m. The first day of business was a Saturday, and deposits that day were $1.5 million. By the end of the first week of operation, deposits had increased to $2.3 million.

Starting in a one-story building on the southeast corner of the Snyder square, today the financial institution has assets of almost $100 million.

At the end of the first year of operation, WTSB had assets of $5.9 million and deposits of $5.6 million. Thirty-five years later the bank's total assets are $98.3 million with deposits of $88.4 million.

When the bank opened in 1950, insurance man Wayne Boren was named chairman of the board. Nolan Watson was elected its president. Other officers were

Embryo process 'at farm'

By NOBLE B. YOUNG

Two Scurry County cattlemen are banking on new technology to develop a herd of high yielding beef cattle at a fraction of normal costs.

Kenneth Wilson and Bo Robinson are currently working along with San Antonio veterinarian Boyd Beie in one of the country's first on-the-farm embryo transplant programs.

Their goal is to establish a herd of pure bred Limousn cattle using only one Limousn cow to conceive and a host of more common cows to actually carry and birth the calves.

This can be done through the process of embryo transplants.

Wilson says he first became interested in this type program about the time he retired from his position with Chevron Oil in Snyder in late 1983.

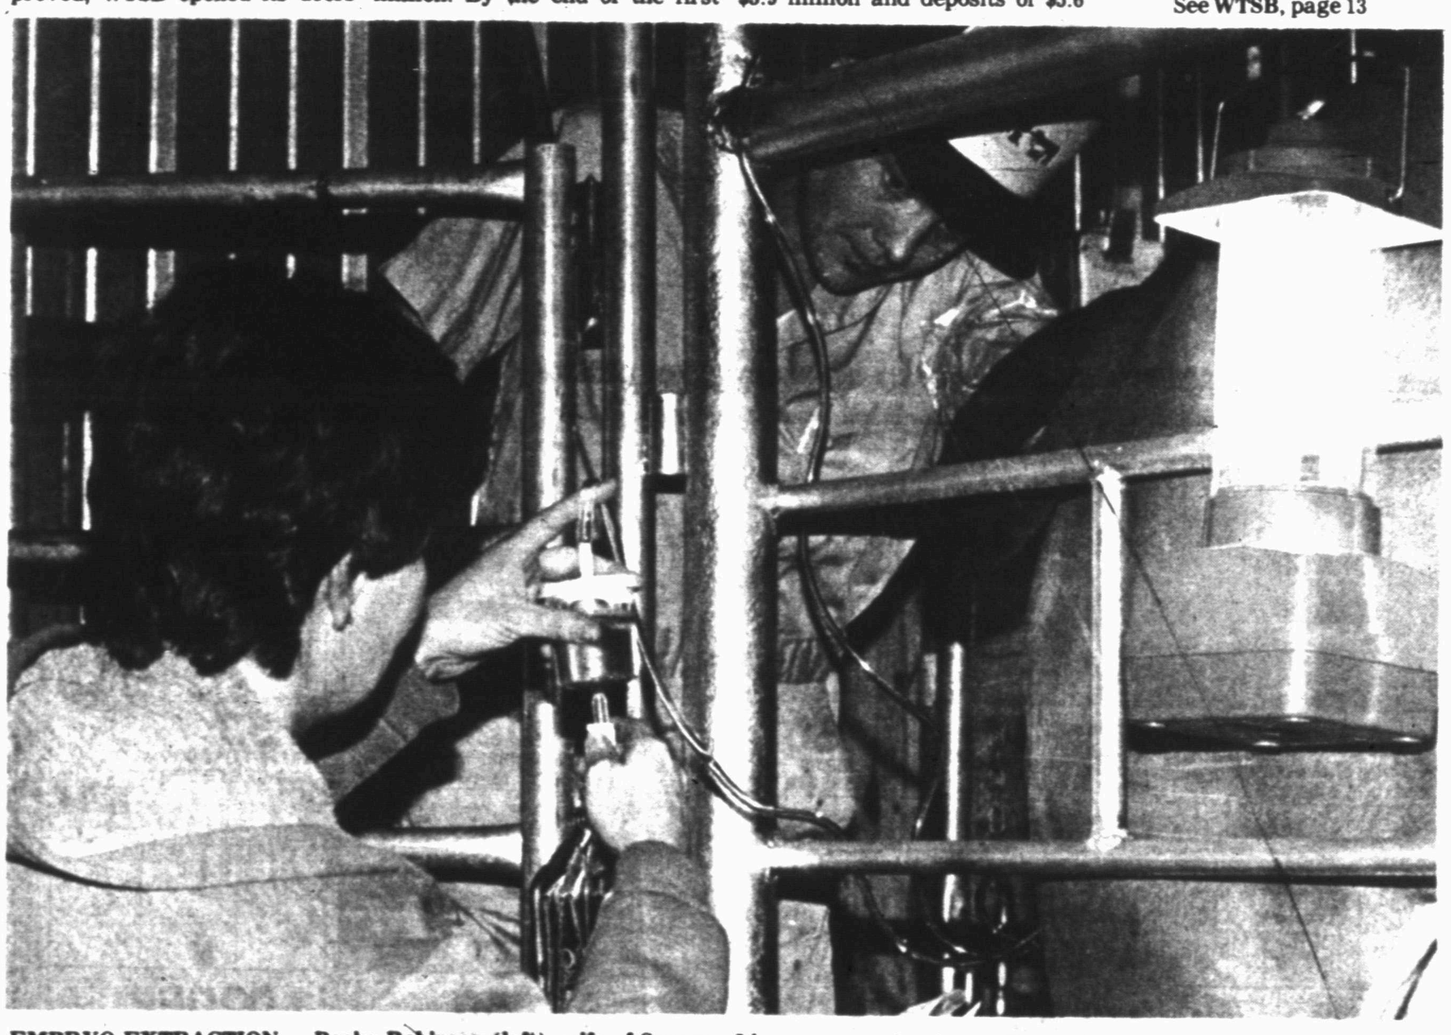

He selected the Limousn breed — originated in France and first imported to the U.S. in 1968 — for its superior ratio of lean beef to fat.

Wilson was attending a breeders conference in San Antonio early in 1984 when he first met Dr. Beie. At the time, he was able to convince him to attempt the complex embryo transplant "on the farm."

Prior to that, such transplants were conducted at research centers only.

Briefly described, the concept of embryo transplantation involves impregnating one choice cow with semen from a choice bull and then transplanting the resulting embryos into other cows which carry the calves until birth.

Membership drive on chamber's slate

Plans for a membership drive in February were revealed Tuesday during the January meeting of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Chamber Director Don Newbury has agreed to head the effort. As discussed, it will follow the same format of the membership drive conducted last spring which netted some 65 additions to the chamber's roll.

That effort featured team captains who competed to gain the most new members. Newbury said these captains will be named at a later date.

The drive is expected to last approximately three weeks.

Tuesday's meeting was the first officially headed by new Chamber President Roy Baze. In addition, four directors began their first full term — Margaret Drum, Tom Latos, Mike Banta and Gene Thomas, who previously was serving out an unexpired term.

Directors were also updated on plans for the March 21 chamber banquet. Baze noted a banquet committee was to meet Wednesday to discuss an overall banquet theme, decorations and seating arrangements.

The previously announced banquet speaker will be Joe Griffith of Dallas, a motivational humorist with some 20 years experience as an after-dinner speaker in addition to appearances in more than 200 television commercials.

Local livestock shows planned in February

The 1985 Scurry County Junior Livestock Show season is scheduled here during the first two full weeks of February.

It begins Feb. 2 with the first of four chapter shows leading up to the annual Scurry County Junior Livestock Show Feb. 12-16.

A change this year will see no time out of school allowed for the shows — part of changes all across Texas implemented by House Bill 72 mandates.

All of the 1985 shows will be held on Saturday only or after school hours during the week.

In previous years, stock show competitors had been allowed out of school at noon on show days to prepare their animals.

The schedule for this year's events as reported by the various group sponsors includes:

—Ira FFA Chapter Show: Feb. 2 — Saturday — at the Ira School Barn.

—Scurry County 4-H Club Show: Feb. 9 — Saturday — in the Scurry County Coliseum ag annex.

—Snyder FFA Chapter Show: Feb. 11 — Monday — after school in the ag annex.

—Hermleigh FFA Chapter Show; Feb. 11 — Monday — following the Snyder show in the ag annex.

—Scurry County Junior Livestock Show: Feb. 12 — Tuesday — with stock weigh-ins after school hours at the ag annex.

The SDN Column

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's important to build character, and sometimes it's important to rebuild."

West Texas State Bank will observe its 35th anniversary tomorrow with an open house during regular banking hours.

Those attending the function tomorrow will find a lot of familar faces–folks who have been with the bank since the beginning.

Board Chairman H. W. Cargile and President Martin Brooks have been with the bank since 1950, and many of the current directors have been on the board for a number of years.

Cargile recalled the late H. H. Eiland, one of the founding directors. "He was one of the most conservative, but fairest men I have ever known."

Eiland served for three years as president of the bank and then became chairman of the executive committee until his retirement in 1961.

Son Bill Eiland joined the board in 1956, and like his father, is a conservative fellow. Bill, who also serves on the bank's executive committee, is more comfortable in his rancher attire of boots and jeans.

That generally is the way Bill is seen at the bank. However, there are occasions when Bill Eiland puts on his best threads. Such an occasion occurred a few years ago, and when Bill walked into the bank lobby in his Sunday best, one of the tellers took a second look and remarked, "Bill, when you dress up it really shows."

Banking is serious business, but there are also some light times. Director Harold Denson likes to tell about the time an examiner from up north came to the bank as part of a routine exam.

In his final report the examiner criticized a loan made to a logging company. Bank officials asked why, saying a payment had never been missed on the loan.

"You can't fool me," said the examiner. "This loan is out of your trade territory. It's to a logging company and I know there's no forests in West Texas."

1,100 enroll

Early enrollment figures at Western Texas College indicate that 1,100 students have registered for the spring semester.

Registration was conducted Monday and Tuesday with late registration continuing through January 29.

Last fall total enrollment at the college was 1,319 students. Last spring, the final count was 1,314 students.

The all time record at Western Texas College was set for the spring semester in 1983 when 1,414 students registered for classes.

Cards out

Report cards were sent home with Snyder high school and junior high school students Monday.

Parents are asked to sign these before their children return them.

Absentee ends

Absentee voting closed Tuesday with 43 votes cast in the city's annexation-related special ballot.

City hall officials reported a brisker turnout Monday and Tuesday. As of early Monday morning, only 11 votes had been counted.

The election is Saturday. It will decide whether city officials may annex property south of the current city limits and north of the proposed Houston Parkway extension.

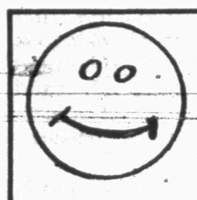

The voluntary annexation of this property has been oppposed by three property owners. A petition circulated by one of these — Wayne Bethel — prompted Saturday's vote.

Experts disagree with survey

CHICAGO (AP)--Ann Landers' sampling of American women that showed most would forego sex for a tender touch is misleading and threatens us "back into the Victo some sex exper ay.

"Indeed, women are int ed in sex and they have sexual desires," said Jim Peterson, who writes the Playboy Advisor for Chicago-based Playboy magazine.

Petersen's remarks came in response to Miss Landers' Tuesday column that said 72 percent of more than 90,000 women said they would be content to be held and cuddled and skip sexual intercourse. Of those, 40 percent were under 40 years of age.

These results, Petersen said, "don't say anything. What is going to be dangerous is that's going to give (people) permission to be boring, and just roll over in bed and go to sleep.

"That's unfortunate. Lust is an honorable condition. Sex is a wonderful passtime."

Dr. Ruth Westheimer, a New York sex therapist, said Tuesday that the implications of this sampling could "get us back into the Victorian Age."

"It's dangerous to say a high percentage of women do not expect sexual activity but expect only caressing," she said in a telephone interview from New York. "Caressing has to be part of the sexual experience."

Good nutrition protects bones

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 36 and was told that I have osteoporosis. How serious is this, and is there a cure? Can one live a relatively unpainful life by receiving the right treatments? Can a young woman get this disease early and not know it until menopause, especially if she was nutritionally deprived during childhood? Will removal of the ovaries bring this on faster?

DEAR READER — Estrogen seems to be an important key to osteoporosis (dissolving bones). Estrogen increases calcium absorption from the digestive system. If one doesn't have enough estrogen, one may not absorb enough calcium, and then calcium is robbed from the bones. When there is an estrogen deficiency, one can help compensate for this by getting more calcium every day. Removal of the ovaries at an early age can cause osteoporosis at an early age. After all, that is technically a surgical menopause. This complication can be avoided by replacing the lost estrogen immediately after surgery and continuing it thereafter.

Your question about a nutritionally deprived childhood is a good one. A woman who develops a good strong skeleton is less likely to have serious problems with osteoporosis. Therefore, it is important to have good nutrition and plenty of calcium during the years in which the skeleton is developing. The skeleton doesn't mature until the early 30s. Young girls who go on fad diets and overemphasize excessive thinness may be setting the stage for osteoporosis after menopause.

It is important to have either estrogen replacement or increased calcium intake at the very onset of menopause. Some think it is a good idea to increase the calcium intake in the years preceding menopause to help protect bones.

I am sending you The Health Letter, Special Report 24, Osteoporosis: Porous Bones, which will update you on the prevention and treatment of this problem. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

With proper management, most women can prevent bone degeneration from osteoporosis. You need not be crippled by this disorder.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 40-year-old woman and jog three days a week for about 35 minutes each time. If I were unable to jog, would I to burn up the same number of calories by using a rowing machine? Would the same muscles be exercised?

DEAR READER — How many calories you use depends on how much oxygen you need for an exercise. The amount of additional oxygen required depends on the amount of muscular effort, regardless of the exercise you perform. Jogging and running use very large muscles, so such exercises use lots of oxygen.

You could exert enough effort with many exercise machines to require the same amount of oxygen that you would need to jog, but the answer doesn't end there. Upright exercises that make you use your body weight help to strengthen the bones. However, swimming, in which the body is horizontal and supported by the water, does not strengthen the bones. As a woman in your age group, you need exercises that promote strong bones. Any exercise routine that is limited to the horizontal position will not be adequate for this purpose.

No, by using a rowing machine, you will not use the same muscles in the same way or to the same degree as you would by jogging. However, you will be using other muscles that you don't use in jogging.

An automatic double squeeze

By James Jacoby

When your partner knows that your strength is in the suit you have bid, it doesn't do you any good to double an opponent's cue-bid. Doing so only gives the opponents additional bidding room to pinpoint their values.

Steve Hamaoui of Venezuela overcalled with four hearts after the weak two-bid in spades by East. When North cue-bid spades, East foolishly doubled. Hamaoui passed to get clarification from partner. Now the redouble absolutely guaranteed first-round control in spades. The cue-bidding continued fast and furious until South finally bid the grand slam. Having pushed the bidding up to the limit, he had to find a way to bring the difficult contract home.

He trumped the king of clubs, ruffed a spade in dummy, ruffed a club to his hand, ruffed another spade in dummy, ruffed another club in his hand, and trumped a third spade with dummy's last heart. Now he played a diamond to his king. He then played out all the high trumps, creating an automatic double squeeze. West had to keep the ace of clubs to prevent dummy's queen from becoming good, hence he had to unguard the diamond queen. Even if East had held the diamond queen, it would not have mattered, since East would have to throw the spade ace to guard diamonds.

Fingerling Orders

The Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District is currently accepting fingerling orders for pond restocking.

The following prices per hundred are now in effect: 4-6 inch channel catfish, $35; 6-8 inch channel catfish, $55; 1-3 inch hybrid bluegill, $40; 3-5 inch hybrid bluegill, $60; 2-3 inch hybrid largemouth bass, $70; 4-6 inch hybrid largemouth bass, $160; and fathead minnows (approximately 250 per pound), $7 per pound.

Delivery date is tentatively set for March 30 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Soil Conservation Service office in the Snyder Shopping Center.

Suggested stocking rates for small ponds are 100 channel catfish per surface acre. If you plan to supplementally feed the catfish or fertilize the pond, then 500 catfish per surface acre can be stocked.

The channel catfish can be stocked alone or with fathead minnows to serve as forage. The larger 6-8 inch catfish fingerlings are recomended if large bass are present in the pond.

The hybrid bluegill can be stocked alone or with bass or catfish. About 10 percent of the bluegill will reproduce and are a good choice as forage for bass. They grow larger than the native bluegill and are an excellent choice for stocking alone in very small ponds.

Plastic bags will be provided for hauling the fish. They can be kept in the bags for up to two hours, but should be placed into ponds as soon as possible.

Payment is due upon placement of the order with checks made payable to the Upper Colorado SWCD. Orders will be taken through March 21.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 573-0171 or by seeing SCS personnel in the office at 3423 Avenue T.

BEAUTY BRIEFS

Lip crevices

The tiny lines above the lips which maturity usually brings can make lipstick shaping a problem.

One partial solution is to work moisturizer cream into the area two or three times before applying makeup, or until the skin there seems really soft.

To get a smooth base, blend a foundation lotion or cream over the upper lip area, then use a lip pencil to shape the mouth.

Fill in with lipstick.

Deep-set eyes

When eyes are deep-set, they look too small, and the eye area skin often appears darker in tone than the rest of the face.

Blend pale beige foundation over the entire eye area, from below eyes to brows. Now use pastel or silvery colors on eyelids.

Groom brows with a bit of petroleum jelly on a mascara brush.

Your Birthday

January 17, 1985

The sensitivity and kindness you always felt but had difficulty expressing will dominate your personality this coming year. Many admirers will be drawn to the new you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you're pretty good at keeping secrets, but today you might be afflicted by a fit of talkativeness and spill things you shouldn't. Major changes are in store for Capricorns in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today it may be wise to leave your credit cards at home. Just do some window wishing instead of shopping so you won't make foolish buys.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) To avoid dissension with associates today, don't glorify your ideas while treating theirs as if they have little or no value.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It may be your lot in life today to pick up the loose threads others have unraveled and try to weave order from chaos. Do so with grace.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be selective today regarding your associations. If you're not discriminating, you might be drawn into a sticky situation not of your own making.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be considerate of people you have to deal with on a one-to-one basis today. You'll lose their cooperation if you behave insensitively.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be stubborn about changing your mind today if wiser heads tell you that you're saddling yourself with unworkable methods that should be discarded.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Before committing yourself to a joint interest today, analyze all of its ramifications so you know exactly what you're getting yourself into.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There could be a little turbulence in your household today owing to unexpected disruptions. Don't make matters worse by being cranky.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's important that you pace yourself properly today. Things you do in haste will probably have to be done over later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you're a prudent conservator of your resources, but today you might take financial risks you shouldn't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your restless nature may compel you to start several projects simultaneously today. Unfortunately, if you pursue this course of action you won't finish what you begin.

SCS again selling windbreak trees

The Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District will be selling windbreak trees from now until February 15, according to Jimmy Harrison, Chairman of the board of directors. Scurry and Borden Counties are invited to participate in this windbreak program.

Types of trees the district will sell will be the Mondell Pine, Native Plum (wild), Cottonwood (cottonless), Russian Olive, Green Ash, Hackberry, Black Walnut, Osage Orange (Bois-d'arc), Arizona Cypress, Austrian Pine and Ponderosa Pine. Apricot, redbud, lilac and bur oak will also be sold.

The Mondell Pine originated in the regions of southeast Asia. It will reach a height of about 18 feet in five years and about 40 feet in 15 years. This pine can be used for windbreaks as well as landscaping. The Russian Olive is a fast growing shrub or small tree that is excellent for wildlife. It has a beautiful foliage and also makes an excellent large hedge. The native plum is excellent for wildlife and makes excellent preserves and jelly.

Protection from rodents and wind should be planned for these trees. This can be done by using cans or other containers, shingles, hailscreens, old tires, etc. Water is essential. A minimum of five to eight gallons per tree each week will be needed the first growing season and about 10 gallons the second growing season. An inexpensive "drip" irrigation system is recommended. This can be made by using plastic pipe and emitter tubes.

Payment is due upon placement of the order. Refunds will be made if delivery is not complete. Due to variables in either conditions and care required for the trees, no guarantee of liveability is made after the trees are received by each individual. Due to shortages of some of the trees, orders should be placed as soon as possible. Trees may be picked up at the Soil Conservation Service Office in the Snyder Shopping Center.

Forms for ordering trees can be picked up at the Soil Conservation Service office in the Snyder Shopping Center, 3423 Avenue T, or write to the Mitchell Soil & Water Conservation District, P. O. Box 910, Colorado City, Tex. 79512, and order blanks will be mailed to you. Personnel at the Soil Conservation Service Office in Snyder can be contacted for more information.

Police arrest duo in alleged plot

TOKYO (AP) — Police said today they had arrested a couple in Tokyo on charges of trying to extort $400,000 from Sapporo Breweries by threatening to poison its product.

Terukuni Nakano, 46, former owner of a waste water disposal company, and his common-law wife, Michiko Hiroshima, 34, threatened in a note dropped off at the brewery president's house on New Year's day to "distribute poisoned beer" unless Sapporo paid the money, a Metropolitan Police Agency spokesman said.

The pair, identifying themselves as "Monster Man X," were arrested Tuesday at a spot where they had instructed the brewery to tie the money to a rope and lower it to a dry river bed, police said.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a very pretty, popular, 15-year-old girl I'll call Lucy. She's an honor student and has never been in any kind of trouble. Her father and I had a rule that she couldn't go steady until she reached 16.

Well, Lucy met a boy, 16, from another high school, and they really fell for each other. He asked her to go steady and she said yes. Two days later he came to meet us, and I decided to set the "ground rules." I thought if he knew the rules in advance he might not put any pressure on Lucy.

I told him they must be off the phone by 9 p.m. on school nights as she had to be up at 6, at school at 7, and she needs her rest. I told him she didn't drink, that I didn't care if he drank, but he was not to drink when he was with her. I told him that he should go out with his boyfriends and Lucy would go with her girlfriends—that they shouldn't be constant companions. End of conversation. Well, he immediately got up and left—mad.

The next night they had plans to see a movie. He called Lucy to say he would pick her up, but he wouldn't come inside the house. She felt bad. I told her to explain that we love her and are interested in her well-being. Well, he thinks I don't like him and that's not true.

He didn't call Lucy all week and she was heartbroken. She finally called him and asked what was wrong. He said he wanted to break up because he hadn't felt comfortable since meeting her mom. She hung up the phone in tears and went to bed.

Abby, I feel so guilty. Was I wrong to set the ground rules on our first meeting? Or did I just handle it wrong? How should I handle situations like this in the future? Lucy has been very cool to me, and I haven't slept in a week.

WELL-MEANING MOM

DEAR MOM: Setting the ground rules is an excellent idea, but you should have discussed them with your daughter privately, and asked her to convey them to the boy.

From your description of the ground-rules briefing, you must have come off like a drill sergeant barking orders. The boy can't be blamed for wanting to break up with your daughter.

Well-meaning or not, you blew it, Mom. Apologize to Lucy and promise you will never repeat that performance again.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and his two sisters (all married with children) had a studio portrait taken of just the three of them for their parents' Christmas gift this year. Spouses and grandchildren were not included.

Why am I angry?

SEEING RED

DEAR SEEING: Don't assume that because "someone" decided to eliminate spouses and children from the family photograph that you are less valued by your in-laws. It's not necessarily so. Find out who made that decision before allowing negative feelings to develop. Get the picture?

Handbag search leads to court ruling

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — The former vice principal whose routine check of a ninth-grader's purse led to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling broadening school officials' right to search students says the decision will mean safer schools.

"Obviously, I'm very happy," said Theodore Choplick, former vice principal at Piscataway High School. "I think it was a step toward safer schools, simply because (school officials) now won't be afraid to do the job parents want them to do."

In a 6-3 decision Tuesday, the nation's highest court ruled in the Piscataway case that school officials do not need a warrant or the same justifications required of police officers to search students suspected of violating the law or a school rule.

But the court said public school officials, like police officers, must adhere to the Constitution's ban on unreasonable searches and seizures by governmental officials.

Choplick said he was trying to carry out his responsibility on March 7, 1980, when he asked a 14-year-old student, identified in court records as T.L.O., to open her handbag after a teacher saw her smoking in a restroom.

"It wasn't like I grabbed the girl and attacked her and took the handbag from her," he recalled. "It was a reasonable search. ... I asked her and she opened it."

Choplick said he found a pack of cigarettes and rolling papers. The girl was found delinquent after admitting to police she had sold marijuana cigarettes to classmates.

The New Jersey Supreme Court overturned the delinquency finding, ruling that the search had violated the student's rights.

But the high court reinstated the delinquency verdict.

The girl has since graduated; her expulsion was put on hold by the litigation. Choplick was laid off in a budget crunch in June 1980, and has been unable to find another job in education.

Five years after the search, the Supreme Court decision touched off strong opinions at Piscataway High School.

Nancy's secretary resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Press Secretary Sheila Tate, who helped Nancy Reagan through a "tough" first year and is credited with improving the first lady's public image, is leaving the White House to work in public relations.

Mrs. Tate said Tuesday she plans to take a senior vice presidency at Burson-Marsteller, the nation's largest public relations firm, and expects to leave the White House in February, after a replacement is named.

Mrs. Tate started her job just before the 1981 inauguration and after the first lady — new to Washington — was the target of negative press coverage about her expensive designer clothes and society-conscious friends.

SHS ropes Mustangs in key district battle

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Snyder's Tigers gave up 18 points of a 19-point lead, but held on to corral the Mustangs of Sweetwater in an important District 2-4A contest here Tuesday, 53-46.

The win puts Coach Larry Scott's bunch at 3-1 in district play as they prepare for a four-game road trip. The Tigers vie in Pecos on Friday, in Fort Stockton on Saturday, in Lamesa next Tuesday and in Andrews three days later.

"These two weeks will tell us a whole lot," said Coach Scott. "We play all the top teams."

Scott will be happy if his Tigers play the four games like they did in the first and fourth quarters Tuesday, but not the second and third.

The first quarter was classic, aggressive basketball as drawn up on the blackboard. Whether Sweetwater came into the game with cold feet or Snyder just put everything together at once didn't matter. What did, is that the Tigers rolled off 14 unanswered points - no more than four by any one player - enroute to a 22-6 advantage. Bobby Scott's opening bucket at the start of the second quarter made it 16 straight points and a 24-6 lead for the home team.

"Things went real well for us in the first quarter. We were moving well, getting the shots we wanted, and we hit the boards pretty good, too," said Scott. "I think they had five fouls before we ever got one and that made a difference late in the game when they had a couple of kids foul out."

But the situation reversed itself.

Sweetwater went to all-loop prospect Mike Welch, who scored 8 points in leading the Mustangs on a 13-3 rally. The result left Snyder up by nine, 34-25, at halftime.

In the third period, the Mustangs took the ball inside to 6-5 senior post John Layfield. The big man worked the middle for 9 points as the Mustangs ran off 12 unanswered points and made it a 38-37 game with 1:52 left.

"They had a good game plan. They put Welch in the corner and Layfield at low post and worked the ball back and forth. We were having problems with that," said Scott. "Things had gone so well for us in the first quarter than we didn't react like we needed to when they went against us. We got to worrying about what the officials were going to call or not call, things like that, and we weren't thinking about the game anymore."

Snyder came back just before the fourth quarter, however.

"We went to a zone and that helped, then we went to a half-court defense and they had to bring Layfield up to high post."

Snyder had gone six minutes without scoring in the third period before Wade Forga snagged a pair of freethrows with 38 seconds left. James Powell then scored with seven seconds remaining and Charles Bollinger hit a 20-footer just before the buzzer as the Tigers struck back for a 44-37 advantage.

Sweetwater was able to cut the lead to four points several times in the fourth quarter, but Snyder went into its "3-Game." Timely freethrows by Bollinger and some key buckets by Bobby Scott kept the Mustangs bridled and the game in check.

"The main thing is we got back to being patient. We worked the ball pretty well. We weren't going to take anything but the layup," said Scott of the final quarter.

The "3-Game" offense is designed to work the ball quickly and look for the layup while running the clock.

Thomas Goodman fouled out with 6:58 to go in the game and Layfield followed at the 4:22 mark.

Bobby Scott's 15 points lead Snyder. He was the only Tiger in double figures, but eight players scored. Jackie Anderson hit for 8 points, Bollinger and Chris Garrett for 7 each, Forga for 6, Trey Tippens for 5, Mike McWilliams for 3 and James Powell for 2.

Welch paced the Mustangs with 14 points. Layfield had 13 and Anthony Norman knocked down 10.

Friday's game in Pecos has an 8:30 start to facilitate travel time. The Tigers will stay the night and go over to Fort Stockton for their 6 p.m. game Saturday.

Snyder can't find hoop...

Sweetwater tops Tiger girls

SWEETWATER – The Snyder Lady Tigers are in a precarious situation this morning after Tuesday night's 61-33 loss to seventh-ranked Sweetwater knocked them to third place in the District 2-4A race.

"We really can't afford to lose anymore games," said Coach Ken Housden, whose girls fell to 4-2, one game behind Sweetwater and two games in back of Andrews. "Sweetwater plays Andrews on Friday and we'll know more about where we stand after that," he added.

Snyder, 15-5 on the season, plays in Andrews on the following Friday, Jan. 25. First, however, the Tigers have three other games. Most immediately, they entertain Pecos at 8:30 p.m. this Friday in the high school gym. They also host Fort Stockton in a makeup game at 2:30 Saturday.

"The first quarter, we played real well and hurt them with the press. The second quarter, we still did pretty decent on defense. They shot the ball real well both from the inside and the outside. We had good team effort, good hustle, but we just couldn't score. Our rebounding wasn't what it needed to be. They almost doubled us on rebounds," said Housden.

Both teams put in 9 first-quarter points but Sweetwater out-gunned the visitors 19-7 in the second quarter for a 28-16 halftime advantage. The Mustangs nipped out a 14-11 advantage in the third period, then went on a 19-6 binge in the final eight minutes.

Housden said the boardgame was the difference.

"They beat us so bad on the boards we were getting only one shot and that hurt a lot."

Sweetwater yanked down 40 rebounds to Snyder's 22.

Meanwhile, Snyder hit 13 of 19 freethrows but was only 10 of 36 from the field. Karlene Thompson led the effort with 16 points, 7 rebounds and 7 steals. Carie Housden added 9 points.

Sweetwater, now 22-2 and 5-1, got 14 points each from Deborah McCain and Cheryl Watson.

In other action Tuesday, Snyder's junior varsity girls lost for only the second time this season as Sweetwater eeked out a 35-34 win.

Snyder had a chance to win as Stacy Dunk stole an inbounds pass and put the ball up as the final buzzer sounded. The ball rolled off the rim, however, and the Mustangs took the victory.

"Neither team scored well in the game as you can tell by the final score," said Housden. "Stacy made a great steal at the end but the ball just wouldn't fall," he noted.

Snyder, 12-2, was led by Dunk and Monica Hinojos, each with 6 points. The Cat JV will also host Pecos on Friday, at 7 p.m.

Villanova plucks BC Eagles; Virginia rips Pennsylvania

The Associated Press

The roller-coaster ride through the Big East continues for No. 18 Villanova.

Junior forward Harold Pressley scored 22 points, senior guard Gary McLain got a career-high 20 and Ed Pinckney contribued another strong game Tuesday night as Villanova beat No. 15 Boston College 85-66 in college basketball.

The victory came three days after the Wildcats had lost in overtime to No. 1 Georgetown, another Big East rival. In its conference opener, Villanova had handed No. 7 Syracuse its only loss of the season.

"After the tough loss on Saturday, I was very pleased with the way we played tonight," Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino said.

The game was the only one involving a Top Twenty team.

Villanova led visiting Boston College the entire way, building a 39-23 margin late in the first half. It was 51-36 early in the second half before the Eagles made a run, pulling with 57-51.

But Villanova scored six straight points and was in command the rest of the way.

Michael Adams, Boston College's leading scorer, was held to eight points, half of his average.

Pinckney scored 12 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and had nine assists for Villanova, 10-3 overall and 3-2 in the Big East.

Cowboys don't expect to go for Doug Flutie

DALLAS - Head coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys says it is unlikely the team will try to trade up in the National Football League draft in an effort to get Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie.

"We don't feel we have a need for a quarterback for the price (draft picks) we would have to pay to get him," Landry said Tuesday. "We are satisfied with our quarterbacks."

Flutie is expected to be gone by the time the Cowboys' 17th pick in the draft comes around.

Landry's comments came from Oakland, where he will be an analyst for the ABC telecast Sunday of the Super Bowl game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Miami Dolphins.

Gil Brandt, the Cowboys' director of player personnel, had said during Cotton Bowl Week, when Boston College was playing Houston, that the Cowboys might consider some type of trade of draft picks to have a shot at picking Flutie.

Danny White and Gary Hogeboom shared the starting quarterback duties last season for the Cowboys. At times, both have indicated they would rather be traded than go through another season of not knowing whether the starting job was theirs.

Landry said recently he is leaning toward keeping both White and Hogeboom.

Brown, Harris square off against each other

NEW YORK (AP) - Jim Brown says he still loves competition and Franco Harris, and though he relishes the challenge, says he's in a no-win situation.

Two of pro football's all-time leading rushers will go head-to-head Friday at an Atlantic City hotel in a four-sport competition called "I Challenge You."

This made-for-television event is an offshoot of Brown suddenly finding himself back in the spotlight in 1984 as both Harris and Walter Payton went after his all-time National Football League rushing record.

Brown showed that his competitive fires had not been banked when he briefly suggested he might come out of his two-decade retirement to regain the rushing mark after it was broken.

Brown gained 12,312 yards and averaged 5.2 yards a carry in a career than began in 1957 and ended in 1965. He played in 118 games, all with the Cleveland Browns.

Payton, in his 10th season with the Chicago Bears, did in fact pass Brown in 1984, running his total to 13,309 yards. He has averaged 4.4 yards in 146 games. Harris, who was released prior to the start of the 1984 season by Pittsburgh, where he played for 12 seasons, played eight games with Seattle before being released. He stands third at 12,120 yards, having averaged 4.1 yards a carry in 173 games.

USFL hires commissioner

NEW YORK (AP) - The United States Football League has followed the lead of major league baseball in picking a commissioner from the management hopper of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

Harry Usher, executive vice president and general manager of the LAOOC, accepted the USFL's top post on Tuesday. He was selected by a unanimous vote of the league's 14 owners. Usher was the top assistant to Peter Ueberroth, who left after the 1984 Olympics to become baseball commissioner.

"This is a tremendous challenge and one I am looking forward to with great anticipation," Usher said in a statement released by the league office. "A challenge as stimulating as the 1984 Olympic Games will be equally demanding and interesting."

The 45-year-old Usher, a Beverly Hills, Calif., lawyer, replaces Chet Simmons, the spring-summer football league's commissioner since a month after its founding almost three years ago. Simmons resigned Monday.

Parliament nixes proposed bill

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Parliament today voted down a controversial bill aimed at narrowing the legal definition of who is a Jew.

The vote was 62-51 against the bill, which had been vigorously opposed by Reform and Conservative rabbis in the United States.

Six members of the 120-member Parliament were absent when the legislation presented by four religious parties was brought up, and one member abstained.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres, speaking against the proposal, argued it would divide the Jewish people.

"Who is a Jew was determined generations ago," Peres told the lawmakers. "Our goal here is to maintain the Jewish people in the face of great dangers."

Debate on the bill was stormy, with speeches frequently interrupted by arguments between leftist and religious lawmakers.

Israel's four Orthodox religious political parties with 12 seats in the Knesset, or parliament, demanded that pre-election promises to introduce the bill be fulfilled despite pressing issues such as the economic crisis and the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Lebanon.

If the bill had become law, Israel would have recognized only those conversions to Judaism conducted by Orthodox rabbis. This would stigmatized all conversions conducted by the less orthodox Conservative and Reform movements in the United States and Europe.

High court ruling corrects balance

By LEE MITGANG
AP Education Writer

The U.S. Supreme Court has given what some regard as long-overdue relief to teachers, principals, parents and youths fed up with the drugs and violence in many schools: the right to search students without a court-ordered warrant.

A 6-3 ruling by the court Tuesday was almost universally praised by educators, and even by some civil liberties lawyers, as balanced and needed.

From the 1960s on, the high court expanded student rights in case after case. First it was the right to wear what they wished and say what they pleased. Eventually student rights extended to protection against personal searches unless school officials had a warrant from a judge.

Those earlier rulings, in the opinion of many educators, created a climate that invited a kind of lawlessness that some students couldn't resist and which principals and teachers often feared to combat because of the threat of lawsuits.

The result: in poll after poll over the last decade, the lack of discipline has consistently headed the list of what the public sees as education's chief failing.

Tuesday's ruling may give schools the legal ammunition necessary to regain control over troublemakers.

AP analysis

In a case involving a Piscataway, N.J., high school student who was found by a vice principal to have drug paraphernalia in her purse and was later convicted of selling marijuana to fellow students, the court ruled teachers and school officials do not have to have "probable cause" for searching a student and may now do so without a warrant.

The decision did not strip students of their Fourth Amendment right against unreasonable searches.

"We've had so many cases in the last 10 years increasing student rights. In practicality what they did was make many principals afraid because of the threat of civil suits. I think this ruling corrects the balance," said William Honig, California's Superintendent of Public Instruction.

A leading civil liberties lawyer found little fault with the ruling. "The truth is, (civil libertarians) can't always play Chicken Little. This ruling is not going to change very much," said Burt Newborn, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "The point is that the special circumstances of the school setting requires some tailoring of the Fourth Amendment to students."

The case of the 14-year-old New Jersey girl, identified only as T.L.O. in court records because of her age, drew national attention. The Reagan administration filed a brief last year siding with the vice principal who searched the girl's purse. Citing a "growing lack of discipline" in schools, the Justice Department brief urged the court to limit student rights in searches for drugs and weapons.

What the ruling will or won't change in school life isn't clear.

Some educators, including Honig and Sandra Feldman, executive director of the United Federation of Teachers in New York, said some school districts might be more likely to search lockers or use metal detectors to keep drugs and weapons out of school.

But few believe schools will take the ruling as a green light to return to the harsh, often arbitrary disciplinary methods that led to the high court's decision in favor of student rights 15 years ago.

"If anything," said Joseph Scherer, an official of the American Association of School Administrators, "administrators have become overcautious with respect to student rights. Even with this ruling, administrators will be very respectful of due process. Schools learned very hard lessons in the 1960s in dealing with students. We don't want to turn back the clock."

Partial decision

NEW YORK (AP) — The jury in the Ariel Sharon libel case today decided that Time magazine defamed Sharon by indicating that he "consciously intended" Christian Lebanese militiamen to massacre Palestinian civilians in 1982.

The decision was the first of three that the jury must make in order to arrive at a verdict of libel against Time. The jury must continue to deliberate on the issues of falsity and malice.

The jury decided unanimously that the Time article, "read in context," had defamed Sharon. Based on that finding, the jury then decided that a key paragraph of the story meant Sharon "consciously intended" to allow the Phalangists to take revenge, including killing noncombatants.

The jury, however, did not rule that the paragraph meant Sharon "actively encouraged" the massacre.

In addition, the jury said the defamatory effect of the paragraph was "aggravated" by Time's statement that details of the alleged revenge discussion were contained in a secret section of an Israeli inquiry commission's report.

Man beaten then dumped in Tyler residence yard

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A man who says he was beaten and abducted has been released from a hospital where he was taken after police found him lying in the front yard of a residence near here, officials said.

Ronald Leslie Baker Jr. was treated Tuesday for cuts and bruises to the face, chest and legs after he was found at about 6 a.m. in what police described a "frightened condition."

Baker told police he began hitchhiking Monday night in Cleburne, about 30 miles south of Fort Worth, after some friends he was riding with threw him out of their car as a joke, said Tyler police spokesman Gary Middleton.

Baker said he was trying to hitch a ride when three men in a car stopped and asked him if he had any money and threatened to kill him if he did not get in, Middleton said.

Middleton said once Baker got in the car, the men beat him with their fists and belts and also kicked him during the ride from Cleburne to Tyler.

After arriving in Tyler, the assailants took Baker's black felt cowboy hat and black boots before dumping him from the car, Middleton said.

Middleton said Baker crawled into the yard and hid in some bushes until police arrived. No arrests have been made in the case, police said.

Drilling permit cost increase draws fire

AUSTIN (AP)--Texas oil men says Gov. Mark White's plan to increase drilling permits by $56.3 million would be equal to drilling 230 new oil wells in the state's depressed oil economy.

Railroad officials and oil industry spokesman were unanimous in criticizing White's proposal Tuesday to increase oil and gas drilling permit fees 800 percent.

"We don't need that extra money for operation of this commission," said commissioner Jim Nugent.

"An increase of this magnitude would be unfair and could even endanger a drilling project in the case of some of our smaller operators," said Bruce Anderson of Houston, president of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association. "The risks involved in exploratory oil and gas drilling leave little room for nonproductive costs."

In requesting the Legislature to approve $184 million in new and expanded fees for state agencies, White recommended that drilling permit fees be increased from $100 to $900.

White said $100 of the increase would be used to expand well plugging activity and the other $700 would go "to fund other agency programs," freeing the general revenue fund of $49.2 million obligation.

"We do not need any increased fees to offset our agency funds," Nugent said. "We make the state money."

Nugent said the commission collects about $47 million a year from the industry but uses only about $30 million in overseeing oil and gas operations in Texas.

"That leaves about $17 million a year we turn over to the general revenue fund," Nugent said.

A spokesman for Commissioner Mack Wallace said the commission formerly did not charge anything for drilling permits.

"Then in the last Legislature, the legislators wanted to levy a $100 fee to clean up all these old leaking wells, and the commission agreed to it," said Pat Martinets, an assistant to Wallace. "The commission did not ask for any increase this time."

Anderson said that since independent producers drill more than 80 percent of the state's wells the new fee would impact disproportionately on them."

Targets tests

AUSTIN (AP) — A Houston lawmaker has introduced legislation that would delay the competency test for teachers and speed the return of an elected state Board of Education.

Horace H. Eiland, vice president; Hugh Taylor, vice president; H.W. Cargile, cashier; and Olian Vinson, Billy Lloyd and Billy Holman as assistant cashiers.

The charter directors were Wayne Boren, Herman Doak, B.C. Drinkard, H.H. Eiland, Weldon Johnson, M.H. McWhirter, George E. Parks, Hugh Taylor and Nolan Watson.

Drinkard, a federal employee at the time, served on the bank board until March of 1956. He later became president of the Citizens Bank in Brownwood.

Horace Eiland, an auto dealer, served on the board until 1969. Eiland became chairman of the loan committee in 1953 and in 1954 was named vice president (in-active). For three years, from 1957-59, Eiland served WTSB as president. In 1960 he became chairman of the executive committee.

After serving as chairman of the board from 1950, Boren became vice chairman in 1974 and served in that capacity until 1980 when he was chosen honorary chairman. Boren died in 1984.

George E. Parks, a rancher, served on the board until April of 1961. Herman Doak, another original director, served until August of 1983 when he became an advisory director.

Hugh Taylor, a Snyder businessman, served on the board until 1961 when he sold his stock. Another charter director, rancher Weldon Johnson, sold his stock and resigned from the board in April of 1954.

McWhirter, an investor from Monahans, served on the board for two years. The other original director, Bank President Nolan Watson, continued until resignation at the end of 1955.

Following Watson's departure, H. H. Eiland took over the duties of president on an in-active basis for three years. During that time, H. W. Cargile, who had been added to the board in 1952, was named executive vice president.

Cargile became president in 1960 and was named chairman of the board in 1974. At the same time, an employee who had advanced through the ranks, Martin Brooks, was named president.

Starting in 1950 and advancing to cashier in 1954, Brooks was later named a vice president and cashier in 1958. In 1960 Brooks was elected executive vice president and in 1974 he became president.

Numerous other persons have served on the WTSB board over the years. They include Raymond L. Tollett, Cosden executive, from 1952-53; auto dealer Wade Pipkin from 1953-54; C.V. (Whit) Thompson Sr. from 1953-71; rancher D.M. Cogdell Jr. from 1954-61; rancher and farmer Nathan Wade from 1955-66; C.V. Thompson Jr. from 1960-62; rancher Dan Gibson from 1962-66; rancher Bilby Wallace from 1966-70; and Carlton Chapman in 1979.

A current director, in addition to Cargile and Brooks, is Bill Eiland who joined the board in March of 1956. Eiland, son of H.H. Eiland, also serves as vice president (in-active).

Other directors include R.C. Patton, district manager of Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber, who became a director in May of 1966; Dale Stuard, senior vice president, who became a director in December of 1969; rancher Holman Odom who became a director in August of 1970; John Greene, executive vice president, who became a director in 1979; vice president Charles Henderson who became a director in 1979; auto dealer Harold Denson who became a director in 1980; and attorney Dan Cotton who joined the board in 1983.

Greene, the executive vice president, joined the bank in 1962 and in 1966 became an assistant cashier. He later became cashier and in 1974 was also named vice president. He was elected executive vice president in 1981.

Skillern executed

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP)—Doyle Skillern asked his family to "rejoice and forgive," then was executed by injection early today for a killing in which the confessed triggerman may soon go free.

Warden Jack Pursley ordered that the execution begin at 12:18 a.m. Skillern coughed and retched seconds later, then lay still. Fr. Luther Masters, a prison physician, pronounced his dead at 12:23 a.m. Skillern, 48, was "very much" resigned to his fate and was "cheerful all the time" he was with the Rev. Cornelius Ryan Tuesday, the Roman Catholic priest said immediately after the execution.

Phil Guthrie, chief spokesman for the Texas prison system, said that after prison officials informed Skillern that Gov. Mark White had declined to grant him a reprieve, Skillern responded "A lot of people will still have their troubles tomorrow, and mine will be over."

White's action followed a 6-2 vote of the Supreme Court not to block the execution.
