

Father Is Charged In Trick-Or-Treat Death

PASADENA, Tex. (AP) — The father of an 8-year-old boy who died after eating Halloween trick-or-treat candy that contained cyanide was charged with murder today and placed under $100,000 bond.

Police Detective Capt. R. E. Rhodes said Ronald Clark O'Bryan, 30, was arrested shortly before midnight to climax an investigation that began with the Thursday night death of Timothy O'Bryan.

The youngster died 90 minutes after eating from a giant size Pixie Stix medical examiner's office said contained cyanide. The medical examiner's office also said dyanide was found in another Pixie stix that Timothy had in his trick-or-treat collection.

Pasadena Police Chief Charles W. Denson said Friday that parents of other youngsters had turned in five other Stix that also contained cyanide.

Rhodes and other investigators declined to discuss details that led to the arrest and charge.

LOVED FOOTBALL
"We are still wrapping up some loose ends of the investigation," Rhodes said. O'Bryan had wept Thursday night while telling newsmen that Timothy "went limp in my arms" after vomiting.

"He was all boy," the father said. "He loved football, basketball, anything. He never met a stranger, but I have my peace in knowing Tim is in heaven now."

Services were held Saturday. Police arrested Bryan, an optician who lives in neighboring Deer Park, late Monday night and charged him with murder.

A clerk in the office of Justice of the Peace V. L. West confirmed that charges had been filed and said Bryan was being held in jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

His son, Timothy M. O'Bryan died late Thursday night after eating cyanide in a package of powdered candy.

Poison was also found in four other similar candy containers collected by other trick-or-treating youngsters Halloween night.

O'Bryan told police after his son returned from trick-or-treating with his sister, Elizabeth, 5, and three other youngsters, he ate some candy just before going to bed.

O'Bryan had accompanied his son and other children trick-or-treating on the night of the boy's death.

Pasadena detective Capt. R. E. Rhodes would not say where O'Bryan was arrested nor what evidence police had against him. To do so, Rhodes said, would jeopardize the case against O'Bryan.

"At this time, we cannot comment as to any other aspect of this case or any statements made by any of the parties involved due to the legal aspects involved," Rhodes said.

LOOSE ENDS
Police had combed the area where the children and O'Bryan said they received the candy, questioning every resident since the death.

Kissinger's Food Bank Pitch Made

ROME (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today asked the other major grain suppliers to join the United States in a food bank to ensure that "within a decade no child will go to bed hungry... no family will fear for its next day's bread."

As the World Food Conference convened, with Kissinger as its main opening-day speaker, thousands of leftist students marched in downtown Rome to protest the American's presence in Italy. Terrorists attacked an American target for the fourth day.

Four young men stormed the Rome office of Honeywell Corp., the electronics firm, beat up a woman telephone operator and set the place afire with a homemade bomb. The Honeywell offices are about two miles from the Colosseum, where a rally by a dozen Marxist splinter groups ended about half an hour before the attack.

Kissinger told the conference that the aim of the United States is a bold objective to cope with the source of hunger around the world, the lack of grain stockpiles.

The system he envisioned would include reserves for emergency food relief and punitive measures for countries that failed to meet their commitments.

Kissinger also urged newly rich oil producing states to help poor countries buy food, fertilizer and farm equipment. Quadrupled prices for crude oil over the last year have produced a surplus of around $60 billion in the oil states.

LIGHT TURNOUT IN TEXAS PREDICTED

Electing Candidates For Four-Year Terms

By The Associated Press
Texans voted today for officeholders throughout the state and for the first time will name their political leaders for four-year terms instead of the previous two.

SOCIALISTS
The estimate in advance of balloting was that about 2.75 million would vote. There are 5.4 qualified. The fact that this is a midterm election without the usual presidential fireworks will keep the vote totals low.

Republicans entered most of the major races facing the serious problem of ousting incumbents in this generally

Democratic state without the help of GOP presidential candidates.

A scattering of American, Raza Unida and Socialist Workers candidates was on the ballot.

EMOTIONAL ISSUES
As always, the race gaining most attention was for governor, Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe, 51, campaigned hardly at all except for appearances at luncheons and dinners as he does whether campaigning or not. He ended campaigning two weeks ago when his 86-year-old mother became seriously ill.

Ramsey Muniz, 31, Corpus Christi lawyer, tried hard as Raza Unida ticket leader and was the only candidate to raise fresh issues, among other things calling for removal of the sales tax and free tuition for the first two years in state colleges and universities. He campaigned well considering lack of money and statewide organization.

SURE BET
Two other governor candidates failed to mount major campaigns. They are Sam McDonnell, 51, Dallas businessman, American party candidate, and Sherry Smith, 28, Houston military representative of the Socialist Workers.

Texas is certain to have a new member in the U.S. House with the retirement of Democrat O.C. Fisher in the sprawling South Texas 21st District. Running hard were Democrat Bob Krueger against Republican Douglas Harlan, with Ed Gallion representing the American party.

Eight of the 24 Texas House delegation were unopposed. There were Republicans in all the other races, including the four GOP incumbents.

There were eight other statewide races but the Republicans and others made little effort except for comptroller, treasurer and agriculture commissioner.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby sought another term, opposed by Republican Gaylord Marshall, Dallas broker, and Dan Fein, Socialist Workers.

Witnesses said about 150 Israeli troops marched into Majdal Zoun shortly after helicopters overflew the village, which is set among tobacco fields and olive groves six miles from the Israeli border.

The robber was described as being between 18 and 20 years of age, wearing blue denim shirt and trousers and tennis shoes. He was armed with a 22 caliber revolver. He was about 5-11 and weighed about 170.

The bandit was described as having a beard and long hair. He may have escaped on a motorcycle.

Voting Is Slow Here

A total of 1499 voters had cast votes in 14 of 20 boxes this morning by 11 a.m., according to reports of individual presiding judges.

This included 415 absentee votes being counted in the courthouse.

Main Street fire station led all other boxes with 183, with the Wasson Road fire station totaling 180. Washington School had 168 and there were 162 at the Wesley Scout Hut. The total at Birdwell Fire Station was 101. Northside Fire Station had 75. The 4th and Nolan Fire Station totaled 114. Coahoma City Hall had 67. The Noel Hull had 12, residence Forsan School, 17 and Elbow, 22.

Total vote last November, when there were only amendments to vote on was a slight 1,236. But the previous year, which was a Presidential year, the total was 10,056.

ECONOMIC WOES, WATERGATE

A Democratic Sweep?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats appeared headed for gains across the land today as Americans, anguished by the Watergate scandal and the deterioration of the dollar, cast ballots for a new Congress and 35 governors.

PREDICTIONS
Early reports, meanwhile, did little to brighten predictions that less than half the electorate—perhaps only 40 per cent—would go to the voting booth. President Ford had exhorted all voters to exercise their privilege as a demonstration of confidence in the Republic.

Chilly, rainy weather discouraged participation in many locations in the East and Midwest. In Illinois, for example, those who lined up early in a 40-degree drizzle came in numbers which totaled only about two-thirds of the normal off-year turnout.

At stake in today's nationwide balloting were 34 of the 100 Senate seats, 35 of the 50 state governorships, all 435 House seats, and a variety of state and local offices and issues.

Gains by the party out of presidential power are traditional in off-year elections. Republicans hoped to hold Democratic advances within the averages of recent years — 4 senators, 26 House members and 6 governorships.

SURVEY
The last pre-election Associated Press survey, however, indicated that, despite GOP claims of some late turnaround, the Democrats seemed likely to gain from 5 to 7 senators, 30 to 50 House members and 6 to 10 governors.

This could swell the current Democratic congressional majorities — 58 to 42 in the Senate, 248 to 187 in the House — close to the two-thirds needed to override presidential vetoes.

Increased Democratic majorities doubtless would create problems for Ford's programs over the next two years, but few observers think that even two-thirds Democratic majorities in both houses would create the "veto-proof Congress" against which the President has campaigned.

In the governor's races, the Democrats seemed likely to expand substantially their current 32 to 18 majority and perhaps approach or surpass the 39 state houses the party captured in 1936.

Fols showed the Democrats would recapture the New York and California governorships, and Chairman Robert S. Strauss predicted his Democratic party would wind up with

Israeli Troops Raiding

BEIRUT (AP) — Israeli troops swooped down on the south Lebanon town of Majdal Zoun in helicopters at dawn today, blew up the village chief's house, then carried the man and his eldest son off to Israel.

"Both were known to have cooperated with terrorists," the Israeli government announced. It said Mukhtar Aref Suleiman and his 15-year-old son Ali were being detained for questioning.

The raid came as influential Palestinians said they would escalate their conflict with Jordan's King Hussein over future control of the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River and would oppose the Mideast peace efforts of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Witnesses said about 150 Israeli troops marched into Majdal Zoun shortly after helicopters overflew the village, which is set among tobacco fields and olive groves six miles from the Israeli border.

BULLETIN

A lone bandit held up the US 87 South Grocery south of town during the noon hour today and reportedly escaped with $500. He took off across a field, with at least one pursuer in hot pursuit.

The bandit was described as having a beard and long hair. He may have escaped on a motorcycle.

The robber was described as being between 18 and 20 years of age, wearing blue denim shirt and trousers and tennis shoes. He was armed with a 22 caliber revolver. He was about 5-11 and weighed about 170.

Republicans generally shied away from pre-election forecasts. Republican Chairman Mary Louise Smith said "we are going to do much better than people are predicting."

Ford, who campaigned in 20 states for GOP candidates, also refused to make any predictions. He expressed hope that current congressional ratios would emerge unchanged, and Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he thinks the President's efforts will help Republican candidates.

INFLATION
The President, meanwhile, stepped into the sun-splashed White House Rose Garden Monday to deliver a brief appeal for a large turnout.

If the 40 per cent turnout occurs, he said, "the Congress that will be working with me on controlling inflation, strengthening our economy and preserving world peace could be elected by only 21 per cent of the voters."

"I don't think anyone wants that kind of minority decision," the President declared. He said Mrs. Ford already have voted by absentee ballot in their home state of Michigan.

IF NO ONE VOTED 'Hole World Would Be In Big Troubel'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Third and fourth graders at Circle Park Elementary School had no problems in finding reasons when asked to explain, "Why should my parents vote tomorrow?"

Most of their answers on Monday made sense. Some of the spelling did not.

One fourth grader got his message across despite the liberties he took with spelling.

"My parents should vote because it is getting involved in something in helping the government and congress at the same time," he wrote.

"If no one voted this country and the hole world would be in big trouble. Even little clubs need presidents, if they did not, who would take care of the treasury? As amaterafaked (a matter of fact) if we did not have a president the hole world would be in batal."

Several mentioned the need to help the poor and the threat of starvation if the right people are not elected to office.

One third grader wrote, "Some people need money, some people are very poor and need money. The governor should give it to them. People get sick. What would you do about it? Let them die. No give them money to get well. Suppose the governor let them die. I would give them money if I was rich. But I'm not rich. I need money like everyone else."

One fourth grader said she feared the worse for the world if no one voted.

"If there were no president there would be no freedom and there would be no representative and the world would be lost and there would be no names for any countrys or the state like Fort Worth."

Another feared the loss of laws if no one voted for governmental officials.

"What would the polesman do?" she asked. "They could not give us tickets to speed over the zone like if the speed zone were 53 we could go over without getting a ticket."

She concluded, "My mother dose not vote. that is why I am writing."

As one fourth grader put it: "What if someone got lazy and didn't vote and someone is elected you don't like; it's your's fault. So vote and they might choose the one you like!"

And one third grader concluded with the thought and challenge, "We need someone who doesn't make the country any worse than it is. So come out and vote!"

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alan Cranston clings to a slim lead over Sen. George McGovern for the distinction of running the most expensive Senate campaign of the year, with both men's spending topping $1 million. A tabulation of recent campaign spending reports also shows that former astronaut John Glenn, running for the Senate in Ohio, topped the $1-million mark by the start of today's balloting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force nutritionist says mankind can do away with hunger and malnutrition and feed up to three times the world population with existing food production and processing methods. Bernard Yo, a civilian nutritionist at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama, says, however, that eating habits would have to be changed, and that, "Whenever you see anything green growing, it is possible to make it a food."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A memo attributed to E. Howard Hunt Jr. shows that Hunt thought he and the other original Watergate burglars expected to be pardoned for their crime two months before they went on trial for the burglary. According to the memo introduced Monday at the Watergate cover-up trial, the seven original break-in defendants also knew they were being paid for their silence about the involvement of higher-ranking Nixon re-election committee officials in the June 17, 1972, burglary.

NEW YORK (AP) — Family grocery bills inched up again during October, an Associated Press survey shows. But the rate of increase declined, supporting government predictions that the price spiral will ease as the year ends. Sales on meat and eggs helped consumers trying to balance the supermarket budget and offset increases in items like detergents. Sugar prices rose again, but there were signs that the enormous increases may be over. On the average, the bill at the start of November was 7 per cent higher than at the beginning of October and 13 per cent higher than at the start of the year.

WANAQUE, N.J. (AP) — A bullet fired through a window fatally wounded a municipal judge while he was holding court. Police termed the death a definite case of premeditated murder. About 50 persons were in the courtroom. No one else was hurt. Municipal Court Judge Joseph Crescente, 71, was sitting in his second-floor courtroom Monday night when the shot pierced a window and a venetian blind behind his bench and struck him in the back. The magistrate died two hours later at Chilton Memorial Hospital in nearby Pompton Plains.

Industry Hard To Understand

It's difficult at best to fully understand the operations of the petroleum industry when it comes to incentives and tax write-offs.

Even the oil industry itself can't always agree what's best. An interesting hassle developing between some major oil companies and independent oil operators over whether they should continue to be given the controversial depletion allowance or foreign tax credits.

There have been reports that some of the major oil companies who hold vast foreign investments are willing to get along without percentage depletion if they could have decontrol of oil prices.

Monday the executive committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America approved a resolution blaming international oil companies for dividing the industry on retention of the 22 per cent tax allowance considered vital to increased domestic exploration and authorizing the association's officers to use foreign tax credits as a means of bargaining with Congress if the majors fail to support percentage depletion.

This is a sticky situation at best; and one which continues to create addition criticism of the oil industry. With Congress becoming more critical of oil exploration and production should be given primary consideration. By lowering or eliminating the foreign tax credit, the government would be making it more profitable for oil companies to stay at home in their oil activity. That leaves little choice of which way the government should go if a decision has to be made in favor of depletion allowances or foreign tax credits.

The depreciation allowance does benefit domestic production more than the foreign tax credits. And with the present energy situation this nation faces, domestic Texans can all line up and brag in their finest tradition. Texas has shot Pennsylvania out of the saddle; it is now the third most populous state in the nation, trailing only California and New York.

And there's every reason to believe Texas will one day catch New York; that state is losing, not gaining population now. As for California, well who wants that many people anyway?

These latest population estimates reveal that the nation's population is moving from the Northwest to the South and West. With that population shift should come a shift in political power as well.

The last two elected United States presidents have come from Texas and California — although Lyndon B.

Johnson first succeeded to the presidency upon the death of John Kennedy and Richard Nixon shifted his base to New York. But the chances are good that they won't be the last two Texans and Californians in the White House. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California is more than willing to accept the Republican presidential candidacy if something should derail President Ford between now and 1976. Texas has Sen. Lloyd Bentsen making waves for the Democratic presidential nomination. Throughout the South, there are many office-holders being talked about as serious possibilities for national tickets. These office-holders — particularly governors — represent a turnabout from recent U.S. political history.

Had A Right To Brag

Non-Czar Morton

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The first closed-door meeting of the cabinet-level Energy Resources Council turned into a shambles last week, suggesting this unpleasant fact: President Ford has not yet established efficient policy making machinery to deal with the nation's single most critical problem.

LAST WEDNESDAY'S meeting flunked the simple test of rubber-stamping a new oil pricing plan which had already been painstakingly worked out, raising suspicions that the council is too large to function effectively and that Rogers Morton, the genial, easy-going Secretary of the Interior, may be miscast in his new role as energy czar. The chaotic session also proved that some holdover Nixon cabinet members may be more trouble than they are worth, a danger that also besets other policy areas.

Thus, although the energy personnel changes announced by Mr. Ford this week are a step forward, the government is still not organized to make the long-delayed decisions that will vitally affect economic and foreign affairs.

When the Energy Resources Council convened for the first time last week, it had no great decisions to make. Its only function was to rubber-stamp an oil-swapping plan to equalize prices paid by refiners for price-controlled "old" domestic oil (that is, pre-1973) and for higher priced "new" domestic oil and foreign oil.

Any equalization scheme has to mean more, not less, government control and thus runs counter to Mr. Ford's overriding philosophy. But the only alternative is decontrol of "old" oil, violently opposed by key Democrats in Congress and quietly objected to as inflationary by most administration officials. Consequently, the equalization plan had been approved, in writing, by everybody who counted: czar Morton, Treasury Secretary William Simon, Budget Director Roy Ash, economic adviser Alan Greenspan, presidential counselor John Marsh.

COUNTING ONLY principals, the Energy Resources Council has 15 members. But each brought along an aide or two. That created a mob scene of over 40 officials crowded around the table — tantamount to mass confusion.

Former Congressman Morton opened the meeting with a display of the generous good nature that made him so popular on Capitol Hill. He had no intention of playing "czar," he informed the council, but surely everybody would cooperate. "I thought he was begging everybody to be nice." One participant recalled.

When the equalization plan was brought up for discussion, Morton's plea for niceness was rebuffed by Secretary of Transportation Claude Brinegar. Ford aides privately defend the indefinite retention of such Nixon cabinet holdovers as Brinegar on grounds that they keep quiet and cause no trouble. But Brinegar was both noisy and troublesome.

He certainly had not been consulted in advance on the equalization plan. What's more, as senior vice president of Union Oil Co. before joining the Nixon cabinet last year, he had decided views. A Republican administration should not start down the road of stricter controls but go the opposite way, toward decontrol.

Brinegar's rhetoric set off a full-scale debate. All the arguments which principals and staffers had considered for weeks were now repeated. Morton seemed unable or unwilling to end the debate and gavel home the equalization plan. Having vacillated back and forth between control and decontrol several times in recent weeks, Morton now seemed confused.

The council meeting adjourned with nothing decided. But Morton was immediately braced by colleagues and staffers who pleaded with him that the equalization approach simply had to be announced, council approval or not. So, Morton ended up acting as a czar after all, announcing a policymaking decision by the council that had not been made.

The incident raises questions about how the council and Morton will handle far tougher problems. Almost surely, the council must impose restrictions on Sunday driving or on foreign oil imports, both of which will be highly unpopular. If that is not enough, the council must bite an even harder bullet: the proposed new federal gasoline tax, so often buried by President Ford himself.

The Greatest

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Although this is Election Day, I can't seem to get the Muhammad Ali fight out of my mind. Suppose, just suppose, one of the candidates who wins today also was influenced by the fight.

"Senator, how does it feel to be the winner?"

"I AM THE greatest! I am the greatest senator of all time! Never again make me the underdog in an election race. I told you stupid reporters I'd take my opponent, but you wouldn't pay any attention. You said Whiplash was finished — that I was too old, that all the fight had gone out of me. Well, you suckers, just write that there has never been anyone like me in politics. I am so beautiful."

"When did you feel you had it won, Senator?"

"I always felt I had it won. Grimstark is a bum. He didn't deserve to run against me. I shouldn't have even campaigned against him; he was so weak. He was nothing. Every time he saw one of my TV commercials, his knees shook."

"But what was the strategy that tipped the election in your favor?"

"I just let Grimstark swing wildly at the issues till he got tired. When you're the greatest, you don't with issues. You just sit there and let the voters come to you. When you go up against a fool like Grimstark, you just wait for an opening and pour it on. He was burned out a week before Election Day."

"Senator, the main subject in your fight with Grimstark seemed to be inflation. He attacked you on that."

"I WASN'T afraid of Grimstark attacking me. I just ignored it and hit him where it hurt. I socked him with the fact that he had a mistress on his payroll in the state capitol. He had no defense against that."

Caution Is Urged

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen aren't conservative enough, said David Brower. "They have to learn to live on their income rather than on their capital. Otherwise they're too radical."

The capital, as he views it, is the earth's resources. Use these resources wisely, replenish them, and avoid wasting them, and they provide an income. Destroy them, and you destroy yourself.

Such advice might be accepted if it comes from one businessman to another. Coming from Brower, however, it is likely to be accepted by some businessmen as fuzzy, liberal, even radical thinking.

Brower is a conservationist, an ecologist. A former executive director of the Sierra Club, he is now president of Friends of the Earth. He doesn't list businessmen among the earth's best friends.

Business often takes its sustenance from the earth without returning a dividend; it depletes soil and energy; it wastes and despoils. It lives on the earth's capital and doesn't seem to realize the capital is running out. All these are Brower views.

"I'm not attacking the profit system or the capitalist system or the Communist system," he said. "I'm attacking the disrespect for the earth, but I'm against shutting down the system."

In fact, he suggests, his ideas could be interpreted as prosystem. "We can't afford to continue tearing up the earth. You don't solve shortages by speeding up the rate of usage. If such ideas persist in practice we'll have an economic collapse."

To avoid this fate he maintains the world's economies must slow growth, "that is, the kind of growth that depends upon using up resources." We must, he adds, "slow down the kinds of games we've played for the past century."

Business and the environment are in real rather than superficial conflict, Brower insists, and business must compromise some of its goals and techniques. Otherwise, he forecasts, disaster will be the outcome. "If I were in an industry I'd like to be in one that lasts," he said, straining through his frustration to convince business that thoughtless consumption of energy eventually is self-defeating.

The conflict, he states, "will continue until business leaders who already haven't taken the situation seriously turn the problem over to their engineers, technologists and ecologists, instead of to ad agencies."

Hip Surgery

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For many years I have suffered from a degenerative hip joint.

Recently I have been thinking of a total hip replacement. I am 74 and my doctor feels that my age would not be objectionable for such an operation.

However the possibility of an infection during the operation or after exists. And should an infection occur, I understand that I would then have no hip joint at all and would have to spend the rest of my days in a wheelchair. I would appreciate your comments. — W. S.

The risk of infection exists with any operation, but you are overstating the case when you imply that any infection is going to result in a disaster.

Both the effectiveness of artificial hip joints and the safety of implanting them have been steadily improving and are still being improved. If I were you — if it were my hip in trouble — I would figure the risk of a disastrous infection being very small indeed.

I have known people who deferred hip surgery for one reason or another (not usually a valid reason) until they reached the stage of being virtually incapacitated. Then they had it done — and they are walking with ease today. My advice is not to put it off.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have two turtles as pets. Knowing that salmonellosis is becoming widespread and caused by germs, I'd like to know its symptoms in man. I have no reports of this disease so may I keep the turtles as pets if I don't let them breathe on me and wash my hands after handling them. What else can I do? — S. K.

Above letter came with an attached note from his mother, saying, "S. is a 23-year-old, multiply handicapped young man. I would appreciate any help." There is no indication of what S.'s handicaps are, and the letter looked as though he had worked very hard printing it. But his brain seems to be working efficiently, and my answer is that he ought to keep his pet turtles.

Germs invade by being swallowed. So wash your hands after handling the pets, keep hands away from your face and mouth until you have washed your hands.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If you have intercourse with a female who has a venereal disease, would you catch it if you washed with soap and water and then with alcohol within two minutes after? — N. N.

The washing might help some, but it would not be a sure means of protecting yourself. The gonorrhea germ can get into the urethra and would not be touched by external washing.

How does VD start? Why are teenagers among its most frequent victims? Will it cure itself? Dr. Thosteson gives all the answers in this invaluable, layman's language booklet, "Venereal Disease: How to Avoid it; How to Cure It." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents.

Not Their Style

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

To my knowledge, not a single member of the National Association of Business and Professional Women put a match to her Maidenform when other women's organizations were making a desperate bid to draw attention to the fight for women's rights.

NOT THAT there is anything wrong with burning bras or walking picket lines to get newspaper space — it's just not the B&PW style. Quieter, more subtle in their efforts, B&PW club members have been non-militant fighters for equal rights for over fifty years.

It's been a long, hard struggle that women have had — just to win some of the rights which are due them as citizens of the United States — or any other country. They have suffered discrimination, humiliation and defeats. It has only been through untiring efforts, bulldog determination and complete dedication to the cause of equal rights and opportunities that women are getting closer to their goal of first-class citizenship.

Jeanette Rankin, the first woman member of congress, made the greatest impact promoting suffrage, and it was during her first initial term that the woman's suffrage amendment passed and went to the states for ratification. It was not an immediate success, even among women themselves.

But, fortunately, Miss Rankin's efforts were not in vain. A new generation of women, more concerned, more far-sighted, are continuing the congresswoman's work as they look to the future of their children. And B&PW members are in the front lines.

They have their work cut out for them, for an astounding amount of misinformation and mistaken claims concerning what the Equal Rights Amendment will, and will not, do has been disseminated by opponents of ERA. The arguments presented by opponents are often emotional, but the points they raise get publicity and are sometimes accepted as truth by people who do not take time to research the facts.

AN EXAMPLE of that is that opponents claim that women can be drafted if the amendment passes. The truth is women can already be drafted in Texas! In 1957, the Texas Legislature passed Article 5765, Vernon's Revised Civil Statutes, 1958 Supplement, Article 5765 which provides that "all able bodied citizens, male and female . . . shall constitute the militia and be subject to military duty." Furthermore, there is nothing to prevent Congress from passing a law to draft women with or without the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Opponents claim the mother as well as the father will be responsible for the support of the children if the amendment passes. (And why shouldn't they be?) The truth is that mothers in Texas already have this responsibility. The Family Code, Section 4.02 places the duty of support of the children on both the mother and the father. Either, or both, can be jailed for failure to support the children.

Opponents claim "protective" laws applying to women only, will be abrogated. Yes, this is true. But these laws do not "protect" women. Instead, they deprive women of the right to work overtime at premium rates if they so desire. Federal courts have already declared such laws invalid because they violate the Fair Employment section of the Civil Rights Act. If such a law is really designed to protect the health of a worker, it should apply to men as well as women since statistics show that men are more subject to stress diseases than women.

THOSE ARE only three of the half-truths that are spread about the Equal Rights Amendment. There are some that do not deserve the dignity of an answer.

But baby, you HAVE come a long way, so don't give up. You may have to fight some of your own kind (who have a soft set-up personally and don't want to rock the boat) but I'll tell you something.

A new breed of man is developing. His big, strong arm used to lead his lady across the street. Now, his well-heeled boot is kicking open doors for her.

Wilson And Carey

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The other race in New York is for the governorship, and the challenger, Mr. Hugh Carey, is leading in the polls. The incumbent, Governor Malcolm Wilson, faces the odds philosophically — after all, his predecessor Nelson Rockefeller was almost always behind in the polls, and of course always won.

There are a few differences between the two men, to be sure. On the one hand, Rockefeller is very rich, and could afford to treat himself to huge sums of money, reminding the voters of their good fortune in having him as a governor. For another, Rockefeller usually managed, well before election day, to turn the polls around and thus to create a sense of movement which became contagious. And for still another, Rockefeller's professional optimism is one of his trademarks. If the polls showed him losing by 90 per cent, he would be out there heaving, predicting a victory.

MALCOLM WILSON'S expression does not change very often. If he were leading by 90 per cent, the expression on his face would not be different if the figures were reversed. They like to tease Wilson, saying that he is boring, (so was Seneca), that he doesn't say much that is new or fresh. He is the intended victim of the presumed public distaste for someone who is deeply intelligent, deeply philosophical and genuinely concerned for enduring verities. Or anyway, we like to call them enduring verities. Malcolm Wilson, for instance, believes very strongly in something higher than politics or the positive law. He is a Christian who actually suggested to Rockefeller a million years ago when Rocky was getting ready to give his first inaugural address, that he include somewhere the words, "Under God." He believes, also, in cultivating a knowledge of government. This he has done more painstakingly than anyone since the Mayor of Dijon, who died in office at age 103. In this sense, he is less attractive to the media and the press. It isn't easy to explain dramatically how one puts together a budget.

THE CHALLENGER, Mr. Carey, is the colorful-Irish type, very big with the blarney, a liberal by his legislative record, brother to a multi-millionaire with whom he cannot have had a moment's fraternal strife, to judge from the lavish attentions being paid to Hugh's campaign.

It is very much the professional media operation. The renowned David Garth was hired, and it is said that Garth even specified the number of pounds Carey should lose (30), in order to get around the usual description of him as "portly." He looks a little like William O'Dwyer, a safe face in New York.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I know this reflects a cynical attitude, but I can't get over the feeling that all campaign promises are false, and that most politicians are self-seeking egotists. Oh, I vote when I should, but it is always with a great deal of suspicion and mistrust. Any comments? R. D.

I can only tell you what the Biblical and Christian viewpoint is. First of all we are not to think of our elected leaders as some evil to be tolerated. The Bible says (Romans 13) that "The authorities that exist have been established by God." Speaking further of the one in authority, Paul calls him "an agent of justice."

Secondly, even though they may at times abuse the trust of the people, our elders are not excused from their responsibility to God. Hebrews 13 says, speaking of such leaders, "They keep watch over you as men who must give an account."

Thirdly, remember that despite the weaknesses of our system of government by the people, it far surpasses the systems of despotic totalitarian governments elsewhere in the world. With all its faults, America is still the land of the free. The ballot box still offers a choice, and that's a disappearing commodity today.

Finally, try prayer! Whether your man gets in or not, surround every new office holder with prayers to God for wisdom, integrity and moral courage.

A Devotion For Today . .

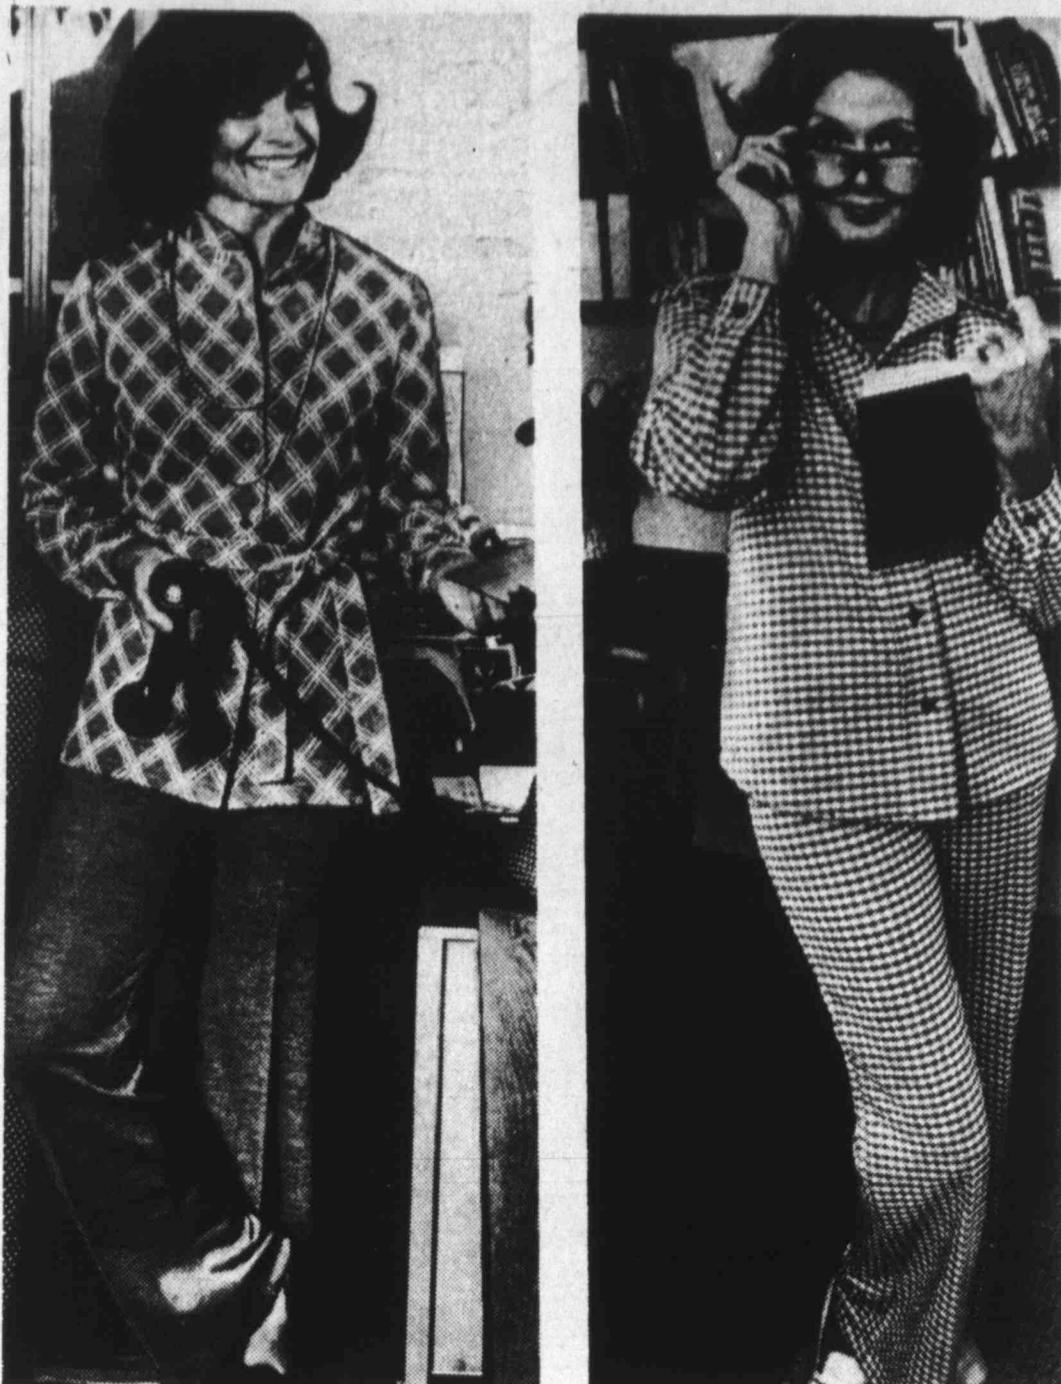

"He who finds his life will lose it, and he who loses his life for my sake will find it."

(Matthew 10:39)

PRAYER: Father, make us sensitive to the needs of others around us. Give us the incentive to befriend people and draw them to Your kingdom. Amen.

Preferential Tea Held For Pledges

The Beta Sigma Phi City Council held its annual city-wide preferential tea Sunday afternoon in the First Federal Community Room to welcome new members to the sorority.

Joining Beta Sigma Phi were Mrs. Ann Casey and Mrs. Sharan Lindsey, both of Beta Omicron Chapter; Mrs. Betty Herre and Mrs. Debbie Wegman, both of Mu Zeta Chapter; and Mrs. Linda McKethan, Alpha Kappa Omicron Chapter.

They will participate in a formal pledge ritual slated at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in the Community Room.

A guest at the tea was Mrs. Cynthia Hanselman, a transieree from Randolph Air Force Base, who was a guest of Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter.

The two refreshment tables were laid with white cloths and centered with yellow roses. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Assisting as hostesses were the council officers, Mrs. Roe Fulgham, Xi Pi Epsilon; Mrs. Dennis Harrington, Mu Zeta; Mrs. Larry Harp, Alpha Beta Omicron; and Mrs. John Denton, Beta Omicron.

Winners In Bridge Play

Nine tables were in play for the bridge game sponsored Friday afternoon at Big Spring Country Club by the Ladies Golf Association.

North-south winners were Mrs. Wally Slate and Mrs. Fred Kasch, first; Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. R. H. Weaver, second; Mrs. Ray McMahan and Mrs. Elvis McCrary, third; and Mrs. Morris Rhodes and Mrs. Henry Bell, fourth.

Winning top scores in the east-west position were Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Ward Hall, first; Mrs. Hayes Stripling Sr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington, second; Mrs. R. L. Tollett and Mrs. Roy Lassiter, third; and Mrs. Joe Hayden and Mrs. D. R. Brazel, fourth.

Mary Tyler Moore Makes Debut As Series Director

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It's not one of our great shows. But the comforting thing is that even our worst shows are better than most of the other series that are on television."

Mary Tyler Moore was letting it all hang out. The show she referred to was "A Boy's Best Friend," and it marked her debut as a director. She was frank (modest?) about its quality, but she left no doubt about her pride in the series itself. "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

The CBS Saturday night romp remains a television phenomenon. Not only does the show itself maintain a consistently high quality of comedy, but her MTM Enterprises has also spawned winners in "The Bob Newhart Show," "Rhoda" and "Friends and Lovers."

Since she and her husband, Grant Tinker, head the enterprises, there is no need to ask how she got the job as director. But why?

"Last season we had a couple of directors on the show that were—well, less than exciting," she said in her trailer-dressing room at CBS Studio Center after a strenuous dance lesson.

"I thought about how hard all of us in the cast had to work in directing ourselves, without hurting the directors' feelings."

"Then a few weeks ago I was in Grant's office and we were talking with Arthur Price (MTM executive) about a show that was coming up. 'You know,' I said, 'I think I'd like to direct.'"

"They spun around and said, 'Good for you! Terrific!' And so I was committed."

The production staff had to plan carefully for Mary's directorial debut, fashioning a script in which her acting duties were minimal.

The story concerns Ted Baxter, the pouter-pigeon TV announcer, and his discovery of his mother's plan to be married. "Ted completely falls apart," the star-director related. "He is a hypochondriac anyway, and now all of his oedipal instincts well up and make him a complete wreck."

SHE'S A DIRECTOR — Mary Tyler Moore confers with producer Ed Weinberger, center, and co-star Gavin MacLeod during filming of an episode of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" which she directed. She says, "It's not one of our great shows, but even our worst shows are better than most of the other series that are on television."

"Then he gets a call from his mother—we never see her in the show—saying that she isn't going to get married after all; she's just going to live with the man. That destroys Ted altogether."

The show is resolved when Ted has a man-to-man talk with his mother's suitor, who turns out to be a mild little 80-year-old who is only seeking her happiness.

The segment will appear Nov. 23.

Mary admitted that she had some trepidation about directing because "I'm not a leader. I'm a joiner, a listener, a reactor."

"Taking charge of a set was 'alien to my nature, and I kept asking myself, 'Am I up to it?'"

"Finally I just did what I do in acting. I knew what was expected of me and what I expected of the other actors. So I tried to draw that from them."

Spiced Punch Is Special Treat

For a simple but unusual punch, heat a 46-ounce can of orange fruit punch with four cloves, a cinnamon stick (or ½ teaspoon powdered cinnamon), and ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Simmer for 10 minutes. Serve hot, with a cinnamon stick stirrer, or chilled, with fresh lemon wedges. Delicious with fresh, hot doughnuts.

Older Adult Cherishes Old Friends

COLLEGE STATION — To the older adult, friends and neighbors are important sources of relationships. They provide a contact with the outside world that is often lost in advancing years, one family life education specialist contended last week.

"But no matter how strong or close friendship are, they are less important to older adults than children and relatives," Dorothy Taylor, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, said.

She noted that older people tend to pick their friends from among people of similar characteristics, including age. Many strong friendships are retained from the middle years into later life. The longer a person has lived in his neighborhood, the stronger his ties are.

"Natural consequences cause the number of friends to decline, but many older adults feel that they have more friends in the later years because of the quantity and quality of time spent visiting them."

"Friends of older adults tend to be selected from those of the same sex, marital status and social class," Miss Taylor noted.

Long after the roles of worker, club member or even spouse have been lost, the role of friend remains for the elderly. Demands on friends are flexible, but family roles are more rigid, she explained.

"Next to that of a spouse, the greatest source of companionship to the older person is a friend."

To Measure

When you measure flour in fraction cups or spoons, always level it with the straight edge of a spatula or knife.

Metallic Taste Not Dangerous

Some vegetables, especially tomatoes, develop a metallic taste from a chemical reaction of the food to the lining of an opened can. Its unpleasant, but harmless. Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service notes.

Dear Abby

Three-Way Pull Strange Set-Up

DEAR ABBY: This problem concerns my two sisters. One is 28 and the other is 22. The man involved (I'll call him Steve) is 38.

Steve has been living with my 28-year-old sister for about ten years. They have five children but they never got married. Steve has been running around with my 22-year-old sister ever since she was 17, and now she's pregnant. My older sister knows about it but there isn't a thing she can do. Steve and the younger sister are sneaking around, but everybody knows what is going on.

My older sister says she loves Steve no matter what, and my younger says the same thing. Steve says he loves them both.

I think both my sisters are nuts, and I'm not sure about Steve. If you have any ideas on how to straighten out this mess in my family I sure wish you would let me know.

DEAR SISTER: As I see it, both your sisters want the same man, and neither one will give him up — even if it means sharing him with the other. The man can't decide which sister he wants, so he keeps them both. If they are satisfied with this sick setup which includes a flock of children out of wedlock, I can't see what there is to "straighten out."

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and I am going with a very nice gentleman who is a widower.

We are quite serious about each other, but if we were to marry one of us would have to go live in the home of the other and he doesn't want to leave the beautiful evergreen tree in his back yard, and I don't want to leave my lilac bush. This may sound crazy, but it is the truth.

How can we settle this?

STUMPED
DEAR STUMPED: YOU do the moving. It's a lot easier to transplant a lilac bush than an evergreen tree.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating this attractive well-to-do-bachelor for about six months. (I'm a widow.) My problem is that I'm the giver and he's the taker.

I have bought him several nice gifts just to let him know I'm thinking of him, but he has not bought me a thing. He spends a fortune on himself, so it's not that he doesn't like to shop. And he has great taste.

Whenever he gets a gift from me he seems pleased and says something like: "I really should give you something, but you know how busy I am." Or: "I saw something in a store window yesterday and would have bought it for you, but store was closed."

Abby, I can afford to buy anything I need, but it would mean so much to get a little gift from him. Why can't he get around to buying me something when he knows how happy it would make me?

WAITING
DEAR WAITING: Some men hate to shop for gifts for ladies. Other men are thoughtful. And some are just plain cheap. After Christmas, let me know what you got in your stocking besides your leg, and I'll give you a reading on this attractive, well-to-do busy bachelor.

DEAR ABBY: Who said, "To be thought rich is as good as to be rich?"

ROD
DEAR ROD: W. M. Thackeray. But he was wrong. Those who are only thought to be rich don't have to pay the rich man's taxes.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

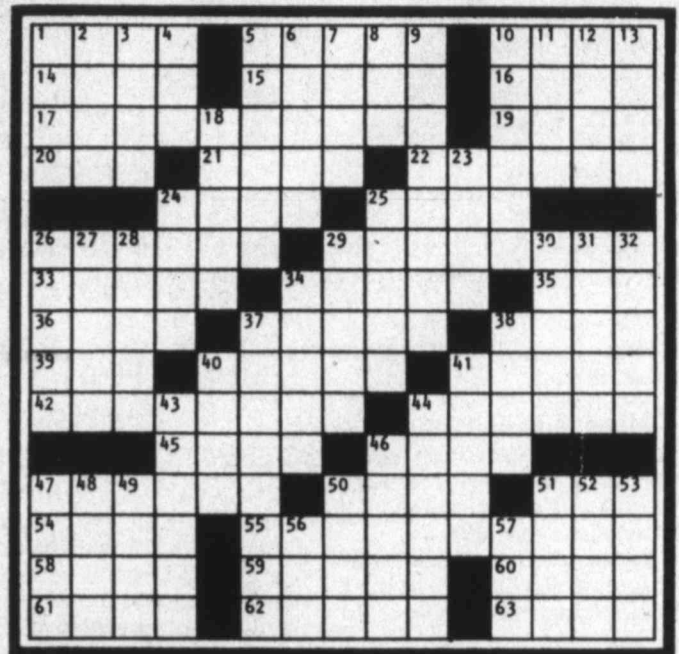

For Abby's booklet, "How to have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

News Is In Blood Of Vet

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — J. R. "Bud" Fitzpatrick got into the newspaper business against his better judgment nearly four decades ago. Now he says he can't give it up.

"It must be in my blood," said Fitzpatrick, a spry 78. "There are plenty of places you can go and make more money than the newspaper business."

Fitzpatrick has gone other places, operating a real estate firm and running a wax museum in Springfield. But newspapering is still a chief love.

"It keeps you in contact with the moving world," he said in a recent interview at his office, where walls are lined with mementos and photographs of politicians and sports figures.

Fitzpatrick's current publication is a weekly blend of news, comment and folksy humor contained in a printed newsletter called "Main Street."

Fitzpatrick said he was "dragged sideways" into newspapering in 1936 when he and two friends agreed to start a weekly newspaper to take a position on a local controversy involving public utilities.

Less Coffee Needed In True Ozarka Water

Less coffee is needed in pure Ozarka water, Mrs. Jim Adams, 1904 College St., says. She adds, "It is clearer, yet richer to the taste. It is not spoiled by the harsh chemicals in other water."

Mrs. Adams has used Ozarka for 17 years and knows that the taste of foods cooked in water without chemicals and pipe residue is more pleasing.

"We even take Ozarka water along when we travel or on camping trips," Mrs. Adams said. "My three year old son has been raised on it."

Mrs. Adams went to work at Ozarka water in Midland 2½ years ago. She believes that water free of chemicals and pipe residue is better for your health and her family's health means a great deal to her.

Most frozen foods require an addition of water. The reason these vegetables and juices are frozen is to preserve their garden-ripe freshness. With Ozarka Waters, these subtle country flavors are retained.

All beverages are better and lose none of their flavor if ice cubes are made with Ozarka water.

As a working housewife, Mrs. Adams maintains that there are many ways that Ozarka Water helps improve every day living and saves time.

Use of perfection distilled water will keep mineral deposits from forming on delicate mechanisms and keep your steam iron working better longer.

Ozarka Water will be delivered to your home or business. For information on how to have plenty of pure Ozarka Water for all your needs, call Enterprise 8-4024.

NATURAL FLAVOR COFFEE — Ozarka water, pure and free of harsh minerals and strong chemicals, brings out the natural delicious flavor of coffee. Mrs. Jim Adams, 1904 College St., wouldn't make coffee any other way. She has been using Ozarka water for 17 years.

Depression Is Feared

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-five per cent of Americans are afraid the United States is heading toward another 1930-style depression, according to a Time magazine survey.

The magazine said Sunday that 46 per cent disagreed and 9 per cent were not sure of the 1,023 Americans of voting age queried by telephone early in October.

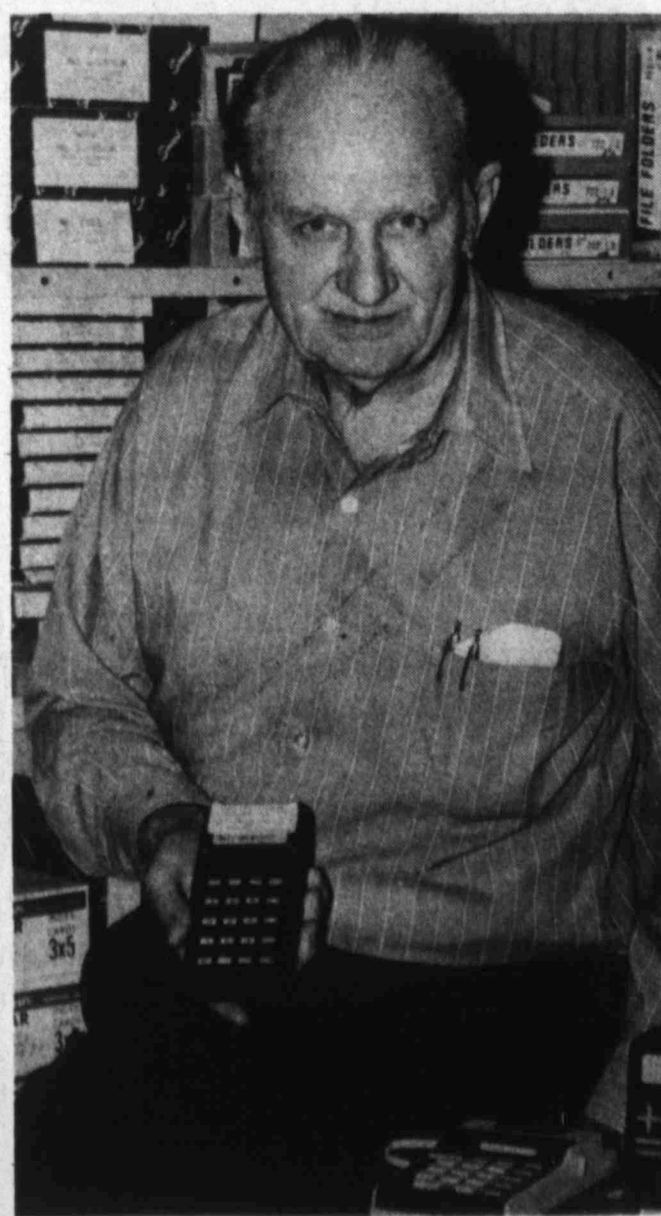

The poll was conducted for Time by the Yankelovich, Skelly and White organization.

The magazine said Sunday that 33 per cent of the population feel themselves in serious economic distress compared to 28 per cent in a July survey, while 27 per cent are worried about losing their jobs against 25 per cent last July.

Hermes World-Wide office machines are also available at the office supply. The Hermes typewriters and calculators are made only from the finest Swedish steel.

Also available at Thomas Office Supply are office supplies, office equipment, ledger sheets, ledger binders, Roytype carbon papers of all sizes, desks, chairs, filing cabinets, storage files, memograph machines, duplicators, stencils, inks and bookkeeping systems for businessmen and farmers.

Big Spring High and its next 5-4A opponent, Odessa High, there, Friday night, boast three similar characteristics.

- No. 1 — three wins and five losses for the season.
- No. 2 — 5-4A, one win and four losses.
- No. 3 — broke five game losing streak.

The Steers shocked the state 4A schoolboy scene as they checked highly-rated Cooper, 12-7, last Friday in Abilene.

Odessa High, led by rookie coach Dub Farris, pulled out a hard-to-find win from the hat last Friday. The Broncos, with their home field to their back, contained Midland High, 24-16.

"The boys worked up a super team effort in beating Cooper," chimed Bob Burris, Steer head coach.

Burris feels the two platoon system introduced two weeks ago is paying off in substantial dividends. The Steer defense is able to catch its breath more easier.

With the added Cooper lift, Big Spring should be able to smoke 'em out Friday night at Odessa High and (likewise) the seasonal finale, Nov. 15, at which time it hosts San Angelo.

Don Green, Big Spring school district assistant business manager said Odessa High sent over 560 reserve tickets and 500 student admissions. The tickets are $2.50 for reserve, and 75 cents for students.

Tickets go on sale Wednesday morning at 8:30 a.m., both at the district and high school offices. Reserve tickets can be obtained only at the school business office. Interested ticket seekers have until 2 p.m. Friday to obtain the Barrett Stadium seat of their choice.

It's getting to be a habit. I missed the voice of Perry Johnson, (father of Charlie, Denver Bronco quarterback), for the third week in a row.

The city golf course trail must be to his liking. Mrs. Johnson conveyed the message. "Charlie called Sunday. It had snowed in Denver for quite a spell and Charlie figured they would be playing in that white stuff for the first time."

Mrs. Johnson added, "Charlie didn't speculate much on the game with Oakland. He voiced an opinion that Denver needed to beat the Raiders to enhance its playoff chances." Oakland won, 28-17.

Frank Gonzales, alias the Coahoma kid, as quoted from Walt Finley's last Sunday's Around the Rim column, quickly asked if the Bulldogs can still win the 6-AA championship.

The Bulldogs can lay their claim to the district title, if . . . (a) Hamlin lost or tie . . . (b) Ballinger loses one . . . (c) Coahoma wins its finale.

Hamlin takes on Stamford and Ballinger tests Colorado City, Friday. Coahoma takes the week off.

On Nov. 15, Hamlin vs. Colorado City, Ballinger opposes Anson and Coahoma meets Stamford. Norman Roberts, Coahoma coach commented that Anson followers are eager to upset Ballinger.

Roberts reports the team this week "will work, but not as hard" as planning for an upcoming tiff. "This will give us time to heal some bumps and bruises suffered in the Hamlin game."

Rams Edge 49ers 15-13

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams' defense stopped San Francisco's running attack virtually all the time, and linebacker Isiah Robertson stopped new 49er quarterback Norm Snead just in time.

The 49ers went down passing as they suffered their sixth consecutive defeat this year and their ninth straight loss to the Rams. Running backs Wilbur Jackson and Larry Schreiber totaled just 40 yards rushing.

Robertson was awarded the game ball, the one he'd grabbed while intercepting a Snead pass at midfield with 4:09 left in the nationally televised game. The 35-year-old Snead, in his debut with the 49ers, had tossed a 39-yard touchdown pass to Gene Washington a few minutes earlier to cut Los Angeles' lead to two points.

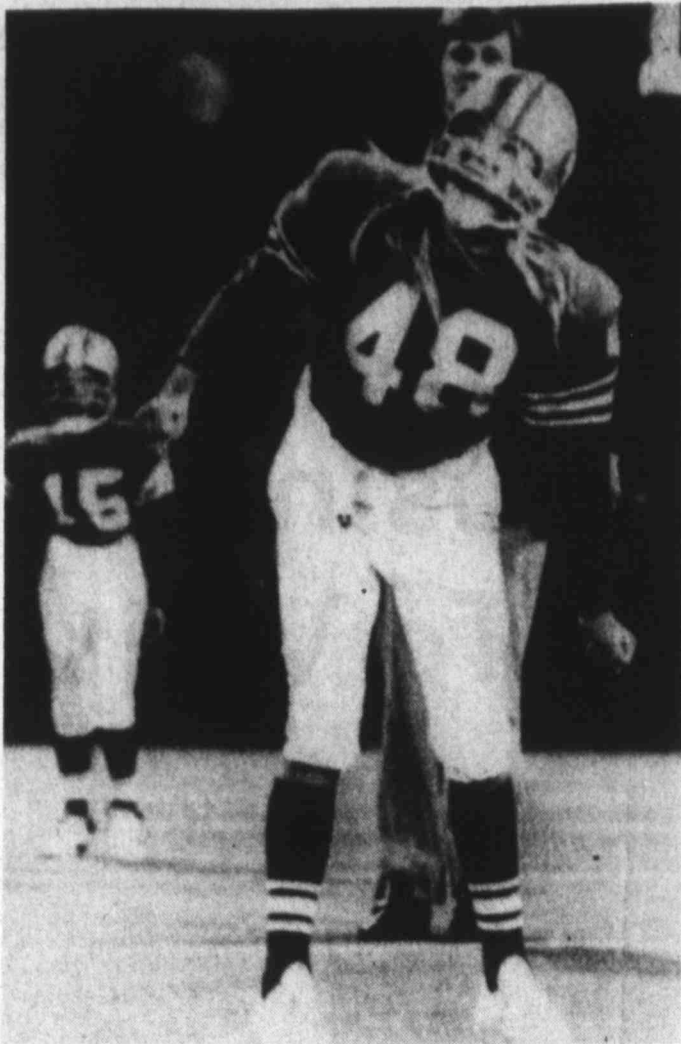

After the interception, the Rams' offense killed the clock, moving inside the 49ers' five-yard line before the game ended.

"Jim Harris did a fine job running the offense at the end of the game when we had to suck it up and control the football," said Coach Chuck Knox of the Rams. "That was a good win for us."

The victory made the Rams 6-2 and gave them a stranglehold on the National Conference's Western Division race, with second-place New Orleans standing 3-5. The 49ers and Atlanta Falcons share last place with 2-6 records.

Notre Dame, Bama In Orange Bowl?

MIAMI (AP) — Notre Dame says it is leaning toward accepting an Orange Bowl bid and a bowl official says the New Year's night opponent for the Irish is all but guaranteed to be Alabama.

That would mean a rematch of the 1974 Sugar Bowl game in which the Irish defeated the national title, beating the Crimson Tide, 24-23.

Dr. Frank Rentz, president of the Orange Bowl Committee, said Monday that the athletic boards of both schools are due to meet this week to vote on the Orange Bowl bid.

He said the game could be worth $600,000 to each team.

While the schools weren't talking, Rentz gave an indication of the Orange Bowl's confidence that the game was locked up: He said no scouts would be sent out to look at other teams this weekend.

Rentz said the only game that his committee would attend Saturday would be Alabama's home game against Louisiana State.

Forsan, Bronte Lead 3-B

The District 3-B title race was narrowed somewhat over the weekend as Bronte handed defending champion Jayton their only district loss of the year to reduce the district race from a three way tie to a two way tie.

Forsan defeated Hawley 24-6 to remain unbeaten with an 8-0 and 5-0 district mark, with only two more games remaining.

Forsan can clinch a playoff berth with a win over Bronte when the two meet in Forsan a week from Friday even if they lose to Jayton Friday night.

Sands vacated the district cellar for the first time Friday night with their first district win of the season over winless Loraine. Sands has won two games on the season.

Friday night, Sands is at Roby, Bronte is at Sterling City, Forsan is at Jayton, and Hawley is at Loraine.

Ohio State Widens Lead Over Okies

Ohio State and Oklahoma continue to run 1-2 in The Associated Press college football rankings this week but Alabama pulled ahead of Michigan into third place while Texas A&M and Florida showed significant gains.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State received 49 first-place votes and 1,212 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters following their eighth consecutive triumph, a 49-7 whipping of Illinois.

Meanwhile, 7-0 Oklahoma turned back Iowa State 28-10 and received 10 first-place ballots and 1,090 points. Ohio State's margin last week was 1,222-1,123.

Alabama put on an impressive performance in trouncing Mississippi State 35-0 and moved up from fourth to third, trading places with Michigan, which was hard-pressed to beat Indiana 21-7. Alabama received two first-place votes and 918 points while Michigan got the other first-place vote and 850 points.

Texas A&M, eighth the last three weeks, climbed to fifth by defeating Arkansas 20-10. Auburn, which had been fifth for three weeks, slipped to 10th following its first defeat of the year, a 25-14 loss to Florida which lifted the Gators from 11th to sixth.

Southern California, which had been sixth, skidded to 11th after being held to a 15-15 deadlock by California.

Penn State defeated Maryland, another ranking team, 24-17 and rose from 10th to seventh. The Nittany Lions edged ahead of Notre Dame's defending national champions, who dropped from seventh to eighth after a hard-fought 14-6 victory over Navy.

Nebraska, a 31-15 victor over Colorado, remained in ninth place, with Auburn rounding out the Top Ten.

Southern Cal headed the Second Ten, followed by Texas, Miami of Ohio, Maryland, Houston, Arizona State, Oklahoma State and California, with Pitt and Texas Tech tied for 19th. Despite its loss to Penn State, Maryland went from 15th to 14th. The Terrapins' three defeats have been at the hands of Top Ten teams.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Florida, Texas, Texas Tech, Arizona State, Maryland, Miami, Mississippi State, UCLA and Temple with San Diego State and Wisconsin tied for 20th.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season record and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20.

Sun Bowl Eyes Okla. State Team

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Oklahoma City television sportscaster said Monday night that Sun Bowl officials were "very interested" in Oklahoma State University as a possible team in the annual post-season football game at El Paso.

Bob Barry, WKY-TV sports director, said he had learned that Sun Bowl scouts will be at Manhattan, Kan., Saturday when the Oklahoma State Cowboys meet Kansas State and will be "very interested in the Cowboys if they win that game."

It's Huskers, Florida In Sugar Bowl

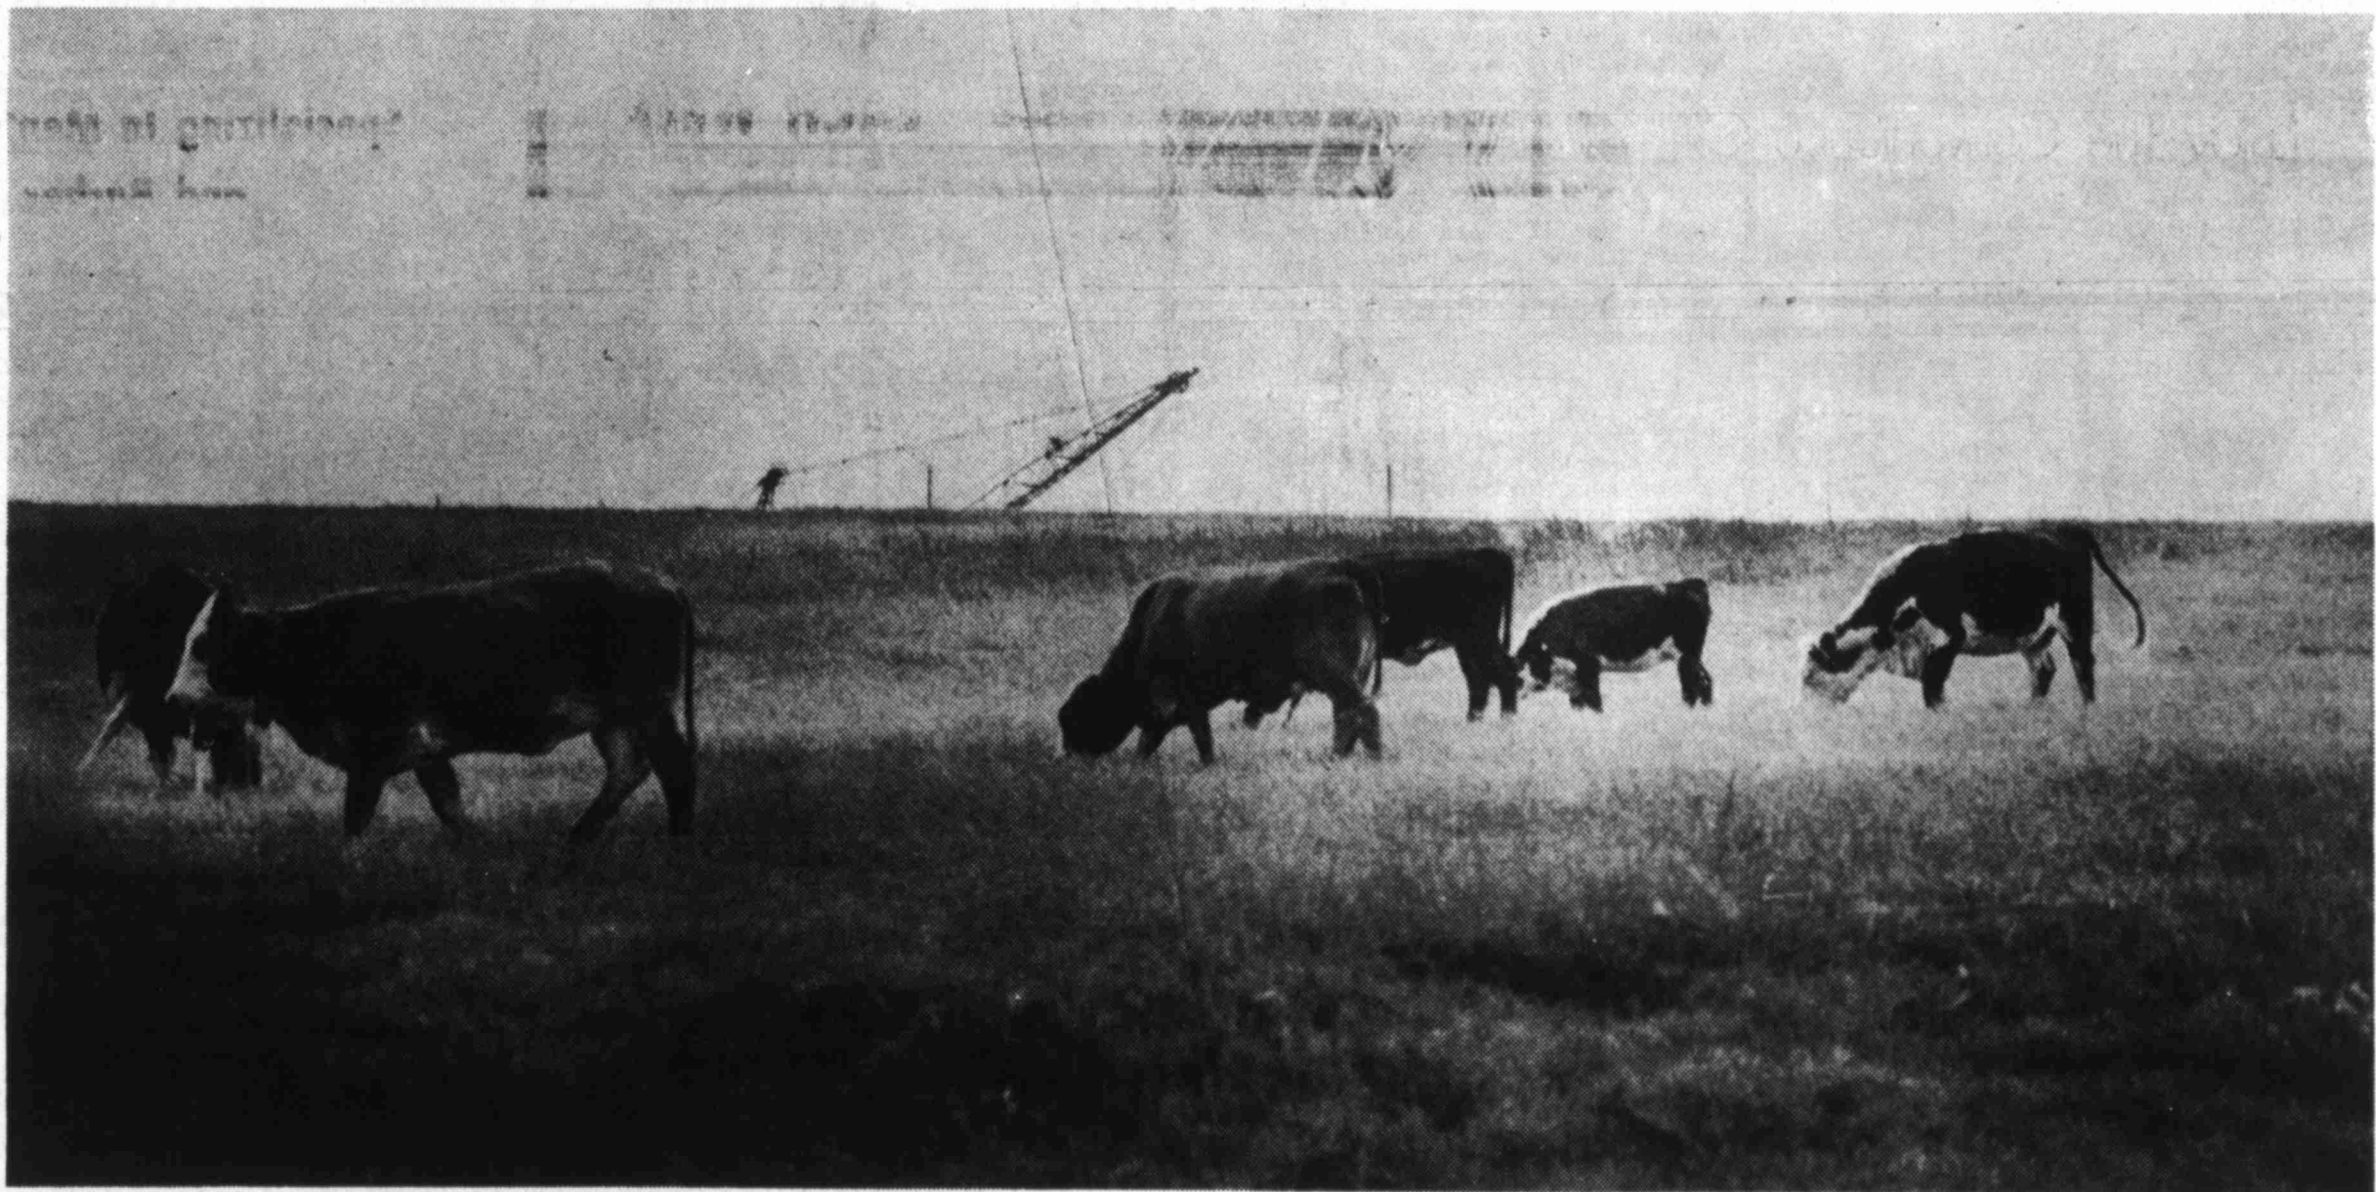

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It will be Florida and Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl for the Dec. 31 football classic, it was reported today.

The New Orleans Times-Picayune said in today's editions it learned of the line-up from an unimpeachable source.

The major bowls have a gentlemen's agreement not to announce competing teams until Nov. 16 although there is no official rule against earlier disclosure.

Florida is now 7-1-0 this season. The Gators played once before in the Sugar Bowl, losing 20-18 to Missouri in 1966.

Nebraska is 6-2-0. The Cornhuskers played in the Sugar in 1967 and lost to Alabama 34-7. Reports Monday indicated that officials of Notre Dame and Alabama would vote this week to go to the Orange Bowl in Miami. The two met in the Sugar Bowl last year, and the Irish won 24-23.

Cattle graze on reclaimed land near TESCO's lignite coal operation near Fairfield, Texas. The dragline used for recovering the lignite can be seen just over the hill.

Ten months ago this peaceful Texas pasture was a coal mine.

The lignite coal found here is being used to generate electricity for Texas Electric Service Company in our Big Brown plant near Fairfield, Texas.

Our main fuels are natural gas and oil, and they will continue to be for several years. But new supplies of these fuels are increasingly difficult to obtain.

Using lignite, and by the 1980's nuclear fuel, will help us reduce our dependence on natural gas and oil.

One advantage of using lignite is that it isn't being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

After removing coal from the land you see here, it was reclaimed — the soil was replaced, tilled, fertilized and a variety of grasses planted — to make its productivity equal to or better than before. Now it is used for raising crops or cattle.

At Texas Electric, we're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

And we're doing it with full concern for the environment.

6-AA WRAPUP Bulldogs Must Hope For Miracle

By TROY BRYANT
The Coahoma Bulldogs kept their title hopes alive Friday night with a 13-7 win over Hamlin, but they need a miracle to take the district crown away from co-leaders Hamlin and Ballinger.

Two controversial calls by officials have made the difference in the Bulldogs' showing this season. If those calls had gone the other way, Coahoma would probably be 5-0 with the title virtually sewn up.

In the Anson game, Coahoma defender intercepted a pass as Anson was driving downfield and another defender apparently threw a block for him. The officials saw it the other way, though, calling pass interference on the block, and giving Anson a first down deep inside Coahoma territory. They scored, tying Coahoma 20-20.

On another night, a last-minute Bulldog pass from five yards out was signaled a touchdown by two officials, which would have given Coahoma a 12-10 lead over Ballinger with four seconds left to play. Instead, another official over-ruled the call, calling the pass incomplete and leaving Coahoma with virtually no time for another play. Ballinger won 10-6.

But for those two calls, Coahoma would be in good shape. But now, Coahoma must hope that either Stamford or Colorado City beats Hamlin and either Colorado City or Anson beats Ballinger in order to get into the playoffs.

This week's results also saw Ballinger club Stamford 44-6 and Winters Stomp Colorado City 34-14. Anson enjoyed an open date.

Jackson Wins

John E. Jackson, Box 413, Coahoma, took first place honors and $12.50 first prize in the Herald Football Contest this week.

Taking second place was Gail Eurlis, 4016 Parkway, while Eric Lanspery, 4217 Dixon, took third place.

BULLDOGS JOG — The Coahoma Bulldogs jog into the field in a recent home game, led by Junior guard Gary Daniels (66), Senior guard Mike Martinez (62), Senior tackle Robbie Tindol (77), Junior tackle Bill Jennings (71), Senior center Guy James (50), Senior guard Steve Wolf (61), Junior fullback John Echols (42) and Junior db Charles Tindol (13). The Bulldogs will have the week off, but they will be rooting for upset defeats of Hamlin and Ballinger in order to make the playoffs.

Foreman Cries 'Foul'

PARIS (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman cried 'foul' again, citing three irregularities that he said accounted for his loss to new titleholder Muhammad Ali last week.

After viewing films Monday for the first time of his eight-round knockout loss to Ali in Kinshasa, Zaire last Wednesday, Foreman accused Ali's handlers of loosening the ropes and padding the canvas. In addition, he claimed he was the victim of a fast count.

"I'm not making excuses for my tactical mistakes," Foreman told a news conference. "There were just things that happened because Zaire is an inexperienced country that had never had a championship fight before.

Foreman asked for a probe to investigate his claims.

"I'm not asking for anyone to give me my title back," Foreman said during a stopover here. "But I feel there should be a probe into what happened."

Switzer Steamed Over Magazine Allegations

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer says he is weary of the controversy surrounding his Sooners team, which is in the second year of a two-year NCAA probation.

In a free-wheeling speech at a media luncheon Monday, Switzer leveled criticism at national articles he said inferred his second-ranked Sooners were built through illegal recruiting practices.

For the first time, Switzer discussed publicly a polygraph test he passed in which he denied ever offering a recruit a material inducement in his 15 years as a coach.

He said he had been contacted by Big Eight officials during the summer of 1973 after a Southwest Conference coach asked for an investigation into an allegation that Switzer had offered a recruit an automobile to come to Oklahoma.

In order to dispell the allegation, he said he contacted the Oklahoma attorney general's office and arranged for State Crime Bureau agents to give him a lie detector test.

"They asked me one question: Have you ever offered any material things to any recruit," Switzer recalled. He said he answered "No."

He said he answered specific questions about the allegation, denying that he had ever even been in the family's home. He said the results were sent to the Big Eight Conference and the matter was subsequently dropped.

He singled out for criticism a recent article in Sports Illustrated magazine which he said quoted him inaccurately several times.

He said he was irritated over the use of a quote attributed to Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who was quoted in the article as saying he resented playing Oklahoma "when they develop a monster team with illegal tactics."

He said the quote was a year old and he doubted its accuracy. "I've got to feel that if I have been misquoted, then he could have been misquoted, too."

"We don't have to buy players, as has been implicated in articles all over the country," he added. "We don't have to... We may lose some kids, but we're going to get enough to win."

He said he was disturbed about articles which continue to dwell almost exclusively on the Oklahoma probation because, in the process, accomplishments of the Sooners team and individual players are ignored.

"They certainly deserve some publicity."

Sands Fems Sweep Wilson

Sands swept three girls basketball game from Wilson Monday night as the varsity won 71-60, the B team won 49-41 and the junior high team won 18-17.

Ann Nichols paced the varsity win with 32 points in that game, upping Sands to a 3-2 record. The B team remained unbeaten with a 3-0 record as Susan Martin paced that team with 20 points.

The junior high girls won their first game of the season as Jill Floyd scored 8 points for the winners. They are 1-3 so far this season.

The three teams will see action tonight as they travel to Forsan for games beginning at 5 p.m.

Cattle Kill

PILLAGER, Minn. (AP)

An estimated 150 Central Minnesota farmers, angry at low livestock prices, killed more than 300 cattle, hogs and sheep and dumped them into an open trench.

By the time the six-hour livestock kill was over Monday, farmer Virgil Barg of rural Motley, Minn., said 267 calves and heifers, 37 hogs and two sheep had been shot with pistols and kicked into the trench on the David Ondris farm about five miles east of Pillager.

The kill dramatized the farmers' plight to get action out of the White House, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, the middleman or whoever is "squeezing the life out of rural America," as one farmer put it.

Asked what the government should do to improve conditions, Barg said, "As a starter, Earl Butz should be replaced as secretary of agriculture tomorrow morning. We also want to get the attention of the White House. We need a man in there that understands agriculture."

Local 826 Awards Due

Local 826, International Union of Operating Engineers, will hold its annual 20-year membership awards meeting Saturday at the Big Spring Local 826 Union at 5:00 p.m.

City Secretary's Role Is Discussed In Suit

By JOHN EDWARDS

"The agreement was that the water district secretary and the City of Coahoma secretary, which was one and the same person, had the authority to assess enough money from the City of Coahoma to pay for the bonds and operating expenses."

That is how R. D. Cramer, a charter member of the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1, Monday summarized a joint meeting of district directors and Coahoma City Council in 1959.

He was testifying in 118th District Court as the first witness in a suit over the contract between the district and city.

Cramer said they were amending the contract so they would not have to meet every time water rates increased. The district buys its water from the City of Big Spring.

CAFE OR CAR?
G. Ben Bancroft, an attorney for Coahoma, pointed out the motion director Cramer made was seconded by a member of City Council. Bancroft referred the court to a written contract, which required the board and council to vote separately.

The water district board did meet and vote separately, Cramer said.

"I think we went to a cafe or sat in a car," Cramer said. "I'm not sure."

Did Cramer know if the council also met separately? "No sir. I sure don't," Cramer replied.

District Judge Ralph Caton accepted as evidence copies of minutes of the joint meeting and separate meeting of district directors.

MINUTES

In part, minutes of the joint meeting follow:

"City Board met in regular session Feb. 12, 1959 with District Board meeting also for the purpose of giving City and District secretary (Mrs. Mattie Miller) authority to access payment to water district to meet the water district bills on account of Big Spring going up on water rates to the district and also the $2000.00 reserve was not in first set up on payments, as Ramsom Galloway forgot that had to be put in reserve account until we get $10,000.00 in that account."

"Motion made by R. D. Cramer on District board and seconded by W. L. Menser on City Board. All voted in favor of motion."

In her minutes of the separate district meeting, Mrs. Cramer wrote in part: "Motion made by Cramer and seconded (SIC) by Bates to give District secretary Mattie Miller the authority to excess payments on water to meet District bills such as water bills to Big Spring are not sufficient as now to make our bond payment as water rates have gone up since our original contract was made

OPENING
In his opening statement, John Burgess, attorney for the water district, outlined part of the district-city history.

Bonds dated 1955 paid to construct a water line. Coahoma and the district entered an agreement on March 30, 1955.

In 1956, the two governments agreed, in writing, to a rate adjustment. This far, both plaintiff and defendant seemed to agree.

The dispute centers around the informal agreement said entered in the 1959 joint meeting.

LONG HONORED
"For 14 years, the city secretary would add on to water bills sufficient to pay bonds," Burgess said.

Now, according to the district's position, the city has stopped paying all due, and Coahoma owes the district $29,414.39.

"The city was actually overpaying on the contract, because we're taking the position the contract was not amended that time in 1959," Bancroft said.

Cramer took the stand, and Bancroft asked the court that all witnesses except one representative from each governing body wait outside during the trial.

Caton overruled the objection.

FORMER ALDERMAN
Cramer told about serving on the Coahoma City Council for several years after being discharged from the Army after World War II.

Then Cramer serve as a water district board member. Cramer recalled that most of the water meters were in Coahoma in the early days of the district's history.

Cramer and his brother ran a grocery in Coahoma before Cramer retired and moved to Big Spring.

The retired grocer ceased to be a director last spring when an election was held.

Asked about the 1959 joint meeting, Cramer said: "We just wasn't getting enough money to pay the bonds."

Under the alleged agreement, Cramer said the board continued to receive enough money from Coahoma until Nov., 1973.

JURY WAITS

Bancroft started asking about a district tax assessed starting in 1962. Burgess objected. And Caton instructed the jury to wait in its chambers during the discussion which followed.

Cramer said he understood taxes collected were to be used to pay a second bond issue, but Cramer said a surplus of $100,000 was built with this tax. The surplus went toward paying the second bonds off in advance.

The jury of eight women and four men waited for more than an hour after lunch while representatives of Coahoma and the district tried to agree outside of court.

Serving on the jury are H. C. Voss, Miss V. C. Morrow, M. E. McCutchan, M. J. Molpus, Mrs. F. Wood and Mrs. G. M. Dietz. Also, W. Cunningham, Mrs. L. J. Painter, Mrs. F. K. Wheeler, Mrs. R. L. Rister, Mrs. J. L. Osborn and Miss M. Rhine are jurors.

Oil Museum President Delivers Talk Here

The building which will house the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum in Midland is ready for occupancy, Homer T. Fort, museum president, told members of the Desk and Derrick Club in the Reddy-Room of the Texas Electric Service Club building here Monday night.

Present plans call for the museum to be formally opened in the spring of 1975.

Fort brought with him slides to illustrate his talk, titling them "Things Past and Things to Come." He gave a capsule background of the oil industry in West Texas, beginning with men who actually opened the Permian Basin to the oil industry.

The museum will have 40 paintings which will tell the history of the West Texas oil industry, from its beginning to the present time. Paintings of the ocean floor will also decorate the structure.

The museum will be open all days of the week, with the exception of Monday, and an admission fee will be charged to insure the solvency of the museum.

Fort formerly worked for the Mobil Oil Co., in the public relations field. He was transferred by that firm to New York in 1969 but decided he liked West Texas better and returned shortly thereafter to become

Sheriff Chided

LAMESA — A Dawson County grand jury failed to find any evidence of wrongdoing on the part of Sheriff Guy Kinnison or any of his deputies in an investigation this week.

However, the grand jury did chide the sheriff's office and city police department for an apparent lack of cooperation on some matters in a two-page written report released Friday afternoon.

The report stated, in part that it "has found no evidence of wrongdoing by the sheriff of Dawson County or by the sheriff's department of Dawson County in relation to the accepting, receiving, or demand for participation in premiums paid either directly or indirectly of bail bondsmen or bail bondsmen's agents, for the approval or disapproval of bail bonds."

PROTESTING AGAINST PLO — Demonstrators carry signs during a rally Monday in Dag Hammarskjold Plaza by the United Nations in New York protesting the scheduled appearance of the Palestinian Liberation

Evaluation is Asked By Court

After County Commissioners Court discussed a study of county job classification and wages as outlined by a state representative, a letter requesting a preliminary evaluation for such a study was prepared.

The U.S. Civil Service Commission, through its Dallas office, was asked to advise the court about the possible study.

Then, the court may decide to apply for federal funding of such a year-long study.

Explaining the Intergovernmental Personnel Act program to the court was Charles Graham with the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Houston Bus Drivers Strike Slated Tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — A strike by city bus drivers was scheduled to begin tonight and a federal mediator indicated prospects of averting the walkout appeared dim.

Mediator E.D. Kincaid met with representatives of HouTran, the city owned bus system, and the Transport Workers Union Local 260 late Monday but failed in his efforts to reopen negotiations.

"Unless there is some change in positions, obviously the parties will not get together," Kincaid said. The walkout by 800 drivers and mechanics affecting 70,000 bus riders a day would be the city's first bus strike since 1950.

Houston purchased the old Rapid Transit Lines last April for $5.3 million, of which federal grants amounted to 80 per cent.

Stanley Gates, general manager of HouTran offered Monday to go back to the bargaining table with the union.

"If you agree to see to it that our employees stay on the job ... and if a final settlement is reached within a reasonable period of time, such settlement will be made retroactive to Nov. 3," he told the union.

The union rejected the suggestion.

M.D. Hendrix, president of the local, said when he went to the meeting he was told by HouTran there was no change in the offer made Saturday. That offer was rejected by union members Sunday.

"This left us in no position to make any response other than to say there will be a strike unless the company gets on a different program. It's not as if we need to sit down and get acquainted. A contract could be worked out in an hour's time. All Gates needs is the money."

Record Income Is Reported

WICHITA, Kansas — Record first half earnings and sales for Pizza Hut, Inc., have been released by Frank L. Carney, President.

New Sales for the six months ended September 30, 1974 increased 43 per cent to $79,832,000 as compared to the restated six-month period last year of $56,016,000.

New income for the six months of fiscal year 1975 rose 41 per cent to $5,172,000 as against a restated $3,676,000 for the same period last year.

For many bridge players, paradise is a land where suits always break normally and where finesses always work. However, there are those who thrive on adversity—who consider that the true challenge of the game is in surmounting unexpected pitfalls. Consider South's technique on this hand.

There are those who would complain with some justification that South's bidding lacked finesse, and that he might have missed a grand slam in a suit because of his precipitate action of launching into Blackwood over his partner's opening bid. However, there can be no gainsaying the fact that South reached the optimum contract in the briskest manner.

West led the ten of spades, and when dummy came down it seemed that the outcome would be a mere formality. If declarer could bring in the diamond suit without loss, he would make an overtrick. Even if he lost a diamond trick, the contract seemed safe enough.

Declarer won the ace of spades and led a low diamond from dummy. East's club discard came as a shock, for now declarer could not establish diamonds without conceding two tricks to West. It appeared that a lay-down slam was going to be wrecked on the rocks of distribution.

However, declarer found a neat way to overcome the bad break with complete safety. He won the second trick with the ace of diamonds, and returned the seven. West could not rise with the king, for that would allow declarer to bring in the suit with only one loser, so he played low. Dummy's jack won, and declarer now changed horses. He entered his hand with the king of clubs and finessed the jack of hearts, not caring much whether this won or lost. If East had the queen, there would be no way for him to reach West to cash the king of diamonds, so whatever the result of the finesse, declarer had twelve tricks with four spades, three hearts, two diamonds and three clubs.

Moody, Martinez Win Top Awards

4-H leaders and members were honored last Saturday, during the annual achievement banquet in Colorado City.

HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: In a.m. you know exactly what to do in any situation requiring vision and imagination. Later, avoid offending anyone in power for such individuals are overly sensitive, cause you trouble.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You can have some recreation not counted on in a.m., but later must buckle down to some duty. Give loved one more than words.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Handle home affairs with a smile and do nothing that can irritate your family, or you get into big trouble. Avoid a real bore.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you visit some pal or relation from whom you have become estranged, take a conciliatory gift. Avoid mistakes in routine.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some money problem could knock you for a loop if you are not objective about it, so do the right thing. Plan a new budget.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to do something dramatic at home but this would upset busy kind, so refrain from showing off. Avoid a strike.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A sarcastic word from you could upset fine friendships today. Follow some intuitive perception that is pecking away at you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Showing devotion to good friends at this time is wise, since they are feeling depressed and need cheering. Don't argue at group affairs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't lambast one who can be of real service to you. Refrain from making any radical changes of any kind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Face the new aspects of any new interest, then proceed with care. Avoid that acquaintance from a distance who is too dynamic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Instead of arguing and procrastinating, pay bills and concentrate on how to have a greater income. Give mate a chance to spread wings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Assist a coworker who is depressed and thinks the world is against him or her. Then all goes well. Avoid one who downgrades you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Don't let all that work ahead of you get you down, but instead get it done and conquer it. Restore energies in evening.

Speedsters Get Blame

AUSTIN (AP) - More than 60 per cent of all vehicles are exceeding the 55 mile an hour speed limit on Texas highways, the director of the Department of Public Safety says.

Col. Wilson E. Speir said the DPS has received numerous complaints about speeding trucks. He said many truckers are using citizens' band radios illegally to warn each other about the location of highway patrol units.

Speir urged Texans "to make a greater effort to observe the 55 mile speed limit."

FIRST PLACE RIDE — Jack Himes, a member of the Howard College Rodeo Team, puts in a first place effort at Lubbock at the World's Largest Indoor Collegiate Rodeo. He won all around cowboy honors en route to leading the HC boys team to the team championship.

Jack Himes Leads HC To Rodeo Team Title

Jack Himes, Big Spring, led the Howard College Boys' Rodeo Team to the Team Championship in the World's largest Indoor Collegiate Rodeo held in Lubbock over the weekend.

Himes won first place in bull riding and split first and second in the bareback riding event to take the All-Around Cowboy honors at the Rodeo.

The girls' team took the third place team trophy.

Others adding to the point total on the boys' team were Rawleigh McCullough, who took second in bull riding; Endgate Hawk, who won fourth in bull riding; John Stallard and Jesse Lane, who won third in team roping and Jesse Lane who took fourth in calf roping.

Kay Proctor took first place in the barrel racing event to pace the girls' team to the third place finish.

Others picking up points were Carolyn Roan, second, barrel racing; Terry Himes, fourth, barrel racing; and Kay Proctor, fourth in goat tying.

The event was the last for the team this Fall, they will start again next Spring.

The boys' team finished the Fall season in second place in Texas and New Mexico Region among 22 colleges and universities while the girls' team is third in the region.

VANDALISM

Devaluated Networks Await Election Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba and the Soviet Bloc want the United States to pay the United Nations more than $25 million for losses caused by inflation and devaluation of the dollar.

The General Assembly is debating a report showing that inflation will add $17.9 million to the world organization's costs this year, and currency fluctuations will add another $9.5 million. This is about one-tenth of the U.N. budget.

Cuba has introduced a resolution that says "losses experienced by organizations in the U.N. system" due to inflation and currency changes "shall be borne by the developed countries in which these organizations have their headquarters." Another Cuban resolution calls for the transfer of U.N. funds from American banks to "currencies that are not in crisis."

FANTASY
"Pure economic fantasy," said one U.S. official. The first resolution applies mainly to the United States, which is the site of the main U.N. headquarters. The country with the next largest number of U.N. offices is Switzerland, which does not belong to the United Nations.

Cuba and its allies argued that the capitalist countries are solely to blame for inflation and currency changes.

INFLATION
Cuban delegate Enrique Serrano also told the assembly's Budget Committee that the United States takes in up to $1 billion a year from spending by the United Nations and the delegations to it, the U.N. pension fund and development investments, and rising real estate values.

Soviet delegate Valentin K. Palamarchuk said it was unfair to burden all U.N. members with losses from inflation created by capitalist nations. U.S. inflation was the cause of currency fluctuations, he added.

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The CBS, NBC and ABC television networks plunge into their all-night election coverage tonight with computers readied, analysts alerted and anchor men and correspondents politically primed.

The networks all say their reports will begin at 6 p.m. CST, broadcast live coast to coast. They say they expect the coverage, which preempts all their regular evening programs, to end at around 2 a.m.

The Public Broadcasting Service, which serves the nation's public TV stations, says it plans no election night coverage.

A total of 504 elections are under TV scrutiny tonight—all 435 House seats, 34 Senate races and 35 gubernatorial contests.

The networks, each trying to be the first to accurately sort out key winners, major trends and what it all means, will as usual do much of it from their New York studios, but in differing on-air ways.

At CBS' studio, Walter Cronkite is anchoring, Eric Sevareid analyzing and John Hart trend-reporting. There'll also be four "regional" reporter-interpreters — Roger Mudd (South), Dan Rather (Midwest), Lesley Stahl (West) and Mike Wallace (East).

At NBC's studio, John Chancellor and David Brinkley are coanchors. House elections are being observed by the "Today" show's Barbara Walters and Jim Hartz. Edwin Newman is deciphering the Senate races and White House correspondent Tom Brokaw the gubernatorial contests.

ABC's studio is almost deserted, comparatively speaking. Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner are coanchoring the over-all story with only Sam Donaldson on hand to elaborate on key House races.

The networks' trusty computers already are crammed with data ranging from past vote patterns to —

CBS' case — how all House candidates stand on major issues.

And as the returns arrive, the computers will help the networks speedily report not only important "projected," "estimated" or "apparent" winners — the terms will vary at each network — but also the makeup and possible direction of the Congress in 1975 well before midnight.

On the visual side, the familiar large walls of studio "tote boards" are no more. At CBS and ABC, tonight's vote displays will be flashed electronically on TV screens, with no wall at all needed.

At NBC, they say they're using a gizmo called a "solari unit," consisting of seven small screens—two for House races, one each for the Senate and gubernatorial races and three for various other data.

How much is tonight's coverage and the months of preparation costing? ABC says "slightly under $3 million" for its network. NBC reports somewhere between $2 million and $3 million.

A CBS spokesman says: "We regard that as confidential for competitive reasons and I don't think I'll tell you."

Diabetes Talk Is Scheduled

Dr. Jose R. Beceiro, who has recently joined the VA Hospital staff and who is assistant professor, department of medicine, division of endocrinology at the Texas Tech Medical School at Lubbock, will lecture at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Room 216 at the VA Hospital. His topic will be "Diabetes Mellitus." All are physicians and medical personnel are welcome.
