Five Candidates In City Election

With the passing of the March 6 deadline for filing, five men are candidates for posts in the April 6 city election.

For mayor, Walter S. Falk, Jr., incumbent is unopposed.

For Alderman from Ward 1, the candidates are Joe "Pepe" Zambrano, incumbent, and Joe Lister. Two years ago these two men faced each other in one of the closest contests in local political history.

The first announcement of results gave Zambrano the victory by two votes. Then an official canvass of the votes showed Zambrano to be the winner by one vote, 78 to 77. Then the city council appointed a "blue ribbon" group of counters to do a recount and the announced result was: Zambrano, 79, Lister 77.

Finally, Lister took the matter to District Court and the final tally gave Zambrano the victory by one vote.

In the race for Alderman from Ward 2, Murray McMillan, incumbent, and Seth Steele oppose each other.

Most visitors went to several classes as well as going to library, music and physical education when they were being held. One even got in on a kickball game during the noon period.

Alderman Zambrano Walks Out of City Council Meeting

Alderman Joe "Pepe" Zambrano angrily walked out of a City Council meeting Monday during a heated discussion of a zoning matter.

His exit followed a sharp exchange between Zambrano and Alderman N.F. Jackson regarding a proposed zoning change from R-1 residential to B-2 business for Martin Barrera for a lot at 317 North Church Street.

At a combined meeting of the City Council and the Planning and Zonning Commission on February 25, the latter group unanimously recommended granting Barrera's zoning change request for a paint and body shop.

The Council, by a split vote of three to one, concurred with the recommendation. Only Jackson voted against it, stating he thought it a mistake to permit a business across the street from Aransas County Public Library.

This week the matter came up again, this time as the first item on the agenda in the form of a proposed ordinance amending the zoning ordinance.

Jackson immediately stated that he was strongly opposed to passing such an ordinance and proposing that the previous action by the Council be rescinded.

Zambrano shouted that he considered any such change as unfair in view of the action taken by the Council on Febrary 25. Yelling, "If that's the way you're going to operate, I'm leaving," Zambrano walked out.

Jackson's motion died for lack of a second. But then Alderman Murray McMillan moved that the matter be tabled and that another public hearing of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Council be held to reconsider Barrera's zoning change request. Jackson and McMillan voted in favor of the motion and Alderman Charlie Garrett voted against it, so the motion carried.

City Has Good Fire Record

Jack McDavid of Glass, Sorenson & McDavid Insurance reports that he has been informed by the State Board of Insurance that the City of Rockport presently has a "good fire record credit" of 15 per cent. Last year it was only 10 per cent. A good fire record credit helps fire insurance policy holders save money.

A credit is based on the fire record of a city or town. This is determined by keeping records showing the amount of premiums written and the losses paid.

If the results shows a considerably low loss ratio, the fire credit is high; however, if the loss ratio is high, the credit becomes low, or in some cases it will cease to be a credit and will result in an additional charge on the policy.

This is called a fire record penalty. The highest credit which can be allowed is 25%, the highest penalty is 15%. Credits and Penalties are published by the State Board of Insurance and furnished the agents.

personal judgment or prejudices of the individual who makes the decisions.

Looper asserted that no one is completely objective regardless of how hard he tries. He did single out Walter Cronkite for what he call his obvious personal prejudice against the current administration in Washington. This assertion brought a round of applause from the audience.

Looper discussed the difficulty faced by television stations in attempting to prevent programs that are entertaining yet in good taste. He asserted that behaviorism authorities are unable to agree as to what influence, if any, violence on television has on youthful viewers. He pointed out that many of the works of Shakespeare included more violence than current western television films.

It is his opinion that too few parents exercise any selectivity as to which television programs their children are permitted to see. In many homes television has become a convenient electronic babysitter, he said.

Looper explained that programing is a station's most difficult problem because of the wide variation in audience preferences. He urged viewers to express their views by writing t.v. program directors. Actually, viewers have a sure fire control over programs they don't like by switching them off, Looper said. And if enough viewers express their disapproval in this manner, stations get the message quickly through rating services. And television advertising time is bought on the basis of ratings, he added.

In addition to a news editor, there are six reporters on KZTV news staff, as well as eight technicians and cameramen, he said. Explaining how sometimes news photographs get mixed up, he said approximately 140 are shown during an average half-hour news program. He said television equipment was quite expensive. One tube has a price tag of $6,000 and as much as $30,000 worth of tubes sometimes are used in a single month.

Zollie Glass, president of the local chapter of American Association of Retired Persons, spoke briefly on the program and objectives of the organization. He said the association has 300 members in this area.

'Super Chick' To Be Here

"Tripper No. 2, the Super Chick," which appeared on Johnny Carson's TV program, will be here from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, March 16 in connection with the grand opening of Trip's Golden Fried Chicken on Highway 35 North.

He isn't just another chicken joke, but is the second largest reproductive rooster in the world, second only to his father, Wierd-O, who weighs in at 22 gargantuan pounds, according to his owner, Grant Sullens.

Grant and the Superchicken, who are on a publicity tour, have been guests on the Johnny Carson Show, after which they received a barrage of calls from poultry experts who couldn't believe their eyes.

"The largest chicken I've every heard of weighed about 38 pounds," said 18-year-old Sullens, "But, it wouldn't reproduce."

The superchicken has been billed as a "genetic miracle" by many who can't understand how a California farm boy could breed such a chicken without any scientific equipment or knowhow in the science of hybrid breeding.

The superchicken's ancestry is traced to a dice game, in which Sullen's father won 200 live white Leghorns, which he gave to his 10-year-old son.

After the first snowstorm of the season, 100 of the chickens died and Sullens was forced to breed a chicken which could resist the cold. The result ... the hardiest chicken ever and a gold mine for Sullens.

"I've been offered $7,500 just for one chicken," Sullens said. One breeder offered him $75,000 in cold cash for the 40 chickens he now has at home.

"His intent was not to breed a freak," said Harold Trip, president of Trip's Fried Chicken, host of the superchicken. "They were bred to be a sellable meat product."

Although the superchicken is not as tall as some expect, he is husky, with tremendous legs and feet, and a great deal more sellable meat than an average chicken.

Sullens said the breed is now still being developed, "but, when I get the breed stock going, I'll go into business."

Medicare Enrollment Period Nears End

People who haven't signed up for Medicare medical insurance or who have canceled the protection once can enroll now through April 1 at any social security office, according to Arthur L. Finck, Jr., social security district manager.

The medical insurance part of Medicare is offered automatically to people who reach 65 and are eligible for social security benefits -- and to disabled workers under 65 who have been entitled to monthly social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more.

"In this area, 95 out of 100 people eligible are enrolled in the medical insurance program," Finck said. "Some people, however, decline the protection when they're first eligible, and some sign up once and cancel later. They now have the opportunity to enroll in the first 3 months of any year."

The Medicare enrollment period extends through April 1 this year because March 31 falls on Sunday. The medical insurance helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses and is the voluntary part of Medicare, funded by individual premiums and Federal general revenues. The basic premium is now $6.30 a month and will go to $6.70 a month starting July 1.

"If you decline the medical insurance and delay signing up for more than a year, you pay a higher premium," Finck noted. "If you sign up and cancel later, you can re-enroll only once."

The medical insurance supplements Medicare hospital insurance, which is funded by social security contributions from workers and employers.

People 65 and over who aren't eligible for social security benefits can apply at any social security office and get Medicare hospital insurance by paying a premium. The basic premium is now $33 a month and will go to $36 a month starting July 1. "They must also sign up for the medical insurance," Finck said.

The apparent high premium for hospital insurance may surprise some people, Finck said, but he pointed out that Medicare will enroll anyone regardless of risk, regardless of preexisting illnesses, and regardless of obvious costs for surgery and continuing medical expenses right after July 1.

Additional information may be obtained from the Corpus Christi social security office at 5733 S. Padre Island Drive. The phone number is 992-1201.

Mrs. Lowther (center) autographing book "The Old Beach Road" for B&PW Club President Loyce Ogle to present to Eunice Hamon, Aransas County Librarian.

B&PW Presents Historical Book

The Rockport Business and Profession Women's Club is most honored to be able to present to the Aransas County Library the book "The Old Beach Road" by Mrs. Winifred E. Lowther. This donation is being made as a memorial gift and it is through the efforts of Mrs. Edna Hamilton and Miss Veronica Klaeser that it is possible. The B&PW club is especially proud of this donation as it is a history of the people and happenings of Rockport.

The following information appeared in the Alice Echo:

Winifred Evans Lowther has always been interested in nature and the sea. Through the years she has written many children's stories and whimsies for her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She lives in Rockport with her daughter, Mrs. Edna Hamilton. One daughter, Mrs. Ike (Louise) Poole lives in Houston and one daughter, Mrs. O. F. (Marian) Forester, Jr. lives in Corpus Christi.

In the early years of this century, there was an Old Beach Road -- a glistening, shell-topped coastline road leading into Rockport. That road saw the lives of countless coastal people passing by; small children spent many happy days walking to school and play; fishermen hauled their catches, their livelihood, from the beach to market and home; their women carried food and other household supplies down the road; sailors welcomed it as they returned from long stretches at sea.

Today that road is gone. But a portion of its story has been preserved in a new book, published by The Naylor Company of San Antonio, "The Old Beach Road."

Childhood memories are woven into a charming collage of vignettes by a woman who witnessed Texas coastal life firsthand, Winifred E. Lowther of Rockport.

Memories of childhood are seldom organized; rather, they are a collection of the experiences deemed most significant to the young eyes observing an unfamiliar, new world. Mrs. Lowther's recollections are very special ones. She remembers her youth not as a period of bliss, nor of despair--instead, she has taken a realistic overview of the past.

When the author speaks of her parents, she remembers her seafaring father as a rugged, handsome rover who spent much of his time away from his family on the open water he loved. Her mother, having borne seven children, was frail and consistently ill.

Consequently, most of the household duties were left to the children, who accepted their responsibilities with few questions. The author still remembers some of the tasks she performed: spring-cleaning, tending her baby sister and fig gathering.

But she also remembers the fun she had with her paper dolls, a theatre she and the other neighborhood children constructed for summer pleasure, and sewing.

As the author grew up, she, like every child, faced many fears and doubts. The coastal storms which devasted the region terrified her; death, an often incomprehensible occurrence even to adults, remained a mystery. She was also unable to understand the ridicule of her classmates.

For various reasons, the author's education proceeded irregularly, and inevitably her schoolwork suffered. Yet she loved to read, and still recalls the joy she found in McGuffey's readers.

Because her parents had little time for the young child, she sought comfort elsewhere, particularly along the Old Beach Road. Distinctly she remembers the Japanese mulberries, Spanish daggers and hackberry trees she saw as she walked.

She also tells of the paisano roadrunners and beautiful blue cranes. Often she set out alone and rowed in a small boat on the cove. There she sat, thinking, and found peace.

For Mrs. Lowther, growing up was a blending of happiness and pain. The Old Beach Road watched her grow, and knew her joys and sorrows. Yet now that road, like her childhood, is lost forever, its voices silenced, its visions faded. But Mrs. Lowther has no regrets: "Through the years our family spent on the Old Beach Road there was laughter, there was weeping -- and there was living."

Winifred E. Lowther, who was born in Corpus Christi, spent the early years of her life in the nearby Texas Coastal Bend area near Rockport. Having returned there after spending much of her adult life in other parts of Texas, she has been inspired to record her youthful recollections in this book.

She is the author of two other books, also published by The Naylor Company: "The Sea was His Mistress" and a collection of verse, "Winds and Tides."

Both the Texas Press Women and the National Federation of Press Women awarded her first place in writing for adults in 1965.

She is a life member of the Book Lovers Club in Alice, and is a former member of the Nina Adams Guild.

OUTDOORS 'n things

by L. D. NUCKLES

Millions of years ago, when primitive mammals such as the 4-toed forerunner of today's horse roamed the earth, there were already many kinds of bats. These little flying mammals have come down to the present time virtually unchanged by evolutionary processes. They are the only mammals actually capable of really flying, but we don't know when they took to the air. Perhaps they were first gliders, similar to the "flying" squirrel, then gradually developed the ability to fly. In any event, this ability to fly and their incredible hearing, which enables them to fly and catch insects in pitch blackness, seems to adapt them to their way of life so well that there was no reason to change.

Among the 200 species of bats in the world that have been classified and named there are many which do not eat insects, however. Some eat fruit, some eat meat, while some catch and eat fish. Some more exotic eaters among the bats are those which extract nectar from flowers, and of course, those darlings of the horror story writers, the vampires.

Long before Felix de Azara, a Spanish naturalist, studied the vampire bats in Paraguay in 1802, there were many tales being written in Europe about bats that sucked blood from their human victims. These were supposed to be corpses that rose from their graves in the night and drank blood to renew their vitality. What no one can understand is where these writers got the ideas for their stories. There were no vampires in Europe; they were found exclusively in the Americas and were unknown to the rest of the world until discovered by de Azara. Actually, the vampire was not well known until Charles Darwin found out about its bloody habits.

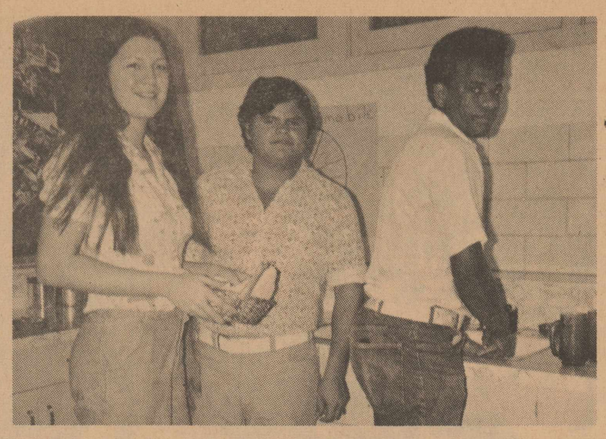

We have no vampire bats in Texas. The most northern colony ever reported is found in the cave of Los Sabinos, Mexico--about 200 miles south of the border. This colony was located and reported by Charles E. Mohr, Director of the Delaware Nature Education Center, who is an expert on caves and the creatures that live in them.

The Indians who live in that area discuss the vampires as casually as a Texas farmer discusses hawks. They say the bats come every night to feed on their goats, cows, and horses. When evening comes they take the most valuable animals into the house with their family, and the other animals just have to look out for themselves. After all, the bats don't take much blood.

Although animals and birds are their usual sources of food, vampires occasionally feed on the blood of sleeping men. When the vampire locates a victim, he doesn't alight directly on the sleeper so as to wake him. Instead, he lands nearby then crawls cautiously up to the person's face. He selects the best spot for his attack, a place where there are few nerves and lots of blood--the lobe of an ear or the tip of the nose. He then nips the flesh gently. If the victim moves, the vampire jumps back quickly and waits patiently for his quarry to go back to sleep. Then he tries another spot. He may have to try several places before he finds the right one. Then, stretching his mouth wide open, he makes a single quick slash with his two canine teeth, sideways, as if using a knife. He seems to know exactly where to slash to open a blood vessel so the blood will keep flowing out. Vampires do not suck blood from a wound; they lap it up as a cat laps milk. He will feed until he can hardly fly.

Even so, the amount of blood lost by the victim is not the important thing, but the fact that the bat often carries diseases, such as rabies, is quite important in some areas. In some districts in southern Mexico an outbreak of rabies, spread by vampires, has killed off more than 90 percent of the cattle.

No--we don't have any vampires in Texas, and I'm real happy about that.

Home Management Class Has Special Study

Home Management students taught by Mrs. Janiece Spears have been doing a comparison study of convenience foods and foods prepared homemade.

The class planned and prepared a meal that had appetite appeal, well balanced foods by using the basic 4 food groups as a guide and careful management of time, money and energy.

The menu was prepared by one group entirely from scratch and by another group entirely with convenience foods.

The class learned that in an indirect way, convenience foods can lower the total money spent for food. This sounds like a paradox, but it isn't. Because of advanced food technology, from the field and factory to the kitchen, surplus foods are made available for use the year round in convenience forms.

People are not dependent on a good growing season to eat well. This large volume of food helps reduce total costs, and at the same time provides the choices for a better diet. The fact that convenience foods are often reduced in weight and bulk means that it costs less to transport and store them.

"Some of the disadvantages of convenience foods that the class discovered are the flavor and texture. The flavor is like that of warmed over food. The texture may be too soft. The class found nutrients to be lacking when compared to those prepared from scratch," according to Mrs. Spears.

By using the information they have gained in the study the class will be able to make wise decisions in buying convenience foods and pruchase only what is well worth its cost. They will be able to prepare nutritionally balanced meals at little cost and with little expenditure of energy, if they stay informed on sound nutrition, and if they plan and shop carefully.

Spring, 1974

On the 20th the hours of daylight will approximately equal those of night for the first time since September and spring will begin in the northern hemisphere. It's a season awaited eagerly through the winter by many, perhaps the loveliest exhibition of nature during the year.

Spring means new life, which is evident all around us; it brings Easter (April 14th), a symbol of new life, warmer weather, baseball, the approach of holidays and spring fever and taxes. As we witness the resurgence of nature's vital forces around us, many seek to grasp the moral, the hope represented therein.

These inexorable laws of nature continue year after year their inevitable procession, inviting men and women to enjoy the delightful experience, to think about spring's meaning and the fundamental purpose and cycle of life, death, and time.

From the 20th until September 23rd, six months hence, our days will be longer than night. They will also be the warmest of the year, at the end of which we will once again welcome cooler air and brisk days--and be ready again for what nature has in store--in its life cycle.

Progress is the Name for it---

Our new bank building which is nearing completion at Austin Street and Highway 35 is a symbol of progress—more than 80 years of progress and service to the Rockport-Aransas County Community.

When the bank was founded in 1890 by a group of forward-looking pioneers who had faith in the future of their community, they could not have foreseen what the future held for either the bank or the community. But all of them knew that the community needed a bank if it was to grow and prosper.

Through the years First National has never lost sight of its obligation to provide individuals and business firms with efficient, complete and courteous financial service.

As a result, the bank has grown as the community has grown, constantly adding to the extent and efficiency of the services it provides.

So, the new First National Bank building represents a milestone of progress—almost a century of progress—for the bank and for the community.

Creel Survey Slated For Coastal Fishermen

AUSTIN -- Sometime in April, 1974, teams from the Parks and Wildlife Department will start a creel survey of coastal fishermen.

The survey, recently approved by the department's commission, will concentrate on four Texas bays: Aransas, Upper Laguna Madre, San Antonio and Galveston.

Object of the survey is to determine who catches what fish with what type of equipment.

"Aransas Bay will be the first area we survey," according to department coastal fisheries assistant Jim Stevens. "We plan to work out the initial bugs in the first few months at Aransas and then simultaneously start with the other bay systems."

Parks and Wildlife Department workers will concentrate around major access points to the bays such as fishing piers, boat ramps and marinas.

"Two types of work will be done by the surveyors," said Stevens, "a count of fishermen which are using a general area of the coast, and an interview of the angler at specific sites to get some background information and to weigh and count the catch.

"In either case, the success of the survey will depend largely on the cooperation of the fishermen."

Stevens also said that some professional fishing guides might be asked by the department to keep informal records of what they catch to help in the survey.

"Commercial catches are monitored by checks at fish houses," he said, "we already have a good idea of what the commercial fishermen are landing."

The point of all this is to gather data which will enable Parks and Wildlife Department coastal biologists to develop a sound data base for regulation of fishing on the coast.

Biologists want to know the condition of the fishery by species from bay to bay at the present time.

Various surveys of anglers have been conducted along the Texas coast in past years; however, since that time conditions and fishing pressures have changed considerably.

Information obtained is expected to show catch per unit of angler effort, trends in angling and total harvest when combined with commercial landing data.

Cost of the survey for one year is estimated at $36,500 per bay system.

Noted Artist to Teach Here March 16-31

Dallas artist, William A. Brigl, will return to Rockport March 16-31 to teach oil painting at the Rockport Art Association. He will be assisted by his wife, Jane, as he was in January and early February, 1972.

The Brigls have just returned from a 5-week painting-study trip to the scene of his early painting locales of Munich, West Germany, and the Brittany Coast of France, where he spent different summers in the fishing town of Doelan, in between his early study periods in Paris.

While in Munich, they researched the fine art work in many of the galleries and museums, including the State Gallery and the Old and New Pinacotek.

Brigl states: "Surprisingly, there was very little modern art visible in the museums, and none in the art galleries. In some form, this is a quieting thought, as art is always the forerunner of expressions of the times; which means in other words that times will become more conservative and will lose its hectic spirit.

"It is odd how age has a habit of creeping up so quietly and hardly noticeable, until someday you see the difference that a half-century has made, and you compare the time of today with your student days. I never realized that I had turned out to be a historical painter, in some form. The picturesque fishing boats, with all their colored sails, are a thing of the past, and the harbor no longer has the smell of fish, but contains the smell of oil, caused by the motors which have replaced the colorful sails."

The Brigls say that it will be a joy for them to see Rockport again, as Rockport also started as a fishing town and still lures art lovers to the shrimp boats to capture their forms and colors. Of course, fishermen are the same all over the earth and have no nationality.

Brigl is very thankful to his wife, Jane, for her assistance in his classes, as it will free him from pressure and enable him to make the rounds in the class faster. He says, "I don't know if all of you are acquainted with my wife, but she was an art professor before our marriage, and holds a Fine Arts All-Level Degree."

Sport Shrimpers To Be Sampled

AUSTIN-There are approximately 10,000 sport shrimpers in Texas. Just what is their total harvest?

Texas Parks and Wildlife Commissioners have authorized a survey of sport shrimpers to expand the department's program of obtaining valuable harvest data on a number of fish and wildlife species for use in management and research efforts directed toward the preservation and enhancement of Texas' renewable resources.

According to B. D. King of the department's wildlife planning staff, some one-fifth of all sport shrimp license holders will be mailed a questionnaire in the near future.

"The questionnaire," said king, "will consist of a map of the coast divided on the basis of bays and the offshore area. We ask the sport shrimper to indicate where on the coast he has caught shrimp, both during the fall and spring seasons for consumption and during the entire year for use as bait."

When all the questionnaires are back, the information will give some idea of the total catch from each bay system and which areas are the most valuable.

Together with commercial harvest data, the department will know how and when shrimp are taken in Texas and where they are harvested.

Op Art - Exploitation of the Visual Process

Kiu Siu by Victor Vasarely, courtesy of Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Op art, or optical art, is the name given to an abstract art movement based upon visual experiments resulting in optical illusions. We think of it as an art trend which evolved in the United States in the early 1960's, but actually it has existed as a form for hundreds of years. European artisans created deliberate optical effects in ancient Spanish mosaics, in inlaid marble floors, in 17th century Muslim ceramics. The Impressionists of the last century were fascinated with the problems of light and shadow, with the experimental use of color to create specific retinal effects. In the early part of this century, the Futurists and Dadaists used optics in art, often to humorous ends. Most notably, Josef Albers of the Bauhaus began serious experimentation in the 30's. But these were only isolated instances; Op Art was crystallized into a movement in the 1950's under the guidance and influence of men like Victor Vasarely and J. R. Soto.

It is always non-representational, that is, it never portrays a tree or a flower or a face; and it is almost always geometrical in concept. Nor is it ever intended to symbolize ideas or theories: in op art, a circle is nothing more than a circle, a triangle only a triangle. There is no mystery or hidden meaning.

But this does not mean that it is not complex. It is intricate and puzzling and exciting. Op artists take into account the mechanisms of the human eye and the psychology of perception. The most common examples of op art employ patterns or monotonous repetitions of lines, squares, dots, circles. At first glance, it looks stable; as we continue to look, the structure shifts, dissolves, changes; sometimes the effect is slight, sometimes it is overwhelming and the canvas seems to heave or undulate.

This illusion of motion is what the artist is trying to achieve. He is not interested in the lines and circles, but in what occurs when the lines and circles are arranged in various combinations. Using scientific data applied to form, pattern, and color, he can create the illusion of "dazzle," that is, the sensation that the painting is jiggling or throbbing; or "after - image," which occurs when a pattern or image perceived in one part of the picture appears in another part -- where it has not been painted; or irradiation, the sensation that colors or shapes are flowing to the edges of the picture, or from one focal point on the canvas to another.

When our eyes and our brains have been artfully stimulated, we are rewarded with genuine magic, phantom lights and images and colors. Op art can be amusing, subtle, dizzying, eerie, but in every case the viewer is caught up in what is happening on the canvas. The painting is only the first half of the composition, it is made complete by the reaction and involvement of the spectator.

Peninsula Oaks Garden Club Meets

The Peninsula Oaks Garden Club met in the Peninsula Oaks office on March 7. Mrs. Dottie Owens, president, called the meeting to order. The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting; the treasurer reported, and dues were collected.

Mrs. Dottie Owens presented the program which consisted of an interesting review of an article called "Mother Earth's Hassle - Free Indoor Plant Guide." The article was written by Lynn and Joel Rapp and appeared in the January, 1974 FAMILY CIRCLE. She explained what an indoor plant is and how to buy one. She also presented thirteen basic plants which are guaranteed to grow for you and gave instructions for their care and feeding. She stressed the fact that plants are very much like children -- they require tender, loving care, and the younger the plant the more care it needs.

Mrs. Owens then presented Mrs. Betty Kramer, who displayed several philodendrons which she had grown. She also displayed several clay pots which she had painted and decoupaged. In addition, she explained different ways one can decorate flower containers.

Following the program, Mrs. Dorothy Leslie gave the gardening report for the month of March. Gardening tips for March include keeping the soil cultivated and planting anything.

Mrs. Carole Woodman and Mrs. Alice Morrison served refreshments of cake, punch and coffee to thirteen members and one guest: Mesdames Frances Naquin, Ethel Clark, Carole Woodman, Betty Kucera, Dottie Owens, Betty Kramer, Dorothy Leslie, Thelma Sours, Flora Davis, Bernita Kinsey, Betty Abt, Mildred Bolls, Lois Bohot and Alice Morrison.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q: What advice can the IRS give me about choosing a tax preparer to fill out my return?

A: The IRS offers the following advice to taxpayers seeking assistance from commercial income tax preparers: Avoid the preparer who "guarantees" refunds, wants a percentage of the refund, or supposedly knows all the angles; avoid the preparer who advises the overstatement of deductions, the claiming of fictitious dependents or the omitting of income; do not allow your refund check to be mailed to the preparer; never sign a blank return; and do not sign a tax return prepared in pencil because it can be changed later. Taxpayers should insist that the tax preparer sign the return he prepares and enter his tax identifying number and address in the spaces provided. Finally, be sure to keep a copy of your return.

Q: Are there any changes in the social security tax for 1974?

A: Yes. Although the tax rate remains 5.85 percent for both employers and employees, the maximum amount of wages subject to social security tax has been increased to $13,200 for wages paid in 1974. This means the most any one employer should withhold from your 1974 pay is $772.20 in social security tax--up from $631.80 last year.

Q: I had two jobs last year, and more than the maximum amount of social security tax was withheld from my pay. Can I claim the excess?

A: Yes. If you worked for two or more employers during 1973 and more than $631.80 in social security tax was withheld from your pay, you are entitled to claim the excess social security tax as a credit against your income tax. For details, see your tax form instructions. However, if you worked for only one employer during 1973 and more than the maximum amount of social security tax was withheld, you may not claim the excess as a tax credit. Your employer should adjust this over-collection with you.

Q: I received a state income tax refund in 1973. Do I have to report this as income on my 1973 Federal income tax return?

A: If you did not deduct state income taxes on your 1972 Federal income tax return, you do not have to report this state income tax refund on your 1973 Federal return. If you did deduct state income taxes on your 1972 Federal return, you must include the state tax refund as income to the extent that you derived a tax benefit from the prior deduction.

Of course, a taxpayer who itemizes and paid a balance due in 1973 on his 1972 state income tax return should add this amount to his 1973 state income tax withheld to determine his deduction for Federal tax purposes.

Q: Are political contributions tax deductible?

A: Yes. If you itemize deductions, political dontributions are deductible up to $50 ($100, if you are married and filing a joint return). Instead of a deduction for political contributions, you may claim a credit against your income tax of up to $12.50 ($25, if married, filing jointly).

Harwick, Stubbs Unite

Miss Jeanne Stubbs became the bride of Kenneth Harwick, Jr. in a candlelight service at Second Baptist Church of Pasadena on December 29. Mark Stubbs, brother of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stubbs of Pasadena; and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harwick, Sr. of Rockport.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Marsha Miller and Karl Mangrum, accompanied by Mrs. Claudia Atwood at the organ. Selections were "Wedding Song," "Time In A Bottle," "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of satapeau. The empire bodice was enhanced in alencon lace appliques, featuring a high neckline trimmed in a tiny pleated ruffle of organza and long fitted sleeves ending in a tiny pleated ruffle over the wrist. A Juliet headpiece of matching lace held her short veil of illusion that draped softly over her shoulders. She carried a bouquet of roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Sharla Phillips was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Conces, cousin of the bride; Miss Lisa Stubbs, cousin of the bride; Ms. Valarie Nesloney, sister of the groom; and Miss Melanee Harwick, sister of the groom. Miss Jessica Hurst was flower girl.

David Hawkins served as best man. Groomsmen were Terry Cox, Flip Shaver, David Nesloney and Mark Taylor. Todd Harvey and Donald Beasley served as ushers. Jeff Small served as ring bearer.

The reception was held in the church activities building following the ceremony. Members of the houseparty were Miss Liz Conces, Miss Mary Boggus, Miss Joan White, Miss Janice Erwin, Miss Joyce Lindsey and Miss Pam Doucette.

The couple will make their home in Pasadena.

The greatest number of honorary degrees awarded to any individual is 85, given to Herbert Clark Hoover, 31st president of the United States.

Fulton Ladies Auxiliary Shower

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Fulton Fire Department hosted a baby shower for Patty Heald February 25 at the fire station. She received many nice gifts for her son, Patrick Dean, born January 27.

Cake and punch were served to all present: Wanda Agee, Debbie Roth, Pat Loflin, Sharron Loflin, Nora Roth, Jean Nix, Frances McCullough, Easter Kulp, Sue Koert and Jeanie Pettus.

Specials for game night February 26 were furnished by Debbie Roth, Sue Koert and Jean Nix. Specials for March 5 were donated by Pat Loflin, Nora Roth and Sharron Loflin.

Miller Wins Doubleheader

Larry Zeena drove in four runs in the first game, then added two more RBIs while combining with Jesse Martinez on a two-hitter in the second game, as Miller swept a baseball doubleheader from Rockport Saturday.

The Bucs, now 4-5, won the opener 13-2 by scoring 11 runs in the fith inning; then the Pirates commited seven errors as Miller took the other game, 8-2.

Zeena's 2-run homer put the Bucs in front 2-0 in the opening inning of the first game, with Rockport tying things up on a single by Joe Garza in the fourth.

But the Bucs then scored 11 times in the fifth, with Zeena driving in two runs with a single and Pablo Diaz stroking a bases loaded double to account for three more runs.

Zeena also had a two-run single in the scond game as the Bucs took advantage of the wildness of the Pirates Danny Flores, who walked nine batters while striking out 15.

Rockport got just two scratch hits in the nightcap, as the Pirates fell to 0-3 for the season.

PUBLIC NOTICES "BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW"

Editor's Note: Public Notice advertising plays a unique role both in American history and in the process by which this country's democracy is preserved. Its one premise is that people must be informed if they are to govern themselves competently. Public Notice advertising first came into being with the Congress of 1792. That body, recognizing its responsibility to the people, required the Postmaster General to advertise for bids for the construction of new post offices. From that inauspicious beginning to the complex publication requirements in federal, state and local laws today, government officials have come more and more to understand their obligations to inform the public through Public Notice advertising. Newspapers over the years have been the vehicle by which these obligations have been fulfilled. They will continue to be as long as the public demands that it be informed frequently and by the best means possible.)
