Issued Wednesday and Saturday of Each Week.

WELLINGTON LEADER

Rambles
Over the County

J. W. L. COOK
The Leader's Rambling Editor

L. A. Smith

Our next home to enter was that of L. A. Smith. Mr. Smith lives about three miles north of the little city of Dozier in the Lone Mound district. He has lived in this county about ten years. He came here from Comanche County, Texas. He is a native Texan Mr. Smith is farming the J. T. Hite farm. He has a nice home. The house is a nice five room house. It is a well improved place, has good out buildings. He has a real good barn. There are 210 acres in this farm. He says his cotton is above the average of the neighborhood and his feed is good. He is well pleased with this country and would not go back to his old home county to farm. We took dinner at the Smith home. We enjoyed our visit and felt that we were among friends of long standing instead of strangers of an hours acquaintance.

W. R. Bradstreet

W. R. Bradstreet was the next home to visit. Mr. Bradstreet lives about two miles north of the Lone Mound school house, on the Dozier-Shamrock road. He has been in this county about nine years. They came here from Wilbarger County. The Ramblers have known Mr. Bradstreet for a good many years, having lived a neighbor to his father in Wilbarger County when W. R. was a boy. He has a good home, it is on one of the Clay farms and has a good crop for this year. Mr. Bradstreet has taken the Leader for several years.

Frank M. Stafford

We next went to the home of Frank M. Stafford, who lives about three miles north of Lone Mound. Mr. Stafford was born in Iowa but was raised in Wilbarger County. He has lived in this county twenty-three years. He came to this county when a young man and married in this county. His life partner was Miss Dezie Jackson, a daughter of J. C. Jackson, one of the earliest settlers of this county. Mrs. Stafford says she has lived in Collingsworth County thirty-four years. Their home consists of 320 acres of land, of which 175 acres are in cultivation. They have a nice six room house well furnished and finished. They have a good crop of both cotton and feed. Mr. Stafford has been a subscriber to the Leader for several years.

J. L. Gill

Our next home was that of J. L. Gill, who lives five miles north of Dozier. Mr. Gill has lived in the county five years. He is a native of Arkansas. He came from Arkansas to Oklahoma and then to this county. He owns 160 acres of land on which are growing some good crops of both cotton and feed, also some nice sudan hay. Mr. Gill was busy harvesting his hay crop. Some of the Gill farm is subirrigated land and grows truck without very much rain.

J. A. Wilson

Our next stop was at the home of J. A. Wilson. The Wilson home is about four miles northwest of Dozier. The Wilsons have lived in this county about five years. They live on one of the W. M. Davis places. They came to this county from Clalhan County. They have fairly good crop.

W. M. Davis

From the Wilson home we went to the W. M. Davis home four miles northwest of Dozier. The Davis home consists of 302 acres of land. He has 245 acres in cultivation. They have a five room new house of modern type, good out improvements, a fine well of water from which they are irrigating a garden. Here we found vegetables in abundance. If our little Ford had been larger we would have carried off enough stuff to have lasted us all the winter, as Mr. and Mrs. Davis kept piling on tomatoes, beets, and different kind of eatables until we hollored enough. Mr. Davis is a goober grabber from Georgie. He has lived in this county about sixteen years. He came to this county from Wise County. Mr. Davis has a fairly good crop, some of his feed is fine. Mr. Davis is an old time patron of the Leader.

R. P. Wood

R. P. Wood, who lives near Lone Mound school house has lived in Collingsworth County six years. He is a native of Texas, was born in DeWitt County. Mr. Wood came to this county from Hood County. He owns 640 acres of land with 540 acres in cultivation. Mr. Wood is building a nice six room house which will be of a modern up to date type. Mr. Wood has 240 acres of cotton on his farm. He says he thinks it will make one-fourth of a bale per acre.

MERCHANTS TO CLOSE STORES ON THURSDAY

All Business Houses and Banks Will Close Thursday Afternoon for Fair

Thursday has been designated by the County Fair Directors as Wellington Day and all business houses and banks will be closed Thursday afternoon.

W. H. Goforth, secretary of the Fair Association, believes that this will help make this a better fair and the business men have unnanimously agreed to close their stores on this day.

Preparations are being made to take care of one of the biggest crowds ever attending the Collingsworth County Annual fair. The recent rain will help crops a great deal, farmers say, and good exhibits are expected.

The Quail community is the only community that is holding a fair before the County Fair and is expected to send some good exhibits in all entries. Plymouth, Buck Creek, Aberdeen, and other communities are also expecting to send good exhibits.

MURLEY SAYS COUNTY WILL HAVE PLENTY OF COTTON PICKERS

C. N. Murley, who lives on the Baumgartner farm south of Wellington, stated Friday that farmers of this county need not be worried over securing cotton pickers this fall. Mr. Murley recently returned from a trip to Bonham, Leonard, Vernon and other points in this section, and states that many families will come here soon as the season is nearly over in that part of the state.

Mr. Murley says pickers are receiving one dollar per hundred for picking in that section of the state and that the cotton is not nearly so good as it is here.

Here and There

Bill House: "People here are like some of the ancients—they don't know one hand from the other. Why, just the other day I was driving down one of the main city streets when I met a Ford coming right down meeting me on my side of the street, and it was just a little embarrassing to have to pull over to the left hand side of the street to let it by."

Ed Smith: "The new traffic system is the best thing we've had in Wellington in some time."

M. L. Boss, who has been giving lessons on the simple rules of traffic, declared that they were all crazy. No, he didn't mean the rules.

They say if it rains, Collingsworth County will make fifteen thousand bales of bollies, while some of the more conservative say we'll do well to make fifteen thousand in all. Pessimists never did keep this county from growing.

J. D. Wilson of the Dodsonville schools states that the Canyon Institute is one of the best ever held.

TAKE SCENES AT CIRCUS FOR "BOY OF MINE" PICTURE

A genuine circus, one of the biggest and most famous, was used as a background for some of the scenes in r'Boy of Mine," which J. K. McDonald produced for First National and is to be shown at the Rialto Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

The scenes were shot during the visit to Los Angelos of the greatest show on earth.

Ben Alexander, the First National boy star, who was "Penrod," in "Penrod and Sam," was the hero of them all.

"Boy of Mine," which like "Penrod and Sam" is a picturization of a Booth Tarkington story, centers around the life of a typical American boy, a part played by Ben. Humorous incidents in the story have to do with his visit to the circus.

That the circus episodes would help to reflect the true atmosphere of a circus, J. K. McDonaud sought permission to shoot his scenes during a Saturday afternoon matinee. The privilege was granted and the unit was moved bag and baggage to the circus lot.

"Boy of Mine" was directed by William Beaudine. Its all star cast includes Henry B. Walthall, Ben Alexander, Irene Rich, Rockliffe Fellowes, Dot Farley and Lawrence Licalzi.

M. TEMERLIN BUYS FALL STOCK IN NEW YORK CITY

M. Temerlin, who is opening the Fashion Shop on the north side of the square, returned Wdenesday from New York where he has been for the past two weeks buying new fall goods for his shop here.

Mr. Temerlin will handle a complete line of ladies ready-to-wear, and plans to keep the very latest styles for the women of Wellington and Collingsworth County. He believes that there is going to be a fairly good crop made here this year and is buying his fall stock accordingly.

COUNTY GETS ONE INCH OF RAINFALL

Hard Winds Do Slight Damage in Wellington Thursday Afternoon

Wellington and Collingsworth County received one of the best rains Thursday that has fallen in this section of the panhandle in some time. Reports show that over an inch of rain fell in most parts of the county and that not less than one-half inch rain fell anywhere in this county.

The rain was preceded by hard winds that did some little damage in Wellington. The awning in front of the Wellington State Bank and Sullivan Grocery was partially torn loose and looked as if it would be torn completely off. The large sign in front of the New York Style Shop was blown off.

The wind lasted about fifteen minutes and was followed quickly by the rain. About one-half of an inch fell at this time, but the rain started again about seven p. m. and continued for more than an hour.

Crops are reported as doing much better since the rain and farmers believe that much more cotton will be made than was expected before the rain.

LAUNDRY AND TAILOR SHOP CONSOLIDATE

The Wellington Laundry and the City Tailoring Company announce a consolidation of their two plants in the lately remodeled Laundry plant.

Mrs. Potts, manager of the Laundry, announces in an advertisement in this issue of the Leader that her laundry is now equipped to do any kind of cleaning and in fact is one of the best cleaning plants in this section.

MR. AND MRS. LEE MINYARD PROVE CORDIAL HOSTS TO FORLORN TRUCK DRIVER

The writer spent Thursday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Minyard, who live six miles west of Quail. If you want to know what real hospitality is, you should skid your truck into a ditch and have Mr. Minyard come along and take you home with him and then come back the next morning and pull you out. Many people would pull you out of a ditch just as willingly as Mr. Minyard did, but it is not everyone who can make you feel so at home and feed you such good things for breakfast as can Mr. and Mrs. Minyard. The stay at their home was the joyful part of a trip to Amarillo. You may read the whole story in Wednesday's paper.

JOURNALISM CONTEST IN INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE DISCONTINUE..

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 11—After having been held for only one year, the journalism contest of the University of Texas Inter-scholastic League is to be discontinued, according to a recent statement by Roy Bedichek, in charge of the League work.

Like other League contests, the journalism meet was held in co-operation with the Department of Journalism of the University of Texas, with the journalism faculty serving as judges and advisors in the contest. When that department was abolished there was no other department with which the journalism contest could be articulated, nor was there sufficient funds for the Interscholastic League to employ someone technically qualified to conduct the work. Should the department of Journalsim be restored in the future, and the Interscholastic League have the aid of its faculty the journalism contest will probably be resumed, Bedichek aid.

NEW TRAFFIC SYSTEM NOW IN EFFECT

Ordinance Will Be Strictly Enforced, Say City Officers

Constable M. L. Boss and City Marshal Paul Hardy spent a busy day Thursday instructing motorists in the way they should go. The new stop and slow signs were installed Wednesday night and the new traffic rules automatically go into effect.

This new system requires that all traffic entering the square from any direction must come to a full stop before proceding. The slow signs are placed at each corner and at corners where the traffic is heavy.

This new system which was recently recommended and adopted by the City Council is proving to be very successful, and is appreciated by pedestrians and motorists alike. It is thought that accidents in the heavy Saturday and holiday traffic will be greatly lessened.

J. D. WILSON REPORTS ON INSTITUTE

Dodsonville Superintendent Says Canyon Institue Is Best in Years

J. D. Wilson, superintendent of the Dodsonville Public Schools, sends in the following report on the West Texas Teachers Association, which was held at Canyon, September 7 to September 11. The report states in part:

(By J. D. Wilson)

"Collingsworth County is one of the twenty-three counties employing more than one hundred teachers and is represented in the consolidated institute which convened in Canyon, September 7 to 11, 1925. The program of this institute constituted two distinct kinds of performances; inspirational addresses and class room work. The primary purpose of the addresses before the genral assembly was to learn from leading authorities the most important tendencies in education, to get a broader outlook upon school problems and to emphasize the dignity of the teaching profession through the exemplified ability of prominent men and women engaged in this work. In the class room work the best methods of procedure in solving concrete problems was demonstrated at the Canyon Institute.

State Supt. S. M. N. Marrs delivered an excellent address before more than one thousand teachers who assembled in the college auditorium Monday at one-thirty p. m. I wish every school patron in Collingsworth County could have heard his practical address. He spoke principally on financing the public schools, and the interest that the average citizen should have in public education.

The following outstanding remarks were made by Mr. Marrs in his address: First, he emphasized that the teachers can help the state department in conserving the state's money, Second, that the entire taxable values of Texas amount to about three and one-half billion dollars; Third, two million dollars for free text books this year, and the cost for text-books for six years has cost the state $1.48 per child; Fourth, that there are 1,345,000 children in Texas that are entitled to a free public school education; fifth, that 48 cents of the state's dollars are spent for education; and that one dollar out of every poll tax that is paid in Texas goes to education; and everytime anyone buys a gallon of gasoline they spend one-fourth of a cent to support schools in this state; sixth, that Texas has a state permanent school fund which amounts to $76,000,000; seventh, Mr. Marrs emphasized that every child in the state should have equal opportunity to a public education. He said that the children that were most neglected were those of the rural communities, and the greatest problem that now confronts the state is to work out an educational plan by which the children of the rural schools will receive more attention, and the same opportunity to an education that the boys and girls of the towns and cities enjoy.

The teachers of Collingsworth County really got some practical knowledge by attending the Canyon Institute. Several have said that the West Texas Teachers Association is the best they have had the pleasure of attending.

The teachers as a whole seemed to be interested in the Institute and most of them received some very valuable information that will be of great aid to them in their teaching this coming school year."

The Institute has the following slogan: 'Better Teachers and Better Schools'."

LIGHTNING STRIKES R. S. MONTAGUE HOME THURSDAY EVENING

Lightning struck the home of R. S. Montague Thursday afternoon and tore three large hole in the roof.

Mr. Montague and family were in the storm cellar when the lightning struck and none of them were injured. Mr. Montague states that the house would have burned had not a heavy rain been falling at the time and put out the flames. Lightning played on the roof for a few seconds, Mr. Montague says.

CITY COUNCIL PROPOSES NEW ORDINANCE

Would Prohibit Keeping Hogs Inside City Limits After December 1

An ordinance prohibiting the keeping of hogs within the City Limits after December 1 was ordered drawn at the meeting of the city council last Monday night.

The proposed ordinance would also prohibit keeping more than six head of horses or mules within the city limits, to go into effect as soon as the ordinance is passed.

City Attorney Jimmie Mahar believes that this ordinance will meet with favor among the residents of the city and states that there will be little opposition to the passage of the measure.

He also stated that the materials for the new city well to be dug by the Devlin Engineering Company of Wichita, Kansas, were expected here Saturday and that work would begin on the new well immediately. It is proposed to dig one seventy foot well, eighteen inches in diameter, which, it is thought, will be sufficient for the city's needs at the present time.

The old wells were recently cleaned out and a greater amount of water is now being received than the pumps have been getting during the summer months.

WORK GOES FORWARD ON ROBERTS' BUILDING

Work on the C. W. Roberts building on North Barton Street is going steadily forward, according to Contractor Earl Goforth, who states that the work will be pushed to completion.

Mr. Goforth states that he has no more new contracts to start, which shows that Wellington is getting caught up with building, in the business district anyway. The Hotel Wellington addition and the Warrick Feed store building are the only other brick business houses under construction.

FEWER FRESHMEN TO ENTER UNIVERSITY SAYS REGISTRAR

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 11. Although prospects indicate one of the best years in the history of the University of Texas, it is thought that the drouth, the opening of the new junior college in San Antonio in connection with the extension work of the University, and the higher entrance requirements will cut down the freshmen enrollment this fall, according to E. J. Mathews, registrar of the University.

Beginning with the long session of 1925-26 no freshmen will be allowed to enroll in the University without fifteen full units of work, instead of conditionally with fourteen as heretofore. Ten of these are required as follows: Three units in English; two in social sciences, one of which must be in history; two in algebra, one in plane geometry; and two in a foreign language, ancient or modern. The five remaining units may be chosen by the student. However, students who can present fifteen acceptable units with the exception of those in foreign language will be admitted, and allowed to make up the deficiency within two years after their enrollment in the University

BUSINESS MEN AND BAND GO TO QUAIL FAIR

Leave Wellington at 10 A. M. For Only Community Fair

Wellington business men are doing their part to see that Quail has the best fair ever held, according to W. H. Grforth, who states that one business man from every firm in Wellington will go to the Quail fair this morning.

The Wellington delegation will leave from the southwest corner of the square Saturday morning at ten o'clock sharp. The band will go and will give concerts from 11 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 2 p. m.

W. H. Goforth believes that co-operation is the thing this fair needs and that the merchants and business men of Wellington have responded to the Quail trip with a readiness that shows they are eager to help.

J. W. L. Cook will represent the Wellington Leader at the Quail Fair, and will make a detailed report of the fair for readers.

HEADLIGHT TESTING STATION OPERATORS MAKE MANY CHANGES

W. A. Cook reports a very busy week testing the headlights of the autos of Wellington. He states that about seven hundred have been tested up to date, and that many of them need some changes. In some cases the lenses must be changed, bulbs in others, and, more often, lights must be directed on the road rather than above the road.

Although the new headlight law requires the lights to be tested before September 1, many of the auto lights have not been tested as yet. This law makes for the safety of motorists in night driving and will be strictly enforced, officers say.

JESSE JAMES AND COLE YOUNGER ARE IN WELLINGTON

The waxen figures of men who were notorious criminals in the early days in the southwest are on display in front of the Rialto Theatre and have been attracting not a little attention.

These men are Jesse James and the two Younger Brothers, Cole and Scout. A picture was shown Friday night of the lives of Jesse James and Cole Younger and attracted good crowds.

SHERIFF M'KINNEY HUNTS CHICKENS IN WHEELER COUNTY

Sheriff Claude McKinney returned Friday from Wheeler County where he has been since Wednesday hunting prairie chickens. Sheriff McKinney says there are plenty of birds there, but that they are sure wild.

Many Wellington hunters report plenty of birds, but that they are wild and hard to kill. Out of the large number that went from here, none failed to get their limit of five birds per day.

Hunters from some of the other sections of the state reported a very few birds and many of them did not get their allowance. The season closed Thursday.

BUY IT IN WELLINGTON!

It Pays

This series of advertisements sponsored by the firms listed below has as its slogan Buy It in Wellington. These merchants are not asking you to trade with them as a duty, but because it is profitable for you to do so. Each one of them intends to build up his business on the basis of the good that he can do for his customers. You are invited to trade with the firms listed below because it is profitable.

These merchants recognize that you have a right to trade wherever you think you can get the best bargains. They recognize that outside business which contributes little to the prosperity of this community has a right to advertise in and do business here, but they also recognize that for real values, year in and year out, values that are able to meet all competition. They recognize the value of their products and they are telling you about it.

It is true that the home business houses contribute to your churches, your schools, contribute to the sick and needy, and pay taxes on roads and other public enterprises which the whole community enjoys. It is also true that they stay here to back up the goods they sell. It is true that these merchants, directly or indirectly augment your own revenue and increase your individual prosperity.

But these are not the reasons they are asking you to trade with them. It is strictly a business proposition. They can sell you goods of higher quality at very reasonable prices. Their firms are built upon repeat sales. They know that they must give you your money's worth or their business will not continue to flourish. They are prepared to do it, and you will find it mighty pleasant as well as profitable to trade with them.

This is the 19th of a Series of Advertisements Sponsoring the Buy In Wellington Campaign. There are 2 more. Watch for them.

W. H. Goforth

W. H. Goforth, dealer in real estate, came to this county sixteen years ago and has been actively engaged in business since that time. For the past ten years he has been selling real estate in this and adjoining counties.

Mr. Goforth was in charge of the trades day recently put on in Wellington and is now secretary of the fair association. He has been actively engaged in municipal projects ever since he first came here and has always been a booster for Wellington and Collingsworth County.

He has lands listed all over this county as well as city lots, and knows property values well enough to give purchasers the thing they want at the right price. He has probably been influential in selling more land in this county than any other man here at this time.

For Real Estate

W. H. Goforth

He Has the Land

First and last a booster and backer of Wellington and Collingsworth County, Mr. Goforth is offering the people here an opportunity to invest in property here, but for those who also want to invest in property elsewhere Mr. Goforth has lands listed literally "from ocean to ocean."

Just at the present time Mr. Goforth is providing free trips for prospective purchasers to Parmer County, where the great Capitol Reservation Lands are being sold to farmers. These trips are given twice each week, all expenses furnished by Mr. Goforth and associates, Mr. Murray and Mr. Cawthon. While he does not advise the citizens of this county to go outside of their county to purchase land, he realizes that some of the western lands are not as high per acre as the lands here and will allow the tennant farmer a chance to own his home.

Use Soy Bean Oil Meal for Poultry

New Feed Could Well Be Fed to Greater Extent Than at Present.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the rapid expansion of soy-bean culture in the Corn Belt states farmers of that region have at their disposal a new poultry feed which could well be used to much greater extent than is being done at present, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Poultrymen in the Pacific Coast states have used soy-bean oil meal for several years and consider it a most excellent feed for growth and egg production.

Feed Value of Meal.

A number of feeding tests at various experiment stations have shown the value of soy-bean oil meal as a poultry feed. At the North Carolina station it was found that when fed in equal quantities with wheat shorts and cracked corn mixed with sweet milk soy-bean oil meal proved to be a most valuable feed and one to be recommended as a good ration for feeding to little chicks. One lot of chicks on soy-bean oil meal averaged 1.4 pounds when eight weeks old. From these tests it was concluded that the soy-bean oil meal could replace rolled oats in chick feeding.

Another series of experiments showed that soy-bean oil meal with a suitable mineral mixture is a better supplement to corn meal than meat scraps and is nearly as good as condensed buttermilk when fed to chickens for short-time intensive-feeding periods. A simple mineral mixture composed of bone ash, limestone and salt was used. To be most effective, the amount of mineral mixture to be added should be about 2 per cent of the ration.

Add Mineral Mixtures.

The addition of the mineral mixture is necessary to prevent too great a growth of fat at the expense of protein growth. Hens responded in these tests to the use of the mineral mixture in a similar manner to that of young, growing birds. The mineral mixture, it has been shown, increases the value of the soy-bean oil meal as a protein supplement for growth and egg production more than 40 per cent.

Treatment Required for Blackcap Raspberries

Practically the only different treatment required for the blackcap raspberries is in the pruning. The black cap varieties form new plants where the tips of the canes touch the ground. These canes have to be cut back so they may be supported on wires or tied to stakes. The canes should be cut back to about 30 inches or so in the spring.

After the fruit is gathered, all fruiting canes should be cut out close to the ground and burned. This is to get rid of diseases or insects that may be on them. It is always better to cultivate a raspberry patch, but a mulch assists in keeping the fruit clean. Three to six canes are sufficient for a hill. Too many raspberry patches are ruined by allowing them to produce too many canes and plants.

MR. AND MRS. SPARROW

MR. AND MRS. SPARROW lived in a comfortable nest behind a blind on a house and they had never thought about living in a tree until one day Mrs. Sparrow, who never missed seeing anything that went on with her sharp black eyes, spied Mrs. Robin on her nest in the midst of the green leafy tree.

The wind was swaying the leaves and branches gently and as Mrs. Sparrow looked she thought how nice it must be to live in such a cool place. "It is just like a cradle for their children," she told Mr. Sparrow, "and I think I will take that nest next year and live in the tree."

So when Mr. and Mrs. Robin had raised their family Mrs. Sparrow began to bustle about and talk of moving, but her husband told her she had better wait until spring.

"We are all nice and comfortable behind this blind," he said. "Why not stay here, and if you still care to live in a tree in the spring we can move then."

"Why, how you talk," said Mrs. Sparrow. "Of course, I shall want to live in a tree. It is much more genteel than living behind an old blind. Some one may close it any minute and let your nest tumble.

"I shall keep my wits about me, for if we don't watch out those robins will come flying back early and take that tree again for their home."

So early in the spring while Mr. Sparrow still shivered with the cold every time he flew from behind the blind, Mrs. Sparrow insisted that they move into the robins' nest.

"I would just like to see that pair get me out of this," she said as she nestled down into the nest, but I must say it will need quite a bit of repairing, but I shall stay right here, because if Mrs. Robin comes along she may take it instead of building a new one."

Mrs. Sparrow was right. In a few days Mr. and Mrs. Robin flew up and went straight to the tree where they had lived the summer before and there on their old nest sat Mrs. Sparrow, her black eyes snapping defiance at them.

"You fly right up there, Robin, and tell them that nest belongs to us. We built it last year," said Mrs. Robin, as she and her husband sat on a lower limb of the tree.

"No need to come up here," chirped Mrs. Sparrow. "You can't expect to have a home kept vacant for you, gallivanting all about the country as you do.

"We live in this part of the country all the year and why shouldn't we have first choice, I should like to know; so you can fly right along and find another place, for I am going to stay right here. Possession is nine points of the law, you know, and I have possession."

Just then Mrs. Robin whispered something to her husband and he replied: "You are right," and off they flew without another word to Mrs. Sparrow.

"Now I wonder what she told him," said Mrs. Sparrow, leaning out of the nest and looking around. "Something she saw that sent them off in such a hurry, I'll be bound."

Suddenly Mrs. Sparrow's eyes opened wide, for there was a big puss coming straight for the tree and looking up at it with her tail switching back and forth over her neck.

"My goodness, me!" exclaimed Mrs. Sparrow getting her wings spread for flight, "I do believe it is the cat that was a kitten last summer. I can't bring up my children in this tree. She would be certain to climb up here and—"

Mrs. Sparrow did not finish what she was saying. She flew straight away from that tree to her old home and when her husband came to take one more look at the nest he liked so well he found his wife sitting there blinking at him.

"Changed your mind?" he asked.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Sparrow. "Wise people do, why not birds? That nest needed too much repairing for one thing and the other is there is a big cat prowling around."

And that was just what Mrs. Robin whispered to her mate, that the kitten which lived in the house last year had grown to be a big cat and she would not think of risking the lives of her children by living in that tree.

His feed crop is fairly good but it is needing rain to make it good, says he will get one-half of a ton to the acre.

G. W. Jones

G. W. Jones, who lives southwest of Dozier one and one-half miles, came to this county from Montague County seventeen yars ago. Mr. Jones has a nice home. He owns 160 acres of land. They have a nicely situated place. The house is a nice well built house, set back in a pretty grove of trees. They have good farm buildings and a nice crop of both cotton and feed. We failed to meet Mr. Jones but we had a short visit with Mrs. Jones. We had known Mrs. Jones' father in Montague County years ago. He was a Mr. Neece.

After leaving the G. W. Jones home we started on the return trip to Wellington and home. We came by way and through the Coleman ranch where we saw some real good crops. The cotton was about the best in that part of the county, some spots were burned, where the land was thin and gravelly but on the better land, most all the cotton and feed was good. They were picking cotton and had already had some hauled to the gin. We crossed the river at the Coleman ford and came on home through the Salt Fork and Lillie communties.

L. E. Burten

L. E. Burten lives about five miles southeast of Wellington. Mr. Burten is a native of Alabama. He came to this county about eleven years ago from Kaufman County. Mr. Burten is farming the O'Neil place. This is a fine farm, well improved. The house is a fine old house, large and comfortable. There is a good barn and Mr. Burten has plenty feed left ten home. over from last year to run him. His crop is short but is as good as the average. We ate dinner at this place and enjoyed our visit at the Bur-

A LINE O' CHEER

By John Kendrick Bangs.

A GOODLY TASK

THE world may be all dark and glum,
But none the less I'm glad I've come,
For after all it seems to me
The greatest task of all there be
Is to spread light where gloom holds sway,
To warm a bleak and chillsome way
With little gleams of cheer, and fill
With peace some frowning coign of ill,
And if the world is black with rue
It gives us so much more to do
To dissipate the clouds of care
And raise hope's gleaming beacon there.

Use of Dependable Disinfectants Urged

Proper Sanitation Essential With Farm Stock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the disinfection of premises and buildings and in preparing dips for live stock, products of known dependability are essential for satisfactory results. This timely counsel is issued by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in connection with a recent ruling which requires cattle owners to disinfect their premises before the government will pay indemnity for animals found to be tuberculous.

For many years the bureau has conducted extensive research and thousands of field tests with dips and disinfectants. Accordingly, it is prepared to give detailed information on the subject. Live stock owners may consult the bureau's veterinary inspectators or may obtain suitable bulletins dealing with disinfection and sanitation on application to the United State Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Disinfectants differ greatly in their effectiveness against various disease organisms and parasites. Hence it is essential, first, to select one known to be suitable for the particular purpose in view and, secondly, to use it in the proper strength. When commercial preparations are used, it is usually the part of economy to select a standard product. The cost of the materials is small in most cases compared with the item of labor in doing the work, and a few cents saving by purchasing an inferior product may reduce greatly the thoroughness of the disinfection.

Sanitation is an important principle in keeping live stock and poultry healthy, and a small quantity of disinfectant kept on hand will often prevent serious losses. Prompt disinfection of barbed wire scratches and cuts is one instance of such practical aid aside from the more extensive use in the disinfection of buildings and yards.

Some Advantages Given by Winter Cover Crops

Winter cover crops give returns five ways. They will preserve the existing fertility. There is always some plant food left from the fertilizer applied in the spring and much of this will leach away unless there is a crop growing to take it up. Second, the cover crop helps to prevent the loss of soil and plant food by erosion. Third, the cover crop when turned under will fill the soil with organic matter making it easier to till and increasing its water-holding capacity. Fourth, leguminous cover crops when turned under will add more nitrogen per acre than is ever likely to be applied at one time in commercial fertilizers. A good crop of vetch or crimson clover will furnish more nitrogen than 300 pounds per acre of nitrate of soda. Fifth, cover crops will furnish an abundant yield of high grade hay which may be cut at a time when the farm is apt to be getting short of feed.

YOUR COLUMN ---J. D. Sugg

J. B. CHITWOOD, owner of the White House Market, recently remodeled the inside of his place of business and made it a much more attractive place.

This change was brought about by the discarding of a screen partition that was serving no purpose whatever. The market looks like an entirely new place from the customer's viewpoint, and it need not be said that the changes were all for the better.

Now Mr. Chitwood has always kept a clean, neat place of business, and this article is not written to disparage that place in the least. It is written to show just how easy it will be for some of the Wellington merchants to discard some of the "junk" that litters their stores. The merchant who keeps a store clean and attractive and keeps it in the public eye by regular advertising is the man who will have a profitable business.

LUTHER SULLIVAN is one of Wellington's youngest business men. Luther very capably manages the Sullivan Grocery, doing most of the buying and keeping books, in addition to many other phases of the business that he is well qualified for.

He has a pleasing personality, is capable and industrious. A customer never goes away dissatisfied if Luther can possibly help it. He attends strictly to his own businss, which is one of the reasons he can do the amount of work he does actually perform.

E. A. WELLS, prominent in business circles in Wellington for many years, declares that it is deplorable for a group of white men to associate themselves with negroes as some of the white men of this county have done.

The remark was occasioned by the sight of a group of white men discussing questions of religion with a black buck on the north east corner of the square Monday afternoon. The writer believes that Mr. Wells' disgust did not apply to the discussion or religion but rather to the common intermingling of the two races socially, which can only lead to the destruction of little respect negroes have for whites in the few remaining sections.

Of course the old blab about "equality of races" is all right in some places, but it doesn't work so well in certain states yet, and Texas is chief among them.

DISTRICT JUDGE R. L. TEMPLETON left Monday for Memphis where he will hold district court for a period of six weeks, and plans to go from that place to Clarendon for a month's session.

Judge Templeton says that his vacation is over and he is just beginning a year's work of holding court in this district. This is the second term he has held this position and is filling it very ably. The people of the district know that Judge Templeton is a lawyer of ability and that he is becoming widely known for the rapidity with which he dispatches the work and for his fairness to all concerned.

REPRESENTATIVE DEWEY YOUNG left Tuesday for Clarendon where he will enter Clarendon College for the fall term's work. This is the second term that Reprepentative Young has spent in the House of Representatives. He has been active during both of the sessions and espcially in the latter one, during which he supported Editor Lee Satterwhite in his race for Speaker of the House.

Collingsworth County is fortunate in having this young man as its representative in the state government, and the people of this district will show their appreciation by returning him for the third term if he decides to enter the race next summer. It is highly probable that he will in response to the urging of his many friends.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WE NEED MORE THINKERS

THROWN with others, the young man or young woman very soon finds that he or she is affected in various ways by their actions.

It is in this association, this daily encounter with various minds, wits and ideas that we gain experience of the effect of good and bad actions which go toward the development of good or bad character. "Right" and "wrong" acquire a somewhat different significance in each individual mind, but fundamentally the underlying principle is the same.

In a little while, through this association there is developed an intelligent being who begins to think and reason for himself or herself, who steps boldly out from the masses and approves or condemns in his or her own way.

In this manner every human in the world began the formation of character, building it up piece by piece pretty much as a mason erects a brick wall, until it becomes a formidable structure against which the storms of the years beat until the last grain of life drops down into the unfathomable sea of the beyond.

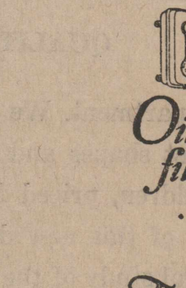

In this way the feeling of attachment to a duty, or the disregard of obligation becomes stronger and more tenacious with the passing years.

In each of us the finer moral distinctions are recognized, the real nature of right and wrong is intelligently comprehended, yet it often happens that we move on doubtfully and shape our course until the end, not so much in accordance with our acquired knowledge as in harmony with the impressions received in early life.

We become so deeply engrossed in our routine task of "making a living and getting on in the world," that in the vitally important affairs which have to do with our future, we fail to think for ourselves, and fall into the habit of following blind leaders.

This brings us to the thought that the world needs more thinkers who will ask the "reason why" and make an effort to find it out for themselves, the inspiring to greater endeavor for good the straggling, disgruntled armies of mankind still groping in the dark, complaining of their inability to find the way, or approaching anywhere near the realization of their youthful dreams.

Successful County Fair.

I didn't go to the county fair at Fredericksburg, but I liked the newspaper reports of it and want to pass something from those reports on to the many other counties that are going to have fairs this fall. The characteristic feature of the fair was the friendly feeling shown all the visitors by the people of Fredericksburg and Gillespie county. There was not only an atmosphere of good will among the home folks, but it was extended to all visitors from out of the county. They were made to feel that they were the guests of the county people and not that they were there just to be separated from as much money as possible. Somehow when one enters most fair gates he instinctively feels that he has to guard against being fleeced in a small way. People at the Fredericksburg fair felt that they were with friends that were genuinely glad to have them see what the town and county could do in the way of a fair.

Fleecing Was Not Licensed.

The Gillespie County Fair did not give outsiders a license to fleece the fair guests. There were no carnival distractions on the grounds to interfere with Gillespie county hospitality and to tempt the public to pay out money to look at things they really should not have seen. There were no catch-penny gambling devices there. It was a sure-enough, honest-to-goodness county fair conducted in the interest of the people and not, like too many fairs, a small county exhibit shown at the expense of the exhibitors as a nucleus to gather the people for the purpose of allowing carnival petty gamblers to rid them of their money.

The people who were there seemed to have a good time despite the fact that they did not have the privilege of being gouged and robbed in a small way.

* * *

Valuable Farm Lesson.

This has been an unusually dry year in Gillespie County, it being in the Texas drouth area of the year. At least one farmer over there showed how to defeat a drouth. Ben Hagel and his family displayed 250 different kinds of home-grown farm products, and said that if the season had been favorable he could have shown 350. He showed that even in the driest of dry years a farmer who works hard and exercises good farming sense in getting for what he makes can live on the luxuries of the land without having to go in debt. He has his living safely housed and is not worrying about hard times.

He would not be so comfortable, however, if he had grown only cotton, or corn, or any other single crop. A movement to Ben Hagelize Texas should be started by some philanthropist.

* * *

Teacher With a Hobby.

Alfred Neffendorf is a Fredericksburg school teacher with a hobby. It isn't golf or tennis or fishing. It is canning. He has an idea that a teacher should try to help the people to live now as well as to teach children how to live after awhile, so he started a small cannery four years ago. He operates the cannery in the summer and fall months and will can anything that Ben Hagel or any other farmer grows. He will can their products himself for a specified sum, or for part of the products, or will show the people how to do it and let them can their own produce.

He has doubled the business every year and hasn't been fired yet by the school board for doing something useful when not teaching. Neffendorf is doing something of which Fredericksburg should be proud and the town should give him a public dinner or do something to show that it appreciates him and his work.

* * *

San Saba to Profit From Drouth.

It is said that there is full compensation to be found for every adversity if only we will seek it eagerly enough. San Saba, with a great abundance of water going to waste, is suffering from drouth. The people have organized to dam the water and to irrigate the fertile valleys. If their ardor is not dampened by the next good rain, the drouth will prove a great blessing to them. The productiveness of the soil of San Saba county is marvelous when plenty of water is provided, but as in most other parts of Texas, the rains are seldom seasonable even though plenty may fall during a year.

Almost every stream in Texas has numerous places where its waters may be impounded without extraordinary cost in comparison with the returns, and we know that we cannot depend on rains to make maximum crops even in the most favorable years, but most places are too short-sighted to vote bonds for irrigation.

* * *

Following the Lead of Others.

If San Saba's irrigation project is carried through to completion, it will not be a year before neighboring counties will follow its example. Most people are ready enough to follow the lead of others, but few are progressive enough to initiate movements or to favor them where they have no personal knowledge of their operation. This is true as to all kinds of improvements, and applies everywhere. Having seen the great irrigation construction at Wichita Falls, people of Amarillo and surrounding country are now holding meetings to plan even a greater irrigation movement.

THE REAL ASSETS

When a man has established himself as a consistent bank depositor, with a reputation for wise borrowing and business-like methods, he has also established a foundation for credit, and his banker's interest in his affairs.

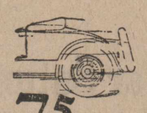

Character and Reputation are the real assets that go to make up the credit standing of our depositors.

PURE-BRED STOCK FOR EVERY FARM

Pure-bred live stock on every farm will some day be the rule in the United States. It will come through the use of registered sires; then the addition of registered females, and finally by the weeding out of "pedigreed scrubs."

The pedigree is an index of quality, for "like begets like or the likeness of an ancestor." But pedigree is not absolute proof of exceptional quality—not in the United States, it isn't, says Farm and Breeder. It can be made so in time, and breeders are urged to bring that day to pass by culling every animal whose individual characters and the chances of passing them on to its offspring do not match up with its royal lineage.

In the past there has been great reliance on the herd book. Animals have been sold for reproductive purposes because they carried the blood of popular sires and dams. Many of them should have been sent to the block. It is bad enough that less than 10 per cent of the live stock in the United States is pure bred; it is worse for the breeding industry that short-sighted men see only the dime in front of their nose and not the dollar a few years off.

In Europe the culling of animals for breeding purposes is much more rigorous than in our own land. Over there pedigrees carry a guarantee of individual excellence, because it has been the custom among breeders to register only outstanding animals. That's what we will come to in America. A pedigree should stand not only for the presumption of inherited characters and prepotence; it should also represent high quality in the individual. Some day "pure-bred live stock on every farm" will indicate high-class farming in fact as well as in theory.

Live Stock Notes

Don't feed moldy, or spoiled silage.

* * *

* * *

Don't forget to salt all animals regularly.

* * *

* * *

Keep the brood sows on the farm—hogs are going to be high the coming year.

* * *

* * *

Protect cattle, horses, and mules from the torment of the biting fly and the horn fly by using fly repellants.

* * *

About 62 per cent of pure-bred live stock is marketed directly for meat purposes.

* * *

Low ceilings for hoghouses save heat and lumber. But don't overlook the necessity of ventilation—and sunshine.

* * *

Two litters of not less than seven pigs each, raised to maturity each year, more than double average profits from hogs.

* * *

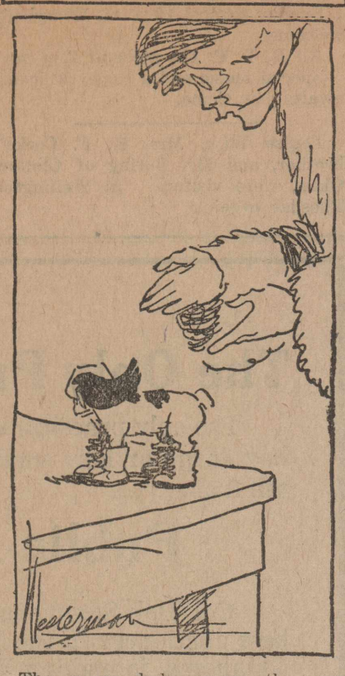

The ewe with twin lambs should produce much more milk and consequently needs more feed than is best for the ewe that is feeding only one lamb.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

ANNIE

THIS quaint but charming and undeniably popular name has no etymological right to existence. Though it signifies grace and is of course closely related to Anne and Anna, it has no scientific excuse for being. It seems rather to be the natural endearment rising out of the chill dignity of Anne.

It is barely possible that Annie may have come to us by a more direct route than colloquialism. A favorite name in early Gaelic times was Anni, signifying joy. The pronunciation of this name is very similar to Annie. In England, however, there has arisen a fashion of christening Annie, probably from some confusion as to the spelling of Ann or Anne.

With the exception of Anna, the quaint name of Annie is the most popular of all forms in this country. Anne is piquant and Anna slightly forbidding, but Annie appeals to the popular taste and Yankee love of endearment.

Amber is Annie's talismanic stone. It will bring her health and guard her from disease. Tuesday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR LETTERS

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Collingsworth County—GREETINGS:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMONDED To cause the following notice to be published in a newpaper of general circulation which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year preceeding the date of the notice in the County of Cllingsworth, State of Texas, and you shall cause said notice to be printed at least once each week for the period of ten days exclusive of the first day of publication before the return day hereof:

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR LETTERS—ESTATES OF DECEDENTS. THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To all persons interested in the estate of Roy L. Noles, Deceased, Dr. W. R. Orr has filed in the County Court of Collingsworth County, an application for Letters of Administration upon the Estate of said Roy L. Noles, Deceased, which will be heard at the next term of said Court, commencing on the first Monday in October A. D. 1925, the same being the 5th day of October, A. D. 1925, at the Court House thereof, in Wellington, at which time all persons interested in said Estate may appear and contest said application, should they desire to do so.

Herein Fail Not, but have you before said Court on the said day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Wellington this 29 day of August A. D. 1925.

ACHING LIMBS

And Many Other Common Ills Relieved by Black-Draught.

Mrs. John Skaggs, residing near Lanes Prairie, Mo., on the Ozark Trail, says: "I have taken Black-Draught for a number of years, about fifteen, and it is about the only purgative medicine I ever take. It is the only kind that I've found that doesn't hurt me.

"I take Black-Draught for indigestion, for colds and headaches. I take it for aching in my limbs and shoulders. It helps this trouble. I take it for sour stomach.

"We think Black-Draught is splendid and never are without it in the house.

"I suffered with gas on my stomach that affected my breathing, and Black-Draught helped this trouble.

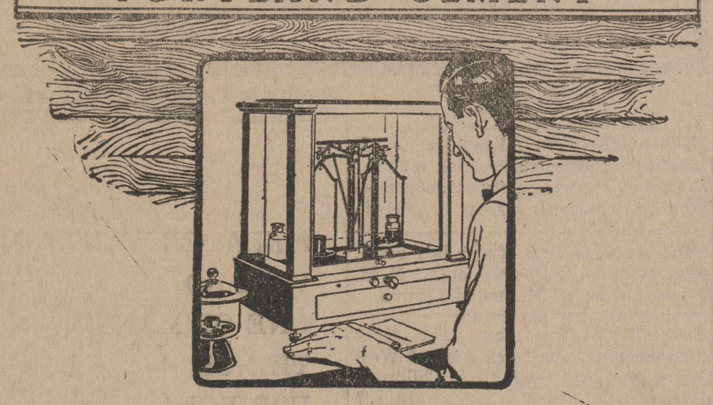

"For such common complaints, I think Black-Draught is the best medicine a person can use."

For millions of others, Black-Draught is their favorite liver and stomach medicine.

Sign Your Name—
Let the Chemist Weigh it

Hand the chemist a small piece of paper. Let him weigh it. Then write your name and let him weigh it again. He can tell you the weight of your signature within one ten-thousandth of a gram. (28.3 grams equal an ounce.)

It is by such precise tests that the chemists of the Texas Portland Cement Company determine the exact proportions of the raw materials used in the manufacture of LONE STAR Cement.

This exacting supervision is maintained at every step in the process—in the wet-blending—in checking and rechecking—in the burning and final grinding.

Guess-work is eliminated. In fact, the chemist and superintendent know the exact condition of the material step by step during the entire nine-hour process. They can always come within one-tenth of one per cent of the quality at which they aim.

Yet LONE STAR Cement costs no more.

It has our unqualified endorsement.

You Never Know
Until You Try

I came across a bread recipe the othre day, and I decided that I would try baking some bread. I never had baked bread since I was married.

I ordered a sack of Wellington Made flour and followed the recipe carefully and you should have seen my bread. The family thought it was wonderful, and I was surprised at how little work it required.

It is a real household economy, too, as my folks nearlymake their meal of this fine bread.

I find that Wellington Made flour makes wonderful shortcake too. Try it, friends, you'll like it, I know.

"Thief of Bagdad" Shows Fairbanks In Best Picture

Play Taken From Leading Story of the Famous Arabian Nights

"The Thief of Bagdad", showing at the Rialto Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday is reported by the movie critics to be the best picture that Fairbanks has ever made. The picture is based on one of the most famous stories of the Arabian Nights. It shows the lazy thief, with the soul of a poet and the form of an American athlete, and tells of the events that caused him to change from the cleverest and most daring thief of Bagdad to its most daring adventurer and warrior and then to its most important personage.

There was a beautiful princess and the thief of Bagdad fell in love with her and the way he tricked the patriarch, her powerful father, will delight your soul, but after he had won her under false pretenses and after she was ready to go with him, something began to trouble him, and the results of that something makes the story important.

To win his lady fairy, the thief of Bagdad conquered dragons, went through fire, suffered no end of hardships, and one day he came back riding on---well go to see the picture and enjoy one of the most wonderful plays ever offered in Wellington.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Absolutely No Hurry About It

The other day somebody told me a story of a man under sentence of death to whom the jailer came with the word that he might follow any congenial occupation he pleased during the time which would elapse before the fatal date. The prisoner had only to nominate his choice and the facilities for prosecuting it would be provided. Indeed, there was rather a suggestion that if the condemned man had not completed the favored undertaking by that day, there might be a delay in the execution of the law to give him an opportunity to finish it.

The situation having been made clear, the messenger awaited the captive's decision.

"Well, old man," he said finally, "what is it you want to do?"

"I think," said the prisoner, "I'd like to learn Chinese."

The hearing of this story reminds me of another—a blood brother to it—which was current in Tennessee years ago.

One chilly evening in the early part of March the sheriff entered the county jail and, addressing the colored person who occupied the strongest cell, said:

"Gabe, you know that under the law my duty requires me to take you out of here tomorrow and hang you. So I've come to tell you that I want to make your final hours on earth as easy as possible. For your last breakfast you can have anything to eat that you want and as much of it as you want. What do you think you'd like to have?"

The condemned man studied for a minute.

"Mr. Lukins," he said, "I b'lieves I'd lak to have a nice wortermelon."

"But watermelons won't be ripe for four or five months yet," said the sheriff.

"Well, suh," said Gabe, "I kin wait."

MICKIE SAYS—

BUCK CREEK

Health in this community is very good.

The farmers are anxiously waiting for their cotton to open enough to begin to pick and they think they will have more to pick than they thought for awhile back.

Sunday school was well attended Sunday.

Rev. R. L. Porter preached as Rev. Barber was away.

There was also a good crowd at B. Y. P. U. and singing Sunday afternoon.

E. L. Collins who taught a ten day singing school at Buck Creek last September, is in our community again and this writer hopes he will teach another school soon. His school both at Buck Creek and Dodsonville were successes.

No Sunday school is successful without good singing. Prof. Seedman is with Mr. Collins and we enjoyed hearing them do some good singing at the B. Y. P. U. Sunday afternoon.

Roy Cunningham and family spent Sunday with R. L. Porter's family.

Misses Alma Hartman, Agnes Gentry, Ora D. Vaughn, Minette Porter, Una Atkinson and Aubrey Jones spent Sunday with Jewell and Elmer Howard. They report a good time.

E. L. Collins and Prof. Seedman took dinner at R. L. Porter's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones took dinner with the Barber family Sunday.

J. N. Horward and family have returned home from a trip to Claremore Oklahoma, also Sulphur and Durant, and Bonham and Ladonia, Texas.

Mr. Howard said there were some very good crops in places in Oklahoma, few in Fannin County. Some practically burned up. But says he never saw any on his tour as good as the crops in Collingsworth County. He has been here two years from Fannin County and says he has no desire to go back.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

HEARTSEASE

A COMMON kind of smartweed—the polygonum persicaria of the botanists—is, in many parts of the United States, called heartsease because of the heartlike marking on its leaves and is supposed to be a cure for diseases of the heart. Also there are a considerable number of plants in this country of different species which are known popularly as rattlesnake masters and supposed to be a cure for the bite of venomous snakes. Very many of these latter plants have some peculiarity about their roots or foliage or stems which suggests a snake.

The belief in the medical efficacy of the heartsease and the rattlesnake masters is simply a continuance of the ancient superstition of the "doctrine of signatures," which was in turn evolved from the sympathetic magic idea of primitive man—sympathetic magic of the homeopathic variety. The medical superstition of the doctrine of signatures was highly regarded by the ancients and continued unchallenged down to nearly the beginning of the Eighteenth century; though Pliny, the great Roman naturalist, does, in one place, speak of the folly of the use of catanache in love philters "because of its shrinking in drying into the shape of the claws of a kite and thus holding the patient fast."

But from Pliny to Ray, an interval of over 1,600 years—and long before Pliny—medical science gravely accepted the "doctrine of signatures." In 1694 Dr. John Ray ventured mildly to question the doctrine and though he was looked upon as a dangerous innovator the ancient superstition rapidly lost ground until it was relegated to the folk-medicine department of current superstitions. The famous "doctrine" was, in effect, that plants indicated by their shape, markings, etc., the particular disease for the cure of which nature had intended them.
