Plan Improved Water Service To Cove Harbor

The Board of Navigation and Canal Commissioners met in regular session at the District's office Dec. 4 with Chairman Matthew W. Scott presiding. Present were Commissioners Ted R. Little and Richard J. Fox; Attorney Ellis L. Clark; Harbormaster B. C. DeForest and one visitor, Mayor Delmar Hiller.

Mayor Hiller came before the board to outline plans of City Council to improve water service to Cove Harbor area. They propose to erect a 100,000 gallon storage tank at the city's expense, and request that the District furnish a site approximately 50' by 60'. The Board expressed no objection to the proposal and a definite site will be decided upon later.

Minutes of the Nov. 6 regular meeting and Nov. 13 special meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was reviewed and placed on file. Commissioner Little moved that a sum of $905.50 be transferred from 1158 Construction Fund to rent account, Commissioner Fox seconded and the vote carried. Bills payable from rent account were approved and checks signed. Vouchers were signed for bills payable from maintenance fund.

Attorney Clark invited members of the board to attend a bi-annual meeting of Navigation District attorneys, to be held at Holiday Inn in Victoria Friday, Jan. 10.

Cecil Lang, Kay Ragot, Shirley Sprigg and Jan Wendell. In addition the concert will include numbers by women's ensemble and men's chorus.

ORAL SURGERY, NOT DENTAL

The surgery on Mrs. E. F. Godde which was the basis of a law suit was oral surgery, not dental surgery as reported in the Pilot last week.

The city reports that one water connection and two sewer connections were made in November.

It's D for Ducks and the day is Dec. 14.

That's Saturday, in case you haven't been calendar watching recently.

Everything is set for this year's duck season to be one of the best along the Texas coast. Only a curtailed limit of redheads is a hinder. There are plenty of ducks in nearly every sector.

Texas hunters this year are limited to just 30 days, from Dec. 14 through Dec. 12, and may kill only one redhead or canvasback in the daily bag limit of four.

Because this area hosts a large share of the redhead population, this is not a proper regulation, to say the least.

Actually here's the way the bag limits work:

Daily: Four in the aggregate, of which only one may be a redhead or canvasback; only two may be wood ducks; only two may be mallards. No limit on other species except for the overall limit of four.

Possession: Eight, to include no more than four wood ducks, ONE redhead or canvasback, four mallards.

Hunters may shoot from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset daily and those 16 years of age and older must have a federal waterfowl stamp costing $3.

The director of the Chancel Choir is Bob Massey and the accompanist is Mrs. E. G. Cooke. The director of the Carol and Youth Choirs is Mrs. W. J. Sprigg and Mrs. Jack Pohlman is the accompanist. Jack Pohlman will be the organist for the evening and Jim Campbell and Kim Campbell will be the instrumentalists for the Carol and Youth Choirs.

Everyone is invited to attend this Christmas service in Candlelight and Song and then to remain for the program in the Fellowship Hall where Methodist Children's Homes will be honored. Christmas Carols will be sung and refreshments will be served.

Caravan to View X'mas Decorations

Winter visitors are urged to join local residents in forming a caravan to view the Christmas decorations in the area next Tuesday night, Dec. 17.

Many lovely outside decorations are already up, including the tree lights erected by the Chamber of Commerce on the Rockport beach.

All residents, civic groups and businesses are urged to complete their decorating by this weekend and be sure to have them lighted next Tuesday evening for the caravan and the judges in the decorating contest.

A treat is in store for all who will join in this activity, scheduled as follows:

At 6:30 p.m. cars will meet at the tree of lights on the Rockport Beach. Led by Chief of Police Bob Hewes, the caravan will then follow a planned route through the various residential subdivisions and downtown Rockport and Fulton.

It is expected the tour will require about two hours and will conclude at the Paws and Taws Square Dance building on the Fulton Beach Road for a community sing to begin at 9 p.m. Tom Allen, High School choral director, will lead the community sing.

Full-Time Juvenile Officer?

Elsewhere on this page is a story about the concern that local people have regarding a small segment of Rockport area youths who have been "experimenting" with alcohol, narcotics and drugs.

The story relates that a meeting of interested people was held Monday at the courthouse to plan a course of action to reduce, and if possible, eliminate these dangerous practices.

One suggestion made at this meeting was that Aransas County officials consider the possibility of employing a trained, full-time juvenile officer who would devote all of his time to investigating and counseling in connection with juvenile cases.

The Pilot endorses this suggestion and urges county officials to give serious consideration to making it a reality as soon as possible.

A full-time person well trained in juvenile matters could accomplish a lot by counseling with young people, parents, school teachers and officials, the clergy, Scout officials and other youth group leaders.

He could investigate every case of law violation and truancy and immediately confer not only with the youths in trouble but with their parents.

He probably could help decrease the growing rate of youths in trouble.

Amendment To Cost County $6,000

Aransas County will lose approximately $6,000 in potential revenue from the state next year because of a provision of a constitutional amendment passed in last November's general election.

One provision of the amendment is that the state will pay no more than 2 per cent of state taxes collected for the collection and assessment of state ad valorem taxes.

The state has been paying the county 5 per cent on the first $20,000 of state taxes collected, with the percentage figure reduced on larger collections. The reduction will amount to about $6,000, based on current assessments, said Robert D. Mosier, Jr., county auditor.

The amendment, listed as No. 7 on the ballot, abolishes a 2 per cent levy on each $100 property valuation, which was used for state buildings, and phases out the 35-cent levy used for schools by 1975.

A 10-cent levy used for college buildings eventually will be all that remains of the former 47-cents per $100 valuation state ad valorem tax. The amendment passed statewide by almost 2 to 1.

City Orders New Radio For Water Dept. Car

The City Council this week voted to buy a two-way 50-watt General Electric radio for the water department car for $630 installed. The other bidder, Motorola, wanted $703 for a two-way 40-watt unit installed. The city will transfer an old radio from the car to a pickup truck.

In other actions, the Council:

—Decided to order street signs for 55 intersections at a cost of $519, not counting the cost of the posts. The new signs will be put up on major thoroughfares and at other intersections.

—Since J. C. Gurley, assistant Public works commissioner, has been unable to take a vacation due to his temporary increased duties, the Council voted to give him two week's pay plus regular pay.

—Voted to get bids on installation of two powerful lights to cast their beam on the sign, "Rockport Pirates," on the water tower. Cost of the lights and fixtures is estimated at about $575, not counting installation.

—Voted to provide hospitalization insurance for the new chief of police, Everett Taylor, starting Jan. 1 instead of waiting the usual three months.

—Approved a request for a street light at Gagon and North Streets.

Charles Hammond Smith is the new president of the Rockport Fire Department.

At the Dec. 5 meeting called to order by outgoing president Dick Fox, 25 members answered the roll call.

John Ray, Jr., maintenance chairman, reported that three of four trucks had been painted and the fourth (a pumper) was awaiting good weather. He said No. 7, the old brush wagon, had a new brake system.

It was voted to buy a new heavy duty battery charger to replace the old one which was stolen. Also, it was announced that a new blackboard will be installed in front of the station to inform foremen where a fire is if they arrive at the station after the fire engines have departed for the fire.

The fire department wishes to thank Mrs. Evelyn Townsend, Mrs. Charles Cleveland, W. M. Savoy and R. L. Eckman for their donations.

Monthly Reports

The Commissioners Court this week approved the following monthly fee reports for November: Constable I. E. "Buddy" McLester, $12; Justice of the Peace J. Paul Rogers, $108; Justice of the Peace Lawrence Miller, $80; County Clerk W. E. Beasley, $1,462.30; and Sheriff Joe Earl Hunt, $57.50.

District Judge John Miller of Sinton with the request that the grand jury be called back into session as soon as possible. Clark phoned Miller who directed that the grand jury be reconvened Monday, Dec. 16 at 9 a.m.

The meeting was opened by County Judge John D. Wendell who explained that he had summoned the community leaders to "take immediate action" in connection with the situation. He pointed out that city and county authorities had made arrests in breaking up a number of parties since the latter part of November at which youths from 13 to 18 were drinking beer and taking "pills."

Following the judge's opening remarks, John P. Mitchell, Jr., read the following statement:

"All of you present are aware of the growing problem of the excessive use of alcoholic beverages and in some instances the use of narcotics and drugs by an increasing number of young people in our country, and more recently in our community.

"The frequently severe and sometimes irreparable damage caused by these usages on the lives of both these young people and the communities in which they live makes it our responsibility to immediately take the necessary steps to reduce, and to whatever extent possible to eliminate this problem.

"Last week the grand jury in Calhoun County, after an investigation of a similar situation in their county, called a meeting of parents (500 were present) so that experts in this field could make them familiar with the possible and probable effects on the lives of their children that these activities of abuse could produce. Simultaneously, the same information was given to the students.

"Three sources of information, education and discipline are directly available to these young people:

1. The parents.
2. The school system.
3. Law enforcement officials.

"A fourth source of information and education is available through the churches of our communities.

"Recommendations for immediate steps to be taken in Aransas County are:

1. That the grand jury make an immediate investigation of these conditions in Aransas County, and quickly make its recommendations known, and take necessary steps to implement the recommendations.
2. That those persons here present, and those who are not, give to our district judges and attorneys, and our county judge and attorney, and our sheriff and his deputies, and our chief of police and his

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

You Never Escape Felony Conviction

Breaking the law, any law, is a serious proposition, but if the offense falls into the "felony" class the results can be a lifetime of regret and "second-rate citizenship" for the offender.

We hope that no youngster of this area will ever have to hear similar blunt words spoken recently by an Iowa judge who was dealing with a friend's 16-year-old son who had been convicted of a felony. The judge "told it like it is" with these words:

"Because you have no previous conviction, I am permitted to give you parole. But if you never see inside of a penitentiary, you will not have escaped the penalties of your crime."

"The record of your conviction will be here as long as the courthouse stands. No amount of good conduct in the future can erase it. If you are ever called for a witness in any court some lawyer will point his finger at you and ask: 'Have you ever been convicted of a felony?' And the question will be asked for the purpose of casting doubt on your testimony. Convicted felons are not believed as readily as other persons."

"It may be that some day you will apply for a passport. You will not get it. No country will allow you to become a resident."

"Your world, is oh, so much smaller than it was. 'Some day you may seek a position in the Civil Service. You will find the question: Have you ever been convicted of a felony? Your answer will bar you from examination."

"You may want to take a position of trust, where a surety bond will appear this question: Have you ever been convicted of a felony?"

"In a few years you will be 21 and others your age will have the right to vote, but you will not. You will be a citizen of your state and country, but you will have no voice in public affairs."

"Your country is calling men to the colors. But the Army will never accept you, nor will the Navy. You may serve your country in a labor battalion perhaps, but never behind guns. Yours may be the drudgery of war, but never the honor that comes to a soldier."

"I am granting you a parole. A parole is in no sense a pardon. You will report to the men who have accepted your parole as often as they may ask. Your convenience is not a matter of importance. You will answer fully and truthfully any question they may ask. Should they suggest that you refrain from going to certain places, you will follow their suggestions and without grumbling."

"Should the slightest complaint of your conduct reach this court, your parole will be revoked immediately, you will not be brought back here for questioning or explanations. You will be picked up and taken to prison without notice to you and without delay."

Drownings in Texas Now Stand at 468

Austin—The 468 drowning deaths in Texas have already exceeded last year's accidents by 151 deaths, and more are sure to come.

Robert G. Mauermann, deputy director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, says drowning reports have tapered off since the opening of school in September. "But if this year is like last year, the duck season will mean tragedy for more Texans," he said.

According to Mauermann, some recent drownings due to boating accidents point out the victim's failure to obey one of the basic principles of boating—stay with the boat. "This rule is very important to duck hunters who have a boating accident since they will be heavily clothed and very probably unable to swim to save themselves," said Mauermann.

"When a boat capsizes, there is usually still enough

bouyancy to keep it afloat," says Mauermann. "Once a person leaves this relatively safe bouyancy of the boat, he is subject to exhaustion, cramps and underwater hazards such as trolines and brushy snags." "Distances are hard to judge when you are on the water," says Mauermann. "The shore or another boat is probably farther than you might think, and when you get halfway there, it's too late to turn back because you think you can't make it."

According to Mauermann, compliance with the Water Safety Act in having one Coast Guard approved life saving device on board for each person in the boat is imperative. It is important that this device be worn by everyone in the boat. "A life preserver does absolutely no good crammed under the bow of the boat. And it is unlikely that someone wearing heavy clothing could even swim to his boat and put one on in case of an accident," Mauermann said.

Art Guild Gatherings

By JAN WENDELL

Upon looking at Art Guild Gatherings of the past, I find that there has been no one but women artists and women's paintings mentioned and this has not been an intentional oversight to our men members. It has just happened that all the Artists of the Month so far have been women. So today, the subject will be about some of our men artists, and there is a goodly number of them in the Guild.

Bob Gray, in particular, is one of the most productive painters. In the Gallery now are two of his most recent works—both of sand dunes at Padre. The first, a large rendition of dunes on a stormy day, shows a simple statement of cool but threatening clouds covering the sea wheat flying in the breeze. The realistic approach is appreciated by even the most inexperienced viewer.

The second, dunes on an ordinary day, is almost in direct opposition to the first. The sky is dark, but the sun's rays peek through the clouds giving warmth to stark reality.

Another of the painter's works on display now is a Hill Country landscape in which the trees have donned their fall plumage. The warmth of the ochres, siennas, and umbers the artist has chosen captures a quiet mood. The painting is strengthened by the little dirt road leading to only the artist knows where, but giving the viewer a feeling of having strolled down it before.

Most of Mr. Gray's recent work, in its realism and application, is reminiscent of Jack Sanders, well known amateur artist now residing in New Orleans, who always swept the field in blue ribbons in the first few judged shows held by the Guild.

Another artist, Cy Johnson, carries pastel sketches a little further than the usual ink and pen renditions, making each a completed painting. On display now are two companion studies of the same subject in different perspective.

An old hull of a skiff has been beached by time and tide and the driftwood and shells glisten in the sun. The painter captures the wetness of an active tide. In all of Cy's work there is an air of authenticity—perhaps because most of his subject matter is taken from life at the various travel spots. Especially do most of his paintings depict the West Coast, one of his favorite haunts.

At one time Ringling Brothers-Barnum Bailey Circus was so big it employed 1,600 people and traveled on 100 double-length railroad cars.

Fulton Fire Auxiliary Meets

The Fulton Fire Auxiliary met Monday night at the fire hall. Roll was called, minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Treasurer's report was given.

The Christmas party was planned for the next meeting night, Dec. 16. Also a box of food will be given to a needy family.

During game night Dec. 17, a turkey will be given away. Members present were Mrs. Johnny Burke, Mrs. Harold Oakman, Mrs. Leslie Cole, Mrs. Birdie Cole, Mrs. Frances McCullough, Mrs. Leroy Loflin, Mrs. Royce Harrell, Mrs. Forest Jones and Mrs. Elbert Wundine.

Wesleyan Service Guild Meets

The Wesleyan Service Guild met Dec. 10 in the First United Methodist Fellowship hall for the Christmas program.

The hall was beautifully decorated with a lighted Christmas tree and the serving table was decorated with a miniature silver Christmas tree on a colorful centerpiece.

The president, Mrs. B. W. Hamblin, called the meeting to order. For the meditation Mrs. Hamblin used the word Decision, reading the Scripture from parts of Psalms, St. Matthew and Philipians, closing with a prayer.

Mrs. Tom Jessee read the Christmas Story from St. Matthew and a Christmas reading, closing the program with Christmas carols on records.

A special offering of a dollar per member will be sent to the United Methodist Children's Home at Waco.

The meeting closed with the Guild benediction. Mrs. Minta Lancaster was hostess. Those present were Mrs. E. G. Cooke, Mrs. C. L. Harris, Mrs. B. W. Hamblin, Mrs. Jack Horton, Mrs. Fay Horton, Mrs. R. E. Hawes, Mrs. Tom Jessee, Mrs. Minta Lancaster, Miss Elsie Hawes and Mrs. J. D. Donaldson.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Duck hunting in Texas as a favorite sport of the outdoorsmen has been in the process of evolution during the past few years.

It wasn't too long ago when the waterfowl hunter headed to a nearby lake or river or to the Gulf of Mexico for his pleasure. But times have changed.

Several factors have contributed to this change. One is an ever-expanding complex of farm ponds and stock tanks. Ten years ago water supply was dictated by available rivers and lakes. But not anymore. More and more tanks are popping up on the landscape every day, offering spots for ducks to alight and feed. True, there are fewer ducks today (you couldn't tell it by an inseason visit to Altair) but also they are spread thinner over more waters.

This decrease in duck population also has contributed to the change in duck hunting. At one time the daily limit dwindled to two. This made an elaborate trip not worthwhile. There just wasn't much incentive to get up before dawn, head for a duck blind which had required hours to construct, sit patiently in the dismal cold and wait for ducks to hit the scene. One flock could come winging in and—kaploie—you limit was filled. All that preparation for one flurry of action?

At the same time there was a drastic reduction in the number of canvasbacks and redheads, the most predominant species on the Texas coast. A coastal trip just wasn't worth it, not when you couldn't shoot cans or redheads anyway. Emphasis was off the diver ducks, like cans and redheads, and was put on puddler ducks, species like mallard, teal and gadwall.

Yes, duck hunting has changed. But that doesn't mean it isn't sporty anymore. There's a new kind of duck hunting available today that you can enjoy at a fraction of the cost and with little preparation . . . yet you can still kill just as many ducks.

This "plain-vanilla" duck hunting is done on stock tanks. Basically, there are two ways you can go about it. One is conventional duck hunting with decoys. The other is stalking ducks and jump-shooting them. Both have their merits.

The former is for the hunter who enjoys seeing a flock of ducks coming in to a stool of limitations, watching them circle warily and then finally lock their wings and drop in unsuspectingly.

Since puddler ducks, like mallards, teal and gadwalls, habitually travel and feed in small bunches, you won't need many decoys. A dozen is more than sufficient.

Just place your decoys about five yards out from shore and space them widely. A tight-knit bunch of decoys indicates to wary ducks overhead that it is an uneasy, unsettled gathering.

Ducks, when they first alight, tend to remain tightly bunched, until they've had time to look things over. Later they'll disperse to feed. Present an overall picture of serenity, one of the ducks feeding. This will bring others unsuspectingly into the ambush.

Just remember to put out fresh decoys each trip. Don't make the mistake of leaving them in the water indefinitely. When ducks visit a pond in the afternoon, they will detect that their "brethren" are fakes and they'll have little appeal later.

Put the decoys out early, around daybreak, before the first contingent arrives (legal shooting time is sunrise). No call is necessary. When ducks and see the decoys, they're going to come on in. That is, if you're hidden effectively and if they see nothing that makes them suspicious.

Stalk shooting can be accomplished throughout the day. A windy day is best, one when ducks have been driven off the more open waters and onto the protected tanks.

Park your vehicle far enough away so you won't alarm the ducks. Then walk quietly to the pond. Best have at least two or three hunters in the party since one fast salvo of shooting is usually all you can expect.

An earthen levee affords a spot where you can creep close without revealing your presence.

When all hunters get ready jump up and start bombarding. Needless to say, the ducks kick off the water and speed away toward a quieter place quickly and with amazing suddenness. Seldom will they return immediately.

There will be just enough time as they lift frantically off the water to get in two or three licks with your favorite scattergun . . . if you hurry.

This kind of duck hunting may lack the glamour of old methods. But it's just effective. And in this day and time, the outdoorsman must learn to make do with what he's got. Try duck hunting once and you'll admit it's fun.

South Texas C of C Told to Match Worker, Job

Matching workers to jobs and developing industry suitable to South Texas was the approach called for in a special industrial report presented recently at the South Texas Chamber of Commerce's 42nd annual conference in Victoria.

The report, presented by Homer C. Innis of Corpus Christi, called attention to the need for a new emphasis to be placed on industrial development and its accompanying social problems.

The year-long study was broad in scope, encompassing the existing resources of the region, its liabilities and potential for the future. As expected, manpower resources were borne out by the study to be the most valuable industrial asset in South Texas. Consequently many of the committee's recommendations pertain mainly to development of human resources.

In an over-simplification, the study may be said to consist of recommendations for communities, emphasizing the need to match existing workers to industrial needs and to develop industry that can use existing trainable workers. More work is also planned in the area of educating those presently unable to gain employment because of a training deficiency.

A permanent industrial committee is being appointed by the newly elected president, William H. Keys, to see that the recommendations made by the special study committee are put into effect in the chamber's program of work, making more direct involvement a major part of the program.

The theme of the conference, "Prosperity . . . Opportunity for all South Texans," was evident in the other presentations made to the assembly of area businessmen.

A panel moderated by Tom Perkins of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce discussed the ways that progress has been made in that city to provide jobs for the hard-core unemployed. It was emphasized that such progress is not by any means confined to San Antonio.

D. Hull Youngblood, Metro chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen in San Antonio, emphasized in his presentation the need for businessmen to work together and develop training programs that will result in bringing productive workers and out of the ranks of the unemployed in their communities eliminating the need for sponsored training programs.

George Wood, director of community services at AVCO Broadcasting Corporation in San Antonio, discussed specific examples of the experience of firms in developing their own training programs. He illustrated how previously unemployed workers have become tax-paying citizens rather than recipients of relief payments, when given the proper motivation and training.

Alfred V. Rodriguez, administrator of the model cities program in San Antonio, told of the need to provide related or supportive services in the fields of education, health and medical, housing and other related areas. In his discussion, Rodriguez called for employers to carefully evaluate the educational level needs of their employees—not all jobs require a high school diploma as a training background. He also recommended a greater use of the planning services of the Texas Employment Commission in working with employers.

The annual luncheon speaker, Harry Cowan, United States Chamber district manager and consultant, keyed his address around the responsibility of chambers of commerce in dealing with unemployment and its resulting socio-economic problems. According to Cowan, the financial burden ultimately rests on the shoulders of the business community, whether the solutions are to be found in governmental action or in local community action.

This is really a new concept in defining the functions of a chamber of commerce, placing the burden of correcting the situation in the hands of the primary local organization with a cross-section of businessmen.

Keys, attorney and civic leader from Corpus Christi, was elected president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce Nov. 10. A senior partner with the Keys, Russell, Watson & Seaman law firm he has been a vice president of the South Texas chamber since 1964.

He replaced Dolph Briscoe, Jr., who has served as president for the past two years. Briscoe will now become a member of the chamber's executive committee, the group responsible for carrying out the policy set by the board of directors.

John Cypher was elected to fill the vice-president's post vacated by Keys. Cypher is the public relations director for the King Ranch, with headquarters in Kingsville. He had served on the executive committee for several years before becoming vice president.

Two other men were elected to fill vacated positions on the executive committee. William Hollis Fitch, a past-president of the South Texas chamber, and Ray M. Keck, previously a member of the board of directors, were elected to fill the positions left by John Cypher and J. W. Kraemer of Laredo, who is retiring from the committee.

In other elections John S. Bell, division production manager for Humble Oil and Refining Co. in Houston; W. W. McAllister, Jr., president of San Antonio Savings Association; and Herbert C. Petry, Jr., were re-elected to their positions as vice presidents of the regional chamber.

Hilmer A. Fahrenthold, senior vice president of the Bexar National Bank, was re-elected to the post of treasurer, and Pledger B. Cate, Jr. of San Antonio was re-elected executive vice president.

Other than the two new members mentioned earlier the makeup of the executive committee remained unchanged. E. S. Joslin, president and chief executive officer of Central Power & Light Co.; J. O. Schuyler, division manager for United Gas Distributing Co.; Tom Dedding of the Taft Implement Co.; Homer C. Innis, vice president of the Lockwood, Andrews and Newman engineering firm in Corpus Christi; Bill Klotz, also a vice president of Lockwood, Andrews and Newman, in Victoria; George T. Jambers, a rancher from Whittsett; and H. Will Cain, vice president of Trunkline Gas Co. in Houston, retained the positions on the South Texas chamber's executive committee.

In other activities, the various committees of the chamber met to discuss their program of work for the coming year, and the wildlife conservation and tourist committees presented reports to the membership.

Presbyterian Circle Holds Meeting

Circle No. 4 of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Walter Hatley on Dec. 5, with nine members and one guest, Mrs. Walter Veters, present. After delicious refreshments were served the meeting was opened by the members reciting the circle prayer.

Correspondence was read. The treasurer reported that collection for the budget for November was $12.75 and for the circle fund was $3.39. Members reported 30 visits and 31 cards for the past month.

Mrs. Ted Atwood announced that the circle was responsible for nine gifts to be given to members of Bayview Nursing Home at their party on Dec. 19.

The emphasis for December, given by Mrs. P. M. Winkler, concerned the Joy Gift is, appropriately, a part of the Advent Season.

Mrs. Traylor was moderator of the interesting lesson, "Jesus' Ministry in Galilee."

As an added bonus for our meeting, Mrs. Ed Godde played several Christmas songs on the accordion. Members joined in the singing of "Silent Night" and the recitation of the Mizpah benediction.

Gregory-Portland Wins Tournament

assistants, our unqualified support of a program of fair and impartial and efficient law enforcement.

"These two steps will be necessary at once to forestall the growth of the problem, and repetition of recent serious occurrences affecting both the young people of our area and the future of all citizens of Aransas County."

At this point Mitchell read an article from the Corpus Christi Caller-Times headed "Information on Drugs Distributed in Calhoun." He emphasized one paragraph which stated:

"In a general assembly at Calhoun High School, Paul Siebenmann of San Antonio, Texas alcohol and narcotics education authority, spoke to the students, and he met throughout the day with student health classes."

Mitchell recommended that this type of educational programs be planned for Rockport schools. Joe Randow, Director of Instruction in the Aransas County Independent School system, explained that the local students already are receiving instruction on the harm of narcotics and "we will continue to focus attention on this important subject."

Dr. Homer F. Elliot, president of the School Board, said members of the Board met some time ago with Judge Wendell to plan action to cope with juvenile problems, and the "schools will continue to co-operate." Judge Wendell said the co-operation between the schools and the county "is excellent."

Port Little suggested that Mitchell's statement be amended to include in proposal 2 a statement that the efficient law enforcement apply not only to youths but to people of all ages.

James H. Sorenson, Jr., asked the assembled citizens if they were in favor of the proposals suggested by Mitchell. A show of hands signaled agreement.

Sorenson said, "We must all remember that the young people we are concerned about represent an extremely small segment of the total number of young people in this area. Probably not more than 2 per cent are in trouble, while about 98 per cent of the youths are good examples of proper conduct."

R. L. Eckman said, "This problem we're discussing today is so serious that none of us adults can say, 'we don't want to get involved.' We all must get involved to help these young people."

Chief of Police Bob Hewes offered to assist the schools in expanding "narcotics education" programs by getting qualified speakers from Corpus Christi or other cities.

Weldon Cabaniss emphasized that "parents are the most important of all in coping with a problem such as the one that faces these young people and our community."

Sorenson recommended to Judge Wendell that the county give serious thought to the possibility of employing a full-time juvenile officer."

Fishing Hints

By Danny Adams

The boiling and churning gray mass seemed to be heading directly at Copano Causeway Bait Stand where I was drinking a cup of coffee with three fellows from San Antonio.

As the wind died in front of this mass of power the bay's surface assumed a glazed look.

Then it hit, the north wind screamed around the building, and the waves became huge with the whole bay turning white from the churned water.

The fellows from San Antonio said, "That's it boys, let's go." I replied, "Don't blame you a bit in the world."

In about 15 minutes they returned with their fishing gear. I was amazed, I thought they went home. They were happy, I repeat happy with the weather because they were drum fishermen.

Approximately 45 minutes had gone by when one of them came running down the bridge. I knew what this meant.

Graffiti the 18-foot gaff, I hurried out to meet him. They had a huge drum on a light line. It was light for the fishing conditions, 25-pound test. Folks, if you have never tried to gaff a 40-pound drum which is 15 feet straight down, in a 40 mile wind with four foot waves, then you haven't done anything yet. We got him finally and much to my amazement, this was their fourth fish. The other three were about 5 pounds each.

The only thing I can say about this type of fishing other than its exciting is bring plenty of clothes.

MISS VIOLET M. PERCIVAL

(A resident of the city of Rockport for more than 79 years.)

Miss Violet May Percival, 80 years of age, died Thursday night, Dec. 5, in the Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi after a long illness. Her parents and half brother had come to Boston Mass., from England in 1887, and thence to Texas. It was while they resided in Dennison that their daughter, Violet May, was born on March 8, 1888.

Her father, Frank Percival, and her brother, Fred, were accomplished scholars, draftsmen, civil engineers and surveyors. At the persuasion of Colonel George W. Fulton they moved to this area in April of 1889 and established the first surveyor's office in Aransas County.

During the next half century Miss Percival often assisted her father and her brother in their work, which included the surveying of numerous townships, rights-of-ways for the early railroads, city and county and state roads, county and state and international boundaries; the planning, engineering and construction of Copano Bay Causeway and Hug-the-Coast Highway 35.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 7, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church of which Miss Percival was a life-long member. Officiating was the Rev. Lester G. Hill, rector of the church, and Harry Carter, retired former lay minister of the church.

Survivors include a cousin, Miss Ethel Violet Edwards of Melbourne, Australia; a nephew, Eon I. Gleadow, Isle of Wight, and Mrs. Leslie Croft, of London, England. Pallbearers were James H. Sorenson, Jr., Paul C. Sorenson, Ellis L. Clark, Fred A. Bracht, Jr., James W. Hunt and John F. Rayburn.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was a generous contributor to the Baptist church.

JOHN KINSEY

This is the kind of letter the Chamber of Commerce likes to receive:

Gentlemen:
On Nov. 1, I sent you a card for information on your motels, etc. I received several and I can say you have sold us on your city, and a very good job.

So my wife and I will be down there after New Year's and I know we will enjoy ourselves. Only one thing we hope for: Nice weather for January February and March.

Again, we thank you for your help.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Clerey
Battle Creek, Michigan.

The operation of the Customs Bureau was explained by Wilburn DeWeese, an inspector for 32 years, in a talk before the Rockport Lions Club last Thursday noon in the Sandollar Colony Room.

He pointed out that the Customs Bureau is the oldest bureau in federal government service and is the second largest revenue producing bureau, with only the International Revenue Department heading it. He said the Customs Bureau collected $1,447,000,000 in 1967.

Surprisingly, the Customs Bureau had 8,000 employees in 1929 compared to 7,000 in 1965, DeWeese said.

A salute to Frank Covarrubias for doing an outstanding job of raising flowers to beautify the Post Office. Frank combines a "green thumb" with lots of hard work to make the flower beds so attractive that many complimentary comments are made, particularly by visitors from "up North." Among the beautiful flowers are mums, hybiscus, geraniums, roses and Joseph's Coat vines.

Cub Scout News

Den No. 6 met Dec. 3, with their den mother, Mrs. John Goff.

Roll was called and dues collected. The group began working on Christmas gifts for their parents. They also discussed their good will project for the Christmas season. Refreshments were served by Dennis McCullough. The meeting closed with the living circle. Mrs. Goff was assisted by Mrs. Henry Keller.

The subject under discussion among Holly Schmidt, Samantha the cat, and AFL-CIO president George Meany is how to make this year's March Against Muscular Dystrophy the most successful ever. Mr. Meany is a member of the Board of Directors of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, and Holly is MDAA's national poster child. The March raises funds for the Association's scientific attack on muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular disorders, as well as for its extensive patient service program.

Good Neighbor Club Christmas Party

The Good Neighbor Club will have their Christmas party in the I.O.O.F. Hall at 11:30 a.m., Wednesday, Dec. 18, with Mrs. Nora Casey and Mrs. John Berry of Corpus Christi and Mrs. Neva Sorenson of Rockport as the hostesses.

The members will bring covered dishes for a dinner. Gifts will be exchanged and "secret pals" revealed. Officers for 1969 will be installed.

The plates which the club is now selling are in the I.O.O.F. Hall which is open on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.
