Hijacked passengers, crew are safe

By the Associated Press

Iranian Foreign Ministry officials in Tehran reported an explosion aboard a hijacked Air France jetliner today, but said all its passengers were safe. Air France said the three hijackers were with Iranian authorities.

The ministry officials, reached by The Associated Press by telephone from Beirut, Lebanon, said the people from the Boeing 737 were on the runway near the plane. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity.

"All the passengers, our passengers and the crew are safe," said Maurice Bouhog, a spokesman for Air France in Paris. "The hijackers are with the Iranian authorities."

One Iranian official said no one, hostages or hijackers, had been injured. He said it was not clear what caused the explosion, but that it apparently took place after everyone left the plane.

Air France said a total of 14 passengers — including a 10-year-old American boy — had been released in Tehran by the hijackers in addition to a steward who escaped in Cyprus. That left 46 passengers and crew — all men — on the airport runway in Tehran.

The hijackers earlier rigged the aircraft with explosives and said they would blow up the plane and their hostages if France did not meet their demands, an airport official told The Associated Press.

The official, who had been reached by telephone from Beirut, reported, "They've given them (French officials) until 4:30 p.m. (Tehran time, 9 a.m. EDT)." He spoke on condition of anonymity.

It was the second deadline set by the hijackers. They said earlier they would kill a French hostage every hour after 9 a.m. local time if the French did not release five men from their prisons. That deadline passed with no one reported harmed.

The hostages aboard the airliner reportedly included French, U.S., Japanese, Indian, Swiss and Finnish passengers.

Among 14 passengers freed by the hijackers in Tehran was a 10-year-old American boy, Air France said. The airline refused to identify him, and would not say if his parents were aboard the plane.

Unemployment at low point for 1984

Unemployment estimates for Scurry County dipped to the lowest percentage point of 1984 during the month of June, according to the latest figures released by the Texas Employment Commission.

TEC officials reported unemployment at 3.1 percent for the month, matching a low figure reported here in February. The latest figure also marked almost a full percentage point drop from the May estimate of 3.9 percent.

In addition, the figure for this June was slightly less than 2 percent under comparative unemployment estimates for 1983. In June of that year, unemployment for the county was set at 4.9 percent.

In real numbers, the latest TEC figure estimates a civilian labor force here of 11,135 persons with 10,788 of these employed. This leaves an out-of-work figure of 347.

The June figures reflected Scurry County employment at the halfway point for 1984. For the six-month period, the TEC estimates an increase of some 613 workers here in the civilian labor force.

In January, this figure was placed at 10,522, increasing to June's estimate of 11,135. The labor force estimate in June of 1983 was near 10,500 also.

The latest report from TEC included the five-county area served by the Sweetwater area office. Other area unemployment figures include:

—Nolan County: unemployment set at 6.0 percent. This figures a labor force of 8,620 with 8,105 employed and 515 unemployed.

—Mitchell County: unemployment set at 3.5 percent. This figures a labor force of 4,861 with 4,693 employed and 168 unemployed.

—Fisher County: unemployment set at 4.6 percent. This figures a labor force of 2,307 with 2,202 employed and 105 unemployed.

—Stonewall County: unemployment set at 1.3 percent. This figures a labor force of 1,252 with 1,236 employed and 16

Terrell assumes county post

Scurry County officially has a new county attorney following swearing-in ceremonies Wednesday of Gary R. Terrell.

Terrell was appointed by county commissioners following the death July 6 of George Killam, who had served locally since 1957. Killam was to retire at the end of his term Dec. 31.

Terrell, a Snyder High School graduate, was expected to assume the office Jan. 1, 1985 after winning the Democratic nomination to the post this past May. He will be unopposed on the November General Election ballot.

He is a 1970 graduate of SHS and a partner locally in the law firm Rosser, Armstrong and Terrell.

He received his undergraduate degree in 1974 from Angelo State University in San Angelo and his law degree in 1977 from the Texas Tech School of Law in Lubbock.

Prior to returning to Snyder in 1979, he served for two years as general counsel and assistant to the college president at Angelo State.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "You know you're out of shape when you get sore just watching the Olympics."

No one was more painfully aware of the increase in gasoline taxes than local petroleum jobbers.

Bill Line, the Chevron distributor in Line and Line Oil Co., knew about the state's five-cent increase in gasoline taxes effective Aug. 1. The additional tax, combined with the nine-cent federal tax, will make the total tax 19 cents on a gallon of gas.

What did surprise Line was a DOE notice concerning 9.5 cent tax increase on a gallon of diesel.

According to Line, a distributor will make about $300 on a transport load of diesel. The state and federal tax of 25 cents a gallon on diesel amounts to a tax bill of about $2,500 on a truck load of fuel.

Like a lot of businesses, the tax man makes more than the guy selling it. Also, the government doesn't have to worry about collections.

The notice to dealers had one last bit of advice. "Dealers may have to adjust prices."

Line wondered how dealers were suppose to pay the tax bill out of a $300 margin.

We're in the majority—and perhaps you are too. Break-dancing, almost unheard of three years ago, is now known to almost 85 percent of the American public.

El Salvador...

U.S. general sees win in 2 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top U.S. general in Central America, opposing use of American combat troops in El Salvador, says the Salvadoran army should be able to defeat leftist guerrillas in two years if given enough aid.

But Army Gen. Paul F. Gorman, head of the U.S. Southern Command in Panama, said Wednesday that the army's recent performance has been a "mixed picture" with "some tactical debacles, some real triumphs."

Gorman told a House panel that he would like to boost the number of U.S. non-combat military advisers in El Salvador from 55 to 125. And he provided estimates of the number of American citizens who would be "potential evacuees" if the military crisis in Central America worsened.

In another development, the Democrat-controlled House passed a $5.4 billion emergency money bill that contains no new military aid for El Salvador, in defiance of President Reagan's request for $117 million in additional assistance for the Salvadoran army.

The bill passed 304-116, but there was no direct vote on the Salvadoran aid issue. An attempt by Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., to restore the money was ruled out of order because the amount exceeded the budget. Reagan's aid request is given a better chance in the Republican-dominated Senate.

Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations, said that to provide the funds with two months remaining in the current fiscal year "would be thrusting money down their throats."

The United States has provided El Salvador with $126 million in military aid this year, including $62 million in emergency assistance approved only a month ago.

Stocks surge

By the Associated Press

In a signal of slowing economic expansion, the Commerce Department says orders to U.S. factories fell 1.4 percent in June, and spending for new construction slipped 0.2 percent last month.

The prospect of moderating economic growth renewed hopes for lower interest rates, and the stock market responded by surging to its best gain in more than six weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 19.33 to 1,134.61 on Wednesday, its best daily advance since the 22.75-point rise of June 18. It also was the highest close for the market's best-known indicator since it stood at 1,142.27 on May 17.

Trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange soared to 127.52 million shares from 86.91 million Tuesday. It was the busiest session since Feb. 9, when 128.19 million shares changed hands.

Dear Abby

Jokes About Blond Son Make Black-Haired Mother See Red

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are the proud parents of a beautiful son, now nearly 3. As he began to grow and change, we were astonished that his hair color was totally different from ours. Although there are blonds further removed from our family line, my husband and I and everyone else on both sides have black hair.

I am fed up with people who constantly make jokes like, "It must have been the mailman," etc. Now, my husband is saying the same thing in the presence of other people, and I am burning! It's as though he is apologizing for the fact that our son is a blond. Or maybe he wants to get his cheap comment in before someone else does.

What can I say when these remarks are made? And what is our son going to think when he's old enough to understand that people are accusing his mother of adultery? I need a snappy comeback.

OUTRAGED

DEAR OUTRAGED: Forget the snappy comeback. If you try too hard to defend yourself, people may think you protest too much.

You can, and should, tell your husband that you are hurt, not amused, by his "jokes." But as far as the others are concerned, don't make an issue of it. When your son is old enough to "understand," he will realize that these comments are not meant to be taken seriously.

DEAR ABBY: A young man wrote that he was devastated because he had been losing his hair since age 17. How I wish I could look him in the eye and tell him that he is nuttier than a Christmas fruitcake!

The same thing happened to me. I looked back down my ancestral line and saw bald men like fence posts. Here and there could be found a post with moss growing on top (hair on an occasional head), but those with hair performed not one whit better as fence posts than the "baldies."

Abby, please tell that young, "intelligent," average-looking 22-year-old fellow to quit feeling sorry for himself. Instead, he should look in the mirror and keep telling himself that bald is beautiful. If he accepts himself as he is, others will accept him at his face value—not his skull value. Sign me ...

AGE 82, BALD AT 19

DEAR 82: Bravo for you, my friend. But unfortunately not all men have your inner strength and value system.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a divorced mother of two daughters, ages 12 and 14. The three of us have been living on child support, welfare and an occasional part-time job when I can get one. Believe me, we barely make ends meet.

My 14-year-old daughter makes $40 a week baby-sitting, and we've had some heated arguments because I asked her for $5 a week toward her room and board. She's threatened everything from running away, to quitting her baby-sitting job, to doing nothing until she's old enough to live away from home, if I demand any of her wages.

I feel like a villain for asking for a lousy $5 a week. Was I out of line to ask? And should I quit asking?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: You were not out of line to ask, but in view of your daughter's attitude, you'd be wise to quit asking. If she should bite the hand that feeds her, you may be stuck for rabies shots.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine was married 10 months ago. It was her first marriage and his third. The bride was 24 and the groom (are you sitting down, Abby?) 81, but he could have passed for 65 or 70.

This cousin had a baby boy last week, and she and her husband are happy as a pair of teen-agers.

I've never heard of a man in his 80s fathering a child. I think he set a record, don't you?

PENNSYLVANIA DUTCHMAN

DEAR DUTCHMAN: Probably not. But if somebody out there can top this, I'll hear about it.

Crude oil expected in Texas by Friday

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Stiff winds pushed a 25-mile-long oil slick from a grounded tanker to within six miles of the Texas coast today, and the Coast Guard predicted the wildlife-threatening goo would blacken beaches by Friday.

"It's now just a matter of waiting for it to arrive," said Coast Guard spokesman Keith Spangler. "We have clean-up crews, vacuum trucks and the like, standing by."

The oil, spilled from a British tanker that grounded 10 miles off the Louisiana coast Monday, could wash ashore anywhere along the 25-mile stretch between High Island and Galveston between tonight and Friday evening, Spangler said.

Lt. Joe Ocken, a spokesman for the Coast Guard office in Galveston, said he had lined up contractors ready with loads of straw and earth-moving equipment to begin mopping up beaches when the oil hits.

Specialists from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the state Parks and Wildlife Department arrived on the scene Wednesday night to survey the slick and assess possible damage to marine life.

Spangler said the oil will be thick and gooey when it hits, tarring any bird or other wildlife it contacts.

Dennis Palafox, pollution surveillance program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said that if the oil passes into inland bays through Rollover Pass or Bolivar Roads, it could devastate aquatic nurseries.

Shortly before midnight, the slick was six miles south of McFadden Beach below Sabine Pass, and winds were blowing east-southeast at about 10 mph, he said.

Spangler said winds are "moving the oil about twice as fast as it was before. We really don't know the extent of this — what it will cause — but with 1.25 million gallons in the water, you're going to have some on the beaches."

Spangler said workers have abandoned efforts to vacuum up the oil already in the water and are concentrating on getting the rest of the tanker's cargo safely unloaded.

"Ten times the amount of oil that's in the water is still on that ship," he said.

When the 690-foot Alvenus struck and ran aground, a 115-foot seam opened along either side of the bow and across the deck.

The team of experts assembled here to cope with the spill estimated it could be about half as bad as the spill resulting from an oil well blowout in Mexico's Bay of Campeche in 1979. Some of that oil drifted ashore at Padre Island on the eastern Texas coast and onto the western coast of Louisiana.

Mondale says...

Reagan will increase taxes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale says President Reagan has a "secret plan" to raise taxes if he is re-elected, but his evidence has been limited largely to a Treasury Department study of the tax code and statements by past and present administration officials.

"The point I've made is that Mr. Reagan will raise taxes after the election," Mondale said Wednesday when asked to buttress his charge, which Reagan has denied. "...I think all across the board it is understood that this deficit is an outrage. That it requires the deficit to be squeezed and some revenues to be increased."

Mondale has stopped short of charging that Reagan has a comprehensive, detailed plan already prepared to increase taxes next year, and press secretary Maxine Isaacs says no such accusation is contemplated.

But Mondale says a tax hike is inevitable, and the administration knows it.

"Secretary (Donald) Regan said what they're studying is a national sales tax, or a national flat tax, or a value-added tax. They all add up to the same thing," Mondale said on July 22 while on a fishing vacation in northern Minnesota. "A tax on people of average income."

Mondale's aides also point to a presidential order for a review of the tax code as proof. Results of the review are not due until after the election.

In addition, Ms. Isaacs says there have been "endless background stories coming out of the White House and the Office of Management and Budget" on the need for higher taxes. "They just feel like they can't talk about it (openly) until after the election," she said.

In fact, Martin Feldstein, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has said tax increases will be necessary to cut deficits.

Unsure of Texas vote

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro says she knows enough about Texas to know its voters won't vote against her just because she's a woman.

But an Austin piano tuner who turned out for Ms. Ferraro's first Texas campaign appearance on Wednesday says the New York congresswoman might be surprised in November.

"We have a lot of so-called rednecks here," said Selby Barnett, a 63-year-old Democrat who is backing the party ticket. The female nominee "probably will hurt (Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale) in some situations."

Although Ms. Ferraro told the crowd that "anybody who thinks Texas won't vote for a woman doesn't know anything about Texas," a 58-year-old woman who identified herself only as Elaine said "the macho Spanish" might have trouble voting for a woman.

Fitting slacks can be easy

NEAT FIT—If your slacks pull up in the crotch (left), lower the crotch seam on the pattern piece. If slacks droop in downward lines, lift the curve in the crotch seam on the pattern piece.

By Joanne Schreiber

Slacks and shorts are necessary to a summer wardrobe and are as easy to sew as a skirt. The main consideration is to work for perfect fit.

You should choose your slacks pattern by your hip measurement, advise specialists at the Pellon Co. If possible, select one of the three-size patterns to give you the most flexibility. Check pattern measurements to give you 1 inch extra in the waist and 2 inches extra in the hip.

To measure crotch depth, sit on a straight chair and measure from waist to chair seat. On the pattern piece, draw a line straight across pattern at the crotch point and measure from this line to the waistline. Compare measurements. Lengthen or shorten the pattern piece as needed.

Because each body is different, additional adjustments are sometimes needed in the crotch seam. If ready-to-wear pants pull tightly in the crotch to produce uptilting "smile" lines, you need to lower the curve of the crotch. If the pants tend to droop in "frown" lines, you need to raise the curve of the crotch. These are minor but critical adjustments and can make a world of difference in the way your pants fit.

After you have cut out your pattern and joined the front and back inseams, you are ready to stitch the crotch seam. Because this seam takes a lot of strain, double-stitch it before clipping the seam allowance.

Turn the pants inside out and pin-fit the side seams, checking fit at hip, waist, tummy, derriere and crotch. Adjust pins, baste and stitch.

Fuse 'n Fold interfacing is as useful for the waistbands of slacks as it is for skirts. In addition, this handy interfacing can be used in the fly-front section to stabilize the fabric so the zipper can be stitched in smoothly and easily. Use the interfacing as well for the edges of slant pockets and hem with a Sav-A-Stitch.

Once you have made alterations on a basic pair of slacks, you can use the same pattern for shorts and culottes and for slacks in seasonal fabrics.

Art, science and luck

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Expert slam bidding is both art and science. You're trying to reach the best game contract and suddenly find yourself in a slam, happy if you're lucky enough to make it.

North bid a jump raise of three diamonds over his partner's one-diamond response. The jump was a trifle pushy, since the singleton spade queen might not have full value. Still the six-card club suit, combined with excellent four-card diamond support, justified this aggressive action. South showed his spade suit, hoping that this bid would draw a three no-trump call out of partner. Lo and behold, the next bid heard from North was four hearts!

Now South didn't know whether to be artist, scientist, or just plain idiot, but he felt that his club singleton might be worth something. So he bid five clubs. Remember, diamonds had been agreed on, so five clubs had to be a cue-bid.

Most experienced partnerships have the understanding that, after a cue-bid at the five level, a five no-trump call asks that the best slam contract be selected. Thus the six-diamond call ended the bidding.

The play still required good fortune after the king of hearts opening. If clubs had divided badly, then the slam would have failed because of lack of communication. Such was not the case. Declarer won with dummy's ace of hearts, played ace of clubs, ruffed a club, led a diamond to the jack and ruffed another club. The clubs were now good, and a diamond played to dummy drew the outstanding trump. Bold bidding was rewarded with a lucky distribution of the club suit.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

What are causes of bad breath?

DEAR DR. LAMB — My breath is bad and I have discovered that there are small cavities in the back of my throat on both sides. These cavities catch small particles of food, and within a period of about a month, the particles get big and start to come out through the hole. Sometimes I can push on this cavity with my finger and the particles will come out. But this makes my throat very sore.

Can these holes be closed by surgery? I know this would help my condition and maybe cure it. I am disabled and on Social Security and don't want to pay another medical bill unless it could cure me. Please send me your Health Letter on bad breath.

DEAR READER — The only way anyone can tell what you have is to look at it. If you still have your tonsils, you may have crypts in them that become filled with food particles or may be chronically infected. If that is the case, removing chronically diseased tonsils may be helpful. Usually, removing the tonsils will not cure bad breath, and tonsils are rarely the cause of bad breath.

Any infection in the throat, or even in the lungs, can cause bad breath. A lung disease will give off odorous gases that are carried out with exhaling. If you have a chronically infected draining sinus of some type in the back of the throat, it could indeed be the cause of your bad breath, but that is rare.

The other causes for bad breath are discussed in The Health Letter 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What to Do About It, which you requested and which I am sending to you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 58 and have not had a climax with my husband in five years. Are there any pills or hormones that can be taken to correct this situation? I used to really enjoy sex, and would love to again, but I think that I am lacking something. What can you suggest that might help me get back to normal?

DEAR READER — When a woman enjoyed her sex life in the past and loses the desire after the menopause, it is most often related to a decrease in hormones. Since the ovaries provide the major source of female hormones, things are just not the same when they cease production.

Sometimes there are psychological factors involved, particularly if the couple do not get along. It usually is not because of problems in technique in couples that have had years of satisfactory relations in the past.

In some instances it is because of underlying medical problems, such as pain associated with vaginal inflammation or dryness. In any case, I think you should see your doctor for an examination and a frank talk about this situation. There is a lot of evidence now that replacing female hormones in most cases is better than permitting hormone deficiencies to occur.

Not everyone accepts the idea that estrogens affect a woman's responsiveness, but there is a reason why tomboys eventually become interested in something other than climbing trees, and that reason is usually estrogen. Estrogens do tend to make women feminine, just as testosterone does tend to make men masculine.

Procunier sees potential for more prison violence

AUSTIN (AP) — The state prison system's director says "there's a hell of a potential for more violence" at the East Texas prison where four black prison inmates were stabbed Wednesday.

Prison Director Raymond Procunier, calling an inmate weapons problem "astronomical," ordered a lockdown for inmates at the Coffield Unit at Palestine, and after a meeting in Austin with Gov. Mark White, said it would continue "as long as it takes to get it unraveled."

He said a lockdown also might be ordered for the Darrington Unit in southeast Texas.

The four stabbings, which occurred outside the Coffield chow hall between 5:30 a.m. and 5:45 a.m., were the latest in a series of inmate assaults at Coffield and throughout the system this year.

Seven Hispanic inmates were being questioned about the Wednesday stabbings at Coffield, where a massive search two weeks ago turned up nearly 500 weapons.

"In an average-size prison in Texas, if your shakedown finds three good knives and five other weapons, that would spell trouble," Procunier said. "There's no question that the problem is astronomical."

Prison spokesman Charles Brown said that after the Wednesday morning attacks, three men were hospitalized and another was treated at the unit.

Asked if the stabbings were racially motivated, Procunier replied, "It looks like it. I don't know."

Robert Anderson, 27, was sent to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston for treatment of a superficial cut on his left thigh and several cuts on his hand, Brown said. Anderson is serving a 35-year sentence for burglary of a habitation in Dallas County, Brown said.

Arthur Suddath, 25, was treated at the prison unit for superficial cuts, Brown said. He said Suddath is serving a nine-year term on three counts of burglary with intent to commit a theft.

Prison officials, concerned by violence at the unit, locked more than 1,700 inmates in their cells July 19 and conducted a cell-by-cell search which turned up 346 homemade knives and 143 other homemade weapons, Procunier said.

TDC spokesman Guthrie said inmates at two other prison units also were stabbed Tuesday night and Wednesday.

He said Charles Wright, 33, an inmate at the Darrington Unit in Rosharon, suffered a severe cut on his nose about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

"An unknown number of inmates rushed in his cell and attacked him," Guthrie said, adding that no one had yet been questioned in that attack.

And Arlandis Paige, 17, a prisoner at the Beto One Unit, was in stable condition at Anderson Memorial Hospital after being stabbed in the stomach about 10 p.m. Tuesday. Guthrie said charges were pending against another inmate.

Procunier and Robert Gunn, TDC board chairman, met with White for more than an hour Wednesday afternoon.

Gunn said they sought the session to update White on the prison situation and efforts to comply with federal court orders on overcrowding, guards and other areas.

Attorneys request change of venue

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Attorneys representing a refugee assistance worker charged with transporting illegal aliens have requested a change of venue on grounds their client can't receive a fair trial in South Texas.

The change of venue is one of 22 motions filed by attorneys for Jack Elder, 40, director of the Casa Oscar Romero refugee halfway house in San Benito.

Elder, a leader in the nation's so-called Sanctuary Movement, is an outspoken critic of U.S. policy in Central America.

A pre-trial hearing on the motions began this morning before U.S. District Judge Hayden Head Jr. of Corpus Christi. Head was assigned to the case last week after federal judge Filemon Vela of Brownsville recused himself.

Vela presided over the trial of another Sanctuary Movement worker — 29-year-old Stacey Lynn Merkt of Colorado Springs, Colo. — earlier this summer.

Both Elder and Ms. Merkt call themselves workers on a nationwide underground railroad that provides assistance to immigrants fleeing the war-torn Central American nations of Guatemala and El Salvador.

"Excuse me! I think this Geraldine Ferraro thing is DYNAMITE!"

Mondale backers exchange shouts

HOUSTON (AP) — Supporters of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro exchanged shouts and insults with anti-abortion demonstrators when the Democratic presidential and vice presidential candidates stopped in Houston on the second leg of a two-day campaign tour jn the Lone Star State.

About 500 people, many waving Texas and U.S. flags and hoisting placards that said, "Texas is Mondale-Ferror Country," waited for the candidates more than two hours Wednesday night at a private landing area at Hobby Airport.

About a fourth of the group represented pro-life groups. Many carried signs that read: "Shame On You, Geraldine!" "Ferraro & Fritz Kill Babies" and "This Catholic Mother Doesn't Believe In Abortion."

Ms. Ferraro, a Roman Catholic, has come under criticism repeatedly from anti-abortionists who disapprove of her pro-choice stance as a congresswoman from New York.

Mondale and Ms. Ferraro, who opened their first campaign swing through the South in Jackson, Miss., were scheduled answer questions from students at Houston Community College this morning before flying to San Antonio.

As the plane landed Wednesday night and the candidates emerged, demonstrators chanted "Life, Yes. Abortion, No."

Anti-viral medication has no effect

HOUSTON (AP) — The pediatrician treating a comatose 12-year-old rabies victim refuses to deem the girl's case "hopeless" but concedes the child is "incurable."

"We all feel that we're dealing with an incurable situation," Dr. Dixie Swanson said Wednesday at a news conference about the Laotian immigrant. "But we all go home and hope in our private moments."

Americans want leader in White House, Mondale says

AUSTIN (AP) — Americans want a leader in the White House, and President Reagan doesn't measure up, Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale says.

"What Texans and Americans want is common sense. You don't want salesmanship, you want leadership in the White House," Mondale said Wednesday during a rally at the Capitol.

Mondale and his running mate, Geraldine Ferraro, spoke to a crowd estimated by authorities at 7,000 to 8,000. President Reagan and Vice President George Bush drew twice that many to a lakeside rally in Austin a week earlier.

Mondale said a pundit recently asked him if he could carry Texas, a state Reagan won in 1980 and which has been won by every Democrat elected president.

"I told him, 'Come with me to Austin, Texas and I'll show you the evidence,'" Mondale told the applauding crowd.

"I'm always pleased to be deep in the heart of Texas because Texas is in my heart," he said. "The campaign for the future of America begins in Austin."

On the day when Texans began paying higher taxes for education and highway improvements, Mondale praised the state's recently approved education reform package.

"A superb education system is essential and that's what you're saying here in the state of Texas. This generation of Americans must be the best educated in our history," Mondale said.

Ms. Ferraro wasted no time in addressing the most frequently asked question.

"Anybody who thinks Texas won't vote for women doesn't know anything about Texas," she said. "I've got a feeling I'm going to like it here, and I'm going to be back before the fight is over."

Texas' top state elected officials, all Democrats, lined the Capitol steps where Mondale and Ms. Ferraro spoke.

Gerry Ferraro says she can attract votes in November

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro met chants of "Gerry! Gerry!" from an outdoor crowd of about 7,500 Wednesday with an equally enthusiastic "You're incredible, you're incredible!"

"Anybody who thinks Texas won't vote for a woman doesn't know anything about Texas," she shouted to spectators. "I've got a feeling I'm going to like it here, and I'm going to be back before the fight is over."

Many at Wednesday's rally on the Capitol lawn waited more than an hour in the hot sun to see Ms. Ferraro and presidential nominee Walter Mondale, who flew in from Jackson, Miss., for a news conference and the rally.

They spent the night in Houston, and planned to campaign today in Houston and San Antonio.

State Treasurer Ann Richards, the only woman among Texas' statewide elected officials, introduced Ms. Ferraro by poking fun at cheerleaders who presented western-style hats to President Reagan and Vice President George Bush here on July 25.

Ms. Ferraro and Ms. Richards hugged and shook hands after the introduction, which touched off the waving of yellow ribbons by women in the crowd.

Lecile Johnson placed in four categories, sixth in pylon, fourth in quarter horse poles, sixth in flying W and second in baseball.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications has filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional long distance service to begin August 1, 1984, the same date "Reach Out® America" plan will be available for interstate calls.*

A new service designed to give customers the opportunity to reduce the cost of long distance in Texas has been filed with the state PUC by AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

"Reach Out® Texas" is an optional calling plan which will provide additional discounts on long distance rates for Texas customers who frequently place calls in the evening, weekend, and night time calling periods.

The new "Reach Out® Texas" plan for the first time extends the benefits of competition to many Texas consumers who previously have not had any discounted long distance service available to them.

AT&T Communications customers who choose this new optional service will pay a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of intrastate "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate period.

An additional customer savings for those participating in the plan will be that any Direct Dialed calls placed during the weekend and night rate period that exceeds the one hour period will be charged at an hourly rate of $12, or $ .20 per minute.

Customers selecting this option also receive an additional 15 percent discount for intrastate Direct Dialed calls during the evening discount rate period for a total savings of approximately 38 percent.

A one-time charge of $6 is billed when a customer orders the "Reach Out® Texas" plan. The $6 is collected by AT&T Communications and paid to the local telephone company to establish the service. This charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

AT&T Communications is proud to offer this optional service for its Texas long distance customers and will in the future continue to introduce cost cutting programs to help Texans reduce their long distance bills.

A complete copy of the "Reach Out® Texas" tariff and rate schedule is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas.

Orioles dump Rangers, 7-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Storm Davis is on a roll, even if the Baltimore Orioles are not.

Backed by two-run homers off the bats of Cal Ripken Jr. and Wayne Gross, Davis scattered seven hits and pitched a 7-2 victory over the Texas Rangers Wednesday night.

Baltimore's defending world champions are only 12-9 since the All-Star break, but Davis has won all five of his starts during that span, allowing just eight earned runs in 39 23 innings.

Asked if he viewed himself as a stopper, the 22-year-old Davis said: "The stopper is that we scored seven runs. Our guys got me a big lead and it took a lot of pressure off."

Baltimore's eight-hit attack included seven for extra bases as the Orioles scored more than four runs for only the fifth time in 21 games since the All-Star break.

While completing his seventh game in 21 starts, Davis ran his record to 11-4 and lowered his earned run average to 2.43.

All-star grid game tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense has been the master in recent Texas High School Coaches Assocation All-Star football games, but tonight's North-South confrontation will be different if South quarterback Shannon Kelley has his way.

"The defense is usually ahead of the offense in early season and especially for a game like this when we have such a short tie to work," said Kelley, who will attend Texas-Austin in the fall. "But maybe we can put more points that that on the board for this game."

Kelley, a former Spring Branch Memorial quarterback, and Mark Motley of Ore City are expected to see action against the North, which lost last year's game 16-14 in Fort Worth.

With the exceptions of a 65-0 South victory in 1971 and a 20-0 North victory in 1981, the annual schoolboy classic has been a low-scoring games.

South garners all-star win

HOUSTON (AP) — Clear Lake's Glenn Puddy may want to share his most valuable player trophy with teammate James Gulley following the South's 108-99 victory over the North in the Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star basketball game.

"We worked real hard all week in practice," the Southern Methodist-bound Puddy said. "I went against Gulley every day and he beat me up pretty good. That helped tonight."

Gulley, 6-8, 280, also was a crowd-pleaser, finishing with eight points, including a booming dunk shot late in the game.

Puddy scored 21 points in the game including eight quick points to start the third quarter when the South built up a 17-point, 77-60 lead.

Mize wants golf repeat

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Larry Mize, who broke through to his first career victory here a year ago, is hoping a return to Memphis will provide a turnaround in his golfing fortunes this season.

"Coming back to Memphis can't do anything but help," the 25-year-old Mize said before teeing off today in the first round of the $500,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic.

"This is like coming home.There are good memories here. I'm really looking forward to it, looking forward to turning it around here.

Olympic games...

Gymastic fems settle for silver

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United States women's gymnastics team, rattled by delays and disputes in the judging, settled for Olympic silver to Romania's gold, literally falling short of duplicating the feat of the American men's team.

One day after the U.S. men achieved their first team gymnastics gold in 80 years, the American women finished higher than ever before in the event, surpassing their bronze performance in the 1948 London Games.

They might have done even better, but after a delay of nearly eight minutes over the judging of Kathy Johnson's routine on the balance beam, and a 9.6 score which displeased the Pauley Pavilion crowd, teammate Julianne McNamara took a tumble from the beam. And just about any hope the Americans had of catching the Romanians fell with her.

"I had to wait up there an awfully long time," McNamara said. She appeared distracted as she paced during the delay. Twenty seconds into her routine, she fell to the mat, clambered back onto the beam and finished, but for only a 9.2.

"I definitely think the long pause affected her," Don Peters, the U.S. women's coach, said. And despite filing some protests over the scoring — they had to do with other routines, not Johnson's or McNamara's — Peters acknowledged: "We lost. The Romanians simply beat us. The Romanians did a better job. Overall, the scoring was very fair.

"The gold medal is a little shinier, but we're happy with the silver," he added. "This team worked very hard to get it."

The men return to the gym tonight with the all-around individual title at stake. Peter Vidmar of Los Angeles, with 118.55 points, holds a slender edge over China's Li Ning, at 118.45, in the duel for the championship.

And the swimmers, following a day off to savor Tuesday's five-gold haul, hit the water again today with five more golds up for grabs.

Wednesday night's bittersweet ending couldn't dull McNamara's perfect performances on the uneven bars and in the floor exercises. The 18-year-old from San Ramon, Calif., became the first American woman ever to chalk up 10s in Olympic gymnastics. Nor could it wipe away the 10 by 16-year-old Mary Lou Retton of Fairmont, W. Va., in the vault.

Nor could it tarnish the finish of two unprecedented gold-medal triumphs earlier in the day — by cyclist Steven Hegg of Dana Point, Calif., in the 4,000-meter pursuit and Greco-Roman wrestler Steven Fraser of Ann Arbor, Mich., in the 198.5-pound class.

Also on Wednesday:

— Mark Breland of Brooklyn, N.Y., stopped Pedro Reyes of Puerto Rico in the second round of their 147-pound match and Jerry Page of Columbus, Ohio, outpointed Helmut Gertel of West Germany at 139 pounds.

And, in U.S. team events:

— The men's basketball team rolled past Uruguay 104-68 as Patrick Ewing of national-champion Georgetown scored 17 points and had nine rebounds, three blocked shots and four of the team's 13 slam-dunks.

— The women's volleyball team rallied from seemingly certain defeat by upset-minded Brazil to win 12-15, 10-15, 15-5, 15-5, 15-12.

— The women's field hockey team beat Canada 4-1.

— The women's handball team edged China 25-22.

— The men's water polo team defeated Greece 12-5.

Going into today's competition, the United States has 29 medals, 18 of them gold. China, which won the bronze in the women's gymnastics after getting the silver in the men's competition, is second in overall medals with 13 and in gold with six.

South Korea and Great Britain each picked up its first gold of the Games on Wednesday as Weon-Kee Kim won in Greco-Roman wrestling at 134 pounds and Malcolm Cooper took the three-position small-bore rifle, while China swept to its fourth weightifting gold as Yao Jingyuang won the lightweight division.

And Italy took three golds, two in the modern pentathlon, as it won the team event (the United States got the silver), Daniele Masala won the individual and Vicenzo Maenza won at 106 pounds in Greco-Roman wrestling.

Fishin' report

Fishing traffic slowed at both Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence over the weekend. There were some white and black bass catches at Lake Spence along with the ever-present striped bass, but at Lake Thomas it was mostly catfish.

Running trotlines at Lake Thomas, Paul Follis, O'Donnell, took off a 17-pound yellowcat, and Chester Bantham, Snyder, a 25-pound yellowcat. Most of the trotlines were using larger live bait, but those fishing with lines as well as trotlines used just about anything, including mussels dug from the sand. A few black bass were caught in rocky and brushy areas.

Fishing out of Wildcat Fish-A-Rama, Dee Bridges, Sweetwater, had the best striped bass, one weighing 16½ pounds. John Leach and John Ramey, Big Spring, had a three-pound black bass and 40 white bass.

Jody MacCrowe, Abilene, brought an 11¼ pound striper into Gas and Grub No. 2 at Lake Spence.

Otis Green, San Angelo, weighed a 15-pound striper in at Circle R, and Gary Ledford, Winters, had one that weighed 11 pounds.

Braves edge Astros, 6-5

HOUSTON (AP) — Dale Murphy's National League-leading 26th home run gave the Atlanta Braves a 6-5 win over the Houston Astros Wednesday night and concluded an important and successful road trip for the Braves, who are chasing the San Diego Padres for the National League Western Division title.
