Another Mystery Of Airways Seen Today After Fatal Plunge

THIRTEEN PERSONS ARE CARRIED TO INSTANT DEATH AS SKYLINER DROPS LIKE PLUMMET; INVESTIGATIONS BEING STAGED TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, March 26—The nose dive of a palatial skyliner into a hillside, carrying its 13 occupants to instant death, furnished today another mystery of the airways.

The giant Transcontinental and Western Airliners' silver bird, nearing the $2,000,000 Allegheny county airport for a stop on its journey from Newark to Chicago, dropped like a plummet seven minutes after the sun had set yesterday.

The sky was clear for some 2,400 feet, there was not much wind, and a sister ship was cruising a few hundred yards above and behind the twin-motored Douglas.

Captain A. M. Wilkins, winging home the second ship, turned his head to avoid looking at the doomed liner's final 50-foot drop. He estimated the fatal plunge began about 1,700 feet up and that Pilot F. Lawrence Bohnet, a veteran of 10 years service, made two complete left turns with his plane's nose pointed straight down.

Victims Are Battered

All the victims except the pretty blonde hostess, Doris C. Hammons of Elk City, Okla., were battered almost beyond recognition. They were catapulted to the front of the ship.

The dead: Edward J. Fleming, jr., 22, Kansas City; C. R. (Dick) Lewers, 22, Kansas City; Hasan Haxhl, Argo, Ill.; John F. Hermann, 45, engineer and inventor, Lincoln, Ill.; Frederick D. Lehman, 25, Harrisburg, Pa.; Miss Pauline Trask, 37, Germantown, Pa.; Edgar E. Brazelton, 36, Elmhurst, Ill.; Mary Black, 32, New York; Miss Frances Reed, Wheeling, W. Va., and New York; E. G. Neill, 37, Minneapolis, Minn.; Capt. F. L. (Larry) Bohnet, Newark, chief pilot; Howard E. Warwick, East Orange, N. J., co-pilot; Doris C. Hammons, hostess, Elk City, Okla.

Investigation Started

Investigation by Coroner W. J. McGregor of Allegheny county, the airline and state and federal inspectors began immediately.

Dr. J. J. McLean, manager of the airport, said some inspectors told him they believed ice formed on the wings.

"They said they saw ice on part of the ship and thought it might have formed while the plane descended from 10,000 feet or more to below the clouds while heading for

TWO SIDES IN COURT FIGHT DETERMINED

OPPOSITION IS SHOWN TO ANY COMPROMISE ON FDR'S PLAN

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26—Both friends and foes of the Roosevelt judiciary bill expressed opposition today to any basic compromise such as the suggestion of Senator Hatch (D-NM) to limit enlargement of the supreme court to one appointment a year.

Senator Burke (D-Neb), a leading spokesman for the opponents, said:

"Adding one judge a year would be less objectionable than adding six all at once, but the arguments against this bill as it stands apply with equal force to the naming of two or three judges, or even one."

May Be Alterations

Senator Minton (D-Ind), one of the bill's most active advocates, commented:

"There may be alterations in its provisions, but I see no justification or need for fundamental amendment of the measure."

Burke was redrafting a constitutional amendment to require justices to retire at 75 and to fix the size of the supreme court permanently at nine members.

He declared this would harmonize with some administration objectives and would not impair respect for the courts.

Discussion Aroused

Hatch's proposal aroused discussion in view of the fact that he is one of the few members of the senate judiciary committee not committed for or against the president's bill. His vote and that of one or two other uncommitted Democrats may be needed by the administration for a favorable committee report.

Committee hearings recessed late yesterday until Tuesday.

The last witness yesterday was Dr. Gould Wickey of Washington, general secretary to the council of church boards of education. He declared:

Proposal Is Feared

"The Christian educators of America believe that a democracy rests on freedom and liberty, not on force. We fear the president's proposal because we see that through it an enthroned radicalism could enact laws of educational slavery and religious intolerance."

When the hearings resume after Easter, the opposition will start its second week of testimony, presenting Erwin H. Griswold, professor of constitutional law at Harvard; Walter E. Dod, Chicago lawyer, and Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist.

Source Of Dionne Fortune Revealed

Of such came the financial kingdom of the Dionne quintuplets.

Their endorsement or participation in those and perhaps a dozen other products has built the $765,000 fortune they now hold or will hold in bonds and bank accounts, it was disclosed in an accounting of their guardianship.

AGED MAN STABBED

SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 26. (AP)—Joe Brownfield 92, of Raymondville was in a serious condition today of stab wounds in the back suffered as he waited for a taxicab last night. He was unable to assign any motive for the attack but said he could identify the man who stabbed him.

FEED PROBLEM IS SERIOUS

BUMPER CROP NEEDED THIS YEAR OVER THE CORN BELT

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26—The western corn belt needs a bumper crop this fall, government farm experts said today, if the area is to regain its place as principal producers of hogs and important feeder of cattle.

Corn supplies in relation to the number of hogs were reported 40 per cent smaller than after the 1934 drouth. The feed situation was termed more serious than two years ago by the bureau of agricultural economics.

Number Is Reduced

Federal surveys showed the number of hogs on farms in the United States was reduced from 62,000,000 to 43,000,000 between 1933 and the start of this year.

The number of cattle declined from 74,000,000 in 1934 to 67,000 at the start of this year. The corn belt total dropped from 23,000,000 to 19,000,000. The number of cattle west of the Mississippi river is the smallest in 20 years, the survey showed.

Negro Thief Well "Oiled" All Right

HUNDREDS ARE IN CITY FOR BIG AFFAIR

RESULTS IN TODAY'S COMPETITION ARE MADE PUBLIC

BY OPAL McMAHON
Journal Staff Writer

Preliminary contests in some events of the Class A and B athletic division of the county Interscholastic League meet had been completed at noon today and all events except track and field are to be completed this afternoon at the Texas Technological college field.

Approximately 600 students from six Lubbock county rural high schools, from Slaton, and from Posey entered events and others are here to view contests.

Events Are Postponed

Senior track and field events were postponed until 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Tech field, principally because of cold weather, said Homer D. Bentley of Posey, director of athletics in the county meet.

Grammar school athletic events will be held Saturday at the Tech field and Class A school literary events will be held Saturday at Junior High school. Grammar and rural school literary events were held last Saturday.

At least 1,000 students will compete in Saturday's contests, said A. L. Faubion, New Deal superintendent, and director-general of the county meet.

Playing Semi-Finals

Cooper and Roosevelt playground ball girls' teams were playing semi-finals shortly before noon today, and the winner was to play Idalou. Roosevelt defeated New Deal in the preliminaries, and Idalou defeated Frenship and drew a bye.

In the first round of boys' playground ball, Idalou defeated New Deal, Slaton defeated Shallowater, and Frenship defeated Cooper. In the semi-finals were Frenship and

San Antonio Safe Looted By Bandits

SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 26. (AP)—Two heavily armed bandits robbed an office safe at the Roegelein Packing company shortly before midnight and left two employes of the company locked in a refrigerator where the temperature was well below freezing.

Earl McAdoo, mechanic, and H. H. Leesch, engineer, were left in the meat chilling refrigerator. The robbers escaped with approximately $50 from the safe which was battered open after an unsuccessful attempt at blasting.

Weird Wails Of Mourners Heard Today

(By The Associated Press)

TUCSON, Ariz., March 26.—Doleful wails of black-clad mourners mingled with derisive howls of "evil spirits" today in the little Yaqui villages of Arizona and northern Sonora, Mexico, as the tribesmen, holding their fantastic Easter ceremonials, reenacted the crucifixion of Christ.

Pilatos, representing the soldiers of Pilate, their faces covered with gaudy masks and their bodies painted, danced and screamed hideously about the Cristo's bier.

Nearby sat the faithful, mourning the death of Christ, their faces streaked with tears.

EASTER FROST IS EXPECTED

LOWER READINGS FOR NORTHERN PART OF STATE FORECAST

(By The Associated Press)

Easter's eve may see frost in scattered areas of Texas, it was indicated by the weather map today.

Cloudy weather and generally lower temperatures for the northern portion of the state, with the danger of frost in the extreme north, was forecast.

Dust Storms Ended

Rain, sleet and hail today had dispersed the remnants of a dust storm. Dallas had a light hail this morning following a thunder shower. The hail drove the temperature down to 34. Fort Worth reported some sleet, a slow drizzle, with a minimum of 35. Flecks of rain fell in San Antonio, which reported a minimum of 46. Austin experienced a brisk north wind, accompanied by a minimum of 37.

Scattered showers were reported in the East Texas area which had been blanketed by dust clouds.

Tech Youth Named Outstanding Boxer

HOUSTON, Mar. 26. (AP)—Arthur Dorrell, clever hard-hitting welter from Port Arthur, and Johnny Buck, hard-smashing light heavy from Texas Tech at Lubbock, stole the show in the finals of the Texas A. A. U. fight championship tourney here last night.

The two not only whammed their way into championships of their divisions, but they were voted the outstanding fighters of the meet, and will be sent to St. Louis to represent Texas in the A. A. U. junior national tournament.

Two Persons Hurt In Highway Mishap

SAN ANTONIO, March 26. (AP)—B. A. Taylor, 27, was injured probably fatally and his companion, Margaret McCall, was hurt less seriously when an automobile crowded their motorcycle off the Austin highway near Salado creek bridge early today, causing it to overturn as it struck the loose gravel.

Taylor suffered a punctured left eye, a fractured skull and concussion of the brain and Miss McCall a fractured right arm and probable internal injuries.

Collections Over Nation Said Good

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26 (AP)—The government has collected about 54 cents of every dollar loaned through emergency agencies to reinforce the nation's depression-weakened credit structure.

The back-flow of money from private business set in more than a year ago, and credit agencies report that now many borrowers who once drew billions from the government are supplying their needs from normal financial sources.

LONG HEARING ON MEASURE IS CLOSED

APPROVAL IS OFFERED BY SENATE GROUP AT THURSDAY SESSION

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Mar. 26—A bill to repeal the law which legalized the certificate system of wagering on horse racing four years ago, already approved by the Texas house of representatives, headed for the senate floor today, bearing the endorsement of a committee which considered it.

The senate committee on criminal jurisprudence voted 8 to 6 to report the measure favorably after a long hearing last night in which horse racing betting was denounced as inimical to the best interests of the state and defended as tending to build up the livestock industry and help business.

Ask Another Chance

Governor James V. Allred, long time champion of repeal forces, had a seat on the floor as the climactic vote was taken, and the crowded galleries and senate chamber rang with applause. Earlier when friends of racing urged "another chance" there had been resounding applause for them also.

Sponsors planned to press for floor consideration at the earliest opportunity.

Repeal proponents charged that abolition of legalized betting was a necessary step to curb "a gambling craze."

To arguments that the state was breaking faith with men who had

CHURCH RITES HELD TODAY

FERVENT PRAYERS ARE HEARD IN SERVICES STAGED IN ROME

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, Mar. 26.—Catholics flocked to the city's 400 churches today to take part in Good Friday services.

Their prayers were particularly fervent as their thoughts turned to Pope Pius XI, who many had believed would not live to observe this Good Friday.

The holy father, recovered from his critical illness of the winter, paid his own devotions in the privacy of his chapel.

Activities Are Hushed

Between noon and 3 p. m., the hours Christ hung on the cross, Rome's activity was hushed. Shops were closed and streets were almost deserted as the church absorbed a large part of the population.

There, somber black and purple draperies shrouded the sacred images and altars in mourning. Lack of candles and tapers added to the commemorative gloom.

The great pealing bells were stilled in a silence which will be broken when they ring forth with glad tidings Saturday noon. At that hour the holy sacrament will be returned to the main altar of St. Peter's from the Pauline chapel in joyous observance of the resurrection.

Foot-Down Strike Started By Woman

CLINTON, Mass., March 26 (AP)—A literal "foot-down strike" was launched today by Mrs. Lahawanda Poresky, 75-year-old business woman, against the town fathers and WPA authorities.

Mrs. Poresky's action was in protest against the erection of a four-foot stone wall which she claims will extend one foot onto her property. With the wall within 12 inches of completion, by WPA workers, Mrs. Poresky placed her foot down at the wall's edge and refused to move it.

Screen Lovers Need Some Stimulation On Brink Of Passionate Movie Clinch

GOING INTO ARMS OF GARBO DOES STRANGE THINGS TO PULSES OF HER LEADING MEN

BY HOMER McCOY

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 26. (AP)—Screen lovers, who acquire yachts, dark glasses and income tax troubles through their ability to "turn it on," nevertheless generally need stimulation on the brink of a passionate clinch.

The ways in which they prepare themselves for the romantic scenes, an interlude of snooping disclosed today, are many and varied.

Some members of love teams rush right into the embrace, apparently, some do it casually and easily, others must prod themselves.

So does Kay Francis, to a background of Viennese music.

Going into the arms of Garbo before the camera does strange things to the poise and pulses of young leading men. Two youthful players asked to be let out of pictures in which they had to do it.

Vassar Puts Talk Of Sex Out In Open

(By The Associated Press)

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 26. — Vassar college has brought the subject of family life out of the midnight "gabfest" into a lecture hall with the result, one young woman said today, "that there is less chitter-chatter about sex among the students."

"When you talk such things over frankly in the open and know what's true," she said, "you can stop 'worrying' about the subject and go on to something else."

Five weeks ago Vassar launched an experimental, non-credit course of ten evening lectures on "marriage and family life." The candid discussion of subjects ranging from "biological aspects of marriage," and "courtship and choosing a husband" down to "philosophy of the budget," has been built in a "straight from the shoulder" doctrine and found quick approval on the campus and in college offices.

Woman Being Held In Extortion Plot

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 26. (AP) — Mrs. Lydia Swenson, 43, of suburban Glendale, was held today on suspicion of extortion in connection with a letter which demanded $200 from Aimee Semple McPherson.

Detective Lieutenant Robert F. Underwood said Mrs. Swenson admitted writing the note because "I needed $200 to pay down on a new car."

EVACUATION OF AUTO PLANTS COMPLETED; CONFERENCE HELD

(By The Associated Press)

LANSING, Mich., Mar. 26. (AP)—A reliable source indicated today the Chrysler automotive tie-up might be settled promptly now that strikers have vacated the plants they held 18 days.

Governor Frank Murphy, saying the two-hour conference of representatives of the Chrysler corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America after the evacuation was "very satisfactory," arranged another meeting today.

The governor said Walter P. Chrysler, corporation chairman, and John L. Lewis, labor leader, would go to their homes for Easter and return to Lansing, probably Tuesday.

A source close to the governor said Murphy preferred that the opponents discuss the situation as long as they chose rather than reach a hasty decision.

The evacuation of the eight striker-occupied Detroit plants was completed before dusk yesterday when the unionist sit-downers surrendered the keys to state troopers assigned to guard the gates while the peace conference proceeds.

Under the terms of the agreement, office workers will have access to the premises but the plants will not be operated and equipment will not be removed during the negotiations.

STATE AGENCY PROPOSED AS SAFEGUARD

SUPERVISION IS URGED IN THE ERECTION OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Mar. 26 — A military court which investigated the New London catastrophe in a preliminary report to Governor James V. Allred today recommended creation of a state agency to supervise erection of public buildings and installation of heating and lighting devices.

It recommended also that the agency have the duty of making periodic inspections of such buildings and the power to enforce protective regulations.

Legislation Is Proposed

A further recommendation was that legislation be enacted requiring the mixing of a malodorant with gas so that any escapes would be more noticeable.

The first report by national guard officers, who conducted their inquiry during a period of martial law at the scene of the disaster, will be followed by a more detailed one within about two weeks, and both will be submitted to a committee of the legislature likewise ordered to investigate the explosion.

Cause Is Explained

The report attributed the explosion to accumulation of gas in the foundation area between the ground and the concrete first floor, saying the explosive mixture of gas and air probably was fired by operation of a knife switch on an electric line in a manual training room adjacent to the area.

It said the retaining walls of the foundation and the floor were in fact "the same thing as a reinforced concrete box with the open side resting against the earth," that there were but four air vents of approximately 12 by 24 inches, which were covered with grills and screen wire, and the only other outlet was a four-foot square trap door opening into the manual training room.

The report asserted further that in January, 1937, school officials had janitors connect the gas distributing systems of the building with the residue gas pipe line of the Parade Gasoline company and disconnect from the United Gas system, a utility which had been serving it.

The gas in the residue pipe line, it continued, was of a different chemical consistency from that formerly used in the equipment, contained certain elements which made it

ANDUJAR, Spain, March 26 — Government troops, preceded by bombing planes, penetrated insurgent southern lines in fresh attacks today, forcing Gen. Francisco Franco's Italian-reinforced legions back five miles from positions outside Posoblanco.

Under terrific bombing and machine gun fire, the insurgents retired along the Posoblanco-Alcaracejos highway.

Described As Disorderly

Their retreat, described by government commanders as "disorderly," was hastened by repeated attacks on the insurgent rear guard.

The government victory apparently halted the insurgent drive on two strategic positions:

Good Reporter To The End; Writes '30' To Own Career

(By The Associated Press)

ALTURAS, Calif., Mar. 26.—Killed in what Sheriff John Sharp said today was the climax of a newspaper feud, Claude L. McCracken, 46-year-old editor, reported the story of his own shooting as his last act.

Harry French, 30-year-old state employe and son of Alturas' rival newspaper publisher, surrendered voluntarily after McCracken was shot down in his home last night as he ate dinner with two young women. French was held on an open charge today.

With five bullets in his body, McCracken was carried to a hospital where his wife was the nurse assigned to care for him. There he wrote "30" to his newspaper career by dictating a telegram carrying the first report of the gunplay to Associated Press bureau in San Francisco. It read:

"Tonight about six thirty Harry French shot Claude L. McCracken, editor of the Modoc Mail, with an automatic pistol. Condition of McCracken serious. "(Signed) McCracken."

Two hours later he died. A good reporter to the last.

Kansans Smacking Lips As Legal Beer Is Authorized

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kas., March 26—The thirsty residents of the state where Carry A. Nation smashed saloon bars with her hatchet smacked lips today, expecting legal beer by May.

A flourish of Governor Walter A. Huxman's pen — and he intends to sign — will permit sale of "three-point-two" in the first step Kansas has taken away from a strictly prohibition policy since it gained the name of "bone dry" 57 years ago.

"A great improvement over conditions as they exist in Kansas today," said the governor of the bill finally enacted late yesterday.

"It will save prohibition in Kansas," insisted Rep. Donald Muir who said "I'm speaking as a teetotaler."

In reality, beer already is on sale in some cities of Kansas. Dispensers got busy after Missouri and other neighboring states threatened to lure dollars of the thirsty across the line. Attempts to prosecute Kansans failed when juries refused to rule the beer intoxicating. So Kansas had beer but no beer revenue.

Party Series Honoring Miss Dorothy Rushing Will Be Concluded Tonight

Rehearsal Dinner To End Courtesies

A series of parties honoring Miss Dorothy Rushing, bride-elect of George E. Walton, will be concluded tonight when Misses Catherine Jameson and Faye Brown entertain with a supper at 7:45 o'clock, immediately following rehearsal, in the Hilton hotel Chimayo room.

The wedding is to be solemnized at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Paul's Episcopal church.

The supper table will be centered with an arrangement of jonquils and tapers. Other decorations will include placecards in the bridal theme.

Guests will be Miss Rushing, Mr. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Walton, Mrs. W. H. Walton, John R. Johnson, James Milam, Mrs. Truett Owen of Electra, the Rev. and Mrs. J. Hodge Alves, Mrs. Rozella Rushing and W. B. Rushing.

Mrs. Owen Entertains

This morning, Mrs. Owen who is the former Miss Virginia Bacon entertained with a breakfast at the home of her brother, Charles Bacon, 1632 Broadway. The table was centered with sweet peas.

The hostess presented a gift to Miss Rushing.

Guests were Mesdames Jimmie Wilson, George Langford and Robert Maxey and Misses Rose Heatly, Roberta Myrick and Brown.

In Maxey Home

On Thursday night, Mrs. Maxey and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Homer Maxey of Tahoka, entertained with a buffet supper in the Robert Maxey home.

The dining room table, from which the meal was served, was centered with a large arrangement of tulips. Foursome tables where guests sat were centered with sweet peas, stock and other flowers. Place cards were Easter baskets filled with Easter chickens and eggs. All appointments carried out a yellow and green color scheme.

A shower of gifts for the kitchen and bathroom was presented to the honoree in a large Easter basket.

Guests were Mrs. M. F. Brashear of Plainview, Mrs. Howard Parsley of Longview, Mrs. Owen, Mrs. J. H. Whiteside, Mrs. L. C. Tatom, Mrs. Newton Walton, Mrs. W. H. Walton, Mrs. Rushing, Mrs. G. N. Atkinson and Misses Crystelle Scudder, Brown, Mary Geniece Hardberger, Charlotte Ratliff, Heatly, Jameson, Monelle Partain, Evelyn Jones, Hazle Richerson and Mildred Boone.

Dark Skirts Worn With Light Coats

BY JOAN DURHAM
(AP) Feature Service Writer

Easter church-going brings church manners into the etiquette spotlight.

Most people are careful to refrain from holding conversations either before the services have begun or during the worship hour. They make it a courteous practice to share hymn and prayer books with occupants of the pew or row of seats in which they are sitting —whether the pew or seat happens to "belong" to them or not.

Selecting Seats

But there is one breach of church etiquette committed by many otherwise polite church members.

Instead of telling the usher where they prefer to sit—and then following him — many hesitant members of the congregation let the unfortunate usher start down the aisle searching for a satisfactory location while they duck into the first vacant pew they pass.

There are also a number of otherwise good citizens who insist on sitting next to the aisle and thereby inconvenience others.

The problem of what customs to follow in attending a strange church often arises. In churches which have a fairly simple ritual it is comparatively easy to behave as those about one do.

In general there are three customs for visitors to observe in Catholic churches.

Customs For Visitors

First, it is only polite to sit, stand and kneel when regular members of the congregation do so. Second, it is considered proper for women visitors to cover their heads. Third, many non-Catholics are embarrassed to discover that numerous Catholic churches take up two collections. The first, often collected at the door is generally called the pew "fee" or "charge." The second corresponds to the regular collection taken in most Protestant churches.

Most Catholics feel, however, that it is unnecessary for outsiders to genuflect (bend the knee just before entering the pew or seat) or to make the sign of the cross during the ceremony.

Striped Silks Are Vogue Of Spring

The vogue for novel dress prints has produced a new silk crepe for Easter patterned with little black deer running on a blue and green striped ground. Notice the contrast made by the diagonal stripes and the vertical pleats. The dress is worn with a black milan straw hat trimmed with tabs of white grossgrain ribbon and a black patent leather belt and bag.

Natural Looks Are Vogue For Easter

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

Spring clothes in new and exciting colors call for new makeup. You just can't put on the cosmetics you wore with black all winter when you step out in an Easter suit of navy blue with Gaugin pink blouse.

With navy, wear warm red rouge and lipstick which bring a healthy glow to cheeks and lips. Also, blue eyeshadow, brown mascara and a beige powder with underlying tones of peach.

You should, of course, see that your powder matches exactly or is one shade lighter than your skin. Right now, the vogue is for natural-looking faces instead of cosmetic masks. Keep your skin tones as well as your wardrobe color scheme firmly in mind. It is possible to buy makeup which matches the former yet doesn't clash with the latter.

You wouldn't, for example, wear rust lipstick and nail lacquer with a purple suit, pink blouse or any rose-toned costume. Rust goes with beige and brown and off shades of orange and yellow.

Green eyeshadow is a nice conceit for the woman who owns a yellow or gold evening gown. Rouge with a kind of rust undertone, matching lipstick, bluish-green mascara and a warm, glowing shade of powder are for rust and tangerine as well as gold.

Experiment with color and with cosmetics a little more seriously this year. You don't have to wear navy or black or gray, you know. Why not get a small remnant in a color you never have worn, hold it around your throat while you try various powder, lipsticks and such? Many cosmeticians claim that, given the right makeup, any woman can wear any color. It's a pleasant thought.

Sixty Couples Are At Assembly Party

Sixty couples attended an old-fashioned box supper and dance given for the Assembly club Thursday night at the Hilton hotel. The entertainment included a sweepstakes stunt which was won by Johnny Crisler and Mrs. W. H. Evans. The supper boxes were auctioned off.

Music was by the Larrymore orchestra.

Hosts were Dr. and Mrs. Sam G. Dunn, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. McAlister, Glen Hess, Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Read, B. C. Dickinson and Hub Jones.

Bonnets Go Romantically Feminine

Here is Lilly Dache's version of the Easter bonnet, designed to follow the romantic feminine trend which marks this season's mode. It is a pillbox of gray toyo finished with a visor brim cupping over the forehead and accented with a cluster of violets and a violet velvet trim tying under the chin. The gloves are gray doeskin.

Dunbar P-TA Meet Held Thursday

The Dunbar Parent-Teacher association met Thursday afternoon in the school building with Rosie Henry presiding. Eighty-seven persons were present.

Reports of committees and room representatives were heard, and an Easter program was opened by Lillian Struggs. Pupils of the sixth and seventh grades, taught by L. H. Hill, with Edna Ray Wortham at the piano were on the program. The same grades won the attendance prizes, a picture and an Easter basket.

Refreshments were served in the home economics room.

Hypnosis Babies Compare Notes

Pictured together here for the first time, Robert Moore, left, and Shirley Marie Loomis, presumably chat in their own particular language about how it feels to be hypnosis babies. Robert was born Aug. 4, 1936, and Shirley on July 20, 1936, both in Columbus, O. Each mother was put into deep hypnotic sleep during the painless delivery. No anesthetic was used. Robert already has four teeth. Both babies can sit up.

Funeral Services To Be Held Today

ROPESVILLE, March 26. (Special) — Funeral rites for Virgil W. Reece, about 38, farmer of the Ropesville Resettlement colony, probably will be held today. Burial probably will be this afternoon at Levelland, his former home.

He died at 7 o'clock Thursday morning at a hospital at Brownfield.

It had not been announced whether funeral rites would be read at his home here or in a Levelland church.

Reece had undergone surgery Saturday night for ruptured appendix. Gangrene had set in, said friends.

Reece had moved here with his family in January, 1936, and had settled on plot 5.

He leaves his widow and five children, ranging in age from 5 to 15 years; two brothers at Bonham, one brother at Levelland, and a sister and his parents at Bonham.

UNDERGO OPERATIONS

R. D. Jones, community manager of the Ropesville rehabilitation project, said three persons of that community had undergone appendix operations in three days.

Miss Edna Preston and Mrs. H. A. Winkler went to surgery Sunday and Monday, respectively. Both are improving normally, he said.

An 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mayfield of the colony is suffering of pneumonia.

A total of 133 persons is numbered in the colony. There have been two deaths since the project was initiated, the other being a two-year-old child. There have been four births, said Jones.

In 1924, the U. S. Department of Agriculture spent $1,300,000 in attempts to control insects and diseases of plants and animals.

CHOKE STEALS your mileage

CHOKE USES UP GASOLINE 5 to 15 TIMES FASTER!

Scientific tests prove that the world's greatest gas-waster is right on your instrument board.

That innocent-looking button labeled "choke" is the thief that steals your mileage.

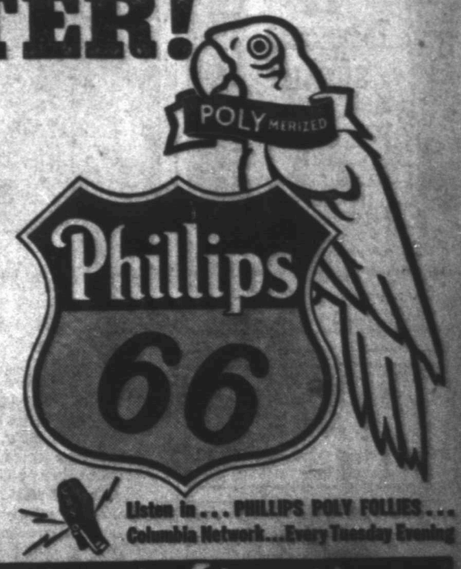

While the choke is pulled out for starting, or while the motor is warming up, your gas tank is being drained five to fifteen times faster than normal!

The easy way to reduce this waste is to use the new Phillips 66 Poly Gas. It needs the least possible choke, because it is extra high test. And it is extra high test without a penny of extra price, because Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high test gasoline.

The result is that car owners everywhere report records of remarkable gasoline economy . . . outstandingly fast starting . . . extra power, pep, and miles . . . far finer performance on every count.

Remember, this great gasoline is now better than ever, since every gallon is enriched with extra energy units by the patented POLYmerization process.

Next time you see the Orange and Black 66 Shield, stop for a trial tankful of Phillips 66 Poly Gas . . . GO EASY ON THE CHOKE . . . and then just feel that difference!

METERS AGAIN ARE TALKED

OVERTURES ARE MADE FOR SETTLEMENT OF COURT BATTLE

Overtures directed at settlement out of court of the parking meter injunction case were initiated in a City commission meeting Thursday afternoon.

The commission invited plaintiffs in the suit against the City to meet with the commission.

W. A. Darter, representing Dual Parking Meter company of Oklahoma City, said his company would change the meters sold to the City to register two hours instead of one, without cost to the City. Further, he said his company would bear court costs if the injunction suit is dropped.

Injunction Restrains City

In a motion made by Commissioner W. B. Price and seconded by Commissioner J. A. Fortenberry, and carried unanimously, the commission invited the plaintiffs, and their attorneys, in the injunction suit to meet with the commission at the convenience of the plaintiffs.

"My company prefers working out this problem to the satisfaction of the citizens to taking it to the higher court," said Darter, who sold the meters to the City. He pointed out that Florida and Oklahoma courts had upheld legality of parking meters used to regulate traffic and that an Alabama court had banned the meters when used solely to raise funds.

To Enforce Regulations

The commission instructed Dr. J. W. Rollo, City health officer, to enforce regulations in the stock pen zone. Doctor Rollo and J. C. Oliver, of the state health department, had informed the commission that a City water well in the area had been contaminated. They, blamed the feeding pens for the contamination.

The well has been shut down. A City ordinance requires that 6-inch curbs be placed around stock pens, that caliche be placed in the pens, and that refuse be collected and hauled from the premises daily.

Claude Tatum, J. O. Ford, and O. L. Nislar, representing stock pen interests, agreed to abide by the regulations.

Had Not Been Complying

Doctor Rollo charged that stock pen operators had not been complying with the ordinance.

The contaminated well had been producing 400 gallons of water per minute.

Informed by Joe Wilson, executive secretary of County-City Welfare association, that WPA effective April 1 would discontinue furnishing sewing machines for the sewing room project, commissioners voted to expend $665 of association funds for 35 machines provided county commissioners would concur. WPA has paid $20 rental on each machine, with option of having that amount included as part of the purchase price. The association would pay the balance of approximately $12 per machine.

Purchase Garbage Equipment

City commission purchased two Elgin garbage collection units, at a cost of $1,575 each. The units will be mounted on trucks and will be used in collection of garbage. Loading and dumping will be expedited.

O. B. Conley, E. C. Kuykendall, and W. O. Daniels were appointed members of a local safety council to be affiliated with the National Safety council. The American Legion is sponsoring a safety campaign here.

Without taking action, the commission further studied possibility of purchasing 777 acres of land in and adjacent to Yellowhouse canyon for use as a garbage and sewer disposal plant.

City Manager W. H. Rodgers was instructed to obtain bids for a streets maintainer, on which a 10 per cent price advance will be effective soon.

Three dynamite blasts set off in a charivari for a newly wedded couple shattered several windows in Portland, Ore.

Who Wouldn't Join Their Class?

These two pretty University of Louisville co-eds donned shorts for work in the manual training class. Miss Betty Anna Millard is wielding the saw while Miss Jean Lovejoy holds the board in place.

SHACKTOWN WILL SOON BE MOVED

City commission yesterday announced it would proceed, as planned recently, to move Shacktown April 1.

The commissioners instructed City Manager W. H. Rodgers and City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley to begin condemnation proceedings April 5 against any buildings not meeting requirements of the city building code and the sanitary code.

Voted Earlier This Year

Early this year the commission, after protests from property owners in northeast Lubbock, voted to start condemnation proceedings, in order to move Shacktown, on April 1.

Herbert Spence was employed by the City to prevent erection of additional shacks not conforming with building requirements.

"We appreciate their circumstances," said Commissioner W. G. McMillan in speaking of residents of Shacktown, "but they must live up to the code just as the residents of other sections."

As soon as its spawning season is over, the adult eel dies.

THE SAFE, SENSIBLE WAY TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

Every one knows the dangers of constipation. Pills and drugs usually bring only temporary relief. That's because common constipation is due to meals low in "bulk."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains "bulk" that does not break down in the body as does that of many leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and forms a soft mass that gently sponges the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. In addition to "bulk"—it gives vitamin B to tone up the system, and iron for the blood. It is a healthful way to get rid of constipation and all its evils.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily with milk or cream—three times a day in severe cases. Or use it in making bran muffins, breads, in salads or soups. Guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DROUTH FIGHT IS MAPPED

FARM AGENT TELLS OF BEST METHODS TO COMBAT DUST

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Gaunt Bill Baker of Boise City, Okla., for 57 years a resident of the dust bowl area of western Oklahoma stroked his long, drooping mustache today and declared coverage crops and rain were the solution of the black blizzard problem in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Colorado.

Baker, a county farm agent, came here to offer suggestions on wind erosion legislation at the request of Oklahoma A. and M. college. He conferred with agriculture department officials and Oklahoma representatives.

Best Solution

Listing of land may be an emergency aid in fighting the choking black dust storms until coverage crops are started and rains fall again, Baker believes. But he sees the planting of sorghums and sudan grass as the best solution of the problem.

Baker said he favored the plan of Representative Phil Ferguson of Woodward, Okla., for additional federal payments to farmers who take land out of cultivation and place them in coverage crops.

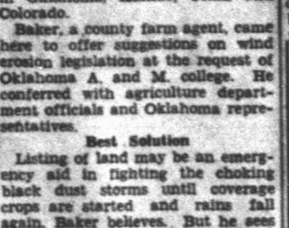

Peering over his glasses, Baker indicated that if the story told by pine trees in the dust bowl is repeated, the present five year drouth with its dust storms may soon end.

Signs Are Read

"We have just finished taking tree ring readings of 55 points in a radius of 20 miles of Boise City," Baker said. "The average age of the trees was 132 years. We could tell by the examination of the rings that there never has been a drouth of more than five years at any time, but those drouths have occurred three or four times.

"During my 57 years of experience in the west I have seen similar conditions three or four times and each time when we came out of the drouth conditions have been better than before.

"It would be a mistaken idea to move the people out of the dust area and put them in farms elsewhere. This is not the beginning of the end for the dust bowl by any means."

Robert B. Evans, postmaster at Elkmont, Ala., has not observed a holiday or taken a vacation in 30 years and says he works 18 hours daily.

STATION PLAN CONSIDERED

COMFORT STATION FOR PUBLIC IS TALKED HERE THURSDAY

Plans for a public comfort station, first advocated here by The Plainsman, Evening Journal columnist, were considered at a meeting of City commissioners and county officials yesterday afternoon.

Chas. A. Guy, spokesman at the request of the chamber of commerce; O. R. Walker, architect; County Commissioner T. L. Holt, County Auditor J. Y. Boyd, Harley Woods, Robert J. Allen, A. I. Glassman, and Frank McPherson, the last named four men representing the VFW and American Legion, met with the commission.

Location Is Suggested

Guy said he had advocated construction of a public comfort station on the west side of the courthouse square to aid in making "this town more and more attractive to the people who trade here."

"No first class, decent restrooms are available, aside from the filling stations which are away from the business district," he said.

Walker displayed a drawing of the proposed comfort station, with a plat showing facilities to be offered. Possibility of the structure's being used as a memorial has been considered by the representatives of the two veterans organizations. Woods said the veterans committee would report back to the two organizations for further instructions on the question.

Would Cost $12,000

Cost would not exceed $12,000, said Walker.

County commissioners court is remodeling the courthouse, planning to install a smaller comfort station in the basement if the larger station is not constructed.

Auditor Boyd pointed out that space needed for offices in the courthouse basement would be available if the comfort station were erected west of the building. A basement type structure is planned, with a memorial or a tall flag pole above the surface.

Marries Again

Nancy Traylor Swift, above, daughter of the late Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker, surprised Chicago society for the second time in a year when she appeared at the Cook County building and was married to Marcy T. Weeks, loan firm executive. The first surprise came last summer when she divorced her first husband, Nathan B. Swift, member of the packing family.

Efforts of the Brazilian government and private interests to locate oil deposits in Brazil important enough to justify exploitation have been fruitless, according to reports to the department of commerce.

Body Of Child Is Located In Water

LAGRANGE, March 26 (AP)—The body of Daniel Kallus, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kallus, who reside between here and Rutersville, was found in a cattle watering trough after a frantic search.

The boy was believed lured to the trough in the hope of finding fish. Funeral services will be held today.

Sheriff James Davis of Osborney county, Kas., dug up a nearly-full 10-gallon keg of whisky, believed to have been buried before the eighteenth amendment was passed.

GOOD RELIEF
of constipation by a
GOOD LAXATIVE

Many folks get such refreshing relief by taking Black-Draught for constipation that they prefer it to other laxatives and urge their friends to try it. Black-Draught is made of the leaves and roots of plants. It does not disturb digestion but stimulates the lower bowel so that constipation is relieved.

Svenson Is Named As Masonic Leader

Carl Svenson of Lubbock was elected president of South Plains Scottish Rite Masons after annual Maundy Thursday ceremonies last night at Hilton hotel.

E. D. Parks of Lubbock was elected secretary.

Twenty-five Masons of Lubbock and other South Plains towns attended the ceremonies following an informal dinner over which Dr. Jack M. Lewis presided as toastmaster.

Dr. James M. Gordon was in charge of the ceremonies.

Retiring officers were: Dr. Lewis, president, and W. Millard P. Swart, secretary.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

Disintegration

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—With a crash that aroused the neighborhood, an untenanted, two-story frame house folded up like an accordion. Police questioned a group of some 30 boys. They blamed the wind until one piped up:

"We might as well tell the truth. Each one of us took a board or so off the house, and all of a sudden it started to fall."

A Dollar Saved

NEW YORK—Giacomo Longo, 53, went to jail when he said he did not have $10 to pay a fine for building a shack without a permit. When his term was up police returned his overcoat to him, together with $230 in cash and $2,500 in saving receipts.

He had sewn his wealth in the lining of the coat.

There Go Profits

PROVO, Utah—Several years ago Edwin A. Evans, Salt Lake City salesman, sold this central Utah community a traffic light.

Now he isn't so sure it was a successful sale. He paid $5 for ignoring the signal.

Ready, Set, Go

FAIRMONT, Minn.—James Clark, Fairmont painter, claims a record for divesting his shirt in nothing flat.

Clark neglected to tuck in his shirt while he helped his wife wash dishes. It dragged across the gas stove.

Six buttons popped as he shed the garment with a single motion.

Be Fair Boys

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—After his store had been burglarized five times in five months, Harry Gershman inserted this ad in a newspaper:

"Burglars attention—when robbing store this month please use front door. We are tired of replacing windows. Regards. Harry's Grocery."

No Blunder, Maybe

ARAPAHOE, Neb.—J. H. Scott, Arapahoe stockman, inadvertently spread powdered asbestos instead of fertilizer to his lawn. Informed of the blunder, he philosophized:

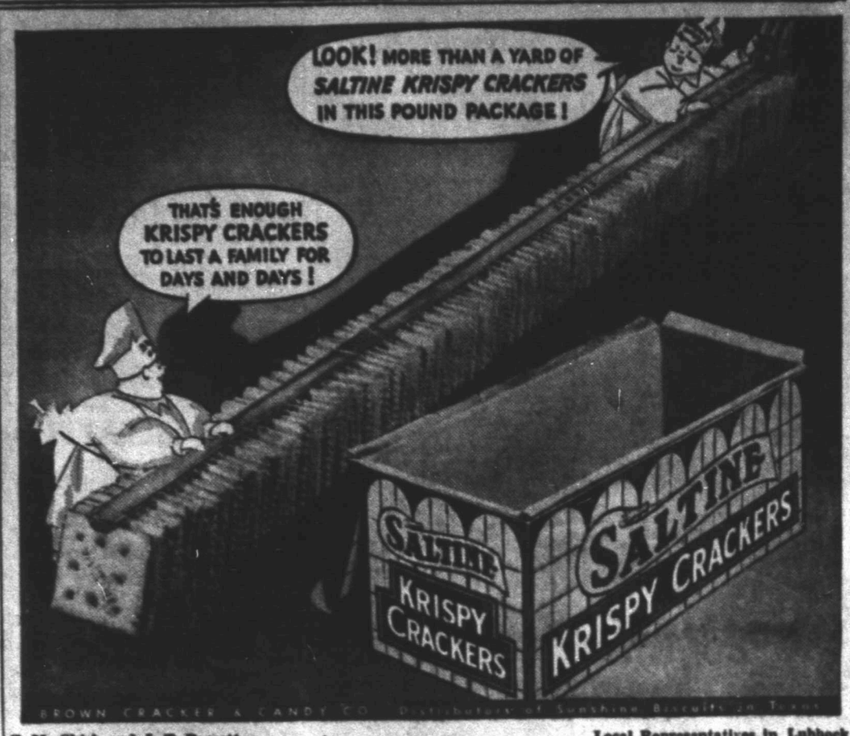

"It's just as well, with another hot summer on the way."

Tornadoes, during the last 20 years, have taken 5246 lives in the United States and caused property damage of more than $233,000,000.

Kansan Convicted of 'Dog Murder'

Earl Pilkington, Cherryvale, Kas., restaurant proprietor, is shown with his wife after he was pronounced guilty of charges growing out of the death of Old Shep, the town's best known dog. Pilkington was fined $25 and court costs. He said he would appeal. (Associated Press Photo)

Powell Rites Are Set In City Today

Last rites will be read for Mrs. Mattie M. Powell of San Antonio at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Rix Funeral home. Rev. Walter P. Jennings of Plainview will conduct services.

She died at the home of a son, James K. Powell, Thursday morning.

Pallbearers will be Harry Morris, Rufus Rush, Paul Hardwick, Dr. R. B. Hutchinson, Dr. M. H. Benson and Edgar Shelton.

Mrs. Powell, about 80, lived in Lubbock many years. She was the grandmother of Mrs. George E. Benson of 2425 Nineteenth street.

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery, where her husband was buried.

Moving to Lubbock in 1909, she had been a resident of here until several years ago when she moved to San Antonio to live with her son.

She fell and broke her hip several months ago and never had completely recovered.

Gly-Cas A Real Blessing To Her

Gas, Bloating Gone, Sleeps Good, Energy Quickly Restored; Gly-Cas Gives Mrs. Elliott Wonderful Relief; Entire System Freed Of Poisons

"There is no need for so much suffering in this world today since Gly-Cas can be had," said Mrs. J. D. Elliott, 205 Plum St., Monroe, La. "For more than ten years a stubborn case of constipation had continually been filling my system with poisons. Soon my stomach was terribly affected, gases formed and I bloated after eating even the simplest of foods. Attacks of indigestion were sure to follow each meal I ate, heartburned and palpitated. I also lacked the energy to do my work and really felt as if my entire system was worn-out. In spite of all I tried I grew worse each day and was about to give up hope of ever being well again when I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas—and put it to a severe test in my own case."

MRS. J. D. ELLIOTT

"To my pleasant surprise this new Gly-Cas regulated my bowels almost at once—and in a most natural way too," she continued. "The poisons were eliminated and I soon began eating foods I had been denied for years. Those attacks of indigestion, gas and bloating are now over, some of the hardest foods to digest cause me no trouble whatever and it is a real pleasure to be able to enjoy my meals again. To all suffering people I want to recommend Gly-Cas for on my case alone it has certainly proven its merit beyond all doubt."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

YAQUI BRAVES FIND PEACE

FIERCE WARRIORS OF HILLS LAYING DOWN DEADLY RIFLES

MEXICO CITY, March 26 (AP) — Dams and ditches have served, where bombs and bullets failed, to pacify the war-like Yaquis.

Reports reaching the Mexican government said the doughty Sonora state Indians, convinced President Lazaro Cardenas' irrigation program was for their good, were laying down rifles to take up picks and shovels.

Warriors who for 400 years successfully resisted civilization are using their trail-hardened muscles to help government engineers dig canals and ditches to moisten their dry farm lands, the reports said.

Projects Completed

With their aid, six small irrigation projects bringing 15,000 acres into productivity have been completed. A pump installed on the banks of the Yaqui river will supply water for 12,000 more acres, lands of the town of Botaconcica.

By July, the irrigation commission announces, it hopes to have under cultivation 32,000 acres of Yaqui lands. Ultimate objective is irrigation of some 700,000 acres. For that, engineers are pushing work on the huge Angostura dam on the Yaqui river, which will store 4,000,000,000 (billion) cubic yards of water. Other small streams in the Bacatete mountains also will be dammed.

Back in those Bacatete mountains are the almost impregnable fastnesses that enabled the most warlike Yaquis to fight off the white man's advance for 400 years.

The rugged terrain was at once their fortress and their ammunition, for too intrepid soldiers pushing into mountain passes quickly found avalanches, started by Yaquis' hands, roaring down upon them.

Resisted All Invasions

Resisting successfully the Spanish Conquistadores, the Yaquis likewise refused allegiance to Mexican republic governments. They were thorns in the side of the late Porfirio Diaz during his 30-year rule of iron, although he sought unsuccessfully to break their spirit by sending captured warriors to far-away Yucatan's plantations.

Francisco Madero's revolution against Diaz in 1910 brought many Yaquis down out of their hills, and they furnished the cream of the fighting men—always on the side of liberal government—in the civil wars that followed.

Afterward, they went back to their mountains to keep fighting for freedom and independence. Punitive expeditions Mexican governments sent after them came back beaten. Modern methods of warfare failed against their guerrilla tactics. Aerial raiders could not find their well-hidden camps.

Now, however, if government's reports are true, the last of the Yaquis—in addition to an estimated 1,000 already settled down to peaceful farming—have come over.

Uncle Sam's 20-Cent Whistler Etching

Federal laws being what they are, anyone can buy a genuine Whistler etching for only 20 cents—the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey map pictured above, showing Anacapa Island in the Santa Barbara Channel. Not only that, but it is historic in that it was the cause of James McNeil Whistler's dismissal from the service, since, contrary to instructions, he decorated the drawing of the natural bridge (lower center) with two flocks of gulls, the little black dots fluttering above the point. To the chagrin of his unappreciative bosses, he became a world-famous artist.

TIRE TROUBLES TIRE HIM

On his way here recently, Belknap had a flat tire. Then he found he had left at home a key to the trunk containing the spare tire. He walked to a farmhouse, called a Chickasha garage. The garage man filed a new key and brought it out. Belknap unlocked the trunk. The spare tire had been stolen.

J. A. James, farmer near Amarillo, Texas, has built a combine, wheat harvesting machine, which he says weighs 2,000 pounds less and has 400 fewer working parts than combines now in use.

WOMAN PROFITS IN SNAILS

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Five years ago Mrs. A. A. Munn started raising snails as an experiment. Now she has the largest business of its type in this part of the country. She raises several kinds of snails in 12 large glass aquariums and three wooden tubs and ships them to markets throughout the country for aquaria use.

PANTRY SNOOPERS

WASHINGTON — Harry Hopkins of the works progress administration is one of the New Deal's ace coiners of wise cracks.

His definition of social investigators who might be assigned to carry out a dole or direct relief program is:

"Why, they would be an army of pantry snoopers!"

Betsy Pontiac Korndyke Lass, a 15-year-old Holstein cow of the Parsons (Kas.) State hospital herd, has produced 110 times her weight in milk and four times her weight in butterfat.

Keeps you stepping high...this FRIENDLY STIMULATION

A MODERN PAVLOWA, TAMARA GEVA, lovely musical comedy dancing star, says: "I don't know what I'd do without Maxwell House—it's a wonderful 'reviver' after a strenuous performance."
"SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT!" SAY THE THREE "X" SISTERS, NBC's well-known trio, speaking about the Friendly Stimulation they get from Maxwell House. "When I feel worn-out, it's great the way this marvelous coffee revives me, cheers me up!" says Pearl, the eldest.
"WE'RE SHIPMATES FOREVER," SAYS BURR COOK, author of the radio sea-story "Cape Diamond Light." "Maxwell House Coffee has a flavor that beats any other coffee I've ever tasted." Maxwell House is a blend of the world's choicest coffees—that's why its flavor is so rich and full-bodied.
ARE YOU GETTING YOUR MONEY'S WORTH?
IT'S easy to be fooled when buying coffee. Do you pay for fine flavor and freshness—and then not find it in the coffee you buy?
Remember—one way to be sure of getting full value for your money is to ask for Maxwell House. For Vita-Fresh Maxwell House is packed in the super-vacuum can—the only way science knows to always bring you coffee without loss of flavor . . . coffee as fresh and delicious as the hour it left the roaster. Lubbock Squad Will Compete At Memphis

CAPROCK RELAYS ARE TO BE CONDUCTED ON SATURDAY

For their second trip of the new season, Lubbock High school's track and field team will visit Memphis tomorrow and compete in the Caprock Relays, Coach Goober Keyes announced last night.

Thirty-five schools from Oklahoma and Texas have been invited to participate in the events, preliminaries in which start at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning. The Westerners are sure to bump into some of the toughest competition of West Texas, and Coach Keyes hopes to get a slant on how his athletes will perform in the District 3 meet here April 17.

The following Westerners will compete in the Memphis meet:

Harold Ingley, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, medley relay and mile relay.

Robert Castle, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, medley relay and mile relay.

Bill Sessums, 440-yard run and medley relay.

Jennings, 440-yard run.

Walter Webster, 100-yard dash, 200-yard dash and mile relay.

Melvin Cooksey, 440-yard run and mile relay.

Rafe Nabors, discus and shot.

H. P. Ford, high jump, pole vault, broad jump.

Virgle Simmons, shot and discus.

H. B. Moxley, 880-yard run.

Jarvis Wright, 880-yard run and mile relay.

Simms, high jump and javelin throw.

Keyes intimated that another carload might go. This would include another pole vaulter, high jumper and at least one other track man.

In practice so far, the Westerner relay team has had a "best time" of 3:41 minutes for the four laps. Simms has tossed the javelin 150 feet for another best mark. Sessums has paced off the 880-yard run in 2:15, and Castle has romped the 440-yard run in 54 seconds. Ingley's best marks so far have been 10.2 in the century, 23.8 in the 220. Keyes thinks his medley relay team should get the job done in about 3:52.

Country Club Will Stage Tournament

The Lubbock Country Club's "Scotch foursome" tournament and "Dutch dinner," first scheduled event on the 1937 calendar, postponed from last Wednesday, is to be staged Wednesday of next week, officials have announced.

The event, originally booked for last Wednesday, was postponed because of unfavorable weather conditions.

All golf playing members, men and women, of the club are urged to remember the date, Wednesday, March 31, and to indicate to Charles Akey, the club pro, or Mrs. C. L. Dean, if they plan to be present.

Officials said yesterday that the annual Country Club invitation tournament had been tentatively scheduled for August 26, 27, 28 and 29, provided those dates have not been taken by another major tournament in West Texas. The tournament is being held late in the year for the second successive time, due to improvements on the course. By the latter part of August, the new grass tees, now under construction, should be ready for use, officials said. The grass greens, installed last year, should be in the best of condition by then, too, it was explained.

Horton Smith Cops North, South Play

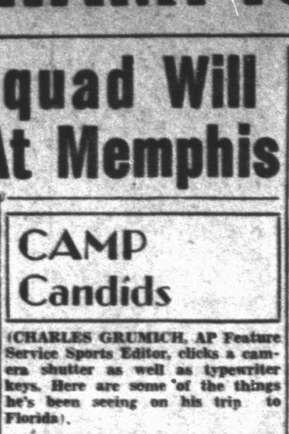

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26 (AP)—With $1,000 added to his already fat purse, Horton Smith, winner of the north and south open golf tournament, led professional shooters toward Augusta, Ga., today for the masters' tournament starting Thursday.

Smith, lanky Chicago shotmaker, shot a blazing 69 through stiff winds yesterday to pass Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., pro.

His four round total was 286, three shots better than Runyan, who won $600. Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., took $500 third money with 292.

ANOTHER DIZZY is Paul Trout, the clown of the Detroit Tigers at the spring encampment at Lakeland, Fla. Trout came up from Indianapolis where he won 8, lost 7. He is expected to stick.

RED ROOKIE Johnny Vander Meer once played in a motion picture with the Brooklyn Dodgers as "the typical American boy." Now he's the answer to Cincinnati Manager Chuck Dressen's prayer for a powerful young pitcher. He struck out 25 for Durham last year, was voted the outstanding minor leaguer of '36.

GEORGE SISLER, famous firstsacker of a recent day and now America's softball king with headquarters in St. Louis, works out with the St. Louis Cardinals at Daytona Beach.

BOB SMITH of the Boston Bees (at St. Pete) keeps young and keeps on hurling. He's 38, and has a son coming up some day.

MANY OF THE big league training camp yarns and chronicles of "experts' opinions" could be saved over from spring to spring, printed from the same old type, thus saving the wires a lot of heavy traffic and a lot of wear and tear on typewriters and pencils.

Now and then, however, there comes a yarn a little different. Here's one dealing with the Chicago Cubs and an innovation recently put into effect by Manager Charley Grimm. It is passed on by Richard McCann of NEA, and is submitted as a somewhat humorous and different piece of training camp literature:

Foreman Charley Grimm (the story goes) laid his cards on the table the other day and barred poker playing among his Chicago Cubs during the spring training season—and also for the rest of the year.

Not that Charley himself doesn't like the game. Charley'll draw to an inside as quick as the next one. But he has come to believe that poker and pennants, like alcohol and gasoline, just don't mix.

You see, he blames poker for the Cubs' failure to win the National League flag in 1936.

It seems that there was a lonesome rookie southpaw named Clausson Vines at the Cubs' training camp last spring and the boys very graciously informed him that there was a seat open in a stud game in Room 406 if he cared to while away a few hours.

It so happened that Mr. Vines, in this respect, was no different from any other ball player. He had lots of time on his hands. And so he ambled up to 406 and sat down.

In due course he managed to get the time off his hands and filled them with crumpled coin of the realm to the satisfying extent of some $100, or so.

Naturally the boys tried to win a little of this back the next night. But Mr. Vines proceeded to add $50 more to his bankroll. And so the stud game was running in 406 again the next night. And so was Mr. Vines' luck. He won again.

Well, to make a long story short, the boys played night after night, far into the night, and Mr. Vines continued to make more money than a counterfeiter, averaging, they say, about $100 a night while he was with the team.

Even after he had regretfully taken his leave for some minor league club for further seasoning, the boys continued to play night after night, all night long, in an effort to make up their losses.

Mr. Grimm has an idea that this all-night poker playing might have had something to do with his team's failure to win the pennant. Dealing the cards might have been bad on the pitchers' arms while looking through the smoke haze for that third queen might have tired and dulled the batters' eyes. Hence no poker this year.

Well, that mayy take care of the Cards — but, say, Charley, what about the Pirates and the Giants?

Amateur Stars To Compete At Dallas

DALLAS, Mar. 26. (AP)—Robert L. Humphrey, director of sports of the Greater Texas and Pan American exposition, today announced receipt of a cablegram saying amateur stars of Argentine, Peru, Uruguay, Chile and Brazil would participate in the exposition's meet this summer.

Athletes from the Latin American countries will compete in Rio De Janeiro during May in an athletic festival in which champions will be chosen for the exposition meet, the director said.

He said the United States would be represented by champions crowned in the national A. A. U. meet at Milwaukee in June.

Race Horse Named For Texas Solon

AUSTIN, Mar. 26. (AP)—The latest addition to the Winfree Bros. racing stable is a one-day-old horse colt named for Rep. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, house sponsor of repeal of the Texas racing laws.

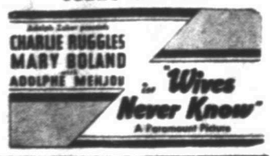

Rep. Joe Ed Winfree of Houston obtained written permission from the Abilene legislator to name the colt "Bryan Bradbury." He is a son of Essie by Drinkhearty.

"I am confident that racing in Texas is safe," Winfree said, "and I want to see 'Bryan Bradbury' a winner on Texas tracks several years from now."

Bradbury expressed hope his namesake "develops to be a fast horse and wins every race he ever runs."

REDS WILL BE IN RACE ALL THE WAY

CINCY WILL LIKELY SPRING SURPRISE ON THE OTHERS

BY PAUL MICKELSON

NEW ORLEANS, March 26 (AP)—A five-club race, so close and exciting that its result can hinge on one sore arm or leg, seems as certain as popcorn and peanuts in the National league this year.

All set and ready to make a serious challenge to the New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh pennant combine over the last 76 seasons are Chuck Dressen's hustling Cincinnati Reds. They're red hot.

Reds Are Improving

The prospect may sound outlandish but isn't—

Signs of baseball disintegration can be detected everywhere along the lineups of the Giants, Cubs, Cardinals and Pirates, whereas the Reds are improving. Go down the National league line:

St. Louis—With the acquisition of Lon Warneke from the Cubs to team with Dizzy Dean, the gashouse gang undoubtedly will get the favorite's call. Paul Dean? Wise ones say he's all through.

New York—Terry's big problem is a first baseman to take his place. Hank Leiber, the phlegmatic Dutchman, is another big "if."

Excellent Pitching

Chicago—Pitching should be excellent even without Warneke but it is doubtful if they'll have enough punch.

Pittsburgh — The Pirates always seem to have everything but the winning spark.

Cincinnati—They finished here, in fifth place, last year but were riddled with injuries. If the Red pitching, championed by such good flingers as Paul Derringer, Al Hollingsworth and young Gene Schott, escapes unscathed, the Reds can't help but be tough. The one big weakness is the lack of a hard-

Bob Feller Just Attends To Work

BEING BASEBALL STAR IS NO BOTHER FOR YOUNG PITCHER

BY PAUL MICKELSON

NEW ORLEANS, March 26. (AP)—A candid interview with Robert William Andrew Feller, Cleveland's country boy baseball pitcher:

Q. "Bob, how does it seem to be a baseball Cinderella man? Is your head spinning, or are you affected with the so-called delusions of grandeur?"

Mind's On Business

A. "It doesn't bother me. I just make believe I'm cultivating corn. I'm just keeping my ears closed, my eyes wide open and my mind on my business."

Q. "Suppose you discover after all this ballyhoo and publicity that you're not ready for the big time after all. Would you be satisfied to go to a minor league club for more experience?"

A. "I would if my arm was okay and it was just experience that I needed. But if I failed because my arm was sore and couldn't take it, I'd quit baseball and go to college."

Q. "What would you study if you went to college?"

He Loves Farming

A. "Farming, of course. Next to baseball, I love farming. That's a great life."

Q. "The New York Yankees tell me you're a sucker with men on bases—that the base runners can steal you blind, can you remedy that?"

A. "Maybe so, but I intend to make it hard on the boys to steal first on me."

Q. "I also hear your arm gets sore frequently because you cock it like a gun when you throw, giving your elbow a hard jerk."

A. "I dunno but my arm feels swell now. I sprained it while working on a tractor last winter and it was so sore I couldn't comb my hair for a month, but Lefty (Trainer Lefty Weisman) has it in great shape now. Don't think I jerk it much."

Reports on the Ottawa, Kas., public school's cleanup week: 100,000 pieces of unburnable trash collected; 919 barrels of dandelions dug; 584 cockroaches killed.

TEXAS FACING ARKANSAS IN TITLE GAME

GALVESTON OUTFIT IS FAVORED; THRILLS ON LAST NIGHT

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

WICHITA, Kas., Mar. 26. (AP)—The tall, veteran Galveston, Tex., Anicos, and the crimson clad Little Rock, Ark., Flyers will battle tonight for the women's national A. A. U. basketball championship.

A new champion is assured either way.

The Texans already were conceded an edge, but events of the semi-final round last night turned that edge into a wide border.

Packed With Thrills

Galveston, pre-tournament favorite, was given a battle before it could subdue the defending champion Tulsa Stenos, seeking their fourth consecutive title. The score was 23 to 13. But that battle was a pink tea compared to the heart-fluttering struggle between the Flyers and the Wichita Thurstons.

In a game packed with thrills, the Flyers won in a second overtime period, 30 to 28. The 5,000 spectators, hoarse and spent, sank limply into their seats as tall, fragile, Lucille Thurman, groggy from a violent collision, picked herself off the floor to send a looping, one-handed shot into the net for the

OLD DREAM TO COME TRUE

ROBERT LEE WILLIAMS IS NOMINATED TO CIRCUIT COURT

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Mar. 26 (AP)—Federal Judge Robert Lee Williams, dominant figure in Oklahoma public affairs since territorial days, watched a cherished dream become a reality today when he was nominated for elevation to the tenth U. S. circuit court of appeals.

President Roosevelt sent the name of the 68-year-old wartime governor—he'll be 70 in 21 months—to the senate for confirmation of an appointment to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge George T. McDermott of Kansas.

Promises To Retire

After 18 years as federal judge of the eastern Oklahoma district, the white-haired jurist has promised to retire when he reaches 70.

From circuit rider as a Methodist Episcopal preacher to United States circuit court epitomizes the long career of the sharp-spoken jurist, whose pungent personality has become a state legend.

"Not a word," Judge Williams said with a broad grin today when asked to comment on his nomination. "I haven't been officially notified yet. The newspapermen have told me all I know about it."

Once an Alabama circuit rider who delved into law at night and studied for the ministry by day, Williams gave up his pastorate when he came to Indian territory to enter law.

Williams has clashed frequently with prohibitionists, chamber of commerce secretaries and Loquacious lawyers.

Once he adjourned court to rush to a Methodist church conference to oppose a resolution terming the 1928 presidential campaign a "referendum on prohibition."

"I don't think the church should be made an army of republicans," Williams told the convention.

A "teetotaler," Williams urged repeal of prohibition as "unworkable" in 1929.

Judge Williams once was voted by the Women's Christian Temperance Union "the most profane Oklahoman except William H. Murray," former governor. He retorted the W. C. T. U. was "a bunch of resoluters."

BOY SCOUT HUNT TO BE SATURDAY

Boy Scouts of the Lubbock, southeastern, southwestern, and southern districts of the South Plains council will meet in Lubbock at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the second annual Easter egg hunt to be held at Mackenzie State park, according to Earl M. McClure, executive.

The hunt will be divided into two divisions, one for the cubs and one for the scouts, Marion Sanford is chairman of the hunt.

Matinee To Be Held

Approximately 1,000 eggs will be hidden in the park by Eagle scouts. Most of the eggs will be obtained through a special matinee to be held at the Lindsey theater at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The admission charge for boys and girls will be three colored Easter eggs. Eggs will be ones hidden for the hunt.

Prizes will be awarded to the boys finding the "lucky eggs," McClure said. About 500 boys are expected to participate in the annual event.

Other hunts of the council will be at Silverton, northern district; Matador, northeastern district, Crosbyton, eastern district; Littlefield, northwestern district.

Southeastern, southwestern, and southern district scouts have been invited to attend the Lubbock hunt.

The Pascoleros began their weird dance of death which will continue without halt until Easter dawns.

The frenzied dancers will sweep about the ramada to the beat of tom-toms and gourd rattles until they drop from exhaustion.

For two days the followers of the Cristo have withstood the torment and derision of his foes, but tomorrow the forces of good will triumph over those of evil.

The tribesmen's enactment of the Easter story dates back 400 years, nearly a century before the passion play of Oberammergau.

the airport," he said.

In Chicago, Jack Frye, TWA president, asserted the ship, its engine and radio were in perfect mechanical condition at the time it left and that it arrived over the Pittsburgh airport on schedule.

H. L. Cunningham, a state seronautics inspector, the only official who would be quoted, said:

Was Out Of Control

"The plane apparently was out of control. The throttles must have been closed before the crash."

First persons to reach the wreckage said they heard no screams or groans, indicating all died instantaneously.

Had Pilot Bohnet been able to level off his ship, safety lay less than 100 yards away.

The tragedy was the third major air accident within a year in this area.

Last April 7, the "Sun Racer" smashed into a mountainside near Uniontown, killing 11.

Last September 5 a skyways sightseeing plane fell in a mass of flaming debris a few minutes after leaving the airport. Nine of her ten passengers died in the wreckage.

made expensive investments in tracks and livestock, they replied that Texas did not invite them to make such investments.

Repeal opponents said if the betting law was knocked out a rejuvenated horse and mule raising industry would be ruined, that gambling was an instinct and would continue, that if bookies were eliminated most opposition to race wagering would disappear.

Just before the vote, a widow and five children, whom Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, repeal leader, said had lost their husband and father because he committed suicide as a result of betting losses, were presented to the committee.

Challenge Answered

"Those on the other side contended our information about persons being widowed and orphaned was third-hand and challenged us to bring forth any concrete evidence," Nelson said. "Here is the answer to that challenge!"

Speakers for repeal included Rep. J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, author of the bill; Dr. W. D. Bradfield, professor in Southern Methodist university, Dallas; Rev. O. Sewell of San Antonio.

Among the opponents were William C. Repass of Houston, keynoter at the last state Democratic convention; Robert J. Kleberg, part owner of the vast King ranch; Dr. N. D. Buie of Marlin; Jay Taylor of Amarillo, and Fran McGill of Alice, president of a livestock association.

ANIMALS ENTERED IN SHOWING HERE

With the deadline passed for entries of livestock in the Plains Quality Meat Show to be held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week, 142 calves, 216 pigs, and 88 lambs have been entered, according to the committee in charge.

No other entries will be accepted unless they are postmarked March 23 or before.

The number of entries this year is smaller than last because of more limitations on the type of stock. Qualifications are stricter this year than in any previous year.

Only finished animals placed by official judges of the event will be placed in the sale ring. Animals will be auctioned Wednesday afternoon in the order in which they were placed, officials said.

No advance entries are necessary in the cured meat division.

Meetings of the finance committee, superintendents and assistant superintendents, and entertainment committee were held at chamber of commerce offices Thursday to complete arrangements for the show.

City Of Lubbock Defendant In Suit

City of Lubbock was named defendant in a civil action asking $1,600 damages filed in 99th district court Thursday afternoon by Jack Strickland.

Strickland suffered injuries May 8, 1936, when in the employ of the City, he alleges.

He slipped when carrying "timber by himself which was too heavy" when constructing backboards for curbing, according to the plaintiff's petition. He charges the "Defendant and its agents and officials" of "neglect and failure to provide sufficient number of workmen."

He is asking damages for an operation and ten months' unemployment due to the accident.

Arnold Rites Are Conducted At Ralls

Funeral services for A. M. Arnold, 80, Ralls grocer who died at Lubbock early Thursday morning, were to be conducted at Ralls at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The body was taken there by Manr Funeral home which will be in charge of burial services, said Sanders Funeral home of Lubbock.

Arnold was survived by his wife.

A rose bush belonging to Mrs. Boynton Fleming of Santa Rosa, Tex., carried 633 buds and blossoms at once this year.

Sales Of Lots Are Being Investigated

Sale of lots in an addition to Presidio, in the Big Bend section, was being investigated here this morning by Sheriff Tom Abel and Chief Deputy Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter.

The officers wanted to know whether any infraction of the law was involved. One man was questioned.

"They have been going to people in this section, principally to rural people, and telling them they have drawn a lucky number entitling them to a free lot in the new addition," said Sheriff Abel. "They then tell the customer preparation of an abstract and other work will require $35. This man we have talked to has receipt copies showing he has received from $5 to $35."

The sheriff said he would check to determine whether the lots exist.

more dangerous and was maintained at regular pressure of four ounces. To reduce the pressure a regulator was installed.

"We find evidence the pressure of gas underneath the school building and entering the heating appliances after the installation of the regulator was of considerably greater pressure than four ounces," the report said.

The court also found there was no governmental agency to supervise erection of the building, or the heating appliances; that there was evidence of defects in the construction of the building and installation of appliances "which created a danger" to the occupants, but there was no evidence such defects contributed to cause the explosion.

Another report by the state fire insurance department was being prepared.

Trade Show Plans To Be Completed

Reception and entertainment committee for the West Texas and New Mexico Trade show to be held here Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week has been called to meet at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, announced Fred Caylor, chairman. It will be held at chamber of commerce offices.

The 22 members are scheduled to complete plans for the visiting beauty shop owners and operators.

Programs were mailed this week to more than 1,000 shop owners. The annual show is sponsored by the Russell Morrison company.

The three days of the show will be devoted respectively to New Mexico, Panhandle, and Lubbock. Morning and afternoon programs of the show will be held at the Hilton hotel. Hotel Lubbock will be the scene for the evening programs.

Registration will begin at 8 o'clock Monday morning.

FIGURES OFFERED ON CAR LICENSES

Approximately 3,200 passenger cars and 300 commercial vehicles have been registered at the Lubbock county tax assessor-collector's office, according to figures released at noon today.

At least 6,500 passenger cars and 1,500 commercial vehicles are expected to be registered before April 2, members of the collector's force said. That will mean an average of about 1,000 car owners of the county must purchase licenses during the five remaining working days before the deadline, pointed out Deputy Collector H. B. Bryan. Members of the force said 1,000 cars registered a day was a "good day's work."

More than 7,000 passenger vehicles and 1,500 commercial trucks were registered during the registration period of 1936.

Licenses this year cost the same as last year, said Bryan. There have been no changes in any of the registrations.

He also pointed out that many drivers were inquiring about renewing their driver's licenses. Under the present laws the permits issued last year are good for two more years, he said.

Ninety-Ninth Court Is To Be Convened

Ninety-ninth district court will be convened April 5 for a 12 weeks' term. Dockets for the April term were posted Thursday, said the district attorney's office.

All dockets will be called at 11 o'clock the morning Judge E. L. Pitts opens the session, except the appearance docket, which will be called next day.

Criminal weeks, third and tenth, will begin April 19 and June 7. Jury civil actions will be heard the second, third, fourth, fifth, eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh weeks, civil non-jury trials the first, sixth, seventh, and twelfth weeks.

There are 87 cases docketed, distributed as follows: Criminal, 17; civil jury, 9; civil bar, 34, and appearance, 27.

A grand jury will be impaneled at 10 o'clock April 6.

Hunt, Idalou; typing, Miss Marjorie Scott, New Deal. Some of those events were completed last week-end.

Trophies and awards are being given by Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and civic clubs.

Wallace Services Being Held Today

Last rites were to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Crosbyton for seven-year-old Katherine June Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wallace of Crosbyton.

The child died of peritonitis at 6:50 o'clock Thursday night at a hospital at Lubbock.

When admitted to the hospital several days ago, she was suffering a ruptured appendix. Surgery was unavailing.

Besides her parents, a brother and a sister survived.

Half the unhappiness in the world is due to the failure of plans which were never reasonable and often impossible.

WHILE the project is still a long, long way from assured, it is a fact that city and county authorities are interested in suggestions made in this column concerning the need for the construction of a public comfort station somewhere on the courthouse square.

As you probably noted from the news accounts, the proposal was placed before the City commission yesterday after the County commission had already taken favorable cognizance of it.

Architect O. R. Walker, employed by the county to draw plans for remodeling the courthouse basement, has drawn up a preliminary sketch of the proposed building which, if erected in accordance with present suggestions, would be located between the west courthouse door and Texas avenue, where the circle stands now.

The sketch is quite an inviting thing and proves that the station could be made a thing of beauty as well as of definite service.

The Plainsman believes the majority of Lubbock people who have thought about the comfort station idea are all for it.

Certainly a city which draws 65 per cent or more of its trade from outlying sections should take care of its visitors' physical as well as their material needs while they are here.

Mrs. Quicksall is sure the dog is someone's pet and is ready to turn it over to its owner.

IF you had to endure a dictator, which would you choose—a faker, or a sincere but self-deluded bigot?

That seems to be the choice between Benito Mussolini, of Italy, and Adolf Hitler, of Germany, as they are analyzed by Dean Julian Park, of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Buffalo. Doctor Park, who is a recognized authority on contemporary European history, says the main difference between Italy's czar and Germany's boss is that "Mussolini is a fraud and knows it, whereas Hitler is sincere."

By that characterization, Dean Park means that Hitler's anti-Semitism and anti-Marxism are real obsessions and that "his persecutory mania is likely to continue." Hitler's sincere racial bias, the dean adds, "is one of the most wicked, bigoted and vicious evils of Germany today."

As for fascist Italy's dictatorial "fraud", Dean Park believes that Mussolini, basically "barbarous, crude and adventurous," assumes theatrical poses because his countrymen "love that sort of thing."

AS The Plainsman sees it, whether a dictator be sincere or a fraud, the result is the same insofar as the liberties of his people are concerned.

On the intellectual side, Dean Park points out: "you notice nobody goes to Germany any more for an education, whereas in the old days many persons from this country went to study at Bonn, Heidelberg and other formerly great universities. Furthermore, most of the real intellectuals of both countries have left. All the great university professors have departed."

The effect of dictatorship on the daily lives of the people is illustrated by Dean Park's list of a few of the things which are now misdemeanors under the Italian law:

Speaking of suicide; speaking slightingly of the state; calling Mussolini by his first name; dancing the Charleston (Good heavens! We'd forgotten all about the Charleston!); walking on the left side of the street; removing one's coat in public; boarding a streetcar at the front and—yessir—playing poker!

Those who have carefully watched the change in governments in Central and Southern Europe and in Russia, long have realized that whether you call your dictatorial form of government fascism, nazi-ism or communism, and whether your dictator is a fraud or sincere, or whether he relies on a scowl, a warm smile, or oratorical fireworks to sway his followers, the net result is the same: the people get it in the neck.

One man rule, whether it be in Russia, Italy, Germany or, mayhap eventually in the United States, may be efficient to the nth degree but it plays hob with that greatest human possession—personal liberty.

That is something for all of us to think about, no matter how certain we may feel that any man who seeks too much personal power wants it for our good.

AFTER all, there is little to admire about the person who "does as he pleases," because if he really does he is bound to trespass upon the rights of others.

'Eve's Orchard'

By Margaret Widdemer

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield goes back to her two-century-old farmhouse and orchard in Connecticut after five years of work and play in New York. She misses gay, slim Denny who was to marry her in a few days if his new job hadn't collapsed. The last tenants left the house very dirty. But quiet, practical George Cleveland, a young fruit experimenter who owns the nearby Seymour house, and Uncle Henry, an old family friend, help Eve clean and move down the fine old antiques from the attic.

Chapter 12
George's Mother Calls

The rest of the morning was a whirlwind of getting out furniture from the long attic, carrying it down, placing it. Eve was black with dust and in spite of herself excited over rediscovered treasures. The telephone man and the electric light man incredibly came as promised; Adriano, below, could be heard clearing out the furnace and making a welcome fire with the Jennings' remnant of coal. Eve was scarcely interrupted by them.

"Oh, Uncle Henry, the curvy window seats I used to play Madame Recamier in! . . . Oh, George, look at this. It's the lacquer cabinet I used to use for a doll's house! And my little table and chair for the kitchen—"

"You said the lacquer cabinet used to be in the back parlor, didn't you?" George laid it on a piece of canvas and began dragging it to the attic door.

"Good memory George has," Uncle Henry said dryly, as man and cabinet disappeared down the stairs. "This weather's just right for budding and grafting and here he is indoors. You must have got quite a ways along in the city."

She laughed, lifting herself from the barrel which had proved to hold the Wedgwood china and not the coffee-pot she wanted. "I only met him one night and he disapproved of my wild ways."

"He's a fine young man," Uncle Henry said hopefully.

"Dear Uncle Henry, just wait till you see my real young man! He's better yet. He's coming out Saturday or Sunday."

"M'ph," said Uncle Henry. "Here's the kitchen tins—think you could manage us a bite? Nearly 12:30."

She clattered down with arms full of saucepans to find George in the kitchen gravely placing the child's chair and table.

"Odd," he said, straightening up, "that the house you talked about, with the cabinet you played dolls in and the child's chair, should have been the house next door all the time! Somehow I couldn't get the picture out of my mind. I think they must go just there—"

"They do—are you a wizard?"

"Well, no; that's where they would go. . . . I don't know much about old furniture, but you have some pretty good stuff, haven't you? My mother would be interested. I'll bring her over to call if I may, next week-end."

"I'd love it. Yes, I think the furniture is good, though I don't know either; to tell you the truth, I'd forgotten, I'd always lived with it, you see. A lot of it is as old as the house," said Eve matter-of-factly, breaking eggs into a blue dish she had just washed. "I suppose I should have sold it when I had to go to work, but I was only 18 and it was all packed before I got here. I was dazed. Aunt Lina was all I had and she died so suddenly."

"You have nobody now?"

"No near relatives that I know about—no."

He looked at her for a moment longer, then went up for another load.

Uncle Henry's Story

Eve scrambled eggs and fried ham and opened a can of peas and made coffee, wondering why she wasn't more tired. She found a coffee-cake and another can with peaches, with the feeling of a discoverer, and called the men without stopping to think whether George wanted to go home or not.

Even if George stayed to lunch, she remembered sordidly, it was cheaper than hiring movers. . . And he was really not very upstage once you knew him.

George, dusty and practical, was not upstage at all, sitting opposite her at his own bridge table, eating heartily of canned peas and the ham. Uncle Henry and he discussed procedures like old friends.

"Well, now, I am enjoying this day!" said Uncle Henry, drinking his coffee happily. "There isn't a thing I can do at Emily's after I've tended my chickens, except go walking. And sure as I do I end up at the old farm, and that just makes me low. Got any more coffee, Evelina? I though I made good coffee, but yours is better."

"You were always a good cook," she remembered.

"Well, Mother being sick so much I got to be handy. Guess Emily's right, though, she says now 'twas between doctor bills and trying to look after house and farm both I got so behind. But there it was. I never had the money for a housekeeper; and up to the depression you couldn't get a farm hand for love nor money." He stared out the half-open door a moment. "Well, I did the best I could, and no man can do more," he said in his deep kind voice. "Been different if young Henry'd come back. . . . Well, I shouldn't begrudge him to his country."

The two younger people glanced at each other, with the same thought.

Sixty. His farm lost, his only son wasted on a war, nothing to look back on but a lifetime of farm work and a fretful wife, nothing in the future but dependence on a none-too-pleasant niece. And yet old Uncle Henry, with his weathered face, his shrewd kind brain, his still strong body, could say calmly that he had done the best he could, be sentimental—no, it wasn't that!—be strong enough to say like a pre-war enthusiast that he didn't begrudge young Henry to his country. He meant it. Uncle Henry was as real as he was simple. Life a failure from every point of view, and he wasn't broken. It was creepy somehow coming across somebody like that; like finding a temple still standing in a place where you had thought everything was smashed long ago.

Eve's throat choked. She glanced at George, and saw that he, too, was moved.

"You're pretty fine, Uncle Henry," George said abruptly.

"Why, I dunno why," he said in a mild surprised tone.

Then the two men went on with their moving.

They did an amazing amount that day. Eve placed and supervised, and hung back the old pictures. She could take them down when she rented, and they hid the faded places where they had been; the little woodeny picture of Patrice Denton, aged six, in 1804, with her staring eyes and funny stiff skirts; the beautiful Stuart of Colonel Mannersfield, back in the dining room above the old crossed swords; the photograph of Aunt Lina with her coronet braids, and her Honiton lace on the purple crepe Eve remembered; the Currier prints in the bedrooms; the oval gilt-framed Civil war twin water colors of her great-grandparents in the back parlor above the little piano which had arrived from the city during the day.

"I like seeing you there," Uncle Henry said, coming in to say good-night and finding her, tired, on the love seat by the front-parlor fire. She smiled up at him. No use to keep telling him she wouldn't stay—or that she wanted to sell the Stuart if she got the chance. Too sleepy to think, anyway.

Mrs. Cleveland For Tea

Uncle Henry came back next day and next; and so did George. But by Thursday, Eve was alone and could rest. She found, to her surprise, that she liked being alone in her domain. She stayed about the lawn and orchard and meadow, finding old delights and showing them to a phantom Denny. When he came, Saturday or Sunday, she would show him this—she would tell him that—he would sit here—

He would be crazy about the house, she knew, he loved such things. His phantom walked and ate and talked with her, on the high old porch, or at the little card table by the parlor fire, or up through the budding orchard. And he might have good news when he came; but good or none, he was coming. So was Ellen, certainly, probably later Sunday because of playing Saturday. She and Denny would have a little time alone at least.

It broke into her happy dream when George stood at her back door a moment Saturday morning to say that his mother would drop in that afternoon. But she set out thin bread-and-butter on the old Sheffield tray with the black and white Spode; she had tea all ready, the long parlor immaculate, and herself smart in the thin green wool which had been her last city purchase. Her glittering rings of hair were smooth and her lips and cheeks bright.

Eve did not like Mrs. Cleveland at first sight. She was wiry, sallow above her huddled furs, with bright black eyes and a nervous hurried way. She sat close to the hearth fire and fretted about maids and worried about modern morals; and all the while her black eyes darted from chair to table, from picture to vase—always returning to the lacquer cabinet in the back room. Suddenly Eve didn't want to sell it, or anything.

"Not a bad piece," the lady said finally, "if one likes that sort of thing."

So she was going to try to run it down?

"It was brought over in 1697," Eve said, smiling and flinging open the doors covering the tiny countless drawers within, with their shining birds and flowers. "And it is a museum piece."

Mrs. Cleveland looked disconcerted. But she went on.

"If you are thinking of disposing of it, you should remember—"

George walked in. He had walked in and out so much that he had given up formal entry.

"Where's Uncle Henry?" he began. Then he saw his mother, and was deflected to having tea. Before they could return to the cabinet, Uncle Henry himself was heard calling.

"Somebody here to see you, Evelina! Where are you—"

He followed his voice into the parlor. And behind him, gay and excited, swinging his suitcase in one hand and a box in the other, came Denny.

Denny makes a faux pas, Monday.

FLAPPER FANNY By Sylvia

POLITICS A LA NEW YORK STYLE

Verily, verily, politics is a funny game.

The other day there was a sit-down strike in New York and, although the Big Town is strongly unionized, officials at City hall had made up their minds that there would be no confiscation of private property.

Down to the strike marched a detachment of "New York's Finest" and the first sit-down strike was over so quickly that if any other groups were planning to stage one they saw, right off, it would be no use.

Now Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia is a strong supporter of labor.

Further, he is going to run for re-election or, mayhap, take a crack at the governorship.

Being a good politician, Mayor LaGuardia realized he must take public attention away from his ouster of the sit-downers so he did a little figuring. Remembering that there are more Jewish voters than non-Jewish ones in New York, Fiorello (which means "Little Flower") moved swiftly to protect himself and add to his support. He cracked down on Adolf Hitler, who, to the New York Jew naturally is the Devil with a moustache.

Everyone knows that the mayor's blast was answered by the Reich and an international situation arose from it. But "Little Flower" had used keen political judgment and came out on top, with flags flying.

Smart guy, "Little Flower".

He has hit upon something which, in New York, will raise a bumper vote crop, no matter for what office he chooses to run.

Watch "Little Flower" as campaign time approaches. He'll be fighting Adolf Hitler on every street corner and from every speakers stand—and mopping up by it!

From Hollywood MOVIE SIDELIGHTS

Behind The Scenes With The Stars Of Talkietown

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 26.—Clark Gable does not expect to play the role of Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind."

Clark Gable is getting pretty well fed up with Hollywood. If it wasn't for his contract—

Clark Gable knows just what he will do when he leaves this vale of glycerine tears. He will buy a ranch in Arizona.

And that pretty well covers the Gable situation, there being no fresh news of the Gable-Lombard romance.

For quite a while now, the actor hasn't been giving interviews. Director John Stahl was working him to a frazzle in "Parnell," and Gable didn't feel like being pleasant to people who wanted to know what he liked for breakfast and what he thought of the future of the cinema.

But a spell of mountain lion hunting has given him new strength. Likewise a new enthusiasm. "Hereafter," said he, "I'm going to bring 'em back alive. It's a lot more fun than just popping 'em out of trees."

He rambles happily on the subject of hunting: "It was Wally Beery who got me started on it six years ago. Sent me to a guide named Jack Butler in the Kaibab forest on the Arizona-Utah line. Boy, I was worse than a dude; I was a ham! I showed up in English riding boots and fancy britches . . .

"We went after deer that time. I got one, too, but I think I shot at him 17 times. Butler was nice about it. He said, 'You like this, don't you?' I said yes, I sure liked it. So he said, 'You come back next spring and I'll show you some real sport—huntin' cougar.'

"And ever since then I've been huntin' cougar. This man Butler has 10 hounds, and there isn't any thrill like hearing them bawling on a fresh trail or barking when they've got a lion treed.

All In Knowing How

"The way you lasso a lion is climb the tree and get out on the same branch with him and toss a loop until you get it over his head. Then you pull him out of the tree—being sure the dogs are tied up first—and another man grabs his tail while you hold the rope. Cougars are awful cowards, and none of this is really dangerous until the third man goes in and ties his feet together. Jack Butler mostly does the feet tying. When you've got him all trussed up, you give him a manicure so he can't claw the packhorse to pieces.

"We got two live lions into camp on this last trip, but one got away. The other is out here on the back lot now. I gave him to the wardrobe man who went on the hunt with me, but he says the lion is eating him out of house and home, so he's going to give him to a zoo."

I broke in with a query about "Gone With the Wind," pointing out that fans all over the country, even in Maine and Vermont, have declared almost unanimously for Gable as Rhett Butler. He said he had heard some such talk, but didn't believe anything would come of it.

Wants None Of It

"Nothing has been done about borrowing me for the part," he said. "My studio hasn't mentioned it. Dave Selznick (who will produce the picture) once spoke to me about it, but only casually. And I don't want it.

"Yeah, that's right—I don't want it. Everybody has read that book, and everybody has a different idea of what Rhett Butler should be like. I would be certain to disappoint a lot of people. It would be the toughest job any actor could think of. Gary Cooper, though—I believe he could do a swell job of it."

It is almost startling to come upon modesty of the Gable type in Hollywood. He actually has an idea that fans are getting tired of him. He imagines that customers look at the marquees of theaters and exclaim, "What—another Gable picture?"

For this reason Mr. Gable wishes that his movie-making could be reduced from five a year, the number now demanded by his contract, to two a year. That way, people wouldn't tire of him so quickly. His contract has four and a half more years to run, so there is no chance of him getting out of the picture business before 1941.

He wants to get out of it, though, and buy that ranch. He wants to buy that ranch before he gets too old to sling a leg over a horse or to twist the tail of a mountain lion.

Around The Corner!

Most Senators Forming Backbone Of Opposition To FDR's Court Plan Do Not Come Up For Re-Election Before 1940

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 26—Most of the Democratic senators who have declared themselves opposed to the President's judiciary plan will not come up for renomination and re-election until 1940.

These senators are the backbone of the opposition. If it were not for them, the Roosevelt plan probably would have been jammed through Congress before this.

Outcher

Without making any generalizations as to the possible significance of the present lineup, it is easy to point out that the votes of individual senators are likely to figure as issues in the congressional elections of 1938. In that year the support of Roosevelt presumably will be more of a campaign asset than it will be in 1940. And in the presidential year of 1940 there are likely to be other issues which will dwarf the question of what was done about the Supreme court in 1937.

Only Six Of '38 Class

One of the more recent polls of the Senate shows 37 members for the administration program, 35 against and 24 noncommittal. As among Democratic senators the poll shows: 33 in favor, 19 against and 23 undecided.

Eleven of the opposition Democrats are up for re-election in 1940. The 1940 group also includes eight in favor and five undecided.

Only six of 27 Democratic senators who must face the voters in 1938 have thus far declared against the Roosevelt plan. They are Clark of Missouri, George of Georgia, Gillette of Iowa, Smith of South Carolina, Tydings of Maryland and Van Nuys of Indiana. Of the others, 12 have announced their support of the President and nine are still listed as undecided.

Only two of the 24 Democratic senators elected in the Roosevelt landslide of 1936 have declared against the proposal, Bailey of North Carolina and Glass of Virginia. Since both men come from southern states where Democratic success is customary, neither can be said to have ridden into office on the Roosevelt wagon. But this same group of newly elected or newly re-elected senators includes 13 who have said they favored the Roosevelt plan and an undecided group of nine. The 24 will not be up for re-election again until 1942.

Most States Divided

To the student of politics it is at least equally interesting to observe how relatively few are the states whose two senators agree on the Supreme court issue.

Genuine conviction will explain many of the votes on the President's plan. But patronage, the desire for more power at a colleague's expense and similar factors are also playing a part.

There are 33 states whose senators are both Democrats. But in only one instance have two Democrats from the same state both declared against the Roosevelt plan. Senators Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, arch-conservatives from Virginia who never quarrel politically, are the exceptional pair.

In six cases both senators agree in favor of the plan. But 26 other states will note that their senators thus far have been unable to get together on a mutual position, except that three pairs say they're undecided—Adams and Johnson of Colorado, Lonergan and Maloney of Connecticut, Chavez and Hatch of New Mexico.

Senators from 10 states are split for and against the plan—and it's in this group you find the bitterest feuds. There are Minton and Van Nuys of Indiana, Truman and Clark of Missouri, Smathers and Moore of New Jersey, Reynolds and Bailey of North Carolina, Bulkey and Donahey of Ohio, Green and Gerry of Rhode Island, Byrnes and Smith of South Carolina, Sheppard and Connally of Texas, Thomas and King of Utah, Neely and Holt of West Virginia—the first-mentioned senators being in favor.

In eight states one Democratic senator is in favor and the other undecided. And five states where one senator is against and the other undecided.

Army's 'Flying Fort'—Fightingest Eagle Of Them All!

Bristling with guns and bulging with bombs, the U. S. Army's new flying fortress arrived at Langley Field, Va., from the Pacific coast. Above it is poised on the runway with all four of the 450-horsepower motors whirling three-bladed propellors, the most formidable fighting eagle in Uncle Sam's eyrie.

TRIO HELD IN THEFT CASES

OFFICERS SEEKING TO CONNECT THREE MEN IN OTHER CRIMES

DALLAS, March 26 (AP)—Authorities from several counties came here today seeking to connect three men held in the Ellis county jail with burglaries and thefts in their respective sections.

The trio, two of whom allegedly admitted escaping the Venus jail, were suspected of having participated in wholesale looting at Rockwall last week.

Car Is Wrecked

One of the men, identified as from Dallas, was captured in the western part of the county when the car in which three men were riding was wrecked. He was brought to a hospital here, suffering from injuries, and was later transferred to jail.

Sheriff Joe Roy apprehended the other two men as they attempted to board an outbound freight train in the outskirts of Waxahachie. The pair had come through fields and down creeks to slip into Waxahachie, leaving their injured partner at the scene of the auto wreck.

Sheriff Roy shot at one of the men when he attempted to flee but no one was hit.

Officers said the only charges due to be filed against the men at the present time were several cases of car theft.

All three have been identified.

Suggestions For Safe Driving

CURVES AND TURNS

No matter how perfect the condition of the car, the DRIVER is the most important factor in safe driving.

Be careful when passing cars, especially if another car is approaching.

Passing cars on turns and corners involves additional as passing a string of cars 300 feet long.

Don't "wonder" if you can make it—take no chances.

Passing cars on turns and corners involve additional dangers.

Turning curves on highways that are not "banked" increases the hazards.

You can't take liberties with natures laws of momentum and centrifugal force. Study them.

SORE GUMS—PYORRHEA

Glen Johnson, prominent druggist of Mineral Wells, Texas, writes: "I have never sold a remedy of any kind, for any ailment that has given as good satisfaction as LETO'S REMEDY." LETO'S REMEDY is guaranteed. On sale at Mark Halsey Drug.—Adv.

Real goodness is worth locking in. So—we've locked in the good flavor—the purity—the freshness—all the fine qualities of creamy SNOWDRIFT . . . and given them to you.
