Notary Public Commissions to Expire May 31

Notary Public commissions in Ochiltree county expire on May 31, according to Mrs. Beulah K. LeMaster, county and district clerk.

Under a new ruling, notaries holding a commission last year will be automatically reappointed. However, others wishing to be appointed must list their names at the clerk's office. These names are sent to the office of Secretary of State for approval and appointment.

No qualifying bonds will be accepted by the county clerk's office until on or after June 1.

Tire Quotas Reduced For April

The critical shortage in the nation's supply of tires is beginning to show up in Ochiltree county, according to April rationing quotas announced by the local tire rationing board.

Passenger car tires have been cut from 108 in March to 60 during April. Truck tires were increased one, from 29 last month to 30 this month. Last month 20 small implement tires were allowed while only 10 are allowed this month. Seven large tractor tires were allowed in March but only 5 during April.

Public Asked to Render Personal Property Here

W. H. Lance, sheriff, tax assessor and collector, is asking residents of Ochiltree county to come to his office to make personal property renditions this year.

Rendition sheets on real estate are already filled out and ready for the personal property statement to be added. These must be rendered in person.

In the past, personal property assessments have been taken by the assessor's office in a county-wide canvass. However, this year, because of the acute shortage of tires and in order to conserve gasoline, Mr. Lance asks that residents stop in at his office to take care of the matter.

"The time needed for filling out the form is slight and if all will take a little time to drop by our office, the time lost would be negligible" Mr. Lance points out. "The help given our office by your cooperation will be tremendous and will certainly be appreciated."

Two New Trustees For Waka School

Three trustees were elected Saturday, April 7, to serve the Waka Independent School District. The two new members are W. A. Elledge and H. N. Elledge. Jake Boese was re-elected.

Other members of the Board of Trustees for the Waka school are J. R. Stump, Carl Scroggs, Herman Wiebe and G. A. Burger.

Vernon Hawkins Buys Interest In Oil Station

Vernon Hawkins, who recently sold the Magnolia Service Station to Glenn Smith, has again purchased a helf interest in the firm and will be associated with Smith in its operation.

The station will maintain a wheel balancing service and starter and generator repair service, as well as a full line of Magnolia oil products and automobile accessories.

Billy Curtis is In Air Corps

Billy P. Curtis, son of Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Curtis, reported for service in the air corps March 27, at Fort Sam Houston. He is now stationed at Sheppard Field, where he is receiving his basic training.

Billy was a junior in Hardin-Simmons University when he withdrew from school in January at the end of the semester, in order to enter the service. He was president of the Phi Kappa Delta, one of the most active debate clubs in the south. He was employed by Key and Burton at the time he got his call.

Divisions for Perryton "Dairy Day" Contests Announced by Farm and Home Dem. Agents

Much interest is developing in the first "Dairy Day" for the Perryton area, so reports Mrs. Virdie Wheeler, Ochiltree county Home Demonstration agent, and Farm Agent Hood Wills. The date is Tuesday, April 24, the place, the Perryton Hotel.

Mrs. Wheeler and Mr. Wills are the originators of "Dairy Day." The Perryton Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with the program by providing the prizes, the meeting place, and the publicity.

Prizes will be offered in each of the following contests with entry requirements as indicated: 1 qt. milk, 1 pt. sweet cream, 1 lb. butter (wrapped), 1 pt. carton processed cheese, 1 pt. carton Neufchatel cheese, 1 pt. carton cottage cheese, and 1 lb. American cheese.

The Dairy Show is open to all dairy products producers in Ochiltree and adjoining parts of the Perryton area in Lipscomb, Beaver, Texas and Hansford counties.

The first prize in each division will be a 5-gallon cream can or some useful household article of equal value. Second prizes will be a dairy thermometer and bottle brush.

Foremost dairying authorities from the Texas A. & M. College and the extension service will be present to explain better methods for dairy profits and sanitation. It is hoped that Oklahoma agents will also be in attendance.

Wayne Slovacek Is Commissioned Marine Lieutenant

Lt. Wayne Slovacek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Slovacek of Booker has recently completed training for assignment as an officer of the U. S. Marine Corps. The training period consisted of 18 months of college work and eight months of actual preparation for combat, including tactics in jungle warfare, and the study of each infantry weapon that the Marine Corps uses at the present time.

Lt. Slovacek took his basic training at Paris Island, South Carolina. He also trained at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, and completed 20 weeks of officer-candidate school at Quantico, Va. He received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps there on March 14, 1945.

Since being commissioned, he has been on furlough visiting his parents and other relatives and friends at Booker.

Light Vote in School Election

Harlan A. Hawk and George M. Deitrich were elected as trustees of the Perryton Independent School District, Saturday, April 7. Mr. Hawk was re-elected and Mr. Deitrich is a new member of the Board.

Other members of the board are Aldon Bell and Virgil Castle with two more years to serve, and L. D. Stinson, Stanly D. Key and E. W. Hearn with one more year to serve. Board members are elected for three year terms.

In last Saturday's election, little interest was displayed. Only 24 votes were cast. Seventeen of these were at the Perryton School and seven at Farnsworth.

Tire Dealer Prices Will Be Checked

Volunteer assistants of local War Price and Rationing Boards will visit tire and tire repairing firms during the period from April 15 to 30 to check dealers prices for tires and services and inspect their records and postings in a nation-wide compliance survey for the Office of Price Administration, says OPA. The volunteer price panel assistants will check to see that the seller's ceiling prices are posted in his shop, that he is giving sales slips to each purchaser, and that he is keeping records of each sale as required by the regulation. They will also check the prices he charged on the last few sales of specific items, from his records.

Ceiling prices for new and used tires and tubes, recapping, repairing, reliners, patches and boots are specifically listed in the regulation. Finally they will ask if he makes any extra charges for extra services and how he determines such charges. Dealers who are found in violation of any of these requirements will be asked to come in for a compliance conference with the price panel of their local board. Those who are selling above ceiling price will be asked to make refunds to buyers who paid excessive amounts and may face treble damage actions. Action by the survey is based on revised maximum price regulation which fixes ceilings on tires, tubes and certain services, and the provision of maximum price regulation covering "extra" service charges.

Legion to Have Amarillo Guests

Some members of the American Legion and Auxiliary posts of Amarillo will be guests of the Perryton Post and Auxiliary Monday night at their regular Pot Luck supper. The Amarillo guests will bring a WAC lieutenant with them, and she will make a talk at the meeting. There will also be a musical program.

Hostesses for the occasion are Mrs. E. W. Thomas, chairman, Mrs. Van W. Stewart, Mrs. O. H. Tallman, Mrs. Fred Tarbox, Mrs. J. R. Thomas, Mrs. L. T. Tucker, Mrs. O. R. Truax, Mrs. Harvey Urban, Mrs. Viva Buckhaults. Members are asked to bring well filled baskets for the meeting, to provide for the guests.

Thomas Downs Killed Mar. 14

Pvt. Thomas L. Downs, a selective service registrant of Ochiltree County and a student in the Perryton High School last year, was killed in action in Germany, March 14. Pvt. Downs was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Downs, Wheeler, who were notified by the War Department of their sons death. He had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brummitt, Perryton, for several years, working on their farm and last year attending school here. He was a member of the Freshman class, serving as class president for one semetser, and being elected class favorite.

Pvt. Downs transferred to Wheeler County for induction Sept. 1, 1944, and received most of his training at Camp Marlin before leaving for overseas duty January 1. He was with the Infantry of the Third Army and was 19 years of age at the time of his death.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Pvt. Audrey Downs, who is stationed at Camp Barkeley, and Glen Downs of Wheeler; and four sisters, Mrs. J. T. Thompson of Raton, N. M., Mrs. Glen Porter of Pampa, Mrs. Horace Powell of Canadian and Ruth Downs of Wheeler.

The constitution of the state of Massachusetts, still essentially the organic law, was formed in 1780. The federal constitution was ratified in 1788.

Mrs. George Muir Okla. Homesteader Dies in Arkansas

Mrs. George Muir, grandmother of Pvt. Glen Muir of this city, died at her home in Rogers, Ark., Saturday, April 7. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Padgett attended the funeral held at Rogers the first part of the week.

Mrs. Muir homesteaded with her husband, one mile east of Blue Mound, Okla., in the early days.

She is survived by one son, Carl Muir, Sacramento, Calif.; one granrson, Pvt. Glen Muir, Camp Wolters, Texas, and one great grandson.

Farm Bureau Meeting at McMillen School

Audie Conley, president of the McMillen Farm Bureau, announces a meeting at the McMillen School, Friday, April 13, 8:30 p.m. Of special interest will be a discussion of bindweed control.

County Agent Hood Wills and County Home Demonstration Agent Virdie Wheeler will appear on the program.

Mr. Conley is also president of the county organization of the Farm Bureau.

Farm Income Important in War Economy

During World War I and in the period immediately following it, food prices soared to more than double by 1920, and inflated land values were accompanied by a great deal of speculative buying, says the Department of Agriculture and the Office of Economic Stabilization. This momentary farm boom was followed by a collapse. Between 1919 and 1921 the net income of the average farmer shrank from $1,360 to $460. This collapse brought with it a land crash which eventually saw one farmer out of every four lose his farm through foreclosure. Today farm income is at a record high—estimates placing the liquid assets held by farmers at about 12 billion dollars.

There are three ways in which the farmer can help to prevent inflation and maintain prosperity for himself and all America; (1) He can avoid speculation in land, which means that he should consider the longtime earning capacity of farm land before he buys at today's inflated prices; (2) He can use his wartime income to build up reserves to replace worn-out machinery, to repair and improve buildings, to safeguard against crop failure and livestock losses, etc.; (3) He can keep his own prices stable. A further rise in farm commodity prices which would inevitably be passed back to the farmer in the form of higher living costs. The farmer's best hope for the future is to put every extra dollar into war bonds.

Eight Men Accepted in Last Call

Only one person was rejected in the group leaving here last Tuesday morning to take their pre-induction physicals at Oklahoma City. Roy F. Symons was the rejectee.

Those accepted were: Wycliffe Burl Teague, J. D. Rouse, Kenneth Lee Anderson, Marvin D. Flaming, Morris F. Moore, Gale S. Rogers, Archibald Dewalt Owen, who transferred here from Montrose, Colo., and Burl Dean Schollenbarger, transferred here from Springdale, Ark.

Three other men were summoned to go with this group but received transfers to other counties. No word has been received concerning them.

Goodman to Conduct Revival Baptist Church, April 13-22

The spring revival at the Baptist Church will start tomorrow, Friday, April 13, and continue through Sunday, April 22. Rev. H. C. Goodman of Smithville will preach twice daily. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lawrence, Mineral Wells, will have charge of the music.

"Bro. Goodman is an unusual preacher and is one of the outstanding pastor-evaneglists in the state," states Rev. O. C. Curtis, pastor of the Perryton church. "I am honest in this statement, because I was converted under the Gospel that he preaches—the plain undiluted gospel of Christ, at the command of Christ, in the love of Christ, and for the glory of Christ. You will profit by every message you hear."

Bob Lawrence Jr., a home town boy, is now Educational Director of Calvary Baptist Church, Mineral Wells. You will enjoy the old time gospel music led by Bob, his wife and the church choir.

In extending an invitation to attend these services, Rev. Curtis said, "If you have not yet found a Church home in Perryton, we invite you to visit with us and seriously consider making our church, your church. We give special invitation to all people of all denominations to join us in these special services, not to try to enlist those who are already in service, but that we might share a blessing with you. We have announced and encouraged our people to attend every revival that has gone before. We will be looking for you.

Old Clothing Drive Will Close April 15

The United National Clothing Collection will close in Ochiltree county Sunday, April 15. The local drive is under the sponsorship of the American Legion and Amer-American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary. Collection depots are at the following places: Baptist, Christian, Christian Science, Church of Christ, Full Gospel, Lutheran, Methodist and Nazarene churches; Perryton school, city hall and Red Cross rooms. Old clothing can be left at any of the above places. Girl and Boy Scouts are assisting with the collection. A call to Mrs. J. F. Cox will send a Scout to your home to pick up clothing for the collection. Legionnaires and Auxiliary members are asked to bring their old clothing donations to the Legion Hall, Monday night, when they come to the joint social meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary.

JUST HERE and THERE

After operating under the aldermanic form of government since the founding, Liberal, Kansas voters, on Tuesday, April 3, adopted the commission-city manager plan of city government.

On the same day, Clarendon, a Texas city about the same size of Perryton, voted to retain the commission-city manager plan by an overwhelming vote. Clarendon has been operating under the modern form of city administration for about 12 years.

A majority of Texas cities now operate under the Mayor-Commission form, better known as the City-Manager form. Spearman, Canadian, Pampa, Borger, Amarillo and Dumas are some of the Panhandle towns that use the City Manager plan.

Spearman, along with many other political sub-divisions, ran into financial difficulties back during the "dust storm" years, but evidently the dust storms were not caused by the city manager (as some would have you believe), for they are now back on "top of the world" and still operating under the City Manager plan.

From Bob G. Zenor, S 2/c, U. S. N. Hospital, San Diego, Calif., we receive a copy of "Dry Dock," published by the welfare and recreation department of the hospital. Bob has put in the greater part of the time since he "joined up" in the hospital with an attack of pneumonia. We are glad that Bob is now well on the road to recovery and will soon go back to active duty.

Don C. Ellis, ARM 3/c, now stationed at Corpus Christi, Texas, sends us a copy of "Bam" published at the Naval Air Gunners School, Purcell, Okla. Don was formerly stationed at Purcell.

The high winds and dry weather of recent days hasn't added much to wheat prospects for the Perryton area. Many wheat growers tell us that wheat is suffering for want of top soil moisture. We really feel that this area will be pretty fortunate to raise an average crop this year, that means an average of about 10 or 11 bushels to the acre.

We've been raising wheat in the Panhandle for more than 40 years and have produced two whopper crops, 1926 and 1944, yet most wheat producers ever dream of 40 to 50 bushel crops just like the GI in the foxhole dreams of a beautiful blonde. We've never felt

Prefabricated Grain Bins Are Available

Farmers interested in purchasing unerected prefabricated grain bins for storing grain are asked to contact the local AAA office as soon as possible. The local office can make arrangements for delivery of unerected bins to farmers in this territory if they are interested in purchasing bins of this type.

The bins available are eight feet high, 12 feet wide and 18 feet long, double walled, gable roof and made of sheathing. They are supposed to be better constructed than the bins purchased before and will sell for approximately $300.

Anyone desiring to purchase a bin of this type is requested to call the AAA office immediately in order that orders can be placed for them.

The County AAA Committee has decided to sell the large Economy Grain Bins that are erected at the Perryton Bin Site to farmers of this county. Anyone desiring to purchase these bins are asked to contact the AAA office for information concerning price and the bins that are available. These bins are 16x16x16 and will hold 3,000 bushels.

Borger Bridge Over Canadian Is Out Again

For the fourth time since its completion, the Canadian River bridge north of Borger has been put out of commission by an automobile accident. Each time a different span of the long steel causeway has been wrecked, causing detour of traffic for several weeks over an arduous fair-weather route.

On the night of April 3, a gasoline trailer-truck heading south topped the long winding hill and started down to the bridge when his heavy transport hit a slick stretch of pavement and skidded sideways. The truck cleared the first three spans but crashed into the guard rail of the fourth, sagging that section until it was considered unsafe for traffic.

State highway patrolmen investigating the crash said the truck belonged to Newman Motor Co. of Plainview and was being driven by Jesse Lee Williams.

James G. Lott, state highway district engineer, inspected the damaged span and dispatched an order to Dallas for repair equipment. He expects to have the bridge open again in 15 days, if the equipment is immediately available.

The structure was badly torn up about one year ago when a heavy transport truck plunged through the railing and steel girders into the river bed.

Waka School to Present Operetta Friday, April 20

The Waka school will present its annual operetta Friday night, April 20. The operetta, "The Merry, Merry Month of May," is in two acts and centers around Stephen Foster's songs. Featured in the operetta are a hoedown, a Virginia reel and a negro minstrel.

The scene is laid in the garden at the southern home of Colonel Billings, played by Donald Ashley. Others in the cast are: Roberta Janzen, Freddie Wiebe, Robert Janzen, Max Pearson, Fritz Dendy, Edwin Rhine, Salley Ashley, Joyce Pearson, Rozella and Carolyn Gurley and Max Dendy.

Negroes are played by Curtis Leicht, Waldo Buschman, Arthur Boese, Gail Janzen, Harold Groves, Omar and Willis Ashley and Paul and Charles Rhine.

The public is invited. This is regular meeting night for the Parent Teacher Association.

Waka Parent Teachers Meeting on April 20

The Waka Parent Teacher Association will elect new officers on Friday night, April 20. This is the last meeting of the year. The school children will also present their operetta, "The Merry, Merry Month of May."

'And Now Tomorrow' Marks Alan Ladd's Return to Screen

Marking the return to the screen of popular Alan Ladd, Paramount's acaptation of Rachel Field's romantic and touching love story, "And Now Tomorrow," plays Thursday and Friday of next week at the Ellis.

Ladd's return follows an army discharge which kept him out of films for two years. Playing the part of a man of medicine, he offers his multitude of fans an interesting new side to his personality. Loretta Young, in accepting the part opposite Ladd, celebrates her 100th screen role.

Miss Young plays the part of Emily Blair, aristocratic beauty who is afflicted with a serious illness on the eve of her engagement announcement to Jeff Stoddard, played by Barry Sullivan.

At the party is Emily's sister Janice, newly arrived from Europe, whose pagan beauty is an immediate challenge to Jeff. Beautiful Susan Hayward, as Janice, falls in love with Barry as soon as Loretta leaves home in search of medical aid.

Failing to find help from the country's greatest specialists, Loretta returns home, unaware of the love that has developed between her fiance and her sister. She goes to handsome Dr. Marek Vance, played by Alan Ladd, for help.

A delightfully delicate suspense is created as the love of the doctor develops for his patient in spite of his awareness of her engagement. Aware also of the situation that exists between Barry and Susan, he is professionally restrained from expressing his own love.

Baptist Church Gives Annual Senior Banquet

Following their annual custom, the Baptist Church gave a banquet for the high school graduating class Thursday night in the church parlors.

The banquet very cleverly carried out the idea of taking a train trip. When the guests arrived at the church they were given "train tickets" and ushered into the "diner." The tables were decorated with toy trains and scenes along the railway. The "engineer," Robert Lawence, presided over the train.

The "porter," Jimmy Dick Key, sang negro songs as he went about his duties, and Don Stevenson called out the "stations" which were numbers on the program.

The following stations were called: "Welcomville," Mrs. A. K. Wooten; "Responsville," Jack Hurter; "Sing-Sing," group singing, led by Miss Floyd; "Who's Who on the Diner," Robert Lawrence; "Readsville," Mrs. Eula Goodall; "McDonald Junction," Quentin Engleman; "Tuneville," Miss Beth Floyd.

Rev. Curtis was picked up at the "flagstop" and introduced the "chief dispatcher," Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lubbock. Dr. Hereford made a very inspirational address to the young people, emphasizing the importance of taking Christ as their leader through life.

Besides the seniors, the high school teachers, church officers and their wives, Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Curtis, Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Thurston and Mrs. Hereford were guests. The banquet was prepared by the women of WMU.

POSTWAR INTEREST RATES?

ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Sees No Headache for War Bondholders

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Interest rates are like the weather. As few people can work up much hysteria over isobars, gradients and cycles; so only a few watch the statistics determining money rates. To those outside the ranks of professionals, the forecasting technique is a yawn. All you want from the weather man is notice when to get ready for a heat wave or a blizzard or a hurricane! Most readers want to know only whether securities are to go up or down. Yet interest rates, by definition, reflect the price of credit. Dull and theoretical as they sound, credit conditions may shape your whole tomorrow.

War Bond Investments

I expect that the broad trend of interest rates, in the postwar period, will be upward. Whatever this may mean to some unfortunate railroad bondholders, the owners of ten-year war bonds need not lose a moment's sleep. The buyers of savings bonds, "Series E, F & G" enjoy unique protection. Their capital is safeguarded by the resources of an all-powerful nation, and a special convenant. Such war bonds do not suffer the vagaries of the market place. The government in effect has pledged that the prices of these bonds will remain practically pegged regardless of roving interest rates.

True, some landmine of inflation might shatter the dollar itself. To raise that specter, however, is like worrying about which room is safest if your house should take a direct hit from a blockbuster. Suffice to say that whatever befalls—except a social or economic revolution—your ten-year war bonds are as secure as any obligation on earth and far safer than most. In purchasing these bonds you, moreover, contribute to national welfare. Let us hope that the number of holders of these bonds will approximate 138 million, or the population of the U. S. With this general statement regarding these savings bonds (and I am not commenting one way or the other as to the long-term "governments"), let me return to my discussion of future interest rates.

Higher Rates Ahead

Calvin Coolidge had a Vermonter's gift for plain talk. Everybody who (in Coolidge language) "hires money" is concerned with the price-tag on credit. Firming rates will add their quota to the cost of doing business. Thence the impact will spread to cost of living, to funds available for wages, to investment lists. Holders of non-convertible issues may feel the change directly. All groups, however, including housewives and school pupils, will share to some degree in the economic currents stirred by changing interest rates.

Some analysts contend that the government, via the Federal Reserve System, can hold down postwar interest rates. In theory, potential credit can be expanded through lowering member bank reserve requirements and the legal reserve minimum. These very tactics, however, might incite a flight of funds out of high-grade bonds into other assets. Moreover, after the war, governmental appeals to patriotism will lose some of their wartime pulling power. Sooner or later the job of supplying long-term funds for capital purposes will, I think, be removed from the Federal Reserve System.

Pendulums Still Swing

The government can for awhile balance, upon its chin, a juggler's pole of credit, as long as no gusts arise to upset the delicate poise. Such disturbing forces now can be discerned on the horizon. Reconversion, for example, may develop into great business activity, with corresponding calls for credit. Simultaneously, as statisticians foresee it, our country's stocks of monetary gold will decline. So whether you probe credit-demand or credit-supply, you are led to the forecast of higher interest rates.

The public always expects current conditions to persist. If the day's communique is adverse, they look for a long war and vice versa. Every rise or fall of commodity and security prices generates faith in continued advance or decline. Thus, many who may dissent from my forecast of a strengthening rate of interest will discover, I believe, that their judgment is being unduly swayed by present conditions. Remember that the habit of pendulums is to swing. The one stable thing is—change!

Red Cross Room Notes

Most of the servicemen's kits are finished and ready to be packed, according to Mrs. Frank Cox, production chairman. Those having kits out are asked to finish and return them as soon as possible. Also, knitters are asked to get their knitting in by April 20.

The sewing rooms will be closed for the summer as soon as all the kits and sweaters have been finished, packed and shipped.

Bird-Impact Windshields

WASHINGTON — Small manufactures have listed collision-resistant windshields as third in importance among matters to which special research should be given. In an effort to solve this problem, one aircraft manufacturer has submitted his second windshield design within seven months to the ATA. In this newest windshield, the designers have assumed the impact to be overcome would be that of an 8-pound bird at maximum level flight speed.

attended high school in Fountain City and finished his schooling in Dublin, Ind. In 1881, he married Luella Teas. Three children were born in Indiana, Robert who died in infancy; Mattie, now Mrs. W. E. McMillen; and Theresa, now Mrs. E. R. Thurman.

He and his family came to Medicine Lodge, Kansas in 1887. The family remained there while he accompanied by Ben Bates, a brother-in-law, purchased a spring wagon and a team, started west in search for a suitable place to establish a home. They arrived in Mobeetie and were informed by W. J. Todd of the beautiful, green prairies or plains which no one owned and they came to Ochiltree County in the spring of 1887. H. "squatted" on a section of land and returned in July for his family. H. and his family lived in their covered wagon until their first home was built or dug, as it was a small one-roomed dug-out.

They hauled all their water from the springs now known as Jines Springs. He and Sam Brillhart dug the holes at the springs, making it possible for the "nesters" to dip up the water, put it in barrels and haul it home some 10 to 15 miles.

Later Mr. Whippo dug a well by hand, the third well in the county. It was 252 feet deep, and they were compelled to dig through 100 feet of rock, lime stone and shale.

Mr. Whippo rendered many services to the pioneer families in capacity of family doctor. His wife always accompanied him on these trips, and administered to the suffering in her kind and comforting way.

He hauled the first cedar posts from the Canadian river; this was a very laborious task as these posts had to be carried on one's back out of the steep valleys. He sold the posts to the ranch men to obtain money to provide for his family.

Mustangs roamed the prairies, and he would run them for days at a time and finally roped, clogged and branded them with a "W", turned them free only to repeat the same procedure the following year. Later he sold these horses to the cowboys and to the people who were at that time settling up "No Man's Land." No Man's Land is now Beaver, Texas and Cimarron counties, Oklahoma.

Carrie, now Mrs. R. T. Correll and Charles were born in Texas.

Word was received of the death of Mr. Whippo's father so the family drove back to Indiana in a big wagon, making the trip in six weeks. They remained on his mother's farm, helping her for four years. Here Spencer was born in 1899. The Whippo family and Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jackson, now deceased, drove back to Texas in their covered wagons making the trip in three months. In 1901, Dorothea Whippo, now Mrs. A. K. Wilson, was born.

E. L. Whippo was one of the sturdy pioneers who helped to organize Ochiltree County. In 1890 he hauled some of the lumber from Liberal, Kansas to build the court house at Ochiltree. He taught the first school in the town of Ochiltree. He also was the county's first mail carrier as he freighted from Dodge City, Kansas, and it took 13 days to make the round trip.

Mrs. Whippo died April 4, 1933, and was buried in the Ochiltree cemetery. On Aug. 1, 1937 he married Mrs. Hattie Lou Stroope at Amarillo.

Survivors, besides his wife, include two sons, C. E. and Spencer Whippo; four daughters, Mrs. R. T. Correll, Mrs. W. E. McMillen, Mrs. E. R. Thurman and Mrs. A. K. Wilson; two sisters, Mrs. I. L. Teas, Corvallis, Washington, and Mrs. Pauline Peacock, Cochran, Ga.; a brother, James H. Whippo, Corvallis, Wash., 12 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

very optimistic over 1945 prospects.

How about letting some of our boys who have been starved and beaten as prisoners of war in German and Jap camps draw up the rules and regulations for the administration of German, Jap and Italian prisoner of war camps in this country? We're just beiting that coddling and good feeding would cease. Treat the low life Germans and Japs like the swine and dirty dogs they really are. To us there's no such thing as a good German or a good Jap. Let's don't get soft. Eradicate them from the face of the earth, even if it takes starving to do it. As far as we're concerned this goes for the civilians of Germany, Japan and Italy as well as the military. Yes, we truly hate and despise every one of them.

Mrs. C. G. Jewell has received a most interesting collection of trophies from the European battle area. They were sent back by her brother, Pvt. Nathaniel Myers who is an MP in Germany. Nathaniel was wounded in Sept. of 1943 and awarded the Purple Heart. In the collection was paper money from France, Algiers and Germany, also a large collection of photographs and a number of German army insignia including a Nazi flag.

Wheeler County Beaver Multiply

COLLEGE STATION — Beaver have become so numerous on some Wheeler County farms that they may have to be sited. County Agricultural Agent J. L. Tarter reports that the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission had been requested to trap and take some of the industrious fur-bearers out of the county.

The Wheeler County beaver colony appears to be the oldest and largest in Texas. According to R. E. Callender, game management specialist for the A&M College Extension Service, it is known that the beavers have demonstrated their building craft along Sweetwater creek and raised generations of young for more than 40 years. Mr. Callender believes there are two possible reasons for the reported over-population. One is a permanent closed season on hunting and the other that the current population is more than the available timber will support.

An oddity of the colony's location is the limited amount of timber available for their maintenance and passion for building. The tree growth is mainly willow and cottonwood. A normal population, Mr. Callender adds, "seems to eat itself into timber instead of out of it." In other words, when the beavers crop the willow and cottonwood suckers grow quickly and replace the supply of browse.

There are mixed emotions among farmers and ranchmen regarding the benefits and disadvantages of beavers homing in the neighborhood. Mr. Tarter relates that J. K. Ribble of Mobeetie has lost 200 trees of various sizes. But he likes beavers as they dam the creek and create basins to collect water for livestock.

Comparably, Mr. Tarter explains, the Stiles ranch would rather have a beaver dam than a well and windmill. On Sweetwater creek, which is fed by slow flowing springs, all beaver-made ponds have fish. Beavers instinctively seek a dam site which at least has a seep of water which never dries up. If the seep is not impounded there is not sufficient room to create a livestock watering place.

Beaver now is a small item among Texas wildlife. Mr. Callender believes there are small colonies near Llano and on the Rio Grande, and perhaps in Kimble County.

Land Commissioner Has Plan to Provide Veterans with Farms

Bascom Giles, commissioner of the General Land Office, accepted an invitation and appeared before the Texas House of Representatives, March 28, at which time he presented a plan to provide for a $25,000,000 "Revolving Fund" to purchase land for disposition exclusively to Texas veterans of World War II. He pointed out that a constitutional amendment would be necessary to permit the use of the Public Free School Fund money and recommended that the governor, the president of the State Board of Education and himself, constitute a board to be known as the Veterans Land Board, to purchase these lands so that every possible safeguard might be thrown about the investment for this fund.

Commissioner Giles recommended the acquisition of such lands in Texas as may be suitable and obtainable as follows:

a. Federal Government Military Installations.

b. Texas prison and other state lands.

c. Approximately 500,000 acres of the 1,500,000 acres of public free school land.

d. The purchase of such private lands as would be practicable.

He proposed to dispose of this land through sale by the School Land Board, composed of the governor, attorney general and himself, to Texas veterans of World War II under the following terms and conditions:

a. Begin sales six months after duration of the present war and extend for a period of five years.

b. The state's purchase price of $5,000 to be the maximum amount allowed any one Texas veteran.

c. No land to be sold at less than purchase price.

d. To be sold for all cash or as low as 1/10th down payment, 4% interest, 40 years time on balance.

e. One-eighth free royalty on sulphur and 1/16th free royalty on oil and gas and all other minerals reserved to the state.

The recommended plan will provide an opportunity for at least 10,000 Texas veterans to become the owners of Texas lands, varying in size from 50 to a possible 2500 acres, depending upon the value, Giles pointed out.

It affords a very workable plan for the return of large quantities of federal government and state owned lands to private ownership, which would then be placed back upon the tax rolls of the counties and state.

This one-fourth of the Permanent School Fund will be in land—the soundest possible investment — the source from which it came. Many bonds now held by this fund draw as little as 2½% interest, while the money invested in these lands will be a first lien bearing 4% interest.

"We have received numerous letters and visitations to the office from men in the armed forces, expressing a desire to own Texas lands and establish homes. This plan would afford them an opportunity to be self-supporting and independent and would not be a gift or dole. The Texas veterans would receive the benefit of the enormous cash buying power of the state, which would be passed on to them on easy terms.

"I appeal to you, Members of the 49th Legislature, to do your duty on behalf of the Texas veterans of this war. I feel confident you welcome this opportunity," Commissioner Giles said.

Repair Your Purse; Give It a New Lease on Life

Now when handbags are costly and new leather ones are scarce, a repair job on your old purse may give it a new lease on life, Virdie P. Wheeler, Home Demonstration Agent, suggests that you follow these suggestions for cleaning and repairing that are offered by clothing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Clean fabric bags with dry-cleaning fluid, but do not use this fluid on leather bags because it removes natural oils and may make the leather crack. Shiny spots on suede can often be removed by rubbing with very fine sandpaper. Matching shoe dye or India ink will help retouch scratched and worn corners on leather. To hide water spots and other stains on leather, use a colored shoe cream or a wax polish.

Use silver polish to shine metal trimmings or to remove gold plating that has started to wear. A protective coating of clear, colorless nail polish will keep metal finish bright, but because it wears off, it must be renewed occasionally.

If a leather or fabric purse is stitched outside, worn places at the outside seams can be neatly repaired. Rip seams with a razor blade; fold worn places in, taking a deeper seam, and restitch. Stitching on purses usually must be done by hand. Back-stitching with buttonhole twist, heavy-duty, or linen thread makes firm seams. Waxing thread makes it pull through more easily. It is best not to attempt outside repairs on a purse seamed inside and clamped into a frame.

If a zipper stop has broken at the bottom and the slide has pulled off, hold the teeth together and slip the slide on again at the bottom. A slide that pulls off at the top can only be put on again at the bottom. To do this, remove the bottom stop, hold the teeth together, and coax slide on. Replace stop by stitching firmly across the end by hand.

A leather bag that has become limp may need nothing more than new cardboard stiffening between the lining and the leather.

Sale of Ungraded Eggs Now Permitted

Because of heavy demand for eggs and a relatively short supply, steps have been taken to permit the sale of "current receipt" (ungraded) eggs, f.o.b. the seller's farm, place of business or other location, OPA has announced. OPA also said that on sales to a government agency, 1½ cents a dozen may be added to the ceiling price for eggs that have been treated for preservation by immersion in hot water followed by a coating of mineral oil.

QUEBEC—One of the oddest airplane loads ever carried left this city recently when a plane flew 26 babies, not one over five months old, to Chicoutimi. To insure the safe carriage of the infants, specially designed three-place plywood cribs constructed so that each box would fit into a plane seat, were used. The young passengers, were orphans from La Creche Saint-Vincent-de-Paul in Quebec.

This week's edition of the El Sombrero is the second in a series of the school paper to be written and sponsored by a class in high school. Last week the Freshman class put out the paper. This week the Sophomores try their skills at writing for print and proudly present to you this page by their own creation. Watch for the paper next week, which will be the Junior edition and the Senior paper two weeks from now.

CHOOSING A VOCATION

Here we are again, back on the subject of vocations. Perhaps this subject is the most talked of subject in senior high schools. You may think people, especially orators, play upon this subject too much. Really, you can never hear enough about it. All senior high students should heed the words of their teachers. Some students have a "gifted" vocation. That is, they are born with the talent to do one special thing.

In about two and a quarter years, at the most, all present high school students will be out of public schools, ready to begin on their own or attend college. Plans should be made right now for your life work. Seniors should already have full knowledgment of their life work. Juniors should know, but if they do not, it isn't too late. Sophomores and freshmen have an ideal time right now. When registering next year, everyone should consider courses helpful in his vocation and even ones that have helpful points not pertaining to this vocation as aviation, Spanish and math. Math will be present in every vocation whether you think so or not. When planning for these courses, your teachers will always help you and give good advice. Some courses in high school serve as a prelude to college courses. Therefore, plans should be made for college now. Some boys who choose to be farmers need help in both experience and "book learning." Girls who plan to be nurses also need big doses of both.

Yes, before long all of us will be plodding the rocky road of life. Many of us will stumble. Others will reach the goal. Let the sky be your limit. School is the basis of democracy and democracy is your support. You will have to carry on for soldiers killed in action during this war. Eighteen year old boys have the army to look forward to. But what of then? What of now?

Meet the Seniors

On April 21, 1928, a little brown-eyed, brown-haired baby was delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peterson. Her name was Florence.

At the age of 16, Florence, better known as Patsy, is five feet 2½ inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. Her pet peeve is snobbish people and high heeled shoes with slacks.

When asked her favorite food, Patsy quickly answered, "fried chicken and pecan pie." She loves to ride horses and play tennis.

Patsy is going to take a post-graduate course next year, and after that plans to attend a business college.

Brown eyes, brown haired Geraldine Martin was born Oct. 19, 1925. She stands a good five feet one inch tall and weighs 105 pounds. Evidently, Geraldine is very well pleased with everything and everyone because she doesn't have a pet peeve.

Her favorite book and show is "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." She thinks that Zane Grey is really a swell author. Sunset Carson and Gloria Jean are her favorite movie stars. When asked her favorite food she started drooling and said, "fried chicken and ice cream." Geraldine has a very high ambition, it is to be a nurse.

On Sept. 20, 1928, there was a new addition to the Pearson family, her name was Ozella. She was born near Beaver, Okla. She came to Perryton at the age of five and has lived here ever since. Ozella stands a proud 5' 3½" tall. She was blessed with a nice combination of blond hair and blue eyes; she weighs 121 pounds.

Her pet peeve is people that are hot-headed. She says, "I can't stand them!" Ozella's favorite foods are pecan pie and fried potatoes.

"Destination Tokyo" is her top-ranking movie and Dana Clark is her favorite actor while Eleanor Parker is her favorite actress. Her favorite in sports is volley ball. Ozella plans to be a stenographer after finishing school.

Meet the Teachers

Who is this teacher of the first grade, who likes all of her students? Why of course, that is Miss Jean Ann Essex, of medium build, changeable eyes, and brown hair. She is big sister for her children, and her birthday is May 21. She was born in Indiana.

If you are interested in her favorites, read this. Her favorite movie stars are Van Johnson and Bette Davis. Her favorite food is rice pudding (because she came from eastern Arkansas), her favorite interest is her family. Ballet is her favorite in fine arts.

Flying was her hobby, but she says she hasn't flown since she came to Perryton. She thoroughly enjoys reading. She likes to read biographies, but reads a lot of fiction. Oh, yes, she likes long hikes.

Now look at her family, mainly a little sister. This little lady is in the first grade, but big sister says she is glad she does not teach her.

The little folks down in 1B have these colleges to thank for the education of their teacher. First, Arkansas State Teachers College at Conway, Ark., and second, TSCW at Denton.

The boys have a scrimmage with Spearman the second week out and the junior-senior game during the fourth week. There are a lot of new boys out this year and some of them look very promising.

The tennis team and the volley ball girls went to White Deer and Pampa, respectively, Friday, April 6, for the tennis and volley ball tournaments held in those places. The volley ball girls lost their first two games. The tennis team fared a little better by sending Calvin Schroeder on to Canyon in the singles.

Training for Skilled Trades By Local Firms

Industry is given an opportunity to train its own skilled workers, and at the same time provide jobs for capable and ambitious ex-servicemen and civilians in apprenticeship training programs, according to information received from F. A. Wells, area manpower director of the War Manpower Commission in Amarillo. These programs may be established by local concerns employing such craftsmen as automobile mechanics, electricians, carpenters, printers, machinists, etc., with the assistance of the Apprentice Training Service of the War Manpower Commission and the State Board for Vocational Education.

This program offers an opportunity to all establishments employing craftsmen to actively participate in the training of returning servicemen and enable them to take their rightful place in the community.

Under the Apprentice Training plan, any person from 16 years of age on up may be trained for special skilled work in establishments employing skilled craftsmen, and in addition to the on-the-job training given the workers, will receive special technical training in vocational schools set up in the community. At the end of the required apprentice period, usually from two to four years, the workers will, if qualified, be eligible to take his place in the skilled trade or craft in which he has been trained.

Employers participating in the program prepare a written policy outlining in general terms the on-the-job training which the apprentice will be given, which is to be used as a guide in order to assure that the apprentice receives overall work experience required in the craft.

Public Law 346, G.I. Bill of Rights, provides for the payment of subsistence allowances to veterans participating in the program, amounting to $75 a month if with dependents, and $50 if without dependents, which is paid to him by the government in addition to the wages paid by the employer. However, in no case will the amount paid by the employer plus the amount paid by the government exceed the wages earned by a qualified craftsman in the same trade for an equal number of hours. This provision will enable the veteran to maintain a reasonable living standard while being trained, which will be a stabilizing factor in the employment of veteran apprentices.

Mr. Wells requested that establishments desiring to assist in the program of training veterans by cooperating in the apprentice training program contact his office in Amarillo, or the nearest U. S. Employment Service office, and arrangements will then be made for a representative to contact interested parties to discuss the program in detail.

Phillips has played a major part in "achieving the almost impossible"

THE DEADLY STING of the new Douglas A-26 Invader, already felt in Germany, will soon hit Japan. On all of the world's flying fronts, United Nations planes fight with Phillips high-octane fuels.

Phillips 66

AVIATION GASOLINE, one of the indispensable munitions of war, was an item with very small production at the beginning of World War II.

The recent situation, however, is best described in the official words of the Special Sub-Committee on Petroleum Investigation, of the House of Representatives:

"The United States has achieved the almost impossible by stepping up its daily production (of 100-octane fuel) from 45,000 barrels in December 1941 to more than 500,000 barrels. In the meantime, a remarkable improvement has been accomplished in the quality of the 100-octane product."

Of those who have contributed to this triumph of production, Phillips is especially proud of its record in having maintained its leading position with the handful of petroleum organizations which are the nation's largest producers of high-octane aviation fuel.

Everything that Phillips has learned, in research and experience, both before and during the war, will be lavishly poured into our wonderfully improved postwar motor fuels for car owners. With complete confidence, we say to you: Expect greater postwar gasolines from Phillips!

In the meantime, every time you see the Orange and Black Phillips 66 Shield, let it remind you that Phillips refineries . . . in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils . . . are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

End Gov't. Control with War's End

Price controls, restrictive production and distribution, and obstacles in the way of new enterprises must end after the war so that output can be expanded and manufacturers and merchants provided with goods, according to the Economists Committee on Reconversion Problems.

Calling for a reformed tax structure that will not tend to destroy the profit motive, the committee said management should know that if it sells more goods and cuts costs it can retain a sizable part of the larger earnings that result.

Anti-trust laws must be enforced to prevent monopoly and unreasonable trade restraints, except in the public utility fields where regulatory agencies with broad powers exist, the committee states. But the enforcement of competition and prevention of monopoly should not be confused with attacks on enterprises which have become larger in size because of efficiency, it contines.

Army List Identifies Units In U. S. Armies Battering Reich

The following list of Army divisions on the Western front has recently been compiled from Army lists corrected through March 21, and shows all divisions announced by the Army as being on the front. Friends and relatives of men in France and Germany might clip this article for reference.

The War Department points out that there are a number of divisions in that sector which have not been announced and which must be kept secret for security reasons. The entire 15th Army is comprised of such divisions so far, although its commander, Lt. Gen. Gerow, has been announced.

The list is taken in a directional order beginning at the northern end of the line and working toward the south:

Ninth Army, Lt. Gen. William Simpson commanding, has the following divisions and commanders: 8th Armored, Brig. Gen. John M. Devine; 29th Infantry, Major Gen. C. H. Gerhardt; 30th Infantry, Major Gen. Leland S. Hobbs; 83rd Infantry, Major Gen. Robert McLean; 84th Infantry, Major Gen. Alex Bolling and 102nd Infantry, Major Gen. Frank Keating.

First Army, Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges commanding, is comprised of the following divisions and commanders: 1st Infantry, Brig. Gen. Clift Andrus; 2nd Infantry, Major Gen. Walter Robertson; 2nd Armored, Major Gen. Isaac D. White; 3rd Armored, Major Gen. Maurice Rose; 5th Armored, Major Gen. Lunsford Oliver; 7th Armored, Major Gen. Robert Hasbrouck; 8th Infantry, Major Gen. William Weaver; 9th Infantry, Major Gen. Louis A. Craig; 9th Armored, Major Gen. John W. Leonard; 28th Infantry, Major Gen. Norman D. Cota; 69th Infantry, Major Gen. E. F. Reinhardt; 78th Infantry, Major Gen. Edwin P. Parker; 82nd Airborne, Major Gen. James M. Gavin; 99th Infantry, Major Gen. Walter Lauer; 104th Infantry, Major Gen. Terry Allen and 106th Infantry, Major Gen. Allen Jones.

Third Army, Lt. Gen. G. S. Patton, Jr., commanding, is composed of the following divisions and commanders; 3rd Infantry, Major Gen. John O'Daniel; 4th Armored, Major Gen. Hugh J. Gaffey; 5th Infantry, Major Gen. Leroy Irwin; 6th Armored, Major Gen. Robert Grow; 10th Armored, Major Gen. Wm. H. Morris; 11th Armored, Major Gen. Chas. Kilburn; 17th Airborne, Major Gen. Wm. Miley; 26th Infantry, Major Gen. Willard Paul; 35th Infantry, Major Gen. Paul Baade; 76th Infantry, not announced; 80th Infantry, Major Gen. Horace McBride; 87th Infantry, Major Gen. P. L. Culin, Jr.; 90th Infantry, Major Gen. H. L. Earnest; 94th Infantry, Major Gen. H. J. Maloney and 95th Infantry, Major Gen. Harry Twaddle.

Seventh Army, Lt. Gen. Alex M. Patch, commanding, is comprised of the following divisions and commanders: 12th Armored, Major Gen. R. R. Allen; 14th Armored, Major Gen. Allen C. Smith; 36th Infantry, Major Gen. John Dahlquist; 42nd Infantry, Major Gen. Harry J. Collins; 44th Infantry, Major Gen. Wm. F. Dean; 45th Infantry; Major Gen. R. T. Frederick; 63rd Infantry, Major Gen. Louis Hibbs; 70th Infantry, Major Gen. Allison Barnett; 71st Infantry, not announced; 79th Infantry, Major Gen. Ira Wyche; 100th Infantry, Major Gen. W. A. Burress; 101st Airborne, Major Gen. Maxwell Taylor and 103rd Infantry, Major Gen. A. McAuliffe.

Three divisions are announced as being on the Western front but their Army affiliations have not been mentioned as yet. They are the Fourth Infantry Division commanded by Major Gen. Harold Blakely; the 66th Infantry Division, commanded by Major Gen. H. P. Kraemer, and the 75th Infantry Division, commanded by Major Gen. Ray E. Porter.

"Take-Off" Studies

WASHINGTON — New special cameras and analyzing instruments are now being used to determine the airplane speed, acceleration, ground distance, and flight paths required for safe "take-offs." Developed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in co-operation with several companies, the new instruments have greatly decreased the element of human error. In the case of seaplanes or flying boats, where conditions prevent a precise location with respect to the path of flight, two sets of instruments, spaced up to 2,000 feet apart, are used.

Half Million Planes

WASHINGTON — It is not unlikely that in this country alone we shall have by 1950 at least half a million private, commercial and military planes in active service, according to William A. M. Burden, assistant secretary of commerce.

Demand for More Meat Chickens

COLLEGE STATION — The recently announced reduction of 12 per cent in the allocation of "red" meat for civilians during the second quarter of 1945 has emphasized chickens as the most ready source to offset the shortage.

In order to encourage farmers to produce more young chickens for marketing during the coming summer, William H. Davis, director of economic stabilization, Washington has authorized an increase averaging throughout the country of about 1½ cents a pound in producers' ceiling prices. This increase will be effective from July 1 through December 31, and will apply to broilers, fryers and roasters. The prices are tentative.

In a statement received by the A&M College Extension Service, the Office of Economic Stabilization said that the higher producer prices will result in an increase of little more than 1½ cents a pound for young chickens at the consumer level.

Illustrating how the lift in the ceiling price will range in the several states, the OES lists one city in each as "typical key cities" and gives the tentative price increase for each. The increase for Gonzales, selected as Texas' representative will be one and six-tenths cents. This, with a corresponding increase for Montana, tops the country. The rise in the ceiling then scales downward to five-tenths of one cent in Georgia and Kansas.

The raised ceiling is expected to induce farmers to produce an extra brood of chickens or to increase substantially the size of single broods. Co-operation of hatcherymen is looked for in producing more young chicks to fill orders for producers, and many are expected to enlarge their usual operating program.

In asking for larger production, the statement said that War Food Administration officials urge farmers to raise the extra brood for meat and market them as early as possible to help relieve the expected meat shortage. It is suggested that those who can start chicks in the near future should be able to market their birds by late July. The civilian shortage of "red" meat, it adds, will be felt mostly from the present until late summer.

Reversible Propellers

WASHINGTON — Reversible propellers, newest innovation for retarding speed on airplanes, do not change their direction of rotation. Instead, the pitch range on variable propeller blades is increased sufficiently so that the blades can assume a negative angle and thus the rotating propeller produces a negative thrust. Investigations indicate that while wheel brakes decrease the landing run of a plane to two-thirds of the distance required when no wheel brakes are used, the reversible propeller is capable of decreasing the landing run to less than one-third of that distance.

Million Cattle Treated in Grub Control

COLLEGE STATION, April 9—More than a million head of cattle in Texas were treated for control of cattle grubs in the season just ended, Paul Gregg, assistant entomologist for the A&M College Extension Service, estimates. This figure represents an all-time high in control of the pest, and Gregg says it means potential production of meat and leather probably is a million pounds greater because of the treatment.

Stockmen's acceptance of the grub control program has been rapid. In the 1942-43 season when the extension service first began to emphasize this work on a state basis, 400,000 head were treated. The second season, the number was doubled, Gregg says, and now reports from county agricultural agents show more than a million head treated in the closing months of 1944 and the early months of 1945.

Hemphill County, one of Texas' pioneers in grub control, now has 12 vats where cattle can be dipped for lice and treated for grubs. J. Walter Grist, county agricultural agent, says all are used on a co-operative basis and ranchers drive their cattle from one to six miles to make use of the vats. About 22,000 were treated by this method and an additional 6,000 were hand-dusted or sprayed.

At least 22,000 were treated for the first time in Kaufman County, A. E. Frazier, county agricultural agent has reported. Even small farmers with fewer than a dozen head in Freestone County have found it pays well to control grubs, they have reported to Agent C. V. Hanning. On the ranches in that county the program was handicapped by shortage of labor, since several hands are needed to drive cattle from the bottoms into open pasture.

Dairymen in Jasper County have treated cows and heifers with excellent results.

Year-Round Vegetables

CHICAGO — Housewives will no longer have to consider the changing seasons in preparing meals when plane-load movements of fruits and vegetables really get under way in the post-war world. Already experimental flights by various airlines prove that in the future it will be possible to deliver freshly picked garden and orchard produce on overnight flights from distances as great as 2000 miles or more. Among the type of perishibles likely to be first to move in quantity via air are berries of all kinds, seafood, lettuce, tomatoes, asparagus, fresh figs, cherries and apricots.

DON'T TRUST TO LUCK
When It Comes to Tires!

The demand for tires for our armed services is so great that from all indications, tires for civilian use will be almost impossible to obtain by the end of the summer. If you want to keep your car on the road, take extreme care with your present tires. Drive carefully, keep them properly inflated, have them checked regularly—and have them repaired or recapped as soon as needed!

This month, the millions of men and women participating in the Payroll Savings Plan are being extra smart.

Here's how, and why:

In the first place, this war isn't getting any cheaper. It's going to cost us just about as much in 1945, as it did in 1944.

No matter what happens to Germany, or when, there'll be no easing up! The quickest way to end the whole nasty business is to keep going full steam ahead.

But this year, there will be only TWO War Loans—instead of three, as there were in 1944.

That means we've got to lend, in 2 chunks, as much as we lent last year in 3! It means that, in the 7th War Loan, which starts next month, each of us will have to buy a BIGGER share of extra War Bonds!

And right there is where the men and women on the Payroll Plan are being extra smart.

Right now—they're boosting their allotments for April, May, and June. Saving extra money so that they can buy more extra Bonds, and spread their buying over more pay checks.

When the big 7th War Loan starts, these people won't have to scrape so hard for extra cash. A good share of their extra Bonds will be already paid for—because they're putting part of the extra money for those extra Bonds aside right now!

That's a swell idea for all of us. It's better for us—better for Uncle Sam. It's the easiest way for us to fulfill our obligation to the men who are fighting. Let's all start saving now for the mighty 7th War Loan!

Our Defenders Speak!

The Herald asks that men and women from this community serving in the armed forces write letters to this department for publication. Letters to relatives that would be of interest to the public will be published under this heading.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Shrader by her brother, Cpl. Otis Claude Shearer, who is in France.

28 February, 1945

Dear Kathryn and Leon:

Greetings again from France. France has improved a lot from what it was the first two weeks of my stay here. I am very happy to say that I can walk most anywhere and stay on dry ground. Mud is terrible especially when one has to sleep in it. We have had swell weather since coming to this position. We are in our second week here.

I like staying at the battery better than at message center. I am in a large tent and since I found some dry wood have a fire to have warm water. I have all of my clothes cleaned except my jacket and one pair of O.D. pants. The lady here has worked so hard washing our clothes I hate to have her wash anything else for me. So, if I can get some laundry soap and a scrub brush I will do them myself. I cut a lot of wood yesterday; the man who lives here loaned me his saw and then he helped me saw it. I like the old boy even if he does speak German. He says he was in the French Army in World War I.

I expect most of the people around here are loyal to Germany because I hear that most of the war damage around here was done by our armies. A little town up the road from here is shot up pretty bad. I was up there the other day and went in some of the wrecks; it is queer to me how well people live. I have always had the impression that people in Europe were starving but most of them have nice homes and nice furniture. One house I went in had a bathroom, furnace, tiled floors, swell furniture. The walls were hand painted; one thing I noticed was a house blown all to hell except one wall and hanging on it was a picture of Jesus, the only damage was the glass cover broken.

If we had landed in France a month earlier we would have seen war at its worst. Our infantry was called in and sure caught hell. We would have done a lot of good if we would have been here but for our individual selves I guess we were lucky we were late. I am sure you have read about the Rainbow being in to stop the last German push.

We fire some, but are not in direct support so we are in a good spot. I may have written too much about the war but the latest news I had was that we could tell of experiences two weeks old. I was on guard last night from 11:30 to 1:15. Somebody lost a lot of sleep last night—I could hear action up in front.

We got five bars of candy and two bottles of beer. It is swell to get some good U. S. candy; I was so starved for it, I ate all of mine last night. I am expecting some from home but have not received any packages as yet. I have sent plenty of requests. Ha! I need laundry soap; we seem to have trouble getting both laundry and face soap. I had three bars of face soap but like a fool I left it with my duffle bag at the Service Battery. I have hopes of getting it soon.

I was glad to be able to cable Rheba some Easter lillies. They are supposed to be delivered Easter morning; I hope she is at home Easter.

Later

I walked to Bn. C.P. I enjoyed the walk, it is a swell day, one of the best we have had in a long time. I have my bed roll out; it sure needed airing.

Giltner was at our battery today at noon. He drives for the colonel. He has hopes of seeing Clifton Bell sometime; Clifton is in Germany. Giltner hears from him. I would like to find someone from home.

Two of Rheba's sisters boys are in the 7th Army but not much chance of my seeing them. Give the news of me to Ruth Ann since the folks are gone. My letters will not be at home; I got the January 4 issue of the Ochiltree Herald. Will close, sending love to all.

Claude

P.S.—I received your V-Mail letter of 7 Feburary. Was glad to hear from you, but air mail is better. I thought at first that V-Mail was the best but Mom wrote an air mail and V-Mail the same day just to see how they came. I got the air mail one day sooner than the V-Mail.

Mom was happy over the pin you girls gave her. I am so glad the folks are with Rheba; it will help Rheba to have the baby at home.

Give my regards to Paul when you write him.

March 13, 1945

Dearest folks,

I hope you did not wait too long the other night for a phone call because Uncle Sam had other arrangements for me at that time.

Everything is fine and dandy so far; I am enjoying the trip. This island is quite pretty and needless to say looked nice after 13 hours of nothing but water below us. However, the trip was uneventful. Everything worked like a clock, but we were very tired when we arrived last night. That is the longest flight I've had. We were given sealed orders and opened them when we were three hours out from the west coast. Security reasons won't permit my telling where I am going.

March 15, 1945

Dear Folks,

Tonight finds my feet a little sore, namely because we took a short tour of the island; as yet the army hasn't issued jeeps for such purposes. To begin with, we went out the back gate where we caught a ride into Honolulu which I might add was a little disappointing—it reminds me of the Mexican border towns, rather dirty and full of foreigners. But in this case I guess I'm the foreigner. Ha! However there are parts of the city quite beautiful. Of course, I don't know much about native vegetation other than the fact that palm trees and banana palms are quite prevalent. The city is built on a hill side and of course on the coast. From my barracks the lights make a very attractive sight tonight covering the hill side.

We then went out to the University of Hawaii; naturally it couldn't stand up to the old Alma Mater but it was interesting nevertheless. We did have to watch a native co-ed ball game a few minutes. Ha! As we walked through one of the halls, a door was open revealing a room full of guys and gals, some seemed quite interested and others bored with a physics lecture. The university is situated high on a mountain side giving one a nice view of the sea shore, etc.

March 19, 1945

Another fellow and I just returned from a tour of the island. We left about noon, went into town where we were able to purchase some 620 film. After about an hour of walking the streets we caught a bus going north up toward Mt. Honshuanuii, which is 3100 feet in elevation. The Pali Pass goes by this peak. And that was the extent of our ride today. This is about seven miles from the city of Honolulu. Just as one reaches the summit you will notice a terrific gale blowing. In fact, they claim this to be a vertical wind; as a result there is a cloud bank hanging constantly over this range, the most beautiful I have ever seen. It far excells anything in the Rockies. There is a very thick mat of grass covering the entire mountain side with all sorts of trees furnishing shade and occasionally one finds small streams of water trickling down over a rock embankment causing a waterfall. We hitch-hiked back down so that we could get a few pictures. Later we went down to Waikiki Beach, which seems to be quite a pleasure resort, at least it was in peacetime. The sea shore is lined with fine hotels and swanky eating joints. We went to the bath house, rented some bathing suits and proceeded to take a swim. You probably have heard of surf boards, anyway it is a hollow board about ten feet long and wide enough to lie on. The natives can stand up on the thing and ride the waves. Ott and I tried it, we really did get several duckings.

About five o'clock Ott suggested we take in one of the swanky Chinese eating places. The place was quite pretty in an oriental sort of way. The menu was made up in Chinese with the American interpretation following, which still had a very little meaning to me. Finally, however, I found one word, "beef" which I recognized, and proceeded to put in my order. This tasty Chinese dish proved to be stewed celery with a scattering of tomatoes and a tiny piece of beef. From here we went to a hamburger hut to get "something to eat." As you see, I am enjoying my stop in Hawaii.

Well, I'm still here; does that make sense to you? We got in on a good church service today; the first in several weeks.

Perhaps you wonder just "who" we includes. Wayne Huff and I finally got together today, and we had a grand visit. He has traveled around about as much as I have; of course, during the past year he has been rather permanently situated.

We met at the YMCA-USO, this morning, and from there we went to church at a non-denominational community church. The congregation was about 90% service men; and I guess practically every branch and rank of the service was represented—everything from privates to colonels including Army Air Corps, Navy and Marine personnel. They had several good songs, including a male quartet by a captain, a lieutenant and two enlisted men. After the service some lady came up to me, shook my hand warmly and said, "My, we really enjoyed your song." It then fell my unpleasant lot of having to reject all the laurels she had thrown my way. So you see, I almost became an accomplished singer today. Wayne really got a kick out of that incident.

We went to the USO, had a very nice dinner of baked ham. Later we rode a bus out toward his station and took some pictures.

Hope all is well on the ranch. Haven't had any mail since I left the states.

Love, Bus

(Lt. Chas. B. Bowen)

Auf Deutschland
18 March 1945

Dear Van and Jessie:

We are occupying an office formerly tenanted by various and sundry members of the Nazi gang. Hence the fancy stationery which resembles a sheet of player piano paper. Some of these years I'm going to learn how to speak this language. About all the German I knew was "Wo ist ein Bahnhof" (Where is a railroad station) which happened to stick in my memory. I can't understand just why I should remember this particular phrase for of all the things I need over here, a railroad station is not one of them. But that is just one of those queer tricks of memory, I guess, and I am better off knowing just that stupid, non-essential phrase than not knowing any at all. But, as you would know, I picked up a very essential phrase before I had ever had a chance to use it. "Wo ist eine Toilette?" (Where is a toilet?) is to be included where ever one goes, and I can say that in five languages. I shall always learn the words for that request no matter how far my travels may take me.

In the countries of France, Belgium and Luxembourg, whenever we asked the Bourgmestre to furnish us with mental help such as char-women, etc., he always responded by selecting the oldest, most dried-out women he could find. Maybe he didn't trust us, I don't know. Here in Germany, however, the charwomen are the young, the prettiest girls in the Amtsbezierk. I suppose the object is to tempt us into breaking the non-fraternization rule. Maybe if we have to stay in Germany for a period of years, we shall be disposed to make friends and influence people. Right now, I don't care if Hedy Lamarr's double cleans the place, I can't be tempted. All I have to do is remember all the death and destruction which I've seen and then remember that if it weren't for these people, I wouldn't be thousands of miles from home, and I'm quite indisposed towards fraternization. Es ist nicht gut.

The Germans are quite on the ball as far as modern improvements go, and their good roads are quite a welcome change to the ones of other countries in Europe.

The house I'm living in right now is the nearest approach to an American house that I've seen since leaving the states. The houses are of brick, stucco or stone, and there are none of wood, which is quite natural. There aren't many draftage men around, and not so very many men of any age. But after the war is finished I suppose there will be plenty of males to start preparation for a third war. The people are not so hostile as I had imagined, and are probably playing on our sympathies as much as they can. They are not being softly treated, neither are they receiving the harsh brutality which they dished out to other countries.

The U.S. Army furnishes them no food, no clothing, no gasoline nor anything else. The Germans have to furnish food and supplies for the Displaced Persons Camps. Our outfit runs one of such camps right now in addition to a multitude of other duties, and there is quite a heterogeneous collection of nationalities represented, including Russians, Poles, Serbs, Frenchmen, Dutchmen, Belgians, and every other nationality in Europe. They have been used for the slave labor which we've heard about for so long. These DP camps are their first step toward home and security. Naturally, these people take a rather dim view of the Germans and are in favor of doing all they can to let the Germans know it.

I received the March 1 edition of the Herald today, which nearly floored me because of the rapid transit. I've been saving it all afternoon and shall sit down tonight and carefully start at the front and work my way to the back page. I think you are doing a bang-up job with the paper, and it is still the best, regardless of the effort which must be made for each edition. Just keep it up, and while you probably won't get trophies and banners, you'll get the heart-felt thanks of all of us.

Yours, Harold

(T-3 Harold R. Hudson)

March 1945

Dear Van, Jessie and Gang:

Get a good grip on yourself and don't faint. At last I have gathered enough strength to pick up a pen, and see if I can get a few lines of scribbling on the way to you. I have been promising myself for the last three or four months that I would write you guys a letter. But don't know of anything out in this "hell hole" that would be of any interest to you.

I have been receiving the papers quite regular for the past week or two. There was a long stretch when I didn't get them, and I missed them very much. The last one I received was particularly a very good paper. I can see that you are still doing a good job. In fact I doubt if you guys have time to get that cup of coffee. From the looks of the papers, you are really "on the ball." You sure need old "Gabby" there to throw those ads together. And do I wish that I could join you right away! But may be it is somewhere in the future.

As you probably know by now I have left Pearl Harbor. I didn't like the islands at all, but after coming out here, that place seems like a little paradise. I never did contact "Bat" in Honolulu. It just never seemed to work out where I could, and I probably passed the place where he worked more than once. But somehow I could never locate him. I'm not very far from him now. In fact I may get up that way. But that is something you never know about. May be I will get to see him yet and pull that long awaited celebration.

I see that Gerald Murray was one of the lucky boys and got a leave home. I'm certainly glad that he got to go home. I had a good talk with him while at Pearl Harbor. Sure did enjoy seeing him too. He found me on the ship at the most unusual time. At the time, I was working in the shop nights, so therefore I slept days. It so happened that I had my cot set up on deck and was stretched out leisurely reading a magazine and smoking a cigarette. Overhead was an awning to keep the sun from burning you to a crisp, and in general I was taking life easy. In fact, you could almost imagine that I was on a pleasure cruise in the beautiful blue Pacific. He probably thought at the time that I certainly had an easy life. But take it from me that it is everything but easy.

I see by the paper that Jake is still out there wading around in the mud. Easy life those guys lead! I'd like to hear from him, but I don't have his address. Wonder how he would like to come out here when they finish up over there. If he knows whats good for him, he sure will steer clear of this part of the world. If the Japs were the only thing you had to give you trouble, life would be easy.

I hear that Jim Bray is helping you out some. He's a mighty good printer and I'm sure glad that you can get him. I know that experienced printers are a premium. You could probably use a few more of them. I know that faithful Jack is still with you and doing a good job. Of course you and the good wife are still in there plugging, and I'm sure that the rest of the crew are turning in a good day's work. I sure miss the newspaper work. If you recall, I always did lean toward the newspaper and not the job work.

Everything is about the same with me out here. I may be looking a little older, and my hair a little thinner, but otherwise the same. But couldn't be in any better health.

Well, Van, I have a number of things I must do now, so I'll cut this off for this time. Keep up the good work there and give my regards to all the folks around there. I miss every one of them.

I hope that you and the good wife are in the best of health, and that very soon you can have all the old gang back together.

Always, "Gabby"

Christian Science

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 15.

The Golden Text is: "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved; for thou art my praise" (Jeremiah 17:14).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed be the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our salvation" (Psalms 68:19).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When it is learned that disease cannot destroy life, and that mortals are not saved from sin or sickness by death, this understanding will quicken into newness of life. It will master either a desire to die or a dread of the grave, and thus destroy the great fear that besets mortal existence" (page 426).

Soldier Letters

(The following is from Lt. Warren A. Kerns, who has had two forced landings in France. He is based in England. In the following, he told his wife, who lives in Booker, of his first forced landing)

January 29, 1945

Dearest Jessie Rae:

Here I am again and I hope to write you quite a long letter this time, but that remains to be seen. Now I'll try to tell you my experience of several days ago. It seems as though a crew took off on a mission to bomb Germany. The weather was bad, and the runway was icy, but nothing stands in the way of a combat unit, not even the weather.

This crew took off with their huge iron bird and proceeded to the forming altitude with quite a lot of trouble with icing. After getting to forming altitude, no other ships were to be seen, and the ice was bad. The clouds were bad, too. In general, everything was bad. The ice was so bad, this pilot became worried, but tried to keep his worries to himself. He knew his crew was worried, because the interphone was silent, much more silent than usual.

The ship was bouncing around, and the pilot thought his trim tabs were frozen, but instead they were broken. But that didn't hurt anything. So he proceeded to a lower altitude to get rid of the ice, and started to abbort (come home) but found a clear spot in the clouds and made his way up again to above 20,000 feet. There he joined a group of B-24s other than his own, and started on course to the target.

Everything went pretty good, except that it took more power than usual to keep in formation, and was a little hard to fly because of no trim tabs. But we made our way to almost the target without any further trouble except for the cold.

As this ship nears the target, the oil pressure dropped on No. 3 engine to the extent that we had to feather the props and stop the engine, and fly on three motors which isn't dangerous in itself.

We had our bomb doors open and were on the bomb run. But I couldn't keep up with the formation because of No. 3 engine. We dropped behind and dropped our bombs as near as we could on the formation. After considerable difficulty getting the bomb doors open. They had frozen up, or shut. It was 50 degrees below zero.

So after losing the formation we called for our own fighter support, and we were very glad to see from 10 to 15 fighters escorting us.

After dropping the bombs we couldn't get the doors shut, so we left them open. We flew above the overcast till we were sure we were over friendly territory again, and until we had to go down because of an oxygen leak. We lost quite a lot of oxygen up there. When we were over friendly territory, we let down through a solid mass of clouds—from 22,000 feet down to 2,000 feet. I'm thankful for the clouds, because they couldn't see us, but even if they could see us, they seem to socta ration their fire at us now. I didn't see a bit of fire or flak that day.

After letting down, of course we didn't know where we were, except that we were over France. We spent quite awhile looking for an airfield, but didn't find one. We just about ran out of gas, so I landed the plane in a field.

I called the men to prepare for a forced landing. They started to throw out everything that was loose. And after landing, the Frenchmen brought every single item back that was thrown out.

I stepped the distance that I landed the B-24 in, and it was less than 300 steps. I was surprised, I didn't think it was possible. The F.F.I. men thought we were Germans at first, and wouldn't let us do a thing until the American Military Police arrived. But after they were satisfied that we were Americans, we were treated like kings. Of course, they bummed all the cigarettes and candy that the crew had.

When the Military Police arrived I went with them (leaving part of the men to guard the ship) and made arrangements for some gasoline and oil, also a mechanic and tools, then to bed for a few hours rest. Of course I sent a message back to the base that everything was okay.

Well, the gas, oil, etc. didn't get out to the ship until the next night, so we couldn't do much work 'till the third day. We did all we could, and it started raining, and thawing. I had to get the ship to a pasture, up on a hill, before it sunk in that mud. The field was plowed in ridges, like we do at home. I had to take the plane across two fields, and up a heck of a hill. I was really surprised to see how easy it went up the hill. A big GI truck had to go up it in its lowest gear (a big six-wheel drive). But we got up there and waited till next morning to take off. I had No. 3 engine full of oil again, and 400 gallons of gasoline.

I took it off with four men, after unloading all that we could of the equipment. The posture was 600 steps long, a very short runway. In fact, too short, but I took off into a valley, and didn't have to gain any altitude right away. As soon as I got speed and altitude, I shut off No. 3 engine again and flew to an airfield about 100 miles away. This was the fourth day.

Now to tell you a little about how we were treated, and so forth while down there in the field.

In the first place, they think the Americans are just wonderful, and will do anything for us. I slept in the best bed I ever slept in, all of us did, right in their homes, and ate at the same table, etc. You can imagine what a time we had at first, but using signs and repeating over and over we got by. Charlie (co-pilot) knew how to speak French pretty well.

As for myself, being airplane commander, I was "El Capatain" to them. I had a bed to myself. I was served first at each meal and everything was first for the "El Capatain."

And talk about shaking hands, the French beat them all. For instance, Spikes (navigator) was on guard part of a night, and when he came in, he had to wake the man to find out where he was to sleep. As soon as he woke him up in the middle of the night, he shook hands, and shook again when he found him his bed. Every time, they say good-bye or good-morning every one shakes hands with every one else. But they are wonderful people, and are very willing to help any ally.

I had to leave the plane in France, and it took us four days more to get back to England because of the weather.

I know this sounds like a fairy tale that some fairy made up, but it's the truth, every word of it, and save this until I get back and I'll tell you some more that I can't tell you here. I'm sending a picture of the people and their home.

And boy, I'm satisfied with the 24 now. It did things I didn't think it could do. After it was all over, it was quite an experience, and the most dangerous part was the ice when climbing up.

As soon as the weather breaks we will get lots of missions in. It was three days before my message got through to my base, and they thought we were missing, and started to send you notice. So if you get a notice just wait a few days, and you will get another that I'm okay. If the Russians keep coming we will be helping them instead of our own troops.

Lt. Warren A. Kerns.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

We Benefit Today From Struggles of Religious Pioneers

The International Sunday School Lesson for April 15

Scripture: Genesis: Chapters 12 to 50; Acts 7:2-8; Hebrews 11:8-27

HERE in our western world the pioneer is near to our life today. Great railroads cross the continent where the ox-drawn covered wagon once toiled slowly, and broad splendid highways have now been added to the railways.

It was my privilege to make the coast-to-coast auto trip three times, and I know how difficult it is, even with the best intentions, to visualize in the easy, and even luxurious conditions of today, the toils, and perils, and sacrifices, and hardships of the pioneers who went westward and conquered the west so recently as to be within the memory of many still living.

Now the point I wish to make is that we are apt also to take the heritage of our religious faith and freedom for granted, without adequately realizing that here, too, pioneers have blazed the way.

The eleventh chapter of Hebrews reminds us of what the pioneers of faith have endured, and of how much we owe to them. To that chapter might be added the records of pioneers throughout the ages, for generation after generation has added to the honor roll of those who have suffered to preserve the faith.

It might have looked at times as if the labors of these pioneer missionaries were in vain. But what a heritage there has been in these war years! American boys escaping from Jap savagery to the jungle, or cast up on island beaches, have found friendly natives, speaking the language of Christianity.

Abraham, father of the Jewish people, is the true type of the pioneers. He was a pioneer in the physical sense, going out not knowing whither he was going, to find a new home and to establish a new lineage.

God grant that we might all be such pioneers! For though the physical frontiers are closed, there are great spiritual frontiers to challenge the faith and courage of those who would follow the pioneer way.

Our Defenders Speak!

The Herald asks that men and women from this community serving in the armed forces write letters to this department for publication. Letters to relatives that would be of interest to the public will be published under this heading.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Shrader by her brother, Cpl. Otis Claude Shearer, who is in France.

28 February, 1945

Dear Kathryn and Leon:

Greetings again from France. France has improved a lot from what it was the first two weeks of my stay here. I am very happy to say that I can walk most anywhere and stay on dry ground. Mud is terrible especially when one has to sleep in it. We have had swell weather since coming to this position. We are in our second week here.

I like staying at the battery better than at message center. I am in a large tent and since I found some dry wood have a fire to have warm water. I have all of my clothes cleaned except my jacket and one pair of O.D. pants. The lady here has worked so hard washing our clothes I hate to have her wash anything else for me. So, if I can get some laundry soap and a scrub brush I will do them myself. I cut a lot of wood yesterday; the man who lives here loaned me his saw and then he helped me saw it. I like the old boy even if he does speak German. He says he was in the French Army in World War I.

I expect most of the people around here are loyal to Germany because I hear that most of the war damage around here was done by our armies. A little town up the road from here is shot up pretty bad. I was up there the other day and went in some of the wrecks; it is queer to me how well people live. I have always had the impression that people in Europe were starving but most of them have nice homes and nice furniture. One house I went in had a bathroom, furnace, tiled floors, swell furniture. The walls were hand painted; one thing I noticed was a house blown all to hell except one wall and hanging on it was a picture of Jesus, the only damage was the glass cover broken.

If we had landed in France a month earlier we would have seen war at its worst. Our infantry was called in and sure caught hell. We would have done a lot of good if we would have been here but for our individual selves I guess we were lucky we were late. I am sure you have read about the Rainbow being in to stop the last German push.

We fire some, but are not in direct support so we are in a good spot. I may have written too much about the war but the latest news I had was that we could tell of experiences two weeks old. I was on guard last night from 11:30 to 1:15. Somebody lost a lot of sleep last night—I could hear action up in front.

We got five bars of candy and two bottles of beer. It is swell to get some good U. S. candy; I was so starved for it, I ate all of mine last night. I am expecting some from home but have not received any packages as yet. I have sent plenty of requests. Ha! I need laundry soap; we seem to have trouble getting both laundry and face soap. I had three bars of face soap but like a fool I left it with my duffle bag at the Service Battery. I have hopes of getting it soon.

I was glad to be able to cable Rheba some Easter lilies. They are supposed to be delivered Easter morning; I hope she is at home Easter.

Later

I walked to Bn. C.P. I enjoyed the walk, it is a swell day, one of the best we have had in a long time. I have my bed roll out; it sure needed airing.

Giltner was at our battery today at noon. He drives for the colonel. He has hopes of seeing Clifton Bell sometime; Clifton is in Germany. Giltner hears from him. I would like to find someone from home.

Two of Rheba's sisters boys are in the 7th Army but not much chance of my seeing them. Give the news of me to Ruth Ann since the folks are gone. My letters will not be at home; I got the January 4 issue of the Ochiltree Herald. Will close, sending love to all.

Claude

P.S.—I received your V-Mail letter of 7 Feburary. Was glad to hear from you, but air mail is better. I thought at first that V-Mail was the best but Mom wrote an air mail and V-Mail the same day just to see how they came. I got the air mail one day sooner than the V-Mail.

Mom was happy over the pin you girls gave her. I am so glad the folks are with Rheba; it will help Rheba to have the baby at home.

Give my regards to Paul when you write him.

March 13, 1945

Dearest folks,

I hope you did not wait too long the other night for a phone call because Uncle Sam had other arrangements for me at that time.

Everything is fine and dandy so far; I am enjoying the trip. This island is quite pretty and needless to say looked nice after 13 hours of nothing but water below us. However, the trip was uneventful. Everything worked like a clock, but we were very tired when we arrived last night. That is the longest flight I've had. We were given sealed orders and opened them when we were three hours out from the west coast. Security reasons won't permit my telling where I am going.

March 15, 1945

Dear Folks,

Tonight finds my feet a little sore, namely because we took a short tour of the island; as yet the army hasn't issued jeeps for such purposes. To begin with, we went out the back gate where we caught a ride into Honolulu which I might add was a little disappointing—it reminds me of the Mexican border towns, rather dirty and full of foreigners. But in this case I guess I'm the foreigner. Ha! However there are parts of the city quite beautiful. Of course, I don't know much about native vegetation other than the fact that palm trees and banana palms are quite prevalent. The city is built on a hill side and of course on the coast. From my barracks the lights make a very attractive sight tonight covering the hill side.

We then went out to the University of Hawaii; naturally it couldn't stand up to the old Alma Mater but it was interesting nevertheless. We did have to watch a native co-ed ball game a few minutes. Ha! As we walked through one of the halls, a door was open revealing a room full of guys and gals, some seemed quite interested and others bored with a physics lecture. The university is situated high on a mountain side giving one a nice view of the sea shore, etc.

March 19, 1945

Another fellow and I just returned from a tour of the island. We left about noon, went into town where we were able to purchase some 620 film. After about an hour of walking the streets we caught a bus going north up toward Mt. Honshuanuii, which is 3100 feet in elevation. The Pali Pass goes by this peak. And that was the extent of our ride today. This is about seven miles from the city of Honolulu. Just as one reaches the summit you will notice a terrific gale blowing. In fact, they claim this to be a vertical wind; as a result there is a cloud bank hanging constantly over this range, the most beautiful I have ever seen. It far excells anything in the Rockies. There is a very thick mat of grass covering the entire mountain side with all sorts of trees furnishing shade and occasionally one finds small streams of water trickling down over a rock embankment causing a waterfall. We hitch-hiked back down so that we could get a few pictures. Later we went down to Waikiki Beach, which seems to be quite a pleasure resort, at least it was in peacetime. The sea shore is lined with fine hotels and swanky eating joints. We went to the bath house, rented some bathing suits and proceeded to take a swim. You probably have heard of surf boards, anyway it is a hollow board about ten feet long and wide enough to lie on. The natives can stand up on the thing and ride the waves. Ott and I tried it, we really did get several duckings.

About five o'clock Ott suggested we take in one of the swanky Chinese eating places. The place was quite pretty in an oriental sort of way. The menu was made up in Chinese with the American interpretation following, which still had a very little meaning to me. Finally, however, I found one word, "beef" which I recognized, and proceeded to put in my order. This tasty Chinese dish proved to be stewed celery with a scattering of tomatoes and a tiny piece of beef. From here we went to a hamburger hut to get "something to eat." As you see, I am enjoying my stop in Hawaii.

March 27

Well, I'm still here; does that make sense to you? We got in on a good church service today; the first in several weeks.

Perhaps you wonder just "who" we includes. Wayne Huff and I finally got together today, and we had a grand visit. He has traveled around about as much as I have; of course, during the past year he has been rather permanently situated.

We met at the YMCA-USO, this morning, and from there we went to church at a non-denominational community church. The congregation was about 90% service men; and I guess practically every branch and rank of the service was represented—everything from privates to colonels including Army Air Corps, Navy and Marine personnel. They had several good songs, including a male quartet by a captain, a lieutenant and two enlisted men. After the service some lady came up to me, shook my hand warmly and said, "My, we really enjoyed your song." It then fell my unpleasant lot of having to reject all the laurels she had thrown my way. So you see, I almost became an accomplished singer today. Wayne really got a kick out of that incident.

We went to the USO, had a very nice dinner of baked ham. Later we rode a bus out toward his station and took some pictures.

Hope all is well on the ranch. Haven't had any mail since I left the states.

Love, Bus

Dear Van and Jessie:

We are occupying an office formerly tenanted by various and sundry members of the Nazi gang. Hence the fancy stationery which resembles a sheet of player piano paper. Some of these years I'm going to learn how to speak this language. About all the German I knew was "Wo ist ein Bahnhof" (Where is a railroad station) which happened to stick in my memory. I can't understand just why I should remember this particular phrase for of all the things I need over here, a railroad station is not one of them. But that is just one of those queer tricks of memory, I guess, and I am better off knowing just that stupid, non-essential phrase than not knowing any at all. But, as you would know, I picked up a very essential phrase before I had ever had a chance to use it. "Wo ist eine Toilette?" (Where is a toilet?) is to be included where ever one goes, and I can say that in five languages. I shall always learn the words for that request no matter how far my travels may take me.

In the countries of France, Belgium and Luxembourg, whenever we asked the Bourgmestre to furnish us with mental help such as char-women, etc., he always responded by selecting the oldest, most dried-out women he could find. Maybe he didn't trust us, I don't know. Here in Germany, however, the charwomen are the young, the prettiest girls in the Amtsbezierk. I suppose the object is to tempt us into breaking the non-fraternization rule. Maybe if we have to stay in Germany for a period of years, we shall be disposed to make friends and influence people. Right now, I don't care if Hedy Lamarr's double cleans the place, I can't be tempted. All I have to do is remember all the death and destruction which I've seen and then remember that if it weren't for these people, I wouldn't be thousands of miles from home, and I'm quite indisposed towards fraternization. Es ist nicht gut.

The Germans are quite on the ball as far as modern improvements go, and their good roads are quite a welcome change to the ones of other countries in Europe.

The house I'm living in right now is the nearest approach to an American house that I've seen since leaving the states. The houses are of brick, stucco or stone, and there are none of wood, which is quite natural. There aren't many draft-age men around, and not so very many men of any age. But after the war is finished I suppose there will be plenty of males to start preparation for a third war. The people are not so hostile as I had imagined, and are probably playing on our sympathies as much as they can. They are not being softly treated, neither are they receiving the harsh brutality which they dished out to other countries.

The U.S. Army furnishes them no food, no clothing, no gasoline nor anything else. The Germans have to furnish food and supplies for the Displaced Persons Camps. Our outfit runs one of such camps right now in addition to a multitude of other duties, and there is quite a heterogeneous collection of nationalities represented, including Russians, Poles, Serbs, Frenchmen, Dutchmen, Belgians, and every other nationality in Europe. They have been used for the slave labor which we've heard about for so long. These DP camps are their first step toward home and security. Naturally, these people take a rather dim view of the Germans and are in favor of doing all they can to let the Germans know it.

I received the March 1 edition of the Herald today, which nearly floored me because of the rapid transit. I've been saving it all afternoon and shall sit down tonight and carefully start at the front and work my way to the back page. I think you are doing a bang-up job with the paper, and it is still the best, regardless of the effort which must be made for each edition. Just keep it up, and while you probably won't get trophies and banners, you'll get the heart-felt thanks of all of us.

Yours, Harold

(T-3 Harold R. Hudson)

March 1945

Dear Van, Jessie and Gang:

Get a good grip on yourself and don't faint. At last I have gathered enough strength to pick up a pen, and see if I can get a few lines of scribbling on the way to you. I have been promising myself for the last three or four months that I would write you guys a letter. But don't know of anything out in this "hell hole" that would be of any interest to you.

I have been receiving the papers quite regular for the past week or two. There was a long stretch when I didn't get them, and I missed them very much. The last one I received was particularly a very good paper. I can see that you are still doing a good job. In fact I doubt if you guys have time to get that cup of coffee. From the looks of the papers, you are really "on the ball." You sure need old "Gabby" there to throw those ads together. And do I wish that I could join you right away! But may be it is somewhere in the future.

As you probably know by now I have left Pearl Harbor. I didn't like the islands at all, but after coming out here, that place seems like a little paradise. I never did contact "Bat" in Honolulu. It just never seemed to work out where I could, and I probably passed the place where he worked more than once. But somehow I could never locate him. I'm not very far from him now. In fact I may get up that way. But that is something you never know about. May be I will get to see him yet and pull that long awaited celebration.

I see that Gerald Murray was one of the lucky boys and got a leave home. I'm certainly glad that he got to go home. I had a good talk with him while at Pearl Harbor. Sure did enjoy seeing him too. He found me on the ship at the most unusual time. At the time, I was working in the shop nights, so therefore I slept days. It so happened that I had my cot set up on deck and was stretched out leisurely reading a magazine and smoking a cigarette. Overhead was an awning to keep the sun from burning you to a crisp, and in general I was taking life easy. In fact, you could almost imagine that I was on a pleasure cruise in the beautiful blue Pacific. He probably thought at the time that I certainly had an easy life. But take it from me that it is everything but easy.

I see by the paper that Jake is still out there wading around in the mud. Easy life those guys lead! I'd like to hear from him, but I don't have his address. Wonder how he would like to come out here when they finish up over there. If he knows whats good for him, he sure will steer clear of this part of the world. If the Japs were the only thing you had to give you trouble, life would be easy.

I hear that Jim Bray is helping you out some. He's a mighty good printer and I'm sure glad that you can get him. I know that experienced printers are a premium. You could probably use a few more of them. I know that faithful Jack is still with you and doing a good job. Of course you and the good wife are still in there plugging, and I'm sure that the rest of the crew are turning in a good day's work. I sure miss the newspaper work. If you recall, I always did lean toward the newspaper and not the job work.

Everything is about the same with me out here. I may be looking a little older, and my hair a little thinner, but otherwise the same. But couldn't be in any better health.

Well, Van, I have a number of things I must do now, so I'll cut this off for this time. Keep up the good work there and give my regards to all the folks around there. I miss every one of them.

I hope that you and the good wife are in the best of health, and that very soon you can have all the old gang back together.

Always, "Gabby"

Christian Science
"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 15.
The Golden Text is: "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved; for thou art my praise" (Jeremiah 17:14).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed be the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our salvation" (Psalms 68:19).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When it is learned that disease cannot destroy life, and that mortals are not saved from sin or sickness by death, this understanding will quicken into newness of life. It will master either a desire to die or a dread of the grave, and thus destroy the great fear that besets mortal existence" (page 426).

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

We Benefit Today From Struggles of Religious Pioneers

The International Sunday School Lesson for April 15

Scripture: Genesis: Chapters 12 to 50; Acts 7:2-8; Hebrews 11:8-27

HERE in our western world the pioneer is near to our life today. Great railroads cross the continent where the ox-drawn covered wagon once toiled slowly, and broad splendid highways have now been added to the railways.

It was my privilege to make the coast-to-coast auto trip three times, and I know how difficult it is, even with the best intentions, to visualize in the easy, and even luxurious conditions of today, the toils, and perils, and sacrifices, and hardships of the pioneers who went westward and conquered the west so recently as to be within the memory of many still living.

Now the point I wish to make is that we are apt also to take the heritage of our religious faith and freedom for granted, without adequately realizing that here, too, pioneers have blazed the way.

The eleventh chapter of Hebrews reminds us of what the pioneers of faith have endured, and of how much we owe to them. To that chapter might be added the records of pioneers throughout the ages, for generation after generation has added to the honor roll of those who have suffered to preserve the faith.

It might have looked at times as if the labors of these pioneer missionaries were in vain. But what a heritage there has been in these war years! American boys escaping from Jap savagery to the jungle, or cast up on island beaches, have found friendly natives, speaking the language of Christianity.

Abraham, father of the Jewish people, is the true type of the pioneers. He was a pioneer in the physical sense, going out not knowing whither he was going, to find a new home and to establish a new lineage.

God grant that we might all be such pioneers! For though the physical frontiers are closed, there are great spiritual frontiers to challenge the faith and courage of those who would follow the pioneer way.

Soldier Letters

(The following is from Lt. Warren A. Kerns, who has had two forced landings in France. He is based in England. In the following, he told his wife, who lives in Booker, of his first forced landing)

January 29, 1945

Dearest Jessie Rae:

Here I am again and I hope to write you quite a long letter this time, but that remains to be seen. Now I'll try to tell you my experience of several days ago. It seems as though a crew took off on a mission to bomb Germany. The weather was bad, and the runway was icy, but nothing stands in the way of a combat unit, not even the weather.

This crew took off with their huge iron bird and proceeded to the forming altitude with quite a lot of trouble with icing. After getting to forming altitude, no other ships were to be seen, and the ice was bad. The clouds were bad, too. In general, everything was bad. The ice was so bad, this pilot became worried, but tried to keep his worries to himself. He knew his crew was worried, because the interphone was silent, much more silent than usual.

The ship was bouncing around, and the pilot thought his trim tabs were frozen, but instead they were broken. But that didn't hurt anything. So he proceeded to a lower altitude to get rid of the ice, and started to abbort (come home) but found a clear spot in the clouds and made his way up again to above 20,000 feet. There he joined a group of B-24s other than his own, and started on course to the target.

Everything went pretty good, except that it took more power than usual to keep in formation, and was a little hard to fly because of no trim tabs. But we made our way to almost the target without any further trouble except for the cold.

As this ship nears the target, the oil pressure dropped on No. 3 engine to the extent that we had to feather the props and stop the engine, and fly on three motors which isn't dangerous in itself.

We had our bomb doors open, and were on the bomb run, But I couldn't keep up with the formation because of No. 3 engine. We dropped behind and dropped our bombs as near as we could on the formation. After considerable difficulty getting the bomb doors open. They had frozen up, or shut. It was 50 degrees below zero.

So after losing the formation we called for our own fighter support, and we were very glad to see from 10 to 15 fighters escorting us.

After dropping the bombs we couldn't get the doors shut, so we left them open. We flew above the overcast, but we were sure we were over friendly territory again, and until we had to go down because of an oxygen leak. We lost quite a lot of oxygen up there. When we were over friendly territory, we let down through a solid mass of clouds—from 22,000 feet down to 2,000 feet, I'm thankful for the clouds, because they couldn't see us, but even if they could see us, they seem to sorta ration their fire at us now. I didn't see a bit of fire or flak that day.

After letting down, of course we didn't know where we were, except that we were over France. We spent quite awhile looking for an airfield, but didn't find one. We just about ran out of gas, so I landed the plane in a field.

I called the men to prepare for a forced landing. They started to throw out everything that was loose. And after landing, the Frenchmen brought every single item back that was thrown out.

I stepped the distance that I landed the B-24 in, and it was less than 300 steps. I was surprised, I didn't think it was possible. The F.F.I. men thought we were Germans at first, and wouldn't let us do a thing until the American Military Police arrived. But after they were satisfied that we were Americans, we were treated like kings. Of course, they bummed all the cigarettes and candy that the crew had.

When the Military Police arrived I went with them (leaving part of the men to guard the ship) and made arrangements for some gasoline and oil, also a mechanic and tools, then to bed for a few hours rest. Of course I sent a message back to the base that everything was okay.

Well, the gas, oil, etc. didn't get out to the ship until the next night, so we couldn't do much work 'till the third day. We did all we could, and it started raining, and thawing. I had to get the ship to a pasture, up on a hill, before it sunk in that mud. The field was plowed in ridges, like we do at home. I had to take the plane across two fields, and up a heck of a hill. I was really surprised to see how easy it went up the hill. A big GI truck had to go up it in its lowest gear (a big six-wheel drive). But we got up there and waited till next morning to take off. I had No. 3 engine full of oil again, and 400 gallons of gasoline.

I took it off with four men, after unloading all that we could of the equipment. The pasture was 600 steps long, a very short runway. In fact, too short, but I took off into a valley, and didn't have to gain any altitude right away. As soon as I got speed and altitude, I shut off No. 3 engine again and flew to an airfield about 100 miles away. This was the fourth day.

Now to tell you a little about how we were treated, and so forth while down there in the field.

In the first place, they think the Americans are just wonderful, and will do anything for us. I slept in the best bed I ever slept in, all of us did, right in their homes, and ate at the same table, etc. You can imagine what a time we had at first, but using signs and repeating over and over we got by. Charlie (co-pilot) knew how to speak French pretty well.

As for myself, being airplane commander, I was "El Capatain" to them. I had a bed to myself. I was served first at each meal and everything was first for the "El Capatain."

And talk about shaking hands, the French beat them all. For instance, Spikes (navigator) was on guard part of a night, and when he came in, he had to wake the man to find out where he was to sleep. As soon as he woke him up in the middle of the night, he shook hands, and shook again when he found him his bed. Every time, they say good-bye or good-morning every one shakes hands with every one else. But they are wonderful people, and are very willing to help any ally.

I had to leave the plane in France, and it took us four days more to get back to England because of the weather.

I know this sounds like a fairy tale that some fairy made up, but it's the truth, every word of it, and save this until I get back and I'll tell you some more that I can't tell you here. I'm sending a picture of the people and their home.

And boy, I'm satisfied with the 24 now. It did things I didn't think it could do. After it was all over, it was quite an experience, and the most dangerous part was, the ice when climbing up.

As soon as the weather breaks we will get lots of missions in. It was three days before my message got through to my base, and they thought we were missing, and started to send you notice. So if you get a notice just wait a few days, and you will get another that I'm okay. If the Russians keep coming we will be helping them instead of our own troops.
