CITY WINS 'LAST ROUND' IN COURTS

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Just before launching upon the weekly gossip outburst, our duties necessitated the checking of an item concerning the objections set out for the coming year by the local F.F.A. chapter. If you don't think those future farmers are an ambitious bunch of chaps, just look at the list of things they've undertaken. The story appears under a three column head at the bottom of this page.

Some time ago this rural pencil pusher stopped in at the editorial office of the Moran News for a brief paternal visit. In company with Arthur Mitchell, a former Moran citizen, our stay in the sanctum of editor J. H. McGaughey was most enjoyable.

A week later, however, the Shackelford county scribe came out in his erstwhile sheet with a statement that demands our rebuttal. He used no little space informing his public that the Cross Plains editor was a handsome looking gent, with all the qualifications of a cinema star.

Several years ago his remarks would have appealed to our vanity but now, a married man of long standing, our interest is not in appearance but achievements. Editor McGaughey would have struck a vulnerable cord had he transposed the splendid adjectives used in speaking of Arthur Mitchell's capabilities to his description of us.

And speaking of Moran, while these we gathered the "low down" on Benton Jones, J. G. Perry, J. H. Kennison and "Mitch", all of whom are ex-citizens of that thriving little city.

Apparently the entire quartet was publicly esteemed in the Shackelford county parls, for mere mention of any of their names brought strong acclaim from all we interviewed. One fellow even came out in his night skirt and repaired the Mitchell automobile without charge.

And now, for a bit of prominent gossip. There's a certain local couple causing wide speculation as a result of their matrimonial indications. Both, however, flatly deny that there will be "social news" concerning them for sometime to come.

Watch this department, there may be a sensational revelation next week.

Sam Barr, son of rest and insurance peddler of distinction, will add to his thriving business tomorrow morning the patronage of Tom Bryant Insurance Agency. In a deal consummated early this week, the two firms will be consolidated and moved into quarters over the Citizens State Bank.

With all local dealers now supplied with '36 model automobiles, interesting things are promised. To pick the most attractive car would be as difficult as judging a pulchritude parade of perfect mannequins.

Here's one for Robert Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" strip. Notwithstanding the fact that Italy is at war with Ethiopia and great news stories are happening every hour, your today's Cross Plains Review is larger than any newspaper—daily or otherwise—published in Italy.

The reason: newsprint (paper) is not produced in Italy and must be bought in the marts of commerce with gold. Mussolini to prevent the outgo of gold has ordered newspaper be more than six inches in size. Your Review today, most every week—is eight pages.

Vote To Continue Corn - Hog Program

CALLAHAN FARMERS BALLOT 17 TO ONE IN FAVOR OF PLAN

In a nation-wide referendum on the A.A.A. question, "Do You Favor a Corn-Hog Adjustment Program to Follow the 1935 Program which Expires November 30, 1935", Callahan farmers voted last week for the continuance of such a plan. Contract signers balloted 17 to one in favor of the proposition; non-signers in this county favored the proposition seven to one.

The vote throughout the nation was unofficially reported Tuesday morning six to one in favor of continuing the corn-hog program.

According to County Agent Ross B. Jenkins, plans are being shaped quickly for the new contract to be issued, as a result of the favorable vote.

The administration plans to increase hogs about 25 percent this year, since the drought cut them far below normal last year. The four year plan, however, will keep corn and hogs regulated to meet supply and demand. The A.A.A. program is designed to act as a balance, Mr. Jenkins declared.

The County Agent was in Cross Plains Tuesday distributing low yield certificates. While here he handed the Review the following statement for publication concerning the present cotton situation.

"Callahan received 425,700 pounds more certificates from the State Board which were distributed by the county agent over the county Monday and Tuesday. This allotment is 890 bales of 478 pounds lint. Callahan had already received about 3,188,200 pounds which is 6670 bales of 478 pounds weight which may be ginned tax free this year. Callahan ginned 5,340 bales last year.

"In a conversation with Mr. B. L. Boydston, ginner and buyer of Baird, it was estimated by Mr. Boydston that the county would not make more than 6,000 bales this year. If his estimates are correct the county will have 1,500 bales more certificates than there is cotton to gin. In 1934 Callahan had a surplus of 1,600 bales which were either sold to the farmers or were repooled or exchanged for certificates for this year. Since the county in two years straight has received approximately 3,000 bales more than the crop that it raised demands it seems that complaint as issued by some critics of the Bankhead plan are unfounded. It simply means that a few discrepancies by some of the growers need to be corrected and the plan will function as smoothly as any law can be expected to work for so great a territory as involved."

LOCAL BOY LIKES LIFE OF SOLDIER

From Fort Sill, Oklahoma, comes a letter from John Paul Jackson, Cross Plains boy, stating army life is agreeable and pleasant. The letter addressed to Postmaster I. H. Kendrick follows:

"I got in all right and was sent to Fort Sill, Oklahoma. I was sworn in the fourth of October. I sure thank you for helping me get in. "It sure is swell and I like my officers. Fort Sill is a beautiful place and lots of soldiers here. And do they feed? Have already gained 12 pounds.

"I am coming home Christmas. If any other boys want to join, tell them Fort Sill is a great place."

Roy Lee Little was a business visitor in Eastland Tuesday.

Mrs. L. W. Westerman is visiting in Odessa this week.

Callahan Widow Of San Jacinto Veteran Is Honored

In Resolution Passed By House Of Representatives

A resolution of congratulations and appreciation was passed by the House of Representatives last week, honoring Mrs. Mary Catherine Berry, 82 year old widow of Andrew Jackson Berry, who fought in the battle of San Jacinto. Mrs. Berry who lives 10 miles South of Baird, is the last surviving widow of a man who fought in the historic skirmish at San Jacinto.

The resolution which was introduced in the House by Cecil A. Lot ief, of Cross Plains, and passed by unanimous vote is published.

"Whereas, Mrs. Mary Catherine Berry is the widow of Andrew Jackson Berry, who fought in the battle of San Jacinto; and

"Whereas, Mrs. Berry is the last surviving widow of a man who fought at said battle; and

"Whereas, Mrs. Berry, recently celebrated her eighty second birthday; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved by the House of Representatives, that it extend its congratulations to Mrs. Berry on having passed the eighty second milestone in her life, and further extend best wishes of the House for her continued good health and happiness; and be it further

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be mailed to Mrs. Berry, and a copy to each of the newspapers in Callahan county."

RED CROSS BEGINS COUNTY-WIDE HOME SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Paul W. Partridge, of St. Louis a representative of the National organization of the American Red Cross, was in Baird last week in conference with the local officers in reference to the campaign now under way, which calls for the elimination of accident causing hazards in the home and for the annual Roll Call for members in this greatest of all human interest institutions.

Hugh Ross, Jr., Chairman of the Callahan County Red Cross Chapter and other members of the executive committee, met with Mr. Partridge and made plans to open the campaign against home accidents at once. It is intended to conduct a survey of this county to ascertain the number and kind of home and farm accidents during the past year. Also to co-operate with schools, both city and rural, in educating the people toward the elimination of common hazards.

Rev. Joe R. Mayes, of Baird, has been appointed chairman of this special accident prevention committee. Other members of the committee are: J. F. Boren, B. C. Chrisman, Mrs. Ace Hichman, Mrs. Sidney Foy and Miss Eliza Gilliland.

Work began Monday and will be carried on largely through Callahan schools. Members of the committee will visit each school and confer with teachers, who will, with the cooperation of the pupils and patrons be able to give much needed information to the committee, the Review was told.

Mrs. Ashby White of Baird, is chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call which begins Armistice Day and closed Thanksgiving.

E. R. SMITHS ANNOUNCE ARRIVAL OF BABY BOY

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Smith announce the birth of a six and one half pound baby boy, Monday night. He has been named Tommy Ray.

SHORT STORY BY REX BEACH TO BEGIN IN NEXT WEEK'S REVIEW

"The Michigan Kid," a serial story complete in four installments and written by the incomparable Rex Beach, begins in next week's issue of the Review.

The story is the second of a series of four which the Review with 2,000 other newspapers, has secured for publication.

Only through co-operative effort of this great group of newspapers could the publication cost of four unparalleled short stories, by this well known author, be secured for publication.

Don't miss this opportunity to read a story you'll never forget. Begin "The Michigan Kid" in next week's issue of the Review.

SINGERS WILL MEET AT DRESSY SUNDAY

Arrangements have been made to entertain several hundred visitors at Dressy, Sunday, when the Callahan County Singing Convention meets there for the regular quarterly program. Barbecue and dinner on the ground will be served at noon.

"The entire public is invited to come and bring a well filled basket", said Fred Stacy, committeeman, this week.

Singing will start about mid-morning and continue through probably four o'clock in the afternoon. Singers from Callahan, Coleman, Brown, Eastland, Taylor and other nearby counties are expected to be in attendance. Special music is to be arranged.

The program will be held in the Dressy Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Powell, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Anderson of Brownwood were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bounds had as their guest here this week his brother of near Luders.

LOCAL BOY NAMED OFFICER IN AREA F. F. F. CONFERENCE

At a district meeting of F.F.A., boys of the Brownwood area at the Brownwood Junior High School building Tuesday night, Buster Atwood, of Cross Plains, was elected parliamentarian of the area organization. Six local students and advisor V.A. Underwood were present from Cross Plains.

The complete list of officers elected at the district meeting is: Buster Atwood of Cross Plains, parliamentarian; William Mitchell of Santa Anna, president; Roy Sewell of Coleman, vice-president; Ben Stephen of Bangs, secretary; Cecil Davis of Rising Star, treasurer; T. A. Kingsbury of Williams, reporter; George Allcorn of Brownwood, historian; Ben Elliott of Mozelle, farm watch dog.

Chapters in the Brownwood area are: Cross Plains, Brownwood, Bangs, Coleman, Pioneer, May, Mozelle, Santa Anna, Rising Star, and Williams.

Those attending from Cross Plains were: Malcom Steele, Weston Jones, Hadden Payne, Jimmie Lee Payne, Buster Atwood, Melvin Placke, and Mr. Underwood.

REV. AND MRS. ROLLO DAVIDSON VISIT HERE

Rev. and Mrs. Rollo Davidson of Abilene visited her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Garrett, the first part of the week. Rev. Mr. Davidson joined the New Mexico Methodist conference at El Paso last week and was assigned the Jal-Eunice charge. They will leave for Jan, New Mexico the latter part of the week where they will make their home.

Miss Alice Baucom of Brownwood visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cutbirth over the week end.

F. R. Anderson, Babe Wood, C. R. Cook and Stanley Clark attended a sales meeting in Dallas over the week end.

Local F.F.A. Boys Set Up eleven Important Objectives To Accomplish During The Year

The local chapter of Future Farmers of America met in regular session Tuesday afternoon and under the supervision of V. A. Underwood, chapter advisor, outlined objectives for this year.

Objectives toward which the F.F.A. boys will work are: To develop competent, aggressive, rural and agricultural leadership, To strengthen the confidence of the farm boy in himself and his work, To create more interest in the intelligent choice of farming occupation, To create and nurture a love of country life, and to improve the rural home and its surroundings, To encourage co-operative effort among students of vocational agriculture, To promote thrift among students of vocational agriculture, To encourage organized recreation, To promote and improve scholarship activities, To supplement the regular systematic instruction offered to students of vocational agriculture, To advance the cause of vocational agriculture in public schools.

Under the objective to develop competent, rural and agricultural leadership the local boys plan to send their secretary, president, parliamentarian and reporter to at least three district officers' training schools; to co-operate with other government agencies in helping put over the A.A.A. and soil conservation programs; to sponsor and carry out an F.F.A. improvement contest.

Means of strengthening the farm boy's confidence in himself will be by endeavoring to advance 50 percent of last year's "green hands", to the F.F.A. degree, two percent of last year's Future Farmers elevated to Lone Star Farmers, an F.F.A. manual available to every member.

To create more interest in intelligent choice of farming occupation the local boys will send representatives to regional fairs, sponsor supervised farming programs such as lead the boy to "grow into farmers" rather than just projecting

CONTEMPLATING CALL

Pictured above is Dr. C. A. Voyles, local Baptist pastor, who has been called to the pastorate of the Park Street Baptist Church at Greenville. Dr. Voyles has been in Greenville the past few days conferring with members of the church there. He will announce from his pulpit here Sunday morning whether or not he will accept the Greenville call.

PLENTY OF TIME TO WIN AUTOMOBILE IN REVIEW'S CAMPAIGN

Next Friday the names of the persons nominated thus far in the Cross Plains Review New Deal "Everybody Wins" $2,000 Gift Election will be published—the first time anyone will have an opportunity to see just who are seeking the great capital prizes.

Will your name be on the list? Unless some real activity takes place between now and then, the Cross Plains Review predicts that the list will surprise a good many people who may exclaim wonderingly, "Is that all that have entered so far? Why I thought there'd be lots more than that."

The list certainly would surprise you if it were published today. With only a few more weeks remaining until the mammoth New Deal campaign comes to a close there are still many sections of the city and county without representatives. Quite likely you would find that your own section is unrepresented or virtually so.

However, the fact that the campaign is progressing toward an end does not mean that your chance is gone; it simply means that the time is at hand when you must seize the golden opportunity, if you are going to do so. Subscriptions still count most heavily in votes during this period, and because there are so few candidates who have applied themselves so far, you have an excellent opportunity to roll up your sleeves and place yourself among the leaders in a jiffy.

Nominations will be received up to 7 p. m., Tuesday, for Thursday's list. Fill out your nomination blank and have a talk with the campaign manager here before that time, and you will find your name in the list and yourself on the way to the biggest dividends you have ever drawn on your spare hours. Campaign department open each evening until 7 o'clock.

3,210 BALES OF COTTON GINNED IN THIS COUNTY

Census reports show that there were 3,210 bales of cotton ginned in Callahan county from the crop of 1935 prior to October 18, as compared with 4,905 bales ginned to the same period last year from the crop of 1934.

J. M. RADFORD ET AL DENIED NEW HEARING BY COURT WEDNESDAY

What is considered as the "last lap" in the city of Cross Plains' rounds in the courts to invalidate $67,000. worth of revenue warrants was won Wednesday afternoon when the state supreme court denied a motion for re-hearing of the case. The motion had been offered by attorneys for the J. M. Radford estate et al.

S. M. Buatt, receiver for the city of Cross Plains, opined to the Review Thursday morning that the United States Supreme Court, the last available resort for the warrant holders, would refuse to review the case in view of the fact that it concerns only Texas laws.

The case recently won by the city of Cross Plains directly affects the municipal bond market of Texas, since approximately $50,000,000.00 in other Texas cities will be concerned by the ruling.

According to the decision recently handed down by the state supreme court, the lake North of town is handed back to the bond holders and Cross Plains is relieved of $67,000 debt against it.

A $40,000 debt against the local sewer system could be invalidated upon the same grounds, contends Dallas Scarborough, attorney representing this city. The city council, however, is not expected to repudiate the sewer bonds if a satisfactory adjustment with the bond holders can be made.

The adjustment, the Review is told, will have to be based upon the present value of the sewer system and its ability to pay the obligation.

The city of Cross Plains case has been watched by all Texas and is expected to go down in legal history as an important test trial.

FINAL INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS: Ben Furlong, a young but practical oil man and driller from the Pennsylvania field, drifted into the Texas oil country, broke and looking for work. Finally he fetched up at the Durham home where live an elderly aunt, shortly widowed by the explosion of a powder wagon, and her niece pretty Betty Durham—Perhaps because of his smile, Betty cooks some food for Ben and while he eats he learns the aunt, in town on business, has an oil man, Tiller Maddox, sinking an oil well for her—A short 6 inch bolt worked loose from the rigging and is in the bottom of the well. Work has been suspended for days as the crew "fish" for the bolt and operating funds dwindle away—Furlong offers to give a hand but Maddox objects—Betty insists and overrules Maddox so just lowered into the well, hoping to fish out the bolt—NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Mechanically Ben made an effort to rise, but could not manage it. "Must have hit on my head," he mumbled thickly, and raised groping fingers. Then he sat up. He knew now that he had not fallen into a pit. "Where are they? What's—happened?" Betty was sobbing wildly; her hair hung in a cascade about her shoulders; she was clad only in her nightdress, and it was soaked with the water she had poured over Ben to revive him.

Beside the open door to the hall lay the wreck of a chair; two of its legs were splintered, broken off; Ben realized more clearly now what it was that had crashed down upon his head. With an effort he scrambled dizzily to his feet. Water was trickling into his eyes and blinding him; he brushed it away, then discovered to his great surprise, that it was not water at all, but blood, his own blood. His head felt twice its normal size; his brain did not function clearly and his limbs refused to obey him.

Betty's voice came to him as if from a long distance; she was telling him something, trying to make him understand that they were alone in the house and that their assailant had fled. When this became plain to Furlong, he sat down.

It was some time before the girl succeeded in stanching that flow blood wound, for she was scarcely in condition to render help to anybody. By the time her task was completed Ben had managed to get a pretty clear idea of what had been awakened by a sound and had realized that somebody was in her room; she had uttered a frightened challenge, only to feel groping hands upon her, to find herself in the grasp of some unseen person. She retained no very clear recollection of anything after that; the rest was a hideous nightmare. Not until the miscreant had bolted out of the house and she finally managed somehow to strike a light was she made aware of the reason for his flight. Then she had stumbled over Ben and had realized that it was his voice she had heard calling to her, that it was the sound of his coming that had interrupted the attack. His plight had done a good deal to bring her back to herself, but now she threatened to again abandon her self-control.

Furlong checked this by saying: "Betty Durham! You've got nothing on but your nightie!" It was some time later when the girl emerged from her room, dressed after a fashion, to find her deliverer waiting in the kitchen with a scowl upon his face.

"You got a gun" he inquired, harshly. "No, Ben. Why?" "I'm going to kill Maddox." For a moment Betty stared at the speaker; with shaking fingers she plucked at her dress. It was in a thin, ready voice that she said: "It wasn't Maddox."

"How do you know?" "Oh, I know! It wasn't Maddox." "Are you sure?" The girl nodded, and Ben bowed his throbbing head in his hands. "I'm glad," he groaned. "Providence certainly brought me back. It wouldn't happen that way once in a thousand times. Who ever it was, I'll find him."

Both the man and the girl were in wretched condition. The rest of the night they sat together, watching the clock and listening for a possible return of the marauder, waiting for the day to break.

It was shortly after they had finished breakfast that Furlong was surprised to discover sign of activity, movements goings-on at the well which caused him to stare fixedly, then to announce, incredulously:

"Say! I believe Maddox is fixing to shoot the well." Betty took her place at his side. "Why—he can't! He dasset! The powder men won't be here till tomorrow." "All the same, he's doing something queer. See those cans—those shiny things?"

"You couldn't hire Tiller to touch nitroglycerine. He's scared of it," Ben uttered an oath. "I tell you he's filling those cartridges. He's crazy! You've got to stop him!" Betty turned white; she shook her head. "I won't go near the place. It's—Aunt Mary's well."

"Then I'll stop him. Why, it's ten to one he'll sear the rock, ruin the whole job and—Damned if I don't believe he's trying to do that very thing!"

Furlong started for the door, but Betty clung to him. When he pushed on past her she followed him. Together they hurried across the field and took the path through the mesquite. As they went the girl continued to implore him not to interfere.

Halfway to the drilling camp they met the engineer hastening towards the farmhouse, and the latter announced, breathlessly: "Tiller's gone plumb off his nut! He's goin' to shoot the well himself. You better stay clear."

Furlong dashed past the speaker and emerged from the shelter of the bushes in time to see Maddox gingerly swing a long, cylindrical tin over the well mouth and guide it into the opening. A new manila rope had been run through a block on the derrick, and with this he lowered the charge.

Ben yelled at him; he waved his arms. Maddox glanced over his shoulder, then let the line slide smoothly through his hands.

"Take my tip an' don't go too close," the engineer shouted. "He ain't no powder man an' that well's makin' gas. She blows off every few minutes."

Betty seconded this warning in frantic tones of appeal: "Let him go, Ben. He knows what he's doing. You've got no right stopping him. You'll just make trouble."

"It's none of my business," the latter agreed, impatiently, "but there's something crooked—" He ceased speaking; then he seized Betty and whirled her around with the sharp command, "Run! Get back!"

They were still perhaps a hundred yards from the well, but Furlong's practiced eye had seen something that suddenly raised the hair upon his head. That rope from which was suspended the heavy charge of liquid death no longer hung vertically, it no longer ran over the block and into the casing; instead it was falling in loops about Maddox. It was coming up out of the well!

Maddox himself was alive to what had happened. That which he most greatly feared had come upon him, and he also turned to flee. But the platform was slippery or else he tripped over the rope and fell. The others heard his cry of terror. He quickly regained his feet, but to Furlong it seemed as if his movements thereafter were maddeningly slow and deliberate.

The engineer's apprehensions had been well grounded. Once again gas had been released far down in the earth, and now, like breath forced from the lungs of some tortured giant, it rose, propelling the smoothly fitting cartridge of nitroglycerine ahead of it as a pea is propelled out of a pea-shooter. It was a phenomenon by no means unusual in a well as unstable in its balance of forces as this one. In fact, under like conditions none but a madman would have dared to risk Maddox's maneuver.

The latter had not put fifty feet behind him when up out of the well mouth shot the gleaming tin cylinder. Directly above and in its path hung the massive forty-foot steel bit suspended from its wire cable.

What happened next the observers were never able to agree upon, but the world dissolved into an inferno of smoke and flame and the suddenness of it rocked the sky, upheaved the earth. The two came together with a cataclysmic roar. Furlong and Betty Durham were tossed headlong, flung down like straws. When they scrambled to their feet, dazed, shaken, terrified, it was to find themselves enveloped in a mighty dust cloud. The eighty-foot tower of heavy hailstorm; nothing in the neighborhood of the well remained except the boiler and engine, and the former lay upon its side. Even the bushes had been whipped out, uprooted, shaved off as by a sweeping scythe.

That afternoon Furlong's friend, the engineer, came over to the farmhouse with a considerable bundle in his arms.

"How's Betty?" he inquired. "She's all right, but pretty well bruised, of course."

"Well, I guess there's nothin' more us boys can do, so we're goin' in to town."

"Right: I'll stay here until Mrs. Durham gets back."

"Here's all of Tiller's stuff that we could find. I reckon you better look after it."

"Anything besides clothes?" "Not much. A few letters an' things we found in his bunk. Miz Durham can keep 'em in case he's got relatives. There's one suit of clothes that would fit me. No use to throw 'em away. Say! It's funny how scared he was of powder. It musta been a hunch."

Shortly after the engineer had left, Ben came to Betty with a queer light in his eyes. In his hand he held a soiled sheet of foolscap paper.

"Feel strong enough to stand another explosion?" he inquired with an effort to suppress his agitation. "Well, the queerest thing, this arm doesn't belong to your aunt Mary, after all; it belongs to you!" The girl gasped; she voiced some breathless query, but Ben ran on: "Your uncle Joe left it to you, just as he promised. He left everything to you, except a thousand dollars to her. This is his will and Maddox had it. I guess it's a good will, even though your uncle wrote it himself. Anyhow it's witnessed by two people—Maddox and another. From the date I figure it must have been signed just a day or so before."

"Where did it come from? How did Maddox—?"

"I've figured that out, too. Mr. Durham must have had it in his pocket when Maddox found him. That would explain everything—how he made your aunt do just what he wanted and why she didn't dare to fire him."

"That's why she said I'd have to marry him! That's why—Oh, Ben!" Betty rose suddenly and clutched Furlong. "I knew she was a mean, selfish old thing, but I never thought she was so—wicked. This oil is a curse to poor people. I hate it!"

"Why, Betty!" Furlong exclaimed. "You're the wicked one to quarrel—"

"She's the only kin I've got left and I tried my best to love her. But she was so greedy for quick money that nothing mattered. Maddox, too! It made beasts of them. I almost wish we'd never heard of oil." After a moment the speaker continued, more quietly: "I lied to you last night. It was Tiller who came here."

Furlong's body stiffened, he breathed an oath, then he muttered: "I thought so. Why didn't you tell me?"

"What's more, she knew he was coming! They arranged it. She as good as sent him! That's how he got the kitchen key."

This announcement the man greeted with the growl of an animal. He began to pace about the

500 FARMERS ASK REVISION OF A. A. A IN BAIRD MEETING

At a meeting of several hundred cotton farmers of Baird recently, a resolution asking revisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's program was passed and copies forwarded all Texas representatives in Congress.

Congressman Thomas L. Blanton was present at the gathering, which was called to order by County Judge J. H. Carpenter, and spoke briefly upon the new deal.

The resolution passed by the gathering follows:

"Whereas, a mass meeting of cotton farmers of Callahan County, Texas, was held in the County Court house at Baird on the 19th day of October, 1935, to consider certain inequalities of the Bankhead law and the regulations now in force under such law; and

"Whereas, we favor cotton control but the present method of control is ruinous to a great number of farmers. The cotton belt is too big for any five year average to do justice to all sections and to all farmers; there are a large number of farmers under a five year average that can only sell 75 pounds of lint, of less, per acre tax free from land that will produce a bale per acre under favorable conditions; we want to be allowed to sell tax free all cotton raised on the allotted acres. We believe that if you bind the farmers to the bad years, that they cannot make a living and that many tenant farmers will be thrown on relief, that the landlords will go broke and land values go so low that it will not sell. We feel that it is not the intention of room; his face had grown black and threatening; his fingers were working as he stormed:

"Wait! Wait till she gets back here!" "You can't lay your hands on a woman—"

"Can't I?" he breathed. Betty shook her head; a moment then a new expression slowly crept into her eyes; her chin set itself firmly. "No!" she declared. "But you can lay 'em on her trunk and drag it out here where I can pack it."

"I sure can," Ben agreed. "And what's more, when you get it packed I can lug it out to the gate where it will be nice and handy for her." As he finished speaking his frown disappeared; it was replaced by a grin and he said: "Say, Betty! What d'you think? I'm going to marry an heiress, after all."

the Administration, of Congress or of The Secretary of Agriculture to arbitrarily make and enforce rules that work injustice and hardship on any one. Many farmers owe The Federal Land Bank for their land and unless the farmers of this section permitted to sell tax free all cotton raised on their allotment they will not be able to pay even the interest. Under the advice of the Federal Department of Agriculture and of the State Department, many farmers had reduced their acreage, before the passage of the Bankhead law, and some to control weevils and to build up their land had not planted any cotton. No provisions are made in the regulations to take care of either of these two classes of farmers and they are not able to raise enough money crops or receive enough benefits, to pay their taxes or pay interest on their debts. "Wherefore, he it resolved that Honorable W. A. Secretary of Agriculture, and Congress be urged to make such necessary changes in the regulations and the Bankhead law that will do away with the injustice and the inequalities mentioned, and that a copy of this resolution be mailed to such Secretary and all members of Congress from Texas."

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch? The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use a liquid laxative. If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regular doses till Nature restores regularity

THE PLAN Is Brief

The object of the distribution is two-fold; primarily to increase the already large subscription list of The Cross Plains Review, and at the same time afford our friends and readers an unparalleled opportunity to profit and in a big way, through their spare time during the next few weeks. So it is a plan that works both ways, and to the ultimate benefit of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, the most valuable and attractive list of prizes ever offered by a newspaper in this section of the country has been made ready for distribution among those who participate most heartily.

Ambition and energy are the only requisites necessary for success. The plan adopted is the fairest and most impartial conceivable. There will be no 'double vote' offers, extra votes given or any other vote inducement whatsoever other than those outlined here, inaugurated during this competition. Neither will there be any long term subscription accepted. Neither will we allow anyone to spend money to win. Have this explained to you. The plan of the campaign is straight forward and simple and is fully outlined in this announcement.

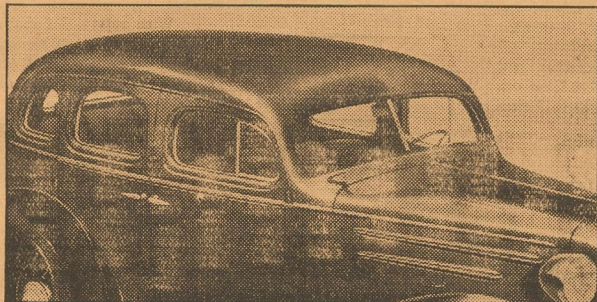

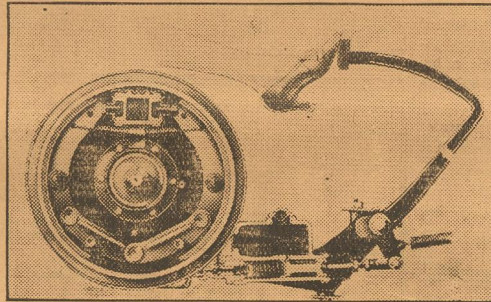

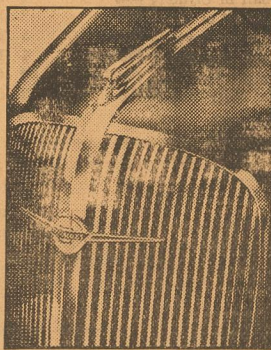

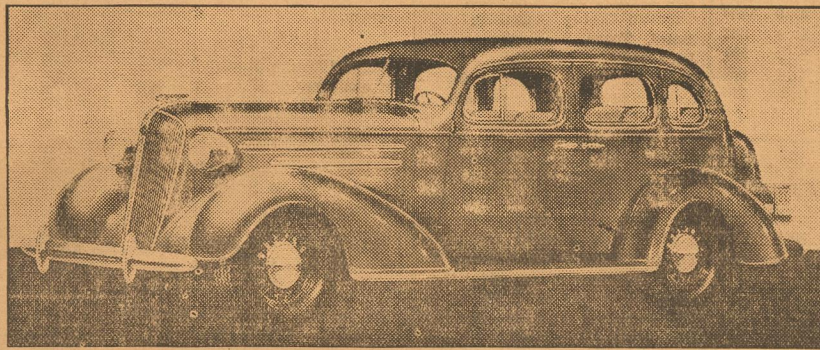

Let it be understood at the very out-set that this is not a "beauty" nor "popularity" contest, but a strictly legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women, and boys and girls, and one in which no element of chance enters. One feature of this competition is the fact that there will be no losers in this race.

How To Enter The Election

The first step in order to become a candidate and compete for a prize is to clip the nominating coupon till in your name and address and mail or deliver to the Campaign Department of The Cross Plains Review. This coupon entitles you or the person whom you might nominate to 10,000 FREE votes. These votes are given you as a starter, and speeds you on your way to win. Only one such nomination will be accepted for each candidate entered.

22—Two hundred thousand extra votes will be awarded each candidate with every four one-year subscriptions or the equivalent turned in during their first week in the campaign. These are in addition and above all regular votes.

1936 Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets are Replete with New Features

New Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 show marked advances in appearance and in engineering. Perfected hydraulic brakes, high-compression engines with full-length water jackets, and balanced carburetion are among the mechanical improvements. The solid steel Turret Top Fisher body is now used on the Standard as well as the Master De Luxe models.

Above are several snap shots of the 1936 Chevrolet. The type to be given by The Review. Is a 1936 Standard Coach. See it on display.

PRICE $640.90

Price of the 1936 model Chevrolet is not yet available, this figure is based by the Review upon the selling price of the 1935 model.

Purchased from Anderson Chevrolet Company, Chevrolet Sales and Service, and will be on display in their show rooms.

One beautiful closed Coach, fully equipped, to be given away by The Cross Plains Review in the "Everybody Wins Something" Distribution. It costs you nothing NOW or EVER! Call at the Office of The Review for a thorough explanation.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES

SECOND PRIZE $100.00

THIRD PRIZE $50.00

10 per cent cash commission to all non-prize winners.

$1209.10 IN COMMISSIONS

A special fund of not more than $1,209.10 in cash will be set aside to be distributed in the form of salaries among live non-prize winners on 10 per cent basis. Any candidate who remains active throughout the campaign, making regular weekly cash reports, but who fails to win one of the big prizes offered, will participate in this commission feature. Think of it. Ten per cent of every subscription you collect goes into your own pocket, if you fail to win a prize. This arrangement assures compensation to all candidates and means that there will be no losers in this race—everybody gets something. For further information call, telephone or write Campaign Department, The Cross Plains Review Office open, evenings to 7 o'clock.

Campaign Short & Snappy

The campaign is a very short one and under no circumstances will it be extended beyond the date advertised. At the end a committee of judges will count and tabulate totals and those who poll the greatest number of votes will whisk away in their own beautiful motor car. All others will receive cash in proportion to their vote totals, as explained in the advertising announcement.

WORK IN SPARE TIME

Very little is required of you to win. You have the time, plenty of it. An hour a day spent among your friends and neighbors for The Cross Plains Review is sufficient to win the biggest gift in the list.

You have the time. Really, your spare time—a few minutes at noon, a few minutes in the evening, is worth more to you these next few weeks than any whole time employment you imagine. Yet it is but a side issue—a spare time proposition. Nothing more. There is no sentiment about it. To earn money honorably is desirable. The money and the fine, speedy motor cars are now provided. It is here for you.

YOU CANNOT LOSE

You cannot lose. You are paid for every minute of your time. Every active non-gift winner is given an absolute guarantee that he or she will be paid for his or her time. Ten per cent of all business you produce is yours if you fail to land one of the big gifts. That in itself is a good business proposition. We all have a few spare minutes after work that we can turn into cash.

There is one thing, though, that is certain. There is absolutely no way you can secure one of these gifts—either cars or cash—except by votes. Votes secured through subscriptions to The Cross Plains Review.

Clyde Bulldogs Will Growl Into Town Friday Afternoon

Meet Buffs On Local Grid In Second Conference Go Of Season For Home Fans

A battle to step from the conference cellar will be waged on the local gridiron Friday afternoon, when Coach Claude Daniel's Buffaloes meet the Don Nelson tutored Clyde Bulldogs, in the second conference conflict for domestic audiences. The kick-off is scheduled for three o'clock.

Clyde and Cross Plains have yet to scratch the win column this season. Both teams have been beaten in all conference starts.

Despite the fact the Bulldogs have yet to win a conference game, Coach Nelson has a husky, fast charging squad. The team is composed almost entirely of juniors and seniors.

Having been idle last week as a result of inclement weather which necessitated the postponement of a game scheduled with Moran, Coach Daniel's Buffaloes are expected to be in trim condition for the game here Friday afternoon.

Just what combination Daniel will start against Clyde was not known early this week, however, since the Buffaloes are definitely out of the conference running he is expected to throw into action several underclassmen who have not seen much action as yet.

Although comparative dope might tend to rate Clyde stronger than the thundering herd, since they lost to Albany 13 to nothing as compared with Cross Plains' 23 to nothing reverse, local predictors were favoring the domestics yesterday to over-whelm the visitors.

With the conference championship mathematically certain to go to Albany, interest is centering upon second and third place honors. Albany's only remaining game with Rising Star, November eighth. In the event the Lions should lose—which is regarded as highly improbable—they would be tied for titlar honors, with perhaps the winner of the Baird-Putnam conflict.

Complete standing of each of the teams in this district is published in black face print on another part of this page.

Former Gridders From District Going Good With College Elevens

Among the former football players from this district now starring for collegiate teams are Rex Clark, now of T. C. U. and formerly of Cross Plains high school, Judson Aitchison, former Baird athlete now with Texas University and Tommie Webb, a one time Cross Plains high school griddier, starring for Daniel Baker.

All three of the gridders are well known here.

The following item, concerning Aitchison recently appeared in the Austin American, one of the state's largest newspapers:

ALBANY MARCHES PAST CLYDE IN 13-0 WIN

Albany high school Lions continued their championship march Friday afternoon by taking a 13 to nothing victory from Clyde on the rain soaked Albany gridiron. The win was Albany's fourth in as many starts against conference opponents.

The Lions kept the ball in Clyde territory during virtually all of the game. The Bulldogs were never able to seriously threaten, registering only one first down.

Capps went in and on first play ran 20 yards for touchdown, followed few minutes later by another off-tackle run by Mitchell, Albany half, for 20 yards and Cauble kicked point.

One of the Clyde halfbacks came out in the fourth quarter barefooted.

RISING STAR HUMBLIED 6-0 AT BAIRD FRIDAY

Baird defeated Rising Star on a rain drenched gridiron Friday afternoon six to nothing, the lone tally coming when Rising Star was held for downs and Lynn Bryan cut through the center of the line and raced down the sideline for 35 yards and the counter.

Bill Austin and Lynn Bryan were outstanding for the Baird eleven.

OLDEN HORNETS STING WOODSON COWBOYS 13-0

Olden high school Hornets winged off with a 13 to nothing victory over the Woodson Cowboys Friday afternoon. The contest was of conference significance in division two of this district 17-B.

May Defeats Pioneer 6 to Nothing In Mud Battle On Rising Star Grid Friday Afternoon

The May Tigers won a mud battle from the Pioneer Panthers Friday afternoon on the Rising Star High School field. The score was six to nothing. The game was slowed down by numerous fumbles by both teams. Dow McBride, May half back, cut back through right tackle and raced about 20 yards for a touchdown late in the second quarter. A pass for extra point was incomplete. May threatened to score in the fourth quarter but lost the ball on the five yard line.

The game ended with the ball in May's possession after Dow McBride intercepted a pass and returned to Pioneer's 17 yard line.

Hammett and Wheeler were the outstanding players for Pioneer. Douglas Chambers was the outstanding lineman for May. Bolton and Murphy played well on the offense and Goss, Clark, and J. Bailey played good defensive games. D. McBride and McDaniel were May's best backs.

Official were: Grady, Howard Payne, referee; Smith, Daniel

Baker, umpire; and Jacks, Daniel Baker, linesman.

May tallied eight first downs and Pioneer one. May was penalized seven times for a total of 65 yards and Pioneer three times for a total of 45 yards.

May's next game will be at Moran, November first. The two clubs are tied for the leadership of the second section of this district. The winner of the May-Moran game is expected to cop the "Section two" championship and will probably meet Albany for the district title.

Toll On Rented Acres College Station, Texas October 22, 1935

Mr. Aaron McKee, Chairman Callahan County Committee Baird, Texas,

Dear Sir:

We have your inquiry of October 18, and reference is made to Form Cotton 106, Section 24 (b) and (c).

Of course, it is expected that the rate of toll will be the customary and fair rate. Your interpretation that toll would include pay for binder twine, shocking and delivery to storage is not correct. We see no reason why the actual threshing or cutting could not be including as toll, due to the fact that the producer may not have a combine and other machinery.

With reference to the selling of feed produced on rented acres, please be advised that this is a breach of the contract, and submits it to cancellation.

Very truly yours,
A. L. Smith, Chairman
State Allotment Board

ATWELL SCHOOL NEWS

(Too late for publication Last Week)
School started October 14, 1935, with a boom and a bang.

The teachers for this term are Melvin Moore, principal, Waldene Smith and Antalee Notgrass.

All the pupils have not started yet on the account of works, but they will be in school soon.

The three rooms assembled together to elect officers for the literary society the officers were elected as follows:

Chairman, Miss Destine Pillans. President, Keelon Riffe. Secretary, Miss Roma Lee Black. Vice President, R. W. Purvis. Program committees are Miss Sibyle Sessions and Junell Foster, Madie Neal Pillans.

Since school has only been going on a week we haven't organized a basketball team yet. We are going to organize a team soon. We have got to see just who are the best players and put them on the main team. Everyone is working hard for their places on the team. There are good prospects of us having the best senior girl team in the county. Miss Smith is the girls coach and Mr. Moore is the boys. They are both real good coaches. Just watch us when we get started and we'll show you what Atwell can do.

On November 1, 1935, there will be a box supper and carnival at the Atwell school house. We are going to sell some mighty good candy. The girls around here are the best candy makers you ever saw. There will also be other booths for selling things. The money collected will go toward buying supplies for the school all you women and girls come and bring a box and all you men come and bring your pocket book and be sure it is not empty so you can buy a good looking girls box.

We have a hard time telling Mary and Vera Foster apart since they are sisters and they have two dresses alike and both are blond headed. It would be bad if some boy got them mixed up. Some boy from Putnam said the way he told them apart was by their teeth.

Oh! yes I know we wont freeze this year because Keelon Riffe is janitor.

The high school students are a little shy this year since we lost the last years graduates and Elsie and Christene Foster. But we'll have with us Roma Lee Black.

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

LOCAL SCREEN OFFERS 'WEREWOLF OF LONDON'

"Werewolf of London" is a story of a cultured English gentleman who, in carrying out his hobby of securing strange flowers from the far corners of the earth, finally meets with a fabled werewolf in the mountains of far-off Tibet. The werewolf bites him in the arm, and then he knows, according to the fable, that he is doomed to turn into a wolf each month during the full of the moon. The only thing that can prevent this terrible thing from happening is a plant called the "wolf flower."

Henry Hull, in the role of this scientist, finds the wolf flower, and brings several specimens back to England. But then comes the difficult task of keeping the flowers alive. They bloom only in the light of the moon, so he constructs a laboratory in which he creates artificial moonlight. And then thieves break in and steal his precious blossoms and he is left to the fate of becoming a wolf. Frantically he strives to avert the transformation. Frantically he watches the hair grow on his hands and face. He becomes a wolf and runs the darkened streets of London bringing death to the innocent and suffering to himself, for the next morning when he awakes he is a man again, but knows what he has done during the dark hours of the night.

This picture is booked for Wednesday and Thursday nights.

HOWELL THEATRE

The Howell Theatre in Coleman has taken its place in the social and educational world of this part of the state and has become an institution in the life of the people that has been beneficial to the young, old and middle aged.

This popular theatre is appointed most excellently, the ventilation, heating and cooling arrangements are the best that can be secured and all sanitary precautions are taken for the health of the people. Here amidst comfortable surroundings you are entertained while music that entrances helps drive dull care away.

If you have not formed the show habit you ought to. Go down some evening even though you have put in a hard day's work. You will be much refreshed and all the more ready for your next day's work. Take the whole family with you as the price is very reasonable.

We are glad to compliment the management upon the popularity of the Howell Theatre and upon the position it occupies in the life of the people. It has been aptly said that it is truly The House of Quality or Broadway at Hand.

C. W. CAMP MOTOR CO.

In our present day, high-speed mode of living, the automobile plays an important part, for as one successful man said: "The man of today cannot afford to walk." The constantly increasing number of cars in use everywhere is an impressive evidence of this fact. They are used for every conceivable purpose and serve the dual purpose of aiding business activities and as a means of transportation on pleasure trips. But that picture becomes marred when the car does not function properly.

Only good cars like De Soto and Plymouth sold by the C. W. Camp Motor Co. is worth while. Cars in this class are a real investment and the past performance of these cars is such as to recommend them to any sensible person who wants the most value for his money, both as to original investment and upkeep.

There are many unreliable dealers selling used cars that try to put it across on the purchaser, and it is very difficult to detect the weak spots in the mechanism of a "Used Car" from a firm who has a reputation at stake and who will not misrepresent just to make a sale. We highly recommend The C. W. Camp Motor Co., located at 403 Commercial Ave., in Coleman, phone 611, when in the market for a new or used automobile.

COLEMAN HOTEL

The manager of the Coleman Hotel has realized that to maintain a modern service and receive patrons from every walk of life must have the prices within the reach of all. To prove that they have attained this object let us say that whenever a local hotel is mentioned, it is the Coleman Hotel located at Commercial and College in Coleman, phone 31.

All the rooms at this hotel are comfortably furnished and tastefully decorated, have plenty of ventilation and or without bath, hot and cold. They give you the advantage of excellent service, which is to the highest character and provides for most any want desired.

At this hotel "Guest is King," meaning that when you register your name as a guest of this hotel they are at your service as long as you wish to stay—be it just overnight or for months.

They have in connection a modern dining room where you will find foods well cooked, wholesome and deliciously appetizing. The prices are very reasonable for all meals.

It is said of the Coleman Hotel that there is not a better home away from home than this one.

Sturges & Gibbs

To be merely rendering an average service in an average establishment is all well and good. But to be able to give a service that is just a little in advance of others in an establishment that has become a feature of the community; that is indeed something well worth while. And that is just exactly the case with Sturges & Gibbs located at 201 Commercial Ave., in Coleman—phone 682. They carry a fine line of piece goods, ladies and childrens ready-to-wear.

You know that you are going to get valued received and courteous treatment when you trade here because past experience has taught you that they are personally interested in you and your trade.

In trading at Sturges & Gibbs store you deal with people who are here every day and you are insured of high class merchandise at reasonable prices.

Camp Fire Girls Complete Nation-Wide Survey

SAN FRANCISCO—250,000 Camp Fire Girls of the country, between the ages of 14 and 20, have just completed a national survey on unemployment, relief and better citizenship. They found vocational training for girls of their age extremely lacking and one of the basic causes of general unemployment.

XV FINAL: THE CONSTITUTION TO DATE.

The recent Supreme Court decision that the National Recovery Act was unconstitutional set in motion a nation-wide discussion of the Constitution. It brought about the situation which made this series of "The Story of the Constitution," a most timely subject.

The Supreme Court's decision was, in effect, based upon the fundamental principle that the Federal Government is one of delegated powers.

Under the Constitution all power rests in the Congress, which receives its authority from the people and the States. The Executive power is to see to the enforcement of the Acts of Congress. The power of the Judiciary is that of determining whether or not the Congress has, in any given case, sought to exercise power which has not been delegated to it.

In the NRA case the Supreme Court held that Congress had received delegate any part of its law-making function to the President; that the States had granted the Congress no power to regulate commerce or industry except as they are in the stream of interstate commerce.

Within the limits of its delegated authority, Congress has usually been upheld in its efforts to legislate within the needs of an expanding national economy. The Supreme Court is expected to take a realistic view of current conditions and recognize the necessities of the times when this could be done without infringing upon the powers reserved to the States or the people, under the Tenth Amendment. By this process, the Constitution has operated for 148 years.

The flexibility of the Constitution to meet new conditions has been testified to by generations of statesmen. In the few instances, during recent years, when the considered will of the people could not be executed under the powers already granted to the Congress, amendment has proved to be a simple and speedy process, once public sentiment has become crystallized.

The 20th Amendment is an apt illustration. This Amendment changed the terms of office of the President and Vice-President and of all Senators, Representatives. Under the 12th Amendment all of these took office on the Fourth of March following their election. But Congress was required, under Article 1, Section 4, to meet annually on the first Monday in December. That resulted in what came to be known as "lame duck" Congresses, many of whose members, although defeated at the November election, held office until the following March 4th.

In March, 1932, Congress submitted to the States an amendment making the terms of Senators and Representatives begin on January 3rd, and those of the President and Vice-President on January 20th. The annual meeting date of the Congress was changed to January 3. In less than one year, 39 States had ratified this 20th Amendment, which was proclaimed as a part of the Constitution on February 6, 1933.

It took even a shorter time to establish the 21st Amendment, repealing the 18th or Prohibition Amendment. This was submitted to the States in February, 1933, by the present administration, and became a part of the Constitution on December 5, 1933.

Both of these amendments had an overwhelming weight of public opinion behind them. Such has proved the rule; that in like manner, when a proposal to change the Federal Government structure has behind it strong, nation-wide public opinion, then is our Constitution usually amended and changed.

HOWARD PAYNE COLLEGE

The Howard Payne College in Brownwood has been established for some time and has been very successful. Under Christian supervision and with such purposes in view it was bound to succeed and today occupies an important place in the educational life of this section of the state. It is located away from the din and noise of the busy city and offers every convenience for the accommodation of the students. With the climate conditions highly favorable and with its high standard this college will continue to expand.

In the Christian atmosphere of Howard Payne College ample opportunity is given to lead a well-balanced life combining work and play in proper amounts. The studies will give a mental background that will help the student through life; the recreational opportunities will fit them bodily to withstand the strain of modern civilization and the religious exercises will build up their spiritual character.

In this review we desire to compliment the Howard Payne College upon its history of achievement, the excellent aims to which it aspires, its superior leadership and its modern home which assures all students of pleasant surrounding and high aspirations while taking a course here.

BRADFORD SUPPLY CO.

In this mechanical age it is necessary to have a distribution house in every locality to handle the high class specialties of the day. The management of this house makes a study of all Oil Well Supplies and selects the very best lines to offer.

They know what has been tested out and found O. K. and will not sell anything unless it is all right. If you send away to some distant concern and will have a large range service if everything does not work right. They are right here to see that everything sold by them is in first class condition.

They have a large stock on hands at all times and their service enables you to secure oil well supplies in a much shorter time than if they were compelled to do business with the factory.

They will appreciate your business in these lines and will be glad to answer all inquiries.

Their prices are always reasonable in line with the conditions of today.

The Bradford Supply Co., located at 1410 Main St. in Brownwood, phone 341, are among the well known business people of this section who have been very prominently identified with the industrial progress of the community and we wish in this edition to compliment them upon the public spirited and progressive policies.

are to present a program in the Scranton High School Auditorium Friday evening, November 1. The admission will be ten and fifteen cents. Everyone enjoyed their program so much last year that it was requested that they come back.

The Junior class entertained the Scranton school with a program Monday morning. Mr. Starr led the devotional service which preceded the remainder of the program.

Odee Baird and Anita Wallace gave a dialogue; Leo Purvis gave a reading; Mildred Harris sang a solo; and then Mr. Starr made a speech about "studying", which was very effective. These numbers were enjoyed and appreciated very much.

Next Monday the sophomores will have charge of the program. As it is the date set aside by Governor Allred as Will Rogers' Day they are planning to observe this in their program.

My, my folks you should just see that little "fish" Mary Lee Black, making eyes at the Purvis "Soph." We can't figure out whether he notices her or not, but guess it is alright.

GARNER---ALVIS

In the mercantile history of this part of the state there is no one firm that has attained greater fame right in this vicinity for its many customers than the Garner-Alvis Store located at 200 Center St., in Brownwood—Phone 820. Its reputation and buyers have for years been known in many cities where they secure the choicest of merchandise for the people of this part of the country.

They established their business upon the principle of good quality and one price to all. The influence of this store in the mercantile history of this section has been a great boon to the public. The Garner-Alvis store is a reward of honest endeavor an dan example of the truth of Franklin's maxim: "Honesty is the best policy."

We are glad to compliment Garner-Alvis upon the large stock and excellent service and to call the attention of the public to the fact that the stock of this fine store represents all that is new of today.

Don't feel too badly about your clothes after you've been to the movies. Hollywood authorities say that the majority of stars dress rather badly when they're not on their sets—and the costumers see to it, then!

Gladys Swarthout, the Metropolitan Opera star, is making a movie with John Boles. Miss Swarthout has impeccable taste in dressmaker suits with just the right amount of fur for trimming, evening gowns that mold her excellent figure and flare in exactly the right places.

They're even putting headlights on vacuum sweepers to make it easy to see under beds and bureaus. Some are being shown in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

There's a new "taffeta velvet" on the market for fall and winter. With the luxurious richness of velvet, it has all the sprightliness of taffeta. It is sometimes woven in two colors such as yellow and black to give a changeable effect.

Smaller and lighter glass centers in the tops to percolators are being used to avoid the top-heaviness of an empty pot.

Many of the new aluminum tea-kettles are being fitted with bakelite handles.

A new idea in waffle irons is an ingenious device which gently but firmly lifts the waffle out of the lower half of the mold when the lid is lifted.

A famous hand lotion is now sold in a bottle that pours out just the right amount in your hand. Non-sticky, and quick drying, it makes an excellent base for your powder.

Because of inclement weather and impassable roads the fourth quarterly conference of the Pioneer Methodist charge scheduled to be held at Victoria last Sunday was postponed, and will be conducted at the Cross Plains Methodist church Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. The Review was told by Rev. B. L. McCord, pastor.

Only the business session of the conference will be held and all officers of the various churches in the charge are asked to be present and render complete reports at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Underwood visited in Coleman Sunday.

KATHERINE HEPBURN TO LIBERTY SUNDAY

There is but one way to review the powerful emotional drama, "Break of Hearts," starring Katharine Hepburn and Charles Boyer, which opens Sunday at the Liberty Theatre. It is to say that this beautiful love story is one of the most inspiring pictures which has been filmed in recent years and that the stars give a brilliant performance that surpasses forecasts.

It is a new Hepburn that comes to the screen in this production and one who is more alluring than ever.

Charles Boyer, idol of the French stage and screen, has a magnetic charm that promises to send him to the height of popularity as a result of his work in "Break of Hearts."

The picture tells the story of

Time .. TELLS THIS TALE

Through years of experience in the drug business we have learned that success in this line depends largely on three things:

1. Having the merchandise the people want.
2. Filling Doctors orders to the letter and without substitution.
3. Courteous and prompt service.

Our efforts are being directed untiringly in this direction. We welcome any suggestion as to how we may improve our service.

F. F. A. BOYS

In creating and nurturing love of rural life the local chapter will sponsor a father and son F.F.A. banquet, endeavor to have 75 percent of it's members beautify their farm homesteads, co-operate in putting over exhibits at the Texas Centennial.

To encourage co-operative effort among students, the local chapter will buy and sell supplies and products collectively, as well as send two delegates to the state convention.

In promoting thrift the program calls for sending two teams to the area F.F.A. judging contest, every agriculture student pay local, district, state and national dues, member start a saving account for the thrift program, stage plays for chapter funds.

In encouraging organized recreation the chapter will attempt to have 25 percent of it's membership at the summer encampment, arrange athletic contests within chapter and with neighboring chapters.

To supplement systematic instruction the plans call for entering at least two district literary contests, every officer win a certificate of merit in parliamentary procedure.

To advance the cause of vocational agriculture the chapter will hold it's annual F.F.A. fat stock show here in the Spring and have it's reporter write and publish four F.F.A. news articles each month.

THE BOOK

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures

by BRUCE BARTON

Alexander Smith and The Book

LITTLE as the mine mutineers expected that the tiny boat would ever reach England, they determined to take no chances. They shipped on the Bounty, taking with them six native men, ten women and a girl of fifteen, and sailed away to an island named Pitcairn after the British officer who fired the first shot at Lexington.

Then ensued what the Encyclopedia Britannica calls "a hell on earth." One of the sailors had worked in a distillery in Scotland and he discovered a way to distil alcohol from a native plant. Before a great while all the native men were dead, and all the white men but one. That one was Alexander Smith, left alone with a harem of native women and a crowd of half-breed children, his own and his companions'.

Picture him, if you will, the forlorn monarch of a helpless people, shut up with his own bitter memories. Then consider the thing which happened. In one of the chests of the sailors he found a book. He read it. He began to ask himself what was to become of this population that had such a bad start. He began to think with shame and remorse of all the past; he repented of his sins and resolved to live a God-fearing life, and to make good men and women of those children. He began to teach those children to read that book. So years passed. The children grew up and married, and more children were born. The community prospered.

Then one day, nearly twenty years later, in 1808, the United States ship Topaz called at this island and brought back the first word which the world had received of the mutineers who escaped the hangman in 1790. Alexander Smith was king and preacher and teacher in that little community. In honor of the President of the United States he had changed his name to John Adams, and he much hoped that only ships from America would visit him, for he had no hankering for the gallows in England. But no British expedition went out after him, and he lived and died in peace.

And now, what about the people on that island?

There was no jail.

There was no hospital.

There was no insane asylum.

There was no illiteracy, no crime, no disease.

The people had no doctors, took no medicine, used no liquor.

The island was one hundred per cent. Christian; nowhere on earth were life and property more safe.

What changed that place from a hell on earth to a little speck of heaven dropped down in the South Seas?

The reading of The Book.

The Poison Victim

I hope you may never be confronted with a poison emergency as I have many times been, the case of accidental (or suicidal) poisoning of a human being. It is one of the most serious moments of life when an unconscious and prostrate body is found demanding immediate effort.

Quick and accurate thinking is demanded and action with it. Have some one summon the doctor. Don't waste time looking for evidence. Be quick to try to preserve life and look for evidence afterward. If the patient's lips are burned with carbolic acid, pour in heavy solutions of alkalines—soda or epsom salts—or, diluted alcohol if it is at hand. Do it plentifully and be sure it is enough. Let the doctor be the judge as to an emetic when he arrives.

If the patient is in convulsions with violent contractions of the limbs and neck-muscles it indicates strychnine poisoning. Pour in warm mustard-water—anything that will produce vomit. If you have an opiate, give it and don't be afraid of over-dose. Quiet those spasms if you can. Whiffs of chloroform if it can be had—anything to combat this quick-acting poison, until the doctor arrives.

With the patient that cannot be aroused it might be opium or morphine. Look at the pupil of the eyes. If they are contracted to pin-points and the sleep is profound and heavy, then give black coffee. Give all you can force down.

If you can get an emetic dose into the patient, do it. Stimulate. Do everything to keep up breathing, artificial respiration if you can perform. Keep the patient awake—or try strenuous methods to do so. We used to even "larrup" the morphine victim to keep him from sleeping off the mortal coil.

Children may get hold of aconite—it produces excessive sweat, feeble, rapid pulse and great weakness. Give stimulants.

ELKINS & COMPANY ENLARGES SERVICE THROUGH THIS AREA

Elkins and Company of Rising Star, wholesalers who have been serving this territory for more than a year, announce an enlargement of their service. The firm is an independent jobber.

Charles E. Walker, general manager of the company, stressed the independent status of the firm and said that it has been a retailer in Rising Star for 10 years.

"We entered the wholesale business last February to protect ourselves and other small firms from the unfair practice of a manufacturer selling to the chain setup at lower prices than the independent merchant could secure hiding behind quantity purchases.

"The policy of Elkins is to sell the small merchants a broken quantity of anything at the same rate at which the chain store buys hundreds of cases. They guarantee to help the small merchant to meet the chain prices at a living profit. They serve, not sell.

"This business has grown from a monthly value of $2,000 a year ago to a monthly value now of $20,000, which is proof of the correctness of our policy of "not too small to serve and not too large to appreciate, your business."

This week's activities, he said, centered about introducing a new type of flour, Dorby's Bran Mineralized, a white whole wheat flour. "This is the first time in the history of flour that so vital an improvement has been made in flour. Free samples are offered at various stores now. This progress has been made by continuous advertising."

Centennial Farm Prizes

The Dallas News is offering prizes to the farmers who live on the designated Highways of the state, for the most beautiful homes and grounds. Those entering must live within 3 miles of the designated roads. The Bankhead Highway is the one designated for Callahan County and home agnets are anxious that all living on this route should sign up for the demonstration. It must be done by October 31st as that is the closing date for enrollment. Enroll and start planning now.

Sunday School Lesson

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn
Judah Taken Captive.
Lesson for November 3rd. 2 Kings, 25: 1-12.

Golden Text: Proverbs 14:34. Jerusalem fell under the shattering blows of her Babylonian conquerors in July, 586 B. C., after a siege lasting only eighteen months. The defenders were weak, and the invaders conducted their operations with great energy. Finally the battering rams broke down a portion of the wall, and the enemy soldiers poured through the breach. King Zedekiah and his warriors escaped in the darkness of night, but they were quickly captured and brought before Nebuchadnezzar who, as a terrible warning, slew the king's sons in his presence, put out his eyes, and then dismissed the desolate monarch to a tragic imprisonment and death in Babylon.

But Zedekiah did not suffer alone. No mercy either was shown to the other leaders. The chief priest, his deputies, and the ranking religious, civic, and military officers were haled, too, before Nebuchadnezzar, and put to death. How many were carried into captivity we do not precisely know. But it is clear that the greater portion of Jerusalem's population was marched off into exile. Only the poorer classes were spared, and their fate was quite as desolate, for the Chaldean troops destroyed the city with thoroughness. The temple was stripped of all its precious valuables, and then burned to the ground. The royal palace, and the homes of the nobles and the wealthy were also burned, and the city walls were razed.

But Nebuchadnezzar was wise enough not to allow the city to lapse into complete barbarism and decay. So he appointed an excellent governor, Gedaliah, who ruled for three or four years with devotion to the finest Hebrew ideals until he was treacherously slain. All through this fateful period Jeremiah, a heart-broken figure, continued his sorrowful prophecies, until at last, according to tradition, he died a martyr in Egypt at the hands of his countrymen.
