3,350 Germans Surrender In Pockets At Stalingrad

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 27—Russian troops have captured 3,350 more German survivors of the 220,000-man Nazi Army trapped at Stalingrad, leaving fewer than 8,650 doomed troops of the Volga, while in the continuing offensive to the west another Red Army salient has been driven to a point 60 miles from Rostov, and 80 miles from Kursk, two big Nazi bases, Moscow said tonight in a regular communique recorded here by a Soviet radio monitor.

Two thousand Nazi troops "laid down their arms, including one whole regiment," at Stalingrad, and another 1,350 also surrendered, the midnight bulletin said. This was near the central part of Stalingrad.

Others Being Destroyed

The other remaining enemy pocket north of Stalingrad was being annihilated, it added.

The Russians had announced yesterday that only 12,000 trapped Germans remained to be exterminated after a general Red Army attack began Jan. 10 when the remnants of the 22 Nazi divisions refused to surrender. Since then more than 40,000 have been killed and 31,350 captured.

Sweeping westward from recaptured Voronezh on the upper Don river the communique said the Russians had occupied Gorshechnoye, 80 miles east and slightly south of Kursk, big German base on the Moscow-Kharkov railway. This town is about 50 miles southwest of Voronezh.

As evidence of the continuing rout on the Voronezh front the communique said that 5,000 Axis troops, including a colonel, two majors and a captain, surrendered "aftered a short battle" in the Varvorovka-Shelyakino sector which is 45 miles east of Soviet vanguards who already have taken Volokonovka on the Moscow-Yelets-Kupyansk railway.

64,000 Already Captured

The Russians already had reported the capture of more than 64,000 Axis troops on this front, most of them Hungarians, Italians and Rumanians, who were showing less disposition to continue the struggle against the crushing Soviet steamroller than the Germans.

In another sector during the day 400 Germans were wiped out, the communique said.

The closest that the Russians have driven to Kharkov is in the Valuiki-Urazovo sector approximately 80 miles from the Ukraine capital. This region is 40 miles southwest of the Varvorovka-Shelyankino road where the 5,000 Axis troops laid down their arms.

Farther south the Russians also

Russian troops on the central sector northwest of Voronezh began attacking German lines Tuesday with "considerable forces," the Berlin radio said Wednesday night in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

If this report is true, the Red Army now has opened its eighth major offensive against the Axis on a front extending virtually clear across Russia. German broadcasts frequently have announced the Red Army's blows ahead of Moscow announcements.

Chiefs In Black Dragon Indicted

Jap Society Faces Charge Of Sedition

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan 27. — A Charge that Japan's notorious Black Dragon society launched a nation-wide movement to alienate the loyalty of American negroes was made today in a sedition indictment returned by a federal grand jury at East St. Louis, Ill.

Attorney General Biddle said the two-count indictment named the Pacific Movement of the Eastern World, Inc.; General (a name, not a title) Lee Butler, president of the corporation; David D. Erwin, its national adviser, and a Japanese described only as "John Doe."

Charge Conspiracy

The charges were conspiracy to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty in the armed forces, and conspiracy to hinder compliance with the selective service law.

In commenting on the indictment, Biddle said that "attempts by Japanese agents to infiltrate negro groups have been indignantly repudiated by responsible leaders of our negro citizens throughout the country."

The Justice department said that Mimo De Guzman, 42, a Filipino now under sentence for forging money orders, was the actual founder of the Pacific movement, which at one time claimed 100,000 members. The department said that De Guzman acted under the direction of Satohashi Takahashi, a retired Japanese Army officer, and that negroes were promised arms and ammunition against the day "when Japan attacks the west coast."

A major theme of the Pacific movement, the government said, was to stir up racial prejudices and resistance to the war program by telling the negroes that a Japanese victory would secure their "liberation."

Status Of "Minister"

The count involving the draft law said that negroes were offered the status of "minister" in the "triumph church of the new age," which was described as "a Pseudo-religious adjunct" of the movement. Members of the movement were urged to apply for certificates as ministers of the church—including payment of a fee—under the representation, the department said, that such a certificate would exempt them from military service.

The indictment covers only acts alleged to have been committed since Pearl Harbor, and concerns principally meetings held in East St. Louis under the leadership of Butler or Erwin, the Justice department said.

The department said that branches had been established in East St. Louis, Mounds and Chicago, Ill.; Cleveland, Shaw and Greenville, Miss.; Tulsa, Muskogee and Boynton, Okla.; Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Phoenix, Ariz.; Gray and Indiana Harbor, Ind.; Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Man Admits Hammer Slaying Of Wife

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27. (AP)—A 27-year-old baker's helper led sheriff's deputies to a wooded ravine in suburban St. Louis today where they found the wire-trussed and partly burned body of his wife, Mrs. Elwyn Lawrence, 28, missing since Jan. 17.

Sheriff Arnold J. Willmann said Harold L. Lawrence had confessed he struck the mother of his three small children with a hammer in an argument during which she refused him a divorce.

An 18-year-old widow, Mrs. Lillian Talley, whom Lawrence took into his home as a housekeeper, was in custody as a material witness. The sheriff said she had admitted intimate relations with Lawrence.

American Fliers Blast Nazi Targets In First Full Raid; Yank Pilots Call It Picnic

By ALFRED E. WALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Swarms of Fortress and Liberator bombers struck the first all-American blows at Germany proper today with heavy raids on the naval base of Wilhelmshaven and the related Emden industries, while their Allies of the RAF for the first time in the war bombed Copenhagen, Denmark.

The targets of the afternoon raid by fleet Mosquito bombers of the RAF were the shipyards in the Danish capital which are working for Germany, and this attack followed night raids by the bomber and coastal commands on the submarine pens at Lorient on the French coast and Bordeaux, farther to the south.

Followed Conference

The coordinated night and day raids, concentrating on U-boat nests and factories, were the first lightning blows of the war after the announcements that a 1943 pattern for world conflict had been fashioned at Casablanca by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

(The German radio said British bombers made a "terror raid" on Copenhagen and caused casualties among the civilian population." Anti-aircraft fire brought down one plane, it added.)

Stockholm dispatches said four persons were killed in the bombing of Copenhagen, which had been a matter of speculation in the House of Commons only yesterday when it was pointed out that U-boat diesel engines were made in the environs of the Danish capital.

Although Danish targets such as Aarhus and Aalborg had been bombed previously, Copenhagen was spared up to today.

Installations Blasted

The Mosquitoes, flying low and fast, bombed the Copenhagen naval installations and saw many bursts among the targets. One Mosquito was lost.

The Fortress and Liberators raids on Germany were on the grand scale expected to become routine practice.

The heavily armed 4-engine planes went on their missions without escort and found surprisingly little opposition.

Bombers Blast New Jap Field

Nips Set Up Base Near Guadalcanal

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—A new Japanese airfield, established within easy raiding distance of Guadalcanal in the Solomons, has been hit hard by American bombers, the Navy disclosed today.

Flying Fortresses roared Tuesday over the field on Ballale island, three miles off the northeast coast of Shortland island.

They encountered only weak anti-aircraft fire, dumped their loads of bombs and returned safely to their base. The big bombs blew holes in the terrain and started many fires in revetments, or artificial embankments, constructed to afford shelter from strafing attacks and sharpnel.

Ballane island has been bombed several times before, but always the Navy referred only to attacks on enemy installations with no mention that an airfield was under construction. The island is about 300 miles northwest of our Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal, the Navy said.

The Navy has turned attention also to Wake island, unmentioned in reports of Pacific battling since last Dec. 23 when American planes unloaded thousands of pounds of bombs, starting huge fires.

Only reconnaissance planes participated in the latest action over Wake. They were attacked by eight Japanese Zero fighters. In the ensuing dogfight two of the Zeros were believed shot down. All United States planes returned safely.

Instructor Killed In Crash At Sweetwater

SWEETWATER, Jan. 27. (AP)—Allen W. Hanks, of Sweetwater, a civilian instructor at Avenger Army Flying school here, was killed when a plane crashed north of Sweetwater today.

An instructor, Felix Haas McCain, Opelousas, La., and a cadet, Harvey F. Cornwell, Detroit, Mich., both 21, were killed in a crash 12 miles north of the field last Thursday.

German Radio Makes Extravagant Claims

(By The Associated Press)

The Berlin radio broadcast today a report, credited to the Trans-Ocean agency, that German U-Boats had sunk 16 Allied merchant vessels totaling 103,000 tons.

This was without confirmation from any other source. Berlin frequently broadcasts reports of U-boat successes on days when the news from other quarters is particularly bad.

Final Offensive Believed Near

Several Tunisian Positions Taken

By LEO BRANHAM
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 27—Amid gathering signs that a final offensive to drive the Axis out of North Africa may be near the Allied North African command disclosed today the recapture of several central Tunisian positions with which the enemy had sought to form a line to protect the flank of Marshal Rommel's retreat into Tunisia from Libya.

Rommel, whose forces were strung out widely with some behind the Mareth line about 60 miles into Tunisia, was backtracking fast in the effort to join with General von Arnim's Axis Army in Tunisia, but an assertion of Axis radios that his advanced elements already had made the rendezvious were not confirmed in any Allied quarter.

First Reported Contact

The British command in Cairo announced that contact had been made with Rommel's rearguards as early as yesterday somewhere west of Zauia, which itself is 30 miles beyond fallen Tripoli—the first contact reported in three days.

In Tunisia, the Allied communique announced that a number of positions in the Ousseltia valley and in the mountains to the east had been regained—by the attacks of American troops who went to the support of the French, it was disclosed authoritatively — and were being consolidated.

A French headquarters communique tonight disclosed two of the specific areas in which the Americans were successful. North of Ousseltia, where it was said action had become localized, American units cleared the ground to a depth of from six to nine miles, while in the mountains region east of Ousseltia the Yanks aided French troops in making "definite advances" and in taking about 50 Axis prisoners.

Patrol Contacts

U. S. and British forces were in contact with two German outposts, obviously fighting a delaying action, in the high mountain range of the Grande Dorsale running southwest from Pont Du Fahs.

American and British infantry met just north of the Ousseltia valley as they moved through the scrub covered mountains to mop up the last elements remaining

Two Navy Men Killed In Crash In Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Death of two Navy men in a plane crash Monday afternoon was revealed today by Commander Donald E. Wilcox, commanding officer of the naval air station here.

The men killed were Ensign Raymond H. Gobin, Tyrone, Okla., pilot of the scout plane; and John T. Butler, seaman second class, of Grennville, S. C.

The plane, on a routine gunnery flight, was seen to whip into a tight spin before it crashed into the sea, about half a mile offshore. Both bodies were recovered.

Allied Losses On New Guinea Low

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Thursday, Jan. 28.—General Douglas Mac Arthur announced today that Allied casualties in the victorious Papuan land campaign in New Guinea, including numerous cases from natural illness, were less than half the losses of the defeated Japanese. Previous announcements had said a Japanese Papuan army of 15,000 had been annihilated.

The general pointed out in his noon communique that "these figures reverse the usual results of a ground offensive . . . when losses of the attacker usually are several times that of a defender."

No Hurried Campaign

With "utmost care taken for the conservation of our forces," Allied casualties were usually low, the communique said, because there was no necessity for a hurried campaign and, therefore, no attempt was made to rush enemy positions by mass and unprepared assault.

General MacArthur added that "probably no campaign in history against a thoroughly prepared and trained army produced such complete and decisive results with a lower expenditure of life and resource."

Allied sea losses were neglible because no major sea forces were used. Our casualties at sea were suffered in small boats.

Some Probably Escaped

Of the Japanese Papuan army of 15,000 some escaped, possibly by evacuation. It was stated at headquarters that there never will be an accurate count of the Japanese dead. Many were blown to bits in pillboxes or were left where they were when the earthen tops of dugouts were blown in on them.

A considerable number of Americans fighting in the jungle for the first time were knocked out by malaria and dengue fever.

Momentous Events Hinted By Officials

President's Office Says Story Is Yet Incomplete

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—A broad hint came from the White House today that the story of the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting at Casablanca is yet incomplete; that momentous events in the making will give the full picture.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said the account is complete "so far as it can be told at the present time." But, he advised reporters, "subsequent chapters undoubtedly will be written as events unfold."

May Be Due Soon

An indication that some of these might be forthcoming quickly was seen in a statement by Secretary of State Hull that he expected to comment soon on some of the "more vital phases of the decisions reached there."

The State department head also made the disclosure of the conferences an occasion for reproving those who have been critical of the State department in regard to the North African situation.

In the absence of any hint as to what events might be expected, speculation was rife. In the first place, there was a widespread belief that far more than has been announced must have been involved or the President and Prime Minister would not have risked the hazards of their meeting.

Possible Peace Feelers

The fact that they spoke of determination to secure the "unconditional surrender" of Germany, Italy and Japan prompted conjecture as to whether Italy or Germany, or both, might have put out "peace feelers" as a result of the disasters of Libya and Russia. If so, the statement may have been intended to scotch immediately any Axis offensive for a "negotiated peace."

On the military side, it was generally assumed that there had been no alteration in the grand strategic plan, indicated when the United States entered the war, of defeating Hitler first and then turning the full weight of British and American strength against Japan.

French Leaders Are Optimistic

Further Talks Set; Censors To Relax

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, Jan. 27. (AP) — The announcement that Generals Giraud and DeGaulle have decided to establish "diplomatic relations" and will hold further negotiations, together with the relaxing of censorship on political discussion, were the most favorable developments in North Africa today in the wake of the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

A communique from the headquarters of Gen. Giraud, North African high commissioner, hailed the conference as having gained "substantial results" for France, and said personal contact with Gen. DeGaulle of the Fighting French had "permitted the first examination of the conditions under which the French effort in the war of liberation might be organized."

To Continue Exchanges

"Exchanges of views will be continued on this subject," the announcement added. "It has been decided henceforth to establish permanent liaison."

(London dispatches said ambassadors will be exchanged, and that Gen. Georges Catroux will be DeGaulle's representative in Northt Africa.)

The Allied conference on North African soil caught almost all residents by surprise and created more interest than a bombshell, literally.

When a small force of Axis bombers came over at dawn and dropped a sprinkling of explosives, evidently for psychological effect, there were more persons on street corners discussing the political developments than there were around the craters left by the departing raiders.

Biggest In History

The newspapers were filled with the theme, and one, the afternoon Dernieres, jubilantly declared that the "Casablanca meeting is the most important event in French history since June, 1940." The newspapers had their largest sale in months.

Until today any mention of DeGaulle had been forbidden in the Algiers press.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 27 (AP) — The Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded today by the Canadian Broadcasting corporation listening post here, said it was decided at the Casablanca conference that Gen. The broadcast said also that Gen. Giraud presided over one of the conferences held by the military experts at Casablanca.

Pension Plans Gain In House

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 27—In a favorable position for prompt consideration by the House was a bill releasing $1,154,000 additional old age assistance funds to avert a $3 horizontal cut in March pension payments.

The bill by Rep. Ben Sharpe of Paris, today was approved unanimously by the House appropriations committee, one of a dozen committees which began studies of bills and resolutions which soon will reach the House calendar.

Senate committees were in full swing too, the civil jurisprudence group reporting favorably on a bill by Senator R. A. Weinert of Seguin transferring delinquent child cases from criminal to civil or guardianship procedure.

The Senate committee on senatorial districts ordered a hearing Feb. 8 on a bill by Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg reapportioning Texas for state Senate representation on the basis of the 1940 census.

Appearing before the House appropriations group, Director J. S. Murchinson of the public welfare department said the $1,154,000 was an accumulation of monthly old age assistance fund balances from the last fiscal year. Under present law it cannot be carried over to the current year.

If the legislature finally passes Sharpe's bill present old age assistance payments can be increased $3 each beginning in March.

Payments are now each $1 less than the amount certified for each recipient because $1,750,000 is not enough, when matched with federal funds to pay full grants to all eligible applicants.

Murchison said about 25,500 persons on the rolls are eligible for $30 monthly payments but receive only $29.

Body Found In Lake Not From Seaplane

LAKEPORT, Calif., Jan. 27. (AP)—A Leather-jacketed body was recovered from Clear Lake late today, but Coroner Alden Jones and Navy officials said the man definitely was not from the big naval transport seaplane which disappeared last Thursday with 19 aboard on a flight from Hawaii.

Jones estimated the body, unidentified, had been in the water "possibly three weeks."

Search for the plane centered in this sector, about 150 miles north of San Francisco, after residents reported seeing a large unidentified aircraft the day the Navy announced a transport was missing.

Peace Offensive Believed Halted

Over-All Command Said Agreed Upon

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 27 — The 1943 world strategy conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca has forestalled a new German peace offensive, observers said today, and informed quarters said the immediate result is likely to be the announcement of an over-all command for the impending battle of Tunisia.

An unofficial American source reported that full agreement was reached at Casablanca on a commander to take charge of British forces driving from the east and British, American and French armies in Tunisia.

Air Force Command

An RAF commentator added that early announcement also was expected on plans to coordinate the efforts of Allied air forces in Libya, Malta and Tunisia, all of which are hammering at the same targets.

Political observers said indications that Adolf Hitler would offer a compromise peace as part of his 1943 plans had been multiplying for a month. Unconfirmed but persistent reports said his proposals were to be made through non-belligerent Spain and would contain an offer to withdraw from western Europe while retaining territories occupied in Poland, Russia and the Balkans.

Thus the Casablanca declaration that the United Nations would be satisfied with nothing short of the unconditional surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan was viewed as having smashed this peace offensive before it could even get started.

French Differences

The biggest cloud over the conference was the failure to reconcile the two main elements of French resistance in a more striking fashion.

It was understood on good authority that Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, will continue to direct the armed forces under his command. Circles close to him said he was disappointed with the lack of results of his meeting with Gen. Henri Giraud, leader of the North and West African French.

Axis reaction appeared today with loud and vehement assertions at first that it was a mere "Hollywood big-wig pow wow" but switched later to more serious discussions.

The Berlin radio quoted Dr. Paul Schmidt, foreign office po-

Warning Issued On Check Artist

Warning to merchants of Lubbock and environs:

Within recent days, bad checks, supposedly drawn on the Army Emergency Relief fund of Lubbock Army Flying school have been spurious and several local business houses have been "gypped" to the tune of $80, or less, per check, Maj. Byron W. Goulding, public relations officer at LAFS announced late yesterday.

"All LAFS Army Emergency Relief checks are signed by Lt. William A. Murphy, special services officer, and countersigned by Col. Thomas L. Gilbert, or some other ranking officer at the post," Major Goulding said. "The spurious checks have been signed by a non-existent—as far as our post is concerned—'Lt. Richard Lewis.' Any merchant approached by someone with a LAFS Army Emergency Relief check can assure himself before cashing it by contacting Lieutenant Murphy."

South Plains Army Flying school has not yet been victimized, the public relations office there stated. There is no "Lt. Richard Lewis" at SPAFS where Army Emergency Relief fund checks are signed by Special Services Officer Richard Elliott and countersigned by Col. Norman B. Olsen, or another ranking officer.

Senate Group Votes Approval Of Flynn

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations committee put a 13 to 10 stamp of approval today on President Roosebelt's nomination of Edward J. Flynn to be minister to Australia, and sent it along to a doubtful fate in the Senate.

Three Democrats — Senators George of Georgia, Van Nuys of Indiana and Gillette of Iowa—broke across party lines to oppose the 23-member committee's endorsement of the former Democratic national chairman.

The test found 12 Democrats and Senator Lafollette (Pro-Wis) voting for Flynn, seven Republicans and three Democrats against him. Senators Glass (D-Va), who supported the nomination, and Johnson (R-Calif), who opposed it, were absent and voted by proxy.

NEW NAZI APPEAL

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP) — The German radio broadcast a statement today by Propaganda Minister Goebbels in "Das Reich" saying that "it is demanded by national morale that today every German from 16 to 65 and every woman from 17 to 45 shall be compelled by law to contribute by work and exertion to the war."

Tojo Tells Diet Japan Will "Crush U. S. And Britain" To Live In Peace, Security

(By The Associated Press)

PREMIER HIDEKI TOJO told a reconvened session of the Japanese Diet Thursday that Japan is waging war "to enable all countries each in its proper place and all peoples to live their lives in peace and security," and said that Japan in pursuance of this ideal was marching "to crush the United States and Britain," the Japanese radio reported.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said Tojo declared Japan was in the midst of a war of "unprecedented scale" against both the United States and Britain, which he said "vaunt their wealth and strength to the world," in order "to destroy their sinister amitions to dominate the world."

The empire, he said, has had this goal of "peace and security" for 3,000 years, and "it is also to realize this great ideal that the nation with a hundred million united people in humble obedience to the imperial command is declaring war and marching to crush the United States and Britain."

Reviewing the first year of war in greater East Asia, Premier Tojo said Japan "has completed the basis for certain victory."

"Our position for both offense and defense has been completed," Tojo declared.

The session had been delayed by Tojo's illness, and the broadcast said he still had some fever but did not wish further to delay the diet.

SOUTH Plains girls who are anxious to take part in the war effort but who do not have the qualifications to enlist in some of the various branches, such as Waac, Waves, Spars, etc., might look into the matter of pre-employment aircraft training, which is recommended as the best means for them to prepare themselves for work in aircraft factories.

There are a number of NYA training centers for the work over Texas under WMC supervision, the nearest to Lubbock being at Ranger.

To apply the girl must be between 17 and 25 years of age, possess a 9th grade education or its equivalent, be able to pass a physical examination and meet general industrial standards as to size, weight and height. Those who are interested may call at the NYA field representative's office, 1207 Thirteenth street, where Miss Louise Lomax will be available for interviews on Mondays. On other days she is in other South Plains towns.

The girls will be ready for employment after approximately six weeks to three months training and with all the jobs that are opening up as men are continued to be called to the service there is little doubt that they won't be at jobs shortly after "graduation."

MIND YOUR MANNERS

TEST your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. When you meet a stranger from a large city is it a good idea to start asking him right away if he knows so-and-so?

2. Is "What do you think of our town?" a good question to ask as soon as you say "How do you do?" to an out-of-towner?

What would you do if—

You must make a train trip—

(a) Carry as little luggage as possible, since trains are crowded and the less space you require the better?

(b) Carry as many bags as you would in ordinary times?

Courtesy Dance To Be Held At LAFS

As a farewell party for men who are soon to be transferred to other fields an open post dance for all military personnel of Lubbock Army Flying school will be given tonight at LAFS.

The dance will be in one of the large hangars and personnel of the post may have their wives or girl friends as their guests. There will also be several hundred Hubettes as guests of the field for the dance. The post orchestra will provide the music, from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

Some of the men now on the post have been here since the field was activated, while others have been here but two or three months, but all are experienced in their work and some are to be transferred to posts now being activated. Col. Thomas L. Gilbert, commanding officer, has announced the dance so that all of the men may have one big get-together with their friends on the post and civilian friends prior to their departure.

The dance is being arranged by the special services office.

John W. Wilson, Lubbock county-city juvenile officer, told Rotarians at their Wednesday Luncheon the increase in juvenile delinquency in the last 12 months has become alarming to parents and adults. Wilson said during 1941 his records show a total of 284 boys and girls were involved in cases where the law or the moral code were infringed upon, and during that year 15 boys and girls were sent totraining school. Last year, he said, the number of such cases jumped to 617 and 25 boys and girls were sentenced. Various remedies were offered and suggestions advanced. Wilson said war time working conditions, unstable employment, and other causes have combined to bring about the conditions.

Our first year of War

Completing our first year at war America takes stock of its position, sets its sails, grits its teeth and is off like a thunderbird on the journey to Victory. No good American doubts the ultimate outcome for the nation; we are now confronted, however, with the gravity of our task, with the need to do the job well and do it quickly. The better we do it the longer will the peace last. The quicker we do it the less will be the price we pay in life, suffering and pain.

Bonds are the agents of Victory. Buy them for just that . . . The more you buy, the quicker you buy, the sooner we can all return to our normal American Way of Life.

Axis Believed Due For Severe Jolts

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Pres War Analyst

The suspicion of some correspondents that highly important things were left unsaid in the official communique on the "unconditional surrender" conference at Casablanca undoubtedly is well-founded.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill met for 10 days with the highest military chiefs of the two allies. That length of time would not be devoted to the discussion of generalities. The communique, in fact, reveals that the two heads of state and their combined staffs worked out specific plans for offensive campaigns in 1943 and have scattered to their posts to put them into action.

Site Thought Significant

The communique implicitly stated that the Allies are going to strike hard at the Axis in 1943, and at more than one spot. Where the blows will fall the enemy can only guess.

It is safe to assume that Africa and the Mediterranean theater of war figured prominently in the decisions reached. The fact that the conference was held in Africa near the scene of combat puts emphasis on that.

It is obvious, that the great expeditionary force sent to Africa was not intended for a local operation. This force is being constantly increased.

Axis Uncertain

The Axis is aware that when its forces are obliterated in Africa, as they inevitably must, the next step will be invasion of southern Europe. What the Axis does not know is whether it will be through France, Italy, the Balkans or a combination.

Nor does that preclude an invasion of western Europe, perhaps simultaneously. Hitler must have been greatly perturbed by the communique's assertion that the conferees had decided to take the weight off Russia by engaging the enemy as heavily as possible "at the best selected points."

The phraseology points specifically to Europe, since that is the only place to engage Hitler on behalf of Russia. It seems to indicate that the Allies expect to have the African situation cleaned up before many months pass.

Enemy Entrenched

That does not mean the conquest of Tunisia is going to be a quick or easy task. The enemy is solidly entrenched in the northeastern corner of the country and Rommel's still not inconsiderable army is trying hard to effect a junction.

Whether Marshal Erwin Rommel will succeed is not entirely certain. If he is cut off in lower Tunisia, his fate is sealed and the Allied task in the northeast will be made easier.

The Allies apparently are trying to drive the necessary wedge to the sea to pinch off Rommel. At any rate, the Axis appears to be concerned over the possibility. Both Radio Rome and radio Paris report a massing of American forces in southern Tunisia for a drive to Gabes on the coast. They could have learned this by aerial reconnaisance.

New Lending Agency For Farmers Seen

Plans for a huge new loan agency to adequately finance agricultural production are reported being made in Washington.

Details are lacking in Lubbock today, according to Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer here for the AAA, but he said that the regular monthly meeting of the county USDA war board next Saturday the local unit will be asked to appoint a loan representative.

The man to be named will serve as a go-between, or liasion officer, between the government and the producer of food and fiber, and it is expected the plan will be unfolded rapidly and with such far-reaching effects as will solve the problems of individual and group farmers who may not under present facilities be able to reach the maximum of their output, or who might be prompted to exert greater initiative in growing food crops, livestock, poultry, and other wartime needs along the farm front.

Details of the new financial organization are awaited by members of the AAA and USDA war boards with considerable interest, it was explained today.

North Ireland is now referred to as "America's first naval base in Europe."

Foreign Policy Critics Scored

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — Secretary of State Cordell Hull today denounced critics of the administration's foreign policy who, he said, poured out vicious and venemous comments while President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were working on Allied war problems.

Hull's remarks were made at a press conference in response to requests for comment on the fact that criticism of the State department's handling of north African affairs coincided with the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting in Casablanca.

Should Wait For Facts

Hull said that the people who believed the government to be in error should wait until they were in possession of the facts before making their attacks. He said he personally was content with the policies of the government.

Hull pointed out that the Roosevelt-Churchill meetings began on Jan. 14 and continued for some ten days.

The abuse that was poured out on the State department become most violent during the latter stages of that period, he said.

Hull said that the President was included is the attacks by implication, even if not actually mentioned by name.

Complaints Cited

We were told, Hull continued, by some persons up on Mount Olympus that we didn't have people of sufficient stature in north Africa.

Actually, Hull said, there were two people of some stature there —Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill— and they were laboring day in and day out.

He said he believed that some of the critics did not want accurate information on the situation.

He told reporters that he did not mean to speak in a carping spirit, but that obviously some persons had not sought facts.

SHRIMP REGULATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — The Office of Price administration today placed canned shrimp from the Gulf of Mexico and the southeastern Atlantic coast under a specific dollars and cents regulation. The regulation will cause little, if any, price increase for consumers, OPA said. The price ceiling is imposed on canners.

Case Against AFL Unionist Dismissed

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27 — Asst. Circuit Attorney William E. Gallagher said today that efforts to locate Roy McDougal Breckenridge, 24, Dallas, Tex., state's witness in an assault case, have been unsuccessful.

Gallagher made the statement in connection with the dismissal of charges of assault with intent to kill against Timothy R. Cronin, business agest of the AFL Teamsters' union. Cronin was freed yesterday when Breckenridge, a truck driver, failed to appear in court.

Cronin was accused of shooting Breckenridge last October after demanding to know if he was a member of the union. Gallagher said the sheriff's office at Dallas and the Dallas office of the Best Motor lines were unable to furnish any information regarding the whereabouts of Breckenridge.

Texas Officer Killed In Crash Of Bomber

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 27 — Public relations officers at Wright field, Dayton, today revealed the names of two officers killed in the crash of a four-engined army bomber on a New York Central railroad track 10 miles west of here yesterday.

The victims were Capt. Harris F. Collier, 22, McKenzie, Tenn., and 2d, Lt. John W. Westmoreland, 23, Eagle Lake, Tex.

The plane was on an accelerated service test flight from Patterson field near Dayton.

Wilbur Decorated Personally By FDR

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 24. (Delayed). — President Roosevelt took time out from his ten-day conference to decorate Brig. Gen. William H Wilbur personally with the Congressional Medal of Honor — the highest American decoration—for his part in the landings on French Morocco.

Wilbur was decorated in the presence of Prime Minister Churchill, Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Gen. George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King.

The citation by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower read in part: "For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action above and beyond the call of duty . . . he prepared the plan for contacting the French commander in Casablanca and securing an armistice to prevent unnecessary bloodshed."

A colonel when he landed at Fedela, Wilbur since has been promoted to brigadier general.

Your response to this company's appeal to conserve telephone service—your sacrifices of peacetime telephone convenience—have helped keep war calls flowing over the wires in ever-increasing volume. Thank you!

Under the handicap of stringent material shortages, the telephone problem during 1942 was somehow to add more telephones than in any two years before the war . . . while handling 67 million long distance calls—15% more than in 1941—40% more than in 1939.

During the present year, 1943, even more war calls must be handled. They must and shall get through. But your help will be needed...every day and every evening...in making...

Capital Expresses Views On Parley

By PEGGY POOR
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Congressmen were thrilled by President Roosevelt's willingness "to risk his own life" in promoting the war effort, but some criticized the fact that Premier Josef Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek were not at the Casablanca conference.

Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., of the Senate finance committee hoped that high representatives of China and the Soviet Union were there even though their leaders were not. Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., and Rep. Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., thought it would have been better had both Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek been present.

Cites Courage

Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., of the Senate foreign relations committee emphasized the fact that Churchill and the president had met under hazardous conditions. He was attending a dinner in honor of the visiting Dr. Alberto Guani, foreign minister and vice-president-elect of Uruguay, when the news was released. The dinner was interrupted to hear the radio announcements and then Connally spoke about the sensational news.

"While American soldiers are risking their lives on distant fronts," Connally said, "they can now be inspired by the high courage of their commander-in-chief and the knowledge that their leader is willing to risk his own life.

"Showmanship"

If the Axis leaders have not lost all sense of proportion, they will know that this example signifies the granite determination of the United Nations to fight until victory is achieved."

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., pre-war non-interventionist and leading opponent of the administration's foreign policy said:

"The meeting evidenced great showmanship. But why Casablanca? It would have been more appropriate in the United States or in England.

"The people are interested in what Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill decided to do with north Africa and India after the war, and what agreements, if any, were arrived at on general post-war plans. The announcements made thus far throw no light on these matters at all."

Other congerssional comment:

House speaker Sam Rayburn, D., Tex.—"Anything less than unconditional surrender would not be achieving our ends."

Peace Offensive

litical spokesman, as summing up his reaction in five points:

First, he said, he noted the absence of Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia and therefore assumed that he "obviously had not the slightest intention of having his freedom of political action curtailed in any way or of wishing to disclose his military and political plans to Roosevelt or Churchill."

Second, the conference failed to demonstrate that British and American differences over North Africa had been dispelled.

Third, he continued, "Roosevelt had demonstrated to the world he had taken possession of French North Africa." This he had done, Schmidt said, by leaving his own country "which a President is not supposed to do," and by summoning Gen. Giraud before him.

Fourth, he added, there had been "no real agreement" between Giraud and De Gaulle.

Fifth, the official communique "contained not a single reference to the U-boat warfare."

10-Day Difficulties

The Rome radio said the fact that the conference had lasted 10 days demonstrated the difficulties under which the Allies labor.

The Tokyo radio said the conference had been devoted to "empty consultations."

From the Allied side Wellington dispatches quoted Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand as saying it was clear that the Pacific situation had been thoroughly discussed and that his country hailed with delight the promise to send Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek the support he needed for his Chinese armies.

Rio De Janeiro dispatches said that satisfaction was reflected in Brazil.

In Sweden it was reported that the conference dominated the headlines.

Lubbock fire department made calls last night to 2205 Avenue D, and Cliff Drive, on the rim of the East Broadway canyon. About 200 chickens were killed in the former fire, which burned a chicken house; the latter fire did little damage to a residence, department officials reported.

Lubbock County Singing convention will conduct an all-day program Sunday at Central Baptist church in Lubbock. Luncheon will be served and those who attend are invited to bring baskets of food. Clyde Burleson is president, Mack McEachern vice president.

A city bus and a city cab crashed at Avenue O and Tenth street late Wednesday night. Practically all of the glass was broken out of the windows on one side of the bus, and the cab was badly damaged, according to the city police; but no one was injured. The cab driver was shaken, but able to report the accident to his office.

No. 15 Mallet Is Brought In

Tevis F. Morrow, Dallas, announced Wednesday he has completed his No. 15 Mallett Land & Cattle company in the Hockley sector of the Slaughter field, for a daily potential flow of 407.64 barrels of 32-gravity crude. The gas oil ratio is 765-1. It entered pay lime at 4,860 feet, halted drilling at 4,964 feet, and was acidized with 12,000 gallons.

Jerry C. Hawkins' No. 57-A Mallett, Hockley wildcat more than a mile north of the Slaughter field, is drilling past 6,170 feet in lime. It passed up oil showings in the regular Slaughter pay horizon, and will be carried to the clear fork, lower permian, in which Lubbock county's first production was found.

Andrews Wildcat

The DeKalb Agricultural association, Inc., Lubbock, No. 1 A. C. Means estate wildcat, three miles southwest of the Means pool in northern Andrews county, is losing returns while drilling below 4,833 feet in hard lime.

The Shell Oil company's No. 1 D. N. Leaverson, 7,772-foot well in northwestern Gaines county, pulled tubing to recover a lost swab and swab line, and is preparing to re-run the tubing with a seat nipple. The operator thus will be prepared to pump the well if it ceases to flow.

The Barnsdall Oil company's No. 1 H. D. Heath, scheduled 7,500-foot wildcat in northeast central Yoakum county, six miles northeast of Plains, is preparing to cut drill pipe at 2,400 feet and wash over. The drill pipe is stuck at 3,160 feet; and the total depth is 5,698 feet in lime.

Reports of small arms, ammunition and food abandoned at several points indicated the German departure was hurried and unplanned.

Allied warplanes were handicapped by bad weather but successful attacks on German railway communications were reported from Allied headquarters in North Africa, while from Cairo it was announced that Liberator heavy bombers of the Ninth U. Flynn On Stand Denies Charges

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Actor Errol Flynn, unsmiling and serious, took the stand in his own behalf today and entered a firm, blanket denial that has was guilty of any misconduct with showgirl Peggy La Rue Satterlee, who accuses him of twice seducing her.

Answering various points in Miss Satterlee's testimony, Flynn asserted that he did not enter her state room while his luxurious 73-foot yacht Sirocco was anchored in a placid bay off Catalina Island a year ago last August; that he did not seduce her on the return trip the following day, and that he made no overtures to her at any time.

Fishing Pictures

He further denied that he had told anyone that "this girl attacked me last night," or that "she bit or kicked me." His time at Catalina was spent largely, he testified, in posing for fishing pictures for a magazine, and during the return trip he was almost constantly at the wheel of his vessel, which encountered rough weather.

On the Saturday night when Miss Satterlee charges him with entering her room and making love to her, Flynn went almost immediately to his own quarters on returning to the boat, he said, retiring at once and staying abed until 9 or 10 a. m. the next day.

"Did you have any act of sexual intercourse with her?" Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler asked him flatly.

"I did not," Flynn replied emphatically.

Denies Conversations

He made a sweeping denial of all conversations Miss Satterlee said she had with him.

"Did she say 'I am J. B. (jail bait) and did you say you would be willing to take your chances on that?" Giesler insisted.

"I said no such thing then or any other time," Flynn responded.

Flynn declared he did not spend more than five minutes away from the helm of his vessel as he returned to the mainland with his guests, Miss Satterlee, Buster Wiles, his friend, and several others. The others, he testified, spent their time variously in the cockpit, on deck, or below.

Asked to relate the conversation after the yacht docked at the mainland, Flynn said:

Had Swell Time

"During the saying of a general good-bye, I told Miss Satterlee 'I hope you've had a good time.' She said: 'I've never had a better time in my life—it's seemed like a dream.'

"I said: 'I'm glad,' or something like that."

In her testimony concerning the parting good-bye, Miss Satterlee testified she told Flyn "no" when he asked if she had had a good time on the trip.

Asked if he had invited Miss Satterlee to stay aboard that night, Flynn continued:

"I told her: 'It's too late now to make that dinner date. If you like, stay aboard and go up (to Hollywood) with us in the morning.' She said no, that she had better go home. On Sunday afternoon at Catalina, she mentioned having a dinner date."

Russian Gains

reported a successful smash west of Byelokurakina, which is only 50 miles from the important railway junction of Kupyansk, and 105 miles southwest of Kharkov. Three inhabited localities were taken, the communique said, one of them after an all-day fight in which the Germans unsuccessfully counterattacked with two battalions supported by tanks.

In The Caucasus

In the Caucasus the Russians, pushing northwestward from Salsk on the Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk railway, captured Sredny-Yegorlyk and Ataman, the latter 60 miles from Rostov which is connected by railway.

Other Russian units are 70 miles north of Rostov, and 56 miles to the east on the lower Don where the Germans are putting up a determined resistance, knowing that Rostov's fall would block the escape of huge Nazi forces in the Caucasus.

In the attempt to take Rostov other Russian units striking southwest of Salsk last were reported beyond Belaya Glina, 40 miles from Tikhoretsk, the junction of the Stalingrad and Rostov-Baku railways.

All these Red Army drives were hurling back the Germans into the northwestern corner of the Caucasus of which Rostov is the pivot. The Nazis were reported counterattacking repeatedly but steadily losing ground and suffering heavy losses in men and equipment.

Spread Of Hog Cholera In Area Is Termed Serious

The swine breeder as well as the feeder is taking a terrific wallop in losses traced directly to an epidemic of hog cholera in West Texas. Dr. A. J. Lewis of Lubbock, assistant state veterinarian, says the epidemic is widespread, that it is serious, and for the last three or four weeks has shown no indication of becoming less serious.

The tremendous increase in hog production to meet demands of war time, coupled with the widespread shortages of meat, higher prices for pork, and plans for forthcoming rationing, Dr. Lewis said, makes presence of the malady a serious matter with which farmers must cope. Thousands of hogs are being fed out now for the market on an abundance of homegrown grains.

Loss Near $100,000

The general belief is, and in this Dr. Lewis concurs, he said, the dread malady was brought in to this section early in the winter by truckers who moved large numbers of swine here from Louisiana, East Texas, and other sections to place them on feed.

C. C. Jobson, Lubbock county extension agent, said an estimated $100,000 worth of fattening and breeder stock have died in Lubbock county this winter. Veterinarians say the epidemic is widespread, and that it is no more prevalent here than in other counties of the South Plains.

Need Local Support

Control of the disease is vested in the state livestock sanitary board, Dr. Lewis said, "but it is a physical impossibility for our department to enforce the livestock sanitary law without the combined support of local officials, an adequate quarantine, and, most important of all, the moral support of the farmers themselves."

Twenty West Texas counties in the Lubbock area already are under quarantine, at the request of county commissioners in each. Penalty for violating the quarantine is a fine of $25 to $200 for each animal brought in without permit in the form of a certificate showing vaccination and proper time having elapsed since the inoculation.

Warning On Carcasses

Lubbock County Judge G. V. Pardue said numerous complaints have reached his desk that dead carcasses of hogs are lying promiscuously along the roads in this county, and that official pointed to a sanitary law which provides a $5 to $100 penalty for each dead animal not burned may be assessed against the owner in whose possession the animal was held when it died. County officers here are investigating the situation.

Dr. Lewis said he visited two swine herds in Hale county this week, one of 300 feeders and the other with 700. Hog cholera was rampant in both herds, according to his diagnosis. Owners told Dr. Lewis they believed the disease had been brought in by truckers hauling the animals into the county. The official said inoculation of herds after the disease strikes is not effective, and many of both herds will die, as many already have.

Agitation has been made by the breeders, most of whom have spent time and money building their blooded herds and most of whom say they deplore a situation that opens the way for a cholera epidemic at a time when war production calls upon them to produce more hogs and better and larger herds.

French Leaders

vader, their difficulties include these:

1. There are officials of every stripe of opinion in each camp.

2. Although DeGaulle's following in France is known to be large, it is estimated to be less than 10 per cent of the population in North Africa.

3. A wholesale purge of "Vichyites" in North Africa, demanded by DeGaulle, would cause a virtual collapse of government services.

4. Perhaps 90 per cent of French Army officers in North Africa cannot forget DeGaulle's part in the Syrian and Dakar campaigns, where he aided the British in attacking forces loyal to Vichy.

The Spaniard Coronado in 1540 brought the first cattle and sheep to what is now New Mexico.

American Raid

at Emden were heavily bombed by a large force of Flying Forts, U. S. headquarters announced, but results were difficult to observe.

The Liberators winged over northwest Germany to pound Emden in a double-pointed assault.

Three of the unescorted force of bombers were lost, but a number of enemy fighters were destroyed, a headquarters communique declared.

Yanks Call It Picnic

Anti-aircraft fire was light and returning Yankee pilots declared: "it was a picnic. We caught them completely unawares."

A sizeable fleet of German ships barely was missed by the American raiders. The Vessels were spotted entering Wilhelmshaven just after the bomber force wheeled away from unloading their high explosives on the submarine fitting and harbor fixtures.

The full damage was obscured by a heavy cloud formation over the target which forced the bombers to unload quickly through a closing hole in the overcast.

The obviously heavy aerial wallop gave explosive emphasis to President Roosevelt's declaration to Congress recently that the United States would "hit them and hit them hard."

It also was a new fulfillment of the promises of Prime Minister Churchill and Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair that the air offensive would go on with mounting intensity.

The raid foreshadowed a round-the-clock Allied offensive against the Reich itself, with the Americans hitting by day and the RAF continuing their night forays, which only last night pounded again at the submarine nests of Lorient on the French coast and at Bordeaux as well.

Town People Turning Thoughts To Gardens

Everyone, seemingly, is thinking of that spring garden. One will eat better, war leaders tell us, if they have a plot of ground in their back yards given over to the growing of vegetables.

All government agencies, farm group leaders, demonstration agents, and those who are devoting time and talent to the nation's food battle say the "town folks" won't be able to live out of a can, and should be pulling up radishes, onions, beets, mustard, lettuce and harvesting other fresh vegetables from their own "crops" come spring.

Planting seeds are available at local stores. Commercial fertilizers for food production may be had, if needed. Lubbock citizens who have caught the enthusiasm of the campaign already are breaking ground and building plans.

Garden tools are not restricted to the extent that farm machinery and implements have been, and this situation is decidedly in favor of the increase of home gardening, dealers say.

Father Of Chief Of Police Dies

C. E. Reeder, 70, Route 5, Lubbock, father of the city's chief of police, Don Reeder, died suddenly at 1:45 p. m., Wednesday while at luncheon.

So far as anyone knew, Mr. Reeder was in good health. He had been ill once in his life, about 18 months ago, with pneumonia. He was enjoying his meal, commenting on the excellence of the food, when he was stricken. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital; but it was believed that he died shortly after he collapsed in his chair at the dining table.

Lived Here 17 Years

Mr. Reeder had resided in Lubbock for 17 years. Prior thereto, he had lived for 45 years in Gail, Borden county, where another son, Sid, is now sheriff.

He is survived by eight children and his widow, who is 62 years old. His five daughters include Mrs. L. C. Peveto and Mrs. C. C. Ricker of Lubbock, Mrs. Dewey Everett of Snyder, Mrs. Hubert Stoval of Panhandle, and Mrs. J. B. White of Port Sulphur, La. A third son, Roy Reeder, farmer, lives at Fluvanna.

Mrs. White, the youngest of the family, was married last August. She was en route to Lubbock for a visit at the time of her father's death. Plans for the funeral will not be made until she arrives.

The Sanders Funeral home is in charge.

Tech Plans For Spring Semester

Nearly 800 students at Texas Technological college paid fees and secured housing and employment approval Wednesday as preregistration began for the spring semester. The early payment of fees is scheduled to continue through Saturday.

Actual registration will be Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 1 and 2, and classes are scheduled to begin Wednesday, Feb. 3. Students from other cities and towns are urged not to pay their fees early, W. P. Clement registrar, states, because dormitory facilities and scheduling of classes will not open until Monday. The pre-registration plan is designed to aid students living in Lubbock and those already enrolled for the current semester.

Entrance Exams Set

Entrance examinations for students not meeting the regular admission requirements are to be held Friday and Saturday, Jan. 29 and 30. Students who take such examinations after these dates may do so only by paying a late fee of $2.50. Feb. 10 is the last day a student may register or add courses for the semester. A late registration fee will be charged those who register after Feb. 4.

Plans for the spring semester include no Easter holidays as in the past, due to the accelerated plan which schedules the opening of the summer session June 1.

Clement stated recently that he expects a large number of new students, including college transfers and mid-term high school graduates. He added that total enrollment depends on changes between now and final registration dates and is entirely indefinite.

High Court Favors Life Insurance Firm

AUSTIN, Jan. 27 (AP)— The supreme court today granted the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York a writ of mandamus compelling the attorney general and comptroller to approve a money claim for taxes allegedly collected under duress.

The court held that the company should not be required to take the risk of having its business ended by cancellation of its permit to operate in Texas while the validity of a tax demand was being adjudicated.

Under the order of the court, the state agencies must approve payment of $7,920 appropriated by the 47th legislature as "refund of occupation tax erroneously collected."

Misled Nazis Take Up French Cause

By ROBERT DOWSON
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Germany, completely misled on the Roosevelt-Churchill conference, heaped denunciation on the President today and the Nazi Vichy radio echoed that "Frenchmen" had hoped they would be spared such new effrontery as an Allied meeting on French empire soil.

The London Daily Sketch, discussing the complete secrecy which protected the conferees at Casablanca, said Allied intelligence agents in the United States had given fake reports of a meeting in Washington to suspected Axis agents and as the result "an important group" of German spies had been arrested.

Three Hours Late

It was not until 6 a. m. (12 midnight cwt), three hours after the news had been released to the world, that German radios heard here reported that the President and Prime Minister Winston Churchill had met at Casablanca. (The OWI reported that the Germans broadcast the fact of the Casablanca conference at 9:45 p. m. CWT yesterday in an english language Morse code program—45 minutes after it was announced.)

All last night, in broadcasts in many languages, the German and other Axis radios had told in detail how Churchill had gone to Washington to confer with the President, who, they said, had demanded new bases in the British empire in return for supplies for Britain.

Faked Place Of Origin

Germany's first broadcast putting the conference on the right side of the Atlantic merely quoted, in French and German, the fact that it had been held and the names of those who took part. It carried the news under an Amsterdam date, in keeping with the German policy of faking the places of origin of broadcasts on events in Allied countries.

Next the Nazi Vichy radio said: "The general opinion was that Churchill had gone to Washington to confer with the President but this time the two statesmen met at Casablanca. The choice of Casablanca, that great city of our empire, deals a severe blow to the sentiments of Frenchmen, who had believed we would be spared such new effrontery."

At 9 a. m. (3 a. m. CWT) Berlin gave its first comment, in an official German news agency dispatch:

"Roosevelt's theatrical appearance in French territory, conquered without fighting, was symbolic of United States imperialism.

"Roosevelt's statement regarding a desire to see the strongest coalition in world history destroyed shows a lack of a sense of reality for which he will be punished by the future course of events.

"That he wishes the European peoples to bleed white while fighting against Bolshevism confirms that he is one of the greatest criminals in world history."

Lack Of Quorum Adjourns Senate

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 27—Texas state Senate was forced to adjourn today for lack of sufficient members to carry on business.

Twenty-five votes were needed to suspend rules that stood in the way of further acion. A roll call showed 20 present. Among absentees were three senators in military service. They are Lt. Col. Franklin Spears of San Antonio and Lieutenants Rogers Kelley of Edinburg and Marshall Formby of McAdoo. Lt. Vernon Lemmens of Waxahachie was present in uniform and Sen. Clem Fain of Livingston has not yet been called to active marine duty.

Mann Asks Hearing

The state supreme court recently held that acceptance of an Army commission does not vacate a civil office. Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann asked a rehearing pointing out that the decision might leave some districts without Senate and House representation. The rehearing was refused.

Before adjourning the Senate heard a protest that a senate employe had given an erroneous report of senate remarks to the state welfare department, attributing to Sen. Clay Cotten of Palestine statements by Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston. Welfare Director J. S. Murchison is former mayor of Corsicana, which is in Senator Cotten's district. It was not revealed who had made the report.

Bills were offered to prorate production of condensates and similar products and to extend the period in which Harris county grand juries may be retained.

Farmers Face Early Decision On Wheat

West Texas farmers who placed their 1942 wheat in government loans must decide before April 30 whether they will redeem their grain or turn it over to the Commodity Credit corporation. Grain loans mature on that date.

Walter Y. Wells of the Lubbock county AAA said about 100 wheat loans were made in the county. About 75 of these are warehouse loans, involving only about 60 to 70 thousand bushels.

At present, the difference between market prices and loan value is so small farmers are worrying little. Holdings of the government are decreasing rapidly because of large sales for feeding purposes and because of extensive use of wheat for distilling purposes.

Authorities report feeding purposes at present are calling for a consumption of about 5 million bushels of grain a week.

In West Texas there is a sizeable amount of grain being held back on the farms. This is the "free wheat," neither owned outright by the government nor under a government loan.

Willkie Disappointed At Scope Of Meeting

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (U.P.) — Wendell L. Willkie expressed "a feeling of disappointment" today over the announced results of the Casablanca conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

He criticized the failure of the conferees to include Russia and China in their discussions and to set up a "grand military strategy board" to direct the Allied war effort.

He also regretted that a "straight-forward policy worthy of our best traditions with reference to the tangled and ugly problems of north African politics," was not announced.

Praising Mr. Roosevelt for his role, Willkie said "the President did his part in the hazards of the flight, in meeting and reviewing the soldiers, and honoring the dead, with fine taste and appropriate spirit.

"As to the reports of the conference itself, as given us in the first communique one cannot repress a feeling of disappointment," he continued.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)— An announcement that a 15 per cent pay increase had been pledged to 6,000 members of the dress makers union was made today by a union official, who said it looked like "a break" in the work stoppage that threatened to tie up New York city's $400,000,000 a year dress manufacturing industry.

Early Ticket Sales For Gloves Heavy

Almost All Ringside Ducats Gone; Field Of 75 Is Expected

If first-day sales are an accurate indication, Texas Tech's gymnasium should be packed by capacity crowds for the eighth annual district Golden Gloves boxing tournament Friday and Saturday nights.

Tickets for the big fistic carnival were placed on sale Wednesday morning at the athletic office in the Tech gymnasium and throughout the day they sold like ice cream cones on the Libyan desert.

All three varieties of ducats—the $1.10 ringside, 75-cent general admission, and 50-cent ladies and soldiers—enjoyed an opening day boom. In fact, most of the 416 ringside tickets have already been sold.

Tickets will be on sale again all day today at the Tech athletic office.

Expect 75 Entries

With more than 60 entries already in the till, the field was expected to climb to the 75 mark before the closing deadline at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Two more entrants joined the ranks of the tourney's heavier fighters yesterday. Ritter Holder, 19-year-old Lamesa heavyweight who has no previous Golden Gloves experience, entered the top weight division, while Buster Melton, Tech freshman footballer from Merkel, entered the light heavyweight division.

Plenty of torrid competition is in prospect in all weight divisions, as no class is without at least four entrants thus far. In the central weight groups there is an unusual number of entrants, which means that this district should be able to send strong welterweight and middleweight representatives to the state Glove tourney at Fort Worth Feb. 10-15.

Champs To Forth Worth

All champions crowned in the district tournament will be given all-expense-paid trips to the Fort Worth affair, as well as boxing robes and trunks. Runners-up will receive Golden Glove watch chain charms.

District tournament officials have urged all entrants to report at the Tech gymnasium Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock for weighing-in ceremonies and physical examinations. Pairings for first-round bouts will be made late Friday afternoon by Collier Parris and Bill Parker, two of the tourney's co-directors.

HE'LL BE READY — Allie Stolz, the New Jersey lightweight who was recently defeated by Beau Jack, will be out to regain lost prestige Friday night when he meets Willie Pep, the world's featherweight champ (New York version) at Madison Square Garden. Stolz is near top condition and is confident he can snap the record of 58 straight victories Pep has compiled.

Buffs, LIU Tangle In Garden Cage Feature

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—West Texas State Teachers' elongated basketball team, which lost two close decisions in New York last year, returns tomorrow to tangle with Long Island university in the feature game of the triple-header at Madison Square Garden.

The Texas boys dropped a 58-56 game to LIU on their first appearance in the Garden and then bowed to Creighton, 59-58, in the National Invitation tournament. The two other games tomorrow night match St. John's and Camp Upton's college-studded outfit and St. Francis of Brooklyn and La-Salle of Philadelphia.

Hutson Is Again 'Most Valuable'

Dudley, Baugh Are High In Balloting

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—Don Hutson, Green Bay's nimble fingered end who holds more records than any other football player, gained another today when he was named the National football league's most valuable player for the second consecutive year.

Announcement of the Joe F. Carr award, which no other player has received twice, was made by Commissioner Elmer Layden.

Hutson, a former University of Alabama gridder who made himself football's No. 1 pass receiver and the most feared man in the National league after his entry into pro football eight years ago, received six of the nine first place votes cast by a committee of newspapermen.

Set 17 Records

Only two other players figured in the balloting. Bill Dudley, Pittsburgh's prize rookie and the league's 1942 ground gaining champion, was second with two firsts and four second place votes. Sammy Baugh, Washington's ace passer and perennial punting champion, received one first and five second place votes.

The mark established in winning the Carr award a second time brought to 17 the number of records Hutson hung up last season alone.

Among his 1942 record accomplishments were catching 78 passes good for 1,211 yards and 17 touchdowns, scoring 138 points, and kicking 33 points after touchdown. He stretched to 25 the string of successive league games in which he has scored. In 91 games, including three championship playoffs, he has been held without a pass reception only twice.

In both 1941 and 1942, Hutson finished third in a poll conducted annually by the Associated Press to name the outstanding athlete of the year.

Missouri Grid Mentor Favors Anything That Will Help To Win War

(By The United Press)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 27—Don Faurot, who gets glum and silent only on nights before his Missouri football team has a big game the next day, cheerfully told the Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard today to come and help themselves to his boys and to take the school gridiron, field house and stadium too, if they needed it to win the war.

The Columbia, Mo., campus of the university already looks like San Diego when the fleet is in, with a large Naval base established there. Most of the upperclassmen who are gridiron candidates, are reserve officers engaged in some branch of military training which will give them commissions when they are graduated. Freshmen are enlisting or being inducted in gross lots and Faurot emphasizes that any college will be lucky to get 11 men on the field at the same time "for practice or for a game."

Expects 35 Candidates

"Last year for spring practice we had a squad of 65 players and we can figure on a maximum of 35 for this year," he said. "Of course we can play freshmen next fall, but we won't know who they are or how good they are until they arrive on the campus.

Faurot, on hand for a Missouri alumni meeting at which pictures of Missouri games were shown, said that the keynote of college football next year would be to "play good naturedly and not too seriously."

"As long as all of the other schools around the country are going to be in the same boat, we shouldn't worry too much," he said. "We're just going to go ahead and have some fun and refuse to take ourselves seriously. When the conference permitted relaxation of the rule permitting use of freshmen, we thought that would help but it looks now like the first year class is going to be hit hardest of all. The only boys who will be available will be those who are 17 years old or younger and a few older ones in officer training courses."

'Watch Ben' Jones May Be Good Slogan

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP)—Not since the Bimelech dubble was since the Bimlech bubble was blowing up to "bust," has there been such a Kentucky Derby rush as the parade to get aboard the Count Fleet bandwagon this year, but from out of New Orleans today came an old war cry of the wise guys.

Recent doings at Fair grounds would indicate that it's about time the "watch Ben Jones" slogan was trotted out and warmed up again.

For, when Ocean Wave came splashing through the mud to a three-length victory yesterday, eased up and ready to run a lot more if they let him ,it took you back, for instance, to last spring —Derby week at Churchill Downs.

Plain Ben was laboring night and day trying to get Sun Again ready in his bid to win a third Derby. The day of the race, Ben had to withdraw because his colt was behind in training. But a week later, the Sun came out a-shining and ran to a dead heat for second place in the Preakness.

Now John D. Hertz' flashy Count Fleet looks like a "sure thing," but just remember that Ben, although making no prediction, thinks his Ocean Wave is a "right nice hoss."

Chicubs Get Derringer From Reds In Straight Cash Deal

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Jan. 27 — The Cincinnati Reds sold Paul Derringer, dean of their great pitching staff, to the Chicago Cubs tonight in a straight cash deal.

General Manager Warren C. Giles announced the deal, which left the Reds with only eight pitchers on their 1943 roster.

Derringer, who came to the Reds in 1933 from the St. Louis Cardinals, was troubled with an old injury early last year and wound up with a record of 10 games won and 11 lost for .476 and an earned run average of 3.06.

Requested Trade

However, at the age of 36 he was still rated as one of the game's most effective pitchers when he was right. His control was about the best in the National league and even in his off year of 1942 he walked but 49 men in 29 games.

Giles said Derringer wrote from his winter home in Sarasota, Fla., six weeks ago asking to be traded or sold and indicating a preference for the Cubs if a deal could be made. Derringer said his wife did not want to return to Cincinnati.

Cardinal Trainer Says 'Longhandles' Help

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27. (AP)—The old "grapefruit circuit" of balmier spring training days will be called "the long underwear league," if Harrison J. Weaver of the Cardinals has his way.

The veteran trainer, who mixes hard-headed fact with his pet superstitions, believes the pennant-winning teams this year will be those suffering the fewest cases of illness while conditioning north of the Eastman-Landis line.

He isn't trying to frighten players with visions of oxygen tents, men in white and sulpha drugs, but he thinks that colds and similar ailments will be a training problem.

And, as far as "Doc" Weaver is concerned, the best safeguard is a lot of long underwear, ankle length.

"I have notified Butch Yatkeman (Cardinal property man) to lay in a large supply," he said today. "I wish we could make it mandatory that the players wear such underwear. I don't care what color they are. They can be red or pink or baby blue, just so they're long and heavy."

All Edible Meats To Be Rationed, OPA Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (U.P.)—An Office of Price administration spokesman said today that all edible meats would be rationed when the point system goes into effect next month.

Meats like kidneys, sweetbreads, liver will have a much lower point value than red meat but it would upset the rationing program to exclude them from rationing provisions, the spokesman said.

Boudreau Says Tribe Is "Team To Beat"

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27. (AP) — Manager Lou Boudreau declares his Indians "are going to be the team to beat" in the American league this war year—which the Cleveland club's President Alva Bradley feels will see his home attendance hold even with last season.

These twin expressions, unusually optimistic for their progenitors, popped up last night at a baseball writers' dinner honoring Third Baseman Ken Keltner as the Tribe's most valuable player of 1942.

Sports Setup To Be Revamped

Schoolboy Program Will Be Enlarged

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 27 — Revamping of the sports setup in Texas high schools to tie in directly with the pysical fitness program approved by the Army and Navy was undertaken here today by the athletic committee of the Texas Association of School Administrators.

The committee laid the foundation for a program which will include broad expansion of physical education in the schools, fostering of intramural sports on a wide scale, and limitation but not abandonment of inter-school competitive athletics.

In spite of wartime difficulties, especially transportation problems, the committee voted to attempt to work out means for carrying on inter-school football contests.

Reasons Given

"It must be remembered," H. D. Fillers of Wichita Falls, chairman of the committee said, "that carrying out an expanded program of physical fitness, which is part of the program adopted by the nation's schools, will require funds. The admissions paid by the public to football games between high school teams are the only source of funds for carrying on the program.

"The competitive and rugged nature of football is undoubtedly the best means of providing the physical training and developing the qualities of spirit that the Army and Navy need for youth who will fight the country's battles tomorrow."

To enable this phase of the program to be carried on, it was indicated that moderate relaxation of travel restrictions applying to athletic teams will be sought.

Famous Texas Football Team Recalled By Berry's Capture

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—Reports that K. L. Berry, oneof the most remarkable athletes the University of Texas ever had, is a prisoner of the Japanese recalls the football team they tell you down here was the greatest in history.

It also marks the third time over a period of 27 years that Berry has come into national notice.

The first time was when he left the University to play with the famous old Second Texas infantry of World war No. 1—A team pointed to in these parts as the mold from which all other great teams are made.

The next time was when Berry, ten years later, returned to the university to become an all-Southwest conference lineman.

And now Berry is a prisoner of the Japs but the old-timers who knew him as a member of that famed Second Texas will bet you three to one there was one heck of a commotion before K. L. was overpowered.

Rip Collins, Travis county sheriff who played halfback on the Second Texas, declared today that outfit still is the greatest of them all, notwithstanding the fine performances of service football elevens last season.

Collins says:

"I still maintain the opposition in 1916 was tougher. They wore baseball cleats on their shoes back in those days. And horse shoes in their shoulder pads. Clipping went then, too."

The 1916 Second Texas was undefeated and untied, scored 432 points in eight games and gave up only six points. It defeated teams bulging with all-Americans, including the First New York cavalry.

Collins apologized for the lone touchdown made by the Twelfth Division All-Stars. "The game was played in a blizzard and they scored against us when we had the fourth string in," he explained.

THREE CHEERS FOR YOU from OUR MEN IN UNIFORM

... and Thanks to You From Texas-New Mexico and Okla. Coaches

With Your Cooperation, We got 'em home & back for the holidays

Thanks to you, a most critical period in wartime but transportation has been passed with flying colors.

Just before Christmas . . . during the fall of the year, you were reminded that bus travel was not rationed and that the prospects of rationing was not even being considered. You were told also, when you wanted to travel, Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches stood ready to serve you as in the past. As a result of your cooperation . . . arranging your trips for mid-week, etc., thousands of men and women in uniform were able to go home by bus for holiday leaves and furloughs. While helping members of the armed forces, you also made it possible for agricultural workers in this territory to remain on the job until it was done before returning home.

Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches will make every effort to see that the service you count on is available when you need it during 1943.

Due to the heavy passenger traffic on all lines, we are compelled to limit all baggage to one piece for each paid fare. May we have your cooperation !

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 2 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? The Chiropractor teaches that the brain and nervous system are the root of health. From the brain, nerve energy is distributed through the nervous system to control all parts of the body. When this nerve energy is shut off even slightly between brain and body (by bone displacement in the spine), one or more body functions are interfered with and ill health results. By x-ray, analysis and spinal adjustment the Chiropractor is able to relieve nerve interference and restore normalcy to the affected part. No drugs. No surgery. Nature is the healer.

CASE HISTORY No. 34. This patient had suffered almost continually since 1918 with stomach pains and gases, and had turned from one method to another seeking relief, without results. Eventually the condition became so chronic that he was, at times, unable to sleep or eat. On the recommendation of a friend, a Chiropractor was consulted. X-ray analysis revealed displacement of a segment of the spine which had shut off nerve supply to the digestive organs. A series of adjustments restored the bone to normal position and within a short time the gastric condition cleared up.

CASE HISTORY No. 125. A victim of asthma for ten years. Many remedies had been tried without results. An operation on the sinus was undertaken to try to correct the condtiion, but she still suffered. After some time friends suggested Chiropractic. Analysis indicated displacement of an upper vertebra. Adjustments to correct the displacement were successful and improvement was immediate. This patient now enjoys excellent health and there has been no recurrence of the asthmatic condition.

CASE HISTORY No. 98. A typical case of Sciatica. Patient unable to move without suffering great pain. Condition gradually became worse until finally Chiropractic aid was sought. Within one week following adjustments of the spine, he could move around quite freely and in less than two weeks the patient was able to resume an active life.

Five Cans Of Food To Be Ration Limit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP) — The Office of Price Administration today established a limit of five cans per person as the amount of canned vegetables and fruits which householders may possess, without penalty, when rationing of canned goods begins in about four weeks.

This represented a drastic reduction under tentative plans to allow between eight and ten cans per person.

When rationing begins, persons having more than the allowable limit will have coupons torn out of their canned goods ration book.

This will be done at a rate of one 8-point coupon for each can above five per person.

In counting the cans, OPA said it will not include cans containing less than eight ounces (this excludes primarily small cans of baby food.)

Colonel Entertained; It's Name, Not Title

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill., Jan. 27. (AP)—Colonel Bramblett was ushered into the officers' ward and sh...ered with attention when he entered the Army hospital.

It wasn't until several days later that attaches discovered that Bramblett was a private—Colonel was the first name given him by his doting parents back in Chatsworth, Ga.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, Indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

The U-Boats Still Strike

CLAIMS continue in conflict as to tonnage of United Nations shipping that is being sunk by Axis submarines. Axis claims of increasing effectiveness of U-boat warfare are disputed by the Allies.

But there are certain points of agreement. One is that Axis submarines are being built more rapidly than they are being lost. Another is that the Axis now has several times as many U-boats as at the beginning of the war. A third is that, although losses in the sea lanes off the shores of the Americas have been reduced greatly, they have been increased in other parts of the world—particularly in the vicinity of the British Isles and in the approaches to North Africa.

One aspect of the admitted situation is encouraging. The Axis has been forced to draw in its most active submarine lines. This represents retreat. The United Nations have lessened the peril in waters distant from the Axis centers ,even though this danger has not been removed entirely. Thus the situation represents an improvement from the Allied standpoint, even though it must be expected that more enemy submarines operating closer to home bases inevitably will mean heavier losses in those waters.

But the whole situation adds up to this: The battle of the supply lines still is raging in full fury. The outcome still is uncertain. The U-boat still is the first hope of the Axis, and the biggest obstacle in the path of the final United Nations victory. Victory will not be won until this obstacle has been removed and, most definitely, it has not been removed as yet despite progress in that direction.

Wickard Sounds The Tocsin

IF critical food shortages due to lack of foresight occur in the United States, one man who will be justified in saying, "I told you so," will be Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture and War Food administrator.

No one has been more persistent than Mr. Wickard in warning that the food outlook is not one about which this nation can be complacent. His report to the President the other day, that the situation is "more serious than most people realize," was cimilar to many alarms he has given over a considerable period of time.

Mr. Wickard has made quite clear that he does not share the view of those who say that this nation will have enough food to keep stomachs filled, even though it may not be exactly the food that most people would prefer. He, rather obviously, is fearful of a situation which might find this nation without enough food to keep people nourished. He expects that there will be enough for a sufficient and a nourishing diet. But he feels so strongly that this may not be the case that he has urged, as he reported to the President; "We must begin to hold back. The time to conserve food is while we still have something to conserve." The logic of this reasoning is too obvious for comment.

It could be, of course, that Mr. Wickard's view is more pessimistic than the outlook justifies. But due to his position, if for no other reason, Mr. Wickard should know the true situation as well, or better, than any person in this nation. If he is alarmed—and, apparently he is—then it is time for all of us to do some serious thinking about the matter. No available chance can be taken of future famine or near-famine conditions that can be prevented, or minimized in their seriousness, by the exercise of foresight now.

Despite the restrictions that are being placed in increasing effect, it still is a fact that, compared with the rest of the world, the United States is a land of plenty. The rare possibility that a period of want may lie ahead is a sufficient reason to demand that Mr. Wickard's warning he heeded, and that this nation prepare for the possibility of famine.

"The way to keep from growing old is to work hard," declares a physician. But, doc, wouldn't working oneself to death early in life to avoid growing old constitute a form of suicide?

THE STORY: While their fathers in Trollness are planning action against their German conquerors, Margit Osterholm and Karen Stensgard are at the mountain saeter, where they had almost forgotten the war and the occupation of the village. Morten Mortensen, a neighbor, gives Karen a pair of skis she admires. A lanky, bold-looking German trooper approaches the saeter, and laughs at the girls' effort sto chase him away.

AN SS OFFICER ARRIVES
CHAPTER VI

He kept looking at her. It made her breath come faster to see his eyes on her.

"I hate you," she cried. "We're enemies. No decent Norwegian girl . . ."

"Karen!" Margit clapped a hand over the younger girl's mouth.

He burst into delighted laughter. His eyes got smaller and smaller, with little wrinkles in their corners.

Karen stamped her foot. "Stop," she cried. His face sobered immediately. "How did you know my name?"

He leaned back without answering, pulled a mouth organ out of his hip pocket, and watching them quizzically, with one eyebrow lifted, tapped it on his knee and began to play.

"How did you know my name?" Karen cried again petulantly.

He stopped. "I saw you one day last June," he said. "You had on black boots and a yellow kerchief, and were planting in the doctor's garden."

"Oh," she said, and then a moment later in a lower voice, "But now you have to go."

The soldier looked brown and healthy and happy. He had no intention of going.

"He is German," Karen kept thinking to herself. All the weeks and months when she had been alone came back to her. "He is a German. He is a German." She sat down with her dusty brown legs straight out in front of her.

Margit saw them look at each other, and got up stiffly and went into the hut by herself. A strange, taut feeling came over her. The mouth organ played outside. Then it stopped Something was in the air. It was wrong. Softly, beyond the sun-drenched sill, she heard their voices. "Oh, Karen," she thought suddenly, "please . . . please."

And then all at once Karen was in the door. Margit ran to her. "What happened?"

She felt Karen cling, sobbing, to her shoulders.

"What happened?" she kept asking. "What happened?"

Karen broke free and ran out again. The soldier was gone. Margit followed her. "Karen, what happened?"

But Karen would not look at her. "I never want to see him again," she whispered. "Never, never." Then she whirled round and cried passionately, "We are Norwegians. I don't like him. Do I, Margit? Do I?"

"No," Margit said, and went to her, shyly at first, then bravely, took her and held her close, stroking her hair. "No, Karen, she said. Over and over again. "No, no, of course, not.

Th hotel was a rambling, gabled structure of dark brown wood, that stood in a grassy clearing half a mile up the hill. An enormous red and black swastika flag rippled gently from a pole on the porch roof. From the broad steps, one could see down over the pine tops to the village itself, and westward out beyond, to the sea, sparkling in summer sunlight.

In peacetime, the town had been something of a tourist resort, and Englishmen and Americans had come up on the excursion boats from Trondheim and Bergen, and on summer evenings gathered at the hotel, where there were music on the veranda and Japanese lanterns strung between the trees.

But now everything was changed. The gray-green uniformed troops were quartered there, and milled about the restaurant evenings, talking and drink beer. During the day, when they were down in the village on duty, or else going through maneuvers back in the hills, the place was deserted.

There was still the same scrupulous cleanliness, but the checkered cloths were gone from the dining room tables. The bright green awning had been taken down from over the porch, and only the flag was there. The cushions from the porch chairs were stored in the attic. The floor was no longer waxed for dancing, but scrubbed down instead with a wet brush three mornings a week. The pictures, fjord scenes, photographs of ski matches, were down from the walls. Ease had given way to military bareness; the hotel was run according to a strictly regulated plan.

In the hotel restaurant, some 25 or 30 soldiers were sitting at the round tables playing cards or talking in low voices. The room, broad, with a beamed ceiling, was warm and hazy from cigaret smoke. Gerd Bjarnesen sat stern and decorous in her alcove under the stairs and watched.

Even at this hour the men were in regulation uniform, complete and ready for inspection. She marveled sometimes at their adherence to rule, even in conversation. Tonight, for example, not a word had been said about the debacle of Stoksund (it was forbidden), even though they could hardly have had much else on their minds. "It is as bad for them," she thought, "as for us, not to know."

One thing she had noticed over and over again, how even in the midst of laughter, a man's eyes would be fixed on his neighbor's lips as if to drag out something that lay beyond the words. They were tense, even when resting, It showed in their quick, nervous reactions when one of them mentioned the war. Yet they were the battle-trained troops who had marched into Prague and thundered over the bloody plains of Poland, who had fought six of the great armies of Europe and never lost.

She feared and hated and respected them with a silence and fixedn ss that not even they could have altered. For she saw them not as manifestations in themselves, not as episode, but as climax to all of her uneventful 40 years. She forgot in her hatred of them her own plainness and barrenness the loneliness, and the still rankling fear of her stern father that had oppressed her even after his death. The three things most important to her, the hotel, the memory of her father, and the young boy Trygve, who was not her son, faded into the welter of daily trivia before the new, physical fact of a company of men who sat every evening in her restaurant, and talked, smoked, drank, and played at cards.

It was about 9 o'clock when Karl came in from his day's leave. The men greeted him with curt nods. He waved at them, sat down, and ordered beer.

Two soldiers were shooting darts over in the corner. Toward the front of the room, a bridge game was going on. The players were all older men, and went at their game with great seriousness.

Down near the cashier's cage an argument developed. Phrases floated over. "Two million men . . . mine throwers . . . the attack on Kiev." The corporal had gone over. Everyone heard his voice, unexpectedly loud. "Must you always be talking about the war?"

The men sitting at the tables looked up at him, and one or two shifte in their chairs. He fumbled for words. ""You start thinking about war and soon . . . soon you can't think of anything else."

The voices in the room died away. "I, for one," said the corporal, "am sick of the . . . the talk."

A tightness came into the air. The mouths of the bridge players froze in the midst of laughter. The fat one stopped with a card suspended, and looked at his partner. Someody cleared his throat. But no one looked around. Faintly they could hear the far, soft surge of the sea down in the fjord.

At that moment the porch door was flung open and a giant of a man in an SS officer's black uniform strode quickly into the room. He turned his shaggy head right, then left. The soldiers snapped to their feet. Berd Bjarnesen came sliding out from behind her desk.

"I wish to see Captain Konig," the stranger said in a clear voice.

An orderly scurried from a table. "This way, sir."

The men sat down. The room was naturally still.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A NOTED New York reporter was the author of the arrangement whereby we gave Great Britain 50 destroyers in return for bases in the Atlantic littoral. His name is Arthur D. Howden Smith. He worked beside the writer 20 years ago on the old, internationalistic New York Evening Post, which was then owned and controlled by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Company.

The famous transaction was not consummated until September 3, 1940. But the following private correspondence discloses that the deal was in the making months before that date. Behind-the-scenes facts are quite illuminating, despite Pearl Harbor. On May 2, 1940, Smith sent this message to his old friend, Lord Lothian, then British ambassador to Washington and formerly Lloyd George's secretary:

"I had the pleasure of knowing you as Philip Kerr many years ago when I was associated with the late Colonel House, whose final biography I shall publish in September. If you chance upon it, you will find it a startlingly accurate forecast of what is happening. It should be of service to the Allied cause. But that is not really the occasion of this letter.

"It occurs to me that the Admiralty will have increasing need for escort vessels as warfare spreads. Our Navy has a large reserve of wartime destroyers, somewhere between 100 and 150. They are serviceable vessels and they have been adequately maintained. Forty or 50 were reconditioned for use in the neutrality patrol last fall.

"Am I taking an undue liberty, as a private citizen, if I suggest that it might be possible for the Admiralty to purchase a number of these vessels for convoy service? I see no difference between such a demonstration of 'benevolent neutrality' by the administration and the waiving of warplane contracts in the Allies' favor."

The envoy's reply to Arthur's suggestion is significant. He admits that London could use a few sub sinkers, but notes that the sale or swap would be somewhat illegal. His communication is dated May 17, 1940. (Mr. Hull did not publicize the proceedings until September 3rd of that year).

"My dear Arthur Howden Smith: Thank you for your kind letter of May 2nd. I well remember our previous meetings. I would dearly like, if I have the leisure, to read in September your biography of that wise man ,Colonel House.

"As to your suggestion about the destroyers, it is an interesting one, and I am passing it on to our naval people.

"But you wnll no doubt realize that international law forbids a neutral government to sell warships to a belligerent. American airplanes (this was before the fall of France—Editor's note) are, of course, being sold to the French and British governments by private and not by governmental firms.

"Thank you for your suggestion and with kindest regards. Lothian."

Before his late lordship died, the Lend-Lease act was passed. So he got his destroyers, his planes, food and also American buck privates. It is not generally known but there are almost as many Yankee fighters in empire territory as there are Britishers.

FOOD: The resignation of Herbert W. Parisius of the Department of Agriculture confirms the recent revelation in this column (19 January '43) regarding the internal controversy about a practical solution of the dinner-table program.

Parisius sided with the left wingers, who appear to be more concerned about social and economics reforms than filling our pantries. He trailed along with the Appleby-Jackson coterie instead of the Wiskard-Henderson group. The agriculture secretary tried unavailingly to compose their differences. When Parisius demanded more sweeping plans for 1943 production—20 instead of 7 per cent increase in acreage—his practical boss eplained that such a goal was not feasible because of the farmers' present handicaps—lack of labor, machinery, feed, local transportation facilities etc.

Secretary Wickard then subinitted to the White House an outline of expansion and economy which ruffled the agrarian southpaws. Several more uplifters may follow Herbert through the door. What the nation needs today, according to Wickard, is food, not philosophy.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

DONALD M. Nelson puzzled most people by his strange announcement that of the four major problems facing the board the production of valves is first in importance. It is difficult for the public to visualize such a comparatively simple contrapton as being an alarming trouble maker.

Outstanding New York engineers, who know the true picture of the situation, gravely substantiate Nelson's disclosure. They warn that lack of this minor bit of equipment is creating an inescapable crisis. It not only holds up the war effort but may keep automobiles off the road for months—or years.

The gadgets in question are required in the fabrication of synthetic rubber—still our greatest shortage. The government's decision to build buna factories came so late that the overloaded machine tool industry had nothing ready for this process and was obliged to start from scratch. An ersatz plant is a gigantic maze of pipes and intricate pumps consuming enormous stocks of extremely scarce copper and brass. There can be no new latex for soldiers or civilians until specially designed valves can be manufactured by the thousand.

GROGGY: For many moons Dr. Goebbels ballyhooed the myth that the Wohrmacht had a corner on military cleverness and that its generals could outsmart any Allied leaders matched against them. Facts are now catching up with him.

Two recent cases are examples. In prize ring terminology, the United Nations feinted at Adolf's Mediterranean midriff, he covered with his right meat hook, but when he lowered his left guard a Soviet punch knocked him for a loop.

Field Marshal Keitel several weeks ago mobilized an army of picked veterans comprised mainly of Panzer divisions, in southern Poland. They practiced elaborate secret maneuvers for an all-out spring blow at Moscow. If the Russian bear refused to hibernate for the winter, they were to be rushed to the steppes.

But Eisenhower landed in North Africa and the Axis pool of men was hurried to southern France to forestall an AEF invasion. No strong reserve remained in the Ukraine, so Stalin swung with all his might and left Hitler groggy.

DEBUNKED: A second bonehead play was made by the master minds. In 1941-42 the Nazis survived the Red onslaughts through their much publicized hedgehog system of defense—holding city strong points, allowing the Slavs to sweep past and then sallying forth and cutting off the assailants. The Berlin brain trust tried an innovation this year called liquid mobilty. Upon beng attacked, troops were to withdraw in order and join a great supporting force held in the rear.

The intermingled groups were to be powerful enough to rout the Muscovites, exhausted from charging long distances in wreckage, mud and snow. Reichswehr manuals described the tactic as a "slingshot" in which the line is stretched and then released with such force that it throws the enemy beyond his original jumping-off place.

But the theory was debunked by the Russians whenever it was tried. The Germans retreated, as the textbook advised; but the Slavs never stopped, as the volume promised. Hitler raised his V-shaped stick, pulled back the elastic and—ping—it snapped in his eye.

Here And There In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, Jan. 27—Even though the government intends to abandon the food stamp program by March 1, it is going to continue the community school lunch and child day care centers and direct distribution of commodities.

This information comes from Regional Chief L. J. Cappleman of the Agricultural Marketing administration at Dallas, after Secretary of Agriculture Claud Wickard announced the stamp abandonment on Dec. 31.

Cappleman says that stamp plan counties can apply for the direct food distribution program provided they have adequate warehousing and transportation facilities.

Summary Is Given

He summarizes the food stamp program for states of the district—Texas, and Oklahoma as follows:

Oklahoma—Program organized in August, 1939 and 75 out of 77 counties have the stamp program. The government issued $11,500,000 in blue stamps from August, 1939 to December, 1942. The peak month was August, 1941, when 242,000 persons participated. In November, 1942, 100,000 in the state received stamps.

Texas— The program was organized in December, 1939, and 71 of the 254 counties participated. The government issued about $14,000,000 in blue stamps up to December of 1942. The peak month was August, 1941, when 236,000 persons participated. Last November, 122,000 received stamps.

DR. George W. Cox, state health officer, announces that there are now 59 privately owned sterilization vaults in Texas approved by the department for treating second-hand bedding.

Dr. Cox advised purchasers to demand to see the sterilization tag, required by law, before buying used mattresses, pillow, feather bed, studio couch or other article of bedding.

He reported that 5,863 articles were sterilized in a recent month.

Heads Insurance Section

Lieutenant Robert Nail is chief of the special insurance section set up in the adjutant general's branch of the Eighth Service command headquarters in Dallas.

He formerly served as assistant chief of the war bond and insurance section and now is in charge of an informative program designed to reach every officer and enlisted man in the Eighth Service command.

Nail says the program to provide everyone in the five states command area with low-cost National Service life insurance and U. S. Government life insurance is well underway.

IF YOU are a skilled specialist and want an Army commission, your chances of getting one are good, according to a War department memorandum.

There are few chances of a commission unless one is a specialist, but the memorandum adds:

"To meet the occasional needs for the services of a particular individual with outstanding experience and ability in special fields not listed, the chief of a Service of Supply agency may submit his recommendations for such an appointment with full details as to the specific qualifications of the individual, the necessity for his services in commissioned grade, and the particular position or duty to which he is to be asisgned.

But this authority will not be used in appointment of civilians "for routine administrative duties, or for positions that can be satisfactorily filled by officers trained in candidate schools or service schools.

Those in the non-specialist category, with applications in Washington and not yet appointed, will not be commissioned, the memorandum adds.

The specialist fields as named in the memorandum included nine in particular which it characterized as "scarce categories." They are:

Cryptanalist, industrialist, construction, including highway, airport and building; petroleum, such as pipeline construction, operation and maintenance; radio, chemical with clothing impregnators specified; electronic physicists; transportation, including rail, water, motor and port operation officials, and metallurgists.

Other specialists listed included those in radio, automotive and electrical work, mechanical and certain specialized civil occupations and textile experts.

In addition the memorandum listed warrant officers and enlisted men on active duty who are eligible and qualified for appointment.

"Inside Help" Wanted, Too

Not only do the armed services want specialists and highly trained men to win this war, it wants those in uniform to constantly improve themselves.

For instance, the Army Institute offers enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps this opportunity by correspondence.

The Army Institute was organized by the War department and is established at Madison, Wis., to offer a wide variety of correspondence courses at low cost. Any enlisted man may enroll after he has been in service four months.

Enlisted men are asked to consult their Special Service officer, librarian, various commissioned or non-commissioned officers or write directly to the Army Institute, for information about any of the 64 courses.

PRICES RALLY AFTER DOWNTURN

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Stocks had heavy going in most of today's market, then took courage at the success of recovery moves by utilities and came back to finish on a rallying note, although minus signs predominated.

Many blue chips suffered in the downturn but came back a bit and the Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed unchanged at 43.4. Volume, boosted by good-sized blocks of lower priced power issues, totaled 1,697,160 shares against 1,042,690 Tuesday and was the second largest of the year so far.

Emphasizing the irregularity were new highs touched, after small advances, by Eastman, White Motors, U. S. Rubber and a number of utilities including North American, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works and United Gas Improvement. The Associated Press utility average hit a new high for 1942-43 at 29, up .3 of a point. Of the 844 issues traded, 264 were up, 330 down and 250 unchanged.

Among shares ahead on the day were Yellow Truck, Goodrich, Douglas, International Nickel, Westinghouse, Warner Brothers and Paramount. American Car and Foundry preferred gained 1¼ and the common was up ⅛ after announcement of a court decision permitting dividend payments to preferred shareholders.

At Chicago wheat lost ¼ to ⅝ of a cent a usheł and corn was unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Rogs were steady to 10 cents a hundredweight lower. New York cotton futures closed 15 cents a bale higher to 20 cent lower.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP) — Commission house liquidation and hedge-selling erased most of early gains in cotton futures trading today with closing prices 15 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower.

Prices at one time reached levels of 20 cents higher than the previous close but values steadily declined in late dealings on what traders attributed to easiness in other markets and uncertainty regarding the parity program.

The trade noted with interest the national cotton council's suggestion that the department of agriculture liberalize its 1943 cotton acreage goals.

Meeting in its closing session at a two-day conference in Memphis, the council unanimously approved a recommendation urging that cotton acreage be substituted for that now planted or to be planted in soybeans and peanuts in areas where those crops would yield less oil and protein than cotton.

Military Analyst To Speak At Knife And Fork Dinner Tonight

Major Thom A. B. Ditton, military analyst and flying reporter, will speak before the Lubbock Knife and Fork club members in their January dinner meeting at Lubbock hotel tonight at 7:30 o'clock. His subject will be: "What Our A. E. F. Is Doing In Europe."

First hand, uncensored information on what America's military forces are doing in joint action with their allies from bases in the British Isles will be discussed by Major Ditton in his talk. He was just returned to the United States from Britain with a vivid recollection of his participation in the historic raid on Dieppe, France.

Through his eye witness observance of the invasion test at Dieppe, this lecturer-reporter, has obtained a clear picture of the actual preparations of the "second front" in Europe.

Major Ditton has seen the Americans and British coordinate their three military arms—the army, navy and air force—into a tough fighting machine. As a veteran of the first world war and army expeditions to China, India, and Africa he has had much experience to back up his judgment. He saw the Commandos and Rangers units in training and in action, and he has talked with the participants in some of the most daring raids across the channel.

Reservists Warned To Stay In College

Students in Naval reserve classes V-1 and V-7 and Army reservists who are scheduled to receive deferments to continue their studies were advised by Dr. Harry L. Kent, administrative assistant at Texas Technological college, to re-register for the spring semester, beginning Feb. 1.

Following announcement of plans for immediate call of army reservists not in specialized and technical fields, Dr. Kent said "All college students enlisted in the Army and Navy reserve corps must re-register in college, and remain in college until called to service, or it will be necessary that they be reported as not attending college in which event they will be subject to immediate service."

Censorship Relaxed On News From Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 27. (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower relaxed censorship of political news from north Africa today.

It was stated officially that heavy political censorship had been needed to date in order that negotiations between the Fighting French leader, General Charles De Gaulle, and the French commander in north Africa, General Henri Honore Giraud, not be disrupted before they were started.

The new announcement laid down this censorship policy:

Deletions will be made in articles which (1) violate military security; (2) tend to promote disunity between British and American forces; (3) over-emphasize political persecution of those who claim to be friends of the Allies, and (4) are inflamatorily inaccurate.

The new policy does not change censorship of purely military articles in any way.

Area Committee On Foods Named

Announcement was made here Wednesday of appointment of a Lubbock area committee to cooperate in a nationwide effort to guard againt localized food shortages.

Members are F. J. Riordan, chairman; Alex McDonald, vice chairman, and Olen Stewart, C. C. Files, Joe S. McIlhaney, T. F. Chambless, W. H. Moore, Roy Furr, R. D. Erwin, Raymond Burford and Walker Stanton.

McDonald also will serve as the area representative on a state committee.

To Guard Against Shortages

Appointment of the committee followed a conference at which Dan L. Boyd of Fort Worth explained the steps being taken under the direction of Claud Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture and National Food Director, to guard against food shortages that may arise from improper distribution.

The system, taken as a whole, will consist of an over-all national group, state group, regional groups of which there are three in Texas with headquarters in Abilene, Dallas and Houston, and many area committees like that appointed in Lubbock.

Through this organization, according to the announced expectation, safeguard will be provided against the prolonged local shortages of any foods of which there may be surpluses in other areas. Assurances have been given, it was reported, that the organization as a whole will be given wide latitude so that most problems resulting from defective distribution can be corrected promptly.

Lt. Marshall Formby Is Visitor In Area

Here for a brief visit Wednesday was Lt. Marshall Formby, state senator representing Lubbock and 23 other counties comprising the 30th senatorial district, who is on furlough from his duties in the Engineers Corps of the U. S. Army.

Enroute to Plainview, where he owns a newspaper, Lieutenant Formby said he expected to be in this section only "a day or two." He is on his way to Camp Polk, near Alexandria, La., where he will report from Fort Belvoir, Va., where he recently has been serving.

Kept from his duties in the legislature because of his Army service, Lt. Formby said that his office is open with a secretary, Miss Fay Davis, of Jayton, in charge. He urged constituents to write Miss Davis for information and aid whenever needed and said that two old friends, Pat Bullock, Snyder, and T. C. Chadick, of Quitman, are looking after his Austin affairs. Both are members of the Senate.

Lubbock and nine other counties of the 30th senatorial district currently are without representation at Austin since, in addition to Lieutenant Formby, Representatives Hop Halsey, Lubbock, and Paul Eubank, Matador, also are in the armed services.

Country "Without President" During FDR's African Trip

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (U.P.)—There was no "acting president" while President Roosevelt was in Africa.

The constitution provides only that the powers and duties of the presidency shall devolve on the vice president in case of removal, death, resignation or the inability of the president to perform his duties and powers. Absence from the country never has been held legally to constitute an "inability" so there was no necessity for delegation of powers to vice President Henry A. Wallace.

President Woodrow Wilson went to Europe after the last war. He, like Mr. Roosevelt, did not delegate his powers to an "acting president" and the discussions between constitutional lawyers of the time failed to reach a positive state.

Officials said that any documents signed by Mr. Roosevelt during his absence would be just as binding and legal as though signed right in the White House.

Electricity Ample, Says Gov. Stevenson

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (U.P.)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today contradicted statements of federal officials that Texas does not have surplus electrical power for war industrial plants.

Displaying a scale model the governor said, "there is not a section of Texas where the electricity supply does not exceed the demand."

The model showed power supply, demand, consumption, new generating units under construction and power transmission lines as of Jan. 1, the governor said. He had the survey made after federal officials had told the Texas governor that no more war plants could be built in Texas because the state did not have sufficient electrical power.

Canners Protest Price Ceiling

(By The Associated Press)

McALLEN, Jan. 27.—Protests from Texas citrus fruit juice canners poured toward the Office of Price administration today against OPA ceiling price announcements ond juice fruit.

Chambers of commerce at Mission and Harlingen joined in the protest.

Canners in the valley said the OPA price schedule set up a differential in ceilings which grants Florida processors the equivalent of a flat 10-cent price hike over what Texas canners may charge for their product. On the basis of a 6,000,000-case pack this season, the valley would be penalized by $600,000.

Loss Expected

In addition to the price differential under the OPA program, Texas canners are paying $22.50 per ton for fruit delivered to their plants, or $20 per ton when they hire their own crews to pick the fruit. Florida canners are paying $18.80 per ton for fruit used for the same purpose.

"It makes me boil," was the way Lewis H. Moore, prominent McAllen canner and one of the first to send protest telegrams, described the new price ceiling regulation. "I don't see it."

Elmer W. Linnard of McAllen, manager of the McAllen Citrus Assn., one of about a score of cooperative citrus associations in the valley which can their fruit juice through the Rio Grande Valley Citrus exchange at Weslaco, estimated that such cooperative units would stand to lose $125,000 this season alone because of the 10-cent differential.

STALIN RECEIVES ENVOYS

Tickets To Benefit Balls Reach 1,000

C. I. Wall, ticket chairman, announced Wednesday that more than 1,000 tickets had been sold to the balls here Saturday night for benefit of crippled children in the Lubbock area.

Purchasers, he added, have included a number of people from out-of-town who will be in Lubbock for various reasons Saturday and who plan to delay their return home until after the balls.

Most of the tickets distributed, he reported, have been issued to members of civic luncheon clubs which already have held their weekly meetings. All such clubs in Lubbock and Slaton are following their annual custom of taking tickets in the ration of about five tickets per member. Those clubs, it was explained, are the joint sponsors of Lubbock Crippled Children's council of which George P. Kuykendall is president.

Chairman Wall also announced that tickets have been placed on downtown sale at the cigar counters of Hilton and Lubbock hotels. Those wanting tickets and unable to obtain them from members of civic clubs or from the downtown places of sale were invited to call the ticket chairman at West Texas Gas company, telephone 6321.

The price of tickets is 50 cents, including tax, which will admit the holder to any, or all three, of the balls which will be in progress simultaneously in the main ballrooms of Hilton and Lubbock hotels and at the Cotton club on Slaton highway. South Plains Army Flying school dance orchestra will play for the ball in Lubbock hotel, which will be especially for soldiers. Ross Edwards' orchestra will play at the Hilton and Jack York's at the Cotton club.

Sponsors emphasized that every cent of net proceeds will be expended through the Crippled Children's council for the benefit of under-privileged South Plains children in need of medical attention.
