BRITISH BUY LAND CONTROL ALONG PANAMA

Borah Asks Investigation Of Purchase on Sides Of Canal

U. S. SATISFIED

Coolidge Understands Purchase Does Not Interfere With Waterway

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Aroused by reports that British interests have obtained concessions on vast tracts of public lands in Panama on both sides of the Canal Zone, Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, introduced a resolution today calling on the state and war departments for all available information on the subject.

Immediate consideration of the resolution was requested by Senator Borah but on objection by the republican leader, Senator Curtis, Kansas, the measure went over until tomorrow when action again will be sought.

That this government already has investigated the concessions was made clear later in the day at the White House where President Coolidge was said to understand that they were surface and subsoil concessions to a British corporation and without objectionable features. The president assumed, however, that the government departments involved would continue their inquiries to make sure that the contracts were satisfactory so far as the interests of this country are concerned.

Senator Borah acted on the basis of information furnished to him by Richard C. Marsh, of Brockport, N. Y., who at one time was in charge of the American legation at Panama City. His understanding is that the concessions were obtained for the purpose of producing rubber and he has presented his data to a number of senators as well as to the war and commerce departments.

'Windstorm' Rocks Senate

HUMOR STARTS BUT FEROCITY OVERTAKES IT

Dawes Raps for Order, But Failing Sits In Rapt Attention

MARIA IS SERIOUS

Not Deuces, But Aces Wild, Jim Reed of Missouri Declares

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Starting off in humorous vein, the senate wound up late today a lengthy debate on its rules with an intensity and ferocity seldom shown in that chamber. The leaders of the discussion, at odds on the issue were the democratic leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and Senator Underwood of Alabama, who for years headed the democrats in both the house and senate.

Senator Curtis, the republican leader, came in for a share of the attack and Vice-President Dawes, who was presiding, was assailed as an advocate of rules that would silence the voice of the people.

A number of senators joined in the discussion and the day ended with the question still unsettled and several members clamoring for recognition so they might express their views.

The fuse was set off when Senator Underwood called up his resolution to limit debate on revenue and appropriation. He compared filibustering to "a little game called draw poker," and the senate immediately seized upon this for fun-making. For some time the chamber was swept with roars of laughter at the jibes and thrusts.

Ignorant of Poker

Several professed ignorance of poker and asked the Alabama senator to explain it. He replied that the game had been so changed that "with deuces running wild you have so many aces in your hand you do not know what you are playing."

"It seems to me that we have a demonstration here, not of deuces running wild, Senator Underwood declared he favored playing the game according to Hoyle and that, he added is what his resolution provided for the senate.

As the debate went along hilarious ly the vice-president rapped vigorously for order in an effort to get the senate to consider seriously the Underwood proposal which he favors. When he did get order he became ab-

Communists Bother Polish President

WARSAW, June 4.—(AP)—Communist demonstrations today marked the inauguration of Ignatz Mosciciki as president of Poland. Tonight the police arrested a number of communist leaders. They also seized two communist printing plants and several tons of seditious literature.

Mosciciki was until a few days ago a comparatively obscure professor in Lemberg univesity.

The only untoward incident of the inauguration itself was a demonstration by communists, which came immediately after President Mosciciki had taken the oath of office before the national assembly which elected him president on Tuesday, after Marshal Pilsudski had declined the office the previous day.

Shouts of "we want the political prisoners released," and "Give us work for the unemployed" were heard. The acting president, M. Rataj tried to silence the communists, without avail, when the assembly, with vigorous cries of "long live Poland," "Long live the president," drowned them out.

The June 4 figure is nearly twice as high as the amount of permits issued to that date in 1925, and is approximately $820,000 within the total for the entire year of 1925. ## MISS BRIDGES SLAIN AS MAN FEARS THIEVES

Dies Instantly When .32 Calibre Bullet Hits Her In Heart

AT HAWLEY HOME

Leon Wallace, Clerk For Grocer, Held After Tragic Affair

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIDAY, June 4.—Lillian Marie Bridges, 17, was shot and instantly killed at 10 o'clock Friday night when she was mistaken for an intruder at the home of L. N. Hawley, Holliday grocer. Leon Wallace, a clerk in the Hawley store and who lives with his employer, is being held in connection with the affair, although no charges have been made against him.

Hawley and Wallace had closed their place of business shortly before 10 o'clock and went straight home, they said. The Hawley car was gone and the house was in darkness, leading them to believe the place was entirely deserted. Inside, they declared, they found doors ajar and some indications which led them to believe the home might have been tampered with. They said they were uneasy, fearful of robbery, and that accordingly Wallace procured a .32 calibre gun kept in the residence. He started for the back yard to investigate.

With Two Companions

A short time prior to the arrival of Hawley and Wallace, it developed, Miss Bridges had gone to the Hawley home in company with Miss Mildred and Miss Katherine Hawley, daughters of the grocer. The three were in the back yard when the two men reached the place, and as Wallace stepped out on the back porch they turned a small flashlight on him.

Wallace asserted he was frightened and that he was unable to see the girls and that before they could make a move he fired one shot at the light. The bullet struck Miss Bridges squarely in the heart. She was dead when the two girl companions picked her up.

Conducts Inquiry

Justice of the Peace Holloway was called and conducted a preliminary investigation of the tragedy. He stated late tonight that further inquiries would be made Saturday and that in the meantime no action would be taken against Wallace. The youth, who is about 20 years of age, was completely unnerved by the tragedy.

Miss Bridges was the daughter of A. P. Bridges, publisher of the Holliday News. She had lived here about two months and was exceedingly popular with the younger set. She was 17 years and 11 months of age.

Her father, who is in ill health, was prostrated with grief over the accident.

SYNOPSIS

(Names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

John Parrish and Audrey, his rich young wife, have taken Marcie Allen into their household. Marcie, beautiful, lively, believing herself to be an advanced woman, has been put out of her own home because of her free ideas. She kisses Parrish, and he does not tell his wife.

Audrey has irritated him by frequent mention of the fact that it is she who possesses the money in their household. In exasperation, he throws away an emerald pin she has given him. Marcie tells him she has found the pin, has sold it, and at the end of the last chapter tells him she bets he'll not tell Audrey of her theft.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER X

Parrish leaned forward, the finger tips of his two hands touching.

"You are quite right," he said. "I shall not tell Audrey."

The girl smiled delightedly. "I knew you wouldn't, you darling!"

"But," said Parrish, "I want you to go upstairs, and get the money they paid you for that emerald, and give it to me."

Her eyes were wide.

"Why you mean thing!"

"Better get it now," he insisted, good humoredly, "Get the whole twenty-eight hundred dollars."

"I won't do any such—" She stopped, struck with a sudden thought. "How do you know how much I got?"

Parrish leaned back in the chair, crossed his legs and laughed.

"You little fool," said he, "don't you suppose the jeweler knew whose emerald that was? They called me up as soon as you went in there. I wanted to see what you would do, and I told them to go through with the deal—I'd take the pin off their hands. Look!"

He dipped into his pocket, drew forth a tissue paper package, and opened it. On his palm lay the emerald pin.

Marcie stared at it, and then at him, crestfallen.

"I think you're horrid," she said, slowly.

Her head drooped, and reaching from her low stool, she traced a pattern on the rug with her forefinger. Parrish watched her with a half-smile.

Finally she looked up. "I won't give you the money," she said.

Parrish's smile was a little broader.

"Yes, you will give it to me. If you don't you know—"

"Well, what?" she asked, sharply.

"You sold a pin that didn't belong to you, and got money for it. The men at the jeweler's can testify to that. And what happens to little girls who steal pins?"

Marcie leaped to her feet. "You mean you'd have me arrested?"

Parrish nodded. "Unless, of course, you do as I tell you and bring down that money."

Marcie's mouth was drawn into a scarlet circle, expressing horror. "And put me in jail?"

Parrish nodded again. The girl put her hand on his arm.

"What did you let me sell the pin for? Why did you let me get away with it? Why aren't you telling Audrey about it?" Her voice had mounted higher and higher with each sentence. "I know—I know," she cried. "You did it because you liked me!"

She threw her arms around his neck and, before his resisting arms could shove her away, she had kissed him on the lips.

There was a moment's struggle before he could get to his feet and retreat behind the chair.

"That's the most illogical thing I ever heard of in my life," he sputtered. "Why on earth—"

She managed to reach him, and place her hand over his mouth.

"Sh-h!" she said. "Audrey will hear us. And this is our secret, isn't it?"

"You go and sit in that chair," he commanded.

Smiling, she backed away, until she reached the door. Then she blew him a kiss, and turning, ran up the stairs.

It was only a moment until she returned, to find him standing in the same place, one hand resting on the back of the chair, the other rubbing his head in a gesture of complete puzzlement.

"Here," she said.

She extended her hand, and offered him a compact heap of yellow-backed bills.

"There it all is, except what I spent for my shoes and things," she said. "You take the rest out of the check you got for my stock, won't you?"

He was looking at the money, without making any move to touch it.

"Take it," she said. "Take it, honey boy!"

He snatched the bills, and hurriedly stuffed them in his pocket.

"Don't call me 'honey boy,'" he growled. "And how you can make out that I've given you any token of affection, I can't see."

She rested one knee on the seat of the chair, and smiled into his glowering eyes.

"Mamma knows," she said, her dimples deepening. "It's a woman's instinct. You'd never have put me in jail at all!"

Marcie threw her arms around his neck and, before his resisting arms could shove her away, she had kissed him on the lips.

"Indeed, I would," he insisted. "I was merely trying to test your moral character. If you hadn't given back the money, I would have taken steps at once."

Her voice was tender as she contradicted him. "You wouldn't have done any such thing. And you wouldn't have tested my moral character if you hadn't been interested in me! Are you going to tell Audrey?"

"Yes!" he shouted, driven to bay. Then his voice fell. "Well, I suppose not. I really should, though."

"Honest, old nice thing!" she cooed. "Couldn't tell a lie even when he was mad!"

She gave a quick pat to his hand, where it lay on the back of the chair, and turned toward the door.

"Audrey!" she cried, in a clear, penetrating cadence.

Parrish started. "Look here," he said, quickly, "you aren't—"

She shot a mischievious glance at him as she called again. "Audrey!"

"Yes?" came Audrey's voice from the stair.

In a moment Marcies hostess appeared in the doorway. Parrish stood frozen behind his chair, staring at the little dark girl who was seising Audrey's hands.

"Your husband has just done the dearest thing," she said. "He has offered to take care of all my money. Show her the money I gave you, John."

His face was brick red as he dug into his pocket and produced the packet of bills. He held it out stiffly for Audrey to observe.

"It's a wise move," approved Audrey. "You'd just waste it all."

Parrish shoved the money back into his pocket. Then, turning his back, he went to the window and stared toward the street. He was drumming upon the pane as the girls went out on the porch, and settled themselves in the swing.

The long June day had ended when he and Marcie began their tete-a-tete in the drawing room. The street lamps now cast mottled shadows upon the wide lawn, through the vines that grew over the fence. Young couples moved slowly along the quiet street, arms about one another, and the sound of their murmuring voices reached the house.

"Aren't lovers nice?" said Audrey, settling herself comfortably.

"They're fun to watch," said Marcie, "but I don't think they have such an awfully nice time, really."

"Why not?"

"Oh, they're always getting jealous of each other, or misunderstanding something the other said, or being late to a date and getting into an awful row. Or else she flirts with some other fellow, and nearly loses her sweet daddy, and has to vamp him all over again. I think being in love is a lot of trouble. I always found it so."

Audrey was amused. "How often have you been in love?"

Marcie spread her hands apart expressively. "I've ALWAYS been in love. Weren't you, before you were married?"

"Well—I suppose so." Audrey gave a quiet laugh. "I even asked a man to marry me. Nona and I proposed about the same time."

The drumming on the window, where Parrish was standing had stopped.

"Does your husband know about it?" Marcie inquired.

"Yes—he knows all about it. But it wasn't he that I proposed to."

Marcie was silent a moment, and then raised her voice a trifle—enough for it carry to where Parrish stood.

"I think I'm in love again," she said. "Would you love a man that was cross to you?"

The drumming on the window started again. Audrey only smiled, and did not answer.

When they retired, Marcie went singing to her own room, at the end of the upper hall. Parrish followed his wife into her dressing room.

She dropped her dress to the floor, picked it up, placed it on a hanger, and drew forth a wadded silk robe.

"I wish I hadn't let my personal maid go, when we were married," she said. "I have such a time fixing my hair, and keeping my clothes in order."

"Better get another maid then," he advised, "But Audrey."

She turned, at the bathroom door, inquiringly.

"Audrey," he said, "I wish you'd send Marcie Allen some place else to live."

Law Doesn't Allow Officers of State To Hold US Posts

AUSTIN, June 4.—(AP)—State, county and municipal officers of Texas are prohibited by constitutional inhibitions from becoming federal prohibition officers, H. S. White, prohibition administrator in Texas, at Fort Worth was informed by Assistant Attorney General L. C. Sutton today.

Mr. White asked the attorney general for a ruling as a result of the order of President Coolidge authorizing peace officers in states here there were no constitutional or statutory inhibitions.

Mr. Sutton cited two constitutional inhibitions in Texas, section 14 and 40, in article 166, which prevent Texas officials from holding federal officers.

Bandits Fail in Effort to Seize $6,000 In Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., June 4.—(AP)—A paymaster was shot to death and a guard wounded today by the three men who made an unsuccessful attempt to obtain $6,000 from a pay car of the Public Service Railway company at Central avenue and Fourteenth street.

Theodore Conway, the paymaster, was shot through the heart and Hugo Schwernitz, a guard, received a bullet in his right arm.

RAILROADS SUE ON CONSPIRACY

Charge Insurance Man With Attempt to Hurt Business

DALLAS, June 4.—(AP)—Existence of conspiracy to boycott the Texas and Pacific, the International and Great Northern, the Missouri Pacific, and the Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northwestern railroads at an aggregate annual cost to them of $2,000,000 is charged in a $5,000 damage suit filed here Friday.

The suit is brought by John M. Dawson, insurance agent, against W. R. Zanes, Seth Tate, F. A. Nichols, F. M. Gillette and G. M. Gillette, whose alleged shipping boycott caused the railroads mentioned to cancel approximately $2,000,000 cotton insurance policies he had written, Dawson charged.

The insurance was to be in force until August 31, 1926, but was cancelled May 31 last, Dawson alleged.

The petition charges that the defendants would boycott all of the said roads and would direct all cotton, freight and other produce over the M. K. T. and Cotton Belt railroads until such time as the said T. and P. L. and G. N. and other railroads would cause insurance to be written by the said W. R. Zanes.

Zanes is head of a local insurance firm, while the other defendants are attaches of Dallas wholesale and warehouse concerns.

MOTHER AGAINST SON

Governor Ross' Boy Wants Park Boundaries Extended

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—(AP)—George Ross, 22-year-old University of Wyoming senior and recipient of a Rhodes scholarship, is campaigning against his mother, the first woman governor. He favors the extension of the boundaries of the Yellowstone National park; Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross opposes the extension.

Although his mother has declared her view that the extension "would not be advantageous to Wyoming," George Ross at the state convention of the Izaak Walton league proposed and advocated a resolution favoring the extension of the park's boundaries.

RECOVER BODY.

Montana Cave-in Victim Is Brought to Surface.

BUTTE, Mont., June 4.—(AP)—The body of Harry Leppalla, 19, the last of three victims caught in a cave-in on the 1900-foot level of the West Colusa mine Tuesday, was brought to the surface late last night.

The bodies of J. Stuart Henderson, shift boss, and Colorado School of Mines graduates, and Joseph Langner were found yesterday by miners after a feverish search of 51 hours through the debris-littered mine level.

Abilene Section Hit by Hard Rain

ABILENE, June 4.—(AP)—Thousands of acres of cotton, grain and foodstuffs were destroyed and much damage was done to farm property by rain, wind and hail which swept across the southwestern part of Taylor county Thursday evening and night.

Telephone lines, oil derricks and several barns were blown down in the territory visited, reports Friday said. All crops were destroyed over an area of more than 15 square miles.

Rain measuringly nearly one-half fell here, while at Lawn, 25 miles south of Abilene, six inches were recorded. Clyde, 20 miles to the east, reported 1.25 inches.

Man and Children Found Dead in Car

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 4.—(AP)—The bodies of W. A. Barnes, 38, and his two children, Lois, 8, and John, 6, were found today in a closed automobile at Ellsworth, Ohio, 15 miles south of here, under circumstances which led authorities to believe the tragedy was a double murder and suicide.

School boys found the car behind the central school at Ellsworth with the engine running. Investigation showed that an inner tube had been cut, one end tied over the exhaust pipe of the little coupe and the other end placed inside the car. Barnes' wife deserted him and their three children two years ago. A third child lived with Barnes' parents at Newcastle, Pa.

Coroner M. E. Hays found that death of the three was due to monoxide poisoning. His formal verdict has not yet been made known.

Bootlegger War Hits San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, June 4.—(AP)—The first "bootlegging war" of any consequence in San Antonio was under investigation by detectives and prohibition agents Friday, after the serious wounding of two men in a fight on West Salinas street.

Beer patronage of numerous cold drink stands on the "west side" is said to have caused the row between the two factions.

Five men engaged in an encounter in which knives, rocks and fists figured. One representative of each side was seriously hurt before police arrived and ran the entire quintet from under their headpieces, which were taken to police headquarters. The injured men and a third combatant were arrested a few minutes later, near the scene of the fight.

Acting on information given by one of the men arrested, detectives and a prohibition agent went to the house of one of the men who was wounded and found 66 bottles of beer. Prohibition agents said the fight probably was between two beer making gangs.

LEEDS, Eng.—Before drowning himself, Charles Beaumont telephoned the police where his body might be found.

KNETSCH FLAYS G.O.P. OPPONENT

Harry Wurzbach Accused Of Omitting Coolidge Name In Speeches

BOERNE, Texas, June 4.—(AP)—Support of the policies of President Coolidge, a larger and better federal building for San Antonio and federal highways from San Antonio to Corpus Christi, Rockport and Aransas Pass were promised by Fred E. Knetsch of Seguin, candidate for the republican nomination for congress at his address here Thursday night.

San Antonio is the center of more federal activity than any other city in Texas and the present federal building has been for years inadequate, he declared.

A federal highway from San Antonio to Rockport, Aransas Pass and Corpus Christi would serve all the cities concerned and vast territory in between, he said, and if elected he promised to work toward that end.

Knetsch said that he worked with the republican organization and attempted to build up the party in Texas where it was able to compete with the other major party.

He favored the revision downward of railway rates on farm products. The rates are now discriminatory against the farmer, he said.

Attacks Wurzbach.

The speaker declared his opponent, Harry M. Wurzbach, had not mentioned the name of President Coolidge during his speech at San Antonio last week.

He also attacked Wurzbach on the farm relief bill and said the congressman from the 14th district was among the 47 who did not record their votes on the measure.

Knetsch declared he was in favor of light wines and beer, but that as long as the present prohibition law is in the books he was in favor of enforcing it. He pledged himself, if elected, to support a bill placing the enforcement of the Volstead act in the hands of the department of justice where enforcement of all other laws is placed.

He favored the location of a federal reserve bank branch in San Antonio and declared with proper efforts one would have been located here long ago. The present tariff laws were endorsed, but the speaker said he would broaden them to place a high duty on cattle, alive as well as slain. He favored a strict enforcement of the present immigration lays and strenghtening them.

Engineer Faces Prosecution For Blowing Whistle

AUSTIN, June 4.—(AP)—Some engineer operating an engine into Austin is going to get into the corporation court if Harry Nolen decides to enforce an ancient city ordinance against blowing railroad engine whistles within the limits.

Commissioner Harry L. Haynes brought the matter up for discussion before the city council declaring that the loud shrill tooting of railroad engine whistles kept half the town awake at nights. An old ordinance prohibits the practice, and for Mr. Haynes it was but a short jump to the good old days when the train crept in tooting air whistles every hundred yards.

Fort Worth Firm Buys Arizona Mines

FORT WORTH, June 4.—(AP)—Control of the Arizona Hillside Development company, which owns the Copper King Mining properties in the Eureka district of Yavapai county, Ariz., today passed to Chester R. Bunker, of Fort Worth, Texas, as a result of a deal just completed in Salt Lake City, Utah. The offices will be brought here.

Under the terms of the transaction 500,000 shares of the 982,000 shares of stock outstanding were acquired by the Bunker interests, together with an option of the treasury stock.

Zinc ore from the upper levels is now being worked, the Sulphides being shipped to the Amarillo smelter and the carbonates to a paint works at Coffeyville, Kan. A good showing of copper has been encountered at the 600-foot level, it is announced.

Mining development in Arizona, New Mexico, west Texas and northern Mexico is planned by the World Development company being organized by Bunker, it was stated here today.

Youthful Bandit Is Given Ten Years

SAN ANTONIO, June 4.—(AP)—Jim Hapshire, the first of San Antonio's four "boy bandits" to stand trial, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary when he pleaded guilty Friday in the 37th district court to five charges of burglary and theft over $50.

He was charged in 13 cases but the other eight were dismissed upon agreement with District Attorney Chambers because of the defendant's youth. He is 18.

The defendant was one of four youths arrested a few months ago and held responsible for a two week's crime wave in which dozens of garages and filling stations in San Antonio and New Braunfels were burglarized.

Ray Lindsey, 18, another alleged member of the gang, escaped from the Comal county jail in New Braunfels shortly after the quartet of bandits had been apprehended. Later, however, the youth was recaptured in Utah and returned to San Antonio.

DENY REHEARING

Judge Declines to Grant New Trial For Nathan Story

GAINESVILLE, Texas, June 4.—(AP)—Amend motion or a new trial of the murder charge against Nathan A. Story was overruled here Friday by District Judge W. S. Moore, who then passed the 99-year penitentiary sentence assessed by the jury trying Story last week, on a change of venue from Denton county.

Story is charged with killing Fred Crane on the Story farm near Krum, Denton county, in January, 1925.

The defense attorney's Friday noted an appeal to the court of criminal appeals.

BURGLARS CAUGHT.

Duo Charged With Robbery of Jewelry Taken to South Texas.

FORT WORTH, June 4.—(AP)—Two men alleged to have burglarized a jewelry store in Smithville of $3,000 in diamond rings were arrested here Thursday night by city detectives.

They were taken to Bastrop, where warrants were said to be held for them. The burglary took place on the night of May 23.

Oak Cliff Bank Bandits Escape, Officers Think

DALLAS, June 4.—(AP)—The smoothly working quartet of dark-spectacled robbers who made a cash haul of $17,000 from an Oak Cliff bank Wednesday and fled with a 12-minute handicap on police, had not been apprehended Friday as far as reporters could learn.

City detectives as well as police and deputy sheriffs have strict orders to keep their mouths shut concerning what clues are being run down. If a single arrest has been made, officers have not divulged it.

Chief of police Claude Trammel and Detective Chief Charles Gunning say they have no definite clues. Sheriff Schuyler Marshall is keeping secret what his deputies are doing.

It is known that persons in the bank during the robbery have spent considerable time at the city hall going through the rogues' gallery trying to identify as the robbers some of the pictures. No important clue has resulted from this, however, it is said.

Dallas Probing School Punishment

DALLAS, June 4.—(AP)—A minute investigation of the system of corporal punishment in Dallas public schools has been instituted by the board of education following recent criticisms from various quartets of so-called cruel whipping floggings, it was learned Friday from Boude Storey, president.

Whether the board considers abolishing the whipping system permitted under state laws if subsequent investigations justifies such, could not be learned.

Several parents have complained that their children have been cruelly whipped by teachers and in one instance it was argued that the flogging of a high school student was supervised by military cadet officers. This was denied, however.

ASK DAVIDSON TO QUIT RACE

Citizens of Lampasas Desire to Assure Election Of Moody

LAMPASAS, Texas, June 4—(AP) A copy of a petition to Lynch Davidson requesting his withdrawal from the governor's race to assure the victory for Dan Moody was made public here today. The petition is signed by 15 voters who supported Davidson in his 1924 campaign for governor.

Among the signers are Mayor W. D. Francis, city secretary; J. H. Berry, Rev. C. A. Martin, W. B. Doone, superintendent of public schools and other prominent business and professional men of Lampasas.

The letter follows: "We, whose names are subjoined, having been supporters of yours, wish to convey to you respect of your desire to be governor of the state of Texas, and would willingly consider with favor voting for you under different circumstances; but, as matters stand, we think your candidacy is in great danger.

"We assume, you see, as we do, that the overthrow of Fergusonism is of first importance, and we hope you will be able to see that Mr. Moody has the best opportunity to lead in this overthrow, as we certainly do.

"In other words, we believe your withdrawal from the race would secure the overthrow of this Ferguson rule as nothing else could. In fact, you can elect Dan Moody."

SHIP TOMATOES.

East Texas Sends First of 2,000 Car Loads to Market.

JACKSONVILLE, Texas, June 4. (AP)—The first car of green, wrapped tomatoes was shipped out of here Thursday night by buyers who paid farmers six and one-half cents a pound.

The shipment marks the season's opening for this large producing area, with prospects of 2,000 cars in the four or five weeks of the tomato season. Other cars are being loaded now.

A LIFE SAVING RECORD

THE most inspiring news for this industrial age naturally is that which tells of the safety gain against its dangers. All are familiar with the thoughtless sayings of the earlier days of machinery, in the experimental period in which a heavy toll of lives was taken, as if corporations generally were heedless of any considerations of humanity. It is significant that the people themselves, in their use of automobiles, are furnishing the main problem of recklessness today while the principal industrial corporations are vying with one another in the cause of safety. Whether on the road with an automobile or in the mills it stands out that it is the "human element," the forgetfulness of the rules of safety or the recklessness that unnecessarily takes chances, rather than the modern industry employ health and safety experts to guard the lives of its workers, but further seeks to promote carefulness by offering prizes to the divisions making the best showing in that respect.

A most interesting and inspiring report in this line is now at hand from the United States Steel corporation. It is claimed that accident prevention measures in the plants of this corporation in the past 20 years have saved 46,000 men from death or serious injury and 322,000 others from disability, at the same time effecting a large saving in money for all concerned. Those saved from death or serious injury would populate a city almost the size of Wichita Falls. The grand total saved from death or disability would populate a city nearly as large as Cincinnati.

In the past 14 years the report continues the corporation has expended $155,400,000 for safety sanitation and welfare. The distribution was made thus: For relief of injured employes and families of employes killed, $45,000,000; for sanitation, $31,700,000; for playgrounds, schools, clubs, gardens, nurses and other activities, $28,000,000; for accident prevention, $15,700,000; for pensions, $13,000,000; for employes' stock subscription plan, $22,000,000.

Commenting on the report, Arthur Williams, president of the American museum of safety, declares the record the most remarkable accomplishment in accident prevention and health promotion that he has seen in the 15 years of his association with the safety movement. The main significance of the accomplishment of course, is the evidence it furnishes of the extent to which industrial casualties may be prevented. "When such industries as are represented by the United States Steel corporation can show a reduction of 60 percent in fatal and other serious accidents and a reduction of 80 percent in the less serious but disabling accidents," Mr. Williams observes, "there is no longer excuse for the failure of any industry to give the utmost attention to organized accident prevention."

Only in that way can this phase of the industrial age be mastered. Only by the exercise of care can the modern vehicle, the automobile, be controlled. "The human element" must drill itself against recklessness. Civilization must prevent the wasting of human life.

BURIED TREASURE

THAT any farmer who lived before the Civil war could have had $200,000 in gold to bury seems incredible, but the story that such a sum has been dug up in Alabama will result in the brightening of many a rusted spade. In some parts of Long Island and Westchester county the people still begin industriously for the treasure of Captain Kidd every time the story of a discovery like that in Alabama reminds them that the old pirate's store has never been brought to light.

Wherever there exists a legend of hidden money or jewels nobody can rest quietly until he has sought to locate it. Stories of fabulous wealth dug from mines, or of great "killings" made on the stock market or in Florida real estate interest only the daring. Tales of concealed gold give a fillip to the imagination of every human being.

Many of the old legends will recur to dwellers of every state in the Union since the news from Alabama was printed. There will be a thriving trade in mattocks and pickaxes and shovels, and much earth whose fertility was never tested by turning it up with the plow will be disturbed to the depth of many feet, in the hope that the delving tools may strike metal, and in iron-bound chest be dragged into the daylight.

THE FRUIT OF EVIL PASSION

ASA K. BARTLETT, 28-year-old constable of Blue Lake township, Muskegon county, goes to Marquette prison for the remainder of his natural life (unless the parole and pardon system later gets in its pernicious work) because he permitted himself to become the slave of brooding envy, and hatred. His evil passions fermented and produced murder in its most cowardly form.

All people who cherish grudges and wait their time to "get even" for some real or fancied wrong, or because they have been thwarted in some pet ambition do not eventually become assassins. Indeed most men and women, either because they are cautious or because they have a saving quality of mind that corrects their madness, stop short of the act of Cain. But it is biblical teaching, and it is a fact that whoever coddles envious, resentful thoughts, and indulges in revengeful schemes is playing with the germ from which murder is born.

You are planning to "get" somebody because you hate him, even though the injury you contemplate is comparatively trivial, have a mental kinship with Asa K. Bartlett and your guilt differs only in degree.

MAYBE WE AREN'T GROWING BUT—

BUILDING PERMITS in Wichita Falls have passed the $5,000,000 mark for 1926; while at this time in 1925 they were a little over $2,000,000.

These figures are submitted for the consideration of those skeptics who, in the face of physical evidence on every hand that Wichita Falls is growing and prospering, still express doubt when claims are made that the community is rapidly working its way upward into the truly big city class.

The census bureau recently declined to estimate Wichita Falls' population, stating that its growth had apparently been too rapid to permit a hazard with safety. Bank clearings, postal receipts, telephone and meter installations and other barometers by which municipalities expansion may be judged continue their song of constant increase. And now building permits come along with a flying leap past $5,000,000 and a level just below that attained in a whole 12 months last year.

If Wichita Falls isn't growing amazingly, it presents the most remarkable case of wholesale civic deception on record.

SOMETHING TO IMPROVE

NATURAL beauty spots adaptable for park sites occur with such infrequency in this vicinity that it is refreshing to find the few desirable ones made available for such purposes.

In the 140 acres of land near the Diversion lake and which have been donated by Mrs. Griffin as a site for a park this territory has the basis of something that can be made immensely valuable. It is only a question of time until a paved road will lead from Wichita Falls straight to the lake; there is every reason to believe that a state game and fish preserve will be created; and as this area becomes more and more accessible, an inviting recreational spot will be a virtual necessity.

The new acquisition for the state park is a thing that can justly command the attention of those who are interested in development of natural beauty spots in North Texas.

THE CHANCE PASSES

THE point made by American Legion officials here regarding government insurance is well taken.

With July 2 the final date on which war-time insurance may be converted into permanent peace-time policies, it appears that only a very small percent of ex-soldiers entitled to the benefits of the government's insurance program have taker advantage of the offer. Unfamiliarity with the plan probably accounts for this.

After the conversion date has passed, there will be a weeping and wailing on the part of many a veteran who has found his opportunity flown.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains

The Drum ----By Britten Austin

The fly of the ridge-pole tent was up and the officer sitting within at the camp-table, under the hurricane-lamp against which immense and fearsomely humming beetles dashed themselves, had a fantastic nocturnal view of black soldiers in European uniforms crouching, grotesquely illuminated in an extravagance of facial gesture, about the red glow of cooking fires, and beyond them the dark wall of the stockade crenelated against the star-powdered blue of the sky. He was dressed in the neglige of an open-throated shirt above his breeches and boots, but the holster of a heavy service revolver was still strapped to his waist.

Still young and not unhandsome, his face had that character common to those who hold authority in solitary places. The line of the jaw was fashioned into a certain grimness of weight by the habit of swift decisions and dogged endurances, his eyes, veiled for his private thoughts, could be instantly alert. He sat, with a compression of his mouth, motionless, bent for listening, at that table laid with tin plates and knives and forks for two. From out of the dark night where the stars winked in complicity, issuing from that primeval jungle, eternally present to his mind, which was an immense interlacement of gloom about this precarious outpost of invading civilization, came an insistent sonorous drumming that filled the air and beat upon his ears.

It had an eerie and uncanny quality, that incessant throbbing of the drum at once monotonous and rapid, on one single note of hollow, macabre reverberation that no European drum could imitate. It pulsed in the air, booming menacingly as though close at hand, and yet he knew from experience that it was a mile or more distant, that if he were to stalk the source of the sound it would get soft and more vague the nearer he approached, baffling him by ceasing to indicate the direction of its origin in a lulled murmur that would seem to come from all quarters at once—while, all the time, at a distance it was as loudly heard as before.

The acoustics of it was one of those mysteries, real enough some of them, which the savage holds yet from his white conqueror. Often enough had he heard it reverberating through the African jungle, the invocation of the Jujuman to hidden rites of diabolic worship—ineradicable in the negro-soul; carried from the forests of the Congo to reappear as Voodoo beyond the Atlantic—where, in a climax of grotesquely horrible, self-maddened excitement, the white cock, or less innocently a stolen child, is sacrificed with a bedabblement of blood to propitiate the darker powers.

It was full of a weird and primitive suggestion that exasperated the nerves and played upon deeps in the mind. Listening to it, he could believe that story of the West Indian negro regiment where the men, commencing in mere idle amusement to drum in the traditional fashion upon empty biscuit tins, were seized and swept by the frenzy they unwittingly invoked to the massacre of their officers. He could imagine now, in the depths of that jungle, the mass of black figures, illumined by the torches and the fire, swaying and crooning in a trance-like fascination, while the crudely bedevilled witch-doctor danced indefatigably before the crouching negro who thrummed softly with his fingers on the drum-head the note that swelled as its vibrations passed to the distant air. The savage chief undefeated by his last foiled attack on the stockade—there had been a hot half-hour when it was touch and go—was invoking supernatural aid for the next attempt.

Not only to him did that diabolical drumming fill the night with something mysteriously malevolent, permeating it as with awakened evil spirits. The men at the cooking fires—ceasing to laugh and jabber, with gesticulation and happy teeth-flashing grins from ear to ear, over their reminiscences of the great killing they had perpetrated at sundown—had relapsed into an uneasy silence, were evidently listening, even as he was. Who knew what superstitious response was stirring in their primitive souls, savages themselves a few months back, savages still under the European uniform? He had half a mind to break the spell by putting them through their drill, deciated because, at this unwonted hour, it was to acknowledge uneasiness in himself.

A tall man, older than he, but similarly dressed in short, breeches and revolver holster, emerged from the darkness into the lamplight of the tent. The officer looked up.

"Well, doc, what's the bulletin tonight?"

There was a worried crease between the older man's eyebrows as he took the other camp-chair at the table.

"Three more of 'em down," he said curtly. "I hope those brutes haven't been playing juju tricks with the water. I've given it another dose of chloride—but chloride's no use against poison."

The officer frowned also.

"That reduces us to less than 50 per cent. And we can't be relieved for a week at least—there's the message." He passed across a piece of paper. "A runner came in half-an-hour ago."

The doctor read it, his lips tight, his brows corrugated. The overhead lamplight emphasized by its shadows the strength of character manifest in his lean features.

"Doesn't look very cheerful, does it?" he commented, as he passed back the message. "Well, we'll hang out."

"We'll hang out, of course," replied the officer, "so long"—he looked at the doctor—"so long as nothing happens to you or me. Take care of yourself, doc. It isn't only a fighting man's job. I can't tackle this confounded sickness. It beats me. It's not the ordinary kind of thing."

The doctor shook his head.

"No—it isn't, that's a fact. But I think I've got it in hand. Two or three seem better, and no one has died since yesterday. But"—he glanced keenly at his comrade—"you keep yourself fit, too, Bull, my lad. This is distinctly a fighting man's job as well, and that's not my line. You're not looking any too bright tonight."

"It's that confounded drum!" the younger man burst out in exasperation. "It's getting thoroughly on my nerves!" The distant drum still throbbed, uncannily menacing, filling the air with its macabre reverberations.

The doctor nodded.

"I wish to God we could stop it. It's making the men jumpy. They're muttering all sorts of things about Juju spells to each other. That little scrap this evening cheered them up, but the effect is wearing off. They're talking now about that confounded witch-doctor last night and explaining to each other that, of course they couldn't hit him. It was a bit of miracle, at that close range. I hope he doesn't do another little Devil-dance outside the stockade again tonight. It isn't good for black men's nerves—or ours either, for that matter."

"I hope he does come," said Bull grimly. "He'll get the surprise of his life."

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

A Contrite Husband Who Warns All Men Against Swapping Old Wives for New—Shall She Take a Dare and Go to a Party in Boys Clothes?

Dear Mrs. Dix—Five years ago I married the dearest and best girl in the world. She was all that a wife should be, affectionate to me, a tidy little housekeeper, who had a good supper smoking on the table for me when I went home at night, and my slippers toasting by the fire. Well, a strange woman came to our town who said she fell in love with me at sight, and who began running after me and writing love letters to me. I was fool enough to think that I was in love with her, and made my good wife divorce me, and I married her. Then my troubles began. This woman I am married to is lazy and shiftless. We live in a pigsty. I have nothing fit to eat. My clothes are never mended or washed, and she is a virago in temper. And, worst of all, I know now that I never loved anyone but my first wife, and this other was only a passing infatuation. I wish I could warn all men against giving up a good wife for the "other woman."

A SORRY HUSBAND.

ANSWER:

Sometimes the punishment does fit the crime, and no sinner ever gets just exactly what he deserves quite so often as does the man who, without cause, forsakes a good and faithful wife for some woman who has fired his fancy for the moment, or appealed to his baser passions.

All of us know of dozens of cases where a wife with whom her husband could find no fault, a wife who had been tender and devoted to him, who had borne him children, who had made a comfortable home for him, who worked and skimped and saved to help him build up a fortune, was forced by him to give him a divorce in order that he might marry some younger woman, or some woman who had flattered him into believing that she was in love with him, and made him believe that he was in love with her. But not once in a dozen times have we seen these second marriages turn out anything but disastrously for the man.

We have seen how often these men suddenly break in health because the new wives will not bother to take care of them and feed them and make them comfortable as their old wives did. We have seen how often these second marriages mark the end of a man's success in business, and the beginning of his financial downfall, because his conduct has shaken the confidence of business men in his integrity and his judgment, and because the new wife is extravagant, while the old wife was a saver.

We have seen the forlorn spectacle of such men dragged around by their young wives to cabarets and night clubs—the sugar papas—who held down the tables and paid the bills, while their wives danced and flirted with boys of their own age.

And we have known that among the men who trade off old wives for new, there are very, very few who have not regretted their bargains and who would not have given a great deal to be back at their old fireside with their old wives who had proved their faith love for them.

It is a pity that the men who let some flapper persuade them that their wives are too old for them, or have got too fat, and the idiots who let some vamp get in her deadly work upon them don't take a look around at some of their fellowmen who have forsaken their good wives for these adventuresses and see how few of these second marriages have turned out well. It would stop many a one from taking a step that he spends the balance of his life regretting.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have always wanted to wear men's clothes, and a friend has dared me to dress as a boy and go as her escort to a dance to which we were asked. I would do it but the party there are to be several new men upon whom I should like to make a favorable impression, and someone has suggested that it would be impossible if I was dressed as a boy. Please give me your candid opinion on this. RENEE.

Answer:

Well, my candid opinion, Reenee, is that for you to go to the party dressed as a boy would be an insult to your hostess and would disgust the men.

I will agree with you that it is a misfortune to be born of the persuasion and have to wear feminine apparel. Undoubtedly, a man's clothes are more practical, more durable, more comfortable and convenient than a woman's. It must be perfectly heavenly to have pockets all you you into which you can put things, and to be able to get by with two or three suits a season.

But nature having wished your sex upon you, is nothing you can do to change it, and you have to abide by its limitations and make the best of them.

What Do You Know About It?

BANANA SEEDS

Owing to countless centuries of reproducing the banana by taking slips or cuttings, and thus omitting the normal fertilization of the flowers and setting of good seed, the banana has apparently lost the power of producing good seed. In a banana center you may see small brown soft specks; these are the rudiments of seeds. Owing to the lack of the normal reproduction by crossing of the sexes the banana has begun to lose its vegetative vigor and is becoming increasingly a prey to diseases, making banana raising a risky business, and putting up the cost. Many attempts have been made to produce healthy banana seed, but without success. Not long ago a prize of ten thousand dollars was offered for some banana seed from which living plants could be raised, but nobody came forward to claim the iron men.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to Yesterday's Questions:

1. Acids have a sour taste, will turn blue vegetable coloring matter red, form neutral salts with bases or alkalies, and are all compounds of hydrogen.
2. Bases have a bitter taste, will turn red coloring matter of vegetable origin blue, form neutral salts with acids, and are the oxides and hydroxides of metals and alkaline arth substances.
3. Table salt is composed of sodium and chlorine.
4. Aqua-regia is a mixture of sulphuric and nitric acids.
5. Almond skins, bitter-almond and wilting cherry leaves produce prussic acid.
6. Hydrochloric acid is found in the human stomach and is important to digestion.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE
GEMINI

Today's planetary aspects are favorable and remain so until late in the evening, when they become overcast and cloudy. It is not only a good day for the initiation of any new enterprise, or for the prosecution of a difficult task. It is an excellent occasion, in addition for marriage. Those who wed today under such influences as prevail are destined never to regret such a step, as the union will be sanctified by an ever-increasing love and surrounded by happiness and mutual contentment. Travel, if started today, will be free from all danger and productive of the results desired. Anything that savors of risk or speculation should be avoided.

Children born today will, by their appearance and general condition, give much cause for pride and pleasure. These external signs will, however, be somewhat misleading, as they will not possess that degree of strength as their appearances will indicate. Their health will need building up and this can only be done by careful alimentation and clock work habits. Their dispositions will be cheerful, although they will display, not only in childhood, but in later life, a strong tendency to be self-willed and obstinate. Many of their weaknesses will be overlooked, as a result of their winning, persuasive ways, and the wealth of affection that they will bestow on those who are near and dear to them.

If today is your birthday, you possess remarkable self-control, and never allow yourself to be rattled, or even surprised. You meet every emergency with a "sang froid" that is the envy of your friends, and the despair of your enemies. This does not alter the fact that, although you are outwardly cool, your innermost feelings are, at times, very intense. In reality your character is both emotional and supersensitive, but no one would ever guess it from your outward mien, except the one with whom you are mated.

You have excellent vision, and your foresight is "long-range." You, too, are an excellent intuitive judge of character, and, if you rely on your first impressions, you very rarely make a mistake.

Successful people born this date are:

Lyman Spalding, physician.
William Tyler, R. C. clergyman.
Columbus Delano, congressman.
George T. Angell, philanthropist.
Jabez L. M. Curry, soldier and statesman.
Henry Wurts, chemist.

Order Coast Guard To Be More Careful In Boarding Ships

ANACORTES, Wash., June 4.—(AP)—A coroner's jury which investigated the death of Paul Pietrowsky by shots from a coast guard cutter machine gun near here Wednesday, recommended last night that the "coast guard use more judgment in the future in boarding vessels."

The report held the shooting lawful, but said "it is the opinion of the jury that the arrest and search might have been effected without loss of life."

Pietrowsky was shot when he refused to allow coast guardsmen to board his boat and threatened them with a shot gun. There was no liquor aboard the Pietrowsky vessel.

DINNER STORIES

The gardner at a large mansion stopped the butler as he was walking in the garden.

"Mr. Mortimer," he exclaimed, "would you mind pointing out that fellow Darwin to me the next time he comes to dinner?"

The butler was rather puzzled.

"Darwin," he said. "Sure you're right about the name? I can't remember anybody of that name. Darwin?"

"Yes, that's right," said the gardner. "Darwin's the name. I happened to hear the governor say the other day that every time he looked at me his mind went back to Darwin."

Two girls were talking over the wire. Both were discussing what they should wear to the coming party. In the midst of this important conversation a voice interrupted, asking humbly for a number. One of the girls became indignant and scornfully asked:

"What line do you think you are on, anyway?"

"Well," said the man, "I am not sure, but, judging from what I have heard, I should say that I was on the clothesline."

At a town celebration at which the bishop of the diocese and the leading Nonconformist minister of the town were present, the mayor was so delighted with this fusion of forces that he exclaimed:

"What I says, gentlemen, is this: If a man's heart is in the right place, it don't matter what sex he belongs to!"

LEGION URGES WAR INSURANCE

Ex-Service Men Are Not Taking Advantage Of Offers

Ex-service men in this community, at least, are not taking advantage of government insurance offers as they should, in the opinion of R. J. Claypool, post commander of Pat Carrigan post, American Legion.

Mr. Claypool has written the Record News bespeaking some publicity on the matter and urging all those entitled to the government's insurance benefits to get busy between now and July 2 when the conversion clauses in policies will expire.

"As the time for the conversion of war-time insurance grows short," Mr. Claypool writes, "I am fearful that many ex-service men will fail or neglect to take care of their interests. The maximum time for conversion is July 2, only a few weeks off.

"In view of the fact that this insurance is offered by the government at cost and that comparatively few have availed themselves of it, it appears to me that nearly 4,000,000 soldiers either do not care for the insurance or have no knowledge that the same must be attended to before the second day of next month.

"I feel that this insurance is a reward won by service during the world war and that the ex-soldier should at least know that the government is trying to do something for him. All ex-service men and women in good health may renew and convert their term insurance by simply paying one month's premium at war time rate and age, and secure insurance of almost any kind.

"Government insurance policies have a loan value after one year, and the government at this time has loaned over $27,000,000 to its policy holders. A much greater sum has been paid to beneficiaries.

"The legion has all necessary blanks for making application for conversion at its office, 813 1-2 Scott avenue, room 209, or they may be had from the post adjutant, 808 1-2 Ohio avenue."

Overrule Motion

A motion for a new trial for R. W. Rhymes, convicted of car theft in the 89th district court early in May, was overruled by Judge F. A. Martin Friday and sentence of two to two and a half years in the penitentiary passed. Rhymes' attorneys gave notice of appeal.

Sentence was also passed on Ella Mae Benson, negress, convicted of robbery by assault and violence Wednesday and sentenced by a jury of the 89th district court to 14 years in the penitentiary.

Murder Charged

Formal charges of murder were filed Friday by the district attorney's office naming Jim Walker, negro, in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles Hudson, negro trusty at the county jail, about three weeks ago. Hudson was remanded to the county jail without bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Walker was agrested early in the week in Seymour and was brought to Wichita Falls Thursday by E. H. Carmichael of the city police force. Upon questioning he admits the shooting, claiming that it was in self defense.

VALLEY TOUR SET FOR JUNE 9

Brownwood Delegation To Inspect Lake Kemp Wednesday

A large delegation of Brownwood business men and agriculturalists will be in Wichita Falls on June 9, for examination of the Wichita Valley irrigation project, it was announced Friday by J. A. Kemp. Mr. Kemp has a letter from O. Crabtree, secretary of the Brownwood chamber of commerce notifying him that a party would leave overland on the morning of June 8 and would plan to remain all of June 9 in Wichita Falls and the valley.

Brownwood is contemplating an irrigation project of its own, Mr. Kemp states, the lake to be formed by impounding the waters of the Pecan Bayou about ten miles from the city. While bonds have not been voted the campaign to secure the project is well under way, a large section there being regarded as definitely irrigable.

The Brownwood business men, Mr. Kemp states, wish to examine the Wichita project, which they regard as a successful example of its kind, at first hand, before going further with their own plans.

HUMOR STARTS

sorbed in the debate and sat in the chair most of the day with serious mein.

Replying to Senator Underwood, Senator Robins declared that Senator Curtis, taking advantage of his absence from the chamber had obtained unanimous consent for the Alabama senator to speak when the resolution when the resolution was not before the body and there was no chance for vote.

Speak of Archaic Rules

"You speak of archaic rules of the senate and you do not use the ones we have," he asserted. "You lay aside farm relief which senators have been clamoring for and devote hours to a discussion that does not lead anywhere."

Senator Curtis explained that he merely wished to give Senator Underwood an opportunity to express his views and did not think any senator had any objection.

Senator Robinson charged Senator Underwood with bringing "discredit to a brilliant and glorious career by his speech and resolution."

"The senator from Alabama has enjoyed a long and distinguished service in the congress of the United States," he added. "When his service in the senate is approaching an end he challenges the procedure of the body in which he has served so long. He concluded his service by attacking the senate as incompetent and inefficient."

Shaking his finger at Vice-President Dawes, the democratic leader shouted: "Now, let me say to you, sir, sitting there in the chair, with broad business experience, with patriotic purpose and motives, that nothing worse could come to the people of the United States than the condition which the resolution of the senator from Alabama would impose.

Sure, Everybody Knows It

"The senate can and does transact business efficiently. The trouble is not in its failure to act but in its speed without proper deliberation. Instead of putting the whip on the backs of congress we ought to do something to slow it up as we have too much legislation."

Declaring that numerous bills of importance, including Muscle Shoals and farm relief, were being held up, Senator Underwood declared passage of his resolution would give the majority power to control at least a part of his business.

Senator Reed of Missouri, asserted the constitution did not intend for the majority of control. The majority is generally wrong, he said, adding that a majority crucified Christ and drove the Jews into exile. By unlimited debate, he declared the senate was the one bulwark against legislation of coundrels and reformers.

Aged Man Accused In Death of Wife

VAN BUREN, Ark., June 4.—(AP)—Charles Thackery, an aged man, was held in the county jail here today to await grand jury action on a charge of murder as the result of the finding of the body of his wife, Mrs. Fanny Thackery, 60, in a thicket near the Thackery home, at Graphic with a shoe string tied about her throat and the end tied to the limb of a tree.

Death apparently was due to strangulation.

Letters found in Thackery's pockets caused a suicide theory to be discarded and his arrest ordered.

TEXAS CO. BUYS HOLDINGS OF S. W. PETROLEUM

Deal Involving $15,000,000 Handled Through Midland Securities

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)—Control of the Southwestern Petroleum company, involving the acquisition of its producing properties and all other assets, has been obtained by the Texas company, it was announced today. The deal, it is understood, was handled through the Midland Securities company, which purchased the Southwestern company's stock from the estate of George A. Forman of Buffalo.

Amos L. Beaty, chairman of the Texas company, in announcing the acquisition said that "something over $15,000,000" was being paid for the Southwestern Petroleum properties. These included, he explained, production acreage, liberty bonds and other assets.

For some time the Texas company has been following a policy of expansion in the southwest to keep pace with several large mergers by its competitors, including the Standard Oil of New York's purchase of the General Petroleum and Magnolia companies, the Tidewater-Associated Oil combine and the Standard Oil of California-Pacific Oil consolidation.

SPRING RAINS REACH CITY

Cool Weather Spreads Over Territory All Day Friday

June's first rainfall came Friday morning, starting about 10:30 o'clock and continuing until 12:30 in a gentle shower, giving a precipitation of .02 inch during that time. The temperature dropped to 65, and a wind averaging 10 miles per hour but ranging to 15 miles per hour a part of the time brought relief from the temperature of 96 degrees Thursday. At 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, the weather was pleasant, the thermometer registering 74 degrees.

The barometer was high Friday afternoon, reaching 29.43.

Dispatchers on the railways leading into the city reported heavy rains. On the Fort Worth and Denver, an inch and one-half of rain was reported at Childress and a heavy rain over the lower Panhandle. On the Katy to the north, heavy rains in northern Oklahoma were reported, a 2 1-2 inch rain at Gate, Okla., and showers continuing to Elk City.

Harvest will probably be delayed a few days, because of the rain, it was reported, but the showers have been beneficial to cotton and forage crops.

Spirited Bidding On Texas Mohair

BOSTON, June 4.—(AP)—Offerings of 12 months wool in Texas are attracting some attention on the Boston market. At Tulpa earlier in the week several lots were offered.

Bids ranged from 30 to 34 cents, but were refused by the growers. Reports indicate all bids were rejected at San Angelo, where minor offerings were made yesterday. Greater significance is considered by the local trade to be connected with results of offerings there today.

Bomb Is Exploded In U. S. Embassy

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—A report to the state department said a bomb exploded at 8 o'clock this morning in the vestibule of the building in Montevideo, Uruguay, in which the chancellory of the American legion is located, but no one was injured.

The message signed by U. Grant Smith, American minister, said details would be telegraphed later.

Epidemics Take More Than Wars In Last 100 Years

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Epidemics with a toll of 40,000,000 have claimed more lives throughout the world since 1914 than all the wars and civil strife since that year, the second Pan-American Red Cross conference was told by T. B. Kittredge, assistant director general of the league of Red Cross societies.

Of the 62,000,000 lives lost in the world disasters since 1914, Mr. Kittredge said 9,000,000 were lost in war and 6 000 in civil strife.

Eight-five per cent of relief contributions for disaster-stricken areas come from the American continent, Mr. Kittridge said, with 70 per cent of the total coming from the United States.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

A DOMICILE FOR ALL ETERNITY.

One of the surest tests of the excellence of a story is whether or not it speedily reaches the stage. Some stories no doubt originate there—born in the minds of patter comedians or monologists, but the majority I think are built up on a foundation of fact elsewhere and then by adoption go into the theatre.

Here is a sample: I heard it years ago; it was told as an actual occurence. Since then I have heard it at least thrice in the music halls, slightly altered in form but basically the same. The first version, as I recall it, had to do with a couple of darkies in Memphis.

One of them, who posed as bad, had just announced his intention of breaking into a chitterling supper where his presence was not desired. His companion followed him to the door.

"I" he waitin' fur you outside yere," he stated.

"If you ain't gwine in wid me taint no use fur you to be hangin' bout," said the truculent one.

"Oh, yas, der is" said the friend, "I'll wait 'round to carry you uto yo' home aftar dem niggers in der, gits through wukkin' on you."

"Not a chance!" proclaimed the first, negro, singloriously; "aldes w'ich I ain't got no home."

"Ch, dat's allright," murmured his friend softly, "I'm gwine dig you one"

Salesman Is Held For Wife's Death

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., June 4.—(AP)—The death of Mrs. Harry Chamberlain and a daughter, Frances, 4, in a fire which destroyed the family home three weeks ago, has resulted in a murder indictment against Chamberlain, a life insurance salesman.

He was held in jail today without bail after the grand jury had been told that he carried a $3,000 life insurance policy on his wife and smaller policies on the child. The fire marshal's investigators are understood to have found evidence that the fire started from oil-soaked rags or paper.

SPUDDERS WIN CONSECUTIVE SIXTH BEHIND HARLEM JOE, BUNCHING UP ON WHITTAKER

Kiefer Gives Six Safeties, Brainard Caps Explosive Seventh Round With Terrific Homer

BY BLONDY CROSS.

Fred Brainard, the Spudders' tall tactician, remarked upon arrival in Wichita Falls Tuesday morning following the Spudders' around-the-circuit-swing, "Well, we'll take Dallas in four straight now!" They did.

Thursday, after the fourth consecutive sloughing of the erstwhile league toppers, the eminent man confided, "Now we'll take Shreveport in four straight!" Startling? No!

The wanton willow wielders of Gardner's ranch jumped off to a perfect beginnig yesterday, "taking" Shreveport in the first of four straight behind superb slant-work of Harlem Joe Kiefer, the super slinger. The score was 5 to 1.

Harlem Joe, you may recall, joined the Spudders Saturday, stepped out Sunday and whitewashed Bob Tarleton's boys then came back Thursday and got the tail-end of a heated affray long enough to grab the game and at the moment has made it three victories out of three trips to the hill, adding Friday's one to Sunday's and Thursday's two.

But six base hits sprang from Shreveport bats yesterday. Two of these came in the second stanza, scoring the foreigners' run. The remaining four were scattered hither and yon. Joe didn't know what danger was after round 2, simply because there wasn't any. One manouver that bore earmarks of a threat occurred in the fourth when Hoffman led off with a pop single to left, became ambitious and legged it for the keystone. That menace lasted three seconds by the clock, Lambie lining the pill to Turgeon who cut Dutch down on the slide, out a country block.

Gang Up On Bill

The veteran, Bill Whittaker heaved nobby ball after giving up a run in the first. Until there were two men out in the seventh, the situation took on the appalling light of a lengthy extra-inning battle in store. But Turgeon cracked a whistling single at Woehrs and then filched second. This play slashed the 1-1 deadlock, for Tut Jenkins uncorked a loud rift to center that sent Pete scurrying home. Tut took possession of the mid-sack on the to-be-expected throwin-in from the outer regions. Washburn spun one off th end of his bat for two bases to right. Tut tabulated standing up. Then the Skipper came through with a mighty lunge on Buzzer's first offering swishing a snorter into the teeth of an in-coming gale. The clout cleared the left barricade with many yards of margin to spare. Meztler followed with a hit at second. But Benton backed up and pulled down DeFate's high aviation over short. Four runs had been knocked across, making it Wichita Falls' sixth straight victory.

Score in First

A double by Hoffman and Kearn's single manufactured the Sport counter in the second.

Two double plays, one launched by Brainard and the other by Kiefer helped matters along in the making of a slick and snappy encounter. The noble athletes started the game at 4 bells and finished at 5:30.

Andy Woehrs, the demon Sport third sacker, was guilty of several near robberies, the most astounding of which was a charge over to the foul line and ensuing perfect chunk at first to cut Lambie out in the eighth on a hair-raising turfer.

They're at it again this afternoon. Carl Williams has fallen heir to the spinning duties.

Double header tomorrow starts at 2:30 pronto.

Ed Hughes' Column

A goodly percentage of the ring amateurs have dreams of some day shining in the professional ring. The amateur stage is often but a means to wear off stage fright, become accustomed to a lively wallop on the chin and to absorb what knowledge such boisterous experiences will provide. A smaller portion of the contestants are content to compete for the fun of it without any pretentions of professional aspirations. In the final summing up this is generally the wiser one, but there is no gainsaying the fact that fame and fortune in the commercial glove pit beckons strongly to all of them. Particularly those with outstanding ability and promise.

McGovern and Fitzsimmons

It has ever been thus. Some of the greatest fighters the ring ever produced first exhibited their prowess for medals and amateur glory. In this bracket may be found the names of two Queensberry immortals—Robert Fitzsimmons and Terrible Terry McGovern. Many ring critics rate Fitz as the greatest of heavies and McGovern the most formidable of smaller sized ringmen.

Fitzsimmons started as an amateur in Timura, New Zealand, in 1880. Jim Mace, under whom the marvellous Cornishman studied, conducted the tourney that first featured Ruby Robert. The embryo middle-light heavyweight and heavyweight champion of the world whipped four men in his first appearance with the buffers. Fitz's victory won for him the amateur championship of New Zealand. A few years later Bob in defending his honors, accounted for five men in one night, among them being Herbert Slade—the Maori—who afterward took a knockout from John L. Sullivan in the old Madison Square garden. Fitz soon found opposition among the amateurs a tame proposition, and not long after cast his lot with the professionals.

Terry Starts, Too

Terry McGovern's amateur start was very like that of the wonderful Fitzsimmons. Fighting as an amateur at the old Greenwood club in Brooklyn, McGovern created a sensation seldom before recorded in the amateur ranks. Little Terry, a mad bull in a china shop, so to speak, actually equaled the amateur knockout mark established by Fitzsimmons. In a single night Terry's flying fists made five youngsters kiss the canvas. McGovern then working as a shipping clerk in Charlie Mayhood's lumber yard, decide dto turn professional. Mayhood, his boss, cheerfully guided the fistic phenomenon's destinies until Sam Harris was given the reins. Many at the time, while thrilled with Terry's amateur successes, doubted his ability to repeat in the sturdier ranks of the professionals. But Terry vindicated his amateur renown and battered his way to two titles in the most spectacular fashion ever witnessed in the prize ring. He became both bantam and featherweight champion.

There are many others who have paved the way to fistic eminence via the amateur path, to mention a few: Jimmy Britt, Paul Berlenback, Al Reich, Jack Zivic, Sam Berger, Sid Terris, Archie Walker, or Fidel La Barba. They are not quite in the class with Fitz and Terry, however.

American Women Netters Carry On Minus Helen Wills

PARIS, June 4.—(AP)—Deprived of the strong arm of Henel Wills, who was operated on for appendicitis, America's invading team of women tennis players carried on in the international hard court championships today. Two won against spirited opposition, Elizabeth Ryan defeating Mme. Vaussard, 6-4, 6-2, and Mary K. Brown eliminating Mlle. Deponsenil Mlle. Deslandes Dedancet by 6-3, 6-1, and Mlle. Deve by 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

A third American player, Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, was defeated by the young French star, Mme. Renee Mathieu, 2-6, 8-7, 6-3.

Mrs. Jessup partnered by Miss Isabelle Mumford of Boston, also was eliminated in the women's doubles, losing to Mme. Danet and Renee Vlasto, 3-6 6-3, 6-4.

Howard Kinsey of California, scored the only American victory in the men's competition, defeating H. Cattarussa of Argentine, 5-7, 1-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1.

Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraeten, appearing for the first time in the tournament, paired with Baron Von Kehrling to win in straight sets against the Danish-Finnish team, Thalbitzia and Grohs, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Browns Tag Sox

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—(AP)—The Browns stretched four singles into three runs today and shut out the White Sox, 3 to 0. In the fourth, Melillo walked, went to third on Sheely's error and scored on William's sacrifice. In the seventh, McManus singled, went to second in Jacobson's sacrifice and came home on Gerber's single. In the eighth Rice walked, advanced to second on Melillo's sacrifice, went to third when Collins threw out Sisler and scored on Schalk's error. Thus the Browns, who lost sixteen out of nineteen games away from home, won their seventh out of nine contests here. Score:

Dempsey Bemoans Fact Publicity Seekers Give Him Little Peace

The Dempsey championship match mystery is being unveiled, and apparently Dempsey is going to defend the old title if no unsuspected interference develops. Dempsey has been kicked around quite a bit in the past three years between commissions, managers, promoters and other people. He says he's tired of being a football.

The troubles of Jack Dempsey, which seemed to be all over when the referee was completing that 10 count on Luis Angel Firpo, started again when the N. Y. boxing commissioners ordered him to appear and sign to fight Harry Wills. There was a notion around that Dempsey wouldn't do it.

Dempsey startled the commission by walking in and asking for the articles and the fountain pen. After some confusion an agreement was drawn up and Dempsey signed. Then the politicians began figuring what the effect on a coming state election might be. Somebody tipped off the promoters. Nobody put in any bids for the match and it was dropped as quietly as possible. When Dempsey was ordered on the carpet again a couple of years later he replied that he'd signed once and the commission could dig up the old agreement if it wanted to. Dempsey was disciplined for laughing.

The commission wasn't sure whether to hang Dempsey or exile him to New Jersey. Dempsey went to California for the winter and played a joke on Wills by getting Floyd Fitzsimmons of Chicago to bid for a Dempsey-Wills bout "somewhere in the middlewest." Fitz circulated a little and found the middlewest didn't want it. Probably Dempsey knew that all the time. He was stalling to let the Kearns contract run out, having split with Kearns. Dempsey stalled a little more by "negotiating" with Jack Doyle to fight Wills in the Los Angeles coliseum, and then went barnstorming in Florida with a $1,000,000 worth of offers for exhibition "fights" with Farmer Lodge, etc.

Keeps in Training With Exhibition Bouts

Something happened to the Florida boom just then and every body was too busy unscrambling the real estate market to waste time looking at Dempsey. Since that time Jack has been training at a southern town whose activite real estaters are said to have paid him $35,000 for helping to move a boom up that way. Dempsey is now circulating again and is "matched" to meet Farmer Lodge somewhere out west and have another twirl with Martin Burke. Dempsey is a clever bird. Jack Kearns used to make Jack's training pay by charging half a dollar at the gate to see him working the public for five dollars a throw and calling his workouts "exhibition contests." He's getting "ring experience" by boxing before crowds, and ought to be in first class shape by September. From the way Dempsey has been boxing all over the country lately he won't stand to have any real fights under his belt. The only danger is that he may get so much easy money he won't need to fight any more, and then it'll be all off again.

Would Like to Be Left Alone.

With all this, Dempsey says he's leading a dog's life. "I have to watch my step every minute," he says. "There's always somebody waiting for a chance to get a little advertising by bringing some sort of a charge against me, or to sue me on some pretense or other, in hope I'll settle out of court rather than hire a flock of lawyers and fight. I've had some experience with lawyers. They kept me in hock a couple of years after I won the championship, when people thought I was making a lot of money. I'm not afraid to fight anybody in a ring, but I admit I have a yellow streak where lawyers and doctors are concerned. Those birds can pick you so clean they don't leave anything but the bones.

"I like to drive a car. I don't dare to drive a car. If I happened to even touch someone with a fender I'd be sued for my life. Why, I have to keep my eyes open and be ready to sidestep when I'm just walking down the street. If I bumped into anybody I might find myself defending a damage suit. If I drove my own car I'd probably be charged with speeding while I was backing into the garage. Some people seem to like to get their names in the papers by taking any kind of a sock at me. It's the cheapest kind of advertising. I've paid hotel bills that strangers I never say had charged to me because I couldn't afford to refuse and let a story go out that I was beating my hotel bills. That was worked on me often at first. I finally fixed it by giving the hotel clerks a typewritten slip detailing just what bills and whose bills I'd be responsible for, and keeping a carbon copy myself. I've had doctors ask me to let them do some little thing for me, in a friendly way, and then sock me with a thousand dollar charge for fifteen minutes work. I've had guys go up to my rooms when I was out, saying that they were my guests, and walk off with my shirts and ties and shoes and any of my clothes they could wear. I never touch liquor under any circumstances, and never allow it around my place, but if some fellow I've put the gloves on with some time gets into some kind of liquor trouble, I pick up a paper three thousand miles away and read the headlines: "Dempsey's sparring partner, caught bootlegging."

"I'm not getting hard boiled and I still have a lot of faith in my real friends, and I know I have lots of 'em. But if I did get a little hard boiled it wouldn't be any wonder. Sometimes I think the only fellows who have a chance to enjoy life are those guys who go up into the mountains and live in a cave—what do you call 'em?

"Hermits?"

"Sure—hermits. If I disappear sometime you go away back in the mountains and look through the caves. That's where you'll find me."

Helen May Be Out Of Net Competition Remainder of Year

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)—Tennis officials, voicing regret over the illness which has forced Helen Wills out of the hard court championships at Paris, also viewed with concern tonight the possibility that the American champion would not be able to defend her title in the national tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., starting August 16.

It is taken for granted that Miss Wills will not be recovered in time to participate in any further tournaments abroad, including the Wightman cup matches with Great Britain as well as the British championships at Wimbledon, starting the latter part of this month. This is a particularly keen blow to the California girl's admirers, many of whom felt that, following her close match with Mlle Suzanne Lenglen last February, she had an excellent chance of carrying off world honors abroad.

Her place on the Wightman cup team probably will be taken by Miss Elanor Goss of New York, who went abroad as an alternate. Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, former champion, also is abroad now and may be called on, although she was not considered for the American team at her own request. Miss Mary K. Brown is captain of the women's team. The other members are Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup.

Douglas Hurls Eagles To Win Over Lightmen

Electrics Get But Trio Of Bingles, Kollman Two Of These

Fuzzy Douglas, new American Refinery slab artist, made his debut in the Twilight league Friday afternoon by shutting out the Wichita Falls Electric club, 4 to 0. Douglas also showed up well with the bat, slapping two singles in three trips to the plate.

The Electric nine could collect but three scattered bingles off Fuzzy, Eddie Kollman getting two of these. The American team gave him airtight support and he had very little trouble in going the route.

Bill Andree hurled nice ball for the Fote Climbers but the Americans bunched their hits in the third, and in the fifth frame they shoved over three runs. An error let in two of these. Johnnie McMahon stole home cleanly for the third tally.

The Americans took the lead in the third inning when Windham led off with a single to center. Francis walked. Christian attempted to sacrifice, but popped to Stanfield. Maddox hit to the box and all hands were safe when Andree held the ball. Montgomery sent a towering sacrifice fly to center and Windham scored. McMahon rolled out for the third out.

The Electrics had a great chance to score in the fifth, but Douglas held them in check. Norwood walked and stole second. Taylor sacrificed him to third where he died. Stanfield attempted to squeeze him over the plate and bunted to Douglas. Douglas chased Norwood back to third and then threw Stanfield out at first. Andree went out swinging.

The Americans iced the game away in their half of the fifth with three tallies. Christian opened the inning with a walk. Maddox followed with another free pass to first base. Montgomery rolled out third to first and both men advanced a notch. McMahon hit to Kollman, who fumbled the ball and then threw wild to first. Christian and Maddox scored and McMahon stopped at first. Douglas beat out an infield hit. Martindale struck out. McMahon and Douglas each advanced a notch on a double steal. With Medford at the bat McMahon made a break for the plate and scored. Medford struck out a moment later.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)—Heavy week-end realizing sales and sporadic bear selling turned the course of prices irregular in today's stock market after an opening display of strength. Closing quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from fractions to six points, with a smaller number of net losses running as high as 3 1-8 points. Total sales aggregated 1,531,700 shares as compared with 1,645,200 yesterday.

The day's business news was largely favorable. Several favorable earnings reports made their appearance and the F. W. Dodge corporation reported that construction contract volume in New York City last month exceeded $84,000,000, the largest May on record.

Rail shares displayed a relatively firm undertone as the announcement that some of the smaller independent companies had raised prices on certain products for third quarter delivery.

Oil shares turned heavy with some of the selling undoubtedly inspired by the United States senate action in directing the federal trade commission to conduct an investigation of gasoline prices this summer. Pan-American "B" Houston and General Asphalt fell back a point or so and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Chemicals presented several points of strength. Commercial Solvents "B" soared six points to 160 and Allied Chemical crossed 121 for a gain of more than two points. Davison Chemical was active around 40 on the announcement that its fertilizer business was better than it has been at any time in the last five years.

Copper continued to move upward under the leadership of American Smelting which crossed 122 for a gain of nearly three points.

Manati Sugar preferred broke 15 points to a new low at 55 on the omission of a dividend due at this time. Reavings also cropped out in International Combustion, P. R. Sugar, U. S. Rubber, Wright Aeroplane and several others.

Brokers' loans reported by the New York stock exchange showed a shrinkage of over $68,000,000 in May, bringing the total nearly $770,000,000 below the peak figure reached in February.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed considerable irregularity with a break of nearly 16 points around 3.07 cents in French francs, reflecting the big increase in the note circulation of the Bank of France as the outstanding feature. Demand sterling was slightly firmer, at $4.85 3-16. Belgian francs dropped over 10 points to around 3.10 cents. Other changes were narrow and generally unimportant.

Grain

FORT WORTH CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, June 4.—Nominal cash grain closed a fraction higher over Thursday's close quotations on the Fort Worth market Friday. Corn and oats were both down a fraction.

Rumors of a possible famine in Germany forced wheat up a cent, but this gain as later lost by reports of light exports and rains in the spring wheat territory.

There was little inquiry for oats, and with a lessened demand the market closed down.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, June 4.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

Whether better weather is responsible or not, is not clear, but there is a slight improvement in the demand for wools and the attitude of the trade is more hopeful, although prices are not improved any, as yet. An dsome members of the trade still are pessimistic. The export movement is expanding. London opened about as expected and has been fairly steady through the week. The Australian season ended strong at Brisbane Wednesday.

In the west wool moves slowly, but steadily as shorn at prices slightly under the recent high levels, say 1 to 3 cents on at sealed bid sales in Texas has been the average in the grease. Wools offered withdrawn, prices being considered too low by growers.

Repeat orders come forward very slowly from the goods market.

Mohair is rather quiet, but very firm. Wool quotations:

Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months selected $1.10@1.12; fine 8 months 98c@$1.00.

STOCK-A-DAY

International Mercantile Marine is largely a holding company owning practically the entire stock issues of several important marine transportation companies and holding investments in others. The company's sailings cover 56 different services. It controls the American, the Red Star, Atlantic Transport, Panama-Pacific and Leland Lines. The White Star Line, it was announced late in April, had practically been sold to Furness Withy and company of England for $36,460,000.

The International company went into a receivership in 1915 but a plan of adjustment resulted in the discharge of the receivership in 1916. Before the sale of the White Star vessels, the company's tonnage aggregated about 1,150,000 gross registered tons. The concern has terminal arrangements at New York, Antwerp, Liverpool, Southampton, London, Montreal, Boston, Philadelphia, New Orleans and other ports.

Funded debt totals $48,730,810 of which $4,634,339 consists of purchase money obligations maturing from 1926 to 1931. Capital stock outstanding includes $51,725,000 in 6 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par and $40,871,800 in common stock of $100 par. In 1922, 1923 and 1924 the company did not earn fixed charges. Preferred dividend payments were begun in 1917 and maintained up to May 1, 1923. They have not been resumed since and accumulated dividends amounted on Feb. 1, 1926, to 62 per cent. No payments have been made on the common.

As of Jan. 1, 1926, current assets were $35,532,371 and current liabilities $21,768,375.

OKLAHOMANS WED

The marriage ceremony of Miss Ione Pylant and James V. Gray of Marlow, Okla., was performed at noon Friday at the First Methodist church, south, with the pastor, Dr. Walter J. Johnson, officiating.

ECONOMY URGED

Calles Tells Fexico That Curtailments Must be Made

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—(AP)—President Calles in a statement says the permanent commission of congress has notified him that congress will be glad to co-operate in his economy program which calls for the legislative body to reduce its monthly expenditures by 230,000 pesos.

The drastic curtailment in congressional expenditures has caused a political sensation.

Amarillo Ticket Sales Lagging As Convention Nears

The 1927 convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce won't be handed to Wichita Falls on a silver platter, and if this city wants the big session, it must go to Amarillo with blood in its eye and business men on its special train.

Such was the ultimatum served Friday by committee members who, with meagre results to show for their initial ticket selling campaigns, told the business council that this city could not afford to fall down on the Amarillo trip.

Reports and addresses were made by Bob Penick, acting chairman of the campaign committee; J. E. H. Ralley, Harry Gray, J. A. Kemp and others. Mr. Kemp was especially earnest in his plea for a full representation at the convention. He offered to finance the trip of five men aside from himself if the costs proved prohibitive.

Present plans call for the operation of an all-steel Pullman train to leave here at midnight June 21, arrive in Amarillo the following morning and remain there the 22nd and 23rd. The return trip will start at midnight of the 23rd and be back in Wichita Falls the morning of the 24th. The sleepers will be used as hotel accomodations and a dining car will serve all meals. The entire cost for the trip, including meals, berth and transportation will be $38.

Kills Son, Beats Wife, Then Suicides

LANSDALE, Pa., June 4.—(AP)—Robert Norton Hill, 50, sent a special delivery summons by mail to the police early today, then killed his 20-year-old crippled son, beat in the skull of his wife, also a cripple, and committed suicide. He was found in the cellar of his home. His wrists were slashed and he had fired a bullet through his mouth into his brain. A butcher knife and revolver lay beside him on the cellar floor. Beside the son's body, on a chair, lay a bloody hammer with which he had attacked both his victims.

No motive for the acts has been established.

The wife is not expected to recover.

GOING UP.

Two More Stories Added to Fort Worth Medical Arts Building.

FORT WORTH, June 4.—(AP)—Heighth of the new medical arts building being erected by the Jesse Jones interests of Houston will be 18 stories instead of 16, it was announced today.

Demand for space on ten-year lease resulted in authorization of the extension, it was stated.

GENERAL DIES

Retired Officer Stands Taps At Walter Reed General Hospital

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Major General Charles Frederick Humphrey, retired, former quartermaster general of the army, died today at Walter Reed hospital.

Born in New York September 2, 1844, he was awarded a congressional medal for gallantry in action against the Indians in Idaho. He was chief quartermaster of the Santiago, Cuba, expedition during the Spanish-American war.

Mexican Woman To Seek Congress Post

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—(AP)—The first political manifesto ever issued by a woman in a Mexican congressional campaign is being circulated by Senora Fiula Carerello Puerto, candidate for the federal congress from San Luis Potosi. If she is elected she will be Mexico's first congresswoman.

The manifesto appeals to Mexico to follow the example of England and the United States which have given women suffrage and which permit the election of women to high public offices. Her opponents declare the time is not ripe in Mexico for woman suffrage and the holding of office by women.

Allred Queries His Opponents On Question of Klan

AUSTIN, June 4.—James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, candidate for attorney general, declared here that he has been "trying to get the other candidates to come out and stats their attitude on the ku klux klan qustion.s"

So far, he declared, none of the other candidates have answered him.

Mr. Allred declared, "Mr. Pollard's entry will cut into the vote of Judge Brachfield. I believe it will help me."

DECISION SOON

AUSTIN, June 4.—(AP)—Decision of the Texas supreme court on application of Tom Green county for a mandamus to compel Attorney General Dan Moody to approve a $500,000 county-wide bond issue is expected before the court adjourns June 25, for three months.

'Penniless' Man Possesses $19,500

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 4.—(AP)—Two weeks ago an aged man, apparently penniless, was found wandering the streets here, talking in a rambling manner. Sent to a hospital for observation he said his name was Fritz Mall, 70, formerly of St. Paul, Minn. He refused to remove his clothing or reveal the contents of a bulky package sewed in his trousers.

Search of his clothing yesterday revealed $19,505.02 in cash and securities. A son said he would take Mall home.

Body Discovered In Colorado River

AUSTIN, June 4.—(AP)—The body of John W. Budd, printer, was taken from the Colorado river just above the Congress avenue bridge shortly after noon today.

When first seen, the body was floating down the center of the river. The man had apparently been dead for at least two days.

A note found in the man's pocket said, "my home is where I'm working." The note gave as relatives Dr. Joseph Franklin Budd of Tennessee, father; C. E. Budd of Houston, brother; Gladys Louise Budd, and Joseph Clinto Budd, of Beaumont, children and named three aunts, two uncles and a brother.

The note written on a letter head of Itawamba County News of Fulton, Miss., was the means of identification. There was no marks of violence on the body, officials said.

Pardons Write Final Chapter in "Allen Gang" Story

The issuance of pardons by Gov. Byrd of Virginia for Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards rings down the curtain on the tragic drama that began in Hillsville, Carroll county, Virginia, over 14 years ago when the "Allen Gang" resented the conviction of one of their number by shooting Circuit Judge Massie, Sheriff Webb and a woman spectator at the trial. Photos show the courthouse at Hillsville, where the murders occurred; Floyd Allen, wounded in affair, being guarded by deputies; Judge Massie, and a birdseye view of the little foothills town of Hillsville.

HAMLET, N. C., June 4.—(AP)— Four persons perished when fire swept a rooming house here early today. Among the victims was B. B. Baker, manager of the house. The others were men not identified.

HOUSE RESTORED

CAMDEN.— The Walt Whitman house has been restored to the condition in which he left it at his death in 1892 and was the objective of many of his friends on May 31, the 107th anniversary of his birth.

The little two-story frame structure in Fickle street, acquired by the city, contains a number of Whitman's manuscripts and personal belongings, presented or loaned by friends. The massive chair which was his seat by the window during his last years is among the articles.

MOODY TO BEAUMONT

AUSTIN, June 4.—(AP)—Attorney General Dan Moody will speak in Beaumont June 7 and in Houston June 8, it was announced at his headquarters here today. These engagements replace a tentative tour of the Rio Grande valley. He will visit the valley later in the gubernatorial campaign, it was announced.

EAST SHIVERING

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)— Unseasonable cold was reported today throughout the eastern states, in many instances all existing records for June 4 being broken. Frosts were general.

WICHITA ICE COMPANY SOLD

Southern Properties Buy Out Old Wichita Falls Firm

Announcement that the Wichita company, the oldest utility of this kind in the city, has been purchased by Southern Properties, Inc., and that operating headquarters for this chain of ice producing and distributing units would hereafter be maintained in Wichita Falls was made Friday by Ralph J. Irvine, vice-president and general manager of the purchasing corporation.

J. T. GANT

The consideration involved in the deal was not made public but it is understood the sale was an outright one effecting the Wichita Falls plant and its branches at Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Holliday, Archer City, Megargel and Byers.

Mr. Irvine will move to Wichita Falls with his family and assume active supervision of the plant here, he announced. An organization will also be established here for the supervision of all of Southern Properties, Inc., other plants which are operated at Dallas, Houston, Palestine, Dublin, Gatesville, McGregor, Alto, Garland, Plano and Rockwall. Mr. Irvine has served as general manager of the properties for some time.

In the change of ownership, which became effective June 1, the operating personnel of the Wichita Ice company will be unchanged with the exception of the management, J. T. Gant, for the past five years general manager of the company, has retired. He has made no plans for the future, he asserted Friday.

Under Mr. Gant's supervision the plant has been expanded and its business increased many fold until at present it ranks as one of the largest and most successful in Northwest Texas.

Gas Co. to Move

Construction operations are under way in the Brown building at Ninth and Lamar where offices of the Municipal Gas company will be opened Monday.

The gas company, which is vacating its present place in the First National bank building to allow for extensive remodeling operations there, is laying plans to make the move over the week end so that no interruption in service will be necessary.

KRIM IN FEZ

FEZ, French Morocco, June 4.—(AP)— Adb-el-Krim, surrendered Riffian chief, accompanied by his brother and secretary arrived here from taza today.

Land Donated For New Park at Lake

Creation of a public park just below the Diversion lake has been made possible for Wichita Falls and this territory through the donation of 140 acres of land by Mrs. Herbert Griffin of Dundee, it was announced Friday at the chamber of commerce business council meeting. Although no definite plans are now under way, it is understood eventually the property will be converted into one of the most attractive recreational spots in this section.

Steps have already been taken to create a state game and fish preserve at the lake, and in connection with, Commissioner Hubby will be in Wichita Falls June 16 for an inspection trip at the lake.

The land donated by Mrs. Griffin is a heavily wooded tract on the north side of the river, inaccessable now except by fording the stream. A bridge must be constructed and this will be done as soon as the proposed paved highway to the lake is started.
