Dogs returning

WEIMAR, Calif. — Jessie and Ivy, two Newfoundland dogs missing since April and found in Mesquite, Texas, are returning home to happy owners in Californina and a steak dinner. Richard LeClaire received a call Monday from Kelly Leask, who said he arrived for work at Fritz Chemical Co. and found the dogs. Ivy's collar listed a phone number of a veterinarian, who led him to LeClaire and his wife, Mary.

Battle over 'Finn'

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Five trunks stored in an attic where the missing half of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" manuscript was found have been dragged into a court battle over ownership of the manuscript. The Buffalo and Erie County Public Library, which owns the second half of the manuscript and claims it should have the first half, wants a federal judge to open up the trunks to see what they contain. A patron of the library, James Fraser Gluck, acquired the script from Twain in the late 1800s. The first half was not seen again until Gluck's granddaughters found it last fall.

Prince of a man

NEW ORLEANS — Kevin Costner invited a dying teen-ager to a sneak preview of "Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves" when he heard the boy was eager to see it, but didn't expect to live until opening night. Sean Dunlap, 14, who has had muscle cancer for 11 years, was looking forward to the opening, "but he wouldn't be here that long," said his mother, Karen. Costner, who was filming the movie "JFK" in New Orleans, heard of Sean's plight and invited him, his family and some friends to a preview June 1. Sean died a week later.

Last U.S. dependents flee Philippines base

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The last U.S. military dependents from two major bases made a hurried departure from Subic Bay naval base Friday, and 4,500 airmen prepared to leave as rising magma set off new shocks through Mount Pinatubo.

The volcano rained ash over Clark Air Base on Friday, and more than 150 earth tremors were recorded near the base, which was abandoned June 10 except for a skeletal guard force.

Filipinos living near Clark fled their homes as rivers swollen by tons of mud and volcanic debris began rising over their banks. At least 268 people, including a 9-year-old American girl, have been killed in two weeks of eruptions by the 4,795-foot volcano.

Justices back nude dance ban

■ Supreme Court rules barroom dancers can't count on First Amendment protection if police choose to enforce law that they wear pasties and G-strings.

By Dan Freedman
Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Friday told barroom dancers who want to perform in the nude that they cannot count on the First Amendment to protect them if police seek to enforce state requirements that they wear G-strings and pasties.

In a 5-4 decision, the court backed an Indiana public-indecency statute that banned nude dancing and forced female performers to be at least scantily clad. Federal appellate decisions in 1989 and 1990 had ruled the ban violated the constitutionally protected right of free expression.

In the high court's opinion Friday, Chief Justice William Rehnquist wrote, "Indiana's requirement that the dancers wear at least pasties and a G-string is modest and the bare minimum necessary to achieve the state's purposes" Rehnquist may have intended a pun with his reference to "bare minimum."

Friday's case, Barnes v. Glen Theatre Inc., had been closely watched by anti-obscenity as well as free-expression advocates as a test of the conservative high court's position on what has been a nettlesome area of the law for more than 30 years.

In 1981 the court said nude dancing "is not without its First Amendment protections from official regulations." But the 1981 ruling did not define the scope of the protections.

The current case began in 1985 when owners of the Chippewa Bookstore, a Glen Theatre subsidiary, and JR's Kitty Kat Lounge filed suits against prosecutors in South Bend, Ind., seeking an injunction to prevent police from enforcing the indecency statute.

The bookstore offered completely nude dancers performing on a stage, where they could be seen by viewers in booths looking through glass panels. The Kitty Kat Lounge sought to feature nude "go-go," or bar style, dancing.

Bush tells Gorbachev about Yeltsin meeting

■ President stresses importance of cooperation with Russian president-elect and discusses summit.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush, briefing Mikhail S. Gorbachev on his session with Russian Federation President Boris Yeltsin, Friday emphasized how important it is for the two rivals to cooperate, the White House said.

The Soviet leader's late-morning 40-minute call to Bush was a return of a call Bush had placed the day before, said an administration official who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

Bush and Gorbachev also discussed the long-delayed superpower summit to be held in Moscow, presumably later this summer, "but no specific dates were discussed," said presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater in a statement.

Bush reiterated his desire that a strategic arms limitation treaty (START) be completed before the summit, the state-

Sisters found amid squalor, unable to talk

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Three young sisters were in foster homes Friday after they were found malnourished in a squalid apartment and able only to grunt, authorities said.

The girls' mother was in custody. Neighbors said authorities had ignored repeated pleas to "end the nightmare," as one put it.

Ruby Pointer, 40, pleaded innocent Friday to child endangerment and marijuana cultivation charges. Pointer isn't cooperating with authorities, according to police who said she breaks off into incoherent speech when asked questions.

"All she'll tell us is that the father of her children is either Tom Selleck or Rod Stewart," said police investigator Sgt. Joe Haebe. "She just seems sort of out of it."

Police said Pointer's daughters, ages 2, 4 and 6, were removed from their trash-strewn apartment Wednesday by county Child Protective Services workers. The children grunted, screamed and tried to hide from officers.

Police said the oldest girl may be autistic and the younger ones never learned to speak.

High temperatures, thunderstorms usher in city's first day of summer

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

The first day of summer was ushered in with severe afternoon and evening thunderstorms in Midland.

Residents of the Tall City experienced a little of everything — high temperatures, heavy rains, 70 mph winds, lightning, hail and even a tornado warning Friday.

Lightning struck three tank batteries causing them to ignite in a field near State Highway 349, about 2 miles north of Midland.

Scott Mitchell of Parker & Parsley said he saw the lightning strike several of his company's tank batteries and an Adobe Resources' tank battery which blazed for about 30 minutes Friday evening.

Midland was pelted with more than an inch of rain, quarter-size hail at the airport and golf ball-size hail in northern portions of Midland County, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Despite poor visibility and flooded, slippery roads, there were no weather-related accidents, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The airport interrupted operations for a short period of time and had patrons move to the lower level of the building during a tornado warning, according to an airport spokesperson.

"We've had reports of wind damage — power and telephone lines down and small storage buildings damaged in Midland's southwest side," said Jack Cottongame, a Midland County sheriff's dispatcher.

TU Electric repaired a downed power pole near FM 1788 Friday evening which caused a temporary loss of power to five businesses. "But other than some blown fuses and isolated cases of customers without power there was no damage," said Stan Garrison, TU Electric customer service manager of the west region.

The thunderstorms which swept over Midland originated in the northwest, the NWS said. Although radar indicated there was a possible tornado in southeast Midland there were no sightings, according to the NWS spokesperson.

"There was one unconfirmed report of a tornado sighting in Fort Stockton and a public report of a tornado briefly touching down in Coyanosa, in Northern Pecos County," he said.

Golf-ball size hail was also reported in West Odessa and Monahans.

Numerous reports of pea- to marble-size hail were also received, Cottongame said. Wind gusts were clocked at more than 63 mph at the airport as two storm cells moved through, he said.

The first cell was reported at 5:45 p.m., with the second at about 7 p.m., he said. The possible tornado was located by radar 7 miles southeast of the Midland airport, said the National Weather Service.

The storm was moving to the southeast at 20 mph.

Although today's forecast is for clear skies, the NWS spokesperson said, "Due to particular moist and hot conditions, this time of year that forecast is subject to change."

Today's forecast is for sunny and hot with a high near 100 and winds southerly 10-20 mph and gusty.

Tonight is predicted to be fair and warm with a low in the upper 60s.

Sunday's forecast is sunny and hot with a high in the upper 90s, the NWS said.

Friday's high was 100, compared to the record high of 107, set in 1934. The record low for today's date is 60, set in 1973.

STATE

Afternoon thunderstorms dumped rain on portions of North, South and West Texas Friday, while the rest of the state had partly cloudy skies and sweltering temperatures for the first day of summer.

A warm unstable air mass brought scattered storms to North Texas. Heavy rain fell on Denton from one storm, while another produced heavy showers, wind gusts and hail in Cooke County to the north.

In West Texas, storms developed in the Trans Pecos region and the northeastern portions of the South Plains.

Storms also developed along the upper Gulf Coast and in southeast Texas in response to a low-pressure trough.

The South Texas forecast called for fair to partly cloudy skies with scattered daytime showers and thunderstorms. Highs Saturday were expected to be in the 90s to near 102 along the Rio Grande.

Isolated thunderstorms were expected in the central and eastern Panhandle Saturday evening. Otherwise, sunny days and fair nights were predicted for South Texas through Sunday with lows in the 60s and 70s and highs ranging from the 90s in the north to near 110 in the Big Bend.

NATION

Summer officially started Friday with severe thunderstorms in parts of the South, the Midwest and the Plains, causing flooding in some areas.

Golf ball-size hail hit Henderson, Neb.. Flooding was reported in Madisonville, Ky., after 3¼ inches rain fell in less than two hours. Memphis, Tenn., also had flooding.

Thunderstorms were especially fierce in northern Kansas, northwest Missouri and southern Nebraska. Severe storms also were reported in northeast Colorado, eastern Wyoming and southern Montana.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

Agents seize half a ton of heroin

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The head of the dragon" was sliced from an Asian drug ring with the arrest of four people and the seizure of more than half a ton of pure heroin, the largest such haul in U.S. history, federal agents said Friday.

The seizure, valued at up to $4 billion, roughly equaled a month's supply for the nation's 500,000 estimated addicts, said Carol Hallet, U.S. Customs Commissioner.

"We know that the amount of heroin coming into the United States is on the increase," Hallett said at a news conference, adding that cocaine smuggling had not diminshed.

Agents called defendant Lu Chin Sheng a "heavyweight" in the scheme to distribute 1,080 pounds of "China White" heroin, the last of which was seized Thursday in a Hayward warehouse. Initial reports that 1,200 pounds were seized included the weight of packaging, officials said.

"If we had allowed this to be distributed ... we could have arrested 300 to 400 people ultimately, but we've cut the head of the dragon off," said Bob Bender, the agent in charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration's San Francisco office. "Law enforcement has ripped the heart out of a very significant organization."

Customs Service spokesman Mike Fleming called the seizure the nation's largest heroin bust.

The four entered no plea at their arraignment Friday before U.S. Magistrate William L. Garrett. They appeared in court in handcuffs, with solemn faces, and communicated with the judge through an interpreter. Garrett barred discussion of the case in the media.

The heroin was found in a shipment headed for a warehouse in Hayward, a suburb just east of San Francisco Bay. It came from somewhere in the Golden Triangle of Burma, Laos and Thailand and was shipped from Taiwan to Oakland, Bender said.

The complaint identified the other defendants as Jim Juichang Chen; his wife, Lucy Chen; and Kelly Paokui Chen, who is married to Jim Chen's brother. Bender said the suspects were all in their 20s and 30s.

A fifth suspect, Mike Juiming Chen, Kelly Chen's husband, was at large, authorities said.

They each face one federal count of possession of heroin with intent to distribute and one count of conspiracy to distribute heroin. Each faces a maximum sentence of life in prison and a $4 million fine on each count.

"We took off the upper echelon of this organization," Bender said.

Bender said Lu Chin Sheng entered the United States using a fraudulent passport. Sheng is from Bangkok, Thailand, while the rest are Taiwanese who are resident aliens in the United States, Bender said.

The heroin was discovered by Customs inspectors aboard the vessel President Truman at the port of Oakland about the middle of May during a check of imports, Bender said. The inspectors had no advance knowledge that the package addressed to the Join Sun Corp. in Hayward contained contraband, he said.

Authorities found 59 boxes packed with heroin and wrapped in birthday paper, Customs said.

Bender said investigators left about 10 pounds of the drug behind in the shipment, which was supposed to contain plastic produce bags from Taiwan, then made "a controlled delivery to the Join Sun Corporation."

Then the two agencies, each devoting about 35 agents, plus officers from the Hayward and San Leandro police departments, began a round-the-clock surveillance of the warehouse. As people stopped by, surveillance expanded to include their homes and another business, the Tracy Hotel in Tracy, he said.

Bender would not say if the surveillance included wiretaps.

During Thursday's actions, authorities searched the hotel, an adjacent home and two homes in Blackhawk, an exclusive housing development east of San Francisco. They took mainly records and found no drugs, he said.

The warehouse also contained legitimate imports of Chinese porcelain figures, Bender said.

Bender said officials planned to seize bank accounts of those involved in the scheme, and DEA offices in Southeast Asia were working with local officials to track other people and accounts that may be connected to those arrested.

The previous record heroin bust was made in New York City in 1989 when authorities seized 800 pounds of the drug worth about $1 billion.

Authorities in Los Angeles seized 20 tons of cocaine at a warehouse in 1989 in the world's largest bust involving that drug.

Reasoner in critical condition

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran CBS newsman Harry Reasoner remained in critical condition at a Connecticut hospital Friday, although he showed some signs of improvement, the network said.

Reasoner, 68, underwent surgery at Norwalk Hospital last week to remove a blood clot from his brain, CBS spokesman Roy Brunett said. Reasoner subsequently came down with pneumonia.

The newsman was showing signs of improvement, but not enough to change his official condition, which was listed as critical.

He retired from "60 Minutes" in May and entered the hospital June 11. He underwent brain surgery the following day.

Reasoner, of Westport was with CBS News for 27 years and planned to continue with "60 Minutes" as a contributing correspondent.

He underwent surgery for lung cancer in 1987 and again in 1989.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

Men stabbed

Staff Reports

Police officers called to 501 E. Estes 12:30 p.m. Friday found two men suffering from stab wounds.

Martin Hernandez, 28, and Gaciano Madrid, 39, claimed they were attacked by three to five males.

Hernandez had three stab wounds — one each on his upper back, left shoulder and the left side of his abdomen. He was treated and released from Memorial Hospital and Medical Center, police said.

Madrid had two stab wounds — one on the right side of his abdomen and one on his left hip. He also had two lacerations over his right eye. He was admitted to MHMC and was reported in satisfactory condition at press time.

No detailed descriptions were given of the suspects. The attack apparently occurred following a verbal altercation, police reports said.

Truck rolls over

An 18-wheel truck carrying approximately 70,000 pounds of cement rolled over on Interstate 20 about 3 p.m. Friday.

Terry Charles Ahrendt, 22, of Odessa, was driving the truck when he was passed by a vehicle about seven miles west of Midland.

The vehicle began veering toward the truck. Ahrendt pulled over to the shoulder to avoid contact, then over corrected the truck causing it to roll over one complete time into the center median, according to Department of Public Safety reports.

He sustained minor injuries and was treated and released from Memorial Hospital and Medical Center.

Outstanding warrant

A Midland man was arrested Friday for an outstanding warrant of burglary of a habitation.

Wyett Lamont Allen was arrested at the intersection of "F" Street and Cuthbert Ave. Friday, police said.

According to police reports, when officers stopped Allen to check him as a suspicious person they discovered he was wanted on an outstanding felony warrant for burglary of a habitation.

Justice of the Peace Robert Pine set bail for Allen at $5,000, which had not been posted at press time.

House struck

A youth from Odessa drove his car into a Midland house at about 12:30 a.m. Friday, police said.

Jeffrey Ray Walters, 17, was driving a 1988 two-door Silver Ford Thunderbird northbound on the 1900 block of Sparks Street when he lost control of the vehicle, police said. His vehicle struck the residence of 2304 Humble.

VOLCANO: 4,500 airmen leave on aircraft carrier

(From 1A)

Abraham Lincoln bound for Cebu, where they will catch flights to the United States. U.S. officials said they were the last of 20,000 military dependents to leave Subic for Cebu.

Navy officials said the ships had to dock, load and sail from Subic as quickly as possible to prevent floating volcanic debris from damaging their engines and cooling systems.

"I can't wait to get out of here," said Tess Machinsky, 44, of Seattle, as she prepared to board the carrier. "This place is a mess."

The U.S. Embassy said all 20,000 military family members have now left Subic. The naval base's population swelled by nearly 15,000 when the Air Force evacuated troops and dependents from Clark after the nearby volcano began erupting for the first time in more than 600 years.

An Air Force spokesman, Maj. Wayne Crist, also announced that 4,500 airmen began boarding the carrier Midway late Friday. Navy spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Kevin Mukri said the vessel would probably remain overnight in Subic and sail this morning.

The 4,500 airmen represent more than 60 percent of the Air Force personnel in the Philippines, and their departure casts doubts on whether the Americans will try to keep Clark open.

People who toured the base Friday said smoking pyroclastic flows — hot rocks, gas and other volcanic debris — reached within 300 feet of Clark's Mactan housing area.

In Cebu, about 350 miles south of Subic Bay, Philippine immigration said that as of midmorning Friday, 7,520 Americans had left aboard 52 flights for the United States.

"We were scared and we did not know what to expect," said Gloria Lucas of Greenville, Miss., as she prepared to board a flight in Cebu with her two children. "Maybe once we get on the plane everything will be fine."

Pinatubo appeared to be gearing up for more major eruptions, said Raymundo Punongbayan, director of the Philippine Institute of Vulcanology and Seismology. He said the volcano could continue erupting off and on for the next three years.

"There seem to be indications that the volcano is preparing for another eruption episode," he told reporters in Manila. "We are recognizing some long tremor periods and earthquakes and this means that some magma is again moving to the surface."

CALL: Bush, Gorbachev discuss Yeltsin, summit

(From 1A)

ment said.

The president refused to elaborate on the phone conversation as he left the White House Friday afternoon to spend the weekend at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

"Too much news out there," he said, brushing off shouted questions.

Fitzwater's statement said Bush told Gorbachev he'd had a "good discussion" with Yeltsin "centered on the current political and economic reforms taking place in the Soviet Union."

"The president noted with pleasure the cooperative nature between Yeltsin and Gorbachev in moving the reform process forward and emphasized to President Gorbachev how important this is to the overall process," the statement said.

"President Bush reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to support these reforms since they not only help the Soviet Union but are of benefit to the wider international community," the statement added.

Bush welcomed Yeltsin — Gorbachev's political rival — to the White House warmly as the newly elected president of the Soviet Union's largest republic. But at the same time, Bush pointedly reminded Yeltsin of his continued friendship with Gorbachev.

Both leaders also talked about the July 15-17 economic summit in London of the seven largest industrialized democracies "and the economic issues that face the international community."

Gorbachev has been invited to deliver his appeal for economic aid from the West to the leaders of the so-called "Group of Seven," the United States, Japan, Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Canada.

Allies to keep troops in Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and its major allies plan to pull out of northern Iraq by mid-July but keep troops in southern Turkey in case Saddam Hussein attacks the Kurds, ABC News said Friday.

The network said U.S. officials had not wanted to keep units in southern Turkey, fearing that U.S. troops could be drawn into action without enough force if the Iraqi dictator attacked his country's Kurdish minority.

However, they bowed to pressure from European allies to keep a military presence nearby to dissuade Saddam from moving against the Kurds, the network said.

The report came one day after the close of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, held in Berlin. The sessions had been expected to produce a blueprint for future allied involvement in Iraq.

The Defense Department would not confirm Friday night that any agreement had been reached on a plan to place a force in Turkey or that a mid-July withdrawal date had been set. Earlier reports had put the pullout date as early as July 4.

Defense Department spokeswoman Susan Strednansky said only that future arrangements remained under discussion.

Rape victims endorse nightlatch bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Two women who were raped in their apartments by men who had obtained keys endorsed legislation Friday that would give all renters the right to have keyless deadbolt locks on their doors.

Rep. Elliott Naishtat, D-Austin, introduced a bill during the regular legislative session that would have required landlords either to provide nightlatches on all external doors or notify tenants that they could be installed at the tenants' expense.

Nightlatches are deadbolt locks that can be thrown only from the inside and have no external keyhole.

The bill died during the regular session in the Calendars Committee, which schedules legislation for debate on the House floor.

Naishtat, the rape victims and representatives of tenants' groups asked Gov. Ann Richards to allow the measure to be introduced during the special session on the budget that begins July 8.

Margaret Justus, a spokeswoman for Richards, said the governor would consider the request.

Bill Edwards, attorney for rape victim Juli Bliskey, said apartment leases generally allow tenants to install locks only if they are approved by the landlord, who usually wants a key.

Edwards represented Ms. Bliskey in a negligence lawsuit against the management company of the townhome where she was raped in October 1987.

A jury on May 16 awarded Ms. Bliskey more than $14 million. The case is still in trial court.

The rapist, who has been convicted and sentenced to a 99-year prison term, broke into the apartment leasing office, searched through leases to find single women and stole a key to Ms. Bliskey's condominium.

"Had the people who managed my townhome complex in Corpus Christi honored my request for a simple deadbolt such as the one we have here today, I would not be talking to you today as a victim," Ms. Bliskey said.

Group favors proposal to increase tax

GALVESTON (AP) — The Texas Municipal League board voted unanimously Friday to endorse proposals to broaden the sales tax base and increase gasoline taxes, providing part of the new income would go to the cities.

Both issues are being considered by Texas lawmakers who must meet July 8 in special session to deal with a projected multi-billion dollar budget shortfall.

League Executive Director Frank Sturzl said his group has not recommended which non-taxed items should lose their status, but he added that food and medical services and supplies should remain untaxed.

The league's 46-member board did not vote on any specific new areas to be taxed, but Sturzl said they would approve all expansions.

Legal fees could be taxed, along with architectural and engineering services, he said. The league did not address a sales tax percentage increase.

The sales tax last was expanded in 1987. It too was supported by the league.

Sturzl said the group did not establish an amount for a gasoline tax hike but, "if there is one, we would support returning some of those funds to the cities to help with street and road maintenance.

"If that's not part of the agreement, then we would have no position on an increase," he said.

The Legislature may consider proposed gasoline increases as low as a penny or as high as 45 cents per dollar as suggested by former Gov. John Connally.

A wider sales tax would help cities because they would have more total taxable sales to apply their one-cent-per-dollar tariff.

The league's endorsement carries no direct power, but it serves as an added lobbying point for lawmakers during discussions on the two tax items.

COURT: Justices uphold ban on nude dancing

(From 1A)

Kat Lounge, performed once in the nude but wore pasties and a G-string afterward because she had received a police warning, according to court papers.

South Bend prosecutors contended that Indiana's law was not aimed at violating anyone's constitutional rights. Rather, they said, it is nothing more than an effort to regulate a sexually oriented business in accordance with a 1973 Supreme Court decision that permits governments to target obscenity based on local community standards.

The case before the high court Friday hinged on two questions: Is nude dancing a form of expression because, as the dancers in the case contended, it sends a message of sensuality and eroticism? And does the First Amendment's protection of expression outweigh the state's interest in maintaining what it considers to be minimum standards of public decency?

The Supreme Court on Friday ruled the answer is no to both questions.

While there is some basis in past Supreme Court cases to believe that nude dancing is "expressive conduct within the outer perimeters of the First Amendment," Rehnquist wrote, Indiana's public indecency statute is "clearly within the constitutional power of the state and furthers substantial government interests."

Rehnquist defined those interests as "protecting order and morality."

Joining Rehnquist were Justices Sandra Day O'Connor and Anthony M. Kennedy. Justice Antonin Scalia wrote a concurring opinion, saying that since the Indiana law is aimed at the dancers' conduct and not the message they are conveying, it is "not subject to First Amendment scrutiny at all."

Justice David Souter, in his first concurring opinion, also supported the court majority's view. But he emphasized that among the state interests that the law protects is "combating the secondary effects of adult entertainment establishments" such as prostitution and the threat of sexual assaults.

Rehnquist's decision relied heavily on a 1968 ruling in which the court upheld a criminal conviction for burning a draft card. In that ruling, the court said government can regulate the "non-speech" element of conduct, burning the draft card, that is combined with constitutionally protected "speech," sending a message of protest against the Vietnam War.

The court set up a test that among other things permits government to override 1st Amendment protections as long as the restrictions are "unrelated to the suppression of free expression."

The Indiana law passes this test, Rehnquist wrote, adding "The perceived evil that Indiana seeks to address is not erotic dancing, but public nudity."

Controlling nude dancing is akin to restrictions on nude sunbathing at public beaches, Rehnquist said. "The requirement that the dancers don pasties and a G-string does not deprive the dance of whatever erotic messages it conveys; it simply makes the message slightly less graphic."

Justice Byron White, dissenting, argued that the Indiana law failed the 1968 test because "the nudity is itself an expressive component of the dance, not merely incidental 'conduct.'"

White wrote: "That the performances in the Kitty Kat Lounge may not be high art, to say the least, and may not appeal to the court, is hardly an excuse for distorting and ignoring settled doctrine. The court's assessment of the artistic merits of nude dancing performances should not be the determining factor in deciding this case."

Joining White were Justices Thurgood Marshall, Harry Blackmun and John Paul Stevens.

Civil liberties advocates were divided on the extent to which the Indiana case trims back the First Amendment.

"It goes well beyond nude dancing," said Philip Gutis, spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union. "This is a ruling that endorses the notion that the government's attempt to protect 'public morality' justifies the censorship of expressive speech."

However, Elliot Mincberg, legal director of People for the American Way, said the ruling "was not nearly as damaging as it could have been. What we were most worried about was an opinion like Scalia's, which says the First Amendment does not apply at all. That could have really torn the heart out of much First Amendment protection."

Still, Mincberg said, the Rehnquist opinion might, for instance, permit government regulation of nude theatrical performances in shows such as "Hair" and "Oh Calcutta!" Rehnquist "would say 'let them wear G-strings,'" Mincberg charged.

According to Rehnquist's opinion, 47 states have similar public indecency statutes.

Richard Ruda, chief counsel for the State and Local Legal Center, which filed a brief supporting Indiana on behalf of the National Governors' Association, the National League of Cities and three other organizations, said the ruling is "an important reaffirmation of the reasonable exercise of the traditional police powers of the states."

SISTERS: Girls in foster homes, mother in custody

(From 1A)

Pointer has a history of child endangerment, according to neighbors and police records. She was investigated about six years ago for child neglect involving an infant who is likely the 6-year-old. Details weren't available on the outcome of that case.

In 1981, a year-old child of Pointer's was seized by county child welfare authorities because it weighed only 8 pounds. Pointer was given probation after she kidnapped the child from its foster parents and apparently took it to the Virgin Islands, authorities said.

"I'm not sure where that child is today," Haebe said. "But she obviously has a history of this."

Pointer is in jail in lieu of $25,000 bail. Police were seeking her common-law husband, Patrick Eggleston, 36, for questioning. He apparently also lived in the apartment, but often slept in cars outside, police said.

Pointer was arrested Wednesday night after neighbor Steven Nicholls called authorities to complain about hearing beatings from the apartment. Police arrived, got no answer and began to leave when Nicholls urged them to approach the apartment from the back, according to Nicholls' roommate.

Police said they then spotted 33 small marijuana plants growing in plastic foam coffee cups in the house.

Inside, authorities were found piles of garbage, rotten food, mold and stacks of unwashed dishes, police said. They said the children were malnourished, with matted hair and dirty clothes.

"Pointer was extremely agitated and nervous," said Patrolman Randy Harris. "She kept asking me if I was going to take the children away from her and begged me not to."

Neighbors said Pointer and her girls rarely left the apartment.

"I remember one time, she was taking two of them to get the mail and one of the girls started going to the playground," neighbor Liz Vincent recalled. "She grabbed her by the arm and threw her on the ground and just beat on her.

"I was going to call the police, but they never did anything before to end this nightmare for the children. I mean, sometimes the thumping next door would be so loud from her hitting that pictures on my wall would shake."

Vincent wrote a letter to the county Housing Authority, which owns the complex, but "they told (Pointer) to be quiet and that was the end of it."

Two housing authority officials who visited the apartment Friday refused to comment on the case.

Other neighbors reported hearing a woman shouting "I wish you were dead!" and "I wish you were never born!" during the two years the family lived in the apartment.

Janet Reed, director of the Santa Cruz County Child Protective Services, said she couldn't comment on the case because it's under investigation. She refused to confirm that neighbors had called her agency to report Pointer.

Politician: Conservatives fleeing to GOP

HOUSTON (AP) — Conservative Democrats unhappy with their party's direction are fleeing to the Republican camp, J.C. Watts, an Oklahoma Corporation Commission member, told GOP committee members Friday.

In an impassioned speech met with rounds of applause, Watts recounted how he left the Democratic Party and went on to become the first black elected to a statewide office from either major party in Oklahoma history.

"Like Ronald Reagan, I was born a Democrat, and stayed a Democrat for many years. But as a conservative, a supporter of the free-enterprise system and a believer in traditional family and spiritual values, I found myself increasingly dissatisfied with the Democrat Party," he said at the committee's summer meeting.

"I decided to join the party that stands for what I believe — the party of the Great Emancipator — the Republican Party," Watts said. "And, you know, I'm not alone. All across America, conservative Democrats are making the change to the Grand Old Party."

As he praised the GOP and President George Bush, he also called for another civil rights revolution that would create economic opportunity for everyone, allowing more people to buy homes, live in drug-free neighborhoods and get an education.

He also made a call for more minority-owned businesses.

"There are 14.1 million small businesses in America, and we need minority men and women to have the same opportunity to realize their dreams that other Americans in the free-enterprise system have," he said.

In addition, he said income taxes for low-income people should be eliminated so that employment will be more profitable than welfare.

Earlier Friday, Republican Party Chairman Clayton Yeutter predicted the GOP would do well in 1992 by repeatedly attacking the Democrats as a party without an agenda, a philosophy or a winning strategy.

"The Democratic leadership (in Congress) time and again has written off the chance to show it can provide strong, effective legislative leadership for the country. And the Democrats have no track record at all for executive leadership at the national level," he said.

Craddick: Republicans propose scaled-back budget

AUSTIN (AP) — House Republicans outlined a budget-cutting proposal Friday they said would get Texas through the next two years without a tax increase.

"I don't think there's any doubt that people would overwhelmingly support this document versus an income tax," said Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, who heads the GOP group.

"And I think the average person on the street is for scaling back in state government, just like he's had to scale back with the down economy across the state," Craddick said.

The plan calls for cuts in state employment and tuition increases.

A spokesman for Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, who has directed a state study of ways to save money, questioned the Republicans' numbers.

Richards has been briefed on proposed savings developed by state Comptroller John Sharp, whose figures are to be released next week.

"I can't see where the documentation comes for any of it, really," Richards spokesman Chuck McDonald said of the GOP figures.

"John Sharp's been working on his (cost-saving) plan for months, and he has a document that looks like a New York phone book," McDonald said. The plan released by Republicans is eight pages long.

Richards, who called a special budget session for July 8, also has appointed a task force to look at taxes.

Lawmakers are facing an estimated budget shortfall of $4.7 billion over the next two years.

The tax committee, headed by former Gov. John Connally, has discussed several tax increase proposals, including a proposed state income tax.

The panel was scheduled to meet Saturday to vote on final recommendations, but it postponed the meeting Friday. Connally said he wanted task force members to wait on Sharp's audit report before voting on taxes.

Firm recalls franks from Texas stores

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Lincoln, Neb., processor, Kohler Industries, Inc., has voluntarily recalled approximately 2,000 pounds of its frankfurters distributed in Texas because the meat may be contaminated, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

Officials said the franks may be contaminated by Listeria monocytogenes, an organism that can cause listeriosis, described as "a rare but potentially serious disease."

The product involves "Kreck's Gold Beef Franks" and "Brookshire Brothers Beef Franks" distributed to two grocery store chains in Texas.

All 12-ounce packages of the product with a "Sell by 7-31" date on the bottom of the package are being recalled. "Est. 5578" appears inside the USDA inspection seal on the label.

Kreck's Gold Beef Franks are carried by Texas T. Discount stores, and Brookshire Brothers Beef Franks are sold by the Brookshire Brothers chain.

Lester M. Crawford, administrator of the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service, said no illnesses have been reported. However, consumers who bought the franks should return them to places of purchase, he said.

Crawford said that in general, healthy people rarely contract listeriosis. Most susceptible are those with weakened immune systems, including infants, the elderly and the chronically ill.

STATE IN BRIEF

■ TDA cuts 52 positions in reorganization

AUSTIN — State Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said Friday he was reorganizing his agency, cutting 52 jobs and consolidating its statewide network of offices.

Perry said the reduction of the agency's work force, which totals nearly 100 since he took office in January, will save about $3 million during a two-year budget cycle.

"Taxpayers deserve state agencies that are responsive to their demands for lean but efficient operations. Taxpayers demand that state government live within its means ... We are responding to those demands," Perry said.

Perry, a Republican, was elected last November after defeating two-term Democrat Jim Hightower.

Rossanna Salazar, spokeswoman for Perry, said Friday's firings weren't politically motivated.

"Absolutely not," she said.

■ Abortion law bans birth control, ACLU says

HOUSTON — Language in Louisiana's new anti-abortion law is broad enough to prohibit the use of intrauterine devices (IUDs) and certain other types of contraceptives, the American Civil Liberties Union says.

However, the sponsor of House Bill 112, Rep. Sam Theriot, D-Abbeville, La., says the bill was not designed to interfere with selection of birth control methods and will not do so inadvertently.

Louisiana legislators overrode Gov. Buddy Roemer's veto Tuesday night to pass the strictest anti-abortion law in the nation. The law prohibits abortion except in cases of rape and incest, or to protect the life of the pregnant woman.

The Louisiana law would not take effect until 60 days after the end of the legislative session, but is being challenged in court as unconstitutional and will probably be enjoined until all appeals are heard. Bill supporters hope that the Supreme Court will eventually hear the case as a challenge to Roe vs. Wade, the 1973 law that legalized abortions in the United States.

■ Governor wants to tackle border problems

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Texas Gov. Ann Richards kicked off a five-day tour of Mexico Friday by agreeing to work aggressively to help cure some of the problems that plague the border.

"The new Texas needs to address all of the problems that have been around for decades, not just shove them back as they have been before," Richards said at a news conference.

Richards said she wanted to attack problems such as border pollution, auto theft, bridge congestion and others.

She met privately with Chihuahua state Gov. Fernando Baeza Melendez Friday morning to discuss mutual issues. Chihuahua is one of the Mexican states bordering Texas.

The governors signed a bilateral agreement in which they agreed to improve trade, tourism and economic development between the two states.

"Texas wants this to come about now and needs to because of the forthcoming free trade agreement," Richards said.

■ NASA discusses possible Atlantis cargo problem

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA officials huddled Friday to discuss a potential problem with an antenna motor on a communications satellite to be carried into space by the shuttle Atlantis next month.

It was unlikely the flight would be delayed, NASA spokesman Dick Young said.

Pre-flight testing showed the motor might prevent the antenna from extending properly in orbit, said Bruce Buckingham, another NASA spokesman. Officials discussed the issue during a special meeting Friday evening.

A&M seeks new way to grade beef

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A team of Texas A&M researchers hopes to use ultrasonic waves to determine how much intramuscular fat — or marbling — is in a piece of meat and its tenderness.

Dale Whittaker, an agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, says the technology may help inspectors grade beef more quickly and consistently as well as improve cattle breeding and food safety.

"We've done it so far with small pieces of beef in the laboratory," Whittaker said Friday. "But what we're hoping to be able to use the ultrasound technique industry-wide at some point.

"If you can determine fat and tenderness in live animals, you could go a long way to determining quality traits for selective breeding."

The beef industry has used ultrasound for three decades to predict how much sellable beef is in an animal.

However, the industry has not been able to determine how much of an animal's fat was intramuscular and how much was subcutaneous — fat under the skin but above the meat — and how much was seam fat, which protrudes into the meat.

Whittaker said food safety also would be improved by ultrasound, because carcasses wouldn't need to be cut for visual inspection before processing, decreasing meat exposure to microorganisms.

School district drops holidays

FORT WORTH (AP) — Five holidays, including Martin Luther King Jr. Day, have been removed from next year's calendar by a Tarrant County school district in order to meet a state requirement that adds five days to the school year.

Trustees for the Hurst-Euless-Bedford school district decided Tuesday to eliminate the King holiday along with Good Friday, Veterans Day, Memorial Day and a Jan. 17 workday to meet the state calendar requirement, officials said.

Angels end first half in cellar

Howie's grand slam not enough to lift Haloes

Staff Report

WICHITA, Kan. — After watching Wichita's Guillermo Velasquez smack a two-run home run in the bottom of the ninth inning for a 10-9 Wrangler victory, the Midland Angels finished the first half of the Texas League season here Friday with a 30-38 record, translating into last place in the Western Division.

Velasquez' homer negated a sixth-inning grand slam by Midland first baseman Mark Howie, who now has nine homers in the Angels' last 13 games and 11 for the season.

Though El Paso had clinched the division title with a win in San Antonio Sunday, Midland was hoping to stay out of the cellar by making up the one game San Antonio held over the Angels. But it was Wichita that ended the half on a winning note and Midland that finished 15 games out of first place.

El Paso ended the first half with a sparkling 45-23 mark, while Wichita finished second at 10 games over .500 with a 39-29 record. San Antonio took third at 31-37.

In the Eastern Division, Shreveport had clinched the first-half title early and coasted to a 45-23 record, matching El Paso. Jackson finished in second place, but below .500 at 32-34, 11

Rose in hot water

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Fay Vincent says Pete Rose's appearance at a minor league banquet in Reading, Pa., "raises some serious questions" about whether Rose violated the order banishing him from baseball.

Rose

Rose, banned for life in 1989 by then-commissioner Bart Giamatti for gambling on baseball, was a guest Thursday night when the Reading Phillies retired Mike Schmidt's jersey.

"I will look into it," Vincent said. "I didn't know about it. My understanding is that the agreement says he can not participate in any form of activity related to organized baseball."

The Reading Phillies, however, disagree, pointing out that their organization is covered by the National Association charter, not major league baseball.

"They do like to try to govern more than they already do," said Chuck Domino, general manager of the Reading Phillies, Philadelphia's Class AA minor league affiliate. "To my knowledge, we did nothing wrong and no one has ever specifically told anybody in minor league baseball or the Reading Phillies that we're not allowed to use anybody on a suspended list."

Ryan nets $5,000

CHICAGO (AP) — A collector paid $5,000 for a Nolan Ryan baseball card on Friday, outlasting about 500 bidders and closing a year-long battle between a shopowner and a 13-year-old collector.

The money is to go to charity, under the out-of-court agreement that settled the dispute.

Bryan Wrzesinski of Addison, Ill., bought the 1968 rookie card for $12 in April 1990 from an inexperienced sales clerk at the Ball-Mart Baseball store. Shopowner Joe Irmen said the card was marked $1,200 and filed a lawsuit seeking to recover the card or the $1,188 difference.

Top-seeded Seles pulls out

WIMBLEDON, England — No. 1 seed Monica Seles withdrew from the Wimbledon tennis championships Friday with an undisclosed injury, ending her chances of winning the Grand Slam this year.

Seles was forced to withdraw "due to an injury caused by a minor accident," her agent said in a statement issued through the All England Club.

No details on the nature of the injury or accident were given, but the statement said the world's top-ranked woman was expected back on the tour "in a few weeks."

WIMBLEDON, England — Everyone's going gaga over Andre Agassi.

No matter that he's a longshot to break up Wimbledon's annual final between Stefan Edberg and Boris Becker. So what if he hasn't ventured onto a grass court since losing in the first round here four years ago. Never mind that he's never won a Grand Slam title.

Agassi's bleached mane, dangling earring, fast cars, bludgeoning groundstrokes and rebel image are all the rage in his return to Wimbledon from self-imposed exile.

With the tournament opening Monday, there's more talk about what Agassi will wear — he's ditching his neon green duds to conform to the "predominantly white" rules — than the state of his game, which is less than sterling on this surface.

He's hotter gossip in the tabloids than nine-time women's champion Martina Navratilova, embroiled in a lawsuit with the former lover she ran to embrace after victory last year.

Agassi's photo adorns more pages than newly coifed Monica Seles, the women's top seed whose bid for her third Grand Slam title of the year was spoiled by an injury.

Steffi Graf, a tabloid target last year because of her father's involvement with a model, has been virtually forgotten this year as she seeks her third Wimbledon title.

Agassi is fueling the fever by talking about his drinking and drug use before discovering religion, his love of sports cars, his girlfriend and his newfound respect for the tradition that Wimbledon

Rain delays Little League playoff

Staff Report

Friday's Little League City Championship baseball game between the Mid City Angels and North Central Astros was postponed because of rain.

Barring a field too wet to be playable, the "A" League tournament game will be made up at 10 a.m. today at Lancaster Park (3600 Kansas), with the "if" game set for 2 p.m. Sunday if needed.

Mid City is undefeated in the double-elimination tournament, while North Central owns a single loss, a 5-2 decision to the Angels on Wednesday.

Should the Angels win today's game, they would be crowned the City Champions. However, if the Astros take today's contest, both teams would own one loss and the tournament finale would be sent to Sunday's "if" game.

Ivan Rodriguez' wedding day was a dream come true for any player with a romantic streak.

■ Newest Texas Ranger phenom forced to change nuptials after jumping from Tulsa to the big leagues.

By Ira Berkow
N.Y. Times News Service

It was going to be one of those glorious little baseball weddings, with the ballplayer and his betrothed walking under a canopy of bats held aloft by teammates from the pitcher's mound to home plate, and there, with a priest instead of an umpire, they would take their marriage vows.

All this was scheduled to take place for Ivan "Pudge" Rodriguez, 19, and Maribel Rivera, 18, childhood sweethearts, Thursday night in Tulsa, Okla., between games of a doubleheader between the home team, the Drillers, for whom Rodriguez was the regular catcher, and the Shreveport Captains, of the Class AA Texas League.

The wedding ceremony at the ballpark never took place.

On Wednesday evening, after a dress rehearsal in the infield that afternoon, Maribel was back home in the apartment she shared with a girlfriend when she heard the news.

Maribel, whose rented wedding gown was hanging in the closet, was cooking dinner for her scheduled father-in-law, Jose Rodriguez Sr., and her scheduled brother-in-law, Jose Jr., both of whom had recently arrived for the wedding from their home in Vega Baja, Puerto Rico. They were listening to the Tulsa game when they heard:

"The Texas Rangers have just taken the contract of the Drillers' Ivan Rodriguez. He has been called up...."

The major leagues! Ivan's dream! And, Maribel assumed, no wedding ceremony.

"We were expecting it would happen any day," said Maribel yesterday by telephone, "but I was praying that it would happen after the wedding. I started to cry; tears started coming."

Then, she said, "I picked up the keys to the car and headed for the ballpark."

The tears, however, were not from despair, but from joy. And she went to the stadium, not to keep Ivan and his chest protector in Tulsa, but to congratulate him, and share his triumph.

"I was happy," she said, "he had made it. It was where he wanted to go."

The Rangers' general manager, Tom Grieve, who may be a hard businessman, now displayed a heart like Cupid's. He offered Ivan a chance to get married as planned and meet the Rangers Friday in Chicago, where they were playing the White Sox, or fly immediately to Chicago for the Thursday game.

"I want to get up there as soon as possible," said Ivan. But there would be a wedding, in the Tulsa courthouse, on Thursday at 8:30 in the morning.

Instead of her wedding dress, Maribel wore a blouse and shorts, and Ivan wore casual clothes instead of his baseball suit. "We didn't have time for much else," said Maribel, "we had to throw all our stuff into suitcases right away because we had an 11 o'clock flight to Chicago."

Everything had seemed to happen so fast. Maribel remembers when she met Ivan, several years ago in Vega Baja, and she didn't like him at first.

"Too quiet," she said. But soon that changed.

"He started bugging me to go out with him," she said. "Too noisy." But when her grandmother died, "Ivan was there every minute, and I knew what his true feelings for me were."

games behind Shreveport.

Since finishing second in both halves of the 1989 season, Midland has compiled an 86-118 record to place last in the 1990 first half, third in the 1990 second half and last in the four-team division in the 1991 first half.

Even though the first half mark did not move Midland out of the basement, it did mark improvement over the first half of the 1990 season. Midland ended the first half a year ago at 25-42 before rebounding somewhat to 31-38 in the second half.

ANGEL NOTES — All Texas League teams begin the second half with a frsh 0-0 record, as the Angels open the half at 8 p.m. (CDT) tonight in El Paso ... After brief stints at Edmonton, California's Class AAA club, outfielder Marcus Lawton and catcher Larry Gonzales returned to the Midland lineup Friday night.

Former Ranger scores winning run for Chisox

Associated Press

CHICAGO — Lance Johnson's soft ground ball sent home Scott Fletcher from third base with one out in the 11th inning, giving the Chicago White Sox a 6-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Fletcher drew a one-out walk off Calvin Schiraldi (0-1), the sixth Rangers pitcher, and took third on Ozzie Guillen's hit-and-run single. Schiraldi was making his first appearance since being obtained from Houston on Thursday.

Johnson bounced to second baseman Julio Franco, who double-pumped before throwing home, and Fletcher easily beat the throw.

Ken Patterson (2-0), the sixth White Sox pitcher, pitched one inning for the victory.

Sacrifice flies by Mike Stanley and Juan Gonzalez in the top of the ninth gave the Rangers a 5-4 lead, but Jeff Russell couldn't hold on in the bottom of the inning.

Chicago loaded the bases on two hits and a walk before Russell walked Robin Ventura on four pitches, tying the score. Frank Thomas hit into an inning-ending double play, forcing extra innings.

The White Sox led 4-3 after wiping out a three-run deficit on two-run homers by Craig Grebeck and Carlton Fisk.

Fisk's homer came with two outs in the eighth off Russell, who blew his third save in 17 opportunities.

White Sox starter Ramon Garcia walked Ruben Sierra to start the ninth and was replaced by Donn Pall, who was relieved by Scott Radinsky after Franco's double.

Stanley tied the score 4-4 with his sacrifice fly, and Franco took third on the play. Gonzalez followed with another fly ball, giving Texas the lead.

Franco gave Texas a 1-0 lead with a 425-foot leadoff homer in the second inning and Steve Buechele's two-run single gave Nolan Ryan a 3-0 lead in the fourth.

But Ryan left the game after five innings, developing stiffness in his pitching shoulder. He complained a muscle in the back of his shoulder began to ache, the same ailment that forced him to go on the 15-day disable list in May.

Kenny Rogers, Ryan's successor, gave up a two-run homer to Grebeck in the seventh inning, closing Chicago to 3-2.

Twins 5, Yankees 4

NEW YORK — Dan Gladden and Chuck Knoblauch had three hits and two RBI apiece, leading Minnesota over the New York Yankees, the Twins' 18th win in 19 games.

Gladden led off the first inning with his fourth homer and doubled in a run in the Twins' four-run fourth, while Knoblauch's two-run single capped the fourth-inning rally that made a winner of Mark Guthrie (5-3).

Guthrie surrendered nine hits, including a two-run homer to Don Mattingly in the seventh, before being relieved by Steve Bedrosian, who pitched a scoreless eighth. Rick Aguilera got the last three outs for his 18th save.

New York took a 2-1 lead in the second with the aid of an error by Twins' center fielder Kirby Puckett, who dropped Alvaro Espinoza's one-out fly ball to give the Yankees runners at first and second with one out.

Bob Geren's single drove in Mel Hall before a bunt single by Carlos Rodriguez scored Espinoza.

Chili Davis, Brian Harper and Shane Mack singled in succession to start the fourth, with Mack's hit scoring Davis with the tying run.

Red Sox 3, Athletics 2

BOSTON — Tom Bolton struggled through seven-plus innings and Luis Rivera hit an inside-the-park homer as the Boston Red Sox edged the Oakland Athletics.

Bolton (7-4) allowed 10 hits, including Jose Canseco's seventh homer in 10 games and Rickey Henderson's four consecutive singles, but was tough in the clutch.

After Canseco led off the eighth with his 16th homer and Harold Baines doubled, Jeff Reardon replaced Bolton.

Terry Steinbach beat out a bunt single, but Reardon struck out Mark McGwire and got Ernest Riles to ground into Boston's fourth double play. Reardon then retired the side in order for his 19th save.

Oakland starter Mike Moore (8-6) pitched a complete-game six-hitter, but walked seven and struck out only one as the A's lost for the sixth time in eight games on their current road swing.

Blue Jays 8, Indians 4

TORONTO — Joe Carter's two-run homer in the fifth inning, his ninth home run in June, powered the Toronto Blue Jays over the Cleveland Indians.

Carter hit Greg Swindell's pitch over the fence in left for his 15th home run of the season, breaking a 4-4 tie. The homer followed Roberto Alomar's 21st double of the year.

The Blue Jays made it a rout in the eighth on Ed Sprague's two-run homer, giving him three RBI for the game.

Swindell (3-6) gave up eight runs on 12 hits in seven-plus innings as the Indians lost for the 12th time in 14 games.

Mariners 5, Brewers 1

MILWAUKEE — Randy Johnson limited Milwaukee to three hits through eight innings and Pete O'Brien drove in two runs as the Seattle Mariners blanked the Brewers.

Johnson no-hit the Brewers for 4 2-3 innings until Dante Bichette's bloop double fell between right-fielder Greg Briley and second baseman Harold Reynolds.

Tigers 9, Angels 2

DETROIT — Mickey Tettleton homered twice, one of them over the Tiger Stadium roof, and drove in a career-high six runs as Detroit routed the California Angels.

Bill Gullickson (9-3) scattered 10 hits, walking one and striking out two, for his second complete game for the Tigers. Kirk McCaskill (6-8) was the loser, allowing five runs in five-plus innings.

Ruffin leads shut out of Astros

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Emergency starter Bruce Ruffin pitched three-hit ball for eight innings and Mickey Morandini hit a three-run homer as the Philadelphia Phillies beat Houston 3-0 Friday night, sending the Astros to their fifth straight loss.

Ruffin (1-0), who was recalled from Scranton-Wilkes-Barre of the International League on June 8, took the place of scheduled starter Pat Combs. Combs experienced soreness in his elbow while warming up.

Mitch Williams got the last three outs for his 12th save, allowing one hit. The Astros loaded the bases in the ninth, but Mark Davidson ended the game with a shallow fly to right.

Houston starter Mark Portugal (6-3) had a perfect game through five innings, including five strikeouts.

But Rod Booker, who replaced Dickie Thon after the shortstop was ejected in the fourth inning, led off the sixth with a single. Two outs later, Wally Backman singled and Morandini followed with his first home run of the season.

Thon was ejected when he left the dugout in attempt get at Portugal but was intercepted by several players. Both benches and bullpens emptied, but no punches were thrown. It wasn't immediately known why Thon wanted to get at Portugal.

Portugal gave up four hits in seven innings.

NL Roundup

Reds 7, Expos 3

CINCINNATI — Chris Sabo hit a pair of homers and Joe Oliver added a two-run homer as the Cincinnati Reds overpowered Montreal to end the Expos' seven-game winning streak.

Sabo and Oliver hit homers off Chris Haney (0-1) to spoil the left-hander's major-league debut, and Sabo added a two-run homer off Tim Burke to put Cincinnati ahead 7-2 after five innings.

Scott Scudder (2-3) won for the first time since May 30 by scattering four hits, including Ivan Calderon's two-run homer, over seven innings. It was Scudder's second start since he came off the disabled list June 17 after recovering from torn cartilege in his rib cage.

Haney, 22, had problems early as he made the jump from Class AA Harrisburg.

Braves 4, Mets 2

ATLANTA — Rookie Brian Hunter drove in four runs with a three-run homer and double to give the Atlanta Braves a victory over the New York Mets.

Hunter's three-run homer erased a 2-0 deficit in the fourth inning and his RBI double came in the sixth as the Braves won for only the second time in eight games.

A post-game fireworks show helped draw a crowd of 43,229, Atlanta's largest since 45,679 attended on July 3, 1987.

Charlie Leibrandt (6-5) retired 14 in a row between Kevin Elster's two-run double in the second inning and Hubie Brooks' single in the seventh. He allowed four hits, fanned one and walked one in seven innings. Juan Berenguer pitched two innings for his ninth save.

Hunter's fourth homer of the season and second in two nights came off Frank Viola (7-5), who lost for the fourth time in his last five decisions.

Cardinals 4, Padres 3

ST. LOUIS — Ray Lankford broke a 1-for-14 slump with a game-winning single in the ninth inning as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Diego Padres for their fourth straight victory.

Pinch-hitter Milt Thompson got an infield hit with two outs, stole second without a throw, and scored on Lankford's single to center off reliever Larry Andersen (2-1). Lankford had struck out twice and had not gotten the ball out of the infield his first four at-bats.

Juan Agosto (5-1), the third St. Louis pitcher, worked an inning for the victory. The Cardinals have won eight of their last 11, and moved seven games above .500 for the first time since 1989.

Tony Gwynn went 3-for-4 with two doubles, two RBIs, a single and a sacrifice fly for the Padres, raising his major-league leading average to .369.

Tettleton hits mammoth blast out of Tiger Stadium

Associated Press

DETROIT — Detroit's Mickey Tettleton became just the 17th player to hit a homer out of Tiger Stadium when he cleared the right-field roof in the fourth inning Friday.

Tettleton's homer, off California starter Kirk McCaskill, went over the third-deck pressbox and through a light tower before disappearing from view.

The two-run homer broke a scoreless tie, and was Tettleton's first since May 27.

The last player to clear the roof was Cecil Fielder, who did it to left field on Aug. 25, 1990. George Brett was the last player to clear the right-field stands on April 17, 1988.

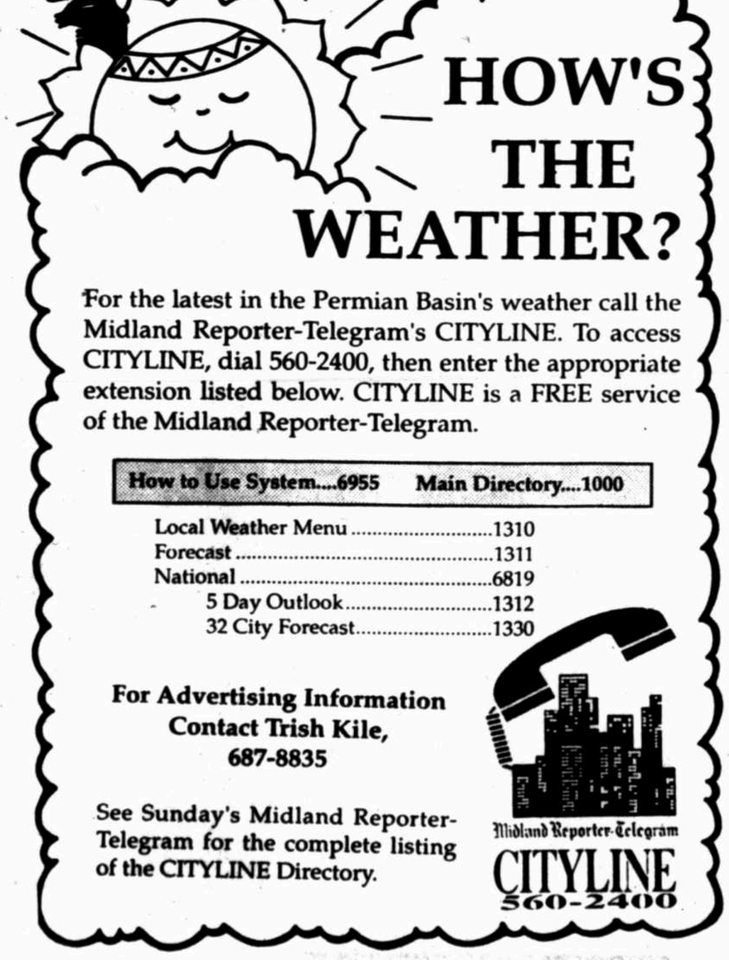
Other players to clear the right-field roof include Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, Norm Cash and Reggie Jackson.

Ryan wins award

NEW YORK (AP) — Nolan Ryan was the May winner in the Athlete of the Year voting.

Ryan, who pitched his seventh career no-hitter during the month, received 30 first-place votes and 166 points in balloting by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Indianapolis 500 winner Rick Mears finished second with 22 first-place votes and 136 points.



IVAN: New bride watches Rodriguez shine in first game

(From 1B)

Ivan was signed by the Rangers when he was 17 and played his first professional season with Class A Gastonia last year, batting only .238.

But the Rangers saw great potential in the 5-foot-9-inch, 165-pound backstop, and moved him up to Tulsa, where he was hitting .274 when he got the call. Over the winter, Ivan proposed to Maribel, and she moved to Tulsa.

"Sometimes he would get down on himself," recalled Maribel. "He'd say, 'If I keep messing up I'll never make the big leagues.' I told him: 'Think positive. Just be yourself. That's all they want.' And he was strong."

They flew into Chicago and arrived at the downtown hotel in late afternoon.

"And the Rangers took off with him," said Maribel. "I didn't know how to get to the ball park, so I stayed in the room."

And, what with the double celebration of his baseball promotion and tying the knot, the two hadn't gone to bed until 5:30 that morning, so she took a nap. Ivan had to work.

The Rangers put Ivan into the starting lineup at Comiskey Park. Maribel watched the game on television. "He got two men out at second base, and he got a hit, with two RBIs," she said. In fact, Ivan, batting ninth for Texas, knocked in his runs in a dramatic ninth-inning, five-run comeback, as the Rangers won, 7-3.

"Did you see me?" asked Ivan excitedly, as he came through the door of their hotel room.

"Yes," she said, "I did."

"I did great," he said.

Maribel didn't reply. "I just went and gave him a hug," she said.

Once a fad, streaking becomes popular again

Associated Press

They say streaking went out of style with the 70s. Now it's back, at least on the baseball field.

Every team is getting caught in the act — picking up wins or piling up losses, it's the latest craze.

"It's just been a streaky year," Seattle manager Jim Lefebvre said.

He should know. The Mariners opened the season with six consecutive losses, won their next eight and then lost five in a row. They've also had a pair of six-game winning strings, plus a seven-game slide.

More recently, the Minnesota Twins won 15 straight. That came just after they ended Texas' 14-game run. Both streaks were the longest in the major leagues in 14 years.

So far, there have been 16 streaks of at least six wins, and 17 skids of at least six losses.

Why so many? There are about as many theories as there are stitches on a baseball.

"It's just an attitude," Rangers first baseman Rafael Palmeiro said. "You come to the park confident you're going to win. When you're on a losing streak, you dread coming to the park."

But confidence alone is no guarantee of success. Long road trips, injuries, and tough teams can all conspire to keep a club reeling, while homestands, health and easy opponents can keep a team rolling.

"We had our (eight-game) losing streak when we had three starting pitchers on the disabled list," Rangers reliever Goose Gossage said. "You can point to things like that when you're going bad."

Thirteen of the Twins' 15 wins came against sub-.500 clubs in the American League East. In fact, nearly all of the prolonged winning streaks this year have come from the American League West. As Sparky Anderson sees it, that's no coincidence.

"Look at the record. The West has five teams solidly over .500, while the East has two," the Tigers manager said. "They have total supremacy on the East."

Still, it's not easy to win 15 in a row. You need luck too.

"Sometimes when you're not playing real good, a bad break hurts," Twins reliever Rick Aguilera said. "When you're playing good ball, you tend to get the breaks. I don't know really how that works."

The Rangers won four times in extra innings during their surge. The Mariners won 10 games by two runs or less during their 12-1 stretch last month.

Sometimes a string of bad luck can wear down a team's morale.

"It seems we just sit back and wait for something bad to happen, instead of being aggressive," Cleveland's Greg Swindell said.

The Indians recently lost 11 of 12 — that included two 1-0 defeats, two 2-1 games and a 2-0 loss.

"When a team starts doing this, it's bad," Swindell said. "We're just laying back and letting teams roll over us."

OK, but why have so many teams gone from winning to losing so quickly? In addition to the Mariners' identity crisis in April, Texas lost 11 of 12 immediately after taking 14 in a row.

"Pressure builds during a streak," Lefebvre said. "You have to guard against a letdown when the streak ends."

In a statistical sense, though, even up-and-down patterns like Seattle's can be reduced to percentages.

If you flipped a coin 2,106 times, or one for every game in a baseball season, you would have long runs of both heads and tails. Sometimes, they would even follow each other.

In this light, maybe winning streaks have as much to do with random chance as anything else. Then again, maybe not.

"I've known guys who try to figure out this game," Gossage said. "They're always trying to figure out why things happen. Those are the guys who don't seem to last too long."

Colorado Rockies name of new NL team

Associated Press

DENVER — The National League expansion team expected to be awarded to Denver will be named the Colorado Rockies and the mascot will be a bear, a concession to local supporters of a competing name, the Denver Bears, according to a report.

The Rocky Mountain News, which reported that Denver and Miami would be awarded franchises before the major league baseball expansion team made its recommendation for those two sites, cited sources today in saying the team name was ready for unveiling last week at the major league owners meetings in Santa Monica, Calif.

"They had the jerseys, logos and hats shipped to California," said the source.

The report also said that the American League roadblock of baseball's expansion into Denver and Miami appears headed for a settlement.

The newspaper cited a source "close to the commissioner's office" in saying the AL owners have reached a compromise that would clear the way for an approval vote of Denver and Miami, probably before the end of the month.

"It should be put to bed by next week," the source said.

Phyllis Merhige, the AL's director of public relations, said "nothing is imminent."

Promoters win suit against Ali

LEBANON, Ind. (AP) — Classic Sports Promotions Inc. won a default judgment over former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali on Friday in a contract dispute involving a personal appearance.

According to the suit, Classic Sports hired Ali to appear at a Cincinnati sports memorabilia show in 1989. Ali also was to sign 250 color photographs and 150 posters of himself.

However, Ali failed to sign any of the photos, and signed just 106 posters, the suit charged.

WIMBLEDON: Agassi conforms to tradition represents.

"It's no question I've learned the place that tradition holds, and this is a change for me," said the 21-year-old Agassi, who once insisted he wouldn't come here because of the ban on his colorful clothes. "Initially, I had a hard time understanding tradition and the place it plays. It's exciting to be part of it. It was a silly thing to think that Wimbledon could inconvenience me."

Seeded strictly by computer rankings, regardless of past performance on grass, Agassi is No. 5 behind top-seeded, defending champion Edberg, No. 2 Boris Becker, No. 3 Ivan Lendl, and No. 4 Jim Courier, Agassi's conqueror on clay in the French Open.

U.S. Open champion Pete Sampras, whose serve-and-volley style is more naturally suited to grass than the baseline assaults of Lendl, Courier or Agassi, is seeded only eighth.

Instead of playing grasscourt tuneup tournaments in England the past two weeks, Agassi returned to Florida to practice on grass.

"It has been tremendously easier than expected," he said. "I'm excited how I'm going to play."

While Agassi is eager to find out whether he can play well on grass, others are coming in with more confidence and far more experience.

Edberg, usually low-key about his play, fairly bubbled with enthusiasm after winning a grasscourt tuneup at Queens Club.

"I have never played so well going into Wimbledon as I have this year," said the Swede, who beat Becker in five sets in the final last year. "My preparations could not have been better, and I know that someone will have to play really well to beat me on grass."

Edberg, who beat Becker in the 1988 final and lost to him in 1989, said that each year here has held "a very special feeling for me."

"There is nowhere better to play than on the Wimbledon Centre Court," he said. "I would like to win the title many more times because when you are Wimbledon champion you are on top of the world."

Becker, the three-time champion, knows the feeling. He is especially motivated by the chance of reclaiming the No. 1 ranking he held briefly after beating Edberg in the Australian Open final in January.

"The more Grand Slams I get, the more claim I have on the title of the best player of all time. That must be my ultimate goal," said Becker, whose five major titles also include the 1989 U.S. Open.

"It would be nice to win as many Grand Slams as (Bjorn) Borg. He had 11."

Becker, 23, figures that Edberg will again be his chief competition, but he doesn't discount Lendl, who has never won at Wimbledon.

"Stefan and I have played the best on grass for the past three years, and though you cannot say it will be the same final, we must have the best chance," Becker said.

"People say that Lendl is not so good on grass, but I do not agree. He wants the title more than anyone else in the field, and he always goes a long way in the championship."

A year ago, Lendl came here No. 1 in the rankings and obsessed by the desire to win the one Grand Slam event that had eluded him. He skipped the French Open to prepare on grass with coach Tony Roche and seemed finally to have come to terms with the surface when he won a tuneup tournament on grass in overpowering style. But a semifinal loss to Edberg on Centre Court sent Lendl away a loser for the 11th time.

This year Lendl has downplayed his desire to win here at all costs. He planned to enter the French Open, but pulled out to give himself more time to recover from hand surgery. Two weeks ago, he again won a tuneup on grass by beating 1987 Wimbledon champion Pat Cash.

But Lendl lost a second-round match against Grant Connell, a doubles specialist, at Queens Club, then retreated to workouts at Wimbledon's practice courts.

SELES: Undisclosed injury will prevent Slam sweep statement.

(From 1B)

The announcement of Seles' withdrawal, just three days before the start of Wimbledon, caught tournament officials by surprise.

"This has all come as a complete mystery to me," said Alan Mills, the Wimbledon referee. "I received the news only this afternoon. It is very disappointing."

Alan Little, the honorary librarian at the the Wimbledon museum, said Seles was the first top seed to drop out since the championships began in 1877.

Seles, who lives in Florida, was reported to be in the United States. She had complained of shin problems during the French Open earlier this month.

But players and officials said they had heard nothing recently to indicate Seles had been injured.

Wimbledon officials referred questions on Seles' injury to her agents in Cleveland, the International Management Group. But IMG officials said they had no details either.

"I think Monica is going to come up not with a better reason, but a specific explanation, because Wimbledon just happens to be the biggest tournament in the world," said Chris Evert, a former champion who will be doing television commentary this year.

"I am just very shocked after the way she played the French," Evert said. "I guess something happened in the interim that caused the injury and I think every one would be very curious what it is."

Seles won the first two legs of the Grand Slam this year, the Australian and French Opens. Wimbledon and the U.S. Open are the other two Grand Slam events.

Steffi Graf, who replaces her as top seed, was the last woman to win the Grand Slam, achieving the feat in 1988.

"I just hope she'll be healthy in time for the Open," said Martina Navratilova, after learning of Seles' withdrawal.

Okamoto pulls even with Green

Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del. — Japan's Ayako Okamoto shot a 6-under-par 65 Friday, making up a six-stroke deficit and pulling into a tie with Tammie Green for the 36-hole lead in the $750,000 LPGA McDonald's Championship.

Okamoto had five birdies in a six-hole stretch, the last at 14, in drawing even with Green at 7-under-par 135. Green, 31, who shot the lowest round of the year with a 64 on Thursday, slipped to a par 71 Friday over the 6,389-yard, par-71 DuPont Country Club course.

At 136 were Pat Bradley, the year's leading money winner, Sally Little and Michelle McGann. Bradley shot a 67, Little a 69 and McGann a 66.

Laura Davies, Cathy Gerring and Carolyn Hill were at 137 while the group at 138 included Beth Daniel, Missie Berteotti, Missie McGeorge, Dottie Mochrie, Sherri Steinhauer and Kristi Albers.

Gerring, Hill, McGeorge, Berteotti, Mochrie and Steinhauer shot 68s, Davies had a 69, Albers a 70 and Daniel a 71.

Among other top names, Jane Geddes, with a 69, and, Betsy King, 71, were at 140; Danielle Ammaccapane was at 141 after a 72; Nancy Lopez and Colleen Walker were at 142 after rounds of 71 and 73, respectively; defending champion Patty Sheehan had a second straight 72, and Amy Alcott shot 71 for a 145.

Okamoto attributed her rally to a positive attitude and a calm demeanor.

"I never think about a missed shot because I don't want to get upset," said Okamoto, who ranks eighth in career earnings and is 11th this season.

Donald creeps up on Baker-Finch

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Struggling Mike Donald put together his two best scores of the season and tied Ian Baker-Finch for the lead after Friday's second round of the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

"For the first time in a long time, I actually feel like I'm out there trying to play golf instead of trying to figure out what the heck I'm doing wrong," Donald said.

Donald, a 13-year pro who hadn't carded a round lower than a 67 in 17 events this season, opened with a 66 on Thursday at Kingsmill Golf Club and followed it with a 7-under 64 on Friday that left him shaking his head.

"I don't know if I even remember how to say that," he said. "Sixty-four. Wow."

Donald had missed the cut in five of his previous six events, and he came to Williamsburg with 1991 winnings of just $31,243, 155th on the money list.

"I'm sort of back on track again," he said. "I'm not going to say I'm playing the best golf of my life the last two days, but it's good to be playing well again."

Baker-Finch couldn't duplicate his first round, when he missed five solid birdie tries but still made seven birdies and an eagle in tying the course record with a 9-under 62.

His second-round card showed 15 pars and three birdies.

"Steady stuff, I guess you could say," he said.

Baker-Finch said he wasn't disappointed at sharing the lead with Donald at 12-under 130.

"I was just trying to stay patient, not trying to force things," he said. "Really, I just wanted to keep the lead, so I guess I sort of achieved that."

One stroke back at 11-under 131 were Dan Pohl and Bob Gilder. Pohl shot a 67 and Gilder a 68.

Hill's strong finish good enough for lead

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Mike Hill birdied the final three holes to finish at 6-under-par 66 and take a one-stroke lead after Friday's first round of the PGA Seniors PaineWebber Invitational golf tournament.

Hill led Arnold Palmer, who designed this 6,774-yard course at Tournament Players Club at Piper Glen. Defending champion Bruce Crampton and Doug Dalziel were another shot back at 68.

"These fairways are the best we've played all year," said Hill, fourth on this season's tour money list through 14 events. "I like the fact that you've got to drive the ball in the fairway to give yourself a chance to hit the greens."

Making the turn at 2-under, Hill made five of his eight birdies on the back nine. His nine-iron of the tee at the 142-yard par-3 17th left him four feet from the hole. On the 514-yard 18th, his sand wedge approach shot landed two feet from the cup.

Palmer began his run with a 60-yard sand wedge for eagle on the 529-yard, par-5 sixth hole. He made consecutive birdie putts at the 425-yard 11th and par-3 12th before adding a 20-footer on the 410-yard 15th.

"I shot a couple of 68s in the pro-am and hitting my irons better has been encouraging," said Palmer, who saw a potential birdie chip at 18 glance off the pin.

"I suppose I need to have some encouraging rounds to keep going," he said. "If I shoot 67 or better, I'm not concerned about the lead at all."

Dalziel, a non-exempt player winless in 30 combined years as a tour professional, birdied two of the last three holes to set the early pace. He suffered torn ligaments and tendons in his left wrist last year, but after missing only one putt of six feet or less, he seems to have recovered.

"I'm happy to see this even if it's only for a day," Dalziel said. "If the putter keeps hot, you can do anything."

Bob Brue took a markedly different track, enjoying 12 single-putt opportunities to join Chi Chi Rodriguez, Bob Wynn, Al Geiberger and Orville Moody at 69.

"I felt good and had a nice steady round," said Brue, who pitched within four feet to birdie the 18th. "There were a lot of long irons hit out there."

Don Massengale and Tom Shaw head a group of six at 2-under, four strokes off the pace.

Seven golfers were at 1-under 71, including George Archer, Dave Hill and Gibby Gilbert. Charles Coody and six others are tied at 72.

Hornets have packed nest to choose from in draft

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Charlotte Hornets have a potential No. 1 draft pick almost wherever they look.

Out West, there's UNLV forward Larry Johnson.

Go to the South and it's Kenny Anderson of Georgia Tech.

In the East, center Dikembe Mutombo of Georgetown waits. North of there, forward Billy Owens of Syracuse is available.

But the Hornets aren't saying until the NBA draft on Wednesday night who their choice will be.

"We won't announce it even after we make the final decision," Hornets vice president Allan Bristow said. "We want the whole city to be surprised at the same time."

Of the four players conceded to be the best in the draft, Bristow eliminated only Anderson, a 6-foot-2 point guard who left Georgia Tech after his sophomore season.

"We need a forward or a center and the only center we would consider is Mutombo," Bristow said.

Despite the news from the draft camp in Chicago earlier this month that Johnson is less than 6-6 instead of his listed 6-7, reports persist that the Hornets are leaning toward him.

"It doesn't bother us," Bristow said of Johnson's height discrepancy. "He's strong and quick enough to play forward."

New Jersey, which drafted rookie of the year Derrick Coleman No. 1 in 1990, has the second selection this time.

"Last year, 20 of the 27 teams would have picked Derrick," Nets vice president Willis Reed said. "This year, there's no clear-cut No. 1. All we know is there will be 54 players drafted and we'll have a choice of 53."

Reed said that it's difficult to do much planning when the team ahead of the Nets is not revealing its plans.

"One week we heard they would take Mutombo, now we're hearing Johnson," Reed said. "Next week, it might be Billy Owens.

"Everyone has different tastes in cars, women and food, and it's the same way with players."

Johnson said he had interviews with both Charlotte and New Jersey, but neither gave him a clue of their intentions.

"New Jersey is waiting on Charlotte and Charlotte says they haven't made a decision," Johnson said. "I couldn't get any feedback."

If the Nets take him, Owens would be reunited with former Syracuse teammate Coleman.

"I'd love to play with Derrick," Owens said. "We're great friends, and besides that, he's a great player with a winning attitude. It would be great if it happens, but I won't be disappointed playing somewhere else."

Sacramento, with the third pick, has made no secret that it wants Anderson.

"If Kenny's there, we'd love to have him," said Jerry Reynolds, director of player personnel for the Kings, who have a good group of forwards but little talent in the backcourt.

Reynolds predicted last week that Johnson, Owens, Anderson and Mutombo would be the choices of Charlotte, New Jersey, the Kings and Denver.

"Billy Owens might be the most talented player in the draft and if Charlotte wants to give us Larry Johnson, we'll take him," Reynolds said. "No one can keep us from getting one of the top players. If we have to take a forward and our team is crowded at forward, we can make it uncrowded before training camp.

"If we get Kenny to play guard, we don't have to worry about making other changes."

Denver, the worst team in the NBA last season, has its own No. 4 pick plus the eighth pick the Nuggets acquired in a trade with Washington for Michael Adams.

Besides Mutombo, the Nuggets can choose from a group including Missouri forward Doug Smith, Michigan State guard Steve Smith, UNLV forward Stacey Augmon and UNLV guard Greg Anthony.

■ Coming Sunday, a look at the needs of Texas' three NBA teams.

Top Guns

NEW YORK (AP) — Thumbnail sketches of 30 potential first-round choices in the National Basketball Association Draft, to be held June 26 at Madison Square Garden:

Kenny Anderson, Georgia Tech
6-2, 168 ... 25.9 ppg, 5.6 apg
The premier guard in the draft ... Superquick with excellent court vision and uses lethal jumper to spread floor and drive to the basket ... Left school after being named AP All-America as a sophomore ... Rebounds extremely well for his size but may have to put on a few pounds to endure long pro schedule ... Played for U.S. National Team at Goodwill Games and World Championships in summer of 1990 ... Averaged 20.6 points and 8.1 assists as freshman, leading Tech to Final Four.

Greg Anthony, UNLV
6-2, 190 ... 11.6 ppg, 8.9 apg
Rated right behind Kenny Anderson among point guards and almost as quick ... Honorable mention All-America as a junior and senior, quarterbacking Runnin' Rebels to consecutive Final Fours ... Played part of junior season with broken jaw ... Made 137 3-pointers in three years at UNLV but never shot better than 46 percent overall.

Stacey Augmon, UNLV
6-8, 205 ... 16.5 ppg, 7.3 rpg
Received Henry Iba Corinthian Award as nation's top defensive player for third straight year ... Named to AP All-America first team as a senior after playing in 1988 Olympics as a freshman ... On offense, very dangerous on the wing or in transition and can make 20-footer ... Defensively, has been compared to Dennis Rodman.

Larry Johnson, UNLV
6-5½, 250 ... 22.7 ppg, 10.9 rpg
Won't be around long and could go first ... Has developed nice outside touch to go with unstoppable inside game ... Relentless on both backboards and not a bad passer ... Two-time AP All-America and Big West Player of the Year, leading Runnin' Rebels to consecutive Final Fours ... Two-time JUCO Player of the Year at Odessa (Texas) JC before transferring to UNLV ... Listed 1½ inches taller in college, but so was Charles Barkley.

Luc Longley, New Mexico
7-2, 265 ... 19.1 ppg, 9.2 rpg
Lobos' all-time leading scorer (1,769 points) and rebounder (922) and ranks eighth on NCAA all-time blocks list (336) ... All-WAC first team and defensive team as junior and senior ... Played for Australian National Team at Goodwill Games and World Championships in summer of 1990 and did not fare well in international game ... Has good all-around skills but has never been tested against top-level centers.

Mark Macon, Temple
6-5, 185 ... 22 ppg, 4.9 apg
A shooting guard with size who can handle the ball, rebound and play defense ... Stock improved dramatically during NCAA tournament as he led Owls to second regional final in four years ... Four-time All-Atlantic 10 first team selection and two-time conference player of the year ... Shot 42.3 percent from the field during college career, but in fairness, was asked to carry a big offensive load.

Eric Murdock, Providence
6-2, 189 ... 25.6 ppg, 4.6 apg
Quick hands made him NCAA all-time steals leader with 376 ... Good transition player who can drive or stop for pull-up jumper ... Named to All-Big East first team as a senior, scoring 30 or more 11 times, including career-high 48 against Pittsburgh ... Also rebounds very well for a small guard (5.3 per game last season).

Dikembe Mutombo, Georgetown
7-2, 245 ... 15.2 ppg, 12.2 rpg
The best available center in the draft and should be selected first ... Made All-Big East first team and selected as conference's defensive player of the year as a senior ... A tremendous shot-blocker (4.72 per game as a senior) and defensive player but still needs work on his offensive skills ... Born in Zaire and played for its national team ... Good stamina and a tireless worker.

Billy Owens, Syracuse
6-9, 225 ... 23.3 ppg, 11.6 rpg
Perhaps the most versatile player in the draft ... Can play either forward position and his ball-handling skills may allow him to eventually play at big guard ... Can score facing the basket or posting up and runs the floor very well ... Left school after being named to AP All-America first team and Big East player of the year as a junior ... Played for U.S. National Team at Goodwill Games and World Championships in summer of 1990.

Stanley Roberts, Real Madrid
7-0, 285 ... 11.7 ppg, 8.7 rpg
Played sophomore season at LSU, averaging 14.1 points and 9.8 rebounds alongside Shaquille O'Neal ... Sat out freshman year as Prop 48 casualty ... Left school after sophomore season to play in Spanish League ... Not a project like most big men in this draft. Turned 21 in February ... An awful free-throw shooter.

Brian Shorter, Pittsburgh
6-6, 230 ... 13.6 ppg, 6.4 rpg
Good offensive player who can post up or square up for medium range jumper ... Subpar senior season after being named to All-Big East first team as sophomore and junior ... Sat out freshman season as Prop 48 ... Had 32 points and 11 rebounds against Syracuse last season ... Has a tendency to disappear from games.

Doug Smith, Missouri
6-10, 220 ... 23.6 ppg, 10.4 rpg
A true power forward rated just a notch below the draft's premier players ... Became third player in Big Eight history to amass 1,000 points and 1,000 rebounds (Danny Manning and Wayman Tisdale) ... Excellent low-post scorer with baby hook and turnaround jumper ... Played for U.S. National Team at Goodwill Games and World Championships in summer of 1990.

Steve Smith, Michigan St.
6-7, 200 ... 25.1 ppg, 6.1 rpg
Strong, versatile shooting guard who will be among the top 10 picks ... Could play some small forward in the NBA ... Led Big Ten in scoring last two seasons and finished as Spartans' all-time leading scorer (2,263 points) ... Made game-winning buzzer shot in NCAA first-round game against Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Baker: Berlin more than a city to Americans

By Larry Thorson

BERLIN (AP) — John F. Kennedy said it for many Americans: "Ich bin ein Berliner."

Kennedy came to West Berlin in 1963 to state his personal attachment as well as the official U.S. responsibility for the endangered city. The responsibility was shared by Western allies Britain and France, but the United States had the greater power to lead what seemed like an eternal struggle against Moscow.

Now, even as the German parliament has decided to move itself and the government to Berlin, the three Allies still have about 11,200 troops in their old occupation zones in the German capital.

This situation will probably end after 1994, when Soviet troops are to complete their pullout from surrounding territory in what was Communist-run East Germany.

Diplomats from the three Allied countries declined to comment officially Friday on the Berlin decision. "France respects the decision but has no comment on" an internal German matter, said spokesman Bernard Nuss of the French Embassy in Bonn.

Washington never stated a position during the debate in Germany over whether to move from Bonn, but Secretary of State James A. Baker III said the United States had helped to create something of "lasting vitality" in Berlin over the decades.

"Berlin is much more than a city to Americans. Berlin is the birthplace of a special kinship between Germans and Americans. It is here that Germans and Americans, once adversaries, stood together. This is the place where we suffered, shared and strove for freedom," Baker said Tuesday while attending a Berlin conference on security in post-Cold War Europe.

Berlin has a troubled calling as a historic place in the heartland of Europe. Napoleon occupied it in 1806 after defeating Prussia. Adolf Hitler made Berlin a sinister name as the capital from which he launched his campaign to conquer Europe.

In deciding to move from Bonn, Germans were "turning their backs on Berlin's past association with megalomania, defeat and destruction," the British newspaper The Independent editorialized Friday.

The French daily Le Monde commented: "In coming back to Berlin, the Germans are trying to return to their history, to all of their history, with its grandeurs and its crimes."

After World War II, the city repeatedly found its name bound with common nouns that had to be capitalized — so much human fate was at stake.

■ The Berlin Blockade and Berlin Airlift: 1948-49, when Soviet dictator Josef Stalin tried to starve the city, and the U.S. and British air forces had to fly in food and fuel for 11 months.

■ The Berlin Wall: erected in 1961 by the East Germans to stop a hemorrhage of people to the West; opened in 1989 amid a popular revolution that signaled the beginning of the end of the Cold War.

The entire city was occupied by Soviet troops in 1945 (the Battle of Berlin) and could have slipped into Stalin's hands if the United States had not insisted on a share of control.

Older West Berliners are still some of America's staunchest admirers, for they felt they owed their freedom and high standard of living to U.S. protection. "The Americans were our greatest security," said Gert Knecht, a man in his 60s who lived by the Berlin Wall.

This warmth made Berlin a happy posting for tens of thousands of U.S. troops and diplomats. There's a "Little America" in the Dahlem and Zehlendorf neighborhoods of southwestern Berlin where Americans lived comfortably — and still do.

Anthony Sariti, a U.S. spokesman in East Berlin, stressed that the U.S. government had no official comment on the German decision to move to Berlin. But personally, he said, "All the people who have been working here in the American Embassy in Berlin are happy. We are Berliners."

Face Forward With GOD

It appears that this young equestrian would benefit from additional riding lessons! Who ever heard of riding a horse backward?? Someone should advise her to face forward if she expects to reach her destination.

Yet, how many of us make the same mistake as we journey through our lives . . . looking backward instead of forward. We may lose sight of our goals, if we are blinded by the fear of repetition of past hurts and regrets.

Face the future without fear, trusting in God. Psalms 37:23-24 assures us saying, "the steps of a man are established by the Lord; . . . when he falls, he shall not be hurled headlong because the Lord is the One who holds his hand."

Make your decision to face forward with trust, not backward with fear, as you praise God this week in your chosen house of worship.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Man called to mission

Gary Lee Griffin has been called to serve a two-year mission for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the Arcadia, Calif., Mandarin Chinese Mission.

Griffin

A farewell will be held for him at 9 a.m. Sunday in the chapel, 2101 Tarleton.

Griffin, the third son of Midlanders L. Royce and Suzanne Griffin will serve a two-year mission. He is a graduate of Lee High School where he was on the soccer team, in the orchestra, National Honor Society, 1200 Club (SAT), president of the Chemistry Club and a participant in the Academic Decathlon.

He just completed his first year at Bringham Young University where he is on a four-year scholarship and made the National Dean's List. An avid scouter, Griffin earned his Eagle Scout award and achieved one of the palm recognitions.

Since returning from BYU in early May, Griffin has been busy with the family lawn care service started by the brothers three years ago to earn money for their missions. Like all LDS missionaries, Griffin will receive no payment for his service and will be supported by his savings.

Upon leaving Midland, Griffin will attend the Missionary Training Center in Provo, Utah, for two months of intensive training in the Mandarin Chinese dialect before arriving at his assignment in California. Once in Arcadia, he will spend 60 to 70 hours per week teaching others about the Gospel. He will abstain from dating, swimming, skiing, surfing, dancing and rock music.

After, his mission, Griffin plans to return to BYU to complete his degree in mechanical engineering.

■ Bible scholar to speak

The Rev. Robert R. Roberts will be speaking at Grace Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Roberts, who is the western regional director of God's Word to the Nations Bible Society, will be reviewing a new translation of the Bible and giving all who attend a free copy of the new trnslation. Visitors are welcome to attend.

Roberts

God's Word to the Nations Bible Society was founded a few years ago in Cleveland, Ohio, for the express purpose of developing a new translation of the Bible which is both "literal" and easy to read, said a release from the Rev. Ray E. Johanson, pastor of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The society maintains that there are many literal translations which are hard to understand and also many paraphrased Bibles which, while easy to understand, are not faithful to the original text, Johanson said.

The Society has finished the translation of the New Testament protion of the Bible and released it under the name, "New Evangelical Translation."

Some of the world's foremost Hebrew scholars are currently involved in the translation work on the Old Testament which is scheduled for completion in 1994, Johansen said.

The Rev. Dr. Ellis Nelson, research professor at APTS, will teach the course. Nelson is a graduate of Austin College, APTS, the University of Texas, Austin and Columbia University.

The classes will meet at Trinity Presbyterian Church, Sunday through Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. for 30 class hours. This course may be taken either for full credit as a special student of the seminary or for audit.

Parklea Baptist Church

Parklea Baptist Church expands facility

Midland's Parklea Baptist Church, which began as a mission of the Temple Baptist Church of Odessa in August of 1955, has expanded its space with a 36,000 square foot church facility located at 3125 Travis Ave.

The work on the facility will continue for many months, but the church will relocate and begin to hold services at the Travis Avenue location beginning June 30 with a formal dedication planned for late fall.

The new facility, when completed, will include a modern childcare facility for use during church services and daycare for the community, a full size gymnasium, educational space for 800 adults, teen-agers and children and a music suite with a library and rehearsal rooms.

The present church site was a tract of land in the then Parklea Subdivision located at 2906 Franklin. Through the years, the Parklea membership has continued to grow. In 1983, Parklea Baptist Church called Terry L. Chapman as pastor.

The 36,000 square foot church facility, 3125 Travis Ave., was in need of repairs.

"The buildings were in desperate need of repair and renovations are underway," said the Rev. Dan Johnson, assistant pastor. "The work on the buildings have been done with 95 percent of the labor being provided at no cost from within the membership."

■ Support group ongoing

The Family Ministry of Golf Course Road Church of Christ, 3500 W. Golf Course Road, will continue to offer a bi-weekly support group for step-parents throughout the summer months.

The small group discussion and lecture format is designed to help blended families, re-marriages and step-family situations through peer group support and printed materials.

The group is co-conducted by Gary Grady, family minister for the church who is a step-parent, alternating weeks with Kurt Shedek, also a step-parent in a blended home.

The group meets on alternate Sunday evenings from 6 to 7 p.m. in the Family Center of the church, Room 103. Bible Hour is held concurrently for children.

All interested parties are invited to attend the next meeting July 7.

■ Church to host revival

Mount Rose Baptist Church, 211 N. Tyler, is hosting a revival Monday through Friday.

Service time is 7 p.m. Theme for the revival is "Wilt Thou not revive us again: that Thy people may rejoice in Thee," from Psalm 85:6.

In addition, the revival includes a 3 p.m. service June 30. Curtis Butler of Higher Dimensions, Tulsa, Okla., will be the guest speaker.

Other guest speakers include the Rev. Donnie Brackens, pastor of Shekinah Glory; the Rev. Perry Johnson, assistant pastor of Mount Carmel; the Rev. Robert Dorn, evangelist; and the Rev. Richard Spencer, pastor of Cornerstone.

Subjects include "Revival to Your Finances," Monday; "Revival to Your Marriage," Tuesday; "Revival to Your Health," Wednesday; "Revival to Your Soul," Thursday; and "Revival to Your Spirit," Friday.

The Rev. William C. Palmer, pastor of Mount Rose Baptist Church, invites the public to attend.

■ Health program slated

Fannin Terrace Baptist Church is beginning a eight-week Christ-centered health program called First Place.

"The program includes a proven common sense nutrition plan, Bible study, small group support and other Christian disciplines," Leslie Malone said in a news release. "The aim of First Place is to provide growth in all areas of life: spiritual, mental, emotional and physical."

The program will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Thursdays. For more information or for child care call Lyn Travis, 697-8641.

■ Ranchland sets picnic

Ranchland Heights Baptist Church will have a church-wide picnic at 6 p.m. on Sunday.

The picnic, to be held on the church grounds, will feature mesquite-broiled hamburgers with all the trimmings. No formal church service will be held in the sanctuary, but a devotional time will be observed during the picnic.

Hamburgers will be broiled by Earl Selman. Marilyn Hall has organized the rest of the meal with the other members of the church. The public is invited to attend. For more information call 683-1947 or 684-7233.

■ Order elects leader

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Franciscans chose a German friar as the general minister who will lead them through the next six years as they preach the Gospel and care for the needy throughout the world.

The Rev. Hermann Friedhelm Schalueck, 52, was elected last week to oversee 19,214 Franciscan brothers and priests living and working in 93 countries. More than half are in Western and Central Europe and over a third in North and Latin America.

The 147 delegates attending a month-long conference elected Schalueck by 74 votes on a fourth ballot.

Schalueck, a native of Sankt Vit, Germany, has served for the past six years in Rome as the councilor representing Western Europe. was the order's general secretary for formation and studies from 1983 to 1985, and was provincial minister of Holy Cross, Werl, Germany, from 1973 to 1983.

He succeeds the Rev. John Vaughn, a California native.

In an address to the Soviet Parliament Friday, President Mikhail Gorbachev accused Communist hard-liners of trying to create friction between him and Prime Minister Valentin Pavlov.

Soviet leader maintains his centrist ways

■ Mikhail Gorbachev says he will merge two conflicting economic-reform plans.

By Serge Schmemann
New York Times News Service

MOSCOW — Confronted with competing economic plans from left and right, President Mikhail S. Gorbachev said Friday he was preparing to combine them to present to the leaders of seven major industrial powers next month.

His decision not to support in its entirety the radical plan worked out by a liberal economist, Grigory Yavlinsky, in collaboration with Harvard economists and instead to seek to merge it with a somewhat more conservative "anti-crisis" reform favored by his Prime Minister Valentin Pavlov underscored Gorbachev's continuing efforts to keep a centrist policy, in the face of competing pulls and tugs.

Yavlinsky said at a news conference later that his program and that of Pavlov were not compatible. This is a view shared by Boris

■ Boris Yeltsin wraps up U.S. visit/7C

N. Yeltsin, president of the Russian republic, who is now campaigning for reform on a trip to the United States, and by most Western economists as well.,

Gorbachev commented on the programs during a stormy session of the Soviet Parliament at which he fired an unusually fiery broadside at his hard-line critics and stopped the deputies from granting sweeping new powers requested by Pavlov.

Even though all the evidence during the week was of a fight between Gorbachev and Pavlov, Gorbachev insisted that this was not so.

"There is no conflict between the president and the prime minister in principle, nor in human or organizational terms," Gorbachev said, attributing widespread reports to the contrary to "hysteria" fanned by his far-right foes.

Though the day's conflict was with the conservatives, who have not concealed their dissatisfaction over the president's truce with republican leaders and his initiatives to the West, Gorbachev suggested that he was still struggling to find that increasingly elusive middle ground between impatient reformers on the left and resentful conservatives on the right.

Gorbachev said his program would include elements of the Yavlinsky and Pavlov plans, plus suggestions from the International Monetary Fund and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

"It will be the program of the president with which I will go to London," Gorbachev said. "There are no contradictions between the 'anti-crisis program' and the blueprints brought by Yavlinsky. Those who want to pass off the first as misconception and the second as brilliant foresight mislead society and provoke misunderstandings and clashes."

He denied he was repeating the mistake he made last fall when he tried to combine the "500-Day" program of radical economic reforms — to which Yavlinsky was a major contributor — and the government's considerably less dramatic reforms.

"A premature baby was born then in the form of the 'Main Guidelines,' " he acknowledged. But he insisted there was no parallel, saying: "We had to cover this stage. Society was ill-prepared, no answers were available, we had to find the common mainstream of movement. We are now reaching a stage when direct action will be taken."

The latest challenge to Gorbachev took shape Monday, when Pavlov unexpectedly asked Parliament to give him additional powers independent of the president. Under the arrangement in force since last fall, the prime minister and Cabinet answer directly to the president, who has broad powers to govern by decree.

Pavlov's request was caught up by the far-right "Soyuz" block and found support among the hard-line security leaders, Vladimir A. Kryuchkov of the KGB, Interior Minister Boris Pugo and Defense Minister Dimitri T. Yazov. All three sat together in a corner of the Supreme Soviet chamber Friday grimly watching the proceedings.

At the session, Gorbachev came out swinging. He turned on leaders of the Soyuz faction, accusing them of constantly seeking confrontation "for their narrow-minded purposes." He accused the co-chairmen of the bloc, Col. Viktor Alksnis and Yuri Blokhin, of "demogagic" efforts to trip him and his policies at every turn.

"You can take my statement as evidence that democracy is still in force, and nobody will usurp that democracy to achieve their own ends," Gorbachev declared to loud applause from liberal ranks in the Supreme Soviet.

Those comments echoed to some extent the resignation speech last year by Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze, who warned of the threat of a dictatorship from the right facing Gorbachev.

In the voting, Pavlov's request for additional powers was easily defeated in a procedural vote, and Parliament voted instead to request the president to study the proposal, insuring that it would die.

South Africa eases internal-security law

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (NYT) — Parliament wrapped up a landmark session Friday by approving a radical overhaul of South Africa's Internal Security Act, which was long used to stifle opposition to apartheid.

The new law ends preventive detention and severely limits detention for the purpose of interrogation. Until now, the government could hold its opponents indefinitely without trial under Section 28 of the Act, which authorized preventive detention for renewable periods of up to 180 days, and Section 29, which authorized indefinite detention for interrogation.

The legislation, which President F.W. de Klerk announced on May 2, also repeals provisions of the 1982 Act providing for the house arrest and banning of individuals, restrictions on the activities of organizations, the registration of newspapers and prohibitions on political publications and writings by government opponents.

According to the Human Rights Commission, which monitors civil rights from the perspective of the anti-apartheid movement, 24,000 detentions took place over the last three decades under the Internal Security Act and earlier legislation. Another 54,000 detentions were carried out under the national state of emergency, which has since been repealed by de Klerk.

By one estimate, only one in 25 detainees was ever tried and convicted of a crime.

The right-wing Conservative Party, which objects to having apartheid dismantled, opposed the new law passed Friday on grounds that it deleted a clause making the furthering of communism a criminal offense. De Klerk legalized the South African Communist Party on Feb. 2, 1990, when he also lifted bans on the African National Congress and other anti-apartheid organizations.

The sweeping changes approved Friday have not satisfied the Human Rights Commission and critics who say the Internal Security Act should be entirely scrapped. They contend that supected criminals could be held under other existing legislation.

But other critics, among them the white liberal Democratic Party, welcomed the change.

"If one is honest, what is left of the original Section 29 is but a pale shadow of the draconian measure we in opposition have so long abhorred," Dave Dalling, a Democratic member of Parliament, said during the debate.

According to the amended Section 29, suspects can be held initially for only 10 days and the police must get court approval for an extension.

■ Waldheim will not run for another term

VIENNA, Austria — President Kurt Waldheim, who was elected five years ago despite an international controversy over his World War II past, announced Friday that he would not run for a second term.

Waldheim had faced growing pressure not to seek another six-year term next year due to concern that his re-election could hurt Austria's attempts to join the European Community.

"I have decided, after due consideration of the interests of the republic, the experiences of the past years, but also my personal ideas for the future, not to stand for a second term as president," he said.

The 72-year-old Waldheim, a former U.N. secretary-general, was shunned by Western leaders for hushing up his World War II service with a German army unit and his alleged implication in war crimes.

■ Baker appeals with Yugoslavs for unity

BELGRADE — Secretary of State James Baker plunged into the morass of Yugoslav politics on Friday, pleading in a marathon series of meetings with the country's leaders to find a bloodless solution to the multi-ethnic conflicts threatening to erupt into civil war.

"The dangers of the disintegration of this country could have very tragic consequences not only here but for Europe as a whole," Baker said emerging from day-long meetings.

"In all candor, what I heard here today has not allayed our concerns," he said. But Baker added that the leaders of the country's six republics and Yugoslavia's prime minister were all prepared to keep negotiating.

The administration fears that the seething feuds among the republics will spill over into other central and east European countries, many of which, similarly, are patchworks of nationalities harboring long-held enmities.

■ Securities executives compensated clients

TOKYO — Senior officials of Japan's top two securities houses admitted Friday that they had compensated some of their richest clients for major losses on the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

In another blow to the Nomura and Nikko securities companies, the mass circulation Asahi Shimbun newspaper reported the firms had arranged loans worth $258.9 million for a former leader of the Inagawa-kai crime syndicate. The companies said the loans had been arranged through intermediaries and said they had no relations with the alleged gangster, Susumu Ishii.

All of Japan's "Big Four" securities houses, which include Daiwa Securities Co. and Yamaichi Securities Co., have been hit by sharp plunges in profits during the year that ended March 31.

Nomura and Nikko acknowledged that payments they made to some of their wealthiest customers might be viewed as "compensation" for stock losses.

■ Major, Haughey: Political progress possible

LONDON — Prime Ministers John Major of Britain and Charles Haughey of Ireland said Friday that current talks on the political future of Northern Ireland offer an historic opportunity for progress.

Since Monday, four Northern Ireland parties have been holding talks aimed at restoring self-government in in the province.

The Irish government is scheduled to join in the negotiations later, possibly in August.

Pablo Escobar's brother surrenders

MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP) — Roberto Escobar, the No. 2 leader of the Medellin cocaine cartel, surrendered Friday and joined his billionaire younger brother behind bars, a court official said.

He was the sixth ranking member to join Pablo Escobar in the luxurious prison the cartel leader entered Wednesday. Escobar told a television reporter Thursday that 10 other cartel members will soon surrender.

The Colombian government has portrayed the surrenders as a victory in its 34-month-old war on traffickers. But international enforcement officials believe other leaders will take over the Medellin organization's business or that the drug lords will run the group from prison.

The evidently sweet terms of surrender have angered many Colombians. On Friday, thousands of prison inmates in 11 cities staged hunger strikes to demand the same treatment.

"What kind of holocaust or calamity or atrocity must we commit to get the same dignified treatment given to Pablo Escobar?" asked one prisoner on the News At Seven television program. His face on the screen was electronically scrambled to prevent identification.

Escobar and his lieutenants began turning themselves in just hours after the panel writing a new Colombian constitution banned extraditions. Guaranteed to escape trial in the United States, the traffickers also became eligible for reduced jail terms by surrendering.

A soldier walks alongside a caravan of vehicles, one of which transported Roberto Escobar — considered the No. 2 man in the Medellin drug cartel — to a Colombian jail that was built especially for surrendering drug traffickers.

The striking common criminals said the Constitutional Assembly should have reduced their jail terms as well. The assembly on Friday voted down a measure to reduce by one-third the terms for all inmates in Colombia.

Roberto Escobar, 44, arrived in a caravan of seven vehicles at the new traffickers' jail in his hometown of Envigado, near Medellin, a Criminal Court official said on condition of anonymity. Escobar surrendered with another cartel member, Gustavo Gonzalez.

Lehder, Quintero, Gaviria: Where are they now?

Associated Press

Pablo Escobar, Colombia's most wanted fugitive, surrendered to authorities on Wednesday. Here is a look at what has happened to some other drug lords. All are Colombians, except where noted.

—Carlos Lehder, 38, co-founder of the Medellin cartel, was extradited to the United States in 1987 and is serving a 140-year sentence at a federal prison for drug trafficking and conspiracy.

—Rafael Caro Quintero, 37, Mexican drug kingpin, was convicted in 1988 of the torture slaying of DEA agent Enrique Camarena Salazar in Mexico and sentenced to 40 years in prison.

—Ernesto Fonesca Carrillo, 63, was convicted in 1988 of the torture slaying of DEA agent Enrique Camarena Salazar in Mexico and sentenced to 40 years in prison.

—Jose Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha, 42, a leader of the Medellin cartel, was killed in 1989 in a gunbattle with police near Covenas on Colombia's northern coast along with his son and five bodyguards.

—Gustavo Gaviria, 41, the No. 3 man in the Medellin cartel, was shot and killed by members of an elite anti-narcotics police unit at his luxury apartment in southern Medellin.

—Fabio Ochoa, 33, the youngest of the Ochoa brothers, last year became the first Medellin cartel leader to surrender under a Colombian government offer not to extradite drug trafficking suspects to the United States.

—Jorge Luis Ochoa, 41, the No. 2 man in the Medellin cocaine cartel, surrendered to Colombian authorities in January in exchange for the government's promise not to extradite him to the United States.

—Luis Arce Gomez, 52, a former Bolivian interior minister, was sentenced in March to 30 years for conspiring to import cocaine into the United States and conspiring to distribute cocaine.

Out of 12 men listed by the U.S. attorney general in August 1989 as the most-wanted Colombian drug traffickers, six remain at large. They include:

—Gilberto Rodriguez Orejuela, 49, alias "The Chess Player," leader of the rival Cali cartel; his brother Miguel Rodriguez Orejuela, 44; and top lieutenant, Jose Santacruz Londono, 40, alias "The University Man;" Jose Duarte Acero, Jaime Raul Orejuela and Gerardo Moncada.

In addition, Denny and Brance Munoz Mosquera, known respectively as "Quica" and "Tyson," are still fugitives.

■ Democrats seek details of alleged deal

WASHINGTON — House Democratic leaders have ordered aides to dig deeper into whether the 1980 Reagan-Bush campaign cut a deal with Iran to delay release of 52 American hostages, sources said Friday.

The leaders met privately on Thursday, and decided to postpone any decision on whether to open a more formal inquiry — one that could swear witnesses and subpoena evidence — until after the Senate confirmation process for Robert Gates, President Bush's nominee to head the Central Intelligence Agency.

There was no explanation for the move, but it could signal that lawmakers believe there is a possibility something relevant to their probe could come out of Gates' confirmation hearings, now tentatively set to follow Congress' Fourth of July recess.

ABC News reported late Thursday an allegation by Iranian arms dealer Jamshid Hashemi that the late William Casey, then Reagan's campaign manager and later CIA director, met in July and August of 1980 in Madrid with an Iranian cleric to make a deal delaying release of the hostages until after the election. Hashemi said he attended the meetings as an interpreter.

The White House on Friday declined direct comment on the latest allegation. Bush, who was Reagan's running mate, has previously denied any knowledge of "such an insidious plot."

■ Seidman proposes shakeup of bailout agency

WASHINGTON — Savings and loan bailout chief L. William Seidman, fending off mounting criticism, proposed a new administrative structure Friday that would replace his agency's senior manager.

Seidman denied a report published in The New York Times that he had acceded to a Treasury Department request to fire David C. Cooke as executive director of the Resolution Trust Corp., created in 1989 to clean up the thrift industry. A Treasury Department spokeswoman also denied the report.

However, Seidman outlined for the Senate Banking Committee two slightly different proposals that would overhaul the administrative structure of the agency and in the process eliminate Cooke's job. He said he discussed the proposals with Deputy Treasury Secretary John Robson.

He also detailed the agency's previously disclosed need for another $60 billion to $80 billion to finish the S&L bailout, in addition to the $80 billion already authorized by Congress.

Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., warned that Congress would not approve more money without some reform of the bailout agency and said he was bothered by the appearance that the administration was creating a scapegoat in Cooke.

■ Government posts record deficit in May

WASHINGTON — The government posted a record $53.35 billion deficit in May, wiping out a surplus in April and surpassing the previous monthly high set 14 months ago, the Treasury said Friday.

The May imbalance boosted the gap for the first eight months of fiscal 1991 to $175.0 billion, up from $151.49 billion during the same period last year.

Revenues so far this year totaled $686.51 billion, up 2.9 percent from the first eight months of fiscal 1990. Outlays totaled $861.51 billion, 5.3 percent more than was spent during the same period in fiscal 1990.

The Bush administration projects the deficit will be less than $300 billion in fiscal 1991, although it would break the previous yearly record of $221.1 billion set in fiscal 1986. The deficit totaled $220.4 billion in fiscal 1990.

Revenues in May totaled $63.56 billion, down from $69.21 billion in May 1990. Revenues totaled $140.38 billion during April as the income tax filing deadline arrived. Income taxes in May totaled $20.0 billion, down from $77.77 billion a month earlier.

■ FCC orders reductions in connection charge

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission on Friday ordered the nation's largest local telephone companies to reduce by $486 million, about 4.5 percent, the amount they charge long-distance companies for access to local networks.

Smaller phone companies were allowed to raise their rates about $30 million.

The big phone companies, including the seven regional Bell companies, proposed $431 million in net reductions. Their plan included an increase of $14 million, a bit over 0.5 percent, for specialized services like toll-free "800" services.

The FCC ordered another $55 million in reductions, saying the companies erred in calculating some costs.

The new rates are effective July 1.

American Telephone & Telegraph, MCI Communications, U.S. Sprint and other long-distance companies each year pay billions of dollars to local phone companies to use their networks in completing long-distance calls.

■ Agency to deny medical-marijuana requests

WASHINGTON — The government said Friday it will stop approving requests to use marijuana for medical purposes such as combating nausea, vomiting and weight loss in cancer and AIDS patients, unless another drug is tried first.

The Public Health Service said doctors should first treat their patients with Marinol, a drug containing tetrahydrocannabinol or TCH, the active ingredient in marijuana.

Arnold Trebach, president of the Drug Policy Institute, which supports medical uses of marijuana, said the government was turning its back on sick people because it didn't want to look "soft on drugs."

Bradlee leaving Washington Post

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The front-page layout of Friday morning's Washington Post, taken into Benjamin C. Bradlee's office on Thursday night, showed an article called "ozone" in the lower lefthand corner. It was an inside joke.

The real article in that space would announce that Bradlee, one of the dominant figures in American journalism in the last quarter-century, was retiring as the newspaper's top editor on Sept. 1.

The other part of the joke was that Bradlee, who made his reputation by pushing his staff to break big political stories like Watergate, is notoriously impatient with articles about science, business and other fields he finds boring.

Few papers so reflect the personality of their editors as does The Post. And few papers have an editor with so large a personality as Bradlee, who will be 70 in August.

In an interview Friday, he said he was most proud of "increasing the paper's grasp and reach, of really surrounding ourselves with some wonderful reporters and giving them freedom, not being stuffy, not taking ourselves too seriously, of being sort of zealously independent of the establishment."

Now the man who molded The Post with his personality is turning it over to a very different man, Leonard Downie Jr., who has a simpler background and plainer tastes.

Donald E. Graham, who in May took over from his mother, Katharine, as president and chief executive officer of Washington Post Co., said Friday that "absolutely no changes in The Washington Post are planned."

Maybe so. But Kay Graham and Ben Bradlee have been central forces in Washington and in journalism, and this city will be watching to see if maintaining continuity is as easy as promising it.

In the 26 years since Bradlee took the helm of the paper — he became managing editor in 1965 and was elevated to executive editor in 1968 — The Post has changed from being "a ho-hum, run-of-the-mill, dull newspaper" into one of the great newspapers in the country, said Stephen Hess, a senior fellow and press critic at the Brookings Institution.

Downie, 49, who has been managing editor since 1984, comes out of a world different from Bradlee's, and his temperament reflects it.

AP Laserphoto

New Washington Post editors Leonard Downie Jr., right, 49, and deputy managing editor Robert Kaiser, 48, talk in the Post newsroom recently.

Bradlee is a Boston Brahmin, the son of a financier, a Harvard graduate who first made a name in journalism as a foreign correspondent.

Downie is the son of an Ohio milkman. He went to Ohio State and cut his newspaper teeth as a reporter and editor on The Post's metropolitan desk.

Bradlee is gruff, outgoing and often profane. He was a close friend of John F. Kennedy and often socializes with prominent Washingtonians in and out of the government.

Downie is quiet and shy and prefers to spend his spare time at home with his wife and children.

In the last several years, Bradlee has increasingly turned the responsibility for the paper's news content over to Downie and to Robert G. Kaiser, 48, who will move up from deputy managing editor to managing editor. During that period, some critics say, The Post seems to have lost a certain edge.

Bradlee conceded in an interview Friday that The Post might be somewhat less aggressive than it once was, but he said he thought that was true of journalism generally in the Reagan administration years.

Bradlee is best known as the editor who encouraged his staff to break the Watergate story. He was played by Jason Robards in the Watergate movie "All the President's Men," and Robards' portrayal of Bradlee ...is said to be an accurate one.

"Subconsciously," Bradlee said, "the press was worried about its liberal image, and somewhere along the line people said, 'Well, we'll show him that the liberals can get along with the conservatives.' And in fact, we did have better relations a little bit with the Reagan White House than we had with the Carter's."

Outside of journalism circles, Bradlee is best known as the editor who encouraged his staff to break the Watergate story. He was played by Jason Robards in the Watergate movie "All the President's Men," and Robards' portrayal of Bradlee as a hands-on editor involved in every twist and turn of the story is said to be an accurate one.

But Bradlee's most lasting contribution to journalism was probably the creation of the "style" section, a melange of party news and profiles, of reviews, fashion photographs and features, in which the writing is regularly clever, often irreverant and almost always long-winded.

"The style section for the first time recognized and covered Washington as the court city that it is," said Bill Kovach, a former Washington editor of The New York Times, who is now curator of the Nieman Foundation at Harvard. "The greatest compliment of all," Kovach continued, "is that almost every other newspaper in the country copied this in their own cities."

Paper's headline creates more stir than story

NEW YORK (NYT) — When Cardinal John O'Connor was reported earlier this week to have declared in his Sunday sermon that God is a man, a theologian in Germany compared the cardinal's powers of reasoning to a donkey's.

A stand-up comic in Hollywood reacted with a ribald meditation on the male anatomy. And a radio talk-show host in New York spent a full hour encouraging callers to comment, prompting several "male chauvinist pig" characterizations.

There is one problem: The cardinal never said it.

Friday, the Archdiocese of New York took the unusual step of publishing a transcript of the sermon in its weekly newspaper, Catholic New York.

The transcript shows that the cardinal said that God is neither man nor woman, and that the traditional reference to "maleness" is symbolic, not literal.

The confusion began with a front-page headline on Monday in The New York Post which declared in big block letters, "GOD IS A MAN," complete with Michelangelo's portrait of a bearded deity. "O'Connor Rips Radical Feminists," a smaller headline declared.

The transcript shows that the smaller headline was accurate, but not the larger. The Post based its story on a quotation about Christianity — "We are not authorized to change the 'Our Father' into an 'Our Mother' " — that actually came from Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger, the papal official in charge of church doctrine, who was quoted by the cardinal at length in his sermon.

Even the Ratzinger quotation, however, does not seem to support the God-is-a-man conclusion. Neither do the quotations from O'Connor: "In the fatherhood of almighty God is of course all personhood, the personhood of mother and father simultaneously."

Friday, Jerry Nachman, the editor of The Post, stood by the story, although he acknowledged that the cardinal never said the words "God is a man."

All this did not stop the clobbering of the cardinal. Uta Ranke-Heinemann, the German theologian, reacted to the first reports of the cardinal's remarks by saying: "A donkey thinks God is a donkey because in the eyes of a donkey, the donkey is the top of creation. O'Connor seems to me to be a combination of a man and a theological donkey."

Chernobyl's children

Volunteer effort aids Soviet children plagued by Chernobyl's fallout

By Michael Dougan
Hearst News Service

ROHNERT PARK, Calif. — Serguei Chizhokov stared at the 12 candles decorating his chocolate birthday cake while an interpreter explained the protocol: Everybody sings to you, then you blow them out.

He almost got it right, and nobody corrected him for extinguishing the flames — in an uncertain, one-breath-per-candle fashion — as soon as the happy birthday song began.

Serguei, after all, was still a little jet-lagged and decidedly disoriented in this tract-home world so many miles from Vetka, his village in Byelorussia.

After the cake on Thursday, he went outside with some other Soviet children and an animated clutch of American counterparts to ride bikes and play basketball.

'They are not ill. But all of them have accumulated a definite degree (of problems).'

— Olga Volmyanskaya, Minsk Medical Institute, interpreter

Outside is where he cannot go at home. Outside is where the very earth, not to mention the food it nourishes, will set a dosimeter dancing.

It's been like that since 1986 when something went wrong 65 miles south at a power plant called Chernobyl. Vetka is in a region now marked on maps as "heavily contaminated."

That's why Serguei and the nine other 10- to 12-year-olds who arrived with him late Sunday night are so pale. And that's why they have come to the North Bay to stay in local homes, to eat unradiated food and to romp in fields that will not quietly kill them.

The kids were invited by Connie and Cliff McClain of Petaluma, Calif., who learned about the Byelorussian Children's Charitable Fund while on a trip to Minsk, capital of that Soviet republic. The fund was established to send children from radiated areas abroad for six weeks of the year.

"It is the one, the single, the only such program (in the U.S.S.R.) that is volunteer-run," said Olga Volmyanskaya, an English teacher at the Minsk Medical Institute who came as an interpreter. "There's a big tractor plant in Minsk where workers give 10 percent of their salaries — and their salaries are very small, I'm sorry to say — to the program."

Volmyanskaya said the fund hopes to provide similar excursions for most of the 80,000 children in the vast affected region of her homeland. Others have gone to Germany, Yugoslavia and England. This group is the first to come to the United States.

"They are not ill," she stressed. "But all of them have accumulated a definite degree (of problems). We have one girl who has aching of the joints. All have low immunity to respiratory illnesses."

This brief trip will make the difference, Volmyanskaya said: "If there is no disease in a child, just this contamination, they are rehabilitated within four weeks."

Serguei's hostess, Linda Chaput, said he arrived with no money and few clothes.

"He's worn the same outfit every day since he got here Sunday," she said. "But he brought us about 10 gifts, including a bottle of champagne and a bottle of vodka."

Chaput is one of many Sonoma County residents who responded to the McClain's call to help the children.

"People are moved by it," said Connie McClain. "It's a thrilling project because it's very personal."

Russian president-elect Yeltsin envisions new political globe

NEW YORK (AP) — Russian President-elect Boris Yeltsin said Friday he envisions a future in which most of the Northern Hemisphere would be governed by similar political and economic principles.

"Successful reform in Russia — and I have no doubt that this reform will be successful — will result in the creation of an enormous single common space covering the larger part of the Northern Hemisphere," he said.

"And that will include Russia as well as the United States, which will be governed by similar political and economic principles," he said in a speech to about 450 academics who filled an auditorium at New York University.

Outside, about 20 socialists picketed, chanting "Yeltsin fool: Wall Street tool." One of their banners read, "Bush, Wall Street and Yeltsin Aim: Destroy Socialism, Bring in Capitalism, Poverty and Racism."

Yeltsin, who is to be sworn into office July 10, spent Friday in New York a day after visiting President Bush in Washington. He boarded a flight for the Soviet Union Friday night.

'Successful reform in Russia — and I have no doubt that this reform will be successful — will result in the creation of an enormous single common space covering the larger part of the Northern Hemisphere.'

— Boris Yeltsin

He later visited the garment district, donning a cap of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to talk to workers and checking out a sewing machine in the factory-showroom of a formal dress company.

Yeltsin was to meet later with editors of The New York Times, then officials and businessmen at the Federal Reserve Bank before taking a night flight back to Moscow.

During his three-day visit, Yeltsin said he believed he had achieved his goal — not to get money, but to "make sure that the leaders of this country understand us, that they sympathize with our reforms, that they support our cause of bringing radical reform to Russia that will advance it along the road to a democratic society, to a free-market economy and to privatization."

President Bush, he said at New York University, had agreed to have U.S. experts help Russia in reforming agriculture, converting defense industries, retraining business managers and establishing joint banking and transportation enterprises.

"We have been understood," said Yeltsin, who spoke for 40 minutes through an interpreter. At one point, he departed from his text to rue not knowing English and thus taking twice as long to give his speech.

At a reception afterward, John Calvo, a recent graduate who headed the university's Student Council, presented him with a school sweatshirt.

The protesters, organized by the Workers World Party, complained of being denied democratic rights when Deputy Police Chief Alan Hoehl made them move across the street from the building entrance.

BLM schedules land-withdrawal hearing

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of Land Management plans a June 28 meeting here to discuss removing the land around the site of the federal government's nuclear repository from public access without congressional action.

The process, known as administrative land withdrawal, has been opposed by New Mexico leaders, who want Congress to remove the land from public domain and thereby provide certain safeguards to the state.

The withdrawal would transfer control of the 10,240 acres around the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant near Carlsbad from the Interior Department to the Department of Energy.

"We're the agency holding the hearing because, technically, the land belongs to the Department of the Interior," BLM spokeswoman Mary O'Keeffe said.

WIPP is a DOE project to bury plutonium-contaminated waste from the nation's defense industry 2,150 feet below the surface in salt beds 26 miles southeast of Carlsbad. The repository has yet to open, pending resolution of safety and environmental concerns and the land withdrawal.

The Interior Department withdrew the land administratively on Jan. 22, paving the way for the start of a test phase at the repository.

But a House committee in March invoked a little-used provision of the Federal Lands Management Policy Act of 1976 and nullified the department's land transfer. The resolution did not require a vote by the full Congress.

Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., a member of the House committee, said at the time the committee action would prohibit placing radioactive waste in the respository and would allow Congress to act on a land withdrawal bill.

Such bills currently are pending.

The administrative withdrawal angered New Mexico's congressional delegation, which said the Interior Department's action would not guarantee that health and safety concerns would be addressed and that New Mexico would get money to improve roads to the WIPP site.

Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan Jr. gave Congress until June 30 to act, but did not say what his department would do if Congress did not meet that date.

O'Keeffe said the secretary did set the deadline, but added, "then again our meeting is not being held until the 28th and that tells you that it's not going to happen immeidately on July 1."

Fred Lash, a spokesman for the Energy Department in Washington, D.C., said his agency is working with the Interior Department to find a solution to the land transfer question.

The BLM hearing is set for 10 a.m to 7 p.m. June 28 at the Elks Lodge in Carlsbad.

Those wanting to speak must submit requests to the BLM office by Tuesday. Written comments must be submitted by July 1.

Comments to speak can be submitted to New Mexico State Director, Bureau of Land Management, Mining Unit, P.O. Box 1449, Santa Fe, N.M. 87504-1449. For information call (505) 988-6071.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 22, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Partnerships — both business and personal — dominate your thoughts. Legal matters will require very careful handling in September. Unexpected financial assistance comes from people in distant places. Postpone non-essential business travel until January 1992. Teamwork is the key to swifter career progress. Setting up a special conference or seminar could lead to greater public recognition. Romance becomes less turbulent.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Meryl Streep, actor Kris Kristofferson, broadcaster Ed Bradley, actress Tracy Pollan.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Although travel and higher education will broaden your horizons, family needs must come first. The temporary sacrifices you make now will be richly rewarded.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A surge of optimism could cause you to throw caution to the winds. Just make sure you do not sacrifice something you will miss later on. Open the door wide to romance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Weekend chores should go quickly if you tackle them methodically. Get an early start! Showing greater sensitivity to your partner's needs will enhance romance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good news arrives this morning, but contact with people at a distance will be only partially satisfying. Write more letters. Your romantic passions could be ignited this evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It is "now or never" where a financial deal is concerned. Avail yourself of an opportunity to extract something that is owed to you. A platonic relationship intensifies. Trust your instincts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A clash may be unavoidable unless you keep out of an associate's way. Not a good day for travel. Be cautious. Reveal nothing about your home life when chatting with new acquaintances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get right down to business this morning and dispose of a matter that has weighed heavily on your mind. A loving heart works miracles! Reach out to your relatives. Forget past grievances.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.21): A communications mix-up could cause costly delays today. Keep your temper in check and play a waiting game. Take time out for vigorous exercise. Be careful of a romance on the rebound.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Although nothing goes as smoothly as you would like this morning, several factors will lift your spirits around mid-afternoon. Your efforts are appreciated by those who really count.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accept someone's offer to assume greater responsibility. Delegating routine tasks will free you for more creative work. You can easily learn a new skill if you put your mind to it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There may be good reasons for covering up your actions. A measure of secrecy helps you pull off a profitable deal. Social affairs enjoy favorable influences tonight.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): The career you have chosen, or which you feel compelled to pursue, may not be the right one after all. You must be sure. Try to get out this evening and have fun.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are both assertive and sensitive, quick to take the lead but easily hurt by criticism. Encourage them to stick up for their beliefs. Proud and dignified, these Cancerians secretly enjoy having people make a fuss over them. In school, these bright youngsters are sometimes tempted to show up their teachers. Concerned parents will point out the possible consequences of this "know-it-all" behavior. Artistic and well-organized, these Cancerians are especially suited for a career in the arts.

Cosby to host new version of Marx's 'You Bet Your Life'

NEW YORK — NBC's durable "The Cosby Show" will start its eighth and final season this fall. Then Bill Cosby will try something completely different — a new daily version of Groucho Marx's "You Bet Your Life" game show.

Cosby

But his new show, which he'll host, won't be on a network, Cosby spokesman David Brokaw said Friday. It will be sold in syndication to television stations, with a planned start in the fall of 1992, Brokaw said.

The show will be produced by Cosby and the Carsey-Werner Company, which makes his NBC series. The company said Cosby will search the U.S. for contestants and has expressed a desire to take the new show on the road.

The new version of "You Bet Your Life" is designed for the time period just before the networks start their prime time programming. It will air Mondays through Fridays.

With Marx as its host, the series began on radio in 1947. It was on NBC-TV from 1950 to 1961, and contestants won money by correctly answering questions on history and other topics, or by happening to say the daily secret word.

PENSACOLA, Fla. — Country music crooner Rodney Bond, a Vietnam-era Navy veteran, is singing his heart out to keep the USS Lexington in Florida after the historic aircraft carrier is decommissioned.

Bond and his band, Country Connection, have recorded "The Ballad of the Lady Lex" and are offering half the proceeds from sales of their $10 album to a Pensacola-based foundation bidding to turn the ship into a floating museum.

Bond also offered to give fund-raising concerts for the project.

Pensacola, the Lexington's home port for 29 years, is in competition with Mobile, Ala., Corpus Christi, Texas, and Quincy, Mass., for the carrier after it is retired in November.

The Navy has said funding will be a key consideration. Corpus Christi has the edge with a $1.9 million state appropriation, and Alabama lawmakers are considering a $1 million allocation for Mobile.

In Pensacola, the USS Lexington Museum Foundation says it has raised only about $80,000 in cash contributions.

"I'm dedicating this song to the men and women who served and died on her," said Bond, 36, of Paris, Tenn.

Thousands have served aboard the carrier and scores have died in combat and training accidents since it was commissioned 48 years ago.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Grand Ole Opry star Minnie Pearl is recovering well from a mild stroke, her doctor said.

Pearl, 78, was stricken at her home Monday, Dr. Carl Vandever said late Thursday. She remained in serious condition Thursday in Centennial Medical Center's intensive care unit.

Pearl

"We think that she's going to have a good recovery from the stroke," Vandever said. "She really needs a lot of rest."

The entertainer was alert and could talk, he said, adding that she likely would be released from the hospital next week.

A member of the Grand Ole Opry since 1940, Pearl was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1968.

NEW YORK — KISS drummer Eric Carr is recuperating at home after undergoing chemotherapy earlier this month for lung cancer, his record company said.

"The chemotherapy treatments are necessary but the prognosis is considered to be good," Mercury Records spokeswoman Lynne Lubash said Wednesday.

MEXICO CITY — Frank Sinatra will wrap up his Diamond Jubilee Tour on Saturday with a sold-out performance at Mexico City's 30,000-seat Sports Palace.

Tickets ranged in price from $85 to $25 and all were sold, concert organizers said Thursday. The performance will be the 75-year-old Sinatra's first in Mexico in three decades.

NEW YORK — Far out, man — Bart Simpson raised thousands of dollars to fight AIDS.

More than two dozen animation cels featuring the heroes of the Fox network's "The Simpsons" fetched $117,920 at auction at Christie's Thursday night. A cel is a celluloid sheet photographed for the cartoon.

The most popular was one drawn for the cover of Christie's sale catalog. It showed a tuxedo-clad Bart Simpson at an auction holding up his youngest sister, Maggie, and saying, "What am I bid, man?"

The cel was bought for $24,200 by Antonio Francesco, a restaurateur. Proceeds from that cel's sale will be donated to AIDS Project Los Angeles.

"The sale ... did extremely well, in what is a rather new field of collecting — contemporary animation art," said Joshua Arfer, assistant vice president of Christie's animation and collectibles division.

National forest fight persists

By Jeff Barnard

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (AP) — When the first national forests were created in 1891, conservationists were worried the unchecked westward march of cut-and-run timber barons would leave the nation without lumber, water or wildlife.

This year, the U.S. Forest Service celebrates the centennial of the lands under its care — and environmentalists still are worried. Logging in the national forests continues, and they say wildlife is imperiled.

"It is so bitter, and so ironic," said Brock Evans, National Audubon Society vice president for national issues. "They are liquidating it all slower in the Forest Service, with a lot more bureaucracy, but they are liquidating it nonetheless. The arguments are all the same."

The echo of the century-old battle is particularly loud in the Pacific Northwest, home to the biggest timber producers in the national forest system and the northern spotted owl, which has turned the timber industry upside down since it was declared a threatened species last year.

"Eighty years ago, we didn't understand what we were doing would lead to the gray wolf's extinction from Oregon, to the grizzly bear's extinction from Oregon. The difference now is we are able to study and understand the results of our management a lot better than before," said Andy Stahl, forester for the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund in Seattle, a leader in court battles to protect the owl.

The forest centennial, being celebrated across the country this summer, dates from March 3, 1891, when Congress passed the Forest Reserve Act.

Within three weeks, President Benjamin Harrison created the Yellowstone Park Timberland Reserve, 1.2 million acres around 19-year-old Yellowstone National Park. It was followed the same year by the White River Plateau Timberland Reserve in Colorado. More reserves followed in 1892 in Alaska, Washington, Oregon, California, New Mexico and Colorado.

Though it drew little attention at the time, historians now point to the act as a turning point in the national policy on public land: Instead of selling it or giving it away, the government began to hold land in reserve.

The act was born of a mood that began to develop in 1864, when George Perkins Marsh wrote in his book "Of Man and Nature" that too much logging in his native Vermont had damaged the landscape and hurt fish and wildlife.

To feed a growing nation, 190 million acres of forest were cleared for farms between 1850 and 1910, equivalent to all the lands now in the national forest system.

"The villain of the modern world, the automobile, took a huge amount of pressure off our forests, because we don't have to feed all those horses," said Doug MacCleery, a Forest Service assistant director of timber management. "Almost a third of agricultural land was devoted to feeding horses and mules. Once that pressure was taken off, we didn't need to clear it."

The Forest Reserve Act came at a pivotal time: two years after the Oklahoma land rush turned loose the Sooners in lands once set aside for Native Americans and two years before Frederick Jackson Turner told the Columbian Exposition in Chicago that the American frontier was gone, erased by settlement.

FEMALE PERSONAL ADS
The following ads have been placed by females looking to meet males

I know there is a man out there looking for some fun and companionship. He must be in early to mid 30s, no smokers or drug users. Financially secure and take care of himself. He must like kids and enjoy going to movies, out to eat, or just spending time with someone special. I am a petite, divorced, single parent and tired of the bar and club scene. I own my own home and would like to find someone special to share my life with. Please call and leave phone number. I would really like to get to know you.
