OLD SPANISH TRAIL CARAVAN PASSES THROUGH JUNCTION

Party Composed of Many Well Known Persons Arrived in Junction Almost on Schedule Time, Despite Heavy Roads.

The Caravan composed of the Old Spanish Trail enthusiasts in particular and highway advocates in general, arrived in Junction about 10 o'clock Monday night. The party left San Antonio about 8 o'clock that morning. At Kerrville, several waited until next day to come on, on account of the heavy rains that had made the roads hard to negotiate.

On account of the crowded condition of the hotels, and the rains that made the tourists' park undesirable for the night, it was necessary to "billet" the party wherever sleeping space could be found. Some placed their cots in the court house, others in the Junction Hardware Company's store. Judge Pierson and Comptroller Smith spent the night with H. G. Perry, and one lady member of the party that did not have camping equipment, was taken care of at the hotel.

A. E. Loeffler and H. G. Perry drove some thirty miles down the Kerrville road to meet the party Monday night and accompanied them to town and helped locate them for the night; after supper had been provided for them at the hotel.

A number of well known persons along the route from Louisiana to San Antonio were in the party. Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, William Pierson, State Comptroller Lon A. Smith, Dr. Hardy, president of Baylor Female College, Max Bentley, circulation manager of the Houston Chronicle, R. M. Herndon, special staff writer for the San Antonio Express, D. E. Colp, manager of the western division of the Old Spanish Trail, Judge W. W. McCrory, State Highway Commissioner, and Judge Gaines of San Antonio, were among the visitors.

Leaving Junction about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, the party proceeded to Sonora, where they were to be guests of the people of that town, and from there, went on to Ozona for the night.

The party was due to arrive at the convention place some 15 miles north of Fort Davis, Friday morning, and will leave on the return trip Sunday, probably going back by Del Rio, Elvalde and the Medina Dam.

Judge McCrory and Judge Gaines had some serious car trouble between Kerrville and Junction, and had to wait for new parts to come from San Antonio. This prevented them from making the trip to the convention as planned.

O. L. Freeman is Killed at Telegraph on Thursday.

The report came to Junction about 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon that O. L. Freeman, proprietor of the Telegraph store had been shot. A physician was called and the bullet extracted. The bullet, apparently a 30-30, was found just under the shoulder blade. It had struck the neck about 1 1/2 inches left of the medial line, ranging downward, cutting the spinal cord and crushing the 2nd, 3rd and 4th vertebrae.

It is stated that he was standing on the front of the store porch, and was killed instantly. Since the trouble some weeks ago, Mr. Freeman has been in Kerr County, only returning last Thursday, a week before he was killed.

His brother, Jas. Freeman of Vance, came Thursday afternoon. The body was taken to Kerrville that night for burial. Mr. Freeman is survived by his wife and several children.

Junction Loses to Mason But Wins From Menard.

The baseball game between Mason and Junction played on the local grounds July 4th was won by the former by a score of 9 to 6; errors by the home team was the big cause for the loss. The score was very tight up to the 8th inning and in that inning, was 4 to 4 with two men on bases, when Cousins hit a single over the shortstop's head, scoring the two men. The Mason boys came back strong in their half of the 9th inning, with the bases full a home run was knocked by Danheim, clearing the bases. The local boys failed to advance their score in the ninth.

A large crowd of fans witnessed the game.

The final score was 6 to 9 in favor of Mason.

The line-up was as follows: Junction: Hamer, C. D. Weaver, P., Francis Kid, 1b., Kindrick, 2b., Blackburn, ss., Jobs, 3b., Quisenberry, r. f., Goodwin, c. f., Cousins, 1. f.

For Mason: Wartenbach, 2b., Willman, ss., Keller, 1b., O. Shearer, c., Wood, r. f., Schussler, 1b., Dannheim, 1b., H. Shearer, 3b., McCollum, c. f., Pluenneke, p., Saunderson, p.

The local team broke their losing streak on the 5th, beating Menard by the score of 5 to 3. Charlie Dunbar pitched a good game of ball with an airtight team behind him after the third inning.

The line-up for Junction was: Hamer, c., Dunbar, p., Jobs, 1b., Weaver, 2b., Blackburn, ss., Reid, 3b., Lawler, r. f., Cousins, c. f., Goodwin, 1b.

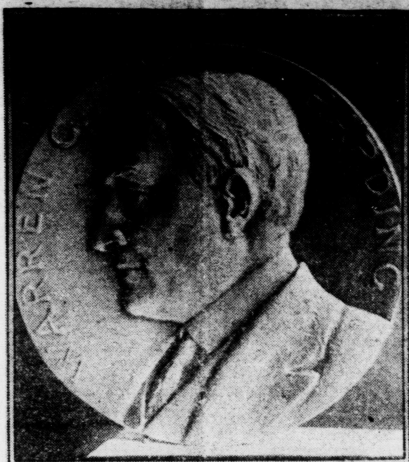

A very large number of fans witnessed the game and lots of "rooting" was done for the home team, which did much towards winning the game.

Clyde Randolph, son of Judge J. B. Randolph, arrived last Sunday and will visit his parents and sister, Mrs. Earl Tracey, until the 10th. He is a student of the Chicago-Kent Law school and has two more years to spend there.

JUNCTION'S STOCK SHOW AND FREE BARBECUE IS A MARKED SUCCESS

Despite the Rain and Muddy Roads, the People Came From Miles Around to Camp and Enjoy the Three Big Days.

A rain of approximately one inch fell early Monday morning and another one of about the same amount fell in the afternoon, and for a time it looked as if the two days' celebration was doomed to failure. Many people had come Sunday. These, together with many that came even after the rain Monday, and the towns people made a fairly good crowd on the grounds in the afternoon of the first day, and the picture show at the hall had a full house and a large crowd stayed for the dance afterwards.

The committees in charge decided that it would be best to postpone the barbecue one day, that the grounds might be in better condition for the large crowds and word was sent to all neighboring towns to this effect.

There was a good crowd on the grounds, however, during most of Tuesday. Rodeos were given each day, and a dance at night that lasted well into the morning and were well attended.

Judge Martin Dies, of Kerrville, and J. M. Johnson, candidate for District Attorney, spoke in the forenoon. H. G. Perry, candidate for representative, and Everett Stewart, candidate for District and County Clerk, made short speeches in the afternoon.

Judge Weaver H. Baker, who was chairman of the Executive Committee, acted as master of ceremonies for the day.

The committee in charge of the finances, materials, etc., have not completely checked up, and a detailed report and more general information will be given next week.

The Celebration is over and everyone seems pleased.

An elegant dinner was served, consisting of creamed chicken, mashed potatoes, French peas garnished with carrot discs in timbals, creamed asparagus, hot rolls, pickled beets, iced tea, fruit salad in aspic wafers, ice cream, Angel food cake.

Rain Interrupted Junction Celebration This Week.

The two days' celebration which was to have been held at Junction on the 3rd and 4th of July was interrupted, due to the heavy rain in this section of the state on Monday. Plans were for a great celebration and those attending report a splendid time but no doubt, the necessity of changing the date from the 3rd and 4th to the 4th and 5th, caused some inconvenience and the attendance was not as large as had been anticipated.

Many people from Mason were in Junction on the 4th in spite of the rains and muddy roads between here and the place. Among those from Mason there for the 4th were Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rogers, and Mr. Howard Smith, Chas. Grote, Eli Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Smith, Misses Cleo Wood, Marie Brockman, Lula Mildred White, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Loring, and children, Mrs. Cliff Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Schmidt, Miss Mary Lemberg, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Orient Railway Will not Quit Working July First.

Chicago, June 30.—The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad will not suspend operations July 1. W. T. Kemper, receiver for the road, announced this afternoon. The receiver plans to renew his petition to the railroad labor board and hopes to obtain a hearing next week, he said.

The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad sometime ago was denied authority to put into effect lower wage scales and its situation became so serious that the Interstate Commerce Commission has called a conference of southwestern governors to consider the situation with the commission, the announcement from Washington stating that there was danger that the road would have to suspend operation after July 1.

Mr. Kemper conferred this afternoon with Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the labor board, and afterward made his announcement that the road would not suspend on that date.

He said the road absolutely must have relief, however, and that Mr. Hooper had promised to give him a hearing as early as possible and it was hoped it would be next week.

The company had sometime ago sought to have the employees accept a wage reduction amounting to about 20 per cent Mr. Kemper said, but they had rejected the proposition.

The railroad has 735 miles of track in the United States and 230 miles in Mexico, the receiver said.

Barn Burns on Greer Ranch; no Insurance.

The big barn on the J. Leo Greer ranch, about twenty miles northeast of Rock Springs, was burned in the early hours of last Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Greer were away when it happened. Tom Henderson arrived there between 10 and 11 o'clock p. m. and found the barn a mass of hot ashes.

The barn was a large one, 40x60 feet in size, and contained a large amount of feed, a wagon, three saddles and a lot of harness and equipment, all a total loss and with no insurance. Mr. Greer estimates his loss at $3,000.00. Some of the men about town are rustling around getting together saddles and harness to use out on the Greer ranch.—Edwards County Leader.

"Chevon" New Name Given Goat Meat by Association.

San Angelo, June 27.—The humble goat was elevated to a higher sphere here today when an edict was issued by the Goat and Sheep Raisers Association of Texas, in convention here, that goat meat hereafter shall be known as "chevon."

The association will urge Texas senators and representatives, to ask the department of Agriculture to use the new word in all correspondence and reports. The name "chevon" was suggested by Mrs. E. W. Hardgrave of Sanderson, Texas, and it was elected out of 2,500 turned into the committee. The committee awarded to Mrs. Hardgrave as a contest prize the much adored Angora goat, "Namer Boy," on exhibition here, and who is showing his appreciation by loud bleats, as if to lord it over the more muttons in nearby stalls. "Chevon" is derived from the French word, "chevre," meaning goat, and from the same language we derived beef from "boef," and mutton from "mouton."

The committee which adopted Mrs. Hardgrave's suggestion is composed of C. B. Davis, Rio Hondo; B. H. Martin, Del Rio; Charles A. Broom, San Angelo; Dr. B. Youngblood, College Station; V. A. Brown, Rock Springs and James T. Elliott, San Angelo.

Three Governors May Confer to Save Orient.

Washington, June 28.—The conference of Governors Neff, Robertson and Allen, through whose States the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad runs with members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and with a view of arriving at some plan for continuation of service, has been suggested. No definite plan has been worked out as to just what could be accomplished by this conference, as it is pointed out, Texas, under its Constitution, could not appropriate money for the operation of either a private or public owned railroad.

However, the intimation has been received by Texas Congressmen, that there are many problems involved in the salvation of this road, and that the co-operation of the States with the Federal Government may prove vital to their solution.

It has developed that the net payment to the road for losses sustained during the guaranty period, may be increased from the $13,000 suggested several days ago to $84,000. This is due to the fact that the Orient, like all railroads traversing Texas and adjoining states, is in two separate corporations and the loan of $2,500,000, the interest on which, the Government insists, must be deducted from the $117,000, was made to the Parent Company. Thus, there were no deductions from the amount due from the Orient Company of Texas.

Holdover Senators Not Worried Over Redistricting Row

Holdover state senators are not at all perturbed over the attack made on the constitutionality of that provision of the senatorial redistricting law passed at the last session of the Legislature which provides that the act shall not become effective until 1924, according to State Senator H. L. Darwin of Paris, one of the holdovers. Senator Darwin, who spent the day here, said the validity of that provision of the law was passed upon by the attorney general's department before final enactment of the measure.

"Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the supreme court," said Senator Darwin, "was attorney general at the time and the sixteen holdovers senators of the 37th Legislature submitted the question to him and an opinion was obtained in which it was held that the 1924 provision was valid."

The case is now pending in the supreme court, having come up from the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth on a certified question, and will not be decided until the October term. In the event the act should be held unconstitutional, these sixteen holdover senators would have to stand for re-election at the November election, but Senator Darwin does not anticipate any contingency, he said.

From the Austin Statesman:

Three-Mill Tax for State Schools to be Proposed.

Austin.—Representative Roy C. Coffey of Wise County, one of the youngest members of the last Legislature, and who is a candidate for re-election without opposition, said he will advocate a constitutional amendment at the next session of the Legislature proposing a mill tax for the support of the public schools of the State. He believes that such a tax is the only solution of the school question and its adoption would forever remove the schools from politics.

Coffey said that a 3-mill tax would produce at least $10,000,000 a year, which he believes would come very near supporting the schools. However, he is not committed to 3-mill and will support a higher tax should it be deemed expedient and necessary. He is now compiling a bulletin on this subject which will be ready shortly for distribution to members of the next Legislature, and which bulletin will also be used for debating purposes by the Interscholarastic League.

Many Charters and Permits to be Forfeited.

Failure to pay the franchise tax due on May 1, 1922, will result in the forfeiture by the secretary of state's department on next Monday, July 2, of the charters and permits of approximately 1,000 state and out-of-state corporations, announced C. W. Payne, chief clerk of the department Saturday. The department will declare forfeited the charters of the state corporations and the permits of the out-of-state concerns after which these delinquents will have no authority to do business in Texas.

The franchise tax law provides that all such delinquents shall have until January 1, 1923 in which to be reinstated, by the payment of a penalty of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax, and an additional five per cent for each month that these concerns have been thus delinquent.

There are approximately 12,000 corporations doing business in Texas, and out of that number only approximately 1,000 were delinquent. It is expected that between now and next January many of these delinquents will pay the penalty and tax and be reinstated.

Goat-Roping Contests are Strictly Taboo, Says Russell

W. B. Russell, Travis County humane officer, has placed the ban on all goat roping contests or roping contests of any other kind involving animals in which money prizes or championships are awarded for skill or in which the anti-cruelty phase of the State laws are violated. The humane officer announced that in line with this decision he had several days ago halted such a contest at a local park, and that all other similar contests are "strictly taboo."

"I don't want to file any complaints against anybody," said Officer Russell, "and I therefore issue the request that all those who have planned to stage goat roping contests call them off. It is against the State law, and I've got to stop any violations."

Gov. Neff Unable to Attend Conference on Railroad Crisis

Clarence E. Gilmore, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, will represent Governor Neff and the State of Texas at the conference to be held at Washington on July 12 for the purpose of devising means for extending financial aid to the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway Company. This announcement was made by Governor Neff, who added that he was unable to leave the State at this time.

The Governors of Oklahoma and Kansas and other State officials were also invited to attend this conference, which was called by Chairman McChord of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Miss Blanton Ill; Unable to Attend Education Meeting.

Miss Blanton had planned to leave for the convention on Wednesday night, but she became ill and is now at her home.

She was to have delivered an address at the meeting of the association of state superintendents which meets with the education association. Miss Blanton's condition is not considered serious.

Gross Receipts Taxes Shows Heavy Increase.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1922, gross receipts tax collections amounted to $1,103,727.68 as compared with $985,964.24 for the previous quarter, according to figures compiled in the comptroller's department. E. O. LOWGREN,

The Eligibility of Voters.

A misunderstanding of the Texas election law exists in some sections of Brown County, particularly as to the time that a voter must reside in the county to be entitled to vote. There is an impression in some quarters that a new comer is entitled to vote in the primaries if he moved to the county six months previous to the general election in November. This is a mistake. A voter to be eligible to vote must have resided in the county six months previous to all elections.

A man or woman cannot move to a county in May, six months previous to the general election in November, and be eligible to vote in the July primaries. He must have resided in the county six months previous to the first election in which he offers to vote.—Brownwood News.

Editor Ricks of the Leaky Leader, and Mr. Larramore of the Mason County News, were visitors here during the celebration and paid us a fraternal call. We were glad to have these gentlemen with us, and incidentally, we got invitations to visit the picnic that is to be held at Mason the 20th, and the Sheep and Goat meeting at Leaky on the 13, 14 and 15th. It is always pleasant to "swap" experiences with other country newspaper men, and especially is this so when the visitor comes from one of our surrounding towns.

The Railroad Labor Unions struck and the world goes on. The railroads are replacing union men with non-union and the former employees are losing their seniority, so it is not going to be altogether a pathway of roses for the Unions. The attempt has almost failed and it will fail completely if the roads continue to stand up for their rights. The rail workers are among the highest paid workmen in the world. They are drawing salaries practically the same as in wartime. They must do as other workers have done, and must take a lower wage, proportionate to the earning capacity of the individual and of the railroad for which they work.

Austin, Texas, June 25, '22
Mr. H. G. Perry,
Editor Junction Eagle,
Junction, Texas.
My Dear Perry:—

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 8th, and your announcement of the big show and barbecue to be held on July 3rd and 4th, at Junction. This announcement is indeed a work of the printers' art. It shows that you are putting Junction on the map. I wish I could be with you at this time and partake of your hospitality and enjoy the occasion, but the work of the office is such that it will be impossible for any of us to get any vacation this year. I am enclosing you my check for $1.50, for which you will send me your good paper; I regret that I did not send you this check earlier.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Sincerely your friend,
Bruce W. Bryant,
Assistant Attorney General.

To the Voters of Kimble County

While it is generally expected of a candidate to solicit in person on each voter and call his or her vote and support, owing to lack of time, together with the bad conditions of the country roads, and the heavy expense of making a house to house canvass of the county, I have undertaken to reach each voter thru the mail. The purpose being the same as is applied by the business world, in that the applicant for a position is required to submit credentials, recommendations or certificate of efficiency setting out his or her qualifications as being able to perform the services required.

These letters are expressive of all I could say in person, stating my claim as being able to serve you in the interest of the county, and I trust, when you read the letter, the message will be received in the same spirit as a personal visit.

Very truly yours,
Asa G. Farmer,
Candidate for Tax Assessor of Kimble County.

John A. Allen and wife from the Live Oak ranch were in the city this week.

Missing so many Sundays has got us a little behind with our finances.

Noelke, Merzon; Bob Day, Del Rio; Frank Greenwood, Del Rio; Hal Hamilton, Del Rio; V. A. Brown, Rock Springs; J. B. Moore, San Antonio; E. E. Stricklen, Juno; and B. E. Wilson, Juno.

George M. Thurmond, retiring secretary-treasurer and C. C. Belcher, both Del Rio lawyers, were appointed attorneys for the association. Thurmond has held that post two years. S. L. Humphreys, T. R. Owens of Merzon, and J. E. Pruitt of Barksdale, were re-appointed inspectors with Humphreys as chief, succeeding Nat E. Jones of Del Rio, who resigned yesterday.

Failure to agree on a name was the bar last night to the merging of the American Angora Goat Breeders Association, headquarters at Reed Springs, Mo., and the National Angora Goat Record Association, headquarters at Juno, Texas. The American Angora Goat Record Association was suggested and this name may be adopted if a favorable report on consolidation is made when committees from each body meet July 15, at Leaky, Texas. More than 100 sheep and goat men joined the association during the convention, swelling the membership to approximately 1,000.

Trains Operating as Usual Despite Carmen Walkout.

Chicago, July 1.—With the country-wide strike of shopmen declared by union leaders practically one hundred per cent perfect, the nation's great transportation machine continued its work without interruption.

Railway executives were unanimous in their belief that the strike would have little effect on the operation of their roads and asserted that any move toward a settlement would have to come from the United States Labor Board or the employees.

B. M. Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, who yesterday refused to appear at a federal inquiry into the strike call, reiterated that the only basis for a settlement was for the roads to agree not to put into effect wage decreases recently ordered for the shopmen by the labor board.

Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, declared in a formal statement that the power of the government coupled with public sentiment will give every protection to every railway employee who remains on the job and to all new men who take the places of the strikers in the present walkout.

The walkout began in all sections of the country promptly at 10 a. m. and in many places took on the aspect of a holiday, the men singing and cheering as they drew down their tools. As reports came into union headquarters during the day, leaders asserted that the ranks of the strikers would number more than three-quarters of the 400,000 membership before night.

The only display of force reported during the day was at Beardstown, Ill., where several hundred shopmen after failing to persuade four comrades to join them in the walkout picked them up bodily and carried them out. "We sent them home," the leader was quoted as saying, "to avoid trouble."

In Chicago, where it is estimated 100,000 men are affected, no disturbances of any kind were reported and all of the roads claimed that both passengers and freight were being handled without interruption of any kind.

Presidents of railways entering Chicago expressed determination to have no dealings with the representatives of the striking unions. They declared that the issue was not between the unions and railways but between the unions and the United States Labor Board.

Subterranean Stills are Worrying Dry Officers.

Washington, July 1.—Federal Prohibition Commissioner Hays has been advised of devices methods of concealment reported to be moonshiners, in a room 20x20 feet underground. Director Meadows of Oklahoma found a huge boiler, 1,064 gallons of mash, 100 gallons of sugar and 105 gallons of whiskey. Repeated searches had been made but nothing was discovered until an officer started to dig the hay out of feed racks. In the bottom of the rack under a layer of dirt a trap door was found opening into a narrow tunnel leading to the subterranean cavern 20 feet outside the barn.

"Several stills have been found under hog pen floors in which the dirt from the hogs would fall into the mash," said the commissioner.

Referring to underground stills, Director McClenahan of Colorado, says he is employing dynamite against them. "Six months ago the moonshiner went underground," reports Director McClenahan, "but dynamiting will have a salutary effect. An underground still on a farm near Watkins was blown up."

Ex-Service Men Can Get Policies Renewed July 5-15.

An opportunity for ex-service men to reinstate their war risk term insurance and to convert it into some regular form of United States Government life insurance, provided the individual is not permanently and totally disabled, will be afforded by the United States Veterans' Bureau from July 5 to 15, according to instructions received Friday by the Fort Worth office of the bureau. An intensive campaign will be carried on in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas from July 5 to 15 by the bureau offices, and it is hoped that every ex-service man will be given an opportunity to reinstate his insurance.

If the applicant is in good health and can pass the complete physical examination he will be required to pay only two premiums regardless of how long his insurance has been in state of lapse, it is stated.

If an ex-service man is suffering from a disability, incurred or aggravated by military service he also has the right to reinstate his insurance, but in this case it is necessary for him to submit all back premiums due with interest at 5 per cent compounded annually. A physical examination is also required.

Special.—Beginning now, ending 4th. Sale on all ready-to-wear. Will have this week a shipment of new dresses.

The Model Shop, Mrs. Vara James.

been pretty much the same with all of us. The worst of it is, it looks as though there isn't a thing in the world we can do. The country's been betrayed by a few blatherers and boneheads that had the power to do it, and all we can do—we've just got to stand it. But there's some Americans that aren't just standing it, and I want to tell you a lot of 'em are men from the universities, just like us. They're over there right now; they haven't said much—they just packed up and went. They're flying for France and for England and for Canada; they're fighting under every flag on the right side of the western front; and they're driving ambulances at Verdun and ammunition trucks at the Somme. Well, there's going to be a lot more American boys on all these mighty soon, on account of what those men did in congress today. If they won't give us a chance to do something under our own flag, then we'll have to go and do it under some other flag; and I want to tell you I'm one that's going to go. I'll stick it out in college up to Easter, and then if there's still no chance to go under the Stars and Stripes I'll maybe have to go under the flag my great-grandfather fought against in 1776, but, anyhow, I'll go."

It was in speaking to Ramsey of this declaration that Dora said Fred was a "dangerous firebrand." They were taking another February walk, but the February was February, 1917, and the day was dry and sunny. "It's just about a year ago," she said.

"What is?" Ramsey asked. "That first time we went walking. Don't you remember?"

"Oh, that day? Yes, I remember it was snowing."

"And so cold and blowy?" she added. "It seems a long time ago. I like walking with you, Ramsey. You're so quiet and solid—I've always felt I could talk to you just anyhow I pleased, and you wouldn't mind. I'll miss these walks with you when we're out of college."

He chuckled. "That's funny."

"Why?"

"Because we've only taken four besides this: two last year, and another week before last, and another last week. This is only the fifth."

"Good gracious! Is that all? It seemed to me we'd gone ever so often!" She laughed. "I'm afraid you won't think that seems much as if I'd liked going, but I really have. And by the way, you've never called on me at all. Perhaps it's because I've forgotten to ask you."

"Oh, no," Ramsey said, and scuffed his shoes on the path, presently explaining rather huskily that he "never was much of a caller"; and he added, "or anything."

"Well, you must come if you ever care to," she said, with a blazer's graciousness. "The Dorm chaperon sits there, of course, but ours is a jolly one and you'd like her. You've probably met her—Mrs. Hastings—when you've called on other girls at our old shop."

"No," said Ramsey. "I never was much of a —" He paused, fearing that he might be repeating himself.

"I Never Liked Any Girl Enough to Go and Call on Her."

and too hastily amended his intention. "I never liked any girl enough to go and call on her."

"Ramsey Milholland!" she cried. "Why, when we were in school half the room used to be talking about how you and that pretty Milholland—"

"No, no," Ramsey protested, again too hurriedly. "I never called on her. We just went walking."

A moment later his color suddenly became fiery. "I don't mean—I mean —" he stammered. "It was walking, of course—I mean we did go out walking, but it wasn't walking like—like this." He concluded with a fit of coughing which seemed to rack him.

Dora threw back her head and laughed delightedly. "Don't you apologize," she said. "I didn't when I said it seemed to me that we'd gone walking so often, when in reality it's only four or five times altogether. I think I can explain, I can explain. I can explain, I can explain. I have that I can rely on you—that you're a good, solid, reliable sort of person. I remember from the time we were little children, you always had a sort of worried, honest look in school, and you used to make a dent in your forehead—your mouth it for a frown—whenever I caught your eye. You hated me so honestly, and you were so honestly afraid I wouldn't see it."

"Oh, no—no—"

"Oh, yes—yes!" she laughed, then grew serious. "My feeling about you—that you were a person to be relied on, I mean—I think it began that evening on our freshman year, after the Lusitania, when I stopped you on the campus and you went with me, and I couldn't help crying, and you were so nice and quiet. I hardly realized then that it was the first time we'd ever really talked together—of course I did all the talking—and yet we'd known each other so many years. I thought of it afterward. But what gave me such a different view of you, I'd always thought you were one of that truculent sort of boys, always just bursting for a fight; but you showed me you'd really never had a fight in your life and hated fighting, and that you sympathized with my feeling about war." She stopped speaking to draw in her breath with a sharp sigh. "Oh, don't you remember when I told you all along? How it keeps coming closer and closer—and now it's almost here! Isn't it unthinkable? And what can we do to stop it, we poor few who feel that we must stop it?"

"Well," Ramsey began uncomfortably. "Of course I—"

"You can't do much," she said. "I know. None of us can. What can any little group do? There are so few of us among the undergraduates—and only one in the whole faculty. All the rest are for war. But we mustn't give up; we must never feel afterward that we left anything undone; we must fight to the last breath!"

"Fight?" he repeated wonderingly, then chuckled.

"Oh, as a figure of speech," she said impatiently. "Our language is full of barbaric figures left over from the dark ages. But, oh, Ramsey!"—she touched his sleeve—"I've heard that Fred Mitchell is saying that he's going to Canada after Easter, to try to get into the Canadian aviation corps. If it's true, he's a dangerous firebrand, I think. Is it true?"

"I guess so. He's been talking that way, some."

"But why do you let him talk that way?" she cried. "He's your roommate; surely you have more influence with him than anybody else has. Couldn't you—"

He shook his head slowly, while upon his face the faintly indicated modeling of a grin hinted of an inner laughter at some surreptitious thought.

"Well, you know, Fred says himself sometimes. I don't seem to be much of a talker exactly."

"I know. But don't you see? That sort of thing is contagious, others will think they ought to go if he does; he's popular and quite a leader. Can't you do anything with him?"

She waited for him to answer. "Can't you?" she insisted.

The grin had disappeared and Ramsey grew red again.

He seemed to wish to speak, to heave with speech that declined to be spoken and would not rouse up from his laze. Finally he uttered words.

"I—well, I—"

"Oh, I know," she said. "A man—or a boy!—always likes to be intruding his own convictions upon other men, especially in a case like this, where he might be afraid of some other's thinking him unmanly. But Ramsey—" Suddenly she broke off and looked at him attentively; his discomfort had become so obvious that suspicion struck her. She spoke sharply. "Ramsey, you aren't dreaming of doing such a thing, are you?"

"What such a thing?"

"Fred hasn't influenced you, has he? You aren't planning to go with him, are you?"

"Where?"

"To join the Canadian aviation."

"No, I haven't thought of doing it," she sighed again, relieved. "I had a queer feeling about you just then—that you were thinking of doing some such thing. You looked so odd—and you're always so quiet, anybody might not really know what to think. But I'm not wrong about you, am I, Ramsey?"

"They had come to the foot of the steps that led up to the entrance of her dormitory, and their walk was at an end. As they stopped and faced each other, she looked at him earnestly, but he did not meet the scrutiny, his eyelids fell.

"I'm not wrong, am I, Ramsey?"

"About what?" he murmured, uncomfortably.

"You are my friend, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Then it's all right," she said. "That relieves me and makes me happier than I was just now, for of course if you're my friend you wouldn't let me make any mistake about you. I believe you, and now, just before I go on my way, I want to tell you that I'm going for a week—if you still want me to go with you again next Sunday—"

"Yes—won't you, please?"

"Yes, if you like. But I want to tell you now that I count on you in all this, even though you don't talk much, as you say; I count on you more than I do on anybody else, and I trust you when you say you're my friend, and it makes me happy."

"I think it's all right for him to go, if he wants to," Ramsey said, miserably.

"You do? For him to go to fight?" He swallowed. "Yes."

"Oh," she cried, turned even redder than he, and ran up the stone steps. But before the storm doors closed upon her she looked down to where he stood, with his eyes still lowered, a lonely seeming figure upon the pavement below. Her voice caught upon a sob as she spoke.

"If you feel like that, you might as well go and enlist, yourself," she said, as she spoke.

He Swallowed. "Yes."

bitterly. "I can't—I couldn't—speak to you again after this!"

CHAPTER XIV.

It was easy enough for him to evade Fred Mitchell's railings these days; the spring's mood was truculent, not toward his roommate but toward congress, which was, in every haste, than he to be definitely at war with Germany.

All through the university the change had come: athletics, in other years spotlighted at the center of the stage, languished suddenly, threatened with abandonment; students working for senior honors forgot that; every thing was forgotten except that growing thunder in the soil.

Several weeks elapsed after Dora's bitter dismissal of Ramsey before she was mentioned between the comrades. Then, one morning, Fred asked, as he restlessly paced their study floor:

"Have you seen your pacifist friend lately?"

"No. Not exactly. Why?"

"Well, for my part, I think she ought to be looked up," Fred said, angrily. "If you heard what she did this afternoon?"

"No."

"It's all over college. She got up in the class in jurisprudence and made a speech. It's a big class, you know, over two hundred, under Dean Burdett. He's a great lecturer, but he's a pacifist—the only one on the faculty—and a friend of Dora's. The speech he encouraged her to make this break and led the subject around so she could do it, and then called on her for an opinion, as the highest-stand student in the class. She got up and claimed there wasn't any such thing as a legitimate cause for war, either legally or morally, and said it was a sign of weakness in a nation for it to believe that it had a cause for war."

"Well, it was too much for that little, spunky Joe Stansbury, and he jumped up and argued with her. He made her admit all the Germans have done to us, the sea murders and the land murders, the blowing up of factories, the propaganda, the strikes, trying to turn the United States into a German settlement, trying to get Japan and Mexico to make war on us, and all the rest. He even made her admit there was proof they meant to conquer us when they got through with the others, and that they've set out to rule the world for their own benefit, and make whoever else they kindly allow to live, work for them."

"She said it might be true, but since nothing at all could be a right cause for war, then all this couldn't be a cause for war. Of course she had her regular pacifist logic working; she said that since war is the worst thing there is, why, all other evils were lesser, and a lesser evil can't be a just cause for war. She got terribly excited, they say, but kept right on, anyway. She said war was murder and there couldn't be any other way to look at it; and she'd heard there was already talk in the university of students thinking about enlisting, and she'd said that this was virtually enlisting to return murder for murder. Then Joe Stansbury asked her if she meant that she'd feel toward any student that enlisted the way she would toward a murderer, and she said, yes, she'd have a horror of any student that enlisted."

"Well, that broke up the class; Joe turned from her to the platform and told old Burney that he was responsible for allowing such talk in his lecture room, and Joe said so far as he was concerned, he resigned from Burney's class right there. Then, started it, and practically the whole class got up and walked out with Joe. They said Burney streaked off home, and Dora was left alone in there, with her head down on her desk—and I guess she certainly deserves it. A good many have already dropped speaking to her."

Ramsey picked up a pen on the table by which he sat. "Well, I don't

Brady Wins 3 Straights From Coleman; Best Series of Year

The Locals make the result of week's schedule unanimous without visitor's consent. The games kept players and fans on their toes.

The bully, battling, beefing, base-ball boys from Coleman bit off three chews more than they could masticate when they took Brady on for a series of three games Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The visitors had their tail feathers pulled and their pin feathers picked, and all the crowd they had was what they ate. The results of the three contests had a startling similarity, and ran like unto this: first game—Brady 3; Coleman 2; second game—Brady 3; Coleman 1; third game—Brady 6; Coleman, 4—Brady Standard.

Modern Packing Plant Being Completed at San Angelo.

San Angelo will soon have one of the most modern packing houses in West Texas after the C. C. Culwell Packing Company plant is completed. The plant is north of San Angelo just outside the city limits. At the present time the plant is supplying a large percentage of meat to the local markets and doing some shipping to small towns near here. The building is a four-room concrete structure, composed of two vaults in which the meat is stored and kept cold, a slaughtering room and a curing room. Ten beefs and five hogs are killed daily and put in the vaults, while about ten muttons a week are killed. The meat is kept in the cold vault at least a week before being sent to the butcher.

The plant is undergoing repairs now, and is being made fire proof by placing steel and tin ceilings throughout the building. After being completed, which is expected within two months, the building will be painted solid white and kept white in order to assure cleanliness.

To The Voters of Kimble County

I take this method of asking you for your vote and influence for the office of District Attorney of the 33rd Judicial District.

I wish that I could in a personal way ask you for your vote but on account of the large district, it is impossible for me to do so.

I feel that I have the ability to fill this office and if you give me your support, I will try and merit the same by giving you service.

Burnett County has held this office to the exclusion of all other counties in the district for more than 20 years, and all things being equal, I think we should have a change.

IMPORTANT!

We are prepared to furnish the Ford Truck equipped either with Standard or Special Gearing. The Standard Gearing gives the truck a maximum of power. The Special Gearing increases the speed of the truck from five to seven miles an hour, converting it into a Fast Delivery Car.

When in need of a new tire, no matter what size, remember the Goodyear. Our stock is complete and we can serve you promptly. Also remember the Goodyear Tubes. We have them in Regular and Heavy Tourist Type and we have found none better, and very few as good, after trying dozens of different makes. When you buy a Goodyear Tire or Tube, you are assured of getting first class quality at most reasonable prices.

Make Use of our Free Service. Watch your tires and keep plenty of air in them, and your tire expense and trouble will be greatly reduced.

When you come to town, make our store your headquarters. You are welcome to come in and just loaf and make yourselves at home. We like for you to come in and listen to the music and enjoy yourself and you are welcome, whether you buy anything or not.

When you need anything in the hardware line remember, we have it, and if it so happens that we are out we can soon get it for you. Anything not usually carried in stock we will gladly order for you.
