DR. BELL LAID TO REST ON MOUNTAIN TOP

Nations Do Honor To Famed Inventor

Special to The Record News.

BADDECK, N. S., August 4.—All the villagers of Baddeck trudged to the peak of Beinn Bhreagh mountain this evening and stood in reverence at sunset while the body of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell was laid tenderly to rest after a life of 75 years in which he gave to the world the telephone and other inventions.

Over his tomb, blasted from rock, that looked down on all of eastern Nova Scotia and the beautiful Bras d'Or lakes, stood the watch tower built years ago by the inventor; below, the quiet woodland and the serene lakes on whose waters Dr. Bell experimented with speed boats and fast water sleds.

Lakes Serene

The lakes were still and all the craft that sail upon their waters stood motionless at the final hour. In the village every shop and store was closed and each home had sent its occupants to the mountain top. No one was left in the laboratories and workshops where Dr. Bell and his helpers busied themselves in summer time.

First there were short services at the hillside homestead, attended only by those who had been very close to Dr. Bell. When these were ended, bronzed workmen, employed on the estate, lifted to their shoulders the casket which had been built in Dr Bell's workshop one of rugged pine and carried it to his coach, which led the cortege up to the very highest tip of the mountain.

There his six-foot frame silhoutted against the twilight sky, stood the village parson, Rev. John Mackinnon of the Greenwood Presbyterian church of Baddeck, clustered about him down the slopes of the mountain were the Nova Scotians and a few who had come from the United States for the burial.

Then as the day departed and night came the body was entombed in the rock.

Phones Silent

For one moment during the service all of the 13,000,000 telephones in the United Stats and Canada were silent.

Illinois Coal Operators Spurn Lewis But Lay Plans To Open Mines

Proposition for Reopening Illinois Mines Submitted to State Mine President; Offer Old Wage Scales and Agree that They Stand Effective Pending Arbitration.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Illinois coal operators meeting here today refused to attend the meeting of union officials and operators called for Cleveland next Monday by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, but submitted a proposition to Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners' union, which, if accepted would result in reopening of Illinois mines.

"Acceding to and being governed by the request of the president of the United States," the proposal to Mr. Farrington said, "we are prepared to at once open our mines for work, paying the wage scale in effect at the expiration of the last contract. And to avoid possible further disruption of coal production his fall and winter when the coal supply will be dangerously short even under the best condiions, we will agree that the old wage scale shall remain effective until March 31, 1923."

The proposals, signed by the Illinois Coal Operators association, the Central Illinois Coal Operators association and the Coal Operators association of the fifth and ninth district, suggested that immediately upon resumption of operations, the whole matter of Illinois wage and working conditions be submitted to a board of arbitration composed of persons mutually agreed to be appointed by President Harding, no member of the board to be an operator or a miner.

Reed's Comeback—
People Love Fighters—
Wilson vs. Reed—
Fearlessness Won—

MISSOURI DEMOCRATS HAVE spoken and their verdict must have rung around the nation. This is a democracy and the voice of the people is alleged to be the voice of God. This is a democracy and when the majority speaks the minority is popularly supposed to bow to the decision made at the primary ballot box. This Missouri battle of the ballots was the greatest ever staged in that state. It was one of the greatest ever staged in any American state. James A. Reed was not pitted against Breckenridge Long. He was pitted against Woodrow Wilson and Woodrow Wilson invited, nay welcomed, nay forced the issue when he challenged Reed to the battle of the ballots and declared him to be on the blacklist of the former president. From beginning to end it was an extraordinary contest and only a giant of debate and a Collossus among political giants could have staged the come-back that James A. Reed staged and snatched a victory from out of the very jaws of defeat and humiliation. Two years ago he was declared a political outlaw by the Wilson democrats of Missouri. They held their state convention to send delegates to the national convention and neither would they permit Reed to defend his record as an American senator nor address them as fellow democrats in his own behalf.

THEY THREW HIM OUT OF the convention. They muzzled his faithful followers. They would not accept him as a district delegate when the regularly authorized delegates of the Kansas City congressional district submitted his name as unanimous choice for delegate to the national convention of the party. He was declared to be without the pale. He was declared to be a broken political thing without honor, without hope, without a future and without friends in the house of the democratic fathers. God hates a quitter. Reed never quits. God and the people love a fighter. Reed has never yet turned his back on his foes or asked for quarter. This has been his record as an American senator. He voted against the league of nations because he did not believe in entangling alliances with foreign pow-

Girl Charges Father Has Been Assaulting Her for Nine Years

Following a woman's appeal for legal protection from a "bad man," Officers Sid Johnson and Bob Miller arrested a man at his camp on First street, near the river.

The appeal came from the wife and daughter of the individual arrested, and affidavits made before the county attorney last night, showed the man had been guilty of continued assault on his 16-year-old daughter since she was 7 years old.

The statements, however, show that the last alleged assault was committed in Oklahoma, although one was attempted yesterday morning.

The family, traveling in a closed wagon, arrived in Wichita Falls two days ago and had camped near the river. At the time of the alleged attempted assault yesterday, the child in question evaded her father, but for so doing, suffered a severe beating. This beating brought the appeal to the local police.

Both the girl and her step-mother, now the mother of seven children by the accused man, came to the station and volunteered their evidence to the county attorney, but both emphasized the fact that no assault had been committed since they came into Texas.

As a result of the evidence obtained, officials last night were unable to state whether or not the man would be charged and tried here for the attempted assault, or whether his case would be filed with the county officials and transferred to Oklahoma, the scene of all acts of violence and other statutory charges.

Following his arrest, the man threatened violence to every member of the family for having implicated him, but he was assured that the anticipated bond was not apt to be granted.

The girl in the case is a child by the first wife of the man, but she has made her home with the family since her father's second marriage.

LONG TARIFF DEBATE BRINGS NO RESULTS

Senate Argues Four Hours On Issue

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—For four hours today the senate wrangled over the Gooding resolution proposing a broad investigation of the interest of senators, newspapers and others in the passage or defeat of the pending tariff bill, but action on it was postponed indefinitely.

The resolution was reported unfavorably by the committee on contingent expenses. Democrats urged immediate consideration, but Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, republican leader, asked that the committee reply lie over for a day under the rules. Subsequently, Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, presiding temporarily, stated in answer to an inquiry that the measure had gone to the calendar.

Probe "Dead."

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—Legislative representatives of three of the four railroad brotherhoods in Washington were requested by telegraph tonight to arrange a conference between President Harding and the chief executives of the brotherhoods for the purpose of presenting to the president their views in connection with the present strike of railroad shop crafts.

The matter has been under consideration since yesterday by Warren S. Stone, president of the brotherhood of engineers; W. G. Lee, president of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen, and D. B. Robertson, president of the brotherhood of firemen and engineers, but because of failure to get a reply for joint action from L. E. PEACE EFFORTS PLEASE SOLONS

Believe Intervention Worth While

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The major purpose of administration intervention in the rail strike was accomplished, a white house spokesman declared today, when both railroad executives and shop craft agreed to consider anything of the railroad labor board as subject for future controversies.

This aspect of President Harding's proposals for a "settlement of the strike is viewed by the administration as paramount. The fact that the executives rejected the president's further proposal that, to end the strike, strikers be taken back on the carriers without impairment of their seniority status, was said to be secondary in the white house view since the success or non-success of governmental mediation efforts in the coal strike could be considered a small matter compared with maintenance of the integrity of legally established agencies of the government itself.

This outline of the administration attitude strengthened the belief that for the moment no further government move affecting the conduct of railroads was to be expected.

COAL WAITS ON COMING PARLEY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Harding probably will withhold appointment of a special commission to effect a settlement of the coal strike until after the conference in Cleveland Monday of miners and operators, from the central competitive field, it was indicated tonigat in administration circles.

Considerable importance was understood to be attached by the administration to the outcome of the Cleveland conference in relation to the national fuel situation.

Congressional participation in the coal dispute also will await the results of the Cleveland meeting, officials believed. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, was with the president and discussed his proposed bill to authorize the chief executive to appoint a federal commission to arbitrate the mine disagreement. A decision was reached not to introduce the measure into the senate until next week.

Current carloading in the producing fields, according to telegraphic reports gathered by the railroads, showed some improvement during the past few days.

Special to the Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 4.—One of the closest contested races in Stephens county in the recent primary was the sheriff's race. In nearly all of the counties of Oklahoma the sheriff's race is a pivotal contest.

E. R. Young, better known as "Brigham" Young, former chief of police of Duncan and former sheriff of Stephens county, entered the primaries against Sheriff E. H. Rhyne, who was seeking re-election. It took the official count to determine which was the winner, but Young nosed out with 81 votes to the good. FIDDLE GETS LEWIS NOMINATION

Special to the Record News

DUNSAT, Okla., Aug. 4.—Emulating the methods of the late Bob Taylor, once governor of Tennessee, W. C. Lewis, young lawyer of Duncan, carried his "fiddle" along with him while campaigning for the nomination of senator for the four counties of Stephens, Cotton, Jefferson, Comanche and Cotton, racing against Senator L. A. Merton, seeking reelection. It would be inferred that Lewis might be of a primitive type, but because of his use of the violin at country picnics, a method long ago discarded. He was born in Oklahoma and is of Indian extraction, only slightly, but a typical Oklahoman. He is a graduate from the law department of the University of Oklahoma, his wife and she attending there at the same time, and she is a native Oklahoman and of Indian blood. Mrs. Lewis is marshal of the supreme court of Oklahoma, a distinction never before held by any woman in the United States. In taking the bar examination in a class of thirty-nine she ranked first. They have a boy 12 years old.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ers, and he had Washington's farewell address as his guide. There may be millions of American democrats who were furious because of his attitude and harsh in their criticism of this foremost orator and debater of the American senate.

TIME HEALS WOUNDS BUT the scars remain. Reed took his punishment. He returned to Washington and his seat in senate halls. There he began the battle for the fundamentals of democracy and the ancient policies and the gospel of the democratic faith. He was willing to let by-gones be by-gones. He was willing to take his place in the ranks as a gladiator of the hour but he had no apologies to offer and said as he has said before that he would accept his instructions from the rank and file of the Missouri democracy and never from those who were like himself, mere servants of the people. He announced for re-election. He had given twelve years in the senate to the people of Missouri. Men had denounced him as a traitor and political bosses had declared him to be a party outlaw. He submitted his cause to the democrats of Missouri and he made a speaking campaign that must have recalled to students of history the stirring days of the past when George Graham West was a sublime orator and leader of democracy or the earlier days when Thomas H. Benton was acclaimed the most brilliant speaker of his day and the most profound statesman of his era.

THEN IT WAS THAT WOODrow Wilson pilloried James A. Reed as a marplot and one who should not be permitted to carry the standard of democracy aloft for the party of the faithful in the state of Missouri. Leading newspapers which had supported Harding and Coolidge entered the fight. Their editors and publishers hurled breadsides into the camps of the man who was fighting with his back against the wall. They gave aid and encouragement in every way possible to the dummy candidate for the senatorship, Breckenridge Long. Long is not a gladiator. He merely stood for an idea or an ideal. There were two gladiators before the democrats of Missouri. One was a citizen of another state and for eight years he had been the president of this republic. It was a battle to the death between James A. Reed and the war president of the United States. It was not over the fundamentals of democracy. It was not for free speech or a free press. It was not for the God-given and blood-bought boons of civil and religious liberty. It was for the imperishable right of a trial by jury of a person accused of crime. All these are dear to the heart of James A. Reed. All these he had championed since early boyhood.

WHAT WAS THE ISSUE? THE league of nations! Washington advised against it. Jefferson walked in his footsteps. Madison never dreamed of such a thing. Jackson would never have stood for it. Cleveland never heard of it. It was an issue which grew out of the blood sacrifice of the world war. And the writer was for the ratification of the treaty and still believes that if ratification had taken place the nations of the earth would have been at peace today and the economic or industrial rehabilitation of peoples wrecked by war would be on the way. But the man from Missouri, the man who staged a come-back and won, the man who submitted his cause and his future to the rank and file of the Missouri democracy did not see the league of nations as many of his fellow democrats saw it and he voted as his conscience and his convictions directed him to vote. He is a winner now. If the voice of the majority is the voice of the democracy of Missouri, James A. Reed has been vindicated, he has been given his new instructions, for a third time the senatorial standard or banner has been placed in his hands and, win or lose in November, he is the James A. Reed of other years, courageous in conflict, invincible in debate, without a peer among his fellow democrats in the shivering of lances with the spokesmen of the hereditary enemy of democracy and the master of his own soul. And the men who voted for him in Missouri did not vote for him because they loved Woodrow Wilson less. They voted for him because they loved James A. Reed more and because they felt they needed a warrier in the senate now if they ever needed one before.

REQUEST—

brotherhood members being asked to take out locomotives and equipment in dangerous and unsafe conditions and of assaults and insults to the brotherhood members by armed guards.

The legislative representatives are requested to file this message with the president as a basis for discussion with him of the question at issue.

The second night of the strikers' carnival saw a monster crowd and already the anticipated goal of the committee in charge of the affair has been passed.

Novel and clean attractions are drawing many to the grounds on Scott street, but the pavement dancing seems to appeal more than any of the other amusements.

Many new stunts are on the ground, and one feature seldom offered by a carnival is two free shows, acts of vaudeville staged on a large, raised platform. The shows are held at 8:30 and 10 o'clock each evening.

Master Ray, the boy entertainer, is doing his part toward making the carnival a success. Animal acts, and a clown juggler afford amusement to many.

While Thursday and Friday nights saw large crowds, the crowd tonight is expected to overflow the grounds.

The entire affair was planned and accepted at noon, Saturday, July 29. All members of the crafts assisted in erecting booths, advertising and making such other arrangements as were necessary. The members of the crafts are in charge of the booths, and are working both for themselves and the carnival.

Scott street is closed for half a block and a seven piece orchestra affords music for the dancers.

Tonight marks the close of the show, and the success of the movement can not be estimated, but officials in charge stated last night that the benefit was already what they had hoped to see, with still another night to run.

MESSAGE DOES NOT REACH HARDING.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The telegram sent from executives of three of the four railroad brotherhoods in Cleveland asking a conference with President Harding on the railroad strike situation, did not reach the White House in time to receive Mr. Harding's consideration tonight.

Legislative agents of the brotherhoods also were understood to have agreed to wait until tomorrow before presenting the request with the conference.

SIGN POSTS TO POINT OUT ROADS HERE SOON

"Take this road to Seymour."

"Take this road to Iowa Park."

Those are just a couple of the signs which will soon grace all turns leaving Wichita Falls for various outlying communities which surround the city, according to information revealed by Commissioner J. B. Fitts during a meeting of the city council yesterday morning.

Commissioner Fitts announced to the council that he had granted the right of puting up signs to the White Sign company, and that all turns and routes out of the city would be posted. His action was approved by the body.

SHOW COMING HERE AUGUST 14 TO 20

Clarke's Greater Shows were granted the right to request a permit from the city of Wichita Falls to show the week of August 14 to 20, during a special called meeting of the commissioners yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A representative of the show who was present during the meeting announced that all concessions would be under the direct inspection of the local police department, and that any to which the city objected would be closed immediately.

The carnival will operate at the local baseball park.

Mayor Frank Collier called attention to the city ordinance which declares that all carnivals must have police protection and must pay a small fee for showing here, the representative agreeing to pay the fee and the police protection rights.

The shows, it was brought out, are members of the West Texas chamber of commerce, and have been showing throughout Texas under the auspices of the American Legion.

FINES TOTAL $450 IN NIGHT COURT HERE

Fines totaling $450 were imposed upon three individuals at a session of the night court last night.

Posing as man and wife, a couple were arrested in a local boarding house Wednesday night by city officers. The proprietor of the rooming house was called to the stand and stated that both declared their wedlock before the rooms were rented to them.

The couple had been living together for more than a week when arrested. Upon completion of the evidence, each was fined $200.

The third case called was that of a negro charged with rudely displaying a pistol. A fine of $50 was assessed against him, and the evidence collected will be turned over to the county officials for further action in regard to possession and carrying the gun.

TELEPHONE WINS HER DIVORCE

The Pajama Girl—Ferol Fairman, show girl and society entertainer, telephoned once too often to Dr. Charles M. Rose, wealthy Chicago physician, and—

The Wife Who Listened In—Margaret Connery Rose had no difficulty collecting evidence in two weeks to get an immediate divorce from her husband.

(By Central Press.)

CHICAGO, July 30.—Ferol Fairman, show girl and society entertainer, is in the same class as the well-known pitcher that went to the well once too often.

The only difference between the two is that Ferol went to the telephone once too often.

She called Dr. Charles M. Rose, well-to-do physician here. The doctor answered the call on the extension phone in his office. But while he was conversing with the fair entertainer he knew not that his wife was listening in on the residence phone.

Just what Mrs. Rose overheard is not known, but it is sufficient to say that within two weeks she had gathered enough evidence to get a divorce in twenty-four hours.

"I knew nothing of my husband's love affairs until I happened to pick up the receiver that morning," Mrs. Rose told the judge.

"Later I asked him who the woman was. He said it was a man. So I told him what I'd heard. Then he confessed that the woman was Ferol Fariman, an entertainer. He said she had visited out home. That settled it. I left."

After the break Mrs. Rose went to live with her father, John T. Connery, president of the Miami Coal company, owner of the Edgewater Beach hotel and a multi-millionaire several times over.

In court she described pajama parties in her home in her absence and other unconventional escapades in which her husband and Miss Fairman played leading roles.

House Detective Robert E. Calkins of the Edgewater Beach hotel testified that on one occasion Rose was ordered out of the place during the night season when he was to nd in a room assigned to a woman.

Hannah Carlson, a maid in the Rose home, testified that on one occasion she saw a woman parading from one bedroom to the other clad only in pajamas. This was during the absence of Mrs. Rose.

Mrs. Rose offered more evidence, but Judge Charles A. McDonald waved it aside and promptly signed a divorce decree for Mrs. Rose. She was awarded the custody of their six-year-old child.

"And to think this had been going on for years," Mrs. Rose said after her divorce, "and probably I wouldn't have known of it yet if I hadn't happened to listen in."

IS THE SPIRIT OF '17 DEAD?

PRESIDENT HARDING has declared that the mine owners should resume production under protection of troops. President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers has declared that not a single union miner has been forced to return to work by the assembling and parading of engines of war and that winter is coming on with no prospects of a resumption of coal mining except through a settlement of the strike. Therefore he says that the miners are willing and anxious to settle the strike so that enough coal can be produced before cold weather to prevent a fuel crisis. To bring this about he has proposed a joint conference with the operators to negotiate a settlement of the coal strike with the proviso that the settlement must be general and not by districts as the operators desire. Furthermore, he avers that the mine workers' representatives will hold themselves in readiness to respond to any logical and practical attempt to effectuate an adjustment.

President Lewis laughs at the idea that the importation of British coal can become a factor in the strike situation. He points out that the orders for 500,000 tons which have been placed abroad represent just about two hours' normal production in the United States. Early in July this paper carried an interview with a nationally known mine operator who stated positively that the strike would not end before November 1. That it was to be a showdown battle for supremacy between the mine owners and the miners and that when peace did come the consumers of coal would be furnished cheaper coal and the miners would be working for less money than they were before the mines were closed down.

There are 650,000 miners on strike. There are thousands of non-union miners in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Alabama. These non-union mines and the strip mines which are mostly non-union in the states named, have never closed down. Their output is not great. When the strike was ordered there was a very large coal reserve. This reserve has melted away. All the union miners stand together for the demand that the settlement must be general. All the mine owners insist that the settlement must be by districts. There must be a vast distinction between tweedledom and tweedledee.

If the mine owners and the miners fail to come together and resume the production of coal before November 1, then the consumers of coal may as well make up their minds that even soft coal will approach a price this winter that the trade has never known before. All Americans stood together when the war came. All Americans walked together. All Americans worked together. Millions of Americans were ready for the supreme sacrifice overseas. There were no class hates or creed hates. All animosities were buried. All prejudices were stamped out. A war was waged and won. Capital and labor walked hand in hand in those dark hours. Employer and employe had no differences. They were for flag and country and the constitution and the law.

Why should they be apart today? Why not a return of war-time patriotism? Why not a return of war-time common sense? Why not a return of war-time spirit of sacrifice? Why not a return of war-time toleration and trust? America is the hope of the world and is was the hope of the world when millions of American soldiers carried the flag of democracy over historic fields of ancient Europe. This government found itself with a crisis. What followed? A national emergency growing out of an industrial conflict has been declared by the government for the first time in the peace-time history of the United States. This is where the Esch-Cummins law came in. As a result of the coal and rail strike the interstate commerce commission has assumed control of the distribution of fuel and food and other necessities in the eastern half of the country and given orders to expedite general freight shipments through the country.

The plain English of this is that the railways which are the land channels of commerce, are to be kept open by the use of troops if necessary, that coal is to be moved, that food products are to be moved and that there is to be no congestion.

Decisive action was necessary. Decisive action was taken. Consumers must have coal. Consumers must have food. There are more than a hundred million consumers in this country who are not engaged in the mining of coal or the coal industry and neither are they engaged in the transportation business either directly or indirectly. They demand service. They demand that the land channels of commerce shall be uninterrupted. Rail strikers say they are fighting for a living wage. Coal miners say they are striking for a living wage and the American standard of living conditions. It is a most acute issue and it touches the pocketbooks as well as the stomachs of all concerned.

There are men who decry courts of arbitration for the settlement of disputes between capital and labor. Wouldn't courts of arbitration work to a more civilized end than strikes and walkouts and boycotts and blacklists? Or soldiers and machine guns and court injunctions and other methods or modes of settlement?

WICHITA'S HEART

WARM weather and hard times have been making charities and drives slow of completion in other Texas cities, according to information gained from newspapers during the spring and summer months.

Not so with Wichita Falls.

Three drives have been recently staged, extra charities, after the annual united charities budget was raised for the year.

All three drives met with success, and that quickly, more quickly than had been anticipated.

Wichita Falls has certainly lost none of the "love of fellow man" which made it conspicuous for generosity in the free, open-handed days when money was easy.

The little children of Wichita Falls who are lacking in home care, because of the circumstances which force their mothers into the working world; the little children of the near east, made dependent by the war, which has not yet ended for this country; and the little children and the older folks also who are sick and suffering in the heat were the inspiration of these three latest drives.

The women of the various churches of the city, banded together in the Federated Missionary society, through their untiring efforts, in a few weeks' time raised nearly $8,000 in cash for the day nursery.

The women again had a large part in the success of the near east relief, for which between $5,000 and $6,000 was subscribed, and a large part paid in cash.

The third extra charity was the milk and ice fund sponsored by The Record News, which grew to large proportions in just a few days' time, insuring the unfortunate families of the city sufficient milk and ice for the summer. The ice factories, through this campaign, donated all the ice that the united charities will need during the summer.

There has been no let up in the benevolence of the more fortunate citizens of Wichita Falls, for the sick and needy, in Wichita Falls, and in foreign lands.

THE LULL BEFORE THE STORM

THIS is the lull before the storm in Wichita Falls. It is the dull summer season when people have little energy, when business slows down and when even the crickets are too stupid to sing as they do in the other seasons.

But there is a storm of prosperity for Wichita Falls coming. The big fair will be on in September, business always picks up in that month, a settlement of the railroad strike is in view and last but not least, the heat wave has to pass off some time. Within a few more weeks everybody will feel full of life and business will be hitting on all four. Just at present, despite the season, business in Wichita Falls is better than would be anticipated for this season of the year and is making big gains over the same periods for last year.

WHERE ARE OUR HORNS?

AGAIN we assert that Wichita Falls is a honkless town. A stranger coming here would testify that there are not a dozen automobile horns in the entire city.

Automobile horns were made to blow to give warning of danger. Hundreds of automobile drivers in Wichita Falls turn corners every day faster than they should and never honk a horn. They are supposed to give a honk when they start to make the turn. Crossing streets in Wichita Falls is just about as safe for pedestrians as crossing a swollen stream in a small skiff would be—there is always a risk of life.

Rippling Rhymes

PINCHED AGAIN.

The saddest words of tongue or penare these, "I've just been pinched again." In these fierce days when every man must have some sort of bus or van, when traffic laws are multiplied until we bust some open wide, no matter how we strive and strain to line up with the safe and sane, we hear the best and boldest men complaining. "We've been pinched again!" The reckless drivers get away, to hog the road some other day; the speed fiends leave a trail of smoke, and think the traffic law a joke; but fat old bards who own a wart are handed justice by the quart; the village parson drives along, and happily makes a signal wrong, his mind intent on hymn and text—the speed cop tells him he is next. Some woman parks her lizzie fine perhaps two inches out of line, and when she to her bus brings as white anger in her bosom burns. For she is tagged, must repair to court and dig up doubloons therby. The doctor, called to feed his pills to one who's perished chills, is stopped and dragged away to jail and lies, his chills-and-fever patient dies. And while the all sorts of fancy kale; and while he in his dungeon safe and sane are pinched, the delegates who should be lynched, the road hogs and the fiends of speed, get by with all their vice and greed.

Thompson Invites Busses to Chicago

No licenses will be required so long as the fare is 5 cents. The mayor is operating 15 busses and expects 24 more to reach the city tonight, nine from Rockford, Ill., and 15 from Toledo, Ohio.

Yesterday the mayor asked the city council to appropriate $3,000,000 to buy a permanent fleet of motor busses to be operated by the city.

They Thought He Was; But He Wasn't

By Associated Press.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., August 4.—All suspicion that Arthur Lang, a Lane county prisoner, charged with attempted bank robbery and held pending trial in the Reno county jail here, was Edward F. Winkler, wanted in Arizona for train robbery, was dispelled today when C. J. Huss, who knows Winkler personally, flately stated that Lang is not the train bandit. Huss came this morning from Tucson following previous failure to identify Lang through finger prints obtained from the government taken while Winkler was in the army.

Teacher (to little 5-year-old George)—Can you tell me what an entertainment is, George?

A gentleman going into his stable one day, found his little son, with a slate and pencil in his hand, astride one of the horses.

"Why, Eddie," he exclaimed, "what in the world are you doing?"

"Writing a composition," replied little Eddie.

"Well, why don't you write it in the library?" asked his father.

"Because," answered Eddie, "the teacher told us to write a composition on a horse."

"What proof have we that the Bible is a truthful book, little girl?"

"Mamma says it must be true because it says in one place that all men are liars."

Kansas Coal Production Falls

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Aug. 4. — Work reports in the Kansas coal fields tabulated today by the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators' association showed a loss of 500 men and a tonnage of 1,500 in the past week.

The decrease in the number of men at work is believed to be directly due to the action of the Howat followers in a meeting last Sunday voting to join in the national coal strike. Many of the Howat followers, not recognizing the Lewis organization, had been working.

MERELY TURNIP

The girl in the champagne-colored silk stockings, black-an-tan sport shoes, fringed sweater and satin skirt gazed languidly out over the portion of garden patch which her father-in-law was showing her.

Poor old pa, in his shirt sleeves and earth-crusted shoes, was doing his best to entertain this delicate and dainty young person whom his son had married and brought home for the first visit. For although Walter Hoyt had been three years married, this was the first time that Gladys would consent to accompany him on a visit to his parents.

"And what are those?" she asked, as pa pointed with pride to the lusty growing plants.

"Turnips, girl, turnips!" pa was very proud of his turnip field.

Gladys lifted her slender shoulders slightly. "Oh!" she exclaimed.

"Rutabaga turnips." Pa reached in, yanked and brought forth a bulky wonder. He jerked out his jackknife, clipped into the vegetable and disclosed its golden heart.

Gladys stared. Remembrance of turnip, delicately seasoned and served in an individual dish at a restaurant where she had recently dined, produced a pleasurable sensation. "Oh, I adore turnip," she said.

"Well, then, you know ho wto cook it, don't you?" Pa was pleased for the first time with his exotic daughter-in-law.

"Why, of course I do."

"Then, we'll have this feller for dinner." Pa started toward the house, Gladys following languidly.

Ma stood in the door. She was a frail, little old lady in spectacles, who was very much in awe of the mysterious Gladys.

"Ma," said pa radiantly, "you won't have to bother with dinner today. Gladys is going to cook it. She's going co give us this turnip fixed up in style, I tell you."

Ma looked doubtfully at Gladys, who smiled superciliously. "I guess I'll get it ready for you," she said, looking at the girl's hands. But pa caught her eye commandingly. Thirty-five years of married life had taught ma to heed the sign.

The turnip was placed in the sink, and ma went upstairs to putt the bedrooms to rights. Gladys sat down at the old piano and began to play. She played and sang for an hour. Her husband came and looked over her shoulder, singing with her. Their young voices floated upward to ma, sweeping the spare bedroom, and outward to pa, who was ruminating on the front porch.

When the old clock struck 11 ma hurried downstairs. She sought pa on the porch. "Eli, if we're going to have any dinner today I'll have to start it going, she said anxiously.

Pa took her hand and drew her down to the chair beside him. He leaned close to her ear. "You ain't going to touch that dinner. Gladys is going to get dinner today."

"But, pa—"

"Now, you listen to me, Jenny. Gladys has been here two weeks and she has never lifte dher hand to help you. You're getting all tired out. Now, you let her get the dinner."

"I don't believe she can cook. They board when they're home."

"She said she could cook turnips. Now she's going to have a chance to try."

Ma sighed deep and long. She shook her head, but she was captive, for pa kept fast hold of her hand.

Presently Walter came to the door, lit a cigarette, glanced at his watch and sauntered downtown. The music had ceased.

Ma, glancing through the window, saw Gladys making herself comfortable on the couch with a novel and a few chocolates.

"Eli! You've never missed having your dinner punctual since we were married."

"I can stand it for once. Gladys knows where everything is. There's pie and stuff in the refrigerator, ain't they?"

"Oh, yes, there's plenty of everything in the refrigerator."

Gladys, meanwhile, had gone deep into the tragedy of her heroine and forgotten all about dinner. Dinner at noon! It was laughable! Just like everything else those quaint parents of Walter's did. Still, when the clock struck 12, she lowered her book and sniffed. She had hoped that there would be chicken today. She got up and looked out the door. Pa and ma were roaming away down toward the corn patch arm in arm. He was talking earnestly. She peeped into the kitchen. Not a sign of dinner! And that horried old turnip lay in the sink! Well, this was queer.

There was a familiar step and her husband entered. He, too, glanced around at the lifeless kitchen. "Where's ma?" he asked. Gladys shrugged her shoulders. "What does this mean? Aren't we going to have any dinner today?" Walter demanded in astonishment.

"I certainly am not going to get it," Gladys said. "I didn't come here to work. I came here to rest."

"Yes!" Walter peered. "You don't do anything but rest. What about this turnip?"

"I wouldnt touch th'e horrid old thing."

They faced each other. Into Walters' face came something of the look his father wore at times. Gladys had never seen that look before. "You wouldn't touch it, eh?" he said. "Well, look here. My father grew that turnip. And my mother knows enough to cook it. You don't, but you're going to learn. See? What's good enough for my parents, is good enough for me and its 'got to be good enough for my wife. Listen here, Gladys. I've put up with your finicky ways for three years. I've let you have your way. We've lived in a boarding house instead of having a home, in order that you could spend your time dancing and reading novels. We've no children; nothing that makes a marriage in the real sense, the kind of marriage that my father and mother knew about. Look at them! They're lovers to this day. But you and I are drifting apart. I'm getting sick of—of the way you run things.' He went on, unheeding her white, panic-stricken face. 'You understand this is no cheap talk; I mean it. I've been mulling it over in my mind a good while. Now I'm going to split up some wood and build a fire. And you get that turnip ready and cook it. You understand me?"

"But I don't know how," she wailed.

"Then do the best you can," replied her husband.

An hour later, when pa and ma sauntered back from the corn patch, where they had been sitting in the shade, she kept there by force of his arm as well as his reasoning, they found a fire and the turnip boiling on the stove. Gladys tears had wined her face of a good deal of powder, and she was just as pretty for it. She was setting the table and Walter was helping her. There was the look of the master about him.

"Shall—shall I chop or mash the turnip, ma," Gladys asked meekly.

The Once Over

PHOTOGRAPHING THE AUTO OPERATORS

Passports for automobilists: This is the latest idea in police enforcement of motor laws. New York has set the pace with an order requiring that every operator of a motor car carry a card bearing his photograph, complete identification data, and enough blank space for the police to record an account of each and every infringement of the laws.

Motorists already are required to carry so many cards they have need of a card index. The photo order puts a face card in the deck for the first time.

When a traffic policeman looks over a chauffeur's cards from now on he won't know whether to make an arrest or just bid forty pinochle.

The wise motorist will carry a secretary to shuffle and deal whenever a policeman calls for cards.

The new law specifies that the photo exhibited on the record card shall be a "one-inch head." Allotta motorists have that kind.

Those with half-inch heads must show double-exposures. All autoists with oversized heads will kindly step into an altercation with a traffic officer at once and have them recarved and reduced. Motorists with no heads will please send footprints.

You can't tell how far this photo craze may go. No car may be considered completely equipped in the near future without a family album on the radiator. Crayon portraits of the owner, before and after completing his time-payments, may be required front and rear. A list of references will look sweet and nifty flying from the tire rack. Thumbprints will be of course as plentiful as ever on the windows and doors.

The police insist that photographs of drivers are essential; the faces of so many operators look like sidelights or radiator attachments. It is a frequent complaint of traffic officers that they hold up costly sedans and waste fifteen minutes in arguments before they discover they have been reading the riot act to a chow dog instead of to the owner!

Record of warning will look something like this:

Ignatius Innbadd. (Exact replica of his one-inch head.)

Occupation, bean stringer.

Residence, Museum of Natural history.

Jan 10.—Passed traffic officer 6,784 without handing him a cheroot.

Feb 15—Refused to buy a ticket for police games.

March 7—Feigned deafness when asked to subscribe for Traffic Squad Glee club.

April 11—Stepped on gas when he saw traffic officer 1,154 approaching with tickets for annual policemen's and firemen's ball.

May 8—Ignored request that he buy ticket to rattle of ukulele for detective pension fund.

Verdict—Very dangerous character, unsafe to be at large on public streets.

Many motorists are puzzled as to the proper procedure after an accident under the new law. Sverry simple. See section 87:

"After running over a pedestrian the operator of a motor car shall alight, walk, not run, to the injured person and give him a cabinet photo of himself. The victim may name his choice of bust view, full length, front face, or profile. He shall apologize for the collision, and say, 'I am exceeding sorry. Here, my good man, take this photo as evidence of my deepest regret. Frame it and hang it where it will take your mind off your injuries. Adieu.'

"He shall then put on a set of false whiskers and proceed by all traffic police at high speed."

Of course the pedestrians will retaliate. They will carry photos too, in time. X-ray photographs showing where fender broke clavicle.

The Photographers' union will now rise and render that touching ballad: "The Face on the Tonneau Floor."

Little Stories For Bedtime

CHATTERER DOES A LITTLE SPYING

Chatterer the Red Squirrel watched Jenny Wren out of sight, and all the time he appeared to be in a brown study over something. he truth is, he was thinking of something Jenny Wren had said and wondering how he could turn it to his own advantage. You know, Jenny had been gossiping. Yes, sir, that is what she had been doing. She had geen gossiping about Bully the English Sparrow and Mrs. Bully, and she had mentioned the fact that they had six eggs in the nest they had built in the house they had stolen from Skimmer the Swallow. The very mention of eggs always set Chatterer's mouth to watering. And Jenny had said that there were six of them. He shut his eyes and tried to picture six eggs in his mind. The more he did this the more his mouth watered.

"I must have a look at this Bully and his wife," thought Chatterer. "I knew that a couple of strangers had come to live in the Old Orchard, but I hadn't given them any attention. If they are not too big it may be—it just may be—that something will happen to those eggs, just as Jenny Wren wished." There was a wicked twinkle in Chatterer's eyes as he thought this.

Later in the morning Chatterer visited the Old Orchard quite as if he had nothing in particular on his mind. He jumped from one old apple tree to another, and every time he came near a nest he came in for a round scolding. But he didn't mind this. He was used to it. He scolded back, and to have heard the noise you would have thought that a dreadful quarrel was in progress, when really it didn't mean anything at all.

But Bully the English Sparrow and his wife, who had moved out from the city, didn't know this, and they promptly bustled out to see what was going on. Bully noticed right away that Chatterer didn't offer to go very near any of the nests, so right away he made up his mind that Chatterer was a coward.

"If he comes over here I'll show him what is what!" boasted Bully, and strutted up and down for Mrs. Bully to admire his bravery.

Now, Chatterer was far too sly to get into needless trouble. When he saw the size of Bully he grinned in contempt. He wasn't afraid of a little fellow like that. Not much! It was going to be easier to get those six eggs than he had thought. Still, it was foolish to make more trouble than was necessary. Even a little bird could hurt sometimes when thoroughly angry, and then, again, birds had such an uncomfortable way of helping each other. Somehow, he had a feeling from what Jenny Wren had said that the other birds would not help Bully if he got into trouble, but they might, and it was a great deal better to wait until the coast was clear.

So Chatterer kept away from the house of Bully the English Sparrow, but all the time he was spying. That means that he was watching all that Bully and Mrs. Bully did. He was learning their ways. You see he was planning in that cunning brain of his to try for those eggs whe Bully was away from home, and so he was learning by watching just how Bully spent his time.

That night Chatterer chuckled as he curled up in his snug bed. "Tomorrow," said he, "I will dine on eggs—six eggs! Um-m-m, I can almost taste them now!"

NEXT STORY: CHATTERER WISHES HE HAD STAYED AT HOME.

COUNTIES ORGANIZE TO GET LEE HIGHWAY

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 4.—Representatives from the various towns and counties from Childress county on the east to Palmer county on the west met at Tulis Wednesday for the purpose of securing the routing of the proposed Lee highway through this section of the Panhandle. A most enthusiastic meeting resulted and plans were perfected in detail for the campaign.

R. B. Morgan, Memphis, was selected as chairman; Geo. Sager, Memphis, secretary, together with A. B. Crane, Palmer county, A. S. Kerr, Dimmit county, P. O. Woods, Swisher county, Dr. Gilmore, Hall county, Jim Mitchel, Childress county, W. L. Hollis, Harmon county, Okla., as directors.

The careful logging of proposed routes was ordered done at once for the purpose of reliable data to be presented to the Lee highway board of directors. Ample funds are provided fo rthe carrying on of the work and a membership campaign in the Lee highway association will be put over in all the territory covered. All the towns on the proposed route are enthusiastic and are offering the fullest co-operation.

LATEST LIST OF "12 GREATEST WOMEN"

(By Central Press)

Sport writers seem to have an easy time picking the all-American football elevens and foreign artists and photographers pick America's most beautiful blond with scarcely a moment's hesitation and as for the ten greatest picture actors, why any child can name them.

The weighty question which just now is staggering the minds of the most learned and notable is "who are the twelve greatest living American women?"

The question was asked of the league of women voters by Senorita Mandujano of Chile. And the Senorita doesnt' know what she started. A more interesting question might be who is the thirteenth greatest woman in the United States and why. Everybody who is not running for something in the primaries is making out a list of the twelve greatest. The brave souls put down twelve names and twelve persons and invite the world to read. The timid ones make reservations and modifications and suggest a score or more who "really ought to be among the first twelve." Lists have been suggested which included everybody from Mary Pickford to Mrs. Warren G. Harding. Lists have been made by everybody including Chauncey M. Depew and Norma Talmadge. The following list is a composite one made from about twenty lists submitted by prominent persons in all professions. The list was compiled by giving each woman one tally each time she was mentioned in a proposed list.

Jane Addams, settlement worker, Carrie Chapman Catt, lecturer and suffragist, M. Carey Thomas, college president, Edith Wharton, novelist, Cecilia Beaux, artist, Ida M. Tarbell, editor and writer, Geraldine Farrar, grand opera singer, Julia C. Lathrop, humanitarian, Annie Morgan, philanthropist, Mary Roberts Rinehart, author and playwright, Katherine Bement Davis, sociologist, Evangeline Booth, commander, salvation army.

Miss Addams, Mrs. Catt and Miss Thomas were mentioned on virtually every list proposed and Mrs. Wharton and Miss Beaux were only a few tallies behind on the list.

But, of course, if you don't like this list just make out your own.

With the Women Of Today

Delores L. Ehlers.

The recent Pan-American conference of women held in connection with the league of women voters' convention introduced to the women of North Americn several Latin women who are as progressive and independent as their northern sisters. There were in the groop women editors, scientists, lecturers, doctors, teachers and business women from Guatemala, Cuba, Brazil, Argentine and Mexico and other Latin-American countries. Prepared by this representive gathering one is not surprised at the important work enthrusted to a woman by the Mexican government.

Dolores L. Ehlers, a charming and youthful Mexican girl, has recently been made head of the Mexican propaganda bureau which will work to foster good feeling between the United Stats and Mexico. With Washington almost ready to recognize the Obregon government and bankers thinking of floating a loan, Miss Ehlers' work will be vital at this time.

Trader, engineer, carpenter, overseer, stock raiser, agriculturist, prospector and master mariner, Mrs. Elizabeth Mahony for the last thirty-three years has been the uncrowned queen of a little Papuan kingdom, Surest Island, which lies at the extreme southeastern corner of Papua.

Mrs. Charlotte L. Pierce of Philadelphia, only woman living who attended the first woman's rights convention in Seneca, N. Y., in 1848, contributed the trowel used in the dedication of the National woman's party headquarters in Washington recently.

Miss Clara Louise Power was sworn in as justice of the peace in Boston, the first woman in Massachusetts to hold this office. She is assistant register of probate of Suffolk county.

Mrs. Earnet W. Douglas of Fresno, Cal., is the first woman in that state to pass the state examination for horticultural commission and to be placed upon the eligible list of appointees. So far as can be ascertained, this is the first instance in the United States of a horticultural examination of this kind.

FASHIONS

The Circular Skirt a Pleasing Style Even for Street Frocks

This street frock of fall vintage is very graceful and smart from a style standpoint, featuring as it does the new circular skirt and indicated but not defined waistline. The dress is o fa heavy silk crepe, in navy, and the trimming consists of inset panels in waist and sleeves made of narrow bias folds of the fabric crisscrossed in an open work effect. The sleeves are of the peasant type, with narrow wristfitting cuffs. The girdle is a rich and colorful chenile, woven in with gold thread. A handsome buckle holds it in front. This frock fastens invisibly in the center back.

The neck line featured here is the most generally popular one of the season, although some of new tailored frocks have high collars of one sort or another. One little tailored dress recently seen, made of a heavy silk crepe, had a genuine stock collor of self fabric, with a loop in front stimulating a four-in-hand tie. A wool street dress of the coat type had a draped collar that might be worn high about the neck or open according to choice. It presented a smarter line when worn high, but its wearer frankly declared it was much more comfortable when thrown open so as to form a V neck. When the high collar vogue looms up there is always this struggle between comfort and style, with the former usually the winner.

Women have so long worn collarless frocks that it is difficult to persuade very many of them to swathe their necks in collars of any sort. The collarless frock seems as permanent a style as the straight silhouette, another concession to comfort.

The woman who plans to remodel a last season frock for fall will find her task an easy one, with so few radical style changes recorded. If she can manage to bring the skirt of the frock to the proper length to conform with fall style edicts, she may practically use her own judgment on other points.

Spudders Rest Friday for 6 - Game Series With Gassers

ENTIRE CREW OF REGULARS HIT FOR AVERAGE OF .335; EXPORTER CLUB DISRUPTED

North Texas Teams Hook Up Today for Games Likely to Have Bearing on Final Standing; Cats Add Half Game to Lead; Edington Guides Former Beaumont Entry.

By "SPIKE" COOPER

All the Spudders enjoyed a well earned rest yesterday, the first cessation of hostilities in many days.

With the exception of Art Weiss, the entire team is in the pink of condition and are primed for the trying grind billed for the next four days.

The Gassers arrive for a four-day stay, but those four days are well filled. One double bill is carded on the regular schedule and then there remains the game which was burned out when the grandstand was destroyed, making a total of six games to be played in four days. This is the last appearance of the Louisiana entry for the season and it will be necessary to crowd the game into the schedule somewhere. Sunday and Monday have been selected as the dates for the bargain bills.

The Spudders halted for their rest after one of the most strenuous stretches of any club of the league this season. Copping 24 of the last 26 games played is indeed an admirable accomplishment, but the fact that 16 of the wins have followed in rapid succession established a new record for the season.

An attack such as no other club of the circuit has presented is in a measure responsible for the great showing. But the attack is no more formidable than that of the early part of the season. The main secret of the string of wins is that the club has been getting some real pitching. That is what they have needed from the start, and now that it has shown up, the Spudders are in their own.

Records of games played to date show that 10 members of the present Spudder pay roll have a season's average of .300 or better. That is one of the reasons the team can win. And at the same time, four of the hurlers have credit for more than half their wins. This does not include Flaherty, who has turned in a straight string since joining the club, but his work for the first half of the season with the tail enders pulls his average down.

'Tis creditable indeed to know that all the regulars of a team can hit .300 for an average, but figuring the Spudder team down to an average for the regular members of the club, figures show them clouting for the fair figure of .335. The figure is that of the eight regulars who will take the field against the Gassers today.

That, with the pitching which has characterized the wins of the past three weeks is something to take the heart out of any club, particularly when the tremendous attack is being launched on the home grounds.

Just whether or not there will be any psychological effect perceptible on the Gassers must be a conjecture, but to say the least, they've something to think about.

CATS FIGHT TO HOLD SAFE LEAD

While the Spudders lay dormant yesterday, the Panthers stepped up another half game, bringing their lead to a two-game margin.

Despite the fact that the Spudders dropped the first seven games of the second half, they have battled themselves to a position that is indeed threatening to the peace and happiness of the Fort Worth entry.

Now that the southern clubs have returned to their native haunts, the four teams known as the northern contingent are battling amongst themselves for the next four days. Dallas draws the Panthers for five games and the Gassers are here.

The Panthers have been breaking down all opposition with regularity of late and have thereby maintained their lead. But at Dallas where scribes now boast of a "million dollar ball club," the "Pride of Peacock Alley," the Cats are likely to find some rough going. 'Twould indeed be a great thing if the Dallas entry could topple the Cats for three or four of the wins, but it also remains for the Spudders to dispose of the Gassers to improve their standing. Then there comes a consideration of the following series, but the Spuds have only a slight advantage, for they will meet Dallas here while Shreveport goes to Fort Worth. If there is any advantage to the schedule, it lies in the fact that Dallas and Fort Worth meet in Dallas, while Dallas meets the Spuds in their own back yard.

Anyway the situation is summed up, there will likely be a change in the relative standing of the three leading clubs before the next ten games go into history.

BEAUMONT TEAM NOW LOOKS PITIFUL

Well, the Exporters are through. They have quit cold. Not only have they thrown down their fans at home, but they have laid down on the league. Thursday night at Fort Worth, there must have been a general separation. Part of the members departed for their homes for the remainder of the season, and Stump Edington took over the reins of the team for the remainder of the season and will endeavor to keep enough men in the fold to put a team in the field until September 14.

The Exporters were billed to open a long home stay at home today. They will not do that however, and in view of financial conditions, will play in Galveston where the series has been transferred.

Whether or not the Exporters can arrange to get their north Texas games transferred or not remains to be seen. Part of the games will have to be played in Magnolia park, but they will not likely see many more games in Beaumont this season.

Acts of this kind disrupt the league and hamper the success of the game.

Joe Mathes gambled with the fans of Beaumont and lost. He put all his lifetime earnings into the club and promised them a winner, asking support in return.

His club went strong at the first part of the season, and the park was hardly large enough so long as they were on top, but when the Spudders and Panthers knocked them out of the premier position, the attendance slumped to almost nothing. A mass meeting disclosed the fact that many thought Joe was not doing his best, so he made a trip to St. Louis and contracted for Dixie Walker for a figure that is almost prohibitive in the Texas league, but on the day he returned from the Cardinal village, the paid admissions totaled $54.

That is why Joe Mathes quit, practically bankrupt, except for a few dollars he managed to salvage by the sale of a few valuable players.

It is not Mathes that is to be criticized. It is the fandom of the south Texas town who laid down on their promise to support a club.

SPUDDERS GET TWO ROOKIES FROM WEST

Pittsburgh Offers Miller for Rest of Season

By Associated Press.

WEST, Texas, August 4—Ben Uptmore, a pitcher of West's independent baseball club, and Robert Howell, infielder with the same team, have been signed by the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league and will report immediately.

Uptmore, a southpaw, recently struck out 22 men in one game and had attracted attention of several scouts.

Manager Salm received the contracts of the two youngsters yesterday afternoon, but stated that they would not report until the season of 1923.

Both the players have had only semi-pro-experience but have shown an abundance of prospect during the present season, and following a showing before "Pop Boy" Smith, both were signed.

Uptmore is a left-hander standing well over six feet in height and is only 23 years old. While he may not be ready for Class A baseball next year, he will in all probability be retained as property of the club in case he shows he has this season.

Howell is also a youngster who has been lots of things for several of the clubs in that section of the country. He hits with a natural swing and fields his position on the left side of the diamond in excellent fashion.

When asked regarding the Pittsburgh case, Manager Salm stated that a message from President Dreyfuss of the Pirates offered the services of Jake Miller for the remainder of the season, if an agreement could be reached with the player himself. A message was immediately dispatched to Jake at Toronto but at a late hour last night, nothing had been heard in reply.

In case Miller does not care to join the club, then some one of the three pending trades will be closed. Just who the local moguls are angling after could not be learned, but but doubtless they will want outfielders who can stand the gaff of the present situation.

Salm knows this is not time for experiment with unknown men and will not take any chances, but he emphatically stated last night that we'd have somebody here within the very next few days.'

Just as soon as Miller signifies his intention, Boss Salm will know what to expect and what course to pursue.

TRAIN WRECKED OUTSIDE CITY

None Hurt as Cars Leave Track

Just as the Wichita Valley No. 1, regular passenger train was leaving the city yesterday afternoon, the two rear passenger coaches were derailed and a wrecking crew was occupied the entire afternoon in clearing up the tracks.

None were injured from the minor accident, although the two last cars were thrown from the tracks, where they remained for several hours.

The accident occurred just at the Holliday street crossing, and it has not yet been ascertained whether the rails were spread, or loose clinches in the ties caused the mishap. The engine and several other coaches cleared the point successfully when the rear cars were derailed.

No. 1 runs from Wichita Falls to Abilene.

In Germany, the military strength of the allied armies now in occupied territories on the Rhine, are: British, 4,600; French, 82,000; Belgian, 21,000, and the American approximately 1,100 or 1.08 per cent of the total number.

FEW FARMERS HAVE PRODUCE

Need Rain to Revive Garden Crops

With farm produce very scarce owing to the continued lack of rain and the extreme heat, prices paid the farmer on the local market were unchanged yesterday.

Blackeye peas, squash, bell peppers, tomatoes, cantaloupes, a limited supply of green corn and cantaloupes and watermelons were about the only farm produce offered here during the day.

Farmers were worried over the continued drouth, which has proven somewhat injurious to crops here and were unanimous in stating that rain at this time would prove of great benefit to crops as well as to garden produce.

Prices quoted the farmer Friday were:

Cantaloupes, 10c to 50c per dozen.
Sweet corn, 40c per dozen.
Sweet peppers, 12c per pound.
Okra, 10c per pound.
Peaches, $2 to $2.50 per bushel.
Grapes, Muscats and Concords, 10c per pound.
Fresh blackeye peas, 5c per pound.
Beets, 40c per dozen bunches.
Squash, 4c to 5c per pound.
Eggs, 25c to 27c per dozen.
Butter, 30c to 35c per pound.
Fryers, 30c to 35c per pound.
Hen's 20c to 25c per pound.
Tomatoes, 4c to 5c per pound.
Cucumbers, 5c per pound.
Spinach, 8c per pound.

Now That's Rather Odd

NEW YORK—Health department chemists announce that pie crust and pastry taken from the Shelburn restaurant where six persons were fatally poisoned Monday, contained arsenic in such quantities that it literally clogged test tubes used in an analysis. Many of those who were poisoned the chemists said, were saved because of the large quantity of arsenic acted as its own emetic.

CHERBOURG, Va.—Two girl stowaways from New York on the steamer Majestic enjoyed every minute of their trans-Atlantic trip. When the liner arrived here today both Anna Muller and Katherine Fleming, the 13-year-old chum who secreted themselves in one of the life boats last Saturday, insisted they had a merry time.

"Just the same, we'll be glad to get home," said Katherine. "I really never dreamed the Atlantic was such a big ocean."

The stowaways will be returned to New York.

LONG BEACH, Cal.—Spot, a dog, is being decorated for bravery by the Long Beach humane society. The dog is credited with having jumped from the municipal pier July 13 and rescued a cat struggling in the sea. Spot is owned by William Wrichy, chef of the steamer Bergland. Wrighy also owns the cat Spot saved.

CHICAGO—Peter Skiba was sentenced to six months in church today as penalty for beating his wife. In order not to leave Mrs. Skiba and her seven children without support if Skiba was sent to jail, Judge Morgan appointed her to see that the church sentence was carried out on Sundays with mid-week prayer meetings added.

CHICAGO—A Grand Rapids, Mich. Beau Brummel who is so alluring he out-sheiks the Sheik of fiction was described in a divorce bill filed here today by Mrs. Emily Stewart Jones of Chicago against Benjamin C. Jones, Grand Rapids manufacturer.

Women, the divorce bill says, flock about him eagerly listening to every intonation of his voice when he appears in society; they send him love notes, flowers and candy; and beg to hold his hand. When he appears on the street, Mrs. Jones avers, strange women whom he has never met stop their automobiles to watch him pass and frequently order their chauffeurs to follow him in order that they may invite him for a ride.

The Grand Rapids manufacturer, his wife said, enjoys the flattery of the fair sex and boasts of his conquests.

EAST TEXAS SHIPS MANY TOMATOES

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 3.—Approximately 1,600 carloads of tomatoes were shipped from the east Texas tomato district during the 1921 season just closed, according to a final summary of the tomato crop, just compiled by the state and federal departments of agriculture. The tomato shipments from east Texas districts went to twenty-nine different states and the Dominion of Canada, the reports shows.

Although the tomato crop in east Texas this season was one of the largest in history and the quality of the crop was unusually high, the season as a whole was unsatisfactory from the producer, because of the low prices, the final report declares. Probably the chief cause of the price decline, the summary states, was the heavy movement of tomatoes throughout the shipping districts in other parts of the country, particularly in Mississippi and Florida.

Light Turnover in Stock Market; Price Levels Unchanged

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 4.—On light turnover, today's stock market strengthened gradually from its early uncertainty, final prices in a number of cases being practically at the day's highest levels.

Gilt edged issues, especially rails, were taken at Concessions and there was evidence of good support and absorption for special purposes in some of the specialties, notably merchandising shares, Mexican petroleum which opened slightly higher after closing yesterday at a net gain of 6 points fluctuated within a four point radius today cancelling all its gain in the final hour on heavy week end profit taking. Other oils were irregular, showing only normal changes.

Crucible steel with a gain of 1 5-8 points led the moderate advance in steel shares which was attributed in part to a resumption of heavy railroad buying. Equipment issues followed in their wake, American locomotive and Baldwin making appreciable gains.

Merchandising and express shares again furnished the strong spots of the market, Woolworth, Ballinson and Adams Express touching new tops for the year:

Western Union advanced to 11 1-2 up to more than 13 points in two weeks and at the highest price since 1916. Its steady absorption during the past few days is ascribed to expectation of favorable divided action next month.

WHEAT PRICES START GAINING

Grain Held Back by Farmers

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. — Efforts to induce farmers to hold back their grain had much to do with bringing about a matertal upturn today in the price of wheat. Demand was on a broader scale than for some time past. The market closed firm, 1¼ cents to 2⅞ net higher, with September 1.08⅛ to 1.08¼ and December 1.09 to 1.09⅛. Corn gained ⅝c and oats ⅜@½ to ½@⅝. In provisions, the outcome ranged from 10 cents decline to 5 cents advance.

Corn and oats ascended with wheat and as a result of drought damage to corn in parts of South Dakota and Minnesota. Provisions lacked buying support, notwithstanding higher quotations on hogs.

COTTON PRICES VARY WIDELY

Weather Reports Are Conflicting

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—Almost entirely a weather market today, cotton moved over a fairly wide range of prices, being swayed by conflicting reports from the western belt regarding molsture and the chances of moisture, especially in Texas. Thus the strongest stage of the session was reached on further complaints of the ill effects on the crop of continued drouth and heat and the offical returns reporting maximum temperatures at 26 weather seations yesterday of from 100 to 110 degrees.

The opening was lower and the initial decline carried the market to the lowest levels of the day, where the trading positions stood 31 to 37 points under the close of yesterday, October falling off to 20.58. Deterioration complaints commenced to come in and the market gradually recovered. October winding up at 20.72.

Cotton closed easy at net declines of 23 to 26 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A further decline in the cotton market was checked by the development of rather a better demand as prices approached the 21 cents level during todays' earlier trading. After selling at 21.16, December rallied to 21.50 on covering, but there was no general or aggressive buying and the improvement was not maintained. December closed at 21.23 or within 7 points of the lowest with the general market closing barely steady at a net decline of 18 to 29 points.

The detailed weather reports showing only a few scattered showers and very high temperatures in Texas, probably accounted for covering by some of the early sellers, but temperatures in Oklahoma were lower. This probably helped to check buying on the advance to 21.46 for October and 21.42 for January and there was renewed liquidation in the late trading. Port receipts total 4,831. United States port stocks 441,279. Exports today 1,155, making 20,197 so far this season.

DALLAS USURPS TENNIS HONORS

Thalheimer and Jester In Finals

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, August 4—Louis Thalheimer and Leven Jester, both of Dallas, won their way into the finals of the singles of the annual southwestern tennis tournament on the courts of the Dallas lawn tennis club here today. Thalheimer reached the finals in a merited victory over one of the tennis deans of the southwest and the present state singles champion, J. B. Adoue, Jr., of Dallas after a match that went the full five sets, 6-4, 1-6, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Jester won his match from his doubles partner John Barr of Dallas with comparative ease. Jester, who yesterday defeated Bradley Hogue, several times holder of the southwestern singles championships, won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2. The finals in the singles will be played tomorrow afternoon. Jester is considered by tennis followers as the favorite owing to the speed with which he has played all through the tournament.

Letters from People

BE BRIEF AND COURTEOUS

Names of writers must accompany all letters, although it is not always essential that they be printed with their articles.

To the Editor Record News:

The shop crafts would not accept a decision which was unjust. The increase in passenger, freight and Pullman rates were granted the railroads by the interstate commerce commission, and these increases were borne by the traveling public.

On July 1, 1921, the United States labor board in decision No. 147 reduced the railroad employes wages 12 per cent. On August 16, 1921, the labor board, in decision No. 222, reduced the shop crafts' wages 10 per cent.

July 1, 1922, the labor board in decision No. 1036, again reduced the shop men's wages 12 per cent, making a total reduction of 34 per cent in one year.

Permit me to ask one question. Have the freight and passenger rates been reduced 34 per cent?

Has the street car fare been reduced 34 per cent?

Have the gas, light and water rates been reduced 34 per cent and have the high salaries of the railroad officials been reduced this much? Have you read any decision by the labor board reducing labor board salaries 34 per cent? Labor board members get $6 and hour, or $36 a day and the railway employe helps pay this board which has cut the wage of one class of employe to 28 cents an hour.

During the last six months of 1921 the total pay roll slash (including layoffs) was running at the rate of one billion dollars a year.

These are some of the reasons that brought about the shop crafts suspension from work.

(Signed) C. E. CROWSON.

Delinquent Speed Bugs Must Show Up

Persons arrested by city police and granted time to appear at the police station must appear at the time designated, else they will be arrested a second time and jailed until their cases are called.

This was the warning sent out from the local police station yesterday morning following the session of corporate court, during which time it was declared that a number of negroes arrested for speeding, and other traffic ordinance violations, have failed to appear at the proper time.

Judge J. P. Marrs intimated during the session that it will be his purpose to severely prosecute those who purposely evade the mandates of the police in this connection.

They Even Steal From 'Cops' Now

And they even steal from the detectives!

At least that's the gist of the information received from Fort Worth yesterday.

Chief McCormick and his men were urged to keep their eyes peeled for criminals believed to have carried off the detective's Buick auto.

The information did not assert that the car is believed to have been brought here, but it was reported that the man believed to have taken the car came to Wichita Falls later. No information concerning them had been reported at the police station late yesterday afternoon.

BARNARD WINS SUIT FOR NOTE INTEREST

Judge H. R. Wilson, in the 30th district court Friday, entered judgment in the case of Barnard et al vs. L. P. Hammond for the plaintiff. Barnard et al sued Hammond for about $900 alleged interest accruing on notes taken on property from the defendant in connection with a transaction between the litigants.

JUDGE MARRS HARD BOILED IN CITY COURT

In less than 30 minutes of court yesterday mornig, Judge J. P. Marrs had assessed a total of $90 in fines and the majority of the defendants had paid off and had been dismissed.

Two men, charged with vagrancy were fined $20 each.

A man charged with disturbing the peace was fined $20, and three speeders were fined $10 each.

NEGRO SPEEDER FINED

A negro haled into corporate court yesterday after he had been informed by city officers several days ago to appear, was fined $10 for speeding.

The negro, who was driving a Cadillac touring car at the time of his arrest, according to the evidence, denied that he was speeding, and declared that it was impossible for his car to run fast at that time.

A city officer, testifying for the city, declared that the negro was exceeding 30 miles on hour, and when he discovered the "law" was behind him, he drew his car down to less than 10 miles per hour.

CHARITY FUNDS RUNNING LOW

Outsiders Must Be Turned Away

It is hard for the local United Charities organization or the welfare board to turn the hungry or the needy away from the door. And ordinarily none would be, but circumstances at this time are almost such that they demand refusals for out-of-town needy persons.

Mrs. Gorsline, secretary for both organizations, announced yesterday that a number of transients in dire circumstances are coming through Wichita Falls almost daily, and that they are mostly traveling in wagons. These people, according to Mr. Gorsline, appear at the headquarters of the welfare organizations, begging clothing and food, some of which receive what they ask for, but in the future they must be turned away due to the limited funds on which the united charities and welfare board have to operate.

Mrs. Gorsline called attention to the fact that the funds in the treasuries of these orders were collected to be expended on Wichita Falls people, and that it will be impossible to use them otherwise.

In the library of the British museum there is a tiny bible which measures less than one inch long and two-fifths of an inch wide.

DON'T WED AN OLD MAN

Mrs. Gudrun Goldburg Bishop

"Better an old man's darling than a young man's slave."

How often have girls expressed that preference with all the emphasis of youth? And hasn't it sounded convincing many a time?

Read now the story of Gudrun Goldburg, the Los Angeles schoolgirl, who rejected the attentions of young men and married Seymour Bishop.

"Girls don't marry an old man thinking you can make him over.

"A leopard can change his spots more easily than an old man can change his habits—and youth and age simply cannot agree.

"He told me I was as beautiful as a work of art and that he wanted me because he wanted something lovely to look at. I was perfectly willing for him to look at me, but I am not the 'spoony' kind.

"I never have had a lover and I simply could not find romantic thrills in showering affection on a man as old as that. I wanted to take care of him, see that he had proper food and a comfortable place in which to live, but he would have none of it.

Local Boy Scouts Build House Boat On Lake Wichita

The Wichita Falls boy scouts are soon to have a house boat on the lake. Construction is well under way and it is hoped that the boat will be completed within a few weeks.

The work is going forward under the direction of Scouts Joe Hatchitt and Joe Keevil who originated the idea and drew the plans by which the vessel is being built. It will be a 15-foot affair and will have room inside the cabin for four boys. The boat is being built entirely of wood put together in a manner to make it a permanent home for the scouts on the lake. All work on the boat is being done by the boys themselves from the drawing of the plans to the final coat of paint and men who have seen it declare it to be a masterly piece of work.

What Wichitans Think

A question a day by the Inquisitive Reporter

This question was asked five Wichitans yesterday: "What Is Literature?"

MRS. E. B. GORSLIN, secretary United Charities: "Literature is something worth while reading."

V. O. E. WRIGHT, of Wright's clothing shop: "Any subject in the form of reading is literature; but there are various forms of literature."

W. E. M'BROOM, city auditor: "Literature is instructive reading matter."

F. H. FREDERICKS, chief clerk, traffic department, W. F. & S., "It is anything you read."

L. E. COWLING, real estate dealer: "Literature is thought well written."

There are varied opinions as to what really constitutes "literature." Some persons think nothing but the works of authors dead for over a decade, and whose accomplishments have lived on into the 20th century, are literary attainments.

And others are of the opinion that only the most prominent modern-day authors, novelists or journalists are composers of "literature."

And still others thinks as Webster's dictionary declares: viz., that "literature" is any well written thought, whether it lives forever, or for only a day.

And in that connection, Webster says in his definition of the word "literature," "literature is the written or printed letters of a country or period."

During 1921, the best piece of literature was the work of a reporter, Kirke L. Simpson of the Washington Associated Press staff wrote the story of the "unknown soldier," who was brought to the United States and buried with honors, and for his masterpiece, he received the Pulitzer prize of $1,000.

Girl Denied Use of Wedding Gown; Self Destruction Follows

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, August 4.—The story of a pathetic wedding tragedy yesterday in Eregense, Austria, was told by the Geneva newspaper today. A wealthy widower named Krauss was about to give his 20-year-old daughter in marriage to a former Austrian officer. Krauss had made elaborate preparations for the ceremony which was to occur at noon and had given his daughter a large dowry.

But when he first saw the girl's beautiful wedding dress he declared it was to decollette and told her he would not allow her to enter the church "half naked." He locked her up in her bed room and only relented to her pleading as far as to say she might go to the church in another gown. The daughter refused. The hour for the ceremony arrived and passed.
