The light and siren bar, right, of a city police car lies in a field near the TRW Co. on Highway 80 after it was sheared off during a high speed chase Friday afternoon. Police officer Andy Glasscock, above, examines the contents of a duffel bag owned by one of two suspects captured after they allegedly stole this pickup truck, shown here in a pasture along U.S. 80.

High-speed chase 'hairy'

A high-speed police chase involving 15 officers, several squad cars and a Department of Public Safety helicopter ended with the capture of two Chicago area youths near the TRW-Reda Pump Co. on U.S. Highway 80 about 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Police said the drama began about 15 minutes earlier when the driver of a pickup truck reported the truck missing after he dropped off a package at Midland Air Terminal. The keys had been left in the ignition.

Officers spotted the truck heading toward Midland on Highway 80 and pursued it when the driver refused to stop and turned north on Holiday Hill Road instead.

According to a witness, the chase reached speeds in excess of 70 mph, wove up and down Holiday Hill Road for a time, then led back to Highway 80.

It didn't end until the suspects crashed through three fences and jumped from the truck in a pasture just west of TRW.

They grabbed their duffel bags and tried to escape on foot. The 16-year-old driver of the stolen truck was captured almost immediately. His 18-year-old companion, who was the subject of an hour-long helicopter search, was collared and held for police by some construction workers on Kiowa Street behind TRW about 3:30 p.m.

One officer involved in the chase later said it "got a little hairy" because police knew a pistol had been left on the seat of the pickup and they weren't sure what to expect.

The suspects, whose duffel bags bore Braniff luggage stickers, were captured without incident, however. The pickup sustained extensive damage, and one patrol car had its light and siren bar sheared off by some low-hanging mesquite branches during the chase.

The youths were jailed and formal auto theft charges were expected to be lodged against them today.

Unemployment hits 8.9 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Friday that unemployment last month soared to 8.9 percent — a level that President Reagan called "tragic" while saying it may get worse before improving.

"There are going to be a few months of low periods, we can't help that," Reagan said. "But I think that as we get down toward the spring and going into summer we're going to see the economy begin to come back."

Joblessness among adult men already is at an all-time high since the government began compiling monthly statistics in 1948, rising to 8 percent in December as blue-collar workers were hit hard by layoffs in manufacturing.

"THERE MAY BE SLIGHT additional fluctuation in the unemployment rates before it begins to turn up," Reagan said. "I hope not, but it can happen."

The Labor Department said the widening recession cost 460,000 Americans their jobs in December as overall unemployment jumped half a percentage point from the 8.4 percent in November.

Even the customary holiday season surge in retail business failed to produce the kind of hiring evidenced in earlier years, the department said in its monthly report.

Altogether, nearly 9.5 million people were out of work last month. The jobless rate among blacks was at a record high 17.4 percent and the number of people forced to accept part-time work to make ends meet climbed to an all-time high of 5.4 million.

The number of so-called "discouraged workers" — those who have given up looking for work and are thus not counted as unemployed — reached a record high 1.2 million in the fourth quarter of 1981, the Labor Department said.

"I think it's tragic," Reagan said. "It's been coming on for a long time."

But, speaking with reporters before boarding a helicopter with his wife enroute to the presidential retreat at Camp David in Maryland, Reagan said his program is the only way to return to a job-creating economy.

"I DON'T KNOW ANY other way to do it," he said. "If you will remember, there were 2 million who lost their jobs the last six months of 1980 during the election. And then we held our own for a while until this recession came along."

Reagan bristled when a reporter asked whether high unemployment was necessary to bring down inflation.

"No," he said, adding anyone who would suggest that the rise in unemployment was the result of deliberate policy "is again inventing something out of whole cloth."

In the past, administration officials have said rising unemployment is the price the nation must pay for bringing down double-digit inflation. And White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Friday that the administration had expected a rise in unemployment.

A spokesman for the Council of Economic Advisers said presidential adviser Murray Weidenbaum "has indicated earlier that the (jobless) rate could reach 9 percent early in 1982. So the rise reported today was not unexpected."

The spokesman declined to be identified publicly.

White House sources, also requesting anonymity, acknowledged, however, that unemployment "could move somewhat higher" than the previous post-World War II high of 9 percent at the peak of the 1974-75 recession in May 1975.

Government settles IBM, AT&T suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government on Friday moved to end its two large, long-lived antitrust suits, dropping a case against IBM and accepting a deal that calls for breaking up American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The IBM suit stretched back a dozen years and the AT&T matter has been pending since 1974.

Friday they were settled within 4½ hours of each other as the Reagan administration ridded itself of two of the most complicated, costly actions ever undertaken against American corporations.

THE JUSTICE Department said the AT&T settlement requires the vast communications company to sell its 22 local operating companies — worth about $80 billion and representing two-thirds of the corporation's assets — within the next 18 months.

Assistant Attorney general William Baxter, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, said that after reviewing trial records in the IBM case since June, he found it to be "without merit."

The suit seeking to break up the International Business Machines Corp. into several smaller companies was filed when the huge firm monopolized the computer market. Since then there has been enourmous growth — and a proliferation of competitors — in the computer industry.

"THE COSTS OF continuation, weighed against the government's likelihood of success and the potential benefits to be obtained, warranted dismissal," Baxter said.

He told reporters that the AT&T deal may lead to lower long-distance rates because of increased competition, but local rates could rise because AT&T has subsidized these with its more profitable long distance services.

The settlement allows AT&T to continue to run its nationwide long-distance telephone service and to retain its main subsidiaries, Bell Telephone Laboratories and Western Electric.

The company said its 3 million shareholders will retain stock in AT&T and will own "proportionate values" in the local companies. But background material indicated this was just one possibility, and not a definite one.

THE BELL SYSTEM settlement came as a trial in the case was scheduled to resume Tuesday.

The IBM case, once described as "the antitrust division's Vietnam," was filed the day President Johnson left office in 1969 and went to trial in 1975. It was before U.S. District Judge David N. Edelstein in New York for a decision.

The AT&T agreement forbids the local companies from discriminating against Bell competitors in providing equipment, services and planning. It also allows AT&T to provide telephone equipment for its customers, including that now furnished by local Bell companies.

Defense fails to shake key testimony

ATLANTA (AP) — A splash that sounded "similar to a body hitting the water" rippled the Chattahoochee River directly below a bridge where Wayne B. Williams' car was spotted, a police officer testified Friday at Williams' murder trial.

When Williams was stopped a few minutes later, he asked, "This is about those boys, isn't it?" an FBI agent testified later.

Williams, a 23-year-old black freelance photographer and self-styled talent promoter, is charged with murdering Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of the 28 young blacks whose deaths haunted this Southern capital for almost two years. No arrests have been made in the 26 other cases.

Atlanta police officer Robert Campbell, who was stationed under the James Jackson Parkway bridge as a member of a stakeout team, testified that he heard a "loud splash" in the pre-dawn hours of May 22, 1981, then suddenly saw a car's headlights on the bridge.

CAMPBELL SAID THE splash sounded "very similar to a body hitting the water," adding that he had heard such a sound "many times" while working as a lifeguard.

But under cross-examination by defense lawyer Alvin Binder, the officer conceded he could not tell the difference between the sound made by a body and one made by a large rock.

Cater's body was found in the river May 24, 1981, downstream from the Jackson Parkway bridge. Payne's body was found in the same area about a month earlier.

Another stakeout team member, Freddie Jacobs, testified Thursday that he saw Williams' car crawling across the bridge just after Campbell radioed him about the splash.

Stakeout commander Carl Holden testified Friday that he watched the white station wagon from the time it was spotted by Jacobs until he and another officer pulled the car over on nearby Interstate 285. He identified Williams as the driver.

FBI AGENT GREG Gilliland testified that, after being pulled over, Williams asked, "This is about those boys, isn't it?"

Repeating testimony he had given at a pretrial hearing, the agent said Williams was "initially very nervous. He appeared to be somewhat excited. After somewhere about a minute, he immediately calmed down. He had a quiet demeanor about him."

The agent said Williams told him he was in the area to locate the apartment of a woman named Cheryl Johnson so he could return later in the morning to interview her about a singing engagement.

GILLILAND SAID WILLIAMS denied stopping or driving slowly on the bridge and said he threw nothing off the bridge. He also asked the agent if he had seen two blue and white trucks or station wagons on the bridge, Gilliland testified.

Keith gets 46 years for drug-related murder

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Milton Clyde "Papa" Keith, the reputed mastermind in a robbery for cash and cocaine, late Friday was convicted of murdering the 18-year-old girlfriend of Midland cocaine dealer Charles Thomas Cole, 26, during the holdup at Cole's house last May 31.

Reportedly, Keith and his two cohorts netted $18,000 in cash and 47 grams of the narcotic in the night-time incident.

The jury's guilty verdict in the four-day trial came following 5½ hours of deliberation Friday in Midland's 142nd State District Court.

Later that night, the nine-woman, three-man all-white jury meted out a 46-year sentence for the stoic and unshaken defendant. The jury's punishment options ranged from five years to 99 years or life in the state penitentiary.

KILLED IN THE DUAL slaying on the night of May 31 in southwest Midland were Cole and his friend, Tracy Endres. Both were shot in the head with Cole's .38-caliber pistol. Keith still could be tried for the murder of Cole.

Keith, who was dressed in a suit and tie and sported an Afro hair-do, seemed calm and resigned when Presiding Judge Pat Baskin read the murder verdict.

Later, as the jury was determining his punishment, the defendant said he had no idea how many years the jury would award him, though his co-defendant, Ollie Glynn Kemp, 22, was meted out a 25-year sentence in exchange for a guilty plead. Kemp, a state witness, testified against Keith. Keith is locked up in the Midland County Jail in a cell separate from Keith's.

"I don't know," Keith said of the years the jury might give him. "I know they sure shouldn't have convicted me of no murder."

The prosecution contended that Keith masterminded the robbery at Cole's boarded-up frame house at 507 Spraberry Drive a week or two after Keith was introduced to Cole by one of Cole's business hustlers. On the night of the dual slaying, Keith, Kemp and Posey went to the Cole house to rob Cole of cash and cocaine. Cole, who was white, reportedly was not fond of black people.

IN HIS WRITTEN confession, Kemp said that Posey, who is also known as James Harris, shot Cole and Ms. Endres almost on impulse.

"His (Posey's) mental state was relatively calm" when he shot Cole after somehow getting Cole's handgun, Prosecutor Jim Rex said in his closing arguments.

> Keith allegedly told police on June 5 that " 'You don't leave this type of person (Cole) alive,' " apparently referring to Cole's underworld friends who might seek to avenge the robbery.

In his oral confession, Keith reportedly told police that the robbery and murder were planned, that the trio got $18,000 and 47 packets of cocaine from Cole and that he knew the police could not use his oral confession against him in a court of law; he was wrong. Keith supposedly had taken a course in law enforcement at Midland College and knew something about the law.

Keith allegedly told police on June 5 that " 'You don't leave this type of person (Cole) alive,' " apparently referring to Cole's underworld friends who might seek to avenge the robbery.

Defense attorney Bob Garcia said that the state's contention that Keith planned the killings was not a common-sense theory.

"THIS MASTERMIND, according to the state, planned a murder without even a gun."

Garcia said a mastermind such as Keith would not then tell "police what happened."

Garcia contended Cole, had he been permitted to live, would not have reported the robbery to police anyway.

"You know, Mr. Cole is not going to go over to the police and say, 'Hey, I just got my drug money ripped off.' "

Garcia said that Keith's only crime was robbery; Posey did the shooting, he said.

"The crime he committed was robbery," Garcia said of his client.

The defense attorney said that Keith, who never took the witness stand, probably reasoned thusly: " 'Let's go rip off these drug (dealers), and they're not going to tell police about it.' "

Garcia said that Posey should be the one to answer to the murder charges. "Let Mr. Posey pay his dues."

"He (Keith) is here to take what he committed and nothing more," Garcia said. "If Mr. Kemp pleaded guilty to murder, that's his problem."

KEITH "PLANNED the robbery but...certainly didn't plan to kill these people."

David Joers, the lead prosector in the case, said that Keith should have considered the dangers of robbing Cole, who kept firearms in his house, and should have anticipated the killings.

"He (Cole) wasn't an average, ordinary businessman," said Joers.

"He didn't like blacks, he had guns all over the house..., and had the house barricaded."

Warmer weather forecast for weekend

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport is forecasting somewhat warmer temperatures for the weekend.

Under partly cloudy skies today, the thermometer should rise to the upper 50s, with the low expected to be in upper 20s tonight. Winds today will be southwesterly at 10 to 15 mph.

The high Sunday will be in the mid-50s. There is no rain in the forecast. The record high for Friday was 81, set in 1969. The record low for today's date was 7 degrees, set in 1967.

Voters must register address change

Midland voters who have recently moved must notify the Midland County Voter Registraton office of a change in address by 5 p.m. Jan. 14, in order to receive their new voter registration certificates, according to Janeice Builta of the voter registration office.

The new, salmon-colored cards will be good for March 1, 1982, through Feb. 29, 1984, replacing the white registration cards which will expire at the end of February.

Change of address may by conducted in the voter registration office, located in the basement of the Midland County Courthouse.

The new certificates will be mailed on Feb. 15. Mrs. Builta said that if a person has neglected to notify the office of a change in address, the cards will be sent back to the office via the post office because the cards cannot be forwarded. If the cards are sent back to the office, the person's name will be purged from the rolls and the person will have to re-register

Poland reports serious grain shortages

By The Associated Press

Poland's martial law regime reported severe grain shortages Friday, indicated military rule will continue for some time and said a Solidarity leader will be tried for urging that government officials be hanged.

The government announced it had more than doubled charges for transporting freight by rail, truck and inland waterways. Radio Warsaw said the new rates, effective Jan. 1, were necessary to cover the actual cost of moving goods.

It said railway and inland waterway transportation rates were increased by 165 percent, while truck fees were hiked by 118 percent.

According to uncensored reports from Poland reaching the West late Friday, several prominent Polish intellecutals and cultural figures addressed an appeal to Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski warning of possible tragedy and bloodshed unless martial law is lifted.

THE APPEAL, WHICH contained eight signatures, was being circulated in Warsaw to gain additional support. It said the "introduction of martial law was aimed at depriving society of its voice and subjugating the nation to military dictatorship. History proves, however, that the Polish nation will not submit to such a fate, that following a short period of apparent peace a struggle for freedom will erupt with renewed strength."

In order to avoid "further tragic events," it called for an immediate end to martial law, freedom for internees and a return to full human rights.

The price increases were the latest in a series affecting virtually all aspects of economic life in Poland since martial law was declared Dec. 13. Attempts over the last 12 years to make prices reflect costs have caused bloody riots, brought down several Communist leaders, and led to formation of the independent union Solidarity 18 months ago.

In an apparent effort to spur the country's crippled economy, the government said it was giving other miners equal status with coal miners. Radio Warsaw did not provide details, but the announcement apparently means that workers at copper, zinc, lead and salt mines will be exempted — like coal miners — from recently announced cuts in food rations.

Food shortages were getting worse, according to Radio Warsaw. It said daily purchases of grain were running between 250 and 300 tons, "far short of the country's requirements, despite indications that there is plenty of it in the countryside."

IT SAID FARMERS HAD sold less than half the grain they had contracted for and were holding back because they regarded grain "as the safest currency, particularly in view of the promised price reform."

Deputy Premier Jerzy Ozdowski was quoted as saying the most rampant form of speculation at the moment was hoarding in anticipation of price increases, and that the government would deal with the issue next week.

CARE executive director Philip Johnston said Friday night in Paris that Polish authorities had assured him travel restrictions on CARE representatives would be lifted soon.

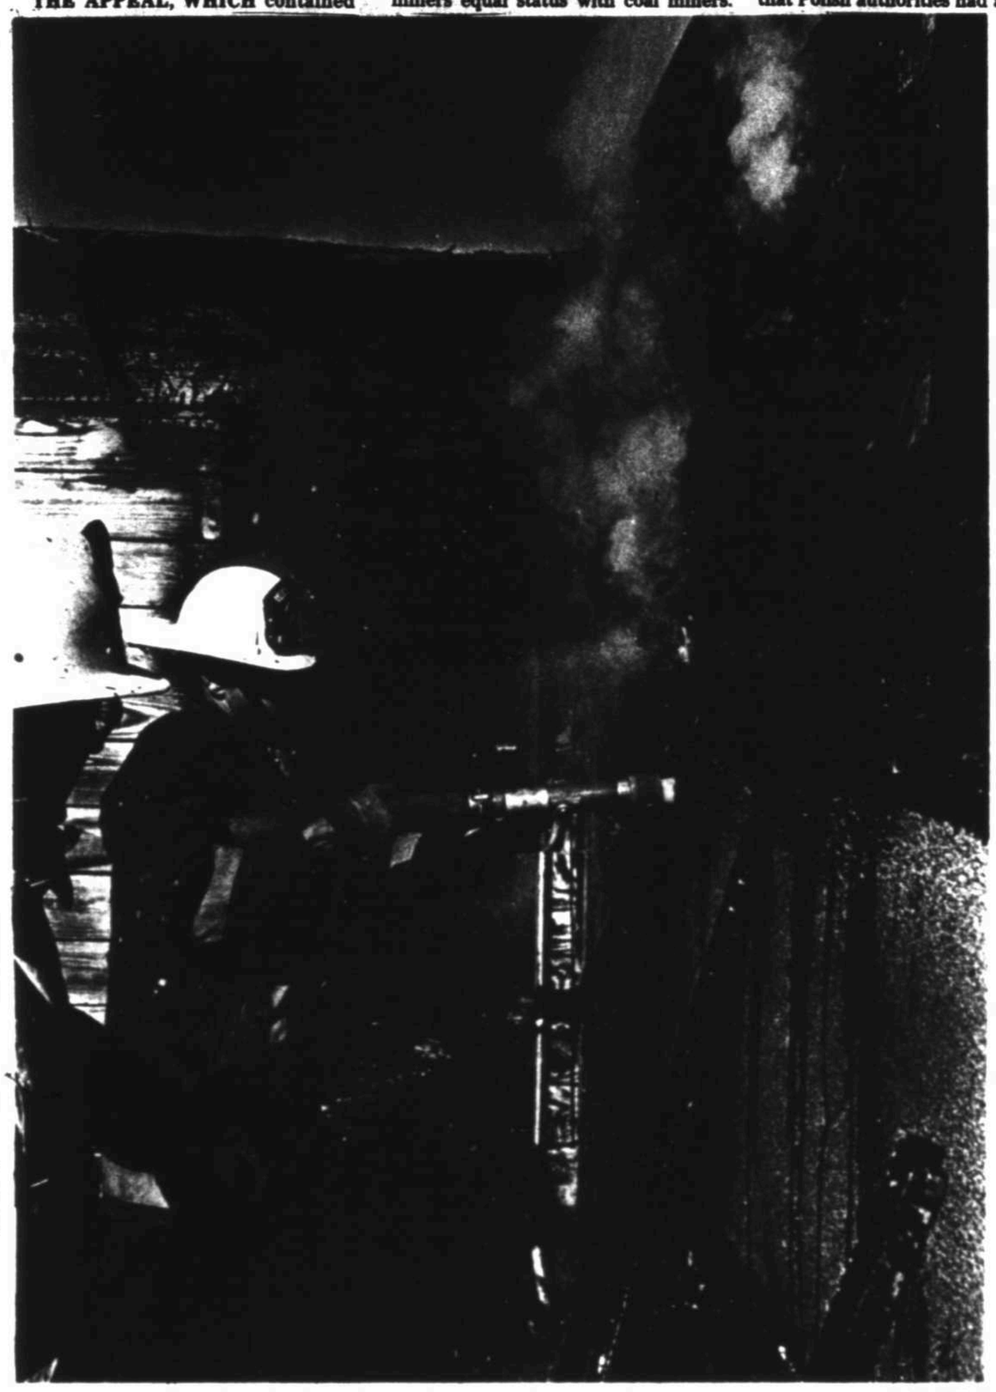

Johnston spent the last four days in seeking guarantees that food aid packages from the U.S.-based international relief organization were reaching the Polish people.

"We have that (free travel assurances) in writing. This means we personally can deliver every single pound of aid we take into Poland."

Johnston also said he was carrying a message from Jaruzelski to President Reagan, who imposed economic sanctions against Poland and the Soviet Union in retaliation for the military crackdown.

"I can't reveal the details of the message," he said. "I hope to meet withe President Reagan in New York on Tuesday and deliver this message personally."

RADIO WARSAW broadcasts indicated the state of emergency imposed Dec. 13 would continue at least another five weeks, and censorship would remain in force.

Capt. Homer Lowe, left, and Capt. Leroy Ledford of the Midland Fire Department hose down the remains of a house at 1610 Garden Lane that caught fire about 12:50 p.m. Friday. Five units responded to the call and used 3,000 gallons of water extinguishing the blaze, which left the home and its contents a total loss. The name of the owner was not immediately available.

Welch announces for re-election

Charlie Welch

Charlie Welch, Midland County commissioner since 1969, has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Precinct 2 post in the Democratic primary election in May.

"My record in consistently opposing any tax increase not approved by the voters has, I believe, contributed greatly to the growth and stability of our county government," Welch said. "We have been able to meet the needs of an expanding population without increasing taxes, and I know we can continue to do so."

Welch, 56, who has lived in Midland County for nearly 50 years, is a farmer and for many years was engaged in the water-well service business.

"I am now in position to devote almost all of my time to the county's business," he said, "and I believe my long experience and knowledge of county government will be beneficial to the people of Precinct 2 for the next four years."

WELCH SAID THAT A larger and better-equipped library and additional space for county offices are problems which must be solved within the next four years.

"My first obligation has always been to the people of Precinct 2," which covers Midland's eastside, the Greenwood community and much of the eastern part of the county, "but I am dedicated to making all of Midland County a better place to live, work and rear our children."

Evidence of his concern for the people has been his criticism of the city's handling of its booming wastewaters and its expanding sanitary landfill. Welch has expressed fears that underground water sources, particularly those along Midand Draw and in the Greenwood area, are being contaminated by municipal waste, particularly the sewage effluent.

BUT THE CITY, ON THE prodding of Welch, the county government and finally the Texas Water Commission Board, is working on cleaning up its effluent and using it for irrigating farm land.

Expressing appreciation for past support, Welch pledged to be available to all the people on a full-time basis and to help every citizen in any possible way.

Welch and his wife, Eileen, live at 76 Katie Lane and are long-time members of Calvary Baptist Church.

ERA supporters to ask high court for quick hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Organization for Women and leaders of the House of Representatives joined on Friday in asking the Supreme Court to give quick consideration to the Equal Rights Amendment case.

More than 30 other organizations also called on the high court to begin consideration this month of a federal judge's decision striking down a three-year extension of the time permitted for states to ratify the amendment to insure women equal rights under the Constitution.

U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE Marion J. Callister said in an Idaho ruling last month that any of the 35 states which had ratified the amendment could rescind that decision. Five states have approved resolutions reversing their ratifications.

If allowed to stand, Callister's ruling would effectively doom the amendment, which President Reagan has said he opposes.

Thirty-eight states are needed for ratification, but there have been no new states added to the list since 1977.

NOW President Eleanor Smeal said at a news conference Friday that treating appeals routinely would amount to letting the amendment die because the June 30, 1982 deadline for ratification is fast approaching.

Before Callister's ruling, NOW and its supporters were organizing a down-to-the wire drive to find the three additional states needed for ratification.

Now, she said, the judge's decision has become "the center of the arena" instead of the controversy in the states.

Laurence Tribe, a Harvard Law Schoool professor working for NOW, filed briefs with the Supreme Court on Friday asking for expedited review of the organization's request that Callister's decision be struck down.

"This is the first time a federal judge has derailed the constitutional amendment process," Tribe said at a news conference where a widely diverse group of ERA supporters were also heard.

IN HIS BRIEF, TRIBE said if the "modest step" Congress took in extending the time allowed for ratification "truly deserves to be struck down," the nine justices and not a single judge "should strike the fatal blow."

The Justice Department has indicated it would appeal Callister's decision, but would not seek quick review. The decision not to seek expedited review has reportedly opened a bitter dispute in the department which is likely to resolved by Attorney General William French Smith.

Smeal attacked what she termed the administration's "wait and see attitude," and said, "Delay is a form of denial of basic constitutional rights."

Meanwhile, Callister's decision was condemned by a series of pro-ERA organization leaders as an unwarranted intrusion into the consitutional amendment ratification process, and an attack on the separation of powers among the three branches of the federal government.

TRIBE SAID HE HOPED the Supreme Court would consider the NOW petition this month and schedule formal arguments in early February.

Jim Fitzpatrick, representing House Democratic leaders, said he would file a similar brief on their behalf on Monday.

Among the organizations backing NOW in the court case are the Congresswomen's Caucus; the National Education Association; Charles T. Mannatt, chairman of the Democratic National Committee; the League of Women Voters; the National Women's Political Caucus and the Association of Flight Attendants.

Whitmire declines pay raise

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Kathy Whitmire says she will not accept a $13,700 pay raise because she didn't "feel right getting a pay increase on the second or third day on the job."

Mrs. Whitmire, 35, was inaugurated as Houston's first woman mayor Jan. 2.

The raise, which would have hiked her annual salary from $81,880 to 95,550, was automatic because of an ordinance four years ago that tied the mayor's salary to that of state district judges.

The ordinance stipulates that after each city election the salary of the mayor and members of the City Council shall be set at 150 percent and 40 percent respectively. Judges were given a raise by the Legislature that became effective last September.

"I do not think pay raises should be automatic," Mrs. Whitmire said in a statement released by her office Thursday. A spokesman said the mayor feels raises for city employees should be earned.

UTPB to offer courses in land management

ODESSA — Due to a current demand for courses in petroleum land management, The University of Texas of the Permian Basin will offer a series of business, geology and engineering courses for students interested in land management careers.

The student will receive a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in management, according to J. Edwin Becht, dean of the College of Management at UTPB. Becht said the offering also will include courses in the College of Science and Engineering at UTPB.

Land management includes the ability to negotiate for and acquire oil and gas leases, royalty interests and mineral interests as well as to undertake the title curative work in connection with such properties and the payments of rentals and royalties to maintain, he said.

"Because of this, the student must take courses in real estate transactions, oil and gas law, accounting, geology, engineering, imagery and map interpretation, along with other business-related courses," he explained.

Becht said that he had more requests about studies in land management than any other undergraduate study at the university. "The student can complete a study and be prepared to work in the land management or the right-of-way field by carefully selecting his electives," he said.

After completion of study, the student will be qualified to take the neoessary exams in the land management field.

For more information, contact the College of Management Dean at 367-2160.

Cody's condition said 'under control'

CHICAGO (AP) — Cardinal John P. Cody's irregular heart rhythm was reported "under good control" Friday, but he remained in serious condition, a spokeswoman at Northwestern Memorial Hospital said.

The 74-year-old Cody, archbishop of Chicago and the leader of 24 million Roman Catholics in the nation's largest archdiocese, has been in the hospital's coronary care unit since Wednesday. He was transferred there after doctors discovered the irregular rhythm, which they said improved by Thursday.

The report on Cody's status was attributed to his physician, Dr. Benjamin Lumicao, by the spokeswoman who asked to be unidentified. She said no decision has been made on how long Cody would remain in the unit.

Peter Foote, spokesman for the archdiocese, says Cody has had heartbeat irregularities since childhood and doctors do not think Cody is dying.

Cody was hospitalized Dec. 22, released Christmas Eve to celebrate mass, and readmitted Christmas Day.

Hospital officials had listed him in fair condition until his transfer to the coronary care unit. A heart catheterization was performed on Cody Dec. 28, after which doctor ruled out surgery.

Routine archdiocesean business was being handled by Monsignor Francis Bracken.

Workers picket two coastal oil refineries

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — About 5,000 Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Union picketed two refineries here Friday and two other oil companies have scheduled meetings with union officials in hopes of avoiding a strike.

Some 4,000 employees walked off their jobs at the nation's largest Texaco plant here and another 500 from American Petrofina manned picket lines at 12:01 a.m. following the expiration of their two-year contract.

Officials of the Shell Oil refinery in Deer Park and Gulf Oil in Port Arthur were scheduled to meet with union officials Friday to try and avert a walkout.

Union officials of Local 4-23 in Port Arthur, representing about 4,000 workers at Texaco refinery, said employees struck after company officials refused to extend their contract and talks broke down.

NEGOTIATORS met for an hour Thursday afternoon but talks reached an impasse over pension rights, union spokesman R.C. Graffagmino said.

Charles Rentz, a Texaco spokesman agreed, saying pensions were the main point of contention.

"This issue is so important, the company could not consider continuing a labor agreement subject to any further such misrepresentation (of pension rights)," Rentz said.

Operations at the Texaco plant would continue "as usual," despite the strike, with supervisory and technical personnel working in three shifts around the clock, Rentz said.

A SPOKESMAN at American Petrofina, who asked not to be identified, said no new talks were scheduled between the company and the union.

"We've got a plant to take over right now and they've got business to take care of," the spokesman said.

Plant operations have not been affected by the strike and supervisors have assumed the duties of the striking workers, he said. OCAW officials representing American Petrofina could not be reached for comment.

Shell Oil spokesman Bill Gibson said both he and Local 4-367, reprsenting some 2,100 refinery workers, are hopeful a settlement can be reached.

"We are still far apart on a number of issues, pay being one, but as long as the meetings continue and as long as there is give and take, that leaves the possibility of good talks," Gibson said.

Heiress's husband on trial

He allegedly tried to murder wife twice

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The prosecution says he twice tried to murder his wife with insulin injections. The defense contends she was an unhappy woman who frequently took too many drugs and sometimes drank too much.

It's the story of Martha "Sunny" vonBulow, heiress to a Pittsburgh utility fortune, and her dapper, silver-haired husband, Claus, whose trial begins Monday with jury selection in Newport Superior Court.

Seating is limited inside the small courtroom, but television cameras will be allowed as will a closed circuit broadcast for the expected overflow crowd of reporters, townfolk and society-watchers in this summer port of the wealthy.

The men and women chosen to decide the fate of the 55-year-old New York financial consultant will be given a tour of Clarendon Court, the vonBulows' stone mansion and scene of the alleged injections. They will visit the mansion, the setting for the 1956 movie musical "High Society," before any testimony is given, said Judge Thomas Needham.

PROSECUTOR STEPHEN R. Famiglietti will argue that beneath vonBulow's controlled demeanor, he was unhappy depending on his wife's wealth, estimated at $35 million, and kept a mistress.

Famiglietti will offer evidence vonBulow kept a little black bag containing drugs, insulin and syringes.

VonBulow was indicted in July on two counts of assault with intent to murder his wife during Christmas visits to their Newport mansion in 1979 and 1980.

The 50-year-old Mrs. vonBulow, who suffers from hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar, went into a coma after the 1980 Christmas visit. She is now in New York's Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital. Doctors give her little chance of recovery.

The grand jury accused vonBulow of causing his wife's coma by injecting her with insulin and barbiturates, knowing they could kill her.

Insulin is normally used to control high blood sugar or diabetes. When given to someone with low blood sugar, it could be lethal, the prosecution has said.

But defense documents filed earlier this year say that alcohol in a glass of egg nog which Mrs. vonBulow drank at a party was the real reason she went into hypoglycemic shock in 1979.

THEY ARGUED THAT THE 1980 attack was set off when she ate an ice cream sundae topped with marshmallow sauce. Three weeks earlier she took an overdose of aspirin and was admitted to a hospital in a comatose condition, defense lawyers said.

"Her personality was such that she tended toward excess in many of her activities," defense documents contend. Her love of sweets also made her overweight, they said.

Defense attorney John F. Sheehan said he and co-counsel Herald Price Fahringer will rely primarily on cross-examination to break down the evidence to be offered by the prosecution.

"I don't know exactly what happened that night and I don't think anybody does," Sheehan said.

One of the witnesses they are expected to question closely is Mrs. vonBulow's maid of 23 years, Maria Schrallhammer.

Claus C. vonBulow

The maid told Rhode Island State Police that she became suspecious aftr the first attack, and started keeping track of a little black bag she found in vonBulow's closet containing drugs and syringes.

The maid revealed her suspicions to Mrs. vonBulow's son, Prince Alexander G. vonAuersperg, and over the 1980 Thanksgiving holidays, they found a vial of insulin inside the same black bag, according to state police reports.

AFTER THE SECOND attack, vonAuersperg took a private detective with him to Newport to find the black bag. He told state police they discovered it in a locked closet. A medical laboratory report says one of the needles vonAuersperg said was in the bag showed traces of barbiturates and insulin.

Mrs. vonBulow was the only child of George Washington Crawford, a president of the Columbia Gas and Electric Co. of Pittsburgh and Annie Laurie Warmack, a Carnegie steel heiress. Her sweet disposition earned her the nickname "Sunny" while attending exclusive private schools.

VonBulow was born in Denmark. He and his mother went to Sweden to escape the German occupation during World War II and later went to England. His father, Svend Borberg, was a playwright and drama critic convicted of collaborating with the Nazis.

Taking his mother's name, vonBulow read law at Cambridge University's Trinity College, graduating in 1946, and practiced law in London before going to work for oil billionaire J. Paul Getty in 1959.

The vonBulows' life together began after her divorce from Austrian Prince Alfie von Auersperg. The couple married in 1966.

In 1970 they purchased Clarendon Court, built in 1904 and styled after an 18th century English country manor.

Personal motivation course to be offered

A course in personal motivation will be conducted by the Bowie Elementary School PTA in conjunction with their Parent and Family Life Education program Monday from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Bowie cafetorium, 805 Elk St.

According to Eleanor Morse, president of the PTA, the course is different from most parent and family life courses in that it does not deal with first aid techniques.

"The course is designed to motivate yourself, and others too," Mrs. Morse said. "It's sort of on how to fulfill your New Year's resolutions."

Hank O'Neill of the City of Midland Swim Team will conduct the program, which he formulated from the Pacific Institute course.

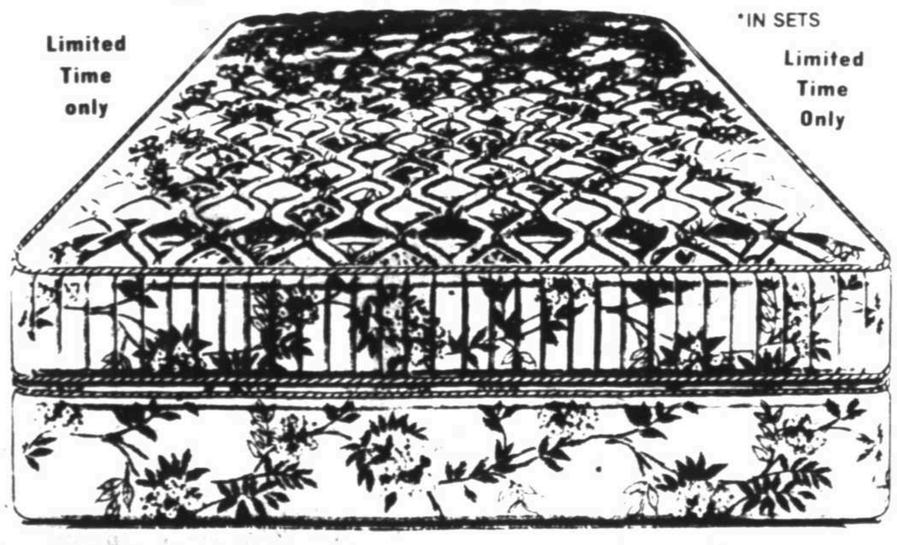

Interested persons must pre-register for the program by calling Mrs. Morse at 683-2286. Deadline for pre-registration is Monday morning. A fee of $3 will be charged in order to cover the cost of booklets for students in the class. The fee may be paid at the door.

A Department of Public Safety helicopter takes off in search of one suspect who briefly eluded capture after allegedly stealing a pickup truck from Midland Air Terminal Friday afternoon and leading police on a high-speed chase. The suspect was apprehended about an hour later by some construction workers. His companion had been captured earlier by police.

UAW agrees to 'discussions' with automakers

CHICAGO (AP) — A United Auto Workers council agreed Friday to open "bargaining discussions" with the nation's biggest automaker, despite growls from some union members that company warnings of layoffs amounted to "blackmail."

"This is the last time I'm going to smile today," UAW President Douglas Fraser said jokingly, acknowledging the strength of opposition, before the UAW bargaining councils for General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. began meeting to discuss reopening contracts.

After 2½ hours, the 300-member GM bargaining council voted to begin "collective bargaining discussions," but union spokesman Don Stillman said the resolution was "absolutely not" a reopening of the current contract with the No. 1 automaker.

HE acknowledged that the discussions could lead to a pact that would override the current contract, saying, "that is one of a range of possibilities."

The union's 225-member Ford Motor Co. bargaining council began discussing a similar resolution shortly after the GM council ended its session.

Officials of both companies, plagued by a two-year slump, have insisted for nearly a year that contracts must be reopened and labor cost concessions granted by the union to make the companies competitive with foreign automakers. The meetings came the same week as year-end reports showing a new decline in domestic sales.

The carefully worded resolution approved by the UAW's GM bargaining council means talks could open as early as next week. Bargaining on a new contract ordinarily wouldn't begin until next July; the current pact expires Sept. 14.

The resolution left open the question of whether the current contract could will be changed or whether bargainers would try to negotiate a new one.

THERE WAS no immediate comment at GM headquarters in Detroit.

Bob Tenerow, a council member from Local 626 in Bristol, Conn. said he was happy about the vote because negotiations will help "thousands of our brothers and sisters who are unemployed."

"Giving concessions is not going to save any jobs," argued Al Gardner of UAW Local 600, which represents workers at Ford's huge Rouge Complex near Detroit. "It's not going to reduce the price of cars. There's no reason for concessions.

"They're not going to hire more people. It's a con game."

Fraser said earlier he was hopeful of an affirmative vote in the case of GM. But some union members were opposed to reopening the contract with the giant automaker, which is expected to report a profit for 1981.

"We think early talks mean concessions and we're not ready for that," said Don Douglas, president of UAW Local 594 at GM's Truck and Coach plant in Pontiac, Mich. He said his local membership strongly opposes renegotiation.

"WE DON'T think we should bow under to the threat of blackmail," said Douglas.

Opponents of renegotiation gathered outside the council meeting rooms to distribute leaflets and buttons.

Haitian exiles pledge to overthrow government

MIAMI (AP) — A gas station owner from Florida and 36 other Haitian exiles vow to overthrow the Duvalier government of Haiti with an invasion by 737 exiles, the Miami Herald reports.

Bernard Sansaricq and 36 other Haitian exiles were interviewed by the newspaper on South Caicos, Turks and Caicos Islands, a nation of 30 British West Indies islands southeast of the Bahamas.

The exiles gathered there Thursday to map strategy for a plan reminiscent of last August's botched attempt by Cuban exiles to invade their homeland from Florida by way of the Turks and Caicos, the Herald reported Friday.

Jean-Claude Duvalier, Haiti's president-for-life, can expect the National Popular Party of Haiti to invade his country within a week, Sansaricq told The Herald.

Mudslide damage report reaches $280 million

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Rescuers used bulldozers and backhoes Friday to uncover buried homes where up to 20 people are feared dead and labored to reach dozens of residents still stranded along roads blocked by mudslides.

The death toll from one of the worst storms in Northern California history stood at 24, and the state Office of Emergency Services said 539 people had reported injuries and the damage estimate had reached $280 million.

Water remained critically short throughout Santa Cruz County, although officials said voluntary conservation efforts appeared to be succeeding.

"Life definitely is not back to normal," said sheriff's Sgt. Bruce Simpson. "The city government is closed, all the schools are closed. The Health Department has closed down all businesses that use water, which is just about everybody. The five largest employers in the county are all closed."

He said there were still "about 20 roads closed with people isolated at the end of them."

The latest victim of the storm that dumped about a foot of rain from Sunday to Tuesday was identified as Martin Hallberg, 21, Scotts Valley, pulled from Carbenero Creek in the north part of the county.

IN NEARBY BEN Lomond, where workers recovered a still undentified man's body from the mud on Thursday, heavy equipment was deployed to uncover a half-dozen homes in the Love Creek area where estimates of the number missing range from six to 20.

"We may never find them," said one worker who was cutting up collapsed houses with a chain saw. "It's like playing pickup sticks in there...but there's 40 or 50 feet of debris to pull out in some places."

"We're all trying to clean up and restore our lives to some comfortable level," Simpson said. "The famillies of the deceased are grieving and those families of still missing people are setting up a vigil in Ben Lomond."

The cleanup continued throughout the 200-mile section of Northern California where the storm displaced 5,500 people, destroyed 439 homes and 60 businesses, and damaged 6,000 homes and 1,300 businesses, said Jim Watkins, chief of planning for the state emergency services office.

President Reagan has declared Sonoma, Marin, Santa Cruz, San Mateo and Contra Costa counties a disaster areas, making them eligible for aid from a dozen federal agencies.

IN BEN LOMOND, about 150 volunteers staffed telephones at the volunteer fire station and cooked food donated by local markets. The cloudless blue sky and the perfume of bay laurel and eucalyptus trees provided a stark contrast to the generally grim mood.

The overnight temperature dropped into the 20s, freezing layers of mud and making it possible for residents to walk on solid ground while searching for lost possessions.

"There's our bed," said Ruth Bell as she picked through the remains of her family's summer cabin. "That's where we would have been sleeping if we had been here when it happened. We are all very grateful that we weren't. That's all that we've been thinking of all day."

A ban on air traffic over the 15 miles from Santa Cruz to north of Boulder Creek will continue through the weekend, said deputy Byron Hoffman. He said rescue efforts had been hampered by television helicopters flying low to get pictures.

"The helicopter props were knocking down tree limbs on rescue workers, and they couldn't move because they were stuck in the mud," he said.

At the worst of the storm, some 320,000 people were without power. Pacific Gas & Electric spokeswoman Jan Miller said only 11,000 people were without power Friday, and she expected their service to be restored by nightfall.

The county's 70,000 residents cut their water consumption from an average of 10 million gallons a day to just 2 million gallons Thursday after officials limited water use to cooking and personal hygiene.

"THE PEOPLE IN Santa Cruz are tremendous," said Pat McDonald, customer service manager for Santa Cruz Municipal Utilities. "We have very, very little flak from them. They're being very cooperative. It's the spirit of cooperation that comes from a disaster, and then some."

She said there were about 6 million gallons of water in Loch Lomond Reservoir, the city's main storage facility, on Friday morning. "But we don't expect to run out...we're hoping we won't."

The water shortage began when the storm broke a 24-inch main that was the main feed to the reservoir, from which the city takes its water. County Administrator George Newell said it will take another six days to fix the pipe.

WHY WINTER IS A GOOD TIME TO PLANT TREES & SHRUBS
It's better to plant outdoor trees and shrubs during the winter when they are dormant. These plants when dormant will channel all their energies toward establishing root growth that will greatly benefit their ability to gather nutrients in the spring and become greener, healthier plants. You'll also find a much greater selection of these plants now. For spring shade and landscaping beauty plant your trees and shrubs early.

Rehnquist shunts aside drug questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist and his aides shunted aside mounting questions Friday about his health and the two drugs he has been taking for back pains.

Rehnquist did not respond to requests from news reporters for clarification of his medical situation and the occasional slurring in his speech.

But a spokesman for George Washington University Hospital, where Rehnquist was treated during a week-long stay, said that the justice gradually is being taken off the drug linked to his speech impediment.

The spokesman, Dr. Dennis O'Leary, said that when Rehnquist left the hospital last Sunday he was taking two drugs — the one linked to his speech problem and a substitute drug that is not expected to cause such side effects.

THE JUSTICE returned to work Tuesday after his hospitalization, during which he was treated for a withdrawal reaction to a reduction in the dosage of the problem drug.

"This is a very solvable problem," O'Leary said in an interview Friday.

He declined to identify either drug but both the Los Angeles Times and The New York Times, quoting doctors familiar with the case, identified the drug that caused Rehnquist's speech problems as Placidyl.

The drug is a prescription sleeping pill recommended by its manufacturer for short-term use only.

The latest news media queries aimed at Rehnquist included a joint written request from 10 major news organizations seeking a news conference or a written statement from him.

A SECRETARY in Rehnquist's office said Friday that the justice had received the written request, but she refused to say when or whether he would respond.

The secretary, who declined to give her name, said Rehnquist had been putting in full days of work and expects to listen to oral arguments Monday when the court reconvenes after a nearly month-long recess.

Among the unanswered questions concerning Rehnquist:

—What drug has he been taking for his chronic back pains?

—What drug has he switched to following the withdrawal reaction during his recent hospitalization?

—What is the long-term outlook for Rehnquist's health? At 57, he is the youngest man on the Supreme Court and holds his position for life.

—Have the side effects of his medical treatment affected his work?

Aside from the justice's obvious problems in expressing his thoughts and questioning lawyers during oral arguments, there is no outward sign that Rehnquist's work has been affected. But court watchers have no way of determining whether Rehnquist's reliance on law clerks and other employees has changed.

Another Brink's suspect arrested after struggle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Anthony N. LaBorde, a suspect in a Brink's robbery last October that left three men dead, was arrested in a struggle with two police officers who had seen him discard a bag in which a weapon was found, police said Friday.

LaBorde, 32, wearing dungarees, a T-shirt and a bullet-proof vest, was walking along a road in the city's Tioga section Thursday night when he was apprehended.

IDENTIFIED as a member of the radical Black Liberation Army, LaBorde is also wanted with another man in an April 1981 ambush shooting that killed one New York City police officer and wounded another, officials said.

LaBorde was held here on charges of aggravated assault, simple assault, reckless endangerment, weapons offenses and a fugitive warrant.

Authorities, who at first said LaBorde would be arraigned on the local charges, said later they planned to seek permission from a federal magistrate for immediate extradition to New York.

Rockland County, N.Y., District Attorney Kenneth Gribetz, in charge of the investigation of the $1.6 million Brink's robbery case, said LaBorde was one of two unidentified defendants named in a sealed indictment Nov. 19.

"We can place LaBorde at the scene (of the Brink's shootout) based on eyewitness accounts. He was a prime participant," Gribetz said.

Officers said the saw LaBorde toss a vinyl bag onto the street; they investigated and found that it contained a loaded 9mm automatic weapon, FBI special agent Charles Warner said at a news briefing.

In a scuffle with the officers, LaBorde was struck with nightsticks and blackjacks and needed 40 stitches to close a gash in his head, police said. One of the officers was punched 12 times and kicked in the groin by LaBorde, said Phildadelphia police Capt. William Demski.

LABORDE gave an alias — Joseph Ortiz — when he was arrested, but was identified Friday morning by Demski on information from sources and FBI records, officials said.

"Our main concern is to see if the 9mm automatic that was recovered was one of the weapons used to kill the (two) police officers and the guard in the Brink's robbery," Gribetz said.

When arrested, LaBorde had two ammunition clips with 14 and 20 rounds and a box of ammunition with 50 rounds, Demski said.

According to FBI agent Warner, police have learned that LaBorde stayed in Philadelphia for seven weeks after the April shooting.

"He lived by himself in a rooming house under the name Michael Smith," Warner said. LaBorde had left the room by the time police searched it in August, but numerous books, papers and a four-volume set of Mao Tse-tung's writings were found, he added.

Captured in Nyack a short time after the Oct. 20 robbery in nearby Nanuet were Katherine Boudin, David Gilbert, Judith Clark and Samuel Brown. The first three were members of the Weather Underground. A fifth suspect, Nathaniel Burns, a Black Liberation Army member, was captured later in the week in a shootout in Queens, N.Y. His companion killed in the shootout also was linked to the Brink's job.

LaBorde appears on an FBI wanted poster along with three other suspects in the Brink's robbery: Marilyn Jean Buck; William B. Johnson; and Donald Weems.

Navajo secret for weaving round rugs

By KATHIE SALTZSTEIN
Gallup Independent

GANADO, Ariz. (AP) — Rose Owens may not have re-invented the wheel, but she has discovered a new use for it.

For more than 20 years, she has been weaving round rugs on a large wagon wheel she keeps in the middle of her hogan in Ganado.

"The idea for a round rug came to me when I was a child, herding sheep. I was up in the cold morning. I noticed a spider web, with moisture on it. I always wanted to weave a round rug.

"After I got married I talked about it. I found a wagon wheel covered up in dirt. I dug it up and started to do it," she said through her daughter, Margaret, who translated her mother's Navajo into English.

Mrs. Owens also weaves rectangular rugs, often at the same time she is weaving a round one. She can do two by attaching a rectangular rug to the back of the loom that she uses for the round ones.

She is widely known as a weaver and her rugs are in museums in cities throughout the Southwest. One rug recently was sold to Hubbell's Trading Post in Ganado for $1,200 before she had finished it. Another round rug took second place in rug-weaving at this year's Navajo Nation Fair. She has won prizes at other fairs as well.

The family has sheep, but no one herds them anymore, she said. They just wander on the family's land and near their hogans. She no longer uses the wool from her own flocks because it takes too long to prepare the wool. It is easier to buy it, already treated and dyed, she said.

She learned to weave when she was 10 years old by watching her mother and grandmother, but she was never formally instructed.

"I learned on my own," she said.

Mrs. Owens shared the secret of how she weaves the complex circular tapestry designs with only her five daughters, who also weave. But they all are grown now and are too busy with jobs and family to weave daily as she does.

A recent nearly completed rug at the wheel was a complex, tightly woven tapestry of red, white, orange, gray and black. Looking at it, Mrs. Owens' daughter would only say that her mother "starts on one side, weaves to the middle, turns the wheel, weaves from top to middle, and starts from the side again."

Loose strands of wool, ready to be woven, hung from either side of the rug, ready to be incorporated into the rest of the pattern.

"We all know it (how to weave a round rug) but we don't do it. It's hard to sit at a rug all day. You have to have patience," the daughter said.

Mrs. Owens weaves about 15 rugs a year. It takes her about a month to make a round one.

"It's hard to weave (a round rug). It's a more complicated pattern. It takes more time (than a rectangular rug)," she said.

Connecticut city official advocates use of bicycles

By LISE STONE
Associated Press Writer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — In his paper-strewn office on the 12th floor of New Haven's downtown and harbor development office, an unusual city official remains unconvinced by Detroit's sales pitch or big oil's promise of a long-lasting fuel supply.

That's why Tom Wall rides his beaten-up bicycle two miles to work every day, regardless of the weather, from the boarding house he runs in the southern part of the city to his office.

As New Haven's official bicycle planner — the only one in Connecticut — Wall sees his job as "changing a picture in people's mind" from one of people going everywhere in cars to one of people going almost everywhere on bicycles.

Thus part of his time at the office is spent testing the latest in bike locks and reading admiringly about cities and countries where bikes are a popular mode of transportation. During a recent interview, he also gulped down cough drops to combat a cold, which he asserted had no relation to his riding a bike around in chilly weather.

His transportation goal is possible, the Yale graduate said, through combining bike travel with methods of mass transit such as buses and trains. He calls this a "multimodal interface in transportation."

He recalled the middle-aged character in a tweed skirt in the Agatha Christie novels, Miss Jane Marple, who used a "multimodal interface" to get places.

"She rides a bicycle. And then when she has to go to London, the bus stops, the driver takes the bike and puts it up on the rack and she potters off. And that's what we should do here," Wall said.

"It's patriotic. It's a beneficial social thing" to ride a bike instead of using up petrochemical reserves, he said. "We're running out of gas, we're running out of space, we're running out of energy."

A state transportation official, Alan Mancini, said the fact that governments are running out of money is the main reason that bicycling is not being promoted heavily on the state or federal level. "This particular state is keeping bicycles in a low-key mode," the state planner said.

Wall, who has started placing bike racks outside of New Haven municipal buildings, says spending money on bicycles now would save governments more money in the long run. For example, he said, 12 locked bicycles can fit in the space of one parked car.

The cost of a safe bike rack ranges from $30 to $60 per space, while the cost of a single car space in a tiered parking lot is about $5,000, he said.

Other U.S. cities including Schaumburg, Ill., Davis and Palo Alto, Calif., Baltimore, Madison, Wis., and Ann Arbor, Mich., stand out for their various successes in encouraging the bicycle as a form of transportation, he said.

The main things a government can do are set aside and map bike routes, erect safe and convenient places for riders to park their bikes and teach car drivers to avoid bicyclists, Wall and Mancini said.

A former merchant seaman and state legislator, Wall acknowledges that bicycling is not a powerful force in transportation today, despite his efforts in this city of about 130,000. In Ann Arbor, which he says has a greater percentage of bicycle riders than most American cities, about 3 percent of all trips are by bicycle.

New Hampshire schools 'breaking new ground'

By GARY LANGER
Associated Press Writer

DEERFIELD, N.H. (AP) — After two months of four-day school weeks, educators in this town of 2,000 say their experimental scheduling program has expanded students' horizons while shrinking the school's budget.

"It's too early for me to say all the flaws are out of it," said Peter Sweet, principal of the 300-pupil elementary school. "But we are off to a very good start."

The school is one of just a few in the country trying short-week schedules, said Thomas Shannon, executive director of the National School Boards Association. He said the idea could prove to be a wave of the future — or a fad of dubious educational value.

"It is a brand new thing, as new as the four-day week in the private sector," Shannon said. "They're not prevalent at all. I think New Hampshire is breaking new ground."

The Deerfield pupils, in grades 1-8, attend classes Monday through Thursday for 7½ hours a day, with Fridays off. The week comes to 30 hours — the same as the traditional five-day week with six-hour days.

Shannon said he was concerned that other short-week programs could cut instruction time, something he called "a giant step backward." Deerfield's long days could tire pupils, he said, and the three-day weekend could break the continuity of the lessons.

Judith Bush, a school board member, agreed that the 7½-hour day is long. "But it doesn't seem to be hurting the learning process," she said. "The kids and the teachers are making really good use of that time."

School officials came up with the idea to cut transportation and energy bills. The savings, estimated at about $15,000 for the year, have preserved threatened art, sports and music programs.

The project is being monitored by the state Board of Education, which approved the idea for a one-year trial.

"The teachers so far are unanimously supporting it," said Sweet, the principal. "There are fewer interruptions during the day so they have more time for their subjects. All the teachers feel they've surpassed what they covered by this time last year."

For teachers, "It took a little adjusting," said science teacher Paul Yergeau. "But people found they're planning their time more efficiently, and it's going very smoothly."

The teachers come in one Friday a month for workshops, Mrs. Bush said, and absenteeism appears to have dropped.

Student attendance also is "better than ever," said Yergeau. "It's just a better attitude. They know they're going to have that Friday off."

The pupils are filling their Fridays with special activities offered by several local groups, Mrs. Bush said.

LIFE: God's Greatest Gift

Scriptures selected by The American Bible Society

Sunday
• Job 5:8-16

Monday
• Job 11:7-20

Tuesday
• Psalms 61:1-8

Wednesday
• Psalms 94:16-23

Thursday
• Psalms 146:1-10

Friday
• Isaiah 11:1-9

Saturday
• Ezekiel 18:1-9

Babies are really divine. They're life renewing itself. Babies remind us that — while some lives end every day — new ones will begin.

As the years slip away, we sometimes tend to forget how truly precious life is and what a miracle each day really is.

Yesterday is gone. And there's no certain guarantee of tomorrow. So all we really have is today. This truth should inspire each of us to say these words aloud every morning upon awakening: "This is the day which the Lord hath made. I will rejoice and be glad in it."

Every day of your life is a gift from God. Use it well, and worship this week in a spirit of thankfulness and praise.

Educators agree with decision

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mainline church educators agree with the Arkansas court decision overturning a law for teaching "creationism" along with evolutionary theory, but they criticize tendencies to present evolution as the whole story.

They see "creationism" as a religious concept not belonging within scientific limits. They say faith doesn't specify how life developed, but only that God arranged the process, however it happened, whether by evolution or otherwise.

They find no inherent conflict between religion and scientific theory, and say this week's court decision properly drew a distinction between the two fields, but several objected to approaches that handle evolution as a closed absolute.

"The creation story is a religious story about who is the originator of the universe and the life in it, not how it was done," said the Rev. Richard Solberg, educational officer of the Lutheran Church in America. "The danger is evolution taught as absolute truth."

He said the church has no basis for saying "how the world was created or how it developed, if indeed it did," but affirms that whatever the means used, God did it. "How is left to any kind of method for ascertaining it, but it's not given in revelation."

While the mainline church officials generally backed the court decision, evangelical conservatives expressed distress at it.

"We're upset and disappointed," said Gary Jarmin, an official of Chrisian Voice, which promotes legislation upholding conservative evangelical views. "At the same time, we're not surprised. The State of Arkasnsas put up a poor defense.

"Evolution nowdays is taught as a dogma — not as a theory, but as a scientific fact, which it is not. All Christians agree that God was the prime mover, the first cause, and if this thought is not allowed to be taught, schools are essentially denying God exists."

Mainline church leaders also maintained that evolution should not be taught as a final or full explanation, and that there is no scientific basis for doing so, but they upheld separation of scientific inquiry from religion.

"We're more concerned with God as the creator of the world than with how he created," said the Rev. Thomas G. Gallagher, secretary for education of the U.S. Catholic Conference. How it was done "is an issue for science" he added, but the church deals with the "who" behind it, the source.

"So long as whatever is taught in the schools allows room for that interpretation, there's no problem. To rule God out of the evolutionary process is what we'd object to. But so long as this is not done, we're comfortable with it."

The Rev. Harold Viehman, executive director of the United Ministries in Education, including eight Protestant denominations, called the court decision responsible and "in keeping with historic traditions of the separation of church and state."

He said "creationism" was a religious concept and such concepts "must be dealt with theologically and do not lend themselves to the style used in scientific inquiry."

The Rev. Thomas Trotter, United Methodist education executive, called the court decision "good news."

The Rev. Ben Fisher, retired long-time executive director of the Southern Baptist education commission who now teaches at Campbell University in North Carolina, said "I don't see how the court could have reached any other decision," considering the narrow frame in which the issue was cast.

But he added that "the issue is much broader," and that some reform in public school education is needed to more openly reflect the mystery of reality and of human nature.

"It's the No. 1 problem in education," he said. "Somewhere along the way we've lost the ability to pass on the facts of our religious heritage, and you can't understand Western man, Western history, art or literature without presupposing some knowledge of the Bible."

As for evolutionary theory, he said that for Christianity, "the point is not how. The point is that the universe and all that is in it is not an accident. This is not doctrinaire, but sound philosophy."

But it often is now blanked out in education, he added. "It's now possible for a student to go all the way through public schools and through university, and never hear religion mentioned."

He said some scientists in contending people are merely products of their environment without free will, are "just as doctrinaire" as religious fundamentalist believing in a six-day creation.

Lutheran educator Solberg said the church has no objections to the teaching of evolution as scientific theory, but that there is a "dangerous tendency" to present it as a total, only explanation, even though there is scientific controversy about it.

"A great deal of dogmatism is perpetuated among amateur scientists not aware of the tentative, changing nature of theories. A main danger is that written textbooks are treated as final answers when they're not, whether they're dealing with theories of economics, history or whatever. They should be open to serious criticism and teachers should point out countertheories."

The Brashear Family will perform at the Temple Baptist Church, 4303 Thomason Drive, at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The Brashears, who have been singing together since 1972, won the Southern Gospel Music Association Group of the Year Award in 1979. The public is invited to attend.

Church fluctuates between accord, discord

Special to The Los Angeles Times

Poland's Roman Catholic Church, a stalwart of resistance during the World War II German occupation and strong voice for human rights in more than three decades of Communist rule, is trying to walk a difficult line in the wake of the declaration of martial law in Poland.

For the moment, at least, it has chosen to cooperate with the Polish authorities in calling for calm while, at the same time, working largely behind the scenes to aid political prisoners and their families and to keep alive the democratic values expressed by the now suspended Solidarity independent trade unions.

The Church is also trying to act as a mediator between the martial law authorities and both the remnants of the Solidarity movement and its intellectual supporters. But the church apparently sees this as a secondary mission in the current situation. Moreover, there is little sign that Premier Wojceich Jaruzelski and his martial law authorities are ready to accept whatever political solutions the church may suggest.

"You can't speak to a tank," commented one church source sarcastically.

IN THE MEANTIME, the church's relatively soft public line is being criticized by those who think it should oppose more energetically the arrests and draconian restrictions on civil rights that have been imposed under the nearly four weeks of martial law.

"What matters most to the church is the church," observed one senior Western diplomat in Poland.

Even some more radical priests are clearly displeased by the church's actions to date. One told a Western correspondent with obvious disapproval that Poland's primate, Archbishop Jozef Glemp, had refused to answer a communication he received from a top Solidarity leader who has thus far evaded arrest. It's an example, he said, of the developing church strategy — to distance itself from the Solidarity organization while endorsing the principles it stands for as an expression of the nation's values.

THE CHURCH'S policy was made clear to priests in an annual Christmas week meeting with Glemp. According to church sources, the primate:

— Called on the priests to avoid any public pronouncements on martial law, arguing that the situation is still unclear and that it will be up to history, not priests, to judge;

— Instructed them to stay out of any public political activity, saying that such activity should be left to Poland's lay Catholic organizations — which have been suspended under martial law rules;

— Endorsed the moral values expressed by Solidarity; — Urged assistance for Poles held in internment centers. The government says about 5,500 Poles have been interned. Unofficial estimates have run as high as 50,000.

Earlier, Glemp had withdrawn a tough statement by the general council of the Polish Episcopate (bishops) in favor of a more measured letter of his own.

THE COUNCIL statement, drawn up immediately after the declaration of martial law on Dec. 13, said "our suffering is that of the entire nation, terrorized by military force." It cited the numerous arrests that accompanied martial law and added: "the uncertainty and powerlessness of the workers have caused emotions, bitterness, disgust, extreme hate and determination to grow.

"The dramatic decision of the authorities to introduce martial law constitutes a blow applied to the hopes and expectations of society that one could solve long-term problems by means of a national understanding." The bishops' statement advocated a number of "positive actions." It called for political prisoners to be freed and for the revival of Solidarity, a labor movement that claimed a membership of 10 million in a country of 35 million, as "indispensible in returning balance to society's life."

According to one report, Glemp instructed that the general council declaration not be read in Poland's churches after receiving a personal appeal from Kazlemierz Barcikowski, a member of the Communist party politburo. Barcikowski, according to this report, said dissemination of the declaration would lead to civil war.

RELIGION

Whatever the reason, church sources confirm that the document was withdrawn and replaced with the Glemp message, which advocated no specific action.

The martial law authorities have been careful not to antagonize the church. Some priests were arrested during the first days, but most, if not all of them, have apparently been released.

ONE PRIEST WHO has been actively supporting Solidarity said he had been held for five hours the night martial law was declared. He said he was asked to sign a pledge that he would not engage in any anti-state activities, but refused. He was released anyway, and is still free.

"The authorities have not decided on an open war against the church, but there have been arrests and searches," the priest said.

A veteran Western diplomat added: "We would be in a totally different frame of reference if the church were attacked. The authorities realize that without some cooperation (from the Church) they haven't got a chance" of pacifying the nation. Eighty to 90 percent of the Polish people are Roman Catholics.

Those who have dealt with Glemp, 52, the architect of the church policy, say he has little charisma, but high intelligence and a direct, if not terribly revealing, way of speaking. "It's a bit like sitting with the Oracle at Delphi," said one diplomat who has dealt with him.

On the negotiating front, church officials are said to be in regular contact with Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, who is being held under house arrest.

His career moves from stage to pulpit

By MARJORIE HYER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — He learned to love the spotlight as a boy soprano on the vaudeville circuit when he was 10; he went on to become internationally known as a pastor and evangelical opinion-maker.

Now, at the climax of his career, he operates out of a bleak, one-window cubbyhole of an office that he shares with a secretary. But as chaplain of the Senate, the Rev. Richard C. Halverson has one of te more exclusive congregations in the world.

At Fourth Presbyterian Church in Bethesda, Md., where Halverson, 65, will wind up 23 years of ministry at the end of April, he preaches to upwards of 1,500 people every Sunday and directs a complex seven-day-a-week program that reaches around the world.

As the 50th chaplain of the Senate, he completes in a minute or two the only task that is specifically assigned him — opening each session of the Senate with a prayer; often he is lucky if half a dozen of his distinguished parishioners are in the chamber to hear it. That doesn't worry him. "I pray to God for the Senate," he reminded a visitor.

Though still feeling his way through what his job entails, Halverson sees it in much broader terms than the daily prayer, and his parish as extending well beyond the 100 elected officials. "I feel, as the chaplain, I must be like a pastor to the senators, their families and staffs, to just be a faithful servant to all these people, to the (Capitol) police, to the people who work in the cafeteria, to the women who clean."

School of Christian Living opens

The 33rd annual School of Christian Living opens Sunday at 7 p.m. at Midland Center, corner of Main Street and Wall Avenue. The school is sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches.

This year's theme, "Hope for the Journey of Life," will be presented by the Rev. Tom Boyd in "Stories for the Journey"; Mary Lee Loving in "Life in a Family Journey"; the Rev. S. Garrett Short and the Rev. Joseph Schley in "The New Look at Holy Week"; and by Sisters Pat Biostic and Frances Tafuri in "Prayer and Spirituality — A Journey in Faith."

Registration begins at 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 6:45 a.m. Monday for the classes, which run through Wednesday morning. Each session will be presented from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. the following day. The cost is $15 for an individual, $10 for a family and $5 for senior citizens and students.

Special speaker at Dayspring

The special speaker Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. at Dayspring Christian Center, 100 W. Oak St., will be Paul Grier, an evangelist teacher who has spent a year establishing a Bible college at Zimbabwe, Africa.

Grier also will speak Monday through Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Peoples to hold fellowship day

Peoples Baptist Church, 1201 East Spruce St., will hold a citywide fellowship day beginning at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The program will be a "Men's Day Program." The Rev. L.L. Martin invites the public to attend.

Jewish Poles find persecution again

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a remnant exists of Poland's once-flourishing Jewish community but old buffetings of it evidently echo there again under the Communist government's military repression.

As has happened in various times and places over the centuries and as happened savagely under Nazism, "the Jews" collectively were reported being slurred for Poland's troubles.

The martial law regime is "using anti-Semitism in an attempt to whip up public support for its repression of the Solidarity movement," says Rabbi Alexander Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Information organizations indicate mostly generalized innuendos against Jews so far, but that is how such campaigns typically begin.

It is "reminiscent of the scapegoating tactics of the Hitler period," says Maynard Wishner, president of the American Jewish Committee, citing various activities similar to the beginning Hitler tactics.

The committee said some government-controlled broadcasts and newspaper articles have accused Jews and Zionists of subverting the Solidarity labor union, misleading the people, hoarding goods and profiting on the black market.

Anti-Semitic posters of uncertain origin also have appeared, often quickly torn down by the populace. One substituted a dollar sign for "S" in Solidarity, with a Star of David printed under it. Another showed Bronislaw Geremek, adviser to Solidarity head Lech Walesa, at a telephone, saying, "Hello Jerusalem!"

Some of the anti-Semitic manifestations may stem from private groups, says Abe Karlikow, the committee's foreign affairs director. "So far the evidence is too fragmentary to tell if the regime as a whole is behind such activity. But it's clear that elements in the regime are encouraging and permitting it."

The Newspaper BIBLE

I CAN'T BUT CHRIST CAN...AND DID!

The law is good, then, and the trouble is not there but with me, because I am sold into slavery with Sin as my owner. I don't understand myself at all, for I really want to do what is right, but I can't. I do what I don't want to--what I hate. I know perfectly well that what I am doing is wrong, and my bad conscience proves that I agree with these laws I am breaking. But, I can't help myself, because I'm no longer doing it. It is sin inside me that is stronger than I am that makes me do these evil things. I know I am rotten through and through so far as my old sinful nature is concerned. No matter which way I turn I can't make myself do right. I want to but I can't. When I want to do good, I don't; and when I try not to do wrong, I do it anyway. Now If I am doing what I don't want to, it is plain where the trouble is: sin still has me in its evil grasp. It seems to be a fact of life that when I want to do what is right, I inevitably do what is wrong.

I love to do God's will so far as my new nature is concerned; but there is something else deep within me, in my lower nature, that is at war with my mind and wins the fight and makes me a slave to the sin that is still within me. In my mind I want to be God's willing servant but instead I find myself still enslaved to sin.

So you see how it is: my new life tells me to do right, but the old nature that is still inside me loves to sin. Oh, what a terrible predicament I'm in! Who will free me from my slavery to this deadly lower nature? Thank God! It has been done by Jesus Christ our Lord. He has set me free.

Weston tried unsuccessfully to fit in the mold

By GEORGIA TEMPLE
Staff Writer

Cletis Fullernoy, right, played by Bill Rhoten, wonders why Roy Caulder, left, played by Michael Weston, doesn't like him in this scene from "Lone Star/Laundry and Bourbon," currently playing at the downtown Yucca Theatre. That's Michael James Loggins as Ray Caulder in the middle, looking a bit puzzled by it all. The play, a presentation of the Dallas Theatre on Tour, will be presented tonight and, if interest warrants, next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

He remembers seeing movie magazines as far back as his memory carries him. His mother was a beautician who always kept a steady supply of the latest in her shop in Vernon, Texas. Perhaps the desire to be an actor began there.

He got a taste of it in high school when he and other members of the football team took drama for an easy credit. But when he graduated from Texas Tech, his degree wasn't in drama; it was in advertising with an English minor.

It wasn't because he didn't want to act; he did. It was rather an effort on his part to be practical, to fit into the mold. It didn't work.

At 29, Michael Weston has been married and divorced; has a 4-year-old daughter; has sold, among other things, women's underwear; has had several almost breaks, including nearly landing the role John Travolta played in "Urban Cowboy" even after "Kelly (his daughter) wrote 4-year-old grafatti on the newly painted walls during the reading"; and is currently waiting tables between acting opportunities.

IT ISN'T easy.

"Out of 30,000 to 40,000 members of the Screen Actors Union, maybe 5 percent made over $5,000 last year," Weston said in a recent interview.

Weston plays the role of Roy in "Lone Star/Laundry and Bourbon," playing at the downtown Yucca Theatre. The play, being presented by Dallas Theatre on Tour, will play tonight and possibly Thursday, Friday and Jan. 16 if interest warrants the group's return next weekend. Performance time is 8 p.m. and tickets, priced at $8, may be purchased at both Music Haul stores.

In his first "real stage performance" Weston played a Venus Fly Trap.

"I grew a beard to look menancing and was outfitted with vines and tights," Weston said laughing.

His first movie role was not much better.

"I was the horror in 'Lost Honeymoon Horror,'" which had a $500,000 budget and took three weeks to film. I was supposedly horribly burned."

The daily makeup session took three hours, at the end of which Weston could hardly move his mouth and was completely unrecognizable as a human being.

"IT'S A TERRIBLE film. I doubt we'll see it anywhere," he said. But it gave him experience and an even stronger conviction to continue.

He landed a daily part, no lines, in "Tough Enough." One of the other extras was former Dallas Cowboy Duane Thomas.

"Every opportunity I had I would stand around the director. Finally, on the last day of shooting, the director said to me, 'I'm going to give you some lines.'" This boosted his pay from $60 to $259 a day.

"I was to be carried out on a stretcher past the other boxers and Duane kept pulling the hair on my legs as I was carried past him trying to get me to crack up," Weston said, grinning.

Two summers ago during ABC's talent search, Weston thought his big break had come.

AFTER BEING tested extensively in Atlanta, and being told "You're a young Tommy Lee Jones," "You're a natural," and overhearing such comments as, "He's a young Montgomery Clift," "That boy's going to be a star," plus being asked, "Would you be available to go to L.A.?," Weston was "flying pretty low to the ground."

Then the contract came to his agent, Kim Dawson. He signed and all that was lacking was the contingency clause — a 30-day approval.

"I sweated out those 30 days like I was in a desert," Weston said. The contract was not picked up, thus shattering the dream.

"Out of the 20,000 to 40,000 who applied, 1,200 were screen tested and 70 contracts were issued," Weston said. "I was decimated."

AFTER THAT, Weston appeared on the television series "Dallas" twice, with lines, and filmed several commercials.

He also answered the advertisement for yet another screening. This one was held in Dallas at the Stoneleigh Hotel for the movie "Tender Mercies" with Robert Duvall. The character Weston auditioned for was the role of Harris (during the actual filming the name was changed to Louis) Menefee, a musician in a country western band.

After hearing Weston read the first time, the director told him, "That's real good, but you're not listening. Do it again." After the second reading, he said, "That's real good but you're not thinking. Do it again." After the third reading he said, "That's better Michael but..." The casting director, Sherry Rhodes, interjected, "He takes direction well," to which the director replied, "But he's not very smart."

After thanking them, Michael told them as he left, "'You know I'm going to spend the rest of the day getting smart.' They laughed. I felt terrible."

Two days later, he got a call to read the same part. The writer was in town and wanted to hear him read.

When he arrived at the Stoneleigh Hotel, he said, "Bruce (the director) told me I wasn't listening. I wasn't thinking and I wasn't smart."

Still he read again.

After he had been home about 45 minutes his phone rang.

The voice at the other end asked, "Is Harris Menefee there?" The caller was the assistant casting director.

"The world was mine for the weekend," Weston said. "And on the set, I had my own dressing room, my own chair. A van would take me out to the set. It was a kick; I felt like I was an actor.

"I may be 29 years old, divorced and waiting tables, but I'm not going to give it up."

J.R. Ewing is too bad a bad guy in Japan

By KAZUO ABIKO
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Japan is one country where not even J.R. Ewing can throw his weight around. Television viewers here couldn't care less who shot him. The ratings show they'd much rather watch teen-age singers and other variety-show performers.

"Dallas," the series that once capatured well over half the audience for an episode in the United States, was introduced in Japan last Oct. 8 by TV Asahi, one of the country's commercial networks. The show, with the dialogue dubbed, has never lifted itself off the floor in Japan's ratings.

Shown on Thursday nights 9-10 p.m., "Dallas" began with 10 percent of the audience and since then has regularly declined — hitting a low of just over three percent on Christmas Eve, figures from the Japan branch of the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The surveys were done in the Tokyo metropolitan area, where viewers can choose among seven VHF channels, including the semi-governmental Japan Broadcasting Corp.'s (NHK) general and educatid a few more on UHF.

"It's a very tough time slot for a newcomer," said Genji Seya, a spokesman for Nielsen. The slot, he said, has been dominated by Tokyo Broadcasting System's (TBS) popular music show, "The Best Ten," which consistently scores more than 30 percent. Other stations appear to have gained regular viewers during the period, Seya said.

The music show, on the air for four years, presents new talent and the 10 best-selling popular songs of the week.

Other U.S. imports are "Kojak," "Colombo,""Little House on the Prairie," "Wagon Train," "The Fugitive" and "Perry Mason."

"Traditionally," he said, "Japanese viewers have been offered American films staged in well-known places such as New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Bank robber clings to life

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A bank robbery suspect shot in the head by an FBI sharpshooter while forcing a hostage to accompany him at gunpoint clung to life Friday at Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the unidentified suspect spent about three hours in surgery until early Friday and was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit.

FBI spokesman Manny Marquez said agents had established the man's identity, but Marquez said his name would not be released until charges were filed or the man died.

Bank employee Patricia Jackson, 36, escaped uninjured when the FBI agent shot the suspect.

Horse and buggy blocks progress

By MARIANNE McGOWAN
Associated Press Writer

MIDDLEFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The horse and buggy is standing proudly in the path of progress in this corner of Ohio, where people are telling the utility companies to go string their electric lines someplace else.

In a heated dispute over a power transmission line, the people of this community — with moral support from the governor — are rallying around a group of Amish farmers who feel their way of life is being threatened.

It's "the most discussed and cussed power line in the state of Ohio," according to the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., which with the help of Ohio Edison Co. plans to stretch a 345,000-volt line from a nuclear power plant on Lake Erie to a power substation 150 miles away.

The problem is, the line would cross fields and thread through groves of trees from which Amish farmers and other residents make maple syrup, a major product here.

"The land squeeze is on for the Amish," explained Charles White, a tire dealer who is chairman of the Middlefield Chamber of Commerce and the Committee to Preserve Our Community. "The fabric of Amish life is stewardship of the land. If he loses the land, he loses his way of life."

Whether the line will be built is up to the Ohio Power Siting Board, which has heard six weeks of testimony. A vote is expected Monday.

The Amish, a group of Christians whose ancestors fled religious persecution in Switzerland in the 18th century, have a spiritual attachment to their land, Amish expert John Hostetler of Temple University testified at the hearings.

Typical is Crist Miller, 51, a soft-spoken father of eight who still lives in the white farmhouse where he was born. It sits on a country road in this rural area east of Cleveland.

Miller and his fellow Amish live very much as their ancestors did more than 100 years ago.

There are no wires in sight. The only cars belong to passersby. Miller and his neighbors get around in horse-drawn buggies or on foot. Horses pull their plows. They make their own clothes, raise large families and leave school after the eighth grade.

Miller says the power line would go through one of his fields, near a pond and through a marshy patch where geese feed. Some of his neighbors would lose their sugar trees, he said. Some might move away.

"If we can keep the city away from us, we can survive," Miller said. "But if the city continues to move in, we're going to be forced to move."

Cleveland Electric expects to win approval to build the line even though the judge who heard the testimony has recommended against it.

"We think the administrative law judge made a lot of mistakes in fact and in law," Cleveland Electric spokesman Lee Bailey said.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: One of San Francisco's brightest baseball stars, Will McCovey, turns 44 today. Other celebrities who have birthdays today include fashion designer Donald Brooks, dancer Ray Bolger, rock star Rod Stewart, fighter George Foreman and singer Johnny Ray (of "Cry" fame). This should be one of your best years ever. Advancement and success are within your grasp. Count on romance to be exhilarating. Short trips contribute to both business and financial progress. You are able to turn what once looked like a disadvantage into a major asset. This is definitely not a good time to quit your job! Stay put to make maximum gains.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Spend time with a former romantic partner. Gossip regarding a close friend could imply a delicate situation. Use discretion to avoid setting off fireworks.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Travel plans may be disrupted by a family emergency. Friend or relative will come to your aid. In romance, "the second time around" could lead to a permanent alliance!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your preoccupation with the past could annoy loved ones. Look forward! Be more outgoing at social functions. Someone else's plans could take precedence over yours.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You know the right thing to do to please loved ones. Bask in their appreciation but also work at enlarging your social circle. You receive a fine communication regarding your future.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may have to shelve some personal plans at the last minute due to another's needs. Be both flexible and concerned. The individual involved will be most grateful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Curb a tendency to be obstinate. Your integrity attracts fine people to your side. Reputation is very important to someone reliable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your ability to get along with a difficult person is in the spotlight. Patience, diplomacy save the day! Keep in touch with far-off friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Make amends to someone you might have slighted. You feel content now even if you have some doubts about your affections. You may be thinking of making a break. Better reconsider.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Guard against intrigue and gossip. Check your facts before taking action. A friendly exchange of ideas proves beneficial. Your social life will blossom if you play your cards right!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The spotlight is on special relationships today.

The new yardstick.

Our 1982 Honda Accord Hatchback could be the new yardstick for commonsense luxury and engineering. Inside and out.

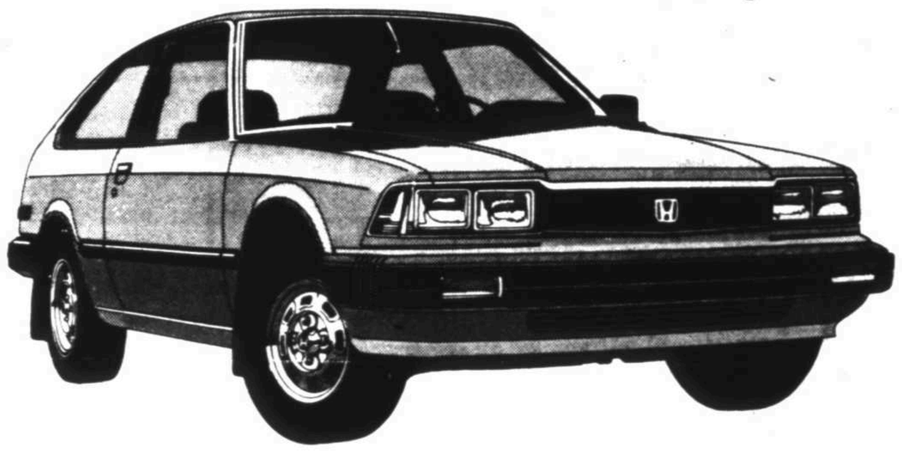

A new aerodynamic look combines function with style. To deliver smoother, quieter, more fuel-efficient performance.

Complete with front-wheel drive, new ventilated front disc brakes, 4-wheel independent suspension and 5-speed transmission. Plus a stylish new interior and plenty of thoughtful finishing touches.

Like a maintenance reminder/electronic warning system, tachometer, quartz electric clock and a headlights-on warning chime.

Once again, our Accord Hatchback is the measure for the rest.

Bulldogs escape scare by Steers

Staff Photo by Paul Gilbert

It seems that Midland High's Jim Gunnels (50) and Preston Robertson (32) have won the rebounding battle against Big Spring's Jerald Wrightsil, but now can they decide who's going to get it?

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Wasn't this supposed to be the open date for the Midland High Bulldogs? After all, they were facing what has been in the past the bargain basement Big Spring Steers and in none other than Chaparral Center, where the Purple Pack hasn't lost a District 5-5A basketball game since Ronald Reagan was a radio sportscaster.

Well, MHS, the league's defending champion, didn't lose to the Steers while running their Chap Center district winning streak to 26 games, but the 60-52 margin of victory was close enough to make a few heads turn.

Oh, the Bulldogs were never in serious jeopardy of dropping this one as they built an 11-point lead in the third period and nursed it home for a 15-4 season mark and a 2-0 league reading. But those pesky Steers wouldn't die like they were supposed to and had cut the margin to 58-52 with 1:20 left in the game.

"I've been saying all along that you have to be ready when you go out on the court or you can expect to be beat," MHS coach Jack Stephenson said. "Big Spring's not bad and we knew that. I think we were ready to play. We hit a good percentage (23 of 46 for 50 per cent), our half court defense was good and we mixed up some man-to-man and zone coverage that I thought we played well. We held Bobby Earl Williams to 12 points and he got only three in the second half. I know one thing — we are 15-4 and 2-0 and still at the top of the standings with somebody."

But there was one major flaw in the game for the Pack and that came from the vaunted MHS "Wave Attack", the nickname worn proudly by the Bulldog bench. For the first time since Stephenson joined the Bulldogs at coach, the Wave didn't produce a single point. The five starters got all 60 points.

JIM GUNNELS, who is becoming a 5-5A scoring demon after entering league play with a 7.1 points per game, had another big night for the Bulldogs with 19 points to follow the Permian game where he had 21 points. He was shocked that he had that many because he didn't seem to happy with the game.

"Actually, we didn't play very well," Gunnels said. "Big Spring is pretty good, but we didn't play right. It's not that we didn't do anything, but I think we forced the ball too much and just didn't play sound. I'm really surprised that I had that many points."

Preston Robertson, who missed the Permian game with an injured ankle, showed little hint of a problem as he returned to action with 14 points, but he says he's not back to full strength yet.

"I think I'm at about three-quarters speed right now," Robertson assessed. "The ankle didn't bother me much, but I tried to dunk the ball there at the end and couldn't get it up. I could have done it if the ankle was completely well."

Don Sharnowski also canned 14 points for the Bulldogs while Raymond Parker got all of his nine in the first half before being benched after a technical in the second half. Barr Bolger got the other four.

The Steers came to play, hitting 13 of 20 shots in the first half. Big Spring led twice in the first period and had the score tied four times before Parker canned a three point play with 1:26 left in the first period for a 16-13 MHS lead. The Bulldogs never trailed after that, but the Steers made themselves noticed.

Williams got nine of his 12 points in the first half, but two of them came right out of the Phantom Opera. He went up for a layup and was fouled. The ball didn't go in, but referees Ray Hudson and Don Bridges, both of Abilene, credited Williams with the basket. This ref crew is one of the best in the area, but they missed this one. "I was sure I saw it go in, but five people can't be wrong."

BIG SPRING coach Ed Haller got a kick out of it, "Hey, Jack (Stephenson) didn't you see it go in."

Big Spring also got 10 points from Jerald Wrightsil, who has an uncanny, but awkward jump shot, and Robert Rubio and Blake Rosson each had eight. Rubio's steal and follow-up layup with 2:20 left to play cut MHS' margin to 56-50 in the final period, but Gunnels answered with two free throws. Kevin Watson again cut it to six with a jumper with 1:20 left, but Robertson put it away with missed dunk that still went for two points.

Midland High shares the lead with Abilene High and Abilene Cooper after Friday's play, all with 2-0 first half marks. It won't be that way after Tuesday since MHS meets AHS in a crucial showdown in Abilene. One of them has to lose.

MHS won the Junior Varsity contest over Big Spring, 80-40, as Porky Fairfax and Fred Franklin each hit 12 points and Ben Conley had 11. The MHS sophomores also rolled with a 65-38 win as Kerry Wallace led the way with 12 points.

Big Spring (52): Bobby Earl Williams, 5-2-4-12; Jerald Wrightsil, 3-0-2-10; Robert Rubio, 2-4-2-8; Blake Rosson, 4-0-4-8; Tony Randle, 1-0-0-2; Kevin Watson, 3-0-2-6; Jinx Valenzuela, 0-0-1-0; Gary Harris, 2-0-0-4; John Green, 2-0-1-4. Totals: 22-6-19—52.

Midland High (60): Preston Robertson, 6-2-4-14; Don Sharnowski, 5-4-1-14; Raymond Parker, 4-1-3-9; Jim Gunnels, 6-7-3-19; Barr Bolger, 2-0-1-4; Doug Hixon, 0-0-1-0; Johnny Pannell, 0-0-0-0; Marc Noland, 0-0-0-0; Tony Carrasco, 0-0-0-0; David McFarland, 0-0-0-0; R.J. Big Spring's Bobby Earl Williams isn't crying because the rest of the guys won't play with him, but a finger in the eye did turn the trick. It's just that no one noticed and play contiuned without him in a game with Midland High at Chaparral Center Friday night.

Chaps whip Sul Ross JV

By ROBERT BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

BIG SPRING — The Midland College Chaparrals closed out play in the ABC Classic here Friday night with a one-sided 108-81 victory over the Sul Ross junior varsity and a 2-0 record in the tournament.

Forward Puntus Wilson broke the 100 mark for the Chaps in grand style with a slam dunk on an assist from guard Spud Webb with 3:40 remaining in the contest. And all night, points seemed to come just as easy.

THE CHAPS broke open a close contest in the early going by running their way to a 54-35 first half lead and matched their score in the second half while giving up 46 points for the 108-81 final score.

Though the victory seemed easy enough for MC, Coach Jerry Stone couldn't figure out if it was a good game or not for his Chaps.

"I'm not sure," he said in his analysis of the game, "because I don t know if we beat a good team or not. I hate to say that. There weren't too many people here and every time we got ahead I thought they (the Chaps) kept trying but got a little careless."

But the game against Sul Ross Friday and Thursday's contest against Ranger (a 72-61 victory) should prove to be to MC's advantage as they helped the Chaps get back into the swing of playing after a three-week holiday layoff.

"The main thing, I hope this tournament got us in shape for Howard (College) over here on Monday," said Stone. "We're both tied for second at 3-1."

Howard College was the host team of the tournament but did not face Midland College. Both teams played against Ranger and Sul Ross JV but the Classic wasn't set up as a championship tournament. Coach Stone would have preferred a championship format, but he also sees a good reason against it.

"I think most anybody would rather play championship, but Midland College and Howard College see each other so much this season we try to avoid it as much as we can."

GOING into the tournament, the Chaps had added another man to their roster, former Midland High player Booker Mackey. But on the opening day of the tournament, Coach Stone and other school officials discovered he was ineligible to play this year because he wasn't a full-time student.

"The story on him was he didn't take enough hours the first semester and we weren't aware of it," said Stone. "We all felt bad about it. We discovered it yesterday (Thursday). I thought he was a full-time student. We're glad we discovered it because it could have cost us a forfit."

Without Mackey's addition to the team, MC had only nine players on its roster in the Classic and all saw playing action.

Midland College (108): Spud Webb, 7-8-1-22; Puntus Wilson, 11-4-4-26; Lance McCain, 3-0-3-6; Jerome Crowe, 5-3-4-12; David Thompson, 0-0-1-0; Justin Moretti, 3-0-0-6; Chuck Robinson, 6-3-0-10; Chester Smith, 7-0-3-14; Rodney McChristian, 5-3-0-13. Totals: 48-18-20-108.

Sul Ross JV (81): Roosevelt Jones, 1-3-4-5; Gabe Garcia, 3-0-1-6; Mike Jones, 6-3-4-14; Ron Lamb, 3-0-0-6; Sean Mounds, 10-4-4-24; Fred Lang, 0-0-3-0; John Skillern, 7-0-3-14; Joe Wilson, 5-0-0-10; Travis Miller, 3-2-3-8. Totals: 38-11-26-81.

Bobcats spill Rebels, 63-60

SAN ANGELO — Hercules Miller hit two clutch free throws with four seconds remaining to ice San Angelo's heart-stopping 63-60 District 5-5A win over Midland Lee here Friday night. The loss evened Lee's district mark at 1-1 and dropped its season record to 13-9 while San Angelo climbed to 1-1 in district and 11-8 overall.

The Rebels, trailing by 10 heading into the final quarter, outscored the Bobcats 18-10 over the final eight minutes, but some missed shots down the stretch hurt.

With the Rebels trailing by one, 61-60, with 1:12 remaining Barry Blackwell missed a one-and-one opportunity. San Angelo rebounded and went into a spread offense.

Andre Van Buren ruined that strategy when he knocked the ball loose from Miller and went the distance of the floor only to miss the layup off the glass with 45 seconds left.

After Tal Jackson missed a one-and-one with 25 seconds, Lee came down and and worked the ball inside to Kenneth Brown. Brown wheeled inside the key but his six-footer rimed out. Steve Cherryhomes rebounded but his shot hit the rim and bounced into the hands of Henry Green. Green flipped the ball to Miller, who was fouled and drilled the back-breaking charities.

It was an icy third quarter that hurt the Rebels the most.

Lee raced to a 24-18 lead at the end of one only to see San Angelo battle back to tie the contest 39-39 at intermission.

In the first half, the Bobcats opened with a half-court-trap defense that Lee handled with ease. On several trips down the court, Lee scored easy hoops on backdoor plays and were also able to get the ball inside to Brown and Van Buren.

1981's leading money winner, lowest average

Kite signs pact with Green Tree

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

All he did was win more money than any one else on the TPA pro golf tour and post the lowest scoring average of the year, yet Tom Kite finds himself trying to explain "what went wrong."

You see, 32-year-old golf pro from Austin, who will now be from Midland, won only one tournament last year and everybody wants to know, how come, huh?

Kite was in Midland Friday to announce the signing of a five-year contract as the touring pro from Green Tree Country Club. John Wood, president of Midland West Corporation, developers of the Green Tree complex on the northwest outskirts of the Tall City, made the announcement at a media luncheon.

"TOM WAS the first touring pro to play Green Tree and he contributed a lot of constructive ideas for the course, so our relationship goes back a long way," Wood said.

Wood added that Kite's career is "just now blooming. And we expect Tom Kite to do even greater things."

What Wood had in mind was apparent when he presented Tom with his green Green Tree jacket, the ceremonial handshake to the deal, and hoped Kite would have another green jacket to go with it one of these days.

VICTORY in a major tournament is about all that has escaped the former University of Texas golfer, who turned pro after teaming up with Ben Crenshaw to give the Longhorns an NCAA title in 1972.

Last season he won both the Seagram's and Golf Writers of America award as Player of the Year for winning $375,699 with a stroke average of 69.20 to finish in the top 10 21 times in 26 tournaments. He was also named Golf Digest's Most Improved Player of 1981.

Consistency was the name of his game as Kite once reeled off a string in which he finished in the top eight in 13 of 14 tournaments.

Still, Kite's lone victory was in the Inverrary. He won more tournaments (two) the year before when he finished 20th on the tour. "The one tournament I won," says Kite, "was far from the best golf I played. My best tournament was at Memphis where Jerry Pate won by saving a par on No 17 with a 30-foot putt."

KITE FINISHED second in the World Series of Golf when Bill Rogers rolled in a 12-foot birdie putt on 18. In the Pensacola Open, Tom Meinyk capped a back nine 31 on the final day with a putt that again deprived Kite of a victory.

"Actually, the only reason I won the Inverrary was because Andy Bean and Curtis Strange played so poorly on the final few holes."

"Why you win and why you don't win is a mystery," he said. "Golfers go through it. Bill Rogers set a record for most money won without winning a tournament, a dubious record I'm sure he wouldn't like to repeat."

So it could have been a four-win year for Kite. The fact that it wasn't almost overshadows his sensational jump from No. 20 ($152,490) to No. 1.

WHILE KITE has added an important 10 to 12 yards to his drives in the last few years, he credits a change in his putting set up to his dramatic improvement. "My putting was much better. I raised my hands on the club. Also my mental attitude was a big factor. I gained confidence after beating Strange and Jack Nicklaus early in the year at Inverrary."

Since it isn't one of his favorite courses, Kite is skipping this week's Tucson opener and will begin practice today for the Bob Hope at Palm Springs, Calif. He plans to play about 28 tournaments or so this year, adding the British Open to his itinerary.

Kite has been a frequent visitor to Midland. He has a sister and brother-in-law here as well as business interests. His father, Tom, Sr., is a regular in the Ranchland Hills CC member-guest tournament.

WHEN NOT touring, Kite will be available to play matches with club members, stage exhibitions and "wherever else they feel they can use me best." Kite hopes to fit the West Texas Junior Tour Tournament of Champions into his schedule next summer.

Kite hasn't missed a cut since the 1980 Open, 35 straight tournaments, the longest current streak on the tour, but consistency has been Kite's forte throughout his career.

When he was named rookie of the year in 1973, he missed the cut only three times in 35 tournaments. And if he continues to shoot the best golf on the tour, some of the breaks that went against him last year, are bound to come his way. Then, maybe people will stop asking the game's leading money winner why he doesn't win more often.

Chances are 50-50 on Dutton playing

Chances are 50-50 that Dallas Cowboy defensive tackle John Dutton will play against the 49ers Sunday, despite several treatments — including acupuncture — doctors have tried on his injured right leg. "If the game was played today, I couldn't go," Dutton said. "I'm trying to remain optimistic. The leg is not getting any better." Dutton awoke Wednesday with a sharp pain in his right thigh. A ruptured blood vessel made the leg swell to almost twice its normal size. By late Thursday, Dutton could barely walk, did not attend afternoon practice...

Hula Bowl shapes up as air raid

HONOLULU (AP) — With quarterbacks such as All-America Jim McMahon of Brigham Young and Art Schlichter of Ohio State on the opposing rosters, it would seem likely that Saturday's 30th annual Hula Bowl will turn into a passing dual.

But Schlichter, who along with Mississippi's John Fourcade will call signals for the East All-Stars, says that doesn't mean the fine contingents of running backs will be ignored.

"I think we'll put the ball in the air, but I don't think we'll throw it 50 times. We have a fine team, good running backs and good receivers. We'll do what it takes to win. We'll try to do everything," he said.

When Schlichter and Fourcade take to the air, they can target the likes of Perry Tuttle of Clemson, Steve Bryant of Purdue and Lindsay Scott of Georgia.

McMahon, who will share quarterback chores with Sam King of Nevada-Las Vegas for the West, can throw to Darryl Mason of Arkansas, Lonell Phea of Houston or Stanford's Darrin Nelson, the nation's No. 2 receiver this past season.

Should McMahon or King get the urge to move the ball on the ground, they'll find no better man for that job than Marcus Allen of Southern California, the 1981 Heisman Trophy winner.

Allen, who rushed for 2,343 yards this past season, says he'll just be a member of the team doing his job.

NCAA girds for stormy TV session

By DOUG TUCKER

HOUSTON (AP) — The NCAA will survive a challenge to its control of television rights during the group's annual convention next week, the president of the NCAA predicted Friday.

"I don't think there is any doubt the television and property rights issues will take up most of the attention of the convention," said Dr. James Frank.

Frank also said the NCAA's 76th annual convention, which opens Monday in Houston, could break the attendance record of 1,314 delegates set at last year's conclave in Miami Beach.

A proposal that would do away with centralized control of television will fail "because of the general sentiment of the membership," Frank said.

Proposal No. 36 on the three-day agenda would specify that each NCAA school may exercise its "property rights" at its own discretion, free of disciplinary action by the NCAA. Its sponsors are all members of the College Football Association. The CFA made a spirited bid last year to form its own contract with NBC. But the effort ended in failure and, as of now, all NCAA schools are bound to a four-year contract with ABC and CBS beginning this season.

Proposal No. 36 is aimed specificially at television rights, but Frank said its affects would be much more far-reaching.

"The NCAA maintains that each institution owns its own property rights," said Frank, president of Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo. "But No. 36 would terminate the effectiveness of the NCAA as a governing body. It would negate most rules and policies, including the enforcement department. It would also negate the ABC-CBS contract."

The proposal will need a two-thirds vote of the NCAA's 733 schools for passage.

"It is my personal opinion that it will be defeated," Frank said. "Once you become a member of a voluntary organization, there are certain things you give up. We maintain that property rights are not confined just to television, but involve practically all legislation the association has passed. Once you give up the right of television controls, that would have a drastic affect on everything else."

The property rights issue is the subject of a federal suit in Oklahoma City brought against the NCAA by Oklahoma and Georgia, which challenges the NCAA on an antitrust basis.

Frank predicted passage of another controversial proposal dealing with television controls, No. 47-A. It specifies the NCAA "shall control all forms of the telecasting, cablecasting or otherwise televising ... " of intercollegiate football."

The new IRA plans are here and there's one for everyone.

Now you, too, can retire a millionaire.

It's here. The new Individual Retirement Account. The IRA. A personal tax sheltered retirement savings plan for everyone. And it's available at First Savings & Loan Association of Midland. You can literally retire a millionaire, assuming you begin the plan in your late twenties. Not bad. Huh? Accumulations can be very substantial regardless of the age you begin.

Accumulations at retirement based on age of enrollment*

At Age 27 — $1,044,533	At Age 45 — $142,530
At Age 30 — $758,329	At Age 50 — $76,380
At Age 35 — $441,826	At Age 55 — $37,123
At Age 40 — $253,998	At Age 60 — $13,826

*Figures above are based on the assumptions that $2,000 is invested in the account every year until age 65 and that the funds invested draw interest at 11% compounded annually until that age. Your interest rate may be higher or lower than 11%. Substantial penalties are required for early withdrawal.

How much does it cost?

It's your choice. You decide what you want to contribute annually up to $2,000. At First Savings, we help you tailor your contributions so you can get the results you want at retirement.

How do you start?

Start by coming into First Savings. All IRA's are not the same. And First Savings IRA's have distinct advantages. For complete information, come by, or call us at 683-5681, and ask for a free brochure. And start making plans to retire rich.

1982 and comes the Resolution

Los Angeles Times

Comes the Resolution.

OK, come on in, 1982. Make yourself uncomfortable. We've got a lot of plans for you. Also, ourselves. In this happy New Year, I resolve.

1- I will not beg Muhammad Ali to retire or shed tears over what might happen to him. There's nobody out there can hurt him. Larry Holmes caught him weak, overweight, slow, and out of shape generally and couldn't put him down once in 11 rounds. I'm not so sure he couldn't beat Gerry Conney right today.

2- I'm not gonna blame Georgia Frontiere for what's wrong with the Rams. Football is a coaches' medium. If the coach is good, the team is good. And I'm a little bothered by a coach who gets down on players like Charle (cq) Young, Cullen Bryant and Fred Dryer for no apparent reason.

3- I'm not going to attack any city this year. Not even Cleveland.

4- I'm not going to chastise John McEnroe anymore. Whatever is wrong with him is endemic, as much a part of him as his blue eyes. You might as well try to reform a shark.

5- I am going to take up a collectionfor that tennis official who walked off the court. Bravo for him!

6- I'm going to watch a halftime show all the way though this year.

7- I'm not going to write about any ballplayers who refuse to talk to the press anymore. If ballplayers hadn't been talking to the press, getting publicity for their sport for over 90 years, these guys would all be driving coal trucks and couldn't get their name in the paper unless the brakes went out in an intersection. If they don't realize that they're getting a million bucks a year because of the media hype of their sport, they're too dumb to talk to anyway.

8- I'm going to try to dress better. Or at least eat less.

9- I'm going to try very hard to understand hockey and get an answer to my nagging question, what's so great about Wayne Gretzky and why can't I tell it?

10- I'm going to be nicer to auto racing. Those guys are the only motorists in the country driving American cars nowadays.

11- I'm going to stop writing about how dull the golf tour is getting. As Gene Fowler used to say, "There are no dull stories, only dull writers."

12- I'm not going to watch any news anchor people who wink at you.

13- I'm never going to read any books identified as "Pulitzer Prize winners."

14- I'm going to learn how to write on one of those machines that look like space consoles from "Star Wars."

15- I'm not going to any of those movies where the love interest is a car or where a whole bunch of cretins go around crashing them.

16- I'm gonna tip less when I get rotten service.

17- I'm gonna tell everybody whoo will listen Roberto Clemente was the greatest outfielder I ever saw. DiMaggio was second.

18- I'm not going to any fight featuring two guys named "Mustafa" or its equivalent. Nothing prejudicial, I just like to go to fights where I can tell which guy is which.

19- I'm never gonna lay the points on the Dallas Cowboys again. If he's got a safe lead, Tom Landry will fall down on the ball even when it's first-and-one-to-go for a touchdown.

20- I'm not gonna play golf with guys I don't like.

21- I'm gonna wish each and every one of you the happiest of new years, and I'm never ever going to tell a Polish joke again.

Stadler birdie binge opens 4-stroke Tucson lead

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Craig Stadler reeled off a string of four consecutive birdies on the way to a 6-under-par 64 that enabled him to open a 4-stroke lead Friday after the second round of the $300,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open golf tournament.

"That's my best," Stadler said after posting a 36-hole total of 129, 11 shots under par on the 6,797-yard Randolph Park Municipal course. The score matched the best two-round total on the pro golf tour last year.

The stocky Stadler, noted by his contemporaries as a decided front-runner, said that two of his three previous tour triumphs have come by runaway margins.

"I'm a streak player," he said. "When I get it going, I tend to keep it going. Of course, there's always the threat, on a course like this, that someone will shoot 63 or 64 at you.

"But I've got a lot of feel in what I'm doing. And it feels good."

Alan Tapie, a non-winner after seven years of tour activity, held second at 133 at the halfway point of this, the kickoff event on the 10-month 1982 schedule. Tapie birdied five of his first six holes on the way to a second round 4-under-par 66 in bright, sunny desert weather.

Scott Simpson was next at 134 after his second 67.

The group at 135, five under par, included veteran Al Geiberger.

Kite predicts second tour

One thing and another, and how well do you know your baseball...They won the Triple Crown...Willie Mays, Duke Snider, Mel Ott, Joe DiMaggio, Chuck Klein, Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson, Jimmy Foxx, Stan Musial...Can you detect the ones who are not impostors?...

Tom Kite, who will be playing out of Green Tree Country Club for the next five years, says the present Monday tournament qualifying round will be eliminated in 1983 when the automatic qualifiers will be jumped from 60 to 125 players to be determined by a qualifying school.

Kite also predicts a second tour within four to six years. "The current tour is filled to the brim. There are no dates left. The TPA can't expand into places that don't have golf tournaments. We don't play in Denver, Detroit, San Francisco or New England and we need to be in those places to keep the game growing"...

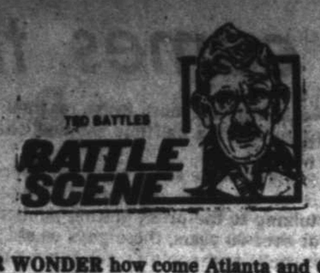

MARCUS ALLEN won the Heisman Trophy, but the New England Patriots are leaning toward Texas tackle Kenneth Sims as the No. 1 pick in the draft this spring. They feel he can do for them what Lawrence Taylor did for the Giants this season...

Allen may have gotten a preview of things to come in the Fiesta Bowl when the Southern Cal encountered a defensive line its big offensive linemen couldn't intimidate and Marcus proved to be just another back. We still predict he'll be no Joe Delaney, Ottis Anderson, Walter Payton, Earl Cooper, Earl Campbell as a pro...

Former Big Spring three-sport star Charlie West will be an assistant on the Cal-Berkeley coach staff under rookie coach Joe Kapp. West, a defensive back, and Kapp, who led Minnesota to the Super Bowl several years ago, were Viking teammates. West, who went to UTEP, was talented enough to go either pro football or pro baseball...

Owner George Steinbrenner pays top dollar to his baseball prima donnas, so how come Hugh Green, the rookie from Pittsburgh, moved in next door to George in Tampa Bay. The Bucs apparently shelled out a mint for Hugh...

Stan Hollmig, the ex-Texas Aggie who was an outfielder on the Phillies' pennant-winning 1950 Whiz Kids, died recently in New Braunfels...

EVER WONDER how come Atlanta and Cincinnati are in the National League West and Chicago and St. Louis are in the NL East? We often have and just figured Bowie Kuhn's sense of geography was as bad as Pete Rozelle's.

It turns out that back in the days when the Mets' standout player was Marvelous Marv Throneberry, the Mets depended for survival on the visits of the Dodgers and Giants from the West Coast. When the NL went to divisions, one of the concessions the Mets gained for the loss of lucrative dates with the West Coast teams was the inclusion of Chicago and St. Louis in the East. It was in the late 1960s and St. Louis had won a couple of pennants while the Cubs looked like they were ready to win some. As it turned out, the Mets should have let nature take its course...

BABE PARILLI, the old Kentucky rifle, claims Bear Bryant was the best coach he ever played for. That may not sound like a difficult choice, but Babe also quarterbacked for Vince Lombardi, Paul Brown and Weeb Ewbank as a pro...

Midlanders Aubrey Linne and son Larry, along with Aubrey, Sr., have been getting ink from national columnists over their unique feat of being, as far as can be determined, the only three generation bowl family. Granddad played for TCU in the first Cotton Bowl game as the Frogs beat Marquette, 16-6, in 1937; Aubrey, Jr., played for the Frogs in the 1959 0-0 tie with Air Force in the Cotton Bowl and Larry, former Lee gridder, was a walk-on with Texas, which beat Alabama last week...

Triple crown (batting, homers and rbi) winners? If you picked Mays, Aaron,Snider, Ott, DiMaggio and Musial, go stand in a corner.

Tors roll over Pecos by 76-49

LAMESA — Lamesa rolled to a 16-6 lead after the first eight minutes and never looked back as the Golden Tornadoes cruised to an easy 76-49 victory over Pecos in a District 2-AAAA battle here Friday night.

The Tors were on top 36-24 at intermission and 50-39 after three quarters of play. Lamesa outscored the visitors 26-10 in the final eight minutes to account for the final margin.

Shane Jackson tossed in 20 points to lead the Tors, now 3-2 in district action and 18-3 overall. Victor Spencer added 18 points to the Tor attack while Lasaro Arredono, Steve Alexander and Mark Murphy all collected 10 points.

Bobby Joe Jenkins gunned in 18 points for Pecos as the Eagles saw their district mark slip to 0-5 and their season mark to 8-9.

Lamesa's next game will be Tuesday night when the Tors host Sweetwater in a district clash.

UCLA inks pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA and Long Beach State have signed a contract to meet twice in football within the next three years, it was announced jointly by the schools Friday.

The first game will be in the Los Angeles Coliseum next Sept. 11. The second will be in the Coliseum on Sept. 15, 1984.

Although the schools are located just 33 miles apart, it will mark the first time they've met in football.

Bird sparks Celts over 76ers

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird and Gerald Henderson combined for 17 points to spark a fourth-quarter attack that lifted the Boston Celtics to a 96-90 National Basketball Association victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Friday night.

The victory moved Boston to within a half game of the first-place 76ers in the Atlantic Division.

With Boston leading 75-74 with 8:47 left in the game, Bird hit a jumper to launch a 15-4 spurt that put the Celtics ahead 90-78 with 4:48 to go. Bird and Henderson both scored six points in the uprising.

The Celtics, who won their ninth consecutive regular-season game against the 76ers in Boston, were led by Cedric Maxwell with 20 and Robert Parish with 18 points. Philadelphia was paced by Cheeks with 21 and Erving with 20.

'Frisco desperate for deliverance

By MELVIN DURSLAG
Hearst Feature Service

SAN FRANCISCO – A character romping through the prose of Damon Runyon observed darkly to a listener, "Dames with hard-luck stories usually come from San Francisco."

It might be the same with sports franchises. A loser's town, teams here have gone barren for decades, huffing and puffing in the orbit of jock without climbing stairways to the star's, like little cable cars.

A village desperate for deliverance, San Francisco has yet to win it all in baseball. Nor has it won the big one in football. It had a basketball team called the Warriors, but, by the time it took the title, it had moved to Oakland.

THAT'S ANOTHER tender point in this hamlet with the hard-luck story. Oakland, a nebbish cousin across the water, a relative who comes to weddings in a T-shirt, wins everything.

The Warriors win, the A's win, the Raiders win. And San Francisco sits here mortified, choking on its mortadella, hoping, through some dark device, an Italian hero – even a Sicilian – brings a winner to town and it can tell Oakland to drop dead.

Such is the scene on this fairest of California days in which San Francisco, searching for Candlestick Park under the mud, not sure it's worth finding, stands on the ledge of bigness.

With a tingle of excitement, the peasantry vests its dignity in the 49ers, matched in the National Conference championship game against the Dallas Cowboys.

THE GENERAL Motors of football, Dallas is in recession, too. It hasn't been to the Super Bowl in three years and its Texas followers are as edgy as if they had been celibate for that period.

They haven't yet forgiven Tom Landry for what happened in 1974. Landry missed the playoffs, making it only 15 times in the last 16 years that he has appeared in the tournament.

"Do you want to keep your hat?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir," he responded.

"Then you'd better watch the store."

So it's a serious-minded Tom who has landed in San Francisco, recently declared the second disaster area in California. The first was Anaheim, where five assistant coaches vanished in a slide.

"Has the former Uganda leader been heard from? travelers are asked.

"He survives," they answer, "and he's living in Anaheim."

NO PASSIONLESS scene, San Francisco has worked up a large foam for the Dallas game, inspired by the young owner of the 49ers, Ed DeBartolo, Jr., who promises the folks gratificaion at last.

Recalling an earlier game this season in which the 49ers decimated Dallas, 45-14, DeBartolo, anticipating the next meeting, went on television last week and announced:

"The Cowboys ate it last time – and they will eat it again."

It isn't exactly the way Winston Churchill would have put it, but it was rhetoric they understood in San Francisco, a starving town where the title beckons like the brightest of Kimberley's stones.

No less a personality than Al Davis, the marauder from across the bay, is impressed by San Francisco's work this season.

"The sharp improvement of the 49ers," says Al, "is symbolic of the turn-around we saw in the league and what we figure to see in the future. Cincinnati turned it around. The Jets turned it around. So did the Giants and Tampa. And falling on their faces were Oakland, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Houston and Cleveland. Pittsburgh has been in decline, too. You're going to find that a 'dynasty' in football is a team that gets to the Super Bowl once in five years. We're getting closer to basketball.,"

DAVIS WON'T pick a winner between Dallas and San Francisco, doubtless concerned the league might link it to sinister forces in Las Vegas, but he does volunteer:

"Tony Dorsett has to be hurt by the condition of the field. He is a speed runner, who does his best work on Astroturf. And the slow field also could hurt the deep passing game of Dallas because the 49ers should be able to go to tight coverage. I look for a low-scoring game."

Since the Raiders have brought world championships to the other side of the bridge. . .since Charlie Finley did, too. . .and since the lives of folks over there are now enriched by something called Billy Ball, a feeling of immediacy exists in San Francisco, where the populace is deprived and anxious.

Twenty years ago, a San Francisco baseball team advanced to the World Series. It lost, in the tradition of the sector, and people here can't stand it any longer.

Their mental health is riding on the chewed up plains of Candlestick.

plans at intermission. The Bobcats came out in the third quarter in a tight zone, a box and one, and the results were felt immediately.

With their inside game shut off and the backdoor play stalled, Lee could only connect on two of 13 from the floor, including a one-for-six performance by Alvin Dunson, as the Bobcats outscored the Rebels 14-4 in the third quarter to take a 53-43 lead into the final eight minutes of action.

Van Buren led the Rebels with 19 points while Dunson added 18 tallies and Brown fired in 12 points.

Junior Lorand White did most of the damage for San Angelo as he gunned in a game-high 25 points. Joining White in double digits was Miller with 17 points and Jeff Kasner with 10 points.

San Angelo also won the junior varsity tilt as the Bobcats edged Lee 45-44.

In other district action, Abilene Cooper ran its district mark to 2-0 with a 46-45 victory over Odessa High in Abilene. Cooper's season mark is now 4-14 while Odessa drops to 0-2 to conference play and 9-11 on the season.

Kyle Coody, who led the Cougars with 11 points, canned a free throw with six seconds left to give Cooper the lead. He missed the second, Odessa rebounded but missed a desperaion 30-foot heave at the buzzer.

James Mantooth was the only other Cooper player to hit double figures as he finished the evening with 10 points. Jimmy Gilliland led Odessa with 13 points and sophomore Eugene Bell netted 11.

Bell had a chance to give the Bronchos the lead with 59 seconds but throw up an air ball on a one-and-one opportunity.

Cooper biggest lead of the evening was four points while Odessa manged to build up an eight points margin early in the second quarter.

In Odessa, Abilene High remained tied with Midland High for the district lead as the Eagles posted a thrilling 48-47 overtime triumph over Permian. AHS is now 2-0 in district and 16-4 for the year while Mojo slips to 0-2 in district and 7-12 on the season.

The Eagles scored three free throws and a bucket off a missed charity toss to outscored the Panthers 5-4 in overtime for the victory.

Reagan considering 1983 tax increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan pondered possible 1983 tax increases Friday as administration officials proposed that he sell off land, timber and other federal assets to narrow the budget deficit.

As another money-saving move, the administration was reported to be considering reductions or delays in cost-of-living increases in federal benefit programs other than Social Security. Estimated savings would be as much as $6 billion in fiscal 1983, which begins Oct. 1.

Administration sources, asking that their names not be used, said the president is prepared to seek at least some new tax increases as part of the 1983 budget he will propose to Congress next month. However, the size of the tax package and the types of increases were still under discussion, they said.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes refused Friday to discuss any of the proposals under study. "We're not going to conduct the president's decision-making in a fishbowl," he said.

Reagan already has decided to propose $31 billion in cuts in social welfare and other domestic programs, but most of those savings will be offset by his plan for a sharp increase in the defense budget.

As a result, Reagan faces a record deficit of nearly $110 billion next year unless he acts to raise taxes or other revenue sources, according to administration estimates.

The president, who met Friday for the second day in a row with his senior economic advisers, frequently has expressed reluctance to curb the deficit by raising taxes. However his economic advisers have formed a solid front in favor of at least $10 billion in new taxes for 1983, primarily by narrowing tax "loopholes," sources said.

One proposal drafted last fall and reportedly still before the president calls for loophole closings and an increase in excise taxes, on such products as alcohol and tobacco, to raise $15 billion in fiscal 1983 and $30 billion in 1984.

At the same time, administration officials are putting together other, non-tax proposals for narrowing the deficit. The search has been propelled by a desire to hold tax increases to a minimum, they said.

One plan calls for sale of relatively small federal plots of land situated in urban areas to raise $2 billion in 1983 and 1984. Total federal holdings of this type of land are worth about $11 billion.

Presidential Counselor Edwin Meese III said Thursday the administration is considering such sales, but he suggested the money be put into a separate account to retire existing federal debt rather than be counted in the 1983 budget as a way to reduce future deficits.

Also under consideration is a proposal to sell federal timber holdings to raise $3 billion over two years. The sources said additional billions of dollar could be raised through several other types of asset sales under consideration, but they declined to provide details.

Another proposal under study for narrowing the deficit calls for limits on the annual cost-of-living raises for benefit programs, such as food stamps and veterans' pensions. Social Security, however, would not be included because of the president's pledge to spare that program from budget cuts.

The proposals for limiting automatic benefits increases include postponing for three months the date the increases take effect, and changing the cost-of-living formula in a way to produce smaller raises.

Meanwhile, strong sentiment appeared to be emerging among House Republican leaders that Reagan needs to increase tax revenue as well as cut back on his defense buildup before submitting budget recommendations to Congress next month.

"There's a consensus on the need to narrow the deficit. We are committed and the president is committed to doing so," said Rep. Tom Evans, R-Del. "...That means looking at revenues and expenditures."

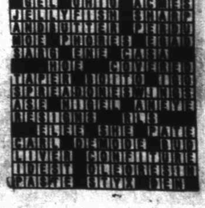

Sugar workers lose jobs

HONOLULU (AP) — Five-hundred workers at the Puna Sugar Co. on Hawaii Island are losing their jobs, but each will be getting five acres of land and a chance to go into business on his own.

Amfac Inc., owner of the 12,000-acre sugar plantation, said Thursday the operation will be phased out by 1984 because it loses $10 million annually and shows no prospects of recovery.

Amfac hopes to double it's papaya-growing operations in the area to offset some of the economic hardships to the community and workers from the closing, chairman Henry A. Walker Jr said.

Scott Williams lets out a stream of breath that becomes highly visible in the near zero-degree temperatures that settled into the Chicago area Thursday. Much of the Midwest was belted by a double whammy of high winds and cold air.

Cold weather forces schools to close

Up to 4 feet of snow fell across some areas of northern New York on Friday, forcing schools to close, while Midwesterners frozen by a cold wave looked forward to temperatures warming to above zero.

The cold front which has claimed at least three lives since Tuesday moderated but hung on over some of the Plains states. Early morning readings in Oklahoma and Kansas were in the teens or lower, and temperatures in Utah continued to be the lowest for the period in two years. A reading of 10 below was reported in Logan, up 9 degrees from Thursday.

COLD AIR WAS trapped in the Great Basin by a high pressure system which also held in pollutants. Visibility at the Salt Lake City airport was down to 6 miles Friday morning.

In neighboring Idaho, meanwhile, the warmer temperatures forced officials to keep careful watch on ice-packed rivers for signs of flooding.

Snow blanketed the state last week, with up to 20 inches reported in Pocatello, and sanitation crews in that city filled sandbags to prepare for possible flooding of the Portneuf River.

Residents of Wisconsin, where Friday's temperatures were to reach a high of 10-15 degrees, were warned to brace for a return of bitter cold overnight. The mercury plunged to 35 below Wednesday night in Morse, and the National Weather Service said temperatures Friday night likely would hit 10 below to 30 below.

Three school bus mishaps were blamed on icy roads in Wisconsin. Two Racine teen-agers were hospitalized after their bus ran off a road early Friday; 12 children were hurt in Manitowoc on Thursday when their bus skidded and collided with a snowplow. A third bus, which was empty, collided with a pickup truck, sending the truck plunging down from a railroad overpass. The truck driver was hospitalized in good condition.

TO THE EAST, temperatures were colder than usual. Boston was expecting snow and temperatures 5 degrees on either side of zero for Sunday and Monday.

Temperatures from Maryland to Georgia dipped to the 20s and 30s overnight. In West Virginia, temperatures below 10 degrees were reported in Canaan Valley and Sinks of Gandy.

Manhattan residents going to work bundled up against a wind-chill factor that made it feel like 20 below, and the National Weather Service predicted colder temperatures on the way.

School closed in five upstate New York communities after a narrow storm hugging the coast of Lake Ontario swamped the area with snow. Fifty-one inches fell in Martville, 31 in Fulton and 10 in suburban Syracuse.

"This is wonderful weather if you're in the skiing or the winter recreation business, but it seems like this snow is not going to go away," said Dr. J. Robert Johnson, superintendent of schools in Phoenix, which got more than 20 inches.

In California, the San Francisco Bay area was expected to have overnight lows in the 30s after two days of chill. In Southern California, cold winds continued to blast down from the mountains, knocking out power lines, toppling trees and blasting out windows. Classes were canceled at some high schools and at California State University due to damage to buildings.

Head of farmers group predicts economic collapse

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Food lines may form in the United States unless the government acts to meet farmers' demands for higher produce prices, the head of a farmers' organization said Friday.

"If Congress doesn't do something between now and spring, we're going to have a total economic collapse," Marvin Meek, chairman of the American Agriculture Movement, said at a news conference.

As the association's national convention opened at the elegant Chase-Park Plaza hotel, Meek estimated that up to 700,000 of the nation's 2.3 million farmers will be driven out of business this year.

"If that happens, you're going to see food lines in this country just like you see in Poland," said Meek, of Longview, Texas. "This is a drastic situation which calls for drastic action."

He said there is substantial support among his organization's 2,000 active members for a production cutback to drive up sagging prices.

"We don't want any consumer to go hungry," Meek said, "but we want a decent price for our product.

"People may have to go hungry before they wake up, and that's regrettable," he added. "We've done our job — we produced a bumper crop last year and we probably will again next year.

"But it appears the Republicans have turned their back on the farmers, just as the Democrats did."

The farmers' organization, which has sponsored tractorcades and an unsuccessful farmers strike in the past decade, has hired a lobbying firm in Washington, D.C., to seek lower loan.
