To do battle

LONDON (AP) — A welfare recipient turned banker, a self-made millionaire and an old Etonian on Friday squared off for battle to succeed Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and Chancellor of the Exchequer John Major joined the race Friday. They must stop former Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine, whose strong showing in the first round of voting Tuesday provoked Mrs. Thatcher's resignation.

Jury summons

AUSTIN (AP) — Atheist leader Madalyn Murray O'Hair says she will burn a jury summons on Monday, the day before she is called for jury duty.

Ms. O'Hair said Friday that she and other atheists have been doing battle for 20 years against the "So help me God" required of jurors.

In a statement, she urged Texas atheists to join her in a similar protest when they receive a jury summons. She said they should not appear when summoned, or they should appear for jury duty but refuse to "swear or affirm 'So help me God.'"

In protest

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Peace activist Dick Gregory began a fast to protest military action in the Persian Gulf and said he'd maintain it until all U.S. troops are returned home.

Gregory began the fast Thanksgiving morning with a prayer vigil at Plymouth Rock.

"Thanksgiving is the day that we in America set aside to be thankful for the abundance of our land," Gregory said. "It is hard to be completely thankful with war in the Persian Gulf casting a shadow across our country."

Bush has meetings with heads of Egypt, Syria

■ On his last day in the Mideast, Bush sought Arab support for use of force against Iraq.

Associated Press

GENEVA — President Bush conferred separately Friday with the presidents of Egypt and Syria, enlisting crucial Arab support for his intensifying drive to expel Iraqi troops from Kuwait.

The White House emphasized that no "partial solutions" to the Persian Gulf were acceptable and Bush said he was "very very close" to rounding up the support he wants for a United Nations resolution authorizing the use of force.

Even without a U.N. vote, he said, "we have the authority to do what we have to do" to counter Iraq's Saddam Hussein.

Nevertheless, before leaving for home, Bush devoted the final day of an eight-day overseas journey to diplomatic sessions with Hosni Mubarak of Egypt, his most solid Arab ally in the Persian Gulf crisis, and with Hafez Assad of Syria, his most improbable. Syria is viewed by the United States as a sponsor of terrorism, and Bush's meeting with Assad was the first in 13 years between presidents of the two nations.

Assad sidestepped a question of whether Syrian forces would fight alongside Americans in an offensive operation. But the statement issued by the White House said the two men agreed the Iraqi occupation of Kuwait is unacceptable and the "legitimate government (of Kuwait) must be restored fully."

Asked if his opposition to Iraq's occupation meant he would support the use of force, Mubarak said, "By all means."

A White House statement said Bush and Assad discussed human rights and "had an extended conversation of the question of terrorism."

It also said Bush asked for Syria to help win the release of American hostages held in Beirut. Among them is Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was taken captive in 1985.

Midland retailers pleased by amount of Friday's sales

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Midlanders, along with millions of other Americans, headed for the malls and stores Friday, as Christmas shopping unofficially got underway to the delight of local retailers.

The day after Thanksgiving has lost some significance, according to some retailers who say Christmas sales are heaviest in the two weeks before Christmas.

Some national retailing experts have been the voice of doom as the season approached, saying a weak economy and high energy prices would keep Christmas sales low.

Apparently, Midland shoppers missed that message and decided to shop 'til they dropped, according to a Reporter-Telegram survey of local retailers.

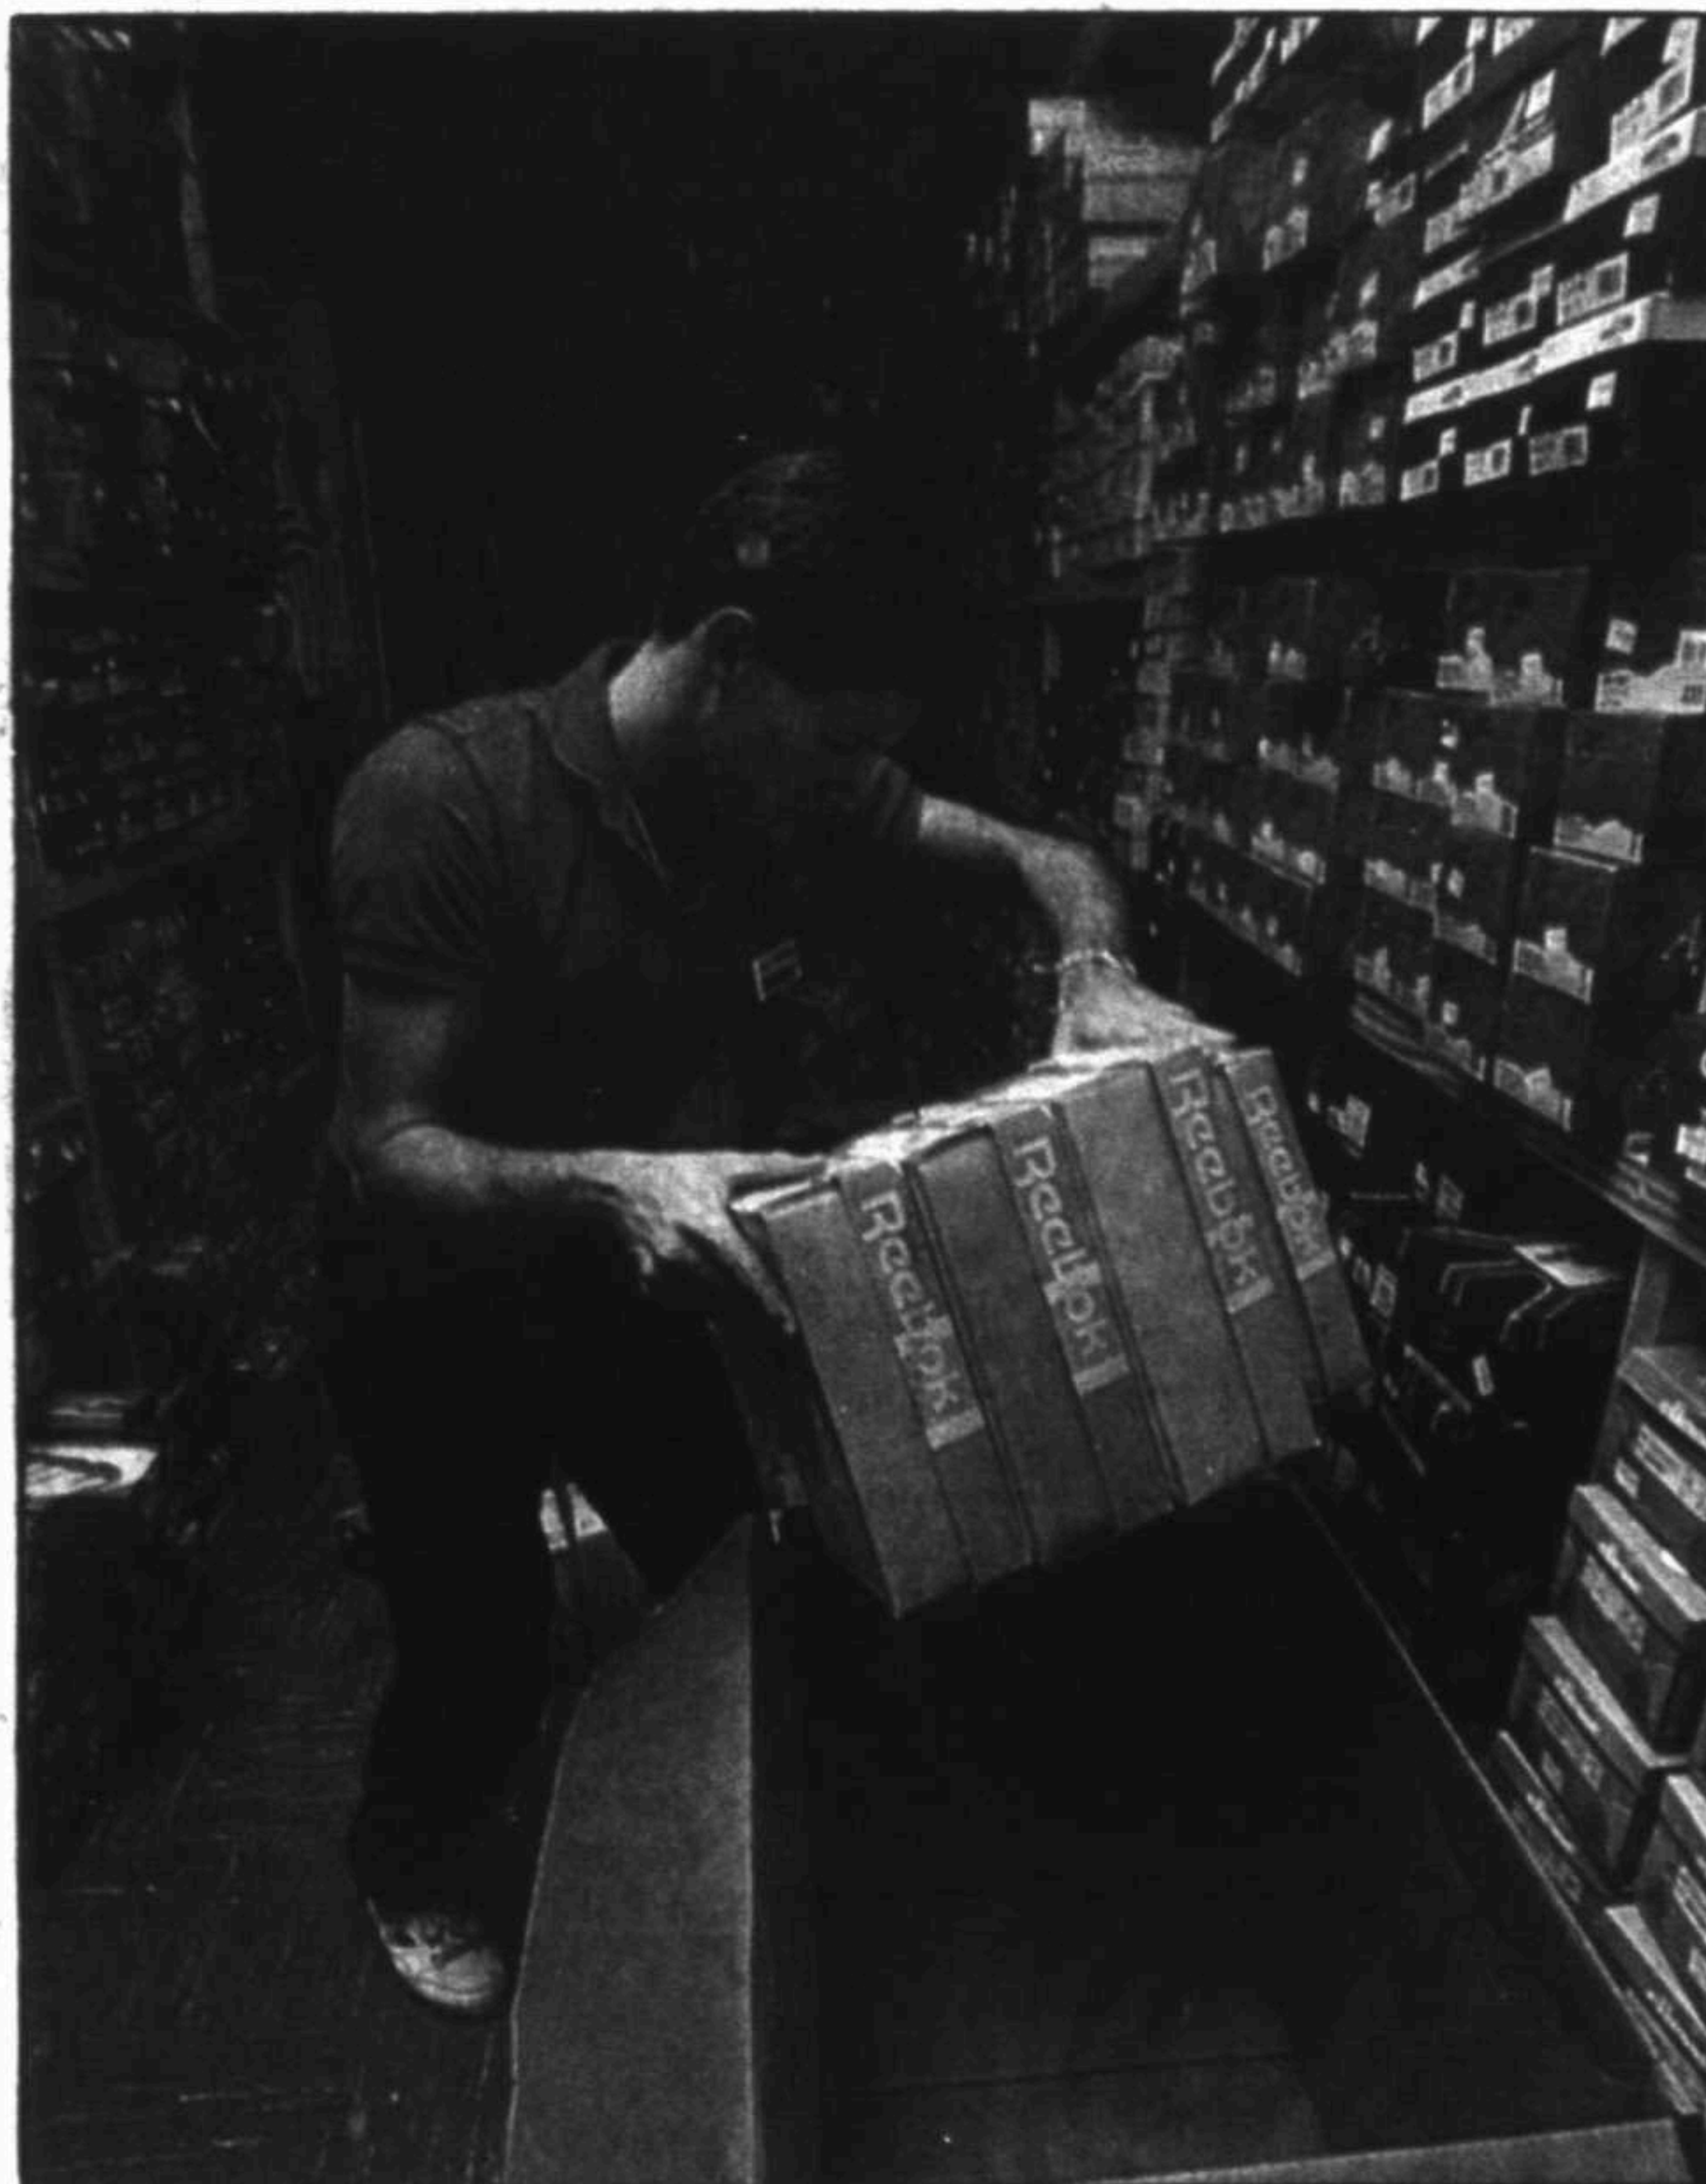

"I think it's wonderful today," said Susan Perkins, marketing manager of Midland Park Mall, about the traffic at her center Friday. She quoted several mall retailers as saying sales were twice as good as a Saturday session, and that customers seemed to be buying larger, more expensive items rather than lots of smaller, less costly things.

Midlanders don't seem to be as pessimistic about the economy as other areas of the country, according to Bill Bartlett, manager of Dunlap's in Dellwood Mall. "I feel like the atmosphere in this town is on the upswing," he said.

He expressed some surprise that sales were strong Friday in men's suits and sports coats, as well as ladies shoes and apparel. He added that inventory at his store is at its highest point of the year.

However, Don Byerly, manager of Sears Roebuck in Midland Park Mall, predicted the season would be highly competitive because shoppers are cautious regarding the economy. He said he was pleased with Friday's sales, and was optimistic about Christmas sales at his store because of Sears' addition of name brands, and a new

'Twelve Days of Christmas' gifts would cost $15,231.72

By Bill Stieg

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you're singing the blues about the cost of Christmas presents, be thankful your true love isn't asking for the complete catalog of gifts in "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

J. Patrick Bradley, that literal-minded chief economist at Provident National Bank, has once again toted up the sales slip for the items listed in the old carol, from a partridge in a pear tree to twelve drummers drumming.

This year's total: $15,231.72. That means the Christmas Price Index (CPI) was up 4.34 percent from last year.

That's a slower inflation rate than the government's Consumer Price Index, up 6.3 percent in the same period.

Five gold rings fell in price, from $750 to $600, and the nursery Bradley checks every year had a half-price sale on pear trees, just $12.48 this year.

So who's to blame for the higher index?

Those nine ladies dancing and 10 lords-a-leaping don't come cheap. Bradley checked with the Philadelphia Dance Company and found a performance by the ladies would cost $2,417.90, up from $2,084.40; 10 leaping lords would run you $2,686.56, up from $2,316.

Gorbachev predicts bloodshed

■ Soviet president says break-up of the U.S.S.R. could lead to "civil conflict" and he will use his powers to prevent it.

Associated Press

MOSCOW — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev warned Friday that a break-up of the Soviet Union could lead to "bloodshed" and "civil conflict," and said he will use all his constitutional powers to prevent it.

"We will not be able to divide, and when such attempts have been made, the results were bloodshed and grave consequences," Gorbachev said in a wide-ranging news conference.

He spoke shortly after the Supreme Soviet legislature endorsed his general plans to reorganize the executive branch of government, and gave him two weeks to take steps to alleviate shortages in the nation's food supply.

The legislature also passed a "state of the union" resolution asking its chairman, Anatoly Lukyanov, to begin urgent negotiations with his counterparts in the 15 Soviet republics for agreements to stop the political disintegration of the country.

The resolution expressed serious concern about the collapse of central authority, and recommended Gorbachev take all steps "authorized by law, up to extraordinary measures" in cases where there is a "threat to human life, health or property."

It seeks to end a national paralysis of power resulting from the republics acting independently in introducing reforms to switch from a centrally planned to a market economy.

All the Soviet republics except Kirgizia have declared some form of sovereignty, and the three Baltic republics have declared independence.

It was the second time in a week the Supreme Soviet endorsed Gorbachev's proposal to eliminate the Council of Ministers, or Soviet Cabinet, and replace it with several bodies under direct presidential control.

It's unclear if the legislature will take up the Gorbachev reform plan again.

Prime Minister Nikolai I. Ryzhkov, whose job would be eliminated under the government realignment, was quoted by the government newspaper Izvestia as saying he was prepared to step down if Gorbachev's proposals are accepted.

Ryzhkov said the proposals, announced last Saturday by Gorbachev, caught him by surprise.

Nets placed over tanks, pits

Staff Report

Thirty-one oil companies in Texas have settled with the Federal Central Violations Bureau of the United States Department of Interior Fish and Wildlife Service in San Antonio and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for killing protected birds in open pits and tanks at oilfield sites, according to the Fish and Wildlife Service.

The companies paid penalties of $11,375 and are now in the process of installing netting over tanks and pits, said the service.

The Fish and Wildlife Service claims that over 500,000 migratory birds are killed annually by oil pits and tanks in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

GULF: Bush meets with Mubarak, Assad

(From 1A)

In addition, the two men discussed the overall Middle East peace process and the "importance of moving ahead" with U.N. resolutions addressing the Palestinian issue, the White House statement said.

Bush made his diplomatic rounds as Senate Minority Leader Robert Dole, returning from the Middle East, said he would urge Congress to reconvene immediately if the United Nations endorsed the resolution on force against Iraq and that he hoped Congress would take similar action.

But Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, who accompanied Dole, said a yes vote in the United Nations would not necessarily guarantee one on Capitol Hill. "It would depend upon the circumstances that exist at the time," the Maine Democrat said.

Shortly before Bush flew home, a Soviet official at the United Nations said the Security Council would convene next week.

After Bush left Geneva, the White House complained that Swiss security officers had shoved a machine gun into the stomach of a U.S. diplomat and roughed up a photographer traveling with the president. White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the United States would file a formal protest with the Swiss government over the incidents, which occurred at the base of the steps to Air Force One.

The hastily arranged Geneva trip was the final stop on a five-nation, eight-day trip for Bush that began in Europe, where East and West joined together to bury the Cold War, and culminated in a Thanksgiving dinner with the troops in Saudi Arabia.

As he concluded his diplomatic mission, the Army was announcing that it would suspend the retirements of thousands of soldiers coming to the end of their enlistment periods and would freeze all transfers of soldiers overseas to bases back to the United States. The Army said these soldiers may be needed to back up Operation Desert Shield in the Persian Gulf.

Bush used much of his time overseas to mount an aggressive diplomatic campaign for a United Nations resolution authorizing force in the Persian Gulf.

Mubarak was unequivocal in his declaration on Kuwait.

"The Iraqi invasion must be reversed and Kuwait must be liberated," the Egyptian leader said. "For both of us it's a matter of principles and moral courage."

Said Bush: "We're tired of the status quo and so is the rest of the world."

Their meeting was a session between longtime allies, and Mubarak has been a key Arab partner in the international coalition to force Iraq out of Kuwait.

Bush's other diplomatic meeting of the day seemed more awkward, yet demonstrated the lengths the president is willing to go to force Iraq's withdrawal.

"Mr. Assad is lined up with us with a commitment force," Bush said at the news conference in Cairo before traveling to Switzerland to meet with the Syrian leader.

Earlier, Assad told reporters, "We have the hope there will be between us convergent viewpoints."

U.S. cooperation with Assad has elicited strong criticism in Congress, and Mitchell reflected that dismay in comments to NBC News Friday night: "I personally have grave reservations about the president and the United States engaging in that kind of a relationship with the leader of a government that has been identified by the administration itself and our government as terrorist."

At a joint news conference, Bush and Mubarak both made it clear that they intend to work to win the approval of the United Nations Security Council of a resolution authorizing force against Iraq.

"We haven't given up on the peaceful solution at all. We have been very very patient. We've gone to the United Nations for 10 separate resolutions and indeed there will be another resolution," Bush said.

But he added: "I do feel we have the authority to do what we have to do. But we have tried very hard to work within the U.N. confines of the Security Council. And I have confidence that we will be successful in the Security Council."

For his part, Mubarak said Syria was "one of the key countries ... and we should not neglect it."

"I don't know if he felt left out, but he's an important coalition partner," Bush added, referring to Assad.

Mubarak, in opening remarks at a news conference, stressed the importance of resolving the Palestinian issue. Bush reiterated the U.S. position, offering to be a catalyst for peace but insisting that the dispute be resolved apart from the Persian Gulf showdown. In particular, Bush said, "I want to see a solution to the question of the West Bank," which Israel seized from Jordan in the 1967 war.

Bush said the meeting with Assad does not represent a turning point in relations with Damascus. "We've still got big differences with Syria," Bush said.

The president's diplomatic drive received a setback on Thursday, when Secretary of State James A. Baker III was frustrated in efforts to get backing from Yemen, the only Arab nation on the 15-member U.N. Security Council.

SALES: Holiday shopping season gets off to 'wonderful' start

"charge club" promotion.

Most retailers agreed that there were about an equal number of lookers and buyers, with Scooter Jenkins of Jenkins Jewelry observing that a number of families went shopping together. Though he carries a sizeable inventory of gift items and luggage, Jenkins said jewelry is his store's number one item, and predicted earrings, bracelets, necklaces and men's jewelry would be good sellers this season.

Toys are always strong sellers at Christmas, and Marty Hamlin, manager of Kay-Bee Toys in Midland Park Mall said his store saw "phenomenal sales. We're really happy." He attributed some of the sales to a big sale being held this week on Nintendo, Teen-age Mutant Ninja Turtle items and other sporting goods and toys.

In past years, retailers have had difficulty balancing inventory and demand, and in some cases have been forced to mark down items to reduce inventory and generate sales. Few of the retailers surveyed felt they would have such a problem this year.

Steve Kunselman, manager of C.R. Anthony's, noted that some shoppers shop for the best price, while other shoppers are willing to pay the full price when they find what they want. Like the others, he said he is very pleased with the traffic and sales at his store Friday.

Gary Boyle, manager of J.C. Penney's in Midland Park Mall, said he saw little hesitancy on the part of his customers to buy gifts, and that practical gifts such as sweaters, coats and cosmetics were selling well Friday. He agreed with Kunselman that customers don't necessarily expect bargain-basement prices. "I think if people find what they want, they are willing to pay what's asked."

He added: "Christmas comes every year — people know how much they can spend, and they're going to spend that amount."

And with the arrival of Christmas every year, retailers pin strong hopes on the selling season, which can make or break a business.

Bartlett of Dunlap's summed it up this way: "If we don't do the business this month, our year is lost. So we're going to do our best to please the customer and make sure we have what they want."

Guilt of condemned inmate questioned

DALLAS (AP) — A newspaper's scrutiny of a 13-year-old slaying has raised questions about the investigation that sent a Tyler man to death row.

Kerry Max Cook, who maintains his innocence, was sentenced to die for the 1977 mutilation slaying of Linda Jo Edwards, 21, of Tyler.

"None of the physical evidence inside the crime scene really links him to the crime," said Jerry Dowling, a former special agent with the FBI now with Sam Houston State University's criminal justice program.

Dowling is one of a pair of experts hired by The Dallas Morning News who examined the Tyler police report and were critical of conclusions drawn from evidence found at the scene of the slaying.

"I would definitely say the wrong conclusion was reached," said Phil Ethridge, a former Tulsa policeman who teaches at the University of Texas-Pan American.

"There's a lot of blood, but you don't get (Cook's) fingerprints on the weapons, you don't have blood on his clothing or whatever," Dowling said. "I don't know whether the guy did it or not, but I'm not overly impressed with what evidence they say suggests that he did it."

The newspaper obtained the police report through a confidential source.

Dowling and Ethridge also say authorities presented an improbable version of events at Cook's 1978 capital murder trial.

The News reported Friday in a copyright story that the police report cites evidence, including four hair samples, that may have pointed to other possible suspects.

One of Cook's attorneys said prosecutors never told the defense about that evidence.

"The physical evidence, particularly foreign hairs on (the victim's) body, reports of those should have been submitted to us," said Jacksonville lawyer John Ament, one of two attorneys who represented Cook.

Police say Cook sneaked into Ms. Edwards' apartment through an unlocked patio door, saw her sleeping on the couch, picked up a statue and began beating her with it.

Ethridge and Dowling say the evidence cited in the police report does not support the police theory that Ms. Edwards was sleeping when she was attacked.

The report, dated June 14, 1977, said that police found the television on at normal volume when they entered Ms. Edwards' bedroom. Officers also found a hot iron, upright on an ironing board in the bedroom, the report said.

Ms. Edwards' pants, the only item of her clothing not torn or bloodstained, lay nearby. The report also noted that there was blood on the top of the ironing board.

The professors question whether the woman would be sleeping with both the television and the iron on. The blood on top of the ironing board indicates she may have been standing when the attack began, they said.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals is considering whether to throw out Cook's conviction and sentence because of questions.

3 men vying to succeed Thatcher as prime minister

LONDON

(AP) — A welfare recipient turned banker, a self-made millionaire and an old Etonian on Friday squared off for battle to succeed Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Heseltine

Hurd

Major

All promised to be less combative than Mrs. Thatcher toward Europe, just as tough toward Iraq and willing to do something about her unpopular local services tax, heralding a five-day campaign that seemed more about a prize than a battle over policy.

"We can only get ourselves out of the mess by rallying everybody, by healing the wounds," said one candidate, Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd.

Hurd and Chancellor of the Exchequer John Major joined the race Friday. They must stop former Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine, whose strong showing in the first round of voting Tuesday provoked Mrs. Thatcher's resignation.

She spent the day in her office at 10 Downing Street "running the country," her son Mark said. Mrs. Thatcher gave no hint which candidate she favored, although it certainly wasn't Heseltine.

Major, 47, left school at 16 and worked his way up from laborer and welfare recipient to banker, and then went into politics. He is regarded as on the right of the party and therefore closest politically to Mrs. Thatcher.

Hurd, 60, was educated at Eton College and Cambridge University.

'Nude' cookies recalled

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A bakery has recalled from stores near elementary schools fortune cookies that contain pictures of women whose bikinis can be scratched off, the head of a children's association said Friday.

Parents demanded the withdrawal of the cookies after their children began collecting pictures of the nude models, said Lin Tse-kuei, head of the Women and Children Protection Association.

The pictures are inserted inside the cookies. The bikinis can be scratched off with a coin.

Pin Fa Bakery said it made 100,000 cookies for a Hong Kong night club but the order was later canceled and it sold them to Taiwan stores. It said about 50,000 cookies were sold, many to children. The remaining cookies were recalled.

come and regarded as a major political blunder of the Thatcher era.

"I do become increasingly convinced that we cannot leave things as they are," Major said.

Heseltine declared that an immediate and fundamental review of the tax "is essential for our survival."

Hurd and Major, who support Mrs. Thatcher's rejection of a single currency for the European Community, each promised — in the closest to open criticism of her so far — to adopt a markedly different tone in Europe and in Cabinet meetings.

"I think that Cabinet government consists of listening, deciding, persuading (voters) in that order," Hurd said. "You listen to views, you take a decision — in our case collectively in Cabinet."

Hurd maintained he'd be the best prime minister for the Persian Gulf crisis.

Mrs. Thatcher has been the most enthusiastic Western supporter of the U.S. troop buildup in the region. Her Cabinet decided Wednesday to send 14,000 more troops to the gulf, bringing the British total to 30,000.

"The crisis is entering a crucial, critical phase ... and will require cool and authoritative handling," Hurd said.

On the poll tax issue, Heseltine has the advantage of having left the Cabinet before it was imposed.

However, he is regarded as something of a maverick who does not fit wholly into the party's left or right, and he has stirred deeper anger among some Thatcher loyalists for bringing her down.

"It's not been a pleasant thing to do," Heseltine said. "But now that it has happened, the mood of unity has overwhelmed the party."

David Robertson, a fellow in politics at Oxford University, said the reluctance by Hurd, Heseltine and Major to adopt markedly different policy platforms reflected the "old American political notion of a balanced ticket."

"All three of the current candidates, rather than advancing serious general ideologies, are doing their damndest to hide them," Robertson said in a BBC radio interview. He predicted the party was returning to pragmatism, "a sort of non-ism," after nearly 12 years of Thatcherism.

Mrs. Thatcher spent part of Friday on the telephone, talking to foreign leaders calling to say goodbye and good luck to the Western world's longest-serving head of government.

Her husband, Denis, and 35-year-old twins, Mark and Carol Thatcher, spent part of the day with her.

"She's doing what she always does on a Friday, running the country," Mark Thatcher, an auto executive who lives in Dallas, told reporters after visiting his mother.

Bookmakers made Major and Heseltine near-equal favorites to win.

A Market and Opinion and Research International poll for the Times of London suggested the Tories, who have lagged in opinion polls for 16 months, would defeat the opposition Labor Party under Heseltine or Major, but lose under Hurd.

Israel to repair leaky church roof

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel said Friday it would repair a leaky roof at the Church of the Nativity, built at the site where tradition says Jesus was born, because feuding Christian sects can't agree on who is responsible for upkeep.

Repairs at the church in the occupied West Bank town of Bethlehem will begin in a few days and should be completed by Christmas, said Shmuel Hamburger, a military government official.

"The roof is in such bad shape that the last time we had rain two weeks ago, it was pouring inside the church," he said.

He said there were gaping holes in the wood-and-tar roof. Last Christmas, buckets for rainwater were set out inside the basilica.

The dispute stems from the intense rivalry between Christian sects over custody of the holy sites.

Rights of worship and maintenance are spelled out in minute detail in a set of rules dating back to the 1850s. However, jurisdiction over the roof of the Church of the Nativity is not specifically mentioned in the rules.

In the past, area authorities — the Ottomans, the British, the Jordanians and finally the Israelis — fixed the roof periodically to prevent squabbles among the sects.

But this year, the Greek Orthodox Church insisted on fixing the roof, saying it traditionally cleaned the roof and therefore should be allowed to do the repairs. The rival Armenian and Roman Catholic churches protested, saying the roof should be fixed by all three groups — or not at all.

The Israelis stepped in several months ago with an offer to do the repairs, but the Armenians and Roman Catholics asked that the work be postponed.

The offer came at a time when the Christian communities in Jerusalem were incensed that the government supported Jewish settlers trying to take over Greek Orthodox Church property near the Church of the Holy Sepulcher where tradition says Jesus was buried.

Hamburger said that since then, the Armenians and Roman Catholics have changed their minds. "Now they want us to repair the roof," he said.

He said he has not contacted Greek Orthodox church officials in the past few months, and didn't know whether they also had a change of heart.

Air force confirms rebels shot down jet

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels shot down a fighter-bomber Friday in eastern El Salvador, military sources said. The armed forces press office said the jet crashed because of mechanical failure.

A soldier at the army's 6th Infantry Brigade in Usulután city said the A-37 Dragonfly was downed near Santa Elena while it was providing air support to government soldiers battling guerrillas.

Air force sources confirmed the plane had been shot down by rebel machinegun fire and the pilot, Lt. Eduardo Escobar Amaya, was killed. They said the other crew member bailed out of the plane and was hospitalized with undisclosed injuries.

The rebels are known to have Soviet-made 12.7-mm machineguns similar to the U.S. Army's M-50s that they used last year to shoot down another fighter-bomber.

Residents of Santa Elena, about 80 miles east of San Salvador in Usulután Province, said the rebels renewed their attacks on military positions in the area Friday.

A communique by the armed forces press office said the plane went down because of mechanical failure while supporting government land forces, and that the pilot was killed and one crewman on board injured. It gave no details. The government said Friday the Farabundo Martí National Liberation Front (FMLN) rebels had agreed to end an offensive they launched last Tuesday that killed at least 91 people.

The government claimed over radio and TV that the FMLN, as the guerrilla organization is also known, agreed to stop operations in response to appeals by Costa Rica and U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar.

Salvador Samayoa, a rebel official, told the Salvadoran news agency SALPRESS in Mexico City the guerrillas had been in contact with the Costa Rican government and the U.N. secretary-general's office, but had not made "specific plans."

"The claim of the Salvadoran government is false," Samayoa said.

He said the rebels would not have a "concrete response" unless Perez de Cuellar made a specific cease-fire proposal.

The United Nations is mediating peace talks between the right-wing government of President Alfredo Cristiani and the rebels.

According to government officials, the offensive has killed 39 soldiers, 44 rebels and eight civilians and wounded about 300 people.

The guerrillas claimed over their radio station that the army suffered 450 casualties, without saying how many were deaths.

Sub pulls trawler under water

LONDON (AP) — Four fishermen were missing and feared dead Friday after a British nuclear submarine snagged their trawler's fishing gear and dragged the boat under water.

"The search for the crew continues," Defense Minister Archie Hamilton told the House of Commons. "But, sadly, it now seems extremely unlikely that they will be found alive."

Hamilton said the Royal Navy and the Transportation Department will investigate how the submarine HMS Trenchant caught the boat's fishing gear and pulled it under Thursday in the Firth of Clyde off southwestern Scotland.

A naval vessel's underwater video equipment discovered the wreckage of the 52-foot trawler Antares early Friday 390 feet below the surface, said coast guard spokesman Roger Clarke.

Fishermen and friends of the missing men said submarine activities in the Firth of Clyde should be suspended.

"Quite a few people are getting angrier and angrier," said the Rev. Alastair Dunlop, a minister in Carradale, the trawler's home port. "Everybody finds it hard to believe that a modern submarine does not know there's a fishing boat above it."

Hamilton said the Royal Navy had operated submarines in the Firth of Clyde area for more than 80 years "with an excellent safety record."

Toy store awards promote peace, 'y'all'

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas organization has honored 13 area toy stores it says promote education and imagination rather than violence.

The Dallas Peace Center, with help from the Greater Dallas Community of Churches, on Tuesday gave the stores the first TAFFY awards. That's TAFFY as in "Toys Are For Fun, Y'all."

"Toys are tools of childhood," explained Linda Jinks, a Peace Center volunteer and mother of two.

"Every time I purchase a toy, I am communicating my adult values to my children. I don't want a child conditioned to accept that wars and fighting and killing are OK," she told The Dallas Morning News.

"I do want my children to learn to play together in an atmosphere of thoughtfulness and cooperation toward others," she said.

The idea for the TAFFYs came during a Peace Center meeting, said volunteer Norm Smith. The group recruited the church organization's Peacemaking Committee and called all stores listed in the "Toys, Retail" section of the Yellow Pages.

Stores were cut if they had even one violent toy.

"There were some stores that came really close," said center director Susan Lee, "but they would have some little rubber Dick Tracy with a gun somewhere, so we had to disqualify them."

Smith said the goal is not just to eliminate war toys.

"We're talking about any playthings that have to do with settling conflicts with violence," Smith said. "Violent toys teach children to be adversarial. The adversarial approach seems to have permeated our education, our playtime, our work and even our relationships with our loved ones and families."

The group's criteria did not include violent sports or games such as chess, Smith said. He said next year, the search will begin earlier and be more comprehensive.

Ranger hospital closes after roll back

FORT WORTH (AP) — Employees at Ranger General Hospital awoke Thanksgiving to the realization they were out of work.

The hospital closed its doors at 11:59 p.m. Wednesday, four days after voters successfully rolled taxes back from 75 cents to 23 cents per $100 valuation.

About 50 employees were affected by the closing, said Hospital Board President Jerry Edwards.

Edwards had predicted the hospital would be forced to close if the rollback effort was successful. But the speed of the shutdown surprised many Ranger residents.

Even with the hospital closed, property owners in the district will continue to pay taxes to pay off the debts of about $1.5 million. Edwards has estimated it could take up to eight years to pay off creditors.

Ranger is about 75 miles west of Fort Worth.

President of NCNB Texas dies from brain cancer

DALLAS (AP) — Francis "Buddy" Kemp, president of NCNB Corp., died of brain cancer early Friday at his home. He was 50.

Kemp had been chairman of NCNB Texas since July 1988 when the Charlotte, N.C., banking company expanded into the state. He had suffered from brain cancer for more than a year.

"We feel his absence intensely," said NCNB Chairman Hugh McColl in a statement. "We have lost someone who is very special to us."

Kemp, a native of Reidsville, N.C., joined NCNB in 1967 as a credit analyst and quickly advanced in the company. By 1972 he was a senior vice president and National Division executive.

Kemp was promoted to executive vice president in 1975, took over the North Carolina Banking Group in 1977 and became president of NCNB Corp. in October 1985.

He relinquished his day-to-day responsibilities at NCNB in November 1989 after undergoing brain surgery.

Kemp is survived by his wife, Ginger, their children, Frank and Elizabeth, and by a brother, David Kemp of Reidsville.

The funeral service will be at Myers Park Presbyterian Church in Charlotte at 11 a.m. on Monday. A memorial service will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Dallas at 10 a.m. on Monday.

Burial will be in Reidlawn Cemetery in Reidsville at 3 p.m. on Monday.

Dwarf woman wins fight to adopt dwarf child

HOUSTON (AP) — Brenda Covington, who will be adopting a dwarf 2-year-old in the next few weeks, understands the problems and prejudices her daughter is going to face. Ms. Covington also is a dwarf.

"I've just always had a strong need to adopt a dwarf child," the soon-to-be single mother said. "And I think there are advantages to being a dwarf parent."

Despite the 30-year-old's willingness to adopt a child who is a dwarf, getting one turned out to be more difficult than expected. Her efforts began in June 1989.

Ms. Covington had just completed all the paper work and training required of adoptive parents by Harris County Children's Protective Services when she learned about the girl, named Elizabeth, through Little People of America. The national organization provides information and support to dwarfs.

"Many dwarf children are put up for adoption at birth," Ms. Covington said. "Their names are circulated through LPA and are put on a list for dwarfs to adopt."

Elizabeth, she learned, was living in Los Angeles. Although diagnosed with a rare form of dwarfism, Elizabeth's symptoms were mild.

"She's more like a midget in that her body has normal proportions. But her face looks more like a dwarf," she said. "She'll grow to be about 4 feet 10 inches tall."

Ms. Covington sent all the paper work to Elizabeth's case worker, but questions were raised about a single woman's ability to take care of the girl, who had been hospitalized several times because of viral infections.

"By the end of 1989, after contacting support groups and checking into home care for Elizabeth, I had convinced the baby's case worker I could handle her," she said.

'Horns favored today

■ Baylor and Texas sport almost identical lineups as last season when the Bears walloped the Longhorns 50-7, but oddsmakers' hunches go with UT this year.

Associated Press

WACO — No. 6-ranked Texas is favored by eight points to defeat unranked Baylor on a field where the Longhorns have had very little success in recent years.

Texas has lost seven of its last eight games at Waco.

"Can anybody forget what happened to us last year? We need a full focus on Baylor," said Texas coach David McWilliams.

Although Texas gets the edge, the two teams have basically the same players as last year, when Baylor achieved its first victory at Austin in 38 years with a 50-7 blowout.

A victory by Texas, 8-1, 6-0, would clinch the Southwest Conference football championship for the Longhorns, after two straight losing seasons, and a host spot in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

A victory for Baylor, 6-3-1, would be a springboard to the Cotton Bowl for the Bears if Texas also should lose to Texas A&M on Dec. 1.

■ RADIO: KCRS (550 AM), 1 p.m., 12:20 p.m. pregame.
■ Arkansas, SMU meet in SWC's Futility Bowl/2D

Texas last played in the Cotton Bowl in 1984, Baylor in 1980. This year's opponent is second-ranked Miami.

Kickoff Saturday is at 1 p.m., CST, and a sellout of 45,500 is expected.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff said, "We'll have to play flawless. We have to play a game with no turnovers. We're going to have to play over our heads on offense and defense."

Baylor has played two games without turnovers this season in beating Southern Methodist 52-17 and Arkansas 34-3.

"The key is to stop Texas' momentum," middle linebacker Lee Bruderer said. "Once the momentum swings their way, they can score two or three quick touchdowns."

Texas ranks No. 19 in total offense, averaging 201 yards a game rushing and 222 passing. The Longhorns also have averaged 33.8 points, which is 16th highest nationally.

Baylor has rushed for 2,337 yards this season, the best since 1980, with a tailback trio averaging 5 yards a carry. The Bears ranked No. 15 in rushing.

The Longhorn defense is No. 18 nationally, yielding 302 yards a game, and Baylor is two places back, giving up 304 yards.

Red Devils go to air in 24-13 area win

By Bill Grimes

Staff Writer

KERMIT — The Rankin Red Devils used touchdown passes from Kirk Kennedy to Joey Varela on their first two possessions of the second half to secure a 24-13 win over Plains in Class A area football playoff action here Friday.

The Red Devils, 8-2, will next face highly regarded Farwell in third-round action Friday in either Seminole or Andrews. The Red Devils did not take the lead until the final seconds of the first half, but coach Troy Kennedy's offense put together drives 68 and 43 yards to open the second half.

Rankin so dominated the third quarter, that Plains was only allowed six offensive plays.

Rankin included short passes in its attack after Plains bottled up the Red Devils' option game in the first half.

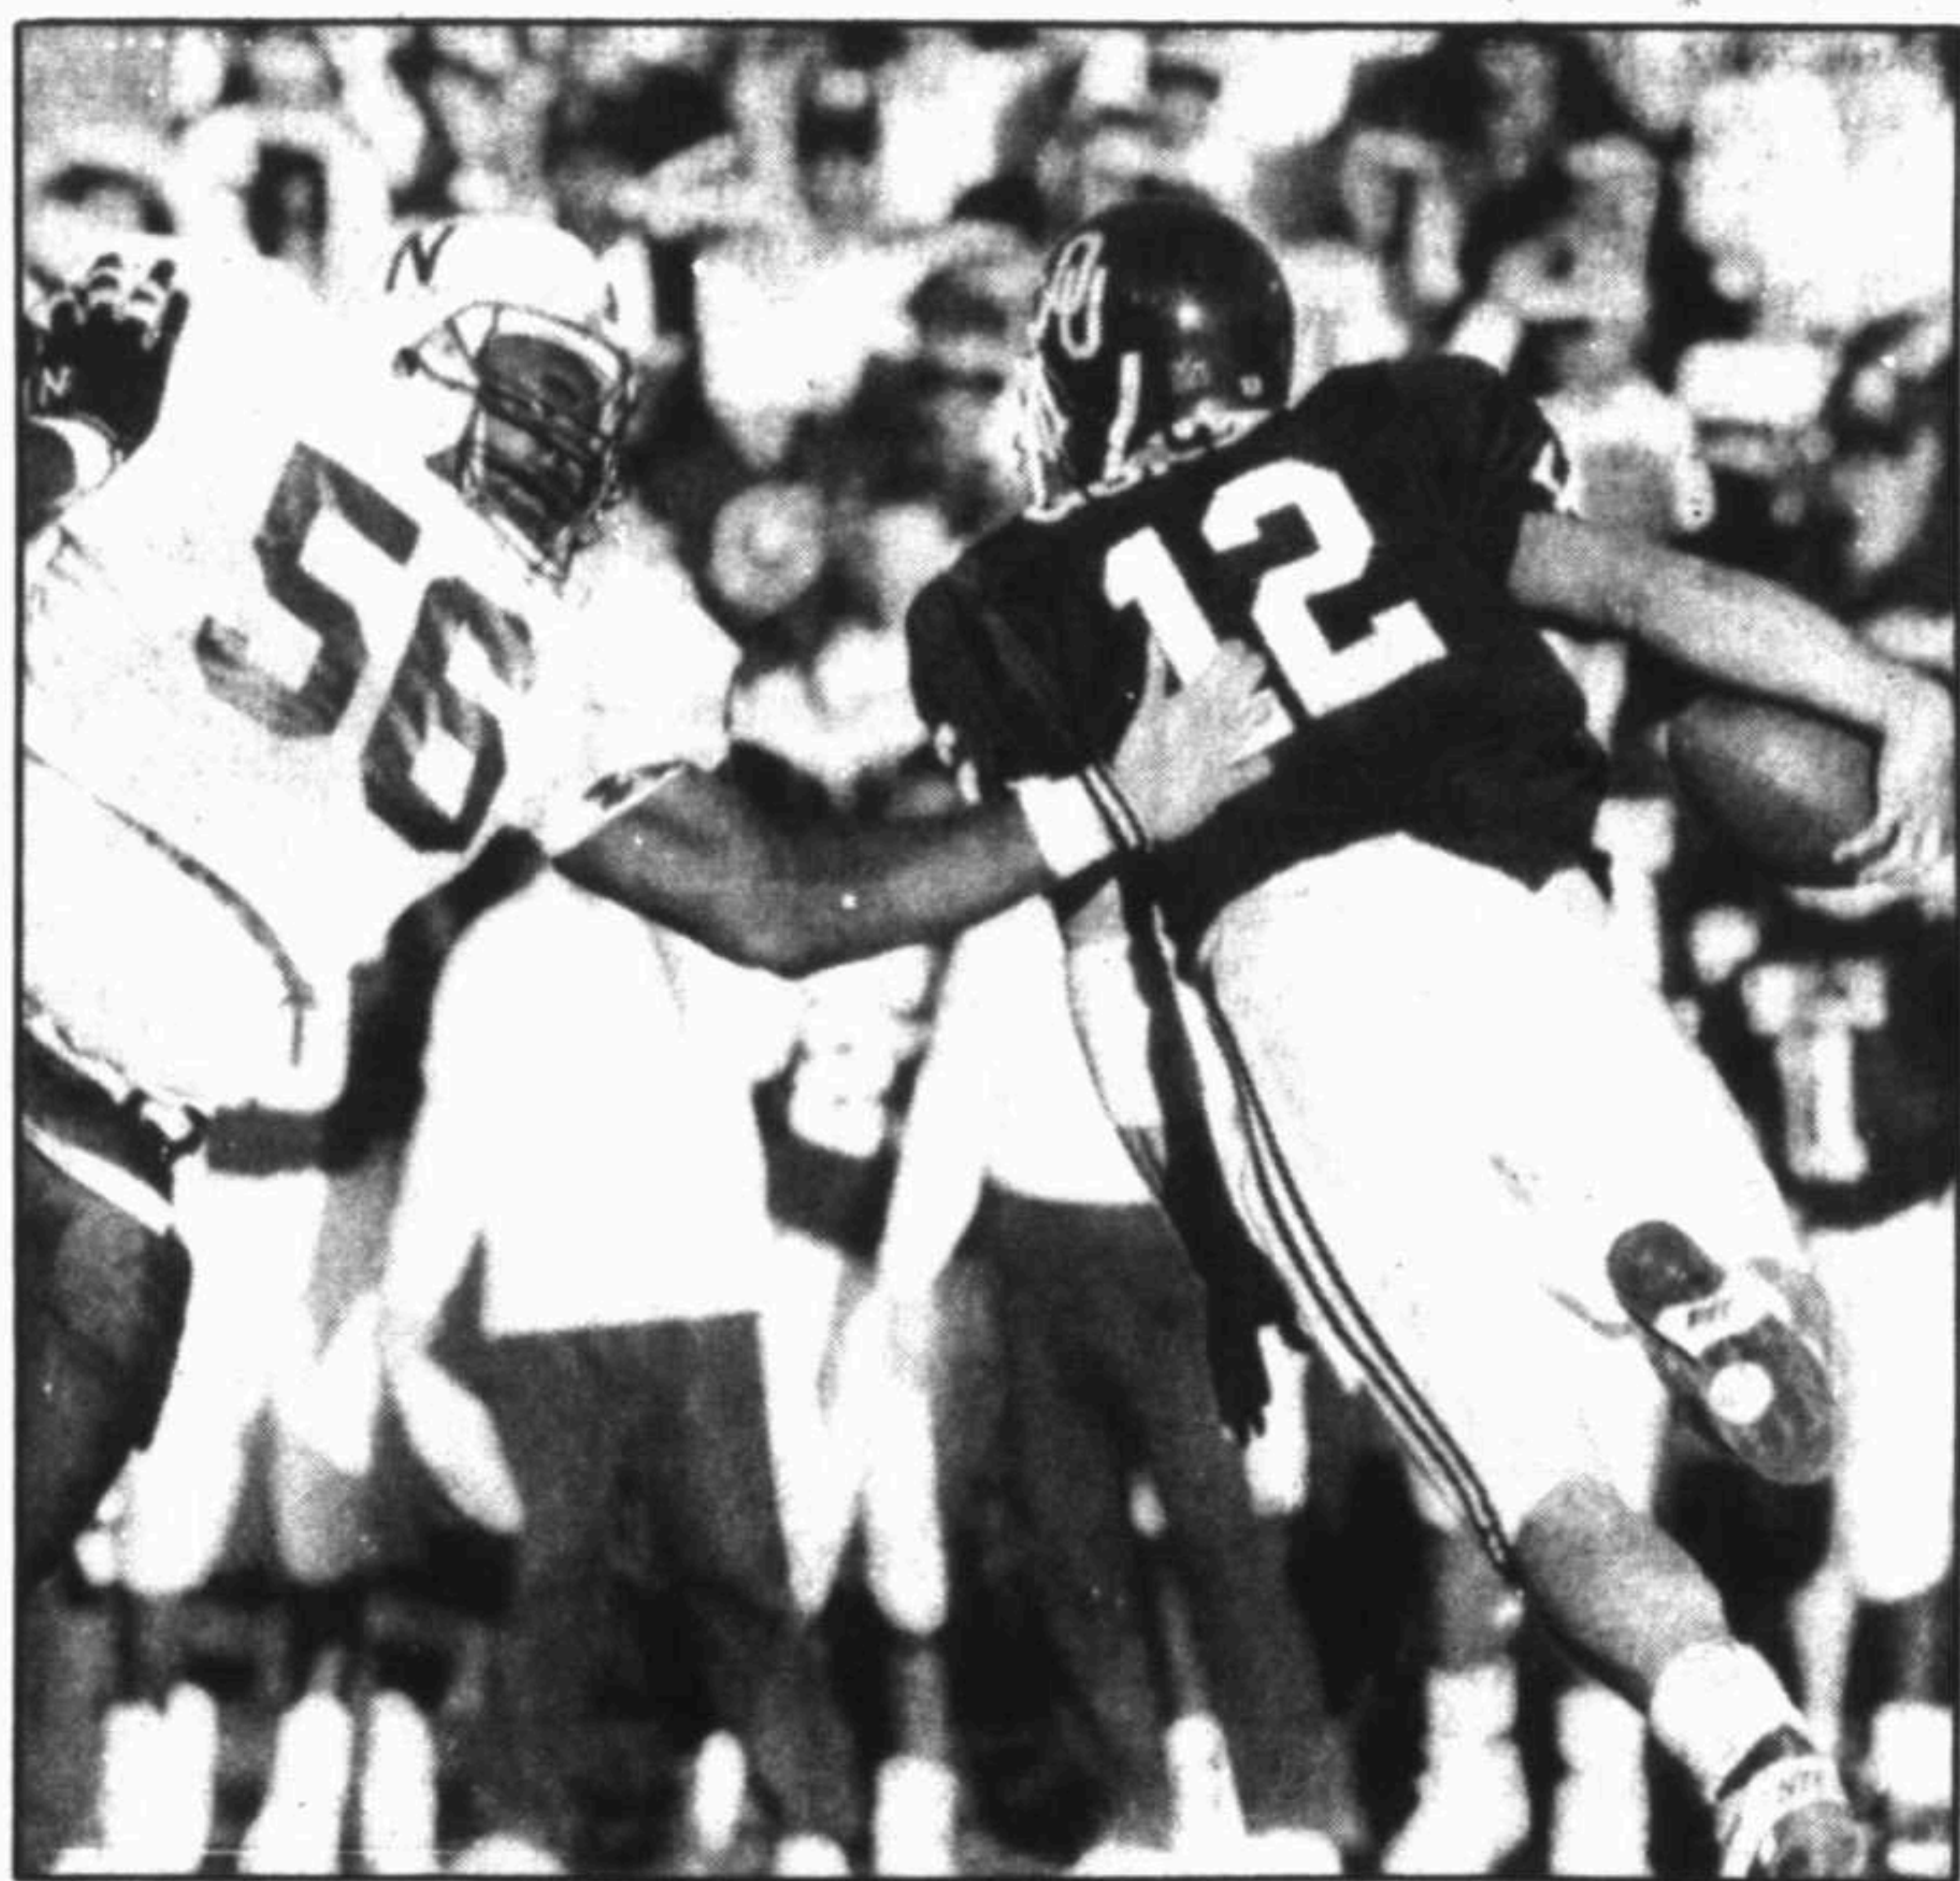

"We wanted to force their linebackers to play honest," Coach Kennedy said. The Red Devils converted two fourth-

Some good, bad playoff news for Lee

Tim and Travis McGraw, the brother duo that keeps all kinds of statistics on District 4-5A teams, have both good and bad news for the Midland Lee Rebels on this Thanksgiving playoff weekend against El Paso Andress.

The way these two divided things up this week Tim seems to have the positive information while Travis has the bad news.

First, the good news. District 4-5A teams own a 22-1-1 record against El Paso in playoff games since 1961. El Paso Coronado produced a 14-14 tie against Odessa Permian in 1975 bi-district action, but of Mojo advanced on penetrations. The only El Paso victory came in 1964 when Ysleta beat Odessa High by a 10-7 bi-district margin.

Lee owns a perfect 5-0 mark against El Paso in the playoffs and an awesome 20-3 record overall against the Border City squads. Lee's 10-3 loss to Andress last September marked the first time Lee had lost to an El Paso team since 1966 when the Rebels fell to El Paso Austin, 9-7.

Prior to Lee's fall to Andress this year, Midland High held the distinction of being the last 4-5A team to fall to an El Paso squad, 21-14 to Eastwood in 1978.

But Travis McGraw has come up with a couple of figures that will leave you thinking, just in case all the above news seems to be too good to be true.

For instance, Travis notes that since 1986 when Earl Miller took over the reigns of the Rebels, his teams have produced a 40-7 (.851) record against all teams when playing at home or traveling 150 miles or less. In games when Lee has traveled more than 150 miles, as is the case of Andress today, Lee owns a 3-4 (.429) record under Miller.

Lee's 150-mile plus losses include Arlington High (27-7, 1987), Killeen (21-7, 1988), Amarillo Palo Duro (29-8, 1988), and Andress this year. The victories are Eastwood (20-0, 1986), Andress (27-7, 1988), and Del Rio (38-0, 1989).

However, Lee offensive coordinator Van Tom Whatley informs us that you can make that over 150-mile record and even 44 after Saturday. "It's going to happen," says Whatley.

Lee is also trying to reverse that 10-3 loss to Andress and there is another interesting statistic concerning reversals. The meeting with Andress will mark the fifth time that Lee has met the same opponent twice in the same year. There has never been a reversal from regular season play to playoff action.

The news here isn't too bad, though. Lee has swept three of the four two-game meetings, losing twice to Permian in 1984. But Lee swept Permian in 1983, Eastwood in 1987 and Andress in 1989. Lee almost pulled the reversal against Permian in 1984, losing 15-14 in the state quarterfinals.

Is a reversal possible this year? Here's how it will come out today:

Midland Lee 28, El Paso Andress 7: Pete Henderson says this score is a lock. For once, I don't have to take the blame for being wrong. Call Pete if you have a gripe about this one.

One thing is for sure: No other District 4-5A team has a chance to lose to an El Paso team this week. Odessa High and San Angelo are gone. Permian is probably getting a snicker or two out of that fact.

Still, OHS deserves better. Using first downs as a tie-breaker is insane. The tie-breaker should go from penetrations to total yardage. First downs give no indication of a team's strength against the other. Big play teams are hurt by this rule. If you go 70 yards on one play, you get one first down while another team can cover the same yardage with five or six first downs. Lee once beat a team by more than 50 points and actually had less first downs. This is a rule that needs to be changed by the UIL.

Bulldogs and Rebels win Tall City openers

By Joe Wyatt

Staff Writer

Both the Midland Lee and Midland High boys' basketball teams were among first round winners Friday in the Tall City Tournament at Chaparral Center, where routs were the norm and foul whistles blared 100 times in the first two encounters.

Lee's 88-60 win over Pecos was the day's most lopsided affair, but MHS was not far behind with an 83-61 victory over Big Spring.

Defending TCT champion Amarillo High scored a 20-point win over Odessa Permian for the day's closest battle, which included a total of 48 fouls. And Plainview set the high-scoring tone in the tourney opener, 82-59 over Odessa High, as a total of 52 fouls were called in the game.

Second round action gets underway today at 9 a.m. in the winner's bracket when MHS takes on Plainview at Chap Center. Midland Lee entertains Amarillo High at 11 a.m. Losers in those two games play for third place at 6 p.m., and the title game is slated for 8 p.m.

Elsewhere, it's Odessa High versus Big Spring, at 9 a.m. at the Midland High gymnasium. And Permian meets Pecos at 8 a.m. at the Lee gym. The consolation championship will be played at 4 p.m. at Chap Center, while the third-place consolation is set for 1 p.m. at the MHS site.

Sooners sizzle, Huskers fizzle

Associated Press

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma made big plays all over the place Friday in handing 10th-ranked Nebraska another big disappointment.

The Sooners had 396 yards of offense and the defense came up with seven turnovers in a 45-10 victory. It improved their record to 8-3 overall and lifted them into a tie with Nebraska for second place in the Big Eight at 5-2.

The victory ended a two-year losing streak against the Cornhuskers and also helped assuage the disappointment of last-minute losses to Texas and Iowa State, games the Sooners let get away.

Oklahoma coach Gary Gibbs said it was his team's biggest win in his two years as head coach.

"I'd have to say it is for our football team when you consider the quality of the opponent," Gibbs said. "Where Nebraska's ranked, the way we played, it was a great way to end the 1990 season."

The Sooners cannot go to a bowl because of NCAA sanctions. Nebraska, meanwhile, goes into the Citrus Bowl against Georgia Tech with a 9-2 record.

The first loss came at home against Colorado, which scored 27 fourth-quarter points to win. Now this.

The Cornhuskers were held to 118 rushing yards and 229 overall, both season lows. They entered the game averaging 362 rushing yards and 465 total yards.

Nebraska also had to play most of the game without quarterback Mickey Joseph, who was injured early in the first quarter and did not return.

"I knew it would be tough, and I thought it would be close," Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said. "I'm embarrassed, for myself and for our football team. I thought we had a better football team than that."

Oklahoma took control with a three-touchdown second quarter. Freshman Cale Gundy threw for one of the scores and snuck in for another, then set up the third with a long pass. After the Cornhuskers made it 21-10 with a touchdown early in the third quarter, Oklahoma took control with two straight touchdowns by fullback Mike McKinley. That erased any doubt about the outcome.

Osborne vs. Big 8

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne has compiled a 104-22-1 record against Big Eight opponents. Listed below is his record against each conference team and his game-by-game breakdown against Oklahoma:

McKinley, who had 87 yards on eight carries, scored on a 7-yard run four plays after an interception gave Oklahoma the ball at the Cornhuskers' 20. Then he scored late in the third quarter on a 48-yard run, his longest of the season.

"That was a great feeling, running down the sidelines," said McKinley, who stiff-armed safety Tyrone Byrd into the turf along the way. "I haven't had that feeling since high school."

Gundy, a true freshman, completed only five passes but they went for 119 yards. He hit tight end Adrian Cooper on a 36-yard touchdown early in the second quarter that gave the Sooners the lead for good, 7-3. Cooper made a nice over-the-head catch while tightly guarded by Byrd, then added another nifty catch later in the quarter.

An interception gave Oklahoma the ball at the Nebraska 46. After a 3-yard loss on first down, Gundy threw deep to Cooper, who outjumped two defenders and came down with the ball at the 9-yard line.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — The No. 2 rusher in the country had to carry the ball 24 times to get 89 yards against Arkansas. That's a plus. And Arkansas did not turn the ball over once, another plus.

That was last Saturday in a 20-16 loss to Texas A&M.

The question is how much those things will help when Arkansas takes on Southern Methodist University on Saturday in Dallas.

"We get matchup problems when we play against one-back sets like we're fixing to play at SMU," Arkansas coach Jack Crowe said. "Those are the things that have caused us to be disoriented. But we seemed to have learned from our experience. We don't look uncomfortable."

Early on, Texas Christian University and Texas Tech bombed Arkansas' secondary. Houston bombs almost everybody and Baylor overcame an early lead with a play-action pass.

For the year, SMU has completed 243 of 431 passes. On the other hand, A&M has thrown only 177 times.

The defense against the pass is one of the big reasons Arkansas is 0-7 in the Southwest Conference for the first time in school history. SMU is in the same boat.

"Physically, we're capable of winning," he said. "It's a matter of getting in the right frame of mind to get ready to play. I expect us to win."

Crowe said that early in the season, the large number of freshmen and sophomores made it difficult to achieve the right chemistry.

"I think we've finally taken a step up," he said after the loss to the Aggies. He said he there was much more interaction between the young players and the veterans.

"Looking out there it wasn't always what you wanted, but there was some consistency on the team," he said. "You're talking about a four-year starter at quarterback and a guy who was a sixth-string, walk-on at a very key position behind him."

Crowe was referring to quarterback Quinn Grovey and fullback Chris Kirby.

Crowe said he thought the Razorbacks went through a three-game stretch where the winning feeling was missing. It was to the point, he said, that when "something bad happened to us, we couldn't fight back from it. I think we are past that."

On Tuesday, Forrest Gregg told SMU that he would step down as football coach and continue as athletic director. That announcement, Crowe said, "assures us that we'll be playing an SMU team on an emotional peak for the ball game."

Normally, late in the season, emotion is always a question mark, he said.

SMU quarterback Mike Romo promised that the Mustangs would be on an emotional high. "When he makes his final pre game speech, I think we're all going to look around at each other and say, 'Hey, this is it, this is his last game with us,'" Romo said.

Arkansas is favored by almost two touchdowns; kickoff is 1 p.m.

'Playoff' re-enters Big D's vocabulary

IRVING — The Dallas Cowboys, enjoying their winningest season since 1987, have improved to the point where they are a longshot threat to make the NFC playoffs as a wildcard.

"We've seen them improve by leaps and bounds," said Washington coach Joe Gibbs after the Cowboys earned a 27-17 Thanksgiving Day victory over the Redskins. "Their quarterback (Troy Aikman) is playing good and their running back (Emmitt Smith) is great."

"Aikman has had his troubles (including two interceptions against Washington), but I think he is going to be a great player," Gibbs said. "And Emmitt Smith is darn good and he sure made us miss a lot of tackles."

Smith became the first Dallas running back since Herschel Walker in 1988 to rush for as many as 132 yards in a game. He scored two touchdowns.

"I've been saying just give me the ball," Smith said. "I got it enough today."

Smith, a rookie from Florida, rushed 23 times as he outgained the Redskins by 96 yards. The 36 yards was Washington's worst rushing day of the year.

Dallas is 5-7 and Washington 6-5. Philadelphia at 6-6 and Green Bay at 5-5 have better wild card marks than the Cowboys. Three wild card teams will make the playoffs this January.

Aikman tried to sound a note of caution, saying "I still believe at this point it's too early for us to be worrying about the playoffs."

Dallas has won back-to-back games for the first time since 1987.

"I've been here three years and this is the victory of all victories," said Michael Irvin, who caught a 12-yard scoring pass from Aikman.

"There's no question our confidence level is way up now," Smith said.

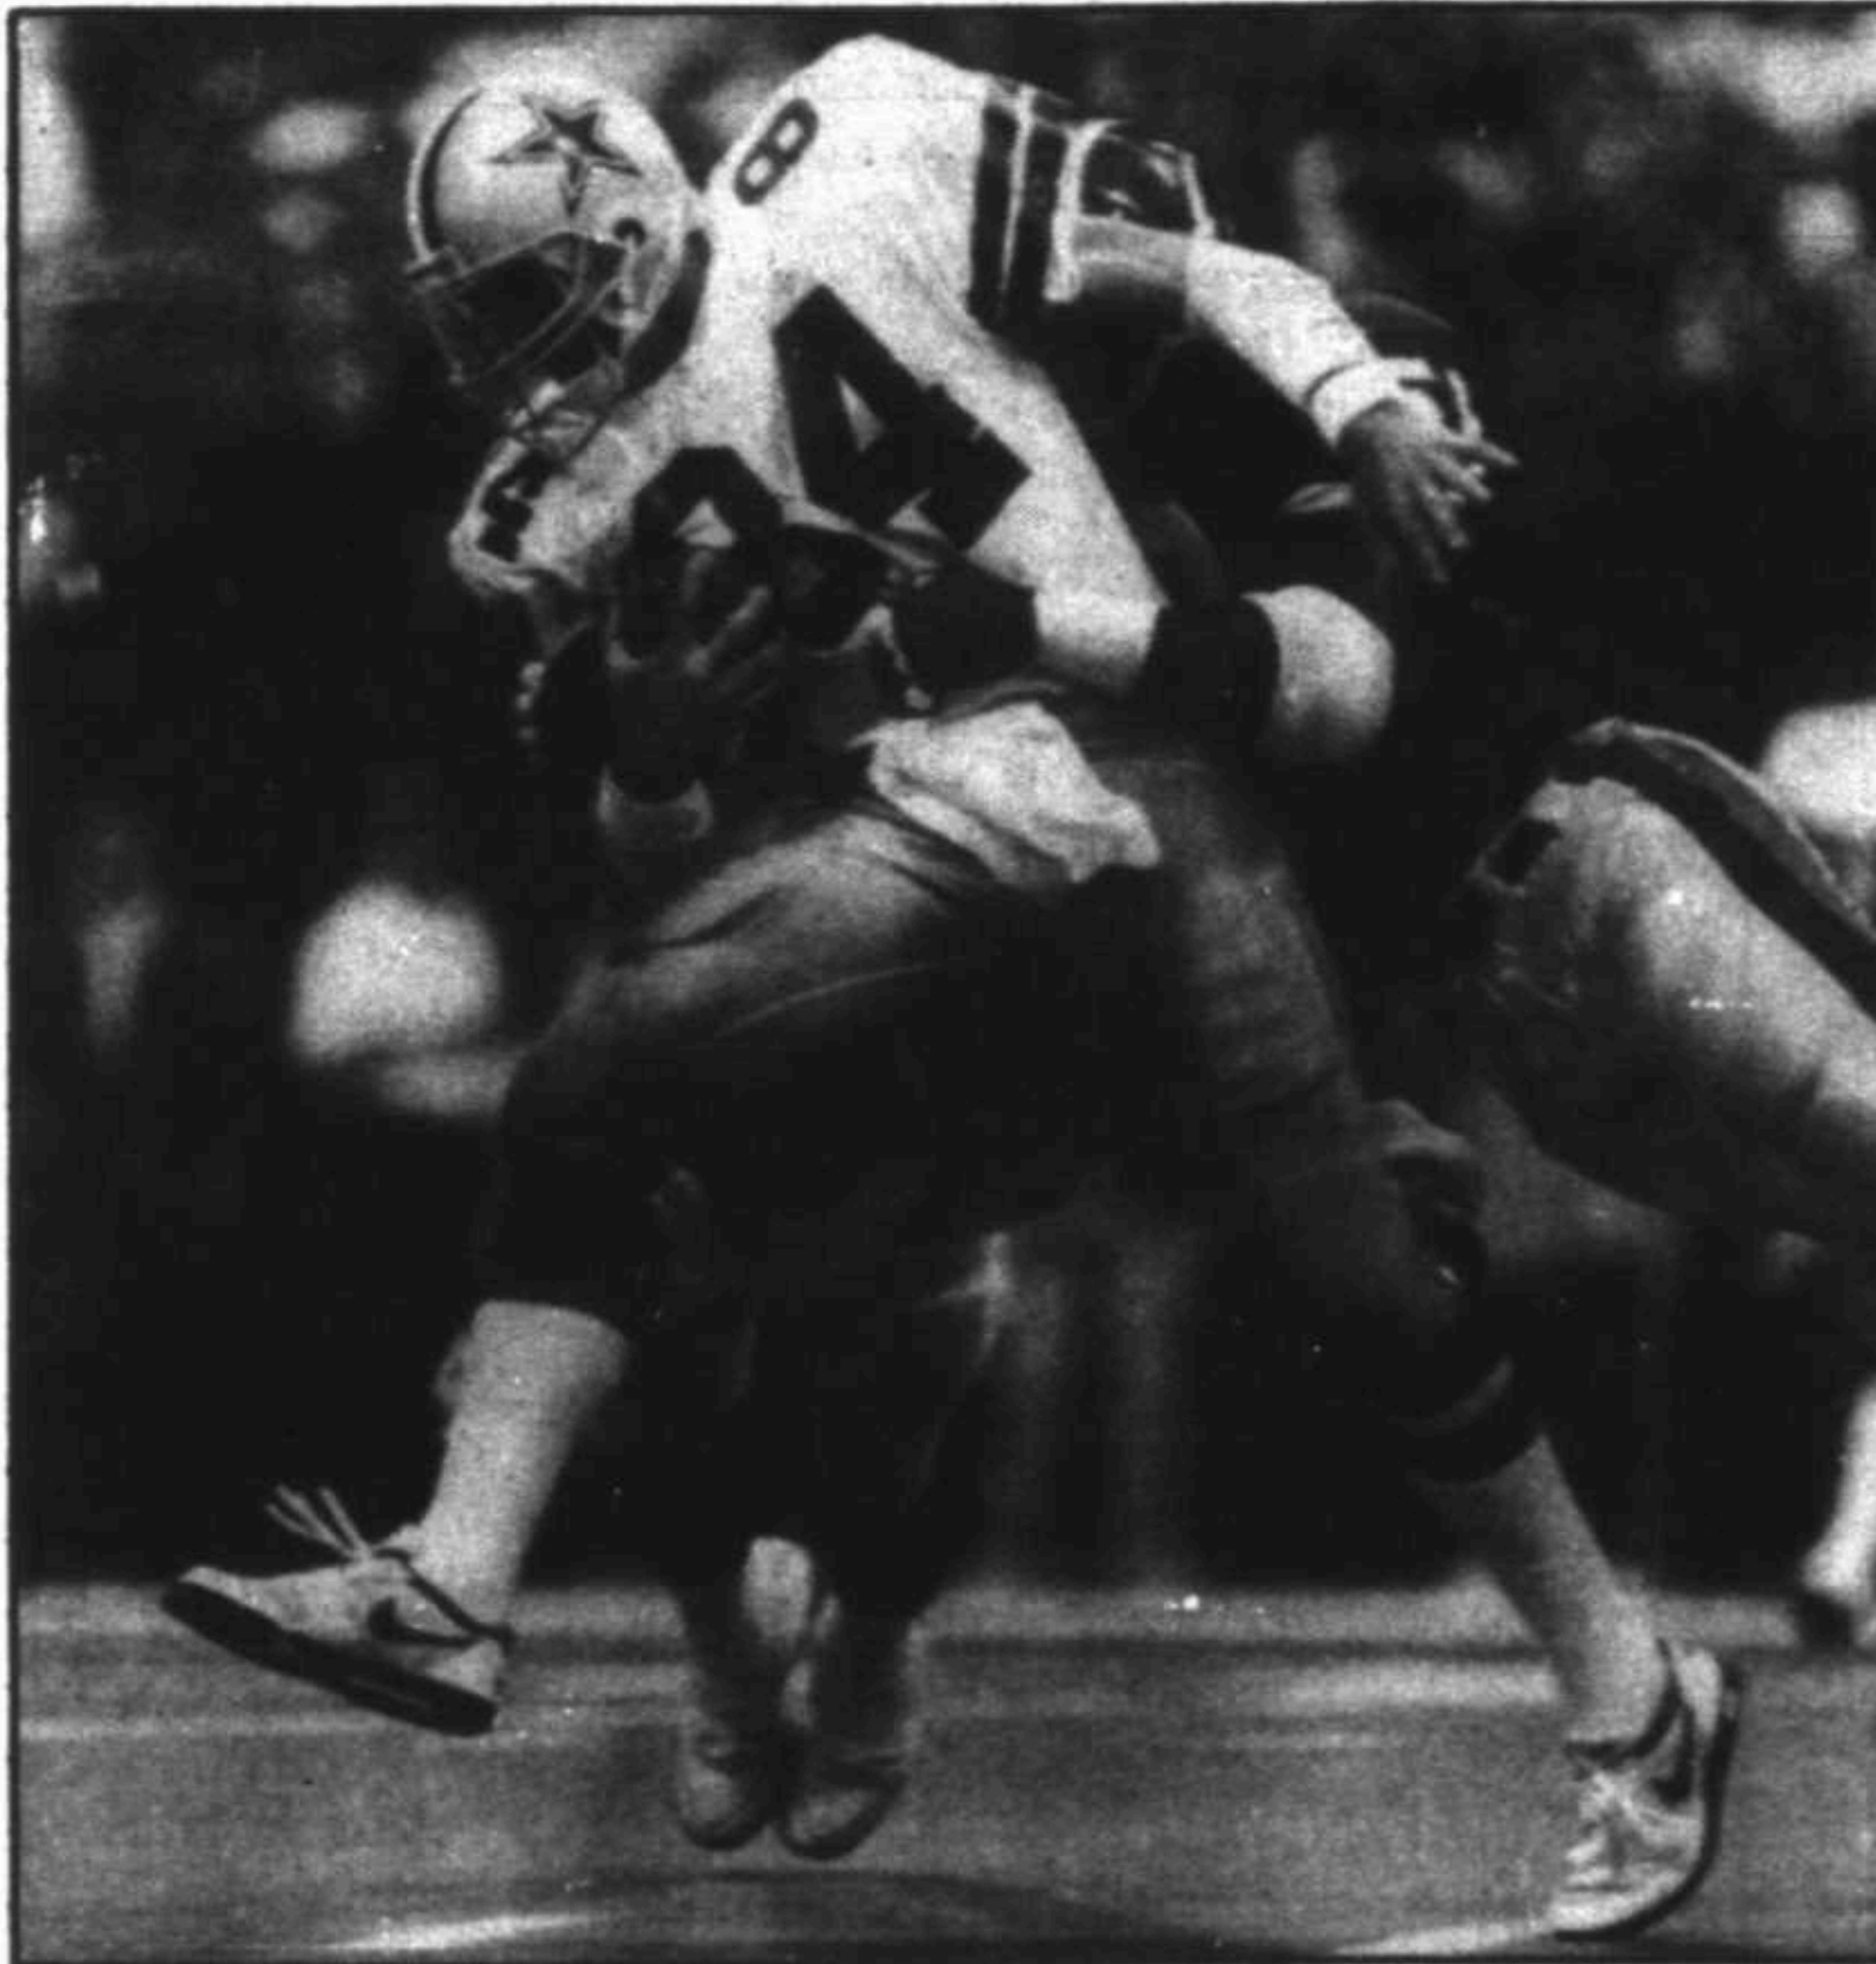

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson wasn't letting up.

He ordered conditioning drills Friday before he lets the team go for the weekend.

The Cowboys host New Orleans on Dec. 2. Dallas is 16-6 on games after Thanksgiving.

"We've still got some tough times ahead, but I'm extremely proud of this team," Johnson said. "We went through difficult times and this feels good. We beat a very good football team. I told this team if they kept working and believed in what we were doing, then good things would happen."

Defensive end Daniel Stubbs said "the last time we were on na-

Mookie ends Nets' frustration

Mookie Blaylock's baseline jumper with less than one second remaining gave New Jersey a 116-114 win over the Phoenix Suns Friday night, ending the Nets' NBA-record 34-game losing streak on the road.

Blaylock, formerly of Midland College, finished with a season-high 26 points, while Reggie Theus added 24. Chris Morris had 19 and Derrick Coleman 17 for the Nets, whose last road victory was Dec. 19, 1989, against Miami.

Phoenix wasted Tom Chambers' season-high 39 points. Kevin Johnson added 21.

The Suns, trailing 41-26 at one stage of the first half and 85-69 with four minutes remaining in the third quarter, closed to 91-86 entering the fourth period. They took a 97-96 lead on Jeff Hornacek's driving layup with 8:25 to play.

Johnson's two free throws with 10 seconds left forged a 114-114 tie before Blaylock took an inbound pass, drove the length of the court and swished his jumper from the right baseline with .3 seconds left.

Sam Bowie blocked an attempted inbound pass by Phoenix's Dan Majerle at the buzzer.

The Nets, who had been 0-6 on the road this season, broke the Baltimore Bullets' 36-year-old NBA record of 33 straight road losses with a 99-90 loss Wednesday night at the Los Angeles Clippers.

Blaylock and Theus had 11 points apiece in the first half as New Jersey led 26-22 after the opening period and 58-54 at halftime.

Chambers, whose previous season-high was 38 points, had 22 at the half.

Spurs 107, Mavs 104

Paul Pressey's driving layup with 13 seconds to play gave San Antonio its first lead of the fourth quarter, and the Spurs went on to a 107-104 victory over the Dallas Mavericks.

NBA

After Pressey's shot, Terry Cummings' two free throws with 4.2 seconds left iced the victory. Cummings had grabbed Derek Harper's 3-point shot that fell far short with five seconds left and was fouled.

Herb Williams missed a 3-pointer from the left corner as time expired.

David Robinson scored 32 points and Rod Strickland added 25 to lead the Spurs.

Rolando Blackman scored 11 consecutive Mavericks points down the stretch. His three-point play with 47 seconds left gave Dallas a 104-101 lead.

Jazz 97, Sonics 96
Karl Malone scored 30 points and the Utah Jazz held on over the last two minutes to beat the Seattle SuperSonics.

Utah, which led the last eight minutes of play, had a 97-91 advantage after Jeff Malone's basket with 1:55 left.

Nate McMillan hit two free throws and Sedale Threatt made a 3-point basket with 1:27 left to pull the Sonics to within one point.

Seattle had two chances to go ahead in the last seven seconds, but Xavier McDaniel missed a 15-foot jumper and Derrick McKey failed to convert a midcourt alley-oop pass as time expired.

76ers 111, Cavaliers 105

Charles Barkley connected on 15 of 19 shots, scored 36 points and made two key baskets in the last minute to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 111-105 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers on Friday night.

Cleveland took a 102-100 lead on a jumper by Craig Ehlo with 2 minutes to play. But the 76ers scored seven straight points, capped by Barkley's steal and layup with 40 seconds remaining. After Larry Nance made a jumper, Barkley drove for another basket to put the game out of reach.

Hersey Hawkins had 19 points and Rickey Green 14 for Philadelphia. Larry Nance scored 31 points and Mark Price 20 for Cleveland.

Philadelphia led by as many as 12 points in the second quarter, but Cleveland rallied behind Ehlo to tie the score at 48 on two free throws by Price with 3:11 left in half.

The Cavaliers took their first lead, 65-63, on a driving layup by Gerald Paddio 4 minutes into the third period. Neither team had more than a 5-point advantage from that point until Hawkins ended the game with two free throws.

Pistons 97, Bullets 88

Mark Aguirre scored 20 points and Joe Dumars 19 as the Detroit Pistons defeated the Washington Bullets for their sixth straight victory.

Isiah Thomas had 18 points and James Edwards added 14 for Detroit. Tom Hammonds led Washington with 18 points. The Pistons held NBA scoring leader Bernard King, who came into the game with a 31.9 average, to 11 points on 5-for-16 shooting.

Pacers 112, Rockets 111

Reggie Miller hit two free throws with 3.9 seconds remaining, giving the Indiana Pacers a victory over the Houston Rockets.

Miller led all scorers with 35 points, followed by Chuck Person with 33, including Indiana's first 10 points of the game. Vern Fleming added 14 and Detlef Schrempf 13 for Indiana.

Houston's Akeem Olajuwon had 29 points, while Otis Thorpe scored 19, Vernon Maxwell 18 and Buck Johnson 15.

Bulls 105, Clippers 97

John Paxson scored 20 of his 26 points in the first half as the Chicago Bulls beat the Los Angeles Clippers despite a season-low 14 points by four-time NBA scoring champion Michael Jordan.

Paxson, who came within a point of his career high, hit 12 of 16 shots against the Clippers before leaving the one-sided contest early in the fourth quarter. Jordan played 31 minutes and attempted just 12 shots, going to the bench with nine minutes left. Jordan also had 14 points on Nov. 15 at Golden State in the second game of the Bulls' current seven-game road trip.

Heat 116, Hornets 100

Kevin Edwards scored eight consecutive points to unlock a tie game and begin a decisive 140 fourth-quarter run, leading the Miami Heat over the Charlotte Hornets.

Edwards finished with a game-high 34 points, tying his career-high, as the Heat broke a four-game losing streak. Miami held Charlotte scoreless for 5:51 of the final period.

The Hornets opened the fourth quarter with five consecutive points to tie the game 82-82.

Celtics 115, Kings 105

Rookie Dee Brown scored a season-high 14 points and sparked the Boston Celtics with his pesky defense in a victory over the Sacramento Kings.

It was the Kings' 12th straight loss at Boston Garden, a string stretching back to 1979. Sacramento was led by Wayman Tisdale with 28 points and rookie Travis Mays with 24.

The Kings controlled the game early. But the Celtics tightened defensively and took command midway through the second period.

Richardson, Bologna make amends

ROME (AP) — Micheal Ray Richardson is heading back to the United States next week, but it's not to rejoin the NBA. Richardson has made peace with his Italian club, Knorr Bologna, and is no longer threatening to defect to the Philadelphia 76ers. The change of heart came Friday after Knorr promised to give Richardson a special bonus at the end of the season.

"I'm going to stay," said the 35-year-old guard. "Everything is OK now. I'm happy and they're happy."

"I feel good. I think my future is much, much better here."

With no regular season contest scheduled because of the All-Star game, Knorr is giving Richardson and American teammate Clemon Johnson three days off next week to visit their families in the United States.

"The fans shouldn't worry," said Richardson, who lives in Littleton, Colo. "I'll be coming back."

Richardson had been demanding that Knorr match an offer from the 76ers, which he described as a two-year guaranteed contract worth $800,000 a year. Richardson's Italian contract pays him $550,000 a season.

Richardson confirmed he would be receiving more money, but said he had promised the team not to give any details.

A team statement said the accord offered "total satisfaction for both sides" and that Richardson would receive a "special prize" following the season.

QB comes through in nick of UIL limit

Associated Press

IRVING — South Grand Prairie quarterback Bill Shafer made his last high school football game count.

The senior Warrior signal caller, who was a victim of "no-pass, no-play" regulations, had to get all of his football playing in by 3:10 p.m. Friday in South Grand Prairie's area round playoff game with Arlington High School.

Under Texas University Interscholastic League rules, Shafer and five other Warriors starters were technically eligible only until the hour of the final school bell Friday afternoon, after failing at least one course during the last six-week grading period.

Thus the noon kickoff at Texas Stadium Friday, the first of a scheduled prep triple-header, allowed Shafer to start the contest.

And from Arlington's point of view the game should have had a much later kickoff.

Shafer led the Warriors to a 20-15 area round victory over the Colts, connecting on 12 of 27 passes for 215 yards and one touchdown, as the game ended at approximately 2:55 p.m., giving him a full 15 minutes to shower and change.

The victory sends the Warriors to West Texas next weekend to face the winner of a match between El Paso Irving and Amarillo High School.

But Shafer will not be making the trip. Under UIL rules Shafer was not even allowed to ride back to the school on the team bus following Friday's game. And had the contest lasted beyond the 3:10 time limit, he would have been required to take off his uniform and gear and climb into the stands.

But Warriors offensive coordinator Hank Fulkerson said Shafer and the other ineligible players rode back on the team bus.

"We weren't going to bring a kid to a game and then make them ride in a private car back home, taking the chance that something might happen," Fulkerson said.

"We're sure the UIL would understand. We just didn't want to risk anything happening to these kids. We're responsible for them."

Other South Grand Prairie starters ineligible as of Friday afternoon were linebacker Michael Del Bosque, defensive end Juan Rodriguez, linebacker Raymond Baylor, kicker Jonathan McCallum and defensive tackle Corey Allman.

In all, 10 players were ineligible as of the end of Friday's game.

early against the Pecos Eagles, rolling to leads of 16-4 and 26-13 on the way to the 26-point win.

Rube Harrell exploded for 22 points to lead Lee and help take up the slack for Eugene Hicks, the team's only returning starter, who is out for an undetermined number of games due to a broken nose suffered last Tuesday.

"Rube had 21 points in the first game of the season, so we knew he could this type of scoring," said Lee head coach Jon House, whose charges lifted their mark to 3-1.

"His (Harrell's) attitude has really turned the corner. We know he's a great athlete, whose ability is only just beginning to be tapped, and I'm real tickled about the way he came in and did the job tonight."

Harrell hit 8-of-13 times from the field and notched 6-of-8 from the line. Teammate Cliff Angelo nailed a pair of three-pointers en route to a 14-point game, and the Rebels enjoyed a 23-12 advantage in turnovers.

Lee's Brian Massey also drew praise from his coach, leading all players with 15 rebounds while contributing seven points.

"Massey did a great job coming in and getting all those rebounds," House said. "Our goal was to hold them to 50 points. We didn't do it, but I'm still fairly pleased with our effort."

Myron Jenkins scored 19 points to lead the Eagles.

Today Lee has a chance for a little revenge against Amarillo High, the team that put the only blemish on the Rebels' record thus far.

"They beat us 69-62 when we played them in Amarillo," House said. "This will give us a chance to see if we've gotten any better since last time we played them."

Rodrick Hickey popped the net for a game-high 22 points, and Eric Johnson and Earl McDonald each scored 10 points for the Bulldogs. Johnson's double-digits came on a perfect 5-for-5 effort from the field.

"It was definitely my best game of the season," Johnson smiled, whose jump shot started a 10-point run early in the second half.

McDonald scored most of his points in a flurry late in the third quarter, providing the Bulldogs' last three field goals of the frame — one on an impressive offensive rebound to up the lead to an insurmountable 61-29.

"I'm always happy when we win," said MHS head coach Jack Stephenson as he turned his sights on today's opponent, Plainview.

"But we've got out work cut out against Plainview," he said. "They have some great athletes and a good basketball team."

Rod White accounted for most of Big Spring's heroics. The 6-1 junior led the Steers with 19 points,

Arizona topples Arkansas

Associated Press

Sean Rooks scored a career-high 31 points and Chris Mills 29, and No. 3 Arizona outscored No. 2 Arkansas 42-11 in a 12-minute span of the second half to beat the Razorbacks 89-77 in the final of the Big Apple NIT Friday night.

Arizona (4-0) trailed 55-46 with 13 minutes remaining and 57-49 with 12:28 to go. Arkansas (3-1) went the next 4:38 without scoring as the Wildcats took control behind the inside play of the 6-foot-11 Rooks and the 6-6 Mills, a transfer from Kentucky who was named most valuable player in the tournament.

A tip-in by Mills started a run of 13 consecutive points by Arizona. The next nine were scored by Rooks, who had 19 points in the second half to surpass his previous career best, 24 last season against UCLA.

A basket by Arlyn Bowers broke the scoreless streak by Arkansas, but Arizona kept up the pressure by scoring 11 of the next 12 points for a 73-60 advantage with 5:11 remaining.

The Wildcats' largest lead was 88-66.

Arkansas was led by Todd Day with 19 points and Roosevelt Wallace with 11. Day had only one point in the second half and Wallace was scoreless.

Indiana freshmen Damon Bailey (22) splits Northeastern Huskie defenders Marcellus Anderson (40) and Dexter Jenkins, right, during first half action at the Maui Invitational Friday.

No. 4 Michigan St. 78 Furman 73

Steve Smith scored 24 points as No. 4 Michigan State, off to a fast start in each half, beat Furman in a college basketball opener.

Matt Steigenga scored 17 points and Mark Montgomery 13 for Michigan State. Derek Waugh led Furman with 18 points and Chris Bass had 16.

The game was virtually decided in the first 13 minutes, when Furman was able to hit just one of its first 16 shots.

Michigan State led 24-3 by the time the Paladins got their second basket, a 3-pointer by Hal Henderson with 7:07 remaining in the half.

No. 6 Duke 85, Notre Dame 77
Bill McCaffrey scored 21 points and No. 6 Duke turned Notre Dame's 15 first-half turnovers into 22 points en route to a victory in the third-place game of the preseason Big Apple NIT.

Duke, leading by 10 at half-time thanks to Notre Dame's sloppiness, opened a 60-41 advantage with 13:47 left as freshman Grant Hill had two quick three-point plays for the Blue Devils.

Notre Dame, with LaPhonso Ellis scoring 13 of his 19 points and Daimon Sweet 16 of his 18 in the second half, pulled within six points twice, the last time at 79-73 on a rebound basket by Sweet with 1:21 left.

In one five-minute span during Notre Dame's rally, the only Duke player to score was McCaffrey, who hit 10 of his first 14 field-goal attempts in the game.

But the Fighting Irish misfired on their next four possessions after Sweet's basket, preventing them from getting closer despite poor free-throw shooting by Duke.

Aided by five steals that led to baskets, Duke jumped to a 17-10 advantage midway through the first half.

Backup forward Kevin Ellery then scored eight points and Elmer Bennett six during a 16-7 run that gave Notre Dame a 26-24 lead with 7:24 left in the period.

No. 8 Indiana 100 Northeastern 78

Calbert Cheaney scored 26 points to lead No. 8 Indiana over Northeastern in the opening round of the Maui Invitational.

The game marked the collegiate debut of Damon Bailey, the four-time Indiana all-state selection whose high school career was followed nationally after he won praise as an eighth-grader from Hoosiers coach Bob Knight. Bailey scored five points in an inauspicious start to his college career, which began in Knight's 20th season with the Hoosiers.

Indiana (1-0) advanced to Saturday's semifinals against the winner of Friday's opening-round game between Loyola Marymount and Santa Clara.

The Hoosiers were never in serious trouble against Northeastern (0-1), breaking the game open with a 9-2 run over the first half's final 2:10. Bailey had five of the points.

Bailey's 3-pointer with 2:10 left, his first points as a collegian, started the run and he added two free throws as Indiana led 54-38 at halftime.

No. 12 Pittsburgh 84
NW Missouri St. 50
Pittsburgh trailed for most of the first 10 minutes, then scored 17 consecutive points despite the absence of leading scorer Brian Shorter during a 25-6 scoring run and Northwest Missouri State.

The 12th-ranked Panthers (1-0) had six players score in double figures and led by as many as 37 points over the Division II Bearcats (2-2), who scored only four points in the final 11:24 of the half.

No. 13 Syracuse 84, Toledo 68
Syracuse overcame some cold outside shooting early in the second half, then made its free throws down the stretch and the 13th-ranked Orangemen beat Toledo in the opening round of the Maui Invitational.

The Orangemen (1-0) advanced to a semifinal meeting Saturday against Iowa State, which beat Chaminade 115-82 Friday.

No. 21 Georgia 89 Wichita St. 58

Marshall Wilson scored 20 points and No. 21 Georgia held Wichita State without a field goal in its first 22 possessions en route to a victory in the opening round of the Central Fidelity Holiday Classic.

The Bulldogs (1-0) advance to face Richmond, which beat Dartmouth 65-54 Friday night. The Shockers and the Big Green meet in the consolation.

No. 11 UCLA 134 Cal-Irvine 101

Don MacLean scored 14 of his 22 points in the first 10 minutes of the second half as 11th-ranked UCLA ran away for a record-breaking 134-101 victory over Cal-Irvine Friday night in the first round of the Great Alaska Shootout.

Ex-big league star crushed to death

Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — Former major league catcher Bo Diaz was killed Friday when he was crushed by a satellite dish on the roof of his home. He was 37.

Diaz, who played with the Cincinnati Reds, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Phillies during a 13-year major league career, was attempting to adjust the dish, which apparently was knocked off line by high winds, according to a televised report by Caracas channel 4.

Jose Gonzalez, an official of the Caracas morgue, said Diaz died when the dish collapsed, crushing his neck and skull against the base of the dish.

Gonzalez said that Diaz died instantly from the accident. An earlier report by Technical and Judicial Police spokeswoman Francisca Diaz said Diaz had been electrocuted while attempting to install the dish.

Diaz lived in a two-story home in the Baruta section of the city, an upper-middle class neighborhood on the east side of the city. Diaz, a Venezuelan, was playing for the Caracas Lions of the Venezuelan winter league, hoping to get back into shape for a return to the majors.

After Tuesday's game against the Aragua Tigers at Maracay, he left the club because of a dispute with manager Phil Regan, team officials said.

The Lions canceled Friday night's game against the Zulia Aguilas.

"Bo was as nice a fellow as you'd want to meet," said Paul Owens, who managed Diaz on the Phillies' World Series champions of 1983. "He was a good family man. A fine gentleman."

"I always admired him. Even after we traded him to Cincinnati, he always stopped in to see me when he was in town."

Diaz, an All-Star in 1981 with Cleveland and 1987 with Cincinnati, appeared in 993 major league games and compiled a .255 batting average with 87 home runs. His best season was 1982, when he batted .288 with 18 homers and 85 RBIs for Philadelphia. He also batted .270 with 15 homers and 82 RBIs for Cincinnati in 1987.

"This is a tragedy, it really is," Reds owner Marge Schott said in Cincinnati. "This is a shame. I was very close to his family."

In addition, Diaz holds the Venezuelan League home run record of 20, set in the 1979-80 season.

Years earlier, his Little League team was one game away from a trip to the Little League World Series when an earthquake prevented the team from leaving Venezuela.

In the 1983 World Series against Baltimore, Diaz went 5-for-15 with a double and a run scored.

Leagues to start new discussions in player development contracts

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of the major and minor leagues will meet Tuesday in New York to discuss the broken-down negotiations for a new player development contract. The minor leagues said it would not be a negotiating session.

Mike Moore, chief administrative officer of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, is scheduled to meet with Bill Murray of the commissioner's office. The sides have made what the call their final offers and are threatening to end their 87-year relationship.

"We were contacted. They wanted to get together," National Association president Sal Arntiga said Friday. "It's not a negotiating session. We're going to hear what they have to say."

The commissioner's office wants the right to approve minor league franchise shifts and sales and league expansion. The sides also disagree about the amount of money the major leagues will continue spending to subsidize minor league operations.

The dispute led to cancellation of the traditional joint winter meetings, which had been scheduled for Los Angeles. The minors will meet at Los Angeles and the majors at Rosemont, Ill., both Dec. 1-5.

Irish looking for eighth straight over Trojans

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Southern Cal Trojans have rolled up some impressive statistics in recent games against Notre Dame, but the Irish own the only number that really counts — seven victories in a row.

Heading into Saturday night's game at the Coliseum, another number will be significant — 25, the jersey worn by Notre Dame's Raghib "Rocket" Ismail.

Ismail, the wide receiver-kick returner called by Southern Cal coach Larry Smith "the best football player in the country," reinjured his right thigh last weekend in Notre Dame's 24-21 loss to Penn State.

Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz said Friday that Ismail will be in uniform, but won't start.

Ismail hasn't practiced this week and Holtz said that even if Ismail plays he probably won't be used to return kickoffs.

Smith noted that in Notre Dame's two losses this year — 24-21 to Penn State last weekend and 36-31 to Stanford earlier — the Irish were ahead at halftime only to be outscored in the second half. He also noted that Ismail, who made only a brief appearance against Stanford, was out during the second half of both games.

"That was the only part of the common equation for those two losses, that he missed both second halves," Smith said.

The seventh-ranked Irish, bound for an Orange Bowl date against top-ranked Colorado, will bring an 8-2 record into the contest against the No. 18 Trojans, who are 8-2-1 and set to play Michigan State in the John Hancock Bowl.

A sellout crowd of some 90,000 is expected for the game.

While Southern Cal has lost seven straight to the Irish, the Trojans often have had the upper hand statistically in recent meetings.

In a 28-24 loss last year, freshman Todd Marinovich threw for 333 yards with three touchdowns and three interceptions as Southern Cal had 452 total yards to 357 for the Irish.

"Of the four games I've been involved in, Southern Cal could have won three of them. We've been very fortunate," Holtz said. "They've done better statistically than we have, but you have strange things happen."

"We haven't dominated any game against them since I've been here."

The other Irish wins in the current string began with a 27-6 victory in 1983, followed by 19-7, 37-3, 38-37, 26-15, and 27-10 in 1988.

Interestingly, Southern Cal had won five straight against the Irish before Notre Dame's victory in 1983. Notre Dame holds a 34-23-4 edge in the series that began in 1926.

In the 62nd meeting between the perennial national powers, Southern Cal is expected to try to exploit Notre Dame's pass defense. The Irish have given up an average of 266 yards per game through the air.

"I don't think there's any question that anytime a team is giving up that much yardage that you have to take a pretty serious look at it," Smith said.

Skins Game winnings reach absurd proportions

Nicklaus, Norman give some earnings to junior golf; Faldo, Strange to less fortunate

Associated Press

LA QUINTA, Calif. — The rich get richer in golf's Skins Game.

Jack Nicklaus, Curtis Strange, Nick Faldo and Greg Norman will compete over 18 holes for $450,000 this weekend. And, in 1991, the golfers probably will get even more money.

"I suspect it's time to increase the purse," said Don Ohlmeyer, the founder of the made-for-television gathering. "I'm not sure to what level we'll raise it. That's to be decided. We're looking at some economic hard times around the country."

"At some point, the amount of money can get to be obscene. We don't want to do that."

When we started, $360,000 was a lot of money. Now, with $1 million tournaments, $2 million tournaments, our purse may be a little low."

Strange, who won the 1989 Skins Game with $260,000, agreed the purse may be due for an increase, and pointed out that the larger the purse, the more money that goes to charity.

The players donate 20 percent of their winnings to the charity of their choice. Nicklaus and Norman have designated junior golf, Faldo picked a hospital in London and Strange chose a home for abused children in Virginia.

"None of the players here need the money," Nicklaus said. "They've all made lots of money. But they did it not by playing for money, but by playing the game."

"If it were only about money, the press wouldn't be here, TV wouldn't be here, the players wouldn't be here, and the TV audience wouldn't be watching. We're here for the competition, and that's what the audience is wanting to see, four guys playing against each other."

Nicklaus is the only man to have appeared in all the Skins Games. The two-day, 18-hole competition began in 1983.

Winners get $15,000 for each of the first six holes, $25,000 for the middle six and $35,000 on the last six. If two or more players tie for the low score on any hole, the prize money is carried over until there is a clear winner on a hole.

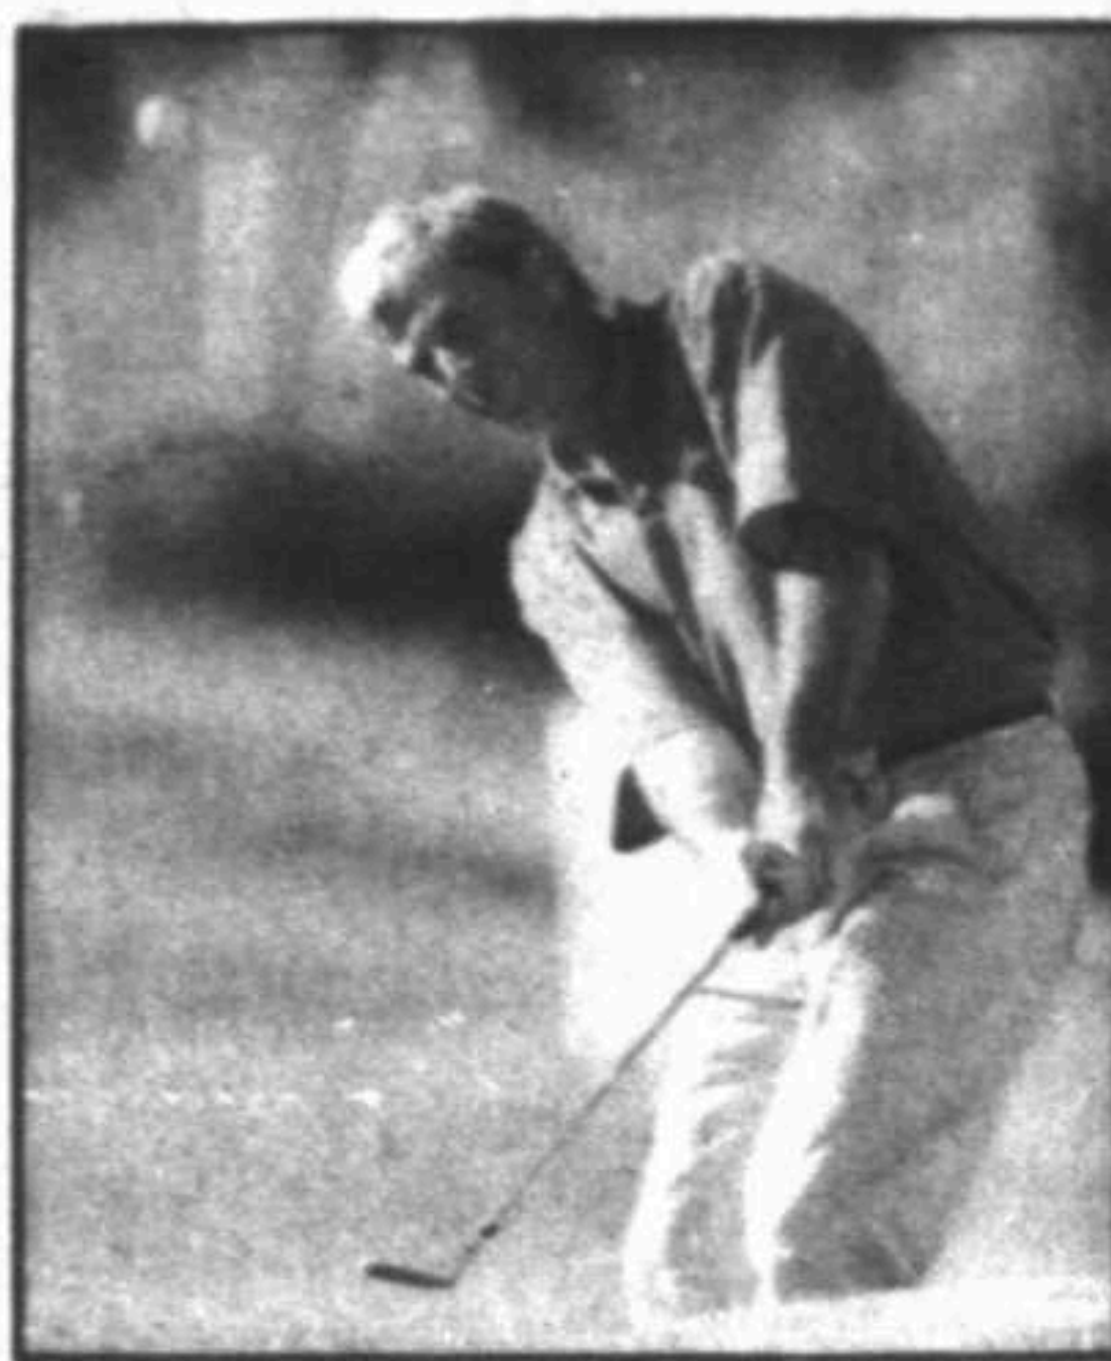

Faldo, who won both the Masters and British Open this year, is in the Skins Game for the first time. So is Norman, who led the PGA Tour in earnings and stroke average.

Nicklaus had some tongue-in-cheek advice to the two "rookies."

"Just observe this year; play hard next year," he said.

Strange, shut out in his first Skins Game appearance, offered this encouragement to Faldo and Norman:

"I hope you play just as well in your first start as I did in mine."

RANKIN: Fourth downs critical

From 1B

"We've always utilized the fourth down if we feel like the kids can do it," he said.

Rankin coughed up the ball twice in its own territory in the fourth quarter. But the Cowboys' Mario Medina was stopped on the fourth-and-goal at the three the first time, and it took a controversial pass interference call on Varela in the end zone to set up Medina's plunge from the one on the second opportunity.

Rankin had drawn first blood with Kennedy's one-yard sneak with 8:38 left in the first quarter. The drive was set up when linebacker Glynn Underwood recovered a Medina fumble at the Plains 44. Rankin took the lead for good on a 35-yard field goal by Kennedy with :19 left in the first half.

LSU coaching list narrows

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Athletic Director Joe Dean says he's down to a list of three possible football coaches for Louisiana State, and has just about decided who he'll ask.

"I'm close to finishing it. I hope I know my man. I think I'm about there," he said in a telephone interview Thursday night from a hotel room in Atlanta.

Dean cut his Thanksgiving celebration short to fly to Atlanta, where he planned to stay through Saturday, returning to Baton Rouge on Saturday night to watch the Tigers' final game against Tulane.

He confirmed a report that he planned to interview three candidates for the position, which Mike Archer is resigning after Saturday's game.

North Carolina State's Dick Sheridan was to meet Friday with Dean. The other finalists reportedly were Southern Mississippi coach Curley Hallman and former Pittsburgh coach Mike Gottfried.

Although Bobby Ross of Georgia Tech reportedly was being considered, he said that LSU had not called him and he wasn't interested anyway.

"I'm happy at Georgia Tech. I would not be interested in that job right now," he told the Atlanta Constitution.

Gottfried, who is working for ESPN, has said he'd be interested. Gottfried reportedly met with Dean on Thursday. Gottfried was fired at Pittsburgh last year for reported disciplinary and academic problems in his program.

Hallman said he was asked Thursday night to interview for the opening, but doesn't plan to meet with Dean until next week. He told the Hattiesburg American that he wouldn't schedule an interview before Saturday's games, even if he had been asked to.

"It's not fair to those kids down there," Hallman said Friday. "It's not fair to my players and I will visit with our players Monday to let my players know that I am going to visit."

Hallman said he didn't want the news sprung on his team without him, as it was when he interviewed at South Carolina early in 1989. Hallman had wrapped up his first season at USM with a 10-2 mark and was asked to interview there after the death of coach Joe Morrison.

"Nobody was around. The kids were not around. I had to go do it then," Hallman said. "But I will visit with my players before I go down to (LSU) to visit. I know I'm going to do that. I don't want to have to tell them when I get back like the South Carolina incident."

Woman donated hair to war for use in bombsights

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — When Americans everywhere were giving up luxuries for the effort to win World War II, Mary Babnik Brown gave up something much more personal than a favorite food — her below-knee-length hair.

Brown, now 83, was honored Saturday for contributing to the war effort. In a ceremony at the U.S. Air Force Academy, she received a special achievement award from the Colorado Aviation Historical Society.

What she didn't know back in 1942 was that her hair was used as cross hairs in a secret bombsight used on bombers.

Brown said she didn't really want to give up her blond hair, but caring for it was becoming a lot of work. The government wanted hair at least 22 inches long. She sent 34 inches — hair that had only been trimmed, never really cut, for her first 36 years.

In 1942, she saw an advertisement in a Pueblo newspaper that the government was looking for women to contribute their hair to the war effort, she sent an inquiry and quickly received a telegram asking her to send a sample.

A few days later, she received another telegram pleading for her hair. It was exactly what they needed, said officials with the Institute of Technology in Washington, D.C.

"I saw so many people crying their eyes out, not wanting their sons to go," she said. "I was sad. I wanted to do something for the war effort."

Bill Feder, founder of the International B-24 Memorial Museum in Pueblo, learned recently that a Pueblo woman had donated her hair, and he began looking for her.

He told Brown that her hair was used experimentally as cross hairs in a bomb-aiming device known as the Norden bombsight.

The bombsight, invented in the mid-1930s by a Swiss immigrant named Karl Norden, was essentially a mechanical computer used in high altitude bombing. The device took into account such things as altitude, the plane's speed and wind velocity.

When the target reached the center of the cross hairs, the crew could drop the bomb with dependable accuracy.

Used on the B-24 Liberator, the B-29 Super Fortress and the B-17 Flying Fortress, the Norden bombsight was so secret that it was equipped with explosives, Feder said, and crews were ordered to destroy it if their bomber ran the risk of falling into enemy hands.

At altitudes as high as 20,000 feet, the bombsight cross hairs were subjected to freezing temperatures and rapid changes in humidity. Black widow spider webs, which contracted and expanded on scale under those conditions, were originally used but were fragile and hard to come by.

Feder said Brown's fine blonde hair, which had never been bleached or touched with a hot iron, was unique and shared many of the qualities valued in the black widow spider's web.

In addition to the bombsight, her hair was used in scientific equipment such as humidity measuring devices important in the production of airplanes and other war machinery.

"I saw so many people crying their eyes out, not wanting their sons to go. I was sad. I wanted to do something for the war effort."

Performer sees himself as symbol

NEW YORK (AP) — When 19-year-old Carlos Guity sprints out under the big top of the Big Apple circus and executes a series of double back somersaults and flips each night, he is fulfilling a dream from his South Bronx childhood.

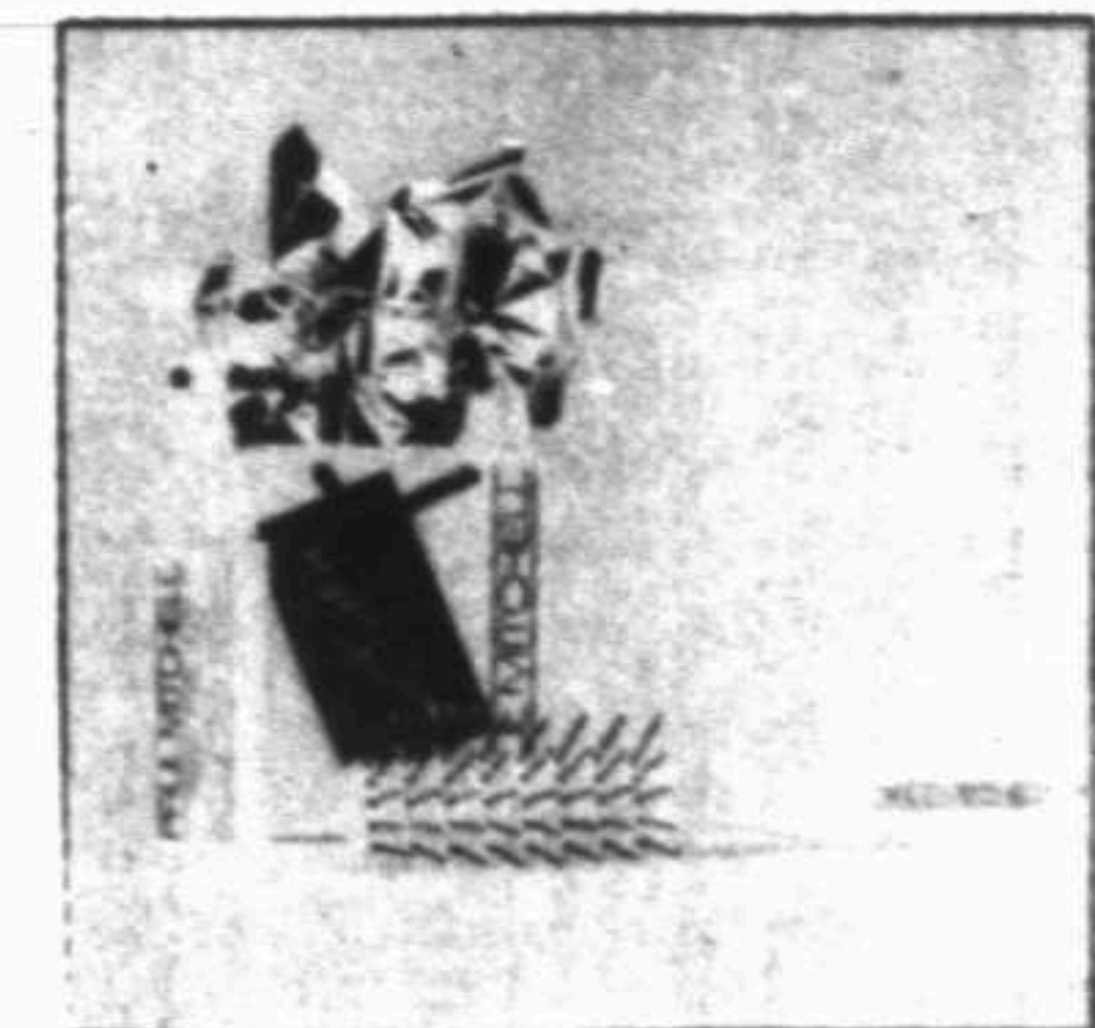

As one of only two black members of a troupe comprised of generations of circus performers, the acrobat and tumbler sees himself as a symbol for those from rough-and-tumble neighborhoods who beat the odds.

STATE IN BRIEF

Woman injured, man found dead

TYLER, Texas (AP) — The body of a man was found in the trunk of a car Friday near a woman who also had been shot, police said.

A passerby found the woman, in an alley adjacent to a church, around 3 a.m., police said.

Ivy Taylor, 20, of Tyler was in critical condition at East Texas Medical Center following surgery.

A dispatcher said police impounded a car they found next to Ms. Taylor, and when they opened the trunk they discovered the dead man.

The victim was Joseph Charles Evans, 30, of Tyler, police said. An autopsy was ordered.

Heist takes hoist, books

DALLAS (AP) — The two men who stole James Fuller's Chevy truck got away with quite a heist. Or was it a hoist?

The Mesquite man's 1982 black 1-ton tow truck — complete with hoist on the back, sign on the door and flashing yellow lights on top — was taken Wednesday night.

That was bad enough. Worse, the two conned him into bringing it to them. Then they grabbed his size-9 elephant-skin boots.

Fuller got a call from a man who said he needed a wrecker for a stalled car in the Oak Lawn section of Dallas. When Fuller arrived just after 9 p.m., two men pulled a gun on him and commanded his wrecker, he told police.

The duo tied his hands and drove him to a high school, where they stripped him of his boots and left him standing in his socks as they drove off.

A security guard saw Fuller, cut him free and called police. Fuller told officers that the two men spoke of going to Missouri, but he was unsure why they needed a tow truck — or his boots.

Police were keeping an eye out for the black truck, with "Fuller's Wrecker Service" emblazoned on the right door in yellow and white letters.

Three bodies found

LEWISVILLE (AP) — Police on Friday continued their investigation of a Thanksgiving shooting here that left a man, his teen-age niece and two-year-old nephew dead.

But officials said they did not expect to find out whether the deaths were a double homicide and suicide until they receive a report from the medical examiner.

"It's being investigated," said Margie McDaniel, communications supervisor for the Lewisville Police Department. "They don't want to ... narrow it down to one thing until they get the autopsy report because you never know what you're going to find."

The bodies of Samson Hiep Quach, 33, Paulina Diemhoung Quach, 15, and Quenton Phidung Quach, 2, were found about 8:30 p.m. Thursday in a house in this town just north of Dallas, said Capt. David Fowler.

Lewisville police spokesman Richard Douglas said the bodies were found when Quach's wife returned home from work with her sister.

Douglas said authorities speculate the deaths could be a double homicide and suicide. Ms. McDaniel said no motive had been established in the case.

A handgun was found near the man's body, a police spokeswoman said.

Scouts drive successful

IRVING (AP) — Members of the Boy Scouts of America have collected more than 80 million food items in their nationwide "Scouting for Food" campaign.

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers collected the non-perishable food items Nov. 17. The food will be distributed through local food banks and other outlets in the communities where it was collected, Chief Scout Executive Ben H. Love said in a news release.

In 1989, Scouts collected more than 72 million food items during the Scouting for Food campaign, earning the Boy Scouts of America special recognition from the 1990 Presidential End Hunger Awards. In 1988, the first year of Scouting for Food, more than 65 million food items were collected.

"We are pleased that we've surpassed last year's results. It clearly demonstrates that Scouting's commitment to help the needy and destitute of our nation is undiminished," Love said.

"This effort proves to our young people that they can make a difference in the world around them."

The Boy Scouts of America, headquartered in Irving, has 4.3 million youth members and more than one million adult volunteers nationwide.

History discovered

AUSTIN (AP) — In the General Land Office Building, which is undergoing a $4.5 million restoration, state officials are unearthing fragments of Texas' pre-Civil War history.

For example, chips of flat black paint, discovered behind a wall cabinet in what was once a make-shift kitchen, may be one of Texas' earliest photographic labs.

"The man who designed this building was dabbling in photography, experimenting with photography to reproduce maps that had to be reproduced by hand," said Laurie Limbacher, staff architect for the State Preservation Board.

"We know that in 1871 a photo studio was added to the north side of the building. And we think this black paint could indicate the area that was a precursor to that," Ms. Limbacher said.

The restoration project on the 133-year-old building, which began last spring, is being touted as one of the most significant state restoration efforts in years.

Texans control speed

AUSTIN (AP) — Slightly more than half Texas' drivers observed posted 55-mph speed zones for the year ending Sept. 30, and that was enough to avoid problems with the federal government, said Jon Underwood, engineer for the state highway department.

Up to 10 percent of the state's federal highway funds can be cut if spot checks of motorists show more than half of them exceeded the 55-mph speed limit during a one-year period.

If more than half are exceeding the speed limit, the state can be put on probation for a year.

And if more than half the drivers continue to exceed the speed limit, the state can face a cut of up to 10 percent in certain federal highway funds, a potential loss of about $21 million, Underwood said.

The spot checks are conducted at about 100 sites across the state. Underwood said Texas never has lost federal highway money for exceeding the speed limit. For the federal fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, he said, 50.7 percent of the state's motorists were in compliance.

"We have historically been in very good shape, like anywhere from 52 to 55 percent of the people complying on an annual basis," Underwood said.

The 55-mph speed limit was enacted nationwide after the oil crisis of the early 1970s. Since then, Congress has permitted interstate highways in many rural areas to have speed limits of 65 mph.

Ruby Reds counterfeited

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Ruby Red grapefruit may be an endangered species as "counterfeit" fruit from other states begin showing up at roadside stands, some wrongly labeled as Texas fruit, officials say.

The Ruby Reds from the Rio Grande Valley have sweet, red meat. But they're being usurped by a younger rival.

A late 1989 freeze wiped out commercial production in the Valley, ensuring that the genuine Texas Ruby Red cannot be bought anywhere this year. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service warns that "counterfeit" Ruby Reds from other states are already showing up at roadside stands, some being passed off as Texas fruit.

Grapefruit sold anywhere this year didn't come from Texas, said Julian Sauls, horticulturist with the agricultural extension service.

"It could be that the grapefruit and the trees that produced it did originate in Texas since this state developed the Ruby Red," he said.

But there won't be any Texas-grown fruit available until fall of 1991, he said.

But even then, the Ruby Reds could be hard to find.

Eighty-six percent of the 37,000 trees replanted in the Valley in the first half of the year were Rio Reds, a recently developed family of varieties, officials of the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service say.

About 84 percent of the 474,000 trees expected to be planted by next July are Rio.

"You always have something new after a freeze," said Mission nurseryman Bill Thompson.

It was a 1951 freeze, he said, that prompted growers in the Valley to switch from white and pink grapefruit to the bright red Rubys. Within a short time the variety dominated the Valley's production.

Grigorovich still with Bolshoi Ballet

HOUSTON (AP) — The Associated Press reportedly erroneously that Yuri Grigorovich is the former artistic director of the Bolshoi Ballet in Moscow.

Grigorovich, who is artistic director of the Bolshoi-Grigorovich private ballet company currently touring the United States, also is still artistic director of the Bolshoi Ballet.

FOUR STRINGS

Only four strings! But these four strings offer endless possibilities of tone and harmony. They open to you new horizons of beauty and happiness. And yet, improperly played, these four strings can bring forth unbearably discord!

There are four strings in life with similar possibilities. They are mind, character, courage and faith.

The truths that fill our minds, the ideals that mold our character, the purposes to which our courage is given, the realities in which we believe can fill our lives with rich beauty and happiness or drag ugliness and sorrow.

For centuries our churches and synagogues have been the maestro of these strings of life—helping people bring forth the harmony and beauty God has put in their souls.

You can find music in everyday living through regular worship and prayer.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Madrigal feast set at center

An Olde English Madrigal Feast will be held at Life Unlimited Christian Center Dec. 7 and 8.

In celebration of the Christmas season, the sanctuary will be decorated as a castle in the days of 14th and 15th century England. The lord and lady of the castle will greet their guests as they are ushered into the feast by trumpet fanfare.

The dinner theater in the round will feature madrigal singers performing many of the early Christmas carols along with flutes, recorders, lutes and autoharp. Also included in the entertainment will be folk dancers, jugglers, aerobats, the court minstrel, court jesters and a play within a play as the lord of the castle tells the beggars the Christmas story.

The dinner will be a multi-course affair served as it would have been served in early England, complete with finger bowls and warm towels to wash up after the main course.

The grand finale to any old English feast is Flaming Christmas Plum Pudding.

The performances are scheduled for 7 p.m. All seating is to be done between 6:30 and 7 p.m. No one will be seated after 7 p.m. due to the staging. Children under 8 are not encouraged to participate, again due to staging and space.

Tickets are $10 through today. Monday the price increases to $12. No tickets will be sold after Dec. 2.

This production is directed by Tim and Charlene Wadley, directors of fine arts for Christian Life Center.

Birthday event set

Unity Church of West Texas will celebrate birthdays Sunday for members who were born in November.

Birthday cake and fellowship will follow the worship service which begins at 10:45 a.m. at 210 E. 12th St., Odessa.

Aglow to hear speaker

Midland Outreach Aglow is hosting Kenneth Thames as its guest speaker Dec. 2.

He was born again at the age of 6 and entered into the ministry when he was 19 years old, Aglow said.

Thames attended Gateway College of Evangelism, Florissant, Mo., and Glendale College, Glendale, Ariz.

He served as assistant pastor to his father before assuming the pastorate of his home church in Borger when he was 21. Five years later, he returned to Glendale as co-pastor of Faith temple. In 1978, the Thames moved to El Paso and began their ministry there.

Thames founded Alive Christian Ministries in El Paso as well as established churches in Amarillo, Borger and Phoenix, Ariz. He serves as senior pastor over Ministerio de Vido, the Spanish speaking congregation of Alive Ministries, El Paso, and over a network of churches in Mexico and other Spanish speaking churches in the El Paso and Juarez area.

He and his wife, Kay, have three children.

This program is based on the best selling book, "Little House on the Freeway," by Tim Kimmel.

"The video series will offer practical counsel for restoring calmness and rest to your marriage, family, workplace and to your relationship with God," said a release from the church.

Kimmel is a national conference speaker, writer and director of Generation Ministries. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Bryan College in Dayton, Tenn., and his master of theology from Dallas Theological Seminary in 1976. He and his family live in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Immigrant's son helps Jews leave the Soviet Union

NEW YORK (AP) — When conditions looked threatening, Marvin Lender's parents left Poland in 1927 for America, escaping subsequent persecution and likely death under the Nazis. To him, something similar could happen again.

A wealthy, highly successful businessman, he has dropped it all to help fund history's biggest Jewish exodus — this time from the Soviet Union to Israel.

"They're at risk," he said. "There seems so much that tells us we could be reliving history again. Enough Jews have died, 6 million in the Holocaust. We can't allow Jews to be killed again."

Swift and still swelling in size, the immense immigration to Israel is being heavily supported by American Jews.

"We believe it's saving lives," said Lender, national chairman of United Jewish Appeal, which this year has raised an extra $450 million to help finance the huge resettlement.

"Never in history has there been anything as massive as this," he said, noting that 101,736 have moved to Israel so far this year. The number is expected to exceed 160,000 by year's end and to total a million through 1992.

Midwestern bishop talks about silent problem of church

NEW YORK (AP) — "Some compare us to a dysfunctional family, which is unable to talk about its problem even though we all know about it."

A Midwestern Roman Catholic bishop made that point at a recent meeting in Washington of the church's U.S. hierarchy, but his was a lone voice. The others skirted the "problem."

It is that most Catholics reject the church's prohibition of contraception. This widespread dissent has been repeatedly documented and is widely recognized throughout the church.

But the bishops don't talk about it, having been firmly called to heel about it by Pope John Paul II.

Nevertheless, Bishop Kenneth E. Untener, 53, of Saginaw, Mich., a warm-mannered, straightforward man standing at a microphone among about 300 of his fellow bishops, spoke up.

"When the people disagree," he said, "it means something."

He urged attention to the "sensus fidelium," or "sense of the faithful," which, as long taught in the church, often brings fuller understanding of Christian truth through ordinary believers.

While the Holy Spirit acts through the "magisterium," the bishops, to guide the church, the Spirit also acts through the people, Untener said, and their convictions should be taken seriously.

Noting that a document on sexuality that the bishops were considering advised those who dissent from the church's stand against contraception to prayerfully reconsider, he said they might respond:

"We will if you will."

It has become obvious that many lay people, many priests and even some bishops are not convinced that the ban on contraception is sound doctrine grounded in biblical principles, he said.

The bishops should "listen to what this is saying about Christian understanding of sexuality and what it means for the family in marriage," he said, and added:

"If we don't, it can cause great damage to the church at large."

Publicly, none of the bishops took him up on it, although several thanked him privately for his courage in mentioning the unmentionable. One did refer to it glancingly as something to be overcome.

"There may still be questions and a considerable amount of dissent" about contraception because "we have been reticent in asserting our position," said Bishop James T. McHugh of Camden, N.J.

"We are trying to assert values and principles" and "inform the new generation what that position is," he said of the sexuality document, which gently reiterated the ban and was approved.

Although not mentioning the particular "problem," Auxiliary Bishop Austin B. Vaughan of New York wanted the entire sexuality document delayed to get response from parents, many of whom oppose its call for sex education.

"We're all celibate," he said. "None of us are parents. By U.S. standards we're all aging. ... We're not experts. We're a little out of touch with what's going on. We should give interested parents a shot at this document."

Mentioned or not, the contraception issue has simmered for years in the church, going back to the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65, which started to take up the matter before Pope Paul VI removed it from council consideration.

He put it before a papal commission of bishops, theologians and various experts. Eventually, a strong majority of them recommended modification of the contraception ban.

However, Pope Paul rejected that recommendation and in 1968 issued his controversial encyclical, "Humanae Vitae," reasserting the prohibition and touching off waves of dissent.

Bishops still struggling to define women's rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops were told on Thursday that their long, sidetracked struggle to delineate church rights of women still is "alive and well."

After seven years, "the work continues," said Bishop Joseph L. Imsch of Joliet, Ill., head of a committee striving to shape a pastoral letter on women that would be fair to them.

Past drafts of the proposed teaching letter have been widely criticized as contradictory in asserting equal standing of women, yet reiterating that they remain ineligible for the most influential role, the priesthood.

In a discussion of the difficulties with the letter at the annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, Auxiliary Bishop Francis P. Murphy of Baltimore said:

"This is a very unhappy time." But he commended the continued grappling with the issue.

"It has raised the consciousness of the church in this country and thrown light on the equal or unequal experience of women in the church and society," he said.

Action on the letter initially had been scheduled at this week's meeting of the bishops, but this was postponed in September by an administrative committee.

In a closing session of their four-day meeting, the bishops also:

—Approved principles for more sexually inclusive language in a new lectionary, the cycle of Bible readings for worship service.

Terms such as "brethren" would be rendered "brothers and sisters" and "man" as "people." Also, blanket pejorative references to "the Jews" become "the Jewish authorities" or "leaders."

—Modified a planned pastoral letter on the 1992 observance of the coming of Columbus and Europeans to America, to recognize abuses inflicted on American Indians and blacks.

As for the pastoral letter on women, Imsch said, "I want to erase any doubt about the future" of the project. He said suggested changes were continuing to be received, and would be considered.

Asked afterward if there was any discomfort among the bishops, one of the country's last exclusively male organizations, in trying to define the place of women, he said:

"There's a great deal of discomfort."

But miracles can happen, he added.

Churches charge new movie ratings are designed to cover up use of smut

NEW YORK (AP) — Some American church leaders say the movie industry is pulling a deceptive ruse on the public, making the bad look good by labeling the ugly with a pretty name.

Such is the general assessment by a broad range of churches, Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic, of the new system under which previously X-rated movies now are rated NC-17.

Termining the change by the Motion Picture Association of America a surrender to "sexually exploitative material," officials of the U.S. Catholic Conference and the National Council of Churches said:

"It is an arrogant and ill-advised decision which deeply affects the public good. It was made in isolation, without public consultation. The change is neither in the public interest nor in the best interest of the industry."

"Changing the name of the 'X' category does not change the nature of the material."

Southern Baptists, the largest denomination not in the council, also endorsed the joint protest. The Rev. Richard D. Land, head of that denomination's social-concerns agency, said:

"The change has all the appearances of watering down an effective wall that helped people stay away from pornographic materials."

Religious publications contended the change camouflages the nature of the formerly "X" category so movie theaters would be more apt to show such films.

It gives movie-makers "a 'respectable' category for their excesses," says the Rev. James M. Wall, editor of the ecumenical weekly, The Christian Century. "The restraint is removed."

Wall, a movie buff and chairman of the National Council of Churches' Media Ethics and Advocacy Committee, said the change basically is "about what kind of world our children will live in."

The Catholic Messenger, diocesan weekly in Davenport, Iowa, says the "marketplace now has more freedom than it had two weeks ago to disturb your children's growth."

The editorial adds that films of "sickening violence and the de-based or irresponsible or glamorized fantasy use of sex" will now be "much more widely distributed and shown."

The church critics aren't advocating censorship or government curbs on films, warning that the change itself will provide ammunition for "those who already are calling for regulation of the media."

"That is unfortunate, because a voluntary system of self-regulation that skirts constitutional concerns, yet affords at least a minimum of protection to the public, is workable," the interchurch statement says.

The movie industry contends that the "X" rating has come to be understood as indicating only pornographic films and thus has downgraded some serious, adult films of artistic merit.

Most theater chains don't show X-rated films and most newspapers won't take advertising for them. Some newspapers, such as the Birmingham (Ala.) News, extended the advertising ban to NC-17 films.

"Smut is still smut," the News editorialized.

In the new system, films considered of some merit but whose sexual or violence portrayals exceed limits for an "R" rating are to be given the new "NC-17" rating, meaning no children under 17 are to be admitted.

The "R" or restricted rating, meaning admission of youngsters only if accompanied by a parent, is continued, with explanations provided on why a film is placed in that category, such as its depiction of sexual activity, violence, profanity, drug use or suicide.

However, no explanations will be given for "NC-17" films.

The motion picture association said they would "continue to be evaluated as X-rated films have been in the past, that is, on the basis that most parents would agree" such films should not be viewed by youngsters.

Wall says "poor enforcement policies" of theaters indicate the NC-17 age restriction won't be effective.

Church attendance by blacks soars in 1980s

N.Y. Times News Service

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — Church attendance by blacks living in American cities increased sharply during the 1980s, possibly because of cutbacks in social programs and economic hard times, according to a study released recently.

The study, a detailed analysis of Gallup Poll data by two Pennsylvania State University researchers, found that the number of church-going urban blacks jumped 13 percent between 1978 and 1988.

Statistics on church attendance are normally very stable, making a 13 percent change significant. There was no similar increase among white residents of metropolitan areas.

"Given the decline of access to opportunity or assimilation into mainstream society that occurred during the Reagan years, black Americans could be participating at greater rates in the church... to build a sense of ethnic identity and a community of interest," reported sociologist Hart Nelsen.

Nelsen, who co-authored his study with Conrad Kanagy, presented the findings Friday at the annual meeting of the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion, an organization of sociologists and other researchers trying to map America's religious landscape.

Using information from Gallup's annual survey on religious beliefs and affiliation, the study reports that the percentage of "churched" urban blacks increased from 46 percent to 59 percent between 1978 and 1988.

"Churched" blacks refers to those African Americans who are both members of a church or temple and have attended services in the past six months apart from weddings, funerals or special holidays.

The increase in church attendance in the 1980s was larger among blacks older than 40 and does not conflict with other studies that have found younger blacks falling away from the church.

Changing attitudes toward the church in the black community were also studied. Especially in urban areas outside the South, three positive feelings were cited as contributing to higher church attendance.

Those in the pews say they feel the churches have a clear sense of the spiritual nature of religion, are warm and accepting places and are effective in helping people find meaning in life.

Over a quarter-century ago, a classic study by Franklin Frazier, entitled "The Negro Church in America" predicted that the traditional domination of the church in the black community would decline as blacks became "integrated into the institutions of the American community."

While that has occurred to some extent, sociologists have more recently noted a growing class split in the black community, with the middle class reaping the benefits of the civil rights movement.

Discussing the political career of the Rev. Jesse Jackson, sociologist Nelsen said the black church remains "the supernatural reference point for the belief that justice will prevail."

David Roizen, a researcher at the Center for Social and Religious Research at Hartford Seminary in Connecticut, said a neo-Pentecostal revival in black churches is also filling the pews.

Flagship black denominations such as the African Methodist Episcopal Church were losing members until a revival in the 1980s led by charismatic Pentecostal preachers. White churches have also been buoyed by the charismatic movement.

Roizen, along with Hartford researcher Penny Marler, presented their own study recently of the 1978-1988 Gallup data as it applies to the overall U.S. population.

Roizen was trying to figure out why overall church attendance has remained stable — despite the rise of the Religious Right, the much-heralded return to church of "baby boomers," and the overall conservative shift of the 1980s.

Church membership over the past decade was a steady 66 percent, while those who say they attend at least once a week remained at 34 percent.

What is changing, the sociologists say, is not "if" Americans are religious but "how" they are religious.

Now that church attendance is less of a social obligation, believers have become "religious individualists" or "consumers of spirituality," the two scholars said.

They are less interested in the old "brand name" denominations of religion but take their spirituality "a la carte."

"They attend church because, simply, they like it," said Marler.

Marchers protesting the use of animals for furs roll a coat rack filled with furs along Central Park West in New York Friday. Protesters also heckled persons wearing fur coats in Chicago. Anti-fur protests are traditionally staged the day after Thanksgiving, the biggest shopping day of the year.

Friday proclaimed 'fur free'

Associated Press

Animal rights activists demonstrated around the nation on Friday, staging mock funeral processions for fur-bearing animals and urging fur wearers to "donate your dead."

In what has become a Christmas season ritual, demonstrators marched on high-fashion shopping spots, from New York's Fifth Avenue to a posh Denver mall to a shopping center in tiny Manchester, N.H. There were nearly 100 protests nationwide.

The "Fur Free Friday" demonstrations came at a bad time for the fur industry. The Christmas shopping season is expected to be sluggish at best — dampened by a faltering economy that many merchants fear will keep buyers from spending on lavish gifts such as mink coats.

A light rain held down the size of Friday's largest march, in New York, where police said 1,400 people marched. There were more than 2,000 last year.

Led by a costumed grim reaper slowly banging a drum, two marchers clad in skeleton costumes wheeled a cart crammed with furs in what a placard called a "free burial" for those who would "donate your dead."

In Denver, animal rights activists from the Rocky Mountain Humane Society planned a march and a rally at the swank new Cherry Creek Mall in Denver.

In a protest that was largely symbolic, 16 people in Manchester, N.H., demonstrated outside a busy shopping center that has no furrier.

In downtown Harrisburg, Pa., a costumed grim reaper led about 40 people in front of the Strawberry Square shopping center.

Organizers contended that their annual campaign against what they call the inhumane killing of fur-bearing animals for luxury garments has put a dent in sales.

Fur industry officials deny the protests have hurt sales and point to what they say was a 10 percent increase in sales last year.

Medical 'Miranda' offers options to ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of America's hospitals and nursing homes are welcoming a new medical "Miranda warning" that gives patients their legal options for refusing or accepting treatment if they are incapacitated.

"If the issue is dealt with up front, it certainly makes things easier when crisis situations occur," said Janet Riley, a spokeswoman for the American Health Care Association, which represents 10,000 nursing homes.

The legislation was tucked away in the deficit-cutting package approved in the congressional rush to adjourn and quietly became law with President Bush's signature earlier this month.

It stemmed, in part, from the Missouri case of Nancy Cruzan, a woman who has been in a coma since a 1983 car accident.

The Supreme Court, in its first right-to-die ruling, rejected a request by Ms. Cruzan's parents to remove a tube sustaining her with food and water. The court said the Cruzans didn't have "clear and convincing" evidence that their daughter would want to be allowed to die.

Advocates hope the law will help families avoid lengthy lawsuits to end unwanted, life-prolonging treatment.

The law, effective in November 1991, applies to hospitals, hospices, nursing homes, health maintenance organizations and other health care facilities that receive money from Medicare and Medicaid programs.

It will, supporters say, help inform patients of their medical care rights much in the same way police advise people of their legal rights in criminal matters through a "Miranda warning" at the time of arrest.

"For the first time, adult patients will be provided with the knowledge of their legal rights to make decisions about their care," said Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo.

Under the law, patients must receive written information explaining their right-to-die options under their state laws.

For example, a person checking into a hospital would be told about "advance directives" such as a living will, which spells out a person's wishes for treatment. Another possibility is a durable power of attorney, which designates someone else to make medical decisions if an individual is unable to do so.

Hospitals and other providers must note on medical records whether patients have legal directives on treatment. Providers also must have procedures to ensure they comply with a patient's wishes in accordance with state law.

The law requires the Department of Health and Human Services to conduct a nationwide campaign to educate people about right-to-die legal options.

"The most important aspect of the law in my mind is not necessarily what it's requiring hospitals to do ... but that there is a public educational effort," said Frederick J. Entin, general counsel for the American Hospital Association.

Danforth, who introduced the legislation with Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., has complained "the health care and legal systems do a terrible job of telling patients about care in hopeless situations."

But Thomas Marzen, general counsel for the National Legal Center for the Medically Dependent and Disabled, was critical of the legislation.

"It could become a program of persuasion for a lot of people to decline medical treatment, even if it's not particularly burdensome and might be necessary," he said.

The law, particularly for the disabled, could act as "another nail in the coffin — trying to get them, because they are deemed to have a low quality of life, not to live," Marzen said.

Advocates say the law creates no new federal rights.

"This isn't a bill that says you must refuse treatment," said Fennella Rouse, executive director of the Society for the Right To Die Concern for Dying. "It is a bill that says you're free to make your own choices."

Ozone damaging Yosemite's pines

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — The number of pine trees in Yosemite Park damaged by ozone has increased more than five-fold in the last five years, according to a new study.

The report, released this week, says 29.7 percent of Yosemite's pines now show mottling caused by damage from ozone, a colorless, odorless gas produced by auto and industrial emissions. A similar study in 1985 found 5.7 percent of the trees had suffered damage, the National Park Service reported.

City council bans feeding ducks

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — Things could be turning lame for ducks here.

The Laconia City Council intends to vote Monday on a law to make it illegal to feed the ducks. Meredith and Wolfeboro already have bans on the books.

The central New Hampshire communities are trying to battle health problems the ducks leave on the beaches of Lake Winnepesaukee with their feces. It causes a skin infection known as swimmer's itch.

"The reason these guys don't fly south anymore is there is plenty of people around here to feed them," said Councilor Wesley Colby, who sponsored the ban to impose up to a $200 fine for feeders.

Holiday shoppers crowd the main floor of Macy's department store in New York Friday. The day after Thanksgiving is considered the start of the Christmas shopping season. Retailers predict there will be more browsers than buyers this year.

ered the start of the Christmas shopping season. Retailers predict there will be more browsers than buyers this year.

Season starts off slow

Associated Press

Consumers wandered the nation's malls and Main Streets on Friday, starting a Christmas shopping season that retailers fear will be their worst in years because of the twin grinsches of a weak economy and the Persian Gulf crisis.

In keeping with a tradition that's as much a part of Thanksgiving weekend as leftover turkey, shoppers lined up early, some standing in the rain before stores opened.

By midmorning, many an aisle was crowded, from midtown Manhattan's swank department stores to the State Street Mall in Chicago to the shops that ring San Francisco's picturesque Union Square.

But lines at some cash registers were ominously short, substantiating fears of retailers who had predicted they would host browsers, not buyers. Many shoppers are trimming holiday budgets because they already have been squeezed financially by higher fuel prices, while talk of an economic downturn has unnerved them.

"I'm going to cut mine at least in half," said Sharon Stowe of Cary, N.C., who with her daughter-in-law was eyeing a model train display at a mall in Raleigh.

The first few days of Christmas shopping season are scrutinized by retailers because they're considered a barometer of what to expect in their most critical time of year, when they make about half their annual sales.

No one is expecting this to be a great — or even very good — Christmas shopping season.

Some pessimists, including retail industry analyst Daniel Barry of Kidder Peabody & Co. in New York, have even said it will be the worst holiday season since the 1974 recession.

The Thanksgiving weekend has lost some significance in recent years because more consumers shop later in the season. But it still helps stores decide when to offer sales and what items they must restock.

Gary Ebel, assistant general manager of Skagway department store in Grand Island, Neb., said he had no idea how the holiday retail season would turn out once the day after Thanksgiving had passed.

"Normally, it's one of the biggest days of the year for us," Ebel said. "That's proved to be false for us for several years. Our biggest day is the last Saturday before Christmas, and it seems to be moving toward that trend."

NATION IN BRIEF

Bail denied for juvenile

BOSTON (AP) — A judge denied bail Friday for one of five juveniles charged in the Halloween rape and murder of a 26-year-old woman, and a black leader called for the police commissioner's ouster.

A woman who says she was a witness said she has been warned not to talk to authorities.

"At this point in time I think that he should be tried as a juvenile," said the juvenile's attorney, Julianne Balliro, after a closed hearing in Suffolk Superior Court. "He is 15 years of age and he has no prior criminal involvement whatsoever."

Balliro's client is one of eight youths charged in the death of 26-year-old Kimberly Rae Harbour. She was bludgeoned, repeatedly raped, and stabbed more than 100 times, according to police.

Victim testifies

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — A woman with 46 personalities has acknowledged having sex with a key witness in the trial of a man who was convicted of sexually assaulting her.

The admission is significant in part because, under Wisconsin law, having sex with a mentally ill person can be a crime.

Winnebago County District Attorney Joseph Paulus said the 27-year-old victim confirmed allegations in a court document that she had a sexual relationship with Gerald Reeves, her downstairs neighbor.

"She said, 'It's true, I did do it,'" Paulus said, adding he was uncertain whether the relationship would result in new criminal charges.

Mark Peterson, 29, of Oshkosh, was convicted earlier this month of sexually assaulting the woman.

Boy spits out bullet

SLINGER, Wis. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy who authorities say spat out a bullet after being accidentally shot in the neck by a deer-hunting companion amazed doctors Friday with his grit and good fortune.

Kevin D. Panten was listed in good condition at University of Minnesota Hospital in Minneapolis and was expected to fully recover from a shattered jawbone and pierced esophagus suffered Thursday.

"He's doing super," said his mother, Janet Panten. "Doctors say the damage was minimal and the four surgeries they thought they would need to repair his jaw aren't even being done."

Search Continues

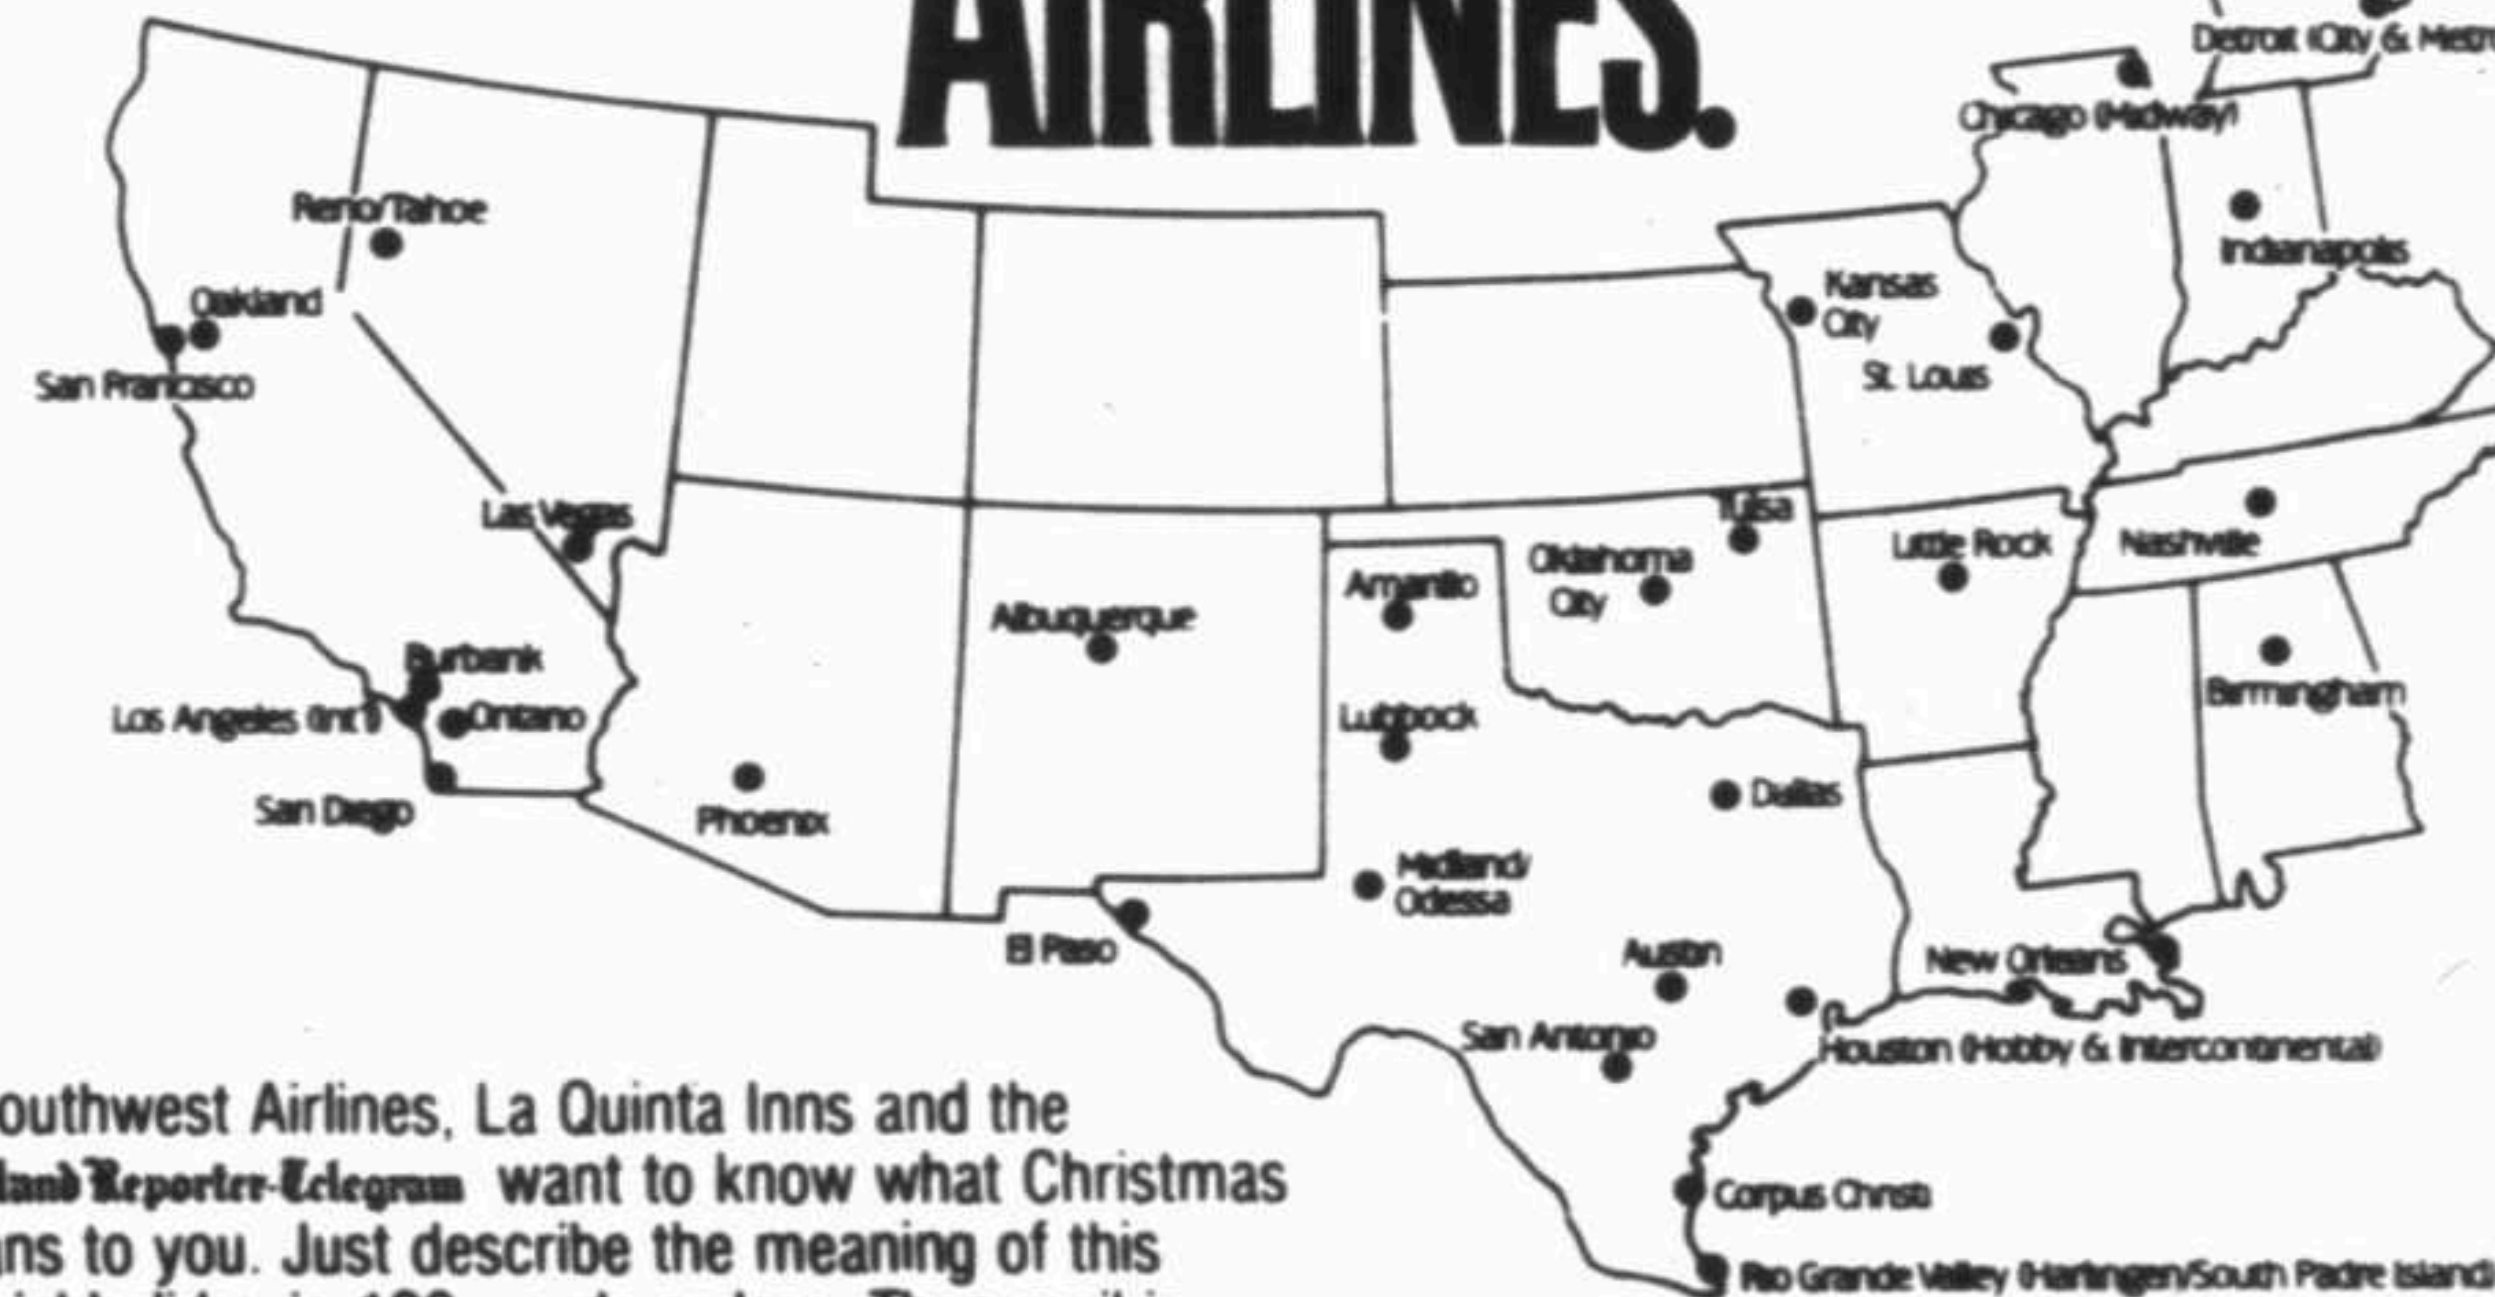

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Divers wearing wet suits against the cold searched the murky water of Lake Ellsworth on Friday for a civilian flight instructor missing after a military helicopter crash.

After two or three dives, there still was no sign of the missing man, said Fort Sill spokeswoman Sheila Samples.

"They've been down two to three times," she said. "They're still having some problems getting into the aircraft. I don't know what the problems are. They can't seem to get it open or see in it to see if anybody is in it."

The missing man was identified as Phillip E. Walker, of Sheridan, Ark., a civilian maintenance facility manager for the Army at Little Rock, said Ms. Samples.

Fired Santas, elves picket mall

WEST SENECA, N.Y. (AP) — Santa Claus walked a picket line Friday after a company that provides Santas was fired by mall managers because an elf allegedly made a suggestive comment to a store employee.

Bernard Zolnowsky, president and "head Santa Claus" of Old Style Music Inc., said he and several other workers dressed as Santa, Mrs. Claus and elves decided to picket the Seneca Mall to show the public the mall "is playing Scrooge" by firing them at the start of the season.

"They said the elf on Saturday had made a comment to a store employee that he wanted to molest her body," said Zolnowsky. He refused to identify the man hired as an elf.

Lawrence Rose, manager of the mall just south of Buffalo, told the Santa company Sunday he wanted the elf fired, said Zolnowsky, who is threatening to sue Seneca Mall for breach of contract.

"They said, point blank, if you don't fire the elf, we'll terminate your contract," he said.

Rose said the mall's attorneys told him not to comment on any allegations concerning the elf. But he said that wasn't the reason Old Style's contract was invalidated and said the contract says management needs no reason to cancel the contract.

"We terminated the contract on the basis of the general quality in the operation of the Santa Claus operation," said Rose. "We did not feel this was up to our standards."

Zolnowsky said that when he first heard about the allegation

"there was steam coming out of my ears. My first idea was to fire this person." But he said the elf convinced him that he didn't say anything to the female employee.

Zolnowsky said the mall management refused to give him any proof of the allegation or an affidavit containing the store employee's claim.

Old Style will remain at the mall until its contract ends at the end of the month, said Zolnowsky.

Rose said the sight of Santa picketing has hurt not only his mall but the image of Santa Claus.

"Santa Claus is a revered institution," he said. "And when somebody plays with it in a negative way, people reject it."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A shrewd business deal you make next month could propel you into a higher income bracket. Good luck, combined with recently acquired knowledge, will lead to a promotion in early 1991. You have new confidence. Romance will move into high gear next April. Go ahead and confide your hopes to loved ones. In August 1991, a young relative will look to you for guidance or special assistance. Be as helpful as you can.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: football commissioner Paul Tagliabue, columnist William F. Buckley Jr., author Garson Kanin, artist Henri Toulouse-Lautrec.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may have to spend a bit more than you anticipated in order to bring joy to a loved one. Do it. First impressions are lasting. Your powerful hunches are right on target.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Travel plans and communications are subject to foul-ups. Go straight to the top if you encounter delays. Group activities are favored tonight. Be careful not to dress too casually.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Postpone tackling a difficult job until the afternoon when everyone you deal with should be more accommodating. Keep your plans for the future very quiet. Avoid acting impulsively.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The winds of change are blowing hard, and their effect may be felt worldwide. Do not overlook any opportunity to protect those dear to you. Separations are possible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Steer clear of neighborhoods that may not be safe. A concern for your job or your health could be growing. Timely action is called for. Small social gatherings hold the most appeal this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Two opposing forces appear to be vying for your attention. One urges extreme caution; the other says to take a gamble. Err on the conservative side. Avoid risking money you cannot afford to lose.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Do everything you can to protect your personal and joint resources. This is no time to take big financial chances. Romance is another story. Take a gamble on love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are entering a period when it may be helpful to know lots of people. The information you obtain now has future value. Make new business contacts by attending an evening social function.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do not shrug off certain developments as unimportant for this may be far from the case. Start thinking in terms of full financial security. Travel is best postponed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Unexpected developments make things even more turbulent than yesterday. Decisions made in haste will be regretted later on. Quiet meditation will help you overcome some inner doubts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Strengthen your determination not to be caught napping by swift-moving events. Suppress a desire to take an unnecessary risk. You need to set your priorities — then stick to them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Turn to someone who has had more experience. Those who have graduated from the school of hard knocks usually have common sense. You take pleasure in putting around the house this weekend.

TODAY'S CHILDREN have penetrating minds that will serve them nicely in school and afterward. They are blessed with good memories and show a special fondness for history. Restless and independent, these youngsters like to roam free from parental supervision. They appear to learn more by doing. Outdoor exercise is vital to their sense of well-being. Almost brutally honest, these Sagittarians must learn to temper any criticism they make with kindness.

Queen Elizabeth visits British troops stationed in Germany

LAARBRUCH, Germany (AP) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II paid a visit Friday to a Royal Air Force Base which is providing some units to the multinational military operation in the Persian Gulf.

The Laarbruch base, near the German-Netherlands border, is home to 6,500 British troops and their families, and squadrons of Tornado fighter jets.

The British monarch was welcomed by about 600 British children. She also met with leaders of the nearby German communities. It was her seventh visit to Germany, but her first since East and West reunited Oct. 3.

ATLANTA (AP) — Author Anne Rice's books are filled with vampires and erotic scenes, but she's trying to appear more ordinary these days.

In Atlanta this week to promote her latest book, "The Witching Hour," Ms. Rice said she has stopped wearing the skull and crossbones earrings she sported for so long.

"Those disturbed me, so I put them away," said Ms. Rice, 49. "I'm superstitious about showing disrespect for the dead. On this tour, a couple of people have come up with reproductions of skulls to sign. That scared me."

Ms. Rice still dresses in a black jacket and pants, but she revealed a new set of earrings: teardrop pearls.

MIAMI (AP) — Two members of the teenage singing group Menudo were fired Friday after being arrested at Miami International Airport and charged with possession of marijuana.

Sergio Gonzalez, 18, and a 16-year-old whose name was not released because of his age, were charged Thursday after a U.S. Customs Service dog smelled marijuana. Customs agents took small amounts of the drug from them, Metro-Dade police Lt. James Kaelin said.

"I guess some people call them personal-use amounts, but drugs are drugs, no matter what amounts they are," said Customs spokesman Joe Krokos.

Oscar Llord, general manager for Sonotone Music, the group's Miami recording company, said Friday the group's manager had fired the two singers hours after their arrest.

Menudo has been around for several years, rotating new members into the group as veterans grow too old to appeal to a pre-teen and teen audience.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Gov. Kay Orr is leaving office after a narrow election defeat, but her husband, Bill, is on a roll.

Sales of 20,000 copies of "The First Gentleman's Cookbook" have raised more than $50,000 for a fund to redecorate the governor's mansion.

"Sales are pretty brisk right now," said Orr, who compiled the volume. "Our sense is that the book has become a collector's item. We're contemplating whether to up the price on it." It sells for $12.50.

Orr is chairman of a committee that will continue to administer the fund after his wife leaves office.

He once gave a talk about the book to a service club and described the recipe for "Better-than-Sex Cake."

"A little blue-haired lady in the audience said 'Is it really?'" Orr recalled. "I said 'I haven't tried any,' and she said 'Cake?'"

NEW YORK (AP) — A self-portrait of Marilyn Monroe will be auctioned along with 35 other art works by famous people who enjoyed art as a hobby.

The auction, scheduled for Tuesday at the Eduard Nakhmkin Fines Arts Gallery in Manhattan, is a benefit for the American Cancer Society in memory of the late actress, Jill Ireland.

Others pieces on the auction block include a painting of Andy Warhol by Jeff Bridges, David Bowie's "A Child in Berlin," and a painting Tennessee Williams did as a teen-ager.

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Country star Tammy Wynette will perform a free Christmas concert Dec. 19 for soldiers, reservists and family members at Fort Campbell.

"This is her special tribute to the soldiers and family members of Operation Desert Shield," post spokesman Bill Harralson said Thursday.

The entire 101st Airborne Division, about 19,000 soldiers, began deploying to Saudi Arabia in August. About 3,500 soldiers remain at the post and some reservists also are stationed there.

The concert, organized by CBS Records, probably will include other entertainers to be announced later, Harralson said.

Wynette is best known for her 1960s hits "D-I-V-O-R-C-E" and "Stand By Your Man."

PERSIAN GULF CRISIS

Personnel may be forced to stay in Army

WASHINGTON — The Army, facing a possible manpower squeeze in Operation Desert Shield, said Friday it is keeping in uniform all soldiers and officers who had planned to leave the service.

The move, marking the first such freeze of Army personnel lists since the all-volunteer services were created in 1973, will mean that about 5,500 people per month who otherwise would have left the service will be forced to stay on indefinitely.

The decision, approved Friday by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, is an extraordinary move that will upset the plans and expectations of many Army soldiers, including those who had lined up civilian jobs in anticipation of retiring or who had planned to enter college after completing their enlistments.

The Army also said it is freezing indefinitely all transfers of soldiers from overseas to bases in the United States, and it is cancelling the traditional Christmas vacation period for all Army training centers and military schools.

The cancellation of holiday vacations will affect 22 Army institutions, not including the West Point, N.Y., military academy. Included are seven basic training posts such as Fort Jackson, S.C., and advanced training centers such as the artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla., the infantry training post at Fort Benning, Ga., and the personnel, administration and finance school at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., said Army spokeswoman Capt. Barbara Goodno.

Army officials offered those examples of affected installations but declined to provide a complete list.

The freeze on transfers will affect between 1,000 and 1,500 people per month, said an Army official who discussed the measures on condition he not be identified.

The combination of measures is designed to keep the Army at the highest possible state of readiness in case additional reinforcements are needed in the Persian Gulf crisis, the official said.

"I've got an unprecedented deployment under way in Saudi Arabia," which required the Army leadership to take the extreme step of preventing soldiers and officers from leaving the service, the official said.

The move...will mean that about 5,500 people per month will be forced to stay on...

Also today, the Marine Corps disclosed that it invoked a measure on Nov. 8 that means as many as 12,000 Marines, both regular and reserve, could be prevented from leaving the service even though they were due to retire or end their service obligations. Unlike the Army, the Marines will not apply the measure service-wide, said Maj. Nancy J. LaLunta, a spokeswoman at Marine Corps headquarters.

The Marines also announced Friday that they ordered to active duty another 2,377 reservists for Desert Shield. Nearly all will report for duty with the 2nd Marine Expeditionary Force at Camp Lejeune, N.C., which is scheduled to deploy to the gulf as reinforcements for the approximately 45,000 Marines already there.

On Aug. 22 President Bush gave Cheney the legal authority to retain members of the armed forces on duty in the gulf who reach their retirement or re-enlistment dates, but the authority was limited to those soldiers and officers who were directly involved in Desert Shield.

In taking its action Friday, the Army made a step further and applied the "stop loss" authority across the board, meaning everyone in the service is affected.

Since Sept. 1, the Army had been using the "stop loss" authority on a limited basis, retaining about 2,000 men and women per month who otherwise would have retired or not re-enlisted, the Army official said. It was determined after Bush ordered a new wave of Army deployments to Saudi Arabia earlier this month that a broader authority was needed to keep personnel in place, he said.

In its announcement, the Army said there would be three exceptions to the mandatory extensions of service: those officers who face mandatory retirement for medical or other reasons, those soldiers discharged for reasons of incompetence or other failings, and hardship cases.

Teens cover up offensive photos in magazines

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — American teenagers in Germany have launched a "cover-up" mission for Persian Gulf soldiers yearning for reading material.

Using marking pens and an eye for what may offend Saudi sensibilities, the teens have been drawing over pictures of scantily clad people and advertisements for alcohol and tobacco products.

"The original plan was that they were just going to cut out the pictures, but after the first three magazines they had edited out, there was nothing left," said U.S. Air Force 2nd Lt. Bryan Stokstad, who organized the magazine drive.

Stokstad, of Des Moines, Iowa, said he got the idea after reading an article in the unofficial military newspaper Stars and Stripes "that the morale down there was just a little bit low" because troops didn't have enough current publications.

"They were receiving the Stars and Stripes, but they were getting issues a week late, and just for them to circulate around it would take even longer," Stokstad said Thursday.

He said the project was started in mid-October, and as of last week the volunteers had sent out 2,500 pounds of magazines to Saudi Arabia through the military postal system.

"We have about 750 pounds of magazines that are left and ready to go out, and I'm hoping we'll be able to send them off soon," said Stokstad, who works in the command post of Sembach Air Base near Kaiserslautern, about 60 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

At first, he said he set up collection points at the base recreation center, the shopping center and the chapel at the air base, asking for donations of current news magazines.

Then he contacted a base teen-age group called LIFE, which stands for Life is for Everyone, to ask for help in editing pictures that the Saudis might find offensive. The nearly 20 youths in the group range in age of 12 to 18.

He said that one of the teen-age girls came up with the idea of drawing clothes on the pictures.

"That way if there was an article on the back of a page it wouldn't be disturbed," said Stokstad. "It kind of took over from there, and basically that's what we're doing. Drawing clothes and covering things up with markers."

"There was a lady that was in an advertisement for brassieres, and one of the girls drew a blouse on her. It looked real good," he added.

Duty separates twins for first time in their lives

MICHIGAN, N.D. (AP) — Folks have been getting the Polasky twins confused for years. But during this holiday season, they can tell which is which.

Tom is the one on duty in the Persian Gulf. Tim is the one left at home on the family's dairy farm.

The 20-year-old brothers are separated for the first time in their lives by half the world and an Army regulation that allows only one at a time to be sent overseas.

"I was glad I didn't have to go, but I wish both of us could have stayed home," says Tim, who wears an Operation Desert Shield T-shirt.

Even though he has exclusive use of the car he and his brother always shared, Tim says it feels strange and lonesome — especially during the holidays.

The family's traditional Thanksgiving dinner wasn't the same without Tom and Jeanne Polasky says her son sounds depressed when he calls from Saudi Arabia.

"There's nothing to do," she says. "They play a lot of cards and spend half their time sleeping."

The twins joined the North Dakota Army National Guard last winter. The Army kept them together for basic training and boot camp, and both were assigned to the 132nd Quartermaster Detachment of Cando, about 60 miles northeast of their farm.

"We requested they go together," says their mother. "They wanted to go together."

When their unit was activated Sept. 10, Mrs. Polasky prepared to say goodbye to both.

Instead, Tom was put on a bus to Fort McCoy, Wis., and Tim was transferred to another outfit.

Mrs. Polasky's first letters to her son said "See you at Christmas." Now, she counts on him being back for his sister's wedding in June.

By then, it could be Tim's turn to ship out.

Salvation Army to send gift packs

DALLAS (AP) — The Salvation Army in Texas will send 8,000 gift packets to the 2nd Armored Division in Saudi Arabia.

The youth program is dubbed Operation Red Shield. The U.S. military deployment to the Middle East is known as Operation Desert Shield.

The shipment will originate from Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, beginning the week of Nov. 26, officials said.

The gift boxes will contain items including toothbrushes, toothpaste, razors, soap and reading materials.

The boxes were packed in 40 Salvation Army Centers in Texas by boys involved with a scouting program, the organization said. The packets also will contain a personal greeting card signed by the boy who prepared the gift.

Hostages' families to meet officials

DALLAS (AP) — Texas families of Iraqi hostages said Friday they hope an upcoming State Department meeting will help them put faces with the voices they hear on the telephone almost daily.

Most said they do not expect any new information at the meeting, slated for Tuesday in Houston. But they say they want to meet the officials who are a link to their loved ones, as well as other hostage families.

"I think it'll be a real plus to get to meet some of the other people that I may talk to on the phone every day," said Patricia Hale of Spring.

"We've all been talking with people over the phone, and now they're just trying to make it more personal," said Mrs. Hale, whose husband, Edward, was taken captive in Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Sarrah Amos of Harmony said she also plans to attend. Her husband, Charles, is being held hostage.

"I am simply going to hear what they are saying, what they have to tell us. More or less, I'm just going to see what ... new information there is, if there is any," Mrs. Amos said.

"I believe it's just kind of a briefing of what they've tried to accomplish, and meet with the families and try to make a personal contact with them," she said. "Especially some of the other (hostages' wives) that I've talked to on the phone but never met personally. I am looking forward to that."

A spokeswoman for the Department of State's Kuwait Task Force said the Houston meeting will be the fifth of seven planned nationwide. Gatherings already have been held in Boston, Washington, Orlando and Chicago, she said.

The spokeswoman, who asked that her name not be used, said the gatherings were intended to give Elizabeth Tamposi, assistant secretary of state for consular affairs, and other officials a chance to discuss the situation in Iraq and Kuwait and meet families face to face. The consular affairs office is responsible for Americans in foreign countries.

The meetings are open only to the families of hostages. The time and place of the Houston meeting has not been announced, the spokeswoman said.

"Secretary Tamposi hopes to gain a complete understanding of the unique personal burdens that the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait has placed on these families," she said.

"We talk to these people every day or every other day, and I think they felt this would be a nice chance to meet people face to face, and a chance to air concerns on both sides."

Lynda Parker of Vidor said it will be difficult for her to take off work Tuesday, but she and four of her children still hope to go.

"I don't even know why they're holding the meeting. We talk to them daily on the phone, and I don't even really know what's going on," she said.

One thing the families expect is that state department officials will continue discouraging them from traveling to Iraq to visit their relatives. Some, like Donnita Cole of Odessa, already are planning to go, while others have been warned away.

Mrs. Cole said she cannot afford to go to Houston because she is saving for a trip to visit her husband, John Henry, in Iraq. She and Willie Carr, whose husband Gary was among the first hostages taken, will leave together from New York Dec. 3. "Nothing could keep me from going," Mrs. Carr told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Marjorie Walterscheid of Jacksboro said she decided not to go after her husband, Rainard, insisted she stay home. Mrs. Parker still is deciding.

Mrs. Walterscheid and Mrs. Parker both saw their husbands for the first time in nearly four months Thanksgiving Day, on television news programs.

"It made me more lonesome for him, of course," said Mrs. Parker of her husband, Bobby Gene.

Hostage not very optimistic

JACKSBORO, Texas (AP) — The wife of a Texas oil worker held hostage in Iraq said Friday that her husband told her he "didn't think he'd come home alive."

Rainard Walterscheid, 52, called his wife, Marjorie, twice on Thanksgiving Day.

"He told me the last phone call that he didn't think he'd come home alive," Ms. Walterscheid said.

She also saw her husband Thursday for the first time since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, where Walterscheid had been working for the Santa Fe Drilling Co. since March.

Mrs. Walterscheid and 34 family members gathered in Jacksboro for the holiday saw television news pictures of Rainard Walterscheid and 11 other American hostages eating Thanksgiving dinner at a Baghdad country club.

"He looked very good," Mrs. Walterscheid said. "I'm glad he's with someone. He told me he hadn't seen anyone in two months."

She said the second call Thursday was to express concern about Gary Carr of North Richland Hills, Texas, and two other hostages who were not brought to the Thanksgiving dinner.

He asked his wife to contact the American Red Cross and members of the other hostages' families to determine if the men had been provided a holiday meal.

The Red Cross arranged the dinner, which was held at the Hunting Club, a country club in a fashionable district of Baghdad.

U.S., allied officials plan for medical casualties

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — With the possibility of tens of thousands of casualties if war breaks out with Iraq, U.S. and allied officials are making plans to cope in the Persian Gulf and elsewhere.

The Center of Defense Information in Washington has estimated that a three-month conflict would leave 10,000 American soldiers dead and 35,000 wounded, a staggering number that would swamp hospitals in the gulf region.

Officials are reluctant to discuss details, but the military has plans to airlift wounded to Germany and other countries.

The Americans also have agreements with Israel and Britain on handling casualties.

U.S. officials have been reportedly checking out medical facilities in Greece and elsewhere to cope with potential casualties.

The Center of Defense Information in Washington has estimated that a three-month conflict would leave 10,000 American soldiers dead and 35,000 wounded...

"You've seen the numbers on casualty estimates. We're going to be overwhelmed," said Lt. Cmdr. Chris Kain of Bremerton, Wash., one of four orthopedic surgeons at the northernmost Marine field hospital in Saudi Arabia.

"We're used to seeing those kinds of wounds, but not at such huge, huge volumes," Kain said. Available medical facilities:

■ In the Persian Gulf: Behind the medics and company aid posts at the front, U.S. Marines have five field hospitals, and the Navy has a 500-bed tent facility. The hospital ships USNS Mercy and USNS Comfort, two converted oil tankers, are also in the gulf.

Britain has a base hospital at Jubail, and medical personnel on ships in the gulf.

Saudi Arabian hospitals could handle up to 3,000 war casualties. In Bahrain, teams of U.S. medical specialists have been working to prepare local facilities. It is estimated that Bahrain could see 700 seriously injured arrive each week.

■ Israeli officials refuse to comment on what facilities they could provide, stressing that Israel is not directly involved in the gulf confrontation. But military sources said there is a standing agreement to fly wounded to Israeli hospitals.

■ Britain's Royal Air Force base at Akrotiri, Cyprus, has a well-equipped military hospital.

Athens newspapers report that U.S. defense officials have investigated Greece's military hospitals to determine their capabilities.

A U.S. Embassy official in Rome said there is a standing agreement with NATO allies for emergency medical support and that would include use of hospitals in Italy.

There is also a hospital at Incirlik air base in Turkey.

■ The United States keeps three standby hospitals in Britain at RAF bases. Britain maintains nine military hospitals that could be expanded if fighting erupts. The Defense Ministry also has contingency plans for state-run civilian hospitals to treat war wounded.

The Americans also have large army hospitals at Landstuhl and Frankfurt in Germany, and a U.S. Air Force hospital at Wiesbaden.

PART-TIME INCOME AVAILABLE

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several routes which need to be re-filled with qualified, responsible individuals. Now is one of the best times ever to obtain a route in your area!

Often asked questions:
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current carrier force is already 65% adult and 35% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
• ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
• MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
• COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
• YOUTHS who are involved in afternoon school functions, but want to work!
• SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.

How much money can I make as a carrier?
Depending on the size of the route(s) from $200 to $600 monthly! Some motor routes make even more. Although no motor routes are expected to be available, depending on your service record, you may qualify to move up to a motor route later!

How long does it take?
The actual delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the route(s). Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carriers choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 AM Monday - Friday and 7 AM on Saturday and Sunday
Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!

RESERVE YOUR ROUTE NOW!
