Possession Of Marijuana. . .

Felony Charges Are Pending

Two persons were booked on felony charges of possession of marijuana and another may face a felony charge of possession of a dangerous drug following a Tuesday night raid by Snyder Police and officers of the Scurry County Sheriff's Deparment.

Taken into custody were a 22 year-old man and a 23-year-old woman, who are due to be charged with possession of marijuana, and a 21-year-old woman suspected of possessing a dangerous drug. The latter was released, pending a lab report on a substance she had in her possession at the time of the arrest.

Officers said eight persons were present in a house on the east side of town where the raid took place.

Approximately one pound of marijuana was confiscated, the officers said.

Police also listed a theft report. At about 11:30 p. m., a car was reported to left the Food Basket at U. S. Highway 84 and Huffman Ave. without paying for $15 worth of gasoline.

Three traffic mishaps were reported. A two-car mishap at 5:11 p. m. in the 1300 block of 37th St. involved a 1979 Ford driven by Donna Ramsey Riggs and a 1974 Pontiac driven by Elizabeth Marie Woods. Both drivers were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Scurry County EMS for treatment of what were described as minor injuries. Both vehicles sustained substantial damage.

At 8:28 p. m., a parked 1975 Dodge owned by Odell Cox was hit by a 1976 GMC Suburban driven by Henry Lee Layne. Damage was reported to be slight.

At 11:35 p. m., minor damage resulted when a 1979 Honda driven by David Turner of Lubbock hit a guard rail at the intersection of U. S. Highway 84 and Texas Highway 350.

Two illegal aliens who had been picked up for public intoxication were released to the U. S. Border Patrol.

Two reports of prowlers were logged and one harassing telephone call was reported.

Tommy Doyle, 3789 Highland reported that a window had been broken in a vehicle parked at his house. Police said the window apparently was shot out by a BB gun.

Senate Gives Preliminary Approval. . .

Water Fund Passes Test

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton's plans to use surplus state revenue for future water projects passed a stiff test Tuesday in the Senate with a preliminary approval of 21-8.

A final vote is scheduled Thursday, when the Senate meets again.

The measure, which has been endorsed by Gov. Bill Clements, will return to the House for approval of several minor amendments.

The House approved the measure 113-19.

Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana, Senate sponsor of the proposed state constitution amendment, argued that dedication of part of the state's excess revenue to future water development was in effect tax relief because it would help local governments with their water worries.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, and Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, plus several other senators, hinted that Clayton wanted the state to finance transfer of East Texas water to water-shy West Texas.

Two key amendments offered by Farabee, and debated at length, would have removed any pledge about surplus tax money, but would have financed water assistance programs through the Legislature.

Both failed by votes of 16-13 and 17-12. Most other attempted amendments failed by larger votes.

"You and the governor think you can solve water problems by just throwing money at them," Doggett told Howard.

"I think it might be cheaper to move West Texas to East Texas than to transfer East Texas water to West Texas," said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches.

"You think water is a hot political issue," Farabee told the Senate, "but property taxes will be a much hotter one. ... If you dedicate these surplus funds to water in future years you will be looking for increased property taxes to help pay for schools."

"This plan is like an alligator," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur. "When it's small it's cute, but 50 years from today it will eat everything in the pool."

A similar water funding plan failed in the regular session of the Legislature and it was made an issue of this special session by Clements.

The House-approved measure offered the Senate calls for a Nov. 3 vote on a constitution change that would dedicate half of any future revenue surpluses to a special water assistance fund.

The fund would be used for water development, water conservation, water quality enhancement and flood control.

The proposal also would:

— Allow the state to guarantee up to $500 million in water bonds issued by water districts, river authorities, cities and other political subdivisions. Howard said this would enable local governments to issue $1 billion in water bonds at preferential interest rates.

— Raise from 6 to 12 percent the interest the state may pay on bonds, thus creating a market for the $218 million in state water development bonds that have been authorized but never issued because of low interest rates.

A proposed amendment by Doggett to change the date of the vote on the proposal from this November to Nov. 2, 1982 failed 20-9. "If this is a hurry-up election with no candidates there would be a low turnout promoted by public relations firms hired by all the water hustlers in the state," he said.

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, failed 18-10 with an amendment that would have required water projects to be selected from five geographic regions. "This would assure that not all the money would go to West Texas," he said.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, failed 18-11 with an amendment that would have split the water plan into three different votes.

Over Tax Cut...

O'Neill All But Concedes Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., complaining that his Democratic troops have been "engulfed by telephone calls" urging support for President Reagan's tax cut, today all but conceded the long-awaited showdown to the president.

In his gloomiest assessment yet of Democratic chances, O'Neill declined to repeat his earlier prediction that Democrats would defeat Reagan's tax plan and substitute a two-year, 15 percent proposal of their own.

"All I can say is we are experiencing a blitz ... a telephone blitz like this nation has never seen. It's had a devastating effect," O'Neill told reporters as the House prepared to open debate on the tax legislation.

But deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said today that an administration count of the likely vote in the House showed the outcome "too close to call."

He said White House aides worked "into the wee hours this morning" on the issue and continued calls to memberes until 10 p.m. Tuesday.

"It is right down to the wire," Speakes said. "We feel we have gotten a number of people in the last 24 hours. I feel the momentum going our way."

A victory in the Demoratic-controlled House would give the president a double-barrelled triumph as the Senate was also poised to vote its expected approval today for his three-year, 25 percent tax cut bill.

Reagan was virtually certain of victory in the Republican-run Senate.

Reagan's plan, the keystone of his economic program, calls for a 25 percent cut in tax rates over 33 months, with all taxpayers getting the same reduction regardless of income. There would be automatic annual reductions to offset inflation starting in 1985.

The rival Democratic bill calls for a 15 percent cut over 21 months, with the largest share of relief going to Americans earning less than $50,000 a year. A third-year, 10 percent cut would be conditional on an improved economy.

Both would take effect Oct. 1, and either would be the largest tax cut in American history.

Because the cuts are permanent, the effect multiplies in future years, saving taxpayers and costing the government $700 billion over the next five years under the Democrats' version and $750 billion under Reagan's plan.

That's about as much as or more than the 1982 federal budget that Reagan succeeded in slashing in earlier congressional battles won with the help of a coalition of Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats.

Reagan found the votes harder to assemble in the tax fight, despite thousands of phone calls and telegrams from Americans responding to his plea for public pressure on Congress.

There are 191 Republicans and 244 Democrats in the House. If all Republicans side with the president, Reagan would need 27 Democratic votes for victory.

An Associated Press survey on Tuesday of 39 conservative Democrats viewed as potential swing votes showed 17 already in Reagan's column and seven siding with the Democratic plan.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. predicted that only 14 to 24 Democrats would defect, leaving the Democratic alternative a slim advantage. "This is the hardest bill the leadership has ever gone through," O'Neill said.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said the House vote shaped up as "very close....We've narrowed the gap. We think we're about even and we'll surge ahead at the bell."

Senate leaders had hoped to lend Reagan momentum by passing his bill Tuesday, but that plan was abandoned when they quit for the night with 10 amendments still to be considered.

Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said he hoped the Senate would give Reagan's plan a ringing endorsement today, although that probably would be too late to have any effect in the House.

Yet a third tax plan, a one-year cut backed by liberals, awaited disposal in the House today.

That was expected to die swiftly, leaving the real choice between the Reagan plan branded by Democrats as a windfall for the wealthy and the Democratic leadership's bill dismissed by Reagan as "just another wealthy promise."

The House Rules Committee decided Tuesday to limit debate on the bill to one day and to allow no amendments to the rival tax-cut plans.

With every vote vital, both sides mounted intensive lobbying offensives.

Reagan, who brought 48 Democrats and Republicans to the White House for personal lobbying Monday and Tuesday, cleared his calendar for Taxes attract a lot of attention when the conversation turns to any level of government, and much of the time the machinery is so complex that it is difficult to understand. For example, it is difficult to see any great difference between the two federal tax programs that have stimulated arguments in Washington recently. That is, it was difficult by the time it approached a vote. Although neither side was anxious to use the word compromise, there have in fact been several adjustments on both sides since the issue sprouted several months ago.

But there is not much doubt about the bottom line in the big tax issue down at Austin. We refer to the one that has county commissioners here and elsewhere up in arms. The word out of Austin is that a group wants to "reduce" the state ad valorem tax rate from 10 cents to three cents. If you heard that, you would likely assume that it meant a tax cut.

But that is not necessarily the case. The bottom line shows that, instead of taking about $2.36 per year the past two years from scurry County, the new proposal would take about $806,000.

How can this be so? It gets back to property values and ratios of assessment. For the past two years, the state has been assessing the 10-cent tax on an assessment ratio of .0001 percent, which is, for all practial purposes, zero. They couldn't cut it out, because it is in the Coristitution. But they could reduce the value, which they did, to all but wipe it off the books two years ago.

Now, a three-cent rate at today's values instead of a 10-cent rate at the previous values actually means a big tax increase. This situation is one of the type that has led to the new appraisal law putting everything on 100 percent of value. Previously, governing bodies of the various tax entities could maneuver values, ratios of assessment and rates to present a confusing picture to the taxpayer. That is the reason a proposed three-cent reduction is really a big increase in this case.

C Of C Member Resigns Post

Resignation of a board member and a variety of reports made up the agenda for the monthly meeting of the Snyder chamber of commerce Tuesday afternoon.

Joe Flack, senior plant superintendent with Sun Gas Plant, submitted his resignation to the board, effective July 31. Flack, who also is serving as treasurer, is being transferred by his company to Dallas.

The board accepted the resignation with regrets and then president-elect Brenda Hedges, who presided at the meeting, appointed a three-person nominating committee to fill the vacancy. The committee is composed of Brian Boswell, Elizabeth Potts and Roy McQueen.

E. W. McCants, who is heading up a committee to update chamber by-laws, presented his first report. The board tenatively approved the committee recommendation that included minor revisions.

Chamber Manager Bill Warner reported that July 4th appears to be close to break even, although there remains some outstanding accounts. The board discussed ways to insure continued success of the July 4th celebration and fireworks display. Cost of the fireworks this year was in excess of $4,200.

Warner also discussed the possibility of coordinating a first aid program for local businesses and oil field contractors. A survey will be made to determine local interest, Warner said.

Directors attending included Mrs. Hedges, Mrs. Potts, Flack, McQueen, Boswell, McCants and Morris Light.

Q.—How did Snyder become the host city for the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals Rodeo?

A.—The community put in a "bid" for it through the Chamber of Commerce six years ago—that is facilities and various services were offered. It was accepted and has been renewed year-by-year since then.

Wednesday update

Ambassador Ousted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert G. Neumann was ousted as U.S. ambassador to Saudi Arabia after saying in a private meeting that Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. was excessively pro-Israel because of presidential ambitions, a congressional source says.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said Neumann also described Haig's supposed White House aspirations as "unrealistic."

Neumann, 65, who assumed his duties in Saudi Arabia just two months ago, made the purported remarks during a meeting last week in the office of Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Charles Percy, R-Ill.

Haig fired Neumann late last week after he learned about the remarks. The White House did not officially acknowledge Neumann's departure until Tuesday.

Sailor 'Vindicated'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A sailor who died aboard the USS Ranger after allegedly being forced to perform disciplinary exercises while on a diet of bread and water has been "vindicated" by the Navy's decison to discipline the ship's commander and 27 crewmen, his father says.

The Navy said Tuesday that Capt. Dan A. Petersen, skipper of the aircraft carrier, was accused of dereliction of duty in the April 14 death of Airman Recruit Paul Trerice, 20, of Algonac, Mich. The ship was stationed at Subic Bay in the Philippines at the time.

Three petty officers were charged with manslaughter; one petty officer was charged with involuntary manslaughter; two commissioned officers were accused of dereliction of duty, and disciplinary action was ordered against 21 other crewmen.

The Navy charged that Trerice had been assaulted.

Shoots Burgler

DALLAS (AP) — A 70-year-old Dallas man followed a church burglary suspect to a pawn shop Tuesday, then wounded the man in the foot when he tried to escape, police said.

Cecil Bell told police he saw a young man remove an air conditioner from the Judea Baptist Church in South Dallas, then followed the man to a pawn shop, where the man got out and spoke with the manager of the shop.

Bell, meanwhile, had asked a passerby to call the police.

He was waiting for them to arrive when the suspect left the pawn shop and got back into his car. Afraid the man would escape, Bell grabbed his .16-gauge shotgun from the trunk of his car and yelled for the man to stop.

Patton Named To Special Panel

R. C. Patton, a member of the board of trustees of Western Texas College, has been requested to serve on a panel concerning Governance and Administrative Issues of the '80s during the 41st annual conference of the Association of the Texas Junior College Board members and Administrators in Austin on Oct. 26.

He is one of two community college board members in Texas scheduled on the panel. The other board member serving with him is Larry Adams, North Harris County Junior College in Houston. Two college presidents will serve on the panel. They are Dr. Louis B. Williams, president of Paris Junior College, and Dr. Byron McClenney, president of San Antonio Community College District.

Presiding during the program will be Reagan Legg, board president, Midland College, and president of the Association of Texas Junior Collge Board Members and Administrators.

The speaker will be Dr. Richard C. Richardson Jr., professor and chairman, Department of Higher Education, Arizona State University.

Prince Charles, Lady Diana United In Marriage

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer were wed this morning in the music-filled color and splendor of a 1,000-year-old monarchy, embarking on life as man and wife on waves of love from a devoted people.

"O let the nations rejoice and be glad!" erupted the massed choirs when the Archbishop of Canterbury pronounced the couple wed under the soaring dome of St. Paul's Cathedral.

After the age-old, 80-minute ceremony, the royal couple rode back to Buckingham Palace in an open carriage, wending through a crowd of almost one million people who roared their good wishes and waved a sea of Union Jack flags. Church bells rang across the realm.

"This is the stuff of which fairy tales are made," observed the archbishop.

The union of the 32-year-old Prince of Wales and Lady Diana, the 20-year-old kindergarten teacher with the captivating smile, was the first time in three centuries that the heir to the British throne has married an English-born woman.

Besides the masses of spectators here, at least 500 million others were believed to have watched the ceremony on television around the world.

"I've never seen anything like it," one veteran bobby said of the crowds. "We've got the whole of Britain ... here." Authorities had feared possible terrorist attacks or other violence during the great event, but no major incidents were reported.

At St. Paul's altar, the nervous heir to the British throne pronounced, "I Charles Philip Arthur George take thee Diana Frances to my wedded wife, to have and to hold from this day forward...."

Diana, standing in a cloud of white, cast a sidelong glance and smile at her groom.

Then she, speaking scarcely above a whisper, repeated the vow, but slipped up, repeating Charles' full name in the wrong order, promising to marry "Philip Charles Arthur George." Charles also erred at one point, dropping the word "worldy" when he promised to share his "worldly goods."

The Prince of Wales then placed the band of Welsh gold on the bride's hand, and the archbishop, the Rt. Rev. Robert Runcie, declared them wed.

The throngs in the sunshine outside, listening to the ceremony on loudspeakers, broke a hushed silence with loud cheers.

Queen Elizabeth II, wearing light blue, had ridden the two miles to the cathedral in an open landau carriage, sitting beside her husband, Prince Philip, and flanked by red-plumed cavalrymen.

Prince Charles, in his brass-buttoned Royal Navy commander's uniform, appeared slightly jittery as his carriage rolled from Buckingham Palace. He waved and saluted the crowds, his brother Prince Andrew next to him.

"Hip, hip, hooray!" boomed the throng outside St. Paul's, the national cathedral, as the groom stepped down from his coach. Andrew, his chief "supporter," checked that he brought the ring.

Last to arrive for the 80-minute Church of England ceremony, the first wedding of a future monarch since Elizabeth's in 1947, was the bride.

Riding in a glass coach and wearing a frilly wedding gown in ivory silk taffeta and old lace with a 25-foot sweeping train, Lady Diana smiled radiantly from behind a lace veil. Her father, the 8th Earl Spencer, sat beside her as two bay horses drew the carriage through the teeming streets.

When she arrived, a vision in white topped by a bejewelled tiara, she turned sweetly to wave to a wildly cheering crowd.

A trumpet fanfare sounded to announce her arrival, and to the robust "Trumpet Voluntary" of Jeremiah Clarke, she took the arm of her father and began the 3½-minute walk down the aisle, followed by her youthful wedding party.

In his sermon following the exchange of vows, the archbishop, Rt. Rev. Robert Runcie, told the congregation and the royal couple:

"This is the stuff of which fairy tales are made: the prince and princess on their wedding day. But fairy tales usually end at this point with the simple phrase, 'They lived happily ever after.' This may be because fairy stories regard marriage as an anticlimax after the romance of courtship.

"This is not the Christian view. Our faith sees the wedding day not as the place of arrival but the place where the adventure really begins."

Charles was seen quickly brushing his hand near his eyes once or twice during the ceremony; he had said the music might make him cry.

His 80-year-old grandmother, the Queen Mother Elizabeth, dabbed her eyes several times as she watched her first grandson and his wife, now the Princess of Wales.

For the first time in history a Roman Catholic clergyman took part in a wedding service for British royalty in this Protestant country. Cardinal Basil Hume, head of the Catholic Church here, read a prayer of "Joy and Peace" for the couple.

The crowd outside, some with heads bowed beneath souvenir red-white-and-blue plastic hats, joined in the singing of Diana's personal favorite hymn, "I Vow to Thee, My Country," from hymn sheets distributed along the route.

Queen Elizabeth II bit her lip as the national anthem, "God Save the Queen," in a special arrangement for double orchestra, choir, state trumpeters, organ and clashing cymbals.

The queen alone stood silent as her family, crowned heads of about 20 nations and dignitaries from the Western world, including U.S. first lady Nancy Reagan, joined in singing with the congregation.

The world got the first good look at the just-married couple as Prince and Princess of Wales after they signed the register and emerged back into the choir, the bride with her veil off.

The queen smiled as Diana curtsied to her in progressing, arm in arm with her dashing prince, up the aisle.

The ash blonde earl's daughter carried a bouquet of golden Mountbatten roses, named for Charles' godfather, who was assassinated in 1979, mixed with lilies of the valley, white orchids and freesias.

They entered the 1902 state postillion landau, drawn by four gray horses with two outriders and headed back to Buckingham Palace and the wedding breakfast.

Diana's father joined Queen Elizabeth in her carriage for the ride to palace, and her mother, Frances Shand Kydd, rode with Prince Philip in another carriage.

Among the Americans along the procession route was Rose Skelton, who brought her 12-year-old and 14-year-old daughters from Ocean Springs, Miss., and spent the night on a Fleet Street sidewalk.

"This is something my children will only experience once in a lifetime. They can see the ceremony on television ... but they will never, ever be able to see the coaches, the horses and the future King of England live," she said.

The crowds were watched over by more than 5,000 police and troops in what Scotland Yard called its biggest security operation.

The security forces also guarded the kings and queens, princes and princesses and other notables from foreign countries.

Along with the revelry in London, there were grim reminders of the strife in the country. Rioting erupted for the third night in in the mostly black Toxteth district of Liverpool, 180 miles northwest of London. In Northern Ireland, British army experts defused a 400-pound bomb found in a mobile home; military sources said they believed the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army planned to blow up an army patrol with it as a "wedding spectacular."

Royal Pair Slips While Saying Vows

LONDON (AP) — In the moments before she became Princess of Wales today, Lady Diana Spencer made her first slip, speaking her husband's name in the wrong order before the hushed congregation at St. Paul's Cathedral and some 500 million television viewers.

But she was not alone. Prince Charles left out a word in repeating his vows.

Diana, in a dress with a 25-foot train and yards of veil, gracefully negotiated a difficult exit from her coach at the foot of St. Paul's steps She glided down the long, red-carpeted aisle at her father's side without a false step.

But when the Archbishop of Canterbury, Rt. Rev. Robert Runcie spoke the prince's name for her to repeat: "Charles Philip Arthur George," she promised to marry "Philip Charles Arthur George."

The Prince of Wales also made a mistake, after placing the band of Welsh gold on his bride's finger. He offered to share his "goods" but dropping the word "worldly."

Buts such minor errors did not stop the archbishop from pronouncing the couple "man and wife together" and crowds outside, listening to the ceremony on loudspeakers, broke their silence with loud cheers.

Lady Di Weds In Vision Of Taffeta And Old Lace

LONDON (AP) — Lady Diana Spencer's wedding dress, probably the most closely guarded secret in fashion history, is a romantic fairy-tale gown in ivory silk taffeta and old lace, with a fitted, boned bodice and curved neckline.

It has a full skirt over a multi-layered tulle petticoat, intricately designed bodice panels, and the entire gown hand-embroidered with tiny mother-of-pearl sequins and pearls.

With the frills, flounces and 25-foot sweeping train of her gown, the tall, slim bride observed the tradition of wearing something old — lace, something new — silk especially spun at Lullingstone silk farm in Dorest, something borrowed — a tiara from the Spencer family collection, and something blue.

A small blue bow was sewn into the waistband. And a second good luck token, a tiny horsehoe in 18 carat gold studded with white diamonds, was also sewn into the intricately embroidered dress.

The cost of the original by London designers David Emanuel, 28, and his wife Elizabeth, 27, was not revealed. Regular Emanuel wedding dresses start around $5,610.

Diana's low-heeled slippers were in ivory silk, top-stitched with pearls and sequins and the suede soles edged in gold.

Diana carried a cascade of gardenias and golden Mountbatten roses named after Charles' beloved godfather, Lord Louis Mountbatten, assassinated in 1979, mixed with white orchids, lilies-of-the-valley and freesias.

The bouquet included traditional myrtle and veronica, cut from bushes grown from cuttings from Queen Victoria's wedding bouquet.

Details of the bride's gown and the outfits of Queen Elizabeth II and other royal women were released in sealed envelopes Wednesday morning to be opened at the moment the 20-year-old bride stepped into the glass coach at Clarence House on her way to St. Paul's Cathedral.

The Emanuels made three gowns, to allow for a switch in case details of Diana's choice leaked ahead of the wedding. But they did not. A description published Tuesday by New York fashion magazine Women's Wear Daily proved wide of the mark.

Manufacturers poised to rush out copies of the world's most widely seen wedding dress. One Welsh firm said it hoped to have cut-price replicas, selling for around $467 by Wednesday afternoon.

Lady Diana's five bridesmaids — the eldest Charles' first cousin Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones, 17, and the youngest, Winston Churchill's great-granddaughter, Clementine Hambro, 5, wore ivory silk dresses, based closely on Diana's gown.

Americans Among Mass Of British Spectators

LONDON (AP) — In the pomp of a horse-and-carriage procession and the adulation of joyful throngs, Prince Charles and his bride, Lady Diana Spencer, set out this morning through London's teeming streets for the altar of St. Paul's Cathedral.

The huge crowd, many of whom had camped out for days. roared their good wishes and waved a sea of Union Jack flags as the glittering, 11-carriage procession, led by Queen Elizabeth II, wended the two miles from Buckingham Palace to the cathedral and the historic wedding, the union of the 32-year-old heir to the British throne and Lady Diana, the 20-year-old kindergarten teacher with the captivating smile.

Police had estimated the crowd would number a million or more along the route.

"I've never seen anything like it," said one veteran bobby. "We've got the whole of Britain camping out here."

Among the Americans in the throng was Rose Skelton, 25, who brought her two 12-year-old and 14-year-old daughters from Ocean Springs, Miss., and spent the night on a Fleet Street sidewalk.

"This is something my children will only experience once in a lifetime. They can see the ceremony on television ... but they will never, ever be able to see the coaches, the horses and the future King of England live," she said.

Britain's royal family adopted the name Windsor in 1917, giving up all German titles and the dynastic names of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. The names had been acquired through the marriage of Queen Victoria to Prince Albert.

BRIDGE

Playing it by the book

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

There is an easy way to play today's hand. Declarer plays a few rounds of trumps and takes the club finesse. West wins the king of clubs and cashes the ace of hearts and on to the next hand.

Can South do any better? There is a book play to gain one trick which will produce the slam.

It is a book play. In other words, it is similar to one that continually appears in bridge writings.

It is up to South to decide which opponent holds the ace of hearts. It would be a tough problem if it hadn't been for West's unfortunate decision to bid two hearts. It is the sort of bid that is really pointless. Once in a blue moon it helps West. Most of the time it doesn't affect the final result in any way, shape or form. This time it gives an alert declarer a sure thing play for the slam that might well have failed without West's overcall.

South knows where the ace of hearts is. He takes his queen of diamonds, draws trumps and leads his deuce of hearts.

Poor West is on the toasting fork. If he rises with his ace of hearts, South will get to discard one club on the king of hearts and the other on a high diamond. If West ducks, South will get to discard his queen of hearts on a high diamond.

Cat Retirement Home Welcomes All Felines

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Is tabby getting on in years and a bit too fussy? Moving out of town and can't take the mouser along?

Don't despair, just call the Cat Retirement Center.

The center, a non-profit group affiliated with the National Cat Protection Society, promises to care for the retiring feline for life and guarantees that the cat won't be put to sleep.

The cost is $100 and an additional $35 if the cat does not have up-to-date blood tests for leukemia and other diseases.

"This past year, we probably got in 50 retirement cats," said Debby Gravely, a kennel worker and technician. "We encourage the owners to come down and see the cats, give them treats, pet them, love them."

But sometimes the cats pine away, not able to adjust to the new setting. Cats can die of a broken heart, Ms. Gravely contended, usually within a month after being brought into the center.

"It's too often that people bring their cats down and forget about them," she said. "If the owners would just come down and spend 20 to 30 minutes a day, two or three times a week," it sometimes helps the cats adjust.

"But, if the cat is quite old or obese, then they don't have much of a chance," she said. "The stress of being brought in here tends to shorten the life span of cats that are old or overweight."

Ms. Gravely said there are many reasons why owners call the center. The most common is moving and not being able to take the animal along.

Most of the cats at the center can be adopted, she said. But owners can arrange for their cats not to be adopted for a monthly fee, Ms. Gravely said. She did not say how much the fee was.

"We feel personally the cats should be put up for adoption." Ms. Gravely said. "The only thing they lack here is the amount of attention that they were getting. If they could get that it would be like home."

Some cats survive a long time in the retirement home. Take Tiger Junior, which has been at the center since it was founded 13 years ago. Tiger is almost 20 years old, said Ms. Gravely, adding that the usual lifespan for a cat is about 18 years.

About 500 cats are at the protection society building, which includes a clinic, placement center, the retirement center and a section of exotic cats.

Ku Klux Klan Sues Company

CEDARTOWN, Ga. (AP) — A Ku Klux Klan group that persuaded some blacks to join its job protest last week has filed a $5 million countersuit against a food processing company, claiming the concern caused it to suffer mental anguish and embarrasment.

The Klan action was taken Monday in response to a $1.5 million damage suit filed by Zartic Frozen Meat and Seafood Co. over the labor dispute.

More than half of Zartic's 420 employees walked off the job last Monday and began picketing, some of them wearing hooded Ku Klux Klan robes, in a drive to unionize the plant. A federal judge has since prohibited any pickets from wearing Klan hoods.

FAMILY PORTRAITS will be taken Sat., Aug. 15, 1981 at Bethel Assembly of God Church. 8x10 picture with free mating and frame to equal 11x14 for $7.95. Deadline Aug. 5, 1981. For more information call 573-8970 or 573-3861.

Dear Abby

Wife Thinks Secretary Should Mind Boss's Business

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Re wife searching husband's desk at office: Sorry, Abby, but it is the consensus of every single (or married!) secretary with whom I discussed the letter that you are wrong.

As a confidential secretary to a corporate vice president of a major oil company, and as a wife of an executive with the largest automobile manufacturer in the world, I would no more expect my husband's secretary to permit me to go through his desk than I would expect her to jump into his (and my!) bed. In fact, I've never even been to my husband's office; nor has my boss's wife been to his. I would not even think of going through my husband's briefcase in our home. This would be violating not only his privacy, but his company's.

My suggestion to a secretary put in such a spot would be simply to offer to find whatever it is the wife is looking for. If the wife is persistent, I'd stand boldly at the desk watching every move, stating that she should know that I would, indeed, feel obligated to inform her husband of this.

A secretary works for her boss and his company. If a wife has the audacity to intrude, for whatever reason, the marriage is already in trouble, obviously; and the secretary's alliance is to her boss at all times. Your job, Abby, may be saving marriages (lots of luck!), mine, in this particular instance, would be to protect my job.

LOYAL SECRETARY

DEAR SECRETARY: Your answer was better than mine. Thank you. I learned something today.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 23 and my fiancee is 22. We've been engaged for a year and went together for three years before that. A Christmas-season wedding is scheduled. My problem is I don't want to marry this woman. We are not happy together and we fight and argue every time we see each other.

I have tried to break the engagement several times, but she cries and carries on and I get nowhere, so I give up.

She said she couldn't consider breaking the engagement because she would be humiliated before her friends.

Another complication: About six months ago, I fell in love with one of her best friends. (This friend was asked to be a bridesmaid.) She loves me, too, and we feel terrible having to sneak around to see each other.

I know I have to break this engagement, but how?

NO NAMES, NATURALLY

DEAR NO NAMES: Tell your fiancee that you cannot marry her knowing that the marriage will not be based on mutual love. Let her know that if it's humiliation she's dreading, she may tell her friends that she broke it off. And don't mention your present love affair. One blow at a time is enough. Good luck. You'll need it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have worked 14 years in an office where no smoking was permitted. Six months ago we got a new supervisor who smokes, and now two-thirds of my coworkers have cigarettes going all the time.

My clothes smell terrible, my eyes are red and sore, and I am concerned about the damage secondhand smoke can cause to my health.

How can I get clean air where I work? If I bug my supervisor about it, I could lose my job to a smoker.

SMOKED OUT

DEAR SMOKED OUT: Sorry, there is nothing you can do about it. I know it's unfair. But who ever said life was fair? (P.S. Our country, for all its advantages, is lagging in citizens' rights. A law was recently passed in Switzerland making it illegal to smoke in a public telephone booth. Hooray for the Swiss!)

Bani Sadr Gets Political Asylum

PARIS (AP) — Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, Iran's fugitive ex-president, emerged in France today after 43 days in hiding and was granted political asylum, the French Foreign Ministry announced.

The 47-year-old Iranian revolutionary arrived in an Iranian military plane at the French military air base at Evreux, about 60 miles west of Paris, at 4:30 a.m., sources at the base reported.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said asylum was granted after Bani-Sadr gave a written pledge to "exercise no political activity whatsoever on French soil."

He left the base abouut four hours after his arrival and was driven to the home of his daughters in a Paris suburb. Several carloads of police escorted him.

The Foreign Ministry said the aircraft "will be returned to the Iranian government." Informed sources said the four crewmen told French officials they had been forced to fly to Franmce and wanted to return to Iran as soon as possible.

Tehran Radio relayed the news of Bani-Sadr's escape to the Iranian republic and said he "has joined the united front of the counter-revolution." Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported from the Iranian capital that a spokesman for the Iranian Foreign Ministry demanded his extradition.

It was a return visit to France for Bani-Sadr, who spent 14 years in exile there during the regime of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, took to Parisian dress and socialist economics and taught at the University of Paris.

One of the great showmen, Phineas T. Barnum, was born in 1810.

Bill Is Designed To Ease Property Tax Code

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Property Tax Code, or "Peveto Bill," has worried taxpayers since it passed in 1979, but a House committee has approved a bill designed to make it more palatable.

An 8-1 vote in the House Ways and Means Committee sent the "fine-tuning" or "clean-up" bill to the House floor for debate that probably will come Thursday.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, has abandoned his own bill — much amended by fellow senators — and is waiting for the House bill, which he likes better.

"I don't think you can ever fix the property tax system. I just want to make it work for the next two years. We may be back sooner than that after the reappraisal notices go out in October," said Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Salado, who directed committee work on the House bill.

The Peveto Bill requires local governments to levy taxes on the full market value of taxable property, as determined by countywide appraisal districts, starting Jan. 1, 1982.

The "fine-tuning" bill says governing bodies of two-thirds the taxing units in an appraisal district may delay full implementation for as long as three years.

Other changes the bill would make in the Property Tax Code would:

--Raises from five to 20 acres the amount of land on which a person may claim a homestead exemption.

— Reduce the voter turnout requirement in elections to roll back property tax increases from 25 percent to 15 percent.

— Enable elderly and disabled taxpayers to apply only once, instead of annually, for special homestead exemptions.

— Permit appraisers to enter businesses to evaluate equipment and inventory.

— Enable governing bodies of half the taxing units in an appraisal district to veto its budget or any of its actions.

— Exempt farm and ranch equipment from property taxes.

While senators voted to require all appraisal district board members to be elected officials of taxing units, the committee rejected the idea. Its bill says board members may be elected officials but don't have to be.

"If elected people must serve, it creates a burden on them, and it could prohibit getting talented people on the boards," Schlueter said.

Lawsuits arose from the Peveto Bill's provision allowing three-fourths of the taxing units served by an appraisal district enlarge its board or change the method for selecting its members. Some small local governments have used the rule to gang up on big cities and school districts.

The bill says the three-fourths rule cannot be used to reduce the voting strength of a taxing unit to less than a majority without its consent.

Situations have occurred where basing the agricultural productivity value of rural land on Texas A&M estimates resulted in zero or negative taxable values.

The bill says estimated net income to the land, for use in figuring property taxes, must be at least 50 percent of what the land would bring the owner in a typical lease arrangement.

Some local governments still have appraisers on their payrolls, despite the Peveto Bill's purpose of saving money by having a single appraisal office in each county.

The bill prohibits a local government from having its own appraisers after Jan. 1, 1984, unless it has a contract to evaluate property for an appraisal district.

A new provision would require the State Property Tax Board to issue weighted averages of appraisals in each district, which taxpayers could use in appealing the values assigned to their property.

Taxing units could appeal their total appraisals, but not the appraised value of an individual taxpayer's property.

"This will prevent the whipsawing of individual taxpayers between taxing jurisdictions and the appraisal district," said Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, committee chairman.

Laotion Refugee Hangs Himself

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Laotian refugee who told his wife the only option they had was to "hang themselves" was found hanging near his home — the same day federal officials decided to continue funding a special welfare program the family depended on.

A social worker said Shue Long Vue, 62, was despondent over a letter he received Saturday saying funding was being canceled for the Hmong Family Association. He was found hanging from a tree Monday.

"His wife said he told her the only way to survive would be to hang themselves," the worker said. "She thought he was joking."

Before Jet Crashed In Mexico....

Man Had Premonition

CIUDAD CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — An American missionary says he knew something was wrong moments before an Aeronaves jetliner crashed while attempting to land here.

Richard Joyce of San Diego Calif., said Tuesday there was an "icy feeling" among passengers aboard an Aeromexico DC-9 moments before it crashed late Monday.

The jet, buffeted by sudden high winds on its landing approach, crashed and burned at the Ciudad Chihuahua airport late Monday, killing at least 32 and injuring 34.

"As we were coming in, I knew something was wrong," said Joyce, a 41-year-old interdenominational missionary to Mexico and Central America who was interviewed at the local hospital.

There was an icy feeling in the air. Everybody was silent.

"At the moment of impact, I just started to pray," he said. "I saw flames on the right side of the airplane."

Joyce said he could not remember how he unbuckled his seat belt and moved from his third-row seat to the front of the plane.

"After about the sixth row, the smoke was terrible, the other passengers told me," he said. "I didn't even smell smoke. It's hard to remember anything."

Joyce said he made his way to the door, where he found a stewardess struggling to open it.

"She and I together forced it open and jumped out. I could hear screams behind me, but I didn't even look around."

"It was all so fast."

A twig stabbed his arm when he jumped from the plane, but in the commotion he didn't notice it until he was safely inside the airport terminal building, Joyce said.

"I just started to run," he said. "At that point there was a lot of hail. Within seconds we were all drenched and cold."

Joyce said after the initial shock, his concern turned to his pregnant wife in San Diego.

"I have one boy and one on the way," he said. "I'm glad I'm going to live to see it."

He said he called his secretary as soon as he could get to a telephone so that she could tell his wife he was safe.

"I knew there had to be a lot of dead people, but there were a lot of people running around."

"I didn't know until this morning how many had died."

The Peace of Vereeniging brought the South African War to an end following the Boers' surrender.

ASTRO·GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

July 30, 1981

This coming year there is a strong possibility you may develop a promising venture on the side. It may start small, but it could fulfill a secret ambition you're been harboring.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a talent today for taking up causes others can't quite get off the ground and making them work. Your skill will pass the test. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may prefer staying in the background today, but another's success will be due to your guidance. You'll partake of the substance, but not the glory.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Developments of an unusual nature could occur today and gain you access to something for which you've been hoping. Keep the faith.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Competitive or challenging situations serve to awaken your resourcefulness today. Major accomplishments are possible, regardless of the obstacles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something which you've learned from bitter experience can be put to a constructive use today when you point out a similar pitfall to a pal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be a good listener today. You could receive a valuable tip from a least-expected source. It might come from a person who has never aided you before.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is a good day to discuss production problems with coworkers. Each will inspire the other's inventiveness. Progressive ideas could result.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tasks which challenge your creativeness will be the ones you handle best today. You're especially good at transforming the unprofitable into the profitable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally it's unwise to gamble in areas where you have little say over the happenings, but today you could be lucky with something another controls.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Innovating can save time and energy today and also increase your productivity. Think of new ways to improve your present methods of work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There is opportunity around you today that could add to your income or resources. It may be fleeting, so you'll have to act promptly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your material prospects look encouraging both today and tomorrow. Focus your efforts on enterprises that can make the cash register ring.

Chicago area weather forecasters this year have been wrong more often than right.

The TV prognosticators will issue a dire decree concerning what weekend weather is going to be--

Their forecasts will prove 100 percent wrong. Instead of the predicted rain it will be an outdoorable weekend.

Yet, by George, those same fellows come back on the air Monday--as confident as ever issuing further worthless predictions.

I know that aviation weather forecasters purposely err on the side of pessimism so's not to jeopardize the safety of fair-weather fliers.

I'm told that TV forecasters are also purposely pessimistic figuring that you will feel both grateful and forgiving if they are wrong.

But their gloomy forecasts can be devastating to the resort business.

Economic forecasting--another inexact science--is no more reliable, and it can mislead leaders!

American dollars shrank 12.4 percent last year.

Presently, your dollars are shrinking a dime-a-year.

But most economists are projecting an inflation rate of eight-to-nine percent this year.

And there is enough of a consensus so that many investors and government officials and business leaders are predicting plans on that presumption.

I don't know why.

These same economists--like the weather forecasters--have been wrong more often than they've been right.

Most economists predicted a severe recession in 1979.

It did not come until 1980 and it was not severe.

The economic decline most forecast for early 1981 proved, instead, to be a period of above-average economic improvement.

Most newsworthy of the stock market forecasters, flamboyant Joe Granville advised investors to "sell" last January.

If they did, they've lost a lot o money--and they've paid higher capital gains taxes than if they'd waited.

For economists to mislead Wall Steet crapshooters is one thing; when they mislead government policy-makers that can be disastrous.

There was a chorus of doomsayers last December predicting $3-gasoline; some descending price controls. Gasoline prices, without controls, are going down.

February 22, 1980, Harry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers predicted "catastrophe," wanted our government to declare an immediate national emergency.

He caused a stock market plunge of 18.34 points in one day!

A lot of people paid a lot of money for his false alarm.

For the record, the president's Council of Economic Advisors, seeking to foretell the inflation rate, has been correct only three times in 18 years.

You could flip a coin and do better!

Yet there are at least 270 organizations in the United States getting rich guessing wrong!

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb,M.D.

After a prostate operation

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am under the impression that when the prostate gland is removed your sex life is completely stopped. Is this correct? A friend told me he has an erection but has no desire for sex. Could this be possible? I am 77 and married, but am having trouble emptying my bladder. My doctor said it is necessary that I have my gland removed. But I don't like the idea of not having anything to do with sex anymore.

DEAR READER — Many men who have a prostate gland operation do return to a regular normal sex life. It depends a lot on what kind of operation you require and what your general state of health is. Many older men have a lot of medical problems. When you are sick your sex drive may diminish or even disappear. Studies do show that sex drive does diminish in most men as they get older, with or without a prostate gland operation.

The transurethral resection (TUR) operation that is done with an instrument through the urethra without making an incision is least likely to result in loss of sexual capacity after surgery. However, this procedure cannot be used in every case. Even if the gland must be operated on through an incision the surgery may not interfere with sexual functions. But if a man has to have a radical gland removal the interruption of nerves to that area that influence function can result in permanent impotence.

A man cannot escape some procedure if the gland completely obstructs the flow from the bladder. To give you more information on the prostate I am sending you The Health Letter number 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The small muscles that function as a valve at the outlet of the bladder are usually damaged with prostate surgery. It is impossible to prevent it. As a result when a man has an orgasm the fluid squirts backward into the bladder rather than out through the urethra. This greatly confuses men who are unaware of this complication to this common operation. It is nothing to be alarmed about.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know if loose skin over the abdomen can ever be toned up through diet and exercise. I am 52 years old and 12 to 15 pounds overweight. I had two children and only gained nine pounds with each pregnancy so there has never been an excessive amount of stretching.

However, I have at least a handful of excess skin over my lower abdomen and would like to get rid of it. When I lose weight and exercise I note that the muscles tone up well but the loose skin remains. I hesitate to lose too much weight to flatten my tummy because of the loose skin. My husband absolutely refuses to let me have any surgical procedure to get rid of the skin.

DEAR READER — Skin tends to grow as we get older and it loses its elasticity. The more it has been stretched, the worse the problem is. You can expect some retraction of loose skin but you get the best results when you lose unwanted fat while still young. If there is a lot or if you are no longer a teen-ager, you can't expect much without surgery. There is nothing wrong with having such cosmetic procedures done. If it would encourage you to stay lean it would actually be a plus for your health.

Teen Hurls Perfect Game In Junior Tournament Here

It's two down and three to go, but it's doubtful Junior Teenage League baseball fans will get more of a treat today or Thursday than they did here yesterday.

While Merkel and Clyde were eliminated - leaving four teams remaining in the double-elimination District Tournament - fans witnessed excellent pitching in almost every game, including a no-hit, no-walk shutout by Snyder's Jimmy Velasquez.

The day's leadoff game was also a pitcher's battle, as Colorado City's Doug Chitsey fanned 17 batters and gave up only one hit in leading his team to a 3-2 victory over Merkel.

Velasquez was the star of the day's second game, despite good backup fielding and hitting by his teammates. The Snyder 14-year-old had 11 strikeouts in recording a perfect game as the Pool Well Service team shackled Merkel 9-0.

The outcome eliminated Merkel and kept Snyder alive in the four-day tournament. In other scores, Cisco pitcher Mark Swanner handcuffed Sweetwater to one hit in a 2-0 winner's bracket game, before Sweetwater came back to eliminate Clyde, 8-5 in the evening finale.

Today's action was to begin at 6 p.m. with Cisco meeting Colorado City in the winner's bracket. Snyder and Sweetwater vie at 9 p.m. in an elimination round.

The loser's bracket winner will take on the loser of the Cisco-Colorado City game at noon Thursday, setting up the finals for 6 p.m. tomorrow. A second finals game, if necessary, would be held following the first.

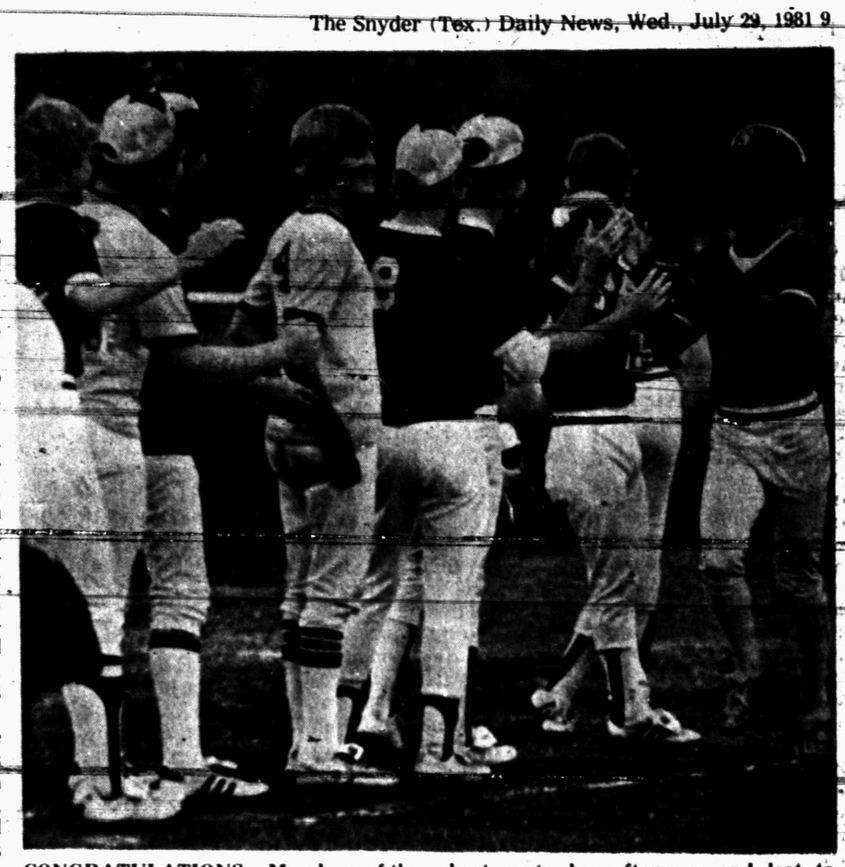
Colorado City won its second game of the tournament yesterday by breaking a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning to win 3-2 over Merkel, which had a bye here Monday. Bill Jackson paced the six-hit offense for the C-City Colts with a double and a single. Chitsey, a former Snyder resident, gave up his one hit, a single, to Sean Woodard. Rodney Gains was the losing pitcher.

Even Woodard couldn't connect in the second game of the day, however. Snyder's Velasquez hurled it three-up, three-down for seven straight innings, while getting seven-hit power from his teammates offensively. Charlie Bollinger banged a double and a single and Kyle Freeman had two singles to lead the group. Also hitting were William Cotton, Todd Pollard and Velasquez, with a single each.

Snyder got one run in the second, five in the third, another in the fifth and two in the sixth. Billy Williams was the LP.

Later, Cisco showed pitching strength as Swanner gave up only one hit - a single to Donald Jones - in the Panthers' 2-0 shutout over the Pirates. Sweetwater hurlers allowed only three hits themselves, a single each to Doug Hendricks, Darrell Stuart and Swanner. Chris Franklin, relieved by Jason Reeves in the sixth, took the loss.

The day's final game departed from defense as Sweetwater came up with 16 hits to eliminate Clyde, 8-5. Blaze Herring and Todd rapped three singles apiece for the Pirates while Jones hit a double and a single. Jason Reeves, one of five other Sweetwater players to hit, was the winning pitcher.



CONGRATULATIONS -- Members of the Overton Transport Snyder Black team congratulate Keith McClain after he swatted a home run over the centerfield fence in Merkel yesterday. Snyder rallied from an early deficit but still fell short yesterday afternoon and lost to Sweetwater, 10-9. The senior leaguers were then eliminated in an evening contest, 9-8 by Brownwood in extra innings. (SDN Staff Photo)

Western Stops Abilene; Third Tilt Set Thursday

Lubbock Western fought off an determined Abilene Southern squad here last night to even their best-of-three Little League playoff series at 1-1 and force a deciding match on Thursday.

Lubbock built a 5-0 advantage behind the tough pitching of Phillip Belliveau and increased it to 7-1 late in the game before Abilene rallied back for four fifth-inning runs. The Westerners managed to quell the challenge, however, and went on to win, 7-5.

Abilene had won the first game of the series 7-3 on Monday. The pair meet for the deciding game - and a trip to the state tournament in Waco - here again Thursday at 8 p.m.

Belliveau, who went the distance for Lubbock, struckout six of the first nine batters he faced before giving up a hit to Mike York in the third. Meanwhile, Western came up with five third-inning runs, keyed by a Terrell Gillespie home run, singles from Mitch Moorhead and Fred Rumsey and a trio of Abilene errors.

Both teams notched a run in the fourth. Lubbock's coming on a homer from Kevin Claborn.

Lubbock added its final run in the fifth, as Belliveau lined Western's third homer of the evening over the right-centerfield fence.

Abilene started the fifth with two outs, but back-to-back errors and a single from Jay Estes got things going. Another error put Mark Redwine aboard and Lance Deal capped it off with a double before Belliveau and company could find the third out.

James Kistler hurled the first four innings and took the loss for Abilene.

Both teams recorded five hits in the game.

In Baseball Tournament...

Snyder Seniors Beaten

MERKEL -- Snyder Black came up two runs short and tumbled out of the 1981 District Senior Teenage League Baseball Tournament here yesterday, leaving Sweetwater and Brownwood to vie for the area championship.

Snyder, sponsored by Overton Transport, fell to Sweetwater in a second-round game played yesterday afternoon, 10-9, then lost in an elimination round to Brownwood in the evening, 9-8.

The three-day tournament, which began Monday, was to stage its finals today between undefeated Sweetwater and once-beaten Brownwood. The tourney champion will vie for state honors in an upcoming meet.

A couple of three-run homers cranked Sweetwater out to a 7-3 lead over Snyder after four innings yesterday. The red and white clad team managed a 10-4 advantage after five.

But Snyder came back to post four runs in the sixth, 10-8. A single run in the seventh wasn't enough, however, as Sweetwater hung on to win.

Curtis Gafford and John Wilson each slapped two singles for Snyder and Keith McClain and Johnny Overton rapped a home run apiece. Barry Davis knocked a double, and Mike Roemisch, Britt Vincent and David Rios hit a single apiece.

In the late game, Snyder built a 3-0 lead and extended it to 6-2, 7-2 and 8-2 before Brownwood unleashed six runs in the seventh inning to tie it up and another in the eighth for the win.

Overton cracked a triple and a double for Snyder while McClain rapped three singles and Gafford slapped a double and a single. Casey Peterson also hit a double and Roemisch, Vincent and Gerald Don Hicks powered a single apiece.

Coaching the Snyder team were Jimmy Johnson and Jimmy Franks.

Perfection Means Gold For Vaulter Galimore

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) - Gymnast Ron Galimore seeks perfection. And, Tuesday night, he reached his goal at the National Sports Festival.

Galimore, the son of the late Willie Galimore, a star running back for the Chicago Bears until his death in an automobile accident nearly 15 years ago, swooped down the long runway, flew off the springboard and soared to a perfect 10.0 score in the first of two attempts in the finals of the vault competition.

He added a 9.9 vault, giving him an average of 9.5 and the gold medal in that individual competition.

Galimore, one of the many U.S. athletes chosen for a 1980 national team but deprived of an Olympic appearance by the American boycott of the Moscow Games, was pleased by his showing in this six-day Festival of American sports, noting that most of the other top performers in gymnastics chose to be elsewhere.

In other highlights Tuesday, Roy Palassou of Santa Clara, Calif., won two gold medals in men's gymnastics, winning the floor exercise and the parallel bars, and Richard Savage of West Monroe, La., gained a close decision in the feature bout in the boxing, taking the gold in the 119-pound class.

Brian Babcock of Enid, Okla., won the gold in the pommel horse, while Mark Caso of Syracuse and UCLA, who broke his neck last year in an accident in practice, won the rings and was third in the vault and parallel bars.

Savage, a 21-year-old bantamweight, beat his friend and arch-rival, Cruz, on a 3-2 decision. Afterward, he said he thought he'd won only the first and third rounds of the three-round match. Cruz, on the other hand, said he thought all three rounds were his, not Savage's.

U.S. Navy X-ray technician Mark Mahone hardly broke a sweat in disposing of Johnny Keys of San Francisco in the heavyweight title bout.

Women Cagers Fall To Soviets In Finals

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) - Americans dominated swimming events at the World University Games, but the American women's basketball team and the U.S. water polo squad blew chances for gold medals.

Jill Sterkel collected her fourth gold medal of the games as the United States took three of four swimming golds. She also was part of the 400-meter freestyle relay team which won its event in 3 minutes, 55.05 seconds.

Kim Linehan took the women's 200-meter butterfly in a games-record time of 2:15.71, and the 400-meter men's freestyle relay team registered the other U.S. swimming victory. Linehan and men's relay team member Kris Kirchner both won their second gold of the Games.

The U.S. water polo team needed only to defeat Romania to win the title, but suffered a 4-6 defeat. Cuba, which defeated the Soviet Union 11-8, won the gold with the United States settling for the silver, and Romania taking the bronze.

The U.S. was defeated 98-79 by the Soviet Union in the women's basketball final. The Romanians beat China 72-62 to take the bronze.

World-ranked Virginia Ruzici of Romania collected her third tennis gold medal of the Games by teaming up with Florentza Mihai to take the women's doubles title.

Stars Earn Trophy For Sportmanship

Snyder Division II All-Stars were awarded the Sportsmanship Trophy at the Division II UGSA Tournament in Big Spring last weekend.

The team placed third in the tournament after losing 13-6 to Odessa Blue Friday. Snyder defeated Odessa Blue 18-9 in Thursday's opener, then fell to Odessa Red 19-3 in the second round before being eliminated Friday night.

Named to the all-tournament team from Snyder were Dawn Farmer and Brenda Zajicek.

Strike Scene: No Changes

by The Associated Press

The 48th day of the major league baseball strike finds feuding players and owners' negotiators meeting some 3,000 miles apart. Whether the walkout is any closer to a settlement may be known after those separate meetings on each coast today.

No further meetings have been scheduled, but Ray Grebey, the owners' chief negotiator, said he was available for joint talks at any time and a source close to the PRC said it was likely that a session would be held Thursday in New York.

Boxing Friday

Boxing returns to Snyder on Friday night as Snyder fighters host Big Spring beginning at 7 in the National Guard Armory.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Approximately 25 bouts are expected.

Jimmy Claxton is coach of the Snyder team with Rick Golden serving as assistant.

Smelly Fruit Insults Nose

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Question: what smells like a garbage truck running over a skunk in a paper millstown on a damp day?

Answer: durian.

That's right, durian, the polecat of the orchard. It's a fruit so smelly that it is barred from airplanes, trains and most hotels in Southeast Asia. But it is also savored by those who would beg, borrow or steal to satisfy their passion for the forbidding fruit.

The telltale stench permeates sections of Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia and Thailand now that the main durian season has rolled around again.

The powerful aroma is the perfume of prosperity for growers and others in the trade. Prices vary according to freshness, weight, shape and where they were grown.

"We can only pray that we get just about the right harvest — not too many fruits or too few," said one Malaysian farmer.

Too few and the price soars beyond the reach of most buyers. Too many and durian becomes a drag on the market, forcing growers to process its pulp into a paste called tempoyak.

"There's no money in tempoyak," the farmer grumbled.

Durians are also used in cakes which are packaged like long sausages. Durian jam and durian-flavored ice cream are also marketed.

To the purist, however, durians are eaten raw with the fingers after careful appraisal and sharp bargaining.

"The right way to eat durian is squatting by the roadside or sitting on the kitchen floor, taking the fleshy seeds straight from the shells as they are cracked and pried open."

Charges Filed In Burglaries And Vandalism

Charges of burglary and criminal mischief have been filed in connection with the investigation of a series of incidents which occurred over several months in the Hermleigh area.

The Scurry County Sheriff's Department made arrests following investigation of burglaries and vandalism at the Cardinal Cafe, May's Fina Station, and the Hermleigh Community Center. Also vandalized was some county road machinery.

Gail A. Baker Jr. is charged with four cases of burglary and three cases of criminal mischief, David Bernal Gonzales is charged with three cases of burglary and two cases of vandalism, and David Baker is charged with one case of burglary.

The complaints against the three men are due to go before a grand jury next week.

Fred Overman Is Retiring From Texaco

Fred R. Overman, Clairemont Route, will retire Saturday after 33 years of service with Texaco.

Overman is a pumper with Producing West U. S., Midland Division, Midland District, of Texaco.

A native of Abernathy, he attended schools at Whiteface and joined Texaco as a roustabout in 1948 at Odessa.

Charles Gladson pitched a four-hitter and Gilbert Merritt got three hits as the Snyder American League All-Stars defeated Sweetwater, 2-1, in area Little League playoffs.

30 YEARS AGO

The official temperature hit 109 degrees in Snyder as a hot, dry spell continued.

Noting that it probably would be at least two years before Snyder could receive any water from the Coloraodo River Municipal Water District, the city council approved a proposal to drill some water wells north of town.

A 1951 four-door Kaiser sedan reported stolen from the Scurry County Rodeo Grounds was found burned six miles north of Fluvanna, Sheriff Lloyd Merritt announced.

The Rev. T. Gerald Cates, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, left for Starkville, Miss., where he was to conduct a revival meeting.

O'Neill complained about that effort, saying Reagan was even trying to twist arms of members already committed to the Democratic plan.

In return, Reagan spokesman David Gergen accused the speaker of being so desperate for votes that he planned to bring a gravely ill member — Connecticut Democrat William R. Cotter — to the floor just to vote against the president's plan.

Cotter aide Bill Cunningham said the congressman, who is being treated in his home state for cancer of the pancreas, was advised by his doctor not to make the trip. And O'Neill aide Chris Matthews said late Tuesday that if Cotter comes, it will be his own doing.

KIT 'N' CARLYLE™ by Larry Wright

MISHAP--This two-car mishap occurred at 5:11 p.m. Tuesday afternoon in the 1300 block of 37th Street. Involved was a 1979 Ford driven by Donna Ramsey Riggs and a 1974 Pontiac driven by Elizabeth Marie Woods. Both drivers were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Scurry County EMS for treatment of minor injuries. Both vehicles were substantially damaged. (SDN Staff Photo)

Legislators Pass New Medical Practices Act

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Legislators have passed a new Medical Practices Act that puts non-doctors on the Board of Medical Examiners and authorizes the board to yank the licenses of physicians who make a habit of overcharging.

Senators voted 27-1 Tuesday to accept House changes in the Senate-passed bill, sending it to Gov. Bill Clements, who is expected to sign it.

The measure is the first bill sent to the governor during the special legislative session that began July 13.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, a critic of the Texas Medical Association, cast the only vote against the measure, which the House approved last Friday, 142-0.

Doggett wanted to require local medical societies and peer review committees to report to the board when they find a doctor guilty of incompetence.

"This bill is based not on public need but on what the TMA will accept," Doggett said.

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, the Senate sponsor, said, "I think everything we do in this bill has been agreed to by the TMA and others."

Under the Sunset Act, the Board of Medical Examiners — and with it all regulation of physicians — would have gone out of existence on Sept. 1 if lawmakers had failed to pass the bill.

A similar bill died in conference committee during the regular session when Speaker Bill Clayton insisted on giving optometrists, who are not medical physicians, authority to use drugs to dilate the pupils of their patients.

TMA lobbyists and Clayton finally compromised, and the bill allows optometrists to administer dilating drugs under standing orders signed by local physicians.

Besides continuing state regulation of medicine for another 12 years, until the next Sunset review, the bill:

— Enlarges the Board of Medical Examiners from 12 to 15 members and adds three non-doctors. In addition, osteopaths are guaranteed three seats on the board.

— Permits doctors to advertise if their ads are not misleading and do not claim superiority to other physicians.

— Authorizes the board to suspend a doctor's license for "persistently and flagrantly overcharging or overtreating patients."

— Automatically suspends the license of a doctor found guilty of a felony involving drugs, with mandatory revocation when the conviction is upheld on appeal.

— Entitles patients to summaries or copies of their medical records unless a doctor determines the information might be harmful to a patient.

— Prohibits officers of professional societies, such as the TMA, from serving on the board.
