Air Crash Leaves One Survivor Of Army's Three Musketeers

COLLISION IN MIDAIR CLAIMS NOTED FLIER

Youthful 'Musketeer' Dies When Plane Falls at Mines Field

PARACHUTE HANGS

Pilot of Other Ship Saves Life by Jumping To Ground

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 25. (AP)—Lieut. W. L. Cornelius, 26, year old member of the famous army flying tri known as "the three musketeers of the air," was killed at Rockwell field here today when the airplane he was flying collided with another piloted by Lieut. Roger V. Williams, formerly of Spokane, Wash. Williams escaped with minor cuts and bruises. No one else was hurt.

Witnesses said the two planes collided and locked wings. Lieut. Cornelius jumped with his parachute, but it caught in the instrument board and the flier crashed to earth with the planes. The airplanes were flying in battle formation and attempted to execute a "Lufberry circle" when their wings became entangled at an altitude of about 1,200 feet. Williams saved his life with a parachute jump.

"The three musketeers of the air" achieved much praise and attention recently by their flights at Mines field, Los Angeles, during the national aeronautical show there. Lieut. J. J. Williams, one of the three, was killed there. Lieut. Irving A. Woodring is now the only survivor.

Lawyer's Illness Halts Car Fare Hearing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (UP)—Postponement of United States supreme court arguments on the 7-cent New York subway fare case, scheduled to start today here, may be caused by the illness of Samuel Untermyer, noted attorney representing the transit commission.

The commission and the city are fighting against higher subway fares sought by operators of the underground railways.

Borah Arrives in Kansas City to Talk

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25. (UP)—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, arrived here tonight and will make an address here Wednesday night in the interest of the candidacy of Herbert Hoover. The senator may eat breakfast tomorrow with Senator Charles Curtis, Republican nominee for vice president, who will pass through here on his way to Springfield, Mo., where he speaks tomorrow night.

Congressman Says Bryan Would Have Aided Smith

COLUMBUS, Neb. Sept. 25. (UP)—Congressman Edgar Howard, a devoted follower of William Jennings Bryan, in an editorial today in his newspaper took sharp issues with those who believe that the commoner, if he were alive, would oppose the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Enid, Okla., Oil Company Refuses to Pay Gas Tax

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 25. (UP)—Paying their September gasoline taxes under protest, two oil companies who last month withdrew their protest to the tax, again today held up part of the gasoline revenue.

The protesting companies are the National Refining company of Cotfeyville, and the Champlin Refining company, of Enid, Okla.

Opened Your Mail Today? Here's What It May Contain

New York Paper Publishes Symposium of Best 'Whispers'

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (UP)—The New York World, a Democratic newspaper, strongly supporting Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidency, announced today it had asked its correspondents in southern states to make a survey of the alleged "whisper" campaign waged against the governor.

The Evening World produced its reports from correspondents with a summary stating:

"These reports established that in the southern states the mails are flooded with scurrilous pamphlets carrying charges against the governor, his wife and family. Anonymous, libelous mimeographed sheets are circulated in floods.

Directing Center

"It is apparent from the character of this propaganda, carrying the same reports into widely separated localities, that it is directed from some central headquarters.

"Following are some of the whispering charges carried by word of mouth or through anonymous handbills and pamphlets masquerading as newspapers:

"That Governor Smith is an habitual drunkard. . . . and has often been drunk in public.

"That he holds 'parties' at night in the capitol building and has 'chosen women state employes in order that they might participate in the parties.'

"That his secretary is a negro woman.

"There is a photograph extent showing Governor Smith dancing with a negress (this has been given wide circulation in Florida).

"That if Gov. Smith is elected he will bring the pope to America on a battleship and install him in a fortress at Georgetown in which will be installed artillery overlooking the city of Washington. . . .

Marriage 'Decree'

"That Governor Smith, if elected, will decree that all marriages in the United States must be performed by Roman Catholic priests.

"That if Governor Smith is elected he will 'put a saloon on every corner.' . . .

"That Mrs. Smith . . . . uneducated and unfit to meet callers at the White House.

"That Governor Smith has sworn, in subscribing to the alleged Knights of Columbus fourth degree oath (which was established as a forgery in congress) to 'make and wage relentless war, secretly and openly, against all heretics, Protestants and Masons, as I am directed to do, to extirpate them from the face of the whole earth; and that I will spare neither age, sex or condition and that I will burn, hang, waste, boil, flay, strangle and bury alive those infamous heretics . . . . and crush their infants' heads against the walls in order to annihilate their execrable race.' . . . .

"That 'they say' Al Smith has contracted to build a throne in the White House for the Cardinals of the Church of Rome when they visit him, also a special confessional box for his grand children to confess."

G. O. P. LEADERS DIVIDED OVER WILLEBRANDT

'What to Do' With Woman Speaker Perplexes Big Bosses

HELPS AL SMITH CAUSE

Democrat Sure to Carry Wisconsin Because of Campaign Tactics

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Republicans high in the direction of the presidential campaign were divided today on "what to do" about Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general.

Mrs. Willebrandt's official activities have been in prohibition enforcement and her political work has consisted principally in waging war on Governor Smith in addresses before gatherings of clergymen. The main question appeared today to be, "Is she or is she not an authorized speaker for the Republican national committee?"

Hurts G. O. P. Cause

If Wisconsin is to be brought into the Republican ranks, Mrs. Willebrandt must be "muzzled," western Campaign Manager James W. Good was notified today by Benjamin Fuelleman, member of the state central committee.

Fuelleman wrote Good declaring that speeches by Mrs. Willebrandt and her controversy with Governor Alfred E. Smith were reacting unfavorably in Wisconsin and other Republican states.

"No doubt you have been receiving reports of the increase of Governor Smith's apparent strength in Wisconsin," Fuelleman's letter stated.

"Political observers in this state if they are fair, will tell you Governor Smith would carry this state if the election were held now.

"Not only is the Democratic candidate strong in all portions of Wisconsin, but he is getting stronger since Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt has taken the stump. This state is opposed to prohibition tactics as practiced by Mrs. Willebrandt and it is also opposed to the kind of campaigning she is doing. I dare say the same sentiment abounds in other good Republican states.

Defeat Feared

"Unless Mrs. Willebrandt is muzzled Mr. Hoover is sure to go down in defeat. It is not enough for Republican managers to disclaim responsibility for Mrs. Willebrandt's activities. They should demand she refrain from all further participation in the campaign and get back to her desk in Washington.

"If she fails to heed this request President Coolidge should call for her resignation as an assistant attorney general. By doing this it will do more to assure the election of Mr. Hoover than any single act he could perform for the Republican party. We can carry Wisconsin and other doubtful states, likewise, but we can not do it if we are to carry around 'an old man of the sea,' as Mrs. Willebrandt has proven herself."

Good had no comment today concerning Mrs. Willebrandt, although it was announced that she again had become an authorized speaker of the Hoover-Curtis campaign.

Aimee Taken to Task By London Show Critic

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson was taken severely to task today by Hubert Griffith, dramatic critic, for her "lurid" picture of night life in Paris.

In an open letter in the Daily Express, Griffith expressed horror at the California evangelist's condemnation of Paris, written by her in an article for the United Press.

$12,000,000 FOR RELIEF NEEDED

Palm Beach Places Dead at 2300; Refugees 12,200

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 25. (AP)—The Palm Beach chapter of the Red Cross today appealed to national headquarters of the organization to "initiate a move" to raise $12,000,000 for rehabilitation of the storm-swept area in southeastern Florida.

The appeal was sent in the form of a report on conditions, placing the number of dead "in excess of 2,300," and the number of refugees at 12,200.

CONTRIBUTIONS NEAR $2,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (US)—Contributions to the Red Cross hurricane relief fund neared the two million dollar mark today, the total being $1,920,689.89. The minimum goal is $5,000,000.

Eastern district contributions now total $1,396,611.64; midwestern, $294,444.23; Pacific, $129,981; Porto Rico, $46,653; National Red Cross headquarters, $50,000.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (UP)—An award of $10,000 will be paid to the individual who perfects a mechanical apparatus delicate enough to register accurately the energy given off by disease, Dr. Frank Chaffee, San Francisco, announced at the second session of the American Electronic Research association here today.

Dr. Chaffee announced the award on behalf of the College of Electronic Research, San Francisco, of which he is president.

League Denounced For Halt in Disarmament

GENEVA, Sept. 25 (UP)—Germany and Hungary denounced the lack of progress made by the League of Nations toward disarmament at a session of the assembly today.

Count von Bernstorff, Germany, and M. Tanczos, Hungary, announced they would abstain from voting on the resolution providing for a preliminary arms limitation conference next year, to show their "disillusion and bitterness."

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR IS NEW PRESIDENT

Joint Session of Senate and Deputies Names New Leader

TAKES OFFICE DEC. 1

Policies of Calles to Be Carried Out by New Head Of Republic

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (UP)—Emilio Portes Gil, governor of Tamaulipas and secretary of interior, was unanimously elected provisional president of Mexico tonight at a joint session of the senate and chamber of deputies.

Portes Gil will continue as minister of the interior for the next two weeks, at least, it was understood on high authority.

From the same source it also was learned that he would retain the present cabinet with one or two exceptions. Two secretaries are understood to be anxious to resign for personal reasons.

There were 277 votes cast in the election.

Following the election, the members of congress rose in their places and shouted cheers for President Calles, President-elect Gil, and the late Gen. Alvarp Obregon, who had been elected constitutional president last spring and was assassinated by Jose de Leon Toral.

Portes Gil will take office upon the retirement of President Calles Dec. 1.

It is authoritatively understood that he will follow the policy of President Calles in virtually all questions of foreign and internal affairs.

68th President

Portes Gil will remain in office for approximately 14 months, at which time a constitutional president will be elected.

The records show him to be the 68th president of Mexico since 1821, including provisional executives.

Portes Gil is regarded as a staunch supporter of President Calles in all policies. As secretary of the interior and governor of Tamaulipas, he has indicated his Callista tendencies repeatedly and within the last ten days the president and his followers in congress have held a series of conferences which clearly showed their support for Portes Gil.

He has strictly enforced religious laws in Tamaulipas and although he has made no public announcement in rezard to his attitude on the religious question, it is understood he holds much the same views as Calles.

Catholics, therefore, find little hope for a settlement of the religious issues in Mexico during the term of the provisional president. In the eyes of Catholics, Portes Gil represents that type of politician who generally is opposed to the demands of the church for less governmental interference in religious educational institutions.

Calles Arbitrator

Political observers find it difficult to estimate the extent of influence which President Calles will enjoy under the provisional president. It is believed, however, that he will retain a guiding hand in the affairs of the new administration.

Some dissatisfaction over the election of Portes Gil has been reported among the Obregonistas and for this reason it is possible that Calles will continue to act as arbitrator between the contending groups. Portes Gil is expected to continue the foreign policies inaugurated by President Calles, including the settlement of the oil problems with the United States, which all factions regard as satisfactory and to the best interests of all concerned.

Hassell and Cramer Pass Tip of Jutland

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25 (UP)—Bert Hassell and Parker D. Cramer, aboard the steamer Fulton, passed Skagen, the northern extremity of Jutland, at noon today.

COLLEGE PROF AIDS UTILITIES

Alabama Educator Draws $8000 Per Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (UP)—Disclosure that propaganda in behalf of Alabama power companies has been handled by Prof. J. S. Thomas of Alabama university while retaining his position as an educator, featured today's hearing in the federal trade commission's utility investigation.

Thomas told of receiving a salary aggregating $8,000 a year in the period between January, 1927 and July, 1928, for work as director and treasurer of the Alabama utility publicity committee, of Birmingham.

"Represents" School

His work, Thomas testified, consisted principally in making speeches before various gatherings where he was billed as a representative of the university without his power connection being disclosed. He has also done some research work for the utilities, he said.

Servering his connection with the utility committee last July, Thomas said, he became associate director of the state board for industrial development, a body created by the legislature and supported by the state and private industry.

Public Pays

In a speech to power company executives at the 1924 convention in Birmingham of the southeastern division of the National Electric Light association, M. H. Aylesworth, then managing director of that body, said:

"All the money being spent is worth while, and may I leave this thought with you executives. Don't quit now. At the next convention have your young ladies here so they to do the job right, and let off more men from the departments so they may come here. Don't be afraid of the expense. The public pays the expense. eLt us continue with big meetings."

Copies of the speech were placed in evidence today.

Girl Given Life Term For Strangling Baby

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 25. (AP)—Erna Janoschek, 17-year-old strangler of baby Diana Lilencrantz, was under sentence of life imprisonment today for murder of the child last June. The girl admitted the crime, saying she strangled the year-old baby because "I wanted to get even with her mother for having been mean to me."

Station Blocking Al's Speech to Lose License

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (UP)—Federal Radio Comissioner Harold A. Lafount, representing the west coast zone, said today that any station responsible for blocking the broadcasting of Gov. Alfred E. Smith's Helena, Mont., speech Monday, would be denied a renewal of its license.

Accused Pleads Guilty To Extortion Charges

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Francis C. Mooney, 67, of this city, today pleaded guilty to six bills of indictment charging him with attempted extortion of $100,000 from Mrs. Helen Raskob, wife of John J. Raskob, chairman of the national Democratic committee.

20,000 Throng Business District For Opening of Window Displays

Crowds See New Fall Merchandise of Wichita Falls Stores in Exhibits; Winners of Contest Announced

More than 100 Wichita Falls stores whose windows were shrouded all day Tuesday blazed forth in all their glory Tuesday night, unfolding visions of loveliness before the eyes of 20,000 people who thronged the business district. The occasion was The Daily Times and Record News window contest, the first big event of Fall Opening and Buyers' week, and it eclipsed everything on the calendar in point of interest.

Early evening brought thousands to the downtown streets and thousands waited for the wildcat whistle, the signal for the unveiling of contesting windows.

Whistle Opens Display

As the first shriek rent the air at 7:30 o'clock, curtains were dropped and Wichita Falls, enmasse, viewed the art of decorators who presented fall merchandise in gorgeous surroundings. Each contesting store had its own audience as men, women and children rushed from one window to another until the entire business district had been visited.

While 30 first and 20 second prizes were awarded in the contest, the Hub clothiers led in the number of awards given to a single establishment. This firm won three first prizes and two seconds. Perkins Timberlake company won two firsts and an equal number of seconds and a like number was taken by W. B. McClurkan company. P. B. M. company won two firsts and one second.

Expert Judges Entries

W. T. Huntsman of the Fair store, Fort Worth, for two years a member of the judging committee of the International Association of Display Men, was official judge of the contest. Mr. Huntsman announced prize winners about midnight Tuesday following an extensive study of the various entries.

Children's wear: First, Perkins-Timberlake company; second, W. B. McClurkan and company. Woman's ready-to-wear: First, P. B. M. company; second, Elwyn, Inc. Millinery: First, W. B. McClurkan and company; second, The Parisian. Women's shoes: First, Slipperland; second, Cinderella Boot shop. Men's clothing: First, The Hub Clothiers; second, Montgomery company. Men's hats: First, W. B. McClurkan and company; second, The Hub Clothiers. Men's furnishings: First, Loeb-Liepold Clothing company; second, W. B. McClurkan and company. Boy's

Killing Frosts Through West Are Predicted

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 25. (UP)—A repetition of the light frost that nipped tender vegetation and some flowers in the southwest last night was forecast for tonight. Frosts were general over Nebraska and the Dakotas and killing frosts are predicted for tonight.

WOMAN BANDIT SUSPECT 'LOST'

Friend of Jack Smith May Be in Houston

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 25 (AP)—Conflicting statements from state rangers and Travis county authorities as to the criminal escapades of Jack Smith, youthful ex-convict, who was buried here today, kept up a merry little game on the order of hide and seek today.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Louise Magness, Smith's friend who was arrested here yesterday, were a secret here tonight. She is wanted in connection with the $10,000 Canal street bank robbery at New Orleans, at Houston on charges of hotel room thefts, and on other matters at Kerrville and Galveston.

Shot in Oklahoma

The body of Smith, a star quarterback on the 1918 high school football squad here, formerly a model Presbyterian Sunday school student and a once-intended evangelist, was brought here from Oklahoma City, where he was fatally shot by a detective.

The Magness woman was arrested by Ranger Jim McCoy and Tod Aldrich under the direction of Captain Frank Hamer at the funeral home where a casket for Smith was being bought Monday.

Travis county Deputy Sheriff Will Meredith said McCoy took her out of jail last night and did not bring her back. Attorneys were refused admission. McCoy and Aldrich said repeatedly today that the woman was in jail as far as they knew. Hamer had little to say.

Reward Offered

In the absence of other statements from officers, it is supposed that Mrs. Magness was delivered to Harris county officers for return to Houston. Some sort of a reward is understood to be posted for her. Who offered it and where could not be learned.

Governor Moody said late Tuesday that he had received no request yet for her extradition to Louisiana and that he would not grant any until the Texas cases are disposed of some way.

Mrs. Magness was indicted at Houston with Smith on charges of stealing from hotel rooms. She was with him at Oklahoma City, she said. Smith has served terms in the Texas penitentiary for attempted burglary here and robbery at Houston and was wanted in connection with the New Orleans robbery. Extradition of him had been asked by Louisiana before his death in Oklahoma City.

Officials at Funeral

Several state officials attended the funeral of Smith, whose mother, Mrs. Clyde Smith, is head of the state fire insurance commission mailing department. Among them were R. B. Walthall, chairman of the state board of control; Chairman Clarence Gilmore of the state railroad commission and Commissioner Lon Smith, Comptroller S. H. Terrell, and several members of the fire insurance department.

Musty Files Yield Copy Of Call For Famous Square Dance Of 45 Years Ago

Editor's Note—The following reminiscence of the first anniversary dance in Wichita Falls on September 27, 1883, was printed in the Wichita Daily Times on April 9, 1909. It was written by Fred Chase, now of Quanah, Texas. The dance call in this story has been reprinted many times and has appeared in some collections of frontier lore.

First Anniversary Dance. Visitors From As Far Away As Waco Came. Two Fiddlers and a Caller From Dallas. Nat. McElroy, Cow-Boy, Hit of the Evening.

When Sept. 27, 1883, rolled around great preparations in honor of that day, which had been carefully made, materialized in the shape of a grand ball, which was held in Ward's hall, being on the second floor of the brick building across the street from the postoffice, on the corner of Ohio avenue and Eighth street. This was a big event. People came from even as far away as Waco. Two fiddlers were brought from Dallas, and a professional caller was imported from that town so that there should be no delay to the dancers because some local caller might not know how to prompt those on the floor. This ball was largely attended, and for a long time was referred to with great pride. Some of the ladies who came from a distance were resplendent in up-to-date ball gowns, and some of the gentlemen wore sure-enough dress suits, spike-tail coats, and black trousers, high heeled boots and spurs.

Many popular and well-known dances were tripped, and finally someone suggested that it would be something out of the ordinary for the visitors if a cowboy caller could be prevailed upon to prompt a set. The matter of "spelling" the professional caller was broached to that gent, who had by this time acquired a thirst that knew no bounds, and he readily fell in with the suggestion, and as readily disappeared to get another drink.

Now the best cowboy caller who ever prompted any dance held in West Texas was Nat McElroy, it is said. McElroy, who lived close to this town, was there, gotten up regardless. He wore a speckled calico shirt with smartly colored handkerchief around his neck, large white hat such as one sees in pictures, California trousers tucked in his boots, and bright bell spurs of the largest size. McElroy had a voice which carried a mile on a pinch, and his enunciation was as distinct as that of a practiced orator. Yes, he would call, and at once took the floor, and the dancers immediately began to get partners.

Someone asked W. J. Howard if he would spell the man playing second fiddle through this dance, and Mr. Howard obligingly consented to do this. Speaking of that fiddling afterward, Mr. Howard said that he couldn't fiddle any more than a rabbit, but he had to make a bluff and when the first violin commenced scraping, he promptly turned his fiddle bow upside down, and sawed away on the strings with the polished wood, making no noise whatever, and after the set was danced, the first violin complimented him highly as the best second he ever had to play with him.

McElroy hopped out in the middle of the room and sang out:

"Get your partners for a square dance!"

Every man who took part in that dance promptly got his partner, and the line was formed. The tune the fiddlers played was "Old Sallie Gooden." Everyone who has danced a "cotillion" in the Southwest knows that air, as well as "Wagner." Who can help stepping it when either is played? McElroy promptly commenced calling the figures, dancing around the couples, and waving his hat and arms, and keeping perfect time to the music. Old timers who saw this dance say that they never saw such a scene. The calling was as follows, which gets in about all of the cowbody slang that was current those days:

"Eight hands up. Circle south. Break and stampede home.

"First gent out to the right. Swing Sallie Gooden.

"Then your taw; swing grandma.

"Then swing that girl from Arkansaw.

"Now swing your taw; everybody

A program will be given by the children of the lower grades, and reports will be made by the vice presidents, who are chairmen of the program, membership, and ways and means committees respectively. The meetings will be held once each month at the high school auditorium.

'Progressive' Vote Claimed for Smith

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25. (UP)—The Minnesota "progressive" vote which nearly carried this state for La Follette in 1924, was claimed for Governor Smith today following the most significant political move in this doubtful territory since the present campaign began.

George Cashman, Democratic candidate for United States senator, withdrew from the race late yesterday, "in the interset of the Democratic party and Governor Smith."

Although Cashman did not designate the senatorial candidate to whom his support should go, it was assumed Henry Shipstead, farmer-labor incumbent, was the natural heir of the Democratic vote.

The retirement of Cashman reduces the candidates to Shipstead and Arthur E. Nelson, Republican candidate.

In the last presidential election, La Follette received 339,192 independent Minnesota votes, while President Coolidge was given 420,759 Republican votes. Davis, Democratic nominee, was far behind with 55,-913 votes.

Iowa Park Choral Club Holds Meet

Special to The Record News

IOWA PARK, Sept. 25.—The Choral club held the first meeting of the season Monday evening with a mock wedding in the ladies parlor of the First Methodist church, when Miss New Member and Mrs. Old Member were united in marriage. The bride, who was represented by Miss Thelma Matthews, was gowned in white with a wedding veil which was carried by Danly Kane. Miss Eleanor Burney took the part of the groom, Mrs. Reba Lindsey and Mrs. Scott Ralston were the parents of the bride. The bride was given away by her father, and Mrs. G. C. Richards performed the ceremony before an improvised pulpit banked with flowers.

The brides maids who were dressed in the pastel colors and wore garden hats, were Misses Ray Golden, Mary George and Ruth Galey. The groomsmen were Misses Maurine McDonald, Rosalie Keller and the best man, Miss Anna Lee Colville. Agnes Marie Kane was the flower girl.

After the ceremony in which the two contracting parties promised to help one another, sing in harmony, and to protect each other from the director, refreshments were served to the wedding party and the guests.

Miss Mary George caught the bride's bouquet.

Next Monday the club will begin the year's work under the direction of Mrs. Louella B. Thompson, choir director of the Floral Heights Methodist church of Wichita Falls. Thirty-four members took part in the club last year, and this year promises to be the best of the club which is beginning its third year.

NOMINEES MAY WORD APPEALS

State Demo Manager Says Method Unimportant

DALLAS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Nominees of the Democratic party may word their appeals for voters for the entire ticket in any fashion they see fit, and these will be issued to voters along with those of the state campaign committee, W. A. Thomas, manager of the committee, said today.

Thomas' statement was made after reported dissatisfaction of Governor Dan Moody, Attorney General General Claude Pollard and State Superintendent of Schools S. M. N. Marrs, with the text of an appeal the committee has asked all Democratic nominees for state offices to sign.

"I do not know what portion of our appeal they object to," Thomas said, "but if they, or any other nominees, want to state their plea for election differently, they are at liberty to do so."

BOLTERS TO AID STATE NOMINEES

DALLAS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Support in the present campaign and in all future political skirmishes was promised today by B. D. Sartin, state campaign manager of Hoover Democrats, to all Democratic nominees for state office who refused to sign the appeal sent them by state Democratic headquarters.

Sartin said his wing of the party had not bolted Democratic state nominees and had no intention of taking this action unless they deserted the cause of prohibition.

Nobile to Write True Story of Italia Crash

ROME, Sept. 25. (UP)—General Umberto Nobile announced today that he would go into seclusion at the home of a friend in Naples soon to write the complete story of his recent Polar expedition.

Republican Leaders Impress Upon Hoover Necessity of More Speeches

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (INS)—Responding to requests from party leaders all over the country, Herbert Hoover will deliver a number of prepared speeches during the last ten days of the campaign, while on his way home to vote, it was learned today.

The Republican nominee will leave Washington about Oct. 26 enroute to Stanford University Calif., to set an example for the rest of America by voting in his own campaign. His advisers have just begun consideration of his itinerary and it probably will not be announced until just prior to his departure. A score of cities in a dozen states have invited the nominee to pay them a visit.

Hoover probably will make four speeches on the trip home. At this time, his advisers favor Indianapolis, Chicago or St. Louis, Minneapolis or St. Paul and Denver as the best points for their delivery. The nominee in addition will close his campaign with another speech in San Francisco, either on the Saturday or the Monday preceding the election. This speech will be broadcast into every state of the union.

Pampa Loyal Demos To Challenge Preacher

PAMPA, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—When Dr. John Roach Straton, New York fundamentalist leader, speaks here Sunday at the invitation of local Hoover Democrats, he will be challenged to debate political issues by an unnamed representative of the Smith-Robinson Loyal Democrats club here, its members decided last night.

Judge C. S. Wortham was elected temporary chairman of the organization.

TRIO ESCAPES 'LIVING GRAVE'

French Doctor-Slayer Hunted by Gendarmes

PARIS, Sept. 25. (US)—Escapes from the living grave that is Devil's island just aren't done, according to the drab versions of prosaic fictionists.

But a tersely worded telegram has been received by the French minister of colonies detailing the escape from the penal settlement of Dr. Pierre Bougrat, and two other "lifers." The message recounts how the fugitives, pursued day and night by gendarmes, headed down along the treacherous Guinea coast, where many runaway convicts have either been swallowed up by the quicksands along the shore, or eaten by sharks.

It is understood that the notorious Dr. Bougrat, who was only sent to the island about six months ago, slipped away from Devil's island with his two companions in a pirogue. This is a hollowed out tree trunk. It is believed they secretly bought the pirogue from a Chinese employed on the island.

The island gendarmes pursued the fleeing trio in a motor boat, but nothing has been heard thus far as to the success of the pursuit.

Gruesome Murder

Dr. Bougrat's escape recalls his conviction here for a murder more horrible in real life than the horror depicted in Edgar Allan Poe's story of "The Telltale Heart." As a medical man in good standing with one of the best medical practices in Marseilles, he gradually became a drug fiend.

Indulgence in drugs gradually caused the Marseilles medico to lose all sense of decency and respect. Nevertheless his medical practice continued good, and things went fine for a time.

Then the police of the port city began to hear strange stories of women being robbed while under the influence of anaesthetics in Dr. Bougrat's office, and at length one of the doctor's closest friends, a cashier named Jacques Rumebe, disappeared in March, 1925, after a visit to the physician's office. The disappearance looked more suspicious owing to the fact that the cashier had a payroll of $750 with him at the time he went to the medical office.

Dr. Bougrat's quarters were searched by police. Nothing was found at first. Everything looked in perfect order, and there were no signs of violence of any kind.

Then the police began searching the walls, tapping panels, and finally their search was rewarded. A wall was found flawlessly papered over. When the paper was torn off, a cupboard was revealed, and here in the hidden cupboard, police found the mummified body of the missing cashier.

Disclaims Killing

Sensations were not ended, however, with the finding of the body. Bougrat was arrested and charged with having murdered Rumebe for the money. When he was tried in March, 1927, he coldly declared Rumebe had committed suicide in his office after having dissipated the money.

Despite this cool attempt to evade the law's penalty, Bougrat was convicted. On account of his heroic war record, he was spared the guillotine, and sent to Devil's island under a life sentence.

In official quarters here, it is believed Bougrat and his companions will pay the penalty of all runaway convicts along the treacherous Guinea coast.

'Mammy' Master and His Mrs.

The master of the mammy song and his musical comedy bride are pictured here. Al Jolson and Miss Ruby Keeler, once a night club dancer who recently appeared in several Broadway productions, tried to keep their marriage a secret. But the news leaked out on the day before the couple sailed for Europe.

Convicted Negro to Appeal Murder Verdict

NACOGDOCHES, Sept. 25. (AP)—Defense counsel prepared today to appeal soon for Will Thorn, negro found guilty of the murder of Deputy Sheriff John Hargis and sentenced to 99 years.

EXILED STATE OFFICIAL DIES

Louisianian Mourned as Gallant Soldier

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25 (AP)—A life that ran the gamut of almost every human emotion and experience was ended yesterday with the death of Major Edward A. Burke at Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Starting humbly, Major Burke rose high and then sank to the depths of exile, dying while well on his way in his efforts to remove a stigma from his name. Honduras was the place of exile to which he fled forty years ago against an embezzlement indictment charging him with appropriating Louisiana state funds to his personal use while serving as state treasurer.

Entrenched in Honduras, which refused to surrender him to the United States, the major grew old and feeble in his efforts to have the blemish removed from his record of gallantry in the Civil war and service to the state of Louisiana. After numerous failures, his friends in the state finally succeeded in having the indictment quashed last February but Major Burke still refused to return unless he officially was declared innocent of the charges.

While waiting he died and his body probably will be intered in his adopted land.

Major Burke held a warm spot in the hearts of Louisianans as he was given credit with doing more for Louisiana during the reconstruction days than any other one man. Before him and his band, the carpetbaggers and freed negroes were put to rout and Louisiana's officialdom was reclaimed for the southern white race.

During the Civil war, at the age of 19, Burke was in a Texas regiment under General McGruder. Participating in a battle at Galveston, when the federal gunboat Harriet, was captured, he pulled down her flag.

For distinguished services in the fight Burke was made provost marshal at Houston. Later he became inspector of field transportation west of the Mississippi river.

American Tells of Capture by Gang Of Prayerful Mexican Bandits

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (UP)—Edward J. Bumstead, Los Angeles mining engineer who was held captive for three weeks in a bandit camp near Ixixian, is here after his ransom had been effected and gave the first story of his capture and confinement in the outlaw headquarters.

"My captors were Catholic rebels who explained they merely wanted money," Bumstead told the United Press correspondent.

He said his captors held religious services every morning and every evening and "seemed sincerely on the warpath for the church."

Bumstead was captured Aug. 25 and held until his ransom of 20,000 gold pesos was paid on Sept. 15.

"I was kidnaped by 12 men who previously had visited the mine," the engineer continued. Bumstead is general manager of the Humboldt mines.

"They had asked for food and then told me they wanted me to see their chief. I went with them and at headquarters of the rebels I found myself a prisoner.

"I was informed my release would cost 30,000 pesos.

"When we reached the rebel camp," he said, "I found the ransom price had been lowered to 20,000 pesos.

"The rebels were most devout and held morning and evening day religious services, but seemed sincerely on the warpath for the church. I was horribly bored and the time dragged."

Calles' Parley With Papal Legates Denied

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Usually well-informed circles tonight denied knowledge of reports in local newspapers that "two delegates from the vatican" are conferring with President Calles in an attempt to adjust the controversy between the government and the Catholic church.

Slow Rains Aid West Texas Farms

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 25 (AP)—With the ground still moist from last week's heavy rainfall, much of West Texas again was soaked today by a slow drizzle. The precipitation here totaled one-half of an inch.

In some sections dirt roads are heavy and impassable. Paving on two highways in Tom Green county has been interrupted, cotton picking has been delayed, and some of the staple has been damaged.

Farmers and ranchmen, however, are jubilant over the rainfall, which will put season in the ground for winter planting.

Officer Shot While With Mexican Governor

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—General Pedro Saavedra, a former Zapta lieutenant, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded today while in the house of Gov. Ambrosio Puente in Cuernavaca. The assailant, who was not identified, escaped.

EXPERT TELLS OF LUNCHEONS

Mrs. Chitwood Tells How To Serve Guests

By IDA M. CHITWOOD
Noted Culinary Expert.

There is no happier way of entertaining one's women friends than at luncheon. (Men, as a rule, are not devotees of this pleasant indoor sport.)

Naturally, if one has no maid, one does not attempt a luncheon on a very large scale, although in nearly every community it is possible to draft for the occasional gala meal a helper who will either stay in the kitchen or help out as waitress. But let us suppose the worst: No "accomodater" is available and you, in your one person, must perform in the triple role of cook, waitress and hostess.

The first consideration is to choose a menu that will be as delightful as possible without presenting undue complications in serving. Dishes with "trailers" or sauces, gravies or condiments must be sternly foregone, but a simplified service does not mean that the food cannot be both delicious and interesting.

It goes without saying that you will do all of your marketing and as much preparation of the food as is possible on the day before the party.

For a formal luncheon the table is spread with the handsomest luncheon cloth, or runners and place mats, or centerpiece and doilies, that the hostess possesses. (A large white damask cloth is suitable only for dinner.) A handsome bowl or vase in the center holds some of the more delicate varieties of garden or hot house flowers arranged loosely, their stems cut at uneven lengths, so that the effect is of grace and fragility rather than of the profuse costliness which fairly shrieks at one's guests: "Count me; there are two dozen of me."

Omit Place Cards

If the table is very long and narrow, it may be necessary to place two smaller bowls of the same flowers between the central bowl and the ends of the table; or, if the table is large and square, you may want as many as four small vases arranged around the bigger one. Small dishes or compotes of salted nuts and candy complete the table decorations, and it is needless to say that these compotes must be placed on the table in positions symmetrically related to the centerpiece and to each other, and not plumped down anywhere with irregular intervals between them.

For a small luncheon there is no need of place cards, but you may choose to have them because of the festive touch they give. Where to put them depends upon the type of card you choose. The most conservative card is a small plain white oblong, which is placed at the top of the folded napkin at the left side of each plate. But there are others which are designed to cling to the edge of the water glass or to the individual container of salted nuts.

The most important point to remember in your choice of place cards is that, if decorated, they must harmonize with your general color scheme.

In entertaining either at luncheon or dinner, it is the better part of wisdom not to string out the silver in a bewildering row at each plate, but to have the dessert spoons brought on when the last course is served. Put all extra silver on the serving table or tea-wagon in advance of the luncheon.

When your guests come into the dining room, they find the first course on the service plates—half a grapefruit, melon, a cocktail or bouillion. When they are ready for the next course, you will rise quietly, remove the used plates, but not the service plates, and carry them two at a time into the kitchen or pantry.

Arrange for Assistant

From the last trip you will return with hot plates for the main course. Long before the luncheon you will have arranged with one of your guests, probably an intimate friend, to be a sort of an assistant hostess, and so you have given her the place opposite your own at the other end of the table. Now, you take away her service plate and put the hot plates in front of her. Then you bring on the main dish and place before her to serve.

While she is performing this duty, you are free to re-fill the glasses and gather up each service plate as it is replaced by the hot plate. If there are vegetables to be passed, try to have one of the two compartment dishes, which may be bought either in china or Sheffield plate. They make serving wonderfully expeditious.

When your guests have been supplied with meat and vegetables, you will be free to sit down. A plate or small basket of bread may be passed from hand to hand around the table as it is needed, and jelly, nuts, and relish may fare likewise.

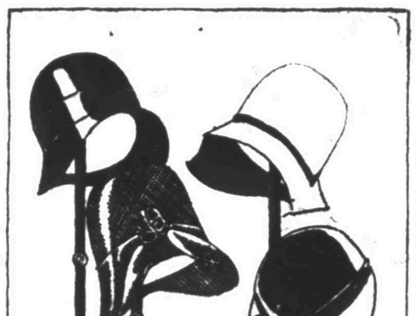

At the end of this course you will remove the used plates, taking one in each hand, but never piling them. Strict etiquette demands that you replace the used plate with a fresh service plate, which would give way in a moment to the salad plate; but in a servantless house, such a plan is not practical, and therefore, the place in front of each guest will be bereft of a plate for a few minutes, until you can fill it again with the salad plate.

If tea or chocolate is to be served, it is probably more successful for the hostess to pour it at the table from the prettiest service she can beg, borrow or buy, rather than to bring it in from the kitchen in cups.

Finger bowls with a doily beneath are brought in on dessert plates. Each guest lifts the finger bowl, together with the doily, and places it on the table at her left, leaving the plate ready for the dessert. This may be ice cream in sherbet glasses brought in from the kitchen on a small tray, or it may be a delicate custard of some sort served by the hostess in glass saucers at the table, or an especially delicious tart or cake may be the ending of the luncheon—this last would be served on the dessert plates, of course.

CHIC CHERI

Dina and Eustace are looking for Cherie who disappeared a few days ago without even leaving a suicide note. If she is still within this vale of tears they think they know where to look for her. Dina has prepared for the manhunt by putting on a lop-sided hat of ribbon and velvet and a surplice velvet frock.

At her favorite hat shop they found plenty of hats, but no Cherie. It's becoming almost depressingly sad to look at these hats, each one of which would be so becoming to her. This little velvet poke bonnet in the upper left corner, the knotted-brim turban of felt, the broad-brimed soleil and the draped velvet turban.

Nor she isn't at the fashion show being given by her favorite gown shop and Eustace can only gaze vacantly at these smart coats which deserve a more appreciate audience. In the first place they are all short jackets, which is new this season. In the second place each one of them has a particularly smart collar—two have attached scarfs that may be knotted under the chin. The coat to the left is reversible, caracul and velvet. The second is kidskin. The third is notable for its flaring ruff-like collar and is made of stenciled kidskin with its collar and its diagonal trimming band of striped barunduki fur.

Married 'Flirt' Who Causes Girl To Lose Her Head Called Worthless

The Excitement of the Chase Lures Many a Benedict on to Flirt, Says Dorothy Dix, but the Married Philanderer Who Deliberately Causes a Girl to Lose Her Heart to Him Is a Worthless Cad.

A young woman says to me: "Through business I have met a man who is married and has several small children, but who insists on making love to me and continually asking me to make dates with him.

"I have an old-fashioned background and the very thought of having anything to do with a married man shocked me in the beginning, but this man is very attractive and fascinating and insistent, and several times I have gone to dinner and shows with him. I know it isn't right, but I like him and enjoy him very much, and the temptation is great.

"Now what I cannot understand is: Why do married men want to take out other girls when they have young and pretty and attractive wives, and wives whom they really love?

"And don't you think it is unfair of married men to try to make a girl fall in love with them when they haven't a thing to offer her?"

It is the spirit of the chase, the love of adventure that makes married men pursue young girls. It is the same instinct that makes a man endure incredible hardships and fatigue, and risk his life to shoot big game or catch fish for which he does not care after he has got it.

In his heart of hearts he may really love his wife. In his soul he may put her above all other women. He may think her a thousand times better-looking, more intelligent, with more character; in every way superior to the woman he is chasing, but the trouble is that she is caught. He has got her. The sport is over. She is the dead lion—the hooked tarpon.

There is no more thrill in her kisses because they belong to him and do not have to be stolen. There is no pep in taking her out because it is a duty instead of a misdemeanor. There is no wickedness in his relationship to her to give flavor to it. If wives would lock their houses and make their spouses climb in at the window, it would probably do more than anything else to stop wandering husbands.

Another reason that married men make love to girls is because they flatter themselves that they are sheiks, with a way with women and a line of soft talk that nothing feminine can resist, and they get an awful kick out of trying out their fascinations on the flappers and understudying the role of Don Juan.

Of course, we have always had the flirtatious married man in our midst. Probably the snake in the grass who beguiled the first woman was a husband and father with a devoted wife and a lot of little serpents at home, and he began his approach by telling Mother Eve that Mrs. Serpent didn't understand him and exclaiming, "Oh, why didn't we meet in time!"

At any rate, there have always been plenty of the poisonous breed around, getting in their deadly work on unsophisticated and romantic maidens, and the only reason they are more dangerous now than they used to be is because they have greater opportunities.

In olden days, when girls stayed put in their homes until they were married, it was possible to safeguard them against the arts and wiles of the married philanderers. But now, when practically every girl works side by side with married men, when many a girl spends her days in the private office of a married man, the only protection that a girl has against an unprincipled married man is her own sense of honor and her good, hard, horse sense.

Of course, in the close association that modern professional and commercial life makes between men and women, there are inevitable tragedies. There are many men who have made terrible mistakes in marriage; men who have got shrews or viragoes or gold-diggers or icicles for wives; men who are lonely and heart-hungry, and who find their real mates in the fine and noble women with whom they work daily; and, inasmuch as hearts are not machines that can be regulated at will, nothing could keep these men from loving these women.

It is not of these men that I speak, but of those who amuse themselves by trying to win the heart of a young girl when they know that they are bringing life-long misery upon her. The men, who, for the sake of flattering their vanity and for the fillip it gives their jaded senses to have an amorous adventure, are willing to sacrifice a woman.

It is nothing to such a man that he makes the girl care so much for him that she will never have anything but the dust and ashes of affection to give to any other man. It is nothing to him that he kills all that was sweet and generous and trustful in her nature, and leaves her a hard and embittered woman when he throws her over, as he invariably does when he tires of her. It is nothing to him that he tarnishes her good name, for a cynical world has no belief in the innocency of an affair between a married man and a girl.

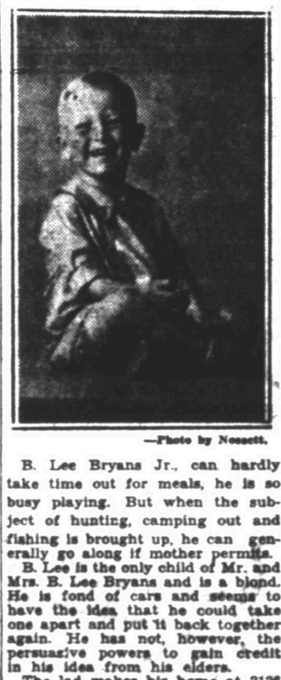

It is a dastard's game, cruel and heartless, this of the married man who makes love to young girls, and it is all the more cowardly because he plays safe. He has the protection of his wife, and does not even run the risk that the bachelor Lothario does.

Every girl with the intelligence of a moron knows this. Every girl knows the danger of listening to the wooing of married men. Every girl knows what an uneven bargain she makes when she gives her heart and her reputation for a few kisses and a dinner or two. Every girl knows what a cad a man is when he tells her that he loves her, but that he wouldn't think of divorcing his wife and marrying her. Yet girls continue to fall for married men.

Why? Perhaps because they are daughters of Eve and cannot resist dallying with temptation, and still hanker after forbidden fruit. Perhaps because they, too, are lured by the bright face of danger.

Wesley Girls Class Entertained At Merry Old-Fashioned Party

Attired in dresses of periods dating back from 25 to 40 years, members of the Wesley Girls class of the First Methodist church, South, were guests of Mrs. E. B. Lehrack at her home, 1712 Huff street, for the first fall social and business meeting, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. F. L. Mercer, president, gave a talk on the opening of the new church and outlined the work of the Wesley Girls class for the fall months. Mrs. W. W. Silk, teacher, also gave a brief talk on the work of the class members as well as the series of sermons to be preached during the present revival at the First Methodist church, South.

The following reports were given: Reports of standing committees, building fund committee, treasurer's report and welfare committee. A decision was reached to raise money for the class by each member subscribing to Holland's magazine. New members and visitors were introduced by Mrs. Mercer.

A nominating committee to select officers to be elected at the next meeting was appointed by Mrs. Mercer and will be made up of the following: Mesdames N. M. Clifford, R. C. Hones and Martin Rowe.

A mock wedding was the feature of the program and included in the cast the following: Mrs. Grover Bullington, bride; Mrs. Sam Acton, pastor; Mrs. A. E. Kelly, best man; Mrs. J. B. McKinley, father of the bride; Mrs. Edgar Holiman, bridegroom; Mrs. Homer Bennett, maid of honor; Mrs. T. P. Lynch, matron of honor; Mrs. E. H. Eddleman, mother of the bride; Mrs. R. E. St. Claire, train bearer; Mrs. C. K. Moseby, flower girl and Mrs. J. E. O'Brien, pianist.

Refreshments of ginger cake and buttermilk were served by Mrs. W. C. Russell and her section. Members present were: Mesdames O'Brien, O. T. Kimbrough, Mercer, Everett McCullough, P. E. Miller, W. C. Troubled With Pimples Two Years Cuticura Healed

"My face broke out with red, itchy pimples. The pimples later spread to my back and neck. Later on, after scratching them because of the soreness, they became infected and my face was terribly disfigured, also my back. I could hardly bear anything to touch my back, and could not sleep on account of the soreness. This trouble I endured for about two years.

"I tried many remedies without success. I then bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) James L. Norton, 2038 Bentalou St., Baltimore, Md., Feb. 28, 1928.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soothe and heal. Cuticura Talcum is fragrant and refreshing, an ideal toilet powder.

A NEW LUXURY in MOTORING

Now
Provided by the Packard Custom Eight

THE PACKARD CUSTOM EIGHT is priced from $3175 to $3850 at Detroit

EVEN those long familiar with the finest Packards of the past, are unprepared for the greater riding and driving comfort, the sheer luxury of the new Packard Custom Eight.

The characteristic beauty and distinction of the new Custom Eight were to be expected. Even Packard can but enhance the grace of established Packard lines—and it is no part of the Packard policy needlessly to depreciate the cars in the hands of owners.

And, of course, no finer powerplant than the simple, rugged, easily accessible Packard Straight Eight motor—with its nine-bearing crankshaft—could be anticipated.

But beyond these expected qualities—and surpassing any recent achievement of the entire industry—Packard now offers a new and unique Shock Absorbing System.

Literally and without qualification the new Packard Shock Absorbing System makes the Packard the easiest riding car in the world—and also the safest. Won't you drive it, as our guest, and see for yourself?

We want you also to note the wide range of beautiful colors available in the new Custom Eight line—each with harmonizing upholstery whose deep cushions of new design add the last touch of luxury.

Let us fairly appraise your present car. Its value should more than cover the down payment on the Custom Eight. You may purchase on convenient payments if you prefer. Phone and we will send a car to your door.

STRIFE BITTER IN MARYLAND

Leaders Deplore Religious Intolerance

Editor's Note: Raymond Clapper of The United Press in Washington is now on a tour of the country to analyze and report the presidential campaign as he sees it. He will present an entirely unprejudiced account of his findings during the trip which will take him into all the important battle zones of the country.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 25.—As one of the states which it is generally felt Governor Smith must carry to win, Maryland is engaged in an intense struggle, growing more bitter daily. Religion and prohibition overshadow everything else, with religion dominant at the moment.

Feeling is breaking over the normal restraints and personalities are dealt in roughly.

An effort to check this tendency has just been made by Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican state central committee, who issued a statement saying the Republican management in Maryland "will not countenance indulgence of personalities or the injection of sectarian or racial matters in the coming campaign."

Senator Bruce tells an audience that Senator Curtis, Republican vice presidential candidate, was seen at Pimlico race track with a bottle of whiskey in his pocket and that Clarence Darrow boasts of having taken drinks with Hoover. Some of the things which Democrats say are being said against Governor Smith are hardly printable. Here are excerpts from the speeches of two lay Republican political workers in ward speeches as reported here a few days ago:

Praises Mrs. Hoover

"Mr. Hoover has a fine wife. Some men don't have them, which is most unfortunate. But think what it will mean to us ladies to have such a wonderful woman as Mrs. Hoover in the White House, one we can look up to."

"We want to be proud of the first lady of the land. Mrs. Hoover was head of the Girl Scouts and is nice and refined."

Senator Bruce, who has many times boasted in the United States senate that his Maryland cherished a tradition of tolerance as the home of the only Catholic signer of the Declaration of Independence, declared in a speech this week that this campaign had disillusioned him, and that he had been living in a fool's paradise.

"There is religious bigotry, religious intolerance in this state, and I am convinced that if Governor Smith loses in Maryland it will be because of sectarian intolerance. Let us drive out sectarian intolerance, let us bruise the head of that serpent, nay, crush that head until the bigotry and poison of bigotry are driven from this state. Let us elect Governor Smith as a rebuke to sectarian intolerance."

Maryland is wedged between Republican Pennsylvania and Democratic Virginia. It is usually Democratic in state elections and Republican in national elections. However, it has been assumed to have a strong affinity for Governor Smith because of its belligerent wetness and because it has had a strong Catholic strain from the time the colony was founded by Lord Baltimore. Also there is the influence of Governor Ritchie's serving his third term in defiance of a one-term tradition, strong wet and a loyal supporter of Governor Smith.

Rural Section Republican

Actually, however, this is true only of Baltimore, not of the state as a whole for like New York, Maryland is composed of a large wet Democratic metropolitan section and a dry Republican rural section, about evenly divided in voting strength. The counties are being organized by Republicans on a dry basis this time—the first time the Republicans have taken a strong dry stand in their campaign. Anti-Catholic feeling in the eastern shore counties is cutting into Smith's strength.

In Baltimore, the Democrats are handicapped by having lost the city election by 17,000 votes two years ago. Their candidate was a Catholic although this is not regarded as having been the decisive issue. The Democrats were split. Friends of Howard Jackson, who was refused renomination for mayor by the late Boss Kelly, went over to the Republican candidate, Broening, in retaliation.

Jackson's attitude this time may be the decisive factor in the presidential fight. He has attended some Democratic meetings and has said he would support the Democratic ticket. Republicans, however, are confident Jackson is rendering only lip service and they expect his followers to vote for Hoover in large numbers because many of them are strongly anti-Catholic and because Jackson strongly dislikes Governor Ritchie and defeat for the Democratic ticket this year would endanger Ritchie's leadership.

In 1924, Coolidge carried Maryland by 14,000 over John W. Davis. Davis and LaFollette together had more votes than Coolidge. Harding carried the state by 55,000. In presidential elections the state has gone Republican, usually by small margins, since Cleveland's time, except in the case of Wilson. Yet Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican candidate for senator this year, is the second Republican since the civil war to be elected governor of Maryland—that was in 1911.

Now for the guesses, whatever they may mean. Democrats predict Smith will get a majority of 40,000 in Baltimore which would be sufficient to overcome the majority they concede to Hoover in the counties. Republican leaders say Hoover should lose Baltimore only by 10,000 at the worst, which would enable him to overcome it by a heavy majority in the counties. Privately politicians in both parties are figuring on a close vote. Governor Smith will speak in Baltimore the last week in the campaign. Republicans are starting their stumping tour this week.

In any conservative table the state should be classed doubtful.

Hatchet Murder Ends Quest of Boston Woman for Wealthy Spokane Lover

BOSTON, Sept. 25. (INS)—A transcontinental journey to the end of a rainbow, in the spectrum of which she thought she saw a $100,000 husband and a honeymoon in Europe, ended in death by a hatchet in a deserted prune orchard near Spokane, Wash., for Mrs. Catherine Clark, 38-year-old Greater Boston Divorcee.

Left behind in her mad chase for wealth, Burton E. Hall, her Boston sweetheart, local watchmaker, today mourned her passing. Her divorced husband is in a hospital and does not know of her ill-starred trip.

Friends in Boston today told of the across-the-continent matrimonial adventure of the former Laura McGrath, sister of Mrs. Veronica Fitzgerald, of Norwalk, Conn., and friend of Mrs. Ruth Levine, 2358 Indiana avenue, Chicago.

Through the Mrs. Warn matrimonial agency of Los Angeles, Mrs. Clark began a "mail courtship" with James R. Murphy, 2217 East Hartshorn avenue, Spokane. Murphy, according to Hall and others, claimed to have in trust a $100,000 fortune. There was a clause in the will of the relative who left the trust fund that he must marry at a certain age and have the equivalent of $11,000 before he could claim the fortune. Murphy had $8,000 and Mrs. Clark was to bring the balance.

She was to have a wedding gift of $10,000 and a honeymoon in Europe. Drawing her money from local banks and a bank in Stamford, Conn., Mrs. Clark started west on her "great adventure" Sept. 17. She stopped with Mrs. Levine in Chicago en route to Spokane and that was the last heard from her.

Murphy had asked Mrs. Clark to bring with her the 10 letters he wrote her and his photograph. She was understood to have left them in a local safe deposit box, but they have disappeared.

Mrs. Clark, who carried $1,870 with her, had telegraphed her husband-to-be her seat and berth numbers on the Chicago-Spokane train. She wore jewelry, which included a wrist watch, string of pearls, two-stone pearl ring, and amthyst ring set in chip diamonds and a green stone ring. Robbery was believed to have been the motive for the murder.

Hall, who read the Murphy letters, said today that the writer claimed to be a native of Ontario and a college graduate. Murphy had promised to introduce Mrs. Clark to his "best friend," Archie F. Moock, and Murphy's sister in Couer d'Alene, Idaho. Moock, according to word from Spokane, has been arrested in connection with the slaying, but claims he was drinking with Mrs. Clark and another man and that when he awoke the other man had disappeared.

Boston police today were investigating a story to the effect that a private detective here had threatened Mrs. Clark. The death threat was said to have been made in a rug shop that the slain woman conducted in the West End.

Following her divorce from Ralph A. Clark in 1924, Mrs. Clark had an affair of the heart with a local man, but discovered that he was married, after she had loaned him a sum of money.

Ten Insurgents Killed In Mexican Skirmishes

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—An intensified military campaign in the state of Jalisco has resulted in the death of more than 10 insurgents during the last few days in six skirmishes with guerillas. Among the dead is an insurgent known as "El Coyote."

IL DUCE SEEKS GANGLAND PAIR

Warrants Issued for Two Sicilians

CHICAGO, Septh. 25. (US)—The war of extermination against Chicago's Mafia took on an international aspect today, with Il Duce of Italy in the background, and warrants for the arrest and deportation of two Sicilian extortionists in the hands of federal authorities.

The warrants were said to have been obtained by the Italian consulate on advices by cable from the Mussolini government.

Welcoming the proffered help of Europe's most determined foe of the bandit gang that for many years has terrorized Italians in the homeland as well as in this country, local officials renewed their efforts to capture the ringleaders and their followers here.

In addition to two alleged members of the Aello bootlegging gang—arch enemies of the "Scarface Al" Capone crew—the Italian dictator's administration is especially desirous of apprehending a Sicilian on the northwest side who has figured often in Chicago tales of banditry—Alberto Anselmi—according to Police Commissioner Russell. An immigration warrant for his capture has been in the hands of the detective bureau members since the end of 1927.

Anselmi is further identified in the letter from the Italian consulate, addressed to immigration authorities, as a man with a criminal record in Italy sought for years, who entered this country without a passport in September, 1924.

With John Scalisi, Anselmi was indicted in Chicago some time ago for the slaying of two policemen in a gun fight which took the life of one of the Benna brothers, bootlegger leaders.

As authorities were sleuthing through Mafia-haunted streets in Chicago's Italian colony, Judge Francis Borelli and Rocco de Stefano, prominent Italian attorney, were citing the recent kidnaping of 10-year-old Billy Ranieri as an illustration of the greatest obstacle to apprehension of the extortionists.

Linking crime with political influence, they pointed out that fear of vengeance at the hands of the Mafia crew always silenced their countrymen, even when they held incriminating evidence.

"The neighbors of Angelo Petitti, arrested and accused of the kidnaping of the boy," they declared, "will not talk, for they have known Petitti for years. Without adequate protection of the law, they fear assassination, murder of their children, or bombing of their homes."

Bruce Sticks to Charge That Herb And Curtis Drink

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25. (AP)—Senator William C. Bruce, Democrat of Maryland, tonight issued a formal statement in which he refused any apology or withdrawal of his statement that Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis had violated the prohibition law.

He reiterated his stand that he was, in the case of the charge against Hoover, merely repeating a statement that had been attributed to Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney. He said it had never been denied by Mr. Darrow, or Mr. Hoover, and that the familiarity shown by George Akerson, Mr. Hoover's aide, in denying the charge, showed he knew of the statement which he said had been made by Mr. Darrow.

"If Mr. Darrow will unequivocally deny that he has ever made such a statement, I will be glad to accept his denial rather than the press report of what he said, as a true version of the matter and to express my regret that I should have used his alleged statement in commenting in my speech," Senator Bruce said in his statement.

JOLSON LOVE TRIANGLE TOLD

Dancer Jilts Sweetie for 'Mammy-Singer'

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (US)—And so Al Jolson told me he loved Ruby Keeler and I decided to step out of the picture. . . ."

Broadway buzzed again today with the true story of the famous "mammy-singer's" marriage to 19-year-old Ruby Keeler, a dancer. It was like a movie—really—one of those sentimental stories Al has been acting in the "talkies" lately—

It happened this way. Al took the girl he loved away from the man who had loved her for three years. Johnny Irish, a handsome young Lothario, well-known to the great white way, was Jolson's rival.

"Al came to me and we talked it over. I shook hands with him and told him he was getting the sweetest girl in the world. What else could I do? I was second-fiddle, that's all," Ruby's former beau told his Broadway friends.

Irish's real name is Costello, but Gene Tunney, who is one of his pals, gave him the "monicker" years ago when they were kids on the sidewalks of New York.

"The only thing that hurts is that Ruby didn't tell me she loved Jolson," explained Johnny. "I got it from others first, but I don't hold any resentment against them. Al, Ruby and I are real good friends."

Mrs. Nellie Keeler, mother of Ruby and six young brothers and sisters, whom the little girl dancer has supported on money she earned as a tap dancer, confirmed the Jolson triangle romance.

Jolson is one of the richest actors on the stage. Miss Keeler was born in Nova Scotia in 1909. She was Texas Guinan's protege for several years, dancing in night clubs until she achieved stardom at $400 a week.

Step-Father Held for Shooting of Youth

ENNIS, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—Charges of assault to murder were filed against L. C. McCray, Athens farmer, in Waxahachie today, after the shooting at Garrett last night of McCray's step-son, Albert Stewart, 24.

The men had disagreed over which would pay a hospital bill for Stewart's 16-year-old sister. McCray is under a criminal assault indictment at Athens for an alleged attack on the girl. Mrs. McCray, mother of the Stewart children, is living with relatives here. Stewart will recover.

Justice Balked By Peculiar Case Of Laredo Prisoner in Federal Pen

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—The state of Texas is facing a difficult problem in meting out justice to R. E. Dawson, convicted in district court here on charges of unlawfully transporting liquor and sentenced to a year in the state penitentiary.

When the defendant perfected his appeal after the jury's verdict, he gave a cashier's check on a bank in Atascosa county as an appeal bond. The bank since has failed, District Attorney John A. Valls said today, and the check is not collectable.

Sentenced also to serve a term in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Dawson entered the institution before his conviction in state court was affirmed.

Valls admits he is puzzled as to what course to pursue.

VALVE-IN-HEAD MOTOR CARS
THE NEW BUICK IS THE new style

An entirely new scheme of body lines and contours... the most costly paneling employed on any automobile in the world... and the richest upholsteries and appointments ..... distinguish Buick's new Masterpiece BODIES by FISHER

The Silver Anniversary Buick is kindling more interest—drawing more people to the display rooms—winning more praise—and creating a demand so sweeping and so insistent that Buick's vast factories have reached new levels of production in attempting to keep pace.

—all because it is not only the most brilliant performing automobile of the day, but also because it marks a new style—a thrilling new mode of car design—more beautiful, more luxurious and more graceful than any the world has known!

An entirely new scheme of body lines and contours—softly rounded steel panels, the most costly employed on any motor car—a continuous moulding with double bead running around the body and dividing the lower from the upper structure—all impart an atmosphere of unrivaled beauty.

If you want beauty—if you want individuality—if you want up-to-the-minute smartness—there's only one choice . . . the choice of America . . . the Silver Anniversary Buick with new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher. It's the new style—the new mode—in motor cars!

Praise For Merchants

Mr. Huntsman was generous in his praise of Wichita Falls merchants who participated in the contest. All of them, he said, have worked hard and windows showed beauty, good merchandise and a great deal of originality. Wichita Falls, he said, is fortunate in that the business establishments are not confined to one or two streets. The location of businesses here will allow the city to grow in all directions, he declared.

All of the downtown stores, whether entered in the contest or not, joined the spirit of the occasion with especially decorated windows in keeping with the event and these held the attention of the crowd until Fire Chief J. L. McClure released the whistle at the Wichita Ice company. The crowds were entertained by the Panhandle band, which began its tour after serenading in front of The Times building.

Antique jewelry was used in a most attractive window at Kruger Jewelry company. The collection was secured by the local company's foreign buyers in New York, England and Europe, and is probably the most extensive ever brought here. It includes rose-cut diamonds cameos, old-fashioned brooches, mosaics, beautiful inlays, ear rings, and medallions. The window set shows a pirate scene, with chests of jewels being examined by the pirates.

For Young Man

Everything for the young man in the way of fall clothes—that seems to be the idea of Ludlam and Riggs, whose window display showed a belted golf model with herringbone stripe by Adler-Rochester, the four pieces including coat, vest, golf knickers and straight trousers; a blue unfinished worsted by Stein-Bloch with two button notch lapels; a collegiate model oxford gray with burgundy stripe, with plaited trousers and double-breasted vest. There was an Adler-Rochester Mountrock fleece topcoat of oxford gray and a Stein-Bloch Ennyweather topcoat of imported Scotlander cloth. Shoes shown were new styles in black and tan oxfords from Edwin Clapp and Florisheim, of Scotch grains and Russian calfs, and hats an imported Italian Barbisio, and styles from Disney and Stetson.

The popularity of caracul for trimming was shown in the smart coat of pale winter beige ensonia with Paquin collar and cuffs, shown by the Georgianna Shoppe. The dress on display is one of the successes of Molyneux, of lustrous black satin with small jabot effect of real lace, showing the invasion of the irregular hemline by the two circular tiers. The ensemble was completed by a small Alphonsine turban of soleil, and bag of real antelope with sterling silver clasp. A Robe de Style evening dress was also shown, in all red chiffon transparent velvet. The chiffon is of chanel red, banded with the velvet to form a most gracious uneven hemline. The bodice is enlivened with a small corsage of hand-made flowers of the same shade.

Fall Hats For Milady

The most attractive fall hats, in felt, felt-and-velvet combinations and new metallic cloth, were featured in Joza Dickson's window. Shades shown included the new browns, chocolate and Deauville sand, navy and monet blue, Spanish wine and black.

A unique feature of the S. H. Kress and company window was the miniature reproduction of the Wichita Falls Kress store, electrically lighted, showing the entire front with sign and awning. The sign in front has on it the slogans, "Wichita Falls, 1882-1928," "The City That Faith Built;" and "Kress, 1886-1928, The Store That You Built." The idea for the miniature was conceived by M. H. Swift, manager, and constructed by A. B. Compton, window decorator. Besides the miniature store, the window contained electrical lighting fixtures.

Popular priced wearing apparel was featured in the Williams Department store window. Men and boys' clothing, as well as women's wear and children's apparel, was given a place in the display. Millinery, piece goods and accessories were also shown, good looking but medium priced.

A color scheme of silver and black was used in the attractive window of the Cinderella Boot shop. Latest novelty styles in black, blue, kid in various colors, with some gilt and silver, was featured. Latest novelty styles in black, blue, and two tones of brown were also shown. Lizard, kid and suede, alone or in combinations, are the materials most used.

Three windows were entered by Hicks Furniture company: In the center window was shown a three-piece davenport suite of Jacquard velour, with floor lamps and other odd pieces to make a most attractive living room scene. One window featured Merit heaters, and the third was fitted out in a bedroom suite.

The Lebrack Ice Cream company's display in the Renfro Drug company window was unusual in the fact that it treats a hard subject well. Various shapes in which ice cream can be secured—little logs, pumpkins, lilies, turkeys, airplanes—all are shown as they may be molded for parties celebrating special occasions. Ice cream boxes with the name Lebrack on them are piled around the sides of the window.

A good-looking window was entered by the Loeb-Liepold company, featuring a Middishade blue suit and accessories. The opposite window displayed men's furnishings—pajamas, Columbia shirts, Stetson hats.

The 10 show windows of the McClurkan company display ready-to-wear, millinery, men's clothing and furnishings, and ladies' footwear, lingerie and gowns, against a background of metal cloth with futuristic columns in maroon, autumn brown and gold. Panels with modernistic floral designs cover the floor.

The left front window features drapes of cut velvet in colors of porteros and shell pink artistically draped on a pedestal and lighted with soft shaded lights.

Variety of Wear

An original Doris Reid creation of ivory transparent velvet holds the center of the stage in the evening apparel shown in the right front window. The wrap shown in connection with the gown is a drape effect with crushed collar and ties, hand-painted in colors of American beauty, blue and green.

Sports wear is shown in the Ninth street corner window, among which are featured a raspberry printed transparent velvet compose by Langel and Parnes of New York; a Norman and Norman cocktail sports frock in black transparent velvet with eggshell georgette lining; a black Elisburg model fashioned of korzon crush, fashioned with one side cape effect, and mushroom collar and cuffs of black fox.

The men's clothing window shows three models, two from Fashion Park and one a Charter House collegiate type. A Fashion Park two-button model is shown in black and has plaited trousers and straight vest, the gray Fashion Park model displays plaited trousers and peak lapels. The shadow stripe Charter House model shows a double breasted vest.

One of the show windows of the Smart Shop shows a black ensemble grouping of black coat, and two-piece daytime gown. The coat is a pandora cloth tuxedo style model trimmed with black skunk and lined with black brocaded heavy faille silk. Diagonal tucking forms a deep border for the coat. The frock is a black satin model including a sleeveless dress of close hipline, V neck and beaded trim. Imitation ermine trim sets off the long sleeved jacquette, while a touch of beading on the back, adds a harmonizing touch to the ensemble.

Electrical Display

A beige malina coat with select Canadian wolf shawl collar and fancy cuffs and sun ray tucking, displayed with a printed tranparent velvet street gown with jabots on blouse and skirt, is of shades of beige and brown harmonizing with the coat.

The Texas Electric Service company is featuring the modernistic idea in lamps and antique designs in silver. A four-power adjustable switch night lamp shows a parchment shade with colorful futuristic designs. A modernistic base and a modernistic parchment shade add individuality to the floor lamp on display.

Antique German silver finished urn sets of Manning-Bowman brand are the newest patterns available in that line of electrical appliances. Manning-Bowman toasters of the new aranium finish and a Hotpoint iron with three-heat switches are among the innovations shown in the windows.

A telecrome electrical clock fashioned of brown bakelite in cathedral style, is another novelty shown by this company.

Sun Parlor

A sun parlor fitted in art moderne and displaying the warm autumn colors, forms an unusual exhibit for the one window entered in the contest by the Star Furniture company, and was ordered especially for this occasion from Grand Rapids, Mich.

The floor is covered with a sun parlor rug woven to simulate marble tile. The sun parlor suite is of French willow with a covering of modernistic block design. The design of the furniture harmonizes with the modernistic cretonne and is the latest thing in high grade furniture.

Two matching art moderne lamps, a bridge and a junior lamp are displayed with the suite, and bear red leather lacing and highly colored modernistic lamp shades. Pot plants, birds and a green aquarium with gold fish, add another dash of color to the rich fall shades.

The Wichita Music company is featuring a small Kimball lacquer finish high light grand piano, and Crosley radios of 6 and 8-tube sets Buescher wind instruments and Gibson instruments, including a saxophone and guitar are shown in the windows of this company.

Sheet music as well as Brunswick records are displayed. The newest modes in the Brunswick machines are exhibited.

The J. C. Penney company is placing four windows on display. In the right window is a showing of ladies' shoes in all the fall colors. Walking models and styles with spike heels are displayed in black and the brown hues. The center window is divided and is exhibiting three suits for men, two in gray and one in brown. Men's shoes in both the brown shades and in black as well as sox and baggage to match the general color ideas are shown.

A black broadcloth woman's coat heavily furred, a transparent velvet gown of simple lines and a black satin street dress with rose colored collar and cuffs are set off with the appropriate costume jewelry.

Garments for Children

The fourth window is given over to a display of infants' wear centered with an infant's wardrobe, laden with the essential toilet articles and garments for the very young persons. Dainty cashmere coats and caps of delicate tints and woolen top garments for children and infants are to be seen.

The Wichita Falls Piggly Wiggly, 704 Indiana, is showing two windows, one of produce including vegetables and fruits and the other staple groceries. Apples, oranges, bananas, grapes and such vegetables as celery, radishes, turnips and cucumbers are on display as well as such canned commodities as corn and tomatoes, lard, flour, cereals, meal, preserves and canned fruits, all following geometric designs.

10 Windows Shown

Saul is displaying 10 windows in the contest, merchandise being exhibited against a background of autumnal floral groups fashioned and painted by E. C. Beason.

One huge futuristic basket with modernistic flowers centers one of the larger windows on the south and forms a fitting background for the window reserved for high priced garments in ladies' ready-to-wear. Figured and plain gowns of transparent velvet, and crepe trimmed with bands of velvet make up this group. Another group shows chiffon with lace trims and sports dresses in woolen tweeds. A group of broadcloth coats is also on exhibit.

Soleil velours with metallic trim and embroidered silk with flower trim hats are shown in off-the-face models and long side effect. Soleil in combination with velvet is also shown.

A window of draped lengths of dress materials in silk crepe, transparent and pan velvet as well as costume velvets, is shown and carries out all the popular autumn shades.

Ladies' shoes may be seen in another window and bear out all the varied styles in vogue for the fall and winter. Black, shades of deep tan and brown and the new navy blue models are seen here.

Kirchbaum brand suits for men in oxford gray, medium tans and the pin striped materials are shown in connection with the newest modes in men's Nunn-Bush oxfords and subdued colored models in haberdashery. Baggage in colors to match the wardrobe is also displayed.

Stetson hats in roll and snap brim, welt and bound edge in the new dark fall shades are arranged in the windows.

Exclusive Merchandise

The P. B. M. company is specializing in simplicity—with four windows entered in the contest making display of select models of exclusive merchandise. Each window is draped with floor length velvet hangings which form an arch-like background for the simple polychrome pillars and the models on exhibit.

Against a deep purple velvet curtain and placed on gilded giant cylinders grouped in graduated heights like the dummy pipes of an organ, are the newest models of footwear for women including the popular navy blue, the browns and the black colors in both dress and walking slippers. Arterafft and Munsing Wear hosiery on models are also displayed in colors and tints to harmonize with the slippers.

The center outer window shows an evening model of flame red with a crimson velvet wrap, the shirred cape extending to the waistline in the rear, and a crushed collar forming the only trim. A black transparent evening gown and a grouping of accessories appropriate for evening, complete the exhibits in the window. They are set against a rich golden background.

Lengths of brocaded chiffon and metallic cloth with accessories to harmonize are shown in the inner center window. The remaining window is given over to a fashion parade for men, three models being used to display Society brand suits of oxford gray, medium brown and deep midnight blue. Borsalino and Knapp hats in all the wanted fall colors, gray felt spats and top coats of tweeds and finer weaves are worn by the forms. A maroon background is used in this window.

Austere simplicity is seen in the decorations of the windows of the Parisian shop, one window being dressed to follow a scheme of roi blue with silver. An evening gown of roi blue metallic cloth by Carbeau et Cie, flaunts a skirt made of blue tulle, while a sunburst of rhinestones gives an added touch of richness to the formal dress. A cocktail jacket of black sequins over black chiffon is shown. An imported sequins evening bag and costume jewelry to harmonize are placed on wrought iron fixtures, the surfaces of which appear mirrored golden pools.

The other window is of black and cream white, with two solid Milgrim hats, a pointed fox French stole, and antelope and velvet bags shown on handsome wrought iron fixtures.

Drawing Room Scene

A few exclusive models shown amid a drawing room scene characterized by new mulberry velvet draperies, a handsome living room suite from the North Texas Furniture company and Oriental and Chinese rugs lent by the Freear Furniture company, are the exhibit of the Orchid shop.

A canary yellow and black transparent velvet Norman and Norman afternoon gown of uneven hemline and a black velvet coat with cuffs and collar of luxuriant monkey fur, and a black velvet Sondheimer-Levy model with a rhinestone belt trim, are in the left window.

Against palm leaves for a background and pieces of handsome home furniture, the other window of the Orchid shop exhibits an evening gown of old blue with shell-pink lined uneven hemline. This is a Garfield-Siegel model and is set off with a handsome gray squirrel coat. Accessories of gray and blue complete the display of this show window.

The modernistic effect is borne out in the show windows of Slipperland where a woman may find the correct pair of slippers for each costume without paying heavy prices. The flapper shoes of the past seasons are no longer to be seen as the display demonstrates, but the more feminine and less ornate and less highly colored footwear of the present style is to be seen here.

Black, the entire family of brown and navy blue slippers in side-ties, pumps and strap styles for street, sports and formal dress are shown. Hosiery in shown in the shades to match the slippers with both hose and shoes filling the needs of the modern woman.

Life Models Used

Montgomery Ward and company featured a novelty by reserving the center window for the presentation of the season's most popular styles in ladies' ready-to-wear, displayed on the following young Wichita Falls girls as life models: Patsy Goff, Eva Chambers, Mrs. Pitcher, Mildred Pearson, Gwendolyn Taylor, Mary Lee Oakes, Katheryne Wilson, Peggy Woods, and Ruth Michie.

When the inclosure was drawn, the model was seen in an attractive surrounding of rich blue draperies shadowed with colored light. The model then moved into the window and passed through a setting of furniture to the other end of the window where she was shown again cast against the rich blue background of another inclosure. Each model was announced by a card borne by little Miss Van Blarcom and by a radio loud speaker placed especially for the occasion.

Approaching Montgomery Ward and company from the Indiana street entrance, the first display is an arrangement of men's shirts, suits, shoes and haberdashery. Attractive two-trouser suits of stylish weave are shown. The background is a modernistic design of black, orange and yellow.

The third window is a display of the season's most popular styles in women's dresses, hats and accessories.

Against a futuristic background with general decoration schemes to match, windows of the Hub Clothing company, 701 Indiana, is showing interesting ensembles in men's wearing apparel. Hickey-Freeman clothes are shown with Mallory hats and J. E. Smith shoes. Apparel for lion and tiger comprise the main point of interest in decorations.

Grant's store, 914 Indiana, features raido supplies, bridge and table lamps with pretty little bedside tables in mahogany. Many different articles hardly akin are shown side by side in an interesting display.

"The Fireside" might be termed as the subject of Bailey-Moline Hardware company's contest window. Here are shown many different styles in gas heaters, mantels, room and bathroom heaters with accessories in wrought iron and brass. The accessories are attractively arranged.

A black leather suit case catches the eye at first glance at the central window of the Nathan Lynch store at 724 Indiana avenue. The bag rests on a companion piece for women's hats. The Lynch windows give a complete idea of the goods carried in the store, including neck furs, hats, baby clothing, suits, shoes, coats, stockings and dresses. The whole is set off with many colored lights and ornamental floor lamps.

Theaters Take Part

Shining brass frames, placed on either side of the lobby of the Mission theater, carry the stories of present and coming attractions. The central feature of the lobby is a large, ornamental handpainted board on which are mounted photographs of scenes from Vera Reynolds' starring picture, "The Main Event," which is now playing.

Women, sport lovers and comfort lovers find appeal in the three windows of the Noble-Little Hardware company at 713 Indiana avenue.

The appeal of the coming winter season is made in the main window in ornamental gas heaters. These vary in quality from massive affairs for homes of wealth to small but efficient white enameled heaters for office use.

One of the side windows is devoted to a display of table china and glassware. It centers on Royal Doulton china. The other side window has a basketball as the top central attraction. Other sporting equipment, including footballs, volley balls, golf clubs and balls, football shoes, running trunks and indoor baseball equipment, also may be seen in this window.

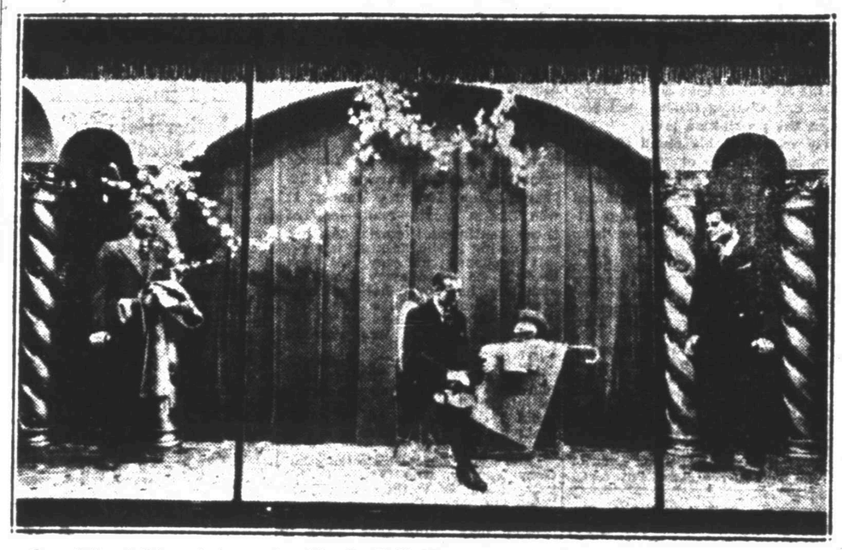

Two tiny baby spotlights play on the yellowed walls of a stone arch in the lobby of the Strand theater where "The Terror," an all talking motion picture, is playing. Through the arch is seen a picture from the show. Green and red colored lights adorn the drops of the big canopy over the sidewalk, and an atmosphere of spookiness, in keeping with the picture, is carried out.

Bright Lights Here

Eight solid rows of lights, 400 in all, give big city brilliance to the great canopy over the entrance to the Majestic theater. Inside the lobby a rotating baby spotlight plays back and forth over a long, gleaming announcement of the opening of the Interstate vaude-

Beautiful Window Display Entered in Contest

One of the striking windows entered by the P. B. M. company in the fall window display contest is shown here. The window was arranged by Clyde Smith, display manager, and follows the same style as the three other windows of the store, although each display has a different color scheme. The carved columns and gold arches were designed by Mr. Smith. This window displays on natural figures new Society Brand suits and furnishings from stock. The velour drape in the background is deep red and gives a rich effect.

One child, Vera Guthrie, 7, escaped injury.

Osban said the steering wheel locked as he attempted to make a turn approaching Polecat creek bridge.

The Osbans were taken to a hospital and others were placed in the home of a relative here.

Lady Kept Getting Weaker and Weaker

Mississippi Lady Says She Was in Very Bad Condition But After Taking Cardui Felt Better.

Greenwood, Miss.—"About four years ago, I was in a very bad condition," says Mrs. I. E. Gee, of this city. "I did not suffer so much pain, but I was so weak, at times, I felt I could not stand up to do my work. I didn't have an appetite.

"I dragged about the house, and at times had to stay in bed.

"I felt myself getting weaker.

"My mother told me to take some Cardui, which I did. After I started taking the Cardui, I found that I could get hungry, I grew stronger, and rested better at night. So I sent for my second bottle of Cardui.

"By the time I had taken three bottles, I felt like doing my work. I gained in weight, and have felt better ever since. Now I am feeling well."

Cardui is a mild extract of valuable medicinal herbs. Contains no harmful or injurious drugs. May be safely taken by young and old.

For over 50 years, women who had suffered or who had gotten into a weak, run-down condition, after taking Cardui have been enthusiastic in its praise.

Try Cardui today for your troubles. It should help you, too.

Sold by all druggists.

Beauty in Opera

After Hope Hampton won first prize in a beauty contest in Houston, she easily gained a place in the cinema world. But the movies held little fascination for her, so she studied voice culture and now has signed a contract with the Philadelphia Grand Opera company for a debut this season.

Cal Sees Chance for Ending Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—President Coolidge believes that there is still a fair chance that the railroad board of mediation may adjust the dispute in western railroads arising from a request for increased wages by conductors and trainmen on those carriers.

Moody Sanctions Return Of Oklahoma Prisoner

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Application of the state of Oklahoma for return of R. R. Brown to Wewoka of that state to answer a charge of shooting with intent to kill Ben Barrick, was granted today by Governor Moody.

Brown, who is reported to be in custody in Winkler county, Texas, escaped from the Seminole county jail at Wewoka last November.

U. S.-Mexico Air Mail Service Opens Monday

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 25 (AP)—Direct air mail connections between Chicago and Mexico City will be established Monday when letters from a plane reaching here from the north on Sunday will be transferred to one leaving for the Mexican capital early the following day, postal officials announced today.

PROHIBITION SPLITS ENGLISH LABORITES

BIRMINGHAM, England, Sept. 25. (AP)—The prohibition problem growing acute within the ranks of the British labor party.

Political observers are already predicting a big "wet" and "dry" fight at the annual conference soon to be held here.

The climax will come when the national executive of the party offers a draft election program which contains the following "plank" in respect to a liquor policy:

"Appoint a royal commission to inquire into the developments and changes which have taken place both at home and abroad during recent years, and to report upon what modifications in the law and what changes in the method of control should be made with a view to the necessary legislative action."

The "dry" claim this pronouncement is too vague and are pressing for a definite declaration that the party will stand for a "dry" policy They want the party to commit itself to local option.

The "wets" indicate that they will fight such a policy to the last straw.

Everything considered, the forthcoming meet promises to be of much interest to political students the world over.

WE BURN SIX MILLION MATCHES PER MINUTE

STOCKTON-ON-TEES, England, Sept. 25. (AP)—This little town in rural England is celebrating the 100th birthday of the match.

It was here just a century ago that Johnny Walker, a local chemist, invented a "percussion powder" which placed on the ends of small sticks, became death flares for the old fashioned tinder box.

It is now estimated that 4,000,000 matches are lighted throughout the world every minute while the world's consumption has been placed at 3,228,435,000,000 a year based on an estimate of five matches a day per capita of population. Nearly a billion matches a day are used in the United States while in England the annual consumption is 300 billion. In the United States the annual output is 800 billion.

If the matches manufactured each year were laid end to end they would reach a distance of 95,538,145 miles or 4,000 times around the earth.

OKLA. W. C. T. U. OPENS BATTLE

Former President Scorns Late Activity

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 25 (UP)—The W. C. T. U. Tuesday opened an intensive fight on Gov. Alfred E. Smith by sending statements throughout the state containing "12 reasons why Democrats should vote against Smith," and "12 reasons why Democrats should vote for Hoover."

The statement was prepared by Mrs. Alice M. David, state organizer for the W. C. T. U., and sent out by the Anti-Smith club here.

SAYS TEMPERANCE UNION 'EMBROILED'

OKMULGEE, Okla., Sept. 25 (UP) Mrs. W. T. Bowling, former president of the W. C. T. U. in Okmulgee county and still a member, today issued a statement charging the organization and the Anti-Saloon league have become "disgracefully embroiled" in politics and are hiding the real issues behind the dry question in order to defeat the Democratic nominee.

The W. C. T. U. has been taken over by Republican politicians, Mrs. Bowling asserts, adding that it was organized as a non-political body. She urged that religion should not enter into woman's politics.

RELIGION NOT CONSIDERED, CLAIM

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (INS)—Declaring that religious grounds had no place in the opposition of the national W. C. T. U. to the election of Gov. Al Smith, Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, secretary of that organization, today in an open statement said that objection to Smith's presidency was purely on the basis of his record against prohibition.

"The national W. C. T. U. has been fighting Gov. Alfred E. Smith on the liquor matter since he cast his first pro-saloon vote," the statement declares.

County Treasurer Quits Office by Request

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 25. (UP)—Arthur A. David, treasurer of Rawlings county, has resigned at the request of the board of county commissioners, it was announced today by Roland Boynton, assistant attorney general.

David is said to have admitted to Boynton that he advanced money to county employes on I. O. U.'s, which is in violation of a state law.

HOSTESS ASKS CRASH DAMAGE

Texas Guinan Seeks $100,000 in Suit

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 25. (INS)—Revealing that she had figured in an automobile accident here early on the morning of Sept. 3 in which she received severe cuts and bruises about the face and neck, in addition to general shock, Texas Guinan, famous night club hostess of New York, today filed suit for $100,000 damages against the Los Angeles Railway company.

It was a street car company truck, driven in a reckless manner by an employe that crashed into her automobile, Miss Guinan recites in her complaint.

After the accident, Miss Guinan said in her complaint, she was unable to go to work for 10 days. The night club hostess is working on a motion picture production in Hollywood.

Woman Dies of Burns When Shawl Blazes

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 25. (UP)—A shawl worn by Mrs. Hannah C. McPherson, 81, is believed to have caught fire while she was warming her hands over an open flame in the kitchen range, and the woman was suffocated and burned to death late today. When her daughter, Miss Susie McPherson, returned from work, she found the bed on which her mother is accustomed to lie, in flames.

Commission Hears Bus Line Application

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 25. (INS)—The railroad commission today heard the application of Pete O'Daniel, of Corsicana, for a permit to operate a motor busline from Corsicana to Hillsboro. No action was taken on the application, however, at this time.

Demo Campaign in New Mexico Opened

SANTA ROSA, N. M., Sept. 25. (AP)—Describing the two terms of the Wilsonian administration as "the greatest era of constructive legislation in American history," Jethro S. Vaught, Democratic nominee for the United States senate, formally opened the Democratic campaign in New Mexico today.

The Court of Last Resort

THE court of last resort in business is the public.

Their decision is final.

If the public places its approval on a product, accepts it, and buys it in increasing numbers, there are good reasons for it.

And if this happens in a highly competitive field like the automobile, then there are special reasons for gratification.

Durant Motors is experiencing this very thing, and we want the world to know about it.

We started with a modest production in January—the month of motor shows, and with each showing the demand increased, until the country gained the knowledge that the Durant new models were worthy of public interest.

And this is what happened during the year:

During the first six months of 1928 the entire automotive industry—motor cars and motor trucks—produced 6.4 per cent more units than in the same period of last year.

During this same period of time Durant Motors produced 49.9 per cent more cars and trucks than in the same period of last year.

The industry as a whole produced 132,906 more cars and trucks during the first six months of 1928 than in the same period of 1927.

Durant Motors alone produced 23,000 more cars and trucks during the first six months than in the same period of last year.

Durant Motors alone scored a gain of 17 per cent of the increased production of the entire industry.

Returns from the forty-eight states of the Union show that Durant gained 20.5 per cent in registrations during the first six months of 1928 over the same period of last year.

Durant Motors is growing seven times as fast as the automotive industry itself. We appreciate this increased public confidence.

In the next few days we are going to make a newspaper announcement relative to new Durant models.

They will appeal to the public strongly for these new cars possess the features the careful buyer wants, and expects in his car today.

The public will be given a new conception of motor car value.

Your motor dollar will buy more than ever before in the size of car, in beauty of body design, in power, in appointments, in speed, in durability and accessibility, and all up-to-the-minute features.

And this statement is made with a full appreciation of what is going on in the entire automobile industry.

The name "Durant" will continue to stand for those principles in motor car designing, engineering, building and in the selling of popular priced automobiles to justify an ever-increasing demand from the public.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Visions of a fine playground—so scarce in New York—were in the minds of a host of youngsters living in the vicinity of Eleventh avenue and Forty-second street as workmen began to tear down the old gas house.

Boys from 8 to 28 were soon out in the big field of dirt and stone armed with shovels and rakes. They worked like beavers for several nights, levelling it nicely. In a few days three or four baseball games were in progress. Everybody was happy.

The next morning a steam shovel was tearing up the ball field—even more quickly than it had been prepared—for new buildings must be built and the hustling city does not stop for playgrounds.

Now the boys are staring at the site with tear-dimmed eyes, saying: "Gee whiz, some one is always taking the joy out of life!"

Office workers employed in the Whitehall building on Battery place who have participated in the receptions to scores of distinguished guests are now so well trained that they do their stuff almost automatically.

Shrill blasts from tugboat whistles in the vicinity of pier A means the committee boat Macon is coming up the bay with another transatlantic flyer or channel swimmer, and is a signal to the folks in the Whitehall building to rush to the windows with ticker tape, telephone books, newspapers, etc., ready to let go a paper shower as soon as the honored visitor emerges from the pier with Grover Whalen and climbs into one of the waiting motor cars.

Half the time the crowd doesn't know whom they are cheering for, but they cheer just the same.

The girl had only a few minutes, so she decided to get a sandwich and some tea in a drug store. There were no tables or chairs, not even stools, by the counter, so all the customers stood in a row eating.

While the girl was eating a little old lady entered. She evidently didn't like the idea of standing, but since she was there she would make the best of it, but she grumbled about it to herself. She, too ordered sandwich and tea. Her order came, but the waitress forgot to hand her the sugar bowl.

"Now," thought the girl, "is my chance to do a good deed a la Skippy." So she reached over to the other side of her and produced the sugar. Then she waited, beaming expecting to hear, "Thank you, my dear," but instead the woman took a long look at her, then said: "Humph, didn't think you had brains enough to see I needed sugar."

The girl has decided not to join the Girl Scouts.

UNBIASED OPINION

Oh, we all like a friend
When our golden days end
With a crash like a rocketing star.
And the aid of the heart
Of a friend plays a part
In the helping to blot out our scar.

It is well to have aid
From some soul, unafraid,
To help take all the sting from our ill;
Be your friend good and kind,
Your best friend is your mind,
When it says: "Yes, I can, and I will!"

—John Self Elliott.

Baseball, an Americanizer

THE Foreign Language Information Service of New York points out that no word in our language is adopted more quickly by immigrants from Europe than the word "baseball."

In some tongues it becomes "base bollo"; in others "beis bole." But it always means the same thing. The immigrant takes to baseball like the proverbial duck to water, and bids fair, in the future, to supply an ever-increasing share of fans and players.

Consider the names in the major league roster today. No longer are the old "American" names supreme. Side by side with the Speakers and Cobbs and Collins's there are Lazzeri, Miljus, Cohen, Jablonowski, Gehrig, Durocher, Grabowski, Strelecki, Picinich, Mostil, Genewich—you could go on all day. It is a tremendously significant change. Baseball, undoubtedly, is one of the greatest forces for Americanization that we have. And it will continue to be so long as lads with unpronounceable names keep coming up to the big leagues.

The Hassell-Cramer Victory

JUST because Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer are not completing their flight to Denmark from Greenland, it would be a great mistake to assume that their venture has been a failure.

The coming years may well prove that Hassell and Cramer have blazed the way on the most feasible air route to Europe. Instead of taking the perilous "great circle" course followed by Lindbergh and Chamberlin, they went farther north and were able to avoid the long water jump the other fliers encountered. To be sure, they hit bad weather and were forced down; but you might note that if they had been forced down at a corresponding stage on the "great circle" course they would have perished. As it was, they came through unhurt.

It is entirely possible that the coming air lines to Europe will follow the Greenland route. If so, Hassell and Cramer will get much of the credit.

How the Drinker Pays Bribes and Death Fees

NOW and then when a minister of the gospel undertakes to discuss politics and reform he makes something of a spectacle of himself.

But, on the other hand, he sometimes gives vent to words of considerable wisdom.

The other day a Philadelphia pastor, Dr. A. Ray Petty, took occasion to comment on Philadelphia's present exposure of lawlessness, graft and crime. After laughing at Mayor Mackey's suggestion that the problem be solved by calling on Billy Sunday to convert all the gangsters and bootleggers, Dr. Petty declared:

"In this day of racketeering, hi-jacking and bootlegging, the ultimate consumer is the ultimate briber and murderer. In every cocktail is the blood of a gangster."

Those are rather strong words. They happen to be the literal truth.

Whence comes this $2,000,000-a-year profit of the Philadelphia liquor ring? Whence come these vast sums distributed among the police force, so that officers drawing salaries of $250 a month have bank accounts running high into the thousands? Whence come the funds with which private armies of machine gunners and blackjack experts are hired?

The answer is quite obvious. The money comes—every single penny of it—from the respectable, law-abiding, orderly citizen who would never dream of supporting a regime of corruption—but who doesn't mind buying a bit of liquor now and then.

This isn't especially a comforting thought.

When you buy a quart of whisky for a quiet little Saturday night party in your home you are helping pay the bribes with which the police officers that your tax money supports are corrupted.

When you give a bill to a bootlegger you are helping to pay the wages of the hired gunmen who enforce the informal laws of the jungle.

When you step into a "respectable" speakeasy for a drink you are helping pay the fee that the murderer got for that "beer war killing" that you read about in your paper the other day.

All of this is quite aside from the question whether prohibition is a good or bad law. It is quite aside from all talk about "stricter enforcement." If you are violating the law yourself you are hardly in a position to wail about crime and corruption.

The Philadelphia pastor was dead right. The ultimate consumer is the ultimate briber and murderer.

WHERE MONEY GOES

Motorists of the nation spend more than five billions dollars each year for supplies and repairs at service stations and repair shops, according to statistics of the American Automobile association. Approximately $1,000,000,000 of this sum pays for labor, while almost equal amounts go for tires and service supplies.

Perhaps these figures will mean something to the individual who wonders how much automobiles are adding to the payroll of the nation.

C. C. LAUNCHES MOVEMENT

The Vernon Chamber of Commerce has launched a movement purposed to bring about a reduction in the freight rate of feed shipped into this section of the state. No one can deny that the move is a worthy one, and the spirit in which it was started is highly commendable. It exemplifies one of the many services that an urban community renders adjacent rural territory.

FARM SLAYER REPORTED SEEN

Murderess of Generation Ago Sought

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 25. (INS)—Is Mrs. Belle Gunness, internationally notorious murderess of a generation ago, alive and in California?

This was the startling question flung at the police here today in connection with their continued investigations into the Wineville "murder farm."

Mrs. Gunness, credited with having slain upward of 100 men, women and children upon her "murder farm" at La Porte, Ind., for the past 20 years is supposed to have died by the ax with which she slew, in numerous instances, her victims.

Today, however, doubt was cast upon the report universally accepted so many years when J. C. Sellers, criminologist of this city, revealed that he was in possession of knowledge to the effect the Indiana authorities, as recently as Jan. 30, 1923, were of the opinion that Mrs. Guness, instead of being dead, was alive in San Diego.

This opinion was set forth in a letter written on the indicated date by Alfred Norris, chief of police of La Porte, and addressed to Chief of Police Patrick of San Diego. The Indiana chief in the letter said he had been informed by a woman who knew Mrs. Gunness in La Porte that the former had seen the latter upon the San Diego streets.

The La Porte official added that numerous persons believed Mrs. Gunness never had been slain but that with her children escaped and made her way west.

The San Diego police, acting on the letter of the Indiana chief, investigated, but no trace of Mrs. Gunness was found in the southern city.

According to the Los Angeles police, Mrs. Northcott is about the same age Mrs. Gunness would be were she still in reality alive. Despite the fact that the woman accused in the present "murder farm" case has acquaintances in Canada who assert they have known her over a long period of years and that she cannot possibly be Mrs. Gunness, the authorities announce they will investigate thoroughly this startling novel phase injected into the Wineville tragedies.

Mrs. Gunness was reported slain by a farm hand who knew of her numerous murders. With her, her children also were slain and the bodies all burned. The farm hand, whose name was Lamphere, subsequently made a confession to this effect.

Raskob Regrets Hoover Is Charged With Using Booze—Bruce Adamant

Campaign Manager Asserts He's Sorry Accusal Was Made While Maryland Senator Sticks to Guns

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (UP)—The assertion of Senator Bruce of Maryland that Herbert Hoover's stand on the prohibition question was hypocritical has been termed "regrettable" by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee.

"I am sorry to hear that Mr. Hoover is being criticized for drinking," Raskob said. "I do not know whether he drinks or not, and to my mind it does make much difference.

"I will say this, however—that since he has been a member of the cabinet, his house has been absolutely dry, for which I admire him greatly."

The charge that Hoover drank was denied by close friends of the Republican candidate.

BRUCE REFUSES TO DROP POINT

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 25. (UP)—Reiterating claims that Clarence Darrow once admitted he had taken "drinks" with Herbert Hoover, Senator Bruce of Maryland today declined to withdraw the charges until they are denied formally by the Chicago attorney.

The senator's attitude was revealed in a statement denying charges he is guilty of starting a "whispering campaign" as alleged in a counter attack made Sunday by Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican state central committee. Tait branded Bruce's allegations as "whispers."

Further disclosures concerning Bruce's charges that Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican vice presidential nominee, was once seen at Pimlico race track with a bottle of whiskey, were expected to be made today by the Maryland legislator.

Dispatches from the Curtis train in Wyoming quoted the Kansan as denying Bruce's allegations. Curtis alleged Bruce had been "misinformed."

"I will reply to Senator Curtis after I have opportunity to read his statement," Bruce promised.

"Whenever Darrow makes an unequivocal denial of my charges against Hoover, I will gladly withdraw the allegations."

Good Discounts Blaine's Bolt to Alfred Smith

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (UP)—Senator John J. Blaine's refusal to support Herbert Hoover for president "because he is not a Republican" was discounted by James W. Good, western campaign manager of the Republican national committee, here today.

"Mr. Blaine was never a real Republican either," Good declared. "The only significance in his statement is that he unfurls a flag he has long kept concealed."

Smith, if Elected, to Gather Dry Law Survey

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said today that if Governor Smith was elected, one of his first tasks on taking the presidency would be to get from the prohibition enforcement bureau a report on the nation-wide effects of prohibition.

MODERN TUT-ANKH-AMEN HAS GOLD LINED TOMB

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 24. (AP)—Press reports of a tomb lined with pure gold and worth $500,000 have aroused nation-wide interest. It is said to be one of the family vaults in the Chacarita cemetery and was built by Angel Roverano 10 years ago.

In addition to the gold lining the vault contains a small statue of a woman executed by Bitolfi, for which the sculptor is said to have received $30,000. Various religious objets d'art enclosed in the vault are believed to be worth more than $200,000.

The floor is a mosaic of small gold blocks, but it was never finished. Senor Roverano's will provided that the vault should be sealed after the death of his brother, his only surviving relative. This occurred several years ago.

MACHADO IS UNOPPOSED BUT WILL TOUR ISLAND

HAVANA, Sept. 24. (AP)—President Machado will start his presidential tour of the island this month, say reports emanating from the executive palace. The trip will last two weeks and include all the principal cities of Cuba.

President Machado plans to return in time to greet the 10,000 or more veterans of the Spanish-American war who will convene here Oct. 10.

SAILORS' WIVES GET ORDERS NOT TO BOB

KIEL, Sept. 24. (AP)—Something like a mutiny is threatened in the German navy because of an edict that has gone forth from the chief of the Reich's naval station here, that officers' wives must not be shingled.

Great indignation therefore, among the ladies, who declare one and all that whatever the authorities may decree in matters of male hirsute appendages, they will not tolerate any official and officious meddling with their own feminine coiffures.

The rule in the German navy is that officers shall be either clean shaven or else cultivate a full pointed beard like their admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, the ex-kaiser's brother, who has copied the style from King George of England.

Domestic peace is said to be endangered in many households. But perhaps the trouble will blow over automatically, now that "longer hair" is coming in again, according to reports.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS BELIEVE IN AVIATION

NANKING, Sept. 24. (AP)—China is going in for aviation seriously. Construction of a government aerdrome in the vicinity of Nanking has been proposed jointly by General Ko Chieng-en, chief of the staff office of the military council, and Chu Shao-liang, director of the military administration department, their plans having been approved by the military council.

The scheme provides for the construction of an air field big enough to accommodate the aviation department, the aviation school, the aviation corps and the aeroplane factory of the government in order to facilitate training in aviation and unify control.

Of this amount $1,074,775 was reported from the eastern area, $250,306 from the midwestern area, $80,236 from the Pacific area and $46,653 was contributed from Porto Rico. The Red Cross is asking a minimum of $5,000,000.

Mexican Congress Asked To Reject Church Plea

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Flat rejection of demands for amendment of the religious provisions of the constitution was recommended to congress today by the executive committee of the national Agrarian league. The committee addressed a memorial to the national legislature urging congress to discard the request of the Roman Catholics "energetically and definitely."

New York Pastor Booked for Series of Civic Club Talks

Optimists, Rotarians and Kiwanians to Hear Church Leader in Addresses; Sermon Series Draws Crowds

Dr. Charles L. Goodell of Marble Collegiate church, New York city, and executive secretary of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, delivered the second of his nightly addresses at the First Methodist church Tuesday evening, in keeping with the program of speeches which he will deliver here each day through Oct. 7.

The usual excellent crowds attended the meeting, which heard Dr. Goodell speak on the subject "The Church God Wants."

Series of Sermons

Dr. Goodell, recognized as one of the leading ministers in America, is delivering addresses each day at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., except Saturdays, following the dedication of the new Methodist church building Sunday. Tuesday morning he spoke on the subject, "What About Prayer?"

Speaking engagements have been arranged for Dr. Goodell by a number of organizations in Wichita Falls outside of the church, according to Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor. Wednesday noon, Dr. Goodell is to speak at the Optimist club luncheon on "What Is Your Business?" Thursday he is to address the Rotary club; and the following Monday he is to speak to the Kiwanians. The pastor Tuesday morning addressed the students of Junior college on the subject, "Playing the Game."

Specialized Work

Dr. Goodell, it was pointed out by Dr. McKenney, is not an evangelist, his endeavors being specialized with work of the life service commission of the Christian churches in America, an organization linked with the life of students in all colleges and universities of the country.

The necessity for divine inspiration among the clergy of today was stressed in Dr. Goodell's sermon Tuesday night. The key of the address was given in its opening sentence, "Every true pastor longs for a message from his Lord." And this message, serving at once as an inspiration and as compensation for duties performed, was traced by the pastor to emanate from a feeling of love among men.

"Services are nothing," Dr. Goodell warned. "It is service that God wants in his churches. No institution can take the place of a divine inspiration."

"Love Never Fails"

He added: "No service is worth while without love. What avails your plans and schemes, your clubs and guilds? All is hollow and mockery without love. It is love that makes the pulpit a flaming light. It is love that brings the wayward home, the careless from their wanderings, the prodigal from his husks. Love never fails."

Dr. Goodell recited the power of the messages received through divine inspiration by the earlier apostles, whose revelations have been preserved in Biblical writings.

'Wonder Bandit,' Jail Break Expert, Goes to Trial for Slaying Copper

Stephen H. Hoppe Faces Death Sentence With Fiction-Like Record Behind Him

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 26. (UP)—The commonwealth of Massachusetts today began its attempt to send to the electric chair Stephen H. Hoppe, alleged murderer of a Quincy patrolman, with a record of sensational jailbreaks surpassing the career of Gerald Chapman, super bandit who was hung in Connecticut.

Hoppe is charged with the first degree murder of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis during a robbery at Quincy, Mass., on Oct. 4, 1927.

When the jury visited the scene of the slaying of Hollis at Quincy this morning, permission was refused Hoppe to accompany them, presumably because of his record.

Walks With Limp

Assistant District Attorney William P. Kelley, counsel for the commonwealth, will base the state's case upon the testimony of four persons who, the state claims, saw Hoppe in Quincy on the night of the murder. Three of them identified the prisoner from pictures, while the fourth, a woman living in the vicinity of Pill's store, saw a man limping from the scene after hearing the shots. Hoppe walks with a noticeable limp.

It was reported that the state will call in more than 100 witnesses including a Hartford doctor who treated Hoppe for a bullet wound in his hand and a state detective who found three bullets of German make identical with the bullet taken from Hollis' body, in Hoppe's suitcase.

Hoppe was first arrested in Boston four years ago for breaking into stores, banks and a postoffice in Maine. He was sentenced to serve 14 years at the Thomaston jail, but escaped from that institution in June, 1925.

Changes Features

Then he went to New York where he employed a plastic surgeon to change his features entirely. Returning to New England, he continued his career of robbery in Vermont. He was captured at Windsor, Vt., after a storekeeper had fractured his knee with a charge of buckshot.

When it was discovered he planned to escape from the Rutland hospital where he was being treated for his injured leg, he was transferred to the hospital at the state prison at Windsor. He succeeded in escaping from there, but was recaptured the following day at Claremont, N. H.

Sentenced to 14 years in jail, Hoppe was placed in one of the two death cells, considered to be the strongest cells in the Windsor prison. He tunneled his way out of the cell with a spoon and succeeded in escaping in July, 1926.

Under an assumed name, George A. Bersig, Hoppe posed as a grocer at Norwich, Conn., for over a year. During his stay in that state he was treated for a bullet wound in his hand, believed to have been received at the time of Hollis' slaying.

Arrest Follows Duel

In February this year Hoppe was arrested at Hartford, Conn., in connection with a theater robbery, but only after a pistol duel in which he was seriously wounded.

Vermont authorities identified him at the hospital as Stephen Hoppe, wanted for jail breaking at Windsor and for other crimes. Upon his recovery he was released to Vermont authorities to serve his uncompleted jail term.

Later he was pardoned and extradited to Massachusetts at the request of authorities of this state to face the murder charge here.

Hoppe has made two unsuccessful attempts to escape here, the most recent one resulting in the death of two trusties who had tried to assist the warden in preventing Hoppe's escape.

Three Deaths On River Road Probed

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Jefferson parish authorities today were engaged in an exhaustive inquiry into a triple tragdy last night on the Lafitte road near Marrero in which two men were drowned and another man shot to death while he is reported to have been seeking help from passing motors.

Charles Wang and Charles Lotz were drowned when an automobile in which five men were riding plunged into Godan canal when the driver lost control. Tony St. Angelo, one of the survivors, later was shot to death.

The two survivors are Joseph Genovese and James McDonald. All were from New Orleans.

Genovese and McDonald said St. Angelo was shot as the three survivors shouted for help from the occupants of a car which passed. They said they knew no reason for the shooting and did not know the occupants of the car.

Playground Band Has Places for Musicians

There are openings for several boys of 15 years of age or under in the Playground band, it was learned Tuesday at the offices of the city park department.

Boys who can play alto horns, trombones or baritones have a good chance to join right now, according to Charlie Bunnenberg. There is no cost attached to the band for boys who own instruments, Mr. Bunnenberg said. The band is under the direction of Paul Seeds.

Woman, 75, Rides Plane To Visit Scenes of Her Childhood

PANA, Ill., Sept. 25 (UP)—Mrs. Lucy Grimes, 75-year-old grandmother, landed in an airplane on a farm near here to visit scenes of her youth. In 1865 she had arrived at the same place with her pioneer family in a covered wagon.

Former School Head Convicted of Assault

SAPULPA, Okla., Sept. 25 (UP)—Oliver H. Akin, former county superintendent of schools, was found guilty in district court today of a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Akin was tried for hurling a soda pop bottle at Glenn O. Young, attorney, whom Akin alleged was instrumental in furthering a probe of his office. As a result of the probe, Akin resigned several months ago.

Twenty School Tots Bitten by Mad Dog

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25. (UP)—Prompt treatment was given today to about 20 children bitten by a Spitz dog, later learned to have been infected with rabies.

School teachers in the district where the dog lived cooperated with health authorities in determining whether other children had been bitten by the dog.

Arkansas Legislature In Special Session

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 25. (UP)—The Arkansas state legislature convened here today in special session to consider amendments to the Martineau road law, designed to expedite the general highway program which carries an appropriation of $82,000,000 for a four-year building program.

Brick Homes Built For Bears at Zoo

A new brick home is being built for the two black bears at the zoo in Scotland park. It was announced Tuesday by George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

The house is connected with the large iron bear cage so that the animals may stay outside or inside as they please and so that they will have adequate protection from the cold of winter.

BRALLEY AT CONVENTION

Sheriff W. G. Bralley left Tuesday afternoon for Austin to attend the convention of the Texas Sheriffs' association which opens Wednesday for three days. About 500 law enforcement officers of the state are expected to attend the convention.

R. O. Hamm, state highway officer, is planning to leave for Austin Wednesday.

NOVEL SCENES IN WINDOWS

Merchants Vie for Medals In Contest

ville in October. At either side of the lobby, ornamental iron frames carry art cards telling of shows. The theater art in the front of the lobby tells of Marion Davies' new show "Her Cardboard Lover," which is opening Wednesday at the Majestic.

Three special windows have been decorated by the Segal Tire company. All give promipence to Goodyear tires, and particularly the Goodyear Double Eagle, which is guaranteed for the life of the car. The window of central attraction shows a Double Eagle mounted on the wheel of a popular low priced car. Another window shows Goodyear tires with wings and in a shadow box. The third has a life sized cardboard man inviting the public to try the tire. Goodyear tubes also are featured.

Cut out art centers attention at the Olympic theater lobby. A massive head of Jetta Goudal, 10 feet high, completely hides the ticket office. In the foyer, just off of the lobby, a lattice work covered with flowers gives a garden effect to the theater auditorium. "The Forbidden Woman" is the show being presented. A large frame in the back of the lobby carries samples of the 52-piece china set which is being given away, piece by piece, to women attending the theater.

Perkins-Timberlake company entered several unusually attractive windows. Evening apparel was featured in one window, with dress, wrap and accessories harmonizing perfectly. Afternoon wear, infants' and children's wear, millinery, piece goods, boys' wear, men's wear and shoes each had a window, appropriately dressed. Modernistic decorations were used throughout all the windows.

Kimberlin's two windows featured evening wear and afternoon wear. The first showed three evening dresses, in bouffant style, with accessories to harmonize. The other, a black dress and wrap.

Elaborate Shoe Display

Groups of shoes in black, in brown and in blue were shown in the Joiesch Shoe company's window. Blue kid and suede in a number of styles and some novelty leathers were shown with the idea of "completing the fall ensemble." Browns were shown in an equally attractive number of styles. Blacks were in patent, moire silk and the ever-popular satin.

Huey and Gould's real estate window featured the idea of home owning. A dais built up toward the back of the window had on the various steps the slogan, "Every step of home owning made easy."

Two windows were entered by Miller-Ferguson company. One displayed the newest evening styles, with a beaded evening gown of shell pink georgette, and another of smoke blue with metallic hat to match. A black Spanish shawl and a broadtail coat of light gray, with fox collar to match, were the wraps displayed. In the other was featured a tan velvet suit with monkey fur trim, a black crepe dress with gold lace, an unusually pretty black velvet coat with gray fox collar and cuffs, a black broadcloth coat with fox band down the front, a mink coat, and a brown velvet and chiffon combination. Accessories were also provided to harmonize.

Charming Frocks

Two windows, one devoted to evening wear and the other to an afternoon ensemble are featured by Elwyn, Inc. A gown of apricot transparent velvet with a coat of black transparent velvet lined with apricot are shown in the evening window. With it is a sequin hat from Emmet Joyce. A coat and dress in copperhead, trimmed in brown fox are the main points of interest in the afternoon. The hat is of fox felt fur from Mercedes.

Newest styles in men's suits and furnishings were shown in the windows of Wages. Many-made suits in gray, tan and blue fall fabrics made up one window. The new double-breasted vest being worn so much this season was a feature, as were the two and three-button coats. Another window showed shirts, neckwear and shoes in new styles. Attractive backgrounds and fixtures were of interest.

New Style in Footwear

In a setting simple yet expressive of the formal season of autumn, Sanderford's Boeterie showed a score of new shoe modes in matt kid, patent leather, lizard, new browns and tans and several new shades of dark blue. Smartly simple pumps depended on beauty of shape and material for their chic. Straps with unusual modern treatments were piped with contrasting leathers or used reptile leathers for starp or vamp. A new note for autumn was struck by a number of smart oxfords for daytime and street wear. These were in new shades of dark brown, marine blue and black. It was noted that on most of the models shown the new medium or "high-low" heel was used to smart advantage. Hosiery in shades to harmonize or contrast with the footwear was displayed.

Fall styles and prices of mens' women's and children's shoes were featured in the attractively dressed windows of the Kinney Shoe company at 822 Indiana avenue.

The background of the windows was of brightly colored autumn leaves.

The North Texas Hudson-Essex company at 821-823 Indiana avenue is showing an Essex super-six chassis turned on its side to reveal the working parts of the automobile, and its staunch construction.

Texas Woman Speaks For Hoover in New York

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. Sept. 25. (AP)—Miss Mary E. Jagoe of Benton, Texas, Democratic committeewoman-at-large from her state at the Houston convention, talked for Herbert Hoover today over WGY on a hook-up of upstate radio stations.

Miss Jagoe came out for Hoover after the Democratic convention, and for some weeks has been working with the women's national committee for Hoover.

Wichita Falls of Past, Present and Future Pictured at Ad Club Meeting

Wichita Falls of the past, present and future was discussed at the Tuesday luncheon of the Advertising club as its part in the celebration of the 46th birthday of Wichita Falls.

New industries such as the Kraft cheese factory, the Tuf Nut garment factory, the Johnson poultry ranch and others were mentioned by Raymond Myers in speaking of "Wichita Falls Today."

Flat top houses for airplane landing, parks along the Wichita river, sub-irrigation, home movies, and 1,000 members in the local Ad club were some of the possibilities visioned for the future by P. B. Roberts in speaking on "Wichita Falls of the Future."

The days when Wichita Falls had less than 2,000 persons when he came here in 1890 were recounted by Edgar Scurry. J. A. Kemp had a grocery store; R. E. Huff was president of the Panhandle bank, and W. A. McCutchen was cashier, according to Mr. Scurry. He also told of development here from 32 to 36 years ago.

Wichita Visitors

R. M. Houston of Dallas, traveling freight agent of the I. and G. N. railway, and Jimmy Valentine of Fort Worth, traveling freight agent of the Cotton Belt lines, were business callers Tuesday at local railway offices.

TRANSFER LAW IS APPROVED

Receiving School Must Accept Students

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The fortieth legislature's law providing for transfer of common school district students to adjacent districts to get high school work, with tuition paid, was declared constitutional today by Mrs. Ethel Hilton Johnson, assistant attorney general, in an opinion to L. H. Welch, district attorney, at Breckenridge.

She held that regardless of whether the $5 tuition fee required by the law, is paid by the students' home districts, the receiving district must accept the students. Failure of districts to pay the tuition should be brought before the county school board or state superintendent, on appeal, she said.

May Go Big

Eddie Wells, who failed in trials with Detroit and Washington, and the leading pitcher in the Southern league this year, will be with the Yankees next year.

HEAR GOODELL

Christian Church Cancels Prayer Service on Wednesday

In order that members of the congregation may hear Dr. Charles Goodell at the First Methodist church, no prayer service will be held in Highland Heights Christian church here Wednesday night, Dr. Paul Henry Packard, pastor, announced Tuesday. Dr. Packard is urging members of his church to attend the revival which Dr. Goodell is conducting.

Asylum Patients Win Ride to Jail

Two inmates of the Wichita Falls state hospital who escaped early Tuesday night found themselves in a cell in the city jail after they "thumbed" a ride along the highway and told the driver they were El Paso bound.

Dressed in regulation hospital overalls, the two men, one about 45 and the other considerably younger, stopped a Wichita Falls man driving a Chevrolet coupe. While the driver recognized the two as inmates of the hospital by their dress, he gave them a lift and proceeded toward the city. At the first filling station, however, he stopped and notified police headquarters of his cargo.

Officers were waiting in front of the city hall building when the car finally drove up and the two "hitchhikers" were taken into custody. Dr. Charles W. Castner, superintendent of the hospital, called for the two patients about an hour later.

VETERANS ASK FOR 'DRY' CITY

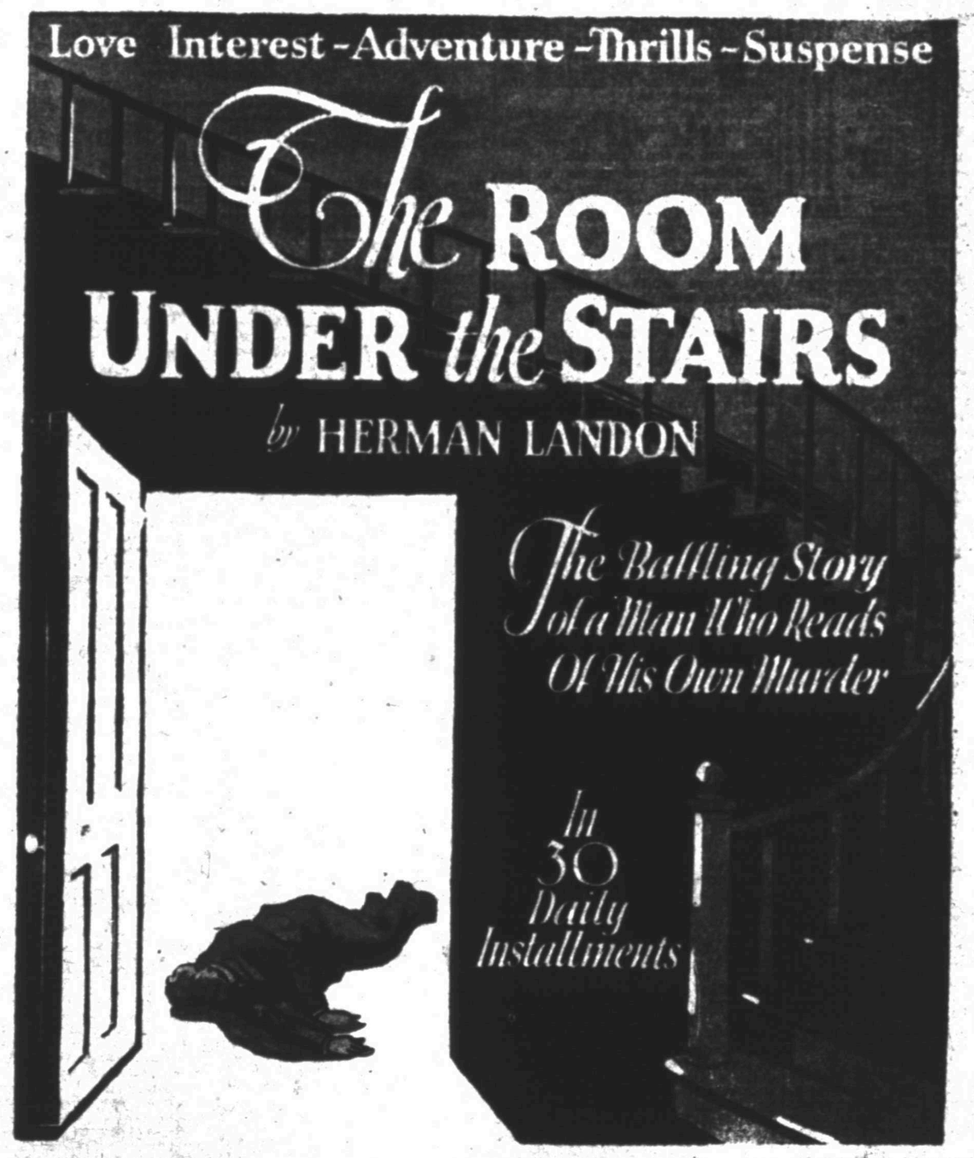

Legion Commander Urges Liquor Seizures

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Asking that all "caches of liquor within automobile driving distance of San Antonio, be confiscated," Edward E. Spofford, national commander of the American legion, in a letter Tuesday to Mayor C. M. Chambers suggested that "San Antonio be dried up before the arrival of the American legion," Oct. 4.

Upon making the letter public Mayor Chambers declared that every effort would be made to curb the sale of liquor in San Antonio.

"The thing we have to guard against most," Commander Spofford writes, "is the abuse of alcoholic beverages and I urge in every way possible that San Antonio be dried up and caches of liquor within automobile driving distance of the city be confiscated."

YANKS ROUT REDSKINS IN RUBBER GAME OF SERIES, 10 TO 1

CHAMPS HOLD TWO-GAME LEAD

Only Three More Wins Will Cinch Pennant

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Yankees marched another long mile toward the 1928 pennant by routing the Cleveland Indians by a score of 10 to 1 in the rubber game of the series here today. Even though the Athletics defeated the Browns by 9 to 5 in St. Louis, the Yankees held their lead of two games and moved into a position where they can clinch the flag with three more victories.

Old Tom Zachary, the Washington orphan, won his third victory for the champions, holding the Redskins at bay all afternoon. He gave up only eight hits and was in small danger of being scored on at any time until Joe Sewell and Hodapp bunched doubles in the eighth after Tom had a lead of 10 runs. Score:

ATHLETICS BEAT BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 25. (AP)—The Athletics remained two games behind the Yankees in the American league pennant race today when they defeated the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 5.

The Macks batted both Ogden and Coffman out of the box. Earnshaw was replaced by Walberg when he was hit freely during the first three innings. Dykes, Philadelphia shortstop, got five straight hits, driving in four of Philadelphia's runs.

Bill Killefer, who was coaching at third base for the Browns, was ordered off the field when he protested a decision of Umpire Guthrie.

Brannon, St. Louis second baseman, was injured and was taken from the game. Score:

Hillsborough Youth Bids for Pony Place

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 25. (UP)—Sammy Ellington, halfback speed merchant from Hillsborough high, is making a serious bid for the Southern Methodist university eleven in spite of one serious handicap. In that respect he is like Roland Locke, sprint flash.

One of Sammy's legs is shorter than the other. His teammates, however, contend that it is no drawback because he is considered to be one of the fastest men on the squad.

Everything's gone up in cost, With prices fit to kill
Everything but Little Tom,
And that's a nickel still!

Contenders for 'Most Valuable' Player Trophies

Close finishes in the pennant races may have a parallel in the hot contests for the valuable player trophies. Eight men stand out in the competition for the two $1,000 prizes. They are Bottomley, Lindstrom, Benton and Grimes in the National and Cochrane Grove, Manush and Hoyt in the American.

By JAY R. VESSELS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—They're going to give $1,000 prizes to the two major league players named the most valuable to their clubs in 1928. Each league names its outstanding performer.

That much is certain. But who the recipients will be is far from certain.

There are a dozen men in each league who will get some votes from the committees of baseball writers handling the award. But the field has narrowed down to four in each league, judging from the current ballyhoo in behalf of the leading prospects.

These are Bottomley, Lindstrom, Benton and Grimes in the National, and Manush, Hoyt, Grove and Cochrane in the American.

Pitchers seldom figure in the final award but 1928 may be an exception like 1924 when Dazzy Vance won the National league trophy. The judges apparently prefer the player who is in the game every day, yet this year several pitchers, by virtue of heroic work, apparently have established themselves as strong candidates for the prizes.

Pitchers Considered

Players like Bottomley and Lindstrom in the National and Manush and Cochrane in the American have been indispensable to their respective clubs, but so have some of the men who pitch for a living.

Big Burleigh Grimes virtually single handed carried the Pirates along for the first half of the season, pitching full games one day and often doing relief duty the next. And it wasn't his fault the Pirates didn't repeat. His victories, totaling 24 on Sept. 22, may reach 26 for the year.

Larry Benton is the man who kept the Giants in the running throughout the season. On Sept. 15, he had a record of 24 games won and five lost. He failed the next two times in the box, both at crucial moments, and while he alone was not to blame for the defeats this slump may count heavily against him in the final reckoning.

Waite Hoyt was the Yankee mainstay after Herb Pennock succumbed to a sore arm. He was a hard pitcher to beat while the Yankee staff was at full strength but, when he had to pitch out of turn and work on three successive days as he once did, he lost some of his effectiveness. Yet on Sept. 22, he had won 20 and lost 7.

Grove Big Winner

The fourth pitcher in the quartet mentioned as possibilities for the prizes probably did more for his club in the general run of games and less in the crucial games than any of the better boxmen. He is Bob Grove who dropped six of the eight games lost during the season to the Yankees, the club that from the start stood between the Athletics and the pennant. His record on Sept. 22, was 23 won and eight lost.

The individual records of the other four of the eight possibilities is quite a different story. Take Jim Bottomley, key man of the Cardinal defense and offense. His distance clouting, centering around the second largest number of home runs in his league, won many games for the Red Birds. He rates as about the best fielding first baseman in the league.

Lindstrom is not the slugger that Bottomley is but he stands higher in the averages, topping the St. Louis star by about 20 points. Freddy, just a mere lad, himself, is the veteran of the Giants infield and has few equals as a third baseman.

Cochrane Star Catcher

Mickey Cochrane, widely accepted as the best catcher in major league baseball, missed mighty few games behind the bat this year. He is a .300 hitter, an excellent thrower and a keen field general.

Heinie Manush not only has been mentioned as a likely recipient of the award in the American league but he may also win the league batting championship. His slugging was a big factor in the Browns' successful drive for third place.

Thus it probably will be a case of pitchers against sluggers in the race for the 1928 awards.

Two sluggers—Lou Gehrig and Paul Waner—won the trophies last year.

American League Left Fielders Have Edge on National Gardeners

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (US)—The American league looks to have an advantage in left field when the contenders for the 1928 championship are considered, especially if Al Simmons should get into the world series.

Simmons, playing left field for the first time, is a terrific swatter as well as a good outfielder. He is the main strength of the Athletics' offense, batting in fourth place and batting hardest with runners on ahead of him.

With the Yankees going into the series Bob Meusel can hold his own despite a much lower average for the season than Simmons can boast. Meusel, like most of the Yankees, is a great money player, doing his best under stress. He has not been hitting as hard this year as in the past, but for a short series of seven games or less he is entirely dependable. He also is just about the best thrower in any American league garden. No runner can afford to fool with that wing of his.

Hafey Star of League

Hafey, of the St. Louis Cardinals, shapes up like the best left fielder in the National league. He covers plenty of ground in the garden and is utterly fearless in crashing into walls and open boxes. His 22 home runs show how hard he meets the ball. He is the hardest hitter of all the left fielders in his circuit.

Riggs Stephenson, who tried to become a second sacker with the Cleveland Indians and failed, is a strong cog in the Cubs' machine. He is a slashing hitter, though not as hard a swatter as Hafey. He is at his best with runners on, by the way.

O'Doul, who plays left field for the Giants against all right-handed hurlers, is a capable performer, though not the least bit flashy.

Reese Capable Player

Reese, who alternates with O'Doul, is a fine outfielder and a capable batsman. The Giants are never weakened by having him in the line-up, whether at second base or in left field.

French of the A's and Paschal of the Yankees are strong utility outfielders, with French unusually fast on his feet. However, neither stands much chance of doing more than going to bat in a pinch.

Coach Morrison Rebukes Mustangs

DALLAS, Sept. 25.(AP)—The Southern Methodist university Mustangs, who heard all sorts of nice things about themselves during the past two weeks, were toned down considerably after Coach Morrison had expressed his thoughts today.

With the memory of his "wonder team's" puny showing against the North Texas Teachers in its opening tussle here Saturday fresh, the Pony mentor dwelled in detail on the shortcomings of his young men. After reminding the squad of its mistakes in Saturday's game, Morrison started them right back where they were two weeks ago, on the fundamentals of football.

The Mustangs have only five more days of practice before they leave for West Point, where they tackle Army Oct. 6.

Army Machine Looms Strong

Bud Sprague, Former Texan, a Line Mainstay

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 25. (AP)—Though it has yet to strike a blow, the 1928 Army football team shapes up on paper and on the practice field as one of the most powerful elevens that ever tackled a heavyweight schedule.

Of the eleven men who started the winning battle against the Navy last fall in what apparently was the last service game for some time to come, seven remain to carry on against the great array of six major and four comparatively minor opponents which have been scheduled for this campaign.

S. M. U. Dallas, is on the Army schedule.

One of the powers of the line is "Bud" Sprague of Texas, who made his early mark with Texas university.

Comedy Features Jap-Italian Tiff

Matty's Holds and Parelli's Gab Delight Fans

Matty Matsuda, Japanese jui juitsu wrestler, slammed Joe Parelli, Italian exponent of the rough stuff, on the mat to win the best two out of three falls in the main event of Promoter Alec B. Ross' wrestling and boxing show Tuesday night at the ball park.

The match was one of the best and most comical seen in the local arena for many weeks. Matty continously worked the jui juitsu holds on Joe much to the delight of the crowd.

Parelli carried his part in the comedy of the show by arguments with the spectators and comic expression and antics while in the ring.

Matsuda won the first fall in 20 minutes with a series of headlocks.

Parelli took his turn with the headlocks in the second fall when he clamped Matty on the mat in nine minutes with a series of reverse headlocks.

Matsuda won the decisive fall in six minutes of wrestling with a back slam.

Howard Scott of Electra unlashed such a fast attack on Frenchy LaFevre of Grandfield that the Frenchman's seconds threw in the towel in the middle of the second round.

Scott began pommelling the plucky Frenchy so hardily from the opening bell until the match was stopped that LaFevre's face was badly cut and covered with blod.

Floyd Anderson out-fought Johnny Owens in a close and hard fought four round mill.

Henry Adams scored a technical knockout over Lacy Wingfield when the latter failed to come back for the second round of a scheduled four round affair.

Two Black Dummies fought a one round curtain raiser.

RED BIRDS WIN IN FIFTEENTH

St. Louis Cardinals Takes Third Straight, 4-3

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Cardinals carried a stubborn fight through to a successful conclusion in 15 tense innings here today, defeating Brooklyn by 4 to 3, for their third straight triumph. By their victory the Red Birds escaped falling into a tie for the lead with the Giants, who nosed out Cincinnati by 4 to 3.

Wee Willie Sherdel went the route for McKechnie's men and kept Brooklyn's 11 hits so scattered that he seldom was in danger. The Cardinals got only 10 safeties off Douglas McWeeny and Watson Clark, but Del Bissonette started Clark to his downfall in the fifteenth by fumbling Rabbit Maranville's grounder with one gone.

Sherdel then sacrificed and Douthit delivered the winning hit, a Texas league double which fell at Max Carey's feet just a few inches from his outstretched glove. Score:

Burkburnett High School Eleven Depends on Speed to Win Games

Fast Backs and Lack of Weight Makes Style of Play Obvious, Says Larry Dailey, Starting Prep Tour

(This is the first of a series of stories written by Larry Dailey, sports editor of The Record News, on individual and team prospects of scholastic football teams in this section).

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Sept. 25.—They're going in for speed on their football team over here in this town made famous by its multiplicity of oil wells. Of course, the physical makeup of the lads who comprise the Burkburnett high school football team dictates to a large etent that they must depend upon speed rather than brawn to win their share of games. But lack of a flock of hefty lads isn't the only reason that Coach "Tubby" Taylor is developing a machine which will be marked by the swiftness of its attack.

Taylor apparently has the sort of material that will fit in nicely in his system, which has as its basis a swift-running offense and alert defense.

At least, that was the impression I gained today in watching the Bulldogs workout here. Now to have speed, particularly on the attack, it is essential that there are fast backs. And that is, as the negro says, something that Burkburnett has nothing else but.

There are five backfield men who are veterans of previous campaigns on the Burkburnett gridiron. They are Babe Green, quarterback; Owen Smith and Harvey Moore, halfbacks; Carleton Gibson, fullback and Wilbur Griffin, quarterback and halfback.

Green Is Co-Captain

Green, co-captain of the team, probably is the fastest and shiftiest oval lugger. He seems to be the most adept in forward passing, too. But Moore and Griffin also carry the ball and forward pass. These three are "triple threat" men, though Moore and Griffin do most of the punting. Smith and Gibson fit in well in the attack that calls for co-ordination of all backs.

In addition to the lettermen there are other players, reserves from last year or new men who are looming as excellent backfield material. Of these, Truman Garland right now is viewed as a most likely prospect and he has seen much service in the two games played by Burkburnett to date this season. Other backs include Douglass Tiffin, fullback; Gordon Bryan, L. D. Stacey and Erbest Suttle, halfbacks.

Tiffin is out for a place this week the first time this season. He is a 180-pounder and runs the 100-yards in 10 seconds flat, Taylor says.

Taylor employes a three-man offense, that is, one back goes into the line, and similarly, an eight-man defense. The backfield will average about 135 pounds and the line about 150.

Four Veteran Linemen

There are four lettermen back for the line. Hammett Vance, center and captain, is one of those aggressive fellows who withal is of such steadiness at his pivotal place as to make him of great value to his team. Buck Hunt, guard; Jockey Jarrell, tackle and Jude Willingham, end are other vet linemen.

Mike Maloney, end; Bud Taylor, tackle; a youth named Alexander, guard, have been used more frequently than others to complete the forward wall. Taylor is an all-district lineman of 1927 from Central Texas. There are other sturdy lads to fit into that wall when they learn more football, of whom Jack Bryan, tackle; Lynn Strickland, tackle; Fat Roye, guard; Allah Hague, guard; Paul Hewitt, end; Harold Prescott, end, and Tucker, end; Woodall, end, are included.

Bud Taylor plays defensive fullback, and he is the smashing type of player so essential to that position.

Burkburnett lost its two opening games this season, but they manifested such improvement in the second that better things apparently are ahead. They took the short end of a 19-0 score with Waurika, Okla., and last week fought Temple, Okla., to a standstill, losing 6-0. According to Coach Taylor, figures show that Burkburnett gained more yardage and had more first downs that their foes in the Temple game.

Play Grandfield Friday

They play Friday (all of the Bulldogs' games are on Friday) at Grandfield, Okla., and then start their campaign for the district championship, playing at Seymour, Oct. 5, in their first game of titular bearing.

They meet Iowa Park on Oct. 12 and Oct. 19 face Crowell, though the scene of those combats has not been determined. Oct 26 they play Megargle on their own field and the present district schedule, until the identity of the finalists is known, calls for their last game on Nov. 9 with Chillicothe, the site of this conflict also now is undecided.

Taylor is in his first year as mentor at Burkburnett, though this is his fourth season as a football coach. He previously was coach at Vernon, Brownfield and Cottonwood. He is a former Texas Tech athlete.

J. M. Johnson is assisting Taylor in whipping together the gridders.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE DIXIE SERIES gets under way today, and some of my friends, doubtless inspired by my experting of other sporting events, are asking what I think of it. Well, it seems that it is a tossup, though that prediction is made in the face of a forecast by a man who picks the Houston Buffaloes to win four straight. I don't hold the Birmingham club lightly. I know some of their athletes personally and most all by reputation, and believe they're going to be tough to beat.

The Barons have a hurler in Wells who may about match Hallahan. They have a mighty slugging catcher in Yaryan, an equal to Snyder as a hitter, though I don't believe he is as smart as Frank. This Stuffy Stewart, the Barons' second baseman, is one of the greatest infielders in the minor leagues. Doc Johnson, you will recall as the old big leaguer. He plays third base for the Barons. Bigelow, an outfielder, is their batting ace.

THIS ISN'T a forecast that the Barons will win. But it is just a reminder that they are not a club to hold too lightly and I wouldn't wager much against them.

SYNDICATE BASEBALL, as exemplified by the St. Louis Cardinals, seems to be a huge success. While the Red Birds are fighting for the flag, enriching their exchequer thereby, the minor loop clubs which they own prepare for titular series opening today. In addition to the Dixie series, in which Houston, farm of the Cards, meets Birmingham, Rochester, pennant winners of the International league and also owned by the St. Louis Nationals, starts the so-called "little world series" today with the Indianapolis club, champions of the American association.

"FIVE YARDS" MITCHELL, formerly a football star on the Pacific coast, and a familiar figure with Arthur Salmon, prominent local restauranteur, at collegiate and scholastic football games in Texas, was here yesterday. He has seen several Southwest conference elevens in action in games and practice this season, and believes that the fast Baylor team of youngsters will prove one of the surprises of the season.

Bell Back to Campus After Net Campaign

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 25. (UP)—Berkley Bell, University of Texas student, has just returned from some stiff tennis competition in the East, and is back on the campus, here.

Bell entered 16 tournaments and was awarded 14 titles, a record that will probably rank him in the nation's first 10. Bell's triumphs include victories over Francis Hunter, second ranking player in America and Hawkes, Australian Davis cup netter.

PREPS' LINE WORKS HARD

McCallum's Wall Still Lacking Strength

Centering the greater part of their time on the development of the husky but weak and inexperienced line Coach Bud McCallum and his assistants carried the Wichita Falls high schol team through a hard work-out Tuesday afternoon.

The Coyotes clash Friday in their second bame of the season and the first on the home field with Decatur Baptist college.

Another addition joined the Coyotes coaching staff yesterday in the person of Coyal Francis, former captain and star of the high school team.

All of the injured Coyotes, some of whom have been absent from practice for more than a week, were in uniform Tuesday.

Monk Hodgins, letter lineman and candidate for center, began to loom as a prospective star in his tackling yesterday. He is good and probably the best defensive man on the squad though he lacks practice and experience to become adapt to the offensive side of the position.

Another week's practice and the experience of the game last week with Lawton should put McCallum's men in condition for a fair showing of their ability in the game against the collegians.

Four Survivors In Woman's Golf

Mrs. R. R. Fisk, tournament medalist, defeated Mrs. W. E. McMillian, 8 and 7, yesterday in the woman's all-city golf championship tournament at Wichita Falls Golf and Country club.

Mrs. F. C. Rochon beat Mrs. Fred T. Couper, 4 and 3; Miss Laura Lee Hampshire defeated Mrs. J. H. Fletcher, 2 and 1, and Mrs. G. H. Hampshire eliminated Mrs. Stanley McGregor, 1 up at the 20th hole in other first flight matches.

Mrs. Fisk meets Mrs. Rochon and Miss Hampshire plays Mrs. Hampshire in the semi-final matches today

In the second flight matches, Miss Dell Hatchitt defeated Mrs. A. P. Terrell, 2 up; Mrs. D. G. Whitney defeated Mrs. W. P. Bolding, 2 and 1; Mrs. R. A. King defeated Mrs. W. C. Witcher, 3 and 2; Mrs. H. L. Reuhl defeated Mrs. Dan Bell, 4 and 3.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in Regard to Health and Diet Will Be Answered by Dr. McCoy, Who Can Be Addressed in Care of This Paper

Man's Conquest of Nature

Some 30,000 years ago the human race first began to experiment with the art of agriculture, and some 20,000 years ago the men and women of nomadic tribes first began the domestication of animals. With these accomplishments at his disposal, man began to assume a new place in nature. He was no longer buffeted about by its whims, but actually became in some degree its master.

We can trace all of the wonderful complexities of our modern civilization to the simple tiller of the soil and wandering herder of cattle. Before the development of agriculture, it is apparent that our ancestors lived very much as the apes do today, subsisting mainly on foods of a vegetable nature, such as fruits, nuts, herbs, vegetables and roots. Man was not naturally equipped as a hunting animal, and the animal foods which he obtained must have been in the form of birds' and reptiles' eggs, shell fish, snakes, snails, grubs, worms, insects and caterpillars. Occasionally he may have been able to capture birds, fish, and some of the larger animals.

The fruits and vegetables of these early times had not yet reached their present stage of lusciousness. They were woefully lacking in nutritive qualities. The North American Indians, at the time of the discovery of the new world, ate many edible wild roots, such as some plants, cannas, bulbs of various sorts, and eel grass. Before the discovery of fire these had to be eaten raw, although they may have been prepared in various ways by pounding and drying. Although many edible roots, such as the turnip, Jerusalem artichoke and field potato were used, there is no evidence that the Indians practiced the cultivation of these.

The pictures that the poets have painted of the golden age in the past, flowing with milk and honey, and grape juice, requiring little or no effort to gather, has been drawn from their imagination because it is likely that the food of primitive man would be considered scarcely worth gathering, since the roots were tough and most of the fruit acrid and tasteless.

Man fortunately belongs to the type of animal known as the omnivorous which enables him to eat and digest a very large variety of foods. This fact has enabled him to survive through many adverse circumstances where animals that could subsist on only one class of food would have starved.

We hear much of man's "natural" diet, but this term is wrong, since the digestive organs may become adapted to new foods during the course of generations and, after this change, the new food would become the most suitable. Races have developed this tendency, and the Scotchman, who swears by his oatmeal, might have difficulty in substituting the oil and blubber of the Eskimo; or the Japanese, who subsist largely on rice, might have difficulty in handling the large amount of beef and mutton that the Australian uses. Dietetic changes must usually be made slowly except when they are prepared for by some type of fasting.

In spite of the fact that these races may have become accustomed to their lopsided diet, they would undoubtedly improve in health if they would substitute well balanced menus, not swinging too quickly from one extreme to the other.

Questions and Answers

Question: Mrs. K. asks: "Are there any oils or liniments that will penetrate an unbroken skin? If so, will you please name one or two? I have a friend who claims there is an oil that will cure a growth in the neck."

Answer: Oil and liquids will penetrate the skin to some extent, as tests have shown that certain medicines rubbed on the skin can be afterwards found in the urine. I do not know of any oil which will have any effect on curing a growth in the neck.

Question: Eddy J. writes: "I wish to participate in a coming athletic exhibition, and I wish you would inform me of a suitable diet on which to train."

Answer: The weekly menus which I prescribe in this column would constitute a good training diet. On the day of your contest stop all regular meals and use only orange or grape juice. If you stomach is rested in this way you will have more energy for your muscles to use in your athletic endeavors.

Question: Interested asks: "Will you please tell me what "acatalphasia" means?

Answer: The disorder you ask about is caused by an injury to the central nervous system, and part of the brain is affected by either disease or the breaking of a blood vessel. Loss of speech results for varying lengths of time, depending upon the seriousness of the injury to the brain membranes.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By BILLIE BURKE

Billie Burke, famous actress and wife of Florenz Ziegfeld, the big utter and leg man, who annually promotes his "last" Follies, likes the story in which two of her friends are supposed to have figured.

Billie Burke

"It seems," said Miss Burke, "that Mr. and Mrs. Henry were visiting Pittsburgh during a time when a flood of counterfeit $10 bills appeared. Mr. Henry entertained some friends at dinner in the hotel at which the couple were stopping, after his wife had retired to their room because of a headache.

"At the end of the meal Mr. Henry found he had left his wallet in his room. He telephoned up to his wife, who brought the money down. It was some little time before the waiter returned with the change and when he did he brought the hotel manager along with him. And while the manager talked with Mr. Henry there arrived a secret service man who became interested in the $20 bill which Mr. Henry had handed the waiter.

"'Queerest bill I ever saw,' the federal officer said at last, 'but it doesn't seem to be counterfeit.'

"'Of course it isn't,' said Mrs. Henry. 'It's just that I washed and ironed all our money last night. Everything gets so dirty in this town.'"

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Advances from an opening decline carried the cotton market into new high ground for the movement today, but buying on reports of temperatures in the South and apprehensions of reduced crop estimates tapered off at the advance to 19.07 for December.

The opening was steady at a decline of 14 to 22 points under realizing and local, or southern selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. Initial offerings were soon absorbed, and the market turned upward.

Further reports of damage to crop prospects from the recent eastern belt storms were a factor on the advance, which extended to 19.05 for October and 18.88 for March contracts, or 20 to 27 points net higher.

Exports today, 13,116 bales, making 791,794 bales so far this season. Port receipts, 109,558. U. S. Port stocks, 933,613.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Failure of expected frost in the belt to materialise and profit-taking were responsible for a decline of 34 to 39 points in the cotton market today after prices had advanced 19 to 22 points in earlier trading. December contracts traded down for the day. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 14 to 18 points.

The opening was easy in response to relatively lower Liverpool cables and first trades here showed losses of 14 points. Before initial offerings were absorbed October traded off to 17.92, December 18.03 and January 18.05, or 15 to 16 points under yesterday's close.

Good trade buying and some covering developed later, probably induced by the low temperatures shown by the weather map in the eastern belt and private advices of frost in several places. Fears that heavy rains reported in northern Mexico might extend into Texas also helped the recovery, which carried October up to 18.26, December 18.40 and January 18.43, or 34 to 37 points above the early lows and 19 to 22 points above the previous close.

As the detailed weather report failed to confirm the private frost advices early buyers liquidated and there was also fair hedge selling as well as selling by ring traders on the theory that a reaction was due. The market worked downward for the remainder of the session, reaching the lowest in final trading when October sold at 17.92, December 18.01 and January 18.04, or 34 to 39 points under the day's highest. The close was practically at the lowest.

Today was first notice day for October cotton and prices for 1,000 bales were issued here and for 4,000 bales in New York. The prompt stoppage of these notices probably aided the early advance.

Ease in Call Rate Halts Slump Begun by Call of $10,000,000 Loans

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (US)—Stocks snapped back toward the close today after suffering quite a drastic reaction which started when $10,000,000 loans were called late in the morning. As money had appeared in good supply the industrial favorites were boiling along in new high ground when the banks halted the advance by calling in accommodations. Then when selling was heaviest in the afternoon additional funds made a sudden appearance and forced the call rate down to 7 from the renewal of 7½ per cent.

Aggressive pool work was resumed and professionals trying for a quick short play again had to scurry to cover with the result that most stocks finished close to Monday's final prices. Montgomery Ward was one of the outstanding features of the day as it skyrocketed to a new high as a result of its practically cornered conditions. Steel, General Motors and other standard industrials gave with the rest of the list after holding quiet during the morning but also recovered toward the close. Oils were dull and the rails showed no appreciable benefit from an unconfirmed rumor that decision on the Nickel Plate plan was near.

Shakeout Aids Favorites

It was the unexpected calling of loans that influenced the setback at midday and the subsequent easing of the call rate that influenced the closing recovery. Those most active in the market say they welcome such shakeouts as experienced, for without them they declare they could not keep their favorites going as they desire and the ever-threatening drastic correction of the technical position would be experienced before they desire it. Such shakeouts also encourage professional short selling "for a quick turn" and it is on the technical strength that results that the bull leaders base their operations in several stocks. There is reason to expect money to tighten at the end of the week when funds will be withdrawn for Oct. 1 disbursements, but comparative ease is expected for tomorrow and the next day.

Public Service Gains

Public service of New Jersey registered a new high record early, coincident with rumor that dividends would be increased to a $3 annual rate in the near future. National Power was in demand also following report here that special development was looked for with merger likelihood discussed. Fleischmann further advance was regarded as representing added interest in the company by dominant bankers who first secured a block of stock some six months ago. Keith was twirled for awhile with rumor in flotation that the consummation of a deal with Warner was nearer completion than generally realized.

Carbide was another to soar rather sensationally in the early dealings with those most active talking of its stock dividend possibilities. There was quiet picking up of Industrial Alcohol as the main interests in the new group in the stock are expected to arrive here next week. American Can and Electric Autolite were two others that were well taken with floor brokers telling of the increased short interest in the former stock. Radio sponsors also were said to have built up a fairly substantial short account in their pet. The Briggs group was another that churned their favorite and brought new high before the afternoon setback as further reports were heard of improved earnings.

Bull Operators Expected

A factor toward early good feeling and that also helped the closing recovery was the report that several of the most powerful bull operators would arrive in this city during the next week. Hudson was helped thereby and also by belief that it is the first stock the "big ten" have worked together since the spring. Arthur Cutten is expected within the next few days. On Friday, Cliff Durant, son of W. C., who has been active marketwise even on his trip abroad, arrived here Friday morning. Other western interests get in by early next week. So all the important ones in the "big ten," except W. C. Durant, who has to stay abroad for a while yet to complete arrangements for selling his cars, will be together soon again. But they will not be entirely interested in buying.

There were new interests at work in Pressed Steel Car coincident with report of Pittsburgh buying of the stock. Announcement of construction of new plant by the Equipment company controlled by the Mellons, added to demand as it was taken as indication of expectation of bigger demand from the railroads soon. Eisenlohr Bros. advanced actively at the close with special developments rumored.

Sterling sold at a new low in a generally irregular foreign exchange market, while cotton and other commodities recovered after early setback.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25 (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Curtailed cattle receipts around the 11 market circuit served to counteract the depressing influence on a slow dressed beef trade. Better grades of beef steers and yearlings ruled unevenly steady to 25c higher, but other classes held barely steady. Stocker and feeder steers so far this week have registered from a low price change with country demand slow at the recent sharp decline. Heavy steers in Chicago scored $18.40 while choice yearlings at Kansas City realized $17.75. Good fed Kansas grassers on the Kansas City market reached $15.00, but the majority of short grassers turned at $13.00@14.25. Total offerings around the loop approximated 47,900 against 67,112 a week ago, and 47,907 the same day last year.

Hogs hit a well greased toboggan for a general price decline of 25 to 50c, several points reporting closing levels 75c-$1.00 under Monday's best time. New crop hogs many of them unfinished, and light weights continued to swell the receipts.

Considerable unevenness prevailed again in the fat lamb market. Omaha, which suffered a sharp decline yesterday, reported strong to 25c higher prices, and other points having steady to 25c lower figures. Choice range lambs in Chicago stopped at $14.25, while at Kansas City and Omaha, rangers scored $13.90. The supply totaled 101,900 against 90,626 last Tuesday, and 58,687 a year ago.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 25. (UP)—Hogs—Receipts, 1,200; no forenoon trading on rail hogs; truck hogs mostly 50 to 60 cents lower, early truck top $10.30; bulk medium to choice 160 to 230-pound truck hogs $10.00@10.30.

Cattle—Receipts, 4,200; trade generally slow; slaughter steers very scarce, one load light weight very common grassers $8.50, about steady; slaughter yearlings steady, carlots up to $13.00; cutters and low cutters about steady; bulk sales $5.25@6.50. Butcher and beef grades slow, bidding lower; spots 25c lower for two days, few sales $7.50@8.50; individuals at $10.00; bulls steady, carlots at $6.25, $6.35 and $6.50; slaughter calves slow, mostly 25c lower, heavy slaughter calves mostly around $11.50; stocker calves barely steady, sales from $11.75@12.50, few light steer calves at $13.00.

Sheep—Receipts, 500; few sales medium to good truck lambs at $12.00, or steady.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Hogs—15,000; 25 to 50c lower; top $12.25; butchers, medium to choice 250 to 350 pounds $11.10@12.00; 200 to 250 pounds $11.15@12.25; 160 to 200 pounds $10.60@12.10; 130 to 160 pounds $10.00@11.75.

Cattle—5,000; calves 3,000; steady; vealers 50 to 75c higher; slaughter steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $14.75@18.50; 1,100 to 1,300 pounds $14.50@18.50; 950 to 1,100 pounds $14.50@18.50; fed yearlings, good and choice 750 to 950 pounds $14.25; heifers, good and choice 850 pounds down $13.50@17.50; bulls, good and choice (beef) $9.25@10.75; vealers, (milk-fed) good and choice $16.00@17.50.

Sheep—27,000; fat lambs steady to 15c lower; bulk natives $13.75@14.00; lambs, good and choice (92 pounds down) $13.00@14.25; ewes, medium to choice (150 pounds down) $4.25@6.75.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 13,000; uneven, 35@75c lower; top $11.65 on choice 220 pounds; butchers, medium to choice 250 to 350 pounds $10.85@11.50; 200 to 250 pounds $10.90@11.65; 160 to 200 pounds $10.50@11.60; 130 to 160 pounds $9.50@10.90.

Cattle—Receipts 15,000; calves 2,500; steady to weak; choice 1073 pounds $17.50; slaughter steers, good and choice 1300 to 1500 pounds $11.25@17.60; 1100 to 1300 pounds $12.25@17.75; 950 to 1100 pounds $12.25@17.75; fed yearlings, good choice 750 to 950 pounds $13.50@17.75; heifers, good and choice, 850 pounds down, $12.50@16.50; cows, good and choice $8.50@12.00; common and medium $7.25@8.50; vealers, milk fed, medium to choice $8.00@14.50.

Sheep—Receipts 12,000; lambs 10c lower, sheep steady. Top western lambs 13.90; lambs, good and choice, 92 pounds down, $12.75@13.90; ewes, medium to choice, 150 pounds down, $4.50@7.00.

Grain

GRAIN REVIEW

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (US)—Grains closed rather irregularly today, but lower for most of the futures, with wheat at a cent and a half under the previous close. The trade was intensely bearish. Both corn and rye showed plenty of resistance to downward pressure and gave an excellent account of themselves.

At the end wheat was down 1½; corn was ¼ lower to ⅝ higher; oats were ⅛ to ⅝ lower; rye was 1⅛ lower to 1⅜ higher.

The bear side was the only side that looked good to most pit traders from the start. Wheat eased away shortly after the opening, but the market gave no suggestion of any such weakness as bears professed to see in its action.

Late in the session when the December future got down around 1.17 a good class of buying appeared to be absorbing all offerings. The market became very dull and worked up and down from that level within half a cent range.

It seemed quite possible that the big interests which bought wheat lower before the big bulge last Friday might have taken profits at the top of the upturn and were now buying back wheat again.

Nothing in the market seemed to me to indicate any decided shift of the market situation back to the bearish condition that existed some weeks ago and up until last week. Selling wheat on breaks from the present level is, I think, apt to prove costly eventually.

Tomorrow on any early decline the market may get support that will lift it upward before the session is over. Weakness at Liverpool and Winnipeg today had a good deal of influence here.

Rye shows great inherent strength.

There seems to be no question but that the world's crop will be very short this year. That should mean a high price for rye later in the year and next spring.

Corn looks to me to be very strong. I refer to the deferred futures, especially the December future. The September future may go out not far from the present level, but it is quite possible for it to be run up rapidly during the rest of this week.

At best, however, September corn promises to be erratic and should not be traded in.

As soon as the September corn goes off the board next Saturday there will probably be a readjustment in cash prices. All of a sudden December corn may look very cheap at a price under 80 cents. This future, I think, may sell much higher than that. It looks like a good buy on setbacks.

STOCK-A-DAY

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES, INC.

(Five-Year Record.)

First National Pictures, Inc., distributes motion pictures made for it by producing subsidiaries and by independent producers. Most of the pictures are rented to theaters operating under franchise agreements. This assures the company of a steady market. It also obtains an outlet for its products through a consolidation of interests with the Stanley Company of America, operating a chain of theaters in Pennsylvania, and the West Coast Theaters company. Together these concerns control about 350 theaters. This consolidation, effected in 1927, took the form of a co-operative agreement whereby the the joint committee, representing the three companies, directs affairs. Exchanges are maintained in this country and many foreign countries.

The First National company has nearly half a score of subsidiaries, and has a modern motion picture plant constructed on 62 acres of land at Burbank, Calif. The company makes advances to independent producers of pictures, retaining all gross receipts from distribution until advances are liquidated and company's share of receipts thereafter being shared with the producing company. The company itself has no investment in theaters. It is reported that the Fox interests own about 34 per cent of First National Pictures and the Stanley company 29 per cent.

Net earnings dropped off sharply after 1924 and 1925. Net income in 1927 was approximately $1,157,000, or equivalent to $49.64 a share on the first preferred; $101.57 on the second preferred "A"; $304 on the second preferred "B," and $11.94 a share on the common, which compared with a net of $1,038,000 in 1926.

Funded debt totals $865,000, with $106,000 in purchase money notes also outstanding. Capital stock outstanding consists of $2,350,000 in 8 per cent cumulative participating first preferred of $100 par; $950,680 of 7 per cent cumulative second preferred "A" of $100 par; $291,901 of 7 per cent cumulative second preferred "B" of $100 par, and 73,627 shares of no par common, all of which is held in a voting trust.

The entire voting power is vested in the common except when there is default of six quarterly payments on the first preferred or the default of 12 quarterly payments on the class A or class B stock.

Dividends have been paid regularly at the required rate on the first preferred and the class A second preferred stock, but no dividends have been paid on the class B second preferred or the common.

Net income in the first quarter of 1928 amounted to $344,225.

As of January 1, 1928, total current assets were $13,256,933; current liabilities, $4,514,269; net working capital $8,742,664, and book value of the first preferred $517.36 a share.

Mrs. Willebrandt Orders Confiscated Liquor For Relief

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 25. (INS)—Because Florida's laws permit medicinal whisky, action of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, in ordering the sending of confiscated liquor for hurricane sufferers was "probably within the letter of the law," Edward S. Shumaker, Indiana anti-saloon league superintendent, said today.

However, Shumaker said he doubted the efficacy of whisky as a medical treatment for the storm sufferers.

LIME, LIME AND LIME

Bobby Burns and associates are testing out a number of rock bits in their No. 1 Gersonek test located in section 2409 T. E. L. survey southwest Archer county. The well which is located north and west of the Texas company producers in the same survey, encountered the lime at 1252 feet. The formation has the same peculiarities found in the Granite wash in Gray and other north Texas fields, it being the friend of the bit shop. The lime has been penetrated 72 feet and late Tuesday night was still in it.

BUNDY-HALL-YOUNG

Bunday and Hall No. 1 C. W. Johnson located in the Sargent survey, north Young county, is on the pump making 50 barrels from the sand at 500-510 feet.

M'LAUGHLIN-ARCHER

McLaughlin Brothers No. 1 Turbeville, located in block 17, Jefferson county school lands in Archer county, is resetting casing after losing the seat while bailing a good looking sand at 1043-44 feet.

BRIDWELL OIL-MONTAGUE

Bridwell Oil company placed its No. 4, Mrs. M. H. Salmon, located in Wm. Zuber survey, Montague county, on the pump as a 25 barreler from the sand at 908-13 feet.

HASKELL COUNTY

Lillian Hill and associates No. 1 T. Proctor in the Antonio Rodriquez survey, Haskell county, is abandoned as a dry hole at a total depth of 2027 feet.

HOOVER CLUB OPENS OFFICE

Work Is Restricted to G. O. P. Activities

The Republican women have opened Hoover headquarters for this district on the Lamar street side of the ground floor of the Hamilton building, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Mrs. F. A. Welty, Republican candidate for congress in this district.

"The office has been opened solely as a Republican headquarters working for the election of Herbert Hoover," Mrs. Welty said. "Congressional, senatorial and other campaigns are not being pushed from this office.

"Likewise, the headquarters is a Republican headquarters. We are working harmoniously with the anti-Smith Democrats for the election of Herbert Hoover, but have our own office for special Republican activities."

Negress Freed on Fighting Charge

When a "cullud lady" goes a calling with her husband, especially on invitation, she has a perfect right to protect herself and spouse with a hatchet or anything else that is handy in case of attack.

That is what a jury in the county court decided Tuesday when Julia King was acquitted on a charge of aggravated assault.

There were several witnesses who testified that Julia raised a "charley horse" on the shoulder of one John Patterson, likewise colored, with a hatchet, hammer or some weapon. It was dark when the fight started, the witnesses said, and they were not sure whether her weapon of defense was a hatchet or a "blunt instrument." They thought, however, that another woman who participated in the melee, and who, Julia declared, started the whole trouble, carried a gleaming knife or razor.

Julia declared she didn't pass a single lick until somebody cut her on the hand with a knife and then she began to do battle.

Wichita Club Women Learn Glove Making

Nearly 150 women in Wichita county participated in a glove making campaign conducted under the direction of Miss Ethel L. Webb, county home demonstration agent. The campaign closed Monday.

Miss Webb said while no prizes were offered, the women showed considerable interest and more than 100 pairs of men's, women's and children's gloves in chamois and suede were made. Many were completed at a meeting held Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. H. C. Obenhaus at Barwise.

A campaign to be devoted to glass painting will be opened in the county Oct. 1, Miss Webb said.

Air Company Considers Bids for Port Today

Directors of the Wichita Falls Municipal Airport company will meet with George D. Fairtrace, city manager, in the offices of C. W. Cahoon, president of the airport company, in the City National bank building at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning to finally decide what bidder will be awarded the airport.

Three bids on the leasing of the airport were opened at the Monday night meeting of the city council and turned over to the city manager for action in conjunction with the airport directors.

City Tax Department Will Accept Payments Oct. 1, Hyer Announces

Taxpayers who wish to pay their city taxes Oct. 1 will be able to do so, so far as the city tax collector and assessor's office is concerned, it was learned Tuesday from W. R. Hyer in charge of the office.

"The change in the tax rate by the city council from $1.50 to $1.40 makes it necessary for us to go over a great part of the city tax rolls which had been worked on," Mr. Hyer explained. "However, we have the assistance of clerks from the city clerk's office and are working early and late to get the rolls in shape.

"It will be a month or six weeks before they are complete, but any time, from Oct. 1 on, we will be glad to receive taxes. Any accounts which are not figured up by the first of the month will be figured as the taxpayer comes to the window, and we will exert every effort to give the best service possible."

'Feast of Tabernacle' to Honor Dallas Masonic Leaders Here

"The feast of the tabernacle" which will be held at the new lodge rooms of the Masonic temple, Saturday evening at 6 o'clock will be the feature of the entertainment program for the 33rd degree team of Dallas in its visit here Saturday.

The banquet is open to all Scottish Rite masons. Reservations must be handed in to Albert Ellis at Masket temple before 5 o'clock Friday.

The feast is being sponsored by the Wichita Valley Scottish Rite club and is under the direction of Glen Groves, Marshal Franklin, and Otto Stehlik.

The 33rd degree team will confer the master's degree Saturday night beginning at 8 o'clock at Faith Lodge. All master Masons in this vicinity are invited to attend the ceremony.

Cafe Owner Fined Under Sanitary Code

"Any place in Wichita Falls where food is handled must be clean."

That was the anouncement made Tuesday by Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief sanitary inspector, after a restaurant owner had been fined $50 in corporation court for keeping a dirty stove, dirty floors and dogs in the place, and not having proper health certificate.

After the restaurant owner had announced an appeal to the county court, George D. Fairtrace, city manager, said that he will stand squarely behind the sanitary inspectors in their effort to retain for Wichita Falls the present high standard of sanitation and absence of disease.

Wichita Sign Visible 30 Miles, Manager Told

A new sign atop the Holt hotel can be seen as far as 30 miles away, according to information brought Tuesday to G. M. Holt, manager. A visitor in Wichita Falls who lives five miles beyond Windthorst told Mr. Holt he could see the sign plainly any night from his front porch. The sign is 30 feet long and 40 feet high.

The completion of improvements totaling nearly $12,000 in cost was announced by the hotel management Tuesday. The improvements included installation of shower baths on all rooms on the south side of the seventh and eighth floors.

CRASH VICTIM'S BURIAL TODAY

Memphis Woman, Daughter Of Electran, Killed

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 25.—Funeral services are to be held here Wednesday for Mrs. W. G. West, 36, of Memphis, who was instantly killed in an automobile crash on a bridge near Jericho, on the Clarendon road, Sunday night. The body was forwarded here Monday.

The car which Mrs. West was driving and another collided when drivers of both machines became blinded by lights from either car, according to Mr. West, who was riding with his wife. Mrs. West was thrown from the automobile, and was crushed to death beneath the wreckage.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. J. J. Garner, who resides at Electra.

Talk about your dances! Ask anyone who danced that dance and see what she or he has to say about it. During the progress of the dance, the professional caller came in, lingered amoment to see what was doing, and disappeared down stairs again in search of another drink. When the set was finished, everyone wanted McElroy to call another dance. The ladies wanted to know that man, and the cowboy was introduced to all those on the floor whom he did not know.

McElroy's calling was largely original with himself and he taught it to a few friends, and so it has to an inglorious close. Governor Ireland was here that day, arriving late and while the speaking and war dance by part of the 500 Comanche Indians then encamped here was in full progress. There come down with the years and is recognized as a feature of every country dance that is held in this part of the state.

The occasion of the above ball was the first anniversary of the completion of the Fort Worth & Denver railroad into Wichita Falls.

On Sept. 27, 1884, perhaps what was the biggest anniversary celebration held in Wichita Falls came was no committee to meet Governor Ireland, and W. E. Brothers, then county and district clerk, who happened to be down town, saw the governor and Col. Booth, who accompanied him. Mr. Brothers hailed a carriage and asked the driver if he would take them up on the hill where the war dance was to be held. The driver replied that he would, but that neither the governor nor any other man could use his carriage for a resting place when they arrived there.

While the war dance was in progress—it was now dark and immense bonfires lighted the scene—viewed by probably 3,000 people, one of the most terrific downpours of rain occurred, accompanied by lightning and thunder. In less time than it takes to tell it, the fires were drowned out. People shouted and screamed and sought shelter, but there was no shelter. Mr. Brothers lost Governor Ireland, and himself crawled under a carriage to get out of the rain. He had just got well settled when six or eight Indians crawled over him. And they all had just got settled and the rain was pouring its hardest when someone drove off with the carriage, leaving them there in the downpour.

Mr. Brothers says the procession to town was the funniest thing he ever saw. The cloud cleared away quickly and the thousands were hurrying down hill to town. Most of the ladies wore white dresses and barber pole stockings, so Mr. Brothers avers. Thre were squalling children being dragged along, and bedraggled women just jawing their escorts something awful to hear. One man, who blustered among his male acquaintances as a man who ruled his home with a rod of iron, was in the limelight of womanly abuse and vituperation for a quarter of a mile; his wife simply tongue-lashed him to a frazzle, and then did it all over again a dozen times.

It is stated that there were more than one hundred ladies' high heeled slippers pulled out of the mud of Ninth street during the next two days, slippers lost by the wearers as they waded home from the war dance. FRED CHASE.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Coupe and Truck Collide on Wichita Road

Four were hurt, two seriously, Tuesday night about 6 o'clock, when a Ford coupe in which a mother and five children were riding to Wichita Falls was overturned on the Iowa Park road.

Following the accident Mrs. Mamie Cendroske, 1201 North Brook street, and three of her children, Ruby Lee Barnes, 12; Foster Barnes, 8, and Francel Barnes, 10, were taken to Wichita General hospital. All suffered cuts and bruises while Ruby Lee Barnes sustained internal injuries. Ruby Lee and Foster were the most critically hurt, attendants stated.

Mrs. Cendroske's car was overturned about three and one-half miles from Wichita Falls in a collision with a Chevrolet truck driven by W. L. Smith of Chillicothe, according to reports received by police.

Mrs. Cendroske suffered a cut over her left eye. She and Francel Barnes were released from the hospital following emergency treatment. Two other children who were in the car were uninjured.

Smith, the driver of the truck, who is a business man at Chillicothe, was permitted by police to go home Tuesday night.

SOPHA MARY STEWART

Funeral services for Sopha Mary Stewart, six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stewart of 405 Travis street who died at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, were conducted at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Hines mortuary chapel. Burial was in Riverside.

Negro Jailed When He Flees With Gasoline

Attempting to get his car filled with gasoline without paying for it landed a negro in the city jail Tuesday afternoon.

He had secured gasoline at the Gulf station at Eighth street and Brook avenue and had driven away without paying before he could be stopped. He was arrested after a chase of several blocks by Homer Bentley, motorcycle officer, and carried to the police station.

DIXIE SERIES ON AIR TODAY

KGKO to Broadcast Pennant Play

Two groups of women proved the hits of the day at KGKO, the National Security Life Insurance company station Tuesday, according to those at the station, in telling of the great number of messages received.

The Woman's Choral club quartet including Mrs. P. M. Cordell, Mrs. R. M. Wilhite, Mrs. C. H. Evans and Mrs. J. E. Stratton, with Miss Elizabeth Cole as accompanist, gave one program under the direction of Mrs. Louella B. Thompson.

Mrs. Joe Crouch, Mrs. Paul Putty, Mrs. Maytha Brasfield and Miss Harriet Bradley formed an instrumental, whistling and singing quartet. Thompson's Hawaiians and the Alley Cats also received general approval.

Wednesday's program will be headlined by the broadcasting of the opening baseball game of the Dixie series at Birmingham with Houston, starting at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Programs of general entertainment will be given from 8:30 to 10 a. m.; 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m.; 4:30 to 6 p. m., and 7 to 10 p. m.
