9 PERSONS DIE ON HIGHWAYS--FIGURE DROPS

(By The Associated Press)

Tragedy paid its usual visit to a celebrating Texas over the Fourth-of-July weekend, but Beaumont, one of the nation's safest cities, kept its record unsmirched.

Seventeen died violent deaths; scores were injured along the width and breadth of Texas. Beaumont sympathized, but yawned, as police reported four minor automobile accidents with total damage of $50. There were no deaths or injuries from violence.

Beaumont, in 1937, was adjudged one of the two safest cities in the nation.

Traffic accidents claimed nine lives and accounted for at least 35 injured; four were shot to death and four wounded in shootings; three were drowned; one died in a construction mishap. Others were wounded, some by fireworks.

On Independence Day, Marvin Stratton, 19, of near Weatherford, was killed and his father and two cousins injured seriously in the crash of their automobile into a telephone pole near Weatherford.

Mrs. Netti Mae Coomer, 24, was killed when she was struck by a train near her home at Fort Worth. Johnny Mae Gray, 17, of Abilene fell from the running board of an automobile as she was returning from an outing and was injured fatally.

Joe Termin, 37, Dallas automobile race driver, died when his machine left the track and plunged through the fence during Fourth-of-July races at Haskell.

Scy Shufelt, 43, Houston refinery worker, was shot to death. Charles Carter, 13, was killed accidentally near Katy, Harris County, as he and a companion engaged in target shooting. A negro woman was killed at Houston in the scuffle for a gun. Matt M. Davis Jr. was charged with the fatal shooting of Emory Tullos, middle-aged Atascosa County farmer.

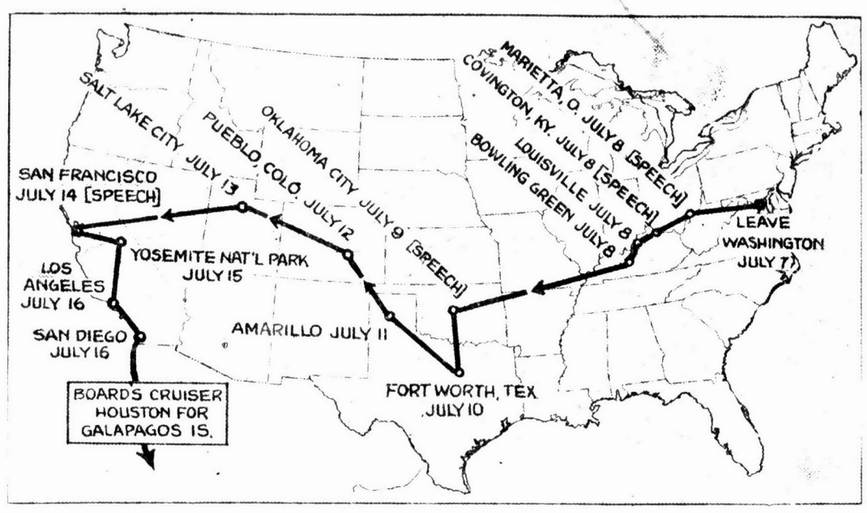

Mrs. Odie Knight, 25, and her niece, Lavera Eason, 15, drowned in a lake near Grand Saline.

Other deaths occurred Saturday and Sunday.

Route Of FDR's Cross Country Tour

The route of President Roosevelt's transcontinental tour expected to include at least four addresses of major political significance, is shown in the map above. In addition to numerous rear-platform appearances, the President is scheduled formal speeches at Marietta, O., in connection with the 150th anniversary of the founding of the first Northwest Territory settlement; at Covington, Ky., where he is expected to give a boost to the re-election campaign of Senate Floor Leader Alben Barkley; and at Oklahoma City and San Francisco. At San Diego, Mr. Roosevelt will board the cruiser Houston for a sea voyage to Galapagos Island, thence through the Panama Canal and to an unannounced Atlantic Coast port where the cruise will end early in August.

How President's Life Is Guarded

Here is a pictographic explanation of how President Roosevelt is guarded when traveling through large cities in an open automobile. As the Chief Executive, indicated by black arrow in the photo above, rides in his car motorcycle police form a quadrangle on the outside, while an alert Secret Service man mounts guard on each running board. Immediately behind is a car carrying four other Federal men. A couple of them look aloft as the cars, in this case, pass under a steel trestle whose shadow can be seen. The photo was made as the President left the World's Fair ground in New York where he laid the cornerstone of the Federal Building and made a speech urging international unity.

FAMED WRITER VISITS RODEO

By MAY STEVENS ISAACS

Frank M. King, representing the Union Stock Yards of Los Angeles operated by the Santa Fe Railroad, visited the Anvil Park rodeo at Canadian enroute to the Annual Cowboy Reunion at Stamford.

Mr. King, 75 years old, is associate editor of the Western Livestock Journal and writes the Maverick page and the Longhorn section for that weekly stock paper.

He learned to ride and rope when a young lad in Texas, and went up the trail through this section in 1878. He has lived in New Mexico and Arizona and, for a number of years, his home has been in Los Angeles. Because of his wide acquaintance with stockmen over a period of three quarters of a century, he is considered an authority on pioneer history of the Southwest. Many people write him, asking questions about incidents which occurred years and years ago.

King received an occasional manuscript from a young author, and sometimes from experienced ones who have decided they'd like to "do a western," for his approval or criticism, but he does not operate a critics bureau nor does he have a publishing plant.

Scores of books are sent to Mr. King every year by publishers of "westerns." Such of these as he considers adhere to accurate historical data and truly depict the times of which written, he recommends in his Maverick page which reaches thousands of readers who are interested in that type of material.

Mr. King deplores the numerous books being published, written by authors who know nothing of the people, customs, or times which they attempt to describe in their stories.

'Babs' Accuses 'Insulted' Husband

Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow accused her husband of extortion, blackmail, physical threats, ruining her, planning suicide or a duel, and said he was ruthless when she offered him $250,000 as a gift. The Countess is shown above, the count as he was at the left as he emerged partially from his Park Hotel.

COUNT ASKED FIVE MILLIONS, LAWYER SAYS

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow's battery of noted legal talent today accused her titled Danish husband of demanding $5,000,000 and their two-year-old son Lance in return for a divorce in a tense hearing in Bow Street court.

In the course of two and a half hours of sensational testimony to support charges against the handsome Count, he also was accused of threatening to shoot an unnamed Mayfair society man "like a dog."

The golden-haired, black-clad heiress kept her sad child-like eyes on the back of her husband's head as her attorneys declared he had threatened to "put her on the spot" and had laughed at a proffered gift of $250,000 as "an insult."

The hearing was adjourned until July 13. Today's testimony was on the Countess' charges that her husband had placed her in fear of her life or bodily harm.

He was released again on bail of £2,000 ($10,060), as in the case of his first hearing last Friday immediately after returning from France to face his wife's charges.

William M. Mitchell, solicitor for the Countess who has charged her Danish husband threatened her, testified he told the Count that the Woolworth heiress would offer £50,000 ($250,000) as "an out and out gift."

"The only ground on which the Countess wanted a divorce was incompatability," the solicitor added. "There was no one else concerned at all.

"The Count said £50,000 was laughable. He said it was an insult. I told him, 'I wish someone would insult me.'"

Previously testimony was given that the Count threatened "to fight a duel with a man and put his wife on the spot."

CIO ACTION AGAINST POLICE IS CONTINUED

NEW ORLEANS, July 5 (AP)—Judge Wayne G. Borah in Federal District Court today continued until July 15 hearing on a petition of the Committee for Industrial Organization seeking to have the police restrained from interfering with their members in a C I O labor organization campaign here.

The hearing was continued from last Friday until today for arguments on federal court jurisdiction. Today new motions were filed and Judge Borah said the case would be resumed on the 15th with arguments on the new motions rather than consider it by piecemeal today.

Yellow Cabs, the latest group in which a strike was called by the C I O rolled on the street today under police guard after being parked over the week-end in the Yellow Cab lots.

Police arrested every picket encountered. About a score were taken in a police drive "to prevent trouble."

NAMES OF PRINCIPALS IN 2 BIRTHS SIMILAR

In Pampa hospital Friday were two proud mothers, Mrs. Cloyd J. Campbell and Mrs. Floyd C. Campbell but they didn't know each other. Nor did one know that the other was in the hospital.

Each was the mother of a bouncing baby boy. Similarity of names was not particularly noticed by nurses until charts were compared and it was learend that Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Campbell had named their son Ronald Lee and that Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Campbell had named their boy Donald Lee.

Yesterday the mothers became acquainted. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Campbell reside at 1050 Snyder street and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Campbell at 809 West Foster avenue.

PAMPA'S BAND TAKES FIRST

Playing swing music in the manner of Benny Goodman and his orchestra the Pampa High school band yesterday afternoon won first place in competition with Amarillo, Memphis and Clarendon bands at the Clarendon Fourth of July celebration.

Winston Savage and his band were plainly lost as they played the Old Apple Tree, Josephine etc. in swing time. The contesting bands marched from a given spot, playing to the band stand where each played three numbers.

Director Savage was presented with a beautiful large bat'n by Homer Mulkey. Earlier in the day Ray Robbins, director of the Clarendon band, was presented with a trophy from the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce in appreciation for the appearance of the band at the Top O' Texas Fiesta. The presentation was made by Garnet Reeves.

Other highlights of the Clarendon celebration included a singing contest, baseball games, rodeo, fiddlers contest, fire works and dances.

Before going to Clarendon, the Pampa High school band stopped at McLean where a concert was given at 10 o'clock and where the band participated in a huge parade at 11 o'clock. The beautifully uniformed Kellerville band, newly organized, and the McLean band were features of the parade.

During the afternoon a free rodeo and free polo game were feature attractions. Thousands lined the streets for the parade and an estimated 2,500 attended the rodeo and polo game.

This afternoon Director Savage is contacting Pampa musicions desiring to play in the Cowboy band which will greet President Roosevelt in Amarillo next Monday.

GERMAN GENERAL AND 28 AIDES LEAVE CHINA

HANKOW, July 5 (AP)—The German General Baron Alexander Von Falkenhausen and 28 of his assistants left Hankow for home today, ending a nine-year period of German military association with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's army.

Prior to the Chinese-Japanese war, successive German military experts helped General Chiang standardize equipment, promoted military training and acted as general advisors in building a modern fighting force.

Despite the link between Berlin and Tokyo in a pact against communism, the German advisors remained with Chiang through the first year of the conflict with Japan.

Only Berlin's reported urgent recall instructions were said to have led Von Falkenhausen to ask for release from his contract.

NEW SEASONAL HEAT MARKS SET IN TEXAS

(By The Associated Press)

Texas' fair tonight and Wednesday; not quite so warm in the Panhandle Wednesday, was all the hope for relief from the heat the weather bureau could offer Texans Tuesday.

Temperatures that passed 100 on Independence day in many Texas cities set new seasonal heat records. The mercury hit an official 103 at Corsicana Monday, and prepared for a new run at the record with 90 at 8 a. m. Tuesday.

Dr. Jos. L. Cline of the Dallas weather bureau looked to the extreme northwestern part of the state for the only possible relief in sight. He said it would not be quite so hot up there tomorrow, but how that would affect the remainder of the state was still unknown.

The weather was clear and early morning heat seemed characteristic of the wave.

WITHDRAWAL PLAN DUE TO BE ACCEPTED SOON

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Early acceptance by Spanish Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco and the Spanish government of a British plan to withdraw foreign volunteers from Spain was forecast today.

The prediction was heard as representatives of 27 countries assembled for a full session of the European Non-Intervention committee under Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary.

Upon adoption of the scheme, Great Britain will send a 70-page printed document detailing the project for withdrawing volunteers from Spain to both Spanish factions with the request for urgent consideration.

Reports reaching London from Burgos, Franco's capital, said the generalissimo was prepared to accept the plan unconditionally upon receiving it.

Although Soviet Russia made reservations to her acceptance of the project, other major powers accepted the scheme after a year of bickering and frequent deadlocks necessitating many amendments to the original proposal.

FDR's Trip May Be Most Spectacular Political Tour

HUGHES IN NEW YORK TO HOP FOR PARIS

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Howard Hughes, the lanky millionaire from California, is in town wearing a brown felt hat which has seen better days, and presently he is going to fly to Paris just for the experience of flying to Paris.

Whether he will go on around the world, he says, depends on how things look when he gets to Europe.

The only man who ever has flown to Paris from New York is Charles A. Lindbergh. Of the many who have circled the world by air, including those in the Graf zeppelin in 1929, the late Wiley Post made the best elapsed time—7 days, 18 hours.

Hughes drifted on to Floyd Bennett airport in his two-motored transport ship last night after a leisurely, one-stop hop across the continent from Burbank, Calif.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt starts out on Thursday on a journey to San Francisco which may become the most spectacular bit of political torch-bearing he ever has done.

Such evidence of his intentions as can be gleaned from his own remarks indicates he is on the verge of striking a bold new course in politics—of venturing personally into realms which he previously left to his lieutenants.

The new course was outlined in his recent radio speech to the nation. Its purpose will be to keep in Congress those the President conceives to be "liberals" and to replace with new men so far as possible those he conceives to be "conservative."

Administration help for the "liberals" and opposition to the "conservatives" is not new. In the Florida Democratic primary this spring, Senator Pepper had frank administration support. But it came from James Roosevelt, the President's son and secretary, not openly from the President himself.

Other candidates have had the aid of such White House lieutenants as Secretary Ickes and WPA Administrator Hopkins.

The President has put in good words personally only for Senate Leader Barkley of Kentucky and of Senators Duffy of Wisconsin and McAdoo of California. Now it appears he may give up indirection in many cases.

BURRIANA OCCUPIED BY INSURGENT TROOPS

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier) July 5 (AP)—Insurgents swung down the Mediterranean coast toward Valencia today and occupied Burriana, important highway point 20 miles north of Sagunto. They also marched into Grao De Burriana, slightly to the east and directly on the coast.

Insurgents have been just outside Burriana since the capture of Villarreal June 17.

Occupation of the town followed Insurgent reports they had smashed government lines south of the Teruel-Mediterranean highway in the Sarrion sector.

Police Inspector Commits Suicide After 'Shakeup'

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Police Inspector Charles L. Neidig, 52, one of New York City's highest ranking police officers, who was transferred only three days ago in a department "shakeup," was dead today—by his own hand, police said.

Neidig, a policeman since 1908, was ordered "exiled" from his district in east side Manhattan last week to Ozone Park in Queens, a less important post, by Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine. Four lieutenants and 14 patrolmen under him also were transferred.

Large Crop of Peaches Appears Early in Season

In all slang phraseology there's no greater praise than to rate someone a "peach." And the fact that this designation has been applied widely for so long shows something of the high regard that mankind entertains for this member of the stone fruit family.

First peaches of the season are usually white fleshed and clingstones. Later the yellow-fleshed varieties come in. Except for the very early clingstones, the clingstones are usually more popular for canning and home pickling, the freestones are largely for eating raw and use in cooking and preserving.

But yellow or white, cling or free stone—they all present a problem in shopping. Most shoppers instinctively select peaches that are firm of flesh—that are free from blemishes—and a lovely blush. It is well, however, not to be too much impressed by the peach's beguiling blush.

More significant than the blush is the color underneath—the background color. This should be a whitish or yellowish. Peaches with a green "ground" color have been picked at too immature a stage. They won't ripen satisfactorily, probably shrivel and be tough and rubbery, lack flavor.

And, as in buying quantities of any fruit, it's a good idea to examine one or two to see that they are suited to the purpose for which you are getting them. Ripe peaches should be used immediately or kept in the refrigerator. Slightly underripe peaches may be left at room temperature to ripen.

Those who want definite information for canning peaches, or for the in-your-mouth eating, will find the peach a good source of vitamin A, in B and G. It contains considerable iron and calcium content, many of the yellow fleshed varieties rate exceptionally high in vitamin C.

As the peach is delicious in most meal planning, it's well to use them in different ways. Fruit should be washed and dried well before they are served, especially because they dislike moisture.

Peaches cut from uniform crescent shapes are good in combination with other fresh fruits in fruit cups and salads. The pulp of fresh peaches gives a delightful flavor and texture to ice cream or mousse. And the golden color of peaches from which a custard foundation is an appetizing as its refreshing contrast.

Among the many peach dishes, peach melba is a classic, a child's idea of a perfect peach dessert—good to eat and pretty. To make it, put a dipperful of vanilla ice cream in the hollow of a peach half. Then pour a raspberry syrup over the top with chopped nuts.

Other possibilities for using fresh peaches are peach bavarian cream—peach pie—cobblers—shortcakes—

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Kitchen slavery on Sunday is out of date. Have meals that keep the women of the house in the hot kitchen all morning while the men idle about don't make much sense in the American picture of equality.

Try a Sunday dinner like this one, and you'll approve of the idea that Sunday should be a day of rest and companionship for all the family.

Begin with a clear, fresh-vegetable soup. Pile as many greens and vegetables as you can get into a large pot. Sprinkle with salt, add just enough water to moisten and simmer. Strain the resulting liquor, and serve very hot with strips of oven-dried toast.

The dessert of old-fashioned strawberry shortcake calls for hot baking powder biscuits. These take in only about 12 minutes. Run them into the oven during the last 10 minutes of the casserole's cooking. Serve them with dinner. Keep the others warm for the dessert. Split, butter and fill with fresh strawberries cut in half and slightly sugared. Serve with lightly whipped cream.

For the main dish, use this 3-in-1 combination of meat, potatoes and vegetable. It takes only one hour to cook and greatly reduces Sunday dishwashing without reducing the food eating men expect on Sunday.

Lamb Chops En Casserole

Fresh lamb chops, 1-4 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, 15 small new potatoes, 2 pounds fresh peas (2 cups shelled), 1-4 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter.

Cut fat from chops, sprinkle them with 1-4 teaspoon salt, and few grains pepper, and brown slightly in their own fat. Arrange the chops around the sides of a shallow glass casserole. Quarter the potatoes, place the scraped new potatoes in the center. Add water, sprinkle with salt and put bits of butter over the top. Cover the casserole and bake in a moderate oven (370 degrees F.) for about one hour or until chops are tender.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART.

The mother who wants her daughter to grow up to be an attractive young woman never tells the child that she is awkward, that her hair is unmanageable or allows old children in the family to tease the little girl about any physical characteristic.

After all, self confidence makes for poise and the kind of charm which puts others at their ease. And it, at nineteen, your daughter is a poised, mannerly young woman, appreciative full well the importance of good health habits scrupulous cleanliness, good posture and perfect grooming, she'll be attractive whether she is a beauty or not.

Naturally, every child needs criticism. But it can be the building-up, not the tearing-down, variety. Instead of telling small Mary that she embarrasses you every time she stumbles against the furniture in front of your guests, teach her how to enter a room, how to stand tall and straight with her little chest lifted and no exaggerated hollow in the corner of her backbone. Once in a while, after the guests are gone, pat her a compliment about the nice way she shook hands with Mrs. Smith. You like compliments, don't you? So does Mary.

Then, too, you ought to be a living example to your little daughter. How can you look her in the eye and complain about unbrushed hair if you know that you never brush your own? Or tell her to speak softly and clearly if your own voice is loud and you're shy-shod? Or expect her to become about clean nails, good posture and brown skin if you don't do these things yourself?

And, of course, the very worst thing you can do is compare Mary unfavorably with her sister who is naturally prettier or much more poised. This sort of thing has made countless numbers of 14-year-olds (and many older) often quite desperate to try to do anything at all to make themselves more attractive.

Wash Away the Long, Hot Days With Cool Drinks

Tinkling ice and the aroma of tea coffee or fruit juices announce the arrival of that welcome tray of summer thirst-quenchers. Gaily-garnished and passed from an attractive tea bar and service these cooling drinks are a refreshing delight after a motor trip, shopping tour or tennis game.

Fruit Juice Supply

Save juices left from the canned and fresh fruits you use in salads or desserts in covered jars.

Most people like their summer beverages very cold—with plenty of chopped ice or ice cubes in the glass. But since melted ice dilutes the drink most beverages must be made extra strong. You can freeze your fruit juices in your refrigerator trays and serve these cubes instead of ice.

To give a fuller flavor you may substitute iced tea for water in many drinks. Ginger ale or charged water, too, will give added sparkle if they are mixed into the drink just before serving time.

Combination Flavors

Combine several fruit juices in one drink to get variety in flavor. Apricot, pineapple and grapefruit juices fraternize well. So do grape, orange, pineapple and prune juices. Grapefruit, pineapple, currant and loganberry juices make a delicious concoction. For an exotic drink mix gooseberry with prune and pineapple. Remember, too, to add a bit of lemon juice—or serve lemon slices—with almost every chilled drink. Mint extract, finely-chopped mint or grated orange and lemon rinds give an appealing flavor contrast.

Sweeten your nectars with the old-fashioned sugar and water syrup you used to serve with pancakes. Make up a quart or two at a time and use it as you need it. Add some bark cinnamon and whole cloves during the boiling process—for a spicy touch.

Old Fashioned Sweetener

Strained honey and maple syrup are also delicious sweeteners. But be careful not to sweeten tart drinks too much — if you want them to be real thirst-quenchers.

Garnishes are very important in making summer drinks attractive. Red and green cherries are standbys. Vary them, once in a while, with mint leaves dipped in orange juice and sprinkled with granulated sugar, twists of lemon or orange rinds, or candied fruit strings.

Sprinkle a little cocoanut over the top of your drink to give it a frosty look. Add a few preserved strawberries or spiced blueberries as intriguing frills. And, once in a while, try candied ginger.

FANTASTIC FRINGES

Late fashion dispatches from midsummer Paris showings stress the importance of fringe as a medium of trimming. Mainbocher designs a sheer black rayon crepe daytime dress with squared neckline, molded bodice fitting closely at the waist, two deep rows of fringe, starting low on the hips, forming the skirt. Schiaparelli creates a simple white sheer crepe evening frock with flowing skirt worn under a short fitted, round-necked jacket with accented shoulders and above-elbow length sleeves made entirely of row upon row of narrow flame-colored fringe.

Want to be able to unmold cornstarch pudding easily? Add a tablespoon of butter to the mixture just before it is removed from the stove. Be sure to rinse the molds with cold water just before you fill them.

Add a few salted peanuts to the chocolate sauce you serve over ice cream or sherbets.

Ten Commandments Given for Beauty Seekers to Obey

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

The chances are about ten to one that your vacation will be more fun if you—

Get a new permanent wave from your own hairdresser before you leave home.

Make sure before you leave on an automobile trip that your host and hostess aren't the kind of people who insist upon getting up at the crack of dawn every single morning so as to be able to drive at least four hundred miles a day.

Don't take just one person's advice about the right resort to go to.

Decide definitely to get your coat of suntan gradually. Each year, too many people get a bad sunburn the first day of their vacation and then have to spend several days in bed.)

Don't go alone to a big, fashionable hotel where dancing and bridge are the only popular forms of recreation. (A less formal place is a better bet if you are going by yourself.)

Pick a resort where the sports you like and are reasonably good at, are a specialty. (Few people you meet will want to bother to teach you to play tennis or golf or badminton.)

Get your new shoes at least three weeks before you plan to leave and see that they are well broken in before you pack.

Take all the clothes you really need—but no more than that.

Don't attempt to decide whom you want to be with and whom you do not care for the first day after you arrive at the resort. (This general idea applies particularly on shipboard. It's pretty smart to stay in the background for a copule of days before making up your mind to go over and talk to the young man with the curly hair or the girl in the green sweater.)

Don't expect too much of it!

The organization of Camp Fire Girls was founded in 1912.

NUPTIAL VOWS READ BY PAIR ON SATURDAY

The first marriage to be performed in the new parsonage of the First Methodist Church was solemnized Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock when Miss Nadean Smoot of Bethel, Missouri, became the bride of William E. Tarbet in a simple ring ceremony with the Rev. W. M. Pearce, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride was attractively attired in blue sheer with white accessories.

Attending the service were Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Sickal and Miss Johnie Hodge.

Mrs. Tarbet, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smoot of Bethel, Missouri, attended Kirksville State Teachers College and has been teaching school for the past two years in Shelbyville, Missouri.

Mr. Tarbet, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tarbet of Shelbyville, Missouri, came to Pampa four months ago and is connected with the American National Insurance Company here. He attended Chillicothe Business College in Chillicothe, Missouri.

The couple will be at home in Pampa.

Virginia Cooks Rest On Syllabub Dessert

RICHMOND, Va.—David Crockett, famed marksman pioneer, turned to his hostess at dinner:

"A delightful meal, ma'am. Fine bird. Fine ham. A delightful meal, ma'am."

"And how, Mr. Crockett," asked the lady, "did you like the dessert—the syllabub?"

"Is that what it was?" countered Crockett. "Well, to tell you the truth, ma'am, I liked it fine. But it seemed like I shot at something—and missed."

A Cloudy Foundation

That's one story told in Virginia about one of the South's strictly sectional desserts—syllabub, the lightest of light after-dinner concoctions and the foundation, or rather the cloud, on which many another dessert has been built.

But Davey Crockett wasn't born until 1786 and syllabub was famous long before his time. Go back, for instance, to William Byrd (1674-1744,) whose home, Westover, was "the quintessence of Virginia aristocracy."

Byrd reputedly was the first man of letters in North America and he was an admirer of "that bewitching vegetable, tobacco." Of a visit to Colonel Spotswood, also Virginian, Byrd wrote that after dinner they fell to talking. He said:

"... Our conversation with the ladies, like whip sillabub, was very pretty, but had nothing in it."

That's a little hard on the Virginia ladies, but it shows that syllabub (as it's spelled today) had even then the elusive quality that evoked Davey's target simile.

Jefferson's Daughter

Sylabub is not mentioned often in books on Southern cookery. But Maria Jefferson, daughter of the sage of Monticello, included it in her book "The Virginia Housewife," published in Washington in 1824.

Mrs. John Munce, Jr., Richmond hostess, whose collection of old books on Southern foods is consided the best hereabouts, took her recipe for syllabub and its more formal by-product "Floating Island," from Miss Jefferson. Mrs. Munce pointed it out in the yellowed text of an original copy near a recipe for "Dough Nuts—A Yankee Cake" and just behind one for "Plebian Gingerbread."

"We serve it often," Mrs. Munce said. "It's particularly nice when the main courses of a meal are rather heavy. As a matter of fact, I think there's a bowl of syllabub in the refrigerator now. We'll try some ..."

"... And now," asked Mrs. Munce when we had finished, "wasn't that nice?"

It was indeed. But then there was something in what Davey Crockett said.

Maybe it's the lightness of syllabub that's so elusive. For there's another old story about the dessert that runs like this:

A little boy was given a dish of syllabub to deliver to a sick neighbor. The boy got there, but there but there was no syllabub in the dish. Well, what would any father have done in the days when they believed that to spare the rod was to spoil the child? Ah, yes.

But all the while his father was spanking him, the little boy insisted he hadn't eaten the syllabub. The wind got under the cloth that covered the dish and blew the syllabub away.

How to Make Syllabub

Maria Jefferson, daughter of the President, wrote this recipe for good old Virginia syllabub, but forgot to specify quantities. Those given have been supplied by Mrs. John Munce, Jr., a Richmond, Va., hostess who serves a famous syllabub:

To a pint of top milk, add a half-cup of white wine and a quarter-cup of sugar. Whip until frothy, fill parfait glasses nearly full and crowned with whipped cream, seasoned.

Syllabub Plus

"Have the bowl nearly full of syllabub, made with milk, white wine and sugar; beat the whites of six new laid eggs to a strong froth and mix with it strawberry or raspberry marmalade enough to flavor and color it; lay the froth lightly on the syllabub; first putting in some slices of cake; raise it in little mounds, and garnish with something light."

SUCCESS IN MERINGUES

Having just the right amount of sugar to make your topping tender and crisp is one of the fine points of making lemon meringue pie. About three tablespoons of sugar to one egg white (or a little less, if you wish it not quite so sweet is the right amount. Beat the whites until stiff and whip the sugar in a little at a time until the mixture is stiff enough to stand alone. Add flavoring. Be sure that the pie filling is cool before the meringue is added. Bake in a slow oven until the top is toast brown.

Need a hurry-up meal? Combine all your left-over vegetables with a savory cream sauce. Add some grated cheese and heat. Serve the combination on mashed potatoes into cakes or pour it over crackers or toast. You can add a little left-over gravy, too, for flavor.

Afternoon Dress

Unsophisticated, guileless and, essentially cook-looking, is this Mainbocher afternoon dress, which features the schoolgirl silhouette. It is made of multi-colored striped net and is worn over a black silk crepe sheath.

ART COLLECTION DISPLAYED BY PAMPA VISITOR

An exhibition of 19 paintings by Glen Cooper Henshaw of New York City is being shown by Miss Lorene McClintock at the home of Miss Florence Jackson, 117 South Russell street, this week.

Miss McClintock, who has been in charge of the Barbizon Plaza Art Gallery in New York City for the past six months, is showing the pictures during a brief visit with friends here. After leaving Pampa, she will begin a tour of larger Texas cities where the exhibition will be shown.

Thomas Simonton of the New York American has pointed out that Henshaw's paintings illustrate the work as he perceives it. Consequently they are honest, logical and intelligent. His pictures blaze with color. Many of them are simply studies in color effects, effects occasionally magnificently attained and presented, Mr. Simonton has stated.

All lovers of art are invited to visit the exhibition, which is located at the rear of the old Schneider hotel. Miss McClintock may be contacted by calling telephone number 825.

BRIDAL VEIL DEPARTURE

NEW YORK (AP)—Lilly Dache defied tradition recently and produced one of the most striking wedding veils of the season. She designed it of delphinium blue chiffon for a New York bride. The veil, worn with a sheer white crepe bridal gown, swung in three train-like streamers from a close-fitting turban of the same material. The bride carried delphiniums.

PARIS LIKES FALSE FLOWERS

PARIS (AP)—Embroidered boutonnieres keep their place on lapels, and need never to be renewed as ordinary flowers do. Mixed flowers are chic for them. The favorite red, white and blue, of poppy, daisy, cornflower, may embroider a lapel on a navy wool bolero, on a beige linen tailleur jacket, or white pique swagger.

ANTI-BURSTING NOTE

Lightly prick each cocktail sausage with a knitting needle—to prevent it from bursting during cooking. Put the sausages into a frying pan, cover them with water and let them simmer five minutes. Drain off the water and brown the sausages. Insert wooden picks and stick the other ends of the picks into a large red apple.

Landowners estimate that great-tailed grackles annually destroy one half barrel rice to each acre in the Eagle Lake rice fields. Grackles sometimes take four barels of rice to the acre from exposed fields.

'IMMUNE' PORT HELPS BRITON ANSWER FOES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

NEW YORK, July 5—Spanish Insurgent leader Francisco Franco's offer to name an "immune port" through which British shipping can trade with his enemy (The Spanish Loyalists) without being attacked by his bombers, must be close to unique in military annals, but it is chiefly interesting because indirectly it trends a bit towards general European peace.

There undoubtedly are several reasons for Franco's proposal, which at first glimpse shows a picture of astonishing generosity in war, but we begin to get down to realities when we realize that he presumably is acting on the advice of his patron, Mussolini.

This means that the Italian dictator is trying to foster friendly relations with England. In other words, British Premier Chamberlain can count some gain—maybe not much, but some—in his hotly debated scheme of trying to rescue Europe from chaos by bargaining with the dictators instead of threatening them.

For background of this situation we must go back a few weeks to the time when a serious British Cabinet crisis arose over Chamberlain's policy of dickering with the Rome-Berlin prodigy, who was all for telling Mussolini and Hitler where to get off, donned his shining armor of idealism and rode out of the cabinet on his white horse. Eden has a lot of supporters and the political battle has become bitter.

Port to be 'Immune'

Chamberlain forthwith negotiated a pact with Mussolini, to be effective when the Spanish Civil war is finished. Since then the British Premier has been straining every nerve to terminate the conflict and, by setting the Anglo-Italian agreement into motion, to vindicate his policy in the face of the growing attacks from his opposition at home.

Coincidently, and rather strangely, the Spanish Insurgents increased their bombing of British merchantment which were trading with the Loyalists. The British government protested strongly, but Chamberlain declined to employ force against Franco, on the ground that such a move might easily precipitate another world war.

Finally the other day Mussolini intervened to help his newly made friend Chamberlain, and there were promises that the Insurgent bombings would cease. On top of that comes the proposal from General Franco to make the ancient port of Almeria, in Loyalist territory on the Mediterranean, "immune" from attack against British shipping trading with the enemy.

One suspects that the Franco offer was partly for the purpose of giving Chamberlain something further with which to answer his political opponents, who are making things most uncomfortable for him. However that may be, it is safe to assume that it means Mussolini and Chamberlain are working together in this instance.

pre-holiday prediction based on recent trends.

Reports to the public safety department showed eight persons died in traffic against 16 they feared might be victims of speed, recklessness and carelessness.

There were only two reported drownings compared with an estimated five.

Last year 12 persons died in roadway mishaps and the year before that 22 succumbed.

Nine persons actually died as the result of crashes this year but one occurred on a race track and was not classified as a traffic fatality.

Capt. Homer Garrison, assistant public safety director, attributed the reduction over past years to more cautious driving which he said probably resulted in part from widespread publicity given pleas by the department and local authorities for saner driving.

A native of White Plains, Ga., Rev. Wright was educated at the University of Georgia. He was ordained a Methodist minister in Atlanta in 1891, and his First Texas pastorate was at El Paso in 1908-11.

He served churches also at Galveston, Houston, Waco, Austin, Fort Worth and Taylor. He had been presiding elder of the San Antonio, Austin, Weatherford and Corsicana districts.

At the time of his death he was a commissioner of the Methodist hospital here.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—Profit sellers had their innings with the stock market today, at the worst, leading issues were knocked down 1 to more than 3 points.

Activity was greatest just after the opening when the list churned rapidly and, for a brief period, the ticker tape fell behind. From the first hour on volume dwindled appreciably and at the close quotations were above low marks in many cases. Transfers were around 1,700,000 shares.

Steels, motors and specialties, star performers of one of the quickest recoveries in market history, were among the first to retreat. Rails and utilities gave a fairly good account of themselves.

Traders returned from their lengthy holiday without any noticeable wilting of optimism, but most decided to cash in on the belief the recent sharp and almost uninterrupted rally called for at least a sizeable technical correction.

Numerous "stop-loss" orders a trifle under Saturday's final prices were reached in the forenoon and these, coupled with sporadic short selling, helped to unloosen a number of brokerage accounts.

The news, on the whole, was more cheerful than otherwise. There was little of an unexpected nature confronting Wall Street.

Prominent stocks on the drooping side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, American Smelting, Anaconda, Westinghouse, DuPont, Johns-Manville, Air Reduction, Chesapenke & Ohio, Loew's, Texas Corp., and Allis Chalmers.

Contesting the trend were Baltimore & Ohio, Consolidated Edison and Pennsylvania.

Wheat and cotton futures turned weak in the morning. The former at Chicago finished off 2⅜ to 2¾ cents a bushel. Corn was down ¼ to up ⅝. Cotton, in late dealings, was about 60 cents a bale lower.

Bonds did a bit better than stocks, although most were down at the last. Foreign currencies slipped in terms of the dollar. Near mid-afternoon sterling was off 11/16 of a cent at $4.95 and the French Franc .00½ of a cent easier at 2.78 3/16 cents.

Among curb market losers were such issues as Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Niles-Bement-Pond, Pepperell Mfg. and Jones & McLaughlin Steel, the last dipping around 6.

WELLS RITES HELD MONDAY

McLEAN, July 5.—Funeral services of Gene Wells, 17-year-old McLean football player who was crushed to death in a collision of the pickup truck on which he was riding and a horse seven miles west of Shamrock on Highway 66 early Sunday morning, were conducted at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Baptist church at Lela.

Members of the McLean football squad served as pallbearers and flower girls were from the Lela community.

Rev. Troy A. Sumrall, pastor of the McLean Baptist church, had charge of the service, which was attended by hundreds of friends and relatives.

Wells is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wells, of Lela, brother, Ralph, and a sister.

Dale Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wells, who with Gene was riding on the front fenders of the truck when the accident occurred, is still in a critical condition in a Shamrock hospital. Dale suffered severe bruises, shock, back and possibly internal injuries. Dale is not a brother of Gene Wells, as was incorrectly stated in a story Sunday.

The accident that resulted in the death of Gene Wells and injuries to Dale Wells happened when the pickup truck met a large bus and the lights of the bus made it difficult to see a horse standing at the right side of the road. The truck hit the horse head-on and the animal struck the Wells boys and smashed in the front of the truck.

Riding in the cab of the truck were Leon and Cecil Hicks and Delas Hayes, all sons of prominent farmers in the Lela community.

Which Democratic primaries constitute such instances will be a matter for the President and his advisers to decide. Among the latter there is at present little evidence of agreement.

Reports are that the group of which Thomas A. Corcoran is the sparkplug wants to force out of their seats—or at least attempt it—all those Senators and Representatives who opposed the administration in any material way.

The practical politicians, such as Postmaster General Farley, and a few nationally cautious people, on the other hand, are advising the President to lay-off all except such outstanding administration critics as Senators Smith of South Carolina, George of Georgia, and Tydings of Maryland.

The forthcoming trip to the west coast will indicate how far Mr. Roosevelt intends to go in his personal intervention in the primaries.

He will make three speeches in Kentucky, in all of which he is expected to voice clearly his support of Senator Barkley, who is opposed by Gov. A. B. Chandler.

The President will give a pat on the back to Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat, Okla., seeking renomination against Gov. E. W. Marland and Representative Gomer Smith.

Whether he will have anything to say for or against Senator Alva Adams, Democrat, Colo., during a stop at Pueblo July 12 has not been disclosed. Adams, opposed by Judge Benjamin Hilliard, has supported some adminsitration measures and criticized others.

He feels this gives the present generation a false idea of the formative years in the Southwestern states.

Handicapped by cataracts on his eyes, removed in February, he had glasses fitted just before leaving for Texas, so that he was able to read the first time in two years. During that period, Mrs. King had been his eyes, doing all the reading and, the past year, also the writing at his dictation.

Attracted by a badge of bright metal on the coat King carried on his arm, we discovered that he was a deputy sheriff or marshall in Los Angeles and licensed to carry a gun.

On being interrogated on what he liked to eat, he was non-mommittal, saying" whatever you put on the table, I'll eat and brag on it." We learned, however, that he liked his coffee boiled, drinks it nearly cold at every meal. He takes it black and strong, but cares for nothing stronger to drink. He gave us this recipe for making "good coffee." Put two pounds of ground coffee in two gallons of water, boil two hours, drop in a horseshoe. If it sinks, the coffee hasn't boiled enough.

That 'Other' Gettysburg Address

As visitors from all parts of the United States gather at Gettysburg, Pa., to hear President Roosevelt speak on the 75th anniversary of the greatest battle of the Civil War, automobiles replace the horse-drawn vehicles shown in this historic photo which was taken as Abraham Lincoln made his famous address on the same spot. The picture was made by David Bachrach, famous photographer, who then was working for a magazine.

Blue And Gray Begin Last Retreat From Gettysgurg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 5 (AP)—Bound by comradship, the straggling ranks of the Blue and Gold began their last retreat today from the field where they locked in combat 75 years ago.

Unlike 1863, when the Gray was pursued and the Blue the pursuer, they left together—in peace. They are pledged by their own words and the words of their president to "eternal peace in a nation united," a pledge uttered in the shadow of the flaming beacon atop Oak Hill that was lighted Sunday.

Some of the 2,000 veterans who have been here as guests of the government for the 75th battle anniversary know they will never return. Through one eventful week, they rekindled the campfires of their memory, lived again the days of '61 and '65 when brother fought against brother, neighbor against neighbor, and friend against friend.

Few of the 2,000 fought at Gettysburg; few of them can recall the futile fury of Pickett's charge or the bloody slaughter of the wheatfield and peach orchard. But they are heroes all, honored, as President Roosevelt put it on Sunday, "Not asking under which flag they fought then—thankful that they stand together under one now."

The last formal program for the veterans was the display of fireworks last night from the crest of Oak Hill where the peace light burns.

CENTENNIAL DIRECTOR TO STAGE XIT PAGEANT

DALHART, July 5. (Special) — Mark Hamilton, who will direct the XIT Historical Pageant in Dalhart during the third annual XIT Reunion August 8 and 9, is the man who directed the Texas Centennial Pageant at Dallas, the Centennial City, in 1936. The XIT pageant will be given in a great outdoor amphitheater both nights of the reunion.

Hal Worth of Dallas, charged with production of the pageant, bought most of the costumes and many of the other effects of the Dallas Centennial pageant, and also of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, staged by Billy Rose, New York showman, when they closed.

As a result he will bring to Dalhart, he said this week, more than $10,000 worth of wardrobes and lighting effects for the XIT pageant which will have a cast of 300 to 500.

ANIMAL TRAINER WON'T HAVE SHAVE, HAIRCUT

DES MOINES, Ia., July 5. (AP)—Aversa Blacaman, animaly hypnotist with the Hagenback-Wallace circus, told police today he's never had a shave or haircut and doesn't want to begin now.

He filed an information charging Howard Y. Bary, Philadelphia, Pa., circus owner, with threatening to cut off his hair and shave his beard if he didn't appear in his act.

Blacaman walked out of the show yesterday after a squabble over back pay. He remained in Des Moines while the circus went on with the 36 lions and 70 crocodiles he allegedly puts to sleep for the benefit of the customers.

TEXAS SEA SCOUTS ON LAST LEG OF JOURNEY

ROSSER, Kaufman county, Texas, July 5 (AP)—The "Sea Scouts" crew, navigating the Trinity river from Beaumont to Dallas, shoved off from here today on what they hoped would be a final lap of about 40 miles.

The crew, under the direction of Dean Tevis and Commodore B. M. Hatfield, expected to arrive at the docks within the Dallas city limits by nightfall.

RINGLING PERFORMERS TO JOIN BARNES SHOW

SARASOTA, Fla., July 5 (AP)—A 21-car train carrying performers and equipment of the Ringling Circus, forced by labor trouble to cut short its summer tour, was en route today to Redfield, S. D., to join the Al G. Barnes show.

General Manager George Smith, who accompanied the train, indicated the enlarged Barnes Circus would be headed eastward. One of several shows controlled by the Ringling organization, it customorily travels Western states.

Included in the acts joining Barnes is Frank (bring 'em back alive) Buck and Gargantua, the giant gorilla.

AMITYVILLE, N. Y., July 5 (AP)—Frank Buck, big game hunter and circus performer, nursed a lacerated index finger today, the result of a python bite suffered yesterday at his Massapequa zoo.

Buck was forcibly feeding the python, which had been on a hunger strike, when the 24-foot constrictor suddenly snapped its jaws shut on Buck's finger.

At the Reed General hospital officials said Buck was resting comfortably and would be discharged today or tomorrow.

HATCH COMMENDS FOR CIVIL SERVICE STEP

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—Senator Hatch (D., N. M.), who has been battling to keep government jobholders out of politics, credited President Roosevelt today with taking a big step in that direction.

The step, he said, was the President's recent order extending civil service to thousands of additional federal employes. Civil service rules ban political activity.

Administration critics, on the other hand, pointed out that the extension does not apply until next February, three months after the 1938 congressional elections.

The President's order, which officials said would extend the merit system to more federal employes than it ever covered, is designed to bring about 130,000 positions under civil service.

Harry B. Mitchell, head of the Civil Service Commission, estimated that about 60,000 of the positions, however, would be re-exempted on the commission's recommendation.

Samuel H. Ordway Jr., another commissioner, said that although future presidents might withdraw civil service status from all the jobs involved, it was extremely unlikely such a step would be taken for political purposes.

GOMEZ' SMOOTH OUT DOMESTIC TROUBLES

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Out of his baseball slump, Vernon ("Lefty") Gomez, pitching ace of the New York Yankees was reported smoothing out his marital bobbles today with his showgirl wife, June O'Dea.

Lawyers for both sides said the couple were seeing each other, and that Miss O'Dea, known as No. 1 Yankee rooter before her separation suit last May, was back in her ball park seat with zestful cheers for "Lefty."

In her suit, Miss O'Dea charged the southpaw hurler with plenty of speed but no control in his home life. Simultaneously, Gomez went into a slump in the pitcher's box.

But apparently he had both angles under control today, and his attorney, Lowell Birrell, admitted the suit might end with nothing more than a couple of errors chalked up.

PAMPANS BACK FROM 'FRISCO CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Odus Mitchell and children returned last night from San Francisco, where Mr. Mitchell president of the Pampa Rotary club, was a delegate at the Rotary International convention held June 19-25 at San Francisco's Civic Center and at the Fox theater.

'RIPPER' DAVIS STILL TREE-FIGHTING CHAMP

DISNEY, Okla., July 5 (AP)—Mighty "Ripper" Davis made good his boast—he's tree fighting champion of this Grand river valley boom town.

He hurled Wild Red Angelo, who called himself an untamed and uncrowned brass knuckle expert, out of a big oak tree yesterday. Several thousand perspiring visitors, raucously celebrating Disney's first July 4, roared approval.

Ripper let out his Tarzan roar, feinted Angelo out of position, wedged him into a crotch of the tree and hammered him into submission. Then he hurled the Wild Red from the oak and emitted a victory cry.

WHEAT LOANS DECLARED MANDATORY BY WALLACE

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—Secretary Wallace said today that private crop estimates made it obvious that mandatory wheat loan provisions of the new farm act would be placed in operation.

Wallace, calling at the White House, said he left a memorandum on the wheat loan situation with President Roosevelt.

Under the farm law, Wallace said, the loan will be 52 per cent of the $1.14 parity price, or about 59 cents.

NO. 4— Continued From Page One

ts of threats they said the distraught Count had made in Paris.

They said he talked of a "duel," called his wife obscene names, threatened to seize his son and "give Barbara three years of hell and hea lines."

He hinted, too, of suicide, they said, and declared people would blame his wife for driving him to it.

On cross-examination Mitchell testified the Count was "seriously disturbed" because of "another gentleman" and wanted to know if the Countess would marry him if she got a divorce.

It was Mitchell also who disclosed that the Countess first thought of a settlement of £250,000 ($1,250,000) on her estranged husband but decided to offer the smaller sum, $250,000 as "a gift."

There also was mention of a letter belonging to the Countess which the Count had taken and which "grieved him very much." Mitchell added that the Count had studied grounds for divorce in Danish law.

At another point Mitchell accused the Count of "blackmail talk" and said the Count had told him he made a mistake in signing a "New York deed," by which a husband's rights to certain of his wife's property.

Wearing a blue serge suit and blue shirt and holding a brief case, the Count, in the raised dock, constantly wrote notes and passed them to his attorney, Norman Birkett.

He looked at the Countess just once. She glanced quickly at the floor as he turned his head and he quickly faced forward again.

The Countess wore a large black hat and a long fragile veil covered her face. She came into court wearing a huge silver fox piece but discarded it in the stuffy room.

Thunderclaps shook the packed courtroom and rain drummed on the skylight as Sir Patrick described the Count as a man of "violent and ungovernable temper."

The Count snorted and Barbara smiled when Mitchell told how he burst into tears when he read a letter from her.

Mitchell read a letter from the Countess which he had given the Count. In it she said she could not live with him any longer and asked him not to try to see her.

Mitchell said he had been authorized by the Woolworth heiress to increase the proffered "gift" from $250,000 to a limit of $500,000.

Questioned by Birkett he said the Count told him he had a letter from a former chauffeur telling him of "happenings" at the Countess' Regent's Park mansion since he left London.

The Count, who became the former Barbara Hutton's second husband a day after she divorced the late Prince Alexis Mdivina at Reno May 13, 1335, left their home early in June for Paris.

Soon thereafter she placed a guard around the mansion and went to court to obtain the summons on which today's hearing was based.

HOLIDAY HERE SAFEST, SANEST, YET HILARIOUS

Pampa, for the first time in many years, maybe in history, celebrated a sane yet joyful Fourth of July. Not a single fatality occurred and not a single accident needing medical attention was reported at local hospitals.

In Pampa, Police Chief J. L. Downs, Sheriff Roberta Talley and Fire Chief Ben White said it was the sanest, safest, nicest and most hilarious holiday in years."

Only two drunks were arrested by the city police while the sheriff's office reported no business. One or two minor accidents were reported but no one was injured.

Pampans spent the day at home, at the golf course, the swimming pool or attending celebrations in nearby towns. Many went to Canadian to the Anvil Park rodeo. Others went to McLean, Clarendon and Borger where celebrations were held.

Only observance in Pampa was last night when the American Legion presented an enjoyable fireworks display south of the city. The Legionnaires also held a sunrise dance yesterday morning and a midnight dance last night.

Firemen were called north of the airport yesterday to extinguish a grass fire for their only run of the week-end.

HAVENS FOR POLITICAL REFUGEES SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—South America and the British Dominions, in the opinion of the state department, should be the principal havens for the oppressed Jews and other political refugees of Germany and Austria.

The transportation of the refugees, American officials also believe, should be financed in large part by private organizations of the wealthier nations such as the United States and Great Britain.

These ideas will be presented to the international conference on refugees convening tomorrow at Evian, France, on the call of Secretary of State Hull. Delegates of 33 nations will attempt to arrange a haven for the hundreds of thousands of persons seeking new homes.

The United States will be represented by Myron C. Taylor, former head of the United States Steel Corporation.

A COUPLE OF REMINDERS

If a large amount of publicity had been given to the recent Atlantic City convention of the Industrial Research Institute, there'd probably have been considerable mind-changing going on about two convictions of long standing in this country.

The principal speaker at the convention's opening session was Maurice Holland, nationally known industrial research director. Holland stated frankly that both Germany and Russia were doing a vastly greater amount of valuable research in industry and business than the United States. "We want to increase the productivity," he said of this country's research body, "by giving national direction to their efforts."

It was agreed at the convention that there was a need here for "patient money—money willing to wait a long time for returns." Delegates to the convention were representatives of a number of the country's greatest businesses.

It seems that (Correction No. 1) there are actually other countries that are doing some things better than we. And it seems that (Correction No. 2) business is not the arch-enemy of everything savoring of long-range planning.

Business' disagreement with many political long-range plans has resulted in an unjust conception of the business man as a congenial short-sighted muddler-through. But business does its own long-range planning.

BON VOYAGE

A refreshing wind strayed into the news columns the other day and moved off laden with a briny smell of adventure.

A young skipper of a modest fishing vessel put out from New York harbor, bound northward for the Arctic. He looked forward to going as far as the ice would permit, and he guessed he'd be back along about September.

His name was Capt. Bob Bartlett, and he figured he'd be spending his sixty-third birthday somewhere north of Greenland. It was all old stuff to Captain Bartlett, but none of the excitement had gone.

He did his first exploratory sailing in 1897, with Peary. When he sailed from New York the other day it was his fifteenth polar voyage.

"All I want," he remarked before he weighed anchor, "is the strength to go in my little schooner, for that is all I have, and when she stops so do I."

Which sounds as if "Captain Bob" was a man content with little enough; but there's more than one man half his age who knows the captain is wealthier in life's treasures than most men can ever possibly hope to be.

BLUNDER

(From the Des Moines Register)

The appeal to the Workers' Alliance by Aubrey Williams, deputy Works Progress administrator, to "keep your friends in power" is a glaring blunder.

It supports the charge made by New Deal opponents that the administration is using relief money to keep itself in power.

Mr. Williams may not have meant that WPA workers, who make up the Alliance membership, should vote for candidates approved by the partty which is responsible for their paychecks, but it is difficult to construe his advice otherwise.

Every true friend of the administration will regret that it has put iself in the position, through one of its officials, of trying to make political profit out of the allegiances of relief and WPA enrollees, and out of the taxpayers' money which goes to their support.

That was in order for me to rest on the oars over the holiday. . . See how it works . . . So, on Saturday night I can write and say what a swell time I had on a picnic the following Tuesday and you would never know the difference, if I hadn't put in this explanation. . . . Written Saturday, July 2: . . . The Fourth of July sun really bore down out of a cloudless sky over the Panhandle yesterday. . . It was an ideal holiday. . . . That's how sure I am on Saturday night of how the weather will be next Tuesday. . You can let me know if I was too far wrong. . . I can also write on Saturday night that there will be at least one traffic death in the Panhandle over the double holiday and that several hundred will be killed in the nation. . . That's always a safe bet, too. . . The Panhandle prediction is a little tough, but we'll see how it works out. One of the greatest satisfactions of being a human being instead of an eel or an egg or something—a satisfaction which women have unaccountably been denied—is raising whiskers. . . Of course most men only get as far as a four-day stubble—on a camping trip or a stretch in the hospital—and then can't stand the itching and the wisecracks, and call it off. . . Or they just lie around and dream about the wonderful figure they would cut furnished with an imperial or a square or a spade, and let it go at that. But still, the opportunity is there if a man wants to take the plunge, and that's a great satisfaction in itself.

But more and more men seem to be going the whole hog these days. Not individually and spontaneously, but in groups, and with a purpose. Raising whiskers is becoming accepted as a proper method of celebrating almost any occasion. . . Take those Irish whiskers at Shamrock on St. Pat's Day. . . . And the pioneer "mops" they grow for Pioneer Day at Guymon.

The latest celebration is one to knock your eye out. Seventy male citizens of Washington, N. The avowed motive behind this particular spinach spree is patriotism. One of the movement's leaders has confided that the real motive is civic ambition. But a little bird whispers that the REAL motive, behind this and all such beard benders, is simply that old love of raising a beard. . . . Personally, I still favor the Paul Whiteman mustachio.

Meet The New Champ

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER,
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—Although the Senate Campaign Expenses Committee offers partial sanctuary for any WPA project worker who is subjected to political "intimidation," it is not yet cramping the style of President Roosevelt and other New Dealers who insist on supporting "liberal" candidates as distinguished from "conservatives."

There may be some backdown on one side or the other, but it looks as if the committee and the administration might engage in a running skirmish for the rest of the campaign season. The committee is dominated by anti-New Deal senators.

A curious sequence of statements began when Chairman Morris Sheppard announced that government officials who supported congressional candidates would be summoned before the committee. Roosevelt then flatly told the country he would support certain candidates in the primaries. Instead of suggesting that the President be called before the committee, Sheppard complimented the "fireside chat" and said: "He is entirely within his rights in discussing candidates for office."

What To Do? What To Do?

Other officials will insist on their right to speak or work for certain candidates in their capacity as "private citizens." Committee members haven't made up their minds exactly what to do about it.

"All government agencies must keep hands off primaries and elections," it said originally, conspicuously failing to say "all officials." Now it has described Deputy WPA Administrator Aubrey Williams' speech to the Workers' Alliance as "unfortunate" and warned against political speeches by "dispensers of funds."

Members of the committee besides Sheppard are Dave Walsh of Massachusetts, consistent New Deal foe, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, conservative administration critic, both recently named to the committee by Vice President Garner, who hopes to wrest control of the Democratic party from Roosevelt; Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who is firmly opposed to Roosevelt's efforts to "split" the party, and Wallace White of Maine, a Republican.

The committee will find, if it doesn't know it, that WPA directors in most states owe their political allegiance to sitting Democratic senators rather than to Harry Hopkins. In primaries to date this fact has favored Senators Pepper in Florida and Gillette in Iowa and Senator Joe Guffey's defeated ticket in Pennsylvania. It seriously handicaps Roosevelt's efforts to defeat certain senators up this year for re-election, although it aids New Deal incumbents such as "Dear Alben" Barkley in Kentucky.

About F. D. R. and Garner.

Mr. Henry M. Hyde visits and chats with Jack Garner early every morning when the vice president is in Washington. Garner calls him "the old farmer" and Hyde is closer to him than any other Washington correspondent. That's why it was most significant when Hyde wrote in the Saturday Evening Post, after citing an old report of a definite Garner-Roosevelt break:

"Sooner or later, such a break seems inevitable. . . . The open break may come—may be forced—at any time. For instance, if the president-breaker should announce his candidacy for a third presidential term, it is certain the old Texas cowhand will give a 'Yip!' and start shooting from the hip.

"But deeper and more fundamental than such political differences is the gulf between the economic and social philosophies of the two men."

The Capital Jigsaw

BY HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—The Alabama Coushatta Indians, wards of the state and federal governments, no longer appear in danger of "dying out," but, after a long period of decline are definitely on the increase.

This was one of several facts pertaining to the tribesmen which Governor James V. Allred reported after a recent visit to their reservation near Livingston, the only Indian reservation in Texas.

The Governor's visit was the first made to the Indians by the head of the state since the days of Sam Houston, who was known as the friend of all Indians and was active in locating the Alabama-Coushattas where they now are. He attended a "pow wow" at Livingston, saw what he described as extremely interesting dances and ceremonies, and was inducted into the tribes.

The tribes now number about 300 members, which is considerably more than 10 years ago, the Governor reported. At that time, swept by disease, poverty-stricken and generally in a state of social decay, he said, the Indians were saved by government rehabilitation program.

"It is a most interesting settlement," Governor Allred said, "and Texans ought to visit it more often. Located in a great thicket of pines, the reservation is very beautiful."

The settlement includes more than 55 small residences, a school building, a clinic, a teacherage and an industrial shop where Indian crafts are taught. It has a water and light system, a nurse, a doctor, a dentist and an Indian agent.

All this has been financed by state and federal overnments. The federal government currently is appropriating $6,000 a year for the Indian school, while the state for general purposes has appropppriated $14,586 for the first year of this biennium and $11,189 for the second.

The whole business is under supervision of the State Board of Control, which spends the federal as well as the state money.

Governor Allred recalled that "if it hadn't been for the Alabama and Coushatta Indians the Cherokees might have been allied with the Mexicans in Texas' war for independence and the difficulties in that struggle increased."

He also said the Indians furnished some soldiers to the Confederate army in the War Between the States, and a number offered to serve in the World war but were refused because they were wards of the government.

The Presbyterian Church has maintained a mission at the settlement for many years and most of the Indians are reported to be affiliated with that creed.

They have their own tribal organizations and are very law-abiding, both Governor Allred and Claud D. Teer, chairman of the Board of Control, said.

"There has never been a divorce among them and only three ever have gone to the penitentiary," the Governor said. "I call that a remarkable record."

The young Indians are especially adept at the game of basketball, he added.

Most of the Indians are farmers, but the crafts of basket-weaving and bead-making are being developed.

Governor Allred, Lieutenant Governor Walter F. Woodul and the former's son, aged four, all were taken into the tribes with ceremony, and, the Governor said, are the only white persons to receive that distinction except two, Sam Houston's granddaughter and Clem Fain of Livingston, who is known as the "Great White Chief."

For the Allred-Woodul induction, the Indians gathered at one end of a field and the white "candidates" with escorts at the other. A chief of the Indians and a member of the Texas Ranger force then advanced to the middle of the field and exchanged mutual expressions of respect. The chief broke a bow as indication of desire for peace and the Ranger threw down his gun as similar token there would be no war between white man and Indian. A pipe of peace was smoked and knives were passed over the Governor's and Woodul's bodies in a "cleansing" ceremony.

Young David became a member of the tribe in simpler manner the previous night. Chiefs shook hands with him, saying "I am your brother," and David solemnly replied, his father said, "I am your brother."

People You Know

Nobody pays the American Legion for putting on the fireworks display each year—and nobody pays to see the spectacular pyrotechnic (this one got the word from Earl Perkins who uses it glibly) shows. They are free and everybody is welcome to see them—even if one does get into a traffic jam after it's over with. The display was good last year and it was better last night, and the crowd was far greater. Of course, children made up a big part of the crowd, and that was as it should be, for children need to see fireworks on July 4, especially when the show ends with the United States flag as it did last night. Cheers at the sight of The Flag brings you right up to the point of the whole business of July Fourth. Then too it is far better for children to see fireworks than to shoot them. Until last year, there was no fireworks display that was open to the public, and it is hoped that the Legion started something they will keep up. The Legion deserves a bouquet and perhaps more for providing the fireworks show at no expense to the spectators who saw it. This one hails them for their patriotism and for their civic pride. The show last night was one of the best—and it was worth crawling and stopping for a half hour along the highway from the Southern Club after it was over with. Thanks, Legionnaires you gave us a thrill—and the kiddies a bigger thrill.

FIRST ABSENTEE VOTES CAST HERE ON SUNDAY

First votes in the first primary election of 1938 were cast here Sunday when four citizens voted absentee ballots at the office of the country clerk. No absentee ballots were called for yesterday, but this morning the country clerk's office mailed absentee ballots to the 75 persons who have written the office, requesting that ballot be sent them.

Absentee voting began Sunday and will end July 19, four days before the first primary election. Although the date for the beginning of absentee voting came on Sunday, the country clerk's office was open to those who wished to obtain ballots.

Pampa citizens who are planning vacation trips that will take them away from the city at the time of the primary election of July 23, have been asked to call at the county clerk's office and cast their ballots before leaving on their trips.

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 5—Walter Hoffman celebrated the Fourth of July very quietly. Silence is quite a treat for Hoffman because he is a noisemaker by profession — the powder-and-smoke man at Paramount.

For 28 years he has been blowing up things for the movies, and for 16 years before that he was an explosives expert for the army. But now, at the age of 67, Hoffman still has the healthiest respect for all boom-boom materials, and he doesn't believe in monkeying with firecrackers. Neither do his four children or his 15 grandchildren. A couple of great-grandchildren still are too young to understand his earnest dissertations on the unpredictability of firecracker performance.

SOME TAILOR-MADE CATASTROPHIES

When he personally makes a bomb or plants a charge, though, Hoffman knows exactly what will happen. He can detonate a stick of dynamite right at an actor's feet without blowing off his hat. Or he could take four sticks of dynamite and place them in a huge movie sound stage in such a way that he could guarantee that not a wall would be left standing after the charge went off. The latter trick would be done by filling a barrel half full of water and then suspending the dynamite half way down in the water.

For "Spawn of the North," Hoffman recently had to create the effect of blowing a hole in the side of a fishing tug, and without hurting anybody. He had a fake side built on the tug, and placed six sticks of dynamite so that the side of the actual boat was only slightly scorched by the blast.

"The Buccaneer" was another picture that called for a lot of smoke and noise without damage. All the cannons were made of wood, and the expert had to be mighty careful not to blow them to splinters when they were fired.

Worst accident he ever had was in 1930, in a big blast for "The Painted Desert."

He and his crew spent a month planting a ton and a half of black powder in a cliff. Huge chunks of rock flew like shrapnel, wrecked some distant trucks and equipment, and narrowly missed an unknown young actor named Clark Gable. A piece of rock ricocheted and mangled one of Hoffman's hands and broke a leg of one of his helpers.

THE RACKET RACKET GOES GREAT GUNS

At the studio, Hoffman works in shabby overalls and a dirty cap, and looks like a laborer. But thousands of lives have depended on his absolute authority during the fimling of war scenes and such, and no director can tell him how to do his work. They only can tell him what they want done; then he'll do it his way.

3. The President of the United States takes office on the even years.
3. Abaft means in front of.
4. A plaice is a kind of fish.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life . . .

By R. C. HOILES

Raising the Total Purchasing Power

Few people realize that every time any man works and produces wealth and exchanges it with another party, he is adding to the man's purchasing power he supplies. He benefits the man with whom he exchanges. In fact, both are benefitted. And the more things that are produced that the worker has to exchange, the higher all the workers' real wages producing other things becomes. Yet, in face of this fact, we permit combinations for restraint of trade, we pass laws to limit exchanges and interfere with exchanges. We even pay people for not producin. We make it a crime for men to work too long and produce too much. We make it a crime for the slow man to sell his services, if he cannot produce enough to sell them at the same rate per unit as the efficient worker can sell them.

The best way in the world to increase total purchasing power is to train people how to produce and to get people to understand that any many or group of men who teaches a philosophy of restricting expansion and trying to make things scarce, is lowering the real wages of all workers.

Please Explain

Those who oppose the restriction in production and paying farmers to not produce, cannot reconcile this kind of action with the command that man should multiply and replenish the earth. How this can be done and food, shelter and comforts of life provided for an ever increasing population, with public opinion sanctioning government that destroys wealth, has not as yet been explained.

If ever a God was justified in punishing a people for wickness he certainly is justified in punishing the people of the United States for rewarding people for keeping the comforts of life scarce. If anything is wicked, from the standpoint of social policies, this policy is wicked. How any humanitarian, who thinks farther than the present, can endorse it, is more than the writer of this column can comprehend.

A quail census of 8,949 acres in Walker county showed that the sandy loam farms and pastures average one covey to 78.6 acres and blackland farms and pastures average one covey to 116.2 acres.

How's Your Health?

How Prontosil Works

Scientists made the drug prontosil synthetically first, later producing its now more widely use dderivative, sulphanilamide. Prontosil's action of certain germs of the streptococcic variety was effectively demonstrated. Then the question was naturally asked, "How does it work?"

Prontosil has no effect on bacteria contained in a test tube. It does affect certain bacterial present within animal and human bodies. Since the living body is not passive toward chemical substances introduced into it, but frequently changes and alters them, the prontosil problem was tackled along these lines.

Soon it was found that prontosil is broken up in the body, and one of the resulting fractions is sulphanilamide. In contrast to prontosil, sulphanilamide was found to affect bacteria outside the body—that is, in test tubes.

It appeared reasonable then to use this seemingly more active fraction in preference to the parent compound. However, the matter has not been fully settled. Protosil, when acted upon by the body, may yield other effective fractions yet unknown. Still, suphanilamide is more easily tolerated by most patients and appears to yield as good results as prontosil.

Sulphanilamide actually kills certain of the streptococci, or at least prevents their multiplication. Apparently it does not stimulate the natural defense mechanisms of the body, as certain vaccines do. But by retarding the growth of bacteria, it prevents them from overwhelming the bodily defense mechanisms.

The extreme solubility of sulphanilamide within the water of the body is worth noting. Four hours after its administration, the chemical is uniformly distributed throughout the body.

The cerebro-spinal fluid lags somewhat in absorbing the compound, but this independent circulation system of the brain and spinal cord is notorious for resisting the passage of most other chemicals circulating in the blood.

Sulphanilamide has been brilliantly effective in treating infections of the central nervous system. Its effectiveness in treating strepococic blood infection, erysipelas and childbed fever has made it the outstanding contribution to chemotherapy.

East Texas offers excellent wild turkey and deer habitat but both are almost nonexistent in the area, except in some sections of the Big Thicket where a few deer are found.

Our Destiny Isn't Dream . . . It's Work

By BRUCE CATTON

Probably the greatest danger facing the American people today is not so much the danger that they will do something wrong as the danger they will fail to do something right.

In some ways we are a peculiar people. We have our emotional ups and downs, and they often carry us a long way; but underneath everything we still have that oldfashioned trust in our own star—the feeling that somehow, sometime, we shall come out all right because it is so written in the skies. And while that is a good feeling to have, it could lead to disaster.

Arthur T. Vanderbilt, president of the American Bar Association, touched on this point the other day in an address before Yale Law School alumni at New Haven.

"The most deadly problem facing America is not fascism nor collectivism," he said. "It is the widespread feeling that we have a destiny and that we shall reach it without individual thought, individual initiative or active public service."

Belief in one's destiny is a fine thing to have—but not if that belief gets set up as an idol, to be worshipped on holy days and fast days with fine talk and fancy phrases, but never to be served by actual deed.

We are, for instance, fond of saying that we are the richest country in the world and that therefore widespread poverty and unemployment should not long endure in our land. That is a perfectly sound and sensible statement; but when we simply let it rest there, and blissfully sit on our hands waiting for poverty and unemployment to end themselves, we are giving way to a foolish and dangerous trust in our own destiny.

What we need to understand is that no people's destiny is really written in the stars. It is written in the minds and hearts of men, instead, and is hammered out by toil, self-sacrifice, courage and the kind of practical, shirt-sleeves faith that moves mountains.

It was our destiny, perhaps, to win our freedom from England, to expand and conquer a continent, to establish a working democracy and to provide the common man with a practical vision of freedom. Yet those things were not done by a people who sat back and beamed fondly on the mysterious workings of fate; they were done by people who got down into the thick of things and worked their heads off.

So perhaps we would be better off if we stopped talking about our destiny. Our destiny is what we make it—no more and no less.

Yankees And Cleveland Tied For League Lead

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

If you're a New York fan and a believer in baseball tradition, you can look forward with some confidence today to a repetition of the "subway" world series of the last two years. If you're a Cleveland or Pittsburgh follower, you have just about as much ground for hoping to see your team on top.

The old rule, honored as much in the breach as in the observance, is that the team on top after July 4 is the one that will win the pennant. But it doesn't account for a tie, nor does it allow far a team that is going as if it couldn't be stopped.

The Indians were saved or the Yankees were "robbed"—according to how you look at it—when New York and Washington wound up in a 4-4 tie after 13 innings of their second game yesterday. The Yanks had won the first, 10-5, for their ninth straight victory. Cleveland, running into the Detroit Tigers who were smarting from three losses at St. Louis, took a double setback, 7-3 and 5-2. The net result was to leave the Yanks and the Indians tied for the lead, each with 41 victories and 25 losses.

On the National league side the Giants preserved their lead by walloping their "cousins," the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-0, and 16-1. But Pittsburgh's Pirates, moving up under full steam, defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1 and 3-2. That gave them seven straight triumphs.

Led by Joe DiMaggio, who made three hits in each game, including a homer in the second, the Yanks hit hard and often until they met up with Pete Appleton in the extra innings. Pete came in after the Senators had tied the score in the ninth and hurled no-hit ball until darkness forced a halt.

Cleveland, meanwhile, got only 11 safties off Elden Auker and Harry Eisenstat. Bobby Feller's wildness was too much for even two homers by Ken Keltner and one by Moose Solters in the opener, while Charley Gehringer's four-bagger with two on in the seventh won the nightcap for Detroit.

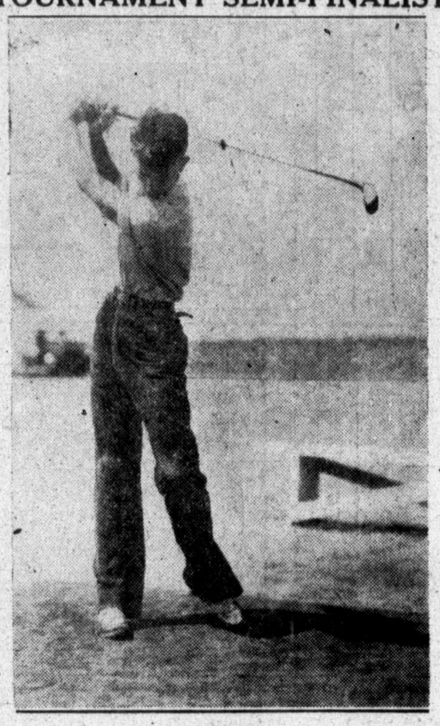

The twin triumph sent the Tigers into fourth place ahead of Washington, while Chicago's White Sox moved into sixth past the Athletics. The Pale Hose, on a five-run rally and Jack Knott's six-hit flinging, knocked off the Browns, 5-4, and 5-1. Philadelphia took a pair of beating from the Boston Red Sox, 8-5 and 5-2.

Giants Win Two

The Giants combined slick pitching by Hal Schumaker and Clydell Castleman with homers to win two games. Dick Bartell hit for the circuit, in each game and Jim Ripple, Lou Chiozza and Gus Mancuso drove out one homer apiece. The Pirates made the most of Cincinnati errors, although between them Cy Blanton and Bill Swift granted only 15 hits.

Chicago's third-place Cubs slipped a little further back when they divided a pair of 4-3 decisions with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Boston Bees and Philadelphia Phillies also broke even in tht Phils' first "home" game at Shibe Park. Five runs in the eighth gave the Bees the Opener, 10-5, and Claude Passeau's flinging paved the way for Philadelphia's 10-2 win.

TOURNAMENT SEMI-FINALIST

GROVER AUSTIN Jr.
Yesterday young Grover Austin took runner-up honors in the Vernon invitation golf tournament falling before the sub-par of Charles Reasor of Electra. Austin also was runner-up in the Greenbelt tournament played at Shamrock this year. He holds the course record at the Pampa Country Club with a 62.

Grover Austin Loses In Finals Of Vernon Meet

Charlie Reasor, who climaxed his victory march with two-under-par golf for a 3 and 2 win over Grover Austin of Pampa, bore the Vernon Hill Crest Country Club invitational title to his Electra home today.

The two squared off in an afternoon finals match yesterday after Reasor had downed 19-year-old Saxon Judd of Vernon, and Austin had taken his brother, Babe Judd, 15, in morning semi-finals.

Brilliant 12-under-par golf won two matches and first flight honors for Alfred Holton of Lubbock, who beat Dody Cole of Frederick, Okla., in the finals. Joe Bihl of Lubbock, West Texas champion, shot a 30 five-under-par, in a nine hole medal playoff, to win the championship consolation.

Austin also was runner-up in the Greenbelt Golf Tournament in Shamrock, falling before Frank Mitcham, Jr., of Shamrock. Young Mitcham dropped in the semi-final round of play in the Vernon tournament.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Old Arlie Latham, who was quite a ball player in his day, says Joe Dimaggio is the greatest of them all. . . Is Frankie Frisch going to transfer from St. Louis to manage the Dodgers next season? . . . In yesterday's double killing, rabid Dodger fans tried to startle the Giants by tossing lighted firecrackers on the field, and if you don't believe the Giants got steamed up, look at the score of the second game. . . Pickets in front of the polo grounds yelled, "don't patronize this place" as 50,000 customers swarmed through the turnstiles.

Babe Ruth looked like an alien enemy in a Brooklyn suit. . . Just can't get used to the big boy doing his stuff in National league parks. . . He belongs a piece further up the road. . . Fans gave him a tremendous hand as he came on the field and hollered their heads off when he lost a couple during batting practice. . . The Giant delegation to tomorrow's all-star game left for Cincinnati last night. . . Harry Danning went along to sub for the injured blimp, Babe Phelps. . . Betting here is the American league will make it five out of six, with few, if any, takers.

Louisville has a lightweight named Wishy Jones who is going palces. . . Iowa and Wisconsin are the teams apt to toss the surprise packages in the big ten next season. . . How is Burgess Whitehead getting along, anyway? . . . Have the Dodgers stopped Ruth from giving signals from the first base coaching line because he balled up too many plays?

SOONERS TAKE MAJOR HONORS AT ANVIL PARK

CANADIAN, July 5—This river bottoms city said "farwell" to some of the outstanding figures in Southwestern range competition as the final day of the 16th annual Anvil Park rodeo became history after acting as the host to more than 10,000 spectators representing 18 states.

Rodeo manager C. A. Studer, veteran rodeo director, divulged that "this year's show had the best array of talent and the meanest stock that it has ever had." Studer further went on to say that "there was no crow hopping and few re-riders. Also, the crowds were very enthusiastic and showed a sincere sense of appreciation when the cowhand performed a daring feat.

"The only injury sustained was a slight one yesterday by Red Muse who returned to see Monday's show. Individual honors for the three day celebration rightly go to Sayre, Oklahoma's stocky Roy Ross who bulldogged three steers in the phenominal time of 20.6.

All during the show he was pushed by his brother Bruce, but each time the younger Roy managed for the better time.

The fans' favorite, Bill Van Vactor of Carter, Okla., ranked third in this division with 40 seconds flat. Whitey Stewart of Anadarko, Oklahoma, the hard luck man for the last two years when his horse repeatedly fell, took high honors in the bronc riding contest. Stewart boarded a ferocious animal in "Andy," but stayed aboard with such comparative ease that he gained the recognition of the judges over Charles Broadnax of Pampa, and Earl Moore of Olton.

The performance of Sylvester Roane, Elk City, Okla., clearly stood out in the steer riding department. After he had qualified with a daring ride aboard a twisting steer, he was completely pitched off, but he had already gained the approval of the judges. Jimmie Olsen of Pampa stayed the limit with an easy ride on one of the Beutler Bros. salty brahmas.

An introduced feature of this years program was the cowgirls sponsor contest. Petite Alice Farrier of Woodward, Okla., was presented at yesterday's show as the winner of the numerous awards. She placed third in a similar contest at Oklahoma City recently.

Arrangements for this year's rodeo were under the Anvil Park Rodeo association which was recently chartered. This organization was headed by chairman John Caylor, and director C. A. Studer. Heretofore, the show has been exclusively handled by J. C. Studer and sons, upon whose ranch it is held. Hemphill county ranchers and business men organized this year to form the new rodeo society.

Day rodeo results: calf roping, Earl Moore, Olton, 19.4; Johnny Freeman, Woodward, Okla., 21; Buddy Ellison, Oklahoma City, 22.2.

Bulldogging: first, Roy Ross, Sayre, Okla., 7.2; second, Andy Curtis, El Reno, Okla., 9.4; third, Bruce Ross, Sayre, Okla., 9.6.

Bronc riding: first, Whitey Stewart, Anadarko, Okla.; second, Sylvester Roane, Elk City, Okla.; third, Tex Doyle, Pampa.

Steer riding: first, Sylvester Roane; second, Jimmie Olsen, Pampa; third, Wiley McCray, Allison.

Wild cow milking: first, Fred Barton, Durham, Okla., 56 seconds; second, Jack Bingham, Allison, 1.06.

Junior calf riding: first, J. C. Nix; second (tie) Gerald Sportsman and Clinton Hill, all of Canadian.

Total results for three days: bulldogging: first, Roy Ross, 20.6; second, Bruce Ross, 30.6; third, Bill Van Vactor, 40; fourth, Tex Doyle, 41.4.

Calf roping: first, Johnny Freeman, 68.2; second, Vernon Orr, 71.2; third, Rusty Coram, 90.4; fourth Earl Moore, 90.8.

Bronc riding: first, Andy Curtis.

Steer riding: Jimmie Olsen, Glyndon Riley.

MEN HURLED INTO RIVER WHEN BOAT CAPSIZES

CERRO, N. M., July 4 (AP)—Two Denver businessmen - adventurers, trying to navigate the Rio Grande from Alamosa, Colo., to Albuquerque, N. M., for a vacation, were hurled into the seething waters yesterday when their home-made 11-foot boat capsized in the Black Canon of northern New Mexico and rivermen expressed fear today for their lives.

One man was swept downstream under water. The other, apparently badly injured, made the shore and wandered away across desolate, snake-infested badlands.

Two ditch-riders reported they watched helplessly the losing battle of the men against the river.

The ditch riders, employed on irrigation canals in this area, identified the man carried downstream as E. R. Wakefield, because of his heavy head of hair. The other, nearly bald, they identified as A. S. Hunt.

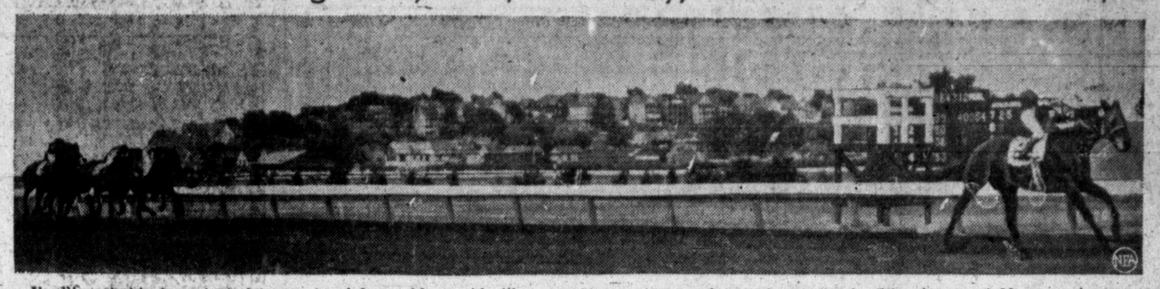

The men, each 58, left Alamosa Friday on what they announced would be a pleasure trip along a section of the river they believed no man had ever made before by boat.

RECKNAGLE AND DUNN WIN MIXED DOUBLES

Now turn 'way round to the left, and you'll see what was supposed to be Menow's competition. They are Busy K, who came in second, War Minstrel, third, and War Admiral, fourth, in his first defeat since October 10, 1936

TONY GALENTO RANKED NEXT TO JOE LOUIS

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Tony Galento, the New Jersey bartender, stood next to Joe Louis today in a new rating of heavyweights by the National Boxing association.

Harvey L. Miller, chairman of the NBA ratings committee, said Galento won the No. 1 challenger's spot by his "consistent knockout wins and the fact that he is willing and anxious to meet Joe Louis or any other heavyweight, Baer or Farf preferred."

Other heavyweights were ranked behind Galento in this order: Max Baer, Tommy Farr, Bob Pastor, Max Schmeling, Gunnar Baarland, Roscoe Toles, Clarence (Red) Burman, Al McCoy and Nathan Mann.

The flyweight title was declared vacant. Champion Benny Lynch was deposed because he weighed 118½ pounds, six and a half over the limit, in a recent bout with Jackie Jurich.

Harvey led the stick work of both teams with four hits and four rouns. His hits were a home run, triple and two singles. Jack Bailey poled out a home run and scored the winning run in the ninth.

Kingsmill lost a chance to tie in the last stanza but had two men trapped between first and second on attempted steals.

ST. LOUIS—Notified his daughter had been involved in an accident, William Martin Forman, 75, jumped into his automobile and started for the scene.

Before reaching it he collapsed over the steering wheel and died of a heart attack. His daughter, it was learned later, was uninjured.

Cincinnati Fans Sad On Eve of All-Star Battle

By GAYLE TALBOT

CINCINNATI, July 5 (AP)—The greats of baseball have started pouring in on this troubled town for tomorrow's annual all-star game between the two major leagues, and by this nightfall there will be a homerun knocker behind every potted palm in the hotel lobbies.

Cincinnati, frankly, isn't as joyous in expectation of the big event as had been anticipated a few days ago. The Reds have lost their last six games.

Stil, a crowd of 28,000, including 2,000 standees, is assured when the two star-spangled outfits meet tomorrow afternoon at Crosley field. All the reserved chairs were sold while the community still was suffering with pennant fever and when Johnny Vander Meer looked like being the next city manager.

Now the Good Burghers, suddenly clear-headed again, realize they aren't going to see a world series next autumn, and it is a little sad. About all they hope for from tomorrow's game is that their lovely Vander Meer will outpitch Bobby Feller of Cleveland for the first three innings.

It will be a crime against the sovereign state of Ohio if the two youngsters aren't given the lead-off assignments. They probably will be, but it would cause no great shock to many observers if Joe McCarthy, manager-for-a-day of the American league beauties, led with either Lefty Gomez or Red Ruffing of his own Yankees.

Probable Lineups

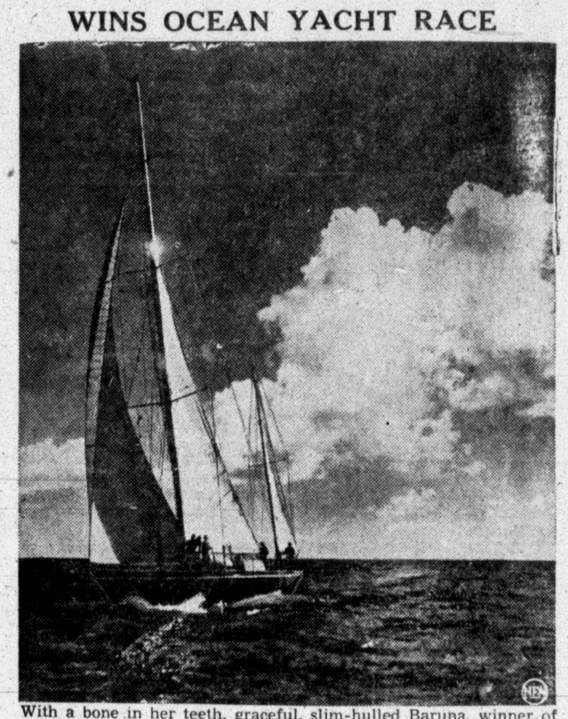

McCarthy and his National league rival, Bill Terry, will get together with Commissioner Landis and the umpires tonight for a final ironing-out of the details.

The concensus is that the two "dream" clubs will line up about like this:

WINS OCEAN YACHT RACE

With a bone in her teeth, graceful, slim-hulled Baruna, winner of the 635-mile ocean yacht race from Newport, R. I., to Bermuda, is pictured above as, against a typically beautiful West Indian sky, she neared her goal. The 72-foot yawl, owned by Henry C. Taylor of New York, won three trophies—first to finish, winner on corrected time basis, and class A honors.

DEAN AND ROWE, CASTOFFS, WIN FOR BEAUMONT, DALLAS

(By The Associated Press)

Two ailing big leaguers who came to the Texas league to regain ability and confidence, Paul (Daffy) Dean, and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, turned in smooth performances Independence night in their comeback campaign.

The Schoolboy, using a slow curve rather than his blinding fast one of old, pitched the Beaumont Exporters to a 2-1 victory in the second game of a double-header with the Houston Buffs. Beaumont also won the first, 11-4.

Dean went the route for Dallas in a curtain-raiser, faltering in early innings, but bearing down as his mates came through to beat Fort Worth 6-5. The Steers made it a clean sweep by annexing the nightcap 8-7, in eight innings, one more than scheduled.

Rowe fanned eight men, scattered five hits and made two trips to the plate without hitting. Houston's only tally was a home run, by Francis Healy in the second inning. Rowe walked one man.

He had a foe of worthy metal in the Buff's Lefty Brecheen, who gave up two hits and struck out nine. Not an earned run was made off him.

Daffy let the Cats get to him for three runs in the first, another in the third and another in the fourth, then settled down to hurl beautiful ball, scattering the remainder of the total of eleven hits he permitted. He struck out five men, gave up a base on balls, scored once, and hit once in three trips.

San Antonio's Missions and the Shreveport Sports split a double bill, the Sports winning the first 5-2, and the Missions coming back in the nightcap to win 6-2.

Tulsa's double victory, 8-2, and 2-1, over Oklahoma City, left the Oilers secure in first place. Beaumont remained in second place and Oklahoma City in third position.

Texarkana Back In First Place

(By The Associated Press)

Texarkana's Liners, trouncing Tyler 11-4 while Longview beat Marshall 8-5, climbed into first place in East Texas league standings last night, shoving the Tigers down a notch.

At Palestine the temper of the fans exploded like fourth-of-July firecrackers, and police escorted three umpires free of hecklers after Henderson eked a 7-6 win from the Pals.

The trouble started after manager John Kosy of the Pals claimed relief pitcher Rachunck of the Oilers committed a balk in the last of the ninth when the bases were loaded with Palestine players with none out. The umpires, however, thought otherwise.

Jacksonville scored the winning run in the last half of the ninth to defeat Kilgore 11-10.

Don McNeill Upset In Tennis Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (AP)—Thirty-two of the nation's top-ranking collegiate net stars entered the third round of play today in the 38th annual National Intercollegiate Tennis tournament.

A 20-year-old Georgia Tech student, Russell Bobbitt, provided the surprise of the first day's play with his triumph over Don McNeill, Kenyon College, seeded second player and co-favorite with Joe Hunt of Southern California.

Bobbitt, an unseeded entry, trounced McNeill in three sets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

With the exception of McNeill, all of the seeded players won their matches.

Squirrels provide more hunting sport and more meat to residents of East Texas than any other species of game.

CHAPTER XII

THE police officer in charge came forward shepherding the black-eyed girl of the refreshment stand.

"Sorry to interrupt, folks," he said. "But we've got a bit more business." To the girl, he said: "Do you identify this young man as the one who gave you the box of candy, Miss Martin?"

"Sure," the girl pointed at Joe. "That's him, all right. The note I gave you was just inside the box. And I'd have called the police sooner only I didn't open the candy till this afternoon."

"Well," said the police officer, "that's all, then. Come on, boys."

The constabulary faded. The black-eyed girl faded with them. She was a sucker for a uniform. The Archers, Joe and Gilbert, stood alone.

"Mr. Sandham," said Kelly, suddenly remembering the social amenities, "my father and mother. And Mr. Mallow."

Mother and father acknowledged the introduction properly. Mr. Mallow did not. Mr. Mallow mumbled something.

"And now," said Kelly, "what's all this about a note?"

"I wrote one," Joe told her, "on an order blank of the Chandler & Sandham Confectionery Company and shoved it in that candy box. You saw me give the box to the girl."

Kelly looked at him in surprise. "I don't believe it. How could you have written it?"

"I did, all right," Joe pulled an oblong book of order blanks from his pocket. "And if you don't believe it, here's the carbon. At least, it ought to be here. I haven't had a chance to look."

It was there on a pink sheet smeary from carbon paper. It read:

Notify police. Caroline Archer in Chandler & Sandham Ford delivery truck License No. N. Y. 134857 being taken shack near St. Catharines Ont. by North Colliston Conn. bank robber. J. H. Sandham.

Kelly's sea-blue eyes widened. "But all that stuff about kidnaping . . ." she began.

* * *

"JUST hooey," said Joe. "I had to get the Weasel's confidence enough to find out where he was taking us. And you may have noticed that the Weasel isn't very bright. He fell for it when I mentioned a hundred thousand dollar ransom. His greed got the better of his judgment."

"You see," Mr. Archer explained to the company at large, "that note made it easy. The police weren't able to catch up with you until you'd crossed the border. But there was a record of the car there and the St. Catharines' authorities were notified. They were on the watch and spotted you as you went through the town. They thought it best to follow along to this hangout and take in the whole gang, if any. And I want to thank you, Mr. Sandham, for—er—for taking care of my daughter. I know how you met her. Found it out from the caretaker of my brother's house. And . . . well, you seem to be an intelligent young man. That's rare nowadays," Mr. Archer concluded. "Well, come on, all of you. We're driving back to Buffalo to spend the night." He took Mrs. Archer's arm and went out.

Joe followed. He supposed that Kelly and that twerp-like archeologist Gilbert were just behind him. He was wrong. When he arrived at the road, he discovered that they had not left the house as yet.

The police were waiting about to close the place. Mr. Archer got into his hired car.

"You'll be my guest at the hotel in Buffalo?" he asked Joe.

Joe shook his head. He'd better, he thought, be on his way. His services seemed to be no longer required. No doubt Kelly and Gilbert were inside locked in each other's arms. Lovers' reunion. Tears of joy, perhaps. Embraces. Kisses. And for him, the little idyl was over. He bit his lip.

"Thanks all the same," he said to Mr. Archer. "But I'd better drive along as far as I can tonight. Got to get back on the job as soon as I can."

Joe approached his Ford in the roadway. He climbed in, turned it around and started back for St. Catharines.

"And I was the guy," he murmured audibly, "who talked about Kismet. Gee, what a dope."

"Kismet's pretty darned uncomfortable back here," said a voice like silver and raindrops just behind his left ear. "How about missing a few of those bumps?"

Joe jumped, then slammed on the brakes so suddenly that they shrieked in protest.

"Kelly," he shouted.

"Sssshh" said Kelly Archer. "You might wake up the Premier of Ontario. Can I come up in front?"

"Can you?" roared Joe. "Whoops!" He swung around and practically dragged her over the back of the seat. "Now what is this? How the devil did you get here? Where's the oilcan with the toothbrushes under his nose? Where, how, when . . ."

"Hold it, Horace," said Kelly. "If you mean Gilbert, that's washed up."

* * *

JOE'S heart did an outside loop and made a three-point landing in the back of his throat.

"Woman," he said recklessly, "you've got just one minute to explain this. Then I'm going to kiss you within an inch of your life."

"Joe," said Kelly softly, "do you love me?"

"Do I love you?" barked Joe. "Are there Chinks in China? The blemish, Gilbert? What happened to it? Quick."

"It," said Kelly, "is out. The family found out from my uncle's caretaker that we'd stayed at Uncle Tyler's place that night and Gilbert chose to make an issue of it. He would hardly believe that we'd had an automobile crash. He hardly believes that we were forced to come to Canada. Said it was all fantastic. And he practically accused me of—of . . . well, promiscuousness. And he was just so nasty and rotten and impossible, that I got sore. So I told him it was all off. He's sulking back to Buffalo with the family."

Joe slid an arm around her.

"Just in the interest of science," he said, "when did you decide to fade out on the prospective archeologist and go for me?"

"Do you really want to know? I sort of began to toy with the idea when you woke up in Uncle Tyler's bed with your hair all rumpled and that funny look on your face. And then, what with one little thing and another, it just seemed to grow and grow. Great oaks, you know."

"Great okiedokes," said Joe deliriously. "Next question. When and where will you marry me?"

"That's a cinch. Any time you want. In Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Schenectady, Albany, Yonkers, New York and all points north, south, east and west."

"Buffalo," Joe bellowed.

"Why not?"

"Why not, is right. Except"—he had one fleeting moment of doubt—"except that you're a big this and that in society and I'm a candy salesman earning 50 bucks a week and . . ."

Kelly's lips, dangerously close, silenced him.

"We're in the chips, darling," said Kelly.

Joe started the car. His arm tightened around her. Then, suddenly, he began to whistle.

The tune was "Shuffle Off to Buffalo."

MONOPOLY PROBE MAY REQUIRE NEW ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP) — Congress may have to choose between—or weld together—two 25-year old anti-trust programs when it ends the current study of monopoly.

One would require federal licenses to trade in interstate commerce. This would supplement anti-trust laws. Variations of the idea were championed by President Taft and such industrialists as Elbert H. Gary as far back as 1910.

The other would create a new commission, or endow an existing one, with power to police the operations of business outside home state boundaries. In different degrees, this was the kind of a remedy that President Theodore Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie talked about.

Congress thought about giving the commission idea a trial when it created the federal trade commission. That agency took over the work which had been done by Theodore Roosevelt's Bureau of Corporations. It set out with the idea that it had greater powers.

But the courts took away the commission's slingshot and left it to fight the goliaths of industry empty-handed. By the time the courts finished, the commission had neither the power to make the rules of fair competition nor the strength to enforce its edicts.

BISHOP WILL CONDUCT CONFIRMATION SERVICE

The Rev. R. J. Snell, minister of the church, expects to present several candidates for confirmation. The public is invited to attend this service.

CAPSIZING SURVIVOR SEEKS HIS COMPANION

CERRO, N. M., July 5. (AP)—While he sought his wife to inform her of his safety, A. S. Hunt described today how he groped through a pitch-dark wilderness crawling with rattlesnakes after he and a boating companion were dumped into the roaring Rio Grande River.

Hunt said he would join today in the search for the body of E. R. Wakefield whom he saw swept down the cascading stream when their craft upset Sunday in the Black Canon near here.

When ditchriders reported seeing Hunt wander off from the opposite side of the river after the crash, Mrs. Hunt came here from Denver and engaged guides to aid in the search.

Hunt turned up in a northern New Mexico sheepcamp yesterday but his wife's whereabouts were unknown. He was taken to Antonito, Colo.

In a telephone conversation early today the Denver man told the Associated Press a sudden wave stood the small boat on end.

Various reports said his boating companion's body had been found. Hunt said, but he declared a check proved them false.

O'DANIEL HAS NOT PAID POLL TAX SINCE '31

FORT WORTH July 5. (AP) — John Bourland, tax collector-assessor for Tarrant County, said today W. Lee O'Daniel, candidate for governor, did not render a poll tax in 1937 and for this reason it did not appear on his tax statement.

O'Daniel in Houston Saturday blamed the tax collector here for not giving him a poll tax when he paid his property tax this year.

"The poll tax was not added to my tax bill," O'Daniel said.

"I had a receipt for all my taxes, but there was no poll tax receipt."

Bourland said it was customary for the clerk taking a property rendition to ask the property owner at the time of rendition whether he wished to pay a poll tax.

The assessor-collector checked records in his office concerning O'Daniel's poll tax payment after the candidate made the charge in Houston. The records found by Bourland showed. Bourland said, that in 1931 O'Daniel paid a poll tax. Bourland said the record year-by-year shows:

In 1932, O'Daniel rendered his property with two polls but did not pay the poll taxes; in 1933, he did not render his property and did not pal a poll tax in the voting precinct in which he lived; in 1934, he rendered his property and two poll taxes, but did not pay the poll taxes; in 1935, he rendered his property and two polls but did not pay the poll taxes; in 1936, he did not render his property and did not pay a poll tax in the precinct in which he resided.

PRINCESS AND AMBASSADOR GREET FREUD

RIVER PARTY NOW OVERDUE

LEE'S FERRY, Ariz., July 5 (AP)—Heaving waters of the flood-tide Colorado river were watched today with apprehension by two government employes awaiting arrival of a six-member scientific expedition from Green River, Utah, 300 miles upstream.

Only the belief that the party, scheduled to arrive here yesterday, was delayed by long portages around particularly dangerous rapids, kept the spirits of the two lone residents of this northern Arizona outpost buoyed.

Adding to apprehension of the men—A. J. Hanson and F. S. Anderson who conduct a geological survey station here—was news of the fate of two adventurers who had tried to ride the treacherous Rio Grande river of New Mexico. Their boat capsized. E. R. Wakefield, 58, of Denver, was lost. His companion, A. S. Hunt, reached safety.

The expedition is headed by Norman Nevills, Utah riverman making his first trip down the Colorado.

Other members of the expedition, traveling in three light boats, are two women—Elfada Clover, 40, University of Michigan botanist, and her 25-year-old assistant Lois Jotter; Don Harris of the U. S. Geological Survey; Eugene Atkinson, Michigan geologist, and W. C. Gibson, San Francisco artist-photographer.

Another Wedding in the Wind

When Jon Hall, star of the Tahitian film "Hurricane," and his bride, Frances Langford, pictured above in New York, arrived in the Big Town they wanted to know where Kings County, was. It seems when he recently eloped with the petite blues singer from Hollywood to Yuma, Ariz., he told the license clerk his home was in "Kings County, N. Y." He'd never been there, but it seemed like a good idea at the time. Now the couple plan to rewed to make sure it's legal.

FRENCH AND JAPS AT ODDS OVER ISLANDS

PARIS, July 5 (AP)—New diplomatic tension between France and Japan appeared likely today to result from French occupation of the strategic paracel islands in the south China sea, 150 miles southeast of the Chinese island of Hainan which Japan has been reported planning to seize.

Reports from Tokyo said the Japanese foreign office was studying the situation with "great care." It was thought here that Japan might protest against occupation of the islands, which the Japanese contend belong to China.

The French foreign office said the occupation was a routine police matter of the French colony of Indo-China, which claims jurisdiction there.

It was said at the foreign office, however, that the paracels would serve as "excellent seaplane bases" in war time, and their occupation was seen here as a logical preparation for defense of Hainan, which dominates the Indo-China coast.

Pampans Attend Funeral of Son In Kansas Town

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Shouse of Pampa and son George Shouse of LeFors returned to Pampa Sunday from Pretty Prairie, Kas., where funeral services were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon for Willie Lemoine Shouse, 37, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Shouse, who died Friday. Mr. Shouse had been in ill health since February 2, when he was taken to a hospital at Hutcheson, Kas. Recently he had been taken to another hospital nearer his home.

Funeral services were in charge of the Pretty Prairie Lodge A. F. & A. M., of which Mr. Shouse had been a member, assisted by members of the Kingman, Kas., lodge. Burial was in the Lone Star cemetery at Pretty Prairie.

Mr. Shouse is survived by his wife, Fern Cole Shouse, two daughters, Lois Jean and Lola Fern, parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Shouse, five brothers, and three sisters.

Accused Robbers 'Reconsecrated'

FORT WORTH, July 5 (AP)—Two young men, who had been accused of robbery, were "reconsecrated" in church here Sunday, their pastor, the Rev. Marcus M. Chunn, said.

Homer S. Gentry, 18, and Charles S. Jennings, 19, knelt at the sacramental altar of the Central Methodist Church in fulfillment of a promise they made to authorities who agreed not to press robbery charges.

A Dallas County grand jury had no-billed the youths in connection with the kidnaping and robbery of a taxicab driver. They spent two days in jail after the $2.15 holdup. Fort Worth friends pleaded in their behalf, explaining it was the first time the boys had been in trouble.

HOLIDAY DEATH TOLL REACHES TOTAL OF 513

(By The Associated Press)

The toll of America's holiday deaths—at least 513 violently celebrating the 162nd anniversary of Independence—showed today the nation has practically eliminated fireworks fatalities but has failed to quell the menace of the motor car.

Only three persons were killed by fireworks—all of the "home-made" variety. Motor crashes on packed highways, however, claimed at least 256 lives.

The rush for beaches and lake and river resorts to escape immoderate heat in some sections resulted in 139 drownings.

Reports from 46 states and the District of Columbia also showed 27 persons were shot to death, 20 committed suicide, 18 were killed by trains and 50 died in various mishaps such as falls, lightning and home accidents.

The toll of 513 was below that of the Fourth of July week-end in 1937, when 563 were killed, but more than doubled the number for the Memorial Day week-end—250.

New York, with 39 deaths, led the states. Pennsylvania was second with 33, Michigan trird with 27 and Illinois fourth with 26.

Freak accidents took many lives. One Missouri resident was struck and killed by a chunk of ice. A 16-year-old girl in Brooklyn was fatally wounded by a stray bullet as she sat in a window watching a fireworks display in the street below.

A boy was killed and 17 men, women and children were injured when three racing cars plowed into a group of spectators at Ho-Ho-Kus, N. J.

The fireworks victims were killed by their own "inventions." Exploding powder poured into a piece of iron pipe fatally injured a Maryland boy. In Pennsylvania, one man was killed by a home made cannon and another by a bomb fashioned from an automobile wrist pin.

HUKOW FALLS AS JAPS CONTINUE OFFENSIVE

SHANGHAI, July 5 (AP)—The Japanese army, which, in a year's time crashed its way 450 miles up the Yangtze river into the heart of China, established positions today for another major effort to reach Hankow, provisional capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

The Japanese command announced the capture of Hukow, 160 miles from the China capital and a principal barrier to the Japanese advance. Chinese withdrew, leaving munitions supplies, and there was little fighting after Japanese pierced Hukow's outer defenses, military officials said.

Occpation of the city put the Japanese in a position for a Hankow offensive along two possible routes, both extremely difficult.

The one choice was a 150-mile drive up the Yangtze river, winding through a mountainous area with its strong Chinese defenses. The other was a land and water detour to the west, in an effort to sever the Canton-Hankow railroad, disrupt transportation of supplies and force the evacuation of Hankow.

Foreign military observers thought the roundabout route would be the choice, with the Japanese avoiding a frontal assault on Hankow.

OIL PRODUCTION SHOWS 32,906-BARREL DROP

TULSA, Okla., July 5. (AP)—A decline of 32,906 barrels daily in the nation's production of crude oil during the week ending July 2 was reported today by the Oil and Gas Journal. The daily average production was 3,046,483.

Oklahoma's production declined 21,875 barrels daily to 376,575, East Texas was up 1,081 to 364,930 and the total state of Texas increased 3,789 barrels daily to 1,191,982.

Louisiana had an increase of 647 barrels daily to 259,277, California had a decrease of 1,850 daily to 633,150 and Kansas production was down 8,725 barrels daily to an average of 143,150.

Eastern states registered a decline of 1,042 barrels to 194,219 and the Rocky mountain section had an increase of 3,720 barrels daily to 75,960.

FOR A SEASIDE WEDDING

PARIS (AP)—Here comes the beach bride. She's dressed in white chiffon, with a long-trained skirt, and a veil that drapes from a diadem of seashells. White beach trunks can be glimpsed through the filmy skirt, while a snowy dove with out-stretched wings fronts the "bra." A whimsical design for seaside weddings by Jacques Heim.

ITALY WILL BUY NO WHEAT SAYS IL DUCE

APRILIA, Italy, July 5 (AP)—Premier Benito Musolini declared today Italy would need to buy no wheat despite this year's short crop.

He told cheering citizens of this grain growing area, on the day when the first wheat was being threshed, Italy would not have bought from the "so-called democracies" even if bread necessary for life had been lacking.

When Il Duce finished his brief speech he stripped to the waist, donned dark glasses, and helped the farmers with the threshing.
