Opposition To Farm Benefit Cuts Offered

New Mexico Farmer Says That Sharecropper System Of The South Threatens Southwest

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A southwestern farmer testified today that congressional attempts to reduce large benefit payments under the crop control program might force the sharecropper and tenant system of the deep south onto irrigated cotton lands of Arizona, New Mexico, and California.

Deane F. Stahmann, Las Cruces, N. M., told a Senate agriculture subcommittee this probably would be the result of legislation already passed by the House. The bill would reduce the present maximum payment of $10,000 to any one farmer or corporation to $5,000 and scale down all farm benefit payments of more than $1,000.

Might Be Forced

Because these limitations would not apply where landowners shared payments with tenants and sharecroppers, Stahmann said this "might force him" to use the sharecropper system.

Stahmann said the proposed payment limitations apparently were intended to "discriminate against the large land owner."

Senator Frazier (R-ND), presiding at the hearing, said the intent "was the other way, it's to protect the small operator of a family-sized farm."

Benefit Of The Future

"Soil conservation is for the benefit of future generations," Stahmann said. "I can't see why they should pay the little farmer more for doing it than the larger farmer."

Support for the payment limitations was voiced by J. S. Sharp, Paris, Texas, operator of extensive farm lands, who said many southwestern cotton growers had turned tenants and sharecroppers off their lands and employed day laborers instead.

"If they continue to put tenant

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, jr., is the donor of $100,000 to the Finnish relief fund, the largest individual contribution to Finnish relief.

Accompanying the check was this note signed by the financier:

"The gallant stand which Finland has made for life and liberty has thrilled the world and set up for humanity new high standards of courage and sacrifice. As a tribute to this brave people, my family and I desire to contribute $100,000 to the Finnish relief fund for the desperately needed service it is rendering the civilian population of Finland."

State Capitol Building In Oklahoma City Is Bone Dry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—The state capitol building is bone dry now.

E. C. Stewart, manager of the capitol cafeteria, quit handling 3.2 beer because sales had dropped to "not enough to pay for icing it."

State employes once drank 30 cases a day, but Gov. Leon C. Phillips banned drinking in the building. (Oklahoma still has prohibition.) He didn't mention 3.2 beer, but the employes are playing it safe.

Rumania Mobilizes Army Of 1,600,000

(By The Associated Press)
BUCHAREST, Feb. 22.—Rumania ordered her already large military preparations speeded up today following authoritative reports that Germany was challenging the government's ban on export of aviation gasoline to the reich.

Dr. Karl Clodius, German economic expert, is expected here Monday for showdown conversations to insist on full delivery of Germany's 1940 quota of oil and oil products. Meanwhile, the government ordered many of 200,000 reservists originally called for March 1 to start reporting immediately to concentration centers, it was learned.

Huge Army Mobilized

Effective March 1, Rumania will have 1,600,000 men under arms—virtually general mobilization without being so labelled.

Railways now are jammed with reservists moving toward frontiers and with long trainloads of tanks, armored cars and artillery.

The arrival of Dr. Clodius will coincide with the start of Rumanian trade conversations here with Italy, understood also to be seeking a share of this country's oil exports.

Germany, it was said, will challenge a Rumanian ban on shipments of high test aviation gasoline to the reich—a measure which Rumania was reported to have taken to placate Great Britain and France.

To Depend On Tanks

The German attitude toward Rumania and all southeastern Europe will depend on the outcome of Clodius' talks, informed quarters predicted.

It was understood that a government decree banning the fuel which Germany needs for her machines of war had been issued—this in direct contradiction to a recent oil export agreement with Germany.

Allied pressure is gaining this Rumanian show of resistance to Germany's economic overtures was said to have consisted of deliberate delays in delivery of cotton, wool, jute and iron ore to Rumania, con-

Final Reserve Of Finland To Take Up Arms

Men 45 And 46 Years Old To Join Their Sons At Front; New Red Attacks Repulsed

(By The United Press)
HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 22.—Finnish men 45 and 46 years old were called to the colors today.

Notices were posted in all streets ordering the men, of the classes of 1894 and 1895, to report for training and duty at once.

The men called are part of the second—and final—reserve, which includes men up to 60.

Will Join Sons

They will join their sons who are among the 25 army classes now incorporated in the defense forces, ranging from 22 years up. In addition men of classes already called up who had been exempted for reasons of health had now been ordered to report for a new examination.

Finns awaited word from the Mannerheim line on the extent to which snow had slowed the Russian "anniversary" offensive.

It had been forecast since the attack started three weeks ago that it was timed so that, if it succeeded, the Russians would enter Viipuri, Finland's second city, tomorrow, which is the anniversary of the establishment of the red army and navy.

Weather Kept Secret

Weather bulletins from the front were suppressed by the authorities as containing information which now was calculated to be of vital military value.

At last reports the Russians continued to attack, but it was asserted that all attacks had been repulsed and that the Mannerheim line held fast. Fighting at some points had been continuing into the night before the snow started yesterday. The Russian attack along the Taipale river, at the Lake Ladoga end of the line, was reported to be even heavier than that on the west side near Viipuri.

Seventy Killed By Quakes In Turkey

ISTANBUL, Feb. 22. (AP)—Four villages in the Kaisari region of Turkey were reported today to have been leveled by a series of continuing earth shocks with a loss of 70 lives and more than 50 persons injured.

Shocks also were felt at Ankara and Andana.

Eighteen quakes were felt late yesterday. Temblors were reported continuing at noon today.

Tens of thousands of cattle were said to have perished in the devastation and in stampedes.

Peasants became panic-stricken, fearing a repetition of the December disaster in which about 50,000 persons were killed by quakes, exposure and subsequent floods.

Shop Early For June Wedding Is Advice Of "Bashful Boys"

(By The Associated Press)
SKIATOOK, Okla., Feb. 22.—"Bashful boys' week" starts here tomorrow.

It's all very official. Mayor Roy Spafford has issued a proclamation.

Johnny is slated to learn just how much demand there is for him, if any. It will be up to Jane to court him.

Leap year gave the boys their chance and—150 strong—they petitioned the mayor. They even won the support of the chamber of commerce.

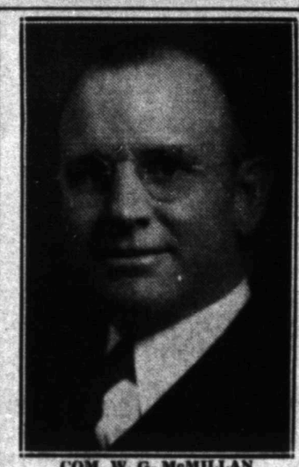

They gained the help of some—only some—of the girls, too.

Bold posters suggest the girls "shop early for a June wedding." They're up in neighboring Sperry and Collinsville also.

"We'd like to know whom the girls really like—the boys they'd call," say the boys. Also the little ladies will learn how it is to foot the bill.

Deadlock Over Censorship Of Mail Is Seen

Allied Action Against U. S. Becoming More Complicated; New Incidents Reported

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A virtual deadlock over censorship of American mails has developed between the state department and Great Britain and France, with one incident after another helping complicate the situation.

It was learned last night that British marines with fixed bayonets brought about the first seizure of Transatlantic airmail at Bermuda in Jan. 18.

Refused To Surrender

Capt. Charles A. Lorber of Baltimore, commanding a Pan-American Airways plane flying between the United States and Lisbon, had refused to surrender the mail to British censors until the show of armed force was made.

Authoritative sources at London attributed the incident to a "conflict of personalities," and added:

"You can be certain it won't happen again."

That reference apparently was to the display of bayonets, for despite a prompt protest by United States officials, censorship of air mail has continued at Bermuda. Last week 1,970 pounds of American mail were taken off one clipper ship.

May Pass Up Bermuda

Secretary Hull hinted at a recent press conference that if the practice did not cease, Bermuda might be passed up as a clipper stop.

Mail carried from the United States by boat also is undergoing Allied examination. Mail from Mediterranean countries is being censored at Gibraltar and Marseille; for Scandinavian nations at Kirkwall, Scotland; for Netherlands ports at Weymouth, England. Haifa, Pales-

Forty-Five Million Trees Planted In Texas By CCC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Civilian Conservation corps, noting that today was celebrated in Texas as Arbor day as well as Washington's birth date, announced that 45,000,000 trees had been planted in the Lone Star state by the CCC in the past seven years.

It was in 1933 that the CCC began forest rehabilitation in Texas.

James J. McEntee, acting director of the CCC, stated that replanting of valuable forest lands left idle by part cutting and burning had been one of the greatest single contributions of the agency in Texas.

Declares That His Relations Very Cordial

Hints Of Discord Charged To Republicans; Opens Fire On Chief Opposition Candidates

(By The United Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 22.—Paul V. McNutt said here today that President Roosevelt can have the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination "for the asking," and denied that his own presidential aspirations are under attack by Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley.

Here to speak before a state convention of Young Democrats, McNutt said the Democratic party must nominate a liberal to stay in power.

Can Have Nomination

"President Roosevelt can have the nomination if he wants it," McNutt asserted. "My own candidacy hinges on his decision. If he is not a candidate, I am. If he runs, I'm for Mr. Roosevelt for a third term."

McNutt, federal social security administrator, described his relations with Farley as "cordial."

"Despite reports—usually put out by Republicans, there is no rift that I know anything about between Farley and me," McNutt said. "I like him very much."

McNutt refused to answer when asked if he considered Vice President John Garner a liberal.

Scoffs At Reports

McNutt, at a press conference, also scoffed at reports that his candidacy was opposed by a clique of "inner New Dealers."

"Whoever wins the presidency, is in for a tough time," said McNutt. "A precarious foreign situation is added to the domestic problem.

"The international situation reads like something from Jules Verne. Whoever dreamed that in our time the yellow races would be trying to wipe each other out in a great war in the east, while the white races were doing the same thing in Europe?"

In a speech prepared for delivery at 2:30 p. m., McNutt assailed U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, U. S. Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Frank Gannett of New York as a "quartet of carping croakers."

Chorus Grows Louder

McNutt said that the chorus of the "malcontents was getting louder and funnier." He defended New Deal

Man Prefers Prison Or Death To Lonely Life Without Love

(By The Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22—A spurned suitor, transferred from self-padlocked shackles to jail, told officers permanent imprisonment—even death—was preferable to life without the woman he has loved 12 years.

Police found Melvin P. Miller last night living in a tent near the woman's home in protest of her coolness. His neck was chained to a tree and secured by padlocks whose keyholes he had filled with cement.

The 30-year-old scissors grinder said it took six years to get enough courage to ask the pretty stenographer for a date. The next six he spent in a futile effort to obtain another.

Booked for investigation, Miller said, "without her—imprisonment for life, or death, is preferable."

Said the object of his affections: "The whole situation is too ridiculous."

Garner Leaders Will Go After Louisiana Votes

Long's Defeat Aids Chances

BY LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—A Garner-for-president move to recruit Louisiana's 20 Democratic national convention delegates to the anti-third term campaign was the first national political development today from defeat of the state machine created by the late Huey P. Long.

The vice president's associates claimed that victory of Sam Houston Jones, who took Louisiana's Democratic nomination for governor from the Kingfish's brother, Earl Long, was favorable to their cause.

May Hold Convention

They said Jones' nomination meant that for the first time since 1924 the state Democratic organization would support an effort to select nominating convention delegates by election instead of by appointment by the state central committee. The committee has authority to name the slate itself or summon a state convention to elect them.

Jones, in Louisiana, endorsed the convention plan without taking the opportunity to endorse Garner. But election rather than appointment of delegates in all states where laws permit is the No. 1 plank of the Garner pre-convention platform. Jones' endorsement of the elective process may support the claim made here that his victory over Earl Long was a good political break for the anti-third termers.

Is Misuse Of Power

"I'm against appointment of nominating convention delegates by the state central committee," Jones told the United Press. "That is just a demonstration of what I mean by misuse of power under a dictatorship. The people ought to pick their own delegates and I will do everything in my power to return that right."

It remains to be seen, now, whether Jones can persuade the 86 newly elected members of the state central committee to call a convention and, thereafter, whether Garner's men in Louisiana will control it.

Here the vice president's supporters assert that Jones' nomination will be followed by removal of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D., La., from the Democratic national committee. Ellender is a notable New Dealer.

Substitution of an anti-New Dealer for Ellender on the national committee would considerably aid the anti-third term movement in the south where only two senators are making much noise about their dislike of a third term.

Sen. Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith, D., S. C., says he will bolt if Mr. Roosevelt is renominated and Sen. Walter F. George, D. Ga., is attempting to obtain a preferential primary in Georgia in behalf of Garner's candidacy.

Texas Cities This Year Take After Conventions In A Big Way; Lubbock Seeks Share

BY JACK KRUEGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

You may have thought Houston wanted to pay a high price for the Democratic national convention, waving that $200,000 check under the nose of Jim Farley the way it did. That sounds like an expensive way to win fame and glory for the home town . . . But if you can catch a chamber of commerce man when he hasn't got that wild convention-hunting look in his eye, he'll prove conventions rank as one of Texas' better-paying industries . . . Assuming Houston had lured the Democrats down south again, which it didn't, the city figured to get its money back the first day . . . Counting on 20,000 visitors at $10 per day. In the eyes of men who put conventions together and make them tick, such meetings, frivolous or sober, are like pennies from heaven . . .

They argue nearly every worker in a city gets a slice of this new fresh money, trickling through hotels, cafes, taxis, amusement places and stores . . . Andy DeShong, converted newspaperman who says Dallas will be host to about 600 conventions and sales meetings this year (worth $3,500,000 to the city) declares this is the best convention year since 1936 . . . But he really expects things to reach a colossal stage next year, when Dallas puts on Sunday dress for its 100th anniversary . . . DeShong relates that the American Association for the Advancement of Science is ticketed for 1941 . . .

Lubbock Also Working

Lubbock too is working like a beaver to flood the South Plains with conventions next year, when it observes the golden anniversary of its founding . . . Houston for 1940 has 66 lined up, including the American Petroleum Institute's production division, American Florists, Rodeo Association of America, National Flower show and other big ones . . . San Antonio, old and mellow and sunny, is runnerup to Dallas in attracting these get-togethers, playing host to about 200 a year . . . Austin no less than its sister cities is out to make this and next year big ones putting a fire under about 75 of its local organizations . . .

Principal goals are the state Democratic party and the big teachers conventions . . . The technique for getting a convention is complex. The chamber gets behind the local unit of the organization sought, which goes after the support of other units throughout the state . . . With the chamber pitching in to get concessions from hotels and local businesses . . . One organization a few years back demanded and got a $3,000 bridge connecting the two leading hotels of a Texas city before it would play . . .

All Not Pure Velvet

Memory prompts us to recall that all conventions, however, are not pure velvet . . . There was one in San Antonio that set the city back on its heels. War veterans poured into the city for their annual jamboree, and produce houses in preparation laid in thousands of cases of eggs and other edibles . . . A politico and former showman imported a well-known girl show . . . Instead of eating the food at hand the veterans brought their own, as well as their liquor nourishment (prohibition was in vogue then) . . . Most of the visitors found their fun in the streets and passed up the show . . . Hotel men cringed when they saw bags of water and pillow feathers deluging the surging streets below . . . When it was over the wreckage was staggering, and old San Antonio thereafter went in for more sedate if smaller conventions . . .

Out in San Pacinto, folks point with pride to Edwin Earl Rice, a mere 20 months of life behind him . . . He can push the middle valve down and let go with a blast on the trumpet, which they say is quite a trick for even an untutored adult . . . Edwin Earl doesn't swing it yet but West Texas is waiting . . .

It's bands, bugles and bull-fights today for Laredo and her guests who are up to their old custom of paying gay tribute to the father of our country . . . The Washington birthday celebration has been under way since Monday but the throttle was pulled all the way out Thursday . . . You could see soldiers on parade, floats, carnival shows, Indians, cowboys, charros, livestock, and important people shaking hands in the middle of the international bridge . . . This has been going on every February for 42 years and naturally is taking on maturity . . . In contrast perhaps to the less restrained celebrations in Washington's honor during the '20s . . . When special trains used to haul thousands of Texans to the border city . . . Just across the Rio Grande from Nuevo Laredo, where prohibition had never reared its thirsty head . . .

Then there was the man from Rotan, who in hog-killing time got in the way of a big porker and suffered a broken leg . . . He calmly fetched a piece of baling wire, bound up the limb and returned to his butchering . . . The leg was wooden, of course.

Three Candidates Seek City Offices

Formal announcement that Mayor Carl E. Slaton and City Commissioner W. G. McMillan will be candidates to succeed themselves at the city election Tuesday, April 2, was made Wednesday afternoon. Each is now completting his first term.

Announcement also was made that Garland Newsom, young business man, will seek the place now held by Commissioner J. A. Fortenberry, who said he will not be a candidate.

Ice Is Broken

The announcements broke the ice of the current city political year, there having been no other candidates previously announced and even a dearth of rumors regarding possible candidates.

Mayor Slaton, whose office is on a two-year basis as compared to four years for commissionerships, said he is offering for second term because "I enjoy the work, I am interested in carrying it on for another two years and I am better fitted for the place now—with some experience under my belt—than I was when I was elected two years ago. If the people are satisfied, as I hope and believe they are, I want to serve a second term as mayor." Mayor Slaton was "drafted" for the office two years ago by a group of business men and civic leaders.

Announces By Telephone

McMillan, who has been confined to his home with the flu since Monday, announced his candidacy over the telephone.

"Serving in the capacity of a city commissioner is only a small part of the many tasks our splendid citizenship is performing in making Lubbock and the South Plains of Texas the outstanding community in the United States," McMillan said in a brief statement over the telephone Wednesday night.

"We sincerely appreciate the splendid cooperation, patience and confidence the people are showing in city government during the phenomenal growth and civic expansion. It is our desire to give of our best thoughts and efforts in visualizing what is best for a greater and better future Lubbock."

Graduate Of Tech

Newsom, who has lived in Lubbock for 20 years and who is a graduate of Texas Technological college, seeks election because he said, "I want to be helpful to my home town that has been good to me."

A partner in the Newsom-Gibson Co., a home decorations concern, Newsom has been in business for 10 years. He is a member of First Methodist church and the American Business club and has been outstanding among the younger business men of the city.

"The business of the City of Lubbock has been and is being carried on in an intelligent, honest, progressive and logical way," he said, "and I am in perfect accord with those policies. If I am elected I have no expectation other than to get in there and put my shoulder to the wheel along with those others who will be charged with the same responsibility. I have a home here. I expect to live here the rest of my life—and I want to have a part in helping our city to continue to grow and improve."

Newsom is married, has two children, lives at 2707 Twenty-fourth street.

Mayor Slaton is married and has a daughter, Betty Ross, 17, senior in Lubbock High school. The family resides at 2013 Tenth street. Slaton is engaged in the wholesale oil business.

Commissioner McMillan is married and has one son, William. His home is at 2121 Thirteenth street. McMillan is a building contractor.

Culberson To Be Candidate

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Olin Culberson, former gas utilities chief of the Texas Railroad commission, Wednesday announced his candidacy for a place on the commission.

Stressing the need for "consumer protection against excessive gas utility rates" and prompt dispatch of rail and motor transportation regulations, Culberson said he wanted the opportunity to "complete the work of giving gas consumers fair and reasonable rates."

He served as chief utilities rate expert and head of the commission's gas utilities division from 1933 to 1939.

Culberson asserted the same vigor and fairness that had marked his past services to the state in the regulation of gas rates would continue as his policy. He is a former county clerk and county judge of Hill county.

The former gas utilities chief declared the commission has spent thousands of dollars in assembling data upon which to fix gas rates and this material should be used in assisting communities in obtaining fair rates.

"Gas rates generally are too high," he said. "I will reduce them."

Must Be Supervised

Concerning other duties of the important commission, the candidate said:

"Transportation, both rail and motor, is an increasingly serious problem and is entitled to and should have its full share of attention. The problems of this industry are just as important and should receive as prompt consideration as any other matters over which the commission exercises authority.

"The great oil industry upon which Texas is dependent to so large extent for its prosperity must be supervised in such manner as to obviate any suggestion of federal control.

Leave Nothing Undone

"I pledge to the affairs of that industry a fair, square and equitable administration, leaving nothing undone that will bring stability to the oil industry. It is too important to our economic setup and to Texas school children, who participate in its prosperity, to be subjected to a vacillating and devious policy."

Culberson emphasized the need for equalization of freight rates between Southwest and Eastern markets as a commission policy.

He has been secretary of the Volunteer Firemen and Fire Marshal's association of Texas for the past 20 years. He is an ex-service man, a member of the American legion, a Mason and member of the Odd Fellows.

Club Socials Are Popular

Various meetings this week have stressed the patriotic theme which birthday of George Washington inspires. A number of such meetings were conducted Wednesday afternoon.

Senior High Mothers club met at the high school auditorium for a talk by Judge E. L. Pitts, on "Adequate Recreational Facilities as a Juvenile Protection Measure." The high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Beulah Dunn presented several selections.

Judge Pitts said, "There is no substitute for a mother. Parents of today try to use the methods in educating their children that their parents used. Times have changed however and these methods alone are not sufficient in teaching the children the pitfalls they will encounter and how to overcome them. Children of today are stronger because they are able to throw off more of the temptations. Parents should train their children to detect the dangers and the church and school and community will assist them to become upright citizens."

"Ninety-eight boys and girls appeared before the Lubbock juvenile court in 1938 and only 48 appeared in 1939," he stated. "This is due to the work of the parent-teacher organizations, boys and girls organizations and the church groups."

The club voted to present a kiln to the Senior High school art department. They are to sponsor a program of the orchestra in the near future.

Large South Plains Crowd Greets Gladys Swarthout

When Gladys Swarthout, mezzo soprano of concert, stage and radio, sang at the Senior High school auditorium Wednesday night she was greeted by the largest audience ever to attend a South Plains Civic Music association program.

At intermission Dr. Fred W. Standefer, association president, introduced Vernon Herndon who will serve as captain of the membership renewal campaign which is to start March 5.

Miss Swarthout chose a gold brocade gown fashioned with high neck for her concert. She wore a tiny off-the-face bonnet in the same shade. Her sweet smile was as charming at the close of the concert as when she first appeared on the stage.

The concert artist introducing a series of songs of the Auvergne, arranged by Canteloube and these selections, "Come by the Fields," "Unhappy He Who Has a Wife," and "Lullaby" were especially well received by the audience whose membership was made up of South Plains and Panhandle residents.

Miss Swarthout's program included two numbers written for her by Charles Kingsford: "Command" and "Someone Came Knocking" and one of encores also was Kingsford's "I Remember." Other encores included a gavotte, "Coming Thru the Rye" and an arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer."

Prolonged applause greeted a number in her last group, "Into the Night," which had greater depth than some of the glorified love songs in her repertoire.

In addition to providing satisfactory accompaniment for the beautiful song bird, Lester Hodges charmed the audience with several numbers, returning for a bow at the close of March from "Love of Three Oranges."

Brains Of Huge Drug Ring Gives Up And Is Sentenced

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—Joe Olivio, alias Joe Oliver, described by federal officials as the "brains" of a far-flung southwestern drug ring, surrendered late yesterday on a secret indictment returned against him last summer and was sentenced to five years imprisonment on a plea of guilty to a charge of possession of narcotics.

Olivio's appearance in federal court was the first public knowledge of his indictment. He had been a fugitive since the charges were brought against him and a reward of $500 for his apprehension had been posted by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics.

Walter Johnson pitched one no-hit game, July 1, 1920.

IT'S DONE WITH MIRRORS? REFLECT AGAIN!—So it fooled you, too, eh? That's not a mirror, and there are really four different people in this picture. They are two sets of amazingly similar twins, whose stage work brought them together in Philadelphia. Left to right are Jeanne and Jo Reading, of Des Moines, appearing in the musical comedy, "Streets of Paris", and John and Frank Delmar, of Chicago, dancers with the Ted Shawn troupe.

Senior Play To Be Presented Tonight

Senior class of Senior High school will present as its annual senior play in the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock the hit comedy, "Spring Fever."

Growing complications arise in the boys' boarding house of a small college, where the entire comedy is enacted, when a student artist, assisted by companions, ties up a millionaire who has come to look the college over for endowment, when they mistake him for an artist's model sent from the employment bureau, and paint him as a communist.

Such factors as a chemistry major turning the room into a laboratory for experimenting with dynamite, the spasmodic typing of a zoology student who must complete a term paper immediately to graduate; and constant interruptions by co-eds, add color to increasingly entangling circumstances.

Success Predicted

Proceeds from the play are to be used for the purchase of oil paintings of the late Weldon Chapman, high school football coach, and M. E. Witt, who was head of the science department.

Cast of characters: Dorthy Jean Butler, Marie Peterman, Betty Rhea Caldwell, Jack Lovin, Cleveland Cobb, Mona Pierce, Joe McCraw, Ralph Cocanougher, Joyce Halsey, Mildred Kuykendall, Lehmer Graham and Bedford Raley.

Miss Marie Cook, director of the play, predicts it will be the most successful comedy ever presented by a Lubbock high school senior class.

MATTER OF OPINION

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Cops from the 32nd precinct in this city were found undergoing religious teaching at headquarters every day before going on their beats. The newspaper "Critica," which made the discovery, quoted one of them as saying he was made to learn a psalm that started off, "To heaven, to heaven will I go . . ."

The carburetor bowl of an automobile should be removed every 5,000 miles and cleaned of all accumulated dirt.

Southland life Insurance Company

A. Morgan Duke

TO OUR ESTEEMED
POLICYHOLDERS AND STOCKHOLDERS:

In submitting for your careful consideration the Thirty-Second Annual Financial Statement of the Southland Life Insurance Company, I am once again reminded that "Nothing succeeds like success." Our gains have been noteworthy, indeed. We have increased our capital and surplus by the sum of $119,379.56 to a total in excess of one million dollars, besides voluntarily setting aside an additional reserve of $100,000.00 for future contingencies. This accomplishment we consider truly remarkable, and tangible evidence of our policy to so manage the affairs of the Southland Life Insurance Company that the capital and surplus accounts and the other funds maintained for the additional protection of policyholders will continue to be in ample proportion to the policy reserve, thus affording an absolute maximum security to every policyholder of this Company.

Of special significance is our gain in admitted assets to a total of $30,986,493.79, which figure reflects an increase in excess of one and one-half million dollars, notwithstanding the fact that during the year 1939 we paid to policyholders and beneficiaries the sum of $3,025,052.00. While the item of cash in banks and in office is considerably larger than necessary for our operation needs, we have nevertheless adhered strictly to our policy of conservative investment of our money only in well-diversified grade "A" securities. This course of investment procedure we will continue to follow in order that our many thousands of policyholders and stockholders may enjoy the utmost in protection.

Southland life Insurance Company

I am certain that you will rejoice with me because of our gain in outstanding insurance to a total sum of $186,365,375.00, representing a highly satisfactory increase in volume in force, and enabling this Company to continue to maintain its position among the largest of Texas life insurance companies. Such a gain in our insurance account is directly attributable to the inspiring efforts and accomplishments of our very loyal organization of agency managers and field representatives whose goal is not solely the personal production of a large amount of new insurance, but rather the production of an enviable volume at no sacrifice of the renewal persistency of the insurance written. Our agency organization is constantly endeavoring to maintain a very high percentage record on renewals of business exposed subsequent to the first policy year, and the results which have been obtained for the year 1939 have been most gratifying. I want to ask, in behalf of our agency organization, that our policyholders and stockholders continue to extend to our field force the splendid assistance and encouragement which has become so increasingly apparent in the past.

The loyal, untiring efforts of every member of our organization, be that member a policyholder, stockholder, or employee, have been responsible for our most unusual record of accomplishment, and we treasure the endeavors of such friends as assets most highly prized. These assets contribute to the sum total of the greatest asset which we can ever hope to possess--the Public Confidence which we enjoy and appreciate. Your management pledges to you that our program of future accomplishments will be built upon this greatest asset of all.

Welcoming at any time your suggestions for the continued progress of the Southland Life Insurance Company, and thanking you for the splendid interest and co-operation which you have so often manifested and extended toward our Company, I am

Yours very sincerely,
A. Morgan Duke
President.

Agony Of Small Town Under Heavy Air Bombardment Is Describe

Chills And Thrills Found As Scribe Dodges Aerial Death

BY WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

SORTAVALA, Finland, Feb. 22—Yesterday for a few hours I saw and personally shared the agony of a small town under heavy air bombardment.

It was at a station 50 miles west of here.

The place already had been bombed mercilessly during the night, in five moonlight raids.

Hundreds of bomb craters, dozens of wrecked buildings, some of them burning ruins, told the story when I got in by train early yesterday morning.

Looked For Cafe

I looked for some morning coffee, found an unwrecked cafe.

But I barely was inside the door when the first air raid alarm told me that the soviet bombers were coming back.

It seemed incredible, after all the damage they had done the night before, but I took shelter in the woods with some townspeople.

The "all clear" sounded half an hour later and we hurried downhill to get on the train again. Scarcely were we settled in our seats before a new alarm sounded.

Back toward the woods we walked, half a mile away, rather unwillingly, for we believed the bombers would head for another town this time.

Bombers Are Sighted

But just before we reached the first small clump of trees we saw eighteen bombers; then seventeen more.

I made a quick dive for the nearest tree and hugged the ground beneath it, for the bombers seemed directly over us.

They were right over us—a minute later bombs fell all around our little clump of trees.

One tore a crater just half way between me and Leland Stowe, Chicago Daily News correspondent.

Stowe was on his way toward the trees but dropped in the snow, short of them, when he saw the bombers.

Ominous Roar Above

Then there was an ominous roar above us, and 15 bombers again skimmed overhead.

This looked like too much—but they ignored us, and flew on to drop destruction on the center of the town.

During the lull in the bombing we made a quick dash for woods further south, but it was a nightmare of floundering in deep snow.

The "all clear" sounded again and we returned to the station.

I swore I would make no more half-mile runs to the woods—better to take a chance on the nearest ditch.

Sure enough, another alarm came, and, again, the drone of bombers overhead.

I ducked under the nearest freight car and hoped the wheels would shield me. Then, after the first burst of bombs, I ran further across the tracks to the culvert where my traveling-companions were hiding.

Four Such Raids

Twice we crawled out of the culvert, after crouching on the ice underneath, and twice returned when the bombers circled again and new bombs fell.

There were four such raids between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. . . . Thirty-two bombers against one small town.

To me the queerest feature of the raids was that when everything was over, our train was comparatively undamaged.

The coach in which we traveled had only one broken window and a broken step.

On a nearby track, however, a bomb had twisted a steel rail like a hoop and tossed a big freight car end over end into a heap of kindling.

We steamed out of that place in a snowstorm, hoping the snow would last a long time.

Homer L. Pharr Is Speaker At Joint Veterans' Meeting

SLATON, Feb. 22 (Special) — Principal speaker at a joint meeting of Lubbock and Slaton posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars here Wednesday night was Homer L. Pharr of Lubbock.

A Mexican immigration department reports 98,612 American tourists entered the southern republic in 28,175 motor vehicles in 1939 through the port of Laredo.

Unable To Sleep; Always So Worn-Out

Night Risings Do Not Disturb Her Now; Relieved of Full, Bloated Feeling in Stomach Since Her Trial of Gly-Cas

"Gly-Cas is the very medicine I should have had years before," said Mrs. L. B. Russell, 1225 Ambler Av., Abilene, Texas. "Poor elimination had always been a problem for me and the ill effects that followed were none too pleasant. Gas, bloating and indigestion attacks were common after each meal I ate and I often suffered with that heavy, rock-like feeling in the pit of my stomach. Headaches were frequent and I was always tired and worn-out. Night risings disturbed me so much I could not get a good night's sleep. My efforts were all in vain for it seemed impossible to get anything to reach my case . . . until I put Gly-Cas to the test.

"It is remarkable the improvement Gly-Cas showed me in such a short time," continued Mrs. Russell. "With proper elimination now and the removal of those clogged impurities I am able to eat the foods I wish without ill effects afterwards, my meals are a real enjoyment for me now. My sleep and rest is not disturbed by frequent kidney action and my strength and energy is greater than in years. Gly-Cas proved its outstanding ability in my very own case."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

S.S.S. TONIC
must be good
So many people take it —to increase appetite —to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions effecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. ©S.S.S. Co.

LONG JOURNEY—Eugene Dykeman, a German, has been seven months making a trip from Germany to Rio de Janeiro, and almost around the world in doing it in order to avoid British possessions and the King's navy. He is shown at Dallas, Texas. He had travelled from Hamburg to Moscow by train, thence to Manchukuo, thence to Japan and by steamer to San Francisco. Then his route was by air to Dallas and from there he planned to fly to Chile, across the Andes to Buenos Aires and then to Rio.

Possibility Of Oil Play For County Said Strengthened

Recent assignments of oil and gas leases have strengthened possibility of oil play in Lubbock county.

Bruce McKague leased 477 acres from Mr. and Mrs. Len McClellan in section 36, block D6, Wednesday and in turn assigned the lease to Devonian Oil company of Tulsa, Okla.

Honolulu Oil corporation of Midland recently acquired assignments to approximately 3,915 acres in the south part of Lubbock county and north part of Lynn county.

The Midland corporation was active in early development of the Bennett field in Yoakum county.

Police Are Seeking Mother After She Steals Own Baby

(By The United Press)

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22.—Police and court officials today sought Mrs. James Stillman who had "stolen" her own baby, one of triplets.

One of the triplet girls, nine months old, died of pneumonia last week. Yesterday Circuit Judge Michael J. Scott judicially declared the survivors to be neglected children and ordered them taken from their parents and given into the care of the board of children's guardians.

Two probation officers—Marie Heitz and Paul Ferguson—went to the home of Louis Bohlman, a neighbor of the Stillmans, where the babies were. Each took a baby.

Mrs. Stillman was waiting on the sidewalk. Apparently reconciled to the court's decree, she asked permission to hold one of her babies and kiss it goodbye. Miss Heitz handed over the baby she was carrying. The mother promptly ran into the house, slammed the door and locked it. By the time the probation officers got in, she had fled out the back door.

The other baby was taken to the home of the board of guardians. The triplets are identical and authorities couldn't tell if she was La Vonne or La Verne. Laura died.

Uncle Sam Causes More Wrinkled Brows As Income Tax Laws Gain New Recruits

When you get ready to work up that annual sweat over income tax returns, don't feel you're being discriminated against.

In the same boat with you, and rocking it just as much, will be a bunch of newcomers—thousands of officials and employes of federal, state, municipal and school setups.

Under a ruling of last April, all political units and subdivisions are affected by the sweeping necessity to fill out income tax returns.

Formerly Were Exempt

Employes of such units formerly were exempt.

Now, if they are single and earning $1,000 or more a year or if they are married and earn $2,500 or more a year, they must chip in, just like you and I.

The county of Lubbock has 20 persons who are tagged to make out income tax returns, the city of Lubbock 27, the city schools 141. No figure was available for federal employes here. WPA employes individually will make their returns; no list of the number had been certified by the auditor of the setup here.

"Income taxes affect all now," said one auditor. "The poor devil who worked up into the night, getting more confused with each gallon of gasoline he tried to exempt from his income tax and trying to remember 'how much did I pay to the church last year, if any?' won't smear his face with ink and wish he were a government employe—not anymore.

"Because the government employe will be doing the same thing—wadding balls of paper stuffed with figures that won't add and heaving them at the litter of cigaret stubbs and hair he's scratched out of his scalp."

New Oil Pool Is Possible

That a new oil pool may be opened in west central Hockley county, approximately 14 miles northwest of the Slaughter pool was indicated today in reports from the Helmerich & Payne, Inc., and Denver Producing and Refining company No. 1 Whiteface Farms, located in the southeast corner of labor 22, league 77, Reeves county school land.

The reports said the prospective pool opener was bottomed in lime at 4,732 feet where Schlumberger survey is scheduled to be run. Operators also plan to set casing before coring deeper. The well is reported to have shown saturation and porosity in cores from 4,692 to 4,732 feet. Samples from 4,610 feet to 4,628 feet had carried oil staining.

Compares With Upper Pay

In core from 4,692 feet to 4,712 feet, operators recovered 19 feet and six inches of dolomite, with light saturation and slight porosity. It then was cored from 4,712 feet to 4,732 feet, with saturation and porosity reported in core. The section compares with the upper pay section in the Slaughter pool to the southeast.

The well is reported some 200 feet higher than producers on top of the structure in the Slaughter pool, but this is due to the regional uplift.

James H. Sullivan, formerly in the land department of the Texas Company, blocked the acreage, which was obtained from Mrs. Nelle Slaughter DeLoache of Dallas. He turned the acreage to Denver, which sold one-half interest to Helmerich & Payne, with Stanolind Oil and Gas Company buying approximately 1,100 acres in the block for $20 per acre. Sullivan reportedly has an interest in the drilling block.

farmers on relief, I'm afraid that Washington will cut off all conservation payments," Sharp said.

Because Of Money

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) asked why these farmers were "switching to day laborers?"

"Because of the conservation money," Sharp replied. He explained that owners must share these benefit payments with tenants or sharecroppers but can keep all of the payments when they operate with paid workers.

(A section in the federal farm act prohibits payments when owners turn out tenants but enforcement of this rests with farmer committees that operate the program).

Volume Of Livy's Works Is Presented To Mrs. Dingus

Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell, collector of rare classics, has presented a volume of Livy's works, published in Holland 262 years ago, to Mrs. William G. Dingus, assistant professor of Latin at Texas Technological college.

The gift was made following a radio speech made by Mrs. Dingus on "Is Latin a Dead Language?"

The 788-page volume, bound in leather with gilt-edged leaves, was edited by Johann Friedrich Gronovius, German antiquary, and published by the Elsevir press at Amsterdam in 1678. The English title is "Extant Works of Livy's Histories of Ancient Rome."

street and Avenue P. At that place, according to present plans, a steel tower approximately 100 feet high will be erected and necessary electrical apparatus will be installed.

Control Room At City Hall

The broadcasting and control room will remain on the first floor of the city hall adjoining the police station.

Estimated cost of the improvement will be approximately $1,480, of which the county commissioners court has been asked to pay half with the stipulation that facilities of the station will be made available to all officers of the county.

The new equipment planned for purchase, it was revealed, will be of a type that, with some additions, can be converted into a two-way station. However, the added equipment will entail additional expense which is not included in the immediate plans.

The county commissioners court already has given evidence of its willingness to cooperate in the undertaking. Original tentative estimates were that the improvements would cost $1,100 and the county commission immediately approved the bearing of half of that expense.

Information that the cost will be higher has been transmitted to Sheriff Tom Abel who, in turn, has referred it to the county commission with the recommendation that the county bear half of the estimated $1,480 cost.

Charter Night Program Held By Seagraves Lions Club

A delegation of Lubbock Lions joined members from Morton, Levelland, Odessa, Brownfield, and Denver City in a charter presentation to the newly organized Seagraves Lions club Wednesday night at Seagraves. The new Seagraves club has twenty-two charter members.

H. C. Pender of Lubbock, deputy district governor, made the presentation of the charter to Bill Griffis, president of the Seagraves club. Judge Dan Blair of Lubbock made the principal address at the meeting. Hop Halsey and his Cowboys furnished entertainment during the program.

Lubbock Lions attending the affair besides Pender and Blair were: H. J. Bingham, Noel Stalnaker and George Watkins.

Lovers' Tryst Proves Tragic

(By The Associated Press)

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Feb. 22—Mrs. Doris Clayton, 39, promised she would return to her husband after keeping a Valentine's day tryst with a divorced business man.

She did—dead, after her body had lain unidentified 24 hours and her paramour, Charles Souza, had hanged himself.

George Clayton claimed the corpse yesterday and told officers of a strange triangle in which he condoned her "uncontrollable infatuation" for Souza, 45-year-old operator of a San Leandro collection agency.

Consented To Trips

Sheriff James J. McGrath and Coroner William F. Crosby said Souza had shot Mrs. Clayton, gulped poison and hanged himself.

Clayton, a steel worker, told investigators he had consented to his wife's trips with Souza in the hope she eventually would return to him.

He told interviewers his wife had promised not to see Souza after their Valentine's tryst.

"It was just one of those things," Clayton said. "I knew about this uncontrollable infatuation of hers but I felt in my heart that it would wear off and she would remain loyal to me."

policies and challenged the Republicans to present a program. In particular, he aimed his fire at Dewey.

McNutt said his record as governor of Indiana was "open to the public in all respects."

"And that includes the two per cent club organized in Indiana to help pay campaign expenses," he said. "There has been a lot of gossip about the two per cent club. There are two ways to finance a campaign like that.

Prefers Honest Way

"One is to dangle the hat before people who expect to get favors, financiers seeking special privileges. The other way is to open the way for voluntary contributions by people of your own party, men and women who are interested in a common program of government.

"The latter way is the honest way, and I prefer it. Besides, those two per cent contributions were not two per cent. They were only 1.2 per cent. And no one had to contribute for fear of losing a job."

McNutt was welcomed at the train by approximately 100 persons including a scattering of women. McNutt was the last passenger to step off. While a band from the Pauls Valley, Okla., training school played "There's Something About a Soldier That is Fine, Fine, Fine," and a negro porter did the buck-and-wing, McNutt bounded off the train and started a round of handshaking.

He said he was pleased with the progress of his campaign in the southwest.

House Of David Seeking Revenge For Humiliating Defeat

Tech Raiders Are In Final Home Stand

Seeking revenge for the humiliating shellacking administered by Coach Berl Huffman's "house-on-fire" Red Raiders in their series opener, the touring House of David aggregation tonight takes on the Techs in the concluding clash of the two-night stand—final home contest of the season for the Crimsons.

And if the net swishing on the Scarlet and Black standard bearers' part becomes any hotter, the old gym is apt to burn down and the boys with the beards may find themselves singled ever more so than was the case Wednesday night when the Raiders swamped them, 68 to 26.

Starts At 8 O'clock

Game time is 8 o'clock. But the record throng of more than 2,000 which attempted to crowd into the gym isn't likely to be duplicated.

It takes competition to draw the cash customers out, and when the Techs are playing the Davids, it just isn't there. At least, it wasn't.

There's no telling about basketball, of course; the Davids may do an about face, strut their old-time stuff and make things tough for the Raiders, but it is doubtful. If Tech doesn't give way entirely, it should pull whiskers tonight as of last night. The Raiders were off on their scoring then, too, the reason for their 68 points being the fact they controlled the ball about 80 percent of the time, taking it away from the whiskered boys almost at will.

The "original" House of Davids have lost their fire and pepper. About all they had in the way of comedy was Ham Hamilton's body-twitching, which soon became almost unbearable and which bordered on vulgarity, the dipsy-do of the veteran Bill Steinecke, and now and then an outmoded wisecrack made for the benefit of the crowd.

In justice to the Davids, it should be reported that Womack, the tallest and probably one of the most valuable scorers of the team, took the floor in ill health and with a temperature of about 103 degrees. He did not take much part in the activity, although in the second half he wheeled and flung in three field goals.

Womack had to play in order to fill out the quintet. Mitchell, the clumsy center, for instance, made seven personal fouls, and at least one other went over the quota. By pre-arrangement, no player was to be expelled from the game on personals.

Lead 33-9 At Half

The Davids did do a bit of tricky passing, but in ball handling in general, the Techs did a much better job.

The Raiders hopped off to a lead, got behind, 4-2 in the first few minutes, then Roper, Percival and Brown started hitting the hoop and by half-time Tech had piled up a 33-9 lead.

Bauman Roper led the Tech scoring with fifteen points. Brown scored a flat dozen, and Percival made 10, Gilley nine. Every player on the Tech squad figured in the scoring. Coach Huffman withdrew his regulars, Brown, Percival, Roper, Gilley and Risinger, about six minutes before the finish of each half, but the second stringers, White, Patterson, Irons, Geron and Locke, were almost as effective; if anything, they fought harder and made a better percentage of shots than the regulars.

Hamilton gave the crowd a thrill or two in the first half by sinking field goals from mid-court, and Steinecke did the same thing a couple of times in the second half.

In a preliminary game last night, the Tech freshmen defeated the Panhandle Masked Marvels, local independent team which features a uniform including head and face masks, 30 to 22. Bob Andis led the frosh with 10 points as they won their 17th consecutive contest. The freshmen play the Anton Independents in a preliminary game tonight starting at 7 o'clock.

District Cage Crowns To Be Decided In State This Week

(By The Associated Press)

One district championship already has been determined, another will be decided in a three-game series and 30 others will be on the line in tournaments scheduled for the weekend.

Laredo was the first school to clinch a title, sweeping through to honors in district 27 with a twelve-game winning streak.

Sinton and Banquete open a three-game series tonight for the championship of district 26.

The 32 survivors of the some 250 teams that will compete in the district tournaments will engage in regional play next week to decide the eight squads for the state tournament at Austin.

Pampa, Carey, Lubbock, Lake View, Sweetwater and Crowell are some of the stronger clubs of West Texas.

Poly of Fort Worth, Bardwell, Woodrow Wilson and Highland Park of Dallas are among standouts in North Texas.

The state champion Livingston Lions are back with prospects of again putting an East Texas team into the title playoff although Livingston's chances do not appear as good as they were last season.

Lamar of Houston, Port Arthur and Brackenridge of San Antonio, look powerful in South Texas with San Marcos looming as the Central Texas power, El Paso High is the favored far western team but Grandfalls looks quite powerful in that region.

District tournaments will be held at Canyon, Pampa, Lubbock, Childress, Sweetwater, Breckenridge, San Angelo, Wichita Falls, Brownwood, Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Commerce, Texarkana, Tyler, Nacogdoches, Texas A. and M. college, Huntsville, Houston, Beaumont, Uvalde, San Antonio, Georgetown, LaGrange, Victoria, Harlingen, El Paso, Fort Stockton, Midland and Van Horn.

Five Hot Matches In Houston Today

HOUSTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Nerveless Ed White, former national intercollegiate champion, faced the wisdom of long experience in the first match in defense of the Houston Country club invitation golf tournament today.

White, home course player who won medalist honors yesterday with a smooth par 71 while most of the field blew up, collided with crafty Ossie Carlton, former state champion, who has played the game more than 20 years.

Carlton Knows Links

Carlton shot a 78, seven strokes higher than White, in the qualifying round, but he knows the links as well as the champion.

Four other promising matches as the field got away paired Harry Todd, Western Amateur champion of Dallas, against Ed Herron of Houston; O'Hara Watts of Dallas against John Barnum of Houston, runner up to White last year; Lorraine Young of San Antonio against Don Schumacher of Dallas, former Trans-Mississippi champion, and Mac Burnett of San Antonio against Ellsworth Vines of Hollywood.

One of the biggest surprises was the failure of Captain Ken Rogers, United States army aviator who beat White in the championship finals two years ago, to qualify.

Cowboys To Battle Faculty On Friday

That crack someone made about the teacher "unlimbering" has become anything but a joke at Junior High.

For that is just what approximately 10 men faculty members at the school have been doing here of late and will do before the public at 3:15 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The occasion marks the annual Cowboy - Faculty basketball classic which climaxes the cage season at the school.

Liston Joins Team

Not taking any chances one way or the other, Coach Lovic Liston has announced that, if necessary, he will don appropriate regalia and join his charges against his faculty friends. And that would set some sort of precedent.

Any number of teachers who sit with dignity before their classes at the school are apt to be found in uniforms not so dignified, at least for professors, and positions not so poised, for anybody:— Not that the teachers can't play basketball—but, taking it from the Cowboys "they gotta show us first!"

They're Ready

Taking the floor at 3:15 o'clock on the Junior High hardwood against Liston's crew—the coach intends to play himself if his cohorts need him, but "they won't," he adds—will be a team selected from the following, all male faculty members of Junior High: Jay Gordon, Gordon Deering, Russell Wimberly, Carl Bailey, John Cox, J. W. Wilson, Byron Chappel, Gordon Thompson, Joe Kennedy, and J. E. Hancock.

And they're all serious about winning this annual affair, too.

What was that crack that "teachers ain't human?"

Pairings For First Round Made Public

With prospects bright for one of the hottest District 3 schoolboy hardwood tournaments in recent years, 14 county titlists, Lubbock High's Westerners — defending champions — and Plainview's Bulldogs hurtle from the starting post Friday in opening competition at Texas Tech's gymnasium.

Initial game of the tournament, to get under way at 8:30 o'clock, will pit two of the five so-called favorites of the meet, Abernathy's "darkhorse" Antelopes and the powerful Meadow aggregation, the former representing Hale county, the latter Terry county.

Advance To Regional

The Antelopes were runners-up last year and pre-tournament speculation brands them as tough customers for this year's meet.

Winner of the tourney advances to the regional in Canyon.

Following the Tech-Davids clash at the Tech gym last night, the pairings for the first round were drawn with Coach Berl Huffman, director of the meet, in charge. First round opponents and the time for their respective engagements follow:

8:30—Abernathy, Hale, vs Meadow, Terry.

9:30—Southland, Garza, vs. Dickens county champion.

10:30—Lorenzo, Crosby, vs Lockney, Floyd.

11:30—Idalou, Lubbock, vs. Lamesa, Dawson.

12:30—Littlefield, Lamb, vs Lubbock High.

1:30—Plainview High vs Bula, Bailey.

2:30—Morton, Cochran, vs Plains, Yoakum.

3:30—Lynn County winner vs Levelland, Hockley.

Quarterfinal games will start at 4:30 o'clock Friday with semi-finals opening at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Officials are Jack Hackler, Abernathy; Ross Ayers, Lubbock; and Leo Jackson, Tahoka, two to work each game.

Lorenzo Boys And Girls Nab Contests In Crosby Race

RALLS, Feb. 22 (Special)—Climax to one of the more amazing angles of the area's schoolboy cage campaign, which boasts many unusual items this season, was written into the records here last night when both the Lorenzo boys and girls quintets captured their respective divisions of the Crosby county race.

The titles carried with them the right to participate in respective district tournaments, the boys entering the District 3 meet at the Texas Tech gym Friday at 10:30 o'clock against Lockney, Floyd county titlist.

Practice On Dirt

The Lorenzo boys measured Roberson, 29 to 7, for their 24th triumph of the season in the title tussle. Cecil Hurley, with nine points, paced such veterans as Captain Jesse Gray, R. P. Nicholson, Vol Harris, and Carrol Martin, his teammates in the title drive. In previous games, they had dropped Ralls, 27 to 12, and Crosbyton, 39 to 25.

The unusual thing about Coach Waters' boys is the fact that they have practiced throughout the year on a dirt court, and their record for the season must be considered remarkable, due to the fact that all opposition had benefit of hardwood courts and was playing at home, as the champions were unable to schedule home contests.

Foy Paces Girls

The girls, coached by H. H. Nichols, superintendent, defeated Roberson by an almost identical score as that the boys registered, 27 to 9. Jo Foy grabbed individual scoring honors for the winners with 11 points to pace the following teammates, Mary Lee McCurdy, and Bonnie Marler.

Draw And O'Donnell Battle For Title Of Lynn County

TAHOKA, Feb. 22 (Special) — Draw and O'Donnell square off at 8 o'clock tonight in Tahoka High school's gymnasium to decide which will represent Lynn county in the District 3 basketball tournament starting Friday in Lubbock.

With J. D. Florence showing the way with 12 points, Draw eliminated Tahoka Wednesday night, 20 to 16.

Adams and Weathers were outstanding for Tahoka.

Rain Expected For Santa Anita Derby

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22. (AP)—The sixth edition of the $50,000 added Santa Anita derby drew a brilliant field of three-year-olds and the prospect of rain and a muddy track today.

Eighteen colts and two fillies were named but it appeared that several short of this field would try for the rich prize in the mile and one-eighth feature of the holiday racing program.

Fillies Are Favored

The two fillies, the Foxcatcher farm's Fairy Chant and Neil S. McCarthy's Augury, carried great favoritism and it seemed safe to guess that one of the so-called weaker sex might triumph in the west's biggest derby attraction for the second straight year. Texas-bred Ciencia won the derby in 1939.

Coupled in the betting booths were the strong entries of the Milky Way farms and McCarthy, Los Angeles attorney. Milky Way had its Gallahadion, expected to run regardless of track conditions, and either Tough Hombre or Chattel.

McCarthy's Augury was coupled with Certainty, while the Fox-catcher entry boasted Fairy Chant.

Rain or shine, the Milky Way entry was expected to go postward the betting favorite. Jockey Basil James drew the mount on Gallahadion, and is the leading rider at Santa Anita this season.

Dick Ratliff Will Play With Amarillo

(Special To The Journal)

AMARILLO, Feb. 21—Though the West Texas-New Mexico league campaign doesn't get under way until Tuesday, April 23, it's practically here to judge from the baseball fever rampant in this diamond enthusiastic city.

And one of the main reasons for all the current interest is the impressive array of stars which steadily are adding their names to Amarillo Gold Sox contracts under the guiding hand of President Bob Seeds, the clouting outfielder of the New York Giants, who is determined that the helium city be represented by nothing but an A-1 ball club.

Issues "Warning"

So, hardly had the likeable Sox prexy issued a storm warning to other clubs of the circuit than he signed Dick Ratliff, veteran catcher, of Littlefield, who was the major domo and backstop for the Clovis Pioneers in 1938 and is one of the most dependable sluggers in the league.

Seeds now has Claude (Bubba) Jonnard to manage his Gold Sox, Neal Rabe as business manager and Mrs. Nona Seeds, his attractive wife, as secretary. His National league batting average should not be hampered by worry with that set-up.

Training Starts March 31

Jonnard is in town getting acquainted with existing conditions but will return to Joplin, Mo., for Mrs. Jonnard this week. He will return March 31 for spring training.

Ratliff finished the 1939 campaign with a .340 average at the plate. He was manager of the North all-stars in the first annual "dream" game in Lubbock last season.

Principal cotton producing states, in order of their output, are, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama.

Fight Champs To Be Chosen

(Special To The Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, Feb. 22—As post-season activity to the Golden Gloves leather tossing over the area, Littlefield's invitation boxing tournament will be climaxed tonight with the crowning of seven titlists in as many weight divisions.

One winner, in the lightweight division, was determined in the opening round of competition Wednesday night.

Scene of the ring festivities will be at the Rio theatre.

Wendal Rose, of the CCC team, decisioned Bud Locke to win the lightweight title tonight.

In the flyweight division, Billy Kirk of the CCC won a decision over Al West of Lubbock, and Aubrey Jackson of Littlefield decisioned M. C. Wright of Amherst in a toe-to-toe slugfest.

Buford Bradshaw of Littlefield outpointed Jimmy Cowan of the CCC in one featherweight fight, while Red White of Sudan won the other from Jack Cox of Shallowater, finalist in the Lubbock Golden Gloves tournament by technical knockout.

Blood spurted over the first row as Morris Mooneyham of Littlefield scored a gory technical knockout over Russell Abbott of Morton after two knockdowns in the first welterweight fight. J. C. Cotton of Anton was knocked out by W. C. Garven of Sudan, and Herman Childress of Anton outpointed Jack Dunlap of Plainview.

In the middlewieght division, Joe White, Plainview decisioned Woodie Culpepper of the CCC, and Robert Crouthers of Plainview outpointed Raymond Abbott of Morton in the slugging event of the evening.

Herman Dirickson, Littlefield, knocked out C. W. Huggins of Lubbock in the second round of their light heavyweight fight, and will meet John Buck of Morton, finalist in the state Golden Gloves tournament, in the final round of this division Thursday night.

Two fights in the heavyweight division saw William Warren of the CCC outpoint Herman Treadwell of Plainview, and Linard Buck of Morton, district Golden Gloves champion, knock out Forrest Smith.

A program of 13 fights went over with a good crowd last night, and an even larger crowd is expected to see the finals. Bill Chesher, theatre manager here, is promoting the fight program.

It's Your Own Risk, By Collier Parris

TEMPUS FUGITS, and the passing years do no good to the "original" House of David Basketball team.

At least, that's the impression gathered from last night's demonstration at the Texas Tech athletic barn which serves as a gymnasium. The Davids have passed their zenith, and no longer are to be regarded as a front-rank independent basketball team.

Along with some two thousand paid customers, we were righteously disappointed last night at the House of David-Texas Tech basketball game. We got a few grins, even a laugh or two, early in the game, at the antics and wise-cracking of Ham Hamilton and Bill Steinecke, but there was too much repetition and not enough basketball, and laughs gave way to expressions of disgust before the game was over.

Largest crowd since amateur boxing was accepted by Texas Tech attended the basketball farce last night.

And in this connection, we wish to apologize to the hundreds of persons who paid good money to see a basketball game, previously figured to feature some real court comedy, between a couple of educated goal-tossers.

Instead, the full house of patrons saw a parody, more or less, on the good game of basketball; they saw the Texas Techs set a new scoring record for the season, to be sure, but if the Red Raiders had made good on as much as 65 per cent of their chances, the Tech score would have been over 100 points. And had the Tech boys guarded their goal with more alertness, the Davids would have never scored 26 points. As it was, they scored 26 to Tech's 68.

Crux of the situation is: Texas Tech has a good team, a team with a minimum of color and showmanship but a great deal of spirit, hustle and scoring ability. The present team does not compare with former Tech teams so far as showmanship, ball-handling and hustle are concerned, but it is the most conscientious and hardest-trying team Texas Tech ever placed on a basketball court. It has very little color and it proposes very little extra-curricula entertainment, but it's a fine team, consisting of a squad of very fine boys, none of whom is tall and lanky, but all of whom are eager and willing workers.

Except for a bit of twitching by one or two Davids; the long-distance shooting of the boys, and the occasional clowning of the Steinecke, the House team had nothing on the last night on some Texas Tech teams name.

So far as ball-handling concerned, the Davids nothing last night on mer Tech team, which such wizards as Hugh Wilson Gilmore, Carson and Leroy Crowshade by several stripes number of points.

That Girl on Broadway says an oldtimer is one who can remember when the Board of Education was a shingle.

One of our foreign correspondents reports that Hitler is "not himself" these days.

Well, well. We're glad to hear the old boy is improving!

WE hear about synthetic clothes, synthetic foods, synthetic gasoline, rubber and building materials in Europe, but we never stop to think about the possibilities of such things here—although for years we have been using such synthetic materials as imitation silk, leather and tiling, and many others.

But a "fashion show" of synthetic fabrics was held last week in Philadelphia and those who attended were astounded at what they saw.

The show was more than a demonstration of what science can do with unpromising materials. It may mean revolutionary changes in American ways and habits of living.

It may even foretell the development of new industries which will absorb great numbers of workers.

An industrial revolution was brought about in those dim days of the past when the first weaver fashioned a piece of crude cloth as a substitute for skin and fur. Since then, fabrics have been made of so many things that it is not so strange as it seems that they now may be made of coal, milk and rubber.

But the miracle of their making is that science has learned how to take natural products apart and put them together in new forms. Chemistry has created the whole industrial field of plastics and artificial threads and fabrics. It is said that more than 200,000 of these synthetic products have been developed since the World war and already they serve an amazing variety of purposes—not merely by replacing other materials, but by making a thousand things cheaper and better than they could be made before.

AS much as most of us hated the messy study of chemistry in high school and as deftly as we dodged having to "take it" in college, it is now chemistry's turn to enrich the world with new comforts, conveniences and luxuries of life.

Out of the evil-smelling test tube, perhaps, may come something like a new civilization and those who grieve for the "lost days of opportunity" may learn better from the industrial chemist, who knows that in these thousands of new materials are the makings of a new world.

Unless you have a brand new one, you won't find the word "chemurgy" in your dictionary. But mark it well and learn to spell and pronounce it. You're going to hear a lot of it as you grow older!

The good burghers of Spring Valley, Ark., are used to having their postoffice run by a man named Sanders.

L. A. Sanders, recently retired, served Spring Valley as its postmaster for 36 consecutive years, regardless of shifting political administrations. Now the job is held by his son, Ted, upon approval of none other than Mister Farley, himself.

The Sanderses, father and son, incidentally, are relatives of Jesse Cannon, of Idalou, according to Mrs. S. H. Scott, who passes us the information.

J. A. KOGER, who lives six miles east and a mile north of Lubbock in one of the most attractive rural homes in these parts, was going through his desk the other day and ran across a rate-book of the old R. G. Dun Co. The book, 40 years old, was carried by Mr. Koger when he made a trip from Waxahachie to Slaton to look over some land.

Mr. Koger's father, W. M. Koger, was state representative for R. G. Dun & Co. at that time and information given up by the rate-book is interesting, indeed.

At that time—in 1900—the business firms in Lubbock—population 112—were:

J. D. Caldwell, dealer in drygoods and groceries; J. J. Dillard, printer and first editor of what is now The Morning Avalanche; H. S. Graham, listed as in the electric light business; Green & Son, in the grocery and grain business; Hunt & Sharp, druggists; the Lubbock Mercantile Co., owned and operated by the late Frank Wheelock and I. L. Hunt; W. E. Penney, operator of the Nicolett hotel—now the Broadway at Broadway; and Avenue H; Royalty & Son, hardware dealers, and L. H. Williams, blacksmith.

Attempting to track down those who were in business at that time, The Plainsman called his good and honored friend, George C. Wolffarth, who remembers everything as if it happened yesterday, for the "right dope."

The Plainsman thought R. G Dun & Co. must have been mistaken about there being an electric light business here in 1900, but Dun was right, The Plainsman was wrong. Mr. Wolffarth remembers that Harry Graham was in the light business then with C. E. Hunt and that the plant was the first of its kind here.

The firm Green & Son was composed of the late John Green, father of Ed and Pat, who are in the real estate business here now, and his son, the late Claude Green. The firm of Royalty and son was J. C. (Cash) Royalty and his late father; Hunt & Sharp, druggists, were Rev. T. W. Sharp, then a Methodist preacher here, and I. L. Hunt, father of Earl, Glenn and Carl Hunt, local business men. W. E. Penney, the hotel man, was, of course, the father of Mrs. W. B. Powell, of County Commissioner Barrett Penney, and of Mrs. J. C. Royalty, all still here.

J. D. Caldwell, C. E. Hunt, and J. J. Dillard, of course, are still very much around the place.

MR. KOGER'S ancient rate book also listed "The Lubbock National Bank" but, says Mr. Wolffarth, who was vice-president of the institution at that time, the name was "The Lubbock Bank." It was a private affair with capital stock of $40,000, with R. M. Clayton as president and I. L. Hunt as cashier.

"The Lubbock Bank" was the forerunner to the present First National.

Mr. Koger recalled with a grin that he was sent out here to appraise some land near where Slaton now stands, in connection with the owner's desire to borrow $2 per acre on it. Mr. Koger discovered that the state held a 97 1-2-cent per acre debt against it and that he advised against the loan.

"I told 'em," Mr. Koger said, "that the land wasn't worth the money the state held against it!"

Mr. Koger, a resident of Lubbock county for the past 16 years now, admits he could have been "a little bit wrong" in his estimate!

A little lowdown: The sudden improvement of the Russian drive against the Fighting Finns is believed to have resulted (1) from German military direction by crack nazi generals sent in to take charge; and (2) from Russia's sending in a large number of seasoned troops from the Japanese-Russian Manchukuo trouble zone. That is the advice recently received by the U. S. Department of State in Washington.

ARA JOHNSON — The mystery girl.

JOHN DOUGLAS—A young mining engineer, in love with Ara.

CAPTAIN DAWSON—A detective who likes to listen.

Yesterday: Dawson encounters trouble in questioning Ara. She knows the answers. At breakfast, John Douglas breaks in, kisses Ara. "How did you know Miss Johnson would be here?" Dawson asks.

CHAPTER IX

"Just how," Dawson repeated slowly, "did you know Miss Johnson would be here?"

The young man was silent. He groped for a plausible explanation.

"I had called him before the officer came to the apartment." Ara broke in quickly. "I told him there might be trouble over — over last night. I told him—"

"Did you call from the apartment?" Dawson snapped.

"Yes."

"Krone, check the apartment for an outgoing call from Miss Johnson's apartment about 3 a. m.," Dawson commanded. "The operator should remember it." Dawson knew Ara was lying. He turned to the others. "You may finish your breakfast. But don't try to leave the house. All entrances are watched. I'll want to talk to some of you later."

He took John Douglas' arm. "Come along, young man, I want to find out a little more about you—and your telephone call."

* * *

John Douglas stared at the grim-faced detective across the desk. He had got himself into this, worrying about Ara. Now he had implicated her more than ever. It was up to him to clear her at any cost. One look at Dawson's cold, steel-blue eyes convinced him that it was no use to try to lie out of it. The truth was better—if not the whole truth, at least part of it.

"Well?" Dawson asked, as he lighed his pipe.

"I'm John Douglas," the red-haired young man began. "I'm in love with Ara. I've loved her ever since I met her out in Salt Lake, three months ago. I'm an engineer—a mining engineer.

"And about last night—we really were looking for a minister. I merely walked away from Officer Flynn to look at the house number, and when the car darted away and the officer shouted, I was afraid and ran. Then shortly after I reached home, Ara called."

"That's a very nice story," Dawson commented. "Now suppose you forget it and give us the truth. What were you and Ara Johnson doing at Arnold Benthorne's house last night, You may just as well tell me, for the taxi driver is ready to talk. He told Flynn where to find the girl—and where we'd find you, too. He'll give away the rest of the story, unless you'd rather I'd hear it from you."

"That dirty—" Douglas said. The air of a frightened youth fell from him. It had been a pose, as Dawson had surmised. These two—Ara and Douglas—were not fools, and they were willing to take chances.

"All right—" Douglas squared his shoulders—"here it is. That about being in love with Ara is true. I did meet her out west. I came to New York and she followed soon after. We are to be married soon. But first, I had to see Arnold Benthorne.

"I passed the house early last night and saw the guards. I knew I'd never get by them alone so I framed this 'looking for a minister' scheme with Smith, the taxi driver. But Ara didn't know it wasn't on the level. She must have been awfully surprised when I disappeared and Smith drove away in such a hurry.

"But dont blame Smith too much, Captain," Douglas went on. "He saw a chance to make $50 in a hurry—I can't say I wouldn't do the same thing. He and Ara are entirely innocent. . . ."

Dawson nodded. Better to agree with Douglas now, while he's in the mood to talk, the captain decided. And if he keeps on talking he may talk himself into the electric chair.

"I've tried to see Mr. Benthorne at his office, at the club and even on the golf course, but I could never get close enough to speak to him. I posed as a salesman, a book agent and even as an officer, but I never made it past his private office door.

"I had to see Benthorne—"

"Why," Dawson asked, almost casually.

"I-I-I wanted to see him about some mining properties in Alaska. It means a great deal to me—"

"Does it mean enough to kill a man to get it?" Dawson countered.

"You'd probably think so," Douglas answered calmly. "If I had been able to see Arnold Benthorne alive—if he was what I thought he was—I probably would have killed him. But I didn't get the chance. Someone else shot him."

"I don't know that. Maybe Benthorne did kill himself. Maybe—"

"For a person who is supposed to have no knowledge of this murder, Douglas, you seem to know entirely too much. You've talked yourself into a tight spot. You'll need an air-tight alibi to prove you didn't kill Benthorne yourself. Where were you when the shot was fired?"

"I was running across the garden to the window of the study."

"Did you see the killer?" Dawson interrupted.

"No. I hid behind some shrubbery until the officers went in the front door, then I hurried down the street to meet Ara. She was waiting at the corner, and the cab was parked in a driveway about three blocks farther on."

"You are sure you did not see anyone come out the window of the study?"

"I'm positive, Captain. I couldn't have missed seeing any person even near the window. There was no one."

"Douglas," the captain began, a little more affably, "I don't know whether your story is the truth or not, but I'd like to believe it. It fits in with some theories I have. Of course, you have only the girl to back up this alibi. Oh, yes. One more question. . . . Why were you—"

Jameson appeared in the doorway. "Telephone Captain Dawson. Your party is on this extension." He nodded toward the handset near Dawson's elbow.

"Hello! Captain Dawson speaking. . . . Yes Flynn. . . . Good. . . . Your luck's holding. . . ."

At the other end of the wire, in Benthorne's office, Flynn leafed through a pile of papers as he talked.

"I've got all his bank books right here . . . first deposit was $40,000 in 1924. . . . Not much for a couple of years and then . . . boy . . . how the money did pour in.

"Can't find out much about him before 1924. I got the banker out of bed and he remembered that Benthorne's first deposit was in cash.

". . . Evidently Benthorne wasn't around much before 1924. He rented his office then—hired this secretary who's still working for him. . . . Or rather — was working for him. . . . Naw, she's 45 and wears thick-lensed glasses. . . . Glamor gal, huh!

"You might be interested to know, Captain, that Benthorne's been buying Alston Motors . . . on the quiet . . . with a dummy owner. . . . I found some private memos. . . . Looks like he was getting ready to bounce old man Alston out. . . . It was all set. . . . Well, thought you'd like to know. . . .

"No, I can't find a thing about 'Big Red.' Maybe Benthorne put him into the note just to double-cross us cops. There are a thousand 'Big Reds' here in town right now. . . . How you going to pick the right one? What would a prospector be doing in the city? All right, Captain, I'll keep looking. Okay. . . .

At the other end of the wire, Flynn hung up.

NOT MUCH TO CROW ABOUT

Texas has no reason to cheer simply because 27 fewer people were killed in traffic accidents during 1939 than during 1938.

Certainly, the improvement in the record is to be preferred over one which might have been worse. Without question, the improvement has been greater than the record indicates when one considers that more motor vehicles traveled more miles in 1939 than in 1938.

But the fact still remains that 1,583 people—enough to populate a good sized town—died on the highways last year. It still is a fact that authorities are agreed that at least 90 per cent of those lives would have been saved had the most elementary safety rules been observed.

Texas has made a little progress in the matter of highway safety during the past year—but very little. It is nothing to justify pride. On the contrary, sorrow and apology are the only emotions permitted when one contemplates the roll of 1,583 dead.

Air Industry Has Its Headaches, Too, What With War And Things; Building Costs Cut

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 — The tremendous war-boom expansion of the aviation industry is producing its share of headaches.

Geared up suddenly to produce 15,000 military airplanes in the next 18 months, as well as substantial non-military production, the industry worries about things like this:

1. The administration has let out public hints of a bad "bottleneck" in engine production. Producers say there's no such thing. They wonder if the administration isn't just working up support for a bill like one Senator Lister Hill of Alabama introduced last spring, for a plant to provide a yardstick of production cost in peace-time, and capable of vast expansion in wartime.

Caiton

2. Today's vast expansion might leave the industry face-to-face with a bad collapse when the war ends. That happened after the World war. It will be necessary to hold export markets developed in 91 countries, and in the meantime the British, though buying planes from us, have not stopped exporting their own. They, too, evidently have an eye on that after-the-war market.

* * *

Peace Group Skeptical

The peace societies are reserving comment on President Roosevelt's peace move until they see what it really adds up to.

Over a month ago, some of them got word that he was seriously considering an offer of mediation to end the war. When Secretary Hull began talking peace with neutral statesmen, the peace groups believed this was a good start.

Then came Sumner Welles' trip abroad for talks with the belligerents. This made the peace people a bit skeptical. Some fear that this could turn out to be an attempt to get a "British peace."

Report New War Of Nerves

Latest reports from inside Germany gathered by the Friends of German Freedom, anti-Nazi group with headquarters in New York, say that Hitler is trying to scare the western powers into making peace by threatening a "second revolution" in Germany.

These reports, say the Nazis, have ostentatiously gone radical during the last couple of months. Party right-wingers have been purged, new emphasis has been put on Nazi "socialist" planks, and certain war-time restrictions on workers have been lifted.

Cutting Cost On Building

Dollars-and-cents results of the Justice department's drive against high building costs are beginning to show up in statistics.

Figures compiled by the Federal Home Loan bank board show a drop in building costs in six out of ten cities investigated. The price of building a standard six-room house, comparing last-quarter figures for 1939 with the same period figures for 1939 with the same period figures for 1938, fell $49 in Chicago, $230 in Detroit, $166 in Los Angeles, $11 in Pittsburgh, $68 in San Francisco and $115 in the District of Columbia.

These figures aren't conclusive—especially since the price went up in the other four cities. Justice officials say they should be read in connection with (a) the fact that the U. S. average ... slightly in that year, ... fact that construction ... creased.

Dawson was pleased. Things were beginning to take shape. Motives were beginning to show up. He studied Flynn's report for a few minutes before turning back to Douglas. . . . Alston. . . . Could he have guessed? . . .

Dawson nodded.

"Perhaps I can help," Douglas continued. "This 'Big Red' was my uncle."

REAL BARGAIN

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP)—One buyer almost hit pay-dirt at a Brookfield church rummage sale. Mrs. Michael Garvey brought in an armload of old clothes as a donation and laid down her pocketbook for a moment. She turned around just in time to retrieve it from a clerk who was going to sell it for 10 cents. Inside was $18.

The Adams, Harrison and Roosevelt families have each given two presidents to the United States.

George Washington May Have Told Truth About Cherry Tree But Rep. Sol Bloom Says He Never Told His Correct Age

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—This is not the anniversary of George Washington's birth!

The father of his country may have told the truth about the cherry tree, but he never told his correct age. You can take the word of Rep. Sol Bloom, D., N. Y., who is Congress' No. 1 celebrator of important national anniversaries.

Bloom looked Washington squarely in the eye as he made the statement. Washington, from the framed picture that hangs just above his desk, did not bat an eye.

"No sir," Bloom declared with emphasis and added confidence, "this isn't Washington's birthday."

"You ask me why," stated the greatest congressional authority on Washington. No one had asked him, but Bloom has been on too many congressional investigating committees to let that deter him.

"All right, I'll tell you. It was because he was born on Feb. 11. Didn't know that did you? It's a fact and I've got the record to prove it. And historians tell us he was born in 1732, but he wasn't."

"You ask me what year he was born," Bloom continued, although there had been no interruption.

"Well, I'll tell you, it was 1731. Yes sir, George Washington was born Feb. 11, 1731. Not many people know that, but it is a fact.

"You ask me how I figured When Washington was born the old English calendar had gotten so far behind that Jan. 1 arrived on the day that now is March 25.

"Then in 1751, when Washington was 20 years old, the new calendar was adopted, starting the year off on Jan. 1. In order to get the calendars straightened out they dropped 11 days from September that year and skipped January, February and the first 25 days of March.

"Well, the upshot of it was that 288 days and one of those left out was his birthday. That made him nearly a year older than the history books say."

Without stopping Bloom adjusted his gold-rimmed spectacles and looked over his shoulder to see if Washington's picture was still there. It was.

"Funny thing, did you know that Washington never delivered his most famous 'speech,' his farewell address? Well, he didn't. It was published in a Philadelphia paper, but he never made it and no one read it for him."

But, as has been the custom for more than 100 years, the House and Senate each took time off today to hear the address read. In the House Rep. Frank Crowther, R., N. Y., was the reader and in the Senate, Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb.

Case Of The Musician's Wife Proves To Be A Little Bit Confusing To The Cops

It was all rather confusing to the police.

There was a call from a musician who said his wife had attempted suicide.

"She raises hell every time he comes in off work; said she didn't want to hear him sing . . . anymore," said a notation.

She Cut Her Wrist

The husband said the woman cut her wrist.

The coppers didn't know. They didn't see her.

There was no suicide, however—all, various and sundry, seemed convinced of that.

A Mexican, Jim Esquirdo, was arrested by a Mexican policeman and Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, and charged with burglary of the Stanley Johnson residence at 2205 Tenth street.

He wore a suit taken from the Johnson residence, when arrested, said Mabray, and was quick to give verbal substantiation to the charge.

Clothing Was Taken

Clothing valued at $46 was taken from the residence.

D. W. Francis of Midland said someone took a tire, tube and wheel from his car parked in 1300-block Broadway. Up the street one block originated the first complaint of spring clothing having been stolen. Miss Virginia Hoffmaster said a shirt and a spring coat had been taken.

Two persons charged with forgery were back in the county lockup after having been removed Wednesday to Hale county to await pleasure of the court. One was said to have been given two years in the penitentiary and will be held here awaiting transfer to Huntsville. The other awaits trial. They were given to custody of Lubbock officials Oct. 24.

A Cheyenne, Wyo., federal deputy sheriff accepted custody of Juan Rojes, charged with theft from the government, and removed him from Lubbock jail.

A detective sergeant of Memphis, Tenn., accepted two young men, about 23 years old, who had been arrested for Tennessee officials several days ago by Don Reeder, Lubbock police chief, and Aubrey Fawver, police identifications officer. Officials seemed to know the men would show up here, since one of them had a wife living in Lubbock.

In county court of Judge J. J. Dillard a man who had not been reported arrested was charged with theft of $20 from Joe Lowrimore. V. A. Bethany signed the complaint prepared by Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney.

Building Snaps Out Of Brief Lethargy; New Permits Issued

Demand for building permits snapped out of nearly a week of comparative lethargy with the authorization since noon Wednesday of new construction to cost a total of $23,896, according to records in the city building inspector's department this morning.

They increased the permit total for the week to $35,916, for the month to $183,731, and for the year to $777,532.50.

Among the permits was one to St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, owner, and C. B. Harris, contractor, for the construction of a rectory at an estimated cost of $8,621 adjoining the church at 2303 Main street. The church and the rectory are to form the first and second units of a Catholic community center now in process of development.

Other new permits included: Don L. Mitchell, owner, and Harris, contractor, brick veneer residence at 1717 Thirty-second street, $7,650; Chester Ballentine, owner, and W. F. Oliver, contractor, residence at 1523 Twenty-sixth street, $3,200; and Ray Hunter, owner, and Oliver, contractor, 2420 Twenty-sixth street, $3,200.

Protests Are Being Lodged At Construction Work On Sunday

Complaints have been received at the city hall from several persons who reported that construction work on numerous residences and other buildings in Lubbock continues without interruption on Sundays, officials said this morning.

City officials added that they were uncertain as to what can be done about it, although the off-the-record opinion was expressed that such work may violate state laws.

The chief objection that has been made to officials, they said, is that hammering and other noises in connection with construction work disturbs them and their entire neighborhoods on the one day of the week they are permitted by their work to sleep late.

One local attorney who said that inquiry had been made of him related that he had advised that if the Sunday work causes disturbance, it might be halted by attacking it as a nuisance.

Germany Scores At Sea But Blockade Pressure Mounts

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Germany scored a new high in the grim bookkeeping of the war at sea the past week, destroying more Franco-British and neutral cargo tonnage than in any other seven-day span of this six-month-old conflict.

Yet there are important compensating factors for the Allies. Despite the stepping up of the German sea attack, the Allied economic net closed tighter than ever about the reich.

No Starving England

Moreover, the tonnage sunk by nazi torpedoes, mines and air bombs was still far short of what German U-boats alone accomplished at the peak of their World war effectiveness. Nazi visions of starving England will lack realism unless Berlin can make its counter-blockade many times more effective.

Meanwhile, Franco-British diplomatic strategy of a decidedly strong-arm appearance is producing effect in other potential war theaters and is thereby increasing the economic pressure on Germany. It has apparently bent Rumania to the Allied will in the case of Rumanian oil shipments vital to Germany. Nazi hopes of great expansion of that flow appear blocked.

To Slam Other Doors

The Allies seem to be grimly determined to slam other doors, both economic and military, on Germany, regardless of what Baltic neutral toes are stepped on. This is illustrated by the case of the German prison ship Altmark. Norway is on blunt notice from London of possible drastic Allied action to prevent the nazis from using Norwegian waters as a German corridor.

The plight of neutrals on both flanks of the German-Allied conflict is becoming more acute day by day and is apt to become critical in spring. Turkey, potential Franco-British ally, is moving openly to exert increasing pressure on her Balkan neighbors against any fraternizing with either Germany or Russia.

There is great doubt among neutral observers of the near eastern scene that Allied troop dispositions and Turkish hostility to Germany and to Russia, actually indicate definite plans to extend the war to southeastern Europe this year. The primary objective of the Allies in massing hundreds of thousands of troops there appears still to be protection of their own essential trade routes and oil resources.

Another purpose seems to be to increase the diplomatic pressure on Balkan neutrals to restrict their economic dealings with Germany.

DOES THE TWAIN MEET?—Probably Alan Lee, 3, of New York's Chinatown, and the little children behind him never heard of Kipling's oft-quoted, "East is east and west is west and never the twain shall meet," but this was a scene when the Chinese in New York celebrated their New Year, and urged China to resist further any conquests by Japan.

of them, are concerned. The whiskered boys play in the big towns and in the little towns, from coast to coast, but the principles are the same everywhere and we are not to be taken for a bunch of chumps, even in so small a town as Lubbock. We know the "goods" when we see it, and wool-pulling efforts are lost entirely.

Title Suit Orders Are On File Here

Orders in two quiet title suits issued early this week by federal district Judge T. Whitfield Davidson in Dallas are now on file with Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy court clerk here.

Hearing on both cases was held at the last term of court here, opening in late November, by Judge Davidson. They were brought by G. V. Fisher, a Californian and Honolulu Oil Co., against A. C. Jordan and Ross Walker, and concerned 200 acres known as a homestead and 120 acres, the east half of section 800, block B, John D. Gibson survey in Yoakum county. The acreage is in the heart of the Denver City field.

Defendants Win

Judge Davidson found for the defendants, said W. W. Campbell, who with his partner J. E. Vickers and Lawrence Barber of Seagraves represented the defendants.

Jordan, said Campbell, bought two sections, 800 and 764 from the state of Texas in 1908 and lived on the land until late in 1912 when he disappeared. Later a suit was brought in Scurry county on a mortgage and judgment given against the 120 acres. A divorce was granted in 1916 and the wife, claiming the homestead as community property, was given its use, but not title to it, Campbell said.

Twelve years ago another quiet title action was filed in Yoakum county courts and judgment rendered. Campbell, in his arguments before Judge Davidson, held both suits improperly filed and that the judgments represented a cloud on the title. The ruling of Judge Davidson held the titles granted by these actions void and that Walker and Jordan were the owners.

"Oil men tell me the land is worth a thousand dollars an acre," said Campbell. "The land is in the heart of the field and I know it is very valuable."

REALLY BULLET-PROOF

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Elliott Wisbrod thinks he has something really good in the way of a bullet-proof vest—and he backs up his confidence in a big way. Before an audience of policemen, he allowed a .38 caliber revolver to be fired at him time and again from a distance of two feet.

Justice Thomas Todd of the U. S. Supreme Court and Lucy Payne Washington were the first to be married in the White House, on March 11, 1811.

Unromantic Law Steps In To Block Marriage By Radio

MONTREAL, Feb. 22. (AP)—Cold, unromantic law stepped in last night and dashed the hopes of Sergeant Charles Chevalier, lovelorn member of the Canadian expeditionary force, and his dark-haired 19-year-old fiance, Vicky Quesnel, to marry by Transatlantic radio.

Sympathetic London lawyers delved into their law books to see if such an ocean-spanning ceremony were permissible but came up with the decision that English law forbids marriage by proxy.

Vicky was disappointed but not Papa Napoleon Quesnel, who bestowed his blessings upon the engagement but wasn't so sure about the proposed radio wedding
