Committee Is Investigating Disposition Of $65,300 In 1928 Campaign Against Election Of Al Smith

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Efforts of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to obtain a postponement of next Wednesday's hearing by the senate campaign funds committee on his 1928 anti-Smith campaign expenditures today met with failure.

Chairman Nye announced the meeting would be held with or without the presence of the southern Methodist churchman.

Attends Sessions

The North Dakota senator made public correspondence with the bishop in which the latter said it was important that he attend the session of the general board of missions of the Methodist church at Nashville next week and asked the committee meeting be delayed a day or two.

Replying, Nye said the committee felt the bishop's presence would not be required at the hearing, that it would forward a transcrip of the proceedings to him, and that Wednesday was the only date satisfactory to all committeemen.

Logan Grocery Looted Friday

Cigarets, Fountain Pens And Other Articles Are Taken By Robbers; Safe Moved But Is Unharmed

Five cartons of cigarets, several fountain pens, candies and other miscellaneous articles were stolen from Logan Grocery store, 2011 Fourteenth street, when burglars broke into the building Friday night, police reported yesterday.

Entrance was gained to the building by tearing off a screen and breaking a window in the rear of the building, officers said. It was necessary for the thieves to take a door down inside the building in order to get into the principal part of the store.

Safe Is Unharmed

The large steel safe was wheeled from the front to the back of the store. The safe, however, was not harmed, officers said.

Members of the district attorney's office, investigating the burglary, said last night they believed the same group of persons were involved who broke into two Pinson drug stores earlier in the week.

Rush Plans For Snuffing Of Well

GLADEWATER, May 2. (AP)—As workmen hurried preparations today to extinguish flames which had raged for more than 100 hours in the Sinclair No. 1 Cole well, near Gladewater, they had still the prospect of another stiff battle to control the flow of oil from the big producer if they were successful in putting out the fire.

It was while workmen were trying to cap the wild producer last Tuesday that a spark caused by tools striking together set off the great torch which fatally burned nine persons and brought to the scene experts to battle the fire with nitroglycerin. More than 150,000 barrels of oil were estimated to have been consumed.

The Sinclair Oil & Gas company will have spent more than $50,000 to blot out the flames, according to Wesley G. Gish, executive in charge of East Texas operations for the company.

Spanish Royal Family Again United With Return Of King

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, May 2. (AP)—The Spanish royal family was reunited tonight with the return of Alfonso from England.

The former king, traveling under the title of Duke of Toledo, was accompanied by the Duke of Miranda, his companion on the flight from Spain, and his spokesman since then. Alfonso retained the preoccupied look that was noted when he left London, but he assumed a more cheerful aspect when he entered the hotel where his family was waiting for him.

Argument Over $1.50 Debt Results In Fatal Shooting Of Man And Son

Lubbock's Daily Cigaret Bill Is $1,081.50--Plus 3-Cent Tax

LUBBOCK cigaret smokers will reach down in their jeans and pay out about $216.30 every day, or approximately $78,949.50 a year in taxes under the new Texas cigaret law which goes into effect in August, according to estimates compiled here.

Imagine 7,210 packages of cigarets—144,200 individual cigarets, if you please—being smoked in Lubbock every day. That is the aggregate taken from rough estimates by jobbers, retail and wholesale firms here. These figures would make an average consumption of 2,631,650 packages or 52,633,000 cigarets in a year.

Lubbock's estimated cigaret bill for a year is $394,747.50, enough to build the new federal building and postoffice here or enough to construct about thirteen miles of paving. Taking fifteen cents as an average, smokers pay out about $1,081.50 a day for cigarets.

Growing more statistical, if all of the fifty-two million cigarets smoked here in a year were placed end to end they would extend 213 miles. But at that rate it would take Lubbock smokers 117 years to smoke enough cigarets to reach around the world. And if all of the cigarets smoked here in a year were rolled into one huge cigaret it would make—well, you figure it out.

New York Dean Of Financiers Dies Saturday

George F. Baker, Contemporary Of J. P. Morgan, Succumbs To Pneumonia After Brief Illness

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 2. — George F. Baker, 91, dean of New York financiers, died at his home tonight of pneumonia. The aged financier died at 8 p. m. his secretary, Frank Rysavy, announced. He had been ill since Thursday.

George F. Baker, Jr., and other relatives were with the banker at the residence, 258 Madison Ave., when death came.

Statement Issued

A formal statement was issued some few minutes later which said: "George F. Baker passed away peacefully tonight at 8 o'clock."

The banker, regarded as the third richest man in the country, lapsed into unconsciousness late in the day. Three doctors remained constantly at his bedside to the end.

Seized With Chill

Baker returned a few weeks ago from his winter home on Jekly Island, off the Georgia coast. He then was apparently in the best of health. After spending Thursday at his desk in the First National bank, of which he was president, he was seized with a chill in the evening and pneumonia developed rapidly.

Known as the "enigma of wall street," and the "man of silence," he was a contemporary of the elder J. P. Morgan, who frequently turned to him for counsel. A score of years ago he was regarded as Morgan's chief ally.

Beset On All Sides By Portugal Forces And Deserted By Comrades, Rebels Are Forced To Surrender

(By The Associated Press)

LISBON, Portugal, May 2—Harrassed on all sides by Portugal's available military and naval forces, and deserted by the comrades on whose support they had counted, the rebels who set up a junta government at Funchal, Madeira, just one month ago, cauptulated today.

General Souza Dias surrendered unconditionally to Magalheas Correia, the minister of marine who commanded the attacking force, winding up a month of "warfare" in which the causalties o nboth sides were small and during which no civilian or foreign resident was injured.

The surrender was good news to President Carmona, for it came on the heels of May Day rioting in which the police had to turn a ma-

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, May 2. — David W. (Duke) Sink, 61, and his son, Miles F. Sink, 32, were shot to death late today at Cedar Hill, 20 miles from Dallas. Floyd Plummer, 25, came to Dallas and surrendered a short time later. He was charged with murder in two complaints.

The shooting, said to have resulted of $1.50, occurred near the Cedar of 1.50, occurred near the Cedar Hill postoffice just after Plummer had emerged from a barber shop where he had had his hair cut. Will Lay, a barber, said the Sinks came into the shop while he was cutting Plummer's hair but left before he finished. Automatic Used

A .25 calibre automatic was used. One bullet struck the elder Sink in the neck and two struck his son in the abdomen. The elder man was killed instantly, his son dying a short time later. There were several eye witnesses but they were reluctant to discuss the shooting.

The elder Sink was a retired farmer and the younger was his only son. Miles was married and had two children. Plummer is employed by a Dallas company but lives with his family near Cedar Hill.

Acquaintances said the younger Sink claimed Plummer owed him $1.50.

Plummer cried when deputies at the county jail told him both the

WASHINGTON, May 2. — The United States Chamber of Commerce was charged today by Republican independent senators with failing, at its recent Atlantic City convention, to present a program for solving the nation's economic problems.

Senator LaPollette, Republican, Wisconsin, said the industrial and financial leadership represented at the meeting attempted to shift the blame for the economic depression from its own shoulders to "politics and politicians."

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders attributed great political significance to the speech of Julius H. Barnes chairman of the board before the chamber, advocating deductions in the Hawley-Smoot tariff rates to benefit foreign trade and aid in the revival of business.

Much Work Is Facing Solons Before Ending

Saturday Was 110th Day Of Legislative Session And The Amount Of Unfinished Business Looms Large

Congressional Redistricting Bill Still In Free Conference; No Progress Made In Settlement

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 2.—This was the the 110th day of the legislative session, and the amount of unfinished work lent strength to the belief the lawmakers would keep toiling longer than the 120-days suggested by the constitutional amendment adopted in November.

The 120-day period will end May 12. The house planned to decide the first of next week whether it wanted to adjourn May 12 or keep going a few days more. Two other adjournment dates, May 16 and May 22 had been suggested.

No Progress Made

The congressional redistricting bill was still in free conference and no progress had been made in settling the differences between the two houses. However, conferees planned to meet again Monday night and expressed hope an agreement would be reached. The problem was exceedingly difficult because personal ambitions and fortunes were involved.

Both bills placed Congressmen Mansfield of Columbus and Briggs of Galveston in the same district and the conferees had hit upon no way to separate them. The Austin and San Angelo districts also were causing trouble.

Bills Approved

Senator Greer of Athens, chairman of the senate group of conferees, said he would like to see a redistricting bill passed but he would rather see it fail for the present.

Cinco De Mayo Festivities Set This Week

HARD times among Lubbock's Mexicans population will cut down "Cinco de Mayo" festivities to a minimum here this year, Salvador Correa, in charge of Tuesday's entertainment program, said yesterday.

Mexico's national holiday, May 5, will be observed in Lubbock with a dance at the Second of April hotel in the Mexican district, Correa said.

"Due to business conditions and the shortage of work for our people, we are compelled to observe the holiday in the most economical method possible," Correa said. "We expect to have a big time at the dance, which will last from 7 p. m. to midnight. Outside of this affair no other program for the day is being planned. There may be a few speeches during the morning," he said.

"Cinco de Mayo," or just plain Fifth of May in English, is one of Mexico's most important holidays, according to Correa. It was on May 5, 1862, that Benito Juarez defeated the French troops, supporting Emperor Maximillian, in the city of Puebla, Mexico. This battle is recognized as the first step made by Mexico to regain her independence after several years under French rule.

The holiday this month ranks second in importance among Mexico's holidays. The nation's independence day is September 16, commemorating the uprising started on September 16, 1810 by Father Hidalgo y Costillo, which eventually resulted in Meixco's independence from Spain, Correa explained.

Young Colorado Hero Leaves White House After Visit With President

BY SAM BLEDSOE

WASHINGTON, May 2. (AP)— "It's almost as hard to leave here as it was to leave home."

Bryan Untiedt, of Towner, Colorado, who had been the guest of President and Mrs. Hoover for four days, was standing on the platform of the west bound Liberty limited as he spoke.

There was a warning whistle and the train slowly began to gather headway. The thirteen-year-old boy, whose heroism during a Colorado blizzard attracted the attention of the president, was on his way home.

Bryan summed up his impressions of his stay at the executive mansion hesitantly.

"Most everything was nice," he said a bit shyly. "What impressed me most? I don't know hardly — Washington sure is pretty and everybody has been as good as they could be. A strange place is all right after you get to know people and I got to know people right away.

"What did I think about Mr. Hoover? Well, I'll tell you. He's an awfully nice man and when you get to talking to him a little bit you forget all about his being president. Yes, I told him about us getting caught in the snow."

The boy had begun to talk freely but he grew silent under questioning about his experiences during the blizzard.

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP) — As members of the radio audience, or at least a part of it, listened and looked, they saw Frank Duvall and Grayce Jones become man and wife before microphone and photo-electric cell last night.

They were guests via the either lanes at the "first television wedding."

In the screen of the television receiver could be seen the principals as the ceremony was performed by Dr. A. Edwin Keighwin, pastor of the West End Presbyterian church and president of the Greater New York Federation of churches.

Voices of the participants could be heard too. For the broadcast was in effect a "radio movie," being transmitted by New York's new sound and sight stations WGBS-W2XCR.

The bride, who is a member of the staff of D. E. Replogle, vice president of the Kenkins television laboratories of Passaic, N. J., was given away by her mother, Mrs. S. Kappel of Newark, N. J.

Hope Hampton was maid of honor. The bridegroom is an engineer of the Jenkins staff. The romance began in a television laboratory.

Seated at a television receiver, located 14 miles from the transmitter, and with a sound set close by, "televiewers" could make out the action in spite of the handicap of fading.

WTCC Convention Committees Meet Here This Week

Elections And Program To Be Outlined Here

D. A. Bandeen, Manager, Will Attend Meetings On Tuesday And Wednesday; Decorating Starts This Week

MEETINGS of the elections and convention work committees of the thirteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held here next Tuesday and Wednesday respectively, Maury Hopkins, convention manager, announced Saturday.

The elections committee, of which Winfield Holbrook of Plainview is chairman, will draw rules governing voting at the regional chamber's convention here May 14, 15 and 16 and will organize itself for the assembly.

To Shape Program

Final shaping of the convention program is the task to face the convention work committee at its meeting Wednesday. Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls is chairman of the group, which will arrange schedule of speakers, appoint resolutions committees for six scheduled group conferences, and fix other details of the convention proper.

Members of the two committees are:

Elections — Chairman Holbrook, Grady Shipp, secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, Malcolm Meek of Midland, W. P. Jones of Childress, Ira Duckworth of Post, and Olin Hinkle of Pampa.

Convention works — Chairman Cline, John W. Perkins of Alpine, L. S. Kinder of Plainview, Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, Chester Harrison of Brownwood, James D. Hamlin of Farwell, and Wilbur C. Hawk of Amarillo.

Bandeen To Attend

D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will come here from Stamford for the two committee meetings and will remain until the close of the convention, Mr. Hopkins said.

Work of the convention office here last week was devoted principally to extending invitations and stimulating interest in the regional chamber's convention.

Invitations were renewed to the 238 local chambers of commerce affiliated with the West Texas body, and suggestions made pertinent to organization of delegations so that they would be represented at each major part of the convention.

Invite County Agents

County agents were invited to attend the convention and to organize delegations of farmers and business men interested in agriculture, particularly to attend three group-conferences bearing directly on agricultural and livestock problems.

The 131 county judges of West Texas were invited to attend the convention and to issue similar invitations to members of their commissioners courts.

E. C. Abernethy, Hale county judge, of Plainview, was the first to respond. County Judge L. D. Westfall of Aspermont in Stonewall county was the second.

Invitations Sent

Usual invitations were sent to the 126 directors of the West Texas chamber. Others receiving invitations included local chamber of commerce presidents and secretaries, presidents of West Texas trade association groups, and newspaper men of the region. Each of these groups, and directors and officers of the West Texas chamber, will be guests at luncheons during the convention here, Mr. Hopkins said.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, separately invited most of the groups to the convention.

East Texas, South Texas, and Western Oklahoma chambers of commerce also received invitations. The Oklahoma group will be represented by a motorcade of fifty automobiles, according to W. J. Milburn, manager of Sayre.

Present indications are that at least seven bands will be at the convention with Dallas, Fort Worth, Amarillo, Sweetwater, Denton, Coleman, and Portales, N. M., delegations.

Offer Scholarships

Scholarships have been offered for the winner of the My-Home-Town interscholastic speaking contest by Texas Technological college and Draughon's business college. The latter school's offer is a $100 scholarship for use in either Lubbock or Abilene, according to J. D. Miracle, president.

Miss LaVerne Bloodworth will represent Slaton in the speaking contest. Other late entries include Raymond T. Sparks of Melvin, Miss Lyrita Martin of Hamlin, Clint Barham of Granberry, Clifton Watts of Rochester, Thomas Service of McCamey, Bob Roy Sparr of Eastland, Tom Simmons, jr., of Quanah, and Forrest Weimhold of Sudan.

C. M. Caldwell of Abilene is chairman of the contest.

Directors Named

Reappointment of H. D. Grant and S. A. Wells as Lubbock's representatives on the board of directors of the regional chamber was effected at a meeting of the directorate of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Friday.

Flags and other decorative materials to be arranged on Lubbock streets and buildings for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention will arrive here this week and be put up before start of the session, according to W. O. Daniels, decorations chairman. The decorations were bought by the Lubbock chamber upon recommendations of committees of the West Texas chamber, Texas Retail Merchants association, and American Legion conventions to be held here. The decorations will be used for the other assemblies.

Program of a breeder-feeder conference scheduled for the convention will be broadcast over the Dallas News station, WFAA, next Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, Mr. Hopkins was notified.

Four In Race

Dallas is one of four cities which have announced they will bid for the 1932 convention, others being Amarillo, Sweetwater, and Mineral Wells.

Twenty-two towns and six colleges have announced they have selected young women to represent them in a historical pageant, "The Spirit of Progress," which will be presented at Technological college athletic field the second night of the convention. Twenty other towns have advised the convention manager that they will choose representatives.

Miss Lenore Brownfield of Brownfield, the city which her father founded will represent the Terry county seat in the pageant.

Exhibit Planned

The Panhandle region, all of which is included in district No. 1 of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce territory, will have an attractive and representative exhibit at the convention here, according to O. V. Vernon, manager of the Amarillo chamber and a member of the secretaries advisory board of the regional organization.

Work of arranging the display, which will show the resources, possibilities and opportunities of the region, is being supervised by H. M. Luna, exhibit manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Each of the ten districts in West Texas are to have similar exhibits at the convention.

Quake Stirs Ghost As Long-Lost Ship Appears Alongside Namesake

(By The Associated Press)

AUCKLAND, N. Z., May 2.—To see the skeleton of a ship that once bore the same name as their own vessel emerge from the sea where it had rested for 40 years was the uncanny experience of the crew of a steamer in Napier harbor when the recent earthquake occurred.

When the sea bed heaved, the wreck of the 2,000-ton clipper Northumberland, lost in a gale in 1887, rose to the surface alongside the modern tramp steamer bearing the same name.

For many miles the coastlines were changed, and in some places the sea bed rose above water.

Several steel safes, reposing in the mud, recalled some mysterious robberies which occurred at Napier several years ago.

Will Cut Day From Week Of Railroad Men

Southern Pacific Agrees On Plan With Employes In An Effort To Prevent Further Reduction In Force

HOUSTON, May 2. (AP) — The Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana will cut one day from the five-day working week of some 2,400 employees in the mechanical departments and two days from the working month of about 1,200 employes in the general offices here, L. B. McDonald, president of the Texas-Louisiana (T. and N. O.) system has announced.

The changes, he said were agreed upon after a conference with employes and their representatives. The latter, Mr. McDonald went on, selected the arrangement in preference to a force reduction, "thereby avoiding further increase in the ranks of the unemployed."

Traffic Declines

A decline in traffic had made some action necessary, the president explained.

Other news of retrenchment came during the day. The Houston Chronicle printer reports, failing of official confirmation, that the Sinclair Oil company here had reduced wages from 10 to 15 per cent "from top to bottom" and that the Houston structural steel company had cut the salaries of hourly employees 10 per cent in addition to eliminating one working day in every two weeks.

Identification Of Woman's Body Proven To Be Wrong

INDIANAPOLIS, May 2. (AP)—Telegrams received here from the sheriff of Van Horn, Texas, put an end to the theory that a woman who committed suicide here last Saturday under mysterious circumstances was Annabelle Sawyer. Persons who viewed the body had expressed the belief the dead woman was a Mrs. Sawyer who while employed as a domestic in two homes, had told stories of former affluence and of social connections in Baltimore.

The telegrams from the Van Horn sheriff gave information that Mrs. Sawyer now is living in a Texas mining camp and has not been in Indianapolis since last October.

This Is Why It's Called Booze

Long years ago, children, when your great-grandfather used to be forever staying up with sick friends, there was a man by the name of E. G. Booz who lived in Woodbury, N. J. He made bottles like the one you see in this picture and he filled them with a strange, amber-colored liquid which was known to the people of those days as "whiskey." And people who had colds, and even people who didn't, bought these bottles, and soon they came to ask for the whiskey by the name of the maker—Booz. Now the bottles are very rare, and this one attracted lots of attention when it was exhibited at the annual Ceramics Exposition at Rutgers University.

Bishop Cannon Asks Delay In Hearing On Expenditures

WASHINGTON, May 2. (AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., has asked Chairman Nye of the senate campaign funds committee for a few days delay in the hearing set for next Wednesday on the southern Methodist churchman's anti-Smith campaign expenditures in 1928.

Until he framed a reply, the North Dakota senator declined to make public the bishop's letter or say whether he would grant the request.

Bishop Cannon is undecstood to be desirous of attending the hearing and wants it postponed until he can reach Washington from the West.

Delegation To Wheat Parley Is Announced

Samuel McKelvie, Grain Member Of Farm Board, Is To Represent The United States At London Meeting

WASHINGTON, May 2. (AP)—Selection of the American delegation to the international wheat conference in London was completed with announcement by the farm board that Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member, would be its representative.

In a statement, the board emphasized that participation i nthe conference does not alter its recommendation to United States growers that they reduce production to a domestic market basis.

Recommendation Stands

"That recommendation stands," the board said, adding:

"As stated repeatedly in the past year and a half, the board is of the opinion that such action on the part of the producers is necessary if they are to get a more satisfactory price for their wheat than they have in recent years."

The board said it felt the conference opening May 19, which will be attended by Argentina, Russia, Australia, India, and the Danubian countries, will develop, regardless of its tangible results, "facts relative to the world situation and problems confronting the different exporting counties that will lead to a better understanding of the mutual difficulties and what must be done to meet them.

Nils A. Olsen, chief of the agriculture department's bureau of economics, will attend the conference with McKelvie.

Priceless jewelry which once adorned women and men of the court of Nebuchadnezzar some 2500 years ago, magnificent sculptures of the Sassanian period, and royal tombs more than 5500 years old, have been discovered on the site of the ancient city of Kish in Irak.

Health Clinic At Slaton Sponsored

SLATON, May 2, (Special)—The Parent-Teacher association of Slaton is sponsoring a health clinic beginning with next week and every school child in the city is to be given a complete physical examination.

Dentists, opticians and other doctors are co-operating in the check-up which will be at the high school building. A complete explanation of the health drive will be given by L. T. Green, superintendent of schools, Monday night in a community program at the high school building.

Mrs. L. G. Odom is general chairman of the arrangements for the drive, which is a fore runner of the summer round-up sponsored by the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers.

American school children have more than $62,000,00 on deposit in school savings banks throughout the United States, says the American Bankers Association.

Jack Keller Sets New Hurdle Mark

OHIO STANDING, COLUMBUS, O., May 2. (AP)—Two national world's records, one national intercollegiate mark and a tie of new Ohio marks were made at the eighth annual Ohio athletic relays today.

Jack Keller, Ohio State sophomore, unofficially lowered the world's mark in the 120-yard high hurdles. His time of :14.3 was one-tenth of a second faster than that of Thomson of Dartmouth in 1928.

The mark, however, probably will remain unofficial, for it equaled over two hurdles.

Anchored by Keller, Ohio State set a world's record in the shuttle hurdle in 1:01.8, having established the previous record of 1:01.8 in 1928. Keller in this event was timed at :19.3.

L. "Crip" Golightly in the first exhibition of night baseball on the Plains or in Northwest Texas on the Tech field Friday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Alexander To Pitch

No less personage than the hero of several world's series and one of the oldest men in baseball, Pete Alexander, will start the game for the visitors on the mound. He was recently appointed manager of the team, and is the only member whose locks are of the usual length and whose whiskers are shaved daily. The others have never had a haircut nor a shave, coming from the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Michigan, where the brethren still cling to a puritanic religious belief.

Coach Golightly, promoter of the game here, states that his local team is fast rounding into shape and will hold daily workouts this week in preparation for the first night playing of any of them. Aside from the mental hazard of playing after sundown, the local team promises to give the visitors everything that could be asked in the way of competition. Proceeds gained from the exhibition here will go toward furnishing the varsity men's club room at the Tech gymnasium and to other advantages of the "T" club.

Arrive With Caravan

And so, about noon next Friday, a caravan of eight heavy trucks and several automobiles, carrying the portable lighting equipment and the players, will file into Lubbock. Eight towers, extending 80 feet into the air and supporting huge reflectors are mounted on the trucks and will furnish light for the game. Illuminating the premises as well as a $20,000 light plant possibly could. One of the most expensive plants in the nation and one of the few portable plants, the outfit carried by the House of David club has been used to light major league parks with great success. The team has appeared this spring against the major league teams and against game in Texas.

During the spring months, the House of David club has trained at Mineral Wells, strolling about the state to meet professional and amateur teams in all sections of Texas in exhibition games. The game here will be next to the last one played in Texas, the team going to Amarillo for the final game before leaving for the northern states.

The game here will be staged on the Texas Tech field, now undergoing repair. Tech student athletes have been employed to do the necessary outside work in preparing for the game and the college is to profit.

Alexander was recently named manager of the club.

Dale Alexander, Tiger First Baseman, Heads American League Batting List; Vosmik Falls Behind; Ferrel Is Star

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Hammering an even 100 points onto his average during the second week of the campaign, Dale Alexander, first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, soared to the top of the American league individual batting list, according to unofficial figures which include the games of Wednesday.

SHERID

Alexander's terrific clip boosted his average to .466 or 98 points better than the second place mark of Charlie Berry, Boston catcher.

Joe Vosmik, the young Cleveland outfielder, who soared through the first 10 days of the season at better than a .500 pace, ranked down to the extent of losing 171 points, and fell from the lead to fifth place among the regulars. Following Alexander and Berry, among the regulars, the leaders were Simons, Washington, .448; Ruth, New York, .400; Vosmik, Cleveland, .398; Hodapp, Cleveland, .381; Fonseca, Cleveland, .360; Walk, Cleveland .357; Cronin, New York, .353; Melillo, St. Louis, .350.

Cleveland Batters Lead

The Cleveland regulars batted .309 or better and the collective average of the race setters was .291, two points shy of last week's mark, but miles in front of Washington's .262 for second place. The Athletics boosted their team fielding mark four points to .967 and remained the best with New York second at .978.

Alexander headed the individual list in total hits, with 24, had the most total bases, 38, and was tied doubles at seven. Sprowl of Washington had propelled in 16 runs to lead in that department, while Johnny Stone's five home runs was another best mark. Lou Gehrig, New York's walloping first baseman, headed the field in stolen bases, having swiped five, while honors in triples belonged to Harry Rice, Washington outfielder, who had nailed out four three-ply blows.

Wes Ferrell Heads Pitchers

Five hurlers, Herb Pennock, of the Yankees, Pat Caraway of Chicago, Rube Walberg, Philadelphia, Willis Hudlin of Cleveland, and Ed McKain of Chicago, had won two games, without losing any, but the most impressive record was owned by Wes Ferrell, who reached a new height Wednesday by holding the St. Louis Browns hitless and runless, for the fourth triumph in five starts. Bob Grove, the Athletics' great southpaw, relinquished the strikeout leadership to Roy Sherid of the Yankees, who had fanned 22 batsmen in five games.

Grove's average, however, was high on for he had whiffed 22 in four contests.

The NUT and CRACKER

BY COL. JOE GOODEYE
One-Time Big League Pitcher.

NEW YORK, May 2.—They say the new ball is dead, but there must be some mistake about that, too. The other day a ball hit Rick Ferrell, the St. Louis Browns catcher, on the chest protector bounced out across the infield and knocked Jim Levey down.

Umpire Magerkurth was hit on the shins with a blow from the bat of Johnny Mostil of the Pirates. If the umpire had been somebody like Brick Owens, whose feet are of the monumental, immovable type, you could understand it, but Magerkurth is supposed to be possessed of the power of locomotion, which makes the claim that the ball this year is dead look a little queer.

Lefty Grove, Herb Pennock and some more of the southpaws in the American League have been throwing a ball that bats somewhat dead, and it looks as if the Robins have been playing with a bean bag, but these are probably exceptions which prove the rule.

Higher Criticism of the Giants already has made nearly as many home runs as he got all last season. I noticed the other day where even one of the White Sox got a home run. That makes the ball look positively vivacious.

If the new ball is dead, the county morgue is an academy for amateurs.

Britains Try For Ryder Cup Teams

LONDON, May 2. (AP)—After the final trials for the British Ryder Cup golf team today, the selection committee met tonight to study the results. Announcement of the team which will defend the international professional trophy against the United States team at the Scioto Country Club, Columbus, O., in June is expected next Tuesday.

Nine "probables" of the British squad were matched against so many "possibles" in today's trials, playing foursomes similar to the Ryder Cup contests. Only two of the probables lost and one of them was Charles Whitcombe, captain of the team, who bowed to Dan Green of Cape Heath, 2 and 1.

Whitcombe's position was not considered in danger because of his defeat today. The other losing probable was Arthur Dupont, who fell a comparatively easy victim of F. H. Rodgers of Stanmore. The margin also was 2 up & 1.

Mrs. Fisk Beats Mrs. Hunter Of Dallas One Up After Hard 36-Hole Final Round Contest

West Texas Woman Stages Fine Comeback After Falling Far Behind In Early Part To Win Over Experienced Player

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

COUNTRY CLUB, SAN ANTONIO, May 2.—Playing in the finals of the 1931 Texas Women's Golf Association championship here today, Mrs. Hunter lost to Mrs. R. S. Fisk, Wichita Falls, one up on a 36-hole match. Mrs. Hunter fought gamely to overtake Mrs. Fisk's four up lead she enjoyed at the 18th green, to make the turn all square. In the afternoon round, she jumped into a one-up lead at the 19th and held it to the 34th, but she lost the 35th and halved the 36th.

When the critics gather around and pick the championship match to shreds for flaws and flawless shots, they will find that a day of uncanny pitch shots, which failed her for a few holes, but returned when she needed them most, saved the match and title for Mrs. Fisk. The Wichita Falls champion is a fine golfer to boot the title. She is a wise, deliberate player who takes plenty of time with her shots. Today she showed a stout heart in keep going after losing her four up lead. It was her first competition in a state championship tournament, which makes her feat the more remarkable, for in defeating Mrs. Hunter she stopped a golfer who has campaigned in several major tournaments, and one of the longest two golfers in the Texas Women's Golf association.

Wins Five In Morning

In the morning round Mrs. Fisk won five of the first nine holes to make the initial turn two up. She won the 10th and 11th to take a four up lead. Here the gallery saw a quick finish for Mrs. Hunter, but there unfolded wrong. Mrs. Hunter's putter started to work and she won four of the next five holes to make the turn all square. Her best played green was a 25 foot putt on the 15th for a birdie three. In the morning Mrs. Hunter had a 92—46—46. Mrs. Fisk had a 49—47—96.

In the afternoon round Mrs. Hunter started with a five on the 19th to go one up.

Drives Neat Three

The next three holes were halved. Mrs. Hunter went two up with another five at the 23rd, but dropped the next hole when Mrs. Fisk scored a par three. Mrs. Hunter then won the 26th when Mrs. Fisk used seven strokes getting her ball into the cup. They halved the next two to make Mrs. Hunter two up as the turn of 37 holes.

Gives Trophy

At the conclusion of the tournament, the new queen of the Texas golf links was awarded the championship trophy. Consolation trophy by defeating Mrs. O. B. Armstrong in a hard fought one up match. Both players were in the eighties, playing even better golf than the two finalists in the championship round.

Philly Player Leads National League Hitters With .352; Chuck Klein Wins Scoring Honors; Cubs Best All-Round

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—After two weeks of campaigning in the National League only Virgil Davis of the Phillies had a batting mark of better than .500. Justifying to the gaiety of the new ball or of the National League pitching, only two regulars were supplemented with marks above .400 in the semi-official averages which included Wednesday's games.

Davis leads the circuit with .352; Wally Roettger of Cincinnati is second with .467 and Rogers Hornsby, Chicago manager, third with .408. Trailing this trio in the upper section of the .300 averages are Berger, Boston, .398; Vargas, New York, .388; Leach, New York, .385; Stephenson, Chicago, .381; P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .380; English, Chicago, .378 and Watkins, St. Louis, .372.

Chuck Klein of Philadelphia is leading scorer with 18 runs, and four players are tied in collecting hits with 36 each. They are Vergez and Hildebrand of New York, Berger of Boston and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh. Six doubles give Davis first place in that respect as well as the batting lead. Hornsby, third in the average, is first in two places. He has hit five homers to top Babe Herman of Brooklyn by one and has driven in 18 runs for another first. Five players, Worthington of Boston, Grantt of St. Louis, Suhr of Pittsburgh, Jackson of New York and Burnell of Philadelphia have hit two triples each.

Wally Berger of Boston has added base stealing to his batting accomplishments, having stolen five sacks to lead the league.

Clubs Are Leaders

As a club, the Chicago Cubs are the all-around leaders. They have a team batting average of .294 and a fielding mark of .984 to take first place in both respects. New York is second in batting with .282 and Cincinnati in fielding with .980.

Batson pitchers have 1.000 averages but only five of them have won three games, without a defeat, to share the lead. They are Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis; Charley Root, Chicago; Harry Seibold and Ed Brandt, Boston, and Clarence Mitchell, New York. Brandt leads in strikeouts with 17, two ahead of Root, while Larry French of Pittsburgh has given the most walks, 12.

Cats Take Second In Row Off Shippers; Santone Wins

Collier Parris

John J. (Honest John) McCloskey, founder of the Texas League, was really serious about his intentions to promote a baseball league in West Texas. He is in Wichita Falls conferring with Alvin Bardner, president of the Texas League, and F. E. Mathews, former big time associate and an interested party in the proposed West Texas League. Reports from Wichita Falls have it that McClosky will come to this section within the next few days to see what can be done about fostering organized baseball

Six towns in the area have been and are being considered as possible seats for member teams in the league, Amarillo, Childress, Lubbock, Pampa and Borger in Texas and Clovis in New Mexico. All of these towns, if combined, MIGHT support one professional baseball team, but it is rather absurd to think that any of them, with the possible exception of one or two would make it profitable, at this particular time, for a man or group of men to invest much in baseball.

Eight months ago, even four months ago, this department would have offered great encouragement toward the founding of a West Texas league, but we have been here long enough now to know that the sparks which keep baseball fire going are an absolute missing quantity here. Next to football and only a few paces behind it do we enjoy baseball. Having been brought up in Texas League territory and having seen the major league members in more than a few games it is only natural with us to care for the game in a big way. But professional baseball in West Texas at this time would have about as much chance as trans-oceanic swimmer, UNLESS the Texas League or some other league foots the bills.

The exhibition game here next Friday night between the House of David team and the Lubbock Meteors will be played on the Texas Tech field. One look at Merrill Park would convince McCloskey or anybody else that baseball was not popular in Lubbock. It would require an investment of more than $200 to put the park in shape for a game and many times that much to fit it for a season of games. And so promoters of the night game next week decided to play the contest on Tech's expansive campus.

The Tech field can be repaired and bleachers may be arranged to resemble a real baseball ground. Coach Golightly, manager of the local team, promoter of the game, reports that his hired hands are to start work immediately on the park. Due to the lack of a grandstand, parking space for a limited number of automobiles will be provided about the field so that cash customers may enjoy the game from cushions.

Cy Leland, another one of the many athletes who had to go to college before his athletic abilities were recognized, is making good on the west coast. Running under the colors of the San Francisco Olympic club, the former Lubbock lad and Texas Christian University sprinter, is rapidly gaining further recognition on the cinder path. In a letter to his Dad, C. J. Leland of Fort Worth, Cy sounds a pessimistic note, relating his early experience on the coast and wondering how to get out of the habit of chasing the rest of the boys across the finish line. California coaches and sports scribes, however, concede Leland a great chance to lead the field when he rounds into shape.

Weldon Chapman wound up his first week of labor with the Lubbock High Westerners Friday afternoon and returned home to Cisco to complete the school year in his class rooms there. He probably will not return to Lubbock until next June, at which time he will round up the available Westerners and promote a period of skull practice if not physical training. Chapman plans to attend Pop Warner's coaching school this summer and spend a few days in a tete a tete with the famous mentor.

While unfavorable weather conditions handicapped last week's football practice to a considerable extent, Chapman left Lubbock by no means in a state of pessimism and downheartedness. He appeared pleased with the showing of the lads in the workouts and states that with the development of a yet unknown halfback, fullback, tackle and end the Westerners should be capable of staging a good battle for district honors. He speaks well of a potential center, a pair of fair guards, one tackle, one end and two backfield men, without mentioning names. The team, as a whole, will be inexperienced and a little light, but the prospects could be quite darker. Chapman is not ready to forcast a district title for the locals, but modestly says, "We'll give 'em trouble."

Mrs. Roy Pollard's Princeton set a new record over the five-furlong race track at St. John's, Fla. He clipped it off in 1:01 3-5.

Mothers Attend Mickey Session

Approximately 450 members of the Lubbock Mickey Mouse club, half of them accompanied by their mothers, attended the regular meeting of the club at the Palace theater yesterday morning and were entertained by a program of dance numbers, songs and picture shows. Mothers of the club members were invited as special guests yesterday.

Opening the program with the customary proceedings by singing "America" and following with the club theme song in which the entire club took part, the members witnessed an acrobatic performance by Wenonah Cook, tap and toe dances by Christean White, Kertina Brewer and Arvestie Green, the latter one of the smallest to ever appear on the stage. Lonye Martin entertained with a piano solo and Lolt Lindsey and Betty Alice Gordon appeared in a vocal duet. A singing contest, open to members of the club, was won by George Hurbert Ater. The dancers, students at the Hilton Hotel dancing school, were accompanied by Miss Hobson, director of the school.

A varied film attraction, including Mickey Mouse in "Castaways," and the regular feature picture, "Dracula," was shown on the screen at the meeting.

Explanatory Letter Sent Stimson In Butler Episode

WASHINGTON, May 2. (AP)—With an explanatory letter from minister Bellegarde of Haiti on his desk, Secretary Stimson has in his possession all the data necessary for disposal of the protest by Major General Smedley D. Butler against remarks attributed to the diplomat.

The secretary of state did not indicate what action he would take, but in official quarters it was believed the episode would be quickly terminated.

The minister was quoted in a copyrighted story in the Washington Herald as saying a Haitian fort, for the capture of which Butler was given a congressional medal, did not exist. The minister later said he had been misquoted.

Former Aid To Johnson Seems To Be Favored

Successor To Ernest Barnard May Not Be Named Until December But Harridge Appears Certain For Place

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, May 2.—William Harridge, a silent but powerful figure in the world of organized baseball for almost a quarter of a century, tonight appeared certain of succeeding the late Ernest Sargent Barnard as president of the American League.

Although names of more than a score of baseball leaders have been mentioned unofficially for the presidency, a position paying $40,000 a year in salary, reliable information has been obtained that Harridge will be named by the American League club owners when they finally get around to it, probably not until next December.

Harridge, private secretary to the late Byron Bancroft Johnson for 16 years and secretary of the league since 1927, has been handling the affairs of the league as president since President Barnard's death last March although the title of acting head automatically reverted to Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit club and vice president of the league. Affairs have run along so smoothly in the league that neither Navin nor Harridge have been forced to confer on questions of policy as yet.

Has Won Great Favor

It was way back in 1911 that Harridge, a man who never played a game of professional baseball in his life, broke into baseball. At that time, the stormy Johnson insisted that all American League players travel as much as possible on a certain railroad line no matter if they were forced to make midnight jumps and change trains three or four times to get to their destinations. Harridge was assigned to handle the tough job and did it so capably that he won Johnson's admiration and later a position with him as private secretary. In Johnson's later years, when illness forced him out of the office, Harridge virtually ran the league. When Johnson finally was ousted in 1927 after his fight with several club owners and baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Harridge was named secretary of the league in Barnard's office. In that capacity, he has succeeded and received the friendship and support of Commissioner Landis.

Swindling Is Alleged Here

Complaint Is Filed Against Man In County Court Saturday; Said Working For Dallas Company

Complaint charging swindling under $50 was filed yesterday in county court against J. D. Faughn, said to be working Lubbock county as the representative of the Postal Indemnity company of Dallas.

The complaint was signed by W. M. Robinson, of Lubbock, who said that he paid Faughn $3.65 for a special automobile insurance policy early in April. A letter from J. F. Rider, manager of the Dallas office stated that Faughn was not a representative of the Postal Indemnity company, Assistant County Attorney William Evans said yesterday.

Another policy was sold in Slaton, the county attorney was informed. The Slaton resident turned over the receipt to the county attorney's office after he also had received a letter from the Dallas office stating that Faughn was not connected with the Postal Indemnity company, Mr. Evans said.

Other Lubbock county people may have secured receipts from the man, officers said.

Smoot of the senate finance committee and Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, a Republican member of the committee.

Co-Author Talks

Smoot, co-author of the tariff bill, said at Salt Lake City he knew of nothing "worse for American business today than a demand for another revision of tariff by congress."

Bingham said tariff revision at this time might do more harm than good. He added Barnes' statement was not representative of the opinions of "more than a very small group of international bankers, importers and retailers."

Vindication Of Policy

Senators Harrison of Mississippi and Hull of Tennessee, both Democrats, said Barnes' speech was a vindication of their tariff policies and indicated American business men have turned against the Hawley-Smoot tariff law.

The Democrats contend the Barnes statement and recent tariff utterances by some Republicans would make it difficult for the administration to defend the Hawley-Smoot law in the coming campaign. Commenting on the chamber of commerce sessions, Senator Borah said:

One Thing Gleaned

"There was only one thing that I gleaned from the proceedings at Atlantic City, and that was that no Moses appeared."

"Congress," he added, "has been fearfully criticized for having no plans. It would appear from the results at Atlantic City that there were no plans submitted there.

"They were only clear and conclusive and unanimous on one thing and that was they did not want any increased taxes levied upon those who were there represented."

Senator LaFollette said the financial leaders "having led the country into the deepest depression in our experience now refuse to carry their fair share of the added burdens and responsibilities of government."

He added "the hope of the country" lies not with the "do nothing attitude" he said was reflected by the chamber of commerce and the administration of President Hoover, but with the financial and business leaders "who have a consciousness of social responsibility and are struggling, however feebly, to find an answer to these complex questions."

Texas Tech Has Fighting Chance To Get Library Funds, Parrish States

By MARSHALL FORMBY
Tech Correspondent

AUSTIN, May 2.—Texas Technological college still has a fighting chance to secure its library building and every effort will be made to further these hopes, Senator Pink L. Parrish declared here in an interview during the Southwestern Journalism congress being held in this city.

Although the house committee has already omitted the library appropriation for Texas Tech, the senate has approved it and the bill will be considered by a free conference committee within the next two weeks, according to Senator Parrish.

Parrish May Serve

The free conference committee, composed of five members of each branch of the legislature, also will seek to adjust appropriation measures for the next two years. The senate has recommended $665,400 for the year 1931-32 and $662,400 for 1932 33, while the house recommends $492,370 for each of the two years. Members of the house have expressed opinions that the Lubbock senator likely will be on the committee.

Several Tech students, attending the congress here this week, visited Senator Parrish at the senate chamber. The congress opened Friday morning with several prominent speakers appearing on the program. Senator Tom Connally spoke Friday afternoon on "Free Government and Free Press." A night club dance will be given delegates to the affair tonight.

Although 500 miles from the state capitol and the University of Texas, where the congress is in session, the Tech delegation is the largest single group attending. Delegates are present from several Texas institutions including Baylor university, T. C. U., Texas State College for Women, Trinity university, S. M. U., University of Oklahoma and Baylor College for Women.

The Tech group will visit in San Antonio Sunday, returning to Lubbock Monday.

Bryan's face lit up at the mention of Mrs. Hoover.

"She's awful nice," he said enthusiastically. "She does everything she can to make you feel at home. She's just as fine as she can be."

"And so was everybody else for that matter," he added diplomatically.

"What impressed me most? You asked that once before. Well, I never saw anything before like the White House.

"I liked Mount Vernon too. It was pretty down there. And Lindbergh's plane. I almost forgot that. Say, it didn't look as big somehow as I thought it would. I don't hardly see how he got across in it, do you? There was a lot of other things over at the Smithsonian—Gliders and engines the like. I like airplanes. Will I fly one? I don't know.

"The king of Siam? Yes, I saw him and the queen, too." The boy paused and laughed merrily. "What was I laughing at? I just happened to think of something funny. It didn't have anything to do with the king and queen.

"Is my father a Democrat or a Republican? Bryan laughed again and ran his hand through his dark brown hair. "Well, if you want to know, my dad is a Democrat. Seems sort of funny the way things turned out. Will he vote for Mr. Hoover after this? You'll have to ask him.

"It'll be nice to get home at that. I've got a lot to tell. Why don't I tell it now. You know how it is. You don't think of it till afterwards."

The train was moving slowly. Bryan had the box camera he brought to Washington with him in his hands.

"Yes. I took some pictures and I've got my harmonica. I've got everything, I reckon."

"I'll send you a picture of you and the president, if you want it," a photographer called.

"Gee, that'll be fine," called the boy over the noise of the train. Send it to Towner, R. F. D. —— "But the photographer could not understand the number.

"Never mind," Bryan shouted. "Send it to Towner. Maybe they'll know me out there."

The situation seemed serious and the cabinet sought shelter in the third regiment barracks, but the cheers with which Lisbon received the news from Funchal enheartened supporters of the government and mitigated fears that the revolt in Madeira might spread to Portugal itself.

The government maintains that trouble here and in the island has been fostered by "the League of Paris" headed by the president's political enemies. Documents which the government says it has seized indicated that a revolt was to have begun in Lisbon this morning.

When the federal troops marched in Funchal the people received them with wild acclaim.

Boyd is not yet out of danger, but attending physicians agree that he has a good chance to recover.

The former Technological college student told his parents he got the carbolic acid bottle through mistake when he got up in the night to get some medicine for his throat which he said was troubling him.

Boyd lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Boyd on a farm six miles southeast of Lubbock.

El Paso Girl Is Suicide Victim

EL PASO, May 2—Adela Molinar, pretty 18-year-old girl, died here today. Physicians said poisoning caused her death.

In jail at Juarez, Jesus Esparza, 21, her sweetheart, wept when told Adela was dead. With another youth, he was held for questioning by Mexican authorities.

"I loved her," he said. "She was so young. I know she wanted to live. If only I could go to her funeral!"

But police said he could not attend the funeral. They gave no reason for the order, except they wanted to talk to him.

Esparza and the other youth were with the girl last night, within a few hours of the time physicians said she drank the poison at her home. Her parents found her unconscious.

than for injustice to be done any section. If a law is not enacted, Texas' three new congressmen will be elected at large next year.

One of the four general appropriations bills that for the judiciary had been passed and approved by the governor. The eleemosynary bill was in free conference, and some floor work had been done on both the departmental and the educational proposals.

Legislators have taken the position the appropriations bills must be passed before the session ends.

Prune Money Bills

Legislators tried to prune the money bills this week after they had been informed by statisticians for state departments that the state would have a big deficit two years hence unless appropriations were cut on additional taxes imposed. Another tax bill, that to make a levy on gas distributors, and to revise the occupation taxes, was passed by the house but the senate committee postponed the hearing on it until next Wednesday night. That bill, if enacted into law, would raise between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 annually, it had been estimated.

The senate made progress on truck legislation. However, it put so many amendments on the bill fixing the maximum length, load weight and the like that free conference consideration appeared likely. The senate today passed the house bill proposing to limit a cotton truck to ten uncompressed or 20 compressed bales unless the load was enclosed in a van type of body.

Proponents of the $212,000,000 highway bond issue hoped to bring it up in the house again some time next week if they could get nearly all the representatives present. The bond issue received only 80 votes on engrossment whereas it must receive 100 votes to be submitted.

Meanwhile the house went on record again this week as favoring taking up the counties' indebtedness on state roads, even if it must be done from current state highway revenues. The senate however had so far declined to follow the house's lead in that respect. The bond issue, passed by the senate, would repay the counties out of proceeds of the bonds.

"It does seem strange," he added, "that one of the few dates on which I wrote you that I had other unusual engagements should be selected for this hearing. I must think it was an oversight on the part of the committee."

Leader Of A Billion-Dollar Business Moves Office From New York To Home Town Because Of Old Longings

Finds Peace For His Workers In Little Indiana Village

BY DEXTER H. TEED
NEA Service Writer

EBANON, Ind., May 2.—"If I should die tomorrow who would e my pallbearers?"

Henry C. Ulen, internationally-nown contractor, asked his wife hat question. They sat in a luxur-us suite in a New York hotel at e time. They had everything mon-y could buy. But their thoughts ere not there.

Although neither spoke each new that the other was visualizing little town out in Indiana where e sun goes down over cornfields nd in the gloaming locusts sing in e sycamore trees. Friends were here, and peace and quiet. That as Lebanon, in which both were orn.

Ulen answered his own question, nswered it quickly because he is man who makes decisions quickly. "If I should die tomorrow," he id, "my business associates would pallbearers. None of the boys we ew as children would be here."

That influenced the decision he en made. He sized up the situa-on rapidly. It was characteristic him. During the past 30 years his mpany has constructed railroads, ams and public works all over the orld, valued at $1,000,000,000. And ten he has been called upon to etermine quickly the expenditure millions.

"We're going back," he said de-isively. "And when I say 'we I an everything, our offices, our en-neers and their families and you d I".

Ulen accomplished what for men th less energy and training would ve been impossible. He achieved mething highly significant in age hen the movement is from country city by moving en masse the adquarters of a gigantic corpora-n back to the town of his birth.

From New York To Village

The roar and rush of New York as replaced by the easy-going let of Central Indiana. The rau-is shouts of newsboys died to the m of bees. The rattle and clatter traffic was left behind.

"Hank" Ulen, who as a young-r was the town "bad boy", has oved that big business can oper-e in a small town, and he has arted other business men wond-ing if, after all, it is necessary to rk in towering office buildings in arts of cities to succeed.

After he left for Chicago $1,200 in ot with only $125 in cash. Ulen me back to Lebanon at intervals. was home. Now it's home forever. He has built an addition on the use in which he lived. In it are dern offices where his men work. es connect it with New York d Chicago. Cables are received m distant lands every day.

Out in the eastern edge of the n he built a sub-division with levards, fine English type homes. put in sewerage systems, elec-lights, started a nursery to grow ubbery, built an 18-hole golf rse and splendid clubhouse and accessories.

Homes For His Staff

The development was started less n three years ago. More than 000,000 has been expended. Now the very cornfields and "hog llows" where "that Ulen boy" yed pranks on unsuspecting far-rs the village of Ulen stands. It incorporated, has a village board d all other officials. It is doubt-if there is a finer village in erica.

Lebanon, a town of 7,000 popula-n, "has perked up" since "Hank" n came back. Business is better. e effects of the depression have been felt much. It supports a y paper—The Lebanon Reporter. The stores are large and flourish-. Business men play golf after-ons.

The "bad boy" has turned out be the finest influence to affect village in all its history.

But Ulen wasn't really bad any-y. He was just bubbling over h unharnessed energy which nd outlet in surprising ways. He d his teacher disagreed when he in the fifth grade. Out the ool house door little "Hank" ran nd didn't come back.

Was Hobo at 18

Until he was 18 years old he ed where he desired. He rode ights all over the country. He de a living by washing dishes, ing papers or at manual labor. metimes he would come home but wanderlust bug always bit him in and away he dashed for an-er trip. At 19 he decided to set-down. He acted as correspondent a paper, worked in a railroad tion and studied law. Eventually was admitted to the bar, his ex-ience then leading to connec-ns with contractors. Soon he de-ed to start his own firm.

ow associated with such nation-figures as Marshall Field, G. H. ch, and T. S. Sheppard, he is d of one of the largest contract-firms in the world. His firm lt Shandaken tunnel for New Yorks' water system, longest continuous tunnel in the world; the Athens (Greece) waterworks, gigantic dams in various parts of the world and railroads in Persia and across the Andes in South America. His firm is internationally famous.

His fame hasn't made any difference. He's "Hank" Ulen in Lebanon. He lives in his fine home in "Ulentown" with his wife and plays golf with the men with whom he played as boys 50 years ago. He is 60 years old now.

"Some of the boys thought I couldn't manage things here in Lebanon," he explained, his eyes lighting up. "But I fooled them."

He declares the office here has been operated more efficiently than it was in New York. His "boys" work better. They have fewer distractions. They aren't forced to commute and ride on trains two hours a day. They are happier. And so is Ulen and his family. What more could he ask?

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 2. (AP)—The cotton market established new levels for the season in today's short Saturday session here and trading was fairly active. Although Liverpool cables came in much better than due the market under pressure of further liquidation by discouraged longs and before the offerings were absorbed values dropped to levels 11 to 13 points under yesterday's close to new lows for the season. During the second hour the market made a moderate rally but did not retain all the gain and finally closed steady at net decline for the day of 7 to 10 points.

Liverpool cables came in as due t 2 penny points better than due. Private cables stated that liquidation by the continent and Bombay was met by trade calling. Manchester cabled that the cloth and yarn markets were discouraged and buyers were cautious. July traded down to 9.59 and October to 9.90, new lows for the season and 11 to 13 points below the previous close. May closed at the low point of 9.40. July closed at 9.61 and October at 9.96 or 2 and 6 points respectively above the lows and 9 and 7 points net lower for the day.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP)—A further decline in cotton today was attributed to a continuation of the recent selling movement which was said to include selling for foreign account as well as a renewal of commission house liquidation combined with some local pressure. All months made new low records for the season, with July selling off to 9.59 or 14 points net lower. That delivery closed at 9.64 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 6 to 12 points.

A private report was published placing the decrease in acreage of 12 per cent and estimating a decrease of 44 per cent in the use of fertilizer. These figures showed somewhat larger decreases both in the prospective acreage and with reference to fertilizers than some of the more recent previous estimates, but were apparently without effect on the market. According to this authority 38.1 per cent of the crop had been planted up to April 25 compared with 50.2 last year. Houses with European connections were among the sellers here during the early trading, while there was further selling by New Orleans and the south.

Stock List Finally Closes Week In Rally; Range Is One To Two Points

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP)—Trading in stocks was highly inconclusive, during most of today's session, but the list finally closed the week with a rally which in the case of most prominent industrials and utilities ranged from 1 to 2 points. Sales were 1,300,000 shares.

Declines and rallies followed each other swiftly in the first hour and a half as bears sought out soft spots. Selling was particularly directed against U. S. Steel, which broke 1 5-8 to the new low of 112 5-8, and against American Can, which dipped 3 to the new 1931 minimum of 108 3-4. Rails declined rather easily, especially New York Central, and were unable to make much headway in the late recovery.

The sharp break on Friday left sentiment confused, and there was widely divergent opinion as to whether the market would swing into another general decline or whether weakness would tend to be spotty as further deflation occurred in some of the more strongly resistant stocks.

World's Tallest Building Is Dedicated And Opened

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP)—The world's tallest structure—the Empire State building—was dedicated and opened Friday—a final realization of the long labors of former Governor Alfred E. Smith and a group of business associates.

The new structure stands at Fifth avenue and 34th street on a site formerly occupied by the old Waldorf Astoria hotel.

At 11:45 a. m. President Hoover pressed a telegraph key in the White House, turning on all lights illuminating the skyscraper.

Because of the building's tall mooring mast, Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, U. S. N., newly appointed captain of the dirigible Akron, now under construction, was one of the guest speakers.

Work has started on the construction of the swimming pool for the 1932 Olympic aquatic events at Olympic park, Los Angeles.

Slaton Plans To Celebrate 20th Birthday On June 15

Communities Are Invited To Take Part

Preliminary Plans Are Started For Big Anniversary Celebration; Railroad Center Is Claimed By City

(By Staff Correspondent)

SLATON, May 2.—Plans for the celebration of Slaton's 20th birthday anniversary were begun by the Slaton chamber of commerce when directors of that organization voted to hold the celebration on June 15, A. J. Payne, secretary, announced.

An all-day celebration will be held, the day events being staged in the city park and at the community house of the county. At night there will be a program in the high school auditorium.

Invite Communities

"We have invited the seven communities where we have been this past few weeks to come in that night and help us stage the celebration by giving us a program," Mr. Payne said. "I do not know just what the program will be but I am sure that it will be well worth while.

"We are going to invite Lubbock citizens to come down and help celebrate with us. The invitation goes to the whole country and to our communities to join with us in our birthday party."

Named For Lubbock Man

Slaton was begun in 1911 and the first sale was on June 15, 1911. The town was named for O. L. Slaton, Lubbock banker, who was a member of the right of way committee securing the right of way for the Santa Fe through Lubbock county. The first train reached Slaton on June 15that year. The lot sale was a success and the town grew rapidly. Building of the branch into Lamesa and Tahoka also helped the town's growth.

When the Plains division of the Santa Fe railroad was divided, in the spring of 1917, division headquarters was established at Slaton and the division named for the town. Previous to that the Santa Fe had merely its division terminal here and not its headquarters. Shops were built here and the repair work for the division is done here.

Payroll of the company for its men in train serice and in the shops as well as the diision offices is large. Addition of the Orient lines in Texas to the division has brought the mileage up to well over a thousand miles, one of the largest in the Western lines.

Officers of the chamber of commerce committees who will work out plans for the celebration are; B. E. Clark, cahirman and George E. Green, vice-chairman of the entertainment and reception committee and W. A. Smith, chairman and A. Kessel, vice-chairman of the publicit committee.

Total payments made by Germany to the Allied and Associated Powers for reparation and cost of occupation, from the Armistice to December 15, 1930, totaled $4,830,-000,000.

Seek To Make Shiny Pates An Asset

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, May 2.—Baldheaded business men in Japan have capitalized their shining domes by organiging for mutual benefit.

The initial meeting of the baldheads was held at Nagatoro, more as an outing than anything else, and it was then that the idea was conceived of forming an association to boost their respective businesses.

Count Hideo Kodama, civil governor of Korea, who claims one of the shiniest pates in the empire, is a prime mover in the baldhead society. Tsurukichi Maruyama, chief of the Tokyo metropolitan police, has also taken a leading part in bringing the baldheaded organization into a reality and besides has used his musical talents in its behalf. He has composed the "Bald Head March."

Tory Is Named To Parliament

Party Leader Almost Mobbed In English Bye-Election Angry Crowd Swarms About Meeting Place

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE, Eng., May 2. (AP)—This traditional laborite constituency has sent a tory to the house of commons after a rousing bye-election which ended last night with Sir Oswald Mosley's "new party" leader being nearly mobbed.

An angry crowd of several thousand laborites swarmed about the meeting place where Sir Oswald, a young aristocrat, Lady Mosley, a daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, and others had gathered to listen to returns which decisively downed the first "new party" candidate to make the race for the commons.

Crowd Jeers

The crowd jeered and hooted Sir Oswald and his group, blaming entrance of their candidate into the race for the conservative victory, which was by a very small margin. Sir Oswald, guarded by police, finally left the hall and went through the crowd to his hotel.

The defeated "new party" candidate, A. Young, was smuggled out a side door under a heavy police guard, while women of the new party waited until the demonstration had quieted somewhat and then left. There was considerable anxiety that an attack or other violence would be attempted upon leaders of the party.

The vote in the bye-election was Lieutenant Colonel J. Broadbent, conservative, 12,420; J. Gordon, laborite, 11,005, A Young, "new party," 4,472.

From the safe precincts of his hotel Sir Oswald expressed himself as delighted with results of the election and said if his party had entered the campaign sooner it undoubtedly would have won.

Annual Events Planned To Be Given In City

Club Women And Schools To Have Farewell Socials Of Year During May; Several Have Been Given

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Woman's Editor

MAY, THE month of retrospection for club women and school people, is at hand and a gay whirl of socialities is expected to conclude the year's work and usher in that period when the vacation trek has its beginning.

High school and college classes have been attending picnics and banquets; some club affairs have already taken place and others are scheduled for later in this month. In these women's organizations, old officers are retiring and new officers who were elected in January are looking forward to the year that has its beginning next September.

Club programs are being selected and year book committees are already starting to prepare for the annual publication within the societies. This work will continue through the summer months, although clubs remain inactive after May for a three-month period.

Farewell Events

As a farewell for this year, most of the study clubs have some sort of annual social occasion.

In the Twentieth Century club this is an annual occasion and at it the old officers are succeeded by the new. No announcements have been made as to the nature of this occasion, which will be on the fourth Tuesday in May, but it probably will be a luncheon, according to the president, Mrs. J. S. Johnson. Mrs. W. H. Meador will be the chairman in charge.

Sorosis club members are to have a luncheon on May 26 and new officers will assume their places at that time. Lu Beta Delphians will have some sort of social but what it is to be and when will be announced later in the month, according to Mrs. Fred Snyder, who is in charge.

Of the Federated clubs, the Athenaeum alone has no regular social in the spring. But the first meeting in September is a social occasion, usually an open house with friends of members as invited guests.

Luncheon Last Week

Daleth Delphians attended a luncheon last week and had as an honor guest on this annual occasion Mrs. M. A. Williams, a member who is moving to Alabama.

The last program of the American Association of University Women, which is scheduled for next Saturday, will be preceded by a luncheon, to be served at the Hilton hotel at 1 o'clock. The program will be given by the International Relations group within the A. A. U. W., under the direction of Miss Jonnie McCrery. Reservations for the luncheon are to be made with Miss Margaret McNabb.

An annual luncheon for members of the Lubbock Music club will be on Saturday and will climax an observance of National Music week here.

Among college people there will be farewell affairs to speed departing students and high school people will have their social occasions as a part of the closing of school next week. Senior girls are to be guests of the A. A. U. W. at an annual tea on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Hilton hotel, and on the day before all seniors are to attend an annual picnic at Silver Falls lake.

High School And College Folk Have Parties During Week-End

"SUMMER ROUND-UP"

ABOUT SIX years ago that splendid organization, the P. T. A., began what is known as the "Summer Round-Up."

It is a systematic plan to send beginners to school in good physical condition, as free from remedial defects as possible. In my own city, for example, representatives from each local P. T. A. are working with the local Academy of Medicine and the Dental Association and public health authorities to have all children of the proper age to enter school next fall, given a complete physical examination by the family physician or by experts provided free by these organizations. There is a particular effort to have all children, whose parents will cooperate, innoculated against diphtheria.

In practically every community such services are offered free by the public health authorities. Of course a few parents have conscientious objection to such health preventative measures, and that is, indeed, their privilege. Nevertheless, parents are rapidly being persuaded of its value, and, as a result, diphtheria is fast being blotted out. Many of us will see the day, I believe, when it will wholly disappear

Parents of those children who are found with defective teeth, remediable defective vision or hearing, or with adenoids, or diseased tonsils, are urged to have such defects corrected early in the summer, particularly where an operation is advised, so that the children will be fully recovered and ready to enter school in the fall.

For those whose parents cannot afford to pay for private treatment, free services are afforded, thanks to the public spirit of clinics, dentists, doctors and public health officials who are co-operating.

This movement all over our country is making parents more thoughtful for the health of the child of this age, who otherwise is frequently neglected. There had been a tremendous emphasis from many sources on the care and health protection of the child during his first few years, and pedistricians have done a rare service to these very young children and their mothers; but the child from four to six has often been neglected, with many small physical defects developing which often lead to all sorts of difficulties later, sometimes proving grave barriers to the child's school progress.

I wish that doctors and dentists, and parents working with them, could do such a fine job in promoting good health in young children that these doctors and dentists would eventually be out of jobs for filling and extracting decayed teeth and for prescribing for the sick.

Along with preparing the U. officers for the next year was made by Miss Juanita Pool, who was re-elected president of the group. Miss Pool gave memoirs of the organization, also.

Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, made a short talk, and "Just Foolin' Around" was the theme chosen by Jim O. Hill in making a few remarks.

The principal address of the evening was made by John Caylor, of Dallas, state secretary of Baptist students' work in Texas. His talk was on "The Supremacy of Jesus."

There was an attendance of seventy persons. Student workers and presidents of young peoples' societies in other city churches were invited to be present.

Wide Choice Of Material For Gown To Be Worn At Wedding Is Allowed

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, May 2—Since May is the fitting time for June wedding gowns, you should decide fairly soon just what your costume will be for that eventful trip to the altar.

You need not stick to white this season. It is chic for a bride to be blue this June, chilly, ice-blue, the new Paris color for wedding gowns. Or you may have a delicate green gown, or pink.

White, of course, is still the favorite bridal gown. White satin, to be specific though for June weddings you may have flat crepe, chiffon, organdie, moire, brocade, lace, net, mousseline, or even dotted Swiss or voile, if your heart so desires it.

The best thing about wedding gowns today is this very liberty of choice. After all, you can pick your bridegroom from the world's entire group of males. Why should you not be allowed as much freedom of choice in the material for your wedding gown?

Three Points to Guide Selection

When it comes to making it, three things should guide you. Surely the first consideration should be its flattering becomingness and its romantic appearance. Second, get a bridal gown that you can wear afterwards without having every one say "There goes Mrs. S—— in her wedding dress!" Third, don't go in so heavily for your wedding dress that you start marriage insolvent!

June wedding gowns make much of trains, flaring, trailing, sumptuous trains that are part and parcel of the wedding gown's skirt. They prefer sleek, chic, moulded lines—the figure first, the gown a fitting garment to cover it. Necklines are tremendously important, yokes of lace, net, hand-work, embroidery are in style. And when it comes to sleeves, there is only your lack of imagination to restrain you.

However, it is surprising how many wedding gowns have long, fitted, simple sleeves. Lanvin makes a wedding gown with short sleeves and long, tight, high cuffs of the same satin that button onto the cuffs about where an old-fashioned vaccination mark used to come. Worth always surprisingly himself and original, make a nun-like costume for a picture bride with long, flowing sleeves like a church vestment has.

Your gown may be cut with lines moulded to the waistline and intricately cut to simulate a belt but not be belted. Or it may have an outright belt, fastened with a tiny orange blossom cluster on one side, or a sparkling buckle. Some of the organdies that garden weddings set off to such advantage are made with peplum effects, one of them corded to stand out in Minaret fashion.

Make Certain That Colors Match

If you do decide on a pink wedding, or any other colored kind, be sure to match your veil, slippers, gloves, and handkerchief exactly. There should be no weakening at the last minute so that it is a pink and white costume!

Two of the new bridal gowns illustrate between them the sleek chic of June bridal costumes.

Blue satin, in the chilly, icy blues that is so flattering to blondes, so devastating on titian haired girls, so arresting on brunettes, fashions one. It is made with the quaint touch of a matching chiffon yoke, joined to the bodice with tiny bands of the satin, used with the chiffon to round from the shoulders to a V front and interlace there. The gown is belted in normal manner, has unusual fullness at a rather high line and a train second to nothing for its width, length and shimmering loveliness.

The sleeves are classically simple, ending in mitt cuffs. And the icy blue tulle veil is attached to the head with a bandeau of narrow bands of the blue satin, with orange blossoms under the ears.

Chalk white flat crepe is used for a stunning cowl neckline bridal gown. It is cut in flattering V lines, with an unusually tall, pointed panels going in the other direction. Its train is swishingly full, long and really a collection of pointed panels that fit right into and become a part of the skirt. Pearls in front and orange blossoms behind, fasten the chalk white net veil. An arm bouquet of calla lilies, flat crepe on the outsides, with satin inside, are a modern bridal bouquet.

The observance was simply delayed for a few days because of other activities in the schools and this week there is to be definite health work as a part of the city school program, when the pre-school clinics and conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Any of us can look back to the day when a pre-school clinic was an un-heard of thing or a novelty. Now that clinics are an accepted part of most school programs patrons, as well as school people, are beginning to realize their worth.

These clinics are free. Children who are to enter school next September are given an examination by a physician and a dentist of good standing here, if they are taken to the clinics by their parents, and a card is scored to show their physical condtion. Eyes are tested; teeth, ears, throat, skin are examined to determine if the child has any defects that need treated. By having this clinic in May, parents have the summer months in which to seek corrections in order that the children may enter school in September in good physical condition.

The healthy child does better work than one who is ill. But that is not the only reason for these pre-school examinations. Tonsil infections now may lead to heart disease, rheumatism or other troubles years later. I don't know what the statistics may be on these things but I do know that doctors trace many things to infected tonsils and teeth. Many times children have defects which are not discovered unless there is an examination by a doctor. Again, we are warned that there is a preventative measure in glasses as these sometimes correct difficulties and the older boy or girl is able to discard them.

AN ALARMING TOTAL

SEVERAL months ago President Hoover called a White House conference on child health and protection and some facts taken from committee reports at this meeting were sent to editors. In this information it is estimated that there are 15,000 blind and 50,000 partially-seeing children in the United States.

* * *

The report states that among the ten million people in the United States whose impaired hearing constitutes a real handicap, about three million are children and that 18,000 of these are practically deaf; that there are 300,000 crippled children; 400,000 tuberculous children and 850,000 suspected cases of tuberculosis; 450,000 children with cardiac limitations; 150,000 epileptic children. Combining all of these and the children who have behavioristic difficulties or are mentally deficient, there are ten million handicapped children.

* * *

At this same conference, it was estimated that there are sixteen million children under six in the nation; fourteen million boys and the same number of girls in the public schools.

LUBBOCK'S PART

LUBBOCK has its quota of children who are crippled, physically defective and who present behavior problems. As a part of her health work in the public schools, Mrs. Joe Smith, school nurse, has been instrumental in helping a number of cripples. Some of these children are receiving treatment here or at special clinics now. All of them will not be cured, but many of them are now able to walk who had not done this before

Compulsory vaccination for small pox has practically eliminated this disease in the city and has eliminated it in the school system. At the meeting conducted recently by a state health officer here, it was stated that small pox is one of the greatest health menaces in Lubbock county. It is no problem in the city since the children have been immunized, Mrs. Smith pointed out. There has not been a single case of diphtheria among city school children this winter, she said, explaining that this is an unusual circumstance. Many children have been immunized against this disease and others should be, she thinks because it is believed that small pox, diptheria and typhoid fever, can be wiped out if everyone becomes immunized against them.

Last year 28 per cent of the defects found in the summer round-up clinics here were corrected. This was not a large number but that was the first such clinic conducted in Lubbock. As patrons realize the benefits of correcting these difficulties while the children are young, the percentage will grow. Since she has had charge of health work in the city schools the amount of co-operation that Mrs. Smith has received from parents has been greater every year, showing that her work is growing in favor.

* * *

Mrs. Smith can't take the place of parents in caring for the children in Lubbock schools. All she can do is to advise with parents, to help them discover the source of difficulties and to co-operate in promoting the health of the individuals. Work in the schools and clinics such as the one planned for this week are designed to help raise the standards of health in the city through the future citizens. Every man and woman should lend his co-operation.

"Tying The Knot" Used To Be Best Wedding Etiquette; Once Bride Had To Be Bought; Divorce Was Unknown

BY HELEN WELSHIMER
NEA Service Writer

There is nothing at all original about getting married.

Most of the customs that are observed started so long ago they are as permanently established as the Constitution of the United States or the Rock of Gibraltar.

In fact, in order to have a modern wedding a bride must have an old-fashioned one.

The wedding ring didn't develop because an ambitious jeweler decided that it would swell his trade. It started long ago, when there wasn't a jewelry shop on the face of the earth. Men decided that when they chose the maidens whom they wanted, there should be some way to impress upon the feminine minds that henceforth and forever they were theirs. The men started to weave cords which they bound around the girls' waist, according to tradition. Both the girl and the man believed that the girl's spirit entered into the man's body when the knot was tied.

Brides in olden days . . . to be tied.

And Knot Stayed Tied!

The word "divorce" was as unknown as artichokes or penthouses so when the cord was tied the girl belonged to her husband forever.

Afterwhile anklets and wristlets replaced the cord. And from that the ring developed.

The ancient people believed that the third finger of the left hand connected with the heart, so when the ring came into being, it was placed on this finger.

To be properly attired a bride must always wear something old and something new, something borrowed and something blue the old verse says.

It used to be the fashion to elope . . . at a lope.

The wearing of the blue came down from an old Israelite custom. Long ago everyone was instructed to sew blue ribbons around the borders of his or her fringed garments, since blue was the color which stood for purity and love and fidelity. Gradually the habit of wearing something blue centered around the bridal costume.

Brides Were Costly

Brides are given away now in a great many marriage ceremonies. Of course the words are purely decorative, for the twentieth century girl is making her decision because she wants to, and if no one would attend to this feature she would tell the minister to eliminate it and hurry up, please!

But once upon a time a man had to buy the girl he wanted. All she could do was hope that she brought a large number of cows and horses and oxen. Therefore, the "giving-away" is merely a relic of the old marriage by purchase.

The trousseau, too, goes wandering back to one of the virginal forests for its history. People were not much concerned with clothes at that time but a girl had to bring a dowery to her husband, even when he bought her. This dowery consisted of anything in which her father had his wealth. Today all she has to bring is enough clothes to last till the season is over.

All sorts of beliefs attend the wearing of the first wedding veil. One thing is certain. Women in many lands weren't allowed to let their husbands see their faces until after the wedding ceremony. Veils helped them manage this. So whether the veil stands for independence or submission, it has a modest outlook.

Those Golden Apples

Orange blossoms were originally selected as a bridal flower because they represent good luck and happiness. Some people think that an orange was the golden apple which Jupiter, king of the Roman gods, gave Juno on their wedding day.

Today brides throw their bouquets. Those who think it is a foolish custom should have lived in France in the fourteenth century. Every bride who approached the altar prayed that her garter wouldn't slip. She had to leave one dangling under her petticoats so the guests could claim it. They weren't timid about it, either.

Later the brides started to throw a stocking instead but this was rather inconvenient. The bouquet is simpler. The one who receives the trophy is scheduled to marry next.

The bridegroom's ushers weren't introduced with the beginning of church weddings. The early Anglo-Saxon men boldly entered the house of the girls they wanted. The man captured the girl, put her on a horse that waited at the door, and started off.

Brides throw bouquets today . . . instead of stockings.

A Fruitless Quest

Her father always went in pursuit, as a dutiful father should, even when he approved the match. He never brought back the girl though. Friends of the bridegrooms were on hand to make him go home. In this way, the attendants originated.

Even the old shoe that comes bobbing down the street as the bride and bridegroom start away, is part of an old custom. In England and Scotland old shoes used to be thrown at weddings to symbolize the fact that the parents gave up all control of their daughter now that she was married.

The shoe took its first step in the parade, though, in another connection. The ancient Israelites, it is said, used to deliver a shoe as a testimony in the transference of a possession.

Mrs. Jennie Reece Shuman Is To Have Charge Of School Of Nursery At Tech This Summer

Children 2 To 4 Years Of Age Are Preferred; Limited Number Will Have Place On Rolls Of School

Mrs. Jennie Reece Shuman, instructor in child psychology and nursery school work for the Chicago Teachers college, has been secured as director for the nursery school of the summer session at Texas Technological college, Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of home economics, announced in giving the dates of the school. It will be during the first six weeks of the summer session.

Nursery school hours are from eight to one o'clock for five days of the week, Tuesday to Saturday inclusive, Miss Weeks said. The term will begin on Tuesday, June 9, and will close on July 17.

Application blanks have been sent by Miss Weeks to a number of persons who have called her concerning the nursing school following its announcement several weeks ago. "The number of children that we can enroll in the nursery school is limited," Miss Weeks said. "We prefer children between the ages of two and four."

Tuition charges will be $10 for the six weeks term. This takes care of the noon meal and for keeping the house clean. No other charges will be made.

Has Wide Experience

Mrs. Shuman holds a B. A. degree from Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. She also was a member of the nursery school staff of Cornell and later was nursery school director for the University of Tennessee.

"I consider that Texas Technological college is most fortunate to have Mrs. Shuman with us to organize and direct this summer nursery school," Miss Weeks said.

"It is impossible to conduct a nursery school without the cooperation of the mothers. For this reason Mrs. Shuman will want a conference with each mother from time to time during the term. She will want to have the first conference on Monday, June 8. Further notice will be sent to those mothers whose children enroll."

This is the first time that such a school has been planned for the location institution. Texas Technological college is one of the few in the state that has planned such a course.

Artists Query About Exhibit At State Meet

Rules For Exhibition This Fall At The Federation Meet Are Listed; Purchase Of One Is Planned

Inquiries are being received from numbers of artists about the paintings that will be on display here this fall at a state meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, according to Mrs. C. M. Ballenger, local chairman.

Any artist may enter a picture but the paintings will be limited to Texas subjects and no canvas will be accepted which has been previously exhibited in a similar contest.

July 1 is a closing date for artists to file intentions of entering the contest and their names must be listed with Mrs. R. P. Lindsey, Mt. Pleasant, president of the federation, however, entries do not have to be in until October 15, when they must be in Lubbock with the local committee.

Mrs. Adams State Head

Mrs. Alex Adams, San Antonio, chairman of the department of fine arts in the state federation, is general chairman of the committee fostering this exhibit. Mrs. Lindsey and Mrs. C. A. Fagg, Greenville, chairman of the division of art, are working with her.

One picture from the lot may be selected by the federation committee and awarded a purchase prize of $500. The canvas will then become the property of the federation and will hang in the art gallery of permanent club headquarters in Austin. The committee reserves the right to withhold the prize, it has been announced, and no award will be made unless there are at least 12 entrants. In addition to the one picture to be selected, there are to be 10 honorable mentions.

No canvas, including frame, is to be less than 18 by 24 inches or more than 30 by 40 inches. Paintings must be shipped without glass and all pictures will be exhibited during the convention.

EASY HEM

When putting a hem in a dress, if you turn the raw edge up a quarter of an inch and stitch it all around before making the dress the length you want it, you can shorten or lengthen it later with little trouble.

A LUSTROUS white satin evening dress with a square neck has a row of white gardenias posed directly down the front of the bodice.

Texas Tech Gets Plenty Of Publicity

"Home Town Boy Makes Good" Stories Are Typical Of Clippings From Newspapers Received At College

STORIES concerning everything from how the home town boy made good at Tech, the home town belle's election as Tech queen, to how many home town students made the Tech honor roll are received by the Tech library each week from the Students Clipping Service bureau at Austin. The bureau sends the library every clipping concerning Tech or Tech students that appears in any Texas paper.

From the Tech Free News service, of which Cecil Horne is head, goes a news letter each week giving the principal campus news. When a queen is selected the Tech publicity department informs the queen's home paper. The names of students making the honor roll each term also are sent to the students' home town papers. These news letters together with press stories concerning Tech fill many columns of Texas newspapers each week. The clipping bureau sends the articles to the library where they are filed. A complete history of the college is told in the clippings saved.

Amusing stories of the town heroes are told in the various papers of the state. One paper in commenting upon the high grades a student from that town made at Tech, stated that the folks back home were proud of him, and especially so, since the high grades made him possible for membership in one of Tech's social clubs. Tech is quite frequently spelled "Teck" in the articles and one heading read thus, ""Local Track Team Beats Tech". The story under the head referred to the recent Tech Relay meet. The college team never participated and the only ones competing were high school squads.

Should a Tech student happen to get into trouble the story is usually run in every state paper. Minor stories appear only when a local boy or girl is involved.

And so Tech's publicity goes on. All a student needs do to get his name in his home town paper is to make the honor roll, show up well in football practice or be selected queen. But to get statewide publicity he must get in trouble or do something big.

Local Churches Plan Special Mother's Day Services

Observance Of National Day Will Be Made

Dr. A. B. Cunningham To Talk At Presbyterian Church Today; Recreational Meetings To Be Held

Pastors of the city churches are planning special services for Sunday, May 10, in a National observance of Mother's Day.

An effort will be made to have a Sunday school enrollment of 1,800 persons at the First Baptist church on that day, according to church sermon will center around the thought of mothers. The Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

Plan Candle Service

A candle light service is to be held at the evening service at the First Methodist church. A group of mothers will wear vestments and be accompanied by a son or daughter and they are to sit in a reserved section. Rev. J. O. Haymes will preach a special sermon for mothers and there is to be special music.

Fathers are to be honored on Mother's Day at the Asbury Methodist church. This is an annual custom in the church.

To Give Flowers

In the morning the Rev. R. C. McCollom, pastor, will preach to mothers. A bouquet of flowers will be given to the youngest and to the oldest mother present. Those whose mothers are residing elsewhere are asked to bring a flower in honor of them and these will be placed in baskets.

The same program will be carried out in the evening hour, with the exception that fathers are to be honored.

Women of the church will have charge of the evening service next Sunday night at the First Christian church. Services throughout the day will be in keeping with the national observance.

Cunningham to Talk

In the absence of the pastor, Dr. Jack M. Lewis, Dr. A. B. Cunningham, of the Texas Technological college faculty, is to talk on the theme of motherhood at the First Presbyterian church.

Three recreational meetings are to be conducted this week at the First Methodist church in keeping with the Standard Training school which opens there this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Open house will be held this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock with Dr. E. C. Harbin, one of the teachers of the school, in charge. Dr. Harbin is author of a book, "Phunology" and is one of the teachers in the school, having been sent here by the General Board at Nashville, Tenn.

Picnic Planned

On Tuesday evening the group who are in the recreational class will join young people of the church in a picnic at 5:45 o'clock at the county park. They will return in time for the evening class which begins at 7:30 o'clock.

Thursday they are to attend a luncheon in the church basement and Dr. Harbin will be in charge of this, also.

An Electric Refrigerator that says "Yes" to the 15 Questions of Paramount Importance

Here are the 15 questions every thoughtful buyer of an electric Refrigerator will ask

1— is the refrigerator made by a reliable, experienced company?

2— will it freeze an ample supply of ice cubes quickly?

3— will it maintain a constant low temperature to assure proper food preservation?

4— can extra fast freezing, such as desired for frozen delicacies, be accomplished?

5— has it a handy table-top?

6— is it thoroughly insulated to prevent costly heat-leakage?

7— is there ample space for good storage?

8— will it operate quietly and satisfactorily in the years to come?

9— will it look bright and clean and attractive in the years to come?

10— is it easily cleanable?

11— has it the convenience of a broom-room base?

12— is it sold on a dependable long-time guarantee?

13— will it operate economically and without frequent "Servicing?"

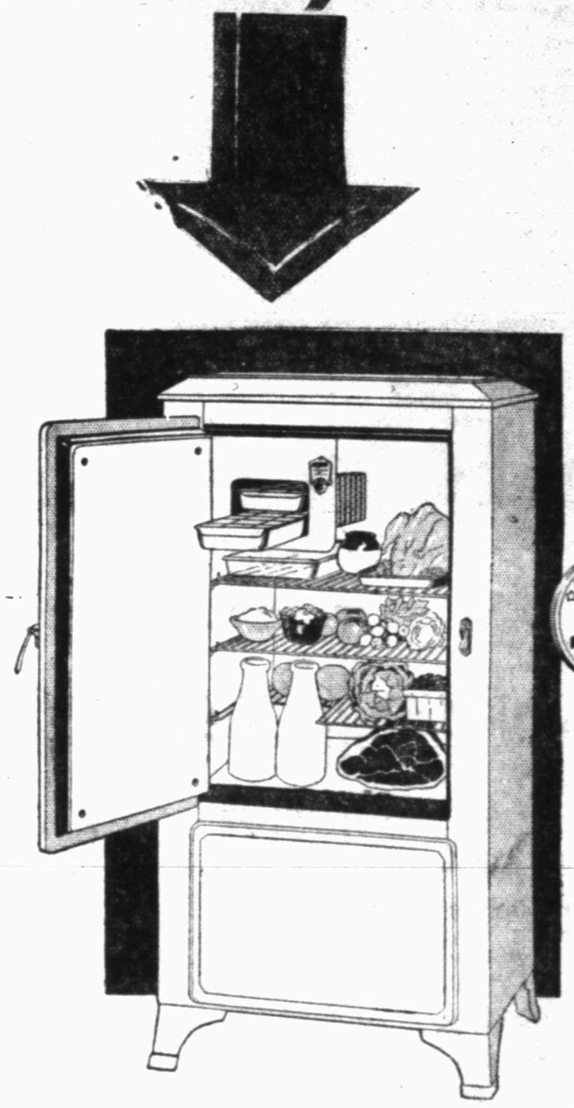

14— is it sold at a price I can afford?

15— is it sold on terms that will not be burdensome?

And Leonard's answer to every one of these important questions is "Yes" and without any "Ifs."

Physical Examination Offered Lubbock School Pupils

Second Annual Round-Up Will Be This Week

All Children To Enter Local Schools Next September To Have Opportunity To Undergo Examinations

ALL children who are to enter public school next September for the first time will have an opportunity to undergo a physical examination this week under the supervision of the health department of the Lubbock system, according to announcements that have been made by Mrs. Joe Smith, public school health nurse.

This will initiate the second annual summer round-up of pre-school children, the first having been conducted here last spring. Examinations will be conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday by a group of local physicians and members of the Lubbock Dental society will be made at the George M. Hunt school on Tuesday for children who will enter that school and the Dupre school, and at the K. Carter school on Wednesday for children who will enter that ward and the Sanders school. Other children are to go to the nearest clinic.

To Find Defects

Any child who is to enter school next September may attend the clinic and each child is to be accompanied by his mother or father, Mrs. Smith stated. Cards will be scored on the health of the children with recommendations concerning defects that may be apparent. A check will be made during the summer by parent-teacher associations of the city to encourage parents to have defects corrected.

Children entering school for the first time in September will be vaccinated for small pox and immunized against diphtheria at the clinic, when parents request it, according to Mrs. Smith, who pointed out that each child has to have the small pox vaccination before entering the city schools.

Schedule Given

A schedule for the two days has been released as follows:

Tuesday, George M. Hunt school—9 to 10 a. m., Drs. J. P. Lattimore and Allen T. Stewart; 10 to 11 a. m., Drs. F. B. Malone and C. C. Mansell; 11 to 12 a. m., Drs. O. W. English and R. L. Powers; 1 to 2 p. m., Drs. J. T. Hutchinson and W. L. Baugh; 2 to 3 p. m., Drs. Edd Smith and B. J. Roberts; 3 to 4 p. m., Drs. Herbert C. Maxwell and V. V. Clark.

Wednesday, K. Carter school—9 to 10 a. m., Drs. R. T. Canon and D. D. Cross; 10 to 11 a. m., Drs. W. E. Cravens and J. W. Rollo; 11 to 12 a. m., Drs. Maxwell and Powers; 1 to 2 p. m., Drs. Fred Standefer and Sam Dunn; 2 to 3 p. m., Drs. M. C. Overton and Clark; 3 to 4 p. m., Dr. J. H. Stiles.

Correction of defects when the child is small often prevents serious health problems later in life, according to Mrs. Smith, who said that minor difficulties at the pre-school age often lead to tuberculosis, rheumatism, heart trouble and anemia years later. The child whose physical condition is good does better work in the class room and, often by discovering and correcting eye, ear, teeth or other defects during the summer months, the children have better attendance records during the winter, she explained.

About 300 Examined

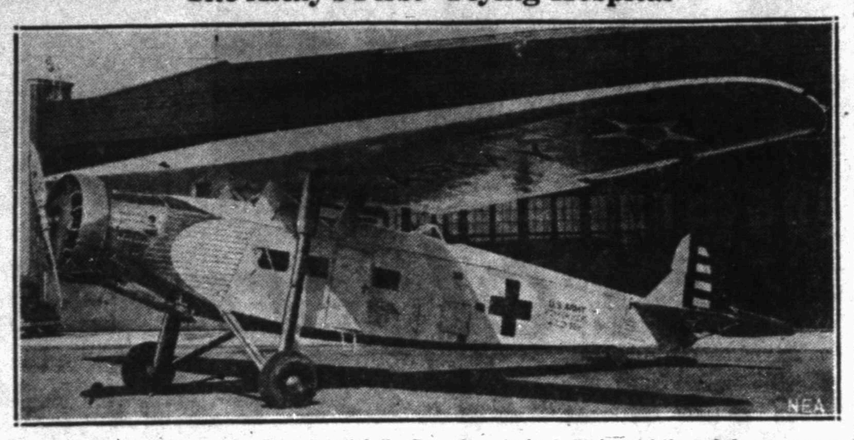

About 300 children were examined in the clinic last spring and a check up showed that about 28 per cent of the defects found then were corected.

That work with the regular health program of the public schools probably is responsible largely for the good health of children attending the schools this year, Mrs. Smith believes.

There have been no epidemics of communicable diseases in the schools this winter, although there have usually been epidemics in the past, and there have been only five cases of scarlet fever during the winter here and no diphtheria cases, she said.

Children who are attending school now are carrying home announcements of the pre-school children's clinic for Tuesday and Wednesday, in an effort to get every child who will enter school next fall to have an examination.

Drouth Office Is Cleaning Up Work

FORT WORTH, May 2 (AP)—Officials and the clerical staff of the farmers' federal seed loan office this morning commenced brushing up the remnant of their duties of considering pending last minute applications for seed and family maintenance loans from drouth-stricken farmers of Texas.

The doors were closed to new applicants last Friday. Only applications returned for corrections and those received in yesterday's mail are being considered.

Over 500 applications are now outstanding, E. J. Murphy, office director, estimated. It will not take over ten days to clean up all the office work, he said.

An illustrated lecture on hay fever, asthma and related diseases will be delivered at the First Baptist church at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday by Dr. Ray M. Balyeat, of Oklahoma City, Dr. Allen T. Stewart, president of the Lubbock County Medical society, has announced.

Dr. Balyeat, who will be a guest of the county medical society here, is a recognized authority on hay fever and the weeds of the southwest causing the disease, according to Dr. Stewart.

The lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides. It will be in language that the layman can understand, it was said.

Humble Company Continues Fight

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Attorneys for the Humble Pipe line company have notified officials of the interstate commerce commission that Thursday"s refusal of permission to cut rates on one day notice has not ended the matter.

The Humble company, it is understood at the commission, is seeking an agreement with its competitors in Texas for lower rates on oil from many Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana fields. Failing this, it is expected an application will be filed for lower rates, the company giving the legal notice of 30 days.

Company officials April 25 filed an application with the commission for permission to reduce rates 20 per cent from 21 oil fields in Texas and New Mexico. Alleging that producers in these fields faced an emergency due to competition of the great East Texas oil field, attorneys for the company sought to put the rates into effect on one day's notice.

Rate officials decided the emergency was not such as to warrant suspension of the rules of the commission and denied the application.

The Good OLD DAYS

—When we equip office and workshop with invention and power that shorten the working day;

—When electrical servants in the home free the day of its ancient tasks—

Modern industry has presented to us the gift of leisure hours.

There is no chorus from industry that our civilization is too highly mechanized, nor from the emancipated workers of America that the craftsmanship of former times is being destroyed. There is no insistence from the women of America that we return to the domestic era of the wash-tub, the stifling range and the dusty broom.

Moisture Insures Wheat Crop, Good Planting Season

Benign Winter Smiles Where Drouth Struck

Dr. Warburton Says Nation Is Recovering From Last Summer's Blow; South Is Planting More Gardens

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 2—Benign winter smiled where a truculent summer had frowned, and most of the drouth area has its farm work well ahead of the season.

Dr. C. W. Warburton, federal director of agricultural extension work, says that with few exceptions farmers were in position to take advantage of the pre-seasonal opportunity to plow and plant, and with good growing and harvesting conditions they are expected to have good crops where a year ago they so signally failed.

Moisture Is Sufficient

Moisture, the devastating absence of which seared the country from the Rocky mountains to the Potomac river last year, is sufficient for present needs.

The south, which of all sections, was the worst hit by the drouth, has made amazing progress, Warburton says in the planting of home gardens.

Farmers who had nothing to eat when their cash income was cut off are planting sufficient truck crops for a winter's supply—many of them for the first time.

Fruits Doing Well

Fruits and grass crops are doing well. Some sections have had killing frosts, others cool weather which has retarded plant growth.

The government is forbidden by act of congress to estimate the intended cotton acreage, but it is expected to be increased in the southwest and decreased in the cotton belt proper, or the "deep south."

Federal funds totaling $67,000,000 are aiding farmers in the drouth and storm and hail areas which represent approximately one-half of the chief agricultural counties of the country.

More than $25,000,000 has been loaned already to nearly 165,000 farmers and regional offices are mailing out from 1,500 to 3,000 checks a day. These loans have approximated $150 each.

Plans For Meet To Be Discussed

CANYON, May 2. (Special) — President J. A. Hill of the West Texas State Tachers college will leave with Superintendent W. A. McIntosh of the Amarillo public schools, on May 1 for Fort Worth, where they will meet J. C. Cochran, President of the Texas State Teachers association to make tentative plans for the meeting of the organization at Amarillo November 26, 27, 28.

The Canyon college is making elaborate plans for meetings of ex-students, a large banquet and many other features during the coming fall meeting. This is the first time that the State Association has ever met in the Panhandle of Texas.

Bailey County man Trying Out Irrigation For Wheat

(By Staff Correspondent)

MULESHOE, May 2.—A unique experiment in irrigation is being tried out this year by J. O. Crawford, owner of a half section of land in the famed Blackwater Valley draw, the sensational West Texas irrigation project.

Mr. Crawford is irrigating 100 acres of wheat, as an experiment, to determine the possibilities of irrigation of that crop. He had recently spread water over the wheat acreage for the second time this year.

"I am expecting a yield of 30 bushels per acre or better," Mr. Crawford is quoted as saying. "I am trying it out and so far the experiment has been a success."

Mr. Crawford's wheat is looking fine, has a splendid stand and is in better shape than any other wheat in the county according to farmers. Mr. Crawford has row crops under irrigation this year as well as a truck garden and the wheat. He has been irrigating for a number of years and is one of the strong supporters of that type of farming in Bailey county.

Sudan Livestock Man Plans Programs Of Hog Feeding

(By Staff Correspondent)

SUDAN, May 2.—P. E. Boesen, pioneer livestock man and rancher of this section, who owns between 300 and 400 hogs, is planning on the raising of a large number of litters this summer in anticipation of a monster hog feeding program this fall and winter.

"I am going to raise as many fall pigs as I can," Mr. Boesen said. "I have about 25 sows that will farrow shortly and some more within a short time. I am going to feed as many hogs as I can."

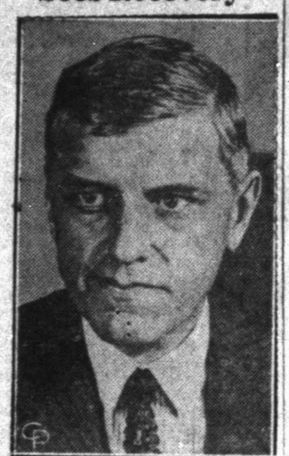

Mr. Boesen said he had not decided whether to feed cattle and follow cattle with hogs or not. He has worked this plan the past year but owing to market conditions the sale of cattle was not as successful as had been anticipated.

Soybeans May Be Substitute For Wheat; 4,000 New Lots Brought To U. S. From Orient

Plant Explorer Is Back With Collection Of Seeds From East; More Than 50 Uses Made Of Beans In Nation

BY FRANK J. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

WASHINGTON, May 2—The 4,000 lots of new soybean seeds brought from the Orient by William J. Morse plant explorer for the department of agriculture, may hold the answer to America's great agricultural question—"What can be substituted for wheat?"

For two years Morse roamed Japan, Korea and Manchuria unmindful that the work he was doing may point the way to acreage reduction of the huge cereal crop now engulfed in a battle to return from an export to a domestic consumption basis.

Was To Find Beans

His business was to find soybeans which would grow in any soil and under any climate in the United States and be better suited to the manufacture of the plant's some 100 different products.

It is not impossible, Morse says, that somewhere in this new collection of seeds, tests may reveal varieties which not only may grow to perfection in any wheat region but also become the foundation for development of new commercial enterprises.

Therein his quest may answer the wheat acreage reduction question more directly and expediently than any other agency. Admittedly, farmers do not want to keep on raising wheat at present prices or add to the already large surplus.

Soybeans might be that wheat substitute, Morse says, if varieties for which there is wide farm and industrial demand were found adaptable to wheat soils.

More Than 50 Uses

More than 50 different uses are made of soybeans in America, ranging from hay to the manufacture of flour for bread. In the Orient the soybean has more than 100 uses.

Commercial use in United States is increasing. The 1930 acreage was 1,635,000 acres compared with 1,428,000 in 1929. The farm value of the 1930 crop was estimated at $33,300,000.

Circus elephants wintering at El Monte, Cal., were used advantageously to pull stumps from an orchard which was being sub-divided.

Work in progress will more than double the size of the Los Angeles fish harbor, which now has an output of $23,000,000 value yearly.

Farming Land For Lease In Demand Over South Plains; Farms Occupied

Real Estate Dealers And Farmers Say Land In Demand

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Lost, or strayed, all the vacant farms on the South Plains. If whereabouts of any are know, please see your local real estate agent.

THIS advertisement might properly be inserted in dozens of newspapers, especially in those towns far from the South Plains where people reside who own lands in this area. Land ownership of property in this area is widely scattered. Scores of people east, south and north, own ranches or farms here.

But there is grave doubt, especially in the minds of real estate men and land men, that such advertisements would be productive of many favorable replies.

Favorable Deals Made

The facts are that almost every farm on the South Plains with any kind of improvement or broken out land, has been grabbed up during the past six or eight months and is now being cultivated, were able to make favorable deals with very little effort.

Take Gaines county for example. From time to time there have been farms started there with the owner two or three years later relinquishing his holdings, the land reverting back to the original owner. All of these farms have been leased and there is said not to be a vacant farm any place in the county. W. H. Steele, Santa Fe land man, said all of the properties of his company were taken and that he could have rented them several times over.

Seeking Land In Terry

Terry county, according to J. E. Shelton, secretary of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce, has had as many as 400 to 500 farmers asking for information about leasing land, while there were no farms to be had. Every farm in that county is now occupied and the excess of would be renters is estimated at near the half thousand mark.

Bailey county likewise has no vacant farms. There are probably 100 or more new families in the county and real estate dealers are unable to meet the demand. "I know of no vacant land anywhere, that is land that has been in cultivation," A. P. Stone, veteran land agent, declares the past week.

Occupying Land Now

In Lamb county according to bankers and real estate men, many men from Oklahoma and other states who bought land months ago have come out now to occupy the land, it having previously been rented. Not a single vacant property is to be had on any of the Yellowhouse land according to the local manager of the properties. Most of the deals of that concern recently have been with renters and there is no available property.

J. H. Lucas of the I. C. Enochs Lands in Bailey and Cochran counties says that his properties are all taken up.

Levelland real estate men predict an influx of over 150 farmers in Hockley county this year. All land has been taken up and there will be a big increase in new land broken out for summer crops.

Dawson and Lynn counties report the same thing, no vacant farms this year, a farm being rented as soon as it became known that it was on the market.

Every available acre in Crosby and Dickens counties has been put to use this season. Despite the fact that there were a large number of farmers who moved from this section last year, the land is all in cultivation. Owners either released their properties or are farming the land themselves.

The same thing is true of Hale county. Many wheat farms are apently without a tenant. But the fact is that the farm's owner is having his land cultivated and is supervising the work personally. Much of the area in Hale county is in wheat and the acreage is in cultivation.

Floyd and Garza counties will have more land in cultivation this year than before. In Garza the land on the caprock will all be placed in cultivation with few new farmers. These are men who moved in to take up the places made vacant by persons leaving the county.

There are no idle acres in Lubbock county at this time. Land is at a premium, with new acreages, mostly on farms that had some pasture or unbroken land.

Rains Of Past Few Days Give Aid To Crops

Farmers Preparing To Plant Now After Good Rains On South Plains; Sorghums Planted In Few Sections

MOISTURE over the South Plains the last half of April has been of sufficient quantity to insure the "making" of all wheat land with an estimated yield averaging as high as 20 bushels to the acre and in some places an estimate of upwards of 25 and even 30 acres.

Land that will be cultivated this year has all been broken out. Many farmers taking advantage of the rains coming before planting time, have worked over their lands again, killing out the weeds and conserving the moisture.

Begin Planting

Farmers in Crosby and Dickens counties began about two weeks ago to do a little planting of grain sorghums. Others planted their gardens and in some few instances some cotton was planted.

Last week and the week before Lamb county farmers and a few in Bailey, Hockley and other sections, unable to stand the pressure, put out a few acres of grain sorghums. Nearly every farmer worked over his acres to kill out weed growth.

Plenty of Moisture

Since the middle of April it is estimated that moisture has ranged between two and four inches over widely scattered sections of the South Plains. In Lubbock and vicinity the total for the month was over two inches. In nearly every county there has been some moisture in every community.

Not all of the area has had rain at the same time, but the entire section has had more or less moisture, enough to give indications of sufficient water in the ground to give crops a good start.

Most of the seed sown early has been for the purpose of securing an early pasture for cattle and livestock. Carryover feed crops are low in most sections there is none to be had and all must be bought.

Small Grains Pastured

Wheat, barley and rye, planted last fall, has enabled hundreds of farmers to graze their livestock through the winter months. Oats planted in the early spring was also used for grazing purposes.

Farmers with wheat who plan to make a crop, have taken livestock off the land. They are giving the wheat a chance to grow and jointing is reported.

Grain sorghums now up will be of sufficient height for pasture in about six or seven weeks, according to some farmers. Acreages planted now will be ready for use by the middle of June, some farmers declare.

Wheat Leased for Pasture

During the winter wheat land owners made considerable money by leasing the land for grazing. The price averaged $1.50 per head per month and in Hale, Floyd, Crosby and counties to the north where there are large wheat acreages many farmers made good living by leasing their wheat land. The grazing did not injure the wheat but on the contrary reports show it prevented a rank growth and danger of freezes to early heavy crops. Damage to wheat from the late March freeze has not been as extensive as was at first believed.

Parmer, Castro and north Bailey counties, where there is large wheat areas, report crops in splendid shape.

Moisture so far in 1931 is several inches in excess of that for the past season. More than a normal amount of rainfall has been had with the ground in better condition for planting at this season of the year than for the past five or ten years.

With even a slightly less than normal amount of rainfall during the growing season, indications already point to a normal crop, larger than the yields of 1930 and with a normal fall, yields should be the best in years, agricultural leaders say.

Hogs, Like Babies, Need Vitamins To Ward Off The Rickets, Expert Declar

STILLWATER, Okla., May 2 (—Check up on the vitamin O, the mineral and the sunlight. Look out for the rickets.

It's not a child health lecture broadcasting, but C. P. Thompson swine expert of Oklahoma A. & M. college. Brood sows that drag the hind quarters, he says, lack calcium in their bones, the characteristic deficiency in rickets cases.

Lacking vitamin D and minerals in their rations, sows both before and after farrowing supply the required calcium for their litters from their own bodies. Ultimately this causes a breakdown in the back bone and paralysis of the hind quarters.

Green pasture and ground green alfalfa hay are recommended as vitamin sources, in addition to as much sunlight as possible. Calcium should be provided, Thompson says, through a mixture of two parts ground limestone, bone meal or wood ashes to one part common salt. This should be before the animals at all times, in addition to the green feed.

ROUTES INCREASED

LITTLEFIELD, May 2.—Nine additional miles of rural routes have been added to the local postoffice, J. E. Bannen, postmaster, announced. Five miles was added to route two and four miles to route one.

Remains of a large Indian village of ancient times has been unearthed at Point Mugu, Cal.

Gordon, the son of General H. W. Gordon, was born in Woolwich, England, January 28, 1833. Immediately after receiving his cadetship from the Royal Military Academy in 1848 he embarked on his famous military career, and saw his first active service in the Crimean War. While serving in the eastern countries, he studied the geography and people, and gained the knowledge which enabled him to deal with them so successfully. He was actively engaged in the Taiping rebellion in China, the boundery troubles between Russia and Turkey, and the internal troubles in Egypt and the Sudan, as well as engineering projects of the British army and in each he held official positions of high command.

THE FIRST RACE BETWEEN A STEAM ENGINE AND A HORSE

The spirited race between Peter Cooper's engine, the "Tom Thumb", and one of the early horse-drawn cars used on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, took place August 28, 1830. At the start the horse took a long lead until the locomotive gained speed and went ahead, and had it not been for the slipping of a pulley-band on the blower of the engine it doubtless would have won. The full story of this unique race is contained in "John H. B. Latrobe and His Times, 1803-1891" by John Semmes.

Movie Friends Rallying To Support Of Clara Bow; Rogers In New Role

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, May 2—We don't know exactly how Clara Bow stands with fans throughout the country since the trial and conviction of her former secretary, Daisy Devoe. But if these fans are rallying to her support like her friends in Hollywood are, her popularity should last for some years yet.

Since the indictment of Frederic H. Girnau, publisher of the Coast Reporter, a weekly paper published here, by the federal grand jury as a result of stories printed about Clara, one can hear expressions of sympathy for Clara on every street corner. The stories supposedly gave intimate details of Clara's love life as it was learned by Miss Devoe while she still was secretary to the film star.

Hollywood Incensed

So far we have heard nothing regarding the truth or falsehood of the stories. Nobody seems to care about that. But Hollywood is incensed over the idea that such articles should be published about anyone.

Clara is potentially one of the best actresses in the picture business and given the right opportunity would rise to greater heights than ever.

Modern Talkie Opens Run At Lindsey Today

Clara Bow In "No Limit" Will Show This Week; "Dracula" Current Attraction At The Palace; Nagel Is Coming

"HONOR Among Lovers" is the feature attraction of Lubbock's theater calendar this week.

With Frederick March and Claudette Colbert in the leading roles, "Honor Among Lovers" is a modern story of modern people with modern problems. It is the story in which the wife of an embezzler goes to a wealthy friend and offers herself in return for money enough to keep her husband out of jail. Movie critics claim the talkie is filled with excitement due to the brilliant acting and directing and to even, natural dialogue. March plays the role of a rich Wall Street trader and Miss Colbert is his secretary. Monroe Owsley will be seen in the role of the man she marries to avoid the daily improper proposal from her boss. Charles Ruggles and Ginger Rogers also are in the cast.

Young

"Honor Among Lovers" begins a three-day run at the Lindsey today.

Story of Northwest

Taking for its background the Canadian Northwest of a more primitive day, "The Right Of Way" presents a penetrating human drama, interwoven by a novel and striking love story. It will be shown at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

Conrad Nagel, Loretta Young and Fred Kohler head a superb cast in "The Right of Way." Nagel plays the part of Charles Steele, hero of the Sir Gilbert Parker novel by that name. He is said to give one of his best portrayals in the role.

Davies

Moviedom's famous "it" girl is back again and "littler" than ever. This time Clara Bow is the star of "No Limit", which comes to the Lindsey Friday and Saturday. All of the personality-wares of the new and slimmer Clara are said to be shown to the best advantage in "No Limit".

Plenty of Excitement

Clara and her roommate are usherettes in a big New York movie theater and the experiences Clara encounters furnish plenty of thrills for cinema audiences. Stuart Erwin plays his usual dumb role. Others in the cast include Dixie Lee, Norman Foster and Harry Green.

One of the most unusual stories ever brought to the talking screen is the current attraction at the Palace. It is "Dracula", dealing with the "undead" world, who rise from their graves at night. A suitable setting is provided for the weird, uncanny mystery.

"Dracula" first was produced on the stage in New York more than three years ago. The cast includes three players who were in the original stage cast—Bela Lugosi, Edward Van Sloan and Herbert Bunston—while other important roles are played by Helen Chandler, David Manners and Wwight Frye. The picture continues through Monday.

Comedy To Show

Marion Davies' new starring film, "It's a Wise Child" which shows at the Palace Tuesday and Wednesday, is said to be one of her best mirth-provoking pictures.

Baxter

Taken from a David Belasco stage production the story deals with embarassing and uproarious effect caused by small town gossip. Others in the cast are Marie Prevost Poly Moran, James Gleason and Lester Vail.

Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett will be seen in the leading roles of "Doctor's Wives" which will be offered at the Palace Thursday and Friday. It is a powerful, human-interest drama.

"Hook, Line and Sinker," with the famed comedian pair, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, in the leading role, starts today at the Lyric. Dorthy Lee heads the supporting cast. The picture continues through Tuesday.

Sue Carol in "Dancing Sweeties" will be shown at the Lyric Wednesday and Thursday.

"The Lash" with Richard Barthelmess is the Lyric attraction for Friday and Saturday.

Major-General H. E. Elliott, Senator for Victoria, Australia, who led in heroic fighting in Gallipoli and the Somme, died recently at Melbourne.

At the THEATERS

Conrad Nagel, above, will appear in a leading role of "The Right Of Way" at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

Frederick March, above, will be seen in "Honor Among Lovers" which shows at the Lindsey today, Monday and Tuesday.

Gilbert Is Set For Film Comeback

HOLLYWOOD, May 2—We're becoming very much afraid that one Mr. John Gilbert is going to be a success in the talkies after all. Not the figure he was a few years ago, perhaps, but nevertheless an actor really worthy of star billing.

Jack has made two good talkies now and if he can crash through with a third he won't have a single thing to worry about—unless it's the fact that even a miracle coudn't get him another contract like the $10,000-a-week one he has just about completed.

"Cheri Bibi," Gilbert's latest film, taken from the novel by Gaston Laroux, is good entertainment. And it gives Jack an opportunity to do far more acting than he has done in a good many months. This is the story M-G-M originally bought for Lon Chaney, whose untimely death prevented him from making it.

Many persons unfamiliar with the story wondered how Gilbert could possibly make a picture originally intended for Chaney. And those familiar with the story wondered a little more about the wisdom of putting Jack into it. But the star proved his worth by coming through with a fine performance.

The story is one of those unbelievable yarns written solely for entertainment, with no thought on the part of the author that anyone would even think of believing it. It is about a magician sentenced to prison for murder, who escapes, steals the body of a dying man, has his face remodeled to look like the dead man's and goes back home without even the deceased's wife or sweetheart detecting his deceit.

Gilbert, always a good actor, had little difficulty in portraying the dual role. And his voice, the one thing which has been criticized since his entrance into the talkies, shows a marked improvement over "Gentleman's Fate," in which it was very good.

Lelia Hyams gave a good performance as Gilbert's sweetheart and later as the wife of Ian Keith, the man whose face Gilbert took. Lelia has been doing all right lately and we wouldn't be surprised to see even bigger things fall in her path. Although he appears on the screen only a few times, Jean Hersholt is outstanding, as is Lewis Stone, who gives his usual polished performance. And nobody could have played Keith's sweetheart any better than Natalie Morehead. John Robertson's direction deserves commendation, too.

"SEED" BRINGS BACK FAME TO LOIS WILSON

Although it strays somewhat from the novel upon which it is based, John Boles' latest film, "Seed" looks like a sure fire hit to us. The picture is well directed with the utmost value being secured from every dramatic scene. It's guaranteed to bring tears to feminine eyes, too. And, we have noticed that a picture which draws a tear invariably is a success. It's peculiar how women like to cry.

John Gilbert and Natalie Morehead in a scene from "Cheri Bibi."

Boles, particularly, profits from this picture as it is his first one since the introduction of the talkies in which he does not sing. For once he is given a chance to get over solely on his ability as an actor. And he makes the most of that chance.

"Seed," also definitely establishes Lois Wilson as a talking picture actress. Lois was a "big shot" in the old silent days, but she practically passed out of the picture when the films broke their silence. She's back again now, however, and with as grand a performance as one would want to see. Genevieve Tobin also gives an excellent account of herself as the girl who takes Boles from his wife (Lois Wilson) and five children.

There are innumerable others in the cast, all of whom deserve praise but they merely help in building the situations surrounding the three principals.

On Condition Of Business

THE STATEMENT "business could be as much worse as it could be better" has been hazarded many times and from various quarters during the past fourteen months and in most cases has been received with rare credence. Yet now comes an internationally accredited firm of accountants, which deals in nothing less convincing than cold figures, to add support to the remark.

"The Manfacturers Record," which needs no introduction to men whose business it is to watch of trade and commerce, prints in its current edition an editorial headed "As A Man Thinketh." In support of the contention that "business could be as much worse as it could be better." The Avalanche-Journal is reproducing the editorial in full and bearing the stamp of authenticated comment. Says "The Manufacturers Records:

"That representative corporations in principal industries showed a much stronger operating position in 1930 than in the depression of 1921 is an interesting announcement made by Ernst &Ernst, accountants and auditors. According to this comparative study, classified into 20 industrial lines corporations had higher profit margins on sales, larger sales in relation to inventories, smaller inventories in relation to net plant investment, and larger profits in relation to capital investment. These favorable factors, It is brought out serve to suggest that management of the larger companies has improved materially in the past ten years.

"The study," Ernst & Ernst asserts, also raises doubts as to whether plants of the larger corporations are as much over-expanded as is generally assumed. Certainly their plants are in better position as regards profits, sales and inventories than ten years ago.

" A previous study by the same firm a few weeks ago showed that corporations generally were in a relatively more liquid position, with larger cash resources and lower current liabilities at the end of 1930 than at end of 1921, thus indicating that the corporation credit situation is not over-extended.

"The 20 lines classified in the analysis include: Automobiles; automobile parts; beverages and confections; building materials; chemicals; coal mining; food products iron and steel; machinery and tools; merchandising; metal products; mining and smelting; oil-producing and refining; paper and paper products; railroad equipment; rubber; textiles; tobacco; wearing apparel and miscellaneous industrials.

"We have been inclined to think of the last boom period as one of normal business activity and to compare the present business volume with it. We have ignored the fact that we have passed through other recession periods and that we have emerged each time to reach higher levels of activity. This oversight has resulted in the creation of a depressed state of mind, which has further intensified the situation. In this connection there has come to our attention a story which is so applicable to prevailing thought that we are passing it on.

"It recounts the experience of a wholesaler who lost one of his salemen and employed another to take his place. Because of the depression, the employer decided to get a man just entering business who could be hired cheaply.

"A young man was engaged for the job and sent out on the road for a trip that required about a month to complete. From the start he sent in order after order and his sales exceeded those made by other men in the organization, so the story goes. Naturally, the employer was surprised at the success of the new salesman and when he returned from the trip sent for him.

"The young man was very anxious to make good and went into the boss' office with fear and trembling. The boss asked him how he found conditions and if he found many signs of depressions, which all the other salemen reported constantly. The young man replied that he could not answer that question, since he did not know the boss wanted him to look for depressions. 'You told me to go out and sell the goods, and I wanted to make good and hold my job,' he said, and added: 'I did not look for any depressions, as I did not know there were any.' Whether the story is true or not, writes H. H. White, Southern sales engineer at Atlanta of The James Leffel & Co., does it not well illustrate the actual conditions we face right now. There is no denying that business is bad and it is not so easy to get as during boom times, but the slump is over and we are now in a psychological state of mind. Mr. White makes the suggtstion that if we will all consider these normal times and get busy and do all the business we can, not only think but put into action these thoughts of business, will not good business come? ' a man thinketh, so is he.' "

Practical Health Problems

EARACHE AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

Earache is always a sign of possible danger and trouble; a running ear is a sign that trouble has already begun; a chronic running ear is a sign damage has already been done.

Earache is a common complaint in this particular section of the country. It is common among children, and fairly common among older persons. Infants are especially subject to earache, although they do not express it in the terms of older children. They cry and fret and pick at the ears, as their signal of pain in the ear.

The cause of earache is usually an inflamation of the middle ear or the ear drum. This inflammation comes from the throat. The patient has a cold, or a sore throat, or an attack of influenza, and the inflammation travels from the throat to the ear, by way of the lining membrane of the eustochean tube. The ear begins to ache. As the inflammation grows worst, pain increases. After a time fluid, or serum, will form in the middle ear cavity, which is soon converted into pus, and we have a definite middle ear abscess. This is commonly called a "rising" in the ear. The patient's temperature is usualy above normal, and in a small child it may go to 103 degrees or 104 degrees at times. Indeed, in a child with a cold, high fever and fretfulness, we frequently find a middle ear infection.

Several Alterrative

Now, suppose we have a case of earache. We find the ear drum swollen and the patient having considerable pain. One of several things may happen. (1). It may be opened, and the pus allowed to drain out, and after a few days the ear is well. (2). If let alone, the patient suffers great pain, but the drum may break and the pus drain through. This case will usually get well after a time. (3). The drum may not be opened. It may not rupture, and the pus continues to form and is pushed backward into the mastoid region. Every mastoid infection we see began as a simple earache—the common old "rising" in the head that we frequently hear about.

Every case of earache that continues more than a few hours should be examined, and if it needs to be opened, this should be done. Many persons have the idea that one cannot hear after an drum is opened. This is not the case. Damage is done when the drum has to rupture, or when at all. It will heel in practically all cases when opened at the proper time.

Among the simple home remedies, there is nothing that gives satisfactory relief for earache. Various oils have been used. Laudanum is used extensively, a mixture of carbolic acid and glycerine is used, but none will satisfy every case. This suggestion is for the benefit of the patient; give a dose of aspirin, or some other pain-relieving medicine, the size of the dose reasonable for the age of the patient. If he is not relieved, report to your physician for an examination. It is too damgerous to delay very long.

Spain Trying Land Plan

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Spanish republicans start upon reconstruction of their country's land holding system has been curiously "played down" in cables from Europe thus far.

It has been mentioned, but only casually.

Perhaps this is because, agriculture having been particularly hard hit by post-war deflation, with a resultant slump in the price of farms, shallow economists temporarily have ceased to consider land of much importance.

It would be strange if Spanish intellectuals had fallen into such an error, for while the overthrown monarchy's actual practice was thoroughly unenlightened, the abstract reasoning of the advanced, independent school of Spain's economic thought has long been of a very high order.

However, key men in the new government appear to be living up to what might have been expected of them.

The initial impression appears to have been that an ultra-conservative group of republicans had come into power in Madrid. It was hard to believe of a cabinet which included the veteran liberal, Alejandro Lerroux, in the premier post of minister of state, and the famous socialist agrarian authority, Fernando de los Rios, in charge of the portfolio of justice, but that was the verdict.

Quite likely Moscow's expressed dissatisfaction had something to do with it; even Dr. de los Rios evidently is not radical enough for the Kremlin.

The Russian newspaper Izvestia, for example, was first to broadcast the complaint that the Zamora regime showed no signs of moving in the direction of dispossessing the great landlords, whose generally-recognized greed, since the creation of their estates began about the middle of the Nineteenth century, notoriously has reduced a fairly prosperous peasantry to dire poverty in the last 80 years.

Yet the very batch of dispatches among which a translation of this accusation from Minister of Justice contained also an interview from Minister of Justice de los Rios describing steps already taken by him toward establishing a "co-operative system of peasant proprietorship" immediately.

It is not, to be sure, on the Russian model, which it may be accounts for Izvestia's disapproval. There is nothing in it to evoke the applause of orthodox standpatters in countries like the United States, nevertheless.

Dr. de los Rios will be denounced as an out-and-out "red," indeed, as soon as it is generally noticed that he employs the parlous expression, "communally-owned land."

It is not so crimson an idea, for all that. Not if antiquity confers respectability.

Land was held largely in common throughout Europe until comparatively recently—in England until the mid-1700"s, when the "squires" began concentrating it in big estates, each with its tenantry; just as, with the disappearance of free land, a tenant class is being created in this country now.

Spain, to a great extent, clung to common ownership for a century longer than the English. The system is not entirely extinct in the province of Leon today.

But in Spain the grandees tried to effect their grab more quickly than the English aristocray had done, and it precipitated a revolution.

Its principal purpose was to restore their land to the people, as I have been assured by as competent a historical authority as Francisco Salmeron, a son of Nicolas Salmeron, who was one of the three presidents of the short-lived Spanish republic of 1873.

Monarchist rule speedily was reestablished, it is true. The grandees got the land after all. They held it for more than five and a half decades, but in 1931 the Zamora provisional administration has taken up the task of returning it to the peasantry exactly where President Salmeron had to drop it just after Ulysses S. Grant's second inauguration in Washington.

As Dr. De Los Rios outlines his plan, the program is to make of each of the Spanish municipalities a kind of "holding company" for the farming area in its vicinity, with the peasants as members of the company.

At present he is drafting leases vesting the land titles in the municipalities.

The expropriated grandee landlords, he says, are to be compensated "at a fair rate, to be fixed by the government," not by the grandees, lest it prove impossible ever to agree on a "fair rate."

Will it be an application of the Henry Georgian single tax principle?

I put this question to Congressman Robert Crosser of Cleveland, who I believe, understands the single tax more fully than any other man in Washington, and he rather disappointed me (for I would like to see the single tax tried out on so large a scale) by saying that he thinks not.

"Of course it depends," he said, "upon the terms on which the farmer gets his land.

"If he is given full possession of it and pays, each year, full value for that year's use of it, and, on that basis, is recognized as entitled to all of whatever it yields to him, then it's a single tax transaction; but if the farmers farm co-operatively and divide their total product among themselves, that's socialism. It looks to me like socialism.

"Besides, there seems to be no mention of industrial land, which should be included, as well as agricultural land, if this is the single tax."

On one point, however, the congressman agreed with me—regardless of the "fair rate" of their compensation, the expropriated grandees can be depended on to make Spain's hills echo to their lamentations at the fashion in which they are certain to swear they have been gypped.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 32

"It's going to be deucedly awkward, one way and another," continued Sir Edric, without giving Dick time to recover his amazement. "Pollard is a tenacious devil, and it will take a lot to dissuade him from his opinion. Look here, Dick, is this another of your amateur sleuth stunts?"

"My dear fellow," replied Dick. "I'm floundering hopelessly in the dark. Pollard seems to have made up his mind that I went to Ibbotson's house last night. I assure you, on my word of honor, that I didn't, and I know that you'll believe me. But, even if I had done so, I fail to see whence all this storm arises."

"Well, the fact is that the place was entered last night, an dthe Maharajah's Rubies were taken," said Sir Edric quietly.

Dick whisteled softly. "Oh, so that's the way the wind blows, is it!" he exclaimed. "And the worthy Pollard thinks that I'm the bold burglar. I had a suspicion the other day that he fancied I had murdered the wretched Herridge. But, I say, Conway, are you perfectly certain that the finger-prints on that door-knob are mine?"

"I'm afraid that there's very little doubt about it," replied Sir Edric. "And it's that which makes the whole business so awkward. It seems to me that it'll want a lot of explaining away."

"Well, unless I've taken to walking in my sleep, I can't explain it," said Dick candidly. "The ridiculous thing is that I can't establish an alibi. As it happens nobody that I know of saw me go into my rooms and the mews was deserted when I put my car away. And then there's that curious business about the telegram."

"I don't, at the moment, see what that has to do with it," remarked Sir Edric dryly.

"But I think I do," replied Dick slowly. "Wait a minute, let me try to disentangle this mess. I can't help feeling that this is another move of our humorous friend, directed mainly, of course, against the rubies, but incidentally against me. He seems to have had a grudge against me ever since our interview, and now he's had the happy idea of enlisting the police on his side. By jove, Conway, he's a fellow worth pitting one's wits against!"

"So I have already discovered," remarked Sir Edric. "But I fail to understand how even his ingenuity could enable him to take your hand against your will and press it firmly upon the door-knob of Ibbotson's pantry."

"No, but what if he took Ibbotson's door-knob and pressed it against my hand?" replied Dick. "By jove, man, I believe I've got it! You remember my telling you of my adventure in that empty house in Creek Street? Well, one point about it strikes me very forcibly, now I come to think of it. The door of the room in which our friend had installed himself was shut, and I had to open it. When I caught hold of the handle I noticed that it was unpleasantly sticky. See the dodge? He had prepared it on purpose, so that it would take a good impression of my finger-prints. I expect that he had had designs on Ibbotson's safe for some time and had fitted the door of the room in Creek Street with a knob similar to that on Ibbotson's pantry. Then, when I'd gone he took off the knob and kept it by him until the Ibbotson coup came off. Mind you, I don't think he knew at the time who I was. He can't have discovered that until he circulated his flash-light photograph. It was just a precaution, in case I proved an unsatisfactory agent. If I had proved satisfactory, and obeyed orders, the door-knob would not have been substituted. In the alternative event, the police would have saved him the bother of getting rid of me."

"I shouldn't wonder if you were right," remarked Sir Edric, picking up the door-knob. "Now I look at this thing closely, it looks as though it had been covered with gum or varnish or something. If that were still wet when you put your hand on it, it would account for the perfection of the imprint. I'll send round to Wapping. If we can't find your fingermarks on the door of the room in Creek Street, your explanation is probably correct."

"I don't see any other solution," replied Dick. "It was a really ingenious trick, you must admit. And look how I was recalled from Somersetshire, so as to be in London when the theft was carried out! Our friend, or one of his agents, sent that telegram, you may bet. And it's that that rather bothers me. As it happens, I told nobody but Alison my address. I didn't even let Jerry Gould know where I was going. Alison isn't likely to have told anybody, except perhaps your aunt or her father; there's no particular reason why she should. That means that our friend has got a man following me about. I wish to heaven I could catch him at it!"

"Perhaps we'll catch him for you," remarked Sir Edric. "I suppose your lockup in the mews, was broken into, after you had left the car there. If you're right about the door-knob, it is easy to understand how the real thief would prefer to use your car. I think he deliberately waited for the policeman to pass before entering the house, and there was always the chance of the man noticing the number of the car and remembering it. Another useful piece of evidence against you, my boy! I'll send a man to have a look at that lock-up."

"I don't suppose that will tell you much," replied Dick. "Our friend has too keen an eye for detail to have broken in. He'll have provided himself with a key which would open it."

"I expect he will," agreed Sir Edric. "Taking it all round, Dick, it's going to be a devil of a job to persuade Pollard of your innocence. I can't very well order him to cease all inquiries in your direction. He would, quite rightly, consider it unwarrantable interference on my part. Besides, he'd think that I was in league with you, and I wouldn't put it past him to evolve the theory that I was the Funny Toff and you were my trusted subordinate. You don't know these chaps like I do, Dick. They value a practical fact like that door-knob more than they do a dozen volumes of theory. Pollard will believe that you took the rubies until he sees definite ocular proof that you didn't. The most that I can do is to give him instructions that he is not to arrest you without my permission."

"Confound the man!" exclaimed Dick. "I suppose he'll shadow me till further orders. Well, it ought to prove amusing. It looks as though I were already being shadowed by the Funny Toff's people, since they seem to know wherever I go. But just think of the astute Pollard having had his suspicions of me so early! That was a pretty cute dodge of his, getting me to draw a sketch of the necklace in his note-book! Of course, he got a beautiful impression of my finger-prints. And I thought he was merely rather a stupid man, going over ground which had already been covered, days before!"

"It seems a pity you didn't leave the matter to us in the first place," commented Sir Edric. "I admit that you are the only man we know who has succeeded in interviewing the Funny Toff, but, frankly, that doesn't seem to have carried us much further, while it has led to a devil of a lot of complications. Well, there's nothing more to be said now. You had better leave me to make what explanation I can to Pollard. By the way, before you go. Are you proposing to stay in London for the present? I ought, in fairness, to tell Pollard your plans."

"As a matter of fact, I didn't propose to stay in town," replied Dick. "When I rang Alison up last night, she suggested that since I had come up from Somersetshire, I might as well go down and stay at Lestridge Hall. However, if you would rather I remained on the spot, I can put that off."

Sir Edric hesitated. "No," he said at last, "I think, on the whole, that you had better go. You can't get into mischief there, at all events. I'll tell Pollard, and he can take what measures he thinks fit."

Development Of Mechanical Pilot Is Air Corps Greatest Achievement; New Devise Is To Be Used On Army Plane

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three stories about the Army Air Corps, on which national attention will center as it concentrates 672 military planes for maneuvers of unprecedented magnitude in May.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 2 — Tremendous improvements, making for greater speed, safety, efficiency, durability and combat strength, have been achieved in the past few years by the Army Air Corps.

One of the most marvelous developments has been that of the "mechanical pilot," a contrivance which when once set takes the place of a human pilot and controls the plane both as to direction and as to vertical and lateral stability. The army developed this apparatus in collaboration with a big electrical manufacturing company and expects to use it in its 40 or 50 transport planes.

The "mechanical pilot" sits in a cubical box about a foot high, weighs about 50 pounds and is placed under the pilot's seat. It contains two gyroscopes which work together. Last year the Air Corps flew by means of this little machine a plane from Dayton, O., to within 25 miles of Bolling Field in Washington. Although in case of a shifting wind the human pilot must correct it or change his direction, the development is expected to add greatly to safety of commercial planes and some experts suggest that the crash which recently killed Knute Rockne would never have occurred had the plane in which he and fellow passengers were riding been so equipped.

Show New Strength

Remarkable increases in combat efficiency and strength have also come along in the last two years.

The high speed of pursuit planes has been increased from 165 to 192 miles an hour and their combat ceiling, previously about 21,000 feet, has been raised to 30,000. A two-seated pursuit plane in which the gun-ner can sit in the rear with his back to the pilot and spray machine gun bullets, will soon be introduced into the service.

Attack planes are being improved to the point where, Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison says, a squadron of them will be able to fire 68,000 rounds of ammunition a minute while also dropping 5000 pounds of bombs. Their speed is being increased along with their power to deal death and destruction.

New bombers carrying two tons of bombs will be found in the May maneuvers alongside the bombers of 1929 which carried only a ton. Speed, cruising radius and altitudes have also been raised.

The improvements in combat planes appear all the more sensational when it is remembered that one factor in military planes usually conditions another. Speed must be sacrificed to some extent for durability, safety and the load factor. Other sacrifices must be made for maneuverability and so on.

Instruments have become more dependable, especially those used in banking and turning and the artificial horizon. The army has made many experiments on the premise that it is of paramount importance to aviation to develop the airplane and its accessories so that it may operate independent of fog, which is the greatest enemy to safe and consistant operation. The "mechanical pilot" apparently can take a plane safely through fog, but landing aircraft safely in the fog is another proposition.

Development of parachutes which will lower the entire plane safely to the ground is also proceeding. An experimental chute of this sort designed for a light plane has already been constructed and present types are being improved to assure greater safety of operation and less swaying in the air.

Radio communication in aviation has progressed to the point where several ships in the great formation of 672 planes to be seen in May will be able to talk by wireless with other units and some planes will be communicating with the ground. Nearly all pursuit planes are now equipped with receiving sets and the commander of each squadron has a transmitter. Planes without radio apparatus can always be equipped with them and when they are not they depend on the old simplified set of signals given by hand or by the dipping of wings or nose.

MONDAY: Air corps maneuvers and their purpose.

Purl Introduces Bill Which Will Keep Polls Open Later

AUSTIN, May 2. —(AP) —Senator Purl of Dallas said he was working for the working people when he introduced a bill which proposed opening of voting polls at 7 a. m., instead of 8 a. m. The bill has been passed by the senate.

At the time it was introduced Senator Parr of Benavides, said 7 a. m., was entirely too early for any one to vote.

Purl said hundreds of working people went to work at 8 a. m. and opening the polls one hour earlier would aid them very much.

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Dressed in our little Chinese clothes,' said happy Scouty, "goodness knows we ought to find some native lads to play with for a while. We look as nice as nice can be and we'll be welcome, seems to me. Our faces may give us away, but that will bring a smile."

And so they sauntered down the street, all hoping that they'd shortly meet some Chinese lads. And when they did and Clowny cried, "Hello! We'd like to stop and play with you. We'll do whate'er you tell us to to join in any game of yours that maybe we don't know."

One little lad spoke English well. He answered, "Say, that will be swell. Let's have a game of tag right now. We'll teach you how to play." "Ha, ha!" laughed Clowny. "We all know how that game's played. Come on, let's go! I'm it, so all the rest of you had best run on your way."

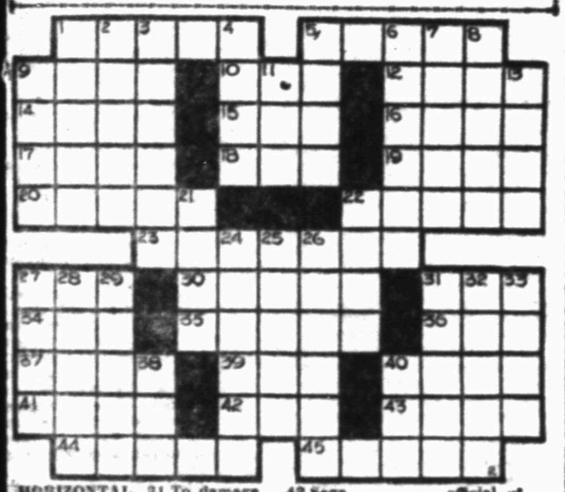

They played and played and, my, was fun! Then, with the sinking of the sun, the Travel Man cried, "Come, you lads, it's time to head for bed." They bid their little friends goodby and Clowny, with a drowsy sigh, said, "Gee, but sleep sounds good to me. I am a slumber head."

Next morning Mister Travel Man said, "Rush as quickly as you can into your clothes. We're going to take a trip far far from here. Our next stop will be at Soochow. A queer boat's waiting for us now. We'll sail along the Grand Canal. 'Twill thrill you, never fear!"

The craft they soon were on was strange. "You sure were thoughtful to arrange a ride on such a boat as this" said Coppy, with a grin. "I'm looking forward to this trip. I hope the boat won't dive and dip." And then they heard the owner of the boat exclaim "Hop in!"

(The Tinymites see a funny ice man in Soochow, in the next story.)

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER

Planting Of Feed And Cotton Begun

(By Staff Correspondent)

LITTLEFIELD, May 2.—A few farmers within the past ten days have been planting cotton and feed according to local bankers and others in touch with agricultural conditions.

However, the greater majority of the farmers are not expected to begin cotton planting until about May 10 or 15. Grain sorghum planting will begin about the same time. Many farmers, fearing the rapid growth of weeds would deter planting, have worked their fields again. Nearly all of the acreage that will be planted this season has been prepared. There are only a few farmers who have not completed ground preparation.

A heavy tractor and grader was obtained and the ditches deepened and widened. The surface of the streets was planed down and all holes filled up. It is planned to keep the streets well graded during the summer.

Sloan's Activities Dominate General Motors

Personality Of Leader Is Potent Factor

Slim, Tall And Active, Head Of Large Concern Has One Hobby-Work; Has Interest In Many Businesses

BY JAMES F. DONAHUE
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, May 2.—The "spark plug" of one of the world's largest corporations doesn't give orders.

Alfred Pritchard Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, with all its 80 affiliated concerns, "advises."

This tall, lean and quiet man, who wears unusually high stiff collars and who is 56 years old, doesn't believe in telling his subordinates what to do. He believes in co-ordination and giving the heads of the various departments in the huge holdings of his concern practically a free hand to carry out their own ideas.

That's one reason why the net sales of the corporation increased from $638,038,000 in 1923, when

FIRST OF A SERIES

This is the first of a series of articles to be published in the Sunday Avalanche-Journal on the leaders in the automobile industry. The stories are to be of "the man behind your car." Each week, a separate man will be dealt with in these articles. Watch for them!

Sloan was made president, to $1,504,404,472 in 1929, the organization's peak year.

Sloan is a living exception to the adage that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." He is constantly at work. He has no hobbies. He tried golf, but it couldn't hold his interest.

He is not fond of the theater or opera. He doesn't spend his evenings playing bridge. He dotes on none of the things modern Babbits do, and his only recreation is his work.

In view of this, one wonders, on viewing his tall, slim frame—he is more than six feet tall and carries only about 150 pounds of flesh—how he keeps fit. But he has all the appearances of a well-trained track man, even to the point of a clear, tanned face.

Born A Yankee

Sloan's early life was marked by no amazing events. He was born in New Haven, Conn., and moved to Brooklyn when five. He went through school like any ordinary lad and attended Massachusetts Tech, graduating in 1895 with Gerald Sworpe, now president of General Electric.

Sloan started his workaday life in the draughting offices of the Hyatt Roller Bearing Company, a concern in which his father had an interest. It had a hard time making ends meet. Sloan, quick to realize the situation of the company, got transferred to the business and administrative side of the game and soon his personality and methods were lifting the company out of the rut.

Sloan sold the bearings of his factory all over the country. It is interesting to note that one of his first customers was an up and coming automobile manufacturer, Henry Ford.

In 1916 Sloan and other auto men organized a huge accessory plant, United Motors. A short time after joining this company, General Motors took it over and Sloan found favor in the company's eyes. He was made a vice president.

Made Leader of G. M. C.

Then Will Durant lost control of General Motors, and Pierre S. DuPont came into control. After a short time, DuPont, a capitalist and not an engineer and automotive man, saw that Sloan was the logical man to lead the destinies of General Motors. In 1923 he stepped out and Sloan walked in.

How any one man can handle the reins of so many enterprises has remained a mystery to many. As president of General Motors, Sloan has active part in the operation of Buick, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Oakland and Pontiac, Cadilac and La Salle factories, and all the various units of Fisher Body in the United States, with Vauxhall in England and Opel in Germany.

In addition to actual automobile manufacturing plants, Sloan has under his direction A. C. Spark Plug, Frigidaire Corporation, Harrison Radiator Corporation, Hyatt Bearings Division, United Motor Service, Inc., Bendix Aviation Corporation, General Motors Radio Corporation, Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, General Motors Research Laboratories, Yellow Truck & Coach Manufacturing Company, and many other units of the great organization connected with everything from automobiles to refrigerators and radios in United States, Canada, and 24 foreign countries.

General Motors Export Corporation, controlling the numerous activities of this organization, is a huge corporation in itself.

What A Life!

Yet in addition to having his hands in all these activities, Sloan is a director in such enterprises outside General Motors as the Nickel Plate Railroad, the Pullman Company, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Chase National Bank of New York and the Johns-Manville Corporation.

In order to keep close tab on all these interests, Sloan travels a great deal, mostly between New York and Detroit, often conducting some of his business on board trains. Europe, too, calls him often, and he packs his bag and hops on a ship on short notice.

That Sloan and his efforts have made a success of General Motors is proved in the latest report issued by the corporation for 1931. It showed an organization valued at $1,315,813,059, reaping dividends from the sale not only of more than 1,250,000 motor vehicles a year, but also such products as aircraft, radios, refrigerators, lighting and ignition equipment, sporting goods, plate glass, Diesel motors and all sorts of automotive parts and accessories.

He's Leader In Automobile Industry

"Sloanisms"

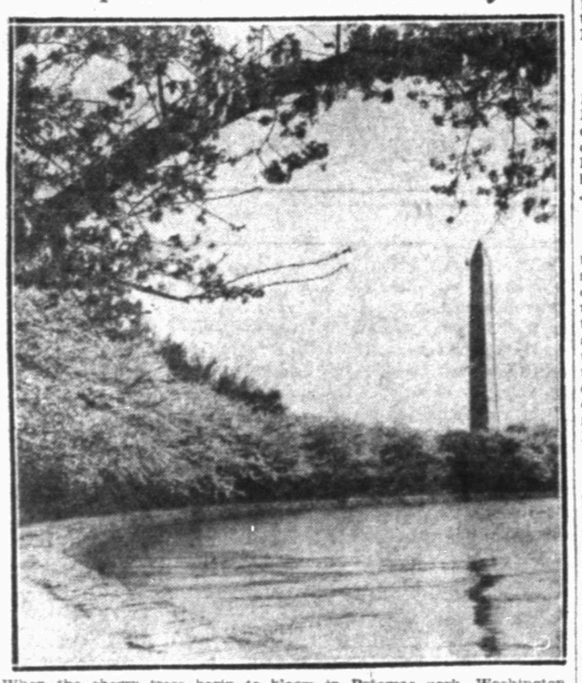

"Big business must be human if it is going to succeed because what makes the wheels go around will always be human beings."

"In my opinion, without hard work nothing real can be accomplished. Realize the necessity of doing a better job every day. There is no short cut."

"Psychology and personality constitute at least 50 per cent of the material requisite for sucess as an executive."

"We are such creatures of habit that we must eternally guard against blindly following routine."

Marconi Is Studying New Radio Mystery; Hopes To Solve Ultra-Violet Waves

Italian Scientist Is Fashioning Another Key With Which To Uncover Air Secrets

BY EDWARD STANLEY

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Guglielmo Marconi, the Italian scientist who has unlocked many of radio's secrets, is fashioning another key which he hopes will fit the lock to still more mysteries—those of ultra-short waves.

Whether the key will be suitable, and if so what it will reveal, Marconi, smiling, doesn't predict. But he says:

"Nothing is impossible."

One gains the impression that Marconi feels radio may be on the treshold of another great era of development. But that isn't what he says.

At the moment, in the light of what is known about them, he sees only limited possibilities for ultra-short waves.

"They seem to have some of the properties of light waves," he explains. "They cannot pass through obstructions, such as buildings, but they can pass through fog, smoke, darkness.

May Guide Ships In Fog

"Thus they may be useful in guiding ships and trains—tasks of that nature. In a fog a ship could put a short-wave belt about itself, warning all other ships that come within that belt.

"The great obstacle is that they can be sent only for comparatively short distances. They do not seem practicabe for commercial use over long distances. Certainly not from here to America, for example."

He sees some hope for the future in that some way may be found to "bend" them.

Like Radio's Early Days

"We seem to be in something of the same situation we were in early wireless," he says.

"The first wireless telegraphy—about 35 years ago—could only operate over about the same distances. Many people thought that would be its limit."

Incidentally Marconi used short waves in some of his early work, sending about two miles.

Just how far he has gotten with his experiments Marconi doesn't say. He has a laboratory in London, but most of his work is done in his laboratory in Italy.

"We are just working ahead quietly," he says.

Brief Bits Of News About Autos And Auto Dealers

RAIN CAUSES RUSH

While automobile laundries and grease racks did a thriving business during the past week due to the rainfall and consequently muddy roads and streets, trades and sales fell a little below the usual market. Used cars continued to head the sales to the extent that display lots containing the product, flushed a few months ago, were only partly filled. Some dealers reported only a scant half dozen or more used machines for sale.

DEALERS JUBILANT

Even with sales lower than usual, automobile dealers were prone to be optimistic, feeling that the rain, especially welcome in this territory, would prove beneficial to the extent of increased sales of new cars. Next to the farmer himself, the auto dealer is perhaps the most jubilant over the recent precipitations. And when auto dealers can be joyful it is a sign for joy and optimism on the part of all business men.

SELL 33 CARS

Five local automobile retail houses reported a total sale of thirty-three automobiles, new and used, during the last six days. Two other houses completed trades for ten used cars. The Lubbock company, Ford and Lincoln distributor, topped the list with four new Ford and five used car sales.

TWO BUY NEW BUICKS

Ratliff-Rogers Company, local Buick dealers, delivered two new Buicks and moved three used cars during the week to compare with other houses in financial turnover. R. B. Bayless, local Santa Fe agent, bought a new Buick sedan and Tom Jones purchased a de luxe sedan.

SELL 4 NEW FORDS

George Benson, sales manager for the Lubbock Auto company, spent several days last week in Amarillo on business. Ford sales went on as usual, however, with nine registrations. The West Texas Gas company purchased a closed cab pickup truck, P. F. Brown ordered a two-door sedan and a standard coupe was delivered to J. D. Oliver, colored. R. F. Bayless extended his new car trades to purchase a new Ford standard coupe.

DALLAS VISITORS HERE

Snyder Atwell, formerly of Lubbock and now associated with the Ford Motor company as Lincoln representative with headquarters at Dallas, and B. F. Ritchie, zone sales promoter for Ford, also of Dallas, were visitors last week with the Lubbock Auto company.

SELL USED MACHINES

Scoggin-Dickey, Oakland and Pontiac Company, moved four used machines during the week and are awaiting a shipment of new cars. Hub Motor Company, Chrysler agency, sold six used cars and reported the used car lot practically vacant.

THREE NEW CHEVROLETS SOLD

Chevrolet sales fell to three new car deliveries and four used car trades during the week. A new Chevrolet coach was sold to A. C. Bishop, Jr., a special sedan to C. A. Hubbard and a coach to H. J. Wylie. George P. Kuykendall, manager of the company, departed last week for Miami, Florida, where he will attend the national convention of Kiwanians. Before he returns home he will vacation in Havanna for a few weeks, planning to be in Lubbock about May 15.

Record Wheat Crop Of 45,000,000 Bushels Predicted For Panhandle

Every Section Said To Have Good Prospect

Moisture Of Past Rains Puts Crop In Excellent Condition; Freeze Damage Is Said To Be Small

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, May 2—The Amarillo News-Globe today says the Panhandle's 1931 wheat crop is estimated at 45,000,000 bushels, the figures being based on interviews with prominent grain men of the territory.

Every section of the wheat area has reported an abundance of moisture during the week past, and no part of the area has suffered for rain since the crop was planted last fall, the paper says. Late snows put the wheat in good condition, and recent rains are said to have assured a good yield, except for some unforeseen catastrophe.

Acreage Largest Ever

The acreage is said to be the largest ever sown in the Panhandle, and is estimated at 2,600,000 acres. Thirty-five per cent of the increase of more than 400,000 acres over last year is credited to Moore and Sherman counties, where new land is being cultivated. Much of the increase also is due to sowings for winter pasture.

The estimated value of the crop was placed at $16,000,000 on the basis of a price of 40 cents a bushel, an average of predictions made by the grain men interviewed.

Early wheat was damaged in some localities by the late March freezes. Estimates of the damage range from 10 to 50 per cent, but it is generally accepted that the loss from this source will be small.

The Panhandle produced 30,000,000 bushels last year. The record crop was 42 million bushels in 1929 when conditions were not so favorable and the acreage was smaller, the estimate said.

Tiny Equestrienne

All set for a morning canter in the balmy air of Hot Springs, Va., this fair young equestrienne pauses for a moment beside her favorite mount to give the camera a treat. She is Miss Joan Rhoades, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hansen Rhoades, of New York.

LANDING PLACE APPROVED

ADRIAN, May 2 (AP)—Adrian has been approved as an intermediate landing point between Amarillo and Albuquerque, N. M., on the Los Angeles-New York airway. Six other intermediate fields were approved, including Tucumcari, N. M. The installation of 17 airways beacons between Amarillo and Albuquerque, recently ordered by the department of commerce, will complete equipment of the route for night flying.

THE BOOK SURVEY

Crime Creeps Into Literature; Book Gives Thirteen Outstanding Crimes

HERE is a fit companion volume to the biographies of Al Capone, and those crimson-covered pamplets now to be found at the cigar stores.

The writer has carefully compiled complete stories of thirteen, fitting number, of outstanding crimes of 1930, though he traces some of them through several years, one, in fact through more than a score of years. His work has this great advantage over current newspaper accounts of great and revolting crimes; you do not have to wait from day to day to find out what has been discovered but can get the whole story at one sitting.

Of interest to Texans is the story of the crime of A. D. Payne, Amarillo lawyer, and of how Gene Howe solved the mystery surrounding the murder of his wife and child. Other crimes detailed are: the Isadore Fink case, in Harlem; the Messiter murder, in England; the Harry Fox murder, also in England; the Roger Voron case from France; the murder of Frau Fellner, in a Vienna park; the Bertaud murders with the sardonic ending of the flustered notary; the mystery of the murder of Chung Yi Maio, an American Chinese in England; the story of Irene Shrader's brief career; a review of the crimes of Williamson county, Illinois; the two decades of killing by poison in the little Austrian towns of Nagyrev and Tizakurt; the weird story of the Australian teacher who went mad when his wife died and tried to murder the aborigines to whom he was a god; and the latest developments in America's crimson city, Chicago.

There is little attempt to determine the causes of these crimes or to show their significance; the writer evidently thinks a good crime story should never be spoiled by addition of such extraneous matter. However, in a foreword of exactly seventy five words, he does include this statement: "In modern crime also creating new weapons and new technique? If so it behooves society to know it."

"Crimes of the Year" ought to be an interesting exhibit with which to depict an undeniable taste in literature of this generation, say, fifty years from now, even as we like to dig into the doings of Diamond Dick nowadays.

Fascinating Tale Of Travel

A MODEST little book called "Adventure Under Sapphire Skies," written by Charles J. Finger, proves surprisingly readable. In it Mr. Finger tells how, with his family and an English friend, he motored from Montreal down to the American southwest, crossing the Ozarks and roving through Texas, Arizona and New Mexico on an aimless and leisurely holiday.

Most of the people who write books about their trips ought to be compelled to take up some other line of work. Mr. Finger is one of the few who should be permitted to continue. He lets you see this trip through his own eyes—which, of course, is what every writer of "travel books" must do; and he happens to be intelligent and cultured, which is not always the case with such writers; so that the book is decidedly worth your while.

It does give one restless feet, however. It makes one want to drop everything and go a-wandering. Which, of course, is fair enough if you can only manage it.

"Adventure Under Sapphire Skies" is published by William Morrow & Co.

ADVENTURESS

aged six, runs amuck

AND being a normal, active little adventuress, Mary comes to grief with appalling regularity. Mud is no stranger to her clothes, face and hands. And removing mud and dirt is nothing new to her mother. What a task it used to be! Waiting for kettles to boil or wasteful furnace coils to heat—while dirt is tracked on rugs and caked on faces.

Now Mary's mother finds her task simplified. A Self-Action Gas water heater supplies immediate hot water for Mary's baths—and even for laundering her many daily changes of clothing. Enough for every need the instant it's wanted. Mary's mother doesn't wait, now—nor need you wait. Let us tell you more about the thrifty Self-Action Gas water heater.
