New Leader

As we prepare this week's paper for printing, the nation is preparing itself for a new leader.

We endorsed Mr. Ford, as our readers know, but now that Mr. Carter is taking office, our allegiance is to him. We still feel that President Ford "cleaned out the skeletons" from the White House and put government back on a basis that the people wanted and can now trust.

We were especially impressed with the Thursday morning activities of the Carter family. Mr. Carter realizes he has a difficult task assuming the duties of president of the United States, but he is humble enough that he also realizes that he has to have help . . . not only from all of the citizens of the United States . . . but from God. The fact that he began his all-important day, the day he became president, with a worship service and prayer sessions, shows that we have a man in the White House that knows he can't succeed at his task without divine guidance. For that we are thankful.

His example would be a very good one to follow. The day for all of us should begin with asking help from above. We, too, will fail without the Lord's help.

Cost Survey

During the Christmas season when everyone was bustling around shopping, both in Olton and out of town, we asked ourselves just how much does one save by shopping in Lubbock or Plainview?

Granted, there are some items that you can't find in Olton. But there are not all that many. And, too, did you stop to think that our local stores carry many, many brands that the "exclusive" stores carry? And sometimes, Olton's stores prices are not as high on those brands as they are in the out of town stores.

Just to see how Olton prices compare to "out-of-town" prices, we at the newspaper are going to be conducting a cost comparison survey.

We will contact our local merchants for brand names offered here, get prices and then compare them with prices of the same brands in Lubbock and Plainview. We may be surprised at the outcome, but we are going to be completely unbiased, and let the "chips fall where they may".

We merchants, (yes, we are considered merchants also) should realize that just the local businesses are not our only competition. We need to realize that we live in a "small world" and it's no big deal to drive to Plainview or Lubbock or Littlefield or Amarillo or . . . . . So we need to keep our prices in line with them as much as possible to keep our trade at home.

Suggestions

In answer to requests for suggestions as how to make our paper better, one reader called in and stated that she would like to see ALL obituaries inside the paper, toward the back. We explained that deaths of longtime residents of the area usually were reported as page one news.

Her reply was that the Bible states that we are not to hold one person in esteem more than another and she felt that this was showing a difference. She also related that when dear friends' deaths were reported on the front page that it ruined the rest of the paper for her.

We welcome any suggestions

Sign Up Tuesday

Little Dribblers Organized

Parents and supporters of a youth basketball program met in the junior high gym Tuesday Jan. 18 to adopt and join the National Little Dribblers', Inc. By this action the local organization will be entitled to use the name of Little Dribblers', Inc. in their basketball program and will be able to compete in all tournaments at the regional, state and national levels sponsored by Little Dribblers', Inc., Levelland.

A tremendous turnout greeted officials and organizers of the program. More than one hundred youths signed up for participation in the basketball program. To insure success of the program and to be qualified to compete under the charter of Little Dribblers', Inc., an additional number of approximately 50 youths will be required to attain the number of teams that Olton will need to comply with this charter.

An additional sign-up will be held Tuesday, Jan. 25 from 5 to 6 p.m. in the junior high gym. This will be the last opportunity for anyone interested in participating in this program to become a candidate.

Officers were elected at the first meeting to head the organization in its first year of operation. Those elected were president, Kenneth Williams; vice-president, Burley Faver; secretary-treasurer, Joyce Smith; player agent for boys, Jim Brown; and player agent for girls, Wendell Potts.

All officers and backers would like to express their sincere appreciation for the response to the community of Olton for their interest in this program.

Anyone interested in helping with this program in any way, such as coaching, officiating, or in any other capacity, please contact any of the above named individuals.

County Sheriff's Deputy To Make Home In Olton

Sheriff's Deputy Ruben Garcia, who donned his Lamb County badge Jan. 14, is a quiet unassuming gentleman who, quite possibly, carries a big wallop.

For the past ten years Garcia has served as law enforcement officer. Prior to that time he was a professional boxer.

At 38, Garcia stands five feet, six inches tall. In his professional career his records reveal 87 wins - 25 by knockouts - in 100 professional boxing bouts. The former lightweight fighter has never been downed in the ring, either in Golden Gloves or professional competition.

Born in Alamo, he grew up in Littlefield. His boxing career started at 14 in Golden Gloves in that city. Nine years and dozens of amateur fights later he turned pro in California.

A promoter induced Garcia to come to California when he was 22 years of age. Headquartered in Bakersfield, the Texas fighter traveled quite a lot. "Fighting on the road is a pretty tough life," he reports.

During the last five of his ten-year professional career, Garcia fought only four or five times each year. He spent most of his time training young fighters.

When he laid aside his gloves some ten years ago to become a peace officer his wife, Mary, was more than a little relieved. She stated that she did not like to see him in the ring, and too, the son Emory, was following his father's footsteps by winning a California Golden Gloves championship.

Garcia did not let his lawman's career push aside his interest in boxing. While on the sheriff's force in Tulia in recent years he helped organize Golden Gloves and worked with some 40 youngsters there.

When asked if he would assist in the program locally, he replied "I'm glad to know the program is being carried on here in Olton. I'll only have one day a week off, but I'll probably be on hand. I like to work with kids, and if there's a way I can teach them to stay out of trouble, I'll do it."

The deputy and his wife are diligently searching for a three bedroom house in the city.

The son, Ruben Emory, who is now 17, is remaining in the home of his grandparents in Hale Center to finish the school year. Despite the fact that he has a nice accumulation of Golden Glove trophies, Emory has been taken out of the boxing ring because of an injury suffered in . . . baseball.

The Garcias are parents of two daughters, also. Nancy is eleven and Molly is only two.

The deputy, who has been assigned to the Olton-Springlake area, comes to the city from Dumas where his former employer lost the election.

Garcia, who says he has known Sheriff McNeese about 26 years, comes with letters of recommendation from Swisher District Attorney and District Judge John Boyd of Plainview.

In his own personal commitment he states, "I'll do the best I can to protect the people of this county. I want them to feel free to call upon me . . . day or night."

Icy Streets Cause Mishap, 2 Investigations Made

Icy streets caused a minor accident on Highway 70 Monday morning. Floyd Prentice was making a right hand turn into his place of business, when his pickup was struck from behind.

Calvin Graham, also driving a pickup was unable to stop because of ice on the road, and hit Prentice's pickup. Damage to the Prentice pickup was estimated at about $330.

A report from Superintendent Joe Turner, Saturday, Jan. 15 concerning a broken window at the school was investigated and it was determined that a brick had been thrown through the window. Damage was estimated at approximately $65. The break-in was investigated by Police Chief Don Hatley and is still being checked into.

Night patrolman William Hammon was making routine checks of stores along Highway 70 Friday night, Jan. 14 when he noticed bread scattered along the highway in front of Don's Venture Foods.

Upon investigation, it was determined that the bread was left by a bread truck delivery out in front of the store and that some boys were seen around the store.

Approximately 12 loaves of bread were missing.

Cemetery Association Secretary Makes Report

Olton Cemetery Association contributions reported since the Christmas Card Greeting appeared in the Enterprise include Mr. and Mrs. Duane Eby, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aigaki and a few deposit slips which had no names according to Mrs. Tom Sluder, secretary of the association.

Mrs. Sluder said she would like to again say "thank you" to all who donated in anyway to the association.

"We have many notes that simply state that the persons wish to have a part in the upkeep of the cemetery and are very proud of the way it is kept." Mrs. Sluder said.

A full financial report for the year 1976 appears elsewhere in this issue of the newspaper. During July of this year, a new well was drilled and a new pump installed. The association is now faced with the need for more land in the very near future.

Our Strange Society

Max David Jensen: 24 years old, married, law student, working nights at a service station in order to support his wife and infant daughter while attending school during the day, shot in the head at close range, $100 to $150 taken by assailant.

Bennie Bushnell: 26 years old, married, father of one child with another expected, an accounting student who had quit school to work for a year, employed as motel manager, also shot in the head, $160 taken by assailant.

The accounts of the deaths of two young family men who had moved to Provo, Utah, to attend Brigham Young University received little publicity nationwide at the time of the two incidents on consecutive nights in July last year. Local news media no doubt carried the stories as such tragedies warranted but nationally the news they generated was a far cry from that which attended the execution Monday of their slayer, Gary Mark Gilmore.

That probably is understandable since Gilmore was the first subject of a state execution in the United States in almost 10 years. That, plus his demand to be executed, virtually guaranteed worldwide attention.

It also wasn't surprising that the case brought to the forefront spokesmen who opposed capital punishment. Prayer vigils were held and protest demonstrations staged while Gilmore continued to demand that his death sentence be carried out and Civil Liberties Union lawyers fought to prevent it.

Gilmore himself had said the two young fathers "probably didn't deserve to die at that point in their lives." But forgotten somewhere amid all the concern for him were the accounts of the other two Gary Gilmore "executions," the deaths of his victims, slain so they couldn't identify the man who robbed them.

In the end, Gilmore got what he wanted: death, his body cremated and his ashes scattered over Utah from an airplane.

And, in a way, justice was done, if justice ever can really be done when the lives of innocent and law-abiding human beings are snuffed out brutally and senselessly.

The bizarre case was another example of the interest that so often surrounds those in our society who committ major crime and the lack of concern we show for the victims and those left behind.

Letter To The Editor

Here's a quote I want to share with my friends that I received from my daughter Mrs. Bob Johnson of Arnold, Md. Even though we've heard this all through our life this merits passing on.

THE MAGIC OF WALKING

Walking is the exercise that needs no gym.
It is the prescription without medicine,
The weight control without diet,
The cosmetic not found in the drugstore.
It is the tranquilizer without a pill,
The therapy without a psychoanalysist,
The fountain of youth that is no legend,
A walk in the vacation that does not cost a cent.

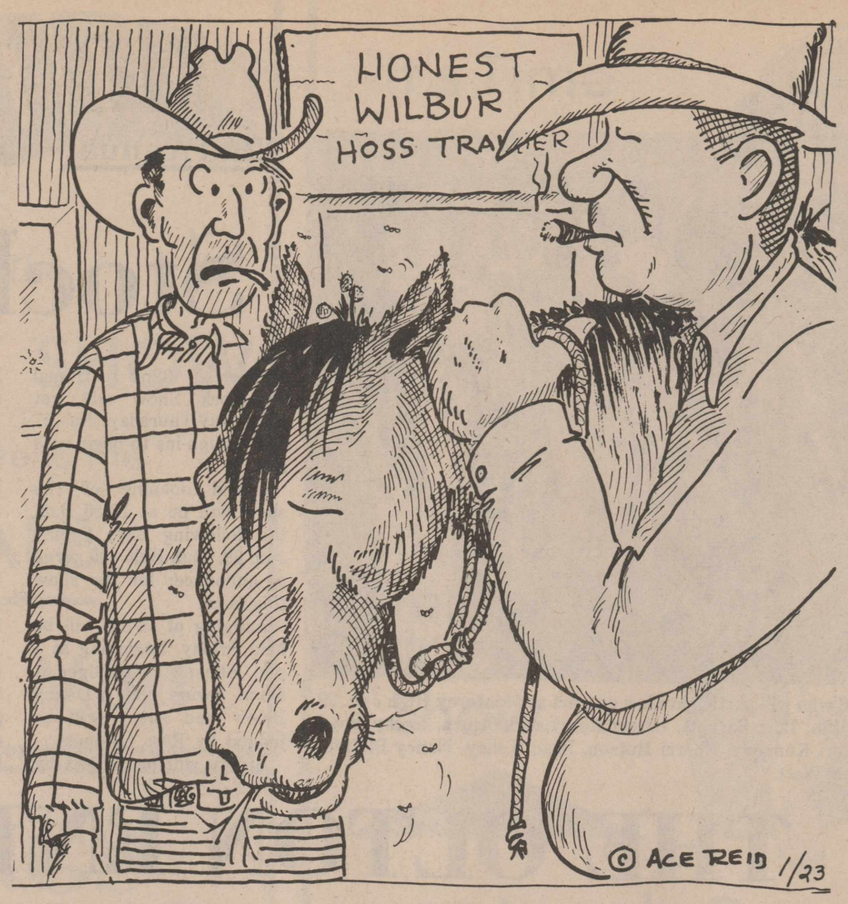

Try it and feel the truth it suggests or implies.

That We Remember

By Rex Boyles

There will be no more campaign speeches to make . . . the promises have all been made. There will be no more ballots to cast . . . the votes have all been tallied. The election is over; and with the right hand raised toward heaven, the left hand resting on the Bible, and the "I do solemnly swear" . . . James Earl Carter of Plains, Georgia will obligate his time, his talent, and even his own life to this nation as the thirty-ninth President of the United States.

The slogans and speeches of the campaign will soon be forgotten. The bumper stickers and campaign posters will soon begin to fade, as will the promises made. The arguments and issues will soon be lost in the haze of resolutions and reports. And it does not really matter now. It does not really matter now what promises or issues we remember, or whether or not we agreed with all the platform. It does not really matter now what man earned our vote, or what campaign strategy influenced our ballot.

It matters only that we remember that "The" most high rules in the kingdom of men, and gives it to whomsoever he will" (Daniel 4:25) . . . that we remember He "removes kings and sets up kings" (Daniel 2:21) . . . that we remember from county commissioner to commander and chief the Lord God has "ordained" these "higher powers" (Romans 13:1) . . . that we remember if we "resist the power", we are "withstanding the ordinance of God and they that withstand shall receive to themselves judgment" (Romans 13:2).

May the Lord God grant unto us, our nation, and our new president the wisdom to remember.

That is what really matters now . . . Rex

Coffmans Enjoy Crafts

Carolyn and Richard Coffman moved here with their three children about a year and a half ago but their arrival from Tennessee was really a coming home.

Richard, nephew of Mrs. Delmer Givens, lived in Olton as a boy and it was natural that he met a young Hart miss, Carolyn Davis. Carolyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davis, moved here several years ago from Hart where both had grown up.

The Coffmans are parents of three children. Stephen is a sophomore and Carla, a freshman, at Olton High School. Jeffery is in the seventh grade.

Tennessee had lots of beauty, the Coffmans found, but both agree that it was good to return home. They had been living in Chattanooga for Richard to attend school.

Cooking is Carolyn's favorite pastime and the recipes she shares with Enterprise readers seem to be winners. Richard sometimes lends a hand in cooking and grinningly made the teasing offer to be "Cook of the week."

Both Carolyn and Richard have become interested in decoupage and find that craft lots of fun.

Plants are another new interest for Carolyn and she's eager to learn more about plants and how to develop a "green thumb."

Solar Energy Discussed In Local Club Program

Mrs. George Redinger hosted a meeting of Olton Study Club Monday evening. Thought for the study was "It is better to light one small candle than to curse the darkness."

In keeping with the theme for the year, "Glimpses of Tomorrow," Mrs. D.M. Granbery discussed "Energy for Tomorrow." Basing her thoughts upon the theory that for ages past earth has relied upon sources of energy produced by the sun, via wood, coal and oil; the world of tomorrow will likely be using solar energy to power its plants and heat its buildings.

Mrs. Granbery discussed several phases of solar energy now being proved and hopefully perfected.

Members in attendance were Mmes. J.L. Carson Jr., Frank Cornelius, Delia Fuller, Bailey Hair, Marguerite Hyatt, Barton Prestridge, Lily May Silcott, Glenn Singleterry, E.R. Spain, Jack Straw, Freda Worley, Inez Yates, Granbery and the hostess.

Next meeting of the club will feature Mrs. Laura Maxey and some of her students in a program titled "Artists of the Future." The meeting will be held in Woman's Club House at 7 p.m.

Mr. Workman, Miss Beall Exchange Wedding Vows

In a candlelight ceremony Friday, Jan. 14, in Trinity United Methodist Church, Amarillo, Miss Jelaine Beall became the bride of Keith Workman. Twin ring vows were directed by Dr. Jim F. Dyer of Wichita, Kan., granduncle of the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beall of Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby D. Workman.

The altar area was lighted by groupings of candelabra, centered with a Unity Candle. Flanking baskets of white chrysanthemum and yellow stock were used.

Mrs. Pat Kerr, organist, Amarillo, presented traditional nuptial selections and accompanied Miss Terri Jan McClellan of Fritch, soloist, as she sang "Love Song" and "Together Forever."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of white organza. The Queen Anne neckline and Empire bodice were accented in Venice lace. Sheer Bishop sleeves carried appliques of Venice lace and close fitting cuffs were formed of matching lace.

Four vertical rows of lace trailed the front of the slightly full A-line skirt to join the two vertical rows on the skirts back. Scattered lace appliques accented both the skirt and chapel train.

To complete the ensemble, the bride wore a fingertip veil of white bridal illusion, edged in Venice lace and attached to a Camelot headpiece of matching lace and adorned with seed pearls.

She carried a cascade arrangement of cymbidium orchids and white roses entwined with baby's breath and tied with white satin streamers.

For 'something old' the bride wore an antique lavalier having belonged to her great grandmother. 'New' was her attire and 'borrowed' were her shoes. She wore the traditional 'blue' garter.

Mrs. L.E. Larson served as matron of honor for her niece, bridal attendants were Holly Rae Graham of Hobbs, N.M., Jan Jinks of Littlefield and Terry Crawford of Canyon.

Feminine attendants wore formal length gowns of medium blue jersey with contrasting blue jackets with long full sleeves, and front tie at the waistline. The jackets were complimented with a hood. Each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

Kevin Workman served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Max Moss, Lin Cope, Claude, Roger Morris, Petersburg, Jim Hand, Happy and Terry Duffy of Lemont, Ill.

MRS. KEITH WORKMAN

Candles were lighted by Rex Beall, Wellington, brother of the bride, who also seated guests; and Kallie Dyer of Perryton, cousin of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple was honored with a reception held in Fellowship Hall of the Church. The bride's table featured a traditional tiered cake with yellow reception punch. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The groom's table, covered with a white cloth, featured a chocolate cake, formed as an old-fashioned radio. Coffee was poured from a silver service.

Members of the house party included Kathy McNaney, Hereford, Sandra Goodin, Claude, Mary Schuarz, Roswell, N.M., Debbie Bullard, Lubbock, and Karen Walker, Duncanville.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M. the newlyweds will be at home at 3005 W 27th, Apt. 25, in Amarillo.

The bride, candidate for a BS degree in Journalism at West Texas State University, in May, is presently employed with Potter County District Clerk's office. She was member of Chi Omega social sorority.

Workman, graduate of Olton High School, attended Panhandle State University, where he played football, and WTSU where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is currently an air personality at radio station KDJW in Amarillo.

Rehearsal dinner Thursday evening was hosted by parents of the groom at an Amarillo restuarant.

If you want to buy a pivotal sprinkler system that will keep running, call a man with mud on his boots!

CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING:

1. The best system in the world isn't worth a dime when it's down.
2. The best system in the world is worth no more than it's least efficient serviceman.
3. The best system in the world is worth no more than the reputation of the local dealer servicing that machine.

Big T Sprinkler Service sells, installs and services Lindsay Zimmatic Self Propelled center pivot irrigation systems. We think it is the best system in the world. It is built in Amarillo by Texans for use by Texans. Our salesmen can tell you why we think it is the best, but it's our servicemen who make us outstanding. We have the best service. Period. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Seeman selected a burnt orange and white formal length dress with jacket. She added a white orchid corsage.

Mother of the groom wore a full length dress of white, blue and green floral design with white orchid corsage.

A special guest was Mrs. Ola Gambrel, Springlake, grandmother of the groom.

Guests were registered by Kim Foster of Hart Camp.

The bride's table, covered by a white linen cloth with red net overlay, was accented with red satin bows and centered by a red and white carnation arrangement. The three-tiered wedding cake was touched with red rosebuds, cupids and doves. Mrs. Tommy Bryant and Misses Ann Hill, Vicky Bryant and Kelly Hardaway, all of Littlefield served cake, red reception punch, nuts and red and white mints using crystal and silver appointments.

Mrs. Greg Murrell presided at the groom's table covered with a white cloth featuring red bows. Coffee and chocolate cake were served.

As He Visits Texas

Brazilian Sees First Snow

Eighteen-year-old Jayme De Carvalho left his home in Rio De Janeiro Jan. 7 with thermometers registering 100 degrees Fahrenheit. When he stepped from the plane at Lubbock's air port Saturday, it was to the coldest temperature he'd ever experienced. Temperatures never dip below 50 degrees in Rio and the snow he found here was the first he had ever seen. Jayme captured its uniqueness on film to show his parents and family upon his return from this Lions International Youth Exchange Tour.

Visiting in the home of the Wayne Coles, Jayme's Texas visit is his first trip out of Brazil. It also marked his first time for flying. His father is manager of an import-export business. He has one older brother, one younger brother and a step-sister.

A sophomore in college where he is studying economics, Jayme speaks fluent English but is modest about taking credit for his accomplishment. He says Brazilian students begin studying English about the sixth grade but adds that courses are "weak English." His mastery of the language comes, he says, from being with friends whose parents are Baptist missionaries from Texas.

Visiting Olton High School has been a pleasant part of Jayme's visit. He spent much of his time his first week in Olton visiting OHS classes. He finds it considerably different from the high schools in Rio.

Brazilian students wear uniforms and, Jayme says, "If it weren't for the uniforms, you wouldn't know the students from the teachers."

JAYME DeCARVALHO

Jayme's impressions after visiting school here were that mutual respect among teachers and students is less apparent here than in his homeland.

"A teacher stepped in front of me in the line in the lunch room the other day and I said, 'Hey.' One of the students said, 'Don't say that, he's a coach.' I said, 'But it still is not fair.' At home, it would never happen."

Boys and girls start to school in Brazil at five years and attend "eleven years plus kindergarten. There are eight years in the first grade and three years in the second grade."

Because of the large number of students per school, some attend classes from 7 a.m. until noon while the remaining are enrolled in afternoon classes.

Free time left by attending school just half a day was used by Jayme for "reading, going to the cinema and visiting with friends." Only students from poor families find jobs to fill those hours, he says.

"Here almost everyone has a job. I think it is good. It teaches responsibility and I think it very good."

Students completing high school work in Brazil do not always find college study possible. First one must pass the "vestibular" or college entrance test.

Approximately 100,000 candidates take the exam which determines which students will be accepted for college. The multiple choice examination is quite difficult in order to eliminate the candidates down to the 20,000 who are accepted into college.

Students who are lucky enough to be among those 20,000, pay $10 per semester to attend the government college, Jayme says. Those who do not score high enough to be accepted may attend trade schools.

Jayme lives at home and travels about 10 miles to his college classes. He rides with friends and reports that Brazilian youth cannot receive driver's licenses until they are 18 years of age and after they have completed study. There is no driver's education taught in schools. Persons wishing to obtain driver's licenses must complete 15 hours of instruction with a qualified instructor before taking the examination. Driving teachers receive $5 per hour, Jayme says.

City-bred Jayme says he likes Olton very much. "Here it seems everything goes slow -- you don't have to hurry so much."

Boasting of his country's beauty, Jayme smilingly explains, "There is a fallacy that says that God is Brazilian because of the beauty there."

"In Rio, it is hilly and all covered with trees which never lose their leaves and grass that is always green. It is really beautiful."

Summer, he says, is the rainy season. "We have sunshine in the morning and you can go to the beach but about 4 o'clock, it rains. And it rains a lot, but the next morning it is pretty again."

Some 80 to 85 percent of the Brazilian people are Catholic, he says. "And there are many who are spiritualistic at the same time. One of their celebrations is at New Year's. They go down to the beach and every one wears white. They light candles on the beach and throw flowers, coins and other gifts into the sea to Iemanja, the God of the Seas. They sing and dance and it's a real carnival. It's pretty."

Brazilian girls wear bathing suits called "tangas" Jayme says. "It is smaller than a bikini, much smaller. Going topless is outlawed in Brazil but it doesn't make any difference, with the tanga, you can see anyway."

Pants are the popular dress for Brazilian misses. "They may wear a dress for special occasions but usually they wear pants. Asked if they wear mini skirts in Rio, Jayme answers with a negative shake of the head, "Maybe they'll wear a long dress or maybe a Chanel - it's below the knees and named for the designer."

Youth in Brazil share a common love with their counterparts in the United States. Levis are the standard garb and Jayme intends to take home some Texas jeans when he returns.

"Also they wear clods, tennis shoes or sandals. And most guys wear purses. I have one but I don't carry it here because they told me that here guys don't wear purses."

"Perhaps you might think it interesting," he says, "In Brazil, when you throw a party, you tell everyone to dress up in white and everyone wears white. Or you tell them to wear blue and everyone wears blue. Everyone does it. It's neat!"

Jayme enjoys drama and says, "Unfortunately, it isn't taught in our schools." He likes to read, especially science fiction (he says he loved '1984') and history.

Athletics are unlike those in America. "We play soccer. We call it football but it's soccer. We don't have baseball either but we do have basketball and volleyball and water polo."

"Golf," he says, "is just for the rich."

Jayme has never seen the harvest of coffee beans since he has grown up in the city. He has however seen coffee bushes. Because of the freeze in the portion of Brazil where coffee is grown, prices are also high there, he says.

"It sells for $1.60 per pound where it used to be 50 cents a pound."

Brazil also grows lots of soybeans, sugar cane and coconut. And cattle, Jayme says. It is also an industrial nation.

States in the southern part of Brazil were colonized by Europeans. "The Germans, Italians, Spaniards and Portuguese," he explains. "It is more developed. The north was settled by Africans and Portuguese."

"There is no racial problem because you can't say what color a Brazilian is. A Brazilian doesn't have color."

Jayme confesses that Texas is not what he had expected the state to be. "I thought there would be more desert -- more cowboys and cows."

It was an impression shared by his father who requested his son bring back a souvenir for him. "He wants me to bring him a cowboy hat," smiles Jayme.

Wellington Country Club Home Of Former Teacher

Dick Watson was auctioneer at the recent sale of Hay Camp Country Club and 903.32 acres of adjoining land near Wellington, Collingsworth County.

Jake Willson of Plainview, businessman and farmer, became the owner of the property with his bid of $378,000.

The land is a portion of the Mill Iron Ranch established in 1883 by Englishmen, Baron of Tweedmouth and Earl of Aberdeen. Including fifty two sections of land it was first known as the Rocking Chair Ranch.

In 1901 Colonel William Edgar Hughes of Denver, Colo. purchased this extensive tract at $1.25 per acre. Presently his heirs own the larger part of the land.

Administrative office of the ranch was originally located in Estelline and Colonel Hughes traveled from that town to his estate in Collingsworth County in a coach drawn by four horses. The upholstery of the coach was red velvet and the springs were made of leather.

Tom Birchfield, foreman of the Mill Iron Ranch from 1906-1928, was father of Robert Birchfield, now of Amarillo, a former teacher in Olton schools. Robert was born in the house pictured. He was named in honor of Robert D. Green, an employee of Hughes at Estelline. Birchfield's son Richard Henry, is supervisor of Secretaries Clearance, First National Bank, Dallas, which had as one of its founders Colonel William Edgar Hughes.

Hay Camp Country Club House, erected at the turn of the century, was originally the home for the ranch foreman and his family.

Watson describes the club and its surroundings in these words:

"When I was asked to look at Hay Camp for a possible auction I never dreamed it could be so hauntingly beautiful . . . my wife, Betty and I drove through the gates of Hay Camp and into a new world about three o'clock one cool November afternoon. We were greeted by falling leaves in shades of brown, red and gold and lazy rolling hills. We drove to the pro shop and swimming pool first, then wound our way past a fishy looking lake to the lounge and restaurant. The restaurant looks like a dream house nestled in nature's landscape. Another small lake peeped at us through the trees. The restaurant was closed and the only sounds we heard were of wild turkeys, quail and rustling leaves."

You can BANK on it!

By Kenneth Burgess
Olton State Bank

Commonly called the FDIC, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created by Congress in the Bank Act of 1933, and became effective on the first of January, 1934; during the depths of the Great Depression.

Deposits in virtually all banks in the country are insured up to $40,000 by this agency of the federal government. Coverage extends to bank checking accounts, savings accounts and certificates of deposit.

Increases in the amount of the insurance stand as something of a yardstick to measure the affluence and savings habits of Americans. When the FDIC first began insuring accounts the limit was $2,500. That amount has steadily increased up to the present level which went into effect on November 27, 1974.

Contrary to some misconceptions, this valuable service in not financed by the government, but rather by the banks themselves. Presently, banks are assessed one-half of one percent of their year-end deposits.
