WATER RIGHTS SETTLEMENT.—The many sided controversy over water rights on the Colorado river appears to have reached a settlement to the satisfaction of all concerned. The power interests, the rice growers, the domestic users, the irrigators, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, and all others who have been heard from seem pleased with the compromises made, and especially pleased that when sensible business men get together and talk over things they can usually reach amicable and satisfactory agreements.

Now that everybody concerned seems to have all that is wanted in this matter, all that is left to be done is for all parties to get busy as soon as possible to bring about a realization of the many things all seemed so anxious to do while the fight was on.

Insult and allied interests can now hurry up that $25,000,000 power plant, along with the five or six dams to be constructed in Burnet, Llano, Lampasas and Travis counties. They have announced that the first million will be spent on the project this year.

Brownwood, San Angelo, San Saba and Ballinger can get busy as soon as they please with their municipal and irrigation plants, and the big sectional chambers of commerce, having contacted one tough job, can tackle something else more vigorously since being relieved of this.

"Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

WARNING TO OTHERS.—The laws that made possible the Colorado river controversy have in no wise been changed, and there is and will continue to be a rush in Texas to gobble up the river waters not already appropriated. Other places should profit by the experience of Brownwood and get busy. No one can blame the power utilities or individuals who try to profit through lax laws. The district that procrastinates has only itself to blame. Brownwood has had to pay dearly for its delay.

The Webb county commissioners' court at Laredo has just refused to submit a bond issue for surveying Laredo's 65,000 acre irrigation project. Somebody seems to be sleeping on their rights.

INDUSTRIAL NEEDS DISCUSSED.—The Texas Manufacturers' association and the State Industrial commission didn't do much at the Austin meeting beyond talking the industrial needs and possibilities of Texas. The talking program was too long to get in much business. However, men in the manufacturing ranks told about what is being done and what more can be done in textile, furniture, glass, cement, potash, and other industrial lines.

A hint as to the first step was offered by R. L. Thornton, president of the Mercantile National bank of Dallas, when he said that capital in plenty can be had in Texas whenever capitalists can be assured of proper organization and properly conducted, efficient management.

If Mr. Thornton speaks authoritatively, the Industrial Commission should first of all make a survey to find out just what enterprises are most needed and where they can be located to best advantage. Having done this, scouts should be sent out in search of the "capable management." But even before that, perhaps, the bankers should as a unit be asked to back up the statements made by Mr. Thornton.

TEXAS POTASH FIELD.—Dr. P. Schock of the department of chemistry at the University of Texas, a man of conservative action and judgment, told the Texas Industrial Commission that there is enough potash in the West Texas field now being developed to supply the needs of the Nation for 250 years. Others have said that there is more wealth to be had from Texas potash than from Texas oil.

TEXAS SHOULD MAKE THEM.—Roy I. Tennant, a member of the State Board of Control, told the Industrial Commission that Texas ordered last year from Los Angeles automobile license plates that cost $175,000, and that a Texas plant to make them could be built for $40,000. It looks like the State of Texas might set a profitable example in "industrial development."

AFTER NORTHERN ROAD.—Just say "railroad" even in a subdued whisper, and West Texas towns are at once on tiptoes. Every town West of Fort Worth is likely to be out after that Corpus Christi-San Antonio-Fredricksburg-Mason-Northwestern line as soon as there is some tangible assurance that it will be built. Originally mentioned as an "on to San Angelo" movement, Ballinger, Abilene, and other Authorities are brooding the mysterious accident, which may have cost the lives of more than 10 people, when 30 or more were swept from the deck of the bay ferry boat. Captain W. H. Melson attributed the accident to a freak wave which he said may have been caused by some disturbance at sea. It is reported late today that ten people are missing.

Lobo Cagers Win Over Abilene 5

The Cisco Lobos defeated the Abilene Christian college reserves in the college gym at Abilene Saturday night by a score of 29 to 27. The game was a thriller from start to finish. At the end of the allotted time the score was tied at 25 all. In the five minute overtime period the Lobos made four points to two for the college boys. At the end of the first half the score was 16 to 14 in favor of A. C. C. The lead changed hands several times and both teams fought hard to get and keep it but as the final whistle sounded the score stood a tie.

Tuesday night the Lobos will meet the McMurry college reserves in the Cisco high school gymnasium, the game starting at 7 o'clock.

Silver-Haired Missourian Opens Southwestern Tour for Houston Nomination; It's Now or Never

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, the silver-haired and silver-tongued veteran of four decades of savage political fighting, has put on his battle habiliments again and headed westward on a trip that may have an extremely important bearing on the events that are to happen in Houston next June.

The fiery Missourian is going to make a dozen speeches scattered through eight states, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, California and Utah. It is territory that, if not hostile to the nomination of Gov. Al Smith, is at least supposed to be only lukewarm to Tammany's candidate.

These states have a delegate strength in the Democratic convention of 138—not an imposing bloc in a convention of 1100 delegates, but one that might contribute mightily to the total of 367 votes that are necessary to "stop Smith" at Houston. When there is added to this bloc approximately 220 delegates from Southern and Anti-Smith border states, and the 36 from his own Missouri, the total is well over one-third of the Houston convention, and the reason for Senator Reed's carefully considered itinerary becomes readily apparent.

Senator Reed was disinclined to discuss his trip in advance. But his friends say that he has become convinced that Smith cannot be nominated at Houston. He believes they say, that the combination of the Southern bitter-enders against Smith and the dregs from the West is too formidable for Smith to overcome, and that in this situation the convention must turn to some one else—some one that both sides can accept without choking. Reed is protestant and damp, and his record of party service in the senate for the past six years has been second to none with the possible exception of that of Walsh of Montana.

Reed departed for the West, as usual, alone. He has always been a lone wolf, politically. It is the kind of fighting he knows best. Single-handed he ripped Missouri wide open in 1922 and won a renomination with the organization, and in the face of Woodrow Wilson's appeals to Missouri Democrats to unseat him. And this was only two years after he had been thrown out of the San Francisco convention and denied a seat as an "underserving democrat."

Out through the West and Southwest, Senator Reed is going to talk about "corruption in government." He is not going to attack Smith, nor any other of his rivals for the nomination. He is going to attack the Republicans, and the records of the Harding-Coolidge administrations. He is going to revive that ancient Democratic battle cry, "Throw the Rascals Out," and tell his audiences that it can be done if Democrats will unite and not fight among themselves.

He is going to plead for the erasure of Madison Square Garden from Democratic memories. He is going to plead Democratic harmony.

This trip may possibly be "Jim" Reed's political swan-song. It will be, his friends say, unless he is the nominee of the Houston convention. He has burned his political bridges behind him by announcing that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself in the senate this year. It is the nomination or nothing for the picturesque Missouri. His years rest lightly upon him, but he is 67 years old. Four years hence it will be too late—and he is tired of the senate.

Senator Reed will open his speaking tour at Dallas, Monday, February 20. He will speak at a luncheon of the Dallas Bar association, and will speak again at night at the Dallas city hall. Under present plans, the speech will be broadcast over radio.

United States and Mexico City To be Joined by Air Mail Line; Bids Asked For Southern Route

LIONS CLUB OF CISCO SECOND IN WORLD RACE

Reports of the Lions International membership contest, as of January 15, shows the Cisco Lions club is still around the top of the list of clubs of the United States, but this club has dropped from first place, the position occupied in the last report, to that of second place. South Central club of Chicago, which has heretofore been the Cisco club's most dangerous competitor, forged ahead to first place in the last report published, but this is not particularly discouraging to the local club, whose membership is steadily growing, and a different story is expected in the next report of the international contest. The standing of the leading clubs of the United States in this membership contest, as revealed in the report of January 15 is as follows:

South Central, Chicago, 430 points; Cisco, Texas, 390 points; El Monte, Calif., 375 points; Bortner, Texas, 350 points; Austin, Texas, 335 points; Wooster, Ohio, 305 points; Sayre, Penn., 302.5 points; Garland, Utah, 300 points; San Francisco, 295 points; Clairton, Penn., 255 points.

Enclosed Within Cornerstone of Old Court House at Eastland Animal Emerges Alive and Well

Believe it or not, that horned frog, encased inside the cornerstone of the Eastland county court house for 31 years was alive when the receptacle was unsealed Saturday afternoon in the presence of 3,000 people.

The tradition of the old timers has been vindicated. It has been said that a horned frog if placed in a secluded spot, where absolute quiet reigns, even though hermetically sealed, will live for 100 years. Perhaps the truth of that statement will never be proven, but it is definitely known now that the animal or reptile, can live for 31 years under those circumstances.

When it was announced a day or two ago that the cornerstone would be opened Saturday afternoon, many people resolved to be present, and 3,000 of them made good. They were there from every section of the county and from points far distant. County Judge Ed S. Pritchard officiated at the opening. Beside him stood Rev. Frank E. Singleton, pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. H. W. Wrye, pastor of the Church of Christ, and Rev. H. M. Sell, pastor of the Church of God. They verified the fact that the frog was in the receptacle, and Rev. Singleton was one of the first to handle it. When Judge Pritchard lifted the frog off the Bible, also in the corner stone, he (the frog) seemed in a stupor, but fresh air and sunlight soon caused a twitching of the muscles, and it was not long until one eye opened, according to those who saw his frogship wake up. The other eye is said to be partially sealed. The animal also seems to have trouble in opening its mouth, according to reports.

Last night the frog was on exhibition in a show window of an Eastland drug store, and it was reported that the sidewalk in front of the store was crowded with curious men and women, boys and girls, bent upon seeing the modern "Rip Van Winkle."

Other articles in the old cornerstone was a copy of the Eastland Chronicle, now defunct, a Bible, and a number of coins. The report that a small phial of whiskey was placed in the receptacle proved erroneous, as none was found.

Speculation regarding the horned frog has been to the highest pitch. Letters have been received by newspapers carrying the story of the frog and the saying among West Texans regarding the ability of the frog to remain in a state of comatose for an indefinite time, and those letters have been from the four corners of the state, since the oddity of the story made it good reading, and it was handled by various news agencies serving papers in every section of the world. Unusual interest was at once aroused, and those same readers are now anxiously awaiting a report. They will want the truth, and the same agencies will spread the interesting piece of news to the same four corners.

It is not known how long the frog would have lived if left alone to his own thoughts, but it is certain that he made it through the first 31 years. It has been said that life that the first 100 years are the hardest. We are wondering what the frog thinks about it.

Creager and party will arrive here from San Angelo, where they will be in conference with the leading Republicans of the 24th senatorial district. STOLEN BRECKENRIDGE CAR IN WICHITA FALLS
MINERAL WELLS, Feb. 18.—Deputy Sheriff George C. Hendley, Palo Pinto county, was notified Thursday that an automobile stolen from W. M. Pardue, a Breckenridge visitor in this city Monday, had been recovered at Wichita Falls.

A 14-year-old boy, it is alleged, confessed stealing the car and then drove it to his home town and left it parked in the street. Wichita Falls officers arrested the youth, according to Deputy Sheriff Hendley, who says he will go to the "Spudder City" and bring the boy back to Palo Pinto to face trial in juvenile court.

RELUCTANCE NO REASON

Because an idea is abhorrent is no reason for it not being carried out. The idea of pulling a tooth is abhorrent, but often a tooth must be pulled in the interests of health and comfort. The idea of taking out an appendix, of cutting off a limb, of operating for cancer, is abhorrent; but often those things must be done to save life. To send our fine young men out to be slashed by bayonets, mangled with shot and shell, is abhorrent; but we have been compelled to do that in defense of human rights and life. The idea of the state's putting a human being to death is abhorrent; but that is no argument against it.

We should not overlook the fact that unless we watch ourselves carefully we are governed by impulses, by fancy, and not by sound sense—we are controlled by our likes and dislikes and not by what is best.

The world gets into most of its troubles through humoring its likes and its dislikes. The men and women who run afoul of the death penalty have done so through indulging their likes and dislikes. Because we favor a thing is no reason for it and because we have an aversion to a thing is no reason against it. Because our sentiments point in a certain direction is no indication that that is the right direction.

It is maintained and not without reason that shortening a person's normal span of life deprives him of the chance to gain vital knowledge which he might acquire were he permitted to live. Opposed to that contention is the indisputable fact that a severe jolt will often teach more in one minute than could ever be learned in any other way. The experiences that a condemned murderer goes through during his trial, his stay in the death cell, and at his execution, may do more to refine and develop his soul than the experiences of a dozen lifetimes.

"The death penalty savors too much of vengeance," declare those opposed to it. For the first time in its history this country is in position to impose the death penalty without even the semblance of vengeance. There is no vengeance in the heart of a nation that goes down on its knees and prays earnestly for the souls of those about to be executed. When the state slays and the people rejoice, that is heartless vengeance; but when the state slays and the people weep; that is compassionate justice.

We are growing kinder every day; less and less do we want to see anybody in distress of mind or body; that is as it should be; but as our hearts grow softer we must not permit the same thing to happen to our heads.

When a human being forfeits his right to live by willfully depriving another human being of the power to live, we should not in our feeling for him forget what he has done. We should not thwart the fate that he has brought upon himself and deprive him and others of the lesson.

POLITICAL ELIMINATION

Now that Secretary Hoover has consented to allow his name to go on the primary ballot in Ohio, we are going to see a great political contest there. Senator Wills, "the favorite son," is strong in a few of the cities, strong in some rural communities, but hated in Cincinnati, Cleveland and other wet centers because of his "intense dryness." He is like other leaders—loved by those whom he has been able to favor and hated by those he has been forced to oppose; envied by those who aspire to leadership, he will get a tremendous vote—so will Hoover, because Hoover will get the votes of those who hate Wills and a few who admire Hoover, and some who think Wills is unfit for president or that he is not presidential size. So, it will be about a fifty-fifty split between Hoover and Wills with the odds in favor of Wills, and then will come Frank O. Lowden, strong in the cities as a business man of unusual ability and strong with the farmer vote, because he has stood out in the open as an outspoken and untried advocate of federal farm aid. Lowden will get a tremendous vote and it is going to be hard to say who will be president if Ohio picks him, and the Republicans elect him. But Frank O. Lowden is terribly popular as a Republican in the South.

CRIMINAL LOVE

Love is a crime. That is, it is a crime to marry for love. This startling doctrine is attributed to Dr. Alfred Scott Warthin of the University of Michigan. He set it forth recently in an address to a "race betterment conference" at Battle Creek. "What we need," he is quoted as saying, "is a new religion and a new philosophy of life. The old religions are passing. All of them take no account of the fact that reproduction is the sole aim of existence. To marry for no better reason than that you have experienced the primitive sex attraction known as falling in love is criminal. Marry with your eyes open. Leave love out of it. It has no bearing on the improvement of the race. Pick a mate who has characteristics worthy to be passed on to your offspring." It will take a few minutes for most readers, even in this hard-boiled age, to digest these remarks. No use getting mad about it. Doubtless this scientist, whose specialty is pathology, has reason for some of his observations, at least. And he could probably explain them more plausibly than they appear when quoted in this blunt fashion. Doubtless a lot of foolishness and biological mischief have been perpetrated in the name of "romantic love," which is comparatively a new thing in the world, unknown to the ancients, and developed during the mystic Middle Ages. But what will all the novelists and poets, not to mention youthful movie fans, say to him? The French system for centuries has placed matrimony on a basis of common sense rather than love, and opinions differ greatly as to the results. We may solve the problem when we reconcile love and practicality, a little chore which will take some centuries yet. As for "the fact that reproduction is the sole aim of existence," we might as well say at once that if that is the literal truth, people had better stop marrying altogether, and so stop existence.

A BEAUTIFUL CITY

More than a century ago a great French landscape architect, given the commission for laying out a perfect city on the Potomac river, on an ideal site chosen by George Washington, prepared plans which are still regarded as incomparable. But they have not yet been realized. Periodically, in its building spasms, the government has followed and ignored them. The public construction has been mostly good. Private growth has been allowed to obscure much of the original design. Occasionally there has been some clearing and reconstruction. Very slowly the nation works toward the consummate ideal. Now there is to be another chapter of artistic activity. There is $75,000,000 available for new federal buildings and grounds, of noble and dignified type, making a magnificent stretch all the way from the union station to the Potomac. Costly, but worth it! A nation proud of its capital city will approve.

NEW RADIO MENACE

"Dear Sirs," read a letter received by a broadcasting station, "will you please play some waltzes Wednesday night—they make my boy friend sentimental." The story tells that the obliging broadcasters substituted "A Kiss in the Dark" for a number with less sentimental appeal. Here is a new use for radio. The flapper who made that request is too subtle in her methods to indulge in any crude Leap Year stuff. As for the witches and love potions of ancient days, they couldn't compare with the efficacy of this up-to-date method. Indeed, the idea is capable of such wide application that it almost looms as a menace.

OTHER FELLOWS' FISH

A man hears that some fellow prospecting up in the Hootches-macootches mountains has run into a vein of gold a foot wide, a yard deep and a mile long. Then that man buzzes around excitedly, gets a prospector's outfit, and starts off to find a vein of gold. He thinks because the other fellow found gold he too can find it, and that one of the best and quickest ways to get rich is to find gold. That is true; but there is a lot of difference between hunting gold and finding gold.

A woman sees that some fellow woman has made $25,000 writing a novel. Then that woman hootches it down to a book store, buys five hundred sheets of paper and a dozen pencils and begins writing a book. She thinks that one of the best and quickest ways to make money is to write a successful book. That is a good way to make money; but there is a lot of difference between writing a book and writing a successful book.

A man picks up a newspaper and reads where some chap has obtained a commission of $50,000 selling about half of some county to some big syndicate. That man immediately gets an office somewhere, runs in debt for furniture and a sign on the door, and goes into real estate. He figures that one of the best and quickest ways of getting rich is to sell real estate. And that is true; but going into real estate may be a matter altogether different from selling real estate.

A clerk making a pretty good salary in a growing concern learns that a lawyer is receiving a fee of $10,000 a year looking after the legal matters of a corporation. And that clerk immediately enrolls in some law school, takes a course by night or by mail, runs in debt for a lot of law books, and eventually gets admitted to the bar. He figures that one of the best and quickest ways to make a lot of money is to get appointed counsel for a wealthy corporation. And that is true; but getting admitted to the bar may be a matter altogether different from getting to legally represent wealthy business organizations.

Just because one person makes a certain success is no sign that everybody else or anybody else is going to make the same kind of success. Just because you see a fellow up the stream landing a big fish is no sign that if you run up there and drop in your hook, you too will land a big fish. In fact, if you leave your own fishing place to go to the other fellow's fishing place, you may be jerking your hook right out of the mouth of some big fish about to grab it.

WHAT IS A STORE?

Experimental censuses taken in a number of American cities tend to confirm the conclusion that the old conception of a store as a place where commodities of a particular sort are sold is no longer applicable to the distribution system. A store cannot be identified by what it sells and eventually it may be necessary to reclassify retail establishments by the particular kind of service it renders.

"In the latest of the censuses to be completed, that of Providence," says Alvin Dodd, manager of the department of domestic distribution of the United States, "the information is revealed that eleven cigar stores are selling paint and varnish, eleven sell dry goods and notions and fourteen carry groceries. The same is true of other stores. Our old method of classifying retailers as grocers, dry goods merchants, hardware dealers and milliners is rapidly becoming obsolete.

"Stores are selling whatever they can sell best. In other words, they are performing a certain function, the character of which is not yet clearly defined, but which depends upon the economic service they render. We know, for example, what a chain grocery store does but we know very little about the neighborhood drug store or hardware store. Certainly the function of a drug store is not merely to dispense drugs. It is a factory from meat to tobacco, yet both are sold in 32 butcher shops in Providence."

Gov. Moody's Conference of Governors Meets Monday

Serious Discussion of Problems Attendant on Acreage Reduction Will be Employed by Delegates

AUSTIN, Feb. 18.—Governor Dan Moody left Saturday night for Jackson, Miss., to attend the conference of Southern governors and cotton interests seeking to reduce cotton acreage for 1928. The governor's list of Texas delegates who will accompany him to the Mississippi meeting which opens Monday contain the names of many of the state's most prominent cotton men, farmers and bankers.

GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE TO MEET MONDAY

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 18.—Hopefully desirous of alleviating the prevailing depression in the cotton industry, the South this month is laying plans for curbing its acreage in 1928.

Farmers, merchants and bankers throughout the cotton belt have met in their respective cotton houses to talk means of reducing the cotton acreage this year.

These "cotton meetings" were called by J. S. Wannamaker, of St. Matthews, E. C. president of the American Cotton association. He asked agricultural and other officials in 850 counties in the cotton belt to cooperate in the movement.

Less than one week later, representatives from every cotton producing state will assemble in this city, and for virtually the same purpose. This conference, to be held February 20, was proposed by Governor Dan Moody of Texas.

Governor Moody, in proposing the conference, obtained the cooperation of every chief executive in the Southern states, who appointed 15 delegates from his state representing agricultural, banking and other interests to represent the state.

The purpose of the conference, besides being to formulate plans for a decided slice in production in 1928, will be to "combat propaganda" that the acreage this year will be larger than last year, now causing a depression in the market, an announcement said.

Pointing to the great strides made by the South in curtailing production last year, agricultural leaders were confident that even more progress along this line will result from the cotton conferences, nationwide in scope.

error Dan Moody as one of the Texas delegates to the Jackson, Mississippi, cotton conference, to open Monday, left Cisco yesterday at 12:50 for the Mississippi city. He will meet other delegates en route, and perhaps reach Jackson with Governor Moody and many of the other men appointed to take part in the discussions. Mr. Lee stated before leaving Cisco that he was looking forward to a very profitable discussion of the many problems entering into the reduction of acreage, and that undoubtedly much good would come from the conference, which will have the benefit of a multitude of counsel.

BRECKENRIDGE SEEKS 1929 K. P. CONVENTION

BRECKENRIDGE, Feb. 18.—At a meeting of Breckenridge lodge No. 464, Knights of Pythias, Thursday night, it was unanimously decided to request the Texas grand lodge of Knights of Pythias to convene in this city. It is planned to seek the cooperation of neighboring lodges to pull the convention for Breckenridge. A committee was named, composed of T. C. Garrity, H. B. Furr and Floyd Jones, to manage the campaign. The state meeting of the Pythian Sisters accompanies the grand lodge, and the women's branch of the order is also at work to secure the state meet.

FIRE INSURANCE REDUCTION MADE

DE LEON, Feb. 18.—De Leon property owners will receive a 15 per cent reduction from the final premiums on all insurance written on or after March 1, 1928, to February 28, 1929. This is a reduction earned by the splendid fire record for the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 which has been remarkably low. The deduction of 15 per cent will mean the saving of many thousands of dollars in insurance premiums to property owners here.

FRAZAR CHICKS MAKE GOOD IN OKLAHOMA PEN

The International Poultry show, which has never been held south of the Mason and Dixon line, will be held in Ardmore, Okla., in August. Mrs. J. A. Frazar, of the Frazar White Leghorn farm of Cisco said yesterday. Mrs. Frazar stated that she and Mr. Frazar are preparing an exhibit for the Ardmore show.

The Frazar farm is receiving all kinds of complimentary mention of the chickens they have shipped to other places. W. C. Wright, of Ardmore, who has bought many chickens from the Frazar farm, writes that he has 1,100 laying hens, 700 of which are of the Frazar stock, which are now laying 1,000 eggs a day. Mr. Wright has ordered this year from the Frazar farm 1,000 eight weeks old pullets and 100 pedigreed baby chicks to be shipped March 15. In 1926 he bought 3,000 baby chicks. Mrs. Frazar stated that other orders are coming in from new customers at Ardmore, and she is just in receipt of a letter of inquiry for prices on 250 eight weeks old pullets. Also many requests are coming in for the handsome poultry catalog printed by the Daily News for the Frazar farm.

H. L. Atkins, county agent of Midland county, has just ordered eight cockerels, for which the price was $15 each, also 25 baby chicks from their best pen.

A most complimentary letter has just been received from Roy McDonald, inspector for the Texas Baby Chick association, and licensed A. P. A. judge, who recently inspected the Frazar farm, in which he said:

"It was with pleasure indeed for me to inspect and accredit your high class S. C. White Leghorns, and you may be interested to know that I handled more high class birds at your farm than I have ever handled before, and I only wish that each and every customer could see the many fine matings you have."

USES FOR A COLD FRAME

Cold frames serve such a great variety of garden uses that they are now a common adjunct to a garden. Almost everything in the garden can be raised in them and some people even put young chickens into them. The cold frame serves both as a starting plant for early plants as well as a storage plant and a winter garden.

The most frequent use, however, is for early seed sowing. Lettuce, cabbage and cauliflowers can be started for early transplanting. A row of radishes may be transplanted to a depth of a foot or more in the cold frame. Parsnips will bloom off and can all winter in a cold frame, and parsley may be cut as needed from it. Gladiolus may be started in a cold frame and left to bloom there for the earliest crop of stems to cut for the house. They can get a month's advance in the cold frame planting under the friendly protection of the glass.

A cold frame is a safe and convenient storage for chrysanthemums after they have bloomed. The stems that sprout from the main stem in the fall, even in the hardest varieties, are often injured by winter weather. They come through in a cold frame unscathed. The handsome penstemons, which do not bloom the first year from seed except from a very early start, may be started and wintered in a frame. Wallflowers may be grown in the same way.

The handsome peony anemones, with their gay blossoms which have become so popular as florists' cutting material, may be grown in the home cold frame, starting plants from seed this spring. They will start blooming next year in March. Dahlias may be sprouted in pots, starting early in April, to be out in permanent quarters when May sunshine makes the temperature suitable. Start a cold frame this year. You will never be without one either for vegetables or flowers.

HANDLING OF CLAY SOILS

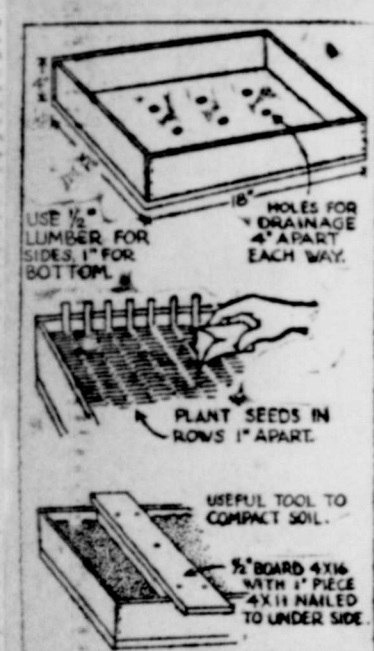

A very large number of gardens are afflicted with clay which cuts like soap when wet and bakes like brick when dry. Clay soil can be made into excellent garden soil. It is easier to handle than sandy or gravelly soil.

A particularly trying condition is a thin surface soil of good quality with subsoil of clay. The clay must be broken to a depth of a foot or more to make this soil good garden material. Stiff clay needs lime, both to sweeten it and to loosen it. A good dressing after the ground is broken up, using a pound of refined lime to a square yard, will be helpful.

Sand and sifted ashes dug into clay soil help to break it up effectively, but the spading in of manure, well decayed, or humus composed of decaying leaves and vegetable refuse is in the long run one of the best means. This is a matter of several years' work, annually digging in the manure or compost. In time it will be converted into ideal garden soil. Instead of using refined lime one may dig in crushed limestone which is one of the cheapest and most practical forms of applying lime.

Clay soil must be dug over and

THE ART OF SEED SOWING

Box, or Flat for Sowing Seeds Indoors.

The most important factor in seed sowing is not to sow the seed too deeply so that the baby plant cannot get through the surface of the soil. The second factor that must be observed in successful raising of plants from seed is never to sow in muddy soil. The only reasonable expectation under such a condition is that the seed will rot before it germinates. Moist, but not wet, is the proper condition for the germination of seed.

In connection with too much moisture, never sow seed when the temperature is so low that it can only retard or even prevent proper germination. Do not be in a hurry to get seed into the ground on cold spring days. Wait until the sun is warm.

Another important factor is good tilth of the soil, that is, the soil must be sufficiently broken up to admit air to the seed to assist in germination. It should be finely pulverized in the open ground and sifted in a seed box.

All these cautions apply to seed sowing either indoors or not. A seed box set too close to a window in which drafts come through a loose casement may not give good germination because of too low temperature on the box. It is better to set it a little back from the glass unless the window is tight.

Overwatering is the greatest fault of inexperienced gardeners in endeavoring to raise plants from seed. It destroys many promising crops of seedlings and encourages damping off, a fungus disease that causes seedlings to shivel at the ground and topple over and die. Damp but not wet is the watchword for conditions of moisture.

Sowing thinly cannot be too much emphasized. Just as crowding of human beings in confined quarters stunts growth and causes disease through lack of sufficient light and air, the growth and health of plants are affected. Speedy transplanting should be done if the seedlings are crowded. It is only by this means that the plants can be saved and made healthy.

TEXAS WOMEN PLANNING FOR BIENNIAL MEET

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 17.—A request is made of the club women of Texas to plan their arrival in San Antonio two days before the official opening of the Biennial of the General Federation of Women's clubs which convenes here May 28 to June 7, inclusive, by Mrs. Henry Drought, Biennial chairman, and Mrs. G. LOCAL CAGERS TAKE ANOTHER GAME, 23 TO 11

The Cisco Lobos, champions of Eastland county in basketball, defeated the McMurray college second string in the McMurray college gymnasium at Abilene Friday night by a score of 23 to 11. The Lobos were rather slow in starting, but by the end of the first half they were leading by 13 to 6. Little, forward for the Lobos, was high point man with eight, and he also played a nice floor game. Keyes, the other forward for the Lobos, Van Horn, Lobo guard, and Moody, center for McMurray, each made five points and tied for second in the scoring. Martin, flashy forward for the McMurray boys, starred for his team with his floor-work and made four points. The Lobos were without the services of Bill Smith, regular guard and one of the main cogs in the locals defensive play. He is out with eye trouble.

This game was arranged for the Lobos so as to give them practice on a larger court, preparing for the district tournament. This tournament will be held in Breckenridge next Friday and Saturday when the champions of Stephens, Hood, Palo Pinto, Erath, Somervell and Eastland counties will play for the district title. Breckenridge, Strawn and Cisco have already clinched their county titles.

Hilgenberg Happy Over Prospects

L. W. Hilgenberg has just returned from Dallas where he attended the district meeting of the Oakland-Pontiac dealers, attended by more than two hundred dealers from all parts of Texas.

Oakland-Pontiac executives outlined the companies 1928 plans and policies. The dealers spent the day in business sessions with a luncheon at noon and a banquet given by the Oakland Motor company in the evening at the Adolphus hotel ballroom.

Mr. Hilgenberg returns most enthusiastic over the outlook for the 1928. He states that forecasts for the year is reflected in the tentative production schedule. Last year more than 191,000 Oaklands and Pontiacs were sold, advancing Oakland from ninth place in 1926 in points of sales to fifth in 1927. "Our 1927 business was more than 40 per cent greater than in 1926," said Mr. Hilgenberg, and states that Oakland expects to increase its business more than 40 per cent this year.

The Oakland company started this year with a record-breaking January production of 19,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes with 8,038 in January, 1927. The production schedule for February, based on the signed orders of Oakland dealers, is 22,200 which is the highest February production in the history of the company. During February last year Oakland produced 9,634.

At the meeting Mr. Hilgenberg saw motion pictures of the Oakland and Pontiac factories showing the manufacturing facilities provided through a tripling of the plant investment and doubling of floor space. The picture showed the largest payroll in the Oakland history, and the countless operations necessary to produce a complete motor car.

DAVISSON NO. 3 GOOD HOLDING INITIAL FLOW

EASTLAND, Feb. 18.—Flowing approximately 1,100 barrels a day after having been in for a week, the No. 3 Good of G. A. Davisson, Eastland operator, is proving a remarkable producer. This well, upon hitting the pay, began making 40 barrels an hour or slightly less than a thousand barrels daily. When drilled five feet in, it responded with a flush production of 90 barrels an hour.

An interesting bit of information in connection with the Thorp No. 1 of C. M. Root is that this wonderful well, which first struck a big gas sand, paid itself out before Root drilled on to the Ranger sand where a 1,500 barrel production was obtained with the result that the well produced approximately $75,000 its first month as an oil well. This gusher, after more than three months' production of oil, is still making better than 500 barrels a day. These wells are in the Gordon pool, northeast of Cisco.

"Drop the subject when you cannot agree; there is no need to be bitter because you KNOW you are right."

With Arbor Day just around the corner, Cisco people are looking forward to the start of an unusual tree-planting campaign. In another column today more details of the program will be found. Look it up, and enter into the activities which promise so much for the city. Cisco can stand many more trees. There is no reason on earth why there should not be hundreds of trees set out this spring, and Arbor day is a good time to make the start. Any day at this season is a good day to set trees—set out a dozen. Let's make Cisco a real "forest city."

Many have been the favorable comments on the streets and in gathering places concerning the purchase of $500 worth of hotel stock by Webster Grocery company, since the announcement of the purchase made in these columns Friday. It is nothing more nor less than the act of a company, through its president, having the interests—the best interests—of Cisco at heart. There is ample opportunity for others to follow suit; but to get in on this worthy object and really have a hand in the accomplishment, there is little time to lose. While the stock subscriptions have been a little slow, and other pressing matters have kept committee-men from following up the work of soliciting and collections, thereby delaying the consummation of the hotel contract, the total is fast approaching the end. Let's not allow this new hotel stock to get away without every enterprising citizen having a part of it. When the magnificent structure is finished and people point to it with pride, we want to be able to rear back and say: "Yes, I own stock in that hotel; isn't it a dandy?"

Yesterday saw the finishing of a concrete sidewalk in front of the Daily News office, full width and rough finish for the safety of pedestrians in wet weather. It isn't so much, but it does close the gap between Third street and the extreme southern end of D avenue through the business section.

A Cisco man, well qualified to sit in the conference of the governors of several Southern states and scores of cotton men and farmers in an effort to reduce the 1928 cotton acreage, left yesterday for a cotton acreage reduction meet at Jackson, Miss. That man is R. Q. Lee, well known throughout Texas as one of the foremost exponents of diversification. Mr. Lee is not only in favor of diversification, but he is demonstrating what he means by putting the ideas into practice on his Diversified Farm near Cisco. The country believes in men who practice what they preach. Mr. Lee is one of those men.

SPECIAL MESSAGE TO CISCO PARENTS

Rev. P. T. Stanford makes this announcement: "Your boys and girls have a right to be well born; to have strong bodies, active minds and a spiritual example. Have we failed in this great undertaking? In some cases the opportunity is gone. In many cases there is yet time enough. Hear the message this evening and let us change our way if it is wrong. A colored gospel singer known throughout Texas will render several numbers."

EASTLAND AND RANGER PLANS CLUBS MERGER

EASTLAND, Feb. 18.—Committee representing the Eastland Golf and Country club, and the Ranger Country club met in Ranger Thursday night, to discuss a proposed site for club house and grounds in the event the two clubs should unite their interests. Eastland was represented by E. E. Freyschlag, Horace Eutler and A. H. Johnson. Ranger was represented by Leslie Hagman, Dr. A. N. Harkrider and Dr. W. C. Palmer.

The Eastland delegation took with them drawings and elevations of the proposed site, which is about one mile east of Olden, just where the highway makes its first turn. An 80-acre tract that would be suitable for an 18-hole golf course is available, and was carefully studied by the committee. A meeting of the Ranger club members is to be called for next Tuesday evening, when the matter will be placed before it. It is stated that if the Eastland and Ranger clubs merge and take the proposed site near Olden, it is probable the Magnolia Petroleum company would seek memberships for a number of its officials living at Olden. The location on the Bankhead highway would soon give the club nationwide fame, it is claimed. A nine-

EASTLAND MAN HAS A NARROW DEATH ESCAPE

EASTLAND, Feb. 18.—John O'Neill, workman engaged in excavating for storm sewers to be laid on Eastland streets that are being paved, narrowly escaped death Wednesday when a dirt cavern completely covered him. Fellow workmen nearby saw O'Neill's plight and succeeded in digging the dirt from around his head before he suffocated. O'Neill was working in a ditch on South Mulberry street at a place where the ditch was some ten or eleven feet deep. He was standing erect, which, together with the fact that the dirt as it fell of him, pushed his hat down over the face and kept the fine dirt out of his nose, probably saved his life. He had a broken collar bone and a number of severe bruises about the body and a more or less serious injury to his back. O'Neill was covered with the dirt to the extent of some 18 inches above his head.

PROHL. AGENTS TOLD PRIVATE LIQUORS SAFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—Private stocks of liquor are immune from seizure by prohibition agents unless such seizure is legally predicated upon evidence of sale or unless there is proof that it is "being used in the commission of a crime." The United States circuit court of appeals here has ruled. This decision was handed down when the court ordered the return of liquor seized by federal prohibition agents in a raid at the home of Thomas Fabri of San Francisco. The court also ruled that all liquor seized under defective search warrants must be returned to its owner, whether its possession was legal or illegal, and could not be destroyed by the government. The court held that to resist return of liquor illegally seized, the government must prove that it was being used in the commission of a crime. Government officials said the decision established a precedent under which innumerable stocks of liquor might have to be returned to the owners.

EXPANSION OF MOODY PLANT IS UNDER WAY

MORAN, Feb. 18.—Expansion of the big gasoline plant of the Moody Oil corporation on the Dyer lease between Moran and Cisco is now under way. A big 30 ton tank has just been permanently set which will add to the efficiency of the equipment already installed to take care of the gasoline from the wet gas flowing from the six or eight gas wells of the Moody corporation in the Dyer field.

The Dyer No. 2 well, which was drilled in several weeks ago, will soon be connected with the gasoline plant. This well failed to make an oil well but has a large gas capacity. It has been learned that the Moody people will soon have twice the original capacity. This company expects to drill a number of wells in the near future. They have faith in the field and are spending lots of money developing the field. They have a large holding in that neighborhood.

The Dyer No. 1 well, brought in last summer will be cemented on the bottom of the hole and it is believed that the well will still make a hundred barrels of oil per day in connection with several million feet of wet gas.

The Moody people are also drilling another well at the present time about half a mile west of the Dyer. This will be their McClelland No. 2. These wells are on the Moran-Cisco highway and are easily accessible to Moran and Cisco.

Highway Open
The highway is now open all the way to Cisco from Moran, except for a short detour where the highway crosses the M. K. & T. railroad three miles south of town. It is hoped that this will be opened in the near future. Some people who have travelled this route during the past two weeks to Cisco state that it is better than the old road.

The Phillips Production Co. well on the Pence ranch, about one mile from the Dyer field, is drilling below the 300 foot level. The results of this well is creating much interest among the oil men. If the well makes a producer, the field will have a big extension and it is expected that many major oil companies will drill in that field.

Greer Offers Good Picture at Palace

Manager K. N. Greer of the Palace has not decided yet whether he is going to call this "Laugh Week" or "Love Week" at his popular playhouse. Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl," the feature picture, was directed by Sam Taylor, who is famous for the laughs he put into Harold Lloyd's productions; and the Pickford picture is said to team with delightful comedy. On the other hand, "My Best Girl" was written by Kathleen Norris, whose love stories are a delight to lovers of romance and who know the hearts of youth as few other American writers do. Charles Rogers plays the part of Joe Grant, and it is expected that this handsome youngster, last seen in "Wings," will soon be one of the most popular leading men on the screen.

The beautiful Carmelita Geeraghty is cast for the part of Liz Johnson, hard boiled sister of Maggie. Hobart Bosworth, the well-known character actor, is the wealthy owner of the big store and the father of the hero.

Sunday only is "Tom's Toasted Peanut Boy," a radio star from WBAP. He will appear four times today.

GARRETT ASKS ELECTION AS COUNTY JUDGE

Clyde L. Garrett, one of the best known citizens of Eastland county, has formally announced that he is a candidate for county judge of the commissioners' court. Mr. Garrett was born on a farm between Gorman and Carbon and his entire life has been spent in this county. He plans to make an active canvass of the county and will try to meet every voter between this time and the July primary. His statement to the voters follows:

"In announcing my candidacy for county judge of the commissioners' court, I feel that a life-long residence in Eastland county and years of observation and study of the county's resources, development and problems have qualified me, in a large measure, to render Eastland county valuable and efficient service in the administration of its affairs, if the voters honor me with the position to which I aspire.

"If elected, I would favor the county's funds for highways being spent in fair and just proportion in all sections of the county, with favoritism to no particular part of section, so that every community—no matter how remote—shall receive its rightful apportionment of the benefits of the county funds.

"As Eastland county voted $4,500,000 in bonds for highways and the state allotted our county only $1,000,000 in aid—although other counties have received dollar for dollar or even two for one—I feel that our county is entitled to further substantial aid, especially in view of the fact that our county ranks among the first 12 or 14 counties in the payment of automobile license taxes and the gasoline tax. Therefore, it shall be my constant purpose to secure additional aid from the state so that we may have even greater mileage of paved roads, maintained in excellent condition. This, if accomplished, would leave the county highway funds to be spent in constructing lateral roads all over Eastland county and we may look forward to the day when a good road shall pass by the door of every man in the county.

"Further, I pledge a business administration; a full dollar's value for every dollar expended; retirement of the bonded indebtedness as it matures; the strictest economy consistent with efficiency, and as speedily as possible a substantial reduction in the tax burdens of our farmers, business men and citizens generally.

"The unfinished work of the present county judge and commissioners' court, on which they have labored so diligently, in my candid opinion, should be carried on to completion, and if elected, I promise to put forth every honorable effort to see that Eastland county's interests are fully protected.

"If elected, I will be the official of the 'entire' county. The door of the office will be open to every citizen. The guiding principles will be: Courtesy, fair and honest dealing and the safeguarding, at all times, of the best interests of Eastland county.

"Realizing that honesty and efficiency are the first and main qualifications for any official, I most respectfully invite the voters of the county to make a thorough investigation concerning my qualifications and consider them along with the qualifications of my opponents.

"Thanking you for the kindness you have bestowed upon me in the past and earnestly soliciting your support and influence, I am,

"Yours very truly,

"CLYDE L. GARRETT."

Dothan Dairyman Making Progress

G. W. White, Dothan dairyman, was conferring with E. H. Varnell, vocational instructor of the Cisco high school, while in Cisco Saturday in regard to his herd. Mr. White is one of the members of the dairymen's circles, and is helping to finance the purchasing of better sires.

Out at his dairy farm, Mr. White is milking 50 or 60 cows, and finds a ready market for his dairy products. He supplies milk to the retail trade at Putnam, as the people of that community takes his evenings' milkings, while he disposes of the morning's milkings to the Cisco Creamery.

He is constantly improving his herd by weeding out the inferior cows and replacing them with better ones. He also grows most of his feed, and mixes the feed on the farm. He stated that he will plant 150 acres to Sudan grass this year for pasturage for his dairy cows. He stated that he had found dairymen in this part of the state very profitable, and said he was well pleased with the progress made so far, but many other improvements are contemplated.

I can fix that leaky roof for you; reference given. Phone 314. I Lamb 34-11.

TWO CARS COLLIDE.
Two cars collided on South D avenue Saturday morning—or rather one car bumped into another. Fortunately on one was hurt, nor were either of the cars damaged to any considerable extent, but it required several minutes to disengage the machines, as they were closely locked.

WORKMEN ARE WRECKING OLD VERNON HOME

The old house, formerly the home of the late Mrs. M. E. Vernon, located on H avenue in the rear of the Cisco library, is being torn down and the lot cleared. The building on the corner of the lot, in which the library is located and that plot of land has been purchased by the Cisco Federation of Women's clubs, who are having the old building removed.

Mrs. Vernon built the house on the corner just a few years before her death, but she never occupied the new building, but continued to live in her old home. The property will be improved and beautified by the City Federation, and be converted into headquarters for the organization. Mrs. A. J. Olson is superintending the removal of the old building. When these premises are cleared off, and the present plans of the ladies carried out, this will be one of the most attractive corners in that part of the city. The old building, which had fallen into bad repair, has long detracted from the property, and its removal will be generally approved, especially by those living in that vicinity.

JUDGE BEAN'S FAMOUS SIGN STILL HANGS

RANKIN, Feb. 18.—Law West of the Pecos, the most famous sign of the old west, still hangs on an old ramshackle of a house near here. The sign includes the name of Judge Roy Bean who made famous the "law west of the Pecos," which was law as he interpreted it, unincumbered by statute books or legal red tape. A thousand legends have grown up around the name of Bean, who has been dead for 20 years. It is related that once he found a dead man, and discovering that he had some money on him, conveyed court on the spot, and fined the dead man as a vagrant, pocketing the fine. The tough empire over which Bean held sway, backed by an uncanny knowledge of human nature and adeptness in the use of a six-gun, has changed from a wild border country to a thriving oil area.

OLD TIMER TO DIRECT PRESS AT CONVENTION

HOUSTON, Feb. 18.—James D. Preston, superintendent of the senate press gallery in Washington for the past 31 years, is expected here shortly to take charge of preparing seating arrangements for press correspondents at the Democratic National convention in June.

Nearly 1,000 newspaper men are expected here to "confer" at the convention. Special correspondents from London, Berlin, Paris and other foreign countries will be here to tell their nations of the proceedings.

Lined wires will flash the news to all corners of the globe, as telephone and telegraph companies install their finest equipment for handling the news of the convention.

During Preston's active participation in political meetings has come the telegraph, telephone, radio and talking moving pictures. "Every convention something new and different has been developed," Mr. Preston said, commenting on the fact that talking moving pictures will graphically carry the doings of the convention to all parts of the country.

Mr. Preston is acquainted with one or more newspapermen in practically every city in the United States of any size. He probably knows more reporters than any man in public life.

THREE WERE VAGGED. The police arrested three young white men Friday night against whom vagrancy charges were filed in the corporation court Saturday. These will likely augment Gustafson's force at Lake Cisco, as all three are strong and healthy looking. These wandering tourists will probably learn that the vagrancy laws are being enforced in Cisco. These three gave their homes as Paris and Fort Worth.

The dairy committee that went to South Texas to purchase dairy cows and sires for the dairy people of Eastland county, have returned home, but did not purchase the bulls or cows on this trip. However, five bulls were contracted for. J. C. Patterson, county agent, said Saturday, Mr. Patterson accompanied the committee. He stated that they had a delightful trip, visiting at Taft, Kingsville and Falfurrias, where they saw some splendid Jersey, and secured contracts for what bulls they desired, and if much better quality than they anticipated. Some are from cows with 700 pounds records, but dairy cows, they found, were scarce and high. He stated that cows such as the committee wanted, could not be purchased for less than $250 each, and as the freight on the bulls alone would be very high, it was decided to secure an option on the bulls and return home for a further conference with the members of the bull circles and dairy folk, who are interested in the purchase of these cattle. Mr. Patterson said they conditionally purchased the bulls, but would have to secure further instruction before buying cows in that locality, but thought it probable that cows could be secured from Jersey herds in North Texas.

E. H. Varnell stated that the committee would meet with the farmers of Dothan, Nimrod and Gun-sight with the expectation of getting others interested, and it is expected that one or two more bulls may be added to the circles. The committee had not worked the above communities thoroughly before going to South Texas.

Mr. Patterson stated that an unprecedented demand for dairy cows had sent the price up to prohibitive figures, as it seems that the dairy business is being boosted all over the state, and the committee did not feel authorized to pay the prices asked for the class of cows offered.

"It is probable that our people will get the best sires possible and grade up the cows of their present herds," Mr. Varnell said Saturday.

What kind of choir would it have if all responded as I? What of the Sunday School? And the church treasury. What advance would it make? "Just like me." What would the unconverted say of it?
