CORN BELT LEADERS ENDORSE SMITH

Washington Denies Part In Valls' Charge Against Calles

VALLS STICKS TO HIS GUNS IN CURT REPLY

Border Official Says He'll Try Calles Should He Enter Country

U. S. NOT INVOLVED

Linking of Ruler and Obregon in Deaths Called 'Political Gesture'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (US)—The state department today indignantly denied the charge of District Attorney John A. Valls of Laredo, Texas, that it had interfered with an alleged attempt by him to involve President Calles and General Obregon, the slain president-elect, in the murder of General Lucio Blanco and Colonel Aurelio Martinez of the Mexican army at Laredo in June, 1922.

Contrary to Valls' claim, acting Secretary of State William H. Castle Jr., denied that the department had ever corresponded with him in the matter or had any official knowledge of it. Castle said the same charge had been made in previous election campaigns in Texas and that it looks again "like a political gesture of some sort."

Sticks to His Guns

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 31. (UP)—Maintenance of law and order on the border will be carried out whether the offender be the humblest citizen or the most powerful executive, District Attorney John A. Valls asserted Friday night in an interview outlining his attitude toward representations to him by the state department, condemning his arrests of Mexican officials crossing the Rio Grande river here.

The 50-year-old district attorney, who rode into office many years back on the Republican ticket and has maintained that position since as a Democrat, said that while he held all respect for brilliant intellect and superb patriotism of the secretary of state but as long as he was prosecutor, indictments pending here would be tried by law rather than by diplomatic exchanges.

District attorneys don't make statements unless they have evidence to back them," he explained, discussing evidence he claims to have connecting Calles and Obregon with the murder here of General Lucio Blanco and Col. Aurelio Martinez.

"International relations should be maintained but not at the expense of law and order or by shelving them for diplomatic reasons. Mexico has one of the most elaborate secret service system in the world and for that reason even the most secretive moves are often known to the higher ups in that government," he continued.

That Calles knows prosecution is pending here was revealed when the president changed his plans upon returning from Europe and went back to Mexico by boat from New Orleans rather than cross the border at Laredo when his own official police band was awaiting him across the river, he said.

Amarillo Chosen For Clerks' Convention

LAMESA, Texas, Aug. 31.—The West Texas county and district clerks closed their sixth annual session here Friday with the election of officers and the selection of next year's meeting place.

Amarillo was the choice of the clerks for next year's convention. J. W. Grigg, clerk at Tulia, was selected as president of the association. Miss Edna Bryan of Memphis was elected first vice president and Owen C. Taylor of Lamesa was chosen as the second vice president of the organization. The local chamber of commerce entertained the clerks with a water melon spread and picture show Thursday.

Hambone's Meditations

Slayer of Ten

Held as the slayer of a mother, her three children, and six other persons, Leung Ying, Chinese is pictured here shortly after his capture near Fairfield, Calif. Leung, a cook, ran amuck with an ax and killed his employer, the latter's family and two ranch hands. The man maintained his smile after capture by Sheriff Jack Thornton. All victims were Chinese.

'JOE' RETURNS TO HOME TOWN

Clears Religious and Tammany Issues in Speech

LONOKE, Ark., Aug. 31. (UP)—Senator Joe T. Robinson came back to the place of his birth today, received from his fellow townsmen a welcome befitting their most famous citizen, and then spoke to them frankly of two subjects they have wondered about in this presidential campaign—the religion and Tammany affiliations of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

It was a striking picture, an unusual picture even in the fortunes of politics that was presented when the Democratic candidate for vice president came back to this little cotton and rice growing community that had given him his political start, gathered his old friends and admirers around him and then speaking as one in whom they could repose confidence; said in effect:

"You have been wondering about this man, Governor Smith. You have been asking yourself questions about him. All right, I'll tell you."

Those were not his words, but that was his manner.

"Governor Smith has been misrepresented," Robinson told his neighbors. He went on to say that he was preeminent among political personalities of the present generation, that "he was a man of the people in close sympathy with the masses.

"He has not been a Catholic governor, a Baptist governor nor a Methodist governor. He has been an American governor serving all the people of his state."

Robinson then alluded to criticisms of Smith's alliance with Tammany hall.

"Tammany does not dominate Governor Smith—Smith tells Tammany what to do," Robinson said. He told his audience that Tammany hall had been used by Thomas Jefferson in fighting Alexander Hamilton "for the masses against the classes" and that when Jefferson Davis was in irons about to be tried for treason, a Tammany lawyer volunteered to defend him.

The occasion probably was the first major meeting of the campaign held in the South in which the religious issue, a subject for whispering to date, was discussed openly.

Ferry for 95 Cars To Be Launched Soon

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 31. (UP)—A 95-car railroad ferry will be placed in operation between New Orleans, La., and Havana, Cuba before mid-winter, according to an announcement made here.

The first ferry, "Sea Rail," will be launched in Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 10, and will be brought to Havana under its own power. Special docks are being constructed in Havana bay for the loading and unloading of freight cars from these boats.

JUDGE ATWELL DEFENDANT IN $50,000 SUIT

Defamation of Character Charged by New York Attorney

MAKES NO COMMENT

Action Follows Speech From Bench in Trial Of Case

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—Federal Judge William H. Atwell of Dallas, Texas, who has been sitting at the criminal term of the U. S. court in Brooklyn, was today served with a summons and complaint in a $50,000 defamation of character action filed against him by F. B. Serri, an attorney.

The papers, handed to Judge Atwell on the last day he was to spend in New York, allege that he made a series of defamatory remarks regarding Serri while the latter was in Atwell's court room defending a woman who had been held on a liquor law violation.

Serri, in summing up his case, criticized the testimony of the officers who said they had purchased liquor from the woman. His statements moved Judge Atwell to address him from the bench. The court declared that in his home city the police officers mentioned by the lawyer would probably have "smashed" any attorney who made such remarks about them. Judge Atwell refused to comment upon the filing of the action against him. Opinion among lawyers seemed to differ as to whether Serri can obtain a judgment, some holding that the court's remarks were wholly within its province.

Leaves for Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (UP)—Friends and enemies of Federal Judge William H. Atwell of Dallas, Texas, accorded him a farewell he probably never will forget on his last day on the bench here today.

The jurist, who has been occupying a New York bench during the summer vacation period, was served with a suit for $50,000 brought against him by F. B. Serri, attorney.

A few minutes later members of the petty jury of the federal court, filed into his courtroom and read a presentment, complimenting the judge on his work.

The petty jurors were followed by grand jurors with a similar presentment.

Atwell appeared moved as he rose to acknowledge the tribute of his co-workers in the court. He thanked them for their co-operation and said he had tried his best to attend his work with fairness, impartially and without prejudice in any way.

The Texas jurist has been the subject of numerous attacks by New York newspapers during his occupancy of the bench, especially in connection with the severe sentences he pronounced on prohibition offenders.

The papers charged he was too harsh with violators of the liquor laws and that it was virtually impossible for many of them to gain a fair hearing before him.

The jurist announced he would leave New York for Dallas tonight.

Slayers of Notorious Gunman Make Escape

DETROIT, Aug. 31. (UP)—Joseph Baktashi, notorious gunman, was shot and killed today by three men who escaped in an automobile. Baktashi was arrested here in 1924 following his escape from a Utah road camp where he was serving a life term for murder. He was returned to Utah but his sentence later was commuted.

Man Arraigned In Poisoning of Trio

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Aug. 31. (UP)—Samuel Weiss, 33, was held for superior court here today after his arraignment on a charge of murdering three persons with poisoned beer.

Boston Man to Head Foreign War Veterans

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 31. (UP)—Eugene P. Carver, Boston, Mass., today was elected commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars over Patrick Kelley, Portland, Ore., who was a last minute nominee.

LUCKY MISS LINDY

Amy Earhart Unhurt As Plane Crashes In Landing

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 31. (AP)—Amelia Earhart, first woman to cross the Atlantic by air escaped injury late today when her biplane, the Avian crashed at Rodgers field. George P. Putnam, New York publisher who flew with Miss Earhart, from Rye, N. Y., today also was unhurt.

In coming down out of the air, Miss Earhart's ship struck a rut breaking the landing gear. The Avian turned over on its side, smashing the propeller and lower left wing. Miss Earhart was at the controls.

MOTHER ASKS SILVER'S DEATH

Moody Asked to Abide By Court's Sentence

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31. (INS)—Mrs. Ollie Wilson, mother of Roscoe Wilson, slain Fort Worth theater cashier, came here today to plead with Gov. Dan Moody and the board of pardons that there be no intervention in the death of J. R. (Bob) Silver, under sentence to death in the electric chair for his part in the robbery of Wilson.

Meanwhile a petition, signed by several thousands residents of Fort Worth and Tarrant county, asking clemency for Silver, reposed in the secretary of state's office.

Mrs. Wilson, her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Bothe, and V. A. Wilson, brother of the slain man, were closeted with the board of pardons for two hours before going to see Governor Moody.

What action the board of pardons or the governor will take, has not been indicated. Mrs. Wilson's attitude was explained by George Kemble, Fort Worth attorney, who came here with her.

"Mrs. Wilson is not vindictive but she feels that Silver is a dangerous criminal and if his sentence is commuted to life, there is the possibility of jail breaks," Kemble said.

Officer En Route To Return Car Thief

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 31. (UP)—A police officer from Jackson, Mich., is en route here today to return Leon Dutcher, 25, and a foster-brother to Jackson, with the Hupmobile sedan which is alleged to have been stolen. He was arrested when he is said to have attempted to leave a filling station without paying for 15 gallons of gasoline. Roland Mears, the foster-brother, Mrs. Dutcher and their three children were with Dutcher.

Hubert Work Denies Whispering Campaign

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (UP)—The Republican party has started "no whispering campaign" against Governor Smith and contemplates none, Dr. Hubert Work, manager of Herbert Hoover's campaign, said when he stopped here en route to Maine.

Dr. Work denied forcefully the charge of Senator Joe Robinson in his acceptance speech at Hot Springs last night that the Republicans were fighting the Democrats with "whisperings."

Mix Found Innocent Of Attack Charges

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31. (AP)—Tom Mix, hero of many a film battle, emerged victorious from municipal court here today when he was found not guilty of two counts of battery in connection with a fight with Will Morrissey, stage comedian.

ONE CENT CUT IN GASOLINE TAX EFFECTIVE

Slash to Save $6,000,000 Of Motorists' Cash Per Year

SCHOOLS, ROADS LOSE

Four-Cent Levy May Be Sought In Next Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31. (AP)—When the clock struck 12 midnight, the state gasoline tax dropped from three to two cents a gallon, effecting a savings of from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 a year for the automobile driving public, which has contributed a total of $48,868,000 to the upkeep of this vast commonwealth.

By the same stroke, the state highway department and the public schools lost the same amount the motorists will save.

Of the total collected since Texas has had a gasoline tax, the three-cent tax, which went into effect March 16, 1927, replacing a one-cent levy, has produced $27,490,598. Under a 75-25 per cent division, the highway department got $20,617,949 of this latter sum and the schools $6,872,649.

Despite the drop, under terms of three-cent act of the 40th legislature, the schools have the maximum $15 per capita apportionment allowed by the legislature, and to get that, did not even need the supplemental $1,500,000 appropriation made in anticipation of the gasoline tax decrease.

With the highway system, it is different. Friends of the highway department say it needs all the money it can get. That theory may result in efforts to get the 41st legislature to restore the three-cent tax or vote a four-cent levy.

Based on a year's collections under the three-cent tax, the reduction to two cents makes the state's income nearly $7,000,000 less. The loss will become greater, of course, if gasoline consumption is increased next year.

Rancher's Body Found In Search by Flier

MIDLAND, Texas, Aug. 31. (AP)—Battered almost beyond recognition, the body of Owen Locklar, 27, rancher, who has been missing since yesterday, was found today in a pasture by Harold Beacherer, aviator, who had been called upon to assist in the search.

Locklar presumably was attempting to rope a calf when his horse fell, the loop of the rope catching his arm. Searchers said the man had been dragged through heavy underbrush more than three miles by the mount. The horse was found near the body.

Midshipman Dies After Stroke On Gridiron

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (US)—Midshipman Miles F. Fox died today as the result of a sunstroke suffered while practicing with the football squad of the navy academy, at Annapolis yesterday afternoon, the navy department announced today.

Aimee Must Stay In U. S. for Fraud Probe

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 31. (UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist, must postpone an impending trip to Europe pending an investigation of her asserted Lake Tahoe real estate activities, the district attorney's office announced today.

Bride Can't Live With Hubby

Jacqueline Logan, movie star, and Larry Winston, Los Angeles broker, were married the other day in Tia Juan, Mexico, but upon their return to Los Angeles they parted company. The reason: Jacqueline's interlocutory degree of divorce from her previous husband doesn't become effective for another month, and the district attorney prosecutes people who don't live up to the laws, you know.

CONFIDENCE IN RELIEF PLANS IS DECLARED

Opinion of Entire Middle West Represented In Resolutions

NAME UNMENTIONED

Smith's Name Not Voiced In Declaration Of Committee

DES MOINES, Aug. 31. (UP)—Although declining to specify the candidate by name, the corn belt committee representative of farm organizations in the middle west tonight placed its indorsement on the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for the presidency.

In resolutions adopted by the committee the platform of the Democratic party was endorsed as being the most effective offering for relief of the farmers from the "burden of surpluses."

"The Democratic platform of 1928," the resolution states, "pledges the party to enact legislation that will prevent the price of surplus from determining the price of the whole crop. It recognizes the principle that the problem of dealing with surpluses must be distributed over each marketed unit of commodity whose produces are benefited by such assistance.

Favors Tariff

"The Democratic candidate states his position squarely on this platform. He points out in his acceptance speech the tariff is ineffective and of no value upon the crops of which we produce an exportable surplus. He declares an does the Democratic platform in favor of legislation to make the tariff effective on such crops."

The resolution added that farmers in the wheat growing states where the main cash crops were being marketed at a price half its cost of production and without any benefit from the 42 cents tariff are "fully aware of the failure of the tariff to be effective in case of surpluses."

G. O. P. Criticised

The Republican platform is criticised for its failure to address itself to the problem of surpluses.

"The Republican candidate," the resolution continued, "has not recognized the right of farmers to organize to be heard in the shaping of farm legislation."

The resolution concluded with the appeal to farmers to elect candidates who they thought would offer relief "in their hour of need."

Notables Attend

Members of the committee included: R. C. Talbott, president of farmers union of North Dakota; Milo Reno, president of the farmers' union; Ralph Snyder, president of the Kansas Farm bureau; William Settles, president of the Indiana Farm bureau; Frank Murphy of Minnesota; C. F. Huff of the Kansas Farmers' union; Harry Parmenter, representing the Nebraska Farmers' union; F. F. Kennedy and Col. G. C. Lamber of Monnesita.

Frank Murphy presided as chairman of the conference in the absence of William Hirth of Columbia, Mo., chairman of the committee, who was ill at his home and was unable to attend.

Dallas Cops Billed In Extortion Probe

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (AP)—First indictments since the Dallas county grand jury launched an investigation into alleged roadside courts were returned today when Constable Ed Davis was billed for extortion and I. W. Bailey and Frank T. Thompson, said to have been former deputy constables, also were indicted.

Davis, the indictment charged, demanded and received a bribe from J. S. Cosgrove for a fine and cost when no legal charge existed against the latter.

H. Hoover Given Jail Reception Here After Arrest in Counterfeiting Plot

President's Warrant Causes Arrest of Bogus Money Suspect In Vernon; Denies Kin to Nominee

H. Hoover is a guest of Wichita county. He was welcomed to the city Friday by a special committee composed of J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner, and W. G. Bralley, sheriff. The visitor was tendered a bed in the county jail, which he accepted.

Hoover was charged Friday morning before Judge Lantz with "having in his possession and willfully flaunting a forged and counterfeited obligation and security of the United States." He is alleged to have exhibited and attempted to pass a counterfeit United States gold certificate for $50 and also is charged with conspiring with others to pass counterfeit certificates.

The activities of Hoover in Oklahoma are said to have directed the law's attention to him.

H. Hoover's arrest and retention in the Wichita county jail was ordered on a federal warrant by Calvin Coolidge, the president of the United States. He was arrested in Vernon and brought to Wichita Falls for safe keeping until the federal court convenes here in October.

Hoover denied that he is the presidential candidate, pointing out that his name is Harry Hoover, and stating that he does not know of any relationship existing between himself and the G. O. P. leader.

LAMAR SUSPECT STORY DOUBTED

Man Held at Fort Worth Wanted in California

FORT WORTH, Aug. 31. (AP)—Detectives here doubt the story of a man, arrested on suspicion of having a stolen automobile in his possession, to the effect he is wanted in connection with the robbery of $200,000 in cash and securities of the First National bank of Lamar, Colo., and the killing of four persons last May.

They believe his self implication is merely an attempt to create a smoke screen to conceal his identity as being wanted in Salina, Calif., for the theft of an automobile.

This conclusion was reached after a telegram was received here from Salina police to hold him and the automobile found in his possession. Police files do not indicate he is wanted in Colorado.

In telling detectives he was suspected of being implicated in the robbery, he also declared his innocence and offered as an alibi the [illegible] all the day of

Breckenridge Holdup Victim and Four Others in Hospitals After Mishaps

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Aug. 31.—One man, thought to be the victim of a hold-up, was in a critical condition at a local hospital tonight, and four others, critically injured in automobile and other accidents, were being treated at Breckenridge and Ranger hospitals after an alarming series of misadventures in this vicinity.

R. H. Asbill, 25, truck driver, was found unconscious and in front of his truck on the Breckenridge-Ivan road early tonight. His skull was crushed, apparently with a blunt instrument. Fear is felt for his life at the hospital here, where he was brought. After the discovery, Sheriff H. C. Thornton instituted search for his assailant. Asbill was still unconscious late tonight.

Jack Weems, 20, was struck by an automobile while he was repairing the lights to his car, which was parked on the Albany road near here. He sustained a fractured skull, a broken left arm, and two breaks in the left leg. The motorist who struck him stopped and offered assistance. Police reported no arrests.

Bud Milan, employe on the junior high school building, sustained a cut in the right foot when he fell through a window pane at the school today. He is in a hospital here.

G. E. Drake, railroad fireman, fell into a pool of hot oil while fighting fire at the Breckenridge Gasoline plant this afternoon. He was severely burned. Loss from the fire was estimated at $2,000.

D. E. Pulley, telegraph operator, was in a Ranger hospital as the result of an accident on the Ranger-Breckenridge highway this afternoon, according to word received here by his wife. Mr. Pulley suffered a broken collar bone, internal injuries and fractures of both legs. Details of the accident were not learned.

Atheism Association Is Refused Charter

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 31. (UP)—The American association for the advancement of atheism lost its second fight to obtain a state charter today by definition of the word "education." Richard Parks, state secretary of the order, said, "We seek to teach the people there is no supreme being by helping them in the study of science, biology, history, psychology and economic"

Service to Begin in October On Air Line Through Wichita Falls to West

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (AP)—Regular airplane service between Fort Worth and Dallas and West Texas probably will start in October, Gary E. Prebenson, president of the newly organized American Air Transport company of Dallas, said here today.

The line would extend from Dallas in a loop circuit to Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Plainview and Lubbock, and by a southern route from Dallas and Fort Worth, Abilene, San Angelo, Midland and Lubbock. Lubbock would be the terminus of both lines.

Ten planes, he added will be used on the twin route, two leaving Dallas, Fort Worth and Lubbock each day, and arrangements for landing fields have been made at the cities named.

Connection with the California line of the Maddux company will be made at Lubbock. The Pacific coast line will touch at Amarillo, El Paso and Phoenix, terminating at Los Angeles.

The American Air Transport company will offer a rate of 10 cents a mile, Prebenson predicted.

Mexican Kidnapers Threaten to Kill American Held for Huge Ransom

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (US)—Mexican bandits have kidnaped E. J. Bumsted, an American mining engineer and are holding him for a ransom of 20,000 pesos, the state department was advised today. Bumsted's home is in Los Angeles.

The first report of the kidnaping which took place Aug. 25, at Ixtlan del Rio, in the state of Nayarit, was made today by Edward P. Lowry, American consul at Guadalajara.

At the same time Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City was assured by the Mexican foreign office that everything possible would be done to effect Bumsted's release, the department announced.

Later, however, information was received here from William P. Blocher, consul at Mazatlan, that the bandits had informed him that the ransom should be paid at Santa Fe, adding that they would kill Bumsted if an attempt is made to rescue him.

Blocher notified both the governor and chief of military operations in Nayarit, and was promised their cooperation, he told the department. What plan, if any, had been decided on was not stated.

FAST LIVING WRECKS NERVES

Sleep Expert Advises More Relaxation

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (US)—Shattered nerves is the price Americans pay for their fast pace toward mental and physical achievement, according to Dr. Edmund Jacobson, University of Chicago expert on sleep and relaxation.

Although this fast pace has made America the fastest nation in accomplishment of high enterprises, Dr. Jacobson declared it is debatable just how much good this nation actually derives from the fast pace of living to which it aspires. Sleep, he said, is the great healer, but people who are of a nervous disposition rarely get enough sleep to recompense for the energy they have spent in the day time, or in their waking hours.

"Relaxation is a great healer," Dr. Jacobson said, "but how few people know how to relax. Relaxation is as difficult to learn as is piano playing, or the intricate evolutions of the waltz. Months and months of training and practice are necessary to learn relaxation. But once it is accomplished, even such vicious diseases as bleeding ulcers of the stomach may be controlled, if not cured.

"The average American goes at top speed for 16 hours a day. That is not right, physiologically speaking, for the last eight hours of that day probably use up more energy than do the other eight hours."

It is the belief of Dr. Jacobson that almost all non-organic ills can be remedied through the medium of relaxation.

The question of sleep and its proper function is not yet answered, Dr. Jacobson said. He has spent 20 years in the study of sleep and relaxation.

Subject of Kaiser Bill Says Court Can't Hurt Him

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (US)—Now Hans Michael Kohler is a loyal subject of his erstwhile majesty, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, lately kaiser of the Prussians and emperor of the Germans. He said so in an interview with his honor, William Gemmill, judge of Cook county courts.

Furthermore, Hans Michael Kohler is sufficiently loyal to his erstwhile majesty that his honor can't do a thing about his conduct while in Chicago. This he also stated in the interview.

The interview took place when Kohler was ordered to show why he should not pay temporary allimony pending trial of his divorce suit.

He objected most vociferously against his honor taking jurisdiction. He said: "I have a drag with the ruling political party of Germany. I also am a loyal citizen of the kaiser, even if he is in exile. Your courts cannot do anything to a good German citizen, and when my case comes up for trial I am going to have the German ambassador from Washington to represent me.

"When he comes here he'll show you that your court can't hurt me any. He'll stand up for the rights of a German citizen."

And the interview being over, his honor, to the mortification of Hans Michael Kohler, completely ignored the ruling political party of Germany, and the kaiser, and the ambassador, and even Mr. Kohler and entered a judgment against him.

Which he will probably pay.

Hearst Predicts Smith's Defeat

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (INS)—William Randolph Hearst, in a cablegram published today in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle predicted the defeat of Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the November election. The cablegram from the publisher, who is in France, was in response to a request from the Eagle that he tell his preference for president and give his idea of the issue that will determine the campaign.

"I do not think the Democrats will be successful in this campaign on the anti-prohibition issue which Mr. Smith injected into the campaign after he received the nomination," said Mr. Hearst. The publisher said prohibition is a false issue. The real issue, which he said he thinks the citizens of the country realize clearly is "the question of their personal wealth and welfare, their material and spiritual benefit."

Cal Is Protected From Forest Fire

CEDAR ISLAND LODGE, Wis., Aug. 31. (UP)—With the approach of the season for forest fires, added precautions are being taken to safeguard the summer White House, where President Coolidge and his family are vacationing, from the danger of destruction.

The lodge is located in the center of a heavily-timbered county.

A corps of district rangers, under Roy Hassett of the conservation commission, is constantly on the alert in the Brule river region for a timber conflagration. Additional equipment has been placed on hand for emergency use.

The most effective manner of combatting Wisconsin timber fires is with portable pumps, according to experienced members of the conservation commission. These pumps form a nucleus of the paraphernalia made available to protect the vacation residence of President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Boy King of Rumania Receives Polish Chief

VIENNA, Aug. 31. (UP)—The boy King Michael granted an audience to the veteran Polish statesman Marshal Josef Pilsudski today, according to despatches from Constanza, the summer palace. Marshal Pilsudski is spending his vacation in Rumania.

FARMERS' DAY AT C-C MEET

Hereford Organization To Stage Luncheon

Special to The Record News.

HEREFORD, Texas, Aug. 31.—Monday, September 3, will be farmer-merchant day at the chamber of commerce luncheon. Approximately 100 of Deaf Smith county's leading farmers and stock raisers have been invited as special guests of business men of this city. Reservation are being made for around 200 for the weekly luncheon, which will be held in the basement of the First Methodist church.

In addition to the get-together and good will feature of the luncheon, S. O. Wilson, prominent dairy-farmer, will give a detailed report of his recent dairy trip through Mississippi and Tennessee, where he was accompanied by leading dairymen and bankers of other West Texas towns. Financing of condenseries, milk plants, cheese factories, creameries, etc., were studied by the members of this tour which was staged by the Fort Worth and Denver railway through its agricultural agent, M. B. Oates, of Wichita Falls. Prof. George P. Grout, vocational teacher and dairy cattle breeding expert of Panhandle has also been asked to attend the luncheon.

The problem of proper marketing facilities for Deaf Smith county's large dairy production is receiving much attention of the local chamber of commerce at this time. Figures compiled recently by cream stations of this city showed more than $1,200 being paid for dairy products in a single day.

Tightening of Bond Laws To Be Asked

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (AP)—Strengthening of laws governing release on bond of accused persons will be sought in a bill, District Attorney William McGraw will attempt to have introduced in the next legislature, he said here today. The measure would require sureties on a bond to list properties of sufficient value, and also provide that the bond constitute superior lien until the case is disposed of.

Rail Commissioner To Greet Demo Nominee

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31.—Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith will be one of the members of the reception committee at the Labor day entertainment to be given Senator Joseph Robinson, vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party, at Dallas.

Smith was invited by August W. Schulz, secretary of the Dallas Labor council.

LIKES DEMO FARM PLANK

Hoover Supporter Says Demo Plan Best

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 31. (UP)—"Senator Joseph T. Robinson is the one candidate of the four who offers something definite and tangible in the way of agricultural relief," Gov. Adam McMullen said today.

McMullen said Robinson "understands the agricultural question," and could be depended upon, if he were at the head of the ticket, "to promote legislation that would afford economic farm relief at the time it is most needed." In answer to a bombardment of questions, McMullen said that taken altogether the Democratic party had the best position on the farm situation. This was brought about by Robinson's speech, he said. He refused, however, to alter his previous stand favoring Herbert Hoover.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 31. (UP)—Governor McMullen received a communication today inviting him to be candidate for president on a new party ticket. The party is to be called "The American Home party," and is being organized by Conrad Reno, Springfield, Mass.

Reno said the nation needed a candidate pledged to farm relief and nationwide prohibition.

Ant Capable of Killing Weevils Thought Found

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (AP)—A pest whose depredations has cost southern planters millions of dollars is due for extermination, if Jesse Tucker of Garland, near here, is correct. Tucker thinks he has discovered a species of ant capable of annihilating the boll weevil, a thorn in the side of cotton growers for half a century.

Former Demo Nominee Praises Al's Ability

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for president in 1924, expressed opinion today in a letter to Frank L. Polk, former under secretary of state, that Governor Smith has had training for the duties of the presidency such as very few occupants of that office have possessed.

Death Strikes Family Twice in Same Day

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 31. (UP)—Faith Taylor, 3, had too much acid in her blood. She lay fretfully crying in her parents' home at Baliston, Va. near here.

Her mother gave her some medicine from a bottle, then impatiently went to the door to see if the doctor was coming.

Vernon Taylor, 18 months, toddled near his sister's crib. He picked up the bottle and drank. Some of the medicine clogged his windpipe. He fell choking.

The mother took both children to a hospital here. Faith died yesterday morning. Vernon died last night.

VOTE PLANNED IN NICARAGUA

Election Not to Be Conducted on Military Lines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—Extensive preparations to assure a smooth run-off of the Nicaraguan presidential election in November are being made by the United States, and the organization of the American electoral mission there is not to be conducted along military lines, despite the presence of 5,200 American marines, it was said at the state department today.

The electoral mission, which will have full power to direct the election, has now taken form headed by Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, President Coolidge's personal representative, who will act as chairman.

A chairman and a staff of assistants, all army, marine or navy officers, will have charge of the election run-off in each of Nicaragua's 13 departments. A small marine force will be assigned to each chairman for policing.

The election will take place Nov. 4, and on Dec. 15 the Nicaraguan congress, under constitutional law, will be notified officially of the election results.

In his latest communication to the state department concerning progress of election preparations, Minister Eberhardt said "preparations for the election are proceeding thus far in a highly satisfactory manner."

The two main parties, the Liberal and the Conservative, have each named a national board approved by the American supervisory officials, to cooperate with them in assuring a fair election.

Schools for study of Spanish and electoral regulations have been established in each capital of the 13 departments for the benefit of the American electoral officials.

Political Indications Put Tennessee Safely on Democratic Side This Year

CHAS. S. HAYDEN
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—While most political prognosticators put Tennessee in the doubtful column this year, there are indications that, barring a political revolution, it may be counted upon as safely Democratic. The only time Tennessee has gone Republican in a presidential election since reconstruction days was in 1920, when the late President Harding carried it by 19,000. President Coolidge could not hold it in 1924, and there are sound reasons for believing that Secretary Hoover will be unable to do so.

In the first place, the state is normally Democratic by from 30,000 to 40,000. Harding's victory was due to a combination of circumstances, not the least of which was a serious schism in the ranks of the Democrats. At the same time the Republicans were united and they were able to capitalize a very considerable anti-League of Nations sentiment prevailing among Democrats.

This year these conditions are reversed. It is the Republicans which are divided and the Democrats united. In spite of a bitter Democratic primary contest, held early in August, in which the contending factions were as abusive to one another as it is possible to be, it now appears that the fight is over. The defeated candidate for the gubernatorial nomination has announced his support of the ticket, and the Nashville Banner, one of the most influential newspapers of the state, which backed him, has taken a like position and come out for Governor Smith in a double column first page editorial. Senator K. D. McKellar, who won his renomination over Finis J. Garrett, did so without bitterness. McKellar is a life-long prohibitionist, both practicing and professing, and is extremely popular with his constituents.

On the other hand the Republicans are rent and torn asunder. For the last eight years there has been an active feud between the followers of Representative J. Will Taylor, Republican national committeeman, and those of Claudius H. Huston, former assistant secretary of commerce. Huston hails from Chattanooga and was charged with the duty of raising the Harding campaign fund in Tennessee, demonstrating marked ability in that line. While in the department of commerce he was one of Secretary Hoover's right hand men and has never lost that contact. It was Huston who raised the $10,000 which Rush Holland admitted before a senatorial committee he used in winning the support of negro leaders in southern states for Secretary Hoover in the pre-convention campaign.

So far as is known, however, none of this money was used in Tennessee. In fact, Congressman Taylor was among the early arrivals on the Hoover band wagon, clambering aboard about the first of the year. He is supposed to have had an understanding, however, that, in the event of Hoover's election, Taylor's control of patronage in the Volunteer state would not be disturbed. Maybe he had that and maybe not, but it is significant that since the convention Taylor and his faction have been ignored. Paul J. Kreust, close friend and associate of Huston, has been selected as financial director for Tennessee, while Horace Mann, Washington lawyer, but generally aligned with Huston in Tennessee politics, was chosen to direct the Republican campaign in the South.

R. R. Church, negro Republican boss of Memphis, one of Taylor's lieutenants, has refused to serve on the negro auxiliary committee to the Republican campaign committee which Dr. Work recently appointed. Then at a recent meeting of the state committee, Hal Clements, retiring chairman and for years an associate of Congressman Taylor, denounced the action of the national committee in sending Representative W. E. Evans of California to manage the Republican campaign in Tennessee. Clements said the Republicans of the state bitterly resented it as another attempt to foist "carpet bag rule" on Tennessee and the South. Congressman Taylor professes to have broken with Clements. Maybe he has and then again maybe he is meeting what he conceives to be duplicity with duplicity. Party regularity is highly important among the Republicans in Tennessee, and certainly Congressman Taylor, as national committeeman, could not afford to sacrifice it.

Then there is another factor. The big Republican vote of Tennessee is located in the eastern end of the state, the mountainous section. Moonshining is and for generations has been a thriving industry, which is another way of saying there is considerable "wet" sentiment, and Governor Smith may be expected to receive a larger Republican vote in East Tennessee than has been given to any Democratic candidate in a generation. Such strength as Secretary Hoover may have gained by reason of his services during the Mississippi flood last year is restricted largely to the western borders of the state, where the Democratic majorities are overwhelming.

BYRD HOP NO LURE TO WOMEN

Fair Sex Too Comfort-Loving, Says Explorer

By CORINNE RICH

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The spirit of adventure may urge men forward today to explore and conquer new worlds, as it did in the time of Columbus. But sailing uncharted seas and exploring unknown lands has about as much appeal to the average woman of the twentieth century as a trip to the moon.

She's a practical, comfort-loving creature. She wants a bathtub and a radiator for her lot in life. What's more, she thinks men are silly to leave home and family for the rigors and certain inconveniences of exploration.

This fact has come home to Commander Richard E. Byrd during the preparations for his forthcoming antarctic expedition. Not that his own women-folk aren't "with him" heart and soul—they are used to his history-making wanderings and are justly proud of them.

But women in general, he said today, are but slightly interested in the adventurous voyage that has focused the attention of the world of men.

"Women think this is a foolish stunt," the commander remarked.

This lack of feminine moral support has extended to matters of finance, too. Contributions to the Byrd expedition from members of the fair sex were negligible.

Rochester Schools To Open on Sept. 10

ROCHESTER, Aug. 31.—The Rochester schools will open September 10. The faculty for the coming year includes Supt. A. M. McMinn, J. B. Floyd, Miss Elizabeth Morgan, Willie Yarborough, Elsie Thomas, Mary Sue Nance, Mrs. Clyde McDonald, D. L. Ligon, Mrs. D. L. Ligon, Lura Belle Ramsey, Mrs. Hob Smith, Adelaide Hicks. The school has eight affiliated credits and more will be added this term.

Vernon Pastor Heads Baptist Association

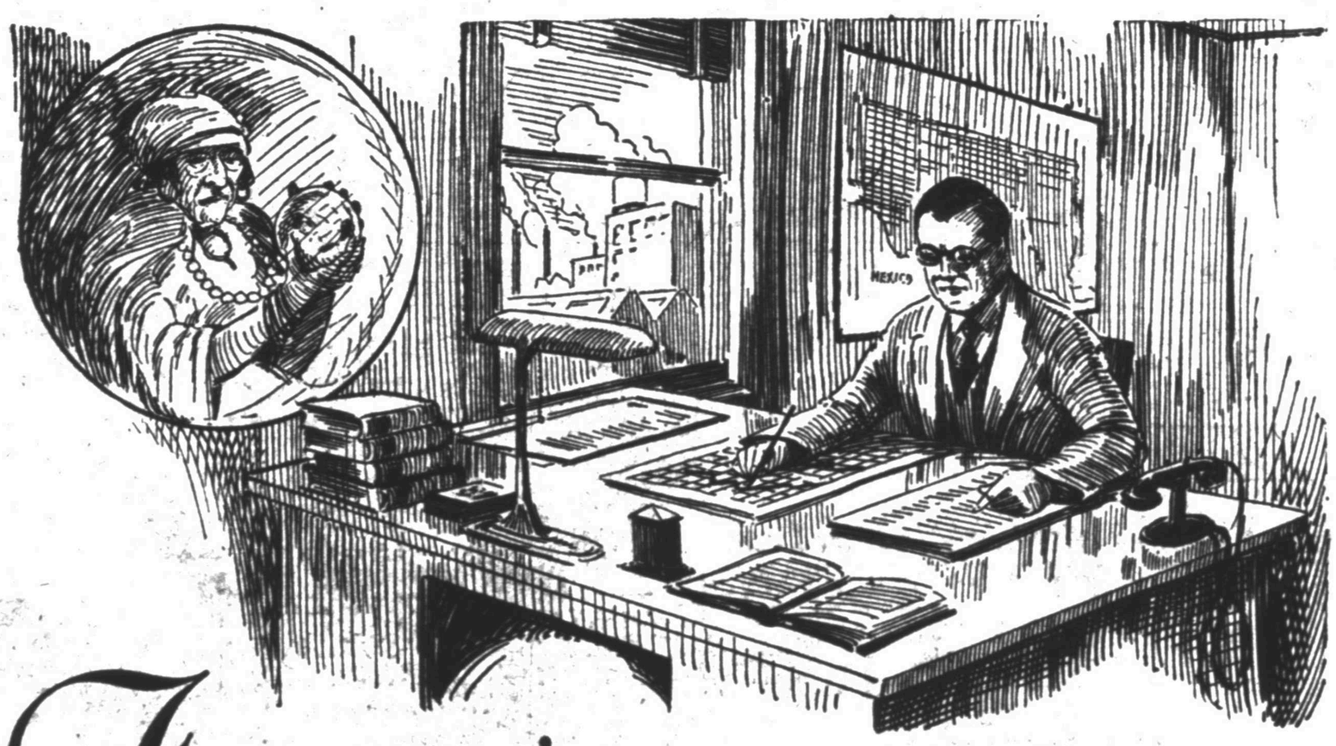

VERNON, Aug. 31.—Rev. E. F. Lyon, pastor of the Vernon church, was re-elected moderator of the Wilbarger-Foard Baptist association Wednesday at the second day of the three-day annual session which closed Thursday at Lockett. Other officers of the association were re-elected also.

The officers are: Rev. Frank McNair of Lockett, clerk, and S. C. Hogsett of Vernon, treasurer.

Travel Fatigue Quickly Relieved

Long train or motor trips in hot weather cause the nerves to become strained and upset, resulting in nervous headaches, sleepless nights and general fatigue.

To avoid this take a bottle of Capudine with you on your trips. Two teaspoonfuls in a little water will quickly soothe the nerves, bring delightful relief from pain, restlessness and fatigue. Capudine is safe and being liquid, acts almost instantly. At all drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

Forecasting a Greater Southwest

Men once consulted fortune tellers, soothsayers and other mystics when they wished to anticipate the future. But today those Southwesterners who expect their home territory to show a prosperous development are studying its past and present record and measuring its capacity for growth.

As the acorn carries within itself the pattern for the growth of the oak, so the young Southwest carries within itself the pattern of the Greater Southwest to come.

Agriculture forms a firm foundation for future growth of the Southwest, as shown in the value of the agricultural crops for 1927 of one billion, three hundred seventy-three million dollars. The largest single factor in this total is the cotton crop, which represents over one-half the cotton crop of the United States. Second in importance to agriculture in the Southwest are the mineral resources, of which the petroleum industry alone developed 593,022,000 barrels in 1927.

In addition to its petroleum deposits the Southwest offers a basis for future industry in mineral resources, which include vast deposits of sulphur, lignite, potash, valuable salts, coal and precious metals.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has a common cause with the other industries and institutions which are building the Greater Southwest. The company was organized in 1911 and began business in a small way, growing as its opportunities developed. It now represents an investment of millions of dollars and pays approximately eight millions of dollars in taxes each year to the treasuries of Southwestern States.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has approximately 15,000 employees, with an annual payroll of over $25,000,000. It has five refineries, and owns and operates many gasoline plants. Magnolia Pipe Line Company owns and operates over 3,000 miles of trunk pipe lines and over 1,900 miles of gathering lines. Magnolia Gas Company owns and operates more than 600 miles of gas line with a capacity of over 100,000,000 cubic feet daily.

These facts tell the story of but one company in one of the growing industries of the Southwest. Similar facts concerning other institutions and industries which prove the industrial health and show the industrial opportunity of the Southwest could be quoted in numbers which would dull the imagination. The resources of the Southwest are beyond reckoning. The determination of the Southwest to develop a Greater Southwest is set. The Magnolia Petroleum Company welcomes new industries which find their opportunity here, and reasserts its belief in the Southwest as a land of great opportunity for wise industrial investment.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company produces, refines and distributes Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline, Magnolene Motor Oils and Lubricants and regular Magnolia Gasoline and related products constituting a complete line of petroleum products.

FAST LIVING WRECKS NERVES

Sleep Expert Advises More Relaxation

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (US)—Shattered nerves is the price Americans pay for their fast pace toward mental and physical achievement, according to Dr. Edmund Jacobson, University of Chicago expert on sleep and relaxation.

Although this fast pace has made America the fastest nation in accomplishment of high enterprises, Dr. Jacobson declared it is debatable just how much good this nation actually derives from the fast pace of living to which it aspires. Sleep, he said, is the great healer, but people who are of a nervous disposition rarely get enough sleep to recompense for the energy they have spent in the day time, or in their waking hours.

"Relaxation is a great healer," Dr. Jacobson said, "but how few people know how to relax. Relaxation is as difficult to learn as is piano playing, or the intricate evolutions of the waltz. Months and months of training and practice are necessary to learn relaxation. But once it is accomplished, even such vicious diseases as bleeding ulcers of the stomach may be controlled, if not cured.

"The average American goes at top speed for 16 hours a day. That is not right, physiologically speaking, for the last eight hours of that day probably use up more energy than do the other eight hours."

It is the belief of Dr. Jacobson that almost all non-organic ills can be remedied through the medium of relaxation.

The question of sleep and its proper function is not yet answered, Dr. Jacobson said. He has spent 20 years in the study of sleep and relaxation.

Subject of Kaiser Bill Says Court Can't Hurt Him

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (US)—Now Hans Michael Kohler is a loyal subject of his erstwhile majesty, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, lately kaiser of the Prussians and emperor of the Germans. He said so in an interview with his honor, William Gemmill, judge of Cook county courts.

Furthermore, Hans Michael Kohler is sufficiently loyal to his erstwhile majesty that his honor can't do a thing about his conduct while in Chicago. This he also stated in the interview.

The interview took place when Kohler was ordered to show why he should not pay temporary alimony pending trial of his divorce suit.

He objected most vociferously against his honor taking jurisdiction. He said: "I have a drag with the ruling political party of Germany. I also am a loyal citizen of the kaiser, even if he is in exile. Your courts cannot do anything to a good German citizen, and when my case comes up for trial I am going to have the German ambassador from Washington to represent me.

"When he comes here he'll show you that your court can't hurt me any. He'll stand up for the rights of a German citizen."

And the interview being over, his honor, to the mortification of Hans Michael Kohler, completely ignored the ruling political party of Germany, and the kaiser, and the ambassador, and even Mr. Kohler and entered a judgment against him.

Which he will probably pay.

Hearst Predicts Smith's Defeat

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (INS)—William Randolph Hearst, in a cablegram published today in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle predicted the defeat of Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the November election. The cablegram from the publisher, who is in France, was in response to a request from the Eagle that he tell his preference for president and give his idea of the issue that will determine the campaign.

"I do not think the Democrats will be successful in this campaign on the anti-prohibition issue which Mr. Smith injected into the campaign after he received the nomination," said Mr. Hearst. The publisher said prohibition is a false issue. The real issue, which he said he thinks the citizens of the country realize clearly is "the question of their personal wealth and welfare, their material and spiritual benefit."

Six-Foot Shark In Eng[illegible] Channel

DEAL, Eng., Aug. 31. (UP)—Channel swimming fans got a big shock here today when fishermen caught a six-foot shark in a net after a long and hard battle. The shark was caught in midchannel. Annie Meynell and Alexander Bakker, both of whom started to swim the channel Wednesday, quit about half way across.

Machine Gun Bandits Rob Denver Messenger

DENVER, Aug. 31. (AP)—Armed with a machine gun and a sawed off shotgun, three robbers in an automobile, robbed two money messengers for the Piggly-Wiggly stores of $1,650.

The messengers were Bert Collins, retired Denver policeman and his son, Tommy, also a former policeman.

Cal Is Protected From Forest Fire

CEDAR ISLAND LODGE, Wis., Aug. 31. (UP)—With the approach of the season for forest fires, added precautions are being taken to safeguard the summer White House, where President Coolidge and his family are vacationing, from the danger of destruction.

The lodge is located in the center of a heavily-timbered county.

A corps of district rangers, under Roy Hassett of the conservation commission, is constantly on the alert in the Brule river region for a timber conflagration. Additional equipment has been placed on hand for emergency use.

The most effective manner of combatting Wisconsin timber fires is with portable pumps, according to experienced members of the conservation commission. These pumps form a nucleus of the paraphernalia made available to protect the vacation residence of President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Boy King of Rumania Receives Polish Chief

VIENNA, Aug. 31. (UP)—The boy King Michael granted an audience to the veteran Polish statesman Marshal Josef Pilsudski today, according to despatches from Constanza, the summer palace. Marshal Pilsudski is spending his vacation in Rumania.

FARMERS' DAY AT C-C MEET

Hereford Organization To Stage Luncheon

Special to The Record News.

HEREFORD, Texas, Aug. 31.—Monday, September 3, will be farmer-merchant day at the chamber of commerce luncheon. Approximately 100 of Deaf Smith county's leading farmers and stock raisers have been invited as special guests of business men of this city. Reservation are being made for around 200 for the weekly luncheon, which will be held in the basement of the First Methodist church.

In addition to the get-together and good will feature of the luncheon, S. O. Wilson, prominent dairy-farmer, will give a detailed report of his recent dairy trip through Mississippi and Tennessee, where he was accompanied by leading dairymen and bankers of other West Texas towns. Financing of condenseries, milk plants, cheese factories, creameries, etc., were studied by the members of this tour which was staged by the Fort Worth and Denver railway through its agricultural agent, M. B. Oates, of Wichita Falls. Prof. George P. Grout, vocational teacher and dairy cattle breeding expert of Panhandle has also been asked to attend the luncheon.

The problem of proper marketing facilities for Deaf Smith county's large dairy production is receiving much attention of the local chamber of commerce at this time. Figures compiled recently by cream stations of this city showed more than $1,200 being paid for dairy products in a single day.

Tightening of Bond Laws To Be Asked

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (AP)—Strengthening of laws governing release on bond of accused persons will be sought in a bill, District Attorney William McGraw will attempt to have introduced in the next legislature, he said here today. The measure would require sureties on a bond to list properties of sufficient value, and also provide that the bond constitute superior lien until the case is disposed of.

Rail Commissioner To Greet Demo Nominee

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31.—Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith will be one of the members of the reception committee at the Labor day entertainment to be given Senator Joseph Robinson, vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party, at Dallas.

Smith was invited by August W. Schulz, secretary of the Dallas Labor council.

Former Demo Nominee Praises Al's Ability

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for president in 1924, expressed opinion today in a letter to Frank L. Polk, former under secretary of state, that Governor Smith has had training for the duties of the presidency such as very few occupants of that office have possessed.

Death Strikes Family Twice in Same Day

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 31. (UP)—Faith Taylor, 3, had too much acid in her blood. She lay fretfully crying in her parents' home at Ballston, Va. near here.

Her mother gave her some medicine from a bottle, then impatiently went to the door to see if the doctor was coming.

Vernon Taylor, 18 months, toddled near his sister's crib. He picked up the bottle and drank. Some of the medicine clogged his windpipe. He fell choking.

The mother took both children to a hospital here. Faith died yesterday morning. Vernon died last night.

VOTE PLANNED IN NICARAGUA

Election Not to Be Conducted on Military Lines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—Extensive preparations to assure a smooth run-off of the Nicaraguan presidential election in November are being made by the United States, and the organization of the American electoral mission there is not to be conducted along military lines, despite the presence of 5,200 American marines, it was said at the state department today.

The electoral mission, which will have full power to direct the election, has now taken form headed by Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, President Coolidge's personal representative, who will act as chairman.

A chairman and a staff of assistants, all army, marine or navy officers, will have charge of the election run-off in each of Nicaragua's 13 departments. A small marine force will be assigned to each chairman for policing.

The election will take place Nov. 4, and on Dec. 15 the Nicaraguan congress, under constitutional law, will be notified officially of the election results.

In his latest communication to the state department concerning progress of election preparations, Minister Eberhardt said "preparations for the election are proceeding thus far in a highly satisfactory manner."

The two main parties, the Liberal and the Conservative, have each named a national board approved by the American supervisory officials, to cooperate with them in assuring a fair election.

Schools for study of Spanish and electoral regulations have been established in each capital of the 13 departments for the benefit of the American electoral officials.

Cornerstone Laid for Littlefield College

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 31.—The cornerstone of the Littlefield college was laid Friday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. Mayor Otto Jones of this city opened the meeting with appropriate remarks. He was followed by Judge E. A. Bills, John R. Freeman, president of the college responded with an interesting speech in which he outlined the aims and plans of the school. Mayor Jones threw in the first shovelful of mortar, and President Freeman the second. All arrangements have been completed for opening the college work on September 25 as originally planned, though it will be some months before the buildings are all completed.

Woman Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Denver, Colo.—"I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and will take more. I am taking it as a tonic to help me through the Change of Life and I am telling many of my friends to take it as I found nothing before this to help me. I had so many bad feelings at night that I could not sleep and for two years I could not go down town because I was afraid of falling. My mother took the Vegetable Compound years ago with good results and now I am taking it during the Change of Life and recommend it."—Mrs. T. A. MILLER, 1611 Adams Street, Denver, Colorado.

Political Indications Put Tennessee Safely on Democratic Side This Year

CHAS. S. HAYDEN
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—While most political prognosticators put Tennessee in the doubtful column this year, there are indications that, barring a political revolution, it may be counted upon as safely Democratic. The only time Tennessee has gone Republican in a presidential election since reconstruction days was in 1920, when the late President Harding carried it by 19,000. President Coolidge could not hold it in 1924, and there are sound reasons for believing that Secretary Hoover will be unable to do so.

In the first place, the state is normally Democratic by from 30,000 to 40,000. Harding's victory was due to a combination of circumstances, not the least of which was a serious schism in the ranks of the Democrats. At the same time the Republicans were united and they were able to capitalize a very considerable anti-League of Nations sentiment prevailing among Democrats.

This year these conditions are reversed. It is the Republicans which are divided and the Democrats united. In spite of a bitter Democratic primary contest, held early in August, in which the contending factions were as abusive to one another as it is possible to be, it now appears that the fight is over. The defeated candidate for the gubernatorial nomination has announced his support of the ticket, and the Nashville Banner, one of the most influential newspapers of the state, which backed him, has taken a like position and come out for Governor Smith in a double column first page editorial. Senator K. D. McKellar, who won his renomination over Elmer J. Garrett, did so without bitterness. McKellar is a life-long prohibitionist, both practicing and professing, and is extremely popular with his constituents.

On the other hand the Republicans are rent and torn asunder. For the last eight years there has been an active feud between the followers of Representative J. Will Taylor, Republican national committeeman, and those of Claudius H. Huston, former assistant secretary of commerce. Huston hails from Chattanooga and was charged with the duty of raising the Harding campaign fund in Tennessee, demonstrating marked ability in that line. While in the department of commerce he was one of Secretary Hoover's right hand men and has never lost that contact. It was Huston who raised the $10,000 which Rush Holland admitted before a senatorial committee he used in winning the support of negro leaders in southern states for Secretary Hoover in the pre-convention campaign.

So far as is known, however, none of this money was used in Tennessee. In fact, Congressman Taylor was among the early arrivals on the Hoover band wagon, clambering aboard about the first of the year. He is supposed to have had an understanding, however, that, in the event of Hoover's election, Taylor's control of patronage in the Volunteer state would not be disturbed. Maybe he had that and maybe not, but it is significant that since the convention Taylor and his faction have been ignored. Paul J. Kreusi, close friend and associate of Huston, has been selected as financial director for Tennessee, while Horace Mann, Washington lawyer, but generally aligned with Huston in Tennessee politics, was chosen to direct the Republican campaign in the South.

R. R. Church, negro Republican boss of Memphis, one of Taylor's lieutenants, has refused to serve on the negro auxiliary committee to the Republican campaign committee which Dr. Work recently appointed. Then at a recent meeting of the state committee, Hal Clements, retiring chairman and for years an associate of Congressman Taylor, denounced the action of the national committee in sending Representative W. E. Evans of California to manage the Republican campaign in Tennessee. Clements said the Republicans of the state bitterly resented it as another attempt to foist "carpet bag rule" on Tennessee and the South. Congressman Taylor professes to have broken with Clements. Maybe he has and then again maybe he is meeting what he conceives to be duplicity with duplicity. Party regularity is highly important among the Republicans in Tennessee, and certainly Congressman Taylor, as national committeeman, could not afford to sacrifice it.

Then there is another factor. The big Republican vote of Tennessee is located in the eastern end of the state, the mountainous section. Moonshining is and for generations has been a thriving industry, which is another way of saying there is considerable "wet" sentiment, and Governor Smith may be expected to receive a larger Republican vote in East Tennessee than has been given to any Democratic candidate in a generation. Such strength as Secretary Hoover may have gained by reason of his services during the Mississippi flood last year is restricted largely to the western borders of the state, where the Democratic majorities are overwhelming.

BYRD HOP NO LURE TO WOMEN

Fair Sex Too Comfort-Loving, Says Explorer

By CORINNE RICH

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The spirit of adventure may urge men forward today to explore and conquer new worlds, as it did in the time of Columbus. But sailing uncharted seas and exploring unknown lands has about as much appeal to the average woman of the twentieth century as a trip to the moon.

She's a practical, comfort-loving creature. She wants a bathtub and a radiator for her lot in life. What's more, she thinks men are silly to leave home and family for the rigors and certain inconveniences of exploration.

This fact has come home to Commander Richard E. Byrd during the preparations for his forthcoming antarctic expedition. Not that his own women-folk aren't "with him" heart and soul—they are used to his history-making wanderings and are justly proud of them.

But women in general, he said today, are but slightly interested in the adventurous voyage that has focused the attention of the world of men.

"Women think this is a foolish stunt," the commander remarked.

This lack of feminine moral support has extended to matters of finance, too. Contributions to the Byrd expedition from members of the fair sex were negligible.

Rochester Schools To Open on Sept. 10

ROCHESTER, Aug. 31.—The Rochester schools will open September 10. The faculty for the coming year includes Supt. A. M. McMinn, J. B. Floyd, Miss Elizabeth Morgan, Willie Yarborough, Elsie Thomas, Mary Sue Nance, Mrs. Clyde McDonald, D. L. Ligon, Mrs. D. L. Ligon, Lura Belle Ramsey, Mrs. Hob Smith, Adelaide Hicks. The school has eight affiliated credits and more will be added this term.

Vernon Pastor Heads Baptist Association

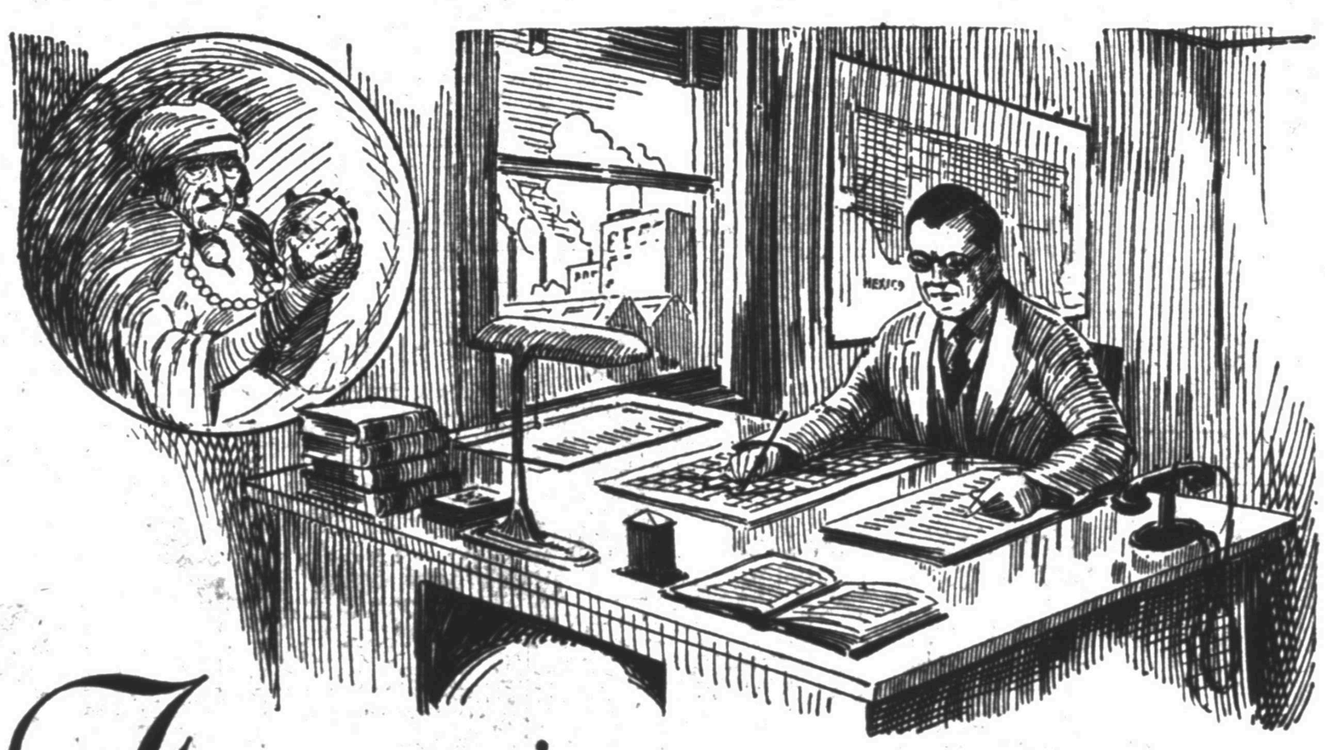

VERNON, Aug. 31.—Rev. E. F. Lyon, pastor of the Vernon church, was re-elected moderator of the Wilbarger-Foard Baptist association Wednesday at the second day of the three-day annual session which closed Thursday at Lockett. Other officers of the association were re-elected also.

The officers are: Rev. Frank McNair of Lockett, clerk, and S. C. Hogsett of Vernon, treasurer.

Travel Fatigue Quickly Relieved

Long train or motor trips in hot weather cause the nerves to become strained and upset, resulting in nervous headaches, sleepless nights and general fatigue.

To avoid this take a bottle of Capudine with you on your trips. Two teaspoonfuls in a little water will quickly soothe the nerves, bring delightful relief from pain, restlessness and fatigue. Capudine is safe and being liquid, acts almost instantly. At all drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

Forecasting a Greater Southwest

Men once consulted fortune tellers, soothsayers and other mystics when they wished to anticipate the future. But today those Southwesterners who expect their home territory to show a prosperous development are studying its past and present record and measuring its capacity for growth.

As the acorn carries within itself the pattern for the growth of the oak, so the young Southwest carries within itself the pattern of the Greater Southwest to come.

Agriculture forms a firm foundation for future growth of the Southwest, as shown in the value of the agricultural crops for 1927 of one billion, three hundred seventy-three million dollars. The largest single factor in this total is the cotton crop, which represents over one-half the cotton crop of the United States. Second in importance to agriculture in the Southwest are the mineral resources, of which the petroleum industry alone developed 593,022,000 barrels in 1927.

In addition to its petroleum deposits the Southwest offers a basis for future industry in mineral resources, which include vast deposits of sulphur, lignite, potash, valuable salts, coal and precious metals.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has a common cause with the other industries and institutions which are building the Greater Southwest. The company was organized in 1911 and began business in a small way, growing as its opportunities developed. It now represents an investment of millions of dollars and pays approximately eight millions of dollars in taxes each year to the treasuries of Southwestern States.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has approximately 15,000 employees, with an annual payroll of over $25,000,000. It has five refineries, and owns and operates many gasoline plants. Magnolia Pipe Line Company owns and operates over 3,000 miles of trunk pipe lines and over 1,900 miles of gathering lines. Magnolia Gas Company owns and operates more than 600 miles of gas line with a capacity of over 100,000,000 cubic feet daily.

These facts tell the story of but one company in one of the growing industries of the Southwest. Similar facts concerning other institutions and industries which prove the industrial health and show the industrial opportunity of the Southwest could be quoted in numbers which would dull the imagination. The resources of the Southwest are beyond reckoning. The determination of the Southwest to develop a Greater Southwest is set. The Magnolia Petroleum Company welcomes new industries which find their opportunity here, and reasserts its belief in the Southwest as a land of great opportunity for wise industrial investment.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company produces, refines and distributes Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline, Magnolene Motor Oils and Lubricants and regular Magnolia Gasoline and related products constituting a complete line of petroleum products.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Eight o'clock, the sun is scorching and already eight children have collected outside the door with their luggage. One little girl has a brand new wicker suitcase, which she hangs on to with care; another has an ancient telescope with worn straps and an Adams Express company label stuck on the top.

A little boy appears with a ticking pillow slip containing all his possessions slung over his shoulder like a little Santa Claus with his pack, only instead of long hair and a flowing beard, his head is shaven close. His best friend comes along.

"Look," he says and points to his feet—"new sneaks me brudder bought me." And then he whispers, "He's a bootlegger."

These early arrivals, free and independent, are starting off on their vacations alone, but as time ambles along toward 9 o'clock the travelers who appear are accompanied by adoring mothers, older sisters and brothers, or in some cases whole families carrying bundles, bags and suitcases.

"I got a quarter to spend."

"My mother put vinegar on my head this morning."

"We always use kerosene."

"You go swimmin' every day in the country."

"There's a camp fire every Friday night."

"You don't have to eat cereal for breakfast if you don't like it."

"Don't go in deep water, Lena, and be sure to write mamma."

"This is my boy's second year; he gained eight pounds last summer, and so cheap."

The crowd swells until the street and sidewalks are blocked.

Suddenly the boys on the corner shout, "Here she comes!" and round the corner lumbers the big bus.

Campers are quickly congregated on the steps, luggage and all, and checked off the list as they climb aboard the bus.

The joyous excitement of a few minutes ago momentarily disappears.

"Mama," howls Lena, "I don't want to go."

Minnie's lip quivers and her eyes fill with tears as the bus door closes. Two girls sniffle.

Josey, all dressed up in a sailor suit with long trousers, digs his knuckles into his eyes.

"Aw, gee, ain't they crazy," Angelo, the little boy with the shaven head pokes Josey in the ribs. "Shut up, this is fun. We're goin' to the country."

"Oh, my baby, don't take her away!" And one adoring mother is ready to pick her offspring out of the bus and take her home again.

"Minnie, you be careful and be sure to take the medicine what I ask the nurse to give you Saturday," calls Minnie's mother.

"Sammy! Sammy! Where are you? here's your bathin' suit!" And a blue bathing suit is passed to Sammy, who is proudly sitting beside the driver.

The motor starts up, and shouts of "We're goin'!" drown out the few feeble howls of "I don't want to go! Mama take me home!"

Last year's campers start "Camp Chautauqua, here we come," and before the bus swung around the corner of Third avenue everybody is singing and shouting and waving goodbye.

It was growing dusk and the shadows of the children's ward of the hospital lengthened and deepened. The nurse was making her final rounds, tucking in one small boy, smoothing another's pillow, satisfying last minute demands.

About to leave the ward, a faint sound of sobbing caught her ear. Back along the row of cots she hurried to find and comfort the sufferer. She located the sobbing and stopped beside the bed of the newest patient—a small boy who had been brought in that morning with a broken leg.

"What is it, Billy?" she asked, bending over him. A very earnest tear-stained face peered at her through the gloom, and a wistful little voice said: "I can't kneel down to say my prayers. Do you suppose God will be angry?"

GET IN THE GAME

Most of us just sit and root,
And fear to play the game;
We lack the nerve to face the hoot
Of all who strive for fame.

We grub and grind for paltry wealth;
Our souls and hearts grow brittle,
When it would help our spirit's health
To play the game a little.

Our Growing Traffic

IF YOU "WONDER where all these automobiles are coming from," read these statistics for automobile production for July, just announced by the department of commerce:

Based on figures received from 156 manufacturers in the United States, July factory sales of motor vehicles was 390,445 of which 337,933 were passenger cars and 52,512 were trucks.

This compares with production of 396,967 passenger cars and trucks in June and 268,485 in July, 1927.

Figures for passenger cars include taxicabs, and those for trucks include ambulances, funeral cars, fire apparatus, street sweepers and busses.

That begins to give you a faint idea of where all the cars are coming from, as well as a hint of the tremendous number of men employed in the production and sales of motor vehicles.

"Best Sellers" Improve

IT WASN'T so very many years ago that a book which qualified as a "best seller" was practically certain to be a book of very little worth from any literary or social point of view. Indeed, the expression "best seller" was also a term of reproach; when one used it one generally had in mind a frothy, airy sort of book that would be forgotten a year later.

Times have changed, however, and the most recent publishers' reports indicate it graphically.

The best selling novel continues to be the very excellent "Bridge of San Luis Rey." It is followed in second place by the equally meritorious "Swan Song." In the non-fiction field, Maurois' "Disraeli" heads the list, with Shaw's "Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism" close behind it.

No longer must a book be trash to gain a wide audience. The public's capacity to appreciate and enjoy the best is, apparently, considerable greater than some people have been telling us.

Old Dogs Learn, Too

NOT VERY LONG AGO a whimsical chemist undertook to disprove the old adage, "you can't make a silk purse from a sow's ear." He got the sow's ear, went into a laboratory, and eventually emerged with a silk purse.

Now Edward L. Thorndike, Columbia university psychologist, steps forward to upset another ancient maxim—"you can't teach an old dog new tricks."

Professor Thorndike spent two years studying the proposition. Now, writing in the current issue of Good Housekeeping, he announces that it is, as a general thing, easier to teach new tricks to an old dog than to a young one.

He made extensive studies of the way adults assimilate new knowledge, and declares that a man of 30, 40 or even 50 can learn a new trade, a new profession, a new language or a new art as quickly as a college youth; indeed in some cases the adult will learn quicker and more easily than the youngster.

Professor Thorndike believes there is just one reason why the average person doesn't know twice as much at 40 as he does at 20. That is because the average person, entering his 20's, assumes that his education is complete, and does not try to learn anything more.

All of this is highly encouraging. Too many of us, getting into a rut of habit or work as we leave our youth behind, long to make a change but do not try to because we believe it is too late. We allow ourselves to stay fixed in the grooves we slipped into in our youth.

Professor Thorndike comes to our rescue by telling us, in effect: "Go ahead and try it. Your mind is as fertile and receptive now as it ever was. You can learn anything you want to. If you're not satisfied with what you are doing now, learn how to do something else. It's perfectly possible."

Psychologists, chemists and other scientists have done a good deal for us in recent years. But nothing they have done is much more important than this exploding of the old maxims that we used to trust so implicity.

Such sayings may represent the accumulated wisdom of the ages, to be sure. But they also may represent only the mistaken notions of our forefathers. They are more apt to fetter us than help us. If we can break away from them we may find a new freedom.

Threat of the Jungle

IN THE city of Akron, Ohio, a member of the city council named Kyle Ross has been conducting a campaign to rid the city of vice dens, speakeasies, gambling houses and the like. The other night thugs entered his house, set it on fire and emptied a revolver at him when he came downstairs to investigate.

Fortunately, Ross escaped unharmed.

In Akron and neighboring cities the newspapers were full of the story. But in more distant points it got only scant attention. It was not an uncommon event. Every city of any size has duplicated it, from time to time.

But it is that very fact—the fact that such an occurrence is relatively common in American cities—that makes the whole thing significant.

It seems, sometimes, as if our cities were built on a dark substratum which is forever in a ferment and which breaks through the thin upper crust of order and restraint every now and then to give us a disquieting picture of certain fundamental defects in our civilization.

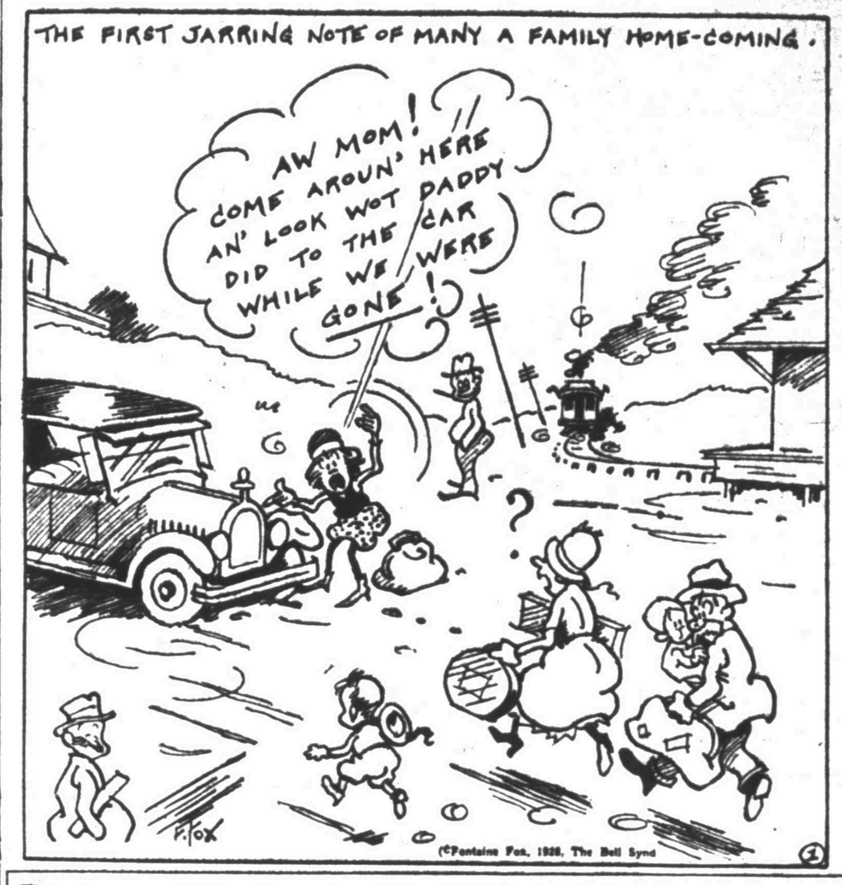

That much-abused word, "underworld," is a pretty good one. It expresses accurately that condition which we treat as a sort of little-understood secret; that weltering, chaotic mass of lawlessness, untamed and unawed, which persists beneath the facade of twentieth century life. There are jungles in our cities; jungles where the old law of claw and fang still holds good; and the attack on the Akron councilman is only one more proof.

Don Mellett, the crusading Canton editor, knew of the existence of the jungle and exposed it. He was murdered for his pains. Kyle Ross fought the same fight, and narrowly escaped the same fate. And the rest of us, reading about it in our newspapers, yawn and remark, "Oh—another?" and then forget about it.

The jungle is there—beneath our feet, so to speak—and our present method of operation isn't doing anything to tame it.

It is about as pressing a problem, in a way as any we have. There is somewhere, a cause for it; a cause that is intertwined solidly with our skyscrapers and factories and automobiles and stock exchanges and the other manifestations of our advance from barbarism. We have no more important task than to find out what that cause is, and remove it. The lone-handed Don Mellets and Kyle Rosses must not be left to crusade alone.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS — Fontaine Fox

The FORBIDDEN DOOR — by Herman Landon

An Hour Later

It was an hour later. Old Winthrop's clock had just struck 5 when Mallingham, carrying a candle, entered the hall of the library.

The house was comparatively quiet. Not a sound of the storm reached through the enveloping mass of snow and rocks and gravel. For the time at least, it seemed as if the powers of destruction had spent their energies. The most vulnerable parts of the house had given way, and now a sort of equilibrium had set in. The guests and their belongings had been moved from the upper floors to the lower, where the danger was not so great. Some of them were sleeping, thanks to liberal doses of bromides. Others were in that apathetic state which comes when repeated shocks have stunned the nerves into insensibility. A small minority took a hopeful view of the situation or pretended to do so.

Mallingham was not in that hopeful minority. He had neither hopes nor illusions, and he did not pretend otherwise. He had studied the outlook as philosophically as he could, and he believed that the final cataclysm was only a question of hours. The house, even though constructed with Old Winthrop's ideas of solidity and endurance, could not withstand the terrific strain for long.

There was no hope of help from the outside, for there was no other dwelling within miles, and it was rarely that anyone had occasion to visit this isolated region. In Mallingham's opinion, the inevitable end was death for every one within the house. He accepted the prospect with grim fortitude, but with a haunting sense of regret. He was no longer thinking of the face that had startled him as he opened the door. He had dismissed that astonishing vision from his mind. It was of no consequence now; besides he might have been mistaken. With death near, there was only one thing that mattered to Mallingham. Old Winthrop; the clock and the iron door had become a single dominant obsession. Always and at every turn the lingering spirit of Old Winthrop seemed to have mocked and frustrated him. The clock and the iron door had baffled him. He had felt himself outwitted and jeered at by a man long since dead. But now it was different.

He set the candle down on the floor and began to manipulate the intricate system of bolts and levers on the door. A single maddening melody was singing in his brain. He felt a grim rejoicing at the thought that at last he was defying Old Winthrop's dread-inspiring contrivances. No longer could they imbue him with the awe and the hesitancy he had felt on previous occasions. Death was certain anyway, so what difference did it make? He would have the satisfaction of invading the precincts into which Old Winthrop had exhaled the breath of his personality. From a practical point of view nothing mattered any longer, but he took a great vindictive delight in ripping away the curtain of mystery.

He laugher nervously as he worked the bolts, stopping now and then to study the system. In a little while now the forbidden door would swing open. In a few minutes he would tear the veil away from Old Winthrop's secret, verifying by sight and touch what he already suspected. Something might stop him, of course—he did not know just what—before he could proceed far enough. The incessant ticking of the clock above the door sounded a warning in his ears. He shrugged his broad shoulders with a stoical air. Let the ghost of Old Winthrop do its worst!

With a metallic click the last bolt slipped free of its socket. Mallingham straightened himself from his stooping position. He fixed the clock with a jeering contemptuous look. Only a hard pull now, and the door would swing open. He almost wished Old Winthrop were present to hear the squeak of defiance of the heavy hinges, to watch his scoffing progress into the dead man's shrine.

He mopped the perspiration from his brow. Only the voice of the clock was heard. "You are afraid," it seemed to whisper and Mallingham laughed in its face. Only a moment longer he would wait, to steady the whirl of his brain and the fierce beating at his temples. Why was he so excited when there was nothing to fear? Even if the worst were to happen, he was only hastening the inevitable.

Could it be that the infernal spell of Old Winthrop lingered over him still?

"You are afraid," came the whisper of the clock.

Mallingham laughed hoarsely. He would throw back into Old Winthrop's face some of the taunts with which the dead man had pursued him. He placed his hand on the massive door handle and stood waiting, as if gathering strength for a firm pull. There was a fever in his blood; hot and cold flashes were running up and down his back. Once more he glanced up at the clock, its face dusky of outline in the meager light of the candle. His hand tightened about the door handle. Now——

But something stayed his hand. The hall door had suddenly opened. A young woman stood in the opening. She was about the same height as Mrs. Martenet, and for a moment he thought the intruder was indeed Julia. Then as the candlelight fell on her face, illuminating her short brown curls and wide hazel eyes, he knew he had made a mistake.

"Better wait, Mr. Mallingham," she said, noticing that he was still clutching the door handle. "The clock hasn't stopped yet."

Mallingham stared at her. She was in a simple suit of blue serge. He could see at a glance that she was not one of the guests. Her face looked very pale in the candle-light, but her gaze was steady and her firm boned little chin hinted of infinite capabilities.

"What do you know about the clock?" His voice a little gruff. "What are you doing here?"

"I am Viola Len, Dr. Speck's patient. You may have heard of me."

Mallingham regarded her with keener interest. He did not resent the temporary interruption. A few minutes could not matter. "What do you want?"

"I want to ask you a question—no, two questions. Where is Mr. Curry?"

"I haven't the faintest idea."

Her steady, hazel eyes searched his face. "Well, then, will you tell me what you have done with Hannan Martenet?"

Mallingham stared in stupefaction at this curious young woman. "I don't know why you put such questions to me, but I am willing to gratify your curiosity." He paused; a blurred vision rose before his eyes. No—such things could not be. "Hannan is dead," he added, speaking emphatically, as if trying to convince himself.

"Did you kill him?"

Mallingham smiled faintly. To lie at such a time, with death but a few hours away, seemed a waste of breath. Life's meanings had become twisted and warped.

"No, but I happen to know who did."

"You are very frank." Her mouth tightened a little; the eyes she fixed on him were full of aversion.

"Why shouldn't I be? Nothing I may say or do will mean anything a few hours hence. Now, if you don't mind, I wish you would leave me. I am busy.

"So I see." A mirthless smile tinged her lips. "You were on the point of opening the iron door when I interrupted you? You are not very consistent, Mr. Mallingham. You say nothing will have any meaning a few hours from now, yet you are determined to open that door."

"Even a dying man may wish to gratify a whim. By the way, how do you happen to know my name?"

"Somebody has talked about you. What do you expect to find inside, if you get there alive?"

"Oh, certain things," said Mallingham vaguely. "They will not be of any earthly use to me, of course, but I'll have the satisfaction of seeing them."

She drew a little closer, regarding him with a mingling perplexity and hostility. "Wouldn't it be better to stop the clock before you open the door?"

"Stop the clock?" He laughed ironically. "How?"

"I don't know, but I should think it could be done. Anyhow, somebody opened the door night before last, from the inside."

Mallingham clutched her arm in a convulsive grip. "You are lying."

"Oh, very well." She released her arm. "If you don't believe me——"

"Tell me the rest," said Mallingham excitedly. "What did you see?"

She loked at him with a faint, derisive smile. "On second thought I shan't tell you. You might ask John Breck. He saw more than I did. I fainted when the door started to open."

"The clock didn't stop, did it?"

"No, but there ought to be a way of stopping it."

"Perhaps," said Mallingham. "There ought to be some way to stop the clock, though I haven't found it. Somewhere there must be a motive force that keeps it running. If it could be stopped at its source——"

"Why at the source?" Miss Lane interrupted. "Why not up there?" She pointed up at the dial.

"By throwing a monkey-wrench into the mechanism? Hardly; Old Winthrop must have forseen that an attempt of that sort would be made, and he would naturally frustrate it in advance."

"Still afraid of Old Winthrop, aren't you." There was a touch of irony in her voice. "You prefer to fight him at a safe distance—up in the hills, for instance, where you were last night."

"You seem to know a great many things, Miss—er—Lane."

"I know that you have a great respect for Old Winthrop."

Her words fell tauntingly on his ears. "I had," he confessed, "but I have lost it. The prospect of death levels everything. I'll show you how much respect I have for him. In a moment——" He paused, looked at her slight figure, and an expression of diabolical humor came into his eyes. "In a moment you shall see. Come here."

The Iron Door Opens

He reached out and roughly drew her to him. She struggled, but her strength was no match for his. With a laugh he pushed her forward so that she faced the iron door.

"What do you mean?" she cried. "Let me go!"

"Not just yet. Since you have seen fit to interfere in my affairs we are both going in—and you are going first."

Her body stiffened as she saw his meaning, but she made no outcry. Holding her firmly with one arm he reached around her from behind and clutched the door handle. She trembled and drew in her breath sharply.

"Now——" He pulled at the handle. The door squeaked on its heavy hinges. It came open a narrow crack, and then Mallingham jerked back. From the black, mystery-environed interior came a voice:

"If you value your life, don't enter until the clock stops."

Mallingham shuddered. A low, trembling cry broke from the girl's lips. With a metallic bang the door swung shut again.

Mallingham staggered drunkenly and brought up against the wall. The girl stood clutching her throat, her breath coming in short, wild gulps.

"Good Lord!" Mallingham groaned. "That was old Winthrop's voice!"

Miss Lane fixed another shuddering look on the door; then fled. Mallingham followed her.

"Old Winthrop's voice," he mumbled, brokenly.

Crash Claimed Life Only Flier Who Ever 'Bawled Out' Lindy

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Aug. 31. (AP)—Macel M. (Merrie) Merrill, who lost his life in an airplane crash near Milford, Pa., was disclosed today as the only man who had "bawled out" Col. Charles A. Lindbergh since the lone eagle's transatlantic flight.

Lindbergh took off "down wind" over a crowd last April when he flew to Quebec with serum for Floyd Bennett, late pilot for Commander Byrd. When Lindbergh returned, Merrill, manager of the Curtiss field, reprimanded him for "setting a bad example for other fliers."

Merrill served as an instructer in Texas, where he met Nellyne Farmer of Dallas. In 1919, after his discharge they were married. They barnstormed the country and for a time ran a flying school in Texas.

Unexplained Explosions Wreck Service Station

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31. (AP)—Two unexplained explosions today wrecked an automobile battery service station and one large motion picture stage at the Famous Players Lasky lot. Stage properties ready for use in filming a picture were hurled into the street and the stage set was wrecked. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

(AP)—Formal declaration by President Calles of intention to retire from office at the expiration of his term Nov. 30 and his refusal to be considered a possibility to succeed himself will be contained in his address to congress which convenes in regular session late Saturday, it is said here.

FAMILY POKER

By GEORGE ADE

Once there were three Young Married Couples that used to bunch up of an Evening, so as to have some one else to look at once in a while.

They lived out near the end of the Line and were acting as Decoys for a new Subdivision. It was a long Ride down to the Centre of Town, and nothing doing after one arrived there. So these Honeymooners, who lately had come out to the Trance and settled down to plain Housekeeping, had to organize a little Set of their own.

They played Ping-Pong until it became a Misdemeanor, and then Mrs. Frisbie organized a Reading Circle at which Works were read alone and discussed.

The Men were not very strong for that form of Revelry, so Mrs. Gillespie started in to revive some of the lively Games she had learned at Boarding-School.

She had them doing Charades, also Cross Questions and Daffy Answers and another peculiarly exciting form of Lark in which every one wrote something on a piece of Paper and dropped it in a Hat.

These imitation Pastimes are not calculated to keep a Man up after 10 P. M., especially if he has been accustomed to playing the Ponies, and doubling up on the First Eighteen.

In a little while the Suburban Sextette arrived at the end of the String. Jack Straws and Indoor Croquet no longer thrilled them.

Six-handed Whist seemed to be out of the Question, so Mr. Frisbie, who had been an Indian before he did the Matrimonial Stunt, timidly suggested that Draw was about the only Game that would keep the Blood in Circulation six Nights out of every Week.

Mrs. Jinkins laid back on the Proposition because she was the Soprano in a Church Choir and did not wish to start any Talk.

Mrs. Frisbie and Mrs. Gillespie assured her that Ten-cent Limit was not Gambling, because it was played merely for Fun, and that very often one would play all Evening and lose only a Dollor or so, or perhaps come out Even.

So the Gillespies gave a Poker Party. All of the Leaves were taken out of the Dining-Room Table and Mrs. Gillespie had six Stacks all counted out when they sat down. The Chips were two Kopecks per Stack, and Mr. Gillespie said it was not necessary to show any Money on the Table. The Minute that he started in to Bank on this Basis, he was Loser.

Mrs. Jenkins sat next to her Husband so that he could look at her Hand every time and tell her what to do. It required fifteen Minutes to explain the Values of the Blues and Reds and the Significance of the Buck, and then there was a grand Getaway.

Mr. Gillespie requested that there be no Talking and his Wife said she had just one more Question to ask—did a Flush mean all of one Color? Then he asked her if she had ever been to Night School and she gave him the Beseemer Eye and there was a painful Silence, broken only by Mrs. Frisbie, who laid down and asked if four, five, six, seven, eight meant anything.

At which everybody else ducked and she pulled in a White Bean and her Husband told her she ought to go back to Jack-Straws; but she said she didn't care, she won Five Cents. He told her to boost the Ante whenever she had a Pat Hand.

During the next Shuffle Mrs. Jinkins yawned and said she did not think Poker was much Fun. After she had her Hand, she showed it to her Husband. He took one Look at it and dropped out.

Mr. Gillespie allowed that Hoyle did not say anything about Partners in Poker. When Mrs. Jinkins showed up three Bullets and bumped him for Eighty Cents, he made several other low Cracks about every one playing his or her own Hand.

It was evident that Mr. Frisbie and Mr. Gillespie were the only two who were up on the Game.

They should have connected with all the Coin, only the Jinkins Family began to ring in Miracles on them.

One time Mrs. Jinkins drew three and filled a rosy Flush. Mr. Gillespie was in with three Vamps and Mrs. Frisbie had an elegant Full House and six Cards held up. They fed in the Checks until Mrs. Gillespie kicked and said it began to look like real Gambling, and then there was a Show-Down.

Mrs. Frisbie seemed to be all the Money until they counted her Cards on her, and then they told her to back out. She said she was willing to throw away one Card, but it didn't go.

Mrs. Jenkins took the Pot and made so much Noise about it that Mrs. Gillespie began to act peevish. Mrs. Frisbie, being Flat, swiped one-half of what Mr. Frisbie had and never let on.

Then Mrs. Gillespie mistook a Four-spot for a Seven and was cleaned by the Jinkins Combination, so she dug into the Bank and took what was needed.

About 10:30, Mrs. Gillespie, who had tapped the Bank for seven large, iron smakers and played them in regardless said, Oh, pshaw! they were not playing in real Earnest anyway, so she went into the other Room and began playing "Killaua" on the Piano. Mr. Frisbie had won $3 and his Wife had pinched it. Twenty Cents at a Clip, until he was down to one Blue and two Whites and so Sore that he refused to speak to any one.

The Jinkins Duo had their Heads together every Play. By trading cards and building up Hands they succeeded in stinging the Experts about three times out of four.

In the final Round of Roodles, preceding the Dutch Lunch, Mrs. Jinkins held up a Tray and a Nine and filled, and that was when Gillespie forgot he was a Gentleman and used some of the Language that he learned at a Club.

Mrs. Jinkins got on the High Horse and cashed in. She picked out the right Moment, because she had $13.50 in Velvet thrown up in front of her. Gillespie had Take against all the others, but they went right in to help out with the Music and left him there to Die.

Mrs. Jinkins said it didn't seem right to take all that Money, but she got away with it, just the same.

From Eve Down, Ladies Have Been About the Same, Says Dorothy Dix

The Up-to-Date Versus the Old-Fashioned Girl—Why Life Is a Joyous Picnic for Some and a Dreary Treadmill for Others. Problem of the Parasitic Relative.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you think the modern girl better than the Victorian girl? In what way do you think her so?—A READER.

Answer: I don't think the modern girl is better than the Victorian girl. Neither do I think the Victorian girl superior to the modern girl. Their good qualities are different, but I imagine that each has about the same amount of gold in her character.

From Mother Eve down, women have had pretty much the same faults and virtues. There has been no basic change in their natures. They had been vain and fond of pleasure, and selfish and high-tempered and unreasonable. They have thought with their hearts instead of their heads and been mainly guided by their emotions.

And they have loved and gone to death for those they loved, and have worked their fingers to the bone for their husbands and children. They have laid themselves as voluntary sacrifices on the altars of their families.

Through all the ages some women have been gold-diggers and vamps, who have taken all that they could get out of men and given nothing themselves, and other women have given all and asked nothing. There have been women who have made of their shoulders ladders for men to climb to success; women who have slaved to lift their children above themselves; women who have watched by sickbeds; women who have been first at the cradle and last at the tomb. There have always been women who were devils and women who were saints. They belong to no particular age, and probably they have always been in about the same proportion throughout the history of the world.

We all glorify the past and disparage the present. That makes us idealize the Victorian girl and attribute to her every good quality. It would shock us to think of our mother as having been anything but a little prunes-and-prisms miss, who always sat on one side of the parlor in a horsehair chair, and conversed with her suitor about Shakespeare and the musical glasses, or some equally innocuous topic.

We could never think of mother as having let a young man kiss her, or hold her hand. We cannot imagine her going joyriding or staying out after 11 o'clock at night. And, of course, we know she always minded her mama, and was dutiful and obedient and affectionate, and a perfect model of what a daughter should be.

There probably isn't a flapper in the length and breadth of the land whose mother doesn't assure her that that was exactly the sort of a girl she was, and that was how she treated her parents, and who doesn't have to listen to mother's sobbing that "she doesn't know what girls are coming to nowadays," when they won't wear decent clothes, when they smoke cigarettes, and have dates with heaven-knows whom, and won't listen to a word their parents say to them.

But in reality mother wasn't any improvement on her own daughter. She was just as crazy about clothes as Sally is, and thought just as much about how wide she could make her skirts as Sally does about how skimpy and short she can make hers. And if the automobile should tell all it knows about petting parties, the old sway-back sofa would yawn in its face and say, "Old stuff!"

Certainly the modern girl isn't as much under parental control as the Victorian girl was, but she earns her own living, and any girl who has intelligence enough to hold down a good job has sense enough and knowledge enough to decide things for herself. She is no longer a child in leading strings.

Certainly the modern girl is much freer in her relationship with men than the Victorian girl was, but when you work side by side with men, you are bound to smash the conventions. Certainly the modern girl is much more sophisticated and hard-boiled than the Victorian girl was, but ignorance is not innocence, and the more a girl knows the better she can take care of herself.

And when it comes to the real things, the love and tenderness and self-sacrifice, the modern girl does just exactly as the Victorian girl did—she marries the man she loves and makes a wonderful wife and mother. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My sister and I argue continually over the question of happiness. She says there is a happy moment for every one who is living. I say there are some people who don't have to worry because they always have the good things of life, while others never get anything. She says a person must have courage and hope to go through life. Do you think that when a person has courage, and hopes for better times, he gets them? And should one keep on hoping despite misfortunes? I think there are people who are born to good luck and others who are born to ill luck. What do you think? —A SISTER.

Answer: I think the fortunate people are those who are born with cheerful and optimistic natures. They are far luckier than those who are born with the traditional silver spoon in their mouths.

For happiness is within ourselves. It is something that money cannot buy, and that does not depend upon our outward circumstances.

One of the most unhappy men I have ever known in my life was a millionaire who did not even have a crumpled rose leaf under his 40 mattresses of ease. For he had not only all the luxuries that unlimited money buys, but a lovely wife and children and superb health. But he was bored with life, suspicious of all who came about him, interested in nothing, without a thrill left in his system.

And the happiest person I have ever known was an old colored woman who lived in a hovel, who had the "rheumatiz" in her back and the "misery in her bones," whose husband had deserted her, whose children neglected her, and who never knew where the next meal was coming from. But God had given her a singing heart, and she found nothing but sunshine in the world.

I agree with your sister that all of us have our happy moments, and that the law of compensation always holds. What we miss in one way, we get in another, if only we have philosophy enough to appreciate it. If you haven't the money to feast on caviar and lobster newburgh, you escape the consequent indigestion, for example.

Many a poor woman whose own life has been nothing but hard work and slavery for her family, reaps her reward in the success of her children. Many a woman whose husband cannot give her fine clothes gets from him a love and devotion that many a millionairess would envy.

And I agree with your sister that unless we have hope and courage, life is intolerable. It is only the belief in something better to come that gives us strength to carry on to victory.

We make our own happiness when we make the best of every day, and find our joy in simple things, in the love of those about us, in the glory of a sunset, in our work, in doing our part in the world as well as we can. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Do you think a relative ought to come uninvited and spend the entire winter with me, without ever offering to pay board in any way? I live in California. —MRS. X.

Answer: Certainly not, and you should have the courage to ask the deadbeat to move on. The one drawback to life in California is that you are visited to death. People in colder climes never know how they love you and how they long to see you, until you settle in that land of sunshine and roses, and they see a way of beating a hotel bill by paying you a nice, long visit. Some day I am going to organize the Anti-Guest League, and millions of grateful housewives will elect me president of the United States. —DOROTHY DIX.

Favors were orange and pink surprise packages containing fortunes in verse.

Coleman Woman Gives Estate to Charity

COLEMAN, Aug. 31.—Occasional indications that the world turns a deaf ear to the calls of charity were utterly crushed here this week, when the last will and testament of Mrs. Elsie Barnard, who died here at the age of 67, was filed for probate, revealing that a sum of $6,000 has been bequeathed to the Coleman Welfare league and other gifts were directed to the Methodist Orphans' home at Waco.

To the Bowery mission of the Christian Herald of New York City, the deceased directed the sum of $2,000. Five notes held by Mrs. Barnard were cancelled, both principal and interest, through the terms of her will. Mrs. Barnard was born in Bremen, Germany, in 1861.

College 'Rush Week' To Begin Sept. 14

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31.—The 1928-29 season of the University of Texas will see the first of its institutional "rush weeks" September 14, that date having been set for the opening of the week of the sororities. September 17 has been set for the launching of the fraternities' week.

September 20 has been set for the freshman convocation, another of the interesting events for the new students, and one of significance in the minds of the "freshies."

OH, THESE WOMEN ! ! !

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—New York women are smoking in public, things that look suspiciously like cigars. They are not as big around as the ordinary cigar, but are longer and about the thickness of a lady's little finger.

Do they taste better than cigarets, or is cigaret smoking too tame for them?

Women are wearing "women's athletic suits," which are very much like the men's B. V. D.'s.

And the men, if you can believe the clothing store windows, are wearing two-piece underthings of pink and green and baby blue.

"Lucile" writes me that she answered her back door bell yesterday to find a smiling colored woman standing there, and she asked if she could borrow a saw.

Curious to know what a stranger, not working around the premises wanted with a saw, she asked what it was for.

"Well, mam," said the woman, "a lady give me these shoes and the heels are so high I cain't walk in 'em, so I thought I'd saw off the heels."

Juan Rifo of Chili died at the age of 90, leaving a widow. Thirteen of his wives had died before him. If there is a heaven and they all go to it, what an interesting meeting that will be!

Harrison Fisher, after painting the pictures of 15,000 women, has fallen in love and is going to marry.

This is one engagement that sets the populace on the edge of its chairs. After having seen the pictures of the 15,000, our curiosity is excused if it is rampant over "number 15,001."

If Gene and Polly want quiet, they will get it when this girl becomes known.

A woman in Oklahoma City sues a dance hall because she was thrown out for not wearing stockings. She wants $5,000 and 70 cents for her ticket. If the girl gets the $5,000 she can buy stockings.

What with runs, holes, rips and snips, a dance hall wouldn't be so fussy if it had to buy the stockings, which are so thin anyway. What does it matter?

A friend of Tetrazzini tells of a concert she gave in San Francisco for wounded war veterans. The man most maimed of all of them was chosen to hand her a boquet of flowers, bought with their nickels and dimes. The singer took the flowers, and then looking down at the hand that held up the boquet and which she had kissed when she took the flowers, she saw that the man had only one arm, no legs and his face had been so wounded he had lost the sight of both eyes.

Tetrazzini fainted and had to be carried from the stage, where she was hysterical and kept moaning, "Oh my poor boys, my poor boys." Then she sent someone to see the soldier and ask what he wanted for Christmas. Anything he wanted he could have, an automobile—the best radio money could buy—anything.

The boy sent back this message: "I'd like your photograph, autographed."

Showing that hope almost outlived the man.

Nunn Appointed To Fill Vacant Bench

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31.—Gov. Dan Moody has announced the appointment of W. H. Nunn, city attorney of Georgetown, Williamson county, to take the district judgeship left vacant by the death of Judge Cooper Sansom.

The new judge of the 26th district court was a school mate of Senator Morris Sheppard, and nearly a score of years ago was county attorney of Williamson county, a post which Gov. Dan Moody, who appointed him, once held.

Nunn's appointment was recommended by the Williamson County Bar association.

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

For this between-season time when one would like to look as though one's new fall style were already here and when one simply can't wear heavy clothes for the heat, the proper solution is a new frock of crepe or transparent velvet or georgette in navy blue, brown or black as seems most fashionable at the moment. This season there's a loud and firm call for browns of all shades and Cherie and Dina are both wearing sheer brown frocks. Dina's has a skirt of transparent velvet and georgette in layers and a georgette bodice trimmed with the velvet. Cherie's is completely of georgette except for the amusing drape and dangle on the front of the house—that's velvet.

They are hunting Ambrose. Dina couldn't stay longer. If Ambrose wasn't under the table or on top of the fireplace or behind the books, he must lead his gilded life without her assistance. Dina had a pressing engagement and a new coat-dress of brown transparent velvet to wear to it. The frills on the jabots are pleated strips of brown chiffon. Her hat is brown velvet.

Cherie found Ambrose—Ernest had been sitting on him. He glitters quite as well as on the day he came from Paris and if his heart is breaking for a mud pie who knows or cares? Not Cherie—Cherie cares for nothing at this moment but her new brown crepe frock made with narrow horizontal tucks and with a band and bow of transparent velvet outlining its lace vest.

Study Club Plans For Year's Work

IOWA PARK, Texas, Aug. 31.—A program for the work of the '28 Study club for the first half of the next year was arranged by the program committee composed of Mrs. Frank Clark, Mrs. B. L. Turner and Mrs. M. L. Hines, meeting with the president, Mrs. F. P. Stryker, at the home of Mrs. Hines yesterday.

The subjects will be varied, most of them being taken from the modern life program. Two feature programs will be especially stressed, one a study of the American Indian, the other a study of Texas. Prints have been secured of a number of pictures painted by American artists, and one lesson will be devoted to a study of these pictures and their painters. Yearbooks containing the programs will be printed and given to each member of the club.

The first meeting of the fall will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Clark, with Mrs. R. E. Brewster and Mrs. John B. Barbour as associate hostesses.

ALLENBY TO BE LEGION'S GUEST

Notables to Arrive for San Antonio Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 31.—Headed by Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, of Great Britain, liberator of Jerusalem and the Holy Land from Turkish domination, a distinguished array of American and foreign leaders will be the American Legion's guests at its 10th annual national convention at San Antonio Oct. 8 to 12.

Nat M. Washer, general convention chairman, announced today that definite acceptances have been received of the Legion's invitation, extended by National Commander Edward E. Spafford, from Lord Allenby, who will be accompanied by Lady Allenby; Major Georges Scapini, France's war-blinded member of the chamber of deputies; Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F. and honorary national commander of the Legion; Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the flying colonel; Judge Kenesaw M. Landis czar of baseball.

Rodeo Planned

Many high ranking representatives of the United States government will attend. Among those expected are Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis and Assistant Secretary Trubee F. Davison; General Frank T. Hines, of the veterans' bureau, and his staff; Secretary of the Navy Curtis Wilbur and many others.

Preparations for a great entertainment program, in keeping with the very large attendance expected and with the notable character of the distinguished guest list, are going forward rapidly. San Antonio plans to stage a world's championship rodeo, with the leading performers competing for more than $25,000 in prize money.

Sergeant Sammy Baker and Pete August, rating places among the six leading contenders for the world's welterweight title will battle it out to a decision in the main bout of a boxing card at Fort Sam Houston stadium on Tuesday night, Oct. 9.

Bull Fights

Leading army fliers will be assigned by the war department to participate in two great air circuses during convention week. The second division will stage battle maneuvers, using all the most modern devices of warfare. A Folies Bergeres show, with beauties of five nations, will be put on.

Side trips with bull fights and Spanish fiestas, will be run to Nuevo Laredo and Piedras Negras, Matamoros, the Mexican border and the gulf coast country will be visited on a two-day tour. A 12-day tour will be run to Mexico City and other leading cities of the southern republic.

Chinese Threaten to Seize Explorer's Fossils

PEKING, China, Aug. 30. (AP)—Faced with probable seizure of 85 crates of valuable fossils dug up by his expedition in the Gobi desert, Roy Chapman Andrews may appeal to Washington for aid in getting his discoveries out of China, it became known today when Andrews said he had heard Chinese authorities in Kalgan were contemplating confiscation of the finds.

Dallas 'Sponge Squad' Makes Big Booze Haul

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (UP)—A raid by the "sponge squad" of the police department here today resulted in the discovery of a 500 gallon still, the confiscation of 80 gallons of whiskey and 6,000 gallons of mash and the arrest of one man. The still and equipment was valued at $5,000.

State Weddings

MALE-CLARK

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Aug. 31.—An announcement of an engagement of interest was made recently when Mrs. Mary Henry entertained with a party honoring Miss Francis Clark, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hines Clark of this city. Announcement was made that Miss Clark and her fiance, Leonard H. Male, state sanitary engineer of the state of Utah, would be married Oct. 27, at the home of the bride-to-be.

The guests were received by Mrs. Henry and her assistant hostesses, Mesdames J. A. Johnson, A. Y. Beverly and Lona T. Shawver. They were directed to the dining room, where they were served punch by Elsie Schindler, Arlene Willett and Elizabeth O'Connell. The guests were then seated in the living room where a musical program, vocal and instrumental, was rendered by Mary Sam Crews, Ines Sloan and Carrie Maurice Allee. Miss Una Self gave a colorful description of some high points of interest observed on her recent trip to Europe. A contest was featured listing the necessary attributes of a husband. Mrs. Robert Beck was the winner, receiving from the hostess a Rose Marie jar and a bride's book, which she presented to the honoree, Miss Clark.

An ice course in form of Cinderella's slipper and angel food cake was served, after which the guests drank punch to the wedding day, the bride-to-be, the groom and to the girls left behind. Plate favors were small pink satin bags of rice, on which were printed the date, Oct. 27, 1928. The color scheme was pink and white, yard-grown flowers used for decoration.

Out of town guests attending the party were Miss Ada Mary Tharp, Matador; Mrs. Lee Probst, Vernon; Mrs. Robert Beck, Fort Worth, and Miss Arlene Willett of Rotan. Thirty guests, including Miss Clark, her sister, Katherine Clark, and her mother, Mrs. Hines Clark, were present at the party.

LUCKY BIRD

Cop Stops All Traffic to Let Injured Bird Go By

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (US)—Chicago's loop has been the scene of many a strange sight, but never one like today's episode when a fledgling brown baby thrush halted the whirl and roar of traffic in the financial district for several minutes.

The feathered youngling, trying its wings and finding them inadequate, dropped into a maze of roaring traffic. Traffic policeman saw the bird and blew his whistle and held his halting palm south, north, east and west.

A score of motorists pulled emergency brakes and came to a halt, expecting the shriek of a fire siren.

The fledgling gaining its bearings, stood up on its weak legs and paraded slowly across the street to safety.

Lindsey Admits Receipt of Funds

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 31. (UP)—Ben B. Lindsey, former judge of the juvenile court here, admitted today that he had received $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and $10,000 from Samuel Untermyer but stated, in a lengthy answer to disbarment proceedings pending against him, that the money in no way affected the conduct of his judgeship.

The disbarment complaint was filed two months ago and charged gross misconduct as an attorney and judge in connection with Lindsey's acceptance of the money.

Lindsey acted in behalf of Mrs. Stokes' children during her estrangement from W. E. D. Stokes. Untermyer acted in a legal capacity in the case.

Sanitary Engineer Makes Vernon Survey

VERNON, Aug. 31.—W. N. Dashiell, district engineer, has been sent to Vernon by the state health department in response to the request of the city commission for a state expert to study sanitary conditions here. Mr. Dashiell arrived here Wednesday and immediately began a study of conditions.

EUROPE SEEKS NAVAL POWER

U. S. Threatened With Rank Fifth Rate Power

PARIS, Aug. 31. (UP)—Europe is advancing in great strides in an effort to overhaul America's commercial naval strength with the hopes of pushing the United States back to a fifth rate power.

For the first time since the war, France has now passed the United States in ship building. Germany is laying down twice the tonnage and Italy's ships on the way are one and one-half times the tonnage of all the craft being built this year in America.

Germany and France are staging a thrilling race for supremacy, with Italy a close third. In ten years, French shipping masters believe, America again will rank fifth, behind Britain, France, Germany and Italy, with Holland and Japan crowding the United States.

Furthermore, the high cost of construction in England has endangered Great Britain's mastery as passenger carriers. France and Germany, aided by their governments, are coming to the front. Even now Japan has taken the supremacy as passenger carrier from the English fleet in the Far East, and Japanese ships touch every port in Europe.

French Ambitions

France's efforts are worthy of attention for they represent the ultimate in cooperation between government and private firms. Her latest bid was marked by entry into the North sea and through an agreement between the Polish government and the French Compagnie des Chargeurs Reunis, a direct service between Dynia and the coast of South America will be established.

Launching of the two giant liners for the North German Lloyd line, the Europa and the Bremen, of about 46,000 tons each, has awakened French ambition. The Penhoet shipbuilding yards in France will be enlarged and the building of a super-liner will be started after January 1, 1929.

Soviet Russia also is making a bid for sea power but her icebound ports in winter months counteracts her energy along other lines. Jugo-Slavia has entered the competition by expanding her commercial fleet.

Ford to Build 'Museum Village'

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—Because he does not like "dead museums," Henry Ford is going to build near his home in Dearborn, Mich., a "museum village" of the ancient and historic buildings he has purchased all over the United States and in England.

People actually will live there, in old, old houses and cottages Ford has had carefully taken down to be removed from all parts of the country and set up again in his village. They will use his antique furniture and tools and will, as nearly as possible, carry on their lines, both domestically and industrially, exactly as their ancestors did in colonial and post-colonial days, the Ladies Home Journal says in the current issue.

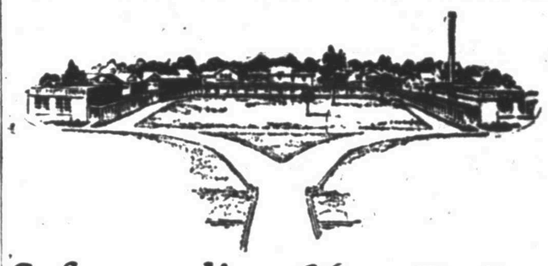

The purpose of the home is educational.

FRAUD PROBE TO CONTINUE

New Chicago Grand Jury To Carry On Work

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (UP)—Indicating that more indictments may be expected, Special Prosecutor Frank J. Loesch announced today that he would petition the criminal court Monday for a new grand jury to continue the investigation into crime and frauds in Chicago politics.

The August grand jury which made its report Thursday returned indictments against 14 persons for conspiracy to obstruct personal liberty.

This body had centered its investigation on the numerous shootings, bombings, kidnapings, slugings and murders that attended the campaign and the primary election in Chicago last April.

Loesch in making his statement today said he would ask Judge John J. Sullivan to invest in the new grand jury the same powers as given the first, including investigation of all primaries and general elections since 1926 with specific attention to the murders of Octavius C. Granady and "Diamond Joe" Esposito.

Esposito was killed during the last primary campaign and Granady was shot down on election day. Both were candidates for ward committeeman.

Morris Eller, boss of the 20th ward, in which Granady was slain, has been indicted with others on a charge of conspiracy to murder. Eller was Granady's opponent for ward committeeman. This case probably will be the first to be brought to trial, it was anounced today.

Defense attorneys announced they would seek on Sept. 10 to have quashed the indictment charging Eller, who is city collector, Judge Emanuel Eller, his son, and 17 of their henchmen with conspiracy to murder.

In event the motion is denied, the trial probably will be set for the following week.

Board Rejects Plan to Increase Note Supply

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—The federal reserve board has rejected a suggestion from financial interests that it attempt to ease credit pressure during the crop moving period by increasing the supply of federal reserve notes substituting them for gold certificates now in circulation so that the gold surplus could be increased.

The board in a statement tonight said that such procedure would not achieve the end sought and that while the reserve banks have a considerable volume of unused lending power "this amount is much smaller than is popularly believed."

Woman Prosecutor Denies Hoover Influence

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement and an active lieutenant in the Republican presidential campaign, emphatically denied today she has been asked by Herbert Hoover to go lightly on her efforts to tighten up liquor conditions in New York City.

"It is preposterous that Mr. Hoover or any other candidate for a high and dignified office such as the presidency of the United States would presume to control a public officer in the discharge of official duties," Mrs. Willebrandt said.

Lomski Sues for Money For Charity Ring Bout

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (UP)—Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light heavyweight, started suit today in supreme court against the Children's Welfare league of Oakhurst, N. J., for $3,500 which he claims is due him under terms of an agreement he made for a benefit appearance at Long Beach, N. Y., Aug. 24.

After the 10-round bout with Maxie Rosenbloom, he was given $500 in cash and a check for $3,500. Payment had been stopped on the check, Lomski alleges, when it was presented at the bank.

SECRET NAVAL PACT FRIENDLY

French Minister Denies Pact Will Anger U. S.

PARIS, Aug. 31. (UP)—Minister of Marine George Leygues, in an interview with the United Press tonight, assured the American public that the Franco-British naval agreement "contains no clause which will arouse the opposition of Washington and merely completes the Washington accord and settles disagreements existing since the war between England and France."

Breaking his long silence concerning the compromise with London, M. Leygues expressed the hope that the United States and Japan and Italy would rally to the support of the naval agreement "in the interests of world peace and the naval policies of the five powers."

M. Leygues' statement was made to the United Press correspondent before the minister left for Sampigny, where the cabinet members will celebrate Saturday the second anniversary of the present government. The celebration will be in the form of a luncheon at Premier Raymond Poincare's summer home.

Wrong Ideas

"It is evident that public opinion in the United States has been based on the wrong ideas," M. Leygues continued. "There were differences existing since the war between the French naval ministry and the British admiralty concerning naval policies.

"The Washington accord settled only questions of airplane carriers and battleships but we were interested in other craft.

"I reopened the question recently and we were able to reach a satisfactory conclusion through the excellent disposition of the British admiralty. Our own text of the agreement was accepted and the French superior council of the national defense approved unanimously the agreement.

Awaiting Replies

"After we submitted the text to interested powers through Former Minister Briand, we are awaiting replies from Washington, Rome and Toyko.

"I understand unofficially, however, that Japan is disposed to accept the agreement."

M. Leygues said that until the three governments reply to the note transmitting the treaty text, neither France nor England will make public the text of the compromise.

"There are no secret provisions in connection with the compromise," he continued, "and no clauses for co-operation of French and British navies; no division of the ocean areas between the nevies, as reported.

Aims at Agreement

"Furthermore, I can assure you the treaty contains no clause for a common military policy and does not aim at harming the Washington accord. On the other hand, it carries control of disarmament farther than before.

"I hope we are moving towards a new naval control agreement which will be profitable to all powers signing the Washington convention and after acceptance of the United States, Japan and Italy, the Franco-British accord may be used by the Geneva reparatory disarmament commission as a base of world accord.

"If this is possible the long drawn out naval discussions will be ended satisfactorily."

Daughter of Railroad Magnate Asks Divorce

RENO, Nev., Aug. 31. (UP)—Suit for divorce was filed here today by Gloria Gould Bishop, daughter of the late George Gould, railroad magnate, against Henry A. Bishop, Jr., son of a Connecticut financier.

Papers were immediately withdrawn until time for the trial by a court order so the allegations of Mrs. Bishop, who is known in motion pictures as Gloria Gould, could not be determined.

CONGRESS TO PICK LEADER

Mexico's New Leader to be Chosen Today

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31. (US)—The Mexican congress which convenes tomorrow will be one of the strongest in the country's history, due to the unity which prevails and to the cohesion which characterises the Obregon bloc whose membership virtually comprises the entire personnel of both the senate and chamber.

Congressional leaders announced today that the ad interim president to be elected to fill the place of General Obregon, who was assassinated, will be chosen to serve two full years in order to avoid the disturbance incident to an extraordinary election which some leaders advocated calling early next summer. There is said to be complete accord on this plan in both houses.

It became known today that Ricardo Topete, leader of the Obregonista bloc and chairman of the permanent congressional committee, informed his colleagues that his brother, Fausto Topete, governor of the state of Sonora, refuses to be a candidate for the ad interim presidency. The man most favored seems to be Manuel Perez Trevino, governor of the state of Coahuila, former secretary of the department of industry, and chief of staff of the late General Obregon. It is known that President Calles looks upon him with favor.

Tomorrow's opening of the Mexican congress will be the most notable in many years, with the entire diplomatic corps, all state governors and army leaders attending. President Calles intends to depart from the usual practice of reading the department reports in addition to his own address. He will simply convey his own message which, according to authoritative sources, will be short but the most important heard in Mexico in many years. Besides notifying congress and the nation that he is not a candidate, the message will point out that the time has come for the republic to keep step with the world development and adhere more closely to Democracy based on the will and welfare of the many.

Elms Co. to Have MacClatchie Agency

A large line of MacClatchie oil well supplies have been installed this week at Elms Specialty company at 516 Seventh street, which will be the midcontinent warehouse for the MacClatchie products, according to Boyd McKinley of Compton, Calif., who installed the line here.

The Elms company has carried MacClatchie products for several years but due to the increase in business in this section during the last year a special warehouse has been established here. The Elms company will act as the MacClatchie distributing agency for supply houses in this section, Mr. McKinley said.

The MacClatchie company also builds airplanes and carries a line of airplane supplies. Airplanes will be used to make calls for that company in this territory within a short time, according to Mr. McKinley.

Three Given Hearings On Liquor Charges

Two men and one woman were given hearings on charges of violations of the federal liquor laws Friday by J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner.

W. J. Young was committed to jail on default of a $500 bond granted him on charges of possession of beer and whisky filed against him by George Garrett and Charles Gant, deputy sheriffs and W. W. Allen, city officer.

Charges of possession of whisky, filed against Joe Chambless, were dropped in a hearing while Beulah Praytor, who was charged with Chambless, was committed to jail on default of a $500 bond.

Complaint against them was filed by Charles Gant and George Garrett, deputy sheriffs.

SPUDDERS TROUNCE SPORTS FOR TENTH STRAIGHT, 5 TO 3

CHAMPS GAIN ON BUFFALOES

Turgeon Clouts 19th Home Run of Season

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The cinching of the second half championship by the Spudders is only a matter of a few days. Indeed, that gesture doubtless will be made when our good men are on the road trek that started today. After trouncing the Shreveport Sports here yesterday in the second and final of the bobbed series, the Spudders have an eight game lead over the Buffaloes of Houston, and 10 games to play.

Yesterday's victory gave the Spudders five straight over the Sports, and was their tenth victory in a row. It was achieved mainly through hitting on opportune occasions, and to some fast fielding.

Leo Dickerman, veteran elongated right-hander, was pounded off the hill in the second inning. This signalized a procession of chuckers used by Dugan Phelan, although the Spudders weren't driving any more curvers out of the pastime...Thompson, Hopkins and Wilkins made their appearances, and the former, a left-hander, is charged with the loss of the game.

Herb Cobb yielded 12 blows while the Spudders hammered 10 knocks. Sports were on bases frequently, but thanks to a combination of his own effective work, fast support and some slow base running by the hostiles, Herb stayed in there and won.

Fitzgerald, Jenkins and Roetz each banged two blows, both of Eddie's socks going for two bases and Tom and Howard clouting a double apiece. Turgeon banged his 19th home run of the season.

Dick Cox led the Sport attack with three knocks. Woehrs, Frazee and Holman got two each.

Shreveport Scores First

The Sports failed to score in the first inning though they had runners on second and third. Fitzgerald made a great running one-handed snatch of Whelan's drive. Roetz dropped Turgeon's throw on Watwood's grounder. Fitzgerald was under Woehrs' lift. Frazee singled to right, Watwood going to third. Frazee stole second. Turgeon threw out Cox.

Benton strolled but went out stealing and Fitzgerald's single in the Spudder half went for naught.

Shreveport scored in the second. Benton went back of second to throw out Hayworth. Roetz dropped Turgeon's throw on Deviveros' grounder. Holman singled to left-center, but was out at second on Jenkins' perfect peg to Turgeon, Deviveros going to third. Dickerman singled to center, scoring Deviveros. Whelan struck out.

Herb's clout put the Spudders ahead in their half. Jenkins doubled to the left-center wall. Deviveros took Swenson's lift. Cox dropped Roetz' drive after a hard run to the foul line, Jenkins stopping at third. Lapan was purposely passed, filling the bases. Cobb crashed a long double to right, scoring Jenkins and Roetz.

Sports Tie Score

Shreveport tied it in the third. Jenkins went far into center for Watwood's drive. Woehrs singled to right. Jenkins dashed almost to the stands for Frazee's foul. Cox singled to right, scoring Woehrs, and was out at second, Lamb to Benton.

The Spuds see-sawed back into the lead. Jenkins and Swenson singled and Roetz strolled, putting three on. Jenkins tallied while Deviveros threw out Lapan on Pete's slow bounder.

The Sports went out in order in the fourth. So did the Spudders. An error and hit batsman enabled the enemy to get a couple on in the fifth but there were two out and Frazee rolled to Roetz.

Wichita Falls tallied one. Jenkins went to second when Frazee dropped his fly and made a wild return to the infield. Roetz doubled to the left-center fence, scoring Jenkins.

Fast fielding helped turn back the Sports in the sixth. With one out and Cox, who had singled, on first, Deviveros hit safely to right. Benton made a speedy and perfect relay of Lamb's toss and Swenson tagged Cox at third.

Turgeon Hits Homer

Turgeon hit his home run in the sixth, a drive over the left field wall. Fitzgerald doubled to right, the ball hitting the foul line, but he was left at second.

Shreveport had runners on second and third in the seventh but two were out and they failed to score.

Umpire Grigg stopped the game while he made Dick Cox remove a handkerchief that the playful Sport outfielder had stuck up on the foul line.

The Spudders failed to get on base in their seventh.

The Sports filled the bases in the eighth but Turgeon went into short right to pull down Whelan's drive for the third out.

Foxy Grandpa Lapan beat out a bunt to Holman to start the Spudder half, to the intense chagrin of the Sports and merriment of the customers. But his teammates couldn't advance him farther than second.

Phelan's men threatened in the ninth, and did tally one run in that round. Watwood, first up, walked, but was forced by Woehrs Cobb to Benton. Frazee singled to left, and Cox also hit safely to center, Woehrs scoring. Jenkins took Hayworth's fly. Benton and Turgeon retired Cox on Deviveros' grounder.

Altus Prep Gridders In Pre-Season Camp

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Aug. 31.—The Altus High school football team in camp at the Boy Scout lodge near Lake Altus is rounding into shape for a hard season this fall. Five miles of mountain climbing every morning followed by an hour's skull practice is devloping the men both physically and mentally.

Coach Lloyd Chambers is with the men on the camp and J. C. Barnett, principal of the high school, joins the men over the week-ends. The men will return to Altus next Monday for the opening of school here.

SETS SWIM RECORD

COVENTRY, Eng., Aug. 31. (UP)—P. C. Samson, Illinois A. C. swimmer, won the English 100-yard swimming championship today, setting a new record of 54 2-5 seconds.

ROBERTSON TO JOIN SPUDDERS

Exporter Manager Will Be Reserve Catcher

Claude Robertson probably will join the Spudders, to finish the season in regalia of the champions, as second catcher. With Doc Smith suffering from two fractured ribs and other bruises sustained in a fall into a dugout at Shreveport, it is feared he will not be able to play again this season.

Permission to borrow a catcher from a Texas league club was given Manager Jim Galloway yesterday by President Fred Ankenman, president of the Houston club, providing a two-thirds vote of neutral clubs in the league is favorable. No opposition to securing a maskman is anticipated from other clubs.

Robertson is manager of the Beaumont Exporters but has indicated that he will be permitted by his club to join the Spudders after Labor Day. The Houston president, in a long distance telephone communication with Galloway, however stipulated that the new catcher must not be used only in case of injury to Pete Lapan. It is believed by Galloway that that restriction will be lifted for the balance of the regular season, however, though not for the playoff.

Speer and Franks Survive in Golf

Meet Today in Finals Of Fort Worth Tourney

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 31. (AP)—Jack Speer of Houston and Lafayette Franks of Dallas won their way into the final match of the Southwestern and River Crest Invitation Golf tournament here today by splashing through rain and mud to victory in two matches. They will meet Saturday in a 36 hole battle for the joint championships.

Franks, a youngster, shot sensational golf. He continued his steady game down to an even par. In the morning he defeated L. R. Robertson, a fellow townsman, 4 and 3, and in the afternoon he trimmed M. L. "Happy" Massingill, Fort Worth, 6 and 5. Massingill was the defending champion.

Speer, holder of the Texas state crown, played consistently brilliant golf to down Ross McDade of Shreveport, La., 3 and 2 in the morning, and in his second round he defeated Bob Scott, San Antonio, tourney medalist honor. Scott beat Speer going out but could not hold the pace, faltered at the turn and was quickly put down.

Columbia Plans Big 1929 Grid Campaign

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (UP)—Beginning with the fall of 1929, Columbia university will adopt the most formidable football program since 1900, Reynolds Benson, graduate manager of Athletics, announced today. Columbia and Colgate have signed a two-year contract to meet in 1929 and 1930. Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, and Cornell also have been scheduled for 1929.

BALL TEAMS TIE

South Side and Knight-Whippet baseball teams played a 1-1 tie yesterday on the Jalonic street diamond. Batteries: Hall and Lowrey; Browning and Braley.

Notes of the Game

The Spudders probably will be winners of the second half, beyond all doubt, when they return home Wednesday from a short jaunt opening today at Dallas. Tomorrow they play at Fort Worth, with a double header Monday; Tuesday they are at Dallas.

Reservations for Monday's double bill at Fort Worth may be made today with Guy Airey at the Spudder offices. They may be secured from him Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Texas hotel at Fort Worth.

Benton, Turgeon and Swenson handled a flock of infield chances and Jenkins and Fitzgerald roamed all over the outfield to haul down drives.

Our one fit catcher was almost hurt, in fact he was injured, but not badly, in the ninth inning. Lapan was hit on the throat by a foul ball but resumed play without suffering ill effects.

Roetz looks good on ground balls but the kid dropped a couple of pegs, one of which was right in his hands, by Turgeon.

Fussell Loses Final After Bucs Cop Opener

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 31. (AP)—Batting rallies in the third and the eighth innings at the expense of young Fred Fussell, Pirate southpaw, enabled the Cardinals to defeat the home team 6 to 2 in the second game of a double header here today, and so gain an even break on the day. The pirates won the opener, 6 to 5. Scores; first game:

Coyotes Established at Craterville

Gridders May Scrimmage With Oklahomans

(The following is the first of a series of letters written by Harvey Black, captain of the Wichita Falls High school football team, from the Coyotes' training camp at Craterville Park, Okla.—Editor's Note).

CRATERVILLE PARK, Aug. 29.
Dear Larry:

We arrived at camp at noon today without any trouble or delay of any kind.

We first had lunch and then established camp in the cool shadows of the wood. We have five large army tents with eight occupants to a tent.

All the boys are feeling fine and are very enthusiastic for training to start.

We are stationed close by the Lawton and Waurika, Okla., squads, so we hope to get in some scrimmage practice here with the neighboring teams.

More later.
Yours, Blackie.

Gene's Contention That He Owes Nothing to Fight Experts Upheld

No Pug Has Debt of Gratitude to Pay Writers, But You Can't Blame Weary Scribes for Being Cynical

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyr't., 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—It is the contention of Mister Gene Tunney's fondest admirers that the retired champion owes nothing to the gentlemen known as experts on the sour science. This contention is quite correct.

I have never yet seen a fighter who reached the top who owed anything to the experts—to the writers and commentators on the sour science. Not one. In 99 cases out of 100, the best a gladiator gets from the experts as he is struggling toward the peak is plenty of offhand blasting.

And as a rule after he reaches the summit, they put the blast on him stronger than ever. He can stand it then, to be sure. It is when he is on the climb that he needs a few kind words, but my observation has been that the only place for him to look for them is in the dictionary. I make bold to say that in no field of endeavor does a struggler have to contend with more adversity in the form of criticism from the observers of his efforts than an exponent of the sour science.

Not once, but a thousand times, I have read in the public prints the casual dismissal of some aspiring young gladiator after a punk showing in some such language as this:

"Biff Gadzooks' hopes of attaining the world's championship were completely dispelled last night when he lost a decision to Oswald McIntosh. Biff Gadzooks will never make a fighter."

Now it may have been poor Biff Gadzooks' fourth or fifth public appearance. He may have been overpowered by stage fright, or sick, or had a dozen other quite reasonable excuses, but there he is disposed of in a few brutal words by the expert.

How Would Expert Feel?

They are casual, offhand words to the expert, to be sure, but they mean a lot to the unfortunate toiler in the vineyard of the sour science.

They are taken more seriously perhaps than the expert meant when he wrote, by promoters, and ringworms, and Biff Gadzooks is set back a long time in his career.

I sometimes wonder how an expert would have felt if, in his cub days of expertorial endeavor, an editor had been as harsh in his judgment of his efforts as he is of the striving young gladiators—and how far could the expert have gone against that depressing influence?

In other times, it seems to me, allowances were made by the experts for lack of experience, for the conditions of the match, or for accidents, but not now. If a youthful gladiator doesn't show himself the making of another Dempsey right off the reel, he is nothing less than a bum.

Even the actors get a better break from their critics than the exponents of the sour science. Even the youthful baseball players are viewed with kindlier eyes. No fighter that ever lived was blasted more thoroughly or more generally than Mister Gene Tunney when he was on the rise, so Mister Tunney's success was without benefit of the experts.

They said he couldn't fight, and never would be able to fight. Sometimes they put the blast on a fighter because they don't care for the way his manager combs his hair, or for divers and sundry other reasons, but in this instance they staked their reputations on an out-and-out opinion. That's why Mister Tunney owes them nothing, as his fondest admirers state, though I cannot agree that Mister Tunney owes the sour science nothing.

His Debt Is to Game

He owes it everything he is.

He owes his money, most of his swell society friends, and all the attention he is receiving to the dear old sour science, no matter what he says or thinks to the contrary.

Mister Tunney is scarcely a fool, and he realizes full well that if he hadn't been the world heavyweight champion, he wouldn't be followed by writers and photographers, and made the subject of columns of newspaper stories.

I don't believe Mister Tunney thinks he was invited to Yale to lecture on Shakespeare because of his knowledge of Shakespeare, and without reference to the fact that he was heavyweight champion. He wasn't getting much attention when he was calling himself American light heavyweight champion, and he wasn't chased by reporters and photographers then.

But as far as the experts are concerned, Mister Tunney is clear of obligation. So is Will Harrison Dempsey, the actor man. The way they put the blast on that gentleman before, and after, was a caution to kittens. And there doesn't seem to be a fighter around today that will owe them anything, because I judge from what the experts say that none of these sour scientists can fight, and none of them will ever be able to fight.

That strikes me as a pretty sweeping sort of dismissal, but suggest a name and then listen to the arraignment. You may not hear much of some good showing that an unfortunate scientist had made in his life time, but you will hear plenty about his bad showings. I wonder if the experts always score a hundred at their daily stint?

The Experts Are Cynical

And yet you cannot blame the experts a great deal if they seem to be cynical, and at times callous. They have to listen to a great deal of tripe from the managers and promoters of the sour science that turns out to be wholly without foundation.

They get tons of circulars and letters every week from the managerial tribe boosting sour scientists in wild-eyed terms. The average expertorial ear is slightly curled up at the edges from the heat of managerial breath wasted on it in vocal effort to get a little publicity for some bindle stiff who cannot hold up his hands.

The managers have a mistaken idea that publicity helps their fighters. As a matter of fact it is more apt to hurt him if—as is usually the case—the fighters can't live up to the publicity. I often try to be kind to the struggling sour scientists, but I don't believe that anything laudatory I ever said or any one of them ever helped him, and sometimes it has probably harmed him.

If a gladiator can really fight, he doesn't need the experts' boosting, and it is a sure thing they can't hurt him. If he belts out his opponents, they have to pay attention to him as a matter of news, and as a character of public interest. If he can't fight, he doesn't need any attention, anyway. When that old bell rings, and the boys take the center of the ring, the pugilistic proletariat judges their merit, and not the experts.

And when at last a fighter who has been clouted for years by the experts, vide Mister Gene Tunney, literally batters his way to the top, and the cheers of the crowd beat against his ear-drums, I suppose it is only human nature if he gazes down at the expertorial crew, and mutters to them, coldly:

"Is that so?"

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Copyr't, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—The talking pictures have not yet reached that round point where the final analysis is paying dividends on the preliminary survey.

The synchronization of voice and gesture does not yet dovetail with the medley of sound and gyrations.

The talkies are going to get better of course. At present the flappers are all talking bass and the villains are singing like Harz Mountain canaries.

And the close-ups of the kisses do not sound exactly right. No heroine's bridgework is so loose that osculation should sound like Chinese fireworks.

At present the talkies are crying when they laugh and chortling when they weep. This is due to mechanical difficulties which will soon be overcome and we guarantee that when you next hear the clatter of cocoanut shells a hoss will not walk in wearing rubber boots.

There is a fine line of demarcation between the bloop of a champagne bottle and the blump of an overworked gasoline stove departing through the ceiling.

But expert engineers are working on the problem and soon the talkies will entertain you with all the homelike noises that you could get from undesirable neighbors.

It takes some ability to set crossword puzzles to music even in an industry where cross words are not puzzles.

The first step is to have absolute quiet in the scenario department.

Which means Hollywood will have to call out the police and fire departments to take that megaphone away from Cecil De Mille.

We predict a great future for the talkies. But it will not be so good for the directors who must be face to face in order to do their long distance telephoning.

Lott, Hennessey Beat French in Straight Sets

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31. (AP)—Rising to supreme heights, George M. Lott, Jr., and John Henenssey, top-seeded American pair in the national tennis doubles championship today administered a crushing straight set defeat to Henri Crochet and Jacques Brugnon of France in their replayed semi-finals match. The scores were 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

Palestine-San Angelo Contest Is Postponed

PALESTINE, Texas, Aug. 31. (AP)—Rain forced postponement of the third game of the series between San Angelo, West Texas league champions, and Palestine, winners of the East Texas league pennant, scheduled for today.

The clubs left for San Angelo where games will be played Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

CADETS START WORK

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 31. (UP)—With 72 cadets reporting for the first football practice Friday afternoon, Captain "Biff" Jones, Army coach, started active preparation for one of the hardest schedules a West Point team has ever faced.

BANTAMS SIGNED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (UP)—Kid Francis of Italy and Al Brown, Panama negro, were signed for a 12-round bout at Madison Square garden Sept. 13 by Jess McMahon.

PANTHERS BEAT STEERS TWICE

Atzmen Score 19 to 8 And 7 to 2 Victories

DALLAS, Aug. 31. (AP)—Atz laughed last and loudest today after his Panthers reciprocated for Thursday's double defeat at the hands of the Steers by knockin the Herd down in both ends of a bargain bill, 19 to 8 and 7 to 2, a program that marked the last meeting of the two teams until 1929.

In spite of the double loss, Dallas remained in the first division by the hair-line margin of one percentage point, San Antonio being idle. Score: first game:

U. S. Easily Keeps Walker Golf Cup

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (AP)—The American team today retained the Walker cup by defeating British golfers almost unanimously, taking 11 points and losing only one, when Chick Evans yielded 1 down to T. A. Torrance. Bobby Jones, captain of the Americans, led the way by defeating the British champion, T. P. Perkins, 13 and 12.

Starting four points to the good by sweeping all the foursomes, Americans took seven of the eight single matches today. Evans lost on the last green after a desperate uphill fight to recover from the slump that dropped him five down at the third nine of the 36-hole match.

The Britons have never been able to win the cup, but this is the worst defeat they have suffered.

BLACKBURNE SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (UP)—Manager Lena Blackburne of the Chicago White Sox drew a three-days' suspension today for protesting the decision of Umpire Barry in a game between the Sox and Athletics at Philadelphia last week.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE — (388) Our Presidents

During Jackson's administration, South Carolina, under the leadership of John C. Calhoun, declared that a law passed by Congress, increasing the tax on all cotton and woolen goods imported from abroad, should not be enforced in that state. The people became heated; war threatened, but Jackson stood firm, declaring that unless South Carolina obeyed he would send troops.

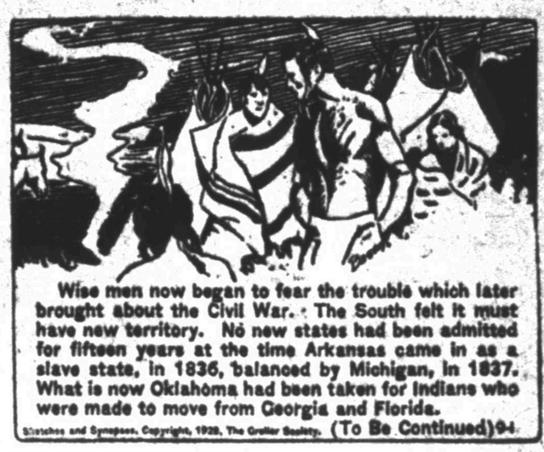

By NEA Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1928-29.

Jackson's firmness and the wisdom of Henry Clay saved the situation. Clay persuaded Congress to make the tax lighter.

The affair stirred bitterness, however; the South holding that imported manufactures were cheaper than New England's.

Wise men now began to fear the trouble which later brought about the Civil War. The South felt it must have new territory. No new states had been admitted for fifteen years at the time Arkansas came in as a slave state, in 1836, balanced by Michigan, in 1837. What is now Oklahoma had been taken for Indians who were made to move from Georgia and Florida.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Your Daily Weight

The state sealer of weights and measures in California has just given out some figures which should be interesting to my readers who are trying to figure how to keep better figures. He finds that the people of California are so interested in watching their weight that they actually spend on an average of a dollar a year apiece on weighing themselves on the penny scales. This average doubtless holds good all over North America, and if this is so, we are spending over $130,000 every year just to watch our weights go up or down. Doubtless at least as many people are also weighing themselves on the free machines found in drug stores and on grocery store scales.

These weighing machine statistics indicate very clearly how much the average person is interested in health, and shows the general belief that a normal weight and good health are synonymous. While health cannot be accurately measured on the scales, our interest in watching our weights is nevertheless of some value.

The thin man is often underweight because of weak digestive power or because his energy is wasted through mental overwork, or because of worry or some of the other destructive and enervating emotions. These causes must be recognized, and stuffing with food usually does not help, but often makes a thin man thinner and is liable to bring on a series of disorders which may be difficult to cure. The use of codliver oil, or large quantities of milk, cream, fats, starches and sugars will seldom produce any permanent effects in the gaining of healthy weight.

The thin man who is underweight because of glandular derangements, enervation or insufficient digestive power, should be warned that overfeeding may only make him worse in every way. The problem of "girth" control is much easier and is almost entirely a question of diet and exercise. Although the fat man may have an abnormal tendency to avoirdupois because of improper functioning of his glandular system, his reduction of weight can be accomplished through vigorous exercise and the selection of the right kinds of food, and the use of these foods in whatever limited quantities are necessary to accomplish the desired result.

The thin man must be just as careful to use the right foods and should usually eat three meals a day, with good combinations of the right food. He should also regulate his exercises and learn emotional control.

The fat man should not use over two meals a day, and should exercise in the gymnasium at least three or four times a week besides taking long walks.

If such rules are followed, the hand on the weighing machine may then show increased health each day, as it registers more for the thin man and less for the fat one.

Questions and Answers

Question: G. L. writes: "Will you please prescribe a remedy for my mother's feet. The soles are covered with solid callouses, and her feet never perspire. They ache and pain so that sleep is almost impossible. Even the weight of her body hurts them."

Answer: Your mother can remove these callouses by treating her feet through soaking them in hot Epsom salts water. The treatment should continue for about 30 minutes, keeping the water reasonably warm all during this time. A handful of the salts to the ordinary basin of water is sufficient. This soaking will soften the callouses, and when the skin all over the feet becomes normal in texture it is then advisable to vary the treatment by putting the feet alternately in hot and cold water, finishing with cold water to induce a good circulation and strengthen the muscles of the feet and also the muscles which control the pores of the skin. Her feet will then perspire normally.

Question: T. C. asks: "In following your menus, when should me and two-year-olds have their milk?"

Answer: In my opinion, children who are under three years of age should not be using much of anything else except milk. Certainly no solid food should be used until at least two years of age, and then only the non-starchy cooked vegetables. If you will give your child plenty of orange juice or other fruits with the milk he will be well nourished and require no other food until he is about three years old.

Question: Mrs. C. G. asks: "Does low blood pressure in adults ever prove serious?"

Answer: Low blood pressure means weakness, and although many people live many years before a serious disease develops, it is nevertheless true that any general weakness which produces low blood pressure is a forerunner of very serious disorders.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By DE WOLFE HOPPER

De Wolf Hopper is that famous old leading man of the Gilbert and Sullivan Comic Opera company. He also played leads for the McCall Opera company, and for his own troupe.

DE WOLF HOPPER

De Wolfe has had an assortment of wives, including Edna Wallace Hopper, the famous 60-year-old flapper.

"My favorite bit of humor," Hopper told me, "may not be a joke at all. But I like it because it always drew a bigger laugh from audiences than any other line I have ever had. Perhaps the fact that it is original with me has something to do with it being my pet gag.

"When the discussion of women would come up I would say: 'Gently touching upon that bit of artifice that some of the fair sex employ to improve their pictorial appeal, have you ever noticed that with a lady, the redder her lips get the whiter her nose gets? Now that's a funny thing: for with our sex it's just the reverse!'"

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—Highly conflicting private crop indications made their appearance in the New York cotton market today but failed materially to stimulate business, although on the whole they appeared to encourage the larger views of the crop and brought in a little more selling during the afternoon. December contracts which had advanced to 18.81 early, broke to 18.50 and closed at 18.58 with the general market closing very steady at net declines of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 9 to 17 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, reports of rains in the central belt and unfavorable crop reports from the southwest. The initial advance met considerable realizing, but after working back to about yesterday's closing figures, prices firmed up again on the outlook for further showers in eastern and central belt sections and doubt as to rains in Texas had been sufficient.

October advanced to 18.98 and March to 18.80, or about 15 to 17 points above yesterday's closing figures, but the buying subsided at this level and the market turned easier during the afternoon.

Three private end-August crop reports were published around mid-day. The smallest of these crop figures appeared to attract very little comment, while the two larger evidently brought in some selling, part of which may have been in liquidation of long accounts.

Selling orders also reached here from the south in later trading attributed partly to hedging and the market eased off to 18.65 for October and 18.50 for March or about 30 to 33 points from the high level of the morning and 14 to 16 points lower on the more active positions. Trading became a little more active on the decline and closing prices were a few points up from the lowest on covering for over the three-day adjournment, as the market will remain closed until next Tuesday morning.

Exports today 18,300, making 281,751 so far this season. Port receipts 31,060. U. S. port stocks 474,069.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31. (AP)—The cotton market was quite active today despite the impending triple holiday and prices fluctuated within a fairly wide range. Following an early advance on bullish crop advices the market weakened later under general selling brought out by bearish private estimates and December contracts traded off from 18.39 to 18.05 and closed at 18.13, compared with 18.23, yesterday's closing figure. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 9 to 10 points.

The market opened steady despite relatively easier Liverpool cables and first trades here showed gains of 12 to 13 points, and active positions soon traded up to levels 16 points above the previous close. The early demand was probably based on the unfavorable private reports of crop deterioration in Texas. By the end of the first hour October sold up to 18.34 and December 18.39.

When the demand was satisfied rather liberal selling followed publication of three private crop reports making the indicated yield ranging from 13,929,000 bales to 15,-515,000 based on condition averages ranging from 58.2 to 63.8 per cent of a normal. Prices were on the downgrade for practically the remainder of the session with only a few minor rallies. In the late trading October reached 18.00 and December, 18.05, or 34 points down from the highs. At the close shorts covered for over the holiday and October rallied and closed at 18.09 and December 18.13, or 9 to 10 points net lower.

Turnover of 4,000,000 Shares Marks Hectic Session On Stock Exchange

By BRODAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—Steel took a more prominent position in further advance in the stock market today. Its strength offset calling of $40,000,000 loans by banks and resulted in total turnover of 4,000,000 shares, the biggest session since early in June.

The tape was 25 minutes late at times and pandemonium reigned around General Motors and others posts where prices were skyrocketed. Baldwin jumped 35 points on only a few trades. Motors was jumped 8⅝, Radio more than 10 and Continental Can over 6 points. Steel gained over 2 points as did Allied Chemical. Resumption of group operations caused an 8-point rise in Combustion.

Railroads were in much better demand, with Missouri Pacific and St. Paul each advancing over 2 points. Cerro de Pasco added over a point to its gain while other coppers were quiet and steady. Oils remained rather dull but firm.

Loose Wiles, after remaining quiet through most of the session, jumped into prominence in the final moments of trading as it reached new high record prices. Buying was influenced by the report that Arthur Cutten and his associates had accomplished another stock market coup comparable to the one they executed in Baldwin many months ago. They started buying more than 20 points lower last week, as mentioned here at the time.

Now it is stated they have accumulated sufficient stock for control. The resulting advance in the stock, it was stated, caused short selling by insiders who based their operations on what they thought on earnings. The position of the new interests, it was said, is based on their study as to the long pull prospects of the company and ideas they have as to management so that the insiders are having difficulty in covering their short commitments.

General Motors broke through 200 with a rush following report here yesterday that those who should know its affairs were again accumulating in expectation of a substantial stock dividend at the November meeting of directors. Other motors were comparatively quiet. Yellow truck advanced a point as a leading stock exchange firm stressed the long distant outlook for increased earnings under management of General Motors. As stated here many months ago, the General Motors interests plan to make Yellow the nucleus for expansion of their activity in the motor truck and bus field.

Continental Can registered a new high price with report in circulation that much of the stock purchased recently was being taken out of the street so that a technical corner was gradually being effected. Savage Arms gained further also as it was rumored that the company is about to announce a new peace-time product which will add further to improving earning. Revenue from the latest manufacture, the Health Motor, it was stated, is increasing each month. Nickel broke into new high ground, also, with biggest demand from the same group of brokers that have been active in all the advances of the stock. Combustion's sudden bullish demonstration followed report that a new group was being formed to work in the stock. Richfield was the single oil to move forward, following the announcement of the deposit of the Pan-American western stock. Atlantic Refining is being quietly accumulated due to knowledge that a four for one split up is coming soon.

Grain

GRAIN REVIEW
By Thomas Temple Hoyne

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (US)—Grain markets continued quiet today in a typical pre-holiday trade, which consisted mainly of evening up trades in anticipation of the first deliveries on September contract today and private crop reports due Tuesday.

At the close wheat was ⅜ to ⅝c higher, corn was ⅛ to 1⅜c up, oats were steady to ⅝c higher and rye was unchanged to ⅜c higher.

Wheat futures ruled firm and higher, with prices holding to a comparatively narrow range in the local market. The same conditions were manifested in the other principal markets. Liverpool finished ⅜ to ⅝c higher, Buenos Aires was 1 to 1⅛c up at mid-session and prices were ⅜ to ⅝c better at the close in Winnipeg.

There was still a paucity of any news regarding wheat which might serve as a basis for aggressive action. Weather conditions in the northwest continued favorable and export demand was characterized as moderate, with no sales reported up to the close of the session.

Trade in the corn pit was very light and because of this the market was susceptible to scattered buying or selling. Commission house interest was mainly confined to resting orders. These were encountered in the September due to its wide swings in price, with a lower trend early and a sharply higher finish.

The cash wheat market was steady with the basis unchanged to 1c higher and prices about unchanged. The milling demand continued fair. Local shipping sales aggregated 23,000 bushels and warehouse receipts for 31,982 bushels were canceled.

Corn was irregular in the spot market with the basis ½c higher to 1c lower and prices steady to 1½c off. Demand continued active and local shipping sales were 106,000 bushels.

Electra Lions Get New Member

Special to The Record News.

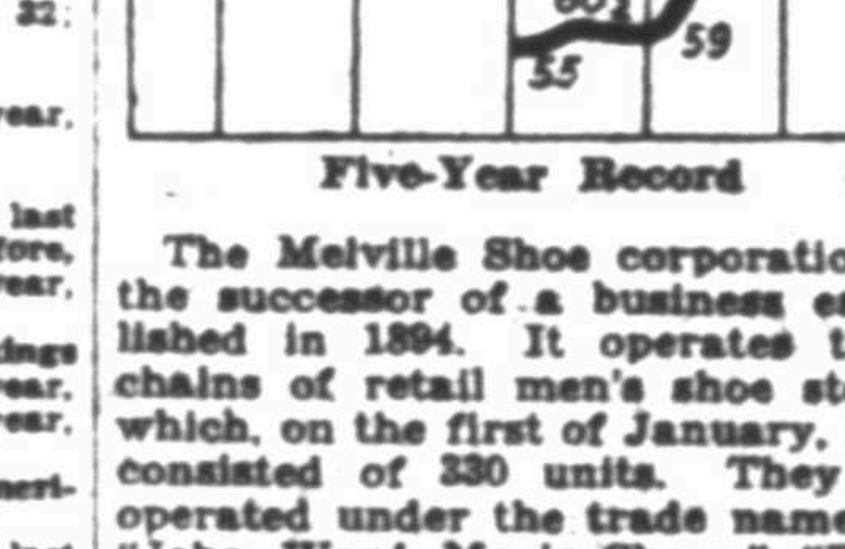

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 31.—Dr. P. E. Fish, a member of the Parmley-Ogden hospital staff of physicians, was introduced as a new member of the Lion's club at the regular weekly meeting of the club Thursday noon. Harry Crawford of Dallas was introduced as a visitor.

F. M. Baker delivered the invocation, following the song, "America," sung by the members. During the business session, W. A. Asbill gave an account of the charter night of the Chillicothe club on last Tuesday night, which was attended by eight members of the Electra club. The club heartily endorsed the cleanup campaign which is being started by Mayor George Ragland and sponsored by the Electra Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. Assurance of their hearty support and co-operation was freely expressed.

In the social hour which followed the luncheon, Miss Margery Beasley gave two highly interesting readings and Miss Letrice Woffard and Mrs. Y. B. Akin rendered two musical numbers.

MELVILLE SHOE CORPORATION

Five-Year Record

The Melville Shoe corporation is the successor of a business established in 1894. It operates three chains of retail men's shoe stores, which, on the first of January, 1928, consisted of 330 units. They are operated under the trade names of "John Ward Men's Shoes," "Rival Shoe Company," "Thom McAn," and "Thom McAn Gold Front Stores." The stores are located in many of the principal cities as far west at Denver, and as far south as San Antonio and as far north as Duluth.

Manufacturing plants are located at Manchester and Nashua, N. H., and have a combined capacity of 20,000 pairs of shoes a day. The Nashua plant is to be moved to Worcester, Mass.

In 1927 net income amounted to $1,234,701. This was equivalent to $70.37 a share on the preferred stock and $12.91 a share on the common, and compared with $866,-616 in 1926.

There is no funded debt, although the realty subsidiary has mortgages to the extent of $270,000 outstanding. Capital stock outstanding consists of $1,756,300 in 8 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par and 86,061 shares of no par common. The preferred is accompanied by warrants entitling the holder to purchase one share of common for every share of preferred held, at $35 a share prior to October 1, 1928. The preferred has no voting power except after four quarterly dividends have been in default when it has exclusive voting privileges.

Regular quarterly dividends have been paid at the required rate of 8 per cent since 1916. On the common stock the present rate is $1 a quarter, having been raised from 75 cents on February 1, 1928. In 1928 an extra dividend of $10 a share in preferred stock was paid on the common.

Sales for the first three months of 1928 amounted to $4,265,369.

As of January 1, 1928, total current assets amounted to $4,724,837; current liabilities were $1,499,498; net working capital $3,225,339, and book value applicable to the common stock, $42.38 a share.

Crude Production Increases in July

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—Production of crude petroleum in the United States during July, as announced today by the bureau of mines, amounted to 75,426,000 barrels, representing a daily average of 2,432,100 barrels or an increase over the daily average output in June of 15,500 barrels.

"The majority of the states, including the important producing states of California and Oklahoma," the statement said, "reported decreased output in July, but these declines were more than overbalanced by the West Texas district where the daily average output increased approximately 50,000 barrels. The various fields of the West Texas district produced an average of 365,-000 barrels per day in July as compared with 262,000 barrels for the Seminole district."

Seminole Operators Seek Dissolution Of Injunction Attacking Proration

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 31. (AP)—Operators of the Seminole oil area rallied to the cause of restriction and proration production by unanimously voting in a meeting here today to seek early dissolution of the temporary restraining order granted the Reiter-Foster Oil corporation in federal court at Oklahoma City yesterday, enjoining the corporation commission from enforcing proration.

In addition, the operators decided to seek a receivership for the Reiter-Foster leases in the Little River district of the Seminole area if the court order is dissolved.

The Reiter-Foster restraining order, returnable Sept. 8, obtained from Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught, prevents the corporation commission and the attorney general from enforcing the commission order for proration of production and restriction of drilling.

The commission's order, in effect since June 15, was issued on application of a majority of operators in the Greater Seminole field. It limits production to 1,600 barrels of oil per day for each 40 acres, from Aug. 15 to Sept. 10.

The meeting here was called by Ray M. Collins, umpire for the Seminole area, who was en route to Oklahoma City yesterday to cite the Reiter-Foster corporation for violation of the commission's order when the federal court injunction was issued.

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad Department between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Where ads are ordered and paid for no refunds are allowed where ads are cancelled before expiration date.

SUNDAY DEADLINE BOTH PAPERS 1 P. M. SATURDAY.

CLOSING HOURS FOR STRAIGHT CLASSIFIED ADS
Ads accepted for week days until 6 p. m. day before publication and for Sunday's issue until 7 p. m. Saturday night.

NO DISCONTINUANCE ORDERS WILL BE TAKEN AFTER 6 P. M.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS
from 4 to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

Ads coming in after closing hours will not appear until next morning's issue, with exception of Lost and Found. Ads coming under this classification will appear under the Too Late to Classify column in the evening edition.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headings and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

Texas Temperance Leader Deplores Sheppard's Stand for Gov. Al Smith

Special to The Record News
AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, president of the Texas Women's Christian Temperance union, today addressed a letter to Senator Morris Sheppard, Texarkana, lamenting his action in publicly announcing his support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee.

"The Texas Women's Christian Temperance union, mustering thousands of patriotic Christian women together with thousands of friends and co-workers, do deeply regret that you propose to actively support for president of the United States the most outstanding wet of the nation," she wrote.

"You express faith in Governor Smith's oath that he will enforce prohibition laws. Please be reminded that when he was elected governor of New York, he took an oath to uphold the constitution, which was similar to the oath he will take as president. Under his interpretation of the meaning of that oath, he performed the act which repealed the state prohibition enforcement code which had previously been enacted to secure the proper enforcement of the 18th amendment in New York, thus leaving the state since that time practically without enforcement."

Family Asks Aid In Locating Boy

Who knows where a 10-year-old barefoot boy with brown hair and blue eyes may be found?

Mrs. Effie McHam, secretary of the family relief association, has a kindly word for him and is searching for him.

The child, whose name is not revealed, was beaten by his father with an electric light cord—and there were other things. Then the little fellow disappeared. That was several days ago.

Since that time he has been reported as having been seen along the river banks, but nothing definite is known. Mrs. McHam believes someone is kind enough to help the lad, and also believes that if the boy knew that kindness awaited him, he would return.

The Family Relief association in the city auditorium has become active in the case, and Mrs. McHam as secretary, promises there will be no more cruelty to the boy.

Anyone knowing where he can be found should communicate with Mrs. McHam either day or night. Her telephone number at her home is 2-2472, and her office number is 2-2183, the city auditorium.

The boys is further described as being slightly over 4 feet tall, having a ruddy complexion, and wearing an old pair of gray trousers. He had on a blue shirt but no hat shoes or stockings.

All Look Alike To This Copper

They all look alike to the traffic officers of Wichita Falls.

And it doesn't make any difference who 'they" are.

George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and W. E. McBroom, city clerk, had important business at the ball park Friday afternoon, that of helping the Spudders win a game from Shreveport.

There was one nice parking place. At least it looked nice.

The city manager started for it. The police started for the city manager and waved him away. He just couldn't park there, and that was all there was to it.

And the city manager parked his car somewhere else, remarking as he did so: "I hope they are all that way."

Charter Granted To Eclipse Sales Agency

The Eclipse Sales agency, distributors in North Texas for the Eclipse force and sight feed lubricator for use on gas and steam engines, was incorporated in Austin Friday, according to a dispatch received here. The Eclipse company has been in operation in Wichita Falls about six months prior to incorporation, according to W. H. Street, one of the incorporators.

Capital stock of the concern is shown as $30,000. Incorporators are R. W. Dilday, Roy Brundage and Mr. Street.

Sad to relate, the midnight matinee that was to have ushered in Labor Day here will not be presented at the Strand theater. Hans Smith, manager of the Strand, has asked us to say that it was found impossible to get the picture here in time for the matinee which was announced for 11:45 o'clock Sunday night. It will be here in time for the opening on Monday, however, he said.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is seldom that a man in charge of all the theaters in a city takes time out to write a letter to a dramatic writer, especially one like the writer of this column. However, H. C. Federer, city manager of Dent theaters in Wichita Falls, took time out to drop us the following line on "Lilac Time," a new vitaphone masterpiece, which will open Friday at the strand. Here is the letter:

◇ ◇ ◇

I have just returned from Dallas where it was my privilege to attend a private screening of this production and then attend the opening of this picture at one of Dallas' largest playhouses. It is a picture which has been running in New York City and Los Angeles since July 15 at prices of $2.00 top. This picture is to secure its national release on September 1, but due to a special arrangement, Publix theaters were given a premier showing of this production in their houses in Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth.

◇ ◇ ◇

After watching the picture in a cold screening room, it was agreed by all present that it was one of the outstanding productions of the year 1928 and after witnessing the opening show at the Palace theater, which was packed to capacity, there was no doubt in my mind that it is one of the greatest audience pictures ever made. It is a story of the aerial side of the world war and the first picture of this type ever attempted, and the aerial battles and the aerial accidents are the most realistic that I have ever seen. I am referring to the picture, "Lilac Time" starring Colleen Moore, which will open a week's engagement at the Strand theater, commencing Sept. 7.

◇ ◇ ◇

The picture is not a talker, but is sound synchronized and scored by one of the best orchestras yet to be heard over the vitaphone. You will please pardon this method of telling you about this picture, but it is so seldom that we get a picture which is universal in its appeal, that I think every man, woman and child in Wichita Falls should be told of such production, and your column, being widely read in this city, I would like to ask that you make special mention of this production.—H. C. Federer.

Chauncey Rites To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Mrs. W. B. Chauncey, who died Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in a local hospital, will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Floral Heights Methodist church with Dr. S. A. Barnes, pastor, officiating.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of Mrs. Chauncey's Sunday school class.

Active pallbearers were announced as follows: Levi Gambill, Bernard Martin, J. W. Donehoo, Milton Johnson, Lester Jones and J. W. Cantwell.

Mrs. Chauncey is survived by her husband, one son, Ford Chauncey, two sisters, Mrs. A. D. Buie of Gilmer, and Mrs. H. E. Gable of Dallas.

Head of Tuf Nut Co. To Visit Local Plant

R. A. Nelson, president of the Tuf Nut Garment Manufacturing company, is due in Wichita Falls next week for the beginning of operations at the new plant here, it was learned from F. E. McLain, manager, Friday night.

The first machines will be started Tuesday, and gradually more employes will be added, Mr. McLain said. The factory building has been built at Fifth street and Travis avenue, and is said to be one of most modern of its kind in America.

BOND ALLOWED

Lee Roy Black waived hearing and was granted a $1000 bond on charges of violating the Mann act by transporting a woman from Hobart, Okla., to Wellington, Texas, on July 17, 1927, before J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner, Friday.

Wichita Falls

Folks, Facts, Fancies

The general board of the Family Relief association will meet at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon instead of on Friday as was erroneously announced Friday morning. The meeting will be held in the city council chembers at the city hall.

Wanted Service

Radio service on street repair is expected by some citizens.

Friday, shortly before noon, a man called up the city manager's office complaining about the condition of Sixth street between Travis and Austin avenues.

Friday shortly after noon, the same man called the same office that the street had the same holes in it that were there before noon.

Roads Widened

Work on the grading and widening of the roads in Scotland park is progressing rapidly, and will be pushed forward next week, immediately after Labor day, it was learned at the offices of the park department.

There are 4,400 feet of roadway in the park, all of which is being graded, and a considerable portion widened to 30 feet. It will take about a week more of work to get the park roads in the best of shape, it was said at the park offices.

Misses Sadie Tevis of 1708 Burnett street, and Anna Keevil of 1655 Collins street, are visiting friends in Corpus Christi.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weber of 1629 Britian street are spending two weeks in Colorado.

T. S. Masterson, who has been assistant accountant of the M-K-T railway here for several years, has been transfered to Smithville as office engineer of the Katy road.

H. L. Tingle, traveling freight agent of the Canadian Pacific railway, visited the M-K-T offices here Friday.

W. Ralph Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, is due back in town over the week-end to resume his duties after a vacation spent in touring South Texas and adjoining states.

Conn. Official Given City Financial Report

Information requested by the state bank commissioner of Connecticut regarding the financial condition of Wichita Falls has been forwarded by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, at the request of the Connecticut state banking department.

Wichita Falls bonds already are legal for investment by savings banks in that state, Mr. McBroom said, and the new statement of the city, showing the recent bond issue as replacing a number of warrants, will make a still stronger statement.

Mr. McBroom said that the bonds are now legal investments in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, and that efforts are being made to extend this to more of the eastern states.

ORDER STOPS VOTE COUNTING

Smith County Judge's Bench Contested

TYLER, Texas, Aug. 31. (INS)—Judge J. R. Warren of the seventh district court today granted a temporary restraining order against the Democratic executive committee of Smith county wherein the old committee and the new committee which takes office Saturday, are enjoined from canvassing the returns in the race for county judge between D. R. Pendleton and Will D. Pace in the run-off primary of Aug. 25. The committee is further enjoined not to declare Pace the nominee of the Democratic party for county judge.

This action by the court was upon the petition filed by Pendleton and is the aftermath of one of the hottest campaigns in the history of Smith county.

In the first primary Pendleton was declared the winner by 26 votes. Pace immediately filed a contest before the county executive committee, alleging irregularities in the election. It was agreed that the names of both candidates would be placed on the run-off ballot. In the second election Pace was declared the winner by 166 votes.

In his petition Pendleton alleged that the second election, in as it related to the race for county judge was invalid and that having been declared the nominee in the first primary, he is entitled to have his name certified on the party ticket in November. Judge Warren set the matter down for hearing Sept. 6.

Specifications Drawn For Lease of Airport

Specifications are being drawn by George D. Fairtrace for the leasing to an airport manager of the Wichita Falls municipal airport on the Burkburnett road, it was learned at the city auditorium Friday. The field is now under temporary management.

Mr. Fairtrace explained that the specifications are being drawn so that those who may be interested in the field will have a basis for their bids that will be comparable.

Three local men already have considered the mater of managing or leasing the field from the city, and it is expected that action of some kind will be taken in the next few days.

Extension Courses Offered to Teachers

Extension courses in education and English will be available to teachers here so that they may, during the school year, obtain credit for nine resident hours.

This announcement was made Friday by Mrs. Wennonah Roach Ware, principal of the Bowie school, who is serving as registrar for the North Texas State Teachers college extension courses here.

The class will meet twice each week, and will be under the direction of Dr. George Medders of the English department of N. T. S. T. C. Those who wish to enroll are asked to write to Mrs. Ware, care the Bowie school, before September 18.

Local Swimmers Enter State Meet

Mrs. Harry Van Emden, her two small daughters, and Woodrow Bristow have been entered in the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation swimming meet to be held at Fort Worth Labor day, it was announced Friday by C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks.

The meet will be held at Sycamore park and will start at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, he said. It will include all kinds of diving and swimming, and is a state championship affair.

Building Permits For 1928 Total $1,257,334

Building permits for 1928 totaled $1,257,334 at the end of August, it was learned at the office of W. E. McBroom, city clerk, Friday. The August total was $98,190. This is the lowest this year and compares with $119,263 for July of this year, and $337,580 for August 1927.

U. S. ASKED TO GENEVA MEET

Council Refuses to Interpret Monroe Doctrine

GENEVA, Aug. 31. (UP)—An opportunity for the United States to participate in the work of the League of Nations council was extended today upon the suggestion of William Lyon MacKenzie, King of Canada. The council voted to invite Washington to send representatives to the January session of the council for participation in the new central board.

At the same time it was learned the council probably will refuse to interpret the Monroe doctorine as demanded by Costa Rica. According to authoritative sources, the council feels it is impossible to interpret the United States declaration because it concerns only the nations directly interested.

To satisfy Costa Rica's objections to inclusion of the Monroe doctorine in the league covenant, however, the matter was discussed at a secret session today. It was understood the council will point out that mentioning o fthe doctrine in the covenant does not add to or subtract its force and attention will be called to President Wilson's interpretation during the peace conference.

The council will plunge into the final work Saturday, preparing for the opening of the general league assembly Monday.

Widow of Former Pastor Here Dies

Mrs. J. A. Stafford, 65, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Brothers, 1700 Pearl street, Friday night. Mrs. Stafford was the widow of Rev. J. A. Stafford who was pastor of the First Methodist church South here 20 years ago.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, but it was said Friday night that burial will probably be in Farmersville, Texas. In addition to Mrs. Brothers, Mrs. Stafford is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank Jackson; and a son and daughter in Dallas, Miss Inez Stafford and Emmett Stafford.

Coolidge Assured Ohio And Indiana Are Safe

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 31. (AP)—Continuing his survey of political conditions in the middle west and northwest, President Coolidge was assured today by Walter Brown, assistant secretary of commerce, that Ohio and Indiana would be strongly Republican in the elections.

Brown also carried assurances that the national Republican campaign organization daily was becoming more compact and more effective and that campaign plans were being carried out with harmony and smoothness.

Police Declared To Be On Bootleggers' Payroll

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31. (AP)—Judge Edwin O. Lewis, addressing the grand jury investigating activities of Philadelphia gangsters, hijackers and bootleggers, declared today high police officials are on the bootleggers' payroll. He said if the directors of public safety and the civil service commission failed to get to the bottom of the situation he would appoint a special commission under the authority of the city charter to go into it.

Soviet Agrees to Sign Peace Pact But Assails British Reservations

MOSCOW, Aug. 31. (UP)—The Soviet union today agreed to sign the Briand-Kellogg treaty to outlaw war.

The decision of Moscow had been looked to with some aprehension, and fears of European statesmen were not groundless. In a note accompanying the adherence of Russia to the pact, Soviet authorities voiced scathing criticism of the anti-war declaration and of reservations which England, France and other powers insisted upon before they would sign.

It had been freely admitted by certain diplomats that the treaty would not be successful unless the Soviet adhered.

Russia, frustrated in her desire to be an original signatory, was invited to adhere a few hours after the signing of the treaty in Paris. France advanced the invitation.

In the acceptance, the Soviet government details its vigorous criticism of the anti-war treaty and the reservations, attempting to show how it is not capable of preventing wars. The attack centers on British reservations which are branded as "an attempt to use the pact as an instrument of imperialist policy."

"Nevertheless," the note concludes, "inasmuch as the treaty objectively imposes certain obligations on the powers through public opinion and gives the Soviet government a new chance to put before all participants in the pact the question of disarmament solution, which is the only guarantee of preventing war, the Soviet government expresses its consent to sign the pact."

Labor Day Gives Shops and Banks Two-Day Holiday

Do your banking and buying Saturday for two days.

That is the word sent out Friday by the Clearing House association so that Wichitans would be adequately prepared in every way for the two-day holiday which includes Sunday and Labor day Monday.

Offices of the city of Wichita Falls, of the chamber of commerce and of many specialized lines of business also have announced they will be closed Monday, so that business will not open in the city until Tuesday.

Many to Attend Katy Celebration

Between 75 and 100 Wichita Falls employes of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas system are leaving on the 11 o'clock Katy Sunday night for Denison where they will participate in the sixth annual athletic meet, it was learned Friday night.

The party will include D. W. Hill, president of the northwestern district of the athletic association.

The celebration will start in a small way on Sunday, but the major events will be held on Monday, Mr. Hill said. Last year the meet attracted 7,000 persons, and this year's meet is expected to attract 8,000.

The Wichitans will return early Tuesday morning in time for Tuesday's business day.

Accused in Murders May Fight Extradition

CARTHAGE, Mo., Aug. 31. (UP) Henry C. Morris, 47, also known as George W. Morrison, indicated today he will fight extradition to Wyoming where he is wanted on a charge of murdering his housekeeper, Mrs. Anna Grabb and her daughter, Genevieve, 5, in Rock Springs, in 1925. He is held in the county jail here.

Girl Seeks Company On Husband-Hunting Trip

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—Miss Helen Davis, 32, is seeking four congenial girl companions to join her on a transcontinental husband hunting expedition. She inserted an advertisement in a local paper asking for companions on her proposed matrimonial auto trip.

PROHI PARTY STAYS IN LINE

Rejects Move to Switch Support to Hoover

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (AP)—The national executive committee of the prohibition party tonight defeated a proposal to support Herbert Hoover for president and withdraw its own candidate, William F. Varney, from the presidential contest. The vote was 4 to 3.

Those who voted against the plan were: Miss Ehthetak Elfreth, New Jersey, vice chairman of the national committee; D. E. P. Prugh, Pennsylvania; Frank S. Regan, Rockford, Ill., and Will D. Martin, Hasbrouch-Heights, N. J.

Voting to throw the party vote to Hoover were: H. P. Faris, Missouri; Alonzo E. Wilson, Chicago; and John B. Coffin, Florida. E. I. O. Hohenthal, Connecticut, was the only member of the committee not present. Dr. D. Leish Colvin, New York, national committee chairman, did not vote.

Most of the day was devoted to discussing whether the party should cast its support against Gov. Al Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee, at the cost of destroying itself, or should continue to fight for "principle."

Ordinance Changed To Keeps Pace With Style

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 31. UP)—An ordinance prohibiting brush and weeds from growing within 12 feet of public sidewalks has been invoked by Alderman John Kapps as a means of saving the hosiery of young women from tears. The ordinance originally was passed to save women's skirts from being torn by sweeping against the brush and weeds.

Gaines Pays Penalty For Daughter's Death

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 31. (UP)—Wallace C. Gaines dropped to his death through the gallows at the state prison here today. He was hanged for the murder of his daughter, Sylvia, 22, two years ago.

MRS. SEVIER TO WELCOME 'JOE'

Connally Also to Speak At Cisco

Special to The Record News.

CISCO, Texas, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Clara Driskill Sevier, noted Texas woman and national Democratic committeewoman from Texas, will attend the Robinson speaking in Cisco Sept. 4 and will officially welcome the distinguished southerner to Texas. Mrs. Sevier and Tom Connally, Democratic nominee for the United States senate, will be the principal speakers of the evening other than Senator Robinson. The Marlin congressman had his home town people postpone a celebration in his honor scheduled for Tuesday in order that he might attend the Cisco meeting and do his bit for the Democratic national ticket.

The West Texas appearance of Robinson has assumed new importance since the recent anti-Smith organization meetings held in various West Texas cities during the week. The Democratic state and national committees are depending upon Robinson's Cisco address to do much in offsetting the opposition engendered by these anti-Smith meetings. Arrangements were completed today to broadcast Robinson's address through WBAP. A hook-up of stations is also likely to take the message of democracy to the millions who cannot attend.

Local committees are making a thorough preparation for the meeting.

The tentative program calls for a parade through the business section of Cisco upon the senator's arrival. A watermelon feast for former Arkansans and all others who are to attend has been arranged following the parade. Robinson will make a short talk at this meeting. Following a dinner with the reception committee and correspondents at the Cisco Country club, the principal speaking will be held in the Lobo football stadium beginning at 8 p. m. Arrangements will be made to accommodate a crowd of 15,000.

Debt of $1.25 Made 36 Years Ago Paid

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 31. (UP)—Thirty-six years ago Mrs. Harry Shissler operated a millinery store here. She sold a hat to a woman for $1.25 but never collected the debt.

Recently Chief Burgess Shissler received the following note:

"Enclosed you will fing $1.25 representing a bill I never paid your mother, as I want to face my Maker owing no one a dollar."

Shissler refused to divulge the name of the sender.

Separate Movies For Children Suggested

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 31. (UP)—A sharp line must be drawn between films shown to adults and those shown to children or we will become to the most erotic people in the civilized world, Dr. Edward A. Ross, University of Wisconsin psychologist, asserts in his latest book, "World Drift," received here today.
