Party At Nixons' Fetes Astronauts

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Richard Nixon staged his last hurrah at the former Western White House, on Sunday, serving as host to 15 astronauts and about 450 other guests at a poolside party commemorating the 10th anniversary of man's first walk on the moon.

A group of 60 persons that included the astronauts, members of their families and a few celebrities arrived in the early afternoon at John Wayne Airport in Orange County after a chartered flight from Las Vegas, Nev. The astronauts had been attending a four-day celebration of the moonwalk anniversary at the Dunes Hotel there.

They traveled on two chartered buses to the Nixon seaside estate, which is being sold by the former president.

Secret Service agents kept reporters and photographers away from the gate as guests arrived for the Mexican-theme gathering, which featured a mariachi band.

Nixon associates seen entering the estate included former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, who served a federal prison term for obstruction of justice and perjury in connection with the Watergate affair.

Also attending were entertainers Red Skelton, Robert Stack, Buddy Ebsen and Rudy Vallee, and William Rogers, a secretary of state in the Nixon administration.

Neil Armstrong, who was the first U.S. moonwalker, July 20, 1969, did not take part in the San Clemente or Las Vegas gatherings.

However, Armstrong's moonwalk companion, Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin, was among Nixon's guest.

Astronaut James McDivitt, an Air Force general, participated in Las Vegas festivities but missed the Nixon party.

Other astronauts joining Aldrin in San Clemente were Al Worden, Walt Cunningham, Donn Eisele, Gerry Carr, William Anders, Ronald Evans, Richard Gordon, Curt Michel, James Lovell, James Irwin, Stuart Roosa, Charles Duke, John Swigert and Edgar Mitchell.

Wives of deceased astronauts who were at San Clemente were Mrs. Clifton Williams, Mrs. Marilyn See, Mrs. Edward Givens II, and Mrs. Lloyd Davis, whose first husband Edward White was killed along with Givens and Gus Grissom in a launchpad space capsule fire.

The five-day anniversary salute in Las Vegas included golf tournaments, space exhibits, receptions and entertainment events.

Nixon had planned to attend the Las Vegas gathering, but in mid-June he asked that the party at his estate be added to the astronauts' schedule, instead. He returned to San Clemente on Friday after a two-day trip to visit the deposed Shah of Iran at Cuernavaca, Mexico.

Sunday's celebration was to be the last for the 66-year-old Nixon and his wife, Pat, at their 28-acre La Casa Pacifica estate, which is being sold to a group of Orange County businessmen for an undisclosed price. They will be moving soon to a $650,000 home in the closely guarded neighboring community of Cypress Shores.

Nixon and his friend Robert Abplanalp purchased the San Clemente estate in 1969 for $1.4 million, and the government added an estimated $700,000 in improvements. In 1973, Nixon promised eventually to donate the estate to the public. But when the sale was announced in May, Nixon spokesman Jack Brennan said the government had shown no interest in acquiring the property.

While the first moon astronauts were on the lunar surface, Nixon spoke to them in a conversation carried on worldwide television and radio.

"For every American, this has to be the proudest day of our lives," Nixon told them. "For one priceless moment, in the whole history of man, all the people on this Earth are truly one. One in the pride in what you have done, and one in our prayers that you will return safely to Earth."

The anniversary celebrations came at a time when the world was looking into space again for the re-entry of the 77.5-ton U.S. space station Skylab, which plummeted to earth last week.

But a highpoint of the current U.S. space effort also was reached during the Las Vegas gathering. The astronauts and other guests viewed a live telecast of the surface of Jupiter from the Voyager II unmanned space probe.

Russian Atomic Test Explosion May Harm Senate SALT Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has not answered an American complaint that an underground nuclear blast in central Asia may have broken the informal agreement to limit such explosions. But State Department officials think any violation was probably unintentinal.

If the blast, detected by U.S. Seismographs June 23, did greatly exceed the mutual agreement to limit tests, it could embarrass the administration in its attempt to win approval of the SALT II treaty.

U.S. calculations indicate the blast could have exceeded the test ban threshhold, but not by a margin that would indicate a deliberate attempt to cheat.

The State Deparment formally complained to the Soviets June 27, and the Soviet Foreign Ministry promised to investigate. State Department officials said there has been no answer, but they do not find the delay unusual.

One official said the U.S. Equipment showed the blast came within a broad band of possible yield, and the upper part of that band exceeded the equivalent of 150,000 tons of dynamite.

One official said the detection results are affected by the location of the blast, the kind of geologic formations between the blast and the detection equipment, and other factors.

The official said, "There is always a certain amount of ambiguity, and sometimes a nuclear weapon yields slightly more than it was designed for."

He said that has happened in the past, but the United States has not made it a major issue, particularly because the 150,000 ton threshhold has not been formally ratified by either country.

Nevertheless, a Soviet violation of the informal understanding would give SALT II Opponents ammunition in their fight to block passage of the arms limitation treaty.

The 1974 Threshold Test Ban treaty has been held up in the Senate, partly because of the press of other business such as the Panama Canal treaty and the SALT II agreement.

But both the Soviet Union and the United States have said they would abide by the provisions of the agreement, pending its formal passage.

The first round-trip air crossing of the Atlantic was made in the British dirigible R-34 in 1919.

Demos Laud Carter Speach

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's call for energy independence drew enthusiastic praise from a broad range of House members, senators, governors and other public officials Sunday night.

Republican critics said Carter echoed what they have been saying about the energy crisis for a long time.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said the president's televised address was the "best he has made."

"I am confident the American people will respond with the necessary said.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, the second-ranking Democrat in the Senate, said Carter "spoke out forcefully, clearly and eloquently."

Ultimately, Cranston said, "The test will be the president's ability to lead Congress and the nation."

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of a key House energy subcommittee, said the president's new policies will mean major sacrifices for Americans.

"It could very well mean more gas lines," he said, along with additional shortages of home heating oil.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said, "I commend the president."

He predicted congressional approval of Carter's new energy plan.

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., one of the few Democratic critics of the speech, said he expected more drama from Carter after the buildup during the president's 10 days of consultation with national leaders at Camp David, Md.

"He said Washington was an island and he could well have said that the White House is an island within the island," Moffett said.

House Minority Leader John Rhodes of Ohio said, "President Carter has finally heard what we Republicans have been trying to tell him, namely that energy supply is the name of the game."

Rhodes said he supported the idea of cutting government red tape in managing the energy crisis, but added Republican House members would want to make sure Carter's legislative proposals will not lead to nationalization of the energy industry.

Another Republican critic, Sen. Bill Roth of Delaware said, "People are willing to follow strong leadership. The real question is whether the president can lead."

Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., who voted against Carter's initial standby gasoline rationing plan in the House, said he would switch his vote around the second time because of Carter's speech.

"I think Congress is probably more willing to work with him now than ever before," he said.

John Gardner, who heads the public interest group Common Cause, said, "I firmly believe that the public and the Congress will get behind the president.

"If they don't, God help us."

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader was sharply critical of Carter.

"He repeated energy goals that he's been stating for years," Nader said. "There's nothing new in the goals. What he failed to do is tell us how to get there, even in general terms."

Nader also charged that Carter's speech "ignored completely the problem of excessive power in the hands of the oil companies and their contribution to the energy problems."

But Vernon Jordan, executive director of the National Urban League and one of the private citizens Carter invited to Camp David during his domestic summit, said, "It is reassuring that the president understands the real crisis facing the nation goes beyond single issues like energy or inflation."

Jordan said he believes the "give and take" at Camp David "had an impact on him (Carter) in terms of the need to exercise strong national leadership and to convince the American people of urgency."

House Democratic Leader James Wright of Texas, a strong advocate of a synthetic fuels program, predicted Carter's speech would be well received by the American public, "a lot better than the cynical crowd around Washington might expect them to."

Ag Department Fighting Study Of International Grain Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department is fighting a court battle against a former Senate aide who is seeking access to old confidential documents on the highly secretive international grain trade.

Richard Gilmore, who is writing a book about grain trade, filed suit against the department early this year to get the documents, and last week, the department asked that the case be thrown out.

In an affidavit filed in court, department official George Shanklin said release of the information might enable some American firms to bypass multinational grain companies and sell directly to foreigners.

Shanklin is a former employee of Bunge, one of the Big Five multinational companies that dominate the grain trade. The others are Cargill, Continental, Andre and Louis Dreyfus. Little is known about them because they are privately owned.

Grain trade is in the spotlight now because prices are rising as more and more of America's crops are sold to the Russians, whose own crop is expected to be down 22 percent from last year.

When the Soviet Union first started buying a lot of American grain in 1972, Congress passed a law requiring that all sales be reported to the Agriculture Department.

The department denied Gilmore access to those records on grounds the competitive posture of grain companies would be harmed, even though he was willing to look at old reports with names of companies deleted.

The department said confidential business information was excluded from the Freedom of Information Act.

Department official Shanklin said in his court affidavit that the information Gilmore wants might permit U.S. companies that sell grain to multinationals to sell "directly to the foreign purchaser."

Shanklin said deletion of company names would not protect their confidentiality.

Gilmore, a former aide to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a visiting fellow with the Overseas Development Council, said citizens can get more information on oil and national security matters than they can on grain trade.

"The affidavits confirm charges by individuals that there is an existing oligopoly in the grain trade and a disinclination by the Agriculture Department to do anything about it," he said.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said he could not comment on the case since it is pending in court. But he said he would consider the policy implications of the issue after the case is resolved.

Bundy Trial To Continue

MIAMI (AP) — Testimony is expected to resume today in Theodore R. Bundy's double-murder trial, with a friend reporting the defendant recovering from a virus that forced the trial to recess Friday.

"He had a stomach disorder combined with a sore throat," Carol Ann Boone said.

"His stomach has subsided and he as a congested head. It's moving upward. But he seems to be feeling better."

Bundy, a 32-year-old former law student, is helping defend himself against charges that he clubbed and strangled two sorority sisters and savagely beat three other young women at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

He also is charged with the February 1978 kidnap-murder of a 12-year-old Lake City, Fla., girl. He was convicted of kidnapping in Utah and was awaiting trial on murder charges in Colorado when he escaped from jail in December 1977.

The trial here was recessed Friday morning, at the end of its third week, when a doctor advised Circuit Judge Edward D. Coward that Bundy required at least 48 hours of medical care in his Dade County jail cell before returning to court.

"The presence of the defendant is indispensable under our system of jurisprudence," Cowart said in ordering the delay.

After two weeks of jury selection and pretrial motions, the jury last week heard from three women who survived attacks the night of Jan. 15, 1978, when Lisa Levy and Margaret Bowman were killed at the Chi Omega sorority house.

Yet to testify is Neta Neary, who has said she saw a club-carrying man she later identified as Bundy leave the house that night.

The prosecution also plans to call Dr. Richard Souviron of nearby Coral Gables. He is a specialist in forensic odontology, the application of dentistry to the law.

After examining bite marks found on Miss Levy's body and impressions taken of Bundy's teeth, Souviron wrote prosecutor Larry Simpson. "Both bite marks made on the left buttocks of Miss Levy, with reasonable dental certainty, were made by Mr. Ted Bundy."

The defense says it will show "four or more other sets of teeth" could have inflicted the wounds.

Protesting Feminists Given Sweet Deal

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ice cream store owner Eric Lepie offered a sweet deal to about a dozen feminists who stopped by to protest his refusal to accept the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin.

Lepie, claiming the coins are too similar to a quarter and would confuse his clerks, posted a sign saying the store would not accept the Susan B. Anthonys.

On Saturday, the women and a few of their children descended on the store and ordered about $7 worth of ice cream which they intended to pay for with the coins.

"Since the employees of Eric's are mostly young women, we feel Eric's reasoning that they won't be able to distinguish a dollar coin from a quarter coin is an insult to their intelligence and a reflection of his true feeling toward women," said Kate McGee, president of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women.

Not to be outmaneuvered, however, Lepie told the women, "Anyone with a Susan B. Anthony dollar gets free ice cream today."

The women then gave their coins to other customers, but Lepie countered by offering free ice cream to everyone and soft drinks to the NOW members.

YOU CAN DO IT, CHIEF — Mayor Dirk West and Mayor Pro Tem Alan Henry stand ready to assist Fire Chief Tom Foster in his firepole descent. New Central Fire House Dedicated At 18th And K

By RHONA SCHWARTZ

Mayor Dirk West and City Council members joined Fire Chief Tom Foster, Sunday, in the dedication of a new Central Fire Station at 18th Street and Avenue K.

A plaque was placed in the station's main entrance in memory of the five Lubbock firefighters "who gave their lives in the service of the community."

The five include J. Neuel Bryan, who died in January 1929, Waylon Jack Jenkins, who died in August 1957, and Kenneth H. Haggard, Eddie C. Swafford and Larry D. Tucker, all of whom died in March 1979.

Mayor West said the dedication ceremony was an opportunity to pay tribute to these men and to those who daily risk their lives for the citizens of Lubbock.

The superior performance of Lubbock's firefighters, West added, "often causes most people to take our fire department for granted."

"The five men who died ... epitomized the bravery and the dedication of every man in our fire department," he said.

In making the official plaque presentation, Mayor Pro Tem Alan Henry told members of the deceased men's families, "How very grateful we are to you and the members of your families."

Council member Carolyn Jordan cut the ceremonial ribbon with the "Jaws of Life" after fellow council member Bill McAlister's benediction.

The new station will serve an area bounded by University Avenue, 34th Street, Yellowhouse Canyon and Loop 289. The service area includes sections previously served by stations number 2 and 3, which are being closed.

The central station replaces the old central facility at Sixth Street and Avenue K. This station now will house the administrative staff, the fire marshal's staff, the dispatch office and the department's vehicle maintenance section.

The new Central Fire Station houses 20 firefightes and a manpower squad and is manned 24 hours a day.

It is the only fire station in Lubbock that has dormitory space for female firefighters, in case women join the force.

The room, complete with a private shower, now serves as an office.

Woman Rents Out Old People

NORTHLAKE, Ill. (AP) — A Chicago saleswoman is renting out senior citizens as surrogate moms and pops.

For a fee, residents of this Chicago suburb can get "extra grandpas and grandmas" to watch their children, do light housekeeping, cooking and gardening.

Lorna Billhime, 40, a saleswoman and mother of two, saw a way to put older citizens to work and perhaps make a buck. She recently incorporated a business called Rent-a-Mom-Rent-a-Dad.

The premise of the service is that parents want experienced, caring adults to perform such chores as babysitting, she said.

Since March, when Rent-a-Mom-Rent-a-Dad began operating, more than 100 people have hired the services of the 27 senior citizens, all age 50 or older, recruited by Mrs. Billhime so far.

"Having 'moms' stay in the house to take care of the kids while parents go on vacation is very popular," Mrs. Billhime said. "The kids know who's going to be with them, and instead of the usual groans when a babysitter is announced, they look forward to it."

She says her "moms" and "dads" become part of the household.

"They're considered extra grandmas and grandpas by the kids, and friends of the family," she said.

Mrs. Billhime advertises in the local newspaper, contacts retirement homes and visits area senior citizen clubs to find her employees. Some are hired by word-of-mouth recommendations from the seniors they live with, she said.

"I could use about 200 more of them," she said.

Families and sitters are matched up by Mrs. Billhime.

"We don't just throw them in cold," she said. "There are certain types of personalities that won't get along with each other.

"The real conservative parent won't get along with a liberal sitter. You have to be very careful with this."

Fees are set on a sliding scale depending on what a family can afford to pay, she said. But there is a $15 service fee, $2 of which goes to the company, to pay for insurance and bonding fees for her employees.

Sitters are paid hourly rates from $2.10 to $3.25, and the rental service takes 40 cents per hour. The payment goes to Mrs. Billhime, who then pays the sitters.

"We haven't had any problems because the service we have is for people looking for exactly what we have," Mrs. Billhime said. "They're interested in the concept of other adults blending lovingly into their families. This isn't a cold punch-card type of thing."

Mrs. Billhime says she is looking forward to expanding the business. "Right now I support it," she said, "but in a year it will be supporting itself. We'll stay in the suburbs until we know what we're doing, and then, see what happens."

Japanese Journalist Starts Raft Voyage

MIHO, Japan (AP) — A 29-year-old freelance journalist set out Sunday to cross the Pacific on a 36-foot bamboo raft in an effort to prove that ancient Japanese crossed to Central America in prehistoric days.

Yoshiyuki Yamamoto expects to reach Mexico in five months, drifting 8,000 miles on the Japanese current, which runs eastward toward the United States and down along Central America.

The raft has no engine and no sail but is equipped with a radio.

Yamamoto said that two years ago he successfully drifted on a similar raft on the same ocean stream from the Philippines to Kagoshima in southern Japan in 34 days.

"I am in high spirits and my physical condition is in top shape."

Texans In Capital Comment On Happenings In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, has formally introduced his synthetic fuel proposal, the second part of his emergency program to tackle energy shortages.

The bill calls for an Energy Mobilization Board which could guarantee up to $100 billion in loans to establish synthetic fuel plants. The board also would be able to buy the plants' products for the U.S. Strategic Petroleum Reserves.

"I am proposing that we embark on a crash program to produce 1 million barrels per day of synthetic oil or gas from coal and shale oil by the year 1985," Bentsen said Friday. "I am proposing that we unite the financial resources of the federal government with the know-how and ingenuity of private industry to achieve an objective of overriding national importance."

The first part of Bentsen's program would set up a "fast track" plan to speed top priority energy projects through the regulatory process.

• • •

After Bentsen returned from his second trip to Camp David last week for President Carter's summit, the senator was asked to evaluate Carter's political future.

Bentsen recalled Harry Truman's upset victory over Thomas Dewey and said it was too early for Carter to throw in the towel.

"One thing I know about politics is that six months can be a lifetime," Bentsen said.

Rep. Jim Collins, R-Texas, saw his anti-busing amendment concerning the Justice Department pass the House last week, and he says he is optimistic about its survival in the Senate.

"If it gets to the conference, where Ted Kennedy can get at it, he kills it every time," said the Dallas congressman. "I think we can get this one passed on the floor."

Last fall Collins made a similar attempt to have an anti-busing amendment attached to a Justice Department bill. It passed the House but was deleted by a House-Senate conference committee.

The amendment, Collins said, "has the effect of keeping them out of initiating new suits which would be for the sole purpose of trying to achieve racial balance in schools."

The House passed Collins' amendment 208-191 on Thursday.

Collins, a longtime busing foe, said he will be working hard as well for a constitutional amendment to prohibit busing.

Word that the Soviet Union is sending out feelers to purchase more American wheat has prompted Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Texas, to write a letter to the president urging approval.

An aide for Hightower said the Vernon Democrat is concerned that the administration may wait until fall, when figures on the corn harvest become available, to decide whether to approve the sale. It depends, of course, on the feelers becoming an actual purchase offer.

"I hope you will not hesitate to make the additional wheat available. The reasons are very clear," Hightower wrote Thursday.

"We know what our wheat supply is now. The Russians know their crop is in trouble and what their supplies are at the present time. If the offer for additional wheat is made now, it will provide an orderly marketing of the wheat," the letter said.

Hightower said the Ford Administration tried to postpone its decision and pull off a squeeze play.

"It did not work. The Russians just pulled in thir belts and let some people go hungry and did without U.S. wheat," Hightower wrote.

The arrival of the Fort Worth Civic Leaders Association and its barbecue and chili cargo was excuse enough for House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, to host an all-out bash in a House caucus room.

The trip is becoming an annual event.

This year, association president Gene Wood said the bill of fare included 400 pounds of barbecue, 200 of beans, 200 of chili and 150 cases of beer flown in from Texas.

"The two things a Texan misses most in this town are barbecue and Mexican food," Wright told the Washington Post. Not all the guests spotted with barbecue on their breath were Texans.

House Chiefs Clash On TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic leader Sunday ringingly endorsed a massive synthetic fuels program, while opposing a tax cut. His Republican counterpart played down synthetic fuels but urged an immediate tax reduction to counter recession.

"I don't know how we can get to our goal of energy sufficiency again without having a dramatic synthetic fuels program," House Majority Leader Jim Wright said on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Such a program, similar to the Manhattan project that developed an atomic bomb, would represent "light at the end of the tunnel" for a nation facing severe energy shortages, the Texas Democrat said.

It also would stimulate private enterprise, increase productivity and help stem inflation, not fuel it, he said.

But Wright again spoke out against a tax cut, calling it premature. "You can't have massive tax cuts and a balanced budget at the same time," he said.

Meanwhile, Rep. John Rhodes, D-Ariz., Republican minority leader, said an immediate tax cut is the best way to bolster a sagging economy by placing greater purchasing power in consumers' hands. To reduce taxes next year, prior to the elections, would be popular, but too late, he told the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Synthetic fuel, he said, is neither the short-range nor long-range answer to the energy shortage. A crash program would produce only about one million barrels a day by 1990 at a cost of about $40 billion.

"The first thing we should do is burn coal," Rhodes said. He also repeated his call for total, immediate decontrol of oil and natural gas, moves previously rejected by Carter.

Rhodes said he would oppose gasoline rationing "right now" and import quotas designed as a conservation methods.

He said, "This administration had no plan whatsoever, as far as the energy policy is concerned, and I'm not sure they have one now."

AN EDITORIAL:

'Ma' Dialed Wrong Number

IT IS ALWAYS comforting when City Hall is fighting for the people, instead of with them.

The observation is prompted by the Lubbock City Council's decision to join with other Texas cities in opposing a rate increase by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Bell is asking to boost its revenues by $145.2 million a year statewide, a six percent increase for the whole state. As applied to Lubbock, one-party residential rates would jump 25.8 percent, from $6 a month to $7.55.

THE MOVE BY the Council will cost the City about $2,600, according to City Manager Larry Cunningham.

But both he and Council members said they felt that Lubbock residents would approve such an expenditure for the savings and principle involved.

Last year, the City Council backed a similar protest and in addition challenged telephone rates being set up on a statewide rather than a regional basis.

Under the new Public Utilities Commission procedure, such rates are promulgated for the entire state percentagewise, rather than for each city or area.

IT IS HAS been the contention here that Southwestern Bell's investment and costs in the Lubbock area are considerably less than in other parts of the state.

Yet, rather than figure city and area residents' rates on that ratio, those same residents are asked in effect to subsidize higher investments and costs in other parts of the state.

Other cities which have already given notice they will protest Bell's request include Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston, Cedar Hill and Waco. In addition, the Texas Municipal League, Texas Retailers Assn., the Communications Workers of America, Older People of Austin and the Consumers Union have joined the fray.

NO ONE ARGUES but that costs are going up on almost everything, and that Bell has its problems.

But, this is the third rate increase request since 1976 for Bell. And not only are residential services, but business and so-called specialty services, included. Naturally, the business costs would be passed on to the consumer.

No decision on Bell's latest request is likely until Gov. Bill Clements names a replacement to the PUC for Alan Erwin, who has been regarded as a pro-consumer advocate. Erwin resigned.

In any event, Lubbock's City Council did the right thing. It's too bad it doesn't have the final say.

AN EDITORIAL:

Is It Time To Abandon Bail?

WHEN KENTUCKY lawmakers approved a bill whose first line said "it shall be unlawful for any person to engage in the business of bail bondsman," they virtually abolished the industry in the state.

Despite considerable anxiety on the part of authorities and the law-abiding populace about the potential danger posed by letting criminals roam the streets, syndicated columnists Martha Angle and Robert Walters report:

"The proportion of those released without bail who either are re-arrested while awaiting trial or fail to present themselves for scheduled court appearances has consistently remained below 5 percent."

REFORM OF bail practices is hardly a new concept. The Manhattan Bail Project, undertaken by the Vera Institute in New York City demonstrated that defendants identified as "good risks" could be released between arrest and trial on their own recognizance while posing little threat to the public's safety.

Subsequently, similar programs have been initiated in Pennsylvania, Iowa, Illinios and Oregon.

"In Louisville, Kentucky's largest city, police report a decline in burglaries and robberies that once apparently were committed by defendants desperate for money needed to pay the bondsman," wrote Angle and Walters.

Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll, unwilling to disguise his contempt for someone he says he believes "makes a buck on another's misfortune," characterized the commercial bail bondsman as "a parasite that preys upon the poor."

Those harsh words are more than political rhetoric. For more than five years, Carroll waged a fierce personal crusade, first as speaker of the state's General Assembly and later as governor, against the bail bond business.

TO SUPPLANT the commercial system, Kentucky three years ago established a Pretrial Services Agency, which last year interviewed almost half of the 202,459 people arrested in the state. Commercial bonds may still be written in Kentucky for those charged with federal offenses.

Jail costs have been reduced because there are fewer prisoners. Public defenders report that their programs now cost the taxpayers less because more defendants are able to resume work, thus earning money to pay their own lawyers.

An evaluation of Kentucky's unprecedented action, commissioned by the Council of State Governments, suggests that unscrupulous bail practices may have contributed to "corruption in the state's criminal justice system."

America is the only nation on earth except the Philippines that allows the commercial bail bondsman to play a major role in the criminal justice system. Kentucky has demonstrated there's a better way.

ART BUCHWALD:

Hsing-Hsing Doesn't 'Panda' To Ling-Ling

BEIJING—As long as I was in China, I saw no harm in going over to the Beijing Zoo and talking to an expert on pandas, concerning the problem we were having at the National Zoo in Washington.

I explained to her that Hsing-Hsing, the male panda, given to us by the Chinese after President Nixon's visit, was not making it with Ling-Ling, the female panda.

So they were preventing the United States from having an heir to the American Panda Dynasty.

The lady we talked to was Madame Ye, probably the foremost expert on panda breeding in Asia. Madame Ye said, in so many Chinese words, that judging from what I had told her about Hsing-Hsing's press in the United States, he was getting a bad rap.

IT SEEMS THAT while female pandas can get adjusted to having sexual relations in captivity, male pandas are much more reluctant to play around in a zoo.

There are exceptions to the rule, Madame Ye told us. The Beijing Zoo brought in a panda from the Shanghai Zoo named Du-Du, who is a real swinger, and a legend in his own time.

When Du-Du is around, there isn't a female panda safe within 20 feet of him. He thrives on green bamboo shoots and vitamins and is raring to produce baby pandas whenever given the opportunity.

He fathered two by a female named Fang-Fang and another with Yuan-Yuan, which makes Hsing-Hsing's productivity record look sick.

WHY DU-DU does and Hsing-Hsing doesn't was a question Madame Ye could not answer.

She felt possibly Hsing-Hsing is being too well fed on an American diet, and rather than indulge in any mating, prefers to sleep off his meals.

She knows from correspondence with the National Zoo in Washington that Ling-Ling has not only been waiting in her boudoir for a knock on the door, but at times has even shown anger at being ignored.

Madame Ye, who said she could not interfere in the internal sexual affairs of a foreign zoo, offered the opinion that Hsing-Hsing needed a lot more exercise and a lot less sleep before he got the message that there was more to life than just eating bamboo hearts and taking long naps.

AT THE SAME time, you don't find a Du-Du every day of the week, so Madame Ye told me that the Peking Zoo has developed an artificial insemination program for its female pandas.

She thought that if Hsing-Hsing continued to refuse to consummate the relationship with Ling-Ling, the National Zoo might resort to this method.

It's quite painless, though admittedly there's not much fun in it either. First, Hsing-Hsing would be put to sleep, and make a donation to Ling-Ling through electric stimulation.

Then Ling-Ling would be put to sleep and artificially serviced. It isn't Lady Chatterly's lover, but when you're desperate for a baby panda, romance has to go out the window.

WHILE WASHINGTON has asked for all the research from Beijing, to Madame Ye's knowledge, no decision has been made as yet as to whether Hsing-Hsing will be forced to father an offspring while he is sleeping.

But, as they say in China, it's a shot in the dark, and no one can deny that Hsing-Hsing had his chance to do it while he was awake.

I asked Madame Ye if there was any way of trading Hsing-Hsing with the Shanghai Zoo for Du-Du. I told her we'd also throw in a Redskin linebacker and three draft choices.

But she said it was not her decision to make. She was certain the Shanghai Zoo would never give up Du-Du, because if they did there would be broken female panda hearts all over China.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Loss Of Conscience

EVANS

WASHINGTON—When Lt. Gen. Edward L. Rowny declared the afternoon of June 29 that even though retiring from the Army he was "not going on a SALT-free diet," the administration was given notice it could not portray the military high command solidly behind SALT II.

The occasion was a full-dress parade at Ft. McNair in southwest Washington concluding Rowny's 38 years of active duty, the last six and one-half of them as representative of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Serving under three Presidents, Rowny fought a dogged but losing battle against succumbing to Russian intransigence. Now, he made clear, he would testify against what resulted.

"This is a sad day for the Army," commented one defense community insider as Baltimore native Rowny trooped the line to the strains of "My Maryland."

It was sad because of losing "the conscience of the JCS" who insisted the brass assert themselves for national security; it was sad also because Rowny, while on active duty, could not criticize a treaty he in good conscience could not support.

Unlike many SALT critics, Rowny is a genuine believer in arms control. Had U.S. negotiators bargained with as much tenacity as their Soviet counterparts, he believes, there would be a treaty today whose ratification Ed Rowny would have no trouble endorsing.

A distinguished combat officer in three wars, he respects military discipline.

While in private he grumbled that U.S. negotiators of three Presidents retreated to their first fallback position before they had sat down at the table, in public he said nothing.

ROWNY, REJECTING pleas to speak out during the negotiations, felt he could be most effective inside instead of outside.

Even after his retirement decision a month ago, administration officials hoped he would keep his misgivings to himself—a hope that flickered during the retirement ceremony at Ft. McNair.

The citation by Defense Secretary Harold Brown awarding Rowny the Distinguished Service Medal declared his advice "contributed most significantly to the treaty in its final form."

But this was to prove unlike other retirement ceremonies, as foreshadowed by the audience. Beside the usual family and fellow officers, much of the anti-SALT lobby was there.

Included was Dr. Fred Ikle, President Ford's disarmament agency chief and now a Republican spokesman against SALT II.

AN EVEN MORE exotic guest was Lane Kirkland, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer and a leader of the Committee on the Present Danger.

Rowny chose this day for his first public statement on SALT, which though muted was unmistakable. He confessed he had asked to be relieved of duties "reluctantly, and with deep sadness and disappointment."

Brown's compliment for contributing to SALT II was ignored.

Rowny then jumped into a debate gripping today's Pentagon: "...our military may have lost the regard of many of their fellow citizens because they are perceived as not completely fulfilling their obligation to give professional military advice to appropriate civilian authority."

Rowny specified "military advice tempered by personal ambition or lack of intestinal fortitude." Just such criticism is rampant within the military, directed at JCS members—particularly its chairman, Air Force Gen. David Jones.

ROWNY PLEDGED HE would "not simply fade away. In taking off my uniform I shall not cast off the oath I took 38 years ago." He then ad libbed the line abjuring "a SALT-free diet."

But he did not follow advice to base his retirement on the First Amendment (pro-free speech) and the Eighth Amendment (anti-cruel and unusual punishmeht).

His last two years in Geneva were indeed cruel and unusual, Carter administration negotiators treating him as the enemy within. Derogatory leaks about him drifted from high officials in Washington.

After his retirement was announced, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tried to hobble Rowny by scheduling him to testify in tandem with a pro-SALT, retired admiral.

Rowny will be silent until his mid-July testimony, which will explode White House fantasies of a solidly supportive military.

JUST AS HIS reports from Geneva prodded the JCS into a firmer stand during negotiations, the prospect of Rowny's testimony may embolden one or two chiefs into critical public positions.

He also will invite speculation about what kind of treaty was really possible.

Skeptics believe the Kremlin would never sign an agreement as "equitable and verifiable" as Ed Rowny demanded, but it would have been interesting to find out had this country followed the Pentagon's conscience.

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Land Of The Fee

WASHINGTON—University of Chicago professor Keith Steel, digging near the Egypt-Sudan border, unearthed hundreds of royal artifacts. They proved to be human history's oldest recognizable monarchy. They date to about 3300 B.C.

Scorpion was the earliest-known Egyptian King. He was one of three kings ruling Egypt before the First Dynasty in 3050 B.C. Steel and his crew's findings, part of an international effort, are many generations before Scorpion.

They discovered that the Nubians reached a stage of political development unsurpassed in their day.

KINGS ALWAYS controlled the money. While they had the money they controlled Nubia. Roman Emperor Augustus Caesar was annoyed because he had no constitutional right to tax Italy. Frustrated and outraged, Augustus reportedly trapped the opposing senators in a fog and hacked them to death. Promptly, Augustus seized control of Rome's treasury.

When Julius Caesar, crossing the Rubicon, captured Rome his first act was to take the money.

Baltic Norsemen descended south through all of Russia. They attacked Constantinople and the advanced column headed straight for the Ottoman treasury.

Then so many Norsemen raided France that the French king gave them all of Normandy (North-mandy). The Duke of Normandy (known as William the Conqueror) finally sailed across the English Channel and conquered England.

TO PAY FOR the Seven Years' War, French King Louis XV and Marquise de Pompadour melted down such huge quantities of gold, table silver, candelabra, etc., that this is why, to this day, old French silver is the world's rarest.

Finally, the American colonies came along. Here we intended to be a free and independent people. But Alexander Hamilton, our first secretary of the treasury and looking over his shoulder at British King George III, said: "Whoever controls the people's money controls their lives."

Thus America's Congress, not President Carter or any President, is entrusted with the authority to decide taxation and how the taxpayers' money should be spent.

But where is the money coming from?

TWO THINGS have happened. First, Washington's happy-go-lucky money pyramid has been built up vastly by the great growth in centralized government with its many expanded types of spending.

Second, as part and parcel of Congress' overspending, it has handed President Carter—to spend as he sees fit—enormous, unfettered billions. He keeps secret their billion-dollar size.

These vast sums mean that President Carter's nod or a single word can and does give or withhold the money. This determines who gets what—without much why.

President Carter is supersanctimonious, but human nature is too tempted by this regal-like, highly personal approach. It is both politically dangerous and morally destructive.

IF PAST history is any indication, Lubbock and the South Plains can weather an economic slowdown perhaps as well as any spot in the nation.

Not only during the Great Depression, but in the various recessions since, the city and area have come through with flying colors in comparison with other sections.

The major reason, of course, is the area's widely diversified economic base, which has been expanded each year.

Although agriculture and agri-business still are the foundations upon which the area's well-being is based, numerous other factors also play a key role. Today, "what makes us tick" includes everything from a vast retail and wholesale market to education, electronics, manufacturing, distribution, health care, oil and its spinoffs, the travel industry and the aforementioned farm base.

ALL OF THIS combines to form another major "industry" not often viewed in that light.

We refer to the banking and financial institutions, savings and loans and such, which not only help tie it all together but employ thousands in the process.

For years, Lubbock's jobless rate has been among the lowest in the state and nation, and its employment total has steadily rose. Unlike some other sections, construction here, both commercial and home-apartments, has remained impressive. Numerous new businesses have opened their doors in recent months.

But, above all else has been an ingredient seldom mentioned in the financial reports. It's called confidence, an upbeat attitude born of conquering past challenges. This attitude, born when the pioneers "broke in" these Old Baldies, is the biggest asset of all. It's worth its weight in gold.

Seems that a young man asked for a job with the circus, any job, just so he could travel with the show. The owner, thinking he might be able to make an assistant lion tamer out of the young man, took him out to the practice cage.

The head lion tamer, a beautiful young woman, was just starting her rehearsal. Entering the cage, she removed her cape with a flourish and standing in a gorgeous costume, motioned to one of the lions. Obediently the lion crept toward the young woman, licked her elbow and rolled over twice.

"Well," said the owner to the young man, "think you could learn to do that?"

"I am sure I could, sir," the eager beaver answered, "but, first you will have to get that lion out of there."

THE DEATH OF Arthur Fiedler removed from the American scene one of its giants, a man who found his niche and played it to the hilt.

Because of the man who made not only classical music, but sensible rock and roll popular with the masses, millions not only have come to appreciate music, but their country.

Arthur Fiedler, like so many of the older stalwarts of the musical and entertainment world, did not go marching in the streets, exorting his fans to defy law and order, or put down traditions proven for generations.

The stocky, white-haired maestro was a showman in every sense of the word. But, he was demanding of himself and those with whom he worked. Discipline and perfection were his hallmarks.

AS THE originator and guiding light of the Boston Pops for half a century, Arthur Fiedler accomplished something few others did.

He made patriotism and a feeling of love for America respectable when far too many who should have known better were "putting it all down..."

As President Carter noted on the maestro's death: "The Fourth of July Concerts he originated...became a part of our national tradition. He gave us the best-loved classics, with a joyous mixture of country, jazz and popular works..."

It was most appropriate that in tribute, the Boston pops performed the "Stars and Stripes Forever" at the Boston Symphony Hall—without a conductor.

But, somewhere in the Valhalla where those who honor the things that count, walk in soft shadows and warm sunshine, Arthur Fiedler must have been smiling. The piece was one of his favorites. It is too bad that so many in the broadcast and entertainment field in more recent times seem to think that loud, raucous music and questionable language is the in thing.

It may not have been a coincidence that the drug culture, the protest movement, the rising crime rate and fraying of American society also started on just such a note...

California Physician Faces Trial For Murder In North Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald lives the good California life.

He is 35 and handsome, dates an airline hostess, has an expensive condominium and a thriving medical practice and relaxes on a 34-foot boat named the Recovery Room, "because that's what it's for."

It's the good life — unless you count the murder charges hanging over his head.

MacDonald, who lives in Huntington Beach, Calif., goes on trial Monday in U.S. District Court in Raleigh, N.C., for first-degree murder in the slayings of his pregnant wife and two young daughters.

The slayings occurred nine years ago. The case has been drawn out by lengthy court fights and the admitted obsession of his father-in-law, Alfred Kassab, who is convinced MacDonald is guilty.

MacDonald, a former Green Beret, was an Army captain in February 1970, living in base officers' housing at Fort Bragg with his wife, Collette, 26, and his daughters, Kimberly 5, and Kristen Jean, 2.

As MacDonald remembers it, he fell asleep on the living-room couch the night of Feb. 16. He awoke early the next morning to hear his wife scream, "Help, Jeffrey! Why are they doing this to me?"

He says he saw four hippies, one with long blond hair streaming from under her floppy hat. "Acid is groovy. Kill the pigs," he says she chanted.

MacDonald says he fought with the intruders, was knocked unconcious and awoke to find blood-spattered walls and furniture — and the bodies of his family. MacDonald suffered 17 stab wounds, at least one potentially fatal.

On the headboard in his bedroom was scrawled the word "Pig."

Investigators say something much different happened.

That night, the investigators say, MacDonald became enraged over Kristen's bedwetting and killed his family, then stabbed himself as a cover or in remorse. A club, knife and ice pick were found near the house.

In April, after recovering from his wounds, MacDonald found Army investigators waiting for him.

They had an odd question. Why was a flowerpot found near the couch after the slayings standing upright?

It puzzled them. In trying to recreate the murders, Warrant Officer Franz Grebner said he repeatedly knocked over the table on which the flowerpot stood. Each time, he said, the pot landed on its side.

He told MacDonald he thought the scene was staged. A copy of a magazine with an article on mass murderer Charles Manson and his "family" was found at MacDonald's home, and the Army contended he fabricated his story about drug-crazed hippies after reading about the Tate-LaBianca slayings.

The Army charged MacDonald with murder.

But in Article 32 hearings, the equivalent of civilian grand jury proceedings, the Army board believed MacDonald. He was freed. He moved to California and worked as an emergency-room physician.

The freedom lasted until Jan. 24, 1975.

His case, thought closed, had been sent to a federal grand jury, which indicted him. Kassab had become as convinced of his son-in-law's guilt as he once was of his innocence, and his years of pressing and prodding led to a reopened Army investigation, then the grand jury indictment.

Moments before officials arrived to arrest him, MacDonald was talking on the telephone with a reporter, "I certainly hope the grand jury has some common sense ...," he said at the time. "It's getting more and more bizarre."

For Kassab and his wife, the case isn't bizarre, it's a vendetta. "He's willing to forget the whole thing, but I'm not," Kassab said in a recent interview. "It (the case) is the primary thing in our life."

The case has gone to the U.S. Supreme Court twice. Both times, the court rejected MacDonald's arguments, first after speedy-trial arguments, then after an appeal on double-jeopardy grounds.

Despite his easy-going lifestyle, MacDonald says it hasn't been an easy time for him. "I'm angry now," he said. "It's going to be a terrible ordeal ... but at this point, I'm almost looking forward to the trial, because maybe this will finally clear the air."

Warmer Weather In Peking Makes Spirits More Carefree

By JOHN RODERICK

PEKING (AP) — The warm weather has worked its magic on Peking. The caterpillar of winter has been succeeded by the butterfly of summer and the Chinese capital is a more open and carefree place.

The women have shed their heavy padded garments and regained their shape and individuality with skirts and flowered blouses.

Those who specialize in such arcane matters insist there are more young women wearing dresses this summer than last, more with permanent waves, more using makeup. Whatever the statistics, the occasional sight of a girl looking like a girl — most still wear trousers — has immeasurably lightened the atmosphere.

The heat thus far has not been as bad as in other years, but when it swelters, thousands of Peking's citizens go out onto the sidewalks to play card games under the trees.

Tienanmen Square, a vast symbol of state power by day, becomes an enormous pleasure ground by night. Little groups form to play cards, gossip or admire the full moon, turning it into a proletarian version of St. Mark's Square in Venice.

The lighter clothes of summer are matched by a lightness of spirit that did not exist this spring. During a physically oppressive winter, the 7 million people of Peking went through an exciting period of almost uninhibited democracy marked by speeches and posters in Tienanmen Square and on "Democracy Wall."

It was a democracy that, with its criticism of the Communist Party and some of its leaders, raised fears in some of the old men now back in power. Many of them had suffered disgrace and torture at the hands of the all-too-democratic youths of the Cultural Revolution and were not taking a chance on a repetition.

The springtime clampdown that followed put a chill on the idea of democracy American-style, and slowed down or halted contacts between outspoken Chinese and their foreign friends.

Though some of the Democracy Wall enthusiasts have been arrested and others sent to their home villages, their suppression has been followed by an open debate on how far China should go on the road to democracy, a debate never indulged in before.

The debate, to everyone's surprise, took place on the floor of the National People's Congress, which enacted new codes of criminal and civil law that promise greater protection of human rights, and laws for free and secret — democratic — elections at the county level.

Many Chinese who felt dismayed this winter and spring took heart. Others remain skeptical. "Now we must wait and see whether it is worth the paper it is written on," commented one poster-writer on Democracy Wall last week.

The wall has lost much of its bite since the crackdown, though there are still complaints about official and other injustice. One unhappy man says he's being poisoned daily by the people he accused of committing adultery with his wife.

But it seems that what the average Chinese wants is to be let alone, to be given an interesting job to do, to get a modest increase in salary and to see an end to the confusion, struggle and deceit of the past few years.

The living standards may be spartan, but in Peking he is a king able to enjoy the pleasures of an enchanting city.

At his beck and call are the delights of the 9,000-room Forbidden City, with its gardens, courtyards and museums, Pei Hai Park and its artificial lake, brightly painted pavilions and milk-white dagoba on a man-made hill, the Summer Palace and its tiered splendors, not to mention the city itself — an enormous museum whose majestic avenues and narrow lanes make it at once imposing and inviting, and whose walled residences conceal moon gates, trees, gardens and a sense of the past.

Form For Smaller Estates Authorized

AUSTIN (Special) — A declaration form for certain beneficiaries of estates of less than $200,000 has been authorized by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The new form, available in county courthouses, comptroller's field offices and from Texas attorneys, will replace the step of filing a more complicated return and having the Comptrollers Office issue a no-tax declaration for Class A beneficiaries.

A Class A beneficiary is a person most closely related to the deceased person, including the surviving spouse, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, parents and grandparents also are included.

"The new form is an effort to cut down on the amount of paperwork for small estates on which no Texas inheritance taxes are due and make our inheritance tax division a little more efficient and responsive at the same time," Bullock said.

Estimates show that almost 80 percent of more than 50,000 inheritance tax returns filed each year could be handled with the one-page declaration of no tax due.

Estates with a gross value of less than $200,000 are exempt by law from state inheritance taxes for Class A beneficiaries. The figure will be increased to $250,000 on Sept. 1, 1982, and to $300,000 on Sept. 1, 1985.

Promoter Says Ali Given $300,000 To Say He Quit

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Boxing promoter Bob Arum says he had to pay Muhammad Ali $300,000 to persuade the World Boxing Association heavyweight champion to announce his retirement last month.

Arum, president of Top Rank Inc., said Saturday that Ali's reluctance to announce he was quitting had delayed the scheduling of a title fight between John Tate of Knoxville and Gerrie Coetzee of South Africa.

The WBA previously had decreed that its heavyweight title would be declared vacated in September if Ali did not defend it by then.

"We knew Muhammad Ali was going to retire," Arum said, "but as long as he delayed, I couldn't make definite plans. Ali wanted a million dollars. I agreed to give him $300,000. So that did it and we set up the Tate-Coetzee fight."

Ali could not be reached for comment.

Arum was in Knoxville for business talks with Tate's manager, Ace Miller. He said Tate will be paid $400,000 and Coetzee $300,000 for the WBA title bout now scheduled for Oct. 20 at Pretoria, South Africa.

Mayor Wants Black, Women PD Recruits

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mayor Ernest Morial and the city's civil service commission have called for accelerated recruiting of blacks and women by the fire department noting that there are no females among New Orleans' 900-plus firefighters and fewer than 100 are black.

Civil Service Director Jack Belsom said the few women applicants in the past never got past the training stage.

Workers Missing After Oil Rig Fire

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two offshore oil platform riggers were missing, and at least three others injured in the Gulf of Mexico Saturday morning, after they leaped from their boat to escape a natural gas fire from a ruptured pipleline, a Shell Oil Co. spokesman said.

The brief fire broke out around 8 a.m., during anchor tending operations at the submersible rig Ocean Queen, about 70 miles southeast of New Orleans.

"We don't know just what it was," said Shell spokesman Mark Depland. "Apparently something on the bottom grabbed the pipeline and caused it to rupture."

He said the pipeline's automatic safety devices shut down the gas flow shortly after the break.

The pipeline released a bubble of natural gas which rose to the surface and ignited. Seven men jumped overboard to escape the fire, Depland said.

Five were rescued and flown by Coast Guard helicopter to the Oschner Foundation Hospital in Jefferson, Depland said.

Three men were admitted, but the extent of their injuries was not known, he said.

The identities of the missing and injured men were not released pending notification of next of kin, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The men were part of an anchoring crew at the stern of the vessel Pete Tad II, according to Coast Guard reports.

A Coast Guard helicopter and rescue boat continued their search into the afternoon.

The boat, which was apparently undamaged in the fire, is owned by Tidewater Marine Service Inc. of Morgan City, Depland said.

MANNERLY BANK ROBBER

CHICAGO (AP) — A Minneapolis man has been arrested after a robber entered a downtown savings and loan office and handed a teller a note that demanded money and added, "Thank you and have a nice day." John Olsen, 25, who was quoted by FBI agents as saying he was an unemployed disc jockey, was arrested Friday in connection with the robbery at the First Federal Saving & Loan Association, authorities said.

Alleged Murderer Goes To Court

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Roger Dale Stafford, accused of killing six restaurant employees during a robbery, is to return to court today, one year to the day after the murders occurred.

Stafford, represented by a public defender, is to appear in the county District Court and is expected to seek a delay in his preliminary hearing, scheduled for Thursday.

Stafford, 27, of Decatur, Ala., was arrested in Chicago in March, culminating an investigation that at its peak entailed 152 officers.

His former wife, Verna, is expected to be a key prosecution witness and is living in Oklahoma City under a "custodial arrangement," according to District Attorney Andrew Coats.

The killings occurred at the Sirloin Stockade after two gunmen forced the six employees into a walk-in meat storage refrigerator and shot them with two .38-caliber revolvers. The gunmen fled with about $1,500.

Stafford's brother, Harold Ray Stafford, 29, was identified by authorities as a suspect in the case, but he died in a motorcycle accident in Tulsa six days after the killings.

New Orleans Artist Kills Self After Making All Arrangements

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Her friends said Lucita Ward, 84, was afraid of growing feeble.

She was a former Ziegfeld Follies girl, who came to New Orleans after her marriage in England ended in 1954. She took up painting, becoming a serious, moderately priced French Quarter artist who sold her work to tourists from a spot along the Jackson Square fence.

To her friends, Mrs. Ward was a cheerful, if somewhat eccentric, woman who could pass for 60 and who enjoyed attending parties and throwing a few herself for artist friends.

But last week, she made an appointment with a funeral director and paid $495 for a cremation plan.

Friday morning, she put a bullet through her head.

"She always had a fear of old age," said Ivan Kottemann, operator of an art supply store Mrs. Ward frequented. "She said she would kill herself first. She dreaded getting feeble."

Mrs. Ward told funeral director Pat McMahon she would die soon after the cremation arrangements were finalized.

"We got everything completed and she signed the papers," he said. "Then she just smiled and said, 'I guess this is your first experience with a suicide.' She told me it would take place July 10.

"She told me her friends had been beaten up, raped and murdered and she said her other friends were in institutions just waiting to die."

McMahon tried to convince the woman to visit with a priest or minister, but Mrs. Ward said she did not believe in God. The funeral home called Orleans Parish Coroner Dr. Frank Minyard and told him of the threatened suicide.

Minyard, a French Quarter resident himself, visited with Mrs. Ward at her apartment for more than two hours. He said she was mentally sound but determined to carry out her threat.

The funeral home tried to stall the threatened death by cancelling the cremation policy.

"But she begged us not to do it," McMahon said. "She said she had her life in order and that there would be no suicide. She said she had talked to a minister and the police in addition to Minyard and that he had offered her a job advising the elderly.

McMahon said the funeral home had no choice but to reinstate the paid policy.

"And nothing happened for two days," he said. "We thought she was going to work for Minyard. Then, lo and behold, she committed suicide. It's incredible."

During the weekend, Mrs. Ward's spot among the artists at the Jackson Square fence held a simple wreath with a small cardboard sign reading: "In memory of an artist friend who died."

Hand Reattached. Worker Grateful

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore De Franco, whose left hand was nearly severed in a construction accident last month, hopes to return to Cabrini Hospital soon to hug his miracle doctor "with two hands."

As he prepared to leave the hospital, Saturday, after nearly a month-long stay, De Franco, 53, of Ocean Township, N.J., said, "I came to this hospital in two pieces but I will be leaving here in one."

De Franco, a bricklayer, was flown to Cabrini Hospital on June 15, when he caught his hand in a concrete pump while working. The hand was almost totally severed and left hanging by several tendons.

A special hand-surgery team, headed by Dr. Charles Melone, reconstructed De Franco's crushed wrist and reattached the hand during an eight-hour operation.

At a news conference, De Franco wiggled his fingers gingerly for reporters and said, "The first thing I'm gonna do when I get home is have a Dewar's on the rocks."

Relatives Sue Ryan Estate

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Relatives of six victims of the mass suicide-murder in Jonestown, Guyana, have filed a $9.75 million claim against the estate of the late Rep. Leo J. Ryan.

Lawyers for the estate said Wednesday the claim was filed in San Mateo County Superior Court June 28 and rejected July 6. The eight relatives must now file a lawsuit if they want to continue their efforts.

Filing the suit were Teena M. Turner, Puyallup, Wash.; Virginia and Robert P. Richardson, Liberal, Kans.; James and Thom Bogue, San Francisco; Janita Bogue, Puyallup, Wash.; Flora Briggs, San Francisco, and Monica Bagby, San Francisco.

Their wrongful death claim asserted that the damages were caused by Ryan's "omissions, failures to warn, and misrepresentations of strength upon which claimants relied on the decedent (Ryan) as he negotiated and undertook the evacuation of persons from Jonestown, Guyana."

Ryan went personally to investigate the Rev. Jim Jones' community in Guyana and offered those who wished to leave the opportunity to do so. Five persons, including Ryan, were slain on an airstrip in Guyana.

Kurdish TribesmenContinue Independence Fight

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer

IN THE KURDISTAN MOUNTAINS, Iraq (AP) — After four years in exile, the Kurdish warriors of the Barzanis trudged back to their lairs in the mountains of northern Iraq over the weekend to step up their long war for autonomy against the central government.

Several hundred tribesmen were led across the border from neighboring Iran by their new leader, Masoud Barzani, a son of the legendary Kurdish chief Gen. Moustafa Barzani, who died in exile in Washington last March.

Masoud, 33, has spent more than half his life fighting in these mountains. He embarked on the return march only a few days after being elected president of the Kurdistan Democratic Party of Iraq, succeeding his father, at a secret party meeting in Iran.

The battle-seasoned guerrillas, many of whom fought under the general for decades, streamed through the night along hardly visible smugglers' tracks to cross the border without detection.

Wearing distinctive red-and-white Barzani turbans and Kurdish baggy trousers, they carried modern automatic rifles, both Soviet-and Western-made, as well as a variety of World War I-vintage weapons.

The guerrillas were jeopardizing their lives merely by stepping across the border. Under an Iraqi law, any person entering a 12-by-480-mile strip along the borders with Turkey and Iran is liable to execution. The area has been emptied of all its inhabitants.

Once back on home territory, the Barzani guerrillas joined other Kurdish fighters, some bitter rivals of the Barzanis, who had continued fighting in the area after the last major Kurdish revolt against the Arab government in Baghdad collapsed in 1975.

"We plan to intensify fighting throughout this region," the younger Barzani told a reporter who accompanied the guerrillas on their march.

"Our objective is to rescue our people from persecution ... and to gain real autonomy for the Kurdish people within a democratic and prosperous Iraq."

After crossing the border, the Kurdish warriors passed beneath snow-streaked peaks and through deserted mountain villages whose simple mud-and-stone houses had either been burned or blown up. Large tracts of the surrounding fertile countryside had been burned.

"There are no people in the area we are entering because the (Iraqi) government has deported all the population from the border regions, forcing them to live under military guards in special camps in the lowlands, in an effort to deprive us of their support," Barzani said.

The mass expulsion — Barzani says a half-million Kurds were forced out — took place over the past three years. He also charges that the Iraqi government arrested more than 10,000 Kurds and executed more than 1,000.

An occasional explosion, a few brief bursts of mcachine-gun fire and an odd rifle shot echoed off the steep mountainsides, but there appeared to be no major military engagements.

The only people moving about, cautiously and mostly at night, were armed "Pesh Merga" — Kurdish for "forward to death" — the name adopted by the Kurdish guerrillas.

Iraqi troops watch over the region from camps perched on mountaintop vantage points, firing on anything that moves.

"Our tactics are based on guerrilla warfare, with small groups of 10-15 Pesh Merga.... This way we tie down eight Iraqi divisions but all their planes and helicopters and artillery have little effect," Barzani said.

Playing it safe, the guerrillas dashed for cover whenever they heard the drone of a high-flying observation plane or a helicopter clattering through the deep valleys.

The overthrow of the Shah of Iran last February created a new situation for the three Kurdish guerrilla groups operating in Iraqi Kurdistan. With the disintegration of the Iranian army and its withdrawal from the Kurdish-inhabited areas of western Iran, the border ceased to exist for the Kurds of both countries. Weapons, men and supplies cross freely in both directions.

Barzani, who lived in exile with his father in Washington for the past four years, returned to Iran to join 100,000 Kurdish refugees from Iraq after the old man's death. He said he spent the past two months reorganizing the KDP and his people.

The Iraqi Kurds have been waging their struggle against Baghdad, mainly under Gen. Barzani's leadership, for almost 50 years. But the Barzani group lost some of its support after following revelations that it had cooperated with the shah and the American CIA before 1975.

The younger Barzani denies he is still cooperating with either the deposed Iranian monarch or the CIA, and calls the previous collaboration a tactical move "that we now admit was a strategic mistake."

The previous revolt collapsed when Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi suddenly withdrew his support from Gen. Barzani, closing the border with Iraq, thus cutting off the Kurd's supply lines and leaving them at the mercy of the Iraqi army.

Haig Speaks Out On Behalf Of Petroleum Deregulation

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig, mentioned as a possible presidential contender in 1980, said Sunday he favors oil and gas degregulation and less central control by the government in managing the energy crisis.

He said the Carter adminstration has been "extremely unsuccessful" in coping with the energy problem and that he did not think the president's speech Sunday night would alone provide a solution.

"What we need is not rhetoric, but an action program that is well organized and innovative and designed to meet the current crisis," Haig said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

Haig, 54, retired as NATO supreme allied commander June 29, the same week he narrowly escaped assassination in a terrorist bombing attack in Belgium.

He said at the time that he had no political plans, but he has often been mentioned as a possible contender on the Republican ticket.

Haig said there were no "glib formulas for a prompt remedy" to the oil crisis and that longer term solutions were needed.

These, he said, included "deregulation of natural gas and petroleum. We should let the free enterprise system wend its way rather than try to manage it centrally from Washington which we have been extremely unsuccessful in doing in recent months."

He said research and development incentives should be given to private enterprise, that there should be "a shift to coal in our current inventory of energy capabilities" and that an international policy should be developed "to be sure we are not going to be blackmailed periodically ... by oil producing nations."

Haig said he leaned toward favoring amendments to the SALT II treaty and that he was concerned about the so-called "single exception" provision which he said experts feel would give the Soviet Union "carte blanche ability to continue on with modernization across the board."

He said he was "even more grievously concerned about the general trending in American strategic posture with or without SALT II," because he felt the Soviets took advantage in the past and made America the "victim of our own attitude on arms control, moderation and restraint."

Haig, an independent and former chief of staff in the Nixon administration, reiterated that he had "no political ambitions or plans for the future." He acknowledged, however, that people have been talking to him about the presidency or running for the U.S. Senate from Pennsylvania.

$86 Million In Bids Accepted By DHPT

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — The state Department of Highways and Public Transportation will accept bids next week on highway construction projects expected to cost about $86.8 million.

The bid opening is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday. Most of the work will involve safety projects such as pavement marking, installation of railroad crossing devices and traffic signals, and general highway rehabilitation.

Couple Celebrates 70th Anniversary

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Perhaps because they're Spartans, tough stock with a tradition of standing fast, Helen and George Manesiotis marked 70 years of marriage on Sunday.

On July 15, 1909, George and Helen — he was 34, she was 15 — were wed and sipped wine from a golden cup, thinking of the joys and sorrows they would face together.

On Sunday they celebrated, with little thought of sorrow but plenty of joy.

"God was good to let us reach our 70th anniversary," said a smiling Mrs. Manesiotis, now 85.

The marriage, which produced eight children, almost did not come off, they recalled.

Like most Greek weddings of the time, the union had been arranged by kin folk in Pittsburgh. But George, now 104 and ailing, was reluctant to marry someone so young and Helen was about to return to Sparta, Greece, from where both had immigrated.

"My brother called me and said Helen was going back to Europe and asked me if I still wanted to marry her," George recalled. "I asked him if he thought I should marry someone young enough to be my own child.

"He said, 'If you don't marry her, I will.'"

They married three days later. Together, as he operated a candy-making business, they witnessed two world wars and many smaller conflicts, a depression, and a revolution in education, religion and morality.

They credit the old ways with keeping them together. For instance, they met two years before she was allowed to even speak to him.

"Before the marriage I was told to keep quiet and listen to my husband," she said. "I kept quiet for 40 years, until finally I told him I wouldn't keep quiet any longer."

They never even thought of divorce.

"In the Orthodox religion you never considered leaving your spouse," George said. "Once the priest marries you, that's the way it stays."

Seal Failure Cuts Power Production

HADDAM, Conn. (AP) — Electricity production has been reduced by 25 percent at the Connecticut Yankee nuclear power plant because the primary seal on a reactor coolant pump failed, Northeast Utilities said Sunday.

Gary Doughty, a spokesman for the utility, said there was no danger of radiation's being released because of the problem. He said pump seals fail occasionally, and there are two backup seals.

He said a steam generator was shut down after the seal failed Saturday, reducing the plant's production from its usual 600 megawatts to 450 megawatts.

The pump takes hot water from the reactor core and forces it into a steam generator to create power, and it also takes the cooled water back to the reactor, where it is heated again, Doughty said.

United States Hopes To Increase Acceptance Of Boat People

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is going to next weekend's international refugee conference in Geneva with hope of convincing other nations to follow President Carter's example and double their quotas of homeless Indochinese.

The idea, Ambassador Dick Clark said in an interview, is for the rest of the world to take in about 80,000 refugees a year — and Asian countries to set up at least three new camps to house the tragic "boat people" until they get permanent homes.

"For the first time, there's a sensitivity around the world that hasn't existed before," said the former Iowa senator, who heads the U.S. program. "I think the interest and concern is there, and I think it will culminate in Geneva."

Ministers from 65 to 70 countries are attending the two-day conference, which is sponsored by the United Nations and was spurred by Margaret Thatcher, the British prime minister.

Among the guests will be Vietnam, which is driving thousands of people out by its harsh policies. There doesn't seem much prospect of a major policy change in Hanoi. However, Clark said, "we want to get some sort of agreement from Vietnam to do this in a more humane way."

The United States was taking in 7,000 refugees a month — two of every three refugees fleeing from Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

Carter's decision to double that quota will bring 168,000 refugees a year to the United States. Now, the idea is to persuade other countries to do as much, doubling their quotas from 40,000 to 80,000.

The "boat people" who make it to land — an estimated 20 to 50 percent drown — are packed in overcrowded camps in Malaysia, Thailand and Hong Kong.

The host countries are growing increasingly unwilling to absorb them.

"What we have to come out of the Geneva conference with is a redoubling of resettlement offers by the rest of the world, as we've done, as well as an agreement to develop processing centers, in larger numbers, in Southeast Asia," Clark said.

"Also, there is a need for additional funds for the care and maintenance of refugees. With these three things accomplished, the countries of Southeast Asia can be prepared to offer first asylum when the boats land."

In a related development Sunday, Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., said the prime minister of Thailand, Kriangsak Chomanan, had written to a group of House members saying he had ordered the repatriation of Cambodian refugees suspended.

"We have not turned a blind eye to the concern of our friendly countries and groups of friends such as yours," Chomanan wrote in response to a letter sent last month by the House members.

"I have directed the authorities concerned that the repatriation be suspended," Chomanan said, "and this in the hope that the international community which has now become aware of the complexities and ramifications of the issue will find in due time the concrete and durable solutions to all aspects of the problem in the forthcoming international conference or conferences within the framework of the United Nations."

Solarz said: "The assurances which we have now received from the prime minister are extremely gratifying. They are indicative of the extraordinarily decent and compassionate response which Thailand has made as this vast human tragedy unfolds."

In his letter, Chomanan complained that help and assistance from other countries "are grievously inadequate, slow to come forth in (a) desultory and selective manner, and nothing has so far seriously been done to focus the attention to the root cause of the ugly problem."

Apart from the United States, only a few countries have taken in many refugees. Among them: France, Canada and Australia.

Clark is encouraged, however, by the fact that about a dozen others recently agreed to accept at least some Indochinese. These include Austria, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Israel, Argentina and Costa Rica.

Others will be asked to accept their first refugees. Latin America is one specific target.

As for the United States, the new quota of 168,000 a year apparently is as high as the administration intends to go.

Clark, who recommended the monthly figure be raised from 7,000 to 10,000, and was surprised when Carter went to 14,000, did not close the door completely on another boost.

"In real terms, a country of 220 million people can absorb quite a few refugees without causing any great disruption of the economy and the society," he said.

"There are so many different considerations, psychological, ethnic, political, financial and so forth. I don't know whether this is the most that conceivably could be taken in. But I think it's a pretty generous offer, and I don't think we'd go above that under present circumstances."

There are about 368,000 Indochinese refugees in camps throughout Asia. About 50,000 a month are managing to make it to those camps.

That means that even if U.S. goals for Geneva are met, and 250,000 a year are permanently resettled, with the current rate of exodus some 30,000 refugees would have to be placed in camps each month.

Those that have been accepted by the United States are, Clark said, productive people.

"On the whole, they have not been a burden," he said.

"That doesn't mean the program doesn't cost anything, that there isn't some sacrifice to be made.

"But, on the whole, they've adjusted very well. Of those able to work, 95 percent are working, often taking menial jobs other people are not taking. They have made a contribution."

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I have a municipal bond which pays 7½ percent tax-free interest. I have been told that the bond is going to be recalled and will be paid off at $1,040 for each $1,000 face value on July 1, 1981.

Since this bond is not registered but is payable to the "bearer," how do I go about redeeming it? Do I have to go through a broker or otherwise?

A. You can go the do-it-yourself route, by delivering your bond to the office of the trustee for that particular bond issue. The name of the trustee — usually a big bank — is printed on the face of the bond.

If you don't want to handle that chore yourself, you can have a brokerage firm or a bank do it for you. You should be prepared to pay a fee — $25 or so — for that service.

You have run into one of the problems of bearer bonds, which come without the owners' names printed on them. If you hadn't been told that that bond has been called for early redemption, you most likely would have continued to hold it past July 1, 1981, at which time it will stop paying interest.

We're assuming now that what you heard is correct. It's unusual for the announcement of a bond's call for redemption to be announced some two years before the call date. You had better check that out — with the trustee.

Municipal and corporate bonds are often called for redemption before their scheduled maturity dates, when the issuers of the bonds involved have the opportunity to pay off high-interest debts by issuing lower-cost debt securities.

But, because interest costs in general have skyrocketed in recent years, we haven't seen too many bonds called for early redemption lately.

Q. The high interest rates now available on top-quality bonds issued by major corporations appeal to me. If I buy such bonds, due to mature in 20, 25 or 30 years, how can I be sure the corporations won't call them for redemption before maturity?

A. It's unlikely you'll be able to. Almost all marketable bonds have provisions allowing the issuers to call them for redemption before their stated maturity dates. Most bonds, however, have "call protection" for a specified period of time — meaning that they can't be called for a predetermined number of years after they are issued.

Also, when a bond is called for early redemption, the issuer almost always has to pay a premium to the bond owner.

All these provisions are spelled out in the indenture for each bond issue. They are also often found in the fine print on the bond certificate.

• • •

Q. I have some Series E U.S. Savings Bonds I bought during World War II. I will have to start cashing them in — 40 years after their issue dates — unless those idiots in Washington relent and grant another extension.

My niece is now the beneficiary on all my bonds. Can she cash them and pay the federal income tax?

A. When a U.S. Savings Bond is registered in beneficial form, as yours are, it can be cashed only by the owner. That's you. Sorry. Who gets the cash and puts up the money to pay the federal income tax on the E bonds' accrued interest is up to you and your niece. The interest, however, will have to be reported on your tax return.

You can't shift that tax reporting liability. By refusing to grant further extensions to older E bonds, the U.S. Treasury will extract taxes from people who hold some $11 billion worth.

Workshop Attempts To Sharpen Skills

College bound high school graduates who need to sharpen their reading, math, and study skills may enroll in a workshop to be presented July 30-Aug. 17 by the Texas Tech University Division of Continuing Education.

The workshop is intended to help students make the transition from high school to college and university level education, according to Dr. Michael Mezack, director of Continuing Education.

"Each student will be given a detailed evaluation of his or her strengths and weaknesses, as well as suggestions how to improve and maintain skills so as to better insure academic achievement in college," he said.

Reading instruction will cover comprehension skills, reading in various subject areas, basic speed reading techniques, and vocabularly enrichment (such as Greek and Latin roots, affixes, and foreign words).

Study skills such as notetaking, outlining, highlighting, research, library review, and test taking techniques will be emphasized.

An English review of the sentence and the art of combining sentences to vary writing styles will be presented.

Students also will review basic math skills to prepare them for college classes.

No grades nor credit will be given for the workshop. Students will work individually and in small groups. A certificate will be presented to each student who successfully completes the workshop.

Ellen Harris and Shirley Rekers, both of Lubbock, will instruct the courses.

Registration fee is $60 and will cover cost of instruction and all materials. Enrollment is limited to 30 students.

Further information is available from Mezack in the Division of Continuing Education at Tech.

DEATH SENTENCE

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Convicted killer Jimmy Loyd Mead, who said he preferred death to life in prison, has been sentenced to die. A jury on Saturday recommended the death sentence for Mead, who was convicted Wednesday of the Feb. 13 murder of a Crowley police officer. Mead had told the court Thursday, "Death would be more acceptable to me than a life sentence."

Tech Student Beaten, Raped In Home

A 21-year-old Texas Tech student told police that a man broke into her home, struck her over the head with a brick, raped her several times and stole $8 from her during a two-hour ordeal at her home Saturday night.

The victim told police that about 9:15 p.m. she answered a knock at her front door, saw a man who was wearing pantyhose over his head and began screaming. She said the man jerked the latched screen door open, told her not to scream and struck her on the head with a brick.

Reports show that the suspect reportedly told the woman he had a knife, forced her to the floor, placed a pillow over her face and raped her. After the assault, the man told the woman to give him her car keys so that he could drive to Levelland, but the woman said she was able to talk the man out of taking her car.

The victim said the man then forced her to the bed and raped her again. After the second assault, the woman said her attacker told her he would kill her if she did not give him $5. Reports indicate that the woman gave him $8, that the man raped her again and left.

After her ordeal, the woman called police. She was treated at St. Mary's Hospital and released.

She described her attacker as Mexican-American, 18 to 25, of medium height and build, with long hair slightly below his shoulders. He was wearing a white T-shirt, blue jeans, white yard gloves with black spots, and possibly sandals, she reported.

Police Sunday sought two black males in connection with the aggravated rape and robbery of a 37-year-old woman, which reportedly occurred about 11:55 p.m. Friday on the Idalou Road.

The woman, who reported the incident Sunday to police, said she had driven the two men to a place on the Idalou Road and that when her car would not start, she and the two men began walking.

She said the first suspect, whom she described as 18 to 25 and short, knocked her to the ground, raped her and fled taking her purse, which contained $60 in cash and jewelry.

The victim reported that the second suspect, whom she said was 26 to 35 and tall, then began beating her with his fists and raped her. The victim told police that she escaped from her second attacker by jumping into a passing pickup truck. Reports show that the driver of the pickup took the woman to her home.

The victim Sunday told police that the attack caused her to have a miscarriage. However, reports indicate that she refused to be taken to a hospital for treatment.

A 19-year-old Lubbock man remained in county jail late Sunday in connection with the aggravated robbery of the Poco Taco restaurant, 120 University Ave., which occurred about 10:47 p.m. Saturday. Reports indicate that about $321 was taken in the robbery.

Reports show that the suspect walked into the police department about 1 a.m. and turned himself in.

Cashier Lupe Munoz told police that the suspect had ordered a soft drink from the outside speaker, drove up to the window and pointed a pistol at her, telling her, "It's a holdup." Miss Munoz said she gave the man the money in the register.

The cashier said the man indicated he wanted the cash from the other register, too, but that when she hesitated, the man sped south on University Avenue.

In other activity, a 26-year-old Lubbock man remained in county jail Sunday following a family disturbance that broke out about 8:20 p.m. Saturday in the 3300-block of East Cornell Street.

The suspect was jailed for aggravated asssault on two police officers, resisting arrest, using loud and profane language and traffic violations.

Reports show that a woman, reportedly the suspect's mother, told police that she wanted the suspect out of her home. Police said that the suspect told them he was leaving, began cursing at them and left in a car. Reports indicate that police pursued the suspect until the man stopped at a residence in the 3300-block of East Baylor Street.

Police told the suspect they wanted to talk to him about the family disturbance, and when the suspect kept on walking, an officer approached him and the man began cursing and swinging at him, reports show.

Reports indicate that an officer who grabbed the violent, cursing man attempted to handcuff him but was hampered by other men who kept trying to free the man from the officer.

The two officers were treated at Methodist Hospital for minor arm lacerations and later released.

A 19-year-old Crowell ranch hand was in county jail Sunday after reportedly attempting to kidnap a young woman from a residence in the 3200-block of 93rd Street about 11:17 a.m. Sunday.

Reports show that police saw the suspect holding the victim against her will in the street and ordered the man to release her. However, the suspect told police that he was going to take the woman to Crowell whether she liked it or not.

Police said the suspect released the woman shortly afterwards and was arrested. The suspect told police that he and the young woman had dated previously.

Dennis Flords, 25, of Slaton told police that a man took his wallet, which contained $250 in cash, during an incident about 5:05 a.m. Sunday at Broadway and Idalou Road.

Flords said the suspect approached him and told him to "pitch over your wallet." Flords said he did and that the suspect ran north, turned and shot once at him. The victim said he hid in some nearby bushes and later flagged down a sheriff's unit. The deputy notified police.

Flords said the suspect was a black male, 18 to 25, of medium height and build and was wearing a red-and-blue shirt and tan pants.

Larry Douglas Jones of 2207 Ninth St. reported that he lost about $9,980 worth of property, including stereo equipment, a color TV and home computer after a break-in, which reportedly occurred sometime between 7 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Social Security Head Says System In Better Shape Than Most

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social security systems all over the world are confronted with the same problems of financing and an aging citizenry, and the U.S. system has lower tax rates and is in better shape than most, its head says.

In nearly every country, whether payroll taxes are high or low, there is a feeling that they "are brushing up against what is considered to be the maximum acceptable rate," Commissioner Stanford G. Ross says.

But higher payroll taxes or more taxes from general revenues appear "inescapable" because it is politically unlikely that countries will be able to scale back their current high level of benefits, Ross predicted.

"Serious financing problems are making themselves felt everywhere and are the major preoccupation of social security policymakers," the commissioner said in an 8,000-word report entitled "Social Security: A World-Wide Issue."

Ross wrote the report based on a trip to France, Germany, Sweden and Great Britain last month, and discussions with other foreign officials at a social security symposium here in May.

Most countries also are adjusting their programs to accommodate "major changes in social patterns," particularly the increasing participation of women in the workforce, lower birthrates and more divorces, he said.

Most major industrialized countries spend a bigger proportion of their gross national product than the United States does to provide social welfare benefits, Ross said.

He cited a 1978 survey by the International Labor Office that showed only Japan (6 percent) lower than the United States (12 percent). Canada (13 percent) and Great Britain (14 percent) were next, followed by Belgium (21 percent), France and Germany (both 22 percent) and Sweden and the Netherlands (both 25 percent).

Workers and employers in most of these countries pay higher payroll tax rates than Americans, he said. The combined rates ranged from 3.6 percent in Canada to 10.2 percent in the United States to 18 percent in Germany to 28.2 percent in the Netherlands.

"In facing the challenges ahead, the United States is in a fortunate position relative to most other countries," said Ross. "Our overall program of benefits and services is generally not as expansive as in other industrialized countries, leaving us with far greater room to creatively structure our programs in the future."

Ross also found that partly because Europe's social security systems have weathered disruptions caused by world wars, "social security abroad enjoys strong public confidence. Widespread fears about the destruction of the system are not evident."

They "rarely encounter media treatment that questions fundamental premises of the system, thereby breeding public insecurity," said the tax lawyer, who took command of the Social Security Administration last October.

All the systems are basically pay-as-you-go, Ross said, and building large reserves "is not a feasible approach to social insurance."

Obituaries

Mrs. Cadenhead

BROWNFIELD (Special) — Services for Mrs. John W. (Floy) Cadenhead, 81, of Brownfield will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Meadow's First United Methodist Church with the Rev. James Hamilton, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Lubbock's Resthaven Cemetery under the direction of Brownfield Funeral Home.

Mrs. Cadenhead died at 8 a.m. Sunday in the Brownfield Regional Medical Center following a brief illness.

The Waco native moved to Plainview in 1906 with her parents. She moved to Meadow in 1924 and to a ranch in Yoakum County in 1950. She was a member of the Meadow First United Methodist Church. She married John Cadenhead in Plainview June 14, 1923. He died Feb. 20, 1979.

Survivors include a son, Wayne of Dayton; two brothers, Ray Lackey of Brownfield and Bernice Lackey of Phoenix, Ariz.; a sister, Annie Matsler of Plainview; and two grandchildren.

Ervin French

Services for Ervin French, 64, of Harlingen will be at 3 p.m. today in the Testament Baptist Church in Harlingen, with the Rev. Larry Sexton, pastor, officiating. Local services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Resthaven Funeral Home chapel.

Burial will be Wednesday in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Resthaven Funeral Home.

French died Sunday in Valley Baptist Medical Center in Harlingen after a long illness.

A Lamar County native, French moved to Weslaco from Lubbock in 1970, and lived there seven years before moving to Harlingen. He retired from the civil service in 1965, and was a co-founder of the Testament Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Opal of Harlingen; a brother, O.C. of Plainview; and three sisters, Edith LaBerg of Lubbock, Jean Blansit of Killeen and Helen Howry of Hobbs, N.M.

Roy Gaston

DALLAS (Special) — Services for Roy Gaston, 79, of Malakoff will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Suggs Funeral Home Chapel in Dallas.

Burial will be in Grove Hill Memorial Park in Dallas under the direction of Suggs Funeral Home. Local arrangements were handled by Parsons-Ellis-Singleton Funeral Home of Amherst.

Gaston died at 3 a.m. Sunday in South Plains Hospital in Amherst following a brief illness.

Gaston was a retired Olive-Meyer Furnishing and Manufacturing employee in Dallas and had worked for the Dallas school system. He also was a maintenance supervisor for Sam Sparks Hospital in Dallas.

Survivors include his wife, Anna Lee; two sons, Gene of Earth and Kenneth of Leaf River, Ill.; a daughter, Janie Wolff of Milwaukee, Wis.; two sisters, Opal Hart of Garland and Violet Carden of Malakoff; a brother, Jim of Trinidad; 11 grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

James A. Haney

HEREFORD (Special) — Services for James Austin "Baldy" Haney, 54, of Hereford will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Temple Baptist Church with the Rev. Jim Bozeman, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in West Park Cemetery under the direction of Gililland-Watson Funeral Home.

Haney was dead at 5:50 a.m. Sunday on arrival at Deaf Smith General Hospital. He had been under a doctor's care.

The New Mexico native moved to Texas in 1946. He was a water well repairman, a member of Temple Baptist Church and a World War II Navy veteran. He married Peggy Dixon April 15, 1955, in Clovis, N.M.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, John Lynn and Kelly Lloyd, both of Hereford; two daughters, Ruby Dalton of Hereford and Carol Sutton of Magnolia, Ky.; three sisters, Myrtle Vinyard of Levelland, Norene Trull of Sundown and Juanita Jukas of Florida; two brothers, Curtis of Antioch, Calif., and H.G. of Wilkesbarre, Pa.; and two grandchildren.

Thermostats To Get Carter Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Loosen your collar and roll up your sleeves, the temperature is going up on Monday.

President Carter has imposed rules, approved by Congress, requiring that the air conditioning in commercial buildings be set no lower than 78 degrees starting Monday.

This is expected to save electricity in about five million buildings across the country. Energy officials said the saving could be 200,000 to 400,000 barrels of oil a day.

Don't be surprised if it is sometimes even warmer where you work, though.

The rule says the thermostat can't be set lower than 78 degrees Fahrenheit. Most thermostats cool slightly below their settings, then shut off the air conditioner and allow the room to warm above the setting.

The rule will remain in effect for nine months. It also provides that winter heating cannot exceed 65 degrees and hot water cannot exceed 105 degrees except where required by health regulations.

If misery really loves company, you may take some solace in the knowledge that Congress will suffer through the higher temperatures, also.

Temperatures in the Capitol have been raised to 78 already, but the complex cooling system in the building warms some areas more than others. The House and Senate chambers are reported to be among the most uncomfortable places in town, with temperatures well into the 80s.

The House has relaxed its rule requiring male reporters to wear coats and ties in the press gallery and the Senate is considering similar action.

The new energy-saving rules cover commercial, industrial and other nonresidential buildings. Exemptions can be sought for such places as apartment buildings, hotels, elementary and nursery schools and day-care centers.

Other businesses can apply for exemption based on exceptional hardship or inequity, particularly where sensitve equipment could be damaged.

Owners and operators of affected buildings will have 30 days to post certificates of compliance. Forms will be available from the Energy Department and at post offices, officials said.

Violations of the rule can be punished by fines running as high as $10,000.

And, just to make matters worse, the Long Range Predictions Group of the National Weather Service says it is likely to be warmer than normal in much of the country during the remainder of the summer.

Areas with a 60 percent or more chance of above-normal heat, the forecasters said, include:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, southern Maine, Maryland and Massachusetts.

Also Mississippi, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, western New Mexico, New York City and Long Island, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

The areas with a 60 percent or more chance of below-normal temperatures are Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Long-range temperatures for the remainder of the country, the forecasters say, can't be predicted accurately.

Senate To Consider Proposal To Cut Nuclear Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to place new restrictions on nuclear power plants moves to the Senate floor this week in a new test of congressional reaction to the Three Mile Island accident last spring.

The Senate is scheduled to begin debate Monday on a measure that would shut down in six months all nuclear power plants operating in states without a government-approved evacuation plan. The same bill would deny operating licenses to reactors awaiting such permits in states without evacuation plans approved by the Nuclear Regulatory Agency.

Officials say 41 reactors are operating in 16 states without government-approved plans. Another dozen plants nearing completion could be affected by the provision dealing with operating permits.

The proposed changes in nuclear policy come in legislation authorizing programs for the NRC. The agency came under criticism in and out of Congress during the Three Mile Island accident March 28 at Harrisburg, Pa.

Elsewhere in Congress, the House Ways and Means Committee is expected to give President Carter's anti-inflation program a shot in the arm this week by approving his proposal for standby cost controls on the hospital industry. The Senate Finance Committee last week rejected a similar proposal, but the matter is certain to come up on the Senate floor later this year.

Carter's proposal would impose federal controls on Jan. 1, 1980, on hospitals that fail to keep their total costs from rising by more than about 11.6 percent this year. The hospital industry strongly opposes the bill, claiming it would lead to a rationing of health care.

Also in the House, the special committee that looked into the assassination of former President John F. Kennedy is publishing its final report, concluding that Kennedy's murder probably was a conspiracy. The final draft of the report concluded that individual organized crime bosses "had the motive, opportunity and means" to have the president killed, but cited no proof that they did.

The committee also concluded that civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. was killed by convicted assassin James Earl Ray, but also said "there is a likelihood" of a conspiracy as well.

In the Senate, the Foreign Relations Committee begins its second week of hearings on the SALT II treaty, hearing from Paul Warnke, the principal negotiator during much of the bargaining.

In other Senate business, the ethics committee has set a Thursday deadline for the filing of final written arguments into charges that Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., used office expense funds for his personal use.

The committee last week concluded lengthy public heaarings into the allegations against the veteran Georgia Democrat. Talmadge insisted during two days of testimony that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

Heartline

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I turned age 65 in March and I hope to continue to work until the end of 1979. My company has a health insurance plan under which I am covered. Do I still have to take out Medicare when I turn 65? — G.W.

No, you do not have to take Medicare at age 65. However, you should check very carefully with your company because many group policies will not cover employees over the age of 65.

You should sign up for the hospital portion of Medicare because this is free. The medical benefit premium is currently $8.70 per month and for each year after the age of 65 that you do not take the medical benefits, the premium cost will be increased by 10 percent.

For those people on Medicare, Heartline has developed a detailed book covering the whole Medicare program. Heartline's guide to Medicare is written in easy-to-understand question-and-answer form and contains all of the up-to-date information on Medicare. This book explains many medical items and services that are covered by Medicare, and includes complete information on the deductibles you must pay, a sample Medicare claim form with detailed instructions on how to fill it out, and a complete explanation on how the reasonable charge under part B is figured.

This book may be ordered by sending $1.75 to Medicare Guidebook, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. This book is completely guaranteed, and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

HEARTLINE: Our car is in need of new tires. We are on a fixed income and would appreciate any advice you can give us on purchasing new tires. — T.S.

First, never choose a smaller size than those which came with your car. Tires should always be replaced with the same size as recommended by the automobile or tire manufacturer. Different types and profiles of tires are not always interchangeable due to differences in load ratings, tire dimensions, fender clearances and rim sizes — particularly with older cars. Tires of different size construction and stages of wear may affect vehicle handling and stability. For best all-around performance, tires of the same type or construction should be used on all four wheels, with the exception of those for special service, such as snow tires.

While not recommended, it may be all right to mix your present tires with other size designations or constructions provided they are used in pairs on the same axle. Check the owner's manual or tire instructions affixed to the vehicle for the automobile manufacturer's recommendations before you replace or mix tires.

When radial tires are used with bias or belted bias construction on the same vehicle, the radials must always be placed on the rear axle.

If you're selecting only a pair of replacement tires in the same size and construction as on the car, they should be put on the rear wheels for better traction, handling and extra protection against flats. A single new tire should be paired on the rear axle with the tire having the most tread depth of the other three.

A break-in period is also recommended for all new tires — the tires on a new car, the spare put on after a flat, and all replacements. Limiting speed to 55 m.p.h. for the first 50 miles of driving enables the complex elements in a tire to adjust gradually and give top performance.

Energy Bureaucrats Hurrying To Issue New Gas Price Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy Department officials labored Sunday to complete new rules that are expected to raise gasoline prices three cents to five cents a gallon and limit the number of new service stations being built.

Officials said they planned to unveil the regulations Monday after they officially adopt them late Sunday, a deadline established to satisfy angry gasoline dealers, who claim they are being forced out of business because legal profit margins have been frozen for five years.

Motorists could begin to see price increases at the pump as early as this week, Energy Department officials said, but there could be some delay in implementing the rules, they said.

The department worked late into Sunday attempting to analyze and incorporate scores of comments received by mail and at hearings, Thursday and Friday.

One set of rules would establish a uniform ceiling for all service station profits. Energy Department officials said the level probably will be set between 15 cents and 20 cents per gallon.

The National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, which represents about 60,000 service stations nationwide, says current profit margins, based on a complex series of regulations, average 12.5 cents per gallon.

Energy officials say that whatever the profit margin, dealers will somehow be able to adjust the ceiling for inflation.

On the plus side for motorists, the rules are expected to close a loophole that has allowed many stations, particularly high-volume discount outlets, to charge more than current price ceilings

Dealers now are recouping the legal profits they didn't take in the past when gasoline was plentiful and competition stiffer. This "banking" of past profits would be eliminated, Energy Department officials said.

Another set of rules is expected to set a 40,000 gallon-a-month allocation limit for new service stations. An Energy Department official acknowledged that such a ceiling would deter construction of high-volume outlets that pump about 80,000 gallons monthly.

The limit is intended to help the smaller, full-service dealers, who pump on average less than 40,000 gallons a month.

The new rules have been drafted with unusual speed, as many service stations in the East are closing to protest the frozen profit margins.

That haste was sharply criticized Friday by a consumer group that claimed the Energy Department was helping gas dealers without telling motorists what the remedy will cost them at the pump.

"The public has not been given notice of the substance or effects of the proposed rule or adequate time to comment," said Clarence Ditlow, director of the Center for Auto Safety.

"In this time of shortfall, the Energy Department is playing favorites ... by guaranteeing retailers higher profits and consumers, still higher prices," he said at hearings here.

A 4-cent increase in dealer profit margins, Ditlow said, would cost motorists $4 billion a year more for gasoline.

In May 1978, unleaded regular gasoline averaged 66.3 cents per gallon, according to the Lundberg Letter, an authoritative gasoline marketing publication. By June 1, the price was 84.8 cents. It has continued to rise — as much as five cents more per gallon in many cities.

Public Responds To Portrayal Of Life Inside Prison Walls

By RHONA SCHWARTZ
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Viewer response to the brutally graphic "Scared Straight," an award-winning documentary showed locally Saturday night, heavily ran in favor of Channel 28's decision to air the intense program.

Rusty Jones, KMCC-TV's executive vice president, said Sunday that about 75 calls were received at the station Saturday night immediately after the program and that only five were strongly objecting to the language.

"We didn't get as many negative responses as we were expecting," he said, adding that he answered three of the objecting calls.

"They were just incoherent," he said. "When we asked if they understood the point of the program, most said they didn't care about that."

Four of the calls were from men, all of whom were middle-aged or older, he said. The one woman caller said she just didn't believe prisons were as the documentary portrayed them, Jones said.

The documentary is about a group of convicts who are serving 25 years to life in Rahway State Prison, New Jersey's maximum security facility.

The convicts meet with groups of juvenile delinquents to try to scare them away from crime so they do not end up in prisons like Rahway.

Many people, including several youngsters, called the station "just to say thanks for putting the show on," Jones said.

For the station to receive any calls from the viewing audience is "very, very unusual," he added.

One 17-year-old Chicano male caller simply said, "Hey, was good."

Several juvenile and social workers applauded the show, and an ex-convict called to say the convicts' program is very good.

Jones said the convict told him that he had seen convict programs that travel around to schools using non-vulgar language, but that "Scared Straight" showed what prison life is really like.

"Several people made reference to the fact of all the pre-warning that the newspaper and the station gave them (by saying the language would be rough and what the show was all about)," Jones said.

"I think all this exposure really helped and was really, really important," he said.

Jones said he expects letter response to the show to start coming in Tuesday. After tallying these reactions, the station will decide when to air the show again, he said.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

There was an ad in an LA paper for "single, attractive, outgoing girls and guys between 18 and 60" to try out as contestants for The Dating Game.

It blew my theory on where they found contestants for game shows. I thought most of them were graduates of the School for the Perpetual Cheerful with special skills in Handling Sexual Innuendoes and How to Hyperventilate When You Win the Car.

I haven't seen The Dating Game in several years, but occasionally the Newlywed Game will flash before me on the screen. I am amazed that the marriages last to the end of the show.

A bride recently was asked to respond, "If your husband was a vegetable on your wedding night, which one would he be?" followed by, "When you make 'whoopie' do you face Australia or the Virgin Islands?"

Another one was asked where her husband would predict she would say the sun set over her bedroom — in the east or west. She said the sun set in the east. Her husband predicted she would say that.

There was a lot of arm-punching, loud arguing and "You never said that"s among the contestants and then it was back to innuendoes...double entendres...blank blanks and beep beeps.

It occurs to me there is only one more avenue for game shows to explore. It's only a matter of time before we're introduced to the "We've Split Game."

The show would host people like Cheryl and Don (who lost five valuable points on The Newlywed Game when Cheryl didn't know what Don would say was the most embarrassing thing their dog saw them do in their home) who qualified for the We've Split Game.

Host Chuck Whacko will put each of them before a buzzer and for five points and a public defender ask Cheryl, "What is the worst meal Don will say you've ever cooked?"

If Cheryl misses and Don guesses it correctly, he'll get custody of the public defender and 15 points.

Then Don will be asked, "How did you react to Cheryl's dating while you were married?" An answer that matches Cheryl's would be good for 15 more points and a non-support clause.

The winner? You guessed it...will qualify for the Dating Game.

The Caprock Duplicate Bridge Club met Thursday at 9:45 a.m. in the Bridge Center. Winners were Mrs. T.L. Leach and Mrs. Jack DuLaney, first; Mrs. C.W. Murdock and Mrs. Frances White; and tied for third and fourth, Mrs. L.D. Richardson and Mrs. Betty Hancock, Mrs. Fran Beck and Mrs. C.R. Burleson.

Clip 'n' Cook

CANDIED WALNUTS

1 cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup
1/3 cup water
1 tsp. rum extract
¼ tsp. salt
2 cups walnut pieces

Combine sugar, light corn syrup and water in a 2-quart saucepan. Stirring constantly, cook over medium heat until sugar is dissolved and mixture comes to a boil. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 235-degrees F. or until a small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from heat. Add rum extract, salt and walnuts. Stir until mixture begins to thicken and turn white. Pour onto well greased baking sheet. Using 2 forks separate into clusters. Cool and store in an air-tight container. Makes 1 pound.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I thought of your column last evening when I "created" a pizza for my family out of leftover French bread.

I sliced it in half horizontally, then spooned ready-made spaghetti sauce over the halves.

Sprinkled them with Italian seasonings and Parmesan cheese, then topped the halves with shredded mozzarella.(Any semi-soft cheese could be used as a substitute.)

I put the bread in the oven and baked the loaves at 425 degrees for about 10 to 15 minutes or until the cheese is bubbly and begins to brown slightly.

My family was delighted with this treat and their thick-crusted "pizza" — Mrs. Liza Lupner.

No wonder! Sounds absolutely yummy! Besides, you've helped beat the battle of the budget a little bit by improvising. Salud! — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:

This hint is especially useful after taking a trip in your car and you are finding the bugs are hard to remove from the grill, etc.

Just use a little baking soda on a damp sponge and rub. It won't cut the wax or hurt the finish, but will really get the bugs off. — Karl Lawman

DEAR HELIOSE

I got tired of my bottle washer brush doing an unsatisfactory job on glasses and jars especially when the glasses had dried milk or other residue in the bottom.

So I used a piece of nylon net and folded it a few times, put the net over the bristles of the brush, then fastened it with a rubber band.

I have a very satisfactory "brush" now. I've been using it for some time, and plan to use it on my jars when canning vegetables and fruit this summer — Mrs. Leon Marek

DEAR HELOISE:

While embroidering some pillowcases, a button came off my blouse. I took some matching floss and sewed the button back on, as I didn't want to go get more thread.

I was surprised at how much stronger the thread was than ordinary sewing thread, so I now use it each time I have buttons to sew on. They seem to stay put much longer. — Wendy Martin

DEAR HELOISE:

I have wanted to make watermelon rind preserves for several summers, but with only three in our family, I found it hard to accumulate enough rinds without spoilage.

This year, I got the idea of preparing the rind and freezing it, and, sure enough, at the end of the season, I had enough for the recipe and the freezing did no harm to the melon rinds.

We're surely enjoying our watermelon preserves — Mrs. Fred Butler

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a cabin near a lake or one left vacant for a few weeks, here's a way to keep the musty, damp smell out.

Get low shallow boxes or litter pans and fill with cat litter. Place one in each room before closing up the cabin.

Sure soaks up any lingering odors or mustiness. — Mrs. C. Curtis

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A1097 ♡K76 ◇K95 ♣643

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—A difficult hand. You have 10 high-card points, all primes, but the hand is flawed because of its flat shape. If you respond one spade, you will almost certainly have no satisfactory rebid at your next turn. It is wiser to make a forward-going raise to two hearts now, which will allow partner to reappraise his holding. If he takes any further action, you have enough to go on to game.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A1076 ♡6 ◇AK94 ♣KJ105

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	1 ♠

What action do you take?

A.—Partner's response has done nothing to improve the offensive potential of your hand, but it has enhanced its defensive prospects. We suggest a penalty double. This will alert partner to your heart shortness, while advising him about your better-than-minimum opening bid. As with all low-level penalty doubles, partner may remove if his hand is unsuited for defense.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A10 ♡KQJ93 ◇1076 ♣964

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—You should bid again, but your hand isn't worth a jump to three hearts, and a two-heart rebid is much too regressive and implies a dislike for diamonds. Two no trump cannot be considered with no club stopper, so your only choice is to raise to three diamonds. Partner can still raise hearts if he had three-card support.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A10 ♡KQJ93 ◇1076 ♣964

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 NT	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Your good five-card suit makes your hand worth more than its 10 HCP, so, again, it merits one move toward game. Since partner has shown a balanced hand, the only sensible action is to raise to two no trump. Take a demerit if you rebid hearts at any level, for two hearts is a weak bid, and three hearts overstates your values.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠5432 ♡K983 ◇K ♣KQ104

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—Your hand is just a little too weak to jump raise to three hearts, especially since you don't know how valuable your singleton king of diamonds will be. So make a temporizing bid of two clubs with the intention of raising hearts at your next turn.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠5432 ♡K983 ◇K ♣KQ104

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—The fact that you are a passed hand changes the circumstances dramatically. Now you cannot afford a temporizing bid of two clubs because that is no longer forcing and partner might pass. This time you may jump raise to three hearts since now it's only invitational.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J64 ♡J6532 ◇A7 ♣KQ4

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	1 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Facing a partner who could overcall vulnerable, you have a very good hand, and game is a definite possibility. We suggest that you issue the invitation by jumping to three spades—three-card support to an honor is adequate for this action since partner is marked with a five-card, or longer, suit for his overcall.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠6 ◇AQJ753 ♣KQ10742

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	4 ♡	?

What action do you take?

A.—This is one time that we favor the "unusual no trump." We don't want to double and have partner pass thinking that we have more in high cards and less in distribution, but we do want to compete. A bid of four no trump solves this problem beautifully. Since it asks partner to choose a minor suit, we don't have to guess which is his better minor.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are universally respected, will you please say something to wake people up? We are getting so sick-minded, it's scary. I refer to a congressman who is trying to pass legislation that will provide for the amputation of the sex organs of males found guilty of rape. The congressman said he would prefer to have such men executed, but "the law won't go that far."

Next, will shoplifters have their hands cut off and squealers have their tongues pulled out? How primitive can we get?

Please tell the world what is wrong with such thinking. — M.A., Carmel, N.Y.

Dear M.A.: There's plenty wrong with it — but for openers let me give as an example the person who is found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. Several months — or years — later, another person confesses to the crime.

After amputating a man's sex organs, an apology would hardly suffice if later it was discovered that the man was innocent.

• • •

Dear Ann Landers: I have never written to anyone in my life about my problems, but if I don't get this off my chest, I'll explode.

I can't stand the tension between my husband and our 17-year-old daughter. We have two other daughters, 15 and 12, but the eldest is the one my husband picks on continually.

Since 7th grade, the girl has just about supported herself. She has always had part-time jobs — after school, weekends, summers, and babysits. She maintains a B average in school and is very well-liked. Most fathers would be proud of such a girl, but not my husband. He yells at her constantly because all the money she makes is "for herself."

Another problem: He drives to work 40 miles and must be there by seven in the morning. This means we all must get up at five o'clock. We can't have the TV or radio on after he retires (immediately after supper) and NO phone calls. It's hard to tell teenagers their friends can't call after seven in the evening.

We are living under a dictatorship. What can we do? — H.E.L.P.

Dear H.: Stage a revolution. But make sure you have plenty of ammunition and the troops are well equipped.

You and the eldest girl should be counseled by your clergyman or a therapist in regard to asserting your position, what to challenge, and how. For example: The phone can be adjusted so it has a faint ring and the girls can talk softly.

The picked-on daughter is not going to change her father's attitude but she can change her responses, which is bound to cut down on his yelling.

If you have no clergyman check Mental Health Clinics in the phone book and get the emotional support you need to change your lives.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman nearly 60 and I am losing my hair. I hate wigs. Do you know of any ointment or special treatment? I see many advertised. Thank you. — Distressed In Vermont

Dear D.: The main reasons for hair loss among women are scalp disease, tension and the natural aging process. If you have seen a doctor and ruled out the first two causes, get your hair restyled. A short cut may be just what is needed. Don't waste money on treatments and ointments.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

A midwestern reader asks about an increase in cesarean deliveries in recent years and questions the justification for many of them. The woman writer also asks how she can be sure any future cesarean delivery would be necessary. I have capsulized her lengthy letter to conserve space. My answer:

Cesarean section means delivery of the baby by an incision in the abdomen as an alternative to normal vaginal delivery.

Certainly, cesareans have become more popular in recent decades — from about 4 percent of deliveries in 1964 to about 13 percent in 1975, according to a recent survey. That's a remarkable rise. Are they all necessary? While such matters are difficult to determine, I have reason to think most are. Much of the increase is a consequence of more accurate diagnosis of birth problems. New devices allow early detection of many problems that can threaten the health of the fetus or of the mother. The unasked (and probably unanswerable) question is how many lives have been saved because of the rise in cesarean births.

There are definite reasons for cesareans. The woman's pelvis may be too small for normal delivery, or there may be any number of mechanical problems that can make the normal birth canal a dangerous route. The fetus may be in an awkward position (buttocks first, etc.). If a woman has had one cesarean delivery, the doctor usually recommends that future deliveries be that way.

All of these detectible abnormalities and others involving the umbilical cord, for example, or early separation of the fetus from the placenta, prompt the doctor to suggest cesarean delivery. Medical problems — diabetes and heart disease among them — may justify early cesarean section. Some women simply prefer the method and ask for it.

I don't think many doctors perform cesarean sections for frivolous reasons, but the patient can feel free to ask her doctor his specific reason for recommending the procedure.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What causes my ear to drain constantly? And what should be done for it? — Mrs. P.S.

Many things can cause it, and it requires prompt treatment which depends on where the drainage is originating. Some middle-ear infections can follow a severe respiratory tract (lungs, etc.) infection. This causes pus formation, which eventually breaks through the ear drum to the outer ear. If that is the cause you need antibiotics to combat the germ. Another cause is a condition called "serous otitis media," the buildup of liquid pressure in the middle ear because of a blockage in the eustachian tube. These are only two of many possibilities. If you have ear drainage be examined promptly. There doesn't have to be pain.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a teenage girl and have never had sex with anyone. But at times I find a mucus-like, clear substance at the vagina. This never occurs during my period, though. Is it normal? — Puzzled.

Any normal teenager has an increase in vaginal fluid with the beginning of menstruation. The fluid is thin and grayish, but may contain some mucus (a bit denser). This, too, is normal. Many young girls complain in their letters about the staining of underclothing from this. The problem almost always is too tight garments, such as pantyhose. They do not allow normal evaporation.

This expected discharge should not be confused with the leukorrhea (LOO-ko-REE-uh), a whitish flow that is not normal. That can indicate a variety of infections (yeasts, etc.) The normal discharge is often promptly corrected with looser-fitting undergarments and closer attention to daily hygiene.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: To settle a discussion: We know that abnormal sexual desire on the part of a female is called nymphomania. What is the same thing called in a male? — M.B.

Satyriasis.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Oswald: "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush except when you need two birds badly."

Alan: "East takes his ace of diamonds and sees that bird in the hand. He can give his partner an immediate ruff. Then he looks further and sees that he needs two tricks more. Where can they be found? Only in the heart suit and only if they can be taken right away."

Oswald: "Therefore, the winning East player leads his queen of hearts at trick two."

Alan: "This gives South a Hobson's choice. He can duck or he can cover."

Oswald: "If he ducks, East has his second bird in hand and does give West that diamond ruff. If he covers West leads a heart back and again the ruff is waiting."

Alan: "Note that if South held the ace of hearts instead of the king he would make six, instead of just five, provding East returns diamonds at trick two. That one almost worthless bird would have escaped."

The first American ham to win an international gold medal and worldwide recognition for excellence.

Gooch Golden Award Ham.

Competing with companies from 67 countries last year, Gooch won the coveted Monde Selection Gold Medal the first time it entered this prestigious international competition. One reason is that the Gooch Golden Award Ham is the choicest, leanest, most tender ham you'll ever taste. Another reason is that only the finest parts of select hams are chosen, then gently "massaged" for 16 hours to give you extra tenderness. Join the thousands who agree the Gooch Golden Award Ham has no equal anywhere! Just heat and serve.

"We want you to try the Gooch Golden Award Ham. We're so sure it will be the best you've ever tasted, we guarantee your money back with no questions asked if you aren't satisfied."

Nicaraguan Rebels May Win U.S. Nod

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — A Sandinista guerrilla source said Sunday the United States is on the verge of recognizing a rebel-appointed five-member junta as the new government of Nicaragua.

Special U.S. Ambassador William Bowdler was quoted by a junta member as having said Saturday night: "You are the new government of Nicaragua and our conversations have been cordial because the government of the United States is the only one that has sent an ambassador to talk with you."

Bowdler and junta members were scheduled to meet again Sunday and an announcement of U.S. recognition was expected "very soon," said the highly placed source who asked not to be identified. He gave no specific time.

The U.S. envoy could not be reached immediately for comment and U.S. Embassy sources said they would not discuss the situation.

In Washington, State Department officials said the question of recognition had not arisen during the negotiations.

The Sandinistas, who have seized almost all urban centers and most highways in neighboring Nicaragua from the forces of President Anastasio Somoza, had vowed they would install their provisional government in the capital of Managua on Sunday.

No Fighting Reported

But there were no reports of significant fighting in Managua, though rebel forces have been reported moving quietly back to the eastern neighborhoods they abandoned earlier this month.

During talks between the junta and Bowdler here Saturday, the rebel negotiators gave Bowdler a list of 18 persons they said would occupy Cabinet posts or positions of Cabinet rank in the new government, said the Sandinista source, who asked not to be identified.

The list designates the Rev. Miguel D'Escoto, a Roman Catholic priest and one of the five junta members, as the foreign minister, and names Tomas Borges Martines, a Sandinista rebel leader, as interior minister — the post controlling police and internal security functions.

Also listed was Bernardino Larios, a former national guard colonel who defected to the Sandinista cause after being charged in 1978 with conspiring to overthrow Somoza.

Announcement Expected

Washington has called for Somoza's resignation, but has refrained from open endorsement of the provisional government.

The source said, however, that Bowdler and the junta successfully cleared away problems Saturday night, and an announcement on recognition could be expected "very soon."

The negotiations began earlier this month, and the Americans originally called for expansion of the five-member provisional government with two moderates to counter the influence of leftist members. Diplomatic sources said the Carter administration was unable to achieve that goal.

Bottle Of Wine

Bowdler gave junta member Violetta Chamorro a bottle of "fine wine" at the Saturday meeting, the Sandinista source said, and greeted D'Escoto by saying, "Good evening, Mr. Foreign Minister."

"We hope to see you very soon in Nicaragua," a junta member quoted Bowdler as saying Saturday night. "We hope that Mr. Somoza leaves contented as soon as possible."

Somoza has sometimes said he will resign on condition the national guard is not dismantled and his Liberal Nationalist Party is given a voice in the new government. At other times, he said his resignation "depended on what the U.S. decides."

The junta was named by the Sandinistas last month as they gained ground in their effort to end 42 years of Somoza family rule. Estimates of the number of people killed since their current offensive began six weeks ago range from 10,000 to 20,000.

Diplomatic sources in Costa Rica said the United States is now expected to exert further pressure on Somoza to resign. The sources said a plan calls for Pablo Rener, speaker of the Nicaraguan Senate, to stay on as provisional president for 10 days after Somoza resigns, then hand over power to the junta.

U.S. Joins OAS Call

The United States last month joined in the Organization of American States' call for Somoza's resignation. Panama, Mexico, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Peru and Brazil have broken diplomatic relations with the Somoza regime.

Washington did not break relations, but the new American ambassador, Lawrence Pezzullo, was instructed not to present credentials to Somoza when he took over the post last month.

The revolutionary Islamic government in Iran announced Sunday it recognizes the junta as Nicaragua's government. Panama and Grenada also have extended recognition to the provisional government and diplomatic sources here said Bolivia, Venezuela, Ecuador, Colombia and Peru — the five Andean Pact nations of South America — will follow suit sometime this week.

'MOONRAKER' FLIGHT CONTINUES

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Moonraker" continued its skyrocketing success at the nation's box offices with a first-week gross of $14,744,718 — the largest gross of any United Artists release, the studio said. The new James Bond film currently is showing at about 900 theaters coast to coast, and has been averaging $2,106,000 a day. Produced by Albert R. Broccoli and directed by Lewis Gilbert, "Moonraker" stars Roger Moore as Agent 007. It is Moore's fourth film as the superspy.

Physicists Propose Energy Saving Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two physicists say Americans could save the equivalent of a fourth of the oil now imported, without changing their lifestyles, by investing an average of $1,500 in every home.

In a report prepared for the Federation of American Scientists, they propose "retrofitting" the nation's 70 million homes to correct heating losses the average homeowner doesn't realize exist.

Marc H. Ross of the University of Michigan and Robert H. Williams of Princeton University's Center for Energy and Environmental Studies presented their report to the White House, the Office of Management and Budget, Council of Economic Advisers, Council on Wage and Price Stability and several congressional committees.

Their plan envisions a government-trained corps of privately employed "house doctors" — technicians who could enter a home with diagnostic equipment and some building materials and find out where heat is escaping.

On-the-spot corrections by the technicians could cut heat consumption by 20 percent and such steps as indoor window shutters, setback thermometers and furnace tuneups could save much more, Ross and Williams have calculated.

They say considerable amounts of heat escape from even well-insulated homes. A study in a townhouse in Princeton, N.J., which had ceiling and wall insulation and glazed windows found ways of cutting fuel use by two-thirds.

According to their report, "Drilling for Oil and Gas in Our Buildings," the chief culprit is heat which bypasses insulation through openings around flues and pipes, the hollow places in cinder blocks, basement walls and even storm windows.

Remarkably little is known about bypass heat loss and little research has been done, the two scientists say.

But they contend that a government program studying heat losses in existing homes of every type of construction while also training "house doctors" would uncover many ways to save fuel.

Next spring, the Energy Department plans to start a house audit program with far more modest goals — a saving of 200,000 barrels of oil a day.

Williams said the government is making a mistake by suggesting that energy conservation must involve sacrifice and discomfort. He criticized the current stress on setting thermostats high in public buildings as an example.

"That's unfortunate because a tremendous amount of fuel can be saved through efficiences without changing people's lifestyles," he said.

He said the nation's industrial sector has cut energy consumption by 15 percent since the oil embargo of 1973, chiefly through housekeeping measures, and residential savings could be even greater.

Their study estimates the amount of fuel used to heat homes and commercial buildings could be cut by the equivalent of 2.5 million barrels a day by the late 1980s, more than a quarter of the 8 million barrels a day that is imported.

They envision that the capital needed to "retrofit" the nation's homes and commercial buildings — $15 billion a year for 10 years — could come from the country's utilities.

Instead of investing in new power plants, which would no longer be needed, the utilities could finance the home heat-saving improvements, the report says. The utilities could increase their rates for that capital just as they now raise their rates to finance new power plants.

Ross and Williams calculate that homeowners, paying more for heat but needing less of it, would still be ahead.

When householders sell their homes, the additional value of their fuel-efficient homes will enable them to recapture what they paid out in the form of higher utility rates, the scientists said.

Holy Man Wounded In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Two attackers on a motorcycle shot a leading Moslem clergyman as he emerged from a Tehran mosque Sunday, wounding him in the arm and legs, authorities said. The victim, a close associate of revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Later in the day a motorcyclist was shot and killed in the same Tehran neighborhood when he refused a guard's call to stop, the state radio said.

The attack — latest in a wave of assassination attempts against a member of Iran's religious hierarchy -followed a weekend of violence in three widely scattered parts of western Iran. More than 30 persons were reported killed.

Military Airlift

Revolutionary guardsmen were airlifted into Marivar, near the Iraqi border, where they restored order after a day of fighting that left 24 persons dead and 40 injured. The state radio said 13 of the city's 25 revolutionary guardsmen had been killed in the Saturday battle.

The target of the would-be assassins, Ayatollah Seyyed Razi Shirazi, chief of a revolutionary committee in northern Iran, was shot after noon prayers.

"There was a motorcycle with two men on it," said a committee member who was with Shirazi at the time of the attack. "The one on the back opened fire but only two of the bullets hit the ayatollah." The clergyman, in his mid-50s, later was reported in satisfactory condition at a military hospital.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for Sunday's attack.

Khomeini Associate

The Forghan terrorist underground, believed to be an anarchist group, has claimed responsibility for several recent attacks on religious and revolutionary leaders. Its last victim was Haji Tarkhani, a wealthy pro-Khomeini merchant shot July 8 in front of his house.

Shirazi's colleagues said he spent 20 days with Khomeini during the elder clergyman's Paris exile last winter, before Khomeini returned to Iran and led the revolution that forced Shah Reza Mohammad Pahlavi from power in February. Shirazi once was jailed with Khomeini under the shah's regime and recently had been meeting weekly with the 79-year-old revolutionary leader.

In the western Iranian violence, the Kurdish Democratic Party, which is seeking autonomy for the nation's 4 million ethnic Kurds, claimed guardsmen opened fire on farmers in the Marivar area who went to them to complain that former landlords and a Kurdish tribe were demanding money from them.

But the state radio said the guardsmen were attacked by a mob, including persons reportedly aligned with the KDP. In March, some 200 persons were killed in the Kurdish city of Sanandaj in fighting between Kurdish tribesmen and government troops and revolutionary guards.

Hand Grendade Kills

In Khoramshar, port city in the oil-rich southwestern province of Khuzestan, a hand grenade thrown at a group of demonstrators killed at least six persons and wounded 60 others, the official Pars news agency said.

The group was demonstrating to commemorate the death of a revolutionary guard killed there last Thursday, and to support the province's governor-general, Rear Adm. Ahmad Madani.

Many of the tools were designed specially for plastic work and are difficult to replace. Their value is estimated at $2,865.

An aggravated robbery at the University Manor Nursing Home, 2400 Quaker Ave., on July 4, is worth $300 to persons with information on it.

A woman at the home said two white males entered the north end of the building and took an unknown amount of narcotics from a medicine cabinet. One man is described as about 5-foot-7, 120 pounds, with a brown beard and dark glasses. The other is about 5-foot-8, stocky build, also with a brown beard and dark glasses.

The second suspect had a silver-barreled pistol and pointed it at the victim while his accomplice removed narcotics from a cabinet. The armed man alsos cut the telephone cord. The pair may have fled the scene in an old gold Plymouth.

British Tories Slate Death Penalty Vote

LONDON (AP) — Albert Pierrepoint and Harry Allen are past retirement age, and if their special skills are required again there is a question of who would replace them. They were Britain's last hangmen.

This Thursday the House of Commons, for the first time since 1975, will debate the return of the death penalty. Although the vote Thursday night is expected to defeat the move, public outrage over recent murders will make it one of the most hotly argued issues at Westminister in years.

Nobody has been hanged in Britain since 1964, when Peter Allen and Gwynne Evans were "topped" for killing a farmer they had robbed.

In 1965 Parliament suspended capital punishment for a five-year trial period, and in 1969 "permanently" abolished it. The House of Commons maintained its stand several times in votes after that.

In setting the debate, the new Conservative government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is carrying out a promise made in the national election campaign two months ago.

Politician Killed

On March 30, a car bomb planted by Irish nationalists killed Conservative politician Airey Neave as he left the Houses of Parliament parking garage. The murder brought renewed demands for a death penalty from Britons angered by several child murders, killings in hold-ups, the shooting of a pair of teen-age lovers, and fatal stabbings of women who disturbed thieves in their homes.

Neave, who advocated executing Irish terrorists, was Mrs. Thatcher's right-hand man. She says ordinary people are deeply disturbed about criminal violence, murders and terrorism, and makes it plain she supports the death penalty.

Because individual conscience is deemed paramount on the issue, party floor managers will allow a free vote, not binding members to their party's line.

Although it is unlikely the 635-member Commons will restore capital punishment, the majority against it could be less than the 129 achieved at the last debate four years ago. More than 250 lawmakers of the opposition Labor Party last week signed a motion opposing the death penalty.

The restoration campaign has gone on for months, with the Police Federation, a police labor union, agitating in favor.

Capital Punishment Urged

The Commons motion to be debated proposes that "capital punishment should once again be available to the courts." Its sponsors, Tory lawmakers Eldon Griffiths and George Gardiner, pleaded with Home Secretary William Whitelaw to explore alternatives to hanging.

The minister has not yet responded. Whitelaw, although deputy to Mrs. Thatcher, is a firm opponent of the death penalty.

Gardiner insisted Thursday's debate is about the principle of capital punishment, not the method. He did not say which he preferred. The choices include the guillotine, electric chair, gas, a lethal drug, stoning, strangling, beheading and shooting.

"Various methods are used in other countries, and many of us feel that one of these might be more appropriate to the 20th century," Gardiner said.

Traitors still can be executed in Britain and a single gallows remains, in London's Wandsworth Prison.

Desai Quits As Prime Minister

a deadlock between supporters of Ram and Singh.

The prime minister quit on the eve of a vote of confidence in Parliament that his closest supporters had told him he could not win because of the defection of almost 100 legislators from the Janata last week.

The deserters included five senior Cabinet ministers and eight junior members of the 44-member Council of Ministers.

The resignation put Ram in a potentially strong position to take over the leadership of the party, possibly win back some of the defectors and establish the next government.

Desai was dressed in his familiar white homespun cotton garb when he carried his resignation to the massive presidential palace.

Only secretaries and security men accompanied him and at the palace only a group of reporters and cameramen awaited him, in contrast to the cheering crowds and politicians who hailed the inauguration of the Desai government two years ago, after the Janata Party defeated the Congress Party of then-Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

The government had taken office with great expectations — largely unfulfilled — of bringing sweeping changes to this democracy of 630 million mostly poor people.

From almost the start Desai's administration was plagued by feuding among the five disparate parties that had joined as the Janata to fight Mrs. Gandhi's authoritarian rule. In power, the party held together best when Mrs. Gandhi's comeback maneuvers were successful.

But she suffered a severe setback last month with the split of her opposition party.

Governors' Poll Gives '80 Review

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A magazine poll released Sunday showed 12 Democratic governors think Jimmy Carter is the leading contender in their states for the party's 1980 presidential nomination, while eight GOP governors see Ronald Reagan as the frontrunner in their party.

U.S. News and World Report said it polled 39 governors at the recent National Governors' Association meeting in Louisville, Ky., asking who was leading in their state for the presidential nomination of their party.

"Twelve Democratic governors said President Carter is now ahead, six saw Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., out in front, and four were uncertain," the magazine said. On the Republican side, eight governors went with Reagan and five (others) placed Reagan at the top of a list of hopefuls, none of whom was clearly ahead. John Connally of Texas was his state's choice and Sen. Howard Baker was listed ahead in his home state of Tennessee.

The poll indicated that, while Carter is ahead, his lead is shaky. Four Democratic governors said there was "strong dissatisfaction" with the president in their states. Fifteen Democratic governors said there was "mild dissatisfaction with Carter and only two said their voters were satisfied with Carter.

On a regional basis, Carter does well in the South, poorly in the North and faces strong opposition in the West.

The Democratic governors polled said Carter was leading in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma and South Carolina.

They said Kennedy was ahead in Maine, Massachusetts, Montana, New York, Rhode Island and Wyoming.

and continue looking for a new system.

In other business, the hospital's pension plan will come up for discussion again. The board voted June 18 to suspend the employee retirement fund for two years until the hospital is in sounder financial shape.

Faced with closing the hospital's doors if alternate funding is not found soon, board members decided the 6 percent of annual revenue earmarked for the fund could be better used elsewhere.

The plan has not been eliminated yet. Bosworth is still legally the director of the pension plan, and the board must vote a new controlling party.

Smith speculated the board probably will appoint itself to direct the plan.

Isolated Showers Dent Part Of Area's Heat

Blistering summer weather continued its hold over the South Plains Sunday, although a few isolated showers cooled parts of the area during the evening.

The few showers dotting the area were contained in a loose triangle between Plainview, Amarillo and Clovis, N.M., though none of the clouds in that area was considered heavy. Rainfall from those storms was expected to measure less than a tenth of an inch, with most of the area receiving nothing more than a nighttime cloud cover.

In Lubbock, today's high once again is expected to reach into the mid 90s, with a low tonight projected to be around 70. Winds will blow from the south at 10 to 15 mph today, and the chance for rain from more isolated thundershowers stands at 20 percent.

South Plains crops that were dampened by rain Sunday will have excellent drying conditions, with 13 hours of sunshine expected today and Tueday.

The mercury climbed to 98 in Lubbock Sunday, quite hot for a summer Sunday, but 9 degrees below the nation's high reading of 107 in Needles, Calif. The high in Texas Sunday was the 104 registered at El Paso.

Clouds developed across the state during the late afternoon Sunday, and showers fell along the Gulf Coast, throughout East Texas and over portions of West Texas. The heaviest clouds were reported north of Amarillo, east of Wichita Falls and between Abilene and San Angelo. Rain from those clouds ranged from a trace to about a half-inch by mid-evening, but no considerable amounts were registered.

The outlook for today and Tuesday calls for an upper air disturbance over Central Texas that will weaken and retreat into Southeastern Texas by late tonight, while another similar disturbance along the Oklahoma-Kansas border is expected to intensify and produce isolated thundershower activity across the Texas Panhandle and South Plains later today.

Those clouds are expected to resemble the ones seen Sunday night — widely scattered and heavy only in very isolated patches. No significant rainfall is expected for West Texas, eastern New Mexico or Oklahoma because of the activity.

Parents Smoking Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — Children of parents who smoke have poorer lung function than the children of non-smokers, a new study says.

The study, the first to examine the possible link between parents' smoking and their childrens' lungs, found that children performed slightly poorer on a standard lung function test if either parent smoked. They did even more poorly if both smoked.

Researchers said the study adds to concern that cigarettes may be hazardous not only for the smoker but for those around him.

"The data ... indicate that the cigarette smoking habits of parents may have a measurable effect on the pulmonary function of their smoking and non-smoking children," the researchers, led by Dr. Ira Tager of Harvard University, said in the issue of the American Journal of Epidemiology being released today.

"The effect is predominantly one of the parents' smoking and is not due to the confounding effect of the childrens' own smoking habits," the report said.

Children who had experimented with smoking themselves had even poorer lung function scores than those whose parents smoked, the study said.

Tobacco industry officials were not available for immediate comment.

Tager, Scott Weiss of Beth Israel Hospital and Bernard Rosner and Frank Speizer of Harvard studied 261 children in 154 families of a working class neighborhood in east Boston.

Although the children in the study were all between the ages of 5 and 9 years old, 10 percent of them claimed to have experimented with cigarettes, the study said. All of the young smokers were from families where at least one parent smoked.

Lung function was measured by having the children take a deep breath and exhale into a machine that measures air volume and flow.

The amount of lung impairment, although measurable, was very small, Weiss said in a telephone interview. It rarely was statistically significant. In addition, the study failed to find any correlation between smoking habits and respiratory disease.

But Weiss said there was a clear and statistically significant trend toward decreased lung function as parental and then child smoking increased.

"It's conceivable this effect might go away if the parents or their children stopped smoking. But there's clearly a difference between children of parents who smoke and those who don't, and if you follow these kids they may be at some increased risk of respiratory disease," he said.

The study was part of a five-year search for factors that would predict whether a child is likely to get chronic bronchitis, emphysema or asthma as an adult.

Feminist Leaders Say Movement Betrayed By Current Society

CINCINNATI (AP) — Feminist leaders Bella Abzug and Gloria Steinem told their fellow women activists Sunday they are being betrayed by the present course of political action.

In separate speeches to the group they helped found in 1971, the two women told the closing session of the National Women's Political Caucus's convention that they should strike out in different directions to achieve their aims.

"We've made progress, but what have we got with it?" asked Mrs. Abzug, a former New York congresswoman. She was wildly cheered after a delegate unsuccessfully tried to cut short her speech.

"I'm tired of living in a society that I want to love, a society that takes our resources and places it under false values," added Mrs. Abzug, who was fired as chairwoman of the National Advisory Commission on Women by President Carter and replaced by Lyndon Johnson Robb, daughter of former President Lyndon Johnson.

Mrs. Abzug suggested that women make use of their large numbers in a show of force that might be initially uncommitted to any presidential candidate and could include a 'favorite daughter' strategy in some cases.

"We have been too trusting in giving our numbers to people and they have done nothing for us," Mrs. Abzug said. "We have the numbers. We have to use them as a powerful political block to stand together."

Mrs. Steinem also told the 2,000 delegates that they must stand together beyond the traditional party ranks.

"We've confronted these political structures and what has it got us? It has got us nothing" she said. "I suggest that until we get together as women instead of Republicans or Democrats, we're not going to be taken seriously.

"Before we say we are Democrats or Republicans or even, in my case, before we say we are Americans without a sense of where our loyalty lies, we won't be able to say we have power in everyday life."

Mrs. Steinem, editor of Ms. magazine, urged the group to e self-critical of its own aims.

Mrs. Steinem suggested it might be time for the caucus to cease concentrating so much energy on ensuring jobs on all levels and be more selective in promoting those jobs that would better further the movement's aims.

Iris Mitgang of Orinda, Calif., was elected chairwoman of the group, which considers itself the political arm of the women's movement. The attorney and member of the California Democratic State Central Committee defeated incumbent Mildred Jeffrey.

The National Women's Political Caucus has about 40,000 members and is organized in about 45 state caucuses and more than 250 local caucuses.

Ex-Allman Manager Enters Guilty Plea

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Former Allman Brothers road manager John C. "Scooter" Herring has waived his right to a new trial and pleaded guilty to possessing cocaine and supplying it to Gregg Allman, leader of the rock band.

Herring's 1976 drug conviction was overturned by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and a new trial had been scheduled to begin Monday. But Herring waived his right to a new trial, Saturday, and pleaded guilty to a two-count accusation drawn up the the U.S. attorney's office.

Herring admitted he obtained one gram of cocaine from a pharmacist and gave the drug to Allman, his former employer.

The 39-year-old Herring entered his plea before U.S. District Judge Wilbur Owens, who had presided over the first trial. He faces a maximum of five years in jail and $35,000 in fines when he is sentenced by Owens, Aug. 3.

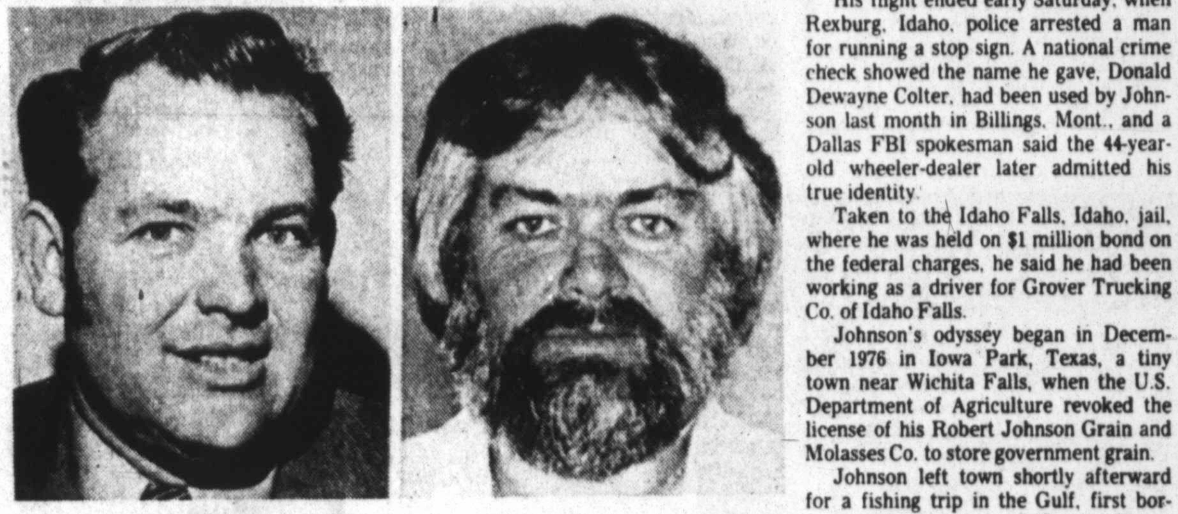
PIONEER NATURAL GAS COMPANY (A Division of PIONEER CORPORATION)

Missing Man Turns Up In Idaho, Faces Indictment

DALLAS (UPI) — Grain dealer Robert Johnson boarded a fishing boat in the Gulf of Mexico 2½ years ago with $100,000, two go-go girls and three of his employees.

Authorities never bought the story that Johnson fell off the 27-foot Honey Beau and drowned, and in the months since, the rotund entrepreneur has been tracked in rumor, legend and police reports from Central America to Washington to Montana to Idaho. The FBI's persistent disbelief finally paid off Saturday in a small Idaho town.



GRAIN DEALER FUGITIVE ARRESTED — Fugitive Texas grain dealer Robert M. Johnson, accused of swindling Texas and Oklahoma farmers out of 400,000 bushels of wheat, was arrested in Rexburg, Idaho, Saturday on a traffic violation. Johnson reportedly fell off a pleasure boat and drowned in the Gulf of Mexico in 1977, shortly before the grain shortage was discovered at his elevator. Johnson is charged with interstate transportation of stolen property. Photo at left shows Johnson in 1971, and photo at right shows Johnson in 1978, when he was identified by the FBI as alive in Clarkston, Wash. (AP Laserphoto)

Johnson, under federal indictment on 17 counts of transporting stolen grain, will be arraigned today in Pocatello, Idaho.

His flight ended early Saturday, when Rexburg, Idaho, police arrested a man for running a stop sign. A national crime check showed the name he gave, Donald Dewayne Colter, had been used by Johnson last month in Billings, Mont., and a Dallas FBI spokesman said the 44-year-old wheeler-dealer later admitted his true identity.

Taken to the Idaho Falls, Idaho, jail, where he was held on $1 million bond on the federal charges, he said he had been working as a driver for Grover Trucking Co. of Idaho Falls.

Johnson's odyssey began in December 1976 in Iowa Park, Texas, a tiny town near Wichita Falls, when the U.S. Department of Agriculture revoked the license of his Robert Johnson Grain and Molasses Co. to store government grain.

Johnson left town shortly afterward for a fishing trip in the Gulf, first borrowing $100,000 from a Corpus Christi bank. On Jan. 3, 1977, the five other people on board the cabin cruiser said they were below deck when Johnson disappeared — apparently he had fallen overboard and drowned.

Authorities consistently refused to issue a death certificate, despite relatives' claims for $4.2 million in life insurance, and began an investigation of Johnson's business.

They found more than 400,000 bushels of wheat that belonged to north Texas and south Oklahoma farmers missing from Johnson's elevators and subsequently charged him in a multi-million dollar scheme to transport grain illegally from Oklahoma and Colorado to Houston and Fort Worth.

After Johnson disappeared, rumors proliferated that he had undergone plastic surgery or had his fingerprints burned off. The FBI discounted the claims of physical alterations and stories that Johnson was hiding out in the Central American country of Belize, but did confirm tracing him to Clarkston, Wash., under the name Darrell Dean Olson and later to Montana under the name Colter.

Bonneville County, Idaho, deputy sheriff Larry Henderson said the former fugitive spent his first night in jail watching television and "just B-S-ing."

"He's talking, but nothing about what he did," Henderson said. "He seems to be in a good enough mood."

Census Bureau Needs Correct Mailing List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mailing questionnaires for the 1980 census may sound like a simple task for the Census Bureau, except for one problem: getting a list of 86 million current addresses.

Granted, once the forms are filled out and returned, they'll make a great list. But that's too late: The agency needs your address to send you the forms in the first place.

And there just isn't any up-to-date list of addresses for all 86 million American households.

Other government lists are incomplete, bureau officials say, noting that even the Internal Revenue Service doesn't hear from everybody.

The lists are extremely important to the census, explained Ray Bancroft of the bureau, because they will also be used to check on returns of the census forms.

A few weeks after Census Day — next April 1 — workers will be sent to homes that did not return the forms in an effort to get the questions answered.

Every 1 percent increase in returns saves the bureau $2 million in follow-up costs, Bancroft said. In 1970 the return rate was 87 percent.

"Anyone in direct mail will tell you that's amazing," he said.

Based on test censuses earlier this year, Bancroft said the bureau expects about an 80 percent return this time but hopes for more.

Bancroft pointed out that the bureau pays the postage for the forms to be returned, a $31 million expense.

The cities will be the easiest to deal with, officials say, because commercial mailing lists cover most major metropolitan areas.

The bureau has purchased 43 million addresses from commercial mailing lists at a cost of about $500,000 and the Postal Service is checking these addresses for the bureau. About 6 million additions and corrections are expected.

Each address is checked at least three times before being used, said Bancroft.

Such lists are expected to yield about 50 million addresses in 554 urban counties.

But the real problem will come in rural areas, the 2,488 counties that are simply too sparsely populated to be well-covered by commercial mailing lists.

So some 35,000 temporary employees are being hired to help compile these addresses and to visit many rural households to gather census information.

These workers have begun walking thousands of miles of streets and roads asking each household for its mailing address.

In urban areas, the census forms will carry only an address, not a name. But names will be used in many rural areas because they are necessary to get the forms delivered on rural routes.

Natural Gas Supply Increase Expected

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The natural gas pipeline serving parts of five Midwestern states will have more than 22 billion cubic feet more gas available this winter than last winter, according to a copyright story in Sunday's Kansas City Star.

The new supplies, which come primarily from new Cities Service Gas Co. gas fields in Wyoming, are the equivalent of more than 10 days' supply for all Cities Service's industrial and residential customers in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas, the company said.

Service as the basis for the optimistic gas supply outlook. The documents also estimated that conservation measures by utility customers are saving another 55 billion cubic feet of gas a year.

The impact of increased supplies already is being felt by industrial customers, who for the first time since the early 1970s are getting all the gas they can use, said Robert Fink, vice president of the Gas Service Co. in Kansas City. Gas Service buys nearly all its gas from the Cities Service pipeline.

Death Valley Bakes Australian Runner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tony Rafferty, who spent two days and seven hours in a 124-mile trek through Death Valley at the hottest time of the year, says he knows what hell is like.

"If there is a purgatory or hell on Earth, I've just been through it," the Australian said in a telephone interview from Furnace Creek.

Rafferty, a physical fitness lecturer from Melbourne, began the run Thursday from Shoshone and ended up Saturday at Scotty's Castle, according to publicist Peter Baster, who traveled alongside Rafferty in a car.

"He started off with the intention of running non-stop, but discovered this was physically impossible for this time of year," Baster said.

Water Importation To West Texas Continues To Be Top-Level Study

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The dream of importing water to West Texas, while not likely to materialize in the coming decade, is an integral part of a federal six-state study and ongoing discussions between Texas and neighboring states' water officials.

Texas water spokesmen are not predicting any agreements soon, but several have spoken recently of a greater understanding among their Oklahoma and Arkansas counterparts, which could produce results.

"I believe I have begun to detect some friendliness in people's attitudes in Oklahoma and Arkansas," said Tom McFarland, director of special projects for the Texas Department of Water Resources in Austin. "I believe that in four to six years, we will have agreed, or be on the verge of agreeing, that there is water available and that something can be traded for."

Duncan Ellison, executive director of Water Inc. in Lubbock, said some "extremely high-level talks" are in progress between Texas and Arkansas and added, "We're looking at maybe eight to 10 years, with all good luck, before reaching an agreement (between the two states for water shipment to West Texas)."

Emphasis has been placed on Arkansas and Oklahoma as sources of water for the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico High Plains since an estimated $20.4 billion (1972 cost index) project to pump water from the lower Mississippi River in Louisiana across North Texas to the region was rejected in 1973 by the Bureau of Reclamation as economically unfeasible.

As part of a $6 million Economic Development Administration study of the High Plains-Ogallala Aquifer area, the U.S. Corps of Engineers (COE) has been awarded $750,000 to analyze possible water importation routes serving Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Among the proposed routes to serve the West Texas region, two originate in Arkansas, and one begins at the Oklahoma-Arkansas border. One of the Arkansas routes would travel across North Texas similar to the 1967 Texas Water Plan (the lower Mississippi River plan), but Texas officials now consider Oklahoma important in future negotiations.

There are several reasons for this attitude. The first phase of the Oklahoma Comprehensive Water Plan, completed in 1975, examined the northern half of the state and disclosed serious water shortages existing in the northwestern portion by the year 2030. Oklahoma water officials have outlined a system of canals, pipelines, conduits and pumping plants that could transport water from southeastern Oklahoma to the northwest at a 1974 estimated cost of $2 billion.

Simply put, the Oklahoma Panhandle has a need for water akin to West Texas, and eastern Oklahoma has an admitted water surplus.

Ellison, in discussing a route from Arkansas through Oklahoma to West Texas, said, "Of those routes that have been discussed, that is the one that makes the most sense."

How soon such a route might be approved formally for construction is impossible to guage. The second phase of the Oklahoma Water Plan is scheduled to be completed by early 1980, assessing water supplies in the southern half of the state, but agreement for an intrastate water shipment system will be elusive.

"East against West in Oklahoma is a pretty big thing," Ellison explained. "The people from eastern Oklahoma have to realize that letting a little water go to western Oklahoma will not ruin them, and people from western Oklahoma are the only ones who have the right to convince them."

While the availability of water in Oklahoma still is under examination, a 1976 study of Arkansas surface water supplies indicated a vast surplus. The study, which was prepared by a Little Rock, Ark., consulting firm for the Texas Water Development Board, showed the state to have a projected 2020 excess of about 43 million acre-feet per year of surface water. One acre-foot equals 325,851 gallons.

The study assumed that water would be transferred to Texas only during periods of "normal-to-high flows" when state priorities had been satisfied. Furthermore, of the projected annual excess, only six million acre-feet of water would be needed each year for exportation to Texas.

The recent statements of an Oklahoma water official, however, diselose the concern of neighboring states about selling water to Texas.

"Our studies show we have no water to spare," Mike Melton, assistant director of the Oklahoma Water Resources Board, said.

So, serious negotiations for bringing water to West Texas may be impossible until the Corps of Engineers releases its findings.

At a meeting last week in Washington, D.C., representatives from the six states included under the High Plains-Ogallala study heard Corps spokesmen say there are no findings to report yet.

"We are currently formulating new alternate routes," said Jesse Range, COE study director for the High Plains project. "Our schedule right now is to have some cost figures by mid 1981."

He called any detailed discussions about routes and costs now premature.

Mike Maucek, a COE engineer in Fort Worth, said the corps soon will begin examining individual proposed routes. "I would say by the middle of next year we will have some preliminary costs of individual plans," he said.

A formal agreement on a water importation plan for West Texas will certainly require federal approval — and participation — because of the enormous costs that can be anticipated.

The lower Mississippi River project, if constructed in 1979, would cost about $35.7 billion rather than the 1972 estimate of $20.4 billion, Maucek said.

Also, the federal government would be essential to provide the initial financing, which the recipient states would repay in time as the canal system was operated.

And finally, because it would be a regional project, "that gets the federal government involved," said Ellison.

Fear Of Violence Disrupts Travel For Family Menaced By Gunmen

By CURTIS BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

ANTON — Fear and uncertainty gripped an Anton couple and their son, daughter-in-law and two grandchildren last Tuesday as they entered the lunchroom area of Carlsbad Caverns, ending what started out to be a pleasant summer trip.

They had no premonition that the mile and a half descending, winding path from the entrance down 750 feet to the cavern's Big Room, where the lunchroom is located at one end, would lead them to four armed gunmen.

About 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, the men took a Carlsbad Caverns National Park worker hostage and demanded money and refuge. They surrendered five and a half hours later to FBI authorities, the hostage and other nearby tourists uninjured.

The ordeal, which seemed like "a terrible nightmare" the morning after, was enough to produce consternation, but Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swanson of Anton, their son and daughter-in-law, Paul and Linda Swanson of Tulia, and their two young children, Jeff and Sherri, resisted panic.

Except for the sobbing of a few frightened children and the occasional shushing from protective parents, an almost reverent quietness and stillness prevailed, the Swansons said.

Mrs. Swanson said of her visit to the national park:

"We had just finished talking with a ranger about some of the rock formations before entering the lunchroom and purchasing boxed lunches. While in the process of spreading them on a table, a girl announced over a public address system in a quivering voice for everyone to leave the area immediately.

"We detected fear in her voice and knew something was definitely wrong when she said, 'This is no joke.'"

Mrs. Swanson said she thought there was a natural disaster, such as a portion of the cave filling with water. But she quickly learned differently.

"Everyone started toward the elevators. Several little boys started running and a man yelled harshly to walk. This was my first look at the gunmen I saw, but I did not see this one holding a gun."

Mrs. Swanson said the armed men were dirty in appearance and wore very loose fitting clothing.

"Park employees met us at the elevator waiting room, but no one said what was happening," she said. "They tried to group families together to leave. Linda and the two children went with the first group, but Bill, Paul and I had to wait.

"For some unknown reason only one elevator was working. We were told later the other had been disabled by the gunmen. The minutes that passed before it returned seemed like an eternity."

During this period, Mrs. Swanson said two high school-aged boys, who were cashiers, came to the waiting area and told her husband that a robbery was taking place and there was a lot of money to be taken.

Mrs. Swanson said that after a while, someone came for the two boys.

"All was very quiet at this point except for a little boy, about 10-or 11-years-old, who was crying. We learned that he had seen the gunman apprehend the woman hostage — the one who told us to leave.

"It wasn't long until one of the men came to the elevator waiting area and told us he was looking for a bottle. My husband said he thought of nitro. I thought he probably just was looking for one of the rangers — just checking around. He soon left before another man with a gun came by."

Mrs. Swanson said that when he appeared, the little boy who had been crying began sobbing almost hysterically. He recognized him as the man who had apprehended the hostage.

While the man was there, Mrs. Swanson noticed a mother who quietened her fretful baby by placing her hand over its mouth as if to smother its cry. The gunmen seemed so nervous and jumpy, Mrs. Swanson said. "I guess everyone was afraid the softest cry or the least sniffle would provoke them.

"A little while later we heard gunshots — about four or five. I immediately thought about the two high school boys who were taken from the waiting room and the girl on the speaker.

"It was funny, after the shots there was not a single human noise. I suppose many of us were silently praying. I did wonder if we all would be wiped out," she said.

"I was so afraid for Bill. About four years ago, he had a heart attack, and I knew the anxiety wasn't good for any of us and especially for him.

"A few of the people quietly tried looking down the way to see if they could see anything. But the elevator finally returned and a ranger stepped out and he told us not to look. He said to look at the ceiling, the floor, each other, but not toward the gunmen.

"Paul left on the second car. Bill and I stayed behind because there were others with children, and I told him, 'Let's let them go.' And we wanted Paul to go on up to join Linda and the children.

"The elevators soon returned for a third time and the rest of us left. At that point we did not know if anyone was shot or anything. We didn't even know how many gunmen there were or what they wanted. This was before the negotiating began with the police and newspaper reporter.

"We left the main building and the parking lot immediately. Everone was leaving, and everyone was orderly and really concerned about each other.

"On our way toward White City, we met cars of patrolmen. All we could get on the radio was that no one knew the extent of injuries, which made us think some had been hurt. For some reason I could only think of that poor girl and her pitiful, frightened little voice and the high school boys."

After the family was reunited, Linda told them that when her elevator car reached the top, the attendant opened one door at one end and saw a man standing close by with a gun. She closed the door quickly and opened the opposite exit and told everyone to leave very quietly. The gunman remained at his post until after the Swansons had left.

The family quietly made its way home that night. "We didn't talk much at all. We just listened to the radio. We arrived home (in Anton) pretty late," Mrs. Swanson said. "Paul and Linda decided it would be best for them to go on home.

"Bill went to bed with chest pains and numbness, and I was so afraid, staying up with him until after 4. I guess it was then that the full impact of the day's events hit me."

Mrs. Swanson said she believes the men deserve maximum punishment.

"Now we know that no one was hurt physically, and I'm so grateful, but the memory of the traumatic experience will stay with everyone for a long time," she explained.

"As that terrified girl said on the loud speaker, 'This was no joke.'"

New York Archdiocese Denies Funeral Mass For Galante

NEW YORK (AP) — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York refused Sunday to allow a funeral Mass to be celebrated for reputed mobster Carmine Galante, saying it would cause a "scandal."

The Rev. Felician Napoli, pastor of St. Anthony's Church in the city's Little Italy section, said he would offer a "brief liturgical service" for Galante at the Provenzano-Lanza Funeral Home Sunday night.

Both the funeral and today's burial were to be closed to all but friends and family.

Galante, reputedly one of organized crime's top figures, was shot to death Thursday in a gangland rubout while eating lunch at a restaurant in the Bushwick section of Queens. Two other men were killed and one was wounded.

Police said Sunday that there were no developments in the investigation, which so far has not led to any arrests.

Galante's status as head of one of the nation's largest mob families apparently led the archdiocese to refuse Galante the right to a church Mass.

In a statement, Terence Cardinal Cooke said, "The archdiocese of New York cannot permit a public celebration of a funeral liturgy for the late Carmine Galante. We extend our sympathy to his family but we are not able to grant a liturgical service in the church because of the scandal that would ensue."

Napoli said he was approached by the funeral director to lead a service and that he had never met Galante.

"I don't know his family. I wouldn't have known the man if I fell over him," he said.

He said the service would be brief, and that it would consist of biblical prayers.

Family Of Drug-Crazed Killer Tries To Piece Life Together

OWATONNA, Minn. (AP) — Sitting at the kitchen table in their quiet, middle-class home, Harold and Helen Thompson agonize about that day, a year ago, when their drug-crazed son became a murderer.

One hundred-thirty miles away, in a world of steel bars, 19-year-old Mark Thompson tries to piece his life back together.

It was July 2, 1978, a Sunday morning, and the Thompsons were on a fishing trip.

Mark and a 16-year-old companion were in the house alone. They had been gulping amphetamines, 60 to 70 pills each. They got hold of some guns, shot up the house and then opened fire on anything that moved outside.

One bullet struck and killed Marion Swearingen, 76, as he left a house across the street on his way to go fishing. Two other people were wounded, a neighbor reaching out her door for the morning newspaper and a man delivering papers with his son.

Mark says he did not realize the full horror of what he had done until three days later. "I thought I was going to have to talk to the sheriff and he would slap my hand," he says now. "But Mom said, 'Hey, you're in deep trouble.'"

"I knew I was seeking to keep my high — from cruising, to getting high to thinking people were chasing me ... then getting the guns out and shooting up the house ... then killing somebody," he said.

Young Thompson pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and was sentenced to 40 years in prison. He is now eligible for parole in five years. His companion was tried as a juvenile and sent to a training school in Red Wing.

Mark's parents, interviewed recently at home, say they had been aware their son was using drugs but did not know how serious it had gotten. They thought his new job and changes since high school were responsible for a loss of appetite and lack of energy.

"But now, looking back, if I had said to myself, 'Wait a minute. I'm going to ... look at this boy. I'm going to see'," said Mrs. Thompson. "Hindsight. What good is it?"

After the shooting, the Thompsons considered moving from this southern Minnesota city of 15,500 people. But their friends and neighbors persuaded them to stay.

"I made up my mind ... that we're not going to do anything like that. We're gonna just stand up and meet it head on," said the father. He returned to his job as a supervisor at a local tool company, prepared to "battle the whole darn town if we had to."

About twice a month, the Thompsons visit their son at the St. Cloud Reformatory, where he has lived for the past year.

"There's no way we can understand all of this, and we're hoping for a super positive attitude every time we go up there," Thompson said. "That's asking too much under the circumstances."

"They're going to apply enough pressure to get him to think, to get him to open up about things and get him to determine what he's going to do for the rest of his life," he said.

Under a special voluntary program called "Reshape," Mark was first in a closed unit of the reformatory so he could study himself and the reasons for what he did. The second phase, which he is working his way through, releases him into the general prison population but with intense counseling. The final phases include a halfway house and an extended family.

"I had a lot of fear when I first came here," Mark said in a recent interview at the reformatory. "There are things to be afraid of, but not as much as I thought there would be. I'm adjusting to it."

"I didn't know what to expect, but I knew I had to seek something," he said. "I had a lot of guilt and hurt, feelings that I knew I had to do something with."

Mark says drugs are no longer a temptation. "It's a choosing," he said. "I choose not to."

His eyes filling with tears, Mark talks about how his feelings have changed toward his parents. "I think my whole attitude toward them has changed. I respect them. I respect them a lot," he said. "The three of us are working together now."

Cracks Found In Point Above Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Seeping water and new cracks have been spotted at the base of a rock observation point above Niagara Falls that officials fear could collapse, authorities said Sunday.

Ron Hoskins, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said geotechnical expert Thomas Wilkinson reported seeing the cracks during a three-hour inspection of the Terapin Point observation station Sunday.

A seismic alarm at the point sounded Friday night, and a preliminary investigation by corps engineers Saturday determined the rocks had shifted at least one-quarter inch, and "possibly considerably more."

"We know we are in the midst of a rock movement there," Hoskins said. "The question is, are the rocks going to fall in 20 years or next week?"

In the "worst case" situation, up to 100,000 tons of rocks could break loose and tumble over the falls, he said, but he added that it was also possible very little rock could come loose.

The designer of the seismic alarm, Robert Anderson, was flown into Buffalo on Sunday and taken to the falls by state police. Hoskins said Anderson, Wilkinson and other officials would hook up more seismic equipment and begin making new readings later Sunday.

He said it would take "several days" to get any sort of accurate reading of the potential for a huge rock slide. "It's a slow, slow process," Hoskins said.

Panhandle Insurance Agency Teamed For Service Advantage

Proving again that it wants to be your "first team" when it comes to insurance services, Panhandle Insurance Agency (PIA) announces the association of Kerry L. Jackson as an account executive and area FAMEX representative.

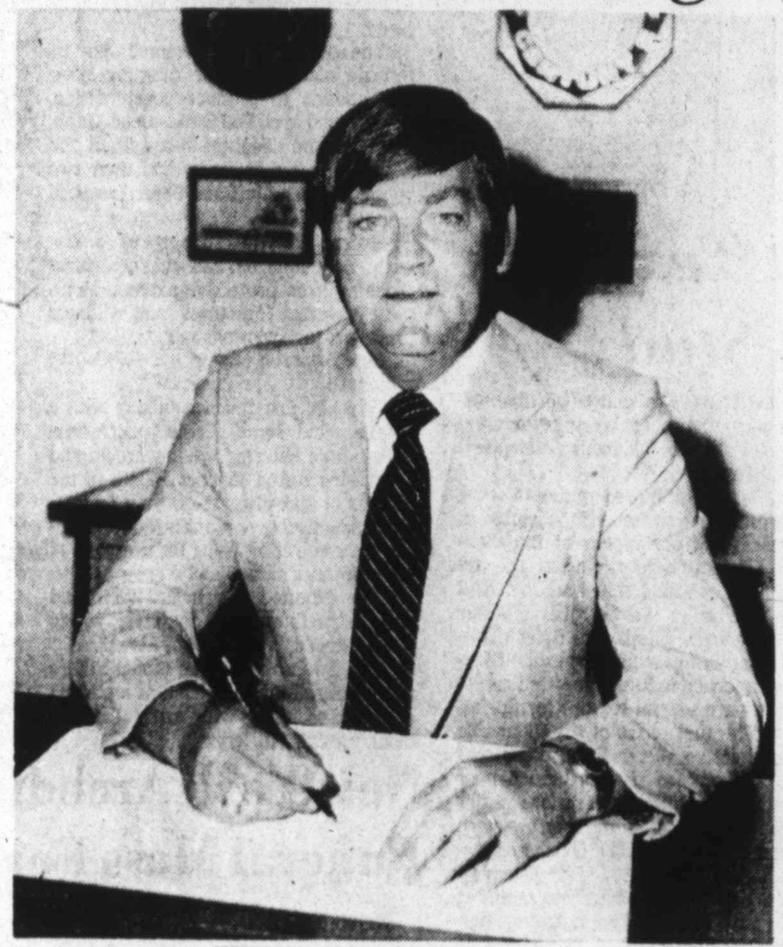
More than ever, PIA is fully qualified in all the essential areas — dedication to service, experience in the field, expertise in insurance programming, access to the most desired markets, and with an enviable record of good working relationships with each valued customer; this is PIA, "your kind of folks."

Possibly best known as commercial specialists, PIA (located at 7212 Joliet, phone 799-5335, at South Loop 289 and Indiana Avenue) serves equally well in every insurance situation, for large and small transactions alike. Whether the need is mortgage retirement insurance, group health, life, bonds, auto or any of the other insurance categories, PIA wants to prove its worth to you as it has for so many others.

Kerry Jackson is a valued addition to the staff. A Lubbock resident since 1965, Jackson marks 18 years in insurance, including 12 years with Firemen's Fund and three years with Cravens Dargan. Coming to PIA from another insurance agency, Kerry can serve one's needs of anything in insurance, with an experience record including claims.

Active in the South Plains Shrine Association, Jackson is a charter member of the Lubbock Scottish Rite, is on the board of directors of the Lubbock Chapter, American Red Cross, and he and his family are members of the First Methodist Church. The family consists of his wife, Barbara, and four children: Mrs. Becky Carson of Levelland (a Coronado and Texas Tech graduate); Lori, sophomore at Tech; Tim, a junior at Coronado; and Susan, in the 7th grade at Mackenzie Junior High school. The Kerry Jacksons reside at 5515 12th Street.

Kerry invites old friends and customers to visit him at his new location and to continue depending upon him for every insurance need. New customers, too, should know Kerry Jackson . . . to their profit and insurance well-being!



KERRY L. JACKSON JOINS STAFF

PIA opened its Lubbock offices just over a year ago, with original staffers J. Don Baldridge and Melba Neelley still serving. Ann Ball has more recently joined the group.

"We feel most fortunate in having Kerry Jackson on our staff," Baldridge emphasizes. "With his expertise and genuine interest in customer service, we sincerely recommend him as fitting well into the PIA family that serves proudly as a vital part of a growing Lubbock and area."

Baldridge has been in the insurance business for some 13 years, with Melba Neelley counting agency service of more than 16 years.

Growth of PIA in Lubbock during its first year has been most gratifying, and the staff is appreciative of the confidences and trade accorded. Each representative pledges continuation of professional insurance service . . . with appreciation, friendliness and courtesy.

"Whatever your insurance need, you can turn with confidence to the competent staffmembers at PIA, innovators whose first consideration is to accommodate your needs."

Caprock Kirby, Across From Furr's, Proven By Decades Of Area Service

"If you don't buy here, you may be paying too much!"

"For value, for the finest in home maintenance equipment, for a firm that "lays it on the line, exactly like it is," one can turn with confidence to Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Sides and staff at Caprock Kirby, 4505 34th St., just across from Furr's Family Center.

Caprock Kirby is no newcomer, no fly-by-night. Sides has been distributing Kirby since back in 1947, and he knows his business, he knows a good product, he knows service and he respects the customer's preferences, needs and pocketbook!

"Over the years, a lot of experience is gained in every phase of the business, and our claims and products have been tested and tried hundreds of times. It all stands up if J.R. Sides is concerned."

Sides, together with his wife, personally owns and operates Caprock Kirby at the west 34th Street location, featuring the complete Kirby line.

Advantages Defined

Aside from the product's advantages, look at these other considerations:

(1) "You can't beat our prices; we don't let anyone undersell us if we know about it.

(2) "All you pay for to have a Kirby repaired with us are the parts. There is no labor charge here on Kirby products. We mean just that . . . we charge for parts only and they are made available at a true, non-inflated price. No matter where you purchase parts for a Kirby, we invite you to check and see if you are paying the true retail price. We are strong at Caprock Kirby on going right down the line with true representations and best in service."

(3) Caprock Kirby sells rebuilt Kirbys at a saving, and with a one-year guarantee. A good stock presently is on hand.

Caprock Kirby repairs all makes of vacuum cleaners, also trading for any make.

Many repairs can be made "while you wait", and most are on a one-day service basis.

Home Demonstrations

Home demonstrations of Kirby units, including the sensational new Classic III model, is without obligation.

Shampoos are among the accessories and aids stocked, with the Super Upkeep spot remover recommended as "the best there is".

CANNING TIME — Meineck Bros., in downtown Lubbock, is ready to assist the home canner with extensive, modern, available supplies as indicated here by Mrs. Mary Alderson, staff-member of the longtime Lubbock firm.

Meinecke Bros. Meets Demand, Providing Canning Necessities

It is possible that home canning was never more popular!

Preservation of fresh vegetables and fruits from the garden or truck patch is a great idea, economically and for tastiness, but the right canning supplies (and their availability) are all-important.

Meinecke Bros., 1633 Broadway, again this year comes to the aid of the home canner with the right supplies.

There are cookers in a capacity range of 4 qt. to 22 qt.

Select from the famous Mirro-Matic speed pressure cookers and canners, Blanchers, canners and preservers, Presto pressure cookers in 16 qt. and 20 qt. sizes;

Rotary food presses, jar lids and even jar lifters;

Freezer containers, Seal-a-Meal bags, jars, canning labels, canning funnels, collanders;

Steel and porcelain pots for jelly making, Ball jars, Ball jelly jars; crocks in all sizes, great for pickles;

Corn cutters by Lee; vegetable slicers and more fine quality items, all at fair price.

Meinecke Bros. stocks parts for pressure cookers, too, as a traditionally appreciated service.

Or maybe the need is a Lady Jo pea sheller; Meinecke has 'em!

Meinecke Bros. also meets the needs of the season with a host of patio and outdoor items, such as White Mountain, Hostess, Richmond Cedar Works and other ice cream freezers; even barbeque tools, cast iron pots and skillets and camping kits.

At Special Prices

Essick and Dearborn evaporative air conditioners are stocked, and all are now marked at prices to clear.

Check, too, for the very good buys in mowers (both gasoline and electric, at special mid-season prices), Weedeaters, Black & Decker edgers; garden hose and all.

All kinds of "summer stuff" is stocked at the big store!

In the same Lubbock location since 1938, Meinecke Bros. is owned and operated by Steve and Charles Meinecke who take pride in carrying on the traditions of the firm founded 53 years ago by the late A.S. Meinecke.

For the right supplies for every season, Meinecke Bros., 1633 Broadway, is heartily recommended.

Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings Sets Three-Day Discount On Stocked Units

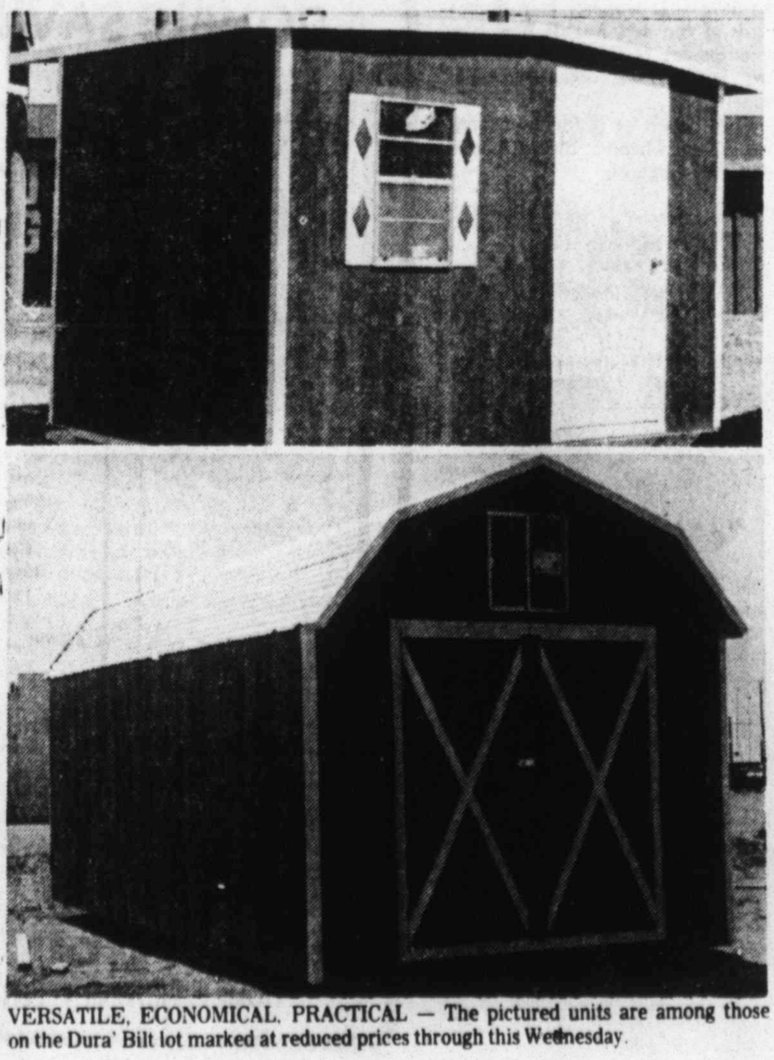
It is a big Three Day Special that begins today, Monday, at Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings, 6415 Ave. H, just south of the Tahoka traffic circle in south Lubbock, phone 745-2891!

With already-low prices (tomorrow's buildings at yesterday's prices), this Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday sale enables extraordinary savings.

For the three days, discount of 10 per cent will be effective on every building on the big lot at Dura' Bilt. Included are more than 30 units from size 6 x 8 to 12 x 24.

Locally Built For Savings

"Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings are manufactured locally to better serve you. Whether the need is an office, barn, garage, storage, warehouse, hobby shop, mobil-home add-on or a field office, as example, Dura' Bilt can be the economical and practical answer."



VERSATILE, ECONOMICAL, PRACTICAL — The pictured units are among those on the Dura' Bilt lot marked at reduced prices through this Wednesday.

Features include pre-finish masonite exterior that requires no paint or maintenance; it is of best quality and available in various colors.

Strong steel roofing guards against hail.

Exterior grade plywood flooring is utilized, with floor joists on 16-inch center to assure further quality.

Baked-on enamel aluminum trim in lovely colors is another feature.

And rubber closures in the eaves to guard against dust.

Options Available

On the finished building, Dura' Bilt offers $3\frac{1}{2}$-inch rockwool insulation and lovely wood paneling. Many "extras" can be added to assure a building that meets your particular needs and preferences.

Bank financing is available.

Dura' Bilt also provides delivery of the units.

EXCEPTIONAL PAINT VALUES — Judy Lindsey of the Maxey Home Improvement Center calls attention to a vast paint stock marked at 50 per cent off. Check for desired colors in stains, enamels, masonry and inside or exterior paints at super-value pricing.

Home Improvement Center Marks Paint Stock At Half-Price Close-Out

What an opportunity for anyone remodeling, building, or just "fixing up the place:"

Maxey Home Improvement Center at 120 N. University Ave. is closing out all its paint stock of the famous TCI paints at whopping 50 per cent price reduction!

Yes, all exterior and interior paints, enamels and Drama stains are marked at one-half off in this unusual offer.

Select from oil base and latex paint, masonry paint, Drama multi-purpose enamel, and more.

Not only is there a drastic price markdown on paints at the Maxey Home Improvement Center, but other values can make a visit there at this time of particular advantage.

"Whether the need is paint, a storm door or window (for which Maxey is famous), or the latest model of the Genie family of automatic garage door openers, Maxey comes through to your advantage."

Thirteen models of storm doors are on display, including gold finished frame and facing strip, also in bronze and white; and featuring safety glass, heavy extruded corners assuring no sag and no warp and black colonial pushbutton latch with pneumatic closer with all screws.

The surprisingly low pricing of the automatic garage door openers add to their appeal as a consideration to the family, wouldn't you agree?

Genie openers are simple to install, if one cares to do-it-yourself, with easy-to-follow directions enabling the handyman to install even the new GS-600R with a few simple tools likely already around the home.

These doors feature the Sequensor computer-controlled brain, with exclusive custom-control of door operation designed for Genie. The solid-state computer with unique micro decision maker programs all functions of safety, door sequence, security and light control requirements for error-free operation.

"Imagine . . . just touch the button on your portable transmitter. Genie opens the door, turns on the light and lets you drive right in! An exclusive new light option switch allows you to choose whether the light stays on for two minutes 16 seconds and then automatically turns off after the door is opened or closed; or remains on as long as the door is open."

The utilized Sequensor (the computer-controlled brain) is smaller than a snowflake, yet it can control 22 operating functions with error-free precision, all with 1/3 less power consumption, as another Genie advantage.

Let us give you the entire story . . . at Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University in Lubbock.

Look at some of the other Maxey features:

"Have you discovered the beauty and utility of Amerock decorative hardware?

"And have you realized that Maxey Home Improvement Center includes a huge Amerock display and stock among its many products for the home?"

For fine decorative hardware, whether the item is an entry lock, towel bars, switch plates, and more, the Amerock collection at Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, is most impressive.

Not only is there a wide variety at the Maxey firm, but prices are kept in line throughout the stock, with specials arranged whenever possible to further assist.

There are very good buys on water heaters, bathtubs, marble top vanities, faucets, light fixtures, paint, etc.

And some may not realize that the Maxey Home Improvement Center stocks a good assortment of hand tools, both in sets and individual pieces, for auto repair.

Lubbock's Own Chimney Sweep Advises Pre-Season Attention

"Next fall, when you thrill at lighting those logs in the fireplace for the first time, will you have the assurance that your chimney is clean, safely ready for that first use? One way to be sure is to prepare ahead of time . . . the easy way."

This is where Al the Chimney Sweep can help, when he needs to be involved in one's planning.

Yes, the cleaning of the chimney should be a vital part of home care; and it can be easy and economical, thanks to Al.

Established as a business late last year in Lubbock, the chimney sweep operation met with welcome and immediate response. Early booking this year will thwart last-minute delays when the demands are pressing.

Al, time and again, has seen the effects of unclean chimneys that resulted in fire damage.

"In fact, 31 fires in chimneys and flues were reported in Lubbock in a recent year," Al quotes from figures released in an annual Lubbock Fire Department report.

'Al Finds Owl!'

"And you should see some of the debris we find in chimneys! Really . . . Al got an owl from a chimney in Fluvanna! And he has recovered tennis balls, cups, even a football, and countless charred birds, all a distinct hazard in fireplace chimneys, together with the soot that is saturated with creosote."

The solution:

Flat Fee

Let Al clean your chimney. Call 795-1789. The cost is a modest and set fee of only $40 per chimney (with multiple units in one building cleaned on a graduating scale.).

Inspection Advised

If one thinks a chimney needs cleaning but is not sure, Al is glad to make an inspection, promising an "entirely honest, straightforward report" if or if not cleaning is warranted. A $5 inspection fee can be applied at any time within 18 months on an actual cleaning operation.

No mess is involved in the cleaning, Al emphasizes. And the time . . . most usually less than an hour!

Al and his helpers are available for appointments evenings and Saturdays. They will clean anywhere in the area (for out-of-town calls, Al suggests that at least five chimneys be involved in the community to warrant a trip there without prohibitive cost).

"With no fuss or bother on your part, Al can have your chimney in readiness with use of the best August West Systems equipment. (Al wears a top hat to the job. It is his traditional symbol of the trade!)

For full details or appointment, call now to Al the Chimney Sweep, phone (806) 795-1789, Lubbock.

Catering Capabilities Among Vital Services At Mrs. Camp's

For pastries, cookies, cakes and all . . . why consider less than Mrs. Camp's, 4005 34th St., phone 792-3243.

At Mrs. Camp's the delicious answer to every pastry need is present . . . for goodness any day and for the most elaborate of special occasions.

So, treat the children, family and friends to summer delights from Mrs. Camp's where every operation is for finest preparation, display and service related to superior bakery products.

"Did you realize that Mrs. Camp's Pastry (long the solution to every pastrty need) offers a really outstanding catering service?"

Catering for all occasions including weddings, anniversaries, birthdays, graduations and other group events is readily available from Mrs. Camp's where the Catering Department gets full attention of a dedicated staff and ownership.

Imagine . . . everything for a complete wedding reception, including the most beautiful cakes ever, punch, nuts, finger sandwiches, mints, coffee, silver service, the complete bride's table, groom's table and guest book tables. Yes, complete to the glassware and silver, catering from Mrs. Camp's assures rightness in every detail.

David Yocum is the very capable manager of the department.

Charles and Frances Scarborough, owners of Mrs. Camps, take special pride in the catering service they initiated some three years ago and which has been received in a gratifying manner.

Yocum and the long-known Mrs. Camp's ownership and staff invite inquiries for every reception need.

"We think you'll appreciate this service: call 792-2343 for details, or come by the attractive, spotless facility at 4005 34th St. where a large display hints of the completeness of the catering department.

Specializing in custom orders, Mrs. Camp's does "one job better," concentrating all efforts at this one location and this one field.

The custom party cakes, wedding cakes, anniversary cakes and many other products are not only the most delicious to be found, but they are veritable works of art. The skilled decorators create designs or use the customers' design in cakes for special occasions, baking and preparing on as little as one-day notice.

Mrs. Camp's uses only pure ingredients in its many products.

Select from doughnuts, Danish rolls, French pastries, several varieties of Danish coffee cakes; and peanut brittle and divinity candy. Twenty-five varieties of cookies are prepared, with only pecans as nut ingredients.

All Mrs. Camp's products are baked and prepared right in the spotless kitchens of the facility.

Cakes and other bakery goodies are stocked in the cases at all times, and many decorative creations are in stock, sometimes eliminating need of special orders for a particular occasion.

Pies, cakes, tarts, etc., are the ultimate in goodness at Mrs. Camp's, open from 7:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

Lubbock Travel's Professional Aid Solving Needs Without Added Cost

"The folks at Lubbock Travel can eliminate a lot of problems for you!"

Actually, travel advantages at least effort on your part is the function and assurance at Lubbock Travel, Inc., phone 792-3237, at 4214 50th St., in Lubbock.

"So why settle for less than travel assistance, by Lubbock Travel, Inc.?

"There is absolutely no charge to you for these professional services?"

Jean Bachman, owner and director, is glad to explain how the firm is able to offer special services that combine maximum employment of the destination, wherever in the world, at costs less than likely one has believed possible.

Low Costs Cited

Speaking at cost:

"Did you realize that Lubbock Travel can arrange for you a Bahama package, for seven days, starting as low as $280! Or Jamaica, from $349!"

Many contributing factors make for exceptionally good travel buys at this time.

Japan vacations are better now because of recent cost reductions and a stronger U.S. dollar, enabling savings from $58 to $138 on some tours.

Canada trips also are very good buys because of exchange rates at this time.

Or European tours with group rate benefits.

Adventure Tours to Mexico, Bahama, Jamaica and Hawaii are among tours recommended.

Cruise Opportunities

Very good buys in cruises are available.

Or for a trip to Australia, the Orient, Hong Kong, even mainland China, Lubbock Travel's professionals can arrange a successful and most enjoyable trip for you, even saving dollars and cents when this is so important.

American Express cards, Air Travel cards, Visa and Master Charge use is enabled on many of the tour purchases.

Early Bookings Important

"But whatever plans you envision for this year, early bookings are strongly advised; let us go to work for you now, at Lubbock Travel, Inc., phone 792-3237, 4214 50th St., in Lubbock."

The Lubbock Travel staff travels extensively and is thoroughly versed in all aspects of arranging a trip "tailor-made for you"; and most likely one or more of the staff is familiar firsthand with the country or trip of your interest. Jean Bachman has just returned from the Caribbean, and recently from the Orient, making other recent trips to Africa, India and other points. Alma Wallace has returned from Tahita, and Syd Sansom is back from a Mexico tour.

Others on the staff can mark trips throughout the world, and all this direct information can be invaluable to you as a cherished customer at Lubbock Travel, Inc.

Tipton's Arranges Mulching Mower Price Reduction On Units In Store

Tipton's Bicycle and Lawn Mower Repair, 2235 19th St., is a firm known for its products and services enabling economical preparation and care for Lubbock area yards and landscapes.

Not only are "top names" the rule in its products, but special prices are posted when possible.

And now there is a super special!

At Tipton's, all Bolens mulching mowers in stock are marked at 15 per cent reduction while supply lasts!

(And Tipton will allow from $5 to $20 trade upon one's purchase of a Lawn Boy, Snapper or other stocked mower at the 19th Street store.)

Parts are stocked for mowers, with a very good inventory always maintained.

Factory authorized service is provided on Tecumseh, Briggs & Stratton and Koehler engines, together with the Eska outboard motors.

Roto-Trim edgers are stocked in both gasoline and electric models, among the many quality products there.

More about the Bolens sensational mulching mowers that are marked at discount:

"These are not just ordinary power mowers but rather each is a lawn care system; you can put away your rake and bags! It is the only mower that takes care of its own clippings, cutting and re-cutting the clippings into a fine mulch that is blown downward into the lawn, returning valuable nitrogen to the soil."

There is not thatch build-up, with the clippings decomposing, leaving little or no residue thatch. Less commercial fertilizer is said necessary when the Bolens mulching mower is used on a lawn. By recycling nitrogen in a routine, systematic manner, the mulching mower cooperates with nature by not depleting her elements!

"And imagine the reduced work time and increased convenience, coupled with elimination of messy cleanup and residual grass clippings that require disposal. Think of the speed and convenience; no need to stop frequently, removing the bag attachment, emptying the contents, reapplying the bag and then starting the mower!"

Both Master Charge and Visa use is welcomed at Tipton's.

Growth Reflects Service

Julus Tipton, owner, is marking his 10th year in business this year, and his trade has consistently grown during the decade. He has been at this one convenient 2235 19th Street location throughout this time, although he has more than tripled the floor space of the business in recent years.

Service on mowers and engines has been a specialty, together with sales of fine equipment.

"May we have the pleasure of serving you within one of our several departments at Tipton's Bicycle and Lawn Mower Repair, 2235 19th St.?"

Metro Tower Affords Choice Facilities, Immediate Move-In

Seventeen floors in the convenient, prestigious Metro Tower are occupied or ready for occupancy.

At present, there is some 25,000 sq.ft. readily available for tenancy, whether the need is for one room or an entire floor!

Early consideration and subsequent "move-in" is advised for several reasons, including white pages listing before deadline (telephone directory) in the Metro Tower.

"Thrusting upward for 20 stories from 1220 Broadway, Metro Tower has become the dominant address of the area. It can be your address, too!"

The complete renovation and modernization of the Metro Tower has been one of the key factors in change of the profile of the central downtown Lubbock area in recent years. Formal opening of the building was back in October of 1975. (Formerly known as the Great Plains Building, it was constructed at a cost of more than $3 million in 1955. In 1970 it withstood a tornado blast and under direction of Gaut & Gaut, after determination that the building had sustained no structural damage, it has again become a central sphere of activity, with renovation under the supervision of competent professional engineers and architects.

Modern Throughout

Now, the envied tenant list can enjoy such benefits in the Metro Tower as reflective non-glare glass, an early warning fire safety system, four high-speed elevators (traveling 700 feet per minute), sound-proof office suites and a climate control system on every floor, a law library and a coffee lounge.

Reception to the facility's advantages have been almost beyond all expectations, the owners report. A continuous program of modernization and provision of conveniences is underway. Parking spaces are provided for tenants, as example, for 120 vehicles.

In the heart of Lubbock, Metro Tower is within walking distance of governmental buildings such as the court house, city hall, federal building, post office; the $14 million Lubbock Memorial Civic Center; major financial institutions, law firms, shops, business and professional establishments; restaurants, clubs, motels, etc.

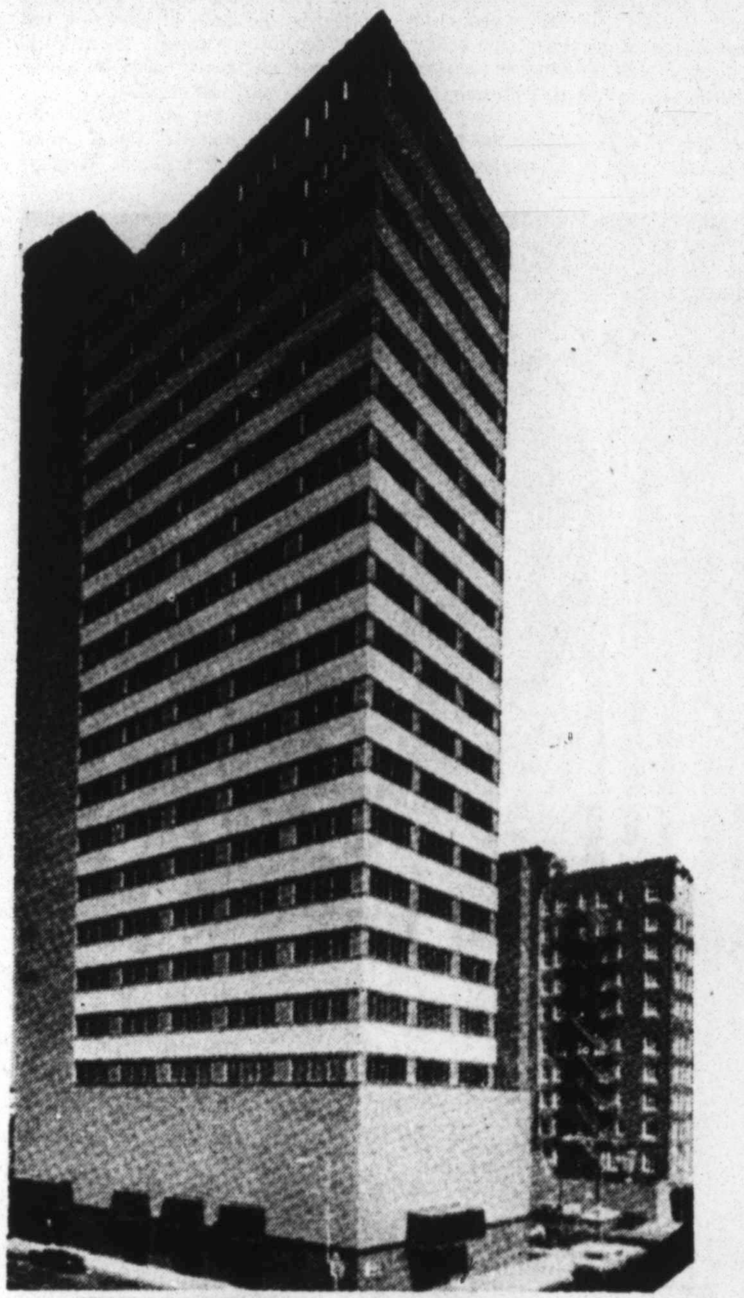
The Texas Commerce Bank maintains extensive Broadway offices on ground floor of the tower.

Dean Witter & Co., Inc., one of America's major firms in the securities industry, shares the first floor.

Possibly the best news of all, however, is:

"There's still room for you at the top — in Metro Tower, Lubbock's tallest office building dominating the skyline from all directions. No address is needed when one is located in Metro Tower, a South Plains landmark!"

(One is invited to inquire at the Tower offices or phone 763-4597 for further details about one to three year leases, etc.)



'SHOULDN'T YOU HAVE A METRO TOWER ADDRESS?'

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe Seen Solution In Apparel Budgeting

Are wardrobe expenditures being sacrificed for other needs of the season?

Is your clothing budget less than desired and needed?

"Your answer to either likely will focus attention on a ready and sensible solution . . . recognition of Hallie's Thrift Shoppe as a great place to trade and save."

Hallie's has a very good selection at this time . . . including formals and casual summer wear.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year.

It's a reality: One can beat inflation, beat the rising apparel costs, by depending upon Hallie's Thrift Shoppe for the right apparel at lowest prices.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

One can dress smartly for every season, and at a cost "that can be lived with," thanks to Hallie's Thrift Shoppe's full selection and unique business concept.

Hallie's, primarily a resale shop for better merchandise, has been at its present 3510 Ave. Q location (with off-street parking) more than four years, and owner-operator Hallie Payne is entering her 13th year in the business.

The exceptional stock, attractively displayed with plenty of room for selection and fitting, involves top quality new and nearly new formal wear, school and street wear, etc.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

"If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

Though a wide stock is on hand, Hallie's at the present especially solicits consignments of top quality and fashionable long dresses, and swim wear.

New merchandise from area stores also is stocked by Hallie's and new arrivals in this category present special values.

Easy off-street parking at both front and rear is just one of the conveniences at Hallie's Thrift Shoppe.

A & J Blind & Shade Shop Reveals Specials, New Items

There's special good news from A & J Blind & Shade Shop:

Kirsch woven woods are at this time marked at 20 per cent off!

The quality of Kirsch is without question, and for a limited time A & J marks these woven woods at the big discount making their purchase more advisable than ever.

Also, 20 per cent off is announced on mini-blinds.

Further advantages at A & J:

Draperies are handled, and custom shutters are now available.

Select from laminated shades, too.

Venetian blind repair is a specialty.

For whatever need at A & J Blind & Shade Shop, 1917 19th St., phone 762-4013, one is invited to call now for free estimates that are gladly given.

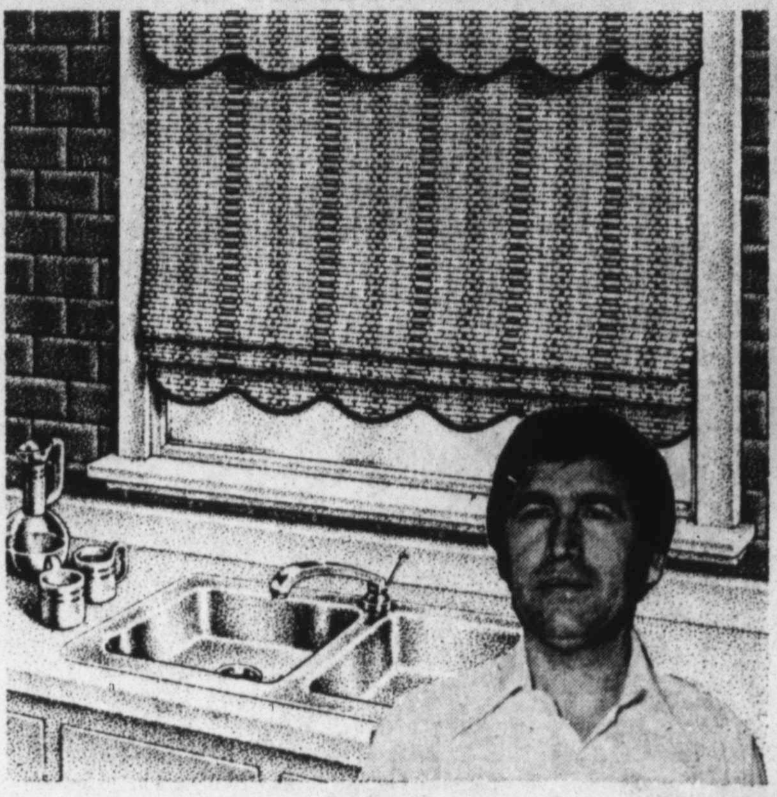
Owner-operator Julius Ysasaga aptly points out:

When one can secure famous-name lines at such low prices, from a firm that places the emphasis on value throughout the year, then it would seem that now is a very good time to act, and save.

Quick service on drapes is one of the many advantages at A & J.

The shop continuously has the greatest variety in window shades one could imagine, with over 50 colors in beautiful fabrics and patterns.

"It is home improvement time . . . and it is A & J Blind & Shade time, too, wouldn't you think?



FOR BEAUTIFICATION, SAVINGS — Julius Ysasaga of the A & J Blind & Shade Shop is shown against backdrop of quality woven woods that are among items marked at limited-time discount at the Lubbock shop.

Captain D's Seafood, On 50th Street, Maintains Quality Without Price Hike

"Did you realize that you still can eat economically . . . at Captain D's Seafood, the unique establishment at 50th Street and Wayne Avenue!"

It is small wonder that the facility, opening Jan. 1 of this year, has enjoyed such tremendous reception and a repeat business that is thoroughly appreciated.

Luncheon specials are posted every day at Captain D's, such as the current $1.19 special on Mondays through Thursdays including two pieces of fish, french fries and a hush puppy!

On Sunday and Monday "all the fish you can eat" is priced at a modest $2.79.

Children's plates also are available, involving fish, shrimp and hamburger.

No recent price increases have been made, despite steadily rising costs. Captain D's is doing its very best to favor the customer, and it will continue to do so.

"As much as we are encouraged by our first months here," the management emphasizes, "we are not resting on our laurels, but we are striving, every day, to prove our gratitude by serving only the finest food, affording the best service we know, and keeping prices right."

Located just across from Best's on West 50th Street, Captain D's is a franchise operation, with the Lubbock facility owned by the father-son team of Sam and Dale Ezelle, with Dale (the son) actively on the job as director of operations. Jaime Swank is manager.

The Nashville-based Captain D's franchise operation involves some 250 units, and Dale marks over five years experience with the Nashville locations before moving to Lubbock.

"We love the South Plains and really consider it home. In fact, eight more units in this area are planned under the Ezelle ownership in the near future."

Variety, Goodness

Batter-dipped fish is the specialty at Captain D's, with the catfish, shrimp, oysters, clams, chicken and hamburgers unexcelled in goodness.

A carry-out window is provided, as well as spacious "eating-in" accommodations.

Captain D's is open from 10:45 a.m. until 10 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays, with a later 11 p.m. closing hour on Fridays and Saturdays.

Dale Ezelle and Jaime Swank personally supervise operations seven days a week, and the speedy service, deliciously prepared food and sensible prices attest to this attention.

"You'll like Captain D's. Your pocket book will like us, too! We're a real friend to the budget and to hungry folks."

Cinderella Beauty School Announces Participation In BEOG Student Help

Mrs. Winnie Vaughn, owner-operator of the Cinderella Beauty School in Lubbock, has just received approval from Washington for her Cosmetology students to apply for the Federal Basic Education Opportunity Grants (BEOG) Program in addition to other Federal and State programs already available to students.

"We are approved by the BEOG, a grant program, and if you qualify, the grant does not have to be paid back," Mrs. Vaughn reports. "To participate, come by Cinderella, at 5401 Aberdeen, and I will be happy to provide additional information and assist you in filling out the forms to determine how much you may qualify for," adds Mrs. Vaughn.

"Other educational assistance is offered by the Texas Education Agency (TEA) approved Cosmetology Course and the Instructor Course for Veterans Administration (VA) benefits, if you are so qualified."

The school also has been approved by the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, and Social Security; and the school ownership is working on still other means of helping students in loans for education in Cosmetology. Vocational high school student benefits are afforded, too.

Winnie Vaughn, owner, is no stranger to the public and to the beauty-conscious of the area. She has owned and operated a salon in Slaton for over 30 years and she has taught a number of years at Lubbock beauty schools. She opened the new and modern Cinderella Beauty School in December, 1976, the franchised Pivot Point approved and a Redken approved school.

Pivot Point

Cinderella Beauty School is exclusively franchised in Lubbock County for the Pivot Point International curriculum, the "Scientific Approach to Hair Design" which is based on proven principles of art design. Mrs. Vaughn proudly states that ". . . the Pivot Point curriculum will not make you an ordinary hairdresser, but a Pivot Point Hair Designer. This means you will learn cutting principles that are directly related to sculpturing as you achieve 14 Classic Hairdesigns: up-elevation cuts, down elevation cuts, plus any new developments in cutting that arise."

"Also are the Quick-Service Tech-

The teaching staff at Cinderella Beauty School includes Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Joan Lang, and Mrs. Ruby Rowan, niques of airforming, the use of the hand and comb dryer, and iron-curling techniques exclusive to the Pivot Point Curriculum. Men's cutting is also taught as the M'Lord Principles of Design . . ."

Redken-Approved

"Our patrons benefit from our extensive training programs, and as the only Redken-approved beauty school in Lubbock, we offer Redken training and products which are so beneficial to our patrons," Mrs. Vaughn proudly reports. "Only last Wednesday, our students and staff received a Redken training session on product chemistry and the latest information on reconstructive hair treatments, including proper shampooing, using setting lotions, etc. Make-up was also taught . . ."
for both Cosmetology students and Instructor students.

Perm Specials

"We especially invite you to enjoy a body perm for easy summer care, or have the pleasure of a short curly perm. Specials are now posted on perms, with prices starting at $12.50 and up."

"Senior Citizens are especially welcomed, with every day being a Senior Citizens Day! For this group, a perm is offered for just $15 and includes haircut, shampoo and set! Haircuts are $4. Senior citizens should show their Medicare card for the specials Tuesdays through Saturdays."

MRS. WINNIE VAUGHN

"At Cinderella, we style both men's and women's hair, with children's haircuts, too."

". . . We are adept in hair coloring, frosting, bleaching, sun flicking, manicures, pedicures, lash and brow dyes, brow styling, eye tabbing, etc., with the students working under the direction of the professional instructors."

Mrs. Vaughn further states, ". . . It is our policy to stay abreast of the new styles in both hair design and in the clothing trends; so if at all possible, please feel free to come by and see us; we are always glad to visit with you, and we appreciate your enrollment or your patronage in beauty needs."

"We are located in the Plaza Shopping Center, 5401 Aberdeen, telephone 792-4439 or 792-4430. Our classes start any day, Tuesdays through Saturdays, and appointments are preferred for those seeking our beauty services in the school.

"We at Cinderella are proud of our students; we welcome patrons, both men and women; and our services are most reasonable. We teach a profession which offers pride, prestige, and personal fulfillment in knowing that you are making others attractive and happy. A trained and dedicated Cosmetologist often exceeds college graduates in earning power and financial independence. Certainly, age is no barrier and does not present the handicap experienced by many other professionals who must 're-tire' in a youth-oriented trade or profession while still physically and mentally capable of performance. The Cosmetologist is only limited by desire and ambition . . ."

"We want you to get acquainted with the Culligan products and services and the Culligan 'we treat water seriously' staff at 5280 34th St., phone 792-3341.

"And to speed this acquaintance, we at Culligan in Lubbock have posted a July special . . . giving an approximate three-year supply of soap and cleaning products free with purchase of the sensational Aqua-Sensor!"

FURTHER CUSTOMER CONSIDERATION — Woolco's Men's Wear department is making room for fall merchandise by marking men's and boys' summer items at 1/3 off! Clearance savings are posted on tank tops, knit shirts, sport and dress shirts and a good supply of tennis shirts and shorts. Swimwear is in good supply as are jogging shorts and cutoffs. There's lots of hot weather merchandise available at clearance prices of one-third or more off. Summer is swim time, and Woolco has a good selection of swimwear at clearance prices. There are one-piece and two-piece styles for ladies; and mothers will be happy to find low prices for girls, toddlers through teen 14, and little boys 2-7. There are solids, combinations, stripe trims, etc., in the most wanted colors of one's choice.

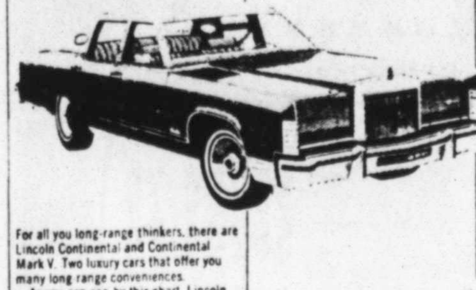
WHEN IT COMES TO GOING THE DISTANCE, LINCOLN CONTINENTAL AND MARK V ARE FULL OF SURPRISES.

LONG-RANGE CRUISING



For all you long-range thinkers, there are Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark V. Two luxury cars that offer you many long range conveniences.

As you can see by this chart, Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark V offer you respectable estimated cruising ranges.

LINCOLN CONTINENTAL

EPA EST. MPG	HWY. EST.	Fuel Capacity	EST. Range	HWY. EST. Range
12*	17	24.2 Gal.	290*	411

CONTINENTAL MARK V

EPA EST. MPG	HWY. EST.	Fuel Capacity	EST. Range	HWY. EST. Range
12*	17	25 Gal.	300*	425

*Remember, use these numbers for comparisons. Your mileage and range may differ depending on speed, trip length and weather. Actual highway mileage and range will probably be less than the highway and range estimate.

SURPRISING SUMMER CLEARANCE VALUES.

If you ever wanted to own a Lincoln Continental or Continental Mark V, right now is the time to see a Lincoln-Mercury dealer. The summer clearance values are exceptional, and you'll understand why we say . . . the cat's full of surprises.

Auto Companies, UAW To Start Contract Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The Big Three auto companies and the powerful United Auto Workers union begin contract negotiations today in a labor atmosphere calmer than at any time in recent memory.

And both sides expect more bending of President Carter's wage guidelines.

The talks, affecting about 780,000 workers, start in the General Motors Building, shift to Ford Motor Co. on Tuesday and to Chrysler Corp. on Wednesday.

The negotiatiors will be working against a Sept. 14 deadline, the date agreements negotiated in 1976 expire.

Chief union demands are expected to be pension increases for retired workers, more time off and "substantial" wage increases. The companies will propose measures to reduce soaring medical insurance costs and absenteeism.

The Carter administration's wage guidelines calling for pay boosts averaging 7 percent a year already have been virtually ignored in contract settlements in other industries and are expected to have little influence on the auto talks.

"Forget the guidelines. People on both sides of the table are realists," said one auto industry labor veteran, who asked not to be identified.

UAW President Douglas Fraser said, "This is not a year for breakthrough issues."

The union struck Ford for 28 days in 1976, the fifth time in a row that one of the Big Three companies was struck during contract talks. But this year, said one labor official who wished to remain anonymous, "There's very little evidence of a spoiling-for-a-fight attitude."

"By this time," noted another union source last week, "we would usually be yelling our head off about company profits." There has not been a peep about profits recently, though GM and Ford established first-quarter profit records.

As evidence of peaceable union intentions, GM's head negotiator, George B. Morris Jr., points to the June 20 settlement of a new local contract between the Buick Division and Local 599 at Flint, Mich., the UAW's biggest. No local contract has ever before been wrapped up so far ahead of time.

In bargaining over the industrywide contracts, the companies again will press for measures to hold down the increases in medical insurance costs. GM paid $1.3 billion last year, a 50 percent increase in three years.

But Fraser has warned the union would strike rather than give in to any demand that workers pick up part of the premiums.

The companies also will demand measures to reduce absenteeism.

In an attempt to reach that end, the 1976 agreements put in the "Paid Personal Holiday," a company-scheduled day off that workers must take. Seven "PPH Days" were given last year.

But, while figures on absenteeism have not been made available, a top company official said casual absenteeism had accelerated rather than decreased.

Fraser, who would like an eventual four-day work week, said he would resist demands for sterner disciplinary measures for absenteeism.

Fraser will put on the table an idea he has proposed before. For every overtime hour worked and paid for, a worker would get 1½ hours credited to a "bank," and when his account reached 40 hours, he would have to take a week off — with pay.

The companies say that would be ruinously expensive and argue that most autoworkers like overtime.

The auto companies believe inflation, cloudy energy supplies, hot-selling imports, the financial struggles of Chrysler and a three-month sales nosedive have left the workers uncertain.

Plant shutdowns for the model changeover are being stretched out, and industry reports predict production of the 1980 models will be slower than last year.

Dealer lots hold 100-day supplies and more of many big cars. Small cars, however, are still selling. GM front-wheel drive compact plants are working overtime to boost an eight-day supply.

That could have a bearing on the union's strategy. Traditionally, the union picks one company as a strike target about two weeks before the deadline. Other companies continue working during a strike.

It is GM's turn to be the target.

The union is stockpiling, too — strike funds. It is expected to have $300 million on hand by Sept. 14.

Current Measuring Try Planned Near Oil Slick

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Scientists and environmental officials plan to try this week to measure ocean currents between the Texas shore and a runaway oil well off Mexico's Yucatan Penisula.

The well is spewing out 30,000 barrels of crude oil into the Gulf of Mexico daily, creating a massive oil slick that endangers sea life and could later drift ashore on Texas beaches.

The oil has drifted northward and broken into smaller patches, coming no closer to Texas than 320 miles south of Brownsville, and weekend reports indicated it was drifting westward toward the Mexican coast. But so far experts have been unable to predict where the oil will go.

Oceanographers and engineers of the Environmental Protection Agency and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration will cruise in a Coast Guard cutter to gather more data on the currents, beginning Monday, the Coast Guard said.

"We already have historic data on those currents," said Coast Guard spokesman Joe Gibson. "But a group of scientists wants to collect new data on currents in the area — along the Texas and Mexico coasts — and what effect they will have on the oil."

The Coast Guard has made several flights over the area to monitor the slick, and Saturday a delegation including two South Texas congressmen and other officials went along in a specially equipped C130 airplane.

Rep. Joe Wyatt of Victoria said the situation is not as bad as officials have been led to believe.

"For the time being, we have a situation where the oil appears to be staying pretty much in the Bay of Campeche," Wyatt said during a news conference following the flight. Rep. E. "Kika" De la Garza of Mission was also aboard the flight.

Wyatt also said the oil is not moving toward the Texas coast at present. But he added, "It may, and I think we have to be ready for that."

Despite the potential for damage to the Texas coastline, Wyatt said it would be unreasonable to expect Mexico to pay for any damage to American territory.

"I don't believe that we have that kind of treaty with Mexico," he said. "We would have to foot the bill if it comes into the waters of the United States."

Some wildlife officials already have warned that the slick could prove fatal to Ridley sea turtles now hatching on the shoreline near Tampico. But since the turtles lie on Mexican soil, some groups fear nothing can be done to save the reptiles — listed as an endangered species.

Peking Set To Limit Military Expenditure

TOKYO (AP) — A senior Chinese military official says his nation will continue to upgrade its army and air force but will hold military expenditures to no more than the present 18 percent of the country's total budget, the newspaper Mainichi reported Sunday.

Wu Xiu Quan, deputy chief of general staff of the People's Liberation Army, was quoted in an interview in Peking, Saturday, with reporters from the Japanese newspaper.

Commenting on the standoff along the Soviet-Chinese border, Wu was quoted as saying, "China will never provoke a war with the Soviets."

Porch Collapse Injures Six

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Six people were hospitalized, Sunday, after a wooden porch collapsed during a private cocktail party at an historic mansion regularly open for public tours.

The injured — suffering from broken bones, cuts and bruises — were reported in stable condition at Newport Hospital. Twelve people were treated and released following the accident, Saturday night.

The most serious injury was a broken pelvis suffered by James Trabert of Newport, who takes dialysis treatments for a kidney ailment, police said.

City officials said they had not yet determined what caused the collapse of the spacious veranda at the Sanford-Covell house, which was built in 1870 at Easton's Point, overlooking Rhode Island Sound.

The accident occurred about 6:45 p.m. during a fund-raising party sponsored by the United Nations Day Observance Committee of Newport.

About 60 people were at the party when the porch — 68 feet long and 13 feet wide and 11 feet off the ground — suddenly sagged and gave way at the railing. About 30 partygoers were on the porch when a 47-foot section collapsed.

It is used once or twice a week by local organizations and is open to the public for tours four days a week.

Most Police In Hawaii Still Calling In Sick

HONOLULU (AP) — Nearly all the police officers in Hawaii called in sick, Sunday, continuing a strike begun Saturday night, when many officers on duty walked out in a dispute over a new contract with county governments.

Authorities estimated that 95 percent of the officers scheduled to begin work late Saturday did not report for duty. Officers also were reported calling in sick for the day shift Sunday, but there was no immediate estimate of how many.

There are about 1,800 officers in the state.

In a prepared statement, Assistant Police Chief Edwin Ross of Honolulu said: "We are assuring the community that we do have a nucleus of officers patrolling the streets in an effort to prevent criminal activity, protect the public and answer emergencies and in-progress type calls for service."

But police officials appealed to the public to remain at home if possible to cut down on traffic and the opportunity for crime.

Ross said there had been no problems in Honolulu because of the walkout, but on the island of Maui, Police Chief John San Diego said the situation overnight had strained his resources.

"We can't handle it. We've had problems we can't handle. We had a fight in Lahaina and we couldn't send any officers," he said.

There was no word from union officials on how long the sickout would continue.

When the strike began, Saturday evening, the police radio frequencies were jammed with music, and civilian dispatchers said it was impossible to communicate. By Sunday morning, the frequencies were largely quiet.

The walkout came a week after negotiations broke down over a new agreement to replace the expired contract between the four county governments in Hawaii and the State of Hawaii Organization of Police Officers.

One union official, who asked not to be identified, blamed the public for the strike.

"Public apathy prolonged the negotiations. Now they're going to feel it," he said.

Like all public employees in Hawaii, the police officers are under the state's collective bargaining law, administered by the Hawaii Public Employee Relations Board.

The board scheduled an emergency session Sunday to determine if the strike was a "prohibited practice" under the law and whether to seek a court restraining order to stop it.

After negotiations on the new police contract broke down last week, the board ruled there was an impasse and placed the dispute before a federal mediator.

Under the law, fact-finding and arbitration and a 60-day cooling off period would follow mediation, meaning that it would be nearly three months before the police association could call a legal strike.

The union is seeking a 10 percent pay raise this year and another 10 percent boost next year, plus a $70 monthly incease in car allowance. The average pay for an officer now is $16,833 a year.

The counties' offer has not been made public, but other unions that have agreed on contracts have gotten raises totaling about 17 percent over two years.

UNIVERSAL, CASABLANCA SIGN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Universal Pictures and Casablanca Record and Filmworks have entered an agreement under which Universal will distribute movies produced under a longterm contract, officials said. In addition, Universal will distribute, in the United States and Canada, films independently financed by Casablanca, according to the studio. Universal President Ned Tanen and Casablanca Chairman Peter Guber have issued a joint statement saying they "look forward to Casablanca as a major supplier of product for Universal in both the distribution and production areas."

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

These numbers are yours permanently. Check them each day for your biorhythm reading.

U.S.Gold Outshines Sun At Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The U.S. deep and deeply talented athletes — who spent most of the time in the shadow of Bobby Knight's adventures, Cuban defectors and the threats of political violence — emerged, in the end, as the overwhelming victors in the VIII Pan American ames.

While much of the attention was drawn to non-sports activities, the almost-700-strong American team quietly and steadily accomplished its long-range goal — complete and total domination of the two-week celebration of sports.

(Boxing Story, Picture, Summaries, Pages 3, 4, Sec. D)

And they did it in record fashion, piling up 264 total medals, a figure that broke the record of 247 medals they won in the 1975 Games at Mexico City. The Americans' 127 gold medals was, by far, the best of the 34 nations from North and South America and fell just short of the record 128 they won in 1967 at Winnipeg, Canada.

The final gold medal for the U.S. was won by Mike Matz of Plymouth Meeting, Pa., who rode Jet Run to victory in the equestrian show jumping.

Cuba, which failed to improve appreciably from its 1975 showing, was, nevertheless, second with a 65-146 gold-total count.

Canada had 24-136, Argentina 12-36, Brazil 9-41 and Mexico 3-37. Host Puerto Rico, a U.S. Commonwealth but determinedly competing as a separate entry, had 2-22.

Puerto Rico's political status, and the provincial pride of its natives, was responsible for some of the controversy that often shoved the athletes and their accomplishments into the background.

Even before the Games started, a tremendous debate occurred on whether the U.S. or Puerto Rican national anthems and flags would be used in the portion of the opening ceremonies honoring the host country. Both were, but jeers and whistles almost drowned out the American national anthem.

At least, nothing violent happened.

But the American athletes were, at times, booed and jeered.

Probably the greatest demonstration came in the basketball final game, between the United States and Puerto Rico. The Americans won it 113-94 and hoisted to their shoulders the beleagured Knight.

The hoots, jeers and whistles began. When Knight raised aloft a clenched fist, the noise increased.

When he extended the right forefinger in the "No. 1" sign, the whisties, howls and jeers cascaded down on him in a solid curtain of sound.

Knight, the 38-year-old Indiana University coach had been a prime target of abuse from the time he was ejected from the first game of the basketball tournament. And his lack of popularity only increased after an argument with a Puerto Rican policeman over the use of a practice facility.

But the athletes went their own way, remarkably free of the troubles and controversy that touched their coaches and officials.

And they simply were outstanding.

Some of the figures are incredible. The swimmers and divers, for example, won 33 of 34 events. The freestyle wrestlers won all 10 of their classes. The archers won four of four. The tennis players won four of five. The shooters won 12 gold. And the roller skaters, a new event in the 22-sport carnival, collected 10, including the most courageous.

That went to Natalie Dunn, Bakersfield, Calif., who won the women's artistic dance while skating in great pain from a stress fracture of the left leg.

Women's Open Turns Britz...

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Jerilyn Britz withstood a late charge by Debbie Massey and won the U.S. Women's Open golf tournament Sunday at the Brooklawn Country Club.

Miss Britz, who started the round three strokes behind leader Miss Massey, fired a 2-under par 69 in the final round for a 72-hole total of 284 and a 2-stroke margin over Miss Massey and Sandra Palmer, who tied for second. Miss Massey shot a 3-over-par 74 in the final round, while Miss Palmer had a 1-under 70.

Miss Massey three-putted the last hole in a pressure-packed finish. After just missing a birdie putt, Miss Britz dropped a three-footer to nail down the top prize in the oldest tournament on the women's pro tour.

The victory was Miss Britz's first on the tour in 5½ years, and netted her a top prize of $19,000.

It ended a series of near-misses for Miss Britz, who finished second in the LPGA championship and third at last week's Mayflower Classic.

Miss Massey's final round lead began to crumble with double bogeys on the sixth and sevenh holes. Sally Little then assumed the lead, and it seesawed between them.

But Miss Little bogeyed 13 and 14 as Miss Britz continued her move. The 36-year-old former college teacher held a three-stroke lead with four holes to play. Yet, Miss Massey wouldn't fold. She birdied the 12th, the 15th and then sank a 30-foot downhill putt on the 16th to pull within one stroke of Miss Britz.

Another pressure putt brought a birdie on 17 for the former pro skiing instructor. That set the stage for the 18th hole for the two players who were paired together.

Miss Little finished fourth 287 after a 71 in the closing round.

Tied for fifth were Jo Ann Washam and three-time Open champion Susie Berning at 289.

The lowest scoring amateur was Terri Moody, a 20-year-old from Athens, Ga. Miss Moody, whose brother is on the Walker Cup team and whose father was a Georgia state amateur champion, fired a 13-over-ar 297.

It was the third tournament of the year for the young player who said she has "no interest in turning pro now because there are other things in life that interest me more."

Only three amateurs played in the final two rounds, the fewest in the 27 years of the Open.

There were four below-par rounds Sunday, with Miss Washam and Shelley Hamlin leading the way with 67s. There were 17 better-than-71 rounds in the four-days, setting an Open record.

The Open drew 13,000 Sunday, setting another record for the U.S. Golf Association event. More than 40,000 people watched the four days of play.

...While Peete Wins First Tour Crown

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Calvin Peete birdied six of his first 12 holes and finished with a final-round, 7-under-par 65, for a 5-stroke victory Sunday in the $200,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Peete, who never played golf until 1966, when he was 23, and who never won more than $20,525 in any of his four previous years on the PGA tour, earned $36,000 with his first tour victory.

Peete, who will be 36 Wednesday and who last month became the second black to qualify for the Masters Tournament by placing 11th in the U.S. Open, finished with a 19-under-par 269 for 72 holes over the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club layout.

Victor Regalado, who started the day tied with Ed Dougherty for the lead, a stroke ahead of Peete, Lee Trevino and Mike Reid, tied for second with Trevino and Jim Simons at 274.

Regalado shot a final round 71, Trevino 70 and Simons 67, while Dougherty closed with a 72 to tie John Lister at 275.

Peete now has won checks in 11 of the 18 tournaments in which he has played this year and boosted his 1979 earnings to $81,584.

His other finishes this year included ties for fifth in the Byron Nelson Classic, for sixth at New Orleans, for seventh at Houston and for 10th in last week's Western Open.

Peete had only one bogey in this tournament, on the par-3 No. 17 in the first round. He evoked a huge cheer from the gallery surrounding the 18th green when he birdied his final hole of the tournament.

Kid Baseball Playoffs Open

Several area Little League, Senior Little League and Babe Ruth League teams will be involved in tournament action this week as playoff time hits full speed.

The Lubbock 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars will participate today in the State 13-year-old Babe Ruth Tournament in Plainview. The Hub City All-Stars will meet the District 6 Tournament champion.

Meanwhile, the Dixie Senior LL All-Stars will host the Area 13-15 Senior Little League Tournament today and Tuesday. Dixie will play Cooper in a best-of-three series. The winner will advance to the state tournament July 26 against the Abilene Area champion.

Four area Little League tournaments will also be held beginning today.

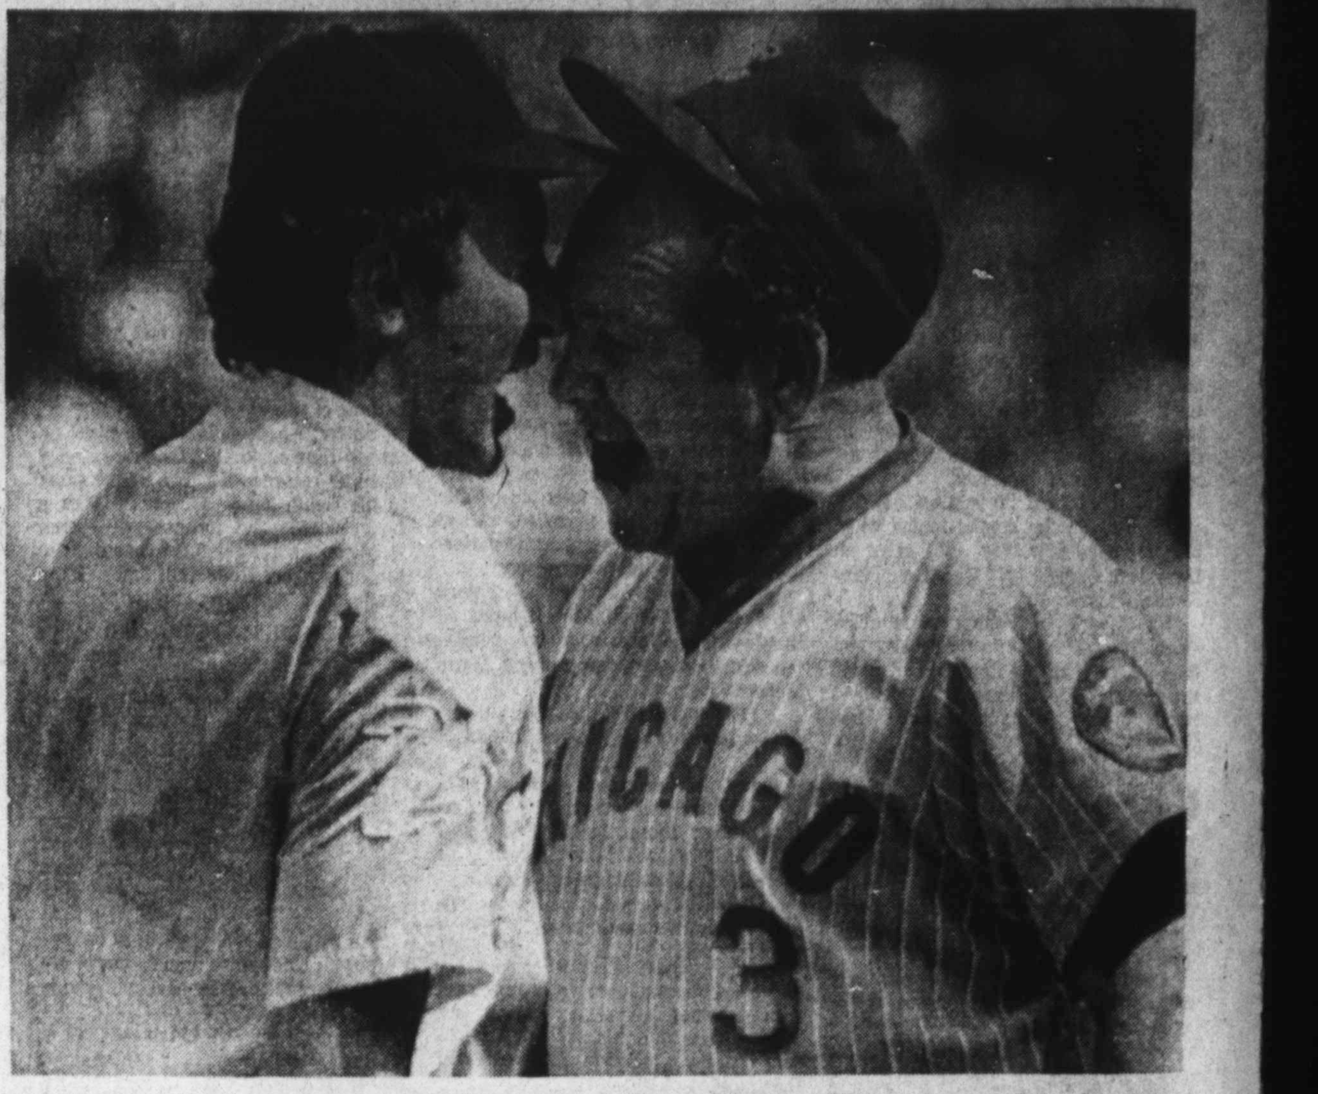
The Area I tournament will be hosted by Northwest Little League (Hodges Park on University Avenue) today and Tuesday. Northwest and Northeast all-starsvie at 5:30 p.m., and at 7:30, Midwest All-Stars meet Eastern All-Stars.

The Area II tournament will be hosted by Southern Little League, with the first game, between Western and Dixie all-stars, to begin at 5:30 p.m. The second game, matching Southern and the Northern all-star teams, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Shallowater will host the Area III tournament, O'Donnell playing the host team at 5:30 p.m., with the 7:30 game sending Crosbyton against Wolfforth.

Consolation games for all three tournaments will begin at 5:30 Tuesday, with the finals slated for 7:30 the same night.

Tahoka will host the three-day Area IV tournament. Tahoka will receive a bye today, while Slaton meets at 5:30 p.m. and Cooper meets North Lynn two hours later. Tahoka gets into action Tuesday. Both the consolation game and the final game will be played Wednesday, at 5:30 and 7:30, respectively.



AND SO'S YOUR OLD MAN — Umpire Dave Pallone gets his nose into the forehead of Chicago Cubs manager Herman Franks as they bump in the eighth inning of Sunday's game at Cincinnati. Franks was challenging Pallone's called third strike on a Cubs batter. The heated argument on a hot afternoon led to several bumps and an early exit for Franks. Cincinnati won the National League contest 7-1. Story of the game, Page 2, Sec. D. (AP Laserphoto)

KC Snaps Losing Streak

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Darrell Porter slammed down his catcher's mitt in mock anger and spat: "It just isn't fair. We finally get hot and they make us take three days off."

The starting catcher for the American League All-Stars then broke into a wide grin and said, "It sure feels good to laugh again."

With Paul Splittorff pitching a five-hitter and Porter driving across the winning run, the Kansas City Royals squeaked past the Texas Rangers 4-3 Sunday; snapping a seven-game losing streak with only their second victory in 15 games.

Texas left fielder Billy Sample misplayed Todd Cruz's long drive in the fifth inning, the ball sailing over his head, allowing two runs to score. The Royals added two more runs in the sixth on George Scott's RBI double and Porter's game-winning single, then held on for what everybody in the Kansas City clubhouse agreed was their sweetest victory of the year.

"It had to happen," said Splittorff. "It amazes me we had gone as far as we had. Every day it went on and became more unbelievable. It was mind-boggling."

Despite the entry in the "win" column, there was no doubt in anyone's mind that if Sample had not misplayed Cruz' two-out shot, the Rangers would have gone into the All-Star break wtih a 3-2 victory.

"It was right at me," said Sample. "I just misjudged it. I said, 'Oh no,' when I saw I couldn't get to the ball."

Grinned Porter: "I thought he played it perfectly."

The double by Cruz, a light-hitting rookie shortstop, scored John Wathan and Willie Wilson, who had hit two-out singles. That tied the score 2-2.

Splittorff hiked his record to 10-8, John Henry Johnson, 4-10, took the loss. Bump Wills and Buddy Bell hit consecutive home runs for the Rangers in the third and Jim Sundberg added a solo shot in the eighth.

Texas' three home runs boosted the total given up this year by Kansas City pitchers to 105, tops in the major leagues. It also extended the number of consecutive games in which the Royals have yielded at least one home run to 18.

Wills' homer in the second was an inside-the-park shot. With two out, he slammed a line drive into left field that Wilson leaped for but could not get. The ball bounced hard off of the wall and rolled halfway to the infield.

But there was nothing cheap about Bell's blast, which carried an estimated 440 feet over the left field fence.

Amos Otis drew a one-out walk ahead of Scott's double in the sixth and scored Kansas City's third run. Scott went to third on a single by Al Cowens and scored on Porter's single.

Dibbs, Heat Overcome Solomon

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Dibbs and the heat defeated Harold Solomon 7-6, 6-1 Sunday in the $300,000 Forest Hills Invitational.

Dibbs, who had lost to Solomon in the first match of the round-robin competition, turned the tables and earned his biggest single paycheck ever in a tournament — $100,000.

But Solomon suffered cramps through the right side of his body and loss of breath, though, apparently the result of the wilting, humid heat here. His four previous matches here had all been in the evening, after the heat had subsided.

Play was delayed very briefly at a changeover in the second set, and a trainer and doctor consulted with him on court. But he continued to play.

"There was never a thought of stopping the match, not a $140,000 match," said Cohen. Solomon's runner-up share was $40,000.

But Solomon said later it had occurred to him to stop — when both feet cramped and he felt as though he would collapse. That feeling cleared, but he said he never was able to catch his breath.

"If feels like someone's standing on your chest and you just can't get any air," he said.

Cohen said he was shocked that it had happened, especially in view of Solomon's current condition. He said his charge is in the best shape he's ever been in. "He took all the things you're supposed to in anticipation of this sort of thing," Cohen said. Solomon had taken salts and minerals before the match.

Apparently the first sign of trouble was cramping in his right hand when Solomon led 6-5, 30-0 in the first set. "He couldn't release it," Cohen said. Then the cramping spread to his right foot and leg and his stomach.

Dibbs said he hadn't been aware that his old friend and rival was suffering until the first-set tiebreaker.

"I was tired, too," Dibbs said. "It's hot as hell out there. I just got a second wind."

Dibbs' prize is nearly double what he had earned all year. Last year, though, he was the leading money-winner on the Grand Prix tour and totaled more than $500,000 in tournament winnings, plus a $300,000 bonus for being the leader. Many had expected that it would be a long, drawn-out duel at the baseline, but the match lasted just 1 hour 39 minutes. Solomon said he lost six pounds in that spell.

It was a contest for about 12 games, but with the tiebreaker, the rout began.

Cards Hand Astros Ninth Defeat In Ten Games

By The Associated Press

John Fulgham limited Houston to five hits Sunday and Mike Phillips singled home St. Louis' decisive run as the Cardinals won 3-1 to hand the Astros their eighth loss in the last nine games.

With the loss and a victory by Cincinnati, the Astros take a 5½-game lead sover the Reds into the the all-star break. Fulgham, 3-2, lost his shutout in the ninth inning when Jose Cruz hit his sixth home run of the season.

St. Louis took a 1-0 lead off J.R. Richard, 6-10, in the second inning when Ken Hernandez walked, took third on Dane Iorg's single and scored on Terry Kennedy's grounder.

Ken Oberkfell doubled and Phillips singled to make it 2-0 in the seventh and Richard gave up the Cards' final run in the eighth when Hernandez doubled home Jerry Mumphrey, who had walked.

Fulgham faced his toughest jam in the sixth inning when Richard and Terry Puhl singled with nobody out. Fulgham struck out Craig Reynolds and retired Cesar Cedeno on a grounder to the mound. Jose Cruz walked intentionally to load the bases, but Fulgham forced Enos Cabell to line to Hernandez at first base to end the threat.

Despite the loss, Houston went over the million mark in attendance at the Astrodome this season.

EXPOS 3, PADRES 0

Ellis Valentine's two-run homer and Andre Dawson's two solo shots backed the combined five-hit pitching of Scott Sanderson and Elias Sosa as the Montreal Expos defeated San Diego.

The Expos snapped a scoreless duel in the fourth inning when Gary Carter singled off John D'Acquisto, 6-6, with two away and Valentine followed with a towering homer over the center field fence, his 12th of the season.

Dawson hit his first homer of the game off D'Acquisto, in the sixth inning and his second — and 16th of the year — off Rollie Fingers in the eighth.

Sanderson, 6-5, was breezing along with a four-hit, eight-strikeout performance until fouling a pitch off his right index finger while attempting to bunt in the fifth inning. He was immediately removed for a pinch hitter and Sosa took over in the sixth inning.

ORIOLES 6, MARINERS 1

Ken Singleton drove in three runs with a double and a two-run homer, his 21st of the year, and Dennis Martinez threw a four-hitter to give the Baltimore Orioles a 6-1 victory over Seattle.

Martinez, 12-6, gave up a double to Bruce Bochte in the first inning and a single to Joe Simpson in the second. He retired the Mariners in order until Willie Horton tripled off the right-field wall in the seventh. Dan Meyer sacrificed Horton home for the only Mariner run.

Baltimore took a 2-0 lead in the third on Singleton's double that scored Al Bumbry. Eddie Murray drove in Singleton with a single past a diving Mario Mendoza at short.

Singleton homered to right in the fifth with Kiko Garcia aboard, making it 4-0.

The Orioles scored twice in the sixth on a sacrifice fly by Rich Dauer and relief pitcher Byron McLaughlin's wild pitch that allowed Terry Crowley to score from third. Mariners starter Rick Honeycutt, 6-6, lasted 4 2/3 innings, giving up seven hits and four runs.

REDS 7, CUBS 1

Dave Concepcion drove in four runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly and Tom Seaver won his seventh straight game as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-1.

The Reds got three runs off Rick Reuschel, 8-6, in the first inning on a single by Harry Spilman and a two-run double by Ray Knight.

Ken Griffey walked and Junior Kennedy was safe on an error in the fourth before Concepcion hit his ninth homer of the season. The Reds scored again in the sixth when Concepcion drove in Griffey with a sacrifice fly.

Ironically, Concepcion had asked to be taken off the National League's reserve roster for Tuesday's All-Star Game because of a leg injury.

Seaver, 9-5, took over sixth place on the all time major league strikeout list when he recorded his sixth of the game in the eighth inning. He passed Mickey Lolich's 2,828 and finished with seven strikeouts for the game to give him 2,830 for his career. Doug Bair pitched the ninth.

PHILLIES 10, DODGERS 3

Bob Boone and Del Unser drove home two runs apiece in an eight-run third inning that carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 10-3 victory over the staggering Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Phils, handing the Dodgers their fifth straight loss and 10th setback in the last 12 games, put the game away early with the eight runs on on four hits, four walks, a sacrifice and a throwing error by Jerry Reuss, pitching in relief Bob Welch, 1-2.

Randy Lerch, 5-8, pitched six innings of four-hit ball before running out of gas in the near-100-degree heat and giving way to Rawly Eastwick.

The only run off Lerch was Steve Yeager's eighth homer of the year, in the fifth inning. Steve Garvey hit his 14th homer, a two-run shot off Eastwick in the ninth.

Lerch opened the Phillies third with single. Walks to Bake McBride and Larry Bowa loaded the bases. Pete Rose also walked, forcing in Lerch.

RED SOX 3, A's 2

The Boston Red Sox scored two runs in the ninth inning on only one hit — a leadoff single by Jim Rice — and came from behind to beat Oakland.

The victory came at the expense of A's starter Rick Langford, 5-10, who was victimized by shoddy fielding in the final inning of the A's 20th loss in 23 games.

After Rice's single, Boston's eighth hit, Carl Yastrzemski hit what looked like a double-play grounder to third. But second baseman Mike Edwards was nowhere near second base and both runners were safe.

A's shortstop Dave Chalk then bobbled a grounder by Bob Watson to load the bases and Carlton Fisk drove in the tying run with a grounder that forced Watson at second.

Butch Hobson then hit a ground ball which third baseman Jim Essian fielded cleanly but threw wide of the plate to allow pinch-runner Dwyer to score the winning run.

Boston starter Bob Stanley, 11-6, went the distance, allowing six hits, to get the victory.

TIGERS 14, WHITE SOX 5

All-Star Steve Kemp collected five hits and Lance Parrish had four to pace a 20-hit attack, powering the Detroit Tigers to a 14-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Kemp, who pushed his season RBI total to 66, and Lou Whitaker drove in three runs each and Jason Thompson, Tom Brookens and Parrish all drove in two apiece to give right-hander Jack Morris, 8-5, his fourth triumph in his last five decisions.

Detroit built an 8-1 lead after five innings before erupting for six more runs against four Chicago pitchers in the sixth. The Tigers sent 11 batters to the plate during the uprising with Kemp opening the inning with a single and capping the scoring with an RBI single.

PIRATES 7, BRAVES 3

Right-hander Jim Bibby yielded only two hits in 6 1/3 innings,and Willie Stargell and Bill Robinson hit consecutive home runs in the sixth inning to lead Pittsburgh to a 7-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Bibby, 5-2, gave up both his hits and one of his four walks in a shaky first inning in which the Braves took a 1-0 lead. Only in the fourth did he allow another Brave to reach second base. He was relieved by Grant Jackson in the seventh, who yielded to Enrique Romo later in the inning. Romo picked up his third save.

BREWERS 10, INDIANS 4

Triples by Sal Bando and Robin Yount, and doubles by Buck Martinez and Ben Oglivie highlighted a seven-run second inning, powering the Milwaukee Brewers to a 10-4 victory over Cleveland.

Bando's triple in the second inning scored Oglivie and Sixto Lezcano, giving Milwaukee a 2-0 lead. Yount followed with his triple, scoring Bando.

Martinez doubled home Yount and chased Indians starter Len Barker, 1-3.

Jim Gantner drilled reliever Mike Paxton's first pitch for a base hit, sending Martinez to third. Don Money follwed with a sacrifice fly.

One out later, Gorman Thomas singled and Oglivie doubled home two runs, making the score 7-0.

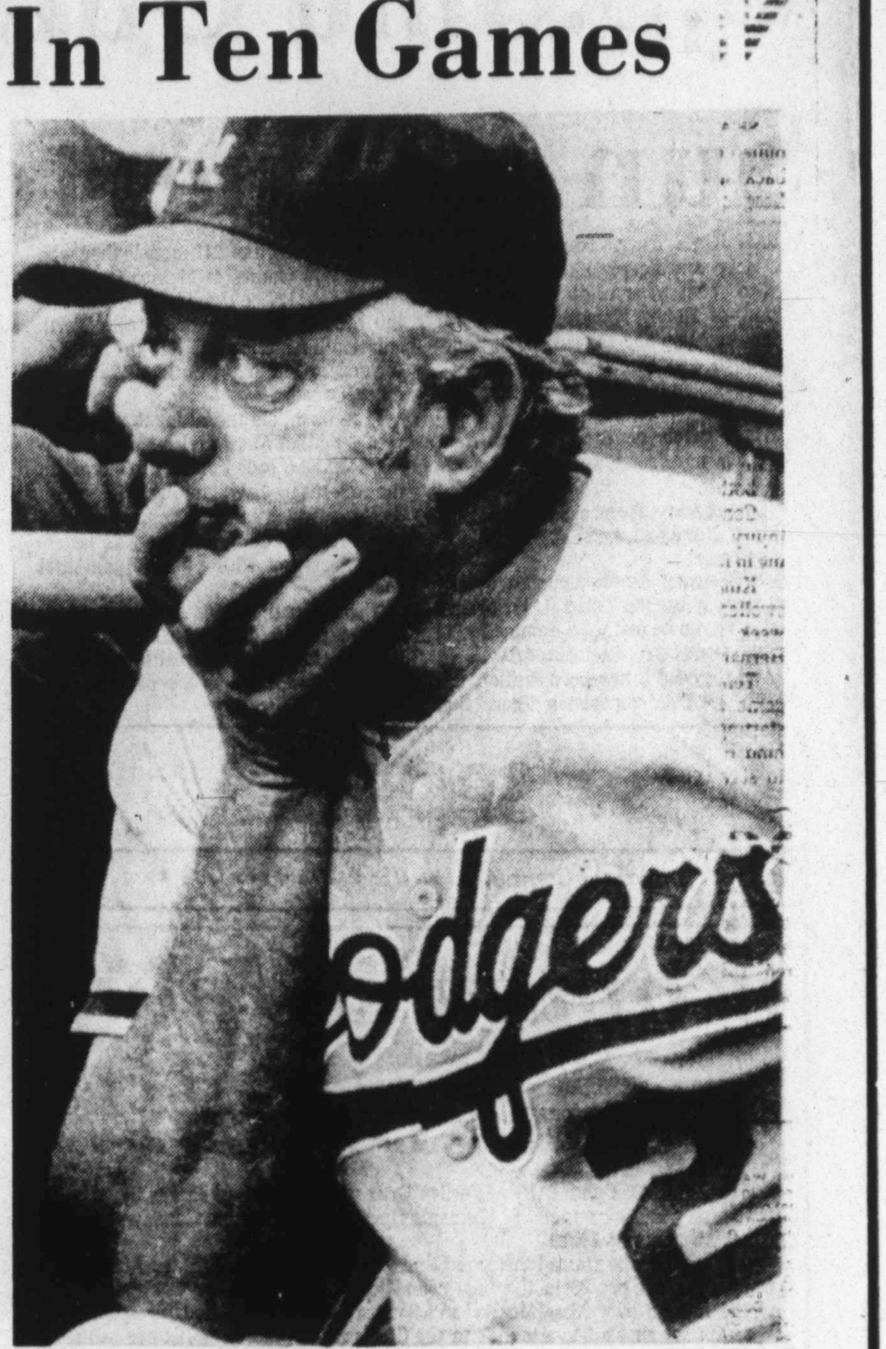
GIANTS 4, METS 0

Mike Ivie drove in two runs with a double and a homer, Marc Hill also homered and three pitchers combined on an eight-hit shutout as San Francisco beat the New York Mets.

Ed Whitson, 3-4, who pitched five innings of three-hit ball, got the victory with help from Phil Nastu and Pedro Borbon, who earned his fourth save.

San Francisco scored an unearned run off Craig Swan, 8-8, in the first inning when Bill North singled, stole second, continued to third on a throwing error by Mets catcher John Stearns and scored on Darrell Evans' sacrifice fly.

Evans walked and Ivie doubled him home in the third and Hill hit his third homer of the year in the sixth. Ivie opened the eighth against reliever Ed Glynn with his 13th homer.



DODGER BLUES — Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda sees little to smile about as his team, defending National League champion, falls to the Philadelphia Phillies 10-3 Sunday for their tenth loss in 12 games. (AP Laserphoto)

ANGELS 5, YANKEES 4

Bobby Grich drove in all five runs, including a winning two-run, two-out homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, to power the California Angels' victory over the New York Yankees.

Grich singled home Jim Anderson in the third and doubled to drive in Anderson and Rick Miller in the seventh inning.

In the ninth, loser Ron Guidry, 6-7, walked Tom Donohue. It was only the second batter Guidry had walked in the game. With two down, Grich blasted a pitch over the right-field wall, giving the Angels their come-from-behind victory.

The Yankees had jumped out to a 4-0 lead with two-run homers by Chris Chambliss in the first inning and Jim Spencer in the second. Both came off starter Dave Frost.

TWINS 9, BLUE JAYS 4

Dave Edwards hit his first career grand slam and John Castino added a three-run double to power the Minnesota Twins to a 9-4 victory over Toronto.

Minnesota's Butch Wynegar added a solo home run, his sixth of the year, leading off the seventh inning.

Losing pitcher Jim Clancy, 2-6, appeared to lose his rhythm after a 43-minute rain delay in the second inning. In the next inning, Glenn Adams singled and Wynegar walked. After Mike Cubbage grounded out, Clancy walked Ron Jackson to load the bases.

Edwards blasted Clancy's second pitch over the 375-foot sign in left-center field for his sixth home run of the year.

Castino slammed his three-run double in the fifth inning off reliever Balor Moore.

Longshot Cops Kid Handicap

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (Special) — Going into Sunday's Billy The Kid Handicap at Ruidoso Downs, Rushing Silver packed a seasonal record of no wins, no seconds and one third.

That wasn's enough to turn the heads of patrons who were on hand for the seven-furlong chase and a gross purse of $11,300. So Rushing Silver got away at 39-1. That was the biggest price on the board.

With about 100 feet to go, Rushing Silver was still pretty well out of the picture. But jockey Carlos Rivas stepped on the gas and put the whip to Silver's flanks. The 4-yeqr-old gelding responded with a remarkable stretch assault and pounded to a half-length win.

Double B Express delivered his best shot on the rail, but he didn't quite pack enough punch to overtake the high-flying Silver and finished second. Lawton Princess came in third.

Rushing Silver returned $80.40, $21.20, and $7.80 and earned a victory slice of $6,780. That more than doubled Silver's 1979 earnings.

Nationals Lose Quartet

SEATTLE (AP) — Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench pulled out of Baseball's 50th All-Star game, complaining of back spasms and raising to four the number of National League players who have been replaced for Tuesday night's meeting with the American League in the Seattle Kingdome.

Earlier, Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion, Chicago slugger Dave Kingman and St.Louis shortstop Garry Templeton were replaced on the NL roster.

Bench, selected as a reserve by NL manager Tom Lasorda, figured to be the starting catcher with Ted Simmons of St. Louis, the elected starter, sidelined by a broken wrist. Lasorda chose New York Mets catcher John Stearns on the NL squad and probably will hand starting duties behind the plate to Philadelphia's Bob Boone or Montreal's Gary Carter, both selected as backups earlier.

Concepcion pulled out of the game complaining of a leg injury. But he was able to play for Cincinnati Sunday, driving in four runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly.

Kingman was forced to withdraw because of a badly swollen elbow, suffered when he was hit by a pitch last week. Lasorda replaced the slugging outfielder with Keith Hernandez of St. Louis, a first baseman.

Templeton announced that he would not come to the game as a reserve and when he was beaten out for the starting job — he finished fourth in the fan balloting behind Philadelphia's Larry Bowa — he repeated his pledge to stay home. He was replaced by Craig Reynolds of the Houston Astros.

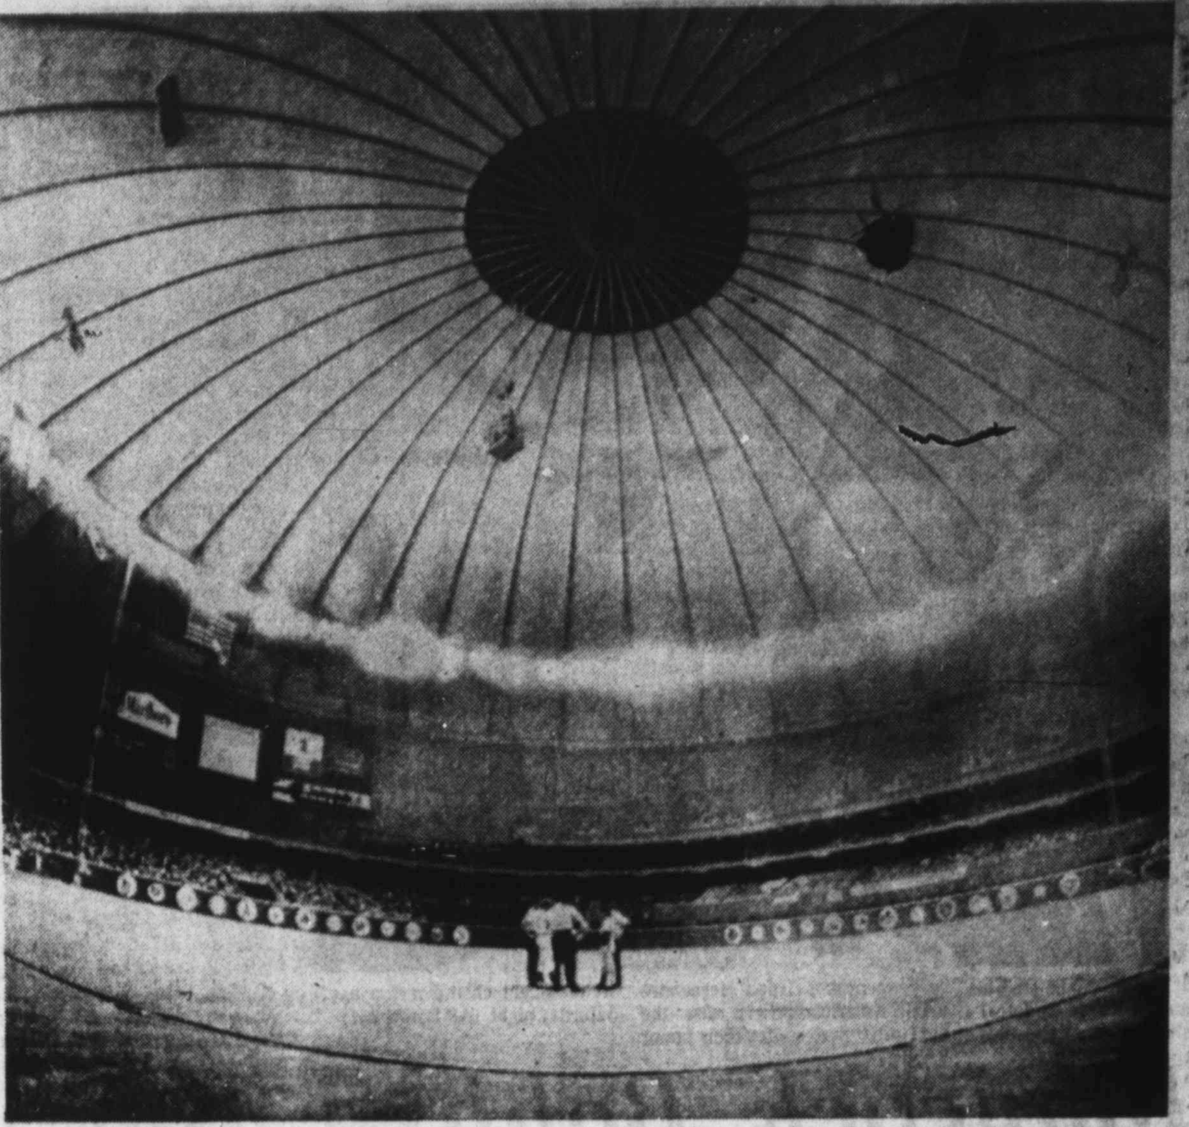
Meanwhile, preparations continued for baseball's big midseason extravaganza. It was announced that former President Gerald R. Ford would attend the game — his third appearwnce in the past four years at the All-Star contest. Danny Kaye, part owner of the host Seattle Mariners, will throw out the first ball and 15-year-ols Broadway star Andrea McArdle will sing the Canadian and American national anthems.

Speculation continued to center over the cozy dimensions of the Kingdome, which could lead to a flurry of homers by the assembled sluggers. The two-year old dome measures 316 feet down the foul lines and 410 at its deepest point in center field.

The All-Star home run record for a single game is six, set in Detroit in 1951 and then matched in Cleveland in 1954 and again Detroit in 1971. That last home run carnival was also the last game won in this series by the American Leahgue, which has dropped seven straight and trails 30-18-1.

All-Star left-hander Tommy John of the New York Yankees pitched in the Dome Wednesday night and was knocked out in the first inning, allowing seven runs in a 16-1 Mariners romp. The ex-National Leaguer was suitably impressed.

"Can you imagine what Dave Parker is going to do in this park?" he mused afterwards.



FIT FOR A KING — Workmen are dwarfed by Seattle's gigantic Kingdome, site of Tuesday night's Baseball All-Star game. The workmen were inspecting — by long distance — the speakers suspended from the roof of the stadium. Three batters have hit the speakers this season. (AP Laserphoto)

Schmidt Likes Short Fences

SEATTLE (AP) — Leading home run hitter for the National League All-Star team, Mike Schmidt, and leading hitter Fred Lynn of the American League team should be waiting with baited bat for Tuesday night's 50thAll Star game in the Kingdome.

Seattle's domed stadium is the current home run heaven of baseball, vying with Yankee Stadium for the smallest field dimensions of any site in the last four years. Some 106 home runs already have been clubbed this year in the Kingdome.

The only challenger is Fenway Park in Boston with 98 home runs, whiie Comiskey Park has had only 52.

In the Kingdome it is 316 feet to the foul lines and a mere 356 feet to the power alleys. In Yankee Stadium it is 312 feet to the leftfield line; 430 feet to the leftfield power alley; 310 feet to the rightfield line; 353 feet to the rightfield power alley.

As Bobby Valentine, utility man for host Seattle Mariners, says: "I don't know where you're going to be on practice day for the All-Star Game, but I'm going to be in the Kingdome. That should be quite a sight."

As of Sunday, for the National League team, Schmidt of Philadelphia leads with 31 home runs, followed by Dave Kingman, Chicago, with 29; Dave Winfield, San Diego, 22; and George Foster, Cincinnati, 20.

For the American League team, Lynn of Boston leads with 24 home runs, followed by Jim Rice of Boston and Don Baylor of California, each with 21; and Reggie Jackson, New York, 16.

Although no homers were hit in last year's All Star game in San Diego, 108 have been hit in 49 previous engagements.

Perhaps the most famous was the uncommon blast of Boston's Ted Williams off the "blooper ball" of Pittsburgh's Rip Sewell at Fenway Park in 1946. The Splendid Splinter also broke up the 1941 confrontation with a two-out, three-run blast in the ninth inning against the Cubs' Claude Passeau.

Starz Drop Salta Bulls 4-2

The Lubbock Starz tallied 4 times in the sixth inning and held on to down the Abilene Salta Bulls 4-2 Sunday in the feature game of the West Region Texas NBC Baseball Tournament.

The Starz now advance to Friday's matchup with the Lubbock Hubbers as one of only two unbeaten teams in the tournament.

Freddie Longoria scattered six hits, struck out eight and walked four to pick up the victory for the Starz.

Down 1-0 entering the sixth, Larry Green's third hit of the game sent home 2 runs, Daniel Austin singled in a third and Mike Gayler drove in a fouth.

Abilene got two runners aboard in two innings, including the ninth when it opened with a walk and bad-hop single, only to see Longoria strike out the next two batters and get a game-ending grounder to short.

The Bulls will play the Abilene Americans Friday at 6:30 p.m. in an elimination game.

The Abilene Americians pounded the San Angelo Lions 12-6 and the Lubbock Raiders blitzed the Lubbock Cardinals 14-0 in elimination games early Sunday, Steve Dennis hurled a one-hitter for the Raiders, striking out five and walking three. The only hit was a leadoff single in the third by losing pitcher Nathan Swindle.

Chuck Johnson had a pair of triples and drove in 2 runs, and Benny Jaime had a double and triple and 2 RBIs, and Marvin Simpson a 2-run triple for the victors.

Abilene American reliever Larry Martindale went the final 6 1/3 innings, allowing only three hits, striking out five and walking four. Ken McLeod had three hits and drove in 3 runs, plus Barry Russell went 4-for-5 for the victors.

Six-Man Coaching School Opens

STEPHENVILLE (Special) — Twice as many participants as last year are expected to attend the second annual Texas Six-Man Coaches Association Clinic and All-Star Games here this week.

The all-star football and basketball games are slated Friday, but several events, ranging from a golf tournament to a fashion show, are planned the days before the games.

The Stephenville Chamber of Commerce has all gears in motion as it prepares to host more than 200 coaches and their families, plus the 62 all-star athletes from Class B-schools who will be participating in the all-star games.

Players registering Sunday afternoon were treated to a barbeque supper.However, hard part of the week — namely practice sessions — begins today andcontinues throughout the week.

Coaches will registered Wednesday for the coaching clinic proper, and an official welcome from Mayor Don Jones is scheduled for 1 p.m. that day.

A golf tournament for the coaches will take place Wednesday afternoon, and a hamburger buffet and domino tournament for the coaches and wives is scheduled that night, along with a variety of activities for the players at the Tarleton State University Student Center.

A full schedule of clinics is slated for the coaches Thursday and Friday, with all-star workouts scheduled each day.

On Saturday the all-stars games are scheduled, the basketball game set for 4 p.m. and the football contest at 8 p.m. Both games are to be played at Tarleton.

Chamber of Commerce manager Gerald Cook is hoping the clinic will become one of the largest of its type in the nation.

"We've really gone all out to see that we attract a large number of coaches to the clinic this year," Cook said.

All players will receive all-star T-shirt and rings. Trophies will be presented to those named all-tournament in the basketball game, as well as those selected most valuable player in both games, and outstanding defensive and offensive players in football.

Tickets bought at the game will be $3 for adults, and $1.50 for children under 12. Adult tickets can be purchased in advance by writing the Chamber of Commerce, 153 E. Washington Street, Stephenville. Presale ticket price is $2.50 for adults.

Johncock, Bobby Unser Post CART Victories

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Gordon Johncock surprised himself with a victory Sunday in the first half of the CART Twin 125-mile races for Indy cars at Michigan International Speedway, while Bobby Unser used a new engine to cruise to victory in the second race.

Unser, the pole-sitter for the initial event, blew an engine early in the race. His crew installed a new powerplant between races and he was never seriously challenged in the nightcap.

"I just took the advantages when the time came," Unser said.

He led the final 36 of the race's 63 laps. Rick Mears, this year's Indy 500 winner, finished fifth. He dropped to fifth for passing a car under the yellow flag.

In the opening event, Johncock said he was unaware of his victory until he pulled into his pits after taking the checkered flag.

"I don't even know when I took the lead," Johncock said.

In the race, Bobby and brother Al Unser who both started in the first row, duelled in the early laps in their new ground-effect cars before Bobby blew his engine on Lap 21.

Al Unser took over the lead but his crew miscalculated their fuel mileage and the three-time Indy 500 winner ran out of gasoline on Lap 46, leaving first place to the unknowing Johncock. Average speed of the race was 170.976 mph.

It was Johncock's 20th career championship car victory and second of this season. He won the opening CART event this year at Phoenix, Ariz.

For Bobby Unser, the victory was his third of the year after taking a pair of races last month at Trenton, N.J. Bobby, who averaged 155.342 mph, notched his 25th Indy car career triumph with the win.

It was a particularly difficult day for Danny Ongais. He spun into the wall in the first race and although his car was running, race officials refused to allow it back on the track because of a bent wing.

In the second race, Ongais, battling for second place, crashed into the wall again, forcing Johnny Rutherford off the track as well when he hit some of Ongais' debris.

In the first race, Mike Mosley finished second behind Johncock, Johnny Rutherford was third, followed by Mears and Wally Dallenbach.

In the second race, Tom Sneva was second behind Unser, Al Unser was third, Johncock fourth and Mears was fifth.

Waltrip Eyes Record For Race Winnings

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Less than an hour after pocketing $14,000 in first-place money for having won Saturday night's Busch Nashville 420, stock car driver Darrell Waltrip said he hoped to go on to bigger things — like a single-season earnings record of $750,000.

Waltrip, 32, the hometown favorite from suburban Franklin, snared his fifth race of the Grand National season on the ⅝-mile Nashville International Speedway, winning by a lap and two seconds over Cale Yarborough, the Timmonsville, S.C., driver who had won the last three NASCAR races run on the Nashville track.

With 18 of 31 Grand National races run thus far this season, Waltrip is the circuit's leading points and money winner. His weekend's work lifted him 203 points above second-place Bobby Allison in the points chase for driver-of-the-year, and boosted his earnings to an unofficial $325,000.

"I'd like to be the first driver to win $750,000 in a year," Waltrip told reporters during a post-race news conference. "And I think I will if I can keep winning at this pace."

Waltrip now is the winningest driver on the 1979 circuit, one contest up on Allison who has captured four first-place finishes.

If Waltrip does make his prize money objective, it would be a record broken at Yarborough's expense. Yarborough became the first NASCAR driver ever to top the half-million dollar mark with winnings of $530,751 last year, a new single-season record.

Waltrip, who began the race from the pole position, led for all but five laps of the 250-mile event. A broken valve during the last 20 laps, however, gave him some anxious moments.

"I heard the valve go — I heard it on the pipes," Waltrip said. "I was heartbroken. The car was missing, it was firing on seven cylinders, but it was still going. The gauges were okay. Nobody was catching me so I kept going. Luckily, so did the car."

Despite the engine problems, Yarborough, like Waltrip, driving a Chevrolet Monte Carlo, was able to make up only one second on the leader during the final 20 laps.

"Darrell could outrun me down the straights, I just couldn't stay with him," Yarborough said after the race.

Waltrip's winning speed was 92.227 mph.

In the battle for third, Dale Earnhardt from Kannapolis, N.C., took the flag ahead of Benny Parsons from Ellerbe, N.C.

Caution flags went out three times during the 420-lap race, twice when drivers blew engines and a third time when Baxter Price spun out on the fourth turn and had to be towed off the track. There were no serious accidents.

Total prize money in the Busch Nashville 420 was $82,255.

The unofficial order of finish in Saturday night's $82,255 Busch Nashville 420 Grand National stock car race, with type of car, laps completed and winners' average speed.

1. Darrell Waltrip, Chevrolet, 420, 92.227 mph; 2. Cale Yarborough, Chevrolet, 419; 3. Dale Earnhardt, Chevrolet, 417; 4. Benny Parsons, Chevrolet, 417.

5. Richard Petty, Chevrolet, 406; 6. James Hylton, Chevrolet, 405; 7. Richard Childress, Chevrolet, 405; 8. J.D. McDuffie, Chevrolet, 404.

9. Ronnie Thomas, Chevrolet, 396; 10. Jimmy Means, Chevrolet, 394; 11. Cecil Gordon, Oldsmobile, 391; 12. Wayne Watercutter, Chevrolet, 390.

13. Roger Hamby, Oldsmobile, 380; 14. Frank Warren, Dodge, 377; 15. Sterling Marlin, Chevrolet, 341; 16. Bobby Allison, Ford, 340.

17. Buddy Arrington, Dodge, 272; 18. Baxter Price, Chevrolet, 250; 19. Dick Brooks, Chevrolet, 155; 20. Steve Spencer, Chevrolet, 151.

21. Joe Millikan, Chevrolet, 150; 22. Harry Gant, Chevrolet, 142; 23. D.K. Ulrich, Chevrolet, 114; 24. Ralph Jones, Ford, 92.

25. Terry Labonte, Chevrolet, 40; 26. Henry Jones, Chevrolet, 19; 27. Nelson Oswald, Chevrolet, 6; 28. Tommy Gale, Ford, 5; 29. Gerald Satterfield, Chevrolet, 3; 30. Jimmy Hindman, Ford, 2.

U.S. Boxers Pleased With Pan Am Showing

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The United States won most of the biggest boxing battles and finally lost the gold medal war to the Cubans, but don't think that cooled their optimism for the 1980 OLympics.

Without exception, the U.S. fighters and coaches looked to their 6-4 margin in head-to-head matches with Cubans at the Pan American Games rather than the island country's final 5-4 victory in gold medals as the key figure.

"We might get all 11 golds at Moscow," exulted Lemuel Steeples of St. Louis, who outpointed Hugo Hernandez of Argentina for Saturday night's gold medal in the junior welterweight division.

"I think we'll do better in 1980 than in 1976," echoed bantamweight winner Jackie Beard of Jackson, Tenn. "We'll try to take all the gold medals."

Beard, who beat Luiz Pizarro of Puerto Rico, was referring to the five golds won at Montreal by such current world-class professionals as Leon Spinks, Sugar Ray Leonard and Howard Davis.

Other American winners here were light-heavyweight Tony Tucker of Grand Rapids, Mich., who outpointed Dennis Jackson of Puerto Rico, and Bernard Taylor of Charlotte, N.C., who captured the featherweight gold against Naudi Pinero of Venezuela.

The United States took a 6-3 lead in their battles with the Cubans into the finals, but junior flyweight Richard Sandoval lost a disputed decision to Hector Ramirez of Cuba to cut the final margin.

After the decision was announced, the crowd chanted, "Pillo, Pillo," which means "robber" in Spanish.

"My strategy was to go from side-to-side and then get him with right leads," said the 18-year-old from Pomona, Calif. "He hit me in the neck, but it was never a solid blow. He never hit me with the white of the glove."

But Sandoval, too, was not discouraged.

"We're coming up. Some of the Cubans are over the hill. They are just like pros now. If they don't stop you fast, they'll probably lose," he said.

Other Cuban gold medalists besides Ramirez were lightweight Adolfo Horta, welterweight Andres Aldama, middleweight Jose Gomez and heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson. All but Horta and Ramirez won by knockouts, and it was the 200th amateur victory against three losses for Stevenson, a two-time Olympic champion.

Pat Nappi, the U.S.head boxing coach, said he was "satisfied" with his team's performance.

"I always thought we could beat Cuba head-to-head, if we had time to work," he said. "At the time they beat us 8-2 (last February), we didn't have time.

"In 1980, everything should come together."

Cowboys Drop 12 Free Agents

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Twelve free agent rookies were placed on waivers by the Dallas Cowboys Sunday, shaving the roster to 94, including veterans.

Released were tackle Wayne Campble of Florida A&M, linebacker Kelton Dansler of Ohio State, defensive back Doug Dillon of Jackston State, wide receiver Leo Gray of Nevada-Las Vegas, center Steve Kleffner of Oregon, offensive lineman Rimas Kozica of Northern Illinois and defensive back Richard Massey of Howard University.

Also released were defensive lineman Dell Oliver of Tulsa, defensive lineman Ken Reese of South Carolina, defensive tackle Norman Robinson of Maryland-Eastern Shore, linebacker Paul Ross of Ohio State and defensive back Randy Simmons of Washington State.

Veteran quarterbacks, receivers, running backs and centers worked out briefly Sunday morning. The full veteran squad begins practice today.

Pinner Captures Swiss Net Title

GSTAAD, Switzerland (AP) — Uli Pinner of West Germany scored his first Grand Prix victory of the year when he won the $75,000 Swiss Open Tennis Championship Sunday.

Pinner, the No. 3 seed, needed only 90 minutes to trounce his Australian opponent, Peter McNamara, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5, and win $12,500. McNamara earned $6,250.

The Associated Press Chronicles the Life and Times of John Wayne

Tom Dunson... Rooster Cogburn... J.B. Books... Sgt. John M. Stryker... Ringo Kid... Sean Thornton.... All the characters we have learned to know and to love... all the characters in John Wayne movies.

John Wayne, half-myth, half movie star. John Wayne, a name that seems synonymous with American movies themselves. It's not a movie "with" John Wayne, or even "starring" John Wayne. It is, simply, "a John Wayne movie." The image is immediate and clear.

"JOHN WAYNE: A TRIBUTE" chronicles the life and times of the rugged, two-fisted hero of some 150 movies—and the personal challenges in his life—his three marriages, lung cancer, open heart surgery, political debates, stomach cancer....

With some 250 photographs, "JOHN WAYNE: A TRIBUTE" puts it all together in a memento worthy of its protagonist.

Santa Fe Opera Stages 'Magic Flute' Saturday

SANTA FE, N.M. (Special) — The Santa Fe Opera will present its new production of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "The Magic Flute" here beginning Saturday.

"The Magic Flute" (Die Zauberflote) was first performed in Vienna on Sept. 30, 1791, two months before Mozart's death. Emanuel Schikaneder, the librettist and a fellow Mason of Mozart's, chose the story from a volume of Oriental tales. In keeping with this, the Santa Fe Opera's new production of "The Magic Flute" is designed on the theme of a Persian fairy tale. The sources used by designer Sam Kirkpatrick are from the collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the private library of the stage director, Peter Mood. The conductor is Raymond Leppard, who returns to Santa Fe after a season's absence.

The cast includes many former apprentice artists with the Santa Fe Opera. Tenor David Kuebler, a former apprentice, makes his debut with the company as Tamino. Kuebler has sung in Europe with the Vienna Staatsoper and the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, before returning to America.

Soprano Sharon Bennett, who has sung with the Hamburg and Seattle operas, debuts as Queen of the Night. Papageno and Papagena are to be sung by former apprentice artists baritone Stephen Dickson and soprano Sunny Joy Langton. Dickson has also appeared at Santa Fe as Emilio in "The Italian Straw Hat" and as Guglielmo in "Cosi Fan Tutte" (1977). Miss Langton, following performances with the Houston Grand Opera and the Glyndebourne Festival, is also seen this season in "La Grande Duchesse de Gerolstein."

The role of Pamina will be shared by sopranos Isobel Buchanan and Ellen Shade. Miss Buchanan (July 21, 25, 27; Aug. 2, 10) makes her American debut with the Santa Fe Opera after performances with the Glyndebourne Festival and the Australian Opera. Miss Shade (Aug. 15, 18, 21, 24), another former apprentice artist, returns to Santa Fe after performances with La Scala and the Metropolitan Opera.

Tenor Ragnar Ulfung will again portray Monastatos, bass Gwynne Howell sings Sarastro, and former apprentice artist, bass-baritone Julien Robbins, who has appeared with the Lyric Opera of Chicago and the Opera Company of Philadelphia, makes his debut as the First Speaker.

"The Magic Flute," last performed in Santa Fe in 1974, is sung in English. The performance dates are July 21, 25, 27; Aug. 2, 10, 15, 18, 21, 24.

Kucinich, Banks Played 'Chicken,' Report Says

CLEVELAND (AP) — A congressional staff report on Cleveland's $14 million default says bankers refused to bail out the city for other than financial reasons, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said Saturday.

"The banks and the mayor were involved in a game of 'chicken,'" the study for a subcommittee of the House Banking Committee reportedly said. "If this were the game, obviously the mayor did not squirm."

Meanwhile, the chairman of the subcommittee investigating Cleveland's default says the case is now closed, the newspaper said.

Rep. Fernand J. St. Germain, D-R.I., said only some startling new development would cause the subcommittee to reopen hearings or probe deeper into the situation, the story said.

Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich has accused the city's largest bank, Cleveland Trust Co., which holds $5 million of the defaulted notes, of forcing the city into default in a grab for power. M. Brock Weir, Cleveland Trust chairman, has denied the charge and has attacked the city as a delinquent debtor.

John A. Gelbach, head of Central National Bank, which holds $3 million in defaulted notes, said when told of the report, "I just don't believe it. This is beyond my wildest imagination. I am dumbfounded. I just don't understand it. I don't know what to make of it."

The Plain Dealer said the 395-page report, which emphasizes its findings and conclusions are speculative, was prepared as background for a hearing last week and was intended to remain confidential. The newspaper said it had obtained a copy.

"At a minimum, it is impossible to conclude that key bankers donned green eye shades, locked themselves into their board rooms and made dispassionate decisions based solely on computer runs," the newspaper quoted the report as saying.

Cleveland plunged into default on Dec. 15, 1978, when it failed to repay $14 million in notes owed six local banks and the banks refused to extend the payment period.

Other banks holding defaulted notes are National City Bank, $4 million; Euclid National Bank, $1 million; Society National Bank, $500,000; and Capital National Bank, $500,000.

"The interlocking relationships of Cleveland Trust Co. and some of the other banks with much of the corporate community and the deep animosities and political cross currents in which some bank officers have become involved suggest the strong possibility that factors other than pure, hardnosed credit judgments entered the picture," the report said.

It added, "Much of the determination of these various factors must await full hearings buttressed by the collection of additional documents, many of which may require subpoenas."

Kucinich claims Cleveland Trust tried to force the city to sell its Municipal Electric Light System to the privately held Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. as a condition for avoiding default. Cleveland Trust has repeatedly denied the allegation.

Suit Follows Sex Change

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A Californian claiming to be "neither male nor female" after an allegedly botched sex change operation is suing the University of Virginia and a surgeon for $1.5 million.

The former patient, identified in the U.S. District Court suit as Selena Jagger, accused the university and Dr. J. William Futrell, chief surgeon in the May 1976 operation, of negligence.

The suit, which was filed last week, said they failed to "exercise that degree of care and skill ordinarily exercised by health care providers."

It contends that as a result of post-operative complications and negligence "the plaintiff now is anatomically and functionally neither male nor female."

The Californian has been "deprived of any sexual function and has been subjected to mental and physical pain, suffering, anxiety, depression and despair," the suit contends.

It said the patient was under university hospital care for 18 months after entering the hospital "for the purpose of undertaking surgical procedures designed to alter the gender of the plaintiff from that of a male to that of a female."

The suit did not give the former name of Miss Jagger or her hometown.

According to the suit, which at one point refers to the plaintiff as "she," additional plastic surgery is required.

'Pretentions — Heart Of Misery'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Anglican Bishop J.S. Habgood of Durham, England, on Sunday told an international congregation of scientists and theologians that "man's God-like pretentions lie at the heart of his misery."

The bishop likened the surge of modern technology and its accompanying benefits and dangers to the biblical description of the tempting Tree of Knowledge of good and evil in the Garden of Eden.

"It is the fascination of unlimited knowledge, God-like knowledge, which is man's glory and his downfall," the bishop said in a worship service at Boston's Old South Church.

"And it is in the resolution of this paradox that salvation lies," he said.

Special guests at the service were the scientists and theologians attending a World Conference on Faith, Science and the Future sponsored by the World Council of Churches at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Bishop Habgood said the symbolic biblical story of the serpent's temptation of original humanity was the "temptation of cleverness," opening "vistas of power and knowledge which could set man beside God himself.

Travelers Serve God

SIBLEY, Ill. (AP) — No sooner had Henry Schaeffer retired than he went to work again — this time for the Lord.

His new job takes a lot of traveling in recreational vehicles, but Schaeffer says he's not concerned about the gasoline shortage.

"If the Lord wants us to continue our work, then he will provide," he says.

Schaeffer, 65, founded the Roving Volunteers in Christ's Service. They are retired craftsmen and their wives who own recreational vehicles and travel the country volunteering their skills in the repair and rebuilding of needy missions and churches.

"My wife and I thought we would spend our golden years playing shuffleboard, fishing and seeing the country in our motorhome," says Schaeffer, who was primarily in the retail food business for 30 years. "Then we began to think that there had to be something more useful and exciting to do with the rest of our lives than drifting aimlessly around."

Schaeffer has a strong religious background. His grandfather and his father were ministers, and other family members were active in mission fields. As he and his wife, Margaret, roamed the country in their motorhome, they saw a need for volunteer workmen.

In the first 18 months of existence, roving volunteers have donated more than 28,000 man-and woman-hours of labor to 18 needy missions and Christian schools in 11 states, Schaeffer says.

Schaeffer is projects co-ordinator of the groups which vary in size from seven couples to 15 couples spending 10 or 11 months of the year on the road.

Schaeffer says he is lining up projects in the State of Washington and eventually will work eastward during the summer and fall then head to the South, winding up on projects in Florida during the winter.

"We pretty much follow the sun," he says. "I'm working on a new idea now called Selected Volunteers in Christ's Service. This will be for volunteers who may or may not have a trailer, motor home, 5th wheel or camper and who are retired single men and women.

"They would drive their cars to volunteer as individuals instead of groups and would be put up by the congregations of the churches while they are working."

The men in the Roving Volunteers have skills of carpentry, electrical work, business machine repair, locksmithing, painting, plumbing and sign painting. The women do typing, clerical work, sewing, kitchen work, cleaning, painting, bulk mailing and library work.

"Through past experience, it has been decided that 69 years of age is the oldest that a couple can be accepted to start with the group, but they can remain as long as they can do the work satisfactorily," says Schaeffer, whose mailing address is 105 Madison Street, Sibley, Ill., where his daughter lives.

"The group usually remains on a project 30 days and then moves on to another one. The men work six-hour days Monday through Thursday noon and the other half of the week is spent relaxing and-or sight-seeing in the area. The women work Monday through Wednesday. This gives them a chance to do their housework, laundry and whatever on Thursday mornings so that everyone is ready to go sightseeing at the same time."

Schaeffer sets up various work projects after a screening process to make certain the work to be done is within the capabilities of the group. He arranges in advance for a campsite with water, electricity and sewer.

Projects have ranged from remodeling and repairing buildings to constructing irrigation systems, sewing cloths, mailing promotional materials and tutoring school children.

HOOKED ON SMOKING

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Joao Figueiredo of Brazil says he'd like to give up his long-time habit of chain smoking, but that the pressures of his job make it impossible. "I've tried several times, but I just can't do it. It's no use," the 61-year-old leader remarked Friday. "Whenever I get worried about something, I smoke. Every time the Arabs raise the price of oil, I open up a new pack of cigarettes."

Kids' Program Package Offered Via Cable

NEW YORK (AP) — It might have been as simple as collecting a library of worn cartoons and outdated kids' shows. But the people at Warner Cable Corp. decided to break new ground with "Nickelodeon," an enterprise they could call 'the first all-day, every day, something-for-every-kid programming package ever offered for cable TV."

And "Nickelodeon," begun in April, was by Warner Cable's standards an immediate success.

"We were planning on a million contracted viewers by the end of the year," says John A. Lack, Warner Cable's vice president for programming and marketing, "and it looks like we'll have 2 million by then."

"Nickelodeon," offered to the nation's cable TV systems by satellite, 13 hours a day on weekdays, 14 hours on weekends, consists of five different programs for young people of all ages.

The daily schedule includes "Pinwheel" for pre-schoolers, "Video Comic Books," starring heroes like Green Lantern and Space Ranger, "Nickel Flicks," featuring adventure serials from the 1930s and '40s, "By the Way," for kids 7-12, and "America Goes Bananaz" for teen-agers.

The almost instantaneous acceptance of "Nickelodeon," despite some perplexing technical obstacles, was really no surprise to Dr. Vivian Horner, Warner Cable's vice president for program development and the creator of "Pinwheel."

"There is an incredible vacuum in children's programming out there," she says, "and the moment you come along and say you're going to serve the young people's market, and serve it responsibly, turning it down would be like rejecting motherhood."

For "Nickelodeon," "serving the market responsibly" is a concept with several meanings. "In contrast with children's programming on regular television," says Dr. Horner, "we're providing an entire program for young people, without advertising, with violence held to a minimum, and no hype."

There is another consideration, she says. "Cable isn't television. It's something else. Television does what it does very well, in return for considerable revenues that don't necessarily depend on the quality of the programming.

"We're a retailing business, and our primary purpose is to produce something of value," she says.

"This is programming created to be both informative and entertaining, designed with the specific needs and interests of its audience in mind," Charles D. Ferris, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, said recently of "Nickelodeon."

"Indeed, it specifies age subgroups of the child audience to which its programming is directed." Ferris said. "Many parents may intensely prefer this to the more homogeneous conventional children's fare."

"Nickelodeon" is relatively inexpensive — a dime a month per subscriber, less for those systems that take specific segments rather than the entire package.

But obstacles to the distribution of "Nickelodeon" are considerable. To begin with, not all cable systems can receive satellite feeds. Beyond that, few have the time available to broadcast the entire package. So why the positive response, beyond even Warner Cable's expectations?

"There's a need for this kind of video," says Lack, "an alternative, a long-form channel and no advertising. ..."

"And," says Dr. Horner, "forgive my immodesty, but it's also very good."

'Mild' Recession Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — The Northeast and Midwest will bear the brunt of a "mild" recession this year, while the West and South will escape relatively unscathed, the Conference Board predicts.

In a survey of regional economies released Sunday, the business-financed research organization said the Northeast and Midwest would be most affected by a slowdown because they are the "home of many cyclically sensitive capital and consumer-goods industries."

But "even in these areas, the economic downturn is not expected to be severe," the Conference Board said.

In the Northeast, "high-technology industries are booming," the organization said, while in the Midwest, demand for industrial machinery and high grain prices will provide solid support.

The board's projections were based on reports by seven economists from various parts of the country. Other regional forecasts included:

•Coal and electronics industry growth is likely to help the Southeast, while a lowering of tariffs on fabrics — and an expected increase in imports — will slow the area's textile business.

•The "Southwest is outpacing the nation as a whole, and this pattern should continue," but "prices and production costs are catching up to those in the North."

The Reign of Terror began in France in 1793.

Isn't CASH IN THE BANK Better Than Scrap In Your Drawers?

Why Not Get PAID For House Cleaning While We're In Town?

NO AMOUNTS TOO LARGE OR TOO SMALL

—SPECIAL HANDLING ON LARGE TRANSACTIONS — WE BUY ESTATES —

YOUR COINS DO NOT HAVE TO BE IN PERFECT CONDITION TO RECEIVE THESE HIGH PRICES—THEY SHOULD NOT BE BENT, CORODED OR HAVE HOLES THROUGH THEM—THEY SHOULD HAVE FULL RIMS AND READABLE DATES.—PLEASE DO NOT CLEAN YOUR COINS, WE WILL PAY AT LEAST THESE PRICES THIS TRIP FOR AVERAGE QUALITY COINS AND JEWELRY, ABOVE AVERAGE QUALITY MAY BRING HIGHER PRICES.

Here's a great opportunity to empty your dresser drawers.

NO GIMMICKS

WE PAY IN CASH — NO CHECKS ISSUED.

We do not sell anything. We are in town to buy and pay these prices in cash. Why not take advantage of an unusually high silver and gold market and put your money to work. The cash we give you will double in approximately nine years at today's interest rates. WE DOUBT THAT COINS WILL EVER BE THIS HIGH AGAIN!!!

We know it is asking a lot for you to come to a hotel room and sell to a stranger. But folks we are not strangers. We have been coming to town for six years now. Many of your friends know us and have sold to us. Come on by and check us out first. We're friendly and easy to deal with. Promise!
