Scrap On Iwo Flares Anew

Final Phase Of Bloody Struggle Is Believed Near; Nip Toll Is 14,456

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

THE furious battle of Iwo Jima flamed anew Tuesday when American Marines slashed into the Japanese lines in the wake of the heaviest artillery bombardment yet used on the tiny island.

The Japanese resisted fiercely and the Leathernecks, after day-long heavy fighting, were held to small local gains on the left flank and in the center of the line.

Warships Join Furore

The guns of American warships off Iwo and the bombs of carrier-based planes added to the thunder of the savage ground fighting. The desperate Japanese used concentrated small arms and mortar fire as elements of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine divisions hit their strong positions Tuesday morning after a lull of several days.

There was every indication that the determined Leathernecks were launched on the final phase of the bloody struggle—to liquidate the Japanese cornered in less than one-third of Iwo's rugged northern terrain.

Radio Tokyo termed the Marine attack "violent" and said "the fighting has reached a decisive stage."

Airfield In Use

U. S. Army fighter planes were using Iwo's southern airfield.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, in his communique late Tuesday, disclosed that Japanese dead counted on Iwo up to 6 p.m., March 5, (Japanese time) totaled 14,456.

Striking to the north of Iwo, in the Bonin islands, Army bombers smashed the airfield on Chichi Jima.

Tokyo had more B-29 troubles. The Japanese radio said seven American Superfortresses staged night raids against scattered targets on the main island of Honshu. One of the giant bombers was over Tokyo just after nightfall.

Manila Damage Estimates

Military and civilian engineers, after looking over the ruins of Manila—ruins created mostly by wanton Japanese sabotage—estimated that from 10 to 15 years will be required to rebuild the "Pearl of the Orient." Their loss estimates ran from $750,000,000 to more than a billion dollars.

One building engineer said 2,000 square blocks of the metropolis were totally destroyed, in addition to bridges worth about $20,000,000, the waterfront area and the power and street railway systems.

An Associated Press dispatch from Chungking said it was believed that three major American airbases in China's Kiangsi province, abandoned as Japanese

Red Cross Drive Short Of Quota

A cash total of $46,947.46 was turned in by all divisions of the Red Cross War Fund campaign up to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. These figures represent a large percentage of the county quota of $74,500, and George P. Kuykendall, chairman of the campaign, said that he hoped all workers would turn in their reports by 3 o'clock this afternoon so that a broader view could be attained.

The remainder of Lubbock's quota must be received from the persons who were missed in the opening day of the drive and from the reports as yet not turned in by workers. The campaign will continue until April 1, but no personal solicitation will be made in Lubbock after today.

Residential Areas

A total of $6,776.49 was solicited in the residential section by volunteer women workers, most of whom have already turned in reports. A pick-up will be conducted by the Junior Welfare League today to contact houses where no one was home when the first colunteer worker came by.

Rural communities are holding rallies every night this week, with Roosevelt being the first to go over the top when it exceeded its $2000 quota Monday night. Slaton's last year's contribution of over $6000 is expected to be met again this year, also.

Kuykendall said that he and his co-chairmen, J. D. Hassell, jr., and W. C. O'Mara, wished to thank all of the workers for their response and for the wonderful job they had done for the War Fund campaign. He said that this year's reports have come in faster than in any other year and with as many individuals contacted.

Any person who was missed by the solicitors and who wants to make a contribution can either bring or mail it to the War Fund Campaign headquarters, 1115 Thirteenth.

Red Cross Rallies Scheduled Tonight

Movies will be featured on Red Cross War Fund rally programs at Cooper and New Deal schools at 8:30 o'clock tonight, Roy Boyd, rural chairman of the campaign said Tuesday. In addition, a speaker will appear on each program.

At a rally Tuesday night at Idalou, subscriptions from citizens of that community were run up to $1,702.08. The Idalou Red Cross committee expressed confidence that considerably more money would be raised.

"A community Sing-Song" and "The Normandy Invasion" are the titles of the two pictures to be shown at New Deal and W. C. O'Mara, Lubbock county chapter chairman of the Red Cross will be main speaker. The New Deal Red Cross committee is headed by W. K. Clements.

At the Cooper rally, to be held in the school gymnasium, a Walt Disney cartoon feature, "South of the Border" and a community sing film, "Sing America," will be shown. Speaker for the evening will be Chaplain Arlyn E. Sonard of Lubbock Army Air field. Mrs. Raymond Wilke, Cooper chairman, will be in charge of the program.

Telephone Workers Vote Strike Notice

NEW YORK, March 6, (AP)—New York City telephone operators tonight authorized the executive committees of two unions to file strike notices under the Smith-Connally act.

The War Labor board in Washington on Feb. 28 approved a wage increase of $3 weekly for the employes, who held that amount was insufficient.

A special telephone panel had recommended a $5 increase.

The vote tonight ratified action taken earlier in the day by the executive committees of the two unions, the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers with 12,600 members, and the Traffic Employes association with 6,000 members.

House Softens Nurses' Draft

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP) — A provision having the effect of allowing individual nurses to decide for themselves whether they shall be drafted for military service won approval of the House today.

It was one of several major changes made before the House put off until tomorrow a final decision on nurses-draft legislation to meet what the armed services have said is an urgent need for 18,000 more nurses.

Inducted As Officers

Approved by a teller vote of 135 to 98 and subject to a roll-call vote tomorrow, the provision requires that drafted nurses must be inducted as commissioned officers.

But the constitution prohibits compelling anyone to accept a federal office and the courts have held a service commission is a federal office. Therefore military committee members, in fighting the amendment, told the House its effect would be to permit any nurse to reject a proferred commission and thereby not be drafted. War department lawyers agreed with this interpretation.

Chairman May (D-Ky) contended the amendment, offered by Rep. Harness (R-ND), would nullify the compulsory features of the legislation and render it ineffective.

Nurse Corps Graduates

The House struck from the bill a section requiring the induction of Cadet Nurse corps graduates before non-cadets are drafted and wrote in a prohibition against discrimination because of race, color or creed.

An amendment exempting from the draft nurses who have taken religious vows, such as nuns, was adopted overwhelmingly. So was one requiring that local conditions as to the needs for nurses be taken into consideration in levying draft quotas.

New Russian Blow Hits Reeling Nazis

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 6—The First White Russian Army in a 25-mile advance that captured more than 500 German towns in a single day reached the northeastern mouth of the Oder river today and destroyed the reeling Nazis' last chance for an effective flanking thrust against the central Soviet salient aimed at Berlin.

Premier Stalin announced the tremendous northward drive through Pomerania in an order of the day, disclosing the capture of Cammin on the Oder delta outlet stream of Drievenow, 37 miles north of Stettin; Treptow, 21 miles northeast of Cammin; and in the same region the big German strongpoints of Greifenberg, Guelzow and Plathe.

In 15 Miles Of Stettin

The Soviet communique announced that the same Army shoved westward within 15 miles of Stettin, Berlin's Oder river gateway to the Baltic, and the Germans themselves said Stettin's suburbs were under Red Army artillery fire.

The Second White Russian Army, operating northeast of the First White Russian group, toppled the holdout fortress of Grudziadz, 25 miles behind the lines and 55 miles south of Danzig, capturing more than 5,000 of the garrison along with the commanding general. This feat also was honored by a Stalin order of the day.

It cleared the way for a drive on Danzig itself, and the communique disclosed that this already was in progress, the Second White Russian Army reaching within 30 miles of that once-free city with the capture of Alt-Kischau.

Foothold Broadened

This was part of a general slash through north central Pomerania and the Polish corridor by this Army, which took 60 towns in a day and broadened its foothold on the marshy Baltic sea shore north of Koeslin.

Southwest of Koeslin a surrounded German force was liquidated with capture of its commanding lieutenant-general and more than 1,000 of his men.

The First White Russian Army in its drive also took a by-passed enemy fortress, the town of Belgard, and the two great armies together were ripping to ribbons the unnumbered, isolated thousands of German troops still within Pomerania.

Force Being Liquidated

In a pattern that was growing typical, the Moscow communique related also that a large enemy force cut off south of Schivelbein in central Pomerania was being liquidated and that 2,500 German troops had been captured in that pocket March 4 and 5.

While the armies of Marshals G. K. Zhukov and K. K. Rokossovsky thus were demolishing the manageable shreds into which they already had ripped Pomerania, Zukov's First White Russians continued to edge westward towards the lower Oder and had compressed the Germans into a 10 to 12-mile wide strip on the river's east bank from south of Stettin northward to Wollin island opposite Cammin, a distance of about 65 miles.

Six Indicted On Seven Charges

Seven indictments naming six defendants were returned by a 99th district grand jury that reported about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to Judge G. V. Pardue.

Ten thousand dollar bond was required by the court in the case of each of two defendants, Alfred Homer Keeton, 22, and E. W. Gentry, 42.

Keeton, laundry deliveryman held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond, was charged with rape Feb. 23 of Ruth Jameson, 20, a freshman arts and sciences student of Texas Tech.

One Incest Charge

Gentry, employed on an irrigation well project until charged with incest with a 17-year-old daughter, also is held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Others charged were:

L. V. Myers, 28, of Crane, burglary Jan. 30 of property owned by Earl Perryman. Court bond $4,000.

Debbs Crawford, 23, two bills charging automobile theft. Court bond is 1,500 in each case. It was accused that he took a car Dec. 31 from R. T. Dodson, one Jan. 12 from O. M. Longnecker. He has been free on bond.

Donald Corn, 28, forgery. Court's bond, $1,000. The charge sets out he forged a $61.25 check to which he signed the name of J. L. Moore, Jan. 10, and passed to A. H. Maas. Allegedly a fugitive from the Oklahoma state penitentiary, Corn is held in Muskogee county, Okla., jail awaiting trial on second degree forgery charges, and the Nowata county, Okla., sheriff and Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock both have placed detainer notices with the Muskogee sheriff.

Richard Driggs, 22, burglary, June 13, 1942 of property controlled by M. C. Boyd.

Driggs Record Cited

District Attorney Burton S. Burks said Driggs in February of 1942 had been given a five-year suspended sentence in 99th district court, for burglary; that in June of 1942 he was charged by complaint with burglary but that he was released to the Army; that he was dishonorably discharged from the armed services; that subsequently he was charged with rape, which case was passed and the old burglary charge referred to the grand jury for action.

Burks and Judge Pardue indicated that trial of most of Tuesday's indictments would be the week of March 19, but that an "agreed setting, probably for sometime in April," would be sought for the Keeton rape case.

The grand jury, of which Donald Bledsoe was foreman, was dis-

New Powerful U. S. Tank Is Confirmed

DETROIT, March 6 (AP)—Chrysler corporation officials today confirmed reports that the concern is manufacturing a new type tank—officially known as T-26—and described by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson as "the answer to the German Tiger tank."

Patterson, in a radio broadcast Sunday, described the tank as "the most powerful we have ever built" and said its wide tracks give it power and flotation in mud, while its 90 mm gun gives it more firepower than any previous American tank.

Travis Canon Is In Hospital On Guam

Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Canon, 2613 Nineteenth, have been advised by cable that their elder son, Pfc. Robert Travis Canon, of the U. S. Marines, is in a hospital on the Island of Guam after service on Iwo Jima. The cable said that young Canon, who will be 21 this month, is not in serious condition.

Dr. Canon, now on inactive service as a captain in the Navy with which he served for four years prior to last month and for 14 years after World War I, is attempting through service connections to secure more information regarding his son's condition. The cable indicated that Private Canon is sick, rather than wounded, but he is known to have been through at least the first week of fighting on Iwo Jima.

Five Feared Dead As Blast Rocks Harbor

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 6. (Canadian Press)—Five persons were believed killed and six missing tonight after four explosions in the 10,000-ton freighter Greenhill Park at the ship-crowded docks in downtown Vancouver blasted out thousands of windows in the adjacent area and rocked buildings a mile and a half from the waterfront.

The casualty reports were based on newspaper checks without official confirmation. Because of the confusion no conclusive figures were available hours after the blasts which occurred just about noon, (Pacific war time).

No Known Deaths

An official of the Canada Shipping Company, Limited, operators of the vessel, said: "No one was killed that we know of. Only four persons are missing and they may not have been on the ship."

He added he did not know when a statement would be issued by the company.

At least 18 injured men were taken to hospitals and scores of others suffered minor injuries from flying glass.

About 100 men were on the Greenhill Park or the dock when the blasts occurred ,sending flames several hundred feet into the air and scattering debris for blocks.

Vessel Being Loaded

Officials of the Canada Shipping Company, Limited, said the vessel was being loaded with tinplate, box shooks and general cargo. Frank Hibbs, a crewman on the freighter Bowness Park which was docked nearby, said in an interview the Greenhill Park was "carrying gunpowder, rockets and shells. . . ."

Smoke poured from the holds of the vessel as she was towed into Burrard inlet, Vancouver's harbor which is three miles wide where the docks are situated, an hour after the blasts. Later she was taken through the first narrows into English bay near the ocean where it was believed she might be sunk in deep water. Reports circulated along the waterfront that further explosions were feared. Other reports were that three to five men were trapped in the hold.

Docks Are Jammed

The docks were jammed with ships and it was reported small fires may have started on some of these but none got out of control or caused serious damage.

Royal Canadian Navy officials said there was no Navy ammunition aboard. The 10,000-ton freighters are armed and carry small Navy crews to man the guns. About eight sailors on the vessel escaped without injury.

Sgt. Billy Aycock Missing In Pacific

Sgt. Billy W. Aycock, 19, is missing following a B-29 raid on Tokyo, according to a message received Tuesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer G. Aycock, of 2120 Fourteenth, from the War department.

The message stated that Sgt. Aycock, right waist gunner, failed to return from a mission Feb. 27. His plane is believed to have gone down somewhere between the Japanese mainland and the Marianas.

A graduate of Lubbock High school, Sgt. Aycock enlisted in the Army Air corps in October, 1943. He has been overseas since December, 1944, and had made eight missions.

He attended Texas Technological college in the summer of 1943.

Bonomi Totters In Rome Rioting

ROME, March 6. (AP)—A Communist demonstrator was slain in a riot before the royal palace today and Premier Ivanoe Bonomi's resignation was demanded by a coalition of left-wing parties as the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta during his trial for war crimes threw liberated Italy into its gravest political crisis since the Allied invasion.

The demand for the premier's resignation was presented by a group composed of Communists, Socialists, Actionists, Republicans, Partisans and war veterans.

Cabinet Meets Today

Bonomi announced in a communique tonight that he would present the question of his resignation to the cabinet which he has called to meet tomorrow and let it decide whether he should remain at the head of the government.

"As a member of a coalition government, I could never abandon my post," he said.

The communique claimed that the carabinieri who dispersed the demonstrators did not fire at the crowd but into the air.

The slain demonstrator was identified as Guiseppe Lastagna Mancini, a member of the Communist party, by the membership card in his pocket.

Two Allied Soldiers Hurt

Three other persons, an Italian demonstrator and two bystanding Allied soldiers, were wounded when police fired on the crowd attempting to burst into the royal palace and shouting "death to the king."

Bombs, apparently thrown by those in the crowd, burst in the square.

Crown Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm since his father, King Vittorio Emanuele, relinquished his rights, was in the palace during the riot, but he did not appear while the carabinieri drove off the crowd, estimated at 1,000 persons.

King Lives At Salerno

The king has not lived in Rome since the Italian armistice, having retired to a villa at Salerno.

The demonstration was the direct result of a mass meeting staged in Colosseum square against the Bonomi government as a result of Roatta's escape. Approximately 10,000 had gathered at this meeting and were exhorted by speakers, including a one-legged partisan fighter, to storm the palace. The resulting disturbance lasted about an hour and a half.

Joint Navy Action Impractical Due To Speedy, Offensive-Geared U. S. Fleet

By CHARLES McMURTRY
Associated Press War Writer

IMMEDIATE joint offensive operations by the American and British Pacific fleets are not practicable, no matter how anxious their commanders may be to strike Japan together.

And their commanders, Adms. Chester W. Nimitz and Sir Bruce Fraser, reached an amicable agreement on joint operations at a Pearl Harbor conference a few weeks ago.

It isn't as simple as that, however, to send the two fleets steaming at high speed to strike the Japanese homeland. So the British, and particularly the Australians, impatient that their warships have not shared the glory of raids on Tokyo, Yokohama, the Ryukyu islands and Formosa, will have to wait weeks, perhaps months, before Nimitz is able to report that Allied rather than American forces blasted Japan's inner defenses from the sea.

There is this basic difference between the two fleets: American warships are constructed for high-speed offensive action; the British for defensive action at considerably slower speeds.

The mushrooming U. S. Pacific fleet was designed for fast, smashing attacks against any objective over the vast Pacific ocean, whose waters envelop 40 percent of the world's surface. Most U. S. warships in the Pacific are capable of making 30 knots; many travel even faster.

The British fleet was constructed primarily for close-range defense of the British Isles—engagements like the battle of Jutland in the last World war in which heavily armed and heavily armored—but slow—ships fought it out with their own guns. Many British warships reach their maximum efficiency at 12 to 15 knots.

Nimitz's 3rd or 5th Pacific fleet alone are capable now—or very soon will be—of striking any objective with 2000 carrier planes. The entire British fleet, dispersed around the world, probably could not put a fraction that many warplanes into the air.

Training and thinking of admirals in command of the Pacific fleets is basically in sharp contrast. Commanders such as Adm. William F. Halsey of the U. S. 3rd fleet and Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher of famous carrier Task Force 58 have spent years studying theoretical operations which would take their forces at high

Cologne Falls, Third Surges For Coblenz

Patton's Armor Races 32 Miles In Breakthrough As Big Punch Shifts

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Wednesday, March 7—Cologne fell swiftly to the U. S. First Army in the climax of its great eastward drive yesterday as General Eisenhower lifted the news blackout on operations of the American Third Army and revealed that its armor was racing toward the Rhine in a breakthrough that covered 32 miles in two days.

These dramatic developments, coming when the Ninth Army and its British and Canadian Allies had virtually completed occupation of all German territory west of the Ruhr, shifted the big punches to the middle Rhine farther south and opened the way for the Allies to push the enemy out of the area west of the Rhine and north of the Moselle.

Sporadic Outbreaks

The supreme Allied headquarters announcement of the capture of the bomb-blackened Rhineland capital said that only sporadic fighting continued last night in Cologne's southern outskirts.

(A broadcast from London recorded by the National Broadcasting company quoted BBC correspondent Frank Gillard as report-

RAF POUNDS WESEL

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—RAF Lancasters tonight blasted the Rhine river town of Wesel, clogged with fleeing German troops, in a follow-up of Mosquito raids on the same town during the day.

Mosquito pilots, who reported during the afternoon that Wesel was choked with masses of German soldiers and hundreds of vehicles, also went out tonight, dropping two-ton blockbuster bombs on Berlin for the 15th consecutive night.

American heavy bombers were idle during the day but the RAF heavies kept the offensive against Germany rolling into its fourth straight week with a daylight smash at German oil targets.

ing the Hohenzollern bridge at Cologne was still standing yesterday and open to foot traffic.)

Thus, Germany's fourth largest city and the greatest enemy industrial center that has so far capitulated was in Allied hands on the twelfth day of the powerful offensive from the Roer river.

Last night its beaten Nazi garrison was being driven southward toward Bonn through a narrowing corridor along the Rhine's west bank.

Over 1,500 Captured

Since the start of the slashing attack from east of captured Bitburg at dawn yesterday, Patton's armored forces had captured more than 1,500 Germans, including a corps commander, and had reached a point only 20 miles from the Rhine.

A field dispatch declared that "for the rampant Americans it was a surge which outdid anything witnessed in France." Weather, not the Germans, was said to be impeding the advance. A news blackout still prevented disclosure of the exact whereabouts of American spearheads.

Chase Of Nazis Goes Unchecked

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLOGNE, Germany, March 6. —With the Reich's fourth largest city firmly in American hands, U. S. First Army troops fought under "artificial moonlight" night in an unceasing effort to destroy fleeing remnants of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's defeated German armies west of the Rhine.

The Eighth Infantry division smashed forward against sacrificial enemy units stationed south of Cologne trying to keep open as long as possible the narrow escape corridor to Bonn.

Bonn Becomes Funnel

With Cologne fallen, Bonn, a university city known as "the Harvard of Germany," has become a funnel through which the Nazi high command is withdrawing its shattered and mauled legions across the Rhine.

Inside Cologne itself weary tank crews of the Third Armored division and infantrymen from the 104th and Eighth divisions were too tired to make much of a celebration of their victory.

Some men have been fighting for three days and nights without rest and the first thing most of them wanted to do was to stretch out in the most comfortable place they could find and shut out the war in well-earned sleep.

An Eerie Playground

But some irresponsible soldiers, heedless of possible injury from a few prowling snipers still at large, sped through the ruined, rubble-piled streets on captured motorcycles and bicycles, helmets off and hair streaming in the chill wind.

It was an eerie playground. This great industrial and rail center is only a skeleton of its peacetime self.

On this rainy March evening thousands of its buildings and homes lie bomb-gutted and defenseless againts the cold drizzle. Whole sections look as if they had been devastated by an earthquake, and many a deserted block echoes only to the cautious footfalls of patrolling guards and the distant bark of rifles.

Virtual "City Of Dead"

Areas in the old part of the town seem as dead and bygone as some old Roman city freshly dug from the debris of centuries.

Cologne's foreign refugees keep behind closed doors at night, by American Army orders. This makes it look like a ghost city, but there is still plenty of life here—underground.

For some time the people of Cologne have been living a mole-like existence because of Allied air raids. The victorious Americans have followed the example and holed up in basements and cellars for nighttime protection against German artillery from the other side of the Rhine.

Wine Cellars Popular

Many of the troops have chosen to dwell in the wine cellars of homes from which wealthy Nazis fled without taking their vintages. There is plenty of material for victory toasts.

"What a wonderful place to sweat out the rest of the war," exclaimed one doughboy, relaxing his dirt-stained body in an overstuffed divan and taking a sample from a tall, slender bottle of white wine that bore the date 1904 on its dusty label.

In fact, anyone forced to drink from a bottle less than 40 years old is considered to have picked a poor shelter.

PRICE HIKE HINTED

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP) — The Office of Price administration is considering boosting newsprint price ceilings $3 a ton. A spokesman for the agency said today such an increase has been under discussion for several weeks. He said there was no indication of when a decision may be announced.

Churchill Tours Western Front

WITH CHURCHILL IN GERMANY, March 4 (Delayed by Censor) (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, touring the Western front in Germany, told Scottish troops in the northern Rhine sector today that "soon the enemy will be driven across the Rhine and anyone can see one strong heave will win the war."

Puffing a cigar, the uniformed Prime Minister made no effort to disguise his personal satisfaction in stepping on German soil won by the victorious Allied armies.

Gazes Toward Rhine

During his trip through the Canadian Army sector, Churchill stood on one of the highest points and gazed long and silently toward the mist-covered Rhine.

Perhaps he was recalling that four years ago, when Hitler was triumphantly planning a visit to London, he could promise the people of Britain only "blood, sweat and tears" before final victory. And there—across the Rhine — was victory.

(A dispatch from London said Churchill returned there Tuesday after visiting the Western front and the headquarters of Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery "for the purpose of discussing with them and other Allied commanders a wide field of military matters.")

Cheered Everywhere

Cheering troops greeted Churchill everywhere he went, and he was recognized and welcomed enthusiastically by Belgian and Dutch civilians.

German civilians saw him too—and recognized him. Trudging along muddy roads with their few salvaged belongings on their backs, they saw the rotund figure of the British leader being driven by. Their jaws dropped and they stared in apparent awe.

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill flew from England to Belgium Friday and were greeted at a landing field there by their daughter, Mary, a member of the ATS, British version of the WACs.

Flood Waters Sweep Ohio River Basin; Many War Plants Closed

CINCINNATI, March 6. (AP) — The Midwest's most disastrous wartime flood swelled slowly tonight toward levels reached only twice before in history, closing war plants by the score and sending thousands of lowland dwellers scurrying to higher ground.

From the Ohio river's headwaters at Pittsburgh, down the Ohio valley to points on the Mississippi, rain-fed flood waters caused city, state and federal agencies to mobilize all their resources.

Cincinnati, hardest hit major city, reported the Ohio river at 65 feet—13 feet above flood stage—and river men predicted the boiling, muddy stream would rise another five feet.

Wright Plant Closes

The huge Wright Aeronautical Corp. just outside Cincinnati, closed at noon when waters from Mill creek, an Ohio tributary, isolated all but two roads in the area. Nearly 25,000 are employed at the plant, which makes B-29 engines.

Transportation was paralyzed on both sides of the Ohio river in West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana, and other public utilities staggered under the flood-harassed conditions.

The record level for the Ohio was 79.99 feet, reached in 1937, when an estimated $400,000,000 in property was lost to the flood. The previous peak was in 1913, when waters reached 72 feet at Cincinnati.

Tributaries On Rampage

Tributary streams feeding both the Ohio and Mississippi rivers were swollen out of banks and a number of "inland" rivers and creeks brought flooded streets and basements to cities far from the major flooding streams.

The Mississippi was rising toward flood levels as far south as Memphis, Tenn. Agricultural counties in western Tennessee faced inundation of several thousand acres of land and provisions for evacuating families from lowland communities were made.

The coast guard headquarters at Cleveland said it had dispatched communications crews to West Virginia and Kentucky points, and had alerted guardsmen at all Great Lakes stations from Duluth to Buffalo to stand by for duty if necessary.

Rain Continues To Fall

Board Here Urges Mail Be Used By Ration Applicants

Chairman Roy Furr of the Lubbock county War Price and Rationing board has issued an appeal to citizens of the county to mail their ration applications to the board, declaring:

"Too many people believe they can get faster action by making personal visits to the board, but in reality this causes a heavier workload on board clerks and slows processing of applications.

"Each time a clerk has to leave important work to discuss ration problems, the processing of applications is slowed just that much more.

"With our short staff, our office can give the public much better and faster service when applications come and go by mail, and at the same time people who use the mails for ration action will be conserving tires, gasoline and shoes—all of which are rationed because they are vital to the war effort."

Furr said that personal calls at the board take an average of 10 times as long as the processing of an applicaiton received through the mail. The Lubbock board handles an estimated 13,000 applications each month, more than 11,000 of which are made through personal visits.

"What did he take?"

"That beer," said the lady. "It will poison him."

Theft And Forgery Ring Is Discovered In Missouri Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 6. (U.P.) — Scope of a theft and forgery ring operating at the Missouri state penitentiary was enlarged today when Gov. Phil. M. Donnelly announced the discovery of another missing check for $1540, involving one more convict and two more guards.

The new development was important, Donnelly said, for it revealed a method of duplicating drafts from the prison auditor's office that is believed to have been used on several of the already announced seven stolen checks.

The new check, which was vouchered Dec. 30 and made out to Harrow Taylor, duplicated the amount on a legal draft dated Dec. 20 to the Harro-Taylor Butter Co. of Kansas City. Donnelly said apparently the account was run through the state auditor's and treasurer's office twice.

The first check was sent to the company, but the second was stolen, the endorsement forged by a convict, and cashed outside the prison walls.

ERNIE PYLE says:

"Something Fine to Behold" By Ernie Pyle

EVERYWHERE I went there was the American Red Cross giving its services to our fighting men. It is something fine to behold, this touch of home which the men and women Red Cross workers are able to bring to our troops abroad. When the Red Cross opens up in a new war theater, its growth has to be as fast as the growth of the Army. The way clubs spring up overnight in newly occupied centers, the way restaurants and dances and movies and clubmobiles and doughnut factories mushroom into life all over a new country, is something that still astonishes me.

Right in the field with their regiments are the Red Cross field directors, who act as a link between the soldiers and their homes.

In most of the hospitals, doing the recreational and welfare work for which the nurses can spare so little time, are the Red Cross hospital girls. With every medical unit are countless quantities of the indispensable blood plasma made from the voluntary blood donations of the American people.

Our soldiers and sailors abroad literally worship the Red Cross, and I personally can find nothing but praise to say about its program as I saw it in operation.

Hamlet Near Bologna Captured By Fifth

ROME, March 6. (AP) — U. S. Fifth army forces have captured the hamlet of Bisopra, 13 miles southwest of Bologna, after scoring advances of 400 to 800 yards in a drive up both sides of the Pistoia - Bologna highway, Allied headquarters announced today.

With the town, two 1,250-foot heights designated as hill 375 and hill 476 make up a line dominating the area between the Bologna-Pistoia highway and the alternate Florence-Bologna road to the east.

West of highway 64 where the U. S. 10th Mountain division opened a strong attack two weeks ago American and Brazilian troops made some progress through rugged terrain.

Eighth Army patrols probed the spit of land separating the Valli Di Comacchio lagoon from the Adriatic.

Tactical air force planes blew up an enemy ammunition dump on the Eighth Army front. Allied aircraft stabbed at communications in northeast Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia. British heavy bombers attacked freight yards at Graz, in southern Austria, last night.

Many Bid For Hospital Site

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—More than a score of towns and cities are bidding for the proposed West Texas veterans hospital, site for which is expected to be selected within two to three weeks.

Plans call for initial consideration of a 250-bed facility at a cost of about $1,000,000. Later, as demands increase, it is expected to be enlarged to a capacity of possibly 1,000 beds.

Main Contenders

The choice is understood to rest among the following eight localities: Sweetwater, San Angelo, Big Spring, Lubbock, Midland, Plainview, Colorado City and Lamesa.

Representatives of Lubbock, San Angelo and Odessa are now in Washington, and others from Big Spring are expected to arrive momentarily. In the last few weeks, groups representing virtually every city of 5,000 in West Texas have been here in the matter.

The Veterans administration now has facilities in Texas at Amarillo, Dallas, Waco and Kerrville.

JACKSON AND STRANGE REPRESENTING LUBBOCK

A. C. Jackson, business manager of the Lubbock Public schools, and W. T. Strange, Lubbock architect, are in Washington representing Lubbock interests in the proposed veterans hospital in West Texas. They are representing specifically the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, which are spearheading the drive for the project.

Floydada Youth Was Member Of "Fabled Fifteen" Air Group

WASHINGTON — Lieutenant (junior grade) Jimmie Smyth U. S. N. R., of route 2, Floydada, Texas, was a member of "Fabled Fifteen," which Commander David S. McCampbell, U. S. N., the Navy's top-scoring pilot, calls "the finest aerial fighting team ever assembled."

Com. McCampbell, who recently received the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Roosevelt, said after the White House ceremony that his own record and that of the Air Group was made possible only by extraordinarily smooth teamwork on the part of every pilot and aircrewman.

"Those lads had what it takes," says Com. McCampbell, who shot down 34 Jap planes. "I wish there were some way the Congressional Medal of Honor could be shared by every one of them, because all of them were absolutely tops."

Lt. Smyth piloted one of the Avenger torpedo planes in "Fabled Fifteen," which broke many records during its tour of duty aboard the Essex. He flew numerous combat missions, and during the Second Battle of the Philippine Sea scored a torpedo hit on a battleship.

The Navy airman's wife, Mrs. M. Florence Smyth lives at the Floydada address. The son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Z. Smyth of the same city, Smyth holds the Air Medal and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Air Medal.

Henry D. Lightfoot Of Petersburg Back From Pacific Area

Henry D. Lightfoot, seaman first class, U. S. N. R., of Petersburg, has returned from a tour of duty in the Pacific, where he served as a gunner in the Navy's Patrol Bombing squadron 101 (VPB-101). As an aircrewman in a Liberator search plane, he has the distinction of taking part in an emergency landing in the water with the big four-engine plane without loss of life.

This feat occurred 150 miles southeast of Zamboauga, Jap base in the Philippines and 400 miles from the plane's home base at Morotai Island. The Liberator had just made an attack on a tanker in Balabac Straits off the northern tip of Borneo. Two strafing runs at mast-head level were made. The plane was carrying no bombs at the time. On the second run just as the tanker was seen to catch fire, anti-aircraft fire knocked out one of the big plane's engines.

All removable gear, including armor plate and the belly turret were dropped and preparations were made for a water landing. Parachutes were used as padding and proved to be real life savers to those crew members using them when the landing was made. Two other members of the crew were injured, but none fatally, when the plane hit the water.

Surprisingly enough the plane remained afloat for 45 minutes and all had time to get in life rafts. By using mirrors, the survivors attracted the attention of two friendly fighter pilots and a rescue Catalina seaplane was dispatched to the scene the following morning.

House Approves Nine-Judge Court

AUSTIN, March 6. (U.P.)—A proposed constitutional amendment to create a nine-judge supreme court with justices nominated from separate districts and elected on statewide basis today was finally adopted by the Texas House and sent to the Senate.

A resolution already adopted by the Senate on the same subject is pending in the House. It provides for a nine-judge court and statewide voting on justices, but does not include district representation.

Vote 103 to 31

Final House vote on the resolution by Rep. R. N. Gresham was 103 ayes to 31 noes. The vote came after an amendment by Rep. W. R. Chambers, May, was adopted. As drawn by Gresham, election of the nine justices was to have been by districts.

The court now has three justices and a commission of six members who do not have a vote on approving or rejecting opinions.

Finally adopted in the House was a Senate concurrent resolution asking that the Texas delegation in Congress endeavor to have the Army-abandoned Indianola anti-aircraft gunnery base in Calhoun county deeded to the county for a park and recreation center.

Resolution To Committees

Sent to committees in the House were resolutions calling for creation of a state tax revision committee, designation of a 15-member committee to make a survey for hospital needs and serve as an official agency to accept and distribute federal funds for hospitals, and removing authority of state agencies to approve lands for federal use.

With numerous committee meetings and public hearing scheduled this afternoon and tonight, the House and Senate adjourned until Wednesday.

Sweet Gas Sought For Making Carbon Black

AUSTIN, March 6, (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said today a representative of the War Production board had notified him an effort will be made to get the Texas legislature to authorize use of sweet natural gas for manufacture of carbon black.

The Texas Railroad commission last year met a similar request with the counter proposal that carbon black plants be erected at sites where they could utilize already available sour gas (unfit for domestic purposes) and casinghead gas from oil wells.

Present Texas law prohibits use of sweet gas for carbon black manufacturing.

Negroes Demand U.S. Housing At Texarkana

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—A suit to compel leasing of government housing to negro war workers in the Texarkana, Tex., area was filed in federal district court here today.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people filed the suit. It seeks to enjoin Administrator John D. Blandford and the National Housing agency from denying the housing to negroes "because of their race and color."

The suit applies specifically to the Red River courts housing project.

The association, in announcing the suit, said:

1. The Red river housing project was instituted by the housing agency after other government agencies found negro war workers were unable to find suitable housing in the Texarkana area.

2. After the project was completed early this year, the housing agency asked for lease applications and received them from about 200 negro war workers. A large number of these were found eligible.

3. Therefore, Blandford "in response to the demands of white persons of influence in and about Texarkana," ordered that negroes should be excluded from Red river courts.

The suit was filed in the name of Louis P. Hughes, Jim Brown, jr., and A. D. Harper, described by the association as employes of the Red river and Lone Star ordnance plants and "negro citizens of Texas."

The button they sewed on Tom's shirt 9 times

YOU know Tom, although perhaps you call him by another name. A shy, quiet boy who has suddenly become a man in the midst of war. Until he went into the Army Tom had never been away from home. But now he's three thousand miles from Mom and Dad...and a boy can become mighty lonely, even in an army of millions.

But here in the jungle, as though by some miracle, a Red Cross club has been established. And inside are girls...smiling, wholesome American girls who speak your language and are so much like sis...or the girl next door.

Tom knows that among a score of heart-warming jobs these Red Cross girls perform is the simple, homey act of helping a GI sew on buttons. So Tom has torn a button from his shirt and a Red Cross girl is sewing it on. And a little later Tom will tear off that same button again. In all (and this is an actual case), that button was sewed on a total of nine times!

The girls know, and smile indulgently. A little thing, yes, but such little, friendly services can give a big lift to the spirits of a lonely service man far away from home.

This is the only appeal the Red Cross will make to you this year. Won't you give as much as you can in this great cause?

FAMOUS FOR DIAMONDS SINCE 1910

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

"MAN wants but little here below," wrote Adams. We wonder about the verity of that statement when we see people standing in line to get scarcities whether they need them or not.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MISS TURNER:

I am a daily reader of your column and notice you often give beauty hints for your readers but I don't believe I have noticed anything concerning legs. As for me I would like to know if there is any treatment, exercise or anything of the sort to increase the size of the legs.

As you have guessed I have what might be called "pipe stem" legs. My body seems to be fairly plump but I am honestly ashamed of my legs.

If you could possibly publish anything in your column to help me I would me more than grateful.

Sincerely,
Ralls Reader.

DEAR RALLS READER:

We've noticed many women seem to be cursed with legs on the baby grand piano legs' style and our first answer to your query would be to say "Be glad gal, be glad that your legs are not fat and flabby." But we suppose the girls who have skinny legs are as unhappy about it as their fat sisters.

The other day we read an article Betty Grable wrote for Associated Press newsfeatures wherein she said she is constantly asked what she does to keep her legs in trim. She said she doesn't have a good answer, that she doesn't diet, get massages or have any trick exercises. She added she wishes she could say that she takes milk baths, drinks persimmon juice and hangs by her toes from a tree in the backyard but there isn't any formula.

In her own case she has danced since she was a little girl and she says that is bound to help anyone's legs; it makes them firm for one thing, gives a thin leg more shape by building in curves where they should be, and in most cases thins down the too bulky places.

Miss Grable says she doesn't believe in too much exercise for women's legs. She suggests walking properly as a help. A show girl is taught to handle herself so that as she walks, there is a tension and relaxation of the leg muscles, rather than the relaxed padding-along-like-a-duck that so many girls use to cover space.

Walking can become a real exercise and leg beautifier. Swing the leg from the hip, flexing the knee slightly, stretching it smartly and with vitality as you move, putting each foot in front of the other in a straight line until you feel a pull in the thigh and calf muscles.

The old-time b-t ever true bicycle and scissors exercises are also recommended and climbing stairs. Of course none of these will work a miracle over night but if you are consistent about them perhaps you will receive a legacy.

MEXICO CITY

ALTHOUGH residents of Mexico City are still quite hospitable and anxious that American tourists and residents have a delightful time in their beautiful city, the Yankee dollar has come to play an important part in relations. This is according to Mary Alice Baker, former Lubbock resident visiting here, who has just returned to the United States after a year and one half's residence in the capital.

Miss Baker said there are more Americans in Mexico City at present than at any other time in its history. These include hundreds of tourists, people who have felt the need of escaping from the rigors of war and a number of wives who are sitting the war out far removed from worries of shortages, rationing and war work.

THOSE who do not care to learn the language can get along fairly well since English is spoken in most places, Miss Baker said. Others who attempt to speak Spanish find the natives are patient and pleased with their attempts and never inclined to ridicule them for their faltering phrases.

As for food, one can find American food or cafes that serve food of almost any nationality, she said. The cost of living has gone up tremendously since the war and this is based partially on the great influx of neighbors from beyond the border.

LT. MARGARET ANDERSON, who is a dietician in the 16th evacuation hospital in Italy, has just received word that her dog, a prized pet, has disappeared from the home of her mother, Mrs. C. M. Voss, who lives four and one-half miles west of Post. She has written her mother:

"I don't want to be stationed in the United States when the European war is over, but I'd give a $50 war bond to have some muddy Butch Paw prints on my uniform when I come back from the Pacific. Perhaps someone has unknowingly bought my black cocker spaniel (male) 4 years old."

He has a crown on top of his neck, a short tail. Lt Anderson says the persons who returns her dog may have the $50 to buy a dog of purer blood.

The dietician received her bachelor of science degree from Tech college in 1936 and has been in Italy for the past 15 months.

Senate Leaders Give Edorsement To Security Voting Procedure

By JOHN L. CUTTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The long-awaited voting procedure for the proposed International Security organization won prompt endorsement today among Senate leaders on foreign affairs.

Under the plan, the council or upper chamber of the world peace organization would proceed under majority rule on everything short of invoking sanctions against a potential aggressor. On the question of invoking direct action, however, any one of the big five nations would have veto power.

Best Compromise Attainable

Senators who probably will be called upon later this year to ratify a treaty embodying such peace machinery took the attitude that the voting procedure worked out by the Big Three at Yalta was the best compromise attainable. It was made public yesterday.

The fact that it would require unanimous approval of all the big five nations—United States, Russia, Great Britain, China and France—to put force behind a security council decision caused the most comment.

Comment Favorable

But that comment was favorable. In fact, there was a general feeling that such a feature would help win senate approval of the proposed new league of nations.

It was regarded as an excellent argument to reassure Senators who oppose agreeing in advance to use of U. S. troops in any international dispute.

At the same time, there was no fear that such a restriction would reduce effectiveness of the proposed security organization. There was general belief that if the time ever comes when the major powers can't agree on such an important question, the security organization already is headed into troublesome times.

Ratification Is Predicted

Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., acting head of the Senate foreign relations committee while Chairman Tom Connally is in Mexico city, led off with a prediction of Senate ratification of the world peace machinery outlined at Dumbarton Oaks and Yalta.

He said he thought that the veto power on use of force would help bring Senate acceptance because "there are many who prefer to know that sactions can't be applied without our consent."

"It would be foolish to consider the application of sanctions without the unanimous consent of all the permanent council members (the Big Five)" George added. "If the time ever comes when they can't all agree and application of force is the only avenue open, then league chances of preserving the peace are falling apart rapidly."

White Predicts Approval

Sen. Wallace H. White, R., Me., Republican floor leader in the Senate, took much the same view. He considered the voting plan "a happy compromise." He predicted it would win approval of the United Nations conference, meeting at San Francisco April 25, and then be ratified by the Senate.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., withheld comment because he is to be a delegate to the San Francisco meeting. It is known, however, that Vandenberg prefers to stress efforts short of armed intervention in united efforts to prevent future wars. He is expected to agree readily to the provisions for preliminary action looking toward peaceful settlement of disputes.

Backing for the proposal even came from senators who would waive the congressional check on use of armed forces and advocate an international police force.

Others Approve Idea

Sen. Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn., approved the idea that only seven votes out of 11 on the council would be needed to every anti-aggression decision short of using force. He figured that while such measures were in process there would be tremendous public pressure against any would-be aggressor.

Approval as a "good compromise" also came from Sens. Carl A. Hatch, D., N. M., and Harold H. Burton, R., O. Both were associated with Ball last year in advocating the so-called B2H2 resolution. It called for immediate formation of a world security organization with power to enforce decisions against aggressors.

Government Offices Moved From Berlin

LONDON, March 6 (U.P.) — The London Daily Mail reported from Stockholm today that the German government evacuated most of its offices from Berlin to Berchtesgaden, Adolf Hitler's Bavarian retreat, last weekend.

Only well-known Nazi leader remaining in bomb-battered Berlin was Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, commandant for defense of the capital, the dispatch said.

Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop was said to have gone to his castle at Fuschi, near Salzburg, in the Austrian Alps, but the foreign office spokesman, Dr. Ernst Brauweiler, stayed in Berlin to give the appearance that everything was normal.

Heinrich Himmler, commander of the home army, interior minister and gestapo chief, set up headquarters on the Pomeranian front, the Daily Mail said.

WPB Outlines Plan To Keep Labor In Plants Despite Cancellations

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—The War Production board promised today to keep labor on new war jobs in the same plant, where possible, after munitions contracts are cancelled.

If workers must be laid off, WPB said in its first comprehensive program for handling cutbacks before and after V-E day, other war plants will get first call on their services, civilian goods production last call.

Management and labor will be consulted in every major industry before "the initial large scale" cancellations are made following the downfall of Germany, WPB said.

Advisory Voice

This would permit the automobile and other manufacturers to have an advisory voice in placing cancellations where they will have the least disruptive effect on industry and smallest impact in terms of unemployment pending reconversion.

The WPB directive was issued at behest of James F. Byrnes, direct. of the office of war mobilization. It provides that all large cutbacks be handled by a "production readjustment committee" under WPB, made up of representatives of WPB, the armed services, War Manpower commission, and other agencies.

The committee will seek to steer cutbacks into areas where they will cause least unemployment and where the labor and plants can be used most effectively for military or essential civilian production.

Settlement Of Disputes

If disputes arise on the placing of cutbacks before V-E day, WPB provided that they be settled by the director of a new unit, the current production adjustments division. The director's rulings were made binding on the Army, Navy and Maritime commission.

WPB directed the military to notify plants as far ahead as possible of the coming curtailments and "at least seven days ahead of the work stoppage."

The WPB committee will have had notice 48 hours previously, to give any of the interested agencies time to file objections.

Pennsylvania Sets Reassembling Record

LAREDO ARMY AIR BASE, March 6. (U.P.)—Sgt. Willard Karp of Wilkesbarre, Pa., today held an official record of one minute and 59 seconds for reassembling a 50 caliber Browning machine gun.

The former official record was two minutes and 30 seconds.

Karp gave his demonstration for a group of correspondents spending two days here to obtain information on new developments at the gunnery school.

The writers were greeted by Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount, commanding general, who said that a year and a half ago, there was much criticism from the fighting fronts of the training given air gunners.

"Now," he said, "the new training program has raised standards for gunners to the high level of the rest of the air force.

"Our gunners now are the best trained in the world."

Texas Senate Joins Gene Howe In Battle With Film Producer

AUSTIN, March 6. (AP) — The Texas Senate today joined with Gene Howe, Amarillo publisher, in the battle of the Texas Panhandle versus Arizona and Hollywood.

It unanimously passed a resolution by Senator Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, protesting the filming of the motion picture, "Duel In The Sun" in Arizona and declaring if Producer David O. Selznick "stubbornly and wantonly proceeds to film said picture in any part of Arizona or any place outside of Texas, "that the legislature will take under consideration measures to forever ban the picture from all Texas movie houses . . ."

When Howe recently spoke his mind editorially on plans to film a story of the Texas Panhandle in Arizona, the legislature of that state took under consideration a resolution "relating to the protection of Arizona's integrity from envious and scurrilous slander" of "one Gene Howe."

The Texas Senate's resolution was adopted by a roaring, unanimous voice vote. It painted the past, present and future of the Panhandle and its people in glowing terms, and had this to say about Arizona, among other things:

"Though beautiful and picturesque in its own way, it is a region of extensive deserts where drouths prevail, and fails to compare even favorably with the beauty, fertility of soil, production of natural resources, or historical background, with that great empire in the Texas Panhandle, so that the production of said picture would tend to mislead and falsely portray the true virtues of this great Texas empire, and would otherwise tend to darken, destroy and slander its traditions, history and virtues."

Millions Of Americans Decline To Help
Many U. S. Families Can't See Need Of Paper Drives

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — Roughly two and a half million fewer households are now saving waste paper regularly in the U. S. Victory Waste Paper campaign than were doing so during the summer.

In July, a nation-wide survey found that approximately 22,000,000 households were able to say they were saving waste paper regularly in connection with the waste paper drive. Today, on the basis of a new survey, the figure stands at roughly 19,500,000.

GALLUP

These findings are, however, in line with many reports said to have come to the American Newspaper Publishers association from publishers in all parts of the country to the effect that public interest is decreasing and that new stimulation is needed in the campaign.

In fact, the newspaper committee of the waste paper campaign reports that plans have already been completed for a new program to stimulate greater public collections.

This plan, called the Double-V Waste Paper program, will, it is said, appeal for greatly increased collections and the channeling of a part of the receipts to provide extra comforts for wounded veterans or to aid other worthy causes.

To Be Announced

This new program will be formally announced at a dinner at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C., Thursday night, waste paper officials say.

Today's survey was made at the request of Institute member newspapers who, along with the rest of the nation's newspapers, have participated in the waste paper campaign since its inauguration more than a year ago.

Some of the other facts which emerge from the survey:

On the basis of the present survey, about 14,000,000 households are not now saving any waste paper regularly.

Many Unconvinced

About 10,000,000 families still are not convinced of the need for saving waste paper.

Of the appreciable proportion (21%) who say they have to carry waste paper to salvage depots, slightly more than half say they think they would save more if someone came by to pick it up regularly.

Only about one in every six offered any criticism of the way the drive itself is being conducted.

Here is some representative comment by those who had criticisms to make:

"The collectors forget to pick it up . . . They skip our street . . . Leaders need more zeal; a lot of talk and little performance . . . There aren't enough collections . . . Collections are too irregular . . . The paper isn't used after it's turned in . . . Makes the streets untidy, blows all around . . . The drive costs more than it's worth."

DONATE, OR ELSE

WITH U. S. FIRST ARMY, March 6. (AP)—German commanders have asked their soldiers to donate their March pay to relief of refugees from eastern Germany, it was learned today. The commanders ordered that any soldiers who refused should be reported to headquarters.

McAuliffe's Reply No Surprise To Germans

NEW YORK, March 6. (AP) — Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe's now famous reply of "Nuts!" to a surrender demand did not seem to surprise the German officers who received it, Corp. John H. Shaw of Franklinville, N. Y., said.

Staff Sgt. Stanley P. Koss of Corpus Christi, Tex., said the Germans called the American paratroopers "butchers with big pockets," adding that "our jump suits have big pockets in them."

"We were really short of ammunition at Bastogne," Staff Sgt. Robert Clifford of Grand Saline, Tex., declared. "One of the batteries had to scratch for live and damaged ammunition to fire at the Jerries."

The soldiers will be led on a tour of war plants in the Second Service command after which they will be furloughed.

Rent Official Gives Rules On Evictions

Three months must elapse as a general rule between the time a rental house is sold and action can be started under local law to evict the present tenant, George S. Bond, director of the Lubbock defense-rental area, said Monday.

The OPA rent director said he felt it necessary to restate the conditions governing eviction of the existing tenant by a purchaser when a house is sold in view of the increasing number of such sales in recent months.

"Not only must three months elapse from the date of the sale," Bond added, "but no certificate authorizing the start of eviction action will be issued until at least 20 per cent of the total purchase price has been paid. This certificate authorizes pursuit of eviction action in local courts three months from the date the petition requesting the certificate is filed and approved by my office."

"There are exceptions to his," Bond said. "One of them is where equivalent accommodations can be found into which the tenant can move without undue hardship or loss. However, with the housing situation as tight as it is in Lubbock, this exception won't be put to use very often."

Cage Champs Set For State Tourney

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS, March 6.—Colorful little Prairie Lea will be back at Austin this week-end for the state schoolboy basketball tournament.

Once the boys from this little south-central Texas town won most of their athletic fame in six-man football. Now they've gone all out in the cage sport.

Prairie Lea is the Class B defending state champion. The Class AA and Class A schools can be quite happy to sit on the sidelines and cheer the Indians on. They're fortunate they don't have to play them—at least most of the teams in the upper bracket can be thankful.

Prairie Lea doesn't draw the line on anybody. The Class AA and Class A teams look just like the rest of the fellers to them. They've stepped out of their division twice this season to register victories. One of the victims was Sidney Lanier of San Antonio, always a Class A power.

Won Without Coach

Last year Prairie Lea's orange and black-shirted cagers, from a town that registers some 240 souls, came to the big tournament with a lot of noise. They came to win the title and wouldn't take anything else.

The boys showed up without their coach. He had to be away to attend the funeral of a relative and didn't get there for the start. But the Leas stepped out and did just what the coach would have told them to do. He arrived in time to send them on to the championship.

The way Prairie Lea mopped up the field in the regional tournament last week was a criterian of how they've been manhandling the opposition all season. In three games the Leas, with second stringers seeing plenty of action, averaged over 58 points per tilt; their opponents got a little better than 25.

We'll take them again at Austin, maybe by more modest scores, but to breeze through with a minimum of trouble. We'll also pick them to furnish the most noise.

Great Cage Play

That state tournament at Austin Thursday, Friday and Saturday will show the observers why Texas has climbed to a top place in the national college basketball sun. You'll see some great cage play there, and it won't be confined to teams from the cities either.

In the 21 years when there was only one division of Texas Interscholastic League basketball, quintets from the smaller cities, towns and villages won 14 championships. Three times they were from places with fewer than 1,000 population.

Lindale was the first small town to come through but it was disqualified. Cushing and Carey were others and their titles stuck.

In 1942 the present system of three divisions—Class AA, Class A and Class B—was started.

Devore Named To Grid Post

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 6. (AP)—Line coach Hugh John Devore, former head coach at Providence (R.I.) college, today was appointed acting head football coach and athletic director at the University of Notre Dame. He replaces Ed McKeever, who resigned Feb. 27 to become head coach at Cornell university.

Devore, end and captain on the 1933 Irish team, becomes a temporary successor to Frank Leahy, who will return to a 10-year contract in both posts when he is discharged from the Navy.

Appointment of the 34-year-old Devore as Notre Dame's 20th football coach was announced by the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, Notre Dame president. It was believed the school's board of athletic also had considered two other experienced men on the Irish football staff—Adam Walsh and Clem Crowe, on leave from athletic positions at Bowdoin and Xavier university respectively.

Devore, a native of Newark, N. J., came to Notre Dame as line coach in 1943 from Holy Cross where he had assisted Frank Scanlan. His scouting reports were given considerable credit for Holy Cross' sensational upset of Boston College in 1942.

Father O'Donnell, who disclosed that an additional football assistant would be appointed later, expressed confidence that the revised Irish staff "will give an excellent account of itself during the wartime period." Both Walsh and Crowe will remain on the staff, the president said.

He also wished McKeever, whose one-year stay at the Irish helm last season produced eight victories in 10 games, Godspeed in his new field of endeavor."

Baseball Practice Begins For Frogs

FORT WORTH, March 6. (AP)—Baseball practice starts today at Texas Christian university. It will be the first team T.C.U. has put in the Southwest Conference race in three years.

Coach Dutch Meyer said he expected between 18 and 25 boys to report for the opening session.

IOWA REJECTS INVITATIONS

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 6. (AP)—The University of Iowa's Big Ten championship basketball team has voted not to accept any bids to post-season tournaments and that decision will stand as final, university officials announced today.

LEAVE FOR STATE MEET—The Whitharral girls basketball team leave today for Hillsboro where they enter the state basketball tournament against one of the greatest fields in the history of the event. The team, champions of District 18, have a season's record of 25 wins and two losses, with a current record of 13 wins in a row. Left to right in the back row are Bobbie Thurman, Ruby McCarty, W. O. Tipton, coach, Rosa Mary Dyer, Dorothy Robertson. Middle row, left to right, are Joyce Newsom, Madie Hudson, Gwendolyn Chester, Mary Lou Gage, Betty Jones. Front row, left to right, are Rebecca Keeney, Nannie Ruth Craigo and Mary Francis Matthews.

Travel Cut Pledged By Minor Leagues

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—Minor leagues of organized baseball today pledged compliance with the voluntary travel reduction policy recently adopted by the big leagues.

The Office of Defense Transportation disclosed receipt of a letter from W. G. Bramham, minor leagues' head, stating that he has asked presidents of all leagues and clubs to cooperate in cutting passenger miles.

The ODT had previously written to the office of baseball's commissioner, requesting that the policy put into effect by the big leagues be transmitted to all other leagues.

Idalou Outsiders To Battle Groce Tonight

Final game of the South Plains independent basketball league will be played at 8 o'clock tonight at the Idalou gym, when the Idalou Outsiders meet the Groce Furniture quintet.

The Idalou club, sparked by the Sage brothers, is favored, but the Groce aggregation has shown a sharpshooting eye for the basket in tilts this year.

Tahoka Fighters Shade Floydada

TAHOKA, March 6. (Special)—The Tahoka Bulldogs and Floydada Whirlwinds threw lots of leather here tonight in an action packed dual ring show between fighters from the two schools, with the more experienced Tahoka battlers winning a 9 to 5 edge in the 14 bout duel.

Two fast exhibition matches rounded out a fast 16-bout card, with Tahoka winning both matches over a pair of battlers from Post.

Every battle on the card provided plenty of thrills, with knockout honors divided between the two schools. Buddy Bishop of Floydada won the first Whirlwind victory with a TKO over Billy Waldrip.

Driver Lands Kayo

Jackie Driver, who was a finalist in the state Golden Gloves show at Fort Worth this year, and captain of the Tahoka boxing team, punched his way to a knockout win over B. Foster for the fifth win for the Bulldogs, and a lead in the scoring that was never headed.

Tahoka fighters won the first two bouts, then Floydada came back to win the next two in the pee-wee weight class, with all four fights showing plenty of rough give and take.

B. McMillon started Tahoka off with a win over John Mason, then Floydada's Bill Jeter evened up the count by beating D. Connor of Tahoka. Leonard Grisby then sent Floydada back into the lead with a win over Bobby Boyd. Van Brookshire, showing plenty of class, a stinging pair of mitts, and use of his experience to a good advantage, bested R. Handley to even the match just before the entermission.

Tahoka Hits Stride

Driver's knockout, and Glen Newton's fast win over D. Lambert sent Tahoka into the victory march. W. T. Conner bested C. Stevens for the last Floydada victory of the card in the thrid fight after the intermission.

Cecil Dorman punched his way with a high looping right, to a win over Billy Green; Dewayne Vaughn punched his way to a clearcut win over Royce McNeil and Kenneth Hanes put the finishing touches to the card with a win over Jimmy Price.

James Tippett and J. A. Dodson turned in hard hitting wins over R. E. Josey and D. C. Taylor from Post in the two final exhibitions. The Dodson-Taylor fight was both fast, and the bloodiest battle of the night, with Taylor getting a big hand for his game comeback from a bad beating in the early round.

Hopeful Senators Slated To Open Spring Training

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—Hopeful that everything will work out all right for baseball in the 1945 season, the Washington Senators will show the way to the major leagues tomorrow by opening spring training.

Within the next 10 days, most other American and National league teams will begin feeling their way toward the game's fourth wartime campaign.

As the Senators prepared for their first warmup at nearby College Park, Md., Clark Griffith, 75-year-old owner, spoke such brave words as:

"We're going to play even if we have to use nine old men. There will be no hesitancy about going ahead."

In other quarters, there are serious doubts about baseball's ability to weather tightening wartime conditions.

The game's player problem remains unsolved. Approximately 400 big league players will be needed, and whether that many will be available depends mainly on what Congress does with pending manpower legislation.

Only eight Washington players are expected to show up at the initial drill. Six are pitchers and two catchers. Other batterymen have wired they will be about a week late.

Club officials say 25 players have signed or accepted terms, and Griffith is confident all will show up in time for the start of the season April 17.

Johnsos Rejects Job With Cleveland Rams

CHICAGO, March 6. (AP)—Luke Johnsos, co-coach of the Chicago Bears, said today he had rejected an offer of $20,000 annually to coach the Cleveland Rams, rival club in the National Football league.

Johnsos, former Northwestern university star end, played with the Bears from 1928 through 1936.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

S.B. 38 Is For The Helpless

IF there ever was placed before any Texas legislature a bill which should be unanimously passed into law and without a single spoken or written word of protest by the public it is the current Senate Bill No. 38.

Proposed jointly by one senator from West Texas and another from East Texas, S. B. 38 calls for a special appropriation to be used in the education of physically handicapped children. Its sponsors are Sen. Pat Bullock, formerly of Snyder and now of Colorado City; and Sen. G. C. Morris, of Greenville. The appropriation, if approved, will be in the sum of $125,000—certainly not much to the great State of Texas, especially when the use to which it would be put is considered.

In every school district in Texas—including our own here in Lubbock—there reside physically handicapped youngsters who cannot be educationally administered to in the same way unhandicapped children are. Because they need special equipment with which to work; often need special instruction and day-to-day care, a special fund is needed. Should S. B. 38 become law, as it ought, the $125,000 will be allocated in shares not to exceed $200 per year per crippled child, so all special needs of the handicapped youngsters can be met.

Is there in Texas any citizen who can honestly oppose the passage of S. B. 38?

Are there among us any who fail to realize that the Texas system of public education is lacking—and will continue to be lacking—until special arrangements are made to meet special cases?

In this state are thousands of boys and girls of school age who, because of cruel fate, cannot attend public school under present arrangements. These children are normal, mentally. They are not "queer." They simply are physically crippled. Certainly, they must not be mitigated against further, nature already having dealt to them among the bitterest of blows to which humanity is heir.

The Morning Avalanche is certain that Sen. Sterling Parish and Rep. Preston Smith and their neighboring colleagues in Senate and House will support passage of S. B. 38. We do not believe there is any danger of either of these men opposing the bill.

But we are sure that both Messrs. Parish and Smith would like to hear from their constituents, direct, in this regard, so they will be further armed in whatever efforts they may see fit to expend in the bill's behalf.

Therefore, in the name of humanity—in the name of decency and of fair play—we urge Lubbock and South Plains residents to write their senator and representative briefly (a postcard will do) and say:

"Please do everything you can for the crippled children of Texas. Support Senate Bill No. 38."

Those citizens who do that will be helping the helpless; will be performing a good deed; will be walking in the footsteps of Him who, when on earth, said of little children, "of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

Breaking The Nazi Will

INSIDE German prisoner of war camps in this country, Army authorities recently revealed, a Nazi reign of terror went on between September, 1943, and April, 1944. During that period there were six killings, two forced suicides and numerous beatings carried out by groups of Nazi prisoners who set themselves up as secret governments on the Hitler model.

This disclosure, aside from the details, was not exactly news when finally made. It previously had been charged, and even admitted by the authorities, that exactly this situation prevailed in German prisoner of war camps. But it is only since such matters have apparently been brought under control that the public has been given a full account.

It is not a pleasant story. On the contrary, it is one to sicken any normal human being. But there is a lesson in it for Americans, because the recurrence of Nazi habits of thought and Nazi methods, even among prisoners of war, shows plainly enough that it will be difficult to stamp out this evil ideology on German soil, no matter how complete the final victory.

Still, there is some hope in the fact that the stern measures taken against those responsible for these outrages—all those who could be linked with them have been court-martialed and the guilty have been severely punished—have proved effective. In the last nine months no such crimes have been committed. The record proves that the Nazis understand this language.

If there is no changing the Nazi nature, at least the Nazi will can be broken. And the victorious United Nations must break that Nazi will if it takes, as Hitler once said his world conquest might take, 1,000 years.

Note to the snooty: There is no "Servants' Entrance" to heaven.

THE ORGAN WITH A HUMAN HEART

Karl Loewe, church music composer, was the organist of the Church of St. Jacobi in Stettin for 46 years. When he died at the age of 73, he directed that his heart be put in his work. The heart of the organist was encased in a silver locket and placed within the heart of the organ. The organ now plays Loew's compositions right from the composer's heart.

CHICAGO—THE YOUNG GIANT

I

Jeff Martin had been in Chicago exactly one week when he received a written invitation, through the mail, from Caroline Henderson inviting him to come to a little party on Sunday evening. She wrote that after dinner a number of young people, friends living in the neighborhood, were coming in.

Caroline was the wife of Charles Henderson, whom he had not seen since the time they were both young reporters on the Baltimore Sun many years before. Jeff's meeting up with him again in Chicago was pure coincidence. While strolling about the streets as a sightseer, he had passed the Bully Bargain House and noticed that that establishment offered its entire stock of men's clothing for sale at reduced prices. Remembering that he had brought with him only a few shirts and pieces of underwear, and needed more right away, he went in. The proprietor turned out to be his old friend, Henderson.

When Jeff had made up his mind to accept Caroline's invitation, he sent a messenger boy all the way out to the Henderson home with a polite and stilted acceptance written on hotel paper. He himself was staying at the Briggs House downtown until he got settled.

There were six or seven young men and women at the Sunday evening party besides a number of their elders. They ran all over the house as if they owned it, calling aloud to one another, in the highest of youthful spirits. Some played games, such as lotto, parchesi and checkers; others went in for riddles and tricks that one plays with words. Jeff was surprised to find himself the unbeaten checker champion of the party.

Mrs. Henderson had a supper served at 9:30, though she did not call it supper but a "collation." It was really a substantial meal, served in plates which one had to hold carefully on his knee to keep from spilling the contents on the floor.

After the collation the girls gathered around the organ and sang the current ballads and such old stand-bys as "Beulah Land," "Old Black Joe" and:

In the gloaming, oh my darling,
When the lights are dim and low,
And the quiet shadows, falling,
Softly come and softly go.

The young girls, with their heads bent together over the organ, formed a beautiful picture; and their gentle voices made one think of life as a delightful emotion rather than as a harsh reality.

At about a quarter to 10 Charles Henderson went out on the lawn to see if all the chairs had been brought in. He returned quickly to the sitting room and beckoned to Jeff Martin and another man. They wondered what was in his mind until they got outdoors and Henderson pointed southward. Over that section of the city—but far downtown — there stood a fiery glow that cast shadows of the three men standing on the Henderson lawn. "That's a big blaze," said the heavily bearded man—Mr. Pollard was his name — who had come out with Jeff and Charlie, "and it covers ground, too. Wide as a dozen sunrises."

"Where do you think it is, Pollard?" Henderson asked, rather anxiously, or so Jeff thought.

"It's hard to say, but my guess is that it's on the West Side, down below Harrison street, among those lumber yards. It's a good three miles from here."

"It may spread across the river," Henderson said. "But that river's a pretty big gap for fire to cross. What d'you think?"

"Listen, Henderson, when a fire gets to going in a big way there's no telling on God's earth what it'll do," Pollard replied, speaking slowly, as if weighing every word.

Silently the three men on the lawn watched the spreading glow in the southern sky. The strains of "A Girl in Every Port"—a comical song about a sailor and his sweethearts — came from the house, mingled with much laughter.

"That fire's got bigger since we've been standing here," Jeff remarked. "It's further over to the east now. D'you suppose it has crossed the river?"

"God knows." This came from Charles Henderson. "The wind is from the southwest, blowing straight in this direction." It was indeed a heavy wind that had whistled around the houses and blown like a gale in the streets all day.

"Well, gentlemen," Mr. Pollard said, "I think I'd better take my wife and daughter home. We've had a very pleasant evening, thanks to you and your charming better half. No, no, don't bother to come in with me. I'll say good night right here."

"I think we'd better go in, anyway," Henderson remarked. "We'll have to tell the people in there about the fire. It does look serious." They were then walking toward the house.

Henderson stopped the music and when he had obtained the silent attention of everyone he told of the fire and the view of it from the lawn. Immediately there was a stir. Some of the guests ran to take a look; others gathered up their wraps and made ready to leave. Caroline Henderson asked them not to go home so early. "The fire," she said, "is so far away, and we can read about it in the paper tomorrow morning." But everybody was intent on going home. The party had come to an end. It was then 10:30 in the evening of Oct. 8, 1871.

Accused Missing For Indisputable Reason

DALLAS, March 6 (AP)—Officers were preparing to forfeit the man's bonds after he failed to answer when his cases were called for trial.

Then his attorney spoke up:

"He can't be here. He's in the city jail. He was arrested last night for theft of a purse."

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

IF YOU ever have occasion to stop at the Hotel Mayflower in Washington, be sure to have one of our meals—if your pocketbook can stand it—in their main dining room and have Raymond Pagnien, the headwaiter, take your order.

Headwaiters, as you know, are a very peculiar kind of breed. They can make you feel like thirty cents or like a millionaire, all according to the way you strike them.

BRANDEIS

And, somehow, headwaiters are not usually fooled by fourflushers, nor is their demeanor toward you determined by the condition of your pocketbook.

Headwaiters seem to have an instinct for sizing up people. They can tell breeding and savior faire a mile way, and if you are the real thing in human beings you'll get treated exactly the way you deserve it.

Oh yes, a $50 bill will usually get you a good table even in the most exclusive spot, but it won't get you a headwaiter's respect.

But to get back to Raymond Pagnien of the Mayflower.

Don't picture him as the typical headwaiter. There's nothing stiff or snooty about him. There's no deference in his makeup and, to tell you the truth, if you didn't know who he is, you'd take him for some sort of a comedian who's doing a gag.

I've never seen him when he didn't need a haircut, and quite often he needs a shave, too.

But it's worth a $5 dinner just to watch him in action. I have never yet seen him at a table when there wasn't laughter and gaiety as long as he was there.

THE other evening there was a pretty important party in the dining room. They had everything from soup to nuts and then came the dessert.

There were all sorts of exotic things listed on the menu, but it was late and everything was gone.

The guests complained bitterly—imagine no Crepe suzette, no Peach Melba, no Baked Alaska.

Raymond was called. In a few moments the ire of the guests had changed to laughter. A few jokes, an exaggerated expression of his sorrow—and everyone of the important patrons was served a piece of apple pie at 40 cents a portion and liked it.

I had a little chat with Raymond.

"Why do the people here like you so much?" I asked him.

"Well, I guess it's because I like them," he said. "And may be also because I love my work. You see I know that when people come here they spend a lot of money and they feel important and want to make an impression.

"So I treat them like very important people and I help them make an impression on their guests. They go away pleased, even if I can only give them apple pie."

I HAPPEN to know that Raymond has quite a lot of money. He owns property and a lovely home. I am almost sure he could retire and take it easy.

But I also know that as long as he can get around he'll keep on looking after the spoiled grown-up children who patronize his hotel and see to it that they are made to feel as important as they are trying to make others think they are.

Which, for no particular reason, makes me think of a woman who used to come to our house to do the heavy cleaning.

She told my wife that she was crazy about the work.

My wife asked her why.

"Don't you think it's nice to take something that's dirty and make it all nice and clean?" she replied.

I kind of envy Raymond and our cleaning woman. Don't you?

Co-Ordinated Chaos!

Manpower Bumfuzzles Congress

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CONGRESSIONAL veterans admit that they have never seen the executive and legislative branches of the government so confused about any problem as they are on the proper allocation of manpower to the armed forces, factories and farms. And the more Washington resolves and issues orders, the more muddled the question becomes.

Satisfactory statistics are missing and those available are contradictory. No one trusts the other fellows' figures on the number needed for prosecution of the war or maintenance of the civilian economy. Everyone concedes that there is great waste and misuse of workers and fighters.

TUCKER

It is estimated that a million able-bodied men to handle guns or machines could be summoned under a more rigid screening system. But no one has submitted a proper plan.

Sectional feelings aggravate the tangle. Farm representatives on Capitol Hill insist that their constituents be given as high an exemption as industrial employes. Legislators from the cities maintain that their areas cannot produce the goods and weapons unless more workers are permitted to remain in the war plants.

Agricultural spokesmen contend that food requirements for 1945 and future years cannot be met unless the government shows more consideration for the growers of crops. In addition to the shortage of help, they warn of WFA's greater demands, lack of machinery and feed and a possible end of the excellent growing weather of the past four years.

SUSPICION: Personal feuds involving the officials charged with clearing up the situation add to the behind-the-scenes difficulties. For some reason James F. Byrnes has shown unusual restraint when circumstances demanded that he knock together a few important and jealous heads.

Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey squabbles continually with Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt, a fellow-Hoosier. Each wants the right to supervise any work-or-fight statute that may be enacted by Congress.

General Hershey has the backing of Henry Stimson and the White House. But industry and labor side with McNutt, asserting that the Army seeks to use the war as a pretext for getting control of all the civilian economy of the nation. This suspicion underlies Senate opposition to the original House bill, and explains the unrelenting hostility of both the labor unions and manufacturers.

Oddly, Byrnes seems to disagree with President Roosevelt. The War Mobilizer, innately a conservative, prefers that a civilian official administer controls over individuals.

This confusion on the Potomac accounts for the inconsistencies of the local draft boards, which in turn irritate their immediate victims as well as parents, employers and the communities.

Some conscription units follow the Hershey directives religiously. Others interpret the regulations in accordance with their congressmen's more lenient attitude as evidenced in their public speeches and private letters. Many boards write to Capitol Hill instead of to Selective Service for advice on ticklish questions. Still others act in conformity with community need, sentiment and friendship.

STASSEN: Political observers believe that Harold Stassen exhibited more astuteness—and better statesmanship—than did Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg in response to the presidential appointment to attend the San Francisco conference of the United Nations.

No one criticizes the senator from Michigan for delaying his formal acceptance but they think that the former governor of Minnesota has placed himself in a stronger and more strategic position by his immediate acquiescence. The reaction is especially significant because Vandenberg is one of the best-liked Republicans on Capitol Hill, whereas the naval officer's alliance with the late Wendell Wilkie in 1940 and thereafter won him no popularity with the GOP-ers here.

Vandenberg intends to try to get more light on the purpose and background of the deliberations, and to wrest a White House public assurance that no strings are attached to his service.

RISK: The Roosevelt answer to a request for this certainty will, of course, be in the negative. But by engaging in advance consultation with FDR, the senator may leave himself open to the hostile construction that he seeks only to avoid personal and political embarrassment.

Stassen, according to the interpretation here, appears to have been more forthright and courageous. He has accepted, expressed his stand on major international problems beforehand and declared that he will voice his own views, regardless of whom they may displease or disappoint. He admits that the assignment may become a "political liability," but he says that he is willing to run the risk.

Incidentally, the GOP's present attitude is almost comical. For years it assailed Woodrow Wilson for not inviting a prominent member of the party to Versailles. Republicans also think that FDR has handled foreign policy too exclusively. Now they wish he had asked only Democrats to represent the U. S. at what may be a highly controversial powwow.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

Even though it may be too early to talk of the complete bagging of von Rundstedt, the gaining of the Ruhr will be of stupendous significance.

This narrow strip lodges a concentration of industry without parallel anywhere else in the world. Some of its factories have been dispersed and its outpost curtailed by constant aerial strafing. Still it remains the Number One economic prize of the war.

LEMAN

The Germans do not underestimate its value. Published the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, "The fate of the Ruhr is the fate of Germany." And the paper was not exaggerating.

The industrial system in this belt was the foundation on which Bismarck built his military empire. But, from the day of the Iron Chancellor, Berlin militarists have recognized the peril in its exposed position close to the Dutch frontier without protecting mountains.

One of the reasons for the famous Schlieffen plan, by which a German offensive against the Allies was launched in 1914 through Belgium, was to keep the precious Ruhr mines and mills far away from the battlefields.

LOSS: New York business executives give this word picture of the Ruhr's importance: The district is the world's second largest producer of iron and steel. (The USA is first.) Before the war it turned out as much rolled steel as all the rest of Europe put together.

It is pat of the coal belt which runs from Wales to the Donetz Basin in Russia and contains the finest deposits in this mighty ribbon. Coal generates electricity and synthetic gasoline, on which the Reich depends now that it has lost the natural supplies of petroleum from Rumania, Poland and Estonia. Refineries have been built at the pit heads to save haulage.

The Silesian area has already fallen, and with the Ruhr and Saar Basins under Anglo-American attack the plight of the enemy can be appreciated.

A correspondent asked, "What is the most expensive educational institution in the world?" The institution of marriage, of course.

"If you wish to keen a woman intrigued, at intervals avoid seeing her for a week or so," advises a heart-throb columnist. How?

It is our guess that many glandular troubles result from lack of sufficient exercise of the sweat glands.

Secretary's Advisory Board Called Sound

Wallace Appointments Approved

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Sorrespondent

WASHINGTON.—It is interesting and significant that Henry Wallace's first act after becoming Secretary of Commerce was to appoint a committee of businessmen and bankers to look into the problems of small business which has been pushed around during the war, some of it shoved to the wall and out of the picture.

This is no empty gesture.

STOKES

Thriving and independent small and medium-sized business is a part of the Wallace program for post-war business and industrial expansion necessary to open up additional job opportunities. It must do its share.

Small business has recognized a champion in the new Commerce secretary. This was manifest in the support for him from that quarter while much of big business, through its representatives in Congress, was sending up wails of gloomy condemnation. They were so successful that they were able to pry loose from the jurisdiction of Mr. Wallace the numerous lending agencies administered for so long by Jesse Jones.

He'll Have Influence

This will be a handicap to the Secretary of Commerce. For he had ideas of how these agencies might be administered more in the public interest to provide post war employment opportunities, including the full use of peace time production of the vast war plant capacity built and owned by the Defense Plant Corp., one of the agencies.

However, Mr. Wallace will have influence upon postwar economic policies as a member of the President's cabinet. It is likely, too, that Mr. Roosevelt will appoint as Federal Loan administrator, to succeed Jesse Jones, a man generally sympathetic to the basic Wallace approach to postwar problems, for that approach is sound and not visionary as was shouted by the Jeremiahs.

IT can be forecast safely that Henry Wallace will not become the typical Secretary of Commerce who retires with his statistics and issues only an occasional public statement and makes occasional public speeches patting business on the back and buttering it up. He will be no shrinking violet, and no polite "yes-man." He is preparing to campaign actively and continually for his ideas.

It has been said—though it is by no means nearly the whole truth—that this appointment represents a political reward. But it won't be administered now as a political perquisite. That is certain.

Mr. Wallace is interested in the promotion of business, and probably will do more about it than any secretary since Herbert Hoover, but he is interested in many other things, too, in promoting the welfare of American society as a whole.

Appointments Are Index

His appointment of the business-banking committee at the outset is an index to part of his thinking and planning.

The banker representation is significant. The new secretary will have the benefit of practical advice on his idea of government - guaranteed loans with the government underwriting a large part of the risk.

It is not a new idea. Conservative businessmen have advanced it. It has been successfully in the real estate field, for instance, through the government's Federal Housing administration. The Federal Reserve board has worked out a plan which has been discussed with Congress. In his committee Mr. Wallace included one of the Federal Reserve board of governors, Ernest G. Draper, along with two private bankers.

THE great cross-section of business, large and small, embodied in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce will be represented through Eric Johnston, president of that organization, who knows his way around Washington and who is familiar with government processes.

It was wise, too, that the new secretary included among representatives of business on his committee two men with backgrounds in government—Prentiss Brown, now chairman of the Board of Detroit Edison Co., former senator and OPA administrator, and Stacy May, now with McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., who was the chief WPB's research division.

Business is likely to find out very soon that Henry Wallace is no starry-eyed novice. He knows what he's about.

Veteran Airman Is Found Dead In Creek

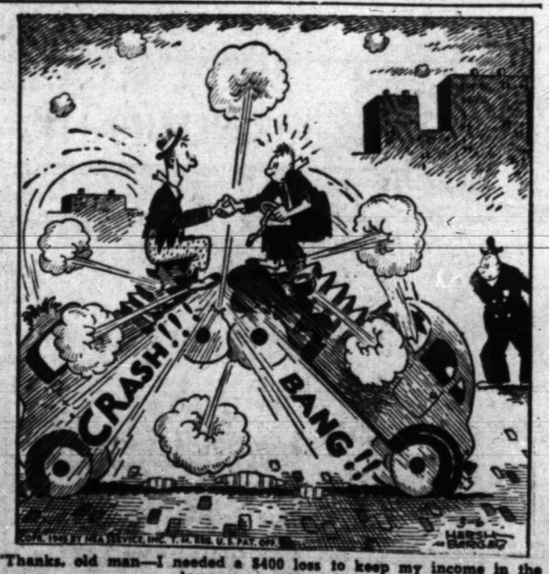

HAMILTON FIELD, Calif., March 6 (AP)—The body of a decocorated Army flying hero from the rated Army flying hero fro mthe Pacific was found Monday half submerged in San Anselmo creek not far from here and doctors at this Army bombing base immediately began an autopsy.

Vinson Approved As Loan Administrator

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—The Senate confirmed today President Roosevelt's nomination of Fred M. Vinson to be federal loan administrator.

Acting with unusual speed, the chamber approved the appointment of the 55-year-old Kentuckian to head the $40,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation and allied agencies. The action was taken on a voice vote without a word of debate.

Vinson thus steps out as economic stabilization director to assume authority which Congress stripped from the Commerce department before the Senate confirmed the cabinet nomination of Henry A. Wallace.

The Vinson appointment had been approved unanimously earlier in the day by the Senate Banking committee.

PRICES GAIN SHARPLY

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP)—Pivotal industrials, led by steels, pushed the stock market to the highest average level in nearly eight years today with gains ranging fro m1 to 2 points for favorites.

Investment demand, seeking an inflation hedge, inspired the principal bidding. The good war news again highlighted assorted issues in the peace-rated category. Another batch of pleasing earnings and dividends aided bullish entiment.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .3 of a point at 62.6, a peak since Sept. 4, 1937.

Conspicuous on the upside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, Southern Railway, Chrysler, Studebaker, Pure Oil, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Philip Morris.

Alleghany Corp. stocks dropped ½ to 2½ points in th ewake of an ICC examiner's proposed report charging that control of Chesapeake and Ohio and other roads through the former was affected in violation of the Interstate Commerce act. C. and O. common was off ¼.

Declines were posted for Goodyear, Goodrich, American Water Works, American Can, Du Pont and International Telephone.

Cotton..

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP) — Cotton futures reacted more than $1 a bale from the early highs of the day on nervous liquidation, which met only scale down mill buying and covering. The reaction was influenced by Marvin Jones' recommendation of a two-price plan for cotton and the elimination of the purchase program in testimony before the Senate Banking and Currency committee.

The market was firm in early dealings on tightness in spot cotton and unfavorable crop news.

Late afternoon price 15 cents a bale higher to 35 cents lower. March 22.19; May 22.12; July 21.84.

Futures closed 5 to 35 cents a bale higher.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 6 (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular here today with the near months supported by price fixing. Joint Navy Action speed far from their home bases.

British commanders, in contrast, have devoted their strategic studies to short range warfare at 10 to 15 knot speed.

Allied warships had two not too satisfactory joint operations when U. S. and British carriers teamed to bomb Sumatra and Soerabaja in the Dutch East Indies in April and May, 1944.

Results were excellent. True. But the operations affirmed that such basically contrasting warships can not operate with the perfect coordination required for a strike as bold as a bombing of strongly-defended Japan.

British and American ship parts are not interchangeable—not even bolts and screws so that each fleet would need complete replacements for all types of vessels readily available.

There are some other minor differences that could be worked out but the basic differences—fast, long range ships and slower, short range vessels—constitute a problem not quickly solved.

Pacific Battles

forces neared, might soon be recaptured.

Chinese field dispatches reported that Suichwan, former airbase city, has been practically surrounded by Chinese troops. Independent reports suggested the Japanese, having knocked out the bases, were retiring from the zone.

American fliers based in China wrecked a half dozen railroad bridges and damaged another in French Indo-China. They also hit the Japanese airdrome southeast of Hanoi, destroying 10 planes.

Bombers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command sank a 6,000-ton freighter-transport off Formosa and left a destroyer escort in flames during extensive sweeps of China sea shipping.

Naval patrol torpedo boats sank a coastal ship loaded with "escaping" troops off the west coast of Luzon.

MacArthur reported only limited activity on Luzon, saying his forces were "regrouping for the final phases of the Luzon campaign."

Rabinof Greeted By Responsive Audience

A large and very responsive audience heard Benno Rabinof, violinist, and Sylvia Smith, pianist, in a concert sponsored by the Kiwanis club's underprivileged children's committee last night at the High school auditorium. This was Rabinof's second appearance in Lubbock.

Most warmly received of Rabinof's numbers were "Ave Maria," "Horo Staccato," "The Round of the Goblins" and "The Flight of the Bumble Bee."

Miss Smith, who played solo numbers as well as appearing as accompanist for Rabinof, showed particularly expert technique in her treatment of Liszet's "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2."

Pattonmen Lash Out For Coblenz

put up surprisingly weak resistance as the U. S. Third Armored division and 104th Infantry smashed through to the Rhine near the cathedral, at the western end of the Hohenzollern bridge.

"The fighting," said Associated Press front reporter Don Whitehead, "was not the last-stand, do-or-die defense that had been expected. Cologne is no Aachen manned by a garrison prepared to fight house to house and street to street."

There was no escape for the surviving Nazis across any of the five bridges across the Rhine at Cologne. All had been destroyed by Allied bombings. Bonn, toward which the remnants were retreating, is some 13 miles up the winding river from Cologne.

North of the stricken city American forces cleared the Rhine all the way to Neuss, opposite Duesseldorf, except for a small pocket near Zons, virtually ending the fighting in that sector.

One Other Bridgehead

The only other enemy bridgehead on the west bank of the Rhine between Cologne and the Dutch frontier was at Wesel, and it had shrunk down to an area less than eight miles wide by six deep. A dispatch from Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's headquarters said it had lost all but its nuisance value.

British and Canadian big guns were shelling some 10,000 Nazi troops in the constricted pocket and trying to knock out their escape bridges across the Rhine.

American troops, after clearing Rheinberg, mopped up the region west of a railroad from Rheinberg to Moores.

South of Cologne the Germans fought hard to hold open their corridor to Bonn, bringing up tanks to hold the flank of the escape route.

Six Villages Cleared

The Ninth Armored division cleared six villages in an eastward push from Euskirchen and reached the edge of Oberdrees, nine miles southwest of Bonn.

Farther south, Whitehead said, the Germans simply were retreating with doughboys marching after them.

American troops captured a large Ford factory just north of Cologne. There was no immediat report whether the plant had been damaged by Allied bombings, but a prisoner said it still was in operation a few months ago.

Cologne itself was estimated to be 85 per cent destroyed from the 42,000 tons of bombs dropped on it since May, 1942. More than 95 per cent of the old city, which embraces the cathedral, is a rubble heap.

Looks Like Stalingrad

"Cologne looks like Stalingrad," an RAF officer told Whitehead. "There are some 2,000 acres of damage in the city. Cologne industry was spread through the city much like industries in Detroit. The only way to attack the industry was to destroy the city."

Rain and low clouds over the entire Western front grounded Allied air forces and protected German troops in their withdrawals across the Rhine by barge and ferry.

Gen. Patton's Fourth Armored division was reported leading the dash to the Rhine northeast of Bitburg. In reaching a point only 20 miles from the Rhine the Fourth crossed four rivers, including the Kyll, the Liesser, the Kleine Kyll and the Salm. Its last reported position was in the vicinity of Schonbach, 25 miles northeast of Bitburg and 28 from the Rhine, but the division was known to have driven at least another eight miles.

The captured German general was Lt. Gen. Edwin Graf von Rothkirch Und Trach, 59, commander of the 53rd German Army corps. He was seized with his entire staff. Great numbers of British and French prisoners were being liberated by the Third Army's rapid surge northeastward. Roads were hub-deep in mud.

German resistance remained strong along the Seventh Army front opposite the Saar.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Knight of Tahoka on birth of a son weighing 7 pounds 6½ ounces at 8:33 o'clock Tuesday night at Lubbock General hospital. The father is a farmer.

Loyalty Banquet Set At Church Tonight

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church will hold its annual loyalty banquet at 7 o'clock tonight in Fellowship hall, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor.

The banquet is open to the entire membership of the church, Dr. Lewis said. "There will be no charge for the banquet and no offering taken," he said.

A brief musical program will follow the banquet. Group singing will be led by Dr. W. H. Foster and a solo number, "The Lord Is My Light," will be sung by Tate Fry, tenor.

A regular business session will see the election of Sunday school officers, members of the 1938 class of elders and deacons, and officers for other organizations of the church. The financial budget for the new church year, beginning April 1, will be presented.

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, chairman of the stewardship committee, will serve as toastmaster at the banquet.

Seven Indictments

charged, upon request, by Judge Pardue, who said his appreciation for its "prompt and efficient services, as well as for those of the district attorney."

Report On Enforcement

He took cognizance of the following report, in part, of the body, submitted in writing, and said he would refer its context to "other law enforcement organizations":

"The city police department, through its chief, Don Reeder, and assistant chief, Bill Mabray, have recently instituted a system of case reports which are now being submitted to the district attorney in each felony case investigated by that department, which gives all available information concerning the case in great detail, including the names and addresses of all witnesses and the information that can be expected to be obtained from such witnesses.

Increase Efficiency

"In the past it has been noted that cases are frequently submitted to the grand jury without having been fully investigated and such practice has increased the labors of the grand jury and the district attorney. We feel that the making of case reports will serve to increase the efficiency of our law enforcement in this county and we think that the police department is to be highly commended for its work in this regard. It is the opinion of the grand jury that these case reports are worthy of emulation by all law enforcement officers, and we strongly recommend that other enforcement officers submit a case history of each case investigated by them to the end that a permanent record may be made of any and all information available in each case."

Judge Pardue, in accepting the report of the grand jury, also said he desired to "make a report to it."

He said that of the 16 indictments returned by the grand jury at an earlier report, 14 of those cases had been disposed of by trial procedure.

Washings Now Hang On Siegfried Line

(By The Associated Press)

Allied washing has been hanging on the Siegfried line for some time time now, but it still gets a laugh from visitors to the front.

Prime Minister Churchill saw the words of the popular British song "We'll Hang Our Washing on the Siegfried Line" come true March 4.

Driving through the Reichwald his car came to a sign saying "this is the Siegfried line" and a few yards beyond, beside a line supporting several pieces of apparel, was another sign "and this is the washing."

Medics Inspect New Hospital-Clinic Here

Members of the Lubbock-Crosby Medical association, along with trustees of the Lubbock Independent School district and various other citizens inspected the new hospital-clinic in Carver Heights when the medical group held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night in the newly-completed building.

Dr. J. A. Chatman, who will operate the center, was host. He conducted a tour of the building.

Approximately 60 persons were present. A dinner of barbecued chicken and "the trimmin's" were served.

The medical association conducted a routine business session.

The building will be dedicated at services March 13 in the auditorium at Dunbar High school. Chas. A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal, will be guest speaker. An openhouse will follow at the hospital clinic.

Country Seay And Girl Friend Held

DALLAS, March 6. (AP)—Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Decker said gasoline coupons good for 15,000 gallons were seized here Tuesday after the arrest of Loron (Country) Seay, 40, federal fugitive with a long criminal record.

Arrested with Seay was Ruby Whitlock, about 30, alias Ruby Harris, whose record, like Seay's, covers two pages in the Federal Bureau of Investigation files.

The ration coupons were taken in burglaries recently at Bonham and Honey Grove.

Allies And Reds Consolidate For "One Last Heave" For Knockout

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Allied and Russian armies alike are rapidly consolidating positions in readiness for that "one strong heave" which Prime Minister Churchill says could end the European war. Too many factors are unknown to any but highest command circles, however, for more than a guess at when, where and how the last big push will develop.

SIMPSON

It is to be assumed that Mr. Churchill had the Rhine crossing in mind when he made the statement on his surprise weekend visit to the American and Canadian fronts in Germany. It is also to be assumed, nevertheless, that his trip was more than a sight-seeing expedition and was somehow related to Russian-Allied joint operations planned at Yalta.

Disintegration Sets In

Final disintegration of Nazi left bank organized resistance all the way from the Moselle to Arnhem has set in. Little more than a token defense of the left bank bridgehead at Cologne was indicated.

An even more startling 25-mile forward lunge by Third Rhine Army tanks to within striking distance of Coblenz on the middle Rhine was reported at the same time. It means that Patton's fast moving armor is well astride Nazi super military highways west of the Rhine, virtually splitting the Saar basin sector off from the collapsed northern end of the German west bank defense front.

The breakthrough down the Moselle clearly indicates a Nazi retreat behind the Rhine throughout its whole length. That will afford the Allied high command opportunity to mask its intended main crossing points from the foe by feints or air and big gun bombardment of many points simultaneously. It will certainly stretch the Nazi defense line along the east bank too thin for security.

Coblenz Area Vulnerable

The Coblenz area of the Rhine valley toward which Third Army tanks are charging is a vulnerable sector. There is flat ground on both sides of the stream sufficient for east bank bridgehead operations. Left bank road and rail connections vital to the foe for linking the middle and lower reaches of the Rhine defensively run west of the river under shadow of the left bank hills through which Patton's tanks are plunging.

An east-west super highway lateral crosses the Rhine just north of Coblenz. It is the western end of the military road that spans central Germany to the Dresden region in the east and beyond and along which Russian columns have been pushing toward Dresden from the Oder valley. Allied crossings of the Rhine in the Coblenz theater could prove more immediately disastrous for Nazi hopes of staging a final last-ditch fight in the great central plain or the Bavarian Alps than would a breaching of the Rhine front in the Bonn-Cologne-Wesel sector of the north.

As the foe endeavors to brace for the last grim watch on the Rhine there is another factor to give him uneasiness. The river is being reached by the Allies at all vital points without the full battle strength at General Eisenhower's command having been committed to action.
