Funeral rites for John Herman Starr, prominent young gin manager of this county, were conducted Friday afternoon, July 5, from the Church of Christ in Wellington, with Minister Garvin Toms, pastor, in charge.

Mr. Starr, who lived at Lutie, died at 10:35 o'clock Thursday evening of injuries received in an automobile accident Saturday evening, June 29.

One of the largest crowds to have gathered for such an occasion in recent years were present to attend the funeral rites, and not only friends from all parts of the county, but those from many towns in different sections of the state.

Bearers for the service included five brothers-in-law and an uncle, Lowell Wells, Herbert Dunbar, Los Angeles, Calif., Horace Ruggs, Earl Hunter, Walter and Horace Small of Amarillo, Flower, bearers were Mrs. Arva Couch, Mrs. Archie Copeland of Lubbock, Mrs. Newton Crane of Canyon, Miss Laverne Clark, Mrs. John Lee, and Miss Mildred Slough.

Hymns for the service included "Dividing Line," "Near The Cross" and "Where We'll Never Grow Old." Interment was in the Quail Cemetery with the Kelso Funeral Home in charge.

A native of Collingsworth County, Mr. Starr was born April 7, 1911, at Quail, and at the time of his death he was 29 years, 2 months and 27 days of age. He was the son of Paul E. Starr of Wellington and the late Annie White Starr.

His entire life was spent in Collingsworth County. He attended the local schools, and following his graduation, he became associated with his father in the gin business. For the last few years he had been manager of the Lutie Gin at Lutie.

Federal Land Bank Lowers Interest Rate

Farmers in Collingsworth County will save about $24,500.00 a year as a result of legislation just enacted by Congress affecting interest rates on Federal Land Bank and Land Bank Commissioner loans, Lee C. O'Neil, secretary of the Wellington NFILA has announced.

The temporary rate of 3½% on first mortgage Land Bank loans will be continued for two years ending June 30, 1942. During this period the interest rate on first and second mortgage Land Bank and Commissioner loans will be reduced from 4 to 3½%.

Land Bank and Commissioner loans were originally written at contract rates averaging about 5%.

At present about 477 Collingsworth County farmers have land Bank and Commissioner loans outstanding aggregating $1,635,000.00. The difference between the contract rate and the temporary rate thus affects a substantial savings for farmers.

In a statement from Washington, A. G. Black, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, said that the savings to farmers through the reduced interest rate will have the same effect as an addition to the farmers net income.

"The ultimate purpose of the reduced interest rate on Land Bank and Commissioner Loans is to help farmers keep down their fixed charges and thus leave more income for the retirement of debt principal, or to meet necessary operating and living expenses," Gov. Black said.

"Money saved on interest charges will thus be reflected in increased purchasing power, benefitting both industry and agriculture, and also help in a measure to raise farm living standards and safeguard farm ownership."

Frank Gulley, Future Farmer of the Samnorwood chapter, has been named Lone Star Farmer of Texas by the Texas Association of Future Farmers of America. This honor is a climax to four years of FFA work.

A further honor bestowed on this farm youth of the Lutie community was his appointment to the state committee on part time students. This committee is a major one, and plans for the advancement of the FFA work among those boys enrolled as part time students. Leaders of the FFA feel this is one of the major problems to be solved by that organization.

Two other Samnorwood boys are working toward the Lone Star Farmer degree, Joe Alex Coleman, and Herman Oldham. They plan to complete the necessary requirements by March 1941. This degree is the second highest award made by the Future Farmers.

Gulley plans to work toward the American Farmer degree during the coming year.

Raburn Grocery To Hold Formal Opening Saturday

Formal opening of the Raburn Grocery in its new location has been announced for Saturday, July 13, by O. B. Raburn, owner. This store was recently moved to the building just south of the Parsons Drug from a building farther north in the same block.

"We are extending a most cordial invitation to the people of the entire county to visit us at this time," Mr. Raburn said. "Not only do we want the housewives who are directly in charge of the grocery buying for their families, but we want all other members of the family to come too, and inspect our store."

Many improvements have been made in the store since its removal. In addition to having more floor space than in the former location, more shelves have been installed, and food counters rearranged. A better arrangement of fans has been worked out in order that the building may be cooler during the summer months.

"We have the displays of food arranged where it is much easier for our patrons to wait on themselves," the owner said. "iced tea will be served those visiting the store through the day. Mr. Raburn has been in the grocery business in Wellington for 20 years. During the first four years here, he was employed as a grocery clerk. Wells Advocates Pensions Equal To Other States

Advocating pensions and W.P.A. wages equal to those paid in other states, Deskins Wells spoke to large crowds in Paducah, Childress and Memphis last Saturday.

"I will work to return to this section a fair share of the nation's wealth that we help to produce," he told his listeners early in the talk. "Deskins Wells will oppose those discriminations such as freight rates, high interest rates, unfair and unequal taxes that place our people on the short end of the even where they have had to pull for over 50 years."

Outlining a well rounded social security program, he continued: "I will work for any practical plan that will give our old people what they are entitled to. In some states elderly people draw $40 a month, but in Texas many of our deserving old people get no more than a miserly $8 a month. We pay taxes that go to those other states, therefore, I tell you clearly I want our people paid as much as those in other states."

"Deskins Wells believes that the prosperity of this country can be measured by the thickness of the farmer's and workman's purse. Just as I intend to work in the interest of agriculture—with equal sincerity will I work for labor. For the good of all, living standards should not be lowered."

"Until universal prosperity again is fully accomplished in the United States, and men who want to work can find work, our WPA and PWA must be continued in force. In this connection there is one matter that is so definite in my mind that it should be mentioned today, and tomorrow and throughout the future until it be corrected. I want WPA workers in Texas to receive a wage equal to those paid in other states. They receive less today and you know that is not right."

"The wages paid to our workers should never become a football to be played with in politics where for certain reasons one wage is paid in New Mexico and another is paid for like work in Texas. Just as in other things, Deskins Wells wants balance and fair play for all people."

To Present Showing Of ated Picture

Wellington theater goers will find a rare treat in store Sunday, July 14, when the Ritz Theatre presents a premier showing of the picture "All This, And Heaven Too."

This projection of Rachel Field's famous novel comes to Wellington on its first showing, weeks ahead of bookings in other Panhandle towns.

The picture was originally to have been released on a road show basis as was "Gone With The Wind," but through a change in plans, Bill Turk, local manager, was able to get the premier showing in the Panhandle.

A screen match that was literally made in "Heaven," the teaming of Miss Davis and Boyer brings together two of filmdom's greatest dramatic stars in a story which, although it is an actual record of events which took place almost a hundred years ago, might have been written just to fit them. So please! was author Rachel Field with their performances that she wrote: "I feel that the screen version is not only the book as I wrote it but a projection of the characters themselves, heightened by the art of Miss Davis and Mr. Boyer."

"All This And Heaven Too" is the highly dramatic story of a little French governess, seemingly destined for a life of spinsterhood, who became the storm center of a Parisian murder scandal which shook Europe nearly a century ago, but who survived the ordeal to find peace and happiness in America.

Besides Miss Davis and Boyer, the film features a notable cast which includes Barbara O'Neil, Jeffrey Lynn, Virginia Weidler, Walter Hampden, Henry Daniell, George Coulouris and many more. Anatole Litvak directed, from the screen play by Casey Robinson, based on the novel.

Cubbing School Of Instruction To Be Held This Week

A Pack Organization Training Course for all parents of boys between 9 and 11 years of age in Wellington will be held at the high school building tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 p. m., Troy Israel, district Scouting officer, declared early this week.

All parents whose boys are registering, or hope to register with Cub Pack 31 of Wellington, are urged to attend, as registration of the boy depends upon the parents' taking this training. Cubbing, the youngest and newest arm of the Boy Scouts of America, is a home-centered, supervised play program, in which the activity of the individual boy is under the supervision of the parents. Progression through the three ranks, Wolf, Bear and Lion, is by means of handicraft work, collections of stamps, coins, match folders and the like, health practices, and great stress is laid on the Cub's willingness to be a participating member of the group.

The National Council, as well as the Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America, knows very definitely that for a boy to get the best possible Cubbing training, it is necessary for full cooperation on the part of the parents. For this reason, completion of the Pack organization course by at least one parent of each boy is required before the boy may be registered as a member of the Cub section.

Pack 31, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Wellington, has as its leaders Gene Martin, Cubmaster, and H. A. Phillips, Assistant. These men are volunteering their time and assistance, so that the 9, 10, and 11 year old boy may enjoy Cubbing. Such enjoyment for the boy, however, is not possible, unless his parent realizes his, or her, responsibility to his own boy. All parents interested in their own boys are welcome at this course, and urged to attend.

J. G. Nisbett of Dumas was a business visitor in Wellington and Dodson early this week.

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents. The opinions expressed here, however, do not necessarily reflect the opinions of this newspaper.)

July 4, 1940

Dear Mr. Wells,

I want to write you a few lines. I want to get in with the old-timers. The summer of 1902 I viewed the beautiful Wellington flat. It looked like the paradise of heaven. Henry Wells, your daddy, talked me out of going any farther. I thought I was headed for Plainview. He said, "If you want to farm and raise stock, you had better not pass up that destiny." If you are the man your good old daddy was, I think you ought to be elected Congressman.

Your daddy was the best banker and business man Wellington ever had. I hope I will get to vote for you.

I will tell a little about settling out in the Mill Iron ranch. Plenty of coyotes and rattlesnakes in the brush, deer, all the chickens you could kill, plenty of big bears. Did I get attacked many times? I'll say I did. Did I ever bog in the quicksand and did I ever have to pack my load out on my back? I'll say I did.

I have a copy of The Leader, that was printed about 1909 which I will mail to The Leader, which gives the death of our daughter.

I pray God's richest blessings on all the Wellington people.

Goodbye,
F. M. Phillips and
Helen Phillips,
Goodnight, Texas.

The skunk, "Tommy," is held by its owner, Clara Louise Baker, who doesn't seem a bit afraid.

Memphis Rodeo, Old Settlers Plans Outlined

MEMPHIS.—Plans galore for Hall County's Golden Jubilee three-day celebrations, to be held here July 24, 25, and 26, were revealed this week as the time for this county's biggest and most colorful old settlers' reunion and rodeo drew nearer.

Topping the features for the three days will be the Pony Express race, to be run from Turkey to Memphis, a distance of about 35 miles. The course for the race, to be held July 24, will be marked with a pot of $50 waiting for the first rider. Awards of $30 and $20 will be given to second and third place winners. Only one change of mounts, to be made at Oxbow bridge, about halfway between the two cities, will be made.

But the Pony Express race is only one phase of the celebration. There will be speeches by topnotchers in that field, six rodeo performances, a barbecue for pioneers, three cowboy dances to a well-known string orchestra, and two balloon dances, one of which will honor visiting sponsors.

The program will officially open Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock when registration of old-timers (those who have lived in Hall County since 1911 or before) is held. The old-timers will be welcomed and speeches made to them each of the three mornings.

Rodeo performances, to be held at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:30 o'clock at night, will be the action part of the three-day affair. Open strictly to amateurs, the rodeo is expected to draw the best of the cowboys from ranches in the Panhandle.

Four $125 saddles will be awarded to rodeo entrants, two to cowboys, and two to sponsor entrants. "Hitler," a bucking horse that has never been ridden, is to be saved until the last night for a special feature, and an extra award will be given to the cowboy who stays on him.

Old-time fiddlers will also come in for their share of the fun—and prize money. The old-fiddling contest will be held Wednesday afternoon, July 24, at 5 o'clock, and the winning fiddler will receive $10 and $5 prizes, respectively.

In addition, an old-time square dance contest will be held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and the winning team will receive $25. Second and third place teams will receive $15 and $10, respectively.

Thursday has been set aside as the official day for pioneers. The tabernacle will be open in the afternoon for visiting and for discussions. The barbecue will be held on that day at 1 o'clock.

Cowboy dances are to be held

Underwater Harpooning Latest Sport

Latest fad to hit the west coast is underwater harpooning, in which players dive with spears at target below the surface. Audrey Forker, Jean Thomas, and Marjorie Waldron are pictured having a try at the novel game at Long Beach, Calif.

each of the three nights. The sponsors' dance will be held Thursday night, and the other ballroom dance will be held Wednesday night.

Climaxing the old settlers' portion of the program will be the unveiling of the pioneer monument. Memorial coins were sold this spring to raise money for the erection of the monument, and the coins will be on sale during the celebration.

A pioneer parade will be held at 1 o'clock each of the three days, with the Chas. R. Simmons post of the American Legion in charge. All civic and social organizations will have floats in the parade, and a number of merchants are making plans to enter floats.

Helen Childress Elected To Teach

Miss Helen Childress has been elected to teach at Midway this fall.

Miss Childress taught three years at Midway before returning to college to receive her degree. She received a bachelor of science degree in vocational home economics from TSCW this spring, with a minor in physical science.

B. W. Beaird will be principal at Midway this year. He has held the position for a number of years.

County Asked To Swisher Jubilee

Wellington and Collingsworth County have been invited to attend the celebration of the Golden Jubilee Anniversary of Swisher County next Wednesday and Thursday, July 17-18, in Tulia, when 10,000 people are expected to be on hand for two days of entertainment.

Twenty beeves are to be barbecued for a giant feed the first day. Other highlights will be a five-mile long parade, two amateur rodeo performances, regular broadcast of Cal Farley and his Flying Dutchmen originating in Tulia, political speaking, contests for the kiddies, and four big dances.

Business men of Tulia have been working on the program for two months and the grandest two days of festivities in the history of the county is anticipated.

J. R. Lawson To Preach Here

Bro. J. R. Lawson from Fort Worth will preach at the Calvary Fundamental Baptist Church at 13th and Graham streets Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

Everybody who believes in and loves old time religion and Christian fellowship is cordially invited to meet and worship with us.

Prayer meeting and praise service will be held Wednesday night. Sunday school is at 10 a. m. and preaching at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, gentle relief from constipation which is generally enjoyed when BLACK-DRAUGHT is used by directions is due to a combination of vegetable ingredients. Chief of these is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" which helps tone lazy bowel muscle. Next time, remember spicy,omatic, time-tested BLACK-DRAUGHT! It is economical, too: 25-40 doses, 25c.

Boyer Outlines Platform Here

Max Boyer, candidate for State Senator, spoke at Wellington recently. Mr. Boyer outlined his campaign and presented his candidacy for State Senator of the 31st Senatorial District.

Boyer states he has made a clean and aggressive campaign during the last two months. He is asking promotion to the State Senate on the record he has made as a State Representative during the past four years. Boyer declares he has co-operated wholeheartedly with two state governors and will continue to do so, if elected State Senator. He asks voters to check the records filed in their county courthouses in proof of his statement, that he has never been a member of the "block" of State officials who have impaired worthwhile legislation.

Resident Lives Big and Section

By MRS. ANNIE BIRD

The Big Bend Country can truly be called the last frontier of Texas. Thousands of acres of this country look very much as they did in 1500, when Cabeza de Vaca, a Spanish explorer, was the first white man to visit this part of Texas.

The Big Bend Country is bounded on the east by the Pecos River and on the west and south by the Rio Grande. The Rio Grande River makes a big curve or bend. This country is known as the Big Bend Country.

In getting information from old Spanish records there is every evidence that the rainfall and climatic conditions have changed but little in the last four hundred years, and most of the plants and a lot of wild animals are very similar to the ones the first Spanish explorers found when they came. Most of this country is too arid for cultivation. Some years are seasonable enough for fine grass to cover most of this area, but the principal vegetation is prickly pear and cactus of every variety. There is one kind of cactus the Mexicans call pitayas, or wild strawberries. They are very fond of these and will go out and gather baskets of them to live on.

Presidio County was made a county in 1875, with Fort Davis as the county seat. At that time it was the largest organized county in the United States, containing more than twelve thousand square miles. In 1882 the last Indians, the "Chisos Apaches" left the Big Bend Country and left it free for the white settlers.

In the early days transportation was one of the problems of the Big Bend Country. Jefferson Davis, while secretary, decided that camels would solve the transportation problem, so he had thirty-two camels brought to the Big Bend Country to transport loads. Later he brought forty more. For a while it seemed that this would solve the problem, as the camels could go for days without water, could travel thirty miles a day and carry as much as 350 pounds of freight. But after several months the freighters had to dispose of the camels as the fine rocks cut their feet to pieces. But it's something those people are still proud to remember, that in no other part of the United States were camels ever used as a means of transportation.

The Record Speaks

Max Boyer, candidate for State Senator is a friend of the average citizen.

His Dallam-Hartley Counties Land Bill,

His successful fight for retention of Gasoline refund,

His support of the State-Wide Soil Conservation Act,

His cooperation with both Governors under whom he served,

His sincere effort to solve the Social Security problems,

Proves he is capable and deserves promotion to a position that will enable him to better serve a larger group of Panhandle citizens.

Elect Boyer in the First Primary

More than ten thousand friends of Max Boyer in ten counties he has served the past four years ask you to join them in electing Boyer State Senator in the first primary, July 27.

Here's A Corking Good Idea

Brenda Marshall, pretty Hollywood star, models a necklace and bracelet ensemble to be worn with bathing suit. The ensemble, made of corks lacquered red, white, and blue and strung on wire, would also be smart with a play suit or typical active sports dress.

Up to the time of the war between the United States and Mexico but little had ever been heard of the Big Bend Country. But in 1843 John Spencer, John Burgess, Ben Leaton, and Milton Favor came to this country and founded the present town of Presidio. John Spencer laid out the town of Presidio and amassed a fortune there. He first started a horse ranch but the Indians stole his horses until he decided to stock his ranch with cattle, getting his first herds from Chihuahua, Mexico. And he agreed to furnish all the soldiers at Fort Davis with beef. Today two of John Spencer's grandsons run a big general merchandise store in Presidio and are members of the school board.

Milton Favor was the first white man to start a cattle ranch in Presidio County and in the town of Shafter a marble slab has been erected proclaiming him the first ranchman in that country. Ben Leaton settled about six miles down the river from where the town of Presidio had been laid out, at an old Spanish mission, and to Leaton belongs the honor of being the first white man to start agriculture in this part of the country. Each of these men married Mexican women of the better class families and their grandchildren and great grandchildren are some of the most influential families in Presidio today.

From 1850 to 1870 while the Indians were raiding every part of the country Presidio rarely ever had anything to fear from the Indians. They all had substantial adobe houses and enjoyed a quiet home life.

The Mexicans we see in this part of the country are far different from the ones found on the Rio Grande River. All Mexicans enjoy wearing gay colored clothes and like to have a bright serape to throw over their shoulders, and all of them like music and dancing. All Mexicans believe in taking an afternoon nap and it is almost impossible to get one of them to do anything from 12 till 2 in the afternoon.

All Mexicans I have had any dealings with are very agreeable and they like to build their homes in groups. They often build long adobe houses and five or six families will live in one long house, each family with two rooms. Every family has a few chickens, a goat and maybe a pig, but they keep all of them staked, even the pig and chickens.

There are far more Mexicans in Presidio County than there are American families. In Presidio all of the children go to the same school. There are 733 scholastics enrolled this year and there were not over forty Americans. But in all other schools in that part of the country, the Mexicans and Americans go to different schools. Marfa is the county-seat of Presidio County. It is 65 miles from the town of Presidio. Some of the finest ranchland in Texas is around Marfa and each year of the Highland Hereford Fair brings dozens of buyers from the north and they buy these Hereford cattle, ship them to northern states to fatten on corn, then sell them as the choicest beef.

Shafter is about halfway between Marfa and Presidio. There is a big silver mine at Shafter and several hundred men are employed there. But Presidio will always be an interesting place. It is the only port of entry between Fabens and Del Rio. It is a shipping point for most of the cattle brought from Mexico. And there are always tourists going there to see just how Mexico really looks.

Presidio County is a good place to make money if you have some to begin with, but a little ranch is unheard of. Plenty of the ranches embrace more than a hundred sections and most of the sheep and goat ranches are fenced and coyote proof. The Big Bend Country has a very healthy climate and some of the most beautiful scenery in the United States. And when the Big Bend Park becomes a reality every person should try to visit and then compare the difference of it with other parts of Texas.

Dr. E. W. Jones Is Rotary Speaker

Discussing the medical profession, Dr. E. W. Jones was speaker on vocational service program of the Rotary Club Tuesday at the regular luncheon meeting. Ollie Raburn was program chairman.

After giving the qualifications of a doctor, he added, "After a man completes his schooling, he must prepare 50 case histories from his private practice to be submitted to a committee of the American College of Surgeons."

"All preparations a doctor uses are first thoroughly tested before they can be given patients. People can write to their doctor or to the American Medical Association to learn if any particular medicine placed on the market is safe for use. This service is done without cost."

Turning to a discussion of socialized medicine, Dr. Jones said: "Countries that have tried socialized medicine have gone down in standards of their medical men. In socialized medicine a doctor does what the political machine tells him to do."

Visitors at the club were Wilbur Shirley of Childress, Gerald Mayfield and Bit Mayfield of Shamrock, Troy Israel and Morris Reed of Wellington, and Ollie Jones and Jimmy Neece.

Wildcat Oil Well Still Flows Salt

Efforts to halt the flow of salt water in the Texas Company's wildcat oil test on the Smith ranch south of Wellington has occupied the attention of the crew this week.

It was reported that 25 tons of cottonseed hulls, 500 sacks of cement and 500 bales of hay have been stuffed into the hole in an effort to halt the flow.

The wildcat blew in salt water, backed by strong pressure, over three weeks ago and the flow has diminished but little since. The depth is 567 feet.

NEW STAINLESS STEEL

A recent improvement in the production of stainless steel, the new material which has become so useful in many industries, is found to be of particular value in highway transportation, because it combines the two great essential qualities of strength and light weight.

Highway haulers, having found that through the use of this material they can save three-quarters of a ton or more in weight, have been specifying its use for new equipment. For the general public these advances in the design and materials of highway transportation units spell improved service in the delivery of all kinds of products.

Motor transportation has done much for the improvement of our standards of living; yet according to leading authorities in the industry only the threshold has been reached, for in the future lie immeasurable improvements both in highways and in equipment.

According to Roy A. Fruehauf, an executive of the organization which has introduced the new stainless steel commercial trailer to American highways, the trend toward these modern materials will be accelerated rapidly during the next few years, due to the growing need for adequate facilities to meet the expanding requirements of commerce and our preparedness program. Even to the casual traveler on the highway the developments in commercial vehicles are a fascinating indication of our national progress.

NEWS ITEM OF 1776

Items from old newspapers are of interest to many, and here are a few from The Massachusetts Sun, published in Worcester on July 17, 1776, the front page of which was devoted to the Declaration of Independence, then less than two weeks old. A news letter from New York said:

"On Wednesday last the Declaration of Independence was read at the head of each brigade of the Continental Army at or near New York, and everywhere received with loud huzzas and utmost demonstrations of joy. The same evening the equestrian statue of George III was by the sons of freedom laid prostrate in the dirt. The lead wherewith this monument was made is to be run into bullets, to assimilate with the brains of our infatuated adversaries, who, to gain a peppercorn, have lost an Empire."

A resolution by the House of Representatives at Watertown requested that people of the colony donate their leaden window weights for the making of bullets.

Among the notices was one stating that there were "a considerable number of prisoners in the town, who are willing to go out to service if proper persons should appear to hire them."

Delinquent subscribers were a problem in these early days, as they have been ever since, it appears from a card from the publisher, who thanked those readers who had paid up, adding: "He begs that such as have not paid him would be so considerate as to think of the great disadvantage it must be to him to have so many small sums in different hands, therefore would now request that they would pay their respective balances, which will greatly oblige their humble servant. Isaiah Thomas."

THE SPORT OF GLIDING

One of the most thrilling, though not necessarily dangerous, of modern sports is that of gliding, which has become increasingly popular in recent years.

The glider, as is well known, is a light flying machine without motors, whose operator keeps it in the air for varying periods, sometimes several hours, by taking advantage of the natural air currents. The start of the glider from the ground has been thus described:

Ten or twelve men run against the wind with a long rubber cable attached to the glider until the cable is stretched and then let go. The operation is similar to that of getting a kite into the air. The glider is cut loose by the pilot when the desired altitude is reached.

Gliders are usually launched from the top of a hill, so that the beginner may take a gradual descent into the valley below. With proper instructions, gliding can be learned with little risk, as the first flights are made at heights of only 10 or 12 feet. At one glider school more than 800 flights were made in a year without injury to a single student.

Besides the attractiveness of gliding as a mere sport, it is a most desirable preliminary to learning the operation of motored airplanes. Some air transport companies require their pilots to have glider licenses in addition to those for the operation of airplanes.

AN AARON BURR TRICK

In New York is the 71-story building of the Bank of Manhattan Company, an institution whose history goes back almost to the foundation of the government. It is recalled by a recent writer that the institution resulted from the shrewd trick of a lawyer, who was none other than the notorious Aaron Burr.

At the time the bank was projected the group behind it were "in bad" politically and hence unable to obtain a bank charter. They organized a water company instead, but in drawing the charter Burr added a clause permitting the company to engage in "other necessary business." The other business was construed to include banking and it has been carried on ever since.

The structure in Wall street adjoins the lot formerly occupied by Federal Hall, the first national capitol, where Washington took the oath as President. That tract is now the site of the sub-treasury.

If Aaron Burr and his associates could look upon the scene today they would marvel at the development which has resulted from their clever scheme for obtaining a bank charter.

Pennsylvania's Turnpike Completed

Pennsylvania has just completed the $70,000,000 Harrisburg to Pittsburgh Pennsylvania Turnpike, first highway in this country to compare with the military roads of Germany.

Designed for speeds up to 120 miles an hour, the turnpike naturally will have tremendous importance in national defense plans. This importance is heightened by the decision of the Pennsylvania legislature to extend the turnpike on to Philadelphia, a move made with the encouragement of the U. S. War Department.

Completion of this second link would connect the "little Ruhr" of the Pittsburgh district with the sea by a ribbon of concrete requiring less time to transverse than that now taken by the fastest trains.

Walter A. Jones, turnpike commission chairman, spent several weeks in Germany, studying that country's military highways before work was launched on the turnpike. Later he was called in by President Roosevelt to discuss possibility of a similar express highway from Washington to Boston.

Mr. Jones envisions such an express system linking Boston with Richmond and Philadelphia with St. Louis, with spurs to Chicago and other midwestern cities.

Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania, answering critics of the turnpike when he took office, called it "a highway which would be of great military importance in the event of war," decreed that construction should continue.

The new Pennsylvania project is a 160-mile long, double lane concrete roadway, with a center parkway. All intersections employ the familiar clover-leaf interchanges. Pedestrians are barred.

Two-thirds of the entire route is straight; the few curves are gradual. Grades are kept to a minimum of 3 per cent. The Alleghenies were pierced by seven tunnels partially constructed more than 50 years ago for the South Penn railroad, which was abandoned when half completed.

Turnpike construction entailed the removal of more than 26 million cubic yards of earth and rock—more than that involved in building the Maginot Line. Concrete used would make four pyramids the size of the pyramid of Cheops in Egypt. All this had to be done in 21 months because the PWA, which aided the project, expired on July 1.

Tolls will be levied on all vehicles using the highway until construction costs have been met probably in 15 to 20 years. Then the road will be turned over to the state by the turnpike commission, and the highway will become toll free.

Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance

NUMBER OF BENEFICIARIES IN 1940

How many persons in Texas will receive payments of old-age and survivors insurance benefits next year? This question has been asked by many. No one knows the exact answer to that question because no one knows just how many insured workers will die, or how many widows and children will be left to claim survivors benefits. Neither does anyone know how many insured workers will retire next year or how many aged wives or dependent children of such annuitants there will be to claim payments of old-age insurance.

While there are no accurate figures regarding the number of persons who will receive benefits under the old-age and survivors insurance provisions during 1940, it is estimated that approximately 912,000 persons in the United States may be entitled to monthly benefits before the end of 1940. This assumes that there will be approximately 485,000 primary old-age beneficiaries—that is, persons 65 or older who are fully insured in their own right; 125,000 wives and 20,000 widows over 65 years old; 78,000 young widows with dependent children; 194,000 dependent children; and 10,000 dependent parents.

The Great American Home

Jesus Promised Life After Death

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 14.

Text: Job 14:13-17; 17:13-16; 19:23-29.

The question humanity has been asking through the ages—"If a man die, shall he live again?"—is asked by Job in our lesson this week. There have been three answers to that question through the ages—and the same three are given today.

The first answer, that of the materialists, is that this life is all there is, and that after death there is nothing. It seems strange that those who answer this question that way should think it worthwhile to speak and write extensively about it.

Surely there would seem to be no gospel or good news for man in persuading them that there is no soul life beyond the few years of earthly existence. If there be no life after death, why be concerned about it at all? The whole thing will soon be over, so far as the individual is concerned.

The second answer is the answer given by spiritualists, who believe that there is evidence of life after death in communication in the spirit world with those who have departed this life. The value of the evidence offered varies greatly, but the fact that there has been much deceit and fraud does not justify the openminded investigator in disregarding much evidence that is more impressive and that is not so easily explained away. Numbers of eminent men and some who were eminent scientists, trained to appraise cause and effect, have believed that immortality is demonstrated by spiritual phenomena.

The third answer is that of Christian faith, which finds in the words of Jesus and in the New Testament clear hope of immortality—although it should be emphasized that Christianity does not go beyond hope and faith to scientific demonstration. There is nothing really inconsistent with Christian faith in whatever demonstration one might believe is found in spiritualistic communication, although the field is one where there are many pitfalls and where there is much need for care against credulity or hasty conclusions. Jesus put the matter of faith and immortality in the realm of the things that one might take for granted. "In my father's house," He said, "are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you."

The real answer to the question is the answer of moral and spiritual life, and it may be noted that this was the answer that Job found to his question. He found satisfaction in the belief that there must be something permanent and dependable. He speaks of his Redeemer, living and standing at the last day upon earth. The word "Redeemer" is sometimes translated as "Vindicator," and it implies the conception of warrant for moral living.

What essential difference between good and evil can we believe in, if there is nothing abiding or permanent in the universe or human life? If decay and death are the end of all that is living, what place is there for the hope and faith that are at the very foundation of moral and spiritual being?

The closing words of our lesson are: "That ye may know there is a judgment." What place is there for judgment, if this life is all; and how baffling and utterly subversive of moral convictions would judgment be, if there is no abiding and permanent spiritual reality with which human life is separably associated?

To see the wicked prospering while the good and the innocent suffer, often because of their conscientious convictions, is to feel that one is in a topsy-turvy world, unless there is some vindication of truth and right that roots in some deeper spiritual reality than is found in the short span of man's life on earth from the cradle to the grave.

THE ORIGIN OF

It was the year 1846 when the first Scout Relations between the British Brevet Colonel, Robert Baden-Powell, who had formed excellent work in Majesty's Service in India, Africa, was directed to two regiments of mounted and proceed to Mafeking, a place of great strategic importance in the heart of South Africa. "Who holds Mafeking holds the reins of South Africa" was a saying among the natives which proved true.

For 217 days—from October 13, 1899—Baden-Powell held Mafeking in a siege against overwhelming numbers of the enemy, until the relief forces under Lord Roberts finally fought their way to his help on the eighteenth day of May, 1900.

Great Britain had been holding its breath through these long months. When finally the news came: "Mafeking has been relieved," it went mad with jubilation. And Baden-Powell awoke from the nightmare of the siege to find himself a hero in the eyes of the world.

It was as a hero of men and boys that he returned to England from South Africa—like Lindbergh coming home from France after his feat twenty-six years later—to be showered with honors, and to discover to his amazement that his personal popularity had given popularity to his technical book for army training, "Aids to Scouting." It was being used as a textbook in numerous boys' schools.

Baden-Powell saw a great challenge in this. He realized that here was his opportunity to help the boys of his country to grow into strong manhood.

A book for men on scouting practices—woodcraft, pioneering, camping—could appeal to boys and inspire them, how much more would a book written for the boys themselves! He immediately set to work. He adapted his own boyhood adventures, his experiences in India, and in Africa among the Zulus and other savage tribes. He mobilized a special library of books and read and read of the training of boys through all ages—from the Spartan boys, the ancient British, the Bushido of Japan, to our own day. He learned and read about Ernest Thompson Seton's "Woodcraft Indians" and about Dan Beard's "Boy Pioneers," or "Sons of Daniel Boone," and benefited from the work of these well-known authors and outdoorsmen in behalf of boys.

Slowly and carefully Baden-Powell developed the Scouting idea. He wanted to be sure that it would work, so in the summer of 1907 he took a group of boys with him to Brownsea Island in the English Channel for the first Boy Scout camp the world had ever seen.

And then, in the early months of 1908, he brought out in fortnightly parts his handbook of training, "Scouting for Boys," without dreaming that this book would set in motion a movement which was to affect the boyhood of the entire world.

It had hardly started to appear in the book shops before Scout Patrols and Troops began to spring up. The movement grew and grew to such dimensions that Baden-Powell resigned from the army and embarked upon his "second life," as he calls it—his life of service to the world through Scouting.

FASHION PREVIEW

Summer teen-agers demand crispness and freshness in their frocks while acknowledging a need for budgeting. On the left is a white pique dress, very fitted in for a slim waist, with shiny gold buttons down the back and on big pockets. Center is a backless shoulder-strap dress of bright red Everfast pique in a prim early-American print. There is a Basque jacket of glazed chintz in the same pattern. On the right is an apron pinafore of red and white imported checked gingham, with ruffles on the bib and a white dimity blouse. All are washable and budget-easy.

New Ideas NEW RECIPES

If you have a good automatic refrigerator, fruit sherbet is no trick at all to make. It's just a question, mainly, of making up a simple mixture, putting it in the freezing trays, and letting your refrigerator do the rest. You will find they offer the perfect dessert for ending many a meal.

BUTTERMILK SHERBET
2 c. buttermilk, ½ c. granulated sugar, 1 c. canned crushed pineapple, 1 egg white (unbeaten), 1½ tsp. vanilla extract.

Combine buttermilk, sugar, and crushed pineapple, which has been drained of a little of the juice. Place in the freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator with control at coldest setting, and freeze to a mushlike consistency. Remove to a bowl, add the egg white and vanilla, and beat until light and fluffy, using a hand beater or an electric beater at high speed. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Serves 6.

LEMON MILK SHERBET
1½ c. granulated sugar, 3 c. bottled milk or 1½ c. evaporated milk and 1½ c. water, ¼ c. lemon juice, 1 tsp. grated lemon rind, ¼ tsp. salt, 2 tsp. plain unflavored gelatin, 1 tbsp. cold water.

Dissolve sugar in warmed milk by stirring and add lemon juice, grated rind, and salt. Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 min., place in a pan of boiling water, and heat until gelatin is dissolved, while stirring. Then add to first mixture. Pour into a tray of an automatic refrigerator with control at coldest setting and freeze until frozen about 1 inch from edge of tray. Stir and whip with a fork until smooth. Freeze until firm. A half hour before serving stir and whip again with a fork until smooth. Serves 8. To serve 3 or 4 make half this recipe.

PINEAPPLE SHERBET
1 c. water, 1 c. granulated sugar, 1 tsp. plain unflavored gelatin, 2 tbsp. cold water, ¼ c. lemon juice, 1 No. 2 can or 2 1-3 c. unsweetened pineapple juice, 2 egg whites.

Boil 1 c. water with ¾ c. sugar for 10 min. or to 218 degrees F. Soak gelatin in the 2 tsp. cold water for 5 min., then add to the hot sugar syrup. Add lemon juice and pineapple juice. Pour into a tray of an automatic refrigerator, with control at coldest setting, and freeze until frozen about 1 inch from edge of tray. Beat egg whites until stiff, adding the remaining ¼ c. sugar. Stir and whip the sherbet with a fork and fold in the beaten egg whites and sugar mixture. A half hour before serving stir and whip with a fork until smooth. Serves 8. To serve 3 or 4 make half this recipe.

ORANGE SHERBET
Substitute 2 1-3 c. fresh orange juice for pineapple juice in Pineapple Sherbet above.

GRAPE SHERBET
Substitute 1 pt. of grape juice for pineapple juice in Pineapple Sherbet recipe above, using 2 tablespoons less sugar.

Clark Of Trip ough Texas

One of the 43 boys and girls who traveled the entire state to see Texas as a result of the "Know Texas" contest was thrill enough for Cora Elizabeth Clark of Wellington. But thinking about the entire trip will remember longest was a birthday party inside the walls of the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville.

This account of the party appeared in The Dallas News, one of the sponsors of the tour:

"Cora Elizabeth Clark of Wellington, Collingsworth County, had a party Tuesday, June 18, at the Penitentiary on her sixteenth birthday.

"The party, staged within the penitentiary walls at dinner Tuesday, after a tour of the state institution, was a surprise for Cora Elizabeth, a popular member of the Know-Texas contest tour, who thought her forty-two traveling companions had forgotten the date. Hers is the only birthday among the News and Texas Almanac winners.

"Two penitentiary guards and Mary Kimball, Paris, president of the Know-Texas tourists, and Alma Sturges, Lubbock, escorted Cora to the dining room in which penitentiary officials and the children waited with a happy birthday song. At each place were birthday place card souvenirs and at Cora's a gift of a beach bag from officials of the tour."

Cora Elizabeth's own story of the trip through Texas follows:

"I left home about 5:30 Saturday morning, June 8, and arrived in Dallas about 2:30. My mother and father took me to Dallas and they also attended the banquet given for the contest winners and their parents. We were assigned rooms and at 5:00 broadcast over WFAA.

"At 6 o'clock we went up to the roof garden of the Jefferson Hotel and there we introduced ourselves and our parents. We met our sponsors, our chaperons, and members of the Dallas News staff. At 8:00 o'clock we visited the Dallas News Office and saw the press printing the Sunday paper. Then we went to the hotel and turned in for the night.

"We were supposed to have gotten up and down for breakfast at 7:00 Sunday morning, June 9. The girls who roomed with me and I all overslept and we had to be called. We had two air conditioned motor buses. We toured Dallas during the day and we saw the Magnolia Building, going to the top. We toured Oak Cliff, Highland Park, SMU, White Rock Lake, Coca-Cola Plant. There I met Mrs. M. M. Kern's brother, who guided us through the Coca-Cola Plant. We were served a glass of Coca-Cola. "We ate lunch at a cafe. The lunch was given us by the daughter of Jack Estes, Mary Jane Estes, who is about 16 years old. "We visited the fair grounds, which included Dallas Historical Society Museum, Museum of Natural History, Art Institute, Aquarium, Institute of Natural Resources. Then we visited Love Field. No one was allowed to go up because it was raining.

"We had an organization meeting at the Dallas News building. Mary Kimball of Paris was elected president; Wiley Pool Stock of Afton, first vice president; Ruby King of Hemphill, secretary; Jeanne Robbins of Quitman, pianist; Mary Dacy Langdon of Cameron, assistant pianist. J. R. Warner of Bronson was head or overseer of the boys and Cora Elizabeth Clark of Wellington was elected to wake every one up every morning and see that they were down to breakfast on time. I think they elected me only because I didn't get up in time that morning. Also every night all the girls had to check in to me when they came into the hotel. Virginia Lee Snyder, only 10 years old, of Pampa, was elected mascot. Then we went to the show and saw "Edison the Man."

"Monday, June 10, at 6:45 we left in the buses from the hotel and our drivers were Ray Janek and Roy Pate both of Fort Worth. We visited the Early Bird program and had breakfast at the Jefferson Hotel at 7:45. At 8:30 we left Dallas and visited the broadcasting station. We arrived in Fort Worth at 9:50 and we saw the Pepper Bottling Company and had a Dr. Pepper. We saw the stockyards. We visited the Botanical Gardens, Coliseum, T. C. U., and other interesting parts arranged by the Chamber of Com-

"We left Fort Worth, going through Rhame, Decatur, Alvord, Sunset, Bowie, Bellevue, Henrietta, and got to Wichita Falls a little behind schedule. We visited the oil refineries and glass factory. We checked in at the hotel and at 6 o'clock we broadcast over the radio, singing our buses' theme songs. Cora Elizabeth Clark was leader of the Dallas Morning News bus. Ruby King was leader of the Texas Almanac bus. We had dinner in the park given by the Chamber of Commerce and it was cold, because it had been raining. We visited the General Flour Mills and turned in at the hotel. Tuesday, June 11, we had breakfast at 6:15, and at 7 o'clock left Wichita Falls, going through Iowa Park, Electra, Harrold, Oklaunion, Vernon, Crowell, Paducah and Matador, where we visited the Matador Ranch and we were served cold drinks. "We went to Buffalo Springs from a picnic and a swim. Wednesday, June 12, we left Lubbock at 8:00 o'clock going through Ropesville, Meadow, Brownfield, Wellman, Seagraves, and Denver City, where not more than a year ago not a house stood in this town. We visited the Chamber of Commerce, from there back through Seagraves, Seminole and Andrews, where we had a barbecue lunch given in honor of the new courthouse.

"We went to Odessa, Crane, which is a big oil field, McCamey, Fort Stockton, where we saw the Comanche Springs with a daily flow of 30,000,000 gallons of water. Hovey and into Alpine, where we checked in at the Holland Hotel, where we had dinner. Then we toured the Sul Ross State Teachers College campus and the college museum. Then we turned in at the hotel.

"Thursday, June 13, we had breakfast at the hotel and left Alpine, going through Fort Davis, where we visited the old Fort Davis and on up into the mountains. We had lunch at the Indian Lodge where all the girls made a wish in the old wishing well. Then we went to McDonald Observatory where we had only 30 minutes but all the boys and girls started asking questions and we stayed for an hour and a half. The top of the observatory was opened for us. Then we went back to Alpine where we had dinner at the hotel. Then we saw a moving picture of Big Bend Park, and turned in at the hotel.

"Friday, June 14, we ate breakfast at the hotel at 6:15 and then left Alpine, going through Marathon, which is a ranching country, Longfellow, Sanderson, Dryden, Langtry, Comstock, and Del Rio, where we went across into Old Mexico to a small town, Villa Acuna, where we had lunch and that is where every one spent all their money in curio shops.

"We went back to Del Rio and saw Dr. Brinkley's home. We left Del Rio, going through Brackettville, Clive, Uvalde, Knippa, Sabin, D'Hanis, Hondo, Castroville, San Antonio, where we checked in at the Blue Bonnet Hotel and had dinner. We went to Navasota, where we checked in at the Camp Hotel and had dinner, and we went swimming at the new swimming pool. We left Navasota at 8:00 o'clock on Monday, June 17, going through Hempstead, Waller, Hockley, Cypress, Houston, where we visited the San Jacinto battlefield. DESSERTS FROM THE BERRY PATCH

There are at least a dozen different answers to the dessert problem during the berry season. Some of the favorite berries are red, black, and purple raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, blueberries, gooseberries, and currants.

The homemaker who depends on a city market for her berries must know the signs of quality. She must look for berries that appear clean and fresh, berries with a bright and solid color, berries that are full and plump. She will find that they are overripe when they look dull or when they have leaked onto the container. She knows that berries are a poor bargain when they are moldy or when they are partly green.

Even good quality berries will keep only a short time after they reach the home kitchen, so it is important to sort out any that are oversoft or moldy. Such berries might spoil the others. If the berries are not to be used at once, keep them in the refrigerator on a shallow tray and covered lightly with wax paper.

Damp berries will mold quickly, so it is best not to wash them until it is time to use them. Wash a few at a time in a bowl of cold water. Then lift them out of the water into another bowl, using the fingers as a sieve to leave the sand behind.

Berries in general contain vitamin C. To make the most of this important vitamin, it is best to eat them uncooked whenever possible.

Berry time is shortcake time, and the raspberries and blackberries take up the theme where strawberries leave off. Refreshing frozen desserts that are so popular at this time of the year can be made from almost any of the berries. Raspberries are especially good in ice cream. Raspberry, blackberry, or currant juice can be used to make a sherbet or ice. A berry sauce is excellent to serve over plain ice cream.

Surplus berries should be canned or made into jam or preserves. Canned berries make delicious pies and puddings. Cooking brings out the delicate flavor of some mild berries, and definitely improves currants and gooseberries, but they are so fragile that they should be cooked only a short time.

Deadliest Torpedoes In The Making

The United States government is expanding its facilities for making the world's deadliest ammunition—ultra-modern torpedoes. More than 300 skilled craftsmen are already at work in the renovated plant at Alexandria, Va.; others are being added daily. Top photo shows a machinist-inspector measuring new, finished torpedo rear sections, some parts of which must be accurate to within 1-10,000 of an inch. Bottom photo shows latest style torpedo "flask" being turned to size on a huge lathe. The government has already spent $2,500,000 on the Virginia plant, one of two such in the country.

appeared at a majority of the larger singing conventions held here.

Miss Collins has been a teacher of piano and accordion in Wellington for the last year and she, too, was a teacher in the singing school held in 1939.

Subjects taught will include rudiments, harmony, ear training, sight reading, chorus directing, and others should there be a sufficient demand.

Announcement of the hours at which the classes will meet, will be made later.

Vocational Ag Enrolls 165

AUSTIN.—One hundred sixty-five boys in three Collingsworth County schools are receiving training in vocational agriculture, according to L. A. Woods, state superintendent of schools.

The Texas Association of Future Farmers of America, an organization of farm boys studying vocational agriculture in the public high schools was ranked first in the nation last year because of high percentage accomplishment of objectives in supervised practice, cooperation, community service, leadership, earnings and savings, conduct of meetings, scholarship and recreation.

On April 20, 1930, Mr. Starr was married to Miss Mildred Scruggs of Wellington. To this union was born one daughter, Patricia Ann Starr, five years of age.

He had become a member of the Church of Christ some years ago.

In addition to his wife and daughter, immediate survivors of Mr. Starr are his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Starr, of Wellington; two sisters, Mrs. Earl Hunter of Wellington, and Mrs. Horace Small of Amarillo; a step brother and step sister, Dick Wiles and Johnnie Wiles, of Wellington. Postal Receipts For Quarter Gain

Postal receipts for the June quarter of 1940 were $3,958.03, according to R. F. Curry, postmaster. The receipts for the June quarter of 1939 were slightly lower, totaling $3,937.62. The June quarter includes April, May and June.

"Although the total postal receipts for this year are higher than those of the previous year," declared Mr. Curry, "advertising matter is lagging in this June quarter. The other mail has brought the sum up."

Advertising matter and small parcels are third class, letters and sealed parcels are first class, newspapers are second class, and parcel post is fourth class.
