CROWD BARRIER COLLAPSES, MANY PERSONS TRAMPLED

66 Soccer Fans Crushed To Death In Human Pileup

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Fans surging out of their seats at the end of a hotly contested soccer game knocked down a steel crowd barrier in the stands Saturday and police reported 66 persons perished in a massive human pileup down a stairway. Some were trampled to death; others suffocated in the pile.

Scores more were gravely injured in Britain's worst sports disaster.

'A MOUND OF DEAD'

"Somebody fell. Somebody fell on top of him and it snowballed," a police sergeant reported. He wept as he told of trying to dig out survivors from "a mound of dead."

The game between the Celtics and the Rangers ended in a 1-1 tie. The teams are traditional rivals. Roman Catholics support the Celtics and Protestants the Rangers.

A fleet of ambulances rushed the most seriously hurt to the city's hospitals but many more were given first aid treatment at Ibrox Stadium, where 80,000 had turned out for the game.

"It is quite clear that a great number died of suffocation," said Glasgow's mayor, Sir Donald Liddle.

ARRESTS MADE

The collapse came right at the end of a game, which had already been marred by numerous fights between fans. A number of arrests were made.

Officials said they were still investigating the causes of the disaster but this appeared to be what happened:

At the game's end, there was a rush for the exit stairways. But, witnesses said, in stairway No. 13, a group of Ranger supporters who had left early were trying to get back up on hearing their team had scored. They ran right into the mass of supporters trying to leave and were engulfed. The steel barrier gave way and the whole crowd was precipitated down the stairwell.

People piled on top of each other all down the stairway from about 30 feet above.

Sir James Robertson, Glasgow's chief constable or police chief, told newsmen it was clear the barricade had burst under the pressure.

Tension had mounted steadily during the game and the two teams were scoreless one minute from the end. Then the Celtics scored and no sooner was the ball put into play than the Rangers retaliated.

And then: disaster.

ALL MALES

All of the dead were men or teen-age boys.

One witness said he tried to give artificial respiration to some of the victims.

"But out of about 30 or 40, there were only two alive. One of them—a boy of about 14—had broken legs," the witness said.

One of the survivors said: "I am lucky to be alive."

Prime Minister Edward Heath ordered an immediate investigation.

"It is a tragedy which is beyond my comprenhension," Mayor Liddle told newsmen. "I am broken-hearted."

Queen Elizabeth II wired Liddle her condolences and asked him "to convey our deep sympathy to the injured and to the relatives of those who have lost their lives."

SCREAMING MASS

Officials said there were 60 first aid attendants on duty at the stadium during the game. All rushed to the scene of the disaster, attracted by the screams of the crowd.

A disaster alert went immediately to all fire and ambulance stations and to all of the city's hospitals. Progress to the stadium was impeded, however, by the stream of spectators away from the ballpark.

Police said some the bodies were badly crushed.

As fast as rescue workers could pull out bodies from the piled-up, screaming mass, they were laid out one by one near a goal post.

They were moved to the players' pavilion later and there relatives identified and claimed them.

FIRST '71 FATALITY

County Youth Shot, Killed In Accident

A New Year outing brought bitter tragedy and Howard County's first fatality of 1971 with the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old youth in what sheriff's department investigators have listed as an accident.

The victim was Marion L. Thurman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Thurman, Gail Rt. Officers said the lad was in a clump of bushes about 3:45 p.m. Friday when Joe Aleman, 411 NW 8th, fired into the brush. Young Thurman was struck once in the left temple and died about midnight Friday in a local hospital.

The incident occurred in the brush-covered rough country near the intersection of Birdwell Lane and Hilltop Road, just outside the Big Spring city limits.

Investigators said they learned Aleman was teaching his grandson how to shoot when he thought he heard an animal move in the brush and fired.

The sheriff's office indicated the case will be taken to the county attorney Monday for official disposition.

Services for the youth will be at 2 p.m. Monday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with burial in Trinity Memorial Park. He was born Oct. 29, 1955, in Big Spring. He attended Big Spring public schools and was in the ninth grade in BSHS. He was a member of the Crestview Baptist Church. Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Thurman, Big Spring; three brothers, Carl Wayne Thurman, Torrance, Calif., Bobby E. Thurman, Cleburne, James I. Thurman, Tyler, and one sister, Mrs. Peggy Henson, Fort Worth.

Toll Soaring

By The Associated Press

The nationwide traffic death toll reached 255 late Saturday night as the second day of the three-day New Year's weekend drew to a close.

The highway death count began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and will end at midnight Sunday.

Over the recent Christmas holiday period 509 persons lost their lives on the nation's highways. The record high total for a New Year's weekend is 564, set in 1965.

Reviewing the . . .

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

The year 1971 opened on a note of stark tragedy for our town. Marion L. Thurman, 15, was fatally wounded. He was hit in the head by a bullet fired into a thicket by a man who mistook the lad's movement for that of an animal. Marion was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Thurman.

A week ago this morning Glenn Reynolds, 20, of Stanton died when his car overturned on FM 3033, some 4½ miles east of Stanton. In town, Mrs. R. M. Bain escaped with painful injuries in a traffic collision, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Autrey were hurt when their car was in collision with the rear of a farm tractor on a rural road.

Automobile owners were both stunned and puzzled over the listing of new car insurance increases. Ours was shown to be $30, just about the highest in the state. There was no indication that our loss rate was that far out of line from other area cities.

Yet, the year could be a robust one if our first baby proves to be the pace-setter. He is Jerry

Strike Looms At Texas City Oil Company

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union made plans Saturday to strike the American Oil Co. plant at Texas City after contract talks collapsed.

The union in Texas City served notice its 1,900 members would strike at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Texas City plant would be the second oil installation in the state to be struck.

Union members at Port Arthur struck the Texaco plant last Friday. They held off an actual walkout for 40 hours to shut down the refinery, after a federal court order. The Texaco plant has about 3,900 union members.

A national strike of the oil workers union has not developed. Union President A. F. Grospiron has said he will not ask for a national strike but he left the door open for local unions to walk out should they fail to agree with plant operators on local issues. Most contracts expired Dec. 31.

The union represents about 60,000 workers in the nation, including 21,000 in Texas and Louisiana.

Two Houston oil union locals represent about 6,000 workers at Gulf, Crown Central, Signal Oil, Shell and Atlantic Richfield in and near Houston.

Negotiations went on Saturday.

"We've got some hard bargaining left," said Morris Akin, a director of the oil union's District 4.

Negotiations also were pursued at two other Texas City plants, Marathon Oil and Amoco Chemical.

Texaco supervisory personnel took over plant operation at Port Arthur. Management said at least some of the refinery will operate despite the strike.

The union agreed with Gulf Thursday. Shell and the union also reached an accord in San Francisco.

The Gulf agreement called for an 8½ per cent increase in pay now and 7½ per cent a year from now. The Shell terms were not made public.

The average daily wage of a union oil worker now is about $4.25 an hour.

The union settlement with Gulf involved about 15 local contracts. The unions still are trying to negotiate agreements with about 90 oil and chemical plants throughout the nation. This involves resolving about 400 local contracts.

Congress Adjourns, Leaving Hangovers

Nixon Books State Of Union Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 91st Congress adjourned Saturday the longest session in 20 years, leaving to its successors a New Year's hangover of unsettled controversies.

MORE FIGHTS

As the old Congress ended its lame-duck session President Nixon disclosed that he plans to deliver his State of the Union message the evening of Jan. 22, one day after the 92nd Congress convenes.

Nixon advised Senate leaders of that schedule after telling them he had no more business for the Congress to consider—"not at this time."

CRIME CONTROL

At the White House, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler refused to say if President Nixon was reasonably satisfied with the work of the lame-duck session. But he said the President was pleased with passage of such measures as the Crime Control Bill and regretted not getting legislation that would establish a floor under the incomes of families.

The leftover disputes make it plain Nixon will have plenty of business for the new session.

Atop the menu: the postponed but unsettled controversy about the future of the supersonic transport aircraft, and the welfare-reform program that passed the House but died in the Senate.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania made the traditional telephone call to Nixon to tell him the Senate's work was done.

WE FOUND IT

"Eureka," Mansfield said. "We found it and we made it. Finally."

Back on the Senate floor, Scott made the motion to quit for good:

"With mixed emotions, almost all of them happy, I now move that the Senate stand in adjournment sine die." The Latin words mean without day. With a round of applause, the Senate agreed, at 2:29 p.m. EST.

The House lingered a while to eulogize Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, who retired with the end of the session. But it finally adjourned at 3:11 p.m.

The controversy over the supersonic aircraft subsidy was the last to yield to settlement. Under its terms, approved by voice vote, the new Congress will have to confront the issue all over again before March 30.

With the current Congress due to go out of business at noon Sunday under the terms of the Constitution, and the Senate snarled in filibuster, $2.7 billion in transportation appropriations were simply continued by resolution expiring March 30.

That means, almost certainly, another cross-Capitol confrontation about the SST, for which the current House voted a new appropriation, while the Senate did not.

WELFARE SLAIN

It was that dispute between the branches $290 million or nothing for the SST, which kept Congress snarled until the last moment. A New Year's Eve settlement postponed the whole thing until next year.

President Nixon's family-assistance program of welfare reform also died with the 91st Congress; the House passed it but the Senate did not.

Nixon did get the assurance of congressional leaders that the welfare bill would get early consideration in the new session.

Another major leftover: an increase in Social Security benefits. The Senate approved increases ranging from 10 to 56 per cent, the House a flat 5 per cent boost, and the two branches never fashioned a compromise.

So the new Congress will have to handle that one, too, action on an increase that will be retroactive to Jan. 1 when it finally comes.

Inspectors Probing Mine Where 38 Men Perished

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) — Federal and state mine inspectors emerged Saturday from a mine where an explosion Wednesday killed 38 miners, but they had no preliminary conclusions about the cause of the blast.

They will go into the mine again Sunday.

"As to what the ignition source was and the material involved we are not prepared to say," said James Westfield, an assistant inspector with the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

COAL DUST?

Westfield said the 18 men who entered the shafts of the Finley Coal Co. mine on Hurricane Creek do not know if coal dust, dynamite or any other material was a factor.

Two teams, using separate entrances to the mine, drove and crawled through points 1,800 feet horizontally inside a 600-foot mountain.

The inspectors stopped and searched at every 60 feet—where there was a break in the honeycombed mine.

Some miners accompanied the inspectors, but the mine owners, Charles and Stanley Finley, declined to accompany them.

'I'M NOT EAGER'

"Would you want to go back in there if your buddies had been killed?" Charles Finley asked. "I don't blame the men for being kind of skittish and I'm not eager to go in, either."

Finley said that another reason he declined to enter his mine shaft is because outsiders might think he would try to influence the findings.

Dynamite is forbidden in mines. Instead, a lower grade explosive is used, although it is often loosely referred to as dynamite.

Sitting in a small trailer near the mine entrance, Charles Finley said he did not know if his mine on Hurricane Creek ever would re-open.

New Cold Blast Texas Bound

By The Associated Press

Temperatures dropped near the freeze mark in the Texas Panhandle late Saturday and continued to fall during the night with a bitter winter storm headed out of the Rockies aimed for middle Texas.

Chilly, cloudy weather and spotty drizzle hovered over Northwest Texas as showers drifted northward from the Coastal Plains.

High wind warnings went into effect for much of Southwest Texas and blowing dust restricted visibility for the area around El Paso. Gusty winds of up to 50 mph were expected during the night.

Travelers warnings were posted for northern portions of Northwest Texas with light snow expected to begin before midnight and not ending before Sunday afternoon.

The new cold blast — a deep norther that could last several days — was expected to leave from 2 to 3 inches of snow on the High Plains. The norther was expected to hit North Central Texas by Sunday night and then blow into the state's midland's Monday morning.

Big snows were not expected in the El Paso section of far West Texas, but the National Weather Service said swirling dust would accompany 50 mph winds.

Warnings of the duster went out to the area from the Guadalupe Mountains south and west to the Rio Grande.

Most of Texas will be colder by Sunday night, the weather service said.

Special Call For Caution As Traffic Deaths Mount

By The Associated Press

The number of Texas traffic deaths mounted so rapidly on the New Year's weekend that safety officials cried out in alarm Saturday and pleaded with motorists to ease up and drive right.

The Department of Public Safety estimated 35 traffic deaths during the long weekend.

But at the point where a day and a half of driving remained, one safety official declared:

"It looks like it will go way over that."

The death count rose within four of the estimate—to 31—by mid-afternoon Saturday.

The taublations started at 6 p.m. on New Year's Eve and will continue until midnight Sunday.

Safety Department spokesmen took particular note of worsening driving conditions caused by scattered rains.

"Saturday night is always bad," during the New Year's period, added a safety spokesman, "and then Sunday many people will be returning to their homes from trips.

DEAD AT SCENE

Latest reported traffic deaths:

Robert E. Shipp, 53, and J. D. Gambrell, 60, both of Greenville, were fatally injured Saturday when one car hit the other broadside nine miles south of Greenville on Texas 34. Dead at the scene was Shipp, while Gambrell died several hours later.

James Bernard Harrison 37, of Cleburne, a pedestrian, died when he was hit by an automobile Saturday two miles south of Hillsboro on Interstate 35.

James Edward Smith, 22, of Galena Park died Saturday of injuries suffered Friday when his motorcycle went 565 feet into a field and struck a culvert.

An automobile and two station wagons collided near Paris Friday night, killing Bernice Allen, 60, a man residing at Brookston near Paris, and injuring 10 persons from the Presbyterian Indian School at Hugo, Okla. Two persons in the car in which Allen was killed were injured. The 11 pupils and four adults in the school station wagons were en route to Paris for bowling.

'PAPER BOY' DIES

Phillip McCoy, 15, a paper carrier, was killed just before dawn Saturday when the motorcycle he was riding and an ambulance of the Killeen Fire Department collided in Killeen.

GRENADE KILLS TWO CHILDREN

Guerrillas Hit In Gaza

By The Associated Press

Two children in a Jewish family touring the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip were killed by a hand grenade tossed into their car Saturday, the Israeli military command reported. The mother was seriously wounded and the father collapsed in shock.

Officials said the family of Robert Aroyo immigrated to Israel from Britain 18 months ago.

An Israeli military spokesman said a number of Arab suspects were rounded up for questioning.

'HOTBED OF UNREST'

The attack followed new Arab guerrilla strikes on Israelis Saturday from Lebanon and Syria.

Killed by the grenade in Gaza were Mark Aroyo, 10, and his sister Avigail, 8.

Mrs. Aroyo was reported in serious condition.

The Aroyos were on a Sabbath excursion to the Gaza Strip and were driving out of Gaza City when the grenade landed in their moving car.

Military sources said Aroyo, who was slightly wounded, was able to turn the car around and drive back into Gaza City for help before collapsing in shock.

Israelis generally keep away from Gaza, a hotbed of unrest and terrorism, and it was not immediately known whether this family was touring the area, or had official business there.

No Jewish children have been hit by terrorism in Gaza for more than a year. A young Israeli girl was killed by an explosive charge placed under her parents' car about 18 months ago in Gaza.

FORMER HAVEN

Israeli forces took over the Gaza Strip from Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war. The area was a haven for Palestinian refugees from land that is now part of Israel.

In the earlier attacks Palestinian guerrillas mortared two settlements in the upper Galilee and shelled a village in the Golan Heights of Syria, also taken over by Israel in 1967.

The Israeli military command said one attack from Lebanon hit the town of Metulla, on the northwestern end of the panhandle of Israel that juts into Lebanon and Syria.

Later the Kibbutz Yiftah on the western edge of the panhandle came under mortar fire. A kibbutz is an Israeli collective farm.

FIRST ORDER OF BUSINESS

Bill To Renew 'Old' Draft With No Basic Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to renew the draft with no basic changes will pass the House as its "first order of business" when the 92nd Congress opens, says prospective House Armed Services Committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert.

The 69-year-old Louisiana Democrat, first in line to succeed the late L. Mendel Rivers as chairman of the powerful committee, told The Associated Press in an interview that Nixon's all-volunteer military plan is "not feasible."

CUTTING BACK

Hebert also said the United States must maintain "the most powerful and most effective military structure in the world" both as a defense and as a deterrent, echoing a view he shared with Rivers.

Questions and answers from the interview:

Q. What about the direction we're going in defense policy, which seems to be a cutting back of conventional forces. They seem pretty close to what they were about 10 years ago. What's your view on this trend?

A. If we don't need the manpower strength, the body count, to protect the country, it's perfectly alright. We've gone way below the present manpower count in the past. Very low as a matter of fact.

The danger of that is the consideration of what is needed. You take back in the days of shortly before Korea. You were cutting into the muscle instead of the fat and the proof is that we were unprepared when we went into Korea.

ON OTHER HAND

On the other hand when you take weaponry as compared to a body count—well one A-bomb can kill 40,000 people. Obviously you only need the crew it takes to throw that bomb. You don't need a whole division to go over and destroy what you can destroy with that one airplane.

Above all, the most effective deterrent is far better the ounce of prevention than the pound of cure. And I look on the military posture as being the ounce of prevention instead of the pound of cure of a very bloody vicious war. If we can avoid a bloody war by applying the deterrent, then let's do it that way.

Q. Secretary Laird has started to talk about something he calls realistic deterrent . . .

A. I agree with that expression. I don't know what he means by it but what I mean by it is what I just told you.

Q. In what circumstances do you think nuclear weapons should be used?

LAST RESORT

A. As a last resort. As a last resort.

Q. Do you think the all-volunteer force concept is the best thing for America maintaining its military establishment? Do you think its feasible?

A. You're asking the question and giving the answer. Naturally, I think the all-volunteer force is wonderful. It's fine. But it's not feasible.

NOTHING NEW

Q. Why would you say it's not feasible?

A. This study's been made for years and years. This is nothing new. All you have to do is go back and hear the draft hearings of 1947 when we enacted the present draft law. We explored entirely the cost and everything . . .

Q. You've mentioned putting through a bill extending the draft but said that won't necessarily mean extending the draft the way it is now.

A. When I say that the draft will be extended, it will be extended. Now how the Ts are going to be crossed, how the Is are going to be dotted and where the colons and semicolons are going to be used, I can't say at this time.

But the draft law, the extension of the draft will be the first order of business taken up in the next Congress. And we'll have it out of the way and sent to the Senate in a matter of weeks. We'll be expeditious in it, we'll handle it quickly and I know we'll have the administration's support.

NOT WEDDED

Q. The administration seems to favor a two-year extension of the draft law. What do you think?

A. I have not—I'm not wedded, I'm not cemented on it. This last one was the first time we had four years. Always had two years.

And then they screamed draft reform, draft reform. There's no draft reform. Those are loose words. That's the trouble, we get caught in emotional semantics.

City officials have urged residents to chop their Christmas trees into smaller chunks if they wish them hauled away. We still think residents could hold their trees for about a week, and then bring them for burning at a big ceremony some Sunday evening after church. A number of communities make this an impressive event with religious overtones.

After three and a half decades of public service, Lee Porter has retired. He served first in the tax office, then became county clerk, county auditor and finally county judge. Born here, Lee Porter was always intensely interested in the progress of his county, was always friendly and approachable, and a man of unquestioned integrity and ability. Our system of government works when it has people of this type who will serve.

MORE MONEY FOR 26 MILLION AMERICANS DELAYED

Nixon's Welfare-Reform Plan Killed In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The marathon 91st Congress rejected a number of President Nixon's key proposals but nevertheless compiled a record which Democratic leaders insist contains major accomplishments.

In the final windup, the welfare-reform plan designated by Nixon as his top priority domestic proposal was killed in the Senate.

Also allowed to die was a Social Security increase for 26 million Americans. The House voted for 5 per cent as Nixon asked and the Senate 10 per cent but they could not get together on a compromise.

However, key legislators pledged there would be early action on these in the 92nd Congress convening Jan. 21, with any increase retroactive to Jan. 1.

JOBLESS PAY

Democratic leaders pointed to major enactments by the 91st dealing with organized crime, industrial job safety, aid for mass transit, postal reform, voting rights of 18-to-20 year-olds, unemployment compensation, drug abuses, clean air and education for underprivileged children.

The 1970 session was stretched out by prolonged debates over the sending of American troops into Cambodia, military spending, constitutional amendments of electoral reform and women's rights, and a rejected Nixon Supreme Court nomination.

The Democratic-controlled Congress mounted stiffer challenges to the administration on foreign policy, military spending and budget priority questions than had been seen for many years.

The President replied with sharp criticism of the Congress on a number of occasions. He also slapped vetoes on several important bills. The latest came Saturday when he disapproved a bill to give a 4 per cent pay increase to some 800,000 federal blue-collar workers.

The principal Nixon recommendation denied him by the 91st was his welfare reform proposal—the $4 billion Family Assistance Plan.

It would have made the working poor eligible for assistance for the first time, thereby doubling the number of eligible to 24 million, and established a minimum basic federal payment of $1,600 to an urban family of four.

FEDERAL GRANTS

Nixon described it as the most significant domestic proposal in many years. The House passed it handily in April but it finally was killed in the Senate by a combination of conservatives who felt it was much too costly and liberals who believed it was inadequate.

However, the 91st did turn out a lot of legislation, including many important measures. Major enactments in the 1970 session included:

—An organized-crime-control bill aimed at syndicated gambling, infiltration of businesses by racketeers, and persons who engage in bombing.

—The first comprehensive federal program designed to protect the health and safety of 80 million American workers on the job.

—A $3.1-billion program of tal improvements.

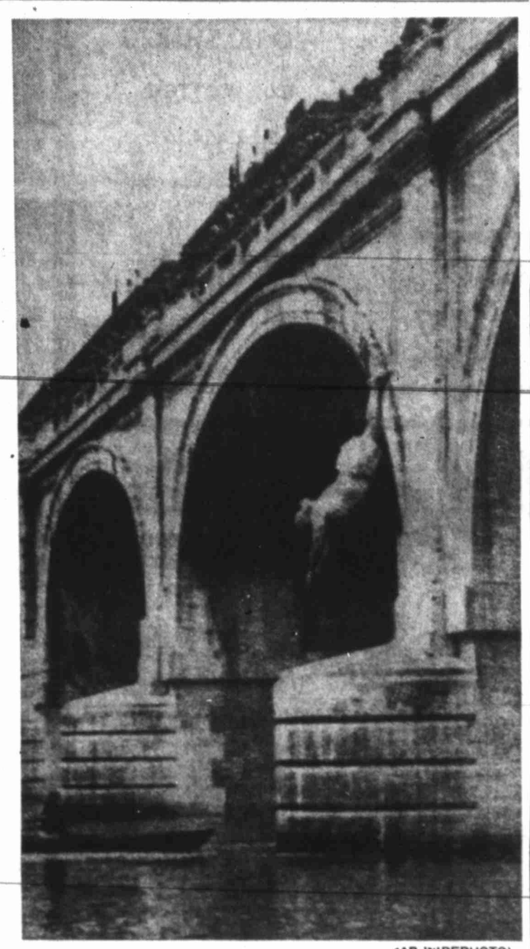

—A postal-reform measure turning the Post Office Department into an independent agency.

VOTING ACT

—A bill granting the vote to 18, 19 and 20-year-olds, and extending for another five years the 1965 Voting Rights Act with its special procedures to increase Negro registration in the South.

—Legislation extending unemployment compensation coverage to 4.7 million additional workers and providing extra federal grants to aid commuter mass transit systems with benefits when jobless levels are high.

—A drug-abuse bill which increases funds for rehabilitation of drug users, raises penalties for sale and distribution of drugs and lowers them for mere possession.

HE SEEMS TO BE OKAY — Mr. Rik de Sonay, who will be 72 years old in a few days, dives off a bridge into the Tiber River in Rome to celebrate the New Year. For the Belgian born de Sonay, known in Rome as Mr. Okay, it is the 52nd time he has dove into the river since his arrival in the Eternal City.

Blue Collar Workers Pay Hike Bill Vetoed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vetoed a bill overhauling the federal pay system for blue collar workers and giving them a four per cent increase.

The veto message, which was not announced previously by the White House, was read to the House as it met Saturday on the final day of the 91st Congress.

The bill covers 800,000 blue collar workers, whose wages are fixed by a special wage board and are geared to the prevailing rate of pay for the same job in private industry.

It provides an extra pay grade in each job classification which would boost the present top rate by four per cent.

Nixon said the bill would have fueled the fires of inflation with "costly and unwarranted pay features."

A majority of the blue collar workers the legislation proposed to help financially are in the Defense Department.

Speaking of adverse economic effects he said the bill would have, Nixon told the House in his veto message:

"At a time when the administration is most concerned about inflationary wage settlements in the private sector, this bill would mean that many federal employes in a given locality would be paid at much higher rates than those prevailing in the private sector of the same locality.

"Under the present system, most federal blue collar workers are already paid 4 per cent more than prevailing rates. This bill would mean that about two-thirds of these workers would be paid at rates 8 per cent above prevailing rates."

Nixon said the blue collar payroll already is $4 billion. The only way the added cost of the bill could be met, he said, would be by cutting jobs, especially in the Defense Department.

"The department, he said, has been reducing its employes substantially in the last two years and more cuts would be unacceptable now.

CHEER GIFT WAS DELAYED

The Christmas Cheer Fund had gone up another $5 today.

A gift in that amount was received at The Herald from W. A. Underwood, 611 Goliad.

Mr. Underwood had responded during the regular holiday appeal, but somewhere, somehow, the mail was delayed. The envelope containing his check was postmarked Dec. 22, but it reached The Herald only Saturday.

The Cheer Fund is appreciative just the same. The gift joins others to pay the Christmas bills.

Want To Marry? Then Be Mayor

ROSELLE PARK, N.J. (AP) — The mayor's office here is no bachelor's paradise.

Mayor Eugene J. Carmody announced during a New Year's Day meeting of the borough council that he will marry Miss Rosemary McDevitt of Summit. This will make Carmody the fourth mayor to marry while in office and the third in eight years.

Carmody, 36, became engaged Christmas Eve to Miss McDevitt after a four-year courtship.

CRUSHED — Four passengers of the car of James H. Houck, 4009 Dixon, were hospitalized after it rolled over on the embankment in front of the Coronado Hills Apartments following a collision with another vehicle at FM 700 and Wasson.

Groups Thanked For Aiding Families During Christmas

Christmas was a little brighter for some Big Spring families this season because of the efforts of civic and church organizations and individuals.

Youngsters whose names otherwise might have escaped Santa's list were given presents personally by the old gentleman at a party sponsored by the Non-Commissioned Officers Association on Dec. 19.

The Civitans also hosted a party on that date at the R/70. At the party, youngsters were given toys, candy, and 200 pairs of shoes were distributed.

East Fourth, Trinity and Mt. Bethel Baptist Churches provided buses to transport the youngsters to both parties.

"We want to thank everyone who helped out with parties and donations. Many of these groups donated food baskets at both Thanksgiving and Christmas. Individuals also gave clothes. If we left any names of any organizations out, I want them to know that we are very grateful," said Mrs. Ruby Phillips, county welfare officer.

Groups who made the donations were Brownie Troop 344, Cub Scout Pack 137, Young People's Sunday School Class of Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, West Side Baptist Church, Beauceants, Jaycee-Ettes, the Beta Sigma Phi Chapter of Alpha Beta Omicron, Coahoma; St. Paul Lutheran Church, Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles Lodge 3188, Westside Baptist Church Women's Missionary Union, Woodmen of the World, and the Hannah Sunday School Class of College Baptist Church.

Others were St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Girl Scout Cadette Troop 129, Coahoma; the Browden Sunday School Class of Wesley United Methodist Church, the Esther Sunday School Class of East Fourth Baptist Church, Baptist Temple Church, Wesley United Methodist Church In-Service Guild, Hillcrest Baptist Church, the Philathea Sunday School Class of First United Methodist Church, the Sew and Chatter Club, and the First United Methodist Church of Coahoma.

DEATHS

Mrs. Mayhew, Rites Monday

Mrs. Irma J. Mayhew, 61, of Vidor, died Saturday morning in Big Spring at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. S. Holt. Justice of the Peace Walter Grice ruled the death was due to natural causes.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the River-Welch Funeral Home chapel with Ron Sellars, minister of the Carl Street Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery under the direction of the funeral home.

She is survived by her husband, Frank Mayhew, Vidor; three sons, Thomas Tilley, Midland, Daun Joe Rameriz, Vidor, and Frank Don Mayhew Jr., Vidor; three daughters, Mrs. J. S. Holt and Mrs. Christine Pascuzzi, both of Big Spring, and Mrs. Dolly Rameriz, Vidor; seven grandchildren, two brothers, John Judkins, Haslet, and Walter Judkins; and five sisters, Mrs. Flora Smith, San Saba, Mrs. Carmon Whitley, San Angelo, Mrs. Netha Blanton, Tennessee, Mrs. Blanche Carigan, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Jeanette Morris, Sweetwater.

Loyd Wooten's Father Succumbs

Daniel W. Wooten, 81, father of Loyd Wooten, died Saturday at his home in Pittsburg (Tex.).

Services are pending at the Ermin-Smith Funeral Home it Pittsburg, and burial will be in the Fuquay cemetery in Hopewell.

Mr. Wooten was born March 12, 1889, in Coffey County, Ala., moving to Texas in 1898. He married Miss Aurora Sims Jan. 3, 1909. He was a member of the Church of Christ for 70 years.

Surviving him are his wife; five sons, Loyd Wooten, Big Spring, James E. Wooten, Las Vegas, Nev., W. B. Wooten, Pittsburg, Arnidean Wooten, Lone Star, and Bill Joe Wooten, Del City, Okla.; also 14 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

More Hijinks By Mummers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For the 71st time Philadelphia's Mummers welcomed the New Year with hijinks, strutting and music in the annual Parade up Broad Street.

A one-day delay caused by a 6-inch snowfall New Year's Day didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the 15,000 Mummers and New Year Shooters as they cakewalked up Broad with their unique Mummers strut.

Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo estimated that more than 350,000 persons braved temperatures in the 30s to watch the Mummers poke fun at the Woman's Liberation movement, hard hats, Philadelphia's plans for a Bicentennial celebration and other modern foibles.

NEW SENATOR CONGRATULATED — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, right, congratulates William V. Roth Jr., of Delaware Saturday after seeing him sworn in as the Senate's newest member. John J. Williams, center, who did not run for re-election, resigned quietly Thursday to create the vacancy. Both Roth and Williams are Republicans.

Revival Services Beginning Today

The Baptist Temple today begins a week of evangelistic services with the Rev. Vincent Cervera, Greenville, S.C., as the preacher. He arrived here Saturday evening and was to meet with the young people during the Sunday School hour this morning.

Services today and a week from today will be at 11 a.m. and 7:15 p.m., and weekdays, at 7:30 p.m. A youth fellowship will follow this evening's service, said the Rev. James Puckett, pastor. Sharon Cook, pianist, and Hal Haney, organist, will be accompanists, and Joe Dunn will lead the revival choir.

Woman Injured In Local Car Mishap

Maurine Phillips, 36, one of six passengers in a car that rolled over following a collision at FM 700 and Wasson Road was reported to be in fair condition late Saturday at Cowper Hospital where she is being treated for serious leg injuries.

The accident occurred at 12:56 p.m. Saturday when the car driven by James H. Houck, 4009 Dixon, travelling in the southbound lane of FM 700, went out of control where the highway curves to the east between the Coronado Hills and Park Hill Terrace apartments.

The car knocked down a reflector pole as it jumped a median and struck the front fender of a car driven by Mrs. Imogen M. McFarland, 206-A Hunter, as she was preparing to turn onto FM 700 from Wasson Road via the southeast entrance ramp.

The impact pushed Mrs. McFarland's car off the ramp, but she and her two children were not injured.

Houck's car caromed along the shoulder of FM 700, flipped over, and came to rest on its side within a few feet of a row of parked cars in front of the Coronado apartments.

Residents of the apartments assisted in helping the passengers out of the crushed car. Miss Phillips, of Big Spring Trailer Courts, was taken to Cowper Hospital by ambulance where she underwent surgery for multiple fractures to both legs and her left arm.

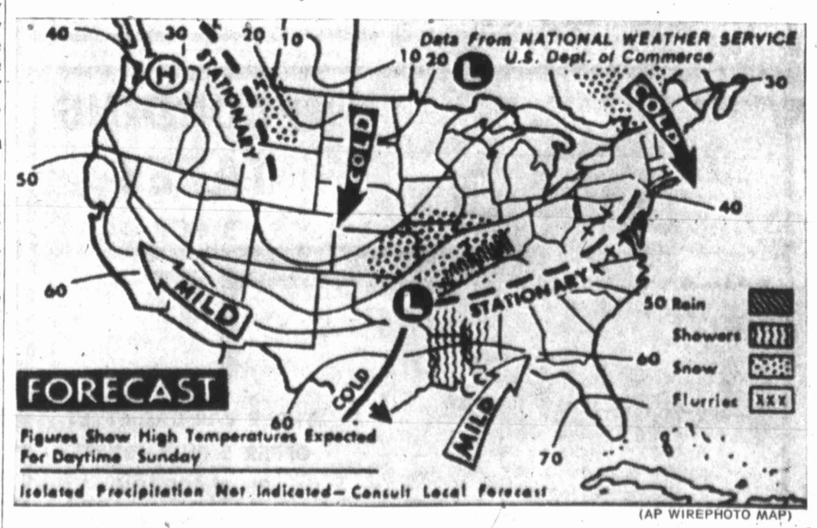

Also taken to Cowper's with minor injuries were Darlene Houck, Doris Smith, and Leroy Good, all of 4009 Dixon. Dave Strahl was taken by private car to Webb AFB Hospital for treatment of injuries, but was released following medical examination. Houck and one passenger, Carl Brown, were uninjured.

STREETCAR, SHAVING MUGS, GUMDROPS SPECIALISTS

The Family Doctor In Texas: Where Has He Gone?

Editor's Note: The family doctor of 30 or 40 years ago — or more — has largely gone the way of the streetcar and shaving mugs. An older doctor, other people in medicine and the president of the Texas Medical Association detail the situation.

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer

Remember porch swings and nickel beer? Then you lament, too, the near passing of the family doctor.

He came to your door at hours when even burglars slept. He wore a rumpled suit. A stethascope protruded from one pocket and a handful of gumdrops caused the other to sag.

MUM'S THE WORD

Your past due bill was stuffed in his jacket pocket. He always forgot to mention it.

No one remembered all this until the day of his funeral.

Where has he gone?

Texas is 11 million people. And about 3,000 family doctors.

"The rest (about 7,500) are heart surgeons, brain surgeons, eye-ear-nose and throat men—specialists," says John Hornaday of the Texas Medical Association.

The family doctor of grandpa's day stands like a pillar in the halls of nostalgia. His quiet, settled way at the bedside was a tonic never seen on the druggist's shelf.

NO STRANGERS

"I think back then a doctor had better rapport with his patients. You knew the family, the circumstances under which they lived, their problems, and you knew their medical history all the way back to childhood," recalls Dr. T.L. Woodard of Dallas, a family doctor since 1921. He's treating the ill although he is 77.

"You almost had to go out to the house then. People didn't always have a way into town. There weren't many telephones.

"But, today, a patient calls up, sometimes you can diagnose him over the phone and call the pharmacy and have the medicine sent to the house," he said.

Economics have little to do with the shift from general practice to specialized practice, says Hornaday.

"That's true because a good doctor in any field can earn a nice living if he works hard and builds up his practice. No, many are turning to specialty because of the complexity of modern medicine," said Dr. Woodard.

Another reason advanced by doctors themselves, said the doctor, is that medical schools aren't putting the emphasis on general practice as they did.

BIG BURDEN

"And, besides, a general practitioner has an overwhelming burden in dealing with a wide range of ails as opposed to a single specialty," he said.

"I remember the first time I used sulphur (sulfanalamide) to treat a pneumonia case," recalled Dr. Woodard.

"It was the first sulphur compound out and I gave it to a kid and the next day he was smiling, his temperature was down and his pulse was normal.

"I thought I had made a wrong diagnosis."

In those days, a baby cost about as much to deliver as a pair of shoes cost today.

"I used to charge $25 or $30 to deliver a baby at home. Once, I had a Caesarean delivery and I charged $100. I never collected a penny. That was 40 years ago. I've got lots of bills I never collected. The ice man used to pay me in free ice.

"Ha," he chuckled, "if all the babies I'd delivered were in my back yard right now I couldn't turn around."

Dr. Sam Nixon of Floresville, immediate past president of the Texas Academy of General Practice, says the family doctor's role has remained the same since the field became recognized.

UP TO DATE

"We're, of course, more up to date now but his role is essentially the same as it has always been."

But, he conceded, "The relationship between the doctors and the patients of yesteryear often was closer, primarily because this was much of what the doctor had to offer—friendship, a strong shoulder to lean on. But we still achieve a good deal of rapport with our patients."

Dr. Nixon says he is concerned, as are thousands of Texans, with the declining numbers of general practitioners.

"More and more people are asking their legislators why tax-supported schools are turning out so few doctors to treat the taxpayers.

"It's a simple money thing. You get more for your tax dollar by turning out a general practioner from medical school. We appreciate our colleagues in the specialities—we need them and they need us. But more people go to the family doctor than to a specialist," he said.

To counteract the withering number of family doctors being trained, several programs in Texas medical schools are aimed at reversing the trend.

At the University of Texas Galveston Medical School, a complete family-doctor-oriented program is under way.

A similar program is planned at the university's San Antonio medical school.

EVERYDAY ILLS

Under these programs, fledgling doctors may be channeled into instruction which prepares them for the role of general practitioner rather than specialist.

"I work 16 to 18 hours a day and I love it," says Dr. Walter Walthall, president of the Texas Medical Association. "We desperately need young doctors in our speciality. We're specialists in people—all of their routine, everyday ails and ills."

Dr. Walthall, reared by a "horse and buggy doctor" himself, says less than 50 per cent of medical school graduates go into any kind of medicine.

"So, we've got to reverse this trend and channel them into medicine rather than teaching and research and industry. And after we've channeled these doctors into medicine, we need to direct them toward general practice," he said.

'HARD WORK'

Dr. Walthall concurs with the view that one of the big reasons for a decline in the numbers of family doctors is that medical students have been too specialty-oriented. Another, he said, is "the hard work. I work plenty hard but I wouldn't do anything else. I do most of my own surgery."

Dr. Walthall says medical school instructors are specialists and, subconsciously, if not naturally, they glorify the image of specialists.

"What we need is some flag waving for general practitioners," said Dr. Nixon. "We're broadly-trained specialist treating people close to home."

All concur that more people need a doctor for colds, broken arms, ingrown toenails, headaches, backaches, measles, flu and tired feet than for brain surgery or rare blood diseases.

IT'S MONEY

But, strangely and frustratingly enough, the vast majority of graduating physicians go into industry, research or specialty "where nearly all work on a referral basis. And that's hard for a young, unestablished man," said Dr. Nixon.

One thorny problem has remained constant all the years.

It's money.

"Yes, sighed Dr. Nixon, "bills are still hard to collect from some people. Sometimes, you can see them coming when they walk through the door. You know you'll never collect a dime.

"But, then, maybe that's their whole problem. You have to treat them because they're people. They're human beings and that's what it's all about."

Oil Man's Legal Eagle Will Quiz BSSH's Super

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—More court action is due Monday in the William B. Nichols murder case as defense lawyers renew their efforts to secure a new trial for the 33-year-old Midland oil man.

Nichols was convicted Nov. 27 of the April 22, 1968, shotgun slaying of his wife, Diane. He drew a 35-year prison term.

Houston lawyer Bill Walsh said Saturday he has issued subpoenaes for all members of the Nichols jury and for Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital and the chief prosecution witness.

The defense is depending on an insanity claim to save Nichols from prison.

"I would hope that we could go into court Monday, file our motion for a new trial and have an immediate hearing on the matter," Walsh said.

Earlier in the week, however, Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn said he will oppose any move toward an immediate hearing, saying he will need time to study the motion's file.

Sharp Fighting In Viet As New Year's Truce Ends

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command's three-day truce for New Year's came to an end early Sunday with sharp fighting reported at both ends of South Vietnam almost to the closing hours.

In the extreme north, South Vietnamese infantrymen swept into the once-neutral demilitarized zone, separating the Vietnams and fought North Vietnamese troops for 10 hours before pulling back late Saturday.

In the south, the Viet Cong hit three South Vietnamese military positions in Kien Giang Province about 100 miles southwest of Saigon with mortar and rocket grenade attacks that killed 3 government soldiers and wounded 26 more.

DOZEN YANKEES DIE

As the Viet Cong's cease-fire ended at 1 a.m. Sunday, incomplete figures showed at least 12 Americans killed and 49 wounded in the three-day period.

The South Vietnamese reported their casualties at 32 killed and 93 wounded. The allies claimed 53 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

Although fighting was reported throughout most of the three days, the allies reported that their own cease-fire—a 24-hour stand-down over New Year's day—was the quietest since the holiday truces started in 1967.

The U.S. Command reported one American killed and 10 wounded. The South Vietnamese reported 9 killed and 52 wounded.

Officers attributed the drop to a generally lowered level of fighting, the improved allied military position in the past year and the American withdrawal from Vietnam, which means fewer casualties. Within the past year, American troop strength in Vietnam has been cut by about 136,000 men.

BEFORE DAWN

The fighting Saturday inside the DMZ began before dawn when a South Vietnamese unit patrolling the southern edge of the zone was attacked by North Vietnamese troops.

The South Vietnamese pursued the attackers into the southern half of the six-mile wide zone and brought in reinforcements, including armored personnel carriers.

One of the armored vehicles hit a land mine, wounding five South Vietnamese soldiers. The South Vietnamese pulled out of the zone before nightfall. Reports on other casualties on both sides were lacking.

Bobby Is Going To Prison, But His Business Goes On

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — "I'll go with dignity," says Robert G. "Bobby" Baker, the hotel entrepreneur and former majority secretary in the U.S. Senate who faces a one-to-three year prison sentence.

Baker said Friday he will grant no further interviews to reporters until the end of the term to which he was sentenced in 1967 on eight counts of larceny, fraud and tax evasion.

Shortly before Christmas the Supreme Court refused to consider an appeal in the case, all but assuring the prison term.

The cloud of imprisonment, however, is not without a silver lining in the form of anticipated profits from Baker's hotel ventures in this Eastern Shore resort community.

His hotel, The Carousel, is one of only five in Ocean City which remain open the year around. Prison or no, Baker said he plans to go ahead with a widely-publicized 25-story condominium hotel boasting 2,235 units.

According to the former Senate page boy who rose under the sponsorship of Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson to the $19,600-a-year post of majority secretary, Ocean City, can become "a second Fort Lauderdale."

Baker was convicted after a probe of his business affairs—during the time he was employed in the Senate — in which his net worth rose to more than $2 million in just 2½ years. He opened the Carousel shortly before resigning the government position.

Piece Rates Are Fixed For Farm Work

AUSTIN (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner John White has issued Texas' first set of piece rates for agricultural field hands, required by the 1969 minimum wage law.

The rates take effect Feb. 1. They apply to all workers who pick crops by hand, or those not covered by the federal Fair Labor Standards Act and are employed by farms that use less than 300-man-days of hired labor—three to four workers—in any three-month period of the previous year.

White determined the rates after studies of average amounts of various crops that workers can pick in an hour. The averages were divided into the state minimum wage for agriculture, currently $1.10 per hour. The wage is set by law at 20 cents below the federal minimum. Any time the federal minimum wage for agriculture increases, the piece rates go up too.

Among the various piece rates are snap beans, 4 cents a pound; carrots, 14 cents per 5-peck container; okra, 5 cents a pound; blackeye peas, 2 cents a pound; spinach, 16 cents a bushel; red potatoes, 9 cents per standard bag; dry white and yellow onions, 25 per cents per 5-peck equivalent if sacked during harvest; jalepeno fresno peppers, $1.20 per 5-peck containers; and fresh market broccoli, $1.28 per 30-bunch unit.

Long-Time Firm Reopens

Pettus Electric Company, which served electrical needs of customers in this area for 13½ years, is back in business here after four and a half years of inactivity.

Albert C. Pettus and his wife, Effie N. Pettus, will again operate the business firm at 107 Goliad, only one door north where they had operated for so many years.

More than four years ago he closed the shop here to accept a position as electrician with Goodyear Company in Tyler.

"We have our same residence address, and almost our same business address," he said. "We are delighted to be back in Big Spring. In the 13½ years we ran the shop here we did oil field service, electric motor repairing and rewinding, cotton gin repairing and service, commercial and industrial wiring. This is what we intend to do again — to help people in this area with any of their electrical problems."

Riders Fix Social Date

The social sponsored by District 4 of the American Association of Sheriff's posses and Riding Clubs will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan 23 in Snyder and not Jan. 22 as previously announced.

The affair will be hosted by the Sundowners Riding Club and the Scurry County Junior Riding Club. All members of the district and other individual riders regardless of membership, are invited to share in this event. Each family is asked to bring a cake or pie and a carton of soft drinks.

District officials recently announced district play days at Colorado City Feb. 20, in the Howard County Youth Horseman's Club arena March 13, the Colorado City Western Riding club April 10, Snyder May 8 and June 5, and in the Howard County Sheriff's Posse arena July 10. High point individuals will be entitled to ride in the national finals in Fort Worth in August.

TEXAS LEGISLATURE

'Throw Them Out!!'

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators reactions to campus unrest sound like quotations from history textbooks.

Asked recently what the 1971 Legislature should do about college student dissents, a majority of the 58 House members and 11 senators who answered an Associated Press questionnaire indicated lawmakers should just cool it, unless things get out of hand.

"The right to dissent should be protected — The right to riot should be prohibited," said Sen. Murray Watson Jr., Waco.

"Academic freedom yes; violence or law breaking no!" reployed Sen. Ronald Bridges, Corpus Christi.

'EXPEL THEM'

About a dozen legislators took a tougher stand on student protesters.

"Expel them," said Rep. Aubry Moore, Hillsboro.

"Throw them out!!" commanded Rep. John Poerner, Hondo.

"Turn 'em over to Frank Erwin," said Rep. W. C. "Bud" Sherman of Fort Worth, referring to the University of Texas regent chairman who has been the subject of some campus protests.

Rep. Jack Hawkins of Groesbeck said of campus dissidents, "I do not have the slightest patience with them. State supported educational institutions must eliminate them."

NO-FAULT

Questions about other emotional issues showed that 13 legislators favored some type of no-fault auto insurance, where a driver's own insurance company would pay his medical expenses whether he caused the accident or not, and 23 opposed it.

Twenty-five lawmakers said the legislature should liberalize abortion laws, and 15 opposed it. Fifteen also thought the legislature should raise hunting and fishing license fees, but 28 rejected the idea.

Forty-eight favored a state law requiring all school children to be immunized against communicable diseases, and Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadema and Rep. A. L. "Tony" Dramberger of San Antonio said they were already preparing bills to adopt such a law.

WHY NOT CHILDREN?

"Cows have had it — why not children?" asked Rep. Paul Moreno, El Paso.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston and Rep. James Cole of Greenville said, however, the bill should provide for religious exemptions.

On abortions, Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin said, "shoot the sponsor."

Rep. Forrest Harding of San Angelo suggested combining the hunting and fishing fees and "charging more." A House member who asked not to be named proposed a 50-cent increase in the fees. Another, however, referred to any increase in the fees as the "legislative retirement act."

Moreno said of no-fault insurance, "forget about it!"

"Kill," said Rep. Bill Finck, San Antonio.

"Better try something soon," advised Harding.

How about Jan. 12, fellows. That's when it all starts again.

PIGGY BACK — Mississippi linebacker Frank McKeller hops a ride on the back of Auburn's Terry Beasley after Beasley caught a pass from quarterback Pat Sullivan. The play went for 21 yards and ended on the Mississippi 7-yard line in the first quarter of the Gator Bowl Saturday.

Auburn Survives Rebel Comeback

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Larry Willingham streaked 55 yards for a touchdown on a third quarter punt return Saturday to give Auburn a two-touchdown cushion as the Tigers whipped Mississippi 35-28 in an explosive Gator Bowl duel between Pat Sullivan and Archie Manning.

Sullivan, the nation's total offense leader, fired the Tigers to a 21-0 lead in the first 16 minutes of play with a pair of touchdown passes and his own 37 yard scoring run on a draw play on which he was never touched.

But then Manning, wearing a protective device on his broken left arm, rallied the Rebels with his free-wheeling style of play and treated a national television audience and a sellout crowd of 71,000 to some daring sideline-to-sideline runs.

Manning ran 42 yards in the third quarter to set up a 23-yard touchdown pass from his substitute, Shug Chumbler, to Jim Poole that trimmed the Auburn lead to 28-21.

Then, in the final quarter, Manning zigzagged his way on a 37-yard run through the Auburn defense that set up another score which cut the Auburn lead to 35-28 with 7:06 remaining in the game. That touchdown was scored by Chumbler from the one as the exhausted Manning took oxygen on the sideline.

It was an exasperating day for the high scoring Tigers who seven times got inside the Mississippi 30 without scoring. Auburn was stopped twice at the Ole Miss one yard line, once on a fumble out of the end zone and another time at the Rebel two.

Thompson Grabs 100th Victory

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Bill Thompson, Sunland Park's runaway leader in 1970-71 trainer standings, reached a milestone in his career by launching four winners during Sunland Park's two-day opening weekend of the spring meeting.

The four-bagger gave him an even total of 100 wins for 1970. This is expected to put him in th elist of the nation's top 20 trainers of 1970, on the basis of number of victories.

Cats Could Pose Problem In Race

ELY, Minn. (AP) — The Ely dogcatcher will be leaving the dogs alone Jan. 15-17, but he'll have his eye out for stray cats.

Cats could cause a problem, with more than 500 dogs in Ely with some 30 mushers for the second annual All-American Sled Dog Races. Prize money of $4,500 will be given away.

The race being filmed covers a 17-mile course through wilderness woodlands and around area lakes.

Final Ratings Will Be Known Tuesday Morn

By The Associated Press

The Associated Press began rating college football teams in 1936.

The No. 1 position in the AP poll at the end of the season is emb'matic of the mythical national championship in college football.

In recent years the final rankings have followed the bowl games. Also, in recent years, the Top Ten has been expanded to the Top Twenty.

The Top Twenty is based on the votes of a board composed of sportswriters and sportscasters for Associated Press member newspapers and broadcast-television stations throughout the nation. Each district of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has a proportionate share of electors. There are eight NCAA districts and a total of 58 electors.

NCAA Dist. 1 (New England) has three voters, No. 2 (Mid-Atlantic has 12) No. 3 (Atlantic Coast and Southeast) has 12, No. 4, (Big Ten area has 12) No. 5 (Big-Eight and Missouri Valley area) has four, No. 6 (Southwest) has six No. 7 Rocky Mountains) has two and No. 8 (West Coast) has seven.

The football ratings are released alternately in the morning and afternoon. This season's final rankings will be released at 5:30 a.m. CST, Tuesday. A year ago, the release was 5.30 p.m. CST.

Playoff Official

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ben Dreith, an 11-year veteran, will be the referee in Sunday's American Football Conference game between the Baltimore Colts and Oakland Raiders.

Despite Boners, West Wins Over East Stars

OAKLAND (AP) — Mel Gray of Missouri opened the game by scoring on a 99-yard kickoff return and later caught a touchdown pass from Santa Clara's Dan Pastorini Saturday to lead the West to a 17-13 victory in the 46th Shrine East-West football game.

Pastorini was the only quarterback in the college all-star game to complete a long pass in the strong wind, hitting the speedy Gray on a 45-yard bomb as the West took a 17-7 lead in the third period.

The small-college quarterback named offensive player of the game, also kicked a 42-yard field goal, the longest in the East-West history except for a 44-yard drop kick by Frosty Peters of Illinois in 1930.

The 99-yard game-opening kickoff return and a 94-yard touchdown run by Jeff Wright of Minnesota on an interception in the closing minutes set East-West records.

Wright, a defensive back, grabbed a desperation underhand pass thrown by Dennis Dummit of UCLA, scored with four minutes to play and made the score 17-13 in the nationally televised game.

The West increased its edge in the series to 23-18-5 by winning for the third year in a row.

Bell Named Ref

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tom Bell was announced Saturday as referee for the National Conference football championship game between the Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49ers today.

Sudden Death Rule Prevails

By The Associated Press

Both the American Conference and National Conference championship games will be played with sudden death in effect if the teams are tied after 60 minutes of regulation time.

Here are the sudden death rules at a glance:

At the end of regulation time the referee will toss a coin in accordance with the rules pertaining to the usual pregame toss. The visiting team captain will call the toss.

Following a three-minute intermission after the end of regulation time, play will continue by 15-minute periods with a two-minute intermission between each overtime period. There will not be a halftime intermission. The teams will change goals between each period.

The team scoring first during overtime play shall be the winner. The game is automatically ended upon any score, including a safety, or when a score is awarded by the referee for a palpably unfair act.

The rules for game timing and team time outs will be the same as in a regular game, including the last two minutes of the second and fourth quarter.

Toledo Wearing Uneasy Crown

By The Associated Press

Toledo became the major college football team with the longest consecutive victory string Friday after Notre Dame snapped Texas' skein of 30 triumphs in the Cotton Bowl.

Toledo, a 40-12 victor over William & Mary in last Monday's Tangerine Bowl, has won 23 straight, including 12 this year.

HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Revved-Up Steers In 5-4A Debut

The Big Spring Steers open District 5-AAAA basketball action here Tuesday night against the Abilene Eagles and Big Spring mentor Ron Plumlee looks for a high-scoring wide-open type of basketball game.

"Abilene runs a full court zone press and they foul a lot," he said. "With our running game and press it wouldn't surprise me at all if both teams break the century mark."

The Steers will enter the contest fresh from a championship effort in the Borger Invitational tournament last week. Plumlee's cagers defeated Clovis, Spearman and Borger to grab the Invitational title.

"We were picked by the experts to finish seventh in the district but I don't feel our boys will be satisfied unless we finish at least three or four places higher in the league," Plumlee said. "I would be delighted if we could surprise a lot of folks and move up even higher," he noted.

In two of the three contests in the Borger event, the Steers were committed to run and shoot. "We had good luck in the opener against Clovis and hit about 40 per cent from the floor and then in the second game with Spearman we were forced to slow the ball down because that is the type game they play," Plumlee commented. "We came out running and shooting against Borger and hit about 35 per cent from the field and did an excellent job," he said.

The Steers enter the Abilene encounter sporting a 10-9 won-loss record. The 10 victories tops the Big Spring victory mark of a year ago when the team finished the season at 9-23.

Plumlee mentioned several of his cagers that have performed well on the hardwood this season. "Jesse Olague has done a great job for us all year and Richard Bullard has been a pleasant surprise. Mike Randle is much improved and David Carter has helped us tremendously.

"Red Smith has come on strong for us too. One of the biggest things to help us has been the performance of our players coming off the bench. I feel our bench strength won two of the three games for us in Borger. We didn't expect this type of help but it sure is pleasing to see.

"Our boys showed tremendous desire in the Borger tournament and I hope this is indicative of what is to come as we go into district play," Plumlee added. He also expressed the hope that Big Spring fans will support the Steers as they enter district competition. "It certainly means a lot to the players to have the home fans cheering them on," he concluded.

Scrambling Hurt, Concedes Manning

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Archie Manning, one arm of gold and another of sponge, ended an amazing Ole Miss career and suggested "maybe I didn't turn out as well as some folks thought I would."

Manning was a winded, beaten quarterback after Mississippi absorbed a 35-28 beating by Auburn in Saturday's thrill-filled Gator Bowl.

"All that scrambling got me," smiled Archie, "my wind left me and those weeks out of action showed up. That old hospital bed never got off my back."

The 6-foot-3 senior from the tiny Delta town of Drew, Miss., hit 19 of 28 passes against the Tigers for 180 yards and streaked 95 yards on the ground. His left arm, broken in a mid-season victory over Houston, was bound in a mass of leather and sponge.

"It wasn't the arm that kept me out so much," he said. "It was my physical condition. I took at least two solid licks on the arm and never felt them."

Manning, whose injury wiped him out of contention for the Heisman Trophy, hugged a possible 1971 candidate after the Auburn triumph. "That Pat Sullivan is tremendous and I hope he gets the honors he deserves next season," said Manning.

Ole Miss' humble 21-year-old legend said, reflecting on his glittering three seasons, that "Ole Miss did a lot more for me than I did for Ole Miss. I am grateful to have played with the 24 seniors on my team. I just hope I have been as thoughtful of them as they have of me."

With that, Elisha Archie Manning III stripped off his red and blue Ole Miss jersey No. 18 for the last time. It was flipped into a dressing room corner, dirty and soaked with sweat.

Shug Jordan Gets Tidings At Home After Surgery

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— It was "War Eagle" and Pat Sullivan in the Auburn dressing room after the 35-28 victory over Mississippi in the Gator Bowl football game Saturday, but everyone had a good word as well for opposing quarterback Archie Manning.

"Manning is really great. He had us all scared," said Sullivan, who had the biggest offense day of his college career at 386 yards.

The two exciting young men met at midfield when the game ended and exchanged congratulations for a great game.

"I'll help you with your preseason stuff next year," offered Manning, who now goes on to the pros while Sullivan has another year in college.

The War Eagle chant of the Tigers rang out over the field as Auburn accepted the winner's trophy. It spilled over into the dressing room as tight end Ronnie Ross jumped on a table and led the exuberant squad.

They repeated it when a telephone call was completed to coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan, who had to stay home and recuperate from an emergency appendectomy.

"He told me he thought if we hadn't fooled around we could have iced the game earlier," Davis said after talking with Jordan. "But he thought it was a great game.

Chicago Team Files Protest

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls filed a three-point protest with the National Basketball Association and asked $600,000 damages from the Seattle Supersonics Saturday for Seattle's Dec. 30 unveilling of controversial Spencer Haywood.

Haywood, signed away from Denver of the rival American Basketball Association, was in uniform and on the Seattle bench last Wednesday night as the host Supersonics trimmed the Bulls 128-109.

In a letter to Walter Kennedy, NBA commissioner, President Elmer Rich of the Bulls asked from Seattle $300,000 for the club and $300,000 for Bulls players as "a result of Seattle's violation of NBA by-laws resulting in the distractive and disruptive atmosphere which was a direct cause of an injury to our player, Chet Walker."

Rich said the claim was based on "diminution" of the Bulls' chances of reaching the NBA post-season playoffs. He asked the matter be placed on the aienda of the NBA's Board of Governors Jan. 12 at San Diego.

Baseball Draft Slated Jan. 30

By The Associated Press

Organized baseball will hold its annual draft of free agents Wednesday, Jan. 13, starting at noon, in New York at the baseball commissioner's office. Usually about 350 players are selected.

Each of the 24 major league clubs will have one pick. Then the minor leagues will get their turns.

Classy Field Awaits Meet

The Olympic Classic tournament, sponsored by the Big Spring American Business Club, gets underway at the Howard County Junior College gymnasium Thursday night and will continue through Saturday evening.

Two games will be played each evening beginning at 7 p.m. Admission price for each night's twin-bill will be $1.

Teams entered in the event in addition to HCJC are Schreiner of Kerrville, Jacksonville Baptist and Christian College of the Southwest, Dallas.

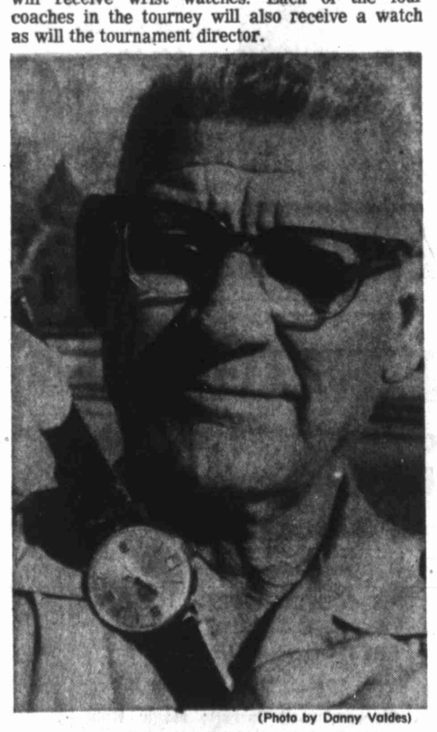

Thursday night CCSW goes against Jacksonville in the opener and the Hawks battle Schreiner in the night cap. Friday the teams switch opponents with Jacksonville meeting Schreiner and HCJC battling CCSW.

Final action Saturday night will pit CCSW against Schreiner in the first game and HCJC taking on Jacksonville Baptist.

This is the first time the Classic has been held in Big Spring and tournament director J. D. Jones expressed hope that the event will become an annual event at this time of year.

"By playing this Classic at this point in the season," he said, "it could be a great help to the teams entered in that they will have the advantage of playing more games perhaps than future opponents."

Jones announced that at the conclusion of the Classic Saturday night an all-tournament team will be selected and the members of that elite squad will receive wrist watches. Each of the four coaches in the tourney will also receive a watch as will the tournament director.

ALL-TOURNAMENT BOOTY — J. D. Jones, director of the American Businessmen's Club Olympic Classis tournament set here Thursday, Friday and Saturday, exhibits one of the 15 all-tournament watches that will be awarded following the final game Saturday night. Ten of the timepieces will go to members of the all-tournament team, one will go to each head coach and Jones will receive one as tournament director.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Third Contest Is Looming

By TOMMY HART

DALLAS — One of the things the 1971 Cotton Bowl game here Friday proved was that South Bend, Ind., is a lot closer to Dallas than is Austin — if you are a Notre Dame fan, that is . . . It becomes increasingly obvious if that both Notre Dame and Texas have exemplary seasons next fall, their coaches could be talked into returning to Dallas for the rubber game of their series . . . Football remains a game of emotion — Notre Dame was "up" for the contest, Texas wasn't, indeed, its 30-game winning streak was weighing heavily upon the Longhorns' shoulders . . . Notre Dame keyed on fullback Steve Worster and thereby pretty well shut down the famed Texas Wishbone . . . Worster, at times, acted as if his mind weren't in the ball park . . . Notre Dame's defense against the triple option was something to behold . . . The fans sensed Texas was in trouble early because QB Eddie Phillips changed his game plan and went to the pass whereas coach Darrell Royal of Texas likes to stick to the ground . . . The New York Nets of the ABA had to agree to up the price of their tickets from $5.50 to $8.50 before Madison Square Garden people would agree to open the place to them . . . El Paso Eastwood, picked to finish last in its district, won its first 15 basketball games this season . . . Pro basketball teams spend no more than $25,000 to scout material, because the colleges shape up their talent for them, whereas pro baseball teams budget millions annually for the same purpose . . . Ten seniors on this year's Texas A&I football team are leaving something for future Javelinas to shoot at: During their four years, the Hogs built a 41-4-0 record, produced the school's first undefeated, untied team (1967), became the first team in the history of the NAIA to win back-to-back championships and won four consecutive Lone Star Conference titles . . . Ex-Big Spring coach Don McDonald, now the basketball mentor at the Kingsville school, knows that as long as football is king there his own program will suffer to a degree but he thinks he has a good job anyway . . . Jim Bertelson, the Texas back, likely "made" the 1971 All-America team on the strength of his showing against Arkansas back in early December.

DON McDONALD

* * * *

Professional basketball has more $100,000-a-year players than hockey, baseball and professional football combined . . . Red Barr, the SMU swimming coach who gave a clinic here several years ago, is now in his 25th year at the Dallas school . . . Dickie Spier, a fine fullback here a few years ago, has been attending night school but hopes to return to full-time classes at UT-Arlington . . . He has designs on becoming a coach and should make a good one . . . The Houston Oilers, with Big Springer Charley Johnson doing most of the chunking, threw more passes (470) and completed more (238) than any other team in the NFL the past season . . . Dallas, on the other hand, completed fewer aerials (149) than any of the other 23 teams . . . One of Harry Kalas' broadcasting partners on the Philadelphia Phillie radio-TV team will be Byron Saam, who worked in Fort Worth years ago . . . Another will be Richie Ashburn, a fine singles hitter for the Phillies in years past . . . Austin Reagan, conqueror of Odessa Permian in the Class AAAA state football finals last month, has now won 50 games, compared to only three defeats, over the last four years . . . Gene Mayfield, the Permian mentor, has had teams in the state finals four times but won only in 1965 . . . One of the problems of playing basketball in the Houston Astrodome is that the fans in the far-away seats can't hear the thump, thump of the dribbling . . . But microphones will be spotted to pipe the noise to a crowd attending the NCAA finals there in March . . . Nelson Burton Jr., of St. Louis won the Professional Bowlers Association's George Young award for high average in 1970 . . . His 214.908 mean set a PBA record . . . The Boston Patriots and the New Orleans Saints will draft before Houston but QB Jim Plunkett of Stanford, who'll likely go first, has told intimates he doesn't want to play with Boston . . . Southwest Conference people wanted desperately to get Arkansas into the Orange Bowl but the Miami promoters refused to stampede after Notre Dame had voted to go to the Cotton Bowl . . . Buddy Travis, the former HCJC mentor, was one of the nominees for Texas Junior College Coach of the Year again . . . Although he has never won it, Travis deserves the accolade because of his distinguished career as a JC mentor . . . Paul Hahn Sr., who was headquartering in Miami, is now a resident of Houston . . . The only basketball game Lubbock Estacado won among its first 13 was that two-pointer from Big Spring at Snyder.

Ara, Leahy, Krause: Irish Eyes Smiling

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "We Are Back!"

So read the buttons being sported around town by Notre Dame followers over the weekend after Friday's 24-11 revenge rematch Cotton Bowl triumph over top-ranked Texas.

Not that anyone really thought Notre Dame had been too far away, even though the Fighting Irish haven't managed an unbeaten and untied football season since 1949.

But the damaging losses to Southern California that spoiled otherwise perfect campaigns in 1964 and again this past season, the infamous 10-10 tie with Michigan State in the national championship year of 1966 and last year's loss to Texas in the Cotton Bowl had helped fire the undercurrent that "Parseghian doesn't win the big ones."

'IT RANKLES'

"It's a funny thing how you get a tab attached to you," coach Ara Parseghian said Saturday. "Obviously it rankled the coaching staff and yours truly. Notre Dame won 58 games in the seven seasons I've been coach and somewhere in those 58 wins there had to be some big games.

"What's the criterion of a big game? Weren't our wins over Georgia Tech and Louisiana State this season big games? Every game we play is a big one as far as we're concerned because it's a rarity when we go in as an underdog. We're expected to win no matter who we play. Everyone gets up for us.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

"You should see the mail that pour in before any game. When we play Pitt, we get letters from Pittsburgh saying, 'I can't live here unless you beat Pitt'."

When pressed, however, Parseghian admits that beating Texas was something special.

"One of the big moments in Notre Dame's football history," said Parseghian, a sentiment echoed by Edward W. "Moose" Krause, the university's athletic director.

"It was one of the great moments of my career to see Notre Dame win this game," said Frank Leahy, the legendary former coach, just out out of a Houston hospital but a spectator nonetheless.

RELIVING HIGH TIMES

The victory had players of 50 years ago reliving the days of Knute Rockne and the Four Horsemen.

How about George Gipp? "Who do you think knocked down a couple of those passes?" replied a Notre Dame man, with barely a trace of a smile.

"Win One For The Gipper" buttons were in evidence.

"I've had some exciting moments in 21 years of coaching," said Parseghian, "but in view of Texas' credentials, I'd have to say this was the biggest. We broke their 30-game winning streak, we held the nation's top rushing team more than 105 yards below their average and we held the nation's top scoring team to only one touchdown."

Notre Dame did it by piling up a 21-3 lead after 16½ minutes and stopping Texas with a unique Mirrored Wishbone defense, employing rarely used man-for-man coverage with a defensive backfield setup that duplicated Texas' famed Wishbone offensive backfield alignment. In effect, it was a nine-man defensive line.

HARD TO RUN

"We made it difficult for them to run, although it opened some passing seams. Eventually, they found the weaknesses in the defense and picked at it with passes to their tight end and the swing man out of the backfield, both of whom we had to cover with linebackers.

"We really didn't stray that far away from the basic fundamentals of our 4-4 or split-6 defense. We only moved two basic guys to form the Wishbone effect—an outside linebacker and the safety.

"But we also brought defensive end Walt Patulski in tighter, giving us Patulski and defensive tackles Mike Kadish and Greg Marx, three of our biggest players, inside Texas' offensive tackles. That took away the crease where Worster likes to run."

Steve Worster, the Longhorns' All-American fullback, was held to 42 yards on 16 carries and star halfback Jim Bertelsen carried eight times for a mere five yards before Texas split him as a flanker. . .and that broke up their Wishbone and forced them to pass more than Coach Darrell Royal would have liked.

"I feel terrible," said Royal, "but I'll live. Lady Luck smiled on us when we needed a break during our 30-game streak. That's why I can't feel too badly."

TO REPLACE ALLEN

Rams Hire UCLA Football Mentor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Tommy Prothro of UCLA, nationally known in college football for more than 15 years, was named Saturday the head coach of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

The Rams made the announcement here on behalf of their president and major owner, Dan Reeves, who was in New York, and the 50-year-old Prothro held a noon news conference to discuss the swift events of the past few days in which the contract of George Allen was not renewed at the expiration of its five-year term.

Prothro and Rams officials declined to disclose whether the former UCLA and Oregon State head coach was given a multi-year contract, Nor would they reveal the amount of money involved.

Allen received $40,000 annually, plus a $20,000 bonus the past several years.

Allen's contract was not renewed when it expired Thursday, and Reeves informed him in a telephone call Wednesday.

Prothro said his reason for leaving college football was simply that the pros offered a new challenge. He said he weighed the decision for days before agreeing.

Prothro said he had no idea who would succeed him at UCLA but added he had discussed his decision to leave and possible replacement with the UCLA athletic director, J.D. Morgan. Appointment of his successor is strictly up to Morgan, Prothro added.

The bulky Prothro played college football at Duke and came west with the late Red Sanders from Vanderbilt, where he was Sanders' assistant, to coach at UCLA in 1949. His first head coaching job was at Oregon State, where he remained for 10 years before returning to UCLA as the head man in 1965.

TOMMY PROTHRO

Prothro piloted Oregon State to the Rose Bowl in 1965 and then took UCLA there the following year when the Bruins upset top-ranked Michigan State 14-12. He was named the American Football Coaching Association's Coach of the Year in 1965.

Volunteer Aide Gets FSU Post

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State University named Larry B. Jones head football coach Saturday.

Jones, who was first assistant coach under Bill Battle at Tennessee, replaces Bill Peterson. Peterson recently resigned to take over the helm at Rice University.

Jones' four-year contract calls for an annual pay of $27,500.

Alienated Gridder Has Several Misgivings

SEATTLE (AP) — University of Washington defensive back Bob Burmeister, who says he is part of a dissatisfied generation seeking a better way of life, sees football as "a microcosm of the makeup of society."

A man runs the gamut of emotions as he spends his weekend watching football, the Evanston, Ill., native says. Burmeister calls that a good release but wonders if the guy who shouts to a tackler, "kill him," may really mean it.

"When I think of America," the senior philosophy major says, "I think of football, because it's an outlet for violence, which is okay because it's controlled.

"I can't advocate anything like the Army. That's killing, and it doesn't make any sense at all."

At 6-foot-1 and 191 pounds the blond Burmeister would like to play pro football to finance a youth camp he hopes to open one day.

He was named the Huskies' defensive player of the game three times and Pacific-8 Conference defensive player of the week once this season.

Burmeister, who now has finished his college football career, says he feels alienated from older people and "would like to see kids get more of a chance than they're getting."

He says he wants to feel the country is going in a positive direction where "people can be happy and free," but he believes that for young people, "things don't seem to be getting better, they seem to be getting worse."

"It's hard to relate to the people who run this country. I can feel the repression. They have the power to determine our destiny for the next few years because they're in the control tower. It doesn't make sense to the young.

"Young people today tend to look at things and really get into them rather than just accept them. There's just some garbage we don't want to eat."

Confident Huskers Await Final Poll

MIAMI (AP) — Nebraska was the top-ranked survivor in an incredible New Year's football parlay and the Cornhuskers—boastfully awaiting results of the final college poll—hope it isn't the Irish eyes that wind up smiling.

"I don't see how even the Pope could vote Notre Dame No. 1," grinned Nebraska coach Bob Devaney. "It is pretty plain to me that we're the nation's best team."

Notre Dame, from its subway alumni to the Vatican, may see it differently.

Voters in The Associated Press poll will select a national champion this weekend and it appears to be a Nebraska-Notre Dame fight, with Tennessee as a darkhorse.

Prior to the flurry of bowl action, Texas was No. 1 and riding a 30-game winning streak. Behind the Longhorns came Ohio State, Nebraska, Tennessee, LSU and the Irish.

Suddenly, Texas was sitting on a one-game losing streak, apparently eliminated from the national title picture. Notre Dame pulled a 24-11 New Year's trick on the Horns in the Cotton Bowl.

Ohio State—the No. 1 position within its grasp—folded before Jim Plunkett and Stanford 27-17 in the Rose Bowl.

Nebraska bounced Louisiana State 17-12 in Friday night's prime time Orange Bowl match and Tennessee did its part by crushing Air Force 34-13 in the Sugar Bowl.

LSU, its own chances for No. 1 evaporated, became a ranking expert on the poll fight between the 11-0-1 Cornhuskers and the 11-1 irish.

"Nobody ran against us the way Nebraska did," said brilliant LSU tackle John Sage.

"They were better offensively than Notre Dame."

Notre Dame edged the Southeastern Conference Tigers 3-0 at South Bend, Ind.

"In my mind," said LSU coach Charlie McClendon, "there's no doubt who's No. 1—it's Nebraska. We played them both, lost to them both. Nebraska is No. 1."

Rumors Suggest Buckeyes May Lose Woody Hayes

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The golden football era, tarnished in its final chapter, is over at Ohio State.

Will Woody Hayes retire in the wake of a 27-17 beating the Buckeyes took from Stanford in the Rose Bowl?

Are the Buckeyes, who have shared or won the last three Big Ten crowns, returning to the league pack next season?

Did the brilliant crop of Ohio State seniors gain too much too quickly in their careers?

These are the major questions swirling around the Ohio State team that returns Sunday to Columbus after its first Rose Bowl loss under Hayes in four tries.

NOT SO

Rumors persist that Hayes, who has turned in 134 triumphs in 20 Ohio State coaching seasons, will retire. Insiders who know the man insist this isn't so.

Hayes, who will be 58 next month, claims he does not know what he plans to do. He maintains he has no better offer than the position he holds.

If Hayes should retire, it is a near certainty that defensive coordinator Lou McCullough would move into the head job. Most observers thought McCullough, an able recruiter, was going to get the Illinois post. Lou turned down the head job at Texas Christian and Iowa with that in mind.

Sixteen seniors, including 15 regulars, that led Ohio State to a 27-2 record in the last three seasons will graduate.

LOST TOUGH

The early success of this group as sophomores—they won 10 straight games, the league and national championships and a Rose Bowl game—may have worked against them.

After marching through eight more opponents in 1969, the Buckeyes never regained their magic touch, especially on offense.

They took a 24-12 defeat in the final game in 1969 at Michigan and had to battle hard for a 9-0 season in 1970.

"Maybe they got too rich, too quick," one source close to the team said Friday after Stanford upset the Buckeyes, 11-point favorites.

Graduation will hit Ohio State the hardest in recent times. Gone will be nine offensive regulars and six from the defense, including All-Americas Jim Stillwagon and Jack Tatum.

GOOD MATERIAL

Hayes can count on one of the school's better freshman classes to plug a lot of those graduation holes.

Cleburne Price Is Named Coach

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas named Cleburne Price Saturday as head track coach and director of the Texas Relays.

Price succeeds Jack Patterson, who resigned to become athletic director at Baylor University.

Price until his appointment by Texas Athletic Director Darrell Royal was athletic director and head track coach at Dallas Baptist College.

He has had an extensive association with Texas. He was a graduate student assistant in 1956-57 and was an assistant to Patterson for six years before resigning to take the Dallas job.

While at Southern Methodist University, he was Southwest Conference hurdles champion in 1949. He is a graduate of North Dallas High School and Wheaton University, Wheaton, Ill.

Dallas, 49ers Battle For Super Bowl Berth

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, turned back at the gates in two previous championship drives, and the San Francisco 49ers, sniffing playoff gold for the first time in 25 years, square off Sunday in a battle for the National Football Conference title and a possible Super Bowl bonanza.

The survivors will meet the winner of Sunday's American Football Conference duel between Baltimore and Oakland in Super Bowl V Jan. 17.

A sellout crowd of 59,686 was expected to jam Kezar Stadium for the 4 p.m. CST meeting of the NFC's Eastern and Western champs. The game will be nationally televised by CBS.

A weather forecast of possible showers failed to dampen the soaring spirits of San Francisco partisans who have waited so long for the 49ers to hit paydirt. The fans are engrossed with the prospect of a Super Bowl showdown in far off Miami betwen the 49ers and their cross-bay rivals from Oakland.

49ERS FAVORED

The 49ers, whose coach Dick Nolan, once masterminded Dallas' Doomsday Defense as an aide to Cowboys boss Tom Landry, go into the title game as slim favorites.

But their high-powered offense directed by 33-year-old wizard John Brodie, will be up against a Dallas defensive unit which has not given up a touchdown in 21 consecutive quarters.

And the Cowboys, who have reeled off six straight victories, will be bent on avenging two cliffhanger losses to Green Bay in the 1966 and 1967 title games.

At stake is a $8,500 payoff to each winning player, plus a shot at the winners' share of $15,000 per man in the Super Bowl. The game will be played to a sudden death finish if the teams are tied at the end of regulation time.

Landry and Nolan have had a close relationship since 1954, when they played together in the New York Giants defensive backfield. In 1962 Landry brought Nolan to Dallas as coaching assistant. They collaborated for six years before the 38-year-old defensive genius moved on to San Francisco as head man.

Now, they meet head-on after guiding clubs past rugged foes in last weekend's divisional playoffs.

San Francisco's Western champs, 10-3-1 during the regular season, ousted Minnesota, the defending National Football League king, 17-14 in frigid Minneapolis-St. Paul. The Cowboys repulsed Detroit 5-0 in a defensive brawl at Dallas for their 11th victory in 15 starts.

The Cowboys bounced back from a 5-4 treadmill two months ago to nail a playoff spot for the fifth consecutive year. Cleveland eliminated them in 1968 and 1969 post season play.

Defense has been the key to the comeback, but the Dallas attack is formidable too. The Cowboys are the NFC's top rushing team and with Landry calling offensive plays from the bench, quarterback Craig Morton has had better success moving the ball.

Morton, however, has been hindered by a bruised right elbow. He completed just four of 18 passes against Detroit last week. Still, he ranked fifth among NFC passers during the season and unloaded five touchdown passes aganist Houston two weeks ago.

Brodie fired 24 scoring strikes over-all on the way to the first passing title in his 14-year pro career. Given exceptional protection by an unheralded offensive line, he completed 59 per cent of his passes, was intercepted only 10 times and thrown for losses just eight times—a league record.

His favorite target, slender Gene Washington, grabbed 53 passes to rank third in the conference, averaged 28 yards per catch and scored 12 touchdowns.

The San Francisco offense, tops in the conference, rolled up 321.6 yards per game.

Dallas was third in total offense with a 317.8 average. It's potent ground game accounted for more than half the yardage.

Rookie Duane Thomas was fifth in the conference rushing race with 803 yards. Calvin Hill ranked 14th despite a run of injuries with 577, and Walter Garrison was 15th with 507.

Mercurial Bob Hayes failed to rank among the receiving leaders but had one four-touchdown game and continues to pose a constant home run threat to opposing secondaries.

Hayes and Reggie Rucker, who has replaced Lance Rentzel as the Cowboys' other wide receiver, will go against an outstanding crew of San Francisco defenders including Jim Johnson, Rosey Taylor and sensational rookie Bruce Taylor in the backfield.

Palmer Gets Jones Award For Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer has been named to receive the 1971 Bob Jones Award for "distinguished sportsmanship in golf," the United States Golf Association announced Saturday.

The award will be presented at the USGA annual meeting in New York Jan. 30.

"Playing ability is not a requirement for consideration," the USGA said in a prepared statement. "Rather, the award was conceived to commemorate the vast contributions to the cause of fair play made by Robert T. Jones Jr.

"When the USGA speaks of sportsmanship it has in mind the demonstration of personal qualities esteemed in sport: fair play, self-control and perhaps self-denial, generosity of spirit toward an opponent or toward the game as a whole, manner of playing or behaving so as to show respect for the game and the people in it, and unselfishness.

"These are the qualities Palmer has demonstrated many times."

The 41-year-old Palmer is the game's greatest gate attraction and became the first player to go over the $1 million mark in career earnings.

He won the U.S. Amateur championship in 1954 and scored his first of 55 professional victories in the 1955 Canadian Open. He won at least one tournament every year until he was blanked in 1970.

"However," the USGA said, "it was his personal characteristics rather than his playing record that brought him the award. He has been gracious in winning as well as in losing, and he has not been known to complain when he has been placed in unusual circumstances."

Wishbone Bombed Under Irish Attack

DALLAS (AP) — For 32 games, the last 30 of them victories, Texas had lived by its fearsome Wishbone offense. Friday, the top-ranked Longhorns died 24-11 in the Cotton Bowl at the hands of Notre Dame and a new-fangled Wishbone defense.

The stunning setback undoubtedly cost Texas a second straight national championship, even though second-ranked Ohio State lost to Stanford 27-17 in the Rose Bowl, because No. 3 Nebraska downed Louisiana State 17-12 in the Orange Bowl and fourth-rated Tennessee trounced Air Force 34-13 in the Sugar Bowl.

The final Associated Press poll will be released next week.

The sixth-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, bent on revenge for a 21-17 Cotton Bowl defeat by Texas a year ago and coming off a loss in the regular season finale that crushed their own national championship dreams, shocked Texas in the first half with their newly concocted Mirrored Wishbone defense.

STEERS EMBARRASSED

The Longhorns must have been embarrassed no end at seeing Notre Dame line up behind its defensive line exactly the way Texas did behind its offensive line. It was like looking in a mirror and there was nothing they could do about it.

In the Wishbone offense, the three deep backs form almost a straight T-formation, but the middle man — the fullback — is set a couple of feet in front of the halfbacks, resembling a Y. When that happened, Notre Dame linebacker Jim Wright assumed a position directly opposite the fullback — the two lines separating them — with linebacker Tim Kelly and defensive back Mike Crotty several feet behind him on either side opposite the Texas halfbacks.

After a fruitless first period which saw them trailing 14-3, the Longhorns, the nation's top rushing team but only 102nd among 118 major college football teams in passing, did what Notre Dame wanted. They broke up their Wishbone and went to more of a passing attack by flanking halback Jim Bertelsen. Notre Dame simply moved Crotty out to cover him.

The Mirrored Wishbone was the reason Coach Ara Parseghian closed all practice sessions this week. And just in case any spies managed to sneak a look, Notre Dame scrimmaged with 13 men on defense to camouflage their true alignment.

63-YARD DASH

After quarterback Eddie Phillips rocked them with a 63-yard gallop to the Notre Dame 10 on Texas' first play, the Irish stiffened. They limited Texas to a field goal and a mere 3-0 lead at that point and held the Longhorns to 216 yards on the ground, compared to their 374.5 average.

"We learned a great deal here a year ago," said Parseghian. "We even adopted some Wishbone offense last spring for the very purpose of knowing more about it." Notre Dame also showed some power-I, full house and pro sets and even used corner back Clarence Ellis, voted the game's outstanding defensive player, to catch a 37-yard pass.

"After Texas beat Arkansas so badly earlier this month, we knew that no conventional defense could possibly work against the consistency of their attack and the super execution Texas manages.

Balmy Weather Inspires Local Golfing Colony

The balmy, summer-type weather brought the golfers out in droves at the Webb links last week. We played the course Thursday and it was packed with players bringing their clubs out of winter storage.

Webb manager Jerry Northbrook was extremely pleased with the turnout during the week. "It's been a very good week," he exclaimed.

The course was playing extremely well and the ground crew was busy watering the greens and fairways. The greens were unpredictable because of the water. Some were fast while others were putting extremely slow.

Watch this column for news soon about some possible tournaments coming up on the Air Base course. Northbrook said he would like to schedule a lot of events at the base and in particular is thinking of staging a putting tournament in the near future.

* * *

Congratulations from this corner to Pat Patterson who ended the year with a bang. Playing the Country Club course Thursday, Pat aced the par three, 16th hole. He used a seven iron on the 168 yard hole. Nice way to end the year, right Pat.

Joyce Brantley, wife of pro Charley Brantley at the Muny course, reports a good turnout on the local links on the first day of the new year. The weather was great for golfers but Mrs. Brantley suspected "the bowl games on television probably cut our attendance quite a bit."

SAYS CHARLEY JOHNSON

Better Offense May Give 49ers An Edge

By GENE NORTON

The Houston Oilers football team was crippled with injuries during the past season and two of the most severe ones happened to Big Springer Charley Johnson.

Johnson, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, played his first season at quarterback for the Oilers this past season. His performance was marred by two devastating injuries. One was a broken collar bone and the other a knee injury.

"My collar bone is coming along just fine," Charley reports. "The doctors put a stainless steel plate in there and held it together with six screws, and I think it should be removed in March." As a result of the knee injury, both cartilages were removed from Johnson's right knee. "My knee is still very sore but I think it is coming along normally," he said.

VISITS HERE

The veteran signal caller was in Big Spring visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson Jr. last week and left Saturday to return to his home in Houston.

LIKES COLTS

When asked to make a prediction on the outcome of today's playoffs in the National Football League, Johnson said, "The defenses will be very close in the Cowboys-49ers game but I have to give the edge to San Francisco because they have the superior offense." He also gives the edge to the Colts in the clash with Oakland but said, "Oakland is so unpredictable it's really hard to figure them, but I think Baltimore is sounder all around so I'll go with the Colts."

CHARLEY JOHNSON

Going further, Johnson offered, "I think the 49ers will beat Baltimore if they meet in the Super Bowl but if Oakland gets by the Colts they probably will beat San Francisco."

OILERS' OUTLOOK

Johnson thinks the outlook for the Oilers next season is very good depending on the coaching situation. Wally Lemm, Oilers' head man, retired from the ranks recently and the Houston club is looking for a new mentor. "If we get a coach from outside the organization," Johnson said, "he must get organized, come to camp and give us his offense right away so we can get to work on it.

"We have a lot of fine talent on the Houston team," Johnson explained, "but we had a lot of young players this season who had to get experience. The ones that weren't young stayed hurt all season. We must get some good rookies in the draft and possibly make a few good trades."

He thinks the Oilers will go after a quarterback in the upcoming draft. "The management thinks I will play three or four more years but they must get a young quarterback and start grooming him now. If Jim Plunkett from Stanford is available when we draft, I know we would like to have him, but there are several other collegiate quarterbacks I'm sure our scouts have been looking at."

NOT AVAILABLE

The Oilers draft either third, fourth or fifth, so it's unlikely Plunkett, who played a big role in the Indians upset win over Ohio State in the Rose Bowl Friday will be available.

Jerry Rhome, Houston backup quarterback who suffered a shoulder separation in the final game of the year against Dallas, will be back pushing Johnson for the number one job in Houston. "Jerry is a very fine quarterback and his shoulder should be all right," Charley said. "It all depends on who our coach will be and what he likes as to who will be the starting quarterback at Houston in 1971."

Commenting on the dismal season experienced by the Oilers, Johnson said, "We have several first team players who missed most of the season with those injuries." He cited linebacker George Webster, backs Hoyle Granger, Woody Campbell and Roy Hopkins; end Allan Reed, wide receiver Jerry Levias and offensive left guard Tom Regner.

Johnson said he certainly enjoyed playing for Houston and was happy to be back in Texas. "The Astrodome is a great place to play," he added, "and the management is planning to put a new pad under the turf to soften it up some. Maybe that will cut down on some of our injuries."

Soft pad or not, with possibly Jerry Rhome and Jim Plunkett battling him for a job, Charley Johnson will be at the helm of the Houston Oilers when the 1971 season begins.

Bear Takes Blame For Alabama Loss

HOUSTON (AP) — Coach Bear Bryant says he cost his Alabama football team a victory over Oklahoma in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl by playing it too conservatively in the final minute.

Instead, Alabama had to settle for a 24-24 tie in the post season classic Thursday night when the Tide's Richard Ciemny missed a 34-yard field goal attempt with only one second remaining.

Oklahome had tied the score 58 seconds earlier on Bruce Derr's 42-yard field goal.

"I feel like I cost them the game," Bryant said. "I tried to play it safe and it turned out to be the wrong thing to do."

Twenty-four seconds remained and Alabama had the ball on the Oklahoma 17 when Bryant ordered his team to let the clock run until only five seconds showed, call a time out, and go for the winning field goal. The kick was wide.

TIME TO SCORE

"We had time to score," Bryant said. "I should have let them try it. It was my decision, not the boys'."

Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks also said it was his decision for the Sooners' field goal that tied the score.

"We were in a long yardage situation (fourth and 11) on their 32," he said. "We hadn't made many like that during the season so we just played the percentage and hoped our onside kick might work and give us one last chance. It didn't and we had to battle to save our tie."

Alabama took the onsides kick on the Sooners' 40-yard line and moved to the 17 in three plays to set up the unsuccessful last second field goal attempt.

If Bryant was unhappy with some of his decisions, he could be proud of one call he sent in that resulted in a 25-yard touchdown play that sent the Tide ahead 24-21 with just over seven minutes left.

TRICK PLAY

Quarterback Scott Hunter handed the ball to tailback Johnny Musso, who started as if to sweep right end. Hunter drifted to the left and took a pass from Musso just beyond the line of scrimmage. He was wide open and sprinted into the end zone.

It was the fourth pass thrown by Musso during the season and three have gone for touchdowns.

A standing room Astrodome crowd of 53,822 saw Oklahoma take a 21-7 lead on touchdown runs of 58 and 25 yards by Greg Pruitt and a two-yard smash by Joe Wylie.

In addition to the fourth quarter trick play, Alabama scored on a four-yard pass from Hunter to Randy Moore, a five-yarder from Hunter to David Bailey, and Ciemny's 20-yard field goal.

Pruitt, who gained 92 yards on six carries, was named the game's outstanding back. Alabama linebacker Jeff Rouzie was chosen top lineman.

CROSSWHITE STARS

Oklahoma sophomore Leon Crosswhite gained 111 yards on 20 carries as the Sooners rolled up 415 yards total offense. Hunter completed 13 of 26 passes for 174 yards and Musso netted 138 yards on 27 carries in leading Alabama to 428 yards total offense.

Alabama tackle Clyde Butler said that Hunter-to-Musso-to-Hunter trick play had a special name but he laughingly said it was unprintable.

Oklahoma probably has the same type name for it now. But no Sooners laughed.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

REPORT FROM EUROPE

Common Market Vs. Nationalism

By FRED DuBOSE, JR.

BRUSSELS — As long as supranationality — the federation of historically sovereign nations — is outlined in the vaguest of terms, Europeans seem warm to the idea. But when specifics and timetables come into the picture, someone invariably gets cold feet.

The situation was brought into clear focus in October, when two Common Market reports were issued within the space of a few days. One, the Davignon Report on political union, was cautious, simply advocating a "single voice for a united Europe," but stating no specific goals. The report named for the high Belgian foreign ministry official who drafted it was, as one critic said, "timid in its practical approach." And for this reason, it was acceptable to the six Common Market countries — France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium, and Luxembourg — who came together in limited economic union twelve years ago.

FRANCE REFUSES

But the second report — written under the direction of Luxembourg Prime Minister Pierre Werner — was haggled over and has not yet gotten off the ground. The reason was that, as a bold design for full economic and monetary union, the Werner Report expected the six member states to hand over important national powers to a federal authority according to a precise timetable.

Once again, it was France, the traditional stumblingblock in Common Market negotiations, who refused. France continually has fought the transfer of sovereignty away from national governments to Common Market federal institutions.

When Common Market representatives met here Dec. 14, hours of argument failed to break the deadlock over how to implement Werner's ambitious plan for union.

UNIFORMITY

The plan would merge the six national currencies into one European monetary unit which could rival the dollar in world trade. The common currency would be managed by a European Central Bank on the lines of the Federal Reserve System of the United States.

At the same time, the six nations would move "progressively" to full economic union by introducing uniform tax rates, freeing capital movements, and coordinating such vital economic indicators as credit policies, growth rates, and wage increases.

POLITICAL ASPECTS

Disagreement at the Brussels meeting centered on the political implications of union. The dissenter, France, refused to commit herself to giving any national powers to supranational institutions, such as the executive branch, or Commission, of the Common Market. She also shied away from the next logical step — giving real powers of control to the European Parliament, now merely an advisory body.

France's main opponent in the negotiations was West Germany, backed up by the other four nations of the Common Market.

COMPROMISE?

The French defended their position by saying that it is not yet realistic to talk of full economic union between nations of vastly different structure: Germany, for example, is Europe's leading economic power, while France remains primarily an agricultural nation, and Italy has a regional problem in the underdeveloped south.

Despite the German-French deadlock over the issue, a compromise is expected soon. Germany, with the support of the other Common Market nations, is prepared to use her considerable economic weight for this political purpose, and it is doubtful France could stand up a "united front" of five nations without making some concessions.

So, although negotiations for full economic union are off to a bad start, the picture may not be entirely bleak. The momentun is there, and France may find no choice but to move with European opinion.

Texans' Personal Incomes Decline, But Prices Rising

AUSTIN (AP) — Personal income in Texas declined 1 per cent from October to November while prices continued to rise, a University of Texas business analyst said Saturday.

"Without a substantial increase in December personal income for the state, the fourth-quarter personal income will be below that of the depressed third quarter in Texas," said Dr. Joe Jones, special research associate with the Bureau of Business Research.

Jones noted that industrial production declined slightly from October to November and unemployment rose "substantially."

"As in the receding national economy, both inflation and employment continue to increase in Texas with a perplexing persistence which renders tradition fiscal and monetary policy contradictory," Jones said.

Among the "barometers" of economic activity in Texas, declines occurred during November in total electric power use, bank debits and employment, he said, while increases were reported in crude oil runs to stills, industrial electric power use, urban building permits and average weekly earnings in manufacturing.

Jones said he could not discern any turn in the rate of inflation.

"If the decline in the rate of increase of the consumer price increase from October to November, 1970, does represent the beginning of a downward trend in prices, this monthly decline will be unique among those monthly declines experienced in the past two years," he said.

"The large monthly rate decreases experienced in the spring of 1969 and in the summer of 1970 were both followed immediately by rather sizable rates of price increases."

The bureau reported these October-to-November changes in local business activity indexes for 20 cities, with year-to-year changes from November, 1969, to November, 1970, in parentheses:

Abilene, down 4 per cent (up 1 per cent).

'Dry' In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston area has experienced a dry spell since mid-November but, because of the time of year, it has gone relatively unnoticed.

No rain fell from Nov. 14 to Dec. 12. And the total since then has been a meager .07 inch, the National Weather Service reports. Normal rainfall for December is 2.35 inches.

If the dry spell continues, its effects would be felt in winter pastures and by rice farmers preparing fields for next year, county agent Rayford Kay said.

Test To Check Wolfcamp

Pennzoil United, Inc. No. 1-17 Clark, an eastern Glasscock well, is being plugged back to test for pay in the Garden City (Southeast Wolfcamp) field at 8,156 feet.

Location is 1,980 from the north and west lines of section 17-32-4s, T&P, eight miles east of Garden City.

Martin County added another Spraberry Trend producer with completion of Western States Producing Co. No. 1-D Sale Ranch, 1,320 from the north and west lines of section 13-337-1n, T&P, elevation 2,832 derrick floor. The venture drilled to 9,100, set 4½-in. string on bottom, plugged back to 9,066, perforated from 8,142-9,048. Initial flowing production was 300 barrels of 39.1-gravity oil per day, plus 15 barrels of water; gas oil-ratio was 890, tubing pressure 600, casing pressure 750. Operator acidized with 3,000 gallons and fraced with 80,000 gallons, plus 180,000 pounds of sand.

Final completion figures were filed on the Green & Michaelson Producing No. 1 Mathis, a southern Dawson extension of the Tex-Hamon (Devonian) field. The venture located 467 from the south and 660 from the east lines of section 34-36-4n T&P, had ground elevation of 2,884. Operator drilled to 11,865, ran 4½-in. casing to 9,586 and plugged back to 9,536, perforated from 8,899-9,434. This well flowed 215 barrels of oil per day through a 13-64ths choke with gas-oil ratio of 1,900-1, tubing pressure 315. The perforations were treated with 4,000 gallons of acid, and fraced with 80,000 gallons and 160,000 pounds of sand.

COLT-RAIDER INFORMATION

BALTIMORE (AP) — Facts and figures for Sunday's American Football Conference championship game between the Oakland Raiders and the Baltimore Colts:

At stake — AFC championship and Super Bowl berth.

Participants — Oakland Raiders and Baltimore Colts.

Team records — Oakland, 8-4-2 in winning Western title plus a 21-14 playoff victory over Miami; Baltimore, 11-2-1 in winning Eastern title plus a 17-0 playoff victory over Cincinnati.

Television and radio — NBC, 1 p.m., CST.

Site — Memorial Stadium, capacity 60,240.

Players' shares — $8,500 to each member of winning team; $5,500 to each member of losing team.

Division of receipts — After deduction of taxes, expenses and players' shares, the remainder will be distributed to the competing clubs and the player pension fund.

Sudden death — If the game is tied after 60 minutes of regulation time, the teams will play sudden death. The first team scoring by any method will be the winner.

Slugging Award Set At Houston

HOUSTON (AP) First baseman John (Boog) Powell of the Baltimore Orioles will be honored as "Slugger of the Year" by the Houston Baseball Writers Association.

Powell, who capped a strong 1970 season by being named the American League's Most Valuable Player, will receive the Eddie Dyer Award at Houston's baseball dinner Jan. 29.

Powell batted .297, hit 35 home runs and drive in 114 runs during the regular season. Then he helped his team defeat Cincinnati in five games in the World Series.

FANS NAME NEBRASKA NUMBER ONE — Nebraska fans in the Orange Bowl Friday night named their team number one in the country even before they beat Louisiana State 17 to 12. The fans came prepared and placed the huge sign in front of their cheering section.

Fags, Beer May Use Racing To Up Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Auto racing, the nation's No. 2 spectator sport, may be on the verge of becoming a giant merchandising mart for products such as cigarettes, beer, soft drinks and whiskey.

The current scramble to obtain non-participant support and cash in on a 50-million fan market took on new emphasis early this year when the big automakers and accessory firms began pulling in their financial lines after dumping millions of dollars into racing to promote "muscle" cars and parts.

Forced to find new sources of revenue, sanctioning bodies and promoters turned to manufacturers who not only have money to spend but vast promotional resources.

TV IS LOSER

With television lost as a $300 million medium for cigarette advertising as of Jan. 1, tobacco firms became prime targets for sponsorship dollars.

Three tobacco firms already have announced their entry into racing in 1971 and a fourth is said to be negotiating a deal.

The latest giant to become involved is R.J. Reynolds.

Reynolds set up the "Winston Cup" for NASCAR's Grand National stock car division and with it a $100,000 fund to be paid drivers at three stages during the 1971 season.

The firm also will sponsor a 500-mile race at Talladega, Ala., to be known as the "Winston 500."

Two tobacco firms dabbled in racing last year. By their own analysis the experience was rewarding. Both are coming back bigger next year.

Phillip Morris' Marlboro division will sponsor USAC's entire 13-race series for Indianapolis-type championship cars. The 1970 support included $50,000 in the driver fund and some promotional support. In 1971, the ante includes $300,000 in the driver fund and a race-by-race promotion campaign that could run at least $1 million.

Ligget and Myers, for its L&M brand, sponsored the Sports Car Club of America's Continental series for Formula A cars last season. Next year, the series will be called "L&M's Formula 5000"—giving the cigarette firm direct identification. The change in formula is to more closely identify the cars with those used in Europe.

L&M also will provide individual race promoters with funds for advertising and lend know-how from Madison Avenue.

Reynolds says it plans a heavy promotional campaign not only for its "Winston 500" at Talladega but for the whole NASCAR big car series of 51 races. A source close to the firm said the campaign will include newspaper ads, billboards, magazines, direct mail and other outlets.

Imperial Tobacco Co., through its Players brand that isn't marketed in the U.S., has been sponsoring auto racing for several years. It is a prime backer of Canadian events and is a big source of money for Colin Chapman's Lotus Formula 1 team in Britain.

Even so, the cigarette people are late comers to the racing scene. Such industrial giants as Johnsons Wax Co., Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, breweries and whiskey firms have been it for years.

Coca-Cola recently sponsored the SCCA's American Road Race of Champions at Atlanta. It also has sponsored individual race cars in NASCAR, as has Pepsi.

Inverhouse Scotch and Yardley's, a maker of men's toiletries, have sponsored individual races over the years, including such big events as the U.S. and Canadian Grand Prix, both stops on the world driver championship tour.

The beer people are among the big TV time buyers. Just recently, the Schaefer Brewing Co., announced it will sponsor the inaugural 500-mile race.

Falstaff sponsored the 1970 NASCAR race at Riverside, Calif., and paid $25,000 to Bobby Isaac, winner of the NASCAR driving title. Another brewer, Millers, has sponsored races at Milwaukee for years.

Colts, Raiders Meet In Snowy Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lugging their long winter underwear, the Oakland Raiders flew toward snow-draped Baltimore Friday night for their American Football Conference championship game against the Colts while ground crews worked through the day to clear Memorial Stadium for Sunday's showdown struggle.

An emergency force numbering some 200 men with shovels, brooms and the machines of their trade — trucks, plows, snow-blowers — began working at 7 a.m. to remove a five-inch snowfall that began wafting down on Baltimore New Year's Eve.

"We will work continually — through the night if we have to," said Louis Cavallaro, the assistant stadium manager. "The field, naturally, is our first concern, but it has been covered and is dry. We don't anticipate that the snow will hurt the condition of the field."

The weekend weather forecast called for little chance of further snow and rising temperatures that might reach the 40s by game time. That, of course, would aid the snow-removal job. But the snowfall had all but doomed chances for a sellout in 62-000-seat Memorial Stadium. Some 4,000 tickets remained on sale.

WINTER GEAR

Meanwhile, the Raiders left Oakland in their winter togs, confident the weather would not hurt their chances in the game — to be televised nationally by NBC at 1 p.m. CST — that will send the winner into the Super Bowl Jan. 17.

"We don't worry about things over which we have no control, and weather is one of them," said Coach John Madden before the Raiders boarded their plane. "Weather or the condition of the field is the same problem for both sides."

While those elements were being looked at similarly by both coaches, there was a difference of opinion on whether the game had overtones of the bitter AFL-NFL rivalry, matching as it does the Raiders, one of the original AFL teams, and the Colts, who this year moved from the old NFL into the American Conference with the former AFL clubs.

AFL VS. NFL

"This," said Madden, "will be like the American Football League vs. the Nation Football League.

"AFL . . NFL — that doesn't mean anything," McCafferty disagreed. "The only thing we'll be thinking about Sunday is beating the other team — nothing else."

But most observers seem to feel this battle between two teams looking for Super Bowl redemption will find AFL sympathizers favoring the Raiders to move on and meet the winner of the National Conference championship between Dallas and San Francisco in the Super Bowl.

The focal point of the battle very likely will be the quarterbacks — 15-year veteran Johnny Unitas of the Colts and Daryle Lamonica of the Raiders, the No. 1-ranked passer in the AFC and a proponent of exploiting the long pass whenever possible.

In leading the Raiders to the Western Division title over the defending Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs, Lamonica completed 179 passes in 356 attempts for 2,516 yards and a conference-leading 22 touchdowns — eight more than Unitas. Lamonica has standout receivers in Fred Biletnikoff and Warren Wells to achieve his aims.

Unitas, who had made a successful comeback from a sore arm that threatened his career two years ago, hit on 166 of 321 attempts for 2,213 yards and 14 touchdowns in an aerial attack keyed to Eddie Hinton and Roy Jefferson. But tight end John Mackey still is troubled by a hamstring pull.

EDGE TO UNITAS

Unitas, however, does have an edge in experience and has played in one of the two championship games that ended in sudden death, which will be in effect for Sunday's game. Unitas led Baltimore to a 23-17 victory over the New York Giants in 1958.

Both teams also have strong ground-based offenses, with Hewritt Dixon the top ground gainer for the Raiders with 861 yards during the season. The Colts, meanwhile, have been getting increased production from developing rookie Norm Bulaich.

Each team has had one previous shot at the Super Bowl. But neither succeeded. The Raiders were beaten by Green Bay in Super Bowl II and the Colts bowed to the New York Jets in Super Bowl III, becoming the first NFL team to bow to an AFL team in pro football's premier spectacle.

They'll be battling for another opportunity this Sunday, the $15,000 prize that again will go to the winner and the $8,500 guaranteed the victor for the AFC championship. The losers here get $5,500.

CR '71 Tickets On Sale Monday

Tickets for Campus Revue '71, the annual extravaganza presented by the Big Spring High School band, will go on sale Monday.

Last year CR '70 was a sellout, and band members think this feat will be duplicated. Hence, they urged early purchases of tickets ($1.50, $3, and $5). Dates for the show, set for the school auditorium, are Jan. 28-29-30 at 8 p.m.

The popular production is being staged by Todd Lane, who produces the Summer Youth Musicals at Wichita Falls. CR '71 is also being staged by the band directors Bill Bradley and Kyle Ellison.

There will be special lighting effects throughout the show again this year. The finale this year is of a patriotic nature. In this sequence is where the lighting effects will be unique.

A special addition to this year's show is the circular runway which has been constructed to reach into the audience. There will be many costume changes in the CR '71. Band Booster Club members helping make costumes for CR '71 are Mrs. Pat Seay, Mrs. Joy Fortenberry, Mrs. Mel Stinson. Many of the dance numbers will be staged by Mrs. R. E. Carr, physical education instructor.

A special feature act is always directed toward the younger people in the audience. This year, Campus Revue will present segments of Lil' Abner. All dancers will be clad in bright colors.

Reporter's Scoop Gets Curb Service

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Three fire trucks, lights flashing and sirens wailing, pulled up in front of the Minneapolis Star & Tribune Building shortly after midnight today.

Reporter Bob Hagen heard the commotion from the Tribune's third-floor newsroom, and thought he would try to get the story for the Tribune's final edition.

Hagen called the Tribune radio room, where fire and police communications are monitored, and asked where the fire was.

"In our composing room," was the answer.

Composing room employes doused a burning can of cleaning solvent before firemen arrived.

My Lai Defendant Is Booked Again

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)— Army Sgt. Ezequiel Torres is charged with murder in the My Lai incident and continues to have his problems with hometown police.

Torres, 22, was arrested Friday on a misdemeanor complaint charging him with being drunk and disorderly.

Torres is free on $15 bond and is scheduled to appear in municipal court Monday morning.

Last summer, Torres was arrested by police who accused him of firing a 30-30 rifle into the ground outside a local bar. Police said Torres tried to get beer on credit and when the barmaid refused, he went outside, took the rifle from the trunk of his car and fired it four times.

Torres said he was at My Lai, South Vietnam March 16, 1968, "but I didn't see anything like a massacre."

He is accused by the Army of killing three Vietnamese civilians at My Lai and of hanging another earlier.

New Year's Baby Ditto For Dad

RENO, NEV. (AP) — The first New Year baby in Reno was 6-pound 15½-ounce Danny Leon Jackson Jr., whose father was also born on New Year's Day 22 years ago.

Danny Jr., was born in the Washoe Medical Center here and his father was born in Poteau, Okla.

Computer Tallies Snowflake Count

KINGSPORT, Tenn. (AP) — Tennesseans need no longer wonder how many snowflakes it would take to cover their home state with ten inches of snow.

A group of mathematicians at Tennessee-Eastern Corp. here say they have the answer.

To get it, they determined the size of the average snowflake and the approximate number of square miles in the state, then fed the information into a computer.

The answer: 27,794,920,909,600,000 snowflakes.

If that seems a bit high, it's because they told the computer there were 43,000 square miles in the state instead of 42,244.

Music Festival Contest Open

Composers have been invited to submit works for consideration in the Indiana State University Fifth Annual Contemporary Music Festival.

Deadline for submitting orchestral scores is Feb. 1, and the scores should be sent to the Indiana State University music department, Terre Haute, Ind.

The festival is scheduled for May 17 to 20 on the ISU campus featuring the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Six Square Dances Set For Texas Inauguration

AUSTIN (AP) — Nationally known square dance callers Marshall Flippo and Gary Shoemake will be featured at one of the six "galas" Jan. 16 marking Gov. Preston Smith's inauguration for his second term.

The governor and Mrs. Smith may display their abilities at do-si-do.

The free admission square dance will be at the University of Texas Gregory Gymnasium.

Smith sent invitations to square dancers all over Texas and to many throughout the nation.

"Spectators probably will get a chance to observe the square dance talents of Gov. and Mrs. Smith as they visit this ball among the other five," said Austin Inaugural Committee.

The committee said singer Jeanie Riley will perform at this and the other five galas. Other performers at the governor's six simultaneous inaugural parties will include Buck Owens, Faron Young, Ray Price and the Gripping Force, a rock band.

Farm Family Conference Is Scheduled In Lamesa

LAMESA — The South Plains Development Program is sponsoring a Farm Family Management Conference Wednesday and Thursday in the Forrest Park Community Center here. The all-day sessions begin at 9:30 a.m. each day.

Topics up for discussion Wednesday include "Management Decisions Facing Farm Families in the 70's," Dr. William E. Black, economist in marketing and policy at Texas A&M University; "Expected Cost and Return of 30 Sows, 75 Sows and 150 Sows," Dr. Gilbert Hollis, area swine specialist with Texas A&M University.

"How Many Acres of Cotton or Grain Sorghum To Make A New Return of $10,000," Marvin Sartin, area farm management specialist with Texas A&M University; "Basic Principles of Money Management," Bonnie Lyerly, specialist in home management with Texas A&M University; "Estate Planning Team," Dallas Woods, trust officer of First National Bank of Lamesa; and a panel discussion made up of Dallas Woods, Bonnie Lyerly, Marvin Sartin, Gilbert Hollis and led by Dr. William E. Black.

Thursday seminars include "What Size Poultry Enterprise Must I Have To Return A Fair Income For Labor and Management," Ben C. Wormeli, poultry specialist with Texas A&M University; "Intergrated Poultry Program," Harold Hilley, vice president, Hi-Plains Enterprises; "Pea And Bean Production, Harvesting And Marketing," Douglas Harris, manager of Texas Bean and Pea Inc.; "Kinds and Cost Of Credit — Your Right As A Consumer," Bonnie Lyerly; "The Why, When And Who Needs Of A Will," Karl Cayton, Lamesa attorney; and "Group Discussion On Positive Solutions of Agricultural And Home Management Problems In Dawson County," Dr. William Black.

Spring Wools

Wool has become the brilliant translator for the American way of wearing clothes. The spring collections of American designers boast sheer wools, lightweight wovens and doubleknits, lending themselves admirably to the lithe, lightly-clinging lines of fashion. The long, newly proportioned silhouette returns to woman an aura of seductive mystery.

Whatever the measurement from the floor — maxi, midi, and below the knee — each woman is adapting to it, styling fashion for the occasion. The purity of fine wool fabric induces shape and design control.

The softly shaped concept of clothes in its Spring 1971 guise includes many willowy dresses of sheer wool printed and pleated in knife or crystal style. The skirt is set upon a tiny bodice with neat shoulders from which sleeves emerge in many shapes: freely gathered and cuffed, narrowed and long, leg o' mutton, or rounded from enlarged armholes.

Knitted sportswear is unconventional such as the longshoreman's knitted top, cut to the waist and often baring the midriff. Flowered knitted prints blossom as baring halters combined with slender pants or flowing skirts deeply ruffled at the hemline.

The peasant influence is strongly rooted in fashion. Fabric colors, textures and patterns mixed in a skillful manner convey a spirited fashion attitude. Sleeves are traditionally puffed, necklines widely U-scooped and skirts gathered in dirndle effect. The decorative if sought is tucking, embroideries and naive little bows.

Running after the sweet and simple fashions is the witty, workman's stylings such as gardener's aprons, mechanic's coveralls, busboy jackets and schoolboy blazers, all adapted for town wear in lightweight wool flannel, airy fleece, denim-like tricotine and wool fancies. Combined with turtlenecked sweaters, one can add a sleeveless vest with shoulder straps balanced at the bone or shapely skinny tops.

Another of the great wool looks is the elegant walking suit worn with a widely brimmed wool felt hat and dashing printed scarf. Wool pants are everywhere, purely tailored a la the late thirties seen with an infinite variety of sweaters, tunics and shirts, effectively combined with an unlined wool cape creating a costume look.

The classic suit and coat are newly figure shaping, defining the waist, releasing the skirt to a more stabilized hemline than of a year ago . . . just below the knee. Designers believe that pants with matching tunic-like dresses or overskirts color-keyed and coordinated with a fitted top will satisfy many women who love a new look but will not wear the very long midi and shy away from the wearing of boots.

Spring evenings are warmed by the beauty and styling of fashions for dressier occasions. Backless knit dresses flow to high ankle bordered at the hemline by a giant ruffle or band of embroidery. Ruffles are seen on many coats intended for moonlit walks. Unlined and featherweight, flannel and fleece dominate the fashion scene.

The rising scale of color for wool predicts sunlit shades such as flesh pink, peach, apricot, apple green, bisque, lilac, marigold, baby blues to navy blue and stark white accented on occasion by black. The "look" is not monochromatic, but a mixture of three or four colors. Combine the predominant color with any two or three for a perfect blend of apparel whether it be wool knits, tweeds or sheerly woven fabrics.

CHRISTIAN DIOR, the master tailor, creates the elegant walking suit in pure wool yarn dyed faille, ounces away from weightlessness. The giant-size notched collar mounted on a body-shaping jacket rides high on straight uncuffed pants. Mocking the masculine in a very feminine manner, pockets flatly flapped are buttoned in bone to match those of the single breasted jacket closing. The elegant accessory further declares the wearability range of the design — a wool felt padre hat by Frank Olive.

THE STUNNING look of wool flannel is purely stated in lightweight fabrication of pale pink striping upon a greige ground. Kasper of Joan Leslie creates a coat of contoured seaming running contrary to line effecting a figure-slimming effect. The large notched collar and pockets carved to hipline measure are the only designer exaggerations of an otherwise controlled fashion statement. Frank Olive's grandly brimmed wool felt hat balances the elongated silhouette, a trend for spring.

ETHNIC ACCENTS permeate the fashion scene. A lightweight cream colored wool in an airy basket weave is shaped as a shirtwaist dress by designer Adele Simpson. The sleeveless cover-up of pink and cream wool flannel is patterned in an Indian motif. Golden jeweled ornaments brighten hair, neck and wrist.

United In Marriage At Methodist Church

Miss Lucretia Ann Drake and Shelton Lee Ashley were united in marriage Friday at the First United Methodist Church, Big Spring, with the Rev. Ray Elmore, pastor of First United Methodist Church, Coahoma, performing the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Drake and Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, all of Sand Springs.

Vows were exchanged before an altar flanked with white chrysanthemums and palms and illuminated by votive candles in branched candelabra. Miss Becky Headrick, soloist, was accompanied by Miss Arlene Milliken at the organ.

The bride was attired in her mother's wedding gown of white peau de soie featuring a fur-trimmed neckline, and the basque waist was fastened down the back with covered buttons. Long sleeves came to points over the hands. The full skirt had a short tunic, edged with white fur, which extended down the sides of the skirt and terminated in a train. Extending from a bridal cap of white fur was a cathedral-length illusion veil.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink rose buds.

MRS. SHELTON LEE ASHLEY

ATTENDANTS

Miss Sheri Lee, Coahoma, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Terriann Ashley and Miss Connie Howell, both of Sand Springs, and Miss Mica Robertson. They wore Victorian-style gowns of burgandy velvet. Miss Cecilia Drake, sister of the bride, and Miss Brenda Robertson served as junior bridesmaids. They wore similar gowns of pink velvet. Each attendant carried cluster bouquets of mixed flowers.

Terry Johnston was best man. The groomsmen were Mike Childers and Phillip Bartlett, both of Arlington; Ricky Drake and Roy Drake, brothers of the bride; and Paul Webb. Graham Avery of Conroe and Sammy Robertson served as ushers.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church, where Miss Barbara Coates presided at the guest book. Members of the house party were Mrs. Sam Robertson, Mrs. W. C. Ward, Mrs. David Webb, Miss Marsha Day and Miss Elen Cunningham.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with lace and centered with an arrangement of assorted pink flowers. Small nosegay's were scattered around the table's edge, and the wedding cake featured figurines of the bridal party with the bride and groom at the top.

For a wedding trip to the New Mexico mountains, the bride wore a dress of white double knit accented by a blue and pink scarf with black accessories and a rose bud corsage. The couple will live in Arlington.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Coahoma High School where she was crowned "Miss Coahoma High School" in 1970. At the University of Texas at Arlington, he will be working toward a master's degree in Business Administration and she plans to work toward a teaching degree. He is employed by J. C. Penney's in Six Flags Mall.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. D. L. McCracken, Sunnyvale, Calif.; Mrs. Ron Powers, San Francisco, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Drake, Edmond, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Campbell, Hammon, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Carpenter, Austin; Dr. and Mrs. Maple Avery, Conroe; and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Wall, Arlington.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday at the Spanish Inn. The couple presented gifts to their attendants.

Coverups Make Bikinis Couth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "A bikini alone is not particularly couth, so we like to add a third piece to the outfit," said one of the designers at the 20th annual California Fashion Creators press week.

On that note the swimwear showing began Tuesday at the Sheraton University. We see the one-piece suit with a poncho over it. Here we have a bikini covered up with an ankle-length coat. And so on.

In fact, the showing seemed to bear out New York fashion designer Rudi Gernreich's prophecy that next spring "we'll be swimming in clothes."

Swim suits rarely made an appearance on stage without some kind of third piece to the outfit.

The 85 women fashion editors attending the press week consider the swimwear showings here important because California long has been the leader in this field.

Here To Attend Wedding Rites

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Campbell of Hammon, Okla., were the weekend guests of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Moad. They had come to attend the wedding of the Moad's granddaughter, Lucretia Drake, to Shelton Ashley Saturday evening.

Knight Guests

Relatives visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knight are her mother, Mrs. Virginia Moore, and a brother, Scott Moore, of Weatherford, Okla., and another brother, Sterling Moore, of Stillwater, Okla.

MRS. CARL DEAN VAN VLEET

Wedding Held Friday Night

Miss Robbie Helene Cline and Carl Dean Van Vleet were married at 7 p.m. Friday in the Mt. Joy Baptist Church of Knott. The Rev. Claude Craven, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church in Big Spring, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with two large candelabra flanked with greenery.

Robert Jones of Colorado City was the vocalist, accompanied on the piano by Miss Janette Nichols of Big Spring.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Cline, Knott Route, Big Spring, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. William L. Smalley of Houston and Claude M. Van Vleet of Big Spring.

The bride was attired in a street-length, white peau de soie, A-line gown with a high neckline and long lace sleeves. The bodice was accented with white lace overlay. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a band of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of miniature white carnations with white streamers.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Steve Cline of Big Spring, was matron of honor, and Miss Jan Louise Skinner of Big Spring was bridesmaid. They wore light pink A-line dresses, accented with pink braid.

Craig Frank was best man, and Rowan Settles was groomsman. Ushers were Steve Cline and E-C Donald E. Boling (USMC). All of the men are from Big Spring.

The reception was held in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Nichols. The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a white floral arrangement. Miss Nichols and Mrs. Robert Nichols served.

The couple graduated from Big Spring High School and both attended Howard County Junior College. She is employed by Morris Robertson Body Shop and C. R. Anthony's. He works for Intech Corporation.

Following a wedding trip to Cloudcroft, N.M., the couple will reside at 1206 Main, Big Spring.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nichols of Seminole.

MRS. ALBERT M. FISHER, a long-time resident of Big Spring who now makes her home in Miami Beach, Fla., has been the houseguest of MRS. G. T. HALL. She left Thursday after spending several days here. She is now in San Angelo to visit her son, EDWARD, and his wife. She planned to leave tomorrow to go back to Florida. While here she was entertained informally by a number of friends and had a wonderful time.

Ceremony Performed In Catholic Church

Miss Monica Rodriguez and Andres Chavez were married Saturday at 10 a.m. in St. Thomas Catholic Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gavino Rodriguez, Route 1, Knott, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dolores Chavez, 204 NE 8th, and the late Ruperto Chavez.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Leo St. John and traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Ed Settles, organist.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace with long tapered, sheer sleeves and scalloped neckline. Accented at the waistline with a bow, the skirt fell to form a chapel train. Her long veil was held with a crown of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Mary Perez was maid of honor, and Mrs. Eulalio Rodriguez was matron of honor. They wore white floor-length dresses trimmed with silver and veils attached to small silver crowns.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Chavilo Cavazos, Mrs. Chencho Ontiveroz, Mrs. Thomas Olague, Mrs. Sam Calvio, Miss Lupe Mata, Miss Tina Graza, Miss Gloria Trevino, Miss Jauna Santiago, Miss Lilly Rodriguez, Miss Janie Brito, Miss Ernie Heredia, Miss Terry Quintana, Miss Tomasa Rodriguez, Miss Sandy Rubio, Miss Elena Robles Miss Alicia Santiago.

The bridesmaids wore floor-length green gowns trimmed with silver, and veils which fell from silver crowns.

The bride's brother, Eulalio Rodriguez, was best man, and groomsmen were Chavelo Cavazos, Chencho Ontiveroz, Thomas Olague, Sam Calvio, Gabby Rodriguez, Ray Rodriguez, Tommy Santiago, John Rios, Joe Silva, Catarino Sotelo, Danny Quintana, Albert Heredia, Blass Bailon Jr. and Lupe Rocha.

Miss Terry Rodriguez was flower girl, and Thomas Olague Jr. was the ring bearer.

The couple will reside at 210 E. 14th, Odessa, where Chavez is employed with the Triple A Roofing and Acoustic Corporation. He attended school in Big Spring. Mrs. Chavez attended school in Knott and was formerly employed by the College Park Beauty Salon.

A reception was held in the church basement where Mrs. Delfina Bailon, Miss Emma Chavez, Mrs. Cruz Rubio, Mrs. Leonor Satilo and Miss Mary Molinar presided at the refreshment table. The table was laid with a white floor-length cloth and the wedding cake was flanked with silver candle holders.

BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Fermin Garza, Ozona, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ernestine, to Ray Rodriguez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gavino Rodriguez, Knott. The couple plans to marry May 29, 1971, in the Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church of Ozona.

Silver Versatility Helps All Day

There are endless uses for silver accessories. Pitchers, bowls, trays, platters and tea sets are all well adapted to more than one purpose in this age when good taste and inventiveness go together.

A vegetable dish can be used for serving rolls, creamed foods, salads or desserts. At cocktail or dinner time, it can hold relishes or provide a decorative setting for fruit or flowers.

A gravy boat is valuable all day long. It can sail through breakfast as a container for maple syrup, honey or marmalade. At lunch or dinner, the boat's cargo can be bread sticks, melted butter or dessert sauce.

Miss Beth Hayworth Marries Mike Perry

(Frank Brandon Photography)

MRS. MIKE PERRY

The wedding of Miss Beth Hayworth and Mike Perry was solemnized Saturday evening as the Rev. Claude Craven performed the nuptial ceremony in Trinity Baptist Church.

A prelude of traditional music was played by Mrs. Leonard Moody, organist; Miss Joyce Allen, violinist; and Larry Landusky, pianist. Vocalist were Miss Judy Benson and Leonard Moody. The wedding party stood before an altar centered with a spiral candelabrum flanked by baskets of gladioli and greenery with red accents.

PARENTS

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hayworth, 1700 Donley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perry, 4806 45th St., Lubbock.

The bride's formal gown of peau de soie was fashioned with fitted bodice styled with trumpet sleeves and collar which formed a cape. Both the sleeves and collar were trimmed with rose appliques. Her full-length veil of tulle was held by a headpiece of lace flowers, outlined by seed pearls, and swept to cover her chapel train. She carried a cascade of red roses and English ivy interspersed with stephanotis.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Lila Williams. The bridesmatron was Mrs. Gene Jones, Plainview; and bridesmaids were Miss Lydia Hayworth, sister of the bride; Miss Cheryl Colclazer, Miss Monnie Watkins, Miss Donna Woolaver, Henrietta; and Miss Annelle Fitzhugh, Lamesa.

The maid of honor was attired in a formal gown and caplet of jewel green sorrento with a matching Dior bow headpiece. The other attendants were attired in identical gowns of lime and avocado. Each carried a white candle entwined with ivy and tied with white ribbon.

Similar attire was worn by the flower girl, Rebecca Kemmer of Tyler. Altar tapers were lighted by Miss Diane Perry of Lubbock, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Melanie Hayworth, sister of the bride; and Miss Diann Stewart, sister of the bride.

Jim Perry of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The groomsmen were David Perry, Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom; Tony Stewart, brother of the bride; Larry Richards, Ralls; and Sandy Dandlin, Sid Chance and James Robins, all of Lubbock. The bride's brother, Farley Hayworth, was ring bearer.

SCHOOLS

The bride, a graduate of Big Spring High School, is a senior student at Texas Tech University, a member of the Tech Choir and Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority. The bridegroom was graduated from Catalina High School, Tucson, Ariz., attended the University of Arizona, Abilene Christian College and Lubbock Christian College. He is employed by Interstate Securities Finance in Lubbock where the couple will reside at 405 Ave. W, Apt. 238, after a short wedding trip. For traveling, Mrs. Perry chose a red dress with grey coat and grey accessories. Her corsage was from her bridal bouquet.

RECEPTION

The couple was honored with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church where the bride's table was set with crystal appointments and centered with silver candelabra and the bridal bouquet. The bridegroom's table was covered with a red cloth and centered with red roses and milk glass candleholders. Fruit cake and coffee were served from silver and milk glass appointments.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carlile, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dimpfl, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Colclazer, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Fitzhugh, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beasley and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Majors. Those serving were Miss Marilyn Mote and Miss Lucy Larmer, both of Lubbock, Miss Myra Dickson, Midland, and Miss Cathy Carlile.

Out-of-town guests were Dean Jameson and Barry Wilmoth, both of Fort Worth; Jim Leech, Ozona; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stalcup and Miss Janeen Drew, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kennemer and family, Tyler; and Mrs. Vennie Alexander, McKinney.

ENGAGED — Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Wall, 2900 Parkway, announce the engagement of their daughter, Christine Louise, to Sgt. Dannie McBride, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Eads of Emery. The wedding is scheduled Feb. 20.

Sleeping Comfort

A taut sheet contributes to sleeping comfort. When making a bed, tuck at least 10 inches of the bottom sheet tightly under the foot of the mattress. Keep this even so that the sheet will be even at the top. Pull sheet smoothly up over the bed and tuck it tightly under the mattress at the head of the bed.

How Will We Know Which Are Good Guys?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The John B. Stetson Co., manufacturer of famous hats since 1865, has announced it will stop making head wear in early 1971.

"We have reached this conclusion with great reluctance," Norman Karpf, executive vice president, said Tuesday.

"Despite the diligent efforts of management and the loyalty of our customers, the severe decline in the use of hats has made it economically unfeasible to continue the production of hats in our large Philadelphia plant," he said.

Thus, the modern male's dislike of hats will bring an end to the Stetson, the hat of ten-gallon fame long identified with the rich history of the American West and worn by ranchers, oil millionaires, Lyndon Johnson, Barry Goldwater and many others.

The Stetson became identified with the West after John B. Stetson, then a struggling Philadelphia hatmaker, took an extended trip to the West in the 1860's to cure a case of tuberculosis. He got his cure, and along the way he stumbled onto the Westerner's need for a good hat.

One day a Mexican, so the story goes, took a liking to a sample felt hat Stetson was carrying and plunked down a gold piece to pay for it.

Stetson returned to Philadelphia and sent some of his samples out West. He soon found he couldn't make the toppers fast enough to fill the orders.

Cowboy movie stars wore white Stetsons, the bad guys wore black Stetsons, and along the way an American hallmark of sorts was developed.

But after World War II hatwearing declined drastically as the "casual look" took over and cars became so low-slung it was difficult to wear a hat.

At one time 5,000 people worked at the Philadelphia hat factory, but only 300 are there today.

Austin Couple Honored With Wedding Shower

Mr. and Mrs. D. Shortes were honored with a belated wedding shower and coffee Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cave, Route 1, Ackerly.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marvie Shortes, Route 1, Ackerly, and Mrs. Elsie Smith, 1404 Austin and the late Ralph Smith.

Mrs. Shortes, attired in a deep purple coat dress, greeted guests with her grandmother, Mrs. Leslie Bryson, and the bridegroom's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Shortes and Mrs. Otto Barkowsky. The four women were presented white carnation corsages with yellow accents.

The refreshment table was covered with a yellow linen cloth, overlaid with antique lace and centered with a yellow and white bouquet of roses and greenery. Milkglass appointments were used.

The couple was married at the First United Methodist Church in May and now reside at 1200 Broadmoore, Apt. 375, Austin. Graduates of Big Spring High School in 1968, they are both members of the National Honor Society.

They now attend the University of Texas where Shortes majors in physics and astronomy and his wife studies psychology and business. They also both work for the state hospital in Austin.

Cohostesses for the coffee were Mrs. A. F. Beckmeyer, Mrs. Troy Langston, Mrs. David Davidson and Mrs. Maedelle Davidson. Guests were registered by Mrs. Danny Nicholes.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING

It's Pruning Time

By CATHERINE CRAWFORD
(County HD Agent)

Many homeowners will be putting their pruning equipment to use in the next several weeks. Now would be a good time to start planning just what you hope to accomplish as you prune trees and shrubs. And, it is also a good time to consider some of the basic principles that should be considered.

Pruning plants is an art which can be acquired through learning certain basic principles and the exceptions to them, and through experience and close observation.

There are several reasons for pruning. The cardinal rule to follow in pruning ornamental plants is: If you have no good reason for pruning a plant, put the tools away without using them.

Pruning Shade Trees. Although shade trees probably require less pruning than other groups of ornamental plants, at times pruning such trees is necessary.

When large trees are grown for shade, they also shade themselves, and sufficient sunlight is necessary for the development of good foliage. Shade trees require removal of dead or diseased branches and, in some cases, branches that interfere with good plant growth and form.

Avoid topping large trees unless some serious damage makes it mandatory.

Pruning for Health. Broken, dead or diseased branches need pruning to prevent the fungus that produces wood decay from penetrating into the part of the tree where these branches are attained.

Live branches may be removed to permit more air and sunlight to penetrate and circulate through the other branches of the tree.

Branches that overlap and those that interfere with telephone and power lines are removed to prevent rubbing and eventual decay.

Removal of a large portion of the top of any tree may favor fungus and insect attack, and also increase the possibility of bark scalding due to sudden exposure of the tender tissues to strong sun rays.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I'd like to let you and your "army of housewives" in on a little secret about storing left-over Christmas gift wrappings (the kind that comes on cardboard cylinders).

When I have some left on a roll after Christmas, I take it off the roll entirely and then reroll it again (not too tightly) so that it will fit inside the cardboard cylinder instead of around it.

This keeps the paper beautifully until next Christmas since it doesn't get dog-eared around the edges when stored.

If I happen to have matching ribbons, I place the roll of ribbon in a plastic sandwich bag, and, before I put the wrapping paper in the tube, I staple the bag of ribbon to the outside of the tube.

Then I don't have to go through a hundred and one drawers looking for the wrap and the ribbon when I get ready to wrap gifts next year. . . . Mrs. J.W.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Before I cook a new dish I add the cost of each item required and place the total cost in the upper right-hand corner of my recipe card and then place it in my file.

Later when preparing a special meal for my family or friends I pull the recipes of the dishes I want to serve, glance at these figures and know the cost of the meal I am planning.

This is especially helpful to brides and persons who like to have dinner parties even though they must maintain a strict budget. . . . Artesia

* * *

Dear Heloise:

While away from home during a particularly slushy day, I wanted to clean off the car windshield but didn't have anything in the car but disposable diapers.

I used one with snow and had fantastic results: They do not shred and the plastic backing keeps your hand or glove dry. . . . Judy

MRS. MICHAEL F. RIGGINS

Say Vows In Lamesa Rites

Miss Sarah Nadine Beckmeyer and Michael F. Riggins exchanged wedding vows Friday at 6 p.m. in the First Assembly of God Church in Lamesa. The Rev. Scott Mitchell, pastor of the Northside Assembly of God Church in Lubbock, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Beckmeyer, Route 1, Ackerly, and Mr. and Mrs. Royce B. Riggins, Route 2, Amarillo.

The altar was decorated with five candelabra, accented with English ivy and white illusion bows. Miss Lola Thomason of Amarillo provided organ accompaniment for the vocalist, Mrs. Carl McKinney of Lubbock.

The bride wore a white satin floor-length gown, styled with lace bodice, puffed sleeves and a bow at the waist. The front of the bodice featured satin covered buttons, and the inverted pleat in the back was highlighted with two panels of beaded lace. The skirt extended to a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of red roses and pink carnations.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Larry Calverley of Odessa, was matron of honor, attired in a floor-length, gown with ruby velvet bodice and a pink brocade A-line skirt. Velvet bows accented the waist, and she carried a ruby velvet muff with a pink carnation nosegay.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Mayfield of Iowa Park and Miss Clarycia Riggins of Amarillo. They were dressed in floor-length pink taffeta brocade gowns with ruby velvet cummerbunds and matching headbows. They carried velvet muffs with nosegays of pink carnations.

Miss Michelle Calverly of Odessa and Miss Cindy Lee Stroud of Midland were flower girls. Ring bearer was John Beckmeyer of Ackerly.

Rick Pfiel of Amarillo was best man and groomsmen were Jim Hickman of Fort Worth and Gary Whitfil of Plainview. Serving as ushers were Charles Beckmeyer, Lamesa, and Eugene Mayfield, Lubbock.

A reception was held in the Charles Beckmeyer home. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Following a wedding trip to Cloudcroft, N.M., the couple will make their home in Amarillo where Riggins is employed by the KGNC Television Station. Mrs. Riggins is a graduate of Flower Grove High School, and Riggins is a graduate of Canyon High School. They both presently attend West Texas State University.

Beverley Ann Snell Is Wed To Alvis Jeffcoat

(Photo Associates)

MRS. LARRY DON McMURTREY

Miss Beverly Ann Snell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Snell, Ackerly, and Alvis Wayne Jeffcoat, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jeffcoat, Knott, were married Saturday evening in the Ackerly Baptist Church with the Rev. Larry Newcomer officiating.

Wedding music was provided by Miss Neoma Brooks, Hart; Mrs. Bill Hambrick, pianist; and Mrs. Jerald Kingston, Lamesa, vocalist.

The altar was graced by white gladioli and chrysanthemums flanked by candelabra holding spiraled and graduated tapers.

The bride wore an Empire gown of white velvet styled with high-necked bolero bodice overlaid with Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls. The pearls were repeated on the lace which accented the bishop sleeves, and the A-line silhouette featured garlands of lace which fell to a cathedral train from a cluster of velvet roses at the waistline. Her tiered, elbow-length veil was held by organza roses trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with white roses.

Miss Dell Sealy of Canyon was the maid of honor, and Mrs. Don Lilly of Odessa was matron of honor. Mrs. Leslie Zant, Big Spring, was bridesmatron, and Miss Sharon Brooks of Hart was bridesmaid.

The attendants were attired in royal blue, puff sleeved gowns styled similarly to that of the bride. Their headpieces were shoulder-length blue illusion veils attached to clusters of blue roses. Each carried a nosegay of white pompon chrysanthemums accented with blue velvet ribbon.

Daryel Jeffcoat of Seminole was best man, and groomsmen were Kenny Gillespie, Odessa; Marion Lea Snell and Claude Fryar, the latter of Knott.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the church parlor where those serving at the refreshment table were Miss Linda Merrill and Miss Patsy Browning, both of Canyon, Mrs. Daryel Jeffcoat and Mrs. Jerry Foote. The bride's table was covered with white lace and appointed with silver and crystal. The centerpiece was a silver candelabrum arranged with white flowers, and the tiered cake was accented with royal blue confections. The bridegroom's table was laid with a burlap cloth and centered with a blue candle and blue and green wreath. Silver appointments were used, and the chocolate cake was decorated with marzipan fruit.

Members of the house party were Miss Jan Skinner, Miss Shara Dee Hambrick, Miss Sara Bledsoe and Miss Sandra Wells, all of Ackerly; Miss Lana Lloyd, Knott; Mrs. Marion Lea Snell, Ackerly; Miss Elicia Keele, Big Spring; Mrs. Darrell Haney, Lubbock; Miss Margie Newman, Dallas; Miss Londa Kemp, Abilene; and Mrs. Randy Hambrick, Lubbock, the latter presiding at the registry.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brooks, all of Hart; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brooks, Clovis, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Jeffcoat, Hobbs, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keele Sr., Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Morris, Dallas; Mrs. Ethel Snell and Mrs. Ida Patterson, San Angelo; and Mrs. Elzie Sealy, Hereford.

WEDDING TRIP

The couple will reside in Big Spring after a wedding trip to El Paso and Juarez, Mexico. For traveling, Mrs. Jeffcoat chose a tan dress with tan and grey tweed sleeveless coat and gray accessories.

Both are graduates of Sands High School and he attended Howard County Junior College prior to becoming an asphalt inspector for the Texas Highway Department. She attended West Texas State University and is presently attending HCJC.

MRS. ALVIS WAYNE JEFFCOAT

Couple Weds On Saturday

Miss Karen Bobette Bankston and Larry Don McMurtrey exchanged wedding vows Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Westside Baptist Church. The Rev. Jack Clinkscales performed the ceremony. Vocalists were Miss Vicky Deans and Miss Alanda Deans, both of Bronte, accompanied by Miss Debbie Dunlap, organist.

The altar was decorated with a wedding arch of boxwood vine, flanked with white gladioli and greenery and candelabra holding wedding tapers.

PARENTS

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Bankston, 1811 Mittel, and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff G. McMurtrey, 1609 Sunset.

The bride wore a floor-length white lace gown with fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a full tiered skirt. The scalloped neckline was accented with seed pearls. Her waist-length veil fell from a band of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations and English ivy centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Tim Rhodes of Ft. Hancock was matron of honor, and the bride's sister, Miss Brenda Bankston, was maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Carolyn McMurtrey was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore floor-length, red satin gowns, accented with picot bows and matching headpieces. They carried long-stemmed peppermint carnations with white satin streamers.

Tommy McMurtrey served his brother as best man, while another brother, Johnny McMurtrey, and Randall Sundy were groomsmen. Ushers were Richard Hayley and Russ Davis.

Miss Kim Krisle was flower girl and Kirk Krisle was ring bearer. Altar taper lighters were Miss Donna Sundy and Kenneth McMurtrey, the bridegroom's brother. Miss Krisle and Miss Sundy wore gowns matching those of the bridal attendants.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose a white dress with a red plaid coat and red accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage. Following a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., the couple will reside at 1102½ E. 5th.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall with Mrs. William Martin presiding at the guest register. The bride's table had a white satin cloth overlaid with white netting and centered with an arrangement of red and pink carnations and red candles. The tiered cake was separated with columns and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

SERVING

Serving at the table were Miss Karla Sundy and Miss Carolyn Sundy.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a green cloth, centered with a red candle and a red and white cake in the shape of a western shirt. Appointments were brass. Serving were Miss Rita Sundy and Miss Teresa Sundy.

Others in the house party were Mrs. Clark Sundy of Midland, Mrs. D. R. Hayley, Mrs. Allen Sundy, Mrs. Monroe Sundy and Mrs. Jimmie Sundy.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Big Spring High School. She is presently employed by Key Rexall Druz store and he by the Cabot Corporation.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl McMennamy, Hale Center; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Woeifel, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Asa McMurtrey, Kerrville; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sundy, Midland; Elton Bankston and Mrs. E. S. Bankston both of Waco; James Bankston, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Buford Bankston, San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. John Trimble, Ballinger; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gibson, Burnet; and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Everett of Odessa.

Winning Orators To Get Trip To Washington, D.C.

All-expense-paid trips to the nation's capital city again will be awarded winners of an oratorical contest sponsored by Cap Rock Electric Cooperative.

The contest is open to any boy or girl at least 16 years of age, but not 18 years of age prior to Sept. 1, 1971. The winners will join winners of similar contests sponsored by other electric cooperatives across Texas on the seventh annual Texas Electric Cooperatives Government-In-Action Youth Tour to Washington, D.C. All expenses of the 12-day trip, beginning June 11, will be paid by Cap Rock Electric Cooperative.

Each entrant will be required to give a five- to-eight minute talk on the subject "Where Do We Go From Here" and answer one or more questions asked by the judges. The participants will be judged on the basis of 1) knowledge of subject — 40 per cent 2) speaking ability — 30 per cent; 3) poise — 10 per cent; 4) personality — 10 per cent; and 5) appearance — 10 per cent.

Interested young people may obtain an official entry blank from their schools or the offices of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Box 158, Stanton. Entry forms must be received by Cap Rock Electric no later than Feb. 5.

Winners of the local contest will travel by chartered bus to Washington, D.C., where they will spend four days visiting places of historical interest and seeing the nation's government in action.

On June 17 the Texas group will meet more than 1,000 students from other states on Rural Youth Day Activities. This eventful day will end with a chartered cruise down the Potomac River.

Also included are visits to George Washington's Mount Vernon home, Arlington National Cemetery, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, The Smithsonian Institute, Lincoln Memorial, and many other places.

Vacation's Over, Back To School

All good things must come to an end and the end of the holiday vacation for school-aged youngsters comes this week.

Big Spring students are due to return to classes Monday, while students in Coahoma and Forsan are due to report Tuesday.

Howard County Junior College students have the longest vacation. Students aren't due back until Jan. 19 to register for second-semester classes.

Chamber Directors Asked To Review Local TV Coverage

By HOWARD SIMMS

Chamber of Commerce directors will get another chance to look into the question of local television programming at their Jan. 11 board meeting, since they have been asked by the FCC to decide whether they are satisfied with steps taken by Grayson Enterprise Inc. to improve local coverage on Channel 4.

Following the protest to the FCC launched in August over the conversion of the local KWAB-TV station into a satellite relay for KMOM-TV, Monahans, the FCC asked Grayson Enterprises, owner of both stations, to explain an apparent violation of the terms of its license renewal application.

On Nov. 2 Koteen and Burt, a Washington legal firm representing Grayson Enterprises, replied that although at the time of license renewal Grayson Enterprises said it planned to continue locally originated programming Grayson had notified the FCC on Dec. 8, 1969, of changed plans for making KWAB a complete satellite of KMOM with specific news and informational coverage of the Big Spring area originating from Monahans.

Reasons given by Koteen and Burt for the change of plans were primarily economic. Their letter to the FCC said, "Subsequent to Grayson's acquisition of KMOM-TV it became clear that the conversion of KWAB-TV to a complete satellite would be the only way to transform the two stations into a self sustaining unit within a reasonable foreseeable period of time."

The letter also explained that Big Spring is now given color news coverage in Joe Underwood's segment of the daily six o'clock news broadcast from Monahans, and such coverage was not available in the past because KWAB's facilities have never been equipped for local filmed or taped color origination.

Other advantages of the new arrangement cited in the letter include the opportunity for local businessmen to buy advertising reaching the combined coverage areas of KMOM and KWAB at the same rates formerly charged for KWAB alone, newly possible color advertising, and improved signal quality due to a microwave system to relay network programming from Lubbock instead of off-the-air pickup via KTXS-TV, Sweetwater.

Koteen and Burt filed a progress report with the FCC Dec. 2 stating, "It is the licensee's belief that the objections outlined in the letter of complaint from the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce have now been substantially met." This opinion, the letter said, was based on contacts between Bill DeTournillon, executive vice-president of Grayson, and Chamber representatives, and on increased advertising on the station by Big Spring business in response to increased daily news coverage of Big Spring events.

The letter continued, "Grayson will continue its sensitivity to the needs and interests of Big Spring and its surrounding area and intends to continue to serve these needs and interests in programming originated at KMOM-TV."

Last week Martin Levy, head of the FCC's broadcast facilities division, forwarded copies of the Koteen and Burt letters to Paul Meek, Chamber president, and asked for comment as to whether the Chamber is satisfied that "further action is not necessary in this matter" in the light of Grayson's efforts to improve coverage of Big Spring events.

A new factor in the Big Spring television situation is the translator equipment installed by KOSA-TV (Channel 7), Odessa, that has been rebroadcasting KOSA programming here since Dec. 15. Using the KFNE-FM radio tower atop South Mountain, the translator station provides KOSA's CBS network programming on Channel 10.

Giving viewers a choice of stations even if they are not on the TV cable may soothe some of the hurt feelings caused by the loss of "As The World Turns" and Walter Cronkite when KWAB tapped on to KMOM's totally ABC programming.

Planning, Zoning Board Slates Meeting Tuesday

The planning and zoning board is to meet at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday to consider two requests for mobile home installations and a request for zoning allowing the construction of a storage building.

James A. Lancaster of Big Spring Cable TV is requesting a zone change from SF-2, single family dwelling, to R, retail, on an acre of land fronting on the 2000 block of Birdwell. The change is needed for the company to build a storage building next to the office building.

Clyde Huff has requested a specific use permit to allow installation of a mobile home for fixed dwelling at 418 Sunset Blvd.

Mrs. Henry Stoeger has requested a change from SF-2 to SF-3 and a specific use permit to allow installation of a mobile home for fixed dwelling at 1404 E. 6th.

A Devotion For Today . . .

This day is salvation come to this house. (Luke 19:9)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, open our hearts to receive Thy forgiveness and love. Help us to forgive one another and accept kindness as well as bestow it. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

A Look At 1971

The past year turned out to be pretty much as expected, a reasonably good year except for factors which were geared to the national economy. Inflation and high cost of money hurt sharply in selected areas, but what of 1971? For what it's worth, here goes our annual forecast:

On the whole, 1971 should be a somewhat better year; it could even be a pivotal year. Some areas will suggest greater strengths than others; a few are uncertain. Most promise stability.

The agricultural outlook is highly doubtful. The past year turned out surprisingly well, but at the price of almost utterly depleted moisture reserves. Unless we get good rains during the first half, prospects will be bleak; unless we get rain in the first quarter, the prospect is for markedly greater wind erosion.

Oil activity should continue on about a par with last year, except that the increase price for crude oil should stimulate some activity; the price raise will pump more revenue as royalties into the economy. Exploration, barring some unusual strike, will be at a modest pace. Martin County's remarkable Spraberry Trend development will continue at least for months.

Construction should be substantially better. This has been one of the most depressed areas of our economy. The start of the Howard County Junior College vocational-technical building will give one major job, and there is every prospect of others, including some commercial. Residential building will loosen a bit, but not dramatically; most of the limited demand for this type of building will be on a custom basis.

Highway construction, down from previous years, will not resurge materially. The east end of the Andrews highway is the only sure job, although the east overpass planning may move up a notch.

Water supply is a key factor. Development of wells on the west end of the CRMWD system promises to give insurance against critical shortages. Fair spring rains would relieve the picture materially; heavy rains would put the CRMWD and its cities in excellent position.

The industrial outlook is spotted. It is possible that one or more additional enterprises might be attracted to the industrial park. Cosden, which carries the major end, and the carbon black facilities, are due another good year. Some others may face close to austere situations unless there is substantial improvement in the general business picture.

Indications are that Webb AFB will continue its operations on an even keel. There is no sign of lessening demand for pilot training; in addition the base recently was assigned another substantial modification project.

Transportation will place increased emphasis upon motorized movement. Again, national trends will affect rail shipments; economic pressures will increase against air passenger carriers.

Education budgets will remain fairly stable, and legislative action will affect the picture. HCJC will broaden its programs with completion of its new building. Governmental units also will continue to be caught in the services-cost squeeze, but there will be strong taxpayer resistance to any substantial expansion.

The welcome trend of trying to catch up culturally will be accelerated, a museum following on the heels of an enlarged county library. Civic promotions by an invigorated Chamber of Commerce panel will make themselves even more felt. The Concert Association will need some material stimulation. There will be talk of a coliseum, but probably not much material action.

On the health front, plans for a major hospital program are still nebulous, depending upon a Hill-Burton grant, but there could be some significant steps pending that time. Webb AFB's new hospital will be activated; both the VA and State hospitals will see no lessening of activity.

Tourism will continue its increasing impact, and there will be more emphasis on developing traffic-stoppers for the community. With city acquisition of property including the historic "big spring," there will be some study toward making it more accessible to US 87 travellers.

Population, while about seven per cent less than a decade ago, appears to have levelled off. School enrollments, one indicator, are steady in the face of a declining birth rate.

Business should have a year comparable to, or better than 1971. Other factors will influence this strongly, but with lowering money costs, slowing of the rate of inflation, buyer confidence should increase. Moreover, during the crucible of 1970, most substantial business houses demonstrated an increasing aggressiveness in merchandising, and this could pay dividends. Heavy consumer goods, including automobiles, should move in better volume.

If the national economic health shows recovery, as many signs now point, we should have a satisfactory year; given a few breaks, it could be much better than that.

There Went The Holiday Spirit

J. Worthington Bullwinkle appeared at his office at the conclusion of the holiday period. He had put back on his customary forbidding expression, and worse, his hands and arms up to the elbows were heavily swathed in bandages.

"Why, Mr. Bullwinkle, whatever is the matter?" asked the girls in the office. "You were so merry and gay the few days before Christmas, even passing out candy to your employes and permitting us girls to sew little Christmas bells on the bottoms of the legs of our pant suits. Has the spirit faded away so fast?"

"H-M-MPM-PH, growled Mr. Bullwinkle. "Don't ask me about bells and spirit. Just look at these hands and arms."

"Oh, Mr. Bullwinkle, did you burn yourself? What happened?"

"No burns. Just the windup of what you so blithely call the holiday spirit.

"I ASK YOU," he said to everybody in general. "Were you ever bullied into taking down a Christmas tree?"

Nobody had the courage to answer, for Mr. Bullwinkle was in no mood for questions. But he continued:

"What a contrast to the decorating of the tree! I tell you it's a different world.

"Come decorating time, everyone is in a joyful mood. Everybody in the family happily joins in the chore. There are lights and baubles and shining ornaments, and there are even mysterious packages scattered about.

"THE FAMILY turns on the record player and the carols of Christmas ring out. Friends pass by, drop in, wish you greetings in a happy vein. Perhaps there's a cup of cheer at hand as willing, eager helpers bedeck the tree, admiring each step, and crying when it is finished, 'Oh, the prettiest tree we ever had!'

"So, comes Christmas, a happy day.

"Then, somebody pronounces a death sentence on the decorations and on the tree.

"AND WHERE are all the eager helpers and the happy well-wishers? They have disappeared, that's what. So who must mount step-stool and start yanking lights and baubles off the tree? You know who.

"Did you ever stick your arms into an evergreen that has stood in a warm room for two weeks? The tree, I tell you, has turned to prickly pear. Look at the bandages on these arms.

"DID YOU EVER try to retreive evergreen twigs from a deep-pile carpet? Did you ever try to locate in the rug all the little hooks that held the adornments? Did you ever try to whisk up the last flags of those metallic strips of artificial icicles? Did you ever — but no, I merely ask you to witness my shredded finger tips, my broken nails, my lacerated hands.

"Let's forget this holiday spirit. The day the tree has to go down and the place cleaned up — that's the day I say to you — Bah! Humbug!"

Outlook For Somewhat Better Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Chamber of Commerce predicts the gross national product will increase by 7 per cent in the new year, but more than half the rise will be a result of inflation.

In a year-end report, Dr. Carl H. Madden, chief economist for the Chamber, estimated the real increase in national output would amount to 3 per cent, compared with no real growth during the calendar year just ended.

His forecast would put the GNP at $1.05 trillion a year from now.

The Chamber report was issued as the Labor Department announced Thursday that wholesale prices rose one-tenth of one per cent in December and 2.3 per cent during the year.

BREAKS DECLINES

The December increase reversed a two-month trend in the wholesale price index which dropped one-tenth of a point in November and held steady in October. The only other drop in 1970 was a four-tenths decline in August.

The index finished the year 2.3 per cent above the 1969 level, meaning it cost $117.80 in 1970 to buy products worth $100 in the 1957-59 base period.

In other economic news, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange rang out the old year at 838.92, up more than 200 points from the 18-month low of 631.16 on May 27.

RECORD TRADING

Thursday's trading finished a year in which the Big Board recorded the highest trading volume in history.

Trading in 1970 totaled 2,937,359,448 shares, up almost 6 million from the previous high set in 1968.

Meanwhile, Pan American World Airways announced it will lay off more than 1,800 employes — from management to clerical level — this year because of a reduced growth rate.

Pan American President Najeeb Halaby said the cutback is part of an austerity program resulting from the firm's $27-million loss in the first 11 months of 1969.

MORE BUYING

Madden, in his report for the Chamber of Commerce, indicated his prediction of gross national product this year is keyed to an expected increase in consumer spending.

"The consumer has seldom been in as strong a liquidity position, measured by the ratio of his liquid assets to his short-term liabilities," said the report.

Madden suggested a drop in consumer spending last year reflected uncertainty about the stock market and rising unemployment.

He predicted consumer spending would increase 7¾ per cent to $47 billion this year, compared with 6¾ per cent in 1970.

DILUTED GAINS

- U.S. Chamber predicts GNP to rise by seven per cent
- But inflation will account for half of this amount
- Wholesale prices rise slightly, breaking down trend
- Dow-Jones average up 200 points from May 27 low point
- Pan-American Airways lays off 1,800 due to slow growth
- Prediction puts consumer spending up by 7¾ per cent

Things They Wish They'd Never Said

WASHINGTON — A lot of things were said in 1970 that people wish they could take back.

How would you feel if you were the person who said:

To Walter Hickel, "Well, if you feel that strongly about it, why don't you write the President a letter?"

To Judge Carswell, "Even if they won't have you on the Supreme Court, you're a cinch to be elected senator."

To Sen. Charles Goodell, "The President and Vice President have to support you. After all you are a Republican"

TO BERNIE Cornfeld of IOS, "They can't fire you Bernie. It's your company, isn't it?"

To Howard Hughes, "You either do it my way, Mr. Hughes, or I'll have to resign."

To Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy, "All we have to do is lay off people and we'll stop inflation."

To the president of General Motors, "The union will never strike. They need the jobs."

TO THE PRESIDENT of the United Auto Workers, "The company will never close down. They need the business."

To a general in the Pentagon, "There is no possible way of anyone finding out that we keep files on American civilians."

To former Gov. William Scranton, chairmen of the commission on student unreast, "Hey, why don't we send an advance copy of the report to Spiro Agnew?"

TO SECRETARY of Defense Melvin Laird, "We think we've found the underground command headquarters of COSVN in Cambodia."

To Richard Nixon, "Mr. President, our people are absolutely certain they have found the command headquarters of COSVN in Cambodia."

To the American people, "We are going in to wipe out the command headquarters of COSVN in Cambodia."

To the president of the Penn Central Railroad, "Why don't we hire Mr. Nixon's old law firm to handle our deficit problems?"

TO A PUBLISHER who turned down Dr. David Reuben's book, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex," "Boss, I don't see any market for a book of this kind."

To John Mack Carter, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, "Sir, there is a delegation from Women's Lib outside, and I thought you'd like to talk to them."

To Henry Kissinger, "Henry, I'd like you to meet Jill St. John."

To former Polish party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka, "Why don't we raise the price of food before Christmas?"

TO THE PRESIDENT of the Shell Oil Co., "We have a small leak in one of our wells off the coast of Louisiana."

To Sen. Joseph Tydings, "Someone is on the phone, asking if you want to renew your subscription to Life magazine."

To Spiro Agnew, "Why don't you say you're sorry?"

To Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, "May I speak to your wife, please."

The Confusion In Congress

WASHINGTON — In line with New Year's resolutions, and there could be no more important step taken by President Nixon than to ask the American people that the United States be granted once more a system of orderly government under its historic two-party system.

Today neither the Republican nor the Democratic party has set forth the principles for which it stands. Legislation is introduced and adopted in both houses, and sometimes subjected to material changes in conference committees, in utter disregard of any party program.

THE AMERICAN people nowadays do not know what either of the major parties wants. Nearly every vote that is taken is made up of a mixture of both parties. When elections come, there is no way to determine what a party label means.

The President is the leader of his party, and he is responsible to the voters throughout the country. They have a voice, however, in determining the votes which are cast by members of Congress. The President currently cannot depend on his own party for support for various measures. There is no feeling of party responsibility inside or outside of government except some lip service around election time.

SOME OF THE proposals which President Nixon has offered are popular, but some of them would not win public approval. Yet if they were built upon principles clearly proclaimed by a national convention of the Republican party, these could be a basic guide for legislation. Government at present is not being conducted in that fashion.

THE CHIEF executive is dealing in Congress with a party of the opposite political complexion which has a majority in both houses. This has caused the President to try to get through a variety of proposals which he thinks are good for the country but which have never been passed upon by his own political party in a convention participated in by delegates from all states of the union. Instead, party lines have been more or less obliterated.

THE CURRENT Congress is winding up in the worst legislative logjam in years. Major measures are being scuttled by filibusters in the Senate. For the last two years, Congress has not been able to pass the regular appropriations bills for operating the government until half of the fiscal year was over.

Even the congressional leaders seem disappointed in the performance. Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, has said: "We are disturbed at the image the Senate is showing to the American people." Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, has remarked on what he called the "unbelievable delay in carrying out the fundamental, inescapable duties of Congress," and warns that "an impatient America could well lose confidence in the first branch of government."

What Others Say

Many views have been expressed on why women do not generally run for President of the United States.

Some observers say that it's because women are discriminated against in politics by men. Another opinion is that women themselves would rather vote for a man.

All these "reasons" have flaws. Hungarian actress Zsa Zsa Gabor may have come up with the definitive answer to the question.

"Why, a person can age 10 years in only one year in the presidency," says Zsa Zsa, "so why would any woman want to be president?"

That sounds like a pretty —INDIANAPOLIS STAR

Taxpayer Protest Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers who think the government is overcharging them on their tax bill now have a way to contest the Internal Revenue Service's figures without spending a fortune in court costs.

It's called the U.S. Tax Court small claims division — and it can only be used for claims less than $1,000 for any one year. The court, which went into operation Thursday, can consider claims involving income, gift or estate taxes.

Some of the features include:

— Taxpayers may argue their own case or hire a lawyer.

— Trials will be scheduled in cities located as conveniently as possible to the taxpayers.

— And decisions by the court can't be appealed.

To have a case tried in the court, taxpayers must have received a notice of deficiency from the IRS and have filed a petition for trial within 90 days. There is a $10 fee for filing such petitions.

Billy Graham

My question is: if a man married a girl when she was just a child of 15, to get her away from the unbearable treatment of her father, is this couple living in sin? We have been married for 25 years. K.W.

According to the Bible marriage is a permanent arrangement. I've heard a lot of questions raised about the validity of a marriage, but yours is a new one. You married too young but you were legitimately married, you have lived together for 25 years, and there must be genuine love between you. It would be tragic to dissolve such a marriage for the above-mentioned reason.

I have discovered a wonderful thing about marriages between Christians. Sometimes they marry hurriedly, and for the wrong reasons — without praying about the matter, and without due thought. But, if their intentions are pure, and if they are faithful to their marriage vows, God will give them love for each other.

With me, I know the Lord wanted me to marry Ruth. I was more sure that it was His will, than I was of my love for her. But, through the years the Lord has given me a deep love for her, and she for me.

You married your wife, as you say, to get her away from an unbearable father. This was possibly God's will for you. The fact that you have been together 25 years, shows that the Lord must have given you love for each other. Thank Him for your blessings, and glorify Him in your lives.

'Mask Of Pregnancy' Between Nose And Lip

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I gave birth 21 months ago. My pregnancy left me with a brown spot between my nose and lip. It is very unattractive and looks like dirt. Makeup does not cover it. Is there a cream that will cause it to fade away?—S.S.

This probably is chloasma, or the "mask of pregnancy," which sometimes occurs. It may take more than 21 months to fade or it may be permanent — it is more usual for it to fade, though.

One thing you didn't tell me — are you, by any chance, now on birth control pills? Using "the pill" can make the mark remain. Indeed, since the pill creates a condition similar to actual pregnancy, this can cause such marks even when there is no actual pregnancy. So if you are using the pills, switch to some other contraceptive method.

Temporarily (or even for long-term use) there are cosmetics designed to conceal such blemishes. One I am familiar with is called Covermark, but your cosmetic dealer probably has others.

There is no cream to make the mark fade, but a dermatologist may be able to speed matters up for you.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am on a grapefruit diet which includes 4 ounces every meal. Would drinking this amount of grapefruit juice be harmful even after I am off my diet?—T.Y.

Most likely not, but I suspect you may eventually get pretty tired of it.

I assume that it's a reducing diet. If you want to know why I think other types of reducing diets make much more sense and are better for you, then send 35 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing." You'll learn some things you never knew about effective reducing — and how to stay reduced after you finish with the diet.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on the use of nicotinic acid? I've heard it is used for ear disturbances, to promote circulation. Could you be more specific?—Mrs. M.S.

It is used for some ear disturbances, and for problems elsewhere in the body when trouble is resulting from lack of enough circulation.

I don't know how specific you mean me to be, but nicotine acid (not to be confused with nicotine, which is entirely different and behaves oppositely) is a potent blood vessel dilator.

Dilate the blood vessels and more blood can flow. It may be used in connection with circulatory deficiencies of ear, eye, brain, or the extremities.

It takes effect quite promptly. The patient feels a generalized flushing and sense of warmth as the medication is absorbed.

This flushing, or blushing, is momentary, but is annoying to some. Others don't mind it. The blushing tends to subside as one continues using the drug.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

1971 Must Be A Year Of Decision

PARIS — The year just ended has seen a series of holding operations intended to maintain the status of things as they are. Insofar as they have been successful, and the downhold on NATO is the most conspicuous example, it means the inevitable tides of change have been held back and the fundamental decisions that are inescapable put forward into 1971.

THE ONE real attempt at a breakthrough was Secretary of State William P. Rogers' peace initiative in the Middle East. Whatever the ultimate outcome, Rogers, in the view of this observer, gets high marks for what was bound to be a chancy endeavor. Should the cease-fire be maintained beyond the deadline of Feb. 5, and all reports indicate both sides want to avoid more shooting, there is an outside chance for a settlement through the mediation of that most-patient of mediators, Gunnar Jarring.

PRESIDENTIAL ADVISER Henry Kissinger is credited on this side of the Atlantic with shaping a new hard line cutting across the efforts of West Germany's Chancellor Willy Brandt to open a door to the East and ease the tensions along the orders of the two worlds. Aided and abetted by the old cold war warriors out of the old cold war past, the checkmate of the bold Brandt initiative seems likely to succeed.

An event coming at the year's end gave what could very well be the final blow. It would be hard to exaggerate the significance of the Polish riots and the downfall of the Gomulka government coming at a moment immediately following the signing of the Bonn-Warsaw treaty affirming the postwar borders between the two countries. For the cold war warriors the riots, with all the evidence of breakdown and human suffering, will be proof that coexistence with the east is impossible.

IN ITS ill-fated timing the Polish explosion ranks with the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968. Then the Johnson Administration had completed the terms of an agreement to be ratified in person by the two heads of government for progress toward mutual disarmament through Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). On the night when Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin walked into the White House to inform President Johnson of the impending invasion the hope of agreed disarmament was snuffed out for nearly a year.

UNDERSTANDABLY, the Nixon Administration wanted to make its own evaluation and establish its own posture. But the delay was costly in terms of new weapons systems and the installation on both sides of advanced weapons, such as the multiple MIRV. The third phase of the SALT talks just ended in Helsinki seems to have added little to the pace of agreement, although so tight is the secrecy that this must be only a guess.

BUT THE LINE has quite obviously hardened in Moscow. And the profound instability within the Communist bloc, as evidenced by both Czechoslovakia and Poland, make agreement of any kind difficult, if not impossible. The Leningrad death sentence imposed on two Jews for allegedly plotting to hijack a plane is a terrible witness to a system ruled by terror.

"The center will not hold." That is from William Butler Yeats' poem written toward the end of the first World War, reflecting his despair at the "blood-drenched tide" and the voices of demagogery that everywhere cried for vengeance and more blood. The effort to hold the center has been difficult, hazardous, in 1970. It promises to be more so in 1971.

SOME REVISIONS PLANNED

Long Agenda For Commissioners

The new Howard County Commissioners Court will begin its term with a lengthy 17 item agenda Monday morning. Some of the items are routine such as the setting of jury terms for Howard County Court and the setting of a date for regular Commissioners Court meetings.

Commissioners are to discuss the abolishment of the "hot check department" of the Howard County Sheriff's Office and assigning those duties to an assistant county attorney and his secretary.

"We have an applicant at the present time for the assistant's job. I don't know who he is, but he is a young man out of Austin, I believe. I think he lived here or his folks did for a time. I haven't been told his name yet, but have been asked to consider him for an interview Monday," said County Judge A. G. Mitchell.

The hiring of a new deputy sheriff will also be discussed. If hired, the man will replace the vacancy left by Mrs. Billie Barron, of the hot check department, but will have regular law enforcement duties. Mrs. Barron is to be Judge Mitchell's secretary.

Discussion on the establishment of a county fire department utilizing the men of the road and bridge department is also set. Bids for positions in the department will be discussed, and consideration will be given to the hiring of a combination chief mechanic, purchasing agent and fire chief for the proposed department.

Re-organization of the road and bridge department will also be considered.

"Using the men who are in the department now, no new ones will be hired; we want to organize them into three shifts. This way, men will be on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week," said Judge Mitchell. According to Mitchell, the re-organization will insure that men will be on duty to answer fire calls in the rural areas.

In addition to the hiring of an assistant county attorney and secretary, consideration will be given to the hiring of secretaries for the County Welfare Office and Commissioners Court. The present county engineer office secretary will be moved to the county barn from the courthouse office, and all bookkeeping for the road and bridge department will be done at the barn offices.

Other items to be discussed include the establishment of a county sanitation ground, a contract for the tax appraiser, and the hiring of an outside auditor to audit the county books.

Bids for providing the county with general liability and workmen's compensation policies will be received by the court at 10 a.m. Monday. According to Judge Mitchell, an impartial insurance consultant, not involved with any of the local bidders, will be present to advise the commissioners on the county's needs and the coverage offered.

Two Mexicans Test Welfare Requirement

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Mexicans challenged in federal court the state welfare requirement that welfare recipients must be U.S. citizens.

Irene Breceda Valdez, 10, daughter of Mrs. Ester Valdez, and Mrs. Josephine Perez, 60, all of Houston, filed suit asking that a three-judge panel be convened to consider the legality of denying aliens welfare payments.

They contend it is in violation of the equal protection provisions of the U.S. Constitution.

Burton G. Hackney, commissioner of public welfare, said in Austin that a ruling in favor of non-citizens would "have a great impact" on the state's already strained funds for the poor.

"Those on welfare now would be the ones to suffer," he said. "You'd just have to divide those into the ceiling set by the State Constitution." The ceiling is now $80 million.

'Heart Sunday' Drive Planned

Phil Davis, regional director of the American Heart Association, recently met with local Heart association leaders to plan the "Heart Sunday" fund drive.

Mrs. Ralph L. Mahoney, local chairman, said the drive will be conducted on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, and requested that any persons interested in helping with the drive contact her.

Local Heart Association leaders Mrs. Dan Allan, Mrs. John Coffee and Mrs. James Clevenger will also participate in the campaign.

Harvest Thoughts

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China said today that peasants in Tibet had "another good harvest in 1970 by following the thought of Chinese Communist party chairman Ma Tse-tung." Peking's New China News Agency said the Tibetans exceeded their target of three tons of produce per 4.6 acres of agricultural land, almost doubling figures reported in 1966.

Leukemia Is Object Of Test

A renewed interest in the theory that cancer is caused by a virus and can be brought under control by immunization has emerged from the laboratory findings of one of the nation's foremost cancer research specialists at the Bronx Veterans Administration Hospital.

Dr. Ludwik Gross, senior medical investigator and chief of the cancer research unit at the Bronx VA hospital, has reported significant results in the immunization of guinea pigs against leukemia.

Dr. Gross's experiments began by demonstrating that leukemia can be transmitted to healthy guinea pigs.

Dr. Gross observed, however, that when small doses of leukemia cell extracts are inoculated superficially into the upper layer of the skin, small intracutaneous leukemic cell infiltrates develop at the site of the inoculation and the resulting tumors in certain animals "regress spontaneously without a trace."

In experiments carried out recently in his laboratory, Dr. Gross reported that 42 per cent of guinea pigs inoculated intracutaneously with small doses of leukemic cells recovered spontaneously from intradermal leukemic tumors. The majority of animals that recovered from intracutaneous tumors were found to be solidly immune to reinjection of heavy doses of leukemic cells. Laboratory observations, Dr. Gross was careful to stipulate, have no application at present to either the prevention or treatment of leukemia in man.

Cops Put Wraps On Nude Dancer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Police swooped down on a Houston nightclub which features nude dancers late Friday night, arresting six persons.

Five of the arrested persons were employes of the club and the sixth was a dancer who was performing in the nude, said Sgt. B. G. Ripley of the vice squad.

The club, known as the "My Oh My Club" opened only Thursday with an advertised policy of nude dancers.

Maybe He Just Took A Walk

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Anyone who sees a 6-foot-2 robot who walks, talks and can be programmed for many tasks is asked to notify police of First Union National Bank.

Bank officials say the machine, which was used as promotional attraction at new branch openings, has been missing for a month.

Do you believe in the tremendous capabilities of man? Christians do . . .

Do you, on the other hand, believe that man is quite helpless to overcome many of the forces that threaten his progress? Christians do . . .

How can the same religion support such contradictory views?

Well, we take for granted that a tank-load of gasoline will propel an automobile many miles. But there are cold mornings when we can't even get the engine started. What is missing?

A spark! A continuing series of sparks!

Never over-simplify the functioning of the human soul. Like the internal-combustion engine it can be powerless when denied the fire that unlocks its energy.

To be himself—to be all that God intended him to be—a man needs God.

Bring your hopes and frustrations to church next Sunday.

Army SFC Elvin L. Evans, son of Jimmie Evans, 814 NW 7th, Big Spring, participated in Exercise Acid Test 111, a northern warfare training operation, conducted at Ft. Greely, Alaska, Nov. 30 to Dec. 14.

Combined forces of the Canadian army and Air Force joined with the U.S. Army, Alaska elements and elements of the Alaskan Air Command and Air National Guard in tactical maneuvers designed to train and to test individuals in cold weather warfare.

Sgt. Evans is regularly stationed at Ft. Wainwright, Alaska, as first sergeant of Headquarters battery, 2nd battalion of the 171st infantry brigade's 15th artillery. His wife Iris is with him in Alaska.

Tricia To Wed Pupil In June?

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's daughter Tricia and Harvard law student Edward Finch Cox will be married in the second week of June, according to the Daily News society columnist Suzy Knickerbocker.

The story added that after Cox finished law school the couple probably would live in New York.

Bentsen Fills Legislative Post

AUSTIN (AP) — Cristobal P. Aldrete, 46, former city commissioner and city attorney at Del Rio, has been appointed as legislative assistant to Sen.-elect Lloyd Bentsen Jr., D-Tex.

Aldrete has been administrative assistant to U.S. Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Tex., Laredo, then served as deputy state campaign manager for Bentsen.

Aldrete was elected to the Del Rio City Commission in 1952 and re-elected twice. Later he served as Del Rio city attorney and as Val Verde county attorney. In 1967-68 he was a special assistant to the chairman of the Democratic National Committee for Hispanic Political Affairs and during the 1968 presidential campaign was national executive director of Arriba Humphrey. He is a former state chairman of the American G.I. Forum.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I know you've heard of "Peeping Toms," but have you ever heard of a female Peeping Tom? If there is such a thing, my wife is one. She is obsessed with getting a look at a naked man.

We have a view of a large apartment building from our bedroom window, and while I'm looking at television, my wife looks out the window to see if she can get a look at some man in various stages of undress. When she sees one, she gets the biggest kick out of it.

She knows what time certain neighbors undress for bed and who pulls down the shades and who doesn't.

Now, Abby, I'm no prude, and I have never denied her a good look at me in my birthday suit, so I can't understand why all of a sudden she is so fascinated with a naked man. Is something the matter with her? She's 37, and I am 38 — and we have two children who would die if this were known to them.

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: If this preoccupation with naked men is "sudden," maybe something is wrong with her. Such curiosity is considered normal in adolescent children, but at 37, she should have outgrown it. She's too young to be considered a dirty old lady. Don't laugh it off. Talk it out. She is obviously missing something.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has been asked to be a bridesmaid at a friend's wedding. It is to be a fairly posh affair with flower girls, etc. To cut a long story short, it has been casually suggested by both the bride-to-be and her mother that the bridesmaids are to pay for their own outfits. Is this in order? It seems to me that anyone can have a big wedding if it is subsidized by their friends.

I may be wrong, and will foot the bill for my daughter's outfit anyway, but I would like to know which is correct. Thank you. IGNORANT IN IRELAND

DEAR IGNORANT: If the bride's family is extremely well-to-do, the bridesmaid's "outfits" are usually provided. But in most cases, the bridesmaids buy their own, and are pleased to do so.

(P.S. You are not "ignorant." Yours is an oft-asked question.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the daughter-in-law who were to her father-in-law on world how "cruel" the relatives were to her father in law on his 91st birthday was a real tear-jerker.

She described how the old man got up early, bathed, shaved and dressed up in his good clothes and sat on the porch all day waiting for his children and grandchildren to stop by and wish him a happy birthday. They all lived within a few miles of him — surely they would come! Why, he wouldn't even take his daily walk to the gas station down the road to visit with his cronies because he didn't want to miss the "folks" when they came. But nobody showed up. So just before bedtime the daughter-in-law cut the "small" cake she had for him, and that was his "birthday party."

Why on earth didn't the daughter-in-law bake a big cake and invite the neighbors in to congratulate the old gentleman? She could have asked the cronies at the gas station to stop in on their coffee break for birthday cake and coffee, too.

She surely could have made a few telephone calls to "remind" the relatives that it was the old man's 91st birthday. It would have made all the difference in the world to that old gentleman. I cannot imagine a truly kind daughter-in-law allowing that day to end the way it did. TEXAN

TODAY AND TOMORROW

—CARROLL RIGHTER

SUNDAY

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to renew your faith and your mind in those principles under which you wish to live in the future. Be sure to avoid taking any chances or yielding to an insistent urge to force some issues. Let right philosophical and spiritual ideas fill you.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You are anxious to put certain ideas in motion but they require more study before you can do so effectively. Permit highest influences to guide you at this time. Stop feeling depressed. It's all in your mind.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Instead of giving vent to annoyances, rise above them and all is fine. Concentrate on the right philosophy of life and you get along much better. Find the right kind of companions, also.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Finding the right persons to assist you to put some new plan across is very worthwhile. Do something about improving your health, also. Take the proper treatments. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are highly inspired now to put new ideas to work which New Year's Resolutions make easier. Contact persons of different background than your own who can be of great assistance. Make this a remarkable day.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go to amusements that relax you and then off to getting those new interests in operation. Show mate you are willing to do whatever delights him or her. Avoid arguments of any kind.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show that you are meticulous in handling obligations that you may have. Avoid going off on tangents. Doing whatever is of real assistance to a member of the family is good now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is wise to think it over carefully before you jump into that work with an associate who is trying to rush you. Another ally would be a better bet right now. Courtesy is important, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find the best method through which to add to present abundance, but stick to ethics. Steer clear of a co-worker who wants to arrive. Labor sensibly so that you do not become exhausted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what it is you want to do of a personal, recreational nature, but don't overspend. Getting charm at its peak makes others be happy with you, extend invitations for the future. Show an optimistic attitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep busy at those duties you have to do at home but don't get on others' nerves by being too noisy, or whatever. Remove the cause of any misunderstandings there, too. Bring out the affectionate side of your nature.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Seeing that blunt-talking friend is good for you today, since the constructive criticism will do you a world of good, lead to advancement. Exercise care in motion. An accident could be very expensive, to say the least.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Anything requiring real action where finances are concerned is fine, especially today when bigwigs are at leisure. Get okay from expert first, though. One situation has loopholes, so skirt around them.

MONDAY

GENERAL TENDENCIES: In the early a.m. there may be some upsetting conditions, but later there is a good chance to put in motion new ideas that mean much to you which you could do little about before. A smile can help you greatly in gaining support for your plan. Use it.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Get out into the business world and make the progress you want early; avoid any possible araument at home. Be sure to dress well so others will be impressed and you will get excellent results. Take it easy tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Consulting with experts is wise so you can make preparations for advancement that are vital. Once your work is done, go out to enjoy your favorite recreation. Show generosity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Express gratitude to allies for their goodwill, and then go out to contact new persons who can be of great assistance. Get new interests started. You make your own happiness now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can lick that problem if you approach it with caution and tact; improve your credit rating. Listen to what a bigwig has to say and try to please more in the days ahead. Work at a well regulated pace.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have many fine ideas; put them in operation without further procrastination if you are to have the success you desire. Study every phase of that new plan so you will understand it thoroughly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some new deals cooking; they require further study with associates if they are to be more successful. Don't jeopardize present security. Show a different attitude toward mate and all is fine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show associates that you appreciate being allied with them and they cooperate with you more willingly in the future. Make the alliance a permanent and happy one. Work hard. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy and handle that work in front of you without trying to throw it off on the shoulders of others. Use those wise ideas to get clothing in better shape. Do something about your hairstyle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find the best way to enjoy recreation with congenials instead of just being a sort of rear guard in the group. You have fine imagination. Use it. Stop feeling lack when you can earn far more.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to show more affection to kin at this time if you want to have more harmonious relations at home. Show that you can be more active, too. Lending a helping hand at the right time won't hurt you a bit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Yesterday you were feeling weary, but today you are full of pep and can accomplish a great deal. Get an early start with associates and push those mutual interests hard. Read that interesting book tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Stop daydreaming and get your account books in order so you know exactly where you stand. A business expert will then gladly give you the ideas and advice you need. Follow the best of these.

Use Food Trick For Raccoons

The raccoon awoke, looked carefully about and then silently stepped over the sleeping form of the boy whose bed he had been sharing, slipped past a dog also occupying the bed and noiselessly plopped to the floor to begin a frenzied search for food.

"CUT!" hollered the director as a wide grin split his face, "that was perfect, just perfect."

The above occurred at Walt Disney Studios where Sterling North's best-selling novel "Rascal" was being made into a motion picture. As visitors to the set watched in awe, Rascal, raccoon star of the film, carried off his performance with ease. Each and every visitor asked the same question: "How do you teach a raccoon to act?"

Hank Cowl, the raccoon's trainer, supplied the answer.

"I bought a number of the animals when they were five weeks old. These particular ones had been born in captivity and, in fact, were tenth generation so born.

"My first job was to acquaint the infant raccoons with dogs because they had to work with one in the film. I took them home to my two Labradors who are very friendly. The little tykes wanted to fight the dogs as soon as they saw them, but I got around that by giving them bottles of formula which the dogs would nuzzle while they were sucking on the nipples. Within a week they were friends.

"Then I took them to the studio to get used to being around people, noise, light — they're nocturnal animals, you know — and also to meet Apple, the dog used in the picture. The raccoons knew the difference between my Labradors and Apple, but they became acquainted quickly because of their relationship with my dogs.

"Preparation for an actual scene was relatively easy. I simply walked them through the action a few times and then let them do it by themselves while the cameras turned. It's amazing how well it worked out.

"Food is the basis of all the training, of course. I used a mixture of ground chicken necks, cornmeal and egg whites. After walking the animal through the action sequence he always found food at the end. Sometimes if we wanted him to make a number of stops — while ambling through a store, for example — I would place food at each of the stopping points during the walk-through. Then, when doing it for the cameras, he stopped at each point looking for it and would go on to the new stop and the next until he found it at the final spot.

"I think the little guys did a fantastic job," Cowl boasted. "When you consider the fact they are nighttime creatures working during the day with a dog, one of their natural enemies, it's lucky we got anything out of them at all. And yet the picture came in right on schedule."

MAKING PLANS FOR CR 71
Billy Nugent, Pat Stinson, John Riherd

'It's A Mad Mad World' Needed By This Mad World

If ever this mad, mad, mad, mad world needed the movie, "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," it's now! It is scheduled to play locally at the Ritz Theatre, starting today.

Based on an orginal comedy idea by William and Tania Rose, Producer-Director Stanley Kramer earmarked six million dollars for the comedy. He populated it with a cast which reads more like the contract roster of a major studio than the cast of a picture — Spencer Tracy, Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Buddy Hackett, Ethel Merman, Mickey Rooney, Dick Shawn, Phil Silvers, Terry Thomas, Jonathan Winters, Edie Adams and Dorothy Provine, and supported them with players like Jimmy Durante, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Jim Backus, Ben Blue, Peter Falk, Paul Ford, Leo Gorcey, Edward Everett Horton, Allen Jenkins, Marvin Kaplan, Buster Keaton, Mike Mazurki, Madlyn Rhue, Arnold Stang and a host of others.

The picture has been described as a blend of the slapstick of the Keystone Kops with the wonderful nonsense of the comedies Hollywood made famous in the thirties — with some major debacles and a little whimsey stirred in for good measure.

Its plot takes the principles from the Southern California desert to the seashore in a mad, mad, mad, mad dash to dig up $350,000 in buried loot. The cameras have captured a wide sweep of Southern California acreage, ranging from around Palm Springs, where the unit shot in temperatures ranging up to 130 degrees, to the breeze-swept beaches south of Los Angeles.

In the production of "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," Kramer has once again displayed the careful preparation and attention to detail that have made him one of the top producer-directors in the film industry.

Once the script had been completed, he spent almost ten months in research and development, in seeking locales that fitted perfectly, in lining up a cast that would not only stagger the imagination but realistically fit the individual parts involved.

In casting "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," Kramer bypassed the usual routine to populate his comedy with comedians whom he refused to allow to be funny; that is, they were told frankly that they could not be funny in their own way but would have to adhere to the various characterizations laid down in the script. The result, of course, is that "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" retains its identity as a basic screen story without being sacrificed or limited by the individual styles and bits of business of its star-studded cast.

A series of hair-raising stunts, spread across the screen, punctuate the entire comedy. For these sequences, Kramer utilized 19 of the film industry's best stuntmen, involving them in an unprecedented array of comedy situations including some spectacular car crashes that are important to the story line of the chase. In all, the unit wrecked 14 cars during the course of filming, three of them in one spectacular shot that marks the opening of the picture and starts the chase.

Fishermen Grin And Bear It

In Alaska even the bears get in on the great fishing during the salmon run in late summer. It becomes a real comedy . . . a big Alaska Brown Bear hanging over a rock, paws in the water, waiting for the right size salmon to come along, and then . . . got him! As Master Alaskan Guide Buster Shebal put it, " . . . they get as excited as some of the two-legged nimrods."

The bears have really got a system for catching salmon. No fancy fishing gear and you get to pick the one you want before you catch it. They usually fish in the pools at the bottom of the rapids where the salmon rest before trying another mad attempt to swim up the falls to the spawning grounds.

The young bears, who do not have the technique mastered, are the most comical to watch. They splash around in the pools and try walking up the rapids, usually coming up without a fish and always very soggy. They will eventually learn to do it the easy way . . . sitting on a rock and scooping up the fish they want. Some are so fussy they go only after the female salmon to get the eggs. These four-legged fishers have learned that caviar is a delicacy even bears enjoy.

Buster Shebal and his wife, Vivian, were fishing in southern Alaska's Bristol Bay area when they came upon this comic situation at the McNeil River Falls. Buster captured the action with his camera and it is now part of his exciting color feature film about hunting and fishing in Alaska, "This Is My Alaska," showing at the Ritz theatre beginning Thursday.

Scholarships Are Now Available

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech University has announced the initiation of an Eva Browning Scholarship in Music to assist an outstanding piano student to attend the university.

The $3,000 grant, earmarked for the student's expenses over a four year period, was made possible through the generosity of the late Eva Browning who established the scholarship and/or artist-in-residence fund for the piano section of the Texas Tech Music Department.

This year's auditions will be March 13, 1971, at Texas Tech. Deadline for entries is March 1. Further information may be obtained by writing directly to Dr. Thomas Mastroianni, chairman of the Piano Faculty, Department of Music, Texas Tech University, Lubbock.

'Boatniks' Is Story Of The Sunday Sailor

Walt Disney Productions' riotous new comedy, "The Boatniks," starring Robert Morse, Stefanie Powers, Phil Silvers and Don Ameche, is the story of the Sunday sailor.

On any given weekend, amateur armadas weigh anchor on bays, lakes and rivers from Maine to California and take to the waves. One may see sloops and outboards, yachts and yawls, cruisers and rowboats, ploughing the briny maine.

Although the boats come in all sizes and descriptions, the yachtsman is much the same. He sees himself as the proud and gallant captain determined to win his constant battle with the elements. He is familiar with nautical terms and spouts them authoritatively. Unfortunately, he is not familiar with nautical law and is, in fact, that most dreaded menace of the high seas, the weekend yachtsman.

Take an accident prone young Coast Guard Ensign, a beautiful young girl, a trio of amateur thieves with a million dollars worth of stolen jewels and a mysterious Japanese pearl diver on their hands, mix well with the hysterical antics of our sailor, stir gently against the background of Newport Harbor, the busiest small boat harbor in the world, add the wackiest chase sequence in movie history, bake slowly in the California sun and serve up the most hilarious comedy of the year, "The Boatniks."

Time To Try For 'Texas'

It's time to try out for "Texas."

The directors will be in their places Jan. 8, from 1 to 6 p.m. at the Branding Iron Theatre on the West Texas State University campus (fine arts building) to hear the actors and the singers and the players on guitars, banjos, accordians, bass fiddlers and violins.

They will be available to discuss the credentials of technical people, costumers, and back stage workers, and light and sound technicians.

They will be taking the first steps toward the sixth season of the "Texas" Musical Drama which plays in the summer months in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

The directors request that applicants bring both school and home addresses, Social Security number, and a photograph at least billfold size.

They will be looking for actors with command of the stage, voices that can be heard outdoors, with understanding character motivation and conveyance of a variety of emotion.

Other audition dates are Jan. 16, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at WT Campus; Jan. 24, women's gym at Texas Tech University, Lubbock; Feb. 27, at El Centro College in Dallas; March 7, in Oklahoma City.

Anyone wishing further information should write to "Texas" Musical Drama, P.O. Box 268, Canyon.
