Three Local Elections Coming Up In April

On Saturday, April 5, voters will go to the polls in three local but separate elections.

Official notices have been published in this paper for each of these elections setting deadlines for candidates to file for a place on the ballot.

City Election

City election calls for naming a mayor and two aldermen, to succeed Eldon Calk, mayor, and Granvil Hext and Jimmy Harris, aldermen.

Deadline for filing here closed Tuesday night. Mr. Calk has filed for re-election as Mayor, and will have R. V. Sheppard as opponent for that post. Granvil Hext is up for re-election as alderman, but incumbent Harris has declined to run, and his place on the ticket has been taken by Jimmy Doyle, who filed last week.

The only contest here then will be for the office of Mayor.

School Election

In the trustee election terms of Jimmy Martin, Robert Bradley and Bob Sykes are to be filled. Candidates have until Thursday evening, March 6, to file at the office of the County Judge. According to word from that office Monday, Bradley and Martin had both filed for re-election and Bob Sykes also filed this week. Apparently there will be no contest.

Hospital

In selection of hospital directors the terms of Ed Meador, Elton McGinness and Oran Enoch expire. Term is for two years.

The present law requires that any person desiring his name to be printed on the ballot as a candidate for director shall file a petition, signed by not less than 10 legally qualified voters, with the secretary of the board of directors, asking that such name be printed on the ballot.

A petition has already been filed with the secretary asking that all three directors run for re-election. Deadline for filing such petition is Tuesday, March 11th, in case others may wish to be on the ballot.

One Contest

As of this time it appears there will be no contests in any of these elections except for the office of mayor of the City of Eldorado.

Good Crowd Out For C. Of C. Banquet

The Eldorado Jaycee and Chamber of Commerce Spring Banquet was held Friday night in the Memorial Building with a good crowd present. It was the first such event held in about 10 years and Delbert Downing of Midland was speaker.

Delegations of Jaycees were present from Menard and San Angelo.

Raymon Mobley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, gave the welcome to all present. Bill Hart of San Angelo was the master of ceremonies and musical entertainment was provided by Joe Krecklow.

Jaycee officers installed in addition to President Kerr were John Meador, first vice-president; Glynn Hill, 2nd vice-pres.; C. F. Dacy, sec.-treas.; and Ronnie Mittel, Sam Dannheim, Jackie Heffernan and Mike Moore, directors.

Dr. J. B. Brame is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and directors are Elnora Love, Mrs. Bob Sykes, Budy White, A. G. McCormack, E. C. Peters; Rev. Toney McMillan and Bob Bland.

First Aid Meet Set For March 12 By Boy Scouts

A First Aid Meet will be held on March 12th at Sonora Jr. High Gym at 7:00 p.m. for Boy Scout troops from Christoval, Eldorado, Mertzon, and Sonora.

Dr. Charles F. Browne of Sonora, vice chairman of the Twin Mountain District, is serving as director of the first aid meet.

Each troop may enter as many patrol teams as they wish. A team is composed of 5 patrol members, one of whom will be the patient.

Four problems will be given to the patrol teams to work. The scoring will be as follows:

360-400 points...Blue Ribbon award
300-359 points...Red Ribbon
299 or less...Yellow Ribbon

The Scouts have been working on practice first aid problems in their troop meetings for the past several weeks.

Parents are invited to watch the meet. Scouts participating are asked to wear tennis shoes. Jimmy Cahill, Scoutmaster of Troop 19, Sonora, is the arrangements chairman.

Steve Toburen of Lufkin has been here for a few days this week visiting the Bill Thurmans.

Senior Play Is Set For Tuesday Night

The Senior Class of 1969 will present on Tuesday, March 11, a play in two acts entitled "The Mouse That Roared." The theme of the play involves a country three miles wide by five miles long, Grand Fenwick, that invaded the United States of America. Grand Fenwick's only export is duplicated on the American market and this paralyzes the little country's economy.

The cast consists of: Teresa Bosmans, Vickie Jones, Shane Henderson, Veronica Belman, Kathy Robinson, Mary Kelly, Tanya Yates, Sandra Rosford, Deena Day, Nancy Lux, Glenda Hanusch, Elaine Dempsey, Buddy Calk, Allan Corbell, Jimmy Robledo, Jimmy Mercere, Jimmy McGinness, Mike Olson, Richard Keel, Ross Whitten, Roy Mack Hawkins, Ray Louis Lozano, Gary Cave, and Allan Sallee.

"The Mouse That Roared" will be presented in the Eldorado High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are being sold by the Seniors. DON'T MISS IT!

Work Expected To Start Soon On Roping Arena

Penny Pennington of Menard reports that he is due to start work on the Eldorado roping arena as soon as he completes a job he is now engaged in.

According to County Commissioner L. E. McCalla last week, active promoters of the arena are still appealing for donations of used pipe.

They point out that local farmers and ranchers could assist by offering any used pipe they have lying around their premises. Anyone willing to do so may call 853-2877 and a truck will be dispatched to make the pickup.

Arthur Faulk who operates the large wrecking yard has promised enough heavy 4-inch pipe for five corner posts. These are to be 8 feet long and will be set three feet in the ground and cemented in.

Scott McGregor To Be Married Next June

Texas Tech students Miss Michele Gene Hardegreer and Walter Scott McGregor IV will be married June 21 in Sonora.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Max G. Hardegreer of Sonora and Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. McGregor Jr. of Christoval.

Miss Hardegreer was graduated from Sonora High School. Her fiancé, a graduate of Eldorado High School attended Southern Methodist University before entering Texas Tech. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity.

The firemen made a run last Saturday afternoon at 3:00 to the Gerald Childers place in the north part of town.

Mrs. Thelma Childers and son Pat visited recently at Los Alamos, N.M., with the Joe Wayne Phillips family.

Present Year Credited With Meager Rainfall

Rainfall for the present year comes to a modest 1.40 inches according to Lloyd Johnson's average of three gauges. This amount is credited to the month of February while January claims nothing but a big zero.

The rainfall table is on another page.

As this paper goes to press on Wednesday the skies are cloudy and the streets are wet. Light showers fell during the night.

Hale At Work At Haley Transports

W. H. (Buster) HALE

Now working in the office of Haley Transports here in Eldorado is Buster Hale.

Mr. Hale has taken optional retirement after having completed more than 35 years with Marathon Oil Company.

Under Marathon's revised optional retirement plan which became effective January 1, 1969, Mr. Hale has chosen optional retirement effective March 1, 1969. His employment with Marathon began in Shidler, Oklahoma in September, 1933. Marathon was then known as Mid-Kansas Oil & Gas Company. Mr. and Mrs. Hale were transferred to Iraan, Texas (Yates Field) in September of 1936. They were transferred from Iraan to Eldorado, Texas in 1951 with Marathon's opening of Production Office in Eldorado to serve the recently discovered Huldale Field. In 1964 they were transferred from Eldorado to Iraan.

They have two sons: William Samuel of Fort Worth and Michael V., a student at Angelo State. Following retirement from Marathon they plan to make their home in Eldorado where he is employed by Haley Transports.

The Hales were recently honored with a dinner and gifts by fellow employees and friends in Marathon Hall.

Mrs. Hale is still in Iraan and will join her husband here as soon as he arranges for housing.

Directors Hold First Meeting In Hospital

After meeting in the county judge's office ever since the district was organized, hospital directors Monday night met for the first time in the new hospital itself. They met at 6:30 in the dining room for a t-bone steak dinner as guests of Dr. Brame, after which they went into business session which lasted until nearly 10:00 o'clock.

The board is still involved in discussions for a landscaping plan and agreed to ask Jim Thornton to submit a landscaping plan and Bud Davidson to come up with a plan for a sprinkler system for the grounds. When these plans have been worked out they will be submitted to contractors for bids.

Dr. Brame was accompanied by Miss Kroeger, administrator, and Mary Maclary.

Dr. Charles F. Browne of Sonora joined the latter part of the business session.

Eagle Relay Team Wins Championship At Ozona Track Meet

Coach Sherwood Barker's Eagles won the Class A team championship the past weekend at the Ozona Relays. The Eagles were second in the overall standings; Ozona won the meet with 99 points, Eldorado was second with 82 points, Mason third with 74 1/3, Sonora fourth with 44 points; Stanton fifth with 35 points, and Junction 6th with 33 points.

The highlights of the meet were in the two relays which the Eagles won. The 440 yd. relay was run first with a time of 45.6; team members are James Larry Davis, Wayne Doyle, Keith Williams, and Paul Page. The one mile relay was run in 3:36.7, a good time considering the strength of the wind; the mile relay team members are Wayne Doyle, Bob Page, Keith Williams and Paul Page.

Wayne Doyle tied the meet record in the 100 yd. dash with a time of 9.9.

Other places won by the Eagles were as follows:

Alan Corbell 3rd, shot put Archie Nixon 6th, shot put
Bob Page 4th, 120 yd. HJ
Wayne Doyle 2nd, 100 yd. dash
Alan Corbell 5th, Discus
Paul Page 1st, 440 yd. dash
Wayne Doyle 6th, broad jump
Micky Clark 6th, 330 IH
Keith Williams 6th, 220 yd. dash
Albert Torres 2nd, Mile run
Albert Torres placing 2nd in the mile indicates that the Eagles are getting stronger week by week. Coach Barker says he believes it is better to bring the boys along slowly so that a peak will be reached at the right time in the season.

This week on Saturday the Eagles will go to the Sonora Relays and weather permitting, they will be trying to better their previous times and distances.

Good Luck "MEAN GREEN."

Hog Business a Major Local Enterprise

You wouldn't know there was a major hog business right next door to the city of Eldorado if you expected to smell it. I wouldn't have learned about it either if I hadn't got to talking with Barron Cave who is managing the enterprise.

It is located at the old Bailey place at the southeast edge of town and is less than a quarter of a mile off the Menard highway. With our prevailing south winds you surely would expect to smell it if there was any odor there, but there is not. Visiting the project last week with Mr. Cave, the only odor I encountered was the odor of disinfectants.

The business is operated under the name of Bailey, Bailey and Hartman, with Barron Cave as foreman or manager. Mr. Cave was engaged for the job about a year ago, and has had experience in similar projects in Corsicana and New Mexico. He has ambitious plans for expansion. For instance he now has 80 sows out there and count- less numbers of small pigs, but he says they have facilities to expand to as many as 325 sows.

During his first year his principal problem was labor, and when asked who he hired, he replied, "Oh, anybody we could get, Mexicans, and anyone else willing to work." But it seems he has finally got the labor situation whipped and has assembled a dependable crew.

The most interesting building we visited there was what he called the "farrowing" barn.

Now here I'll have to admit my ignorance. I don't know if it should be spelled "farrowing" barn or "farrow" barn. But anyway in human terms, it would be the "delivery room," where babies are born.

There were 22 pens in this long barn. It has a cement floor. The stalls or pens are made of pipe and each is built to provide an escape place for the little pigs when their mama rolls over. Sows have always been known to kill their little ones by lying on them.

Practically every one of these pens had a big sow in it and every one was busy nursing her quota of baby pigs. A litter of six or seven pigs is considered satisfactory but Mr. Cave said some sows were producing ten or more.

Occasionally there can be a problem. One sow was unable to give down her milk and her babies were starving. One of the men was feeding a little pig from a bottle, and Barron was not altogether happy about it. "You can use up $5.00 worth of milk that way!" He also instructed one of his men to put a baby pig over on another sow. Apparently sows are not particular about accepting an orphan.

Above each of these pens was suspended a heating light. These can be turned on in cold weather to provide proper temperature for the sow and her litter. Each pen also has a water fountain. It is equipped with a float valve to provide all the water the sow wants, and it cuts off when she quits drinking.

The sow and her litter will remain in the "farrow" room for several weeks and then is moved to the weaning pen. In due course of time—about six weeks—the pigs will be weaning size and ready to be sold. Mr. Cave said that possibly some day they may raise the pigs to butcher size, but they are not ready to do that yet. He also said it was possible that some day someone might be interested in establishing a slaughter house here.

There is a long row of weaning pens. These are open-front sheds and can become muddy in wet weather. The next project according to Mr. Cave, is to run cement floors in all of these pens.

A 15-acre tract up near the house is planted in alfalfa and here were grazing a considerable number of sows until the time comes for their next litter. They can produce two litters in a year or maybe more.

Mr. Cave said the hog business is attracting new attention over the state and he mentioned several places where people are entering it in a big way.

The Bailey "pig factory" is an interesting place to visit.

Cross Bred

The sows which Bailey, Bailey and Hartman bought are all cross bred. They are a cross of Durok, Hampshire and Yorkshire, but still they don't all look alike. One was solid black all over.

By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

What does the word "prejudice" mean to you? I have just looked it up and Webster says that prejudice is a "preconceived judgment or opinion; unreasonable predilection or objection; especially an opinion or leaning adverse to anything without just grounds or before sufficient knowledge." Kind of lays it on the line, doesn't it? I do not believe that it would be exactly complimentary to be called a prejudiced person.

The experts say that prejudice is not a thing that hits a human being suddenly but is the result of a slow accumulation of ideas and impressions.

This all has to do with the human being in today's world. It has to do with man living with other men in this rapidly shrinking globe. It has to do with today's children and the attitudes they will be found carrying when they reach adulthood, when the world is even smaller.

I quote "Guiding Our Children" by Joseph D. Burroughs as he discusses, "Prejudice: Can We Immunize Our Children?" Read carefully . . .

One facet of the well-adjusted child is the lack of harmful prejudice against groups which have different customs, different religion, different color, or different sets of behavior from his own.

Yet, how can parents help their children to grow up free of such prejudices?

In the first place we must recognize that prejudices are not inherited through the genes. We are not born with prejudice. Prejudice has to be learned. The examples set by the attitudes, beliefs, and behavior of parents and other significant persons in a child's life are perhaps the most important factors of all.

A child who in his own home learns to respect others and their differences, and to appreciate the contributions to mankind which have been made by members of various races, colors, and creeds—such a child is better equipped to resist and combat prejudice later in his life.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews suggests that in attempting to bring up children of good will, parents can conscientiously work in the following directions:

1. Help children see and understand how group differences come about.
2. Help children become secure in their group so they do not feel threatened when they come in contact with people of other groups. The base on which all other personality is laid is a happy, secure relationship to one's own parents and family.
3. Help children grow into emotional maturity so they do not use prejudice and hostility as a crutch for their own personality inadequacies.
4. Teach children to make decisions and accept the moral obligations of their choices.
5. Encourage children to learn the art and skill of handling human relationships.
6. Work with the neighbors to create a community where our children and our neighbors' children will have demonstrated to them how a good life can be achieved without sacrificing basic differences.

Marzaret Mead, the eminent anthropologist, has written: "Our most fertile field for improving majority-minority relations is in our guidance of children. If you can bring up your children to be glad they are of the sex they are and the age they are—that year—and be glad of their religious ancestry, their racial ancestry, their national ancestry, and see that pride is not denied at any point by the fact that they are not something else, you are guaranteeing them the sort of character structure that will help them make their contribution, in turn, to working toward a world where no individual is ever negatively defined by any group membership that he cannot himself help."

I will admit that recipes make much easier reading, but recipes are not what a child is all about. We can forget a recipe—we had better not forget a child.

The other day at a Club meeting every one answered roll call with an old saying remembered from childhood. I think Mrs. E. H. Dannheim ranked away up front with this one, "What I Am To Be

Sorority News

The Beta Sigma Phi has been very active the last couple of months but our reporter, namely myself, has slipped a little in getting the news to the paper.

In January we had a Mexican supper in the dining room of Java Junction. Hostesses were Betty Hanusch and Murlene Cornelius.

Our first meeting of February was held on the 10th in the home of Ann Doyle. Our hostess was Yvonne Kerr. We elected our Valentine Queen. She was Tootie Dunham. We also voted to donate the money that we raised in November with our Turkey and Ham raffle, to the Hospital. The shrubbery at the front entrance of the hospital was purchased with this money.

On Feb. 11, 1969 we had an all day bridge party with each member bringing a sack lunch and then we exchanged lunches by drawing for them. It was held in the home of Fayla Cheatham.

On Feb. 19 we held a bake sale in front of the Drug store. We had good response to this and we wish to thank each and every one who purchased something from us.

Feb. 24, 1969 our regular meeting was held in the club room of the Memorial Building with Tootie Dunham presiding. A date of March 4 was tentatively set for our Ritual of Jewels ceremony.

After our business meeting we had a program which was in the form of a debate. We had a very lively and interesting debate with Yvonne Kerr and Judy Meador leading the arguments, for on both subjects that were used they were on opposing sides. The subjects were capital punishment and sex education in the public schools, both very controversial subjects. Judy Meador was our hostess for the evening.

I think this about catches us up on all of the happenings of Beta Sigma Phi for Feb., but I would like to leave you with this thought from:

The Garden of Beta Sigma Phi. First, plant four rows of peas; presence, promptness, preparation, perseverance. Next to these plant 3 rows of squash: squash gossip, squash indifference, squash criticism. Then plant five rows of lettuce; let us obey rules and regulations; let us be true to our obligations; let us be faithful to our duty; let us be loyal and unselfish; let us love one another.

No garden is complete without turnips; Turn up for meetings; turn up with a smile; turn up with new ideas; turn up with a determination to give your best to make everything count for something good and worthwhile. —Rep.

I am now becoming."

Etta Ruth says this statement was a motto or saying painted on a wall of the Bailey Ranch schoolhouse and that as a child she was deeply impressed with its meaning and that she had never forgotten it.

Mrs. Henry Moore remembered one from her childhood which might better be painted on some of our walls today.

Florence's quotation was, "Hearts, like doors, open with ease, To very, very little keys; And don't forget that they are these: I thank you sir, and if you please." * * *

It is amazing what we remember from childhood . . . verses, stories, mannerisms of our elders . . . all of the thousands of things that have gone into the making of what we are.

While I've been writing I have tried to recall sights and sounds from my school rooms. All I can come up with is the recollection of the honor that was attached to being asked by the teacher to dust the erasers. All that chalk dust! How could I have ever counted it a privilege?

The only written thing I remember was strips and strips of the alphabet, tacked above the blackboards, all done in beautiful copy-book style. I especially remember how beautiful I thought the letters were.

I sure remember a bunch of important things.

had a sort of government sanction, cost the American taxpayers $71,795 just for the clean-up and restoration job, according to an announcement of the Secretary of Interior.

The abortive march cost the economy of the city of Washington many millions of dollars and accounted for a rise in the District's mounting crime rate.

A bond of only $5,000 was required by the Secretary of Interior to cover damages, although warned in the Congress at the time that the amount would be woefully inadequate. The Rev. Abernathy, who spearheaded the invasion and encampment, promptly rejected the $71,795 bill when it was presented to him. * * *

A District of Columbia jury last week convicted one of the three Negro hoodlums who while here to take part in the Poor People's March killed two young Marine Lieutenants. The murder occurred when five Marines and a young lady entered a small tavern to purchase hamburgers at 3:00 o'clock in the morning.

Charges against one of the Negroes were dismissed, another was found not guilty of murder but guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon, and the third was convicted on two counts for second degree homicide. Before sentencing he has been committed to a mental institution for observation.

The ultimate outcome of the trials for these heinous crimes remains to be determined.

With committees beginning to grind, the Congress still awaits the unfolding of the new Administration's major legislative program for the session. The transition lends itself to the slow-down, which probably adds up to a long session this year.

Last week former member of the house Mel Laird began a series of early-morning breakfasts at his Pentagon office. A dozen of us who are senior members of the House Armed Services Committee were briefed by the Secretary, his Under-Secretary Packard, and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Wheeler.

Present indications are that Laird, a very knowledgeable man, will work closely with his former colleagues and will make an excellent Secretary—one of the toughest jobs in the world at this time. * * *

Just About 100 Miles To Good Fishing

Del Rio, Tex.—With water backed up more than 150 feet deep behind the 99% completed Amistad Dam, Eldorado suddenly finds itself with a big new fishing hole practically in its own back yard.

The huge dam has been placed across the Rio Grande by the United States and Mexico near Del Rio. That's only 111 highway miles from Eldorado, not far at all according to standards by which distance is measured in the wide open spaces of West Texas.

Development of Amistad National Recreational Area is already under way. It is expected to attract two million visitors a year from all over the United States and beyond.

Many of these will be traveling through Eldorado, which is on Highway 277, a direct route to Lake Amistad. Thus, Lake Amistad will have a healthy impact on Eldorado's economy as well as providing new recreational opportunities for the enjoyment of citizens here.

Already, the fishing is terrific. Anglers are harvesting full limits of bass, running from two pounds up.

Lake Walk and Devil's Lake, long popular with fishermen in the Eldorado area, are now submerged below the waters of the huge new reservoir. They have become the Devil's Arm of the big new Amistad, which has emerged as the hottest winter fishing spot in the area.

Because these lakes were already well stocked with 22 different species of fish and because the Rio Grande has long been famous for its mammoth cats, fishermen at Amistad did not have to experience the long wait that is customary before new reservoirs become producers of keeper-size fish.

By last fall, Amistad already had good fishing and it has continued to get better as rising waters have spread over thousands of acres of rugged rangeland. The lake is readily accessible and convenient to nearby Del Rio, a border city with facilities of all types to accommodate the visitor.

Section 4 does not apply to use of water for domestic and livestock purposes as the same is defined by Commission Rules. PAR-TEE

Duplicate Bridge winners for February 27th were as follows: First—Gerald Childers and June Jones. Second—Beverly Childers and Rose Doyle. Third—Elnora Love and Sara Hall. The next session will be March 13th at 7:00 p.m. at the club house.

We have received all of our chairs and tables that Buddy White ordered for us and they are being put to good use. We want to thank Buddy for the extra chair that he gave us as well as the "good price" for said merchandise. We do appreciate Buddy and Pam's interest in Eldorado Golf Club.

A Special Thank You to Pearl and Oran Enochs for the small gas range for the kitchen. The stove "just fits" in the space left in the kitchen and since Eddy Kinser cleaned it up—looks and works just fine. Again Thank You!

The team of Bob Bland, Tiny Godwin and Mary Waldron emerged the winner of the Mixed Team Play on Feb. 23rd. Coming in second, after a sudden death play off, was the team of Vernon Rogers and Ernestine Hext. The first hole in the sudden death play off was halved by a birdie and then Mary Waldron sank a putt for a birdie on the second hole to win the match.

The next Mixed Team Play is scheduled for Sunday, March 9th at 2:00 p.m. We do hope the wind is not blowing so hard on March 9th.

We had nine ladies to play golf this past Thursday. Maybe with the spring weather coming up we will have more participation each Thursday. Don't forget the luncheon scheduled for March 20th when we have invited the Sonora ladies to come and play with us. Be sure to make plans to come that day at 12:00 noon. We need every available lady golfer to help host the Sonora group. We will play in flights and award golf balls as prizes to the winners. Also some door prizes will be given.

Ask Mary Waldron why she purchased a new five iron. I can't imagine why she would "just up and buy" a new five iron, can you? (After all, a broken shaft can be replaced.)

Another strange thing happened a week or so ago. I hear tell that Rose Doyle set her couch on fire, and get this, the fire was caused by a load of clothes from the dryer being placed on the couch. With this experience Rose may join the Volunteer Firemen!

Don't forget that DUES for Eldorado Golf Club are due April 1, 1969. Also that the Annual Meeting and Election of Officers will be on March 27.

The best round of the month play was won by Eddy Kinser with a net 30 (for 12 holes). Also Eddy won the Putting Ringer play that ended Feb. 20th. Congratulations Eddy! Keep up the good work!

Did you know? The absent member of the bridge club is usually the one who gets the most slams? CHARGE TICKETS, special for service stations; 8 for $1 or $11 carton. —The Success office.

Eaglettes Lose Bi-District Tilt To Iran Tuesday: 45-28

The cookie sometimes crumbles right in your hand and it did Tuesday night at Ozona when a fine Iraan team beat Eldorado 45-28 and advances to regional to meet Springlake, the State Champion.

Iraan won the game because they hit the basket better than did the green who experienced probably their coldest night all season. Perhaps it was "Bi-District-itis" that clutched the young Eaglettes because they never seemed to loosen up the entire game. Dale Montgomery was the only one hitting from the floor as she totaled 20 points. Kathleen O'Harrow was having her difficulties as she took only 5 shots all night and made 4 free throws. Linda Derrick and Randy Yates made 2 each while Peggy Hill and Patty Page saw action in the second half. The offensive story was that the ball just wouldn't go in the hoop and it's a must in this game.

The defensive unit played very well making very few errors and rebounding well. Donna Davis, the team's only senior player, finished her career with a great night's work gathering in 14 rebounds and keeping her tall forward to only 10 points. Lisa McAngus had 11 rebounds, and Lisa Whitten 10. The guarding of Mary Lynn McCalla, Claudia Meador, and Sheri Roberts was excellent and freshman Gay Lynn Richardson came in during the fourth to finish the game.

Though frustrating it was an exciting game and Eldorado closed the gap to six points in the third quarter but another scoring lapse saw it stretch back out and fouls due to pressing pushed Iran further ahead in the final minutes. So that's the way the cookie crumbles but before it did the Eldorado Eaglettes captured a Tournament Championship, won a coveted District Championship, and went over the magic number of 20 wins by three while dropping only nine.

The Eaglettes appreciated the support shown by the people of Eldorado in their attendance, the two cheerleaders who took charge of signs and yells, and the messages of encouragement.

It's been a great season and most of these girls will be back for another appearance next season.

Oil News

Pennzoil United, Inc., Midland, has requested a new pool designation of Cody Bell Canyon D sand oil for its No. 2 Barrow, 1,320 feet from south and 1,420 feet from east lines of section 49, block TT, TC survey, a previously completed half-mile west extension to Canyon D gas production in the Cody Bell multiphase gas area of Schleicher, 10 miles northwest of Eldorado.

New potential for the reclassified oil discovery was 79 barrels of 46 gravity oil daily, flowing through 24.64-inch choke and perforations at 6,493 to 6,555 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 5,700-1.

The well originally was completed last Sept. 18 for a calculated, absolute, open flow of 6 million cubic feet of gas daily through same perforations after injection of 1,500 gallons of mud acid and 28,000 gallons of fracture fluid. Gas-distillate ratio was 7,431-1.

Austin, Tex.—Legislation dealing with peace officers and rebellious students are the dominant bills under consideration by the lawmakers.

Approved by the House was a measure that would provide criminal penalties for anyone involved in violent campus disruptions at both public and private schools throughout the state. Vote on the bill, by Rep. Joe Shannon of Fort Worth, was 135 to 12. It now goes to the Senate for action.

One of the two Negro members in the House, Rep. Curtis Graves of Houston, spoke against the bill saying it was "the kind of legislation that causes a backlash. If this passes, I predict this type of violence may come to our state, and each of us will regret passing it."

A clause in the bill outlawing disruptions by "loud or boisterous conduct" was deleted from the bill after some members said it was ambiguous and feared it might find the same fate as the state's disorderly conduct ordinance.

Last year a three judge panel in Waco ruled the disorderly conduct ordinance unconstitutional for not being specific enough. An appeal was made and the U. S. Supreme Court still is considering the measure.

Several amendments were added to the proposed bill, including one that would bar a student from attending a state-financed or assisted school for two years following three convictions for violation of the act. A student were convicted twice under the act, he could not receive any state loans. Another amendment assures students taking part in demonstrations the right to peaceful protest.

A trespass bill by Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen is awaiting action. This bill would make it unlawful for anyone "with a malicious and mischievous intent" to trespass on the property of someone else, including campuses. It now is in the House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence.

Other bills were filed dealing with law enforcement. Senate Youth Affairs Committee voted to report favorably to the Senate two bills designed to provide fairer hearings on juvenile offenders, which could include some of the demonstrators—especially at high schools.

One of the proposals would require the court to appoint an attorney to represent a juvenile offender, if the parents cannot afford one. If the judge determines that the parents can afford an attorney, he can require that they get one.

Both of the bills were proposed by Sen. Criss Cole of Houston, who is chairman of the committee. Another measure would require the defense attorney in juvenile actions to furnish transcripts of the trial in case of an appeal.

Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon introduced a measure to help raise the standards of law enforcement officers.

This bill would give the Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education the authority to certify persons as being qualified for police or other law enforcement jobs and would set minimum standards. After Sept. 1, 1970 all appointive peace officers would be required to meet the educational, training, physical, mental and moral criteria set by the Commission. Elected officers, such as sheriffs and constables, would not have to qualify.

Money! Money! Money!

With $71.6 million of Gov. Preston Smith's $261.5 million revenue package under constitutional challenge and another $38.5 million source under sharp criticism, Texas' chief executive apparently will be offering some alternative recommendations soon.

Smith told newsmen that if the attorney general holds substantial parts of his program unconstitutional, that is just what he will do.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin was due to hand down an opinion this week on the validity of diverting permanent school fund-bound land-lease money to current education spending. Most authorities agreed earlier with Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler that the diversion is unconstitutional. Also, few were willing to wager much on the governor's suggestion for raising $38.5 million by a $10 surtax on traffic tickets.

While Smith's tax program drew widespread grumbling, nobody had anything better to offer. House Speaker Gus Mutscher viewed with "alarm" the governor's all-consumer tax approach and said he had hoped for a "better balance" with business-consumer levies.

Mutscher outlined ideas for a meeting with his revenue and tax committee and predicted a tax bill "run" in the House about April 6.

Meanwhile, the tax committee held its first full-dress session. Out of seven bills aired, two offered some hope of additional revenue. One would raise an estimated $51 million by increasing the liquor tax 40 cents a four-fifths bottle. Another sought to subject Texas-based insurance companies to personal property taxation. The others, in one way or another, would cost the state money by reductions of, or exemptions from, existing levies.

Bills, Bills, and More Bills

Legislators are wading in a pond of bills that soon will pass the 1,000 mark.

Sen. Henry C. Grover of Houston has introduced a resolution directing the Texas Coordinating Board for Colleges and Universities and the University of Texas Board of Regents to enter into negotiations to buy the Baylor College of Medicine at Houston.

A five-man sub-committee of the Higher Education Committee is studying a bill which would do away with the required six-hours of government or political science and six-hours of American or Texas history in Texas colleges. It is proposed by Rep. Don Cavness of Austin.

A proposal to create a state-wide library system was sent to a sub-committee by the Senate Committee on State Affairs. Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris and Senator Hightower are co-sponsors of the bill.

Rep. Joe Salen of Corpus Christi has introduced a resolution asking the House of Representatives to do something about privacy. His proposal calls for a five-man study committee made up of house members.

Senator Grover also has introduced a bill which would allow the state to aid cities in raising policemen's and firemen's salaries.

A proposal that would permit Texas cities to lend each other police officers in emergencies has gone to a subcommittee of the House Urban Affairs Committee. Rep. Felix McDonald of Edinburg is sponsor of the bill.

A bill backed to chain optometrists (TSO, Lee and others) to limit the state Board of Optometrist's law-making powers has Senate committee approval.

Proposed constitutional amendments to lower the voting age to 18, knock out annual voter registration requirement and grant old folks a $3,000 overall property tax exemption found its way to the Senate calendar.

Houston legislators have offered bills to strengthen the state's open meeting law, to require posting of advance notices of all government agency sessions.

San Antonio Sen. V. E. (Red) Berry has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to divide Texas into two states—North Texas and South Texas.

Legislation Advances

In the sharpest debate of the session, the House passed a tough bill to control disruptive activities on Texas school campuses—and sent it to the Senate.

Earlier the House approved a long string of bills including creation of a new medical school at San Antonio, changing the name of Stephen F. Austin State College at Nacogdoches to Stephen F. Austin State University, and lengthening the minimum time between local sales tax elections from two years to one. Later, representatives passed a law requiring eggs to be labeled as Texas or out-of-state products. A bill to increase city employee retirement benefits was dropped after an amendment excluded the Texas Municipal League staff.

An early House showdown was expected on the $3.5 billion water bond constitutional amendment.

Senate voted authority for separate State Commission for Rehabilitation Service to Handicapped, approved a $468,931 emergency appropriation to rebuild the old fire-damaged gymnasium at Southwest Texas State College, changed the name of Corpus Christi State School to Bruce Reagan State School (in honor of former senator), and passed a bill to allow Texans to buy long guns and ammunition in contiguous states.

Both houses agreed on bills creating a commission to administer the Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Memorial Museum in Fredericksburg, and to designate an Animal Health Commission to prescribe tick-dipping material and regulations.

Governor Smith signed into law a bill by Rep. Bill Clayton dissolving the Earth-Springlake Hospital District.

Attorney General's Opinions

Although state employees covered by 1966 amendments to the federal fair labor standards act, have valid claim for overtime pay, the claim does not apply where the worker has been granted compensatory time off the job at time and a half pay, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

Other recent opinions concluded that —Annexation of Briggs Independent School District by Eurnet Independent School District is valid. —A card distribution pyramid plan constitutes illegal lottery. Those which make misrepresentations are in violation of the Texas Consumer Credit Code, and those relying on price fixing or exclusive dealing violate the anti-trust act.

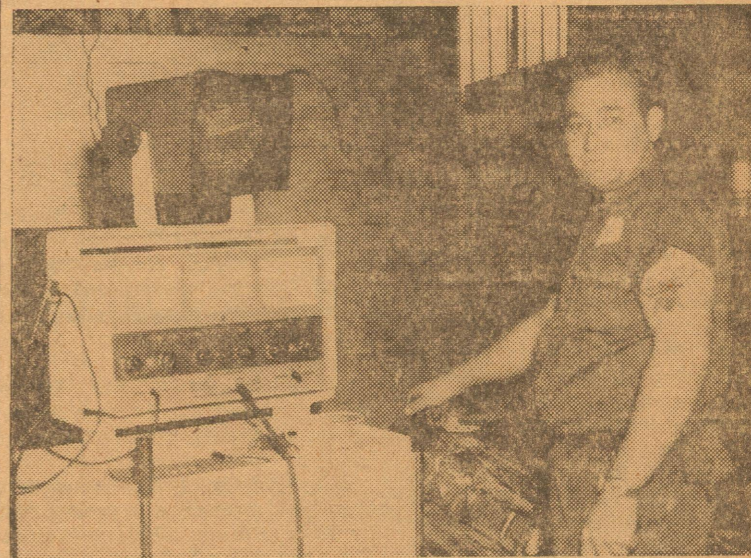

—Eminent domain power proposed for the State Water Development Board under a new bill would be superior to that of local water districts.

Facts About The New Lady-Scout Uniform

In August, 1968, Girl Scout women—volunteers and professional staff—dined a new look . . . contemporary, casual, comfortable and durable. It was the first change in 20 years.

All present uniforms, however, may continue to be used until worn out. Women who have been Girl Scout workers for years continue to claim that "the old uniforms wore like iron." Says a National Equipment Service executive, "some of them looked and felt like iron, too."

The four Girls' uniforms are not being changed.

The new dress is just that—it becomes a uniform only when insignia, etc., are PINNED on.

The Dress: Same basic design dress in two fabrics, color green by Stella Sloat, leading American sportswear creator, with yoke, modified A-line, walking pleats and patch pockets.

The Hat: Miss Emme of New York, a well known hat designer did a Nok-style beret in Dacron and Wool to match the two dresses.

Accessories: A bone colored scarf, nylon, worn tucked inside the neck of the dress. Bone color, 6-button length gloves for formal occasions.

Length: The new dress has a 3-inch hem for personal preference, can be worn midi or mini.

History: The first Girl Scout uniforms, copied from English Guide uniforms, were dark blue duck with a light blue tie—first worn on May Day, 1912, in Savannah, Georgia. In the early days, leaders and girls often wore the same uniforms.

A number of changes (see photo) came ultimately to a Mainbocher, classic design which was worn from 1948 to the present.

A desire for a more contemporary garment expressed by members resulted in the new design which was finally implemented and ratified by the National Board of Directors of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. From decision to racks, the new uniform took about a year. The emphasis now is on uniformity of appearance without a military style.

Sidelights: Although the size most in demand is 14, Girl Scout uniforms are produced in sizes 8 to 44½, which gave the designer a unique problem: What would look well on women of every possible size, shape and taste?

The dress should be comfortable during all their activities, although at camp and in other rough situations leaders wear shorts or slacks like the girls.

Durability is an important factor. A leader complained that her 14-year-old uniform had "abrasions on the front and sleeve." She couldn't understand why!

The Girl Scout National Equipment Service supplies 1,800 retail outlets across the country, which in turn sell some 40,000 adult uniforms per year. The Girl Scout uniform is probably the largest single-design-and-color garment manufactured for women outside the military.

Leaders who find themselves pregnant during their Girl Scout year can ask for proper yardage, buttons, and pattern to make a maternity uniform. One long-time leader wrote in for fabric for the umpteenth time, starting her letter with, "It happened again." The reply: "We hope you have an open-end troop . . . We are sending under separate cover . . ."

625,000 adults will wear the Girl Scout Dress Uniform including troop leaders, volunteers, professional workers, and members of local and national boards of directors.

Old Girl Scout uniforms often find their way to councils to be used by women who cannot afford to buy a uniform. This is also done with outgrown children's uniforms as there is great demand for them by children in underprivileged areas who wouldn't feel part of their troops without proper uniforms. Some councils avoid the "hand-me-down" onus by calling these "experienced uniforms."

New Look For Girl Scout Adults

The 600,000 adult members of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. have adopted a new uniform. The familiar two-piece dress Girl Scout leaders have worn for some 20 years has been replaced by an up-to-date dress. More than 26 million girls and women have belonged to Girl Scouts since the organization was founded in 1912, and the Girl Scout style was generally in line with the era—though bloomers were frowned upon in the early days. Times have changed.

Basketball was the forward-looking order of the day in 1912 in Savannah; today's Girl Scouts are more likely to be involved in broader fields—style shows, service projects, aviation, and community affairs. But the fundamental values of the movement remain constant, though uniforms and activities change with the needs of the time.

The Girl Scout leader's new look is comfortable, durable, and good-looking . . . but most important, it is a visible sign that Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. are constantly aware of the changing needs of American youth.
