The Tuesday explosion at City Boot Shop on east Highway 80 was centered in this pictured backroom workshop. Owner H. G. Veal was trapped in a basement stairway located just to the left of the room by the explosion. Cause of the blast, second in the area in 2 months, had not been determined Thursday.

Lease Signed for City Landing Strip

Land for a municipal landing strip for Colorado City became a reality Tuesday when the final lease contract was signed by landowner O. B. Trulock Sr. and Mayor Glenn R. (Bob) Robinson.

The contract names the terms of a lease of approximately 50 acres of land from Trulock to be used as a municipal landing strip.

The land is located 1 mile north of Interstate Highway 20, 1 1/2 miles east of Colorado City. It is in section 36, block 26 of the Texas and Pacific Railway survey.

The contract calls for a primary lease of 20 years— from Jan. 1, 1960 to Dec. 31, 1980— at $1,600 per year.

The city retains an option to lease the land, at the same terms, for another 20 years at the end of the primary lease.

The leased land is a strip 500 feet wide and 4,000 feet long upon which a dirt runway for light aircraft will be constructed.

Mitchell County will join with the city in connection of the strip. The county will furnish equipment and labor for the construction with all funds coming from the City.

The commissioners reported this week that the construction was expected to begin soon, but the starting date would depend upon the equipment available by the county when not in use on regular county construction.

The contract ended a years-long effort by local city and county officials to secure land for a municipal airport or landing strip.

The site was 1 of many investigated by the City Council during the past few years. The council heard a favorable report from an engineer before entering into the contract with Trulock.

World Needs Service, Kiwanis Told

Better human relations is the desperate need of the world today. That's what Kiwanians were told here Tuesday by Warren A. (Bud) Farrell, director of civilian personnel at Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring.

And Farrell emphasized that the improvement in these relations begins with each citizen in his or her every day living.

Our human relations must be synonymous with the Golden Rule, he said, and that is the assurance that everyone under our limitations gets a fair shake.

Personal relations are part of every day life, the personnel director explained. These are extremely important, too, he said— so important that our attitudes may even determine life or death.

Therefore, it is even more important today that each person develop his individual God-given personality to the best and to develop himself to be of service.

"Business men formerly thought only of their own economic well-being," Farrell said. "But now they are interested in the economic and social well-being of all people."

"In fact, if the world is to survive, we must apply as much time and effort on human relations as we do on scientific development."

"And by developing this art in human relations... we will all have a more satisfying life."

This self-development in human relations, Farrell explained, is centered upon God.

"The greatest of all human adventures is the search for God," he said, "and the greatest achievement is to find Him."

"He is in every man, but we have to look for Him."

Second in Area In Past Months

A fiery explosion at City Boot Shop on east Highway 80 Tuesday morning injured owner H. G. Veal and wrecked the building.

The explosion was the second in 2 months to wreck a business establishment on the north side of Highway 80 inside the city limits.

Veal, 64, was burned extensively on the hands, face and chest by the blast. He was taken to Root Memorial Hospital where he is still a patient.

He was reported to be suffering from second degree burns. The burns were not regarded as serious.

The explosion happened at 10 a. m. Tuesday. Veal was alone in the building at the time of the blast.

Colorado City fire marshal Virgil Eaton reported early Thursday that the cause of the blast had not been determined at that time. He stated that an investigator from the state insurance board was expected to arrive sometime during the day to investigate and make a full report.

Veal reported that he was in the basement of the building at the time of the blast. He said he had just turned on the basement light switch.

Veal was trapped on the stairs leading into the basement by debris. He was freed by an unidentified traveler who had stopped at a service station just north of the damaged building. The witness stated that he had to break through the back door of the building and remove some debris to get to Veal whom he could hear calling for help. A large bench-table had trapped Veal near the top of the basement stairway.

The blast blew out the front windows of the establishment and completely wrecked the back room where it was believed centered. A plate glass window was broken at the service station next door. No fire resulted from the explosion although the actual blast was described as a "ball of fire."

Speculation as to the cause of the blast.

Two new producers were reported in Mitchell County oil fields this week.

R. S. Anderson and Manor Oil Co. No. 1-B Ellett pumped 55 barrels of 26 gravity oil with 17 per cent water on initial potential. It is in the Turner-Gregory (Clear Fork) field.

The gas-oil ratio was nil for the new oiler drilled to 2,797 feet from an elevation 2,159 feet. Casing was set at 2,797 feet.

Pay was topped at 2,517 feet and perforations were at 2,517, 2,522, 2,573, 2,579 and 2,585 feet.

The new producer is located C. N. E. NE, section 25-29-1N, T&P survey, on a 120 acre lease 5 miles northwest of Westbrook.

Fortune Producing Co. No. 1 A. C. Mills pumped 26 barrels on initial potential with 1 per cent water after being acidized with 3,000 gallons. It is another oiler for the Sharon Ridge (1700) field.

The well bottomed at 1,655 feet and 5 1/2 inch casing was set at that depth. Pay was topped at 1,562 feet with perforations between 1,562-1,626 feet. The gas-oil ratio was nil.

1 INCUMBENT RE-ELECTED

3 Newcomers Elected To Positions on Council

City voters Tuesday elected 3 new members to City Council, re-elected 1 and denied the bid for re-election by another.

Elected to first term seats on the city governing body were Martin Weaver, C. G. (Skeet) Harkins and R. B. (Bob) Carver. Sam L. (Buzz) Majors Jr., was successful in his bid for a second term and Ira L. Utz, seeking his second term, was defeated.

Also going down to defeat on the 7-candidate ballot were Robert (Buster) Aycock Jr. and E. M. (Ed) Owen.

A total of 702 ballots were cast in the election— just 14 short of the near-record 716 cast last year when 3 council seats were at stake.

Harkins, a tester in the Col-Tex Refinery laboratory, led the vote getters with a total of 452. Right behind him was Martin Weaver, business manager of Root Memorial Hospital, with 439 votes. Both were not only seeking their first council term, but also their first public office.

Majors, a partner in Majors Jewelry, won re-election to his place on the council by gaining a total of 391 votes. Carver, owner-manager of White Auto Store, was successful with the fourth highest number of votes— 388.

Aycock, partner at Colorado Machine Shop, made a surprise showing with a total of 361 votes— just 27 behind Carver's successful bid.

Utz, owner of Colorado Tire and Supply, gathered 287 votes in his re-election bid and Owen, retired Shell employee, trailed the pack with 244 votes.

Four other citizens received 1 write-in vote each. They were C. F. Wakefield, Kearney Vowell, Jack Wood and Carroll Walker.

The newly elected council members will take their oaths of office Monday night at the April meeting of the body and will join holdover members Mayor Glenn R. (Bob) Robinson, H. I. Berman and Dr. John Chinn.

The 3 new members replace Utz, who had served 1 term, A. W. Hubbard, who did not seek re-election after 1 term, and present mayor, protom Lawrence Ruddle who did not seek re-election after 4 2-year terms of office.

The election marked the second time in as many years that 3 new members were elevated to City Council posts. The result is that Robinson, Chinn, Berman and Majors make up the veteran corps of the body. Majors, with 2 years of council experience under his belt will be the only member with more than 1 year of experience when the new council meets Monday night.

The official ballot canvass shows the following number of votes: Utz, 287; Weaver, 452; Harkins, 439; Carver, 391; Aycock, 361; Owen, 244; Wakefield, 1; Vowell, 1; Wood, 1; Walker, 1.

HAMMOND, BLACKARD

Light Vote Elects 2 School Trustees

R. Y. Hammond and Joe L. Blackard were elected to the Colorado Independent School District board of trustees in Saturday's election.

They were the only candidates listed on the ballot and both easily were elected to the 2 board seats open. Only 105 votes were cast in a very light turnout of the voters.

Blackard received the most votes, 92, in the race to gain election to his first term of office on the board. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Max Caddell in November.

Hammond, seeking his second term on the board, received a total of 83 votes. He was elected to his current term in 1958.

Although 23 write-in votes were cast, the race never reached the peak it reached in 1960 when a total of 272 votes were cast as a heavy write-in campaign resulted at the last minute.

Write-in votes were received by 7 persons who were not announced candidates. G. O. Hudson headed the list as he received a total of 14 write-ins.

Others were Curtis E. Latimer with 3, R. H. Ratliff with 2 and C. G. (Skeet) Harkins, Lewis Williams, J. C. Pritchett and B. H. Wood, all with 1.

Hammond and Blackard will be sworn in for their 3 year terms Monday night in the regular monthly meeting of the school board.

Jaycees Hear Majors Talk on Local Industry

Sam L. (Buzz) Majors Jr., member of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce's Industrial Development Committee, kicked off the local observance of Texas Industrial Week Tuesday with a talk to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Majors' talk was just 1 of the many activities of the week, sponsored locally by the Industrial Team and the Chamber's Industrial Development Committee.

Other activities included a talk tonight (Thursday) by Paul D. Marable Jr., who is manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at a town meeting in Civic House.

Charley Thompson, president of the Industrial Team, will speak Friday at the Lions Club meeting at Civic House.

One of the big attractions of the week is the display of local manufacturer's products in the lobby of City National Bank.

Included in the display which will continue through Saturday, are products made by Shearer Cabinet, Rex Neal, Wayne Russell, Blocker Intyprines, Stone Manufacturing Co., Bodine Brothers, Fuller Manufacturing Co., Tumblewood Co., Col-Tex Refinery, Colorado Feed & Seed, Texas Electric Service Co., Colorado Cotton Oil and Farming's Cans.

Majors, who was introduced by Bob Rely, told the Jaycees Wednesday that the job of industrial development was not just the job of the Chamber of Commerce or the Industrial Team, but was the job of every resident.

"We must all work together to bring in new industries and to develop the one we now have," Majors stated.

"Our job is to stem the tide of population decline in both the city and Mitchell County in the past 10 years. We must build a better mouse trap to stop this trend," he said.

"We must make the most of our tremendous geographical location, our large supply of water and our other assets to attract new industry but to do so we must work together," Majors concluded.

United States Representative Jim Wright carried Mitchell County in Tuesday's balloting to name a United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson according to unofficial returns.

The county totals will not become official until sometime the first of next week when the County Commissioners canvass the votes. They are expected to start their canvass Tuesday.

Wright amassed 508 votes out of the 1,007 votes cast in the county to lead all other candidates. There were 70 on the ballot by a wide margin.

Just behind Wright was incumbent Senator William Blakley who gathered 437 votes. Blakley and Republican John Tower were the only candidates in the race for the Senate seat as they polled the most votes across the state.

The 70 on the ballot were: Wright, 508; Blakley, 437; Tower, 70; and 13 write-in votes.

Wright was 177 votes in

IN LUBBOCK JUDGING

Colorado City Garden Club Yearbook Wins First Place

Colorado City Garden Club yearbook was recognized as first place winner for 1961 in judging at Lubbock last week. The yearbook, compiled by members of the club, was judged in District I, which consists of 58 counties. This is the first year the club has won first in district with their yearbook, but they did win honorable mention at state last year.

The book was judged in the regular division with other divisions being standard and advanced. Members on the yearbook committee were Mrs. L. J. Taylor, Mrs. R. J. Porter and Mrs. H. Jene Steakley.

Program committee included Mrs. L. L. Comer, Mrs. John Bell and Mrs. Charles Wakefield. Mrs. Roy Davis is club president.

The book was judged on the basis of arrangement and program contents. It included book form, arrangement of material and subsequent pages.

Out of a possible 100 points, the club scored 96.

VOLUNTEERS FOR OUR YOUTH

One glance at the youngsters with gloves, bats and baseball lets us know that Little League and Pony League baseball is arriving fast on the Spring calendar. The fine new field just north of Wolf Stadium is another sign, too. Volunteer citizens and firms put their shoulders together during the last year to make this new playing facility a reality for our Pony League youngsters and Colorado High baseball team. Joining in the coordinated effort were city and school officials.

This annual baseball program of Little League and Pony League is a splendid community asset. Hundreds of boys participate in the program—learning good sportsmanship, conditioning their bodies and minds with exercise, learning the assets of team play, keeping busy in wholesome recreation.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company long has recognized the goodness of programs like this. And the recognition is not just token or vocal—it is evidenced throughout all levels of the company.

For instance, here in Colorado City our company's wire chief, J. O. Woods, is president of Little League this year. His job is man-sized as any supporter of Little League realizes.

Working right with the boys on the field will be at least 2 other Southwestern Bell employees—A. W. Hale, manager of a Major League team, and Leon Light, who will manage a Minor League team.

True, this trio is only a part of the Little League program—part of a fine group of adults who help build better boys and better communities. But Southwestern Bell is proud to be represented among these adults who have contributed so very much over the years for your kids and mine.

SPRING PHONE FAIR

We're busy at the telephone company, too, getting ready for spring with an event called Spring Phone Fair. It is to be our way of reminding you about the many new telephone services we have to help you make your home more convenient and attractive.

For instance, how about a new phone in color for a bedroom? Or a wall phone for the kitchen, playroom or work area? Perhaps you'd like the smart Princess phone for your living room—so little, so lovely and it lights. Or maybe you'd prefer the soft musical tones of the bell chime. You can see all of these new telephone services on display at our Spring Phone Fair in the Colorado City telephone business office.

If you don't get a chance to see them and would like more information, just call RA 82091 or ask any telephone service man.

FREE PROGRAMS FOR YOUR GROUP

Since some Colorado City civic, church and social groups already are planning spring programs, this news may be a good sign to remind you of our standing offer to provide entertaining and informative telephone parties for your organization.

A month's duration, the variety of programs available includes: 1. Auto loan illustrations, telephone loans to you, 2. Auto loan illustrations, telephone loans to you, 3. Auto loan illustrations, telephone loans to you, 4. Auto loan illustrations, telephone loans to you.

of the blast included a faulty hot water heater, sewer gas, natural gas and a short in the electrical system that could have set off any of those. Easton stated that a full report would be made by the insurance board's investigator.

Less than 2 months before, the Henry Vaughn Gulf Service station approximately 1 block east of the boot shop was completely demolished by similar explosion. That explosion happened at 1:50 a. m. Feb. 9. It was attributed to leaking natural gas leading from a heater.

Two persons were injured in that blast. Night attendant Lewis Shackelford and C. W. Whitmore, of Rule, were seriously burned.

Eaton reported that no connection could be found between the 2 blasts.

IN SUNDAY CEREMONY

Richardson, Rees Vows Solemnized

Westbrook Methodist Church was the setting Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock for the wedding of Miss Anita Richardson to Robert Rees. Performing the ceremony was Rev. L. G. Flowers of Colorado City. Nuptial music was presented by Miss Vicki Jarrett. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Richardson wore a navy blue sheath dress with a blue and white matching coat. Mrs. Rees wore a tan dress with embroidered flowers. Her attire was accented with an orange hat. Immediately following the wedding, a reception was conducted in fellowship hall of the church. The three-tiered wedding cake centered a table laid with a white linen cloth and cut flowers were used in church decorations and for the reception. Members of the houseparty included Miss Martha Bacon of Westbrook, Miss Carol Stone and Miss Helen Brown, both of Colorado City. The bride is a student of Westbrook High School where she plans to complete her senior year in May. The groom attended Westbrook High School and stationed with the Army at Ft. Knox, Ken. A short honeymoon included a trip to Big Spring.

MRS. ROBERT REES nee Anita Richardson

By The Way...

By PAULINE CORNUTT

How many of you have been attending professional and junior rodeos in the area?

Went to the junior rodeo in Sweetwater this past weekend and saw quite a few people from Colorado City and Mitchell County.

Seems to me that our town could really benefit from a rodeo arena of our own... and one group of citizens are doing something about it, too.

WESTERN RIDING CLUB, a local organization with ROY HENDERSON as president is raising funds to complete construction on a rodeo-roping arena located just east of the Mitchell County livestock barn on west high way 80.

Remember when Colorado City had a rodeo arena a few years back? Everyone looked forward each year to the annual event when they could don their western clothes and head for the rodeo grounds.

Adults and youngsters alike enjoy rodeo sports... not to mention teenagers. This is one type of entertainment the whole family can enjoy together.

I think we can all agree that the junior rodeos are a good recreation for our local cowboys and cowgirls, too. This type of recreation leads the way for an enjoyable sport... learning the need of co-operation and working together... and good, strong competition.

I think everyone should back the riding club as much as possible in their effort to complete the local arena. There are quite a few people here, many of our best citizens, who enjoy riding and roping contests and want a chance to show their skill.

Lets give them a chance to do just that... and give Colorado City a chance to benefit from rodeo events... other towns do it... we can too.

Justice was predominant at High School Tuesday... and in a humorous way too.

Climaxing twirp week... sponsored by the student council... Kanparoo court was conducted to determine if the students had followed the rules set up by the council.

As everyone knows, Twirp week is observed with the girls footing the bill on dates... carrying books (both his and hers) to class... and so forth.

Duty of the court is to punish students who did not obey the rules of the game.

AUSTIN McCLOUD, local attorney was judge for the court and serving on the jury were Kay Majors, foreman; Gayle Williams Bill Newell, Lonnie Robertson, Mary Louise Cox and Buddy Compton.

The results were quite hilarious and everyone seemed to have a lot of fun.

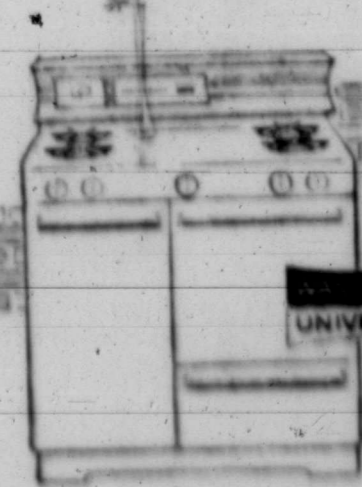

Student council has really been on the ball this year and have sponsored several worthwhile and moneymaking projects.

I think all the members have done a good job with LINDA FARRAR leading the group.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS J. BARBER were among the Easter weekend traffic when they traveled to Monahans to visit with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gainey and grandsons.

They were also on hand to see their grandson, Glenn Douglas, win first prize in the Easter parade for 3 to 6 year-old children.

WRITTEN BY CONRAD RICHTER

"The Waters of Kronos" Tells of Man's Journey Into His Own Past

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of book reviews from the shelves of Mitchell County Federation Library, prepared especially for Colorado City Record readers by Rev. John Brand. This book, "The Waters of Kronos" by Conrad Richter, is available to county readers at the Federation Library.

By JOHN BRAND
Record Book Reviewer

In a novel described as both "haunting" and "beautiful," Conrad Richter tells of the "cruel system that taught you most beautifully and effectively when it was too late." In "The Waters of Kronos," Richter writes of an aged man, John Donner, who returns from the West to his hometown in the East to locate the source of a perplexing mystery. What is bothering the old man is the identity of "the real and ultimate abomination" in his life. He is compelled to return to the area of his upbringing, so as to learn the "actual nature of the monster who haunted the shadows of childhood." He must learn what "went wrong" in his life.

It is evident that his life has been haunted by a ghost. He must learn the identity of that ghost before he dies, else he dies incomplete and strangely afraid. So John Donner goes home. What he does and what he finds is essentially the story told by Conrad Richter (who, incidentally, was recently awarded the National Book Award for "The Waters of Kronos").

The novel is interesting because of what it is saying along with the way it is written. What the writer effects, as Donner attempts to retrieve the past, is an actual return to the past through "The Waters of Kronos." (Kronos is a Greek word for time). The interest of the novel is found in a promise it is making, that being to bring the reader into contact with ultimate reality, or the meaning of life.

Richter is much more successful in the way he tells his story, rather than in what he says. The ultimate reality encountered by the reader, while being live and somewhat real—and certainly captivating—is not the final reality at all; at best, it is a secondary reality, or preliminary one. John Donner resolves his search.

What is to him the meaning of it all comes quite clear in the end. What the reader must ask, however, has to do with the meaning which is so essential to both Donner and the writer. Is this really "the real"? If we travel with John Donner into the past, can we be assured of finding that something which must serve as an absolute guidepost for our futures? The answer is simply that we cannot. What Donner finds cannot be divulged without ruining what can be rich reading experience to the reader. It can and must be mentioned, nevertheless, that what is "redemptive" to him can be but helpful to others.

When John Donner arrives at his hometown, he finds, to his dismay, that, except for the cemetery (which has been moved to higher ground), the whole town is under water, the locus of a government damming project. He is allowed by the guards on duty to "tour" the cemetery. That cemetery has lost its original meaning, as it has been de-personalized by the act of transfer. Graves are the same; and, although they retain their original grave-markers, they each have similar markings which are really location-findings (names with numbers) for the benefit of visitors. Only this remains to an anguished Donner.

He leaves the cemetery to take a walk through what was once familiar ground. He knows now that, as he enters what was once a treasured woodland, he can go only to the point where new fences separate the visitor from the water, or the exile from his homeland. Surprisingly, as he enters the woods, he sees coming from nowhere an ancient riding a wagon similar to one owned by his father. He stops the old man with difficulty, but manages to ride with him to the point where he is going. He learns that the old man is going "to town," to John Donner's hometown, to that place or realm of existence which is not and only was, but which now is.

John Donner goes back through time to a cherished time. The reader hardly bothers to ask how it is being done. He, too, is taken away from the present into the past. John Donner is now alive in the place of his origin—but with an exception: he is the same John Donner, aged, en route to death. The people of his town to the contrary, are younger than he. He finds even his parents, parents though they are, years younger than he. He is, obviously, a stranger.

Even though he remembers, and remembers accurately, facts about the town, people, and events, and even though he can speak intimately with these strangers of things he should not know (and of things that will happen to them) he is barred from really relating to them. Hence the interest in the story is from the standpoint of method, as Richter does more than the ordinary, which is a mere return into the past. The extraordinary is in the phenomenon that, although time is turned back for him, it does nothing to him. He is the same, years older than many who were

IN GAME IN ABILENE

Abilene Junior Varsity Tumbles to Wolves, 3-0

Charles Houston and Steve Hillhouse teamed up to toss a 5-hit shutout at the Abilene Junior Varsity Monday afternoon as the Colorado City Wolves took a 3-0 decision in a game played in Abilene.

Hillhouse took credit for the win, his first of the year, as he came in the fourth to put out the fire after Abilene got a single and double back-to-back to threaten.

In the last 3 innings, Hillhouse faced just 9 batters and struck out 6 of them. Not an Abilene batter reached base after the fourth inning threat.

The Abilene crew got a single in each of the first 3 innings and the 2 safeties in the fourth for all of their damage. Houston added 1 strike out of his own in the second frame.

The Wolves got to loser Osborne, who went the distance, for 6 hits with shortstop Mike Hart leading the way with 2 singles.

The locals got their first run in the third frame when outfielder-infielder Richards stole second and third base after getting on an error. Hart furnished the RBI power to drive him in with the first of his 2 singles.

The Wolves added an insurance run in the fifth inning when Abilene hurler Osborne, with 2 away, let outfielder Womack get on an error. Womack then came racing home on a single by third sacker Don Vest after Hart singled and Hillhouse was issued a pass on 4 straight pitches.

Darrell Royal To Speak at Banquet Here

Darrell Royal, head coach at Texas University in Austin, will be guest speaker at the annual Colorado City Quarterback Club's All-Sports banquet here Monday night, Apr. 2.

The covered-dish banquet will be held at the Primary School cafeteria and is free to the general public. The banquet will honor all sports participants from city schools both boys and girls.

Quarterback Club members are currently sponsoring all boys and girls sports teams in the city, selling all tickets for an All-Sports All-Star game which will be given to the city school system.

Back and forward tickets for the game to be played at the Primary School will be on sale at the Quarterback Club office.

Unity—The Urgent Need For Democrats

Bill Blakely and John Tower, that's for sure, will battle politically in the runoff for the U. S. Senate office vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

This campaign has several twists which will cause Texans to ponder seriously.

First, the campaign is politically significant nationwide as well as Texas-wide because in this special election the Republican Party is making its most serious bid for a Texas Senate position.

Second, the strength exhibited by Republican Tower, who led all candidates in Tuesday's voting with 31.50 per cent of the ballots, emphatically reveals that Democrats must close ranks politically behind Blakely or the Republicans will sweep to victory in the runoff.

This appeal for Democratic unity and Democratic Party loyalty, however, must be made by Blakely, who twice before has jumped the traces and supported Republican presidential candidates Eisenhower and Nixon while others were pleading for unity and party integrity.

Adding to this runoff problem facing Blakely is the possibility that he is not the first choice of most Texas Democrats for Senator — in view of the fact that about 47 per cent of the ballots cast Tuesday was divided among Jim Wright, Will Wilson, Maury Maverick and Henry Gohzeles.

The Colorado City Record was one of those who earnestly supported U.S. Representative Jim Wright for the Senate. This editorial endorsement was on the belief that he was proven material for the position and the best suited to unite Texas Democrats for the greatest voting strength.

However, the failure of Jim Wright to gain a runoff place does not in any manner prejudice The Record in the ensuing campaign. Neither does it erase The Record from responsibility in this campaign and the actual runoff election.

The Record recognizes this runoff for the U. S. Senate as a battle between the basic principles of an aggressive, determined Republican Party and Texas Democrats. And the Republican Party candidate, Tower, is representative of that faction of Republicanism which is negative, reactionary, unrealistic and out of focus with today's national and international problems.

Therefore, The Colorado City Record re-states its faith and concern for Democratic Party principles, endorses the candidacy of Bill Blakely for U. S. Senate and urges all segments of the Texas Democratic Party to unite behind his candidacy.

This may be a bitter pill for some loyal Democrats, in view of previous experiences, but the stake is great. Failure to close ranks will mean 6 years of Republican foot-dragging for Texas in the U. S. Senate.

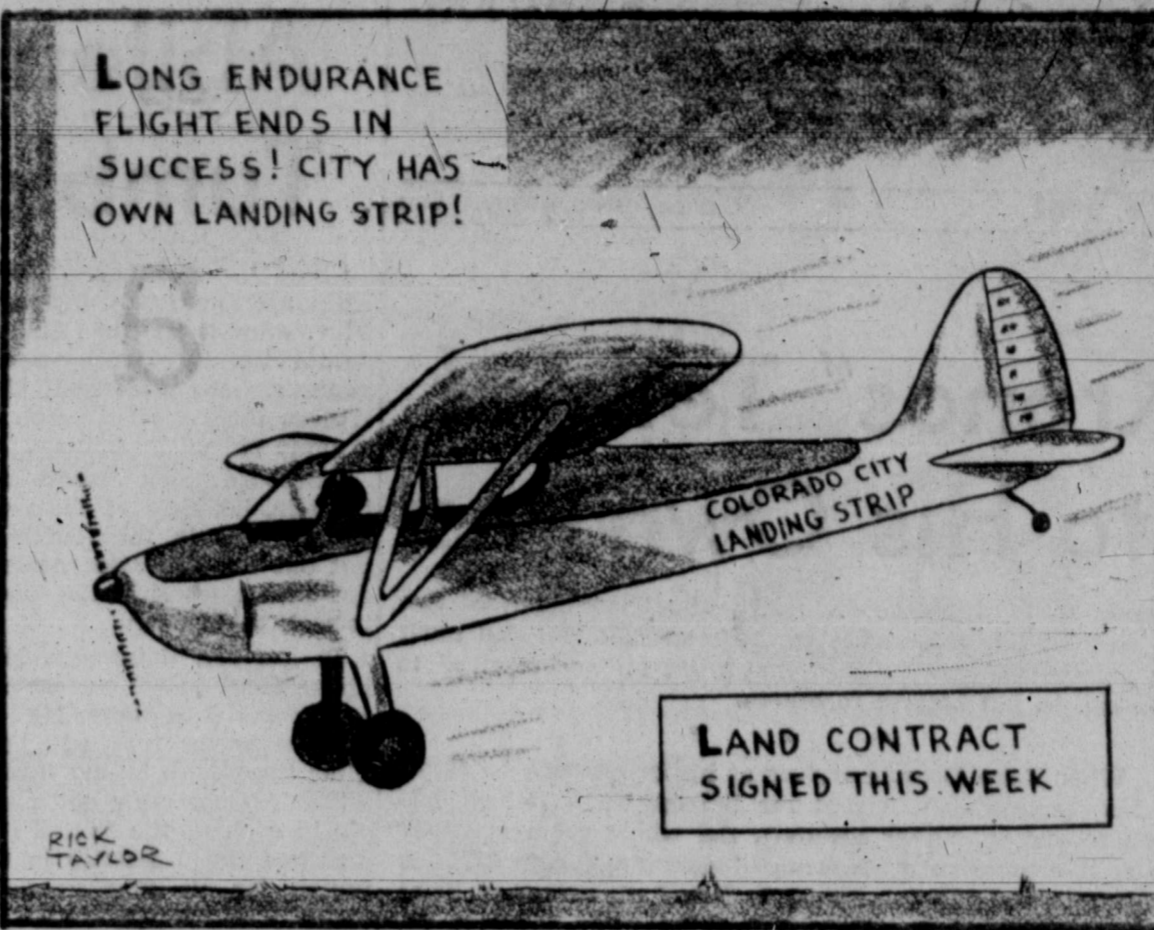

Assistance Increasing For Education

A lot of fine boys and girls have worked their way through college in years past but know that it is becoming harder to do. For one thing, there is so much to learn, especially in fields like medicine, that a student doesn't have much time or energy left for hoping tables or delivering laundry, or even making the friends which are so important a part of college life. Costs are spiraling, too.

Fortunately, there are alternatives for bright but broke youngsters. Thousands of young people, are discovering they can go to college on borrowed money. Borrowing for higher education has grown from $13 million in 1956 to an estimated $230 million last year.

Under the 1958 National Defense Education Act, nearly $71 million has already been turned over to some 1300 colleges to lend to students. Since each college must put up one dollar of its own funds for each nine it gets from the government, more than 78 million dollars has been available from this source.

A CATCHALL BILL

State Senate Passes Bill to Erase Half of Large Deficit

By VERN SANFORD, Texas Press Association. Texas Senate now has a tax bill — one designed to wipe out about half the deficit that is expected to be about $63,000,000 when the new fiscal year starts September 1.

Revenue-raising measures must be passed by the House before they can be considered by the Senate, and the upper chamber has waited with polite impatience for the House to send it something to work on.

Passed 85-60 by the House was the so-called "loophole bill" by Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger. It is a sort of catchall bill that (1) plugs up some leaks in the revenue bill passed last session, taxing central air conditioners, juke boxes, etc. (2) provides for a transfer of 1 per cent of the permanent school fund to the available school fund, (3) sets up a two-factor formula for corporate franchise taxes and (4) levies a state gift tax of one-half the federal gift tax.

Caption of the Ballman bill is broad enough that a variety of other money raising plans could be added to it should legislators be able to agree to them.

Meanwhile, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee still has a lot of other tax bills in the mill. Three sales tax bills were sent to subcommittee, as well as a hotly debated proposal to levy a 10 per cent tax on trading stamps.

A trading company spokesman said there is only a 3 per cent profit on the operation and that a 10 per cent tax would put them out of business.

On the other hand, stamps were attacked as "counterfeit money" and an unnecessary burden on both mer-

STRIKE 3 — Texas Supreme Court made short work of a 1959-passed tax law that many lawmakers had hoped would be a potent future revenue raiser.

Without issuing an opinion, the high court agreed with the trial court and civil appeals court that the severance beneficiary tax on gas is unconstitutional.

Although three state courts have turned thumbs down on the gas tax, the last chapter remains to be written by the U. S. Supreme Court. As passed in 1959, the gas tax was low (1 1/2 per cent of market value), but supporters had indicated that if the law survived its court battles, the rates would be raised to bring in more money.

TEXAS AGRICULTURE

Rise in Food Costs Is Relatively Light

By JOHN C. WHITE, Agriculture Commissioner

While the most frequent public complaint about rising living costs concerns food, the fact is that real, medical care and transportation have gone up twice as much as food during the past 10 years.

This is a point frequently emphasized by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman during his brief term in office, and it is apparent he wants to have it repeated again and again.

For understanding of the farm problem, says the secretary, "I am convinced that success depends in no small measure" on how well the message can be carried to the non-farm public.

Evidences of this need for greater understanding abound," he has pointed out. "Only recently a Gallup Poll revealed that the most frequent complaint on the part of the general public was concern about the increased cost of food; yet the fact is that costs of rent, medical care and transportation have increased twice as much as that of food during the past 10 years.

The relatively slight rise in food costs has been one of the principal noninflationary aspects in our economy in recent years. If the price level in fact had increased in proportion to other prices, and if such increase had been equal to the increase in food prices, the

TAYLOR - MADE

By RICK TAYLOR, Record News Editor

DON BENSON, present Jaycee president who plies his trade (whatever that means) for Texas Electric Service Co., states that the best qualifications for Jaycee president is some one who is foolish enough to think he can hold the office and his job too.

But as the old saying (which Taylor - Made just made up) goes, "The dictionary is the only place where success comes before work." So lots o' luck to DREW BALLARD who is the only candidate, thus far, for the Jaycee top spot.

EARL KEATON, city manager of this fair city, isn't a vegetarian, but he does say mixed greens are good for you — especially those five, tens and twenties.

TAYLOR-MADE has been nursing a slight limp the last few days.

Seems pride and joy, Randy woke up during the night not too long ago screaming. Taylor-Made — stumbled from the master bedroom, through the hall and to his side and soon had him calmed down and back to sleep.

It was then that all the fun started. Gingerly retracing his steps in the dark, the Shadow made it to the hall — and stepped right into the big middle of Randy's wagon.

First he took a hectic 2-wheeled tour of the bathroom, emerged frightened but unhurt, had a bumpy cruise over the floor furnace grate in the hall, and made a right and headed into the living room.

There the ride ended — right in the middle of the 4 1/2 foot high bookcase. Said same book case was draped around this traveler's (?) shoulders and what volume was left lying right in front of his eyes? Why it was a few hundred pages encased in a bright cover that read, "The Last Voyage." And that's just what the Shadow hopes it was.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

The Problems of The Telephone Age

Editor's note The Shinnery Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek must have been using a neighbor's telephone, his letter this week implies.

I know everybody is supposed to be concentrating hard on the solution to the problem in Laos, but a man can stand just so much of these high-level problems and has to rest his mind occasionally by working on small ones.

What threw me off the major problem was an article I read in a Sunday newspaper which I didn't get hold of until Wednesday, which is soon enough, about progress being made with the telephone.

As I understand it, the telephone company is working hard all the time to improve service, and everybody has to admit the phone today is better than it was a generation ago, but the thing can be carried too far.

For example, they're working on a dialing system now whereby you can dial more than one number at a time. It's a fact, you may be able to dial three or four numbers and carry on conversations with all of them at the same time, in a sort of general conference.

Now this may be handy for busy executives in business or for housewives trying to decide in a hurry what kind of sandwiches to serve at the reading club.

but has the telephone company ever stopped to think what teenagers will do with this system? They'll break down the communication network. Instead of tying up two telephones for two hours, they can tie up four. This is the way with a lot of progress. It finally becomes so unwieldy it defeats its purpose, like cars in a traffic jam, and the only answer is to work harder and put in a second phone for your own use, and for the amount of work it takes to pay for both, you could walk over about as cheap and see in person the man you wanted to talk to on the phone in the first place.

Also, telephones are becoming too thorough. The purpose of a telephone, as far as I'm concerned, is to reach somebody without having to go see him, but they're working on new phones that'll reverse this, and make it possible for people to reach me on the same terms. If you're not at one number, the phone will automatically trace you to the next one; if your phone is busy, it'll wait till you have up and then ring immediately. Why, even if you're off on a tractor, it's possible to reach you by phone. This is going too far.

As far as I'm concerned, a phone is to reach somebody else with, not for somebody else to reach me with. I'd better get back to working on Laos. Yours faithfully, J. A.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Newspaper Oldest Advertising Media

By MADGE BELL. The newspaper is the oldest of advertising media. For more than two centuries, almost all advertising was done in newspapers.

But during the 20th Century communications methods changed as rapidly as transportation vehicles. During the 1920's there was a great increase in magazine circulation. In the 1930's the radio covered the country. Today, television has attained a similar status.

During the rise of each new medium, opinions were voiced that the newspaper would join the horse-and-buggy in history. Yet during these periods newspaper circulation continued to increase and the investment in newspaper advertising increased even more rapidly.

Thus in the year 1961, the newspaper remains the dominant advertising medium of the nation. In local communities, the newspaper has not been seriously challenged as the basic retail advertising medium.

The newspaper has been able to retain its favorable position for a simple reason: No one has found a substitute for the newspaper, especially from the standpoint of convenience to the shopper.

Consider the want ad page, for instance. It may contain 6,000 words. It may offer up to 500 different items to the consumer, giving specific information about each. An hour would be required to present this information over the air.

Even if a listener or viewer were willing to sit through an hour of want ad presentation, he would remember practically nothing from the advertisements. And even with the waste of time he could never be sure the information he sought would be covered.

But in the newspaper want ad section the consumer may check on information of interest to him in a matter of seconds — at his convenience.

either his contemporaries or his elders. It is this which lends a note of anguish to the novel. John Donner is characterized by the feeling of futility. How can he learn the nature of his malady when he is but a stranger and menace to his townspeople?

It is in the meeting between Donner and his family his father in particular, that heightens one's interest in the book. The object of continuing interest, however, is in his planned meeting with his mother. His mother, and no other, he feels, can help him in his search. Although his mother is younger than he, he is still baby to her (or would like to be such), and longs to be mothered by her.

But when he meets father, aunts and uncles (those who formerly loved, mothered, and babied him), he is viewed by them as a senile, helpless, incoherent fanatic. It is only when he meets himself that he finds the slightest semblance of hope. He, the aged, meets himself, the boy. He asks the boy if he, in his sleep, has been bothered by a menacing voice. Is there someone, he asks, of whom the boy is deeply afraid? The boy hesitates, afraid to answer but startled at the uncovering by another of his secret. The boy then flees from his older self to come, but not without partially divulging the secret.

The sadness of the book lies in the writer's affirmation that life is the cruel system that teaches you "most beautifully and effectively" when it is too late. Even if Donner finds the real secret, he aids himself only for the short time before his death. He can do nothing for the boy who must seek and find only when it is too late. "If the young could only know," he whines, "but then they wouldn't be young any more."

One would be unwise to deny in full Donner's findings. Man does learn, but ever so slowly and painfully. Much of what he learns is either preliminary or later. But can his ultimate finding be no more than a death-bed finding? If true, the human creature is little more than the animal who perseveres only until finding the right place to die. Man would then last only up to the point of a finding, a finding which he can neither use nor share. That is the real death preliminary to a bodily dissolution. It denotes more than the death of a man, as it points to a dying Man as well.

To some (in fact, many), there is hardly a truth other than this: that the human creature lives in order to discover the meaning of his life, a meaning available to him only when it is too late and beyond any beneficial use. It is for this reason that the novel is dismaying, although necessitating a deep involvement on the part of the reader. It promises him an encounter with ultimate reality. The reality it introduces to the reader is final, but only in the sense of offering him no way out of the entanglement of the human situation. It is with difficulty that the reader, of necessity, removes himself from that situation, so as to relocate a reality that is open now to meaning, participation, and some semblance of redemption.

Profits From Livestock Cut By Diseases

The prevention and control of plant diseases are important in livestock production because profits depend on maximum yields from pastures and crops.

In many instances, says Jack Burkhalter, Mitchell County Agent, the weather soil or planting seed get the blame for low production when plant diseases cause the losses. Too, he adds, poor quality feed or forage often results from damages caused by plant diseases. Such feed does not contain the high proteins and other essentials necessary for good animal health, says Burkhalter.

The fungi, bacteria and other germs which cause plant diseases cannot be seen with the naked eye. And plant diseases are difficult or impossible to control once they have infected a crop. However, he says, many can be prevented. For example, the treating of planting seed with a good fungicide will aid in control-ing some feed and forage crop diseases. Burkhalter suggests that good, carefully selected seed which is dry, sound and free from combine injured seed coats be planted. Also that the seed be planted in a warm, mellow soil. Cold and wet soil favors seedling diseases.

He recommends that rotation be followed with annual feed and forage crops because growing the same crop on the same land year after year tends to increase plant disease problems. If an adapted, resistant crop variety or hybrid is available, Burkhalter strongly urges its use. For as he puts it, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure in preventing plant disease losses.

Did you know Gasoline is Taxed at a Rate 5 Times as High as Diamonds?

IN TEXAS, YOU PAY 90¢ TAX ON 10 GALLONS OF GASOLINE

Gasoline taxes will be lowered— if the latest temporary Federal gasoline tax increase expires on June 30th as scheduled by the 1959 Federal Highway Act.

Along with all good citizens, we are in favor of building the roads that the motoring public needs. But, in the last 10 years alone, Federal and State taxes nationwide on gasoline have skyrocketed 31%—skyrocketed to a point where gasoline, a basic commodity, is actually taxed at a rate five times as high as luxuries like diamonds and mink coats.

Must gasoline taxes be so high? Most people believe that gasoline taxes are high because the money is needed to pay for our national highway program. This is not so.

The fact is that out of every highway-user tax dollar collected last year by the Federal government, more than 40 cents was diverted to non-highway purposes.

If these highway-user tax revenues were spent for highways—as they should be—gasoline taxes could be lowered, and the highway program given a boost.

In fact, the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1959 provides that when the added temporary Federal gasoline tax expires on June 30th, 1961, as scheduled, some $802 million a year in highway-user taxes—now diverted to the U. S. Treasury's general fund—will instead be deposited in the Highway Trust Fund.

As a result, if the latest Federal temporary gasoline tax increase expires on June 30th as scheduled—the national highway program will actually get $225 million more each year than it now receives from the latest Federal temporary gasoline tax increase.

In January of this year, after an exhaustive 2-year survey of national transportation policy, a special U. S. Senate study group confirmed the wisdom of this decision.

This will be good news for you. You will be able to enjoy a steadily improving highway system, at a lower gasoline tax-rate.

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT TODAY'S HIGH GASOLINE TAXES.

- In Texas, you pay 90¢ tax on 10 gallons of gasoline.
- You pay 9¢ tax a gallon—4¢ in Federal taxes plus 5¢ in State taxes.
- Gasoline is taxed at a rate 5 times as high as diamonds.
- The average Texas motor vehicle owner pays $78 a year in gasoline taxes.
- Since 1951 there have been three increases in the Federal gasoline tax alone.
- In the last 10 years, gasoline taxes nationwide have skyrocketed 31%—yet the national average price of gasoline itself has risen only 2.5% during the same period.

The Gasoline You Buy Is Taxed Too High!
