MRS. HOWSE GETS 15 YEARS FOR SLAYING

Construction Of New $400,000 Federal Building To Start By Oct. 15

DALLAS FIRM LOW BIDDER ON CONTRACT

Company to Start Moving Equipment to Wichita Next Week

AID TO EMPLOYMENT

Project Here Expected to Require Big Crew for Several Months

Equipment for the construction of Wichita Falls' new postoffice and federal building will begin to arrive here within a week, representatives of the H. W. Underhill Construction company, low bidders on the job, told Herbert Voelcker of Voelcker & Dixon, architects, in a telephone conversation from Dallas Tuesday.

However, the actual work of excavation, preparatory to construction, is not expected to begin before Oct. 15, it was said.

Although the Underhill company submitted the lowest bids, the actual award of the contract will not be made until a thorough examination is made of the bid to determine whether or not all specifications have been complied with. This usually requires a week or 10 days, it was said.

Two plans for the postoffice construction were submitted for bids. The Underhill bids were low on both plans. More than 40 construction concerns filed bids for the work.

The Underhill bid for plan No. 1 was $397,963, and for plan No. 2, the bid was $408,860. The difference in the two plans is that stone is specified for the facings and court walls in the alley in plan No. 1, where plan No. 2 calls for brick.

Nathan Wohlfeld of Dallas, submitted the next to lowest bids, with $405,000 and $420,000 respectively for the two plans.

In the event that the Underhill bid has complied with all requirements, it is mandatory that the low bidder be awarded the contract. The successful bidder is required to post satisfactory bond.

Bids for the construction of the postoffice here were opened Monday afternoon in the office of the supervising architect of the department of the treasury at Washington.

The site for the building, on Lamar avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets, has been cleared and ready for construction for several months. The starting of construction is expected to furnish employment to a large number of local laborers, and also will bring into Wichita Falls for several months a number of more skilled workers regularly employed by the construction company.

Five Major Industries Announce 10 Per Cent Reductions in Wages

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (US)—Five large industrial corporations, headed by United States Steel, today announced wage and salary cuts affecting many hundreds of thousands of workers and employes.

United States Steel, world's largest industrial enterprise, cut wages of all laboring employes 10 per cent. Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube followed big steel's lead.

General Motors announced that all of its salaried employes would be reduced from 10 to 20 per cent. The United States Rubber company established a five-day working week, reducing wages 9 per cent.

Two hundred and twenty thousand employes of United States Steel alone are affected. Bethlehem employes number 61,000.

The steel corporation in August had reduced salaries of all "white-collar" employes 10 to 15 per cent. Simultaneous with the cut in salaries, the steel corporation had reduced the dividend on its common stock by 43 per cent, from $7 to $4 annually.

The United States Steel payroll in 1930, including both wages and salaries aggregated $381,000,000. It is estimated that the payroll of the steel industry by following the U. S. Steel action will be reduced probably between $75,000,000 and $100,-000,000.

The statement, issued by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, and James A. Farrel, president, follows:

QUINN ACCUSES BROTHER OF SLAIN WOMEN

Jesse and Zexia Griffith's Kin Subpoenaed for Death Trial

DEFENDANT CHEERFUL

Dapper Rum Runner Confident of Acquittal as Case Opens

NEWKIRK, Okla., Sept. 22. (UP)—Startling sensations to come later were revealed in part today when defense attorneys launched their legal battle to save Earl Quinn, charged with the brutal murders of two Oklahoma school teachers, from death in the electric chair.

Quinn, slim and dapper self-avowed bootlegger and former Missouri convict, was called to trial for the killings of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, school teachers. The women were shot to death near Tonkawa last Dec. 28, as they were returning to their school posts after spending Christmas vacation with their parents.

Brother Subpoenaed

The defense, through Attorney James S. Mathers, will attempt to place blame for the murders upon Amos H. Griffith, shell-shocked war veteran brother of the victims. He announced Griffith has been subpoenaed to appear in court.

"Griffith, shell-shocked as he was, had molested his sisters many times with pleas for money," said Mathers. "He hasn't been in the state since."

County Attorney Bruce Potter, however, said he learned Griffith was in Silver City, N. M., at the time the sisters were killed and their bodies left on a lonely roadside.

Records Ordered

Judge John Burger then instructed officials of the Blackwell, Okla., Western Union office to exhibit their records so the court could determine whether a telegram had been sent to Griffith on Dec. 29, the day after the slayings.

The courtroom was thronged with spectators.

Quinn appeared more like a metropolitan business man than a murder suspect when he appeared in court. His suit was grey. He appeared unworried.

"I am innocent of this crime, and will be acquitted," he predicted. "I only want a chance to tell my story to the jury. I can convince any 12 jurors that I had nothing to do with the deaths of these two women."

Wife to Help

His wife, Jean, blonde university graduate, was with her husband.

"I am convinced of Earl's innocence," she said. "I'm standing by him."

States witnesses will testify, Potter said, that Quinn, intoxicated and armed, was riding in his automobile along the same highway the girls drove before their deaths.

"I was there alright. But I was looking for the men who had hijacked my alcohol," Quinn said.

B. C. Wieck, employed by the Griffith family to aid Potter in Quinn's prosecution, withdrew from the trial late today after Judge Burger had overruled Mathers' motions that the special prosecutor be disqualified.

Mathers contended Wieck should not appear in the trial on the side of the prosecution since he once had talked of aiding Quinn's defense.

Potter announced the state ready for trial and Judge Burger adjourned court until tomorrow morning, when selection of a jury will be made.

Mathers also is attempting to seek disqualification of Judge Burger, contending the jurist is prejudiced against the defendant because he is a close friend of the slain girls' parents.

Gang Members Quizzed By Houston Grand Jury

HOUSTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—The Harris county grand jury recessed at 7:15 p. m. today after grilling Jack Jones, Barney McGanegal and J. H. Johnson for several hours in connection with the assassination of Chester A. Jones and his wife and the murder of John Cherris, Dallas gangster.

Jones, who has given information concerning the activities of gangs headed by his slain brother, faced Barney McGanegal, whom he named as the trigger man in the death of Cherris, over the table in the grand jury room this morning.

It was the first meeting of the pair since Jones named McGanegal in the slaying of the gangster. McGanegal was before the inquisitorial body more than two hours during the afternoon.

Windham was founded fatally June 13.

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 22. (AP)—Mrs. Leslie Wilcoxson, 26, former operator of a beauty shop here, died tonight of wounds received early this afternoon as she stood in the doorway of her apartment. Mrs. A. R. Franklin, wife of an Abilene plumbing contractor, who was taken into custody at the home of her mother a short time after the shooting, was at liberty under bond of $6,000 on a charge of murder.

In a statement to W. W. West, city detective, at the hospital, Mrs. Wilcoxson named Mrs. Franklin as her assailant, saying she knocked at the door of her apartment and asked if her husband was there. Mrs. Wilcoxson told the officer, in the presence of newspaper men, that Franklin was in the apartment, and grappled with his wife for the gun after the shooting.

Mrs. Wilcoxson's body was pierced by three bullets and a fourth passed through the upper

NINE STATES ASKED TO JOIN COTTON CUT

Sterling Signs Texas Bill And Invites South to Adopt Plan

LEGISLATION PRAISED

Governors of Other States Refuse to Comment On Plans

AUSTIN, Sept. 22. (AP)—Texas led the way for the South tonight in cotton curtailment with a new acreage reduction law designed to bring farmers relief from overproduction and low prices.

Gov. Ross S. Sterling placed his signature on the measure restricting cotton planting in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the Texas land now in cultivation and forbidding the planting of cotton thereafter on the same land in successive years.

Considering that 51 or 52 per cent of the cultivated area in Texas was planted in cotton this year, advocates of the measure predicted it would reduce cotton planting in 1932 fifty per cent.

Enforcement Provided

Enforcement of the law would be left to county and district attorneys, assisted by inspectors of the state commissioner of agriculture. They are empowered to file injunction suits against farmers failing to abide by its terms, the penalty being from $25 to $100 per acre.

Texas lawmakers had decisively defeated the plan of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana for cotton abandonment in 1932—a measure enacted by his own legislature and later adopted by the South Carolina assembly for that state. What other cotton growing states would do remained in doubt tonight.

Gov. Harvey Parnell of Arkansas was quoted as saying he would not act until he learned the sentiment of Arkansas farmers toward the new Texas law and they were called to meet to give him expressions of opinion.

Governor Russell of Georgia, attending the American Legion convention at Detroit, refused to comment on the Texas cotton acreage reduction law or say whether he would call the Georgia legislature to enact a cotton curtailment program.

Gov. T. G. Bilbo of Mississippi declined today to even discuss the subject of an extra session of his legislature for enactment of cotton relief legislation.

"Farmers' Law"

Gov. Henry H. Horton of Tennessee was quoted from Nashville as saying in a formal statement he would call an extra session of the Tennessee legislature "if and when" he became convinced that no impeachment or investigating resolutions would be initiated and that

Texas Co-Ed Held After Attempt to Speed Up Income

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Charged with using the mails to defraud, Miss Waudean Benton, college graduate of Sebastopol, Miss., was arrested in Baton Rouge today and brought to New Orleans at the request of Inspector Roy H. Cauley of New Orleans. She was graduated in 1926 from a Texas university.

Miss Benton, who looked several years younger than the 24 years she gave as her age, left a position as an apprentice student with an insurance firm about two months ago, because "the money wasn't coming in fast enough."

Inspector Cauley said she signed fictitious names to checks offered to mail order and department stores in payment for goods ordered from them. Cauley said that although she sent checks to New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Memphis stores, she succeeded only with one Memphis house.

MURRAY WAITS OIL AGREEMENT

Tri-State Pact to Allow Wells to Reopen

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22. (AP)—Agreement of oil companies to the terms of a tri-state production pact, published advices from Governor Murray indicated here tonight, is the only condition to reopening of Oklahoma flush oil fields, closed early in August under Murray's martial order.

Previously Murray had demanded $1 per barrel oil.

The production agreement was reached by mid-continent state regulatory officials at conferences here and in Austin recently.

Under its terms Oklahoma would have a daily average flow of 546,000 barrels; Kansas 110,000 barrels and Texas, 902,000 barrels.

Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray, in charge of the military oil shutdown in Oklahoma declared late today that the state's flush fields would not be opened until a satisfactory price for crude is posted.

In making his statement, Cicero Murray intimated that he was disregarding what his cousin, Gov. W. H. Murray, might "think." The governor, at Trenton, Mo., told reporters he thought the wells might be opened Wednesday.

Profitable Price

At the same time, Cicero Murray shed new light on the price situation as it will affect the reopening of this state's prorated areas, shut down Aug. 5 under an executive military edict issued by Governor Murray.

"Do they have to post a $1 a barrel price?" the national guard officer was asked.

"No that $1 price stuff has nothing to do with it. They haven't posted any kind of price," he commented. "The governor said unless the price was raised to $1 by a certain time, he would shut the fields in and he did. Since then, there has been no specific price in mind."

He indicated that the state authorities now were waiting for the oil men to get together and post a price that might be considered fair and profitable to the producer.

Murray made it clear that the Oklahoma fields "positively will not be opened Wednesday." He declared he had the authority to open the fields, "but I am not planning

JURY REDUCES ACCUSATION TO MANSLAUGHTER

Matron Receives Sentence Calmly, But Later Gives Away to Tears

FEW HEAR VERDICT

Defendant Falters When State Cross Questions Her Sharply

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Annie Howse, charged with the murder of Thurman Fitzgerald, Aug. 18, was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree by a jury in district court here tonight, and sentenced to 15 years in the Oklahoma state penitentiary.

The jury, which went out at 5 o'clock this afternoon, reported unexpectedly at 9:45 tonight. A verdict had not been expected before morning.

Few people were in the courtroom. Mrs. Howse received the sentence calmly, but broke into tears as she left the courtroom.

She is the first white woman ever to be convicted of a manslaughter charge in this county.

District Judge Frank Mathews had instructed the jury to find Mrs. Howse guilty of murder with punishment of death or life imprisonment; guilty of manslaughter in first degree with a sentence of imprisonment of not less than four years, or to acquit the defendant.

The jury retired shortly before 5 p. m. to consider the evidence and the court's instructions.

Mrs. Howse Weeps

Mrs. Howse, a comely matron with flashing black hair and eyes, underwent two hours of sharp cross-questioning this morning and when she left the stand she broke down and wept for the first time during her trial.

Stansell Whiteside and Lonnie Yates, defense attorneys, attempted to prove that the shooting was in self-defense in their arguments, declaring she shot Fitzgerald only after he had struck her and pulled her hair. They claimed the shots were fired while Fitzgerald was in a stooped position trying to take the gun from her.

County Attorney Ross Rutherford, assisted by Special Prosecutor John Storey of Vernon, Texas, charged Fitzgerald was killed because of jealousy on the part of Mrs. Howse and that the first and fatal shot was fired while Fitzgerald was walking across the lawn and Mrs. Howse was standing on the porch of the home of Mrs. Blanche Dickson.

Evades Questions

Frequently during cross-questioning Mrs. Howse said that she did not remember or that she did not know and refused to directly answer questions asked her by the prosecuting attorney.

Early in the morning Mrs. Howse exhibited a brown chiffon dress

House Endorses Bills Slashing State Salaries Ten Per Cent

AUSTIN, Sept. 22. (UP)—Ten per cent would be slashed from all state salaries in Texas over $1,600 a year and still heavier cuts made in the fees of county officers in bills approved by the house of the Texas legislature today. One bill cutting the salaries of judges was finally passed. Opponents mustered enough strength to block action on the others until tomorrow.

House economists took up the bills without printing. The more deliberate senate ordered the bills printed first.

Cuts made in the salary bills work a reduction of between $1,750,-000 and $2,000,000 in previous appropriations. No estimate has been made on the fee reduction bill, it provides that maximum fees in counties of not over 37,500 population shall be reduced from $4,200 to $4,000. Larger counties up to 75,000 population have the fee limit reduced from $5,500 to $4,800.

Between 75,000 and 150,000 the new fee limit is $6,000 instead of $8,000 and in counties over 150,000 population it is provided the fee officers shall be paid $4,000 of the fees and one-fourth of the fees above $4,000 to a maximum of $7,-500. They now are allowed $12,500 maximum.

Because of extra hasardous duty, it was provided county commissioners courts may at discretion allow sheriffs 10 per cent extra as ex officio salary.

tee, with a total pledged amount of $8,817.50. Total subscribers thus far obtained by this committee are 101, and their donations total $16,897.50.

Both the Lions and Optimist club memberships are holding their weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday noon at the Wichita club in connection with the community chest army luncheon.

Referring to the progress thus far made, Mr. Cline said Tuesday evening:

"Our total results at the end of the second day's campaign are slightly under those reported at the same stage of the campaign last year. But the workers are finding, as was predicted, that there is a smaller number of persons from whom subscriptions may be expected or obtained. There is, however, a general inclination to accept that added responsibility imposed by that condition.

Two More Days

"With only two days remaining to close the annual campaign as planned, on Thursday evening, it will be necessary that every possible subscriber place his contribution to the community chest at the highest possible figure, if we are going over the top again."

Dallas Exchange Buys 28,000 Bales Daily

DALLAS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Robert Mayer, acting president of the Dallas cotton exchange, announced today that members of the exchange are absorbing this season's cotton crop at an average rate of 28,000 bales daily.

Last Saturday 31,000 bales were purchased on the floor of the exchange. Mayer said that was an all-time record for buying at the present stage of the season.

The heavy buying of cotton was attributed to cotton merchants feeling the market was "right."

FOR THE BEST ANSWERS EXPLAINING THE

MYSTERY of the "HIDDEN QUART"

AND TELLING HOW THIS QUART BENEFITS MOTORISTS

Fact No. 1—Thousands of motorists and service station men have observed that after a car has been given its first fill of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and is driven 200 to 350 miles, a look at the crankcase gauge shows that about one quart of oil is apparently missing . . . but

Fact No. 2—These same people have noticed that on the second and later fillings with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, scarcely a drop of oil will disappear during the first 350 miles and practically none at 500 and up to 1,000 miles!

The above facts have been checked by actual tests with cars that use six quarts of oil for the crankcase, cars in good mechanical condition and driven at ordinary rates of speed. These facts will also prove true for your car, in proportion to the amount of oil your crankcase usually holds, your car's mechanical condition and the speeds at which you drive.

What becomes of the "hidden quart"? The answer is easy if you study the Facts given above and keep in mind the things that only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can do. The explanation of the whereabouts of the "hidden quart" is simple—no technical knowledge of motors or oil is necessary.

Remember—The "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil does not escape through leakage . . . does not burn up, wear out nor evaporate. It is "present but unaccounted for." Fact No. 2, given above, proves all this.

After you've found where the "hidden quart" goes, you can easily see the special benefits it gives the motorist—advantages that no other oil can give.

Ask at any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer for free Entry Blank, which contains information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil that may help you win. Conoco Station and Dealer employees will gladly answer your questions. Remember, you do not have to buy anything to enter this contest.

Any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer will give you, free of charge, a convenient Official Contest Entry Blank for writing your answer.

Answers written on one side only of any plain white paper will be accepted as accredited entries in the contest. But we recommend that you secure an Official Contest Entry Blank, which gives valuable information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and its operation in motors—clues about the "hidden quart" that may help you write an answer that will win a prize.

THE QUESTION—"What becomes of the 'hidden quart' and how does this quart benefit the motorist?"

COMPLETE RULES OF CONTEST

1. Answers may be any length not exceeding 200 words; length of answer will not determine winners. Write answers on Official Contest Entry Blank preferably, or on plain white paper. Conoco Stations and Dealers will give you an Official Contest Entry Blank free. Elaborate presentations of answers will not count in your favor.

2. Write your answer in plain, simple language. Technical terms or special scientific knowledge will not influence the judges.

3. Contest closes midnight, September 28, 1931, and no entries bearing postmarks after midnight, September 28, 1931, will be accepted.

4. Contest open to everybody except employees and executives of the Continental Oil Company, Conoco Stations, Conoco Dealers and the Company's advertising agency, and their families.

5. In case of tie, both contestants will receive full amount of prize tied for.

6. You do not have to use or purchase Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil or other Conoco products to compete for prizes.

7. All entries submitted, whether or not they win prizes, become the property of the Continental Oil Company and may be used in advertising without payment, and none can be returned to senders.

U. S. SHIPPING INQUIRY ASKED

Full Study of Transportation Problem Urged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—A far-reaching investigation of the nation's transportation problem was proposed to the Interstate Commerce commission today during an otherwise dull review of previous arguments in favor of the 15 per cent freight rate increase asked by the railroads.

The suggestion was made by Grenville Clark, of New York, representing savings banks and other railroad security holders. Together with Charles E. Hughes Jr., representing other security holders, he warned the commission that the situation warranted emergency action and that the investment value of railroad bonds was dependent upon the rate raise.

Members Suggested

Clark asked the commission to name three of its members, the secretary of the treasury, the governor of the federal reserve board, the chairman of the interstate commerce committees of the senate and the house and three representatives each of the railroads and shippers to conduct the transportation inquiry.

Some means of co-ordinating activities of the railroads, buses, trucks, pipe lines, steamship companies and aviation organizations would be the aim of the study.

Clark said he was not concerned with placing responsibility for the "critical situation" of railway credit.

"The only thing I am concerned about is the remedy," he said.

Asserting any relief now could at best be only temporary, he suggested a permanent solution could be found through a more sweeping inquiry.

Co-Ordination Needed

With co-ordination of all means of transportation, he said stability would result.

He urged adoption of the suggestion without delay in order that recommendations for legislation would be ready for the convening of congress in December. He said he felt the special commission should recommend a federal tax on interstate bus and truck operation which cannot now be reached by federal regulation.

The steamship companies he said, should be brought under the commission because "they are destroying themselves and the railroads too" with unregulated rate reductions.

Hughes told the commission that 77 per cent of the seven billion dollars worth of railroad securities would be removed from legal investment lists at the end of this year. The only hope, he said, was commission action to increase railroad revenue.

Opponents of the rate raise are expected to be heard tomorrow.

Sunset News

SUNSET, Texas, Sept. 22.—Following a brief illness, Miss Vera Briggs, 25, died at the family residence, two miles northwest of Sunset, Friday, Sept. 18, and was buried in Sunset cemetery Saturday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. C. Nichols, pastor of Turkey Creek Baptist church.

Friends and neighbors of J. N. Baker will meet at his place, two miles northeast of Sunset, Friday morning, Sept. 25, for a day's cotton picking, free of charge. Mr. Baker has been confined to his room all this year, afflicted with stomach and heart ailments. He has been slowly improving for the past several days.

Several singing classes and communities in the county, and some out of the county, were represented at an enjoyable song service held here Sunday afternoon. A number of special singers were present from Alvord, Lake Valley and other places.

Rev. W. J. Stephens filled his preaching appointment at Smyrna, two miles northeast of Sunset, last Saturday evening, Sunday morning and evening, and will preach there again next Sunday morning and evening.

According to a report of J. J. Haralson, Montague county school superintendent, the finances of the schools of this county are in better condition than they were at the close of last year. Some new school buildings are being erected in the county and a number of others have been repaired and made more comfortable. The number of pupils has increased 145 during the year. At present there are 5,535 scholastics in the county.

Illinois' prison population increased almost six times as fast as the state's total population during the year ending July 1.

Dallas C-C to Continue Fight For Cotton Plan

DALLAS, Sept. 22.—The Dallas Chamber of Commerce has just made decision to continue its cotton emergency committee organized for the purpose of opposing the Gov. Huey Long cotton vacation plan as proposed to the Texas legislature. The committee headed by R. L. Thornton of the Mercantile National bank was continued for the purpose of analyzing and, if possible, approving in full the plan offered by Col. W. E. Talbot, agency manager of the Southland Life Insurance company and prime mover in the Texas Industries campaign, for the solution of Texas' economic ills. Col. Talbot's plan in full follows:

"The cotton problem is not going to be solved through legislation, an act of providence, or chance. The solution will take concerted effort of the people of Texas along economic lines. Cotton is not the farmers' problem alone. It also is the problem of the bankers, the merchants and manufacturers; in fact, the entire citizenship of this state. Our export market has decreased and will continue to decrease as new fields are developed in Egypt, Sudan, India and Russia. Our staple has deteriorated and some of our lands have become depleted.

"The following five-year plan asks no aid of legislation but the cool, calm, deliberate action necessary to bring about a solution of this problem:

"First, divide Texas into 28 districts based on trade tributary to their largest city. These would be: "El Paso, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, San Antonio, Laredo, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Brownwood, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Denison, Sherman, Dallas, Cleburne, Waco, Temple, Austin, Houston, Corsicana, Palestine, Greenville, Paris, Texarkana, Marshall, Tyler, Nacogdoches, Beaumont, Galveston.

"The bankers of these areas should organize to control acreage by agreement on loans. These loans should be based on a reduction for the coming year of 33 1-3 per cent of the amount planted in 1930 and loaned only to buy fertilizer and better grade seed, which—with intense cultivation—will increase the length of the staple and give more yield per acre.

"That the chambers of commerce organize the merchants and the citizenship to consume cotton in every conceivable form, then of the southwest, we will build up a prosperous community; cotton will not be the main crop, and will be adjusted to the law of supply and demand. Then we will have a distribution of wealth to a greater number of people and our communities will be self-contained.

"For organization purposes, we will gladly supply any of these communities with the data necessary to organize."

In the report of Mrs. John Q. Humphrey, treasurer, announcement of the $10 gold piece presented to the auxiliary as a reward for the unit making the greatest gain in attendance in 1930-31 was made. A vote of thanks was given to the outgoing president, Mrs. Manoushagian.

Mrs. McDowell, delegate to the 13th annual convention held at El Paso in August, gave an interesting report of her trip and of the work being done and Mrs. A. M. Hutchins, also a delegate, told of the William Beaumont hospital for disabled veterans at El Paso.

Mrs. Ray Kinney gave a report of the committee on scrapbook and posters taken to El Paso as publicity for the unit and plans were completed for holding two meetings each month hereafter, one a business and the other a social session. After a talk by Mrs. Manoushagian concerning the 40 and 8, the meeting was adjourned.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS L. N. CASON

Mr. Webster's definition of a boundary, "that which indicates or fixes a limit, or extent," is understood only in its narrowest application by many a mind. Only the other day I met a man whose native country was bounded by the limits of the state in which he lived. Over yonder," the vague land beyond Texas, was to him a land peopled by citizens with different ideals and ambitions.

A little girl came from a northern state once to visit me; she had never heard the word "yonder," and when it was used as an adverb to indicate a more or less distant place or as an adjective for a place conceived to be in view, she would look up innocently puzzled at hearing it, and say "where is yonder?"

To the child, I imagined, it was a sort of fairyland like the magical land of Oz of which she had heard, or the queer wonderland which Alice entered through the looking glass.

To the man, the "over yonder" outside his state's boundaries was settled by people who had no background like that of Texans; whose horizons were limited; who could claim no Austin nor Houston, no San Jacinto, no six flags.

So, in a manner did my own father feel. He ran away at 16 to become a Confederate soldier in the last year of the civil war. He lived in a portion of Tennessee crisscrossed by northern and southern soldiers and destroyed by guerilla warfare—"bushwhackers," he called them. The destruction of home and property, his mother's suffering and the poverty that came upon them, he laid at the feet of the Union army and he never outgrew his dislike of a "Yankee." His world was bounded by the Mason and Dixon line.

Those people who have these narrow boundaries of vision are only to be pitied. A wide horizon carries glorious possibilities; I think my father, had he lived, would have again become an American with Wilson as president. There was a man of southern lineage, of eastern training and purely an American at heart.

Physical boundaries mean nothing to a baby. But even physical boundaries may be overcome by the mind of man. There is no land where the sun does not rise and set in splendor or where the moon and stars are not eternally great.

There is a land of books that frees the imagination and leads it into lands of magic. There are music and art that bring the most valuable treasures of the world to the door.

Modern discoveries and modern science have broken the boundaries that once hampered vision and today, a man who lives across the world may be as close and often closer—than the next door neighbor.

T. F. W. C. Will Sign Contracts For State Home

Members of the permanent headquarters building committee of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, will probably meet in Houston Thursday to sign the final contracts for the handsome colonial home in Austin, the total cost of which will run about $150,000. Members of the committee had expressed a doubt if the committee was empowered to proceed, but at a meeting Monday at the Baker hotel, Dallas, full authority was given to proceed with all plans.

Eckert-Burton, Dallas, have been awarded the general building contract; Fox-Schmidt, Austin, the lighting and A. H. Shaefer, San Antonio, the plumbing and heating. Each contract was awarded to the lowest bidder.

Reports at the meeting showed that the lot has been paid for in full, at a cost of $12,000, of which $3,260 was given by Austin people. More than $60,000 has been pledged by members toward the clubhouse fund and the federation owns more than $60,000 in securities which they may invest in case the committee decides to issue clubhouse bonds.

A resume of the federation investments showed the ability of the body to begin the clubhouse at once. According to the statement of Miss Marion Mullins, treasurer, the state federation is in excellent financial condition.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

There is but one way to make ourselves understood by others and that is through the use of language. Speak to a man in his own tongue and the whole of him replies to you. Speak to him in another tongue and only the echoes of his empty words reach you.

Each day the world draws closer together as the planes shuttle back and forth across the seas and over the tops of the mountains. The old barriers are melting away. Soon we shall be neighbor to all the world and our tongues must not limp behind our hearts. The more of the world's languages we can master the more fun we shall have in living.

The time to learn a language is when one is beginning to talk. There is a high tide of speech energy in the years between two and ten that we ought to use for teaching languages. And the way to teach any language is to talk it. The way to learn one is to hear it and use it. I do not believe that anybody ever learned to speak a foreign tongue by studying it from a book. Conversation must precede the book.

In our country the children are fortunate in this respect. Many of them have parents, grandparents and relatives who speak a foreign tongue as their own. The people who came from the Old World still think and talk in their own tongue though they use the English speech of America. It is a mistake to let the children neglect that speech. They should master it as well as their own English. Too often they learn to regard their fathers' speech as something to be ashamed of, something to shun, to hide. This costs them a knowledge of another tongue and another literature, both precious, and likely to be more so as the years pass.

Lose no opportunity of teaching little children foreign words. If there is somebody in the family who can use another language well have them talk it to the child so that when he enters school at the age of six he is already a bi-lingual child. The teaching he gets in the school will aid him and he will find his languages come much easier for the earlier training.

I believe that two languages are better than one, and three are better than two. The more the merrier. Children can learn any language they hear. Talking is imitative always. What the child hears often he says. The sooner he begins saying it the longer it will stay with him. The best way of all to learn a new tongue is to live with the people who use it, in their own country.

It is a good scheme to take children to the other side for a couple of years after graduation from high school. They can study there and acquire a finished speech in the foreign tongue. Then they can return and be graduated from their own schools in their own country. The broader experience is well worth the cost.

We are getting over our distaste for foreign tongues. We know now that the better patriotism is born of understanding and the more we know, the more we understand, the better citizens we are.

For a soapy, sudsy bath—use Mel'o

LIKE to have plenty of suds when you're bathing? Then don't bathe in hard water—city water as it comes from the faucet. Soap combines with the hard water, and forms a dirty ring around the edge of the tub. That's scum. And that's certainly not pleasant.

Hard water can be made soft. Just put Mel'o in the water and you have a very remarkable cleaner, with or without soap. Then watch the soap lather! Then watch the suds come! Then watch the scum go! Have you discovered how much more effective Mel'o makes soap? Get three cans today at your grocer's, for the kitchen, the laundry and the bathroom.

Much Interest Manifested In Forum Contract-Lunches

Affter reviewing the first lesson on adequate strength for initial bids as given in her lecture of Sept. 15, Mrs. W. E. Maxson Jr., talked for an hour Tuesday morning at the Forum clubhouse on necessary strength for raising a partner's bid, stressing the fact that regardless of the number of playing tricks in a supporting hand one should never raise without adequate trump support, and that it is most important to keep the bidding open.

Notes were taken by players at 12 tables and following the lecture, contract was played for an hour with Mrs. Maxon giving assistance in bidding and playing. The beauty of the game as one of partnership was particular emphasized.

Luncheon was served in the dining room, where blue ageratum and pink roses made pretty center decorations for each table. During the luncheon, Merle Armitage appeared before the group, making an interesting talk on artists who will appear in Wichita Falls during the fall musical festival week.

RELIEF ASKED FOR FARMERS

Walters Mass Meeting Votes Resolutions

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., Sept. 22.—Responding to the plea for relief made by thousands of cotton growers in southern Oklahoma who are unable to gather and market their crops because of government debts and low market prices representative citizens of southern Oklahoma in a mass meeting at pecan grove Monday evening, adopted a resolution addressed to Gov. W. H. Murray, and the federal relief conference at St. Louis Friday appealing for relief for the cotton growers in southern Oklahoma. The farmers want to be included in the program of relief that is expected to be adopted at the relief conference.

J. C. Nance, chairman of the recent state cotton and wheat conference at Oklahoma City was asked to represent cotton growers at the St. Louis conference. Nance, was requested to present the plight of the cotton grower who is involved in the federal loan plan to the convention and make every effort to secure relief from the stringency of the government's collection policies. Nance agreed to attend the convention and departed Wednesday for St. Louis.

He will also speak for the Western Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce, which has memoralized the federal government for relief for the drouth stricken borrowers.

Thousands of cotton growers are unable to harvest their crops because of the stringent orders issued by the government, governing the collection of federal drouth relief loans made to farmers last year. The farmer is allowed the seed and $7.50 a bale in money to defray the cost of gathering, ginning and marketing the cotton. This amount is insufficient to defray actual expense of processing a bale of cotton. The farmer is therefore left destitute after devoting a year to the production of the crop.

Cotton is selling at five cents a pound and the farmer cannot repay his loan at the present prices.

The farmers condition is serious because he is receiving practically no return from his crop, it was declared at the meeting. He is not permitted to pay any debts or lay up any reserve to maintain himself and family during the winter, to say nothing of finances with which to return to the field next spring to commence another crop. The drouth relief farmer is therefore in worse condition this year than last. His reserves are gone and his spirit is broken.

The appeal prepared here is being supported by practically every cotton producing county in the state.

Tubercular Clinic Aids Five in Halting Disease

Much improvement was shown in the condition of five persons who were re-examined after three months at the free tuberculosis clinic here Tuesday afternoon.

Eight cases were examined at the clinic, which is held monthly by the Wichita County Tuberculosis association for the benefit of those unable to pay for services. Five of the cases were examined at the first clinic in June. At that time, according to Miss Mary Quinn, association secretary, symptoms of tuberculosis were prominent in the conditions of the five.

They were told to report for a second examination at the September clinic. They were instructed to pursue a specified diet during the period. Each of the five returned Tuesday with lungs cleared, noticeable increases in weight and without temperature.

Tuberculosis symptoms were lacking in the three new cases, it was said. Ailments of two individuals, it was found, were the result of tonsils. Operations were recommended.

The clinic Tuesday was held by Dr. F. R. Collard. He was assisted by Mrs. M. A. Beckman, in addition to Miss Quinn. Examinations were made at the Highland Heights Christian church.

Graham Jury Suspends Term In Cattle Theft

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Sept. 22.—T. L. Hoffman was given a four-year suspended sentence by a jury before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court here Tuesday following his plea of guilty to a charge of cattle theft.

The defendant, a 36-year-old farmer and father of five children, was charged with having taken three head of cattle from Lee Loftin of Markley last Oct. 27, and with their sale in Fort Worth.

LISTERINE

cleans the scalp "sets" a wave checks DANDRUFF

Use It Once A Week

WHENEVER you wash your hair—and most people do it once a week—douse full strength Listerine on the scalp either before or after the rinse. Then massage the scalp and hair vigorously for several minutes.

You will be simply delighted by the wonderful feeling of cleanness and exhilaration that follows this refreshing treatment.

Moreover, it is unquestionably one of the best treatments for loose dandruff—for preventing it, and for overcoming it once it has started. Many hundreds of women have told us that since making Listerine a part of the weekly shampoo, their scalp feels better, their hair looks more attractive, and they are never troubled with loose dandruff. Of course, if dandruff does get a start, it will be necessary to repeat the Listerine treatment systematically for several days, using a little olive oil in conjunction with it if the scalp and hair are excessively dry.

Listerine removes and dissolves the dandruff particles and heals and soothes the scalp. Also, if infection is present—and most dermatologists define dandruff as a germ infection—Listerine immediately combats it.

Incidentally after a shampoo when the hair is unruly there is nothing like Listerine to make it set nicely. The same applies to a finger wave.

Do you have to be told?

Before any social engagement rinse the mouth with Listerine. Thus you automatically end Halitosis (unpleasant breath) the one unforgivable social fault.

CHILD BUDGET SYSTEM TRIED

Henrietta Schools Teach Personal Thrift

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Sept. 22.—Supt. C. R. Roberts has inaugurated in the Henrietta school what is known as the school child budget system. This is a new plan introduced for the benefit of the individual pupil, in the wise expenditure of his earnings or allowance.

Certain regulations govern the budget plan, several of which are as follows:

Membership open to both boys and girls from the first grade including the 11th grade; no fees charged; all forms to be uniform size, such to be supplied by school free; budget must include earnings, allowance, and other income; all expenditures and receipts for individual pupil, exceptions in expenditure are food, shelter, and medical treatment; budget of each student entered must be submitted at end of each calendar month to committee, one of which must be member of teaching staff, for purpose of being graded and returned to individual pupil; at end of fourth month the best 10 per cent from each group be submitted to grading committe, which in turn will select the most practical and sensible budget for a schoolboy or girl according to age and grade.

It has been arranged for an award of honor to be presented to the maker of the winning budget at the close of each semester. Although this school budget plan is in the experimental stage, it is expected to prove not only a guide for the student who lives on a limited income, but also teach the individual pupil to live within limited means.

The plan of organization includes one general chairman, three group chairmen, who are responsible to the general chairman; and 12 room chairmen, who are in turn responsible to the group chairman.

GAS COMPANY DEFIES MURRAY

Lone Star Seeks to Move Suit to U. S. Court

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Sept. 22. (AP)—In defiance to Governor Murray's threat to back his stand with military force to prevent removal to federal court of a suit instituted by the state in district court at Waurika recently against the Lone Star Gas corporation, attorneys for the gas company filed their appeal in federal court here today.

Leon Hirsh, special attorney for the state, had asked a receivership for the Lone Star concern as well as its ouster from Oklahoma. Anticipating an attempt to remove the suit to federal jurisdiction, Governor Murray announced that he would not allow such a move and would back his stand with military power.

Hirsh has filed an application asking the federal court at Muskogee to remand action, thereby refusing to accept jurisdiction. The petition sets out that the federal court lacks the power to assume jurisdiction in a case instituted through the "sovereign power of a state."

The state attorney said the filing of a transcript of the district court records in such a case in federal court was routine and did not mean that the case had yet been transferred to the new jurisdiction.

School and College Notes

By HELEN BROODO

The history of the enormous mural painting above the stage of the high school and junior college auditorium was explained to students assembled in the auditorium Tuesday morning for the regular general assembly, when Paul Barnett, high school student, gave an account of the work of art.

Barnett stated that Emil Hermann, local artist, was the painter of the mural, which is 70 feet long and about seven feet in height. Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Johnson were the donors of the gift, which is the result of labor lasting more than six months.

Industry, the fine arts, travel, education and knowledge are all symbolized in the picture, which is the largest mural painting in the Southwest, according to the speaker.

Marvin Smith, Reggie Humphrey and Paul Barnett offered their services as cheer leaders for the high school pep squad, and they will each be given a chance to illustrate their ability, together with other candidates at the assembly Friday morning.

Beverly Calhoun announced that all girls in the school will be expected to attend the meeting of the Girl Reserves Thursday morning in the large auditorium, and Marvin Smith invited all members and new recruits to attend the meeting of the boys' Hi-Y club in the basement of the Highland Heights Christian church Monday evening.

Gym Classes Start

All gymnasium classes of the high school will start regular work Wednesday, and medical examinations will be the first part of the routine, according to C. C. Frazee, instructor of boys' gymnastics.

Mr. Frazee stated Tuesday that according to a new school regulation, all students must go through the medical examination before being assigned to or excused from gym classes. The rule holds good for boys as well as girls.

Romance by Proxy

ALTHOUGH ocean flights have grown almost commonplace lately, we still get just about as excited as we ever did when two fliers who we had thought dead turn up alive.

Moyle and Allen didn't accomplish what they set out to accomplish. Even if they had, the tangible value of their achievement would have been somewhat questionable. But because they disappeared over the ocean, and were given up for lost, and then came to light after a sojourn on a barren island, they hold our interest and we are eager to read all we can about them.

The craving for adventure is one of the race's oldest and surest instincts. Most of us, these days, never get much of an outlet for it. Shuttling back and forth between home and the job, we never take any more serious risks than those which rush-hour traffic thrusts upon us. Fog-wreathed islands off the Alaskan coast are not for us. The adventure we get has to be secondhand.

That is why we make so much of chaps like Moyle and Allen. Through them, we have escaped—if only for a moment or so. Through them we have been lifted out of the daily routine and given a taste of the adventure we dream about. They give us back our lost youth—the real youth, that is an attitude and not a matter of years.

For that reason it is useless to speak—as we did, a moment ago—about the "tangible value" of such stunts as ocean flights. Whether these long hops advance the cause of aviation or not is of secondary importance.

The main thing is that they put a touch of romance into a world that has grown unduly drab and monotonous. We can't go adventuring; we shouldn't know how to act if we could. Each of us has his own shackles, and we would not give them up. Instead, we go adventuring by proxy, and our spirits take leave of familiar surroundings, for the length of time it takes to read a column in the newspaper.

That is the sort of thing the ocean fliers do for us. They disappear into empty space, and we give them up for lost, and then they come back to us; and the monotony of every day life is a little more endurable, for all of us.

Scourge of Common Cold

DR. JOHN F. BARNHILL, president of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, expressed the hope that medical science may soon be able to develop a serum that will lick the common cold; and while this little malady does not rank as one of the great scourges of mankind, there is little question that such a remedy would cause about as much general rejoicing as any that medical science could offer.

The common cold—and how apt that adjective is—causes an incalculable amount of misery. It has an amazingly high economic cost, too, through the number of working days that it takes away from business and industry each year. Furthermore, it very frequently paves the way for more serious diseases. If medical men can finally conquer it their names should go on the tallest monument that can be built.

Significance of 'Putsch'

AMERICAN newspaper readers may not have realized the full significance of the flat failure of the recent Austrian "putsch," or uprising, by which malcontents sought to seize control of the government.

What the affair means is that there is no danger of Austria going Fascist. Heaven knows, the Austrians have been severely tried in recent years. The rejection of the proposed customs union with Germany must have seemed, to many of them, like the closing of the last avenue of hope. If Fascist philosophies had gained the ascendancy it would have been small wonder.

But Austria, by defeating the Heimwehr uprising, indicated definitely that it finds no appeal in Fascism. In a Europe that has plenty of reason for pessimism, this is an item on the right side of the ledger.

Capital Punishment Theory

JUST how effective is the threat of capital punishment as a crime deterrent?

Several years ago a Boston schoolboy won a prize for an essay in which he praised the electric chair as a punishment for murderers. His essay, beyond doubt, contained all of the stock arguments about the criminal's fear of that kind of punishment.

The other day this same schoolboy, now grown to a youth of 20, was electrocuted in the Massachusetts state prison for the murder of a policeman.

In theory, the argument in favor of capital punishment is almost flawless. Unfortunately, it doesn't always work out that way in life.

The "Scandals" Sirens

The newest shipment of George White hopes were affectionately embraced upon their return to the Broadway Scene last Monday when the new "Scandals" revusical was deposited in the Apollo Theater. Meet the girls:—

Joanna Allen, a 21-year-old blonde from Manhattan, is sunburned all year around. From October to April she acquires her tan from the sun lamps and she likes a Chicago lawyer.

Gay Hill (Miami, Fla.) is only 20. Her big toe on her left foot always hurts before a storm, rain or snow. She is a blonde; only gives her private 'phone number to Men Who Amount to Something.

Baltimore contributes Dorothy Keene (18), a brunette. Her boast is that she is a one-man woman. His name is Archy. She has a tremendous appetite, so don't waste your time or currency.

Betty Allen (17) comes from San Diego. She is the wisecracker of the troupe. The only dressing-room clown. She's a blonde who seeks the one-woman man type, which probably is one of her jokes.

Hazel Nevin (18), a redhead from Brooklyn, never carries an umbrella. Her room-mate says she hasn't one. But what a dimple on her left cheek. Probably the most perfect dimple in the world.

Beth Foth, 18, of New York City, if you please, is one terpsichorine with an ear for music. There is a tune in "Scandals" sung by Vallee called "My Song." During the rendition a couple in the back-ground obligato with Shubert's "Serenade." When Beth first heard the latter she yelled: "Say, isn't that stolen from something?"

Jacqueline Feeley, brunette (20) from N. Y., Irish as St. Patrick's day, despite her first handle. Loves to start a battle and finish it! She devours a pack of gum hourly.

Brooklyn also gave Florence Johnson (18) a blonde. Only show girl in the world to ever stop a show with the hiccups. It was in Atlantic City and she hic'd plenty, sending the audience into spasms.

Glora Pierre (19) is a N. Y. blonde. Pride of the dental profession. Poses for toothpaste ads. Has a yen for prize fighters, according to some of the "Scandals-mongers," but she boasts of a big "steel man from Pittsburgh." She insists "steel" is how you spell it.

Youngstown, O., is responsible for Gloria Mossman (17), a blonde. Her first show. Papa a doctor. Accomplished dancer. Has studied with masters and is in the chorus for experience.

Johnstown, Pa., is noted for two things. The flood? and Cornelia Rogers (19), a brunette. Her cheeks are rosier than rosy apples and no rouge, either! But she whistles incessantly! His first name is Russ.

Pearl Bradley (20), black hair, is from Philly. Always dreaming. As quiet as Philadelphia. But she sends home money.

Adele Raleigh (18) has golden-brown hair. Typical New Yorker with a Southern dialect. Wants to be a nurse. Poses for riding habits. Talks in her sleep but not out of turn. Likes horses but prefers men.

Mr. White's favorite redhead is Mae Slattery, 21, of N. Y. Said to be the wealthiest show girl on the stage.

From Germany comes Margaret Haller, 18, blonde. Fascinating accent. Speaks 3½ languages; Swedish, German, Russian and 50 percent English. Imitates people five minutes after meeting them.

Joan English, 18, redhead, is from Pittsburgh. Likes scallops and ice cream, but both hate her.

Ethel Lawrence, 21, blonde. From Aberdeen, Scotland. Most amiable girl in the show. Likes everything but Shurr-ed eggs. Has a wooden leg for storing beer or gin.

Hilda Knight, 20, redhead, is from Hudson, Mass. And do her toe-nails get red? She paints them with rouge, you dope! Forever combing booking agents out of her hair.

Patricia Haywood, 18, is a brunette from Brooklyn. Intelligent, quiet. Likes books by Russians. And probably without their books.

Lois Eckhart, 20, blonde, From Long Island. Likes old shoes—the better to kick you around, m'dear.

From Dallas we have Gay Deslis, 19, blonde. Her so-called friends say she changes her name with her hair. The cats! . . . Hazel Roffinger, 19, is a blonde. Will walk a mile for a chicken sandwich. Temperamental about her photographs . . . Renee Johnson, 21, a blonde, has been in three White shows. From Minneapolis. The only real golden blonde in the troupe. Mysterious and quiet—the lone wolf of the outfit, but beautiful . . . Mary Carr, Hollywood's gift to New York, is a rare specimen. Type of person who insists (to the press agent) that pictures of principals, instead of her, be used, "because they bring money to the box office." She is 18 and has golden-brown tresses. Favorite color is Brown . . . Inez DuPlessis, 21, blonde, also from Hollywood. Married to a drummer. Considered one of the best nudes in the show business. Likes married life, but hates to cook . . . Just a lazy gal . . . Patsy Clark, 18, a blonde from Chattanooga, Tenn., is a daring girl. Likes to drink ginger ale in a speakeasy! Snores in her sleep, but says she's only humming the hit songs from "Scandals" . . . Alice Faye, 17, blonde, from here, wants to be an Ethel Merman . . . Dorothy Daly, 17, reddish blonde, N. Y., has a passion for chocolate floats. Drinks five a day and keeps her shapely torso, yet! . . . Marion Thompson, from Beacon, N. Y., has black bushy hair like a cannibal. Won't tell her age . . . Mildren Green, 18, Long Island, brunette, is an accomplished pianist, but they're not using them this season . . . Myra Gerald, 18, blonde, is from Brooklyn. Studious, always reading. Minds her business, there being no other kind to mind . . . Peggy Moseley, 21, brunette, is from Virginia. White calls her the most perfect show-girl. She's happily married, however. So the hell with her . . . And then there's Peggy Ring, who is 19 and from Boston, lucky girl . . . Peggy says that she likes to sleep and read philosophy . . . Probably means: Read philosophy and sleep!

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

RUNNING A MILE CONSUMES LESS ENERGY THAN WALKING—An experiment conducted by the nutrition laboratory of the Carnegie institution of Washington, D. C., disclosed the curious fact that a fast walker will consume more energy in walking a horizontal mile than a runner who progresses at a slightly higher rate of speed. The saving in energy required is about 15 per cent in favor of the runner. Reference: "Energy Transformation," by F. G. Benedict, page 87.

THE GIRL WHO WON

By May Christie

Nollie Day, pretty and ambitious, longs to escape the unhappy life she leads with her aunt and uncle in the small town of Yapahunk. She wins a $50 newspaper prize and goes to New York. After three days of fruitless search for a position, Nollie's funds become depleted. Exhausted she faints on the street and later finds herself in a tawdry house, where a woman called "Daffy," tells Nollie she could make "easy" money.

One of Daffy's "friends" makes advances to Nollie. She strikes him and flees from the house in fear.

Nollie secures a position as public stenographer in an exclusive hotel. Mrs. Virginia Judson, a wealthy widow, takes an interest in her. Mrs. Judson asks Nollie to model some of her gorgeous gowns for her.

Later while she is preparing to sail for Europe, she asks Nollie to substitute for her at a theater party.

Instead of the elderly Mr. Hiram who was expected, a handsome young man enters the theater and sits next to her.

CHAPTER X

The handsomest young man she'd ever seen in all her life sat at Nollie's elbow in the theater.

This wasn't the bald-headed, elderly Mr. Hiram whom Mrs. Judson had depicted!

Nollie's heart missed a beat as he leaned over and whispered to her: "Mr. Hiram asked me to come and take his place. He didn't feel very well. I drove him home. We were both guests at the same dinner party."

"Yes-es?"—faintly.

"And you—" with a smile that showed white, even teeth in a sunburned face—"you are Mrs. Judson?"

She started to stammer out an explanation of the situation, but a violent "shush, shush!" from the rear froze the words on her lips.

"We'll talk later," whispered the newcomer cheerily, again with that heart-warming grin of his.

Nollie gave an apologetic smile at him, then turned her face to the stage.

But she was acutely conscious of the nearness of this handsome, gentlemanly youth.

In that first quick, comprehensive glimpse she'd had of him, she'd seen that his eyes were a striking gray under his black and smoothed back hair. His head was finely set upon his shoulders. It was a handsome, clever head, beautifully sculptured.

And he was tall. She'd noticed that as he came in. He moved easily, effortlessly, with a gay sort of sparkle about him as though life had always been good to him.

Oh, try to think about the play. Listen to the lines, and don't be excited like a silly schoolgirl about the nearness of him!

He had settled himself comfortably in his seat and his arm touched hers for a second as it rested on the elbow.

He removed his arm immediately. But from that point of contact a queer thrill had rushed through the girl.

Nollie trembled at the unaccustomed feeling. She kept her profile resolutely turned to the stage.

The young man thought: "She's quite a beauty. Not a bit like the discription of her I've heard."

They both missed many a line in the first act, acutely conscious of each other's presence.

At the first joke they mutually heard, they turned and laughed at each other.

Oh! he was handsome. Such a winning smile he had! Such a sunburned face, and a humorous mouth, and—she was sure of it—a kind way with him . . .

Don't think of that. Enjoy herself. Seize the happiness of the moment.

The first act finished on a round of applause. The lights went up.

"Let's go out and have a cigaret, shall we, Mrs. Judson?"

She rose, and as she did so, her elegant chiffon wrap with its high fur collar and its La France rose fell back from one shoulder.

He adjusted it at once, with a proprietary air. She was quite lovely, and Tony O'Brien was an Irishman, and he was impressed and touched by the fragile beauty of this girl.

"Say, I'm a lucky divvil to have this unexpected pleasure, Mrs. Judson," he began, the moment they were in the aisle and he had fallen into step with her.

"Oh, not at all. It's a—a new experience for me—I'm taking Mrs. Judson's place—a substitute like you are!"

But he didn't catch the last few words. People were talking noisily in the house. There was a loud buzz of voices, and an orchestra had begun playing.

He was looking at Nollie's lips. It is true. He was thinking how pretty they were . . . how—what was the word?—"dewy?" But he didn't hear what she was trying to explain to him.

Sweet she was! The blue of her yes was like the blue of her dress and cloak—like a little bit of heaven!

He was impressionable, and he loved beauty, did young Tony O'Brien.

They got out to the lobby.

"I didn't catch your name?" said Nollie shyly.

"It's Irish, like myself. Everyone calls me Tony, but—the saints preserve me!—my real name is Patrick Joseph O'Brien."

He rolled his "r's" comically as he said this, and his fine eyes too. They were very handsome, comehitherish sort of eyes. With a fall of the heart, Nollie realized that lots of other women must have felt as she did when they saw those Irish eyes—that this young man must have had much encouragement and long practice with her own sex!

She tried to be cool and collected . . .

She declined a cigaret from the thin gold case he pulled from the inner pocket of his evening jacket. It had a monogram upon it.

He was rich? Of course. That easy air. The well-cut clothes that looked as though he'd been poured into them, somehow . . . such a fit they had. His nice manners.

"Let's take a turn in the street. Too many chaps in here I know, and next thing they'll be trying to steal you from me!"

There was nothing impertinent in the way he uttered this. Nor in the admiring glance he cast on her.

Reflected in a wall mirror, Nollie saw herself, and knew that never in all her life—and never again—had she looked lovelier.

That knowledge gave her poise. She laughed coquettishly, as to the manner born, let Tony slip his hand under her arm and pilot her out through the glass doors to the sidewalk.

"Did you enjoy the first act? I thought it was quite good," she contrived to remark. How could he guess this was the first time she'd ever been in a New York theater?)

"To tell the truth I don't remember a word of what it was all about—"

"You weren't listening?"

"Yes. But it meant nothing, really, for my eyes kept . . . er . . . wandering!"

"That's peculiar." She smiled up at him. How tall he was! She didn't come much above his collar. . . .

Tony O'Brien looked down at her. "Not funny at all when a man's got the prettiest girl in the world sitting right next to him," he said solemnly.

PAIR BURIED ALIVE IN RUINS

One Dead After Building Collapses

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22. (AP)—One man was crushed to death, another man and woman buried alive, and several other persons injured early today when a two-story twin apartment structure collapsed.

The dead man was George Mitchell, cafe proprietor, who planned to sail for Ithaca, Greece, next week to bring his wife and baby to this city.

Six hours after the buildings crashed into ruins, rescuers reached the man and woman buried beneath tons of debris. Both were still alive and an hour later were removed from the wreckage to hospitals. Both were reported in a critical condition.

They are Miss Anna Bell, 24, a waitress, and George W. Jamison, 30, who might have escaped had he not returned to the crumbling house for a friend after rescuing his mother and sister.

From the time of the crash at 1:30 until they were discovered both Miss Bell and Jamison had retained consciousness. Both talked to rescuers and were able to direct their work.

Five minutes after the walls began to crack, sounding a warning that enabled several to escape in nightclothing, the building crashed into the ground with a roar that could be heard blocks away. Scores of persons rushed to the scene and helped police extricate the injured.

Miss Bell and Jamison were found at the bottom of the debris. Just as rescue workers were giving up hope for the girl and man, a faint voice, that of the girl, was heard to say: "Be careful, you are digging close to my head. I am still all right but I can hardly breathe."

Borrowing two electric fans and stretching wires across the street to the nearest residence, firemen placed the fans so they would throw air through the cracks in the debris to the girl.

The Record News Offers an Etiquette Booklet

One of the most important sections of this valuable booklet is that on good table manners. It begins with what the hostess should do in laying a table, tells all about serving dinner properly, and gives correct instruction as to how all kinds of foods should be eaten, not overlooking the much debated question as to whether asparagus is a finger-food or a fork-food. Then in the end it tells how to leave the table easily and gracefully. Nor is a formal dinner the only meal discussed; buffet breakfasts, luncheons and suppers are also covered.

A copy of Modern Manners will be sent to any address for a cost and postage charge of 10 cents. Use this coupon.

WARDEN FIRES TWO GUARDS

Early Capture of Granite Prisoners Expected

GRANITE, Okla., Sept. 22. (UP)—Posses of prison guards and packs of bloodhounds beat through underbrush of the rugged Wichita mountains tonight, searching for seven escaped inmates of the state boys' reformatory here.

Ten youths, ranging in age from 16 to 25, escaped from the walls of the institution as guards fired a volley of 19 shots at them.

Mrs. George Walters, warden, tonight announced the dismissal of C. E. Hedges and Jim Wilson, who failed to stop the concerted break. She predicted the fugitives would be captured before dawn.

Mrs. Howse Weeps During Quizzing

which was worn by her the night that she fatally wounded Fitzgerald, showing a torn place near the neck in the back of the dress which she testified was torn by Fitzgerald prior to the time she shot him.

Mrs. Howse testified that she is 43 years of age and her birthday was last May 11. Fitzgerald was 30 years of age. She told of their intimate relationship for the past five years. It was about three years ago that he first struck her, Mrs. Howse said, and the first trouble occurred at the home of Harry Hubbard in this city. She told of Fitzgerald at one time striking her on the eye and that it was necessary to take one or two stitches and that he also struck her on the lip. The next trouble occurred in the presence of Mrs. Helen Malone and Mrs. Blanche Dickson, the accused woman stated.

Names Meeting Place

Mrs. Howse admitted, after hesitating for some time, that the Dickson home was the meeting place for her and Fitzgerald for some time.

In discussing the time that he came to her home late at night last winter, Mrs. Howse told the prosecuting attorney and the jurymen that he arrived about midnight. She told that Mr. Howse replaced the hook on the screen which had been broken off by Fitzgerald and that he asked no questions concerning how it happened to be torn off.

Mrs. Howse denied emphatically that she had ever instructed her daughter, Beatrice, to never discuss her relations with Fitzgerald with her father.

Admits Drinking

The defendant admitted that she had taken drinks with Fitzgerald and that she too had cursed him.

Mrs. Howse denied having a conversation with Lovie Whitfield, negro servant, on the day following trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Howse last April. Mrs. Howse told of going to Hobart and of seeing Fitzgerald in that city.

While the defendant denied that Fitzgerald had given her money, she admitted that he sometimes gave her sums of between $2 and $3, but that she did not consider that much. She denied calling by telephone for Fitzgerald at his home after trouble last April.

Mrs. Howse admitted seeing Fitzgerald on Wednesday when she returned to her husband in Altus after leaving for Hobart the previous Saturday.

Meeting July 4

Prosecuting Attorney Rutherford went into detail with the defendant concerning a meeting of her with Fitzgerald as she returned home from Medicine Park last July 4, Mrs. Howse saying that Fitzgerald came to her car and opened the door before she returned to his truck to talk with him.

Mrs. Howse said that she had a date with W. D. Pickins, who was a married man, on the night of the shooting, and that was the reason she objected to telling that two men were at the Dickson home the night of the trouble.

The defendant stated that Fitzgerald was stooped when both shots were fired at him.

Mrs. Howse said that she and Fitzgerald agreed to exchange birthday gifts following their trouble last April with Warren Howse, her husband.

She admitted giving Fitzgerald two shirts, two ties and two pairs of socks for his last birthday. A part of the articles of clothing were exhibited at that time and identified by Mrs. Howse. She also identified her handwriting on a note which read "Wishing you many happy birthdays. As ever, your pal."

She also identified a bill-fold that she had given him at one time, but failed to identify a watch that was alleged to be one that she had given him. Her picture, usually carried by him in the back of his watch, was missing.

Defendant Weeps

Mrs. Howse broke down for the first time and wept for a very short while soon after she left the stand following the two hours of cross-examining.

Mrs. Howse later returned to the stand and exhibited a bar pin which she was wearing and diamond ring on a finger of her left hand as gifts from Fitzgerald. Lynn Beard and Ben Adams testified concerning cleaning blood from the Dickson porch the night of the shooting and of hearing Mrs. Howse say "I believe I did it in self-defense." Adams also told of hearing Mrs. Howse ask Mrs. Dickson to clean blood from her purse.

Mrs. Cora Fitzgerald, mother of the deceased, and Miss Patty Fitzgerald, said that numerous times Mrs. Howse called the Fitzgerald home and asked for Thurman, prior to and after the trouble last April.

tions in the industry, rates of wages in the plants of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation will, effective Oct. 1, be reduced by approximately 10 per cent, varying somewhat in the character of the work performed. Such adjustment will be somewhat in line with the reduction—recently made in the salaried rates."

Within a half-hour of the U. S. Steel announcement President Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem announced his corporation would take similar action.

"I consider the action of the U. S. Steel corporation in readjusting downward wage rates a constructive move and Bethlehem will make a similar adjustment effective Oct. 1."

FINANCIAL MARKET IN SMOOTHER WATERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Financial markets sailed into smoother waters today, as the waves of unsettlement which arose from the British crisis subsided and readjustments yet to be made could be considered more calmly.

Market Quiet

Stocks prices oscillated narrowly in a quiet session, closing with narrow changes in the main, although some prominent issues were off $1 to $2. The turnover of 2,100,000 shares was less than half yesterday's.

The bond market again was called upon to absorb considerable liquidation, but some of the recently depressed issues were strongly supported, and there were numerous advances of $10 to 80 per $1,000 bond at the close.

Wall street was cheered by news the London stock exchange would reopen tomorrow, and with the improvement in the Paris bourse, along with resumption of trading in the Amsterdam and Brussels markets.

Talk of a redistribution of the world's monetary gold supply, three-fifths of which now is held by France and the United States, was stimulated by news that the Federal Reserve bank had set aside $309,100,000 in metal for foreign account in the past two days. This marked an abrupt turn in the steady accumulation of gold in this country in recent months, boosting the total stock over $5,000,000,000 or nearly half the world's supply.

While the identity of the taker of this metal was not disclosed, banking circles felt that much or all of it was taken by France and Holland, which are not particularly in need of the metal, but perhaps wish to have it available in case of any emergency that might result from the London situation.

"Uncertainties" Removed

Wall street was given a major piece of domestic news late in the day, in the announcements that U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel had finally cut wages 10 per cent as long rumored, and that General Motors had reduced salaries. Leaders in Wall street described this as another milestone passed on the road to the end of the depression, and pointed out that the more rapidly uncertainties of this sort are put out of the way, the more quickly recovery can set in.

Boy Confesses He Killed for Books

CROWPOINT, Ind., Sept. 22. (US)—A 15-year-old boy, honor student and football star at the Creston, Ind., high school, calmly confessed today to the slaying of Eugene Duckworth "to get money to buy school books."

The killing accomplished, the boy then went to a Christian Endeavor meeting.

Duckworth was shot to death Sunday night at his filling station.

The boy, Perry Swank, was arrested after a high school girl had told her father she had seen Swank leaving the station. He denied all knowledge of the killing when he was placed in a cell.

It was not until he called for Sheriff Holley and asked for a cigaret that he unfolded the story of the deliberately planned holdup and slaying.

"You know there's seven kids in our family and dad lost his job in the steel mills about a year ago. We've had a pretty tough time of it and when school opened recently I had to have some school books."

CIRCUS OF THEIR OWN

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 22. (UP)—Tom Mix in 10-gallon hat and boots invited the members of the Texas legislature today to attend the Sells-Floto circus which appeared in Austin. The circus neglected to send tickets. So the house held an indignation meeting. Representative Paul Anderson proposed that the house journal make no mention of Mix's visit. Representative Pat Dwyer declared it must be an oversight.

Sterling Signs Cotton Bill

"every disturbing agency" would be kept from the floor.

The South Carolina assembly ratified the bill prohibiting cotton planting in that state next year and sent it to Gov. I. C. Blackwood for his signature. In the house, a fight developed on the senate bill to authorize the state to borrow $15,000,000 to make advances to farmers on the 1931 crop.

J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, said after Governor Sterling had signed the bill that a great forward step had been taken for Texas agriculture.

"I firmly believe," he said, "that the courts will uphold this legislation. Every care was taken in drawing it, and the best legal minds consulted. I have no fears regarding enforcement. This law is the farmers' law; they wanted it and they will respect it."

Governor Sterling and members of the legislative committee which drafted the Texas law wired governors of nine other cotton states asking that they assemble their legislatures immediately to enact similar statutes.

The telegram was sent to governors of Georgia, Alabama, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, South Carolina and North Carolina. South Carolina and Louisiana had passed bills to prevent the planting of any cotton in 1932.

The wire was as follows: "Texas law limiting cotton acreage for 1932 and 1933 to less than 50 per cent of 1931 cotton acreage signed today. In order that full benefit of this act may be obtained earnestly urge that you assemble your legislature at earliest practicable date with object of passing law reducing cotton acreage of your state a similar percentage."

LEGION ARGUES ON PROHIBITION

Committee Can't Agree on Presenting Issue

DETROIT, Sept. 22. (AP)—A divided resolutions committee failed tonight to take any action on the varied prohibition proposals which have been presented to the American Legion national convention, and opposing leaders prepared to take their fight to the floor.

The committee, in a long session, avoided the prohibition resolutions until they were specifically mentioned by some of the members. The subcommittee on policy then announced it was not ready to report because it had received no official report from a second subcommittee it had appointed. The matter was lost eventually in a wrangle over the source of published reports that the second subcommittee had voted 9 to 7 to submit a modification proposal.

Previously one member of the policy committee said that at a meeting tonight the group voted 7 to 6 in favor of a recommendation the legion not take a stand on the prohibition issue.

The Value of Fresh Fruits

Fruits furnish one of the most valuable parts of our present day dietary. There are thousands of varieties of different types of fruits, and sometimes as much as a thousand varieties of a single kind, which have been cultivated from fruit found growing wild in different parts of the world. Generally the more delicate fruits flourish best in the tropics, and the hardier kinds in the temperate zones.

Intensive cultivation, and a growing demand, have increased the consumption of fruit at a rapid rate in the past quarter of a century. Better transportation facilities now make it possible to ship even the more perishable fruit from where it is raised plentifully to be delivered to the consumer in places far distant. Improved refrigeration methods have been a great help in the preservation of ripe fruit, so that now the seasonable fruits may be used over a longer period of time. This permits larger crops to be raised than could be immediately consumed in any one locality, and helps to stabilize the fruit industry so that lower prices are possible.

Fruits are of a much different composition from most of the other common foods. They always contain a large amount of water, the fresh fruits usually being from 80 per cent to 90 per cent pure water. The most valuable substances found in fruits are undoubtedly the large amounts of vitamins and mineral salts, which are often found only in negligible quantities in the foods of a higher caloric value. The vitamins B and C are almost always present, the vitamin C being found in larger quantities in fruit than in any other class of food. Their protein value is always low, but the fruit sugar is high, varying from 1½ per cent in lemons, to 17 per cent in grapes. This fruit sugar is more easily assimilated than sugar found in other foods. The fruit acids stimulate the flow of bile and other digestive fluids, increase the appetite and encourage a cleansing of the whole alimentary canal. In spite of the acids their use tends to correct systemic acidosis through the alkalizing effect of the large amount of basic minerals. Fruits are valuable blood builders and especially to be recommended in anemia and all of the deficiency diseases.

Fresh fruits should only be used when fully ripe, as unripe fruit is liable to cause colic, and the overripe produces abnormal fermentation. All fresh fruits keep best at a temperature of about 40 degrees Fahrenheit, although apples and oranges, and other hardy fruit, will stay in good condition at a slightly higher temperature. No fresh fruit should ever be frozen, as this detracts from its flavor. Every fresh fruit should be washed well before using, and the fuzzy fruits, such as peaches, should also be wiped with a clean cloth to remove as much of the fuzz as possible.

Fresh fruits are best used as a meal, between meals, or before retiring. Small amounts of any one fruit may be used with a meal of non-starchy vegetables, or with a protein meal, but neither the fresh, canned or dried fruits combine well with a meal containing highly starchy foods.

Nearly all of the fresh fruits are also canned, which necessitates cooking them, and therefore changing somewhat their vitamin and mineral value. These canned fruits are, however, quite wholesome, especially the kinds put up in only small amounts of syrup. Those in a heavy syrup should be removed with a form and may even be washed in cold water to remove any remaining syrup, but this removes some of the delicate flavor. Many excellent brands are now prepared without any sugar other than that of the ripe fruit itself. The best method of home canning is by the cold pack process which is similar to that used by most of the canneries.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Buttermilk and Acidolphus

Question—T. L. T. asks: "What is the difference between buttermilk and acidolphus milk?"

Answer—The old-fashioned buttermilk was a milky substance left after churning sour cream to make butter. Acidolphus milk is milk fermented with an acidolphus culture. The buttermilk commonly sold at the present time is not made from churning sour cream as practically all dairies now make butter from sweet cream, precipitating the milk with lime, which would make the milk unpleasant to the taste. Buttermilk is, therefore, cultured from plain milk. It has, however, just as much food value as the old-fashioned kind.

Blue Stone

Question—Mrs. V. writes: "I made some pickles and was advised to add a piece of blue stone to each gallon of pickles to keep them green. I added some to the pickles and it gave them a pretty color. I ate some yesterday and it seems to have upset my stomach. Do you think it could have been caused by the blue stone?"

Answer—Blue stone is a common name for copper sulphate, a material which at one time was frequently used to give a green color to peas, pickles spinach, and other green foods. It is a poisonous substance if used in any quantity, although commonly the quantities used were not sufficient to cause poisoning.

Local Anesthetic in Heart Trouble

Question—Mrs. W. I. U. asks: "When all of the teeth must be extracted, what is the safest anesthetic for the person who has a heart leakage?"

Answer—The type of anesthetic to be used would have to be left to the discretion of the dentist. Sometimes it is advisable to use a local anesthetic to the teeth rather than gas, when there is trouble with the heart.

Pecan Industry Has Unlimited Market

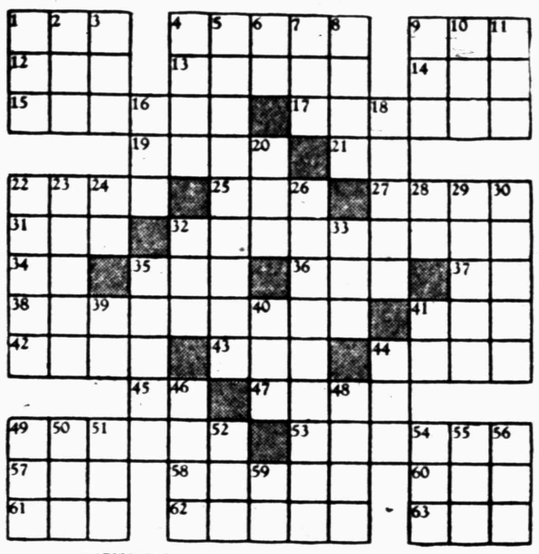

DALLAS, Sept. 22 (AP)—The pecan industry, in the opinion of J. Hill Fullilove of Shreveport, La., president of the National Pecan association, is in no danger of being impeded by overproduction.

In an address here today before the annual convention of the association, he declared that only the future would reveal the limits of expansion in the industry.

He said the present objective of pecan growers was to produce the nut more abundantly and more economically than ever before. Scientific methods, he explained, were the guide by which growers should strive to achieve that end.

He urged every grower to carefully study rainfall, soil, insects, cooperative marketing and other factors that determine whether pecan growing shall be profitable or otherwise.

The Rambler's Corner

The Rights of Hunters

A farmer near Bluff Springs, down in Central Texas, objected to hunters shooting birds on his land because of possible injury to his cattle. But apparently the hunters came anyway. The farmer used drastic measures, and now he faces a charge of assault to murder. A hunter, shot through the abdomen with a high-powered rifle, lies at the point of death in an Austin hospital.

This story appeared in The Record News the other day, and happened to attract the attention of a Wichita Falls citizen who knows all too well the problems that arise between hunters and farmers. He came to the Rambler's corner with a story of his own and asked that it be printed in the interest of all concerned.

In brief, here is his story:

Years ago he operated a farm in Illinois. One afternoon while seated on the front porch of his farm home reading a newspaper he heard a shot and an instant later felt his face and chest sprinkled with spent birdshot. The spent charge had perforated the newspaper which he had in front of him. Aside from a rather painful burn on the cheek he was unhurt, for the bullets had lost their force.

But it was enough to irritate anyone, and he set out to find the hunter. Finally he spied him. Approaching, he informed the hunter of what had happened and requested that in future he be more careful to inquire if houses were about before firing. Finally the farmer requested that the hunter leave the place.

The hunter answered by pointing his gun at the farmer.

"If you don't get away and leave me alone, I'll pump you full of shot," said the hunter.

The farmer returned to his house, got his Winchester, put 10 shells in it, and set out again on the trail of the hunter. This time he did not approach with a request, but with an order. Leveling the Winchester at the hunter, the farmer commanded:

"Now you get off this land and be quick about it!"

"But you've got the draw on me; that's not fair," wailed the hunter.

"But you had the draw on me a while ago; I was unarmed and you didn't think of being fair; now get out." And he fired between the feet of the hunter, who leaped in the air and set off at a gallop. The farmer emptied several more shots at the hunter, "to encourage him along," taking pains, of course, not to hit him.

That is the amusing part of the Wichitan's story. But there is a tragic part.

He left the farm shortly after this incident, obtaining employment in Chicago. His job was a good one, and he was not only making money, but making such headway in his trade that he was soon to go to Minneapolis, where a better job and more pay awaited him.

But one day there came a telegram. His father was seriously ill, it said. It was imperative to come home at once.

He returned to the farm and found his father hovering between life and death, with a broken back. He had been loading hay, and while standing on top of the wagon receiving the hay from an assistant on the ground a hunter close by had fired a shot. It scared the horses attached to the wagon. They lurched, throwing the man off the wagon and fracturing his back.

He lived over it, but the remainder of his life he was a cripple, and his son had to stay on the farm and take care of him. The son thus could not return to his work, in which he was advancing rapidly. He never got the job with bigger pay. The entire course of his life was changed.

And all because of a hunter who did not have the courtesy to ask permission to hunt on someone else's property.

That all happened about 15 years ago. Times have changed but little in the matter of the relations between hunters and farmers, as the Austin story indicates. That is why the Wichitan brought his story to this newspaper, he said. He betrayed no bitterness whatever. He merely wanted the farmers' side of the question stated, in the hope that no such tragedy as befell him and his family should be enacted in these parts. Every year hunting takes its toll in the way of accidents, many of which could be avoided if hunters were more careful, and more respectful of others' rights.

Morris Norton, Titlist, Faces Stiff Competition

Record News Sports Editor

One of the most colorful fields ever to participate in competition here will spread out in threesomes over the rolling fairways of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club this morning at 8 o'clock, as the club's fourth annual invitation tournament, the last major golfing event of the season in the state of Texas, gets under way.

All members of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, whether entered in the tournament or not, are cordially invited to attend the banquet which will be given at the clubhouse tonight starting at 7:30 o'clock, J. H. S. Bonner, club president, announced.

The banquet will bring to a close the first day of the club's fourth annual tournament.

Qualifying rounds will be completed Wednesday afternoon, and match play will start early Thursday morning.

A field of close to 100 is expected to be on hand when Phil Hessler, club professional who will be in charge of the tournament as referee and starter, gets the first threesome off No. 1 tee this morning. A total of 71 golfers from all sections of West Texas and including some from Southern Oklahoma had registered by Monday night, and possibly a score or more of late arrivals were expected to drift in today.

A glance at the entry list indicates this year's tournament may resolve into a battle of champions. At least three outstanding golfers who wear golfing crowns were on the scene Tuesday ready to go after the scalp of Morris Norton, present titlist of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. These included L. S. (City) Walker of Quanah, now enthroned for the third time as champion of the Greenbelt Golf association; Bob Peck of Wichita Falls, winner of the recent Electra Country club's invitation tournament; and Whitney Anderson, city champion of Vernon.

Walker arrived in Wichita Falls Tuesday and announced he was ready to go. The staunch Quanah veteran was here several days ago for a practice turn about the links. Anderson also arrived here Tuesday.

S. J. Barnett of Eastland also arrived Tuesday. Barnett, one of the most polished golfers in West Texas, lost out in a bitter battle to Bob Peck at the recent Electra tournament.

Other arrivals Tuesday included E. A. Shotts and Lawson Hetherwick of the Glen Garden Country club, Fort Worth; James Phillips of Ranger, M. Wilson of Jacksboro, B. A. Duffy of Abilene, C. E. Covington of San Angelo, and Lefty Livingston of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Hill Beaten In Women's Tourney

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 22. (AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Philadelphia, and most of her leading rivals marched into the second round of match play for the women's national golf championship today, but one outstanding contender, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, was eliminated.

Mrs. Hill, touted before the championship opened as one of the most formidable obstacles in the path of Mrs. Vare's march to her sixth national title, fell before the accurate sharpshooting of Jane Brooks, Nyack, N. Y., 2 and 1.

Mrs. Vare had no trouble with Jean Armstrong, Chicago player competing in the championship for the first time, and won by the comfortable margin of 6 and 4.

Advancing to the second round with Mrs. Vare and Miss Brooks were Enid Wilson, husky English girl who holds the British championship; Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J.; Helen Hicks, Hewlett, N. Y.; Virginia Van Wie, Chicago; Mrs. Leona Pressler, San Gabriel, Calif.; Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, Calif.; Mrs. Charles Eddis, Toronto; Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis.; Frances Williams, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. Leo Federman, New York; Mrs. Helen Payson Corson, Philadelphia; Mrs. L. C. Nelson, Dayton, Ohio; Marjorie Kerr, England, and Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, W. Va.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (UP)—Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock announced today the reinstatement of John Madden, former assistant prohibition administrator at Kansas City. Madden was suspended when he failed to report at Seattle, Wash., where he had been transferred several weeks ago.

Woodcock said Madden would be offered a post in the Kansas City district force of special agents which is delegated to investigate large conspiracy cases.

Leaders of Favorites in Dixie Grid Race

Above are shown captains of the standout teams in the Southern conference this year: Joe Sharpe, Alabama center; Austin Downes, Georgia quarterback, and Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane end.

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 22.—They're not picking a pre-season football champion in the Southern conference this season—there are too many good teams. But fans probably will have a five-ring gridiron circle to watch.

In the center rings will be Tulane, Alabama and Georgia. Vanderbilt and Duke will provide the attraction in the outer circles.

The Green Wave from New Orleans and the Crimson Tide of Tuscaloosa were co-champions last year. Both lost heavily through graduation, but each finds plenty of capable reinforcements waiting.

Tulane has not lost a game to a southern opponent since 1928. Coach Bernie Bierman has 17 returning letter men, including Don Zimmerman, hailed as even better than the famous Billy Banker of yesteryear; Nollie Felts, back, and Jerry Dalrymple, who has no peers in the South as an end.

Only one regular of the great 'Bama varsity of 1930—John "Hurry" Cain, backfielder—remains, but Frank Thomas, who succeeded Wallace Wade as head mentor, has last year's second team intact, with a number of new stars. Alabama's stock troops of 1930, it is believed, could take the measure of most southern teams.

They've forgotten the blues songs over at Athens, for Coach Harry Mehre has a great Georgia machine ready to roll against all covers, including Yale, New York university, and Southern California.

Capt. Herb Haffett, a fine end, is Mehre's greatest loss, but there are "Catfish" Smith and Kelly to take care of the flanks. Then Harry is about ready to take the blankets off a couple of junior ball-carriers who were held out last season.

Uncle Dan McGugin's Vanderbilt Commodores by custom win a conference flag every few years. Many believe that Dan will turn the trick again this, his 28th consecutive season at Nashville.

His explosive sophomores of 1930 are tested juniors this year. They have the fire and spark of last year with the added campaign of seasoning. The baskfield shapes up fine already, although Josh Cody, brought over from Clemson, will have his hands full with the line.

Much interest will be directed toward Duke university where Wallace Wade takes hold after eight years at Alabama. From tackle to tackle, Wade's team looks great. He needs ends and backs. Rosky, star end, and Murray, a speedy halfback, will be hard to replace.

And one of several other teams—especially Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and Maryland, and then Louisiana State, South Carolina, Virginia Polytechnic, Georgia Tech and Florida—may surprise the critics.

Tennessee, one of the best last season, again will have a strong line but Bobby Dodd—rated by many as 50 per cent of the Vol team—is missing.

SEYMOUR BEATS 'B' TEAM, 18-0

Second String Pack Blanked By Panthers

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Sept. 22.—The Seymour Panthers defeated the second string team of the Wichita Falls High school Coyotes here this afternoon by the score of 18 to 0.

The first half of the game was a sluggish affair, with neither team able to make a serious threat at the goal line, but in the latter stages of the game good long runs by Hooser, Johnson and Hughes netted Seymour's three touchdowns. Hooser and Johnson scored in the third quarter, while Hughes went over for the final counter in the last period.

Play by both teams on the whole was of early season caliber, both being heavily penalized.

Last week the young Wichitans were victorious over the Nocona team, 7 to 0.

BIG JUMP IN PLANE SPEED

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—Since 1927, the average speed of United States airplanes has jumped 36 miles an hour, according to a report of the aeronautics branch of the U. S. department of commerce.

The average high speeds of planes given approved type certificates by the department between 1927 and 1930 increased between the limits of 101 and 137 miles an hour.

In accordance with this increase in top speeds, landing speed of the planes increased. The average landing speed in 1927 was about 57 miles an hour. At the end of 1930 it was about 60 miles an hour. It is pointed out that the landing speed has not increased proportionately with the top speed.

Coach A. D. Beck will load 18 members of the Reagan Junior High school gridiron squad in a bus this afternoon and journey to Iowa Park, where the Reaganites will open their practice season with a combat with the Hawks.

The Iowa Park team last week sustained a pretty bad beating at the hands of Archer City, but Coach Beck, deprived by graduation of such stars as J. Z. Powell and Cleo Creecy, now playing with the Coyotes, does not expect an easy afternoon.

SHOULD START NOW

WASHINGTON.—For adequate protection of the country, the U. S. should start immediately the construction of aircraft carrier and flight cruiser tonnage allotted the country under the London arms limitation treaty, is the opinion of Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Aeronautical chamber of commerce. The plan calls for construction of four 13,800-ton aircraft carriers and a number of flying deck carriers.

TEAMS RETURN TO BIRMINGHAM

Buffs Enter Final Phase With One-Game Lead

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 22. (AP)—Houston and Birmingham returned here tonight and tomorrow will resume their Dixie series warfare with the count in games standing at three for the Texas league champions and two for the winners of first place in the Southern association.

The teams arrived aboard a special train following a night and a day on the rails, but appeared none the worse for wear. Manager Clyde Milan said he would send Jimmy Walkup, a southpaw, against George Washington Payne, Manager Joe Schultz's selection for tomorrow's game.

Payne pitched the Buffaloes to victory Saturday night, defeating the Barons 1-0. Walkup lost a 3-0 decision to Dick McCabe in the second game of the series here last Thursday.

CARDS RECALL DIZZY DEAN

HOUSTON, Sept. 22. (UP)—Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, Houston pitcher who this season broke all pitching records for the Texas league, has been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals, the Houston management announced this afternoon.

If Houston wins its game tomorrow at Birmingham with the Birmingham Barons, thus ending the Dixie series, Dean will leave immediately for Cincinnati where he will join the Cardinals.

Dean probably will see service with the Cardinals during the last part of the season but due to his lateness in being recalled he will not be eligible to participate in the world series.

The Cardinals own the Houston club.

Valley Teams Out For Grid Honors

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 22. (AP)—The class of football this year in the Rio Grand valley is expected to bring two state titles into this section—the class A high school and the junior college championships.

Two valley teams will give this section a chance to win the Texas Interscholastic league title in Brownsville and Harlingen. Brownsville will support a team this year that will rank with the aggregation of two years ago which lost to Port Arthur, state champions, by one point. Harlingen, entering class A competition for the first time, is conceded to have a stronger team than Brownsville.

The Harlingen Cardinals last year revealed their potent strength by defeating Port Arthur 36 to 6. Harlingen played as a class B team. This year, the Cardinals have veterans for almost every position.

The Brownsville Junior college will compete in the junior college conference with a veteran team. The locals face a hard schedule including games with the University of Texas and Rice Institute.

Football fans along the Rio Grande are in for more interesting games this season, and more general interest is expected now that teams in this section have a real chance to win state championships.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton here today was followed by partial reactions under realizing or liquidation, but southern selling was less active than yesterday and trading became comparatively quiet on the declines.

December contract closed at 6.38. The market closed steady at net advances of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at advances of 7 to 11 points. The steadiness of the Liverpool market and reports of a better tone in Manchester may have been sentimental factors on the advance, but some traders thought the depreciation in sterling might call for a further widening of differences between New York and Liverpool and offerings increased after the early buying had been supplied. Prices sagged in consequence, but the buying continued quiet active up to the close of the Liverpool market.

October sold up to 6.21 and March to 6.76 or back to about the opening prices, making net gains of about 10 to 13 points. Trading later became comparatively quiet and there was probably some selling in expectation of increased hedging in the last half hour. This carried prices off within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations, but hedging failed to develop in the anticipated volume and the close was a shade up from the lowest.

Exports today 12,514 making 542,283 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Trading in cotton was decidedly quieter today and prices fluctuated narrowly and without definite trend. Liverpool was better than due at the start. The close which was called steady showed net gains of 3 to 5 points. Liverpool is due 2 to 3 penny points down tomorrow on New Orleans.

Liverpool cables came in 3 to 6 penny points better than due. Private cables stated that shorts covered and Manchester bought absorbing hedge selling. Manchester cabled that traders regard the suspension of the gold standard with equanimity, believing that it will stimulate the demand for home cloths and yarns and check imports of cheap foreign goods. October closed at 6.12 or 3 points net up for the day and December at 6.36 or 4 points net up.

Ban on Short Selling Results In Unimportant Fluctuations

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (US)—Another market restricted by the ban on short selling on the stock exchange today resulted in relatively unimportant price fluctuations and an absence of large-scale or frenzied selling such as characterized the opening hour of Monday.

Minor support may have been extended toward the market during today's trading but this was secondary in importance from the nearby viewpoint to the virtually complete absence of bear-selling. If anything, the market displayed a slight tendency toward lower quotations.

In the best-informed quarters, there was a feeling of satisfaction toward the market's action during the first two days of the English pound crisis. Nevertheless, it is universally conceded that the major test appears tomorrow with reopening of the London market, when the world's holders of sterling securities will have opportunity to express their attitude toward these enormous investments in the light of the great change in the pound's status.

The liquidation and whatever selling took place today very obviously is pure liquidation—was neither precipitous nor large, although the volume exceeded 2,000,000 shares, which was less than half Monday's total. Range in price movement was rather limited and some additional short covering was reported as traders were unable to extend their bear positions.

The ban on short-selling, it now develops, was dictated by Washington and may be lifted before the week-end, unless drastic repercussions are experienced at London. As a matter of fact, there was a hopeful expression among certain financial interests that reopening of London trading, with all of its drastic consequences to sterling securities, may react to the benefit of American securities.

For example, many holders of sterling bonds and stocks in their keen disappointment over the pound's vicious decline and the uncertainty still surrounding its true value, may determine upon investments in the United States as the most secure in the world. Certainly, the remainder of the financial world can find no safer place under prevailing circumstances than in the United States.

All in all, the stock market was a thoroughly calm affair. The degree of artificially created by the ban on short-selling made informed people hesitant of expressing opinions on immediate prospects.

The pound sterling sold down about 10 cents in another erratic market, but confidence in Britain's ability and willingness to pay its external gold obligations in full was exhibited in a rise of three points in the United Kingdom 5½s, a dollar issue on the New York stock exchange.

The bond market generally was irregular yet there was a somewhat greater resistance displayed to offerings, as if considerable speculative demand is appearing. The Canadian dollar was quoted at a 10 per cent discount, and Denmark went off the gold standard.

These are but some of the anticipated repercussions quite natural following the historic move of England in suspending the gold standard.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Trading in gray goods was light, coarse yarn cloths moving in small volume at unchanged prices, and fine goods finding virtually no market. Raw cotton was 5 to 8 points up in early trading. The burlap market was at a standstill because of price confusion resulting from closing of Indian banks after the gold standard suspension in London. A limited quickening of interest in fabrics of rayon content was noted but buyers were not ready to close deals.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Abundance of American corn rather than scarcity of British gold played the star role in the grain markets today. Sudden huge deliveries of 2,021,000 bushels of corn were made to settle outstanding September corn contracts, and this unexpected circumstance tumbled quotations down 2 cents a bushel to below the season's previous bottom level. Wheat sympathized with corn weakness, but averaged higher, responsive to comparative strength shown by the stock market and to harvest delays in Canada.

Corn closed irregular, 1⅛ cents lower to ⅛c advance, wheat ⅛@⅜c up, oats at ⅛c decline to ⅛c gain, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Corn traders were bearishly affected not only by today's big deliveries but by predictions that deliveries until the end of the month would be heavy. For the first time in a long while, Chicago receipts of corn were larger than for the corresponding day both of the week previous and a year ago. Arrivals totaled 89 cars, against respectively 33 and 63 last week and last year. Receipts, too, at other primary centers were increased, aggregating 360,000 bushels compared with 217,000 at this time last week.

Wheat took its cue from reports that rains were continuing in the Canadian harvest region, where downpours had been witnessed for 10 successive days. The territory deluged included sections in which the wheat crop had been best. Some of the wheat was reported as still uncut, and most of it unthreshed, so that threshing would not be resumed for about a week in many places. Much "spread" selling here was done against purchases at Winnipeg, and there was also selling on account of rains where needed over part of the United States winter wheat belt.

Considerable attention was given to Liverpool advices that Russia was sending large shipments of wheat to Great Britain in an effort to anticipate tariff enactments or other import restrictions. Oats followed corn, with oats receipts as well as corn arrivals larger.

Provisions sagged with hog values and with corn.

Closing indemnities: Wheat Sept 46½c bids; Dec 47⅝@⅞c, 48⅜@⅝c. March 53⅝c. Bids, May 51⅞, 53⅞@⅝c. Corn, Sept 27@⅛c 40⅛c Dec 36⅛c 37⅛c. May 4⅞c 41⅛c.

Fair Offer

The youngsters entered the music shop to buy a mouth organ. To every one that was shown him he said: "Too small! Too small!"

At last the clerk got impatient.

"Look here, my lad," he said, "try your mouth along this grand piano, and if you don't swallow it you can have it for nothing!"—Tit-Bits.

HIKE UNLIKELY, SAYS ELLISON

Stanolind Head Points Out Declining Demand

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 22. (AP)—While the oil world generally looked toward increases in prices as likely in the near future, possibly due any day, the president of one of the largest crude oil purchasing companies in the United States today indicated little advance may be seen before the winter season passes.

R. S. Ellison, president of the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, the buying branch of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, considered one of the "big four" of the industry, pointed out why logically prices should not advance at this time, despite the absolute control of production that now has been inaugurated by the regulatory bodies of the several oil producing states.

Mr. Ellison was particular not to commit himself or his company to any set course, but stated why he believed pursuing a middle course would be sensible under present conditions.

Production Stabilized

"The production of oil has been stabilized," Mr. Ellison said. "But this was done at the period of the year when the daily conservation of petroleum products begins to decrease.

"It is not reasonable to suppose that oil companies would post higher prices when the market demand actually is decreasing. It would be foolish for me to make a definite prediction, but does it not seem logical to assume that only an increased demand would bring about increased prices?

"The oil industry is but one of thousands that go into our complex civilization. Why should this industry be singled out and prices in it be increased while those of other commodities are being reduced constantly?

"It must be remembered that an increase in prices at the originating point, for the raw material must inevitably result in higher prices at other points along the production and distribution line.

More for Gasoline

"To increase prices of crude oil would mean that the ultimate consumer would have to pay more for gasoline at the pump. This would mean that money that now is saved by the automobile owner would be spent on the car instead of in other businesses—for food, clothing, furniture, amusements and such things.

"If crude oil prices are increased, is not an assumption that the additional money spent for gasoline and oils must be taken away from the other merchants?"

The opinion of Mr. Ellison, however, came on the heels of persistent rumors from "semi-official" and other sources that the next few days will see an increase to at least $1 top the price of mid-continent crude, and that the possibility that Oklahoma wells, long shut in under martial law, might be reopened.

A factor in the latter situation is the approach of Oct. 1, normal period for taking new potentials to fix the allowable flow under law from state wells. What actually will happen Oct. 1 remains conjecture, with Gov. W. H. Murray out of the state on a speaking tour.

It has ben reported that certain companies would offer his demand price if the state's chief executive would in return order martial law lifted and permit the taking of production that has slipped far in arrears under the enforced shutdown. This is all rumor, however, in the face of lack of definite information and the oil industry continued today to mark time.

BUTLER BIDS TROOPS ADIEU

Veteran Marine Leader Views Last Parade

QUANTICO, Va., Sept. 22. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler today reviewed his troops for the last time.

Before retiring to private life after 33 colorful years in the marine corps, he inspected his command of 2,000 men and reviewed them at dress parade in his last official function as commandant of the Quantico base.

In the morning, he will lead a landing attack on the post, but with the sunset gun today he made his farewell to Quantico and the corps, from which he will retire Oct. 1.

To Butler the parade seemed an ordeal more trying than the possible death he faced in a dozen campaigns in as many lands since he joined the marines as a boy of 16.

Column after column of the officers and men of the Quantico post filed past the reviewing stand. Slightly stooped, Butler returned the salute of his comrades, many of them veterans who served with him for years.

Before the parade he made his final inspection—characteristically as informal as possible. Passed through the ranks and stopped here and there to chat with an officer or enlisted man and introduced them to his guests, who included Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, his native state, and Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia.

To the civilian friends in the party, Butler took the parting philosophically.

To his men who grouped around him for a final word, however, he spoke with feeling. His voice broke as he said, "you have given me something to remember the rest of my life."

The next minute he was his usual self. "It's hot as hell," he said, "but we must go on with this, boys."

Butler said he would start a speaking tour of the Middle West and the Pacific coast in mid-October which would last until December, after that he is undetermined about his future. He will live at Newton Square, near Philadelphia.

Gandhi and Charlie Chaplin Argue Machinery in 15-Minute Interview

By ALVIN HALLMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Charlie Chaplin, who made countless millions laugh, and Mahatma Gandhi, whose self-appointed task in life is to "carry the message of the spinning wheel" to India became acquainted today in the East End home of one of Gandhi's friends.

"Gandhi is a most interesting figure," said Chaplin as he left.

"A very charming man!" was Gandhi's smiling comment.

The master of the silver screen and the leader of India's independence movement talked 15 minutes—about machinery. They might, Chaplin said afterward, have continued the argument for another hour except that at 7 o'clock Gandhi had to recite his evening prayers.

Chant Rituals

Gandhi and Madelina Slade, his English disciple who has been preparing his food, squatted on the floor during the prayers, clasped their hands, and looked toward the ceiling while they chanted the rhythmic ritualistic verse.

When the prayers were finished Chaplin told the mahatma how glad he was to have known him and then departed. Gandhi remained for a meager meal of dates and goat's milk at the home of his friends.

Most of the children and many grownups of London's east end were on hand to welcome Charlie, and they nearly pulled the clothes from his back in their excitement as he entered the house.

"Wow!" said the comedian as he was finally safe inside the door. The ovation was renewed a few minutes later when he appeared at a second-story window and expressed his appreciation.

Discuss Spinning Wheel

The mahatma and Chaplin sat beside each other on a sofa and soon found common ground for conversation in Gandhi's spinning wheel. Chaplin commented he did not understand the reason for using such a crude device when modern machinery seemed better for the purpose. Gandhi explained it was necessary to provide occupation for India's millions and that modern machinery would leave them with too much leisure.

"We might install modern looms like they have in Lancashire," he said, "but then we would produce more than we need and enforce idleness upon some other part of the world as a result of our over production."

The meeting was of Chaplin's seeking. Gandhi actually had not heard of the film comedian, but when he was told Chaplin had made millions laugh he said he would like to meet him.

Murray Awaits Oil Agreement

to do anything until they post a satisfactory price for the oil."

Martial Law to Continue

The officer, who also is chairman of the oil states advisory committee said that the three-state pact agreed to by Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma at Austin, Texas, last Friday would have no effect on the Oklahoma oil situation until a price for oil is set.

At Kansas City, Governor Murray today made it plain to interviewers that he plans to continue martial law indefinitely in the Oklahoma oil fields. State martial law, he said, is the way to keep the situation "out of the federal courts," adding: "If we took off the military order, things would bust loose and we wouldn't know where we were."

DOLLAR OIL IS PART OF REQUIREMENT

DES MOINES, Iowa., Sept. 22. (AP)—Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray said tonight he expected an arrangement would be reached shortly which would result in opening the Oklahoma flush oil wells under proration.

"We are now waiting for an agreement with the major oil companies in the mid-continent field," the Oklahoma executive said here.

Whatever the agreement is, it was apparent that as far as the governor is concerned it will be a slight if any concession from the $1 a barrel price for crude he sought in closing the wells Aug. 5.

"They made us an offer of 97 cents last week," he said. Then his jaw clamped over the end of a long since extinguished cigar as he added, "but that was a little bit short."

Told that his cousin, Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray, head of the military forces in charge of the shutdown, today had said the wells would not reopen until a "satisfactory price" was obtained, the governor said:

"Well, he knows more about it than I do."

Governor Murray had been quoted earlier in the day at Kansas City as saying he "thought" the wells would reopen tomorrow under proration and with a military guard. He did not name the companies with which negotiations are being carried on.

Referring to the dollar level tonight he said he had made his statement in the beginning "and would stock to it."

U. S. Cattlemen in Mexico to Gather Herds in Autumn

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 22. (AP)—Picturesque scenes of the old West will be revived again in November when American cattlemen in Mexico hold their fall roundups. One of the largest of these will be held on the 400,000-acre ranch of Mike Hogg and Raymond Dickson of Houston. The ranch is located in the state of Coahuila, 50 miles in the interior from Villa Acuna, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from Del Rio, Texas. Four thousand calves have been sold and will scale the tariff walls in November for delivery in Kansas City.

The ranch abounds with game, according to W. N. Wright, who tells of fishing for trout from mule back and trailing the catch in the water. Four rivers and scores of windmills supply water.

For beauty and game hunting there are the mountains with their roaring streams, deer, bear and mountain lions. Pet fawns live around the ranch homes. "Crazy quail," which huddle in bunches when men approach, bob whites and Mexican blue quail dwell on the ranch by the hundreds of thousands, Wright said.

The ranch is noted for its great ropers—Mexicans who, Wright says, "can do everything with a rope but make it sing the national anthem." The ranch has shipped out all its Brahma cattle and imports the best Hereford bulls. Range conditions are good now.

Cattle thefts, once bothersome, are no longer a source of worry, Wright said. There is, however, some loss from the coyotes.

MRS. COLLINGS' STORY STANDS

Sleuths Forced Back To Early Clues

By JOHN A. MOROSO
Noted Sociologist and Author

(Copyr't, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Investigators in the Collings murder mystery have been forced to go back to the only tangible things that might serve as clues. These include:

First, the fact that the Penguin was found adrift, its anchor rope cut, with the little daughter of the Collingses aboard, in peril of being run down and lost. There was no light aboard.

Second, that Mrs. Collings was found at daybreak calling to be taken off the launch Bo Peep.

Third, that she wore rubber soled shoes given her by one of two men she said felled, bound her husband and threw him overboard. If these shoes can be traced back, the mystery may be solved.

Fourth, that on board the Bo Peep were six blankets provided her by the same man, whom she describes as somewhat uncouth with bushy eyebrows and short cropped hair. These blankets are the most important clue.

Fifth, that a broken oar was found in the tender of the Penguin. It is broken in two places and in a manner which seems to warrant the conclusion that it was used to mash in Collings' head as he was dropped over the side of his boat.

Sixth, that the rope with which Collings was bound is known to seamen as two-strand manila. None of this rope was found aboard the Penguin.

There would be many other concrete facts to work with but for the long delay in the autopsy report. Dr. Otto H. Schultze, toxicologist and medical examiner, called into the case, would be able to tell of the condition of the brain, the lungs and the stomach.

For 12 days these silent witnesses have lain in corners of police headquarters in Mineola and the district attorney's office in Huntington. In the meantime, Inspector King and his men, District Attorney Blue and his men, scores of newspaper investigators and now Felix Di Martini and his private detective agency, have battered their heads against the strange story told by Mrs. Collings.

Nothing has happened to break the wall of that story.

left arm, shattering the bone. Two bullets entering below the breasts, passed through the lungs. Another entered the left shoulder, ranging downward and passed out at the back.

Mrs. Franklin surrendered to Constable Dave Booth, and Ed Davis, a deputy sheriff, at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. J. M. Loven, after phoning the officers: "I have shot a woman and want to give up." When officers appeared Mrs. Franklin told them, "I am the woman you are looking for."

Mrs. Franklin was released earlier this afternoon on a bond of $3,000 on a charge of assault to murder. The charge was changed to murder tonight following the death of Mrs. Wilcoxson and Mrs. Franklin quickly arranged the larger bond. She waived examining trial.

TAX COLLECTOR REVIEWS LAWS

Penalties in Effect After Oct. 15

For the purpose of making clear the requirements of the state laws relative to the payment of taxes for 1930 and 1931, Arthur C. Howard, county tax collector, furnished The Record News Tuesday with an interpretation of those measures.

State and county taxes for 1930 unpaid last Feb. 1 draw an interest rate of 10 per cent until Oct. 15. If not paid by that date the taxes draw the 10 per cent interest for the above period and in addition, from Oct. 15 until paid, they draw a five per cent penalty, six per cent interest and costs.

State and county taxes for 1931 will be under a different schedule as follows: If half of the 1931 taxes are paid by Nov. 30, the remaining half can go until June 30 without drawing any interest or penalty. If half of the taxes are not paid by Nov. 30, however, the entire amount becomes delinquent after Jan. 31 and will be subject to five per cent penalty, six per cent interest and costs after that date.

Only about 68 per cent of the state and county taxes in Wichita county for 1930 have been paid to date, Mr. Howard said. Many citizens are expected to pay up before the taxes become delinquent Oct. 16.

District Singers to Meet at Cooper Church

Members of the Wichita County District Singing convention present at the Friberg church last Sunday afternoon selected the Cooper church as the scene of the next convention, to be held on the third Sunday in October, according to J. S. Gore of Burkburnett.

It was announced Sunday that on next Sunday, Sept. 27, the Sacred Harp Singing society will meet at the Cooper church in the afternoon. The Wichita County Singing convention also will meet on the first Sunday in December at the Cashion school, it was said.

Sunday afternoon's program included numbers by the following quartets: G. W. Lane, Mrs. B. A. Schofner, Charles Mauldin, and W. M. Fields; Edith Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Robbins, and C. C. Robbins; Mrs. Schofner, Miss Alma Bates, J. C. Robertson and Charles Mauldin; Mrs. Minnie Owens, Mrs. Edith Goodlett, J. S. Gore and W. B. Johnston; Blake Johnston, J. S. Gore, W. B. Swatzel and Charles Mauldin. A children's chorus also sang.

Messrs. Lane, Mauldin, Robertson, Swatzel, J. R. Lee, W. N. Deaton, C. H. Perry, Connie Robbins, W. B. Johnston, J. D. Robbins and Gore; and Mrs. Schofner, Mrs. Minnie Owens, Misses Alma Bates, Mae Jones, Edith Robbins, and Glada Fugate acted as choral leaders during the afternoon.

Pianists were Mrs. Schofner, Miss Mildred Hansard, Blake Johnston, Mrs. Cecil Fraley, and Mrs. Minnie Owens.

The Oriental star of British International Films, Ltd., has been engaged by Paramount and Wednesday, beginning with the matinee and running through Saturday, we may see at the State Anna May Wong in the Sax Rohmer story, "Daughter of the Dragon."

Lovers of mystery stories will of course like the plot of any one of Sax Rohmer's plays. Lovers of talent will like the little Chinese girl born in Chinatown in Los Angeles, saving her nickles to slip into a cheap movie, squeezing into a cast one day and playing finally with Douglas Fairbanks in the "Thief of Bagdad."

But the sleek headed, attractive little girl was no raging success. She has said since she came home that she "died too much." For in every picture in which she was cast, she met death in some form.

When she went to England, she became the rage. Not only in pictures, where she met instant success, but in social life. Scions of noble houses bowed before her.

She has been acclaimed the Garbo of England. Speaking to a reviewer in Hollywood, she said that the three years in England was like a dream. Back in America she lives a secluded life, finding magic in books.

Her dream is to go to China, a country where she has never been; she does not plan marriage, but if it comes, hopes the man will be a Chinese scholar who has lived in the Occident.

Beautiful in person, this little Chinese girl who chooses exquisite English and carries herself in a dignified and high born manner, whose real name, "Wong Liu Tsong" means "frosted yellow willows," will bring to the talking screen something altogether new.

"From out the mire, a lily grew." The pantalooned daughter of a Chinese laundryman grew into an artist.

Negro Arrested for Train Wreck Attempt

FORT WORTH, Sept. 22. (UP)—Johnny Hannah, 20, negro, charged with attempting to wreck a passenger train in Oklahoma, was en route to Madill, Okla., today in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Grady Neal.

"I jes' wanted to slow the train down so I could get on," the negro told officers when questioned about the wrecking attempt.

Hannah escaped from a Madill jail Aug. 1, and was arrested here as he waited for pay for picking cotton.

TROOPS GUARD CATTLE TESTS

Iowa County Under Rule of Militia

TIPTON, Iowa, Sept. 22. (UP)—Eighteen hundred state militiamen were ordered here today by Brig. Gen. Park A. Findley to enforce the bovine tuberculin test against which the farmers of Cedar county have rebelled.

Action followed the declaration of martial law in the county by Gov. Dan Turner.

A special train of 16 cars brought the 108th infantry, the 113th cavalry and the 133rd infantry.

Large crowds of hostile farmers milled about the streets today, but the impressive show of military strength appeared somewhat to have cooled the belligerency of those who were contemplating further resistance against the constituted authorities.

A secret meeting of the Cedar county owners today was said to have resulted in a decision to allow the state veterinarians to go ahead with the tests.

Governor Turner declared martial law after 66 state officials had gone to the J. W. Lenker farm yesterday to protect veterinarians in their work, but were repulsed by 200 farmers armed with clubs, irons and pitchforks.

FROM BURK

Man's 'Smoking Pistol' Causes Alarm on Road Here

Residents of the north side put in an excited call Tuesday for the sheriff to disarm a suspicious looking character who paraded along the paved highway leading toward Burkburnett.

The stranger carried a dangerous looking gun, which he brandished ominously, the report said. Deputy Sheriff Ben Howle, accompanied by Office Deputy G. W. Curd, hurried to the reported location. They spotted the source of alarm, still footing it northward. He obviously recognized their mission as they accosted him.

"Want to see my pipe?" he chuckled. And it must have been a pipe, for he was puffing impressively. "Been having a lot of fun with this pipe. Got it at Burkburnett. Sure is a good imitation of a .45, ain't it?"

There was no arrest.

EXPENSIVE SMOKES

Apprehended almost six months after the alleged theft of a carton of cigarets from a store at Burkburnett, a young man of that city entered a plea of guilty to a charge of theft under $5 before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Monday and drew a fine of $1 and costs.

OIL MEN CALL UPON HOOVER

World Conference May Be Held Eventually

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—President Hoover met briefly today with representatives of the oil industry who brought to Washington a request for a curtailment of production and the eventual calling of a world oil conference.

While the oil men talked with the chief executive, Secretary Wilbur of interior said he regarded the tri-state compact to curtail oil production as "the most hopeful sign of a real desire on the part of the oil states to get together."

Wilbur said, however, he felt plans for a world oil conference were too "ambitious" at this time.

"We should get our own house in order before negotiating with other countries," Wilbur said. "We should be able to say definitely to foreign representatives when we meet that the United States can definitely promise certain things."

Among those who came to the White House were J. F. Lucy of Dallas, representing the governor of Texas; William Davis, of Bartlesville, Okla., of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association; Wirt Franklin, Oklahoma City operator; Thurman D. Hill, of the Kansas public service commission, and Paul Walker, chairman of the Oklahoma corporation commission.

The plan discussed calls for a reduction of imports on a scale comparable with the reduction of domestic production.

Lucy, after the call, said that if and when a world conference was called it probably would meet at the request of the American Petroleum institute.

"That bully old slogan hits me just right—

. . . no bamboozlin' about that!"

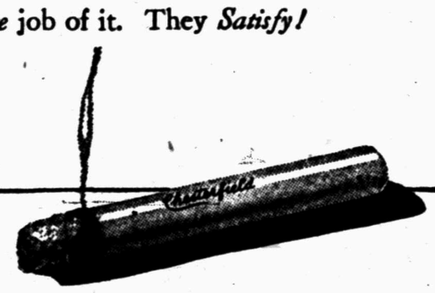

SURE! When a word fits, you know it! "Satisfy" just fits CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its neat appearance—no heavy inks or odors from ink. That satisfies him.

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled; it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white. And that satisfies him.

He lights up. At the very first puff he likes the flavor and the rich aroma. He decides that it tastes better—neither raw nor over-sweet; just pleasing and satisfying.

Then he learns it is milder. That's another way of saying that there is nothing irritating about it. And again he's satisfied!

Satisfy—they've got to satisfy! The right tobaccos, the CHESTERFIELD kind, cured and aged, blended and cross-blended, to a taste that's right. Everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. CHESTERFIELDS do a complete job of it. They Satisfy!
