Young Peoples Needs Stressed At Methodist Church Tuesday

Young people, their needs and problems, and their activities in the church was the principal subject before the meeting of the women of the Methodist church held all day Tuesday. Miss Bess Combs, of Nashville, Tennessee, and Mrs. C. E. Jamison, of Memphis, Texas, each spoke, giving many things from their experience which will greatly benefit the work in Lubbock.

During the morning session too short for the entire program, Miss Combs delivered two addresses in the afternoon which were the high spots of the day's meeting. Her first was on the work of the young people in the church, and the second on Missionary work in China. Miss Combs is an inspiration to all who hear her and is particularly fitted to discuss the subjects which she chose. She is at the present time employed by the Missionary Council as field worker among the young people of the church, and has had a great deal of experience with them in her work as student secretary in several colleges. She was for six years a Missionary to China, and views the Chinese with a tolerant and sympathetic heart. Her address on China was especially pleasing.

Mrs. Jamison spoke in the morning and gave a report of the Young Peoples Conference recently held in Memphis, Tenn., to which she was a delegate. She is Superintendent of Young People in the Northwest Texas Conference, and is deeply interested in the work.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. G. C. Wolfarth, president of the W. M. S.

Mrs. S. H. Adams, of Slaton, district secretary, gave the welcome address to the visitors, and also presided over both the afternoon and morning sessions.

Mrs. Joe Flagg favored the assembly with an organ solo, which was greatly appreciated.

At the noon hour a bountiful buffet luncheon was served to about 75 women of the church and the visitors.

One of the most delightful features of the program were the four numbers on the organ by Mr. W. E. Washburn, professor of music at the Texas Technological college.

Four visiting ministers of the church were present, and all who attended the meeting found it an inspiration.

One of the most interesting meetings that has been held in the city for some time was the program of the evening at the Methodist Church last night.

The meeting proper, featuring Miss Combs, a missionary to China, was held at 7:30 under the direction and supervision of the Epworth League.

A number of rousing songs, such as "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," "To the Work," and others, were sung, with music by the Sunday school orchestra and the organ.

Mr. Whiteside, president of the local league, was chairman of the meeting. Scripture lesson, the Twenty-third Psalm, was given by Richard Cavett, league district secretary. A very beautiful organ solo was played by Mrs. Neal, following which the speakers of the evening were introduced.

Mrs. C. E. Jamison, of Memphis, who is conference superintendent of Young Peoples Work in Northwest Texas, gave a brief resume of the league work in this section, and introduced Miss Combs, who has been for thirteen years an active missionary in central China.

Miss Combs' talk was unique and interesting, yet very sincere. With a wealth of knowledge, gained under first hand experiences, she was able to deal with her subject of "China," and her appeal to the young people of America.

In discussing her work in general, and in her statement of facts as they really are, she touched some vital points in the relationship of American peoples with those of China. After a six-year absence her first thought upon her return to America was of the vast change that has come over America. Most important, to her, was the change that has taken place in young people.

"Present-day youth," she said, "seems to not want goodness. That's what is on the outside—the veneer. But deep in the heart of Young America is an honesty in purpose; a desire for truth, and a yearning for the big things—the real things—of life, that will not always be denied."

Miss Combs is "home" on a furlough, and is taking up the year she has at home in working with young people. Her message was one of prime importance to Lubbock young people, and Lubbock is fortunate in having secured here for a young people's meeting.

Athenaeum Club Has Interesting Study Tuesday

The Athenaeum Club met in regular session at the club room in the First Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon. Roll call was answered with current events and several items of special interest to club women were given. A snappy thirty-minute business meeting followed. The executive officers of the club were instructed to confer immediately with Miss McGee and Miss West, who mapped out a plan for actively sponsoring "Better English Week." This movement, should interest all club women and especially those clubs whose object is cultural. Mrs. Price has again shown discernment in a district appointment. Miss McGee is not only capable but she is enthusiastic, and it is to be hoped that every individual club woman will enter this better speech program with the determination to make our district take the lead in the furtherance of this movement.

In the absence of Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Baugh made an excellent and temporary leader. The subject: Paul Hamilton Hayne and Sidney Lanier, two of the South's outstanding poet authors, made the lesson one of the most interesting of the year, and it is to be regretted that some of the club members had to miss this lesson on account of illness and for other reasons. Mrs. A. B. Davis sketched the life of Hayne and read one of his poems to which a delightfully thrilling story is appended.

Miss McGee gave some beautiful readings from the matchless Lanier, "The Song of the Chattahoochee," and "March of Glenn."

Mrs. Moxley gave a short sketch of the pathetic life of this greatest of Southern poets.

Mrs. T. W. Sawyer and Mrs. Ferguson added interesting bits from his life and letters and the gist of the general discussion set forth prominently the fact that the music which filled the soul of Lanier flowed forth in poetry in his every act. It is also noteworthy that Lanier's name is accorded a place in the "National Hall of Fame."

"The Symphony," a poem in which Lanier scathingly scores the soullessness of "Trade," was a topic for general discussion.

Hayne as the "Prince of American Songsters" was ably discussed by Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Hankins and others.

Sorosis Club Met With Mrs. Trent Tuesday

The Sorosis club enjoyed a most delightful afternoon Tuesday as guests in the home of Mrs. Dana Harmon Trent at 2017 Main street. In the absence of Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. S. A. Henry lead the discussion on "Poverty Its Causes and Desirable Steps Toward Its Elimination." Excellent and illuminating papers on various phases of the subject were read by Mrs. E. E. Roberts, Mrs. Richard Maxwell and Mrs. R. H. Moore.

At the business session it was decided to accept the invitation of Mrs. O. B. Howell to make her home the permanent meeting place for the club for the remainder of the season. Mrs. W. W. Royalty who is leaving the city for several months was granted a leave of absence with the privilege of retaining membership in the club. Many interesting plans were discussed for several features which will be announced in the near future.

After the regular program a charming social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Trent and Miss Lois Harkey, favored the club with several musical numbers, featuring compositions by Percy Grainger, who is to be heard in Lubbock next week. A refreshment plate of nut sandwiches and coffee with whipped cream was passed while the members enjoyed further informal discussion of plans for the winter.

The meeting adjourned with all the members agreeing that they were very fortunate in having the gracious hospitality of such members as Mrs. Trent.

Delphian Club Praised By Mrs. Greathouse

Among the many compliments which have been received by the Lubbock Delphian Club on the Art exhibit which they gave two weeks ago, one of the most appreciated came from Mrs. G. W. Greathouse, of Fort Worth, who had arranged the exhibit.

Mrs. J. V. Connor, general chairman of the exhibit Mrs. Greathouse several press clippings concerning the work, and also sent the picture by Mrs. Minnie W. Johnson, which was given the exhibit by the Delphian club.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Greathouse:

January 28, 1926.

My Dear Mrs. Connor:

Your letter of the fifteenth just received. My heart goes out to you and yours for the wonderful success you are making with the exhibit. I am deeply indebted to you and to the Delphian Club for the picture painted by one of your own Lubbock ladies, Mrs. Johnson, which you so kindly gave to the exhibit department of the T. F. W. C. We shall be glad to use it our travel exhibit. Send the picture in the box you return to me, as all exhibits will please be returned to my address before going elsewhere.

I shall certainly report this to our club paper. Your club is certainly a club worth while.

I thank you.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. G. W. GREATHOUSE,
State Art Exhibit Chairman.

Twentieth Century Club Met Tuesday Afternoon

The Twentieth Century Club held its regular meeting at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, January 26, with Mrs. H. A. Davidson, presiding and Mrs. J. T. Krueger, acting as secretary.

Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Mrs. M. C. Overton, and Mrs. O. D. Hargis were appointed as calendar committee for the coming year.

Mrs. Joe Penney led an interesting lesson on the book of travel by Frank G. Carpenter. Mrs. Percy Spencer gave a current event, "The Race question in America," and took as subject the Osage Indian Murders.

Mrs. H. A. Davidson gave "News from France" telling of the Locarno agreements.

Mrs. H. Woods told an interesting story of Morocco, "Where the women wear trousers."

Mrs. J. A. Rix gave a comprehensive study of "Kairoon the Holy" Mrs. Wilson described "The Ancient City of Tripoli," telling of its STRICTLY tailored styling is not characteristic of the French couturier. The Paris designer shows a greater art, that of presenting a delightful feminine interpretation of cloth, fur and novelty detail, which because of the implication of true gentleness in newer contrivances its appropriateness for street wear.

The handsome costumes here pictured very charmingly illustrate this point: that two-piece suits and ensembles need not be severely conventional to serve as stylish expressions of correct street modes.

The Vogue for skirt and blouse effect is emphasized in the costume to the left. The high collar, the wide-buckled belt, the inverted plaits in the skirt are style details observed throughout the mode. Gentle fur is employed on this two-piece mode of cinnamon-colored suede cloth. Fur also borders the ensemble coat to the right, which further bespeaks a feminine touch in the tying of velvet ribbon bows at the front opening and at the underarm seams.

There is much favor for sports costumes which consist of jumper with plaited skirt with a long coat to match, the latter in straightline. Compose suits are worked out in ingenious manner, in that while a strict matching is not observed there is a relationship expressed in responsive colorings and certain details. For instance, a costume may be linked together in that general coloring denotes Chinese origin. Perhaps the general tone of the outfit may trend to Russian or mid-European. The general impression may be accentuated through suggesting a peasant blouse in the tunic with a printed lining to the coat patterned in gay Russian design. In other words, genuine artistry is expended in the fashioning of the ensemble, so that it presents a perfected unit in its entirety.

An achievement of French styling for spring is the long over-blouse of heavy all-over lace which poses over the modestly faced skirt topped with its matching three-quarter length coat.

gathered at the lower edges and attached to wristbands of self-material. The diagram shows the yugian sleeve, which is very fashionable this season. In fact, the introduction of the elastic sleeve has in no way affected the favor of the raglan model is held. It is necessary that all notches be carefully marked, so that they can be exactly matched.

The sleeve is basted evenly with the neckline, as shown in the figure. Then the shoulder seams are basted together and stitched. After they are stitched, the seams are carefully pressed open and notched. If preferred, they may be bound with some binding, especially when silk or cotton fabrics are used in the development of the dress. A French seam is not advisable in the case of the raglan sleeve.

In addition to taffeta, flat crepe and even crepe satin are frequently employed to develop youthful models. This is a type of frock that would reproduce well in any fabric. Even in gingham or the tub prints it would be pretty, trimmed with collar and cuffs of contrasting material. The fullness at the hips may be held in either with a leather or a ribbon belt, preferably the former—in shades.

Without violating the laws of youthful modes, this design features many of the details that distinguish grown-up fashions this season.

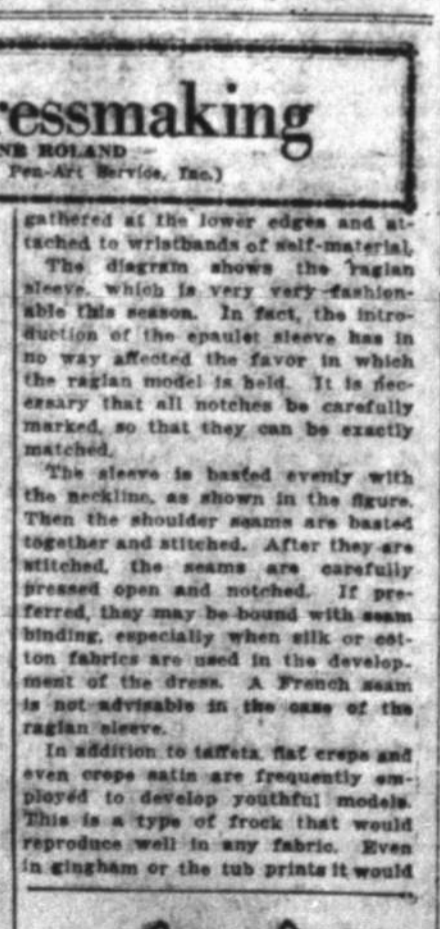

The skirt, for instance, achieves the smart fall effect by means of plaits, and the plaits are clustered at the front in quite the latest fashion. The dress buttons straight down the front, also another smart mode, while the collar is of contrasting material. The long sleeves are

BLOOD AND SAND FROM EL TORO

A Tech boy, gone back home for the holidays, tripped over a fallen tree and broke his leg while chasing a skunk. Providence sometimes employs hard methods to protect humans from the results of their folly. Which nearly all poetry, and more truth than poetry.

Well, the Daniel Baker boys are gone home, and the season's begun. Not such a grand start, we admit, as was made upon the gridiron, but it will suffice and here's to their further success along certain lines.

Which reminds us of the answer we once heard while an applicant was talking to the Coach for a place on the team. Coach asked the fellow what experience he had on the field, to which the little college replied: "Well, sir, my experience wasn't altogether on the field, but last summer I was hit by two autos and a truck."

Doughnuts were served at Cherica the other day. Now doughnuts are a delicacy that are not to be overlooked altogether, but they certainly do have their disadvantages. "Who invented the hole in doughnuts, anyway?" "Oh, some fresh-air fiend, I suppose."

He: "Perhaps you would like me to show you my family tree?" She: "Oh, please do; I've never seen a coconut tree!"

We did know that the Plains were a rather nice place to live, and we do miss the squirrels something awful, but we didn't realize what it all means until in History class yesterday, while discussion was being made of the Fundamental issue in old France, subsequent mention was made of the woodlands. And one of the bright boys in the class wanted to know what the woodlands were for, anyway!

One of our college professors says that athletics are interesting with studies. According to him, it seems that the three R's of today must be Rah! Rah! Rah!

Scoutmaster, "If you found a man with a severe cut on his head which was bleeding freely, what would you do?" Scout: "I'd put a tourniquet on his neck!"

Worse than the authentic reports of the Florida rush was the mad rush for kodaks, films, and then the rush on the studios following the first fall of snow.

We don't blame them, we had lots of fun, too, and only wish there'd been more films in our kodak so we could have taken more. We happened to be over at one of the local finishers' shop yesterday, and some lady who'd had rather bad luck with her prints wondered what was the matter. We'd most wager that the kodak was all to blame—it just did not know how to get with all this snow. That snow, we should have said, unless we had reference to the big patch of snow that remains out in front of the administration building. Pretty! And pretty cold!

prunes, whites of 3 or 4 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar 1-2 tablespoon lemon juice. Pick over and wash prunes, then soak several hours in cold water to cover; cook in same water until soft; remove stones and rub thru a strainer, add sugar, and cook five minutes; the mixture should be of the consistency of marmalade. Beat whites of eggs until stiff, add prune mixture gradually when cold, and lemon juice. Pile lightly on buttered pudding dish, bake twenty minutes in slow oven. Serve cold with soft custard.

Soft Custard
 Yolks of 3 eggs, three-eighths of cup sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one pint hot milk. Beat the yolks of the eggs slightly, add the sugar and salt, gradually add to this mixture the hot milk. Cook over hot water until mixture will coat the spoon. Cool and add vanilla.

White Sauce Omelet
 Three tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, pepper, two and one-half tablespoons butter, one cup milk, 4 eggs. Make a white sauce of the milk, fat, flour, and seasoning. Separate the whites and yolks of the eggs, and beat them until light. When the white sauce is cool, stir in the yolks and fold in the whites. Place small amount of fat in an omelet pan, heat and turn omelet into it. Cook slowly, occasionally turning the pan so that the omelet is set and delicately browned underneath, place it in a hot oven for a few minutes to dry the top. Fold and serve immediately.

Are You One of Those Persons Always Right?

There are persons, you know, who are ALWAYS RIGHT. There is no country or race but theirs; No church, No political party, No profession. Think of them as you read this little essay by Voltaire, who braved imprisonment and death when he put his thoughts in print; for there was little tolerance in France in his time for a preacher of tolerance: "I know that men have disorders in their brain. We have seen a musician die mad because his music did not appear good enough. Some folks have imagined that their noses were made of glass; but if any were so violently afflicted as to fancy, for instance, that they were always right, would there be cause enough for such a strange disorder? "And if these patients, in order to maintain they were always in the right, should threaten with immediate death any who thought them in the wrong— "If they appointed spies to discover those who were refractory— "If they condemned a father upon the testimony of his son, a mother upon that of her daughter, to perish in flames— "Should not these people be confined and treated like bedlamites?" These words were written two centuries ago, when men and women and children were burned to rid them of evil spirits. Humans are still being subjected to the inquisition by persons who are Always Right. Men still are tortured for their religious beliefs.

MATADORS DROP SECOND TILT 28 TO 32

Hill Billies Get Away Again With Matadors Winning Second Game of Season By A Count of 28 to 32

The Texas Tech cager went down again in defeat at the hands of the Daniel Baker Hill Billies in the second game of the schedule card of the Matadors. Like the game on Monday evening the lack of fight on the part of the Matadors was not lacking for during the entire affair there was the determination and desire for victory written on the earnest face of each of the quintet.

The score indicated a slight improvement of the last appearance of the Matadors, however, losing the game last evening by a 28 to 32 count and the one Monday night by a 37 to 25 score.

Gilbert White was the defense strength of the Matadors last evening blocking the consistent offense drive of the visitors time and again and turning the ball back toward the Tech goal time after time. He crashed through the visitor's defense several times to deliver to the Matador forwards field goals.

Miller, high point man for the night before, came back with the same fight and eye that he had the night before and registered the same count making 13 points of the visitor's 32. Gene Alford was second high point man with 9 of the 28 points score by the Tech Matadors.

Walkey the main stay of the defense on Monday night did not appear on the floor due to the fact that he is nursing a lame leg, he was replaced by Buey who played a brilliant game and arched the ball several times for spectacular shoots that were made beyond the center of the floor.

Mansell, new to the Matador squad but far from new in the game was put in the last few minutes of play displayed some good passing which was responsible for the almost rally that was made in the closing minutes of the game.

Cobb, Speaker and Collins Named As "Most Valuable"

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins were given special tribute for their great careers in the American League Tuesday when Ban H. Johnson, president of the league, announced that they had been added to the list of "most valuable players" in the league.

These three veterans of the diamond, whose names have been near the top of the list for more than a decade, become members of the American League's "hall of fame" alongside George Sisler, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson and Roger Peckinpaugh.

When the committee of baseball writers that selected the years most valuable player started their work in 1922, Sisler was their choice. Ruth won the honor in 1925, Johnson in 1924, and Peckinpaugh last year.

Meanwhile public sentiment, according to Ban Johnson, demanded some recognition for the great work of Cobb, Speaker and Collins, whose careers are nearing an end. They have now been added to the hall of fame by unanimous consent of the baseball writers, with Johnson's sanction.

Boxing Ruled With Iron Hand By New York Commission

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Although its reign is threatened, the New York state athletic commission continues to rule boxing with an iron hand. Its latest decision has driven Paul Berlenbach to decide to leave this state and seek matches in Ohio and California.

So bronzed from the Florida sun that he was ordered by a brakeman to travel in a "jim crow" car, the light-heavyweight champion returned to New York to hear what the commission had to say about his next match. What he heard was sufficient to cause Berlenbach and Dan Hickey, his manager, to shrug their shoulders and say:

"Good-bye, New York."

The commission told Paul that he can make no matches in this state until he boxes Mike McTigue, the Irishman.

Under the commission's own rules Berlenbach need not defend his title for nearly five months. But because the boxing solons promised the "winner" of the McTigue-Flowers fight a bout with the champion, it insists that Paul meet Mike before boxing any one else in New York.

Berlenbach, who is one of the few champions who fear no opponents, wants to fight Eddie Huffman of California instead of McTigue. He thinks Huffman a better fighter and a better drawing card than the Irishman, and sees only loss of prestige as his share of a McTigue fight. "We are going out of town for a few months," said Hickey. "Matches are being arranged for Paul in Cleveland and on the Pacific coast, since the boxing commission restricts our appearance here."

Off in one corner, while Hickey was making the announcement, stood Mike, his chest thrown out. "So, the man killer is afraid to fight me," demanded the darling of Dublin. But he didn't say it loud enough for the words to reach Berlenbach's sun-burned ears.

STEADY WINNINGS SECURE WILLIS POPULARITY

CANNES, France, Jan. 26.—An auspicious start in the Gallia tournament in which she played and won three matches Tuesday, has increased Helen Willis' prestige with Riviera tennis enthusiasts.

Seats for the Carlton tournament, which will be held at Cannes early in February, and in which both the American champion and Suzanne Lenglen are entered, are selling for 500 francs each.

Helen and Suzanne are not to meet in the Nice tournament, as had been expected. Both objected to the grooved Stanger tennis ball which will be used at Nice. The Dunlop ball is specified by the rules governing the Carlton tourney.

Hence, it will be about three weeks before Miss Willis and Mlle. Lenglen clash. The American girl is glad for the postponement. She wishes more time to become accustomed to the balls which are in use here, as they are not as lively as the United States brand.

Oil Flows From Test Well For Wildcatters

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 26.—The hopes and prayers of the residents and wild cat oil drillers of Kingman county that oil would be struck in this section have been realized.

A well was discovered on the L. M. Richardson farm near here Tuesday at a depth of 3,872 feet. It is flowing at the rate of 500 barrels an hour.

Oil men and geologists at the well late Tuesday predicted a much larger well when it is finally drilled in. D. P. Feeger and the Carter Oil Co., drilled the well. Oil men are coming here from every large field in the southwest because of this new strike.

ing upon the court. Rejected, 82 to 6.

The Swanson reservations which have been approved by the senate are somewhat broader than those originally proposed which had been approved by the chief members of the court. However, it is expected that the other reservations will interpose no objection to the United States joining the court on the conditions stipulated by the senate.

One of the conditions is expected to make American participation in the court somewhat cumbersome, as it requires that this government take a case into the court only by treaty with the parties in the dispute. This means that before any case involving the United States can get into the court, the senate must by two-thirds vote approve a treaty of authorization.

Under the terms of the conditions, some delay will intervene before the United States becomes an active participant in the court. The senate directs that the United States obtain, through written exchange with other signatories to the protocol, their consent to the reservations.

This signifies to the protocol, their consent probably will be done through the secretary of the League of Nations, which is the depository for the court protocol.

If and when the other signatories agree, the state department will direct some one, probably the American minister at Geneva, to affix the official signature of the United States to the protocol.

Disturbances of Air and Earth Not Explained

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Erratic disturbances below the surface of the earth and in the atmosphere above have become general throughout the United States in the last 12 hours, puzzling scientists and bringing strange explanations of their origin.

Brokers, telegraph and telephone companies were inconvenienced by capricious earth currents which struck communication lines from coast to coast. Outside trading in the Chicago wheat pit was impaired by the inability of tickers and other telegraph instruments to function accurately under the series of shocks.

The seismograph at Chicago University registered a distinct tremor in the early hours of the morning but the waves were so short that observers could not locate the center of the disturbance or its distance from Chicago. Neither could they say whether it had any connection with the earth currents.

Attempts to explain the weak radio reception of European broadcasting stations in terms of the disturbances failed, scientists explaining this merely as a coincidence.

Prof. P. Fox, of the astronomy observatory, said sun spots may be causing the earth currents. Henry J. Cox, head meteorologist of here, said sun spots also were responsible for the abnormally cold weather that has engulfed the central portion of the country.

"Sun spots, recurring in cycles of eleven years, are beginning to appear," said Prof. Fox. "We have just observed two large ones without the use of special glasses."

FANNING WITH FARRELL
NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (United Press)—Soccer football, a so-called minor sport, is one of the prominent games that is being developed with astounding rapidity in the recent craze of the public for something beside baseball and boxing.

Hockey has had a phenomenal spurt into popularity this season and the professional "college" football game became almost a craze but the real fuels about soccer are only now becoming appreciated.

There are almost 1,200 eleven players in the game under the auspices of the United States Football Association controlling the game in their territory. Nearly 20,000 troling body, pledged to play under players are registered with the uniform rules and subject to discipline.

This does not take into consideration the players engaged in the sport in the schools and colleges where actually as many more are playing as under organized football.

Just an illustration. In Greater New York there are sixty-five schools playing the game with 475 class elevens and easily 7,500 lads on the teams. In proportion to their size, other cities in the country boast of similar activities.

These players are beginning to find their way into the bigger teams and into league competition. The alumni of Bushwick High School have formed a team and they are leading a division in the Empire State League in which they have not lost a game this season.

This great expansion has been going on quietly the last few years especially since the advent of the American Soccer League, the big pro organization.

Already the big club owners are going into other countries, where soccer is a major sport for their players on the assumption that Americans want to see the best only in any sport.

When the most glamorous picture is over—and you come outside to the bright lights and the brighter laughter of friends—have a Camel!

WHEN the exciting scenes are over. And you leave the great theatre thrilled at what you've seen. When, as the organ peals forth its rolling music, you come outside with jovial, laughing friends—have a Camel!

For nothing else on earth could be so refreshing among the great white lights as Camel. Camel adds of its own bright goodness to the enjoyment of every pleasing scene. Camel is the hale friend and companion for eventful days and carefree evenings. Here is something worth writing in words of gold: "Camels never tire the taste, or leave a cigarettety after-taste, no matter how freely you smoke them." And what's more, you can't buy choicer tobaccos or more perfect blending, no matter how much you pay.

So, this night as you leave for the brilliant scenes. And when the big show is finished and you've seen life in its tense and purposeful moments—know then the mellowest fragrance that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

No other cigarette in the world is like Camels. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The Camel blend is the triumph of expert blenders. Even the Camel cigarette paper is the finest—made especially in France. Into this one brand of cigarettes is concentrated the experience and skill of the largest tobacco organization in the world.

Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price.

Former Orderly to Gen. Bliss Faces Hanging for Death of Friend

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—William Steele, who accompanied Gen. Tasker H. Bliss as his orderly and confidential messenger with the secret American mission which represented the United States in Europe in 1917 and 1918, is to be tried for murder here this month.

The charge is first degree, and the Prosecuting Attorney will ask that he be hanged.

He admits shooting his former friend, George Neagle, but says he can prove it was in self-defense.

Central Press Photos

Talks from Cell

Steele, who was in the army from 1910 to 1913, obtained training as a mounted messenger at Fort Bliss. In 1917, when America entered the World War, he re-enlisted and was made an orderly sergeant messenger. He was stationed at Fort Myer, Va., with Troop B, Second Cavalry.

"I guess it was because of my previous experience that I was selected to serve Gen. Bliss when he was in need of an orderly for the European mission," says Steele. I reported to him in Washington and received my orders from him directly. These instructions included strict orders to keep paying inquisitive persons away from the members of the mission.

Besides Gen. Bliss, the mission included Col. Edward M. House, President Wilson's personal representative; Admiral Benson, navy chief; Cabinet Members, Senators, Congressmen and diplomats. Two warships, the Huntington and St. Louis were used, half of the mission being on each boat.

"The mission visited London first, establishing headquarters at No. 10 Downing Street. Later we crossed the English Channel and took up quarters in Versailles."

Wounded and Sent Home

After sixteen months of service Steele was wounded in the hip and was invalided home. He was sent to base hospital at Fort McPherson. When convalescent he went to Atlanta and assisted in a Liberty Loan drive, getting one subscription of $5,000 and another for $10,000.

He returned to New Orleans, his former home, received compensation from the Government and became a general insurance vocational student. It was while he was studying this business as a life work that he became involved in the escapade which brought him to a cell and facing trial for murder, with his life a possible forfeit.

It was a row which started as a mark. Steele and Neagle went to that part of the city where the floozies and patsam of humanity are found, men from every clime and of every race.

The way Steele tells it is this: "I was friendly with Neagle and only the day I shot him I did him a favor which I thought he would not forget."

"All of a sudden a fight was started and an Indian performer struck Neagle. I struck back in his defense. Neagle jumped on me as I was walking out. He cursed me. I thought my life was in danger and drew my revolver and fired."

EGG DEMONSTRATION
FARM AT BRADY IS A BIG SUCCESS

BRADY, Texas, Jan. 26.—The Brady Chamber of Commerce has reason to be proud of its Egg Demonstration Farm, which now has 1,650 chickens.

Due to the installation of electric lights in the laying houses, the egg production during the last month has been 100 per cent. The lights are turned on at 4:30 in the morning in order to give the hens a full day, as in summer time, to get the necessary amount of exercise and food. January 14th broke all records with a total of 922 eggs for the day.

The electric lights are also used to heat the drinking water, and even in freezing weather, when the hens get off the roost they have slightly warm water to drink. There are one hundred nests in each house, and the hens are kept in the laying houses most of the day to prevent the loss of eggs. Dry mash is kept on the floors to encourage them to scratch for grain.

The demonstration farm is a success. Brady has informed the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and the directors are well pleased with the experiment.

BEAN PRODUCTION IS PROFITABLE AT MIDLAND

MIDLAND, Jan. 26.—A comparatively new and profitable crop in the Midland country is that of growing beans in wholesale quantities. F. F. Elkin, near Midland, thrashed his beans this week and averaged about 1200 pounds to the acre. He has a five acre patch, and at the low price of six cents per pound, wholesale, he will practically clear $300.

Mr. Elkin says that it is easy to make this crop and is inexpensive to harvest, and if enough farmers can be interested in putting it in he will purchase a power threshing machine.

R. Q. Lee, President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, states that this crop will be an excellent addition to the diversification campaign for West Texas.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

By TODD W. WRIGHT, United News Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Wall street was disappointed Tuesday when directors of the United States Steel Corporation failed to make any increase in the corporation's dividends at their meeting after the close of the market.

The financial community had expected rather hopefully that the directors would treat stockholders more generously as a result of the record business the corporation is now enjoying.

Earnings for the last quarter of 1925 were announced and they revealed a substantial gain over the corresponding period of 1924, but slightly under the preceding quarter.

There is no way of telling what effect the failure to increase the dividend will have on the market. Wall street may take the attitude that in view of this bad news the time is ripe for a resumption of the advance, just as a decline usually follows the publication of good news. On the other hand, it is just as likely to dampen speculative enthusiasm on account of the corporation's failure to admit in a material sense the current prosperity of industrial and business conditions.

Wall street is usually pretty well informed of dividend policy of the various concerns represented on the stock market far in advance of the directors' meetings, but the officials of the steel corporation prefer to remain silent.

As a result of the complete lack of information as to what the corporation's directors would do in regard to dividends and because of the commanding position that concerns' stock holds in the market, traders were unwilling to adopt any definite policy and the market fluctuated irregularly Tuesday.
