Seek Quick Approval

"They are to formulate local programs with a view to winning quick approval here in Washington. To do this the state advisory boards must study local projects in the light of the announced policies of the federal emergency administration of public works.

"The state advisory boards are to proceed without delay in selecting for early submission to the administrator a balanced program of useful public works which will move men from relief rolls to pay rolls.

Five Bandits Seek Justice For Prisoners

Kansas Prison Fugitives Send Letter To Oklahoma Paper Confessing That They Robbed Arkansas Bank

Two Held In Jail

Desperadoes Put Their Finger Prints On Note In Order To Make It Authentic; Reason For Action Given

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 26.—Five desperadoes who remain at large of eleven who fled the Kansas state prison last decoration day after kidnaping the warden, added to their criminal records today the robbery of a Black Rock, Ark., bank June 16, anxious that two men held as suspects here not "suffer for our acts."

In a letter to the Oklahoma Publishing company, the five authenticated their identity by affixing their finger prints which were verified.

Five Are Named

They are Wilbur Underhill, known as "the tri-state terror," under life sentence for murder of a Wichita, Kas., policeman: Bob "Big Boy" Brady, perpetrator of many sensational escapes, under life sentence as an habitual criminal; Harvey Bailey, Jim Clark, and Ed Davis, under sentences of 20 to 100 years for a Kansas bank robbery.

The letter was postmarked 2:30 p. m. July 24, at Coalgate, Okla. It contained more than 400 words, describing in detail how the robbery was accomplished and denying the loot was more than one fourth of the amount reported by bank officials.

Explanation Given

"As an explanation of our apparent desire to see justice done," the letter concluded, "we state that one of our party (Wilbur Underhill) was given a life sentence in the Oklahoma state prison for a murder that he was innocent of. Three others (Ed Davis, Frank Sawyer, and Jim Clark), were innocent of the robbery of the Bourbon county bank at Fort Scott, Kas. (Sawyer has been recaptured).

"Therefore, we sympathize with the accused who are innocent, and want no man to suffer for our acts."

The men held here, Thelbert Brady, 23, of El Reno, and E. J. Wyatt, 38, Tulsa, who are opposing extradition in habeas corpus proceedings set for hearing Saturday morning. Both claimed alibis.

Post Greeted By President

Warm Congratulations Offered By Roosevelt After Flight Around World; Chief Speaks To CMTC Unit

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Wiley Post was warmly congratulated by President Roosevelt today for his recent solo flight around the world that set a speed record for the journey.

The Oklahoma flier had planned to go through the nation's capital and the White House reception in very much the same speedy fashion in which he circled the globe. But, as happened once or twice on his lengthy trip, the weather upset his plans.

Leaves By Train

He had hoped to leave Washington about two hours after he set his plane down on mud-soaked Bolling Field, but a drizzling rain and low visibility held him earthbound. He left the capital by train less than an hour after his reception at the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt received the aviator in the White House and then took him to the portico where the president spoke briefly to members of the citizens training corps.

Devoting most of his talk to the exploits of Post, the president concluded with

"Come on Wiley, give us a little talk."

Mr. Roosevelt reached out and almost pulled the flier to the railing. After Post had recovered his voice, he said to the group before him:

"I admire the American uniform

Texas Cotton Farmers Will Receive $42,679,770 In Cash For Reduction

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, July 26. Texas cotton farmers will receive approximately $42,679,770 in cash from the national government's gigantic cotton acreage reduction campaign, according to latest tabulations made by Texas agricultural extension service officials.

In addition, the lone star state growers will receive options on about 747,765 bales of government cotton. All of this, of course, is contingent upon the acceptance of contracts without change by national authorities.

A total of 249,324 contracts were signed in 223 counties. Farms included in the contracts have a total of 11,840,650 acres planted to cotton, of which 4,346,899 acres were offered to the government for retirement.

The tabulations revealed that if all the contracts are accepted without change, Texas farmers will receive $24,320,746 under the straight rental plan and $18,359,024 under the rental plan which also includes options on government-owned cotton.

Final Details In Huge Drive Are Completed

House To House Canvass Will Be Staged In Each Section And Advertising Campaign Will Be Launched

Roosevelt And Johnson Both Have Expressions Of Confidence; Some Protests Are Reported Lodged

By JAMES P. SELVAGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 26—New interpretations of President Roosevelt's blanket agreement of wages and hours for industry were in the making tonight by the national recovery administration on the eve of the wide-spread appeal to 5,000,000 employers to restore purchasing power.

To meet difficulties which have arisen about some sections of the agreement which the chief executive is asking all employers to make with him, starting tomorrow, Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, and his legal staff began clarification to meet objections of some industries.

House To House Canvass

Meantime, details of the elaborate campaign to take the "N.R.A." and its "blue eagle" to the nation were announced by the administration. It called for a house to house canvass in every community to enlist support.

Initially more than 70,000,000 pieces of printed matter with the campaign insignia prominently displayed were being sent out as a part of the emergency re-employment campaign. 13,000 organizations which have already pledged support will set up campaign groups in each locality and a deluge of advertising will be used to bring distributors of merchandise under the provisions of the agreement and to urge buyers to deal only with those shops displaying the "blue eagle."

Confidence Expressed

Even before the agreements began going out to each employer there were expressions from President Roosevelt and Johnson of confidence that the effort would succeed. Johnson predicted the campaign would put between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 jobless back to work by labor day.

In seeking to clarify interpretations of the blanket agreement, Johnson aimed particularly at two sections to which there have been some protests.

The first read: (the employer agrees) "not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours work in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules."

The second reads: "It is agreed

Needlework Is Pleasant Diversion At Afternoon Club Parties Given Here On Wednesday

From The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche-Journal Woman's Editor

NEWSPAPERS receive, regularly, items concerning movie actresses and actors. One thing that frequently comes to this desk concerns the beauty secrets of the actresses.

These stars, to read what we receive, have particular beauty aids. If one believed what one hears one might think that special soaps, hair brushes, tooth powders and other such material things were directly responsible for the attractiveness of these women.

There was one recently on nail polish playing "an important part in beauty aids." There followed the quotation from some actress that "I usually use a medium shade of polish, but when I'm feeling particularly gay I use a dark red polish."

Which is one of the things that makes me grit my teeth. There may be women who look gayer with red finger nails and whose hands are enhanced by the use of this color but I have yet to meet her.

For some reason, the women I have seen wearing red polish usually have the hardest looking hands and actually give their nails the least care. The result is that there is a smear of polish that makes the hands look like claws that need washing.

Maybe there is something attractive about the practice, but as far as I am concerned it is in the class with heavy mascara and too-bright lip rouge that is badly smeared. Maybe these things can be applied with such technique that they are attractive but so far this use has escaped me.

NO GOOD REASON

JUST because a thing has been handed down from another generation is no reason for believing that it should be observed.

There are traditions of dress, for instance. Many people believe that a young person should never wear black, that black is the color for widows and old women and that young women should never appear in such a drab color. There is the belief that no blond should wear red and that all brunettes will find red the most becoming color. There is the belief that short hair makes a woman look younger and that long hair gives her age.

There are these traditional beliefs and thousands more, none of which has any substantiation in fact.

Choosing the proper hair dress, the proper color and the most suitable style of dress is a science—or, to be more exact, each is a science.

The ordinary person, however, can arrive at some sort of a satisfactory answer to these questions if she will make effort. There are young people who wear black and look stunning in it. There are some old people who can't wear black advantageously but who look much better in pastel colors. There are young girls who appear more dainty and innocent and who look much prettier with long hair than short. There are some middle-aged and even old women who look smarter with very short hair than with long hair that is combed in any fashion. The shape of the head and the person's characteristics have much to do with these things. And, if you have seen anything that looks worse than an elderly woman with bobbed hair, a frizzy permanent and a hard dye that are supposed to give her youth, let me know.

As to color, even those of us who have made no particular study of it know that the colors in our skin determine the things we can wear. There are thousands of shades of every hue so that almost anyone can wear almost any color if the proper styles and shades and combinations are chosen. There is no hard and fast rule.

Now scientists tell you WHY this soap is such a great complexion aid.

Young skin is rich in certain precious elements. As years go by, these elements gradually are lost: then skin grows dull, old-looking.

But, say scientists, Lux Toilet Soap checks the loss of these precious elements from the skin—because, tests prove, it actually contains such elements, is completely free from harshness, readily soluble. It is indeed a remarkable aid in keeping skin soft, young-looking, scientists declare.

Why don't you give your skin this scientific care?

Plowing Work Going Forward

About 75 Per Cent Of Work Is Expected To Be Complete By End Of Week; Delay Caused By Lack Of Blanks

Plowing under of the South Plains' 685,000 acres of cotton crop to be destroyed, was well under way yesterday and by the last of the week at least 60 to 75 per cent is expected to be finished. Delay in arrival of permit blanks and applications held up starting.

R. L. Stephenson, who talked with a number of county agents yesterday, said the work was under way in most sections.

Planting Feed

D. A. Adam, county agent at Amherst, said Lamb county farmers were planting feed crops and plowing under in the same operation. Work started yesterday.

W. W. Evans at Plainview said Hale county farmers plowed their first land Wednesday, as did V. S. Payne, special man at Floydada for Floyd county.

Joe Williams of Lynn county said the work had a good start as did Raymond Reed at Brownfield. Glen Blackmon at Crosbyton said his county had good crop although there had been little moisture in the past two weeks for feed planting.

Stalks Are Cut

From Hockley county came reports by W. T. Magee that some stalks of cotton had to be cut with a stalk cutter and later the plant is to be plowed under.

Considerable late cotton has been planned in Dawson county, mostly on the rain of a week ago Sunday. Between 65,000 and 75,000 acres had been planted, it was estimated, the past week or ten days.

From other counties came reports of plowing under. The entire territory is busy with destruction of the cotton crop and work of planting another crop is expected to start soon.

Half-Way Mark In This County Expected Today

The half-way mark in plowing under nearly 99,000 acres of cotton land in Lubbock county is expected to be reached today, as final distribution of emergency permits for plowing was completed yesterday. Many farmers with small acreages has finished plowing their fields, while a few of the larger ones had finished.

Nearly 2,500 emergency permits were made out by County Agent O. G. Tumlinson and his office force, augmented by at least one committeeman from each community.

Tumlinson plans a brief respite from the rush of the past several weeks. He will not distribute more permit forms and proof of plowing blanks before early in next week. Committees will later check plowing to see that the work is done properly.

Jim Hobgood in the Shallowater territory, plowed under 100 acres Tuesday. He used two two-row cultivators, plowing under three rows at a time with each machine. Each round represented an acre and at night Hobgood had only about an hour's more work to do.

"No one, so far as I know, has refused to plow under his cotton," County Agent Tumlinson said.

Thirteen hundred copies of the original permit blanks were received in Wednesday morning's mail. They will be filled out and forwarded to Washington.

Two hundred and fifty additional sets of duplicates were printed for use Wednesday.

Public Works

public works funds can be granted is obvious. It will be the function of these boards to weed out those without merit. Only the best should be recommended to Washington for approval.

Keep Status In Mind

"These boards must keep the financial status of their communities in mind at all times. They must not send to Washington projects which are not financed adequately. The taxpayer who is paying this public works bill must be protected at every step. Local government budgets must be carefully scrutinized.

"The responsibility that rests on state advisory boards is a heavy one. Their contribution of disinterested public service to the success of the undertaking will be an important factor in getting men back to work."

Ickes said that in states where public works programs already have been approved by official agencies, the state boards will re-examine the projects speedily before submitting them to one of the 10 regional administrators named yesterday.

"Local government projects which are not approved by state boards will not be considered at Washington," Ickes said.

State boards in most instances were expected to have office quarters assigned in state capitols and receive also the use of some state employees for clerical assistance. Yet to be named, however, were engineers to work under the direction of the boards. It was understood they would be paid on a per diem basis.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—With turnover well below that of the week's preceding three-hour markets, stocks resumed their advance today.

The rise was most pronounced in the industrial category which, including the enthusiastic metal and repeal issues, finished with gains of around 1 to 6 points. Rails were quieter and some utilities failed to get very far. Wheat had a good day, up some 5 to 6 cents, while cotton and bonds improved.

Advances finally overcame opposition to such an extent that the close was fairly strong.

Motors gave strong representation to the companies which appear to have had most satisfactory second quarters. Rails looked rather indifferent, perhaps because some traders thought the carloadings figures for last week were less striking in comparison with the previous week. Steel issues closed with small losses. Sales totaled 2,044,262 shares against 3,539,140 yesterday.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 26 (AP)—While trading in cotton was not very active today, there was a gradual advance in prices owing to firmness in the grain markets and the closing strength of stocks. Final quotations were at net gains of 17 to 20 points.

The market opened steady despite lower Liverpool cables than due and easier sterling. Manchester reported fair demand for cloths from India, but yarns were quiet.

The weather report proved less favorable than looked for and mention of increasing weevil activity was construed bullishly.

The market turned firmer in early afternoon owing to trade buying and a scarcity of contracts. October trade up to 10.76 and December to 10.97 or 28 to 30 points above the lows of the morning and 21 to 23 opints above the previous close. There was a reaction of 3 to 4 points at the end on realizing and October closed at 10.73, or 20 points net higher and December at 10.93, or up 17 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 5 to 6 penny points up.

Port receipts 12,254, for week 68,469, for season 8,976,449, last season 8,533,602. Port stock 3,101,327, last year 3,443,197. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 112,468, last year 75,882. Spot sales at southern markets 4,845, last year 1,999.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—Under comparatively quiet trading cotton showed a generally steady tone today. There was a moderate demand, encouraged by the action of the grain and stock markets. December contracts after selling off 10.72 at the start, advanced to 10.99 and closed at 10.95, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 15 to 18 points.

Initial prices were 4 points lower to 1 point higher. The market turned steadier on trade buying, which seemed to be combined with covering and scattering commission house demand. Best prices of the day were reached in the late trading, and closing quotations were within 2 to 4 points of the best.

Exports today 14,337 making 8,451,701 so far this season. U. S. port stocks 3,140,413.

Grain Markets Enjoy A Good Day; Strength Is Reported

CHICAGO, July 26. (AP) — The grain markets enjoyed a good day today in the best exhibit of strength since last week's crash.

Wheat ran up more than six cents a bushel and finished at the top. Bad news from the Canadian prairie provinces was good news for the markets. Official Canadian reports said that the spring wheat crop was blighted beyond hope of recovery in wide sections. Both wheat and corn, were stimulated by official assurance from the board of trade that forced liquidation had been completed.

May wheat opened at 1.04 1-2 and closed at 1.07 3-8, compared with yesterday's close of 1.01 3-4. December crossed the dollar mark and finished at 1.03. Last Thursday, December hit a low of 90 cents.

that any person who wishes to do his part in the president's reemployment drive by signing this agreement, but who asserts that some particular provision hereof, because of pecular circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by signing this agreement and putting it into effect and then, in a petition approved by a representative trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designated by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A., if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation."

The board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers and representatives of 39 affiliated organizations in session today urged all manufacturers to sign the agreements if possible but Robert L. Lund, the president, asked that the interpretations be made. Other requests also had been received by the administration.

Strikes Are Feared

Expressing a desire to make the code workable, Lund asked that those who seek exceptions be permitted to operate under them until definite settlement is made. He proposed also that where industries have submitted a code they be permitted to use the N. R. A. insigium without signing the temporary agreement, asserting that should the final wage be less than the temporary one strikes would be inevitable when the cut was ordered.

President Roosevelt estimated that 12,000 telegraphic replies already had been received to his appeal to put a new charter for American industry into effect through the voluntary agreements which will become effective August 1.

The agreements would abolish child labor entirely after August 31, would limit white collar work to 40 hours a week and factory or mechanical workers to 35 hours.

Receive Insignia

Each employer upon signing the agreement and returning it to his postoffice would receive the insignia of the recovery administration, the eagle with the letters "N.R.A." at the top and the words "we do our part" at the bottom.

The most intensive drive for public opinion since the world war, all buyers will be asked by the president to buy only from those displaying the insignia. It is this moulding of public opinion upon which the administration counts for success of the movement.

Meanwhile, the labor versus employer difficulties continued to disturb the administration despite the efforts of Johnson and his chief counsel, Donald R. Richberg to allay the fears of both in addresses last night.

Reports still reached headquarters that employers were discharging men for attempting to unionize plants and that undue organization efforts were being made among laborers.

OLTON IMPROVEMENTS

OLTON, (Special) — The Southwestern Associated Telephone company here has improved its office building. The structure was painted, as well as two built-to porches and two rooms were papered. H. T. Webb, superintendent of schools, is having the teacherage remodeled and a bath room installed. The building will also be painted.

Louise Closser Hale, New York and London stage actress who recently scored successes in motion pictures, died at Los Angeles Wednesday after two strokes of apoplexy. She was 61 years old.

Drouth Relief Being Sought

Representatives From Several Counties In Panhandle Area Meet With Highway Leaders To Urge Relief

AUSTIN, July 26. (AP) — County judges and commissioners representing 17 drouth stricken counties of the Plains section of Texas conferred here today with the state highway department and rehabilitation and relief commission about the situation there.

Senator Clint C. Small of Amarillo, who headed the committee, said that section's share of the $24,000,000 highway construction relief funds would be inadequate to provide needed relief to the affected counties.

"We want to try to get some special money allotted for highway construction in the drouth area," he said. "The towns in the drouth section are not interested in public works, they have adequate water systems, sewage disposal plants, schools and other public improvements. Roads are secondary with us, we do not care on what highways the money is expended just so we can get some relief."

Among those were Judges J. H. Broadhurst of Hansford county, R. A. DeFee of Hartley county, Floyd McNeill of Dallam county, Oscar C. Flowers of Ochiltree county, Sewell of Lipscomb county, S. P. Mathews of Armstrong county, and C. E. Carey of Gray county. Frank Buckingham of Amarillo, commissioner from Potter county, and representatives of the commissioners courts of Hutchinson, Carson, Deaf Smith and Randall counties also were here.

At Least It's Of Interest

TO say that plans of Dr. Clyde C. Craig and other citizens to foster a lake and amusement center northwest of Lubbock has created widespread interest here is but putting it mildly. It has been a long time since a local suggestion has aroused so much comment.

There are those who are for the project "from A to Izzard" and there are those who doubt seriously the feasibility of the plan.

But everyone has his own idea in the matter, which proves the point that people are interested.

The Morning Avalanche has not gone deeply into the proposal; we have not studied the plan extensively enough to pass upon its practicability.

But like the average citizen, we are interested in it simply because its successful completion would mean a great deal—not only to Lubbock but to the entire South Plains.

Maybe there isn't enough water available for the lake, as some say.

Perhaps the character of the soil is such that it wouldn't hold the water if there was enough of it.

Maybe it will be impossible to get the money for construction purposes and maybe it would be impossible to make the project self-liquidating even if the money were available.

But all these things should be gone carefully into before the idea is accepted or rejected.

The very evident benefits to be derived from such a project demand a careful investigation upon the part of the city and by persons capable of determining whether or not the idea will work.

LOAFING TIME

Spring fever makes dullards of us all but even that tired feeling of May and June is as boundless pep compared with the lassitude of July and August. When summer's heat is at its height leisure becomes a necessity rather than a luxury.

No need to apologize for being just lazy at this season. Chances are the other fellow is taking things just as easy as you. It is no crime to loiter under a fan, float in the water or doze beside a trout hole when the mercury is hovering around the century mark. Punishment is deserved only by those supermen who hustle around making everybody else feel shiftless.

No matter what their occupation none expend as much energy in July and August as in January. The hand that pushes the pen moves slower, the fingers that press the typewriter keys slacken their pace, the machine's speed slows down to keep pace with the guiding hand and mind and the mind directing the organization adopts a new and slower tempo.

Leisure is expressed in July and August through various forms of doing nothing. An active vacation is nine-tenths loafing and one-tenth searching for a place to cool off and rest.

DOING GOOD WORK

The department of commence serves a useful purpose as a governmental agency, especially in its foreign service designed to promote and help American trade. Like most governmental departments, it has undergone much expansion since its creation and some unessential features and functions probably were added.

The time has come to trim its costs, and the reorganization plans announced by Secretary Roper contemplate the dropping of 21 representatives abroad and the closing of a number of offices. This does not mean any important crippling of its service as the territories left without agents will be covered by representatives in nearby offices.

That business firms attach real value to the department's foreign service was shown in the replies received to a questionnaire sent them. Sixty-four per cent of those replying stated that they would be willing to pay an amount commensurate with the cost of the service rather than have the latter abandoned. A majority said they regarded commerce department agents abroad as more helpful and efficient than consular officials.

It is likely that these agents will fill a more important need in the not distant future, when world trade begins to revive, than they do now. The department meantime will continue its foreign service along the lines followed in the past, convinced that the work bears an important relation to the extension of American foreign trade.

That its service will not be seriously crippled by its reorganization will be good news to American firms that have profited by it in the past and will rely on it for help in the future.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THE next thirty days will hand President Roosevelt a supreme test of his popularity.

Having blanketed all industry with a code of administration fashioning, the Executive must see that it fits—particularly around the edges where those damp drafts filter in. As a means of tucking up all reluctant industrial babies the powers that be have determined on a bold experiment. They are going to try to apply wartime psychology to the situation. Before a fortnight has elapsed you'll think you were back in the days of '17 buying Liberty Bonds and going without sugar on Wednesday.

From the way things are lining up inside observers are willing to bet the Roosevelt regime will crash through for a touchdown again.

SHOPPING: General Johnson, down at NIRA, has appealed to the patriotism of Washington newspapermen to help put the job over. He says it's a plain question of more men at work and better times all around.

There is every reason to believe the reporters will respond to this peacetime call to arms. The old publicity crew that handled the World War Liberty Loan drives is pulling the strings designed to start the ball.

Johnson makes no bones that everything depends on public response. Without it he and the White House are sunk.

So buy where the eagle of NIRA flies.

HUEY: Which state is going to get credit for having been the necessary thirty-sixth to shove prohibition repeal over the top?

One might get the impression that Louisiana's Kingfish—sometimes known as Huey Long—is mixing medicine to give his domain the honor.

Thirty-five states are due to vote by Nov. 8. On the basis of the box-score so far repealers are claiming them all and looking around for that final one to make two-thirds.

Gov. O. K. Allen down at Baton Rouge was all set to name a date for Louisianans to foregather at the polls. Senator Huey apparently had been counting noses and said hold off awhile.

So "Okay" said O. K.

The astute Kingfish may get tripped yet on this little scheme to put himself in the driver's seat. Virginia offers one grand threat that comes to mind. The Old Dominion Legislature is going to talk about the matter in August.

There probably will be others. President Roosevelt has said he wants the 18th Amendment buried by Christmas. The man who drives his state to the line at the right moment will rate favors in the Nation's Capital.

More and more the administration foresees a need for those liquor revenues. Income from 3.2 has pointed a clear way toward its potentialities as a red ink eradicator.

The massive columns of the Treasury Department are harboring a somewhat distraught group of fiscal experts these days.

Before the house is that pesky question: "How can we balance the budget?"

GATTY: Since Wiley Post has been making page one aviation history of late your thoughts may cast back to his partner on that 1931 flight around the world, Harold Gatty the navigator.

Gatty, with his clever wife and three children, is living here in Washington where he is helping the Army Air Service perfect some new gadget.

An Australian by birth, he has many months since taken out naturalization papers. His hobby is motor cruising. The broad Potomac appeals particularly to him as an anchoring spot for a nice little cabin cruiser.

Alas, he ran afoul of a law which says no "alien" may own a boat more than 20 feet in length.

NOTES: There is no shortage in industrial codes around Washington these days. . . . A perfect stranger will hail you on the street and pull one out of his hip pocket. . . . Up in the expensive hotel suites the "Do Not Disturb" signs have been hung out and they are being produced in quantity lots. . . . The bellboys are even bringing a code along with cracked ice and ginger ale. . . . Over at Fort Myer, the Army's swanky cavalry station, they found a $2 bill dated 1819 the other day while searching old post records. . . . It's a good thing it wasn't an 1819 stamp or President Roosevelt might have exercised his authority as commander-in-chief and called it in—to the White House.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE Stock Exchange itself prescribed a pill last week to cool the brows of feverish bulls. The doctors meant it to be a gentle sedative.

For several weeks Exchange authorities have been worried about the public's shoestring optimism and the growth of professional pools. They knew that Washington turned a suspicious eye on soaring prices. In fact they kept getting unofficial inquiries from high quarters as to why the Sam Hill they didn't do something to tone down the excitement. They finally decided they had better act.

A sleeping powder for the alcohol jumps seemed likely to help without disturbing the rest of the market. It took the form of an unofficial suggestion to brokers that they hoist the margin ante on alcohol issues sharply.

An unofficial suggestion from the big shots of the Exchange is tantamount to an order signed by Mussolini. The brokers complied.

All the authorities intended their medicine to do was to check exuberant buying on capital of a dime plus hope. But they forgot to tell the customers about it. Instead of ponying up more margin everybody who owned stocks decided it was a swell time to take profits and rushed to sell.

That sent prices into a tailspin. There were no parachute buying orders under the market. The pent-up nervousness of weeks turned into panic and the rout was on.

There is a disposition in some quarters to blame it on the banks for doubling their margin requirements on loans with alcohol stocks as collateral. That has snapped into print as an alibi for the crash. In fairness to the banks it should be said that they did not act until the key Stock Exchange houses had set the example.

HOARDS: Of course there was more to the speculative explosion than the dumpings of liquor stocks. That was simply the spark to the powder keg. Insiders have known for weeks that speculative prices were 'way out of line with reality. The question of a reaction was when and not whether.

STRANGE BROTHERHOOD

This strange disparity of brothers was revealed in a court action during which a 96-year old witness was questioned as to whether he had any brothers or sisters. The witness replied that his only brother died 150 years before. The witness' father had first married at the age of 19, and his first child had died in infancy. He married again at the age of 75, begetting the witness, who lived to testify at the age of 96.

BARGAIN BRIDE

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN back in New York after years abroad, falls in love with ELINOR STAFFORD. He is 35 and she 20. Elinor returns his affection but her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor was only flirting with him.

Rich MISS ELLA SEXTON, Elinor's aunt, dies and, to the despair of the relatives, leaves her entire fortune to Barrett. Lida Stafford has been flirting with VANCE CARTER. When Vance learns she will not divorce her husband, BENTWELL STAFFORD, he shoots Bentwell. It is uncertain whether the wounded man will live or die.

Barrett does not want Miss Ella's money but can not give it back to the rightful inheritors because of their pride. Suddenly a plan comes to him. He tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live as a guest in his home for a year he will give her the entire sum to divide between her relatives.

Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees. They decide to have the ceremony next day.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

Elinor's voice came over the wire a trifle unsteadily. "Yes, Barrett?" she said.

"Dearest, Art Palmer — I mean Doctor Palmer—," he corrected himself mockingly, "wants to know whether you want to be spliced—I think he said—in his church?"

Her voice trembled even more. It was the way he had said "Dearest."

"I'd like it very much if you would."

"I'd like it very much anywhere," he assured her. He added, "Is everything going along as it should?" He could not deny the tenderness he felt for her. After all, the situation she was facing would be difficult for any girl.

"Oh, yes!" she assured him.

"Quite certain?"

"Quite."

"May I drop in this evening? There are a few things I want to talk about."

"Please do."

"Then—until this evening, dearest," he said a bit too loudly. He heard her half-whispered, "Good-by—"

Arthur Palmer was studying a paper knife which he twisted in his hands. He had known Barrett Colvin for many years and now he was worried. Barrett's tone had sounded artificial and forced. Arthur Palmer wanted this marriage to be a success. They both deserved that it should be. But a marriage hadn't much chance without honesty, he had learned from hearing the troubles of the married, as he did almost every day.

It snowed during the night as Elinor lay wakeful. Just before dawn she fell asleep, to open her eyes at nine on a day that was clear, cold and bright. Celeste was standing at her bedside, smiling tenderly. For a moment Elinor wondered at Celeste's presence and at her smile. Then it came back, the truth which was not a dream. And with the truth came full consciousness of the ordeal before her.

"It is a beautiful day, this day of your marriage!" Celeste ventured. Celeste was happy about the wedding. Only the French can blend emotion and calculation without a cheapening of either!

Elinor sat up, hugging her knees and staring at a window which framed a square of the glittering world. She would go to the church at 12 to meet Barrett Colvin. They would be married. Then she would go with him to his home and thus would start the pretense that must endure for a year. Her father would have everything he needed; her cousin, Philip, his rightful share, her aunt and uncle, an almost-forgotten peace, and their sons, a chance they so deserved. The Thripes would accept a share of the money from her, Elinor was certain.

Celeste was running her bath. An almost overpowering sweet scent floated to Elinor from the room that was filled with steam. Celeste had evidently borrowed boldly from one of the many Venetian glass bottles standing on the peacock blue shelves of her mother's dressing room.

"Something old and something new, something borrowed and something blue," chanted Celeste, returning.

Elinor laughed. "But I haven't anything that isn't old, Celeste!" she admitted.

Celeste had considered that, she confessed, nodding. She had slipped out to buy a handkerchief and if Mademoiselle would deign to carry that it would be new.

Celeste then reached into a pocket of her pert, small apron. Elinor took the offering, a pretty bit of cobweb linen, broad-hemmed and embroidered with a bold "E. S."

"It was sweet of you, Celeste!" exclaimed Elinor, Her mother had had no thought of her. She had been thinking only of how much Barrett would do now to make up for his "treachery" about the will.

"Last night I added the letters," said Celeste. "Ah, and with love. I thought of you—thinking of your sweetheart!"

Elinor flushed. True, she had thought of the one Celeste called "her sweetheart" most of the night but not as Celeste had dreamed.

"I shall keep the handkerchief always, Celeste," she said. "I am so grateful to you, and I'm going to show it to Mr. Colvin."

"Ah, Mademoiselle, you are so sweet! I dream that some day I may be in your service!"

"I would like nothing better, Celeste. I'll remember that," Elinor promised.

Even Lida felt an unwonted thawing when Elinor appeared at half past 11 from her father's room. She had been sitting silently by his bed, her hand on his weak hand, her eyes on his which smiled at her.

Leaving him, stooping above him she had heard him murmur, "My blessings, dearest."

Lida saw Elinor's wet eyes but what struck her more acutely was her daughter's painful shabbiness.

"You should have something new—" she broke out sharply, "that old coat and dress—"

"They'll do."

"I presume they'll have to. The car is waiting."

"Yes. I'm ready—if you are."

"Quite."

Elinor was lovely in spite of her shabbiness, Lida saw, and for the first time she saw the girl's beauty for the first time without envy. Elinor had been very gentle since that terrible night. Lida, riding down town, wished she knew how to tell her that she wished things had been different.

"Your flowers are exquisite," said Lida as she looked at Elinor's corsage, an artful blending of spring blossoms which had been chosen, after great thought, by Barrett. "But those roses—" she ended, brows raised questioning.

"Father gave them to me from some that were sent to him," Elinor answered. Every inch of the ride she had seen the chauffeur stowing her bags in the back of the car. Perhaps because that action had made it so clear that she was not coming home again, that she was going to live in Barrett Colvin's house. As a "guest" of course. But it was a definite step, none the less; an extremely definite step. Yet what else could she have done? She could not deny those others — all of whom she loved—the advantages that would come to them through her marriage.

As she had done perhaps a thousand times before she told herself that she was doing the right thing. She must not, she reflected, let this hurt Barrett in any way. He had been so fine about it. Few men would have felt about the will as he felt.

She saw the spire of the church ahead of them, outlined through a gap in towering buildings.

Elinor felt her cheeks sting. She slipped a glove from her left hand. The night before he had brought her a ring that had made Lida's eyes glitter with envy. It held a large, flawless diamond set simply, beautifully. Elinor had not once thought of an engagement ring. The need of it was obvious, however, she realized, and a part of the pretense. A moment, a few moments more, and that same finger would bear another ring. She drew a deep breath, hoping that it would steady her.

Then she saw Bessie and Jim and the boys, waiting for them. Bessie was beaming and at the same time weeping.

"Darling child!" said Bessie unsteadily as she moved toward Elinor.

"Well, well!" murmured Jim. He was pumping her hand up and down.

"I presume we may as well go in—" Lida suggested with a weary, ironic smile. Bessie's display of emotion was simply too frightful. It was, of course, the sort of display to be expected from a creature whose house was habitually scented with cabbage and other odors from what Bessie called "plain, nourishing foods." It was all thoroughly revolting to Lida.

She saw that Elinor was clinging to her aunt's warm, pudgy, ungloved hand. Lida hated clinging but something that had once been heart in her ached dully without her knowing why.

The verger opened the door and the group made their way into the church vestibule.

Yankees Split With Red Sox; Pale Sox Lose

Washington Stays Ahead With Off Day As Red Sox Win In Second Game; Cleveland In 7-1 Win Over Chicago

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, July 26.—The New York Yankees today failed to close the one-game gap separating them from the Senators before moving into Washington tomorrow for an important four-game series, splitting a doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox. The Senators were rained out at Philadelphia.

A crowd of 25,000, a record midweek attendance for the hub, saw the world champions take the opening contest, 2 to 0, in which Vernon Gomez shaded Bob Weiland in a southpaw hurling duel, and then drop the second by 9 to 4.

Gomez and Weiland pitched scoreless ball for seven innings, the Sox pitcher holding the Yanks to two hits.

Walter Brown and Lloyd Brown were the starting pitchers in the night-cap, but only Lloyd finished. With the score knotted at four-all, the Sox fell on Walter and his successor, Wilcy Moore, for six hits and five runs.

Lou Gehrig was put out of the game in the fourth inning of the second game for disputing a decision, made in the third frame by Umpire Summers. The umpire refused to allow that a double play had been completed by Gehrig at first base.

INDIANS 7; WHITE SOX 1

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Manager Lew Fonseca shook up the lineup but couldn't shake out a victory today for the skidding White Sox who suffered their seventh straight defeat, losing to Cleveland 7 to 1.

The Indians got to Joe Heving for three runs in the fourth inning and then picked up another trio of tallies in the eighth when the Sox defense cracked wide open. They then added their final marker on three hits in the ninth.

Heving, promoted from a relief role, gave 11 hits in going the route, but walked none. Willis Hudlin checked the Chicagoans with six blows.

BROWNS 7; TIGERS 9

DETROIT, July 26 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers won a free hitting contest from St. Louis this afternoon, 9 to 7. Although Tommy Bridges yielded 13 hits to the Browns, he won the ball game just before he gave way to Elon Hogsett by knifing out a triple with the bases loaded in the seventh.

The Browns made a vigorous assault on the Tiger lead in their half of the eighth, bringing in five runs to fall just short of victory. Hogsett relieved Bridges and stemmed the tide.

Giants Boost Lead With Two Over Brooklyn

Leaders Gain Full Game Over Idle Cubs As Dodgers Fall Twice; Cardinals Triumph Over Reds, 3-2

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 26.—The New York Giants, returning home to defend their National League leadership, today gained a full game on the idle Cubs as they twice whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 3 and 4 to 3.

Hal Schumacher and Ray Benge hooked up in an old fashioned pitchers' battle in the opening contest, which was decided by home runs.

Although Schumacher allowed only two hits in eight innings, Herman Bell received credit for the victory as he pitched the ninth when the Giants broke the deadlock. Joe Shaute also relieved Benge in time to be charged with the defeat.

Hutcheson duplicated his first game homer in the sixth inning of the nightcap but Bud Parmelee outpitched Owen Carroll and Walter Beck to hold the remainder of the Dodgers in check.

Carroll hit Vergez on the head in the fourth inning of the second contest and the Giant third baseman was forced to leave the game after being unconscious for five minutes.

Tuco Softball Team Wins 9-0 Over Meinecke Bros.

Hotel And Printers Win American Loop Tilts

Pitcher Ralph Brock broke into the no-run class of softball pitchers yesterday when he tossed the Texas Utilities team to a 9 to 0 victory over Truman Meinecke's Hardware company boys.

Although Meinecke had his best fielding team of the season on hand, the batsmen could do nothing against the fast ball tossing of Brock. It was the third shutout of the season, an unusual feat in softball.

In the American league, Lubbock Printers and Hotel Hilton defeated the Weiss-Truck terminal and Peoples' Ice company teams respectively. The Printers, with Williamson hurling southpaw slants up to the plate, won a 9 to 3 victory. Hilton Hotel defeated the Icemen, 16 to 10.

Moreland Wins In First Round For Western Defense

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 26. (AP)—The Western Golf Association today postponed the second round of its amateur tournament until Thursday afternoon after incessant rainfall had converted the country club course into a marsh and half the starting field had been eliminated in muddy contests over the boggy tract.

Tomorrow the sixteen players left in the chase for the crown, Gus Moreland of Dallas hopes to defend, return to the wars at 1:30 p. m., for 18 hole matches. The quarterfinals will be played Friday, semi-finals Saturday and finals Sunday.

The architects of this layout did not arrange for any water holes but today, after three days of unceasing downpours, every hole was a water hole.

The first round saw Moreland come through easily with a 4 and 3 victory over Sidney Salomon of St. Louis, but such stars as Johnny Lehman of Chicago, Billy Howell of Richmond, Emmett Spicer of Memphis and Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City were ushered out.

Lehman, who won the title in 1930 and set a qualifying round record a year ago, was beaten by Mike Roach, curly haired youngster from St. Louis.

First Shutout Scored When Returians Beats Lions, 5-0

A pitching battle between Lefty Davidson and [illegible] was broken up in the sixth inning of the junior league baseball game between the Lions club and Rotary club teams yesterday with Oar taking the losing end. A run by the Rotarians in the sixth was followed by three in the seventh and 1 in the eighth, as the teams went down, 5 to 0, in the first shutout scored in the league.

The Lions got two base hits off Davidson, while the Rotarians combed Oar for a total of eight.

Hornsby Signs As Skipper Of St. Louis Club

A Cardinal Yesterday, Rajah Signs Long Contract With Browns; Is Elated Over New Job And Promises Results

ST. LOUIS, July 26. (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, erstwhile fire brand of the National League, today signed a contract to pilot the St. Louis Browns and immediately announced plans to create a fighting ball club and to be a playing manager.

"We'll be having them out at the ball park before long," Hornsby told president Phil Ball, shortly after signing a contract to guide the tail end American League club for the remainder of the season and through 1934 and 1935.

Hornsby, who until yesterday was a member of the St. Louis cardinals, seemed elated. The big second baseman who started his climb to baseball fame as a rookie with the Cards in 1915, and later managed the Redbirds, the Boston Braves, and the Chicago Cubs, said he planned no immediate shakeup.

It was reliably reported and not denied that the Rajah's new contract gave him more authority than that possessed by any other manager engaged by Ball. Bill Killefer was deposed last week.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 46

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jane realized she was being borne away a captive. She struggled desperately. But Tarzan's strong arms held her more tightly. Once he looked down into her eyes and smiled. The face above her was of extraordinary beauty. Presently he took to the trees. On and on they went for many miles.

Now they had come to their destination. In his strong arms Tarzan placed her softly upon the green turf. She noted his magnificent figure towering above her, its perfect symmetry, the poise of his fine head upon his broad shoulders. Surely his purpose could not be base or cruel.

With a bound Tarzan sprang into the trees and disappeared. He had left her there to her fate in the lonely jungle? . . . She heard a sudden, slight sound! . . . There stood Tarzan, his arms filled with luscious, ripe fruit. He stroked her hair and tried to comfort and quiet her.

The last few hours had taught her to trust this strange, wild creature. It commenced to dawn upon her that she had, possibly, learned something she had never really known before—LOVE. She wondered — and then she smiled. . . . And still smiling, she pushed Tarzan gently away, pointing to the food.

Together, in silence they ate. He made a little bower of boughs and grasses. Then he did the only thing he knew to assure Jane of her safety. He handed her his knife — motioning her to sleep. She entered, while Tarzan stretched himself upon the ground across the entrance.

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

Charles E. Simons

AUSTIN, July 26 (AP)—The rumor that John "Jake the Barber" Factor, kidnaped Chicagoan, and his abductors had been located by state highway patrolmen at Alice cost plenty of money, in the opinion of L. G. Phares, chief of the state highway patrol.

Phares estimated that approximately $5,000 was expended in long distance telephone calls as a result of the false report. The phone in the headquarters of the highway patrol was kept ringing with long distance calls from Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and other northern and middlewestern points.

Texas newspapers also made frequent telephone calls, Phares said, and the state itself spent a considerable sum in tracking down the rumor.

The report started in McAllen, Phares found out, and grew out of facetious remarks between two federal border patrolmen and two state highway patrolmen in front of a restaurant.

"Hear you boys caught Jake the Barber today," one of the federal men was quoted as saying.

"Nope," replied one of the patrolmen," that was two other guys up at Alice."

The innocent remark was overheard and the report spread swiftly, the aftermath being that newspapermen and officers spent several hours verifying that dame rumor had played them another trick.

One enterprising newsman, Phares said, called him at 2 a. m. and asked the patrol chief to "please see if he couldn't arrange" so he would be the first to obtain an interview with the kidnaped man. It took several minutes, at so much per minute, before Phares convinced the long distance reporter that the story was a myth.

Lubbock County Drys Plan To Wage Campaign Against Beer

Local Chairman Says Speakers Will Be Gladly Supplied To Meetings; Petitions Being Circulated Here

LEGALIZATION of 3.2 per cent alcoholic beer in Lubbock county will be opposed by Lubbock County Prohibition forces, said George R. Bean, chairman, yesterday.

With beer advocates directed by the Texas Liberal league circulating petitions asking for a local option election in Lubbock county, such a ballot contest seems probable. Petitions for a local option election will be presented to County Commissioners court on or before August 5, E. H. Robertson, chairman here of the league, said.

Would Retain Prohibition

Prohibition forces, Mr. Bean said, will fight for retention of the local option prohibition Lubbock county had before the state adopted a regulatory measure. The proposed election would be concurrent with the state election August 26 to determine whether 3.2 per cent alcoholic beverages shall be legal in Texas, and whether the state will align itself with others which favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Morris Sheppard, senior United States senator from Texas and coauthor of the prohibition amendment, has informed John L. Ratliff, who like Mr. Bean is a Lubbock attorney and dry, he will include Lubbock on his speaking itinerary if possible.

Will Supply Speakers

The Lubbock county dry corps, Chairman Bean said, will supply speakers for any meeting, rural or city, in the county if the request is received soon enough for arrangements to be made. Each Saturday prohibition speakers appear in towns of the county.

Last Saturday Lubbock county prohibition defenders spoke in Idalou, and, upon invitation of R. L. May, Lamb County Prohibition forces chairman, of Amherst, in Amherst and Littlefield. They also appeared Sunday night in two churches in Littlefield.

Asked whether the dry brigade here would oppose 3.2 per cent beer, as well as harder liquors, Chairman Bean responded affirmatively, and amplified:

"We take the position that any of these things will encourage drunkenness rather than restrain it. The wets offer no remedy . . . except the open saloon. . . . We say the only way to fight whisky is to keep it away from young fellows, and young women, too."

Champions of the present order in liquor control, he reflected, realize legalization of light wines and beers would be a preliminary step only to a similar move affecting whisky.

Petitions Circulated

Circulation of petitions for a local option election, chiefly by wets, has been under way in Lubbock several days.

Form Of Ballots Okayed In Texas

AUSTIN, July 26. (AP)—The secretary of state's department said today the form of ballots to be used in the August 26 special election to determine Texas' attitude toward repeal of the 18th amendment had been prepared with advice of the attorney general's department.

Because there is a "double barrel proposition" submitted—not only repeal of the 18th amendment but ratification of the 21st amendment which repeals the 18th amendment—it was ruled the delegates for and against repeal should be in columns headed "for ratification" and "against ratification" since the vote is direct on whether the 21st amendment shall be approved.

The ballots carry "instructions to the voters" directing how "repealists" should mark the ballots and how "antirepealists" should mark it. The ballots also carry the repeal amendment as submitted by the congress.

McGee's Former Wife Collapses As She Testifies In Kidnaping Trial

KANSAS CITY, July 26. (AP)—A witness against her former husband, Walter McGee, on trial with his life at stake in the kidnaping of Miss Mary McElroy, Lucile Cates collapsed today.

As she started to leave the stand after a long, grilling cross examination by Ralph G. Harding, defense counsel, the woman fainted.

She had testified that she and members of her family were living at a downtown hotel with their expenses paid by the state. John V. Hill, an assistant prosecutor, told the court this was because the witness had been threatened with death.

"Who threatened you?" the defense attorney demanded.

"Well, several members of the McGee family have threatened me."

"Tell me the name of one," Harding thundered.

"Well, several of them have been out there to see me."

"Yes," Harding replied, "McGee's sisters have been there in my presence. Isn't it a fact that you wanted to go to Leavenworth and live with them because they were your friends?"

"I wanted to go there and visit them," Miss Cates replied.

Harding attempted to get the witness to admit she had been coerced into testifying under threat that charges would be brought against her, but failed.

Commercializing Hand Power In This Mechanical Age Seems Backward, But Texas Tech Students Plan To Do It

The photo above shows a student at Tech working on a hand loom weaving woolen cloth. The picture is appearing in Associated Press newspapers throughout the nation along with an article similar to the one appearing here, giving Tech national publicity for its textile department.

Commercializing hand power in this mechanical age seems a bit backward but that's what two special students of Texas Techonological college plan to do just the same.

The students are enrolled in a special hand weaving course offered for the first time this summer by the department of textile engineering. The students are: Roger Clapp of Childress and Pat Harrison of Kosse.

Makes Hand Loom

Earlier this year, M. E. Heard, member of the textile faculty, constructed a wooden hand loom and started weaving woolen cloth from a batch of wool clipped from the college sheep. President Bradford Knapp took to the idea quickly and had Prof. Heard and his students to demonstrate the loom at various places including the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Big Spring.

Dr. Knapp recommends a hand loom as a community project and says a number of families can easily make all the cloth needed for their use in this manner. The looms can be constructed for as low as $35 each.

Course Is Offered

This summer, the college offered a course in hand weaving but only two students entered. They are now in their second week of instruction and have already made several yards of excellent woolen suiting. The loom also turns out overcoating material.

Both Clapp and Harrison plan to construct looms in their own localities and make the cloth on a commercial basis. The cloth sells for approximately $2 a yard, eight yards being required for a suit and a slightly smaller amount for an overcoat.

Prof. Heard exhibited eight yards of light gray suiting which Clapp had finished Wednesday. He plans to have it made up into a suit.

Trail Of Three Being Extended

Texas authorities' knowledge of the trail of Jack Kinsley and Jack Woodson, known in Oklahoma as "Happy" Weeks, is extended as information continues to sift in. The men, with Fonzie Winslo Gressett, are in Lubbock county jail facing two charges each of robbery with firearms.

The sheriff's department here has received from Tulsa county, Okla., a warrant for arrest of Kinsley and Weeks for robbery with firearms in Tulsa, the district attorney's office revealed this morning.

Girl Makes Statement

Lew Wallace, Lincoln county, Okla., sheriff, of Chandler, has announced Mae Story, 18-year-old Oklahoma City girl, arrested in Oklahoma City about the time the bandit trio was caught near Roswell, N. M., has signed a statement implicating two men in a holdup July 19, of a filling station at Chandler. The girl waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to district court. The station attendant identified her as one of a trio which robbed him of $17.

W. R. Green, Edmond, Okla., chief of police, arrested the woman after he had engaged in a running gun-battle with the bandits the night of the robbery. Green punctured one car several times with bullets but the bandits eluded him and stole another car to continue the flight.

Chandler is between Tulsa and Oklahoma City. Edmond is in Oklahoma county, of which Oklahoma City is the county seat.

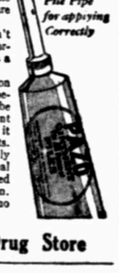

The second car was recovered with arrest of the two Oklahomans and Gressett, who lived near Tokio, in Yoakum county, near Roswell.

Story Of $82 Told To Jury

This Amount Apparently Led To The Torch Murder Of Man In New Mexico; Other Facts Told On Stand

CLOVIS, N. M., July 26 (AP)—The story of $82 which apparently led to the "torch murder" of Lee Marshall, Quay county homesteader, last February was unfolded before a jury here late yesterday by D. C. Hobbs, Tucumcari trader.

Hobbs, testified at the trial of Leonard Beck and Roy Reed who are charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of the homesteader, told how he sold a team of horses for Marshall and had given him the money.

It is believed by officers that the presence of the money at Marshall's home at Logan led robbers to try to rob him. Failing in their efforts to find the money they bound Marshall and then set fire to his clothing.

Gray Huffman, Tucumcari railroad employe, follwed Hobbs on the stand and told of being asked by Jack Carr to join a gang and "do some hi-jacking." Carr was held for a time after Marshall's death but was later released. He said Carr approached him the day before the murder and suggested he join with him.

Beck and Reed, Huffman said, were in hearing distance at the time Carr made his proposal and after he refused the three men, Carr, Beck and Reed, left together.

The state also introduced as evidence testimony regarding the finding of automobile tire tracks near the Marshall place which were alleged to have corresponded with the treads of tires found on the car driven by Beck and Reed when they were arrested.
