Skyrocket season football tickets will go on sale at the school business office Monday, Aug. 22, Supt. J. L. Harper has announced.

"Everyone will have a chance to get the same seat as last year if they want them. Those tickets will be held a reasonable length of time," Mr. Harper said.

Season reserved seats will be $7.50 for the six home games, or $1.25 per game. Single reserved seats will be $1.50 and general admission $1.25.

These prices were set for District 2-AA in a meeting of superintendents and coaches.

A large map of the stadium in the business office will show where each person had a reserved seat last year and assist those who want to make purchases this season, it was pointed out.

Wellington Man Killed, Two Injured in Dakota Accident

A Wellington man was killed and two others injured in a one-car accident near Bismark, North Dakota, Saturday night, Aug. 13.

Dead is Claude Edward (Pete)

Milbauer, 32. Injured in the accident and hospitalized at Bismark were Kenneth Patterson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Belew, and Roger Weems, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Colwell.

They were members of custom combine crews; Milbauer and Patterson with Arthur Belew and Dewey Barker, and Weems with Herman Belew. Both crews were cutting wheat at Flasher, N.D., 50 miles from Bismark.

Tuesday night, all efforts to locate any member of Milbauer's family had failed, according to Sheriff John Rainey, who is working with officers at Bismark and Dallas, where it is believed he has relatives.

Mrs. Jimmy Langford, Patterson's sister, said the three, along with two others who joined the combine crew after it left here, were returning to Flasher after attending a rodeo at Bismark, when their car missed a curve.

Patterson is suffering from bruises and cuts, his sister said. He was hospitalized Monday night. His mother, Mrs. Arthur Belew, was with the combine crew at Flasher.

Weems is suffering from back and leg injuries and it will be 10 to 12 days before he can be on crutches, said Mrs. Herman Belew, who has talked with her husband several times since the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Colwell left for Bismark shortly after being notified of the accident.

Mr. Milbauer died about 2 p.m. Sunday. He worked with Belew and Barker last year and has done farm work here.

No one can be found here who knows about his family. Milbauer filled out a labor survey form for the Chamber of Commerce office in April in which he listed three children, 10, 12 and 14 years, but names or addresses are not included on these forms and the children's whereabouts are unknown.

Sheriff Rainey said that unless some member of Milbauer's family can be located he probably will be buried at Bismark Wednesday, as North Dakota law provides that an unclaimed body cannot be held longer than three days.

Lloyd S. Patterson is the new head of the Dodson Schools, coming from Lockney. He is starting his 43rd years as an educator.

Four Students Attend Texas Youth Conference

Four Collingsworth students will attend the new Texas Youth Conference which opens Thursday, Aug. 18 in Austin, and will continue through Sunday, Aug. 20.

They are Peggie Crawford, daughter of C. A. Crawford; Nelson Dwyer of Samnorwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer; Mark Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Owens; and Dwayne Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ford.

Mrs. John Coleman, county chairman for the youth conference, will attend and serve as senior counselor in the girls dormitory.

Peggie will sing with the chorus at the conference.

The purpose of the conference is to encourage Texas youth to be a part of the solution to crime, instead of part of the problem, Mrs. Coleman explained.

Begun in 1963 as the Attorney General's Youth Conference, the phenomenal growth by 1966 resulted in the organization of the Texas Law Enforcement and Youth Development Foundation to assume full responsibility for the program and to assure its continuance.

The new Texas Youth Conference will follow the same format with Robert T. (Sonny) Davis of Austin continuing as director.

Financial support came from the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health, Houston Endowment and the Sears Foundation.

Local sponsors of the Collingsworth group were the Business and Professional Women's Club, Samnorwood PTA, and the Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church.

City Buys New Chlorinator for Water System

A new chlorinator has been bought for the city water wells, after the old one went out Saturday, Aug. 13, City Manager Doc Barjenbruch told the City Council Monday night, Aug. 15 at its regular meeting.

The old one had been in use about 20 years, according to Russell Yates, city secretary.

The new chlorinator, which will be installed at the wells, will cost the city $845 plus the trade-in, Barjenbruch said. Cost without the old unit would have been $925, he added.

Mayor Hiram Cudd, who presided over the meeting, said all forms on the application to the Federal Aeronautics Administration for aid on the airport have been sent in. It was explained earlier that the application itself was made July 14 in order to get it in before the July 15 deadline, and that some work had to be done after that date.

The engineering firm of Riley, Briggs and Barton of Altus, Okla., has been hired at a cost of $250 to do engineering work on the airport improvement project. This is the firm that did the engineering on the new Hollis Airport.

The Monday night meeting was a short one and the only other business was approving and paying the bills.

All members of the council were present, including Mayor Cudd, and councilmen Howard Holton, Bobo Castleberry, Howard Holton, Mack Bush, Leon Hartman and Sam Adams.

Former County Residents Hurt in Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Dale V. Ratliff and small daughter Carmen of Clayton, N.M., formerly of Wellington, were in a two-car accident one mile east of Lelia Lake Sunday evening, Aug. 14 about 6:30 p.m. The family was en route home after spending the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ratliff and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Emmert.

Mrs. B. E. Ratliff said that a number of cars were parked near a roadside fruit stand when one pulled out in front of the Ratliff car, forcing him to make a quick stop. They were struck from behind by a car driven by Mr. and Mrs. Donny Grasz of Elkhart, Kan. Mrs. Grasz is a niece of Mrs. Ratliff, and the couples were traveling together.

Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff and Mrs. Grasz remained in the Adair Hospital in Clarendon overnight. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff suffered back injuries that are not considered serious, and his left ear was almost severed. Mr. Grasz and Carmen were admitted for examination and released.

The first runner-up was Tanya Horton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horton.

both having grain sorghum variety tests grown in narrow-row plantings under irrigation.

Headed by Dwane Scott, research demonstrator, and county agent Sam Helmers, the tour will leave the courthouse at 9 a.m. and visit the Earl Lynn Bartlett farm eight miles north and three miles west of Wellington on its first stop.

The group then will go to the John Brim farm six miles south of town on Highway 83. The tour will be back in Wellington between 11 and 12, said Scott.

This tour is to show three phases of experimentation being carried on with grain sorghums under the research demonstration program. These are:

—Grain sorghum by narrow row plantings under irrigation.

—The use of chemical herbicides for weed control in grain sorghums.

—Varieties adapted for irrigation in Collingsworth County.

This special tour is being held since the grain sorghum will be harvested before the date of the annual tour.

"The plots that will be visited on the tour should yield over 6,000 pounds per acre," Scott said.

They are planted in 10-inch rows on the bed. Some of the varieties are still experimental, others are in commercial production. The test is to see if they are the best adapted for Collingsworth production.

At Bartlett's farm, the group will hear a discussion of herbicides.

Take the Grain Sorghum Tour for a look at Tomorrow's Crop

We invite you to attend the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration Grain Sorghum Tour Friday, August 19. on the farms of

Earl Lynn Bartlett and John Brim

Spread out before you will be fields that are in truth the future of this important crop in Collingsworth County. Here is what you will see:

Increased yields through newly developed varieties, some still experimental, that are adapted to this county.

You will see two rows growing lushly where we used to plant one — every head heavy with grain.

Chemical herbicides leave the fields free of weeds ... a development as revolutionary as the change-over from horses to tractors.

We take special pride in this tour, for Earl Lynn Bartlett is a director of this bank. His work in crop experimentation to improve farming is another way that City State Bank serves the Wellington area.

The map was spotlighted and the service was by candlelight. All of the girls participating in the service wore white. During the service each girl was presented with a charm for her GA bracelet by the Womens Missionary Union of First Baptist.

Gas Industry Observes Its 150th Birthday

The American gas industry recently celebrated its 150th anniversary. In a century and a half it has grown to be the nation's sixth largest industry and provides about one-third of all the energy consumed in the United States.

The gas industry was born in Baltimore in 1816, when a portrait painter, Rembrandt Peale, organized a company to light the streets of the Maryland city. The gas used at that time was manufactured from coal.

In 1859, the Fredonia Gas Light and Water Works Company was organized in New York to distribute natural gas. Growth of the industry was stifled somewhat for decades until engineers and scientists found suitable materials and developed practical methods for transporting large volumes of gas over long distances under high pressure.

Today there is a coast to coast pipeline network transporting gas over 765,400 miles and by 1975 will total over one million miles. There are now 1,400 gas utility companies distributing gas to 37.4 million customers, and customer growth is at a rate of nearly one million a year.

Today the gas industry is entering upon a new phase of existence. Research and development activities are catapulting the gas industry into the space age. The new uses of gas—total energy, infra-red, and the fuel cell—will help to make gas even more important

Manney Goes to Waco Schools

Dr. Darrell Manney, a 23-year veteran of the Borger school system, resigned his post as administrative assistant to become instructor of government and economics with the Waco school system.

Reared at Vinson, he began his teaching career at the old Shinnery school. Another Collingsworth man succeeds him. He is Gene Baird, 32, a former Borger school counselor, now with the Dumas schools.

ant a factor in the energy field.

Gas total energy systems, for example, are already in use in many parts of the country. These are systems which provide on-site generation of all energy for a building's needs, including its own electricity.

Gas infra-red has only recently opened up what should prove to be a vast range of new applications. Since infra-red does not heat the air—just objects they are focused upon—gas infra-red heaters are immensely useful in warehouses, plants, churches, and other hard-to-heat facilities. Infra-red now is used in the home areas—in gas range broilers, outdoor grills, and heaters both indoors and outdoors.

The gas fuel cell, still in the laboratory stage, will enable homeowners to generate their own electricity. The fuel cell has no moving parts; it takes oxygen from the air and methane from natural gas to form electricity. The gas fuel cell may prove to be the most exciting residential innovation in years.

The growth of Lone Star Gas Company also continues at a brisk pace. A 1966 construction budget of over $33.5 million will bring added efficiency to the vast expanse of transmission, distribution and producing facilities.

Texas Has More Industry Tours

AUSTIN.—The Texas Highway Department announced recently that a new federal publication shows Texas offers more industrial tours than any other state.

Compiled for the U.S. Travel Service by the Travel & Information Division of the Texas Highway Department, the listings show some 410 plant tours in 91 Texas cities.

Highway Department officials said they were not surprised that Texas led the list, since welcoming visitors has always been a Texas tradition. They added that the state's No. 1 place in available plant tours might come as a surprise to those who still think of Texas as only an agricultural state.

The new booklet contains not only Texas listings, but also plant tours in the other 49 states, American Samoa, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Next to Texas' 410 plant tours, California is second with 355.

Titled "Plant Tours for International Visitors to the United States", the federal publication is available at a price of 50 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. Texas' own separate listing, published by the Highway Department, is available free upon request, along with an entire packet of colorful Texas travel materials.

Sesame Research Under Way at High Plains

Research on Sesame, one of the world's earliest food crops for humans, has been expanded this year at the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway. The research, noted Dr. Earl H. Collister, executive vice president, is to help meet the need for another cash crop for Texas. A high yielding, non-shattering variety of sesame, adapted to harvesting with a grain combine, is sought.

Seed produced by the ancient sesame plant is a source of good quality vegetable oil and the cake or meal provides an excellent protein for human foods, poultry and livestock. The high quality sesame protein can be used in the enrichment of many human foods. Sesame meal is rich in vitamin B, calcium and phosphorus.

Sesame seeds contain approximately 50% oil, 25% protein, 11% carbohydrates, 5% ash, 4% crude fiber and 5% moisture.

In addition to being an excellent oil for cooking, oleomargarine and shortenings, ses-ate listing, published by the Highway Department, is available free upon request, along with an entire packet of colorful Texas travel materials.

Requests for "Texas Industrial Tours" and other travel literature, should be addressed to the Texas Highway Department, Travel & Information Division, P.O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78703.

ame oils can be used in the manufacturing of paints, soaps, cosmetics, perfumes, insecticides and pharmaceutical products. The seeds are used in garnishing bakery products and in the manufacturing of food snacks and candies.

In all countries throughout the world where sesame is grown, it must be hand harvested.

Five hundred experimental strains are being used in the High Plains research. Some resulted from the Foundation's own research, others were received from scientists in 20 countries.

Seeds of several strains were irradiated at the Atomic Energy Laboratory at Oakridge, Tenn.,

Squirrel Mystery Stimulates Study

FAIRFIELD.—When the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department detected a 50 to 75 percent spring squirrel decrease, Biologist Walt Daniels began seeking answers.

He couldn't blame it on fall hunting, because some areas showing loss had no hunting at all. He knew it wasn't due to migration, or else there was a mighty big pile-up of squirrels to induce mutations by breeding the chromosomes and thereby bringing about new and unusual plant types.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER Thursday, August 18, 1966

at the end of the migration path.

In June 1962 a research job was initiated in Freestone County on four 12.9 acre study plots in typical squirrel habitat, then four check plots were set up adjacent to them. He began studying degree and effect of predation on squirrels, studying predator control and it's possible effect, food competition with other fur-bearers and a long look into seasonal movements.

The work won't be complete for some time, but Daniels expects some answers before too long.

Mrs. R. D. Wiley and Mrs. Louise Kendrick were in Raton, N.M., over the week end.

Mr. Deskin Wells

Wellington, Texas

Dear Deck:

I am very much interested in the Wellington State Bank's ad where they use a calendar and show the schedule of events during the month. Would you please send me a copy of the Wellington Leader, or just cut out the ad in which I am interested.

I like this type of advertising more than anything else I have seen in newspapers. I think I could revise it and use it very effectively in our local paper.

Thomason Gets Doctors Degree at Colo. State

A doctor's degree has been conferred on a Wellington man, Ronnie Thomason, by Colorado State University at Fort Collins. The degree was in the field of plant genetics.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomason were here last week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Thomason. Upon completing his work he entered the Army as a First Lieutenant and from Wellington the couple went to Fort McClellan at Anniston, Ala., where he will be stationed for nine weeks.

They will then return to Denver, Colo., and he will be at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal.

Dr. Thomason's dissertation was "Histones in Barley Seedlings as Affected by Temperature." His major professor, who directed his research in this work, was Dr. Donald R. Wood, professor of agronomy at Colorado State.

A graduate of Wellington high school, Dr. Thomason received his bachelor of science degree in agronomy from West Texas State University, Canyon, and his master of science degree in crop science at Colorado State.

Dr. Thomason's research for the dissertation was a study of chromosomes and how they are involved in the control of genetic activity.

Mrs. Thomason is the former Anne McCarver. She lived here as a young girl, then moved to Hereford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCarver, and graduated from high school there. She attended West Texas State University.

Peeples Heads Bivins School

END OF THE TRAIL DRIVE

Four-H Horse Club members held their 10-mile summer trail drive recently, and here's what was at the end. Still not tired, some continued to ride up and down the hills along Buck Creek (at top left). Center, the first stop on arriving was the water can. The smallest here made the trail drive, too. Then there were as many parents as trail-drivers and some are shown in the bottom picture. Most did not ride. The smoke at center is from fires for roasting wieners. The old time cowboy may have had his jerkey, but a hot dog hit the spot for the hungry one at right top. Kirk Patterson. And what experienced trail driver must dismount to eat his watermelon? Not Pat White, at bottom left, or Ricky Nall, center. On the ground at right is Rod White.

Grain Sorghum for the future goes on view during the special tour on August 19

6,000 pounds of grain sorghum per acre in Collingsworth? That's in the picture and Northwest Texas Research Demonstration program proves it!

We urge our customers to go on the special grain sorghum tour Friday, August 19. On this eye-popping trip you will see grain sorghum planted in 10-inch rows on the bed with chemical herbicides applied to keep down the weeds. There are experimental varieties so new you've never heard of them, but they were adapted for growing in Collingsworth.

Wellington State Bank believes these on-the-farm experiments carried on by Northwest Texas Research Demonstration program will be a big factor in keeping Collingsworth a prosperous, progressive farming county.

Wellington State Bank

This is a Field of TE 77. We Invite You to Come See It for yourself.

- This is just one of several TE varieties you will see on the special grain sorghum tour Friday morning, August 19, to the Earl L. Bartlett and John Brim farms. These are experimental varieties, grown under field conditions.
- You'll hear about new ways of farming for Collingsworth — grain sorghum planted in 10-inch rows on the bed. There's never been a plow down those rows . . . chemical herbicides killed the weeds.
- Work like this is necessary to strengthen the agriculture of Collingsworth, and we congratulate the farmers who took part and Dwane Scott and Sam Helmers, who represent the Texas Experimental Station and Extension Service in this Northwest Texas Research Demonstration experiment.

Science Topples Mesquite Bush

Scientists continue to attack the mesquite problem of Texas and other southwestern states, according to John C. White, Commissioner of Texas Department of Agriculture.

White said mesquite growth has been a tremendous problem for southwestern ranchers for many years, threatening almost 100 million acres of valuable grasslands in the southwestern United States.

The destructive bush crowds out grass and robs remaining grass of the sparse moisture available in the semi-arid regions where it grows.

New methods are being developed to combat the bush. Scientists have experimented with aerial and ground spraying with herbicides, and grubbing with machines and by hand. The most effective method developed so far when the bush stands aren't too thick is application of a herbicide pellet to each bush. The herbicide of 25 percent fenuron is applied before the start of the summer rains, and can be distributed from horseback.

Progress is being made against the destroyer of grasslands, but progress must also be made in restoring range already hit by the mesquite.

Techniques in reseeding are being developed but scientists are being hampered by sparsity of water and high temperatures of the soils.

The researchers feel continued study of grasses and cattle-grazing habits may yet yield information that will enable them to return land destroyed by the mesquite bush to its previously productive state.

School Bus Law Reminder Given

"School days" are almost here again. The familiar yellow school buses will soon be back on the highways. Sgt. J. W. Wilson of the Highway Patrol reminds all motorists of the state law regulating traffic in regard to school buses.

"The drivers of a vehicle upon a highway outside the limits of any incorporated city or town upon meeting or overtaking any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging school children shall stop the vehicle immediately before passing the school bus, but may then proceed past such school bus at a speed which is prudent, not exceeding (10) miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 48 proposing an Amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas, providing the method and manner for dissolution of hospital districts created under Article IX of the Constitution.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 9, Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended to read as follows:

"Section 9. The Legislature may by law provide for the creation, establishment, maintenance and operation of hospital districts composed of one or more counties or all or any part of one or more counties with power to issue bonds for the purchase, construction, acquisition, repair or renovation of buildings and improvements and equipping same, for hospital purposes; providing for the transfer to the hospital district of the title to any land, buildings, improvements and equipment located wholly within the district which may be jointly or separately owned by any city, town or county, providing that any district so created shall assume full responsibility for providing medical and hospital care for its needy inhabitants and assume the outstanding indebtedness incurred by cities, towns and counties for hospital purposes prior to the creation of the district, if same are located wholly within its boundaries, and a portion of such indebtedness based upon the then last approved tax assessment rolls of the included cities, towns and counties if less than all

The Legislature may also provide for the dissolution of hospital districts provided that a process is afforded by statute for:

(1) determining the desire of a majority of the qualified voters within the district to dissolve it;

(2) disposing of or transferring the assets, if any, of the district; and

(3) satisfying the debts and bond obligations, if any, of the district, in such manner as to protect the interests of the creditors within the district, including their collective property rights in the assets and property of the district, provided, however, that any grant from federal funds, however dispensed, shall be considered an obligation to be repaid in satisfaction and provided that no election to dissolve shall be held more often than once each year. Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

On our recent meeting with the editors of The National Newspaper Association, we found them gravely concerned over the ruling of the Supreme Court that virtually ties the hands of the law enforcement officers in their efforts to curtail crime and apprehend criminals. The law enforcement officers seek to protect the innocent against violence, murder, rape and theft; but the editors were of the opinion that the highest court in the land had provided one more outlet for the individual criminal as well as organized crime. They not only failed to understand such reasoning in high places; but some of them were bitter and caustic in their criticism.

Now something even more fundamental although not as inflammatory has come before us for astonished consideration. A Federal Judge issued an injunction against a Congressional Committee ordering it to abandon a scheduled investigation into Viet Nam war protests. That is one branch of the Government invading a clearly recognized right of another branch. The rights of Congress have been weakened by usurpation from and default to the administrative branch to an alarming extent in the last thirty years. Now the Courts are taking their turn at whittling down the Congress. If the balance of power in our government is destroyed we are well on our way to a dictatorship.

The crops continue to flourish in the Wellington area despite the fact that the rainfall is below normal for this time of the year. Some observers say that they do not understand it, unless the meager amounts of rain happened to fall at the most auspicious time. We have had an unusual amount of moisture in the air most of the time this summer and some think this is the reason the crops still look good.

The cool nights remind us that Autumn is near and school is about to start. Education has always been one of the most important factors in our community and national life. Now school business is big business in every respect. Even the business of clothing the young students and equipping them with all the paper and pens and instruments they need is big business. Many merchants say they can feel the upturn each fall as school time nears.

The president of some university in South America has gained some publicity because he mildly admonished his students against smoking and ruled against it being done openly on the campus. You should read a 1906 rule book of Goodnight College which said: "Scientifically, as well as practically, it has been demonstrated that the cigarette habit is exceedingly hurtful to the mental and moral qualities of the pupil. No pupil therefore will be allowed to enter who is addicted to this habit and is unwilling to give it up. Nor will the college retain one who begins it after entering."

I know that cigarettes may do just as much harm to arteries and the heart and perhaps to other vital organs as is claimed. The tar from the paper may be one of the causes of lung cancer. But somehow I can't be such a vigorous crusader against nicotine as some who have abandoned the use of the weed. Many a harassed and frustrated reporter has soothed his nerves with a few puffs and gone about his work as have other brain workers. Nerves that become too taut can be injurious to the health just as well as disease and accidents.

In the early part of the month people noted two bright new faces appeared on the scene at the office of the Wellington Leader. The first was the Rev. Ronald Crosley who was operating the linotype machine while J. K. Porter was on vacation. Incidentally, Rev. Crosley paid his way through college operating a typesetting machine. The second is Mrs. Eddie Wheeler who will be in charge of subscriptions and will assist with office supplies and some news stories. We are pleased to have Mrs. Wheeler with us and it is comforting to know that Rev. Crosley is in town just in case one of the printers should break an arm or something.

Visits in Rome, Cairo Described by Pastor

(This is the first of several letters the Rev. Ellis Todd, pastor of First Methodist Church, is due to send home during the tour of Europe and the Holy Land which he and Mrs. Todd are now making.)

By the Rev. Ellis Todd

I know you have been looking for something, but we have been on the go and so fast until it has been almost impossible to write very much. When you get to a plane or a bus, you wait and wait on these people.

We didn't stay very long at Paris, France, and got to Rome about 4 o'clock Thursday. Friday morning — Rome is a great city, with a million and a half people. Everybody is busy. Rome is on a boom, so they say. We visited the Vatican, which took all morning. That afternoon, we visited the catacombs of St. Sebastian, where 175,000 Christians have been buried. They were too poor to buy a piece of ground, so they had gone under the ground. There are over 600 miles of tunnels under the ground where they buried the Christians.

We saw the place where St. Peter was hung upside down, and where he was buried. They have a very large church over the spot where he was hung—the largest in the world. We also saw where John the Baptist was buried. We got on the plane out of Rome to Cairo, Egypt, and got there about three in the morning.

Ranch for a bunch of Republicans?

Robert Posey brought us some giant beefsteak tomatoes that were grown in his back yard. Two of them weighed slightly more than three pounds. They were about the same size but the one that looked the largest measured 13½ inches around one way and 11 inches the other. The remarkable thing about the large tomatoes and there were several, was that they had no cracks and the flavor and texture were superb.

There is 3¢ worth of wheat in a 30¢ loaf of bread.

ing and to our room about four. We were worn out.

Rome has two and a half million people and is so different. They have thousands of little cars, Volkswagens mostly.

Here in Cairo they have so many burros for transportation, but they have also plenty of taxicabs. The people seem to be so poor here, and our guide says every one has a job that wants to work.

There are 4 million people here, and just across the Nile River is Gaza, and there are one and half million people.

Saturday we went to Gaza and rode the camels. You should have seen Mrs. Todd on the camel. Then we went on out and saw the great pyramids. That is something. A hundred thousand slaves worked for years to build just one, and there are nine in that area. The big one is 450 feet high. We saw so many interesting things. I will tell about it if I have a chance when I get home.

Sunday morning we went to church. Walked back to our hotel, visiting along the way. After dinner we rested awhile, then got in a sail boat and sailed up the river to where they found Moses in the Bull-rushes, then back to our hotel and ate supper. I am so sleepy I can hardly write.

So long until I get time to write again.

The Ratliff's 7-year-old son, Aaron, had remained in Wellington for a week's visit and was not with his parents when the accident occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff will be at the Clyde Emmert home until he is able to return to his work as assistant cashier of the First National Bank in Clayton.

cides for weed control. There has never been a plow in this field. Twenty-seven inches of water have gone on it and Bartlett is watering for the seventh time this week.

"We are interested in this, for on the plains some consider that water after the grain turns is worth 300 pounds per acre," said Helmers.

Brim did not use a herbicide, but plowed out the middles once and hoed once. He credits the thick growth of leaves which lap in the middles as keeping down weeds.

He has watered three times and put down 20 inches of water.

At each field there will be a discussion of all phases of the experiments, along with the costs of various phases.

Scott and Helmers urge both business men and farmers to attend.

They will be at the armory here two days each week.

Frost's transfer came about due to a cutback in the number of supply technicians in the division, Capt. Chappell said.

DEKALB HELPS MOLD THE FUTURE OF COLLINGSWORTH FARMING

We urge you to make the Grain
Sorghum Tour
Friday, August 19

On this tour, sponsored by the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration program, you will see for yourself why the new DeKalb FS46 and DeKalb No. 2 varieties are ideal for irrigation farming in the Wellington area.

Large, well-filled and uniform heads make this a heavy producer. It takes well to narrow row planting and chemical weed control. DeKalb developed these varieties for areas and conditions such as ours. The experiments you will see are DeKalb FS46 and DeKalb No. 2 grown under actual field conditions, just as you would grow them commercially.

We congratulate John Brim and Earl Lynn Bartlett, whose farms you will visit, and Dwane Scott, Research Demonstration Assistant, and County Agent Sam Helmers, who conduct the local end of these experiments. Tests such as these are necessary if we are to survive as an agricultural county.
